It is also necessary to consider the nature of the evidence presented. Hearsay evidence is admissible in administrative proceedings and "shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a). Notwithstanding the admissibility of hearsay evidence, the "residuum rule" requires that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). In the words of the New Jersey Supreme Court:

> [A] fact finding or a legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it.
> [Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, 51 (1972).]

In this matter, the record includes contradictory testimony related almost solely to the failure to submit changes of address. The Spartan Detective Agency report reflects Elizabeth addresses for everything in respondent's name, through the date of the report in January 2017. The preliminary investigation by the police department reflects largely the same information, along with reports of interviews, including that of Mr. Marin, who indicated that respondent had only moved in "several months ago."[7] The testimony of Ms. Martinez was of limited usefulness, and the date she alleges respondent began renting a room from her differs from the testimony of respondent. Additionally, the testimony of Ms. Ortiz conflicted with that of respondent in terms of the furniture purportedly moved into the Bloomfield address. Mr. Mendez testified credibly regarding the issues with the mail that respondent experienced at his address. Respondent's testimony regarding those issues with the mail was plausible.

Notwithstanding the efforts of petitioner to attempt to shift the burden of proof to respondent, ultimately the allegations and testimony of respondent have not been successfully challenged, and the burden of proof rests squarely with petitioner. It is the sworn testimony of respondent that she resided in Bloomfield for more than one year preceding the school-board election in November 2016. Her prior residence in Elizabeth has been occupied by the owner's son since respondent moved out, and she cannot return there. The MVC address change in March 2016 and the voter-registration address change in April 2016 are not, by themselves, sufficient to discredit respondent's testimony that Bloomfield was her residence and domicile from and after July 2015. Petitioner's contention that the failure to file change-of-address forms, or to receive mail at the Bloomfield address, is proof of no change in domicile from Elizabeth, is insufficient to refute the limited testimony to the contrary.

Clearly, significant question remains as to whether respondent was domiciled in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election. However, absent competent, credible evidence of the contrary, no consideration can be given to granting the extraordinary relief sought of removal from the Board.

"The plaintiff's residence will be presumed to be where he alleges it to be, unless the contrary appear." 71 N.J.L. 115 (Sup. Ct. 1904).

[7] Mr. Marin testified on direct examination that he observed Rivera visit the home "on and off" on weekends, commencing in January 2015. This was three months before Rivera and Mendez met. On redirect, he indicated that he began to see her "dating back to July 2015," and that Rivera started moving boxes in around April 2015.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I am constrained to CONCLUDE that the competent, credible evidence in this matter does not establish that respondent was not a resident in Bloomfield for the requisite one year prior to her election to a seat on the Bloomfield Board of Education.

ORDER

The petition to declare that Gladys Rivera was not a bona fide resident of the Township of Bloomfield, Essex County, New Jersey, for one year prior to her election to the Board of Education is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner, O.W., filed a petition on September 1, 2016 on behalf of her minor daughter, I.W., who transferred from Newark Public Schools to West Orange Public Schools in March of 2012. The respondent Boards filed separate motions to dismiss in October 2016, asserting, inter alia, that the petition is time barred as it was filed outside of the 90 day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: it appears petitioner feels that some inappropriate actions were taken by Newark and West Orange school officials with respect to her daughter, I.W., while she was a student in the respondents' school districts; however, the incoherent nature of the petition in the instant case makes it impossible to discern exactly what petitioner's claims are, or what relief she requests; petitioner lists fourteen separate New Jersey statutes under which she requested a declaratory ruling; the dates of the violations alleged by petitioner are also difficult to discern, but all of the claims appear to reference incidents that allegedly occurred between 2008 and 2012; of the fourteen statutes cited by petitioner, six are not school laws; therefore, the Commissioner has no jurisdiction to hear cases arising under them; as to the remaining statutes, the incidents alleged by petitioner occurred well past the 90 day time limitation on such claims. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petition should be dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over any of the allegations that do not arise out of the school laws of this State. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that petitioner's claims are time-barred, as the petition references events that took place between 2008 and 2012, while this petition was filed on September 12, 2016. As such, the matter is appropriately dismissed because it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein and the petition is hereby dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition in this matter was filed on September 12, 2016. Petitioner O.W. is the mother of the minor student, I.W., who transferred from the Newark Public Schools, to the West Orange Public School System, in March of 2012.

Respondent City of Newark filed a Motion for Dismissal of the petition on October 6, 2016. Respondent Board of Education of the Township of West Orange filed a Motion for Dismissal of the petition on October 20, 2016.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION[1]

O.W. ("Petitioner") filed this petition on behalf of I.W., who has been a West Orange student since 2012. The Petition ("Pet.") was filed against both Newark and West Orange. Petitioner has requested a declaratory ruling with respect to the following statutes:

1. N.J.S.A. 18A:3A-2;
2. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1;
3. N.J.S.A. 26:14-5;
4. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-210;
5. N.J.S.A. 2C:34-3;
6. N.J.S.A. 2C:13-4;
7. N.J.S.A. 2C:13-9;
8. N.J.S.A. 9:2-4.2;
9. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-2;
10. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25;
11. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-29;
12. N.J.S.A. 18A:20-17;
13. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-5;
14. N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-19.

[See generally, Pet.]

At best, it is possible to gather that the Petitioner feels that some inappropriate actions were taken, in violation of the statutes she cites to, by both Newark and/or West Orange officials with respect to her daughter I.W. while she was a student in the [1] It is imperative to note that O.W.'s petition is incoherent. As such, the factual discussion presented here is merely an effort to decipher her petition, an attempt aided by Respondent's counsel's similar effort.

Newark and/or West Orange School Districts. However, due to the incoherent nature of the petition, it is impossible to discern what exactly those inappropriate actions are alleged to have been, or whether they were committed by representatives of Newark or West Orange. For example, the petitioner alleges the following with regard to her accusation of a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-29, a statute that addresses truancy:

> Principal Wanda B.-Long noticed Spring 2006 parent habit standing at main entrance beneath posted clock showing correct time, four days alongside entrance meeting with Security. Principal asserted, a call to police to give warning and/or arrest of parent intent continue habitual hourly visits. Principal Long would have exercise right to place child/student with relative(s). The Principal in office on phone for an hour. [Pet. 13]

The relief Petitioner requests is as follows:

> WHEREFORE, petitioner requests educators power do not abuse public school student having adequate care in aspiration of bad faith arrange an experience of hardship. The educators' courteous and polite professional mannerism on a daily educational experience is civil and a good. Retiree, experienced and young educators offer public school students professional etiquette as a good deciding whom will receive educator's professional mannerism. Employer regarding placement of professionals in child care should have assessed applicants' personal manner is compatible in public schools attends an educational community for a happening of harm and irresponsible care among attendee. Explain interest is in an employee courteous and polite daily for a school year. Instead, please supervise the school as employee approve, then employee should be complaints to N.J. School Laws and United States laws for citizens. The educators' personal character in control perceive laws a good to public school students and attendee so, who will the laws apply an uninformed citizen, a qualified invitation to terrorism. Educators should work toward the future not rescind to times of retiree no free education supplies, bell ring (300) children in school the parents' responsibility, no DYFS agencies no Union Rights grace period on attendance rights and medical leave rights this is for reindulgement on implementing, employee is initiating dispute. The attendee overseeing child's responsible care and employee charges with instability of family, evident is young educator(s) reciprocated instability on employer's provisions. Parent will continue to restore civil stability in family.
> [Pet. 15 (errors in original).]

Petitioner offers descriptions of similar clarity and construction for all of the statutes she alleges Newark and/or West Orange have violated. Moreover, the dates of these alleged violations are equally difficult to discern, but all of Petitioner's claims appear to reference incidents that allegedly occurred between 2008 and 2012. See generally, Pet.[2]

Petitioner's daughter I.W. was a Newark student until approximately March of 2012, when she transferred to West Orange. See Newark Memorandum in Support of its Motion to Dismiss Dated October 5, 2016 ("Newark Memo"), Page 2; West Orange District's Letter Brief in Support of its Motion to Dismiss Dated October 20, 2016 ("West Orange Brief"), Page 2.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

A. Claims subject to dismissal for lack of jurisdiction:

N.J.S.A. 6A:3-2.1(a) establishes the Commissioner of Education's authority to issue declaratory rulings:

> Pursuant to [statutory authority], any interested persons may petition the Commissioner for a declaratory ruling with respect to rights, responsibilities and status arising from any statute or rule within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner.

N.J.S.A. 6A:3-1.1(a) establishes the Commissioner of Education's authority to hear cases:

> This chapter sets forth the rules of procedure established by the Department of Education for the filing of petitions with the Commissioner of Education to hear and decide controversies and disputes arising under school laws.

[2] There is one reference to September 1, 2016 which reads: "parent on September 01, -2016 West Orange Board of Education request the names of employee dismissed for specific respondent information, Mr. D. Zacwocki requested student's name to enter in computer." Pet. 10 (errors in original). It is not at all clear what this means. Moreover, this quoted portion of the petition is found under the following heading: "7. N.J.S.A. 2C:13-9. Human trafficking as a crime of second degree: elements; proof; penalties." Pet. 9.

I FIND that statutes 3 through 8 cited by Petitioner are not "school laws" and thus the Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction to issue declaratory rulings regarding them or hear cases arising under them. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's claims 3 through 8 should be dismissed.

B. Claims subject to dismissal for timeliness:

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) address time limitations on petitions to the Commissioner of Education:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.
> [Id.]

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1(b) makes the timeliness standard from petitions to appeal found at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) applicable to petitions for declaratory rulings:

> [T]he rules pertaining to filing, service and answer of petitions as set forth in this chapter shall apply to petitions for declaratory ruling.

Of the statutes Petitioner lists that are within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education, the Petition references events taking place between the years of 2008 and 2012. In light of I.W.'s transfer to West Orange in 2012, I FIND that any claims Petitioner might have against West Orange that are subject to the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education are plainly time-barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and I CONCLUDE therefore that they should be dismissed.

Moreover, Newark and West Orange both state that I.W. transferred from Newark to West Orange on March 6, 2012. Newark Memo 4; West Orange Brief 2. The Petitioner's submission also appears to reference March 6, 2012, more specifically as the date I.W. was subjected to "a dishonorable order," as well as "corporal punishment." Pet. 3, 5. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that all of Petitioner's claims against Newark are time-barred as well and should be dismissed.

CONCLUSION

The petition warrants dismissal for a multitude of reasons, not the least of which is the fact that it appears that all of the behavior her "claims" address took place in 2008 at the earliest, and in 2012 at the latest. These incidents are well past the 90 day time limitation on such claims.

Of even greater significance is the fact that the Petitioner's submission is incoherent and incomprehensible. Even if the petition did reference actions by Newark or West Orange that were alleged to have occurred within the past 90 days, it remains impossible to decipher what exactly those actions were.

Finally, I FIND that the majority of the statutes cited by Petitioner are not school laws, and thus are not within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that all of Petitioner's claims should be dismissed.

ORDER

Based upon all of the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition in this matter be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." DHARMESH TRIVEDI,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MORRIS COUNTY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this case, the petitioner is challenging the Morris County Vocational School District's (District) admission policy. The petitioner seeks an Order requiring the District to immediately reconsider all of its admission decisions and apply an objective assessment to all applications.[1] The ALJ denied the petitioner's request for emergent relief.[2]

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The party seeking such relief

[1] It should be noted that the petitioner did not file the petition of appeal on behalf of his minor child, who was not accepted to the District's Mathematics, Science and Engineering program for the 2017-2018 school year. Instead, the petitioner named himself in the petition as a parent and taxpayer in the District and sought immediate reconsideration of all admission decisions for every applicant.

[2]The recommended Order does not state any facts or provide any indication whatsoever as to why the petitioner did not satisfy the requirements for emergent relief. Based upon a review of the audio recording from the hearing at the OAL, it appears the ALJ found that the petitioner did not show that he would personally suffer irreparable harm if the relief was not granted because he was not an applicant. Additionally, the ALJ suggests that the petitioner did not establish a likelihood of success on the merits because he did not provide any evidence that the current admission process was unlawful. Although the ALJ's determinations on these Crowe factors can be gleaned from the ALJ's exchange with the parties at the hearing, the ALJ did not issue a verbal Order on the record outlining his reasons for denying petitioner's motion for emergent relief.

must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Upon a review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds that the petitioner has failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief. Most notably, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying appeal. Specifically, the petitioner has not made a preliminary showing that the District's current admission policy is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

In response to the petition of appeal and request for emergent relief, the District submitted an affidavit of the superintendent wherein he states that the District has developed a multiple-measure admissions rubric that is designed to be as fair and equitable as possible to all applicants. Among other factors, the admissions rubric involves the use of an applicant's final 7th grade averages for English, Mathematics, Science and Social Studies, without distinction between honors, traditional or special education courses and without assigning a factor for weighing different school districts. In his petition, the petitioner challenges the District's practice of interviewing the applicants and he maintains that the criteria for admission that is used by the District is unfair to students who take honors courses. The petitioner, however, has failed to present the requisite evidence necessary to show on a motion for emergent relief that the District's multi-discipline approach to the application process is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, or is in violation of any school law. See, Ann Kopera v. Board of Education of West Orange, Essex County, et al., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294-296 (App Div 1960). Therefore, in light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the remaining factors.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed herein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

THIS MATTER having been brought before this tribunal by petitioner, Dharmesh Trivedi, upon application for emergency relief; and having considered the papers both in support of and in opposition to the application; and having heard oral argument; and having concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate that he will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted, that the legal rights underlying his claims are settled, that petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claims, and that petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted; and for good cause having been shown;

SYNOPSIS

In December 2014, the State-Operated School District of Camden (Camden) filed a petition contending that E.H. and minor child K.M. are residents of the City of Camden – despite previously being homeless after losing their home in Voorhees Township – and now live in a Camden home that is "fixed, regular and adequate," thus precluding a determination that they are homeless. Petitioner urged that K.M. is entitled to a free public education in Camden schools, not in Voorhees Township schools. The Executive County Superintendent (ECS) had rejected petitioner's position, concluding that E.H. and K.M. were homeless and, as such, K.M. is entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township at Camden's expense. After E.H. failed to file an answer to the petition, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. An Initial Decision was issued in February 2016, wherein the ALJ found, inter alia, that E.H. and K.M. were no longer homeless as they had lived at a home in Camden that was fixed, regular and adequate for more than four years. Accordingly, summary decision was granted to petitioner. Subsequently, the Commissioner issued a final decision in the matter, which found, inter alia, that the ALJ failed to address all of the issues raised in the petition and the record was devoid of evidence regarding K.M.'s present living conditions; accordingly, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further proceedings.

On remand, following a hearing which included testimony from E.H. and others, the ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Camden home that E.H. shares with family members meets the definition of "fixed, regular and adequate", and therefore K.M. is not homeless; Camden is the district in which K.M. is entitled to receive a free and appropriate education; there is no warrant in the record or circumstances presented to the Commissioner to issue injunctions against a county office; Camden has not presented a basis for any remedy of reimbursement against NJDOE; and the homelessness determination made by the ECS did not fully consider and analyze the entire scenario present in the instant case. The ALJ concluded that the ECS's determination regarding K.M.'s homelessness must be reversed, and Camden's applications for injunctive relief and financial reimbursement must be denied.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision, with modification. Specifically, the Commissioner found, inter alia, that: the appropriate standard of review for ECS decisions regarding homelessness is de novo; the ALJ properly found the K.M. is no longer homeless, however the ECS's 2014 decision that K.M. was homeless and deemed domiciled in Camden was also proper; the District has no basis for seeking reimbursement from the NJDOE for K.M.'s tuition and transportation costs; petitioner is not entitled to any of the injunctive or declaratory reliefs sought herein; the ECS's process for determining disputes regarding homelessness and financial responsibility for a homeless child's education comports with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq. and the McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C.A. § 11431 et seq; and the ECS's decision in this matter has neither created a new definition of domicile nor a "voucher" system for Camden.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the parties, and the replies thereto. In this matter, petitioner[1] challenges the homeless determination of the Executive County Superintendent ("ECS") for Camden County, C. Ann Volk, in reference to minor child, K.M. Petitioner seeks reversal of Volk's determination from September 2014 and October 2014 that K.M. was homeless, and that the District was financially responsible for her education.[2] Furthermore, petitioner requests various declaratory and injunctive reliefs from the Commissioner. Finally, petitioner seeks reimbursement for the cost of K.M.'s education, as well as attorney's fees, from the New Jersey Department of Education ("NJDOE"). Respondent[3] contends that her determination was proper and that K.M. remains homeless; thereby, Camden is required to continue providing tuition and transportation costs for K.M. Respondent further contends that petitioner's requests for declaratory and injunctive relief are improper and must be denied. Additionally, respondent submits that petitioner is not entitled to reimbursement or attorney's fee from the NJDOE.

[2] K.M. was enrolled in Eastern Regional High School in Voorhees, New Jersey, where she remained enrolled for the time period relevant to this case.

Following transmittal of this matter to the OAL, the parties filed a motion and cross-motion for summary decision before the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ"). The ALJ granted summary decision to petitioner on Count One of the petition – finding that K.M. is not homeless because she presently resides in a fixed, adequate, and regular dwelling – but did not address Counts Two through Five of the petition or Camden's request for reimbursement. In a decision dated March 18, 2016, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL, finding that the ALJ failed to address all of the issues raised within the petition and erred in granting summary decision. The Commissioner explained that, given the lack of information contained in the record, a plenary hearing centered upon a comprehensive, fact-specific examination of the family's circumstances was necessary to determine K.M.'s status.

On remand, the ALJ concluded that K.M. lives in a "fixed, regular and adequate residence" and therefore, she is not homeless.[4] The ALJ further concluded that there is no basis for the Commissioner to issue any injunctions in this matter, and that Camden is not entitled to reimbursement from the NJDOE.

Petitioner's exceptions substantially recast and reiterate the arguments made below. Specifically, petitioner argues: 1) Camden is entitled to reimbursement of tuition and transportation costs from the 2012-2013 through the 2016-2017 schools years since K.M. is not homeless, and the NJDOE is responsible for such reimbursement; 2) Camden is entitled to injunctive relief permanently enjoining and requiring Volk to apply the law in making homelessness determinations; 3) Volk's decision has created a new definition for domicile, which permits a general education student from the District to attend an out-of-district school at Camden's expense; 4) Volk has created a "voucher" system by directing Camden to pay for the cost of K.M.'s education in another school district; and 5) as such, the NJDOE must declare that it will not penalize Camden for incurring the cost of tuition and transportation to send its general education students to another school district.

In her reply, respondent expresses her disagreements with petitioner's specific exceptions, and also argues that the ALJ's decision leaves open the question of when K.M.'s homeless status changed. Respondent submits that petitioner cannot assume that K.M. was no longer homeless beginning in the 2012-2013 school year merely because that is the point at which Camden became financially responsible for K.M.'s education. Respondent further argues that the ALJ did not find Volk's decision incorrect; rather, the ALJ reached a different determination based on de novo review of the record and the additional information gathered subsequent to Volk's decision. Respondent also uses this opportunity to reassert her position that a "more-appropriate" standard of review is "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, or whether subsequently-received information requires the decision be reversed."

Respondent's exceptions similarly advance her arguments below. Specifically, respondent argues that the ALJ erred in determining that K.M. is no longer homeless. Respondent submits that K.M. lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence as demonstrated by the family's particular living situation and E.H.'s financial difficulties. Additionally, Respondent argues that the inability of a homeless person to realistically obtain their own residence in the foreseeable future due to economic hardship, together with their long-term residence in a family member's home, does not change their homeless status. Respondent also seeks modification of the ALJ's decision to clarify that there is no temporal limit to homelessness, and a homeless student has the right to attend school in their district of origin even after they are deemed domiciled in another district, so long as they remain homeless. Lastly, respondent further reiterates arguments in support of the ALJ's determination that petitioner is not entitled to the injunctive relief or declaratory relief sought in its petition.

Petitioner argues in its reply that the District is entitled to injunctive relief because "if the Commissioner felt that [s]he was not authorized to issue injunctive relief, then [s]he would not have remanded that portion of the case to the [ALJ]." Petitioner also argues that the Initial Decision creates a new definition of domicile because Camden is "required to pay for tuition and transportation to an out of district school for a general education student who lives in and is domiciled in the City of Camden." Lastly, petitioner reasserts that the ALJ's finding that K.M. is not homeless is proper because K.M. and her family live in a home that has "running water, a kitchen, a bathroom, living areas and bedrooms." Petitioner further notes in its reply, > Respondents would have the Commissioner issue a decision that permits a family to declare itself "homeless" for the entire length of a child's education, spanning 12 years, simply because the family is living in a home that is either not the family's own home or is not where they would prefer to live . . . Respondents are redefining homelessness by creating a situation where [K.M.]'s family, who lives in a stable house for years and years, with the usual amenities found in a regular home, and that specifically fits the definition of "fixed, adequate and regular" is still considered homeless, simply because some people in the home share a bedroom and because this is not where [K.M.]'s mother would prefer to live.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's decision, as modified herein. Specifically, the Commissioner finds that the appropriate standard of review for ECS decisions regarding homelessness is de novo (without deference to the decision below). Additionally, the ALJ properly found that K.M. is no longer homeless; however, Volk's decision in 2014 that K.M. was homeless and deemed domiciled in Camden – and, therefore, the District was responsible for the cost of K.M.'s education – was also proper. Furthermore, the District has no basis for seeking reimbursement from the NJDOE for K.M.'s tuition and transportation costs. The Commissioner also finds that petitioner is not entitled to any of the injunctive and declaratory reliefs sought in this matter.[5] Indubitably, Volk's process for determining disputes regarding homelessness and the financial responsibility for a homeless child's education comports with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq. and the McKinney-Vento Homeless Education Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C.A. § 11431 et seq. (McKinney-Vento Act), and the decision has neither created a new definition for domicile nor a "voucher" system for Camden.[6]

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.7, "[i]f an appeal of a determination of district of residence also includes an appeal of the determination of homelessness and/or school district of enrollment, the appeal shall be submitted to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3, Controversies and Disputes." The regulations do not specify the standard of review for appeals from ECS decisions in matters of homelessness; however, both parties seek review of this case under the "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" standard. This limited scope of review is the standard used by appellate courts in considering final agency decisions. See Campbell v. Dept. of Civil Service, 39 N.J. 556 (1963). The decisions below are not disturbed "in the absence of a showing that it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, or that it lacked fair support in the evidence." Id. at 562. Similarly, in matters where the Commissioner serves as the appellate entity, the "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable" standard is applied to determine whether a previous ruling was improper on the basis that it was made on unreasonable grounds or without appropriate consideration of circumstances. [5] Petitioner's request for injunctive and declaratory relief do not merit extensive discussion, as petitioner has no basis in law for same. The Commissioner notes the following, however: 1) Even if petitioner had a right to seek such relief in this matter, Camden cannot establish irreparable harm. More importantly, the Commissioner's decision to remand the matter to the OAL had nothing to with the merits of Camden's claims; rather, it was a procedural action – the matter had already been transmitted to the OAL for a hearing so the ALJ's failure to complete fact-finding and consider all the issues raised in the case rendered the matter incomplete, and 2) Petitioner's request for a declaration from the Commissioner that Camden will not be penalized for paying for the educational costs of "general education students" to attend school in another school district is, simply put, far-fetched. Petitioner has conflated the rights of a "homeless" child – which will be discussed below – with that of "non-homeless" children domiciled/residing in the District.

[6] Petitioner has again misconstrued the law as it applies to homelessness. The Commissioner does not deem it necessary to address Camden's arguments relating to "a new definition of domicile" and "establish[ment] of a voucher system," in detail, as the law is sufficiently clear, and petitioner's arguments are devoid of any legal support. Instead, the Commissioner directs the petitioner's attention to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12, N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.5, and corresponding decisional law – which will be discussed below – as they clearly set forth the education of homeless children and the school districts' responsibilities.

making such determinations, deference is given to the decision below. See T.R v. Bd. of Educ. of the Bridgewater-Raritan Reg'l Sch. Dist., Commissioner Decision No. 144-15 (May 6, 2015) (citing Thomas v. Bd. of Ed. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966)) ("[i]t is well established that when a local school board acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable").

Moreover, when the Department has decided to limit the Commissioner's scope of review of specific subordinate divisions or offices, it has expressed that limitation by regulation. E.g., N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1 (decisions of the State Board of Examiners), N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5 (decisions of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association); see also In the Matter of the Certificates of Gail Wunsch, Commissioner Appeal No. 421-16A (December 14, 2016) ("the Commissioner may not substitute her judgment for that of the Board [of Examiners] so long as . . . the Board's decision is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record . . . the Board's decision should not be disturbed unless the appellant demonstrates that it is arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable"), Bd. of Educ. of North Bergen Twp. v. NJSIAA, Commissioner Decision No. 476-12 (December 14, 2012) ("[t]he Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner"). As noted above, no such regulation similarly restricts the scope of review from an ECS determination of homelessness. Significantly, "the agency head is not legally required to give any deference to the staff of the agency, but as the head of an administrative agency is instead required to decide the matter as the agency head deems legally appropriate." Bd. of Trustees of the Passaic Cnty. Elks Cerebral Palsy Center v. NJ Dept. of Educ., OAL Docket. No. EDU 16074-12, Commissioner Decision No. 334-14 (Aug. 14, 2014) (citing Liberty House Nursing Home v. Dep't of Health and Senior Servs., OAL Dkt. No. HLT 7275-09, adopted, Commissioner (Sept. 23, 2010), aff'd, A-1069-10 (App. Div. Mar. 5, 2012) (slip op.), cert. denied, 210 N.J. 478 (2012)).

Accordingly, "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" is not the appropriate standard of review as this matter is not an appeal from a final agency decision, and petitioner has requested the Commissioner's review of a subordinate office within the Department where the Commissioner's scope of review is not limited.

It bears noting that appeals from a determination of homelessness are not solely a request to review and reverse an ECS's decision: the Commissioner must also decide – based on the facts available to her at the conclusion of the hearing at the OAL – whether the child is homeless. Such adjudications are fact-sensitive, and individual circumstances must be thoroughly considered. See M. O'K. v. Bd. of Educ. of the Boro of Cresskill, et al, Commissioner Decision No. 325-14 (August 12, 2014), aff'd, A-0828-14T4 (App. Div. Sept. 8, 2016) (slip op.) (Finding "[t]he reasons for a child's homelessness, the child's living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians" are relevant considerations in the evaluation of homelessness). During the time between an ECS's decision (which is ordinarily made within a short period of time and without the convenience of fact-finding or an extensive record) and the Commissioner's review of the appeal, the child's living conditions, and/or the resources and intentions of the family may change. Consequently, the Commissioner's review of the appeal is based on "the facts as they may exist at the conclusion of the hearing held in the OAL and the proper application [of] those facts [to] the existing law." Initial Decision at 13. As such, the Commissioner's independent determination of a student's homeless status is de novo.

In New Jersey, it is well-settled that homelessness determinations are dictated by Federal and State law. Under the McKinney-Vento Act, homeless children are defined as "individuals who lack a fixed, regular and adequate nighttime residence," which includes "children sharing housing with other persons due to loss of their own housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason." 42 U.S.C.A. § 11434a. Similarly, under state law, homeless children are defined as "child[ren] or youth who lack[] a fixed, regular and adequate residence pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12 and N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2," which includes children living in the "residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2 (emphasis added). As discussed above, determination of homelessness is not temporal, i.e., there is no maximum duration of homelessness, and therefore, the determination must be made on the specific facts and circumstances of the case. The facts in this case support a finding that K.M. is not homeless pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17 et seq., and the McKinney-Vento Act because she does not lack a "fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence" and her family's continued residence at her grandmother's home can no longer be considered "resid[ing] out of necessity" due to "economic hardship." See N.J.A.C. 6A:17-1.2 and 2.2; 42 U.S.C.A. § 11433 and 11434a. See also M. O'K, supra; Bd. of Educ. of the Boro. Of Englewood Cliffs v. E.S. and W.S., o/b/o A.S. and E.S., et al, Commissioner Decision No. 196-10 (June 30, 2010); L.C. o/b/o B.C. v. Bd.of Educ. of the Twp. of Branchburg, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU 1003).

A review of the record indicates that K.M.'s family moved from Voorhees to Camden in 2011 due to loss of residence and economic hardship. The record also reveals that E.H. has been gainfully employed since September 2012 and receives a salary of $65,000, and her two adult children are employed in part-time positions.[7] E.H. testified that she is unable to receive approval for a mortgage or a rental apartment due to debt and poor credit. E.H. also testified that there are default judgments entered against her for which she makes monthly payments.[8] Finally, E.H. testified that she does not pay rent to live in the Camden residence, but she contributes towards the household expenses by paying for the bills when her mother asks her to pay for a particular bill, which varies from month to month.[9] Respondent has argued that the family's economic hardship has prevented E.H. from being able to find a residence of her own, and the shared residence cannot be considered "fixed, regular, and adequate" because of the sleeping arrangements,[10] and the family's previous short-term relocations to hotels due to conflict between E.H. and her mother on several occasions.[11]

[7] It is observed from the transcript of the hearing that E.H. was hesitant to disclose the exact amount of her annual income and questioned the relevance of such information.

[8] There is no record of how much E.H. is paying on a monthly basis, and in response to the ALJ's request for an approximate amount, E.H. claimed that it is a substantial portion of her income without providing a specific amount.

In M. O'K., supra, the Commissioner found, and the Appellate Division affirmed, that the O'K family – two parents and three children – become homeless due to the foreclosure of their home in Cresskill, and although they had been deemed domiciled in Little Ferry as a result of their residence in the district for over one year, the O'K family continued to remain homeless due to their shared living conditions and the parents' economic hardship.[12] The O'K family initially moved into S. O'K's parents' house in Little Ferry, but after a year of living in that home, they were temporarily displaced from the residence due to flooding caused by Hurricane Sandy. At that point, they were forced to relocate to a relative's home in New York. After a few months, the O'K family returned to Little Ferry and resumed living in S. O'K's parents' house. At the Little Ferry residence, the O'K family occupied the bottom floor of the house, which consisted of one small bedroom and a common area. There was no bathroom or kitchen on that floor. The parents and two of the children – a teenage daughter and the ten year old son – shared the bedroom, while the older son slept in the [9] E.H. also testified that she pays for food but it is not clear from the transcript whether she pays for all of the food for the household or just her family, or contributes towards the total cost of food for the household.

[10] E.H. testified that she sleeps in the living room, the two daughters share one bedroom, while her son has his own room, and her mother has her own room. E.H.'s brother sleeps in the unfinished basement. E.H. also testified that her brother, who lived in the home prior to their move in 2011, voluntarily relocated to the basement.

[11] It is not clear from E.H.'s testimony the exact number of times the family left the Camden residence and stayed at a hotel, but E.H. testified that it was between five and ten times over the last six years. E.H. also testified that in some years, the brief relocation occurred more frequently than in others. It is also not clear whether such incidents have occurred in recent years, but the ALJ did not find this to detract from his conclusion because of the number of years that the family has occupied the Camden residence and the fact that they have moved back to the Camden residence after every hotel stay. The Commissioner agrees – to the extent that the family returned to the Camden residence and has continued their occupancy of the home – that such relocations do not impact the family's present status as there is no indication that the family is in imminent or foreseeable risk of losing their place in the home.

[12] Neither parent was employed at the time of the litigation, and the family's sole income consisted of Social Security Disability benefits.

common area. The O'K family lived in those conditions out of necessity, especially considering the family's financial challenges. Prior to their displacement, the O'K family had always lived in Cresskill and they expressed a desire to return to Cresskill and continue to raise their children in that community. During the pendency of the litigation, the O'K family represented that they were actively searching for a house in Cresskill. In fact, at the time of the Appellate Division proceedings, the O'K family still had not acquired housing of their own and moved into a two-bedroom apartment in Little Ferry being rented by the adult, emancipated son, while continuing to seek permanent housing.

In the instant matter, the living conditions of K.M. and her family, as well as E.H.'s financial situation, are distinguishable from those of the O'K family. First, K.M. and her family enjoy occupancy and use of the entire Camden residence, as they are not relegated to a portion of the home that would otherwise be considered inadequate. Moreover, although the sleeping arrangements may be less than ideal, it is not uncommon for siblings to share the same room.[13] Second, E.H. is presently employed; notably, she has been employed for over four and a half years. Additionally, her two adult children are also employed in part-time positions. While E.H. has testified that she has outstanding debt and judgments against her – which she claims has resulted in economic hardship – she has not been forthcoming about the amounts of such judgments and debts, and the extent to which they have prevented her from finding alternate housing for her family. Without such proofs, the Commissioner is not persuaded that E.H., who is gainfully employed and earns an annual salary of $65,000, is unable to find an apartment that is suitable for her family in Voorhees, while making payments for the alleged judgments and debt.[14] Third, E.H.'s testimony reveals that she stopped [13] The Voorhees apartment also had three bedrooms, and at least five occupants at one point. As such, it is probable that the two sisters were also sharing a room in the Voorhees apartment.

[14] E.H. has not indicated where she has been looking for an apartment; however, based on her desire to have K.M. remain enrolled in Eastern Regional, it would be reasonable to expect that E.H. has been looking for an apartment in Voorhees for the last four and a half years. There is also nothing barring E.H. from looking for adequate housing in looking for apartments in June 2016.[15] While the Commissioner is certainly sympathetic to E.H.'s predicament, the Commissioner is not persuaded – based on the facts in this case – that K.M. and her family continue to remain in the Camden residence out of necessity and economic hardship. Furthermore, since the Camden residence qualifies as a "fixed, regular, and adequate" nighttime dwelling-place, K.M. is deemed not homeless.[16]

Homelessness, particularly in cases like the present matter, is best viewed in a continuum. For instance, a family may move into a relative's home out of necessity and hardship, but over time, that home may become a regular, albeit temporary, dwelling-place where the members of the household seamlessly co-habit and share the expenses and amenities of the home. See L.C., supra (finding "while [petitioner's] living arrangements with her brother may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness"). In L.C., supra, the C. family was evicted from their home in Branchburg, causing them to move into L.C.'s brother's apartment. The apartment was small and did not have room for the C. family's belongings, which were placed in storage. At the time of the hearing, L.C. testified that the C. family had continued to remain in the brother's apartment and that L.C. was paying half of the rent for the apartment. L.C. also indicated her desire to move back to Branchburg.

Here, E.H. similarly contributes to household expenses at the Camden residence, but – unlike in L.C., supra – her circumstances appear less temporary, as there is no indication that any

Camden or in its vicinity, as the S. Family did in Teaneck when they could not find a home in Englewood Cliffs. See E.S., supra.

[15] It is also unclear whether E.H. has attempted to find housing where she is not required to submit a rental application or undergo a credit check: E.H. testified that she would not be approved for an apartment due to her credit as she has been rejected in the past.

of the family's possessions had to be placed in storage until such time as the family moves to a different home. E.H. may consider the Camden residence temporary, and her intention may be to eventually move back to Voorhees (or to a different home in Camden) in the future. However, while intention is a factor to be considered in determining homelessness, the totality of the facts and circumstances in this case renders a finding that K.M. is no longer homeless. Significantly, E.H. stopped looking for another home in June 2016; her financial situation is not typical of the economic hardships usually related to homelessness; and the Camden residence is fixed, regular, and adequate. See E.S., supra, where the ALJ found, and the Commissioner concurred, that the S. family – who had been evicted from their rental home of two years in Englewood Cliffs, which precipitated their move to Teaneck in November 2008 – was not homeless despite their representation that the small home in Teaneck was temporary, and that they were forced to remain there because of issues with their credit.[17] The ALJ noted that the parents were steadily employed for many years, and the S. family did not suffer from the typical financial hardships that are often related to homelessness.

It is important to distinguish between a family's decision to remain in a relative's home or temporarily settle elsewhere out of necessity – i.e., they do not have the resources or the ability to find alternate housing – and a situation in which a family remains in the relative's home out of choice, e.g., they have not found the home that they desire, even when other suitable housing is available to the family, or one where a family – like E.S., supra – claims homelessness just because they do not live in the community of their preference. As such, when a homeless family moves into a relative's home that is adequate – and the adults in the family are sufficiently employed with the financial means to find alternate housing, and the family continues to live in the home for an extended period of time without any imminent or foreseeable risk of losing their place in that home, and they share the space as a cohesive unit – a finding of homelessness would be improper.

[17] The ALJ also found that the home was in need of repairs but habitable.

As conceivable as it may be that a child could be homeless for the duration of their education (in limited circumstances), such determination must not be based on broad application of the governing statutes and regulations, as respondent has proposed. The purpose of the law is to ensure that a homeless child is not denied a free public education; it is not meant to enable a child to receive an education in a school district of preference by circumventing residency requirements. For that reason, the notion that homelessness has no maximum duration must be applied with caution, taking into consideration the totality of the circumstances. Consequently, when a child's circumstances change such that the child is no longer homeless, the finder of fact must also determine the point at which the child's homelessness ceased. A child's homeless status may change well before the case concludes, and it would be inequitable to hold a school district responsible for a child's education until a final decision is rendered if that district is not in fact responsible for the cost of the child's education. In this case, the Commissioner finds that K.M. stopped being homeless in June 2016, because that is when E.H. stopped looking for another place to live, despite having the resources and claiming that her intent was to move. The Commissioner finds that implicit in E.H.'s actions is the intent to remain in her mother's home for the foreseeable future – a home that is fixed, regular and adequate, and where she no longer resides out of necessity. Therefore, K.M. was homeless when she moved to Camden in 2011; she was properly found homeless in 2014 by ECS Volk; she is presently not homeless (as of June 2016); and therefore, K.M. was not entitled to a free public education in Voorhees for the 2016-2017 school year.

With regard to Camden's demand for reimbursement from the NJDOE for the cost of K.M.'s education,[18] and its request for attorney's fees, the Commissioner finds that there is no legal basis for same. Notwithstanding petitioner's failure to cite to any legal authority and convincingly argue why the District is entitled to such relief, it appears that Camden also seeks to change how the district of residence and the responsibility for the cost of a homeless child's education is determined. As such, the Commissioner will clarify the ALJ's finding in this matter. It is undisputed that a homeless child's district of residence – when the parent or guardian temporarily moves out of one district to another – is the district where the parent or guardian last resided prior to becoming homeless. See N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12. In this case, K.M.'s district of residence was Voorhees when she moved from Voorhees to Camden in 2011. The district of residence is responsible for the educational costs of the child, which includes determining where the child shall be enrolled, paying the cost of tuition if the child is enrolled in another school district, and providing transportation as necessary. See N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3. Therefore, during the 2011-2012 school year, Voorhees was responsible for K.M.'s education and the associated costs. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(c) further provides, "[f]inancial responsibility will remain with the homeless child's school district of residence until the family is deemed domiciled in another jurisdiction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.d." In other words, if a homeless child moves to another school district and is deemed domiciled in that district, then for the purposes of the homeless child's education, the new school district is the child's district of residence, and the last school district is no longer financially responsible for the child's education.

Entitlement to a free, public education can be established once "[a]ny person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed domiciled within the district . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d). It follows that the child is then entitled to a free, public education in that district. It is important to reiterate that when a child is "deemed domiciled in another jurisdiction" it does not mean that the child is no longer homeless, because the conditions of homelessness may still persist. Additionally, throughout the duration of a child's homelessness, they have a conditional right to continue education in the last school district.[19] In this case, when K.M. and her family lived in Camden for a year, she was deemed domiciled in the District, and the District then became financially responsible for her education. Since K.M. was deemed homeless at the time, Camden had the option of continuing her enrollment in Voorhees, which the District decided was in K.M.'s best interest during the school years between 2012 and 2016. To now seek reimbursement for the 2012-2013, 2013-2014, 2014-2015, and 2015-2016 schools years from the NJDOE or any other similar entity for Camden's calculated decision to enroll K.M. in Voorhees, is improper.

With regard to the 2016-2017 school year, however, K.M. was not entitled to attend school in Voorhees as she was no longer homeless. Neither Voorhees nor the NJDOE is legally responsible for K.M.'s education as her present domicile is Camden. As K.M. was not homeless during the 2016-2017 school year, Camden may seek reimbursement from E.H. for: 1) the cost of K.M.'s transportation to Voorhees (deducting any cost of transportation Camden may have incurred had K.M. attended school in the District); and 2) the difference between the cost of K.M.'s tuition at Voorhees for the 2016-2017 school year and Camden's per pupil cost for the 2016-2017 school year (should Camden's cost of tuition be higher than Voorhees, the difference shall be credited towards the cost of transportation from Camden to Voorhees).

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Initial Decision of the OAL is hereby adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter. Volk's determination in September 2014 and October 2014 that K.M. was homeless was proper given the totality of the family's circumstances at that time. K.M.'s status changed in June 2016 when E.H. – who has been satisfactorily employed for four and a half years – stopped looking for another place to live and decided to continue her residence in a fixed, regular and adequate home in Camden despite having the resources and ability to move. Petitioner's request for reimbursement for tuition from the 2012-2013 school year through to the 2016-2017 school year, attorney's fees, injunctive relief and declaratory relief are denied on the basis that Camden has no legal right to same. Petitioner may, however, seek reimbursement of K.M.'s educational costs for the 2016-2017 school year from E.H., as outlined above.

Record Closed: February 15, 2017 Decided: March 22, 2017

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

This initial decision is the result of a remand of a prior decision issued concerning a dispute between the petitioner, State-Operated School District of Camden City (Board or SOSD Camden), and respondents, the State Department of Education, C. Ann Volk, formerly the Executive County Superintendent ("ECS") for Camden County, and E.H., the mother of a student, K.M. The dispute concerned a decision made by Volk regarding the alleged homelessness of K.M., and of her family. Volk had determined that the family was homeless and that as such, K.M. was entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township, New Jersey—the district of origin—at the expense of the SOSD Camden. The Board filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner, which was referred for hearing to the Office of Administrative Law. The Initial Decision, issued on February 5, 2016, found that E.H., who, despite clear warnings concerning the possible consequences, had never responded to the original Petition or to the ongoing proceedings concerning a motion for summary decision filed by the Board, had defaulted. On the merits, the decision granted summary decision to the Board, concluding that E.H. and K.M. were not homeless, and thus Camden was both responsible for providing the student with a free and appropriate education and for determining the location where such education would be provided, with due consultation with the parent as to the latter issue.

On March 18, 2016, the Commissioner of Education issued a Decision, remanding the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further proceedings. The Commissioner found the Initial Decision had not addressed all of the issues raised by Camden in its Petition of Appeal, specifically Counts Two through Five, as well as petitioner's request for reimbursement from the State.[1] Additionally, the Commissioner found that the record had not provided sufficient evidence to support the determination that K.M. "presently resides in a fixed, adequate, and regular residence and is, therefore, not homeless." Thus, the remand Order sought additional information to assist in assessing this issue. The Commissioner's Decision did not address the issue of whether E.H. had defaulted, or what, if anything, a default on her part meant regarding the search for additional evidence. Camden asserts that the default has consequences for the record, but as will be explained, given the Commissioner's mandate, it is likely that he did not view the lack of response by E.H. as consequential, and she did testify in the remand hearing.

[1] The Petition of Appeal does not contain any claim for reimbursement. However, the Commissioner has noted this as an issue to be considered on this remand.

It is important to note that at the hearing on remand, SOSD Camden expressly stated that it did not seek to require that K.M., now a high school senior still attending Eastern Regional High School, which serves students from Voorhees Township, actually attend school in Camden, regardless of whether the District prevailed on its claim that she is not homeless. Therefore, the dispute is now focused on the Board's request to correct what it views as an incorrect decision as to the student's homelessness made by the then Executive County Superintendent, and on the financial consequences of the student's actual status, as well as the Board's claims for injunctive relief.

As the previous Initial Decision related, and the current testimonial record confirms, before 2010, E.H. and her family, consisting of her children and until 2009, her then husband, lived in a rental property in Voorhees Township, New Jersey. The parents separated and ultimately divorced, and according to E.H., when she could no longer meet the income requirements for the lease, the family was forced to relocate. They moved into E.H.'s mother's home in Camden in 2011. Since that time, they have not lived in any other rented or purchased location, either in or outside of Camden. K.M. continued to attend school in Voorhees and at Eastern Regional High School.

The Board has for some time contended that E.H. and her family, including K.M., are residents of the City of Camden, and that while in the past the family may have been homeless, they have for some time and are now not homeless. As a result, the student's right to a free education entitles her to attend school in Camden, not in Voorhees Township. The Executive County Superintendent twice rejected this position and concluded that E.H. and K.M. were homeless, and as such, the child was entitled to attend school in Voorhees Township at the expense of Camden, which was responsible for both the educational tuition and the costs of transportation. See letter decision dated September 23, 2014, and second decision letter dated October 15, 2014. In her first written decision, Executive Superintendent Volk made the following determinations:

1. The family was displaced from their home.
2. The family is living in a "doubled up" situation with a relative," and
3. The family is experiencing financial hardship.

Based upon these determinations, and without other written analysis, Superintendent Volk found that the family was homeless and therefore, under N.J.A.C. 6A:17 and the Federal "McKinney-Vento" legislation, 42 U.S.C. 11434, the Camden Board was responsible for tuition and transportation costs. The Superintendent's second decision letter of October 15, 2014, simply iterated the determination of eligibility for Camden to bear these costs. In neither decision did the Executive Superintendent discuss the evidence upon which she relied to make her decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons under 20 years of age:
> > d. Any person whose parent or guardian, even though not domiciled within the district, is residing temporarily therein, but any person who has had or shall have his all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer shall be deemed to be domiciled within the district for the purposes of this section;

During the remand hearing, Sandra Cintron, who performs services as a homeless liaison for the Camden School District, testified that she was familiar with K.M., and her family, having first been advised that they were being displaced from the Eastern Regional School District and wanted the children to stay in school in that district. Ms. Cintron was unsure whether this occurred in 2012 or 2013, but documentation from 2012 indicates that the reason for the displacement was the "nonrenewal of lease." In April 2012, the family requested that the District provide transportation to Eastern Regional. Ms. Cintron would provide information to the Camden District's business office about such requests. The address provided for the family after its displacement was on Bradley Avenue in Camden, where the family was residing with K.M.'s grandmother.[2] The witness reviewed other documentation previously discussed in the prior initial decision, including intake packets, school residency forms and McKinney-Vento forms. All information gathered would be provided to the District's legal counsel. In August 2014, a letter was sent to E.H., advising that as the family had resided within the City of Camden since April 2012, a period of over twelve months from the date of the letter, "New Jersey law deems your child domiciled in the Camden City school district. Your child is entitled to a free public education within the Camden City school district." In response to this letter, E.H. e-mailed, advising that having received the letter, she appreciated, "[H]aving the option to enroll K. in the Camden City Public School District." However, she added, "it is my opinion that her interest is best served at Eastern Regional High School(school of origin)."

Ms. Cintron testified that she had never been in the home at Bradley Avenue, but had reviewed tax records which showed the number of bedrooms in the home and which showed that M.H., the mother of E.H. and the grandmother of K.M., was the owner of the property. She had also looked at the Zillow website, which showed the square footage of the property and described a single family home. After considering the information available, the District decided that the family was not homeless. According to the information available to her, the family still resided at the time of the hearing at the Bradley Street address. The District has paid bills for educational services provided the family since its displacement, but has not done so during the 2016-17 school year. During the time that the District has been considering the family's situation, there have been several meetings with E.H., attended first by Ms. Cintron's predecessor, Mr. Smith, and at least twice by Miss Cintron herself.

Richard Farr, a licensed private investigator, testified that he performs investigative services for the SCSD Camden concerning residency issues. He described observations of E.H. exiting from the Bradley Avenue address on several occasions and of a teenage female getting on a school bus early in the morning. As there is no real dispute regarding the fact that the family does live at Bradley Avenue address, this testimony was of limited significance. Although Mr. Farr never entered the home, he described it as a brick row house, with an open front porch, apparently built in the 1930s. He also confirmed that E.H. worked at an insurance firm in Evesham Township, again a matter which is not in dispute as E.H. herself testified to this employment.

E.H. testified that she and her family live on Bradley Avenue in Camden. Currently living in the house are her mother, her three children and her brother. Her mother owns the home. Her brother is sixty years old. The house has two stories and an unfinished basement. The first floor consists of a living room, dining area and kitchen. On the second floor are three bedrooms and a bathroom. E.H.'s two daughters share a bedroom on the second floor. Her son has a bedroom by himself on the second floor, and her mother has her own bedroom on second floor. E.H. sleeps on a sofa bed in the living room on the first floor. Her brother lives in the basement.

When the family resided in Voorhees Township they had a three-bedroom apartment. Although a bit shaky on dates, E.H. recalled that she had become unemployed in 2009. She received severance pay and/or unemployment benefits until 2011. When the lease renewal came due in 2011, her husband had already left the home. Even before his departure from the home he had not provided financial support and this situation has continued after the separation and subsequent divorce, with E.H. receiving neither spousal nor child support. In 2011, E.H. no longer met the income requirements for the Voorhees rental and her lease was not renewed. Having no other options at the time, her family went to Camden to live in her mother's home. E.H. is currently employed as a compliance analyst for a firm in Marlton, New Jersey, earning approximately $65,000 a year. She is supporting her two adult children, who have part-time jobs. A significant portion of her income goes to pay civil judgments that accumulated over the years and other debts.

According to E.H., her family has resided in her mother's home on Bradley Avenue ever since arriving in 2011. The children have always been there with her. However, there have been times when due to the stress of living with her mother, who is ill, and with whom she has not always had the best relationship, it has been requested that the family leave the house. On these several occasions, perhaps five to ten times, they have relocated to hotels or motels for at least three to four days, at most for seven to ten days, all of these being relatively short stays away from Bradley Avenue. On each occasion, the family has then returned to that home. E.H. spoke of her attempts to find more permanent housing, indeed, noting that she does not consider her present living arrangement as "permanent." She has tried without any success to find apartments to rent or to obtain mortgages, but has been unable to make other living arrangements for her family. She described looking for other living arrangements once or twice a year, having last attempted to do so in June 2016. She described herself as "always looking mentally for another situation." At the same time, she is "not trying to beat the system." It is necessary for her to rebuild her credit. It has been very hard for her to dig out of the significant debt that she accumulated over time, including several civil judgments. While living with her mother she has contributed toward the household, but has not paid any fixed amount over any period of time. The payments she makes depend upon the bills she is asked to cover and she also pays for her family's food. Utilities are in her mother's name. E.H. has no credit cards. She pays a cell phone bill. Her driver's license lists her address as Bradley Avenue, She receives her mail at that location. She acknowledged that her mother could ask her to leave the home at any time. She does not know if her brother contributes anything to the home's expenses.

Arenda Fleming, a planning associate with the Camden County Board of Education, testified that one of her responsibilities is to perform evaluations concerning families that may be homeless. She collects and reviews information and discusses the material collected with the Executive County Superintendent. On September 11, 2014, the County Superintendent received a letter from the General Counsel for the Camden City School District concerning a dispute "regarding the determination of homelessness," concerning the family of E.H. and K.M. In order to review the matter, Ms. Fleming contacted Ms. Cintron, reviewed documents that had been developed over time by the Eastern Regional School District, and she "may have reached out to mom." Among the documents reviewed was an "Affidavit as to Homeless Status," prepared in April 2012 and signed by E.H., which noted that the family had left its Voorhees home due to "nonrenewal of the lease." She also saw a "Student Residency Form," prepared in April 2011 for student E.M., another of the family's children. Additionally, she reviewed a McKinney-Vento education program form prepared by the Gloucester County Special Services School District in April 2011 for E.M., and an "Affidavit as to Homeless Status," prepared in August 2013 and signed by E.H., which noted that the departure from the Voorhees home was due to "annual lease not renewed, separation from spouse" and reported the Bradley Avenue address as the place where the family was residing. According to Ms. Fleming's certification, provided as part of the documentation regarding the motion for summary decision, she did speak to E.H. Ms. Fleming recalled that E.H. had advised her that they had lived for a number of years at the Bradley Avenue address, but that they had lived in one hotel or motel during that same period of time. In addition to all this, Ms. Fleming spoke to the State monitor for homelessness and reported the information received from this source, along with the other material she gathered with the Executive County Superintendent, Ms. Volk, who was to make the decision regarding the homeless status of the family.

On cross-examination, Ms. Fleming advised that other than gathering information and speaking to the persons noted, no independent investigation was conducted concerning the status of the family. She could not recall the details of her conversation with E.H., did not know how long the family had stayed in a hotel and was not sure whether she had asked E.H. what her intentions were regarding her living arrangements. As for the letter issued on September 23, 2014, by Ms. Volk to the Superintendent of the Camden School District, in which Ms. Volk provided her decision that the family remained homeless, Ms. Fleming described the form of the letter as a "template," in which the necessary information is filled in. In respect to the determination of homelessness, Ms. Fleming mentioned a "guidance document" from the Department of Education, which referred to living with a friend or relative as a factor to be considered. With regard to Ms. Volk's having noted in her decision, as one of the factors upon which the determination was based, that the "family is experiencing financial hardship," Ms. Fleming was unable to recall "offhand" what documents might have been available, if any, from which this conclusion was drawn.

C. Ann Volk, now serving as the County School Business Administrator for the Camden County Superintendent's Office, services as the Interim Executive County Superintendent from June 2013 until April 2014, and again from June 2014 to August 2015. Ms. Volk testified that prior to making her decision regarding the family's status, she spoke with Ms. Fleming on more than one occasion. She described the information regarding the family's financial hardship as "limited." This was the only decision regarding a family's homelessness that she had to make during her time as the Interim ECS. She considered that the family was living in a "doubled-up" situation.

Ms. Volk commented that there is no process for fact-finding hearings at the County level in regard to these determinations of homelessness. The County Superintendent depends largely upon information provided by the school district, including affidavits. Questions regarding what the family's intent was with respect to its living arrangements were not discussed with Ms. Fleming and there was no independent verification of intent or even a question about intent, as according to Ms. Volk, such was "not within our purview." Ms. Volk further commented that "[T]he question that we do ask, 'is this temporary,' that we can ask and we depend on the school district that they're in and the other affidavits that we get from other sources." Asked to define what "temporary" meant to her, Ms. Volk said that "Whatever temporary means to the person that's there. They don't intend to stay there." Asked whether her interpretation of temporary, "Is determined by each individual . . . temporary for K.M. is different for somebody else maybe," Ms. Volk explained that "each situation is different and would have a different intent." Asked if "five years" was temporary, Ms. Volk explained that it could be. Given that answer she was asked if, "Based on that logic, a student could become homeless in kindergarten and the parents move in with another family—with a relative for the next twelve years and that's temporary," Volk responded, "I have seen that happen. I didn't say it was right. I just said that I have observed that that has happened in other counties, that even has occurred over several years." As for the determination of financial hardship, Ms. Volk had no conversations with E.H. about her finances. Her determination regarding homelessness was based solely on the conversations Ms. Fleming had with E.H., with the State monitor Ms. Thomas, and the documents identified in the record.

Discussion

In a recent decision, the Commissioner of Education discussed factors relevant to determining if a child is "homeless."

> A "homeless child" is one who lacks a fixed, regular and adequate residence. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2. Not every child residing temporarily with a relative is "homeless." Rather, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)3, such a child is homeless when he or she resides in "[t]he residence of relatives or friends with whom the homeless child is temporarily residing out of necessity because the family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." An examination of the conditions that precipitated the family's relocation is critical to ascertaining whether the living arrangement arose "out of necessity," and whether the family is without access to a "regular or permanent residence of its own."

As the Commissioner noted, regulations adopted by the Department of Education define "homeless" children. N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2.

> (a) A district board of education shall determine that a child is homeless for purposes of this subchapter when he or she resides in any of the following:
> 1. A publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations, including:
>
> i. Hotels or motels;
>
> ii. Congregate shelters, including domestic violence and runaway shelters;
>
> iii. Transitional housing; and
>
> iv. Homes for adolescent mothers;
>
> 2. A public or private place not designated for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation, including:
>
> i. Cars or other vehicles including mobile homes;
>
> ii. Tents or other temporary shelters;
>
> iii. Parks;
>
> iv. Abandoned buildings;
>
> v. Bus or train stations; or
> vi. Temporary shelters provided to migrant workers and their children on farm sites;

3. The residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own;
4. Substandard housing; or
5. Any temporary location wherein children and youth are awaiting foster care placement.

The Federal Government has adopted a similar set of definitions as part of what is known as the McKinney-Vento legislation.

For purposes of this subtitle [42 USCS §§ 11431 et seq.]:

(1) The terms "enroll" and "enrollment" include attending classes and participating fully in school activities.
(2) The term "homeless children and youths"--
(A) means individuals who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence (within the meaning of section 103(a)(1)) [42 USCS § 11302(a)(1)]; and
(B) includes--
(i) children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason; are living in motels, hotels, trailer parks, or camping grounds due to the lack of alternative adequate accommodations; are living in emergency or transitional shelters; are abandoned in hospitals; or are awaiting foster care placement;
(ii) children and youths who have a primary nighttime residence that is a public or private place not designed for or ordinarily used as a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings (within the meaning of section 103(a)(2)(C)) [42 USCS § 11302(a)(2)(C)];
(iii) children and youths who are living in cars, parks, public spaces, abandoned buildings, substandard housing, bus or train stations, or similar settings; and
(iv) migratory children (as such term is defined in section 1309 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 [20 USCS § 6399]) who qualify as homeless for the purposes of this subtitle [42 USCS §§ 11431 et seq.] because the children are living in circumstances described in clauses (i) through (iii).

In her September 23, 2014, decision finding that the student K.M. was homeless, County Superintendent Volk cited three factors upon which her determination was based. The first of these was that a student's family "was displaced from their home." As to this, the evidence clearly demonstrates that E.H. and her family were in fact displaced from their residence in Voorhees Township, New Jersey, due to their inability to obtain a new lease for the rental property in which they resided. This situation appears to have arisen from a combination of factors, including E.H.'s loss of employment, the departure of her husband from the family residence and his lack of any financial support for his family after his departure, and the termination of severance pay and unemployment benefits that E.H. had been receiving. Superintendent Volk's determination regarding this first factor, regarding as it does the originating cause for the family's presence in Camden and not in Voorhees, was thus fully supported by the information available to her. Nothing presented during this hearing has changed the appropriateness of that conclusion. That said, and before considering the other factors relied upon by the Superintendent, as well as the factors identified in statute and case law, it is necessary to consider the standard of review to be applied regarding the issue currently before this forum and the Commissioner.

In their briefs both parties appear to consider the appropriate standard of review to be whether the determination made by the ECS was "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable." The language, "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" is typically the formula used by appellate courts when reviewing determinations made by administrative agencies. In limited circumstances, the same standard is utilized by agency heads when reviewing certain actions of local administrative bodies, such as reviews by the Commissioner of Education of the determinations by local school boards in disciplinary proceedings against students. However, the use of the "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable" standard when an agency head is reviewing determinations made by constituent elements of that same agency would be quite unusual. Here, the Commissioner of Education is asked to consider whether K.M. is homeless. It may well be that the decision of the ECS, who holds a position within the structure of the very Department that the Commissioner heads, made based on the information available to her at the time, was a reasonable one based upon the application of the existing law to the facts as they were known to her. If nothing produced during this hearing has materially changed that factual setting such as to require a change in determination after applying the applicable legal standards for determining homelessness, then it can be fairly said the ECS's decision was not arbitrary or unreasonable. However, reference to cases in which it has been noted that a decision by the ECS concerning homelessness was reasonable must note that that characterization was used where nothing produced at the hearing on appeal necessitated a change in the decision, again given the applicable law. Indeed, in his brief, the Deputy Attorney General, while first suggesting that review should be under the arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable standard, notes that, "[T]he only way that the ECS's decision should be reversed now, is if subsequently-received information requires its reversal." This recognition that subsequently-received information is to be used in deciding the question of homelessness proves the point. If the only thing we were concerned with was whether the ECS's decision was reasonable, based on what Ms. Volk had before her at the time, there would be no reason to receive "subsequent information." The true test is not whether the ECS was "arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable," but whether, given all the facts produced at the hearing, the student is or is not homeless based on the application of the applicable law to those facts. In the end, if the facts existing in the record at the time of the decision made by the administrative law judge, and subsequently by the Commissioner, do not require that the ECS's decision be changed, that decision may be seen as neither arbitrary nor capricious and certainly as reasonable. But the appellate review standard is not the proper standard for considering the issue. Instead, the review on what is termed an "appeal" is effectively a de novo consideration, first by the judge and then by the Commissioner, of the facts as they may exist at the conclusion of the hearing held in the OAL, and the proper application to those facts of the existing law.

Returning to the merits, again, in addition to noting the family's displacement from their home as a basis for the finding of homelessness, Ms. Volk identified two other bases. These were that the family was living in "a 'doubled-up' situation with a relative" and that it was "experiencing financial hardship." The Board contends that these stated grounds are not proper criteria for determining if a family/student is homeless.

N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.2 defines a "homeless child" as one who lacks a "fixed, regular and adequate" residence. This regulation further identifies several circumstances in which children may live that the statute deems to be indicative of "homeless" status. Many are obvious, children living in cars, shelters, motels, parks, etc. None of these apply to the current case. But the statute, and the Federal enactment known as the McKinney-Vento legislation, also identify a circumstance in which a child lives in what is likely a more traditional living setting, but where the child lives in "[T]he residence of relatives or friends where the homeless child resides out of necessity because his or her family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own." The federal provision also includes "children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, . . ." In this case, it is undeniable that E.H. and her family first came to her mother's home in Camden due to economic necessity and that K.M. shares the housing of "other persons," i. e., the home owned by her grandmother, and came to that home "due to loss of housing" and "economic hardship." The Board has not suggested otherwise. It has not challenged the description provided by E.H. of the reasons for her having to vacate the Voorhees Township residence; it has not suggested that at the time the family had any viable way to maintain that residence. It does not dispute that she lives in a home with other family members besides her children, a home that she does not have any ownership in or lease for. What it does argue, though, is that after so many years residing in the Bradley Avenue home, the family is no longer "homeless." And it appears to suggest, at least implicitly, that E.H. no longer has to live there due to ongoing financial hardship, pointing out her now over four years of steady employment at a salary which she herself described as between $55,000-70,000 a year, currently at $65,000. Thus, what the Board really seems to contend is that while Ms. Volk may have cited as bases for her determination factors that properly relate to the total picture of the family and student's circumstances, she did not properly assess the significance of these factors in the ultimate, statutorily-grounded consideration of whether K.M. lives in a "fixed, regular, and adequate residence."

If the home in which the family resides is not "adequate," then a child living in that home is, by definition, "homeless." Is the home in which student K.M. living on Bradley Avenue in Camden "adequate?" The evidence reveals that this structure is a row home, typical in Camden and many other localities, in which there are living a grandmother, a mother and her three children, and the mother's brother. The home has kitchen facilities, a living room, a dining area, three bedrooms on the second floor, and a bathroom. There is a basement. The home is serviced by standard utilities. The grandmother has her own bedroom on the second floor, the two female children share a bedroom and their brother has a separate bedroom, these two latter bedrooms also being located on the second floor. E.H. sleeps in the living room on a pull-out sofa. Her sixty-year-old brother sleeps in the basement. The evidence does not indicate that the student and her siblings, as well as E.H.'s mother, are limited in regard to use of the kitchen and bathroom facilities. E.H. testified that she paid for her family's food, and there is no indication that there is any deprivation with respect to cooking facilities. While the home may only have one bathroom, there is no evidence that this presents any significant difficulties for the student or her family.

In M.O'K & C.O'K, o/b/o minor children K.O'K, A.O'K, & C.O'K v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Cresskill, Bergen Cnty., and Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Little Ferry, Bergen Cnty., EDU 14830-13N (Final Dec. August 12, 2014)(adopting in part, rev'g in part initial dec. of June 13, 2014), the Commissioner considered a situation in which > petitioners returned to S.O'K.'s parents' home in Little Ferry, where the two parents and three children occupy the bottom floor of the house, which floor has no shower, sink or kitchen. Because there is only one small bedroom on that floor, the 13-year old daughter and ten-year old son share a bunk-bed in the parents' bedroom and the oldest son, 18, sleeps in the common area.

The Commissioner determined that these conditions did not constitute an adequate residence. While the case involved other factors as well which led the Commissioner to conclude that the children were homeless, clearly the living conditions described in the quoted section of the decision differed in some marked degree from the conditions in which the children in this case, most particularly K.M., live. In Cresskill, two children, a boy and a girl, shared a bunk bed in the same bedroom as their parents. Another child slept in a common area. Here, two girls share one bedroom, not at all an uncommon situation for children of the same sex. The male child resides in a separate bedroom. Their grandmother has her own bedroom; their uncle sleeps in a totally separate part of the home. There is no indication that these children have any difficulty accessing the bathroom facilities. The children sleep in separate bedrooms from their mother. The fact that she sleeps on a pull-out sofa in the living room hardly suggests that the home is not adequate. The statutory provision certainly does not aim at perfection. Based upon the evidence here, I CONCLUDE that there is no basis for concluding other than the Bradley Avenue residence is "adequate."

That said, is the residence "fixed" and "regular?" The Commissioner reviewed applicable legal provisions in Cresskill.

> The regulation N.J.A.C. 6A:17-2.3(a)(3), for example, provides that children are homeless when they stay in the home of relatives or friends, with whom they are temporarily residing because the family lacks a regular or permanent residence of its own. Similarly, 42 U.S.C. sec. 11434a(2)(A) and (B)(i) describe homeless children as those "who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence . . .," including, inter alia, "children and youths who are sharing the housing of other persons due to loss of housing, economic hardship, or a similar reason . . . ." Thus, an evaluation of "homelessness" cannot rest upon a simple calculation of the amount of time that children have spent in a particular location or municipality. The reasons for the children's homelessness, their living conditions, and the resources and intentions of the parents or custodians are relevant.

Here, E.H.'s family, having been forced to vacate their Voorhees Township residence due to financial hardship, reside with relatives. The home in which they reside is owned by E.H.'s mother. Thus, I FIND that this is a family that are living, at least initially due to economic hardship, in housing they share, that is not their own, but, in the case of the children, in their grandmother's home.[3] As Cresskill notes, the fact that, as here, the family has spent a number of years at Bradley Avenue is not in and of itself determinative of the lack of homeless status. In addition to the time factor, the Commissioner notes the significance of living conditions, resources and parent intentions. Again, here, the residence, that is, the "living conditions," is "adequate." As for the "resources" of the parent, E.H. testified, credibly, that although she has had a steady job for over four years, which now pays a salary of about $65,000 a year, given her financial history, accumulation of debt, including court judgments, and her support of her adult children who continue to live with her in the home while working part-time, she has been unable to obtain either appropriate leased premises or to obtain a mortgage for her family of four. It is not clear exactly how aggressive she has been in seeking some alternative housing arrangement. Nevertheless, the record indicates that her finances are limited, and given the need for at least a three-bedroom home so long as the mother and her children all stay together, her difficulty in locating adequate housing is not suspicious. As for her "intentions," she clearly stated did she did not consider the present residence at Bradley Avenue to be permanent. She certainly has in mind the idea of moving to some other housing. Nevertheless, at least based on the experience she testified about and her financial limitations, it is entirely unclear how realistic such a change of residence may be, at least in any foreseeable timeframe.

Thus, the case presents a picture of a child living in adequate housing, but in a shared home that she was taken to by her mother out of economic necessity that continues to limit the mother's ability to relocate to her own home, whether rented or purchased, and in a home her mother, not unreasonably, does not consider to be a "permanent" home, but "temporary" in the sense that she has the intention to relocate.

This case then appears to present a classic situation where the law may define something in a way that might not be obvious to the casual observer, or make sense to the average taxpayer. As the home in which this child is residing, now for a period of about six years, where she lives with her family, which is her grandmother's home, is adequate housing, and is not remotely akin to living in cars, shelters, parks, motels, buses, or any of the other places identified in the federal and state legislation, it certainly does not seem as if E.H. and K.M. are "homeless." Yet they came there due to economic hardship, they remain economically challenged, at least as far as obtaining "adequate" alternative housing of their own, and the place they live in is, legally, someone else's which they "share." And the law defines a child whose housing situation is defined by these conditions as "homeless." But does the existence of these facts dictate that the "homeless" label must remain fixed regardless of the full circumstances existent at any given time?

If the key to determining whether a child living in an otherwise adequate home ("living conditions") is still to be considered homeless is, as the Commissioner notes in Cresskill, a consideration of "resources and intentions," then the question is whether once a family is forced by economic hardship to live in such a shared circumstance in another's home that status of "homelessness" is fixed and ongoing, even if the understandable intention of the parent is that she "intends" to move and does not consider the current residence as "permanent" but instead as "temporary." As the Board's question to Ms. Volk as to her understanding of the definition of who is "homeless," and her response thereto pointed out, it is conceivable to her that a child could be considered "homeless" for an entire educational "career," if the family was forced to relocate to a shared housing situation when the child was in kindergarten and economic realities worked to foil the parental "intent" to obtain housing of the family's own for so many years. Yet it is hard to imagine that anyone would see that child as homeless, at least in the sense that children living in all of the other conditions listed in the state and federal definitions exist.

Possibly then this case presents the question of when the realities of long-term economic hardship, or at least of long-term economic limitations, shared by so many families, and the reality that hoped-for intentions are not realistic, at least for any foreseeable time, again a circumstance no doubt common, work to convert a state of "homelessness" to one where the child is no longer "homeless." The definitions do not assist in understanding the limits that may apply in such circumstances. But to the extent that homeless status is identified as one without a "fixed, regular and adequate" living place, here, given the very lengthy period of residence, the adequacy of the living place and the regularity of occupation, I FIND that she does live in a "fixed, regular, and adequate residence" and CONCLUDE that K.M. is not homeless. See L.C. on behalf of her Minor Child B.C. v. Bd of Educ. of the Twp. of Branchburg, Somerset County, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d(EDU)1003 (Commissioner found that "while her living arrangements with her brother [in his apartment] may not be permanent in the sense that she may wish to eventually return to Branchburg, the evidence shows them to have become sufficiently fixed, regular, and adequate so as to preclude a finding of homelessness.")[4] As such,

[4] The short periods where the family had to stay in a motel due to conflict between E.H. and her mother do not detract from this conclusion, as they do not appear to have been of substantial length and each time,

Camden is the district wherein the student is entitled to receive a free and appropriate education, and in the normal course, it is Camden that would be responsible for selecting the school in which that education would be provided. That said, it is again noted that in regard to this student, the Board, quite wisely, does not seek to have her finish her senior year of high school in the Camden schools and does not seek to have her leave Eastern Regional High School. As Camden is the district responsible for educating K.M., it must of course pay for that education. This outcome, however, is limited to the circumstances of this student and this case, and is not meant to suggest that in other cases, the Board would not be authorized to seek to have students found to be domiciled in Camden and not homeless placed in schools within the Camden District.

The Board's Petition of Appeal seeks several remedies besides a declaration that K.M. is not homeless. Primarily, the Board asks for injunctive relief, more specifically defined as a permanent injunction to require that the Executive County Superintendent's Office "must use proper and legal criteria for determinations of homelessness." More specifically, the Petition requested injunctive relief to compel the use of "only proper legal citations for informing potential litigants of their appeal rights"; "to refrain from asserting the wrong legal citations in homeless determinations"; to analyze legally relevant criteria in making homeless determinations . . . to state its findings of fact and conclusions in its homeless determination letters based on legally relevant criteria . . . to refrain from making homeless determinations that do not include an analysis of legally relevant criteria . . . to refrain from making homeless determinations based on legally irrelevant criteria . . . to cease and desist from directing the CCSD to violate the law in directing CCSD to fund out-of-district placements of non-classified students domiciled with the City of Camden who are not the subject of sending-receiving relationships or the Inter-district Public School Choice program . . . from placing the CCSD in an untenable, Catch 22 situation, whereby it must decide whether to violate the law or a NJDOE directive that is contrary to the law . . ." and "to not fine, sanction, penalize, or reduce the State aid of CCSD" if it follows "ECS Volk's directive and funds" such placements. Finally, the District requests that if the family has returned to the home and remained. Given the many years of that occupancy, these familial difficulties are insufficient proof that E.H. and her children have not established a regular, fixed and adequate residence.

the Department affirms Ms. Volk's decision, it "declares" that the NJDOE has "effectively changed the historical consequences, effects of domicile . . . " "no longer recognizes that entitlement to a free public education within the district is a consequence/effect of domicile . . . no longer recognizes that the district of domicile has educational decision-making responsibility over students domiciled within district . . . " and "has recognized CCSD's ability and authority to fund the out-of-district placements of non-classified . . . non-sending-receiving relationships."

The Board concedes that the K.M. case is the only example of a homelessness decision made by the ECS Office in this record.

Initially, it is important to note exactly what the Board proposes. The ECS is an official of the State's Department of Education. The Commissioner is the head of that agency. Despite common references to it as a "court," the OAL is not a court, and unlike a judicial-branch forum, it has absolutely no independent judicial, or quasi-judicial authority. The OAL cannot on its own issue injunctions, even where the test for injunctive relief might otherwise be met. Thus, the only source for the issuance of an injunction is the agency head, to the extent that the agency has the authority to issue such relief. But here, the request, or demand, is that the Commissioner issue an injunction against a member, as it were, of her own staff. It is, to say the least, unusual to seek what is in effect an internal injunction. Should the Commissioner be persuaded that the ECS is not using appropriate standards or is relying on incorrect factors to assess homelessness, she can issue new regulations, internal guidance, provide legal assistance to the Office, and provide additional training. In individual cases, she can reverse a decision if persuaded that the proper standards were not utilized, or, even where they were utilized, where the outcome is at variance with a reasoned assessment of the facts and the applicable law. The Board has not provided any authority or reasoning as to why, given all this, the Commissioner should enjoin her subordinate. And, besides this concern, it would be highly unusual to issue such an injunction based upon the example of one case. There is no record here upon which to conclude that there is any real danger that the Camden County ECS, who it must be noted is no longer Ms. Volk, will continue to utilize improper procedures or standards in future assessments of homelessness. And to the extent the Board is concerned about cases similar to this one, where long-term presence in Camden by students claiming homelessness may be presenting the District with similar funding concerns as with K.M., the Commissioner has the power to provide guidance to her staff through the mechanisms just listed, including even in her final decision in this case. Assessments of homelessness must of necessity be made on a case-by-case basis. If the Board does believe that a case can be made concerning a systemic failure of the County Executive Superintendent's Office, then it may wish to initiate a more global proceeding in order to present the necessary record to sustain more general relief against the DOE and its subordinate Office. But it has not done so here. I CONCLUDE that there is no warrant in this record, or in the circumstances presented, for the Commissioner to issue any injunctions.

In regard to a request for reimbursement, it is noted that the Board has not presented any authority for the proposition that the DOE, or its constituent office, has any responsibility to it to pay for the educational and/or transportation costs it has expended in funding K.M.'s education at Eastern Regional. Perhaps there may be a claim against that district for reimbursement, but the Board never initiated a Petition before the Commissioner against Eastern, which is not a party to these proceedings and cannot be impleaded under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules. Again, it is noted that the request for reimbursement was not made in the Petition of Appeal here, but added as a remedy sought by the Board later in the proceedings. I CONCLUDE that the Board has not presented a basis for any remedy of reimbursement against the DOE or the ECS.

For the reasons stated, I CONCLUDE that K.M. is not homeless. I CONCLUDE that the determination made by Ms. Volk, while identifying certain factors properly considered in determining whether homelessness exists, did not fully consider and properly analyze the entire picture in assessing that issue. Her decision is therefore REVERSED. The Board's applications for injunctive relief and reimbursement are DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ

Petitioner, the Piscataway Township Board of Education, seeks payment of tuition from Respondent's for Y.P.'s ineligible attendance in the school district from the 2010-2011 school year through September 28, 2016.

The Department of Education transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 TO 13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on November 28, 2016.

The parties have voluntarily agreed to resolve all disputed matters and have entered into a settlement as set forth in the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Board Resolution.

I have reviewed the terms of the settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signature of their respective representatives on the attached settlement agreement; and,
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this Stipulation of Settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The parties having amicably resolved their differences, the within matter is hereby settled on the following terms:

1. Respondents Sanjay Patel, Manisha Patel and Virangi Patel shall pay to Petitioner Piscataway Township Board of Education the sum of $15,000.00, in two equal installments: the first, immediately upon entry of an order by Administrative Law Judge John Scollo approving the settlement, and the second, within 30 days thereafter.

2. Payment shall be made by check payable to "Piscataway Township Board of Education," and delivered to Petitioner's counsel.

3. In the event that either installment payment is not made when due, Respondents shall immediately become jointly and severally liable for $63,302.84 less any payments previously made, plus any reasonable attorney fees and costs incurred in pursuit of collection.

4. This Stipulation of Settlement is entered into solely to avoid the expense and inconvenience of continued litigation, and does not represent an admission by any party of the correctness of any other party's factual or legal position in this matter.

5. Respondents represent that they have been represented by Vinay Mavinkurve, Esq., in this matter, that they have consulted with their counsel regarding the meaning and effect of this Stipulation of Settlement, and that they enter into it voluntarily and without coercion.

6. This Stipulation of Settlement resolves all claims for back tuition with respect to the time periods referenced in the Petition of Appeal. Respondents acknowledge their ongoing obligation to maintain residency sufficient to continue lawful enrollment of Y.P. in the Piscataway Township Public School District, and Petitioner's right to pursue any lawful remedy should they fail to do so.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 299-11/16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATES OF VINCENT J. VITIELLO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by petitioner (Edison Board of Education or Board), seeking suspension of respondent's (Vincent J. Vitiello) teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. The Board alleged that respondent resigned from his teaching position without providing the requisite notice to petitioner. Following transmittal of the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the parties proposed a Settlement Agreement and Release (Agreement), which the Administrative Law Judge sent to the Commissioner with a recommendation for approval.

Upon review of the terms of the proposed Agreement, the Commissioner rejects same because the parties wish to apply a six-month suspension retroactively – from October 5, 2016 to April 7, 2017 – and the record below is devoid of affirmation from the parties that the respondent was not employed as a teacher elsewhere during the proposed suspension period above. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, the Commissioner may suspend a teacher's certificate for up to one year for wrongful cessation of performance of her duties. The central purpose of the statute is to ensure proper notice to the school to deter the disruption of services and adverse impact on the students when teachers abruptly resign. See Penns Grove-Carney's Point Board of Education v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 405, 407. As the parties in this matter have agreed to retroactive suspension of respondent's certificate, the Commissioner may – at her discretion – consider the proposed suspension, provided that respondent remained unemployed as a teacher for the duration of the suspension, and has attested to same by way of an affidavit. In the absence of any affirmation from the respondent in this regard, the Commissioner cannot approve the within settlement.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the Agreement or for further proceedings consistent with the concerns set forth above.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 18002-16

AGENCY DKT. NO. 299-11/16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE(S) OF VINCENT J. VITIELLO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

Amanda N. Castrogiovanni, Esq., for petitioner Edison Township Board of Education (Busch Law Group, attorneys)

Vincent J. Vitiello, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: May 1, 2017 Decided: May 2, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

Petitioner, the Edison Township Board of Education (the Board), seeks the suspension of the teaching certificate of respondent Vincent J. Vitiello. The Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on November 29, 2016, for hearing as a contested case. A telephone prehearing conference was held on January 6, 2017, during which a hearing date was discussed and scheduled for May 19, 2017. Prior to the scheduled hearing, under letter dated April 28, 2017, counsel for the Board submitted the attached Agreement and Release indicating the terms of agreement between the parties.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This AGREEMENT AND RELEASE (the "Agreement") is made this 27 day of February, 2017 by and between the Edison Township Board of Education, including members, officers, agents, attorneys, administrators, employees, representatives, agents, affiliates, subsidiaries, successors, or assigns (the "Board") and Vincent Vitiello, including his agents, representatives, assigns, heirs and successors ("Mr. Vitiello") (collectively referred to as the "Parties").

WHEREAS, Vincent Vitiello ("Mr. Vitiello") was a tenured teacher employed by the Edison Township Board of Education (the "Board"); and

WHEREAS, On or about May 4, 2016, the Board passed a resolution confirming Mr. Vitiello's reappointment to the teaching position for the 2016-2017 school year; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Vitiello notified the Board on September 13, 2016 via electronic correspondence that he intended to retire effective October 5, 2016; and

WHEREAS, Peter Pittuco, Director of Personnel ("Mr. Pittuco"), informed Mr. Vitiello on September 14, 2016, via electronic correspondence, of Mr. Vitiello's contractual and statutory obligations to provide 60 days' notice; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Vitiello relinquished his position on October 5, 2016; and

WHEREAS, on or about October 21, 2016 the Board filed with the Acting Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education an Order to Show Cause compelling Mr. Vitiello to explain why the Commissioner should not suspend his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct (retirement without sufficient notice), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the costs, expenses, delays, and uncertainties of the hearing process and/or civil litigation, the Parties hereto wish to fully and finally settle and resolve any and all claims which have been and/or could have been asserted by the Board;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the Parties incorporate the above recitals and agree as follows:

1. Suspension. Mr. Vitiello's teaching certificate shall be suspended for a period of six (6) months. The six (6) month suspension shall have a retroactive initiation date of October 5, 2016 and continue through April 5, 2017.

2. Withdraw Pending Action. The Board agrees to send a letter to the Honorable Michael Antoniewicz within five (5) days from receipt of a fully executed copy of the herein

Agreement, withdrawing OAL Docket number EDU 18002-2016 N, Agency Reference number 299-11-16, In The Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate(s) of Vincent J. Vitiello / School District of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County within.

3. Compromise/No Admission of Liability. The Parties understand, represent, and warrant that this Agreement is not an admission of wrongdoing or liability by or on the part of any Party.

4. Release. Mr. Vitiello hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waives, releases and forever discharges any and all claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which he has or may have against the Board, in any venue, as well as any of its members, officers, agents, attorneys, administrators, employees or representatives, related in any way to his employment with the Board or retirement therefrom, and in respect of, any and all charges, promises, actions, causes of action, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, complaints, claims, counterclaims, liabilities, obligations, suits, demands, grievances, arbitrations, costs, losses, sums of money, accounts, bills, judgment, executions, damages, debts and expenses, including attorneys' fees and costs, of any nature or description whatsoever, in law or in equity, asserted or unasserted, express or implied, foreseen or unforeseen, real or imaginary, suspected or unsuspected, known or unknown, liquidated or non-liquidated, of any kind or nature or description whatsoever, arising from the beginning of the world to the effective date of this Agreement, including but not limited to any claim under State or Federal law for discrimination based on age, race, gender, disability or any other actual or perceived characteristic. To the extent that Mr. Vitiello is authorized by law to file a claim or complaint with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or any other such institution, Mr. Vitiello additionally and specifically waives any right to receive monetary damages as a result of such claim or complaint. With respect to his waiver of any and all potential age discrimination or similar claims hereunder, Mr. Vitiello understands that he has twenty-one (21) days to consider this Agreement and shall have seven (7) days after signing the agreement to reconsider and revoke his signature, though such revocation shall relieve the Board of any duty to abide by its obligations herein.

5. Enforceability and Severability. The Parties agree and acknowledge that each of the provisions of this Agreement are reasonable and should be fully enforceable, and the Parties waive any right to argue, assert or allege any claim to the contrary. However, if any provision of this Agreement is determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable because it is overbroad or unreasonable, the Parties agree that such provision(s) shall be modified and enforced to the maximum extent permissible. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid and cannot be modified so as to make it enforceable, then such provision shall be deemed to be severed from the Agreement and the remaining provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

6. Mutual Non-Disclosure and Non-Disparagement Agreement. The Parties agree that the terms and existence of this Agreement shall not be disclosed to any third party, unless required by law. Further, the Parties agree that they shall not make any disparaging remarks (verbally or in writing) to any third party (or via social media) about and/or concerning each other.

7. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the sole and complete agreement among the Parties with respect to the subject matters hereof.

8. Drafting and Negotiation by Counsel. The drafting and negotiating of this Agreement have been participated in by each of the Parties and their respective counsel and/or representatives and, for all purposes, this Agreement shall be deemed to have been drafted jointly by each of the Parties. The Parties hereby acknowledge that they have been represented by counsel, or any other representative of their choice, throughout the Action, throughout the negotiation of this Agreement, and at the execution of this Agreement, and have read and consulted with counsel, or their chosen representative, regarding this Agreement. To the extent any party chose not to consult with counsel and/or a representative, such a decision was made knowingly and voluntarily and said party expressly agrees that they were given ample opportunity to confer with counsel and/or a representative, but chose not to, and therefore waives their right to argue, at a later date, that they did not understand the terms of this Agreement because they did not confer with counsel and/or a representative.

9. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be construed under, subject to, and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

10. Costs of Additional Litigation. If the Board is forced to incur any fees to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or to recover damages pursuant to this Agreement, or to defend any actions brought by Mr. Vitiello, or by the Edison Township Education Association with the assistance of and/or participation in by Mr. Vitiello, contrary to the terms of the Agreement, the Board shall be entitled to recover, from Mr. Vitiello, all attorneys' fees and costs expended.

Re: Board of Education of the Red Bank Regional High School District, Monmouth County v. A.B., on behalf of minor child, T.B., Agency Dkt. No. 59-3/17

Dear Parties:

Upon review of the Petition of Appeal filed in connection with this matter and based upon the respondent's failure to submit an Answer to the Petition that complies with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5, I have determined to grant summary decision in favor of the petitioner.

On March 28, 2017 the Board filed its Petition of Appeal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1 seeking an order assessing tuition and claiming that minor child, T.B., was not entitled to attend school in the district for 92 days – between September 6, 2016 and January 31, 2017 – during the 2016-2017 school year, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. A copy of the petition was served upon respondent on March 28, 2017 via certified mail, regular mail, and hand delivery, to both known addresses for respondent. An acknowledgment of filing and notice – dated March 28, 2017 – that an Answer to the Petition was due within 20 days was also sent to the respondent. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5.

When A.B. failed to respond to the initial notice, a second notice was sent on April 19, 2017, via certified and regular mail, clearly indicating that – absent receipt of an Answer to the Petition within 10 days -- each count in the Petition would be deemed admitted and the matter may be decided on a summary basis pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(c). According to information obtained from the U.S. Postal Service, the copy sent via certified mail was not claimed, but the copy sent via regular mail was never returned to this office. A.B., nevertheless, failed to respond to the second notice. A third and final notice was sent to A.B. via certified and regular mail on May 23, 2017, reiterating the information contained within the prior notice. Again, the certified mail was returned as "unclaimed", but the regular mail was never returned to this office.

To date, no Answer has been filed on behalf of respondent. Accordingly, petitioner's claim that T.B. was not entitled to attend school in the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. is deemed admitted. It is hereby ordered that respondent reimburse the petitioner $7,099.64[1] in tuition costs for T.B.'s ineligible attendance in the district for 92 days – from September 6, 2016 through to January 31, 2017 – during the 2016-2017 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Sincerely,

Kimberly Harrington

VIA REGULAR MAIL & CERTIFIED MAIL

[1] The tuition is assessed based on the number of days T.B. attended school as an ineligible student. The Board has certified that the annual cost of tuition is $14,200 and there are a total of 184 school days, which makes the per day cost $77.17. Therefore, $7,099.64 is the total tuition owed for 92 days.

Re: J.S., on behalf of minor child, A.S. v. Board of Education of the Township of Monroe, Middlesex County, Agency Dkt. No. 92-4/15, Commissioner Decision No. 127-16.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with petitioner J.S.'s Motion for Reconsideration of the Acting Commissioner's April 5, 2016 decision ordering the petitioner to reimburse the Monroe Township Board of Education $18,706.47 in tuition costs for her minor child A.S.'s period of ineligible attendance in the district.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2), a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that petitioner's request for reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision was filed significantly out of time, which alone serves as sufficient basis for denying petitioner's request.[1]

Notwithstanding, petitioner has also failed to satisfy any of the requisites for granting such relief specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2). The petitioner does not argue that she has satisfied any of the requirements for reconsideration, nor has she provided new evidence to refute the finding that she was not domiciled in Monroe Township during the period in question – the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years.

Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.[2]

Sincerely,

Kimberly Harrington

Union City, New Jersey 07087

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sabino Valdes, Board of Education of the City of Union, Hudson County, Agency Dkt. No.328-9/00.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with Sabino Valdes' motion to reopen the above referenced matter. The Commissioner notes that this is Mr. Valdes' third motion to reopen the tenure charges that were filed against him by the Union City Board of Education in September 2000.[1] Mr. Valdes filed his first motion to reopen in April 2014, which was denied by the Commissioner in a decision dated June 14, 2014. Mr. Valdes then filed his second motion to reopen in August 2016, which was denied by the Commissioner in a decision dated November 3, 2016. The Commissioner's November 3, 2016 decision is pending appeal before the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Pursuant to New Jersey Court Rule 2:9-1(a), "the supervision and control of the proceedings on appeal or certification shall be in the appellate court from the time the appeal is taken or the notice of petition for certification is filed." As Mr. Valdes has filed a Notice of Appeal with the Appellate Division relating to his second request to reopen the tenure matter, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to consider Mr. Valdes' duplicate motion to reopen.

[1] The third motion to reopen contains substantially the same facts and issues raised in Mr. Valdes' previous motions.

Even if the Commissioner was deemed to have jurisdiction in this matter, upon review and consideration of the parties' submissions, I find that Mr. Valdes has failed to establish good cause to reopen the tenure charges filed against him by the Board, and he did not make such request with reasonable time or diligence. It is well-established that administrative agencies have an inherent authority to reconsider, reopen or revise a prior decision made by the agency. A motion to reopen, however, will only be granted when good cause is shown and the motion is made with reasonable time or diligence. See Duvin v. State of New Jersey, Dep't of the Treasury, Public Employees' Retirement System, 76 N.J. 203, 207 (1978); see also Skulski v. Nolan, 68 N.J. 179 (1975) and Ruvoldt v. Nolan, 63 N.J. 171 (1973).

As a preliminary matter, Mr. Valdes' first motion to reopen was filed 12 years after the State Board of Education's August 4, 2004 decision was issued, affirming the decision to remove Mr. Valdes from his tenured employment with the District for insubordination and unbecoming conduct. Significantly, his subsequent submissions asserted the same arguments and unsubstantiated claims of fraud, collusion, and conspiracy.[2] In his present motion, Mr. Valdes has not provided any new evidence nor has he alleged the existence of any new information that was not previously argued throughout the protracted litigation of this matter. Mr. Valdes has, however, raised a "new" issue relating to an old document – the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Interlocutory Order of August 9, 2001. Mr. Valdes argues that the Order is "void" because the Commissioner and the State Board affirmed the ALJ's Initial Decision without reviewing and affirming the Order.[3]

When the Commissioner reviews an initial decision from the OAL, the entire record below is also reviewed. The Commissioner, therefore, reviews any orders or rulings entered by an ALJ – such as a denial of a motion to dismiss – after an initial decision has been rendered. This, however, does not mean that the Commissioner is required to independently or separately "affirm" such orders or rulings. Significantly, review and affirmation (or rejection) of any orders or rulings made by the ALJ during the pendency of the litigation is subsumed in the Commissioner's final decision in the matter. Implicit in the Commissioner's adoption of the ALJ's Initial Decision in this matter – based on the review of the record below, as indicated in the Commissioner's June 24, 2003 decision – is the fact that the Commissioner was in accord with the ALJ's August 9, 2001 ruling on Mr. Valdes' motion to dismiss. Notwithstanding, the August 9, 2001 Order had no bearing on the ultimate outcome of the case; therefore, the arguments raised by Mr. Valdes in his current motion do not amount to new evidence or information that would suggest a need to revisit the tenure charges filed against him in 2000. Accordingly, it is evident that no good cause has been shown to compel the reopening of this case after more than a decade.

[2] Over the course of the last 17 years, the various allegations and issues raised by Mr. Valdes – including his persistent reliance on the 45-day argument – have been exhaustively addressed and rejected by different tribunals.

[3] The August 9, 2001 Order and decision of the ALJ denied Mr. Valdes' motion to dismiss the tenure charges filed against him. No review was sought with the Commissioner – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 – of the ALJ's August 9, 2001 Order. Consequently, the matter proceeded to hearing and an initial decision was issued by the ALJ at the conclusion of the case before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

For all of the foregoing reasons, the third motion to reopen the tenure charges filed against Mr. Valdes by the Union City Board of Education is hereby DENIED.[4]

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se petition appealing the determination of the respondent Board that his daughter, K.E., was not domiciled in West Orange, and therefore not entitled to a free public education in the West Orange school district. Petitioner contended that he had leased a property in West Orange where he and his daughter were domiciled; further, the petitioner testified that he had purchased a home in West Orange on May 10, 2017, six days before the hearing in this matter. The Board alleged that a residency investigation had shown that C.E. and K.E. live at an address in East Orange. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of K.E.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony provided by the Board's witnesses was credible, while that of petitioner was not; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1), a student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district; the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of her parent or guardian; in the instant case, C.E. contested the Board's decision that K.E. was not properly domiciled in West Orange; the testimony of the Board's residency inspector and the results of the investigation were credible and indicated that K.E. and her father were domiciled out-of-district in East Orange, but continued to attend school in West Orange during the 2016-2017 school year; and the cost of tuition for K.E. in West Orange schools for the 2016-2017 school year was $17,069. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner was not a domiciliary of West Orange for the 2016-2017 school year and was therefore ineligible to attend West Orange public schools; accordingly, the respondent Board is entitled to reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $17,069.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

AGENCY REF. NO. 324-12/16

C.E. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, K.E.,

v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF WEST ORANGE,
Respondent.

C.E., pro se

Frances Febres, Esq., for respondent (Cleary Giacobbe Alfieri Jacobs, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 16, 2017 Decided: May 18, 2017

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, C.E. filed an appeal on behalf of his daughter K.E. from the determination of the respondent, West Orange, Board of Education (West Orange) that she is not domiciled in its district. West Orange counterclaims for tuition reimbursement.

Petitioner filed an appeal with the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) on December 20, 2016. West Orange filed an Answer on January 13, 2017.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on January 12, 2017. Respondent filed a motion to amend its answer to include a counterclaim for tuition reimbursement on February 23, 2017. The motion was granted without opposition on March 6, 2017. The hearing was held on May 16, 2017 at which time I closed the record.

The following facts are not in dispute. Based upon the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, I FIND the following FACTS:

Gerard Drappi is a residency investigator for West Orange. He was previously a police officer for thirty years. He began an investigation on whether K.E. was a resident of West Orange because a letter was received by West Orange questioning K.E.'s residency. K.E.'s address was listed as 2 Seaman Road, West Orange, NJ on her student registration. A letter signed by D.E. the brother of C.E. dated August 19, 2015 stated that K.E. and C.E. lived with him at 2 Seaman Road, West Orange. The certificate of residency included the letter from D.E., a PSE&G bill and a pay stub.

Drappi began his investigation on October 7, 2016. He went to the Seaman Road address on that day and did not see K.E. leave the house. From October 7, 2016 to December 1, 2016, Drappi did not see K.E. enter or exit the Seaman Road address. During this time, he saw petitioners exiting the address on Norwood Street in East Orange before school.

A postal Freedom of Information request for C.E. showed his address as --- Norwood Road, East Orange, NJ. A record search of C.E.'s email address and the address connected to his phone number revealed C.E.'s address as --- Norwood Street, East Orange, NJ. A motor vehicle search on a vehicle with a license plate number of --- 5-5 which Drappi had seen C.E. primarily use revealed that the vehicle was registered to A.G. of Clifton, NJ. A subsequent motor vehicle search of license plate number P— E-X showed the vehicle to be owned by C.E. and registered at the same Norwood Street in East Orange.

Drappi went to the Seaman Road address on December 1, 2016 to deliver a letter regarding a residency hearing. At that time the house was vacant. Drappi contacted the sheriff's foreclosure unit and determined that the 2 Seaman Road address had been foreclosed on by the bank on September 1, 2015, which made the bank the owner of the property as of September 1, 2016. C.E. admitted that he left the Seaman Avenue address in September 2016 due to his brother being forced out of the house because of the foreclosure.

The notice of the meeting was given to K.E. at school with C.E.' s consent. At the December 6, 2016 Board meeting regarding K.E.'s residency, C.E. told Drappi that they had moved to East Orange. He also stated that he leased an apartment in West Orange at -- Washington Street, Unit One and provided a copy of a lease.

West Orange removed K.E. contingent on proof that petitioners were residing in West Orange. The removal letter stated, among other things, that if in his appeal C.E. could not sustain the burden of demonstrating entitlement of K.E. to attend school in West Orange, he would be required to pay tuition. K.E. was in the seventh grade during the 2016-2017 school year. The tuition rate for a student in the seventh grade during the 2016-2017 school year is $17,069.

The lease provided by C.E. stated that the owner of the property was Reggie Scott/ Transcon Bay Group. Drappi contacted the property manager at -- Washington Street and was informed that the property was in foreclosure. The bank appointed Blue Asset Management to manage the property. James Boyle a representative of Blue Asset Management was the actual property manager. Drappi spoke to Boyle who informed him the Reggie Scott was a tenant who leased a garage and a storefront. Scott did not have the authority to sublet. In addition, Unit One was a commercial unit, and was in disrepair and uninhabitable in and around December 2016.

Blue Asset Management did not lease any unit to C.E. Blue Asset Management did not draft the lease agreement that C.E. gave Drappi on December 6, 2016. Boyle never saw C.E. at the Washington Street address in West Orange. Petitioner never moved into the Washington Street address because he was informed by West Orange that Reggie Smith/ Transcon Bay Group did not own the property.

Drappi did a search with the New Jersey Department of the Treasury Division of Revenue Enterprise Services because C.E. stated that he had several businesses. The search showed that C.E. had approximately six businesses, all of which listed his address as the Norwood Avenue in East Orange, NJ.

C.E. testified that he had purchased a house at 12 Wildwood Avenue in West Orange, NJ on May 10, 2017. He stated that the seller was Wildwood Associates with the agent being Oscar Meurma. He stated that he knew Meurma through Reggie Scott and through real estate deals. He did not do a title search or a home inspection. No attorney assisted him with the purchase. C.E. further testified that he changed his driver's license to list his address as 12 Wildwood Avenue in West Orange. C.E. provided West Orange with documents regarding 12 Wildwood Avenue. He stated that the Notice to Buyer and Seller was prepared by the title company whose name he does not know. Page thirteen of the contract has a signature of C.E. as the buyer but no signature of the seller. C.E. acquired the tax record from the city, which lists Steve Tischler as the owner of the property. C.E. stated that Steve Tischler sold the property to Meurma, but there is no record of that.

The Actual owner of 12 Wildwood Avenue per the tax assessor's office is Steve Tischler, who purchased the property on April 12, 2010. A MLS listings for 12 Wildwood Avenue, West Orange, NJ showed that the property was listed for sale and the agent was James Boyle. Drappi spoke to James Boyle who was the listing agent for the property. James Boyle told Drappi that the property was under contract but not to C.E. Boyle had never heard of C.E.

Considering the contradictory testimony presented by respondent's witness and petitioner, the resolution of this matter requires that I make credibility determinations regarding the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witness's testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 60 N.J. 546 (1974); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness even though not contradicted when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521-22 (1950); see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses it is my view that Drappi and Boyle were credible. Their testimony was truthful and accurate. They did not have anything to gain by their testimony. Their testimony was consistent with the documents that were presented. C.E. was not credible. He testified that he knew Meurma from real estate business but testified that he did not know the name of the title company he contracted to purchase a house from just five days before the hearing. He did not do a title search on the property that he was about to purchase although he has a real estate background. At the December 6, 2016 residency hearing and at the present hearing C.E. provided what he stated were leases to premises he was going to rent or own in West Orange. Both documents were dated a few days before the hearing dates and neither of the documents were accurate. The owners of both premises had never heard of C.E. and did not lease or sell the properties to C.E.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

In support of its claim for tuition, respondent produced residency inspector Drappi, who testified in its behalf. The results of the investigation supported the finding that K.E. and her father, C.E. are domiciled out-of-district, but continued to attend public schools in the district for the 2016-2017 school year. The cost of tuition for K.E. for the 2016-2017 school year is $17,069.

West Orange asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the period of K.E.'s ineligible enrollment the 2016-2017 school year. Whereas here, the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b) likewise requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners were not a domiciliary in the West Orange School District for the 2016-2017 school year and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of audited tuition in the amount of $17,069.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and his daughter were not residents and domiciliary in West Orange, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within its school district during the 2016-2017 school year is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent be reimbursed tuition from petitioner in the amount of $17,069.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 23-2/16

G.P. AND I.R.-P., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, A.P.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	ORDER
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On December 15, 2016, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found G.P. and I.R.-P. liable for tuition in the amount of Five Thousand Eight Hundred Ninety One Dollars and Seventy Cents ($5,891.70), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by their child, A.P., in the Board's school district between October 26, 2015 and March 16, 2016. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that G.P. and I.R.-P. had failed to comply with the decision, and requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessments on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. G.P. and I.R.-P. offered no reasons why the judgment against them should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Gaetano Pensavalle and Irma Rivera-Pensavalle are now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $5,891.70, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION :

OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE : DECISION

TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY. :

In October 2016, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order to Show Cause requiring respondent to show cause why an order should not be entered suspending his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, for resigning his position without giving the required 60 day notice. The respondent – a non-tenured teacher – contended that he did not have a contract for the 2016-2017 school year, and was therefore not obligated to provide a 60 day notice. The Board contended that – while no formal contract for the 2016-2017 school year was offered to Mr. Baeza – a June 20, 2016 letter rescinding respondent's non-renewal created an implied contract.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides, in pertinent part, that any teaching staff member "who shall, without the consent of the board...cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year"; in this case, respondent was initially employed by the petitioning Board as a middle school science teacher in March 2016, under a "Contingency Employment Contract" which expired on June 30, 2016; in May 2016, respondent received a letter from the Board informing him that his employment would not be renewed for reasons of economy; in June 2016, respondent received a second letter from the Board stating that his non-renewal was rescinded, but he received no formal contract for his review and signature; respondent received two letters in August of 2016 regarding the beginning of the school year and classroom setup, but again did not receive a written contract; the second of these letters clearly indicated that respondent's employment was contingent upon Board approval at a scheduled meeting on August 17; since respondent had still not received a formal contract for the 2016-2017 school year by late August, he accepted an offer of employment in the Paterson School District. The ALJ concluded that the respondent had no formal offer of employment for the 2016-2017 school year, but rather received a flurry of mixed messages, including: a non-renewal letter, a rescission of that letter, and a letter advising that his reemployment remained contingent on board approval. Respondent's conduct in accepting a formal contract offered by another school district was reasonable and did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Accordingly, the petitioning Board's request that the Commissioner suspend the respondent's teaching certificate was denied.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION	:
OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that respondent did not enter into an employment contract with the Board for the 2016-2017 school year, and therefore acted reasonably in accepting new employment. As such, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ that respondent's certificate should not be suspended pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 because he is not guilty of unprofessional conduct.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 18362-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 282-10/16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF CARLOS BAEZA, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF IRVINGTON, ESSEX COUNTY.

Yadira Duran, Esq., for petitioner (Hunt Hamlin and Ridley, attorneys)

Carlos Baeza, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: May 25, 2017 Decided: May 25, 2017

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, the Irvington School District (Irvington), seeks an order suspending respondent's teaching certificate for a period of one year, contending that he resigned from his teaching position with inadequate notice. Respondent, Carlos Baeza, replies that he had not been given a contract of employment for the 2016-2017 school year, and thus accepted alternative employment. Baeza asserts that his actions in no way violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

On or about October 3, 2016, at the request of Irvington, the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) entered an Order directing Baeza to show cause why his teaching certificate should not be suspended for unprofessional conduct, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Baeza filed an answer on December 2, 2016. On December 5, 2016, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. A hearing was conducted on May 25, 2017, at which time the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts are not in dispute and I FIND:

Baeza holds certification issued by the Department of Education as a teacher of elementary and middle school science. He was initially employed by Irvington in March 2016 to serve as science teacher in the seventh and eighth grades at University Middle School. He was employed pursuant to a "Contingency Employment Contract" dated February 17, 2016; his contract expired on June 30, 2016.

On May 11, 2016, Baeza and every other non-tenured staff member received an email from the Superintendent of Schools advising that their employment would not be renewed. The email cited budgetary constraints, and urged that the non-renewal was not performance related. Superintendent Neely Hackett explained that a proposed move to a new health plan could potentially ease these budgetary restrictions; that the legality of the proposed change was under review; and that she hoped to be able to rescind the non-renewals in the coming weeks.

Baeza again heard from the district via a letter from the Human Resources Department dated June 20, 2016, advising that his non-renewal had been "rescinded as of the date of this letter." But Baeza received no formal contract for his review and signature. By letter dated August 12, 2016, the principal of University Middle School shared information about the coming year; indicated that staff were required to report on September 6, 2016; and would be able to set up their classrooms during the week of August 29, 2016. Baeza received this letter, but again, received no contract of employment. By letter dated August 17, 2016, the Irvington Schools Office of Government Programs advised that there would be a two-day orientation on August 31 and September 1, 2016. Baeza received this letter, but again, no contract of employment. And this latter letter states, quite unequivocally, "that [his] employment is contingent on Board approval at the scheduled Board of Education meeting on August 17, 2016."

Counsel for the school district confirmed that no formal contract was ever offered to Baeza, urging that the June 20, 2016, letter rescinding his non-renewal created an implied contract. As for whether Baeza's employment was approved by the Board on August 17, 2016, as noted in the letter of the same date, counsel had no knowledge whether his employment was approved by the Board that night, or any night before or after.

As a science teacher, Baeza's services are in demand. Late in August 2016, he was approached with an offer of employment by the Paterson Schools. Having not yet received a contract, or any indication that the Board had approved his employment for the 2016-2017 school year, he accepted the position in Paterson. Via email sent on August 30, 2016, Baeza advised that, "as I had received no formal notice of my continuance at University Middle School, please be advised that I will not be returning to teach this academic year, as I had to make other arrangements for employment." Hackett replied that he "most certainly did receive notice and...will be held to [his] 60-day requirement." She asked for a letter of resignation. By reply email sent September 6, 2016, Baeza stated he had no intention of resigning as there was no employment from which to resign. He pointed out that his contract expired June 30, 2016, and he had not received a successor contract.

The district called Baeza himself as its only witness, and offered no evidence that Baeza's conduct caused any inconvenience or disruption to the public schools.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 provides that "[a]ny teaching staff member employed by a board of education . . . who shall, without the consent of the board . . . , cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may, upon receiving notice thereof, suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year." See also N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9. The Commissioner has held that the central purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is "to provide notice to the school so that a suitable replacement can be hired without adversely impacting students." Penns Grove-Carneys Point Bd. of Educ. v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 405, 407. The decision to suspend a teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 is discretionary and the Commissioner has historically evaluated all circumstances specific to an individual case. Black Horse Pike Reg'l Sch. Dist. v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 821; In re Capshaw, EDU 12318-06, Initial Decision (April 30, 2007), modified, Comm'r (June 12, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; East Amwell Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Acken, 1986 S.L.D. 2803.

For a non-tenured staff member like Baeza, the inquiry regarding whether there has been a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 must commence with an understanding of the "the term of his employment." The contractual understanding between the parties thus becomes the critical reference point. A binding contract is formed between two parties when there is a meeting of the minds evidenced by a written offer and an unconditional written acceptance. Morton v. 4 Orchard Land Trust, 180 N.J. 118, 129–30 (2004) (citing Johnson and Johnson v. Charmley Drug Co., 11 N.J. 526, 538–39 (1953)). Here, Baeza did not terminate his employment before the expiration of the term of his employment, because he had no contract, and thus, no term of employment. Irvington's argument that an implied contract was created by the rescission of its non-renewal notice is devoid of merit.

Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-5 makes it clear that a contract of employment must be in writing. And N.J.S.A. 18A:27-6 requires that such contracts specify a start date; the kind of certificate required; the salary; and "such other matters as may be necessary to a full and complete understanding of the contract." These statutory provisions echo the well accepted view that a contract must evidence the mutual understanding by the parties of its essential terms. A letter simply stating that an employee's non-renewal has been rescinded meets none of these requirements, and cannot be held to form a binding contract, as Irvington suggests.

Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A: 27-10 required the school district to non-renew Baeza on or before May 15, or give him a contract by that date. And Irvington did timely non-renew him. Only if it had not, would Baeza have had any absolute expectation of continued employment, as N.J.S.A. 18A: 27-11 provides that in the absence of timely notice of non-renewal the school district "shall be deemed to have offered to that teaching staff member continued employment for the next succeeding school year upon the same terms and conditions but with such increases in salary as required by law or policies of the board of education."

I thus agree with Baeza that he had no formal offer of employment for the 2016-2017 school year and instead, a flurry of mixed messages, to include, a non-renewal letter; a recession of that letter; and a letter advising that his reemployment remained contingent on board approval. Like most Americans, Baeza needed a job, so he did what anyone under the circumstances would have done, he accepted a formal contract offered by another school district. I CONCLUDE that his conduct was eminently reasonable, and did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A: 26-10.

I fully recognize that teaching is a unique occupation where a change in personnel can affect many young lives.[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 confirms that a dedicated teacher must always put his students first, and resigning teachers must afford as much notice as administration feels is needed to ensure that education will continue uninterrupted. But the statute makes it plain that the non-tenured employee's professional obligations are those established by the "term of employment" agreed upon by the parties, and not by any intrinsic notion of professionalism. An employing school is thus obliged to offer a non-tenured staff member an actual contract, and not an implied one, if it expects that staff member to feel obliged to report to work at the start of a new school year.

[1] While I am willing to take judicial notice of the fact that a change in teacher creates added work for administration, the school district is cautioned for the future that it is obliged to offer evidence of actual disruption to the district and its students in a proceeding of this kind. Each circumstance is unique. Here, Baeza left before he met his students, and it is surely possible that the district immediately found a replacement, thus causing little or no disruption to the classroom. Or conversely, it might have taken the district months to replace him. The burden is on the school district to prove disruption. And the penalty imposed may vary, based on the disruption created by the teacher's conduct.

Finally, I am compelled to point out that both the administrative law judge and the Commissioner roundly rejected the identical arguments when they were previously raised by Irvington in In Re Canela, Irvington School District, EDU 17209-16, Initial Decision (January 12, 2017), aff'd Commissioner (February 23, 2017), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. It is noteworthy that there too, the district cited N.J.S.A. 18:28-8 in it petition, which was inapplicable there, and is likewise inapplicable here, as that statute governs the obligations of tenured staff members.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the request by the Irvington Public Schools that the Commissioner suspend the teaching certificate of Carlos Baeza pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 26-10 is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HAMILTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT	:

On June 10, 2016, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein, the Commissioner dismissed the petition of appeal with prejudice, finding that dismissal of the petition was proper due to T.G.'s failure to appear and prosecute on the rescheduled hearing date of April 14, 2016.[1] The Commissioner assessed petitioner, Tracy Green, $46,998.62 in tuition costs for T.S. and T.S. for the period of ineligible attendance, plus each day beyond April 14, 2016 that T.S. and T.S. remained enrolled in the District's schools. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner had failed to reimburse respondent as directed in the final decision, and has requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Petitioner offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity to do so by this agency.

[1] Petitioner had previously failed to appear for the original hearing date of January 4, 2016, and subsequently requested that the hearing be rescheduled. However, petitioner again did not appear at the April 14, 2016 hearing, and also failed to provide an explanation for her non-appearance and lack of prosecution.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Tracy Green is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $46.998.62,[2] which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Re: West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District, Mercer County v. New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Agency Dkt. No. 113-6/17

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with the petition of appeal and motion for emergent relief filed by the petitioner, West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School District (District), in the above-captioned matter. The District is appealing the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying its request for a hearing before the Executive Committee in connection with the May 23, 2017 Board Resolution, permitting West Windsor-Plainsboro students to participate in co-curricular and/or athletic programs at the other District high school when such programs are not offered at their school of residence.

The District contends that it began having concerns that it may not be able to maintain separate football programs at the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School North (HSN), which is classified as Group III school, and West Windsor-Plainfield High School South (HSS), which is classified as Group IV school. As a result, the District sought to establish a cooperative agreement for football whereby there would be one football team for the 2017-2018 school year that would be comprised of students from both HSN and HSS.[1] However, Article III, Section 10 of NJSIAA's Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations prohibits cooperative football agreements by a Group III football program. Therefore, the District applied to the West Jersey Football League (WJFL) to request a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation and the approval of a cooperative football agreement between HSN and HSS for the 2017-2018 school year.[2] The WJFL denied the District's request, citing various reasons why the waiver would not only impact other schools in the WJFL conference but also all schools in the state.

[1] The District contends that it was seeking a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation based upon several factors, including: the lack of a robust feeder program; decreasing enrollment; decreasing student interest; fear of sports injury and concussions; and the District's inability to run sub-varsity programs.

[2] The District also appeared before the NJSIAA Executive Committee to present its request to advance proposed legislation regarding a formal change to the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws to allow Groups III, IV, and V to enter into a cooperative agreement for football under specific provisions.

The District appealed the WJFL's decision to the NJSIAA League and Conference Committee. Following a hearing on May 23, 2017, the League and Conference Committee denied the District's request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation. The District could have appealed that decision to the Executive Committee in accordance with Article XII, Section 5 of the Bylaws.[3] Instead, later that day, the District passed a Board Resolution that permitted District students to participate in co-curricular and/or athletic programs at the other District high school when such programs are not offered at their school of residence. The Board Resolution effectively allowed the cooperative agreement for football that is expressly prohibited by the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws and was the subject of the waiver request that was denied by the League and Controversies Committees.

On May 24, 2017, the Board informed the NJSIAA's Executive Committee of the Board Resolution and requested a hearing before the Executive Committee on the Resolution's immediate enactment. The District sought to have an immediate decision from the Executive Committee under Article XII, Section 6 of the Bylaws, which permits the Executive Committee to hear a controversy and render a decision in "emergent circumstances where time will not permit a controversy to be heard by the Controversies Committee." The NJSIAA denied the District's request for another hearing, stating that the substance of the Board Resolution was already the subject of a hearing before the League and Conference Committee.[4] The NJSIAA also noted that the District's desire to have the Executive Committee act on the Board Resolution does not amount to a "complaint, protest or dispute" that would entitle the District to review by the Executive Committee under Article XII, Section 4 of the NJSIAA's Bylaws.

The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1).

Additionally, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

Upon review of the parties' submissions, I find that the District has failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief because the District has not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits.[5] More specifically, the District has not made a preliminary showing that the NJSIAA applied its rules in an arbitrary or unreasonable manner when it denied the District's request for a hearing and immediate action on the Board Resolution based on the fact that the substance of the resolution was already decided by the League and Conference Committee after an extensive hearing.

[3] Pursuant to Article XII, Section 5 of the Bylaws, "[a]ny party [that] is aggrieved by any decision of the Controversies Committee ... may appeal to the Executive Committee ... [whereby] the Executive Committee shall serve as an appellate body, and the appeal shall be limited to the record developed before the Controversies Committee."

The District contends that the NJSIAA has failed and/or refused to take action with respect to the Board Resolution that would establish one football team comprised of students from both HSN and HSS for the 2017-2018 school year. Although the District has attempted to characterize the Board Resolution as a separate action from its request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation, it is evident that the application of the Board Resolution to football has already been decided and denied by the League and Conference Committee.[6] Certainly without the NJSIAA granting a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation, the adoption of the Board Resolution is meaningless with respect to football.[7] A board of education cannot simply pass a resolution as a mechanism to circumvent the NJSIAA's Constitution and Bylaws; and it is undisputed that the NJSIAA Bylaws prohibit Group III schools from entering into a cooperative agreement for football. There is also nothing in the record to suggest on emergent relief that the NJSIAA's determination that the District's desire to have the Executive Committee act on the Board Resolution does not amount to a "complaint, protest or dispute" under Article XII, Section 4 of the NJSIAA's Bylaws.

In light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors. Accordingly, the District's request for emergent relief and an Order granting the immediate enactment of the Board's Resolution is hereby denied.

Sincerely,

Peter Shulman
Deputy Commissioner[8]

[5] This is not a decision on the merits of the NJSIAA's denial of the District's request for a waiver of the Cooperative Sports Program Regulation, but rather a decision on the NJSIAA's denial of the District's request for a hearing before the Executive Committee and the immediate enactment of the Board Resolution.

[6] The District was afforded the requisite due process in connection with the waiver request. Not only did the WJFL review the waiver request, but the League and Conference Committee also held a hearing during which the District had an opportunity to present testimony and thoroughly present its arguments in favor of the waiver.

[7] Not all sports are treated the same in the Cooperative Sports Programs Regulation.

BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ

Petitioners challenge the Board's Harassment Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) determination of October 26, 2015.

The Department of Education transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14f-1 TO 13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 24, 2016.

The parties have voluntarily agreed to resolve all disputed matters and have entered into a settlement as set forth in the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Board Resolution.

I have reviewed the terms of the settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures and/or the signature of their respective representatives on the attached settlement agreement; and,
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this Stipulation of Settlement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

CONFIDENTIAL SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT WITH MUTUAL GENERAL RELEASES

WHEREAS, on or about September 28, 2015, a Complaint alleging actions of harassment, intimidation, and bullying ("HIB") was filed with New Providence High School, one of the schools under the governance of the New Providence Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as "Board" or "Respondent"); and

WHEREAS, the New Providence School District (hereinafter referred to as the "District") conducted an investigation of the allegations and determined that harassment, intimidation and bullying was substantiated; and

WHEREAS, the Superintendent of Schools agreed with the investigation's findings; and

WHEREAS, the Board affirmed the recommendation of the Superintendent to substantiate the investigation's findings; and

WHEREAS, the investigation's findings pertain to Petitioners in this matter; and

WHEREAS, there is a dispute between Petitioners and the Board (hereinafter Petitioners and the Board shall be collectively referred to as the "Parties"); and

WHEREAS, on or about October 29, 2015, the Petitioners requested a hearing before the Board and a copy of the investigation file; and

WHEREAS, on December 1, 2015, the Respondent provided a redacted version of the Investigator's report and the HIB complaint; and

WHEREAS, on or about December 2, 2015, a hearing was held before Board with respect to Petitioners; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 3, 2016 a Complaint was filed with the Commissioner of Education on behalf of Petitioner J.M.; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 4, 2016, three (3) separate Complaints were filed with the Commissioner of Education on behalf of Petitioner T.D., Z.H., and M.C., respectively; and

WHEREAS, on or about March 16, 2016, Respondent filed four (4) separate Answers with the Commissioner in response to the Complaints filed on behalf of J.M., T.D., Z.H., and M.C.; and

WHEREAS, the Parties thereafter participated in the exchange of discovery documents and a series of telephone conferences with the Office of Administrative law; and

WHEREAS, on or about November 10, 2016, the Honorable John Scollo, A.L.J., signed an Order to consolidate the four (4) separate Complaints filed by Petitioners and four (4) separate answers filed by Respondent into a single matter; and

WHEREAS, the Parties agree that the conduct of J.M., T.D., Z.H., and M.C. leading to the filing of the September 28, 2015 Complaint with the New Providence High School was inappropriate and had a negative impact on the student who was the subject of the September 28, 2015 Complaint; and

WHEREAS, the Parties acknowledge that Petitioners have not challenged the discipline previously imposed on J.M., T.D., Z.H., and M.C., respectively, and all discipline has been served;

NOW THEREFORE, the Parties having a desire to settle the above matter in an amicable way, hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board shall modify the investigation finding of harassment, intimidation, and bullying and re-categorize same as Disruptive Behavior pursuant to Board Regulation 5600, Student Discipline/Code of Conduct.

2. The Parties agree that the New Providence School District records associated with this matter shall be revised to reflect a re-categorization of the initial harassment, intimidation, and bullying finding as set forth in paragraph 1 of this Agreement. All reference to the initial harassment, intimidation and bullying findings shall be expunged from all student records, including but not limited to, Powerschool and District files. No information related to a previous HIB finding shall be disclosed and/or reported to any third parties.

3. The Parties agree that Petitioners, including but not limited to J.M., T.D., Z.H., and M.C. and their parents/guardians, expressly agree not to engage in any and all negative or inappropriate discussion of the District student who was the subject of the September 28, 2015 Complaint filed in this matter. The parties agree that Petitioners, including but not limited to J.M., T.D., Z.H., and M.C. and their parents/guardians, also expressly agree not to engage in any negative or inappropriate discussion of the District student's family.

4. The Parties have reached this compromise to avoid the expense, inconvenience, and potential acrimony of an administrative law hearing under the school laws. The Parties specifically disclaim any liability to each other. The Parties' entry into this Agreement shall not constitute nor shall it be interpreted as an admission of wrongdoing or guilt, or liability in any manner on either of the Parties' part. Any such obligation or liability on either Party's part is expressly denied. The Parties have all entered into this Agreement solely to compromise disputed claims.

5. In consideration of the settlement of the captioned matter, the Parties forever waive their right to take any action against each other regarding this matter.

6. In consideration of the settlement of the captioned matter, the Parties shall forever release each other from any and all claims, rights and liability, including but not limited to any and all claims for attorney's fees, money damages, civil liability, or any other equitable or legal relief.

7. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement and understanding between all Parties and constitutes a full and final Agreement on any and all issues.

8. Any dispute arising out of the breach of this Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

9. If, during the term of this Agreement, a specific clause of the Agreement is determined to be illegal or in violation of any Federal or State law, the remainder of the Agreement shall not be affected by such a ruling and shall remain in full force and effect.

10. The Parties have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily with a full understanding of their rights and the contents of this Agreement. The Parties acknowledge that they had the opportunity to consult with legal counsel or a representative of their choice and that they reviewed the Agreement in detail with their counsel or representative and fully understand its requirements and limitations.

11. This Agreement shall remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law and the Parties shall not disclose its form or contents to any third parties.

12. The Parties expressly agree that they shall act in good faith to ensure implementation of this Agreement. The Parties mutually agree to refrain from making any derogatory comments, written or oral; retaliation or disparagement, in any manner, against the other Party or their families, family members, agents, officials, administrators, representatives and employees.

13. This Agreement shall be construed as if it were drafted by both Parties contemporaneously.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 08155-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 114-6/17

S.R., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.G.,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST ORANGE ESSEX COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this case, the petitioner is appealing the decision of the East Orange Board of Education (Board) not to allow J.G. to participate in her 8th grade promotional ceremony. The ALJ denied the petitioner's request for emergent relief.*

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe. Ibid. The party seeking such relief must demonstrate the existence of each of the following: 1) the movant will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted; 2) the legal right underlying the movant's claim is settled; 3) the movant has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and 4) when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the movant will suffer greater harm than the other party if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

* The recommended Order states that the petitioner's motion for emergent relief is denied under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, but it does not explain the relevant facts, nor does it specifically state why one or more of the Crowe prongs were not established.

In this case, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in determining that J.G. is ineligible to participate in the 8th grade promotional exercises. The Board advised petitioner on May 31, 2017 that J.G. would be ineligible to participate in the promotional exercises due to chronic absenteeism, excessive tardiness, multiple infractions against the code of conduct and multiple violations of the 8th grade contract. (Exhibit R14) Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(d)(1), "[a] district board of education may deny participation in extracurricular activities, school functions, sports, graduation exercises or other privileges as disciplinary sanctions when designed to maintain the order and integrity of the school environment."

Judging from the testimony at the emergent hearing in this matter, it is clear that the Board took the position that J.G. was ineligible to participate in the promotional exercises because she continued to violate school policy. Specifically, J.G. was absent 18 times, was tardy 51 times, and had numerous disciplinary infractions, including cell phone violations, entries into unauthorized areas of the school, and a physical altercation with other students. The Board informed J.G. via a "redemption contract agreement" that she was ineligible to attend the class field trip to Dorney Park due to a January 18, 2017 cell phone violation, but that she could earn her privileges back through maintaining positive relationships, completing all class assignments, and refraining from receiving any discipline referrals. (Exhibit R6) Thereafter, following an unauthorized area violation on March 2 and a group fight on March 23, 2007, J.G. received two more redemption contracts indicating that she lost her privileges to attend not only the Dorney Park trip, but also the 8th grade social and the promotional exercises. (Exhibits R7 and R8)

Following those incidents, J.G. received another unauthorized area violation on April 28, threw student binders on the floor on May 3, and had a verbal altercation with another student on May 11, 2017. (Exhibits R4, R9, and R10) Considering J.G.'s behavior, especially after she was informed that she would be ineligible to attend the promotional exercises absent displaying positive behavior and avoiding any disciplinary referrals, it is clear that the school did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in refusing to allow J.G. to participate in the 8th grade promotional exercises. Therefore, in light of the fact that all of the Crowe prongs must be met in order for emergent relief to be granted, it is not necessary to analyze the three remaining factors.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted as modified. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NEW PROVIDENCE, UNION COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

The record of this matter, the parties' proposed Settlement & Release Agreement (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner approves the settlement and adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. In so doing, however, the Commissioner notes with respect to paragraph 16 of the Agreement that the Board must comply with the requirements of New Jersey's Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq. in regard to information concerning this matter, notwithstanding any agreement the parties may have between themselves to keep the terms of their settlement confidential. Additionally, with respect to paragraphs 8 and 9, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b), parties seeking enforcement of agency judgments must bring action in the Superior Court as provided in New Jersey Court Rules at R.4:67-6. Therefore, the parties may not seek enforcement of the Agreement with the Commissioner of Education.

Accordingly, this matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement consistent with applicable public records law and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b).

Record Closed: May 30, 2017 Decided: June 6, 2017

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

On October 19, 2015, respondent determined that J.L. had committed an act of harassment, intimidation, and bullying in violation of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.2 et seq. On January 11, 2016, petitioners appealed the determination to the Department of Education. On February 8, 2016, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On February 22, 2016, the case was assigned to me for hearing. After steadfast negotiations, the parties entered into a settlement agreement, which is attached to this decision. On May 22, 2017, Board of Education approved the settlement agreement.

Having reviewed the terms of the settlement agreement, I FIND that the parties have entered into the settlement agreement voluntarily, as evidenced by their signatures, or the signatures of their representatives, on the settlement agreement.

I CONCLUDE that the settlement agreement disposes all of the issues in controversy between the parties and that the settlement agreement is consistent with law.

Given my finding of fact and conclusion of law, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement agreement.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this case. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

WHEREAS, J.L. is a student enrolled within the School District of the Borough of New Providence, Union County, New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Education OF the Borough of New Providence ("Board") is the local educational authority with the responsibility of providing a free, appropriate, public education to J.L.; and

WHEREAS, Petitioners S.L. and J.L. are the parents of J.L., referred to as "Petitioners"; and

WHEREAS, a dispute existed with regard to a reported incident of alleged harassment, intimidation and bullying ("HIB") involving J.L. which was investigated by the District (the New Providence Board of Education, its Board Members, Administrators, employees, agents and representatives, herein collectively referred to as "the District) pursuant to its statutory obligations and its HIB Policy; and

WHEREAS, following the District's investigation and an affirmation by the Board of the recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, J.L. was determined to have engaged in an act of HIB against another student, which J.L. denied and disputed, resulting in the filing of a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"), which was assigned Agency Reference Numbers 8-1/16 and OAL Docket Number EDU-02364-2016-N for J.L.; and

WHEREAS, the parties each having a desire to amicably settle any and all claims in all jurisdictions, asserted and unasserted, now hereby agree as follows:

1. The Board hereby agrees that it shall modify the HIB documentation relating to J.L., including the Investigative Findings, Conclusions and Recommendations, and all other documentation relating thereto, in a manner that will reflect that J.L has solely been found to have engaged in an act that has resulted in "Disruptive Behavior" in violation of the District's Code of Conduct for students;

2. The Parties hereto agree that the New Providence School District records associated with this matter within the District's possession and control shall be modified and revised as set forth herein. All references to the HIB findings, conclusions and recommendations shall be expunged from all student records, including but not limited to Powerschool and District files.

3. The parties agree that the District as collectively defined herein shall not release or authorize the release of any document or student record, or any information, written or oral, contained therein, relating to the HIB incident involving J.L. unless specifically directed by court order upon application on notice to all named parties and their counsel. All such documents and information shall be deemed privileged and confidential.

4. The parties further agree that all documents relating to the HIB incident and the District's investigation shall not be included in J.L.'s cumulative record nor shall the alleged HIB incident and the District's investigation be considered a disciplinary action reportable to any third parties without a specifically directed court order upon application on notice to all named parties and their counsel. In the event any District representative is asked about J.L.'s disciplinary history, all District representatives must state that J.L. has not been disciplined at any time in the District up through and including the date of the within Agreement.

5. The parties hereby stipulate and agree that the Law Firm of Richard J. Kaplow, P.A., 53 Elm Street, Westfield, New Jersey 07090, as attorney for the Petitioners S.L. and J.L. and Sciarrillo Cornell, Merlino, McKeever & Osborne, LLC, Athina Lekas Cornell, Esq., attorney for the Board of Education of the Borough of New Providence, Union County, New Jersey and the District shall take physical possession of the original and all copies of all of the HIB documents related to the HIB investigation, findings, code of conduct interventions, detentions, this Agreement, and all other aspects of the HIB proceedings involving J.L. No copies of said documents shall be maintained by any other person or anywhere in or by the District except by the Law Firm of Richard J. Kaplow, P.A. and Sciarrillo Cornell, Merlino, McKeever & Osborne, LLC, as set forth herein. The documents referred to herein shall be transferred to the physical possession of Richard J. Kaplow, P.A. within five (5) days following the ratification of this Agreement by the Board with written notice to counsel.

6. The parties agree that neither Richard J. Kaplow, Esq. nor the Law Firm of Richard J. Kaplow, P.A., Athina Lekas Cornell, Esq. nor the Law Firm of Sciarrillo Cornell, Merlino, McKeever & Osborne, LLC shall release or authorize the release of any document or student record, or any information contained therein, relating to the HIB incident involving J.L. unless specifically directed by court order upon application on notice to all named parties and their counsel.

7. S.L. and J.L. on their own behalf and on behalf of J.L. and the District mutually release and forever discharge each other, its/their officers, employees, administrators, agents and servants from any and all past, present or future claims, whether known or unknown to S.L. and J.L. o/b/o J.L., arising out of the alleged HIB incident that was the subject of this litigation.

8. It is expressly understood and agreed that the parties reserve the right to bring a claim before any tribunal of competent jurisdiction to enforce their rights under this Agreement.

9. In the event that any member, employee or authorized agent or representative of the Parties breaches or violates any provision of this Agreement, then in that event the Parties shall have a right to forthwith seek an order of enforcement from either the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Administrative Law or New Jersey Superior Court. If the Parties are required to seek enforcement pursuant to this provision, and if any such enforcement is obtained by either Party, the other Party shall be required to pay and/or reimburse the aggrieved Party for all counsel fees and costs incurred in any such enforcement application and proceeding.

10. The terms of this Agreement represent the compromise of disputed claims between the parties. This Agreement shall not be treated as an admission of any liability or wrongdoing whatsoever on the part of the District or either of the Petitioners, or that any party has failed to act in accordance with any laws, statutes, regulations and/or codes.

11. Each party shall be responsible for its own attorney's fees and expert costs.

12. The drafting and negotiation of this Agreement have been participated in by each of the parties and their respective counsel and, for all purposes, this Agreement shall be deemed to have been drafted jointly by each of the parties. No ambiguity shall be resolved against any party based upon authorship. The parties acknowledge that they have been represented by counsel throughout the settlement of this matter, throughout the negotiation of this Agreement, and at the execution of this Agreement, and that they have read and consulted with counsel regarding this Agreement and fully understand its requirements and limitations. The parties further acknowledge that they enter into this Agreement voluntarily and free of coercion.

13. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey and constitutes a complete legal release of any and all claims related to the alleged HIB incident referenced in this litigation, that were or could have been raised by Petitioners against the District regarding J.L. at any time up through the time of the mutual execution and/or entry hereof.

14. This Agreement shall be subject to ratification by the Board and is without prejudice to either party if the terms are not ratified. Petitioners are not bound by this Agreement until it has been ratified by the Board. Upon ratification of this Agreement, the Board shall cause a copy of the relevant resolution to be forwarded to Petitioners. When ratifying this agreement, the Board shall not identify J.L. or J.L.'s family, and to the extent permitted by law, no member of the public will be permitted to review a copy of the agreement. The Resolution ratifying the Agreement shall not contain any personally identifying information, including J.L.'s student ID number, before or after ratification.

15. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties hereto and is intended to resolve any and all disputes and issues related to the alleged HIB incident referenced in this litigation, between them as of the date of execution of this Agreement.

16. This Agreement shall be considered by the parties to be confidential on a mutual basis and neither the District as collectively defined herein nor any of the Petitioners shall be permitted to disclose the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement except upon court order, issued upon application, on notice to all named parties and their counsel or as otherwise required by law.

17. Upon the signing of this Agreement by all parties, Petitioners shall withdraw their Petition of Appeal (Docket No. EDU-02354-2016 N) without prejudice. Upon ratification by the Board, the Petition of Appeal shall be withdrawn with prejudice.

18. The parties stipulate and agree email or fax signatures on this Settlement Agreement shall have the same effect as an original signature.

C.H., on behalf of minor child, M.H.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's disciplinary determination with respect to his son, M.H. Petitioner contended that the Board's determination that M.H. had made "terroristic threats" – and the subsequent imposition of a four-day out-of-school suspension, forty-five demerits, and placement in an alternative education program – was improper because the District failed to conduct a manifestation determination in accordance with its policy and applicable law. Concurrent appeals challenging the Board's determination were filed before the Commissioner and the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP). Based on the ALJ's determinations in the OSEP matter – wherein the ALJ found that M.H.'s behavior did not meet the definition of "terroristic threats" and the District failed to conduct a manifestation determination, as well as establish the existence of any special circumstances for removing M.H. from school – petitioner sought expungement of the four-day suspension and the forty-five demerits. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the District's own policy with respect to classified students requires that "prior to disciplining a classified student, it must be determined that the student's behavior is not primarily caused by his disability and the program provided meets the student's needs"; while the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act requires a manifestation determination before a student is removed from his/her current placement, the District's policy requires such a determination prior to any discipline being imposed upon a classified student; in this case, the District made no determination as to whether M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability; the District's assertion that the suspension was warranted, based on M.H.'s actions in writing a rap song that makes reference to guns while at school, was determined to be baseless in the OSEP matter; and the forty-five demerits assessed upon M.H. were never reported in his record, and therefore render that issue moot. The ALJ concluded that the imposition of the four-day suspension was improper, but since it has already been served, the only remedy is to remove the suspension from his disciplinary record. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that any reference to the suspension in M.H.'s disciplinary record, or other school record, be expunged.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by respondent, and petitioner's reply thereto. In this matter, petitioner challenges the Board's disciplinary determination pertaining to M.H. Specifically, petitioner contends that the Board's determination that that M.H. made "terroristic threats against staff; students; and/or faculty" and its subsequent imposition of forty-five demerits and a four-day out-of-school suspension on M.H., followed by placement in an alternative education program, were improper because the District failed to conduct a manifest determination in accordance with its policy and applicable law; and therefore, M.H.'s permanent record should be expunged.[1]

Petitioner had filed concurrent appeals before the Commissioner and the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) challenging the Board's determination. In the OSEP matter, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that the Board improperly placed M.H. in an alternative education program because the District failed to conduct a manifest determination and establish the existence of any special circumstances for removing M.H. from school. The ALJ also found that

[1] This particular disciplinary action was triggered by a staff member's discovery of rap lyrics referencing guns in M.H.'s journal. The parties agree that M.H. was previously advised not to discuss guns in school.

M.H.'s behavior did not meet the definition of "terroristic threats."[2] Based on the ALJ's findings in the OSEP matter, petitioner now seeks expungement of the four-day suspension and the forty-five demerits from M.H.'s records.

In the matter before the Commissioner, the ALJ found that M.H. did not receive the forty-five demerits, thereby rendering the issue moot. The ALJ also found that the District – in violation of its own policy – failed to conduct a manifestation determination before imposing disciplinary action on M.H. The ALJ concluded that imposition of the four-day suspension was improper because the tribunal had already determined that M.H.'s behavior did not rise to the level of "terroristic threats" – which was the Board's sole basis for its disciplinary action in this matter – and as such, any reference to the four-day suspension in M.H.'s records should be removed.

The Board takes exception to the ALJ's determination that the suspension was unmerited and that any reference to same must be expunged from M.H.'s records. The Board argues that irrespective of whether the behavior rose to the level of "terroristic threat," the behavior nonetheless occurred – notably, M.H. defied previous warnings about such behavior. The Board contends that the four-day suspension was, therefore, imposed for good cause, and should be upheld. In reply, petitioner argues that the Board violated its own policy by failing to perform a manifestation determination before imposing the four-day suspension, and therefore, it should not be allowed to maintain a record of the suspension for "terroristic threats," especially when the ALJ found that M.H. did not make terroristic threats.

Upon consideration and review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determination that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7, expungement of the four-day suspension from M.H.'s permanent record is proper because the specific misconduct – terroristic threats – did not occur. The Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ's determination that the District failed to adhere to its own policy when it did not conduct a manifestation determination prior to imposing disciplinary action on M.H.

Board Policy No. 5131 provides, in pertinent part, "before disciplining a classified pupil, it must be determined that: A. The pupil's behavior is not primarily caused by his/her educational disability"; and "B. The program that is being provided meets the pupil's needs." In other words, in accordance with its policy, the Board must conduct a manifestation determination before imposing any form of discipline on a classified student. Here, the Board admittedly did not conduct a manifestation determination before suspending M.H. for four days. The Board now seeks to bypass its policy requirements and maintain the disciplinary action in M.H.'s records, which is improper. More importantly, when the sole basis for the four-day suspension – terroristic threats – is found not to have occurred, there is no justification for upholding such discipline.[3] Therefore, expungement of any reference to the four-day suspension – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 – is proper.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted in part and denied in part. The Board is hereby directed to expunge the record as to M.H.'s four-day suspension in December 2015; however, expungement is moot as regards the demerits, since they were never recorded. The Board's cross-motion for summary decision is denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

[3] In its exceptions, the Board attempts to argue that the suspension was imposed as a result of M.H.'s defiance of authority and pattern of behavior, which clearly contradicts the substance of the Board's notice of suspension – which was issued in relation to a specific incident that the Board considered to be an act of "terroristic threat."

BEFORE JOHN S. KENNEDY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, C.H. on behalf of his minor son, M.H. challenges the Board of Education of the City of Salem's (Board) disciplinary determination and suspension of M.H. from school. The Board disciplined M.H. for allegedly making terroristic threats.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 15, 2016, petitioner, C.H., filed with the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), New Jersey Department of Education, an expedited petition for due process, seeking an order overturning Board's decision to place his son, M.H., in an alternative interim placement due to terroristic threats alleged to have been made by M.H. On January 20, 2016, the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for expedited hearing, which was held before this tribunal on February 9, 2016. A decision was rendered in the special education matter on March 1, 2016. Petitioner simultaneously filed this matter seeking the removal of Board's disciplinary determination from M.H.'s record. This matter was filed with the OAL on February 3, 2016. On August 11, 2016, petitioner filed a motion for Summary Decision. Due to the passing of the District's solicitor, a response and Cross Motion for Summary Decision was not filed until December 15, 2016. Oral argument was originally scheduled for January 20, 2017, but on January 17, 2017, both parties agreed to have the matter decided on the papers.

M.H. is a fifteen-year-old student who resides within the Salem City School District (District). He is eligible for special education and related services under the classification of Specific Learning Disability (SLD) and the district has prepared an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) to assist him with disabilities in basic reading skills, mathematical problem solving and written expression. He is a Junior at Salem City High School.

On December 12, 2015, M.H. was subjected to discipline by the District for alleged terroristic threats when district employees discovered lyrics to a rap song written in M.H.'s school journal. The Board conducted a hearing on January 6, 2016, and affirmed the recommendations of the Superintendent that M.H. be suspended for four-days, receive forty-five demerits and be placed in an alternative school program at Salem Middle School. As the aforementioned statements are not in dispute, I hereby FIND them as FACT.

After having had an opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, and consider the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing on February 9, 2016, I made the following additional FINDINGS of FACT:

1. M.H. wrote in a class journal a rap song that had the following lyrics: "U better dip like a chip because I got a new gun with 2 clips I can't wait to use it better yet shoot it roll up in your club like a blunt we smoke it can't comprehend no more we baking like hot cakes."

2. At the hearing conducted by the Board, the Board affirmed this action after hearing testimony and M.H.'s attorney was given an opportunity to cross-examine witnesses.

3. The term "terroristic threats" is not defined in the District student handbook.

4. M.H. had been warned in November 2015, that this is not appropriate when his father was called in to school after M.H. was taking about shooting a gun at a gun range. M.H. was advised at that time that he cannot talk about guns in school. Both M.H. and his father understood and agreed.

5. District staff secured M.H., checked his bags and locker and found no weapons of any kind. The rap lyrics were not given to anyone or performed in school by M.H. They were discovered by a teacher that was reviewing M.H.'s journal to check his work as required by his IEP.

6. The District's Child Study Team was not consulted as part of the discipline process. In December 2014, the Child Study Team had recommended a psychiatric evaluation be conducted upon M.H., but his father refused the evaluation. The Child Study Team wanted him evaluated because his last psychiatric evaluation was conducted when M.H. was in second grade. At that time, M.H. drew pictures of guns and stated that he was mad at another child and would shoot him if he had a gun.

7. M.H. does not own a gun, has never shot a gun or even touched a gun in his life.

8. The District recommended a change in placement, primarily based upon a perceived threat to the safety and welfare of the District's staff and students.

I concluded in my March 1, 2016, decision, that the Board cannot remove M.H. to an alternative educational setting because the Board has failed to prove any special circumstance for removal of a child whose conduct has not been determined to be a result of his disability or that maintaining M.H.'s current placement is substantially likely to result in injury to himself or others. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3)(B)(ii); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(b)(2) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(e). No determination regarding petitioner's claim that M.H.'s due-process rights were violated at the Board's hearing on January 6, 2016, was rendered in the special education matter. I further made no determination whether the four-day suspension or the demerits imposed upon M.H. were appropriate. It is clear and I FIND as FACT that M.H. was suspended for four-days for making terroristic threats. I further FIND as FACT that the District made no determination that M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability.

In his response and Cross Motion for Summary Decision the District for the first time advises that the forty-five demerits assessed upon M.H. were never recorded and are, therefore not on his permanent record. I therefore FIND as FACT that M.H. did not receive forty-five demerits and thereby render that issue moot.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"), 20 U.S.C.A. §§ 1400–1482, and its implementing regulations, a school district "may remove a student to an interim alternative educational setting for not more than forty-five school days without regard to whether the behavior is determined to be a manifestation of the child's disability", if the child brings a weapon to school, inflicts serious bodily injury on another person at school, or "knowingly possesses or uses illegal drugs, or sells or solicits the sale of a controlled substance, while at school, on school premises, or at a school function." 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(1)(G); 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(g) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8(d), (f). If the school district believes that maintaining the child's current placement is substantially likely to result in injury to the child or others, the school district may request an expedited due-process hearing. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3), (k)(4)(B); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(a) and (c) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(n); N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(a). In such a case, a hearing officer may "return a child with a disability to the placement from which the child was removed" under certain circumstances or "order a change in placement of a child with a disability to an appropriate interim alternative educational setting for not more than forty-five school days if the hearing officer determines that maintaining the current placement of such child is substantially likely to result in injury to the child or to others."[1] 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(3)(B)(ii); 34 C.F.R. § 300.532(b)(2) (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.2(e).

Under State Law, the school district bears the burden of proof and the burden of production in any due-process hearing held in accordance with the IDEA with respect to "the identification, evaluation, reevaluation, classification, educational placement, the provision of a free, appropriate public education, or disciplinary action, of a child with a disability." N.J.S.A. 18A:46-1.1. In a due-process hearing before the OAL, "[t]he judge's decision shall be based on the preponderance of the credible evidence, and the proposed action of the Board of Education or public agency shall not be accorded any presumption of correctness." N.J.A.C. 1:6A-14.1(d).

The District's own policy with respect to classified students requires that "prior to disciplining a classified student, it must be determined that the student's behavior is not primarily caused by his or her disability and the program provided meets the student's needs. (See, J-1 attached to petitioners Brief in Support of Summary Decision at page

[1] The child shall remain in the interim alternative educational setting until an administrative law judge (ALJ) renders a decision or until the expiration of the forty-five-day removal period, whichever occurs first. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(k)(4)(A); 34 C.F.R. § 300.533 (2014); see also N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.7(u); N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8(f).

44.) While the IDEA requires a manifestation determination before a student is removed from his/her current placement, District policy requires such a determination prior to any discipline being imposed upon a classified student. Here the District made no determination if M.H.'s behavior was a manifestation of his disability.

The District asserts that the suspension is warranted based on M.H's actions of writing a rap song making reference to guns while in school. The District also concedes that since my March 1, 2016, decision concluded that M.H. did not make "terroristic threats" pursuant to neither District policy nor N.J.S.A. 2C:2-3, any reference to "terroristic threats" will be removed from his Disciplinary Record. In a letter, dated December 11, 2015, the District advised petitioner that the reason for the suspension is "Terroristic threats against staff; students; and or faculty." (See, P-1 attached to petitioner's Brief in Support of Summary Decision.) This is the only reason given for the discipline. It has already been concluded by this tribunal that no "terroristic threats" were made. Although New Jersey Law permits a District to suspend a student for good cause, which includes many various acts of misconduct, the specific act of misconduct alleged to have occurred by M.H., based on my March 1, 2016, decision, did not occur. I therefore CONCLUDE that the imposition of the four-day suspension was improper. N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 permits a parent or adult student to seek to expunge inaccurate, irrelevant or otherwise improper information from a student record. M.H. has already served the suspension. The only remedy is to remove the suspension from his disciplinary record. For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that any reference made to the four-day suspension served by M.H. on December 10, ,11, 14 and 15, 2015 should be expunged.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that any reference made in M.H.'s disciplinary record or any other record maintained by the District to the four-day suspension served by M.H. on December 10, 11, 14 and 15, 2015, shall be expunged.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

On January 7, 2016, Helga Hugelmeyer, Superintendent for the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth ("the Board"), filed Sworn Tenure Charges against Respondent Jerry Pascher in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, and also on January 7, 2016, same were served on Respondent with notice of opportunity to submit evidence and argument in opposition to the Charges. Thereafter, the Board, following its review of the Charges and any opposition thereto at a duly convened meeting on February 18, 2016, found probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the Charges and it consequently determined to certify the Charges to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing pursuant to law. Thereafter, Harold E. Kennedy, Jr., the Board's Business Administrator and Secretary, signed a Certification of the Board's actions and same was served upon Pascher.

On or about February 29, 2016, Respondent, through counsel, filed his Answer denying all counts set forth in the Charges, and on March 14, 2016, I was appointed Arbitrator to hear and decide this tenure matter. A Status Conference was scheduled for March 28, 2016, and subsequently adjourned to April 7, 2016, and reconvened on April 25, 2016. On May 9, 2016, counsel advised me the parties had agreed upon the terms of a stipulation settling the Charges and same was signed on May 11, 2016. It received final Board approval on August 4, 2016.

Thereafter, the parties informed me they had reached agreement settling this case, and on March 28, 2017, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, they forwarded to me for review and approval a fully executed copy of their Employment Separation Agreement and Release ("Agreement"), which is attached and incorporated herein.

I have carefully reviewed the Agreement and I determine it satisfies the statutory requirements for withdrawal and settlement of tenure charges, as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. In particular:

1. The nature of the Charges are part of the record of this proceeding and were known to all parties to the Agreement;

2. The circumstances justifying settlement and withdrawal are incorporated into the Agreement. For the Respondent, the Board agreed to withdraw the Charges and to extend his employment until an agreed-upon retirement date of June 30, 2016. For the Board, Pascher's retirement is irrevocable, and he has agreed in perpetuity to waive any rights to re-employment or to a consultant relationship with the Board. The Board has promised to cooperate with the Pension Board and/or any other State or Local government body promptly and completely with respect to Pascher's pension application, and Pascher has provided the Board with a broad release which irrevocably and unconditionally waives and discharges any and all claims or rights stemming from the facts and circmstances that gave rise to the instant Charges. The release broadly extends to the Board's members, officers, administrators, agents, attorneys and employees, and includes without limitation claims under common law as well as federal, state and local labor laws and regulations. The Board has promised it will provide to Pascher neutral references in response to any future employment inquiries, and both parties are protected by a broadly worded non-disparagement provision.

3. The Agreement advised Respondent of his rights under the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, in particular of his right to review and consider the Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and of his right revoke and rescind his execution of the Agreement within seven (7) calendar days after he signed it on May 11, 2016.

4. The Agreement is signed by the parties and their representatives, and incorporates the May 12, 2016, Board Resolution accepting Pascher's resignation and its authorization the Board President and it authorizes the Business Administrator/Board Secretary to execute the Agreement and carry out the actions of the Board stipulated therein. Pascher has averred he entered into the Agreement freely and voluntarily, with a full understanding of his rights following satisfactory and unimpeded discussions with his representative which were conducted without duress or coercion. I find it complies with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(b)

5. The Agreement, I find, does not contain terms which restrict access to information or records deemed public by law, accurately represents the circumstances of Respondent's resignation and is in the public interest.

I approve the Agreement.

EMPLOYMENT SEPARATION AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Agreement and Release ("Agreement") is entered into and effective as of the 11TH day of MAY, 2016 by and between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Jerry Pascher.

WHEREAS, the Board is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A: 11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of said school district; and

WHEREAS, the Board has its administrative offices located at 500 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey 07028; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Pascher, a tenured teacher employed by the Board, has his current address located at 231 Palisade Road, Elizabeth, NJ 07208; and

WHEREAS, on or about January 7, 2016, Olga Hugelmeyer, Superintendent of Schools, filed Sworn Tenure Charges, together with a Sworn Statement of Evidence in support of the charges, against Mr. Pascher, with the Board; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 18, 2016, the Board certified the Charges to the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Pascher does not wish for the Board to proceed to a hearing regarding the subject tenure charges, but intends to continue employment through and retire effective June 30, 2016; and

WHEREAS, the parties, now desiring to resolve the within matter amicably and without the need for further litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereby agree, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, as follows:

TENURE CHARGES TO BE MOOT/NO FURTHER BOARD ACTION

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Agreement by the parties and Mr. Pascher's fulfillment of the obligations as set forth herein, that the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed withdrawn, and that no further action shall be initiated by the Board regarding the underlying charges. The Board reserves all rights in the event this Agreement is breached by Mr. Pascher, as well as with respect to any third party claims that may be made against the Board as a result of any acts and/or omissions by Mr. Pascher during his employment with the Board. Mr. Pascher retains his rights to enforce this agreement should the Board breach same.

RESIGNATION

Mr. Pascher, by signing this Agreement, hereby tenders his irrevocable resignation for the purposes of retirement (annexed hereto as Attachment A) effective June 30, 2016. Mr. Pascher shall not be responsible for providing the Board with sixty (60) days' notice of his resignation for the purposes of retirement. Mr. Pascher's retirement shall be irrevocable upon approval of this Agreement by the Board. Mr. Pascher agrees that he will not seek any future employment or consultant relationship with the Board in perpetuity and that the Board has no obligation, contractual or otherwise, to re-hire or re-employ him.

NO ADMISSIONS

This Agreement is entered into for the sole purpose of resolving issues related to Mr. Pascher's employment, and neither the execution, delivery, nor performance of this Agreement, nor Mr. Pascher's retirement shall constitute or be construed at any time or for any purpose to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by any of the parties; the parties further agree that neither this Agreement and Release nor Mr. Pascher's retirement shall be used as evidence in any judicial, administrative, or quasi-judicial proceedings, except to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

NO FURTHER COMPENSATION/BENEFITS

Prior to the effective date of Mr. Pascher's resignation for the purposes of retirement, he shall be entitled to salary and benefits during the period April 1, 2016 through June 30, 2016. He shall be entitled to no further compensation or fringe benefit of any kind with the exception of any summer pay to which he is entitled and pay for unused sick days to which he is entitled. Mr. Pascher specifically waives his right to any additional pay and benefits, except for any benefits to which he may lawfully be entitled under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"). Mr. Pascher represents that as of the date of this agreement, he has not filed and does not intend to file any Workers' Compensation claim related to his employment with the Board.

LEAVE PERIOD

The parties recognize that during the period February 23, 2016 through March 31, 2016, Mr. Pascher was on unpaid administrative leave.

DUE DILIGENCE

The Board shall cooperate fully with the Pension Board and/or any other State or Local governmental body and comply promptly and completely with all requests and requirements in conjunction with Mr. Pascher's future pension application.

RELEASE

In exchange for the above consideration, Mr. Pascher, his heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights stemming from the facts and circumstances which gave rise to the tenure charges referred to herein or the basis for same, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its attorneys, agents and employees, personally and officially, as well as their successors, and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorney's fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this Agreement, and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Consclentious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any and all other claims that could be initiated in any venue, for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Worker's Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34: 15-1 et seq., for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to COBRA, and any claims concerning enforcement of this agreement.

INQUIRIES

The Board agrees not to make any disparaging remarks regarding Mr. Pascher in response to any future employment inquiries and will limit any statements made, either orally or in writing, to confirming the dates of Mr. Pascher's employment within the District, the amount of Mr. Pascher's salary in the final year of his employment, and the position(s) that Mr. Pascher held with the District. Nothing herein shall be deemed to limit the Board's actions in compliance with the Open Public Records Act, or its obligation to respond fully and accurately to any and all inquiries from State agencies, such as, without limitation, the Public Employees Retirement System, the State Department of Education and the State Board of Examiners and its agents.

NON-DISPARAGEMENT

The parties and their agents shall refrain from public negative comments regarding each other, and each other's employees and/or agents. However, nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to limit Mr. Pascher or the Board and its agents' obligation to provide accurate information in response to legitimate requests for public information, including copies of the Tenure Charge documents, nor to provide information requested by various State Agencies, including, but not limited to, the State Department of Education, the State Board of Examiners and its agents, the Division of Pensions and Benefits and the Unemployment Compensation Board and/or their agents

SURRENDER OF BOARD PROPERTY

Mr. Pascher shall surrender all school keys and property in his possession to the Superintendent of Schools or her designee. If necessary, the Superintendent of Schools shall arrange an appointment for Mr. Pascher to retrieve his personal property.

BOARD APPROVAL

This Agreement is subject to Board approval. If approved, the Board President is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board.

ASSENT TO TERMS

Mr. Pascher hereby acknowledges that he enters into this Agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that he was fully informed of the implications of this Agreement by his attorney, and does so without duress of his own free will and volition.

Mr. Pascher further acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and was given seven (7) days from the execution of this document to revoke this Agreement, by delivering written notification to Jenna A. Rottenberg, Esq., Florio Perrucci Steinhardt & Fader, LLC, 235 Broubalow Way, Phillipsburg, New Jersey 08865. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Mr. Pascher will not be entitled to the consideration described herein. Furthermore, it is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, the underlying tenure charge proceedings shall be reinstated and the Board will not be obligated to re-serve Mr. Pascher and/or his attorney with a copy of same but may consider and certify, if it so chooses, said tenure charges at its next Board of Education meeting following said revocation.

SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS

This Agreement shall be binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective successors and assigns.

PUBLIC INTEREST

This proposed settlement will serve the public interest. As a result of Mr. Pascher having tendered his irrevocable resignation for the purposes of retirement, the Board will not have to engage in litigation related to his employment.

ENTIRE AGREEMENT

This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matters herein, and supersedes and integrates any and all prior representations, negotiations, discussions, and understandings and agreements, whether oral or written. This Agreement shall not be amended, changed or modified, except in a writing signed by all parties. Each party acknowledges that neither the other party, nor any agent or attorney or the other party, have made any promise, representation or warranty whatsoever, express or implied, not contained in this Agreement to induce it to execute this Agreement.

SEVERABILITY

If any non-material portion of this Agreement shall be determined by any court or agency of competent jurisdiction to be contrary to law, then it shall be deemed to be severed from the remainder of this Agreement, which shall continue in full force and effect. Should any material provision be stricken by a court or agency of competent jurisdiction, then the entire Agreement shall by null and void, ab initio.

GOVERNING LAW

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged the respondent Board's practices for identifying, investigating, and resolving allegations of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) at the Ethical Community Charter School. Petitioner had filed a grievance seeking improvement in these practices, after which her claims were investigated by the Board. The Board communicated the findings of that investigation to the petitioner on July 15, 2015. Petitioner filed her appeal on October 27, 2015. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, based upon the failure of the petitioner to file an appeal within ninety days pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner filed her appeal on October 27, 2015, 105 days after notice of the Board's decision; in order to relax the ninety-day rule, the circumstances must be exceptional or the reason compelling, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; there is no basis herein by which the petitioner is entitled to relax the ninety-day rule. The ALJ concluded that petitioner is barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) from bringing her appeal out of time. Accordingly, the petition was dismissed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's determination that the petition of appeal was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 18839-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 350-11/15

T.N. ON BEHALF OF L.C., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE ETHICAL COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL, HUDSON COUNTY,
Respondent.

T.N., petitioner, pro se

Thomas O. Johnson, Esq., for respondent (Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 1, 2017 Decided: June 9, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.N. on behalf of L.C., filed a grievance with the respondent Board of Trustees of the Ethical Community Charter School (Board) on June 8, 2015.

Respondent acknowledged receipt of the grievance and an investigation was conducted by the respondent regarding the allegations contained therein. After the completion of the investigation, the respondent gave notice of the findings of that investigation to the petitioner, T.N., on July 15, 2015.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 27, 2015, the petitioner filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education regarding the decision. Respondent raises grounds for the dismissal of the petition herein based upon a failure of the petitioner to file a petition within ninety days of the action of Ethical, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i) via a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Respondent maintains that it processes applications based upon a procedure authorized under N.J.A.C. 6A:19-2.3(b). The only submission made by the petitioner was submitted on February 29, 2016, and no additional submissions were made by the petitioner despite requests for same.

The New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2 where it was filed on November 24, 2015, and assigned to Administrative Law Judge Tiffany Williams. Thereafter, Judge Williams resigned and the case was reassigned to the undersigned. The respondent moved for a dismissal based on a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer. Petitioner opposed said motion based on previously submitted documents.

DISCUSSION

Initially, I note that petitioner provided no certification or affidavit in opposition to the respondent's motion in this matter or no follow up reply to the respondent's motion. For this record, the undersigned will rely on respondent's motion for dismissal and the submission by the petitioner T.N. without any certification or affidavit. The petitioner stated that she was going to file opposition paperwork, after a telephone conference; however, no such submission was ever filed by the petitioner. I will rely extensively on the fully briefed motion submitted by the respondent, along with a supporting certification.

FACTS

The following FACTS are not disputed, and I FIND:

1. The Ethical Community Charter School in Hudson County is a charter school established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1.

2. Petitioner is a parent and a student enrolled in the Ethical School and filed a grievance seeking improvement in the practices for identifying, investigating, and resolving HIB allegations at the Ethical School.

3. Respondent investigated the claims of the petitioner and communicated its final decision to the petitioner on July 15, 2015.

4. Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal on October 27, 2015

ADDITIONAL FACTS FOUND

Based upon the review of respondent's certification and moving papers, including excerpts of the certified answers to interrogatories, and the request for hearing, I FIND the following as additional FACTS:

5. Petitioner's submission stated that she filed a grievance that was not about the bullying investigation.

6. L.C. is a gender non-conforming student at the respondent school with allegations of bullying other student from March 2014 until the end of the school year.

7. The allegations of bullying include hitting L.C. and telling L.C. that he was a "freak, gay and had no friends."

8. After the investigation, the respondent found that the incident between L.C. and the other student was a back-and-forth situation and L.C. was required to apologize to the other student.

9. T.N., L.C.'s mother, had difficulty with the manner in which the HIB investigation was conducted.

10. As a basis to the above, T.N. requested that the respondent open another investigation.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

A motion to dismiss the petitioners' appeal is a well-recognized procedure for resolving cases in which the facts that are crucial to the determination of the matters at issue are not actually in dispute and the application to that set of material facts of the applicable law and standard of proof lead to a determination of the case without the necessity of a hearing at which evidence and testimony need be taken. The procedure is equally applicable in judicial and executive-branch administrative cases. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Petitioner acknowledged that the petition was received from the respondent on July 15, 2015. Based on the document submitted by the respondent, the petitioner clearly filed the petition on October 27, 2015, 105 days after notice of the decision.

There is no basis for which the petitioner is entitled to relax or otherwise not apply the ninety-day rule. In order to relax the ninety-day rule the circumstances must be exceptional or the reason must be compelling. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. Respondent cites Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572,590 (1993) in support of their position that the petitioner has failed to file the petition within ninety days. The adequate notice to trigger the ninety-day statute of limitations is from the day the petitioner learns of the existence of facts that would enable one to file a timely claim. Ibid. The Kaprow Court stated that "[t]he limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days." Id. at 582. This limitation is put in place in order "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims" and "to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs." Ibid. In addition, the Kaprow Court found that "unofficial or informal notice is sufficient to trigger the ninety-day limitations period." Id. at 588.

The Commissioner of Education promulgated N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i), as requiring a petition be brought within ninety days of notice of the action. T.N. did not do that here. Furthermore, T.N. did not substantiate any exceptional or compelling reasons for the failure to file.

