It is an honor to which any man might aspire, to preside over the Senate of New Jersey as it is now constituted. My thanks to you for this preferment are without affectation, and most sincere.

In the discharge of our duties during the coming session, I am confident that we shall have these only aims in view, so to legislate that we may promote the welfare and honor of our State, and manifest a true and hearty allegiance to the Constitution and the laws of our common country.

If we shall successfully attain these ends in all our varied enactments and proceedings, then may we return to our constituents, feeling that we have faithfully discharged the high trust which they have committed to us.

I trust that a spirit of harmony and toleration for opposing views may characterize all our proceedings, that when our duties here shall be done, and we shall part, it may be with even a more cordial grasp of the hand, and with warmer hearts than have been manifested here to-day, as many of us have renewed our friendship upon this floor, and others have been welcomed to the companionship of our labors and our confidence.

The Chair stated that a communication had been received by him, embracing a resolution, signed by Levi Scobey, but having received no official notice of the organization of the House, he should not receive it for consideration unless by the approval of the Senate.

Mr. Martin, of Sussex, arose and said, it became his painful duty to announce the death of Col. Samuel Fowler, a member of the House of Assembly from Sussex county. He had died on the evening of the 14th inst., at his hotel in this city. In the death of Mr. Fowler, the State had lost one of its brightest ornaments. Nature had endowed him with a strong intellect which education had improved, and he was altogether a man of whom the State had good reason to be proud. He moved the Senate adjourn to allow Senators time to attend the funeral, which would take place on Wednesday.

Mr. Chandler said, coming, as he did, from the adjoining county to that in which Mr. Fowler had lived, he could not but feel deeply his loss. He had been known in his part of the State as a man of high aspirations, adding to great natural ability a most genial temperament. As a politician the Democratic party had lost a member who could not well be replaced. He was a patriot, as had been indicated by his energy in raising the Fifteenth Regiment, of which he had been colonel, and with which he had served in the field. He will be remembered as a gentleman, as a patriot and statesman.

Mr. Trusdell, being a native of the same county in which Mr. Fowler had lived, said he felt it to be his duty to say a few words in respect to his memory. He had known him from youth, and had never known him to do a dishonorable act. The gentleman followed deceased in his career as a public man, and stated that while a resident of New York State he had been nominated to represent the counties of Orange and Sullivan in Congress. Although defeated, he had long held the honorable position of Chairman of the Democratic State Committee of that State.

Mr. Scovel said: It was not my good fortune to know Colonel Samuel Fowler, whose untimely death has been so appropriately announced to us by the Senator from Sussex. But it is the universal testimony of both branches of this Legislature that he was a brave man, a gentleman, a soldier and a patriot. As such I ask the poor privilege of adding my brief tribute of respect to his memory, with my regret that he is dead. Samuel Fowler was a man of earnest convictions. He believed that a just war waged against remorsless rebellion was the swift way to peace. He followed his convictions and gave his sword to his country's service. Aye! and he has done more. Quick to answer the impulse of duty, which gives to character the beauty to heroism, he left his home, already enfeebled by disease, in the discharge of his duty. In this effort he has lost his life. It is fitting that we pause to do justice to the memory of a brave man—a man in whom, alas! the fires of life are quenched, which "erstwhile burning, seemed immortal."

Mr. Wurts said: Colonel Fowler has died in the service of his country; the civil service, not the military,—but the civil service was as honorable as the military. It was indeed sad to think that his death may have been hastened by what he deemed to be his duty. He was known not as a mere partisan, but as a man of large views. All his instincts were honorable, high-minded and noble. We would be less than men were we not impressed by his sudden death. The success with which he had organized the Fifteenth Regiment, had established his character for energy, and stamped him a true patriot.

Mr. Holsman said (with permission of the Senate): Had I been in my seat, I would have desired to add something to the regret which has been expressed by my brother Senators—to lay my humble chaplet on Colonel Fowler's grave. Within a twelve month has the message been repeated to another of our brothers of the Assembly, "The master cometh and calleth for thee." In this new visitation we are forcibly reminded of the words of Horace:

"—— One night remains for all,
And the road of death must once be traveled."