The ninety-day rule must be strictly applied and has been strictly followed by the Commissioner of Education. Markalin v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 406. In addition, New Jersey courts have strictly construed the ninety-day requirement. Riely v. Bd. of Educ. of Hunterdon Central Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980). As argued by the respondent and supported by caselaw, this ninety-day rule represents a fair and necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws and expresses a public policy of giving school districts the security of knowing that decisions regarding the administrative operations of the school district cannot be challenged after the time period. Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 582.

In this case, the evidence clearly confirms that the petitioner was given notice of the respondent's findings as to their grievance on July 15, 2015. The evidence also confirms that the petitioner filed the appeal on October 27, 2015, which exceeds the ninety-day rule as the October date is 105 days from the date of the respondent's decision.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE petitioner is barred by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i), from bringing this petition out of time. I CONCLUDE petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she is entitled to a waiver of the time period of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(4)(i).

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED, and petitioner's petition is DISMISSED and DENIED in all respects. This Initial Decision disposes of all issues in controversy in this matter.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FRANKLIN LAKES, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall continue at the OAL with such proceedings as the parties and the ALJ deem necessary to bring it to closure.

DECISION ON EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 08838-17
AGENCY DKT.NO. 121-6/17

M.K. ON BEHALF OF M.K.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FRANKLIN LAKE, BERGEN COUNTY
Respondent.

M.K., petitioner, pro se

Stephan Fogarty, Esq. for respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 27, 2017 Decided: June 27, 2017

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

Petitioner, M.K., brings this action seeking an order to compel Franklin Board of Education (District) to document and incorporate a process for students to achieve the standards in the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS) that are outside of the regular school offering of the school and require the District to approve and grant credit for established group programs outside of the District based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding NJSLS in the same manner that in-district curriculum is approved.

On June 22, 2017, the Office of Special Education Programs transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) under Docket No. EDU 08838-17. Oral arguments were held on June 27, 2017, on which date the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

After carefully considering the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony, I FIND the following FACTS:

M.E.K. has recently completed the seventh grade at Franklin Avenue Middle School. He is a general education student. Students attending the seventh grade in the district are placed into one of three mathematics courses: Math 7, Math Advanced 7, or Algebra 7. Placement is determined by seven factors: Math in focus assessment, basic math knowledge test, Terranova results, Cog AT 5 results, Iowa Algebra, students final grade in the sixth grade and work habit scores. M.E.K satisfied his math requirement by completing Math 7 Advanced. Petitioner filed for a Due Process hearing on January 10, 2017 requesting that M.E.K. be immediately moved from Math 7 Advanced to Algebra 7. The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) returned the due process request to petitioner for failure to follow substantive requirements. Petitioner filed a second due process petition with OSEP on February 8, 2017 again requesting that M.E.K. be moved from the Math Advanced 7 to the Algebra 7. Mediation was held on March 7, 2017 and the petition was withdrawn.

On June 6, 2017 Petitioner advised the District that M.E.K. would be enrolled in a summer algebra program and requested that the district give M.E.K. credit for the course. Petitioner proposed M.E.K. take the course at one of the following: Bergen Community College New Work for Credit, Mountain Lakes High School Summer Academy, Montclair Kimberly Academy Summer Skills for Success or the New Jersey

Virtual School. These programs will begin on either June 27, 2017 or July 5, 2017. Leisel McDonnell Steines, the District's Director of Curriculum and Instruction responded by email on June 7, 2017 stating:

> Essentially there is no circumstance in which courses that are already among the districts offerings are considered for credit (and thus appearing on the student's transcript) from an outside institution. The one exception would be remediation situations in which the student is taking summer school course for the purpose of credit recovery, which is not the case with your child.

Petitioner alleges that the District violated N.J.A.C. 8-5.1.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The standards for the granting of emergent relief are set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Emergent relief may be granted if the judge determines from the proofs that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 provides:

> 6A:8-5.1 Graduation requirements
> (a) For a State-endorsed diploma, district boards of education shall develop, adopt, and implement local graduation requirements that prepare students for success in post-secondary degree programs, careers, and civic life in the 21st century, and that include the following:

1. Participation in a local program of study of not fewer than 120 credits in courses designed to meet all of the NJSLS, including, but not limited to, the following credits:

i. At least 20 credits in English language arts, aligned to grade nine through 12 standards, effective with the 2009-2010 grade nine class;

ii. At least 15 credits in mathematics, including algebra I or the content equivalent effective with the 2008-2009 grade nine class; geometry or the content equivalent effective with the 2010-2011 grade nine class; and a third year of mathematics that builds on the concepts and skills of algebra and geometry and that prepares students for college and 21st century careers effective with the 2012-2013 grade nine class;

iii. At least 15 credits in science, including at least five credits in laboratory biology/life science or the content equivalent effective with the 2008-2009 grade nine class; one additional laboratory/inquiry-based science course, which shall include chemistry, environmental science, or physics effective with 2010-2011 grade nine class; and one additional laboratory/inquiry-based science course effective with 2012-2013 grade nine class;

iv. At least 15 credits in social studies, including satisfaction of N.J.S.A. 18A:35-1 and 2; five credits in world history; and the integration of civics, economics, geography and global content in all course offerings;

v. At least 2.5 credits in financial, economic, business, and entrepreneurial literacy, effective with 2010-2011 grade nine class;

vi At least 3 3/4 credits in health, safety, and physical education during each year of enrollment, distributed as 150 minutes per week, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:35-5, 7 and 8;

vii. At least five credits in visual and performing arts;

viii. At least five credits in world languages or student demonstration of proficiency as set forth in (a)2ii(2) below;

ix. Technological literacy, consistent with the NJSLS, integrated throughout the curriculum; and

x. At least five credits in 21st century life and careers, or career-technical education;

2. The 120-credit requirement set forth in (a)1 above may be met in whole or in part through program completion of a range of experiences that enable students to pursue a variety of individualized learning opportunities, as follows:

i. District boards of education shall establish a process to approve individualized student learning opportunities that meet or exceed the NJSLS.

(1) Individualized student learning opportunities in all NJSLS areas include, but are not limited to, the following:

(A) Independent study;

(B) Online learning;

(C) Study abroad programs;

(D) Student exchange programs; and

(E) Structured learning experiences, including, but not limited to, work-based programs, internships, apprenticeships, and service learning experiences.

(2) Individualized student learning opportunities based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding the NJSLS shall:

(A) Be based on student interest and career goals as reflected in the Personalized Student Learning Plans;

(B) Include demonstration of student competency;

(C) Be certified for completion based on the district process adopted according to (a)2ii below; and

(D) Be on file in the school district and subject to review by the Commissioner or his or her designee.

(3) Group programs based upon specific instructional objectives aimed at meeting or exceeding the NJSLS shall be permitted under this section and shall be approved in the same manner as other approved courses.

ii. District boards of education shall establish a process for granting of credits through successful completion of assessments that verify student achievement in meeting or exceeding the NJSLS at the high school level, including standards achieved by means of the individualized student learning opportunities enumerated at (a)2 above. Such programs or assessments may occur all or in part prior to a student's high school enrollment; no such locally administered assessments shall preclude or exempt student participation in applicable Statewide assessments at grades three through 12.

(1) District boards of education shall choose assessments that are aligned with or exceed the NJSLS and may include locally designed assessments.

(2) District boards of education shall choose from among the following assessment options to determine if students have achieved the level of language proficiency designated as Novice-High as defined by the ACTFL and recognized as fulfilling the world languages requirement of the NJSLS:

(A) The STAMP online assessment;

(B) The OPI or MOPI; or

(C) Department-approved locally designed competency-based assessments;

iii. District boards of education shall establish a process to approve post-secondary learning opportunities that may consist of Advanced Placement (AP) courses, CLEP, or concurrent/dual enrollment at accredited higher education institutions.

(1) District boards of education shall award credit for successful completion of an approved, accredited college course that assures achievement of knowledge and skills that meets or exceeds the NJSLS.

3. Local student attendance requirements;

4. Any other requirements established by the district board of education;

5. Any statutorily mandated requirements for earning a high school diploma;

6. The requirement that all students demonstrate proficiency in the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I, or through the alternative means set forth at (f) through (i) below;

7. Students graduating from an adult high school shall demonstrate proficiency in the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I, or through the alternative means set forth at (f) through (i) below.

(b) In the development of Personalized Student Learning Plans according to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.2(a), district boards of education shall actively encourage all students who have otherwise met the requirements for high school graduation according to (a)1 through 3 above, to include in their programs of study the following additional credits:

1. Five credits in mathematics during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers;

2. Five credits in a laboratory science during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers;

3. Five credits in social studies during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers; and

4. Five credits in world languages during each year of enrollment, aimed at preparation for entrance into post-secondary programs or 21st century careers.

(c) Through the IEP process and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.11, district boards of education may specify alternate requirements for a State-endorsed diploma for individual students with disabilities as defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3.

1. District boards of education shall specifically address any alternate requirements for graduation in a student's IEP, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.11.

2. District boards of education shall develop and implement procedures for assessing whether a student has met the specified alternate requirements for graduation individually determined in an IEP.

(d) District boards of education shall provide to the executive county superintendent their graduation requirements each year they are evaluated through QSAC and update the filed copy each time their graduation policies are revised.

(e) District boards of education shall provide each student entering high school and his or her parents or legal guardians with a copy of the district board of education's requirements for a State-endorsed diploma and the programs available to assist students in attaining a State-endorsed diploma, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7C-5.

(f) To ensure adequate transition to the new Statewide assessment system, district boards of education shall provide students who have not demonstrated proficiency on the high school end-of-course PARCC assessments in ELA 10 and Algebra I with the opportunity to demonstrate such competence through one of the alternative means set forth below:

1. For the graduating classes of 2016, 2017, 2018, and 2019, students who did not take both the ELA 10 and the Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessment or who take, but do not achieve a passing score on both assessments, as required by (a)6 above, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics in one of the following ways:

i. Achieve a passing score, as determined by the Commissioner, on a corresponding substitute competency test in English language arts and/or mathematics, as applicable, or substitute a passing score on another end-of-course PARCC assessment, including ELA 9, ELA 11, Geometry, or Algebra II; or

ii. Meet the criteria of the portfolio appeals process; and

2. For the graduating class of 2020, students who take all applicable high school end-of-course PARCC assessments for all courses in which they are enrolled, including those students who received a waiver for ELA 11 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(c)3i, as of September 6, 2016, and thereafter, but do not achieve a passing score on both the ELA 10 and Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessments pursuant to (a)6 above, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics in one of the following ways:

i. Achieve a passing score, as determined by the Commissioner, on a corresponding substitute competency test in English language arts and/or mathematics, as applicable, or substitute a passing score on another end-of-course PARCC assessment, including ELA 9, ELA 11, Geometry, or Algebra II; or

ii. Meet the criteria of the portfolio appeals process.

(g) Beginning with the graduating class of 2021, students who take all applicable high school end-of-course PARCC assessments for all courses in which they are enrolled, including those students who received a waiver for ELA 11 pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1(c)3i, as of September 6, 2016, and thereafter, but do not achieve a passing score on both the ELA 10 and Algebra I end-of-course PARCC assessments pursuant to (a)6 above, by the conclusion of their senior year and after multiple opportunities to take the assessments, may satisfy the State requirement to demonstrate proficiency in English language arts and mathematics by meeting the criteria of the portfolio appeals process.

(h) All ELLs shall satisfy the requirements for high school graduation, except ELLs may demonstrate they have attained State minimum levels of proficiency through passage of the portfolio appeals process in their native language, when available, and passage of a Department-approved English fluency assessment.

(i) Students with disabilities as defined in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1.3 or eligible under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act who participate in the alternative assessment for students with disabilities are not required to participate in repeated administrations of high school end-of-course PARCC assessments.

In this case, after hearing the arguments of petitioner and respondent and considering the documentation submitted, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to emergent relief because the proofs submitted have failed to establish the necessary elements to grant emergency relief under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).

The District did not violate N.J.A.C. 6A:-8-5.1 in this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1 addresses graduation requirements for high school students, not elementary or middle school students. Throughout the regulation there are references to ninth grade class, grade nine to twelve standards, NJSLS high school level, requirements for high school graduation, and high school end of course PARCC. This regulation does not apply to elementary or middle schools. Petitioner has not shown the legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled. Petitioner has not shown that there is a legal right underlying her claim. Petitioner has not shown that she has a likelihood of success on the merits. The regulation that she sites does not apply to students in elementary or middle school.

Petitioner has not shown that M.E.K. will suffer irreparable harm if he is not allowed to take the math class over the summer, since the district has that class and M.E.K. would not be taking the course for the purpose of credit recovery. He completed the requirements for the seventh grade.

I note that the requirements are stated in the conjunctive and, consequently, the moving party must meet all four requirements in order to prevail. Failure to sustain even one of the requirements defeats the application.

After hearing arguments of petitioner and respondent, and considering all the affidavits, certifications and documents submitted, it is ORDERED that Petitioner's motion for emergent relief is therefore DENIED.

This decision on application for emergency relief resolves all of the issues raised in the due process complaint; therefore, no further proceedings in this matter are necessary. This decision on application for emergency relief is final pursuant to 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(1)(A) and is appealable by filing a complaint and bringing a civil action either in the Law Division of the Superior Court of New Jersey or in a district court of the United States. 20 U.S.C.A. § 1415(i)(2). If the parent or adult student feels that this decision is not being fully implemented with respect to program or services, this concern should be communicated in writing to the Director, Office of Special Education.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement and general release (Agreement), and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Under the terms of the Agreement, petitioner was to be paid a certain sum of money within thirty days following the Board's receipt of a fully executed Agreement. The Agreement was signed by petitioner on May 15, 2017, which date has preceded the consideration of the Agreement by the Commissioner of Education.[1] The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms, or have agreed upon mutually satisfactory alternate dates for the effectuation of the settlement payment. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE DANIELLE PASQUALE, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 18, 2017, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached settlement agreement and Board resolution.

2. The agreement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the agreement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement") is entered into this 15th day of May, 2017, by and between Justin Bozinta, ("Petitioner") and the City of East Orange Board of Education ("Board") and jointly as the "Parties". For purposes of this Agreement, the term the "Board" shall mean and include the East Orange Board of Education, its agencies, authorities, its current and former appointed officials, officers, directors, agents, administrators, employees, representatives, counsel, designees, insurers, independent contractors and all of their predecessors and successors. The term "Petitioner" shall mean and include Justin Bozinta and any and all of his executors, heirs, administrators, successors, assigns, agents and representatives. This Agreement constitutes the complete and final settlement of any and all claims Petitioner has or may have against the Board relating to or arising from Petitioner's employment by the Board, the separation from employment, and any claims or actions he has brought or could have brought against the Respondent.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed an administrative action against the Board in the Department of Education, entitled Justin Bozinta v. City of East Orange Board of Education, Union County, Agency Reference No.: 300-11/16 which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law, Docket No. EDU 00811-2017N (the "Administrative Action"); and

WHEREAS, on February 13, 2015, Petitioner was arrested at his home and charged with numerous criminal offenses; and

WHEREAS, the alleged facts set forth by Petitioner in the Administration Action purportedly give rise to the following causes of action: (1) reinstatement to the payroll and benefit plan of the East Orange School District, and (2) reimbursement of salary for the 2016-2017 school year. Petitioner seeks back and future salary, attorneys' fees and costs.

WHEREAS, the on January 31, 2017, the grand jury issued a true bill against Petitioner on the following counts: (1) maintaining or operating a controlled dangerous sub stance production facility – first degree; (2) possession with intent to distribute a controlled dangerous substance – second degree; (3) possession with intent to distribute a controlled dangerous substance within 500 feet of certain public property – second degree; (4) possession of a controlled dangerous substance – fourth degree; and (5) endangering the welfare of a child (possession of child pornography) – third degree; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into this Agreement to fully and finally settle and resolve and dismiss with prejudice any and all claims, complaints, charges and actions of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which Petitioner may have against the Respondent; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner acknowledges and agrees that the payment provided for herein is provided as consideration for this Agreement to voluntarily dismiss, waive and withdraw all claims, complaints, charges, administrative actions and civil actions of any kind against the Respondent;

NOW THEREFORE, the Petitioner and Respondent, for the consideration herein specified, agree as follows:

1. COMPENSATION. In consideration for Petitioner's and the law firm of Caruso Smith Picini's execution of this Agreement and the promises and covenants contained herein, the Respondent commits that it shall issue and remit the full payment of settlement funds as follows:

a. Petitioner agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Administrative Action entitled Justin Bozinta v. City of East Orange Board of Education, Union County, Agency Reference No.: 300-11/16, OAL, Dkt. No. EDU 00811-2017N. In that regard, Petitioner's Counsel, in accordance with the New Jersey Rules of Administrative Practice, shall, simultaneous with the execution of this Agreement, execute the Stipulation and Order of Dismissal with Prejudice attached to this Agreement as Exhibit A, dismissing the case with prejudice for the reason of the settlement reached by the Parties. It is acknowledged and understood by Petitioner that any and all rights and obligations set forth in this Agreement are conditioned completely and entirely upon the Court's dismissal of the Administrative Action with prejudice.

b. Within thirty (30) days following the Board's receipt of Petitioner's executed copy of this Agreement and signed Stipulation of Dismissal with Prejudice in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, Respondent Board shall provide Petitioner with payment of Fifty-three Thousand One Hundred Thirty-four Dollars, $53,134.00 which represents Petitioner's salary, subject to such payroll and withholding deductions as may be required by law, for the period from September 1, 2016 to January 31, 2017 (referred to herein as the "Settlement Sum"). The Settlement Sum shall be made payable to "Justine Bozinta and the Trust Account of Caruso Smith and Picini, PC" and shall be delivered to:

Nicholas Poberezhsky, Esq.
Caruso Smith Picini, PC
60 Route 46 East
Fairfield, NJ 07004

c. Respondent will report this payment to the state and federal taxing authorities via an IRS Form 1099. Caruso Smith Picini, PC will immediately provide the Respondent with its taxpayer identification number. Petitioner bears sole responsibility for attorneys' fees and costs. Petitioner's counsel bears sole responsibility for the distribution of the settlement sum to the Petitioner.

d. Petitioner hereby certifies that if any liens exist against the Settlement Sum, they will be paid in full, compromised or satisfied and released by him. If a lien exists which is not satisfied as required by this Agreement, and a claim is made by anyone to enforce that lien, Petitioner agrees that he will pay that lien in full. This representation is intended to include all liens, including, but not limited to, attorneys' liens, medical provider liens, Medicare and Medicaid liens, workers' compensation liens, all statutory or common law liens, and judgment liens. Petitioner agrees to indemnify and hold the Board harmless in connection with any claim made by reason of liens against or tax obligations associated with payment of the Settlement Sum. If a claim is hereafter made against the Board by anyone seeking payment of the liens, Petitioner will indemnify and hold the Board harmless for any such liens and/or defending against such a claim, including, but not limited to, attorneys' fees, costs of suit, and interest.

2. INCOME TAXATION. In the event that it is subsequently determined that Petitioner's owe any taxes with respect to any of the payments described in paragraphs 1, Petitioner expressly acknowledge and agree that Petitioner or his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, and not the Board, will be responsible for any such taxes, liabilities, payments or costs, interest and penalties. Petitioner agrees to indemnify and hold harmless the Board to the full extent of any such taxes, liabilities, payments, costs, interest or penalties which may be assessed against the Board in connection with any payment made to or on behalf of Petitioner hereunder.

3. PENSION AND/OR RETIREMENT BENEFITS. Other than the consideration provided for herein, and any pension and/or retirement benefits to which Petitioner is otherwise entitled under the Board's existing benefit plans and governing plan documents, Petitioner will not receive any compensation or benefits from the Board (including without limitation any compensation, payments or benefits to which Petitioner is entitled under Income and Benefits Policy set forth in the Board's Employee Handbook) for the period of September 1, 2016 through January 31, 2017 until such time as the pending criminal matter has been resolved.

4. RELEASES. Petitioner, for the consideration given by the Respondent, as set forth above, which he acknowledges is adequate and satisfactory to her, hereby commits as follows:

a. Petitioner knowingly, voluntarily, irrevocably and unconditionally remises, releases, waives and forever discharges the Board, its present and former agents, directors, present and former officers, present and former representatives, and its and their respective predecessors, successors, heirs, executors, administrators and assigns (hereinafter individually and collectively referred to as the "Releasees," from any and all manner of liabilities, actions, causes of action, contracts, agreements, promises, claims, suits and demands that arise from the subject matter of the instant Administrative action.

b. Petitioner acknowledges and agrees that other than the consideration provided for herein, he is not entitled to and will not receive any additional compensation or benefits of any kind from the Board for the period of September 1, 2016 through January 31, 2017 and that no representations have been made to him regarding any such additional compensation or benefits. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to or should be construed to affect his receipt of benefits in which he is vested or to which he is entitled.

5. RETURN OF BOARD PROPERTY. Petitioner agrees to return to the Board by March 5, 2017 any and all property of the Board in his possession or control including, but not limited to, computers, keys, identification cards, reports, documents, correspondence, manuals, ledgers, equipment, software, diskettes, CDs, computer files, customer lists, business cards and other tangible embodiments of the Board's Confidential Information (regardless of the media in which such Confidential Information is stored), including copies thereof, then in Petitioners possession, whether prepared by him or by others.

6. DISPARAGING COMMUNICATION. The parties agree that they shall not issue any communication, written, verbal or otherwise, that disparages, criticizes or otherwise reflects adversely upon either party or which encourages any adverse action against the parties, provided that the parties are permitted to testify truthfully under oath pursuant to subpoena.

Additionally, the parties agree not to disparage or make or solicit any comments, statements, or the like to the media, future/prospective employers or to others that may be considered to be derogatory or detrimental to the good name or business reputation of each other. The Board, administration and its agents agree that they will not do anything to impede or hinder any of Petitioner's future job prospects. Nothing contained herein shall be interpreted to prevent the Board and its agents from giving lawful testimony or other information to government agencies and relevant insurance carriers.

7. PROHIBITION ON DISCLOSURE OR USE OF CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Unless Petitioner first secures the Board's written consent, he agrees not to directly or indirectly publish, disclose, market, use or authorize, advise, hire, counsel or otherwise procure any other person or entity, directly or indirectly, to publish, disclose, market or use, any secret, confidential, proprietary or trade secret information of the Board of which Petitioner became aware or informed during his employment with the Board, including but not limited to, information concerning the Board's business.

8. CONFIDENTIALITY. The parties hereby expressly agree to disclose the terms of this Agreement only to the extent required by law or as may be necessary for tax, unemployment, or other related purposes. Nothing in this Paragraph is intended to apply to information which is already public, nor to information which the public is entitled to procure under any law including, but not limited to, the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et. seq.

9. NO ADMISSION OF WRONGDOING. Nothing contained in this agreement shall be construed to constitute an admission of wrongdoing or liability by the Respondent Board.

10. PROSPECTIVE INQUIRIES. Responses to any employment or media inquiries that may be directed to the Board concerning Petitioner shall be factual in nature and shall provide directory type information such as length of service, salary, title and basis for separation.

11. AGREEMENT APPROVAL. The Board will vote on this Agreement at a duly convened public meeting. The Board President may execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board. If the Board does not approve this Agreement, this Agreement shall become null and void.

12. ASSENT TO TERMS. Petitioner hereby represents that he enters into this Agreement without duress and of his own free will and volition, having had the opportunity to consult with counsel of his choosing. Petitioner acknowledges that he was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Petitioner will not be entitled to the consideration described herein.

13. ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This Agreement represents the entire understanding among the parties and may be modified only in a subsequent written instrument, duly dated and executed by all of the parties. No other promises or representations of any kind have been made by any party hereto and no other promises or representations shall be binding upon the parties.

14. SEVERABILITY. In the event that a court or agency of competent jurisdiction shall deem any part of this Agreement to be contrary to law, then the remaining portions of the Agreement shall remain in full force and effect.

15. ADVICE OF COUNSEL. The parties hereto acknowledge that they have been informed of their right to seek independent legal counsel before signing this Agreement, that they understand the contents of this Settlement Agreement, and that this Agreement is entered into voluntarily. Therefore, no term or condition contained herein shall be construed against any party on the grounds that the party or its/his attorney, proposed or drafted that term or condition. This Agreement and Release constitutes the entire agreement between the parties and constitutes full and final settlement of all issues to date.

16. GOVERNING LAW, VENUE AND EXCLUSIVE REMEDY. This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey and claims concerning or relating to this Agreement, the breach hereof or for specific performance shall be solely and exclusively with the jurisdiction of and venued in the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, in the Vicinage of Essex County.

17. EXECUTION IN COUNTERPARTS AND FACSIMILE SIGNATURES. The Agreement may be executed in two (or more) counterparts, each of which counterparts, when executed and delivered, shall be deemed to be an original, and all of which counterparts, taken together, shall constitute but one and the same agreement. An original signature transmitted by facsimile shall be deemed to be an original for purposes of this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the duly authorized representatives of the parties have set forth their respective hands and seals on the dates indicated below:

BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENTAL INSURANCE AGENCY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY, AND WILLIS OF NEW JERSEY, INC.	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioner – Business and Governmental Insurance Agency, which agency had provided services to the Union Township School District for twenty-three years – challenged the determination of the respondent Board to award a contract for insurance brokerage services to Willis of New Jersey (Willis). Petitioner initially filed an appeal in October 2016, along with a motion for emergent relief, arguing that the Board had not followed proper bidding procedures when it awarded a contract to Willis – which had submitted a proposal for insurance brokerage services in September 2016, well beyond the March 15, 2016 deadline for submission of proposals. Petitioner's motion for emergent relief was subsequently granted, and the Board was directed to rescind the contract with Willis of New Jersey and either award a contract for insurance brokerage services to one of the four vendors who submitted timely responses to the request for proposals (RFP), or reject all of the proposals pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. The Board ultimately rescinded its contract with Willis, rejected all other proposals in order to substantially revise its specifications for the services, and filed a motion to dismiss the petition – contending that the grant of emergent relief had satisfied the demands in petitioner's appeal, and therefore the matter is now moot. Willis filed a similar motion to dismiss.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Board complied with the emergent relief order by terminating and rescinding the contract with Willis; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22, a board may reject all bids in order to substantially revise the specifications contained in the RFP; in this matter, it is evident that the Board made substantial revisions to the specifications with respect to the scope of services to be rendered in the second RFP; petitioner's contention that there were no substantial changes is without merit; there is no requirement for a board of education to provide a certification of reasons when it rejects all bids pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22, and petitioner's request for respondent to provide such certification is without merit; likewise, petitioner's contention that Willis should be required to disgorge any and all commissions it received from the Board from the time of the award to its rescission is without merit, as the equities of the situation do not support petitioner's request for disgorgement. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the motions to dismiss of both respondents, with prejudice.

Upon full review and consideration of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter for the reasons well expressed therein. The petition was dismissed as moot.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 16782-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 284-10/16

BUSINESS AND GOVERNMENTAL INSURANCE AGENCY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY, AND WILLIS OF NEW JERSEY, INC.	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner – Business and Governmental Insurance Agency – and the replies thereto submitted by the Union Township Board of Education (Board) and Willis of New Jersey, Inc. (Willis).

Petitioner takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that the equities of the situation did not support petitioner's request for disgorgement. In its exceptions, petitioner argues that the ALJ previously found in the Order Granting Emergent Relief that there were "indications of collusion and favoritism" when – according to Willis – the Board asked it to submit a proposal. Petitioner urges the Commissioner to find that disgorgement is an appropriate remedy because the Initial Decision conflicts with the reasoning in the Order Granting Emergent Relief – which was adopted by the Commissioner – and it is inconsistent to find that the equities do not support disgorgement after already finding that collusion and favoritism exist.

Petitioner also argues that the ALJ erred in finding that it did not mention disgorgement as a form of relief in the petition. Instead, petitioner explains that it included a catch-all prayer of relief, and that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-6.2, pleadings may be freely amended. Petitioner also points out that it raised the demand for disgorgement in its opposition to the Motions to Dismiss filed by the Board and Willis and at the hearing in this matter.

Finally, petitioner takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that the Board complied with the Order Granting Emergent Relief. Petitioner contends that the Board's decision to reject all bids was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable because it did not "substantially revise" the specifications for the goods or services as is required to reject all bids under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22(d). Petitioner argues that it seems suspicious that the Board would find the specifications in need of revision ten months after the responses to the Request for Proposals were initially due, especially after it previously argued that Willis was substantially performing the contract. Accordingly, petitioner argues that the Initial Decision should be rejected.

In reply, the Board argues that the ALJ properly found that it rejected all proposals to substantially revise the specifications, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22(d), and that it did in fact revise the specifications. In support, the Board explained the many differences between the original specifications and revised specifications, and argues that the ALJ properly found it evident that there were substantial revisions. Additionally, the Board contends that it complied with the Order Granting Emergent Relief, as it terminated and rescinded the contract with Willis and rejected the other four proposals in order to substantially revise the specifications. The Board argues that, contrary to petitioner's arguments, it satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. The Board also argues that the petitioner's arguments about collusion between the Board and Willis are irrelevant because the statute does not require the Board to explain its rejection of bids. As such, the Board argues that the ALJ properly found this matter is moot and should be dismissed.

Willis argues – in reply to petitioner's exceptions – that the Initial Decision should be adopted by the Commissioner. Specifically, Willis contends that the ALJ properly found that the equities do not support petitioner's claim for disgorgement by Willis. Willis points out that the ALJ never made a finding that there was evidence of collusion and favoritism between the Board and Willis. Although the ALJ stated in dicta that there were indications of collusion and favoritism based on the Board's request for Willis to submit a proposal months after they were due, the ALJ ultimately found that the suggestion of favoritism was not supported as Willis provided the services and should receive compensation. Willis makes clear that its conduct was appropriate from the start; Willis simply complied with the Board's request for it to submit a proposal. Willis also emphasizes that there is no evidence in the record that it ever had any unfair advantage in the preparation of its bids. Procedurally, Willis contends that the ALJ properly found that petitioner did not request disgorgement in its prayer for relief, as courts have found that generalized, catch-all prayers for relief are insufficient. Substantively, Willis maintains that it performed the services for the Board in good faith and it would be inequitable for it to be deprived of its fair compensation. As such, the ALJ appropriately denied petitioner's request for disgorgement.

Willis also contends that the Board complied with the Order Granting Emergent Relief as it terminated Willis, rejected the remaining bids, and substantially revised the specifications. Willis emphasizes that the revised RFP contained multiple substantive changes, which aimed to expand and alter the scope of services. Willis asserts that petitioner's argument in its exceptions – that it is suspicious that the Board would find that the specifications were inadequate and in need of revision after it already found that Willis substantially performed the contract – misses the point. Whether Willis substantially performed the initial RFP bears no relation to whether the revised RFP expanded the scope of its work. Accordingly, Willis argues that the ALJ appropriately found that the Board complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22 and the Order Granting Emergent Relief.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that respondent complied with the Order Granting Emergent Relief. The Board terminated and rescinded the contract with Willis, as it was directed to do. Further, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22, a board may reject all bids in order to substantially revise the specifications for the requested goods or services. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board made substantial revisions to the specifications from the first to the second RFP, including: (1) the items required for submission with the RFP; (2) the term length; (3) the fee arrangement; (4) the scope of services to be rendered; (5) the criteria used to evaluate proposals; (6) the submission of detailed broker information; (6) the years of experience required in insurance brokerage services; and (7) the requirements for personnel assigned to provide services. It is clear that there were numerous substantial revisions to the RFP and, therefore, the Board acted in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22 when it rejected the remaining proposals and substantially revised the specifications. The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. Petitioner has not demonstrated that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner, or that it only made the substantial revisions to the specifications as a ruse to enable it to award the contract to Willis.

Additionally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the equities of this matter do not support petitioner's request for disgorgement. Willis provided the services under the contract and should receive just compensation. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that if disgorgement were to be ordered, the Board would receive the benefit of not paying for the services provided, and there is no equitable reason for the Board to receive that benefit.

Accordingly, for the reasons thoroughly expressed therein, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed as moot.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

Record Closed: June 30, 2017 Decided: June 30, 2017

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Business and Governmental Insurance Agency ("petitioner") filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, challenging a determination by the Board of Education of the Township of Union ("respondent") to award a contract for insurance brokerage services to Willis of New Jersey, Inc. d/b/a Willis Towers Watson ("Willis"). Respondent and Willis now move to dismiss the petition as moot.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed its petition with the Department of Education on October 31, 2016, pursuant to the authority of the Commissioner of Education under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. In conjunction with the petition, petitioner filed a motion for emergent relief.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 3, 2016, for determination as a contested case. An oral argument in regard to petitioner's motion for emergent relief was conducted on November 21, 2016, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey. The undersigned's Order on Motion for Emergent Relief dated November 29, 2016, granting petitioner's motion for emergent relief, was adopted by the Commissioner in a Decision on Application for Emergent Relief dated December 12, 2016.

On February 1, 2017, respondent filed a motion to dismiss the petition contending in essence that the emergent relief had granted the relief requested in the petition and that the matter is now moot. On the same date, Willis filed a motion to dismiss the petition as moot for substantially the same reasons as advanced by respondent.

On February 17, 2017, petitioner filed its opposition to the motions to dismiss. Petitioner's two main arguments are that respondent failed to comply with the order granting emergent relief and that petitioner is now seeking additional relief which was not specifically mentioned in the petition. Both respondent and Willis submitted replies to the opposition.

MOTIONS TO DISMISS

A. Background

There is no real dispute as to the general course of events in this matter. In early 2016, respondent issued a Request for Proposal for Insurance Brokerage Services. In regard to the timing of any proposal, the request states as follows: "Proposal shall be submitted no later than MARCH 15, 2016. . . . Proposals will be opened . . . at 11:00 a.m. on MARCH 15, 2016. Your proposal must be received prior to that date and time." On March 15, 2016, petitioner submitted a fully responsive proposal. In addition, timely proposals were submitted by three other vendors including Brown & Brown Metro, LLC, Atlantic Associates Insurance Agency, Inc., and Arthur J. Gallagher & Co. Petitioner had provided the services in question for twenty-three years.

Willis submitted a proposal in or about September 2016. On September 20, 2016, respondent adopted a resolution to accept the proposal of Willis. Prior thereto, respondent did not receive consent to extend the deadline to award the contract beyond the sixty days set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-36. Further, respondent did not take any action to reject the proposals of petitioner and the other vendors that submitted timely responses. On October 5, 2016, petitioner received notice from Flagship Dental Plans, a third party provider of dental benefits, that petitioner was removed as broker of record for respondent effective October 1, 2016.

In the Order on Motion for Emergent Relief dated November 29, 2016, a determination was made that petitioner met all requirements for emergent relief. One requirement for emergent relief is that petitioner has demonstrated a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)3. It is noteworthy that the determination was made that the lateness of the proposal by Willis by five to six months was an obvious and gross defect in the proposal that was disregarded by respondent. As relief, it was ordered that: (1) "The contract between respondent and Willis be rescinded and deemed null and void" and (2) "Respondent may award the contract for insurance brokerage services to any of the four vendors who submitted timely responses to the request for proposals or reject all of the proposals if the circumstances satisfy the criteria in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22."

On December 13, 2016, respondent approved a resolution terminating and rescinding the contract with Willis effective December 31, 2016. On the same date, respondent approved a resolution rejecting the proposals submitted by Atlantic Associates Insurance Agency, Inc., Business and Governmental Insurance Agency, A.J. Gallagher and Company and Brown and Brown Metro because respondent wanted to substantially revise the specifications for the services.

B. Analysis

Respondent and Willis seek dismissal of the petition on the basis of mootness. Courts normally will not entertain cases when a controversy no longer exists, and the disputed issues have become moot. DeVesa v. Dorsey, 134 N.J. 420, 428 (1993). A case is moot when the original issue presented has been resolved. Ibid. Likewise, an issue is moot when the decision sought in the matter can have no practical effect on the existing controversy. Greenfield v. N.J. Dep't of Corr., 382 N.J. Super. 254, 257-58 (App. Div. 2006). The concept of mootness has been applied to cases before the Commissioner of Education, e.g., Price v. Bd. of Educ. of Washington Twp., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 6121-07, Initial Decision (December 7, 2007), adopted, Comm'r, (January 23, 2008).

In its petition, petitioner requested relief as follows:

(a) Enjoining UBOE from awarding and/or proceeding with any contract for "2016 Request for Proposal for Insurance Brokerage Services";

(b) Rescinding any contract for 2016 Request for Proposal for Insurance Brokerage Services which has already been awarded by UBOE to Willis Insurance;

(c) Requiring the UBOE to award the 2016 contract for Insurance Brokerage Services to one of the four (4) vendors who submitted timely response to the RFP;

(d) Granting such other relief as the Commissioner deems equitable and just.

In regard to petitioner's contention that respondent failed to comply with the order granting emergent relief, it is evident that the first and second items were granted as emergent relief and that respondent in fact terminated and rescinded the contract in question with Willis. The third type of relief was also granted with an alternative recognizing respondent's right to reject all bids. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22(d), a board of education may reject all bids when it wants to substantially revise the specifications for the goods or services. Petitioner maintains that respondent failed to comply with the Order Granting Emergent Relief in that there was no substantial revision to the specifications. Additionally, petitioner seeks a requirement for respondent to provide a certification of reasons for the rejection of all bids.

In support of their motions, respondent and Willis detailed differences between the first and second requests for proposals. From a review of these submissions, it is evident that there were substantial revisions from the first to the second request for proposals particularly with respect to the scope of services to be rendered. It follows that respondent has not failed to comply with the Order Granting Emergent Relief with respect to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. Further, there is no requirement for a board of education to provide a certification of reasons when it rejects all bids pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-22. It follows that petitioner's argument that respondent failed to comply with the Order Granting Emergent Relief is without merit.

The fourth type of relief requested in the petition is "such other relief as the Commissioner deems equitable and just." Petitioner's second contention is that Willis should be required to disgorge any and all commissions that it received under the non-rescinded contract. In support of this contention, petitioner argues that strong remedies are required to deter improper conduct by public officials in the context of public bidding. Further, as a matter of equitable principles, a wrongdoer should be relieved of profits. Since the contract was improperly awarded to Willis, it should be required to disgorge any commissions earned from the time of the award to its rescission.

Willis argues that disgorgement was not included in the relief sought in the petition and that there has been no finding of improper conduct or wrongdoing by Willis. Further, Willis has provided the services in question and should receive the associated fees. Disgorgement would be unfair to Willis and would unjustly enrich respondent. Willis refers to the concept of quantum meruit as a form of quasi-contractual recovery that rests on the principle that a person should not be allowed to enrich himself unjustly at the expense of another.

Here, the equities of the situation do not support petitioner's request for disgorgement. First, petitioner did not mention disgorgement as a form of relief in its petition. Second, strong action has been taken in this case in that the contract in question was terminated and rescinded by respondent as required the Order Granting Emergent Relief. Third, Willis has provided the services in question and should receive just compensation. Fourth, there is no equitable reason for respondent to receive the benefit of disgorgement. It follows that petitioner's argument is without merit.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's motion to dismiss the petition in this matter with prejudice as moot be granted.
2. The motion of Willis to dismiss the petition in this matter with prejudice as moot be granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: June 26, 2017 Decided: June 27, 2017

BEFORE LAURA SANDERS, Acting Director and Chief ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 24, 2016, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. This Settlement Agreement resolves all disputes.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached settlement agreement and the attached Board resolution.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. vs.

HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE OF CLAIMS

OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 02760-2016S

WHEREAS, Christopher Walker ("Walker") is employed as a faculty member for the Hunterdon Central Regional High School Board of Education ("Board"); and

WHEREAS, the Board and Walker have engaged in discussions and have agreed upon the terms of the within Stipulation of Settlement and Release of Claims ("Agreement") which will, among other things, conclude a matter initiated by Walker through an appeal to the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey which matter was referred to the Office of Administrative Law under Docket No. EDU 02760-2016S (the "Petition"); and

WHEREAS, after receiving consent from their respective clients, counsel for the parties placed the terms of the within settlement on the record before Administrative Law Judge Laura Sanders on May 2, 2017; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement is not, and shall not be deemed, an admission by the Board of a violation of any statute, rule, regulation or law, or of wrongdoing of any kind; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement is not, and shall not be deemed, an admission or finding that any claims and/or defenses the parties to this Agreement raised or might have raised against each other, be considered in any way valid or meritorious; and

WHEREAS, Walker and the Board acknowledge that this Agreement is a compromise of claims and/or defenses and that they are entering into this Agreement solely to avoid the inconvenience and expense of further protracted proceedings.

NOW THEREFORE, the parties hereto, intending to be legally bound, hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Each reference to Walker in this Agreement includes Walker and his agents, executors, administrators, heirs, beneficiaries, successors and assigns.
2. This Agreement sets forth the full and final settlement and resolution of any and all claims that Walker may have or may have had against Board for any action and/or omission that has occurred up to the date of the Agreement with regard to Walker's employment with the Board and/or claims or defenses that the Board may have or may have had against Walker for any action that has occurred up to the date of this Agreement with regard to his employment with the Board, including but not limited to all claims and/or defenses that were or might have been raised in the Petition and/or in response thereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Settlement does not resolve any pending workers compensation claim that Walker may have relating to his employment with the School District.
3. Subject to the foregoing sentence, and for and in exchange for the consideration set forth in this Agreement, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Walker knowingly and voluntarily waives, releases, and covenants not to continue to pursue the Petition and/or to initiate any legal or equitable proceeding against the Board and its present or former employees, elected or appointed members, volunteers, servants, agents, attorneys, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns with respect to any and all claims of any kind or nature whatsoever based upon any action that has occurred up to the date of this Agreement with regard to his employment with the Board, regardless of whether such claims are now known or are later discovered, including, but not limited to all claims or causes of action which were or might have been asserted in the Petition or any other civil action; all rights, claims or causes of actions under any other federal, state, or local law; and all other claims or causes of action (whether at common law or otherwise) arising out of his employment with the Board, regardless of whether such claims are now known or are later discovered, including but not limited to any alleged violations of the following:

- The National Labor Relations Act;
- Title VII of the Civil Rights Act;
- Civil Rights Act of 1991;
- Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code;
- The Employee Retirement Income Security Act;
- The Fair Credit Reporting Act;
- The Immigration Reform Control Act;
- The Americans with Disabilities Act;
- The Rehabilitation Act;
- The Fair Labor Standards Act;
- The Occupational Safety and Health Act;
- The Family and Medical Leave Act;
- The Equal Pay Act;
- The Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act;

- Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act;
- Employee Polygraph Protection Act;
- The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination;
- The New Jersey Family Leave Act;
- The New Jersey State Wage and Hour law;
- The New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act;
- The New Jersey Equal Pay Law;
- The New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Laws;
- The New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law;
- The New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act;
- New Jersey laws regarding political activities of employees, lie detector tests, jury duty, employment protection, consumer reports, and discrimination;
- Any other federal, state or local civil rights law or any other local, state or federal law, regulation or ordinance;
- Any public policy, contract (express, written or implied), tort, or common law;
- Any claims for vacation, sick or personal leave pay or payment pursuant to any practice, policy, handbook or manual of the Board, except those referenced below;
- Any allegation for costs, fees or other expenses including attorneys' fees;
- The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, 20 U.S.C. Section 621 et. seq., as amended and, the Older Workers' Benefit Protection Act of 1990 as amended.

4. Walker releases and forever discharges the Board and its present and former employees, elected and appointed members, and any of its insurers, trustees, employees, volunteers, servants, agents, attorneys, representatives, predecessors, successors, and assigns from any and all claims or causes of action of any type whatsoever, legal or equitable, arising from or pertaining to any act or circumstance related to Walker's relationship with and contact with Board and anything else that has occurred up to the date of this Agreement, whether known or unknown.

5. In consideration for dismissal of the Petition, the releases provided for herein, and other good and valuable consideration, the Board agrees to restore to Walker's personnel record accumulated sick leave in the amount of 35 days. Such restoration shall be completed as soon as practicable after the parties' execution of this Agreement.
6. Walker agrees not to disclose to anyone other than his spouse and/or his accountant and/or his attorney the terms and conditions of this Agreement unless required by law.
7. Walker represents and agrees that the only consideration that he has received or which he will receive for executing this Agreement is that which is set forth in this Agreement.
8. It is further understood and agreed that neither the undersigned nor the parties' attorneys or other representatives, will in any way disclose or publicize, whether it be directly or indirectly, to any third party, or in any news, communications, or electronic media, including but not limited to newspapers, magazines, radio, television, or any social media outlet, the facts or terms and conditions of this Agreement unless required by law. This paragraph is intended to become part of the consideration for settlement of Walker's claims.

9. In the event that Walker breaches any portion of this Agreement, Walker agrees that Board is entitled to seek injunctive relief and an award of damages and reasonable costs for any such breach.

10. Walker and Board agree that this Agreement and its terms shall be governed by, construed and enforced under New Jersey Law, regardless of New Jersey's choice of law provisions. The parties agree that they have been represented by counsel. Any dispute related to or involving this Agreement will be litigated in the Superior Court of New Jersey, either Law or Chancery Division, Hunterdon County.

11. By signing this Agreement, Walker acknowledges that he has had the opportunity to consult his attorney and that Walker fully understands the meaning and intent of this Agreement, including but not limited to its binding effect.

12. Walker and the Board agree that if any provision of this Agreement is declared or determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable or invalid for any reason, the validity of the remaining parts or provisions shall not be affected thereby, and the said part, term or provision declared or determined invalid or unenforceable shall be deemed not to be part of this Agreement.

13. This Agreement shall become effective and enforceable upon execution by the parties.

Older Worker Benefit Protection Act: Walker understands that the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act requires that he be provided a period of at least twenty-one (21) calendar days within which to consider this Agreement. Further, Walker has the right within seven calendar days of the date of his signature of this Agreement (the "revocation period") to revoke (that is, cancel) this Agreement, including his waiver of rights to claim damages and/or money under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act and the Older Worker Benefit Protection Act. In the event Walker revokes this Agreement, it shall be null and void as to the foregoing claims only and the parties shall have no obligations hereunder. To be effective, Walker's revocation must be in writing and actually delivered to Gymlyn Corbin, Business Administrator/Board Secretary, at Hunterdon Central Regional High School, with a copy to Carmen Saginario Jr., Esq., at CSaginario@capehart.com within the seven (7) day period. This Agreement shall not become effective or enforceable until the revocation period has expired. Thus, the "effective date" of this Agreement shall be the eighth (8th) day following the date of Walker's signature of this Agreement, provided Walker has not exercised the right of revocation provided herein.

14. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts and shall be deemed fully executed when all parties have signed the Agreement. The parties agree to accept facsimile/scanned signatures in lieu of original signatures which shall have the same validity and effect of original signatures.

15. Walker has read and understands the terms of this Agreement and by signing below acknowledges and voluntarily agrees to accept the terms of this Agreement with full knowledge of its significance. Walker has been and is advised to review and discuss this Agreement with his attorney prior to signing it.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Agreement intending to be legally bound hereby.

H.A.-T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, T.T.	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY; VICTOR VALESKI; EVELYN OGDEN; AND MARK SUTOR,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

In the Spring of 2016, petitioner filed an appeal seeking to have her son's PARCC (Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Career) scores voided, after the respondent Board refused her request to void the scores. The Board asserted that participation in the PARCC assessment is both a requirement in the State of New Jersey, and a graduation requirement in East Brunswick schools. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: in April and May of 2016, T.T. participated in the PARCC assessment; after completing five of six segments, the petitioner contacted the superintendent of schools and instructed that she no longer wanted her son to participate in the assessment; the superintendent thereafter secured the authorization of T.T.'s father to have T.T. complete the PARCC assessment; petitioner subsequently requested that T.T.'s PARCC scores be voided; the Board's attorney represented to petitioner that the Board would seek authorization from the NJ Department of Education (Department) to void T.T.'s scores, and if the Department authorized such action, the Board would in fact void the scores; in a letter dated May 18, 2016, the Board requested written guidance from the Department on whether a completed PARCC assessment could be voided; the Department responded by letter dated May 19, 2016, stating that the Board has the authority to void a PARCC assessment after it has been completed and that the such a decision should be governed by the Board's policies and procedures; despite this guidance from the Department, the Board refused to void T.T.'s PARCC scores, asserting that the PARCC assessment is a State requirement and also a graduation requirement in East Brunswick. The ALJ concluded that the decision of the Board to refuse H.A.-T.'s request to void her son's PARCC assessment – after specifically seeking and receiving guidance from the Department which clarified that a Board does have the authority to void PARCC scores – was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Accordingly, the ALJ determined that the petitioner, not the respondent, is entitled to prevail in this case as a matter of law.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the refusal of the Board to void T.T.'s PARCC scores was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11407-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 184-7/16

H.A.-T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, T.T.	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY; VICTOR VALESKI; EVELYN OGDEN; AND MARK SUTOR,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Board. Petitioner did not file a reply thereto.

The Board takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that because the Department had not yet amended its regulations to reflect that it was now administering the Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Career (PARCC) test rather than the New Jersey Assessment of Skills and Knowledge (NJASK) or High School Proficiency Assessment (HSPA), the Board was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in refusing to void T.T.'s scores because there was no requirement that students must take the PARCC test. Although the regulations still referenced the HSPA, it was clear through guidance and memoranda issued by the Commissioner that the State had transitioned to the PARCC test and that districts were required to administer the assessment.

The Board also takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that the procedures in place for when a parent refuses to allow his or her child to take the PARCC and the existence of alternative means for a student to demonstrate graduation proficiency contradict the requirement that all students participate in Statewide assessments. The Board emphasizes that the Department does not condone a student's ability to opt out of the PARCC, but rather provides instruction for how to handle the situation when it arises. Further, the existence of alternative means to demonstrate high school proficiency does not nullify the requirement that students take the PARCC.

Finally, the Board disagrees with the ALJ's finding that Director Jeffrey Hauger of the Office of Assessments for the Department of Education authorized the Board to void T.T.'s PARCC scores. The Board argues that Director Hauger did not give blanket authorization to the Board to void the scores, but instead indicated that a decision to do so must be in accordance with the Board's policies and procedures. The Board pointed out that Board Policy 5460 requires that it consider a student's performance on the State assessments in making determinations for the student's education program or eligibility to graduate, and therefore it would have violated its own policy had it voided T.T.'s scores.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the refusal of the Board to void T.T.'s PARCC scores is arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. The Board attorney, Matthew Giacobbe, Esq., told petitioner that the District would seek authorization from the State to void the PARCC scores. Thereafter, Mr. Giacobbe submitted a letter to the Department indicating:

> ... As you may be aware, Mr. [T] objected that his son had to take the PARCC Assessment under the pretense that it was required for graduation and therefore desires to have his son's Assessment voided in its entirety. It is the District's understanding that it is unable and/or not authorized to void a PARCC Assessment once the test has been completed. Accordingly, the District respectfully requests written guidance from the New Jersey Department of Education concerning how to address Mr. [T]'s request to void a completed PARCC Assessment.

In response, Director Hauger wrote:

> ... Please be advised that the Board has the authority to void a PARCC assessment after it has been completed by a student. The determination as to whether the Board will take such action is a local issue and the decision should be governed by the Board's policies and procedures.
> (Febres Certification, December 2, 2016, Exhibit B).

The Board does not have a policy prohibiting it from voiding a PARCC score; while Board Policy 5460 references student assessments and their role in assessing student progress, it does not prohibit the Board from voiding a score. The Board reached out to the Department for guidance as it was unsure whether it had the authority to void a score after a student had completed the assessment. Given that the Board specifically sought authorization from the Department to void the scores, received that authorization, and does not have any policy or procedure prohibiting it doing do, the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable manner in refusing to void T.T.'s PARCC scores. The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions to be persuasive. Board Policy 5460 did not prohibit it from voiding a score, and therefore the Board would not have violated its own policy.

Accordingly – to the extent that it found the Board was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable in refusing to void T.T.'s PARCC scores after the Department had expressly given it the authority to do so – the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

H.A.-T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, T.T.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EAST BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY; VICTOR VALESKI; EVELYN OGDEN; AND MARK SUTOR, Respondents.

H.A.-T., pro se

Frances L. Febres, Esq., for respondents (Cleary Giacobbe Alfieri Jacobs, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 2017 Decided: June 30, 2017

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In the spring of 2016, the East Brunswick Board of Education (Board) refused to void T.T.'s PARCC[1] scores. The Board asserted that participation in the PARCC assessment is both a State requirement and a graduation requirement in East Brunswick. Did the Board act arbitrarily, capriciously, or unreasonably? Yes. Participation in the PARCC assessment was not and is still not a State requirement or a graduation requirement in East Brunswick under any State law or Board policy.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 6, 2016, petitioner, on behalf of her son, T.T., filed a petition with the Department of Education to have her son's PARCC scores voided. On May 13, 2016, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes (Bureau) advised petitioner of the legal requirements for filing such an appeal, and on June 8, 2016, petitioner refiled her appeal with the Bureau. On June 9, 2016, the Bureau again advised petitioner of the legal requirements for filing such an appeal, and on June 20, 2016, petitioner refiled her appeal. On June 21, 2016, the Bureau yet again advised petitioner of the legal requirements for filing such an appeal, and on July 8, 2016, petitioner finally perfected her appeal.

On July 29, 2016, the Bureau transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On December 6, 2016, respondents moved for summary decision; on January 19, 2017, petitioner opposed the motion; on May 24, 2017, I held a telephone conference to discuss the motion; and on June 30, 2017, I closed the record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the Certification of Victor Valeski, the Certification of Mark Sutor, and the Certification of Frances Febres, and in viewing those certifications in the light most favorable to the East Brunswick Board of Education and not petitioner, that is, as if petitioner had cross-moved for summary decision, I FIND the following as FACT:

During the 2015–16 school year, T.T. was a ninth-grade student at Churchill Junior High School in the East Brunswick School District in East Brunswick, New Jersey.

From April 19, through May 16, 2016, the East Brunswick Board of Education administered the PARCC assessment to its ninth-grade students. During that time, each building administrator was responsible for issuing his or her own PARCC-related notifications. Since Churchill Junior High School and East Brunswick High School are separate buildings and entities, the parents of students at Churchill Junior High School received different PARCC-related notifications than parents of students at East Brunswick High School.

On December 1, 2015, and on December 8, 2015, Mark Sutor, the principal of Churchill Junior High School, notified parents of students at Churchill Junior High School, by telephone and through email, about a PARCC-assessment presentation that was scheduled to take place at a Parent-Teacher Association (PTA) meeting on December 10, 2015.

At that PTA meeting and presentation on December 10, 2015, the Board explained to those in attendance that students could complete an assessment portfolio to satisfy graduation requirements in the event they did not pass the PARCC assessment.

In addition, on March 28, 2016, Sutor notified parents of students at Churchill Junior High School, again by telephone and email, about the PARCC assessment and referenced a letter that Victor Valeski, the superintendent of schools, had issued about the PARCC assessment. Sutor also referenced a frequently asked questions (FAQ) sheet about the PARCC assessment that had been emailed to parents and had been uploaded on the school website. In that FAQ sheet, the Board asked, "Is PARCC a required assessment?" and then answered, "All students in the tested grades or courses are required to take PARCC."

The full answer, however, is contradictory. In the first paragraph of that answer, the Board states that all students are required to take the PARCC assessment, and that all students must take the PARCC assessment to graduate, but in the last paragraph of that answer, the Board states that it cannot force a student to take the test. The question and answer is reproduced below in relevant part:

> PARCC is the State of New Jersey's legally required assessment for all students in grades 3 to 11, and for specific courses at the high school level in order to establish graduation eligibility. All students in the tested grades or courses are required to take PARCC.
>
>
> . . . PARCC testing is not optional and there is no "opt-out provision." We cannot force a student to take the test . . . . A student directed by his or her parent to not take the PARCC will be placed in a separate room from his/her classmates taking the assessment and will occupy their time reading.
> [Certification of Marc Sutor dated December 1, 2016, at Ex. C.]

The Board also noted in the FAQ sheet that opportunities other than the PARCC assessment exist for students to meet graduation requirements:

> State Eligibility for Graduation Requirement
> PARCC is the official State graduation eligibility assessment
> . . . .

> In order for the students who did not score at the proficient level on PARCC to graduate, the State Department of Education set minimal achievement scores for several other standardized assessments, including the PSAT, ACT, ASVB, and ACCUPLACER. The intent was to provide additional opportunities for students to meet the standards and be awarded a high school diploma. Students who do not meet the minimal test standards on any of these tests must participate in the rigorous, lengthy and time consuming State Portfolio Assessment Process in their senior year. If they do not pass the Portfolio Assessment, they are ineligible to graduate.

Between April 19, 2016, and May 16, 2016, T.T. participated in the PARCC assessment, but after T.T. completed approximately five of the six segments, petitioner contacted Valeski and told him that she no longer wanted her son to participate in the assessment. Valeski encouraged petitioner to change her mind and have her son complete the assessment. Petitioner, however, refused. Valeski then spoke to petitioner's husband, who gave his authorization for T.T. to complete the PARCC assessment.

On May 12, 2016, during a Board of Education meeting, petitioner approached Valeski, in the presence of Matthew Giacobbe, Esq., counsel for the Board, and asked them to void T.T.'s PARCC scores.

Giacobbe then answered, in Valeski's presence, that they would seek authorization from the Department of Education to do so, and if the Department of Education authorized them to void T.T.'s PARCC scores, they would in fact do so.

On May 18, 2016, Giacobbe asked the Department of Education whether the Board could void the PARCC scores, and on May 19, 2016, the Department of Education responded that the Board did have the authority to do so, noting that the determination should be governed by Board policy and procedure.

Nevertheless, the Board refused to void T.T.'s PARCC scores, asserting that participation in the PARCC assessment is both a State requirement and a graduation requirement in East Brunswick.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I.

Respondents submit three arguments in support of their motion for summary decision. I will address each in turn. Before I do so, I note that petitioner improperly pled Valeski, Sutor, and Ogden[2] as parties to this case. Therefore, I will dismiss Valeski, Sutor, and Ogden from this case and will refer to the Board from this point forward as the only respondent in this case.

First, the Board argues through the certifications it submitted that it could not void the PARCC scores because it had no policy or procedure in place for doing so and petitioner demonstrated no exceptional circumstance for the Board to deviate from its policy and practice that all qualifying students participate in statewide assessments. The Board policy the Board refers to is Board Policy 5460. That policy requires all students, with the exception of students with a disability, or those authorized to participate in alternative assessments, to participate in statewide assessments. Yet this argument overlooks the fact that Giacobbe told petitioners that the Board would void the PARCC scores if the Department of Education gave the Board the authority to do so, which it did. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the decision by the Board to refuse to void the PARCC scores is arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable under the circumstances.

Second, the Board argues in its brief that all students are required to participate in the PARCC assessment. In support of its argument, respondent relies on N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1. This citation, however, is misleading. Today, that regulation states that boards of education shall administer the PARCC assessments, see N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1 (2016), but in 2015, when this controversy arose, the regulation stated that boards of education shall administer the HSPA,[3] see N.J.A.C. 6A:8-4.1 (2015). Even though the Department of Education had made it clear in August 2015 in its handout "Year Two of PARCC . . . Parent PARCC Questions Answered" that New Jersey had transitioned from the NJASK[4] and the HSPA to the PARCC, and even though the Department of Education had made it clear in September 2015 in its memorandum "Student Participation in the Statewide Assessment Program" that State law and regulations required all students to take State assessments, and that all students were still expected to participate in statewide assessment programs, the Department of Education had not yet changed its regulations and no State law yet existed to reflect that policy or authorize this transition from the NJASK and the HSPA to the PARCC. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the decision by the Board to refuse to void the PARCC scores is arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable under the circumstances.

Third, the Board argues in its brief that participation in the PARCC assessment was a graduation requirement. This too is untrue. In the spring of 2016, the regulation governing graduation requirements in New Jersey required students to demonstrate proficiency in all sections of the HSPA, not the PARCC, and, even then, alternative means existed to meet graduation requirements. See N.J.A.C. 6A:8-1.5(a)(6) (2015). Although this regulation was later changed to substitute the PARCC for the HSPA, alternative means still remained to meet graduation requirements, and the PARCC was not, and is still not, a graduation requirement. See N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(a)(6) (2016). In fact, the FAQ sheet upon which respondent relies states as much. In addition, the current regulation phases in the PARCC over a period of years. See N.J.A.C. 6A:8-5.1(f) (2016). Moreover, the current Board policy for high school graduation upon which East Brunswick relies, Board Policy 5460, still does not include the PARCC assessment as a graduation requirement. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the decision by the Board to refuse to void the PARCC scores is arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable under the circumstances.

II.

A party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motions shall be served with briefs. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). They may also be served either with or without affidavits. Ibid.

Summary decision may ultimately be rendered if the papers, together with the affidavits, show that no genuine issue of material fact exists, and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Ibid. This standard for granting motions for summary decision under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 is substantially the same as it is for granting motions for summary judgment under R. 4:46-2. Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (App. Div. 1995), certif. denied, 145 N.J. 372 (1996). Thus, the competent evidential materials presented must be viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party. See Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

In this case, respondent served its motion with a brief and with certifications. Petitioner then opposed the motion, but did not cross-move for summary decision. Nevertheless, in viewing those certifications in the light most favorable to respondent, I CONCLUDE that no genuine issue of material fact exists and that petitioner, not respondent, is entitled to prevail as a matter of law, but not against Valeski, Sutor, and Ogden, because they are improper parties to this case, and the claims against them should be dismissed.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the claims against Valeski, Sutor, and Ogden by petitioner are DISMISSED; that the motion for summary decision by the Board against petitioner is DENIED; and that the cross-motion against the Board as posited by this tribunal is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this case. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

On March 22, 2017, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13. The matter was scheduled for prehearing telephone conferences on May 24, 2017 and June 6, 2017, conferences were held and parties agreed to settle the matter. A signed copy of the Settlement Agreement and General Release indicating the terms of settlement was forwarded to the undersigned June 20, 2017, and is attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and terms of the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Respondent, State-operated School District of the City of Newark (hereinafter the "District"), with its principal place of business at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102 and Petitioner, Q.J. (hereinafter the "Parent"), individually and on behalf of her minor child, D.J., residing at 382 Dayton Street, Newark New Jersey 07114, seeking to amicably resolve any and all claims, hereby agree as follows:

1. Petitioner filed this action requesting an Order directing that her son, student D.J., be enrolled in the District under the surname of "Jenkins" rather than the surname of "Jenkins-Hepburn" as reflected on official documentation that has been presented to the District.

2. The District has been presented with evidence that Petitioner's other children were enrolled under the name "Jenkins," despite a hyphenated name on their official documentation.

3. In the interest of equity and consistency, and in the absence of any existing legal authority or Order presented to the District mandating any action contrary to Petitioner's request, the District hereby agrees to waive its Policy 5111 in this instance, and enroll D.J. under the surname "Jenkins" rather than the hyphenated name on the birth certificate. As such, all school records relating to D.J. will be under the name of "Jenkins."

4. Q.J. agrees to withdraw her Petition.

5. Q.J. acknowledges that this Agreement sets forth a complete and full resolution of all matters including matters arising in connection with this matter and fully resolves any and all causes of action and claims arising prior to the date of this signed instrument that may otherwise exist against the District, its officials, officers, employees, agents, and attorneys, including claims for damages, fees or costs of any kind in any forum under any State or Federal law, statute, rule or regulation.

6. This Agreement shall not be interpreted as an admission of wrongdoing nor deemed as a precedent in any future District matters.

7. This Agreement shall be construed fairly, according to the plain language of its terms.

8. The Parent and District acknowledge that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without duress or coercion.

9. This Agreement constitutes the full and complete agreement of the parties hereto with respect to its subject matter and supersedes any prior or contemporaneous representations, whether oral or written, and may not be modified or amended except by a written instrument signed by all parties hereto.

Record Closed: June 26, 2017 Decided: June 30, 2017

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

These three cases involve appeals from determinations of the Board of Education of the Town of Newton under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. The earliest case was transmitted were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 30, 2016. At the time of the first case management conference, the existence of the other challenges were known and considered to be en route to the OAL. The latter two cases were transmitted on or close to the same time from the agency to the OAL and were filed on March 30 and 31, 2017.

Under Order entered on April 20, 2017, I determined that the two cases docketed as EDU 00005-17 and EDU 04462-17 would be consolidated for all purposes. I further determined that EDU 04506-17 raised enough common questions of fact and would entail the presentation of several common witnesses such that it would proceed as a matter of case management on the same hearing dates but would receive a separate Initial Decision.

On May 31, 2017, the matters were set down for the first day of the plenary hearings. Prior to commencing the hearings, I facilitated a resolution of all the allegations and defenses, the terms of which were placed on the record. On June 26, 2017, counsel for the Newton Board of Education forwarded a fully executed Settlement Agreement and Release between the parties and requested that if approved, I incorporate same into an order.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of Settlement Agreement and Release and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

WHEREAS, on November 1, 2016, Petitioners appeared before the Board for a hearing to present their appeal regarding the HIB matter, following which the Board affirmed the determination that R.M. had engaged in HIB against another student; and

WHEREAS, the District's anti-bullying staff members conducted an HIB investigation relating to events involving R.M. and staff members Kurt Walton and Tony Virga which occurred on or about October 20, 2016, following which the staff and the Superintendent determined that Mr. Walton and Mr. Virga had not engaged in HIB against R.M.; and

WHEREAS, the District's anti-bullying staff members conducted an HIB investigation relating to an event involving R.M. and staff member German Rueda which occurred on or about December 14, 2016, following which the staff and the Superintendent determined that Mr. Rueda had not engaged in HIB against R.M.; and

WHEREAS, Petitioners disagreed with the three HIB decisions and filed petitions of appeal with the Commissioner of Education ("the Commissioner"), which were assigned Agency Reference Numbers 309-12/16, 330-12/16, and 48-3/17 and OAL Docket Numbers EDU 00005-17, EDU 04462-17, and EDU 04506-17;

WHEREAS, the parties, each having a desire to amicably settle any and all claims in all jurisdictions, asserted and unasserted, now hereby agree as follows:

1. As part of staff members' annual training occurring prior to commencement of the 2017-18 school year, Mr. Rueda, superintendent Dr. G. Kennedy Greene, Principal Jeff Waldron, and HIB Specialist Lisa Bechtel will receive training on HIB prevention, compliance with statutory mandates under the ABBRA, and sexual harassment.

2. Mr. Rueda will issue to R.M. a written letter of apology for distress caused by the actions which formed the basis of R.M.'s HIB complaint against him.

3. R.M. will be removed from Mr. Rueda's Spanish class for the remainder of the 2016-17 school year, will be provided with a place to study during that class period, and will never again be placed in Mr. Rueda's class.

4. The District will provide R.M. with a Spanish teacher other than Mr. Rueda for the Spanish class in which she is currently enrolled.

5. Counseling will be made available to R.M. with the school psychologist or guidance counselor as long as R.M. feels it is helpful.

6. All documents relating to these HIB matters and the HIB investigations, including all HIB findings against R.M., will be purged and will not be included in R.M.'s student records. With respect to the disciplinary consequences imposed as a result of the HIB matter, including R.M.'s suspension, such records will be expunged.

7. The District will contact the New Jersey Department of Education ("the DOE") and request that the HIB finding against R.M. be removed from the DOE's NJ Smart records.

8. The District will remove from R.M.'s attendance records any reference to unexcused absences for which verification has been provided and any "verified truancies" with respect to absences for which a parental excuse has been provided.

9. Assistant Principal Kurt Walton will have no contact with R.M. for the remainder of her enrollment in the District.

10. The Petitioners hereby withdraw their appeal from the administration's finding that Assistant Principal Kurt Walton did not commit an act of HIB at a recent school assembly.

11. Petitioners, on their own behalves and on behalf of R.M., and the Board mutually release and forever discharge each other, its/their officers, employees, administrators, agents, and servants from any and all past, present, or future claims, whether known or unknown to Petitioners or R.M., arising out of events that have occurred prior to the date on which this Agreement is signed, including but not limited to the HIB matters relating to R.M.

12. Petitioners, on their own behalves and on behalf of R.M., release and forever discharge the Board, its officers, employees, administrators, agents, and servants from any and all past, present, or future claims which they or R.M. have or might have against them, because of all damages, liabilities, losses, or injuries to person or property, or both, whether developed or undeveloped, including attorneys' fees, resulting or to result from any matter relating to R.M. from the beginning of time through the date on which this Agreement is signed.

13. The parties agree to refrain from filing any proceeding, action, or complaint regarding any claims by or rights of Petitioners and/or R.M. from the beginning of time through the date of this Agreement. It is expressly understood and agreed, however, that the parties reserve the right to bring a claim before any tribunal of competent jurisdiction to enforce their rights under this Agreement.

of the Board of liability, responsibility, or wrongdoing, that its HIB decisions were incorrect, inappropriate, or unlawful, that any rights of Petitioners and/or R.M. were violated at any time, or that either party has failed to act in accordance with any laws, statutes, regulations, and/or codes.

15. Each party shall be fully responsible for its/their own attorneys' fees and costs.

16. The drafting and negotiation of this Agreement have been participated in by each of the parties and their respective counsel and, for all purposes, this Agreement shall be deemed to have been drafted jointly by each of the parties. No ambiguity shall be resolved against any party based upon authorship. The parties acknowledge that they have been represented by counsel throughout the settlement of this matter, throughout the negotiation of this Agreement, and at the execution of this Agreement, and that they have read and consulted with counsel regarding this Agreement and fully understand its requirements and limitations. The parties further acknowledge that they enter into this Agreement voluntarily and free of coercion. Petitioners have represented that they are satisfied with the legal services provided by their counsel, Julie Warshaw, Esq., Warshaw Law Firm, LLC.

17. The parties further agree that this Agreement may not be altered, amended, modified, superseded, canceled, or terminated except by an express written agreement duly executed by all of the parties or their attorneys on their behalf, which makes specific reference to this Agreement.

18. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey. This Agreement constitutes a complete legal release of any and all claims that were or

19. This Agreement contains the entire agreement between the parties hereto and is intended to resolve any and all disputes and issues, known or unknown, between them as of the date of execution of this Agreement.

20. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, including by fax, each of which shall be deemed an original and all of which shall constitute one and the same instrument.

21. The Parties agree and acknowledge that each of the provisions of this Agreement is reasonable and should be fully enforceable, and the Parties waive any right to argue, assert, or allege any claim to the contrary. However, if any provision of this Agreement is determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable because it is overbroad or unreasonable, the Parties agree that such provision(s) may be modified and enforced to the maximum extent permissible. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid and cannot be modified so as to make it enforceable, then such provision shall be deemed to be severed from the Agreement, and the remaining provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

22. This Agreement shall become effective upon entry of an Initial Decision incorporating its terms by the Administrative Law Judge assigned to this matter and approval as a Final Decision by the Commissioner of Education.

Dear Parties:

I have considered the papers filed in connection with the respondent's request for interlocutory review of ALJ Joan Bedrin Murray's Order of July 28, 2017, denying the respondent's motion to dismiss the petition for lack of standing in the above-captioned matter. Upon full consideration of all of the submitted materials, I have determined not to grant interlocutory review, pursuant to my discretion under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10.

Accordingly, the respondent's request for interlocutory review is hereby denied.*

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that his children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner and his wife are divorced, and had originally resided at a home in the city of Trenton. However, following the divorce, an Order giving residential custody of the children to Cecilia Tompoe (Tompoe) – an unrelated Ewing resident – was entered in the Superior Court of New Jersey in September 2013, and joint legal custody was given to E.H. and the children's mother, B.H. For the 2014-2015 school year, petitioner's children were registered in Ewing Public Schools at Tompoe's Ewing address pursuant to a host family affidavit wherein E.H. certified that he was living at the same address. The host family arrangement requires annual recertification, and when no such reregistration was filed for S.H. and SH.H for the 2015-2016 school year, the District commenced a residency investigation in which it was determined that the children were residing at their former address in Trenton. Petitioner contends that the host family arrangement is still in place, although he was forced to move back into the Trenton home so that it was not left vacant when his wife moved to Philadelphia; the children spend time at the Trenton address, but remain domiciled in Ewing under the host family agreement.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony provided by witnesses for both petitioner and respondent in this matter was credible; the facts in this case show a complicated, tripartite custody and residence arrangement, sanctioned by an Order entered in the Superior Court of New Jersey; the 2013 Court Order sets the residence of the children, S.H. and SH.H., at the Ewing home of Tompoe; the parties have a fluid schedule for where the children sleep, dependent upon visitation with two parents and the variable work schedule of Tompoe; however, the Superior Court Order setting the children's residence with Tompoe is ultimately the deciding factor in this case; and petitioner met his burden to show by a preponderance of the evidence that the domicile of his children is that of their residential guardian, as set forth in the 2013 Superior Court order. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that petitioner's appeal be granted, and that the action of the respondent Board disenrolling S.H. and SH.H. be reversed.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the petitioner established that his children are entitled to attend school in the Ewing School District in accordance with the Order of the New Jersey Superior Court, dated September 9, 2013. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

E.H., father of S.H. and Sh.H. (petitioners), challenges the determination of respondent Ewing Township Board of Education (District) that his children did not reside in the District. The District has filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days S.H. and Sh.H. attended school in the District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In December 2015, the District notified E.H. that his children were being disenrolled based on non-residency. On January 23, 2016, petitioner appealed the decision. On February 2, 2016, the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case. The hearing was held on May 2, 2016, and the record remained open for the submission of post hearing briefs by the parties. Petitioner did not file any post hearing submissions and the record closed on August 25, 2016. Extensions of time were granted for the filing of the Initial Decision.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Many of the material facts in this matter are undisputed. E.H. is the father of S.H. and Sh.H., students attending the District's schools. For the 2014-15 school year, S.H. and Sh.H. had been registered in the District pursuant to host family status whereby a parent certifies that he or she is living with another unrelated Ewing resident. The Ewing resident also certifies to the living arrangement. In March 2014 Cecelia Tompoe (Tompoe) of 66 Pennwood Drive, Ewing registered as the host for the children and E.H. certified as well. On September 9, 2013, an Order giving residential custody to Tompoe (P-1) had been entered in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Joint legal custody was given to E.H. and the children's mother B.H. However, Ewing requires that the host family recertify every year and when no such reregistration was filed on a timely basis for S.H. and Sh.H. for the 2015-16 school year the District commenced a residency investigation. After its residency investigation was completed Ewing took action to disenroll the students and assess tuition against E.H. for the period of September 16 through the present. E.H. contested the District's action and this appeal resulted.

In support of its action the District presented the testimony of David Mikaluskas, its Attendance and Residency Officer and Peter Manetto, an investigator who performed the physical surveillance portion of the investigation. Mikaluskas testified that when the children were not reregistered for the 2015-16 year, the school the children were attending called the Tompoe home but allegedly no one at the number was familiar with the children. He also stated that no one responded to letters from the District inquiring about enrollment and as a result the District commenced its residency investigation. He then presented the District's computation of tuition owed. Tuition for S.H. on a yearly basis was $13,980.00 and for Sh.H. it was $14,984.00, resulting in a daily rate of $76.39 and $81.87 respectively. On cross-examination Mikaluskas admitted that when an attempt was made to reregister the children for that school year they were not allowed to do so because the District had questions regarding residency.

Manetto also testified for the District and reviewed his investigation into the children's residency. He first surveilled the children on twelve days in September and October 2015 (R-1) and again for days in March and April 2016. The surveillances were conducted at 40 Redding Avenue in Trenton, New Jersey, at a home owned by E.H. and at the Pennwood Avenue home of Tompoe. He stated that on Wednesday, September 16, 2015 and the next day Thursday, he surveilled the Pennwood Avenue address and did not observe the children there. He then surveilled the Redding Avenue address on ten occasions from Tuesday September 22, 2015, through Friday, October 16, 2015. On those days, he observed the children exiting the Trenton address and being transported to the school in Ewing or the Pennwood address where they took a school bus. After E.H. filed this appeal, Manetto conducted the additional eight days of surveillance in March and April 2016. On those days, which covered various days of the week, Manetto observed the children leaving the Trenton address and being transported to Ewing for school.

In response to the District's case petitioner E.H. and Tompoe testified. They both described a complicated family situation arising out the children's parents' divorce. E.H. stated that the family had been living at the Trenton address when he and B.H. divorced. When he and B.H. could not agree on custody B.H. wanted the children to live with Tompoe who was an aunt to the children. Tompoe then received residential custody via the court order and E.H. and B.H., who shared joint legal custody, orally agreed on an arrangement whereby the children had visitation with their mother on weekends and stayed with their father on Thursday and Friday. The remaining time they stayed at the Tompoe home. For a period, E.H. resided at the Tompoe home but returned to the Trenton address after B.H. moved to Philadelphia in order to keep the house occupied. He further testified that once B.H. relocated from the Trenton home to Philadelphia he moved back to the Redding Avenue home to keep it secure until it was either sold or foreclosed upon.

He did not deny the results of Manetto's investigation but explained that the children's schedules at either home could vary based upon visitation with their mother and Tompoe's work schedule which could require her to be at work extremely early in the morning. He stated that the children stay with him if Tompoe's work or vacation schedule requires it. As to why he did not reregister the children he said that he assumed it was Tompoe's responsibility. As noted earlier the District did not allow reregistration once it became apparent there was an issue.

Tompoe then testified, describing the children as her niece and nephew. Aside from her husband and herself and the children, only her college age daughter resides in the home. She works as a cook at Princeton Medical Center but does not drive, depending on her husband for transportation. If she needs to get to work early on a given morning her husband must drive her and as the children could not be left alone, they might spend the evening at their father's home. If her daughter is home from college, then such an arrangement is not necessary. She testified that the children have their own rooms at her home and, as is the custom in their African community, E.H. does not provide her with payment but contributes food and sundries to their household. According to Tompoe the children stay with her on a Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday schedule unless her job schedule requires that they stay elsewhere to insure they're not being alone in the early morning hours. When questioned regarding the results of Manetto's investigation, she stated that on September 22, 2015 she had to go to work early and on October 12 and 13, 2015, she was on vacation for the week and the children stayed with their father. On March 23, 2016, she had to leave by 4:30 a.m. for her job, and for safety and convenience sake the children stayed with their father.

She corroborated E.H.'s testimony that he had been residing with her when the children were initially registered in Ewing in 2014, and that he had only moved back to the Trenton residence when it was vacated by B.H. in order to prevent it from being vandalized as a vacant home until it was sold.

In reviewing the record in this case both Mikaluskas and Manetto were credible in their testimony. However, Mikaluskas' statement that school staff called the Tompoe home is excluded as no competent credible corroborating evidence was presented regarding that call. Manetto's testimony set forth the results of the District's investigation and petitioner did not contest the facts it set forth.

Similarly, I FOUND both Tompoe and E.H. to be credible. While they did not contest the facts as set forth in Manetto's surveillance, they provided credible explanations for their actions. As English is not their first language their testimony required careful attention as they described a complicated extended family situation in which the parties appeared to be grappling on a daily basis with the needs of children and jobs in an evolving family dynamic. Neither attempted to deny the children's schedule on the limited days Manetto surveilled them, however I FOUND their explanations for how the children's schedule was handled and the reasons for it to be credible.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In New Jersey, a student is eligible to attend a school free of charge if the student is domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A child is domiciled within the district when he or she is living with a parent or legal guardian whose permanent home is located within the district. A home is permanent when the parent or guardian intends to return to it after being absent from the home and has no present intent of moving from home, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere. The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)2.

This matter presents an unusual fact pattern for a school residency case, and yet it is one is sanctioned by a New Jersey Superior Court Order. In the usual residency matter an issue often arises when parents have divorced. Although parents have joint custody a court order can determine the domicile of the child for purposes of enrollment in a given district. Here the matter is complicated by a valid New Jersey Superior Court Order giving Tompoe residential custody of the children with joint legal custody in the divorced parents. Once B.H. moved to Philadelphia and the children began spending time with both parents, while residing with Tompoe, it became a tripartite, rather than a dual living arrangement.

It is important to note that petitioner has shown that this tripartite arrangement is sanctioned by a Superior Court Order. By its very nature, it assumes that Tompoe is the residential guardian of the children with her home as their domicile. As the parents have joint legal custody the Order presumes they will make arrangements among themselves and Tompoe as to their time with the children. As such E.H. has the children with him at least two nights a week on Thursday and Friday, while their mother may take them for the weekend. All agree that the arrangement is flexible depending on their mother's schedule, Tompoe's work schedule and whether there is an adult available at Tompoe's home to oversee the children. Clearly E.H. as their father has attempted to assist Tompoe by being available for the children when her work or vacation schedule requires it.

The District points to the failure to reregister the children and the results of Manetto's investigation as key facts in the decision to disenroll the children. While Manetto's observations were credible, petitioner's explanation for the children's schedule and the terms of the Court Order provide a credible counterpoint to the District's case. Manetto's investigation, while technically covering all days of the week was limited in its scope. Tompoe and E.H. were credible in her explanation of her vacation week in October 2015, and her work schedule. She and E.H. explained days in September and March 2016 when the children stayed at their father's home as a way of keeping them safe when she had to leave in the early morning. As such the sampling of days presented by the District's surveillance was limited in number. Further as testified to by the parties, visitation with their mother B.H. was often ad hoc and could result in the children being dropped off at their father's.

The facts in this matter show a complicated, tripartite custody and residence situation, sanctioned by Court Order. It is important to note, however, that the Court Order of 2013 allows for such an arrangement and sets the children's residence as that of Tompoe. While it appears that the parties have a fluid schedule for where the children sleep, dependent on visitation with two parents and the vagaries of work requirements, the Superior Court Order setting the children's residence with Tompoe is ultimately the deciding factor in this case.

DECISION AND ORDER

Petitioner has met his burden in this matter and has shown by a preponderance of the evidence that the domicile of his children is that of their residential guardian, Cecelia Tompoe as set forth in the New Jersey Superior Order of Janetta D. Marbrey, J.S.C.

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioner's appealed is granted and the action of respondent Ewing Township Board of Education disenrolling his children S.H. and Sh.H. is REVERSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete the charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed her training after the issuance of the Commission's March 29, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

	:	DOCKET NO.: T11-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Newark, County of Essex. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF PHOEBE HADDON, LEAP ACADEMY UNIVERSITY CHARTER SCHOOL, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete the charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed her training after the issuance of the Commission's March 29, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Camden, County of Camden. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Acting Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Acting Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

Re: In the Matter of the Certificate of Joel Ignall, State Board of Examiners, State Board of Examiners Dkt. No. 1011-245, Agency Dkt. No. 3-9/16A.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with appellant Joel Ignall's appeal of a decision of the State Board of Examiners (Board). In a decision dated June 21, 2010, the Board denied the appellant's request to remove all references to the Board's action revoking his county substitute certificate from the Department of Education's website.

Upon review of the submissions, I find that the appellant's appeal was not timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.2. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.2, "[a]ppeals from final decisions of the Board of Examiners shall be filed within 30 days of the filing date of the decision from which appeal is taken." Guidance as to what constitutes notice sufficient to trigger the running of this regulatory provision was provided by the Supreme Court in Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). In Kaprow, supra, the Court found that adequate notice of a final order is one which is "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow at 587.

Here, the Board's June 21, 2010 decision clearly stated that "[t]his matter may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38.4." Yet, the appellant did not file this appeal until September 9, 2016, over six years after the Board issued its decision. Finally, I find that the appellant has not presented any compelling reason or exceptional circumstance which would warrant relaxation of the timely filing requirement.[1] Accordingly, the appeal is dismissed as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.2.[2]

Kimberley Harrington

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Newark, County of Essex. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to; Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF CAL MARADONA,	:
LEAP ACADEMY UNIVERSITY CHARTER	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete the charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed his training after the issuance of the Commission's March 29, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Camden, County of Camden. As a result of his position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 3 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 3 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding his failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated March 3, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, advising him that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter detailed instructions for how Respondent could complete training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on March 29, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed his training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why he did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF LISA MILLER,	:
MERIT PREPARATORY CHARTER	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately completed training after the issuance of its March 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's April 25, 2017 meeting; the Commission therefore recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4, of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and certified mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. CHARTER SCHOOL, HUDSON COUNTY. : DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately completed training after the issuance of its March 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's April 25, 2017 meeting; the Commission therefore recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4, of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

DR. LENA EDWARDS ACADEMIC CHARTER SCHOOL,* HUDSON COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO COMPLETE MANDATORY TRAINING REQUIREMENT IN A TIMELY MANNER
	:	DOCKET NO.: T15-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Jersey City, County of Hudson. As a result of his position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 3 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 3 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding his failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated March 3, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, advising him that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter detailed instructions for how Respondent could complete training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on March 29, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed his training requirement, and also filed a response to the Commission's OTSC. Importantly, Respondent did not deny that he did not complete training in a timely fashion.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Red Bank, County of Monmouth. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 1 training program.

NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Acting Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Acting Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Jersey City, County of Hudson. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance I and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, and also filed a response to the Commission's OTSC. Importantly, Respondent did not deny that she did not complete training in a timely fashion.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Acting Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Acting Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete the charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed her training after the issuance of the Commission's March 29, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

LEAP ACADEMY UNIVERSITY CHARTER SCHOOL,* CAMDEN COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO COMPLETE MANDATORY TRAINING REQUIREMENT IN A TIMELY MANNER
	:	DOCKET NO.: T09-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Camden, County of Camden. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Acting Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Acting Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension for 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from his position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has he submitted proof that he completed the online training program. Respondent also did not appeal the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes respondent for failing to honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law, since such failure has resulted in unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended from his position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision and is hereby ordered to complete the requisite online training program within 30 days. If the respondent does not complete the online training program within 30 days from the date of this decision the respondent shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing the Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Atlantic City, County of Atlantic. As a result of his position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 1 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance I and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding his failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated March 3, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, advising him that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter detailed instructions for how Respondent could complete training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on March 29, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why he did not complete training by June 30, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Acting Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of his thirty

(30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF DENISE SIMMONS, THE BARACK OBAMA GREEN CHARTER HIGH SCHOOL, UNION COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension for 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from her position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has she submitted proof that she completed the online training program. Respondent also did not appeal the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes respondent for failing to honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law, since such failure has resulted in unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended from her position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision and is hereby ordered to complete the requisite online training program within 30 days. If the respondent does not complete the online training program within 30 days from the date of this decision the respondent shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Plainfield, County of Hudson. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Acting Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty

(30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4:1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Acting Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Acting Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's briefs on appeal.

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Jersey City, County of Hudson. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 1 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance I and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Acting Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty

(30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF CYNDEE PHOENIX, INTERNATIONAL ACADEMY OF ATLANTIC CITY CHARTER SCHOOL, ATLANTIC COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension for 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from her position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has she submitted proof that she completed the online training program. Respondent also did not appeal the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes respondent for failing to honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law, since such failure has resulted in unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended from her position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision and is hereby ordered to complete the requisite online training program within 30 days. If the respondent does not complete the online training program within 30 days from the date of this decision the respondent shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing the Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Atlantic City, County of Atlantic. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 1 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance I and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Acting Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty

(30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately completed training after the issuance of its March 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's April 25, 2017 meeting; the Commission therefore recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4, of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Newark, County of Essex. As a result of her position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 2 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 2 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by June 30, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured physical education teacher, sought an order requiring the respondent Board to reimburse him for his salary that was withheld between September 1, 2013 and March 1, 2014, a period that corresponds to the time between when a criminal indictment against petitioner was dismissed and the date upon which he was reinstated to the payroll. Petitioner contended that a tenured teacher may not be suspended without pay unless that teacher has been indicted or tenure charges have been filed against the teacher; otherwise, a tenured teacher's suspension must be with pay. In the instant case, petitioner resigned from his position effective April 13, 2014, and the Board never filed tenure charges against him. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, a tenured employee is entitled to back pay when no longer under indictment but before tenure charges are filed; accordingly, petitioner is entitled to back pay during any period that he was not under indictment and there were no tenure charges pending; the negative inferences about petitioner's conduct do not factor into this analysis because even if he were found guilty, he would nonetheless be entitled to suspension with pay for the month of February 2014; further, because the petitioner was not seeking payment during the period that he was under indictment, inquiries into fundamental fairness are not dispositive; and petitioner's request for reimbursement of costs associated with bringing his appeal was not considered, as the issue was raised in the original petition. The ALJ concluded that Board owes petitioner his salary for the month of February 2014. Accordingly, the ALJ granted petitioner's motion for summary decision with respect to payment of his wages for February 2014; denied petitioner's motion regarding his request for costs associated with this proceeding; and denied the Board's motion for summary decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record and the exceptions filed by both petitioner and respondent, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision and remanded the matter to the OAL for determination of unresolved issues in the case. In so doing, the Commissioner specifically ordered that the ALJ determine whether petitioner is entitled to back pay from September 1, 2013 through March 1, 2014 and whether such determination should include "weighing of the equities" and consideration of "fundamental fairness."

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PISCATAWAY, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] Exceptions filed by the petitioner and respondent – submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered by the Commissioner. In this matter, petitioner seeks back-pay for the period between September 1, 2013 (the commencement of his suspension without pay following his indictment) and March 1, 2014 (the date of his reinstatement into the Board's payroll following dismissal of his indictment).[2] As reflected in the Initial Decision, the ALJ granted petitioner's "motion for summary decision" in part, concluding that petitioner is entitled to payment of his wages from February 4, 2014 through March 1, 2014 because his indictment was dismissed and tenure charges were not filed; and denied in part,

[1] The Commissioner questions the completeness of the record before her as the file transmitted for her review appears deficient, as will be addressed herein.

[2] Petitioner's initial petition – filed on May 2, 2014 – sought back-pay from February 4, 2014 (the date his indictment was dismissed) through to March 1, 2014. The renewed request for relief – back-pay from September 1, 2013 to March 1, 2014 – was set forth in petitioner's proposed amended petition submitted with his motion to amend the petition. Petitioner's motion to amend was granted by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) on September 4, 2014. It does not appear that petitioner formally filed an amended petition – and if he did, it is not in the record before the Commissioner. It is evident from the record, however, that the ALJ accepted the proposed amendment to the petition and the parties pursued the matter based on the same.

concluding that petitioner is not entitled to the fees and costs associated with the litigation. The ALJ also denied respondent's "motion for summary decision."[3] Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner remands the matter to the OAL for determination of the unresolved issues in this case.

In the Initial Decision, the ALJ found, "[a] tenured employee [ ] is entitled to back pay when no longer under indictment but before tenure charges are filed . . . Mr. McConney is entitled to back pay during any period that he was not under indictment and there were no tenure charges pending." With regard to petitioner, the ALJ noted, "[t]he negative inferences about his conduct do not factor into this analysis because even if he were found guilty, he would nonetheless be entitled to suspension with pay for the month of February 2014." The ALJ further noted, "[b]ecause the Petitioner is not seeking payment during the period that he was under indictment, inquiries into fundamental fairness . . . are not dispositive." Respondent takes exception to the Initial Decision, arguing that the ALJ relied on an older version of the parties' Joint Stipulation of

[3] As of the date of the Initial Decision, the record does not reflect any cross motions (or requests) for summary decision filed with the ALJ. The record reflects that on February 2, 2016, the ALJ issued a letter to the parties adjourning the hearing date and requesting dates for a briefing schedule for filing of cross motions for summary decision. Thereafter, on March 23, 2016, respondent submitted a letter brief arguing that "fundamental fairness" based on "weighing of the equities" overrides petitioner's entitlement to back-pay during his indictment, and that the petition should be dismissed with prejudice. Said submission did not request summary decision. On March 29, 2016, respondent submitted a correspondence arguing that he is entitled to back-pay for the period between February 4, 2014 and March 1, 2014 only, because he recognizes that the Appellate Division reinstated his indictment. Said correspondence did not request summary decision. Furthermore, on February 21, 2017, petitioner notified the ALJ that he was found "not guilty" on all charges and requested that this fact be added to the record. In his correspondence, petitioner also referenced "the parties' cross-motion for summary decision" under consideration by the OAL. Therefore, it appears that the submissions of March 23, 2016 and March 29, 2016 are the parties' "cross-motions" in this matter. It bears noting that a review of the record further suggests that there are no other outstanding motions, as any such filings were resolved prior to the issuance of the Initial Decision. The pertinent pleadings, documents, and orders are as follows: 1) Petitioner's motion to amend the petition, filed on June 4, 2014; ALJ's Order of September 4, 2014, granting the motion. 2) Respondent's motion to place the case on the inactive list or, alternatively, to dismiss the petition without prejudice, filed on August 20, 2014; petitioner's response thereto, filed on August 21, 2014; respondent's brief in support of adverse inference, filed on October 20, 2014; petitioner's response thereto, filed on October 28, 2014; ALJ's Order of January 5, 2015, denying motion to place matter on inactive list and the motion to dismiss, and granting respondent's request for adverse inference to be drawn from petitioner's invocation of his privilege against self-incrimination. 3) Respondent's motion for summary decision, filed on July 29, 2015; respondent's supplementary submission in support of its motion, filed on August 3, 2015; petitioner's letter brief in response to respondent's motion, filed on August 13, 2015; ALJ's Order of August 20, 2015, denying respondent's motion for summary decision.

Facts, as the findings of facts did not recite respondent's entitlement to adverse inference regarding petitioner's conduct. Respondent further argues that the ALJ failed to consider "fundamental fairness" in awarding petitioner back-pay. Petitioner also filed exceptions, arguing that the ALJ failed to address the entirety of petitioner's claim for back-pay, i.e., September 1, 2013 through March 1, 2014.[4] Petitioner submits that he is entitled to back-pay for the entire period between September 1, 2013 and March 1, 2014. The Commissioner agrees that the ALJ failed to incorporate the revised Joint Stipulation of Facts in the Initial Decision. The Commissioner further agrees that the ALJ failed to adjudicate petitioner's claim in its entirety. The remainder of the exceptions relate to the merits of the unresolved issues in this case; and therefore, the Commissioner will not consider them.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is rejected; and the matter is remanded to the OAL for proper adjudication of the remaining issues in this case. Specifically, the ALJ must determine whether petitioner is entitled to back-pay from September 1, 2013 through to March 1, 2014, and whether such determination should include "weighing of the equities" and consideration of "fundamental fairness."

IT IS SO ORDERED.

[4] Petitioner states in his exceptions that he was granted leave to amend the petition to extend the scope of his claim for back-pay from September 1, 2013 to April 13, 2014; however, neither the initial petition nor the proposed amended petition seek back-pay until April 13, 2014. The claim for back-pay ends on March 1, 2014 in both instances.

Record Closed: March 31, 2017 Decided: July 6, 2017

BEFORE LELAND S. McGEE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Adrian McConney ("Petitioner" or "Mr. McConney"), and Respondent, Piscataway Township Board of Education ("Respondent" or "Board") (collectively referred to as "the Parties"), in the above-captioned matter, stipulated to the following Statement of Facts in lieu of proceeding with a hearing, and as such I FIND the following to be the FACTS OF THE CASE:

1. Mr. McConney, whose home address is XXX Balch Avenue, Piscataway Township, New Jersey, was employed by the Board as a tenured physical education teacher at Piscataway High School ("School").
2. The Board is a public entity, located at 1515 Stelton Road, Piscataway Township, New Jersey 08854, that provides educational and schooling services to students in the Township of Piscataway.
3. On or about August 13, 2013, Mr. McConney was indicted by the Middlesex County Grand Jury on a charge of "Official Misconduct," in contravention of N.J.S.A. 2C:30-2. The charge and corresponding indictment was based on allegations that Mr. McConney engaged in sexual relations with an eighteen (18) year old female student who attended the School. He pled not guilty to the charge at the Superior Court of New Jersey, Middlesex County ("Court").
4. The Board suspended Mr. McConney, who was contracted as a ten (10) month employee, without pay effective September 1, 2013, prior to the start of the 2013-14 school year.
5. Prior to the filing of the indictment, Mr. McConney had no criminal record and was never subject to disciplinary action by the Board.
6. On or about September 20, 2013, Mr. McConney filed a motion to dismiss the indictment and underlying charge of Official Misconduct with the presiding judge for the Court, the Honorable Bradley J. Ferencz, J.S.C. The motion was based on the following grounds: (1) the indictment was fatally flawed because it did not set out the "official function" allegedly breached by Mr. McConney, (2) the prosecution failed to adequately charge the jury in the indictment process, and (3) the prosecution failed to state a claim to prove that Mr. McConney committed official misconduct.
7. On or about February 4, 2014, Judge Ferencz granted Mr. McConney's motion, thereby dismissing the indictment and corresponding charge on even date, on the basis that the facts presented to the grand jury, even if accepted as true, did not constitute Official Misconduct as defined by statute.

8. The Board reinstated Mr. McConney to its payroll on March 1, 2014.

9. Mr. McConney resigned from his position with the Board effective April 13, 2014. The Board never filed tenure charges against him.

10. On or about May 2, 2014, Mr. McConney initiated the instant action by filing a Petition for Relief with the Commissioner of Education, through which he sought back pay for the period from February 4, 2014 (the date upon which the indictment was dismissed) to April 13, 2014 (the date of his resignation).

11. On or about June 4, 2014, Mr. McConney then filed a motion for leave to amend the Petition to extend the scope of his claim for back pay to the period from September 1, 2013 (the date upon which he was first removed from the Board's payroll) to April 13, 2014 (the date of his resignation). The Board did not oppose his motion and it was subsequently granted by the Honorable Leland S. McGee, A.L.J.

12. Thereafter, the Middlesex County Prosecutor's Office appealed the Court's decision to grant Mr. McConney's motion to dismiss the indictment to the Appellate Division. On February 9, 2015, the Appellate Division issued an opinion reversing Judge Ferencz's decision, thereby reinstating the indictment and underlying charge against Mr. McConney, and remanding the matter back to the Court for adjudication.

13. As of the date of this stipulation, the indictment against Mr. McConney is still pending before the Court, and no hearing dates have been scheduled in the criminal case.

14. Mr. McConney acknowledges that if the Board called him to testify as a witness in the instant action, he would decline to do so, invoking his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination.

15. Mr. McConney further acknowledges that he declined to respond to discovery requests from the Board's attorney inquiring about his alleged sexual activity with the student in question, also invoking his Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination.

By letters dated February 21, 2017, the parties acknowledged that during the criminal proceedings against Petitioner, a jury found him "not guilty" of all charges. The record closed March 31, 2017.

Parties Arguments

Petitioner seeks payment of his salary for the month of February 2014, the period in which he was suspended without pay, was not under indictment, and tenure chargers were not filed against him. Petitioner also seeks reimbursement for the fees and costs associated with generating, filing, and pursuing this relief. This request was not a prayer for relief in his original petition.

Respondent argues that an indictment was pending against Petitioner after it was dismissed, so a weighing of fundamental fairness is required to determine if the Petitioner is entitled to back pay. Respondent argues that the weight is against Petitioner because the assertion of his Fifth Amendment rights allows Respondent to make inferences about discovery. Respondent also argued that Petitioner's acquittal would not entitled him to back pay because his conduct was morally reprehensible, even though the student was eighteen. Finally, Respondent seems to argue that the court should treat the tenure charges as having been filed because the Petitioner, if the charges had been filed, would not have prevailed. The implication is that the intention of Petitioner's swift submission of his resignation was to prevent the Board from filing, and certifying tenure charges.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

New Jersey Statutes (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3) provides:

> Any employee or officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from his employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation, hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement.

> (Emphasis added) (LexisNexis, Lexis Advance through New Jersey 217th Second Annual Session, L. 2017, c. 87, and J.R. 4).

"Thus, a tenured employee may be suspended without pay only if indicted or if tenure charges have been preferred and certified to the Commissioner of Education. In all other circumstances, a suspension must be with pay." Slater v. Board of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional High School Dist., 237 N.J. Super. 424, 426 (App. Div. 1989). In Slater, a custodian was arrested for distributing marijuana to an undercover police officer. Id. He was suspended without pay, pled guilty, and his position was forfeited by the conviction. Id. at 267. No tenure charges were filed against him. Id. The court held that his suspension without pay was valid only from the point of his indictment forward. Therefore, the custodian was entitled to back pay up to the date of his indictment, despite his arrest and subsequent conviction. Id.

A tenured employee is also entitled to back pay when no longer under indictment but before tenure charges are filed. In re Morton, EDU 0253-97, Initial Decision, (June 11, 1999), adopted Comm'r (July 30, 1999) http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. In re Morton, held that a teacher who was in possession of cocaine was entitled to pay between the date of his conviction and the certification of his tenure charges because a forfeiture order was not entered.

Slater and In re Morton are particularly relevant here because they show that even if McConney was convicted, he would still be entitled to back pay for the time he was not under indictment until tenure charges were certified. Mr. McConney is entitled to back pay during any period that he was not under indictment and there were no tenure charges pending. The negative inferences about his conduct do not factor into this analysis, because even if he were found guilty, he would nonetheless be entitled to suspension with pay for the month of February 2014.

Respondent points to Lopez v Bridgeton Board of Education, and Beatty v Newton Board of Education to assert that "an employee is not automatically entitled to back pay upon dismissal of an indictment...". (Resp't Br. 4.) These cases are distinguishable because they both pertain to when a petitioner is entitled to back pay during the period of indictment, not before it. Lopez v Bridgeton Board of Education, EDU 6786-02, Initial Decision (October 3, 2003), modified, Commissioner, (November 6, 2003), reversed, State Board (November 3, 2004), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (police officer was arrested on charges of child endangerment and was indicted; after being found not guilty, the State Board awarded pay for the entire period of his suspension); Beatty v Newton Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 1001 ("Fundamental fairness dictates that petitioner be granted back pay for the period of his unpaid suspension given that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on the indictment which provided the basis for the suspension without pay...")

There is no disagreement between Lopez and Slater because they pertain to different periods in the process. Because the Petitioner is not seeking payment during the period that he was under indictment, inquiries into fundamental fairness, as per Lopez, are not dispositive. Furthermore, any argument based upon the indictment pending during the month of February is unnecessary. The appeal of Judge Ferencz's dismissal of the indictment was not filed until at least four months after the indictment was dismissed, and the indictment was not reinstated until a year later.

Following the enactment of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, in Beatty v. Newton Board of Education, 1991 S.L.D. 1001, the Commissioner considered whether a suspended teacher should receive back pay following his acquittal of criminal charges. Beatty was suspended without pay following his indictment on charges of sexual misconduct against several minor females, including his stepdaughter. After the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, completely acquitting him of all charges, he requested reinstatement and back pay. The board rejected his demand for back pay pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and brought tenure charges. Agreeing with the board's contention that this was a case of first impression, the Commissioner held "[n]otwithstanding the absence of specific statutory language, ... in weighing the equities of this matter, fundamental fairness dictates that petitioner be granted back pay for the period of his unpaid suspension given that a trial by jury yielded a verdict of not guilty on the indictment which provided the basis for the suspension without pay under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3." Id. at 1008-09. He explained:

> At the present time, petitioner has not been found guilty of any wrongdoing and the indictment upon which the suspension is based has been disposed of in his favor, therefore, it is concluded that as a matter of equity, back pay is warranted under the circumstances, ... The fact that tenure charges are pending against petitioner and he has been lawfully suspended without pay under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 does not alter the equities of the matter. If petitioner is found guilty of the tenure charges, an appropriate penalty shall be fashioned by the Commissioner, which could include but is not limited to reduction in salary or dismissal.

The question of whether an employee should receive back pay following acquittal of criminal charges was also considered in Griffin v. Paterson Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 882. Griffin, a custodian was arrested and charged with various sexual offenses by two young female students of the school to which he was assigned. Following his indictment on charges of sexual assault and endangering the welfare of a child, the Board suspended him without pay. After a jury trial, he was acquitted of most counts of the indictment and the remaining counts were dismissed. He requested reinstatement with back pay and reimbursement of counsel fees. In concluding that Griffin was entitled to back pay, ALJ Diana Sukovich stated the facts of the case were "strikingly similar" to those of Beatty, supra. Id. at 886. She also noted the fact that the board did not issue tenure charges against him bolstered his claim for back pay, although this distinction was not determinative. Ibid. The Commissioner adopted ALJ Sukovich's decision for the reasons outlined in her decision.

Unlike, Beatty, where tenure charges were pending and Griffin, where tenure charges were not filed, in Camden Board of Education v. Hovington (Hovington II), EDU 6675-97, Initial Decision (January 29, 1998), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, adopted, Commissioner (March 30, 1998)[1], the question as to whether an employee was entitled to back pay following acquittal of criminal charges was considered after the employee had been found guilty of tenure charges, which related to the same misconduct for which he was indicted.

[1] This decision is not reported. The parties apparently settled their dispute prior to the Commissioner's issuance of a final decision and the Commissioner wrote in his final decision that he "finds no need to reach the substantive merits of respondent's claims. Accordingly, the order of the ALJ is entered as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed herein." Hovington, supra, Comm'r Decision.

In the prior tenure proceeding, Camden Board of Education v. Hovington (Hovington I), EDU 4318-95, Initial decision, (October 2, 1996), adopted, Commissioner (November 18, 1996), 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 168, remanded, State Board (April 2, 1997), 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 419, Initial Decision adopted on remand, Commissioner (August 5, 1997), http://www.state.nj.us/education/legal/index.html, Hovington, a teacher and track coach was indicted on charges of sexual misconduct with a female student whom he had coached. After a series of three criminal trials, he was acquitted of the charges. The board then filed tenure charges related to the same alleged sexual misconduct. ALJ Jeff Masin determined that Hovington had violated his tenure by engaging in sexual misconduct with the same student who was the alleged victim of the matters for which the indictment had been returned, as well as a second student who was not an alleged victim of the offenses charged in the indictment.

In Hovington II, supra, Hovington subsequently sought to recover the pay withheld from him during the pendency of the indictment. In deciding the matter, ALJ Masin reviewed the Romanowski, Beatty and Griffin decisions. He noted at the time of the Romanowski case there was no authority for a suspension upon indictment except where written charges had been brought against the tenured employee before the Commissioner and he explained Beatty and Griffin, relied upon equity as the basis for recovery. Thus, he held the determination of whether Hovington could recover the pay for the period he was suspended while under indictment required an examination of the facts relevant to his case to determine whether equities lie with him. In concluding they did not, he explained:

> In neither Beatty nor Griffin did the respective Boards of Education pursue tenure charges to completion prior to the determination of the claim for pay withheld during the suspension imposed during the pendency of the criminal indictments, each of which had resulted in an acquittal. Thus, in judging the equities of the claimants in each of those cases, the Commissioner was presented with an employee who had never been proven to have engaged in inappropriate conduct, either to the satisfaction of the criminal proof standard of > beyond a reasonable doubt or to the civil/administrative standard of preponderance of the evidence. Beatty and Griffin thus were apparently innocent persons, who had suffered a loss of pay while successfully defending themselves against what, at the time of the Commissioner's decision on the back-pay claims, were presumptively unsupported and unproven allegations. Here, Mr. Hovington stands in an entirely different position. While the ultimate outcome of the criminal proceedings was an acquittal, and the charges were thus not proven beyond a reasonable doubt, they were amply proven in the tenure hearing, and in fact, a new allegation, never part of the criminal process, was also proven. Therefore, Hovington's position as a supplicant seeking equity from the Commissioner is far different than the presumptively innocent claimants in Beatty and Griffin. "Fundamental fairness," the touchstone of the commissioner's reasoning in Beatty, hardly demands that this Board be required to pay this petitioner for six years in which he did not work for the Board, when in fact he was guilty of serious tenure violations committed before his suspension. If anything, "fundamental fairness" to the citizens and taxpayers of the City of Camden demands that he not be paid where he so flagrantly violated his trust as a professional educator.

In Lacey Township Board of Education v. Yatauro, EDU 793-99, Initial Decision (July 12, 1999), modified, Commissioner (October 13, 1999), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, ALJ Jeff Masin reiterated his Hovington II analysis. Yatauro was a band director and music instructor that was suspended without pay following his indictment for criminal charges related to an inappropriate sexual relationship with a student. He was eventually acquitted of the criminal charges after a jury trial. After his acquittal, the board-certified tenure charges against him and he was subsequently stripped of his tenure when it was determined in the tenure proceeding that the inappropriate sexual relationship had transpired. He sought to recover the salary withheld from him, while he was under indictment.

Yatauro's attorney rejected the Hovington II analysis and argued that since N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 is unclear on its face as to an employee's right to recover pay withheld following acquittal of criminal charges in an indictment, the common-law determination announced in Romanowski was still the guidepost. As for the Beatty and Griffin cases, he argued, even if the right to repayment is equitable, in Beatty the Commissioner did not wait for the determination of a tenure case, but decided the back-pay issue prior to such determination, when only the favorable resolution of the criminal matter was before him. He averred:

> The equities that the Beatty case reviewed was limited to the fundamental fairness of not paying Beatty for the period of his suspension by reason of indictment when a jury of his peers had acquitted Beatty, in essence, finding that the indictment was without adequate factual basis. In making this determination of fundamental fairness, Beatty did not consider the merits of the tenure charges. By deciding the motion for backpay while the tenure case remained pending, the Commissioner implicitly recognized that the merits of the tenure charges would be relevant to the determination of the 120-day suspension pending tenure hearing under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, not the indefinite suspension pending indictment under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3.
> [Yatauro, supra, Initial Decision.]

In rejecting the attorney's argument, ALJ Masin explained:

> It is true that the Legislature did not directly address the Romanowski ruling, which was rendered in a case in which there appears not to have been a tenure charge pending when the court wrote its decision. Since that time, no appellate court has addressed the issue and the Commissioner has only addressed it in the context of matters in which the administrative proceeding had either not been completed, or had never even been invoked against the employee. In the absence of Legislative direction, in Beatty the Commissioner saw fit to consider fundamental fairness and equity as the basis for deciding the claim. In Hovington II and here in Yatauro, the decision as to whether the now-former employee should recover the pay withheld from him during the pendency of the indictment is made in a markedly different factual setting than existed in Romanowski, Beatty, or Griffin. The application of equity principles to decide this issue is in keeping with the Commissioner's view of the law expressed in Beatty, and in the absence of express Legislative direction, affords a reasonable means of considering all of the material information now available to decide if an employee who did > not work for the Board while suspended and was ultimately determined guilty of serious tenure charges which mirror the criminal charges should nevertheless be allowed to collect this withheld pay.

Based upon considerations of fundamental fairness and equity, ALJ Masin concluded that where a tenured employee seeks to recover salary which was withheld after an indictment from which the employee has obtained a favorable disposition, but where the employee has subsequently been proven in a tenure proceeding to have committed the same misconduct which was the essential subject of the criminal charges, the employee may not recover salary withheld during the pendency of the indictment. Therefore, he denied Yatauro's claim for back pay.

An employee's entitlement to back pay during a period of suspension was considered in Lopez v. Bridgeton Board of Education, EDU 6786-02, Initial Decision (October 3, 2003), modified, Commissioner, (November 6, 2003), reversed, State Board (November 3, 2004), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. Lopez, a campus police officer employed by the board was arrested on charges of child endangerment. Following his arrest, he was suspended without pay and was subsequently indicted. The charges were based upon an accusation made by Lopez's daughter, who was a student at the middle school where he was employed. Lopez contended the charges were the result of an on-going custody dispute between him and his former wife. After considering the nature of the indictment and the evidence offered by the State, the court found that the indictment was unsupported by credible evidence and had been improperly obtained. The court dismissed the indictment in its entirety and Lopez was reinstated to his former position. After the board denied his request for back pay and emoluments, he filed an appeal with the Commissioner.

ALJ Miller granted Lopez's request for back pay and emoluments for the entire period of his unpaid suspension. In his decision, ALJ Miller explained:

> I FIND that petitioner, a school employee, was involved in an unfortunate contentious family matter. An immediate suspension appeared to be justified given the nature of the allegations and pending charges. However, as of October 12, 2001, petitioner was totally exonerated of the charge. There has been no evidence offered by the district that petitioner should have remained suspended, even in the absence of criminal charges. The record is barren of any evidence that petitioner acted wrongfully or was a risk to students. In essence, petitioner did nothing wrong if measured by a criminal or civil standard. The allegation of any wrongdoing was dismissed as baseless. In fact, petitioner asserts that "Mr. Lopez was arrested because of an overzealous prosecutor who pursued a cause of action on untrue assertions in the face of evidence that contradicted the compliant by an adolescent seeking to shed the parental yoke of her father in favor of a permissive lifestyle with her mother who never enjoyed the custody the child." (Petitioner's brief at page 10). Apparently, the criminal trial Judge agreed. In the spectrum of possible outcomes, a pretrial dismissal of an indictment is about the best possible vindication. In view of the aforementioned, the district reinstated petitioner but refused to do so with back pay and other benefits. Had petitioner been culpable in a civil sense, applied for Pretrial Intervention, accepted a plea agreement or presented some other concern to the district, then withholding back pay would be plausible. However, none of the aforementioned occurred.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner must be awarded all of his back pay, vacation time, benefits, pension credit and any other benefits from the first day of such suspension. Griffin, supra., N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3; N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. To suspend a school employee, without pay, because they were silent on the issue of involved in a contentious family matter resulting in criminal charges is reasonable. However, if they are fully exonerated, as in this case, it is unreasonable to not fully reinstate the teacher with all rights and emoluments. The districts failure to do so does not comport with "fundamental fairness" as expressed in Griffin, Beatty, supra. This type of action could have a chilling effect upon school board employees involved in difficult family matters. It may impact or deter necessary child discipline for fear losing one's wages and benefits. Mere "trumped up charges" and the fear of the related consequences, including a suspension with no right to recover back pay, could negatively impact important family matters and decisions. The threat of filing charges could disrupt the process of resolving family matters. The present matter is a clear indication of just how family matters can carelessly spiral out of control and spill over in a way that seriously affects the family unit's financial well-being. I > CONCLUDE that withholding back pay and benefits, under the circumstances presented in this case, is simply not justified.

> [Lopez, supra, Initial Decision.]

Upon review, the Commissioner modified ALJ Miller's decision and directed that Lopez be awarded back pay and emoluments only for the period of his unpaid suspension prior to his indictment. Noting that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 is silent on the issue of back pay subsequent to the disposition of a criminal indictment, the Commissioner cited Busler v. East Orange Board of Education, EDU 3916-00, where the Commissioner declared and the State Board affirmed there was no basis under education law to award back pay regardless of the disposition of the criminal indictment. The Commissioner rejected Lopez's argument that Busler was not relevant since Busler availed himself of the pretrial intervention program as a way of avoiding the prosecution for which he was indicted. He held the holding in Busler was not so limited. Lopez, supra, Comm'r Decision.

On appeal, the State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision and held Lopez was entitled to back pay and emoluments for the entire period of his unpaid suspension. The Board explained:

> Contrary to the Commissioner's determination, Busler does not stand for the general proposition that an employee suspended without pay following an indictment is precluded from receiving back pay after an acquittal or dismissal of the criminal charges. Nor did the State Board intend such a result in its decision in that case. Rather, as previously indicated, the denial of Busler's claim was predicated in part on the fact that the criminal charges filed against him had been dismissed only after he had successfully completed a pretrial intervention program ("PTI"). Under those circumstances, the State Board agreed with the Commissioner that Busler, an assistant principal, had not demonstrated his entitlement to back pay on fundamental fairness grounds for the period of his unpaid suspension following his indictment.
> [Lopez, supra, State Board Decision.]

Citing In re Pawlak, No. A-3298-87 (App. Div. July 7, 1989), the Board explained the completion of a PTI program "signifies nothing concerning the truth of the charges; it is indicative only of the fact that the prosecutor's office thought he was a good candidate for rehabilitation or diversion from the criminal process." Ibid.

Then, reiterating the Commissioner's reasoning in Beatty, supra, the Board agreed with ALJ Miller's conclusion that fundamental fairness dictates that Lopez be awarded back pay and emoluments. It explained the indictment against Lopez was dismissed in its entirety by the judge who found that the prosecutor had misled the grand jury as to the actual offense charged and had improperly obtained an indictment without offering sufficient proofs of the alleged offense. Under these circumstances, the Board determined fundamental fairness dictates that the petitioner be awarded his back pay and emoluments. Ibid.

In the present case, Respondent asserts that there has been no complete and final exoneration from wrongdoing. It argues petitioner was charged with having sexual relations with a student enrolled at the high school where he taught. The indictment, however, was dismissed because there was a legal question as to whether his actions were a violation of the statute because the student was eighteen years old. Further, it asserts that even though a jury found Petitioner "not guilty" after a criminal trial, that verdict does not mean that Petitioner is "innocent." As such, Respondent asserts, the equities do not weigh in his favor and its original discovery requests were propounded to determine whether he committed the act of having sex with a student.

In opposing Respondent's motion, Petitioner primarily argues that the charge against him was dismissed because he committed no crime and thus he was exonerated. He avers a tenured teacher may not be suspended without pay unless that teacher has been indicted or tenure charges have been preferred against the teacher and certified to the Board of Education. In all other circumstances, a tenured teacher's suspension must be with pay. Accordingly, he contends the truth of the charges underlying the indictment filed against him was not relevant to his request for back-pay.

Respondent also argues that Petitioner's prompt resignation precluded the bringing of tenure charges and had they been brought, he would have been found guilty with the lower burden of proof. (Resp't Br. 6). This argument has no relevance to the narrow case at hand because no tenure charges were filed. Even if they were, the suspension of pay would not be valid until they were filed and certified by the Commissioner. In re Morton, EDU 0253-97. Even if, in the remote chance, this court was to treat the tenure charges as having been filed, until those charges were certified, he would still be entitled to his salary for the month of February, 2014.

Finally, Petitioner's Motion seeks costs associated with the filing which was not included in his original Petition of Appeal. In discussing amendments to pleadings, the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules ("UAPR") states "[u]nless precluded by law or constitutional principle, pleadings may be freely amended when, in the judge's discretion, an amendment would be in the interest of efficiency, expediency and the avoidance of over-technical pleading requirements and would not create undue prejudice." N.J. Admin. Code. § 1:1-6.2(a). In addition, discussing jurisdiction, the UAPR provides that > "When the Office of Administrative Law acquires jurisdiction over a matter that arises from a State agency's rejection of a party's application, and at the hearing the party offers proofs that were not previously considered by the agency, the judge may either allow the party to amend the application to add new contentions, claims or defenses or, if considerations of expediency and efficiency so require, the judge shall order the matter returned to the State agency. . ."

N.J. Admin. Code § 1:1-3.2 (emphasis added).

The UAPR further provides that

> "[t]he Office of Administrative Law shall acquire jurisdiction over a matter only after it has been determined to be a contested case by an agency head and has been filed with the Office of Administrative Law or as otherwise authorized by law except as provided by N.J.A.C. 1:1-17. The Office of Administrative Law shall not receive, hear or consider any pleadings, motion papers, or documents of any kind relating > to any matter until it has acquired jurisdiction over that matter, except as provided by N.J.A.C. 1:1-17."

N.J. Admin. Code. § 1:1-6.2(a) (emphasis added).

Petitioner's request for costs sought in his motion is, in effect, an attempt to include a pleading that is outside of the "contested case" as determined by the agency head, and is not cognizable in the context of this proceeding.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision should be GRANTED with respect to payment of his wages for the month of February 2014, and DENIED with respect to his request for costs associated with this proceeding. I further CONCLUDE that Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision should be DENIED.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision with respect to payment of his wages for the month of February 2014 is hereby GRANTED.

It is further ORDERED that Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision regarding his request for costs associated with this proceeding is hereby DENIED.

It is further ORDERED that Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

S.S., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, A.S. AND A.S.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MARLBORO, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	ORDER
RESPONDENT.	:

On October 10, 2013, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found S.S. liable for tuition in the amount of Twenty Thousand Five Hundred Ninety Eight Dollars ($20,598.00), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by her children, A.S. and A.S., in the Marlboro Township School District during the 2011-2012 school year. The Marlboro Township Board of Education (Board) subsequently notified the Commissioner that S.S. had failed to comply with the decision and it requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

In response to the Board's request, S.S. claimed that the Commissioner's decision was appealed to the Appellate Division of the Superior Court, and as such the Commissioner should not request that the final order in this matter be docketed while the case is on appeal. On April 17, 2015, the Appellate Division issued a decision affirming the Commissioner's October 10, 2013 decision. Additionally, on September 14, 2015, the New Jersey Supreme Court denied S.S.'s petition for certification. This matter is no longer on appeal and S.S. has offered no reasons that have not been fully and fairly adjudicated as to why the judgment against her should not be so docketed.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Salina Segobind is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $20,598.00, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

The petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (Board), contended that the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Early Childhood Education (Department), insufficiently funded the Board's 2015-2016 preschool programs, thereby making it impossible to provide thorough and efficient programming for its preschool-age children. The Department asserted that the Preschool Education Aid (PEA) awarded to the Board was entirely compliant with the requirements of the School Funding Reform Act (SFRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 to -66, and that, accordingly, the petition should be dismissed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: PEA supports districts like Elizabeth as part of the SFRA's obligation to fund public preschool education; the level of PEA is determined as set forth in statute; the record of this matter revealed no evidence that the Department's PEA award to Elizabeth for the 2015-2016 school year was in any way at odds with the statutory formula; the Board's argument that the PEA funds allotted were insufficient – and that the shortfall is the fault of the statute and the Department – is without merit; the Board has presented no evidence that the SFRA is unconstitutional as it was applied to its PEA grant for 2015-2016; and the record shows that any financial shortfall experienced by Elizabeth that year was due to its own inefficiencies and mismanagement of funds. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the petition of appeal be dismissed.

Upon careful consideration and review, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's recommended decision as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons well expressed therein. The petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination – for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision – that the amount of preschool education aid (PEA) that the Elizabeth School District received during the 2015-2016 school year was consistent with the School Funding Reform Act (SFRA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43-66. The Commissioner also is in accord with the ALJ's determination that Elizabeth failed to offer any evidence to indicate that the SFRA is unconstitutional as it was applied to Elizabeth's PEA grant for the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 09004-15
AGENCY DKT. NO. 94-4/15

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Mark R. Peck, Esq., for petitioner (Florio, Perrucci, Steinhardt and Fader, attorneys)

Lauren A. Jensen, Deputy Attorney General, and Beth N. Shore, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Christopher S. Porrino, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: May 31, 2017 Decided: July 14, 2017

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Elizabeth Board of Education ("the Board") contends that the New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Early Childhood Education, ("the Department") insufficiently funded the Board's 2015–2016 preschool programs, thus making it impossible to deliver thorough and efficient programming to its preschool-age children. The Department replies that the Preschool Education Aid ("PEA") awarded the Board was in all respects compliant with the requirements of the School Funding Reform Act ("SFRA"), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 to -66, and that, accordingly, the petition of appeal should be dismissed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition of appeal was filed on April 27, 2015. The Department filed an answer on June 16, 2015; the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on June 18, 2015; and was assigned to the Honorable Caridad Rigo, ALJ.

On November 25, 2015, the Department filed a motion for summary decision. The Board opposed the motion on December 17, 2015, and the Department replied to the opposition on December 24, 2015. Oral argument was conducted on January 14, 2016. Via letter dated January 15, 2016, Judge Rigo denied the motion and directed that the matter proceed to hearing. Several hearing dates were adjourned before the matter was reassigned to me on January 9, 2017, after Judge Rigo's retirement.[1]

A Joint Stipulation of Facts was filed by the parties in January 2017, and hearings were conducted on February 15, 2017, and March 30, 2017. Post-hearing submissions were filed on May 31, 2017, at which time the record closed.

[1] Along the way, the Board changed counsel, which also, in part, delayed proceeding to hearing.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Stipulated Facts

The salient background facts were agreed upon by the parties, who stipulated to the process via which PEA is calculated under the SFRA. I FIND:

1. Each year, the districts formerly known as the Abbott districts ("the Abbott districts"), including Elizabeth, receive PEA from the Department.

2. PEA is a State-aid category provided to districts in order to allow them to implement a high-quality preschool program, as required by the School Funding Reform Act ("SFRA"), L. 2007, c. 260 (N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 to -66).

3. PEA supports three different types of preschool programs: in-district programs, licensed private-provider programs, and Head Start programs. An in-district program is a program provided inside a district school building. A private-provider program is a program provided in a nursery school or other private program in the community. A Head Start program is part of the federal Head Start program.

4. Under the SFRA, each type of program is designated a different per-pupil aid amount. The SFRA designated the following per-pupil aid amounts for each of the types of preschool programs for the 2008–2009 school year: $11,506 for in-district programs; $12,934 for licensed private-provider programs; and $7,146 for Head Start programs.

5. For each subsequent school year, the SFRA directs that the preschool per-pupil aid amounts be established in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-46.

6. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-46, the Governor, after consultation with the Commissioner of Education, recommends to the Legislature, through the issuance of an Educational Adequacy Report ("EAR"), any appropriate adjustments to, among other things, the per-pupil amounts for full-day preschool.

7. The SFRA directs that an EAR be submitted by September 1, 2010, and by September 1 every three years thereafter. The EAR is applicable to the next three school years, with the per-pupil amounts for full-day preschool, among other things, to be adjusted by the Consumer Price Index ("CPI"), as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-45, for each of the two school years following the first school year to which the report is applicable.

8. The per-pupil amounts set out in the EAR are deemed approved for the two subsequent school years, unless the Legislature adopts a concurrent resolution stating that the Legislature is not in agreement with any specific part of the report.

9. In accordance with the SFRA, an EAR was issued on December 14, 2012, setting out per-pupil amounts that would apply to the 2013–2014, 2014–2015, and 2015–2016 school years.

10. The Fiscal Year 2014 Educational Adequacy Report ("FY14 EAR") reassessed the adequacy of the SFRA's 2008–2009 per-pupil aid amounts for each of the three types of preschool programs. (J-1.)

11. In reassessing the per-pupil aid amounts for preschool, it was determined that districts had been able to meet code requirements with the funding levels established in the SFRA. Accordingly, the FY14 EAR recommended that the Department continue to fund preschool programs based on annual CPI increases to the per-pupil amounts listed in the SFRA.

12. Specifically, the FY14 EAR set out the following per-pupil aid amounts for each of the types of preschool programs for the 2013–2014 school year: $12,788 for in-district programs; $14,375 for licensed private-provider programs; and $7,943 for Head Start programs.

13. While the Legislature did issue a concurrent resolution stating that it did not agree with specific parts of the FY14 EAR, it took no issue with the adjusted per-pupil aid amounts for preschool. Thus, the preschool per-pupil aid amounts as set out in the FY14 EAR were deemed approved and superseded the per-pupil aid amounts set out in the SFRA.

14. Accordingly, the preschool per-pupil aid amounts set out in the SFRA have been updated.

15. Each of the SFRA per-pupil aid amounts is also adjusted using the Consumer Price Index ("CPI") and county-based geographic cost adjustment.

16. Elizabeth is one of the thirty-one Abbott districts. As adjusted, Elizabeth's per-pupil aid amounts for the 2015–2016 school year were: $13,021 for in-district programs; $14,637 for licensed private-provider programs; and $8,088 for Head Start programs.

17. Under the SFRA formula, set out in N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-54, PEA is calculated by multiplying the number of general-education students (non-special-education students) in each of the three types of programs by their respective per-pupil aid amounts and adding the total costs of each of these three types of programs together.

18. The SFRA provides that each year, Abbott districts will receive the greatest of three preschool funding allocations: (1) the per-pupil allocation under the SFRA described above; (2) the district's per-pupil allocation in its approved 2008–2009 early-childhood plan multiplied by its projected enrollment for the upcoming school year; or (3) the district's total amount of preschool aid in the 2008–2009 school year after an enrollment adjustment for that year.

19. The purpose behind this funding scheme is to ensure that no district receives less in PEA than it received before the SFRA went into effect.

20. Districts that would receive less under the SFRA formula in any given year are "held harmless" at the rate of PEA they received for the 2008–2009 school year, using the higher of the two 2008–2009 amounts described above.

21. Annually, the Abbott districts must submit documents to the Department, which the Department considers in determining the amount of PEA each district will receive for the following school year.

22. These documents include: the district's Five-Year Preschool Program Plan Annual Update ("Plan"); One-Year Enrollment Projections Workbook; and Budget Planning Workbook.

23. The purpose of the Plan is to provide a comprehensive description of how the school district will implement each component of high-quality preschool programming for three- and four-year-old children. The Plan is developed every five years, with annual updates in the years in-between. The purpose of the One-Year Enrollment Projections Workbook is for the district to provide current enrollment data, as well as projections for the following school year. These projections are used to calculate the district's PEA. The Budget Planning Workbook allows the district to indicate how PEA will be used to support the high-quality preschool program described in its Plan, meeting all Administrative Code requirements.

24. Upon reviewing these documents, the Department determines the amount of PEA that each district should receive under the SFRA.

25. Annually, the Department reviews each Abbott district's enrollment projections, runs the SFRA formula, and compares the resulting calculation to the district's 2008–2009 funding amounts to determine the district's PEA for the upcoming school year.

26. Elizabeth submitted its 2015–2016 Five-Year Preschool Program Plan Update; 2015–2016 Enrollment Projections Workbook; and 2015–2016 Budget Planning Workbook to the Department. (J-2; J-3; J-4.)

27. In its 2015–2016 Enrollment Projections Workbook, Elizabeth projected a total enrollment of 3,268 general-education students: 2,468 students in in-district programs; 610 students in private-provider programs; and 190 students in Head Start programs.

28. The Department reviewed Elizabeth's enrollment projections for the 2015–2016 school year and did not modify them.

29. Using these enrollment projections, the Department applied the SFRA formula, multiplying the enrollment projections for each of the three types of preschool programs by the per-pupil aid amounts for those programs as follows: (enrollment) x (per-pupil aid amount) = funding amount.

30. Applying the SFRA funding formula, the Department calculated the amount of funds available to Elizabeth for the 2015–2016 school year:

PROGRAM TYPE	PROJECTED ENROLLMENT	PER-PUPIL AID AMOUNT	TOTAL AMOUNT
In-District	2,468	$13,021	$32,135,828
Private Provider	610	$14,637	$8,928,570
Head Start	190	$8,088	$1,536,720

31. Added together, the above funding amounts totaled $42,601,118 of PEA under the SFRA formula.

32. Because the SFRA requires that Abbott districts receive the greatest of three potential funding calculations, the Department then compared the SFRA total of $42,601,118 PEA to Elizabeth's 2008–2009 approved preschool budget, which totaled $40,764,852.

33. Because the 2015–2016 SFRA calculation exceeded Elizabeth's 2008–2009 approved budget, the Department then calculated the amount of funding Elizabeth would receive using its 2008–2009 average per-pupil rates for preschool, regardless of program placement. Elizabeth's per-pupil rate in 2008–2009 was $14,052. Multiplying Elizabeth's total projected enrollment for the 2015–2016 school year by its 2008–2009 per-pupil rate yielded an amount greater than its SFRA formula total:

3,268		$14,052		$45,921,936

34. Since the SFRA mandates that the former Abbott districts receive the highest amount of funding under the three funding calculations, the Department determined that Elizabeth would receive $45,921,936 in PEA, as further shown below:

A	B	C	RESULT
TOTAL AMOUNT OF PEA USING SFRA FORMULA	TOTAL 2008–2009 APPROVED PRESCHOOL BUDGET	TOTAL OF PROJECTED ENROLLMENT x 2008–2009 PER-PUPIL RATE	HIGHEST AMOUNT OF FUNDING COMPARING COLUMNS A, B, AND C
$42,601,118	$40,764,852	$45,921,936	$45,921,936

In other words, for the 2015–2016 school year, Elizabeth was "held harmless" at an amount above the total amount of funding it would receive under the SFRA's formula.

35. Elizabeth received $45,921,936 in PEA for the 2015–2016 school year, $3,320,818 more than it would have received under the SFRA formula.

36. As one of the seven districts "held harmless" under the SFRA for the 2015–2016 school year, Elizabeth received more PEA than other former Abbott districts on a per-pupil basis.

37. Of the thirty-one former Abbott districts, Elizabeth's average per-pupil amount of PEA for the 2015–2016 school year was the fourth highest in the state, as shown below:

DISTRICT	AVERAGE PER-PUPIL AMOUNT OF PEA FOR 2015–2016

38. In its initial 2015–2016 Budget Planning Workbook, submitted to the Department on or about December 15, 2014, Elizabeth indicated that it would also use prior year PEA carryover of $404,768 and funding in the amount of $2,979,024 for students with special needs included in general-education classrooms.

39. Including the PEA of $45,921,936 it would receive under the SFRA, Elizabeth had a total of $49,305,728 to allocate to its preschool program for the 2015–2016 school year.

40. In its initial 2015–2016 Budget Planning Workbook, Elizabeth allocated a total amount of $53,469,632 to the preschool program. This is $4,163,904 more than the district had to allocate, including the 2015–2016 PEA, carryover, and funding for preschoolers with special needs.

41. On or about March 20, 2015, the Department sent a letter to Elizabeth stating that, under the SFRA, Elizabeth would receive PEA in the amount of $45,921,936 for 3,268 general-education students. (J-5.)

42. The March 20 letter also indicated that Elizabeth needed to submit a revised version of its Budget Planning Workbook with funding allocated to match $49,305,728 (the district's 2015–2016 PEA amount of $45,921,936 along with its prior year PEA carryover of $404,768 and special-education funding in the amount of $2,979,024).

43. Elizabeth submitted a revised version of its Budget Planning Workbook showing a reduction in the total amount of preschool-program staff salaries budgeted to the preschool program to balance its total budget of $49,305,728. (J-6.)

The Testimony

1. The Budget Cuts

Tracy Crosby is the director of early childhood education, having held this position for ten years. Together with a fiscal specialist, she drafts the preschool budget. Crosby urged that in 2008, when the SFRA was adopted, the amount of money allocated met the needs of her department. But in the years that followed, her PEA has remained unchanged and is insufficient to provide a high-quality program to Elizabeth's preschoolers.

Elizabeth operates a total of 232 preschool classrooms, to include 177 classrooms in-district; 42 classrooms at eight provider sites; and 13 classrooms via Head Start. After ensuring that there are sufficient teachers, aides, classroom supplies and materials, whatever is left is allocated among remaining line items. The initial budget exceeded $53 million, but after making some initial cuts, Elizabeth sought $49,305,728 in funding. Since the PEA only amounted to $45,921,936, the district cut six master teachers, three nurses, three vice principals, and one social worker. The Board picked up the cost of eighteen custodians and eighteen security guards. The Board picked up $2.5 million in transportation costs. The specific budget shortfalls were discussed by Crosby. Her testimony was uncontroverted and I FIND:

Custodians

The State recommends one custodian for every six classrooms, per the Department's "District Budget Planning Workbook Instructions," <http://www.nj.gov/education/ece/archives/budget/>. As there are 177 classrooms, twenty-nine and a half custodians was the appropriate number to retain. But the budget ultimately approved by the Department would only allow funding for five custodians. Crosby explained that this would permit about one custodian for every thirty-six classrooms. With the help of local funding, the Board ultimately employed twenty-three custodians.

Security Guards

Similarly, the "District Budget Planning Workbook Instructions" recommends one security guard for every stand-alone early-childhood-education center. The budget approved by the Department permitted the hiring of only one security guard. Crosby indicated that nineteen were needed to properly operate her program. Elizabeth has over fifty classrooms in trailers, or "temporary classroom units" (TCU), and Crosby views it as necessary that a security guard be with the students and teachers in each of these units. The district policy is to assign one security guard to every six classrooms; the Board made up the budget shortfall and retained eighteen additional security guards at a cost of $1,187,576.

School Nurses

School nurses perform vision, hearing, height, and weight screenings. They make referrals to doctors, and take care of sick children. They maintain and review immunization records. For the 2015–2016 school year, the district sought eleven nurses, and three were cut from the budget, leaving eight. Noting that the district sought to employ one nurse for every 300 students, per Administrative Code requirements, N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.5, Crosby explained that the cut added about 100 students to each nurse's load. This budget cut was not restored by the Board.

Transportation

Crosby discussed the costs attached to transportation at the preschool level. All children residing more than one and one-half miles away from school receive transportation. Insofar as they are still quite young, Elizabeth determined that it is appropriate to provide transportation door-to-door. Noting that there is already an absenteeism issue in the preschools, Crosby urged that without transportation many of these students would not attend school, and she referenced the district's obligation to cast a wide net in offering preschool programming. Indeed, N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-2.3(a) provides that "[d]istrict boards of education that received preschool expansion aid or education opportunity aid in the 2007–2008 school year shall document the school district's strategies to serve at least 90 percent of the universe of eligible preschool children in the five-year preschool program plan and/or annual update, as required and approved by the Department."

Master Teachers

Master teachers serve as a coach and provide instructional support in the classroom. They observe instruction, model lessons, and assist the classroom teacher in reflecting upon and improving his or her classroom practices. The district included twelve master teachers in its budget. Indeed, N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.2(a) requires that "[t]he district board of education shall provide master teachers at a ratio of no more than 20 preschool classrooms for each master teacher to ensure coaching and classroom support for classroom teachers." But Elizabeth was only able to fund six master teachers; it thus had a ratio of one master teacher for every forty classrooms. The master teachers were spread thin, and were only able to assess half of the classrooms during the 2015–2016 school year. Nor is the district utilizing them in the manner intended, with the master teachers instead offering more generalized professional development, as opposed to the one-on-one guidance in the classroom setting that was intended by the regulation.

Social Workers

Elizabeth sought funding for nine social workers, and could secure funding for only eight. Crosby asserted that per the Administrative Code, there should be one social worker for about every 250–300 students. N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.6. Due to this budget cut, however, the needs of the district students were being met at a ratio of 1:332 students.

Vice Principals

Likewise, the district was forced to reduce the number of vice principals. Per Crosby, the district no longer has administrators who are knowledgeable in preschool education supervising instruction in the classroom.

Lunchroom Aides

There should be a ratio of two adults to fifteen students during lunch and rest times; Crosby urged that this ratio is critical for student safety. While the classrooms have a teacher and aide present during instructional time, per contract, lunch and rest periods are break times for regular classroom staff. An additional adult is thus needed to maintain adequate supervision. The district fully funded this line item, as there was insufficient State aid to cover this expense.

2. District Inefficiencies

The Department argues that "Elizabeth has consistently made expensive, inefficient, and sometimes inappropriate decisions across several areas of its preschool program." The evidence was disturbing, uncontroverted, and, unfortunately, confirms that the Department is correct. I FIND:

Transportation

Raymond Zirilli is a senior transportation specialist for the Department. He evaluates transportation efficiency for local school districts using data submitted by the districts and certified to be accurate via the completion of a District Report of Transported Resident Students. Zirilli's report compares the total number of students being transported to the district's total "vehicle capacity." "Vehicle capacity" is defined as 90 percent of the total number of seats available on all buses in use by the district. The Department's analysis results in an efficiency rating, which is calculated by dividing the total number of students by the district's total vehicle capacity. The State standard for efficiency is 1.2, or 120 percent of total vehicle capacity. Elizabeth inefficiently used its buses; its efficiency rating was only 0.8.

Of the forty-one school buses in use during the 2015–2016 school year, many were less than full. By way of example, the District dispatched seventeen buses with the capacity to carry fifty-four students, but some carried as few as two students; none carried more than thirty students. The Department urged that "[h]igher efficiency equals lower costs, so if Elizabeth were using its buses more efficiently, it could save money on transportation." The Department moreover pointed out that Elizabeth's per-pupil cost for preschool transportation is high compared to that of other former Abbott districts. For the 2015–2016 school year, its total cost for transportation of preschool-aged children was $1,669,582. When this number is divided by the 469 preschoolers who receive transportation, the per-pupil cost is $3,560. In Millville and Vineland, students are transported less expensively. Granted, these districts are in southern New Jersey, where costs could differ. But the difference is astronomical: Millville spent $608 per pupil; Elizabeth spent nearly six times as much. Vineland spent a bit more, $1,053 per pupil; Elizabeth spent about three times as much. These two districts had better efficiency ratings: 1.51 for Millville, and 1.2 for Vineland. And those districts are much larger than Elizabeth, geographically.

Elizabeth expands its transportation services well beyond regulatory requirements.[2] Of the 469 preschoolers receiving transportation, 269 of them were being provided services not mandated by law. Elizabeth offers door-to-door transportation—again, a costly option, and one that is not mandatory. Finally, Elizabeth contracts with costly vendors. In 2015–2016, Elizabeth contracted with three different companies to provide transportation: Dover/S&E/Fossett ("Dover"); Durham School Services L.P. ("Durham"); and Lun and Run T/A J&J ("Lun and Run"). All the routes serviced by Lun and Run were nearly half the cost of the routes serviced by Dover and Durham. For example, a Durham route with a twenty-four-seat capacity transporting seventeen students cost $75,420, while a comparable Lun and Run route cost only $37,800. Zirilli questioned this large differential for an almost identical service; Elizabeth offered no witness to clarify or explain. And he pointed out that his Department stands ready to assist districts in efforts to achieve efficiencies, including recommendations for ways to share routes with neighboring districts. Yet, Elizabeth has never turned to Zirilli's Department for assistance.

Staff Salaries

Elizabeth's salaries and benefits are described by the Department as "notably high." I agree. Karin Garver, formerly an education specialist in the Department, conducted a detailed analysis of Elizabeth's average preschool-staff salaries and benefits as compared to Newark, Paterson, and Jersey City, all large former Abbott districts in the same general geographic area. She compared the average cost of salaries and benefits for teachers, assistant teachers, relief teachers, clerical workers, custodians, security guards, fiscal specialists, master teachers, social workers, nurses, preschool intervention and referral team members, principals, assistant principals, and director or supervisor positions. These are all positions that are PEA funded. By multiplying the average cost of each position's salary and benefits by the number of staff Elizabeth had budgeted for each position for the 2015–2016 school year, Garver could directly compare Elizabeth's average salary and benefits to those in these neighboring districts.

[2] Per N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.4, preschool-age students who reside more than two miles from school must receive transportation. A district may transport other students, but is not required to do so. N.J.A.C. 6A:27-1.5.

The results of her analysis are startling. Using Newark as a comparison, she readily demonstrated that if Elizabeth's costs were comparable to Newark's it could save about $7,000,000 a year. Indeed, the average teacher's salary and benefits cost $97,268 in Elizabeth. In Newark the cost is $84,062. Similarly, an assistant teacher in Newark receives an average of $46,912 in salary, compared to $63,984 in Elizabeth. Garver demonstrated that if Elizabeth's costs mirrored those in Paterson, it could save some $9,000,000 per year. The numbers are less dramatic relative to Jersey City, but Garver indicated that Elizabeth spends about $780,000 more in salaries than this comparable former Abbott district.

Elizabeth replies that it is bound by collective-bargaining agreements that afford it little wiggle room relative to salary and benefits. But Garver stressed that savings could nonetheless be effectuated in salary and benefits if Elizabeth reduced the number of staff employed in positions not mandated by regulation. For example, while the Department makes recommendations for the number of clerical workers, custodians, and security guards employed, it does not require a given number to operate a high-quality preschool program. And Elizabeth could have eliminated the fiscal specialist position, which is likewise not required. Nor are lunch aides required by regulation.

Garver pointed out that in Elizabeth, only certificated preschool teachers are hired to serve as relief teachers. But the Department does not require this credential. See N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.3(a) (certification is applicable only to the classroom teacher). The Department's data reveals that non-certificated teachers have lower salaries. And Elizabeth hires relief teachers to teach "specials" such as art, music, and physical education. This approach is not recommended by the Department, which prefers instead to incorporate such instruction into the regular classroom day, to be delivered by the classroom teacher. Garver urged that hiring teachers certificated to teach these special subjects increases overall instructional costs for the district.

Accounting Errors

Kevin Dehmer is the chief financial officer and assistant commissioner for the Division of Finance at the Department of Education. He shared that each year the Department issues budget guidelines, intended to assist districts in complying with Department rules and regulations regarding budget development. District accounting systems are required to be organized on "a fund basis." Each fund is "a fiscal and accounting entity, with a self-balancing set of accounts recording cash and other resources, together with related liabilities and residual equities or balances, or changes therein." Each fund is completely independent of the others. The General Fund is applicable only to services in grades kindergarten through twelve. Special Revenue Funds are "accounts for the proceeds of specific revenue sources . . . that are legally restricted to expenditures for specified purposes." Dehmer explained that preschool is a Special Revenue Fund because PEA is a revenue source usable for preschool-related expenses only. Accordingly, a school district should be accounting for all preschool revenues and expenditures in the Special Revenue Fund for preschool.

With this background in mind, Dehmer discussed Elizabeth's obligation to account for Chapter 78 contributions in its budget. Chapter 78 requires employees to contribute to their health-benefit packages. The Department's budget guidelines direct that there be a line item for expenditures for employee health benefits, and that Chapter 78 contributions offset that amount. Dehmer offered the following example: if benefit costs totaled $10,000,000 and the Chapter 78 withholdings totaled $1,000,000, the budget line item for employee health benefits would show a net of $9,000,000. During the 2015–2016 school year, Elizabeth withheld $1,778,335 in Chapter 78 moneys, but recorded these funds as revenue in its General Fund. This is inconsistent with the Department's budget guidelines. Had Elizabeth properly recorded this offset in the Preschool Special Revenue Fund budget line, it would have reduced its health-benefit expenditures for the preschool program by $1,778,335. Put another way, I FIND that over $1.5 million dollars was budgeted incorrectly and should have been available to the district for preschool expenses.

Outside Providers

But perhaps the greatest concern about mismanagement of the preschool budget surrounds the district's relationship with its outside providers. Odell Jackson is the fiscal specialist for the Elizabeth public schools, having served in that position for the last eight years. She is a liaison among the private preschool providers, the State Department of Education, and the school district. She also assists with the preparation of the budget. In 2015–2016 there were 630 preschool students educated in forty-two private-provider classrooms, through eight licensed private providers. Their services are retained via a contractual agreement using a Department form. The district funds the private-provider programs via PEA funds, and if at the end of the school year there are unspent funds, these must be recouped. The private providers are selected via a process that includes State review and involvement and approval.

Each month, from September through June, a local district like Elizabeth gives the private provider one-tenth of its budget for the school year. Each quarter, the provider submits an expenditure report to the district. This allows the district to ensure that the provider is in compliance with its contract, and that there is supporting documentation for all noted expenditures. See N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.7. And it allows the district to remedy any overpayment or underpayment promptly. Thus, the Department notes, in the event of an overpayment, a local district can reduce or withhold the monthly budget payment or request that the provider reimburse the district via a payment plan.

Jackson readily agreed that since 2011–2012 the eight private providers have routinely overcharged the district; each one has been overpaid, at least once. PEA in the amount of $842,710 remains owing to Elizabeth. Jackson reviewed an outstanding-payment ledger, which confirmed that some of these providers carried yearly overpayment balances up through and until the 2015–2016 school year. Jefferson Park and New Hope are the most glaring examples, having been overpaid annually each and every year for five years in succession. As to why at some point Elizabeth did not simply allocate less funds to these providers was not adequately clarified by Jackson. And several other providers, to include Proceed I, Proceed II, and Wonder World, were overpaid more than once. These three providers alone owe Elizabeth some $117,732, enough money to buy at least one of the aides, or nurses, or security guards the district claims to sorely need.

The Department urges that Elizabeth "has failed to take meaningful steps to either reduce the amount of PEA it pays to its private providers or to recoup the funds it is owed." I must agree. Suzanne Fenske works for the Department's Office of Fiscal Accountability and Compliance (OFAC) and conducts fiscal reviews for early-childhood education. She highlighted her audit of the two providers with the largest arrearages: New Hope and Jefferson Park. For the 2013–2014 fiscal year, New Hope had overcharged Elizabeth for preschool programming in the amount of $151,306. But since Elizabeth had withheld $28,693 of PEA from New Hope, it owed $122,613 to the district. In a report issued in October 2015, OFAC memorialized this finding. The report also noted, however, that this was not the only year that such an overpayment took place. Between July 1, 2009, and June 30, 2013, the provider accrued arrears totaling $295,065. Jackson's ledger revealed that New Hope owed Elizabeth $418,592.69 at the end of the 2015–2016 year (R-27).

Similarly, OFAC's investigation revealed that Jefferson Park had underspent during the 2011–2012 year in the amount of $176,276. Elizabeth withheld only $52,879 in underspent PEA funds. The overpayments continued in 2012–2013, with OFAC concluding that $17,844 was owed the district that year. Jackson's ledger revealed that Jefferson Park owed Elizabeth $253,136.27 at the end of the 2015–2016 school year.

Elizabeth does not dispute these findings, and in January 2016 submitted a Corrective Action Plan to the Department. But as of October 2016, Elizabeth still had not finalized a plan to recover the funds payable to the district. Elizabeth did not enter into contracts for repayment with New Hope or Jefferson Park until December 2016. Finally, Fenske noted that during the 2011–2012 fiscal year, Elizabeth had given New Hope a $51,666,65 loan to cover the provider's rent arrearages, even though Elizabeth had already paid New Hope for its facility costs and the school owed arrears dating back to the 2009–2010 fiscal year. This amount has yet to be repaid to the district.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The SFRA was enacted in 2008 as part of New Jersey's ongoing effort to ensure that public schools throughout the state receive the financial support needed to deliver a thorough and efficient free public education to our children. N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-43 et seq. The statute sought to create a "clear, unitary, enforceable statutory formula to govern appropriations for education." N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-44(g). The Legislature recognized as follows regarding preschool education for at-risk students:

> In light of the demonstrable, beneficial results and success of the current Abbott preschool program, it is appropriate to build upon this success by incorporating in the formula an expanded high-quality preschool program for all children who qualify for free and reduced price meals in all districts. It is appropriate for the formula to acknowledge that at-risk children do not always receive the same educational exposure at an early age as their peers and to provide the additional resources necessary through high-quality preschool to prepare every child to learn and succeed.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-44(k).]

PEA supports districts like Elizabeth as part of the SFRA's obligation to fund public preschool education. The level of PEA is determined as set forth in the statute. This record has revealed no evidence that the Department's award of PEA during the 2015–2016 was in any way at odds with the statutory formula. I CONCLUDE that Elizabeth received PEA during the 2015–2016 school year in an amount consistent with SFRA requirements. Indeed, it received the highest amount available under the statute.

Elizabeth nonetheless urges that the money it was allotted was insufficient, and it puts the blame for the shortfall on both the statute and the Department. Its arguments are meritless. Elizabeth questions the statute's constitutionality. A per se challenge to the constitutionality of the SFRA is beyond the purview of my jurisdiction. And, in any event, our Supreme Court has determined that > [t]he legislative and executive branches of government have enacted a funding formula that is designed to achieve a thorough and efficient education for every child, regardless of where he or she lives. On the basis of the record before us, we conclude that SFRA is a constitutionally adequate scheme.

But "'administrative agencies are competent to pass upon constitutional issues germane to proceedings before them,' and . . . 'such action is necessary so as to better focus the issues for judicial review, if such action is later necessary.'" Hunterdon Cent. High Sch. Bd. of Educ. v. The Hunterdon Cent. High Sch. Teachers' Ass'n, 174 N.J. Super. 468, 475 (App. Div. 1980), aff'd, 86 N.J. 43 (1981) (quoting Alcala v. Wyoming State Bd. of Barber Exam'rs, 365 F. Supp. 560, 564 (D. Wyo. 1973)). A challenge to a statute as applied may be appropriately reviewed at the administrative level. See id. at 474.

I CONCLUDE that Elizabeth has offered no evidence that the SFRA is unconstitutional as it was applied to its PEA grant for the 2015–2016 school year. To the contrary, I agree with the Department that any financial shortfall experienced by the district that year was due to its own inefficiencies, and its mismanagement of funds. The record confirms that transportation was inefficiently delivered, and private providers were overfunded repeatedly. The Department demonstrated that well over a million dollars was improperly budgeted. Elizabeth needs to get its fiscal house in order. Then and only then could it possibly have a colorable claim that the PEA awarded by the State is constitutionally inadequate.

Moreover, the record reveals that many costs incurred by the district resulted from choices it was not mandated to make, to include courtesy door-to-door bussing, and its use of relief teachers. A fiscal specialist is not a mandated position. N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.7. The district can certainly choose to supplement the PEA it receives with funds from its general account. See Millville Bd. of Educ. v. New Jersey Dep't of Educ., 183 N.J. 264, 278 (2005). But Elizabeth's choice to incur additional costs does not and cannot give rise to a claim that the SFRA has not provided funding that passes constitutional muster. See, e.g., Bacon v. New Jersey Dep't of Educ., EDU 2637-00, Comm'r (February 9, 2001), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, where the Commissioner stated that relative to a claim of constitutional deficiency, "each petitioning district must first prove that deficiencies do, in fact, exist, and second, that these cannot be remedied by different programmatic and fiscal choices within the framework of current law and funding levels." Elizabeth urges that in several areas it was unable to meet regulatory requirements for staffing levels. Master teachers and nurses are examples. See N.J.A.C. 6A:13A-4.2, -4.5. But again, Elizabeth failed to demonstrate that its inability to do so could not have been remedied via more prudent fiscal planning.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

APPEARANCES

FOR THE PETITIONER

Benjamin B. Brenner, Esq., The Carroll Law Firm

FOR THE RESPONDENT

Robert P. Merenich, Esq., Gemmel, Todd & Merenich

BACKGROUND

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, on May 12, 2017 the Pleasantville Board of Education, County of Atlantic, State of New Jersey ("Petitioner" or "PBOE") instituted sworn tenure charges against Ms. Latanya Elias ("Respondent"). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(6), counsel for the Petitioner, by letter dated May 11, 2017, submitted the following documents to the Commissioner of Education: (1) Signed Sworn Statement of Tenure Charges, (2) Signed Certificate of Determination, (3) Signed Sworn Statement of Evidence and (4) Certification from counsel as to the certification of charges by the Petitioner and certification of proof of service upon the employee and employee's representative.

The Respondent was charged with "Conduct Unbecoming Toward Students, Neglect of Duty in the Classroom, Unbecoming Conduct Toward Administrative Personnel and Other Staff, Misrepresentation, and Insubordination (i.e., "wrongfully refusing to undergo a psychiatric examination pursuant to PBOE Policy #1361 – Examination for Cause").

By letter dated May 30, 2017, the Respondent submitted her Statement of Position to the Statement of Tenure Charges, generally denying all charges and specifications, and specifically denying the allegations preferred with respect to each charge.

On June 9, 2017, the tenure charges were referred to the undersigned pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2015, c.109. Pre-hearing teleconferences were held on June 22, 2017 and July 12, 2017.

On July 14, 2017, the Petitioner filed a Motion In Limine "to exclude evidence and testimony that is irrelevant, unreliable and prejudicial at the arbitration hearing presently set to begin on Friday, July 21, 2017."

On July 18, 2017, the Respondent submitted a Motion for Summary Decision "to dismiss all counts of the tenure charges brought against her. We respectfully request a ruling on this motion prior to our response to the Petitioner's Motion In Limine because the removal of some or all of the charges obviously obviates the need to present some or all evidence."

By letter dated July 19, 2017, the Petitioner submitted its Opposition to the Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision.

The hearing began on July 21, 2017.

On August 16, 2017, the parties submitted to the Arbitrator a document entitled, "Mutual Release and Settlement Agreement," indicating that "the PBOE and Ms. Elias and her counsel have amicably settled the charges."

The undersigned Arbitrator pursuant to his authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 "to hear and make a final determination on a controversy and dispute arising under subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of Title 18A of the New Jersey Statutes

(C.18A:6-10 et seq.)," having reviewed the terms of the Mutual Release and Settlement Agreement ("Settlement") between the Petitioner Pleasantville Board of Education and Respondent Latanya Elias, as well as the PBOE Resolution approving the Settlement, with respect to the Tenure Charges the Petitioner filed against the Respondent, finds that the terms and conditions of the Settlement set forth herein (attached) meets the standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.) (842,846).

CONSENT AWARD

Accordingly, I approve the terms of the Settlement and memorialize its terms and conditions in a Consent Award.

Re: In the matter of Tenure Charges against Latanya Elias
Dkt. No. 69-4/17

Dear Mr. Simmelkjaer:

Pursuant to your email dated July 31, 2017, enclosed please find a fully executed Settlement and Release in the above matter and a Resolution passed by the PBOE at its regularly scheduled Board meeting last night.

We respectfully submit that the enclosed settlement fully and adequately addresses the following standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled, In re Cardonick, State Board decision of April 6, 1983 (1990 School Law Decisions (S.L.D.) 842, 846) and all requirements of the administrative code:

1. Accompaniment by documentation as to the nature of the charges. PBOE respectfully asserts that the filed Tenure charges in this matter contain sufficient and significant documentation explaining the nature of the charges filed.

2. Explication of the circumstances justifying settlement or withdrawal. The parties respectfully assert that the penalties agreed upon are reasonable and sufficient in response to the alleged unbecoming conduct and justify the settlement of the matter.

3. Consent of both the charged and charging parties. Both parties have consented to and signed the enclosed Settlement and Release.

4. Indication the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his or her rights. The enclosed signed Settlement and Release clearly indicates that both parties were fully advised by counsel during the negotiations process and prior to signing the document.

5. A showing the agreement is in the public interest. The penalties agreed to in the Settlement and Release are reasonable and sufficient in response to the unbecoming conduct alleged and it is in the public's interest to approve said penalties to avoid the need for a costly and expensive hearing.

6. If the charged party is a teaching staff member, a showing the teaching staff member has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of certificate. Ms. Elias is a teaching staff member; she has been fully advised by her counsel of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in a loss of position to the State Board.

7. A settlement agreement shall not propose terms that would restrict access to information or records deemed public by law or result in misrepresentation of the reason for an employee's separation from service. This Settlement and Release does not restrict any access to information or records.

8. If tenure charges have been certified to the Commissioner by a district board of education, any proposed settlement shall indicate, by signature of the board attorney or inclusion of a district board of education resolution. A resolution passed by the PBOE in enclosed herein.
authorizing settlement, that the district board of education has consented to the terms of the settlement.

9. A proposed withdrawal or settlement of tenure charges shall be submitted to the Commissioner prior to transmittal of such charges to the arbitrator; thereafter, it shall be submitted to the arbitrator. Upon approval of the enclosed Settlement and Release, the parties will forward the document to the arbitrator in this matter who will issue a Consent Award.

Thus, based upon compliance with all standards and administrative code requirements, the parties respectfully request the Commissioner's approval of the enclosed Settlement and Release in the above matter.

We look forward to hearing from you. Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

Very truly yours,

s/Benjamin B. Brenner

MUTUAL RELEASE AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Mutual Release and settlement agreement is made on this 27th day of July in the year 2017. The Release is given by PLEASANTVILLE BOARD OF EDUCATION, 801 Mill Road, City of Pleasantville, Atlantic County, New Jersey 08232, (hereinafter "PBOE") and LATAYNA ELIAS (hereinafter referred to as "Respondent"), employee of the City of Pleasantville School District, and her counsel, Robert Merenich, Esquire, 767 Shore Road P.O. Box 296, Linwood, N.J. 08221 (hereinafter collectively referred to as "the Parties").

WHEREAS, Respondent is currently and has been employed by the PBOE for 15 years; and

WHEREAS, certain allegation of conduct unbecoming have been asserted by the PBOE against Respondent who denies same; and

WHEREAS, the parties believe it is in their mutual best interest to resolve their differenced in accordance with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, without either party admitting liability or fault and in consideration of the covenants, representations and warranties contained herein, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. EMPLOYEE ASSISTANCE PROGRAM. Within ten days of the effective date of this Agreement, Respondent shall contact and make an appointment with the Employee Assistance Provider (EAP) for an evaluation. Respondent shall comply with any recommendations or treatment as indicated by the EAP report and/or evaluation. Said report and/or evaluation shall remain confidential and is to be released only to persons required by law and no discretionary persons shall receive access to or copy of the EAP report.

2. TRANSFER. Respondent shall be transferred from the middle school to another teaching assignment at the discretion of the administration.

3. ACCOMMODATION. Respondent shall be provided a stool to remain in her classroom as an accommodation for her recognized disability that she suffers on-going tendonitis and bone spurs in her foot which causes her difficulty to stand for more than half an hour at a time.

4. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT. Respondent agrees to undergo whatever specific professional development is requested by the Principal at her new teaching assignment.

5. PAY AUDIT. The PBOE agrees to conduct an audit of Respondent's payroll from September 2016 through May 2017 to determine if any discrepancies exist. Said audit shall be conducted within a reasonable time as will any payment, if found to be due. Respondent will be provided a copy of the audit upon its completion. If there is any dispute concerning the results of the audit, the matter shall be grieved through the PEA as a contractual matter.

6. LETTER OF REPRIMAND. A letter of reprimand for conduct unbecoming for actions taken during the 2016-2017 school year will be placed in Respondent's personnel file and shall remain in her file for one year at which time Respondent can petition the Superintendent for its removal. Said request shall be granted freely, provided no subsequent disciplinary actions are sustained against Respondent.

7. SUSPENSION WITHOUT PAY. Respondent shall be suspended without pay for a total of twenty (20) days which shall begin effective May 17, 2017.

8. WAIVER OF CLAIMS – With the exception of any dispute arising from paragraph 5 above (pay audit) and a tuition reimbursement issue from an AVID course in July 2016 which are excepted, in exchange for the covenants contained in this Agreement, Elias does for herself and her dependents, heirs, executives, administrators, predecessors, successors, and assignees, agree, intending to be legally bound, to hereby release and forever discharge the "Released Parties" (as defined infra) from and all "Released Claims" as defined infra) from the beginning of time up to and including the effective date of this Agreement. The PBOE for itself, officers, agents, executives, administrators, board members, successors, and assignees, agree, intending to be legally bound, to hereby release and forever discharge the "Release Parties" (as defined infra) from and all "Released Claims" as defined infra) from the beginning of time up to and including the effective date of this Agreement.

a. "Released Parties" as used in this Agreement shall mean (1) the PBOE, (2) the Pleasantville School District, (3) the PBOE's past, current and future employees, (4) the PBOE's officers, directors, agents, attorneys, consultants, affiliates, and other representatives, (5) the PBOE's insurers, (6) the PBOE's vendors and entities under contract with the PBOE, (7) the PBOE's heirs, successors and assignees, (8) all of the aforementioned individuals in both their official and individual capacities, (9) the State of New Jersey and the New Jersey Department of Education, (10) any other person and/or entity whom/which might be claimed jointly and/or severally liable with any of the aforementioned entities and/or individuals, (11) Elias and/or her dependents, heirs, executives, administrators, predecessors, successors, and assignees in their official and individual capacities.

b. "Released Claims" as used in this Agreement shall mean any and all tenure charges, liability, claims, demands, causes of action, suits at law, or in equity, covenants, charges, debts, dues, costs, any sums of money, attorney's fees, accounts, bills, reckonings, extents, judgments, and rights, whether known or unknown, whether accrued or unaccrued, whether contingent or non-contingent, whether or not capable of proof regardless of the theory of recovery, and whether common law or statutory in nature that occurred at any time in the past up until the date of signing of this agreement.

c. Respondent and the PBOE acknowledge and agree that neither party nor any person or entity action on behalf of either party will file any type of tenure charge, complaint, charge, claim, and/or cause of action, or cause or permit any complaint, charge, claim, and/or cause of action, to be filed, against the other or any Released Party involving any matter whatsoever which occurred in the past up to the date of execution of this Agreement.

d. The parties acknowledge and agree that if either party brings any type of tenure charge, complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum against the other, involving any matter whatsoever which occurred in the past up to the date of execution of this Agreement, that party will be in breach of this Agreement and will immediately withdrawal any type of complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action.

e. To the extent that either party has already filed any tenure charges, complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum, that party shall immediately withdraw complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum documenting the same. Said withdrawing party must adhere to all procedural and substantive rules to accomplish withdrawal of the Tenure Charges. To the extent that any administrative and/or judicial agency fails or refuses to permit the filing party to withdraw the tenure charges, complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum, the filing party shall advise the other party in writing and the filing party shall refuse to cooperate with any investigation and/or proceeding regarding the complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum if the law permits. Should the filing party receive any damages or compensation whatsoever as a result of having brought a complaint, charge, claim and/or cause of action in any administrative and/or judicial forum, the filing party shall immediately remit said damages or compensation to the other party.

f. Excluded from "Release Claims" are any claims that cannot be waived by law between employer and employee.

10. CONSULTATION WITH LEGAL COUNSEL – Both parties acknowledge and agree that they had the opportunity to review this Agreement with legal counsel of their own choosing and that each party is satisfied with the advice they received.

11. BREACH – If either party fails and/or refuses to comply with any obligation she/it has pursuant to this Agreement, regardless of the reason for said failure and/or refusal to comply, that party shall be in breach of this Agreement and the other party may seek any remedy they are entitled to by law

12. KNOWING AND VOLUNTARY – Elias acknowledges and agrees that she is freely and voluntarily agreed to all the terms and conditions contained in this Agreement after consulting with legal counsel. Elias further acknowledges and reperesents that she is under no disability or impairment that would prevent her from understanding this Agreement or from knowingly and voluntarily entering into this Agreement.

13. EFFECTIVE DATE – This Agreement shall become effective upon both of when the Agreement has been fully executed by both Respondent and the PBOE and/or the PBOE's representative.

14. ENTIRE AGREEMENT. This Agreement contains and constitutes the entire understanding and agreement between the Parties hereto respecting the subject matter hereof and supersedes and cancels all previous negotiations, representations, agreements, commitments, and writings in connection herewith. The Parties hereto expressly acknowledge that in entering this Agreement, they have had the opportunity to consult with counsel of their choice, that they have not relied upon any representation made by or on behalf of the other Party, and that any such representations are not enforceable except to the extent set forth in writing in this Agreement.

15. CONSTRUCTION. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of New Jersey, without reference to the applicable conflicts of law principles and rules. This Agreement shall be construed according to its plain language, and not strictly for or against any party hereto.

16. ENFORCEMENT. In the event of any litigation arising from breach of this agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover from the non-prevailing party all reasonable costs incurred including staff time, court costs, attorneys' fees, and all other related expenses incurred in such litigation

17. NO TRANSFER/ASSIGNMENT. The Parties represent that they have not assigned or transferred, or purported to assign or transfer, to any person or entity any claim against one another or any portion of, or interest in, any claim against one another.

18. NO ORAL REPRESENTATIONS. The Parties represent and acknowledge that, in executing this Agreement, they do not rely, and have not relied, upon any oral representation or statement made by the Parties or their agents, representatives, or attorneys with regard to the subject matter, basis, or effect of this Agreement or otherwise.

19. SEVERABILITY. Should any provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by any court to be illegal or invalid, the validity of the remaining parts, terms, or provisions shall not be affected thereby, and said illegal or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not to be part of this Agreement.

20. AGREEMENT NOT EVIDENTIARY – This Agreement is not intended to be used and shall not be used as evidence in any action or proceeding, other than as evidence of the parties' compromise as set forth herein or to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

21. HEADINGS – Any headings contained herein are for reference purposes only and shall not be in any way affect the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, all Parties, intending to be legally bound by the foregoing terms, have voluntarily and knowingly set their hands and seals to this Agreement as of the date written above.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST PENNY KEOUGH, CITY OF BURLINGTON SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY DOE Docket No.: 119-4/16 ORDER ON REMAND CLARIFYING BACK PAY

WHEREAS, the City of Burlington School District Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") filed tenure charges against Penny Keough; and

WHEREAS, after three days of arbitration, and the submission of closing briefs by counsel for both parties, Arbitrator Michael Pecklers rendered an Award and Opinion in the above matter on December 15, 2016; and

WHEREAS, on March 13, 2017, Ms. Keough filed a Verified Complaint and Order to Show Cause seeking to vacate Arbitrator Pecklers' finding of unbecoming conduct, and seeking enforcement of Arbitrator Pecklers' award of back pay, claiming the Board failed to comply with the back pay award; and

WHEREAS, the Board moved to dismiss Ms. Keough's Order to Show Cause, contending that the back pay had been paid; and

WHEREAS, after oral argument on the Board's motion to dismiss, on May 10, 2017, Judge Smith affirmed the Award and Opinion; and

WHEREAS, due to the parties' differing interpretations of the portion of the Award and Opinion that provided for back pay, Judge Smith remanded the matter back to Arbitration for clarification of the portion of the Award and Opinion addressing back pay; and

WHEREAS, upon remand, counsel for the respective parties engaged in negotiations to resolve the back pay issue by consent, in the interest of avoiding the uncertainty and expense of further litigation; and

WHEREAS, notwithstanding the Parties' continued disagreement on the appropriate calculation of the back pay, and with the assistance of Arbitrator Pecklers, the parties have reached a negotiated resolution on back pay, and hereby agree as follows:

1. A nontaxable refund check shall be issued to Ms. Keough in the amount of $9,611.27, representing a refund of certain offsets deducted from the back pay award. Payment shall be made within thirty days of receipt of a fully executed order.

2. Both parties agree and acknowledge that their respective agreement to, and compliance with, the terms herein shall not be construed as an admission of any kind by either party.

3. In consideration for the terms contained herein, Ms. Keough waives her right to amend her Superior Court complaint, filed under docket BUR-L-987-16, to include a charge of retaliation arising out of the original back pay calculations. Ms. Keough, however, reserves her right to refer to the Board's original calculations as part of an amended claim of constructive discharge under docket BUR-L-987-16.

4. By agreeing to the terms herein, the Parties are both waiving their right to appeal this Order, and shall submit a copy of this Order to Judge Smith within ~~seven~~ (7) days of the date herein, and request the Court enter a final order of disposition under docket BUR-L-676-17.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner asserted that he had been deprived, illegally or without authority, from his seat on the Board of Education of the Borough of Lodi (Board) following an election held on November 8, 2016. Petitioner currently holds a seat on the same Board, but only for a temporary one-year term to fill an unrelated vacancy; he sought a determination that another vacancy should not be filled by the Bergen County Office of Education, Interim Executive County Superintendent (County Superintendent), and that any seat he holds should be deemed to be a position with a three-year term. The Bergen County Office of Education and the County Superintendent filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no genuine issues of material fact in this matter, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; an election was held in November 2016 to fill three seats on the Board for terms of three years each; ten candidates ran for the three Board seats; petitioner received the fourth largest number of votes, and therefore was not deemed to be a successful candidate; however, an additional Board position became available in the month prior to the election due to a resignation, and – after the election – the Board announced that it would accept applications for that Board seat; petitioner applied for and was selected to serve in this vacant position, which had one year left of a three year term; one day before petitioner was sworn in to serve in the vacant one-year Board position, one of the three members-elect to the three-year Board seats – Vincent J. Russo – was disqualified based on a criminal history background check; petitioner sought an order establishing himself as the rightful successor to this vacant three-year Board seat, and also requested an order prohibiting the County Superintendent from filling the vacancy; Title 18A establishes a clear mechanism for filling vacancies on school boards; in the instant case, the parties disagree as to whether the County Superintendent is authorized to fill the vacancy because petitioner claims that the member-elect who was disqualified cannot be deemed a "member" of the Board. The ALJ concluded, inter alia, that: post-election, Russo would come under the definition of a "member"; petitioner's challenge to the authority of the County Superintendent to fill the vacancy left by Russo's disqualification can be decided as a matter of law; it is the responsibility of the County Superintendent to fill the vacancy, and Title 18A only provides the authority to fill it as a temporary one-year post. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Bergen County Office of Education and County Superintendent's motion for summary decision, and ordered that the appeal be dismissed with prejudice.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that – for the reasons thoroughly expressed in the Initial Decision – the motion for summary decision filed by respondents, Bergen County Office of Education and the Interim Executive County Superintendent Norah Peck, should be granted. Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Alfonso Mastrofilipo, Jr. (petitioner) asserts that he has been deprived illegally or without authority from his seat on the Board of Education of the Borough of Lodi (Board) following the election held on November 8, 2016. As more fully detailed below, petitioner presently holds a seat on that Board but only for a temporary one-year term to fill an unrelated vacancy. He filed a Petition of Appeal as well as a Petition for Emergent Relief, individually as a citizen and not as a current temporary Board member, in order to obtain a determination that another vacancy should not be filled by the Bergen County Office of Education or the Interim-Executive County Superintendent for Bergen County (collectively referred to as "DOE Respondents") and that any seat he holds should be deemed to be a position to a three-year term. Petitioner denominated the Board as a nominal respondent, seeking relief principally against the DOE Respondents in this forum.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 24, 2017, petitioner filed both his Petition for Emergent Relief with the Commissioner of Education and his merits Petition. On February 27, 2017, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes for a hearing on the requested emergent relief. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on March 2, 2017, and oral argument was heard on March 6, 2017, at 1:30 p.m. The DOE Respondents submitted a legal brief on the emergency application under cover of March 6, 2017. The Board as nominal respondent asserted that it would abide by whatever decision is reached herein, although it also specified its agreement with the position of the DOE Respondents. After a long discussion off the record, oral argument was conducted on the record, facts were stipulated as not in dispute, and the record was left open for one day for the Deputy to submit a final reply due to the late service in open court of a final response by the petitioner. I entered an Order on March 7, 2017, denying the requested emergent relief.

On June 2, 2017, the DOE Respondents filed a Notice of Motion for Summary Decision on the merits of petitioner's appeal, with supporting Certification of Lauren A. Jenson, D.A.G. Petitioner filed his opposition to the motion on or about June 16, 2017, consistent with the stipulated filing date. The matter is now ripe for determination. For the reasons set forth herein, and also largely discussed in the Order on Emergent Relief, incorporated herein, I hold that the DOE Respondents' Motion for Summary Decision must be granted.

STATEMENT OF UNDISPUTED FACTS

On November 8, 2016, an election was held to fill three seats on the Board for three-year terms. There were ten candidates on the ballot, eight of whom were new office-seekers and two of whom were incumbents. Petitioner was one of the new candidates. After the election returns were tabulated and announced, it was determined that petitioner came in fourth place. Accordingly, he was not deemed to be a successful candidate or member-elect. However, in the month just prior to the election, another then-current member of the Board, Joseph J. Licata, resigned because he had moved his personal residence out of the school district.

Following this election, the three highest recipients of votes were subject to statutory examination of their qualifications, including criminal background checks, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1.2(a). Also following the election, the Board announced that it would be accepting applications for the vacant seat left by Licata. Petitioner applied on or before that deadline of November 16, 2016. After the interview process was completed, petitioner was advised that he had been selected for the Licata seat on or about December 14, 2016.

On or about December 20, 2016, member-elect Vincent J. Russo and the Board were notified by the New Jersey Department of Education that his background review had turned up a disqualifying criminal offense. Petitioner was sworn in to fill the Licata vacant seat on December 21, 2016, just one day after Russo was disqualified from serving. The first organizational meeting of the Board was held on January 4, 2017.

On January 17, 2017, petitioner filed a civil action in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Bergen County, Chancery Division, against the same parties named herein. He sought equitable relief in the form of designation as the successor member-elect to the seat contested in the November 8, 2016, election and now open due to the disqualification of Russo. That lawsuit was dismissed without prejudice by the Honorable Menelas W. Toskos, J.S.C., on February 22, 2017, "for the reasons set forth on the record" after oral argument.[1] That Order also stayed any action by ECS Peck until March 1, 2017. As set forth above, petitioner filed his Petition and Emergent Petition with the Department on February 24, 2017, and same was decided by the undersigned on March 7, 2017.

It is well established that if there is no genuine issue as to any material fact, a moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995). The purpose of summary decision is to avoid unnecessary hearings and their concomitant burden on public resources. Under the Brill standard, a fact-finding hearing should be avoided "when the evidence is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law."

There are two aspects to petitioner's appeal, and both of them require legal construction on the basis of the undisputed facts. First, petitioner requests an order mandating that only the Board can fill the seat left empty by Russo's disqualification, which is to say, that ECS Peck should be prohibited from filling the vacancy. Second, petitioner wants an order establishing himself as the rightful successor to Russo's seat as a full three-year term on the Board. As to the latter, petitioner is of the opinion that he is the rightful occupant of the seat as a result of being the third highest qualified candidate who sought the public's endorsement through a duly-held election. With respect to the former, petitioner thinks it is unseemly to have a citizen appointed to the Board by ECS Peck when neither she nor the applicant might have the knowledge and interest to discuss matters of great and specific importance to the Board. Ultimately, the issue comes down to whether petitioner must run again next November in order to continue on the Board.

Title 18A establishes a clear mechanism for filling vacancies and it is because those appointments circumvent the election system that they are statutorily limited to a one-year term. Title 18A makes provision for the filling of any vacancy on a board through several means, depending on the circumstances that caused the vacancy to occur.

> Vacancies in the membership of the board shall be filled as follows:
> a. By the county superintendent, if the vacancy is caused by the absence of candidates for election to the school board or by the removal of a member because of lack of qualifications, or is not filled within 65 days following its occurrence;
>
> f. By a majority vote of the remaining members of the board after the vacancy occurs in all other cases.
>
> Each member so appointed shall serve until the organizational meeting following the next annual election unless the member is appointed to fill a vacancy occurring within the 60 days immediately preceding such election if the annual election is held in April, or occurring after the third Monday in July if the election is held in November, to fill a term extending beyond such election, in which case the member shall serve until the organizational meeting following the second annual election next succeeding the occurrence of the vacancy, and any vacancy for the remainder of the term shall be filled at the annual election or the second annual election next succeeding the occurrence of the vacancy, as the case may be.

There are additional sub-parts, not relevant herein, that establish other means if an election results in a tie, etc.

Here, the parties disagree as to whether the DOE Respondents are authorized to fill the vacancy because petitioner claims that Russo cannot be deemed to be a "member." I CONCLUDE that post-election, Russo would come within the definition of a "member." The argument posited by petitioner is that Russo could not be a member removed for lack of qualifications because he had not yet been sworn in onto the Board. I agree with respondents that he is mis-reading the statutory provisions and that the above-cited portion must be read in tandem with the following:

> Each member of any board of education, within 30 days of election or appointment to that board, shall undergo a criminal history background investigation for the purpose of ensuring that the member is not disqualified from membership due to a conviction of a crime or offense listed in N.J.S.18A:12-1.

This provision is specifically part of the subtitle that addresses qualifications or the lack thereof of members elected to or already sitting on a board of education. The fact that a successful electoral candidate becomes a member and yet is still required to submit to a background check by the Department "within 30 days of election" is specific and clear, notwithstanding that an oath of office has not yet been administered. Accord N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.1, which sets forth that a "member" takes an oath "before entering upon the duties of his office." While the Legislature could have made a distinction between a "member-elect" and a "member," it determined not to do so.

Based upon the above legal discussion and analysis, I CONCLUDE the petitioner's challenge to the authority of the DOE Respondents to fill the vacancy left by Russo's disqualification can be decided as a matter of law and must result in the granting of the respondents' motion for summary decision. I CONCLUDE that it is the DOE Respondents who ultimately must fill the Russo vacancy and that Title 18A only provides the authority to fill it as a temporary one-year post. Petitioner cannot obtain the ultimate relief he seeks from the Office of Administrative Law and the Department of Education, namely, to be deemed as filling a three-year seat on the Board. While authority to fill the three-year position could have been granted under the school laws by the Legislature to the Department, the Legislature opted not to write the law that way. I am obligated to apply the law as written. "Because the regulation of elections is exclusively a legislative matter, courts, even when they question the wisdom of legislation, must respect the legislative scheme. Sharrock v. Keansburg, 15 N.J. Super. 11, 16-17 (App. Div. 1951)." In re Mun. Election Held, 139 N.J. 553, 558 (1995).

Contrary to petitioner's assertions, it appears that no forum has the power to simply declare that petitioner will henceforth have a three-year position. Even if irregularities in the election process were discovered and proven in a timely manner, Title 18A (and hence under the authority of the Commissioner) still controls over those circumstances, albeit it mirrors Title 19 in how any special election must be conducted:

> By special election if there is a failure to elect a member at the annual school election due to improper election procedures. Such special election shall be restricted to those persons who were candidates at such annual school election, shall be held within 60 days of such annual school election, and shall be conducted in accordance with the procedures for annual and special school elections set forth in Title 19 of the Revised Statutes[.]
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:12-15(d)]

ORDER

Accordingly, and for the reasons articulated above, it is ORDERED that the motion of respondents Bergen County Office of Education and Interim-Executive County Superintendent Norah Peck for an Order Granting Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the appeal of petitioner Alfonso Mastrofilipo, Jr., for relief under Title 18A is hereby dismissed with prejudice consistent with the reasons set forth above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se petition appealing the determination of the respondent Board that his children, D.V. and S.T., were not domiciled in the City of Clifton, and therefore not entitled to a free public education in the Clifton school district. Petitioner enrolled his two children in Clifton in September 2016, using an address on Rowland Avenue and a sworn statement that he resided there, as he is not the homeowner at the address. The Board contended that petitioner had been unable to provide required documentation of his residency at the Rowland Avenue house, and an investigation failed to find the family living at that address. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of D.V. and S.T.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the respondent Board's residency inspector presented credible testimony in support of the Board's claim for tuition; the results of the investigation supported the finding that petitioner and his children are not domiciled in the Clifton school district, and the house at the address used for enrollment has been in foreclosure since September 2016; petitioner was unable to provide even one document to prove his residency on Rowland Avenue in Clifton; and where the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a). The ALJ concluded that petitioner was not a domiciliary in Clifton for the period from September 4, 2016 to June 19, 2017, and accordingly – pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) – the respondent Board is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner in the total amount of $ 21,232.30 for the period of his children's ineligible attendance.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's finding that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was domiciled in Clifton during the 2016-2017 school year. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $ 21,232.30. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain his burden of establishing that he was a domiciliary of Clifton during the 2016-2017 school year. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that D.V. and S.T. were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during this time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $21,232.30 ($10,679.68 at $65.12 per day for 164 days for D.V., and $10,552.62 at $63.57 per day for 166 days for S.T.) for the time period between September 6, 2016 and June 19, 2017, during which time D.V. and S.T. were ineligible to attend school in the District, as detailed in the ALJ's Initial Decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the total amount of $21,232.30 for

R.V. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN,
D.V. & S.T.,
Petitioners,
v.
CITY OF CLIFTON BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

R.V., petitioner, appearing pro se

Bradley D. Tishman, Esq. for respondent (Cleary Giacobbe Alfieri Jacobs, LLC)

Record Closed: July 17, 2017 Decided: July 19, 2017

BEFORE: JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent, Board of Education of the City of Clifton, seeks reimbursement of tuition from petitioner, R.V. parent of D.V and S.T. for the 2016-2017 school year, asserting that petitioner and his children were not domiciled within the Clifton School District.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 20, 2017, petitioner, R.V., filed a residency appeal on behalf of his two children, D.V. and S.T., grades two and kindergarten, respectively. On May 3, 2017, the Clifton Board of Education (BOE or respondent) filed an Answer with the State Department of Education (DOE) seeking reimbursement from petitioner for the costs of tuition incurred by the attendance of his two minor children in the BOE's school district from the onset of the enrollment.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 3, 2017, for hearing as a contested case.

On due notice to all parties, the hearing was scheduled and heard on July 17, 2017.

ISSUE

The issue in this matter is whether minor children D.V. and S.T. are eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 and, if not, whether respondent's requests for tuition reimbursement for the 2016-2017 school year should be granted.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner enrolled his two children in the Clifton school district in September 2016 with an address of 227 Rowland Avenue by a sworn statement since he is not the homeowner at that address.

The district conducts a residency investigation of each sworn statement submitted by the parent to ensure the safety of the children.

Clifton BOE investigator John Burke was assigned to investigate R.V.'s sworn statement that his children were domiciled at 227 Rowland Avenue.

On October 21, 2016, respondent notified R.V. that he was required to bring in a mortgage statement and two additional proofs of residency such as a utility or cable bill or a bank statement. R.V. was unable to produce such documentation with his name on them.

On November 17, 2016, at 8:25 a.m., Burke responded to the Rowland Avenue address and no one answered the door. He returned on November 20, 2016 at 4:15 p.m. and again no one answered the door.

Burke returned to the residence on November 25, 2016 at 12:15 p.m. and the occupant Mr. Chetram answered the door and told Burke he did not know anyone by R.V.'s name.

On December 3, 2016, Mr. Chetram was at the residence and informed Burke that his daughter, R.C. resides with him and no one else.

Burke returned to the residence on November 28 and 29, 2016 and no one answered the door.

On January 3, 2017, respondent notified R.V. that the BOE determined he and his children were not domiciled at 227 Rowland Avenue.

On January 31, 2017, petitioner submitted another sworn statement and provided the district with a lease agreement, bank statement and utility bill, none of which has his name on them.

Burke returned to the residence on four separate occasions in February 2017 and observed a notice posted in the window that read home was winterized effective January 6, 2017 and the hot water heater/boiler was drained. He also observed the property was snow covered with no footprints or tracks. Burke was able to look through a window and there was no furniture.

On February 27, 2017, respondent scheduled a meeting with Burke and petitioner at the 227 Rowland Avenue address. Petitioner failed to show to the appointment.

On March 17, 2017, the respondent sent the investigator to the 227 Rowland Avenue address.

By letter dated April 17, 2017 respondent's Superintendent of Schools sent correspondence to the Department of Education asserting the following FACTS:

> "Please be advised that on March 17, 2017 we have once again sent our domicile investigation to ---- Avenue, Clifton, NJ, the address Mr. V claims he lives at with his two children. The house located at this address is vacant and has been in foreclosure since September 12, 2016. Also, there are notices on the door that state the water was turned off on January 6, 2017. In addition, an appointment was made to meet with Mr. V at the above address on February 27, 2017 and he failed to show.
> Mr. V has been made aware of these findings and has refused to inform us of his current address. Also, Mr. V has told our Registration Department that it is none of our business where he currently lives. To date, we have no address where Mr. V. and his children reside. "

The tuition for D.V. is $65.12 per day for 164 days at a total of $10,679.68. The tuition for S.T. is $63.57 per day for 166 days at a total of $10,552.62.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the district in which he is a resident. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). A student is a resident of a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1). A student may attend school in a district in which he is a non-resident, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2.

Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his or her parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001).

Where a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal to the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

In support of its claim for tuition, respondent produced residency inspector John Burke, who credibly testified in its behalf. He stated that the results of the investigation supported the finding that petitioner and his children are not domiciled in district. Petitioner was not able to provide even one document that has his address as 227 Rowland Avenue.

The Board asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the period of ineligible enrollment in 2016-2017. Where, as here, the evidence does not support the claims of the resident, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b) likewise requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Based upon the facts adduced and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner was not a domiciliary in the Clifton School District for the days sought and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of audited tuition in the amount of $10,679.68 for D.V. and $10,552.62 for S.T.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent's determination that petitioner and his children were not residents and domiciliary in Clifton, New Jersey, and were not domiciled within its school district during the period of September 4, 2016 through on or about June 19, 2017 is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner for the cost of audited tuition in the amount of $10,679.68 for D.V. and $10,552.62 for S.T.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se petition appealing the determination of the respondent Board that her children, J.R. and D.R., were not domiciled in West Orange, and therefore not entitled to a free public education in the West Orange school district. Petitioner contended that she and the children live in West Orange with J.R.'s parents, and are therefore officially domiciled within the Board's school district. The Board alleged that a residency investigation had shown that J.R. and the children are residing at an address in the city of Newark. The Board sought tuition reimbursement for the period of J.R. and D.R.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the testimony provided by the Board's witnesses was credible, while that of petitioner was not; pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1), a student is a resident of a school district if her parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district; the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of her parent or guardian; in the instant case, J.R. contested the Board's decision that J.R. and D.R. were not properly domiciled in West Orange; the testimony of the Board's residency inspector and the results of the investigation were credible and indicated that J.R. and her children were domiciled out-of-district in Newark, but continued to attend school in West Orange during the 2015-2016 school year; and the total cost of tuition for J.R. and D.R. in West Orange schools for the 2015-2016 school year was $11,410.10. The ALJ concluded that the petitioner was not a domiciliary of West Orange for the 2016-2017 school year and her children were therefore ineligible to attend West Orange public schools; accordingly, the respondent Board is entitled to reimbursement of tuition in the amount of $11,410.10.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of West Orange during the 2015-2016 school year. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during this time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $11,410.10 ($5,705.05 per child – $85.15 per day for 67 days – for J.R. and D.R.) for the time period between November 4, 2015 and March 1, 2016, during which J.R. and D.R. were ineligible to attend school in the District, as detailed in the ALJ's Initial Decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the total amount of $11,410.10 for

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03966-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 47-2/16

J.R. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN, J.R. and D.R., Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

J.R., petitioner, pro se

Frances L. Febres, Esq., for respondent (Cleary, Giacobbe, Alfieri & Jacobs, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 2017 Decided: July 24, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, J.R., is the mother of J.D.R. and D.R. (minor children), who is challenging the determination made by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange School District, Essex County (the Board/District) that the mother and the children were not domiciled in the District. The District filed a counterclaim seeking payment of tuition for the number of days that the minor children attended school in the District while not domiciled there.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 4, 2016, the District notified the petitioner that her minor children (J.D.R. and D.R.) were ineligible to attend the schools of the District due to non-residency and voted to remove the students from the West Orange School District. (R-16.) A hearing was held on February 2, 2016, and the Board recommended that the minor children be removed from enrollment in the District. Petitioner appealed that decision and the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. There was an apparent delay in processing due to the file not being located. The case was assigned to the undersigned on April 24, 2017. A telephone prehearing conference was held on May 10, 2017. A hearing was held on June 30, 2017, and the record closed on that same day.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

J.R. is the parent/mother of the minor children. J.R. registered her minor children in the West Orange School District for the 2015-2016 school year, stating she was a renter in West Orange. (R-1.) For the 2015-2016 school year, J.D.R. was enrolled in kindergarten in the District (R-2) and D.R. was enrolled in third grade. The Board completed a residency investigation; thereafter, conducted a residency hearing on February 2, 2016. Respondent filed its notice of final determination of ineligibility on February 4, 2016, determining that the minor children do not reside in the District. As a consequence, the mother of the minor children appealed that determination. The tuition rate of reimbursement as filed with the State by the District for the 2015-2016 school year was $85.15 per day.

The preceding statements are not in dispute as they are from the records and testimony of the parties and are hereby FOUND as FACT.

TESTIMONY

For Petitioner

J.R. is the mother of the minor children who are a third grader (D.R.) and a kindergartener (J.D.R.) at schools located in the District. She testified that she lives with her parents in West Orange, New Jersey, with her two minor children. J.R.'s driver's license has the address, 200 Watchung Avenue, West Orange, New Jersey, displayed on it and was accepted as evidence as well as a letter from her parents to the effect that J.R. resides with them in West Orange and accepted as evidence. (R-4; R-6; R-7.)

The real estate located in West Orange is owned by J.R.'s parents. J.R. testified that she stays at the Newark address (233 South 11th Street) in order to stay with a very good friend of hers on many nights, including all of the nights cited in the Zarro investigation report. (R-13a.) J.R. confirmed that she had her name on a mailbox on the house located at 233 South 11th Street, Newark, for the purpose of her friend avoiding a cable deposit charge and having J.R.'s name on the cable bill. J.R. alleges that her friend pays the cable bill even though it is in her name.

On cross-examination, J.R. acknowledged the pictures submitted by the respondent showed that she and her minor children leaving the Newark address and that her car was parked in front of the Newark address on the dates set forth in the Zarro investigation report. J.R. also confirmed that her name, alone, was on the mailbox at the Newark address and that her friend's name was not displayed at that address. J.R. also admitted that it would have been far more convenient to take her minor children to school from the West Orange address and not Newark and thus residing in Newark was not a decision made for purposes of convenience.

For Respondent

Michael Zarro (Zarro) works for the District as a Residency Officer. Prior to October 27, 2015, personnel received a school work assignment from J.D.R. in Newark. (R-13b.) As a result, he started a residency investigation on petitioner for the West Orange and Newark addresses. (R-13a.) The investigation consisted of a large number of occasions of surveillance as reflected in exhibit R-13a. The investigative report stated in part the following and was confirmed by his testimony:

2. On October 27, 2015, I observed the two students getting dropped off at Washington School at 8:00AM for the breakfast program. The students were dropped off in a black Nissan Versa (V45-xxx).
3. On November 4, November 11, November 16, November 24, December 2, December 8, 2015, January 4, 2106 (sp.) at 7:30AM, surveillance was conducted at 200 Watchung Ave. The students or Mrs. [R]* were not observed exiting this location. Students were reported in attendance at Washington School.
4. On January 7, 2016, at 7:00AM the said vehicle was located on So. 11th St., Newark, NJ. At 7:40AM, the two students and Ms. [R] were observed exiting 233 So. 11th St., and entered the said vehicle and drove to Washington School.
5. On January 8, January 11, (photo of vehicle in front of 233 So. 11th St. enclosed) January 12 (photo of the name [R]* on mailbox at 233 So. 11th St. enclosed), January 13, January 14, January 15, (photo of the two students and Ms. [R]* exiting 233 So[.] 11th St. enclosed), January 19, January 20 and January 21, 2015 between 7:30AM and 7:55AM, the two students and Ms. [R] were observed exiting 233 So[.] 11th St[.], Newark and entered the said vehicle. The hearing letter was given to Ms. [R]* on January 21, 2016 as she was exiting the said address.
6. On January 21, 2016 at 11:20AM, Ms. [R]* contacted the office to request a hearing. She started to leave the hearing letter at 200 Watchung Ave. West Orange.

Zarro also testified that the minor children attended the entire school year (180 days) for the 2015-2016 school year and the tuition rate for the 2015-2016 school year was $85.15 per day. Zarro also testified that J.R.'s minor children attended 109 days in the 2015-2016 school year when they were not residing in West Orange. Based on these figures, Zarro testified that each student incurred tuition in the amount of $9,281.35 or a total of $18,562.70.

Respondent, via Zarro or any other witnesses, was unable to present any evidence showing that the minor students did not reside in West Orange from October 27, 2015, until November 4, 2015. Any credible evidence began on November 4, 2015, and ends on March 1, 2016. Accordingly, the number of school days for this period is as follows:

November 2015	11 days
December 2015	17 days
January 2016	19 days
February 2016	19 days
March 2016	1 day
Total Days:	67 days per student

FINDINGS OF FACT

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After hearing the testimony and reviewing the evidence, I make the following additional FINDINGS OF FACT:

For the 2015-2016 school year, the minor children of J.R., were enrolled in the third grade and kindergarten in the District. After the District received a school work assignment from J.D.R., which stated that she lived in Newark, the Board completed a residency investigation and conducted a residency hearing on February 2, 2016. The results of the hearing were that the mother of the minor children claimed to be domiciled in West Orange, Essex County, along with her minor children. However, the Board found that J.R., the mother of the minor children, and the minor children were not domiciled in West Orange. The mother and the minor children instead were domiciled at 233 South 11th Street, Newark, New Jersey beginning November 4, 2015, until March 1, 2016, when J.R. re-registered her children in West Orange, residing at an address in West Orange. The tuition rate as determined in West Orange for reimbursement as filed with the State for the 2015-2016 school year was $85.15 per day.

The testimony of respondent's witness was especially credible and persuasive. He did not embellish his investigative findings and, in fact, conceded the point that there was no evidence regarding J.R.'s residence from October 27, 2015, and that his investigation began on November 4, 2015.

Conversely, the petitioner's testimony was not credible in the manner in which it was given. J.R.'s own testimony assisted the respondent in proving the facts of the case by a preponderance of the evidence by admitting the number of days she and her children resided in Newark, New Jersey, while her children attended school in West Orange. Her explanation regarding her name on the mailbox on the Newark house lacked credibility. In addition, simply the sheer number of days, including consecutive days, certainly weigh to support the respondent's case. This detracted from any modicum of credibility.

Therefore, I FIND that J.R. and her minor children, J.D.R. and D.R., were domiciled outside the District and instead were domiciled in Newark, New Jersey from November 4, 2015, until March 1, 2016. Accordingly, I FIND that both minor children became ineligible to attend school in the District for those days in the 2015-2016 school year. I FURTHER FIND, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that respondent filed a counterclaim seeking tuition for the days the minor students attended the District and were ineligible for the 2015-2016 school year. As such, the District must establish the cost of tuition and the number of days the minor students attended the District's schools when they were ineligible to do so. Testimony was uncontroverted and therefore, I FIND that the per-pupil cost for a student to attend school in the district for the 2015-2016 school year was $85.15 per day equaling $5,705.05 per minor student or a total of $11,410.01 total school days for the time frame of November 4, 2015, until March 1, 2016, for both minor children.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

At issue is whether the minor children were entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, which provides that public schools shall be free to persons over five and under twenty years of age who are "domiciled within the school district." See V.R. ex rel. A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom., Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

A person who meets age requirements and is domiciled within a school district may attend its public schools free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). A person may have many residences but only one domicile. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001). A child's domicile is normally that of his or her parents. Ibid. The domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 518 (1999).

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in the light of all the circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent has the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

The record reflects that the minor children attended school within the District for the 2015-2016 school year while domiciled outside of the District. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the minor children were not entitled to a free public education in the District from November 4, 2015, until March 1, 2016. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition "for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per-pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced." The uncontested record reflects that the actual cost of the minor children's (two children) attendance in-district was $85.15 per day equaling $11,410.10 for the ineligible time frame. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by the petitioner for her two children in the amount of $11,410.10. I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's appeal should be dismissed.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that petitioner pay respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Orange School District, Essex County, tuition in the total amount of $11,410.10 for unauthorized attendance in the District schools for the periods stated above. It is further ORDERED that the District's determination that the minor children were ineligible to attend school while domiciled outside the District is hereby AFFIRMED. Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
v.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, CRIMINAL HISTORY REVIEW UNIT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – who had been employed as a school maintenance worker in the Rockaway Borough school district – argued that the decision of the New Jersey Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit (Department), to disqualify him from employment following a drug conviction violated his procedural due process rights. Petitioner contended that he was not provided with proper notice and an opportunity to be heard, and requested that his disqualification be vacated for 90 days to allow him to challenge the criminal plea entered in Municipal Court. The Department filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner was arrested in September 2016 and charged with possession of marijuana and intent to use drug paraphernalia; the Rockaway school district was notified of his arrest a week later, and petitioner then met with Rockaway's superintendent of schools, where he was presented with a document containing information about the arrest; petitioner then informed the District and the union representatives present at the meeting about his drug arrest; Panzica entered a guilty plea to one count of possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to use in December 2016; petitioner thereafter received a letter from the Department notifying him that he was permanently disqualified from employment in New Jersey public schools due to his criminal conviction; petitioner does not deny the criminal conviction that resulted in his disqualification, but rather requests a "do-over" in Municipal Court, claiming that he was not informed by anyone nor advised in any document from the Department or the District that a drug paraphernalia conviction would result in disqualification from his employment; however, petitioner failed to cite any regulation or case law for his argument that the District had a duty to inform him of the consequences of a drug conviction; the disqualification statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b), is a public record; and petitioner admitted that he did not avail himself of the statute's requirements before he entered his guilty plea in Municipal Court. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's argument that his procedural due process rights and his right to be heard were violated is without merit. Accordingly, the Department's motion for summary decision was granted.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

NOLAN PANZICA,	:
PETITIONER,	:
v.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, CRIMINAL HISTORY REVIEW UNIT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Nolan Panzica, and the Criminal History Review Unit's reply thereto.

In his exceptions, the petitioner reiterates the arguments that were made below contending that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erroneously determined that the petition should be dismissed. The petitioner contends that in reaching his decision, the ALJ applied the incorrect standard to his right to challenge his disqualification from employment within a public school. The petitioner stresses that under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.3, his employer – the Rockaway Borough School District (District) – had an obligation to provide him with notice, after he was arrested, that a conviction for possession of drug paraphernalia would result in the dismissal from his position.[1] Petitioner contends that the District's failure to adhere to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.3 violated his rights and damaged his ability to defend himself against dismissal from his position. Further, the Initial Decision incorrectly determined that the petitioner was presumed to know the law.

[1] It is undisputed that the petitioner entered a guilty plea in the Jefferson Township Municipal Court to one count of possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to use; and that the petitioner did not challenge the accuracy of his conviction after being afforded the opportunity to do so by the Criminal History Review Unit.

Upon the review of the record, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Criminal History Review Unit properly disqualified the petitioner from public school employment based on his conviction for possession of drug paraphernalia. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the District was not required to notify the petitioner of the consequences of a drug conviction. Despite the petitioner's assertion to the contrary, the arguments made by the petitioner were thoroughly considered and discussed by the ALJ in rendering the specific determinations outlined in the Initial Decision. Accordingly, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Nolan Panzica (Panzica), seeks a determination that the respondent, New Jersey Department of Education Criminal History Review Unit (Department), erred in disqualifying him from employment due to a drug conviction, where Panzica did not know that a drug conviction would lead to a disqualification from employment. Specifically, Panzica argues that the Department's decision violated his procedural due process, as the Department did not provide him with proper "notice" and an opportunity to "be heard." Panzica requests that his disqualification be vacated for 90 days to allow him to challenge the criminal plea entered in the Municipal Court.

Panzica filed his Petition with the Department on January 26, 2017[1]. On March 1, 2017, the Department filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 6A:3-1.10 [2]. On March 28, 2017, Panzica filed an opposition to the Department's motion for summary decision, and on April 7, 2017, the Department filed its reply to Panzica's response to the motion.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 6, 2017, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. Thereafter, on March 28, 2017, Panzica filed his opposition to the motion for summary decision, and on April 7, 2017, the Department file their reply to Panzica's response.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts in this case are undisputed. Based upon the briefs, certifications and documents filed by the parties, I FIND the following to be the FACTS of this case:

On September 23, 2016, Panzica was arrested and charged in Jefferson Township with possession of one count of less than 50 grams of marijuana and one count of possession with intent to use drug paraphernalia. A week later the Rockaway Borough

[1] On or about December 29, 2016, Panzica filed a letter with the Department, challenging the Department's decision, along with Panzica's Certification, Exhibits and form of Order. By letter dated January 12, 2017, the Department instructed Panzica that his filing was not in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6A: 3-1.4, and that he had until January 23, 2017 to refile accordingly. Thereafter, on January 23, 2017, Panzica filed his Petition in conformance with the rules.

[2] The Department had initially filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer with the Commissioner of Education under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. The Department requested in its motion that once the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), that the Department's motion be converted to a summary decision motion under N.J.A.C. 1:1:12.5.

School District (District), where Panzica is employed as a school maintenance worker, was notified of his arrest. Panzica then met with Superintendent Mark Schwartz; Rockaway Borough Education Association (Union) presidents, Jeri Hurley (Hurley) and Carol Culthier (Culthier), also attended the meeting. At this meeting, Panzica was presented with a "document" containing information about the arrest, and he informed the District and his Union of his drug arrest.

On or about December 1, 2016, Panzica entered a guilty plea in the Jefferson Township Municipal Court to one count of possession of drug paraphernalia with intent to use. By letter dated December 2, 2016, the New Jersey State Department of Education (DOE) notified Panzica that he was permanently disqualified from employment in New Jersey public schools due to his criminal conviction. The DOE's notice informed Panzica that he had "30 days from the date of this written notice of disqualification" to challenge the accuracy of the criminal conviction. This was the first-time Panzica was informed that a criminal conviction would lead to a permanent disqualification from employment in New Jersey Public Schools.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

A. Summary Decision Standard

Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) a "motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). A summary decision may be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Ibid.

A court should grant summary judgment when the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, show that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 528-529 (1995). The Supreme Court of New Jersey has adopted a standard that requires judges to "engage in an analytical process to decide whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533.

"When a motion for summary decision is made, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding . . .." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). A court should deny a motion for summary decision when the party opposing the motion has produced evidence that creates a genuine issue as to any material fact challenged. Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 528-29. When making a summary decision, the "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence." Id. at 540.

The Petition filed by Panzica, along with his certification, attests that he pleaded guilty to one count of a drug paraphernalia charge; that he informed the District of his arrest and criminal charge and he requested a 90-day stay to "challenge" the plea agreement entered in the Municipal Court. Panzica's attestation as contained in the Petition are admissions of fact and therefore do not give rise to any material issue of material fact challenged. Panzica challenges his procedural due process rights and right to be heard, which is a question of law.

B. The Employee Disqualification Statute:

A school, or school system under the supervision of the Department of Education and board of education which cares for, or is involved in the education of children under the age of 18 shall not employ for pay or contract for the paid services of any custodian, school maintenance worker, or any other person serving in a position which involves regular contact with pupils unless the employer has first determined consistent with the requirements and standards of this act, that no criminal history record information exists on file in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Identification Division, or the State Bureau of Identification which would disqualify that individual from being employed or utilized in such capacity or position (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1)

An individual, shall be permanently disqualified from employment or service in a public school district, if the individual's criminal history record check reveals a record of conviction for any crime involving, "drug paraphernalia" as defined pursuant to N.J.S..A. 2C:36-1 et seq. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b).

An individual shall not be disqualified from employment or service under this act on the basis of any conviction disclosed by a criminal record check performed pursuant to this act without an opportunity to challenge the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal history record (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7(e).

Panzica does not deny the criminal conviction that resulted in his disqualification from employment. In addition, Panzica does not challenge the "accuracy" of his criminal conviction. Panzica requests an opportunity for a do-over in the Municipal Court. Panzica claims that he was not "informed" by anyone nor "advised" in any document from the DOE or the District, that a drug paraphernalia conviction would result in disqualification from his employment at the District. However, Panzica fails to cite any regulation or case law for his argument that the District has a duty to inform him of the consequences of a drug conviction. The statute, which regulates Panzica's disqualification from employment, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(b), is a public record and is made available for all to read. Panzica admits that he did not avail himself of the statute's requirements before he entered his guilty plea in the Municipal Court, and now blames the DOE and the District for his error.

Panzica is also mistaken when he argues that his procedural due process was violated before he was disqualified from his public employment at the District. The statute provides that an individual shall not be disqualified from employment or service under this act on the basis of any conviction disclosed by a criminal record check performed pursuant to this act without an opportunity to challenge the accuracy of the disqualifying criminal history record (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7(e). Said opportunity was provided to Panzica in the DOE's notice of December 2, 2016, which allowed Panzica "30 days" from the date of the notice or disqualification to "challenge the accuracy" of his criminal history record. Panzica has not submitted any proof challenging the criminal conviction, but instead chose to challenge the disqualification process instead.

Accordingly, the Department's motion for summary decision in lieu of an answer to dismiss the Petition is GRANTED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Department's motion for summary decision in lieu of an answer to dismiss the Petition is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

By letter dated May 17, 2017, M. Kathleen Duncan, Director of Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, determined that the charges were reviewed and "deemed sufficient, if true, to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary." Therefore, in accordance with the Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for Children of New Jersey Act, ("TEACHNJ Act" or "Act") P.L. 2012, Chapter 26 signed into law by Governor Chris Christie on August 6, 2012 the undersigned was appointed as Arbitrator on May 18, 2017 of the dispute described herein.

The hearings were held on June 27, July 10, 17 and 18, 2017 at the Board of Education office, Saddle Brook, New Jersey. Both parties were afforded full opportunity to present all the necessary proofs and evidence. A verbatim transcript was made and all witnesses were sworn. Briefs were received as agreed.

APPEARING FOR RESPONDENT:

BACKGROUND:

The matter arose as a result of tenure charges filed against Respondent, Orleans Sarmiento. On April 12, 2017 the Board of Education (Petitioner/District/Board/Administration) determined, by a majority vote of the whole, that there was probable cause to support the tenure charges filed on March 16, 2017 against Respondent for Conduct Unbecoming and Other Just Cause.

The sequence of events was as follows:

- November 1, 2016 Respondent called to a meeting with Administration
- November 4, 2016 Respondent suspended
- March 3, 2017 Respondent's attorney wrote a letter advising the District that Respondent intended to file a complaint against the District
- March 13, 2017 District notified Respondent that it intended to serve Respondent with tenure charges
- March 16, 2017 Interim Superintendent Anthony Riscica presented to the Board the tenure charges with eight (8) interviews, although the verbiage stated that there were ten (10) students interviewed
- March 17, 2017 Letter to Respondent and her attorney advising them that they have fifteen (15) days to respond in opposition to the charges
- April 12, 2017 Board met and determined by a majority vote that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the tenure charges filed on March 16, 2017
- April 24, 2017 Board sent Department of Education certified tenure charges.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES:

The Petitioner's position is that Respondent had a responsibility to retain her cell phone as she knew there would probably be litigation, knew that her cell phone would be part of the tenure charges, which directly involved the text messages she sent student JB,[1] and knew that without the phone the District was precluded from questioning her relating to the phone and challenging Respondent's unsubstantiated and self-serving claim that the phone was utilized to enter attendance, grades and to conduct lessons. Rather, Respondent disposed of key evidence just a few weeks prior to the first hearing in this matter and two months after receiving notice of this litigation. Respondent's destruction of evidence is prejudicial and should not be permitted and an inference in Petitioner's favor should be granted.

Further, it is Petitioner's position that Respondent violated the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and Board policy regarding the handling of student records; that the policy only permits access to student records for school district personnel who have "assigned educational responsibility of the pupil;" that she was not assigned educational responsibilities for these two students, MC and JV, and that despite the fact that they were not on her roster, she accessed their student records in clear violation of FERPA, state law and Board policy. For this her increment was withheld for the 2015-2016 school year.

It is the District's position that Respondent engaged in an inappropriate and harmful text conversation with a minor student; that Respondent, as a teacher, is held to a higher standard of behavior and that she failed to conduct herself according to that standard. She violated Board policy 3281 when she engaged in a series of personal text messages of an inappropriate nature with student JB. Further, it was not until the arbitration hearing that Respondent admitted using curse words, advising the student how to avoid and contest administrative discipline and denigrating the administration and indicated for the first time that she regretted using such language. While she claimed to have no prior knowledge of the incident in which JB was involved, the text demonstrated otherwise. If she had no knowledge of the situation, as she admitted, she had no right to make a judgment regarding JB's discipline.

Respondent claimed at the hearing to regret most of her statements to JB but cited the impact on her personally as the reason she would not behave in such a manner again, rather than acknowledging that such statements were outright inappropriate and potentially harmful to JB. She claimed her responses to JB showed concern for her mental health but admitted she never told administration about her concerns. It is Petitioner's position that should Respondent feel certain conduct is necessary to assist a student in the future, she will act accordingly, even if it violates Board policy and the law.

Additionally, Respondent continued in her improper behavior as a Teen PEP/Health co-advisor and head coach of the volleyball team. The District asserts that she complained to her students that administration was punishing her for helping students; that administration was out to get her; that she was given the smallest classroom in the school as punishment; that she asked a student for a recommendation for a therapist because she was suffering from anxiety and depression; that she cried in front of students; that she failed to report an allegation of bullying and that she told students that an AIDs Day field trip was denied, when it was not even submitted for approval. All these incidents require Respondent's dismissal.

Moreover, Respondent failed since May of 2016 to demonstrate any authentic remorse for her conduct and, until the date of her testimony, she failed to ever express remorse even to her own Union representative. It is Petitioner's position that Respondent was not truthful in her testimony, continued to claim that her comments in the text to JB was in her best interest and has refused to accept real responsibility and to acknowledge the gravity of Respondent's conduct.

As regards the TeenPEP curriculum, while there were ways that Respondent could have shared incidents or feelings with the students, her choice of topics including denigrating administration, advising students that she was depressed and sharing her personal sexual history to make them feel they can talk to her where inappropriate.

It is the District's position that there was no disparate treatment or retaliation in this matter; that there was no evidence that Respondent is being treated differently than any other employee; that Sandra Frazier, volleyball coach with Respondent, was disciplined for texting an adult during teaching time and that although other employees may have texted student athletes, there is no testimony that these employees contacted students in an impermissible way.

Further, Respondent's employment history is not dispositive. Her conduct herein is sufficiently flagrant and constitutes a series of incidents that justifies her termination, despite her history.

Finally, Respondent was not credible and had her testimony had numerous inconsistencies, unsubstantiated claims and was not truthful regarding her knowledge of JB's discipline. In contrast, the testimony of the District's testimony was credible and was not contradicted.

Therefore, Petitioner asks this Arbitrator to determine that Respondent is unfit to discharge her duties as an educational professional and is not fit to be entrusted with the care and custody of children; that Petitioner has proven by a fair preponderance of the evidence that Respondent will continue to both educationally and emotionally endanger District students; that the tenure charges be sustained and that Respondent be dismissed from her employment with the District.

Respondent's position is that "conduct unbecoming" is defined as conduct "which has a tendency to destroy public respect of government employees and confidence in the operation of public services" and that even if the purported conduct occurred, it still falls short of "conduct unbecoming." Further, Petitioner does not allege that Respondent engaged in any communications with a student that were of an inappropriate personal or sexual nature and does not allege that she favored players, only that some players perceived that. Petitioner's allegation that Respondent cried and that she shared personal experiences and expressed emotions should not serve as a basis for tenure charges as crying is human and a valuable lesson and as sharing emotions was required by the TeenPEP program. While the District alleges that Respondent encouraged JB to file an Harassment Intimidation Bulling (HIB) charge, she never did but same would not constitute a basis for tenure charges because under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq.), teachers have a duty to assist students who believe they are being bullied.

Further, it is Respondent's position that a review of the interviews conducted by the Administration reveals a lack of credible evidence to support the allegations of Respondent's interaction with students. There was no evidence that Respondent engaged in any personal communications with players or students and, in fact, there was no clear policy prohibiting coaches from texting players but rather coaches were instructed to exchange contact information with players. Further, Respondent did not use her cell phone during class but when she left the room to get supplies or go to the bathroom she might have taken a call or received a text. When she used her cell in class it was to access TeenPEP curriculum, to post homework on Remind 101, to take attendance or to input grades because there were two teachers in the classroom but only one computer. Regarding communicating with players, there was no evidence to support that any communications were inappropriate or unrelated to volleyball matters or that Respondent exchanged any text messages with individual players. Some players complained that Respondent showed favoritism but others, including Respondent's assistant coach, testified to the exact opposite, that Respondent treated players inclusively, that she was well-liked and a fair coach and that she provided them with a very positive team experience.

Respondent asserts that there is virtually no support in the record that she cried on multiple occasions and was overemotional and even if it occurred, crying and showing emotion is no basis for tenure charges and if she cried during TeenPEP sessions, that is part of the sharing experience as testified to by Evelyn Moon, Project Manager for the Center for Supportive Schools. Moreover, teachers, who had worked with Respondent for ten years, a former superintendent and a former volleyball player, testified that they never observed anything inappropriate in Respondent's interaction with students. Finally, as to the allegations by some students regarding Respondents complaining about her employment, the overwhelming testimony did not support that allegation and, in any event, whatever was said at the TeenPEP sessions was supposed to be confidential. Petitioner has failed to sustain its burden of proof regarding allegations that Respondent was overly emotional, that she engaged in any behavior that made students uncomfortable or that she complained about her employment and administrative staff.

It is Respondent's position that the real issue is whether the text message with student JB constituted conduct unbecoming. Several factors should be taken into account to determine conduct unbecoming including the nature and gravity of the offenses, evidence as to provocation, harm the teacher's conduct had on the proper administration of the school, the teaching record and ability of the teacher and the disciplinary record and the impact of the penalty on the teacher's career. Respondent contends that when each of these factors is examined, it must be concluded that Respondent's actions do not constitute conduct unbecoming and, therefore, the tenure charges should be dismissed and the penalty should be other than termination.

Additionally, Respondent asserts that previous tenure cases suggest that progressive discipline should be imposed before resorting to the harshest penalty and cited several much more egregious cases wherein progressive discipline was applied. In this District, there was testimony that when teachers have been caught texting in class, they were only given a write up for inappropriate conduct. Therefore, considering that Respondent has served her school with distinction over a lengthy career with an unblemished and distinguished record and considering the nature of the alleged wrongdoing, she deserves the application of progressive discipline.

It is Respondent's position that though she may have had a lapse in judgment, her conduct does not rise to the level of conduct warranting termination. Respondent cited many prior arbitration decisions involving much more serious misconduct wherein the charges were upheld but dismissal was not the appropriate remedy.

Finally, Respondent asserts that dismissal of the charges is warranted based on procedural errors. The Board failed to provide written notification of its determination to Respondent within three (3) working days of its determination. The Board failed to provide a Certificate of Determination in the proper format and the charges were certified to by Riscica, who had no direct knowledge or participation in the investigation.

Therefore, Respondent asks this Arbitrator to reinstate her to her position and made whole for all losses in pay, seniority, benefits and all emoluments and to expunge her record of all disciplinary actions related to this matter. Alternatively, if suspension is warranted, Respondent asks this Arbitrator to impose the appropriate suspension of 120 days or less, which Respondent has served.

OPINION:

Respondent was charged with violating three specific Board Policies, which Petitioner claimed proved "conduct unbecoming." In fact, both parties cited the definition of conduct unbecoming in a similar manner as a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees, conduct that offends publicly accepted standards of decency, destroys confidence in the operation of public services and conduct which adversely affects morale or efficiency for a public entity.

Board Policy and Regulation 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct, (Tab 1, P-14)[2] which stated in relevant part that

> The Board of Education recognizes its responsibility to protect the health, safety and welfare of all pupils within this school district. The record established that staff members receive training in Board Policies and that Respondent received the Staff Handbook for the 2016-1017 school year (T 17, P-

3), which lists all the Policies including the three Policies Petitioner claimed Respondent violated. On page 3 of the Handbook, Bates stamped P 00249, it stated:

> Policies Acknowledgement Form – Please complete the Google Form linked below to acknowledge that you have read these policies no later than, Friday, September 9th.

Respondent acknowledged at the hearing that she was aware of these policies and stated that, as a teaching professional, it was her responsibility to know and understand the laws, rules and policies of the District. Further, when the Board implements these policies, it fulfills its obligation to its staff and students. The Board has a right and responsibility to promulgate reasonable polices so that the schools function smoothly and so that staff understands their employment expectations. In this day and age of social media explosion and ready access to cell phones and other electronic devices, the Board needs to keep the students and staff safe and has a right to expect that staff members will act professionally and responsibly when interacting with students.

The matter herein involved an exchange of text messages between Respondent, a Special Education teacher and Volleyball Coach, sent from her personal cell phone, September 28 through October 5, 2016, and student, JB, who did not testify. During its investigation, the Board determined that some of these messages were sent when Respondent was supposed to be teaching or prepping for other classes. Respondent's Daily Schedule for the 2016-2017 school year, (P-2, T-5), indicated that Period 2 extended from 8:56 a.m. to 9:45 a.m., Period 4 was from 10:40 to 11:29 a.m. and Period 7 was from 1:16 to 2:05 p.m.

When comparing the times on the text message (P-1, T-4) with the periods of the day, (P-2, T-5) it was concluded that on Thursday, September 29, Respondent was texting JB at 10:47 a.m. during Period 4, Respondent's Prep period, when she was supposed to be preparing for other classes; that on Friday, September 30 at 1:48 p.m. Respondent was texting JB during Period 7 when she was assisting special education students in Biology and that on Tuesday, October 4 at 9:09 a.m. and on Wednesday, October 5 at 9:11 a.m., Respondent was texting JB during Period 2 when she was assisting special education students in Biology. Further, it was undisputed that professional development days are part of the work day and that teachers are paid for that time. Therefore, it must be concluded that Respondent was texting a student during instructional time or time when she was supposed to be preparing for other classes.

Respondent was called to a meeting on November 1, 2016 with Interim Superintendent Anthony Riscica, High School Principal John W. Lawlor, and Union President Kimberly Salma at which time Principal Lawlor told Respondent that the Board had knowledge of the existence of a text message, (P-1, T-4), which it asserted violated the above three Board Policies. Further, by letter dated November 4, 2016, (P-17, T-6) Respondent was advised that she was suspended from her teaching and coaching responsibilities while the District completed a full review of the text messages between her and the student and Mrs. V's[3] concerns about the TeenPEP program.

[3] Ms. V is the parent who testified that she found the text message on her computer, was concerned and brought it to the attention of Administration along with her concerns about Respondent and the TeenPEP program. There was a legitimate concern as to whether the text messages were fond on Ms. V's computer because of the cracked glass marks on the text exhibit (P-1, T-4).

This Arbitrator signed a subpoena directing Respondent to submit her cell phone, which was used to text student JB, and the record of her phone records. In response, Respondent provided an eBay receipt indicating that Respondent sold her phone in early May 2017. Further, while this Arbitrator agreed that the initial subpoena for cell phone records was overly broad, the final subpoena was tailored to cover a limited time period prior to Respondent's suspension for phone and text data. Though multiple attempts were made to obtain texts usage from her cell phone or cell data usage for the year prior to the filing of tenure charges, the phone company notified Respondent that it could only go back ninety (90) to capture the information requested through a subpoena. Therefore, no text date was present at the hearing.

Petitioner asserted that it was prejudiced by the fact that the cell phone was not produced based on a claim of spoliation of evidence. This Arbitrator must agree that the timing when Respondent sold her phone was very concerning. She knew that tenure charges were filed on April 24, 2017 and she had hired an attorney in March 2017. Further, she clearly knew that her cell phone, along with the actual text, (P-1, Tab 4), were the central pieces of evidence in this matter. Therefore, in the opinion of this Arbitrator, Respondent had a responsibility to retain her cell phone until the proceedings were concluded. She did not and this Arbitrator can draw a negative inference from her actions. If she had nothing to hide, she would have wanted to present evidence that supported her assertion of not improperly using her cell phone except in this one instance with student JB. While the District has the burden of proof, Respondent improperly prevented Petitioner from presenting all the relevant evidence against her.

As part of its investigation, the Riscica directed Lawlor and Middle School Assistant Principal Brenda Coffey to interview students regarding their interactions with Respondent as a teacher and coach. According to Lawlor, he randomly selected ten students from the roster of the TeenPEP class and the volleyball team and interviewed them along with Coffey during the first week of January 2017. The students answered questions from Lawlor and Coffey as identified in the record of the hearing as (P-4, T-7) through (P-11, T-14).[4] In addition to responding to questions from Lawlor and Coffey, Lawlor testified that the students were asked to write a statement based on his/her interactions with Respondent. Further, Coffey confirmed that the students were asked to write in their own words any additional information they would like to share. Further, seven of these eight students testified at the hearing.[5] This Arbitrator was convinced that in fact the investigators told the students as testified to by Lawlor and Coffey to write whatever supplemental information they wanted to share.

[4] Of the ten students that the District interviewed, it submitted these eight as part of the tenure charges against Respondent. However, two other interviews, R-9 and R-10, were not included in the tenure charges given to the Board for its consideration. While Riscica testified that he "believed" that all ten interviews were given to the Board prior to it certifying tenure charges, there was no proof of that happening and, in fact, the tenure charges, Joint Exhibit J-2, filed on April 24, 2017 only included eight interviews.

[5] JB's interview (P-10, T-13) and R-7, a statement by JB, which was not admitted into evidence, were not reviewed or taken into consideration in this decision because she did not testify. Each party was not able to question JB regarding these documents. Without JB's direct testimony this Arbitrator determined that these documents, which went to the very heart of this matter, were rank hearsay and not admissible even under the lenient hearsay rules applied in arbitration.

A careful review of these statements led this Arbitrator to conclude that the students made complimentary as well as critical statements about Respondent. Several recurring themes were

No individual texting, only group texting for games
Cries a lot/ in class and at practice
Did not tell us how to sneak out of school
Has favorites. "Either she really likes you or you are not there."
No private lunch/dinners with Respondent
Let's emotions get in the way. Opinionated
Did not say administration out to get her
Did not pressure kids to share secrets
Said administration out to get her
Said she was punished for helping students
Feels empty without her

Two additional students were interviewed, R-9 and R-10, which Lawlor testified he included with the other eight when he presented the interviews to Riscica. However, when Riscica submitted the packet of information to the Board to determine whether tenure charges were appropriate, these two interviews were not included. There was no definitive testimony as to whether they were ever given to the Board but clearly they were not included in the tenure charges, Joint Exhibit J-2.

The themes in R-9 and R-10 were

No private text messages, only group texts
Makes you feel comfortable
No negative talk about administration
Crying but just "normal stuff"
Never heard administration out to get her
R-10 acknowledged that she was not around a lot because worked after school but when there, never felt uncomfortable and never saw Respondent inappropriate.

While R-9 and R-10 were more positive regarding Respondent than those submitted with the tenure charges, there should have been no reason for Riscica to not have included them in the tenure charges given to the Board. The Superintendent had a responsibility to give the Board a complete picture of the investigation and the reasons that tenure charges were contemplated.

However, the main reason according to Riscica that Respondent was brought up on tenure charges was because of the exchange of texts between Respondent and JB (P-1, T-4). When Riscica was asked if all Respondent's evaluations and observations were positive would it have changed his mind on filing tenure charges, he responded, "Absolutely not. Because it was the content of the text message . . ." He explained that a teacher should not have been commenting on an HIB investigation. However, in the opinion of this Arbitrator, even if the text was the overriding concern, certainly a fair investigation would have to include examining an employee's complete employment record.

All adult witnesses for both Petitioner and Respondent agreed that they would not curse in front of students, would not make a judgment on a HIB matter without having knowledge of that investigation and would not think that a student being bullied was petty or bullshit. In the instant matter, it was clearly the content of the text and not the fact that Respondent was texting a student that caused the Administration to file tenure charges.

Student JB initiated the text and, as stated above, all but one of the texts was exchanged during times when Respondent should have been teaching or preparing for another class.[6] All witnesses agreed that it is not appropriate to text a student during times when a teacher is supposed to be engaged in some form of educating students. Further, Lawler testified that staff is encouraged to use the Remind 101 app, which is a group text, to prevent one-on-one communications between students and staff. The record did establish that teachers and students have exchanged texts but the topics cannot be of a personal nature. Further, even when Respondent texted individual members of the volleyball team, it was established that those texts related to practice, scheduling and other team matters, which was agreed was completely appropriate.[7]

However, texting a student over a seven-day period from September 28 through October 5, 2016 during class time about subjects not related to school work but rather related to the student's discipline and actions by Administration was completely inappropriate. Respondent tried to explain that she interacted with JB the way she did because she was concerned about her mental health; that JB was an at-risk teenager and that she was trying to be supportive. However, if Respondent was so concerned about the student's well being, she should have alerted Administration sometime over those seven days. She did not contact administration and did not contact JB's mother during the period of the text exchange but rather took the matter into her own hands. While Respondent testified that she would act differently if this situation occurred in the future, her judgment was faulty.

text. However, this was all speculation and simply excuses for her behavior. She submitted no proof that she was actually engaged in those activities when these text messages were exchanged.

[7] Clearly coaches were directed to exchange contact information with players as stated in the Coaches Handbook, R-6.

Of further concern to this Arbitrator was Respondent's repeated testimony that when she read these texts the only knowledge she had was what was contained in these messages. However, this Arbitrator was not convinced.

Based on JB's statement that she was suspended because she "called her (another student) a name" Respondent made a judgment that the discipline was bullshit and admitted that she made that comment without knowing the details of the interaction between JB and that other student. Further, Respondent was judging the way this Administration was handling the situation when she commented about how her husband would have handled the matter. Additionally, she texted that > I would have asked him to see the camera footage and how can a camera show you called someone a name.

From this one comment two things were clear. First, there had to have been some conversation by text or in person after she texted "Are you kidding me???" and before she wrote "I would have asked him to see the camera . . ." because otherwise it makes no sense. JB did not tell her in the text in evidence that there was a camera shot of the event. Respondent must have known from another conversation. Second, her testimony that the only knowledge she had of the investigation was what was contained in the text was clearly not accurate.

Further, that Respondent was texting a student and getting involved in her discipline and questioning Administration's actions was unacceptable. Respondent acknowledged that she knew the rules and policies, which stated in relevant part that

> Inappropriate conduct by a school staff member outside their professional responsibilities may be considered conduct unbecoming a staff member. Therefore, school staff members are advised to be concerned with such > conduct which may include, but is not limited to, communications and/or publications using e-mails, text-messaging,

>
> Improper electronic communications by teaching staff members may be determined to be inappropriate conduct.
> Text messaging communications between a teaching staff member and an individual student are prohibited.

By any reading of these policies, it was clear that Respondent's conduct was inappropriate and violated the policies.

Respondent was hired for the 2001-2002 school year and was granted tenure in September 2004. The record established that Respondent's personnel file, R-1, contained observations and evaluations since she was hired but this Arbitrator focused on those observations/evaluations after she was awarded tenure beginning in the 2004-05 school year through the 2015-2016 school year. Additionally, Respondent's Coaches Evaluation, R-2 and Commendation TeenPEP, R-5, were also entered into the record of the hearing in support of Respondent.

It was clear that for some unexplained reason, there were no annual performance reviews for four of the years after Respondent became tenured, (2005-6, 2006-7, 2010-2011 and 2012-2013) and that there was only one observation per year from when Respondent was tenured through the 2012-2013 school year. Riscica testified that there should be a minimum of two observations per year on a tenured teacher.

Riscica testified that he believed that he reviewed Respondent's personnel file at some point but that he did not recall if some evaluations were missing. However, he stated that did not conduct any investigation to find the missing evaluations, he did not ask anyone to find out why the evaluations were missing and did not give the Board any evaluations/observations to consider when they were reviewing tenure charges. Once again, a careful review of an employee's personnel record as part of a thorough investigation is a very important factor when determining the proper level of discipline.

Similar to the fact that Respondent sold her cell phone shortly before these hearings took place, which this Arbitrator questioned, there is a concern that several of Respondent's evaluations/observations were not submitted for this hearing and there was no effort made to locate them. Both actions, one by Respondent and one by Petitioner, hampered the full investigation of this matter.

From the documents submitted, this Arbitrator must conclude that Respondent was rated highly successful or successful in the years prior to the implementation of TEACHNJ. Further, for the 2013-2015 school year she received effective ratings and in 2015-2016 she was rated highly effective. Additionally, of the observations submitted, she was rated satisfactory to highly satisfactorily. The only negative comment appeared in the 2011-2012 evaluation, which stated that she was advised to go "through the chain of command to address concerns."

R-2 was the Coaches' Evaluation for which Respondent received mostly 5's in 2005 (outstanding) and mostly 3's and some 4's (average to good) in years 2006-2010. Beginning in the fall of 2012, the format changed and Respondent was rated "Meets Performance Standards" through the fall of 2015, the last evaluation included in R-2.

R-5 was a memo to Respondent from Lawlor dated November 13, 2015 in which he commends her for the TeenPEP program. "TeenPEP is a success because of you."

Therefore, it must be concluded that Respondent, a sixteen-year employee, was considered a good teacher and coach and her personnel record should have been considered when the Administration was determining a level of discipline to impose and that information should have been shared with the Board.[8]

Finally, a complimentary email regarding volleyball coaches, R-13; Respondent as Coach of the Year from the New Jersey Interscholastic Conference (NJIC), R-14 and plaque stating that this District was awarded the NJIC Meadowlands Division Volleyball Champions 2016, R-15, should have been reviewed as part of Respondent's personnel file.

One of the key elements in determining whether an employee is treated fairly and whether the employer acted appropriately is whether there was a fair and full investigation into the facts before a decision is made. In the instant matter, there were factors that concerned this Arbitrator.

For example, Respondent was never given a copy of the text in question though she and her Union representative, Salma, asked for it at the initial meeting on November 1, 2016 and at other times. Respondent's unrefuted testimony was that the

[8] Respondent received discipline in the form of a withholding of an increment because of a violation of FERPA in March of 2016. However, while this incident was not part of the tenure charges, it was undisputed, and admitted by Respondent, that she accessed two students' records, who were not on her class rosters as students that she was responsible for. Board Policy 8330 states in pertinent part that > Certified school district personnel who have assigned educational responsibility for the pupil shall have access to the general pupil record. .

As Respondent was not "assigned educational responsibility" for these students at the time she accessed their records, she was not authorized to access their records. Therefore, the only factor considered by this Arbitrator regarding the FERPA matter was that Respondent received discipline in the form an increment withholding for violating FERPA and Board Policy and the discipline is considered part of her employment history.

While Respondent initially stated that she had never received a reprimand, a warning or a suspension before these tenure charges were filed, she acknowledged on cross-examination that in May 2016 her first time she saw a copy of the text was when she received the tenure charges in April 2017. Respondent had a right as early as November 1, 2016 to see the basis for being called into a disciplinary meeting and subsequently being suspended.

Additionally, as the Board was concerned about Respondent's behavior and interaction with students, part of a thorough investigation would have been to interview all persons who would have knowledge about Respondent's behavior. This would include teachers she co-taught with and her assistant volleyball coach. Riscica contended that he did not direct Lawlor to interview co-teachers because this was an issue between teachers and students and not between teachers and teachers. However, this Arbitrator cannot agree with that reasoning. If one is seeking information about Respondent's behavior in the classroom or on the volleyball field, it would have been perfectly reasonable to interview co-teachers and her assistant coach. These professionals would be the best people to evaluate what they observed on a daily basis and a credibility assessment could have been made as to their statements.

Further, Riscica testified that he did not ask Lawlor or Coffey to interview Respondent after the students' responses were reviewed to get her reaction and her side of the story. Riscica's position was that at the November 1, 2016 meeting he gave Respondent the opportunity to return at a later date with any other information she might have regarding this matter and that she never came to him. However, in the opinion of this Arbitrator, Respondent had a right to have known the evidence against her before she received the tenure charges and, to compile a full and complete annual increment was withheld due to what the Board determined was a violation of the laws and policies governing student records. Clearly, this is a form of discipline.

investigation, it was the Administration's responsibility to call Respondent in again after all the information was gathered to have fuller knowledge of her position.

Another factor was the selection of the students to interview. Respondent questioned how these ten (10) students were chosen from the forty-six (46) who were on the volleyball team and who participated in TeenPEP. Riscica testified that he did not tell Lawlor how many students to interview but Lawlor stated that he selected these ten students randomly from these programs. However, this Arbitrator noted that some of these students had curious connections to this incident. For example, the record established that one of the interviewees was Mrs. V's daughter, another was the child of a person who works for the District, another student did not make the varsity team and another was the student with whom Respondent texted in this matter. Therefore, at least 4 out of 10 students interviewed had a direct connection to this incident and might have had some biases against Respondent. While Lawlor testified that he randomly selected the participants, this Arbitrator was skeptical.

Additionally, when asked why two of the students' interviews were not included in the tenure charges presented to the Board, Riscica stated that "there's nothing there to support our case." However, when presenting a full and complete investigation to the Board, Administration should have given the Board all the facts so that it could have made a reasoned decision based on all the information learned during the investigation, favorable or unfavorable to the Administration's conclusion.

Therefore, this Arbitrator must conclude that the Board did not fulfill its responsibility to conduct a fair and through investigation, did not interview all participants who would have had knowledge of Respondent's behavior in the class, did not give Respondent a copy of the text in question, did not contact Respondent after the investigation was completed as Riscica stated in his November 4, 2016 suspension letter to Respondent, did not select the students to be interviewed in a fair and impartial manner and did not supply the Board with all the interviews conducted or the evaluations/observations of Respondent with the tenure charges.

The final issue of concern for the Administration[9] regarded TeenPEP (Prevention Education Program)[10] and Respondent's involvement as co-teacher/advisor of the program. Lawlor testified that he recruited Respondent as he believed she would be effective. The record established that Lawlor commended Respondent in November 2015, R-5, for the success of the program. Specifically, Lawlor wrote that

> You went above and beyond by sacrificing time with your families to attend professional development and the retreat with students. Your efforts have paid off. The success of this program is a tribute to your commitment and organization skills. You have quickly established a rapport with students to provide an environment where they are comfortable to discuss these sensitive issues. TeenPEP is a success because of you.

Several of the students who were interviewed as part of this investigation participated in this program and made comments about Respondent's behavior during the classes and during the retreats. While she was complimented she was also criticized for being overly emotional, crying and for vocalizing her own anxieties, fears and secrets.

[9] While the Board claimed in its brief that Respondent violated HIB by not reporting the alleged bullying against student MS, this was not part of the tenure charges and, therefore, is not before this Arbitrator for consideration.

An overview of the program, R-3, states that > TeenPEP is a comprehensive sexual health program that utilizes peer-to-peer education to increase students' knowledge, attitudes, skills, and behaviors associated with healthy decision-making.

Additionally,

> Teen PEP is implemented in high schools as a course for-credit . . . Carefully selected junior and/or senior students are enrolled in the TeenPEP course and provided with educational training that addresses a range of topics related to sexual health. The peer educators, in turn, conduct a series of structured workshops with groups of younger peers . . .

A concise and detailed explanation of TeenPEP was testified to by Moon, the technical assistant assigned to this District. Respondent, along with Frazier, her co-advisor, received extensive training in how to run the program. Moon stated that the first year of the program, the District hit all the benchmarks and was certified and, according to Moon, Respondent and Frazier, "were behaving and creating an atmosphere where the program could run with fidelity."

Moon had observed Respondent in the classroom in the fall of 2015, at a workshop in November 2015, at family night in the spring of 2016 and made one other observation of Respondent. Additionally, Moon observed Respondent during six days of training for a total of 35 to 37 professional development hours and testified that during all her observations Respondent behaved appropriately and that she never received a complaint from students or from anyone in Administration and that Respondent provided an environment where students were comfortable discussing sensitive issues. In fact, an email attached to R-5 from Moon complimented the advisors and Lawlor for the "wonderful job you are all doing." As related to Respondent, Moon stated that "Orleans really set the tone for the 9th graders, which I think made them, overall, a better audience."

Having listened to the testimony regarding this program and reviewed the program material, it was clear to this Arbitrator that this is a very sensitive program to successfully navigate. Two advisors are selected by the Administration and are trained by staff from the Center for Supportive Schools. Then members of the junior and senior classes are identified to participate and are trained in the program, which consists of retreats and classroom exercises. Subsequently, these students work with the freshman class as part of the health program in a peer-to-peer sexual health program. Sex education is a very sensitive, complicated and difficult course to teach and as Moon stated, "we advise them (the advisors) to participate authentically and . . . to use your best judgment." Of course, the advisors are to follow Board policies and are advisors, not peers with the students.

Advisors and participants are encouraged to open up and talk about their personal experiences without being forced to reveal anything they did not want to reveal knowing that there is a level of confidentiality when participating in this program. For example, the document entitled "Sharing at the 3-Day Retreat," part of R-4, the Advisor Resource, manual states that

> Sharing is one of the exercises we'll be doing at the retreat. It's a great opportunity for us to get to know each other better. Part of operating an effective group is mutual trust. One way to develop this trust is by allowing ourselves to open up to each other in a non-judgmental environment. . .
> . . . Maybe you've suffered a loss that was life changing. Maybe you took > a journey that will forever alter your life. Maybe you are struggling with an aspect of your life and are willing to share that struggle with others.

Advisors and participants are given license to encourage bonding experiences, which if not handled properly can lead to difficult situations and in the wrong hands can make students feel uncomfortable resulting in a negative experience. Further, though there was a family night as part of the training, who attended and how much did they realize the impact on the students? In the instant matter, students came away with different experiences as reflected in their interviews.

However, when reviewing all the documents and testimony regarding the TeenPEP program, it is hard to make a judgment about Respondent's behavior in the program. Did Respondent share too much, did she cry too much? That depends on the situation and who was participating. Participants who were interviewed had varying opinions on how Respondent behaved. On the one hand, it was clear that participants were encouraged to open up and express their emotions, which was a goal of the program, but on the other hand, there is a delicate balance of sharing too much and sharing certain kinds of experiences. Certainly, there was no evidence to convince this Arbitrator that tenure charges should have been filed against Respondent regarding TeenPEP but would suggest that both advisors receive additional training to assure that they are being consistent with the program as envisioned by Moon and the Center for Supportive Schools and not stepping over that line of being inappropriate.

In conclusion, this Arbitrator has reviewed and carefully weighed all the evidence and arguments presented at the hearing and through briefs by both parties even though many facets were not referred to in the Opinion. Considering all the facts, this Arbitrator must decide that that the Board did not prove by a preponderance of the evidence that Respondent's behavior rose to the level of "conduct unbecoming" to warrant removing her tenure. However, there was more than sufficient evidence in the record to convince this Arbitrator that Respondent was completely inappropriate in her interaction with student JB even without ever hearing JB's testimony.

The text messages, acknowledged by Respondent as to their accuracy, stand on their own in support of the Administration's conclusion that Respondent stepped over the line regarding language, comments about Administration and advice to JB. However, given Respondent's long employment with one discipline on her record and good to very good evaluations and while she shall retain her tenure and her position in the District, a lengthy suspension is the appropriate penalty. Respondent recognized that her behavior was unacceptable and that, as she stated, she will never engage in this type of behavior in the future.

In consonance with the proof and upon the foregoing, the undersigned Arbitrator hereby finds, decides, determines and renders the following:

A W A R D

1. The Board of Education did not prove that tenure charges of "conduct unbecoming" should be sustained for Respondent's behavior. However, a one-hundred twenty-day (120) suspension, with time served, and salary loss shall be imposed.

2. Given that Respondent was paid the entire time she was suspended, she shall reimburse the Board of Education for the one-hundred twenty-day (120) day suspension.

3. Respondent shall be reinstated to her former positions in the District with no loss of seniority or benefits.

IN THE MATTER OF FRANK RAIA,	:
HOBOKEN DUAL LANGUAGE	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
CHARTER SCHOOL, HUDSON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete charter school trustee training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 11, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately completed training after the issuance of its March 28, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's April 25, 2017 meeting; therefore, the Commission recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent did not file exceptions to the recommended penalty, but – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4 – filed an appeal of the Commission's underlying finding of violation on August 9, 2017. Respondent withdrew his appeal on August 30, 2017.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon charter school trustees by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF FRANK RAIA	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
HOBOKEN DUAL LANGUAGE CHARTER SCHOOL,* HUDSON COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO COMPLETE MANDATORY TRAINING REQUIREMENT IN A TIMELY MANNER
	:	DOCKET NO.: T16-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on March 28, 2017, and mailed on March 29, 2017 via regular and certified mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a).

In the OTSC mailed on March 29, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-3.1(a) require every charter school trustee to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a trustee of a charter school located in the City of Hoboken, County of Hudson. As a result of his position as a charter school trustee, and in accordance with the statute and regulations cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online and, in this way, any charter school trustee may complete it at any time, from anywhere. By June 30, 2016, Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program.

On January 5, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those charter school trustees who failed to complete mandated training by June 30, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes regarding scheduled on-site mandated training. More specifically, on July 25, 2016, Respondent was registered to take Governance 4 and an e-mail with the link to take the offered training was sent to Respondent's e-mail address. On October 19, 2016, an additional e-mail notice was sent to all charter school trustees who had not yet completed training, including Respondent. In addition, an on-site training was provided at NJSBA's Workshop on Thursday, October 27, 2016. On November 30, 2016, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent again advising of non-compliance with the mandatory training requirement, and a link to the online training was, once again, provided to Respondent. NJSBA also sent a reminder communication to Respondent's Charter Lead on November 30, 2016. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding his failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, in January, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by June 30, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Charter Lead, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated March 3, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, advising him that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter detailed instructions for how Respondent could complete training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on March 29, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete his required training by June 30, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed his training requirement, and also filed a response to the Commission's OTSC. Importantly, Respondent did not deny that he did not complete training in a timely fashion.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on April 25, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of his training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, he failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Acting Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Acting Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Acting Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Acting Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Acting Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Acting Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that respondent ultimately completed her training after the issuance of the Commission's April 26, 2017 Order to Show Cause. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq., of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

WEST WILDWOOD BOARD OF EDUCATION*, CAPE MAY COUNTY	:
	:	DOCKET NO.: T29-16

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on April 25, 2017, and mailed on April 26, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC mailed on April 26, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of a board of education located in the City of West Wildwood, County of Cape May. As a result of her position as a board of education member, and in accordance with the statute and regulation cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program by December 31, 2016.

On February 28, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA. More specifically, an e-mail was sent to all board members, including Respondent, on October 13, 2016, and to all business administrators on October 14, 2016, reminding them of the annual training requirement and the December 31, 2016, deadline. On January 25, 2017, a notice was sent to the West Wildwood School District business administrator advising that, as of that date, Respondent had not completed training. Finally, on January 30, 2017, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent advising her that she still had not completed Governance 4. In addition to these communications, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to NJSBA's members through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, on March 6, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by December 31, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Business Administrator, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated April 5, 2017, via regular and electronic mail, advising her that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter provided instructions for completing the training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on April 26, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by December 31, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent completed her training requirement, but did not respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by December 31, 2016.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on June 27, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete school board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 28, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension of 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from her position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has she submitted proof that she completed the online training program. Respondent also did not appeal the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes respondent for failing to honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law, since such failure has resulted in unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended from her position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision and is hereby ordered to complete the requisite online training program within 30 days. If the respondent does not complete the online training program within 30 days from the date of this decision, the respondent shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IN THE MATTER OF HEIDI SHALLOP	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
SOUTH BOUND BROOK BOARD OF EDUCATION*, SOMERSET COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO COMPLETE MANDATORY TRAINING REQUIREMENT IN A TIMELY MANNER
	:	DOCKET NO.: T31-16

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on April 25, 2017, and mailed on April 26, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC mailed on April 26, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of a board of education located in the City of South Bound Brook, County of Somerset. As a result of her position as a board of education member, and in accordance with the statute and regulation cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program by December 31, 2016.

On February 28, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA. More specifically, an e-mail was sent to all board members, including Respondent, on October 13, 2016, and to all business administrators on October 14, 2016, reminding them of the annual training requirement and the December 31, 2016, deadline. On January 25, 2017, a notice was sent to the South Bound Brook School District business administrator advising that, as of that date, Respondent had not completed training. Finally, on January 30, 2017, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent advising her that she still had not completed Governance 4. In addition to these communications, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to NJSBA's members through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, on March 6, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by December 31, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Business Administrator, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated April 5, 2017, via regular and electronic mail, advising her that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter provided instructions for completing the training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on April 26, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by December 31, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by December 31, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on June 27, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty (30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THERESA OWENS,	:
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete school board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 28, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension of 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from her position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has she submitted proof that she completed the online training program. Respondent also did not appeal the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission and additionally admonishes respondent for failing to honor an obligation placed upon school officials by law, since such failure has resulted in unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels. Accordingly, the respondent is suspended from her position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision and is hereby ordered to complete the requisite online training program within 30 days. If the respondent does not complete the online training program within 30 days from the date of this decision, the respondent shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on April 25, 2017, and mailed on April 26, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC mailed on April 26, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of a board of education located in the City of Willingboro, County of Burlington. As a result of her position as a board of education member, and in accordance with the statute and regulation cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program by December 31, 2016.

On February 28, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA. More specifically, an e-mail was sent to all board members, including Respondent, on October 13, 2016, and to all business administrators on October 14, 2016, reminding them of the annual training requirement and the December 31, 2016, deadline. On January 25, 2017, a notice was sent to the Willingboro School District business administrator advising that, as of that date, Respondent had not completed training. Finally, on January 30, 2017, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent advising her that she still had not completed Governance 4. In addition to these communications, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to NJSBA's members through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, on March 6, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by December 31, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Business Administrator, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated April 5, 2017, via regular and electronic mail, advising her that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter provided instructions for completing the training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on April 26, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by December 31, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by December 31, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on June 27, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty (30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission – finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely complete school board member training in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner on July 28, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29, for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission recommended that the respondent receive a suspension of 30 days for violating the School Ethics Act. If the respondent fails to complete the online training program by the end of the 30 day period, the Commission recommends that the respondent be removed from her position. Respondent did not file exceptions, nor has she submitted proof that she completed the online training program. PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on April 25, 2017, and mailed on April 26, 2017 via regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "board member" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find Respondent in violation of the Act, for failing to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

In the OTSC mailed on April 26, 2017, the Commission notified Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and further advised that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was also notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1 require every board member to complete a training program prepared and offered by the New Jersey School Boards Association (NJSBA).

Respondent is a member of a board of education located in the City of South Hackensack, County of Bergen. As a result of her position as a board of education member, and in accordance with the statute and regulation cited above, Respondent is required to complete a mandated training program on an annual basis. For convenience and ease, the training is offered online so any board member may complete it at any time, from anywhere. Respondent was required to complete the Governance 4 training program by December 31, 2016.

On February 28, 2017, NJSBA provided the Commission with the names of those board members who failed to complete mandated training by December 31, 2016, and the list provided included Respondent. Prior to this time, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to Respondent from NJSBA. More specifically, an e-mail was sent to all board members, including Respondent, on October 13, 2016, and to all business administrators on October 14, 2016, reminding them of the annual training requirement and the December 31, 2016, deadline. On January 25, 2017, a notice was sent to the South Hackensack business administrator advising that, as of that date, Respondent had not completed training. Finally, on January 30, 2017, NJSBA sent a letter to Respondent advising her that she still had not completed Governance 4. In addition to these communications, multiple communications about mandated training were sent to NJSBA's members through a variety of means, including targeted e-mail messages and postings in School Board Notes. Notwithstanding all of these communications, Respondent did not complete mandated training.

In addition to the communication efforts undertaken by the NJSBA, Respondent's County Office of Education (County) also communicated with the Respondent regarding her failure to complete the mandated training requirement. More specifically, on March 6, 2017, the Commission's staff notified the County that the NJSBA had identified Respondent as a school official who failed to complete training by December 31, 2016. As a result, the County sent correspondence to Respondent, with a copy to the Business Administrator, advising that Respondent remained delinquent in completing training. Notwithstanding this correspondence from the County, Respondent did not complete training as directed.

As a final warning, the Commission sent a letter to Respondent dated April 5, 2017, via regular and electronic mail, advising her that the Commission requires completion of the training to avoid the issuance of an OTSC for non-compliance. This final warning letter provided instructions for completing the training. Again, notwithstanding this correspondence, Respondent did not complete the required training. As a result, an OTSC was mailed to Respondent on April 26, 2017.

To date, there is no dispute that Respondent did not complete her required training by December 31, 2016, and did not complete the training prior to the issuance of the Commission's OTSC. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent failed to respond to the Commission's OTSC as to why she did not complete training by December 31, 2016, and also failed to complete training as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33 and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.1.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

N.J.A.C. 6A:28-4.2(d) provides that school board members and charter school trustees who fail to comply with their training mandate shall be considered in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on June 27, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-33. Respondent received repeated notifications of her training requirement, and had ample opportunity to complete the mandated training in a timely fashion; nonetheless, she failed to complete training as required.

Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, the Commission may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. For the reasons set forth above, the Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Commissioner of Education. If Respondent fails to complete training within the period of her thirty (30) day suspension, the Commission recommends that Respondent be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended sanction of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 28, 2016, as a remanded matter from OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00085-16 for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. This Settlement Agreement resolves all disputes.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached settlement agreement and the attached Board resolution.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE (hereinafter "Agreement", "Settlement" and/or "Release") is being entered into among and between DR. DAVID PERRY (hereinafter "Dr. Perry" or "Releasor") and HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION shall hereinafter collectively be referred to as the "Releasees". Dr. Perry and Releasees shall hereinafter collectively be referred to as the "Parties".

WHEREAS, Dr. Perry was previously employed by HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION in the position of Varsity Boys' Basketball Coach at Steinert High School, (hereinafter "Employment Contract"); and

WHEREAS, HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, did not renew Dr. Perry in the position of Head Coach of the Varsity Boys' Basketball at Steinert High School for the 2015-16 school year (hereinafter "Action"); and

WHEREAS, Dr. Perry initiated litigation against HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, alleging that the non-renewal of his employment as Head Coach of the Varsity Boys' Basketball Position was in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act and was done for arbitrary and capricious reasons; and

WHEREAS, the Parties wish to resolve the litigation initiated by Dr. Perry in the interest of the public without the need for further litigation, and all of Dr. Perry's claims and potential claims against Releasees, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the meaning, effect and terms of this Agreement have been fully explained to Dr. Perry, who understands that this Agreement settles, bars, and waives any and all claims that he could possibly have against Releasees as of the date of this Agreement;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises, covenants, agreements and representations contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is acknowledged by the Parties, and intending to be legally bound hereby, the Parties agree as follows:

1. Settlement and General Release of Dr. Perry's Claims. In consideration for Releasees promises and representations made herein, Dr. Perry, individually and on behalf of his heirs, representatives, immediate family members (including, but not limited to, his spouse and children), agents, successors and assigns, hereby releases Releasees, board members of the HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, subsidiaries, shareholders, directors, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, insurers, affiliates, predecessors, successors, assigns, heirs, and all persons acting by, through, under or in concert with any of them (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Released Parties"), from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, controversies, damages, actions, causes of action, suits, rights, demands, costs, losses, debts and expenses, and from any claims of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Dr. Perry now has, claims to have, owns, holds or which Dr. Perry at any time heretofore had, held, or claimed to have based on events occurring through the date of execution of this Agreement, to the fullest extent allowed by law. This release includes, without limitation, claims arising under 42 U.S.C. § 1981, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family Medical Leave Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (save for claims related to vested benefits, which are exempted from this release), the Equal Pay Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act, as well as any other federal, state, local, or municipal statute, ordinance or regulation that prohibits improper discrimination, harassment or retaliation in the workplace or otherwise relates to or regulates employment relationships. In addition, this Release extends to and covers claims for tortious conduct or breach of express or implied contract, including wrongful discharge, breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, breach of contract or implied contract, negligence, misrepresentation, fraud, detrimental reliance, promissory estoppel, defamation, invasion of privacy, conspiracy, breach of laws governing safety in the workplace, loss of consortium, or any claims under federal, state, and local statutory and common law relating in any manner whatsoever to his employment with HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION or the non-renewal of that employment relationship in the position of Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball at Steinert High School. Dr. Perry represents and warrants that he has not sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed or otherwise disposed of any claim, demand or cause of action, including any claim for attorneys' fees, against Releasees that relate to the matters stated above.

2. Payment. Releasees, or their agent, shall remit a check to Dr. Perry, or his attorney, in the amount of one year's coaching stipend for the position of Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball as set forth in the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the Hamilton Township Education Association and Hamilton Township Board of Education as applicable to the 2015-16 school year in full payment for this Release, inclusive of attorney's fees. The settlement proceeds are for pensionable income. The settlement amount shall be reduced by all lawful deductions.

3. No Admissions. The Parties agree that this Settlement, including the Releasees approval of same, does not constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

4. Liens. It is further understood that as a condition of this Settlement, all claims and/or liens, past, current and/or future arising out of this Settlement or asserted against the proceeds of this Settlement are to be satisfied by Releasor and/or his attorneys, including but not limited to any Child Support Judgment liens, Medicare or Medicaid claims and/or liens, Worker's Compensation claims and/or liens, Social Security claims and/or liens, hospital/healthcare insurer claims and/or liens, physician or attorney claims and/or liens, or any of the statutory, equitable, common law or judgment claims and/or liens, including, but not limited to, claims based on subrogation or any other legal or equitable theory. Releasor therefore agrees, upon prompt presentation of any such claims and/or liens, to defend Releasees against any such claims and/or liens, and to indemnify and hold Releasees harmless against any judgment entered against Releasees based on such claims and/or liens, including the payment of any fines, charges and/or attorney's fees incurred as a result of any such lien. Failure to satisfy any such lien shall be considered a breach of this Agreement and Releasor and his attorney(s) agree to pay all costs, interest and attorney's fees relative to any such lien.

DR. PERRY FURTHER UNDERSTANDS, ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT THIS AGREEMENT CONTAINS A GENERAL RELEASE OF CLAIMS AS TO ALL RELEASED PARTIES, AND THAT THIS AGREEMENT SETTLES, BARS, AND WAIVES ANY AND ALL CLAIMS THAT HE HAS OR COULD POSSIBLY HAVE AGAINST THE RELEASED PARTIES THROUGH THE DATE OF THIS AGREEMENT.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, the Parties agree to the terms of this Agreement.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE (hereinafter "Agreement", "Settlement" and/or "Release") is being entered into among and between DR. DAVID PERRY (hereinafter "Dr. Perry" or "Releasor") and HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION shall hereinafter collectively be referred to as the "Releasees". Dr. Perry and Releasees shall hereinafter collectively be referred to as the "Parties".

WHEREAS, Dr. Perry was previously employed by HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION in the position of Varsity Boys' Basketball Coach at Steinert High School, (hereinafter "Employment Contract"); and

WHEREAS, HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, did not renew Dr. Perry in the position of Head Coach of the Varsity Boys' Basketball at Steinert High School for the 2015-16 school year (hereinafter "Action"); and

WHEREAS, Dr. Perry initiated litigation against HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, alleging that the non-renewal of his employment as Head Coach of the Varsity Boys' Basketball Position was in violation of the Open Public Meetings Act and was done for arbitrary and capricious reasons; and

WHEREAS, the Parties wish to resolve the litigation initiated by Dr. Perry in the interest of the public without the need for further litigation, and all of Dr. Perry's claims and potential claims against Releasees, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the meaning, effect and terms of this Agreement have been fully explained to Dr. Perry, who understands that this Agreement settles, bars, and waives any and all claims that he could possibly have against Releasees as of the date of this Agreement;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises, covenants, agreements and representations contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is acknowledged by the Parties, and intending to be legally bound hereby, the Parties agree as follows:

1. Settlement and General Release of Dr. Perry's Claims. In consideration for Releasees promises and representations made herein, Dr. Perry, individually and on behalf of his heirs, representatives, immediate family members (including, but not limited to, his spouse and children), agents, successors and assigns, hereby releases Releasees, board members of the HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, subsidiaries, shareholders, directors, officers, employees, agents, attorneys, insurers, affiliates, predecessors, successors, assigns, heirs, and all persons acting by, through, under or in concert with any of them (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Released Parties"), from any and all charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, controversies, damages, actions, causes of action, suits, rights, demands, costs, losses, debts and expenses, and from any claims of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, which Dr. Perry now has, claims to have, owns, holds or which Dr. Perry at any time heretofore had, held, or claimed to have based on events occurring through the date of execution of this Agreement, to the fullest extent allowed by law. This release includes, without limitation, claims arising under 42 U.S.C. § 1981, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family Medical Leave Act, the National Labor Relations Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (save for claims related to vested benefits, which are exempted from this release), the Equal Pay Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act, as well as any other federal, state, local, or municipal statute, ordinance or regulation that prohibits improper discrimination, harassment or retaliation in the workplace or otherwise relates to or regulates employment relationships. In addition, this Release extends to and covers claims for tortious conduct or breach of express or implied contract, including wrongful discharge, breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealing, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, breach of contract or implied contract, negligence, misrepresentation, fraud, detrimental reliance, promissory estoppel, defamation, invasion of privacy, conspiracy, breach of laws governing safety in the workplace, loss of consortium, or any claims under federal, state, and local statutory and common law relating in any manner whatsoever to his employment with HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION or the non-renewal of that employment relationship in the position of Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball at Steinert High School. Dr. Perry represents and warrants that he has not sold, assigned, transferred, conveyed or otherwise disposed of any claim, demand or cause of action, including any claim for attorneys' fees, against Releasees that relate to the matters stated above.

2. Payment. Releasees, or their agent, shall remit a check to Dr. Perry, or his attorney, in the amount of one year's coaching stipend for the position of Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball as set forth in the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the Hamilton Township Education Association and Hamilton Township Board of Education as applicable to the 2015-16 school year in full payment for this Release, inclusive of attorney's fees. The settlement proceeds are for pensionable income. The settlement amount shall be reduced by all lawful deductions.

3. No Admissions. The Parties agree that this Settlement, including the Releasees approval of same, does not constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

4. Liens. It is further understood that as a condition of this Settlement, all claims and/or liens, past, current and/or future arising out of this Settlement or asserted against the proceeds of this Settlement are to be satisfied by Releasor and/or his attorneys, including but not limited to any Child Support Judgment liens, Medicare or Medicaid claims and/or liens, Worker's Compensation claims and/or liens, Social Security claims and/or liens, hospital/healthcare insurer claims and/or liens, physician or attorney claims and/or liens, or any of the statutory, equitable, common law or judgment claims and/or liens, including, but not limited to, claims based on subrogation or any other legal or equitable theory. Releasor therefore agrees, upon prompt presentation of any such claims and/or liens, to defend Releasees against any such claims and/or liens, and to indemnify and hold Releasees harmless against any judgment entered against Releasees based on such claims and/or liens, including the payment of any fines, charges and/or attorney's fees incurred as a result of any such lien. Failure to satisfy any such lien shall be considered a breach of this Agreement and Releasor and his attorney(s) agree to pay all costs, interest and attorney's fees relative to any such lien.

5. Confidentiality. This Agreement shall be treated as confidential and shall not be disclosed to anyone other than the Parties, their accountants and their counsel. Upon any inquiry into the status of this case, all Parties to this Agreement shall state, "The Matter has resolved." To the extent that the Board must comply with a lawful request for a copy of this Release, the Parties agree that the Board's disclosure of this Release shall not violate this Agreement.

6. Public Interest Served. The within Settlement will serve the public interest, eliminating additional litigation costs.

7. No Other Legal Action by Dr. Perry. Dr. Perry confirms that he does not have any charge, complaint or action pending in any forum or form against any of the Released Parties as of the date hereof. Further, Dr. Perry covenants and agrees not to bring any charge, complaint, action, suit, or administrative proceeding in any forum before any federal, state, or local administrative agency or in any federal, state or local court against any of the Releasees, including members HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION's board of trustees, for any actions that could or did arise or accrue prior to and including the date of this Agreement. This covenant extends to, but is not limited to, proceedings to negate, modify or reform this Agreement, though nothing in this paragraph is intended to limit Dr. Perry from instituting legal action for the sole purpose of enforcing Releasees' obligations to him under this Agreement. Dr. Perry understands that, by signing this Agreement, he waives any rights he may have to recover money or other relief in any lawsuit or proceeding he brings, or that is brought on his behalf, by any agency or third party against any of the Releasees based on events arising out of or relating to his employment with HAMILTON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION through the date of this Agreement. Except where otherwise permitted under this paragraph, Dr. Perry agrees that any action he may file against any of the Released Parties based on events that transpired on or before the effective date hereof shall be dismissed with prejudice upon presentation of this Agreement.

8. Assent to Terms. The parties hereby acknowledge that they have entered into this Agreement with a full understanding of their rights and obligations and that they were fully informed of the implications of this Agreement by their respective attorneys, and they do so without duress, of their own free will and volition.

9. Non-Disparagement. Dr. Perry and his immediate family agree not to make, publicly or privately, through any media or medium (including, without limitation, comments on social networking sites), any disparaging or derogatory remarks or otherwise make statements that could injure the business or reputation of any of the Released Parties and\or the Board Members of the Released Parties relative to this Agreement or related to the Board Members' votes upon the Superintendent's recommendation to appoint him to the Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball occurring on August 26, 2015. The Board, including the Board Members and the central administration, agree not to make, publicly or privately, through any media or medium (including, without limitation, comments on social networking sites), any disparaging or derogatory remarks or otherwise make statements that could injure the business or reputation of any of the Released Parties and\or the Board Members of the Released Parties relative to this Agreement or related to the Board Members' votes upon the Superintendent's recommendation to appoint him to the Head Coach of Varsity Boys' Basketball occurring on August 26, 2015.

10. Entire Agreement. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between Dr. Perry and Releasees. Dr. Perry acknowledges and agrees that Releasees have not made any promises to him other than those set forth in this Agreement. This Agreement may be modified only upon an express written agreement between the Parties. Because counsel for Dr. Perry had a full opportunity to review this Agreement with him before he signed it, the language of this Agreement shall in all cases be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning and not strictly for or against any of the Parties.

11. Disputes. The validity, performance, construction, and effect of this Agreement shall be governed by the substantive laws of the United States and the State of New Jersey. The Superior Court of New Jersey, Mercer County, shall have jurisdiction to implement and enforce this Agreement and its terms.

12. Severability. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this Agreement, whether in whole or in part, shall not in any way affect the validity or enforceability of any other provision contained herein.

13. Counterparts; Exchange by Electronic Means. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, which shall be taken together as the entire agreement of the Parties hereto. This Agreement may also be exchanged by the Parties via electronic mail for the purposes of securing signatures and will be fully enforceable as an original document.

14. Settlement of Contested Case Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3–1.13(d). By signature of the Board Attorney, the Board hereby represents that it consented to settlement of this matter by vote of a majority of a quorum during the public session of a properly held meeting of the Board.

DR. PERRY ACKNOWLEDGES THAT HE HAS READ THIS AGREEMENT, UNDERSTANDS IT AND IS ENTERING INTO IT KNOWINGLY AND VOLUNTARILY AND NOT AS A RESULT OF ANY PRESSURE, COERCION OR DURESS.

DR. PERRY AGREES THAT HE HAS HAD A REASONABLE AND SUFFICIENT TIME AND OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT WITH COUNSEL, AND THAT HE HAS FULLY DISCUSSED AND REVIEWED THE TERMS CONTAINED IN THIS AGREEMENT WITH COUNSEL PRIOR TO EXECUTING IT, OR FREELY CHOSEN NOT TO DO SO.

DR. PERRY FURTHER UNDERSTANDS, ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT THIS AGREEMENT CONTAINS A GENERAL RELEASE OF CLAIMS AS TO ALL RELEASED PARTIES, AND THAT THIS AGREEMENT SETTLES, BARS, AND WAIVES ANY AND ALL CLAIMS THAT HE HAS OR COULD POSSIBLY HAVE AGAINST THE RELEASED PARTIES THROUGH THE DATE OF THIS AGREEMENT.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, the Parties agree to the terms of this Agreement.

Re: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sabino Valdes, Board of Education of the City of Union, Hudson County, Agency Dkt. No. 328-9/00.

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with Sabino Valdes' Motion for Reconsideration of the Commissioner's June 29, 2017 decision, denying Mr. Valdes' third motion to reopen the tenure charges filed against him by the Union City Board of Education.

In filing this motion for reconsideration, Mr. Valdes has chosen to disregard the Commissioner's basis for denying Mr. Valdes' third motion to reopen in the June 29, 2017 decision:

> Pursuant to New Jersey Court Rule 2:9-1(a), "the supervision and control of the proceedings on appeal or certification shall be in the appellate court from the time the appeal is taken or the notice of petition for certification is filed." As Mr. Valdes has filed a Notice of Appeal with the Appellate Division relating to his second request to reopen the tenure matter, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to consider Mr. Valdes' duplicate motion to reopen.

The Appellate Division has indicated that the trial court does not have jurisdiction pending appeal to entertain a motion for reconsideration. Kiernan v. Kiernan, 355 N.J. Super. 89, 92 (App. Div. 2002). As Mr. Valdes's appeal relating to his second request to reopen the tenure matter is pending before the Appellate Division, the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to consider Mr. Valdes' duplicate motion to reopen. Consequently, the Commissioner also does not have jurisdiction to entertain Mr. Valdes' present motion for reconsideration.

Notwithstanding the plain lack of jurisdiction in this matter – as set forth in the June 29, 2017 decision – there is no rationale for reconsidering the Commissioner's denial of Mr. Valdes' third motion to reopen the above-captioned matter.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)(2), a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Mr. Valdes moves for reconsideration on the basis that the Commissioner mistook his third motion to reopen this matter as a motion to reopen the tenure charges. Mr. Valdes clarifies in his moving papers that he did not seek to reopen the tenure matter; rather, he sought to reopen the "hearing" in the matter "to review and decline to adopt a void Interlocutory Order entered by an Administrative Judge." Without engaging in a trivial discussion of semantics, the Commissioner clarifies that characterizing the third motion to reopen as a motion to "re-open the hearing" in the matter does not change the fact that the hearing was to adjudicate the underlying tenure charges, and a motion to "re-open the hearing" means reopening the above-captioned tenure matter.[1]

It is clear that Mr. Valdes' disagreement is with the outcome of the Commissioner's June 29, 2017 decision, and with the analysis upon which it is based – neither of which constitute "mistake" for purposes of seeking reconsideration. The remainder of Mr. Valdes' contentions in this present motion are an obdurate repetition of his unsubstantiated arguments from previous filings.

Accordingly, the motion for reconsideration is hereby DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF:

KATHLEEN MARSICO, MONMOUTH COUNTY : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, MONMOUTH COUNTY.: DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board certified tenure charges of neglect, conduct unbecoming, and other just cause against respondent – a tenured Executive Secretary under the Board's employ – and sought to terminate her employment with the district. Neither respondent nor any attorney acting on her behalf filed an answer to the tenure charges following notice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4.

The Commissioner concluded that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(c), the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted and warrant the termination of the respondent from her tenured position. Accordingly, the Commissioner granted summary decision to the petitioner, dismissed the respondent from her tenured position in petitioner's school district.

AGENCY DKT NO. 95-5/17

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF KATHLEEN MARSICO, MONMOUTH COUNTY	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
VOCATIONAL SCHOOL, MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION

For the Petitioner, Sanford D. Brown, Esq.
No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Kathleen Marsico.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on May 22, 2017 through tenure charges of neglect, conduct unbecoming, and other just cause, certified by Timothy M. McCorkell, Superintendent of the Monmouth County Vocational School, together with a statement of supporting evidence against respondent, Kathleen Marsico, a tenured Executive Secretary in petitioner's employ. Petitioner provided respondent with written notice of such certification at her last known address – via hand delivery – on May 20, 2017.

On May 23, 2017, the Commissioner directed respondent – via both certified and regular mail – to file an answer to the charges. This communication provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. No reply to the tenure charges was received from, or on behalf of, respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the petitioner in this matter indicates that respondent has engaged in conduct that is unbecoming of a support staff member, including neglecting her duties, arriving to work unable to carry out her job responsibilities, failing to follow basic District procedures and protocols, insubordination, excessive absenteeism, and causing disruption in the work environment. Documentation provided by the District reflect that respondent often neglected her duties; for instance, she failed to perform the basic administrative functions of her job, such as processing employee or employment-related paperwork. She also failed to keep track of other assigned responsibilities: she allowed check payments by parents to expire, most of which the District was unable to recover. The documentation also indicates that respondent often arrived to work disheveled, pre-occupied with personal problems unrelated to work, and unable to perform her duties. Respondent also regularly disregarded procedures for reporting her absences from work or late arrivals to work, despite having been repeatedly advised of the proper procedures by her supervisor. Respondent was out of the office for 38 days during the 2013-2014 school year, 68 days during the 2014-2015 school year, 18.5 days during the 2015-2016 school year, and 29.5 days between September and April (when she was suspended) during the 2016-2017 school year. The evidence reflects that respondent's conduct resulted in disruption in the work environment as other employees had to cover her job responsibilities, and her supervisors often had to fix the problems she created as a result of her failure to properly carry out her duties.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted – and noting that respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her – the Commissioner finds that petitioner's charges of neglect and conduct unbecoming have been proven, and warrant the respondent's dismissal from employment.

Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the petitioner, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF OCEAN, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On April 28, 2017, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner adopted the Administrative Law Judge's finding that T.F. was not a domiciliary of Ocean City during the 2015-2016 school year and, therefore, T.N. was not entitled to a free education in the District's schools during that time. The Commissioner assessed petitioner – Theodora Fusco – $ 15,537.00 in tuition costs, to be reimbursed to the Ocean City Board of Education for T.N.'s period of ineligible attendance in the District's schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner had failed to reimburse respondent as directed in the final decision, and has requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Petitioner offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity to do so by this agency.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Theodora Fusco is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $15,537.00, which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

JORGE TAIPE,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured bilingual science teacher who has been employed by the respondent Board for over seventeen years – appealed a suspension without pay that began on January 20, 2017 following an accusation of inappropriate contact with a student. To date, petitioner has not been charged with or indicted for any criminal offenses, and tenure charges have not been filed against him; accordingly, petitioner argued that the Board's action of suspending him without pay is a direct violation of his tenure rights and New Jersey law. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision requesting reinstatement to the Board's payroll and back pay for all salary withheld from the initial date of suspension.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 and past case law, the only circumstances under which a tenured teacher may be suspended without pay are if they have been indicted for a crime, or if tenure charges have been preferred against them; it is undisputed that neither of these circumstances are present in the instant matter; the Board asserted that the suspension without pay was warranted due to "serious accusations" against petitioner, but failed to cite any authority wherein an assertion of "serious allegations" may override the applicable statutes and case law. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the suspension without pay was unlawful; the petitioner's motion for summary decision was granted, and the Board was ordered to reinstate petitioner to the payroll and award back pay for all salary withheld from the initial date of suspension.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered that petitioner be reinstated to the payroll with back pay for all salary withheld during his suspension without pay.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 03908-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 29-2/16

JORGE TAIPE,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY,
Respondent.

Nicholas Poberezhsky, Esq., attorney for Petitioner Jorge Taipe (Caruso Smith Picini, attorneys)

Heather Savage Ford, for respondent (Deputy Counsel to the Board of Education, City of Elizabeth)

Record Closed: July 14, 2017 Decided: August 2, 2017

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner is a tenured teacher with the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth. Petitioner was accused of inappropriate contact with two minor students and was suspended without pay effective January 20, 2017. Petitioner appeals the suspension without pay.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Jorge Taipe (petitioner) filed the instant appeal with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, received on February 14, 2017, by the Department of Controversies and disputes.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on March 21, 2017.

I received petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision on May 16, 2017, response on June 20, 2017 and petitioner's final response on June 23, 2017. A telephonic conference was scheduled for July 14, 2017, but was not conducted. The parties have not requested oral argument and I determine that the written submissions are sufficient to dispose of the matter.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

The following facts are not in dispute and I FIND them to be the facts of the case.

Petitioner has been employed as a bilingual science teacher by respondent for over seventeen years and is tenured.

Petitioner was suspended without pay on January 20, 2017, due to an allegation of inappropriate contact with two students. Petitioner was never charged criminally and tenure charges were not brought against petitioner or certified by the Commissioner of Education.

ISSUE

Petitioner only disputes the withholding of pay and not the actual suspension.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner seeks relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." The regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c), which provides that "[t]he judgment or order sought shall be rendered forthwith if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

Tenure is a status in a particular position created by statute, not the agreement of the parties. Accordingly, it is a "'statutory right imposed upon a teacher's contractual employment' [that] may not be forfeited or waived." Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 77 (1982) (quoting Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962); citing Red Bank Educ. Ass'n v. Red Bank Bd. of Educ., 78 N.J. 122, 141 (1978)). Tenure was designed to protect employees "from dismissal 'for unfounded, flimsy or political reasons.'" Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of E. Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 118 (quoting Zimmerman, supra, 38 N.J. at 71).

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 provides that --

> [a]ny employee of officer of a board of education in this State who is suspended from employment, office or position, other than by reason of indictment, pending any investigation hearing or trial or any appeal therefrom, shall receive his full pay or salary during such period of suspension, except that in > the event of charges against such employee or officer brought before the board of education or the Commissioner of Education pursuant to law, such suspension may be with or without pay or salary as provided in chapter 6 of which this section is a supplement.

As the Appellate Division has explained:

> A tenured local school employee may be suspended pending disposition of an indictment or of tenure charges that may lead to dismissal. See Romanowski v. Bd. of Ed. of Jersey City, 89 N.J.Super. 38 (App. Div. 1965) . . . A local school board employee may also be suspended if he is indicted, and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3 provides that the suspension may be without pay.
>
> Thus, a tenured employee may be suspended without pay only if indicted or if tenure charges have been preferred and certified to the Commissioner of Education. In all other circumstances, a suspension must be with pay.
> [Slater v. Bd. of Educ. of Ramapo-Indian Hills Regional High School Dist., 237 N.J.Super. 424, 426 (App. Div. 1989)]

The only circumstances under which a tenured school employee may be suspended without pay is if they have been indicted for a crime or if tenure charges have been preferred against them. In the case at bar it is undisputed that neither of these two circumstances are present. Respondent argues that the suspension without pay is warranted due to the "serious allegations" asserted by the two complaining students. Respondent fails to cite any authority wherein the assertion of "serious allegations" may override the aforementioned statutes and case law. The suspension without pay is therefore unlawful and should be overturned.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED; it is further ORDERED that petitioner is reinstated to the payroll and awarded back pay for all salary withheld from the initial date of the suspension.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LAKELAND REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed a pro se residency appeal on behalf of her son, E.J.G., seeking a determination that E.J.G. is entitled to a free public education in the Lakeland Regional High School District. The respondent Board alleged that petitioner resides in Lincoln Park, which is not a part of the Lakeland Regional High School District. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and a pre-hearing conference was scheduled for March 28, 2017. Petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled hearing. The OAL sent a notice of petitioner's failure to appear to the Commissioner on March 30, 2017, and subsequently returned the file to this agency. Correspondence from petitioner explaining her failure to appear was received by the Commissioner on April 13, 2017. Subsequently, the matter was re-transmitted to the OAL for further disposition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3(b).

The ALJ found that: a pre-hearing telephone conference was scheduled for June 6, 2017, and petitioner was timely notified of the date; when petitioner could not be reached by telephone on the scheduled date, an email was sent to petitioner requesting that she call at her earliest convenience and advising that the matter would be scheduled for hearing on August 2, 2017; petitioner was further advised that if she failed to appear on that date, her petition would be dismissed; petitioner subsequently contacted the ALJ's office and stated that she intended to withdraw her petition, and would not appear at the hearing; however, petitioner did not subsequently submit a withdrawal, and – once again – failed to appear at the hearing; no explanation was provided for petitioner's nonappearance. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the petitioner has abandoned this matter, and ordered that the file be returned to the transmitting agency.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner notes that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) returned this matter to the Commissioner for appropriate disposition – in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4 – because petitioner failed to appear at the August 2, 2017 OAL hearing without providing an explanation. The Commissioner finds that since petitioner failed to appear at the August 2, 2017 hearing – after having indicated to the ALJ that she intended to withdraw her petition of appeal, but failing to submit a letter to that effect – the petition of appeal shall be dismissed.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Marie-Laurence Fabian, Esq., for respondent (Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: August 2, 2017 Decided: August 9, 2017

BEFORE JOAN BEDRIN MURRAY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, C.G., appealed the determination of respondent, the Board of Education of the Lakeland Regional School District (the Board), that her son, E.J.G., was ineligible to attend Lakeland Regional High School due to his residency outside the district. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as Docket No. EDU 01924-17, and filed on February 7, 2017, as a contested case. A pre-hearing telephone conference was scheduled for March 28, 2017. On said date, the matter was dismissed for petitioner's failure to appear at the appointed time. On March 30, 2017, the OAL sent a notice to the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner), reporting petitioner's failure to appear. The file was then returned to the Agency. In April 2017, petitioner contacted the Department of Education, providing an explanation for her non-appearance at the pre-hearing conference. The Commissioner then remanded the matter to the OAL as Docket No. 06767-17, where it was filed on May 11, 2017.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following FACTS are undisputed; therefore, I FIND that they are the FACTS of this case:

By notice to the parties dated June 6, 2017, a pre-hearing telephone conference was scheduled in this matter for June 26, 2017 at 3:30 p.m. The notice sent to petitioner was not returned to the OAL as undelivered. At the scheduled conference time, my assistant, Ms. Ramos, was unable to reach petitioner by telephone. Marie-Laurence Fabian, Esq., counsel for respondent, supplied Ms. Ramos with an email address for petitioner. I sent an email to petitioner asking her to call my assistant at her earliest convenience, and to advise if her address had changed to ensure that she received future mailings. In addition, petitioner was advised that the matter would be scheduled for a hearing on August 2, 2017, at 9:30 a.m. She was also advised that her petition would be dismissed if she failed to appear at that time.

On or about July 14, 2017, petitioner contacted Ms. Ramos, stating that she would not be appearing at the August 2, 2017, hearing. Further, she noted that she intended to withdraw her petition, but could not do so at the time because she had no access to a computer or a mailbox. No withdrawal was received by the OAL. On August 2, 2017, petitioner did not appear for the scheduled hearing. She has made no further contact with the OAL.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that respondent has abandoned this matter and it should be returned to the agency.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a) provides as follows:

> If, after appropriate notice, neither a party nor a representative appears at any proceeding scheduled by the Clerk or judge, the judge shall hold the matter for one day before taking any action. If the judge does not receive an explanation for the nonappearance within one day, the judge shall . . . direct the Clerk to return the matter to the transmitting agency . . .

Here, petitioner advised the OAL that she intended to withdraw her petition, and would not be appearing for the hearing on August 2, 2017. As no withdrawal was received by the OAL, the hearing remained on the schedule for that day. Petitioner failed to appear at the scheduled proceeding, and failed to provide an explanation for her nonappearance within the allotted time for doing so. Accordingly, the Clerk should return this matter to the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the Clerk return this matter to the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, for appropriate disposition.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATES OF VINCENT J. VITIELLO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION ON REMAND

The record, proposed settlement agreement and release, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed – mindful of the Commissioner's June 26, 2017 determination that the prior settlement agreement could not be approved because it was devoid of affirmation from the parties that the respondent was not employed as a teacher elsewhere during the proposed suspension period. Since the settlement agreement now contains an affidavit of respondent attesting that he has not worked as a teacher during the suspension period, the Commissioner can approve the within settlement agreement in its present form.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision recommending approval of the parties' settlement as the final decision in this matter is hereby adopted, and the matter is dismissed subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement. AGENCY DKT. NO. 299-11/16

ON REMAND EDU 18002-16

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE(S) OF VINCENT J. VITIELLO, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EDISON, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

Amanda N. Castrogiovanni, Esq., for petitioner Edison Township Board of Education (Busch Law Group, attorneys)

Vincent J. Vitiello, respondent, pro se

Record Closed: August 9, 2017 Decided: August 10, 2017

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

Petitioner, the Edison Township Board of Education (the Board), seeks the suspension of the teaching certificate of respondent Vincent J. Vitiello. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on November 29, 2016, for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 18002-16. A hearing was scheduled for May 19, 2017. Prior to the hearing, the parties reached a settlement and counsel for the Board forwarded an Agreement and Release under letter dated April 28, 2017. On May 2, 2017, I issued an Initial Decision approving the settlement.

Subsequently, the Department of Education issued a decision on June 26, 2017, finding that the settlement could not be approved because an affidavit was required and remanding the matter to the OAL. The matter was remanded and filed with the OAL on June 27, 2017, under Dkt. No. EDU 09156-17. Counsel for the Board advised that the parties would be submitting an affidavit to the undersigned. Under letter dated August 8, 2017, counsel for the Board submitted the attached Affidavit of Vincent Vitiello as a supplement to the Agreement and Release filed on May 1, 2017.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement, along with the affidavit, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

RECEIVED
2017 MAY 1 P 1:19
STATE

This AGREEMENT AND RELEASE (the "Agreement") is made this 27 day of February, 2017 by and between the Edison Township Board of Education, including members, officers, agents, attorneys, administrators, employees, representatives, agents, affiliates, subsidiaries, successors, or assigns (the "Board") and Vincent Vitiello, including his agents, representatives, assigns, heirs and successors ("Mr. Vitiello") (collectively referred to as the "Parties").

WHEREAS, Vincent Vitiello ("Mr. Vitiello") was a tenured teacher employed by the Edison Township Board of Education (the "Board"); and

WHEREAS, On or about May 4, 2016, the Board passed a resolution confirming Mr. Vitiello's reappointment to the teaching position for the 2016-2017 school year; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Vitiello notified the Board on September 13, 2016 via electronic correspondence that he intended to retire effective October 5, 2016; and

WHEREAS, Peter Pittuco, Director of Personnel ("Mr. Pittuco"), informed Mr. Vitiello on September 14, 2016, via electronic correspondence, of Mr. Vitiello's contractual and statutory obligations to provide 60 days' notice; and

WHEREAS, on or about October 21, 2016 the Board filed with the Acting Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education an Order to Show Cause compelling Mr. Vitiello to explain why the Commissioner should not suspend his teaching certificate for unprofessional conduct (retirement without sufficient notice), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9-17.9; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the costs, expenses, delays, and uncertainties of the hearing process and/or civil litigation, the Parties hereto wish to fully and finally settle and resolve any and all claims which have been and/or could have been asserted by the Board;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the Parties incorporate the above recitals and agree as follows:

1. Suspension. Mr. Vitiello's teaching certificate shall be suspended for a period of six (6) months. The six (6) month suspension shall have a retroactive initiation date of October 5, 2016 and continue through April 5, 2017.

2. Withdraw Pending Action. The Board agrees to send a letter to the Honorable Michael Antoniewicz within five (5) days from receipt of a fully executed copy of the herein

Agreement, withdrawing OAL Docket number EDU 18002-2016 N, Agency Reference number 299-11-16, In The Matter of the Suspension of the Teaching Certificate(s) of Vincent J. Vitiello / School District of the Township of Edison, Middlesex County within.

3. Compromise/No Admission of Liability. The Parties understand, represent, and warrant that this Agreement is not an admission of wrongdoing or liability by or on the part of any Party.

4. Release. Mr. Vitiello hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waives, releases and forever discharges any and all claims or rights, whether known or unknown, which he has or may have against the Board, in any venue, as well as any of its members, officers, agents, attorneys, administrators, employees or representatives, related in any way to his employment with the Board or retirement therefrom, and in respect of, any and all charges, promises, actions, causes of action, covenants, contracts, controversies, agreements, complaints, claims, counterclaims, liabilities, obligations, suits, demands, grievances, arbitrations, costs, losses, sums of money, accounts, bills, judgment, executions, damages, debts and expenses, including attorneys' fees and costs, of any nature or description whatsoever, in law or in equity, asserted or unasserted, express or implied, foreseen or unforeseen, real or imaginary, suspected or unsuspected, known or unknown, liquidated or non-liquidated, of any kind or nature or description whatsoever, arising from the beginning of the world to the effective date of this Agreement, including but not limited to any claim under State or Federal law for discrimination based on age, race, gender, disability or any other actual or perceived characteristic. To the extent that Mr. Vitiello is authorized by law to file a claim or complaint with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or any other such institution, Mr. Vitiello additionally and specifically waives any right to receive monetary damages as a result of such claim or complaint. With respect to his waiver of any and all potential age discrimination or similar claims hereunder, Mr. Vitiello understands that he has twenty-one (21) days to consider this Agreement and shall have seven (7) days after signing the agreement to reconsider and revoke his signature, though such revocation shall relieve the Board of any duty to abide by its obligations herein.

5. Enforceability and Severability. The Parties agree and acknowledge that each of the provisions of this Agreement are reasonable and should be fully enforceable, and the Parties waive any right to argue, assert or allege any claim to the contrary. However, if any provision of this Agreement is determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable because it is overbroad or unreasonable, the Parties agree that such provision(s) shall be modified and enforced to the maximum extent permissible. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid and cannot be modified so as to make it enforceable, then such provision shall be deemed to be severed from the Agreement and the remaining provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

6. Mutual Non-Disclosure and Non-Disparagement Agreement. The Parties agree that the terms and existence of this Agreement shall not be disclosed to any third party, unless required by law. Further, the Parties agree that they shall not make any disparaging remarks (verbally or in writing) to any third party (or via social media) about and/or concerning each other.

7. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the sole and complete agreement among the Parties with respect to the subject matters hereof.

8. Drafting and Negotiation by Counsel. The drafting and negotiating of this Agreement have been participated in by each of the Parties and their respective counsel and/or representatives and, for all purposes, this Agreement shall be deemed to have been drafted jointly by each of the Parties. The Parties hereby acknowledge that they have been represented by counsel, or any other representative of their choice, throughout the Action, throughout the negotiation of this Agreement, and at the execution of this Agreement, and have read and consulted with counsel, or their chosen representative, regarding this Agreement. To the extent any party chose not to consult with counsel and/or a representative, such a decision was made knowingly and voluntarily and said party expressly agrees that they were given ample opportunity to confer with counsel and/or a representative, but chose not to, and therefore waives their right to argue, at a later date, that they did not understand the terms of this Agreement because they did not confer with counsel and/or a representative.

9. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be construed under, subject to, and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

10. Costs of Additional Litigation. If the Board is forced to incur any fees to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or to recover damages pursuant to this Agreement, or to defend any actions brought by Mr. Vitiello, or by the Edison Township Education Association with the assistance of and/or participation in by Mr. Vitiello, contrary to the terms of the Agreement, the Board shall be entitled to recover, from Mr. Vitiello, all attorneys' fees and costs expended.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF REBECCA HENDERSON,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF LUMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board certified tenure charges of abandonment and ineffectiveness against respondent – a tenured clerk/accounting specialist under the Board's employ – and sought to terminate her employment with the district. Neither respondent nor any attorney acting on her behalf filed an answer to the tenure charges following notice pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4.

The Commissioner concluded that the allegations – which respondent has chosen not to deny – may be deemed admitted and warrant the termination of the respondent from her tenured position. Accordingly, the Commissioner granted summary decision to the petitioner, and dismissed the respondent from her tenured position in petitioner's school district.

AGENCY DKT NO. 190-8/17

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF REBECCA HENDERSON,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP	:	DECISION
OF LUMBERTON, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

For the Petitioner, Susan S. Hodges, Esq.
No appearance by or on behalf of Respondent, Rebecca Henderson

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on August 17, 2017, through tenure charges of abandonment and ineffectiveness certified by Joseph Langowski, Superintendent of the School District of the Township of Lumberton, together with supporting evidence against the respondent, Rebecca Henderson, a tenured clerk/accounting specialist in the petitioner's employ. The petitioner provided respondent with written notice of such certification at the respondent's last known address, via regular and certified mail, sent on August 11, 2017.

On August 16, 2017, the Commissioner directed the respondent – via both certified and regular mail – to file an answer to the charges. This communication clearly provided notice to respondent that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the day such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period would – absent granting of an extension for good cause shown – result in the charges being deemed admitted. The certified mail copy that was sent to the respondent was returned as unclaimed. The copy sent to the respondent via regular mail was not returned. No reply to the tenure charges was received from or on behalf of respondent.

The certified tenure charges and statement of supporting evidence filed by the petitioner in this matter indicate that respondent is a tenured clerk/accounting specialist employed by the District since March 4, 2002. Beginning June 26, 2017, the respondent failed to report to work, and did not report her absences to the District. District personnel contacted the respondent on four separate occasions, but respondent did not return any of the calls or text messages. By letter dated July 13, 2017, the District's School Business Adminstrator informed the respondent that if the District did not hear from her within three business days, the Superintendent would recommend that the Board take action concerning her employment. To date, the respondent has not contacted the District to discuss her employment status.

Deeming the allegations to be admitted – and noting that respondent has failed to respond to the charges certified against her – the Commissioner finds that petitioner's charge of abandonment has been proven, and that respondent's dismissal is warranted. Accordingly, summary decision is hereby granted to the petitioner, and the respondent is dismissed from her tenured position with the District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – formerly employed by the respondent Board from 1996 to 2015 – filed a petition of appeal on February 1, 2017, claiming entitlement to payment for unused sick time under the terms of her employment contract with the Board (petitioner had previously filed a breach of contract action in Superior Court, which was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction in August 2016). Petitioner submitted an application for a deferred retirement with the New Jersey Division of Pensions and Benefits in 2013, with a deferred retirement date of March 1, 2018. Subsequently, petitioner resigned from the Board's school district in June 2015 and requested that the Board pay her for accrued sick time under her employment contract, which included a provision that states: "[u]pon retirement from the Washington Township School District, 30 days of unused sick days will be reimbursed, at a rate of $500.00 per day." The Board filed a motion to dismiss, contending that the appeal was filed beyond the 90-day time limitation set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner's appeal was filed approximately 341 days from the date she was notified of the Board's denial of sick time payout; the date of filing was well beyond 90 days from the date petitioner received notice of the Board's final action regarding her request for payment for accrued sick leave; relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted under the circumstances; the fact that petitioner's action was transferred from Superior Court to the Commissioner is no defense, as the 90-day period clearly refers to the period after the respondent Board's initial denial of payment – not the period after the Superior Court dismissed the action; and petitioner may be entitled to collect sick leave payment under the terms of her employment contract upon the date of her deferred retirement. The ALJ concluded that the petition must be dismissed as out of time pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determination that the petition was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), as it was clearly filed significantly beyond 90 days after the Board's July 17, 2015 decision denying the sick leave payout. In so finding, the Commissioner noted that the petition was actually filed 565 days after the Board's letter informing petitioner that her request for sick leave payment was denied, rather than the 341 days stated in the Initial Decision. Additionally, the Commissioner found that any disputes arising between the parties that might be triggered by the petitioner's deferred retirement date are not yet ripe for review. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as modified herein, and the petition was dismissed.

VALERIE MATTES,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Washington Township Board of Education (Board).[1]

This matter involves a claim by the petitioner, Valerie Mattes, that she is entitled to payment for unused sick time under the terms of her employment contract with the Board. In 2013, the petitioner submitted an application with the New Jersey Division of Pensions and Benefits for a deferred retirement, and currently has a deferred retirement date of March 1, 2018. The petitioner resigned from the Washington Township School District in June 2015, and requested that the Board pay her for accrued sick time under her employment contract. The employment contract with the Board contains a provision that states, "[u]pon retirement from the Washington Township School District, 30 days of unused sick days will be reimbursed, at a rate of $500.00 per day." By letter dated July 17, 2015, the Board denied the petitioner's request for the payout of her accrued sick time.

[1] On July 14, 2017, the Office of Controversies and Disputes received a copy of the petitioner's reply exceptions – dated July 7, 2017 – which were addressed to Christopher Myers, Director, Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs, and appear to have been sent to the Civil Service Commission. The reply exceptions were not timely filed with the Commissioner of Education, and therefore were not considered.

On March 29, 2016 the petitioner filed a complaint in New Jersey Superior Court challenging the Board's July 17, 2015 decision; the complaint was dismissed by Order dated August 26, 2016 for lack of jurisdiction. After reconsideration was also denied by the Superior Court on November 10, 2016, the plaintiff filed the current petition of appeal on February 1, 2017. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petition of appeal was untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) because it was not filed within 90 days from the Board's July 17, 2015 decision. The ALJ also found that relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted in this matter.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision – that the petition of appeal was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner likewise concurs that petitioner has failed to set forth any compelling reason to relax the timely filing requirement. As was stated in the Initial Decision, the fact that an action is transferred to the Commissioner from Superior Court is not a defense against the 90-day rule.[2] Despite the fact that the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's finding that the petition of appeal is untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), the Commissioner notes that the petition was filed 565 days after the Board's letter dated July 17, 2015, not 341 days – as is stated in the Initial Decision.[3]

In its exceptions, the Board does not argue that the petition was erroneously dismissed as untimely, but instead contends that the ALJ improperly found that the petitioner may be entitled to payment for her accrued sick time on March 1, 2018 – the date of her deferred retirement. Significantly, the ALJ did not find that the petitioner is entitled to her accumulated sick time upon her retirement on March 1, 2018, but rather stated that any right to payment for

[2] The petitioner's Superior Court complaint was filed 256 days after the Board's denial of her sick time payout.

[3] The Board's submissions to the OAL and the Commissioner also erroneously state that the petition was filed 341 days after the petitioner received notice that the Board denied her request for her sick leave payout.

unused sick time cannot be enforced until March 1, 2018. The current petition of appeal challenging the Board's decision dated July 17, 2015 was clearly untimely filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Any disputes that may arise between the parties that are triggered by the petitioner's deferred retirement date of March 1, 2018 are not yet ripe for the review.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as modified decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

BEFORE LISA JAMES-BEAVERS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 29, 2016, petitioner, Valerie J. Mattes, filed a breach of contract action in New Jersey Superior Court, Special Civil Part against respondent, the Washington Township Board of Education, claiming that she is entitled to payment for unused sick time under the terms of her employment contract with the district. On July 15, 2016, respondent filed a motion for summary judgment, arguing that petitioner is not entitled to collect the accumulated sick leave and that, in any event, jurisdiction should be deferred to the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner filed a cross-motion for summary judgment on August 5, 2016, arguing that respondent was obligated to pay petitioner under the terms of the contract and that the Superior Court had proper jurisdiction over the matter. On August 26, 2016, the Honorable John H. Pursel dismissed petitioner's complaint without prejudice and ordered that the matter be transferred to the Commissioner of Education. Petitioner filed a motion for reconsideration on September 2, 2016. The motion was denied on November 10, 2016.

On January 20, 2017, petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner. On February 21, 2017, respondent filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of answer. The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on February 24, 2017. On March 3, 2017, petitioner filed an opposition to respondent's motion to dismiss. I heard oral argument on May 5, 2017 and closed the record.

FACTS

Petitioner was first employed by respondent as a Technology Coordinator/Teacher in Charge from 1996 to 2008. Respondent's Opposition Brief, ¶2. Thereafter, petitioner was employed as the Board's Principal/Director of Special Services from 2008 until her separation from the school district in June 2015. Ibid. In February 2013, petitioner, a member of the TPAF, submitted an application for deferred retirement benefits to the Division of Pensions and Benefits, with a deferred retirement date of March 1, 2018. Id. at ¶3.

Petitioner thereafter entered into an employment contract with respondent for the 2014-2015 school year. Id. at ¶5. The contract included a provision addressing sick leave, which read:

> The Principal/Child Study Team Director shall be allowed twelve (12) days sick leave per year for the term of this > Contract. Unused sick leave days shall be cumulative in accordance with the provisions of Title 18A. Upon retirement from the Washington Township School District, 30 days of unused sick time will be reimbursed, at a rate of $500.00 per day. Reimbursement for sick days shall be consistent with the law in effect at the time this Contract is signed. Such payment shall not exceed $15,000.00 . . . . [Respondent's Exh. A, pp. 2-3.]

By correspondence dated May 26, 2015, petitioner wrote to Superintendent Keith Neuhs, stating, "This letter is my official notification to you that I am retiring from Washington Township School District, effective date to be June 30, 2015." Petitioner's Exh. B. On June 8, 2015, respondent accepted petitioner's resignation. Respondent's Exh. B.

On June 12, 2015, petitioner entered into an administrator's employment contract with the Five Town Community School District in Camden, Maine. Respondent's Opposition Brief, ¶¶8-9.

On July 8, 2015, Superintendent Neuhs informed petitioner via text message that her unused sick time payout would not be released. Respondent's Exh. C. On July 10, 2015, petitioner contacted Superintendent Neuhs and requested that she receive formal written notification of respondent's decision. Ibid.

On July 17, 2015, Superintendent Neuhs responded to petitioner, advising her of the following:

> [C]onsider this letter official notification that the Washington Township School District does not feel that you have met the contractual eligibility for retirement and you are not eligible for payment of sick time. It is the position of the district that you have not met the parameters for retirement and that you decided to resign from the district in order to accept an educational position in Maine. Therefore, after careful review and consultation with Board Counsel, the District will not provide you with payment for sick time. [Respondent's Exh. D.]

LEGAL ANALYSIS

I. Motion to Dismiss Standard.

After an individual files a petition of appeal with the Department of Education, initiating a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, the respondent is required to serve an answer upon the petitioner within twenty days after receipt of the petition. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(a). In lieu of an answer, the respondent may file a motion to dismiss the petition. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g).

Should a motion to dismiss be filed in lieu of an answer, the Commissioner may, prior to the transmittal of the pleadings to the OAL, "dismiss the petition on the grounds that the petitioner has advanced no cause of action even if the petitioner's factual allegations are accepted as true or for lack of jurisdiction, failure to prosecute or other good reason." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10. "[W]here the Commissioner does not determine to dismiss the matter pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.10, the Commissioner may . . . transmit the matter for hearing before the OAL . . . [, which] shall be conducted in accordance with the rules of the OAL." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.11.

Here, respondent argues that the instant petition of appeal must be dismissed with prejudice because it was filed beyond the 90-day time limitation set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Respondent's Brief, p. 4. Additionally, respondent argues that the petition must be dismissed because petitioner is not entitled to collect accumulated sick leave payment under the terms of her contract and State law. Id. at 10. Petitioner argues that she timely filed her petition with the Commissioner, noting that the petition was filed within 90 days after receiving a final order from Superior Court. Petitioner's Opposition Brief, pp. 3-5. Further, petitioner contends that respondent has breached the terms of her employment contract by withholding payment for unused sick time. Id. at 8.

As set forth in greater detail below, the petition must be dismissed as untimely because petitioner failed to file her petition with the Commissioner until approximately 341 days after being notified of respondent's denial of sick time payout. Relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted under the circumstances, and the fact that the action was transferred to the Commissioner from Superior Court is no defense.

Additionally, the case must be dismissed because petitioner is not yet entitled to collect sick leave payment under the terms of her contract and State law. Rather, petitioner must wait until the date of her deferred retirement, March 1, 2018, before she can assert her right to this payment.

II. Petitioner violated the 90-day rule.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides that a "petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education . . . ." This limitations period stabilizes the relationship between teachers and the administration and gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after 90 days. Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993).

The Commissioner may, in his or her discretion, relax the 90-day limitation period "in any case where a strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. However, the 90-day rule has generally been strictly enforced in the absence of a compelling reason, such as where a substantial constitutional issue is presented, where judicial review is sought of an informal administrative determination, or where a matter of significant public interest is involved. Portee v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 381, 384. Typically, a petitioner's personal hardships during the 90-day period do not justify a waiver of the rule, except perhaps in cases of genuine incapacity. See Unangst v. Bd. of Educ. of Fredon, EDU 9828-98, Initial Decision (March 13, 2003), adopted, Comm'r (May 1, 2003), <https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/edu9828-98.pdf> (denying relaxation of 90-day rule to teacher in a severely abusive domestic relationship, noting that "[e]motional distress alone, without a showing of circumstances amounting to genuine incapacity, is not enough to toll the time limit for bringing an appeal to the Commissioner"); Bland-Carter v. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark, EDU 1505-00,

Initial Decision (June 15, 2000), adopted, Comm'r (September 14, 2000), <https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/edu1505-00.pdf> (denying relaxation of 90-day rule where petitioner's father was hospitalized and died during the relevant 90-days, noting that petitioner returned to work during the period and thus must have been able to function).

Further, the fact that an action is transferred to the Commissioner from Superior Court is no defense to the 90-day rule. See Semprevivo v. Pinelands Reg'l Bd. of Educ., EDU 06386-09, Initial Decision (December 8, 2009), <https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/html/initial/edu06386-09.html>, adopted, Comm'r (January 15, 2010). In Semprevivo, a former student sought damages for tortious misconduct against his high school's athletic director after an incident of alleged verbal abuse. Approximately two years after the incident, the student filed an action in Superior Court, but the school board successfully argued that the matter should be transferred to the Commissioner. The school board then asserted that the petition was barred by the 90-day rule. The student argued that by seeking a transfer, the board had waived its defense of the 90-day time frame. The student also argued that he did not sleep on his rights, as he had filed a Tort Claim Notice within 90 days of the incident.

The ALJ concluded that the petition was untimely, as the petition was not filed within 90 days of the incident and none of the recognized grounds for waiving the jurisdictional bar had been established. While the student had filed a Tort Claim Notice within 90 days, that notice did not serve as a sufficient signal to the board that it might be faced with a more immediate challenge in front of the Commissioner. The ALJ also addressed the student's argument that the board's request of a transfer should be deemed a waiver of the 90-day rule defense, explaining that > . . . while the Commissioner may determine that there exists a legitimate reason to exercise jurisdiction in a case that otherwise would be dismissed as untimely filed, a party cannot create jurisdiction where none exists and thus it is at best doubtful that a party can waive the 90-day rule and thrust upon the Commissioner the responsibility for deciding an untimely case. That the Board saw fit to raise the Commissioner's primary jurisdiction to the Superior Court and thereby seek transfer is not a reason to conclude that it > cannot raise here the untimeliness of the filing. More importantly, here the Superior Court action was not filed until nearly two years after the date when the allegedly improper action by the Board and its employee occurred. [Semprevivo, supra.]

Here, petitioner's action is untimely because she failed to file her petition with the Commissioner until approximately 341 days after being notified of respondent's denial of sick time payout. Petitioner argues that she filed her petition with the Commissioner within 90 days after receiving a final order from Superior Court. Petitioner's Opposition Brief, p. 5. However, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides that such an action must be filed within 90 days of "a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Thus, the 90 days clearly refers to the period after the respondent board's initial denial of payment, not the period after the Superior Court dismissed the action. To interpret this otherwise would contravene the public policy behind the 90-day rule.

Relaxation of the 90-day rule is inappropriate under the circumstances. Petitioner argues that there is a compelling reason to relax the rule because she was moving from New Jersey to Maine during the relevant period, thus making it difficult to retain counsel. Petitioner's Opposition Brief, p. 7. However, as previously mentioned, the 90-day rule is strictly enforced in the absence of a compelling reason, such as where a substantial constitutional issue is presented, where judicial review is sought of an informal administrative determination, or where a matter of significant public interest is involved. None of those circumstances are present here. Additionally, although relocating to a different state may induce stress, there is no evidence that petitioner suffered from a genuine incapacity during this time.

Further, the fact that the action was transferred to the Commissioner from Superior Court is no defense to the 90-day rule. Like in Semprevivo, petitioner's action was transferred to the Commissioner after the respondent board raised jurisdictional issues in Superior Court. The ALJ in Semprevivo concluded that the board's request for a transfer to the Commissioner did not constitute a waiver of the 90-day rule. In dismissing the action, the ALJ also found it significant that the student did not file in Superior Court until approximately two years after the incident. Notably, here, petitioner failed to file in Superior Court until approximately 258 days after the denial of payment. Thus, even petitioner's initial Superior Court complaint was filed well beyond the 90-day period. Petitioner's claim must be dismissed as untimely.

III. Petitioner is not currently entitled to collect sick leave payment under the terms of her employment contract and State law; however, she may be entitled to this payment upon the date of her deferred retirement.

Under State law,

> [a]ll persons holding any office, position, or employment in all local school districts . . . who are steadily employed by the board of education or who are protected by tenure in their office, position, or employment under the provisions of this or any other law . . . shall be allowed sick leave with full pay for a minimum of 10 school days in any school year. [N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.]

"If any such person requires in any school year less than the specified number of days of sick leave with pay allowed, all days of such minimum sick leave not utilized that year shall be accumulative to be used for additional sick leave as needed in subsequent years." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3. Sick leave accrued by an employee in one district may transfer with her to another New Jersey district. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.2.

State law also places limitations on a school board's ability to pay former employees for unused sick leave. Both N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.5, which applies to certain high-level officers, and N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.6, which applies to individuals employed after May 21, 2010, restrict payment for accumulated sick leave to $15,000. Additionally, both statutes provide that "[s]upplemental compensation shall be payable only at the time of retirement from a State-administered or locally-administered retirement system based on the leave credited on the date of retirement." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.5; N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.6. Thus, under State law, compensation for unused sick time is typically payable on the date of an individual's retirement from the TPAF or other retirement system.

Petitioner's contract with respondent explicitly references State law, noting "Unused sick leave days shall be accumulated in accordance with the provisions of Title 18A . . . Reimbursement for sick days shall be consistent with the law in effect at the time this Contract is signed." Respondent's Exh. A, p. 2-3. Notably, petitioner does not directly fall under the categories of employees described in either N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.5 or N.J.S.A. 18A:30-3.6, as she is not a high-level officer, and her employment began before 2010.

However, these statutory provisions indicate that an individual is typically not entitled to be paid for unused sick time until her date of retirement from a State-administered or locally-administered retirement system. Here, it is undisputed that petitioner's deferred retirement date is March 1, 2018. Therefore, any right she has to payment for unused sick time cannot be enforced until then. If petitioner does not receive payment for unused sick leave upon her official retirement date, as recorded by the TPAF, she should be permitted to again file a petition with the Commissioner to enforce the terms of her contract.

Respondent argues that petitioner is not entitled to payment because she did not "actually retire." Respondent's Brief, p. 13. Respondent bases this conclusion on the fact that petitioner is currently working for a school district in Maine. Ibid. However, the plain language of the employment contract indicates that petitioner is entitled to the payment "[u]pon retirement from the Washington Township School District." Respondent's Exh. A. As previously stated, this will officially occur on March 1, 2018. The fact that petitioner has accepted employment in another state is irrelevant to whether she has "retired" from respondent's district or for TPAF purposes. And, unless respondent intends to follow petitioner around the country for the rest of her life, entitlement to payment cannot be based on when petitioner permanently ends her professional career in all geographic locations.

CONCLUSION

The current petition must be dismissed as untimely because petitioner failed to file with the Commissioner until approximately 341 days after being notified of respondent's denial of sick time payout. Relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted under the circumstances, and the fact that the action was transferred to the Commissioner from Superior Court is no defense.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER the petitioner DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) which found that his son, M.T., transferred from St. Joseph's High School to Hammonton High School for athletic advantage; the resulting ruling made M.T. ineligible to participate in football at Hammonton for the 2017-2018 school year. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that M.T. transferred because he had been bullied by the coaching staff at St. Joseph's and felt unsafe; further, petitioner argued that the NJSIAA had denied him due process. Petitioner argued that the NJSIAA's decision imposing a one-year period of ineligibility on M.T. should be reversed.

The NJSIAA contended, inter alia, that: the petitioner was provided with due process; the decision of the EAC was not arbitrary and capricious as there was sufficient evidence in the record that M.T. transferred for athletic advantage; the testimony of M.T.'s coaches and teammate was consistent and credible, and demonstrated a pattern of deteriorating conduct by M.T. toward the coaching staff; and the EAC found M.T.'s claims unsubstantiated, and the testimony provided by M.T. and his parents to be incredible and generally unreliable. The NJSIAA urged that it did not apply its rules in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner with respect to the petitioner, and as such the Commissioner should affirm the decision of the EAC.

The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's decision and dismissed the petition, finding that petitioner did not meet his burden so as to entitle him to prevail on appeal. In so deciding, the Commissioner – who may not substitute her judgment for that of the NJSIAA on appeal – noted that the NJSIAA's decision ruling that M.T. is ineligible to participate in football for the 2017-2018 school year was neither arbitrary nor unreasonable.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 170-8/17

D.T., on behalf of minor child, M.T.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Nancy A. Valentino, Esq.

For Respondent, Michael W. Herbert, Esq. (Parker McCay, P.A.)

In this matter, petitioner seeks review of a decision of the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), finding that a high school student, M.T., transferred from St. Joseph High School (St. Joseph's) to Hammonton High School (Hammonton) for athletic advantage, and ruling that M.T. is ineligible to participate in football at Hammonton for the 2017-2018 school year. The EAC found that M.T. transferred to Hammonton – in violation of Article V, Section (4)(K)(5) of NJSIAA's Bylaws, Rules and Regulations – in order to seek relief due to a conflict with the philosophy of the coaching staff at St. Joseph's.

On appeal, petitioner maintains that M.T. transferred because he was being bullied by the coaching staff at St. Joseph's, he felt unsafe, and he no longer wanted to be subject to "retaliatory and violative conduct" by the school's staff and administration. In support of petitioner's claims, M.T. submitted statements and testified that the coaching staff verbally and physically abused him, engaged in hazing activities, and ostracized him from the team during the off-season. Petitioner further maintains that he was denied due process from the NJSIAA because he was not presented with the evidence until the morning of the hearing; he was not made aware of his rights; and he did not have enough time to obtain an attorney, as he was notified of the hearing less than one week before the scheduled date. Petitioner argues that the decision of the NJSIAA imposing a one-year period of ineligibility on M.T. should be reversed.

In reply, respondent maintains that petitioner was provided with due process as the EAC issued its final decision after a hearing on notice to the parties and a full right to be heard. Respondent also argues that the decision of the EAC was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, as there was sufficient evidence in the record that M.T. transferred for athletic advantage. Respondent submits that the testimony of M.T.'s coach and teammate was consistent and credible, and demonstrated a pattern of deteriorating conduct by M.T. towards the coaching staff. Additionally, respondent contends that the EAC found M.T.'s claims and accusations unsubstantiated, and that the testimony provided by M.T. and his parents was "incredible" and "generally unreliable." Respondent argues that the NJSIAA did not apply its rules in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner with respect to the petitioner; as such, the Commissioner should affirm its decision.

NJSIAA has promulgated rules and regulations imposing restrictions upon a transfer student's eligibility to participate in sports. See NJSIAA Bylaws, Rules and Regulations, Article V, Section 4(K)(2). Typically, when a student-athlete transfers from one school to another without a bona fide change of residence by the student's parent or guardian, the student is subject to a 30-day period of ineligibility for any sport in which the student has previously participated at the varsity level. See Article V, Section 4(K)(2)(a). However, if – following an eligibility determination by the EAC – a student is found to have transferred for athletic advantage, the student may be subject to an extended period of ineligibility beyond the 30-day period.[1]

[1] A transfer for athletic advantage is defined as:

a. Seeking a superior athletic team;
b. Seeking relief due to a conflict with the philosophy or action of an administrator, teacher or coach relating to sports;
c. Seeking a team consistent with the student's athletic abilities;
d. Seeking a means to nullify punitive action by the previous school; or
e. Seeking to be coached by the coach at the new school.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions, including determinations made by the EAC, is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. Moreover, petitioners seeking to overturn decisions of the NJSIAA bear a heavy burden of proof. Absent a demonstration by petitioner in this matter that the NJSIAA applied its rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules.[2] See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); see also B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration." Bayshore, 122 N.J.Super. at 199-200. As such, the Commissioner may not substitute her own judgment for that of the NJSIAA where due process has been afforded and where exists sufficient credible evidence in the record to serve as a basis for the decision rendered by the NJSIAA. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner upholds the decision of the NJSIAA: the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not met his burden to prevail on appeal because his due process rights were not violated and the evidence in the record supports the NJSIAA's ruling. Petitioner's due process rights were not violated because D.T. was provided adequate notice of the hearing and an opportunity to review the record. The transcript of the hearing also reveals that petitioner fully participated in the process. The NJSIAA applied its rules in an appropriate and reasonable manner in light of its duty to ensure fairness and integrity in athletic competition statewide. M.T. – who had been on the St. Joseph's football team since his freshmen year of high school – did not make any allegations regarding the coaching staff until his junior year, and most of M.T.'s other claims also related to his junior year of high school. The EAC found that M.T.'s coach and teammate provided credible testimony, and there is no basis to reject the EAC's determinations of witness credibility. Testimonies provided by M.T.'s coach and teammate contradicted M.T.'s accusations against the coaching staff, and revealed his previous declarations of intent to transfer to Hammonton for athletic advantage. It is undisputed that M.T. was dissatisfied with the coaching staff at St. Joseph's as evidenced by his various attempts to undermine the coaches during the course of his junior year. The evidence also does not support a finding that the coaching staff acted inappropriately towards M.T. Instead, the record establishes that M.T.'s decision to transfer to Hammonton was due to his disagreements with the philosophy and personal style of the coaching staff at St. Joseph's. As such, M.T.'s unsubstantiated accusations of inappropriate conduct by the coaching staff, coupled with his deteriorating performance on the team and his change in behavior towards the coaching staff, are dubious at best.

Accordingly – the Commissioner having found that petitioner was afforded due process and that M.T. transferred to Hammonton for athletic advantage – the NJSIAA's ruling that M.T. is ineligible to participate in football at Hammonton for a one-year period is upheld and the petition of appeal dismissed.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured teacher employed by the respondent Board – contended that the Board improperly found her guilty of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB), as those terms are defined under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, and sought to have her personnel file expunged of any record of the HIB allegations. The Board filed a motion to dismiss in lieu of an answer, asserting the petition was not timely filed and must be dismissed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Petitioner filed opposition to the motion to dismiss. The ALJ subsequently converted the Board's motion to a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioner is a teacher in the school district; in December of 2016, petitioner was accused of bullying a student with disabilities; the matter was investigated by the school district's Anti-Bullying Specialist, who determined that an act of HIB had occurred; this finding was affirmed by the Superintendent and the Board; petitioner was notified on January 24, 2017 that she had been found guilty of HIB; petitioner did not submit her appeal until June 2017; instead, petitioner pursued contractual grievance proceedings through the Moonachie Education Association; petitioner asserted that her petition was timely, as the 90 day period for filing her appeal began when the Board denied her grievance in March 2017. The ALJ concluded that the Board's HIB determination was issued in January 2017, and the petitioner received proper notice thereof; however, petitioner's appeal was not filed until June 13, 2017 – well past the regulatory timeline. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition as untimely.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the petition must be dismissed as it was filed outside the 90-day limitation period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

Record Closed: August 16, 2017 Decided: August 17, 2017

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Valerie Kenny, a tenured teacher employed by the Moonachie Board of Education (the Board), contends that the Board improperly found her guilty of harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB), as those terms are defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. She seeks a declaration that the Board acted in violation of law, and asks that her personnel file be expunged of any record of the HIB allegations. The Board replies that the petition was not timely filed, and should be dismissed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education on June 13, 2017. On June 27, 2017, the Board filed a Motion to Dismiss in Lieu of an Answer, per N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(g). The contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on June 29, 2017. Kenny filed a brief and certification in opposition to the motion on August 14, 2017. The Board replied to the opposition on August 16, 2017, and the record closed.[1]

FINDINGS OF FACT

The salient facts are undisputed, and I FIND:

Petitioner is a teacher who, in December 2016, was accused of bullying a student with disabilities. The matter was investigated by the Anti-Bullying Specialist, who determined that an act of HIB had occurred. The HIB investigative report was submitted to the Superintendent of Schools on December 20, 2016, who affirmed its findings, and reported the matter to the Board. On January 19, 2017, the Board voted to affirm the decision of the Superintendent.

Kenny was notified of the Board's decision on January 24, 2017. On January 25, 2017, the Moonachie Education Association (the Association) began the process of pursuing relief for Kenny via the contractual grievance procedure, which includes four steps: I. Informal Discussion; II. Administrative Principal; III. Board of Education; and IV. Binding Arbitration. Having received no relief at the earlier stages of the process, on March 17, 2017, the Association filed a Level IV grievance, through which it sought to bring the matter to binding arbitration. On March 21, 2017, the Board advised Kenny via a letter from its Interim Business Administrator that the grievance had been denied at Level III.

[1] Since both parties submitted certifications and accompanying documents in support and opposition to the motion, I have converted it to a Motion for Summary Decision.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Board seeks relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, which provides that summary decision should be rendered "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." Our regulation mirrors R. 4:46-2(c) which provides that "the judgment or order sought shall be rendered if the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law."

A determination whether a genuine issue of material fact exists that precludes summary decision requires the judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the allegedly disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. Our courts have long held that "if the opposing party offers . . . only facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, 'fanciful frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious,' he will not be heard to complain if the court grants summary judgment." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995) (citing Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 75 (1954)).

The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, 249, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 213 (1986)). When the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law," the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 251-2, 106 S. Ct. at 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d at 214.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is ripe for summary decision. There are no material disputed facts that require a plenary hearing, and the Board is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. The time for filing an appeal before the Commissioner of Education is clearly set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides that a petition of appeal shall be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education . . . which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Petitioners' appeal was filed well past the regulatory timeline, and must be dismissed.

Adequate notice has been defined as notice "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). The ninety-day period for commencing an action begins to run when the "plaintiff learns, or reasonably should learn, the existence of that state of facts which may equate in law with a cause of action." Ibid. The intent of the ninety-day rule is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time, so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend. The rule furthermore exists to "penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs." Ibid.

Kenny asserts that her claim was not triggered until the Board denied her grievance. Having not timely heard from the Board at Level III of the grievance process, on March 17, 2017, her Association filed a Level IV grievance on her behalf, having read the Board's silence as a denial.[2] She thus urges that she had until June 17, 2017, to file her petition with the Commissioner. The Board replies that Kenny knew that the Board had acted to uphold its administrators' HIB determination as early as January 2017, making this petition of appeal well out of time.

I concur with the Board, which rightly notes that under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(e), a local board's HIB determination, "may be appealed to the Commissioner of Education, in accordance with the procedures set forth in law and regulation, no later than 90 days after issuance of the Board's decision." The Board's HIB decision here was made on January 19, 2017.

Kenny chose to challenge the Board's HIB determination through the collective bargaining agreement's grievance process at her own peril, as this was not the appeal process clearly specified by the statute. Her pursuit of the grievance procedure did not toll the ninety days in which she was required to perfect an appeal before the Commissioner. Indeed, the Commission has held that attempts to resolve a dispute in other forums do not serve to toll the statute of limitations. See Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. at 588; see also Riley v Hunterdon Cent. Bd. of Educ., 173 N.J. Super. 109 (App. Div. 1980). A petition must be filed within ninety days of receipt of notice of Board action, and not within ninety days of "exhaustion of other avenues and mechanisms." Wise v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Trenton, EDU 160-00, Initial Decision (July 25, 2000), adopted, Comm'r (September 11, 2000), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. In Wise, much like here, the petitioner sought reconsideration of a board decision, rather than timely appealing to the Commissioner; his appeal was dismissed.

Moreover, it is well established that the ninety-day rule is to be strictly applied. See Kaprow, supra, 131 N.J. 572; Morris-Union Jointure Comm'n v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of S. River, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 453; Markulin and the Neptune Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 406. While the Commissioner has the discretion to relax the rule, this extraordinary relief has been reserved only for those situations where a substantial constitutional issue is presented or where a matter of significant public interest is involved, beyond that of concern only to the parties. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16; Portee v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Newark, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 381, 384; Wise, supra, EDU 160-00. Petitioner's claim certainly has import and significance to her, but no significance beyond that, making a relaxation of the rule unwarranted.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petition of appeal should be dismissed for failure to comply with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's Motion for Summary Decision be GRANTED and the petition of appeal DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

WHEREAS, Respondent Limousine Service of BP ("LSBP") is a school bus contractor subject to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq., N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 et seq., and N.J.A.C. 6A:27-12.1 et seq.; and

WHEREAS, during the 2014-2015 school year, LSBP employed several individuals as either a school bus driver or school bus aide when such individuals had not received the criminal history record check required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-19.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, as applicable to each such individual; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner, the Commissioner of Education, issued an Order to Show Cause directing LSBP to show cause why an Administrative Order imposing a penalty against LSBP pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-20 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.5 should not be entered; and

WHEREAS, LSBP filed an Answer to the Order to Show Cause on July 13, 2016; and

WHEREAS, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case on July 14, 2016;

NOW THEREFORE, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that this action is settled upon the following terms:

1. LSBP agrees to pay a monetary penalty in the amount of $25,000.00, which shall be paid in two installments. The first payment of $12,500.00 will be paid upon the signing of this Settlement Agreement. The second payment of $12,500.00 will be paid within 30 days of the signing of this Settlement Agreement. Each payment shall be delivered to:

Treasurer, State of New Jersey
c/o N.J. State Department of Education
Office of Accounting - 1st Floor
P.O. Box 500
Trenton, New Jersey 08625

2. LSBP agrees to take such actions as are required by the New Jersey Department of Education, Criminal History Review Unit ("CHRU"), to ensure LSBP's compliance with the statutes going forward. Specifically, LSBP shall annually, prior to the start of each school year, provide the CHRU a copy of the school bus certification roster required by N.J.S.A. 39-18, which shall be provided to the CHRU simultaneously with its submission to the county superintendent. At the same time the school bus certification roster is submitted to the CHRU, LSBP shall provide the CHRU a list of all non-school bus driver employees, identifying the position held by each individual listed and the start date of each individual's employment with LSBP.

3. The parties stipulate and agree that this Settlement Agreement sets forth the complete and full resolution of all issues between them with regard to Agency Docket No. 177-6/16.