Mr. Wurts, Chairman of the Committee on Education, presented the following report:

The Committee on Education, to whom was referred that part of the Governor's annual message relating to the Normal School and Model School buildings, and the land on which they are situate, respectfully report:

The lease from the "New Jersey Normal School Association," of the Normal School building and lot on which the same is erected, on Clinton street, in the city of Trenton, to the State of New Jersey, is dated the 22d day of July, 1862; the term expires on the 9th day of February, 1865. The lessors covenant that if during the term the State shall elect to purchase the said property and give notice thereof, they will convey the same to the State by warrantee deed on the payment of the par value of the stock of the said association, less the value of one hundred shares of stock, which, by the stipulations of said lease, were to be extinguished during the existence of the lease, and on the payment, in addition, of the increased value of the lot on which said building is erected beyond the original cost thereof.

The lease from the "New Jersey Model School Company," of the Model School building and lot on which the same is erected, adjoining the Normal School property, and of the personal property on the premises, to the State of New Jersey, is dated the 22d of July, 1862; the term expires on the 1st day of March, 1865. The lessors covenant that if during the term the State shall elect to purchase the Normal School and Model School, and give notice thereof, they will convey the Model School property to the State by warrantee deed, upon the payment by the State of $20,000.

The lease for the lots adjoining the Normal and Model School property, which lots with those on which the Normal and Model School buildings are erected, embrace the whole square or plot of ground bounded by Clinton street, Perry street, Southard street, and Monmouth street; is dated the 22d day of July, 1862, the term expires on the 1st day of March, 1865. The lessor covenants that if the State during the term shall elect to purchase the lots and gives notice thereof, he will convey the same to the State by warrantee deed, free of incumbrances, upon the payment by the State of $12,000.

By the provisions of the Normal School lease, 100 shares of the stock of the New Jersey Normal School Association were to be purchased by the Trustees of the Normal School and extinguished. When the buildings were originally erected, in order to secure the adoption of the plan deemed most for the interest of the State, $6,550 were assumed by the Trustees of the Normal School. These payments, with others, were chiefly made by the issue by the Trustees of the Normal School of certificates of tuition in the Model School, which were received by the parties to whom they were issued as cash. These were redeemed by tuition in the Model School, and in effect were payments of rent for the use of the buildings and property. By the leases, these payments, in case the State, before the expiration of the term for which the property was leased, should purchase the premises, were to be deducted from the original cost. They amount to the sum of $22,900. If the State does not within the term specified, purchase the property, the lessors are entitled to the advantage of these payments as compensation for the use of the property since the erection of the buildings.

The stock of the "New Jersey Normal School Association," and the stock of the "New Jersey Model School Company," are held by a gentleman who has purchased and now controls the same, at varying rates, from the stockholders, for $7,600 less than the par value. The advantage of this purchase is now, without any obligation on the part of the party who made it to make the offer, most generously offered to the State, in case the purchase is made by the State.

The increased value of the lot on which the Normal School building stands, to be ascertained by arbitration if not agreed upon, was, by the terms of the lease, to be paid for by the State. It is proposed, with like generosity, that the State, in case the property is purchased, be released from this increased valuation, which at this time is equal to $4,000.

The land adjoining the lots on which the Normal and Model School buildings are erected, was purchased of the several owners, at the urgent solicitation of friends of the Normal School from various parts of the State, in order to secure ample grounds for the use of the Schools, and to control the whole square on which the buildings are located, and prevent the erection of structures which might be a disadvantage to the schools or interfere with the use and depreciate the value of the buildings.

The following is a statement of the cost of the property, and of the amounts, by the terms of the leases and the generous offers referred to, to be deducted therefrom, and of the balance to be paid for by the State to secure the ownership of the whole property in fee simple:

Cost of Normal and Model School buildings . .	$45,000 00
" " Normal School lot	4,000 00
" " Model School lot	7,500 00
" " the land adjoining the Normal and Model Schools, ...	12,000 00
Increased value of the Normal School lot . . .	4,000 00
	$72,500 00

Amount paid by the Trustees of the Normal School, as stated . . .	$22,900 00
Advantage by purchase of stock at less than par	7,600 00
Increased value of the Normal School lot, to be paid by terms of lease, but remitted	4,000 00
		34,500,00
		$38,000 00

Leaving a balance of $38,000 to be paid by the State.