4. The parties acknowledge that this Settlement Agreement will not impede the ability of the Commissioner to bring an Order to Show Cause pursuant N.J.S.A. 18A:39-20 and/or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.5 for any violations of the applicable statutes that may be discovered for subsequent school years.

5. This Settlement Agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, including by not limited to the New Jersey Contractual Liability Act, N.J.S.A. 59:13-1 et seq.

6. The parties understand and agree to the terms of this Settlement Agreement. It is acknowledged that this Agreement has been entered into freely, willingly, and voluntarily, without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity for the parties to consult with representation of their choosing and at their option.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In February 2017, pro se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner admitted in her appeal that she had been domiciled at an address in Keansburg, New Jersey, since the family's eviction from their previous home in Middletown Township in April 2016. The Board filed a counterclaim for tuition. A hearing in this matter was held on August 1, 2017.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), children between the ages of five and twenty years old are entitled to a free public education in the school district in which they are domiciled; the domicile of an unemancipated child is that of her parent, custodian or guardian; here, petitioner testified that on April 1, 2016 – facing eviction subsequent to foreclosure on the family home in Middletown Township – she entered into a lease for one unit of a two-family house in Keansburg; petitioner and her children had lived at the Keansburg address for sixteen months at the time of the hearing, and are therefore considered to be domiciled in Keansburg; petitioner's contention that her children should be permitted to continue to attend the Board's schools under the Educational Stability Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-12(c), is without merit as petitioner offered no evidence that her intent was to move back to Middletown; rather, petitioner displayed an intent to remain in Keansburg as she stated that it was more affordable and more convenient to the location of her children's Middletown school than her former Middletown address had been. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's children were ineligible to receive a free education in the Middletown Township School District for the 2016-2017 school year, and that the Board is entitled to reimbursement for tuition in the total amount of $39,178.80.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's finding that the children were not domiciled in Middletown for the 2016-2017 school year, and were not entitled to a free education in the District during that time period. Further, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's assessment of the total tuition owed to the Board, but modified the ALJ's calculation of tuition to correct a typographical error. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision, as modified above, and petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $39,178.80 for the period of ineligible attendance of T.P.'s children in the Middletown Township Schools. The petition was dismissed.

V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that A.P., M.P., and J.P. were not domiciled in Middletown for the 2016-2017 school year, and were not entitled to a free education in the District during that time period. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's assessment of the total tuition owed to the Board; however, the calculation for tuition is modified as set forth below.[2]

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b and N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which A.P., M.P., and J.P. were ineligible to attend the District's schools. The Commissioner modifies the ALJ's calculation of tuition owed to the Board for A.P.'s ineligible attendance from $11,806.20 to $13,726.80 ($76.26

[2] The ALJ's assessment of the total tuition due and owing to the Board for all three children – $39,178.80 – is correct, but there appears to be a typographical error in the Initial Decision pertaining to the cost of tuition for A.P.'s ineligible attendance in the District.

per day for 180 days). The Initial Decision erroneously listed the cost of A.P.'s attendance at $65.59 per day for 180 days, when in fact the tuition is $76.26 per day for 180 days.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL – as modified herein – is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $39,178.80 for tuition costs incurred for the 2016-2017 school year, during which time A.P., M.P., and J.P. were ineligible to attend school in Middletown.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3915-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 38-2/17

T.P. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN,
A.P., M.P. AND J.P.,
Petitioner,
v.
TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION, MONMOUTH COUNTY,
Respondent.

T.P., petitioner, appearing pro se

Jeffrey R. Merlino, Esq. for respondent (Sciarrillo Cornell Merlino McKeever & Osborne, LLC)

Record Closed: August 4, 2017 Decided: August 18, 2017

BEFORE: JEFFREY N. RABIN, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.P., the mother of minor children A.P., M.P. and J.P., has challenged the determination made by the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, Monmouth County, that her children were not entitled to a free public education in Middletown Township because petitioner and her children were not domiciled in the Middletown Township School District. Respondent filed a counterclaim seeking reimbursement of tuition for the time period A.P., M.P. and J.P attended school in Middletown Township, that being one hundred eighty (180) days each during the 2016-2017 school year, for a total of $39,178.80, and seeking a finding that petitioner is responsible to pay tuition for her three children if they continue attending Middletown Township schools during school year 2017-2018 while they are domiciled in a municipality other than Middletown Township, New Jersey.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about January 2, 2017, respondent notified the petitioner that her three children, A.P., M.P. and J.P, were ineligible to receive free educations in Middletown Township School District due to non-residency. Petitioner, T.P., filed a Pro Se Residency Appeal with the Department of Education on February 24, 2017. On March 15, 2017, respondent filed an Answer and Counterclaim with the Department of Education. The Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 21, 2017, for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Each party requested and was granted a single adjournment of the hearing. Upon due notice to all parties, the hearing was scheduled and heard on August 1, 2017. The record remained open for receipt of additional documentation, which was received on August 4, 2017, and the record closed on that date.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts of the case are not in dispute:

1. Prior to April 1, 2016, petitioner and her three children were domiciled in Middletown Township, New Jersey, and two of the children, M.P. and A.P., attended school in Middletown Township.

2. On April 1, 2016, facing eviction subsequent to a foreclosure on their home in Middletown Township, petitioner entered into a lease for one unit in a two-family residence at 109 Lawrence Avenue, Keansburg, New Jersey, a location closer to petitioner's children's schools in Middletown Township. This is the address where petitioner and her children continue to be domiciled. Petitioner's Pro Se Residency Appeal certified that her address is "109 Lawrence Avenue, Keansberg [sic], NJ." (Exhibit R-1.)

3. After moving to Keansburg Township, petitioner enrolled her son J.P. in kindergarten in Middletown Township, which he attended for the entire 2016-2017 school year.

4. After moving to Keansburg Township, petitioner's son, M.P., attended fifth grade in Middletown Township for the entire 2016-2017 school year, and her son, A.P., attended ninth grade in Middletown Township for the entire 2016-2017 school year.

Residency

The issue is whether petitioner's three children are eligible to attend respondent's public schools free of charge in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. If not, the issues are whether respondent's request for tuition reimbursement for the school year 2016-2017 should be granted, and whether petitioner is responsible to pay tuition for her children to remain enrolled in Middletown Township schools while the family is domiciled in a municipality other than Middletown Township, New Jersey.

Any child between the ages of five and twenty years old is entitled to a free public education in the school district in which he is domiciled. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a). See V.R. ex rel A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Educ., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 287 (1980), aff'd, State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1533, rev'd on other grounds sub nom.; Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Educ., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982) (New Jersey requires local domicile, as opposed to mere residence, in order for a student to receive a free education).

A student is domiciled in a school district if his parent or guardian has a permanent home in the district such that "the parent or guardian intends to return to it when absent and has no present intent of moving from it, notwithstanding the existence of homes or residences elsewhere." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1(a)(1); State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955); In re Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991), aff'd, 311 N.J. Super. 589 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 157 N.J. 541 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1051, 119 S. Ct. 1357, 143 L. Ed. 2d 518 (1999).

The domicile of an unemancipated child is that of his parent, custodian or guardian. Somerville Bd. of Educ. v. Manville Bd. of Educ., 332 N.J. Super. 6, 12 (App. Div. 2000), aff'd, 167 N.J. 55 (2001); P.B.K. o/b/o minor child E.Y. v. Board of Ed. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). A child may also be considered domiciled in a school district if he lives with an adult domiciled in that school district, as long as the child is financially supported by that adult as if he were their own child, upon submission of a sworn affidavit to the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

A student may attend school in a district in which he is not domiciled, with or without payment of tuition, at the discretion of the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:22-2.2. A superintendent or administrative principal may also have a non-domiciled student removed from that school, on application to the board of education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2).

When a local board determines that a child is not properly domiciled in its district, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides a right of appeal for the parents as follows:

> The parent or guardian may contest the Board's decision before the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the Commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this section.

Petitioner stated that as of April 1, 2016, she and her family became residents of Keansburg, New Jersey, and were no longer residents of Middletown, New Jersey. Petitioner testified that on April 1, 2016, facing eviction subsequent to a foreclosure on their home in Middletown Township, she entered into a lease for one unit in a two-family residence at 109 Lawrence Avenue, Keansburg, New Jersey. This is where petitioner and her three children have lived for sixteen months, and where they continue to live. Petitioner's Pro Se Residency Appeal application to the Commissioner of Education dated February 24, 2017, handwritten by petitioner, certifies that she and her family have an address of "109 Lawrence Avenue, Keansberg [sic], NJ."[1] Because petitioner is domiciled in Keansburg, and her children are living with her and supported by her in Keansburg, her children are considered domiciled in Keansburg. In re Unanue, supra.

Petitioner sought to rely on the Educational Stability Act, N.J.S.A. 18A: 7B-12(c). That statute permits free public education in the child's last school district when a child has been placed in a new resource family home, or a child's parent moves to a new district temporarily due to homelessness. That statute is not determinative here, as petitioner's children were not homeless; as residents at 109 Lawrence Avenue in Keansburg, they did not lack a fixed, regular, adequate residence. M.O'K. v. Bd. of Educ. of Cresskill, 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2046. Additionally, that statute does not apply because petitioner did not move to a different school district temporarily; she entered into a formal lease for a home in Keansburg, New Jersey, and has now resided in that home for more than sixteen months.

The acts, statements and conduct of the individual, as viewed in light of all circumstances, determine a person's true intent. Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 521 (Law Div. 1959). The parent/petitioner has the burden of proving domicile by a preponderance of the evidence. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). In the within matter, petitioner did not challenge the respondent's conclusion that she was domiciled in Keansburg. Further, petitioner offered no evidence that her intent was to move back to Middletown; rather, petitioner displayed an intent to remain in Keansburg: she stated that she moved to Keansburg because it was more affordable; she executed a year-to-year lease for property in Keansburg; she has now lived in Keansburg for over sixteen months; and she noted that her Keansburg address is more convenient because it is located closer to her children's schools than her former Middletown address.

Additionally, one of the purposes of the Educational Stability Act is to ensure that a child's school year is not interrupted by them being moved from one school district to another within a school year. It is noted that while petitioner moved out of Middletown Township in April 2016, her children remained in Middletown schools through the end of the school year, and respondent has not made a claim for tuition for the last three months of the 2015-2016 school year. Accordingly, petitioner has already been afforded whatever protections and benefits she might have received pursuant to the Educational Stability Act.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE by a preponderance of the credible evidence that petitioner and her three children changed their domicile to Keansburg Township, New Jersey, in April 2016, that they were not domiciled in the Middletown Township, New Jersey, School District during the 2016-2017 school year, and that therefore they were ineligible to receive a free public school education in that school district for that time period. Additionally, I CONCLUDE by a preponderance of the credible evidence that petitioner and her three children are not currently domiciled in the Middletown Township, New Jersey, School District, and that therefore they are not currently entitled to a free public school education in that school district.

Tuition Reimbursement

The respondent Board of Education asserts that it is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition for the period of A.P., M.P. and J.P.'s ineligible enrollment in its schools. Where, as here, the evidence does not support the petitioner's claim for a free public education, the Commissioner of Education is authorized to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2(a), which provides as follows:

> If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the Commissioner are enforced.

N.J.S.A. 18A: 38-1(b) similarly requires that tuition be calculated on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance.

Tuition for J.P.'s attendance in kindergarten in Middletown Township was $65.59 per day, for 180 days, for a total of $11,806.20 for 2016-2017. Tuition for M.P.'s attendance in fifth grade in Middletown Township was $75.81 per day, for 180 days, for a total of $13,645.80 for 2016-2017. Tuition for A.P.'s attendance in ninth grade in Middletown Township was $65.59 per day, for 180 days, for a total of $11,806.20 for 2016-2017. Accordingly, the total of out-of-district tuition for petitioner's three children for 2016-2017 was $39,178.80.

Based upon the facts and the legal principles cited above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's children were ineligible to receive a free education in the Middletown Township School District for the school year 2016-2017, and that respondent is entitled to reimbursement for the costs of tuition in the amount of $39,178.80.

I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's children will continue to be ineligible to receive a free education in the Middletown Township School District as long as they remain domiciled in a municipality other than Middletown Township, New Jersey.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, respondent's determination that petitioner's children were ineligible for a free education in Middletown Township School District during the 2016-2017 school year is hereby AFFIRMED. It is ORDERED that petitioner, T.P., pay to respondent, the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, tuition in the amount of $39,178.80 for the 2016-2017 school year. It is further ORDERED that petitioner shall be responsible to pay tuition to respondent if petitioner's children continue to attend Middletown Township, New Jersey, schools while they remain domiciled in a municipality other than Middletown Township, New Jersey.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

Robyn Holmes, hereinafter referred to as the Respondent, is a tenured special education teacher employed as the Preschool Disabled teacher for Park Avenue School during the 2016-2017 school year. She has taught for twenty-six (26) years with an exemplary record.

On February 6, 2017, Assistant Principal, Ms. Devonii Reid, was notified by a paraprofessional that the Respondent had placed K.T.C , a non-verbal autistic student, under her desk. Ms. Reid entered the Respondent's classroom to assess the complaint and did in fact find K.T.C sitting underneath the Respondent's desk. At the end of the day on February 6, 2017, a meeting ensued with Ms. Reid, the Respondent and two (2) paraprofessionals.

Ms. Reid explained that the Respondent's action was inappropriate and reminded the paraprofessionals of their shared obligation to report inappropriate behavior that may lead to harm to students. Following that meeting Ms. Reid notified Dr. Paul Howard, Deputy Superintendent of Schools and Ms. Shelly Harper, Director of Special Services.

On February 8, 2017, a meeting was held with the Respondent, her Union Representative (not identified as NJEA or a local representative), Ms. Harper and Ms. Belinda Smiley, Human Resources Administrator. At that meeting Dr. Howard informed the Respondent that the Division of Child Protection and Permanency (CPP) was informed of the incident and has decided to conduct an investigation. Moreover, the Respondent was being reassigned to a position without student contact.

On February 10, 2017, Ms. Smiley submitted a summary of the February 8, 2017, meeting to the Respondent with copies to Dr. Howard, Ms. Harper, Dr. Myron Hackett, Principal of Park Avenue School, and Ms. Linda Siddiq , President of the Orange Education Association.

In that document Ms. Smiley indicated that the matter had also been referred to the Orange Police Department and that the District was awaiting the results of the CPP investigation. The Respondent was also informed that she is not allowed on the Park Avenue School premises and that she is not to contact staff, students or parents regarding this matter or for any other reason.

On February 14, 2017, Ms. Reid submitted a letter to the Respondent titled "Inappropriate Staff Conduct/Use of Corporal Punishment." In that letter Ms. Reid states in part that "this letter serves as a written reprimand for your inappropriate behavior and failure to exercise the professional judgment of an Orange Public School employee." Ms. Reid also stated that "this reprimand is based upon my observation of the incident, discussion with each adult in the classroom and your acknowledgment of the acts described in the reprimand."

Furthermore, Ms. Reid referenced what she had observed, and the actions of the Respondent were in violation of Board Policy 3281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct and Policy 3217, Use of Corporal Punishment. Ms. Reid also stated that a teaching staff member who is in direct violation of Policy 3217 "will be subject to discipline by this Board and may be dismissed."

Ms. Reid concluded by stating "This letter should serve to underscore the importance of complying with Orange Public School policies, rules and regulations. I must inform you that further disciplinary action may occur potentially resulting in dismissal."

The Respondent signed that letter and acknowledged the following statement: I acknowledge that I have received this written reprimand. I understand that my signature below does not imply agreement with this reprimand."

On May 25, 2017, the District filed tenure charges against the Respondent charging her with Conduct Unbecoming, violation of Policies 3211, 3217 and 3281 based upon the February 6, 2017, incident. The second charge filed against the Respondent was Other Just Cause and incorporated all statements in Charge One into Charge Two.

The final statement as part of the charges states: "The aforesaid facts demonstrate just cause warranting Respondent's dismissal from her position as a tenured special education teacher."

I was appointed arbitrator in the matter at bar on June 12, 2017.

RESPONDENT

MOTION TO DISMISS

On August 23, 2017, the Respondent submitted a Motion to Dismiss the tenure charges on the grounds that the charges are "precluded as Ms. Holmes has already been disciplined for the conduct that serves as the basis for the charges."

The Respondent argues that the following cases grant credence and support to its position that the tenure charges must be dismissed:

Jill Buglovsky, School District of Randolph Township, Morris County

DOE 265-9/12 (Decided December 21, 2012)

John Carlomango, School District of the Township of Hillside

DOE 180-8/13 (Decided December 20, 2013

Lawrence Henchey, School District of Borough of New Milford, Bergen County

DOE 322-11/14 (Decided January 3, 2015)

The above decisions stand for well-settled case law that an employee, here a school teacher, cannot be punished twice for the same conduct. The arbitrators above determined that double jeopardy attached when the above respondents were charged twice for the same offense.

In the instant matter, the Respondent received a written reprimand (see February 14, 2017 letter) and now the District has filed tenure charges against the Respondent citing only the February 6, 2017, incident. Moreover, under Title 18A the written reprimand has significant consequences.

Therefore, "the tenure charges filed against the Respondent are deficient and must be dismissed in their entirety."

CLAIMANT

OPPOSITION TO MOTION TO DISMISS

The Claimant acknowledges the above cited cases by the respondent but offers Richard Graffanino, River Dell Regional School District, Bergen County, DOE 223-9/13 as support for its arguments.

The Claimant contends that the "permissibility of tenure charges where prior discipline has been imposed turns on the timing of the discipline." (see Henchey,supra) Moreover, "a Board is not precluded from instituting tenure charges upon the same conduct giving rise to prior discipline where the tenure charges are filed contemporaneously."

In Graffanino the arbitrator held that the tenure charges were not precluded where the District previously withheld an increment for the same incident. The arbitrator determined that:

> "The District's approach was not an attempt to duplicate punishment; but rather It was an attempt to fill a gap caused by the timing of the tenure charges. In the Interval before tenure charges were filed and again before an arbitration decision would issue, the District wanted to ensure that Graffaninos' salary was not increased. It may have been an unnecessary move because the gaps in time were so limited, but it was not inflicting a double penalty on respondent."

The arbitrator in Graffanino noted that the Board had issued two forms of discipline concurrently, whereas in Henchey that Board had withheld an increment in 2013 for certain conduct and was attempting to revive those allegations nearly two years later. In Carlomagno, the Respondent had received a memorandum of discipline in December 2012 relating to specific conduct; the same conduct was raised as a count of tenure charges against him on May 28, 2013. Those tenure charges were filed five (5) months later but "the disciplinary memorandum in question specifically stated that further instances of this type of behavior will be grounds for more severe disciplinary action. Thus, indicating that the initial memorandum of discipline constituted the finality of the discipline for that conduct and that future additional conduct would be necessary to prompt additional discipline."

In Buglovsky the Respondent received a letter of reprimand on April 27, 2009, for inappropriate use of computer networks in violation of District policy. More than three (3) years later that Board raised the same charges for improper use of the computer network as grounds for tenure charges.

Unlike the cases cited by the respondent, the Board did not wait a significant amount of time to file the tenure charges or revive the incident to impose duplicate discipline. The fact pattern in the instant matter are wholly distinguishable from the Respondent's cited cases. In conformance with Graffanino the "Claimant here provided the letter of reprimand filling the gap, pending a determination regarding tenure charges."

Most importantly, from a "practical standpoint Respondent's interpretation of the case law would significantly constrain Boards of Education from addressing the actions of teachers during the period when tenure charges are being considered, prepared and certified. Especially in an instance such as this where the conduct of the teacher implicates student safety, District administration must be permitted to take Action to protect students and in doing so must inform the teacher of the allegations against them."

For the foregoing reasons the Respondent's motion to dismiss should be denied, and this matter should proceed to a hearing on the merits.

DISCUSSION AND OPINION

For the reasons set forth below, Graffanino is distinguishable from the matter at bar and is not controlling. The February 10, 2017, memorandum from HR Administrator, Ms. Smiley, to the Respondent summarized the February 8, 2017, meeting with Dr. Howard and others. However, there is no reference that tenure charges would be filed as a result of the February 6, 2017, incident. Additionally, the memorandum references that the Orange Police Department and CPP would be conducting their own investigations, and the District would await the results. There is nothing dramatic about that memorandum in that it does not indicate that the results of those investigations may be grounds for further disciplinary charges including tenure charges.

The February 14, 2017, letter from Assistant Principal, Ms. Reid, is much more revealing. The word reprimand is used four (4) times, and Board policies 3281 and 3217 are mentioned. Moreover, after discussing the use of Corporal Punishment, Ms. Reid states at the bottom of page one (1) that a teaching staff member who uses Corporal Punishment "will be subject to discipline by this Board and MAY be dismissed*."* (emphasis supplied)

On the top of the second page Ms. Reid states: "This letter should serve to underscore the importance of complying with Orange Public School policies, rules and regulations. I must inform you that further disciplinary action MAY occur potentially resulting in dismissal*."* (emphasis supplied)

The use of the word may in both sections of the letter clearly establishes that tenure charges were not being contemplated at that time. The use of the word further is exactly on point in the Carlomango case where the arbitrator said "the disciplinary memorandum in question specifically stated that further instances of this type of behavior will be grounds for more severe disciplinary action. Thus, indicating that the initial memorandum of discipline constituted the finality of the discipline for that conduct and that future additional conduct would be necessary to prompt additional discipline."

The Respondent had been disciplined via a written reprimand and thus cannot again be charged with the same conduct as a basis for tenure charges.

In Graffranino, Superintendent Fletcher told the NJEA representative "that he was going to withhold Graffranino's increment and file tenure charges. He was not imposing separate penalties, but rather a two-part disciplinary measure that was justifiable under the timing and circumstances." Contrast that with the instant matter. The affidavit of Dr. Howard and dated March 24, 2017, references the February 8, 2017, meeting with the Respondent and her Union representative in which she stated "...I specifically advised Ms. Holmes and made it clear to her that she MAY be dismissed from her position with the District upon the conclusion of the investigation." Dr. Howard also referenced the February 14, 2017, letter to the Respondent from Ms. Reid in which Ms. Reid advised the Respondent that she MAY be dismissed from her position.

Graffanino was mandatory; increment withholding and tenure charges. Here it is speculative and not done contemporaneously or concurrently. The incident occurred on February 6, 2017, and the charges were filed one hundred (100) days later on May 25, 2017. That defies the dictionary definition of contemporaneously; occurring or living at the same time, or concurrently; occurring or existing simultaneously or side by side. Carlomango was disciplined in December of 2012 and five (5) months later May 28, 2013, tenure charges were filed against him for the same infraction/conduct that led to the December 2012 memorandum of discipline. The arbitrator set that aside as being double jeopardy.

The Statement of Evidence signed by Dr. Howard makes no reference to any date of an infraction, violation of policies, rules/regulations, other than February 6, 2017. Another factor that has to be reviewed is the fact that in Graffanino, Superintendent Fletcher did not want that Respondent to receive any salary increase. That position is not found in the Statement of Evidence of Dr. Howard's affidavit.

The practical imperative of the Claimant's action was to deprive the Respondent of her due process rights by attempting to use the written reprimand dated February 14, 2017, as the basis for tenure charges. The Claimant has a high degree of comfort level but a careful review of its actions shows that comfort level to have a short life expectancy. If this was a case of progressive discipline incorporating additional infractions or policy violations, beyond the February 6, 2017, incident which would potentially lead to tenure charges being filed, the Claimant would have a basis for its actions. Nevertheless, the record is devoid of the continued vitality of the tenure charges filed by the Claimant. A mere scintilla of evidence to justify a written reprimand is wholly inadequate to support enhancing that written reprimand to tenure charges and dismissing the Respondent from employment.

Discharge is the highest form of economic capital punishment an employer can impose upon an employee. That action of the Claimant requires persuasive evidence to support the action. There were no sufficient or compelling reasons set forth by the Complaint to sustain the filing of tenure charges.

For the foregoing reasons, and having duly heard the proofs and allegations of the parties, I Award the following:

AWARD

The Respondent has met its burden of proof and the Motion to Dismiss the tenure charges is granted. The tenure charges filed against Robyn Holmes are dismissed in their entirety with prejudice, and she is to be returned to her position as a Special Education classroom teacher.

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

This Agreement is entered into by and between the BOONTON TOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION ("District") and WILLIAM HOLGATE ("Holgate"). The parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Concurrent with the execution of this Agreement, Holgate shall submit to the District's School Business Administrator, Steven Gardberg, a valid and binding resignation of his employment with the District (for purposes or retirement with the New Jersey Division of Pensions, Public Employee Retirement System) effective June 30, 2017. This resignation shall become binding and irrevocable once it has been accepted by the Board of Education.

2. The District will agree not to pursue the Tenure Charges that have been filed against Holgate as a result of and in consideration for Holgate's resignation and his compliance with the terms of this Agreement. The District has determined that, given that fact that Holgate is resigning his tenured position in the District, it is in the public interest for the District to enter into this Agreement rather than continue to pursue the Tenure Charge case against Holgate.

3. Holgate has been advised that, as required by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 (a) (6), the District will forward a copy of this Agreement to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, who in turn will forward the Agreement to the New Jersey State Board of Examiners for possible suspension or revocation of Holgate's New Jersey teaching certificate(s).

4. Holgate hereby agrees that he is entering into this Agreement with a full understanding of the terms contained herein and of his rights vis-à-vis this Agreement and in the Tenure Charge case which the District had instituted against him. He acknowledges that he had a right to consult with an attorney of his choosing with respect to his rights concerning the Tenure Charges and the execution of this Agreement, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly, voluntarily and without being under undue duress or coercion.

5. Holgate has no right to be paid for any additional monies by the District.

6. Pursuant to the attached General Release and Waiver, Holgate hereby waives any and all claims against the Board, its officers, employees, and agents arising out of his employment with the Board. Consideration for this Release exists due to the District's accepting Holgate's resignation from his tenured teaching position in lieu of the District pursuing tenure charges against Holgate. That Release is an integral part of this Agreement and is hereby incorporated into the Agreement.

7. Holgate agrees that he will have no right to apply in the future for a position of employment with the District, and that, should he do so in contravention of this provision, the District Board shall be legally permitted to ignore said application without any ability on Holgate's part to challenge or otherwise institute an action over the Board's failure to process or consider said application.

8. The parties agree that this Agreement shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, and that the laws of the State of New Jersey will apply to any dispute concerning it.

9. This Agreement shall be binding upon the parties, and may not be abandoned, supplemented, amended, changed, or modified in any manner, orally or otherwise, except in a writing of concurrent date or subsequent date, signed by a duly authorized representative of each of the parties hereto.

PETITIONERS,	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RANDOLPH, BERGEN COUNTY,	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. In this matter, the petitioners – the aunt and uncle of I.T. and S.T. – are challenging the Randolph Board of Education's (Board) decision denying the minor children a free education as "affidavit students" under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).[1] The ALJ denied the petitioners request for emergent relief, but found that the children are entitled to attend school in the District on a tuition basis pending the outcome of this case since the petitioners filed a timely appeal.

The procedural history of this matter is fully outlined in the Order on Emergent Relief and is generally not in dispute. By letter dated July 17, 2017, the Board notified the petitioners that I.T. and S.T. were denied enrollment in the District as "affidavit students" under [1] A review of the file indicates that the petitioner may wish to alternatively challenge the Board's decision to deny their request to have the children attend school on a tuition basis. If the petitioners want to pursue that alternative, they should file an amended petition.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).[2] In response to the Board's decision, the petitioners sent an email to the Superintendent indicating their disagreement with the Board's determination, but also stating that they would like to pursue the option of paying tuition for the children to attend school. Thereafter, the Board and the petitioners exchanged a series of emails regarding the details associated with having I.T. and S.T admitted as tuition students. The context of the emails included: the cost per pupil; the fact that payment is required upfront and no payment plans are available; that the Superintendent would share the petitioners' request to pay for tuition with the Board; and that the Superintendent would have a tuition agreement prepared for the petitioners' review.

On August 16, 2017, the Superintendent subsequently informed the petitioners that the Board denied their request to have I.T. and S.T. enrolled as tuition students. On August 17, 2017, the petitioners filed a residency petition with the Office of Controversies and Disputes challenging the Board's decision denying I.T. and S.T. enrollment as "affidavit students" under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). Despite the fact that the petitioners filed a residency petition, the Board refused to enroll the students – maintaining that the appeal was filed beyond the 21-day statutory period. The petitioners then filed an application for emergent relief seeking to have the students enrolled in the District during the pendency of the proceedings.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioners have failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The Commissioner further finds, however, that I.T. and S.T. shall be enrolled in the District free of charge during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner.

[2] The July 17, 2017 letter stated that if the petitioners disagreed with the Board's determination, they had 21 days to appeal the residency determination to the Commissioner, and that if the appeal was filed within the 21 days, the students would be able to attend school in the District during the pendency of the appeal process.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), if a board of education denies admission to a child between the age of 5 and 20 living in the home of a district resident, the resident may contest the board of education's decision to the Commissioner within 21 days of the date of that decision.[3] If the appeal is filed within 21 days, the child is entitled to attend school in the district during the pendency of the proceedings. Although the petitioners filed the residency petition outside the 21-day timeframe, the Commissioner finds that under the unique circumstances in this case, I.T. and S.T. are entitled to the protections of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

In light of the ongoing tuition negotiations between the parties, it was reasonable for the pro se petitioners to hold off on filing a residency petition in reliance on the Board's representations concerning the admission of the children on a tuition basis.[4] Moreover, as soon as the Board notified the petitioners – on August 16, 2017 – that I.T. and S.T. were declined admission in the District as tuition students, the petitioners filed the residency petition the next day – on August 17, 2017. In so finding that I.T. and S.T. are entitled to the protections of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the Commissioner is not only mindful of the extenuating circumstances in this case but also that the spirit and intent of the statute contemplates a scenario where children remain in school during the pendency of residency disputes.[5] See generally, H.S., on behalf of minor child, H.S. v. Melindo Persi and Board of Education of the Township of Edison, 96 NJAR 2d (EDU) 641. This statutory safeguard also enables children to attend school free of charge during the pendency of the proceedings which further exemplifies the desire of the Legislature to ensure that children are attending school.[6] If during the course of the proceedings it is ultimately determined that I.T. and S.T. are not entitled to attend school in the District as "affidavit students," the Commissioner will assess the petitioners tuition costs for any period of unlawful attendance in the District, a corresponding safeguard that is statutorily bestowed upon the districts in residency disputes. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

[3] In order to satisfy the requirements of an "affidavit student" a resident of the school district is not required to have legal guardianship of the child.

[4] After this matter was transmitted to the OAL, the petitioners obtained counsel.

[5] The parents of I.T. and S.T. currently live in Santiago, Chile. This is not an "affidavit student" dispute where the parents are domiciled in another New Jersey school district where the children are entitled to attend school.

The recommended Order of the OAL is modified accordingly. This matter shall continue at the OAL to determine whether the petitioners meet their burden of demonstrating that they have satisfied all of the criteria of the "affidavit student" law under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) and the implementing regulations. I.T. and S.T. shall be permitted to attend school free of charge during the pendency of the proceedings.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[7]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: 9/28/17
Date of Mailing: 10/06/17

[6] The ALJ found that I.T. and S.T. can attend school on a tuition basis until this matter proceeds before the Commissioner. There is no statutory or regulatory mechanism that provides for students to attend school on a tuition basis pending the outcome of a residency dispute. Therefore, if the residency petition is deemed to be timely filed, then it follows that the children are entitled to attend school in the District free of charge until the matter is resolved. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

[7] Pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1), Commissioner decisions are appealable to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

C.B. & C.C. ON BEHALF OF MINORS I.T. AND S.T.., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF RANDOLPH, MORRIS COUNTY,
Respondent.

Martin Liberman, Esq., appearing on behalf of petitioners

Marc H. Zitomer, Esq., for respondent (Schenck, Price, Smith & King. attorneys)

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners, C.B. and C.C., on behalf of minor children I.T and S.T. challenge the Township of Randolph Board of Education's (Board or respondent) residency determination. On September 5, 2017, petitioner filed a Motion for Emergent Relief on behalf of the minors to be enrolled in Randolph Middle School and Randolph High School respectively. In support of the motion, petitioner submitted a brief, certifications, letters, documents and copies of emails. Petitioner requested an adjournment of the September 13, 2017, hearing date with the consent of respondent. The adjournment was granted. Oral argument on the motion was held on September 18, 2017.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based upon consideration of the documentary evidence presented, I FIND the following to be the FACTS of this matter.

C.B. and C.C. are married residents of Randolph who have guardianship of their niece and nephew I.T. and S.T. by power of attorney. The parents of the minors live and work in Santiago, Chile. The parents wanted I.T. and S.T. to receive an American educational experience. However, they cannot afford to leave their jobs and travel to the United States with their other children. I.T. and S.T. are American citizens. Petitioners gratuitously support I.T. and S.T. with no contributions or payments from the parents. I.T. and S.T. will live with petitioners from August 2017 to August 2018.

Petitioners attempted to enroll I.T. and S.T. in Randolph Middle School and Randolph High School in July 2017. On July 17, 2017 I.T. and S.T. were denied enrollment by respondent because there was no evidence of family or economic hardship rendering the parents incapable of caring for the minors and that they would only be living in Randolph for the school year. On July 24, 2017 petitioners were sent an email from Jennifer Fano (Fano), Superintendent of Randolph Township Schools informing them that there were two different appeals options both of which had to be filed within twenty-one days of the denial. The email also states that if they chose to go the tuition route the tuition for grades 6-8 was $13,488 and the tuition for grades 9-12 was $14,378. On July 26, 2017 petitioners informed Fano that they would pay the tuition for the minors. Fano requested the academic and discipline records of I.T. and S.T. On July 28, 2017 petitioners applied for the children to be enrolled as full paid tuition students. On August 2, 2017, Fano emailed petitioners to inform them that the Board was reviewing the academic records of the minors. On August 16, 2017 Fano informed petitioners that their request that I.T. and S.T. be enrolled as full pay tuitions students was denied. Petitioners believed that I.T. and S.T. would be accepted as tuition paying students at Randolph and therefore did not file the appeal of the district's decision until after I.T. and S.T. were denied enrollment as tuition paying students at Randolph. On August 17, 2017, petitioners filed an appeal of the denial. In his response to the motion respondent stated that petitioners could appeal Randolph's denial of admission on a tuition basis. On August 28, 2017 petitioners went to enroll I.T. and S.T in school. At that time, they were told that they could not enroll the minors without the Petition of Appeal. On August 29, 2017 petitioners delivered the Petition of Appeal to the office of Fano. Fano emailed petitioners that the district had no obligation to enroll I.T. and S.T. and it did not enroll them.

Classes began in Randolph on September 7, 2017.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) and (b) provides:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statements, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner on the validity of the claim and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the resident in writing of his right to contest the board's decision to the commissioner within 21 days. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. In the event the child is currently enrolled in the district, the student shall not be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, he shall assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the resident, parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner;

(2) If the superintendent or administrative principal of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the > parent may contest the board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner;

> The provisions of this section requiring proof of support, custody or tenancy shall not apply to a person keeping a child in his home whose parent or guardian is a member of the New Jersey National Guard or a member of the reserve component of the armed forces of the United States and who has been ordered into active military service in any of the armed forces of the United States in time of war or national emergency. In such a situation, the child shall be eligible to enroll in the district in which he is being kept, and no tuition shall be charged by the district. Following the return of the child's parent or guardian from active military service, the child's eligibility for enrollment without tuition in the district in which he or she is being kept shall cease at the end of the current school year;

Respondent denied petitioners' enrollment for free education in Randolph on July 17, 2017. Respondent and petitioners sent emails regarding options for enrollment of I.T. and S.T. Fano sent petitioners an email on July 24, 2017 informing them of the cost of tuition for each child as well as the fact that there were two different appeals options which had to be filed twenty-one days after the denial. The email also discussed petitioners paying tuition for I.T. and S.T. and what the amounts of the tuition would be for each. Emails between the parties regarding tuition were exchanged through August 2, 2017. On August 16, 2017 petitioners were advised that the I.T. and S.T. were denied enrolment as tuition paying students. Petitioners appeal was filed the next day. It was reasonable for the petitioners to assume that the twenty-one-day period for filling the appeal would begin after the denial of I.T. and S.T. as tuition paying students. They were working with respondent to reach a solution regarding the enrollment of the children. They were not informed that the minors would not be enrolled as tuition paying students until August 16, 2017. Petitioners filed the appeal on August 17, 2017. In his motion respondent states that petitioners can appeal the denial of admission of I.T. and S.T. as tuition paying students. I CONCLUDE that the twenty-one day period to file an appeal of the determination of the Board that the minor children would not be admitted as tuition paying students began on August 16, 2017 and therefore petitioners filed a timely appeal.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) sets forth the standards governing motions for emergent relief. The regulation instructs in salient part:

> A motion for a stay or emergent relief shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):
>
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
> 3. The petitioner has the likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Petitioner has the burden of establishing each of the above requirements in order to warrant relief in his favor.

It is well settled that relief should not be granted except "when necessary to prevent irreparable harm." Crowe, supra 90 N.J. at 132. In this regard, harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages. Id. at 132-33. In other words, it has been described as "'substantial injury to a material degree coupled with the inadequacy of money damages.'" Judice's Sunshine Pontiac, Inc. v. General Motors Corp., 418 F. Supp. 1212, 1218 (D.N.J. 1976) (citation omitted). See New Jersey Dep't of Environmental Protection v. Circle Carting, Inc., 2004 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 968 (April 2, 2004) (finding no irreparable harm in connection with the revocation of respondent's solid waste license in that financial loss is generally insufficient to demonstrate this requirement). The moving party bears the burden of proving irreparable harm. More than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. Continental Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980). The requisite for injunctive relief requires a "'clear showing of immediate irreparable injury,'" or a "'presently existing actual threat; (an injunction) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law.'" Ibid. (citation omitted.)

In this matter the petitioners will suffer irreparable harm by not being allowed to be enrolled in school. School has already begun and petitioners' education is being affected by being denied access to education. The right for children between the ages of five to twenty to a free education is well settled in the statutes. The criteria that petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits is unclear. The petitioners state that the hardship of the parents of I.T. and S.T. is that they cannot bring their entire family to New Jersey because they have two other children and they both work. The hardship described here is not the type hardship envisioned by the statute and case law. The petitioner will suffer greater harm than the district if I.T. and S.T. are not enrolled in school because they will not be receiving an education.

All of the criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) must be met in order for petitioner to prevail on a motion for emergent relief. I CONCLUDE petitioner did not meet all of the criteria of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b) because they have not shown a likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that:

1. Petitioner's request for free tuition for I.T. and S.T. is DENIED.
2. I.T. and S.T. be enrolled in the Randolph School District on a tuition basis, pending the outcome of this case since petitioners filed a timely appeal.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Agency Dkt. No. 192-8/17

Dear Commissioner:

The Order issued on September 18, in the above referenced matter contained errors on page 2, second paragraph, first line reads, "C.B. and C.C. are married residents of Randolph who are the legal guardians of their niece and nephew, I.T. and S.T." This sentence should read ["C.B. and C.C. are married residents of Randolph who have guardianship of their niece and nephew I.T. and S.T. by power of attorney."]

Also page 7, the third and fourth paragraphs should which reads: "It is ORDERED that I.T. and S.T. be enrolled in the Randolph School District pending the outcome of this case, since petitioners filed a timely appeal. and It is further ORDERED that petitioner's application emergent relief be and hereby is DENIED." These paragraphs should be deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that:

3. Petitioner's request for free tuition for I.T. and S.T. is DENIED.

4. I.T. and S.T. be enrolled in the Randolph School District on a tuition basis, pending the outcome of this case since petitioners filed a timely appeal.

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

This matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 20, 2014, for determination as contested cases, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. This Settlement Agreement resolves all disputes.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached settlement agreement and the attached Board resolution.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore

ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 12751-17
AGENCY REF. NO. 196-8/17

A.M. ON BEHALF OF O.M.,
Petitioner,
v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MAYWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

A.M., petitioner, pro se

Stephen R. Fogarty, Esq., for respondent (Fogarty and Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 12, 2017 Decided: September 13, 2017

BEFORE EVELYN J. MAROSE, ALJ:

Petitioner, A.M., has filed an application for emergency relief pursuant to N.J.A.C.1:1-12.6, through which he challenges the decision of the Board of Education of the Borough of Maywood (Board) to retain his daughter, O.M., in Kindergarten for the 2017-2018 School Year.

Several hundred pages were submitted in connection with this application and the matter was scheduled for oral argument at 1:30 p.m. on September 12, 2017. Initially the District attempted to change the date for oral argument, but petitioners opposed the request and the date remained as scheduled. When the parties identified themselves, at the time of oral argument, for the first time it was learned that neither parent was in appearance, nor was counsel retained. O.M.'s aunt stated the O.M.'s mother was picking up other children at school and O.M.'s father was out of state on "emergency business", of which he was aware last week. Present were O.M.'s aunt and her husband, both of whom stated to have "power of attorney" to argue in lieu of O.M.'s father. Neither individual had filed a Notice of Appearance, identifying their relevant work experience or other qualifications, in a timely manner, with service upon the District. Considering the opposition of the District, and the detailed written submissions of both parties, I determined that oral argument by these non-lawyers would be inappropriate and that the emergent matter could be decided on the papers submitted. N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4. N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.5.

O.M. is a six year, ten month, old female who transferred from school in Albania to the District in January 2017 and was assigned to a kindergarten class. School in Albania was very different, with little focus on academics or structured social interaction, and with a less demanding day. For example, while Albania had a full day kindergarten program, the children were scheduled for a two hour nap every afternoon.

In addition to the expected language barrier issues, O.M.'s teacher soon determined that the O.M. was substantially behind her peers, socially and academically. Further, O.M. had difficulty with the change in the educational program from Albania to the District. It took the child several months not to "shut down" from educational learning in the afternoon, at a time that she would usually be napping for two hours. It took her several months to begin to understand the rules of the classroom, including taking turns, respecting the personal space and property of other students and following directions.

The District had on staff a paraprofessional, who was fluent in Albanian, who initially worked with O.M. daily and later on an "as needed" basis to assist O.M. in transitioning and foster communication between O.M. and her teacher. (Certification of Anxhela Ballolli, dated September 6, 2017.) Though O.M. improved somewhat from January to June 2017, she still would repeatedly refuse to complete any work in a group setting and at times refuse to even work one on one with her teacher. The teacher noted several incidents of O.M.'s failure to follow directions and procedures, including her refusal to stay with her assigned teacher during a field trip.

O.M.'s parents were informed on numerous occasions of the child's educational progress. In February, the teacher reviewed her work with the parents and discussed O.M.'s social and behavioral issues. She informed the parents that she was uncertain if O.M. would be ready to move to first grade by the end of the school year and highlighted some academic and developmental standards that had to be met for promotion. She advised the parents both verbally and in writing that no decision regarding promotion would be made until the spring. (See Certification of Mallorie Gilbride, Exhibit D.)

At the request of the parents, a parent-teacher-guidance counselor conference was held in March 2017. One to one, pre-school tutoring was offered, which O.M. attended on numerous occasions. O.M. teacher stated that did not initially propose pre-school tutoring since O.M. was having difficulty with even her full time academic day and started her school day earlier would further tire the child. (See Certification of Mallorie Gilbride.)

On April 24, 2017, the teacher advised the parents that she would be recommending that O.M. be retained in Kindergarten for the 2017-2018 School Year, rather than promoted to first grade. She also advised them that her decision could be appealed to the principal. The parents met with the principal, the guidance Counselor and the teacher on April 28, 2017. Although the District staff explained the factual basis for the recommendation, the parents vehemently disagreed with the decision. Accordingly, the teacher and principal agreed to reconsider their decision if O.M. showed marked improvement by the end of the school year. (See Certification of Mallorie Gilbride, Certification of Ray Bauer, and Certification of Michael Jordon.)

Since the District found no marked improvement, O.M.'s parents were advised that the District would be moving forward with its decision to retain O.M. in Kindergarten. Thereafter at the request of the parents, another meeting was held with the parents, district staff and the Superintendent, who affirmed the decision to regain O.M. in Kindergarten. (Certification of Mallorie Gilbride, Certification of Ray Bauer, and Certification of Michael Jordon.)

The District detailed the standards that it applied in making its determination.

> In New Jersey kindergarten students are required to demonstrate a satisfactory understanding of very specific academic skills . . .Teachers are required to perform specific testing to determine a student's ability to: (1) identify upper and lower case letters; (2) identify letter sounds; (3) recognize and produce rhyming words; (4) read high-frequency words; and (5) demonstrate comprehension of a story read.
> Similarly, for mathematics, we (teachers) must access the student's ability to: (1) count to 100 by ones and tens; (2) compare numbers and set of objects; (3) add and subtract within 10 dimensional shapes; and (6) form numbers correctly. As to the third academic category, writing, the following skills are assessed: (1) forming letters correctly; (2) spelling words phonetically: (3) using a combination of drawings and writing: and (4) applying conventions of grammar and usage.
> Students are also expected to demonstrate adequate abilities in three non-academic areas: listening and speaking, social development and work habits. As to listening and speaking, teachers are required to report whether the student has demonstrated an ability to speak clearly; express self well; and participate in group discussions. Concerning social development, six categories are individually assessed as follows: exercises self-control; respects property of others; follows school rules; respects rights and feelings of others; shows self-respect; and demonstrates maturity. With regards to work habits, a student's performance is documented in eight categories: (1) demonstrates ability to focus; writes neatly and legibly; (3) > follows directions; (4) works independently; (5) completes assignments in reasonable time; (6) assumes responsibility for personal belonging; (7) works cooperatively in groups; and (8) completes and returns homework on time.

> (See Certification of Mallorie Gilbride, Paragraphs 12-13.)

From January through June 2017, O.M.'s kindergarten teacher assessed her in the foregoing categories. As to social development, work habits, and listening and speaking, the assessments were done anecdotally through observations in the classroom and during free time. Academically O.M. was assessed by her classroom work and three times a year through specific assessments given to O.M. and her peers. Throughout her time in the District kindergarten, O.M. consistently demonstrated significant deficits in all assessed categories, which her teacher detailed via certification. Care was taken to ensure that O.M.'s unsatisfactory performance was not driven by a language barrier. As noted above, as necessary O.M. received aide from a paraprofessional who spoke fluent Albanian. In addition, at times, Jacqueline Helfricht, O.M.'s English as a Second Language (ESL) Teacher, provided instruction to O.M. specifically at her level of English understanding. It should also be noted, that numerous assessments, especially in Mathematics, did not require understanding the English language. (Certification of Mallorie Gilbride and Certification of Anxhela Ballolli.)

As an educational professional who worked with O.M. from January to June, O.M.'s teacher opined that O.M. is not academically or socially ready for first grade. O.M.'s scores, though somewhat improved from January, show substantial deficits in areas that are addressed in the kindergarten curriculum but not in the first-grade curriculum. The teacher noted that, "While I recognize the parents' apparent willingness to retain O.M. in June 2018, if she, in their words, were to "fail" first grade, O.M. would not receive, in first grade, the foundational skills necessary to ensure long term academic success that are only provided in a kindergarten classroom." Accordingly, kindergarten retention is necessary. (Certification of Mallorie Gilbride)

Via Certification, Elementary Principal, Ray Bauer, stated that after O.M.'s kindergarten teacher advised the parents that she was recommending that O.M. be retained due to concerns in the areas of academic performance, conduct and peer relations, he reviewed the teacher's recommendation together with relevant student records and fully supported retention. He advised the parents of this decision via letter dated April 27, 2017. On April 28, 2017, he participated in a meeting with O.M's parents, O.M.'s aunt, her teacher and the guidance counselor. The basis for the retention was examined and copies of O.M.'s recent were work was shown. (See Certification on Ray Bauer.)

Since the parents still vehemently disagreed with the retention decision, Principal Bauer agreed that were O.M. to show a marked improvement, the retention recommendation would be rescinded. The Principal also informed the parents of their right to appeal his decision to the Superintendent. On June 19, 2017, Principal Bauer, along with O.M.'s parents, O.M.'s aunt, the kindergarten teacher and the guidance counselor participated in a meeting with Superintendent. (Certification of Ray Bauer.)

Superintendent Michael Jordon certified that following the June meeting, he reviewed all relevant documentation and letters, together with O.M.'s ACCESS scores and affirmed the decision to retain O.M. Superintendent Jordon also confirmed that District procedures were followed in connection with the retention, including advising the parents in February 2017 that retention was being considered though no decision regarding promotion would be made until Spring. The retention recommendation was initiated by the classroom teacher, who then forwarded the recommendation to the Principal, who affirmed the recommendation. Then since the recommendation was appealed, the Superintendent made the final decision. (Certification of Michael Jordon.)

A.M. acknowledged that O.M. had difficulty when she started Kindergarten in the District. He affirmed that the new school environment was very different from Europe, where the children basically play and nap in Kindergarten. He acknowledged that for the "first couple of months" that she was in District, O.M. had difficulty with the "school rules." However, he asserted that O.M. has "come along way" socially and academically. She is not mentally delayed and he believes that she has learned

English in record time. A.M. does not see deficits at home and states that O.M. has good attendance and never fails to do her homework. (See Statement by A.M., notarized 9/7/17.)

A.M. notes that O.M. has parents, whose "care and interest is above and beyond." He is concerned that her teacher is simply not fond of O.M. because of her difficult start. He describes the child's desire to be a first-grade student and her distress over "this school thing." (See Statement by A.M., notarized 9/7/17.)

A.M. believes that the decision to retain O.M. was truly made from February 2017. He alleged that "every effort was not made" to ensure that that O.M. succeeded. He describes the ESL program as horrible, the pre-school tutoring as essentially non-existent, and the testing procedures used to access O.M. as unfair and contributing to her low scores. (See Statement by A.M., notarized 9/7/17.)

A.M. describes the District staff as arrogant in their dealings with the parents, and accuses them of lying. Among other things, he asserts that O.M.'s teacher would assert that things would be "all good" if she achieved something and then would add another goal. He alleged that the teacher initially told the parents that while she recommended O.M. be retained that the decision whether to retain the child was up to the parents. (See Statement by A.M., notarized 9/7/17.)

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, emergency relief may be granted "where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case . . ." My determination in this matter is further governed by the standard for emergent relief set forth by our Supreme Court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 102 N.J. 50 (1986), as follows:

> The judge may order emergency relief if the judge determines from the proofs that:
> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted.
> 2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled.

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of success on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the relief is not granted.

The moving party must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe v. DeGioia standard to establish an entitlement to emergent relief. Id. at 132-35. In determining whether the moving party has met its burden of proving irreparable harm, more than a risk of irreparable harm must be demonstrated. The requisite for injunctive relief requires a "'clear showing of immediate irreparable injury,'" or a "'presently existing actual threat; (emergent relief) may not be used simply to eliminate a possibility of a remote future injury, or a future invasion of rights, be those rights protected by statute or by common law.'" Ccntinental Group, Inc. v. Amoco Chemicals Corp., 614 F. 2d 351, 359 (D.N.J. 1980.)

The Commissioner has consistently held that local boards of education may promote or place students in public school grade levels according to their own rules and regulations. Shenkler v. Ho-Ho-Kus Bd. of Educ., 1974 S.L.D. 772, aff'd 1975 S.L.D. 1157; Boulogne v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Jamesburg, 1964 S.L.D. 107; Wilcox v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of Oceanport, 154-55 S.L.D. 75. See also: N.J.S.A. 18A: 4-24, which provides that while the Commissioner may inquire into whether a local district is providing a thorough and efficient education, "nothing in this section shall affect the right of each district to prescribe its own rules for promotion." Thus, generally, the Commissioner will defer to local board discretion in the area of grade level placement.

The Commissioner's view is consistent with the generally accepted notion that he will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>, citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966). The Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960)

Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Thus, at plenary hearing petitioner must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it. T.B.M. v. Moorestown, supra, EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

In the instant case, I FIND that there are numerous standards that are considered in assessing whether a child should be promoted from Kindergarten. The standards were presented in detail, by means of certification of O.M.'s Kindergarten teacher. While O.M. improved academically, socially and behaviorally from January to June 2017, she still showed substantial deficits in areas that are addressed in the Kindergarten curriculum but not in the first-grade curriculum and which are necessary to ensure long term academic success. In contrast, A.M. argues that O.M. has been under pressure since February 2017, regarding retention and is currently distressed about "this school thing." He notes that the child feels that she is ready to be in first grade and that she will be older than other children in her class if retained. I FIND that A.M.'s argument is speculative at best. The child is not qualified to determine whether she has met all the academic standards—socially, behaviorally and academically, to succeed in first grade. Further, she may just as likely be more distressed if her deficiencies in certain areas prevents her from having a successful first grade experience. In addition, O.M.'s parents have stated that if O.M. fails to meet the necessary standards to be promoted from first grade to second grade, they would not object to her retention in first grade. Such a commitment might be more distressful to O.M. that the acknowledgement that if she remains in Kindergarten another year, she will receive a stronger foundation to succeed in first grade. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not met her burden of proving irreparable harm if she is not promoted to first grade.

As in accordance with the above factual FINDINGS, I further CONCLUDE that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, petitioner will not suffer greater harm that the respondent will suffer if the relief is not granted. I also FIND that the District would suffer a harm, based upon its education obligations, if petitioner were promoted when the child was not ready.

I FIND that it is well settled law that promotion and retention are matters within the discretion of the local board of education, not the parents of pupils. The decision of a local board. in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, will not be overturned. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not met his burden in proving that the legal right under this request for emergent release is settled in his favor.

I further FIND that the District complied with its own policies and procedures regarding retention. In February 2017, mid-year, the teacher advised the parents that O.M. might not be ready to move to first grade in September 2017. She further advised the parents that she would not be making a recommendation regarding promotion or retention until the Spring 2017. The teacher continued to work with O.M., on a one-to-one basis and with her class, teaching her the core curriculum, which she needed to master to qualify for promotion. In late April, the teacher advised the parents that she had decided to forward her recommendation to the principal, that O.M. be retained rather than promoted, since her assessments indicated that she did not master the Kindergarten curriculum and was not ready to proceed to first grade. After O.M.'s principal affirmed the teacher's recommendation, the parents appealed the determination to the principal. After the principal, did not revoke his affirmation, the parents' appeal was heard by the District superintendent, who also affirmed the retention. I FIND that the reasons for the recommendation and affirmations were not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, but rather based upon specific District standards relating to language, mathematics, listening and speaking, social development and work habits. Thus, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not demonstrated a likelihood of success on the merits.

I also FIND that petitioner's arguments regarding Kindergarten being optional and regarding days in attendance during a school year are not on point. O.M. was not retained based upon the number of days that she attended school in the District. She was also not retained about an optional program. O.M. was retained because she did not demonstrate the proficiencies required for movement into the educational program of first grade.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not satisfied the standard for emergent relief.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the petition for emergency relief be DISMISSED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the Commissioner of Education, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

On June 15, 2017, the Board of Education of North Bergen, Petitioner, filed tenure charges with the State of New Jersey Department of Education against Respondent, Franky Flores-Perito, a clerk employed by the Petitioner, alleging that Respondent lived in Pennsylvania in violation of the New Jersey First Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14-7 which requires that public employees be residents of New Jersey.

On September 19, 2017, representatives of the Board of Education of North Bergen [the "Petitioner"] and Franky Flores-Perito [the "Respondent"] met with the arbitrator via conference call and discussed terms for settlement of these tenure charges. The terms of settlement were approved by both Respondent and the Board of Education of North Bergen on September 20, 2017.

The terms of settlement provide that Respondent was terminated from employment effective October 1, 2017. The Settlement Agreement also provides that Respondent retains her right to a pension, as well as accumulated sick and vacation pay, if any, and that the Board will not object to any application for unemployment benefits by Respondent.

Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6, the arbitrator is required to issue a brief decision approving the settlement of tenure charges and explaining why the arbitrator is approving the terms of settlement. I have approved these terms for the following reasons.

I am persuaded that the issues that were raised in the Statement of Tenure Charges and Specifications filed by the Petitioner and the Answer to Tenure Charges filed by the Respondent have been fully reviewed and discussed by all parties and that the issues raised therein have been satisfactorily addressed by the terms of settlement. The terms of settlement reflect an appropriate resolution of the charges leveled against the Respondent and will allow both parties to move forward without using valuable educational time and resources to proceed with the hearing in this matter. The Respondent's agreement to withdraw the challenge to her termination in exchange for the Board of Education's agreement not to challenge her application for unemployment compensation is in furtherance of the Board's objectives to comply with the New Jersey First Act N.J.S.A. 52:14-7 requiring public employees to be residents of New Jersey. I find that the settlement terms properly balance the interests of both parties, as well as the public interest, and provide a satisfactory basis for the resolution of any concerns that were raised by the Statement of, and the Answer to, the Tenure Charges that were set forth in the record of this proceeding.

Accordingly, and based upon all of the above, this will serve as the arbitrator's approval of the parties' settlement agreement.

IN THE MATTER OF FRANKY FLORES-PERITO, A TENURED CLERICAL EMPLOYEE EMPLOYED BY THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF NORTH BERGEN, HUDSON COUNTY	:	ADMINISTRATIVE LAW Docket No. 120-6/17
	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by the parties and their respective attorneys that this matter shall be settled in accordance with NJAC 6A:3-5.6 as follows:

1. Franky Flores Perito ("FFP") is a tenured clerk employed by the Board of Education of the Township of North Bergen, Hudson County ("Board") since 2004.

2. The New Jersey First Act ("Act") requires that all public employees appointed on or after September 1, 2011 be residents of New Jersey. NJSA 52:14-7.

3. On May 25, 2017, the Board filed with Hugo D. Cabrera, the Board Secretary, Tenure Charges and a Statement of Evidence against FFP alleging that she was a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania in violation of the Act and Board Residency Policy #4210 ("Policy"). Copies of the Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence were served upon FFP. Upon notice to FFP, on June 13, 2017, the Board approved a resolution certifying the charges by a majority vote of the full membership of the Board and suspended FFP without pay. The certified tenure charges were mailed to the Commissioner on June 15, 2017.

4. On or about June 17, 2017, FFP filed an Answer to the Tenure Charges. The Commissioner referred the matter to Joyce Klein to arbitrate the issue in accordance with NJSA 18A:6-16.

5. On or about June 13, 2017, FFP filed an Application for Exemption from the provisions of the New Jersey First Act. The Board filed opposition to this application. In that Application, FFP admitted that she resided at 185 Dover Drive, Bushkill, Pennsylvania (the "Property"). On September 12, 2017 hearing was held by the Employee Residency Review Committee of the Department of Labor and Workforce Development ("Review Committee"). At that hearing, FFP testified that she resided in Pennsylvania. The Committee denied her application for exemption from the New Jersey First Act on the grounds that based on the evidence presented and arguments made, FFP did not demonstrate a "critical need or hardship" which would warrant an exemption.

6. Based on the Board's investigation of this matter, and the submission and testimony of FFP for exemption, it is clear that FFP was in violation of the Act and the Policy. By way of example, the following events and/or documents evidence that by February, 2017, FFP was a resident of Pennsylvania for purposes of the Act and Policy:

a) FFP is the owner of the Property where she resides with her family.

b) By letter dated February 1, 2017, FFP informed the payroll department at the Board that she was moving to Pennsylvania permanently and was claiming exemption from withholding of NJ gross income tax (Exhibit 1). Her address at the top of that letter is the Property.

c) On February 1, 2017, FFP executed an Employee's Certificate of Nonresidence in New Jersey in which she declared, under penalty of perjury, that she was a resident of Pennsylvania (Exhibit 2).

d) A search of the voter registration website of the State of Pennsylvania indicates that FFP is registered to vote in Pike County, Pennsylvania and that her status is active (Exhibit 3).

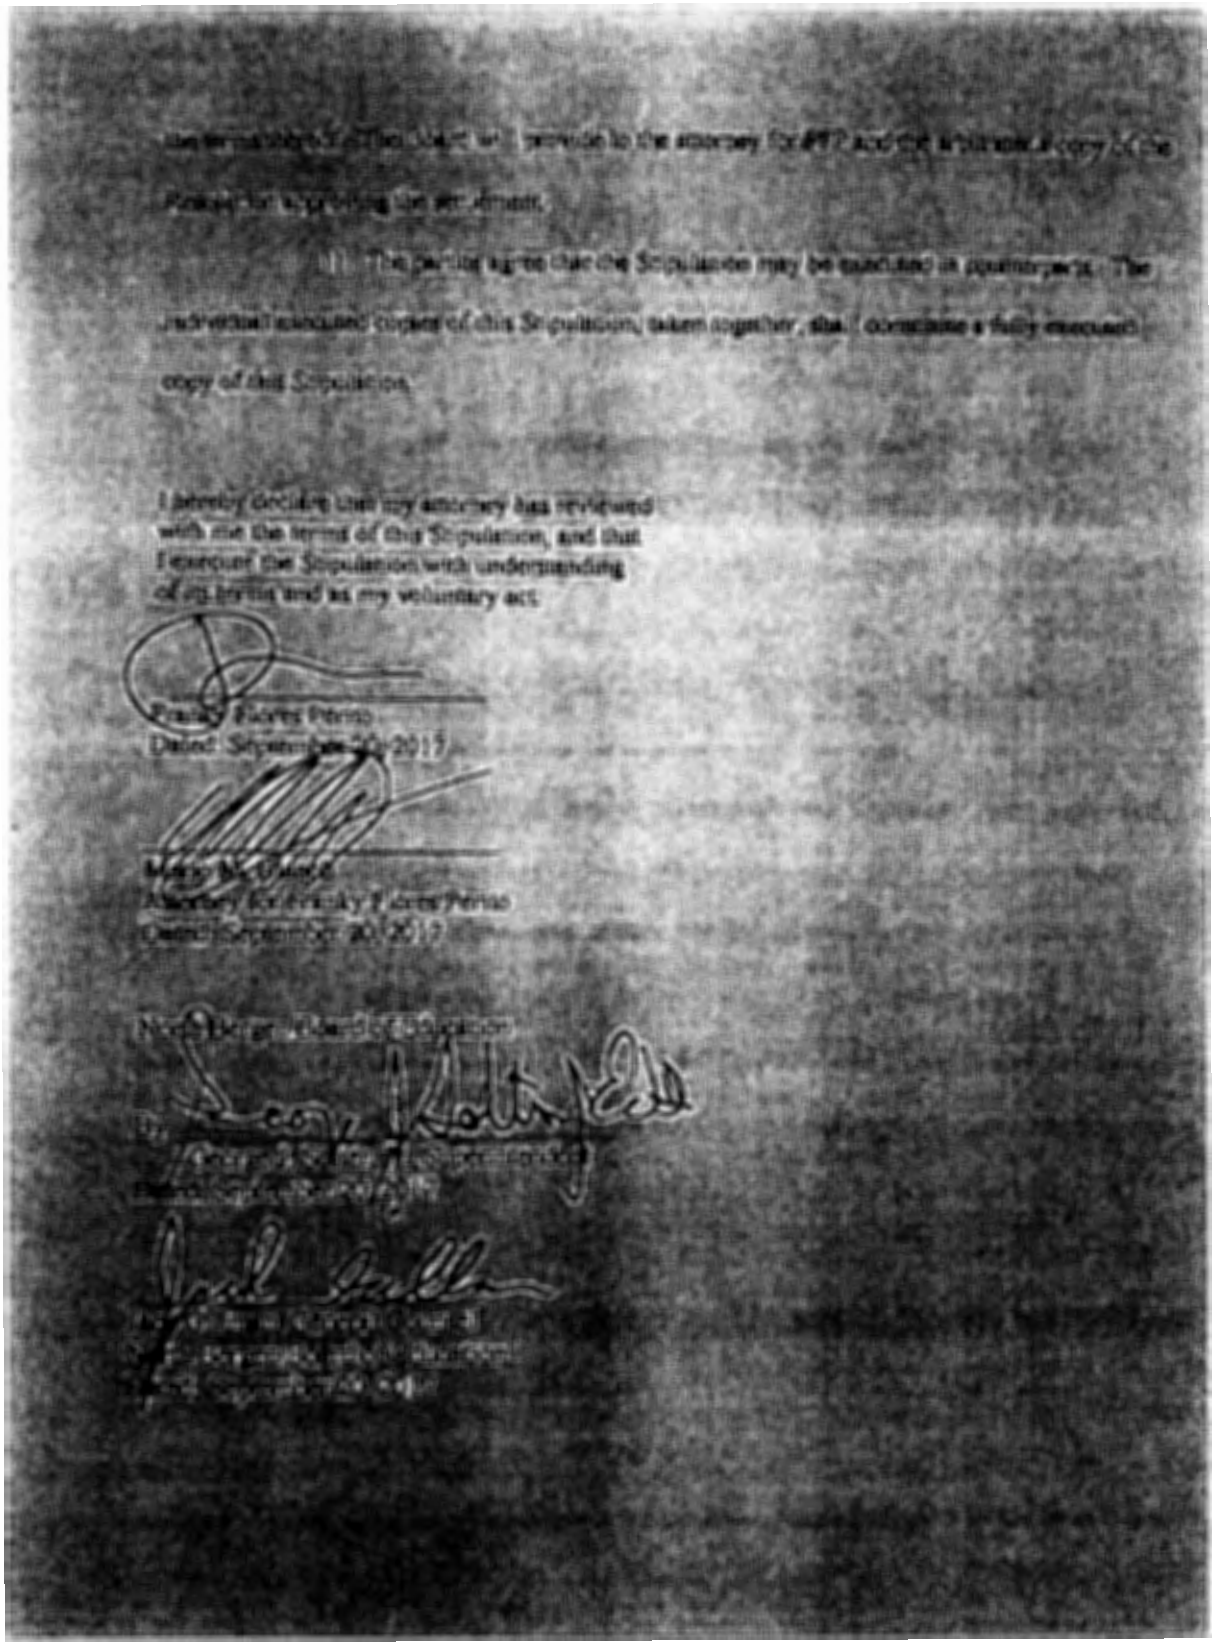
e) The Application for Exemption lists FFP's address as the Property (Exhibit 4), and at the hearing, FFP testified that she is a resident of Pennsylvania.

7. After the ruling by the Review Committee, the arbitrator and counsel for the parties conferenced the matter. All parties concluded that FFP could not comply with the Act and, therefore, was ineligible for continued employment by the Board. To continue with the matter through discovery and hearing could not change that conclusion.

8. As a result of the foregoing, the parties agreed that Franky Flores Perito shall be terminated from employment by the Board effective October 1, 2017. She will retain her rights to a pension under applicable law, and her rights to accumulated sick and/or vacation pay (if any) under applicable law and contract. To the extent that FFP is entitled to any reimbursement for sick and/or vacation pay, that determination shall be made by the Board and payment tendered within 45 days of the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner and arbitrator. As FFP was terminated she will qualify to collect unemployment benefits and the Board will not object to the collection of such benefits. Any objection previously lodged will be withdrawn.

9. The Act constitutes the public policy of the State of New Jersey and requires that employees be bona fide residents of New Jersey. Settlement of this matter is in furtherance of the public policy set forth in the Act.

10. This Stipulation of Settlement is conditioned upon and subject to approval by



I hereby declare that my attorney has reviewed with me the terms of this Stipulation, and that I execute the Stipulation with understanding of its terms and as my voluntary act.

YOU & ME PRESCHOOL, Petitioner, v. NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, DIVISION OF ADMINISTRATION AND FINANCE, Respondent.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW OAL DOCKET NO. EDU 04573-2013N AGENCY DOCKET NO. 208-7/12 CIVIL ACTION SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This settlement agreement ("Settlement Agreement") is entered into by and between Petitioner You & Me Preschool ("You & Me" or "the School") and Respondent New Jersey Department of Education ("NJDOE"), with approval of the court and the Commissioner of Education.

This matter involves You & Me's challenge of NJDOE's July 9, 2012 decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(c)(1)iii[1], to rescind You & Me's approval as an approved private school for students with disabilities ("APSSD") for failing to attain the required average daily enrollment ("ADE") for four consecutive years.

[1] This regulation has since been recodified at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.4(c)(1)iii.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.1, You & Me sought a waiver of the ADE requirement before the Commissioner of Education, which he denied on June 29, 2012. The Appellate Division reversed and remanded the Commissioner's decision on November 4, 2013.

On July 29, 2014, the Acting Commissioner issued a new decision, denying You & Me's waiver request. The Appellate Division affirmed that decision on August 31, 2016.

You & Me filed a petition for certification with the New Jersey Supreme Court that was denied on December 6, 2016.

You & Me then filed a motion for reconsideration with the Supreme Court that was denied on February 7, 2017.

During the pendency of this litigation, NJDOE became aware that for at least the 2016-2017 school year, You & Me educated students, ages three through 13, and operated one preschool disabled class and two autism classes.

For the past several years, including the 2016-17 school year, NJDOE records evidence that You & Me has been approved to educate students, ages three through eight, and to operate two preschool disabled classes and one autism class (You & Me's currently approved program). NJDOE also does not have records of an application by You & Me for the approval of any other classes or age groups.

You & Me contends that it understood its approval to be to educate students, ages three through 13, and to operate two autism classes, but has been unable to provide documentation in support of this contention.

The Parties understand that for purposes of this Agreement, all references to ADE shall mean ADE as defined by N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.1.

The Parties now agree to settle the above-captioned matter upon the following terms:

1. You & Me agrees to withdraw its appeal in this matter and release any claims and rights which were or could have been brought in the matter entitled You & Me Preschool v. New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance, Docket No.: EDU 04573-2013N, Agency Ref. No.: 208-7/12.

2. NJDOE agrees to withdraw its July 9, 2012 decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(c)(1)iii[2], to rescind You & Me's approval as an approved private school for students with disabilities ("APSSD").

[2] This regulation has since been recodified at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.4(c)(1)iii.

You & Me's Required ADE for the 2017-2018 School Year

3. You & Me must attain a minimum ADE of 16 public school placement students for the 2017-2018 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2018.

4. If You & Me does not attain a minimum ADE of 16 public school placement students for the 2017-2018 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2018, its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2018.

5. NJDOE will notify You & Me in writing whether the School has attained a minimum ADE of 16 public school placement students for the 2017-2018 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2018.

6. If You & Me fails to meet the minimum ADE of 16 public school placement students for the 2017-2018 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2018, NJDOE will also notify the School in writing of the rescission of its approval as an APSSD by May 30, 2018, pursuant to Paragraph Four, above.

7. Within ten (10)days of receiving notice from NJDOE that its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded pursuant to Paragraph Four, above, You & Me will notify its enrolled students' sending districts, in writing, that the School's approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2018. You & Me will copy the NJDOE, Office of Special Education Policies and Procedures ("OSEPP") on these written notifications.

You & Me's Required ADE for the 2018-2019 School Year

8. You & Me must attain an ADE of 18 public school placement students for the 2018-2019 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2019.

9. If You & Me does not attain an ADE of 18 public school placement students for the 2018-2019 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2019, its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2019.

10. NJDOE will notify You & Me in writing whether the School has attained a minimum ADE of 18 public school placement students for the 2018-2019 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2019.

11. If You & Me fails to meet the minimum ADE of 18 public school placement students for the 2018-2019 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2019, NJDOE will also advise the School in writing of the rescission of its approval as an APSSD, by May 30, 2019, pursuant to Paragraph Nine, above.

12. Within ten (10) days of receiving notice from NJDOE that its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded pursuant to Paragraph Seven, above, You & Me will notify its enrolled students' sending districts, in writing, that the School's approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2019. You & Me will copy OSEPP on these written notifications.

You & Me's Required ADE for the 2019-2020 School Year

13. You & Me must meet an ADE of 24 public school placement students for the 2019-2020 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2020.

14. If You & Me does not attain an ADE of 24 public school placement students for the 2019-2020 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2020, its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2020.

15. NJDOE will notify You & Me in writing whether the School has attained a minimum ADE of 24 public school placement students for the 2019-2020 school year, as measured as of April 30, 2020.

16. If You & Me fails to meet the minimum ADE of 24 public school placement students for the 2019-2020 school year, as measured on April 30, 2020, NJDOE will also advise the School in writing of the rescission of its approval as an APSSD, by May 30, 2020, pursuant to Paragraph Fourteen, above.

17. Within ten (10) days of receiving notice from NJDOE that its approval as an APSSD will be rescinded pursuant to Paragraph Twelve, above, You & Me will notify its enrolled students' sending districts, in writing, that the School's approval as an APSSD will be rescinded, effective June 30, 2020. You & Me will copy OSEPP on these written notifications.

You & Me's Required ADE After the 2019-2020 School Year

18. For every school year after the 2019-2020 school year, You & Me will be subject to the ADE requirements set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.4(c)(1)iv as long as those requirements are in effect.

Waiver of Future Claims

19. If You & Me's approval is rescinded under the conditions set forth in Paragraphs Four, Nine, or Fourteen, above, You & Me agrees to waive any and all hearings to which it is entitled pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.11. You & Me further agrees that if its approval is rescinded under the conditions set forth in Paragraphs Four, Seven, or Twelve, above, it will not oppose the rescission of its approval as an APSSD before the Commissioner of Education or any other forum.

Improvements to You & Me's Facility

20. Based upon You & Me's indicated desire to make improvements to its facility to accommodate additional students, NJDOE agrees that such improvement costs will be deemed allowable so long as You & Me complies with, and the improvement costs do not exceed, the regulatory requirements, , such as those set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.5 and 18.6.

You & Me's Approval to Operate

21. You & Me agrees that it will not apply for an exception to the age range and group sizes specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.4 through 4.7 for the 2017-2018, 2018-2019 or 2019-2020 school years. Following the 2019-2020 school year, any request for an exception to the age range and group sizes specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.4 through 4.7 will be reviewed in accordance with the procedures set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.9. This paragraph does not limit You & Me's ability to apply for other amendments to the School's program pursuant to the Amendment Procedures for Receiving Schools set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.3, which require the Department's approval. This limitation is not designed to have an impact on the applications to amend the School's currently-approved program provided in Paragraphs 22 and 23.

22. If You & Me wants to educate students over the age of eight for the 2017-2018 school year and beyond, within 30 days of the execution of this Settlement Agreement, You & Me must follow the Amendment Procedures for Receiving Schools set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.3 to seek NJDOE's approval to amend the School's currently-approved program.

23. If You & Me wants to operate anything other than two preschool disabled classes and one autism class for the 2017-2018 school year and beyond, within 30 days of the execution of this Settlement Agreement, You & Me must follow the Amendment Procedures for Receiving Schools set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.3 to seek NJDOE's approval to amend the School's currently-approved program.

24. Within 45 days after You & Me submits all required documentation and complies with all NJDOE request(s) for site visit(s) under N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.3, NJDOE will notify You & Me of its decision(s) to approve or disapprove the School's request(s) to amend its currently-approved program.

25. While approval of You & Me's request(s) to amend its currently-approved program will not unreasonably be withheld, You & Me acknowledges that NJDOE may deny You & Me's request(s) to amend its currently-approved program if the county office of education determines that the request(s) is/are not appropriate for approval.

26. If NJDOE denies You & Me's request(s) to amend its currently-approved program, You & Me may not deviate from its currently-approved program unless and until it receives approval from NJDOE to do so.

27. If NJDOE denies You & Me's request(s) to amend its currently-approved program, within ten (10) days of receiving that decision, You & Me must take steps to disenroll any students, whom are enrolled for the 2017-2018 school year, and whom You & Me is not approved to educate. Specifically, You

& Me must inform the sending district(s) that its/their student(s) must be removed from the School and enrolled in a new placement in accordance with the procedures set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:14-7.7. No placement shall be terminated until the sending district secures a new placement and enrolls the student therein.

Terms of General Application

28. This Settlement Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Parties and supersedes any prior understanding or representation of any kind preceding the date of its execution.

29. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement shall preclude NJDOE from exerting its regulatory authority regarding You & Me's program, accounting, financial reporting, or tuition rate setting.

30. There are no other promises, conditions, understandings, contracts or other agreements, whether oral or written, relating to the subject matter of this Settlement Agreement.

31. It is expressly understood and agreed upon by each of the Parties that this Settlement Agreement constitutes a complete and final general Release between the Parties with respect to any and all past and present liabilities, claims, demands, rights and causes of action, guarantees, claims for damages, settlements, costs, attorneys' fees, and compensation of any kind or nature whatsoever (whether derivative or individual in nature), whether known or unknown, against the Parties.

32. The parties agree that this Settlement Agreement resolves all issues between them arising from the July 26, 2012 Petition of Appeal.

This Settlement Agreement shall be effective and binding on the date that the Commissioner of Education approves it.

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner You & Me Preschool (now "You & Me School," hereinafter petitioner or You & Me) is an approved private school for students with disabilities (APSSD), specifically children on the autism spectrum located in Edison, New Jersey, and affiliated with and subsidized by JFK Medical Center. It was approved as an APSSD in 1992. At the time of its approval, the regulations required You & Me to maintain an average daily enrollment (ADE) of sixteen (16) students. N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-18.3(c)(1)(iii). Because the regulations were amended (and recodified) in 2004, You & Me was grandfathered from the then-newly enacted requirement of an ADE of twenty-four (24) students, however, any grandfathered APSSDs that fell below the ADE of sixteen would have their status changed to "preliminarily approved," and would then be required to re-attain that status within three school years, or its approval would be rescinded.

On December 18, 2009, the Department notified You & Me that it had failed to meet the ADE requirement and that its status was being changed to one of preliminary approval. Petitioner was advised that it must attain the ADE by the end of the 2011-2012 school year. You & Me did not increase its ADE to the minimum requirement over the next three years. On or about June 11, 2012, You & Me submitted a formal request for a Department waiver of the ADE requirement. Under cover of June 29, 2012, (apparently postmarked July 10, 2012), Acting Commissioner Christopher Cerf denied the waiver request. On July 9, 2012, the Assistant Commissioner notified petitioner that its APSSD approval was being rescinded effective July 1, 2012.

On July 25, 2012, You & Me filed a Notice of Appeal with the Appellate Division appealing the denial of the waiver request. On July 26, 2012, You & Me filed an administrative action seeking this administrative hearing and a stay of the rescission of its APSSD approval. On July 31, 2012, respondent consented to the request for a stay and the Commissioner accordingly ordered the grant of the stay until the underlying merits could be adjudicated.

On March 28, 2013, respondent filed its Answer to the Verified Petition of Appeal on the administrative action. The Department's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 3, 2013.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Honorable Imre Karaszegi, Jr., A.L.J., was assigned to the disputed case. Initially, plenary hearing dates were scheduled for November 2013. Prior thereto, both parties requested that the OAL action be placed on the inactive list pending a remand on November 4, 2013, from the Appellate Division to the Department on the waiver appeal. The Orders of Inactivity were continued from time to time from November 2013 through September 2016 during the pendency of the remand consideration, a second appeal, and a second decision from the Appellate Division. On September 15, 2016, You & Me filed a Petition for Certification to the New Jersey Supreme Court, which was denied on December 12, 2016, and a Motion for Reconsideration, which was denied on February 7, 2017. In the interim, a case management status conference was scheduled for November 2, 2016.

Prior to the scheduled conference call, Judge Karaszegi was elevated to the Superior Court of New Jersey and this matter was re-assigned to the undersigned. I maintained the scheduled status conference and learned from counsel that the petition to the Supreme Court was pending and that the school was open through at least June 2017 in light of the previous stay and inactivity orders consented to by the Deputy Attorney General for the Department. I monitored the matter and was advised on April 13, 2017, that the last appeals had been exhausted and that the respondent was prepared to file a motion for summary decision within the next week.

On April 18, 2017, I convened another telephonic status conference with counsel. With the consent of counsel, a briefing schedule was established for the filing of the dispositive motion. Respondent was to file its motion by the end of April; petitioner would have until May 26, 2017, to respond and file any cross-motion; respondent could reply by June 9, 2017, and if there is a cross-motion, petitioner could file the final reply by June 19, 2017.

On or about April 20, 2017, respondent[1] New Jersey Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance (respondent or Department) filed a Motion for Summary Decision before the undersigned in accordance with the above briefing schedule. In addition, respondent filed directly to the Department Commissioner a Motion for Emergent Relief, with a courtesy copy only to the undersigned. Under cover dated May 1, 2017[2], the Office of Controversies and Disputes confirmed that the Commissioner had referred the Motion for Emergent Relief to the OAL for determination pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and 6A:3-1.6. In light of the fact that the undersigned was out of the country May 2 through May 11, 2017, oral argument on the emergent relief application was scheduled for May 25, 2017, the first available date to which the parties both consented. After argument on the motion, both parties requested that I reserve on issuing a ruling so that they could discuss a possible resolution.

Under cover of August 15, 2017, counsel for the Department of Education, Division of Administration and Finance, forwarded a fully executed Settlement Agreement between the parties and requested that if approved, I incorporate same into an order. I have reviewed the record and the terms of Settlement Agreement and Release and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

---

[1] The moving papers incorrectly identify the Department as the petitioner. It will be correctly denominated the respondent herein.

[2] Apparently, an initial communication of the Commissioner's transmittal of the Motion for Emergent Relief back to the OAL was either lost or misdirected by the OAL.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged her removal as a School Occupational Therapist by the respondent Board for failure to maintain her Occupational Therapist license. Petitioner contended that she was entitled to, but did not receive, a tenure hearing prior to her removal. The Board asserted that it acted reasonably when it terminated petitioner because her license had lapsed. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; in September 2015, petitioner began to have medical issues that caused her to miss work; during this period of time, on September 30, 2015, petitioner's Occupational Therapist license lapsed; petitioner's license was not restored until January 20, 2016; the Board became aware that petitioner's license had expired, and voted at its meeting on January 14, 2016 to terminate her employment, effective the same day; petitioner was informed of this decision on January 15, 2016; pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.11(b), the lapse in petitioner's licensing required that she be terminated from her position; and petitioner's arguments that her medical problems should excuse her failure to maintain her license and that she should be entitled to a tenure hearing are without merit. The ALJ concluded that petitioner's Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was not restored until January 20, 2016; and the Board had no choice but to remove petitioner upon learning that she no longer possessed a valid license for the position she held. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and denied petitioner's cross motion.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner and the Board's reply thereto.[1]

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to consider the circumstances surrounding her health in rendering the Initial Decision. Petitioner contends that the ALJ inappropriately relies upon Shane Hunsicker v. Board of Education of the High Point Regional High School, Commissioner Decision No. 59-15, affirmed 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1147 (App. Div. 2016), because the facts of that matter are distinguishable from the instant matter. Petitioner was incapacitated during a "bona fide medical leave" when her license lapsed; she immediately informed the Board of her lapsed license; she did not assist students while her license was expired; and she renewed her license prior to her return to work date. On the other hand, in Hunsicker, the Commissioner noted that "petitioner had let his license lapse over a year before the tragic event, and had continued to work without a license for five years." Id. at 3. Although N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14 allows boards to terminate a teaching staff member without filing tenure charges for failing to hold an appropriate certificate, petitioner maintains that the ALJ failed to consider the circumstances involving petitioner's lapsed license, particularly that she did not assist students during that time. Petitioner urges the Commissioner to reject the Initial Decision and reinstate petitioner as an Occupational Therapist.

The Board argues in reply that it acted reasonably in terminating petitioner based on the loss of her license.[2] The Board maintains that petitioner became ineligible for employment when she allowed the required credentials and licensing for her position to expire. Further, the Board contends that the ALJ properly relied on Hunsicker, supra, because the facts are analogous to this matter. The athletic trainer license for the petitioner in Hunsicker had expired; similarly here, petitioner's required occupational therapist license expired. Although petitioner argues that her medical circumstances should have impacted the Board's decision, the Board points out that the Commissioner found in Hunsicker that a teaching staff member must be removed for failure to maintain a required license, regardless of tenure status or personal circumstances.[3] As such, the Board asks the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly expressed therein – that petitioner was appropriately terminated because her Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was restored on January 20, 2016. The Commissioner does not find petitioner's exceptions to be persuasive. Petitioner was required to have a "currently valid license issued by the New Jersey Occupational Therapy Advisory Council." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.11(b). It is undisputed that her license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was restored on January 20, 2016. The Board had the authority to terminate petitioner for failure to hold a valid certification, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14, regardless of whether she was assisting students during the period of her lapsed license. Further, it is mandatory for districts to remove individuals who do not have required licenses, as "the employing school district shall remove from the position any teaching staff member who fails to maintain the mandated license, certificate or authorization . . ." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c) (emphasis added). The regulation "provides no exemption for tenured individuals or hardship." Hunsicker, 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1147 (App. Div. 2016). As such, the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in terminating petitioner for failing to hold a current required Occupational Therapist license, since it is mandatory for districts to remove individuals who have not maintained their licenses.

[2] The Board also alleges in its reply that petitioner was validly terminated based on the abandonment of her work. The Commissioner notes that the Board would have been required to file tenure charges in order to pursue termination based on the abandonment of her position. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

[3] Additionally, the Board contends in its reply that petitioner stopped working without prior leave or notice and that she did not indicate when she was returning to work. The Board further suggests that petitioner "did not have medical problems; she was in the midst of a divorce and could not deal with same." (Reply Exceptions at 4) The facts as set forth in the Initial Decision indicate that petitioner suffered from "severe medical issues that caused her to miss work." (Initial Decision at 2) The ALJ also noted that "Petitioner continued her treatment successfully in Israel and was able to contact respondent, with a disputed degree of success, in order to keep them apprised of her medical status." Ibid. The Commissioner notes that the Board did not file exceptions to challenge the ALJ's factual findings and cannot instead do so by way of its reply.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Dorit Snow (Snow or petitioner), challenges her removal as a School Occupational Therapist by respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County (Board or respondent) for failure to maintain her Occupational Therapist license. Petitioner contends that she was entitled to, but did not receive, a tenure hearing prior to her removal. The procedural history and facts of this case represent the facts at issue for these cross-motions for summary decision.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The parties each separately argue that there are no contested issues of material fact and thus summary decision is appropriate for their respective positions. While partially true, many facts that are not in dispute derive from the core issue. Having reviewed the briefs in support of the motion for summary decision and opposition briefs and cross-motion, the few facts that are in contention concern issues that are not core to the issue of whether or not Snow maintained her occupational therapist license. As such, I FIND as FACTS:

Petitioner began her employment with respondent in 2007 and subsequently acquired tenure as an Occupational Therapist. However, in September 2015, petitioner began to have severe medical issues that caused her to miss work. Petitioner's parents, who are from Israel, were unable to remain in the United States to care for her and subsequently took her to Israel for medical treatment and support. Petitioner continued her treatment successfully in Israel and was able to contact respondent, with a disputed degree of success, in order to keep them apprised of her medical status.

It is undisputed, however, that petitioner's Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015. Respondent became aware that petitioner's license had expired and, at its' meeting on January 14, 2016, voted to terminate petitioner's employment based on the lapsed license, effective January 14, 2016. On January 15, 2016, petitioner was informed of the decision to remove her from the position. Petitioner's Occupational Therapist license was restored on January 20, 2016.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner cannot contest the fact that her Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was restored on January 20, 2016. Respondent became aware that petitioner's license had expired and at its meeting on January 14, 2016, voted to terminate petitioner's employment based on the lapsed license, effective January 14, 2016. On January 15, 2016, petitioner was informed of the decision to remove her from the position. Accordingly, I FIND, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that petitioner's Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was restored on January 20, 2016.

The issue presented by the respondent in their cross-motion for summary decision is whether a school board may remove a tenured teaching staff member from her position, without a tenure hearing, if she fails to maintain the required licensure for that position. Respondent further argues that Snow's conduct acted as a "voluntary or constructive quit." However, petitioner argues that she was "tenured" and in constant contact with the Board and thereby removal was not appropriate. I disagree in part with respondent.

LEGAL ARGUMENT AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), a summary decision "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." This rule is substantially similar to the summary judgment rule embodied in the New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:46-2. See Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). In connection, therewith, all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant and in favor of the party against whom the motion is directed. Id. at 75. In Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995), the New Jersey Supreme Court addressed the appropriate test to be employed in determining the motion:

> [A] determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The 'judge's function is not . . . to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but > to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial'.

> [Brill, supra, 142 N.J. at 540 (citations omitted).]

The purpose of the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, is "to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording teaching staff members 'a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service.'" Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 528-29 (App. Div. 1999) (quoting Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App.Div.1949)). Thus, generally, under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -18.1, "[n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public-school system of the state ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing[.]" N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10(a).

However, tenure protection has certain limits. Importantly, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 provides that:

> [t]he services of all teaching staff members ... and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect ... shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this Title, after employment [for the statutorily prescribed amount of time].
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a) (emphasis added).]

Furthermore, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14, "[the] services of any teaching staff member who is not the holder of an appropriate certificate, in full force and effect, issued by the state board of examiners under rules and regulations prescribed by the state board of education may be terminated without charge or trial[.]" Ibid. (emphasis added). And, under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1, "any person employed as a teaching staff member by a district board of education shall hold a valid and appropriate certificate," "the certificate holder shall obtain any license, certificate, or authorization required by State or Federal law, a licensing board, or N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.1 and 4.2 for the individual to serve in a position," and an "employing school district shall remove from the position any teaching staff member who fails to maintain [a] mandated license, certificate, or authorization." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(a), (b), and (c) (emphasis added).

In Hunsicker v. Bd. of Educ. of the High Point Reg'l High Sch., EDU 17519-13, Initial Decision (Dec. 22, 2014), adopted, Comm'r (Feb. 12, 2015) <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/2015/feb/59-15.pdf>, affirmed, 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1147 (App. Div. May 18, 2016), for example, the Commissioner of Education held that, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1, a school board properly removed a tenured athletic trainer without a tenure hearing because his required athletic trainer license had expired.[1] And, while the Commissioner noted that a personal tragedy may have played a role in petitioner's failure to renew his license, the Commissioner stated that he did not have any discretion to circumvent the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1.

As the Commissioner explained, "[t]he tenure statutes allow teaching staff members to remain employed pending hearings about their fitness to teach, administer or provide special education services under certificates issued by the New Jersey Board of Examiners," but "there is no statutory authority which allows a local Board of Education or the Commissioner of Education to retain an individual whose work [like an athletic trainer's] is also governed by the Board of Medical Examiners, and who has failed to conform to that Board's practice requirements." In affirming the Commissioner, the Appellate Division noted that, "[f]or employment as a school athletic trainer, the law clearly required appellant to have a valid athletic trainer license and a valid educational services certificate and school athletic trainer endorsement. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2-2.4; N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.1(a)-(b)," and held that "[a]ppellant's lack of an athletic trainer license effectively rendered his educational services certificate and endorsement invalid, thus making him ineligible for employment as a school athletic trainer, ineligible for tenure protections, and subject to mandatory removal. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2; N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.4; N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.1(a) and (c)."

Here, like in Hunsicker, respondent had no choice but to remove petitioner upon learning that her Occupational Therapist license expired. Petitioner was not entitled to a hearing prior to her dismissal because school occupational therapists "...are required to hold a valid occupational therapist license issued by the New Jersey Occupational Therapy Advisory Council...." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-14.11(b), Petitioner's license lapsed, and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14 and N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c) require that she be terminated from her position. While petitioner argues that her medical problems should excuse her failure to maintain her license and that she should be entitled to a tenure hearing, the Commissioner clearly stated in Hunsicker that a teaching staff member who fails to maintain a required license must be removed, regardless of tenure status or personal circumstances. This conclusion is unaltered by the fact that petitioner's license was reinstated shortly after respondent terminated her.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner's Occupational Therapist license lapsed on September 30, 2015 and was restored on January 20, 2016. Having reviewed the parties' submissions in support of, and opposition to, the within motion, I CONCLUDE that no issue of material fact exists on the issue of licensure and petitioner's appeal should be DISMISSED.

ORDER

It is therefore hereby ORDERED that the respondent's motion for summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that the petitioner's motion for summary decision be and hereby is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE DELSEA REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – a tenured special education teacher who has been employed by the respondent Board's school district since 1991– appealed the determination of the Board to terminate her employment as a part-time special education teacher in an alternative education program which is held after regular school hours. Petitioner alleged that she had acquired tenure in the part-time position, and sought reinstatement with back pay. The Board denied that it violated petitioner's tenure or seniority rights with respect to the part-time position. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts in dispute here, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; at issue in this case is whether the petitioner's tenure rights were violated by the Board when it declined to assign her to teach English in an after school program for the 2015-2016 school year; petitioner was not separately entitled to tenure for her time teaching English inside a classroom during her alternative education assignment as the position was "extracurricular," and the position in the alternative education program did not require any additional certificate; petitioner was not entitled to compensation from the extracurricular position because the alternative program's duties were not engrafted onto her regular duties as a special education teacher; further, the remuneration for her extracurricular service was established separately from her employment contract; and petitioner was paid an hourly wage for the after school assignment, not as part of her contracted salary. The ALJ concluded that petitioner has not met her burden of proof to demonstrate that she is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Accordingly, the Board's motion for summary decision was granted, the petitioner's cross motion was denied, and the matter was dismissed.

The Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

PAULA MELNYK,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE DELSEA REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Paula Melnyk, and the Delsea Regional High School Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto. In this case, the petitioner – a tenured special education teacher – alleges that the Board violated her tenure rights when it terminated her position as a teacher in the Delsea Regional High School District's (District) alternative education program, which is held after regular school hours.[1]

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that the petitioner did not acquire tenure in the alternative program teaching position because the assignment did not require a certificate separate from the one under which she acquired tenure in her teaching position in the general education program. The ALJ also found that the petitioner is not entitled to compensation as a result of her termination from the position because the duties of the alternative education program were extracurricular and were not engrafted onto her duties as a regular program teacher, [1] Since 1991, the petitioner has been employed by the Board as a full time special education teacher assigned to teach classes during the day. Beginning in or around 2002, petitioner was also assigned as a special education teacher to teach special education classes during the evening in the District's alternative education program.

nor were her salary and stipend treated as one. Therefore, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision and dismissed the petition of appeal.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner did not acquire tenure in the alternative education program position. The petitioner acquired tenure in the District as a special education teacher employed by the District since 1991 and the petitioner continues to be a teacher in the general education program. The petitioner's tenure protections, however, do not extend to the alternative education program position because it is well recognized that "no tenure protections flow from extracurricular positions unless the position requires additional certification." John Manley v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Old Bridge, Middlesex County, EDU 10644-04 (November 4, 2005), adopted by the Commissioner, December 19, 2005 (Decision No. 450-05) (citations omitted). It is undisputed that the petitioner's general education position and the alternative education program position both require an Instructional Certificate. Moreover, the two positions were sufficiently separate so that the teaching position at the alternative education program is clearly extracurricular.[2]

The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the stipend received by the petitioner for the teaching position at the alternative education program is not protected by tenure; therefore, the petitioner has suffered no reduction in salary. The petitioner is not entitled to compensation because the Board did not treat the stipend that the petitioner received for the alternative education program as an "integral portion" of the petitioner's salary. Instead the stipend was based on an hourly rate pursuant to a separate agreement, and as such, constituted

[2] It is important to note that if the teaching staff member taught exclusively as a teacher in the District's alternative education program, the teaching staff member could accrue tenure by virtue of the requisite years of service in that position. Under the circumstances in this case, the alternative education position was an extracurricular position for the petitioner that did not require any additional certificate and, therefore, was not a separately tenurable position.

extra compensation. John Manley v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Old Bridge, Middlesex County, Commissioner Decision No. 450-05, decided December 19, 2005. Finally, the Commissioner finds the exceptions submitted by the petitioner to be unpersuasive as they largely replicate the arguments advanced at the OAL, which were fully considered and appropriately addressed by the ALJ in the Initial Decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 12061-15
AGENCY DKT. 161-7/15

PAULA MELNYK,
Petitioner,
v.
DELSEA REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT BOARD OF EDUCATION, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,
Respondent.

Keith Waldman, Esq., for petitioner (Selikoff & Cohen, PA, attorneys)

Andrew W. Li, Esq., for respondent (Parker McKay, PA, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 29, 2017 Decided: July 12, 2017

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioner, Paula Melnyk, a full-time, tenured special education teacher in the general education program, appeals the determination of respondent, Board of Education of the Delsea Regional High School District, Gloucester County (Board), to terminate her employment as a part-time special education teacher in an alternative education program held after regular school hours, alleging that she had acquired tenure in the part-time position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Sometime prior to July 2015 the petitioner was advised that she would not be reappointed to the part-time position, and on July 7, 2015, she petitioned the Commissioner of Education for reinstatement to that assignment with back pay, as her tenure rights had been violated. On August 7, 2015, the Board filed an answer denying that it violated her tenure or seniority rights with respect to the assignment.

On August 11, 2015, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the OAL, where it was filed as a contested case on August 12, 2015. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On March 9, 2017, the parties filed cross-motions for summary decision. Briefs were filed on April 4 and 28, 2017. After a conference call on June 29, 2017, the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following FACTS are not in dispute:

Since September 1991 the petitioner has been employed by the Board "as a full-time special education teacher assigned to teach classes during the day." The petitioner, who holds an Instructional Certificate with "Teacher of the Handicapped and Elementary School Teacher" endorsements and "highly qualified status in English instruction," has tenure in her position as a special education teacher in the general education program. According to her 2014–2015 "Teacher's Contract," her salary was $82,874, and "[i]t is further understood that if compensation is to be made to the teacher for extra-curricular duties, such compensation shall be made to the teacher at the completion of the extra-curricular duties unless otherwise stated in writing."

In September 2002 the Board assigned the petitioner "as Special Education Alternative Program Teacher to teach special education classes in the evening." The alternative education program to which the petitioner was assigned was known as "BookBinders," which was offered by the Board in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.1 to -9.3.[1] Classes were held after regular school hours in the afternoon and evening. While the program was "separate and distinct from the already existing programs operated by the Board," "[i]ndividualized instruction to all pupils shall address the Core Curriculum Content Standards," and, "[f]or a pupil with a disability, the alternative education program shall be consistent with the pupil's Individualized Education Program (IEP)." As such, in order to participate in an alternative education program such as BookBinders, "[i]nstructional staff . . . shall be appropriately certified." According to the petitioner, her BookBinders assignment "require[d] an Instructional Certificate with a Teacher of the Handicapped endorsement."

With the exception of the 2009–2010 school year, the petitioner served in this position continuously until the end of the 2014–2015 school year. On August 7, 2014, the Board's superintendent, Piera Gravenor, notified Melnyk by letter that the Board had approved her for a position as "Bookbinders Teacher—English . . . [a]t a rate of $20.00 per hour" for the 2014–2015 school year. However, for the 2015–2016 school year, the Board assigned another teacher, Chelsea Glenn, to teach English in the BookBinders program, but not the petitioner.

The petitioner petitioned the Commissioner of Education for reinstatement to her BookBinders assignment with back pay, alleging that she had achieved tenure in her

[1] According to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-9.1, "[e]ach district board of education choosing to operate an alternative education program, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3, shall approve the alternative education program." Under N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3, "alternative education program" is defined as > a comprehensive educational program designed to address the individual learning, behavior, and health needs of students who are not succeeding in the general education program or who have been mandated for removal from general education, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-5.5, 5.6 and, as appropriate, 5.7. The alternative education program shall provide a variety of approaches to meet the State-adopted standards, such as, through non-traditional programs, services, and methodologies to ensure curriculum and instruction are delivered in a way that enables students to demonstrate the knowledge and skills specified for all students in N.J.A.C. 6A:8.

BookBinders assignment and that the Board had violated her tenure and seniority rights by hiring "a replacement teacher for Petitioner in her alternative school assignment effectively terminating Petitioner's alternative school assignment . . . at the end of the 2014–2015 school year."

The Board denied that it had violated the petitioner's tenure or seniority rights with respect to the BookBinders assignment and asserted that she "was not reappointed to an extra-duty position in the alternative program and she is not automatically entitled to reappointment in that position by virtue of tenure/seniority akin to any other extra-duty assignment."

The issue is whether the petitioner separately acquired tenure in the alternative education teacher position, such that she is entitled to reinstatement, together with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments of the position, with interest, retroactive to June 2015.[2]

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Legal Analysis

I. Summary Decision Standard

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

[2] The Board argues that the petitioner is barred by laches because she left the position in 2009 for a one-year period. The Board argues, essentially, that it reasonably relied on her failure to institute litigation to its unfair detriment. The argument lacks merit, however, because the petitioner was gone only a year and returned to serve for five subsequent years—indicating that she was in fact voluntarily "taking a break" as she asserts. Nothing in the record suggests that the Board declined to renew the petitioner for the alternative education program in 2009. She cannot be found to have failed to act on her rights when it is unclear that she previously had any rights that were violated. The petitioner argues that the Board failed to assert laches in its answer to the complaint and is therefore unable to claim the affirmative defense.

Here, there are no genuine issues of material fact, and this matter is ripe for summary decision.

II. Tenure Law

The purpose of teaching-staff tenure laws is "to aid in the establishment of a competent and efficient school system by affording teaching staff members 'a measure of security in the ranks they hold after years of service.'" Carpenito v. Rumson Bd. of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522, 528–29 (App. Div. 1999) (quoting Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949)). Thus, tenured teaching staff members "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

In order to acquire tenure, a teaching staff member "must comply with the precise conditions articulated in the [tenure] statute." Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). Thus, a teaching staff member "is entitled to tenure if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time." Spiewak v. Summit Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). Under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a), "teaching staff members,"[3] including teachers, principals, and vice principals, who hold appropriate certificates acquire tenure after employment for:

[3] A "teaching staff member" is defined as > a member of the professional staff of any district or regional Board of education, or any Board of education of a county vocational school, holding office, position or employment of such character that the qualifications, for such office, position or employment, require him to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate, appropriate to his office, position or employment, issued by the State Board of Examiners and includes a school nurse and a school athletic trainer.

> [N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1.]

These timeframes apply to "[t]he services of all teaching staff members employed prior to the effective date of P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.)," which was August 6, 2012. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(a).

> (1) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (2) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (3) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

Importantly, "the positions listed in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 are . . . separately tenurable," and "tenure is achieved in a specific 'position,' and the scope of the tenured position is initially limited by the 'certificate' the teaching staff member must hold to satisfy the prerequisite of qualifications for his or her employment . . . ." Nelson v. Bd. of Educ., 148 N.J. 358, 368 (1997) (quoting Ellicott v. Bd. of Educ. of Frankford, 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348 (App. Div. 1991)).

III. Were the petitioner's tenure rights violated by the Board when it declined to assign her to teach English in the BookBinders program for the 2015–2016 school year?

The issue is whether the petitioner acquired tenure rights with respect to her BookBinders assignment as a special education teacher where the BookBinders assignment was an extracurricular duty performed in the evenings that did not require additional certification beyond that required by the petitioner for her primary position as a special education teacher during regular school hours. In Dignan v. Board of Education of Rumson-Fair-Haven Regional High School, 71 S.L.D. 336, 341, aff'd, St. Bd. of Educ., 74 S.L.D. 1376, aff'd, App. Div., 75 S.L.D. 1083, the Commissioner held that a tenured teacher who was assigned to an extracurricular position as faculty advisor to the school newspaper had no tenure rights thereunder, because "a board of education has the authority to assign and reassign teachers to extra-classroom curricular duties in addition to their regularly-scheduled classroom-instruction assignment and to pay such additional remuneration as it deems reasonable and appropriate therefor," and, "absent a requirement for a certificate other than that of a teacher, no tenure status accrues to such assignments, and they are renewed or discontinued at the discretion of the board." Dignan, supra, 71 S.L.D. at 343.

Under the facts of that case, a tenured teacher, Joseph Dignan, was assigned by the school board to the extra-classroom duty of faculty advisor for the school newspaper as an "annual assignment" from the 1961—1962 school year through the 1969–1970 school year, and "was paid a sum as an honorarium in addition to his regular salary as a teacher." Id. at 341. However, after the school board declined to renew his assignment for the 1970–1971 school year and instead appointed another teacher as faculty advisor, Dignan claimed that he had tenure rights to the faculty-advisor position and the associated compensation. Ibid.

While the Commissioner recognized that Dignan had tenure as a teacher, and could not be dismissed from that position without cause, the Commissioner rejected Dignan's "claim to any special status or tenure as a faculty advisor for the school newspaper." Ibid. Instead, the Commissioner explained:

> [i]t is clear that [under N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4] a board of education has the right to assign and transfer or reassign teachers in its employ. . . . [Dignan] was relieved of an extra-classroom duty which had been assigned to him each year for a certain number of years. The Board was not obligated to continue this assignment for each succeeding year. [Dignan's] duties as faculty advisor were not permanently engrafted on his duties as a teacher, either by rule or by the terms of his employment. . . .

Thus, in that case, the school board "acted reasonably and within its discretionary authority in relieving [Dignan] of his extra compensation, and assigning that responsibility and extra remuneration to another member of the faculty." Id. at 346.

In contrast, in Ocasal v. Elmwood Park Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 623, a tenured teacher, who had both an instructional certificate and a supervisory certificate, also achieved tenure in his extra position as "staff development departmental facilitator" and was entitled to the stipend associated with the position because the additional job, unlike his teaching position, required a supervisory certificate and not an instructional certificate, and he served under his supervisory certificate for the requisite number of years.

Traditionally, "extracurricular" is the word used to describe school programs designed to enhance the education of students outside of the classroom, or regular curriculum, such as the school newspaper or athletics. See Smith v. Bd. of Educ. of Paramus, 68 S.L.D. 62 (stating that "extracurricular or cocurricular activities comprise all those events and programs which are sponsored by the school and may reasonably be characterized as a supplement to the established program of studies in the classroom in order to enrich the learning and self-development opportunities of pupils"), aff'd, St. Bd. of Educ. (Feb 5, 1969).

However, the definition of "extracurricular" also includes "lying outside one's regular duties or routine." Merriam-Webster Online Dictionary, "extracurricular," <https://www.merriam-webster.com/>. Thus, while the petitioner taught English inside a classroom during her BookBinders assignment, the assignment was extracurricular in the sense that it fell outside her usual duties as a special education teacher during regular school hours. Here, as in Dignan, and not as in Ocasal, the position was extracurricular and did not require additional certification beyond the petitioner's teaching certificate. Accordingly, the petitioner was not separately entitled to tenure in the alternative education position.

Moreover, Melnyk is not entitled to compensation for removal from her extracurricular or cocurricular position because the alternative program's duties were not engrafted onto her regular duties as a special education teacher, and, further, because the remuneration that she was paid for her extracurricular service was established separately from her employment contracts. Nothing in the petitioner's contract as a special education teacher required her to participate in the alternative program. Instead, for the 2014–2015 school year, she received a salary of $82,874 for her teaching position in the general education program, and she received separate remuneration of twenty dollars an hour for her extracurricular duty as an English teacher in the BookBinders program. Therefore, her compensation for her work in the alternative program was not an integral part of her contractual salary. Cf. Shriner v. Bd. of Educ. of Boonton, 75 S.L.D. 939 (finding that a tenured teacher was entitled to compensation as athletic director because the school board incorporated his stipend into his contract salary, and in all other ways treated the stipend as salary, and thus the stipend amount was protected by tenure even though the position for which he received the stipend was not). Consequently, as the petitioner's former position in the alternative program was neither engrafted onto her primary tenured position nor compensated as an integral part of her salary, the petitioner is not entitled to back pay or other compensation.

Conclusions

The petitioner did not acquire tenure in the BookBinders position because the assignment did not require a certificate separate from the one under which she acquired tenure in her teaching position in the general education program and was extracurricular. Furthermore, she is not entitled to compensation because the duties of the alternative education program were not engrafted onto her duties as a regular program teacher, nor were her salary and stipend treated as one integral whole.

Accordingly, because the petitioner has not met her burden of proof and demonstrated that she is entitled to judgment as a matter of law, her motion for summary decision shall be denied, and her petition shall be dismissed.

The Board, however, has met its burden of proof that it is entitled to judgment as a matter of law; therefore, its motion for summary decision shall be granted.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the motion for summary decision filed by the Board of Education of the Delsea Regional High School District, Gloucester County, is GRANTED, and the motion for summary decision filed by the petitioner is DENIED. It is further ORDERED that the petition be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her children are ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner and her children resided in Ewing prior to February 2014, when they were evicted from a rental property. H.M. acknowledged that her family then moved to an address on Carteret Avenue in Trenton, but contended that as of September 2015, they resided on Steinway Avenue in Ewing with H.M.'s sister. The Board asserted that the results of a residency investigation showed that H.M. and her family continued to reside in Trenton through January 19, 2016. The Board sought tuition for the period of ineligible attendance by H.M.'s children.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency ineligibility; the Board's residency investigation revealed that H.M.'s children were transported to school in Ewing from the Trenton address where H.M. claimed to have resided from February 2014 to September 2015; the testimony given by H.M. and her sister, L.M., regarding H.M.'s residency lacked credibility; and while H.M. may have desired to be in the Ewing School District so that her children could complete their education, she did not maintain residency in the district during the time period for which the Board seeks tuition reimbursement. The ALJ concluded that petitioner did not meet her burden of proof that the Board acted arbitrarily or capriciously in determining to remove H.M.'s children from the district schools. Accordingly, the ALJ denied H.M.'s petition and ordered that the Board is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner in the total amount of $10,366.62 for the period of ineligible attendance of H.M.'s children.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and petitioner was directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $10,366.62 for tuition costs incurred during the period when S.K. and C.K. were ineligible to attend Ewing schools. The petition was dismissed.

V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.[1] The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Ewing from September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor children were, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during this time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor children were ineligible to attend school in Ewing. Therefore, the Board is entitled to tuition reimbursement in the amount of $10,366.62 ($75.20 per day for 66 days for S.K. and $81.87 per day for 66 days for C.K.) for the time period of September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016, during which petitioner's minor children were ineligible to attend.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the November 21, 2016 hearing at the OAL.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. Petitioner is directed to reimburse the Board in the amount of $10,366.62 for tuition costs incurred during the time period that S.K. and C.K. were ineligible to attend school in Ewing. The petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: March 2, 2017 Decided: August 30, 2017

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter involves a residency dispute and a claim for reimbursement of tuition from September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016, for the two minor children of H.M. Petitioner requested a hearing. The Ewing Township Board of Education, Mercer County (District) seeks reimbursement of a total of $10,366.62 for sixty-six school days for each of H.M.'s children times the per diem rate for each school they attended while not residing in the district.

On February 2, 2016, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On November 21, 2016, the OAL conducted a hearing. The parties were afforded the opportunity to submit post-hearing closing memoranda. Respondent made a submission and the record closed on March 2, 2017. Extensions of time to file the Initial Decision were granted by the Acting Director and Chief Administrative Law Judge.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Prior to February 2014, H.M. and her children resided in Ewing Township, Mercer County. In February 2014, H.M. and her children no longer resided on Lower Ferry Road, Ewing. She denied homelessness. In September 2015, H.M. claimed her residence at XX Steinway Avenue, Ewing. This address is H.M.'s sister's address in Ewing. She claims her sister accommodates her residence there without a lease or payment. H.M. acknowledges there are no household bills in her name at the Steinway Avenue address. H.M. testified that a few days a week her children either shared a room or slept on the couch at the Steinway Avenue address. From February 2014 through September 2015, H.M. claims to have resided at XXX Carteret Avenue in Trenton. H.M. did not notify the District of her Trenton address, however, she registered her children in September 2014 and September 2015 as residing in Ewing.

L.M., H.M.'s sister, testified that she lived with her at times over the past ten years. They had confusion regarding the residency. The address at XX Steinway Avenue is a two-family house. Also residing there were L.M.'s son and his fiancée and their two children. H.M. fully moved out as of February 2016. She claimed the investigation only occurred for ten days.

David Mikalauskas, the district attendance and residency officer, noted the February 2014 eviction from the Lower Ferry Road address when he first started to investigate petitioner's residency. They did not take H.M. off the rolls of residents until the 2015/16 school year, at which time an investigation commenced. He testified that the daily rates for Ewing High School and Fisher Middle School reimbursement is based on the annual amount of $13,762 and $14,984 respectively. There are 183 school days in a year. v So the per diem reimbursement amount is $75.20 and $81.87, respectively. He testified that the time period the district seeks reimbursement is sixty-six days from September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016. These amounts total $4,963 and $5,403.42, respectively for a total amount for both students of $10,366.62.

Peter L. Manetto, Jr. testified to part-time employment with the District. He commenced an investigation of H.M.'s residence on September 30, 2015, at XXX Carteret Avenue, Trenton. He surveilled the location on ten separate days through November 3, 2015. H.M.'s children on nine of the ten surveillance days left the Carteret Avenue property and arrived at the Ewing High School and Fisher Middle School driven by H.M. on at least six of those occasions in a vehicle registered in her name showing the address at Steinway Avenue, Ewing.

H.M. and her sister tried to explain that the children reside at the Steinway address, however, this tribunal cannot accept their testimonies as explanations for the facts that on nine of ten occasions during an approximate twenty-five school day period H.M.'s children traveled from the Carteret Avenue location to the Ewing schools.

After consideration of the documentary evidence and testimony of the witnesses, I FIND as FACT the following:

1. Prior to February 2014, H.M. and her children resided in Ewing Township, Mercer County.

2. H.M.'s children respectively attended Fisher Middle School and Ewing High School during the time period reimbursement is sought.

3. H.M. acknowledged that from February 2014 through September 2015, H.M. resided at XXX Carteret Avenue in Trenton.

4. H.M. did not notify the District of her Trenton address, however, she registered her children in September 2014 and September 2015 as residing in Ewing.

5. The district commenced an investigation at sometime in September 2015 of the residency of H.M. and her children.

6. The investigation (R-1) reveals that nine of twenty-five school days during the period from September 30, 2015 through November 4, 2015, H.M.'s children were dropped off at the Ewing schools from a location in Trenton where she claims to have resided from February 2014 through September 2015.

7. H.M.'s children resided in Trenton from September 30, 2015, until she removed herself from the district on January 16, 2016, a period of sixty-six school days.

8. Respondent's reimbursable tuition for Ewing High School is $75.20 per day, for Fisher Middle School is $81.87 per day.

9. The time period for which tuition is sought is sixty-six school days

10. The total reimbursable tuition is $5,403.42 for C.K.; and $4,963.20 for S.K., for a total of $10,366.62.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner has the burden of proof in a determination of residency ineligibility N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Here petitioner complains of the finding of the District but cannot dispute the investigative report that a substantial time in October 2015, her children were taken to the school from out of the district. The location was the residence petitioner claimed she resided at until the start of the investigation. While she may have desired to be in the Ewing District to finish her children's education, she did not maintain residency within the district during the time period the District seeks reimbursement.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE petitioner has not met her burden of proof that the District acted arbitrarily or capriciously in determining to remove H.M. from the residency roll of Ewing School District and seek tuition reimbursement during the time from September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016.

I CONCLUDE petitioner has not met her burden of proof that she resided within the district during the time from September 30, 2015 through January 19, 2016.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the petition is DENIED based upon petitioner's failure to meet her burden of proof that the District acted arbitrarily or capriciously in disputing H.M.'s residency and entitlement to reimbursement.

It is ORDERED the respondent is entitled to be reimbursed from petitioner the amount of $10,366.62 for tuition for her two children for a total of sixty-six days.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY.	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On June 29, 2017, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner adopted the Administrative Law Judge's finding that C.E. was not a domiciliary of West Orange during the 2016-2017 school year, and therefore, K.E. was not entitled to a free education in the District's schools during that time. The Commissioner assessed petitioner, Corey Ellington, $17,069.00 in tuition costs, to be reimbursed to the West Orange Board of Education for K.E.'s period of ineligible attendance in the District's schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that petitioner had failed to reimburse respondent as directed in the final decision, and has requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Petitioner offered no reasons why the judgment against him should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity to do so by this agency.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Corey Ellington is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $17,069.00, which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

Introduction

This matter arises from tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a staff member against teacher Iman Jones, (Respondent) by the State Operated School District of The City of Newark, Essex County (the District) and a June 16, 2017 referral of the tenure charges to the undersigned by the New Jersey Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes pursuant to P.L. 2012, c. 26 as amended by P.L. 2015, c. 109.

The hearing in this matter was conducted on July 24, August 21, 25 and 28, 2017 in Newark, New Jersey. All parties were afforded the opportunity for argument, examination and cross-examination of witnesses and the introduction of relevant exhibits. Respondent Iman Jones was present for the entire hearing and testified on her own behalf. At the close of the hearing on August 28, 2017, the parties elected to submit written closing argument, upon the receipt of which by the arbitrator on September 29, 2017 the matter was deemed submitted.

This Decision is made following careful consideration of the entire record in the matter, including the under-sign's observations of the demeanor of all witnesses.

Issues

The issues presented in this matter may be accurately stated as follows:

> Has the District met its burden of establishing the truth of its conduct unbecoming tenure charges against Respondent, and (a) if so, what is the appropriate penalty, if any, and (b) if not, what is the appropriate remedy?

The Tenure Charge

The tenure charges in this matter were certified by the State District Superintendent of the State Operated School District of The City of Newark Christopher Cerf on May 11, 2017. The related March 24, 2017 Notice of Tenure Charges to Iman

Jones focuses primarily upon a May 5, 2015[1] incident involving Students A and Z[2] in Respondent's classroom and provides in relevant part:

> PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that H. Grady James, IV Principal of Hawthorne Avenue School, hereby files charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against Iman Jones ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher employed by the State-operated School District of the City of Newark ("School District"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 AND N.J.S.A. 6A:3-5.1.
>
> CHARGE ONE: UNBECOMING CONDUCT
>
> 1. Respondent has engaged in conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member. Specifically, Respondent has committed the following acts that constitute unbecoming conduct:
>
> 2. On May 5, 2015 two first-grade students in Respondent's class at Hawthorne Avenue School, A.B. and Z.T., were running around the classroom and engaging in horseplay near Respondent's desk. During the horseplay while running around, student A.B. cut student Z.T. on his scalp with a razor. Student A.B. had obtained the razor in, on or near Respondent's desk.
>
> 3. At the time of the incident in which student A.B cut student Z.T. with the razor, Respondent was standing in the doorway of the classroom, using her cellphone and not paying attention to the students. Respondent was unaware of the occurrence and unaware of Z.T.'s injury until Z.T. approached her with blood running down his face and his hand on his head.
>
> 4. Z.T. was taken to the school nurse, who administered emergency medical treatment. An ambulance was called, Z.T.'s parent was contacted, the Newark Police Department was advised of the incident. Z.T.'s parent was advised to take Z.T. to the hospital for treatment. Z.T. was taken to the hospital and there received treatment, including sutures and stitches.
>
> 5. The School District reported the incident to the New Jersey Department of Children and Families, Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit ("IAIU"). IAIU investigated the incident and determined that "neglect/inadequate supervision is established regarding [Respondent's] action, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21" and that A.B. and Z.T. were neglected children.
>
> 6. By engaging in the conduct set forth above, Respondent exercised extremely poor judgment and careless, reckless and wanton disregard for her students, such that Respondent cannot be trusted with the supervision of students. For these reasons, Respondent's behavior

[1] All dates are 2015 unless otherwise indicated.

[2] Students are herein identified by their first initial.

was conduct unbecoming a member of the professional staff of the School District.

7. By engaging in the conduct set forth above, Respondent failed to carry out her duty to protect the safety and well being of students, and put one or more students at substantial risk of harm. For this reason, Respondent's behavior was conduct unbecoming a member of the professional staff of the School District.

8. Respondent's conduct set forth above is contrary to that which the School District may reasonably expect of members of its professional staff, resulted in physical injury to a student, provided a poor role model for students, and is damaging to the reputation of the School District. For these reasons, Respondent's behavior was conduct unbecoming a member of the professional staff of the School District.

TENURE CHARGE TWO: OTHER JUST CAUSE

9. The School District repeats and realleges the facts set forth in paragraphs 1 to 8 above.

10. The acts and omissions described above constitute other just cause for dismissal of a tenured teaching staff member.

WHEREFORE, the undersigned hereby requests the following relief:

a. Dismissal of Respondent from the position in which she has tenure in the School District;

b. Suspension of Respondent without pay, pending review and consideration of these charges; and

c. Such further relief as may be authorized by law and deemed equitable by the State District Superintendent, the Commissioner of Education and any assigned arbitrator.

District Evidence

As fact witnesses the District presented Hawthorne Avenue School Principal Henry Grady James, IV; Vice Principal Terry Lane; Hawthorne Avenue School nurse Karen Wenson ; District's Manager of Compliance and Tenure at the time Michelle Takyi and the District's Special Assistant for Teacher Quality at the time Havier Nazario.

Nazario testified that the District has a policy - reviewed with staff annually on organization day – that teachers are responsible for supervising their students and maintaining such supervision at all times. He testified that the general policy relating to adult use of cell phones in schools is that the phones should be kept on silent, that they can be used for emergencies and that it is not considered an appropriate classroom management technique for teachers to telephone the parents of students during class and in front of other students for student-behavior purposes. Such use of a cell phone, Nazario testified, degrades the authority of the teacher in the eyes of students and cannot be accomplished without diverting the attention of the teacher from the students. Nazario also explained that other District policies are also reviewed at the beginning of the year staff meetings including those relating to accident responses and injuries by weapons responses.

A razor blade is considered a weapon, Nazario testified, and he recalled receiving a call about the May 5 incident late in the day of the 5th from vice principal Lane during which the vice principal reported there had been a serious injury; that a student had been cut in the head and that at the time Respondent was not in the classroom and was on her cell phone. Vice principal Lane also reported that the police had been called and that the student and student's parents were on the way to the hospital in an ambulance. According to Nazario, he instructed Lane to write up an incident report and the matter was reported to the New Jersey Department of Children and Families, Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU). Nazario explained that the District Talent Office immediately determined to remove Respondent from the classroom pending the IAIU and subsequent District investigations of the matter, and that as a result, Respondent was assigned to the District's central office as of May 6.

Nazario admitted that each school principal has the authority to establish his or her own cell phone rules, but that in any case it was his opinion that no principal would approve the use of cell phone calls to parents for classroom management reasons in the presence of students.

Terry Lane is the vice principal of the Hawthorne Avenue School and during the 2014-2015 school year supervised the school's K through Second Grades. Lane was Respondent's immediate supervisor. She testified that she visited Respondent's class daily because, in her view, Respondent had challenges relating to classroom management. According to Lane, as a consequence of her frequent visits to the classroom, she believed she had a good relationship with the first-grade students in the class. Lane testified that at some point after the start of the school year, co-teacher Warren Davis was assigned to Respondent's class in an effort to address what Lane characterized as Respondent's pattern of absences and to assist with pedagogy, etc. Eventually the co-teachers split the subjects to be taught with Respondent being responsible for literacy. Lane testified that on occasion she observed Respondent sitting at the teacher's desk in the classroom, but never saw her instruct from the desk. Like other teachers, Lane testified, Respondent would teach from all around the classroom. It is undisputed that Davis was not present in the classroom during the afternoon of May 5.

Lane explained that Respondent's classroom was located in the Temporary Classroom Unit (TCU); a one-story facility attached to the main school building by a door and consisting of two hallways in the shape of an "L." According to lane, the school nurse's office is also located in the TCU and fairly close to Respondent's classroom; about half way down the hall. Lane claimed that she told Respondent a number of times that she did not want the teacher using her cell phone during instructional time because it would cause the children to get excited and distracted the teacher from monitoring the students. Although she believes Respondent heard her on this issue, Lane testified, Respondent did not "own it." Lane testified that she also told Respondent it can be a problem to call parents on the teacher's personal cell phone because the parents then have the teacher's number. Better to use the nurse's office phone for calls to parents, Lane explained to the teacher.

Lane testified that she knew the protocol at the school was that teachers could call parents. However, she further testified, she did not understand the protocol to mean that teachers could call parents during instructional time; that is why she informed her teachers that they could use the phone in the nurse's office or the main office to call parents.

Lane testified that prior to May 5, she never had an incident of a student being injured by a weapon in the school. Lane explained that there have been other injuries at the school from gym class or playground activity; including injuries that have resulted in the student being taken to the hospital by ambulance at the request of parents. The school's practice, Lane testified, it to have the injured student examined by the school nurse and to have the student's parents contacted. The nurse decides if paramedics should be called. If more than one student is involved, Lane further testified, the involved students are separated. All involved adults are asked to submit a written report on the incident.

Lane testified that in the late afternoon of May 5 she was in the main office when the office clerk told her the vice principal was needed in the nurse's office. Lane walked to the nurse's office and observed Z with an ice pack on his head. According to Lane she asked the student what happened; what the student was doing and what Respondent was doing at the time. According to Lane when she asked Z what respondent was doing the student stated that the teacher was on her cell phone and not in the classroom.[3] According to Lane, the blade used to cut Z was in the nurse's office at the time – a metal blade about two inches in length, sharp on one side with a hole in the wider end where it looked to Lane as if the blade could be attached to a handle.

Lane testified that she then went directly to Respondent's classroom where, according to Lane, she found "mass hysteria" with all of the students trying to explain what had happened; that A and Z were running around the classroom and when Lane asked where Respondent was, students reported that she was on the phone. According to Lane when she asked A what had happened and where did the blade come from, the student responded that "he hit me" and did not offer a response to the question of where the student had gotten the blade.

School security removed A from class and took the remainder of the class to dismissal. Lane was aware that the police were coming and returned to the nurse's office. There, she observed Respondent, paramedics, Z's parents and two police officers. Lane testified that while in the office she overheard Respondent say that A and Z were running

[3] Lane completed a "Staff Incident Report" that same day stating only that; "When asked, What was the teacher doing? Z stated, 'She was talking on her cell phone.'" The following day, the school, via an "Incident Report" signed by vice principal Tijuana Porter as "recorder" and identifying Lane as the "reporter" reported to the District again that "When asked, What was the teacher doing? Z stated, 'She was talking on her cell phone.'" around the classroom and she saw A cut Z on the top of the head. Respondent also stated that she did not know where A got the blade from. According to Lane, Respondent stated that she was in the classroom at the time. Z and Z's parents then accompanied the paramedics to the hospital. Lane testified that she asked Respondent to write a report on the incident, that such was protocol, and that she wanted the report because the statements of Respondent in the nurse's office did not match the accounts Lane had received from students in the classroom that Respondent was on the cell phone at the time of the incident. Respondent did not submit the requested report.

Lane explained that it was not up to her to decide whether Respondent was in the room or not at the time of the incident and that she knew the matter had to be subject to an investigation. By letter dated May 5, Respondent was informed by District Chief Talent Officer Vanessa Rodriguez that the District "has been notified of an allegation that was made against you" and that effective May 6, the teacher was reassigned until further notice to Assistant Superintendent Roger Leon's Network Office.

Neither A nor Z, nor many of the other students in the class returned to the classroom the following day, Leon testified. However, Z's mother and many "aunts and uncles" did come to the classroom that afternoon and wanted answers about the safety of Z in the school. Lane testified that after the May 5 incident the community was angry and intense and wanted to know why the police had been in the school, and the identity of the other child involved. Additionally, Lane stated, there were media outlets outside of the school trying to interview classmates of Z.

Lane testified that on May 6 she called Child Protective Services (NJ Department of Children and Families) and explained the situation. The Department's Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (IAIU) thereafter conducted an investigation of the matter and eventually issued two December 1 "Findings Reports," one to an interested parent and one to the District, the former stating in part:

> IAIU conducted its required investigation and determined that the allegation of Neglect/inadequate Supervision is Established.
> IAIU has determined that [Z] is a neglected child, but, in taking into account the aggravating and mitigating factors associated with the incident, the neglect does not warrant a finding of substantiated. The determination of whether a finding of child neglect is Substantiated or Established is an administrative decision made sole by IAIU.
> ...
> The appropriate licensing or supervisory authority may take additional action as a result of this investigation.

The IAIU report issued to the District again stated that the report ("review") is solely administrative and summarized the findings of the investigation, in part as:

> ...The results of the investigation indicate that [Respondent] failed to provide adequate supervision for A and Z. A and Z were horse-playing behind [Respondent's] desk and running around the classroom. While running around, A inadvertently cut Z on his scalp with a razor found in or near [Respondent's] desk. [Respondent] was standing in the doorway of the classroom on her cell phone and not paying attention to A and Z at the time of the incident. [Respondent] was unaware of any incident until Z walked over to her with his hand on his head and blood was observed running down his face.
> Based upon the information gathered and the physical observation of the children, A and Z are neglected children. The information gathered indicates that A and Z were placed at substantial risk of harm by virtue of the incident...

The District also conducted its own investigation into the matter, a process that was held in abeyance per District policy while a matter is being investigated by the IAIU. The District's investigation included the findings of the IAIU; review of surveillance videos of the hallway outside of Respondent's classroom before, during and after the May 5 incident; and interviews of Lane, school nurse Karen Wenson, eight-year-old classmate "J" and Respondent. The District's investigator, then Manager of Compliance and Tenure Michelle Takyi, issued a January 6, 2017 "Findings Report" wherein Takyi concluded with the following "Recommended Action:"

> Z was injured by a razor that was found in [Respondent's] classroom while she was inside the classroom teaching the classroom. According to [Respondent's] own testimony.[4] She noticed that A kept getting out of his seat. Besides threatening to call his father as an attempt to get him to sit down, [Respondent] did not utilize any other classroom management technique to ensure that A remained seated. As such A was allowed to roam the classroom. Although [Respondent] denied seeing A near the teacher's desk located in the classroom. Student witness J witnessed A take the razor from the desk located in the classroom. During the course of horseplay with Z A cut and injured Z on the head with the razor. Student witnesses informed Vice Principal Lane and J also informed district representative that [Respondent] was outside of the classroom at the time A cut Z on the head. Although surveillance cannot corroborate this, the witnesses; testimony was consistent in this regard. Based on the findings, I recommend the District pursue tenure charges for termination against [Respondent] for neglect of duty, which resulted in serious injury to a student.

School nurse Karen Wenson testified that in her 13 years as nurse at the school she has requested an ambulance many times for various student injuries, but that the May 5 incident was the first time she requested an ambulance due to an injury by a weapon. According to Wenson, even before Z arrived in her office she could hear students running down the hall calling out "nurse, nurse." When they arrived with Z – who she described as being hysterical - she quickly began washing off Z's head and asked what happened. The five or six first graders reported A had cut Z with a blade that he got from the teacher's desk, and when Wenson asked; "where is your teacher?" they responded "in the classroom."

Wenson testified that Z's head wound looked more serious than it actually was because – like mouth wounds – head wounds bleed profusely. She explained that, as the school nurse, she determines if and when an ambulance is required to transport a student to the hospital. In the case of Z on May 5, after she washed up the student and stopped the bleeding she observe two cuts on Z's scalp; one superficial and a second an inch long that was deep enough to require stiches; a procedure that required the student to go to the emergency room. Thus, Wenson explained, she called an ambulance and when dispatch summoned the ambulance due to a blade injury of a student, the police – who monitor ambulance dispatch – also responded to the call. When the police arrived, they wanted to interview A, but, Wenson testified, she and school administration would not permit such without a parent being present.

Z did not return to school for two or three weeks after May 5, Weson recalled. Although she attempted to called Z's mother to check on Z, her calls were not answered. In her view, Wenson testified, the cut would have required only a few stitches and there was no medical reason for Z to be out of school.

Hawthorn Avenue School Principal Henry Grady James, IV, was on an extended leave at the time of the May 5 incident. He testified the District and school have a policy that teachers are responsible for the safety of their students and his school had a policy that teachers were not to use their cell phones as such conduct means the teachers are not teaching. According to James, he follows a progressive discipline policy relating to teacher cell-phone use when he observes such. He further testified that a December 9, 2014 email[5] he sent to his teaching staff, including Respondent, providing:

> ...The world is not perfect, therefore when a situation arises where a child disrupts the lesson for any reason, make a mental note of it and reach out to the parent (if the level of disruption is not very serious). If in fact a student is habitually disruptive, disrespecting and or not focused during the lesson, it is the job of the supervising adult to > redirect the child with some sort of intervention(s). Reach out to a parent first. Try to converse with the student at lunch or after school. Whatever you do, please do something...

was not an instruction for teachers to call parents during instructional time. He testified that he had previously explained at a staff meeting that the primary message (as contained in the email) was to first speak with the parents about student disruption before contacting an administrator.

James testified that he signed off on the Tenure charges. Before doing so, he reviewed all of the evidence attached to the charges (the Statement of Evidence and supporting documents) buy did not review Takyi's January 6, 2017 Internal Investigation Findings Report. According to James, the May 5 injury was a direct result of a teacher not managing her classroom. If Respondent was on her cellphone at the time, James asserted, she could not have been managing her class, and if she was not on her cell phone, it would be even worse as the teacher was simply not paying attention; was not managing the class. Such conduct James asserted, is "conduct unbecoming" as it is conduct by the teacher that is outside of the expectations of the District.

There was significant aftermath to the May 5 incident, James testified, as he heard from parents that they were "pissed" about what happened and the incident was reported on a local television news channel. Considering this occurred during the period of the "One Newark" initiative where parents could choose the schools for their children, James explained, such bad publicity could result in fewer parents sending their children to Hawthorne Avenue School and could eventually result in the closure of the school.

The surveillance video offered by the District shows the hallway outside of Respondent's classroom from a five or so minutes prior to the cutting incident to a number of minutes after the incident. The video does not show Respondent outside of the classroom at the time of the incident. The video does not offer a view into the door alcove leading to Respondent's classroom.

Respondent Evidence

Respondent Iman Jones has taught in the Newark School District since 1999, initially as a per diem teacher and since 2003 as a full-time teacher. At the time of the incident at issue herein, Respondent had no record of discipline.[6] Following closure of the District elementary school where she taught for a number of years, Respondent was assigned to teach first grade at the Hawthorn Avenue Elementary School for the 2014-2015 school year. Respondent testified that she had not previously taught first grade. Her first-grade class was composed of 20 or 21 students.

Respondent described her classroom at Hawthorn as having clusters of student desks arranged in groups forming the dots on a five dice, an additional area with a rug (referred to as the rug area) and a single teacher desk. According to Respondent, she did not use the teacher desk as she usually would be standing, walking around the classroom or seated at one of the five desk clusters (her "stations") when instructing students. Respondent further testified that the first-grade class was assigned two teachers, herself and Ms. Warren Davis; that the two teachers split the subjects for purposes of teaching and that Respondent told Davis that Davis could have the teacher desk. Respondent explained that she kept her personal belongings in a locked cabinet in the classroom. The door into the classroom from the hallway had a single window covered by paper and opened toward the hallway into an alcove somewhat larger than the width of the door.

[6] Grievant's file contained a subsequent December 11, 2015 letter of reprimand; a letter Respondent asserted should have been removed from her file as the result of a settlement.

According to Respondent, she collected her students from gym class in the early afternoon of May 5 and as they were returning to the classroom one of her students, N, asked if he could go back to gym. When Respondent told N he had just been to gym and could not go back, the student, according to Respondent, responded by grabbing items off of a cabinet in the classroom and throwing them onto the floor, pushing a desk over and throwing things sporadically around the classroom. Respondent testified that N had engaged in such behavior in the past; that the school's child study team had come up with a number of interventions for N when he acted out, and that on this occasion Respondent thought it best to use her cell phone to call N's mother to avoid the child possibly being referred to an area hospital's mental department where the child had been sent by school administration on six prior occasions. Respondent recalled that N's mother came approximately five to seven minutes after her call and took N home. Respondent testified that she understood that under school policy she could use her cell phone under such circumstances.

After N left and she straightened out the class room, Respondent began teaching the subject block, during the course of which, she testified, she stood at the board and walked around the classroom. During the course of the lesson Vice Principal Lane came to the class-room, returned a student she had been meeting with to the room and sat in the back of the room for a minute and then quietly got up and left the class. Respondent recalled that sometime thereafter during the course of the lesson, student A – who Respondent described as a very energetic student who had a hard time staying seated – got up out of his seat. Such conduct by A was not unusual in Respondent's experience, and she had previously used different strategies to modify A's behavior, including sitting the student in another seat away from other students, spend one-on-one time with the student, established various rules, used a student contract and written daily reports home. Such strategies did not work with A, Respondent asserted, and she eventually submitted INRS study team paperwork seeking assistance from the administration with respect to A. (Grievant further recalled that she had not yet received a response to her request due to the extended absence of the study team's head counselor.) In any event, on the occasion when A got up out of his seat on May 5 Respondent asked the student to sit with her at the cluster where she was then seated. A did not do so and instead, Respondent testified, walked to the rug area and Respondent again instructed the student to take his seat. He again did not do so and Respondent again told the student to come sit near her. When A refused the instruction, Respondent stated she would have to call A's dad. (Respondent explained that she had used this strategy in the past and when she had previously gotten A's dad on the phone and had the dad speak to A, the student would thereafter cooperate.) On this occasion, Respondent recalled, A went to his seat as Respondent was making her call but when he realized his dad did not answer the call, A got back up, walked over to another student desk cluster and spoke to student Z, at which point both students A and Z walked over to the rug area. Respondent testified she then called A's mom, was unable to get her and left her a message. Respondent then called out to Z to return to his seat, that he did not want to "get a yellow," at which point Z returned to his desk.

According to Respondent, she then got up and walked between the rug area and Z's student cluster, a conduct Respondent described as creating a barrier between A and Z consistent with the "Strategy of Proximity Rule." There was a point, Respondent explained, where A walked over to Z and "did some playful type of movement" with his hands toward Z. Both students were smiling and Respondent explained she could not describe A's action as a hit. Respondent again told A to sit down. Respondent remained standing and recalled that she was looking down at another student's paper and work when she sensed a child standing next to her. Responded looked down to her side and saw Z standing there with his hands on his head and a "trickle" of blood on his forehead. According to Respondent, she then looked at A and said: "what did you do?" A respondent by just looking at the teacher and looking surprised. Respondent testified that she hit the classroom intercom button, assigned another student to accompany Z to the school nurse, opened the classroom door for the two students so no blood would get on the doorknob and using the intercom told the main office what had happened. She testified that as she was speaking to the main office, some of her students began to say "that's my cousin and such" and ran out of the room to accompany Z to the nurse. Respondent testified that she did not call the nurse to her classroom because there was only a "trickle" of blood on the student's forehead and she was confident Z could get to the nurse's office – only down the hall and to the left – with no problem.

Respondent testified that at the time she did not know what could have caused Z's injury and that another student pointed out something on the floor to her; a small piece of bloody metal that Respondent then picked up with a piece of paper. She testified that she had never seen the object before, does not know where the object came from or how long it was in the classroom. Respondent testified that she later handed the object to the security guard. Although Respondent testified that she did not actually see the incident happen, she was present and "in the moment" standing by Z's cluster. Respondent denied that she was out of the classroom or in the classroom doorway vestibule or on her phone at the time of the injury. She testified that she was surprised by the incident and does not know what she could have otherwise done to prevent the incident.

Positions of the Parties

The parties submitted post hearing briefs containing exhaustive analysis of the factual and legal issues presented by the record, the entirety of which have been fully and carefully considered by the undersigned. Only summaries of the post hearing briefs are offered below:

Position of the School District

The District argued that the evidence supports its tenure charges. There are a number of important undisputed facts in the record that on their own lead to a conclusion that Respondent failed to supervise her students adequately. A and Z were misbehaving in the class; A somehow had a razor or box cutter and in the course of their horseplay A cut Z in the head causing injury requiring the student to be taken by ambulance to the hospital where he received stiches. Respondent was unaware of the razor being in the room, was unaware of A having the razor and does not know how it happened that A cut Z. In such circumstances, the facts should speak for themselves. Whether Respondent was on her cell phone or not or whether Respondent was in the classroom or outside of the classroom, she was on duty and responsible for the safety of her students. Yet her student was injured and under the circumstances presented the burden should shift to Respondent to establish that she was not negligent and Respondent failed to show she was not negligent. Considering further that the evidence establishes that Respondent was on her cell phone and out of the classroom at the time of the injury and failed to follow procedures and protocols, the record further supports a finding that Respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct.

In regard to a finding of unbecoming conduct based upon failure to supervise. as is presented here, such can be found when a teacher is present but is negligent in supervising students, or when a teacher leaves students unattended. Teachers have a duty to supervise students and monitor their behavior in spite of other distractions and even one incident of failure to supervise can be sufficient to support removal. Here, Respondent owed a duty of care to her students; she was required to exercise the degree of care for the safety of others which an ordinary person would exercise under similar circumstances. Here, the District has a pupil safety policy recognizing that the "safety of its pupils is a consideration of utmost importance" and that "the staff must maintain complete classroom...supervision during regular school hours." As principal James testified, the District has a blanket policy that "adults who are supervising children are responsible for the safety of children period." Thus, the duty of Respondent toward her students was clear.

Also clear is the fact that Respondent breached her duty. Respondent clearly failed to exercise the level of vigilance required of a teacher. In this regard, if the teacher is in front of students, circulating and engaging, the May 5 incident would never have happened; the razor blade would not have had a presence the classroom, A would not have had the opportunity to cut his classmate with the blade, Z would not have been injured and required medical attention and trauma experienced by other students in the class would never have happened. The doctrine of res ipsa loquitur supports a finding that Respondent's negligence was the proximate cause of Z's injury. Thus, as is required by the doctrine, Respondent was the only adult in the room and consequently had exclusive control of the object or means that caused the accident. New Jersey courts have recognized that in child abuse matters, the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur has resulted in a shifting of the burden of proof where only certain individuals have had access or custody of the abused child. In this matter, the District argued, fairness and common sense dictate that that the burden of proof shift to Respondent. Respondent had a duty; she was in a circumstance where she was required to meet that duty; she was the only one in the classroom with the duty and during her time in such circumstance a hazard arose, continued and resulted in injury to Z. Given that Respondent had an undeniable duty to supervise her students adequately and ensure their safety, she should be required to offer a satisfactory explanation of Z's injury. Respondent offered no such explanation and she should not be permitted to hide behind the burden of proof in order to avoid the consequences of her negligence.

Although Respondent should be found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct even in the absence of her being on her cell at the time of Z's injury, the evidence establishes that she was, in fact on her cell phone, and such conduct has been found to be unbecoming conduct. Here, when Lane first saw Z in the nurse's office the student reported that at the time of his injury Respondent was on her cell phone. Although such may be hearsay, the statement is nonetheless admissible because is was an excited utterance having been made soon after the significant event when Z was still in an excited state and had not had time to deliberate and fabricate a false story. Moreover, the statement by Z was made in response to a plainly open ended question by Lane and was consistent with the statements of multiple students made within five minutes of Z's statement. Z's statement establishes that Respondent was on her cell phone at the time of Z's injury. Additionally, the statement should be held reliable under the residuum rule.

The record also establishes that Respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct by leaving her classroom unattended during the time when Z was injured. In this regard vice principal Lane testified that students reported to her that Respondent was outside of the classroom on her cell phone at the time of the injury to Z, and one student witness reported the same during his interview with the District investigator. Considering Respondent presented a self-serving statement on the issue, the students had nothing to gain by providing their version of events, that their statements that Respondent was not in the room at the time of the injury, should also be credited.

Respondent also engaged in unbecoming conduct by failing to present a written report on the incident as required by District protocol, and further failed to comply with the clear directive of her supervisor to write such a report.

Respondent's failure to adequately supervise students and failure to comply with her supervisor's directive represented a clear failure by Respondent to conduct herself in a manner expected of a public-school teacher. Such a duty represents the most basic obligation of a teacher to her students and their parents. The penalty for instances of such misconduct should reflect the nature and gravity of the offense found, including any injury to students and the harm done to the school district's maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. Here, Respondent's failure to meet her obligation resulted in a significant injury to a student, caused trauma to her entire class and degraded the reputation of the school in the eyes of the school community and the public. Considering that Respondent failed to take responsibility for her conduct and failed to show remorse, such establishes a strong likelihood of reoccurrence of the failure to supervise should Respondent be returned to the classroom. Under such circumstances dismissal is appropriate; the tenure charges should be upheld and Respondent should be dismissed from her tenured position.

Position of Respondent

Respondent maintained that the tenure charges should be dismissed. The District has the burden of establishing by a preponderance of the evidence that its tenure charges against Respondent are true. Such a burden is not met where, as here the Respondent argued, the District has primarily relied upon hearsay testimony to establish its case. The District's case is based upon the hearsay content of staff reports and the hearsay content of the final report of investigator Takyi. The District failed to present any live witness to establish the facts upon which the District relies and, as a consequence, Respondent has been wholly unable to confront the witnesses who have testified against her. Although the arbitrator may have the authority to admit documents into evidence that contain hearsay statements, certainly where, as here, there is no corroborating evidence to support the truth of the hearsay, documentary statements should not be considered for the truth of the matters asserted therein.

In this regard, there were no witnesses offered at the hearing who saw the May 5 incident; neither Z nor A, nor any of their classmates were call to testify at the hearing and no formal written or recorded statements were taken from any student. Similarly, the report of the IAIU is hearsay and on its face the report states that it is not adjudicative, but is solely investigative. Due process requires the District to prove the charges as serious as those brought here against Respondent, by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Here, the hearsay evidence relied upon by the District is not reliable and is insufficient to satisfy the District's burden.

In its effort to bolster its weak case the District offered evidence of observations of prior classroom lack of management by Respondent and Respondent's reputation relating to classroom management. Such should not be given weight as it is well established that evidence of prior bad acts may not be the basis for drawing inferences relating to what Respondent may have, or may not have, done on May 5. Certainly, such may not act as a substitute for admissible evidence relating to what happened in the classroom on May 5.

As for the surveillance video offered by the District, it can fairly be assumed that what is shown on the video from 2:05:41 and 2:11:28 shows what occurred in the hallway after the injury to Z. Arguably relevant as to what happened before and during the incident is shown on the video from 1:58:53 to 2:05:41, and that portion of the video does not show Respondent outside of her classroom. In this regard, the District's claim that Respondent could have been outside of her classroom but in the door alcove and consequently not within the video view is mere guessing on the part of the District.

The fact is, the Respondent argued, here Terry Lane showed bias against Respondent and rushed to judgment against the teacher. Thus; (1) Lane stated as early as May 5 that she wanted Respondent removed; (2) Lane's claim that Respondent did not comply with instructions to write a report did not acknowledge that the employee was not permitted to return to the school after May 5; (3) Lane prejudged Respondent by assuming that the teacher had some wrongdoing to acknowledge, amounted to an inappropriate attempted to justify her actions even before the matter had been investigated; (4) Lane presumed Respondent had received favorable ratings at her prior school to "get her out" of that school; (5) Lane reported that Respondent could be seen in the hallway on the surveillance video at the time of the incident, even though such is not reflected in the video; and (6) Lane made no effort whatsoever to ask the co-teacher in the room about that teacher's use of the teacher desk or other possible sources of the blade.

The District also failed to prove negligence by Respondent as the evidence establishes that Respondent acted reasonably under the circumstances. A and Z were engaged in horseplay – conduct not uncommon with six-year-old boys. There was no reason whatsoever of Respondent to anticipate that one of the two boys would have a blade or that the injury done to Z was reasonably foreseeable.

The fact is Respondent was the only eyewitness to the incident offered at the hearing and her testimony was clear, concise and direct. Based upon her testimony there was absolutely nothing whatsoever to indicate that A and Z had any animosity between one another or that a risky or dangerous situation was developing. As reflected in Respondent's testimony that the two were smiling at one another at the time of the incident and from the surveillance video that just minutes before the incident the two boys were together in the hallway getting drinks of water without any conduct that could be interpreted as a precursor to violence. They were two six-year-old boys behaving as six year old boys.

There is nothing in the record to show that Respondent deviated from the standard conduct expected of a teacher and the District cannot support it case by hearsay upon hearsay evidence; it cannot, as it has attempted to do, bolster non-reliable hearsay evidence with more non-reliable hearsay evidence. Hearsay cannot compensate for a lack of evidence. The tenure charges should be dismissed and Respondent should be reinstated with full back-pay.

Discussion

New Jersey law establishes that no tenured, public school teacher in New Jersey may be dismissed or reduced in compensation "except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause." Unbecoming conduct is defined generally as conduct that has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of public services, or where it is shown that an employee lacks fitness to discharge duties and functions of the employee's office or position. Unfitness to remain in a tenured teacher position may be established by a single incident if significantly flagrant, or through progressive discipline for less serious matters. Here, the District has the burden of establishing the truth of its tenure charges by a preponderance of the evidence.

Considering the full record in this matter including all testimony, evidence and argument of the parties, I find that the District has established the truth of its unbecoming conduct charge against Respondent in part, thus warranting discipline, but has failed to establish that Respondent engaged in such conduct that otherwise warrants her termination.

The Record Fails to Establish that Responded was on Her Cell Phone and/or Outside of the Classroom at the time of the May 5 Incident or that Respondent was the Source of the Razor Blade

The District offered no witness with first-hand knowledge of what occurred in Respondent's classroom on May 5; no student was called as a witness to give testimony on what led up to the injury to Z and/or what Respondent was doing during the period leading up to the injury. Nor did the District show that first-hand witnesses were unavailable to testify, offer any statements of any witnesses taken under oath or offer any direct statements of any first-hand witness whatsoever. Instead, the District relied upon the report and testimony by Lane of a statement made by Z to Lane while Z was in the nurse's office being treated after the incident; testimony by nurse Wenson of statements by other students made to the school nurse while she was treating Z that the blade came from the teacher's desk; testimony of Lane regarding statements made to her by students immediately after the incident; a report of a statement made by a student during the District's internal investigation; and statements made by Respondent as to what occurred in the classroom that the District argues are inconsistent with Respondent's later statements and inconsistent with the statements of students. All of these statements offered by the District are out-of-court statements. Those alleged to have been made by students were offered by the District for their truth. All such offered statements of students are hearsay. The District argues that notwithstanding their hearsay nature reported student statements are admissible for their truth and are reliable because; (a) in regard to the statement of Z to Lane in the nurse's office that Respondent was on her cell phone and was not in the classroom at the time of the injury, the statement falls within the excited utterance exception to the hearsay rule, (b) the statements of other students that Respondent was on her cell phone and standing outside of the classroom are consistent with both the statement to Lane by Z and the statements of other students and (c) the statements are admissible under the residuum rule.

I am not persuaded by the District's arguments in this regard. The statement of Z to Lane, although not made contemporaneously with the injury, may have been made during the period when Z could be fairly said to have still been in an excited state as a result of the incident, and the student's narrow statements about how he received his injury may arguably be admissible under the exception. However, I do not find the further statement of Z made in answer to a question by an authority figure such as Lane about the whereabouts of the teacher, to be so directly related to the injury as to fall within the exception. Even assuming arguendo that the statement of Z falls within the exception, I do not find the statement reliable as the contents of the statement itself presents questions of its reliability by begging the question of how the student could have been aware of what the teacher was doing at the time the student was engaged with A who had a blade in his hand and was attacking the student. Additionally, Lane's testimony in this regard is inconsistent with her own recording of Z's response in her own "Staff Incident Report" of the conversation made within hours of the conversation on May 5 wherein she reported that Z responded to her question by stating only that the teacher was on her cell phone and made no record of any additional statement by Z about the teacher being outside of the classroom. As for the statements of other students made to the school nurse about the source of the razor, those statements do not arguably fall within any exception to the rule. Similarly, the statements of other students made to Lane in the classroom after the incident and to the District investigator many months later do not benefit from any exception to the hearsay rule. Again, if such statements were important to the resolution of this matter, they could have been, but were not, offered through testimony of the students.

The District also argues that considering the circumstances involving young students and the unusual nature of the event, the residuum rule should apply as this is an administrative matter and as such, findings – even those in part based upon hearsay - need be supported by only a small amount of non-hearsay evidence. Additionally, the District argues that as the rules of arbitration apply, the undersigned need not slavishly comply with the rules of evidence.

The AAA rules of arbitration are controlling of this matter and the residuum rule is well recognized. However, children can be easily influenced by statements of their peers and by their desire to please the adult authority figures around them. Under the circumstances presented, I find no admissible evidence - relating Respondent's whereabouts or phone use - of significance sufficient upon which to hang a hat of residuum. Similarly, in applying my experience as an arbitrator, I am simply not persuaded as to the appropriateness of relying upon the recollection of District witnesses as to the collective statements of a group of mostly unidentified six and seven year olds as the basis of my finding fact, where, as here; (1) the District has presented no direct testimony or other evidence of what took place in the room and (2) the evidence presented by the District of what took place outside of the classroom does not support the District's claim that Respondent was outside of her classroom at the time of the incident.

Based upon such considerations, I find that the District has failed to meet its burden of establishing the truth of those portions of its tenure charges asserting that Respondent (1) was on her cell phone[7] and (2) was not in the classroom at the time of the May 5 incident.

The Record Nevertheless Establishes that Respondent Failed to Adequately Supervise her Students

Although I have found out-of-court statements by students to be non-admissible, the statements of Respondent as a party to the proceeding are admissible for their truth. To support its charges, the Districts relies, in part, upon statements by Respondent[8] overheard by Lane made to the parent of Z while in the nurse's office describing the boys "running around" the classroom and being in the teacher's desk area. These statements are in contrast to the subsequent statements and testimony of Respondent that does not describe the two involved students "running around" the classroom together and engaging in horseplay, but instead offers a more tempered description of the boys' conduct.

Between the description of events reportedly given by Respondent at the time of the incident describing the two students as "running around" the classroom and the description given by Respondent over two years later on the stand, I find that the former more accurately described the nature of the conduct of A and Z. I base such finding on; (a) the contemporaneous character of Respondent's reported May 5 statements and (b) the fact that the contemporaneous descriptions are entirely consistent with the energetic character of the conduct of the two students in the hallway as captured on the surveillance

[7] Consistent with the argument of Respondent, I do not find that Respondent's prior use of her cell phone in the classroom may be relied upon to establish that she was using the phone at the time of the May 5 incident.

[8] None of these alleged statements by Respondent addressed in this section are arguably relevant to the issues previously addressed of whether or not Respondent was on her cell phone or outside of the classroom at the time of the incident and, as a consequence, are not relevant to my prior discussion of those issue.

video only minutes prior to the incident; conduct that I find likely continued when the two returned to the classroom.[9] Additionally, it is plain from Respondent's various descriptions of the student's conduct and the fact that the two students were obviously engaged in non-academic activity when Z was injured, that the two boys were engaged in "horseplay."[10]

Considering that the May 5 incident took place eight months into the school year, by which time standards of conduct and behavior should have been well established in the classroom by the teacher, I am in agreement with the District's position that the fact that A and Z were engaging in horseplay and running around the classroom evinces a failure by Respondent to manage her classroom. In such circumstances, I find it reasonable to hold Respondent accountable for any harm to students or property that could foreseeably result from such behavior. Students running around and engaging in horseplay or roughhousing in a classroom environment in the presence of other students is not a benign or inconsequential activity. Aside from its impact on education, permitting such activity unnecessarily increases the risk of accidents and student injury; injury that could foreseeably range from minor to serious. Whether such injury actually occurred or not, I find that by failing to adequately manage her classroom and supervise her students on May 5, Respondent allowed her students to be exposed to the potential of such foreseeable harm.

Considering such, I find that the District has established the truth of its charges to the extent they allege that by failing to adequately manage her classroom on May 5 [9] Even crediting Respondent's version of events, I am persuaded that Respondent was failing to adequately managing her classroom.

[10] Respondent also characterized the students' activity as horseplay in her brief.

Respondent failed to conduct herself in the manner the District could fairly expect from a reasonably prudent person in her teaching position and thereby, through such negligence, caused her students to be unnecessarily exposed to harm that could foreseeably result from such conduct. However, my findings of such unbecoming conduct by Respondent in this regard is limited to the "exposure" of her students to foreseeable harm. Respondent should not be held accountable for exposure to unforeseeable harm or actual harm that occurred of an unforeseeable nature.

Z's Being cut by a Blade was Unforeseeable

I am not persuaded that Respondent should be held accountable for the harm that actually occurred to Z. The blade involved, as described by two District witnesses and Respondent was small, was without a handle and was not a knife in the traditional sense. As reflected in the testimony of various District witnesses – no student has ever been injured before by a weapon of any kind in the school and the District, to this day, has no idea where the blade used by A came from or how it got into the school. There is no evidence in the record that the District anticipates (i.e.; foresees) first graders having weapons in its elementary schools. There is no record evidence that the District trains its grade school teachers to be weapons aware, or how to disarm a student with a weapon, or how to protect other students in the presence of a weapon wielding student. In other words, the District as an organization does not anticipate – it does not foresee – its first graders having knives in school. In such circumstances, there is no reason to believe that a reasonable person in the positon held by Respondent would have been aware of the blade's existence, or foreseen first grader A's using a blade to cut first grader Z in the head during the school day. I find that such classroom conduct was well outside of the reasonable expectations of foreseeable conduct in the classroom.

Based upon such considerations, I find that the actual injury received by Z was not foreseeable by a reasonably prudent person and, as a consequence, I do not find that Respondent failed her duty of care in such regard. Consistent with such finding, I further find that although the District experienced negative consequences from the community for the May 5 incident, such consequences were not the result of Respondent failing to satisfy a duty owed the District or her students. Having not failed a duty, such may not be a basis for supporting a tenure charge against Respondent.

Failure to Submit a Written Report

Finally, the District argues that Respondent should be subject to discipline because she failed to submit a written report of the incident as directed by Lane on May 5. Respondent argues that she was not given the opportunity to file such a report as she was removed from the school effective the very next day.

I find the District has failed to support its assertion in this regard as the tenure charges do not allege such a failing by Respondent and considering the extended period between the May 5 incident and the District's filing of the tenure charges, and the fact that there is no evidence that the District ever attempted to remind the relocated teacher of the need to file a report nor counseled that such failure could result in discipline, I find the District's attempt to base discipline on such is untimely and contrary to fundamental notions of fairness that underlay principles of due process.

Conclusions

The District has failed to establish the truth of a significant portion of its tenure charges and, as a result, has failed to establish that termination of Respondent, a tenured teacher, is warranted.

The District has established the truth of the tenure charge that Respondent failed to adequately manage her classroom by allowing students to engage in horseplay and thereby exposing students to potential foreseeable harm, contrary to the reasonable expectation of the District, and that Respondent thereby engaged in conduct unbecoming.

Discipline for the unbecoming conduct found should be reasonably commensurate with the gravity of the offense found, within the context of progressive discipline and Respondent's discipline and service record. Considering that Respondent is a long-term employee with little or no history of prior discipline, and acknowledging that the foreseeable harm to students from failure to manage the classroom in the manner found herein could be significant, I find that a suspension of 60 calendar days is consistent with the gravity of the offense found.

ORDER

To the extent that the District has shown that Respondent failed to adequately manage her classroom by allowing students to engage in horseplay and thereby exposing students to potential harm, I find that the District has established the truth of its conduct unbecoming charge against Respondent. As to all other allegations of conduct unbecoming within the subject tenure charges, I find the District has failed to establish such by a preponderance of the evidence and hereby dismiss such charges.

Consistent with such findings the District is ORDERED to:

1. Promptly offer Respondent reinstatement to her former position.

2. Make Respondent whole for any and all losses of pay, seniority and other benefits she may have suffered as a result of her unpaid suspension-pending-investigation from the date of the commencement of her unpaid suspension to the date of her reinstatement by the District, less 60 calendar days of pay attributable to the suspension ordered herein.

AND	:
IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATE(S) OF DAVID C. RAFFO.	:	OAL DKT. NO. EDE 10580-17 Agency Ref. No.: 1617-190

JOINT DECISION

On May 31, 2017, David Raffo filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging the New Jersey State Board of Examiner's (SBE) refusal to issue him a supervisor certificate based on an accusation that Raffo breached the security and confidentiality of the 2016 Partnership for Assessment of Readiness for College and Careers (PARCC) assessment. On July 6, 2017, the petition was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case.

On April 6, 2017, the State Board of Examiners (SBE) filed an Order to Show Cause why David Raffo's teaching certificate(s) should not be revoked as a result of the same accusation, that he breached the security and confidentiality of the 2016 PARCC test. On July 26, 2017, the SBE transmitted this matter to the OAL as a contested case.

On August 24, 2017, the SBE and Raffo jointly filed a motion with the OAL to consolidate the SBE and Commissioner of Education matters, and for a predominant interest determination. The parties have agreed that the issue in both matters arises out of the same set of facts and, therefore, that consolidation is appropriate. On September 8, 2017, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) John P. Scollo issued an Order for Consolidation and Determination of Predominant Interest, finding that the matters should be consolidated and that the SBE has the predominant interest.

The decision issued by ALJ Scollo was transmitted to the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the SBE on September 15, 2017. No exceptions to the recommended order were filed by the parties.

Having considered the ALJ's Order of Consolidation and Determination of Predominant Interest, the Commissioner of Education and SBE agree with the order of consolidation and the ALJ's predominant interest determination. While both entities have jurisdiction and the expertise to determine whether Raffo's actions constitute a breach of security and confidentiality of the 2016 PARCC test, the charge is more appropriately within the SBE's expertise. Accordingly, the SBE has the predominant interest in this matter and its findings of facts on the issue of whether Raffo did breach the security and confidentiality of the test, which are made or adopted in the final decision in this matter, will be binding on the Commissioner of Education. This decision does not affect the Commissioner of Education's ability to rule on certification matters or the possible remedies the Commissioner of Education can provide to Raffo if he is successful in his appeal of the SBE's determination.

Having independently evaluated the record and considered the ALJ's determination of predominant interest, the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the SBE, pursuant to their authority, make the following determination in the matter.

JOINT ORDER

Based upon a review of the record by both the Commissioner of Education and the Director of the SBE, it is ordered that the above-captioned matters are consolidated for hearing before the ALJ. The SBE has the predominant interest in this matter. The ALJ will first offer recommended findings of fact and conclusions of law, disposing of all issues in controversy through a single initial decision consistent with N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(a). The initial decision shall be filed first with the SBE, as it has the predominant interest in this matter, and it will determine whether the factual allegations against Raffo have been established by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. If the SBE determines that the allegations have not been so established, it will issue a final decision encompassing all the issues within its predominant interest and will transmit the decision to the Commissioner of Education to provide the relief to which Raffo may then be entitled. If the SBE decision concludes that the allegations of a breach have been established, the SBE will transmit the decision and the record to the Commissioner of Education to decide any remaining education law issues.

STEVEN LE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

On August 16, 2017, petitioner – a taxpayer and former member of the Union Township Board of Education (Board) – filed a petition and motion for emergent relief seeking to enjoin the Board from spending an approximate $5,000,000 balance that remained unspent after a 2013 school renovation project. Petitioner contended that the funds in question had been transferred to an undesignated capital account in violation of applicable law and regulations. The Board argued that its actions were in all respects compliant with the law, and further asserted that the petition must be dismissed as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). A hearing was held in this matter on September 6, 2017, after which the record was closed.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner failed to meet the standard required for emergent relief under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, as he was unable to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits; further, as a threshold matter, the petitioner filed his appeal out of time, as he was aware as early as January 2017 that the Board was taking official action regarding the remaining capital reserves from the school renovation project, yet failed to file an appeal until August 2017; and petitioner's argument that the ninety day rule should be relaxed in the "interests of justice" is without merit. Accordingly, the ALJ denied the petitioner's motion for emergent relief and granted the Board's motion to dismiss the petition as untimely.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and found the petitioner's exceptions to be without merit. Accordingly, the Initial Decision was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

STEVEN LE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Steven Le. The petitioner filed a petition of appeal and a request for emergent relief seeking to enjoin the Union Township Board of Education (Board) from spending approximately $5,000,000 in funds that remained unspent after a 2013 school renovation project at the Central Five Jefferson School (Jefferson Project). The petitioner alleges that the funds were transferred to an undesignated capital account in violation of the applicable statutory and regulatory provisions. N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5o; N.J.A.C. 6A:26-4.6(c). The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petitioner did not meet his burden of establishing a right to emergent relief under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The ALJ also determined that the petition of appeal was untimely filed under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and, as a result, the ALJ granted the Board's motion to dismiss.[1]

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the Initial Decision – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe, supra and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the petition of appeal was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

[1] In response to the petitioner's motion for emergent relief the Board filed a motion to dismiss.

N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) prescribes that an appeal to the Commissioner must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of the receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education which is the subject of the requested contested hearing." The 90-day rule "provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws." Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993). In this case, even if the most lenient trigger date is utilized, it is clear that the petition was not timely filed. At three separate Board meetings – held on January 17, April 25 and April 26, 2017 – the Board took official action regarding the remaining capital reserve funds from the Jefferson Project.[2] Yet, the petitioner did not file the petition until August 16, 2017, 113 days after the April 26, 2017 Board action.

It is well recognized that the Commissioner may exercise her authority under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16 to relax the application of the 90-day rule "where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice." Ibid. "Exceptions to the 90-day rule should be granted sparingly, and only where there exist compelling circumstances to justify enlargement or relaxation of the time limit." Sarah Dickerson v. Board of Education of the Township of Pittsgrove, Salem County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8679-09 (Decided March 16, 2004) aff'd Commissioner (May 3, 2004) (citations omitted). In his exceptions, the petitioner maintains that the 90-day period should be relaxed because the proper expenditure of public funds is an issue of paramount public importance and the public is always harmed when a school board does not act with the requisite transparency regarding it expenditures of funds. The petitioner also contends that it is extremely important to proceed on the merits of the appeal based upon the Board's inability to justify its contradictory explanations regarding the amount of remaining bond proceeds from the Jefferson Project. Finally, the petitioner argues that the ALJ failed to adequately explain why the timely filing requirement should not be relaxed in this case.

[2] The remaining Jefferson Project funds were also the subject of various meetings and discussions during the petitioner's tenure as a Board member between January 5, 2016 and December 30, 2016.

Despite his claim to the contrary, the Commissioner finds that the petitioner has failed to present any exceptional circumstances that might justify a finding that strictly adhering to the 90-day rule would result in injustice. Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572, 590 (1993); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16. As the ALJ stated in the Initial Decision, the petitioner is a former Board member and, as such, was well aware of the transfer of funds as early as January 2017; he is not certainly not "an ill-informed or unsophisticated tax payer." Moreover, all of the Board's decisions in connection with the use and transfer of the remaining funds from the Jefferson Project have been made at public meetings and in consultation with the Board's auditors. Further, the Board has already awarded contracts and issued purchase orders using funds from the capital reserve that were allocated from the Jefferson Project. As set forth in Kaprow, supra, the "limitations period gives school districts security in knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after 90 days." Kaprow, supra, at 542. Therefore, the petitioner has not demonstrated that there is a compelling reason to relax the 90-day filing requirement, and an injunction preventing the use of the funds at this late juncture would adversely impact ongoing school projects.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO EDU 12190-17
AGENCY REF NO. 191-8/17

STEVEN LE,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF UNION, UNION COUNTY.

Respondent.

Christopher K. Harriott, Esq., for Petitioner (Florio, Kenny, Raval, attorneys)

Paul E. Griggs, Esq., for Respondent (Sciarrillo, Cornell, Merlino, McKeever & Osborne, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 6, 2017 Decided: September 6, 2017

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Steven Le, a taxpayer and resident of Union Township, filed a verified petition and motion for emergent relief with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on August 16, 2017. Le seeks to enjoin the Union Township Board of Education (the Board) from spending an approximate $5,000,000 balance that remained unspent after a 2013 school renovation project. He contends that these funds were transferred to an undesignated capital account in violation of the applicable statute and regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5(o); N.J.A.C. 6A:26.4.6(c). The Board replies that its actions were in all respects compliant with law. It additionally asks that the petition be dismissed as untimely. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i).

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case August 22, 2017. Oral argument took place on September 6, 2017, at which time the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The underlying facts are as set forth in the verified complaint and certification filed In opposition to the application, and I FIND:

Le is a former member of the Board and a taxpaying resident of Union Township. He served on the Board from September 16, 2014 until December 31, 2014, and again from January 5, 2016 through December 31, 2016. The petition of appeal concerns moneys initially raised and allocated for a renovation project at Central Five Jefferson School. This project was the subject of a 2010 referendum, which was approved by the voters and authorized expenditures not to exceed $23,972,072. Funding sources included $12,000 from capital reserves; $5,259,907 from a state grant; and, $6,712,165 from the issuance of bonds. The work took place in 2013 and came in under budget; some $5,078,252 remained unspent. It is these remaining moneys that are at issue, and that Le contends are now being improperly budgeted by the Board.

Le recounts that as late as December 15, 2015; the subject funds had not been released, but were the subject of Board discussion. He related ongoing attempts during the subsequent year to determine when and if the project punch-list had been completed; and what moneys remained in which account, to include moneys raised via the sale of bonds. On January 14, 2016, Le asked the Business Administrator, Manuel Vieira, for clarification. Vieira replied that the bond account had been exhausted. While Le appears to question the veracity of that reply, he offers no concrete evidence that it was either inaccurate or insecure. Indeed, Le himself avers that a dispute about punch list and moneys owed lingered until May 10, 2016, when the matter was finally resolved via a settlement with the contractor. It appears that in 2016 Le participated, as a Board member, in Finance Committee meetings where the controverted funds were discussed. Le alludes to a lack of candor by the Board, but his claims remain allusions, and nothing more.

In stark contrast, the Board offered correspondence from its auditors confirming that the moneys raised via the sale of bonds had been fully expended for the Jefferson School project, and thus were not transferred to its general capital account. Via letter dated February 12, 2016, auditors Suplee, Clooney and Company confirmed that only $165 remained in the bond account and stated that "the $165 would be canceled against the unissued bonds." The some $5,000,000 remaining after the project was completed represented moneys from the capital reserve, which the auditors directed "would be transferred back to the capital reserve account." At a December 2016 meeting, at which Le was a member of the Board and present, the Board's new auditor, Nisivoccia LLP, explained again that the controverted sum would be reverting back to the capital account. Le expressed no concerns and asked no questions at that meeting.

On January 17 2017, at a regularly scheduled public meeting, the Board transferred unexpended appropriations in the amount of $4,800,000 to the undesignated capital reserve account. On April 25, 2017, the Board transferred $305,918.68 from the Jefferson School project account to the undesignated capital reserve account. April 26, 2017, the Board withdrew $5,000,000 and transferred it to the Capital Outlay account. All these actions took place via formal public resolution. Thereafter, and in reliance upon the advice of its auditors, the Board approved contracts with vendors selected via the formal bidding process for renovation projects at Union High School. The Board urges that granting the relief sought by this petition would force it to breach its duly entered contracts with these vendors, resulting in financial liability, and the possibility that the repairs to the high school will not be completed in time for opening of school.[i] Indeed, the contract for the high school renovations was awarded on June 13, 2017, and is more than fifty percent complete.

A letter dated August 9, 2017, from its auditors again confirmed the correctness of the Board's action in transferring the controverted funds. Nisivoccia LLP explained that guidance issued by the Department of Education entitled "Combined School District, Charter School and Renaissance School Audit Program" makes clear that "any unexpended transferred capital outlay and/or capital reserve funds remaining after completion of the school facilities project must be returned to the capital reserve account..."

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, emergency relief may be granted "where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case..." My determination in this matter is further governed by the standard for emergent relief set forth by our Supreme Court in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

[i] The School opened for the current school year on September 5, 2017.

The New Jersey Supreme Court has set forth a four-prong test for determining whether an applicant is entitled to emergent relief. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982) (enumerating the factors later codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)).

The four factors ("the Factors") include:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
>
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.
>
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b).]

The moving party bears the burden of proving each of the Crowe elements "clearly and convincingly." Waste Mgmt of N.J. v. Union County Util. Auth., 399 N.J. Super. 508, 520 (App. Div. 2008).

I CONCLUDE that petitioner cannot meet its burden under the Crowe v. DeGioia standard.

Petitioner cannot demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of his claim. As a threshold matter, it appears that the petition is untimely filed. The time for filing an appeal before the Commissioner of Education is clearly set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), which provides that a petition of appeal shall be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education ... which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." Petitioner's appeal was filed well past the regulatory timeline.

Adequate notice has been defined as notice "sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate." Kaprow v. Bd. of Educ. of Berkeley Twp. 131 N.J. 572, 587 (1993). The ninety day period for commencing an action begins to run when the "plaintiff learns, or reasonably should learn, the existence of that state of facts which may equate in law with a cause of action." Ibid. The intent of the ninety day rule is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time, so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend. The rule exists to "penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose by giving security and stability to human affairs." Ibid. Moreover, it is well established that the ninety day rule is to be strictly applied. See Kaprow, supra; Morris-Union Jointure Comm'n v. Bd. of Educ. of the Borough of S. River, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d, (EDU) 453; Markulin and the Neptune Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d, (EDU) 406. This record offers no excuse or justification for the delay in perfecting Le's claim. He had notice that the controverted funds were being transferred to the capital account as early as January 2017. Nor is Le an ill-informed or unsophisticated local taxpayer. He has served on the Board himself and is ostensibly up to date on Board affairs.

Further, at oral argument, counsel does not dispute that the petition was not timely filed. Rather, counsel argued that the ninety day rule should be relaxed in the interests of justice.

Nor, based on the record developed for the emergent application does it appear that the facts will support Le's claim. He relies on N.J.S.A. 18A:7G-5(o), which states:

> In the case of a school facilities project of a district other than an SDA district, any proceeds of school bonds issued by the district for the purpose of funding the project which remain unspent upon completion of the project shall be used by the district to reduce the outstanding principal amount of the school bonds.

The Board agrees that it would have been obliged to use unspent bond proceeds to reduce its bond debt, but urges, persuasively, that the money at issue was not generated by the sale of bonds. It buttresses that assertion with letters from two auditors.

Le likewise cites N.J.A.C. 6A:26-4(c) in support of the proposition that the moneys at issue, including capital reserve moneys, were improperly returned to the capital account. But Nisivoccia LLP shared guidance from the Department of Education that confirms that "unexpended transferred capital outlay and/or capital reserve funds remaining after completion of the school facilities project must be returned to the capital reserve account..." This is precisely what the Board did. It is thus clear that the law is not settled in petitioner's favor.

Moreover, a balancing of the equities requires denial of the application for relief. While Le argues that harm will come to the taxpayers if further spending of the controverted funds is not enjoined, the record reveals that just the opposite is true. In good faith reliance on its auditors, the Board has committed to using these moneys to make repairs to district facilities. Clearly, the public, and most especially the children of Union, will be harmed if their schools cannot open in a timely fashion this month; and, if moneys better directed toward staff salaries, books, and other instructional materials, are used to compensate vendors for potential breach of contract claims. It is noteworthy that the Board entered into a contract for the high school repairs on June 13, 2017, again via public resolution, but Le waited over two months to challenge the Board's decision; a challenge he now characterizes as an emergency.

Finally, harm is irreparable when there can be no adequate after the fact remedy in law or in equity; or where monetary damages cannot adequately restore a lost experience. Nabel v. Board of Education of the Township of Hazlet, EDU 8026-09 (June 24, 2009); Tomlin v. Lower Cape May Regional Board of Education, EDU 4952-09. This is a dispute only about the allocation of money, nothing more. Were Le to prevail at a plenary hearing, an order directing the Board to reallocate moneys in its budget will afford him, and the public, the relief he seeks.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the request for emergent relief be DENIED; and, I further CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss the petition be granted.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Respondent's cross motion to dismiss is GRANTED, and the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CONSENT ORDER

THIS MATTER, having been opened to the Court through petition filed by Bernice Martina Jalloh, Esq., Jalloh & Jalloh, L.L.C., 21 W. Blancke St., Suite 2, Linden, NJ 07036, Counsel for Marion P. Thomas Charter School ("MPTCS") seeking to suspend the teaching certification of Tira Clegg ("Clegg") (collectively the "Parties"), and the Parties having resolved their differences, it is hereby agreed by and between the Parties as follows:

1. Suspension of Clegg's Teaching Certificate. Clegg's teaching certificate shall be suspended for a period of six (6) months commencing on August 1, 2017 and continuing through and including January 31, 2018. Clegg shall forfeit her teaching certificate to the New Jersey Board of Education and/or to the New Jersey Board of Examiners and Certification as may be required to effectuate the suspension. Clegg shall comply with any and all conditions and/or limitations that may be imposed upon her by law, rule or regulation during the term of the suspension.

2. Dismissal with Prejudice. The above-captioned matter is hereby dismissed with prejudice and without costs to either Party.

3. No admission of Liability. Clegg expressly denies having violated any contract, law, rule or regulation in this matter, and has accepted the suspension so as to resolve this matter and avoid further litigation costs, expenses and time.

4. Consultation with Counsel. The Parties acknowledge that each of them has consulted with, or had the opportunity to consult with, legal counsel of their own selection about this Agreement. The Parties each understand how this Agreement will affect their legal rights and voluntarily enter into this Agreement with such knowledge and understanding.

5. Non-Disparagement. Clegg agrees not to disparage MPTCS, including MPTCS's present and former officers, directors, employees, agents, or attorneys. MPTCS agrees that it will not disparage Clegg, including her agents or attorneys.

Re: Board of Education of the Mercer County Special Services School District, Mercer County v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County, Agency Dkt. No. 239-9/17.

Dear Parties:

Please accept this correspondence in response to your submission on behalf of the Mercer County Special Services School District ("MCSSSD"), dated September 25, 2017, regarding the above captioned matter.[1] Upon review of the submissions in this matter, and upon full consideration of the reasons set forth in support of MCSSSD's application to open this matter as a contested case, we have determined that there are no unresolved issues of school law, and the present dispute arises from Trenton's alleged non-payment for extraordinary services pursuant to a contractual agreement between the parties.

As you have previously been advised, parties seeking enforcement of Commissioner decisions shall generally bring an action in the Superior Court of New Jersey in accordance with New Jersey Court Rules, R. 4:67-6. Exceptions may be made in matters where there are issues of school law requiring the Commissioner's expertise to resolve the parties' adjudicated rights. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b)(1). In this matter, there are no unresolved school law issues requiring adjudication before the Commissioner because the crux of MCSSSD's request is as follows:

[1] The Trenton Board of Education ("Trenton" or "Trenton Board") has not responded to MCSSSD's submissions.

> [T]he Commissioner needs to enter a further determination that the September 20, 2016, Final Decision does not permit Trenton to dictate the amounts it will pay for its student's [sic] extraordinary services, and that Trenton is legally obligated to pay the full amounts of those services due and owing to MCSSSD.
> September 25, 2017 Ruilova Letter, pg. 3.

In the September 20, 2016 Final Decision ("Decision" or "Commissioner Decision"), the Commissioner explained that MCSSSD may directly bill the Trenton Board for the cost of extraordinary services provided to Trenton's students pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1(e)(5)(viii).[2] Nothing in the Decision or the subject regulation would suggest that Trenton could pay anything less than the full amount that MCSSSD has directly billed to the Trenton Board; and as such, it is improper to open this matter to reaffirm legal issues previously addressed by the Commissioner.

In the Decision, the Commissioner also noted that Trenton is billed separately for the cost of individual aides through MCSSSD's issuance of purchase orders pursuant to a "Personal Assistant Contract." The Commissioner further advised, "[t]o the extent that the parties may dispute the terms of or compliance with the personal assistant contract for individual aides, the Commissioner would not have jurisdiction over that contract dispute. . . ." Commissioner Decision, pg. 2-3, fn. 1. It is clear from MCSSSD's submissions that the parties had agreed upon the terms, conditions, and rates for the extraordinary services, which were memorialized in a Personal Assistant Contract. See September 12, 2017 Petition, pg. 7, ¶ 34; September 25, 2017 Ruilova Letter, pg. 2. Trenton's partial payments and non-payments of the specific (agreed upon) amounts sought in reimbursement by MCSSSD, therefore, arise from the parties' obligations under the Personal Assistant Contract.

The Commissioner has already decided that MCSSSD may seek direct reimbursement for the cost of extraordinary services from Trenton, and it follows that the Trenton Board is responsible for remittance of the amounts billed for the agreed upon rates. If Trenton has now failed to honor the Decision, the appropriate venue for enforcement of the Commissioner's decision is the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1(b) and R. 4:67-6. Additionally, Trenton's failure to pay the rates set forth in the Personal Assistant Contract is also properly adjudicated in Superior Court.

As such, MCSSSD's petition seeking enforcement of the Decision will not be opened as a contested case before the Commissioner. MCSSSD is further advised to pursue its

T.K., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, B.K.,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOWELL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Pro-se petitioner appealed the determination of the respondent Board that her child was ineligible for a free public education in respondent's school district. Petitioner enrolled her child in the Board's school district in 2014 using the Howell Township mailing address of the property that the family owns. Petitioner was unaware of any problem with her child's school registration until the family received a phone call two and a half years later from the Board, advising them that B.K. was enrolled in the wrong school district. The Board filed a counterclaim for tuition for the period of B.K.'s ineligible attendance.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: based on the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, the petitioner is domiciled in Brick Township, which has its own school district; B.K. was enrolled in Howell Township schools for the entirety of the 2014-2015, 2015-2016, and 2016-2017 school years; petitioner provided the correct address of her property when enrolling B.K., and the school district accepted B.K.'s enrollment; the Board became aware of this issue when a neighbor of the petitioner attempted to register their child in Howell Township Schools, after which petitioner was notified by letter dated December 9, 2016 that B.K. was not eligible to attend Howell Township schools. The ALJ concluded that T.K. is domiciled in Brick Township and therefore B.K. is not entitled to a free public education in Howell Township. However, the ALJ concluded that an equitable determination is appropriate in this case, and assessed tuition only for the period after December 9, 2016, when petitioner received notice of the residency error. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that petitioner reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $7,582 for the period of unauthorized attendance in Howell Township schools.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, but found that the present record lacks the information required to properly calculate the amount of tuition owed to the school district – specifically the number of days of ineligible attendance by the minor child. Accordingly, the matter was remanded to the OAL for calculation of tuition due to the Board.

T.K., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, B.K.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOWELL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the Board.[1] The petitioner did not file a reply thereto.

In its exceptions, the Board disputes the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination regarding the amount of tuition owed to the Board by petitioner. The Board argues that it is owed more than $7,582.00 because B.K. is not an "affidavit" student, and thus, the one-year limit on tuition reimbursement set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 does not apply.[2] Further, the Board argues that the ALJ improperly held that tuition is not owed prior to December 9, 2016, the date when petitioner became aware that even though her mailing address said Howell Township, she actually lived in Brick Township. The Board maintains that the error was petitioner's, as she paid taxes in Brick Township and failed to disclose to the District in the enrollment packet that her mailing address and actual address were different. As such, the Board urges the Commissioner to assess tuition for each day of the minor child's ineligible enrollment for the 2014-2015, 2015-2016, and 2016-2017 school years.

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the July 19, 2017 hearing at the OAL.

[2] It is unnecessary to reach this argument as the ALJ limited the tuition reimbursement to December 9, 2016 – the date that T.K. was informed that the minor child was ineligible to attend school in the District. Nevertheless, the Commissioner notes that N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2 does not only apply to "affidavit" students. The regulation permits the Commissioner to assess tuition for the period that a residency appeal is pending, "and for up to one year of a student's ineligible attendance in a school district prior to the appeal's filing and including the 21-day period to file an appeal." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2. Notably, this regulation applies when an appeal is filed by a "parent, guardian, adult student or a school district resident keeping an 'affidavit' student." N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.2. As this appeal was filed by B.K.'s parent, the limitations of this regulation would otherwise apply.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that petitioner failed to sustain her burden of establishing that she was a domiciliary of Howell Township for the 2014-2015, 2015-2016, and 2016-2017 school years. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the minor child was, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in the District's schools during this time.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b, the Commissioner shall assess tuition against petitioner for the time period during which the minor child was ineligible to attend school in Howell Township. Here, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, because petitioner only became aware by way of a letter dated December 9, 2016 that her home was in Brick Township rather than Howell Township – and that the District was partially at fault for the minor child's acceptance into the District – the Board is only entitled to reimbursement from December 9, 2016 to the end of the 2016-2017 school year.

The Commissioner does not find the Board's exceptions to be persuasive. The Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that part of the error in admitting B.K. to Howell Township's schools was the Board's fault. T.K. did not give a false address on her enrollment form, and the District did not realize that it admitted a child who lived outside the District. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(b) allows the Commissioner to make an equitable determination regarding whether tuition should be assessed, and "[i]n making the determination, the district board of education or Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error." As such, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that an equitable determination was warranted in this case.

The ALJ ordered that petitioner reimburse the Board in the amount of $84.24 per day from December 9, 2016 to the end of the 2016-2017 school year. However, the present record lacks information required to calculate the amount of tuition owed to the District – specifically, the number of days of ineligible attendance by the minor child. The ALJ estimated the number of days of ineligible attendance at "about one-half" of the school year, but an accurate count of the number of ineligible days from December 9, 2016 to the end of the 2016-2017 school year is necessary in order to calculate the exact amount of tuition owed to the Board.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for calculation of tuition due to the District and supplementation of the record as warranted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 00360-17
AGENCY REF. NO. 317-12/16

T.K., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, B.K.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOWELL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,
Respondent.

T.K., on behalf of minor child, B.K., petitioner, pro se

Jan L. Wouters, Esq., for respondent (Bathgate, Wegener & Wolf, PC, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 19, 2017 Decided: September 8, 2017

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, T.K., on behalf of minor child, B.K., appeals the residency determination, and tuition due associated with same, of the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Howell, Monmouth County (Board), disallowing their minor child, B.K., from attending public school within the respondent's school District. The Board seeks to remove B.K. from its schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), and demands tuition reimbursement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, T.K., on behalf of minor child, B.K., filed a pro se residency appeal with the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, appealing respondent's determination that B.K. did not reside in the District, and in fact lived in Brick Township, New Jersey. On January 4, 2017, the Board filed an answer. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on January 10, 2017, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J..A.C. 6A:3-1 et seq. and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. A hearing was held on July 19, 2017, and the record closed. An order of extension was entered to extend the time for filing the initial decision in this matter.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Ronald Sanasac (Sanasac), Assistant Superintendent for Business, Administration/ Board Secretary, testified on behalf of the respondent. He stated that he oversees enrollment for the District, and identified and reviewed the Howell Township Board of Education's policy regarding eligibility for attendance at the Howell Township schools (P-1). Sanasac noted that the policy must be followed in determining if a student is eligible to attend. He advised that the policy provided admittance to all eligible students who were domiciled within the District as defined by the regulation. He noted that a student must reside in Howell Township, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A: 22-3.1. If a student is domiciled within the District, they may attend. Sanasac testified that if a student is located within two or more school districts, they attend the municipality to which the majority of their property tax is paid.

Sanasac also reviewed a deed for the property owned by B.K.'s parents (P-3), dated October 26, 2009, which notes that the municipality in which the petitioner's house exists is Brick Township, New Jersey. The property is on Bayberry Court, with a Howell Township mailing address, but a physical location of Brick Township, and Sanasac noted that this is not an uncommon situation.

Sanasac noted that the petitioner was enrolled in the school district in 2014. At that time, the District had a decentralized process by which registration and enrollment was performed at the school. Parents would go to the neighborhood school, register their children, and it was at that location where they would complete the enrollment packet. Sanasac indicated that the system has changed, and that the enrollment process is now centralized in the administrative building. Software has been upgraded, and families go to the Administration building to finalize their packet.

Sanasac then reviewed a student enrollment packet that was completed for the petitioner (P-4), and identified Bayberry Court in Howell Township as the address. He noted that the packet has a mailing address field which was left blank. He also noted that the packet included an affidavit which is signed by the parent. In that affidavit it is stated that the parent acknowledges, and understands, that the child must be domiciled in Howell Township. It was noted that the affidavit was signed by B.K.'s mother on January 24, 2014. The affidavit also states that the signer acknowledges that if they make willfully false statements, they are subject to criminal penalties and back tuition. Sanasac also noted the District of Howell Township does not have a private parent-pay tuition program.

Sanasac described that when another resident recently presented themselves for central registration, they came up as residing in Brick Township. That family indicated that their neighbor had a child enrolled in Howell Township. At that point, the District checked the registration, and discovered the mistake that B.K. had been attending Howell Township schools while residing in Brick Township. The district notified the family, told the parents that they needed to disenroll B.K., and that if they did not, they would be responsible for tuition retroactive to September 2014, which included three school years, and a total amount of $44,433. In presenting his calculation, Sanasac referred to a statement that had been completed by the Board (P-5).

Sanasac stated that he believes that B.K. is not entitled to attend Howell Township schools because he is domiciled in Brick Township, a different town, in a different county than Howell Township.

On cross-examination, Sanasac noted that Bayberry Road does have addresses that do reside within the borders of Howell Township, and are eligible for attendance. He stated that the District had relied on the affidavit, and the truthfulness of the parent completing it.

Sanasac noted that on December 9, 2016, they sent notification to the parents, along with instructions for how to conduct an appeal. The District provided an opportunity for the parents to appeal, the parents appealed, and the Board of Education made its determination.

B.K.'s father J.K. testified on his behalf. J.K. stated that three years ago it was time to enroll their son in school. He did not know, and was not familiar with the District, and noted that they have a Howell Township mailing address. J.K. searched on the internet to determine that the Greenville School was the appropriate school in Howell Township. They went to register, provided the correct address and the District told him that they were in the right spot. J.K. stressed that the parents did not lie, and noted that his wife completed the packet. He stated that it is possible that they did not review all the fine print and made a mistake.

Two and one-half years later, B.K. was in the second grade, and they received a telephone call from the Board advising that they were in the wrong district. He noted that B.K. has an Individualized Education Program (IEP), and they did not want to change schools mid-year. However, the Board told J.K. that if they did not change schools by the following week, they would be charged for tuition. The parents asked if they could finish out the year, but were told no, at which time they decided to appeal the determination. They stated that they do know people who live in one school district, but send their children to schools in another district. They believe that they should not have to pay tuition because in this instance, it was also Howell Township Board's mistake.

Petitioner's mother, T.K., also testified. She stated that they did research on a website which identified the school they believed B.K. should attend. T.K. stated that they are a "by-the-book" family, and they do not want to fight the law. They understand where they live, but also note that their son has been in this District for three years, and has numerous friends. T.K. advised that they are selling their house so they can move into Howell Township to remain in the District, and are currently under attorney review for a pending sale. T.K. just wants her son to continue in the school where he has been. She believes that the District made a mistake as well in this matter, and does not understand why they should have to pay.

T.K. noted that the Board has been difficult to deal with, with the exception of Mr. Sanasac, who T.K. said was very nice and understanding. She said that while dealing with the Board, when they registered the petitioner, the school saw the address and thought they should be in a different school in Howell than the one they had gone to, but did not say Brick Township. She stated that her son has educational needs, and that the Howell School District has been helping him. T.K. advised that she did not know much about Brick Township, and whether they could provide the same services. She also stated that neighbors will sign a petition on their behalf.

On cross-examination, T.K. stated that from 2009 to the present she has lived in Brick Township, and she pays taxes in Brick Township. When asked where she voted, she stated that she does not vote. T.K. noted that her son attended preschool at Goddard School in Brick Township, which is a private school. She never thought that she was a Brick Township resident; she always thought that she was in Howell Township. J.K. also noted that she does not pay the bills that identify service locations.

B.K.'s father stated that taxes are paid in Brick Township, but also noted that those taxes are escrowed, and are paid by the mortgage company.

Considering the documentary and testimonial evidence presented in this matter, I FIND that petitioner is domiciled in Brick Township, New Jersey. I further FIND that students domiciled in Brick Township do not attend Howell Township schools. I further FIND that B.K. has attended Howell Township Schools for the period consisting of the entirety of the 2014-15, 2015-16, and 2016-17, school years. I further FIND that when registering B.K. in Howell Township schools, petitioner provided their correct address and that the District accepted B.K.'s enrollment. I FIND that the present issue arose when the District became aware of the residency discrepancy in the first half of the 2016-2017 school year, when a neighbor of the petitioner's attempted to register their child in Howell Township schools, and that petitioner became aware of the discrepancy when the District provided notice to them by way of letter on or about December 9, 2016.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including individuals who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Domicile has been defined as the place where a person has his true, fixed, permanent home, and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 250 (1955). The domicile of an unemancipated child is the domicile of the parent, custodian or guardian. P.B.K. ex rel. minor child E.Y. v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, 343 N.J. Super. 419, 427 (App. Div. 2001). Thus, a child would routinely attend school in the district where his or her parents live. N.J.A.C. 6A:22-3.1 provides that :

> (a) A student is eligible to attend a school district if he or she is domiciled within the school district.
> 1. A student is domiciled in the school district when he or she is the child of a parent or guardian whose domicile is located within the school district.

In the present matter, the record reflects that petitioner, B.K.'s parents with whom he resides, are not domiciled in the Howell Township School District. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that B.K. is not domiciled within the respondent School District, and is therefore not eligible to attend Howell Township schools while residing at their current address. Petitioner's appeal should be DENIED.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) provides that when the evidence does not support the claim of the resident, the resident shall be assessed tuition:

> for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the school district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced.

The record reflects that the actual cost of B.K.'s attendance in-District was $78.36 per day for the 2014-15 school year, and $84.24 for the 2015-16 and 2016-17 school years, and that B.K. attended Howell Township schools for the entirety of the three school years in question. Consequently, respondent is seeking a total of $44,433 in tuition reimbursement for B.K.'s attendance.

N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(a) provides that,

> Tuition assessed pursuant to this section shall be calculated on a per-student basis for the period of a student's ineligible enrollment, up to one year, by applicable grade/program category and consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:23A-17.1. The individual student's record of daily attendance shall not affect the calculation.

By its plain language, the regulation appears to limit the petitioner's exposure to a maximum of one school year's tuition, which would be $15,164 for the 2016-2017 school year.

However, N.J.A.C. 6A:22-6.3(b) provides that,

> Nothing in this chapter shall preclude an equitable determination by the district board of education or the Commissioner that tuition shall not be assessed for all or part of any period of a student's ineligible attendance in the school district when the particular circumstances of a matter so warrant. In making the determination, the district board of education or Commissioner shall consider whether the ineligible attendance was due to a school district's error.

In the present matter, the record reflects that petitioner provided their actual address where they resided to the District upon enrolling B.K. There was no attempt to conceal their domicile, and no staying with a relative. The District accepted B.K., and he attended school without incident, issue or allegation of improper attendance, until the District noticed the error when a neighbor of the petitioner's attempted to enroll their child in Howell Township Schools. The petitioner was made aware of the issue on or about December 9, 2016, when the District sent them a notice alerting them of such. The circumstances certainly lend credence to an understanding that while not entirely a school district error, B.K.'s ineligible attendance in Howell Township schools was due, at least in-part, to a shared error of the District and the parents.

Considering the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that an equitable determination is appropriate, and tuition shall not be assessed for the period of B.K.'s ineligible attendance prior to the error being brought to the attention of the petitioner by the District through the December 9, 2016 letter. With B.K.'s ineligible attendance, after notice was given, being about one-half of the school year, I CONCLUDE that the District is entitled to be reimbursed for tuition by petitioner in the amount of $7,582.

DECISION AND ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that the Board's determination be AFFIRMED and that petitioner pay respondent tuition in the total amount of $7,582 for unauthorized attendance in the District's school for the periods stated above. Petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE SUSPENSION OF	:
THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TERRONIE ORTIZ, GARFIELD PARK	:	DECISION
ACADEMY, BURLINGTON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions to the Initial Decision.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education by petitioner Garfield Park Academy (Academy), seeking suspension of respondent Terronie Ortiz's teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. The Academy alleged that respondent resigned from her part-time teaching position without providing the requisite notice to petitioner. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued an Initial Decision wherein she found that the respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct for failing to provide the Academy with the 60-day notice required under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 when she voluntarily accepted a full-time position with another District in order to obtain medical benefits. The ALJ further found that a one-year suspension of respondent's teaching certificate is the appropriate penalty.

Following the issuance of the Initial Decision, the parties entered into a consent judgment seeking to apply a one-month suspension of respondent's teaching certificate retroactively – from July 1, 2017 to August 1, 2017. The consent judgment contains an affidavit of respondent attesting that she has not worked as a teacher during the suspension period.

Upon a comprehensive review of this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the respondent is guilty of unprofessional conduct pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. With respect to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner may suspend a teacher's certificate for up to one year for wrongful cessation of performance of her duties, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. As the parties in this matter have agreed to a retroactive suspension of respondent's certificate, the Commissioner may – at her discretion – consider the proposed suspension, provided that respondent remained unemployed as a teacher for the duration of the suspension, and has attested to same by way of an affidavit. As the consent judgment contains the requisite affidavit, the Commissioner approves the within terms.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is modified as stated herein with respect to the appropriate penalty and the Commissioner approves the terms contained in the consent judgment. The matter is dismissed subject to compliance with the within terms. A copy of this decision is being forwarded to the State Board of Examiners to implement the consent judgment.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6996-14
AGENCY DKT. NO. 28-2/14

IN THE MATTER OF THE TEACHING CERTIFICATE OF TERRONIE ORTIZ, GARFIELD PARK ACADEMY, BURLINGTON COUNTY.

Kenneth D. Roth, Esq., appearing for petitioner, Garfield Park Academy (Marchetti Law, PC, attorneys)

Keith Talbot, Esq., appearing for respondent, Terronie Ortiz (Legal Services of New Jersey, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 16, 2017 Decided: July 24, 2017

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Garfield Park Academy (GPA), an approved private school for the disabled, seeks a one-year suspension of respondent Terronie Ortiz's (respondent or Ortiz) teaching certificate because she resigned from her part-time teaching position without providing sixty-days' notice, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10. Respondent contends that she resigned due to medical issues and the lack of medical-insurance coverage.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about November 27, 2013, the petitioner filed an Order to Show Cause on behalf of GPA against the respondent with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner). On December 16, 2013, the Commissioner ordered that the respondent show cause as to why an Order suspending the teaching certificate should not be entered for unprofessional conduct, and provided her with twenty days to respond. The respondent filed a response on or about April 12, 2014. On June 5, 2014, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On June 18, 2014, the petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. No response was filed by the respondent, who was then pro se. That motion was denied on August 1, 2014, and the matter was scheduled for hearing. Several scheduled hearing dates were adjourned at the request of either the petitioner or the respondent. In the meantime, the respondent retained counsel.

On April 6, 2017, the respondent moved for summary decision. On April 10, 2017, the petitioner cross-moved for summary decision. The last brief was received on June 16, 2017.[1]

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

In June 2013, Ortiz entered a contract with GPA as "a part-time Teacher of Computer Technology for the 2013–2014 school year beginning August 27, 2013 and concluding June 20, 2014."[2] The contract stated that "[e]mployment at GPA is 'at will' which means that any employee may voluntarily leave employment upon giving the [1] A letter dated May 4, 2017, was received from the petitioner on May 17, 2017, requesting denial of respondent's motion.

[2] Ortiz had also worked for GPA under one-year contracts for the 2011–2012 and 2012–2013 school years.

required written notice and may be terminated by GPA at any time for any or no reason," and that "[a]ll Teachers . . . are required to provide not less than 60 days[']' written notice of resignation." The contract also indicated that Ortiz's "Certification/Degree is Prov. Teacher of Computer Technology."[3] Ortiz was required to work thirty hours per week in her part-time position, but her employment contract did not include GPA-provided health insurance for her or her family.

By letter dated November 7, 2013, Ortiz notified Steven A. Morse, Ed.D., who is the executive director/superintendent of GPA, of her resignation from her position.[4] In the letter, Ortiz wrote, "I have been offered a full time position with benefits with a tentative start date of Nov 18, 2013."[5] Ortiz further stated, "[t]his decision to leave is based strictly on my needs for full time employment and benefits," and, "[i]f you can offer me a full time position with benefits immediately I will reconsider the offer that is on the table."

On November 12, 2013, Dr. Morse met with Ortiz to discuss her resignation. Dr. Morse explained to Ortiz that "her contract with [GPA] requires 60-days[']' written notice and her abrupt resignation was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10." In an email dated November 14, 2013, Ortiz told Dr. Morse that, "[a]fter meeting with the pending school of Hire on 11/12/13[,] [i]t was determined by the Principal and Director that unfortunately, they cannot afford me a 60 day waiting period. They are expecting me to start on 11/18/13." Shortly thereafter, Ortiz sent Dr. Morse another email, stating, "I am sadly [sic] to inform you of my resignation effective 11/15/13. . . . My family well-being and the opportunity to have health benefits to support my family are paramount in this situation."

On December 4, 2013, the Commissioner of Education received a request from GPA to suspend Ortiz's teaching certificate pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 for resigning from her position without providing GPA with the sixty-days' notice required by her employment contract. The Commissioner subsequently issued to Ortiz an Order to

[3] The papers submitted by the parties do not indicate whether Ortiz has since obtained a standard certificate.
[4] According to Dr. Morse, he did not receive the letter until November 11, 2013.
[5] It is not clear when Ortiz applied for or interviewed for this position.

Show Cause why her teaching certificate should not be suspended for unprofessional conduct.[6]

In her answer, Ortiz asserted that she resigned from her part-time position with GPA to accept a full-time position as a computer teacher with a different school because she needed the health benefits and extra hours included with the new position. She repeatedly asked GPA for "health care benefits and/or the possibility of becoming full time staff or even working extra hours to compensate my 30 hours a week earning to be able to provide for my family of 4 as the sole provider," but GPA did not grant her requests. When she received the job offer, Ortiz immediately notified GPA and asked if GPA could "grant me some form of medical benefits and/or full time."

According to Ortiz, Dr. Morse told her that GPA "could not give [her] medical and or full time" and that GPA needed sixty-days' notice before she could terminate her employment. However, the other employer "could not allow [Ortiz] the 60 days to start as they [were] in desperate need of a computer teacher." As a result, Ortiz "finally made the choice to go with the new school base[d] on the benefit package [and] full time employment."

[6] Under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-3.1:

> (a) If in the course of supervising the schools, and following investigation, the Commissioner becomes aware of violation(s) of the school laws in school districts which if true would entitle the Commissioner to impose a sanction on the Commissioner's own initiative, the Commissioner may accord the district board of education or any other party subject to the Commissioner's jurisdiction an opportunity to present its views preliminary to imposing such sanction by issuing an order directing such board or party to show cause why such sanction should not be imposed. . . . An order to show cause shall be appropriate in the following circumstances . . . :
>
> > 4. Suspending teachers' certificates for wrongful cessation of duties (N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 and 18A:28-8).

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The issue presented here is whether the teaching certificate of respondent Terronie Ortiz should be suspended for up to one year in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10, which provides that > [a]ny teaching staff member employed by . . . an approved private school for the disabled, who shall, without the consent of . . . the board of directors of the school, cease to perform his duties before the expiration of the term of his employment, shall be deemed guilty of unprofessional conduct, and the commissioner may . . . suspend his certificate for a period not exceeding one year.

GPA alleges that because the respondent resigned from her part-time teaching position without providing GPA with sixty-days' notice, as required by her employment contract, her teaching certificate must be suspended for one year.

In support of its motion for summary decision imposing the suspension for one year, GPA argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 applies to part-time, at-will employees such as Ortiz, and that her certificate should be suspended for the one-year statutory maximum because Ortiz "clearly made the unilateral decision to resign with full knowledge that her notice did not satisfy the notice requirements and acted solely in her own self-interest and that of her family rather than in the interest [of] the students with whose education she was charged."

GPA has submitted the certifications of several GPA employees. In his certification, Dr. Morse asserts that "[a]t that point in the school year [November] it was extremely difficult to find a qualified replacement and Ms. Ortiz's departure . . . affected the educational continuity of her students." In another certification, Michele Heinz, GPA's business manager, maintains that Ortiz "did tell me that she needed health insurance for her family and also stated that she was ill and needed health insurance," but that "[o]n each occasion I told her that health insurance benefits were not available for part time employees." Ms. Heinz also asserts that "[t]he attendance and punctuality record of Ms. Ortiz did not reflect any serious or chronic health issues that impacted her job performance."

In her motion, Ortiz argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 applies to "staff on a tenure type track and clearly does not apply to a temporary[,] part time[,] at will employee," and that, even if the statute did apply to Ortiz, her certificate should not be suspended because her GPA employment contract did not include any language indicating that her certificate could be suspended for failure to provide sixty-days' notice prior to resignation.

Ortiz also raises an affirmative defense under the Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -49, alleging that:

> (1) Ms. Ortiz had a severe medical condition associated with fibroids, which required ongoing medical treatment and attention;[7] (2) Ms. Ortiz requested reasonable accommodation and interactive process because of her need for medical benefits regarding her disability; (3) [GPA] refused to engage in the interactive process; (4) Ms. Ortiz resigned in the face of this unlawful action in order to protect her health; and (5) [GPA] then engaged in retaliatory action for the resistance of Ms. Ortiz to its unlawful action of refusing to engage in the interactive process for a reasonable accommodation for a disability, by filing a license suspension action with the New Jersey Department of Education, for the appropriate response to unlawful conduct by the employer.

In support of her motion, Ortiz submitted a certification asserting:

> I have had fibroids and serious health pain as a result, which effects [sic] my ability to work and which is a serious health concern. Given the ongoing health issues, with this condition, I needed some form of health assistance or health insurance for my health issues. Even though I expressed these concerns to [GPA], the administrative and Human > resources staff did not engage in the required interactive process. If there had been restructuring of my work hours, or assistance on health care, even short of health insurance, I would have liked to remain at [GPA].

Ortiz further asserts that she told several GPA administrative staff members about her health problems and need for health insurance, but that they told her that GPA could not offer her health insurance. According to Ortiz, "[i]f [GPA] had offered some extra hours, or some money towards health insurance, I may have been able to stay, especially since the job was very close to my house, and I wanted to stay if I could."

Standards for Summary Decision

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Such motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits" and "[t]he decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). However, a motion for summary decision shall be denied if, by responding affidavit, an adverse party "set[s] forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

Suspension of Certificate

Here, the parties dispute whether Ortiz's teaching certificate should be suspended for unprofessional conduct in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.[8] A teacher may escape liability under the statute if she provides her employer with adequate notice, which "is dictated by the terms of the parties' employment contract" and is meant "to better enable the Board to find an adequate replacement for the teacher while protecting the educative process for the children."[9] Carrelle v. Bd. of Educ. of Bloomfield, Commissioner Decision No. 49-04 (February 10, 2004), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>; Boguszewski v. Bd. of Educ. of Woodcliff Lake, 1979 S.L.D. 727, 729.

Also, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 "does not dictate the automatic suspension of a teacher's certificate upon satisfaction of its terms but, rather, vests the Commissioner with the discretion to withhold such penalty if he feels the particular circumstances of the case so warrant." In re Falco, EDU 9283-98, Comm'r (May 24, 1999), aff'g Initial Decision (April 7, 1999), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Generally, the Commissioner will suspend the certificate of a teacher for the one-year maximum under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 if the teacher fails to provide adequate notice purely out of self-interest. For example, in Board of Education of Penns Grove-Carneys Point Regional School District v. Leinen, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 405, the Commissioner

[8] In 2005, the Legislature amended N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 to cover teachers at approved private schools for the disabled. According to the sponsor of the bill that eventually became the new law, > [s]taff members who leave before the expiration of their contracts disrupt services. In light of the current shortage of certified special education teachers, this behavior can be especially hard on pupils at schools for the disabled. The Department of Education requires approved private schools for the disabled to provide contracts for certified employees. It is therefore only appropriate to grant pupils at these schools the breach protection currently afforded public schools under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

> [Statement to S1419 (March 29, 2004).]

[9] N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 applies only to non-tenured teachers. Carrelle, supra, Comm'r Decision No. 49-04 (February 10, 2004), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>. In contrast, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 governs the suspension of tenured teachers who fail to provide a school board with "at least 60 days[']' written notice" of resignation.

imposed a one-year suspension on a teacher who provided less than half of the sixty-days' notice required under her employment contract due to "her desire to accept a position she wanted" with a different school district and who "did not cooperate with the Board or administration to ensure a smooth transition" upon her departure. Id. at 407, 408.

In another case, In re Creekmur, EDU 4041-11, Initial Decision (November 21, 2011) (quoting In re Capshaw, EDU 12318-06, Initial Decision (April 30, 2007), modified, Comm'r (June 12, 2007)), adopted, Comm'r (January 4, 2012), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, a teacher's certificate was suspended for one year due to "his abrupt resignation from his teaching position, without notice" in order to start another job that "presented a better opportunity" for his career, and "with nary a concern about the well-being of the . . . students in need of his assistance, [the school's] ability to find a suitable replacement on such short notice, or the increased workload for his co-workers."

In several cases where a teacher did not provide his employer with adequate notice of his resignation, the Commissioner either declined to impose a suspension or imposed a suspension for less than one year due to mitigating circumstances. For example, in Board of Education of Black Horse Pike Regional School District v. Mooney, 1984 S.L.D. 810, the Commissioner denied a school board's request to suspend a teacher's certificate under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 because the teacher resigned on short notice due to the compelling fact that her husband took a job in California and because she "gave immediate notice to the Board in writing and she assisted [her replacement] in the development of a program through the end of the school year." Id. at 811, 816.

In In re Rogers, 1989 S.L.D. 1962, 1964, 1966, the Commissioner suspended a teacher's certificate for only three months even though he gave his employer a day's notice of his resignation, because "it was not to feather his own nest that [the teacher] failed to fulfill his contract with the Board, but rather from honest and noble motivations" to "work with the severely and multiply handicapped" at a State development center.

Finally, in In re Bordon, EDU 12810-14, Initial Decision (June 18, 2015), adopted, Comm'r (July 29, 2015), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>, a teacher's certificate was suspended for three months, and not one year, because, although she gave her employer less than two-weeks' notice of her resignation, she did so in order to take a lower-paying teaching position at a school closer to her home after suffering a leg injury that made driving difficult. In that case, the administrative law judge concluded, and the Commissioner agreed, that, although the teacher violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 by providing less than the sixty-days' notice required by her contract, a three-month suspension was appropriate because her "conduct was not motivated by personal gain [she took a $20,000 pay cut], but rather by a very real medical crisis," and "because the Board, through its administration, made no effort to acknowledge her medical concerns, or offer to discuss any constructive solution."

Despite such cases, the Commissioner has noted that "circumstances justifying relief to a teaching staff member who has violated the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 are rare." In re Falco, supra, EDU 9283-98, Comm'r (May 24, 1999), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Teaching Staff Member

The definition of "teaching staff member" at N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 does not distinguish between full-time teachers and part-time teachers, and there is no case law to suggest that N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 does not apply to part-time teachers at approved private schools for the disabled like GPA.

Moreover, in her answer to the Commissioner's order to show cause, Ortiz asserted that she worked thirty hours per week, which is very close to the thirty-five to forty hours per week generally considered full-time employment. An abrupt departure by a part-time teacher working thirty-hour weeks would be nearly as disruptive as the abrupt departure of a full-time teacher working thirty-five-hour weeks. Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 was amended in 2005 to specifically include teachers at private schools for the disabled because abrupt departures by teachers "can be especially hard on pupils at schools for the disabled."

Due-Process Rights

Ortiz also argues that GPA violated her due-process rights by failing to include in her employment contract a statement that her teaching certificate could be suspended under N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 if she did not provide adequate notice of her resignation. However, as the Commissioner has stated, "there is nothing in the applicable statutes that requires a District to notify a teacher of its intent to seek suspension of the teacher's certification if the 60-day notice requirement is not fulfilled." In re Farran, Comm'r Decision No. 113-05 (March 29, 2005), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/commissioner/>.

As an initial matter, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 applies to a non-tenured teaching-staff member such as Ortiz. The notice required under that statutory provision is "dictated by the terms" of the employment contract between GPA and Ortiz. It is clear from the papers submitted that Ortiz's employment contract required her to provide GPA with sixty-days' notice, but that she resigned from her position with less than two-weeks' notice; that she did so without GPA's consent; and that, as a result, Ortiz violated the letter of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10.

Here, summary decision in favor of GPA is appropriate.

Suspension of Teaching Certificate

The next issue is whether Ortiz's teaching certificate should be suspended, and if so, for how long.

As in Leinen and Creekmur, a suspension of Ortiz's teaching certificate is appropriate because she resigned from her position on very short notice to do what was best for her and "with nary a concern about the well-being of the . . . students in need of [her] assistance, [the school's] ability to find a suitable replacement on such short notice, or the increased workload for [her] co-workers." Indeed, Ortiz resigned from her position two months into the school year. As Dr. Morse asserted, "[a]t that point in the school year it was extremely difficult to find a qualified replacement and Ms. Ortiz's departure . . . affected the educational continuity of her students."

Unlike in Mooney, in which the teacher had little choice but to resign from her position because her husband took a job in California, Ortiz could have chosen to stay at her job, which was close to her home, and looked for a full-time job at or near the end of her contract. Instead, two months into the school year, she "made the choice to go with the new school base[d] on the benefit package [and] full time employment." And although Ortiz did ask the new employer if she could start the full-time job at a time that would not violate the terms of her contract with GPA, when the new employer denied her request, Ortiz simply left her job at GPA and, unlike the teacher in Mooney, did not offer to help GPA fill the void created by her abrupt departure.

Moreover, unlike the teacher in Rogers, Ortiz did not leave her job at GPA for altruistic reasons but, again, because she simply wanted a full-time job with health benefits. And unlike the teacher in Bordon, whose "conduct was not motivated by personal gain, but rather by a very real medical crisis," Ortiz was motivated by personal gain and has failed to show that she resigned due to a "very real medical crisis." Also unlike Bordon, in which the teacher received a reduced suspension in part "because the Board, through its administration, made no effort to acknowledge her medical concerns, or offer to discuss any constructive solution," the papers show that GPA did acknowledge Ortiz's medical concerns, but that, as a part-time employee, she was not entitled to health insurance through her employer.

While Ortiz alleges that GPA discriminated against her by failing to reasonably accommodate her "disability," she has provided nothing that indicates that she had a disability; she has not shown that a reasonable accommodation includes the provision of health insurance for a part-time employee or that other part-time GPA employees received health insurance; and she, in fact, asked for more, not fewer, hours from GPA.[10]

The facts do not indicate that Ortiz left her job because GPA discriminated against her, but instead show that Ortiz left her job because she wanted more money and health insurance. In her own words, Ortiz told GPA, "[t]his decision to leave is based strictly on my needs for full time employment and benefits," and, "[i]f you can offer me a full time position with benefits immediately I will reconsider the offer that is on the table." Ortiz has also stated, "[i]f [GPA] had offered some extra hours, or some money towards health insurance, I may have been able to stay, especially since the job was very close to my house, and I wanted to stay if I could."

In weighing the aggravating factors—leaving early in the school year with less than the required sixty-days' notice; loss of continuity in educating the students—against the mitigating factors—the position was an at-will employee who could have been terminated at any time; the position was part-time without tenure and carried no benefits; the petitioner attempted to reach an accord with the respondent regarding her departure—it is clear that the aggravating factors outweigh the mitigating ones.

Ortiz violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 when she failed to provide GPA with sixty-days' notice of her resignation. She has failed to prove that GPA failed to participate in the interactive process; failed to demonstrate that she had a medical condition that required accommodation; and failed to prove that an employer has an obligation to provide medical insurance or to move a part-time employee to a full-time position because of a medical condition or the need for medical insurance. The unanticipated departure of a teacher working thirty hours per week with disabled children is a significant loss to a school in November when it is more difficult to find a replacement. Moreover, the respondent departed GPA after giving only two weeks' notice and did not provide assistance to any incoming instructor, unlike the respondent in Mooney, supra, 1984 S.L.D. 810.

[10] The only information Ortiz has provided with respect to her medical condition are a generic informational card for "patients diagnosed with uterine fibroids," which was issued to her by doctors in New York on January 17, 2012, and insurance documents indicating that she met with a gynecologist on June 22, 2014, and had an MRI taken of her pelvis on June 30, 2014.

While it is understandable that Ortiz would prefer a full-time job with health benefits over a part-time job without health benefits, this preference does not outweigh the need of the educational facility to have faculty prepared to teach the students. As in Leinen, supra, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 405, the stated reasons for resigning without adequate notice are not sufficient to overcome the requirement to suspend Ortiz's teaching certificate for a period of one year.

CONCLUSION

Based on the uncontested facts and the applicable law, the GPA's motion for summary decision shall be granted and Ortiz's motion for summary decision shall be denied.

A one-year suspension of Ortiz's teaching certificate is appropriate because she violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 by abruptly resigning from her position after the school year had begun to accept a full-time position with health benefits at a different school, and the mitigating factors presented do not warrant a reduced suspension.

ORDER

The motion for summary decision of the respondent, Garfield Park Academy, is GRANTED. The respondent, Terronie Ortiz, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:26-10 by leaving her teaching position without providing sixty-days' notice. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that her teaching certificate shall be suspended for a period of one year.

The respondent's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

TERRONIE ORTIZ,
Respondent .

CONSENT JUDGMENT

THIS MATTER having come before the Court by Kenneth D. Roth, Esquire of the law firm Marchetti Law, PC, attorneys for Petitioner Garfield Park Academy and Keith Talbot, Esquire of Legal Services of New Jersey, attorneys for the Respondent, Terronie Ortiz and it being represented to the Court that the parties hereto have reached an amicable resolution of the issues raised in the Petition and the parties hereto having indicated their consent to the form and entry of this Order upon the stipulations set forth below;

1. Petitioner Garfield Park Academy seeks to protect its interest in having a stable workforce in serving its student clientele with disabilities and its substantial and fair interest in receiving 60 day notice of leaving from its employees; and

2. Respondent Terronie Ortiz sets forth good faith and mitigating reasons for failing to provide the requisite 60 day notice prior to leaving her position at Garfield Park Academy; and

3. Petitioner and Respondent have chosen to enter into this Consent Judgment in order to avoid further proceedings with respect to this matter, and that all claims made regarding this litigation are released.

4. Respondent agrees to release Petitioner, and unconditionally and irrevocably give up and release, to the full extent permitted by law, Petitioner and its past, present, and future, and direct and indirect parent organizations, subsidiaries, divisions, affiliated entities, and its and its partners, officers, directors, trustees, administrators, fiduciaries, employment benefit plans and/or pension plans or funds, executors, attorneys, employees, insurers, reinsurers, and/or agents, and their successors and assigns, individually and in their official capacities (collectively referred to herein as "Released Parties" or "Released Party"), jointly and severally, of and from all claims, known or unknown, that Respondent has or may have against Released Parties and their Counsel as of the date of this Consent Judgment, including, but not limited to, issues in this litigation, or otherwise arising out of Respondent's employment or cessation of employment with Petitioner, or any alleged violation of:

- Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964;
- Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code;
- The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") (as modified below);
- The Immigration Reform and Control Act;
- The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990;
- The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 ("ADEA");
- The Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act;
- The Fair Credit Reporting Act;
- The Family and Medical Leave Act;
- The Equal Pay Act;

- any other federal, state or local law, rule, regulation, or ordinance;
- any public policy, contract, tort, or common law; or
- any basis for recovering costs, fees, or other expenses including attorneys' fees incurred in these matters.

5. The parties agree to this Consent Judgment with the New Jersey Department of Education to resolve this matter, and upon the approval and entry of the Consent Judgment and its terms this agreement shall become final. The terms of the Consent are as follows:

a. The teaching certificate of Respondent shall be suspended retroactively for the period of July 1, 2017 to August 1, 2017, during which time Respondent did not use her teaching certificate for income or teaching purposes as set forth in the certification attached hereto as Exhibit B.

b. Respondent had good faith and mitigating circumstances with regard to her departure from employment with Petitioner, including that i) that she had health issues which needed ongoing treatment, for which health insurance was needed, and due to her part time status, she did not have; ii) that the school management of the school with students with special needs, where Respondent accepted employment, had informed her that penalties would not be enforced against her due to temporary part time status.

c. Petitioner releases Respondent, and unconditionally and irrevocably gives up, to the full extent permitted by law, all claims, known or unknown, that Petitioner has or may have against Respondent and her Counsel as of the date of the entry of this Consent Judgment including, but not limited to, issues in this litigation, or otherwise arising out of Respondent's previous employment or cessation of employment with Petitioner.

The above is so ordered, this ___ day of ____, 2017 and this Consent Judgment shall be entered on the record of this proceeding and the record of the Respondent.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release ("this Agreement") is entered into by and between Judith Russell ("Russell") and the Camden City School District (the "District"). Together. Russell and the District may be referred to herein as "the Parties."

WHEREAS. Russell is a Teacher of the Handicapped with the District:

WHEREAS. the District served Russell with certain Tenure Charges and a Statement of Evidence (the "Tenure Charges") on August 8. 2017:

WHEREAS. the District certified the Tenure Charges against Russell with the Commissioner of Education on September 7. 2017:

WHEREAS. Russell wishes to resign effective September 30. 2017: and

WHEREAS. the Parties mutually desire to resolve the Tenure Charges and all other matters related to Russell's employment with the District and believe this resolution is in the public interest:

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS HEREBY AGREED by and between the Parties as follows:

1. Effective Date: This Agreement shall take effect on the date it is fully executed by the Parties. and as such. deemed ratified by the State Superintendent as the authorized representative of the District in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-35.

2. Separation from Employment:

   (a) Russell shall provide the District immediately. through its counsel. Brown & Connery. LLP with an irrevocable letter of resignation effective September 30. 2017. which shall be attached as Exhibit "A" to this Agreement:

   (b) In consideration for Russell's irrevocable letter of resignation effective September 30. 2017 and general release of claims and covenant not to sue in accordance with Sections 6 and 7 of this Agreement. the District agrees not to pursue tenure charges against Russell and Russell shall receive her wages in the normal course during the month of September 2017:

   (c) The District agrees not to pursue any disciplinary action including under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-8 against Russell as a result of her executing this Agreement:

   (d) Russell shall remain eligible for all District medical benefits through October 31. 2017. Her portion of the premium for those benefits for the months of September and October 2017 shall be deducted from her wages in September 2017 in the normal course as set forth in paragraph 4. She will be offered COBRA insurance coverage in the normal course: and

(c) The District shall provide Russell with a neutral reference of only what is required by law, namely, her employment time period, where she was employed, and her final annual salary.

3. Dismissal of Tenure Charges: the District shall take all necessary actions with the Commissioner of Education or her designee to withdraw the Tenure Charges against Russell bearing agency reference number 203-9 17.

4. Wages and Medical Benefits:

(a) The District shall pay Russell her wages in the normal course during the month of September 2017 less all applicable deductions withholdings, including Russell's portion of the premium for her District medical benefits for the months of September and October 2017 as set forth below in paragraph 3(c).

(b) Russell shall remain eligible for all District medical benefits through October 31, 2017.

(c) At the time of Russell's irrevocable resignation effective September 30, 2017, she will owe outstanding sums for her portion of the premium for her District medical benefits for the months of September and October 2017. Russell's portion of the premium for her District medical benefits is two hundred thirty one dollars and twenty two cents ($231.22) per paycheck or four hundred sixty two dollars and forty four cents ($462.44) per month. Accordingly, nine hundred and twenty four dollars and eighty eight cents ($924.88) shall be deducted from her wages for the month of September 2017.

(d) Upon the District's receipt and prompt verification and examination of District property as set forth in paragraph 4 below, Russell's wages for the month of September 2017, less all applicable deductions withholdings, including Russell's portion of the premium for her District medical benefits for the months of September and October 2017 as set forth in paragraph 4(c), shall be paid no later than September 29, 2017.

5. Safe Return of all District Property: Russell's receipt of the wages set forth in paragraph 3 above is expressly contingent upon her safely returning all District property in her possession without damage and in proper working order.

(a) Upon execution of this Agreement, Russell must immediately provide Brown & Connery, LLP (360 Haddon Avenue, Westmont, New Jersey 08108) with all District property in her possession. Brown & Connery, LLP, within two (2) days of receipt of the property, will then submit the property to the District for prompt verification and examination. If the District property is not damaged and is in proper working order, the District will ensure Russell receives payment for her wages as set forth in paragraph 3 above.

(b) In the event Russell fails to return all District property in her possession and or the property returned is damaged and not in proper working order, the District shall determine its total loss and deduct this amount from her wages as set forth in paragraph 3 above.

6. General Release: Russell releases the District from all known and unknown charges, complaints, claims, grievances, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, controversies, damages, actions, causes of action, suits, rights, demands, costs, losses, debts, penalties, fees, and expenses (including attorneys' fees and costs actually incurred) of any nature whatsoever that Russell has, ever had, or may have had, against the District, whether or not apparent or yet to be discovered, or which may hereafter develop, for any acts or omissions relating to or arising from anything that has happened up to the Effective Date of this Agreement. This includes, but is not limited to, any claims that Russell asserted, or may have asserted, under the following: the National Labor Relations Act; the Civil Rights Act of 1964; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Employment Retirement Income Security Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Age Discrimination & Employment Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Occupational Safety & Health Act; the Family & Medical Leave Act; the Equal Pay Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Wage Payment Law; The New Jersey Minimum Wage Law; the Equal Pay Law for New Jersey; the New Jersey Worker Health & Safety Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; N.J.S.A. 18A; The Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey (TEACHNJ) Act; N.J.A.C. 6A; any constitution, statute, regulation, ordinance, executive order, public policy or common law; any written, verbal or implied contract; and any other authority or basis for seeking damages or relief of any kind. This release is intended to be broadly construed and applies to any and all claims and potential claims whatsoever, including those of which Russell is not aware, resulting from anything that has happened up to the Effective Date of this Agreement.

7. Covenant Not to Sue: Russell warrant she has not commenced any legal proceedings of any type (including but not limited to charges filed with any governmental agency) against the District. Further, Russell agrees that she will not commence any legal proceedings against the District arising from or relating to anything that has happened up to the Effective Date of this Agreement. Should any such legal proceedings be commenced on Russell's behalf, Russell agrees that she will not seek or accept any relief or recovery therefrom. In the event of a violation of this paragraph, Russell agrees that the District shall be entitled to immediate dismissal of the legal proceedings, and that she shall be responsible for the District's attorneys' fees and costs incurred in connection with those legal proceedings. Should any entity, agency, commission, or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Section 6, Russell agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever, in accordance with this section.

8. Claims Not Released: Notwithstanding Sections 6 and 7 of this Agreement, it is understood and agreed that Russell is not waiving: (a) claims that were filed or could be filed under any state workers' compensation or unemployment law or any claim arising from a breach of this agreement; or (b) challenges to the validity of this Agreement under the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act. Russell represents that she is not aware of any present basis for such claims. Should any entity, agency, commission, or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Section 6, Russell agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever, in accordance with Section 7, above.

9. Older Workers Benefit Protection Act: The releases in section 6 above include a waiver and release of all claims under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act ("ADEA") and the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act ("OWBPA"). Therefore, pursuant to the requirements of the ADEA and OWBPA, Russell specifically acknowledges that:

(a) She has been advised to consult with an attorney of her choosing concerning the legal significance of this Agreement and has done so;

(b) This Agreement is written in a manner that she understands;

(c) The consideration set forth this Agreement consists of benefits to which she is not otherwise entitled and is adequate and sufficient to support her promises, covenants and releases as set forth in this Release;

(d) She has been afforded twenty-one (21) days to consider this Agreement before executing it, that any changes thereto subsequently agreed upon by the parties, whether material or immaterial, do not restart this period for consideration, and that by signing and returning this Agreement before the end of the twenty-one (21) day period she will have knowingly and voluntarily waived the right to consider this Agreement for the full consideration period; and

(e) She has been advised that during the seven (7) day period following her execution of this Agreement, she may revoke her acceptance of this Agreement by delivering written notice to counsel for Company (as identified below), and that this Agreement shall not become effective or enforceable until after the revocation period has expired:

Louis R. Lessig, Esquire
Brown & Connery, LLP
360 Haddon Ave.
Westmont, NJ 08108

10. Not Eligible for Rehire: Russell acknowledges and agrees that her employment with the District is irrevocably severed upon the effective date of this Agreement and that she is ineligible for re-hire as an employee of the District. Russell agrees not to apply for re-employment with the District. If, for some reason, the District receives an application for Russell's employment, the District shall have no obligation to consider or review her application for employment.

11. No Admission of Liability: This Agreement is not, and may not be construed as, an admission of liability by either Party.

12. Entire Agreement: This Agreement encompasses the sole and entire agreement between the Parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by the Parties, and expressly stated to represent an amendment or supersession to this Agreement.

13. Severability: If any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder will be fully enforceable.

14. Applicable Law and Construction: This Agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey; however, since each party to this Agreement and their counsel have reviewed and negotiated this Agreement, the general rule of construction that any ambiguity or uncertainty in a writing shall be interpreted against the party drafting the writing shall not apply to any action relating to this Agreement. Any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement shall only be brought in a court of competent jurisdiction in Camden County, New Jersey.

15. Counterparts: This Agreement may be exercised in more than one counterpart and each counterpart shall be considered an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same.

16. Individuals Bound: This Agreement is binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, executors, administrators, personal or legal representatives, successors and or assigns.

17. Breach: Russell understands that if she breaches any provision of this Agreement, the District will file an action to enforce this Agreement. Likewise, the District understands that if it breaches any provision of this Agreement, Russell will file an action to enforce this Agreement. Any action to enforce this Agreement shall be brought in Camden County Superior Court.

18. Notices: Any notice given or demand made pursuant to this Agreement shall be made by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the following persons at the following addresses:

PETITIONERS, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the determination of the respondent Board that their child, A.W., engaged in behavior that constituted an act of Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) pursuant to the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. This case stems from an incident in March 2014 between two seventh graders – A.W. and J.S. – during social studies class. Following an investigation by the school's HIB specialist, the Board determined that a statement made by A.W. to J.S., which could be perceived as disparaging of J.S.'s religion, met the definition of HIB. The Board thereafter imposed upon A.W. the penalty of a one-day, in-school suspension and an HIB writing project. Petitioners contested the designation of the incident as an HIB violation, and instead contended that the incident was a conduct violation. The Board filed a motion for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: while there could be diverging opinions as to the final determination in this case, there are no material facts at issue here, and the matter can be decided on summary decision; the Board found that A.W.'s statement could reasonably be perceived as being motivated by J.S.'s religion; it is a long-standing doctrine that Board decisions are entitled to a presumption of correctness and may not be disturbed unless they are found to decisively flawed, see Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960); and petitioners' arguments challenging the validity of the HIB statute are not appropriately before this tribunal. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter, with modification regarding the threshold requirements for a finding of HIB. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Petitioners challenge the Board's determination that their minor child, A.W., engaged in an act of Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying (HIB) pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act). See N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. In granting summary decision in favor of the Board, the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) concluded that A.W.'s statement met the definition of HIB and that the Board's determination was proper. The ALJ further found that this tribunal is not the appropriate venue for petitioners' arguments relating to the validity of the Act. Upon comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings, as modified herein.

As a preliminary matter, the Commissioner clarifies that HIB does not "only" require "that the student making the comment be reasonably aware of its potential impact and that the recipient reasonably perceive the comment as insulting." See Initial Decision, pgs. 2-3. In order for conduct to constitute an act of HIB, there must be present other factors beyond a reasonable awareness of the impact of one's action and how it will be perceived by the recipient. The Act defines HIB as follows:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L. 2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

Therefore, the threshold requirement is that the conduct be reasonably perceived as motivated by any actual or perceived enumerated characteristic or other distinguishing characteristic, and that such conduct substantially disrupts or interferes with the rights of other students or the orderly operation of the school. In addition to this threshold requirement, one of the three criteria enumerated in the Act must also be satisfied.

In this matter, the Board found that A.W.'s statement could reasonably be perceived as being motivated by J.S.'s religion, interfered with J.S.'s rights, and had the effect of insulting or demeaning him. When a local board of education acts within its discretionary authority, its decision is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be disturbed unless there is an affirmative showing that the decision was "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." See Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration[,]" the Commissioner will not substitute her judgment for that of the board. Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't. of Envtl. Prot., 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Nothing in the record indicates that the Board – in determining that A.W.'s statement constituted an act of HIB – operated in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner; therefore, the Commissioner finds no basis to reverse the Board's decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as modified herein, and the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: August 4, 2017 Decided: September 6, 2017

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ t/a:

This matter arises out of a determination by the Bridgewater-Raritan Board of Education that a comment by A.W. to a classmate constituted an act of Harassment, Incitement, or Bullying (HIB) under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 to – 32.1 and school policy. Petitioners sought review and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 et seq. The Board has filed a motion for summary decision, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Amer. 142 N.J. 520 (1995)

The incident arose on March 5, 2014, between two seventh graders, A.W. and J.S., during social studies class. The class had earlier been studying a book on the Holocaust. Subsequently, while working on a project together requiring some cutting and pasting, J.S., who is Jewish, reported that A.W. said, ". . . if you throw those scissors at me you are going back to the concentration camps." He then stabbed her water bottle with his scissors and explained later that he did this because he was, ". . . so angry and couldn't think straight." A.W. acknowledged making a statement to this effect. There is a factual dispute as to what J.S. might have said, or done to precipitate A.W.'s comment. In one of her statements A.W. suggests that J.S. was twirling scissors near her in a potentially menacing way. She became frightened and just blurted out the offending comment. Investigation by the HIB specialist on staff led initially to a recommendation that this was a conduct violation, not HIB, but this view was ultimately rejected by the Interim Superintendent and the Board agreed in a 6-3 vote. A one-day in-school suspension and an HIB writing project were imposed. Petitioners do not contest the penalty as a conduct violation; they oppose designation of the incident as an HIB violation. This is the substance of the motion record.

Under Brill, the motion record must be understood in a light most favorable to the non-moving party. Thus, I accept as true that A.W. was reasonably in fear that J.S. would harm her with scissors immediately before her comment. The initial question then is whether this is a relevant consideration needing fact finding. The anti-bullying statute at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14, requires only that the student making the comment be reasonably aware of its potential impact and that the recipient reasonably perceive the comment as insulting. There is no debate on this score; the comment was not opaque. A.W. understood her remark; her written statements acknowledge as much and she apologized repeatedly. Neither is there any debate that J.S. had reason to take offense and did take offense. The issue then is whether the Board's decision can stand on this reading of the motion papers. I conclude that it can. One can disagree with the decision, indeed the vote on the Board was 6-3. Nonetheless, a plain reading of the HIB definition suggests that the Board's outcome was not strained. This is so even if it recognized a precipitating event. In that case the Board might have considered the dual wrongs a wash, or disciplined both students; these too would have been exercises of discretion. Petitioners argue that the typical deference owed Board decisions should here be accorded to the investigator who gathered the evidence, but this is without precedent. It is longstanding doctrine that Board decisions may not be disturbed unless decisively flawed, Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. 288 (1960).

The main thrust of petitioners' brief is that the statute is infirm under due process and first amendment principles, citing inter alia, State v. Pomianek, 221 N.J. 66 (2015) and Tinker v. Des Moines Independent Community School Dist., 393 U.S. 503 (1969). Stated briefly, petitioners believe that the statute cannot create fault without intent and in any case, cannot inhibit A.W.'s comment as it is protected speech. Attacks of this nature are more appropriately addressed on judicial review. Public agencies function to administer statutory policy and are not designed to assume this check and balance. That said it is worth pointing out that Pomianek, involved a criminal law statute, and that schools, having a responsibility to transmit norms of good conduct, enjoy flexibilities respecting speech not available in the public square, see e.g., Bethel Sch. Dist. v. Fraser, 478 U.S. 675 (1986). I do not venture beyond noting these few contours of debate in the briefs.

Based on the foregoing, the Board's motion for summary decision is GRANTED and this petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: O.W. on behalf of minor child, I.W. v. State-Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County and Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County, Agency Dkt. No. 243-9/16, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 16479-16, Commissioner's Decision No. 170-17

Dear Parties:

I have reviewed the materials filed in connection with petitioner O.W.'s Motion for Reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision, dated June 20, 2017, dismissing the petition for lack of jurisdiction and as out of time.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2, a motion for reconsideration shall be considered based upon the following:

i. claim(s) of mistake, provided, however, that disagreement with the outcome of a decision, or with the analysis upon which it is based, shall not constitute "mistake" for purposes of this section;
ii. newly discovered evidence likely to alter the outcome of a matter, where such evidence could not have been previously discovered by due diligence;
iii. newly ascertained misrepresentation or other misconduct of an adverse party, where such misrepresentation could not have been previously known; or
iv. reversal of a prior judgment on which the present matter is based.

Upon review and consideration of the submissions, I find that petitioner's request for reconsideration of the Commissioner's decision was filed significantly out of time, which alone serves as a basis for denying petitioner's request.[1] Notwithstanding, petitioner has also failed to satisfy any of the requisites for granting such relief specified in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b)2.

In her papers, petitioner appears to argue that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in deciding the matter on the papers by way of motions to dismiss, rather than holding a hearing. Petitioner contends that this is unfair and seeks to have this matter remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing on the merits. In her reply submissions, petitioner also argues that the Commissioner and ALJ erred in finding that the petition was out of time as she was never given the contact information for the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes. Further, petitioner argues that the time for her to file exceptions to the Initial Decision should have been relaxed, because by the time she received the decision, there were only two days left to submit exceptions.

Although couched as a mistake, I find that the ALJ acted in accordance with the rules when she decided this matter by way of a motion rather than a hearing. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.1 et seq. Petitioner had the opportunity to challenge the Initial Decision and the procedures at the OAL, but did not file timely exceptions with the Commissioner.[2] Further, the issue of whether the petition was out of time was fully and fairly considered. Petitioner is merely expressing her disagreement with the Commissioner's June 20, 2017 decision, which does not equate to a mistake warranting reconsideration of the matter.

Accordingly, the Motion for Reconsideration is hereby DENIED.[3]

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

[1] N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.15(b) provides that a motion for reconsideration must be filed within 10 days of the filing of the Commissioner's decision. Petitioner's motion to reconsider the June 20, 2017 Commissioner's decision was filed on August 8, 2017.

[2] Petitioner's exceptions to the Initial Decision were received on July 17, 2017, nearly a month after the June 20, 2017 Commissioner's decision was issued and more than two months after the May 9, 2017 Initial Decision was mailed.

[3] Pursuant to P.L. 2008, c. 36 (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.1), Commissioner decisions are appealable to the Superior Court, Appellate Division.

Factual Findings[1]

On June 30, 2004, the Board appointed Christopher Luskey as custodian for the term of one year.[2] On or about June 2007, after the completion of two more one-year contracts,[3] Luskey obtained statutory tenure as a custodian.[4]

During the following seven years, as during the previous three, Luskey's work performance was below the midpoint of, but well within, the broad average range for this nonprofessional role,[5] with occasional "write ups" for deficient work[6] and less frequent documentation of praiseworthy performance.[7] This seven-year period also included two incidents of substance abuse while at work.

First, in June 2010, a group of parent volunteers at the Nathan Hale Middle School Fun Fair complained to Rosa Diaz, who was the building principal at the time, that Luskey appeared to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol and they did not want him near their children. More specifically, they reported that he was holding on to the school fence with obvious difficulty walking or standing on his own and with slurred speech.[8] The principal met with him, instructed him to go to the nurse's office, and called the superintendent, Kevin Ahearn. The substance abuse coordinator left with Luskey. A few days later upon returning to the school, he informed Diaz that he had tested positive but that it was for medications prescribed by his physician. Immediately thereafter, the central administration transferred Luskey to another school.

Most of these write-ups were from his the supervisor of buildings and grounds, although the most recent one was from the principal of his then-assigned middle school, who shared supervisory authority for the work in her building.

Second, on December 9, 2014, a crossing guard at Columbus Elementary School reported to Christian Zimmer, who was then the principal at Columbus, that Luskey was acting in an erratic manner during his duties at the school.[9] The principal met with him and Drew Packard, the long-time supervisor of buildings and grounds. Observing Luskey to be flushed, sweaty, and with slurred speech, Zimmer drove him to the local MediCenter for screening. Upon being informed that Luskey had failed the drug test,[10] Zimmer drove him home and had another custodian drive his car there. Zimmer reported the matter to the superintendent's office. Soon thereafter, Luskey was granted FMLA leave.[11]

During the school year 2015–16, Luskey's performance became more problematic. On October 28, 2015, the next principal of Columbus School issued to him a written reprimand for making sarcastic comments in the presence of students and staff and for deficient cleaning of the main office's bathroom.[12] On the afternoon of November 10, 2015, Packard sent him a "second warning" about continued problems with bathroom cleaning[13]; however, Luskey left approximately an hour after starting his shift that day, upon injuring his shoulder lifting tables as part of his lunchroom duties. As a result of his injury, he was out for most of the ensuing six months on Worker's Compensation leave until May 2, 2016.[14] On May 18, Packard issued an official warning to him for smoking on school grounds[15] and a separate write-up for a clear violation of the sign-in policy.[16] Underlying some of these performance issues was further evidence of suspected substance abuse.[17]

[11] According to Luskey, at the superintendent's initiative, he first participated in outpatient drug rehabilitation and, after insufficient attendance, went to approximately three months of out-of-state residential treatment starting in early March 2015.

These problems came to a head during summer 2016. The day before the culminating incident, on July 14 the Columbus principal reported to central administration that when his secretary went to the school social worker's office to retrieve a file, she was startled upon turning on the light to find Luskey sitting with his head down on the desk in the dark without an explanation; he was supposed to be working on another floor at the time.[18]

Then, on Friday morning, July 15, students and staff at his assigned elementary school, which housed a summer program for special education pupils who qualified for extended school year (ESY) programming, saw Luskey kneeling face down on the pavement outside the entrance

[16] P-1, at 31. The Columbus School principal reported that Luskey's failure to sign in properly had been on ongoing problem that he had reported to Packard. P-1, at 16.

[17] First were the records that Luskey released to the Board: R-27 (June 19, 2016 report from JFK Emergency Department in the wake of head laceration in an auto accident, noting that Luskey "is recovering from drug abuse" although separately reporting that he "denies drug abuse"); R-28 (May 19, 2016 report from RWJUH Rahway Emergency Department in the wake of head laceration in bat accident with brother, noting "past street drug/inhalant/medication abuse"). Second, although apparently prescribed by his physician (R-32), the 3-4 drugs that Luskey reportedly took regularly to alleviate drug-craving, stress, and sleep problems appeared to be for high amounts (P-4, including 170 prescription tablets purchased in the 32 days before July 15, 2016 and refilled during the following month). Finally, the principal at his then-assigned school (Columbus Elementary) reported to Packard and the superintendent more than once during that school year his suspicion that Luskey at times appeared, via slurred speech and staggering walking while at work, to be under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

[18] Additionally, the Columbus School principal credibly testified that other staff members had complained about Luskey's increasingly erratic behavior.

of the school. He was rubbing his face on the graveled surface apparently trying, unsuccessfully, to get back up. One of the teachers, who helping to escort approximately 20 of the students back from a field trip to a nearby creativity center, ran over to him. He told her, in a "confused" state that he had borderline sugar and was resting his head on the ground. She helped Luskey into the building and called both the police and the principal. Upon their arrival, the two police officers reported finding him sitting on a chair inside the school hallway, "dazed but ... alert and aware of his surroundings" and declining medical attention.[19] The principal, who arrived soon after the police officers, heard only his jumbled and slightly slurred references to hitting his head, low blood sugar, something about his leg, and not wanting medical attention. He observed that Luskey appeared disoriented when he hurried upstairs to continue work. Upon arriving at the next floor, he proceeded down the hall, visibly disoriented, and walked directly into one of the students, aged 5 or 6.[20] An hour or so later, Luskey came to the principal's office and received permission to go home, complaining that his leg was bothering him. The principal stopped at the central administration office about 3 pm and, not finding superintendent Ahearn, reported the incident to the business manager. That evening he sent a phone-text notification to Packard, who was on vacation at the Jersey shore.

On Monday, July 18, Packard met with superintendent Ahearn, and they concluded that they had to have Luskey drug tested. However, they did not succeed in contacting him, likely because he was on vacation.

On Tuesday, July 19, Packard reached Luskey, who was still on vacation, on his cellphone at approximately 9:30 am, and summoned him to his office. Upon Luskey's prompt arrival, Packard asked him to take an immediate drug test. Luskey replied that he was still on vacation and would do so instead the next day upon his return to work. Packard and Ahearn acquiesced, and Luskey agreed to meet Packard at the Medi-Center at 9 am on July 20 for this purpose.[21]

However, on the morning of July 20, Luskey went to Columbus School at the start of his shift at 7 am and remained there rather than showing up at 9 am at the Medi-Center. Packard, who was at the agreed-upon location at 9 am, waited there for approximately 45 minutes, and then went to superintendent Ahearn's office. Ahearn instructed him to go to Columbus School, get Luskey's keys, and tell him that he was suspended. He did so, with the principal and assistant principal in attendance. Given the opportunity to tell his side of the story, Luskey asserted that he had thought the administrators would make arrangements to transport him to the Medi-Center from Columbus School, because he was unable to do so himself.[22] Ahearn responded that this was the first time Luskey had raised this issue. Superintendent Ahearn sent Luskey a letter later that day confirming the suspension.[23]

On Friday, July 22, Luskey took the drug test at the Medi-Center and tested positive for benzodiazepines. Approximately a week later, in response to the administration's request for verification of a prescription for this substance, he submitted a July 29 prescription form from his Luskey never asked to be taken to the drug-test, or mentioned that his license was suspended." Luskey's testimony did not provide a persuasive rebuttal.

physician that stated that he "is prescribed Suboxin, Klonopin, and Trazodone."[24]

On June 26, 2017,[25] the Board served Luskey with notice of tenure charges. Charge #1 was for unbecoming conduct, listing (a) various write-ups during the period from 2006 to 2013, (b) the aforementioned[26] incidents in October-November 2015, and the (c) culminating acts and omissions from July 15 to July 20, 2016. Charge #2 was for insubordination, listing purportedly willful (a) failure to follow attendance policies[27] and (b) failure to follow supervisory directives.[28]

On July 19, 2017, the Board voted to suspend Luskey and determined that the tenure charges were, if true, sufficient to warrant termination.[29]

On July 28, the Board, as Petitioner, submitted the tenure charges against him to the Commissioner of Education.

On August 17, the Commissioner notified the parties of the requisite sufficiency of the charges[30] and appointed the undersigned arbitrator to hear and decide the matter.

On September 6, in response to a dismissal motion from Respondent-Luskey based on jurisdiction and after having received briefs from both parties, the arbitrator issued an interim, prehearing decision denying the motion. For the sake of a complete record, a copy of that decision is attached to this Award as an appendix.

Applicable Statutes[31]

N.J.S.A. § 18A:17-3:

> Every [tenured] public school janitor of a school district . . . . shall not be dismissed . . . , except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by . . . this title.

N.J.S.A. § 18A:6-10:

> No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation, . . . if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state . . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing . . . by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges . . . shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

N.J.S.A. § 18A:6-11:

> Any charge made against any employee of a board of education under tenure . . . shall be filed with the secretary of the board in writing, and a written statement of evidence under oath to support such charge shall be presented to the board. The board of education shall forthwith provide such employee with a copy of the charge, a copy of the statement of the evidence and an opportunity to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence under oath with respect thereto. . . . [T]he board shall determine by majority vote of its full membership whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge and whether such charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary.[32] The board of education shall forthwith notify the employee . . . . In the event the board finds that such probable cause exists and that the charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall forward such written charge to the commissioner . . . .

N.J.S.A. § 18A:6-16:

> If [the Commissioner] shall determine that such charge is sufficient to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary of the person charged, he shall refer the case to an arbitrator pursuant to section 18A:6-17.1.

[31] The collective bargaining agreement (Jt. 1) does not effectively add to or narrow the applicable grounds in its broad "just cause" clause.

[32] The corollary regulation requires, inter alia, that (1) the employee have the opportunity to provide the board with a statement of his position and evidence within 15 days of receiving the tenure charges and (2) the board take this probable-cause vote within 45 days of receipt of this statement or, if not received by then, the expiration of the 15-day period. N.J. ADMIN. CODE § 6A:3-5.1(b)-(c).

N.J.S.A. § 18A-6-17.1:

(b)(1) The hearing shall be held before the arbitrator within 45 days of the assignment of the arbitrator to the case;

(b)(3) Upon referral of the case for arbitration, the employing board of education shall provide all evidence including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employee or the employee's representative. The employing board of education shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing, except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses. At least 10 days prior to the hearing, the employee shall provide all evidence upon which he will rely including, but not limited to, documents, electronic evidence, statements of witnesses, and a list of witnesses with a complete summary of their testimony, to the employing board of education or its representative. The employee shall be precluded from presenting any additional evidence at the hearing except for purposes of impeachment of witnesses. Discovery shall not include depositions, and interrogatories shall be limited to 25 without subparts.

(c) The arbitrator shall determine the case under the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules. In the event of a conflict between the American Arbitration Association labor arbitration rules and the procedures established pursuant to this section, the procedures established pursuant to this section shall govern.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of . . . any other section of law to the contrary, the arbitrator shall render a written decision within 45 days of the start of the hearing.

Discussion

The two tenure charges are addressed here in reverse order based on their relevant significance. More specifically, because it is of lesser significance, this Discussion first addresses tenure charge #2.

Insubordination

As specified above,[33] charge #2 is for insubordination. New Jersey case law has established that insubordination requires a willful refusal or disregard of supervisory authority.[34] For the various specified incidents for the relatively remote period of the Respondent's initial employment, the requisite willfulness is clearly absent. More specifically, although far from stellar, the aforementioned[35] findings for his performance for his first ten years did not come close to the opposite pole of willful refusal or disregard of supervisory instructions. As his supervisor credibly testified,[36] although some of the cited write-ups were slightly longer than for other custodians, his walk-throughs typically identified items for improvement, and if his resulting periodic evaluations had been largely unsatisfactory ratings, he would have lost half his custodial staff, presumably via termination or resignation. Moreover, Packard's certification observed: "If you instruct Luskey to do something, he will get it done but not necessarily right away."[37]

[34] In re Tenure Hearing of Zisnewski, 2012 WL 1231874 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. Apr. 13, 2012) ("'Insubordination' has been found in an employee's 'willful refusal of submission to the authority of [his or] her superiors' [citing N.J. precedent] [and] a 'willful disregard of an employer's instructions ...' or an 'act of disobedience to proper authority' [citing Black's Law Dictionary]").

[36] I found Packard's testimony to be quite credible with the limited exception of notable evasiveness with regard to the Respondent's familial relationship to the former school board president.

[37] P-1, at 12. However, this source provided to clarifying caveats: (1) the same item in the certification made clear that he had provided warnings to Luskey that to improve his choices and actions so as to avoid his personal life affecting his work performance; and (2) an additional item also clarified that he orally informed Luskey of any first-time performance problems, only including them in the write-ups upon repetition or continuation of the problem. Id.

Although the incidents of within the school year ending in June 2016 were weightier in regard to both charges,[38] they did not suffice for the requisite preponderant proof of insubordination.[39] However, the most recent cluster of incidents, during the July Columbus School extended school year program for students with disabilities, constitute a close call with regard to charge #2. Most specifically, the Respondent's failure to appear at the designated site and time for the July 20 drug test arguably constituted, in effect, a refusal, just as the superintendent's acquiescence the previous day constitute, in effect, an agreement. Moreover, it alternatively fit the definitional criterion of willful disregard, especially because (1) he apparently had the ability to arrange the requisite transportation, as he had to get to school that day and, according to his testimony,[40] from school during the morning of the triggering event; (2) if, for some reason, he was unable to make such arrangements despite the previous day's agreement, he should have contacted Packard or the superintendent before 9 am to make alternative arrangement; and (3) even if one were to accept his not sufficiently credible claim that he misunderstood the agreed-upon site,[41] it was reckless for him not to contact either of these administrators, or at least the Columbus School principal, very soon after 9 am to resolve [38] See supra text accompanying notes 12–16.

[39] In contrast, the findings for the broader intermediate period have no evidentiary bearing except, as explained below, as additional support for reasonable suspicion of possible substance abuse. See supra notes 8–10 and accompanying text.

[40] Specifically, he testified that he arranged for a summer helper to drive him on the morning of July 15 to the bank before his pavement incident. Regardless of the credibility of this assertion, he obviously had available ways that he arranged for to get to and from school for his work-related duties.

[41] In general, his testimony was not credible, particularly his continued pattern of not accepting responsibility for his actions, including repeatedly referring to purported misunderstandings and diverting attention to others. For example, he claimed that the Packard or other administrators implicitly agreed to arrange transportation; however, the proof was preponderant that they did not know or have reason to know of his driver license revocation and lack of other alternatives to get to the Medi-Center on his own. His reliance on the 2014 incident with principal Zimmer was similarly not reasonably credible, because Zimmer drove him based on his immediately impaired condition, which is clearly distinguishable from the July 19–20, 2016 situation.

the matter.[42]

However, the arbitrator need not definitively decide this close question, because the determination of the other charge resolves the larger issue of whether the board had the requisite basis for its decision. More specifically, New Jersey's highest court has made clear that the charge of unbecoming conduct, if sustained, suffices alone regardless of the disposition of any other charges.[43]

Unbecoming Conduct

New Jersey case law also defines "unbecoming conduct," establishing broad boundaries in terms of relevant alternatives of district efficiency and public confidence.[44] Moreover, unlike insubordination, a finding of unbecoming conduct "need not 'be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct.'"[45]

The evidence is preponderant that the Respondent's conduct in July 2016 adversely affected the efficiency of the school district and/or had a tendency of destroying public respect and confidence in the district's employees and operations. The primary foundation for this conclusion consists of two connecting support beams. The first one was his blatantly impaired position on the pavement in full view of students, staff, and nearby members of the public and soon thereafter, evidencing such impairment, walking into one of the young special education

[42] Indeed, not arranging to take the ordered drug test until two days later further reflected poorly not only n the complete accuracy of the results but also his willful choices in response to the obviously high-stakes directive.

[43] E.g., Bound Brook Bd. of Educ. v. Ciripompa, 153 A.3d 931, 938 (N.J. 2017) ("the failure of a school board to prove a different offense does not preclude a finding of unbecoming conduct").

students in the presence of one or more staff members. The second, connecting beam was his aforementioned[46] failure to show up for the drug test after being allowed to postpone it on the previous day.

Related Considerations

The analysis for the foregoing two tenure charges requires additional conclusions for the final award. These related considerations are several and sequential.

First, the determination with regard to charge #2 only intersects with one aspect of the applicable board substance abuse policy, which is the requirement to submit to a drug test upon reasonable suspicion that the employee is under the influence of a substance during work hours, with the concomitant provision that refusal will equate to a positive test.[47] Here, the conclusion is that the Petitioner, based on not only the latest incident[48] but also the previous ones,[49] had the requisite reasonable suspicion of such impairment to warrant a drug test. At that point, it was not clear whether the latest impairment-related behavior of the Respondent was attributable to the proper use of prescribed medication (which is not within the definition of "substance"[50]) or the improper use of such medication or the use of un-prescribed controlled substances (which each

[47] The specific wording is as follows:

> A support staff member shall be required to submit to an immediate medical examination to include a substance test if the support staff member's supervisor has reasonable suspicion to belief a support staff member is under the influence of a substance during work hours. Refusal of a support staff member to consent to the medical examination and substance test will be determined to be a positive result.

[49] See supra text accompanying notes 8–10. For additional indications, which are surplus for this purpose, see supra note 17 and text accompanying note 18.

[50] The specific wording is as follows:

> For the purposes of this Policy, "substance" … means alcoholic beverages, any controlled dangerous substances, including … over-the-counter and prescription medications that are improperly used to cause intoxication, inebriation, excitement, stupefaction, or dulling of the brain or nervous system.

R-3 (emphasis in original).

are within this definition).[51] Moreover, the evidence in this case does not resolve that question, which is not the crux of this case. Even if he did not violate the substance abuse policy in terms of the specific refusal or specific results, the culminating combination of his publicly impaired condition and his inexcusable failure to show up for the drug test adversely affected the efficiency of the school district and/or had a tendency of destroying public respect and confidence in the its operations.

Second and similarly, the Board's discipline policy has only carefully circumscribed applicability in this case. More specifically, rather than a strict step-by-step progressive discipline system, the policy not only defines discipline broadly to include the various "write-ups" that the Respondent received,[52] but also provides that "[t]he Superintendent shall deal with disciplinary matters on a case-by-case-basis."[53] Moreover, the policy's qualified requirement for "progressive penalties" is limited to "repeated violations."[54] Here, the two critical violations were sufficiently significant for the superintendent's case-by-case consideration, but the second was not a repetition of the first. More generally, the applicable case law clarifies that "progressive discipline is not 'a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question' because 'some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record.'"[55]

Third, the Respondent's posthearing brief ended with a procedural-noncompliance argument that was not raised during the hearing and that was apparently appropriate for the [51] Any confidentiality argument about the Respondent's participation in treatment for drug abuse appears to fail for lack of sufficient evidence that, per the policy (id.), he "voluntarily sought and participated" in such treatment. See supra note 11. [52] The specific definition is as follows: "Discipline will include, as appropriate, verbal and written warnings." R-5.

response at the Commissioner's sufficiency step. More specifically, the Respondent argued that "Petitioner failed to establish that the Board's vote on July 19, 2017 was rendered within the 45-day period [required] by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)(4)." However, the applicable regulation starts the 45-day period for the board vote with the receipt of the Respondent's statement after serving him with notice of the tenure charges.[56] Although the record in this case does not reveal the date of the receipt, it is clear that the board served the Respondent with notice on June 26, 2017.[57] Thus, to whatever extent that the Respondent's final argument may have survived not only waiver but also the requisite prejudicial effect for procedural violations,[58] the board's July 19, 2017 clearly complied with the required 45-day period.

Fourth, the factual basis for the arbitrator's conclusion with regard to unbecoming conduct relies on neither hearsay nor precluded evidence. The Respondent's posthearing brief took issue with the June 2010 incident not being included in the various incidents specified in the tenure charges. However, the use of this incident is not primary here, being only a limited part of the reasonable suspicion determination, and, in any event, the Respondent did not allege, much less prove, lack of due advance notice under the statute specific to this arbitration.[59] Similarly, the other errors in the tenure charges that the posthearing brief emphatically identified, such as attributing to Packard letters that were from principals Peters and Bollinger, were red herrings; such imperfections were far from prejudicial to the Respondent. Overall, the tenure charges document was sufficient in the context of the other safeguards for notice, although certainly not optimal.

Finally, it is not clearly settled whether the arbitrator has authority to address the appropriateness of the penalty, or discipline, after sustaining the board's basis for its termination decision. Here, the parties failed to agree on a submission statement of the issues in this case, although their posthearing briefs both addressed this penalty issue. Other arbitration awards in this statutory context have reduced terminations to lesser levels of discipline in some cases that sustained charges of unbecoming conduct[60] or other applicable grounds.[61] However, neither party has identified, and I have not found, any published case law in New Jersey where a court specifically decided whether such arbitration awards are permissible under the applicable legislation.[62] In other jurisdictions, some courts have held that once an arbitrator sustains the statutory grounds for the board's termination decision, public policy precluded his or her authority to reduce the discipline.[63] Moreover, the underlying statutes in this case appear to significantly restrict the relevant discipline, not extending, for example, to suspensions.[64] In any event, the arbitrator need not definitively determine this issue because the flagrancy of the Respondent's recent conduct[65] and the lack of a mitigating long stellar record warrant his [62] Both parties cited In re Fulcomer, 225 A.2d 30 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 1967). However, the statutory basis for that decision was an earlier tenure statute that provided the Commissioner with the exclusive authority to render a decision, which is not necessarily the same as the present statute's delegation to the arbitrator to render a decision. Moreover, the fatal error in the 1967 case was the commissioner's remand to the local school board to determine the penalty, which was not at issue in the instant case.

Facts[1]

On July 6, 2004, the School Board approved the initial employment contract for Christopher Luskey[2] as a custodian for the fixed term of one year.[3] On May 22, 2007, after he continued to work on a fixed-term contracts for the next two years,[4] the Board provided him with a contract "from July 1, 2007 ... with tenure."[5] Both the 2002–05 and the 2005–08 collective bargaining agreements (CBAs) contained the following provision:

> Tenure rights shall be acquired for all employees after three (3) consecutive years of services and the commencement of the fourth year, or, the equivalent of more than three (3) years of service within a period of four (4) consecutive years.[6]

The current CBA, which covers the period July 1, 2016 to June 30, 2020, contains the identical provision along with a just cause clause and a five-step grievance procedure that culminates in submission to the New Jersey Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) for binding arbitration.[7]

On July 19, 2017, the Board certified tenured charges against Luskey for conduct unbecoming and insubordination.[8]

On or about July 28, the Board filed the charges with the Commissioner of Education, thus becoming the Petitioner in this case. On August 3, the Respondent filed his answer to the charges, including the assertion that the Department lacked jurisdiction for the dispute.

After review, the Commissioner deemed the charges for sufficient for arbitration and appointed me as the arbitrator for this case.

As the result of a prehearing conference call on August 16, the parties submitted letter briefs with regard to the dismissal motion by the agreed-upon deadline of September 1, with the understanding that I would promptly issue a written decision well in advance of the hearing scheduled for September 25 - 27.

On August 18, the Carteret Education Association filed a grievance on behalf of the Respondent.[9]

Discussion

In support of its dismissal motion, Respondent argued that he had tenure as a result of the CBA and, thus, that the board's action was subject to the CBA's grievance arbitration and just cause clauses[10] rather than the Commissioner's arbitral authority under New Jersey statutes.[11]

[11] N.J. STAT. ANN. § 18A:6-9:

> The Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine ... all controversies and disputes under the school laws .... Notwithstanding the provisions of this section to the contrary, an arbitrator shall hear and make a final determination on a controversy and dispute arising under [N.J. STAT. ANN. 18A:6:10].

N.J. STAT. ANN. 18A:6:10:

> No person shall be dismissed ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided....

Put simply, this subject matter jurisdictional argument is that the Respondent's tenure is contractual, not statutory, and is subject to the contractual, not the statutory, arbitration mechanism.

The Petitioner counter-argued that Luskey's tenure was instead statutory as a result of the following legislation, which dates back to well before the Respondent's employment:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed . . . , except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by ... this title.[12]

Resolution of this issue warrants a brief overview of tenure. More specifically, tenure in this context refers to (a) an indefinite term of employment that, rather than having a fixed ending date, continues until a supervening event, such as resignation (including retirement), reduction in force, or termination, and (b) in the event of termination, requires specified due process, often including certain reasons (e.g., insubordination) and procedures (e.g., impartial hearing). Usually but not always,[13] the status of tenure requires completion of a probationary period. For example, the probationary period for New Jersey public school teachers was three years but, as a result of the 2012 TEACHNJ legislation, changed to four consecutive years.[14]

As the aforementioned[15] provision of the parties' CBA illustrates for both janitors and teachers, statutory tenure and contractual tenure may overlap. For janitors, the applicable statute, § 18A:17-3, provides school boards with the otherwise unlimited discretion to determine the length of the probationary period via the use of fixed term contracts.[16] However, this CBA limits the board's prerogative to the use of fixed term contracts for a total of three years, thus serving as the maximum probationary period. As a result, a custodian whom the board accorded tenure either immediately or, more likely, after fixed term contract(s) of either one year or totaling two years, that tenure would be purely statutory during the initial three-year period,[17] whereas custodians whom the district continued to employ after three years would have tenure as a result of the combination, or intersection, of the CBA and the statute, thus being in a hybrid category.[18]

[13] For example, federal judges receive tenure upon appointment without any probationary period.
[14] N.J. STAT. ANN. § 18A:28-5(a)-(b).
[15] See supra note 6 and accompanying text.

Here, as the party moving for dismissal, the Respondent is effectively arguing that the parties' CBA, per their exercise of the public employment relations act (PERA), preempts the commissioner's broad authority for arbitration of tenure disputes under the school laws of New Jersey. In addressing the distinguishable and largely obverse issue of whether § 18:7-3 preempts a CBA provision that provides for their tenure after three years of employment, the New Jersey Supreme Court clearly rejected the respondent's all-or-nothing interpretation of § 18A:17-3[19] and at least indirectly supported the hybrid conclusion.[20] Specifically, the court reasoned:

> [E]ven though the statute provides mechanisms for immediate tenure and complete denial of tenure, these are not the only alternatives contemplated by the statute. By using the word unless to modify the

[16] See supra note 12 and accompanying text. Absent an intersecting CBA provision, the discretion is so unlimited that a district may avoid tenure for a custodian by continuing his or her employment solely via consecutive fixed term contracts.

[17] Although so unlikely to be theoretical, the board could at the extreme of this purely statutory category grant tenure immediately. The Respondent's interpretation that §18A:17-3 only applies to janitors who are granted tenure immediately upon commencement of employment neither squares with the general application of tenure to school employees. Custodians do not fit with the exceptional circumstances of federal judges.

[18] As an accompanying illustration of the overlap as a result of this intersecting CBA provision for all employees, teachers hired after the 2012 TEACH NJ legislation whose employment continues after three years have contractual tenure for the fourth year, but they have hybrid, or combined, contractual and statutory tenure after successful completion of the fourth year. See supra text accompanying notes 6 and 14.

[19] See supra note 17.

[20] See supra note 18 and accompanying text.

> word shall, the legislature has signaled its intention to leave employing boards with some flexibility. Accordingly, boards may, without contravening the terms of the statute, permissibly pick and choose between the statutory minimum of no tenure for any custodial employee and the statutory maximum of instant tenure for all custodians. [The CBA provision] that grants tenure after three years of employment, is but one example of a clause that falls between N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3's outer limits without derogating the statute's intent.[21]

Although not specifically addressing the instant issue, New Jersey's highest court subsequently provided additional indirect support for the overlap by recognizing the sweeping authority of the Commissioner's authority except where the dispute arises exclusively outside the school laws.[22] Similarly supporting this interpretation from the converse side, New Jersey's PERA authorizes binding arbitration via CBAs with the express exception that it "may not replace or be inconsistent with any alternate statutory appeal procedure."[23] The respondent's theory would, contrary to this overriding exception, replace the alternate statutory appeal procedure, which in this case is the Commissioner's legislatively specified broad authority.[24]

Limited to deciding the Respondent's dismissal motion, this interim or interlocutory arbitration decision does not extend to the issue of the choice between the two arbitration mechanisms in this overlapping area. That issue is not before me and is better addressed as a

Thus, other than its cited reasoning, the Wright decision did not address the jurisdictional issue of this dismissal. It was one of a long line of PERC decisions that refused to restrain grievance arbitration of nonrenewals and terminations of classified school personnel, including custodians in the hybrid category. Even if these agency determinations were binding here, they do not address the opposite situation, which is the respondent's attempt to restrain statutory arbitration based on the convergence or intersection of the CBA.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATES : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OF MICHAEL J. MARTINO. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Appellant Michael J. Martino challenged the determination of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) that his criminal indictment – on charges of sexual assault, endangering the welfare of a child, and official misconduct involving a former student – warranted the suspension of his teaching and supervisory certificates, effective immediately, pending resolution of the criminal proceedings against him. On appeal, Martino maintained that the Board's decision should be vacated, arguing, inter alia, that his due process rights were violated when the Board took summary action to suspend his teaching certificates during the pendency of his criminal case.

The Board maintained, inter alia, that the decision to suspend the appellant during the pendency of the criminal case against him was not arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law. Further, the Board contended that the appellant was afforded due process, as his underlying conduct was not in dispute, and appellant was given the opportunity to present evidence both in writing and in person. The Board argued that there was sufficient justification for appellant's suspension, and urged the Commissioner to affirm same.

Upon review, the Commissioner – whose scope of review in matters involving decisions of the Board, including determinations to suspend teaching certificates, is appellate in nature – concurred with the Board that just cause exists for suspension of appellant's certificates during the pendency of the criminal case against him. Accordingly, the decision of the Board was affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

STATE BOARD OF EXAMINERS DOCKET NO. 1516-133
AGENCY DOCKET NO. 2-6/17A

IN THE MATTER OF THE CERTIFICATES	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF MICHAEL J. MARTINO.	:	DECISION

Order of Suspension by the State Board of Examiners, May 12, 2017

For the Respondent-Appellant, Nicholas Poberezhsky, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent State Board of Examiners, James M. Esposito, Deputy Attorney General (Christopher S. Porrino, Attorney General of New Jersey)

Appellant challenges the determination of the New Jersey State Board of Examiners (Board) that his criminal indictment warranted the suspension of his Teacher of Mathematics Certificate of Eligibility with Advanced Standing, and his Teacher of Mathematics and Supervisor certificates – effective immediately – pending resolution of the criminal proceedings against him.

On appeal, Martino maintains that the Board's decision to suspend his certificates should be vacated.[1] Appellant argues that the Board violated his due process rights when it took summary action to suspend his teaching certificates during the pendency of his criminal case. Furthermore, appellant argues that the Board acted without knowledge of the truthfulness of the charges filed, and therefore, has no legitimate basis upon which it can suspend his certificates. Finally, Martino notes that he has resigned from his teaching position and will not be performing any work related to his certificates until the criminal case is resolved; he argues that there is no practical benefit or public policy consideration that would justify the suspension, especially since the Criminal History Review Unit would alert any prospective employer of appellant's indictment if he applied for a teaching position in the State.

In opposition, the Board maintains that the decision to suspend appellant pending the resolution of the criminal case against him was not arbitrary, capricious or contrary to law, and should be affirmed by the Commissioner. The Board submits that there was sufficient justification for the suspension and that it acted reasonably in suspending appellant's teaching certificates, based on applicable law and the public interest in protecting the safety of school children. The Board further maintains that the appellant was afforded due process, as appellant's underlying conduct was not in dispute, and he was given the opportunity to present evidence both in writing and in person.

The Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving decisions of the Board, including determinations to suspend teaching certificates, is appellate in nature. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-4.1(a). In other words, absent a demonstration by appellant that the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner, the Commissioner may not overturn the Board's decision.[2] See id.; see also B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration." Bayshore, 122 N.J.Super. at 199-200. As such, the Commissioner may not substitute her own judgment for that of the Board where due process has been afforded and where exists sufficient credible evidence in the record to serve as a basis for the decision rendered by the Board.

[2] Arbitrary and capricious means "willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances." Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

As a preliminary matter, the record reflects that appellant was afforded the necessary due process throughout the proceedings before the Board: appellant was provided notice, and he was given an opportunity to submit evidence for the Board's consideration and to appear before the Board. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-9. In fact, prior to the hearing, appellant notified the Board that he was waiving his right to appear before the Board and would rely on his previous written submissions.

Upon consideration of the record and all submissions, the Commissioner concurs with the Board – for the reasons set forth in the May 17, 2017 Order of Suspension – that just cause exists to suspend appellant's certificates during the pendency of the criminal case. It is undisputed that the appellant has been indicted on charges of Sexual Assault in the Second Degree, Endangering the Welfare of a Child in the Second Degree, and Official Misconduct in the Second Degree. The allegations related to these charges include appellant knowingly engaging in acts of sexual penetration with his student on numerous occasions while she was a minor. It is further undisputed that if appellant is found guilty of the charges, he will be disqualified from public employment. The record also reveals that Martino admittedly developed and maintained a relationship with his student that extended beyond a typical student-teacher relationship, which was inappropriate and unbecoming of a teaching staff member. Therefore, the Board's determination – in connection with the pending charges – is fully supported by the record, and consistent with applicable law and public policy. It is evident that the Board has considered the issues presently on appeal, and there is nothing in the record to suggest that the Board's decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; as such, the Commissioner finds no basis upon which to disturb the Board's decision to suspend appellant's teaching certificates for just cause pending resolution of the criminal matter.

Accordingly, the decision of the State Board of Examiners is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.[3]

Re: Board of Education of the Township of Parsippany-Troy Hills, Morris County, Agency Dkt. No. 280-11/17.

Dear Ms. Gilfillan:

I have reviewed the petition in the above-captioned matter, wherein the Board seeks a determination from the Commissioner as to the following: (1) whether an immediate vacancy was created when a Board member submitted his resignation, and if so, what is the effective date of the vacancy for purposes of the Board filling said vacancy; and (2) whether the Board member's subsequent "retraction" of his resignation is effective absent any statutory or regulatory authority or Board policy.

Upon review of the request, I have determined not to entertain this matter – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 – as the issues raised are not appropriate for declaratory ruling, and the Board's decision can be sufficiently guided by the legal authority cited in its petition. The issues raised by the Board in this matter are within the scope of authority and responsibility of a local board of education, with the Commissioner's role being limited to adjudication of appeals taken from adverse actions. The Commissioner cannot permit declaratory judgments to become a vehicle for prospectively deciding potentially contested cases.

Please note that my decision to deny this petition in no way forecloses the filing, or affects the adjudication, of any contested matter that may arise from actions taken in conjunction with the situation described in the Board's papers.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1, your request for declaratory judgment is denied.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC) of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying his request for a waiver of the Eight Semester Rule that would have allowed him to participate in baseball at New Providence High School for the 2017 season. Petitioner had played baseball for New Providence during the 2012-2013, 2013-2014, and 2014-2015 school years, but was placed on extended home instruction midway through his senior year (2015-2016) and not permitted on school grounds following behavioral incidents that the District deemed threatening, including taking a "selfie" with a gun and telling another student that he wanted to "shoot up the school." In June 2016, after having been declassified for 11th grade, the petitioner was reclassified by the District pursuant to an IEP for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and learning disabilities, and was given a 5th year of educational services to address his academic deficiencies. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that the EAC's decision to deny his waiver request was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. He argued that the EAC's decision was discriminatory as it essentially concluded – with no evidentiary basis – that any actions that arise from a behavioral or psychological disability, as opposed to a learning disability, were within the petitioner's control.

On appeal, the NJSIAA contended, inter alia: that the petitioner was provided with due process; that, while not disputing that petitioner may have had academic difficulties which were exacerbated or caused by his ADHD, what led to the petitioner's inability to participate in baseball in 2016 were his disciplinary problems, not academic issues; further, the EAC considered all relevant evidence, including all medical reports and petitioner's 5th year IEP, but determined that they did not support a finding that the petitioner required an extra year of athletic eligibility due to circumstances beyond his control. The NJSIAA requested that the Commissioner affirm the decision of the EAC.

The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's decision and dismissed the petition, finding that petitioner did not meet his burden to show that the EAC's denial of his waiver request was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. In so deciding, the Commissioner – who may not substitute her judgment for that of the NJSIAA on appeal – noted that the record in this matter is devoid of any evidence that the EAC's application of NJSIAA's eligibility rules and waiver requirements in this case was discriminatory in nature. The petition was dismissed.

CHRISTOPHER LOMBARDI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioners, Laura A. Siclari, Esq. (McCusker Anselmi Rosen Carvelli)

For Respondent, Michael W. Herbert, Esq. (Parker McCay, P.A.)

This case involves an appeal of a decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) denying petitioner Christopher Lombardi's request for a waiver of the Eight Semester Rule that would have allowed him to participate in baseball at New Providence High School for the 2017 season.[1]

Athletic competition in New Jersey's public schools is overseen by respondent, NJSIAA, a voluntary, non-profit organization which promulgates the rules and regulations governing high school athletics. See, B.C. v. Cumberland Reg. Sch. Dist., 220 N.J. Super. 214, 234 (App. Div. 1987). Article V, Section J of NJSIAA's Bylaws, Rules and Regulations restricts a student's eligibility to play sports to four years. Specifically, the provision known as the Eight Semester Rule provides that, "[n]o student shall be eligible for high school athletics after the expiration of eight consecutive semesters following his or her entrance into the 9th grade. A student becomes ineligible for high school athletics when the class in which he/she was

[1] Petitioner requested emergent relief in this matter and on April 24, 2017 the Commissioner issued a decision denying the petitioner's request for emergent relief. Despite the fact that the 2017 baseball season is over, the petitioner has requested that the matter move forward because he is seeking a determination from the Commissioner that the NJSIAA discriminated against him based on his behavioral disability.

originally enrolled has graduated." The NJSIAA Guidelines set forth the reasons for the Eight Semester Rule in the NJSIAA Handbook:

> This rule is intended to prohibit "red shirting," and is also aimed at preventing athletically gifted pupils who are not meeting academic standards from replacing other students who are maintaining their academic standards but who might not have the same athletic prowess. The rule is also aimed at maintaining a uniform progression among all member schools within a four-year cycle and equalizing competition within these schools.

In appropriate cases, the NJSIAA may grant a waiver of the eligibility rules if the overall objectives of the association and its member schools will not be undermined. The Eight Semester Rule can be waived when a student proves that he or she cannot comply with the rule due to circumstances beyond his or her control.

The underlying facts in this matter are not in dispute. The petitioner participated in baseball at New Providence High School during the 2012-2013, 2013-2014, and 2014-2015 school years. The petitioner received special education services pursuant to an Individualized Education Plan (IEP) during 9th and 10th grade at New Providence High School but was declassified for 11th grade. The petitioner did not play baseball during the 2015-2016 school year because midway through his senior year he was placed on extended home instruction and was not permitted on school grounds based on several behavioral incidents that the New Providence School District (District) deemed to be threatening.[2] Prior to his graduation, in June 2016, the District re-classified the petitioner pursuant to an IEP for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and learning disabilities, and provided him with a 5th year of educational services to address his academic deficiencies. In January 2017, the petitioner was placed at the Shepard School, an out-of-district placement for his 5th year of high school.

The petitioner applied to the NJSIAA for a waiver of the Eight Semester Rule so that he could participate on the New Providence High School baseball team in the spring of 2017 while he was receiving educational services at the Shepard School.[3] On February 7, 2017, the Eligibility Committee denied the petitioner's waiver request. The waiver request was then appealed to the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC). Following a hearing on March 6, 2017, at which sworn testimony was taken, the EAC determined that the petitioner did not qualify for a waiver of the eligibility rules.

In reaching its decision to deny the waiver request, the EAC recognized that the petitioner may have academic difficulties that have been exacerbated or caused by his ADHD; however, what led to the petitioner not playing baseball in the spring of 2016 were his disciplinary problems. As such, the EAC determined that the circumstances were not entirely beyond the petitioner's control – thereby making him ineligible for a waiver. The EAC also noted that because disciplinary problems contributed to the petitioner's inability to play baseball in 2016, it would not be appropriate to displace another student by giving the petitioner a waiver to play baseball.

On appeal, the petitioner contends that the EAC's decision to deny his waiver request is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, arguing that the decision was discriminatory because it attaches a negative inference to any non-academic related disability. The petitioner asserts that the EAC essentially concluded that any actions that arose from a behavioral or psychological disability, as opposed to a learning disability, were within the petitioner's control. Yet there is no medical or evidentiary basis for the EAC to have made such distinction.

[3] The Shepard School does not offer athletic teams so the petitioner would have to play for New Providence High School if he was granted a waiver. It should be noted that New Providence High School did not participate in the petitioner's appeal before the NJSIAA.

The petitioner also contends that the EAC failed to consider all of his medical reports and the Shepard School IEP for the spring 2017 semester, which establish that his difficulties were disability-based and outside of his control, and resulted in him having to attend schooling beyond his senior year. The highly unusual decision of the District to reclassify the petitioner before graduation and retain him for an extra year of educational services should have been afforded significant weight by the EAC in establishing that the petitioner's circumstances were outside of his control. Therefore, based on the petitioner's diagnoses of ADHD, learning disabilities and lack of control over his behavior, the EAC should have determined that having to repeat 12th grade was not within his control. As a result, the petitioner should have been granted an eligibility waiver and allowed to participate in baseball during the spring of 2017.

In reply, the NJSIAA asserts that the petitioner received full and fair due process, noting that two separate committees – the Eligibility Committee and the EAC – convened to carefully consider the petitioner's waiver request. The NJSIAA further stresses that the eligibility rules are designed to ensure that all students have an equal opportunity to play high school sports, and limits that opportunity to four years. The Interpretive Guidelines make clear that waivers of the Eight Semester Rule should only be granted "where it is determined that a student cannot comply because of circumstances beyond his/her control."

In this case, the evidence presented to the EAC demonstrates that the circumstances that led to the petitioner's ineligibility were not entirely beyond his control. Specifically, the petitioner engaged in multiple threatening behaviors that led to his removal from school during the spring semester of his fourth year of high school, thereby causing him to miss the 2016 baseball season. The NJSIAA does not dispute that the petitioner may have had academic difficulties that were exacerbated or caused by his ADHD; however, what led to the petitioner's inability to participate in baseball in 2016 were his disciplinary problems, not his academic problems. Contrary to the petitioner's assertions, the EAC considered all relevant evidence, including all medical reports and the Shepard School IEP, but determined that they did not support a finding that the petitioner required an extra year of athletic eligibility due to circumstances beyond his control. Therefore, the NJSIAA requests that the Commissioner affirm the decision of the EAC.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions, including determinations made by the EAC, is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. That is, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Nor may the Commissioner substitute his own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record as a whole to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259. Petitioners seeking to overturn decisions of the NJSIAA therefore bear a heavy burden.

Considering the record of this matter in light of the prescribed standard of review, the Commissioner affirms the decision of the EAC. After the petitioner was afforded the requisite due process, the EAC determined that a waiver of the eligibility rules should not be granted in this case because the circumstances that caused the petitioner to miss a semester of high school athletics were not beyond his control. Specifically, the EAC found that the petitioner's actions, i.e. taking the gun "selfie" and threatening "to shoot up the school" that led to his removal from school grounds for the spring 2016 semester, were not beyond his control. The petitioner has not demonstrated on appeal that the EAC's assessment of those circumstances was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The District's decision to provide the petitioner with a 5th year of educational services does not mean that the events that led to the petitioner being out on extended home instruction for the spring 2016 semester were beyond his control. Moreover, the record is devoid of evidence that the EAC's application of the NJSIAA's eligibility rules and waiver requirements in this case was discriminatory in nature.

Accordingly, the EAC's decision denying the request for waiver is upheld and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF FRANKLIN, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners challenged the decision of the Franklin Township Board of Education (Board) to assign a school bus stop 0.9 miles from petitioners' home, in lieu of allowing the bus driver to pick up the children in their driveway. Petitioners contend that a previous bus driver picked the children up at their home, which involves making a "K- turn" in petitioners' driveway. Petitioners contended that the approved bus stop .9 miles from their house requires the children to walk along the shoulder of a narrow and winding country road, which they argue is especially dangerous in winter weather. The Board asserted that the assigned bus stop was appropriate under the District's policies governing the assignment of transportation routes and services, and the District policy governing transportation safety standards. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; local school boards are given broad discretion to determine appropriate bus routes and stops for school children; the decisions of local boards will only be overturned if those decisions are shown to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; here, the district assigned a bus stop .9 miles from petitioners' home that it determined to be appropriate and safe; a previous bus company or driver had customarily picked up petitioners' children at their home, using a private driveway to make a K-turn on a public road (in violation of the District's policy governing transportation safety standards) in order to avoid navigating over a narrow bridge for which the school bus exceeds the weight limit; a new bus driver assigned to petitioners' route was unwilling to pick up the children at their residence, and instead stopped at the District-assigned bus stop; after filing their appeal, petitioners were twice provided opportunity to be heard by the Board; after the petitioners' first appearance before the Board, the Board determined the bus stop in question to be appropriate under its policies and regulations, and further directed an investigation to ensure the safety of the assigned bus stop and the logistics of possibly rerouting the bus; following the investigation, the Board affirmed its decision to maintain the assigned bus stop. The ALJ concluded that petitioners did not meet their burden to demonstrate that the decision of the Board to maintain the present bus stop was arbitrary, unreasonable or otherwise discriminatory. Accordingly, the ALJ denied petitioners motion for summary decision, and granted the Board's motion for summary decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioners, R.M. and K.M. o/b/o M.M., E.M., and T.M. (petitioners), challenge the Franklin Township Board of Education's ("Board,") decision to maintain a school bus stop 0.9 miles from petitioners' home in lieu of allowing the bus driver to pick up the children at their home and make a "K-turn" in petitioners' private driveway as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

On September 23, 2016, the New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2. On May 19, 2017, the petitioners moved for summary decision, seeking to reverse the Board's determination. On May 25, 2017, respondent opposed said motion and filed a cross motion for summary decision. The record closed on August 18, 2017.

FACTS

The parties submitted a motion and cross motion for summary disposition. There is no discrepancy between each's factual presentations and accordingly, the matter is ripe for a summary decision application. The parties submitted a twenty-two paragraphs statement of undisputed facts with attached Exhibits A to G; and a Joint Exhibit List containing Exhibits J-1 through J-26, inclusive. Both documents are accepted and are marked as CT-1 and CT-2, respectively. The tribunal also accepts CT-3, a CD-Rom of images of the roadway in evidence. Although River Road is not a formal two-lane road, it appears wide enough to allow cars to pass by one another. There are grassy shoulders along the road which are obviously not unsafe for pedestrians to use. The road itself is relatively flat and unremarkable in character. Although there is a twenty-five mile-per-hour speed limit posted near the bridge there is no indication in the record of the speed limit along River Road itself. I FIND AS FACT the following:

1. M.M., aged five, E.M., aged nine, and T.M., aged twelve, all reside within the Franklin Township School District ("District"), Hunterdon County.

2. District Policy 3541.1 and Regulation 3541.1R govern the assignment of transportation routes and services.

3. District Policy 3541.33 governs the transportation safety standards.

4. The District assigned a bus stop that is 0.9 miles from their residence.

5. Previously, the bus company or prior driver, picked up the petitioners at their home by navigating over a bridge, and traveling down a paved uncovered road without sidewalks. The driver used the petitioners' private driveway to make a K-turn and return over the bridge.

6. The tonnage capacity of the bridge is lower than the tonnage of the bus.

7. The use of a private driveway to make a K-turn on a public road is against the District policy 3541.33.

8. The new bus driver assigned to petitioners' route would not drive down to petitioners' residence.

9. Petitioners challenged the Board's designated bus stop. Petitioners were afforded an opportunity to be heard on September 29, 2014. The Board determined the bus stop to be appropriate under the Policy and Regulations identified above.

10. Petitioners again raised the bus stop issue in April 2016. The Board directed an investigation which was conducted. The investigation revealed the logistics of rerouting the bus route.

11. On May 31, 2016, the petitioners' request to move the bus stop was denied, and petitioners were advised of their appeal rights. Petitioners took an appeal and were again heard by the Board on June 20, 2016.

12. On July 26, 2016, the Board affirmed their prior decision.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, "[a] party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues in a contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). Summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged, and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Herein, there is no dispute as to any material fact.

N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 provides that for "elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary school pupils who live more than 2 ½ miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school...." However, local school boards are given broad discretion to "make reasonable classifications for furnishing transportation, taking into account differences in the degree of traffic and other conditions existing in the various sections of the district." Buonocore v. Hillsdale Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 655, 658 (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). "It is well-settled that a local school board's action lying within their discretion will not be overturned unless it is arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives." Lemma v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Branchburg, EDU 8953-97, Initial Decision (July 22, 1998) (citing Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)), adopted, Comm'r (August 28, 1998) < https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ >.

Further, "responsibility for the removal of traffic safety hazards belongs to the municipal governing authority rather than to the school boards." Mr. & Mrs. T.F.S. ex rel. J.R.S. v. S. Brunswick Twp. Bd. of Educ., EDU 10118-05, Initial Decision (June 29, 2006) (citing Schrenk v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 1961 S.L.D. 185, 187)), adopted, Comm'r (August 4, 2006), < https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ >. That maxim notwithstanding, both "the manner in which the Board designs a walk route and student safety are factors to be considered in assessing whether the Board acted in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable way." Ibid. (citations omitted). Thus, "[w]hether a walk route is safe depends on the surrounding facts." Ibid. (internal citations omitted).

Herein, petitioners argue that the instant case is similar to Shrewsbury v. Holland Twp. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 795; 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 416, in which the State Board of Education ultimately concluded that a school board's decision to not provide minibus service to the petitioners' home was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable because the petitioners offered to construct, at their own expense, a minibus turnaround on their property, which "would [have] alleviate[d] the Board's concerns regarding a sight distance and turnaround problem" and saved the minibus from having "to navigate the sharp 'S' curves located beyond petitioners' home."

In Shrewsbury, the petitioners sought to relocate a bus stop 0.3 miles south of their home on the top of a hill. 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 795, 796. The road in question had no sidewalks or shoulder to walk on. Ibid. For this reason, it was necessary at times for the children to walk in the roadway. Ibid. Alternative paths would have involved land leased to a hunting club or trespassing onto a neighbor's property. Ibid. The petitioners provided a video showing how the district's buses made K-turns on other township roads where it was impossible both to see and be seen by oncoming traffic during the turn. Ibid. Petitioners had unsuccessfully tried for many years to pay for the construction of a turnaround on their property if the district agreed to extend minibus service closer to their home. Id. at 797. The ALJ found the argument that the bus stop could not be relocated for safety reasons rang hollow, in light of the use of more dangerous maneuvers on similar routes—citing to the video as highly persuasive. Id. at 798.

The ALJ's initial decision was, however, rejected by the Commissioner on the basis that the safety of the bus stop was not in doubt, the safety of the route to the bus stop was a municipal concern and other similarly situated students were not being treated differently. Id. at 799. On appeal, the State Board overturned the decision of the Commissioner. 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 416. According to the State Board, "our review herein is not limited to the safety of the existing bus stop or the Board's jurisdiction over safety conditions on the Township's roads. Rather, the standard is whether the Board abused its discretion in refusing to extend minibus service to petitioners' home." Id. at 417. The State Board, agreeing with the ALJ, found the decision to not extend service arbitrary and capricious especially because the petitioners had offered to finance a turnaround, a study by respondent's engineer had found placing a turnaround on the property a feasible solution and the persuasive use of the video by the petitioners to make their case.

In opposition, the Board cites Lemma, supra, and T.F.S. ex rel. J.R.S., supra, among other cases, to argue that its decision was reasonable and within its discretionary authority. In Lemma, the petitioner sought to relocate a bus stop approximately one mile from his home. Lemma, supra. The petitioner's children at the time were ages six and nine respectively and, to get to their bus stop, they had to walk through "a half-mile uninhabited area with no sidewalks or street lighting and along an often foggy 50 MPH road with blind curves." Ibid.

However, the school board in Lemma successfully argued that its decision was "based on information leading them to believe that the bus stop met the requirements for the [petitioner's] children's safety," and that accommodating petitioner's request would put other children's safety at risk because the bus would have to navigate and make a K-turn on a narrow, dead-end road. The ALJ contrasted the case to Shrewsbury, noting the persuasive factors present in that case were not present in Lemma.

Likewise, in T.F.S. ex rel. J.R.S., the district implemented a plan to eliminate bussing and establish a walking route from petitioner's home to the school. T.F.S. o/b/o J.R.S., supra. Therein, petitioners challenged the plan based on the speed limit of forty-five miles per hour and other traffic safety concerns. Ibid. Although there were sidewalks along the walking route, petitioners raised concerns about students walking in the road after snow storms—because neighbors did not consistently shovel their portion of the sidewalk. The ALJ concluded, however, that the "Board literally spent years studying and deliberating the merits of requiring students ... to become walkers" and made its decision only after the police department approved the walking route. For that reason, the ALJ found the decision did not rise to the level of arbitrary and capricious, nor did the district abuse their discretion in discontinuing some bussing routes for financial reasons. Ibid.

Here, petitioners' children have been asked to walk along a winding country road to their assigned bus stop. Petitioners assert that the road is narrow and questions the usability of the shoulder, especially in winter weather. However, based on a review of the images provided in the attached exhibits, the road contains no obvious safety concerns and a relatively wide shoulder. There is no indication of the speed limit along River Road in the portions the children must walk and petitioners have not claimed that anyone travels the road at dangerously high speeds.

The Board's investigation was thorough and involved experts, physical inspections of the route and ultimately a determination that the path to the bus stop was safe as a walking route. Petitioners have not shown that the Board ignored obvious dangers in making their determination. Indeed, the Board followed the established policy in rejecting both the use of K-turns and similar maneuvers in private driveways. This case is unlike Shrewsbury, where the respondent allowed other busses to take unsafe risks and official policy permitted the district's engineer to consider the use of private property for the construction of a turnaround—even finding it feasible to do so.

Further, River Road is comparatively safer than the roadway approved as sufficiently safe in Lemma because there are no apparent blind turns, claims of regular visual impairment or high speed limits. Likewise, while petitioners have pointed to weather conditions comparable to those in T.F.S. ex rel. J.R.S., that route was approved after the safety of the route was investigated and approved. Snow and other infrequent extreme weather are insufficient to make approval of a walking route by a district, especially after an investigation into its safety, arbitrary and capricious.

Finally, although petitioners use the word "discriminates" in their supporting brief, there is no indication or claim that other similarly situated individuals have been treated differently by the school district. Thus, petitioners have not shown the refusal to relocate the bus stop and use their private driveway is discriminatory and therefore arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Local boards have wide discretion to determine appropriate bus routes and stops for school children. The decisions of local boards will only be overturned if arbitrary, capricious or otherwise unreasonable.

The Board herein thoroughly investigated the possibility of moving the bus stop, but determined that the route would require the bus to make risky or otherwise dangerous maneuvers and found that the walking route from petitioners' home to the established bus stop was non-hazardous. Petitioners, however, have not shown that the roadway was unreasonably dangerous or that the Board had otherwise acted in an arbitrary or discriminatory fashion in denying their bus stop proposal.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE petitioners have not met their burden to demonstrate that the decision of the Board, in maintaining the present bus stop in lieu of having the school bus execute a K-turn in Petitioners' private driveway in order to avoid driving over a bridge for which the school bus exceeds the weight limit, was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or otherwise discriminatory.

I CONCLUDE petitioners' motion for summary decision should be DENIED.

I CONCLUDE as the record is sufficiently ripe for a determination, the respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the petition should be GRANTED.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petition's motion for summary decision is DENIED; and the respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED, and the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon such review, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner when it maintained the present bus stop .9 miles from petitioners' home, rather than permitting the school bus to drive over a bridge, for which it exceeds the weight limit, or make a K-turn in petitioners' driveway. The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ that there are no apparent safety concerns on the route from petitioners' home to the bus stop, as River Road has not been designated a hazardous roadway.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition is hereby dismissed.

The parties, having amicably resolved their differences, hereby stipulate as follows:

1. S.F., the mother of A.M., has relocated with her daughter to Georgia, where A.M. now attends school.

2. After a residency investigation of S.F. this past school year, the Union Township Board of Education ("Board/District") determined that S.F. was not legally domiciled in Union Township and that A.M. was thus not eligible to attend school in the District.

3. S.F. then filed the instant residency appeal with the Commissioner.

4. The Board counterclaimed for tuition for the period of A.M.'s ineligible attendance.

5. The period of A.M.'s ineligible attendance was 84 school days at a tuition rate of $77.56 per day, making for a total due the Board of $6,515.

6. S.F. has agreed to pay the above amount in installments. Her first payment of $500 is due October 1, 2017. On the first day of each succeeding month, S.F. will make a payment of $300. Monthly payments shall continue until the amount of $6,515 is paid in full. S.F. shall have fifteen (15) days from the first day of each month to make the required payment. If payment is not made by the 15th day of the month, S.F. will be declared in default, which shall permit the Board to begin the process of having the unpaid tuition amount entered as a judgment against S.F. All checks/money orders for payment shall made payable to the Union Township Board of Education and mailed/delivered to this office.

7. The parties have entered into this Settlement Agreement to avoid the expense and inconvenience of a residency hearing in the Office of Administrative Law.

8. In reliance upon S.F.'s representation that she and her daughter are now domiciled in Georgia, the Board will not continue legal proceedings for the removal of A.M. from its District.

9. S.F.'s residency appeal is dismissed with prejudice and in consideration of the settlement of this matter, S.F. shall release the District from any and all claims, rights and liability, including but not limited to any and all claims for attorneys' fees, compensatory education, money damages, civil liability, or any other legal and equitable relief to which S.F. may be entitled through the date of the execution of this Settlement Agreement.

10. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and understanding between the parties and constitutes a full and final agreement on any and all issues.

11. The parties have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily with a full understanding of their rights and the contents of this Agreement. The parties acknowledge that they had the opportunity to consult with legal counsel or a representative of their choice and that they have reviewed this Agreement in detail with their counsel or representative and fully understand the requirements and limitations.

12. This Agreement may not be altered, amended or modified except by writing, signed and duly authorized by all parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF PETER ELBERT, JOSEPH ARMENTAL, JOSEPH BELL, NOEL GORDON, NICOLE CARTWRIGHT, VENUS ROSE, LUIS SANCHEZ, AND JAMAYLA SCOTT, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ENGLEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In September 2017, the School District of the City of Englewood filed tenure charges against eight teaching staff members, together with a motion for a protective order because of personally identifiable student information contained therein; consequently, the charges and accompanying statement of evidence were temporarily sealed. Subsequently, counsel for the respondents in this matter filed motions to dismiss, arguing that the charges were not sufficient under statute and regulation because petitioner had filed one set of charges against all of the above named individuals.

The Commissioner found, inter alia, that: this matter rolls tenure charges against eight individual teaching staff members into a single case, contrary to the entire statutory scheme of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq., which speaks in singular terms such as "person" or "individual"; in filing the charges in the present manner, petitioner has usurped the function of the Commissioner or an assigned arbitrator to issue a decision on consolidation; and the charges as filed also deprive respondents of their fundamental due process rights to a clear statement describing the precise nature of the charges against him or her, and a description of the evidence which allegedly supports the charges. The Commissioner concluded that the matter must be dismissed as procedurally defective. Accordingly, the petitioner was directed to reinstate the respondents to their tenured positions with full back pay and benefits. In so doing, the Commissioner noted that dismissals for procedural reasons are considered dismissals without prejudice; if petitioner chooses to re-file tenure charges based upon any of the allegations herein – against any or all of the individuals named in the within matter – it must comply with each of the statutory and regulatory requirements for certifying tenure charges. The Commissioner permanently sealed the present tenure charges and statement of evidence, which had previously been temporarily sealed.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 216-9/17

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF PETER ELBERT, JOSEPH ARMENTAL, JOSEPH BELL, NOEL GORDON, NICOLE CARTWRIGHT, VENUS ROSE, LUIS SANCHEZ, AND JAMAYLA SCOTT, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ENGLEWOOD, BERGEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

For the Petitioner: Mark A. Tabakin, Esq.

For Respondents Cartwright, Rose, Sanchez and Scott: Sheldon H. Pincus, Esq.

For Respondents Elbert, Bell, Armental and Gordon: Andrew L. Schwartz, Esq.

This matter commenced on September 20, 2017, when the School District of the City of Englewood (hereinafter petitioner) filed tenure charges against eight teaching staff members, together with a motion for a protective order asserting that such an order was required because of personally identifiable student information; opposition to the motion having been filed by counsel on behalf of each of the individual respondents, the charges and accompanying statement of evidence were temporarily sealed, pending resolution of the motion by an arbitrator to be assigned pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 6-17.1

On October 4, 2017 and October 5, 2017, however, counsel for the respondents each filed a motion to dismiss the charges, in lieu of answer, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3(a)(1). Both motions argued, inter alia, that the charges were not sufficient under statute and regulation because petitioner had filed one set of charges against all of the above named individuals, who include two principals, a vice principal, a director of guidance, three guidance counselors, and a social worker functioning as a guidance counselor. Petitioner filed a response to both motions to dismiss on October 20, 2017, and replies were filed by both counsel for respondents on October 25, 2017.

Having reviewed all of the papers filed in conjunction with the motions to dismiss, the Commissioner concludes that the motions must be granted.

This is a matter of first impression. Every other set of tenure charges filed with the Commissioner, memory of man runneth not to the contrary, has charged a single tenured teaching staff member with inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq. The respondents correctly point out that the entire statutory scheme speaks in singular terms, "person", "individual", etc., with the sole exception being the final sentence of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which advises: "Nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the number of any such persons holding such offices, positions or employments under the conditions and with the effect provided by law." That sentence, however, is not a prescription for the filing of tenure charges, but merely clarification that persons under tenure may nevertheless be subjected to a reduction in force under appropriate circumstances. Furthermore, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 also speaks exclusively in the singular voice, e.g. "employee and the employee's representative," and although multiple respondents may be named in other contested cases filed with the Commissioner, the first sentence of the tenure regulations specifically states: "N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3, Filing and service of petition of appeal, shall not apply in a case of tenure charges filed with the Commissioner against an employee of a district board of education or a school district under full State intervention."

Petitioner argues in response that even if individual charges were required to be filed, the charges as filed nevertheless should be permitted because the charges meet the legal standards for consolidation of cases. Even if that were true, there is no motion for consolidation pending and there are not eight individual cases such that some or all could be subject to an order of consolidation. In essence, what petitioner has done by filing in the manner it has is to usurp the function of the Commissioner or an assigned arbitrator to issue a decision on consolidation.

Severance is also not an option since the charges as written deprive respondents of their fundamental due process rights to a clear statement describing the precise nature of the charges against him or her, and a description of the evidence which allegedly supports the charges. In this matter as it currently stands, there are 750 paragraphs in thirty-three counts and each count realleges and incorporates the previous counts, such that the allegations against respondent Rose also include the allegations against respondent Cartwright; the allegations against respondent Scott also include the allegations against respondents Rose and Cartwright, etc.; the allegations against respondent Armental therefore include the allegations against all seven of the other respondents. There is simply no way this matter may be determined sufficient to require that answers be filed; consequently, it must be dismissed as procedurally defective. Accordingly, petitioner is directed to reinstate all of the respondents to their tenured positions with full back pay and benefits.

It should be noted that dismissals for procedural reasons are considered dismissals without prejudice. See, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sabino Valdes, Union City School District, OAL Docket No EDU 3620-01, confirmed Valdes v. City of Union City Board of Education, Docket No. A-1337-04T32007 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 622 (App. Div. 1/22/07), certif. den. 191 N.J. 317, 5/15/07. If petitioner chooses to again file tenure charges based upon any of the allegations in the within matter – against any or all of the individuals named in the within matter – it must comply with each of the statutory and regulatory requirements for certifying tenure charges.

The present tenure charges and statement of evidence, having been previously temporarily sealed, are hereby permanently sealed. They will not be returned to petitioner.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

For Michael Coe:
Arnold M. Mellk, Esq.
Edward A. Cridge, Esq. (On the Brief)
Mellk O'Neill

The City of Trenton Board of Education ["Board" or "Petitioner"], pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et. seq., certified tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Respondent Michael Coe had committed acts of conduct unbecoming and/or other just cause for dismissal based upon 41 counts of willful and intentional conduct of submitting weekly work records and payroll vouchers for extra duty work he did not actually perform but for which he was paid. The Board seeks to remove the Respondent from his tenured position.

On May 27, 2017, I received notice from M. Kathleen Duncan, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, that this matter was referred to me pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26.

On March 28, 2017, I notified the parties that an informal settlement conference was scheduled for April 27, 2017. Settlement/pre-hearing conferences were held on April 27, May 12 and June 8, 2017. Although the conferences were productive, the parties were unable to reach a resolution to this matter.

The evidentiary proceedings were held at the Board's offices in Trenton, New Jersey on June 9, 15, 16, 22, 23 and 28, 2017.[1] A stenographic recording of the proceedings was taken. During the proceedings, the parties were given the opportunity to argue orally, examine and cross-examine witnesses and submit documentary evidence into the record.[2] Testimony was received from Lissa Johnson – Assistant Superintendent for the Office of Talent Acquisition and Development; Monique Harvey – Supervisor of Special Education, Home Instruction and Homeless Services; Leodito Yanogacio – Assistant Comptroller; Paula Bethea – Principal of Joyce Kilmer School; Jayne Howard – Business Administrator/Board Secretary; SGB – parent of student SB; Respondent Michael Coe; and Shawn Mitchell – Assistant Business Administrator/Comptroller.[3] Time extensions to hear and decide this matter were timely requested and granted.

The parties submitted post-hearing briefs on or before August 22, 2017. The Board submitted a reply brief on August 29, 2017.[4] The record was closed on August 30, 2017. With the consent of parties' Counsel, Director Duncan granted an extension of time until November 10, 2017 to issue this Decision.

RELEVANT PROVISIONS OF THE NEW JERSEY STATUTES

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Dismissal and reduction in compensation of persons under tenure in public school system

No person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation,

(a) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state, or

(b) if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency as a supervisor, teacher or in any other teaching capacity in the Marie H. Katzenbach school for the deaf, or in any other educational institution conducted under the supervision of the commissioner; except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing held pursuant to this subarticle, by the commissioner, or a person appointed by him to act in his behalf, after a written charge or charges, of the cause or causes of complaint, shall have been preferred against such person, signed by the person or persons making the same, who may or may not be a member or members of a board of education, and filed and proceeded upon as in this subarticle provided.

Nothing in this section shall prevent the reduction of the number of any such persons holding such offices, positions or employments under the conditions and with the effect provided by law.

STIPULATED ISSUE

Whether the City of Trenton Public Schools has proven that Michael Coe, a tenured teaching staff member, is guilty of conduct unbecoming and other just cause sufficient to warrant his dismissal from employment by the District? If not what shall be the appropriate remedy? [T1:5].

BACKGROUND

The parties submitted proposed findings of facts as part of their post-hearing briefs. I have adopted the findings of facts as modified herein.

Respondent Coe has been employed by the Board as a tenured teaching staff member for 17 years. The Respondent has never received a negative performance evaluation, and he has no prior formal discipline in his personnel file. [T5:50]. At all relevant times, the Respondent has been a member of the Trenton Education Association ["TEA"]. During the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years, the Respondent was employed as Special Education Teacher assigned to the Joyce Kilmer Middle School.

For the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years, the Respondent received a salary to perform his teaching duties during regular school hours. He was also approved by the Board to perform extra duty assignments, which include AM/PM Supervision, Home Instruction and Extended School Year. AM/PM Supervision involves teachers or support staff members supervising pupils prior to the school day during the breakfast program and after school as pupils are waiting for transportation. [T1:15-16]. Home Instruction involves instructional services provided by certified teachers in a child's home where the child is unable to attend school for a certain reason, such as behavioral difficulties, medical issues or other physical limitations. [Id. at 14]. Extended School Year involves instructional services provided to classified students during the summer to prevent regression. [Id. at 15]. In accordance with the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the TEA, the Respondent was paid an hourly rate of $42 for these extra duty assignments.

The Respondent also attended meetings as part of the School Leadership Council, School Leadership Team, and Advisory Council.[5] In accordance with the collective negotiations agreement between the Board and the TEA, the Respondent was paid an hourly rate of $36 for these meetings.

As an employee of the school district, the Respondent was responsible for completing and submitting "Weekly Work Records" and/or "Payroll Vouchers" after performing his extra duty assignments. Weekly Work Records are completed after a teaching staff member performs home instruction duties that usually take place at a child's home. The Weekly Work Record for Home Instruction requires the employee's name, employee's payroll identification number, student's name, student's school, student's grade, subject/course assigned, date and week worked, description of job, location worked, time in and time out, hours worked, total hours, name of home instructor, signature of home instructor, name of parent/guardian, signature of parent/guardian and date. Payroll Vouchers are completed after a teaching staff member performs AM/PM Supervision, Home Instruction and Extended School Year duties. Payroll Vouchers set forth an employee's names, payroll identification numbers, home school, full time or part time designation, phone number, Board approval date, account number, date submitted, dates worked, description of job, location worked, time in and time out, hours worked daily/hourly rate, total hours, rate of pay, total earnings, employee signature, supervisor/principal signature, date and approval.

During the 2015-2016 and 2016-2017 school years, the Respondent completed, signed and submitted multiple Weekly Work Records and Payroll Vouchers. As will be more fully discussed below, the Board contends that the Respondent was paid by the Board with public funds for time that he did not actually work and for services that he did not provide. The Board claims that Respondent falsified time sheets, committed theft of time, services and public funds. The Board contends that Respondent's inappropriate and unprofessional conduct violates law and Board Policy. The Board contends that Respondent's actions were sufficiently flagrant and egregious to warrant termination. Further, his actions demonstrate that he is not fit to serve as a teacher, and that his willful and intentional misconduct constitutes conduct unbecoming sufficient to warrant dismissal from employment. The Respondent denies these claims.

The Board proceeded to file tenure charges against the Respondent. Board Secretary/School Business Administrator Jayne Howard sent the Respondent a written copy of tenure charges against him as well as the written statement of evidence. The written charges were sworn to under oath by Assistant Superintendent Lissa Johnson on February 7, 2017. [Ex. B-39]. The Respondent did not submit a written response to the Charges.

On February 27, 2017, the Board held a closed session and determined by a unanimous vote of six (6) to zero (0) in favor that there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the Charges, and that Charges, if credited, to sufficient to warrant the dismissal of the Respondent. [Ex. B-41]. The Board suspended the Respondent without pay beginning February 28, 2017. The Board served the information upon the Respondent's Counsel. On March 7, 2017, the Board filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education the written tenure charges and supporting evidence against the Respondent. [Ex. B-39].

On March 15, 2017, the Respondent, through his attorney, submitted an Answer in which he either admitted or denied the allegations contained in the Board's written statement of the charges. [Ex. R-15].

On March 27, 2017, the matter was referred to me pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26.

Testimony was received from several witnesses during the tenure proceedings. Testifying on behalf of the Board were Lissa Johnson – Assistant Superintendent for the Office of Talent Acquisition and Development; Monique Harvey – Supervisor of Special Education, Home Instruction and Homeless Services; Leodito Yanogacio – Assistant Comptroller; Paula Bethea – Principal of Joyce Kilmer School; Jayne Howard – Business Administrator/Board Secretary; and Shawn Mitchell – Assistant Business Administrator/Comptroller. Testifying on behalf of the Respondent were the Respondent and SGB, the parent of SB, the student who received Home Instruction from the Respondent. Their testimony is summarized below.

Monique Harvey is the Supervisor of Special Education, Home Instruction and Homeless Services. [T2:4]. Part of her responsibilities include assigning home instructors to pupils and monitoring and approving the home instructor time sheets. [Id. at 6]. Harvey testified that home instructors provide instruction to students that are at home due to medical issues or waiting for a special education placement. [Id.]. Harvey indicated that home instructors receive $42 per hour for direct contact with the students. [Id. at 8]. Harvey testified that home instructors are not compensated for preparation time or travel time. [Id.].

Harvey testified that home instructors submit Payroll Vouchers for her review and approval. [T2:12]. The vouchers must include the date that the Home Instruction was provided, the location of the Home Instruction, the time in and out, the number of hours, the hourly rate, and the home instructor's signature. [Id.]. Harvey indicated that there are Weekly Work Records for Home Instruction that must include similar information, but they also require the signature of the child's parent to confirm that Home Instruction services were performed in accordance with the information that the home instructor provided therein. [Id. at 13]. Harvey testified that she compares the Payroll Vouchers and Weekly Work Records to verify that the dates match, the hours are calculated correctly, and the Home Instruction services were provided on a school day rather than a weekend or a holiday. [Id. at 13-14]. She also confirms that the documents include the appropriate signatures. [Id.]. Harvey testified that she is responsible for reviewing the Home Instruction payroll documents, but she does not review any other Payroll Vouchers that the Respondent may have submitted for his other extra-compensation duties in 2015-2016 and 2016-2017. [Id. at 18-19].

On cross, Harvey was asked "whether any the Director of Special Education within the last five years issued any policies or procedures to be followed in home instruction". [T2:27]. Harvey replied, "I'm not sure". [Id. at 28].

Paula Bethea is the Principal for the Joyce Kilmer Middle School. [T3:4]. Bethea has been the school principal since 2010 and has been employed by the Board since 2001. [Id.]. Bethea is responsible for reviewing and approving extra-duty assignments for her staff. Bethea testified that AM/PM Supervision consists of monitoring students during breakfast and recreational activities that take place prior to the start of the regular student day, or supervising students after school as they wait for their transportation home. [Id. at 8-9]. Bethea indicated that the morning supervision is usually from 7:50 a.m. to 8:20 a.m., and the afternoon supervision usually begins at 2:55 p.m. and ends between 3:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. [Id. at 10-11]. As to SLT/SLC meetings, Bethea indicated that the meetings are usually held with the school principal once a month and last about an hour. [Id. at 15-16].

Bethea testified that teaching staff members are responsible for submitting Payroll Vouchers for their extra-duty assignments. [Id. at 17]. Bethea reviews and approves these vouchers by verifying that the staff member was in attendance on the particular date, and ensures that the documents are fully completed and signed. [Id. at 18-20]. Bethea relies upon the staff member's signature to verify that the work was actually performed. [Id. at 20-21].

Jayne Howard is the Board's Business Administrator and Secretary. [T3:52]. Howard has served in that capacity since 2009 and has been employed by the Board since October 2001. [Id. at 52-53]. Howard testified that the State's Office of Legislative Services ["OLS"] conducted an audit of the school district's Home Instruction programs, before and after school duties, and other activities for the 2007-2008 and 2008-2009 school years.[6] [Id. at 54-60]. Howard indicated it was her understanding that the audit was based upon "received complaints that our home instructors were basically frauding the District with false documentation and time sheets." [Id. at 55]. Howard indicated that the audit revealed a number of discrepancies (i.e. duplicate hours, inflated hours) in the time sheets submitted by a number of home instructors. [Id. at 58; see Ex. B-32]. It was her understanding that the discrepancies led to personnel actions that included paid restitution, dismissal, resignation, non-renewal, and the Superintendent's loss of license. [T3:60].

Howard testified that based upon her prior experience as an auditor that she anticipated that the Office of Legislative Services would conduct a similar audit in 2017-2018. [Id. at 60-61]. In preparation for this audit, Howard authorized Assistant Comptroller Leodito Yanogacio in November 2016 to conduct an internal audit of the home instructor time sheets for 2015-2016 and those submitted up to that point for 2016-2017. [Id. at 65-67]. Howard testified that the initial review revealed discrepancies in the Respondent's time sheets. [Id. at 68].

[6] The OLS audit report ["Report"] was admitted into evidence. [Ex. B-32]. The Report included a summary of the scope of the audit, objectives, methodology, conclusions, findings and recommendations, and the auditee response. The auditee response was not included as part of the Report that was admitted into evidence.

Based upon Yanogacio's initial review of the home instructor time sheets, Howard requested Yanogacio to audit the Respondent's time sheet submissions for his before and after school programs as well as his school leadership team programs. [Id. at 70-71]. Based upon the more detailed audit, Howard concluded that there were thirty-nine (39) occasions that the Respondent's time sheets either failed to account for a break between his duties (i.e. the times that the Respondent marked on his time sheet for PM supervision reflected an end time of 4:00 p.m. and his time sheet for Home Instruction at a different location that required travel reflected a start time of 4:00 p.m.) or included an overlap in time (i.e. the times that the Respondent recorded on his time sheets indicated that he was performing and paid for more than one task at the same time, some of which may have required the Respondent to be in more than one location). [Exs. B-1 through B-28]. As part of the audit, the discrepancies were marked on a spreadsheet. [Ex. B-33]. Howard testified that there were other time sheets that the Respondent submitted that included a break between his duties at the Joyce Kilmer Middle School and his Home Instruction assignments. [T3:78-79, 88].

Howard instructed Yanogacio to drive from the Joyce Kilmer Middle School to locations that the Respondent performed home instruction in 2015-2016 and 2016-2017. Yanogacio testified that each trip took at least 10 minutes. [T2:64-68]. Howard testified that home instructors are not compensated for travel time. [T3:80].

Lissa Johnson is the Assistant Superintendent for the Office of Talent Acquisition and Development. [T1:13]. Johnson oversees the District's human resources processes. [Id.]. Johnson testified that Howard notified her of the Respondent's time sheet issues. [Id. at 16]. Johnson sat down with Howard to review the Respondent's extra-duty time sheets. [Id. at 17]. Johnson also reviewed the audit performed on the Respondent's time sheets that included the Respondent's AM/PM Supervision vouchers, Home Instruction vouchers, Home Instruction weekly summaries ("Weekly Work Records"), and Payroll Vouchers for meetings. [Id. at 20]. Johnson testified that the audit showed there were occasions where the start and end times for separate extra-duty assignments were the same, the second extra-duty assignment started before the end of the first assignment, or the assignments occurred at the same time.

[See generally Johnson's testimony]. In addition, there was an overlap of three (3) extra-duty assignments. [Id.].

Johnson testified that she and Howard met with the Respondent on January 10, 2017, to discuss the audit findings incident by incident. [Id. at 18-19]. Johnson testified that the Respondent was afforded with the opportunity to have a representative present during the meeting and to respond to each issue raised in the time sheets. [Id. at 19]. Johnson indicated that the Respondent did not have a representative present and based upon the advice of his counsel he would not provide responses. [Id.]. Johnson testified that she provided the Respondent with a conference summary memorandum at the conclusion of the meeting that indicated that the Respondent was immediately excluded from performing extra-curricular duties and that she was referring the matter "to Board Counsel to determine all other applicable policy and legal violations and to begin preparing tenure charges". [Id. at 18; see Ex. B-34].

Johnson testified that Howard conducts an annual training session on the Board's finance procedures, but she did not provide specific detail as to what is discussed during the annual training. [T1:89-90].

The Board's decision to dismiss the Respondent from his tenured teaching position was based predominantly upon the Respondent's timesheet records and the conclusions that were drawn therefrom during the Administration's internal audit.

Respondent Coe testified that he has been employed by the Board for 17 years, that he provided Home Instruction for the past 10-11 years, AM/PM Supervision for approximately the past 7 years, and SLC/SLT/SLD services in 2016. [T5:7-8]. The Respondent indicated that in providing such services he was responsible for filling out Payroll Vouchers, Weekly Work Records, invoices, etc. [Id. at 8]. The Respondent during his testimony was asked to review a Weekly Work Record for Home Instruction form. [Ex. B-3, Coe 104]. The Respondent indicated that the form expressly indicated to "round hour to the nearest quarter hour". [T5:9]. The Respondent testified that he understood this language to mean that he was supposed to round his time up to the next quarter hour. [Id. at 9, 13; T6:117, 122]. He also understood this to be true based upon his conversations with his co-workers, and instructions from Vice-Principal/Principal Michael Pettola to round his time up. [T6:161-163]. The Respondent testified that the Administration never addressed this language with him during his time as a home instructor. [T5:9]. The Respondent also indicated that he was under the impression that travel time was included between the school and the location where he was performing Home Instruction, notwithstanding the fact that he did not charge for travel time. [Id.]. The Respondent testified that neither Howard, Harvey, nor anyone else from the Administration discussed travel time with him or provided written notice that travel time was not to be included. [Id. at 9-10, 11-12]. The Respondent testified that he filled out the vouchers, payroll sheets and other related forms in a substantially similar manner during the period of time that the Administration performed its internal audit. [Id. at 14-15].

With respect to the audit conducted by the Office of Legislative Services that was performed in 2010, the Respondent testified that he was not aware of the audit until this tenure proceeding. [Id. at 10]. Further, neither Howard, Harvey, nor anyone else from the Administration discussed the audit with him or provided him with a summary of the audit findings or recommendations despite the fact that he performed Home Instruction services during at least a portion of the audited time period. [Id. at 10-11].

The Respondent indicated that he has been performing the afternoon AM/PM Supervision for five (5) days a week during the school year for at least 7 years. [Id. at 16-17]. In his experience, the buses normally run late in the beginning of the school year. [Id. at 17]. There are also occasions when there are transportation issues for some of the students. [Id. at 18]. The Respondent testified that he has complied with requests from principals and vice-principals to give these children rides home after school. [Id. at 19-20].

The Respondent addressed the specific charges in the Board's Statement of Charges. With respect to Charge Number 2, the Board alleged that on August 3, 2015, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided Extended School Year Services from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m., for a total of seven (7) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 4]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 2:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., for a total of three (3) hours. [Id.]. The Respondent admitted that the Payroll Voucher was "not accurate because what was happening I was doing payroll for the ESY staff and that was a typographical error. It should have been from 8 to 2." [T5:23; see T6:25-26]. When asked on cross why did not bring this error to the Board's attention the Respondent replied, "...I did not recognize that mistake until it was brought to my attention. It was not done intentionally." [T6:27]. The Respondent indicated that it would take him about 4 minutes to travel from school to the residence of SB, the child for whom he provided Home Instruction. [Id. at 28]. The Respondent testified that he did not charge for travel time, and he did not round up for his time out for Home Instruction. [Id. at 28, 31].

With respect to Charge Number 3, the Board alleged that on September 10, 2015, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided AM/PM Supervision from 2:50 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., for a total of one and one-half (1.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 6]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., for a total of two (2) hours. [Id.]. The Respondent testified to the basis for the lack of a break between the services:

> ...That's the beginning of school. There was a special needs student whose name was not on the list and again I asked if I could drop him off after we tried to reach his parents, couldn't reach the parents, so we were able to drop the student - - student off enroute to going to home instruction. [T5:24].

On cross, the Respondent testified that on this occasion he did not round up his time for Home Instruction. [T6:37].

With respect to Charge Number 6, the Board alleged that on November 2, 2015, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an SLC meeting from 4:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Ex. B-39, p. 12]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 5:00 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., for a total of two and one-half (2.5) hours. [Id.]. The Respondent testified that SLC/SLT/SLD meetings are normally scheduled to last one (1) hour, but usually do not last that long. [T6:72]. The Respondent testified that he could not recall if he attended an SLC meeting that day, but he indicated that he was instructed by Pettola that "if the meetings did not last a complete hour we were told to sign out for an hour because it was contractual for the $36." [T5:27-29].

With respect to Charge Number 9, the Board alleged that on January 19, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an SLC meeting for a principal interview panel from 4:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m., for a total of three and one-half (3.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 17]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 3:45 p.m. to 6:15 p.m., for a total of two and one-half (2.5) hours. [Id.]. The Respondent testified that he attended the SLC meeting on January 19th, but as to the Home Instruction, he actually performed those services on January 18th:

> We did home instruction for [SB] on the 18th because it was Martin Luther King's birthday and I got the permission from the parent that we would come on the 18th because I knew we had to be in a meeting on the 19th for an interview for those that will be coming to princi - - interviewing for a principal position at Kilmer because I sat on the SLC. It was our - - I was required to be there. [T5:30-31; see also T6:64-65].

On cross, the Respondent indicated that it was possible that the SLC meeting could have ended a few minutes before 8:00 p.m. [T6:67].

With respect to Charge Number 10, the Board alleged that on February 1, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an SLC meeting from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Ex. B-39, p. 19]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., for a total of two (2) hours. [Id. at 20]. As to Charge Number 11, the Board alleged that on March 7, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an SLC meeting from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Id. at 21]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 5:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m., for a total of two (2) hours. [Id. at 22]. The Respondent reiterated that the SLC meetings normally do not last a full hour. [T5:32].

With respect to Charge Number 12, the Board alleged that on March 14, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided AM/PM Supervision from 2:50 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., for a total of one and one-half (1.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 23]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 6:45 p.m., for a total of two and one-half (2.5) hours. [Id. at 24]. The Respondent testified that on that particular day he performed the Home Instruction at school rather than at the pupil's house. [T5:33-34]. On cross, however, the Respondent indicated that the time out for AM/PM Supervision was a typographical error. [T6:75]. The Respondent testified that it was possible that he completed those duties at 4:00 p.m. [Id.]. When asked for his arrival time to SB's house, the Respondent indicated that he got there at 4:15 p.m. [Id. at 75-76].