The present value of the property is over $80,000. By many it is valued at a much higher amount. The advantage of the excess of the actual present value of the property over the sum for which it can be secured immediately, is of itself sufficient to induce your committee to recommend and urge the purchase of the property by the State. In addition to this, the several weighty and important considerations suggested in that portion of the Governor's message referred to your committee, connected with the beneficial influence and permanence of the institution, as well as the necessity for action before the expiration of the Normal School lease, leave no room to doubt the propriety and wisdom of making the purchase.

Entertaining these views, your committee have prepared a bill authorizing the Governor of the State to purchase the property, upon being satisfied that the present owners have a good and valid title, and when a conveyance by warranty deed is duly made and executed to the State, to give therefore his warrant for thirty-eight thousand dollars, and appropriating that sum to be paid out of the Treasury of the State, which bill your committee unanimously recommend should be passed immediately.

All which is respectfully submitted, this 26th day of January, 1865.

Mr. Scovel offered the following concurrent resolutions:

Whereas, The Legislature of New Jersey, on the 2d of March, 1859, representing the views and opinions of the people of the State, believing the institution of human slavery to be a great moral and political evil, and if unrestrained by the general government, is calculated to sap the foundation of our social and political institutions, solemnly declared that "we would peaceably but firmly resist its further extension;"

And whereas, Slavery did not continue to be restrained by the general government, while its defenders declared it to be the "inexorable logic" of their position that the constitution guaranteed slavery in all the territories; but slavery became national, and the guarantees of freedom were all swept away in the year 1854;

And whereas, We believe this great moral and political evil has tampered with public and private honesty; that the ignorance that disgraces, the vice that demoralizes, the barrenness that lays waste the South, are all the work of slavery; that it has made our country a stumbling block, a hissing, and a by-word to the nation; that it has introduced discord and brawling, insolence, rapacity, and murder into our national councils; that it has despoiled us from national honor and desolated us like a plague.

And whereas, We believe it to be the law of nations that from the moment the slaveholding States became the theatre of civil war—inaugurated by the slave power in scorn of the Constitution—from that moment Congress acquired the power to interfere against slavery by law, and the President by proclamation, even to its extinction.

And whereas, Four years of war have taught us the solemn lesson that slavery is the main spring of the rebellion, and that both must die before we can have a permanent peace; therefore,

Resolved, By the Senate of New Jersey, (House of Assembly concurring), that every member of both Houses of Congress from New Jersey, be requested to vote for the constitutional amendment against slavery, so that hereafter and forever neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or in any place subject to their jurisdiction.

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor of this State be, and he is hereby respectfully requested to transmit certified copies of the foregoing resolutions to each of the Senators and Representatives in Congress of the United States from this State, with the request that they be laid before the bodies to which they respectively belong.

And moved their reference to the Committee on Federal Relations.

Upon which the yeas and nays were demanded, with the following result:

Messrs. Doughty, Jenkins. Kennedy—3.

In the negative,

WHEREAS, William Lewis Dayton, the American Minister to France, formerly a member of the Council of New Jersey, Attorney-General of the State, Judge of the Supreme Court, and a Senator in Congress, died at Paris, in the discharge of his duty as Envoy of the United States at the Court of the Emperor Napoleon, a position he filled and adorned with distinguished ability in the most perilous days of the Republic; therefore,

Resolved, By the Senate of New Jersey, That as a lawyer, possessing a mind enriched by varied experience and disciplined by the exercise of study, by the practice of his profession and by nice discrimination, Mr. Dayton, in the judgment of New Jersey, stood in the first rank of his profession, at the side of Webster and Choate and Emmet and Pinckney.

Resolved, That we signify our deep respect for his personal, social and civic virtues; for he was great without arrogance, and as he charmed by the dignity and affability of his nature, he gave envy no cause to repine at his success. And we gratefully remember that unbending patriotism which made his last years the proof of his manhood; as he bravely stood by his country, and with straightforward honesty defeated the tortuous and dangerous policy which ruled at the Court of the Man of December.

Resolved, That our grief at the death of William L. Dayton is solaced by the promise of the continued influence his fidelity to principle, his life and example as a patriot and statesman, must have upon the character of our States and conduct of the nation, and by the assurance that his memory and his example will live in the homes and hearts of the people of New Jersey, as well as in the hearts of the American people, so long as they love the virtue of a patriot and the integrity of a statesman.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, suitably engrossed and signed by the President of the Senate, be transmitted to the family of the deceased, at Paris, with an expression of our profound sympathy and our regret at their irreparable loss, Severally correctly engrossed.