With respect to Charge Number 14, the Board alleged that on April 25, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided AM/PM Supervision from 2:55 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., for a total of one and one-half (1.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 27]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 3:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., for a total of two and one-half (2.5) hours. [Id. at 28]. The Respondent testified that he recalled switching his afternoon duties with Marva Downer-Baird, a co-worker who was scheduled for the morning duty, because of the fact that he had to leave a few minutes early in the afternoon. [T5:35; T6:82-83]. On rebuttal, the Board provided Baird's payroll voucher for April 25, 2016, which indicated that she performed AM/PM Supervision from 7:55 a.m. to 8:25 a.m. [Ex. B-44]. Baird's payroll vouchers for April 20, 21 and 22 indicated that she worked the afternoon duties. [Id.]. Baird's start and end times appear to be rounded to the nearest five (5) minutes (i.e. 3:05 to 4:05).

With respect to Charge Number 16, the Board alleged that on May 31, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an ESEA Advisory Council meeting from 5:15 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., for a total of one and three-quarter (1.75) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 32]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Id. at 31]. The Respondent confirmed that he attended the ESEA meeting. [T5:37].

With respect to Charge Number 17, the Board alleged that on June 6, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an SLC meeting from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Ex. B-39, p. 33]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour.[7] [Id. at 34]. The Respondent testified that he performed the Home Instruction services for one (1) hour, but he wrote down the wrong time which should have been 5:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. [T5:38-39; T6:94-95].

[7] The Weekly Work Record actually indicated that the Respondent provided Home Instruction services from 4:15 p.m. to 7:15 p.m. [Ex. B-16, Coe 154]. The Respondent's payroll voucher for Home Instruction indicated 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. [Ex. B-16, Coe 153]. The Respondent testified that both were in error and should have indicated 5:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. [T6:95-98].

With respect to Charge Number 18, the Board alleged that on June 7, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided AM/PM Supervision from 2:55 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., for a total of one and one-half (1.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 36]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he attended an ESEA Advisory Council meeting from 5:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m., for a total of one-half (.5) hour. [Id.]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m., for a total of one (1) hour. [Id.]. The Respondent confirmed that he attended the ESEA meeting, provided Home Instruction, and performed AM/PM Supervision. [T5:39-40]. The Respondent, however, testified that he wrote the wrong time for the Home Instruction which should have been from 5:15 p.m. to 6:15 p.m. On cross, the Respondent indicated that he provided Home Instruction after the ESEA Advisory Council meeting that ended at 5:30 p.m. [T6:101-103]. As to the AM/PM Supervision, the Respondent testified that the end time should have been 4:00 p.m. because of the ESEA meeting. [Id. at 40-41]. On cross, the Respondent indicated that the AM/PM Supervision end time of 4:30 p.m. was correct. [T6:100].

With respect to Charge Number 24, the Board alleged that on October 5, 2016, the Respondent submitted a Payroll Voucher indicating that he provided AM/PM Supervision from 2:55 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., for a total of one and one-half (1.5) hours. [Ex. B-39, p. 47]. The Board also alleged that for the same day the Respondent submitted a Weekly Work Record indicating that he provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:00 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., for a total of two and one-half (2.5) hours. [Id. at 28]. The Respondent testified that the end time for the AM/PM Supervision was incorrect. [T5:42]. The Respondent testified that the supervision ended "roughly around 3, 3-something. Hour it up to make it four o'clock". [Id. at 44]. On cross, the Respondent indicated that "[t]his particular day may have been one of those days when a student was late or either the parent dropped [SB] at the school because when that would happen I would - - I would put down the time the parent picked the student up and also the time that [SGB] may have dropped [SB] off to my school." [T6:133]. The Respondent testified that he did not know for certain if this was the case, but that is what he normally did in those situations. [T6:133]. The Respondent testified that on this occasion he could have been performing both of the extra-curricular activities at the same time because he was still responsible for the student whose pickup from school was late. [T6:134-136].

Charge Numbers 4, 5, 7, 8, 13, 15, 19-23, and 25-40 correspond with the Respondent's timesheets from September 21, October 13, November 3, December 2, 2015, April 12, September 15, 21, 22, 26, 27, October 13, 18, 19, 20, 21, 24, 25, 27, 28, 31, November 1, 2, 3, 4, 7 and 9, 2016. [Ex. B-39]. These are timesheets that do not reflect a break between extra-compensation activities. [Ex. B-33]. With respect to these charges and timesheets, the Respondent testified that in each instance he rounded up his time out for the first activity. [T6:110-116, 122-130, 138-149]. He testified that it was most likely that he did not round up where his timesheets reflected a break between those activities, but there were occasions that he did. [Id. at 112, 116, 126-132]. The Respondent indicated that he did not include travel time. [Id. at 113-114].

With respect to the Home Instruction services that the Respondent provided to SB, the Respondent testified that with the exception of the inaccuracies that he pointed out during his testimony that he provided all of the Home Instruction services for which he submitted vouchers/weekly work records for payment:

> [Respondent, On Direct]
>
> Q. [By Respondent Counsel Mellk] All right. During the entire time that you were providing home instruction to [SB] did you provide him the hours of service except as you've excepted during your testimony to [SB]?
>
> A. Yes, I did. And I think I went over the call of duty. Many nights I stayed there later. That time was not noted on my - - my work - - on my weekly work record nor was it reflected on my time sheet because I was given the amount of time that I would be paid for. * * * [T5:47].

During cross-examination, the Respondent testified that the "time out" that he recorded on the Payroll Vouchers for ending the services he provided depended on whether he rounded up. [T6:7-8]. However, he always recorded his "time in" with the time that he actually commenced performing the services. [Id. at 8]. The Respondent rounded up on his time out because of the express language contained on the Weekly Work Record form. [Id. at 9]. The Respondent acknowledged that the same language is not included on the Payroll Voucher forms. [Id. at 9, 13]. The Respondent testified that he sometimes rounded up for the time out on Home Instruction, SLT/SLC meetings, and AM/PM Supervision. [Id. at 9-10]. The Respondent also denied that he rounded up for his attendance at AM/PM Supervision, ESEA Council meetings, or principal interviews. [Id. at 10]. The Respondent testified that on the days where his Payroll Vouchers and Weekly Work Records include an overlap in time or the lack of a break in between activities it is his belief that he rounded up. [Id. at 54]. The Respondent testified that if there was a break between activities that he did not round up. [Id. at 55-60]. When asked on cross why he did not round up every day, the Respondent replied that there "was no need to round up every day". [Id. at 63].

On cross, the Respondent was asked why he did not inform Howard when she interviewed him as part of the Board's investigation of this matter of the basis for rounding up. The Respondent replied, "Because I didn't have any representation. I didn't want what I was going to say to be misconstrued and so therefore I was given instruction by my attorney to listen and say nothing and that's what I did." [T6:80].

SGB is the parent of SB, a student for whom the Respondent provided Home Instruction services since from the end of 2011 through November of 2016. [See T4:4]. SGB testified that the Respondent regularly provided Home Instruction services for her son five (5) days a week. [Id. at 6]. SGB indicated that the Respondent regularly arrived on time, and he immediately began his instruction with SB who waited for him each day. [Id. at 27-29, 32-35]. SGB indicated that she personally observed the Respondent provide Home Instruction. [Id. at 40]. SGB testified that the Respondent usually stayed at their house for 2.5 to 3 hours each day, sometimes longer. [Id. at 7]. SGB testified that there were occasions that the Respondent provided the Home Instruction at school, rather than at home. [Id. at 19, 36-37]. SGB indicated that she signed the Weekly Work Records for Home Instruction every other week. [Id. at 7, 25]. SGB testified that the Respondent filled out the all of the information on the forms before she signed them. [Id. at 26]. When asked if the Respondent ever "shortchanged [SB] on the actual number of hours that he worked at home instruction", SGB replied, "No". [Id. at 50]. SGB testified to the Respondent's impact on her son:

> My son had a great deal of love for Mr. Coe. So did we. [SB] counted on Mr. Coe to come every Monday through Friday to teach him. If he didn't come - - which he never - - [SB] was ready. They got there. They even named each other nicknames. When Mr. Coe didn't come, [SB] got into depression because he couldn't get next to him. He couldn't call him. He couldn't see him. So he questioned us but we couldn't tell him. Trying to protect his feelings.
> Before my son died he wanted Mr. Coe - - he got his allowance and he wanted Mr. Coe to come - - or us to call him so he could come and take him to lunch. We told Mr. Coe couldn't come. He got mad, he went in his room and a week later he died.
>
> He got plenty of messages on my phone calling Mr. Coe on the telephone just to ask him how he's doing. "I hope you feel good, buddy." "I hope you all right, buddy." Only teacher he ever opened up to. He ever cared about. He - - I won't say care. I say love because you really had to get next to Stef for him to care about you, for him to wonder what you doing. [Id. at 17-18].

The parties presented the following arguments in support of their respective positions.

The Board's Position

The Board provides the following legal argument in its post-hearing brief:

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND PROPOSED FINDINGS OF LAW

THE DISTRICT HAS PROVEN THE TENURE CHARGES BY A PREPONDERANCE OF THE CREDIBLE EVIDENCE.

To prevail in this case, the District must establish the truth of the charges by a preponderance of the "credible evidence." Close v. Kordulak Bros., 44 N.J. 589, 598-99 (1965); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Preponderance is defined as the "greater weight of the credible evidence in the case," not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusions. Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958). Evidence is found to preponderate if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact alleged and generates a reliable belief that the tendered hypothesis, in all human likelihood, is true. Jackson v. Delaware, L.&W.R. Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E.&A 1933).

In the instant matter, the indisputable evidence presented during the arbitration hearing demonstrated Mr. Coe's pattern of inappropriate and dishonest conduct during the course of two (2) school years, which involved the intentional submission of falsified timesheets. Each "Weekly Work Record" and "Payroll Voucher" submitted by Mr. Coe for his extra- duty assignments were personally completed and signed by him. Indeed, above Mr. Coe's signature on each "Payroll Voucher," the following statement is printed: "I DECLARE THAT THE WORK STATED ABOVE WAS ACTUALLY PERFORMED." Above Mr. Coe's signature on the "Weekly Work Record," the following statement is printed: "The signatures of the undersigned certify that the above work record is complete and accurate." However, a District audit of Mr. Coe's extra-duty assignments revealed that during the 2015-16 and 2016-17 school years, there were thirty-nine (39) occasions whereby Mr. Coe submitted falsified extra compensation timesheets.

Of the thirty-nine (39) fraudulent submissions, thirty-one (31) involved the situation where the end time for an assignment was exactly the same as the start time for another assignment on the same day. Thus, even though the assignments occurred in different locations, Mr. Coe intentionally failed to document the break and travel time in between the two assignments, resulting in overpayment to Mr. Coe. The other eight (8) fraudulent submissions involved double and triple billing, whereby Mr. Coe certified that he was performing different assignments all at the same time. Mr. Coe intentionally took advantage of the fact that two (2) different supervisors would not be comparing Mr. Coe's time sheets for overlap.

Mr. Coe's testimony during the hearing was simply not credible. While he attempted to explain the discrepancies with his timesheets, he contradicted himself and the documentation. A review of the record clearly demonstrates that Mr. Coe knew that he could not continuously bill two (2) assignments back to back as there are countless entries showing a break of at least thirty (30) minutes between assignments to account for his travel from school to the student's house for home instruction. Moreover, any assertion by Mr. Coe that he committed "human error" where he double and triple billed for his assignments must be rejected.

As such, for the reasons that follow, the District respectfully submits that all of the charges must be sustained and that Mr. Coe's employment with the District must be terminated.

A. MR. COE IS GUILTY OF CONDUCT UNBECOMING A TEACHING STAFF MEMBER BY SUBMITTING FRAUDULENT TIMESHEETS.

The right to tenure is created and governed entirely by statute. Breitwieser v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, 286 N.J. Super. 633, 670 (App. Div. 1996) (citing Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63, 72-73 (1982)). It is well established that teaching staff "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause . . ." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added).

Although unbecoming conduct is not specifically defined in the statute or regulations, the New Jersey Supreme Court in Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384 (1957), noted that the touchstone of the charge is the teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his or her position. Id. Indeed, unbecoming conduct encompasses many categories of inappropriate behavior by tenured employees.

In general, conduct unbecoming a public employee has been defined as an "elastic standard that incorporates any conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the [district] . . . [or] which has the tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). "A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require a violation of any specific rule or regulation, but rather may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior." Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

Further, the Commissioner has held that teaching is a public trust and its violation requires a heavy penalty. Troy Hills Bd. Of Ed. v. Molinaro, 96 NJAR 2d (EDU) 268, 277. Unfitness to remain a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant. In re Tenure Hearing of Juan Cotto, 2000 WL 679185 (citing Redcay v. State Bd. Of Educ., 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd o.b. 121 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944)).

"Teachers represent 'one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of the children, who are compelled to attend the public schools.'" In re the Tenure Hearing of Juan Cotto, 2000 WL 679185 (citing In re Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321 (Comm'r June 12, 1972)). As such, "[c]hildren are entitled to a supportive and nurturing classroom environment in which to develop their intellectual capacities and bolster their self esteem." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Juan Cotto, 2000 WL 679185 (citing In re

Gilbert, 1982 S.L.D. 274, 326 (Comm'r April 5, 1982), aff'd, 1982 S.L.D. 382 (St. Bd. Nov. 3, 1982).

The Commissioner has emphasized the need for a teacher's modeling behavior:

> The teaching profession is chosen by individuals who must comport themselves as models for young minds to emulate... Being a teacher requires, inter alia, a consistently intense dedication to civility and respect for people as human beings.

In re Tenure Hearing of Beam, 1973 S.L.D. 157, 163.

The Commissioner has often stressed "that those persons who enter the teaching profession exercise a significant influence upon those they teach and... must exhibit a high degree of exemplary behavior" In re Tyler, 13 N.J.A.R. 297, 308 (1991). Indeed:

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience, and learn about the teacher.

In re Tenure Hearing of Tordo, Jackson School District, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99.

In the instant matter, there can be no doubt that Mr. Coe's actions constitute conduct unbecoming, thereby warranting his removal from his tenured position. Indeed, the District audit of Mr. Coe's extra-duty assignments revealed that during the 2015-16 and 2016-17 school years, there were thirty-nine (39) occasions whereby Mr. Coe submitted falsified extra compensation timesheets.

August 3, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work ten (10) extra duty hours on August 3, 2015. Indeed, Mr. Coe could not have provided Extended School Year Services at the P.J. Hill School until 3:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 2:30 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 2:30 p.m. if he was providing Extended School Year Services at the P.J. Hill School until 3:00 p.m.

On direct examination Mr. Coe acknowledged but chalked it up to a typographical error. At no point did Mr. Coe bring his alleged error to the attention of the District prior to his testimony. In light of the entire record, his testimony regarding his August 3, 2015 timesheets is simply not credible. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number One and Charge Number Two must be sustained.

September 10, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on September 10, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:30 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:30 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Three must be sustained.

September 21, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three (3) extra hours on September 21, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Four must be sustained.

October 13, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three (3) extra hours on October 13, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Five must be sustained.

November 2, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on November 2, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 5:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 5:00 p.m. if he was attending an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified that he did not recall if he attended an SLC meeting on November 2, 2015. (T 6/23/17, 24:3-13).

Mr. Coe also testified that the teachers' contract provides that teachers get paid for a full hour of attending an SLC meeting even when the full meeting does not last a full hours. However, there is no such language in the teachers' contract. (See Exhibit J-1, page 17).

Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Six must be sustained.

November 3, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on November 3, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Seven must be sustained.

December 2, 2015

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on December 2, 2015. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Eight must be sustained.

January 19, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work six (6) extra hours on January 19, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 3:45 to 6:15 p.m. if he attended the SLC principal interview from 4:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have attended the SLC principal interview from 4:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 3:45 to 6:15 p.m.

On direct examination Mr. Coe acknowledged but chalked it up to a typographical error. At no point did Mr. Coe bring his alleged error to the attention of the District prior to his testimony. In light of the entire record, his testimony regarding his January 19, 2016 timesheets is simply not credible. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Nine must be sustained.

February 1, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three (3) extra hours on February 1, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:15 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 5:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 5:00 p.m. if he was attending an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:15 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified that he did not recall how long the SLC meeting lasted. (T 6/28/17, 67:12-14). Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Ten must be sustained.

March 7, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three (3) extra hours on March 7, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:15 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 5:15 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 5:15 p.m. if he attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School until 5:15 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified that the SLC meeting did not last for a full hour, but that he nevertheless submitted payment for a full hour. (T 6/23/17 32:21-22). Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Eleven must be sustained.

March 14, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work four (4) extra hours on March 14, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 4:15 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house at 4:15 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe's testified that he is not sure what time he ceased his PM supervision duties on this date. (T 6/28/17, 75:13-16). Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twelve must be sustained.

April 12, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on April 12, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 77:17-19). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Thirteen must be sustained.

April 25, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work four (4) extra hours on April 25, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 3:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 3:00 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified that this was another mistake and that he switched with another staff member and actually performed AM supervision and not PM supervision. (T 6/23/17 35:17-22). On cross-examination, Mr. Coe identified Ms. Baird as the employee he swapped with. (T 6/28/17 83:1-13). However, Mr. Coe's testimony was contradicted by the testimony of Shawn Mitchell, who explained that Exhibit B-44 clearly demonstrated that Ms. Baird worked the AM supervision shift on April 12, 2016 and that Mr. Coe was not being honest. (T 6/28/17 172:7-24). As such, this instance represents yet another example of fraudulent time sheet submitted by Mr. Coe. .

Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Fourteen must be sustained.

May 12, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work four and one-half (4.5) extra hours on May 12, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 6:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 6:30. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 6:30 if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 6:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 87:8-13). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Fifteen must be sustained.

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work two and three-quarter (2.75) extra hours on May 31, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. through 5:15 p.m. if he was in attendance at the ESEA meeting beginning at 5:15 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have attended the ESEA meeting beginning at 5:15 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. through 5:15 p.m.

Despite Mr. Coe's previous testimony that he did not round up for home instruction, he now testified on cross-examination that he thinks he rounded up the end time of his home instruction and then made it to the ESEA meeting in just two (2) minutes. Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Sixteen must be sustained.

June 6, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work two (2) extra hours on June 6, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m. if he attended an SLC meeting at the Joyce Kilmer School from 4:15 p.m. to 5:15 p.m.

Mr. Coe claims that the entries on this date were another mistake and that the home instruction entry should have been 5:15-6:15. (T 6/23/17 38:23-25 and 39:1-4). On cross-examination, however, Mr. Coe was not sure what time he completed his home instruction. (T 6/23/17 95:15-18).

Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Seventeen must be sustained.

June 7, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three (3) extra hours on June 7, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervision services through 4:30 p.m. if he was providing home instruction services beginning at 4:15 p.m. Moreover, Mr. Coe could not have attended the ESEA meeting at 5:00 p.m. if he was providing home instruction services through 5:15 p.m. This is yet another allegation by Mr. Coe that he made a mistake. Specifically, Mr. Coe claims that the home instruction and PM supervision times are wrong. Now, months later, he wanted to "make changes." (T 6/23/17 40:3-10). However, on cross-examination, Mr. Coe was unable to clarify the exact times he provided the respective services. (T 6/28/17, 102:1-9). This is yet another instance of fraud by Mr. Coe.

His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Eighteen must be sustained.

September 15, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on September 15, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:30 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:30 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 113:6-14). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Nineteen must be sustained.

September 21, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and three-quarter (3.75) extra hours on September 21, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:45 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:45 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:45 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:45 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 3:45p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 122:17-18). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty must be sustained.

September 22, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and three-quarter (3.75) extra hours on September 22, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:45 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:45 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:45 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:45 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 3:45p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 123:2-7). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-One must be sustained.

September 26, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.50) extra hours on September 26, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 124:23-25 and 125:1-4). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-Two must be sustained.

September 27, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.50) extra hours on September 27, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 124:23-25 and 125:5-9). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-Three must be sustained.

October 5, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work four (4) extra hours on October 5, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:30 p.m.

This is yet another allegation by Mr. Coe that he made a mistake. Here, he claims that the Home instruction and PM supervision times are wrong. Months later, he wanted to "make changes." Mr. Coe now wants the PM to read "3:55 to 4:00." (T 6/23/17 42:7-15). He then goes son to testify that maybe it was until "roughly around 3, 3 something." (T 6/23/17 44:2-3).

Clearly, this is another instance of fraud by Mr. Coe. Mr. Coe's actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-Four must be sustained.

October 13, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on October 13, 2016. Mr.

Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:30 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:30 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 3:30 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 3:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-Five must be sustained.

October 18, 2016

Despite his written representations, Mr. Coe did not work three and one-half (3.5) extra hours on October 18, 2016. Mr. Coe could not have provided AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m. if he was providing Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. Likewise, Mr. Coe could not have provided Home Instruction services at a pupil's house beginning at 4:00 p.m. if he was providing AM/PM Supervisions Services at the Joyce Kilmer School until 4:00 p.m.

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 4:00 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 142:7-18). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Twenty-Six must be sustained.

October 19, 2016

Mr. Coe testified on cross-examination that he rounded up his PM supervision time to 3:30 p.m., although could not state with certainty when his duties actually ceased. (T 6/28/17, 149:1-12). His actions in submitting his timesheets were improper and fraudulent, which resulted in payment of public funds to him for work not performed. As such, Charge Number Forty must be sustained.

B. MR. COE'S TESTIMONY REGARDING THE TIME SHEETS AT ISSUE WAS NOT CREDIBLE AND CANNOT SERVE TO JUSTIFY HIS ILLEGAL CONDUCT.

Of the thirty-nine (39) fraudulent submissions, thirty-one (31) involved the situation where the end time for an assignment was exactly the same as the start time for another assignment on the same day. In other words, even though the assignments occurred in different locations, Mr. Coe intentionally failed to document the break and travel time in between the two assignments, resulting in overpayment to Mr. Coe. In order to justify his "rounding up" for PM supervision duties, Mr. Coe testified that he was authorized to do so by a former vice principal. Not surprisingly, Mr. Coe does not have any written documentation in support of his assertion. Nor does Mr. Coe allege that the Principal of the school gave the authority; rather, he points to a former vice principal.

Interestingly, however, Mr. Coe did not round up his PM supervision time each day. Rather, on most occasions, his time sheets reflected a break in between assignments at the Kilmer School and his home instruction duties. That makes sense, clearly because it takes time to exit the Kilmer building, get into a car, drive in traffic, park at S.B.'s house, and then enter and get situated for instruction. The Arbitrator will note by reviewing the audit that Mr. Coe knew that the proper and lawful procedure to follow. For example, on September 11, 2015, Mr. Coe ended PM supervision at 3:50 and then began home instruction at 4:30 p.m., which obviously accounts for travel time between the two locations. Moreover, On September 14, 2015, Mr. Coe ended PM supervision at 3:30 p.m. and then began home instruction at 4:00 p.m. Additionally, on September 17, 2015, Mr. Coe ended P.M. supervision at 3:30 p.m. and began home instruction at 3:45 p.m.

However, Mr. Coe decided to get greedy for whatever reason and wanted to receive extra money from the District for work he did not perform. That is why he began to slowly submit timesheets that did not account for a break, so that he would receive payments for continuous work during two separate and distinct assignments. Once he realized that he was able to "get away with it," he began to increase his frequency of submitting fraudulent documentation. Indeed, Ms. Johnson testified that she reached several conclusions after reviewing all of Mr. Coe's timesheets and the audit. (T 6/9/17, 76:9-13; see also Exhibit B-34). Ms. Johnson testified that one conclusion was during the 2015-16 school year, there were a total of sixteen (16) findings of overbilling. (T 6/9/17, 76:14-17). However, during the three (3) months of the 2016-17 school year, there were already twenty-one (21), as Mr. Coe increased the frequency of his overbilling. (T 6/9/17, 76:18-25).

Mr. Coe's own testimony demonstrates that he was engaging in illegal conduct. Indeed, when he was asked to identify the specific days that he rounded up his PM supervision time, interestingly, he only identified those days that were flagged by the District in its audit and marked by the "asterisks." Mr. Coe clearly understood that he was caught submitting fraudulent documentation. Indeed, if he truly believed that he had authorization to round up for PM supervision each day, why did he not do so? The answer is that he never had authorization to round up for PM supervision, he knew that rounding up was improper, and was trying to avoid getting caught.

The other eight (8) fraudulent submissions by Mr. Coe as part of the tenure charges involved double and triple billing, whereby Mr. Coe certified that he was performing different assignments all at the same time. While Mr. Coe would like to characterize these instances as "mistakes," clearly that is not the case with this many occasions at issue.

Indeed, Mr. Coe knew that the extra-duty timesheets relating to his P.M. bus supervision and the extra-duty timesheets relating to his home instruction duties were sent to two (2) different supervisors for review and approval. Mr. Coe intentionally took advantage of the fact that two (2) different supervisors would not be comparing Mr. Coe's time sheets for overlap.

Mr. Coe's testimony during the hearing was simply not credible. While he attempted to explain the discrepancies with his timesheets, his testimony was contradictory and illogical. Examples of Mr. Coe's testimony which demonstrated that he engaged in conduct unbecoming include:

- Mr. Coe was asked by his counsel during direct examination to discuss certain language appearing on "Weekly Work Record for Home Instruction." In discussing the phrase "Round hour to the nearest quarter hour" in the "total hours" box, explained that it was his understanding that:

  To—if I, if I/m going to 3—after three o'clock, if it's anything after 3, 4—like say 3:10 I hour up to 3:15. Anything after 3:16, 3:17 I round up to the next quarter hour which would be 3:30.

(T 6/23/17, 9:1-4).

- On cross-examination, Mr. Coe initially testified that he rounded up his time for home instruction. (T 6/28/17, 9:19-24).
- Then, Mr. Coe changed his mind and denied rounding up for home instruction. (T 6/28/17, 9:21-25).
- During his direct examination testimony, Mr. Coe did not discuss rounding up for AM/PM supervision.
- On cross-examination, Mr. Coe initially testified that he did not round up his time for PM supervision. (T 6/28/17, 10:1-5).
- Then, Mr. Coe changed his mind and said that he rounded up for PM supervision. (T 6/28/17, 11:1-14).
- Mr. Coe acknowledged that Ms. Bethea, the principal of the school, never advised him that he would round up for PM supervision. (T 6/28/17, 12:17-21).
- Mr. Coe acknowledged that there was never anything written authorization issued by anyone which would have allowed round up for PM supervision. (T 6/23/17, 50:3-6).

- Mr. Coe admitted that for the days in yellow identified on the audit, he did not work the full amount of time listed on his timesheets. (T 6/28/17, 50:14-17).
- Mr. Coe then testified that he did not round up for PM supervision every day but that the only days he rounded up were the dates identified in the audit. Specifically, Mr. Coe testified that:

> Normally where you—guys have the Tabs on—have I guess those little marks on there are times when its reflecting I guess you're saying an overlap, those would probably be the times where I rounded up . . .

(T 6/28/17, 53:10-25 and 54:1-2).

- Thus, even though Mr. Coe testified he was allowed to round up, the only days he actually rounded up were those thirty-one (31) days identified in the audit. (T 6/28/17, 55:13-25 and 56:1-7).
- When asked why he did not round up on other days for PM supervision, Mr. Coe simply stated: "I didn't round. I just put the time I left." (T 6/23/17, 126:12-23, 126:24-25 and 127:1-6).
- Mr. Coe testified on direct examination that based upon his understanding, travel time for home instruction from his school to the student's residence was "also included." (T 6/23/17, 9:1-4).
- However, on cross examination, Mr. Coe testified that he did not include travel time for home instruction. (T 6/28/17, 148:12-20).

A review of the District's audit clearly demonstrates that Mr. Coe knew that he could not continuously bill two (2) assignments back to back as there are countless entries showing a break of at least thirty (30) minutes between assignments to account for his travel from school to the student's house for home instruction. Moreover, any assertion by Mr. Coe that he committed a "mistake" or "human error" where he double and triple billed for his assignments must be rejected.

C. THE PROPER PENALTY IS THE REMOVAL OF MR. COE FROM HIS TENURED POSITION.

Unbecoming conduct is conduct which adversely affects the moral or efficiency of the agency of which the employee is a member, which has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of governmental services, or which violates an implicit standard of good behavior. City of Asbury Park v. Dep't. of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419 (1955). A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require that any specific rule or regulation have been violated but may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960); Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

In an educational setting, unbecoming conduct has been held to be demonstrated by a series of incidents indicating a pattern of behavior, or by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. See Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), affirmed o.b. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E.&A. 1944).

I/M/O The Tenure Hearing of Curtis Robinson, State-Operated School District of The City of Paterson, 2008 WL 3819075 July 24, 2008, the Commissioner noted that it has long been recognized that — by virtue of the unique position they occupy — educators must be held to an enhanced standard of behavior. As was succinctly stated in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321:

> [Teachers] are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment. (emphasis added)

In the Matter of the Certificates of Olga Stasiuk, 2006 WL 2361390 (N.J. Adm.), it was stated that "[j]ust as the submission of a fraudulent teaching certificate demeans the value of the entire certification system, the submission of material oral misrepresentations upon which a school district relies, albeit temporarily, subverts the integrity of the process emplaced to protect children. See In re DeBello, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDE) 1. Since schools must rely on the trustworthiness of information and documents provided by teaching or administrative applicants, the submission of inaccurate, misleading or fraudulent information is a serious offense. Id. Teachers are entrusted with the care, control and education of school children. They are "one of the most dominant and influential forces in the lives of children." In re Sammons, 72 S.L.D. 302, 321. Indeed, "[a] teacher should possess personal qualities valued by our society because a teacher helps to shape the attitudes of young minds toward that society." In re Bradley, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDE) 5, citing, Adler v. Board of Education of the City of New York, 342 U.S. 485, 493 (1952).

Teachers must be held to a high standard of conduct because of the influence they can and should exercise over students. State Bd. of Examiners v. Charlton, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDE) 18. Undoubtedly, honesty is one of the sacred virtues, which a teacher is expected both to possess and impart to her students. Id.

The Commissioner of Education has commented on the seriousness of charges which arise from a teacher's breach of public trust:

> Teachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such position, they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes and influence the opinions of their pupils. Pupils learn, therefore, not only what they are taught by the teacher, but what they see, hear, experience and learn about the teacher. When a teacher deliberately and willfully violates the . . . public trust placed in him, he must expect dismissal . . . .I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98-99. See, also, I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Jacques, L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, Camden County, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321; and

I/M/O Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Henderek, School District of the Township of East Brunswick, Middlesex County, 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 268 at 275.

In Carter v. Cumberland County Welfare, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (CSV) 71, a principal clerk typist with fifteen years of service and no prior disciplinary record was terminated from employment for theft of two dollars. In concluding that removal was appropriate, the Administrative Law Judge stated:

> I take no delight in recommending the removal of the appellant because all of us suffer momentary weakness or lapses in judgment. But a theft of public funds, no matter how insignificant, once discovered, cannot be condoned or excused.

The Merit System Board upheld the removal noting that "the theft of public funds, no matter how small the amount, is a serious offense which cannot be excused." Id.

In Christian v. Newark Housing Authority, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (CSV) 124, a building maintenance worker was removed for theft of a box of copper tubing and leaving his workplace without permission. In recommending termination of employment, the Administrative Law Judge observed that the theft of public property was the "much more serious offense" and held:

> In most circumstances, progressive discipline is appropriate. However, this is not necessarily the case where the conduct engaged in by an employee involved dishonesty or moral turpitude which impacts upon his or her inability to carry out his duty to the public. The public is entitled to public employees who are honest for the reason that public employment involves the public trust. In his actions in this matter, appellant completely disregarded the public trust by engaging in the attempted theft of public property.

Id. at 128.

In In the Matter of Eddie Jimenez, 2011 WL 7031055, the New Jersey Civil Service Commission noted that:

> It is well-settled public policy that all public employees are expected to exhibit appropriate behavior, both on and off the job, in order to project a positive image to the public that they serve and the taxpayers who fund their positions. Any conduct that serves to diminish the public trust in the integrity of its employees is intolerable and such conduct is unbecoming a public employee. See In the Matter of Matthew Greer (MSB, decided June 7, 2006). The appellant's actions directly contradict the positive image public employees are expected to exhibit. Few actions betray trust more than those affiliated with deceit, and the appellant, by his own admission, intended to deceive the appointing authority.

Id.

A single incident may be sufficiently egregious in nature to warrant termination. In this case, Mr. Coe committed thirty (39) separate offenses which include theft of time, theft of services, and theft of public funds, which amounts to unbecoming conduct. Mr. Coe, as a public employee paid with public funds, breached the public trust. Mr. Coe's actions were sufficiently flagrant and outrageous. Whether he stole $1.00 or $1,000 or $10,000 or $100,000, he has demonstrated that he is not fit to serve as a teaching staff member for the District.

CONCLUSION.

As outlined above, the statutes and case law are clear. Mr. Coe, as a public employee and teacher, was to serve as a model of appropriate behavior. Instead, Mr. Coe engaged in a pattern of inappropriate and fraudulent conduct. Mr. Coe is guilty of deliberately falsifying time sheets, theft of time, theft of public funds, which amounts to conduct unbecoming a teacher. One of the incidents set forth in the charges alone would be cause for his removal from employment. However, the combination of the thirty nine (39) events spanning the course of two (2) school years, demonstrated through the unrefuted evidence offered by the District, leaves no doubt that Mr. Coe is not fit to serve as a teacher. In the end, as a result of Mr. Coe's intentional and deceitful conduct, he was paid with public funds for services he did not provide to students. Therefore, each of the tenure charges must be sustained and Mr. Coe must be removed from his tenured teaching position. [Board Brief, pp. 60-92].

The Board's reply brief addresses the Respondent's argument that he was entitled to travel time for his extra-duty assignments:

> Mr. Coe cites to 29 C.F.R. § 785.38 for the proposition that he could bill for his travel time from Kilmer to S.B.'s residence. However, said regulation does not apply to extra-duty assignments, as PM supervision and home instruction was not Mr. Coe's "principal activity." Mr. Coe's workday ended when the dismissal bell rang at Kilmer. Indeed, he was not travelling in connection with his main position as a resource room teacher. Any driving from Kilmer to S.B.'s house as part of the extra-duty assignment would be deemed noncompensable commuting time. Normal commuting from home to work and back is ordinary travel and not a "principal activity" absent a contract stating otherwise. 29 C.F.R. §§ 785.34 and 785.35.
>
> Moreover, the undisputed record demonstrated that based upon the contract between the District and the teacher's union, home instructors receive $42.00 per hour for direct contact with students. (T 6/15/17, 8:1-14; See also Exhibit J-1). Home instructors do not receive compensation for preparation time or for travel time. (T 6/15/17, 8:15-20). Ms. Harvey made clear that home instructors only receive compensation for actual instruction with students. (T 6/15/17, 8:21-24).
>
> Mr. Coe's argument is also inconsistent with his testimony on cross-examination, whereby he stated that he did not bill for any travel time relating to his home instruction duties.
>
> As such, Mr. Coe was not entitled as a matter of law to bill for any travel time. [Board's Reply, pp. 19-20].

The Respondent's Position

The Respondent provides the following legal argument in his post-hearing brief:

LEGAL ARGUMENT
THE TENURE CHARGES SHOULD BE DISMISSED

POINT ONE
THE APPLICABLE STANDARDS AND LAW

A tenured teacher may only be removed for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. "The statutory status of a tenured employee may not be lightly removed." IMO Tenure Hearing of Claudia Ashe-Gilkes, Sch. Dist. of City of East Orange, Essex County, OAL Dkt. No. 07135-08. Tenure laws are meant to protect teaching staff members from dismissal for unfounded, flimsy, or political reasons. See Veimeister v. Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Spiewak v. Rutherford Board of Education, 90 N.J. 63 (1982). The Board bears the burden of demonstrating unbecoming conduct by a preponderance of the competent, credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Unbecoming conduct is a broad term which may include any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the public entity, or has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of government services. See Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998).

A finding of unbecoming conduct does not mandate removal. Rather, the penalty to be imposed for unbecoming conduct (i.e., dismissal or some lesser penalty) requires consideration of a number of relevant factors, including: [1] the nature and gravity of the offense; [2] the impact on the teacher's career; [3] any extenuating or aggravating circumstances; and [4] the harm or injurious effect the conduct may have had on the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967). In determining whether removal, or some lesser penalty, is appropriate, the fundamental question is whether the teacher may be returned to his position without harm or injurious effect on the proper administration of the school district. The touchtone of the determination lies in the teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of his position. See In re Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 29 (App. Div. 1974); In re Young, 202 N.J. 50, 66 (2010).

When deciding tenure charges, no consideration or deference is given to a Board's decision to pursue the penalty of termination. Rather, as a matter of law, the arbitrator is required to independently determine the appropriate penalty, if any, to be imposed based upon his findings in the case. In other words, tenure charges are decided de novo, and not under an "abuse of discretion" standard. Fulcomer, supra, 93 N.J. Super. at 409-410.

While a single, sufficiently flagrant incident may be grounds for removal (See Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd. o.b. 1341 N.J. L. 326 (E&A 1944)), a scheme of progressive discipline is generally applied to findings of unbecoming conduct. This reflects the idea that the nature, number and proximity of earlier disciplinary infractions, both minor and major, should occasion progressively severe sanctions, unless just cause to the contrary is shown. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962); IMO Tenure Hearing of Owen Newson, State Operated School District, City of Newark, DOE Dkt. No. 276-9/12; In the Matter of Arnold Borrero, City of Newark, 2009 WL 3816616 (N.J. Admin).

It is said to be "axiomatic that the degree of penalty should be in keeping with the seriousness of the offense." Elkouri and Ekouri, How Arbitration Works, 7th Ed., 15-40. In less serious cases, arbitrators are very likely to change or modify an employer's discipline if it is excessive, disproportionate to the offense, inconsistent with principles of progressive discipline, punitive rather than corrective, or inconsiderate of mitigating circumstances. Id. at 15-43. Even in the case of theft, mitigating circumstances, such as the absence of a policy expressly providing for termination, and a long, discipline-free record may render termination too harsh a penalty. Id. at 15-42 to 15-43.

Moreover, arbitrators are likely to set aside or reduce penalties where the employee had not previously been reprimanded and warned that his or her conduct would trigger the discipline. Even when the misconduct is of a serious nature, the employee must not be lulled into believing that his conduct will not subject him to sanction. Id. Once discipline for a given offense is imposed and accepted, it cannot therefore be increased, nor may another punishment be imposed, lest the employee be unfairly subjected to double jeopardy. The double jeopardy doctrine also prohibits employers from attempting to impose multiple punishments for what is essentially a single act. The arbitral concept of double jeopardy arises from fundamental fairness and just cause. See Elkouri, supra, 15-60-61.

Removal of a tenured teacher is a serious penalty, not always warranted even in the face of significant misconduct. For example, where not cruel, premeditated, or vicious, a teacher's rash, inappropriate action—even involving inappropriate physical contact with a student—may not mandate removal from tenure. Matter of Tenure Hearing of Boyd, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 445 (teacher who struck a student not removed from tenure). Similarly, numerous, relatively minor instances of treating students inappropriately may not warrant removal from tenure. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Barbara Emri, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 371-02 (teacher who engaged in unbecoming conduct on more than 20 occasions in her dealings with students— including the use of racial slurs – not removed from tenure).

A survey of Commissioner of Education decisions demonstrates that conduct far more serious, or even dangerous to children, than anything alleged by the Board in this case may not warrant removal from tenure. See, e.g., IMO the Tenure Hearing of Poston, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 362-06 (eighth grade teacher who referred to student's mother as a "dyke" in front of entire class suspended for 120 days without pay); IMO Tenure Hearing of Adam Mierzwa, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 283-08 (teacher who lost his temper and displayed poor judgment on three separate occasions, including an incident where he forcefully pushed a student into a seat, suspended for 240 days without pay); See also IMO Tenure Arbitration of Richard Vicenti, DOE Dkt. No. 255-14 (teacher who engaged in "abusive, angry, and demeaning behavior on a number of occasions not removed from tenure); IMO the Tenure Hearing of Henry Allegretti, School District of the City of Trenton, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 96-00 (teacher who engaged in sexually inappropriate discussions with students not terminated from position); IMO the Tenure Hearing of George Mamunes, Pascack Valley Regional School District, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 208-00 ("extreme penalty" of termination not warranted for teacher who made racist and sexist comments to his students on several occasions); In re Tenure Hearing of Joseph Prinzo, Passaic County Technical Institute, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 259-01 (teacher's failure to supervise students resulted in students viewing sexually explicit videotape in classroom suspended for 30 days without pay); IMO Tenure Hearing of Alan S. Tenney, 1983 SLD 836 (teacher who ordered student to sit outside of classroom unsupervised for disciplinary reasons and left class unattended on another occasion for 23 minutes penalized with loss of three months salary); IMO Tenure Hearing of Victoria Jakubiak, Commissioner of Ed. Dec. No. 33-99 (librarian who left five year old child unsupervised for five minutes suspended for one month without pay); IMO Tenure Hearing of Carmen Quinones, 1996 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 649 (teacher left a student in the park and left class unattended received penalty of 120 days loss of pay); IMO Tenure Hearing of Kimberly Geurds, Comm. of Ed. Dec. No. 267-10+ (teacher who discussed "douche-bags" and who used the words "penis," "vagina", and "balls" in class with fifth grade students not removed from tenure).

Even a teacher's criminal conviction for conduct unrelated to his employment does not, per se, warrant removal from tenure. See IMO Tenure Hearing of Martin Lieb, School District of the Town of West Orange, Essex County, 1985 S.L.D. 933 (teacher convicted of lewd conduct not removed).

In light of these well-established principles, and as set forth, infra, it is clear that Mr. Coe did not engage in conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, and that, in any event, has done nothing to warrant the draconian penalty of removal from his tenured teaching position.

POINT TWO
THE PRIOR RECORD OF MR. COE

Mr. Coe has been employed by the Board as a Teacher of Special Education for the past 16 years. T5:7:4-7. For the past 10 years, he has served as a home instructor, and for the past seven years, he has provided a.m./p.m. services to the Board. T5:7:16-8:1.

"Long service with the company, particularly if unblemished, is a definite factor in favor of the employee whose discharge is reviewed through arbitration. Arbitrators have recognized that the loss of seniority may work great hardship on the employee, and that it is not conducive to the improvement of relations between other workers and management." Elkouri, supra, 15-68.

Mr. Coe offered undisputed and unrebutted testimony that during his 17 years of service to the Board, he had never been subjected to any formal discipline, save the instant Tenure Charges, and that his performance evaluations over the years had ranged from "good" to "outstanding." T5:50:3-12. As such, he appears before this tribunal with a long and unblemished record of service to the students of the Trenton School District.

POINT THREE
MR. COE PERFORMED THE SERVICES FOR WHICH HE WAS PAID

Beyond the performance of his normal teaching duties for the Board, Mr. Coe performed several other duties and functions for which he was paid at an hourly rate. These duties included the supervision of students before and after the regular school day (referred to hereinafter as "am/pm duty"); participation in School Leadership Council ("SLC") and other meetings, and providing home-bound instruction to a student, [SB]. Mr. Coe was compensated at a rate of $42.00 per hour for extra duties which involved student contact time (i.e., am/pm duty and homebound instruction) and at the rate of $36.00 per hour for duties which did not involve student contact, such as attendance at SLC meetings. T3:11:6-12:9; 79:5-18.

Significantly, there is no evidence, nor does the Board even allege, that Mr. Coe did not completely and competently discharge the extra duties to which he was assigned. The Board does not claim, for example, that Mr. Coe ever left his am/pm duty before his students had gone home for the day. It does not allege that he ever arrived at an SLC meeting late or left a meeting before it had ended. As Principal Bethea testified, the SLC sign-in sheets did not contain start or end times, and thus provided no guidance on the actual length of those meetings. T3:41:22-47:3.

Moreover, as the testimony of [SB's] mother, [SGB], made abundantly clear, Mr. Coe always provided [SB] with all of the instructional time to which he was entitled, as reflected on Mr. Coe's timesheets. She testified that he spent "two and a half to three" hours at her house five days a week, and that he frequently stayed "longer than that." T4:6:20-7:14. She knew the times that Mr. Coe arrived and left, because she watched the same television shows everyday, and that Mr. Coe arrived before the end of "General Hospital," which ran from 3:00pm-4:00pm. T4:48:19-49:13. She was present during [SB's] instruction, and testified that Mr. Coe "never shortchanged" her son. T4:50:2-12.

[SGB] compellingly described the impact that Mr. Coe had on her son:

> My son had a great deal of love for Mr. Coe. So did we. [SB] counted on Mr. Coe to come every Monday through Friday to teach him. If he didn't come - - which he never—[SB] was ready. They got there. They even named each other nicknames. When Mr. Coe didn't come[8], [SB] got into depression because he couldn't get next to him. He couldn't call him. He couldn't see him. So he questioned us but we couldn't tell him. Trying to protect his feelings.
>
> Before my son died he wanted Mr. Coe—he got his allowance and he wanted Mr. Coe to come—for us to call him so he could come and take him to lunch. We told Mr. Coe couldn't come. He got mad, he went in his room and a week later he died.

[8] i.e., after he was removed from his assignment as [SB's] home-bound instructor.

> He got plenty of messages on my phone calling Mr. Coe on the telephone just to ask him how he's doing. "I hope you feel good, buddy." "I hope you all right, buddy." Only teacher he ever opened up to. He ever cared about. He—I won't say care. I say love because you really had to get next to [SB] for him to care about you, for him to wonder what you doing.

T4:17:20-18:16. These are not the words of a parent whose child was disserved by his teacher. Rather, Mr. Coe more than met expectations in his tutelage of Stephon.

Mr. Coe's exceptional service to Stephon is not mere gloss. Rather, it forcefully demonstrates that Mr. Coe is fit to discharge the duties and functions of his position—the "touchstone issue" in this case. See Grossman, supra.

POINT FOUR
THE BOARD FAILED TO PROVE THAT MR. COE WAS NOTIFIED OF AND SUBSEQUENTLY VIOLATED ANY BOARD POLICY OR PROCEDURE

The testimony of the Board's witnesses was, effectively, limited to a recitation of the content of Mr. Coe's timesheets. Significantly, the Board offered no real evidence that it ever provided Mr. Coe with any policies, procedures, directives, trainings, or guidelines as to how those timesheets should be completed, or how he should track his time in connection with his performance of extra duties.

"[I]n the arbitration of discipline cases...there must be reasonable rules or standards, consistently applied and enforced and widely disseminated...An employee can hardly be expected to abide by the 'rules of the game' if the employer has not communicated those rules, and it is unrealistic to think that, after the fact, an arbitrator will uphold a penalty for conduct that the employee did not know was prohibited." Elkouri, supra, 15-70.

This is precisely the situation presented by this case. The Board's proofs in this regard would generously be described as scant, and realistically characterized as nonexistent.

Monique Harvey, the supervisor of Special Education, was responsible to "monitor and approve all time as it relates to home instruction." T2:5:22-6:16. Despite this, she "was not sure" whether any Director of Special Education had, in the past five years, issued any policies of procedures to be followed in connection with home instruction. T1:27:14-28:15. She claimed that home instructors did not receive compensation for preparation time or travel time (T2:8:15-24), but offered no evidence that this, or other timekeeping guidelines, had ever been communicated to home instructors. Lissa Johnson testified that "[School Business Administrator] Jayne Howard does a training every year on all of the finance procedures." T1:90:2-3. Jayne Howard, however, offered no testimony whatsoever about any such training. She claimed that administration planned to "write a manual and collaborate with the Special Ed Department" (T3:62:8-17), but no such manual was ever introduced into evidence, nor was there any testimony that it was actually created.

On the other hand, Mr. Coe provided credible and unrebutted testimony as to District practices pertaining to time recording. He testified that Mr. Pettola, a Vice Principal and later Interim Principal, instructed attendees at SLC and other meetings to "sign out for an hour" even if those meetings did not last for a complete hour. T5:29:1-23. He recalled that SLC meetings normally did not last for a full hour. T5:32:21-22. He further testified that Mr. Pettola had instructed staff to "round up" in connection with recording their time for am/pm supervision. T6:11:7-12:5. Throughout his testimony, Mr. Coe candidly acknowledged that he typically "rounded up" his am/pm supervision time to the nearest quarter hour, and then spent the "round up" time commuting to Stephon Bacon's house.

Mr. Coe testified that he never billed the Board in connection with "travel time" to or from Stephon Bacon's home. See, e.g., T6:66:6-9; 74:6-8; 76:11-12. In the absence of any policy, procedure, or directive to the contrary, it would have been reasonable for Mr. Coe to do so. In fact, the Fair Labor Standards Act, 29 U.S.C. § 201, et. seq., requires an employer to pay employees who are traveling from one workplace to another during the work day. Specifically, 29 C.F.R. 785.38, Travel that is All in the Day's Work, provides:

> Time spent by an employee in travel as part of his principal activity, such as travel from job site to job site during the workday, must be counted as hours worked. Where an employee is required to report at a meeting place to receive instructions or to perform other work there, or to pick up and to carry tools, the travel from the designated place to the work place is part of the day's work, and must be counted as hours worked regardless of contract, custom, or practice. If an employee normally finishes his work on the premises at 5 p.m. and is sent to another job which he finishes at 8 p.m. and is required to return to his employer's premises arriving at 9 p.m., all of the time is working time. However, if the employee goes home instead of returning to his employer's premises, the travel after 8 p.m. is home-to-work travel and is not hours worked.

This being the case, Mr. Coe's "rounding up" his am/pm duty to the nearest quarter hour is ultimately of no moment: since he was traveling from am/pm duty to home instruction with Stephon Bacon, he was entitled, as a matter of law, to be paid for that period of time. Mr. Coe further testified that there was never any "round up" in connection with his homebound instruction services. T6:37:19-23.

Clearly, the Board promulgated no work rule which Mr. Coe knowingly violated. Even if, arguendo, Mr. Coe should have known (despite his supervisors' directives to the contrary) that he should not "round up" his am/pm or SLC meeting time, the Board's failure to enforce any such existing rule or policy mandates against the imposition of discipline here. "Lax enforcement of rules may lead employees reasonably to believe that the conduct in question is tolerated by management." Hence, "Arbitrators have not hesitated to disturb penalties where the employer over a period of time has condoned the violation of the rule in the past." Ekouri, supra, 15-74. The Board's failure to take basic steps to assure employee compliance with its alleged policies over a period of years cannot, at this late hour, be foisted upon Mr. Coe.

POINT FIVE
THE BOARD FAILED TO PROVE THAT MR. COE HAD BEEN CORRECTED, WARNED, OR REPRIMANDED IN CONNECTION WITH HIS TIMESHEETS

For all the reason set forth, supra, Mr. Coe provided credible, consistent, and reasonable explanations as to the manner in which he recorded his extra duty time. He freely acknowledged that, in a limited number of instances, his incorrectly misreported small amounts of time—which mistakes were not brought to his attention until the Tenure Charges were commenced against him.

Where an employee has accounted for himself in a such a reasonable manner, it is incumbent upon the employer to demonstrate that the employee had been warned of the impropriety of his conduct. "Failure to give prior warnings may be one of the reasons for the refusal by an arbitrator to sustain disciplinary action (particularly discharge)." Elkouri, supra, 15-73.

Despite this, it is not disputed that Mr. Coe was not advised, either formally or informally, of any concerns vis-à-vis his timesheets until on or about January 10, 2017 (T1:83:20-86:3)—well after the period of time contemplated by the allegations in the Tenure Charges.

Indeed, Principal Bethea testified that she reviewed Mr. Coe's am/pm vouchers "every pay period" (T3:34:1-8), yet never notified Mr. Coe that there was any issue with the way they had been prepared. Jayne Howard testified that the "State Department" conducted an extensive audit of the District's home instruction and after-duty payments for the 2007-2008 and 2008-2009 school years. T3:53:18-54: 6. Notwithstanding this, there was no evidence that Mr. Coe was ever informed that there was any concern with his submission of timesheets.

Under all of these circumstances, there was simply no reason for Mr. Coe to believe that he was doing anything improper in connection with his submission of time records. Having failed to advise him to the contrary, the Board cannot now seek the draconian penalty of termination against a long-serving, unblemished employee. [Respondent's Brief, pp. 3-15].

Based upon the above, and the entire record, the Respondent requests that the charges be dismissed, that he "be reinstated to his tenured teaching position with full back pay, benefits, and emoluments." [Id. at 44]. The Respondent is willing to refund the Board the amount of $63 for the errors he made in his timesheets for August 3, 2015, March 14, 2016, and October 5, 2016. [Id.].

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, "[n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation * * * if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state * * * except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." I have carefully reviewed the entire record of this proceeding. The Board must prove the basis for the tenure charges against the Respondent by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Respondent committed unbecoming conduct and other just cause including, but not limited to, willful and intentional misconduct, falsification of time sheets, theft of time, theft of services, and theft of public funds. [See Ex. B-39].

The Respondent has been employed by the Board for 17 years. The evidence does not suggest or show that he was the recipient of a negative evaluation or any written discipline. As the record indicates, the Respondent performed several extra-curricular duties outside of the regular student school day. The Board's decision to dismiss the Respondent from his tenured teaching position was based upon the conclusions it drew from the Respondent's timesheet records. There is no evidence that the Respondent failed to perform or appear for his assigned duties. The Board's case-in-chief rests on the Respondent's timesheets that, on their face, include inconsistencies and areas of concern for the Board such as overlaps in time on various assignments or the lack of a break in time between assignments. These are said to support the Board's charges that the Respondent engaged in the conduct set forth therein.

The State's Office of Legislative Services performed an audit of the school district in 2010. The audit resulted in findings that led to the discipline, in some instances dismissal, of Board employees. The Respondent was not within the scope of the audit. The evidence does not suggest or show that the Respondent was targeted or involved in any way during the audit or the personnel actions that later ensued against other employees. Nor does the evidence suggest or show that the Board shared the audit findings with employees, implemented a written policy on recordkeeping, or provided specific training to employees subsequent to the OLS audit.

In November 2016, the Board conducted an internal audit in anticipation of the Office of Legislative Services returning to perform for a 10-year audit. The internal audit caused concern to the Administration in that it revealed several inconsistencies in the Respondent's timesheets (Payroll Vouchers, Weekly Work Records, etc.). Based upon the manner in which the Respondent recorded his time, these records on their face appeared to the Board to show that the Respondent was performing more than one duty at once, and sometimes in more than one location at the same time and being paid for the overlap in time.

The Respondent admitted that some of his timesheets contained errors. The evidence also shows that the Respondent's methodology of calculating his hours by rounding up his time caused him to be paid for time that he did not actually perform certain duties. The Respondent admitted that his rounding up had this effect, but he denied that he was willfully attempting to receive compensation for services that he did not perform. From his perspective, his recordkeeping was regular and consistent with the manner in which he had done so for at least two (2) years without any question ever being raised that his understanding was not accurate or not consistent with any policy. I am persuaded that the Grievant was forthright in his testimony notwithstanding the fact that his explanations for some inconsistencies in his timesheets were not clear or consistent.

Given this record, the evidence does not establish that the Respondent deliberately falsified his timesheets which, if proven, would reasonably provide the Board with a basis for his termination. The Respondent calculated his time in a substantially similar manner for several years without written notification, review or determination from the Administration that his methodology was inconsistent with the manner expected by the Board. Given the presence of his practice, and the absence of a written policy or administrative directive to the contrary, I am not persuaded that the Respondent's actions were a deliberate, willful attempt to falsify his timesheets.[9] The Respondent testified to errors that he made. The explanations that he provided during the tenure proceedings were, at times, inconsistent. But the evidence does not compel me to conclude that the Respondent was consciously attempting to falsify his time records. I attribute the Respondent's lack of a consistent response in some areas of his testimony to be from his failure to recall the duties that he performed on specific dates that date back to the beginning of the 2015-2016 school year.

I have considered all of the charges proffered by the Board. The record does not demonstrate that the Respondent committed acts of conduct unbecoming and/or other just cause for dismissal.[10] Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I conclude that the Board has not sustained its tenure charges against Respondent Michael Coe. The Respondent shall be immediately reinstated to his tenured teaching position and made whole in all respects.

[9] Nothing herein shall be construed as preventing the Board from promulgating and implementing a written policy concerning the methodology of record keeping that is required.

[10] To reiterate, the alleged conduct includes, but is not limited to willful and intentional misconduct, falsification of time sheets, theft of time, theft of services, and theft of public funds. None of these charges are supported by the evidence.

DECISION

The Board has not sustained its tenure charges of conduct unbecoming and/or other just cause against Respondent Michael Coe. The charges are dismissed in their entirety. The Respondent shall be immediately reinstated to his tenured teaching position and made whole in all respects.

COLUMBIA HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL BOOSTERS, INC. PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning 501(c)3 organization – the Columbia High School Baseball Boosters (Booster Club) sought a ruling from the Commissioner that the provisions of New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq., and its accompanying statutes and regulations prohibiting harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB), do not apply to them. This case involves a challenge by the Booster Club to the respondent Board's determination that it committed an act of HIB when it disinvited one of the baseball team members to the end of the year banquet in retaliation for the student's complaints of HIB against the baseball coaches. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision, which was opposed by the Board.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue in this case, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; petitioning parent-run private non-profit organization provides fundraising to benefit the Columbia High School baseball team; the trustees of the Booster Club have not been recognized or appointed by the respondent Board as volunteers within the school district; the within case stems from an HIB allegation against the Booster Club by a student athlete who, with his family, was disinvited from the annual year-end banquet, allegedly in retaliation for the student's complaints of HIB against the baseball coaches; the issue in this matter is whether the Act and its accompanying statutes, regulations and policies apply to the Booster Club. The ALJ concluded that Act and its accompanying statutes and regulations do not apply to the Booster Club because its members are not staff, school employees, students or school volunteers. Accordingly, the petitioner's motion for summary decision was granted.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner determined that the Booster Club itself cannot violate the Act and therefore it is entitled to summary decision. In so deciding, the Commissioner pointed out that booster club members themselves are not exempt from the purview of the Act. Instead there must be a determination on a case-by-case basis as to whether the member falls into one of the categories of individuals that have certain responsibilities under the Act. Based on the circumstances in this case, the Commissioner finds that it is not appropriate at this juncture to remand this matter to the OAL to determine whether any of the individual Booster Club members violated the Act. Conducting a hearing now at the OAL concerning the conduct of the individual Booster Club members would be beyond the scope of the HIB investigation that was conducted and decided at the Board level.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 4046-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 42-3/17

COLUMBIA HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL BOOSTERS, INC. PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE-MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the South Orange-Maplewood Board of Education (Board), and the reply thereto filed by the Columbia High School Baseball Boosters, Inc. (Booster Club). This case involves a challenge by the Booster Club to the Board's determination that it committed an act of Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) pursuant to the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 et seq. The Board found that the Booster Club committed an act of HIB when it disinvited one of the baseball team members to the end of the year banquet in retaliation for the student's complaints of HIB against the baseball coaches. In so doing, the Board found that the Booster Club was a volunteer in the District by virtue of its involvement with the District, and with the baseball team in particular.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the Act and the implementing regulations do not apply to the Booster Club. Specifically, the ALJ concluded that N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7 and N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15 do not apply to the Booster Club because they are not "staff, school employees, students or volunteers." Therefore, the ALJ granted summary decision in favor of the Booster Club.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner finds that the Booster Club is entitled to summary decision because the club itself cannot be found to have violated the Act. The Act was enacted "to strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying of students that occur in school and off school premises." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1.f. In order to achieve those goals, school districts are required to adopt a policy prohibiting HIB, and the Act identifies the minimum components that shall be included in every policy. Notably, HIB policies must include "consequences and appropriate remedial action for a person who commits an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15b(4) (emphasis added). Therefore, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15b(4) "clearly establishes that responses to a person (not only a student) who commits an act of HIB must include both the consequences and appropriate remedial action." [1] See, New Jersey Department of Education, Model Policy and Guidance for Prohibiting Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying on School Property, at School-Sponsored Functions and On School Buses, revised April 13, 2011, at 16. However, there is nothing in the Act to suggest that it intended to lump a group of individuals together when there is an allegation of HIB; instead it is more appropriate to evaluate the actions of each individual.

Although a booster club itself cannot be found to have violated the Act, it is important to recognize that individual booster club members are not exempt from the purview of

[1] The Commissioner is mindful that a school district's response to HIB that occurs off school grounds is only appropriate when the conduct substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students. N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7(b); N.J.A.C. 6A:7.1 and 7.5.

the Act.[2] Instead there must be a determination, on a case-by-case basis, as to whether the member falls into one of the categories of individuals that have certain responsibilities under the Act. The specific statutory and regulatory provisions impose additional responsibilities for reporting and initiating a school district's HIB policy and procedures on certain individuals. For example, there are distinctions among the reporting requirements of specific individuals, as well as a school district's obligation to provide HIB training to certain individuals. Under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16b and N.J.A.C. 6A:7.7(c), "[a] member of a board of education, school employee, contracted service provider, student or volunteer who has witnessed, or has reliable information that a student has been subject to harassment, intimidation or bullying shall report the incident to the appropriate school official..." (emphasis added). With respect to training requirements, school districts must provide training on its HIB policy to "school employees and volunteers who have significant contact with students" and information regarding the policy shall be provided to "full-time and part-time staff, volunteers who have significant contact with students, and those persons contracted by the district to provide services to students." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-17(b) and (c); see also, N.J.A.C. 6A:7.7(e)1.

Additionally, under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16a, "[a] member of a board of education, school employee, student or volunteer shall not engage in reprisal, retaliation or false accusation against a victim, witness or one with reliable information about an act of harassment intimidation or bullying." In this case, the Board found that the Booster Club is a volunteer and that it violated N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16 and Board Policy 5512 when it disinvited one of the baseball team members to the end of the year banquet in retaliation for the student's complaints of HIB against the baseball coaches. Instead of making a finding of HIB against the Booster Club itself, the Board should have initiated an HIB investigation to determine whether any of the Booster Club members violated the Act, including whether any of the members constituted a volunteer under N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16a, and if so, whether any of the members engaged in retaliation against the student athlete in violation of the Act.

Based on the circumstances in this case, the Commissioner finds that it is not appropriate at this juncture to remand this matter to the OAL to determine whether any of the individual Booster Club members violated the Act. Certainly if any individual members were accused of violating the Act, they would have been given notice of the allegations and entitled to the due process guaranteed by the Act, including a right to a hearing before the Board. See, Edward Sadloch et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Cedar Grove, Bergen County, Commissioner Decision No. 216-15, decided June 23, 2015. Conducting a hearing now at the OAL concerning the conduct of the individual Booster Club members would be beyond the scope of the HIB investigation that was conducted and decided at the Board level.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the ALJ is modified as discussed above and the Booster Club's motion for summary decision is granted.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 04046-17
AGENCY DKT.NO. 42-3/17

COLUMBIA HIGH SCHOOL BASEBALL BOOSTERS, INC,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE/MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT ESSEX COUNTY

Respondent.

Janelle Edwards-Stewart, Esq., for petitioner (Porzio, Bromberg &Newman, attorneys)

Sandra N. Varano, Esq. for respondent (Nirenberg & Varano, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 9, 2017 Decided: August 14, 2017

BEFORE KIMBERLY A. MOSS, ALJ:

Petitioner, Columbia High School Baseball Boosters, Inc (CHSBB)., brings this action seeking summary decision alleging that the harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) statutes and regulations do not apply to them.

On March 23, 2017, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested matter. On June 7, 2017, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision. On July 14, 2017 respondent, South Orange/Maplewood School District Board of Education (District) filed opposition to the motion for summary decision. On August 9, 2017, CHSBB filed a reply to the opposition to its motion.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

In 2013 CHSBB created a formal structure as a private not-for-profit organization and elected a Board of Trustees. CHSBB is a separate corporate entity. The initial Board of Trustees consisted of five parents of baseball players within the baseball program at Columbia High School. Other parents have taken over these positions. The Board of Trustees has not been recognized or appointed by the Columbia High School (CHS) Board of Education (BOE) as volunteers within the district. CHSBB provides fundraising to CHS baseball team. The fundraising is in the form of dues from players' families, proceeds from the sale of baseball clothes, yearbook ad sales, banner sales, car washes and can drives. The funds generally go to the purchase of equipment for the baseball team.

CHSBB hosts events throughout the school year which focus on celebrating the team and player's achievements. One such event is the year end banquet which has occurred each June for many years. The year-end banquet is a private off campus non-school sponsored event attended by players and their families. CHSBB does not accept money from CHS or BOE for the banquet or any other event. CHSBB was advised by the Acting Superintendent, James Memoli, that as a separate organization it could determine who would be invited to the banquet. D.D., a student on the baseball team, and his family were uninvited to the banquet.

The HIB allegation against CHSBB are based on D.D. and his family being disinvited to the year-end banquet. The District has an HIB policy, policy 5512. The Districts HIB policy was never distributed to CHSBB nor has CHSBB or its Board members been offered training about the HIB policy.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7(a)1 provides:

> (a) Each district board of education shall develop, adopt, and implement a policy prohibiting harassment, intimidation, or bullying on school grounds, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.
>
> 1. Each district board of education shall develop the policy in consultation with, at a minimum, parents and other community members, school employees, school volunteers, students, and school administrators.

>
> 2. Each district board of education shall have control over the content of the policy, except that it shall contain, at a minimum, the following components:
>
> i. A statement prohibiting harassment, intimidation or bullying of a student;

ii. A definition of harassment, intimidation or bullying no less inclusive than that set forth in the definition at N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3;

iii. A description of the type of behavior expected from each student;

iv. Appropriate remedial action for a student who commits an act of harassment, intimidation or bullying that takes into account the nature of the behavior, the developmental age of the student and the student's history of problem behaviors and performance and that may include the following:

(1) A behavioral assessment or evaluation including, but not limited to, a referral to the child study team, as appropriate; and

(2) Supportive interventions and referral services, including those at N.J.A.C. 6A:16-8;

v. Consequences for a student who commits an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying that are:

(1) Varied and graded according to the nature of the behavior, the developmental age of the student and the student's history of problem behaviors and performance; and

(2) Consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7, as appropriate;

vi. Appropriate consequences and remedial action for a staff member who commits an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying;

vii. A procedure for reporting, verbally and in writing, an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, including a provision that permits a person to report anonymously consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.b(5);

(1) The district board of education shall not take formal disciplinary action based solely on the anonymous report;

viii. A procedure for prompt investigation of violation and complaint reports consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.b(6)(a) through (f) and 16.d;

ix. A requirement for the principal, in conjunction with the school anti-bullying specialist, to define the range of ways in which a school will respond once an incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying is identified, consistent with the range of responses adopted by the board of education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.b(7);

(1) The responses, at a minimum, shall include support for victims of harassment, intimidation, or bullying and corrective actions for documented systemic problems related to harassment, intimidation, or bullying;

x. A statement that prohibits a district board of education member, school employee, student, or volunteer from engaging in reprisal, retaliation, or false accusation against a victim, witness, or any person who reports or has reliable information about an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying.

(1) The statement shall include the consequence(s) and appropriate remedial action(s) for a person who engages in reprisal or retaliation;

xi. Consequences and appropriate remedial action for a person found to have falsely accused another as a means of retaliation or harassment, intimidation, or bullying;

xii. A statement of how the harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy is to be publicized, including notice that the policy applies to participation in school-sponsored functions and on school buses.

(1) Notice of the district board of education's policy shall appear in any publication of the school district that sets forth the code of student conduct, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1, for schools within the school district;

xiii. A requirement that a link to the harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy be posted prominently on the home page of the school district's and each school's website;

xiv. A requirement that the harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy be distributed annually to all school staff, students, and parents;

xv. A requirement that the name of the school district's anti-bullying coordinator and his or her school phone number, school address, and school e-mail address be listed on the home page of the school district's website;

xvi. A requirement that the name of the school's anti-bullying specialist and his or her school phone number, school address, and school e-mail address be listed on the home page of the school's website; and xvii. Provisions for appropriate responses to harassment, intimidation, or bullying, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 and N.J.A.C. 6A:16-1.3, that occurs off school grounds in cases in which a school employee is made aware of the actions or a school administrator should have known of an incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying.

(1) Responses to harassment, intimidation, or bullying that occurs off school grounds shall be consistent with N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1 and 7.5 and this section.

(b) A district board of education shall not be prohibited from adopting a harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy that includes components more stringent than components set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15 and (a) above.

(c) A district board of education member, school employee, contracted service provider, student, or volunteer who has witnessed, or has reliable information that a student has been subject to harassment, intimidation, or bullying shall report the incident to the appropriate school official designated by the district board of education's policy, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15 and (a)2vii above, or to any school administrator or safe schools resource officer, who shall immediately initiate the school district's procedures concerning harassment, intimidation, and bullying.

1. A district board of education member or school employee who promptly reports an incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying to the appropriate school official designated by the district board of education's policy, or to any school administrator or safe schools resource officer, and who makes the report in compliance with the district board of education's policy, is immune from a cause of action for damages arising from a failure to remedy the reported incident, as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-16.c.

(d) A school administrator who receives from a school district employee a report of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, and fails to initiate or conduct an investigation, or who should have known of an incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying and fails to take sufficient action to minimize or eliminate the harassment, intimidation, or bullying, may be subject to disciplinary action.

(e) The district board of education shall:

1. Annually review the training needs of school employees and volunteers who have significant contact with students for the effective implementation of the harassment, intimidation, and bullying policies, procedures, programs and initiatives of the district board of education and implement training programs for school employees and volunteers who have significant contact with students, consistent with P.L. 2010, c. 122, the annual review of training needs and the findings of the annual review and update of the code of student conduct, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.1(a)2.

i. Information regarding the district board of education's policy against harassment, intimidation, and bullying shall be incorporated into the school district's employee training program.

(1) The program shall be provided to full- and part-time staff, volunteers who have significant contact with students and persons contracted by the school district to provide services to students;

2. Develop a process for annually discussing with students the school district's harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy;

3. Annually conduct a re-evaluation, reassessment and review of its harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy, and make any necessary revisions, consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.c.

i. The programs or other responses shall be planned in consultation with, at a minimum, parents and other community members, school employees, school volunteers, students, and school administrators;

4. Annually establish, implement, document, and assess bullying-prevention programs or approaches and other initiatives designed to create schoolwide conditions to prevent or intervene in harassment, intimidation, and bullying in schools of the school district.

i. Programs, approaches, and initiatives shall be planned in consultation with, at a minimum, parents and other community members, school employees, school volunteers, students, and school administrators; and

5. Submit to the executive county superintendent a copy of its approved harassment, intimidation, and bullying policy within 30 days of its adoption.

(f) The principal of each school in the school district shall appoint a school anti-bullying specialist to perform the functions established in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-20.a and c.

(g) The chief school administrator of the school district shall appoint a district anti-bullying coordinator to perform the functions established in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-20.b and c.

(h) The district board of education shall form a school safety team in each school in the school district to achieve the purposes and perform the functions established in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-21.

The requirements are promulgated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 through 32 and shall not be interpreted to prevent a victim from seeking redress under any other available civil or criminal law.

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15.3 provides:

> The policy adopted by each school district pursuant to section 3 of P.L.2002, c.83 (C.18A:37-15) shall include provisions for appropriate responses to harassment, intimidation, or bullying, as defined in section 2 of P.L.2002, c.83 (C.18A:37-14), that occurs off school grounds, in cases in which a school employee is made aware of such actions. The responses to harassment, intimidation, or bullying that occurs off school grounds shall be consistent with the board of education's code of student conduct and other provisions of the board's policy on harassment, intimidation, or bullying.

The districts HIB policy, policy 5512, states in pertinent parts:

> Consequences and Appropriate Remedial Actions – Adults
>
> The district will also impose appropriate consequences and remedial actions to an adult who commits an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying of a student. The consequences may include, but not be limited to: verbal or written reprimand, increment withholding, legal action, disciplinary action, termination, and/or bans from providing services, participating in school district-sponsored programs, or being in school buildings or on school grounds. Remedial measures may include, but not be limited to: in or out-of-school counseling, professional development programs, and work environment modifications.
>
> Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Reporting Procedure
>
> The Board of Education requires the Principal at each school to be responsible for receiving complaints alleging violations of this Policy. All Board members, school employees, and volunteers and contracted service providers who have contact with students are required to verbally report alleged violations of this Policy to the Principal or the Principal's designee on the same day when the individual witnessed or received reliable information regarding any such incident. All Board members, school employees, and volunteers and contracted service providers who have contact with students, also shall submit a report in writing to the Principal within two school days of the verbal report. The Principal will inform the parents of all students involved in alleged incidents, and, as appropriate, may discuss the availability of counseling and other intervention services. The Principal, upon receiving a verbal or written report, may take interim measures to ensure the safety, health, and welfare of all parties pending the findings of the investigation.

Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Investigation

Parents of involved student offenders and targets/victims shall be provided with information about the investigation, in accordance with Federal and State law and regulation. The information to be provided to parents or guardians shall include the nature of the investigation, whether the district found evidence of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, and whether consequences were imposed or services provided to address the incident of harassment, intimidation, or bullying. This information shall be provided in writing within five school days after the results of the investigation are reported to the Board of Education.

Reprisal or Retaliation Prohibited

The Board prohibits a Board member, school employee, contracted service provider who has contact with students, school volunteer, or student from engaging in reprisal, retaliation, or false accusation against a victim, witness, one with reliable information, or any other person who has reliable information about an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying or who reports an act of harassment, intimidation, or bullying. The consequence and appropriate remedial action for a person who engages in reprisal or retaliation shall be determined by the administrator after consideration of the nature, severity and circumstances of the act, in accordance with case law, Federal and State statutes and regulations and district policies and procedures.

Harassment, Intimidation, and Bullying Policy Publication and Dissemination

This Policy will be disseminated annually by the Superintendent to all school employees, contracted service providers who have contact with students, school volunteers, students, and parents who have children enrolled in a school in the district, along with a statement explaining the Policy applies to all acts of harassment, intimidation, or bullying, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 that occur on school property, at school-sponsored functions, or on a school bus and, as appropriate, acts that occur off school grounds.

The issue in this matter is the bullying statues, regulations and policy apply to CHSBB. The regulation when read in its totality clearly lists students, staff members, district Board of Education member, school employee and volunteer as being subject to the policy. The District's policy when read as a whole lists adults to whom the HIB policy applies to as Board members, school employee, contracted service provider who has contact with students or school volunteer. CHSBB does not fit into any of the above categories. The regulation states that the HIB policy must be distributed annually to all school staff, students and parents. Respondents admit that the policy was not distributed to CHSBB. The regulation requires training of school employees and volunteers regarding implementation of the HIB policy. Respondent admits that CHSBB did not have HIB training.

N.J.A.C. 6A:16-7.7 is promulgated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 through 32.

I CONCLUDE that N.J.A.C 6A: 16-77 and N.J.S.A. 18A: 37 -15 does not apply to CHSBB because they are not staff, school employees, students or school volunteers.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the petitioner's motion for summary decision is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the termination of her employment by the respondent Board, alleging that the school district violated her tenure rights when she was summarily terminated by a vote of the Board on October 21, 2015. Petitioner contended that she had been employed by the Board in a clerical position and had acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b)(2). The Board asserted that petitioner was employed by the school district as a non-tenured custodian/maintenance employee within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, and received extra pay to perform additional inventory control duties; as a non-tenured janitorial/custodial employee, petitioner was lawfully dismissed without the filing of formal tenure charges.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the central issue herein is whether petitioner held a tenured position from which she could not be summarily terminated; petitioner was continuously employed by the Board as a custodian from March 2008 until her termination in October 2015; in 2010, petitioner applied for and was given a position identified as Inventory Control Clerk, for which she received an employment letter that set forth that she was approved for reassignment as Inventory Control Clerk, a position which came with a stipend on top of her base salary as a custodian; petitioner continued in this position until she was terminated from the District's employ on October 21, 2015; petitioner's argument that she was employed in a tenured clerical position is without merit, as she never received notice from the Board that she had obtained tenure; petitioner remained under the supervision of the buildings and grounds department; and petitioner was obligated to assist with special custodial duties that are never assigned to clerical staff. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was employed as a custodian and received a stipend to perform the duties of an inventory control clerk, but this did not convert her custodial position into a clerical position; petitioner did not acquire tenure in the district as she was never employed in a position that would earn tenure. Accordingly, the ALJ affirmed the Board's termination action.

Upon comprehensive review of the record and the undisputed facts in this matter, the Commissioner rejected the Initial Decision, finding, inter alia, that: it is undisputed that clerical tenure is acquired by operation of law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b); the duties performed in a position, not the position title itself, control whether tenure can be accrued in that position; based on an analysis of the petitioner's actual duties and time allocated to performing clerical tasks as compared to custodial tasks, petitioner's exclusive role was to serve as inventory control clerk, a position that is clerical in nature; petitioner served in her clerical position for more than five years, and therefore earned tenure; petitioner was terminated without tenure charges having been filed and therefore was deprived of her tenure right to a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. Accordingly, the Commissioner ordered the Board to reimburse petitioner for back pay, benefits and emoluments for the period from October 21, 2015 to July 18, 2016.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 364-12/15

PHILLIS STILWELL,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BRUNSWICK, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto – submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered by the Commissioner.

The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner was employed as a custodian and received a stipend to perform the duties of an inventory control clerk. The ALJ reasoned that petitioner's employment or job title did not change from custodian to inventory control clerk because she never received notice from the Board of having obtained tenure; she remained under the supervision of the buildings and grounds department; and she was obligated to assist with special custodial duties that are never assigned to clerical staff.

Petitioner's exceptions substantially reiterate the substance of her submissions at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support her contention that the ALJ erroneously concluded that petitioner was not a tenured employee in the District. Specifically, petitioner argues that the ALJ improperly applied the law of tenure acquisition because the ALJ's decision was based on "irrelevant factors" such as petitioner's job title, supervisor, salary schedule, and board recognition of tenure. Petitioner also argues that the ALJ failed to make specific findings of fact as to the nature of her daily duties and responsibilities, or the proportion of time spent on various tasks, and that the record demonstrates that majority of petitioner's duties were clerical in nature. Petitioner further argues that the Board failed to follow the law when it summarily terminated her from her tenured clerical position; therefore she is entitled to back pay, benefits, and emoluments from October 21, 2015 through to July 18, 2016.

In reply, respondent also restates the positions advanced in the Board's submissions at the OAL. Respondent contends that petitioner was a custodian through title, duties, supervision, and pay as she received a small stipend in addition to her annual custodian salary for the clerical tasks that she performed. Respondent argues that petitioner was in the custodial bargaining unit and salary guide, was paid in accordance to her custodial contract, and her duties were not clerical in nature because her responsibilities involved daily physical labor, which was beyond the duties of other secretaries and clerks employed by the District. Respondent submits that the ALJ properly relied on the testimony of the Assistant Superintendent and the Building and Grounds Supervisor in determining that the inventory control clerk position was not clerical in nature. Respondent argues that the ALJ's decision was appropriate based on the facts and evidence set forth in the record; further, the petitioner was terminated for fraudulent misrepresentation of her income, and she has waived her right to any future public employment pursuant to her guilty plea and sentencing.

As a preliminary matter, the crux of the dispute here is whether petitioner's position as an inventory control clerk was "clerical," conferring tenure rights following satisfaction of the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, or whether she was a non-tenured custodian with additional duties that were clerical in nature.[1] In order to properly make a determination of the nature of a particular position, thorough fact finding and analysis of the duties performed and the balance of the time between the various duties and responsibilities performed – if the position requires performance of both clerical and non-clerical duties – must be conducted. See Marlene Marbut v. Board of Education of the Township of South Brunswick, Middlesex County, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 99 (N.J. Admin. 1996); see also Quinlan v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962). The Commissioner finds that the Initial Decision did not include proper findings of fact with regard to whether the inventory control clerk position was clerical or custodial, and the ALJ failed to provide clear analysis for her determination that petitioner was a non-tenured custodian. The record in this matter, however, is sufficient for the Commissioner to make a final determination without remand to the OAL.[2] Therefore, upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner rejects the ALJ's decision.

It is undisputed that tenure is acquired by operation of law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b), which provides: "[a]ny person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment under a board of education of any school district or under any officer thereof" shall acquire tenure after either "[t]he expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in the district or such shorter period as may be fixed by the board or officer employing him," or "[e]mployment for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year . . . ." The term "clerical" is not defined in the statute; however, case law and decisional law have provided guidance on the meaning of clerical, as well as the nature of the duties typically associated with the same. In Barnes v. Bd. of Educ. of Jersey City, 85 N.J. Super. 42, 44-45 (App. Div. 1964), the Appellate Division rejected the notion that "secretarial" and "clerical" are synonymous, holding

[2] The Commissioner also notes that the relevant facts are not in dispute.

"the phrase 'clerical position' was intended to extend the statutory protection coverage beyond secretarial employment." The Appellate Division further held "since tenure statutes are intended to secure efficient public service by protecting public employees in their employment, the widest range should be given to the applicability of the law." Id. at 45 (citations and internal quotation marks omitted). Guided by Barnes, ALJs have relied on the dictionary definition of "clerk" in an effort to determine whether the nature of the work performed was clerical. See e.g., Amelia Colon-Serrano v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Plainfield, Union County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11588-06N at *6 (Dec. 13, 2007), Commissioner Decision No. 31-08 (Jan. 28, 2008) ("Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary defines a clerk as a) an official responsible for correspondence, records, and accounts and vested with specified powers or authority, b) one employed to keep records or accounts or to perform general office work") (internal citations and quotation marks omitted); Betsey Roach v. School District of South Orange-Maplewood, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 370 at *18 (N.J. Admin. 1995) ("clerk is one employed (as in a business office) to keep records or accounts or to perform more or less routine office tasks . . . a person employed, as in an office, to keep records, accounts, files, handle correspondence, or the like") (internal citation and quotation marks omitted).

Clerical duties may include but certainly are not limited to: answering telephones, filing records, photocopying documents, data input and data collecting, assisting supervisors, completing forms maintained in the ordinary course of business, and performing tasks as assigned by supervisors. See Colon-Serrano, supra at *3 (finding that "answer[ing] the telephones, answer[ing] the phone for her various supervisors, fil[ing], photocopy[ing] student records, photocopy[ing] papers for her superiors . . . not only for herself or her department but also for the neighboring departments[,]" and "prepare[ing] reports documenting student absences, complete[ing] student transfer forms . . . ." were clerical duties); Diane Giardina v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Pequannock, Morris County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7677-03 at *12 (Feb. 18, 2005), Commissioner Dec. No. 124-05 (Apr. 4, 2005) (finding that the petitioner's position as office aide was tenure eligible as her responsibilities were consistent with clerical duties because the petitioner "typed, made copies of documents, engaged in bookkeeping and other office-related tasks . . . .", prepared various reports and interacted with students and parents as directed by her supervisor, managed "petty cash, the substitute teacher payroll, staff attendance," and "updated student rosters (incoming and outgoing students), ordered supplies and books and organized use of the school facilities by outside groups . . . ."). This tribunal has also found that "gathering videotapes, films and other instructional materials requested by teachers, delivering these requested items to various school buildings, picking them up after use and performing simple maintenance tasks such as untangling twisted tapes, cleaning cassettes or splicing broken film" constituted clerical work. Roach, supra. Additionally, in Roach, the petitioner was expected to "travel to all elementary schools to deliver supplies and equipment" and her position was characterized as 'a diverse one,' which entailed overseeing of the media library, delivering media to the six elementary schools, and assisting with the inventory and maintenance of our large stock of audio visual equipment," and her responsibilities also included receiving delivery of "new Apple IIE computers . . . unpacking them, recording serial numbers and helping to connect the parts." Id.

It is well-settled that duties performed in a position, not the position title itself, control whether tenure can be accrued in the position. See Quinlan, supra at *50 (noting that nature of the work performed is a crucial factor in determining whether the position is tenure eligible); Roach, supra (finding that the petitioner, who held various job titles in the district – including "audiovisual library technician" and "media aide (clerical)" – had tenure in the district as her duties were predominantly clerical); see also Giardina, supra, at *24-28; Delores Kopko v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Middletown, Monmouth County, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 7302-10 (July 25, 2011), Commissioner Dec. No. 370-11 (Sep. 7, 2011). In accepting same, the Commissioner notes that the "mere fact that an employee performs clerical duties" or that a position requires "additional, non-clerical duties" – such as a paraprofessional – is not controlling. See Giardina, supra at 24-28 (finding that "petitioner held a clerical position eligible for tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 when she served as an Office Aide since the bulk of her duties was clerical) (internal citations and quotation marks omitted). Therefore, the Commissioner's determination of this matter rests on whether petitioner's duties were predominantly clerical or custodial in nature, as well as the amount of time allocated towards performing her clerical tasks as compared to her custodial tasks.[3]

Petitioner's responsibilities – as set forth in the job description for inventory control clerk – were as follows:

A. Receive all materials delivered to school:
    1. Check orders, with assistance of supervisors as needed
    2. Follow procedure for forwarding receiving copies to the Administration Building
    3. Follow procedures for inventory control system to computer
B. Verify delivered goods conform with order
C. Fill in-school supply requests
D. Maintain inventory control system
E. Assist in determining general supply purchases as indicated by computer projections
F. Perform shipping duties for returned materials
G. Perform any other related duties as assigned by the school principal
H. Assist in custodial activities as directed by the plant manager, Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds and School Business Administrator.

[3] The Commissioner notes that the parties failed to include job descriptions for clerical staff and custodial staff in support of their arguments in this matter; however, the Commissioner deems that the job description for the inventory control clerk – coupled with the testimony of the witnesses – is sufficient to determine the nature of petitioner's position.

It is evident from a review of petitioner's job duties that a majority of her responsibilities were clerical in nature. Petitioner's detailed testimony regarding her job responsibilities reveals that between July 2010 (reassignment from custodian to inventory control clerk) and October 2016 (termination from her position as inventory control clerk), her daily tasks primarily consisted of the responsibilities listed in A, B, and D. The testimony further reveals that petitioner performed the responsibilities listed in F on a weekly basis, and the responsibilities listed in C and E annually and as needed throughout the school year. Responsibilities listed in G and H were performed on a need basis or when assigned. Specifically, the custodial activities were performed infrequently or when there was a need for extra support in the Buildings and Grounds Department. Testimony provided by Board employees did not contradict petitioner's account of her job responsibilities and her discharge of her duties. Significantly, the Board's Buildings and Grounds Supervisor testified that in the middle school, the person in charge of the tasks set forth in the inventory control clerk job description only works four hours per day on said tasks, and works as a custodian for the remaining four hours of her workday; whereas, petitioner's eight-hour days were allotted to performing the job responsibilities of her inventory control clerk position. Notably, petitioner's evaluations were also for the duties performed as an inventory control clerk, not custodian. Therefore, petitioner's exclusive role was to serve as inventory control clerk, which position is clerical in nature.

With regard to respondent's contentions that petitioner was a custodian with "additional" clerical duties because she was in the custodial bargaining unit and salary guide, was paid in accordance to her custodial contract, and performed duties that were not clerical in nature because her responsibilities involved daily physical labor beyond what was required of other secretaries and clerks employed by the District, the Commissioner is unpersuaded. In Quinlan, supra, the Appellate Division found that the petitioner – who worked "half and half" as "clerk" and "attendance officer" – retained tenure accrued as a "clerk" because she continued to perform clerical duties, and the fact that the petitioner was "listed in a work schedule for attendance officers . . . or that she was referred to in a resolution of the board [ ] as an attendance officer[,]" or that she referred to herself as an attendance officer, did not undermine her clerical duties. Similarly, the Board's labelling of petitioner as a custodian (and petitioner's occasional custodial tasks) did not change the fact that her day-to-day duties were clerical in nature. The physical demands of some of petitioner's tasks – while purportedly atypical of other secretarial and clerical staff in the District – certainly does not render the inventory control clerk position non-clerical because of the broad definition afforded to the term "clerical," and due to the parallel between the physical demands of petitioner's position and the clerical position in Roach, supra. Respondent seems to disregard the fact that the majority of petitioner's tasks as inventory control clerk are not typically assigned to custodial staff. Additionally, it is not inconceivable for a member of the Buildings and Grounds Department to serve in a clerical position within the Department, especially when the tasks and responsibilities of that position are clerical in nature.

It bears noting that in the "abilities" section of the inventory control clerk job description, three of the four abilities listed are: ability to keep accurate written records; ability to use a computer with ease for the purpose of inventory record keeping, electronic communication and for tasks related to position; and knowledge of basic receiving procedures. These requisite "abilities" are ordinarily not essential for the performance of custodial duties, but are more commonly necessary for tasks performed by clerical and/or secretarial staff, as demonstrated by the case law and decisional law pertaining to clerical tenure. Therefore, to consider petitioner's position akin to that of a custodian – when the requisite skills, abilities, and responsibilities are not comparable or substantially similar – is wholly inappropriate.

The tenure statute – N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq. – provides in pertinent part that "[n]o person [under tenure] shall be dismissed . . . expect for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after a hearing . . . ." In this matter, petitioner – a tenured clerical staff member of the District – was terminated without tenure charges having been filed with the Commissioner; therefore, petitioner was deprived of her tenure right to a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As such, petitioner is entitled to back pay, benefits, and emoluments from October 21, 2015 through to July 18, 2016.

The tenure statute should be "liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends." Spiewak v. Bd. of Educ. of Hamilton Twp., et al., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (N.J. 1982). Here, petitioner served as an inventory control clerk – a position that was clerical in nature – for five years; therefore, petitioner obtained tenure in the District as a clerical staff member. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is rejected, and respondent is directed to reimburse petitioner for back pay, benefits, and emoluments from October 21, 2015 through to July 18, 2016.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

PHILLIS STILWELL,
Petitioner,
v.
NORTH BRUNSWICK BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

Edward A. Cridge, Esq., on behalf of petitioner Phillis Stillwell (Mellk O'Neill, attorneys)

Marc G. Mucciolo, Esq., for respondent North Burnswick Board of Education (Methfessel & Werbel, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 14, 2017 Decided: August 14, 2017

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Phillis Stilwell (petitioner) appeals her termination effective October 21, 2015, from the North Brunswick Board of Education (Board) under cover of December 4, 2015. The Board filed its Answer to the Petition on Appeal under cover of December 18, 2015. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), on December 21, 2015, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to - 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The central issue is whether petitioner held a tenured position from which she could not be summarily terminated.

On January 11, 2016, I held a case management conference telephonically with the parties in which discovery and hearing dates were discussed. A hearing was originally scheduled for August 4, 2016, but was adjourned several times at the request of one or both parties, with one additional adjournment due to adverse weather. The plenary hearings were ultimately held on February 27 and May 1, 2017. Post-hearing briefs were permitted and the record closed on July 14, 2017, with receipt of the written closing statements as the final submissions.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

It is not disputed that on October 13, 2015, a Complaint and Summons was issued against petitioner as the defendant in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Middlesex County, for the offense of theft by deception for falsifying household income in order to obtain free school lunches for her four children for over a six year period. As a result of this criminal complaint, the Board voted to terminate petitioner's employment at its October 21, 2015, Board meeting. On October 5, 2016, a Judgment of Conviction was entered on petitioner's guilty plea to a criminal third degree offense of theft by deception, sentencing her to one year of probation, forfeiture of her Board pension, prohibition of any future employment within any school district, and restitution of $3,776.10, plus court fees.

The issue at hand is whether petitioner was protected from summary termination under the tenure laws such that she would have the right to her salary from October 2015 to October 2016.

Petitioner commenced employment with the Board on March 1, 2008 as a substitute custodian and then became a permanent night custodian, assigned to Judd School, effective September 1, 2008, at an annual salary of $29,334 (Step A). On June 17, 2010, petitioner's employment contract for July 1, 2010, through June 30, 2011, was for base salary of $30,273 (Step A) plus a stipend of $549 for the fact that she had a boiler license. In 2010, it was announced that there was an opening for the inventory control clerk. Petitioner applied for it and was given that position. Accordingly, a new employment letter was issued on July 22, 2010, setting forth that she was approved for reassignment as Inventory Control Clerk, with a salary of $31,715 (Step A), inclusive of the same base salary but both the boiler license stipend and an additional stipend for inventory control of $893. Petitioner's work location was moved to the high school.

Petitioner described her duties as the inventory control clerk as including receiving shipments, checking them against the purchase orders, logging them into the computer, and correcting any errors in those orders. The summer was the heaviest time of year for shipments. Generally, she could receive from one to twenty a day. She physically gathered and delivered the supplies received up to five or six times a day. Petitioner also maintained the online inventory and placed internal (staff) requests for supplies. She would handle the supplies of caps and gowns during graduation season, and she could be called on to escort vendors into the building.

Petitioner could be called on to provide custodial assistance. She attended the daily morning meetings, and would occasionally substitute for needed coverage at lunch time or with garbage cleanup. She estimated that such would occur maybe once per month. Petitioner had no boiler duties after she assumed inventory control, notwithstanding that she still received that stipend. Petitioner's evaluations were written up by either Ed Wiznicka, Custodial Supervisor, or Knox. It appeared that a custodian standard form was used but that on some of her evaluations, that word was crossed out and "shipping and receiving" was written in.

On cross-examination, petitioner acknowledged that she reported to Lorraine Knox, Plant Manager, as did all custodians. No clerks or secretaries reported to Knox. William O'Connor, who was in charge of Maintenance and Custodial services, had a secretary but she would be the only clerical staff that reported to him. Petitioner admitted that snow duty was demanded only of custodians, including her. She was also eligible for overtime pay for custodial needs for special night or weekend events at the high school.

John Petela testified for the Board with respect to the general employment structure at the Board; employment, salary and contractual guidelines; and the circumstances surrounding petitioner's termination. With respect to the latter, petitioner's theft and fraudulent free lunch certifications were uncovered in the fall of 2015 as a result of an annual audit conducted by the Assistant Business Administrator. It was reported to the police and raised at the next Board meeting. The Business Administrator supervises Building and Grounds department, among others, that was under the direction of its then-Supervisor William O'Connor. Lorraine Know reported to O'Connor, who was the Plant Manager.

Petela sent the termination letter to petitioner, but also spoke to her before it became official. She received thirty days of pay in lieu of notice. Petela stated that she never raised the tenure issue at the time. In his mind, it was clear that petitioner was a custodian with additional inventory duties. In support of that opinion, Petela reviewed the various salary guides that apply under the union contract to teachers, clerks or custodial and maintenance personnel. He also confirmed that tenure letters always go out to those receiving it after the Board vote. In addition, he confirmed that only custodial and maintenance employees would be called in to shovel snow. He could not recall on cross-examination whether he had ever reviewed petitioner's evaluations.

William O'Connor also testified for the Board. He retired last fall but worked forty-three years for North Brunswick, starting as a bus driver and courier, and working his way up to Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds. He had approximately seventy employees under his supervision, with authority to recommend hiring decisions to the Board. O'Connor explained that the inventory control clerk duties were always awarded to someone on the custodial staff. Petitioner's replacement, for example, was a custodian at the middle school. Petitioner's eligibility to earn overtime came only from the fact that she was governed by the custodial/maintenance salary guidelines in the union contract. While the work entailed some computer skills, it was dominated by physical labor. O'Connor reviewed all custodial evaluations with Wiznicka before they would be issued to employees. While he noted that the form was often modified for petitioner, he believed that was because the job duties listed were more natural for the regular custodial responsibilities.

I FIND by the preponderance of the credible evidence that petitioner was a non-tenured custodian who received a minimal stipend to perform the duties of an inventory control clerk. I FIND that the latter stipend never transmuted her employment or job title into a clerical position with the Board. This is further supported by the fact that petitioner never received a notice of having obtained tenure. Furthermore, petitioner remained under the supervision of Lorraine Knox, and remained obligated to assist with special custodian duties such as snow shoveling, to which clerical staff were never assigned.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(c) provides that any person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment in a school district, after the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive years in the district or a shorter period as may be fixed by the Board, shall hold the position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency. Petitioner argues that this provision protected her employment with the Board once she became the inventory control clerk. The Board notes, and it is not disputed, that N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 does not require tenure for utility workers/janitors. Instead, the Legislature allows boards of education discretion to deny tenure by appointing janitors for a fixed term, it permits boards and utility workers to negotiate terms of employment, and allows boards to determine which utility worker, if any, shall receive tenure. Wright and E. Orange Personnel Ass'n v. E. Orange Bd. of Educ., 99 N.J. 112, 118-19.

A claimant of tenure in situations such as this one bears the burden of presenting sufficient competent and credible evidence of facts essential to his or her claim. Here, petitioner must prove by a preponderance of competent and credible evidence that the respondent employed her in a clerical position in order for her claim for tenure to succeed. Wright, supra, 99 N.J. at 119.

Based on the foregoing facts and applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioner was employed as a custodian under the supervision of the Department of Building and Grounds. She earned an extra stipend for both her inventory control duties and her boiler license, but the former did not transmute her position into a clerical one. Therefore, she does not have tenure, was never awarded tenure, and was never in a position that would earn tenure.

ORDER

Accordingly, and for the reasons articulated above, it is ORDERED that the termination action of respondent North Brunswick Board of Education is hereby AFFIRMED. It is further ORDERED that the appeal of petitioner for relief under Title 18A is hereby DISMISSED with prejudice consistent with the reasons set forth above.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

D.I., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, I.I., :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RIVER DELL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

In September 2017, pro se petitioner D.I. filed an appeal seeking an order directing the respondent Board to allow her daughter, I.I. – an eighth grade student in the River Dell School District – to switch her assigned elective for the current year from "Music Studio 8" to "Art of the 20th Century 8." A motion for emergent relief in this matter was denied on October 6, 2017 following a hearing on October 4, 2017.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: petitioners herein demonstrated that I.I. suffered temporary disappointment over the denial of the desired art elective assignment, but failed to demonstrate any irreparable harm; petitioners did not satisfy this first prong of the requirements for emergent relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.; all four prongs of Crowe must be satisfied in order to qualify for emergent relief; accordingly, petitioners cannot and do not qualify for emergent relief; petitioners claim that the reasons offered by the District for denying I.I.'s choice of elective course were arbitrary and capricious is without merit; and the remedy sought by the petitioners would undermine the authority granted to the District to run its schools in an efficient manner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.1 and 6A:8-3.2. The ALJ concluded that the Board's denial of the request for a schedule change in this matter was appropriate, was not arbitrary or capricious, and must be affirmed. Further, as there are no additional underlying issues remaining to be resolved here, the ALJ concluded that the matter should be dismissed.

Upon comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, for the reasons stated therein. The petition was dismissed.

D.I., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, I.I.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RIVER DELL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the Initial Decision of the OAL have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by petitioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and the Board's reply thereto.

Petitioner argues in her exceptions that she is aware of an instance where a student's schedule was changed when it was not related to mathematics or special education, and therefore I.I.'s schedule should be changed to Art of the 20th Century 8 rather than Music Studio 8. Petitioner also points out that when new students move into the district, they would be assigned an elective in the middle of the year, so it would not disrupt the class for I.I. to be transferred to her desired class. Further, petitioner maintains that she did not receive a letter from the Board regarding the decision that students could not select or change their elective courses, and contends that it is illogical to randomly select electives because only 2 of 20 students who are members of the National Junior Art Society were placed into art class. Finally, petitioner argues that it would not create a hardship for the school or affect the school's budget to switch I.I.'s elective class from music to art.

In reply, the Board argues that petitioner's exceptions present new facts and do not demonstrate that she is entitled to emergent relief. Specifically, the Board points out that whether another student's schedule was changed, or the fact that new students would need to be assigned an elective, do not demonstrate that petitioner has a likelihood of success on the merits. Further, whether petitioner received a letter regarding the Board's policy for assigning electives does not mean that I.I. should be entitled to change classes. Finally, whether petitioner disagrees with the manner in which the Board assigned electives does not demonstrate that the method was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Accordingly, the Board urges the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to the standards enunciated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6. Further, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner when it denied petitioner's request for a schedule change. The Commissioner notes that petitioner's exceptions do not establish entitlement to emergent relief, nor do they show that the Board acted arbitrarily; further, petitioner's arguments were fully considered by the ALJ in reaching his decision.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION-
EMERGENT RELIEF
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 14169-17
AGENCY REF. NO. 221-9/17

D.I. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD I.I.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RIVER DELL REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

D.I., Parent of minor, I.I., Petitioner, pro se

Rodney T. Hara, Esq., for Respondent (Fogarty & Hara, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 4, 2017 Decided: October 6, 2017

BEFORE JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

D.I., on behalf of her Eighth Grade, Middle School daughter, I.I., is appealing the River Dell Board of Education's (the District's) denial of a request to change her daughter's schedule, i.e., changing I.I.'s elective course from "Music Studio 8" to "Art of the 20th Century 8".

The N.J. State Board of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 27, 2017 as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following:

(1) D.I. is the parent of I.I., an Eighth-Grade student at the River Dell Middle School.

(2) The Petitioners seek emergent relief in the form of an Initial Decision reversing the determination of the River Dell Board of Education ("District") which denied Petitioners' request for a schedule change whereby I.I. would change her enrollment in "Music Studio 8" to "Art of the 20th Century 8".

(3) The School District sent several notices to the parents of soon-to-be Eighth graders notifying them of the impending limitations on choice of electives and that schedule changes would be limited to matters dealing with mathematics and special education only.

(4) While the Respondent's position is that due to budgetary restrictions, the school was not able to fully accommodate the students' anticipated requests for elective course choices, the matter at bar can be decided without resolving the merits of that assertion.

(5) The Petitioners were not able to demonstrate 'irreparable harm" to I.I. due to the District's denial of the schedule change.

ISSUES PRESENTED

(1) Have the requirements under Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) been met for the granting of emergent relief?

(2) Have the Petitioners presented a legal basis for their claim that a student's choice of elective course is a "right" that cannot be abrogated by the school district?

(3) Should the school district be compelled to grant the schedule change requested by I.I., namely changing her elective course registration from "Music Studio 8" to "Art of the 20th Century 8"?

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

Petitioners assert that the School District's denial of I.I.'s request for changing her schedule, i.e. changing her elective from Music to Art violated the "New Jersey Student Learning Standards for Visual and Performing Arts" and was therefore arbitrary and capricious. The legal basis for Petitioners' case is a certain text taken from the State Department of Education website which reads as follows:

> "In grades 6-8, students should gain greater depth of understanding in at least one of the arts disciplines. Students must continue to have opportunities to create and perform, as determined by student choice, with the expectation that they achieve competency in their chosen discipline. All four arts disciplines must be made available to middle-level students."

Petitioners argue that the nature of the language employed in the above-quoted text is mandatory, not permissive and that therefore a school district may not deprive a student of his or her choice of arts discipline elective. Specifically, Petitioners argue that the phrase "...students must continue to have opportunities to create and perform" and the phrase ""All four arts disciplines must be made available....", when amplified by the phrase "as determined by student choice" mandates that a school district provide the elective courses which the individual student chooses for himself or herself. Furthermore, Petitioners argue that the inclusion of the phrase "as determined by student choice" establishes a "right" and thus trumps the notion that the School District has discretion over which elective courses the individual student will be assigned.

In the case at bar, Petitioners maintain that the reasons offered by the School District (which are contained in various correspondences in P-1, P-2, P-2A, P-3 and Exhibit 'C' of R-1) for denying I.I.'s choice of elective course are arbitrary and capricious because they are not grounded in any law or regulation and are contrary to the above-quoted mandatory language of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS).

D.I. brought several correspondences to the Tribunal's attention which set forth the District's notice to parents that schedule changes would not be permitted and setting forth the District's reasons why schedule changes would not be permitted (with the exception of changes for Mathematics and Special Education courses). D.I. argued that she is aware of at least one instance where a student was granted a course change which was not related to Mathematics or Special Education. Upon questioning, she stated that the schedule (course) change did not involve the "Art of the 20th Century 8" course which I.I. seeks.

D.I. argued that she and her daughter met the requirements set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and were thus entitled to emergent relief. Specifically, she argued that the first prong of Crowe, requiring Petitioners to carry the burden of proving an irreparable harm, was satisfied by the fact that I.I. suffered disappointment at not being allowed to take the Art course that she looked forward to taking, that the after-school activities offered were not for-credit courses as was the sought-after Art course, and by the fact that she would have a lesser chance of gaining entry into an honors level high school art course without the Eighth Grade, course in "Art of the 20th Century 8" course.

As to the second prong of Crowe, Petitioners argued that the cited section of the New Jersey Student Learning Standards was published pursuant to the provisions of the New Jersey Administrative Code, and therefore had the force of law. Moreover, the mandatory nature of the language cited above established that it was I.I.'s settled right to take the elective of her choice.

As to the third prong of Crowe, the Petitioners re-iterated the points made regarding the first prong stated that they did not receive the Principal Richard Freedman's "July 2017" letter (R-1, Exhibit "C"), and added that the student made her elective course preference known and the school district denied her request.

As to the fourth prong of Crowe, the Petitioners argued that the student's request was a very simple one: to place her in the Art class of her choice, which, Petitioners maintained, would not seriously affect the School District's operations or budget. Petitioners noted that the School District recently and unwisely spent significant money on the transportation of the school's football players to travel to an out-of-state ball game, yet could not find the money to grant a simple course change for a single student.

The School District's response to the Petition focused on the assertion by Petitioners that they were entitled to emergent relief. The District argued that the assertions of "irreparable harm" to I.I. failed to establish any "harm" that could be considered serious enough to warrant the emergent relief sought. Moreover, there was certainly no sort of harm that could be considered in any way "irreparable", i.e. some harm that cannot possibly be undone. The District made the point that I.I.'s "disappointment" at not being able to enroll in the already-filled Art course did not rise to the level of the type of "severe personal inconvenience" contemplated in Crowe. (In Crowe the allegation of "severe personal inconvenience" was not a matter of disappointment, but rather had to do with Crowe's impending homelessness.)

In regard to Crowe's second prong, the District argued that there was no "settled right" of a student to enroll in a course that was already filled and that the notion of "student choice" advocated by the Petitioners was inconsistent with the orderly running of the District's schools. The District noted that the "legal basis" cited by the Petitioners on page one of P-1 was not a law or a regulation, but merely information from the Department of Education's website. The district argued that the cited material did not have the force of law and did not establish a "right".

In regard to the third prong of Crowe, the District maintained that it sent appropriate notices concerning the impending limitations on elective courses and that it devised a system whereby openings were randomly and fairly apportioned.

In regard to the fourth prong of Crowe, the District maintained that it had limited resources in the budget, that it used a computer-generated, random process to ensure equal access to elective courses, that it offered two after-school enrichment alternatives to those eighteen students who did not get into the "Art of the 20th Century 8" Art class, one of which was a nationally-recognized Art honor society. The District argued that the hardship to I.I. was merely a matter of her "disappointment", while the hardship to the District, in the event of an adverse ruling, would be the complete overhaul of the workable, fair elective enrollment system that it had devised plus the re-budgeting that it would entail.

CONCLUSIONS

The Petitioners have demonstrated that I.I. suffered temporary disappointment over the denial of the desired Art course. In an attempt to explore the possibility of irreparable harm, the Tribunal questioned D.I.'s assertion that enrollment in a high school Art honors course would be denied to I.I. because she lacked the "Art of the 20th Century 8" course. D.I. admitted that this assertion was based on speculation, not facts. I CONCLUDE that the Petitioners have not demonstrated that they have suffered or will suffer irreparable harm. The Petitioners have not satisfied the first prong of Crowe. Since it is necessary to establish all four prongs of Crowe to qualify for emergent relief, I CONCLUDE that Petitioners cannot and do not qualify for emergent relief.

The Petitioners base I.I.'s asserted "right' to enroll in any elective she chooses on the language set forth on page one of P-1. The cited language was taken from a "Frequently Asked Questions" section of the Department of Education's website under the heading "Visual and Performing Arts Standard Document" pertaining to "New Jersey Student Learning Standards." I CONCLUDE that the cited language does not have the force of law. I CONCLUDE that the cited language does not deprive or lessen the School District's authority to schedule the type or number of classes in a given subject.

I CONCLUDE that the cited language does not confer any "right" on a student to enroll in an any elective course he or she chooses. I CONCLUDE that the Petitioners have not demonstrated that I.I. was denied any "right" afforded to her under law.

I also CONCLUDE that the remedy sought by the Petitioners would undermine that authority granted to the School District to run the school in an efficient manner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.1 and 6A:3.2 (b) (6) and (e) (3). I CONCLUDE that the language cited by the Petitioners does not compel the School District to grant the requested schedule change.

I CONCLUDE that the denial of Petitioner's request for a schedule change in this matter was appropriate, was not arbitrary nor capricious and that the action of the River Dell Board of Education should be AFFIRMED. I further CONCLUDE that there are no further underlying issues that remain to be resolved, therefore, the within matter should be DISMISSED.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, the decision of the District to deny Petitioners the elective course change from "Music Studio 8" to "Art of the 20th Century 8" is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Dear Judge Tiscornia:

As Your Honor is aware, we represent the Summit Board of Education in the above-referenced matter. A telephone status conference has been scheduled to occur tomorrow, October 4, 2017. However, based upon the enclosed executed agreement and board approval of same (provided to Petitioner's counsel on September 20, 2017), this matter has resolved, and a teleconference no longer appears necessary.

We thank Your Honor for courtesies extended.

Respectfully submitted,

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This settlement agreement ("Agreement") made by and between

Summit Board of Education
(Hereinafter referred to as "Summit")

AND

K.G. o/b/o D.C.
(Hereinafter referred to as "K.G.")

RECEIVED
2017 OCT -5 A 9:11
STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMIN. LAW

WHEREAS, Summit is duly organized as a public school district under the laws of the State of New Jersey, and

WHEREAS, K.G. was found by Summit to have enrolled her daughter in Summit Public Schools, while attending the Academy for Performing Arts ("APA") at Union County Vocational and Technical School ("UCVTS"), despite not being domiciled in Summit during the 2016-17 school year; and

WHEREAS, K.G. appealed that determination to the Commissioner of Education under the following docket numbers: Agency Docket Number 305-12/16; OAL Docket Number EDU 00814-17; and

WHEREAS, Summit continued to pay tuition for D.C.'s continued attendance at APA through May 2017; and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to avoid the expense of further litigation and enter into a settlement;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises hereinafter set forth, the parties agree as follows:

1. Payment for Fall Semester of 2016-17 at APA. K.G. shall pay the total sum of one thousand five hundred dollars ($1,500.00) to Summit. Payment shall be made by K.G. as follows:

(a) At or before 3:00 p.m. on July 14, 2017, K.G. shall pay Summit the amount of seven hundred and fifty dollars ($750.00);

(b) Beginning with August 2017, on or before the first day of every month, K.G. shall issue payment to Summit in the amount of one hundred and twenty five dollars ($125.00) until a sum of one thousand five hundred ($1,500.00) is paid in full. This is anticipated to occur by January 1, 2018;

(c) Each payment by K.G. shall be made via certified check or money order made out to the "Summit Board of Education;"

(d) If K.G. chooses to mail any of the aforementioned payments, she shall ensure that it is received by Summit before the end of the school day on the first day of the month. Payments may be mailed to Louis Pepe, Assistant Superintendent for Business, Summit Board of Education, 14 Beekman Terrace, Summit, New Jersey 07901.

(e) If K.G. chooses to hand deliver any of the aforementioned payments, she shall ensure that it is delivered by the end of the school day on the first day of the month. Payments may be hand delivered to a member of the Business Office for the Summit Board of Education, 14 Beekman Terrace, Summit, New Jersey 07901. If a payment is handed to any person other than the Assistant Superintendent for Business, Louis Pepe, or the Assistant Business Administrator, Kathy Masbang, K.G. shall request and maintain a signed and dated payment receipt.

(f) In the event that K.G. fails to make a timely payment hereunder, and such default is not cured within five (5) calendar days, Summit shall be entitled to the immediate entry of a Consent Judgment by the Superior Court of New Jersey against K.G. for the amount of $1,500.00 (one thousand five hundred dollars) and/or $3,900, which includes Summit's unpaid reimbursement sum from Watching (see Paragraph 3 herein), together with interest calculated from the date of default and reasonable attorneys' fees and costs incurred by Summit in connection with any litigation or collection proceedings related to K.G.'s default under this Agreement. The total sum owed shall be less any and all payments received by Summit. The Consent Judgment shall be signed by the parties simultaneously upon the signing of this Agreement, and shall be held in escrow by the law firm of Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, P.C. The Consent Judgment shall be attached hereto as Exhibit "A" and incorporated into this Agreement by reference. K.G. understands that she will not receive any notice from Summit regarding her requirements to make the payments set forth in Paragraphs 1 and 2.

(g) Upon Summit's receipt of K.G.'s final payment, Summit's legal counsel shall forward the unfiled Consent Judgment via regular mail to Stephen L. Ritz, Esq., 225 Millburn Avenue, Suite 101, Millburn, New Jersey 07041 and said Consent Judgment shall then be null and void.

2. Payment for Spring Semester of 2016-17 at APA. K.G. has represented to Summit that the Watchung Board of Education has agreed to be responsible for full payment of D.C.'s tuition for attendance at the APA at UCVTS for the Spring Semester (i.e., February 1, 2017 through June 30, 2017). Based upon this representation, K.G. shall be personally liable to Summit for any and all Spring Semester tuition that Watchung does not pay. This liability includes Watchung's reimbursement to Summit in the amount of two thousand four hundred dollars ($2,400.00) for Summit's having already paid D.C.'s Spring Semester tuition for the months of February, March, April, and May. K.G. shall facilitate reimbursement to Summit in the amount of two thousand four hundred dollars ($2,400.00) to be received on or before February 1, 2018. In the event that full reimbursement is not received by Summit on or before February 1, 2018, K.G. shall commence making direct monthly payments in the amount of $125.00 on or before the first day of every month, beginning with February 1, 2018 and ending with an October 1, 2019 payment. K.G.'s Spring Semester payments shall be separate from and in addition to the Fall Semester payments set forth at Paragraph 2 herein.

3. Withdrawal and Release. The parties each agree to withdraw their claims and counterclaims as they relate to the present matter within 14 days of the execution of this Agreement. The parties further agree not to refile same. K.G. herein releases and gives up any and all civil and administrative claims and rights she may have against Summit, its current or former elected or appointed officials, administrators, employees, attorneys, agents, servants, representatives, predecessors and successors, insurance carriers, and all other persons or entities for whom any of the above have been or may be legally responsible, for any damages or injuries, including any civil claim for compensatory damages, punitive damages, or any damages or injuries to K.G. or D.C. arising out of the residency/domicile or education of the minor child D.C., whether known or unknown, that have taken place through the date of this Agreement.

4. Non-Admission of Liability. Nothing contained in this Agreement is intended, nor shall be construed in the following manner: (i) to waive or release any future claim arising after the date this Agreement is signed by both parties; or (ii) to limit either party's right to enforce the terms of this Agreement. Each party acknowledges and agrees that this Agreement is a compromise of disputed claims and neither this Agreement, nor any consideration provided pursuant to this Agreement, shall be taken or construed to be an admission or concession by either party of any kind with respect to any fact, liability, or fault.

5. Severability. Should any provision of this Agreement be declared illegal or unenforceable by any court of competent jurisdiction and cannot be modified to be enforceable, such provision shall immediately become null and void, leaving the remainder of this Agreement in full force and effect.

6. Authorization. Each individual signing this Agreement warrants and represents that he or she has the full authority and is duly authorized and empowered to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Party for which he or she signs.

7. Jurisdiction. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of New Jersey, and the Superior Court of New Jersey, Union County, shall have jurisdiction over, and be the proper venue for, any disputes arising out of this Agreement.

8. Construction. The parties and their counsel have participated fully in the review of this Agreement. Any rule of construction to the effect that ambiguities are to be resolved against the drafting party shall not apply in interpreting this Agreement. The language in this Agreement shall be interpreted as to its fair meaning and not strictly for or against any party.

9. Successors. This Agreement shall inure to the benefit of the parties hereto, and their respective officers, directors, employees, attorneys, heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns.

10. Amendment. This Agreement may only be amended by a writing signed by all of the parties to this Agreement.

11. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties and fully supersedes any and all prior contracts or agreements between the parties, and it likewise fully supersedes any and all other conflicting agreements or understandings between the parties.

T.T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, G.C.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOMS RIVER REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioner challenged the determination of the respondent Board that G.C. was not the victim of harassment, intimidation or bullying (HIB) under the provisions of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 to -32.1 (the Act). T.T., the mother of G.C. – a seventh grade student in respondent's school district – alleged that her daughter had been the victim of treatment by staff members employed by the Board that constituted HIB within the meaning of the statute. In a separate petition, T.T. contended that the Board had violated regulations pertaining to G.C.'s student record. The two matters were consolidated and heard together on April 29, 2016.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Act applies to any gesture, or any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by an actual or perceived characteristic, such as, inter alia: race, color, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, or any other distinguishing characteristic; in this case, the allegations of HIB involved three separate incidents wherein G.C. purportedly was the victim of HIB at the hands of various teaching staff members, and a substitute teacher; all alleged HIB incidents were investigated by the principal of the Intermediate School, who was trained as the building's HIB specialist; based on the testimony at the hearing and the record of this matter, none of the three alleged instances of HIB met the definition as spelled out in the Act; none of the actions taken appear to have been motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic as outlined in the statute; to the extent that the petitioner alleges that her advocacy on behalf of G.C. is the qualifying distinguishing characteristic, the record is devoid of evidence that such advocacy motivated any of the actions in the three incidents at issue here; with regard to the student records issue, there was an information breach involving a school administrator's child which resulted in several of G.C.'s fellow students being privy to G.C.'s schedule before she received it in the mail; the Board, however, acknowledged this breach, took steps to ensure that it does not happen again, and accommodated petitioner's request for relief by making a change to G.C.'s schedule. The ALJ concluded that petitioner did not meet her burden of proof to show that the Board's HIB determination was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable; further, the records matter is now moot as petitioner received the relief that was sought. Accordingly, the ALJ recommended dismissal of the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

T.T., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, G.C.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOMS RIVER REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed by the petitioner. The Board's reply exceptions were untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(d), and will therefore not be considered by the Commissioner.[1]

In her exceptions, petitioner argues that the alleged actions constitute Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) because G.C. was being retaliated against for filing HIB allegations, and G.C. was being targeted because she has a mother who advocates for her. Procedurally, petitioner contends that the Board did not properly investigate the HIB complaints and failed to file the HIB report within the proper time limit.[2]

[1] The Commissioner was not provided with a transcript of the April 29, 2016 hearing at the OAL.

[2] Petitioner's exceptions appear to reference a September 22, 2017 incident, which occurred after the record in this matter was closed and well after the 2015 petitions were filed. Additionally, attached to petitioner's exceptions is a series of documents, including an exhibit marked "P-8", which does not appear to have been presented at the hearing in this matter. Any new allegations or additional documents that were not entered into evidence before the Administrative Law Judge will not be considered by the Commissioner.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in rendering its HIB determination. There is no evidence in the record that the alleged actions were motivated by a distinguishing characteristic of G.C. Although petitioner appears to allege that G.C.'s distinguishing characteristic is that she has a mother who advocates for her, there is no indication of this in the record; further, petitioner's exceptions do not demonstrate that – even if the advocacy of G.C.'s mother was a distinguishing characteristic – the alleged actions were motivated by said characteristic, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.

The Commissioner further concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that – although unauthorized individuals gained access to G.C.'s schedule – N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 provides for requests to stay the disclosure of records pending final determination of the challenged procedure. Here, the Board has already addressed the unauthorized disclosure of student records, so there is no disclosure for which petitioner can request a stay. Finally, the Commissioner is in agreement with the ALJ's determination that the issues involving G.C.'s schedule were previously addressed by providing petitioner with the relief she sought, so that aspect of this matter is now moot.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOMS RIVER REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, OCEAN COUNTY,

Respondent.

T.T., on behalf of minor child, G.C., petitioner, pro se

Valter H. Must, Esq., for respondent (Carluccio, Leone, Dimon, Doyle & Sacks, L.L.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: August 22, 2016 Decided: October 5, 2017

BEFORE ELIA A. PELIOS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioners, T.T., on behalf of minor child, G.C., residents of Toms River, New Jersey, and the mother of a seventh-grade girl, and father P.C., contend that their daughter was the victim of behavior statutorily defined as harassment, intimidation and bullying (HIB) and of violation of student records regulations, by respondent Board of Education of the Toms River Regional School District, Ocean County (Board).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on August 17, 2015, and July 15, 2015. Answers were filed and the matters transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 1, 2015, and September 4, 2015. As the matter involving the challenge to G.C.'s schedule was transmitted with a request for emergent relief, it is noted that the emergent relief was settled upon the respondent's accommodating petitioner's schedule change request. An order of consolidation was entered on December 3, 2015. The matters were heard together on April 29, 2016, and the record was held open to allow for the filing of documents post-hearing by the parties. A conference call was held to advise the parties that additional facts and allegations of new incidents submitted after the hearing would not be considered and the record closed on August 22, 2016. Orders were entered in this matter to allow for the extension of time in which to file the initial decision. The parties agree that the incident of February 25, 2015 as described in the petition, is not under review in these proceedings due to the ninety- day rule.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Although these proceedings consist of two separate petitions which have been consolidated, for clarity of record the testimony and evidence was presented for each matter separately. In the HIB matter, the Board called Bryan Madigan (Madigan), who is employed by the Toms River Board of Education as a principal at the Intermediate East building. He has been so employed for seventeen years, and prepared the HIB investigations (R-1, R-2 and R-3). He has received training in harassment, intimidation, and bullying (HIB). Reviewing the first investigation report (R-1), Madigan noted that there was a report that the director of the school play made comments about G.C.'s gum-chewing, and that there was a full HIB investigation after. He interviewed G.C., the student-petitioner in this matter, and reviewed a written statement and interview with the director regarding their comments about G.C.'s mother allowing G.C. to chew gum. Three other students were also interviewed by Madigan. The scene in the play called for gum-chewing, and upon learning that two of the students had braces, the director decided to not have them actually chew gum. G.C. alleged that the director expressed surprise when G.C., who wears braces, stated that her mother allows her to chew gum, asking "Is everyone getting this on tape? G's mom is going to allow her to chew gum." It was determined that there was no HIB from this matter, and the Board agreed.

Madigan then reviewed the investigation of the second alleged bullying incident (R-2), and stated that the G.C. felt that she was picked-on by the teacher, which made it hard to attend class. The teacher did not like the answer that the student gave on a quiz, and upon receiving G.C.'s explanation citing support she found in a book said, "well I guess I can accept that." G.C stated there was no follow up and she never received the quiz back. It was noted that the teacher does not always return homework. Other students were interviewed in the matter, and their statements were consistent with the teacher's. The teacher explained that the "quiz" was a mini assessment designed to determine of the students were reading. She stated that she accepted the answer as given. Madigan determined that there was no HIB, and the Board agreed with him.

Madigan then reviewed the third HIB incident (R-3). G.C. was sent to the office by a substitute teacher, and she saw the principal. She stated that the substitute teacher was treating her unfairly, and embarrassing her in front of her peers. Madigan did not speak to G.C., stating that T.T. would not allow him to do so. Other students said that the class was noisy, one child moved to the back of the room, and another child was disciplined. The substitute addressed G.C. for turning-around and acting-out. The substitute called G.C. up to the front of the room and said, "it must be hard for you to listen to someone else because you do what you want." Madigan determined that this was not an instance of HIB, the matter was appealed to the Board, and the Board agreed.

On cross examination, Madigan was asked why only three students were interviewed in the first incident, when fifty people were present. He stated that the characters the Boylan sisters were involved and so they would be directly in the presence of the incident and heard most closely what had occurred. He reiterated that other students had braces. He was then asked who he interviewed with regard to the second incident. Madigan interviewed J.R. who was the same student interviewed in the prior HIB incident, and three others, and he was asked why only those three when there were thirty students in the class. Madigan stated that he was attempting to determine if students are being treated fairly in class. It was noted that J.R.'s parents both work for the Board of Education, and the question was asked why this student should keep being interviewed. Madigan noted that she was directly involved in the gum incident, as for other incidents, it was a believed that J.R. was friends with petitioner G.C.

With regard to the third incident, Madigan noted that he was aware that the regular teacher apologized for the incident. When asked if he knew that Mr. Clark asked G.C. to write an apology, and that she was in hives and nervous, Madigan stated that he was of the understanding that G.C. was okay with the apology. When asked why the substitute teacher involved keeps being assigned to classes where petitioner G.C. is assigned, he stated that he has no reason not to, as the substitute was found not guilty of HIB. He stated that nothing happened again that year, and that the administration made sure of it. Madigan notes that this year, the current year, there was a new system in place first for substitutes and third-party employers where a substitute can pick their assignment. He is not always sure what class a substitute is going to be assigned to, and noted that G.C. has been offered the opportunity to come speak to the administration or guidance counselors, but his understanding is that T.T. instructed G.C. not to speak to anybody but her.

Madigan believes there is no evidence that the play director in the first incident has any problem with G.C. It is noted that with regard to the third incident, G.C. was not the only student required to apologize, as another student also had to write an apology to the regular teacher, stating that he was sorry.

T.T. the mother of G.C. testified on behalf of the petitioner. She believes that the Board did not follow its own procedures, stating that she believes the attorney found that HIB was not established before the Board even voted. She stated that she believes that G.C. feels that she is retaliated against because she, T.T., and G.C.'s father P.C., advocate on her behalf. T.T. alleges that the plum parts in the school plays are given to children of administrators and teacher of the year recipients.

With regard to the first incident, T.T. told the Board about the incident, and they conducted an HIB investigation. Only three of fifty students present were interviewed, and a parent of one of the three interviewed children is affiliated with the school.

With regard to the second incident, T.T. alleges that the grades policy is not fair. She believes that one teacher, Brianne Bates, would give points to some students, but not her daughter, and made her move back a row in the school play.

With regard to the third incident, she believes that asking her daughter to write an apology is unacceptable, and believes it was inappropriate that she was not allowed to confront the substitute in front of her daughter to determine what happened. She underscored that the regular teacher apologized to G.C. for the incident. She described being worried about her daughter, and that she cries every day. She stated that her daughter is a straight A+ student who loves school, but does not want to go because she does not feel safe there. T.T. stated that a cease-and-desist letter that is in place limits how she is able to communicate with the school, and that she cannot talk to the anti-bullying specialist directly.

On cross-examination, T.T. identified the cease-and-desist order (R-4) which directs her to address her concerns directly to Madigan. The school offered counseling to G.C., but G.C. refused the counseling due to the guidance counselor's reaction to the HIB investigation. G.C. feels singled-out, and retaliated against, due to her parents' advocacy on her behalf.

With regard to the issue involving the disclosure of student records, T.T. testified on her own behalf. She stated that an administrator's child sent a text to G.C., and to other students, about G.C.'s schedule before G.C. ever received her schedule in the mail. T.T. complained to the administration, which angered the assistant superintendent. Prior to the school year starting, an email was sent to T.T. The email did not mention that Madigan's daughter had access to his password. This occurred before the 2014 school year, and happened again prior to the 2015 school year and was a manipulation of the school schedule. It was noted that J.R.'s father is the principal of the high school. J.R. texted that she did not want G.C. in the same class, and had access through her father's ID to change the class assignments (P-5 and P-6).

The assistant superintendent said he would take care of the matter with Madigan. He told T.T. that it was a secretary employed by the school district who allowed the students to access school records. It was noted that the two principles' daughters bragged about having access and power to records and schedules.

T.T. stated that when she hears these issues she gets worried and complains. Her daughter G.C. feels targeted by other students because T.T. complains. T.T. wants to know since these issues were known for the prior year, how it was able to happen again.

On cross-examination, T.T. stated that she does not know who specifically sent the text, but that it was not J.R. She was asked for texts of the second incident. T.T. asked for G.C. to be placed in a particular class, and that request was accommodated, but was noted that the bully in this matter lives next door. She stated that the kids were pretending to want a particular teacher, and that a particular class was the place to be, but that was not true, they were trying to be in a different class. She asked that G.C. be assigned to the class that the students were talking about, and as a result G.C. was not in the class with the students she wanted.

Madigan once again took the stand. He stated the allegation was brought to his attention about his daughter, and he investigated the matter. He stated that his daughter and another student were helping another teacher, when people started getting texts that students were getting their schedules in the mail at home. His daughter and her friend N.P. went to his secretary to ask if they could learn their homeroom and assignment, and then asked about their friends. He acknowledged that his secretary told him about the incident. Madigan believes that N.P. then texted G.C. with the information. He stated that the students should not have asked, his secretary received a written reprimand, and that his daughter is happy that G.C. was in her class.

This year, Madigan stated that G.C.'s parents made a request to the guidance department that she see her homeroom assignment, and the administration honored that request. He had no idea that J.R. was accessing the schedule, or that J.R. requested a different cycle from G.C.

On cross-examination, Madigan stated he did not believe that he was biased investigating his own daughter. He stated that his daughter and G.C. could be in the same cycle, but not homeroom and N.P. is happy in the same cycle. He noted that his daughter and N.P. play basketball, and that his daughter and any students for that matter, are now not allowed behind the secretary's desk. He agrees that the circumstances give the perception of preferential treatment. To his knowledge, this no longer occurs. Madigan's directive and direction is that no students are allowed behind the secretary's desk. He asked why his daughter was allowed to not wear her school ID, but that G.C. gets in trouble for not wearing hers, he responded that his daughter was reprimanded.

Madigan acknowledged that his other daughter from another school was given a part in the school play before other students were offered. He stated that it was the director's idea was to have small children in the play, and that the director suggested his children, and that he said that it was okay. He believes that his daughters are held to higher standards than other children. Madigan stated that there are 1,500 children in the school, and they address it when they know that rules are broken.

Considering the testimonial and documentary evidence in the matter, I FIND that Mr. Madigan investigated three instances of alleged HIB against G.C. In one instance, a play director sarcastically asked those assembled if people were recording G.C. stating that her mother would let her chew gum with braces. In the second, a teacher skeptically quipped that she guessed she could accept G.C.'s answer in a mini quiz when presented by G.C. with support found in a book for the given answer, and in the third, a substitute sent G.C. to the office for talking in class and made a comment about G.C. doing whatever she wants.

G.C. was made to write an apology. In all three instances Madigan determined that no HIB occurred and the board agreed with him.

I further FIND that in advance of the 2015-2016 school year, students gained access to the records system and were able to ascertain G.C.'s schedule and informed G.C. of that fact before she had been notified of her schedule. When G.C. was concerned she would not be in class with people she wanted to be with, T.T. requested a change which was accommodated.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Toms River Regional School District's HIB policy was adopted in the aftermath of the enactment of comprehensive amendments to the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Law. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. The 2010 amendments, which were approved on January 5, 2011, and took effect with the 2011-2012 school year, strengthened the definition of HIB to include:

> [A]ny gesture, any written, verbal or physical act . . . whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds . . . that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging a student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or

c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or be severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.

[N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14.]

In the present matter, only two witnesses offered testimony: the administrator conducting the investigations and the mother of the alleged victim. No testimony was offered by anyone with first hand knowledge or observation of the incidents in question. However, even taking the written statements offered by G.C. at face value and assuming arguendo that the events in question occurred as described therein,it appears that none of the three alleged instances of HIB meet the definition of HIB as spelled out in the statute and I so CONCLUDE. None of the actions taken appear to be motivated by any actual or perceived characteristic as outlined in that statute. To the extent that the petitioners allege that their advocacy on behalf of G.C. is the qualifying distinguishing characteristic, the record is devoid of evidence that such advocacy motivated the actions in any of those instances. It is noted that in the third incident, the conduct was performed by a substitute teacher, who is presumably less a part of daily interaction between students and parents and it is difficult to ascribe such motivation absent a modicum of evidence that is simply not present in the record.

It is further noted that the Commissioner will not overturn the decision of a local board in the absence of a finding that the action below was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. T.B.M. v. Moorestown Bd. of Educ., EDU 2780-07, Initial Decision (February 6, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (citing Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd, 46 N.J. 581(1966)). The Commissioner will not substitute his judgment for that of the board of education, whose exercise of its discretion may not be disturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." Kopera v. W. Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 294 (App. Div. 1960). Our courts have held that "[w]here there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration, even though it may be believed that an erroneous conclusion has been reached." Bayshore Sewage Co. v. Dep't of Envtl.

Prot., 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199–200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd, 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974). Thus, in order to prevail, the petitioner must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it. T.B.M., supra, EDU 2780-07. It is a weighty burden; one which I CONCLUDE this petitioner has not met. Accordingly, I further CONCLUDE that petitioner's action challenging the Board's determination that HIB did not occur in the herein described incidents must be DISMISSED.

With regard to the student record issue, N.J.S.A. 18A:36-19 provides that the "State Board of Education shall provide by regulation for the creation, maintenance and retention of pupil records and for the security thereof and access thereto, to provide general protection for . . . the right of both pupil and parent or guardian to reasonable privacy as against other persons." To that end, N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5 (a) provides that "[o]nly authorized organizations, agencies or persons as defined in this section shall have access to student records." N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5(e) identifies the limited organizations, agencies or persons which have a right to access. The record reflects that information contained in student records regarding G.C., specifically, her schedule for the upcoming school year, was disclosed to people not identified by N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.5(e). Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent did not maintain G.C.'s student records in a manner so as to provide general protection for the right of G.C. to reasonable privacy.

However, the record further reflects that respondent acknowledges this breach and has taken steps to ensure that it does not happen again. Mr. Madigan offered detailed testimony demonstrating that the district took the matter seriously and took steps to prevent a repeat and took action as necessary to address the matter with the responsible personnel. It is further clear that respondent took into account petitioner's request at to class assignment which stemmed from the disclosure of the information. Although N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.7 does give parents a right to appeal impermissible disclosure of a student record, the regulation seems to contemplate a prospective action to stay disclosure rather than to address a disclosure after it occurred, as with the present matter.

To the extent that the matter was transmitted by the Commissioner to the OAL as a challenge to G.C.'s schedule, the record reflects that the district accommodated petitioner's request in making a change to G.C.'s schedule. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the matter as transmitted is moot, as petitioner received the relief that was sought.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the petition be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MENDHAM TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:
Respondent.	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

WHEREAS, Respondent, the Mendham Township Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board", is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the law of the State of New Jersey, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, and which is invested with the authority for maintaining and operating the public school district for the Mendham Township School District (hereinafter referred to as the "District");

WHEREAS, M.B. and K.C. (hereafter referred to as "Petitioners") are the parents of M.B., who, at all times relevant herein, has been a student attending the Mendham Township Elementary School, which is operated by the Board;

WHEREAS, it is the position of the Board that it has fully complied with all of the laws and regulations regarding the investigation and determination of an incident of Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (hereinafter referred to as "HIB") involving M.B.; and

WHEREAS, it is the position of Petitioners that following the District's HIB investigation, M.B. was wrongfully determined to have engaged in an act of HIB toward another student, which resulted in the filing of a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education (hereinafter referred to as "Commissioner") that was assigned Agency Reference Number 80-4/17 and OAL Docket Number EDU 07007-17; and

WHEREAS, the parties are interested in resolving the within matter amicably without further protracted litigation while achieving the goals of both parties;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the following valuable consideration, both parties agree to settle this matter, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein, and subject to the approval by the Board as follows:

1. The Board agrees that upon final execution and approval of this Settlement Agreement and Release (hereinafter referred to as "Agreement"), all records pertaining to the underlying HIB incident, including all HIB investigations and charges, shall be removed from M.B.'s school file and secured in a separate file maintained in the Superintendent of School's office where they shall be held until such time as they may be destroyed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:32-7.8. In order to effectuate this process, Petitioners consent to the Principal of the Mendham Township Elementary School reviewing M.B.'s student records in order to ensure that all of her records in the District pertaining to the underlying HIB incident are placed in the Superintendent of School's office with a notation that such records are non-accessible other than as outlined in this Agreement.

2. The parties further agree that, in the event M.B. is accused of an act of HIB at any time from the final execution and approval of this Agreement up to and including her graduation from the Mendham Township Middle School, those documents pertaining to this underlying HIB incident may be used by District personnel in order to assess and determine if there is a pattern of behavior on the part of M.B.

3. As long as M.B. is not found to have committed another act of HIB at any time from the final execution and approval of this Agreement up to and including her graduation from the Mendham Township Middle School, all information/records pertaining to the underlying HIB incident shall not be disclosed to any third party and shall not be forwarded in the event M.B. transfers to another public school district. Furthermore, any inquiries made to the District as to whether M.B. was involved in an act of HIB shall be forwarded to the Superintendent of Schools for a proper response in accordance with this Agreement.

4. This Agreement is entered into solely for the purpose of resolving certain issues raised in the underlying Petition of Appeal. Neither the execution, delivery, nor performance of this Agreement shall constitute or be construed at any time or for any purpose to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by the parties; and the parties further agree that this Agreement shall not be used as evidence in any judicial, administrative, or quasi-judicial proceeding, except to enforce the terms of said Agreement.

5. In consideration for the making of this Agreement and for other consideration provided under the terms herein, Petitioners individually and o/b/o M.B., for herself and her heirs, administrators, beneficiaries, assigns, executors, and attorneys, knowingly, voluntarily and unconditionally releases and forever discharges the Board from any and all rights, claims, causes of action, without limitation, any and all other liabilities of any nature or amount, whether known or unknown, in law or equity, including but not limited to claims for compensatory damages, punitive damages, any other federal, state, or local, civil or human rights law, rule, regulation or ordinance, any public policy, tort, contract or other common law; or on any other unlawful basis, that they/she may have or ever had against the Board up until the execution of this Agreement.

6. This Agreement and all of its terms are and will remain confidential to the maximum extent permitted by law. Further, there is a mutual agreement not to disparage the Board, its past and/or present board members, officers, administrators, agents, employees and their successors, nor make any comments, statements or the like to the media or to others that may be considered to be derogatory or detrimental in nature.

7. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matters herein, and supersedes and integrates any and all prior representations, negotiations, discussions, understandings and agreements, whether oral or written. This Agreement shall not be amended, changed or modified except in a writing signed by all parties. Each party acknowledges that the other party, nor any agent or attorney of the other party, have made any promise, representation or warranty whatsoever, express or implied, not contained in this Agreement to induce them to execute the same.

8. This Agreement shall not be amended, modified or revised except by a written instrument duly signed by all of the parties hereto or their respective successors or assigns. No oral statement of any person shall in any manner or degree, modify the terms and provisions of this Agreement

9. It is acknowledged that this Agreement has been entered into freely, willingly and voluntarily, without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity for the parties to consult with representation of their choosing and at their option. Petitioners have been represented by Howard P. Lesnik, Esq. and are satisfied with his representation. The Board has been represented by Stephen M. Bacigalupo, II, Esq., of Schwartz Simon Edelstein & Celso LLC, and is satisfied with his representation. The parties acknowledge that they understand the contents of this Agreement and that they were given the opportunity to review it with their respective representatives.

10. It is agreed that neither party is a prevailing party for any purpose, and that each party is fully responsible for any and all costs and expenses incurred in this matter, including but not limited to attorneys' fees.

11. This Agreement may be executed simultaneously in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original and all of which, when taken together, constitute one and the same document. The signature of any party to any counterpart shall be deemed a signature to, and may be appended to, any other counterpart.

12. This Agreement is subject to Board approval. If approved, the Board President is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board. This Agreement is without prejudice to either party if the terms are not ratified by the Board. When ratifying this Agreement, the Board shall not identify M.B. or her family and the Board Resolution ratifying this Agreement shall not contain any personally identifying information before or after ratification.

13. This Agreement shall be binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective successors and assigns.

14. This Agreement shall be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey without reference to its conflict of laws provisions.

15. This Agreement, once approved by the Board; signed by the Board President; and signed by Petitioners, is final as to all of its terms. The pending Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner of Education, Agency Reference Number 80-4/17 and OAL Docket Number EDU 07007-17, shall be withdrawn with prejudice as a material part of this settlement.

BEFORE KELLY J. KIRK, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case on March 21, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have settled this matter and have filed a Settlement Agreement and General Release and Board Resolution indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties and/or their representatives and statements made in the record.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (the "Agreement"), is entered into this 25th day of September 2017, by and between the East Orange Board of Education (the Board"), and K.M. o/b/o M.M.

For purposes of this Settlement Agreement, the term "Board" shall mean the East Orange Board of Education, East Orange School District ("District"), its past, present and future elected officials, officers, directors, agents, administrators, managers, employees, insurers, attorneys independent contractors and benefit plans, and all of their predecessors and successors, and any and all of their respective executors, administrators, successors, assigns, agents and representatives.

The Board, and K.M., on behalf of minor child, M.M., and M.M. are hereinafter jointly referred to as the "Parties".

This Agreement constitutes the complete and final resolution of any and all disputes arising from or relating to the Petition filed by K.M., o/b/o M.M., M.M. under OAL Docket No. EDU 03909-2017N, Agency Ref. No.: 28-2/17, as well as any and all other petitions, claims or actions that have been or could have been brought against the Board on behalf of M.M. challenging her expulsion from the District.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, a Petition was filed by K.M., o/b/o, M.M. against the Board.

WHEREAS, the Parties have agreed that it is in the best interests of the Parties and the public interest to amicably resolve the pending OAL matter; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, K.M. agrees o/b/o M.M. to withdraw and/or dismiss this Petition, as well as resolve any and all other disputes by and between the Parties;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained in this Agreement, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. K.M. agrees and acknowledges, on behalf of M.M., to accept the out-of-district alternative educational placement for the upcoming 2017-2018 school year at Essex Campus Academy located at 369 Passaic Avenue, Fairfield, NJ. The Board acknowledges that M.M. will begin Essex Campus Academy on September 13, 2017 as a twelfth grade student.

2. The Board further agrees to provide transportation to and from Essex Campus Academy starting September 13, 2017 and continuing through the 2017-18 school year.

3. K.M. agrees and acknowledges that any future disciplinary action taken against M.M. will be initiated by Essex Campus Academy pursuant to the policies and regulations of the Essex Regional Educational Services Commission.

4. K.M. agrees and acknowledges, on behalf of M.M. that M.M. has earned a total of 87.25 credits as of June 2017.

5. K.M. agrees and acknowledges, on behalf of M.M. that M.M, must obtain a minimum of 34.75 credits to graduate in or about June 2018.

6. K.M. agrees and acknowledges, on behalf of M.M. that M.M shall meet with her assigned guidance counselor at Essex Campus Academy to determine the appropriate coursework and possible alternative ways to meet the state graduation requirements in order to graduate at the end of the 2017-2018 year.

7. K.M. agrees and acknowledges, on behalf of M.M. that in the event M.M. does not meet the state graduation requirements as of June 1, 2018, M.M. shall meet with her assigned guidance counselor at Essex Campus Academy and determine the appropriate course of action.

8. The Board agrees and acknowledges that in the event M.M. earns the 120 credits and does meet the state graduation requirements by the end of the 2017-2018, she will be awarded a diploma by the Board.

9. Further, K.M. agrees and acknowledges on behalf of M.M., that because M.M. was expelled from the District, M.M. will only participate in the commencement ceremony and no other District senior activities in or around June 2018.

10. The Board agrees to pay the tuition for the out-of-district alternative education placement for the 2017-2018 academic year ending on or about June 22, 2018.

11. It is further agreed the Board does not assume any responsibility for M.M.'s inability to meet the state graduation requirements.

12. The parties agree and acknowledge that the Board does not approve the curriculum at Essex Campus Academy, a board of education organized and existing pursuant to Title 18A:13-1 et. seq. of the laws of the State of New Jersey; and therefore, the Board cannot ensure that any course offerings given through the credit recovery program at Essex High School will satisfy all the minimum state graduation requirements.

13. If M.M. is found eligible to receive special education services, no provision of this Agreement may be construed as relieving the East Orange Board of Education of its obligations under federal and state law to provide M.M. with special education and/or related services constituting a free appropriate public education ("FAPE").

14. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, K.M. agrees o/b/o M.M. to withdraw/dismiss the petition filed under OAL Docket No. EDU 03909-2017N, Agency Ref. No.: 28-2/17, with prejudice, as well as any and all claims that M.M. could have brought against the Board.

15. K.M. o/b/o M.M. and M.M. irrevocably and unconditionally releases, remises, waives and forever discharges and covenants not to sue the Board from all actions, causes of action, suits, debts, charges, complaints, claims, liabilities, obligations, promises, agreements, controversies, damages and expenses of any nature whatsoever, in law or equity, known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, fixed or contingent, which she has ever had or now has against the Board. This release covers all claims that known or unknown as of the date of the execution of this Agreement.

16. This Agreement is not and shall not in any way be deemed to constitute an admission by the Board or evidence of any wrongdoing or liability on the part of the Board, nor does this Agreement intend to address a violation of any contract, federal, state or local statute, rule, regulation or principle of common law or equity. Rather, this Agreement constitutes the good faith settlement and release of disputed claims, and it is acknowledged and agreed by the Parties that this Agreement is being entered into by the Parties solely to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainty of further litigation and to fully and finally resolve, settle and dismiss with prejudice, any and all claims of any kind whatsoever, whether known or unknown, which M.M. has ever had or now has against the Board. Further, the Parties agree that this Agreement is in the public interest.

17. This Agreement may not be changed orally and no modification, amendment or waiver of any provision contained in this Agreement, or any future representation, promise or condition in connection with the subject matter of this Agreement shall be binding upon the Parties hereto unless made in writing and signed by both Parties.

18. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and complete settlement between the Parties and supersedes any and all previous agreements of any kind whatsoever between them, whether written or oral. This is an integrated document, and is not to be construed as being drafted by the Board or any legal representative of K.M. o/b/o M.M.

19. This Agreement is made and entered into, and shall be subject to, governed by and interpreted in accordance with the laws of the state of New Jersey and shall be fully enforceable in the courts of that state, without regard to principles of conflict of laws.

20. K.M. agrees and acknowledges o/b/o M.M. that M.M. was represented by counsel during the discussions and negotiations of this Agreement, and that M.M.'s legal representative(s) had a reasonable and sufficient period of time to consider the terms of this Agreement.

21. K.M. agrees and acknowledges o/b/o M.M. that this Agreement is subject to the approval of the East Orange Board of Education.

22. It is further stipulated and agreed that K.M., on behalf of minor child, M.M. and Board shall resolve the above-captioned matter without costs or expenses being awarded to any party.

23. The Parties agree and acknowledge that this Agreement, and its terms, shall remain confidential as provided by law.

24. The Parties have entered into this Agreement freely and voluntarily with a full understanding of their rights and the contents of this Agreement.

25. The Parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimiles of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures

DECISION and ORDER on STANDARD OF REVIEW

Pursuant to the Teacher Effectiveness and Accountability for the Children of New Jersey Act ("TEACHNJ" or "the Act"), P. L. 2012, c. 26, NJSA 18A:6-115 et seq., and regulations adopted thereunder by the New Jersey Department of Education, the undersigned Arbitrator was appointed to hear and determine the above captioned matter which was appealed to arbitration by Respondent in this matter, Suzanne Kulik ("Kulik") after the Commissioner of Education did not find that the evaluation process that resulted in Kulik having been evaluated as less than

"effective" for two consecutive years had not followed the standards for such evaluations set forth in the Act and its attendant regulations.[1]

On October 6, 2017 a pre-hearing conference was conducted by the undersigned at which time counsel for Kulik raised the issue of the appropriate standard of review to be used by the undersigned. Kulik's counsel reasoned that since at all times material hereto she had been employed as a tenured Speech and Language Specialist and/or Speech Therapist by the District, the appropriate standard to be applied by the undersigned should not be the limited criteria set forth in NJSA 18A:6-17.2. Rather, counsel contended, the correct standard applicable to her case is the traditional "just cause" standard employed by tribunals in tenure removal cases adjudicated prior to the 2012 passage of the TEACHNJ Act ("the Act") under the still extant Tenured Employees Hearing Act.

At the conclusion of the October 6 conference, the undersigned agreed to accept a Motion by Respondent to arbitrate the case under the traditional, pre-TEACHNJ "just cause" standard and further agreed to accept written arguments and supporting documents from both parties in favor of and opposed to Respondent's Motion[2]. Pursuant thereto, a schedule was established for simultaneous submission of moving and opposing papers as well as the simultaneous submission of reply briefs. All papers were submitted by October 30, 2017, and this Motion is ready for a ruling.

Respondent's basic argument is that the position she held at all times material hereto was not that of a "teacher, principal, assistant principal and vice-principal" recited in the Act at NJSA 18A:6-17.3, which was Section 25 of the Act, and for that reason, Respondent believes the process and timelines for filing charges and responses to the Commissioner of Education that are

[1] Prior to the Commissioner's involvement, the Superintendent of the Petitioner District , having reviewed the charges and the evaluation process used in Kulik's last two years of teaching, found that there was probable cause to credit the evidence underlying the charge and that the charge merited dismissal or reduction in salary. The District Superintendent certified the charge to the Commissioner as required by NJSA 18A:6-11 and NJSA 18A:6-17.3.

[2] The undersigned also sought and secured from the Commissioner's Office an extension in time for hearings and an Award.

set forth under Section 17.3 Section do not apply to her. The Commissioner's Office ultimately agreed with Respondent on that issue.

More important for purposes of this Motion, Respondent further argues that the limits on defenses before an arbitrator set forth at NJSA 18A:6A-17.2 for a removal based on inefficiency, which is the case here, do not apply to Respondent for the same reason, i.e., that NJSA 18A:6-17.3, which is Section 25 of the Act, only pertains "in the case of a teacher, principal, assistant principal, and vice-principal."[3]

Indeed, they are the only positions named at NJSA 18:6-17.3, and Respondent argues that elementary standards of statutory construction mandate that the plain language of the statute control, citing, inter alia, Jen Elec., Inc., v. County of Essex, 197 NJ.6217 (2009); Real v. Radir Wheels, Inc., 198 N.J. 511 (2009); M. S. v. Millburn Police Dept., 197 N.J. 236 (2008).

Respondent further reasons that NJSA 18A:6-17.2, pertaining to teachers, principals, assistant principals and vice principals as per NJSA 18A:6-17.3 is an express exception to the more general scope of tribunal review in tenure removal cases found at NJSA 18A:6-11.

The separation of Speech and Language Specialists from the term "teachers," Respondent says, is found at that NJAC 6A:10-1.2, which sets forth the Administrative Code's definition of a teacher. There, the Code defines a teacher as "a teaching staff member who holds the appropriate standard, provisional or emergency instructional certificate issued by the State Board of Education and is assigned a class roster of students for at least one particular course." Respondent never was assigned a class roster for any course.

Respondent also argues that the thrust of the Act is to improve instruction, NJSA 18A:6-118(a). Although Speech and Language Specialists are important to instruction, Respondent says, they are not instructors in designated courses but rather assist students who may be challenged because of communications issues.

Last, Respondent cites the Department's Guide to the TEACHNJ Act and its omission of therapists specifically in certain places, despite the inclusion of "Other employees required to [3] Under the Act a Respondent's defenses where she is accused of inefficiency are limited to proof that (a) the evaluations leading to removal failed to adhere to the Act's mandated procedures; and/or (b) the evaluations contained a mistake of fact; and/or (c) removal was motivated by political affiliation, nepotism, union activity, discrimination, or other legally prohibited conduct; and/or (d) the removal was arbitrary and capricious. (Citation needed).

hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners." Respondent says that because the guidance goes on to state that the "requirements [of the Act] do not apply to every teaching staff member in the same manner" there is an implied exception for Speech and Language Specialists from the limited standard of review set forth in NJSA 18A-6-17.2.[4]

By way of answer, Petitioner argues that legislative history pertinent to the Act and guidance provided by the New Jersey Department of Education both strongly indicate that the Act, including its grounds for removal and restrictions on defenses, applies to all "teaching staff members." Petitioner then points out that that phrase is defined at NJSA 18 A:6-119 as "member[s] of the professional staff of any district [or regional or county vocational school board of education], holding office, position or employment [that requires the staff member] to hold a valid and effective standard, provisional or emergency certificate appropriate to [his/her] office, position or employment, issued by the State Board of Examiners..." It is uncontroverted that Respondent, as a Speech and Language Specialist, held such a certificate.

Further, Petitioner underscores that the Act does not provide any alternative method of arbitration or scope of review for such arbitration for specialists or any professionals covered by it. Nor does the Act anywhere suggest an alternative review regime for Speech and Language Specialists.

Turning to legislative history, Petitioner refers to the preamble of the Act at NJSA 18A:6-118 where the Legislature found and declared that:

> The goal of [the Act] is to raise student achievement by improving instruction through the adoption of evaluations that provide specific feedback to educators, inform the provision of aligned professional development and inform personnel decisions. (Emphasis supplied).

[4] In addition, Respondent contends that the Department of Education has already recognized that Speech and Language Specialists are not teachers because it removed Respondent from the time requirements for responding to the charges against her imposed by NJSA 18A-6-17.2 and 17.3. The Department's decision in that regard was only for purposes of allowing additional response time for Respondent. The undersigned does not view it as a decision on the appropriate scope of review in this arbitration, which is the issue of Respondent's Motion.

Petitioner also posits that statutes must be construed in a manner that avoids unreasonable results when legislative intent is considered, citing, inter alia, American Fire and Cas. Co. v. New Jersey Div. of Taxation, 187 N.J. 65 (2006); Realty LLC v. Law, 406 NJ Super. 423, 425 (App. Div.2009); Asbury Park Press v. Ocean County Prosecutor's Office, 374 N.J. Super. 312 (Law Div. 2004).

Petitioner also states that the Department's Guide to the TEACHNJ Act delineates the Act's application to various staff members, including "therapists," a category into which Respondent would be placed and that the Guide further explains that the Act applies to "teaching staff" working in the State's public schools, a phrase Petitioner interprets as having a broader meaning than simply classroom teachers.

Moreover, Petitioner argues that certain portions of the Act affecting annual ratings clearly apply to a Speech Language Specialist in that the Act requires (1) more robust evaluations; (2) a regime of four rating categories; (3) constant professional development; (4) the implementation when needed of Corrective Action Plans; (4) an extended period in which a decision to grant tenure are made; and, (5) more expedient reviews of removal decisions through arbitration. There is nothing inimical, Petitioner says, in the application of these portions to the position of Speech and Language Specialists.

Finally[5], Respondent cites Petitioner's job responsibilities which include

> Provid[ing] individual and small intervention sessions with students who have [been] classified [and]
> Conducts classes in language stimulation

Petitioner contends that they are indices teaching and characteristics of a teacher's professional duties.

Opinion:

[5] Petitioner also rejects any claim that the Department's decision to relax time for Petitioner's response to the tenure removal charge is in any way relevant to this dispute.

TEACHNJ was a change of geologic proportions in New Jersey education. Its aim, as Respondent accurately represents, was to improve public education by assuring that even long-tenured teachers continue to be efficient at their profession. Given that goal, it is obvious that the Act, despite its inclusion of principals and others, was principally oriented toward the traditional classroom teacher, and I have little doubt that that position was the prototype for Assemblypersons and Senators considering the bill.

As is evident from the Act, the Legislature effected significant changes in the tenure system. At their heart is the insistence on a rigorous evaluation process with four new rating categories, partially based on "multiple objective measures of student learning" that measure "student growth from one year's measure to the next...", "specific measures" of growth, and standardized assessments, NJAC 18A:6-123, as well as a "calibration" of classroom observations "to ensure that the observation protocols are being implemented...consistently" and a district-wide model rubric for evaluations. (Id.).

All of these are consistent with the evaluation of classroom teachers on a common, district wide basis, and it would not be unexpected for the Legislature to guard against plenary attacks on the results of such evaluations.

However, while possible for use regarding specialists, the evaluative measures spoken of at NJSA 18A:6-123 are far from orthodox methods of judging the performance of individual specialists, most of whom have ever changing and highly individualized student case- loads throughout the year with few students having overlapping objectives. A specialist does not deal with typical class-size groups of students. Rather, they treat a collection of individual diagnoses under Individual Educational Prescriptions, making their achievement nearly impossible to measure by objective instruments designed and normed to assess class-wide group growth which the Legislature obviously favored.

It would hardly be surprising therefore, if the Legislature did not mandate "multiple objective measures of student learning" that provide "specific measures" of growth and the use of "standardized assessments" for specialists, despite the reasonable application of such things to teachers.

In fact, the Legislature did not. Besides never mentioning specialists in Section 25 of the TEACHNJ bill, NJSA 18A:6-17.3, which establishes the rigorous standardized, objective criteria for teachers described above, the Legislature exempted specialists from the restrictions on defenses imposed by Section 23 of the bill, NJSA 18A:6-17.2. Section 23 itself expressly and exclusively refers only to those staff enumerated at NJSA 18A:6-17.3, i. e.. "teachers, principals, assistant principals and vice-principals."

As suggested above, the exemption from restricted defenses is consistent with the view that the Legislature, having placed so much faith in the standardized criteria for teachers and administrators, did not see a need to restrict the defenses of specialists during tenure removal reviews.

For me to hold that defenses for specialists is limited to those of teachers would be to import into the law something the Legislature left out for what appears to be a reasonable cause. To argue, as Petitioner does here, that because Respondent must be covered by NJSA 18A6-17.2 because she is covered by other areas of TEACHNJ is without a basis in law. As Respondent has argued, a statue's intent must begin with its plain language. Jen Elec., supra. Only where language is ambiguous can a tribunal seek further guidance as to the Legislature's intent.

Even were I to examine intent, I do not find that exempting specialists from restricted review vitiates the Legislature's overall goal of improving efficiency in the schoolhouse as to all professionals. Nor does it necessarily impede the Act's avowed goal of stream-lined appeals to tenure removal which is driven by the timing requirements set forth at NJSA 18A:6-17.1, -17.2, and -17.3.

Based on the above, I will enter an Order granting Respondent's Motion that the scope of review in Respondent's challenge to her tenure removal is the traditional just cause standard which would include the inefficiency with which she has been charged.

ORDER

And now this 13th Day of November, 2017 it is hereby ORDERED that Respondent's Motion is Granted and that the standard of review to be used in hearings before the Undersigned Arbitrator is that of "just cause" which must be supported by sufficient and credible evidence, subject to any and all defenses available to Respondent, including evidence supporting mitigation at the penalty stage of the arbitration proceeding.

FOR THE PETITIONER:

FOR THE RESPONDENT:
SPRINGSTEAD & MAURICE, ESQS.

Pursuant to NJSA 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, c.26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109("TEACHNJ"), the tenure charges brought by the Wayne Board of Education ("the District" or "Petitioner") against Donna DeMarco ("DeMarco" or "Respondent") were referred to me by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes for a hearing and Decision on January 13, 2016. I conducted hearings at the District's Offices in Wayne New Jersey, New Jersey on March 3, May 10, June 5, July 27 and August 24, 2017. The parties received extension of time to conduct and complete the hearings based upon the need for records from the state and scheduling issues.

At the hearing, the parties had full and fair opportunity to examine and cross-examine witnesses, introduce documentary evidence and make argument in support of their respective positions. The hearings were transcribed. The parties submitted written closing statements whereupon the record was closed.

THE CHARGES

Respondent is charged with Conduct Unbecoming and Other Just Cause as described in 53 paragraphs in the Board's Statement of Tenure Charges.[1] The substance of these charges alleges: 1) Respondent improperly confined at least one student to a bathroom as a means of punishment and/or behavioral control; 2) Respondent referred to her students as "little assholes" and/or "little douchebags" to other faculty; and 3) Respondent's actions caused publicity that brought the District into disrepute. The undersigned has summarized the charges as they were not written in the form of charges with specifications. The charges are attached to the decision as Attachment "A".

BACKGROUND

Respondent is a tenured pre-school teacher who, most recently, was assigned to Packanack Elementary School. The instant case arises out of allegations of misconduct during the 2015-2016 school year at which time Respondent was responsible for a pre-school class comprised of approximately 16 students, half of whom were special education students or fell on the autism spectrum. Respondent was assisted in the classroom by two paraprofessionals, Kathy Frega and Margaret Hickey.

Respondent's classroom at Packanack was a very large space with an alcove in which a student bathroom was located. The bathroom contained only a toilet and metal shelves. The walls were tiled. The bathroom was a narrow space with a heavy door that opened inward. The sink was located outside the bathroom.

On June 7, 2016, Principal Roger Rogalin received an email from case worker Cynthia Carey requesting a meeting to discuss an issue of concern. Carey told Rogalin that teacher Michelle Littman reported to her that Respondent bragged in the teachers' room she locks students in the bathroom to calm them down. At the direction of the Superintendent, Rogalin began an investigation into the allegation. He conducted interviews on harm. Although Respondent denied placing RG in the bathroom, he determined the Respondent placed RG in the bathroom when he was upset. He found this to be potentially harmful because the child could have put himself "in danger and hurt himself." [Transcript II, p. 145] He believed this was a form of punishment and violated the school's disciplinary code.

Rogalin testified the school placed Respondent on an administrative leave on June 8, 2016. He noted that at that time, the investigation also uncovered allegations Respondent had referred to students in a derogatory manner, using terms such as "little assholes", "little douchebags" and specifically referring to a student with a dirty diaper as "Stinky Pete."

Michelle Littman testified at the hearing and confirmed she reported to Carey a remark made by Respondent regarding her placing kids in the bathroom when they act out. She testified she heard Respondent make a similar statement earlier in the year, but assumed she must have been joking. When she heard it again, she found it disturbing and believed it was unethical. Littman confirmed she also hear Respondent refer to students as little assholes.

Occupational Therapist Ali Lescowicz, Speech Therapist Dana Tengi testified and confirmed the statements they provided to Principal Rogalin and State Investigator Taflinski.

Paraprofessional Kathy Frega also testified. She admitted Respondent had placed RG in the bathroom for 3-5 minutes at a time when he was very disruptive in the classroom.[2] Frega testified the child was approximately four years old and was often disruptive. She testified RG had thrown himself on he on the floor on one occasion in April or May 2016. She noted he was pushing his backpack into other students as well.

Frega testified RG consistently had behavioral issues. She noted they would normally him aside, speak to him, call the principal or child study team if he was too disruptive. On this day, she testified, there was no response from the CST. She testified Respondent asked RG to stand up moved him by the hand toward the bathroom. She testified the student was crying, but did not bang on the door of the bathroom. She noted Respondent left the bathroom area and went back to the other students. Frega testified RG came out of the bathroom and stopped crying. Frega testified she did not tell anyone and did not believe it was necessary.

Frega testified Respondent gave students pet names. She had heard Respondent call a student "Stinky Pete."

Superintendent Toback testified as to the impact of the Respondent's actions within the District. He confirmed he oversaw the investigation and made the decision to place Respondent on administrative leave. He testified in late June numerous news outlets picked up the story after the investigation interviewed parents. He testified he received many calls and communications from outraged parents about Respondent.

[2] Frega initially denied the allegations when she was first interviewed by Rogalin.

As to the decision to terminate Respondent, he noted the investigation raised many concerns. He testified Respondent described her students as assholes and/or douchebags and locked students in bathrooms. Toback testified Respondent's conduct violated numerous District policies. He noted the District implemented a specific Behavior Management System entitled "Handle with Care" [Employer Exhibit 19] which prohibits confinement and requires reporting and review of such incidents.

Respondent, Donna DeMarco testified. She noted she has consistently received above average ratings. Respondent testified she helped develop the "Little Learners Program" in the District. It was the first inclusion classroom for students with IEPs and allowed the District the opportunity to educate these students with general education students.

Respondent testified she is familiar with the behavioral programs and techniques employed by the District. She noted safety is the primary concern. She testified some of the behavioral techniques she employs involve positive reinforcement, such as giving students stars for behavior, small parties for the class, and other positive reinforcing behaviors. She noted there is a Child Study Team (CST) and a consisting behaviorist for support.

Respondent acknowledged using the bathroom as a de-escalation technique for two students during the 2015-2016 school year. She testified one student, KJ was in her class from September until January. She testified he was removed because he needed a more structured environment. She testified on one occasion, he got very agitated because other students were looking at him. She told him to relax and that he can use the bathroom and then wash his hands. Respondent testified the door was always kept open so that paraprofessional Kathy Frega could observe.

Respondent testified she also used the technique for student RG. She testified she recalled one day because RG was very distressed after transitioning from the cafeteria. She testified he was crying and throwing himself to the ground near the cubbies. She testified she initially used "I" statements with him and directed him to the bathroom, told him to use the bathroom and wash his hands after which she would then put lotion on his hands. Respondent testified she left the door open two to three inches so that Frega could watch him. She testified she then went back to the other students.

According to Respondent, she was never told not to use such a technique, although she acknowledged she never specifically discussed it with anyone.

Respondent acknowledged referring to her students on occasion as little assholes or douchebags. She testified she did so out of frustration to other staff members. She apologized for this behavior and testified upon reflection she realized it was wrong.

However, while she acknowledged calling a student Stinky Pete, she testified that is was not a derogatory term. Rather, she testified all her students were given nicknames derived from the movie Toy Story. She testified Stinky Pete is an old prospector in this movie. She did not believe any student took offense. Rather, they enjoyed the names.

Positions of the Parties

Position of the Board

The Board argues it has demonstrated just cause for discharge. It maintains the credible evidence proves Respondent confined at least two students to the bathroom as a form of discipline or punishment. It argues her conduct violates the Board's policies regarding restraint, corporal punishment, and professional conduct.

It contends Respondent's assertion that she used the bathroom as a de-escalation technique is belied by the evidence in this case. It cites Cathy Frega's testimony that Respondent closed the door on students KW and RG when she placed them in the bathroom. The evidence showed the door stuck on the bathroom and was difficult to open. Moreover, it notes Respondent bragged about her actions to colleagues that she locked kids in the bathroom until they calmed down.

Moreover, it maintains Respondent's failure to report her placement of the student in the bathroom belies her contention. It notes the "Handle with Care" program requires reporting of such a technique, and given that she claims the student was acting out in such a disruptive way, it would have been incumbent upon her to do so.

The District notes its expert witness, DiCesare, testified credibly that his review of the interviews in this case that Respondent's conduct violated school policies on professional conduct, and Restraint. It notes he found her conduct to have posed a risk to the students involved. Likewise, it argues the IAUA investigation also found Respondent's actions placed the students in harm.

Likewise, the District argues Respondent's use of derogatory language toward students - such as little assholes and douchebags constitutes unprofessional conduct also subjecting her to discipline. It cites many cases in support of its position.

Finally, the District maintains Respondent's misconduct is a separate ground for discharge as it diminished the public trust of the school system. It cites the numerous news stories regarding Respondent and the outcry from parents in the District.

Position of Respondent

Respondent maintains the District has failed to demonstrate grounds for discharge. It maintains first, the IAIU report specifically provided abuse was "Not Established." It argues this report was investigative and not adjudicative. It notes other arbitrators have found such reports do not establish harm occurred.

Respondent argues the District prematurely concluded Respondent committed misconduct and, thereby pre-determined the outcome of the investigation. It notes Investigator Taflinski's testimony that he was told by Principal Rogolin advised the teacher was suspended and the Superintendent did not want her to return to school the following year.

Respondent argues the District was aware the door to the bathroom stuck and clearly did not believe it constituted a risk since it failed to repair it prior to the instant case. It further argues that any alleged danger posed by any of the clutter seen in pictures of the bathroom was also known to the District.

Respondent maintains her use of the bathroom as part of a de-escalation technique is an appropriate behavioral strategy. It cites its behavioral expert Dr. Spano, who testified that given there was no behavioral plan in place for the students, the decision to use the bathroom for a "time out" was an appropriate strategy.

Respondent maintains the record does not demonstrate the students were harmed in any way. Rather, it asserts, the record evidence demonstrates Respondent was an effective teacher and well-liked by parents.

Moreover, Respondent argues the administration was on notice that she used the bathroom on occasion as a de-escalation technique. She testified prior Vice Principal Cathy Gaynor was aware of an incident with student KJ, where she asked him if he wanted to use the bathroom to calm down. Respondent argues no member of the administration ever told her such a technique violated any policy.

Respondent admits using improper language toward students in the teacher staffroom as a means of venting. It notes Rogalin heard her on one occasion and did not reprimand her. However, Respondent acknowledges it was improper.

Respondent argues the evidence fails to establish she called a student "Stinky Pete" because he wore a dirty diaper. Rather, Respondent contends Stinky Pete was one of many nicknames given to the students based on the characters in the animated movie, Toy Story.

Respondent contends Michelle Littman reported her out of animus because she was going to be transferred the following school year and believed Respondent should have been the teacher selected.

Respondent argues that, to the extent any misconduct is found, termination is too harsh a penalty. Respondent argues her long history of exemplary service must be considered. In addition to numerous prior arbitration decisions, Respondent maintains application of the Fulcomer standard also warrants a lesser penalty. Respondent notes the court in Fulcomer requires certain factors to be considered, such as the impact on the charged teachers career, the longevity of the teacher, the teachers record, prior disciplinary and the gravity of the offense. It maintains examination of these factors warrants a lesser penalty.

Decision

After carefully considering the entire record before me, including my assessment of witnesses' credibility and the probative value of evidence, I find the Board has met its burden under the statute to sustain the charges of Conduct Unbecoming and Other Just Cause for termination. My reasons follow.

The credible record evidence establishes Respondent improperly confined students in the bathroom during the 2015-2016 school year. Respondent acknowledged placing students KW and RG in the bathroom on separate occasions. While she asserts she did so to de-escalate their emotional and potentially dangerous behavior, the credible record evidence establishes her actions violated District policy and placed the students in potentially harmful situations.

District Policy 5561 specifically prohibits the use of restraint against a child for the purpose of punishment. Likewise, the school's corporal punishment policy also prohibits such conduct. All the school's policies provide that confinement can constitute such restraint. Based upon my own inspection of the classroom and bathroom at issue, I find the students were confined when placed in the bathroom.

The bathroom within Respondent's classroom is small and narrow. It has a large heavy door that opens inward close to the toiler. Moreover, the credible evidence establishes the door was prone to sticking at the time. Given that the students were four years old, and the heavy door had to be pulled, placement in the bathroom (even without a lock) constitutes confinement since the student could not easily leave the room.

More importantly, Respondent's testimony established she left the students unsupervised when placing them in the bathroom. Regardless of whether the door was opened two inches or fully closed, as described by Frega, the students were unsupervised when inside. Frega was nowhere near the students and there is no evidence Respondent charged Frega with overseeing them. In fact, Frega testified the bathroom door was closed when RG was in the bathroom.

The potential for harm to the students was substantial. The students in question had behavioral issues according to Respondent and paraprofessional Frega. The record evidence shows they were emotionally distressed when put into the bathroom. The students could have hit their heads on the toilet, gotten their hands caught in the door or any number of foreseeable problems could have arisen with children of such a young age confined to that space.

To the extent that placement in the bathroom could ever be deemed an acceptable de-escalation technique, as described by Specialist Spano, I do not find those conditions to have existed in the instant matter. Spano described its use where the students were closely supervised, which was not the case here.

Moreover, Respondent's failure to report any of the incidents discredits her assertion that the students were placing others in a dangerous situation. The District's behavioral plan requires a teacher to report the situation to administration and if the technique is used more than once to undergo a review. Respondent testified she reported issues to the Child Study Team, but never reported the use of the bathroom on any of these occasions.

In fact, Respondent told other teachers she locked kids in the bathroom until they behaved, which demonstrates this one occasion was not so unusual. I credit Littman's testimony that she heard Respondent mention this more than once.

That the misconduct had an impact is demonstrated by the fact that student RG remembered being put in the bathroom the following school year and reported it to his teacher in October 2016 at his new school.

As to the charges relating to derogatory language, Respondent admits to using inappropriate language to describe her students to other teachers. The evidence does not establish the language was used in front of students.

However, I find insufficient record evidence to find she called a student "Stinky Pete" because he was wearing a dirty diaper. I credit Respondent's explanation she gave students nicknames. Moreover, the record evidence does not indicate the student was offended.

Finally, while I find the negative publicity that resulted from the investigations impacted the school, I find the District has shared culpability in this matter. The news stories indicate that parents were upset because the school had not informed them about the investigation and they did not learn until the state investigator called. It would appear had the District notified parents of an investigation involving their children, the response from parents may have been very different.

Having found Respondent guilty of misconduct, I turn to the issue of penalty. Respondent's improper confinement of special education students to a bathroom is serious misconduct. Foremost in a teacher's responsibility is the need to protect and safeguard their students. This is especially true of special education students who are particularly vulnerable. Respondent on more than one occasion placed the students in potentially harmful situation. The students were unsupervised, while emotionally distraught, in a tiny room with the potential to bump their head become more distraught.

Respondent had numerous alternatives to her course of action. Even if the CST had not responded immediately, she could have moved the child to a chair in another part of the classroom away from other students or gone to the administration for help. Her lack of judgement is a clear instance of unprofessional conduct.

While Respondent's derogatory language in the teacher's room alone would, most likely, not subject her to termination, under these circumstances, I find her conduct is demonstrative of a lack of empathy for her students which contributes to the determination she should not be returned to the classroom.

In reaching this determination, I have considered Respondent's lack of a prior disciplinary history. However, given the severity of her misconduct, the potential harm to her students and the inability of the District to place its trust in her stewardship, I find termination to be the appropriate penalty.

AWARD

The charges of conduct unbecoming and other just cause are substantiated. The District has demonstrated just cause for termination.

STATEMENT OF TENURE CHARGES AND STATEMENT OF EVIDENCE UNDER OATH

TO: Mr. Emidio D'Andrea Business Administrator/Board Secretary
Wayne Board of Education
50 Nellis Drive
Wayne, New Jersey 07470

Mr. D'Andrea:

I, Dr. Mark Toback, Superintendent of Schools of the Wayne Board of Education ("Board"), hereby state, based upon my personal knowledge and upon information, that Donna DeMarco ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher of preschool students in the Wayne Township School District ("District"), should be dismissed from her position for (1) conduct unbecoming and (2) other just cause.

CHARGE ONE: CONDUCT UNBECOMING

1. Respondent is a tenured teacher of preschool students in the District.

2. During the 2015-2016 School Year, Respondent was a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School.

3. On or about Tuesday, June 7, 2016, Ms. Cynthia Carey, a member of the school's preschool child study team, e-mailed Roger R. Rogalin, the Principal of Packanack Elementary School in order to request a meeting. See Exhibit 1.

4. On or about Wednesday, June 8, 2016, at approximately 8:00 A.M., Mr. Rogalin met with Ms. Carey. See Exhibit 1.

5. During the meeting, Ms. Carey stated that, on the evening of Monday, June 6, 2016, Michelle Littman, a preschool teacher at Packanack, informed her that, while in the Packanack Teacher's lounge, she had heard Respondent state that she places children who misbehave in the classroom bathroom. According to Ms. Carey's recollection of her conversation with Ms. Littman, once the child was in the bathroom, Respondent would hold the bathroom room door closed so that the child would be unable to exit. See Exhibit 1.

6. Following the meeting Mr. Rogalin informed the Human Resource Specialist, Claudia Olivo, of the allegations. Thereafter, Ms. Olivo informed District Superintendent, Dr. Mark Toback, of the allegations. See Exhibit 1.

7. While Mr. Rogalin contacted Ms. Olivo, Ms. Carey contacted the Division of Child Protection and Permanency ("DCP&P") to report Respondent's comments. DCP&P declined to investigate the matter. See Exhibit 1.

8. On June 8, 2016, Mr. Rogalin interviewed the following District employees: Ms. Dana Tengi, preschool speech teacher; Ms. Ally Leszkowicz, occupational therapist; Ms. Margaret Hickey, paraprofessional; Ms. Michelle Littman, preschool teacher; Ms. Kim Lippman, preschool teacher; Ms. Jamie Meigh, first grade teacher; and Ms. Jenna Furgaro, first grade teacher. See Exhibit 1.

9. On June 8, 2016, Ms. Leszkowicz informed Mr. Rogalin that a paraprofessional, Ms. Hickey, had reported to her that a student was upset because he had just been locked in a bathroom. Specifically, Ms. Hickey had stated: "You would be upset too if you were locked in the bathroom." See Exhibit 1.

10. On June 8, 2016, Mr. Rogalin interviewed Ms. Littman. During the interview, Ms. Littman recounted hearing Respondent state that she places children who misbehave in the classroom bathroom and that she holds the door closed so that the child is unable to leave. See Exhibit 1.

11. During the interview, Ms. Littman indicated that Ms. Lippman, Ms. Meigh, and Ms. Furgaro were present when Respondent made the aforementioned statement. See Exhibit 1.

12. On June 8, 2016, Mr. Rogalin interviewed Ms. Lippman. During the interview, Ms. Lippman indicated that Respondent had previously admitted to confining students in the bathroom. According to Ms. Lippman, Respondent would talk about holding the door closed while students were in the bathroom. See Exhibit 1.

13. On June 8, 2016, at approximately 11:15 A.M., Mr. Rogalin met with Respondent; her Building Union Representative, Jessica O'Heir; and Assistant Principal, Cathy Gaynor. See Exhibit 1.

14. During the meeting, Respondent was informed of the nature of the allegations against her. Respondent denied the allegations. See Exhibit 1.

15. At the conclusion of the meeting, Respondent was placed on paid administrative leave. See Exhibit 1.

16. On June 10, 2016, a series of follow-up interviews were conducted by Paula Clark, Esq., District Coordinator of Compliance, along with Mr. Rogalin. All employees were interviewed in the presence of union representation. See Exhibit 2.

17. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Carey was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. Ms. Carey reiterated that on June 6, 2016, her co-worker, Ms. Littman, informed her that she had overheard Respondent state the following: "[T]he way I deal with the kids who are acting up to I put them in the bathroom and I hold the door." See Exhibit 2.

18. During the interview process, Ms. Carey further indicated that she has heard from others that Respondent frequently calls her students "little assholes." See Exhibit 2.

19. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Littman was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview, she stated that she had overheard Respondent state the following in the Packanack teacher's lounge: "[T]he way I deal with the kids who are acting up is I put them in the bathroom and I hold the door." See Exhibit 2.

20. Ms. Littman further stated that Respondent had stated that she "[H]eld the door closed until I felt he was ready to come out." See Exhibit 2.

21. Ms. Littman also indicated that Respondent frequently refers to her students as "little assholes" and that she refers to students who wear diapers as "Stinky Pete." See Exhibit 2.

22. During the interview process, Ms. Littman stated that she was afraid of Respondent, as she has undergone a significant change in the past year. See Exhibit 2.

23. Ms. Littman concluded the interview by stating that Respondent is occasionally late to class and that she becomes responsible for Respondent's class when this occurs. See Exhibit 2.

24. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Lippman was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview process, Ms. Lippman acknowledged hearing Respondent refer to her students as "little assholes." See Exhibit 2.

25. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Tengi was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview process, Ms. Tengi stated that she had heard Respondent refer to her students as "little assholes" on at least five occasions. See Exhibit 2.

26. On June 10, 2016, Kathy Frega, a paraprofessional in Respondent's classroom, was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview, Ms. Frega acknowledged that she previously heard Respondent refer to a student as "Stinky Pete." See Exhibit 2.

27. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Hickey, a paraprofessional in Respondent's classroom, was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview, Ms. Hickey acknowledged that she previously heard Respondent refer to a student as "Stinky Pete." See Exhibit 2.

28. On June 10, 2016, Ms. Leszkowicz was interviewed by Mr. Rogalin and Ms. Clark. During the interview, Ms. Leszkowicz indicated that she previously heard Respondent refer to her students as "little assholes" and "little douchebags" in the presence of other District staff. See Exhibit 2.

29. Ms. Leszkowicz reiterated that she had previously heard Ms. Hickey state: "Wouldn't you be upset if you were locked in the bathroom." See Exhibit 2.

30. On June 22, 2016, a second series of interviews were conducted by myself, Mr. Rogalin, Ms. Clark, and Michael Reinknecht, Director of Student Support Services. All employees were interviewed in the presence of union representation. See Exhibit 2.

31. Prior to the interviews, staff were provided with a copy of Board Policy and Regulation 3281 and 4281, Inappropriate Staff Conduct. See Exhibits 2 and 3.

32. On June 22, 2016 and June 23, 2016, Ms. Hickey was again interviewed by me, with Mr. Rogalin, Ms. Clark, and Mr. Reinknecht in attendance. During the interview, she again acknowledged hearing Respondent call a student who wore diapers, "Stinky Pete." See Exhibit 2.

33. On June 22, 2016, Ms. Lippman was interviewed by me, with Mr. Rogalin, Ms. Clark, and Mr. Reinknecht in attendance. During the interview, Ms. Lippman acknowledged hearing Respondent refer to her students as "little assholes" on one or two occasions. See Exhibit 2.

34. On June 22, 2016, Ms. Frega was twice interviewed by me, with Mr. Rogalin, Ms. Clark, and Mr. Reinknecht in attendance. During the second interview, Ms. Frega stated that she had witnessed Respondent place two students in the bathroom as a form of discipline "a few times over the year." See Exhibit 2.

35. Specifically, Ms. Frega stated that she had witnessed Respondent place a student, K.J., in the bathroom at least two times during the year, between September and December. See Exhibit 2.

35. Ms. Frega also stated that she witnessed Respondent place a second student, R.G., in the bathroom as a form of discipline two or three times during the second half of the school year. See Exhibit 2.

36. On June 22, 2016, Respondent's actions were again reported to DCP&P.

37. On June 23, 2016, The Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit ("IAIU") of DCP&P initiated an investigation into the allegation that Respondent had inappropriately confined a child to the bathroom as a form of discipline. In light of the confidentiality requirements contained in N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.10a, information regarding the investigatory process and corresponding documentation have been not yet been provided to the District.

38. Following the incident, multiple news outlets reported that a Packanack preschool teacher had locked two students inside a bathroom.

39. On June 28, 2016, CBS New York published an article entitled: "NJ Preschool Teacher Accused Of Locking 2 Students Inside Bathroom." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of locking at least two students, ages 3-4, inside a bathroom as a form of punishment. The report was also televised by CBS 2 New York. See Exhibit 4.

40. On June 28, 2016, NJ.com published an article entitled: "N.J. Teacher Allegedly Locked Toddlers in Bathroom, Report Says." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of punishing at least two students, ages 3-4, by locking them in a bathroom. See Exhibit 5.

41. On June 28, 2016, New York Daily News published an article entitled: "N.J. Preschool Teacher Accused of Locking Students in Bathroom." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of punishing at least two students, ages 3-4, by locking them in a bathroom. See Exhibit 6.

42. On June 29, 2016, the Wayne Patch published an article entitled: "Wayne Teacher Accused of Locking Preschool Student in Bathroom, Parent Says." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of locking at least one student inside a bathroom as a form of punishment. The article further indicates that on at least one occasion Respondent spanked a boy on the butt, pushed him into the bathroom and locked him in it until he calmed down. See Exhibit 7.

43. On June 29, 2016, New Jersey 101.5 published an article entitled: "Teacher Accused of Locking Wayne Preschoolers in Bathroom as Punishment." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of locking at least one student inside a bathroom as a form of punishment. The article further indicates that on at least one occasion spanked a boy on the butt, pushed him into the bathroom and locked him in it until he calmed down. See Exhibit 8.

44. On June 29, 2016, North New Jersey News published an article entitled: "State, Wayne District Probe Allegations Teacher Locked Students in Bathroom as Punishment." Within same, the article notes that a preschool teacher at Packanack Elementary School has been accused of punishing at least two students, ages 3-5, by locking them in a bathroom. See Exhibit 9.

45. The press coverage brought on by Respondent's actions has adversely impacted the morale and efficiency of the District and has begun to negatively impact public respect and confidence on the operation of the District.

46. On August 5, 2016, the IAIU issued a findings report indicating that the allegations against Respondent were "Not Established, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21. A finding of "Not Established" means that while "[t]here is not a preponderance of the evidence that the child is an abused or neglected child as defined by statute,...evidence indicates that the child was harmed or placed at risk of harm." See Exhibits 10 and 11.

47. On September 2, 2016, Ms. Clark completed a report of the allegations levied against Respondent. See Exhibit 2.

48. Pursuant to same, Ms. Clark made the following determinations:

- Based upon interviews with District staff, Respondent likely stated that she held the door closed while a student was in the bathroom.
- Respondent used inappropriate language on a regular basis to refer to children.
    - Specifically, Respondent referred to students as "little assholes" and "little douchebags" on a regular basis.
    - Respondent referred to a student wearing a diaper as "Stinky Pete."

See Exhibit 2.

49. On September 23, 2016, the District was served with a Tort Claim Notice on behalf of one of Respondent's students, R.G., by his parents. Within same, the student's parents indicated that Respondent locked their son "in a bathroom as a measure of discipline for an undetermined period of time." See Exhibit 12.

50. Within same, R.G.'s parents assert that their son has suffered psychological damage as a result of Respondent's action. See Exhibit 12.

51. Respondent's actions are in violation of Board Policy and Regulation 5561, Use of Physical Restraints, which provides guidance for restricting the movement of District students, as well as Board Policy and Regulation 3217, Corporal Punishment, which prohibits the use of fear when disciplining a student. See Exhibits 13 and 14.

52. On October 24, 2016, a student at Theunis Dey Elementary School, R.G. shared with his classmates that he was locked in the bathroom during the 2015-2016 school year while attending Packanack Elementary School. In response, a second student, B.S., shared that he had been locked in the bathroom during the 2015-2016 school year as well. This information was reported to administration by the student's teacher, Char-Len Gorski. See Exhibit 15.

53. Upon receiving this information, School Principal Necole Jadick, as well as Anti-Bullying Specialist Josephine Ramirez, informed DCP&P, the Passaic County Prosecutor's Office, and the Wayne Township Police Department of this newly obtained information. See Exhibit 15.

CHARGE TWO: OTHER JUST CAUSE

54. All statements in Charge One above are incorporated herein by reference.

The aforesaid facts demonstrate Respondent warrants dismissal from her position as a tenured preschool teacher in the District for (1) conduct unbecoming, and (2) other just cause

V.	:	DECISION ON
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	APPLICATION FOR EMERGENT RELIEF
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, the sound recording of proceedings at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and the recommended Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed. Upon such review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons set forth in the recommended Order – that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate entitlement to emergent relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6.

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the OAL denying petitioner's application for emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The present proceeding has fully disposed of all issues in dispute between the parties; therefore, no further proceedings are necessary. The petition of appeal is dismissed with the request that the Clerk of the OAL return the file to the agency pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.3.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[1]

GINA CINOTTI,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS COUNTY,
Respondent.

Robert M. Tosti, Esq., for petitioner

Adam S. Herman, Esq., for respondent (Adams, Gutierrez & Lattiboudere, attorneys)

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

Gina Cinotti (petitioner) filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking emergent relief for a fifteen-day extension for the time to respond to the tenure charges served upon the petitioner by the respondent. In conjunction with the petition, petitioner filed a motion for emergent relief based upon the applicable legal standard.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) and filed on October 23, 2017, for determination of the motion for emergent relief. The Borough of Netcong Board of Education (Board or respondent) filed papers in opposition to the motion for emergent relief on October 25, 2017. Oral argument with reference to petitioner's motion for emergent relief was conducted on October 27, 2017, at the OAL. For the record, in a conference call between the parties held on Wednesday, October 25, 2017, it was agreed to move oral argument until the morning of Friday, October 27, 2017, and the parties have agreed to permit the petitioner to file her written position with the School District until Monday, October 30, 2017, at noon for its consideration, despite the deadline of the close of business on Friday, October 27, 2017.

Petitioner filed her motion for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(a). As set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), the factors to consider regarding an application for emergent relief are as follows:

> 1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;
>
> 2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;
>
> 3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and
> 4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

In her verified petition, petitioner made various factual assertions. Petitioner also filed a motion for emergent relief. Respondent submitted a statement of facts and brief supported by exhibits attached. The parties differ as to their conclusions and certain assertions, but the statements of fact reflect essentially the same course of events. Respondent's statement of facts is concise and accurate and is adopted herein. The facts as set forth in respondent's statement are as follows:

1. Dr. Gina Cinotti (Cinotti) is employed by the School District as the Chief School Administrator (CSA).

2. Cinotti has been represented by her current counsel, Robert Tosti, Esq., during the course of an employment dispute between the parties.

3. By letter dated September 25, 2017, Derlys Gutierrez, Esq., inquired as to the status of a possible separation agreement between the School District and Cinotti.

4. Since the School District had not yet received a response from Cinotti, Ms. Gutierrez forwarded draft tenure charges the respondent intended on filing to Mr. Tosti.

5. The above letter advised Tosti that the District was planning to formally serve the tenure charges on October 6, 2017.

6. By letter dated October 10, 2017, the School District formally served the above referenced tenure charges on Cinotti. These charges were received by Cinotti on October 12, 2017.

7. Based on the above date of service, Cinotti's position statement, if she opts to file same, is due to be served on the School District by the end of the business day on Friday, October 27, 2017.

8. In a letter, dated October 16, 2017, Tosti requested a fifteen-day extension of time to submit a written statement of position.

9. In a reply letter from Gutierrez dated October 16, 2017, Tosti was advised that the School District did not consent to the extension request.

10. In a letter, dated October 17, 2017, Tosti asked the School District to reconsider its decision not to agree to an extension of time to submit a written statement of position on behalf of Cinotti.

11. By letter dated October 18, 2017, Gutierrez advised Tosti that the School District discussed and considered his request for a reconsideration and again the School District did not agree to grant an extension. Tosti was also advised that the Board of Education was holding a special meeting on October 30, 2017 to consider the tenure charges for certification to the Commissioner of Education.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

The standards which must be met by the moving party in an application for emergent relief are embodied in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 and Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Emergency relief may only be granted if the judge determines that:

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying the petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater harm than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

It is well-established that the petitioner who is making the application for emergent relief must satisfy all four prongs of the Crowe test, set forth herein above.

With reference to prong number one, "irreparable harm" is defined as the type of harm "that cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 132-33. In addition, the irreparable harm standard contemplates that the harm be both substantial and immediate. Subcarrier Communications v. Day, 229 N.J. Super. 634, 638 (App. Div. 1977). However, pecuniary damages may sometimes be inadequate because of the nature of the injury or the right affected. Crowe, supra, 90 N.J. at 133. For example, in Crowe the Court determined neither an unwarranted eviction nor reduction to poverty could be compensated adequately by monetary damages awarded after a distant hearing. Ibid.

Petitioner argues that she will suffer irreparable harm if immediate relief (the requested extension of time) is not granted because her career is at stake and "there is no reason for the Netcong Board to deny its CSA the right to respond comprehensively to the charges." (Petitioners' Brief, ¶ 4.) According to petitioner, Cinotti believes she should be permitted adequate time to respond to this potentially career threatening process. (Id. at ¶ 4.) Petitioner further maintains that she needs to be able to show the full membership of the Netcong Board of Education through her written submission that the charges are not warranted.

As set forth in the facts above, Cinotti has been in possession of a draft of tenure charges since September 25, 2017 and the charges were formally served upon her on October 12, 2017, which were basically the same as the former. Thus, as pointed out by the respondent, Cinotti had more than sufficient time to respond to same without the need for any extension. As further set forth in the respondent's submission, the action to be taken by the Board of Education on October 30, 2017, will be to consider as to whether to certify the tenure charges against Cinotti. The Board does not have the power to terminate Cinotti and thus end her employment at this point in time. If the charges are certified, they will then be filed with the Commissioner of Education and then assigned to an arbitrator, who will then render a decision on the charges. In the event that the arbitrator does not sustain the tenure charges, or decides not to terminate Cinotti, the petitioner will be entitled to monetary relief from the respondent to cover any period of unpaid suspension. At the time the Commissioner had the certified charges, the petitioner will have ample opportunity to submit and argue her side of the charges.

Accordingly, the petitioner has failed to identify any harm, let alone any irreparable harm, she will suffer if her motion for emergent relief is not granted. For instance, petitioner do not allege any specific irreparable harm other than broad allegations of her career at stake and potential career threatening process if petitioner's motion is not granted. Petitioner has also failed to show how she has been or will be irreparably harmed by the Board's failure to grant the extension to submit a position response to the allegations and charges. It should be noted that the petitioner's dire need for an extension must be placed, to some extent, at the feet of the petitioner.

At the hearing on their motion, petitioner argued that the respondent unwillingness to consent to the extension constitutes irreparable harm as her reputation will be harmed even if not supported by the Commissioner. Despite the petitioner's argument, the petitioner has not pointed to any statutory provision which requires the School Board to grant the requested extension, especially after the petitioner had the information since the end of September 2017, and provided the statutory time to the petitioner to respond.

Finally, even if the Board's actions, as alleged, constituted irreparable harm, petitioners cannot show that they will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted. Specifically, the Board may or may not certify the tenure charges and the arbitrator may or may not uphold such charges. This prevents the petitioner from showing that she will suffer irreparable harm if the Board is required to give an extension for the petitioner to file its position.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that she will suffer irreparable harm if emergent relief is not granted.

Consideration of petitioner's motion for emergent relief must also address the second factor which is whether the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Petitioner relies on N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.4(f) for the position that once the tenure charge process itself, reaches the Commissioner stage, it permits extensions of time for good cause. Without further explanation, the petitioner then cites, Berkowitz v. Soper, 443 N.J. Super. 391 (App. Div. 2016) for the proposition that a failure to grant a "brief adjournment" for a medical condition was reversible error. There is no direct claim in this case in the petition or in the motion, including the certification of counsel, nor the supporting brief which fully explains any medical condition for Cinotti. The petitioner fails to advocate that a medical condition is the basis for the need for the requested extension, instead the petitioner relies primarily on Cinotti's pre-planned vacation.

Respondent cites the procedural statute which sets forth the manner in which tenure charges are served and heard. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. See also N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1(b)3. It seems clear from the facts of this case, that the respondent has adhered to the process so directed therein. There is no requirement set forth in those laws and regulations directing the respondent to grant an extension of time to an employee who was served with tenure charges, nor has the petitioner pointed to any provision therein that requires such an extension.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate that her legal right to her claim is settled. It follows that petitioner has not demonstrated that the legal right underlying her claim is settled.

The next factor is whether petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)3. Here, petitioner lacks a legal theory to support his petition, as Cinotti states that this third factor is not implicated as this is a procedural issue only. It follows that petitioner has not demonstrated a likelihood of prevailing on the merits.

The final requirement is that when the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, petitioner will suffer greater harm than respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b)4. Here, petitioner has not established that she will suffer any real harm in this case. Petitioner had and will have adequate time to submit a comprehensive response to the charges she had since September 25, 2017. Respondent has agreed to extend the deadline for the petitioner's submission until noon on Monday, October 30, 2017, despite the statutory deadline at 5:00 p.m. on Friday, October 27, 2017. It follows that petitioner has not established that she will suffer greater harm if the requested relief is not granted.

In order to prevail on a motion for emergent relief, the movant must satisfy all four requirements under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b). Here, petitioner does not satisfy any of the four requirements. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that petitioner does not satisfy the applicable standard for emergent relief.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief is DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Attorneys for Hudson County Schools of Technology "HCST")

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF MICHELE PERITO, HUDSON COUNTY SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY ("HCST"), HUDSON COUNTY, AGENCY.	STATE OF NEW JERSEY NEW JERSEY COMMISSIONER EDUCATION/ OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW Docket No.: 163-7/17 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

IT IS HEREBY STIPULATED AND AGREED by the parties and their respective attorneys that this matter shall be settled in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 as follows:

1. Michele Perito ("Perito") is a tenured employee holding the position of Janitor Maintenance and is employed by the Hudson County Schools of Technology ("HCST"), in the County of Hudson since August 2008.

2. The New Jersey First Act, ("Act") N.J.S.A. 52:14-7 (L. 2011, Chapter 70) requires that all public employees appointed, on or after September 1, 2011, to be residents of the State of New Jersey.

3. On June 6, 2017, the Board filed with Joseph M. Muniz, the Board Secretary, Tenure Charges and a Statement of Evidence against Perito alleging that he was a legal resident of the State of Pennsylvania in violation of the Act.

4. Copies of the Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence were served upon Perito. Upon notice to Perito, on July 21, 2017, the HCST approved a resolution certifying the charges by a majority vote of the full membership of the HCST. Perito was not suspended at that time. The certified tenure charges were mailed to the Commissioner on July 21, 2017.

5. On or about August 9, 2017, Perito filed an Answer to the Tenure Charges. The Commissioner referred the matter to Tia Schneider Denenberg to arbitrate the matter pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109.

6. On or about June 13, 2017, Perito filed an Application for Exemption from the provisions of the New Jersey First Act. The HCST filed opposition to this application. In that application, Perito admitted that he resided at 185 Dover Drive, Bushkill, Pennsylvania (the "Property"). On September 12, 2017, a hearing was held by the Employee Residency Review Committee of the Department of Labor and Workforce Development ("Review Committee"). At that hearing, Perito testified that he resided in Pennsylvania. The Committee denied her application for exemption from the New Jersey First Act on the grounds that based on the evidence presented and arguments made, Perito did not demonstrate a "critical need" or "hardship" which would warrant an exemption.

7. Based on the HCST's investigation of this matter, and the submission and testimony of Perito for exemption, it is clear that Perito was in violation of the Act. By way of example, the following events and/or documents (previously submitted with the tenure charges and opposition to exemption papers) evidence that by February of 2017, Perito was a resident of Pennsylvania for purposes of the Act:

a. Perito is the owner of the Property where he resides with his family

b. By letter dated February 1, 2017, Perito informed the payroll department at the Board that he was moving to Pennsylvania permanently and was claiming exemption from withholding of NJ gross income tax. His address at the top of that letter is the Property.

c. On February 1, 2017, Perito executed an Employee's Certificate of Nonresidence in New Jersey in which he declared, under penalty of perjury, that he was a resident of Pennsylvania.

d. A search of the voter registration website of the State of Pennsylvania indicates that Perito is registered to vote in Pike County, Pennsylvania and that his status is active.

e. The Application for Exemption lists Perito's address as the Property and at the hearing, Perito testified that he is a resident of Pennsylvania.

8. After the ruling by the Review Committee, the arbitrator and counsel for the parties conferenced the matter. All parties concluded that Perito could not comply with the Act and, therefore, was ineligible for continued employment by the HCST. To continue with the matter through discovery and hearing could not change that conclusion.

9. As a result of the foregoing, the parties agreed that Perito shall be terminated from employment by the HCST effective October 1, 2017. He will retain his rights to a pension under applicable law, and his rights to accumulated sick and/or vacation pay (if any) under applicable law and contract. To the extent that Perito is entitled to any reimbursement for sick and/or vacation pay, that determination shall be made by the HCST and payment tendered within 45 days of the approval of this Stipulation by the Commissioner and arbitrator. As Perito was terminated he will qualify to collect unemployment benefits and the HCST shall not object to the collection of such benefits.

10. The Act constitutes the public policy of the State of New Jersey and requires that employees be bona fide residents of New Jersey. Settlement of this matter is in furtherance of the public policy set forth in the Act.

11. This Stipulation of Settlement is conditioned upon and subject to approval by the HCST. The Stipulation will be presented to the Board upon agreement by the parties as to the terms thereof. The HCST will provide to the attorney for Perito and the arbitrator a copy of the Resolution approving the settlement.

12. The parties agree that the Stipulation may be executed in counterparts. The individual executed copies of this Stipulation, taken together, shall constitute a fully executed copy of this Stipulation.

I hereby declare that my attorney has reviewed with me the terms of this Stipulation and that I execute the Stipulation understanding of its terms and conditions and as my voluntary act.

Procedural Statement

1. On January 7, 2016, pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:28-5 and 18A:6-10, Olga Hugelmeyer, the Elizabeth Board of Education Superintendent, filed with Harold E. Kennedy, Jr, the Board Secretary/School Business Administrator, Sworn Tenure Charges and a Sworn Statement Statement of Evidence against Niecy Della Corte (hereinafter "Teacher"), employed by the Board as a tenured teacher. Superintendent Hugelmeyer charged the Teacher with Unbecoming Conduct and/or Just Cause Including Misconduct and Dishonesty Warranting Dismissal and/or Reduction in Salary of a Board of Education employee based on an OFAC evaluation following administration of the 2012 NY ASK 3 Test.
2. On January 7, 2016, the above documents were sent to the Teacher by Federal Express, Certified Mail, and Regular mail, along with a statement of her rights to submit a Written Statement of Position and a statement of Evidence.
3. On February 18, 2016, after considering the charges and evidence and the Teacher's response, at a duly convened meeting and in closed executive session, the Board determined there was probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the Charges and that the Sworn Tenure Charges were sufficient, if credited, to warrant dismissal and/or reduction of salary of the Teacher
4. On March 3, 2016, the attorneys for the Board sent to M. Kathleen Duncan, Director, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, New Jersey Department of Education, the Sworn Charges, Certification of Determination and Proof of Service upon the Teacher and attorney.

5. On March 7, 2016, Director Duncan contacted me to determine availability and on by letter of March 14, 2016 appointed me to hear and decide this tenure matter.

6. On March 14, 2016, undersigned by email contacted the attorneys for the parties to set up a conference call the following day.

7. As a result of the conference call of March 15, 2016, the parties reached the following stipulations, as outlined in the following email from the undersigned:

> The parties are in settlement discussions. They have agreed to set the first two hearing dates, with the understanding that approximately 4 more dates will be needed if the matter does not settle.
> First Hearing: By conference call, April 25, 2016 @ 2 p.m.
> Second Hearing: Evidentiary Hearing. May 6, 2016
> Subsequent Hearings: Approximately 4, TBD.

8. On March 18, 2016 the undersigned inquired of the attorneys by email whether the discussions were fruitful, but learned the discussions had been rescheduled.

9. On April 25, 2016, the date of the next conference call, Attorney Gail Oxfeld Kanef informed me the parties had reached a settlement:

> I am writing just to confirm that we will have a conference call with you this afternoon at 2 pm as our first hearing date in the above matter. The good news is that the parties have agreed to the terms of a settlement and are working on the paperwork.

10. On May 25, 2016 Attorney Rottenberg by email send me a copy of the settlement agreement, writing:

> Attached is a copy of the settlement agreement that the parties are working to have signed/finalized. Once we have a signed contract, we will send you a copy.

11. On May 25, 2016, by email, I replied as follows:

> Congratulations on your settlement,
> When the final document is signed, please forward so I can send it to Kathleen Duncan.

12. On June 27, 2016, by email to both attorneys, I renewed my request for a signed copy of the settlement agreement.
13. On or about August 4, after an email from Director Duncan, I renewed my request to the parties for a signed copy.
14. While I had been told the signed copy existed, I was unable to obtain a copy from the attorneys, despite requests, and could not issue a brief award without the signed document showing the matter was in fact settled.
15. After subsequent communications to me from Director Duncan, and phone calls by me to the law firm for the Board, on February 24, 2017, Attorney Joseph Castellucci, Jr. informed me there had been a change in attorneys assigned the case, and attached the signed copy of the settlement agreement.

The Settlement Agreement Is In the Public Interest and Is Approved

1. The Board and the Teacher were both represented by attorneys who are experienced and competent in handling teacher termination cases.
2. The Settlement Agreement contains the usual protections and provisions: "Tenure Charges Moot/No Further Board Action"; "Resignation"; "No Admissions"; "No Further Compensation/Benefits"; "Leave Period"; "Due Diligence"; "Release"; "Inquiries"; "Non-Disparagement"; "Surrender of Board Property"; "Board Approval"; "Assent to Terms"; Successors and Assigns"; "Public Interest"; "Entire Agreement"; "Severability"; "Governing Law."
3. As a result of the Settlement Agreement, both parties resolved the dispute amicably and avoided the burden and costs of litigation.

4. The terms of the Settlement Agreement are fair to both sides and are in the public interest.

5. Under the terms of the Settlement Agreement, which the Teacher signed on May 10, 2016, she tendered her "irrevocable resignation effective June 30, 2016 from all employment with the Elizabeth Board of Education." On May 12, 2016, the Board passed a "RESOLUTION ACCEPTING RESIGNATION" which 1) Approves the "Separation Agreement"; 2) Accepts the Teacher's "irrevocable resignation effective June 30, 2016"; and 3) "Authorizes the Board President and School Business Administrator/Board Secretary to execute the Employment Settlement Agreement on behalf of the board...." Those signatures were signed and dated August 4, 2016.

6. The Separation Agreement states that because the teacher "does not wish for the Board to proceed to a hearing but intends to continue employment through and resign effective June 30, 2016."

7. The Separation Agreement states that following the Teacher's fulfillment of the terms of settlement, "the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed withdrawn, and no further action shall be initiated by the Board regarding the underlying charges."

8. The Separation Agreement states that "the parties, now desiring to resolve the within matter amicably and without the need for further litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein."

9. The Separation Agreement states that it shall not "be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by any of the parties ...."

10. The Separation Agreement states that the teacher had been on an unpaid administrative leave of absence from February 23, 2016 through March 31, 2016; and that she shall be entitled to salary and benefits from April 1, 2016 to June 30, 2016.

AWARD

I conclude the settlement is consistent with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6.

The terms of the Separation Agreement, having negotiated by competent counsel representing the interests of their parties, and are fair and balanced to both parties, and reflect the desire of both parties, and are in the public interest to avoid the cost of litigation, are hereby approved.

EMPLOYMENT SEPARATION AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Agreement and Release ("Agreement") is entered into and effective as of the 10th day of May, 2016 by and between the Elizabeth Board of Education ("Board") and Neicy Della Corte.

WHEREAS, the Board is a body politic and corporate, organized and existing by virtue of the laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A: 11-1, which is entrusted with maintaining and conducting the public schools of said school district; and

WHEREAS, the Board has its administrative offices located at 500 North Broad Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey 07028; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Della Corte, a tenured teacher employed by the Board, has her current address located at 366 Salem Road Union, New Jersey 07083; and

WHEREAS, on or about January 7, 2016, Olga Hugelmeyer, Superintendent of Schools, filed Sworn Tenure Charges, together with a Sworn Statement of Evidence in support of the charges, against Ms. Della Corte, with the Board; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 18, 2016, the Board certified the Charges to the Commissioner of Education; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Della Corte does not wish for the Board to proceed to a hearing regarding the subject tenure charges, but intends to continue employment through and resign effective June 30, 2016; and

WHEREAS, the parties, now desiring to resolve the within matter amicably and without the need for further litigation, while achieving the goals of both parties, hereby stipulate to settle same, subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein; and

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties hereby agree, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein, the legal sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, as follows:

1. TENURE CHARGES TO BE MOOT/NO FURTHER BOARD ACTION

The Board agrees that upon execution of the within Agreement by the parties and Ms. Della Corte's fulfillment of the obligations as set forth herein, that the subject tenure charges shall be moot and shall be deemed withdrawn, and that no further action shall be initiated by the Board regarding the underlying charges. The Board reserves all rights in the event this Agreement is breached by Ms. Della Corte, as well as with respect to any third party claims that may be made against the Board as a result of any acts and/or omissions by Ms. Della Corte during her employment with the Board. Ms. Della Corte retains her rights to enforce this agreement should the Board breach same.

2. RESIGNATION

Ms. Della Corte, by signing this Agreement, hereby tenders her irrevocable resignation (annexed hereto as Attachment A) effective June 30, 2016. Ms. Della Corte shall not be responsible for providing the Board with sixty (60) days' notice of her irrevocable resignation. Ms. Della Corte's resignation shall be irrevocable upon approval of this Agreement by the Board. Ms. Della Corte agrees that she will not seek any future employment or consultant relationship with the Board in perpetuity and that the Board has no obligation, contractual or otherwise, to re-hire or re-employ her.

3. NO ADMISSIONS

This Agreement is entered into for the sole purpose of resolving issues related to Ms. Della Corte's employment, and neither the execution, delivery, nor performance of this Agreement, nor Ms. Della Corte's resignation shall constitute or be construed at any time or for any purpose to be an admission of liability or wrongdoing by any of the parties; the parties further agree that neither this Agreement and Release nor Ms. Della Corte's resignation shall be used as evidence in any judicial, administrative, or quasi-judicial proceedings, except to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

4. NO FURTHER COMPENSATION/BENEFITS

Prior to the effective date of Ms. Della Corte's resignation, she shall be entitled to salary and benefits during the period April 1, 2016 through June 30, 2016. She shall be entitled to no further compensation or fringe benefit of any kind with the exception of any summer pay to which she is entitled. Ms. Della Corte specifically waives her right to any additional pay and benefits, except for any [illegible] which she may lawfully be entitled under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA"). Ms. Della Corte represents that as of the date of this agreement, she has not filed and does not intend to file any Workers' Compensation claim related to her employment with the Board.

5. LEAVE PERIOD

The parties recognize that during the period February 23, 2016 through March 31, 2016 Ms. Della Corte has been on an unpaid administrative leave of absence.

6. DUE DILIGENCE

The Board shall cooperate fully with the Pension Board and/or any other State or Local governmental body and comply promptly and completely with all requests and requirements in conjunction with Ms. Della Corte's future pension application.

7. RELEASE

In exchange for the above consideration, Ms. Della Corte, her heirs and assigns hereby irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and forever discharge any and all claims or rights stemming from the facts and circumstances which gave rise to the tenure charges referred to herein or the basis for same, whether known or unknown, which they have or may have against the Board, personally and officially, individually and collectively, its past and present Board members, all officers and administrators, its attorneys, agents and employees, personally and officially, as well as their successors, and assigns, including, but not limited to any and all claims for attorney's fees, back pay or front pay, any claims for emotional distress or pain and suffering, any and all claims involving tax liability stemming from this Agreement, and any and all claims arising under any federal, state or local ordinance, regulation or law including, but not limited to, the New Jersey and Federal Constitutions, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1871 and 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Workers' Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law, the Employer-Employee Relations Act, any collective negotiations agreement, any common law claim and any and all other claims that could be initiated in any venue, for harassment, discrimination or retaliation of any kind, breach of promise, misrepresentation, negligence, fraud, estoppel, defamation, violation of public policy, wrongful or constructive discharge, or any other tort, contractual or quasi-contractual claim. Specifically exempted from this release are any claims arising under the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34: 15-1 et seq., for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to COBRA, and any claims concerning enforcement of this agreement.

8. INQUIRIES

The Board agrees not to make any disparaging remarks regarding Ms. Della Corte in response to any future employment inquiries and will limit any statements made, either orally or in writing, to confirming the dates of Ms. Della Corte's employment within the District, the amount of Ms. Della Corte's salary in the final year of her employment, and the position(s) that Ms. Della Corte held with the District. Nothing herein shall be deemed to limit the Board's actions in compliance with the Open Public Records Act, or its obligation to respond fully and accurately to any and all inquiries from State agencies, such as, without limitation, the Public Employees Retirement System, the State Department of Education and the State Board of Examiners and its agents.

9. NON-DISPARAGEMENT

The parties and their agents shall refrain from public negative comments regarding each other, and each other's employees and/or agents. However, nothing in this Agreement shall be construed to limit Ms. Della Corte or the Board and its agents' obligation to provide accurate information in response to legitimate requests for public information, including copies of the Tenure Charge documents, nor to provide information requested by various State Agencies, including, but not limited to, the State Department of Education, the State Board of Examiners and its agents, the Division of Pensions and Benefits and the Unemployment Compensation Board and/or their agents

10. SURRENDER OF BOARD PROPERTY

Ms. Della Corte shall surrender all school keys and property in her possession to the Superintendent of Schools or her designee. If necessary, the Superintendent of Schools shall arrange an appointment for Ms. Della Corte to retrieve her personal property.

11. BOARD APPROVAL

This Agreement is subject to Board approval. If approved, the Board President is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board.

12. ASSENT TO TERMS

Ms. Della Corte hereby acknowledges that she enters into this Agreement with a full understanding of her rights and that she was fully informed of the implications of this Agreement by her attorney, and does so without duress, of her own free will and volition.

Ms. Della Corte further acknowledges that she was given the opportunity to fully consider this Agreement for a period of up to twenty-one (21) days and was given seven (7) days from the execution of this document to revoke this Agreement, by delivering written notification to Jenna A. Rottenberg, Esq., Florio Perrucci Steinhardt & Fader, LLC, 235 Broubalow Way, Phillipsburg, New Jersey 08865. It is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, it will not be effective or enforceable and Ms. Della Corte will not be entitled to the consideration described herein. Furthermore, it is understood that if this Agreement is revoked, the subject/underlying tenure charges shall be reinstated and the Board will not be obligated to re-serve Ms. Della Corte and/or her attorney with a copy of same but may consider and certify, if it so chooses, said tenure charges at its next Board of Education meeting following said revocation.

13. SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS

This Agreement shall be binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of the parties and their respective successors and assigns.

14. PUBLIC INTEREST

This proposed settlement will serve the public interest. As a result of Ms. Della Corte having tendered her irrevocable letter of resignation, the Board will not have to engage in litigation related to her employment.

15. ENTIRE AGREEMENT

This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matters herein, and supersedes and integrates any and all prior representations, negotiations, discussions, and understandings and agreements, whether oral or written. This Agreement shall not be amended, changed or modified, except in a writing signed by all parties. Each party acknowledges that the other party, nor any agent or attorney or the other party, have made any promise, representation or warranty whatsoever, express or implied, not contained in this Agreement to induce it to execute this Agreement.

16. SEVERABILITY

If any non-material portion of this Agreement shall be determined by any court agency of competent jurisdiction to be contrary to law, then it shall be deemed to be severed from the remainder of this agreement, which shall continue in full force and effect. Should any material provision be stricken by a court or agency of competent jurisdiction, then the entire Agreement shall by null and void, ab initio.

17. GOVERNING LAW

This Agreement and all provisions hereof shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of New Jersey.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the signatures and/or seals of the parties or their duly authorized representatives have been set forth on the dates indicated below:

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF OCEAN CITY, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:	ORDER
RESPONDENT.	:

On October 2, 2014, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner approved a settlement in which E.H. agreed to pay Eight Thousand Three Hundred Sixty Five Dollars ($8,365.00) in monthly installments of $348.54. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that E.H. had failed to comply with the terms of the settlement after making five payments, leaving an outstanding balance of Six Thousand Six Hundred Twenty Two Dollars and Thirty Cents ($6,622.30), and it requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessments on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. In response to the Board's request, E.H. submitted documentation indicating that she had made six payments and has an outstanding balance of Six Thousand Two Hundred Seventy Three Dollars and Thirty Cents ($6,273.30). Thereafter, the Board acknowledged that it had erroneously omitted one payment from its calculation, and agreed that the outstanding balance is $6,273.30. E.H. then urged the Commissioner not to take legal action because she is undergoing a financial hardship and is unable to pay the total amount at the current time, but will attempt to resume her monthly payments to the best of her ability. The Commissioner notes that according to the settlement agreement, the final payment was to be made no later than August 31, 2016, more than one year ago.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Ellen Haviland is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $6,273.30, which represents the outstanding balance of the payment agreed upon by the parties in a settlement agreement that was approved by the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

Re: Ali Feti v. Board of Education of the Borough of Netcong, Morris County, et al., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 14826-13; Agency Dkt. No. 231-9/13

Dear Counsel:

I have reviewed the Appellate Division's decision dated August 8, 2017 (August 2017) in the above-captioned matter. In the August 2017 decision, the Appellate Division affirmed the Commissioner's decision dated January 14, 2016 (January 2016) finding that at the time of his discharge, the petitioner – Ali Feti – was not a tenured custodian in the Netcong School District (District), and that his claims to reinstatement and back pay due to a violation of his due process rights were meritless. The Appellate Division also found that a remand of this matter was required for the limited purpose of addressing the discrepancy between the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) and the Commissioner's statements of the payment due from the Netcong Board of Education (Board) to the petitioner, relating to his salary for the 2012-2013 school year and his accrued vacation time.

It is undisputed that the petitioner was paid $45,000.00 for the 2012-2013 school year – his final year of employment as a custodian in the District. At the hearing at the Office of Administrative Law, the Board conceded that the petitioner should have been paid $46,000.00 for the 2012-2013 school year in accordance with the Board's resolution. Therefore, the Board was required to compensate the petitioner in the amount of $1,000.00. Additionally, when the petitioner's employment was not renewed at the end of the 2012-2013 school year, he was paid for his unused vacation days. However, his payment for those days was calculated based on a salary of $45,000.00 for the 2012-2013 school year, instead of the accurate amount of $46,000.00. Therefore, the ALJ determined that the amount paid to the petitioner for his accrued vacation time should be adjusted to reflect petitioner's correct salary of $46,000 for the 2012-2013 school year.

Although it may not have been clear from the January 2016 decision, the Commissioner intended to adopt all of the recommendations and findings of the ALJ.[1] Accordingly, the Board is directed to pay the petitioner $1,000.00 – reflecting the difference between the $45,000.00 previously paid to him, and the $46,000.00 actually owed to him for his last year of employment. The amount of the petitioner's vacation pay should likewise be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment at the rate of $46,000.00 per annum.[2]

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

[1] The language in the final paragraph of the January 2016 decision stated that the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The following sentence regarding the payment owed to the petitioner should have likewise mirrored the recommendation of the ALJ. It should be noted that footnote 3 of the January 2016 decision did state, "[t]he Commissioner also agrees with the remaining determinations made by the ALJ regarding various claims advanced by the petitioner, including his entitlement to additional compensation for vacation and sick time."

DOCKET NO. A-2584-15T2

ALI FETI,

Petitioner-Appellant,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS COUNTY, BERNADETTE DALESANDRO and KEVIN CARROLL, Respondents-Respondents.

Argued June 6, 2017 – Decided August 8, 2017

Before Judges Suter and Grall.

On appeal from the New Jersey Commissioner on Education, Docket No. 231-9/13.

Noel C. Crowley argued the cause for appellant (Crowley & Crowley, attorneys; Mr. Crowley, of counsel and on the briefs).

Derlys Maria Gutierrez argued the cause for respondents Netcong Board of Education, Bernadette Dalesandro and Kevin J. Carrol (Adams, Gutierrez & Lattiboudere, LLC, attorneys; Ms. Gutierrez, of counsel and on the brief; Ruby Kumar-Thompson, on the brief).

Christopher S. Porrino, Attorney General, attorney for respondent Commissioner of Education (Lori Prapas, Deputy Attorney General, on the statement in lieu of brief).

PER CURIAM

Petitioner Ali Feti, formerly a custodian for the Netcong Board of Education (Board), appeals from a final decision of the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner accepted the findings of fact and credibility determinations made by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c). "[F]or reasons thoroughly set forth" in the ALJ's Initial Decision, the Commissioner adopted it as his final decision, determined Feti did not acquire tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and directed the Board to award Feti an additional $1000 "owed to him based on the miscalculation of the payment received for his accrued vacation time."[1]

[1] The ALJ and the Commissioner rejected other claims, which Feti does not raise on appeal. Feti's due process claim was denied, because he did not invoke the process available upon receiving notice of the Board's decision not to renew his contract. See N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b); Leang v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 198 N.J. 557, 578 (2009). The ALJ dismissed Feti's claims for relief due to violations of the civil service laws, N.J.S.A. 11A:2-13 and -24, and violations of the collective bargaining agreement, as outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction, N.J.S.A. 18A:16-9.

Because Feti does not challenge those determinations on appeal, he effectively abandoned them. Muto v. Kemper Reinsurance Co., 189 N.J. Super. 417, 420-21 (App. Div. 1983).

Feti urges us to reverse the Commissioner's decision on tenure and contends the ALJ's calculation of monetary relief lacks support in the record. The Board and the Commissioner, in his statement in lieu of brief, urge us to affirm.[2]

For reasons that follow, we affirm the Commissioner's decision on tenure. We reject Feti's claim that the ALJ's decision on pay for work done and vacation accrued after June 30, 2013 lacks support in the record, because it is amply supported by a payroll record and a separate handwritten check for vacation time as the Board's President, Bernadette Dalesandro, explained during her testimony. Feti's arguments to the contrary have insufficient merit to warrant discussion in a written opinion. Accordingly, we affirm that determination in conformity with Rule 2:11-3(e)(1)(D)-(E).

A limited remand to address monetary relief is necessary, however, because there is a discrepancy between the amount the Commissioner awarded and the ALJ recommended, which the Commissioner did not explain.

Turning to the Commissioner's decision on tenure, appellate review is limited. Courts are not obligated to follow an agency's interpretation of a statute. U.S. Bank, N.A. v. Hough,

[2] On June 1, 2017, we granted Feti leave to file a letter in opposition to the Commissioner's statement in lieu of brief.

210 N.J. 187, 200 (2012). But courts accord a strong presumption of reasonableness to an agency's exercise of statutorily delegated responsibility, City of Newark v. Nat. Res. Council, Dep't of Envtl. Prot., 82 N.J. 530, 539, cert. denied, 449 U.S. 983, 101 S. Ct. 400, 66 L. Ed. 2d 245 (1980), and defer to the agency's findings of fact, Lavezzi v. State, 219 N.J. 163, 172 (2014). Courts disturb an agency's determination only if it is arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, unsupported by the evidence or contrary to legislative policy. In re Musick, 143 N.J. 206, 216 (1996).

The tenure dispute in this case concerns the Commissioner's application of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, which addresses tenure for custodians employed by school districts. In pertinent part, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure . . . .
> [(Emphasis added).]

In Wright v. Board of Education of the City of East Orange, 99 N.J. 112, 119 (1985), the Supreme Court interpreted this statute to mean that a "janitor employed without a fixed term contract will gain tenure immediately upon beginning appointment."

Neither Wright nor N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 expressly requires an individual contract signed by the employer or the school custodian. Indeed, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 does not refer to a contract; it refers to an appointment "for a fixed term," and in Wright, the Supreme Court enforced a collective bargaining agreement providing tenure for custodians after three years even though the custodian had a fixed-term contract. 99 N.J. at 115-23. When Wright was decided, as now, the Court interprets statutes to effectuate the Legislature's intent and views the "the statutory language" as "the best indicator of that intent." DiProspero v. Penn, 183 N.J. 477, 492 (2005); accord In re Closing of Jamesburg High School, 83 N.J. 540, 548 (1980) (declining to "engage in conjecture or surmise which will circumvent the plain meaning of the act").

The documentary and testimonial evidence admitted by the ALJ adequately establishes Feti was appointed for a "fixed term" that in this case can be summarized as follows. The Board first appointed Feti in April 2001 under a contract commencing on April 6 of that year and ending on June 30, 2001. Thereafter, the Board employed Feti under a successive series of contracts commencing on July 1 and ending on June 30 of the next year. The last of Feti's contracts produced at the hearing in the Office of Administrative Law expired on June 30, 2012.

On May 11, 2012, the district's superintendent wrote to Feti and advised him the Board had taken action "not to renew all members of the custodial staff, effective July 1, 2012." On June 12, the superintendent advised the Board there would be no head custodian and recommended the Board appoint Feti and another custodian, Peterson, to serve "as the district's custodians for the ensuing school year." (emphasis added).

Two weeks later, on June 26, 2012, the Board unanimously approved Feti's employment "as a Full-Time Custodian, effective July 1, 2012 with an annual salary of $46,000." The Board also passed a resolution appointing Peterson at an annual salary of $36,000. Neither resolution expressly limited the term to the "ensuing school year."

A Board policy adopted about seven years earlier, Policy 4360, precludes appointment for other than a fixed term. Policy 4360 addresses "Support Staff Member Tenure," and it refers to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3. It requires fixed-term contracts as follows:

> The Board of Education directs that the tenure status of support staff members be determined only in accordance with law and this policy and such contractual terms as may have been negotiated with the employee's majority representative.
>
> Persons employed as janitors, custodians, and maintenance personnel including supervisory personnel will be employed on > fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions.

> The Board will not grant tenure to any employee for whom such tenure has not been provided in law.

The Board's position on tenure for custodians is also memorialized in the Board's collective bargaining agreement with the Netcong Teachers' Association, Inc., which was in place from July 1, 2010 through June 30, 2013. Paragraph E of Article XV states: "Custodians shall continue the practice of executing annual employment contracts with the Board. Custodians shall not receive tenure."

According to Feti's testimony, he was given a contract for 2012-2013, which he signed and returned to the superintendent's secretary. To Feti, the contract "looked like every year." He signed it and gave it back to the secretary because it needed the signature of the Board President or a Board member. Feti returned to the superintendent's office more than once to get a signed copy of the contract, but he gave up trying when he did not receive it through the mail as the secretary promised.

On cross-examination, Feti testified he had not read the contract before signing it and did not "pay attention" to it. He did not, however, retract his initial testimony describing the 2012-2013 contract as looking like the others he had received.

The Board also presented evidence to explain its inability to produce Feti's written contract for 2012-2013. Collectively, the Board's testimonial and photographic evidence demonstrated the business office was not well run during the time at issue. The person responsible for records, including contracts and personnel records, did not maintain files, stored unrelated records in unlabeled boxes, and kept the boxes in different rooms of the building and even in her car. On that evidence, the ALJ determined the Board's inability to produce a contract was attributable to the "dysfunction of the Board's business office" and its prior administrator's poor performance. The Commissioner accepted that determination.

The ALJ concluded the parties' mutual inability to produce Feti's contract for school year 2012-2013 did not preclude a finding that Feti was appointed for a fixed, one-year term. Relying upon Feti's past contracts, the Board's Policy 4360 and the collective bargaining agreement, the ALJ concluded Feti was appointed for a fixed-term, as he had been in the past. There was no evidence even suggesting the Board would have appointed Feti for an indeterminate period in violation of its Policy 4360 and its agreement with the Association. The only testimony on a contract for 2012-2013 was Feti's describing it as looking like the others.

The ALJ reasoned, and the Commissioner agreed, that reliance on the collective bargaining agreement was consistent with the Court's reasoning in Wright. We agree.

In Wright, the Supreme Court recognized the Legislature adopted N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 intending to "leave employing boards with some flexibility," and the Court concluded N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 left room for negotiated agreements addressing "custodians' tenure rights." 99 N.J. at 119-20. Having resolved that question of negotiability, the Court enforced the provision of collective bargaining agreement providing tenure for all members of the Association "after three years of employment," even though the employee had a fixed-term contract. Id. at 116. The Court reasoned that if the "representative unit of the custodians were prohibited from negotiating job security, the result would frustrate, rather than promote, the intent of the janitors' tenure statute," which was to provide some prospect for job security. Id. at 122-23.

While the provision of the Netcong Association's negotiated contract, unlike the one in Wright, did not expand the statutory tenure rights of custodians, neither did it narrow them. In fact, inclusion of this provision in the bargaining agreement effectively recognized negotiability and preserved tenure for custodians as a topic for future negotiations.

Neither the ALJ nor the Commissioner focused on the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, but it is worth restating: "Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure. . . ." (emphasis added). Given that the statute does not expressly require a formal, written contract signed by the Board and each custodian, we decline to interpret it to require one or to preclude reliance on Policy 4360, the collective bargaining agreement and Feti's prior contracts.

For all of the foregoing reasons, we affirm. The Commissioner's decision is amply supported by the evidence, not inconsistent with legislative policy and reasonable. R. 2:11-3(e)(1)(D). Moreover, Feti's claim that the Commissioner erroneously shifted the burden of proof to him has insufficient merit to warrant any comment beyond reference to Policy 4360 and the Board's agreement with the Association, which prohibited unlimited appointments for custodians. R. 2:11-3(e)(1)(E). Viewed in light of the evidence, Feti's argument urges tenure based on a technical defect unrelated to the Legislature's purpose.

As previously noted, we also affirm the Commissioner's decision to adopt the ALJ's findings and conclusions relevant to the payment Feti was due for work performed and vacation days accrued after the 2012-2013 school year. R. 2:11-3(e)(1)(D). A remand is required and directed for the limited purpose of addressing the unexplained discrepancy between the ALJ's and the Commissioner's statements of the additional payment due from the Board to Feti.

Specifically, the ALJ recommended the Commissioner direct the Board to pay "$1000, reflecting" a $1000 increase in Feti's salary and that Feti's "payment for vacation pay should likewise be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment" at that higher annual rate. In contrast, the Commissioner directed the Board "to pay the petitioner $1000 owed to him for the miscalculation of the payment received for his accrued vacation time" and did not require a $1000 salary adjustment. On remand, the Commissioner should reconsider and explain the payment due.

Affirmed in part; remanded in part; jurisdiction is not retained.

I hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of the original on file in my office.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 14826-13
AGENCY DKT. NO. 231-9/13

ALI FETI,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS COUNTY, BERNADETTE DALESANDRO AND KEVIN J. CARROLL, Respondents.

Noel Crowley, Esq., for petitioner (Crowley and Crowley, attorneys)

Derlys Gutierrez, Esq., for respondents (Adams, Gutierrez and Lattiboudere, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 25, 2015 Decided: October 14, 2015

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Ali Feti (Feti), challenges the termination of his employment as a custodian by the Netcong Board of Education (the Board). He seeks reinstatement, back pay, and compensation for unused sick and vacation days. Feti's petition of appeal was filed with the Commissioner of Education (the Commissioner) on September 24, 2013. An answer was filed by respondents on October 15, 2013, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on October 16, 2013. The case was initially assigned to the Honorable Tahesha Way, ALJ, and was reassigned to me on August 20, 2014.

A motion to amend the petition was denied via letter order dated October 16, 2014. A motion for summary decision was filed by respondents on January 6, 2015. Petitioner responded via cross-motion on February 27, 2015. Respondents replied via letter brief on March 16, 2015. Oral argument took place on April 16, 2015. Finding that the parties' submissions revealed disputed material facts, the motions were both denied via order dated April 21, 2015. Feti sought interlocutory review of the April 21, 2015, order; his request was denied by the Commissioner via letter dated May 13, 2015.

Hearings were conducted on July 13, 2015, and August 3, 2015. Post-hearing submissions were received on August 31, 2015, September 1, 2015, and September 25, 2015, at which time the record closed.

ISSUES PRESENTED

1. Did Feti hold his position of employment under tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3?

2. If not, was the Board's termination of Feti's employment at the end of the 2012-2013 year otherwise compliant with applicable law? If not, what should be the remedy?

3. Is Feti entitled to additional compensation for unused vacation and sick days?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

The following background facts are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

Feti had been employed by the Board as a custodian since on or about April 1, 2001, when his employment was not renewed at the close of the 2012-2013 school year. He was given thirty days' notice, making his termination effective July 26, 2013. Feti never requested a formal written statement of reasons for his non-renewal, nor did he request an informal appearance before the Board.

For each year prior to 2012-2013, Feti had been appointed via a one-year fixed-term contract. Initially appointed as a custodian, Feti's October 2, 2002, contract promoted him to head custodian, a position he retained via annual reappointment through the 2011-2012 year. Effective July 1, 2012, Feti was demoted to custodian at a salary of $46,000 per annum. Neither Feti nor the Board could produce a written contract specifying the terms of his appointment for 2012-2013.

Feti's Appointment for the 2012-2013 School Year

Minutes of the Board's Education Committee meeting on June 12, 2012, reveal concerns about the quality of District custodial services. Interim Superintendent Dwight Pfennig recommended that no head custodian be appointed for the 2012-2013 school year, and that Feti and Stephen Peterson be appointed as custodians. (R-6.) This reflected a change in heart by Pfennig, as Feti previously had received a May 11, 2012, letter in which Pfennig had non-renewed his employment, effective July 1, 2012. (R-4.)

The Board acted on Feti's employment on June 26, 2012, via a resolution appointing him at a salary of $45,000. Discussion ensued, with one Board member questioning the decision not to appoint a head custodian, and likewise questioning the amount of salary. It was agreed that Feti's salary should be $46,000, and an amended resolution unanimously carried, as follows:

> BE IT RESOLVED that the Netcong Board of Education, upon the recommendation of the Interim Superintendent, approve the employment of Mr. Ali Feti as a Full-Time Custodian, effective July 1, 2012 with an annual salary of $46,000.

The resolution language for other appointments made that night, to include custodial and secretarial staff, was similar. Conversely, resolutions appointing an assistant principal and an interim business administrator explicitly stated that these individuals had been hired for a one-year term.

The events leading up to Feti's reappointment for 2012-2013 were described by Board President Bernadette Dalesandro (Dalesandro). Dalesandro is an experienced Board member, having served the public for nearly twenty years. From 1995-2004 she simultaneously served on the Netcong Board and on the Lenape Valley Regional Board of Education. She has served as a member of the negotiating committee continuously since 2004, with the exception of the 2009-2010 year, when she took a leave from service for health reasons. Dalesandro testified that Pfennig did not wish to renew either Feti's or Richardson's employment, and she indicated that the letter of May 11, 2012, was sent to Feti because Pfennig was dissatisfied with Feti's performance. But Pfennig was leaving the District. It was decided to give Feti an additional chance; allow him to work for the 2012-2013 school year; and let Pfennig's successor, Kevin Carroll, determine the future of Feti's employment.

Dalesandro was adamant, notwithstanding her inability to produce a written contract, that it was never the intention of the Board to appoint Feti for anything more than a one-year term. Dalesandro pointed to the history of contracts awarded to Feti previously each year. She pointed to the language in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CBA) between the Board and the Netcong Teacher's Association, which provides at Article XV, paragraph E that, "[c]ustodians shall continue the practice of executing annual employment contracts with the Board. Custodians shall not receive tenure." (R-5.) Likewise, Board Policy Number 4360 provides that "[p]ersons employed as janitors, custodians, and maintenance personnel including supervisory personnel will be employed on fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions." (R-9.)

As for why there was no contract, Dalesandro described a business office that was in complete disarray. Her description was confirmed by Business Administrator Nicole Sylvester, who had attempted to locate Feti's contract in District files, but to no avail. Since 2011, the District had employed so many different business administrators that Sylvester could not recall their names or dates of employment without the assistance of a previously prepared certification. That document confirmed that there have been five different individuals holding the position since 2011. (R-1.) Both Sylvester and Dalesandro shared that Christine Werner, who held the position for the 2011-2012 school year, kept important school documents in her car; only with the intervention of Board counsel were some of these documents later returned. Sylvester provided a photograph of the office "filing system," which consisted of piles of boxes containing personnel files and other critical business office files stacked against a wall. This photograph depicted the files after some effort had been undertaken to organize them, but nonetheless continued to reflect an appalling way to maintain important public records. Additionally, there was a constant turnover of school superintendents. Many were appointed as interims as the Board explored the cost savings that could result from a shared arrangement with neighboring districts. This background was offered to further explain both why Feti's 2012-2013 contract could not be located, and why the resolution appointing him did not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term.

Feti likewise could not produce a fully executed copy of a contract for the 2012-2013 year, although he contended that he signed a contract, and unsuccessfully requested a finalized copy several times. But Feti urged that he anticipated that he would not be given a contract that year, because Dalesandro was the president of the Board and she disliked him. He pointed to events that transpired in or about 2009. Then Interim Superintendent of Schools Arthur DeBenedetto also served as Superintendent for the Stanhope Schools in a shared-services arrangement. According to Feti, DeBenedetto insisted that the husband of the Stanhope Board of Education president, John Thomas, be hired as a custodian in Netcong. Thomas was ultimately fired in the aftermath of an incident in which he threw his keys at DeBenedetto. Feti perceived that shortly thereafter, DeBenedetto was fired as well. In Feti's view, DeBenedetto and Dalesandro were close friends; she blamed him for DeBenedetto's discharge; and for this reason, his contract went unsigned.

Feti's theory is nonsensical for multiple reasons. Dalesandro explained that DeBenedetto was a retired superintendent who was retained in an interim capacity. DeBenedetto was not fired, as Feti contended, but rather, had simply reached the end of his term. It moreover strains credibility that Dalesandro would harbor a grudge and non-renew Feti's employment in 2013 to retaliate for an affront years earlier. Nor is it credible that Dalesandro, a highly experienced Board member, would fail to provide a contract to Feti when doing so might create an issue relative to his acquisition of tenure. According to Feti, she did not return his contract because she disliked him; but query then, why would Dalesandro appoint someone she so disliked for an indeterminate term?

In summary, I FIND that on June 26, 2012, Feti was appointed at an annual salary of $46,000 to serve as custodian effective July 1, 2012. The resolution so appointing him does not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term. But I also FIND that the Board does not grant tenure to custodial staff, and routinely appoints custodians for a one-year term. I FIND that Feti himself was always appointed via a one-year contract until July 2012. I FIND that for the last year of Feti's employment, neither party was able to produce a fully executed contract, either because the contract could not be located, or does not exist. But I FIND that any failure to fully execute such a contract was in no way intended to confer tenure upon Feti. To the contrary, a contract could not be produced only due to the dysfunction of the Board's business office, and the misfeasance of its prior administrators. Finally, I FIND that the CBA expressly stipulates that District custodians will not earn tenure.

Vacation and Sick Pay

Sick Pay

Feti has made a claim for payment for unused sick pay, and has made the bald statement that the Board owes him compensation for forty days. Accompanying his motion for summary decision was no evidence that this number of days remains in his sick leave bank. Feti cites Article IV, paragraph A(1) of the CBA to support his request for sick leave, which provides that "[a] teacher having been in the employ of the Board for (10) or more years shall be entitled to severance allowance for unused sick leave . . . ." The agreement makes no reference to such benefits for custodians, however. [1]

Vacation Pay

I FIND that Feti was already paid for the twenty days of unused vacation pay that he seeks via this petition. Business records produced by the Board confirm that he received payment both for working in July 2013, and for unused vacation days.[2]

Sylvester shared a copy of a handwritten check dated July 24, 2013, in the amount of $2677.05, reflecting net pay on a gross amount of $3750. That amount of payment was later formalized in a non-negotiable check issued officially through payroll. Feti urged that this check does not say "vacation pay," and insisted that it was actually payment for his work in July 2013. His argument is unavailing. Dalesandro related that among the issues surrounding the revolving door of business administrators in Netcong was a former administrator who wrote what Dalesandro described as "hand checks," and defrauded the District in the process. Thereafter, Dalesandro kept a closer eye on the business office, and expressly prohibited the issuance of handwritten checks. The check issued to Feti was a notable exception; Dalesandro expressly recalled being asked to permit the check to be issued, and being expressly informed that it was for Feti's vacation pay. Her testimony was credible.

Moreover, the Board produced documentary evidence that payment was made both for the vacation days and for the period of notice in July 2013. Dalesandro produced a payroll register for the period ending July 31, 2013. It reflects a gross payment for the period from January 1, 2013, through July 31, 2013, of $26,250. This is the equivalent of seven months' pay at the rate of $3750 per month; twelve months of payment at $3750 per month would equal $45,000. Thus, Feti was paid through July

[1] A copy of the CBA accompanies the certification of counsel filed in support of the Board's motion for summary decision.

[2] Feti was paid at the rate of $45,000 per annum during the 2012-2013 year, and the additional pay was calculated at this erroneous rate. The Board conceded at hearing that Feti should have been paid at the rate of $46,000 per annum and that it should compensate Feti in the amount of $1,000.

31, 2013; since his termination date was July 26, 2013, Dalesandro correctly testified that he was actually overpaid by a few days. (See R-10.)

The payroll register also reveals a separate payment in the gross amount of $3750; this was the payment made for Feti's unused vacation days. It is thus clear, and I FIND, that no further vacation pay is due or owing to Feti.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Burden of Proof

Feti unsuccessfully asserts that the Board bears the burden of proving that it has appointed him for a fixed term. He urges that in the absence of such proof, his employment status must be deemed to be protected by tenure. The following language in Schaffer v. Weast, 546 U.S. 49, 56,126 S. Ct. 528, 534, 163 L. Ed. 2d 387, 396 (2005), is instructive:

> . . . the ordinary default rule [is] that plaintiffs bear the risk of failing to prove their claims. McCormick § 337, at 412 ("The burdens of pleading and proof with regard to most facts have been and should be assigned to the plaintiff who generally seeks to change the present state of affairs and who therefore naturally should be expected to bear the risk of failure of proof or persuasion"); C. Mueller & L. Kirkpatrick, Evidence § 3.1, p 104 (3d ed. 2003) ("Perhaps the broadest and most accepted idea is that the person who seeks court action should justify the request, which means that the plaintiffs bear the burdens on the elements in their claims").

Feti points to no statutory authority that would support a departure from the default rule. Accordingly, Feti must prove his claims by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See also N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

Feti's Entitlement to Tenure

Tenure is a legislative status. It is earned by operation of law, and upon meeting the precise requirements of the tenure statute. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90

N.J. 63 (1982); Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65 (1962). Feti's claims spring from N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, which provides:

> Every public school janitor of a school district shall, unless he is appointed for a fixed term, hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except as the result of the reduction of the number of janitors in the district made in accordance with the provisions of this title or except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.
> [Emphasis supplied.]

Thus, local public school districts retain the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff, or alternatively, to confer that status upon them. Wright v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Orange, 99 N.J. 112 (1985). Our Supreme Court has held that, "[b]oards may, without contravening the terms of the statute, permissibly pick and choose between the statutory minimum of no tenure for any custodial employee and the statutory maximum of instant tenure for all custodians." Id. at 119.

In Strincoski v Board of Education of East Brunswick, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 37, the State Board of Education relied on Wright to award tenure to a custodian where the CBA provided that tenure would be earned after three years of service. The State Board so determined notwithstanding evidence proffered by the board that it awarded its custodians fixed term contracts. Although these individual contracts evinced an intent to deny tenure, the CBA was held to govern the rights of the parties. When the reasoning in Strincoski and Wright is applied here, it is plain that Feti's claim to tenure must fail.

In Netcong, the CBA clearly and unequivocally denies tenure to custodians. Thus, the inability of the Board to produce an executed fixed term contract for the 2012-2013 school year does not dictate a result in favor of Feti. Moreover, unlike Strincoski, the course of conduct between the parties here is consistent with the CBA, and lends further support to the Board's contention that it has consistently exercised its discretion under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 to deny its custodians tenure. Each year the Board awarded Feti a fixed-term one-year contract, and but for the malfeasance of its administrative staff, would have done so again in 2012-2013. Our courts have considered the course of conduct between the parties when determining if tenure should be granted to school district custodians. See Hunterdon Central High Sch. Educ. Ass'n. v Hunterdon Central Reg'l High Sch. Bd. of Educ., 1988 S.L.D. 2468, 2473, aff'd, A-5036-87T2 (App. Div. June 28, 1989).

I CONCLUDE that at the time of his discharge, Feti was not tenured. In his post-hearing memorandum Feti urges that his demotion to custodian from head custodian violated his tenure rights because he suffered a reduction in compensation. He moreover urges that the CBA's terms are inapplicable to his employment as a head custodian. But until 2012-2013, Feti was unequivocally appointed for repeated fixed terms; was not tenured; and was subject to demotion at the discretion of the Board. At the time of his termination, and throughout the 2012-2013 year, Feti was serving in a position that fell within the CBA's recognition clause. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that these additional claims are without merit.

The Termination of Feti's Employment

In the alternative, Feti argues that the Board violated his due process rights when it non-renewed his non-tenured employment. Feti asserts that the Board improperly failed to alert him of his right to a formal statement of reasons and an opportunity for a hearing. But the statutes that afford Feti due process place the clear burden on him to request a statement of reasons and a hearing, and place no concomitant burden on the Board to invite him to do so. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1(b); see also N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2.[3] As the court stated in Hubbard v. Springfield Board of Education, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 23118 (November 12, 2003), the statute affords no automatic right to reasons or to a hearing, and "[t]he information and opportunity need only be provided upon written request . . . ." Id. at *8. Likewise, in Leang v. Jersey City Board of Education, 198 N.J. 557, 578-79 (2009), the court held:

[3] The latter statute references "teaching staff members," which is defined to include only professional staff. But the language of N.J.S.A. 18:27-4.1 clearly appears to extend the right to a statement of reasons to non-professional personnel such as Feti.

> Upon plaintiff's receipt of the notification from the Board that her contract would not be renewed, she had a statutory right to request and to receive a written statement of reasons for the Board's decision not to renew her contract. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3.2. In addition, she had a statutory right to demand an "informal appearance" before the Board during which she would be permitted "to convince the members of the board to offer reemployment." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1.
>
> Those statutory rights are the embodiment of the process created by the Legislature through which plaintiff could seek to challenge and to be heard about the Board's non-renewal decision. Plaintiff did not avail herself of those statutory rights and therefore failed to take advantage of the avenues of relief that would have afforded her the due process she now complains was denied to her. We will not permit her to expand upon her statutorily protected right to be heard by authorizing her to pursue a claim that she was in some way deprived of due process in the Board's non-renewal decision.

Accordingly, it was incumbent upon Feti avail himself of the applicable statutory due process procedures, and there is no basis for his claim that his rights were violated by the Board's failure to affirmatively invite him to do so.

The remaining due process contentions of the petition demand little analysis or discussion. The claimed violations of N.J.S.A. 11A:2-13 and N.J.S.A. 11A:2-24 are brought in the incorrect forum. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is defined by statute, and is limited to "controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Our courts have held that where a controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the jurisdiction of the Commissioner, even if the dispute pertains to school personnel. Bd. of Educ. of E. Brunswick Twp. v. Twp. Council of E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Feti's demand for arbitration under the CBA likewise must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

I CONCLUDE that Feti's claims to reinstatement and back pay due to a violation of his due process rights are meritless.

Sick and Vacation Days

Feti has no entitlement to payment for either sick or vacation days. Relative to vacation days, there is no factual basis for his claim to additional compensation and I CONCLUDE that he was paid for his vacation days. The Board readily conceded, and I CONCLUDE however, that the amount paid to him should be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment at the rate of $46,000 per annum.

Feti's demand for payment for unused sick days is meritless. He cites no provision of Title 18A of the New Jersey School Laws, and accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Feti's claims are outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction. See: Bd. of Educ. of E. Brunswick Twp., supra, 48 N.J. at 102. But it bears reiteration that even the collective bargaining language upon which Feti relies lends no support to his claim.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, the Board is ORDERED to compensate Feti in the amount of $1000, reflecting the difference between the $45,000 it paid him and the $46,000 it owed him for his last year of employment. His payment for vacation pay should likewise be adjusted to reflect pro rata payment at the rate of $46,000 per annum. The remaining claims of the petition are DISMISSED in their entirety and with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SYNOPSIS

In this case, petitioner – formerly employed as a custodian for the respondent Board – challenged the termination of his employment and sought reinstatement, back pay, and compensation for unused sick and vacation days. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that he acquired tenure when he was appointed via Board resolution on June 26, 2012 to the position of custodian for an indeterminate term, effective July 1, 2012; accordingly, petitioner argued that he was improperly terminated in violation of his tenure rights at the end of the 2012-2013 school year. The respondent Board asserted that – pursuant to the collective bargaining agreement (CBA) and Board Policy Number 4360, both of which expressly state that custodians are not entitled to acquire tenure – petitioner had been employed under a series of annual contracts with fixed terms since his initial hiring in 2001, and never acquired tenure with the Board.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: for each year prior to 2012-2013, petitioner had been appointed via a one-year fixed term contract; he was initially appointed in 2001 as a custodian, but promoted in his second year to head custodian – a position he retained via annual reappointment through the 2011-2012 school year; petitioner was demoted to custodian effective July 1, 2012 because of performance issues; although the Board's resolution appointing petitioner as custodian for the 2012-2013 school year – at an annual salary of $46,000 – did not expressly state that his appointment was for a one-year term, the Board does not grant tenure to custodial staff, and routinely appoints custodians for a one year term; petitioner had always been appointed via a one-year contract until July 2012; although no fully executed contract for 2012-2013 could be produced by either party, any failure to execute such a contract was clearly not intended to confer tenure upon petitioner; in fact, a contract could not be produced only due to the dysfunction of the Board's business office, and the misfeasance of its prior administrators; the CBA expressly stipulates that custodians in the Netcong school district will not earn tenure; records produced by the Board confirm that petitioner was already paid for 20 unused vacation days; and no further vacation pay is due or owing to petitioner. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was not tenured at the time of his discharge, and that his claims are meritless and/or outside of the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The ALJ noted that at hearing, the Board did concede that petitioner should have been paid at the rate of $46,000 for the 2012-2013 school year, and was paid only $45,000. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered the Board to compensate petitioner in the amount of $1,000 for the amount owed him for his last year of employment. The remaining claims were dismissed.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter.

ALI FETI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NETCONG, MORRIS COUNTY, BERNADETTE DALESANDRO AND KEVIN CARROLL,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Ali Feti, and the respondents' reply thereto. In this matter, the petitioner is challenging the Board's non-renewal of his employment as a custodian in the school district following the 2012-2013 school year.

The petitioner takes exception to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) determination that he did not have tenure as a custodian at the time of his discharge. Specifically, the petitioner maintains that since he had no written contract for the 2012-2013 school year, he was a custodian with no fixed term of employment and entitled to tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 as a matter of law. The petitioner emphasizes that the intent of the Netcong Board of Education (Board) is not relevant to whether he acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, and where a board of education does not invoke its power to prevent tenure for custodians, it accrues by default.

Additionally, the petitioner asserts that his demotion from head custodian to custodian for the 2012-2013 school year violated his newly acquired tenure rights. Therefore, the ALJ wrongfully found that he was covered by the collective bargaining agreement[1] (CBA) because the anti-tenure strictures of the CBA do not include head custodians and, since his demotion violated his tenure rights, he should have remained head custodian. Finally, the petitioner contends that the ALJ's decision on the claim for unpaid wages and vacation pay misinterprets the documentary evidence and is incorrect.

In reply, the respondents maintain that the ALJ had the opportunity to review numerous documents, as well as the opportunity to assess the credibility of the witnesses at the hearing. There is nothing in the petitioner's exceptions that points to any inappropriate or incorrect findings or conclusions made by the ALJ. The respondents stress that it would have been completely illogical for the Board to decide to grant tenure to the petitioner when it had been appointing him and other custodians on annual contracts for at least a dozen years. Further, the CBA and Board Policy Number 4360[2] both expressly state that custodians are not entitled to acquire tenure. In light of the petitioner's employment history – coupled with the relevant provisions of the CBA and Policy Number 4360, and the applicable case law – it was reasonable for the ALJ to conclude that the petitioner's 2012-2013 contract was for a fixed one-year period. As a result, the petitioner did not acquire tenure under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 and his non-renewal in 2013 was consistent with the law.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the petitioner did not have tenure as a custodian at the time of his discharge. The Commissioner is also in accord with the ALJ's determination that the Board did not violate the petitioner's due process rights when it non-renewed his employment. Finally, based on the Board's concession at the hearing, it is undisputed that the Board is required to pay the petitioner $1000.00 that is owed to him based on the miscalculation of the payment he received for his accrued vacation time.[3]

[1] The CBA states that, "[c]ustodians shall continue the practice of executing annual employment contracts with the Board. Custodians shall not receive tenure."

[2] Board Policy Number 4360 states that, "[p]ersons employed as janitors, custodians, and maintenance personnel including supervisory personnel will be employed on fixed term contracts and will not acquire tenure in their positions."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3, boards of education have the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff or to confer that status upon them. In order to exercise the discretion to deny tenure to custodial staff, a board of education must appoint the custodians for a fixed term. In this case, it is undisputed that in each year – beginning in 2001 and continuing through the 2011-2012 school year – the Board awarded the petitioner a fixed term, one-year contract; thus, he did not acquire tenure during those years. The dispute concerns whether the petitioner acquired tenure pursuant to *N.J.S.A.*18A:17-3 when he was reappointed on July 1, 2012, in light of the fact that neither party was able to produce a written contract that included the fixed term of his appointment.[4]

In reaching her conclusion, the ALJ had the opportunity to assess the credibility of the various witnesses who appeared before her and made findings of fact based upon their testimony. In this regard, the clear and unequivocal standard governing the Commissioner's review is:

> The agency head may not reject or modify any findings of fact as to issues of credibility of lay witness testimony unless it is first determined from a review of the record that the findings are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable or are not supported by sufficient, competent, and credible evidence in the record. [N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c)].

The Commissioner finds no basis in the record to reject either the ALJ's recitations of testimony or her determinations of witness credibility.

The ALJ found the petitioner's theory of what happened in connection with the circumstances of his reappointment for the 2012-2013 school year to be nonsensical. In contrast, the Board's witnesses testified consistently regarding the events leading up to the petitioner's

[3] The Commissioner also agrees with the remaining determinations made by the ALJ regarding various claims advanced by the petitioner, including his entitlement to additional compensation for vacation and sick time.

[4] The record contains a copy of the Board resolution approving the petitioner's employment as a custodian effective July 1, 2012, with an annual salary of $46,000; however, the resolution does not include any additional terms of his employment.

reappointment for the 2012-2013 school year, and the intention of the Board to again appoint the petitioner to a fixed one-year term. The ALJ found that a contract for the 2012-2013 school year could not be produced because of dysfunction in the Board's business office and misfeasance on the part of prior administrative staff; the Board's intention would have been to again enter into a one-year fixed contract with the petitioner for the 2012-2013 school year. As a result, the petitioner was not tenured under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-3 when his employment was non-renewed following the 2012-2013 school year. The totality of the evidence in the record amply supports the ALJ's determination, including petitioner's contractual history with the Board and the anti-tenure provisions outlined in both the CBA and Board Policy Number 4360. Finally, the Commissioner finds the petitioner's exceptions unpersuasive, largely reflecting arguments and objections previously raised before the ALJ and taken into account by her in weighing the testimony and the documentary evidence.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is directed to pay the petitioner $1000.00 owed to him for the miscalculation of the payment received for his accrued vacation time. The remaining claims in the petition of appeal are hereby dismissed.

Re: Jamie Burick v. Board of Education of the Township of Hamilton, Mercer County Agency Dkt. No. 126-6/17, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 09195-17.

Dear Mr. Acker:

I have reviewed your correspondence seeking an "advisory opinion at the behest of the OAL" in the above-captioned matter, wherein the Board posits that petitioner has no right to appeal the District's sick bank committee's decision, and requests that I address the following issues: (1) whether there exists a right to appeal; (2) if a right to appeal does exist, who is the correct party in interest; and (3) if a right to appeal does not exist and the Hamilton School District is not the correct party in interest, how should the case proceed procedurally.

Notwithstanding its submission as a request for an advisory opinion, the Board's correspondence in this matter effectively seeks a declaratory judgment as to the aforementioned issues. Upon review of the request, I have determined not to entertain this matter – pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-2.1 – for the reasons set forth below.

The request for declaratory relief, in effect, undermines the ongoing proceeding at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). It is not the role of the Commissioner to preempt the discretion of Administrative Law Judges (ALJ) in matters pending before the OAL. Once the ALJ issues a recommended decision, the Commissioner will have an opportunity at that time to determine the legal issues with the benefit of a full record. Moreover, the issues raised are not appropriate for declaratory ruling.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1, your request for declaratory judgment is denied.

Sincerely,

Kimberley Harrington

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE SUSSEX COUNTY CHARTER SCHOOL FOR TECHNOLOGY, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner – who was hired by the respondent Board in 2010 as Vice Principal/Technology Consultant – claimed that his tenure rights were violated when the Board abolished his position during a reduction in force (RIF) in August 2015 and reassigned him as a Teacher of Social Studies, a position for which he had tenure rights. Petitioner contended that the RIF had been conducted in bad faith and in an arbitrary and capricious manner, and sought a directive from the Commissioner that he be placed in the position of Administrative Principal with respondent's charter school and restored to the grade of his previous position as Vice Principal. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, asserting that it acted in good faith in implementing the RIF as part of a reorganization plan in response to the school being placed on probationary status by the Department of Education in February 2015; further, the petitioner never served in the position of Principal and accordingly had no right to that position.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the respondent Board in this case was faced with non-renewal of its charter and the closing of the school; the RIF was undertaken as part of the school's reorganization plan to address this situation, and the decision to abolish the petitioner's position was well within the Board's discretion; petitioner offered no credible evidence whatsoever that the RIF was done in bad faith; while petitioner does hold a Principal certificate, it is undisputed that he never served in the position of Principal; the position of Principal is not substantially identical to petitioner's past position as Vice Principal/Technology Consultant as it encompasses significantly more duties than those previously performed by petitioner in his former role; the newly hired Principal is responsible for special education and discipline, which were not part of petitioner's duties as Vice Principal/Technology; further, petitioner is not qualified to act as supervisor of special education. The ALJ concluded that petitioner has not met his burden to show that he is entitled to tenure in the position of Principal, and the RIF was not done in bad faith. Accordingly, the ALJ dismissed the petition.

Upon a comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's determinations and adopted the recommended decision of the OAL with modification.

JAMES BALDINI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE SUSSEX COUNTY CHARTER SCHOOL FOR TECHNOLOGY, SUSSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

This dispute concerns whether petitioner has a tenure right to the position of Principal following abolishment of his tenured position as Vice Principal at the Sussex County Charter School for Technology (SCCST), and whether petitioner's termination through reduction in force (RIF) was for good cause.[1] The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that petitioner did not have a tenure right to the position of Principal and that the RIF was implemented in good faith.

The record of this matter, along with the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), have been reviewed. Additionally, petitioner's exceptions and respondent's replies thereto – submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered by the Commissioner. Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determinations, as modified herein.

[1] Petitioner's abolished position was entitled Vice Principal/Technology Consultant. The record uses "consultant" and "coordinator" interchangeably; however, the Commissioner will use "consultant" for purposes of consistency in her decision.

While reflecting his obvious disagreement with the findings and conclusions contained within the Initial Decision, petitioner's exceptions are unpersuasive, and substantially recast and reiterate the arguments made below. Petitioner takes exception to the ALJ's determination that petitioner did not have a tenure right to the Principal position. Petitioner contends that the ALJ did not properly consider important events relating to the "creation" of the Principal position, and that the ALJ did not analyze same under the "substantially identical" standard.[2] Petitioner argues that he is qualified for the Principal position by virtue of his certifications and his tenure as Vice Principal. Petitioner further contends that the ALJ erred in concluding that the RIF was not implemented in bad faith. Petitioner argues that the RIF was not for reasons of economy and that petitioner was improperly overlooked for the Principal position.

Petitioner has proffered a revised argument in his exceptions, i.e., that the job responsibilities of the Principal position held by Jill Eckel following the RIF were substantially the same as the abolished Vice Principal/Technology Consultant position. Petitioner argues that at the "initial stage" of the RIF, Eckel was "doing [his] job, which ha[d] been recast as Principal," and that petitioner was "passed in favor of [] Eckel" despite his qualification for the position and his tenure as Vice Principal. Petitioner reasons that the "re-named" Principal position occupied by Eckel was the "second-in-command position" following the RIF, which is akin to his "second-in-command" position as Vice Principal prior to the RIF.[3] Petitioner,

[2] The ALJ found that although there was an overlap of duties, the Principal position encompassed significantly more duties and, therefore, was not "substantially identical" to the abolished Vice Principal/Technology Consultant position.

[3] Petitioner's repeated reliance on this notion of "second-in-command" connotes his misunderstanding of the right to a new position based on tenure. The Commissioner clarifies that entitlement to a new position arises when the duties of the position are substantially similar; it is not based on the hierarchy of the position within the structure of a school or district, as petitioner proposes.

therefore, contends that he is entitled to the Principal position held by Eckel and that the ALJ should have applied the "substantially identical" analysis to that Principal position.[4]

In reply, respondent argues that the ALJ properly concluded that petitioner does not have tenure in the Principal position because: petitioner never held the position of principal and was not automatically entitled to assume such role; petitioner's claim to the principal position held by Eckel – which was raised for the first time in his exceptions – is improper and untimely; the Principal position held by Eckel existed prior to the RIF and therefore there was no vacancy in that position until after Eckel's retirement, at which point the Principal position was "restructured", and that new position is the subject matter of this litigation. Respondent also reiterates its arguments below that the newly created Principal position is not substantially similar to the abolished Vice Principal/Technology Consultant position. Respondent further argues that the RIF was implemented in good faith, as it was conducted for good cause – for reasons of economy and efficiency – and there is no credible evidence that petitioner's position was abolished in bad faith.

It is well-settled that tenure rights in an administrative or a supervisory position – such as the separately tenurable positions of principal or vice principal – is accrued only by

[4] In his petition of appeal, petitioner sought placement in the "Administrative Principal" position, which petitioner alleged was the Principal position presently held by Deirdre Mastandrea. Specifically, petitioner alleged that the "top two positions in [SCCST] ha[d] been recast from Administrative Principal and Vice Principal to Executive Director and Principal" and that the "[n]ew position of Principal is effectively a recreation of the abolished Vice Principal position." See Pet. of Appeal ¶ 6. In essence, petitioner did not see a difference between Eckel's and Mastandrea's respective terms as Principal. Additionally, throughout the course of the litigation, petitioner has maintained that the subject Principal position is indistinguishable from his position as Vice Principal and, therefore, he is entitled to the position currently occupied by Mastandrea. After all, petitioner only filed this action after Mastandrea was hired for the "new Principal position," not when Eckel's title changed from Administrative Principal to Principal. Following the ALJ's finding that the Principal and the Vice Principal positions were not substantially similar, petitioner has now bifurcated the Principal position into two separate positions based on the term served by Eckel, and the term served by Mastandrea and wants the Commissioner to determine de novo that petitioner has entitlement in the Principal position held by Eckel and that Mastandrea was improperly hired to serve as Principal. Even if the Commissioner were to disregard petitioner's prior position and review this matter as petitioner now proposes, the outcome would remain the same, as the distinction between Eckel's term and Mastandrea's term is a distinction without a difference for the purposes of determining petitioner's tenure claim to the position.

employment in that position, and is not transferable to another administrative or supervisory position. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c). In the context of a RIF, it is intended to prevent tenured employees from asserting claim to another position in which they have not served. See Nelson v. Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358 (1997) (holding that service is required in the enumerated positions before tenure is achieved in said position, and finding that petitioner did not have tenure right to the principal position following a RIF – despite having an administrative certificate with a principal endorsement – as he never served in the capacity of principal).

After a RIF, an employee may claim tenure rights in a new position based on tenure in the abolished position when the two positions are substantially identical. See Dennery v. Bd. of Educ. of the Passaic Cnty. Reg'l High Sch. Dist. #1, 131 N.J. 626, 639 (1992) (finding "[w]hen the duties of the position in which a teaching-staff member has acquired tenure are substantially identical to those of the position that the person seeks, a local school board may not sidestep an educator's tenure rights by simply renaming the position or tacking on additional meaningless requirements[,]" and tenure rights must be extended to the "newly-created position") (citing Viemeister v. Bd. of Educ. of the Boro of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). A position is not substantially identical if there is a "mere overlap in duties." Id. at 640. In fact, if the new position is similar to an employee's abolished position but also requires additional duties or different responsibilities, then the two positions are not considered substantially similar. Id. In this matter – as detailed below – petitioner cannot overcome the substantially identical requirement, as the Vice Principal and the Principal positions are separate and distinct in title and duties. Therefore, by asserting tenure rights to the Principal position on the basis of his tenure as a Vice Principal, petitioner seeks to extend his accrued tenure from one administrative position to another in direct contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5(c).

For the purpose of clarity, the Commissioner outlines some of the undisputed facts as follows. Prior to the RIF, there were four administrative positions at the SCCST: Administrative Principal (Jill Eckel); Vice Principal/Technology Consultant (James Baldini); Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction (Barbara Zappile); and Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian (Deirdre Mastandrea). Immediately following the RIF – when the Vice Principal/Technology Consultant and Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction positions were abolished – the administration consisted of the Turnaround Specialist (Noreen Lazariuk), Principal (Eckel), and Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian (Mastandrea). At which time, the duties of the two eliminated positions were consolidated with the positions of Turnaround Specialist and Principal. The record does not reflect that Eckel surrendered her previous duties in her new role as Principal. Instead, the record supports that the Administrative Principal role evolved into Principal, with the Turnaround Specialist overseeing implementation of SCCST's remedial plan.

Within two weeks of the RIF, however, further changes were made to the administration as a result of Eckel's retirement. Specifically, the Board created an Executive Director position and appointed Lazariuk. The Board also hired Mastandrea for the vacant Principal position, at which time the duties she had performed in her previous capacity as Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian were subsumed in the Principal position. A review of the job responsibilities in the record of the two positions reveal that apart from the Special Education Disciplinary and Supervisory duties, the Executive Director and the Principal continued to share and maintain the division of responsibilities of the previously abolished positions.

Petitioner's duties as Vice Principal were reported to be as follows: a. Assist the principal in duties related to instruction, supervision, evaluation and the overall administration of the school, including walk throughs as well as evaluations in coordination with the Supervisor of Curriculum; b. Serve as building administrator in the absence of the principal; c. Responsible for introduction of the school to the students during the first two days of school; d. Assist in conducting safety drill practice activities; e. Assist the principal in coordinating transportation, custodial, cafeteria, and other support services; f. Greet and interact with parents and visitors in the absence of the principal; g. Responsible for dance and special programs, with the exception of drama. (Initial Decision at 4) As such, it is axiomatic that Eckel's duties as Administrative Principal were separate and unique from those of the petitioner. When SCCST hired Lazariuk to serve as Turnaround Specialist, it is uncontroverted that Eckel's previous duties as Administrative Principal continued in her role as the Principal, and the duties of the abolished positions were distributed between the Turnaround Specialist and the Principal. Therefore, it follows that many of the duties of the Principal position were the same job responsibilities Eckel had prior to the RIF, and petitioner could not have tenure rights in a position in which he did not serve and where the duties are not substantially similar to his abolished position.

The parties do not dispute that the duties presented in the record as responsibilities of the Principal position were to be performed by Eckel following the RIF, and the only significant difference in the position after Eckel's retirement was that Mastandrea retained her duties as Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian when she was hired as Principal. Therefore, petitioner's renewed claim in his exceptions is tenuous. Notably, at the time of Eckel's appointment following the RIF, petitioner did not assert tenure rights in the Principal position on the basis that it was indistinguishable from the Vice Principal position and that it was the same "second-in-command" position as the abolished Vice Principal. Instead, petitioner exercised his bumping rights and acquired a teaching assignment in SCCST. The Commissioner finds that implicit in petitioner's tenure rights claim to the Principal position only after Eckel's retirement is the tacit acceptance that the new Principal position assumed by Eckel was not the same as the abolished Vice Principal position, rather it was a restructuring of the Administrative Principal position previously held by Eckel, in which position petitioner has no tenure rights.

Significantly, and contrary to petitioner's assertion, the Principal position is plainly distinguishable from petitioner's previous position of Vice Principal/Technology Consultant. A review of the "performance responsibilities" in petitioner's role as Vice Principal[5] and the "duties" of the Principal position establish that a majority of the tasks and duties of the Principal position are separate and apart from those of the abolished Vice Principal position. Specifically, the following Principal duties cited in the record are some of the job responsibilities that are irreconcilable with the duties of the Vice Principal position: a. Assisting with leading the school through renewal and probation; daily decision-making to ensure the changes the State seeks; b. Assisting in the completion of the Charter renewal application; c. Teacher professional development; d. Review of lesson plans; e. Participation in revisions of curriculum; f. Affirmative Action Office duties; g. Supervision of Teachers, Staff, and Students; h. Department Meeting; i. Parent contact and Communication; j. Community involvement; and k. Climate and Culture.[6] (Respondent's Motion for Summary Decision at 28) The only

[5] For purposes of brevity, the Commissioner will not reiterate the job responsibilities of the Vice Principal position, as they have been listed above, are well-documented in the record, and there is no dispute over same.

[6] The Commissioner intentionally did not include Discipline and Supervision of Special Education as petitioner has already conceded to the distinction; notwithstanding the inclusion of the duties following Eckel's departure. Additionally, the Commissioner acknowledges that some of the duties, such as parent contact and communication, and supervision of teachers, staff and students, are also duties that were listed as part of petitioner's responsibilities reconcilable overlap in duties are "teacher evaluations/observations," "PARCC implementation" and "classroom walkthrough and feedback."[7] A mere overlap of duties is insufficient to confer tenure rights to a new position. Petitioner cannot prove that his duties were the same as Administrative Principal and later, Principal. As such, petitioner's arguments relating to his purported tenure right in the Principal position – irrespective of whether it was held by Eckel or Mastandrea – are without merit.

Petitioner's exception relating to the ALJ's finding that the RIF was not in bad faith is equally without merit and unpersuasive. The Commissioner finds that the substantial evidence in the record supports that the ALJ properly determined that the RIF was implemented for good cause and that petitioner failed to offer credible evidence proving that the RIF was conducted in bad faith.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is adopted – as modified herein – as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[8]

Record Closed: August 22, 2017 Decided: September 12, 2017

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, James Baldini, filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of the Department of Education (DOE) on October 20, 2015, requesting that respondent be directed to place him in the position of Principal and restore him to a grade of his previous position. Petitioner's previous position of Vice Principal/Technology had been eliminated by the Respondent School Board.

Respondent filed a motion to dismiss with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education, which was filed on December 18, 2015.

The matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 21, 2015, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Petitioner filed his brief in opposition to Respondent's motion to dismiss with the OAL on January 5, 2016.

A prehearing conference was held on January 15, 2016, and a prehearing Order was entered on January 19, 2016, wherein the undersigned determined the motion to dismiss would be considered a motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, and that said motion would be held in abeyance pending completion of discovery. The discovery completion date was set in the prehearing order at March 15, 2016. There were no additional filings as to the motion by either Petitioner or Respondent.

Respondent filed its Answer to Petition of Appeal with the OAL on March 18, 2016.

By Order dated April 14, 2016, Respondent's motion for summary decision was denied.

A Substitution of Attorney was filed on July 6, 2016.

Respondent again filed a motion for summary decision with the OAL on December 23, 2016. Petitioner filed its brief in opposition on January 5, 2017. Respondent filed its reply brief on January 13, 2017.

By Order dated January 26, 2017, Respondent's motion for summary decision was denied.

On February 6, 2017, Respondent filed a request with the Acting Commissioner of DOE for interlocutory review of the Order of the undersigned dated January 26, 2017. By letter dated February 14, 2017, the Acting Commissioner denied Respondent's request for interlocutory review.

A hearing was held on August 21, 2017, and August 22, 2017. The record closed on August 22, 2017.

ISSUES

Whether the RIF was done in good faith; and, whether Petitioner has a tenure claim to the newly created position of Principal based upon his tenure in the abolished position of Vice Principal/Technology.

STIPULATED FACTS

1. The State of New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) placed SCCST on probationary status in February 2015.

2. Upon its review of SCCST, the DOE found that the school failed to meet all nine (9) standards within the Performance Framework in the 2013-2014 school year for student achievement.

3. As a condition of probation, the school was required to submit a remedial plan to the DOE addressing the eight (8) federal turnaround principles: 1) School Leadership; 2) School Climate and Culture; 3) Effective Instruction; 4) Curriculum, Assessment and Intervention System; 5) Effective Staff Practices; 6) Enabling the Effective Use of Data; 7) Effective Use of Time; and 8) Effective Family and Community Engagement.

4. Respondent prepared and submitted a Remedial Plan in March 2015, which was amended in May 2015 and resubmitted in June 2015.

5. In June 2015, the DOE reviewed SCCST's probationary status and proposed remedial plan.

6. In the report, the DOE reviewed its findings from its February 5, 2015, site visit, after which it placed SCCST on probation due, in part, to its conclusion that the school "lacks an effective way of administering and utilizing assessment data to drive ongoing instruction and strategic planning that will impact immediate and long-term student outcomes." The DOE further concluded that the administrators lacked the skill set and understanding to utilize and/or analyze data effectively.

7. As to the remedial plan, the DOE concluded that it was unclear how the school would track its progress and that the student achievement goals highlighted within the plan lacked rigor.

8. Baldini himself detailed his "performance responsibilities" in his role as Vice Principal as follows:

> a. Assist the principal in duties related to instruction, supervision, evaluation and the overall administration of the school, including walk throughs as well as evaluations in coordination with the Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction;
> b. Serve as building administrator in the absence of the principal;
> c. Responsible for introduction of the school to the students during the first two days of school;
> d. Assist in conducting safety inspections and safety drill practice activities;
> e. Assist the principal in coordinating transportation, custodial, cafeteria, and other support services;
> f. Greet and interact with parents and visitors in the absence of the principal;
> g. Responsible for dance and special programs, with the exception of drama.

9. In his role as District Data Analyst/Technology Coordinator, Baldini described his job functions as follows:

> a. Guides and supports staff in better use of data-based decision making in regards to student instruction;

b. Research and develop models to keep staff and administration updated on data;
c. Integrate data analysis with student, parent, and teacher understanding;
d. Perform record-keeping functions as the principal may direct;
e. Responsible for asset management of technology;
f. Maintain technology improvement plan;
g. PARCC coordinator;
h. Order and maintain the necessary equipment as needed;
i. Manage technology budget and resources;
j. Organize and maintain School Technology Committee;
k. Provide support to obtain ERATE improvements;
l. Manage technology contracts;
m. Supervise computer lab and audio lab improvements;
n. Maintain network security;
o. Direct and manage school IT personnel as necessary;
p. Maintain student guardian program;
q. Provide support for technology concerns of staff; and
r. Research potential technology products.

10. Charles Culver has approximately twenty (20) years of experience in Information Technology (IT). He worked as a Helpdesk/Tech Support/Intern at ITT from March 1996-July 1996, a PC Bench Technician at Computer Discount of New Jersey from July 1996-June 1997, and an Onsite/Field Technician for TAP Computer Services from September 1997-August 1999.

11. For school year 2007-2008, Sussex Technical School awarded Culver with the honor of Staff Member of the Year.

12. Culver has developed skills in the following IT:

a. Microsoft: Windows Server, Active Directory, Exchange;
b. Apple: MacOS;
c. Mobile: Android iOS;
d. Linux: Various Operating Systems, as well as Apache, PHP, and MySQL (LAMP);
e. Networking: HP, Cisco 802.1x Wireless, Radius, and VLANS;
f. Programming: PHP, HTML/CSS, Python, Javascript, and JQuery;
g. ITSM: Freshdesk, Nagios, and Zabbix; and
h. Other: Google Apps, Cisco Unity/CM, Photoshop, Acrobat Pro, Meraki, Ubiquity, Genesis SIS, and NJSmart.

13. Culver holds a Computer Science, Data Center Support degree from Chubb Institute (January 1996). He is also a Certified Fiber Optic Technician and Certified Fiber Optic Specialist/Testing.

14. Baldini was Culver's immediate supervisor beginning in or about April 2010, when he was promoted to the position of Vice Principal/Technology Coordinator, until the position was eliminated in or around August 2015.

15. In July 2015, the Board resolved to approve Noreen Lazariuk's hiring as School Turnaround Specialist for the 2015-2016 school year. Lazariuk was tasked with implementing Respondent's remedial plan, addressing the DOE's concerns, and responding to the Board's investigative findings concerning the administration. Lazariuk then assumed the Executive Director role at SCCST.

16. The Board also hired Deirdre Mastandrea (Mastandrea) to the newly created role of Principal during its August 24, 2016, meeting.

17. Mastandrea applied for the vacant position of Principal. Mastandrea has approximately twenty (20) years of experience working in schools. She worked as a School Social Worker for the Hamburg Public School and the Stillwater Public School from 1996-1997, and the Rockaway Township School from 1997-2002. Mastandrea then worked as the Family Outreach Coordinator for Rockaway Township School from 2002-2010.

18. Mastandrea began her employment at SCCST in 2012 in the position of Supervisor of Special Education, which position she held until she was elevated to Principal in August 2015. She also was appointed as the District Disciplinarian from January 2015 through the time she was elevated to her current position.

19. Mastandrea holds a Principal's License (April 2015), Supervisor's Certificate (January 2013), and School Social Worker Certificate (August 1996). Mastandrea obtained her Bachelor of Arts from Rutgers College in May 1994, Master of Social Work from Rutgers University in May 1996, and Master of Educational Leadership from Thomas Edison State College in March 2015.

20. At the Special Meeting of the Board of Trustees on August 24, 2015, the Board resolved to approve Mastandrea's hiring as Principal beginning Tuesday, August 25, 2015, at her current rate of employment under her 10-month contract of $77,400 from September 1, 2015, to June 30, 2016.

21. Mastandrea's newly created role as Principal of SCCST continues to evolve in order to meet the challenges identified by DOE's probationary review of the school. However, as of August 24, 2015, her duties included the following:

a. Assisting with leading the school through renewal and probation; daily decision-making to ensure the changes the State seeks;
b. Assisting with the completion of the Charter Renewal application;
c. Teacher professional development;
d. Review of lesson plans;
e. Participation in revisions of curriculum;
f. Teacher evaluations/observations;
g. Discipline;
h. Supervision of Special Education;
i. Department meeting;
j. PARCC implementation;
k. Classroom walkthrough and feedback; and
l. Affirmative Action Officer duties.

22. As further set forth in Respondent's Renewal Application for 2015-2016, Mastandrea's roles broadly include: Supervision of Teachers, Staff and Students, Climate and Culture, Parent Contact and Communication, Community Involvement.

23. Mastandrea's duties also include hiring, interfacing with parents (e.g. providing tours and focusing on recruitment), supervising and organizing afterschool activities, and schedule building.

24. As a result of the reorganization, the administration of SCCST changed as follows:

Former Administration (3.5 Administrators)
Position	Employee	Compensation in 2015
Administrative Principal (1, 12-mo. Administrative Position)	Jill Eckel	Salary: $105,053.00 Longevity: $1,500.00
Vice Principal/Technology Coordinator (0.5, 12-mo. Administrative Position)	James Baldini	Salary: $80,323.00 Longevity: $1000.00
Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction	Barbara Zappile	Salary: $80,323.00

(1, 12-mo. Administrative Position)
Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian (1, 10-mo. Administrative Position)	Deirdre Mastandrea	Salary: $77,400.00
TOTAL		$345,599.00
Current Administration (2 Administrators)
Position	Employee	Compensation in 2015
Executive Director (1, 12-mo. Administrative Position)	Noreen Lazariuk	Salary: $96,000.00
Principal (1, 12-mo. Administrative Position)	Deirdre Mastandrea	Salary: $77,400.00
TOTAL		$173,400.00

25. As set forth in Respondent's Renewal Application for 2015-2016, Lazariuk's roles also broadly include: Curriculum, Human Resources, State Reporting, Professional Development, Recruitment, and Ensuring of Mission and Vision.

26. As set forth in the October 15, 2015, Probation Site Visit Summary, Respondent's "Organizational Capacity" now "Meets the Standard" of the federal principles due to the following improvements:

The School's new leadership team has clear priorities and plans for improving student achievement.

- The school has a new leadership team, and interviewed stakeholders described clear roles and responsibilities.
- Interviewed teachers indicated regular support in developing lesson plans as well as instructional observation and feedback.
- The school has a formal evaluation system in place, but school leaders are developing walk-through protocols to enhance formative feedback to teachers.
- The school has increased opportunities for common planning and promoted more collaboration among faculty, particularly around curriculum and use of data.
- The school leaders have a professional development plan with clear priorities, including an ongoing focus on curriculum development, student-centered learning through co-teaching, assessment and use of data. The school is using internal expertise as well as consultants to improve instructional practices.

- Interviewed stakeholders, such as faculty and parents, note improved communication from the school's administration.

27. The DOE specifically noted the strength of the new organizational structure of SCCST in its Renewal Site Visit Summary dated January 28, 2016. (Lazariuk Cert., ¶36, Exh. Q, Renewal Site Visit Summary dated January 28, 2016.) That summary also reflects that the "Organizational Capacity" of Respondent "Meets the Standard" set forth by the federal principles, and specifically found the following:

The school has a clear and well-functioning organizational structure that leads to continuous improvement.

- The school has clear and well-understood systems for decision-making.
- The school provides strong instructional leadership to teachers.
- The school has an effective, comprehensive professional development program that improves the implementation of the curriculum and instructional practices.
- The school has developed systems for proactively addressing areas such as communication with stakeholders, community outreach, and teacher evaluations.

28. The DOE renewed SCCST's charter for a period of five (5) years, through and including June 30, 2021. Respondent remains on probation through February 28, 2017, during which time Respondent must continue to demonstrate effective implementation of its remedial plan and demonstrable growth on State assessment data.

29. The DOE specifically praised the new administration in its correspondence advising of Respondent's five (5) year renewal. It stated as follows:

> In August 2015, the Board hired a new executive director and promoted the former special education supervisor to the role of principal. Since the start of the school year, the new administration has directed several key initiatives that align to the school's remedial plan. With the help of consultants, > teachers have developed the school's curriculum to ensure its alignment to State standards. Teachers have received professional development pertaining to student-centered learning, lesson planning, assessment, and use of data. Administrators have been consistently reviewing lesson plans, conducting classroom observations, and providing teachers with feedback and the school is making progress on developing a data-driven culture at the school.

30. As reflected in the data, student academic proficiency has improved in Math (Overall) by 6.4% and in ELA (Overall) by 18.1% when compared to 2015.

31. Shortly after Respondent implemented its administrative reorganization, Baldini filed a Petition of Appeal on October 29, 2015.

32. This matter was transferred to the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on December 21, 2015, as a contested case.

33. Baldini holds the appropriate certification for the position of principal.

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT TESTIMONY

Petitioner's Case

James Baldini, Petitioner, testified as follows:

Mr. Baldini reviewed his resume and the various certifications and training he has received. He explained how his previous position as Vice Principal/Technology evolved. He explained the various duties he had as Vice Principal. He reviewed various contracts he had with Respondent. He noted that his job as Vice Principal/Technology had no formal job description. He drafted a job description himself at some point. Mr. Baldini described himself as "Second in Charge" of the school.

The State of New Jersey Department of Education came to SCCST on February 11, 2015. He was out on family leave from January 12, 2015, to March 2, 2015.

He was the supervisor of the Supervisor of Special Education, Deirdre Mastandrea. At that time the Supervisor of Special Education was a part time position. When Ms. Mastandrea was hired to a full-time position Mr. Baldini was no longer her supervisor.

Mr. Baldini explained that he was in charge of SCCST when the principal, Jill Eckel, was absent.

Mr. Baldini described the Technology part of his job title as being more a supervisory role. He made sure the systems were working. He prepared a technology plan. He updated as needed. Mr. Baldini stated that running the school comes first and the technology part comes second.

Mr. Baldini described the duties of Charles Culver as being his assistant.

Mr. Baldini spent a great deal of his testimony describing his background and qualifications for the position of principal. He detailed the various training courses he took, as well as the fact he has the requisite Principal certificate.

Mr. Baldini described how he attended several Board meetings in 2015 and complained of Principal Eckel. He also noted he complained about the purchase of computers that were inadequate, using the term "garbage," to the Board in 2013. He also stated that school staff did not like he was gone too often (a reference to his family leave time).

Respondent's Case

Edwin Selby testified as follows:

He is the president of the Board of Trustees for SCCST. He has been a board member for ten years and president for four years.

In 2013 the State of New Jersey DOE advised SCCST that it was not keeping up with comparable schools. A warning was issued, but there was no specific directive.

In 2015 the DOE again became involved and visited the school twice. One visit was a surprise visit and the other was a scheduled visit. SCCST was placed on probation and advised that its charter would not be renewed if there was no improvement. The charter was due for renewal in 2015. DOE required a remedial plan. Additionally, the school needed to submit its re-charter application.

The Board undertook an investigation and looked for suggestions to address the school's shortcomings. The Board reviewed staffing. The Board formed a committed to address these issues. The Charter Office of DOE also had concerns about the school's administrative staff. The Charter Office was concerned that the administrative staff structure was inadequate to move the school forward and would need changes. The Charter Office disagreed with the Board and did not think the administrative staff would be able to carry forward a remedial plan and bring the school up to expectations.

The Charter Office wanted a change in leadership. The school needed someone with experience in turning around a school. The school advertised for a turn-around specialist. The turn-around specialist was to mentor the staff and give them skills to implement data-driven instruction. The Board inquired of the school's business administrator on how to afford the position. In order to afford hiring a turn-around specialist the school needed to consolidate administrative positions. This was the only option. The Board did not consider eliminating teaching staff.

The Board spoke with its administrators and looked for suggestions. Administrators were asked to provide job descriptions. The Board reviewed the job description submitted by Mr. Baldini.

The Board hired Noreen Lazariuk as the turn-around specialist. The Board also hired Jill Eckel as Principal. Lazariuk and Eckel would share the duties of vice principal, supervisor of curriculum and instruction, which included data collection and application.

The hardware technology would be sustained by Mr. Culvert, a part-time employee. Ms. Lazariuk would have executive responsibility over the entire school.

In order to afford hiring the turn-around specialist the Board eliminated the positions of Vice Principal/Technology and Supervisor of Curriculum and Development. The duties of these two positions were consolidated with the duties of the turn-around specialist and the principal, Ms. Lazariuk and Ms. Eckel, respectively. This took place at the Board meeting of August 10, 2015.

The plan changed after ten days as Ms. Eckel decided to retire. The Board then immediately advertised for the position of principal. The Board hired Deirdre Mastandrea as principal after reviewing several applications. Ms. Mastandrea had been supervisor of special education and disciplinarian. Those roles would now be included in the principal position. In effect the Board consolidated four administrative positions into two. This resulted in a reduction of more than $170,000 in administrative salaries.

The school's charter was renewed in February 2016.

Mr. Baldini and Ms. Zappile, the former Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction, were each paid two months salary at the rate of their abolished positions.

Ms. Mastrandrea was hired based upon the response received and the needs of the school at the time. Interviews for principal were conducted by Ms. Lazariuk. Ms. Mastrandrea was interviewed on August 24, 2015, and hired that day at the Board meeting.

Mr. Baldini's resume was not submitted until the next day. He was not considered for the principal position as Ms. Mastrandrea had already been hired. Ms. Mastrandrea's duties including supervisor of special education, supervisor of curriculum and instruction and discipline. Ms. Mastrandrea continued as supervisor of special education after a part-time special education position was filled.

Noreen Lazariuk testified as follows:

She is Executive Director of SCCST. Her role was to save the school from closing, get its charter re-newed and have the school removed from probation. She immediately did an assessment of the reports and took action to remedy. She reviewed curriculum teachers submitted. She retained experts. She began writing the charter renewal application. She began this process on her first day, August 3, 2015. The renewal application was due October 15, 2015. A renewal visit was also to occur on October 15, 2015.

She informed the Mr. Baldini that his position as Vice Principal/Technology was being eliminated at the next Board meeting. The new administrative team consisted of herself, Ms. Eckel and Deirdre Mastrandrea as Supervisor of Special Educational/Disciplinarian.

Ms. Eckel decided to retire and Ms. Lazariuk immediately posted the job opening. She interviewed four candidates and recommended Deirdre Mastrandrea to the Board for the principal position. The Board hired Ms. Mastrandrea. The principal responsibilities included getting school open and continuing to work on renewal application and preparing for October 15, 2015, renewal visit. Ms. Lazariuk took over technology with the assistance of Ms. Mastrandrea and Mr. Culver. Ms. Mastrandrea also did affirmative action.

Ms. Lazariuk explained "bumping" rights, stating you cannot bump up into a position such as vice principal to principal.

Mr. Baldini was never considered for the principal position. She knew Mr. Baldini had a principal certification. Ms. Lazariuk interviewed four candidates for the principal job. She received Mr. Baldini's application for the principal job within hours of announcing Ms. Mastrandrea had been hired. She did not do anything regarding Mr. Baldini's application as the position had been filled.

The salary savings realized by the school in reducing four administrator positions into two of $172,199 does not include the sixty days of pay given to Mr. Baldini and Ms. Zappile. It also did not include the costs of consultants hired by Ms. Lazariuk. It also does not include the part time hire of a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDTC). The annual salary for the LDTC position is about $11,000. The consultants hired were a onetime thing and only one was paid $5,000. The other consultants did not charge.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following:

1. Petitioner was hired by Respondent as Vice Principal/Technology in 2010. He continued in that position until it was abolished by the Board in August 2015.

2. Petitioner had tenure rights to the position of social studies teacher, which he assumed following the abolition of his previous position.

3. On August 3, 2015, Noreen Lazariuk began in the position of turnaround specialist, now executive director, at SCCST. Ms. Lazariuk was hired by the Board in response to the Charter Office of the New Jersey DOE placing SCCST on probation.

4. The Board determined that the only way to afford to pay Ms. Lazariuk would be to consolidate administrative positions.

5. At the time of Ms. Lazariuk's hire there were four administrative positions at SCCST: Administrative Principal held by Jill Eckel; Vice Principal/Technology held by James Baldini; Supervisor Curriculum and Instruction held by Barbara Zappile; and, Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian held by Deirdre Mastandrea.

6. At the Board meeting of August 10, 2015, the positions of Vice Principal/Technology and Supervisor of Curriculum and Instruction were abolished. Ms. Eckel was named principal and she, Ms. Lazariuk and Ms. Mastandrea remained as three administrators. Ms. Mastandrea's position was a ten-month position.

7. Within ten days Ms. Eckel retired leaving an opening for the principal position.

8. The principal position opening was immediately posted and four candidates, including Ms. Mastrandrea, were interviewed by Ms. Lazariuk. Ms. Lazariuk thereafter recommended Ms. Mastrandrea to the Board for the position of principal. The Board hired Ms. Mastrandrea at their August 24, 2015, Board meeting.

9. In addition to being principal, Ms. Mastrandrea retained her duties as supervisor of special education and disciplinarian.

10. The total savings in salary by reducing four previous administrative positions into two was $172,199.

11. Both Mr. Baldini and Ms. Zappile were paid two months' pay after the abolition of their respective positions.

12. Sometime after Ms. Mastrandrea was hired a part time position of LDTC was filled at approximately $11,000 per year. Ms. Mastrandrea still retained her role as supervisor of special education after this part time hire.

13. After Ms. Lazariuk was hired she retained the services of several experts to assist her in addressing the issue of SCCST being placed on probation by DOE. One of those experts was paid $5,000. The others did not charge a fee.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner asserts two arguments: He is entitled to the position of Principal based upon his tenure in the abolished position of Vice Principal/Technology; and, the RIF was done in bad faith. Accordingly, an analysis of the applicable statutory and case law as to both issues is required.

The tenure of teaching staff is authorized by the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq. A teaching staff member must hold a valid certificate to "teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of . . . pupils in such public schools and of such other certificate, if any, as may be required by law." N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. In order to attain tenure, a teaching staff member must hold the appropriate certificate for his or her position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4. In addition to certification, the teaching staff member must also be employed by the school district or board for: "(a) [t]hree consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or (b) [t]hree consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or (c) [t]he equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

There are three types of educational certificates issued by the Board of Examiners: (1) instructional; (2) administrative and supervisory; and (3) educational services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. The Board of Examiners may also issue special "endorsements" under the appropriate certificates. Ibid. A teaching staff member must have the appropriate certificate and endorsement for his or her position. For example, an art teacher would be required to hold an instructional certificate with an art endorsement, which "authorizes the holder to teach art in all public schools." N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(2). A teaching staff member may possess multiple endorsements under a certificate, qualifying him or her to fill any position covered by the corresponding endorsement. For example, an art teacher holding an instructional certificate with an art endorsement and English as a second language endorsement is authorized to teach both art and English as a second language in all public schools. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)(2), (a)(8).

There are at least four separate endorsements under an administrative and supervisory certificate: (1) school administrator; (2) principal; (3) supervisor; and (4) school business administrator. N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3. According to the Supreme Court in Dennery v. Board of Education of the Passaic County Regional High School District # 1, 131 N.J. 625, 634 (1993), "[A]n educator with tenure in any endorsement that he or she possesses can, in effect, extend or transfer that tenure to other endorsements that are subsumed under the same certificate." Thus, the art teacher in the foregoing example with tenure under her instructional certificate with an art endorsement may apply that tenure to her English as a second language endorsement, i.e., she is a tenured art teacher as well as a tenured English as a second language teacher. A literal reading of Dennery would appear to compel the conclusion that a supervisor with tenure under her administrative and supervisory certificate with a supervisor endorsement could also apply her tenure to her principal endorsement, which is held under the same administrative and supervisory certificate. However, both the legislature, and the Supreme Court in a subsequent decision, Nelson v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358 (1997), rev'g, A-6441-94T5 (App. Div. April 29, 1996), rev'g, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 257, make it clear that tenure does not apply in the same way for administrative and supervisory personnel as it does for teachers.

In Nelson the petitioner held an administrative and supervisory certificate, with a principal endorsement and a supervisor endorsement, as well as an instructional certificate. He began his employment as a teacher of industrial arts, and was eventually appointed to department chairperson of industrial arts, achieving tenure in that supervisory position in 1985. His duties included assisting in the recruitment, hiring, training and supervising of department personnel, preparing the departmental budget, and evaluating teacher performance. Five years later, the board of education eliminated his position, reassigning him to his former position as a teacher of industrial arts. About three years later, three positions opened up, two as elementary school principals and one as a middle school vice principal. The petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, asserting that he was entitled by tenure to be appointed to any one of the three positions, even though he had never actually served as a principal or vice principal. Citing to the Supreme Court in Dennery, which held that a tenured educator in any endorsement can transfer that tenure to other endorsements under the same certificate, the ALJ determined that the petitioner was entitled to an appointment to one of the elementary school principal positions.

However, the Commissioner of Education rejected the ALJ's decision, finding that tenure accrued only as a result of actual work experience in the separately tenurable positions specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Since the petitioner could not transfer his tenure as a supervisor to the position of principal, he was not entitled to the position of elementary school principal. The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision. 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 257.

On appeal, the Appellate Division reversed the State Board of Education, reading the Dennery decision the same way as the ALJ, having earned tenure in the supervisor endorsement under the supervisory and administrative certificate, the petitioner could transfer his tenure to his principal endorsement, even though he never worked as a principal. Dennery, supra, A-6441-94T5.

During pendency of the appeal to the Supreme Court, the Legislature amended N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 in response to the Appellate Division's decision in Nelson, to clarify that "tenure is acquired in one of the specifically enumerated positions only if the individual has served for the requisite statutorily required period of time in that position." L. 1996, c. 58, §1, eff. June 28, 1996. The statute now reads, in pertinent part: "[T]enure in any of the administrative or supervisory positions enumerated herein shall accrue only by employment in that administrative or supervisory position. Tenure so accrued shall not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

The Supreme Court subsequently reversed the Appellate Division's decision in Nelson, and although it did not expressly overrule the Dennery decision, it noted that Dennery emphasized that the courts "should defer to the State Board in its interpretation of complex tenure laws." Nelson, supra, 148 N.J. at 366 (citing Dennery, supra, 131 N.J. at 637).

The decision in Nelson makes it clear that tenure is not transferable between certificates, or even between endorsements for separately tenurable positions within a single certificate. However, tenure may be transferable within the same endorsement, particularly a supervisor endorsement, which is "generic and authorizes the holder to supervise any subject matter and any grade level." Galbraith v. Lenape Regional High School District, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 396, 406, aff'd, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 558.

Further, N.J.A.C. 6A:32-5.1(l) makes it clear that principal and vice principal are separate tenurable positions.

To summarize, tenure accrues only as a result of actual work experience in the separately tenurable positions specifically enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, including all positions that require appropriate certificates and endorsements. Tenure accrued in a particular administrative or supervisory position does not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position enumerated in the statute.

The courts have permitted an individual to claim eligibility to a new position based on tenure in another position only when the two positions are "substantially identical." The New Jersey Supreme Court has recognized that, "[w]hen the duties of the position in which a teaching-staff member has acquired tenure are substantially identical to those of the position that the person seeks, a local school board may not sidestep an educator's tenure rights by simply renaming the position or tacking on additional meaningless requirements" and "must extend the teaching-staff member's tenure rights to the newly created position." Dennery v. Passaic County Reg. High School District Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J. 626, 639 (1993); see Viemeister, supra, 5 N.J. Super. at 218 (providing for the reinstatement of a tenured principal on the basis that his position had not in fact been abolished when the board created the position of "teaching" principal); Vogel v. Ridgefield Bd. of Educ., State Bd. of Educ. (June 5 ,1985), slip op. at 6-8 (holding that the board did not abolish in substance the position of elementary school principal but merely reassigned the duties of that position to a substantially similar position and the board's failure to reinstate petitioner, a tenured principal, to that position violated his tenure and seniority rights).

The Supreme Court in Dennery further explained:

> A mere overlap in duties, however, does not mean that two positions are equivalent for tenure purposes. If a newly-created position is similar to a tenure holder's abolished position but also requires additional duties or different responsibilities, then the newly-created position is not considered to be substantially similar to the former position. Santasiero v. Parsippany-Troy Hills Bd. of Educ., 1984 S.L.D. 854, 879; see also Sandri v. Board of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 1501 (ruling that duties of abolished position of supervisor of guidance/shop were similar but of greater nature and scope than newly-created position of director of special needs and student services); Rufalo v. Board of Educ., 1 986 S.L.D. 1699 (ruling that despite overlap of duties between post of vice-principal and newly-created supervisor position, positions were "substantially different").
> [Dennery, supra, 131 N.J. at 640.]

In the instant matter Petitioner holds a Principal Certificate and served in the position of Assistant Principal/Technology, where he earned tenure in that position. It is undisputed that Petitioner never served in the position of Principal.

Prior to the abolishment of the position of Vice Principal/Technology, SCCST had four administrative positions: Administrative Principal; Vice Principal/Technology; Director of Curriculum and Instruction; and, Special Education Supervisor/Disciplinarian. The Petitioner's previous position of Vice Principal/Technology and the position of Director of Curriculum and Instruction were abolished. The duties of those positions were incorporated into the Principal position the Executive Director (previously the turnaround specialist). That position of Principal is not substantially identical to the abolished position of Vice Principal/Technology as it encompasses significantly more duties than previously performed by Petitioner as Vice Principal/Technology. Certainly there were some overlap in duties. However, the newly hired Principal was responsible for special education, and discipline. These were not part of Petitioner's duties as Vice Principal/Technology. Further, Petitioner is not qualified to act as supervisor of special education. Accordingly, Petitioner's claim that he has tenure in the position of Principal must fail.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 states:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

A Board has broad discretion to implement RIFs. In Carpenito v. Board of Education of Borough of Rumson, Monmouth County, 322 N.J. Super. 530 (App. Div. 1999) the court states" "If done for proper reasons, such as 'economy' or because of a reduction in the number of pupils enrolled, the effectuation in force is entirely within the authority and discretion of the board."

Here the board reduced the number of administrators from four to two. The express purpose of the reduction was to afford the hiring of a turnaround specialist. The board was faced with a non-renewal of its charter and the closing of the school. The decision to abolish Petitioner's position of Vice Principal/Technology was well within the board's discretion. Further, Petitioner offered no credible evidence whatsoever that the RIF was done in bad faith.

Accordingly, Petitioner's claim that the RIF was done in bad faith must also fail. Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE and that the Petitioner does not have tenure rights to the position of Principal. I further CONCLUDE that the RIF was not done in bad faith.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's Complaint be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. PETITIONER,	:	DECISION
V.	:
A.B., on behalf of minor child, T.B.,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

On June 29, 2017, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found that T.B. was not a domiciliary of Red Bank for the 2016-2017 school year and was, therefore, not entitled to a free education in the District's schools during that time. The Commissioner further found that T.B. attended school in the District as an ineligible student for 92 days between September 6, 2016 and January 31, 2017. The Commissioner, therefore, assessed respondent, Alfanette Bronson, $7,099.64 in tuition costs, to be reimbursed to the Red Bank Board of Education for T.B.'s period of ineligible attendance in the District's schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that respondent had failed to reimburse petitioner as directed in the final decision, and has requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. Respondent offered no reasons why the judgment against her should not be so docketed, although given an opportunity by this agency to do so.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Alfanette Bronson is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $7,099.64, which represents the total payment ordered at the conclusion of the contested case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

The record of this matter, the proposed settlement agreement and general release (Agreement), and the Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 have been reviewed. According to the Agreement, the Board will restore two sick days to the petitioner's accumulated sick leave within 30 days after the execution of the Agreement. This date has preceded the consideration of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. The parties are reminded that a settlement of litigation before the Commissioner is not binding until the Commissioner approves the settlement.

In light of the foregoing, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter, provided that the parties have already implemented the settlement terms, or have agreed upon a mutually satisfactory alternate date for the effectuation of the settlement payment. Assuming same, the matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

Petitioner, Patricia J. Schreiber, seeks to have her sick time restored. The Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on October 21, 2016, for hearing as a contested case. A telephone prehearing conference was held on November 29, 2016, and the hearing was scheduled April 4, 2017. During a telephone conference held on March 22, 2017, counsel for petitioner requested the matter be resolved by way of summary decision. Thereafter, counsel for the Board advised that the matter had been tentatively settled. Subsequently, counsel for the Board submitted the attached Settlement Agreement and Release, along with the Board resolution, indicating the terms of agreement between the parties.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT & RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release (hereinafter referred to as "Agreement") is made this 8th day of June 2017, by and between the Union County Vocational Technical School District Board of Education and its agents, past and present members, employees, attorneys, successors, heirs and assigns (collectively "the Board"), and Patricia Schreiber and her agents, attorneys, successors, heirs and assigns (collectively "Schreiber"). (Schreiber and the Board will hereinafter be collectively referred to as the "Parties").

WHEREAS, Schreiber is employed with the Board as a tenured art teacher; and

WHEREAS, Schreiber filed a Petition for Relief with the Commissioner of Education to challenge the Board's alleged improper charging of two (2) sick days [OAL Dkt. No.: EDU 16072-2016N; Agency Ref. No.: 262-9/16]; and

WHEREAS, the Board filed an Answer to Ms. Schreiber's Petition for Relief, disputing her entitlement to the restoration of the two (2) sick days; and

WHEREAS, the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law and assigned to the Honorable Michael Antoniewicz, A.L.J., for adjudication; and

WHEREAS, the Parties are desirous to amicably resolve this matter in lieu of proceeding with litigation; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the agreements contained herein, the Parties agree as follows:

1. In exchange for the below consideration, Schreiber will immediately dismiss with prejudice the Petition for Relief currently pending against the Board [OAL Dkt. No.: EDU

16072-2016N; Agency Ref. No.: 262-9/16]. Schreiber further agrees not to file a new claim or lawsuit, in any forum, against the Board and its past and present members, officers, administrators, agents, employees, attorneys, successors, heirs and assigns, for any claims or rights, whether known or unknown, arising out of or related to the allegations set forth in the litigation captioned Patricia Schreiber v. Board of Education of Union County Vocational Technical Schools, OAL Dkt. No.: EDU 16072-2016N; Agency Ref. No.: 262-9/16.

2. The Board will restore two (2) sick days to Schreiber's accumulated sick leave within thirty (30) days of the execution of this Agreement.

3. The signatures of the parties below indicate that they have had an opportunity to review this Agreement with their respective Counsel, that they have read and understood the provisions, and that they have executed it voluntarily with full knowledge of the significance of all provisions.

4. This Agreement is executed and all consideration is given in final settlement of disputed claims and shall not be construed as an admission of any allegation or of liability by the Board, and any such liability is expressly denied.

5. This Agreement shall not be modified or amended except by writing duly executed and signed by the parties to this Agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties hereto have duly executed this Agreement as of the date first written above.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

This Agreement is made by and between Petitioner, Zuzanna Szczech ("Z.S."), and the Respondent, Fair Lawn Board of Education.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, in or about January of 2017, Respondent Fair Lawn Board of Education ("the Board") determined, based on the results of a residency investigation and the evidence produced at a hearing before the Board requested by Z.S., that minor students M.M., M.M., and M.M. were not domiciled in the Fair Lawn School District ("District") and thus not entitled to a free, public education in the District, and the Board therefore passed a resolution ordering the removal of the students from the District; and

WHEREAS, Petitioner thereafter commenced an administrative action to challenge the Board's residency determination with regard to M.M., M.M., and M.M.; and

WHEREAS, this administrative action is captioned Z.S. o/b/o M.M., M.M., and M.M. v. Fair Lawn Board of Education, and is currently pending before the Commissioner of Education in the Office of Administrative Law and docketed as OAL Dkt. No. EDU 05917-17, Agency Dkt. No. 62-3/17 ("the Litigation"), the allegations of which are detailed more fully in the Petition of Appeal served and filed in the Litigation; and

WHEREAS, in order to avoid the expense, inconvenience, distractions and inherent uncertainties associated with continuation of this dispute, and the fees and expenses that inevitably would result therefrom, the Parties, by this Agreement, herein agree to adopt a full and final settlement of any and all claims, lawsuits, complaints, and/or disputes between Petitioner and Respondent in connection with any and all damages and losses arising from the Litigation; and

WHEREAS, by this Agreement, Petitioner will voluntarily dismiss the Litigation with prejudice, and without costs to any party as against the other;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency and adequacy of which is acknowledged, the parties to this Agreement agree as follows:

1. The Parties mutually agree that, during the pendency of the residency investigation, M.M., M.M., and M.M. were found by the Board not to be domiciled in Fair Lawn.
2. Petitioner understands and agrees that M.M., M.M., and M.M. are not eligible for enrollment in the District and that Petitioner must make alternative plans for the education of M.M., M.M., and M.M. for the 2017-2018 school year and subsequent school years.
3. Petitioner agrees that tuition for M.M., M.M., and M.M. for the period of ineligible attendance is due and owing to the Board, for which Petitioner is fully liable. The Board has agreed to not pursue its Counter Claims against Petitioner seeking full tuition for the period of ineligible attendance, in exchange for the consideration and other terms and conditions specified in this Stipulation.

4. Petitioner and Respondent consent to the assessment by the Commissioner of Education of a fixed money amount against Petitioner in the amount of Twenty-Two Thousand Dollars ($22,000.00). By execution of this Stipulation, Petitioner consents to the Commissioner's issuance of a final order of assessment in such amount, and notification to the Clerk of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-11.1 that the final order of assessment is subject to recording on the judgment docket of the court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10.

5. The Petitioner further shall permit the Board to place a Twenty-Two Thousand Dollar ($22,000.00) (the "Settlement Amount") Mortgage (the "Mortgage") on real estate owned by Petitioner located at 20 Spruce Street, Elmwood Park, New Jersey 07407 (the "Property"). The Board, at the Petitioner's sole expense, shall, within fifteen (15) days of the date hereof, order a title search to confirm the lien position of the Mortgage prior to recordation. Failure by Petitioner to execute any and all documents necessary to perfect the Board's lien against the Property shall be a breach of this Agreement.

6. In the event Petitioner sells or otherwise disposes or transfers ownership of the Property, Petitioner acknowledges and agrees that the Settlement Amount shall become immediately due and owing to the Board. To the extent that the proceeds of the Property sale do not satisfy the full amount due and owing under this Agreement, Petitioner shall remain personally liable for any deficiency.

7. Petitioner, in consideration of this Stipulation of Settlement and Release, and in full, final, and complete settlement of the matter, hereby agrees to a withdrawal and/or dismissal, with prejudice, of the Petition of Appeal in this matter

8. Petitioner further agrees to indemnify Respondent for any and all costs, including court costs and attorneys' fees, associated with any action instituted by Respondent to enforce the terms of this Agreement should Petitioner breach the Agreement and/or fail to adhere to the agreed-upon terms and conditions contained herein.

9. The terms of this Agreement shall in no way constitute acceptance or assent by the Board that M.M., M.M., and M.M., nor any other child of Petitioner, as may be applicable, is automatically entitled to a free public education in the District at any point in the future, and the Parties understand and agree that Respondent reserves the right to investigate M.M., M.M., and M.M.'s and/or Petitioner's residency status in the District at any time should Petitioner attempt to re-enroll any of her children in the District or if it otherwise becomes necessary to do so, in order to determine whether or not Petitioner and/or her child(ren) are domiciled in the District.

10. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Board. If approved, the Board President is fully authorized to execute this Agreement on behalf of the Board.

11. In exchange for the above consideration, Respondent Board agrees to release Petitioner from any and all claims, cross-claims, counterclaims, demands, liabilities, damages, indebtedness, costs, attorneys' fees, actions or obligations of any nature, which solely arise out of or are related in any way to this Litigation, through the date of this Agreement and agrees to the withdrawal/dismissal of any counter-claim for tuition payments, through the date of this Agreement.

12. This Agreement shall not constitute an admission of wrongdoing by any party and no party shall be considered to be a prevailing party for any purpose.

13. This Agreement is to be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

14. Petitioner hereby represents that she is freely entering into this Agreement, that she was advised of her right to obtain counsel of her choosing and has done so, and that she has read and fully understands the contents and effects of this Agreement.

15. This Settlement is subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge assigned to this matter and the Commissioner of Education. The terms of this Agreement shall not be binding until said approvals are received.

16. This Agreement shall be binding upon all parties hereto, and shall inure to the benefit of each of them, as well as their respective estates, heirs, legal representatives, successors, predecessors, parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, owners, directors, officers, shareholders, members, employees, agents and assigns.

17. This Agreement constitutes the entire understanding and agreement by the parties with respect to the subject matter of this Agreement, and there are no agreements, undertakings, restrictions, representations or warranties as between the parties other than those set forth herein. This Agreement supersedes all previous arrangements or understandings, whether written or oral, and contains the entire agreement of the parties with respect to its subject matter. This Agreement may be modified or amended only by written agreement jointly executed by the Petitioner and Respondent.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have executed this Agreement, consisting of six pages, on the dates set forth below.

Record Closed: October 20, 2017 Decided: October 25, 2017

BEFORE JACOB S. GERTSMAN, ALJ:

On April 11, 2017, petitioner P.J., on behalf of minor child, T.H., filed a residency appeal from a determination of the Red Bank Board of Education (Board) that T.H. was not properly residing in the District, and was not entitled to a free public education therein, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-8.1, and N.J.A.C. 6A:22. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 3, 2017, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A motion to participate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.6, was filed on August 2, 2017, by J.P., mother of minor child T.H. The motion was granted on August 8, 2017.

The matter was scheduled for an evidentiary hearing on September 18, 2017. Prior to the commencement of the hearing, counsel announced that they had reached an accord which was contingent on the Board's approval. On October 20, 2017, I received a certified copy of an excerpt of the Board's minutes from September 19, 2017, containing a resolution approving same. (J-2.) The settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, is attached and fully incorporated herein. (J-1.)

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures on the attached document.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the safeguard requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and, accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), suspending him from coaching at any NJSIAA school for two years and fining him $1000.00 for violation of the Association's Recruitment Rule. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that he was not afforded the requisite due process before the NJSIAA, and that both the decision of the Executive Committee and the underlying decision of the Controversies Committee were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

The NJSIAA contended, inter alia, that: the petitioner was provided with full and fair due process; the decision of the Executive Committee was not arbitrary and capricious, as there was sufficient evidence in the record that petitioner violated recruitment rules when he used his basketball contacts to help enroll multiple international students at Paterson's Eastside High School who had little or no connection to Paterson, and provided housing and food for those students who were members of Eastside's basketball team; and it is a violation of NJSIAA rules to make "any effort to proselytize, pressure, urge or entice a student to enroll in or transfer to a school for athletic purposes." The NJSIAA emphasized that its decision is entitled to wide deference, and should be affirmed by the Commissioner.

The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's decision and dismissed the petition, finding, inter alia, that petitioner did not meet his burden so as to entitle him to prevail on appeal. In so deciding, the Commissioner – who may not substitute her judgment for that of the NJSIAA on appeal – noted that the ban on athletic recruitment does not require a showing that the players received an athletic advantage or that they provided an actual athletic advantage to the basketball team, but simply that the players enrolled in the Paterson School District for an athletic reason. There being ample evidence that this was the case herein, the Commissioner found that the Executive Committee's ruling that petitioner violated NJSIAA's Recruitment Rule was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

JUAN GRILES,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Juan Griles, Alfred F. Maurice, Esq.

For Respondent, New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association, Michael W. Herbert, Esq.

This case involves an appeal of a decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) Executive Committee, suspending the petitioner – Juan Griles – from coaching at any NJSIAA school and fining him in the amount of $1000.00 for recruiting violations. On appeal, the petitioner argues that he was not afforded the requisite due process before the NJSIAA and that the decisions of both the Controversies Committee and the Executive Committee were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Athletic competition in New Jersey's public schools is overseen by the NJSIAA, a voluntary, non-profit organization which promulgates the rules and regulations governing high school athletics. See, B.C. v. Cumberland Reg. Sch. Dist., 220 N.J. Super. 214, 234 (App. Div. 1987). The NJSIAA member schools have adopted a number of eligibility rules for student athletes that have been approved by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, and are published in the NJSIAA Handbook. One of the eligibility rules is the Recruitment Rule, which prohibits schools – or anyone associated with the school – from engaging in any effort to "proselytize, pressure, urge or entice a student to enroll in or transfer to a school for athletic purposes." NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V, Section 4.D. Schools accused of recruiting are subjected to a hearing before the Controversies Committee, and face potential penalties including probation, forfeit of games and/or championship rights, suspension of players and/or coaches, and fines of up to $1000.00 per party. NJSIAA Bylaws, Article X, Penalties.

On February 6, 2017, New Jersey Advanced Media published an article regarding multiple international students who were living with the petitioner and playing on the Eastside High School basketball team, which was coached by the petitioner. Further reports also surfaced regarding potential recruitment violations regarding players on the Eastside High School girls basketball team. These allegations led to the Paterson School District's (Paterson) voluntary withdrawal from the 2017 State Championship Tournament, and the suspension and/or termination of many employees. Paterson also retained former New Jersey Supreme Court Justice John Wallace to conduct an internal investigation of the boys and girls basketball programs. Justice Wallace issued a report detailing numerous violations of District policies and NJSIAA rules on the part of various coaches and administrators at Eastside High School.

The NJSIAA reviewed the report and determined that a hearing should be held before the NJSIAA Controversies Committee regarding the potential violation of NJSIAA rules. Following a hearing where testimony was taken, the Controversies Committee found that the petitioner violated NJSIAA's Recruitment Rule.[1] Specifically, the Controversies Committee found that the petitioner, through his basketball contacts, helped to enroll students at Eastside High School who had little to no connection with Paterson, and that the petitioner provided housing and food for those students who were members of the basketball team. As a result, the petitioner engaged in an effort to "proselytize, pressure, urge, or entice a student to enroll in or transfer to a school for athletic purposes." NJSIAA

[1] The Controversies Committee also found that Paterson and Ray Lyde, Jr. – the girls basketball coach – violated NJSIAA rules and imposed penalties on both Paterson and Coach Lyde. Those findings and penalties are not the subject of this appeal.

Bylaws, Article V, Section 4.D. On August 3, 2017, the petitioner appealed the decision of the Controversies Committee to the Executive Committee. Following a hearing on September 13, 2017 before the Executive Committee, during which counsel for the petitioner presented oral argument in support of his appeal, the Executive Committee unanimously affirmed the decision of the Controversies Committee.

On September 28, 2017, the petitioner filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the decision of the NJSIAA. On appeal, the petitioner maintains that he was not afforded the requisite due process before the NJSIAA. First, the hearing was held before the Controversies Committee on June 13, 2017 and counsel for the petitioner did not receive notice of the hearing until June 7, 2017, less than a week before the hearing date. Additionally, the petitioner argues that he never had the opportunity to review the evidence against him in advance of the hearing before the Controversies Committee; therefore, he had no ability to present a defense or otherwise present evidence on his behalf. The petitioner also contends that the Executive Committee undertook no deliberation prior to rubber stamping the decision of the Controversies Committee.

In addition to the lack of due process, the petitioner argues that the decision of both Committees finding that the petitioner engaged in recruiting was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. The residence of all of the students who lived with the petitioner was completely lawful and had nothing to do with their eligibility to play basketball. Furthermore, no athletic advantage was gained by the basketball program based upon the enrollment of the students and in fact their roles on the varsity and junior varsity teams were de minimus. Moreover, the Controversies Committee found that the petitioner engaged in recruiting, despite Justice Wallace finding in his report that the petitioner was not seeking athletic advantage but instead was acting as a humanitarian. Finally, the punishment that the petitioner received was twice the penalty received by the girls basketball coach for ostensibly the same alleged offense. As a result, the petitioner argues that the NJSIAA's decision should be overturned.

In reply, the NJSIAA maintains that the Executive Committee's decision was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and is entitled is wide deference. The NJSIAA argues that the petitioner was provided with full and fair due process. Prior to the hearing before the Controversies Committee, the petitioner was given the opportunity to submit documentary evidence or sworn statements. The petitioner also could have presented testimony at the hearing but he chose not to appear. Significantly, petitioner did not object to the notice he received for the June 13, 2017 hearing at any time prior to the hearing. Additionally, the petitioner was permitted to appeal the Controversies Committee's decision to the Executive Committee. In that appeal, the petitioner submitted a brief in support of his position, which was provided to all of the members of the Executive Committee prior to the meeting. Counsel for the petitioner presented oral argument to the committee members, which was fully considered by the Executive Committee. Therefore, the NJSIAA provided the petitioner with substantial and fair due process.

The NJSIAA also contends that the decision of the Controversies Committee which was upheld by the Executive Committee was supported by sufficient evidence and should not be overturned by the Commissioner. It is a violation of NJSIAA rules to make "any effort to proselytize, pressure, urge or entice a student to enroll in or transfer to a school for athletic purposes." NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V, Section 4.D. This includes providing any form of monetary assistance to a student to enable that student to enroll at school for athletic purposes. In this case, the petitioner had multiple students living in his home who also became members of the basketball team that he coached. Many of the students had no connection to Paterson, and came there solely for the purposes of enrolling at Eastside High School. The evidence also showed that all of the students' journeys to Paterson were facilitated through contacts the petitioner made in the basketball world. Moreover, none of the students who joined the basketball team for the 2016-2017 school year had transfer forms completed until after the media reports were released.

The Controversies Committee noted that it was unconvinced by the conclusion of Justice Wallace regarding athletic recruitment because Justice Wallace erroneously focused on whether the petitioner was attempting to gain an athletic advantage by enrolling the students. The proper inquiry for purposes of the Recruitment Rule is whether the petitioner engaged "any effort to proselytize, pressure, urge or entice a student to enroll in or transfer to a school for athletic purposes." NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V, Section 4.D. Providing housing for students who became members of his basketball team clearly meets the definition of recruitment. Finally, as a coach for a NJSIAA member school who violated NJSIAA's rules, the petitioner was subject to the penalties enumerated in Article X, which specifically include suspension and the imposition of fines. Therefore, the Commissioner should affirm the decision of the Executive Committee and dismiss the petition in its entirety.

It is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions, including determinations made by the Executive Committee, is appellate in nature. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3; Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182, 188. A petitioner seeking to overturn a decision of the NJSIAA bears the burden of proof. Id. As such, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA in applying its rules, absent a demonstration by the petitioner that it applied such rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner.[2] See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); see also B.C. v. Cumberland Regional School District, 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Moreover, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration." Bayshore, supra, at 199-200. Therefore, the Commissioner may not substitute her own judgment for that of the NJSIAA, where due process has been provided and where there is sufficient credible evidence in the record to serve as a basis for the decision reached by the NJSIAA. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

Upon consideration of the record and in light of the prescribed standard of review, the Commissioner finds that the petitioner has not met his burden on appeal. As a threshold matter, the petitioner was afforded adequate due process before the NJSIAA. The petitioner was provided notice of the hearing through his counsel, and he was given the opportunity to testify and present evidence at the hearing before the Controversies Committee. The petitioner opted instead not to attend the hearing, and did not even submit evidence or sworn statements for the Committee's consideration. Petitioner did exercise his right to appeal the decision of the Controversies Committee to the Executive Committee and was he provided with due process before the Executive Committee. Counsel for the petitioner submitted a position paper to the Executive Committee and provided oral argument before that Committee, all of which were considered by its members before a decision on the appeal was rendered.

Further, the Commissioner cannot find that the NJSIAA applied its rules in a patently arbitrary or unreasonable manner when it found that the petitioner violated the Recruitment Rule. It is undisputed that the petitioner had multiple students living in his home who also became members of the basketball team that he coached. Many of the students had no connection to Paterson; their arrival in Paterson was facilitated through contacts the petitioner made in the basketball world; and they came to Paterson solely for the purpose of enrolling at Eastside High School. Moreover, none of the students who joined the basketball team for the 2016-2017 school year had transfer forms completed until after the media reports regarding the circumstances of their living situation were released.[3] Importantly, the ban on athletic recruitment does not require a showing that the players received an athletic advantage or that they provided an actual athletic advantage to the basketball team, but simply that the players enrolled in the Paterson School District for an athletic reason. There is ample evidence in the record to demonstrate that the decision of the Executive Committee – finding that the petitioner violated the Recruitment Rule – was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Likewise, the penalty imposed on the petitioner for violation of the NJSIAA's rules was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, the NJSIAA's decision is upheld and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner appealed the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA), disqualifying the Paterson School District's boys and girls basketball teams from participating in state tournaments for two years as one of several penalties imposed upon the District for egregious violations of NJSIAA rules and regulations. Petitioner contended, inter alia, that both the decision of the NJSIAA Executive Committee and the underlying decision of the Controversies Committee were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable because the penalty imposed would have a "disproportionate impact" on students, parents, and fans of the basketball teams; the petitioner further claimed that "it shocks the conscience that NJSIAA, presumably charged with instilling the values of fair play and sportsmanship, would penalize children for the acts of adults."

The NJSIAA contended, inter alia, that: the petitioner was provided with full and fair due process; petitioner misstated the applicable standard of review herein, as the Commissioner's review is appellate in nature and the arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable standard is applicable in this case; the decision of the Executive Committee was not arbitrary and capricious, as it is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record showing that petitioner violated several NJSIAA rules and regulations; and NJSIAA acted within its authority when it disqualified the petitioner's basketball teams from playing in the state tournament for two years based on violation of NJSIAA rules. The NJSIAA urged the Commissioner to affirm the decision of the NJSIAA Executive Committee.

The Commissioner upheld the NJSIAA's decision and dismissed the petition, finding, inter alia, that petitioner did not meet its burden so as to entitle the District to prevail on appeal. In so deciding, the Commissioner – who may not substitute her judgment for that of the NJSIAA on appeal – noted that petitioner's contentions that the "values associated with interscholastic athletics include fair play, integrity, and good faith sportsmanship" and the goals of interscholastic athletics to prepare "student athlete participants for life by instilling within them overriding notions of teamwork, fair play and discipline," are well aligned with the NJSIAA's decision to disqualify Paterson's basketball teams from participating in tournament play as a consequence of egregious violations of NJSIAA rules and regulations.

V.	:	DECISION
NEW JERSEY STATE INTERSCHOLASTIC ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner, Frances E. Barto, Esq. (Barto & Barto, LLC)

For Respondent, Kayleen Egan, Esq. (Parker McCay, P.A.)

In this matter, petitioner seeks review of the decision of the Executive Committee of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) affirming the penalty imposed on the District by its Controversies Committee. The Controversies Committee found that petitioner violated several rules of the NJSIAA and imposed – among other penalties – a two-year disqualification of the boys and girls basketball teams from participating in the state tournament for 2017 and 2018, which is the subject matter of this appeal.

On appeal, petitioner maintains that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable because the penalty imposed on petitioner has a "disproportionate impact," and should be reversed. Petitioner argues that the penalty ultimately punishes the students, the parents, and the community for the conduct of the adults who were in charge of the basketball program. Petitioner states that the District's students are generally poor and living in an urban environment where the student athletes depend on sports in numerous ways, including college scholarships and opportunities to play at a more competitive level. Petitioner also argues that the standard of review in this matter should be whether the penalty is disproportionate to the offense alleged because the District is not challenging the findings but rather the penalty that "disproportionately impacts" the students, the parents, and the fans of the teams. Petitioner claims that "it shocks the conscience that NJSIAA, presumably charged with instilling the values of fair play and sportsmanship, would penalize children for the acts of adults." Petitioner's Brief at 12-13.