The communication from the Governor relative to the death of R. M. Smith, late Treasurer, was taken up and read, when

Mr. Scudder addressed the Senate, as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT:—

In my absence from the Senate yesterday, a communication was received from the Governor of this State, announcing the death of Rescarrick Moore Smith, Treasurer of the State of New Jersey, at his residence in this county, on Thursday morning last.

I thank the Senate for that courtesy which they have shown me, as the representative of this county, in awaiting until my return, to take up the message, to afford me an opportunity to express my regard and affection for our late Treasurer, which has been fostered and strengthened by many years of most friendly and intimate intercourse.

I am no friend, Mr. President, of the too prevalent custom of panegyric and unmerited praise of the dead, nor would I justify them by the old adage, "Nil de mortuis nisi bonum ;" and it would be even wise to speak of the foibles and weaknesses of our friends as we stand beside their graves.

But there is a respect due to many years of faithful and laborious public service which should ever be shown, that others may be stimulated to a career of honor and usefulness, and with this may be mingled the tear of sorrow at the loss of a friend.

It is needless, also, that I should speak to you of the deceased as if he were a stranger to you, or known only to you by his office. For nearly fourteen years he has been in the service of the State, and to us, and to the citizens of our State he was as extensively known as any citizen within its limits; and the strong expressions of sorrow and sympathy which we hear from all quarters are the best evidences of the high appreciation by our citizens of his qualities as a public man and a public officer.

In this county, where he and I have resided many years, and where he was best known, his memory will be cherished with the greatest respect and affection. There is no man in our county who for years has been more prominently before our citizens for places of public trust and confidence, and his loss will be felt as a bereavement to this entire community.

In this precedence we all, as thoughtful and earnest men, should seek to learn the lesson which is taught us by infinite wisdom and love. The suddenness of this stroke of death in our very midst, should admonish us of the uncertainty of life; and we should hear and heed the verse which says to us, "Be ye also ready, for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of man cometh."

And then offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this Senate has heard with deep sorrow the message from the Governor, announcing the sudden death of Rescarrick M. Smith, late Treasurer of the State of New Jersey.

Resolved, That his long and faithful service and universal assiduity in discharging the duties of his office, are gratefully acknowledged in behalf of the people of the State, whom we here represent.

Resolved, That the Senate will wear the usual badge of mourning, and attend the funeral of the late Treasurer, in respect to his memory.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate send a copy of these resolutions to the family of the deceased, and thereby express to them our sympathy in this sad bereavement.

Which were read.

Mr. Buckley desired to second the adoption of the resolutions. It is both fit and proper that the Senate should take some notice of the sudden death of the late Treasurer. It has been my privilege to have had an intimate personal acquaintance with Mr. Smith for over ten years; and in the connection with him as State Treasurer, have always found him courteous and ready to give any information that might be desired. My acquaintance with him outside of the office, and in a society in which we are fellow members, has always been pleasant, and I have always found him the same even, courteous gentleman, outside of the office that he was in it. By the sudden death of the Treasurer, we are reminded how uncertain is life, and how soon death may overtake one of us. We are here to-day, but where will we be to-morrow? Last Friday, I had a conversation with him on the subject of taxes, and he appeared to be in good health; but when I came here on Monday, I heard he was dead. When we think of the suddenness, the question arises, Who will be next? Twice in our brief session have we been called upon to follow one of our members to the grave. Two weeks ago, we were called upon to notice the death of one of the members of the associate branch of the Legislature, and now the Treasurer is dead. I agree with the Senator from Mercer, in speaking of the uncertainty of life; truly we know not what a day or an hour may bring forth.

Senator Kennedy spoke as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT:

It is with feelings of the deepest emotion that I arise to proffer a brief tribute to the memory of our highly respec friend, the late Rescarrick Moore Smith, Esq.

Although it was not my privilege to make the acquaintance of Mr. Smith at so early a date as other of my fellow Senators yet within the brief period of fourteen months I learned to know him as one of those very few, whom to know is to love and to esteem.

Mr. Smith possessed in an eminent degree that suave and gentle manner, which in connection with his sincerity of purpose, and kindliness of heart, ever secured to him the respect and friendship of all who knew him.