The NJSIAA maintains that petitioner was provided adequate due process and that the Executive Committee's decision was not arbitrary or capricious, as it was supported by sufficient credible evidence. Respondent argues that petitioner has misstated the applicable standard of review, as the Commissioner's review is appellate in nature and the arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable standard should be applied. Respondent contends that the NJSIAA acted within its authority when it restricted the District's eligibility for the tournaments for violation of NJSIAA rules, and notes that it considered petitioner's voluntary withdrawal from the 2017 tournament as "time served" in rendering a proper penalty. Respondent further contends that the fact that individual players were not involved in the violation of NJSIAA rules is immaterial to the penalty imposed because the penalty is imposed on the District and not the students. The NJSIAA notes that students have no right to participate in extra-curricular athletics, and applying its rules differently to urban districts – as petitioner proposes – would be arbitrary and capricious. Respondent submits that the NJSIAA, therefore, did not apply its rules in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner with respect to the petitioner, and as such, the Commissioner should affirm its decision.

Petitioner filed a sur-reply on November 17, 2017, in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.3(c), arguing that the NJSIAA's decision was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable under the circumstances because the NJSIAA rendered a different decision in a separate matter involving recruitment of student athletes. On November 22, 2017, respondent submitted a letter requesting that the Commissioner decline to consider petitioner's submission. The Commissioner has considered petitioner's sur-reply – despite the submission having been filed without permission – as well as respondent's correspondence thereof, and finds that the arguments set forth in the sur-reply have no bearing on the facts and the penalties imposed in this matter

The NJSIAA is an independent, voluntary association of public, non-public, and independent high schools in New Jersey, responsible for the promulgation of rules and regulations in connection with orderly administration of athletic programs. The member schools are bound by the NJSIAA rules and regulations – as set forth in its Constitution, Bylaws, Rules and Regulations – including eligibility requirements, athletic recruitment and transfer procedures, and administrative responsibilities of member schools. The NJSIAA is charged with enforcing its rules and regulations, and decisions made by the NJSIAA relating to any member public school district may be appealed to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3. However, it is well-established that the Commissioner's scope of review in matters involving NJSIAA decisions, including determinations made by the Executive Committee, is appellate in nature. See Bd. of Educ. of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 182 (Feb. 10, 1992). A petitioner seeking to overturn a decision of the NJSIAA bears the burden of proof. Id. As such, the Commissioner may not overturn an action by the NJSIAA absent a demonstration by petitioner that the NJSIAA applied its rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner.[1] See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(2); see also B.C. v. Cumberland Reg'l Sch. Dist., 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Moreover, "where there is room for two opinions, action is not arbitrary or capricious when exercised honestly and upon due consideration."

[1] Arbitrary and capricious means "willful and unreasoning action, without consideration and in disregard of circumstances." Bayshore Sew. Co. v. Dep't of Envt. Protection, 122 N.J. Super. 184, 199-200 (Ch. Div. 1973), aff'd 131 N.J. Super. 37 (App. Div. 1974).

Bayshore, supra, at 199-200. Therefore, the Commissioner may not substitute her own judgment for that of the NJSIAA where due process has been afforded and where exists sufficient credible evidence in the record to serve as a basis for the decision rendered by the NJSIAA. See N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.5(a)(1); Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner upholds the decision of the NJSIAA. The Commissioner finds that petitioner has not met its burden to prevail on appeal, as the petitioner's due process rights were not violated; further, the evidence in the record supports the Commissioner's finding that the NJSIAA decision in this matter was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.[2] As noted above, petitioner disagrees with the penalty imposed, specifically, the District's two-year disqualification from the state tournament for 2017 and 2018.[3] Petitioner's basis for seeking reversal of the penalty is the alleged "disproportionate impact" the penalty has on the students, including "the potentially far reaching consequences of depriving student athletes of life changing opportunities." Petitioner's Brief at 20. The Commissioner is unpersuaded by petitioner's arguments.

As a preliminary matter, the standard of review is not whether the "punishment is so disproportionate to the offense" that it is "shocking to one's sense of fairness[,]" Id.. at 12; rather, the Commissioner will uphold a penalty so long as it is reasonable and proper based on the record. In this matter, petitioner was found – as amply supported by the evidence in the record – to have violated several rules of the NJSIAA. Such violations – without exception – result in the consequences outlined in the Bylaws, including forfeiture of games, probation, and/or disqualification from tournaments. See NJSIAA Bylaws, Article V. The Controversies

[2] Although petitioner does not allege violation of its due process rights, Commissioner's scrutiny of same is to reiterate her full consideration of the matter and her limited scope of review of NJSIAA appeals.

[3] Petitioner has argued that the District "voluntarily" withdrew from the 2017 tournament; however, such voluntary withdrawal is irrelevant for the purposes of this appeal as forfeiture of games and subsequent disqualification from the 2017 tournament was inevitable and mandatory – without a right of appeal – pursuant to NJSIAA Bylaws, Article X and Article V.

Committee may also impose additional penalties on the offending school district. See id. at Article X. The Controversies Committee was, therefore, within its authority to deem the District's basketball teams ineligible for the 2018 tournament as a result of petitioner's violations.

With regard to petitioner's arguments as to the purported impact on the student athletes and the greater school community, the District has not provided tangible support for such assertions.[4] Specifically, the Commissioner is not convinced that the student athletes of the basketball teams would lose the opportunity to go to college or be deprived of scholarships because of the teams' disqualification from a tournament; particularly when the teams are not barred for playing basketball against other schools during its regular season, which allows the District's student athletes to participate and compete in the sport, and showcase their skills and abilities as they otherwise would. Therefore, petitioner's arguments are speculative, at best. Petitioner also fails to acknowledge that the NJSIAA rules clearly set forth the range of penalties that may be imposed on a school district and an entire team. Notably, when a team has been unjustly enriched via a rule violation, such as participation in games by ineligible players, the resulting penalty will affect the entire team. Consequently, the penalty imposed on the District in this matter is certainly not unique, nor is it contrary to the rules. Of note is petitioner's contention that the "values associated with interscholastic athletics include fair play, integrity, and good faith sportsmanship" and the goals of interscholastic athletics is to "prepare its student athlete participants for life, by instilling within them overriding notions of teamwork, fair play and discipline." Petitioner's Brief at 15. The Commissioner finds that the NJSIAA's decision to disqualify the District from participating in the 2018 tournament for egregious violations of NJSIAA rules and regulations is aligned with those goals and values.

[4] The Commissioner notes that the District represents its interests in this matter, not the students; therefore, arguments on behalf of the students, in support of petitioner's appeal, lack candor.

Accordingly – the Commissioner having found that a two-year ineligibility from the state tournament is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable – the NJSIAA's ruling is upheld and the petition of appeal dismissed.

IN THE MATTER OF DAVID EICHENHOLTZ,	:
EAST NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
HUDSON COUNTY.	:	DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file his Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (hereinafter jointly referred to as "disclosure statements") in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately filed disclosure statements after the issuance of its August 22, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's September 26, 2017 meeting and it, therefore, recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4, of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO FILE PERSONAL/RELATIVE AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS
EAST NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION*, HUDSON COUNTY	:
	:	DOCKET NO.: D02-17

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on August 22, 2017, and mailed on August 23, 2017, through regular and electronic mail,, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find him in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that he had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file his Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2017. Respondent failed to file his Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated August 8, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file his Disclosure Statements by August 18, 2017, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file his Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by August 18, 2017, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on August 22, 2017. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent filed his completed Disclosure Statements on August 30, 2017. Respondent also filed a response to the OTSC, and alleged that he "did not receive any original emails with this request."

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on September 26, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

IN THE MATTER OF BARBARA VILLARI-PETERS, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PINE HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission (Commission) finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act (SEA) for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (disclosure statements) in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. The Commission's decision was forwarded to the Commissioner for final determination on the recommended penalty pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c). The Commission advises that the respondent failed to file her disclosure statements despite the issuance of its August 22, 2017 Order to Show Cause. The Commission recommended that respondent receive a suspension of 30 days effective immediately upon the Commissioner's adoption of the penalty. The Commission further recommends that respondent be removed from her position on the 31st day if she fails to file her disclosure statements within the period of 30 days following the Commissioner's final decision in this matter. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor has she instituted an appeal of the Commission's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission for respondent's failure to honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby suspended for from her position as a school official for 30 days from the date of this decision, and is hereby ordered to submit the requisite Disclosure Statements within 30 days. If respondent fails to submit the disclosure statements within 30 days from the date of this decision, she shall be removed from her position as a school official found to have violated the SEA.

AMENDED DECISION

IN THE MATTER OF BARBARA VILLARI-PETERS, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PINE HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

On December 18, 2017, the Commissioner rendered a decision concurring with the October 31, 2017 recommendation of the School Ethics Commission (SEC) that respondent be suspended for 30 days – effective upon the Commissioner's adoption of the penalty – for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1, in violation of the School Ethics Act (SEA).

Subsequently, by letter dated January 25, 2018, the Executive Director of the SEC advised respondent and the Commissioner that the SEC had voted on January 23, 2018 to rescind its prior decision and adopt a revised decision recommending that the Commissioner impose a penalty of reprimand. The SEC further advised that it received correspondence from the Board Attorney that respondent had in fact filed her Disclosure Statements, albeit untimely. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the revised recommended penalty nor has she instituted an appeal of the SEC's underlying finding of violation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq.

Upon review, in light of respondent's filing of the necessary Disclosure Statements prior to the issuance of the Commissioner's decision in this matter, the Commissioner adopts the SEC's recommended penalty of reprimand. Additionally, respondent is admonished for her delay in filing the requisite Disclosure Statements and causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the SEA.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on August 22, 2017, and mailed on August 23, 2017, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file her Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2017. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated August 8, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by August 18, 2017, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by August 18, 2017, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on August 22, 2017. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent still failed to file her completed Disclosure Statements, or to otherwise respond to the OTSC.

The OTSC directed Respondent to show cause, in writing and under oath, within twenty (20) days, why a penalty up to and including removal should not be imposed. The twenty (20) day deadline for Respondent to submit a written response to the OTSC was September 13, 2017. At its meeting on September 26, 2017, and because Respondent had not yet filed her Disclosure Statements or otherwise responded to the OTSC, the Commission discussed recommending that the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) impose a penalty of suspension for thirty (30) days, with such suspension to become effective immediately upon adoption of the Commission's recommended penalty by the Commissioner of Education. The Commission further discussed that if Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the period of her thirty (30) day suspension, Respondent should be removed from office on the thirty-first (31st) day.

A decision memorializing the Commission's discussion from its meeting on September 26, 2017, was adopted by the Commission at its meeting on October 31, 2017, and mailed to Respondent, with a copy to the Pine Hill Board of Education's (Board) Business Administrator, on November 1, 2017. On November 2, 2017, the Board's Business Administrator advised the Commission that Respondent filed her Disclosure Statements on October 20, 2017, which was after the Commission had discussed a recommended penalty on September 26, 2017, but before the Commission adopted its decision on October 31, 2017. At its meeting on January 23, 2018, the Commission voted to rescind the previously issued decision, and to adopt the within decision recommending a penalty of reprimand.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on January 23, 2018, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of a violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

Parties seeking to appeal the Commission's finding of violation must file an appeal pursuant to the standards set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1 et seq. within thirty (30) days of the filing date of the decision from which the appeal is taken. The filing date shall be three (3) days after the date of mailing to the parties, as shown below. In such cases, the Commissioner's review of the Commission's recommended sanction will be deferred and incorporated into the Commissioner's review of the finding of violation on appeal. Where a notice of appeal has been filed on or before the due date for exceptions to the Commission's recommended sanction (thirteen (13) days from the date the decision is mailed by the Commission), exceptions need not be filed by that date, but may be incorporated into the appellant's brief on appeal.

IN THE MATTER OF JOHANNA LOPEZ,	:
EAST NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The Commissioner has reviewed the record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission, finding that respondent violated the School Ethics Act for failure to timely file her Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure statements in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26. The Commission's decision was forwarded pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29 for the Commissioner's final determination on the recommended penalty. The Commission advises that the respondent ultimately filed disclosure statements after the issuance of its August 22, 2017 Order to Show Cause, but prior to the Commission's September 26, 2017 meeting and it, therefore, recommends a penalty of reprimand. Respondent has neither filed exceptions to the recommended penalty nor instituted an appeal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4, of the Commission's underlying finding of violation.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurs with the penalty recommended by the Commission in consequence of respondent's failure to timely honor an obligation placed upon school board members by law. Additionally, respondent is admonished for causing the unnecessary expenditure of administrative and adjudicative resources at both State and local levels.

Accordingly, respondent is hereby reprimanded as a school official found to have violated the School Ethics Act.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN THE MATTER OF JOHANNA LOPEZ	:	BEFORE THE SCHOOL ETHICS COMMISSION
EAST NEWARK BOARD OF EDUCATION, HUDSON COUNTY	:	DECISION FOR FAILURE TO FILE PERSONAL/RELATIVE AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE STATEMENTS
	:	DOCKET NO.: D03-17

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from an Order to Show Cause (OTSC) issued by the School Ethics Commission (Commission) at its meeting on August 22, 2017, and mailed on August 23, 2017, through regular and electronic mail, directing Respondent, a "school official" as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 of the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq., to show cause as to why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file Personal/Relative and Financial Disclosure Statements (Disclosure Statements) as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1.

The OTSC issued by the Commission provided notification to Respondent that she had twenty (20) days to respond to the OTSC, and that failure to respond would be deemed an admission of the facts set forth in the OTSC. Respondent was further notified that, upon receipt of the response or upon expiration of the twenty (20) day time period for so filing, the Commission may proceed to a determination of a violation on a summary basis (i.e., without a hearing or further proceedings) in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.6(c), which so permits when material facts are not in dispute.

ANALYSIS

The Act was enacted by the New Jersey State Legislature to ensure and preserve public confidence in members of local boards of education and local school administrators. Annually, on or before April 30th of each year, all school officials, as defined in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23, must file Disclosure Statements with their local board secretaries or charter school designees. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(a). In addition, after the April 30th filing date, all newly elected board members or board members appointed to fill vacancies, newly appointed members of a board of trustees of a charter school, and administrators appointed to fill a vacancy must file their Disclosure Statements within thirty (30) days of appointment or taking office. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1(c), (d), (e) and (f).

Respondent is a returning school official and, therefore, was required to file her Disclosure Statements by April 30, 2017. Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements within the statutorily required timeframe.

Consequently, by letter dated August 8, 2017, the Commission informed Respondent that failure to file her Disclosure Statements by August 18, 2017, would result in the Commission voting to issue an OTSC. The Commission further advised that, if an OTSC issued, Respondent would be assessed a penalty, up to and including removal.

When Respondent failed to file her Disclosure Statements as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1 by August 18, 2017, an OTSC was issued by the Commission at its meeting on August 22, 2017. After having been served with the OTSC, Respondent filed her completed Disclosure Statements on September 7, 2017. Respondent also filed a response to the OTSC, and indicated that she "had just returned from a trip due" to a family emergency.

DECISION/PENALTY RECOMMENDATION

Based on the record as set forth above, at its meeting on September 26, 2017, the Commission found that Respondent violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, and N.J.A.C. 6A:28-3.1. Where a violation of the Act is found by the Commission, it may recommend to the Commissioner of Education that a penalty be imposed on the school official. The recommended penalty can include a reprimand, censure, suspension or removal of the school official. N.J.A.C. 6A:28-10.12. The Commission recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a penalty of reprimand.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), this decision shall be forwarded to the Commissioner of Education for review of the Commission's recommended penalty. Respondent may either: 1) file exceptions to the recommended sanction; 2) file an appeal of the Commission's finding of a violation; or 3) file both exceptions to the recommended sanction together with an appeal of the finding of a violation.

Parties taking exception to the recommended penalty of the Commission but not disputing the Commission's finding of violation may file, within thirteen (13) days from the date the Commission's decision is forwarded to the Commissioner, written exceptions regarding the recommended penalty to the Commissioner. The forwarding date shall be the mailing date to the parties, as indicated below. Such exceptions must be forwarded to: Commissioner of Education, c/o Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Comments on Ethics Commission Sanction." A copy of any comments filed must be sent to the Commission and all other parties.

THOMAS FERRARI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

This matter is an ancillary claim for a stipend payment in a companion case in which petitioner challenged his termination from employment as a Certificated Teacher of Military Science in respondent's school district without the benefit of a tenure hearing. Herein, the petitioner claimed entitlement to a stipend that had been included in the collective bargaining agreement between the respondent Board and the Brick Township Education Association (Association). The parties submitted cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the petitioner's position in the JROTC program was created pursuant to an "Agreement for the Establishment of an Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Unit"; the Agreement included a statement that petitioner's position as the instructor of senior rank in the school's JROTC program was equivalent to a department head position; the Board had entered into a collectively negotiated agreement (CNA) with the Association which governed the terms and conditions of employment for all certified personnel; petitioner was a member of the Association; the CNAs between the Board and the Association provided for "Department Heads" to receive a stipend annually; petitioner was never paid a stipend by the Board as a "Department Head"; however, it is well settled that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to decide contractual claims unless those claims implicate the agency's expertise. The ALJ concluded that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over this contractual dispute as it does not arise under the school laws. Accordingly, the ALJ ordered that the petition be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed with prejudice for lack of jurisdiction.

THOMAS FERRARI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.[1]	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions – submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered by the Commissioner.[2] The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissed the matter, concluding that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to hear contractual disputes. The ALJ found that the underlying issue in the matter relates to interpretation of the agreements entered into between the Board and Air Force, and the collective negotiations agreement (CNA) between the Board and Education Association, and therefore, do not implicate the agency's special expertise.

Respondent takes exception to the ALJ's finding that the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction in this matter and seeks reversal of the Initial Decision. The Board argues that petitioner's claim for payment of stipends is a dispute that arises under the school laws. Specifically, respondent submits: "petitioner seeks the benefit of the enforcement of a collective bargaining agreement negotiated between the District and the Education Association. The very benefits he seeks were only [allegedly] due him as a benefit of his employment with the District." The Board further argues that whether petitioner is entitled to the stipends set forth in the CNA is "a question of interpretation best left to the Commissioner" because petitioner's "claim for stipends [ ] is linked to his employ with the District, as negotiated for him by the bargaining unit of the Education Association." While reflecting the Board's obvious disagreement with the findings and conclusions contained within the Initial Decision, respondent's exceptions are unpersuasive, and substantially recast and reiterate the arguments made below. Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determinations.

[1] The Commissioner notes that the companion case – Ferrari v. Bd. of Educ. of Twp. of Brick, Ocean County, OAL Dkt. No. 19971-15, Agency Dkt. No. 326-10/15 – will be determined as a separate matter, as the two cases were not consolidated.

[2] Petitioner did not file a reply to respondent's exceptions.

It is evident that respondent has failed to understand the scope of the Commissioner's jurisdiction. The Board's contention that the interpretation of the subject agreements should be "best left to the Commissioner" by virtue of petitioner's (former) employment in the District, is materially flawed. See Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of E. Brunswick v. Twp. Council of the Twp. of E. Brunswick, et al., 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966) (holding "[w]here the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel"). It is well-settled that contractual disputes are typically beyond the purview of the Commissioner's jurisdictional mandate unless they implicate the agency's expertise. Dolan v. Centuolo, 2012 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1627 (App. Div. 2009). As such, where the interpretation of a contract or a contractual provision is the primary issue, the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction. See Bd. of Educ. of the Twp. of Middletown v. Witmer, 2009 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2260 (App. Div. 2009). There is no dispute that the claim for stipends in this matter arise from contractual language and assertion of petitioner's rights pursuant to the terms of the respective agreements. Petitioner avers that the agreement entered into between the Board and the Air Force provides that his position was to be deemed equivalent to that of a department head; and that petitioner was entitled to the negotiated stipend for "Department Heads" as set forth in the CNA between the Board and the Education Association. Such determination requires interpretation of the agreements and review of their intent. The Commissioner, therefore, lacks jurisdiction to determine whether petitioner is entitled to the stipend for "Department Head" as set forth in the CNA.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice for lack of jurisdiction.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter is a secondary matter to the matter, Ferrari v. the Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County, OAL Docket # 19971-2015, Initial Decision, September 12, 2017, Agency Docket # 326-10/51, wherein petitioner challenged his removal as a military science teacher without the granting of a tenure hearing by the respondent the Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County ("Board," "Brick," or "District"). The removal was a result of the loss of petitioner's status as an instructor of the United States Air Force, Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC).

The respondent disputed any obligation to provide a tenure hearing as the certification by the State of New Jersey Department of Education as a military science teacher is not independent of the Armed Forces certification as a military science teacher. The latter's determination qualifies one for certification as a New Jersey military science teacher. The loss of that certification from the Armed Forces results in a failure of the teacher to maintain the New Jersey certification as a military science teacher. The Air Force provided an appeal process for petitioner to address the potential de-certification, accordingly, his due process rights were addressed by the Air Force and the decertification of petitioner resulted. Respondent successfully maintained that it had no obligation to conduct a tenure hearing.

On or about December 11, 2015, petitioner, Major Thomas Ferrari, filed a complaint in the Monmouth County Superior Court, which was subsequently transferred to Ocean County. The complaint, filed in the Law Division, alleges a breach of contract for failure to pay stipends negotiated on his behalf between the Brick Township Education Association ("the Association") and respondent, the Brick Township Board of Education.

The parties filed motions and cross-motions for summary judgment before the Hon. Arnold B. Goldman, J.S.C. Respondent took the position that the dispute arose under the school laws, and should have been brought before the Commissioner. On December 2, 2016, Judge Goldman issued an order dismissing the complaint without prejudice, and directing that the matter be consolidated with the case pending in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), Docket No. EDU 19971-15.

Prior to issuance of an initial decision in the EDU 19971-15 matter, the parties requested that the tribunal await the outcome of a New Jersey Superior Court decision directing the consolidation of an ancillary claim for a stipend payment with the within action. The OAL advised the parties that the J.S.C. did not have the authority to either assign or consolidate the matter and that the OAL jurisdiction depended on a transmittal from the Department of Education. The parties sought that transmittal. That matter was transmitted to the OAL occurred on March 13, 2017. Motions and cross-motions for summary judgement filed in the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, Ocean County under Docket # L-2340-16 were filed with the OAL by the parties.

The OAL scheduled oral argument for August 10, 2017. That oral argument was recorded on that date under the OAL docket number EDU 19971-16. The record closed on August 10, 2017. No order of consolidation was issued in the two matters, accordingly, separate Initial Decisions are being issued on the initial application for a tenure hearing and the subsequent application for the interpretation of the contract between the Board and the United States Air Force JROTC as it applies to the petitioner. The separate initial decision reflects that counsel representing the respondent in the subsequent matter differs from counsel representing the respondent herein.

FACTS

The parties submitted their motion and cross motion for summary judgment filed in the New Jersey Superior Court. There is no discrepancy between each's factual presentations. Accordingly, I FIND AS FACT the following:

1. In September 2006, petitioner became an employee of respondent, working as an instructor for the AFJROTC program at Brick Memorial High School. Petitioner's Statement of Undisputed Facts ("Petitioner's Facts"), ¶9; Respondent's Statement of Unrefuted Facts ("Respondent's Facts"), ¶1.

2. Respondent is a party to collectively negotiated agreements ("CNAs") with the Association. Petitioner's Facts, ¶2. Via these CNAs, respondent recognizes the Association "as the exclusive and sole-representative of collective negotiations concerning the terms and conditions of employment for all certified personnel . . ." Respondent's Exh. B, p. 3. It is undisputed that petitioner was a member of the Association, and his employment with respondent was subject to the terms and conditions set forth in the CNAs executed between the Association and respondent. Petitioner's Facts, ¶9; Respondent's Facts, ¶2.

3. On or about July 1, 2006, respondent and the Association entered into a CNA, which provided that "Department Heads" would receive a stipend for the 2006-2009 school years. See Petitioner's Exh. A. On or about July 1, 2009, respondent entered into a successor CNA with the Association, which provided that "Department Heads" would receive stipends for the 2009-2012 school years. See Petitioner's Exh. B. Finally, on or about July 1, 2012, another CNA provided that "Department Heads" would receive stipends for the 2012-2015 school years. See Petitioner's Exh. C. The dollar amount of each stipend is explicitly provided for in the CNAs. See Petitioner's Exhs. A-C.

4. Concurrently, in November 2006, respondent entered into an agreement with the United States Air Force, entitled "Agreement for the Establishment of an Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Unit." See Petitioner's Exh. D. The agreement provided, at Section 3(a)(iii), that:

> The institution principal (or equivalent) is the on-site person in charge of the supervision of the AFJROTC Program. The Senior Aerospace Science Instructor ensures the program operates satisfactorily and is appointed to a [sic] institution position equivalent to that of a department head. [Id. at p. 6.]

5. Respondent entered into successor agreements with the Air Force in April 2012 and December 2014, both of which contained the identical provision. See Petitioner's Exhs. E-F.

6. The AFJROTC Operations publication, Instruction 36-2001, defines the Senior Aerospace Science Instructor ("SASI") as:

> The AFJROTC instructor of senior rank at the host school responsible for day-to-day unit operations. The SASI reports to the principal (or equivalent) and ensures applicable instructions are complied with and the unit is operated in an efficient, military manner. The SASI will be designated as a department head (or equivalent) at the host > school. The SASI acts as the unit commander providing overall direction to the ASI and cadet programs/activities. [See Petitioner's Exh. I.]

Petitioner asserts that for the entirety of his employment, he was the instructor of senior rank employed by respondent. Certification of Thomas Ferrari, ¶4.

6. Each year, petitioner signed a "Tenure Teacher Contract Salary Notice," which indicated Petitioner's salary, including any stipends that he would be paid. Certification of Megan Osborn ("Osborn Cert."), Exh. D.

7. Each year, petitioner signed a form accepting these conditions.

8. Respondent never paid a stipend to petitioner as a "Department Head."

9. Petitioner held his position with respondent until May 2015. Osborn Cert., ¶2.

Bd. of Educ. of Lenape Reg'l High Sch. Dist., EDU 2782-02, Initial Decision (August 16, 2002), adopted, Comm'r (October 7, 2002), <https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, the Commissioner will not rule on the enforceability of a contract where "the interpretation of the contract is the primary issue at hand and not merely implicated in a question of the school laws." Bd. of Educ. of Middletown, No. A-5128-07T3, at *23 (App. Div. August 17, 2009), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>. This is because "contract claims against boards do not arise under the school laws but rather from statutory and common law." Archway, 352 N.J. Super. at 425. Therefore, such claims are "typically and appropriately adjudicated in the courts." Ibid.

The Commissioner lacks jurisdiction to decide the contractual claim currently before the OAL. Although the matter involves a board of education, the dispute does not arise under the school laws. Rather, the primary issue is the interpretation of the contractual language contained in the Air Force and Association agreements. Interpretation of these contracts is not "incidental" to the Commissioner's obligation to decide petitioner's pending tenure claim, as the two claims are distinct and separate.

Respondent argues that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over the matter because "[t]he within dispute is a case in controversy arising under the school laws, (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq.)." Respondent's Reply Brief, p. 3. However, respondent fails to explain how the contractual claim is connected to any specific statute under Title 18A. Because the interpretation of the contractual language at issue does not implicate the Department of Education's special expertise, the matter should be decided in Superior Court, where it was originally filed.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction to hear this contractual dispute. Although the matter involves a board of education, the controversy does not arise under the school laws. Rather, the primary issue is the interpretation of two series of contracts. Because these contracts do not implicate the Department of Education's special expertise, the matter should be dismissed so that it may be decided in a more appropriate forum.

This tribunal recognizes that this is not the efficient use of judicial resources, however, the Commissioner and the OAL, is without jurisdiction to determine whether petitioner is entitled to any stipend payments.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petition be DISMISSED for lack of jurisdiction.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner challenged his termination from employment as a Certificated Teacher of Military Science in respondent's school district without the benefit of a tenure hearing. Petitioner began employment as a United States Air Force JROTC instructor at Brick Memorial High School in 2006, and acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 in 2009. Petitioner was terminated by the Board in 2015 after the Air Force decertified him for performance reasons. Petitioner claimed entitlement to a tenure hearing. The parties filed cross motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: there are no material facts at issue, and the matter is ripe for summary decision; the petitioner's position in the JROTC program was created pursuant to an "Agreement for the Establishment of an Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Unit" (Agreement); the Agreement made clear that the school district was the employing agency and, as such, the respondent Board had the right to terminate the employment of certified instructors in accordance with applicable rules and regulations; the JROTC unit and the petitioner were placed on probation in December 2014 after the unit received a "Does Not Meet Standards" rating; petitioner subsequently received an overall evaluation of "unsatisfactory" on his AFJROTC Instructor Evaluation Report; following an unsuccessful appeal of this report, petitioner was decertified by the Air Force in August 2015, and then terminated by the Board "due to loss of his certification to teach Military Science by the United State Air Force". The ALJ concluded that: respondent was required to terminate petitioner upon notification that he was decertified by the Air Force; petitioner no longer held the necessary credentials to maintain his certification endorsement; once petitioner's teaching certificate was no longer in full force and effect, he was not entitled to tenure protections. Accordingly, the ALJ granted summary decision in favor of the Board, and dismissed the petition.

Upon review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, and adopted the Initial Decision of the OAL as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed with prejudice.

THOMAS FERRARI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.[1]	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto – submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 – were also considered by the Commissioner. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that petitioner was not entitled to tenure protections when the Board terminated petitioner from his employment as a military science teacher in the District. The ALJ reasoned that as a result of petitioner's decertification from the Air Force, he no longer possessed the necessary credentials to maintain a New Jersey military science certification endorsement and serve as an instructor in the District, and as such, petitioner was ineligible for tenure protections and his termination was proper. Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's determinations for the reasons thoroughly expressed therein.

Petitioner's exceptions substantially reiterate the substance of his submissions at the OAL, recasting the arguments therein to support his contention that the ALJ erroneously concluded that petitioner's due process rights were not violated when he was terminated from his tenured teaching position in the District. Specifically, petitioner argues that he had acquired tenure in his position and his certificate had not been suspended or revoked by the State Board of Examiners; therefore, his "protectable interest in his employment [ ] could not be extinguished without procedural due process" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

In reply, respondent also restates its position advanced in the Board's submissions at the OAL. Respondent contends that petitioner's right to due process was met through the Air Force procedures prior to his decertification. Respondent argues that the ALJ properly concluded that in order to be employed in the District, petitioner needed to maintain a valid certification and, once petitioner was decertified, the Board was required to remove petitioner from his position.

It is well-settled that in order for teaching staff members to be employed in a public school district, they must hold a valid teaching certificate and any other such certificate as required by law. See N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2; see also N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(b) ("the certificate holder shall obtain any license, certificate, or authorization required by State or Federal law, a licensing board, or N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.1 and 4.2 for the individual to serve in a position"). A military science instructor is required to "[h]old valid certification authorizing employment as a military science instructor from the branch of service in which the candidate served." N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.8(a)(2). Furthermore, in order to retain a military science endorsement, the instructor must maintain the military employment authorization. Id. at (b). Therefore, in order for petitioner to continue employment in the District, he must possess a valid certification from the Air Force authorizing his employment as a military science teacher.

When a teaching staff member fails to maintain "the mandated license, certificate, or authorization," the employing board shall remove the instructor from the position. See N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c). It is undisputed that the Air Force revoked petitioner's authorization for employment as a military science teacher when it notified petitioner of his imminent decertification and subsequently decertified him following an internal appeal process. Once petitioner's authorization was revoked and he was decertified, petitioner was no longer eligible for employment in the District. Moreover, petitioner was not protected by the tenure statute once he was decertified by the Air Force, as retention of his endorsement and entitlement to employment were contingent upon authorization for employment as a military science teacher by the Air Force, and tenure protection does not extend to individuals whose certificates are not in full force and effect. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; see also Hunsicker v. Bd. of Educ. of the High Point Reg'l High Sch. Dist., 2016 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 1147 (App. Div. 2016) (affirming the Commissioner's decision that a teaching staff member must be removed for failure to maintain a required license, notwithstanding tenure status or personal circumstances; and holding that "appellant's lack of an athletic trainer license effectively rendered his educational services certificate and endorsement invalid, thus making him ineligible for employment as a school athletic trainer, ineligible for tenure protections, and subject to mandatory removal").

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF BRICK, OCEAN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Edward A. Cridge, Esq., for petitioner (Mellk O'Neill, attorneys)

Patricia M. Reilly, Esq., for respondent (Wolff, Helies Spaeth & Lucas, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 10, 2017 Decided: September 21, 2017

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, petitioner, Thomas Ferrari (Ferrari), challenges his removal as a military science teacher without the granting of a tenure hearing by the respondent the Board of Education of the Township of Brick, Ocean County ("Board," "Brick," or "District"). The removal, a result of the loss of petitioner's status as an instructor of the United States Air Force, Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps (JROTC).

The respondent disputes any obligation to provide a tenure hearing as the certification by the State of New Jersey Department of Education as a military science teacher is not independent of the Armed Forces certification as a military science teacher. The latter's determination qualifies one for certification as a New Jersey military science teacher. The loss of that certification from the Armed Forces results in a failure of the teacher to maintain the New Jersey certification as a military science teacher. The Air Forces provided an appeal process for petitioner to address the potential de-certification. Accordingly, his due process rights were addressed by the Air Force and petitioner became de-certified. Respondent maintains that as a result of the Air Force de-certification, no tenure hearing is required.

On December 10, 2015, the New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-8.2. On July 22, 2016, the petitioner moved for summary decision, seeking to reverse the Board's determination and removal of petitioner. On July 26, 2016, respondent opposed said motion and filed a cross-motion for summary decision. Prior to issuance of an initial decision on the summary disposition motion and cross-motion, the parties requested that the tribunal await the outcome of a New Jersey Superior Court decision directing the consolidation of an ancillary claim for a stipend payment with the within action. That matter was transmitted to the OAL on March 13, 2017, and assigned docket number EDU 03464-17. Motions and Cross-Motions for Summary Judgement were filed by the parties in the New Jersey Superior Court, Law Division, Ocean County under Docket # L-2340-16. The OAL scheduled oral argument for August 10, 2017. The voice transcript of that oral argument is recorded on that date under the EDU 19971-16 docket number. The record closed on August 10, 2017. No order of consolidation was issued in the two matters, and accordingly, separate Initial Decisions are being issued on the initial application for a tenure hearing and the subsequent application for the interpretation of the contract between the Board and the United States Air Force JROTC as it applies to the petitioner. The separate Initial Decision reflects that counsel representing the respondent in the subsequent matter differs from counsel representing the respondent herein.

FACTS

The parties submitted a motion and cross-motion for summary disposition. There is no discrepancy between the factual presentations. Accordingly, the matter is ripe for a summary disposition application. I FIND AS FACT the following:

1. On or about September 1, 2006, petitioner, Major Thomas Ferrari, commenced employment as a Certificated Teacher of Military Science with respondent, the Brick Township School District Board of Education (District). Verified Petition, ¶1. Petitioner worked as a JROTC instructor at Brick Memorial High School. Respondent's Brief, p. 1. On or about September 1, 2009, petitioner acquired tenure pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Verified Petition, ¶2; Answer, ¶2.

2. Brick Memorial's JROTC unit was created pursuant to a document entitled "Agreement for the Establishment of an Air Force Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Unit." See Exhibit A of Certification of Retired Colonel Scott E. Lewis ("Col. Lewis' Certification")(attached to respondent's moving papers). Under the agreement, ROTC instructors must be "qualified retired Air Force commissioned officers/non-commissioned officers (NCO) and otherwise meet the acceptance standards of AFJROTC instructors prescribed by Public Law and applicable DoD and Air Force Instructions." Id. at Section 1(1)(B)(iii). Additionally, "[i]ndividuals employed as AFJROTC instructors will not perform duties or teach any classes in any discipline other than Aerospace Science." Id. at Section 2(1)(D)(iv)(c).

3. Under the agreement, the school is required to conduct annual instructor evaluations and submit them to the Air Force and to advise AFJROTC of any changes in the employment status of personnel employed in the unit. Id. at Section 1(1)(D)(ii)-(iii). "The Air Force shall have the right to withdraw certification of AFJROTC instructors for breach of standards and the institution will remove decertified personnel from the AFJROTC program." Id. at Section 3(1)(B)(ii). However, the agreement makes clear that the district is the employing agency of the instructor. Id. at Section 2(1)(D)(iv). As such, the school has the right to terminate the employment of certified instructors in accordance with institutional rules and regulations. Id. at Section 3(1)(C)(1).

4. By letter dated December 16, 2014, Colonel Bobby C. Woods, Jr., Director, HQ Air Force JROTC, advised the principal at Brick Memorial that the unit received a "Does Not Meet Standards" rating and that the unit was being placed on probation. Exhibit E, ¶12; Exhibit C of Col. Lewis' Certification. Additionally, the letter advised that petitioner was being placed on probation for neglect of program requirements and lack of preparation for the Unit Evaluation and, if certain discrepancies were not corrected, petitioner would be considered for decertification. Ibid. By letter dated February 27, 2015, Colonel Woods informed the principal that the unit and petitioner were being placed on a second probation for failure to maintain minimum enrollment requirements. Exhibit E, ¶13; Exhibit D of Col. Lewis' Certification. Petitioner acknowledged that he and the unit were placed on a second probation. Ibid.

5. On March 20, 2015, petitioner received an overall evaluation of "unsatisfactory" on his AFJROTC Instructor Evaluation Report, known as a Form 98, signed by Dr. Walter Uszenski, Superintendent; Jennifer Joseph, Principal; Ryan Blessing, Assistant Principal; and petitioner. Exhibit E, ¶14; Exhibit F of Col. Lewis' Certification. By letter dated May 14, 2015, the Interim Superintendent advised petitioner that he was denying petitioner's appeal of his Special Instructor Evaluation Report Form 98. Exhibit E, ¶15; Exhibit G of Col. Lewis' Certification. The letter further advised petitioner that he could appeal to the Holm Center[1] within fifteen days for a final appeal opportunity before his decertification would become effective. Ibid. Petitioner was also advised of his right to appeal the Unsatisfactory Form 98 evaluation by Colonel Scott E. Lewis (retired) Air Force, Chief, Instructor Management via e-mail dated April 16, 2015. Exhibit E, ¶16;

[1] The Holm Center is the part of the Air Force responsible for directing the JROTC program.

Exhibit H to Col. Lewis' Certification. Petitioner acknowledged receipt of that e-mail. Ibid.

6. Petitioner appealed his Unsatisfactory Form 98 to the Air Force. Exhibit E, ¶17; Exhibit I of Col. Lewis' Certification. By letter dated August 27, 2015, Colonel Patricia D. Hoffman, USAF, Vice Commander, Holm Center denied the appeal and provided the reasons for her denial of the appeal. Ibid.

7. On or about August 21, 2015, petitioner was decertified by the Air Force. Exhibit D. On or about August 27, 2015, respondent terminated petitioner's employment. Verified Petition, ¶3. The District's stated reason for petitioner's termination was "due to his loss of certification to teach Military Science by the United States Air Force." Answer, ¶5.

8. Respondent terminated petitioner's employment without filing tenure charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et. seq. Petitioner's Brief, p. 2.

9. The Board of Examiners has taken no action to suspend or revoke petitioner's Teacher of Military Science Certificate. Ibid.

10. Petitioner filed a Verified Petition with the State of New Jersey, Department of Education, claiming that his employment with respondent was terminated in derogation of his tenure and seniority rights. An Answer was filed on behalf of respondent stating that termination of petitioner's employment was mandated due to the loss of his certification to teach Military Science by the United States Air Force.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Upon notification that petitioner no longer held the appropriate certification from the military, respondent was compelled to remove petitioner from his position and report his name to the Board of Examiners.

N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 provides, "No teaching staff member shall be employed in the public school by any board of education unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of, or to render or administer, direct or supervise the rendering of nursing service to, pupils in such public schools and of such other certificate."

N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1 provides:

> a. "Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, any person employed as a teaching staff member by a district board of education shall hold a valid and appropriate certificate.
>
> b. In addition to the requirements set forth in this subchapter, the certificate holder shall obtain any license, certificate, or authorization required by State or Federal law, a licensing board, or N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.1 and 4.2 for the individual to serve in a position. The district board of education that is considering employing the individual shall ensure the candidate holds all necessary licenses, certificates, or authorizations.
>
> c. The employing school district shall remove from the position any teaching staff member who fails to maintain the mandated license, certificate, or authorization as set forth in (b) above. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-4.3(a), the school district also shall report to the Board of Examiners the teaching staff member's name.
>
> d. The Board of Examiners may consider revocation or suspension of the certificate of any individual who fails to maintain the license, certificate, or authorization required in (b) above."
>
> [N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1 (emphasis added).]

To hold a military science endorsement from the State of New Jersey, an individual must have a valid certification authorizing employment as a military science instructor from the branch of service in which the candidate served. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-11.8(a)(2).

Here, respondent was informed that, as of August 21, 2015, petitioner no longer held the proper authorizations from the Air Force. Therefore, he failed to maintain a certification required by State law to hold a position as an instructor of military science. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c), respondent was required to remove petitioner from his position and was correct in taking this course of action.

Although N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c) clearly requires petitioner's termination, this provision does not address the necessity for a hearing on tenure charges. Tenure of teaching staff is outlined in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The statute states in pertinent part:

> a. "The services of all teaching staff members employed prior to the effective date of P.L.2012, c.26 (C.18A:6-117 et al.) in the positions of teacher, principal, other than administrative principal, assistant principal, vice-principal, assistant superintendent, and all school nurses including school nurse supervisors, head school nurses, chief school nurses, school nurse coordinators, and any other nurse performing school nursing services, school athletic trainer and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners, serving in any school district or under any board of education, excepting those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect and school business administrators shared by two or more school districts, shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by sub-article B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this Title, after employment in such district or by such board for:
>
> (1) Three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
>
> (2) Three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
>
> (3) The equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years."

[N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added).]

Notably, the statute excludes from tenure protection "those who are not the holders of proper certificates in full force and effect," referring to previously granted "certificates issued by the board of examiners." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Thus, if a teaching staff member does not hold an appropriate certificate "in full force and effect" from the State Board of Examiners, he is not entitled to tenure protections.

The Board of Examiners is the sole entity charged with the authority to revoke or suspend teaching certificates. N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-3.2(b). However, a teaching certificate may be effectively invalidated by a holder's failure to meet other requirements associated with his or her position. See Hunsicker v. Bd. of Educ. of the High Point Reg'l High Sch., No. A-3314-14T22016, 2016 LEXIS 1147, at *9-10 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. May 18, 2016).

In Hunsicker, a school athletic trainer was terminated because he failed to renew his athletic trainer license from the State Board of Medical Examiners, a requirement necessary for practicing athletic training in the State of New Jersey. Id. at *5. Despite this deficiency, the Board of Examiners never formally revoked or suspended the trainer's educational services certificate and school athletic trainer endorsement. Id. at *9. The trainer filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, arguing that, notwithstanding his lack of an athletic trainer license, since he maintained a valid educational services certificate, he had tenure protections, including the right to formal charges and a hearing. Id. at *6. The Commissioner transmitted the case to the OAL, and the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that N.J.A.C. 6A:9-5.1(c) mandated the trainer's removal and that there was no exemption for a tenured individual. Ibid. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision and dismissed the petition. Id. at *7. Upon review, the Appellate Division concluded that there was sufficient credible evidence in the record to support the Commissioner's decision. Id. at *8-9. Importantly, the Appellate Division noted, "Appellant's lack of an athletic trainer license effectively rendered his educational services certificate and endorsement invalid, thus making him ineligible for employment as a school athletic trainer, ineligible for tenure protections, and subject to mandatory removal." Id. at *10. Thus, the Commissioner's decision was affirmed. Ibid.

Here, petitioner is likewise ineligible for tenure protections and subject to mandatory removal. In Hunsicker, supra, he was required to hold a license from the State Board of Medical Examiners. Here, petitioner was required to hold a certificate from the Air Force to keep current his certificate as an instructor of military science. Even though the Board of Examiners did not take formal action to revoke or suspend petitioner's teaching certificate, his decertification from the military effectively invalidated this certificate because he could not work as a JROTC instructor without it. Since tenure protections only apply to holders of certificates "in full force and effect," petitioner, like the trainer in Hunsicker, is ineligible for these protections.

Petitioner's denial of his appeal from the decertification by the Air Force as a military science teacher, effectively and instantly resulted in the New Jersey State military science teacher certification being in full force and effect. Respondent was required to terminate petitioner upon notification that he was decertified by the Air Force because he no longer held the authorizations necessary to serve as a JROTC instructor. Petitioner is ineligible for tenure protections because his teaching certificate, issued by the Board of Examiners, was effectively invalidated when he was decertified by the military. As the decertification effectively invalidated the teaching certificate issued to petitioner by the Board of Examiners, respondent is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE under N.J.A.C. 6A:9B-5.1(c), that respondent was required to terminate petitioner upon notification that he was decertified by the Air Force as a JROTC military science teacher. I CONCLUDE once this decertification occurred, petitioner no longer held the necessary credentials to maintain a New Jersey military science certification endorsement and serve as a JROTC instructor. The Board of Examiners never took formal action to revoke or suspend petitioner's teaching certificate. I CONCLUDE the Board of Examiners had no obligation to proceed to revoke petitioner's military science certificate, as the decertification by the Air Force effectively invalidated petitioner's military science certificate. I CONCLUDE his New Jersey State military science teaching certificate was not "in full force and effect," as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, accordingly, petitioner is not entitled to tenure protections.

ORDER

Base on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petitioner's motion for summary disposition is DENIED; and the respondent's motion for summary disposition is GRANTED, and the petition is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." JOSEPH EHRHARD AND ROBERT EHRHARD,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Pro se petitioners filed an appeal with the Commissioner of Education in November 2013, challenging the determination of the respondent Board that Robert Ehrhard (Ehrhard) was not the victim of harassment, intimidation or bullying (HIB) under the provisions of the New Jersey Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13 to -32.1 (the Act). Petitioners alleged that Ehrhard – who was a player on the high school baseball team from ninth through twelfth grade – was the victim of HIB at the hands of the head and assistant baseball coaches for the Hunterdon Central Regional High School team during the period from 2009-2013. Petitioners contended, inter alia, that Ehrhard and others on the team were the target of HIB by the coaches because they were students, healthy, white male student-athletes, and were perceived to be weak or meek members of the team. The Board asserted that it conducted a comprehensive HIB investigation, including interviews with coaches and 23 students, and that the determination of no HIB was not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The parties filed opposing motions for summary decision.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the Act applies to any gesture, or any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by an actual or perceived characteristic, such as, inter alia: race, color, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, or any other distinguishing characteristic; in this case, the alleged conduct fails to meet the statutory definition of HIB; there are no facts to support that the alleged bullying was motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic" of Ehrhard; status as a student does not qualify as a distinguishing characteristic, as the HIB statute only applies to misconduct against students; and – while being "meek or weak" could qualify as a distinguishing characteristic, petitioners failed to set forth any facts to support this theory. Accordingly, the ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision, denied petitioner's cross motion, and dismissed the petition.

Upon comprehensive review, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable manner in rendering its HIB determination, as the alleged conduct fails to meet the statutory definition of HIB. Further, there is no evidence in the record that the alleged actions were motivated by a distinguishing characteristic of Ehrhard, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL was adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition was dismissed.

JOSEPH EHRHARD AND ROBERT EHRHARD,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, HUNTERDON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioners and the Board's reply thereto.

In their exceptions, petitioners argue that they have been prejudiced by the three year delay between the time the Board filed its motion to dismiss for untimeliness and the time it was decided. Petitioners argue that they were harmed by the delay because they were forced to wait for a decision, rather than proceeding with discovery, which would have enabled them to show further cause for a finding of HIB. Petitioners further contend that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) mischaracterized their argument that all students are protected by the Harassment, Intimidation and Bullying (HIB) law. Petitioners maintain that their argument throughout has been that "healthy white heterosexual male student athletes (who by the Respondent's definition of a protected class are effectively excluded by the HIB law's coverage), are clearly covered by the HIB law if they were singled out for HIB by coaches who perceived them to be weak, meek and or timid; intelligent; and/or anxiety prone." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 11) The ALJ indicated that petitioners were asserting that Robert Ehrhard's (Ehrhard) distinguishing characteristic was that he was a white, healthy, male student athlete, while petitioners were intending to convey that students without any explicitly enumerated distinguishing characteristics – like Ehrhard – are still protected under the HIB Act.

Petitioners argue that the ALJ further erred in finding that they failed to set forth facts to link the alleged bullying to Ehrhard being a weak or meek member of the team. Petitioners maintain that they made clear in their submissions that Ehrhard was targeted because he was the smallest team member and has always been "quiet, mild mannered and respectful." (Petitioners' Exceptions at 13) Petitioners also contend that the Board failed to consider that there had been a pattern of similar misconduct for ten years prior to the time of their complaint. In the HIB investigation, petitioners assert that the anti-bullying specialist was excluded from the investigation and there were conflicts of interest, which demonstrates that the Board selectively enforces its policies and that the HIB determination was therefore arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Petitioners also contend that the ALJ erroneously stated that petitioners failed to assert that the alleged conduct physically or emotionally harmed Ehrhard, insulted or demeaned Ehrhard, or created a hostile environment. Instead, petitioners maintain that the effects of the HIB on Ehrhard had been discussed in previous submissions to the OAL and included heightened anxiety, mood lability, and a loss of confidence in his abilities, which resulted in him leaving baseball despite opportunities to play at the college level. When considering a test of reasonability, petitioners contend that a reasonable adult would agree that name calling, cursing, berating, public humiliation and threats of demotion would result in physical or emotional harm. As such, petitioners argue that they meet the statutory definition of HIB and the Initial Decision should be rejected.

In reply, the Board argues that the ALJ properly found that the alleged actions do not meet the definition of HIB. The Board contends that petitioners are mischaracterizing the Board's position, creating new facts, and introducing additional allegations that are not supported by the record. The Board maintains that the only issue before the Commissioner is whether the Board's determination that no HIB was committed was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, and that petitioners' discussion of other matters, including their attempt to advocate for other individuals who are not parties in this litigation, are irrelevant. Although petitioners argue that summary decision should not have been granted because further discovery was required, the Board notes that they have provided the complete investigatory file, and, thus, additional discovery is unnecessary. Additionally, the Board points out that petitioners propounded their discovery requests at the same time that they filed their summary decision motion, after the discovery period had ended. With respect to any procedural deficiencies, the Board notes that it conducted a comprehensive HIB investigation, including interviews with coaches and 23 students.

The Board agrees with the ALJ that the alleged behaviors were not motivated by a distinguishing characteristic and can therefore not meet the definition of HIB. Even if Ehrhard does have a distinguishing characteristic, the Board maintains that the alleged actions – i.e., unfair playing time, favoritism, profanity, and being too hard on the players – were not motivated by a distinguishing characteristic. Specifically, the Board notes that the ALJ properly found that Ehrhard's status as a student, a power imbalance, or being a healthy white male student athlete are not distinguishing characteristics. Further, the Board contends that the ALJ was correct in finding that there is no link between the alleged bullying and Ehrhard's status as meek or weak. As such, the Board urges the Commissioner to adopt the Initial Decision and find that the Board's HIB determination was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable.

Upon a comprehensive review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ – for the reasons thoroughly set forth in the Initial Decision – that the Board did not act in an arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable manner in rendering its HIB determination because the alleged conduct fails to meet the statutory definition of HIB. The Commissioner is further in accord with the ALJ that there is no evidence in the record that the alleged actions were motivated by a distinguishing characteristic of Ehrhard. Although petitioners argue that Ehrhard's distinguishing characteristic is that he is a weak or meek member of the team, there is no link between the alleged conduct and the distinguishing characteristic to demonstrate that the alleged actions were motivated by said characteristic, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. As petitioners fail to succeed on the distinguishing characteristic element, the Commissioner need not reach the remaining elements of the HIB definition, such as whether the alleged conduct physically or emotionally harmed Ehrhard, insulted or demeaned Ehrhard, or created a hostile environment.

The Commissioner does not find petitioners' exceptions to be persuasive. At the outset, petitioners were not prejudiced by the length of time of these proceedings. It appears that petitioners failed to propound discovery until the time that they served their summary decision motion and are in possession of the entire investigatory file. Further, any perceived mischaracterization of their arguments by the ALJ are of no moment. The ALJ viewed petitioners' arguments broadly and conducted analysis on whether Ehrhard could demonstrate a distinguishing characteristic under any of the proposed scenarios – as a student, a healthy white heterosexual male student athlete, or as a weak or meek member of the team – and found that the alleged conduct was not motivated by any of these characteristics. Although petitioners argue that they made clear in submissions that Ehrhard was targeted because he was the smallest team member, quiet, and mild mannered, there is no link in the record to connect this distinguishing characteristic with the alleged conduct. There is simply no evidence that the alleged actions were motivated by Ehrhard's distinguishing characteristic. Finally, petitioners' concerns regarding the investigatory process are not convincing. The Board conducted a comprehensive investigation into the HIB complaint, including interviewing 23 student baseball players and several coaches.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter, and the petition is hereby dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 188-14
AGENCY DKT. NO. 298-11/13

J.E. AND R.E.,
Petitioners,
v.
HUNTERDON CENTRAL REGIONAL BOARD OF EDUCATION,
Respondent.

J.E., appearing for petitioners, pro se

Brandon Croker, Esq., appearing for respondent (Comegno Law Group, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 25, 2017 Decided: September 28, 2017

BEFORE SUSAN M. SCAROLA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioners, J.E. and R.E., J.E.'s son, appeal the determination of respondent, the Board of Education of the Hunterdon Central Regional School District ("Board"), that head baseball coach Mike Raymond ("Coach Raymond") and assistant baseball coach John Augusta ("Coach Augusta") did not commit acts of "harassment, intimidation or bullying" ("HIB") as defined under the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act ("ABRA"), N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13, et seq., against petitioner R.E., who was a player on the high-school baseball team during the relevant time period.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 29, 2013, the petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal and Petition for Declaratory Ruling with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner"). On December 23, 2013, respondent filed a motion to dismiss, arguing that the petition was filed outside of the required ninety-day period. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on January 7, 2014, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On October 6, 2016, Administrative Law Judge Masin issued an Order denying respondent's motion to dismiss, finding that the petition was timely filed.

On June 16, 2017, petitioners filed a "Motion for Declaratory Ruling on Definition of Protected Class," seeking a ruling that 1) the HIB statute protects all students from acts of HIB, and 2) the students who filed complaints in the instant matter fell within a protected class. On June 19, 2017, respondent moved for summary decision, arguing that any alleged misconduct was not motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic," and, therefore, did not meet the statutory definition of HIB. Petitioners filed a letter on July 14, 2017, which may reasonably be construed as an opposition to respondent's motion, arguing, for the first time, that R.E. and others were targeted because they were perceived as "meek or weak" members of the baseball team. The petitioners filed additional letter briefs on September 20 and 22, 2017. Following a telephone conference on September 25, 2017, the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

On June 13, 2013, petitioner J.E. sent an email to Hunterdon Central's anti-bullying coordinator Barbara Manfredi ("ABC Manfredi") requesting a meeting to discuss Coach Raymond's and Coach Augusta's treatment of R.E. (Croker Cert., Exh. 2.) The email included allegations that: 1) Coaches Raymond and Augusta tossed baseballs into a pond, laughed at R.E., and requested that he go into the pond to retrieve the balls; 2) Coach Raymond hassled R.E. over the manner in which he threw a baseball with an injured wrist; 3) Coach Raymond threatened to demote R.E. to the junior-varsity team; 4) Coaches Raymond and Augusta berated R.E. for informing them that he would miss baseball practice due to a family vacation and then guilted him into coming to

[1] Petitioner R.E. graduated from Hunterdon Central in 2013 and is believed to have graduated from college in 2017. Respondent argues that the case is moot because R.E. is no longer a student in the school district. While this issue need not be reached, the limited case law suggests that such an action can continue even after the alleged perpetrator is out of contact with the alleged victim.

One case that addresses the mootness issue in the HIB context is J.M. v. Board of Education of Tinton Falls, EDU 7871-13, Initial Decision (December 12, 2013), rejected, Comm'r (March 17, 2014), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. In that case, the administrative law judge (ALJ) concluded that an HIB action was moot because the alleged bully, a cheerleading coach, was relieved of her coaching duties during the pendency of the appeal proceedings. However, because the former coach was still employed by the respondent district, the Commissioner found that resolution of the petitioner's challenge was necessary for the sake of all parties. The Commissioner concluded that, if the ALJ's fact findings supported the petitioner's allegations, a finding of HIB should be entered into the former coach's personnel file and reported to the Department of Education. Additionally, if there was a substantiated finding of HIB, corrective measures would need to be taken so that other students were not exposed to further inappropriate behavior by the former coach.

In M.D.G. ex rel. C.J. v. Board of Education of Atlantic City, EDU 6450-04, Initial Decision (April 27, 2005), adopted, Comm'r (May 26, 2005), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, a school board was found to have violated the HIB statute by failing to properly investigate an incident of bullying. During the appeal, the student was withdrawn from the school and enrolled in another school within the respondent's district. While the ALJ noted that "there is no immediate remedy readily available to [the bullied student]," he ordered the board to comply with the Act by "conducting staff in-service programs with respect to the requirements of the statute in order to assure that all pupils under the Board's supervision and control will be protected from harassment, intimidation or bullying in the future." The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision.

These cases suggest that the HIB appeal is not moot, even though there is no immediate personal remedy available to R.E.

the allegations of misconduct were being reviewed as a personnel matter. (Ibid.) The parents were informed of their right to request a hearing before the Board of Education. (Ibid.) Principal Cooley also sent letters to coaches Raymond and Augusta advising them of the results of the investigation. (Croker Cert., Exh. 13.)

On July 1, 2013, Principal Cooley and Superintendent Steffner met with R.E.'s parents to explain the results of the investigation. (Croker Cert., Exh. 14.) On July 8, 2013, J.E. sent an email to Principal Cooley, notifying her that he would be appealing the finding before the Board. (Ibid.) On the same date, Superintendent Steffner responded to the email, advising R.E.'s parents of the time and date of the Board's next meeting. (Ibid.)

On July 15, 2013, a hearing was held during the executive session of the Board meeting. (Croker Cert., Exh. 15.) On July 16, 2013, J.E. sent an email to Principal Cooley reiterating his purpose for filing the HIB complaint and including HIB resource material for the Board to consider prior to its vote. (Croker Cert., Exh. 16.) On August 19, 2013, during the regular session of the Board meeting, the Board voted to approve the administration's findings that there was insufficient evidence to confirm that R.E. had been the victim of HIB. (Croker Cert., Exh. 17.) By letter dated August 26, 2013, Superintendent Steffner informed R.E.'s parents that the Board had not found evidence to support the HIB allegations. (Croker Cert., Exh. 18.)

On September 3, 2013, Principal Cooley prepared a document entitled "HIB Summary Report—Baseball," which included the status of five HIB complaints against coaches Raymond and Augusta, including the complaint filed by R.E. (Croker Cert., Exh. 19.) The report indicated that a total of twenty-five baseball players and five coaches were interviewed during the course of the investigation. (Id. at 1.) The report also outlined the questions asked during the interviews and summarized the responses to these questions. (Id. at 1–6.) Four players indicated that they were the direct recipients of intimidation and/or abuse. (Id. at 3.) The first said that he experienced "in-your-face" confrontations by Coach Augusta, which affected his performance. (Ibid.) The second indicated that he was placed in "timeout" for what the coaches perceived as a lack of hustle. (Ibid.) The third felt that he was ridiculed for attending to an injury.

(Ibid.) The last believed that he was led on by continuously being told that he was one play away from becoming a starter and was told to bring his catcher's equipment despite being moved to a pitching position. (Ibid.) However, the report noted that the allegations documented in J.E.'s initial complaint to the school were "not verified." (Id. at 2.) For example, it was "not verified" that the coaches targeted players based on personalities or that they preyed on those with anxiety, those who were intelligent, or those who were mild-mannered. (Ibid.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Standards for Summary Decision

Under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6, which govern the conduct of contested cases before the OAL, a party may file a motion for summary decision on substantive issues in a contested case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a). The motion "shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

Under this regulation, which is akin to the judiciary's motion for summary judgment, see R. 4:46-1, "the determination [of] whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In making this determination, the analysis is "'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a [fact finder] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533 (quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251–52, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 214 (1986). Summary decision is also proper when the opposing party "points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature.'" Id. at 529.

The issues presented are whether the HIB statute applies to teachers, coaches, and other school staff members, and whether the alleged conduct meets the statutory definition of HIB.

I. The HIB statute applies to teachers, coaches, and other school staff members.

The text of the HIB statute does not explicitly address the applicability of the law to teachers, coaches, and other school staff members. However, guidance issued by the Department of Education has made clear that teachers and other adults can be offenders under the HIB statute. The guidance document notes, "The [ABRA] addresses HIB committed only against students; it does not address HIB committed against adults . . . . While the [ABRA] only addresses HIB committed against students, it includes any person who commits an act of HIB against a student." (New Jersey Dep't of Educ.'s Guidance for Schs. in Implementing the Anti-Bullying Bill of Rights Act (P.L. 2010, c. 122).[2]) Thus, the statute covers HIB committed against a student by a teacher, coach, or school staff member.

The HIB statute has been interpreted to give staff members the same procedural rights as an alleged student offender, including the ability to defend themselves at a board hearing. Gibble v. Bd. of Educ. of the Hunterdon Cent. Reg'l Sch. Dist., EDU 02767-15, Initial Decision (April 12, 2016), modified Comm'r (July 13, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. "While the law provides that 'parents or guardians of the students who are parties to the investigation' may request a hearing before the board, this requirement must be held to extend to staff members whose conduct is implicated by a bullying allegation." Ibid. Therefore, the procedural rights afforded under the HIB statute are equally applicable to accused teachers, coaches, and staff members.

[2] Found at <http://www.state.nj.us/education/students/safety/behavior/hib/guidance.pdf>.

II. Does the alleged conduct meet the statutory definition of HIB?

The ABRA is designed "to strengthen the standards and procedures for preventing, reporting, investigating, and responding to incidents of harassment, intimidation, and bullying of students that occur in school and off school premises." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-13.1(f).

Each school district must adopt an HIB policy that meets minimum statutory requirements, but generally has "control over the content of the policy." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(a) and (b). The statutory requirements for an HIB policy include "a procedure for prompt investigation of reports of violations and complaints." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6).

Under this procedure, "the investigation shall be initiated by the principal or the principal's designee within one school day of the report of the incident and shall be conducted by a school anti-bullying specialist," and "[t]he investigation shall be completed as soon as possible, but not later than 10 school days from the date of the written report of the incident of [HIB]." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(a). The results of the investigation shall then be quickly reported to the superintendent who, in turn, shall report the results to the board of education "no later than the date of the board of education meeting next following the completion of the investigation, along with information on any services provided, training established, discipline imposed, or other action taken or recommended by the superintendent." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(b) and (c).

Within five days of the board's receipt of the report, the parents of the students involved in any alleged HIB incident are entitled to receive information about the nature and result of the investigation. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(d). Upon receipt of this information, the parents may request a hearing before the board, and the hearing must be held within ten days of the request. Ibid. The board must issue a decision at the first meeting after its receipt of the investigation report. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-15(b)(6)(e). The board may affirm, reject, or modify the superintendent's decision. Ibid. The board's decision may be appealed to the Commissioner. Ibid.

An action by a board of education "is entitled to a presumption of correctness and will not be upset unless there is an affirmative showing that such decision was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." Thomas v. Morris Twp. Bd. of Educ., 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965). Thus, in order to prevail, those challenging an HIB decision made by a board of education "must demonstrate that the Board acted in bad faith, or in utter disregard of the circumstances before it." G.H. & E.H. ex rel. K.H. v. Bd. of Educ. of Franklin Lakes, EDU 13204-13, Initial Decision (February 24, 2014), (citation omitted), adopted, Comm'r (April 10, 2014), <www.njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. Also, a board's decision may be overturned if its determination violates the legislative policies expressed or implied in the governing act. J.A.H. ex rel. C.H. v. Twp. of Pittsgrove Bd. of Educ., EDU 10826-12, Initial Decision (March 11, 2013) (citing Campbell v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 39 N.J. 556, 562 (1963)), adopted, Comm'r (April 25, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

Under the ABRA, "harassment, intimidation or bullying" (HIB) is defined as:

> any gesture, any written, verbal or physical act, or any electronic communication, whether it be a single incident or a series of incidents, that is reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic, that takes place on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3), that substantially disrupts or interferes with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students and that:
>
> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
> b. has the effect of insulting or demeaning any student or group of students; or

> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
>
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added).]

As such, an incident must satisfy four separate elements in order to meet the definition of HIB under the ABRA.

A. Petitioners have failed to assert facts to support that the alleged bullying was motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic."

First, to satisfy the statutory definition of HIB, the conduct must be "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic, such as race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity and expression, or a mental, physical or sensory disability, or by any other distinguishing characteristic." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added). "The statute has not limited 'distinguishing characteristic' to those specifically enumerated, but it has consistently required such a perceived motivation." K.L. v. Evesham Twp. Bd. of Educ., 423 N.J. Super. 337, 351 (App. Div. 2011). "The Legislature in the Anti-Bullying Act intentionally included a very open-ended phrase, 'any other distinguishing characteristic,' to signal that the Act would apply to a broad, unlimited range of distinguishing characteristics, so long as the distinguishing characteristic motivated the bully to harass the targeted student." L.P. and H.P. ex rel. L.P., EDU 04462-16, Initial Decision (June 10, 2016), adopted, Comm'r (July 25, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

The category "any other distinguishing characteristic" has been interpreted to include a variety of traits. For example, both being a vegetarian and having head lice have been found to be "distinguishing characteristics" under the HIB statute. G.C. v. Bd. of Educ. of Montgomery, EDU 12103-15, Initial Decision (March 7, 2016), adopted, Comm'r (April 22, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (concluding that being a vegetarian constitutes "any other distinguishing characteristic" so as to support a finding of HIB); W.C.L. v. Bd. of Educ. of Tenafly, EDU 3223-12, Initial Decision (November 26, 2012), adopted, Comm'r (January 10, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (finding that a ten-year-old boy's statement to another student that a classmate had head lice constituted HIB).

In R.G.B. v. Village of Ridgewood Board of Education, EDU 14213-12, Initial Decision (May 15, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (June 24, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, a student calling another student a "horse" and a "fat-ass" was reasonably perceived as motivated by the "distinguishing characteristic" of appearance or body-type and was found to constitute HIB. Similarly, in C.C. ex rel. S.C. v. Board of Education of Jefferson, EDU 10872-14, Initial Decision (April 6, 2015), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, adopted, Comm'r (May 12, 2015), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/>, a student's comments that another student was "short" and "sucks at basketball" were found to constitute HIB, as the comments were reasonably perceived as motivated by the "distinguishing characteristic[s]" of height and sports proficiency.

However, the Appellate Division has made clear that "harmful or demeaning conduct motivated only by another reason, for example, a dispute about relationships or personal belongings, or aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation, does not come within the statutory definition of bullying." K.L. v. Evesham, supra, 423 N.J. Super. at 351. For example, in L.B.T. v. Freehold Regional School District Board of Education, EDU 7894-12, Initial Decision (January 24, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (March 7, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, the Commissioner found that comments made by a high-school swimmer about her teammate's commitment to the team merely reflected a dispute about their respective roles on the team and did not constitute HIB. Likewise, in L.P. and H.P v. West Morris Regional High School District, EDU 04462-16, Initial Decision (June 10, 2016), adopted, Comm'r (July 25, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, there was no HIB where there was a clear conflict between two members of a high-school fencing team, but no evidence that the alleged bullying was based on a particular characteristic. Finally, in B.A. v. Board of Education of Hamilton, EDU 10485-15, Initial Decision (May 12, 2016), adopted, Comm'r (June 22, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, there was no finding of HIB as the result of a relationship breakdown between middle-school girls after one girl attended a party to which the other girls were not invited.

A "distinguishing characteristic" must be the motivation for the alleged bullying, even when the alleged bully is a teacher, coach, or staff member. In M.R. ex rel. M.R. v. Board of Education of the Ramapo Indian Hills Regional School District, EDU 05308-16, Initial Decision (November 7, 2016) modified in part, Comm'r (December 21, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, a parent filed an HIB report alleging that his daughter and three other cheerleaders were bullied by their cheerleading coach. The report stemmed from an incident in which the cheerleader sent a text message to her coach stating that she would be unable to attend the night's basketball game due to other plans. The report claimed that the coach responded with a "strong bullying tone" and informed her that she and any other cheerleader who missed the game would be off the team. The HIB investigation concluded that the coach did not engage in HIB, and the school board affirmed the findings. Importantly, there was no evidence in the record that the cheerleading coach's alleged actions were motivated by a distinguishing characteristic of the cheerleader.

It is unclear from the instant petition and subsequent motion papers what "distinguishing characteristic" of R.E. made him the target of the alleged bullying behavior. Approximately three theories can be gleaned from the pleadings. According to petitioners, R.E. and the other victims of the alleged bullying may have been targeted because of their status as: 1) students; 2) "white, healthy male student athletes"; or 3) perceived "meek or weak" members of the team. As set forth in greater detail below, these theories must fail, as there is no evidence to suggest that the alleged conduct was motivated by any of these characteristics.

1. Status as a student is not a sufficient "distinguishing characteristic" to substantiate a finding of HIB against a staff member.

In the Petition of Appeal, petitioners argue that "a clear distinguishing characteristic is Student vs. Staff." (Petition of Appeal at 1.) According to petitioners, "[o]ne of the defining characteristics of HIB is an imbalance of power. An adult teacher and coach is obviously in this position of power against a minor child, regardless of their race, creed or sexual orientation." (Petitioners' Brief at 2.) In other words, petitioners argue that R.E.'s status as a student, alone, qualifies as a "distinguishing characteristic" under the HIB statute.

This reasoning must be rejected. The Department of Education has made clear that the HIB statute only applies to HIB committed against students; it is not meant to address HIB committed against adults. If status as a student, alone, was sufficient to substantiate an HIB finding there would be no reason to include an additional requirement that the misconduct be motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic." Clearly, something more is needed.

2. There is no evidence that R.E. and others were bullied due to their status as "white, healthy male student athletes."

Petitioners take issue with ABC Manfredi's explanation that, in order for the HIB statute to apply, the victim must be a member of a protected class based on race, gender, ethnicity, etc. (Petition of Appeal at 1.) Petitioners are correct in asserting that the phrase "any other distinguishing characteristic" expands the coverage of the HIB statute to cover traits that are not contemplated in traditional anti-discrimination laws.

The problem with petitioners' claim, however, is that there is no evidence that R.E. was the victim of the alleged HIB because he was a "white, healthy male student athlete[]." In order for the HIB statute to apply, the alleged misconduct must be "reasonably perceived as being motivated either by any actual or perceived characteristic." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. Since there is no support that R.E. and the other players were targeted because of their status as "white, healthy male student athletes," this argument must be rejected.

3. While a claim of HIB may be based on the "distinguishing characteristic" of being "meek or weak," the alleged bullying of R.E. cannot reasonably be perceived as being motivated by this trait.

In his initial email report to Principal Cooley, J.E. alleges that coaches Raymond and Augusta "prey[] on kids with anxiety, those who are intelligent, those who are mild mannered." (Croker Cert., Exh. 1, at 3.[3]) In petitioners' letter brief, petitioner J.E. again argues that, "The boys who filed complaints, including my son [R.], are all intelligent, soft spoken, mild mannered kids. This would be perceived by bullies like these two and others as meek or weak." (Petitioners' Brief at 2.) J.E. also mentions that R.E. was "under five feet tall and 112 pounds" when he started high school and had a "slight build." Ibid.

Being perceived as "meek or weak" could qualify as a "distinguishing characteristic" under the HIB statute. Characteristics such as height, intelligence, and sports proficiency have been found to satisfy the "distinguishing characteristic" requirement in previous cases. See C.C. ex rel. S.C., supra, EDU 10872-14, Initial Decision (April 6, 2015), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, adopted, Comm'r (May 12, 2015), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/>. Appearance and body type have also been considered "distinguishing characteristics" under the HIB statute. See R.G.B., supra, EDU 14213-12, Initial Decision (May 15, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (June 24, 2013), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

However, petitioners have failed to set forth facts to link the alleged bullying with R.E.'s status as a perceived "meek or weak" member of the team. Contrast, for example, the facts in R.G.B., where calling another student "horse" or "fat-ass" was clearly linked to the victim's body type or appearance. Similarly, as in C.C., telling someone that they are "short" and "suck[] at basketball" can reasonably be perceived as being motivated by the victim's height and sports proficiency.

Here, petitioners have not alleged that coaches Raymond and Augusta ever made comments about R.E.'s demeanor or physical stature. Rather, the reported conduct involves such incidents as instructing R.E. to retrieve balls that had been thrown into a pond, guilting R.E. to miss a family vacation to attend baseball practice, and forcing R.E. to carry his catchers' gear with no intention of letting him play. Without more, these incidents cannot reasonably be perceived as being motivated solely by the perception that R.E. was "meek or weak." In fact, according to J.E., Coach Raymond exhibited bullying conduct to everyone from assistant coaches to members of the grounds crew. (Croker Cert., Exh. 2, at 3.) These actions are more akin to what the Appellate Division called "aggressive conduct without identifiable motivation," conduct that, while inappropriate and undesirable, is not covered by the HIB statute.[4] See K.L. v. Evesham, supra, 423 N.J. Super. at 351.

[3] This allegation was considered during the investigation and is noted in the HIB Summary Report as "not verified." (Croker Cert., Exh. 19, at 2.)

B. The conduct took place on school property.

Second, in order to satisfy the statutory definition of HIB, the conduct must take place "on school property, at any school-sponsored function, on a school bus, or off school grounds as provided for in section 16 of P.L.2010, c.122 (C.18A:37-15.3)." N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14. There is no dispute that the conduct at issue took place on school baseball fields or at school-sponsored baseball games and practices.

C. The conduct may have interfered with the rights of R.E.

Third, in order to satisfy the statutory definition of HIB, the conduct must substantially disrupt or interfere with the orderly operation of the school or the rights of other students. This provision of the law appears to address free-speech concerns. T.R. and T.R. ex rel. E.R. v. Bridgewater-Raritan Reg'l Bd. of Educ., EDU 10208-13, Initial Decision (September 25, 2014), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, adopted, Comm'r (November 10, 2014), <http://www.nj.gov/education/legal/>. In Tinker v. Des Moines Independent Community School District, 393 U.S. 503, 513, 89 S. Ct. 733, 740, 21 L. Ed. 2d 731, 741 (1969), the United States Supreme Court explained that "conduct by the student, in class or out of it, which for any reason . . . materially disrupts classwork or involves substantial disorder or invasion of the rights of others is, of course, not immunized by the constitutional guarantee of freedom of speech."

[4] Presumably, the Board can take whatever other personnel action is appropriate to address such behavior.

According to the Court, a school may circumscribe speech that results in the "interference, actual or nascent, with the schools' work or of collision with the rights of other students to be secure and to be let alone." Id., 393 U.S. at 508, 89 S. Ct. 737, 740, 21 L. Ed. 2d at 738. Certainly, "schools, as instruments of the state, may determine that the essential lessons of civil, mature conduct cannot be conveyed in a school that tolerates lewd, indecent, or offensive speech and conduct." Bethel Sch. Dist. v. Fraser, 478 U.S. 675, 683, 106 S. Ct. 3159, 3164, 92 L. Ed. 2d 549, 558 (1986).

Neither petitioners nor respondent have addressed this element of the HIB claim. Arguably, the alleged conduct interfered with R.E.'s right "to be secure and to be let alone." Then again, the extent of this right is unclear given R.E.'s voluntary participation in the baseball program. Nevertheless, because there is no evidence that the alleged conduct was motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic," the HIB definition cannot be satisfied and further analysis of this element is unnecessary.

D. Petitioners have failed to clearly assert that the alleged conduct physically or emotionally harmed R.E., insulted or demeaned R.E., or created a hostile environment.

Fourth, to qualify as HIB, the conduct must be such that:

> a. a reasonable person should know, under the circumstances, will have the effect of physically or emotionally harming a student or damaging the student's property, or placing a student in reasonable fear of physical or emotional harm to his person or damage to his property;
>
>
> c. creates a hostile educational environment for the student by interfering with a student's education or by severely or pervasively causing physical or emotional harm to the student.
> [N.J.S.A. 18A:37-14 (emphasis added).]

The petitioners have not addressed this element of the HIB definition. J.E.'s initial complaint to the school alleges that coaches Raymond and Augusta were involved in "[n]ame calling and intimidation, degrading students," as well as "[p]hysically intimidating players." (Croker Cert., Exh. 2.) Indeed, it is alleged that the coaches exhibited such inappropriate behavior to numerous students, as well as adults. However, nowhere in the pleadings is it made clear that R.E. suffered physical or emotional harm or felt insulted or demeaned by the actions of his coaches. The coaches may have been "bullies," but their conduct did not fall within the statutory definition of bullying with its particular requirements.

CONCLUSION

Although the HIB statute does not explicitly address HIB perpetrated by an adult, guidance issued by the Department of Education has clarified that the law applies to any person who commits an act of HIB against a student. Several cases have applied the statute to teachers, coaches, and staff members. These individuals are granted the same procedural rights under the law as an alleged student-perpetrator.

Here, the alleged conduct fails to meet the statutory definition of HIB. There are no facts to support that the alleged bullying was motivated by a "distinguishing characteristic" of R.E. Petitioners suggest that the alleged conduct may have been motivated by R.E.'s status as 1) a student; 2) a "white, healthy male student athlete[ ]"; or 3) a perceived "meek or weak" member of the baseball team. Status as a "student" does not qualify as a distinguishing characteristic, as the HIB statute only applies to misconduct against students—the "distinguishing characteristic" must be more specific than this. Additionally, there is no support for the argument that R.E. was targeted because he was a "white, healthy male student athlete[]." Finally, while being "meek or weak" could qualify as a "distinguishing characteristic," petitioners have not set forth any facts to support this theory.

Furthermore, it is uncertain that the alleged conduct would meet the other elements of the HIB definition. Specifically, the pleadings do not make clear that the alleged conduct physically or emotionally harmed R.E., insulted or demeaned R.E., or created a hostile environment. For these reasons, respondent's motion for summary decision must be granted.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. The petition is DISMISSED. The petitioner's motion is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

In the Matter of	:
WILLIAM CROWELL,	:	Agency Docket Number 226-9/17
	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX	:

This Settlement Agreement ("Agreement") is made by and between, on the one hand, the State-operated School District of the City of Newark ("School District"), with an address at 2 Cedar Street, Newark, New Jersey 07102, and its successors, assigns, officers, employees, agents and representatives ("School District"), and, on the other hand, William Crowell, residing at 35 Grand Ave. Newark, NJ 07106 ("Crowell") (collectively, the "Parties").

WHEREAS Crowell is a tenured teaching staff member employed by the School District; and

WHEREAS, on or about September 22, 2017, the School District certified tenure charges of inefficiency against Crowell and a copy of the Notice of Tenure Charges of Inefficiency is attached to this Settlement Agreement (the "Settlement Agreement") as Exhibit A; and

WHEREAS the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein rather than proceed with litigation; and

WHEREAS the settlement set forth herein is in the best interest of the Parties and the public because it avoids an uncertain conclusion after protracted and costly proceedings at the expense of the public;

NOW, THEREFORE, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Crowell hereby agrees to resign from his tenured position, effective December 31, 2017. Attached is a copy of Crowell's signed Letter of Resignation (Exhibit B). Crowell's separation from employment will be deemed a voluntary resignation in good standing. Upon inquiry from any third parties, the School District will only confirm Crowell's employment, position, title, salary and dates of employment.

2. Crowell also agrees to withdraw with prejudice any and all claims or suits that he may have previously filed against the School District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the School District and Crowell. Should Crowell fail to submit letters of withdrawal and/or stipulations of dismissal for any such pending claims or suits, this Settlement Agreement will serve as Crowell's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits, except for workers compensation claims.

3. In exchange, Crowell will be placed on administrative leave with pay commencing on the date his suspension without pay took effect and will remain in such status until the effective date of his resignation, December 31, 2017. Other than the salary that he receives until the effective date of his resignation, Crowell will not receive any further monies from the School District in exchange for this Settlement Agreement. If applied for, the School District will not oppose Crowell's application for unemployment.

4. The School District also agrees not to pursue any disciplinary action, including termination of Crowell's employment so long as this Settlement Agreement remains in effect and is not voided by any court or administrative agency of competent jurisdiction. However, if the Settlement Agreement is voided, the School District retains the right to pursue disciplinary action against Crowell including termination from the School District.

5. As of the effective date of his resignation, all of Crowell's employment rights, including but not limited to salary, insurance coverage, tenure and seniority, will permanently end, except for any benefits to which he may lawfully be entitled under the Workers' Compensation Act or the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1986 ("COBRA").

6. Crowell agrees that he will not apply for reemployment with the School District at any time. Specifically, Crowell will be considered to have permanently resigned from his tenured position as a result of this Settlement Agreement. If Crowell does apply for reemployment with the School District and is approved for employment, the terms of this Settlement Agreement shall control and be grounds for immediate termination of Crowell's employment.

7. This Settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

8. Except as noted above, Crowell waives all claims of any nature against the School District with regard to his employment with and/or his separation from the School District including fees or other monetary relief, with the exception of workers' compensation claims.

9. By entering into this Settlement Agreement, and in exchange for good consideration as set forth in Paragraph 3 and 4 above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Crowell hereby releases and discharges the School District, its Board of Education and its members, the State District Superintendent, and any and all other School District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") with respect to all claims or rights that he has or may have against the Board of Education of the School District regarding his employment with the School District. This includes without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Crowell's employment with the School District and separation from the School District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Crowell may have regarding tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the Federal False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the

New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, the retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law (and including any and all amendments to the above), the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance, common law and/or contract or implied contract or collective bargaining/ contractual claim or tort law or public policy or whistleblower claim, having any bearing whatsoever on his employment by and the termination of his employment with the School District, including, but not limited to, any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, front pay, vacation pay, sick pay, wage, commission or bonus payment, attorneys fees, costs, and/or future wage loss, except for workers compensation claims and for health insurance continuation coverage under and pursuant to ("COBRA"). Crowell agrees to save, hold harmless and indemnify the Released Parties for any legal costs and attorneys fees associated with the enforcement of the terms of this Settlement Agreement should enforcement become necessary.

10. Notwithstanding Paragraph 9 of this Settlement Agreement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the Released Parties, or any of them, based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 9, Crowell agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

11. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, if applicable, this Agreement advises Crowell of the legal requirements of that Act, and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Settlement Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Settlement Agreement, Crowell acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Settlement Agreement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given twenty-one (21) days within which to consider this Settlement Agreement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Settlement Agreement to revoke it. Crowell understands that he may rescind this Settlement Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the School District either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

12. The parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement Agreement and that each is signing this Settlement Agreement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

13. This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full agreement between the parties, and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law.

14. If any provision or portion of a provision of this Settlement Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction, or determined under applicable federal or state law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions or remaining portions of a provision will continue and remain in full force and effect.

15. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the State District Superintendant of the State-operated School District of the City of Newark and will only become effective upon the approval of the Superintendent. Any disapproval by the Superintendent shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

William Crowell,	:	NOTICE OF TENURE CHARGE OF INEFFICIENCY
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX	:

TO: WILLIAM CROWELL

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that Angela Mincy, Principal of Barringer Academy of S.T.E.A.M., hereby files a charge of inefficiency against William Crowell ("Respondent"), a tenured teacher employed by the State-operated School District of the City of Newark ("School District"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-17.3.

TENURE CHARGE: INEFFICIENCY

Respondent has been rated ineffective in two consecutive annual summative evaluations, as follows:

1. Respondent was rated ineffective in his 2015-16 annual summative evaluation.

2. Respondent was rated ineffective in his 2016-17 annual summative evaluation.

3. Respondent has failed to effectively perform the duties of a teacher.

4. Respondent has failed to effectively use individual standard-aligned lessons to build on previous lessons and on students' prior knowledge.

5. Respondent has failed to effectively use standard-aligned lesson components to move students toward mastery of an objective that is aligned to objective that is aligned to standards.

6. Respondent has failed to clearly and accurately communicate content and instructions effectively.

7. Respondent has failed to effectively use standards-based, grade-level appropriate lesson plans that reflect work towards annual student achievement goals.

8. Respondent has failed to effectively use lesson objectives that fit into a larger coherent sequence that leads to student mastery of the appropriate standards.

9. Respondent has failed to effectively tailor instruction to move all students toward mastery.

10. Respondent has failed to effectively use questions and tasks to ensure student comprehension and ask for application, analysis, and/or synthesis.

11. Respondent has failed to effectively anticipate and respond to student reactions and misunderstandings by adjusting instructional strategies.

12. Respondent has failed to effectively require precision and evidence in tasks and responses from students.

13. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that student work includes revisions based on teacher and peer feedback, especially revised explanations and justifications to demonstrate student movement toward mastery.

14. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that lesson objectives, tasks and materials require students to demonstrate recall and reproduction, basic application of concepts, strategic thinking, and extended thinking.

15. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that students express satisfaction in solving problems and mastering new material.

16. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that students show persistence in confronting demanding concepts and tasks.

17. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that classroom norms promote positive and productive teacher-student and student-student relationships.

18. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that he fosters a classroom culture that is consistently one of high expectations and hard work.

19. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that students hold themselves and their peers accountable for learning and supporting the culture of the classroom.

20. Respondent has failed to consistently check for understanding effectively.

21. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that he and his students give and receive timely, specific, and constructive feedback.

22. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate students know more at the end of the lesson than they did at the start.

23. Respondent has failed to effectively track assessment data to understand each student's progress toward mastery and use results to guide planning and instruction.

24. Respondent has failed to effectively articulate specifically (and with evidence) whether or not each student has internalized grade-level standards and, if not, what s/he still needs to learn.

25. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that data reflects that students are mastering the objectives of the focus areas, leading toward mastery of grade-level standards.

26. Respondent has failed to effectively demonstrate that he accurately self-assesses strengths and substantive growth areas, seeks and incorporates feedback from others, and pursues his own growth and development.

27. Respondent has failed to effectively contribute ideas and expertise to further colleagues' and the school's growth and incorporate productive insights into his own instruction.

28. Respondent has failed to effectively communicate student progress clearly and consistently to students, families, and school leaders.

29. Respondent has failed to demonstrate consistent and prompt attendance that reflects his focus on student learning as a priority.

WHEREFORE, the undersigned hereby requests the following relief:

a. Dismissal of Respondent from the position in which he has tenure in the School District;

b. Suspension of Respondent, without pay, pending review and consideration of this Tenure Charge of Inefficiency; and

c. Such further relief as may be authorized by law and deemed equitable by the State District Superintendent, the Commissioner of Education, and any assigned arbitrator.

This charge is supported by the Statement of Evidence annexed hereto.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RED BANK REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	ORDER
RESPONDENT.	:

On March 2, 2017, a final agency decision was rendered in this matter, wherein the Commissioner found A.B. liable for tuition in the amount of Eighteen Thousand-Four Hundred and Thirty Three Dollars and Sixty Cents ($18,433.60), representing tuition for a period of ineligible attendance by her child, T.B., in the Board's school district during the 2014-2015 and 2015-2016 school years. The Board subsequently notified the Commissioner that A.B. had failed to comply with the decision, and requested that the Commissioner seek entry of the assessment on the judgment docket of the Superior Court pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10. A.B., in response to the Board's request, offered no reasons that have not been fully and fairly adjudicated as to why the judgment against her should not be so docketed.

Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, Alfanette Brunson is now subject to entry of a judgment by the court in the amount of $18,433.60, which represents the payment ordered at the conclusion of the case before the Commissioner, with interest to accrue as provided by law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Re: Request for Docketing of Judgment

Dear Ms. Smith:

In accordance with N.J.S.A. 2A:58-10, I am enclosing the December 27, 2017 Order of the Commissioner of Education finding that Alfanette Brunson is subject to entry of a judgment on the docket of the court due to their failure to pay the tuition assessment ordered in the matter of A.B., on behalf of minor child, T.B v. Board of Education of the Red Bank Regional High School District, Monmouth County.[1] By copy of this letter, I am advising Ms. Brunson, as well as counsel for the Red Bank Regional Board of Education, of the Commissioner's issuance of the enclosed Order.

If you require anything more, please contact this office at (609) 376-9079.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner filed the within appeal in January 2017, claiming entitlement to additional reimbursement for unused vacation and sick time of her deceased husband, a former teacher and Assistant Superintendent for the respondent Board. Mr. Ascolese retired from the Board's employ in January 2012, and was thereafter reimbursed by the Board for his accumulated leave time based on a mutually agreed upon number of days and the terms of Mr. Ascolese's last employment contract with the school district, the gross amount of which totaled $74,553.92 – paid out in two checks, one in 2012 and the other in 2013. Mr. Ascolese died in December 2014, sixteen months after the last reimbursement check was cashed. Petitioner subsequently filed her appeal on January 25, 2017. The Board filed a motion to dismiss, contending that the appeal was filed beyond the 90-day time limitation set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3. Petitioner opposed the motion.

The ALJ found, inter alia, that: the petitioner's appeal was filed in January 2017, significantly beyond 90 days from any of the three dates that should have triggered notice of the Board's final determination regarding Mr. Ascolese's retirement benefits; the Board asserted that the petitioner should have taken action to appeal the Board's determination of retirement benefits within 90 days of cashing the second reimbursement check in 2014, yet failed to file the instant petition for another three years; the veracity of petitioner's assertion that Mr. Ascolese never consented to the leave time calculation that the Board memorialized in a memorandum bearing Mr. Ascolese's signature – and her denial that the signature was actually her husband's – cannot be entertained because the petition was filed far too late to be viable; there is no merit in the petitioner's claim that a Board memorandum dated December 26, 2016 is the appropriate triggering event, as this communication was merely a responsive letter to the petitioner providing her with requested documentation; and the relaxation of the 90 day rule is not warranted in this matter. The ALJ concluded that the petition must be dismissed as untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3.

Upon review, the Commissioner agreed with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ, and adopted the Initial Decision as the final decision in this matter. The petition was dismissed.

This synopsis is not part of the Commissioner's decision. It has been prepared for the convenience of the reader. It has been neither reviewed nor approved by the Commissioner.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NORTH BERGEN, HUDSON COUNTY; GEORGE SOLTER, SUPERINTENDENT; AND STEVEN SOMICK, BUSINESS ADMINISTRATOR,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed, as have the exceptions filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 by the petitioner, Patricia Ascolese, and the North Bergen Board of Education's (Board) reply thereto.

This matter involves a claim by the petitioner that she is entitled to additional reimbursement for the unused vacation and sick time of her deceased husband, Vincent Ascolese, a former teacher and Assistant Superintendent for the Board. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) found that the petition of appeal was untimely under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) because it was filed well beyond 90 days from several dates that triggered notice of the Board's final determination regarding Mr. Ascolese's retirement benefits. The ALJ also found that relaxation of the 90-day rule is not warranted in this matter.

In her exceptions, the petitioner argues that the ALJ incorrectly applied the 90-day rule because in fact, none of the trigger dates identified by the ALJ were final Board action. The petitioner asserts that the Board never adopted a board resolution that authorized the Board to expend funds to compensate Mr. Ascolese for his accrued time after he retired in January of 2012. In addition to no formal resolution, the trigger dates utilized by the ALJ were also inconsistent with the notice requirement outlined in the 90-day rule. To that end, the ALJ erred in finding that the cashing of the checks that Mr. Ascolese received in 2012 ($10,000.00 gross amount) and 2013 ($64,553.92 gross amount) triggered notice of a claim under the 90-day rule because there was no explanation that the payments represented an accounting of the unused accumulated leave sum. Even assuming – as the ALJ did – that the petitioner knew the checks were for reimbursement of leave time, there was no indication that they were payment in full.

The petitioner also argues that the ALJ incorrectly concluded that the letter received by Mr. Ascolese on August 13, 2014, detailing the Board's continued effort to calculate Mr. Ascolese's contractual entitlement, was a trigger for the 90-day rule. The letter unambiguously indicates that the Board had yet to determine the total amount that was due to Mr. Ascolese for his unused time. Finally, the petitioner claims that the ALJ incorrectly concluded that the Board's decision to give the petitioner Mr. Ascolese's personnel file on April 5, 2015 – which included correspondence concerning his accumulated leave time – was the third triggering event of the 90-day rule. Nothing in the file contained a final determination of unused sick and vacation leave time. Therefore, the petitioner contends that the petition of appeal is not untimely.

The petitioner also maintains that the ALJ incorrectly applied the standard for summary decision because she failed to consider facts in the light most favorable to the petitioner. The ALJ also wrongfully granted summary decision before allowing additional discovery to determine if the 90-day rule was implicated and, if it was, whether the rule should be relaxed. In her exceptions, the petitioner discusses several examples of factual findings made by the ALJ that she argues are arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

In reply, the Board contends that the ALJ properly dismissed the petition in accordance with the 90-day rule. First, the Board states that a formal board resolution is not necessary to trigger the 90-day rule because a resolution is not required in order for a board of education to reimburse a retired employee for unused leave time. Moreover, despite the petitioner's claims to the contrary, the ALJ identified the factual findings that were not in dispute to properly determine whether the petition was barred by the 90-day rule.

The Board also indicates that at the OAL it argued that the last possible date for triggering the 90-day rule was the acceptance by Mr. Ascolose of the second check for the payout of his unused leave time in July, 2013. Yet the ALJ took a much more expansive approach and set three different possible trigger dates, the last of which was April 5, 2015 – when the Board turned over Mr. Ascolese's personnel file to his family. Giving the petitioner the benefit of every doubt, the ALJ still found that the petition was filed after the running of the last conceivable trigger date. The Board stresses that the petition was filed five years after Mr. Ascolese retired; three and a half years after the final payment was made for his unused leave time; over two years after Mr. Ascolese died; and almost two years after the latest possible trigger found by the ALJ. Additionally, notwithstanding Mr. Ascolese's illness, the ALJ properly found that there was no compelling constitutional concern of fundamental public interest that existed which would compel the ALJ to relax the 90-day rule.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's determination – for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision – that the petition of appeal was time barred under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i). The Commissioner likewise concurs that petitioner has failed to set forth any compelling reason to relax the timely filing requirement.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i), a petition must be filed "no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." As stated by the Board in its exceptions, the ALJ gave the petitioner the benefit of the doubt with respect to the latest possible date triggering the notice of the Board's final decision concerning Mr. Ascolese's remaining unused leave time. The Board made the last payment to Mr. Ascolese for his unused leave time in July, 2013,[1] and the Board provided the family with Mr. Ascolese's personnel file in April, 2015. Certainly the petitioner was on notice at that juncture that the Board had made a final determination related to Mr. Ascolese's accrued leave time. Yet the petition of appeal seeking additional unreimbursed leave funds was not filed by the petitioner until January 27, 2017. The Commissioner is not persuaded that the exceptions submitted by the petitioner dictate a different result. The objections identified in the exceptions essentially raise arguments that the ALJ took into account in determining that the petition should be dismissed as untimely.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted as the final decision in this matter and the petition of appeal is dismissed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 02353-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 19-1/17

PATRICIA ASCOLESE,

Petitioner,

v.

NORTH BERGEN BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Respondent.

Gary M. Lachman, Esq., for petitioner

Kevin Hanly, Esq, for respondent, North Bergen Board of Education

Record Closed: August 9, 2017 Decided: September 27, 2017

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Patricia Ascolese, filed a petition on January 27, 2017, with the State Board of Education seeking to determine the retirement benefits of her deceased husband, Vincent Ascolese, a former teacher and Assistant Superintendent for the North Bergen Board of Education. The petition sought additional reimbursement for alleged "unused vacation and sick leave" time. An answer to the petition was filed by the respondent on February 14, 2017. The respondents to this matter are the North Bergen Board of Education (NBBOE, the Board, or the District), George Solter and Steven Somick (collectively the respondents).

On February 1, 2017, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a fair hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to ALJ Leslie Celentano and Joan Bedrin-Murray. Subsequently the case was reassigned to the undersigned.

On March 15, 2017, the respondents moved to discuss this matter on the basis that the petition was filed outside of the ninety-day rule. On or about April 23, 2017, petitioner filed letter brief in opposition to the Motion

FACTS

I FIND the following FACTS to be undisputed, thus they are adopted as the FACTS herein:

1. Vincent Ascolese (Ascolese) was employed by the District from 1973 until his retirement on January 6, 2012.
2. Ascolese was initially hired as a teacher. He subsequently became an Assistant Superintendent for Business. During this tenure Ascolese was also the football coach.
3. As an Assistant Superintendent, Ascolese was not required to "punch in" using a time clock, but was allowed to keep his own attendance record that were later recorded by the attendance office.
4. The Board's leave policy provided for ten sick days and five personal days, annually. Unused personal days could be accumulated and converted into "sick" time. Vacation days were based on the position held and subject to a longevity adjustment.

5. Prior to the 1995-1996 school year, District employees were given the option of accumulating unused vacation or being paid for the time at the end of the fiscal year. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

6. Beginning in 1995-1996, the vacation policy changed to require that unused vacation days were to be paid at the end of each fiscal year. Thus, in 1996 Acolese was paid for his unused vacation days and this practice continued until he retired. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

7. In 2007 the law changed and capped unused sick time to maximum payout of $15,000. Current employees were grandfathered in and allowed to retain prior accumulated unused sick leave time. The effective date of the new law June 8, 2007. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

8. An employee could receive the greater of the two: accumulated sick days or $15,000. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

9. As of June 8, 2007, Ascolese had 465 unused sick, personal, and vacation days.

10. Also at that time, Ascolese's employment contract ran from July 1, 2006, to June 30, 2009. If the contract dates were to be used to determine accumulated sick leave, Ascolese had 495 sick days. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

11. Prior to the commencement of the 2009-2010 school year, Ascolese was diagnosed with cancer and was unable to perform his duties as Assistant Superintendent. Ascolese continued to perform his duties as a football coach, thus he remained employed with the District by using unused sick, personal, and vacation days until his retirement in early 2010. (Cortication of Steven Somick.)

12. Before his retirement, Ascolese met with the District's general counsel periodically to discuss his leave time. This meeting occurred after his diagnosis. On March 25, 2010, the general counsel sent Ascolese a memorandum that he had 495 days of accumulated leave time. The memorandum further confirmed that Ascolese planned to take 76 sick days commencing on March 8, 2010, school year or June 30, 2010.

13. Subsequently, Ascolese confirmed in writing that he agreed with the accumulated leave time and that he would take seventy-six sick days. Further, he noted that he would use vacation time for the rest of the 2010 calendar year. (Exhibit 1, Certification of Steven Somick.)

14. Ascolese did not return to school on January 1, 2011, but instead he used sick time for January 1, 2011, to July 31, 2011. As of July 30, 2011, Ascolese had 184 days left and notified the Board that he would retire on January 6, 2012. (Exhibit 3 Certification of Steven Somick.)

15. Prior to reimbursing Ascolese for his accumulated leave time, the District Business Administrator (BA) met with him and advised him that he would be paid $74,553.92 for his leave time. Ascolese agreed to the number of days and that his contract would be used to determine the amount of the payout. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

16. On August 30, 2012, the District sent Ascolese a net check for $8,564.62. The check was cashed on the same day. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

17. On July 11, 2013, the District sent Ascolese a net check for $48,127.35 which cleared the bank on July 22, 2013. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

18. Ascolese died on December 3, 2014, sixteen months after the last reimbursement check was cashed. At no time prior to January 30, 2017, did Mrs. Ascolese contest the amount of his reimbursement. (Certification of Steven Somick.)

19. On June 8, 2007, Ascolese's salary was $208,900.

20. Patricia Ascolese is the wife of the decedent and the petitioner herein. She avers that her husband worked for the District for thirty-nine years and never missed a day of work, even after his diagnosis of prostate cancer. Indeed, he would report to work after his treatments at Holy Name Hospital in Hackensack, N.J. (Certification of Patricia Ascolese.)

21. Petitioner denies that the signature on Exhibit 2 is her husband's signature.

22. Petitioner received a letter from Kevin Hanley, Esq. dated August 13, 2014, regarding the calculation of her husband's sick days. (Certification of Patricia Ascolese.)

23. Petitioner filed this petition on January 25, 2017.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner seeks supplemental reimbursement for alleged unused sick and vacation leave time. Respondent counters that a petitioner failed to comply with the ninety-day limitation period as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) and therefore this appeal much be dismissed. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(i) provides:

> [t]he petitioner shall file a petition no later that the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

Thus, Title 6A provides that a petitioner may challenge the action of a board of education by filling a petition conforming to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.4. The Code further provides for a limitation of action with respect to the initiation of a contested case for the Commissioner's determination of a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws.

Generally speaking, a limitation of action serve two salutary purposes which our Supreme Court discussed in Ochs v. Federal Insurance Company, 90 N.J. 108, 112 (1982). It noted therein, that the initial purpose is "to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims." Second, is to "penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose." Id. at 112 (quoting Farrell v. Votator Div. of Chetron Corp., 62 N.J. 111, 115 (1975)).

Subsequently, in Kaprow v. Berkeley Township Board of Education, 131 N.J. 572, 588 (1993). the Court affirmed the validity of the ninety-day rule as applied to school law cases (then codified as N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)) There, the Court held that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) represents a fair and reasonable-necessary requirement for the proper and efficient resolution of disputes under the school laws. The Court concluded that even an unofficial, informal note from respondent's secretary to the petitioner stating that two positions had been created and filled was sufficient to trigger the start of the ninety-day period. The Court stated that the time limitation, while arguably short, provides a "measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws." Id. at 582. In addition, the limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that the administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. Ibid.

In the instant matter, respondent asserts that the triggering action of petitioner occurred when petitioner cashed his second reimbursement check in 2014, three years before the instant petition was filed.

Petitioner rebuts by contending that the District has taken five and one-half years to state its position regarding petitioner's retirement benefits. Notably, petitioner's answer to said motion is silent on the checks that were received and cashed by her before her husband's demise and some three years before this petition was filed.

In her certification, petitioner vehemently denies that her husband took any sick leave or that he consented to leave time as specified in the memorandum setting forth his accumulated sick and leave time. Indeed, petitioner denies that it is her husband's signature on the memorandum or that he prepared same.

However, I FIND that the veracity of these contentions can't be entertained unless the petition is viable. Initially, it must be emphasized that not only did petitioner fail to file a timely claim after cashing the checks in 2012 and 2013, which I FIND to be the first trigger, she also failed to file a claim even after the respondent's counsel sent her a letter dated August 13, 2014, that referenced her husband accumulated sick and vacation leave time. I FIND that letter to be the second trigger.

I FIND that the third trigger occurred on April 5, 2015, when the Board delivered the decedent's personnel file, which included memorandum and correspondence concerning his accumulated sick and vacation leave time.

In each of the aforementioned instances, petitioner failed to file a petition within 90 days of the triggering action. I FIND no merit to the petitioner's claim that the Board memorandum of December 26, 2016, which provided copies of the "termination" checks of August 31, 2012, and June 30, 2013, as well as a copy of his June 8, 2017, employee contract is a triggering event. Rather, the memorandum is simply a responsive letter to the petitioner providing the requested documentation.

The ninety-day requirement is to be strictly construed and is mandatory. Wise v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Trenton, EDU 160-00, Comm'r (September 11, 2000), aff'd, State Board of Educ. (January 3, 2011), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. A petitioner must file a petition within ninety-days from a notice of adverse action. Adequate notice is notice that is sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. Ibid. In Amiparo Bishop v. Piscataway Board of Education, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 13897-10, the ALJ concluded that an Order approving a workers' compensation settlement constituted sufficient notice so that the ninety-day limitation began to run. There, the petitioner did not file a claim until three and half years later. Here, the decedent and the petitioner received vacation sick leave checks in 2012, 2013. Given the largess of the checks, it is inexplicable that they were not aware that it was for reimbursement of his leave time.

I am mindful that Vincent Ascolese was ill; however, I FIND that this reason standing alone does not constitute sufficient cause for relaxation of the ninety-day rule. Put simply it is not a compelling constitutional concern or fundamental public interest issue.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petition herein should be dismissed for failure to comply with the ninety-day rule as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(a).

ORDER

Therefore, for the aforementioned reasons, the respondent's Motion to Dismiss is hereby GRANTED and this matter is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, ATTN: BUREAU OF CONTROVERSIES AND DISPUTES, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The School District of the Borough of Carteret, Middlesex County ("District" or "Employer") initiated, and the State District Superintendent certified to the Commissioner of Education, tenure charges seeking the termination of employment of Drew Packard ("Respondent" or "Mr. Packard"), who is tenured in the District in various capacities including in his current positon as Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds. The Commissioner of Education referred the charges to this Arbitrator pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:5-16 as amended by P.L. 2012, c. 26 and P.L. 2015, c. 109. Preliminary conferences were conducted with counsel, and a pre-hearing schedule and an initial hearing date of November 9, 2017, were established. Prior to the date set for the hearing, however, counsel jointly requested, and the Arbitrator approved, a postponement of the hearing in light of the development of proposed settlement terms that were accepted by both parties. As settlement discussions had not produced a resolution, counsel and the Arbitrator set the matter for hearing, which was convened on November 29, 2017, at the Carteret Public Library. Prior to commencing the testimony of witnesses, extensive discussions were undertaken to explore possible agreed resolution of the charges. Following these discussions, the parties reached a mutually acceptable resolution of the tenure charges. Thereafter, a Settlement Agreement and Release, bearing an effective date of December 8, 2017, executed by Mr. Packard and James P. Hart III, Vice President of the Board of Education, was conveyed to the Arbitrator.

Through the referenced proceedings, the Arbitrator has become familiar, in some detail, with the claims, issues, evidence, and arguments posed in this case. She has carefully reviewed the proposed terms of the parties' jointly submitted Settlement Agreement & Release. She finds same to be fair, appropriate, and proper; further, it is in compliance with the terms of N.J. A. C. 6A:3-5.6 and is in the public interest. The Arbitrator therefore approves same and incorporates it herein as her Award in this matter.

Attorney for Respondent Drew Packard

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DREW PACKARD, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF CARTERET, MIDDLESEX COUNTY	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION Agency Dkt. No.: 197-8/17 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

RECITALS

WHEREAS, Petitioner School District of the Borough of Carteret ("Petitioner" or "District") has employed Respondent Drew Packard ("Respondent") in the District since 1974; and

WHEREAS, Respondent is tenured in the District in various capacities including in his current position as Supervisor of Buildings and Grounds; and

WHEREAS, on or about August 30, 2017, Petitioner certified tenure charges to the Commissioner of Education charging Respondent with unbecoming conduct and insubordination; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioner assigned Arbitrator Jacquelin Drucker, Esq. to conduct the tenure dismissal hearing in this matter; and

WHEREAS, it was determined that the tenure dismissal hearing in this case would be a considerably long and costly proceeding with the potential for dozens of witnesses being called over a period of many days; and

WHEREAS, prior to either party calling any witnesses to testify, the parties came to a mutually satisfactory resolution of the tenure charges; and

WHEREAS, the settlement of the tenure charges complies with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6 and is in the public interest since settlement avoids what would otherwise be a considerably lengthy and costly proceeding with no guarantee of a favorable outcome for the District; and

WHEREAS, the charged party is entering into this agreement with a full understanding of his rights;

NOW, IN CONSIDERATION of the payment to Respondent, as provided for herein, and other good and valuable consideration, and the promises and covenants contained herein, the receipt and sufficiency of which is acknowledged, the parties do hereby agree as follows:

1. Non-Admission. This Agreement is not, and shall not in any way be considered or construed as, an admission of liability by either party of discrimination, retaliation, tortious conduct, or of any violation of any law, common law, or federal, state or local statute or regulation, or of any education policy, practice, contract or agreement, or of any alleged duty owed, or of any unlawful or wrongful acts whatsoever by either party. Both parties specifically deny any wrongdoing of any kind.

2. Consideration. The parties agree to the following good and valuable consideration:
    (a) Petitioner shall immediately withdraw the tenure charges against Respondent with prejudice; and
    (b) Petitioner shall pay Respondent the amount of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) as full and final settlement of any and all claims he has or may have had against Petitioner; and

(c) Said payment shall be issued in two equal installments as follows: (1) payment of seventy five thousand dollars ($75,000) shall be paid on December 15, 2017, and (2) payment of seventy five thousand dollars shall be paid on January 15, 2018; and

(d) Respondent shall be solely responsible for payment of any and all taxes due on these settlement proceeds; and

(e) Petitioner shall not deduct any taxes or pension contributions from these settlement proceeds.

3. Covenant Not to Sue. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 2, Respondent agrees that neither he, nor any person, organization, agency, or other entity acting on his behalf, will file, charge, claim or sue, or cause to be filed, charged, claimed or sued, any other lawsuit, legal proceeding, action, grievance, or claim of any nature with any court, agency, or tribunal (including any action for damages, attorneys' fees, injunction, declaratory, monetary, equitable or other relief) against the Petitioner, based on any matter, fact or event occurring prior to the effective date of this Agreement, whether now known or unknown, or involving any continuing effects of any acts or practices which may have arisen or occurred prior to the effective date of this Agreement, whether now known or unknown.

4. Written Resignation and Waiver of Tenure Rights. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 2, Respondent agrees to submit an irrevocable letter of resignation for the purpose of retirement to be effective immediately upon the execution of this settlement agreement by both parties, and ratification by the Board of Education, which is anticipated to occur on or about December 7, 2017; Respondent further agrees to forfeit any and all tenure and/or seniority rights he has accrued while working under Petitioner's employ as to any position in the District.

5. Agreement Not to Apply for Reemployment. As part of the consideration for entering into this Agreement, Respondent expressly agrees not to apply for reemployment with Petitioner in any capacity.

6. Retrieval of Personal Property. Petitioner hereby agrees to permit Respondent entry into his office at the Administration Building for up to two (2) full days during the month of December 2017 for the purpose of retrieving his personal belongings. Petitioner and Respondent shall schedule this for such dates and at such times as to minimize disruption to the orderly operations of the building.

7. Confidentiality. Respondent agrees that the terms, conditions, fact of payment, amount of payment, and underlying facts of the settlement stated in this Agreement shall be held strictly confidential by him, his spouse, and any necessary disclosure to an attorney, accountant, and financial adviser. Respondent further agrees that he shall not describe, characterize or disclose any such information in any manner whatsoever, directly or indirectly, orally or in writing to anyone not a party to this Agreement, except to the extent required by law or to say, "the matter has been resolved", if asked, and except that Respondent may disclose the terms of this Agreement to his spouse, accountant, or financial advisor and attorney, or when legally obligated by law to do so. Similarly, Petitioner agrees to keep all terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement strictly confidential and to not disclose same unless required to do so by law.

8. Non-Disparagement. The parties, their agents, representatives, servants, and employees understand and agree that they will not engage in any activity or make any statement that may disparage or reflect negatively on each other, its employees, officials, officers, directors, employees, or related entities and related individuals.

9. Neutral Job Reference. In the event that Petitioner is contacted by any person or entity seeking a professional, personal, or character reference related to Respondent, all parties agree that Petitioner shall advise such person or entity that it is the policy of Petitioner to solely provide information verifying employment, dates, and title, and that Petitioner shall provide no further information.

10. Certification of Service and Final Salary. Petitioner agrees to promptly submit to the Public Employees' Retirement System a Certification of Service and Final Salary as required in order for Respondent to obtain retirement benefits.

11. General Release and Waiver of all Claims. In exchange for the consideration set forth in paragraph 2, Respondent fully releases and forever discharges Petitioner of and from any and all claims, actions, causes of action, back pay, front pay, contracts, agreements, promises, charges, judgments, grievances, obligations, rights, demands, debts, physical injury, pain, suffering, emotional distress, compensatory damages, punitive damages, attorneys' fees, expenses, costs, losses, liabilities, damages, or accountings of whatever nature, whether known or unknown, disclosed or undisclosed, asserted or unasserted, in law or equity, contract or tort or otherwise (herein collectively designated "Claims"), through the effective date of this Agreement, including, but not limited to, any and all Claims of harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and any and all tort Claims or contract Claims for general damages, and any and all Claims arising under, made, regarding, or involving: any federal, state, or local laws or under the common law; violations of any federal, state, or educational practices or civil rights laws or ordinances; Claims for personal injury, failure to reinstate, wrongful conduct, or discrimination; New Jersey Department of Education regulations and related statutes; the Civil Rights Acts of 1866 and 1871, as amended, 42 U.S.C. §1981; the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended, including Title VII; the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the National Labor Relations Act, as amended; the American's with Disabilities Act; Fair Housing Act; Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act; any and all state wage payment and collection laws; the Petitioner's policies, practices, collective bargaining agreements, contracts, benefits, or understandings; any Claims arising out of any relationship, including employer/employee relationship, between or among Respondent and Petitioner predating the effective date of this Agreement; and any and all grievances or demands for mediation or arbitration, or Claims or demands under Petitioner's policies and procedures; and any and all Claims asserted, or which could have been asserted, including any Claims against any current or former agents or employees of Petitioner.

Respondent hereby specifically waives, releases, and gives up all Claims and rights, as described in the preceding paragraph, whether now known or unknown, which he has or may have against Petitioner, based on any fact, act, event, or omission, whether now known or unknown, occurring before the Effective Date of this Agreement. Respondent understands that he is waiving, releasing, and giving up all Claims and rights that he knows about and all Claims and rights that he may not know about.

Similarly, Petitioner hereby specifically waives, releases, and gives up all Claims and rights, as described in the preceding paragraph, whether now known or unknown, which it has or may have against Respondent, based on any fact, act, event, or omission, whether now known or unknown, occurring before the Effective Date of this Agreement. Petitioner understands that it is waiving, releasing, and giving up all Claims and rights that it knows about and all Claims and rights that it may not know about.

12. Liens and Indemnification by Respondent. It is further understood that as a condition of this settlement, all claims, and/or liens, past, current, and/or future arising out of this settlement or asserted against the proceeds of this settlement are to be satisfied by Respondent and/or his Attorneys, including but not limited to any Medicare or Medicaid claims and/or liens, Child Support claims and/or liens; Worker's Compensation claims and/or liens, Social Security claims and/or liens, hospital/healthcare insurer claims and/or liens, physician or attorney claims and/or liens, or any of the statutory, equitable, common law or judgment claims and/or liens, including but not limited to claim based on subrogation or any other legal or equitable theory. Respondent therefore agrees, upon prompt presentation of any such claims and/or liens, to defend Petitioner and its insurer against any such claims and/or liens, and to indemnify and hold Petitioner and its insurer harmless against any judgment entered against Petitioner and its insurer based on such claims and/or liens, including the payment of any fines, charges, and attorneys' fees incurred as a result of any such lien.

13. Costs and Attorneys' Fees. Each party's costs and attorneys' fees, if any, will be borne by the respective party.

14. Payment. Payment to Respondent is subject to Petitioner's receipt of Respondent's signed and notarized Agreement, letter of resignation, as well as a child support search report.

Respondent represents and warrants that neither Petitioner nor its attorneys provided any advice regarding the taxability of the settlement amounts paid pursuant to this paragraph. Respondent acknowledges and agrees that he is solely responsible for payment of any and all federal, state, and local taxes which may be due from the settlement sum in the event that it is determined that any taxes are owed based on the taxation laws in effect on the date of execution of this Agreement or become due at any time in the future because of a change to the laws governing the taxation of such settlement proceeds. Respondent further acknowledges and agrees to indemnify and hold harmless Petitioner and its attorneys in the event that any federal, state, or local taxing authority asserts against any claim for unpaid taxes, failure to withhold taxes, or interest based upon the payment of the settlement sum to Respondent.

15. Effective Date. The effective date of this Agreement shall be the day following the date upon which the signed and notarized Agreement is received by Petitioner's attorneys and executed by Petitioner's Board of Education President. The Board will hold a special meeting on December 7, 2017, to review and vote on this Settlement Agreement.

16. Applicable Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of New Jersey, except where federal law controls. Should any provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by any Court to be illegal or invalid, the validity of the remaining parts, terms or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not to be a part of this Agreement or may be modified as necessary.

17. Entire Agreement. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the parties and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings between the parties.

18. Signatures. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts. However, this Agreement will not be binding among the parties until it has been executed by and among the Parties, and subject to Petitioner's receipt of Respondent's signed and notarized Agreement, and a completed child support search report.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, the Parties have executed this Settlement Agreement and General Release as of the dates set forth below.

OPINION AND AWARD

Agency Docket No. 61-3/17

For the Petitioner:

For the Respondent:

This arbitration proceeding arises under the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 and N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.1 and concerns tenure charges filed by the State Operated School District of the City of Paterson [the "Petitioner" or "District"] with the Commissioner of Education on March 29, 2017 seeking an unpaid suspension for tenured teacher John McEntee, Jr. [the "Respondent" or "McEntee"]. Respondent McEntee also serves in a full-time capacity President of the Paterson Education Association. He was serving as President at the time of the incident that led to the tenure charges and continues to do so. The Petitioner alleges that the Respondent engaged in Unbecoming Conduct or other inappropriate behavior on December 19, 2016 in his interactions with Dr. Sharon Davis, Vice Principal of the Napier Academy[1] and by submitting a written report to the Superintendent of Schools, and widely circulating it to others, stating that Dr. Davis "had me forcibly ejected from the building by security" on December 19, 2016.

The statutory reference for evaluating tenure disciplinary action is set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10: "[n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." Petitioner has the burden to prove, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the tenure charges must be sustained and, if so, that the penalty of an unpaid suspension be imposed in the amount to be determined by the arbitrator. On April 13, 2017, the Respondent filed an Answer to the tenure charges. While admitting to many underlying facts that are not in dispute, Respondent denied engaging in any conduct that would support the District's position that he engaged in any conduct unbecoming or any other inappropriate behavior and rejected any basis claimed by the District as authority it has to take any disciplinary action against him. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16, as amended by P.L. 2012, Chapter 26 and P.L. 2015, Chapter 109, this controversy and dispute is subject to arbitration and was assigned to this arbitrator to hear and decide on April 21, 2017.

In addition to the record developed in this proceeding, the record includes documents associated with an unfair practice charge filed by the Paterson Education Association [the "Association"] filed with the New Jersey Public Employment Relations Commission ["PERC"] against the District on February 10, 2017 and amended on April 17, 2017 in connection with the same incident that gave rise to the tenure charges. The initial charge alleged that the District violated various sections of the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et. seq. by conduct exhibited by Dr. Sharon Davis alleged to have been discriminatory and retaliatory to Respondent during and after the December 19, 2016 meeting. The Association amended the unfair practice charge on April 17, 2017 alleging that the District filed tenure charges in retaliation for the Association's filing of the February 10, 2017 unfair labor practice charge. The Association also applied for interim relief, requesting that "PERC should enjoin the matter from proceeding pursuant to TEACHNJ..." The Association asserted that PERC had exclusive jurisdiction, or in the alternative, predominant interest over the issues in light of Respondent's position as President of the Paterson Education Association and its claim that the tenure charges filed by the District in late March 2017 were in retaliation for the Association's filing of the initial unfair practice charge on February 10, 2017. A PERC Designee conducted an interim relief proceeding. He issued an Interlocutory Order on July 28, 2017 denying the Association's request for interim relief. He found that the dispute involving both the tenure proceeding and the unfair labor practice charge was one of first impression for PERC and further, that there were material facts in dispute from which he could not determine that the Association could establish a substantial likelihood of success. Thereafter, the unfair labor practice charge, as amended, has been held in abeyance by PERC pursuant to party request pending the disposition of this tenure arbitration proceeding.

This arbitrator held an informal pre-hearing conference on May 16, 2017 at which time the parties reached several procedural agreements that allowed for formal hearings to be conducted in a timely and efficient manner. Arbitration hearings were originally scheduled on August 13, 14 and 15, 2017 but were adjourned due to witness unavailability. Arbitration hearings were then held on September 14 and 19, 2017. During the course of the arbitration hearings, the parties argued orally, examined and cross-examined witnesses and submitted documentary evidence into the record. Testimony was received from six witnesses: Dr. Sharon Davis, former Vice Principal, Dr. Frank Napier, Jr. Academy of Technology, Irene DelRosso, District Supervisor, Federal Programs – No Child Left Behind (NCLB), Captain James Smith, Executive Director Security, Internal Investigations and Transportation, Diane Caparso, Instructional Assistant Special Education, Sasha Wolf, Esq., Field Representative, New Jersey Education Association Passaic County and John McEntee, Jr., Respondent and President, Paterson Education Association. A transcript of proceedings was taken. Post-hearing briefs were filed by the Petitioner and the Respondent on or about November 1, 2017. An extension of time to issue an award until December 26, 2017 was granted by the Director, Office of TEACHNJ Arbitration.

BACKGROUND

The Encounter in the Office of Dr. Davis

The facts giving rise to the tenure charges center mainly on events occurring during and shortly after an unscheduled meeting took place between Respondent and Vice-Principal Sharon Davis in the office of Dr. Davis at approximately 1:37 p.m. on December 19, 2016. NJEA Field Representative Wolfe accompanied Respondent. Prior to this time, Dr. Davis had been meeting with Irene DelRosso, the District's Supervisor of Federal Programs - NCLB. According to Ms. DelRosso, her meeting with Dr. Davis was to discuss grant funding for two staff members, a review of their schedules and responsibilities and the students that they serve. The meeting in Dr. Davis' office lasted just shy of four minutes. DelRosso was seated at a desk to the left of the doorway that opens to Dr. Davis' office. Prior to the time that Respondent entered the office, the door to Dr. Davis' office was closed. A sign hung from the door covering most of a door window stating there was a "Meeting in Conference." A portion of the bottom of the window below the sign allowed for a limited view into the office. Dr. Davis testified that she normally hung this sign when she conducted a meeting.

At approximately 10:30 a.m., some three hours prior to the meeting, Respondent entered the school on the first floor along with PEA Vice President Charles Ferrer and NJEA Field Representative Sasha Wolfe, Esq. According to District testimony, their visit to the school was part of scheduled visits and was prearranged. The Association representatives followed protocol by signing in and going to the second floor office of the school's principal, Marc Medley. Principal Medley's office is a short distance from the office of Dr. Davis on the same side of the hallway. On the other side of Dr. Davis' office on the same side of the hallway is a teachers' lounge. The three met with Principal Medley for approximately three minutes. They then left his office accompanied by Principal Medley, walked past the office of Dr. Davis and entered the teachers' lounge located adjacent to the office of Dr. Davis. Principal Medley then returned to his office. Respondent, Mr. Wolfe and Mr. Ferrer met with staff members in the lounge for approximately three hours until 1:37 p.m. Respondent testified that during this time, he was made aware of Dr. Davis' use of a confidentiality statement in her emails to staff. Respondent and Mr. Wolfe then left to go next door to Dr. Davis' office while Mr. Ferrer remained in the lounge.

Video surveillance cameras are in the school and reflect all of the above actions except what occurred inside of the office. The video also shows that when Respondent and Mr. Wolfe left the lounge, they went next door where Dr. Davis' office is located. After Mr. Wolfe knocked on the door, Ms. DelRosso opened the door and the two entered to see Dr. Davis. There is no video of what transpired inside the office of Dr. Davis. Some facts as to what happened during the next few minutes are not in dispute but some facts central to the conduct of Respondent and Dr. Davis during their interactions are in conflict and are directly relevant to the merits of the disciplinary action sought by the Petitioner/District.

After entering the office, the Respondent asked Dr. Davis if she was busy. Because the meeting between the two had not been previously scheduled, Dr. Davis was unaware of the reason Respondent went to her office. Dr. Davis responded that she was busy but that Respondent and Mr. Wolfe could enter the office. She asked if they wished to sit but they decided to remain standing. She asked and received business cards from the two. Drawings of the desk where

Dr. Davis was sitting, the desk where Ms. DelRosso was sitting and the locations of where Respondent and Mr. Wolfe were standing were submitted into evidence. There is disagreement in the testimony over precisely where Respondent and Mr. Wolfe were situated in relation to Dr. Davis. According to Dr. Davis, after standing up and greeting the two, she went back to sit behind her desk while Respondent stood in close proximity to her desk with Mr. Wolfe standing behind him facing her. Their backs were to the hallway door while Dr. Davis was facing the door. The drawings in evidence as well as testimony confirm that there was little space to the left of Dr. Davis as she sat behind the desk. To the right of where Dr. Davis was seated, there was a door to the main office and to the left was a door to the teachers' lounge. Both doors were closed. According to Respondent, he was standing by the right-hand portion of Dr. Davis' desk. There is sufficient room between this side of the desk to enter and exit from behind the desk towards the front doorway. According to Mr. Wolfe he stood to Respondent's left and both were up against the edge of the desk. All witnesses testified that the office was small. Mr. Wolfe described it as "cramped." Respondent said that the "quarters" were "tight."

The initial discussions came from Respondent and concerned the practice of Dr. Davis to include confidentiality language in emails she sent to staff.[2]

[2] Dr. Davis testified that at the time of the meeting she had already ceased using the confidentiality statement in her emails. However, Respondent said she made no mention of this during the December 19, 2016 meeting and said he was unaware it had ceased. Respondent testified that he and Director of Labor Relations Luis Rojas had dealt with a similar issue at School No. 8 and he was under the impression that email references to confidentiality had been resolved. Respondent said he believed that Dr. Davis was continuing to use the confidentiality statement based upon what he was told in the teachers' lounge.

According to Dr. Davis, Respondent asked "are you familiar with the confidentiality law?" She responded "why do you ask?" Respondent referred to an email that he had in his hand. Dr. Davis responded "why are you asking me if you already know the answer?" She said to Respondent that he entered her office under "false pretenses" because she was unaware of Respondent's intent to raise a grievable matter. Respondent said that there could be a grievance filed over whether her practice was a contract violation. In response, Dr. Davis said if Respondent was raising a grievance issue she needed to call Principal Medley to have him present for the discussion. She was unable to reach Principal Medley because he had left the main office to go downstairs. After this unsuccessful attempt to reach Principal Medley, an interchange occurred between the two that escalated beyond normal conversation.

According to Dr. Davis, Respondent's demeanor changed after she tried to reach Principal Medley. She described that Respondent moved around the desk to Respondent's right and to her left while saying loudly "you can get whoever you want." Because she perceived that Respondent's tone had changed, she said "if you're going to discuss a grievance with me, I wish you would have extended the same courtesy as your building delegates do which is Dr. Davis we may have a possible grievance, can we talk about it?" According to Dr. Davis, Respondent said "I am not one of your teachers" while gesturing with his hand and pointing his index finger while shaking his hand. Dr. Davis testified that Respondent came within 12 to 18 inches of her. Dr. Davis testified that because his hand with shaking finger moved closer to her face and this led her to move her head back. She testified that Respondent continued to state loudly that he was not one of her teachers. She testified that she feared she was going to get hit by Respondent whose physical dimensions far exceeded that of Dr. Davis. Mr. Wolfe remained silent during the interchange. Dr. Davis testified that she changed her tone at that time because of Respondent's yelling and his actions and said to him "we're done. I'm going to ask you to leave my office and to leave the building." She testified that Respondent was standing in the only exit path available to her in a place that would have blocked her. According to Dr. Davis, Respondent then said "you can't kick me out of this building. You can't kick me out of this building. I have a right to be here. You can't kick me out of this building. Who do you think you are? You think I am one of your teachers?" She described Respondent as continuing to gesture with his hand while getting red in the face. According to Dr. Davis, Respondent said "I will say it the way I want to say it. I will talk to you the way I want to talk to you. You're going to get grieved." At that point, Dr. Davis testified that she said "I'm calling security. I'm calling security" because she felt that Respondent made no effort to leave. She said that Respondent then said "you can't throw me out of the building." She explained that Respondent and Mr. Wolfe began to exit her office after she said she was going to call security. While the two were exiting into the hallway, Dr. Davis testified that Respondent continued to yell "She's telling me I have to leave the building, she's telling me I have to leave the building." Later that day, at 5:49 p.m., Dr. Davis sent an email to the then District Superintendent Donnie Evans and several others with a letter attachment recounting her version of the interaction with Respondent earlier that afternoon.

According to Respondent, while he was in the staff lounge a teacher had raised the issue of Dr. Davis using the confidentiality statement and this was the reason he went next door to see Dr. Davis. He confirmed her testimony as to the first part of their dialogue and testified he said to her that "if you're still utilizing it, it could be a violation of the contract and we want it to stop." Respondent testified that after saying this he observed a change in the body language of Dr. Davis. He said to her:

> Are you aware that unless you are a priest, a therapist or a doctor, you do not possess the confidentiality that you've put into these statements? We had members complaining saying administrators were saying if this is included in your email you can't send our emails to the union. And that's why we dealt with this."

According to Respondent, he elevated his own voice but only after Dr. Davis started to elevate her voice. After saying that he could file a grievance, he saw Dr. Davis stand up, walk to her phone and attempt to call Principal Medley. He said "I don't care who you call, you can call anybody you want, but we want to resolve this here, today." He acknowledged that he raised his voice to the same level or possibly even higher than that of Dr. Davis. He said "listen, you can't speak to me this way. I am not one of your teachers. You can't put me on a CAP the same way you're putting your teachers on CAPS, so let's resolve this thing."[3] Respondent recalled that Dr. Davis then called for security. He denied that he refused to leave the office prior to the call to security. According to Respondent, he had stayed in the same position he was in when he first walked in front of the desk and denied moving to the right of the desk to impede Dr. Davis. He acknowledged he gestured with his finger but denied coming close to her at any time. He explained the use of the finger gesture as helping him make a point and that it was normal and routine for him to speak with his hands. He recalled that Dr. Davis said "I want you out of this building at once. I'm directing you to leave" before she called security. He testified that he then turned around and walked out of the office and opened the door with Mr. Wolfe behind him. Mr. Wolfe's testimony concerning this phase of the incident prior to exiting the office essentially corroborated that testified to by Respondent.

Ms. DelRosso also offered testimony as to what occurred inside the office of Dr. Davis. She recalled that Respondent raised the issue of the confidentiality statement and said he had an email with him. This prompted Dr. Davis to respond "why are you asking me if you already know the answer?" She also recalled Respondent saying it could become a grievance issue and that, in response, Dr. Davis picked up the phone to call Principal Medley. According to Ms. DelRosso, Respondent began to get upset and yelled "you can call whoever you want." She said that after Dr. Davis put the phone down, Respondent said "who do you think you are ... is this how you talk to one of your teachers?" and [3] Respondent's reference to the CAP was his knowledge that Dr. Davis had placed "at least 20 teachers on a Corrective Action Plan" during a past year.

"I'll talk to you I want to talk to you, speak to you the way I want to speak to you." She testified that Respondent was about 12 inches from Dr. Davis when he made the finger pointing hand gesture. At hearing, she provided an animated impression of Respondent's actions with emphasis on having a sharp tone while finger pointing. She recalled that Dr. Davis said: "I'm done here. You need to leave my office and you need to leave the school." After this, Respondent said "you can't tell me what to do. I will leave when I want to leave and I will go when I want to go." She observed Dr. Davis picking up the phone to call security. She described Dr. Davis as having been calm but that towards the end of the interchange with Respondent her voice was quivering. She testified that she felt afraid for Dr. Davis "because she was cornered. She was cornered in a way that if he continued to get close to her, I don't know what he was thinking and I was afraid he might hit her and hurt her. There was no other way for her to get out. He was blocking the only way out." Ms. DelRosso wrote an "Incident Report" to Captain James Smith, Executive Director of Security later that day detailing her version of the events that occurred in Dr. Davis' office. At hearing, she also provided handwritten notes describing the events as they were occurring.

Each of the above witnesses was cross-examined without significant variation from their direct testimony as to the verbal interchanges. Dr. Davis believed that Respondent went into a tirade when he gave her the list of categories such as a priest as one who could properly use a confidentiality statement. She said she felt he entered her office under "false pretenses" because he did not initially state that he was there for grievance purpose and because when he asked her if she was aware of the confidentiality statement he was already aware that she had used the statement in her emails and had one in his possession. She acknowledged that she did not tell him that she was no longer using the confidentiality statement after he said he could grieve the issue. She maintained that Respondent moved to the open side of the desk during his interactions with her and that any statement he made to the contrary was incorrect. She denied that Respondent began to walk out of her office before she made the call to security.

Respondent denied that he moved from his original position in front of Dr. Davis' desk to the side of her desk to impede her movement during the encounter. He acknowledged that the meeting was unscheduled, that Dr. Davis was initially not aware that he entered her office to discuss a possible grievance and that neither Dr. Davis nor Ms. DelRosso had shown any animosity towards him prior to the meeting. He also acknowledged saying that he yelled at Dr. Davis in a police report but that it was Dr. Davis that began the yelling. He confirmed Dr. Davis' testimony that she said if a grievance was going to be filed she needed to have Principal Medley present. He confirmed that he exited the office at the same point in time that Mr. Ferrer left the teachers' lounge and knocked on Dr. Davis' door. District testimony suggests that Mr. Ferrer went to knock on the door because of commotion in Dr. Davis' office but there is no supporting evidence for this suggestion.

Mr. Wolfe was questioned by District counsel as to what was the meaning of the allegation in the unfair practice charges and in emails from Respondent that he and Respondent had been "forcibly ejected" from the building. He stated that it meant "we did not have a choice to remain." He acknowledged that there was a "very heated exchange" between Respondent and Dr. Davis. He confirmed Respondent's testimony that he never refused to leave the office after being told to by Dr. Davis.

Ms. DelRosso acknowledged that upon witnessing the encounter between Respondent and Dr. Davis, she did not leave the office to ask for assistance nor did she say anything inside the office. She denied she did nothing and watched the events because she took notes of what she observed as the events unfolded.

Additional testimony as to the interchange in the office of Dr. Davis was provided by Ms. Diane Caparso. Ms. Caparso is a retired School Aide. She testified she was in the teachers' lounge during the brief time that Respondent was in Dr. Davis' office. According to Ms. Caparso, she heard voices that were louder than normal "but it wasn't anything like, oh my God." She testified that she heard a male voice and a female voice whose levels were "basically the same." According to Ms. Caparso:

> It wasn't like somebody was screaming louder than - - and I don't even mean screaming, speaking louder than the other. And that's when I turned around and I said to whoever was sitting there, I > says, "I'm going to go" and I walked out the door. As I walked out, I will say this, I saw security coming so I was like, oh, and then I walked down the hall.

>
> So evidently somebody had called for security at that point.

The Events in the Hallway and Building Shortly After Respondent Left Dr. Davis' Office

The tenure charges include allegations referencing Respondent's conduct as he was exiting the office and shortly thereafter. According to the District, Respondent continued to shout "you can't make me leave" and "who do you think you are," or language similar in nature as he was exiting the office and entered into the hallway. Dr. Davis testified that she observed Respondent continuing to shout as he walked back and forth in front of her door in the hallway. This sequence of post-meeting events also concerns District allegations that Respondent falsely stated in an email shortly after the meeting that Dr. Davis "forcibly ejected" him and his colleagues from the school by security. Dr. Davis testified that after Respondent exited the office:

> I stayed by my desk. And then to see him in front of my office door going back and forth, back and forth, and I could hear him yelling in the hallway in the presence of students, in the presence of teachers. "She's telling me I have to leave the building, she's telling me I have to leave the building."

Upon questioning by Respondent's counsel, Dr. Davis acknowledged that Respondent was not confrontational or argumentative in the hallway but that he was more volatile and vocal while he was in her office. Dr. Davis testified that she had concern that when Respondent was in the hallway she felt unable to leave her office.

The District also charges Respondent with making false statements he widely circulated by email and in the unfair labor practice charge that he and Mr. Wolfe were "forcibly ejected" from Dr. Davis' office and the building. On this point, the District relies heavily on the video to contradict this claim. Although Dr. Davis' call to security resulted in Security Officer Benjamin arriving and entering her office and briefly chatting with Respondent and Mr. Wolfe, the District submits that the video shows Respondent and his colleagues interacting with a classroom teacher and lingering for several minutes in the hallway both near the stairs and near Dr. Davis' door and then exiting the building without any coercion whatsoever by security or anyone else.

Respondent denies that he acted in a confrontational manner after he exited Dr. Davis' office and entered the hallway. Pointing to what appears on the video, Respondent asserts that there is nothing that shows him screaming or upset and he refers to the testimony of Dr. Davis acknowledging that the video did not show him being confrontational or argumentative in the hallway. The video also depicts that it was Mr. Wolfe walking back and forth in front of her door and not Respondent.

An additional issue was raised at hearing concerned an alleged action by Respondent after he exited the office. The video shows Respondent turning around to face the doorway to Dr. Davis' office. The District contends that it shows Respondent pursing his lips and blowing a kiss in the direction of Dr. Davis. Respondent denies this and asserts instead that he was getting in "the last word." The video on this point was shown at the hearing and is in the record as an exhibit. Ms. DelRosso testified that she observed the alleged kiss, although she did not include it in her report.

The Post-Incident Events

The record includes events occurring after the date of the incident that refer back to the December 19, 2016 meeting. Many documents were authored by all key participants describing the 1:37 to 1:41 p.m. actions that took place in the office of Dr. Davis on December 19, 2016. These documents have been thoroughly reviewed and considered but will not be detailed in their entirety. A summary of these documents is as follows:

- Handwritten notes from Ms. DelRosso taken during the meeting on December 19, 2016 in Dr. Davis' office recording her observations of what she witnessed, including a map depicting the locations of Respondent and Dr. Davis.

- An Incident Report written by Ms. DelRosso on December 19, 2016 detailing events occurring in Dr. Davis' office and sent to Executive Director Smith.

- Respondent's email to Dr. Davis on December 19, 2016 at 2:41 p.m. that was blind copied to staff. The email thanks Dr. Davis for meeting with him, accuses her of terminating the discussion and having him forcibly ejected from the school by security and requests a resumption of their discussions concerning the confidentiality statement.

- An email with letter attachment from Dr. Davis to Superintendent Donnie Evans at 5:49 p.m. on December 19, 2016 summarizing the events occurring in her office earlier that afternoon. It incorporates Respondent's 2:41 p.m., December 19, 2016 email to her. Dr. Davis' letter includes a request that the District take certain actions against Respondent, including:

    - A written and public apology to Dr. Sharon V. Davis
    - A written and public apology to Paterson Public School District as a result to the email that was blind copied
    - Removed from his position as president of the PEA
    - Supervision when Mr. McEntee is in School 4 or in my proximity.

- A December 19, 2016 email sent by Respondent to Principal Medley at 6:27 p.m. attaching a grievance he filed with Director of Labor Relations Luis Rojas alleging a violation of contract by Dr. Davis and alleging that she refused to discuss the issue with him on December 19, 2016.

- A December 20, 2016 letter from Respondent to Superintendent Donnie Evans detailing the events of the December 19, 2016 meeting and alleging that Dr. Davis prematurely terminated discussions and had him forcibly ejected from the building by security. The letter was copied to District administrators and staff.

- A December 20, 2016 report from Captain Lucilla Johnson explaining the role of Security Officer Benjamin who reported to Dr. Davis' office and followed Respondent as he left the building.

- A December 20, 2016 Offense Report written by a City of Paterson police officer after a complaint Dr. Davis filed over Respondent's alleged actions during the December 19, 2016 meeting in her office. The Report included a one page narrative of the police officer summarizing his understanding of Ms. Davis' complaint, including that she wanted to "scare him straight."

- A December 20, 2016 email with letter attachment written at 3:10 p.m. by Respondent and sent to Superintendent Donnie Evans with blind copy to District staff. The letter summarizes Respondent's account of the events occurring in Dr. Davis' office on December 19, 2016.

- A December 21, 2016 email from Dr. Davis to Superintendent Donnie Evans noticing him of Respondent's Facebook posting that described the remedies sought by Dr. Davis and her contact with the Paterson Police Department.

- Three December 22, 2016 emails to and from Dr. Davis and Executive Director of School Security James Smith regarding Dr. Davis' request to have a security escort while she entered and left District premises.

- A December 23, 2016 email from Dr. Davis to Superintendent Donnie Smith with copies to several individuals objecting to a second Facebook posting by Respondent and alleging that Respondent misstated that she told the Paterson Police Department that she wanted to "scare me straight."

- A January 6, 2017 Summary Report of the December 19, 2016 incident authored by Executive Director of Security James Smith. The report chronicles the December 19, 2016 events, including timelines after Director Smith interviewed and obtained written reports from Dr. Davis, Ms. DelRosso, PEA President John McEntee, Jr. (Respondent) and Mr. Wolfe. The written reports from these individuals Director Smith interviewed were separately submitted into the record.

- A January 12, 2016 Summary Analysis from Director Smith setting forth his conclusions as to what happened in Dr. Davis' office on December 19, 2016 and the reasons upon which he made credibility determinations.

The Investigation

James Smith, Executive Director of Security for the District,[4] was asked by Superintendent Donnie Evans to investigate the December 19, 2016 incident. He testified that before this request he was aware of the incident because he was copied on the December 19, 2016 email from Dr. Davis to Superintendent Evans and he had also spoken to Respondent that day. He interviewed and received reports from Dr. Davis, Ms. DelRosso, PEA President/Respondent John McEntee, Jr. and NJEA Field Representative Sasha Wolfe, Esq. Based upon his investigation, Director Smith submitted a lengthy report on January 6, 2017 summarizing the December 19, 2016 incident. The Report contains a timeline of events based on the video, a summary of each person he interviewed, their written reports and his own observations. His report contains no recommendations on what course of action, if any, should be taken by the District. Instead, his Report served as one significant source of information for the District's review of the events. Director Smith also submitted a summary of the events on January 12, 2017. The District and Respondent both offer extensive arguments in support of their conflicting interpretations of Director Smith's Reports as they relate to the merits of the tenure charges.

On direct and cross-examination, Director Smith also offered insights as to what he believed occurred through descriptions of the video. Respondent made objections to Director Smith's opinions that served as interpretations of his reports and the events shown on the video. Director Smith testified that he spoke with the police officer whose report summarized what Dr. Davis described to him. According to Director Smith, the officer told him that the reference to "scare him straight" was not a quote he received from Dr. Davis but rather was "his own thing."

The Positions of the Parties

The positions of the parties are comprehensive and well articulated. They reference witness testimony, exhibits, as well as liberal citations to decisions on similar subject matters from the courts, PERC, the Commissioner of Education, the Civil Service Commission, as well as private sector labor law cases, all of which address standards to measure whether Union representatives were properly or improperly disciplined for their interactions with management and whether disciplinary actions taken against union representatives were justified or evidence of retaliation.[5] Of particular note is the Respondent's emphasis on In the Matter of Bridgewater Twp., 95 NJ 235 (1984). In that case, the New Jersey Supreme Court essentially adopted the National Labor Relations Board Wright Line Test (251 NLRB 1083, 1980) when evaluating disputes alleging anti-union animus. I will not summarize the extensive number of cases cited by the parties but will fully consider their applicability to this case in my analysis of the evidence of this proceeding.

The District contends that Respondent engaged in bullying and physically intimidating conduct when he interacted with Dr. Sharon Davis on December 19, 2017. It further contends that he falsely stated in a report he sent to the Superintendent of Schools and widely circulated to the school community that he had been forcibly ejected from the building by security upon instruction from Dr. Davis. While acknowledging Respondent's role as President of the Paterson Education Association, the District submits that applicable case law fully supports the ability of a school district to discipline an employee for misconduct even when the employee is acting on behalf of the Union when such conduct threatens workplace discipline, order and respect.

The District seeks to credit the testimony of Dr. Davis that after she tried to contact Principal Medley, Respondent moved to her side of the desk, came within twelve (12) to eighteen (18) inches from her and loudly yelled "you can get whoever you want" and "I'm not one of your teachers" while pointing his index finger and shaking his hand close to her face. This, the District contends, caused Dr. Davis to be scared and fearful because of Respondent's conduct and because he was blocking her way while verbally attacking her. After telling the Respondent that "we're done" because of his alleged intimidating conduct, Dr. Davis asked him to leave her office. The District urges credit be given to Dr.

Davis' testimony that Respondent then got red in the face while yelling "you can't kick me out of the building" and "I will say it the way I want to say it. I will talk to you the way I want to talk to you." Although Respondent then exited the office, it was not until Dr. Davis threatened to call security. The District contends that he continued to shout these or similar statements as he was leaving the office. According to the District, Dr. Davis' version of the events are wholly supported by her and the testimony and written contemporaneous notes taken by Ms. DelRosso who witnessed the events while working inside the office of Dr. Davis. Ms. DelRosso's testimony and her notes are said to mirror Dr. Davis' version of the events and confirmed by her testimony. The District points out that Ms. DelRosso was in the office solely for business reasons and her testimony graphically depicted Respondent's actions as they were occurring. Ms. DelRosso also expressed that she had fear for Dr. Davis' safety as a result of Respondent's conduct. The District also points out that Dr. Davis testified that she had fear for her safety as a result of the incident and called City police to make an incident report the next morning, as well as asking the District to provide a security escort for her to and from her car as she came and left the building.

The District also takes issue with the report Respondent wrote to the Superintendent of Schools on December 20, 2016 representing that Dr. Davis had him forcibly ejected from the building by security. The District refers to "video proof" showing that no one from security forcibly ejected Respondent walked down the hall, down the stairs and out of the building and there is no evidence of physical or forceful removal. Instead, the video reflects Respondent voluntarily leaving the building after engaging in social interaction with colleagues and teachers as he left. The video shows the security guard in an unremarkable exchange with Respondent and his colleagues and simply following them as they left. The District further notes that, despite the evidence to the contrary, Respondent repeated the allegation that he was forcibly ejected in a certified unfair practice charge the Association filed with PERC.

The District contends that Respondent's denials of misconduct are not credible for several reasons. In addition to the forcible ejection allegation, the District points to Respondent's denial that he puckered his lips and blew a kiss at Dr. Davis while he faced her doorway after exiting the office. It submits that Respondent's testimony that he was only getting in the last word with Dr. Davis as clearly inconsistent with what is clearly shown on the video. The District also cites the testimony of Ms. DelRosso who testified that Respondent made this facial gesture. The District further notes Respondent's admission that he contacted the President of the Hoboken Education Association after Dr. Davis accepted a position as principal in the Hoboken District for the 2017-2018 school year because he wanted to let her new district know what they were in for. This latter incident is said to support its belief that Respondent has acted with malice towards Dr. Davis.

Respondent seeks dismissal of the tenure charges for several reasons. Initially, he contends that he was clearly engaged in protected activity as President of the Association when he approached Dr. Davis to question her about her use of a confidentiality statement in her remarks to staff. Respondent emphasizes a decision from PERC that an employer may criticize a union representative's conduct during a meeting but may not discipline the representative as an employee when that conduct is unrelated to job performance.[6] Here, as a full-time released President of the Paterson Education Association, Respondent had no teaching duties yet tenure charges were filed against him as a District employee.

Moreover, Respondent contends that Dr. Davis refused to discuss a grievable issue, terminated the meeting and instead called security to have him removed. This, it submits, showed hostility towards Respondent for his having exercised his statutory rights. The filing of tenure charges some three months after the incident and a month after the unfair labor practice charge is claimed to have been an act of retaliation for filing an unfair practice over the incident. Respondent alleges that the District has unlawfully threatened his employment, has interfered with his rights to advocate on behalf of his membership, and has had a chilling effect on the rights of all other union representatives to engage in protected activities. In support of these arguments, Respondent cites to numerous cases supporting its his belief that Respondent's conduct was justified and that the District's actions in response were unlawful. Respondent submits that the District has not met its burden to establish that it had any legitimate business justification to interfere with his rights as President of the PEA or to have filed tenure charges against him.

Citing Garfield and Garfield PBA Local 46 (App. Div. Dkt # A-5842-12T3) (41 NJPER 63, 2014), Respondent contends that the District has not met its burden to establish that his conduct rose to the level of that which "indefensibly threatens workplace discipline, order and respect. On this point, it is urged that his testimony and that of Mr. Wolfe be credited over the diametrically opposite testimony of Dr. Davis and Ms. DelRosso.

Respondent takes issue with Dr. Smith's Investigation Report as to his assessment of credibility. It points to his reference to Ms. DelRosso only meeting with Dr. Davis approximately twice per year as a basis to support his statement that "I can see no reason why her account wouldn't be credible." It points to Ms. DelRosso's testimony that she would meet with Dr. Davis a few times a month either in teachers' classrooms or in Dr. Davis' office. Respondent also points to the testimony of Ms. Caparso who testified that she was in the teacher's lounge between 1:37 p.m. and 1:41 p.m. on December 19, 2017 and overheard a male and a female voice speaking loudly but not more loudly than the other and was not alarmed over the loud voices she heard. Ms. Caparso was not alarmed over the conversation. This is said to contrast with the testimony of Ms. DelRosso and Dr. Davis that Respondent was yelling while Dr. Davis remained calm.

Respondent also questions the lack of any investigation into who else was in the teachers' lounge at the time and what they may have heard. Respondent further cites to the video showing nothing of an irregular nature occurring in the hallway after he exited Dr. Davis' office. On this point, Respondent argues:

> If the testimony of both Dr. Davis and Ms. DelRosso is to be credible, the video should show a very upset Mr. McEntee, who has just lost control of himself, who was screaming while they remained calm and who almost hit Dr. Davis, leaving her office in a huff/rage, red in the face. Yet the very second he comes into view in the hallway, the exact opposite occurs – Mr. McEntee is his usual jovial self. There is no one indication from the video that he was upset or that he was red in the face from screaming inside the office. There is no one indication of any hostility towards anybody in Dr. Davis' office. Also, the video shows Dr. Davis following him out. So much for Dr. Davis being fearful of being close to Mr. McEntee.

Respondent also notes that Ms. DelRosso filed a written report after the incident that, unlike her testimony, did not mention Respondent blowing a kiss to Dr. Davis after he exited her office. Respondent further contends that Dr. Davis' filing a police report the day after the incident and her request for security two days after the incident were totally at odds with the video depicting an unremarkable conclusion to the meeting. He points to the reference in the police report that Dr. Davis wanted to "scare him straight." In respect to the request for security, Respondent notes the testimony of Dr. Davis that it was the social media posting that prompted her fear yet Respondent was not responsible for the postings of others and there were no threats made to Dr. Davis in the postings.

DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, "[n]o person shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation ... if he is or shall be under tenure of office, position or employment during good behavior and efficiency in the public school system of the state ... except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." The burden is on the District to establish that there was unbecoming conduct or other just cause and, if so, whether it had just cause to issue an unpaid suspension to Respondent McEntee.

I first address the record's reference to the unfair labor practice charge filed by the Paterson Education Association against the State Operated School District of the City of Paterson. This charge, as amended, has been held in abeyance by PERC pending a decision in this tenure proceeding. It is beyond my authority to decide the merits of the PEA's contention that PERC has exclusive jurisdiction over its claims that Dr. Davis interfered with Respondent's statutory rights and that the tenure charges were filed in retaliation for the Association's filing of an unfair practice charge. PERC has not deferred the unfair practice charge to this arbitration proceeding. Nevertheless, the core of the Respondent's answer and defense to the tenure charges raises the very standards set forth in Bridgewater. The issues raised in this proceeding require consideration of those standards in this tenure proceeding when evaluating whether the District has met its burden to meet the standards necessary to support a reduction in compensation as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

The parties have offered many citations to cases they assert support their respective positions. They are all applicable to this analysis because they help describe what constitutes protected activity, they relate to the proper scope of conduct allowable for union representatives in their efforts to engage in protected activity, the boundaries for such conduct during those efforts, the rights and obligations of employers when responding to an employee who has engaged in protected activity, as well as what constitutes unbecoming conduct or other just cause. A review of these cases underscores the requirement to examine all specific relevant facts and circumstances surrounding events that give rise to deciding whether a union representative is engaging in protected activity, to whether an employer exhibits hostility to a union representative engaging in protected activity and whether the conduct of the union representative when doing so gives rise to corrective or punitive action that an employer would have taken in any event.

The record reflects that the December 19, 2016 meeting was unscheduled. Nevertheless, Respondent's first comments to Dr. Davis after he entered her office raised an issue protected by statute. It challenged her use of a confidentiality statement in emails to staff. Respondent testified that he went to Dr. Davis' office to discuss her use of the confidentiality statement based on what he had been told by a teacher in the teachers' lounge. While it is clear that Respondent had the right to raise this issue with Dr. Davis, the location chosen for this purpose is not unlimited in scope. In this instance, no grievance had been filed concerning Dr. Davis, nor was a meeting scheduled with her or anyone else to discuss an issue that could become grievable. Nevertheless, despite the fact that Dr. Davis was conducting school business at the time, she initially allowed for discussions on the issue. Respondent was aware that a similar issue had previously been raised at School No. 8 and had been resolved through intervention by Luis Rojas, Director of Labor Relations. Respondent and Dr. Davis both testified that they were aware of this resolution at the time that Dr. Davis allowed Respondent entry to her office on December 19, 2016. Dr. Davis testified that she had ceased using the confidentiality statement in her emails prior to December 19, 2016 because of the understanding reached at School No. 8. However, she did not mention this to Respondent when he made his inquiry. Respondent asserts he did not know that Dr. Davis' use of confidentiality statements in her emails had ceased. There are no emails in evidence contradicting Dr. Davis' testimony that she ceased using the confidentiality statements.

After entering her office, Respondent asked Dr. Davis if she uses a confidentiality statement in her emails. She responded "why do you ask?" Prior to this, Dr. Davis voluntarily permitted Respondent and Mr. Wolfe to enter her office despite the fact that she was busy at the time and no meeting had been scheduled. She was aware of who they were after asking and receiving business cards from them. There also had been one unremarkable prior interaction between Respondent and Dr. Davis that would have led Dr. Davis to be aware that Respondent was President of the PEA. This knowledge, coupled by the response "why do you ask," placed the meeting in the context of protected activity because at that time this interchange was voluntary, it involved a potentially grievable issue and it opened the door for further discussion. There is no allegation of impropriety in Respondent being in Dr. Davis' office despite the fact that the meeting was unscheduled since Respondent was voluntarily admitted into the office and was given an opportunity to state his reason for being there. Because Dr. Davis was in a business meeting with Ms. DelRosso she could have, but did not, deny Respondent entry and then provide him with the opportunity to meet at a different time. Instead, she appeared to be willing to continue the discussions if Principal Medley were present.

The record shows that Dr. Davis was initially without knowledge that Respondent would raise the issue of a potential grievance with her. Upon learning this, Dr. Davis said if a grievance was going to be discussed or filed she wanted to involve Principal Medley and have him present. There is no evidence that Principal Medley had been advised earlier by Respondent that an issue over the email existed. She then unsuccessfully tried to contact him by telephone. Respondent, without any evidence of provocation from Dr. Davis, questioned her decision to call Principal Medley by saying and repeating "I don't care who you call." At this point, the testimony of Respondent and Dr. Davis conflict as to who began to raise the voice and tone level. Dr. Davis clearly indicated that she was not going to allow for an impromptu grievance meeting without the presence of Principal Medley and communicated this to Respondent. Under these circumstances, Dr. Davis acted within her rights to terminate the unscheduled meeting during the conduct of official school business while maintaining an obligation to be available to Respondent to continue discussion of the issue at a time to be scheduled. Similarly, Respondent maintained the right to file a grievance at any time over the issue of the confidentiality statement. There is no evidence during this initial phase of the brief meeting that Dr. Davis was hostile to Respondent or that her request to have Principal Medley present was improper or was evidence of hostility. On the contrary, Dr. Davis showed a willingness to continue the discussion and did not ask Respondent to leave merely because he said a grievance might be filed. Based on the evidence existing at the time, had Principal Medley been contacted and was able to participate, it is reasonable to conclude that the discussions would have continued and that the events that followed would not have occurred.

The dialogue between Respondent and Dr. Davis grew in intensity after Respondent said "I don't care who you call." Respondent acknowledged that he did make a finger gesture while making this statement. I credit the testimony of Dr. Davis and Ms. DelRosso that Respondent first raised the volume level after and repeating this statement. This occurred in close proximity to Dr. Davis when she asked Respondent why he did not extend her the same courtesy as building delegates by simply asking her if they could discuss a possible grievance.

Respondent at that time said "I'm not one of your teachers" and, according to Dr. Davis and Ms. DelRosso, moved aggressively to the side of Dr. Davis' desk. I find that Respondent did make this movement, and while doing so made gestures to Dr. Davis that she deemed to be aggressive and made her feel uncomfortable. However, I do not find sufficient evidence supporting the view expressed by Dr. Davis that Respondent deliberately moved in a fashion that prevented her from leaving the office.

Ms. DelRosso testified that Dr. Davis remained calm but that later her voice quivered. I accept Respondent's characterization that both he and Dr. Davis got loud and that the level of his voice may have exceeded that of Dr. Davis. Dr. Davis told Respondent that "we are done" and asked him to leave the office. This statement, under all of the verifiable circumstances, was not unlawful. Dr. Davis was not under an obligation to convert her business meeting into a grievance meeting. The events thereafter unfolded very swiftly and gave rise to differing interpretations. I credit the testimony of Dr. Davis that Respondent was saying "you can't throw me out of the building" and "I'll talk to you the way I want to talk to you" after she asked him to leave. Dr. Davis asserts that Respondent refused to leave her office until the point that she said she was going to call security. Respondent denies refusing to leave before Dr. Davis called security. There is insufficient evidence to support Dr. Davis' testimony that Respondent refused to exit her office and did so only in response to her saying she was going to call security. I do not find this to be an issue of credibility. The interchange at that point occurred within a few brief seconds and it reasonably may have appeared to Dr. Davis that Respondent refused to leave. However, I find it more than likely that the sequence of events occurred so quickly that Respondent's alleged refusal to leave came very soon before the call to security and reasonably gave rise to different perceptions over the timing of these events. It is clear, however, that he initially did not honor the request to leave the office. Respondent did exit voluntarily but continued to challenge Dr. Davis as he was leaving the office. However, as acknowledged in Dr. Davis' testimony, Respondent was not argumentative or confrontational in the hallway. The charge that Respondent paced back and forth in the hallway is not supported by the video footage and indeed appears to show Mr. Wolfe instead. The differing opinions in this issue appear to arise due to the limited view through the bottom of the window that depicted a person walking back and forth without the ability to identify the individual who was doing the pacing.

An additional charge made by the District is that Respondent falsely accused the District of forcibly ejecting him from the school and widely disseminating the false allegation. Mr. Wolfe provided an explanation that the forcible ejection language was intended to reflect that "we did not have a choice to remain." While this statement accurately reflects that Dr. Davis did not give Respondent the option to continue to remain in the office, the video clearly reflects that there was no basis for Respondent to accuse the District of forcible ejection within the literal meaning of the term which strongly implied to the District and the outside world that the District used some form of a physical act that forced Respondent's removal.

In my evaluation of the record and the above findings, I have considered the video, the testimony, the exhibits, the case citations and the arguments advanced by the parties. This record must be viewed as a whole. After doing so, it supports the District's conclusions that disciplinary action of a corrective nature was warranted for Respondent's conduct while in Dr. Davis' office. His statements were not reasonable connected to the grievance issue and contributed to the erosion of order in Dr. Davis' office. Dr. Davis had a right to end the meeting and this was clearly not initially accepted by Respondent. However, I also find that that the District's request for Respondent to serve an unpaid suspension to be beyond the level of the conduct that it has proven.

Respondent has broad protection as a Union President and a right to utilize the grievance procedure to air and settle disputes without employer interference. Yet, he did not initially accept and repeatedly challenged the direction from Dr. Davis to end the impromptu meeting after being unable to contact Principal Medley. At the time she was in a business meeting with Ms. DelRosso who did not plan to be in a location that would evolve into a grievance meeting with "very heated" discussion. Respondent was engaged in protected activity up until the point that Dr. Davis decided to end the impromptu meeting. The District's obligations to continue dialogue with Respondent remained but it was not obligated to convert the meeting into a grievance meeting under the conditions present after Dr. Davis said "we're done" and asked Respondent to leave the office. Respondent's comments, while not insubordinate, reflected dissatisfaction with not being able to pursue the issue immediately and undermined the authority of a Vice Principal in the presence of a subordinate. Respondent's statements to Dr. Davis were mostly acknowledged by him but in a context far milder than described by Dr. Davis and Ms. DelRosso. I credit their testimony concerning Respondent's demeanor but do not find that his conduct rose to the level of threats designed to have Dr. Davis fear for her safety. Because Respondent's challenging statements continued beyond the point in time that were allowable under the circumstances, the District has established a just cause basis for a written warning but not an unpaid suspension. Such action is to be viewed as corrective and progressive in nature and to provide positive direction to Respondent that while he has a right to engage in the vigorous pursuit of complaints and/or grievances his lawful activities must be conducted without disruption or challenge to the ongoing order of school business.

There are activities that followed the incident that are said by both Respondent and the District to support their respective positions. These include wide dissemination of written statements to the District by both Respondent and Dr. Davis, the Respondent's use of social media, Dr. Davis' incident report to police, the narrative written by the police officer, Dr. Davis' request for security escort and Respondent's communication with the Hoboken School District. The record with respect to these events has been fully considered when fashioning the terms of the Award that I have rendered.

Accordingly, and based upon all of the above, I respectfully enter the following award.

AWARD

The District has established other just cause to issue a written warning to John McEntee, Jr. The District's request to issue an unpaid suspension pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 is dismissed. I will retain jurisdiction for the sole purpose of resolving any dispute that may arise in the implementation of this Award.