There was much in the character of Mr. Smith for us to admire, and much to emulate.

His prompt and active business habits, together with his remarkable talent for the correct discharge of the official duties of his position, rendered him in the fullest sense of the term a model officer.

His enlarged and liberal views of things, and his just and discriminating estimate of men, well fitted him for his sphere of usefulness.

As a friend, he was ever true and reliable. His warm greeting came from the heart, and his word with him was law.

He was ever the fond and indulgent husband and parent, the kind and sympathetic brother.

But Rescarrick M. Smith's allotted time of departure had come. The Master called and he has gone, and the places which knew him here, shall know him no more forever.

The said resolutions were then unanimously adopted.

Resolved (House of Assembly concurring), That the Joint Committee on the Bergen Tunnel, be authorized to employ a Clerk, at an expense not exceeding thirty dollars.

The special order being the resolutions offered by Mr. Scovel, relative to the death of the Hon. William L. Dayton,

Were then taken up, and read,

Whereupon, Messrs. Scudder, Scovel, Holsman, Buckley and Little addressed the Senate:

Mr. Scudder said (in substance): It had been thought proper for him to say something on the passage of these resolutions; he felt averse to saying anything; his connection with the late Mr. Dayton was of a very intimate character. Mr. Dayton commenced his public career in the Legislature of this State; he was then appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court, then Senator, and then occupied the position of Attorney-General, until his appointment as Minister to France. For three years I was a student in his law office, and for many years living in the house adjoining his. During his residence abroad a correspondence was kept up between us.

Although we differed politically, no estrangement was felt between us from such difference. I honored him as a man whose convictions were as fearless and honest as they could be; no man doubted his integrity or his honesty. It has seemed as if no man could have been selected who would have so faithfully discharged the duties of his station. Looking at his success, seeing how peace has been preserved, it seems that he has justified the expectations of his friends. I cannot enter upon a long eulogium of Mr. Dayton, for where the heart is so deeply interested, the mind can but feebly express itself.

Mr. Scovel said it was no common chance that takes away a noble mind. He briefly referred to the positions of honor in the public service held by Mr. Dayton in his own State, in the councils of the nation at home and abroad. He dwelt upon his stand as a statesman in the discussion of the Bell Resolutions in 1850, when Mr. Clay was in favor of compromise, but Mr. Dayton took high ground for the immediate admission of California as provided for by the State constitution. Mr. Scovel said thatJudge Dayton was great in the qualities of courage, openness of mind and soul. His greatness was of that character which shines without success. And he was great in that quality of a statesman which carries into the nicest questions of national policy the sentiments of humanity.

Napoleon was at the head of absolution and the party of reaction in Europe; there had been no hour since the rebellion began when the Man of December was not ready to recognize the Southern Confederacy, but the prompt, patriotic action of Mr. Dayton had done more than all other influences combined to prevent any action against America on the part of the French Emperor. The estimation in which Judge Dayton was held among all classes goes far to show his character as a patriot gentleman and statesman. He belonged to the "Simple great ones Gone forever, forever by."

New Jersey to-day mourns her foremost son who died at his post. His laurels she keeps green for his memory; and among the noblest and best who had fallen in the great contest, for our God and our country, New Jersey writes the name of William Lewis Dayton, a member of the Council of the State, Judge of the Supreme Court, Senator in Congress, Attorney-General, and last, the American Minister to Paris, in all of which he proved himself a gentleman, a statesman, and an honest man.

Mr. Holsman said: It is no common loss we suffer; one of the noblest, most honored sons of New Jersey has passed away and the places which knew him shall know him no more. Judge Dayton was one of those few men who was a representative man. He was not one who behind the shield of conservatism hides a trembling form. I did not agree with him politically, but I believe, as all New Jersey believes, he was an honest, true hearted man. The Senator from Mercer has spoken of him as an early friend; I did not know him as such, but I can say he was one of the ablest of American ambassadors abroad. He was a thorough and far seeing statesman. The Senator from Camden spoke of him as one who was loved by New Jersey. Yes, he was known and respected from Cape May to the hills of Sussex, and from the Atlantic to the sweet flowing Delaware. He was an honest gentleman.

Mr. Buckley said: Before we proceed to the adoption of these resolutions, it is perhaps proper for me to say a few words more. These eulogies upon men who have passed away are very proper because they afford an opportunity to bring these lessons before us, so that those who still live may profit by them. It is not while they live, but after they have passed away that we can profit by their example. The death of no public man who has passed away from us has created such a loss. As a lawyer, the Senators from Camden and Mercer can speak better than I. From the little acquaintance that I had with him politically, I would say that he always followed his honest convictions; having formed the convictions, he was the last man who would deviate from them for personal advancement or benefits to friends. Honor to him was of the highest importance. In a public man the way to honor is to follow the honest convictions of one's mind, and what greater benefit can a man possess than to be considered an honest man. Mr. Buckley related an instance of his personal connection with Mr. Dayton, as an instance of the suavity of his manner.

Mr. Little said he was aware he could say nothing that has not been said before of this public calamity, and yet he could not refrain from speaking of him, as a debt of gratitude. Every one who knew Judge Dayton would feel a pang at his death, but he mourned his loss next to that of his own father—he might say he owed his position on that floor to Judge Dayton. As a lawyer his fame was as extensive as his State; aye! it did not stop there. No one who had ever heard him plead when he was in earnest, ever forgot the power of his advocacy. No man was his equal before a jury when his heart was enlisted. I have heard him in many cases, but I will only mention the case of Donnelly. Mr. Dayton, convinced of the guilt of that unfortunate young man, swept away as with a breath the fabric which the care and ingenuity of the opposing counsel had built up. He was born a lawyer. Mr. Little had heard an eminent judge declare that he plead his first case as well as he did the last. He was quick in arranging the facts of a case, throwing aside their weak points and seizing the strong ones. Where a crime was to be avenged or a wrong redressed, happy was the State or the man who secured him. As a friend he never allowed political differences to have a feather's weight. When Mr. Dayton was on the Republican ticket as Vice President, he (Mr. Little) opposed him with all his power, but was never able to discern any change in the feelings of Mr. Dayton. A man of strong convictions himself, he was willing to allow others the same privilege; he did not swerve a hair's breadth for policy, but, as a minister, he could not bend, diplomacy must yield. He deserved all the encomiums he can receive from the State or the courts.

The resolutions were then unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Holsman, it was Resolved, That when the Senate adjourn, it adjourn to meet to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, and that when it then adjourn, it be to meet on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Wurts, Chairman of the Joint Committee on State Prison presented the following report:

The Joint Committee on the State Prison beg leave to make the following report:

The Committee came together at the Prison, and proceeded to make a minute and particular examination and inspection of the books and accounts, and corresponding vouchers, of the business and affairs of the Institution, for the last fiscal year. They found the books and accounts correct; the several accounts being verified by proper and appropriate vouchers.

The Committee then went through the Prison, visiting and inspecting the hospital, the several work-shops, and many of the cells.

Good order and discipline were everywhere apparent, not caused by mere force and power, but the result of good system, firmness and kindness combined. The convicts engaged in work appeared to give themselves up to it with cheerfulness and alacrity.

The Committee will express their gratification with the particular attention paid to cleanliness, apparent in every department of the Institution. The general health of the Prison is good.

A new wing for female convicts, in connection with a chapel or room for public worship, would certainly be valuable and important improvements as well as additions to the Prison. They would add much to the completeness of its organization. The Committee, however, do not feel at liberty to recommend their erection at the present time.

The message of his Excellency the Governor, communicated at the commencement of the session, gives a correct statement and view of the present financial condition of the Prison. The committee beg leave to refer to the said message for future information on that point. It will depend upon the decision of the Supreme Court at the ensuing term, upon the legal question referred to in the message, whether or not an appropriation must be made in aid of the Prison, before the adjournment of the Legislature. If the decision is adverse to the Prison, or not made at all, then it would appear such appropriation must be made. The necessity for this or any similar appropriation in future, might perhaps be evaded, and with benefit to the Institution, if the keeper was authorized by law to draw from time to time upon the State Treasurer for limited amounts, to be repaid as soon as the Prison was in funds. At present the keeper is compelled for want of funds, to make many of his purchases on Prison account on credit; thus to some account suffering in his interest account, but, more seriously, in the enhanced price of the articles purchased. The Committee believe that true economy requires that all the purchases on Prison accounts should be made for cash, and respectfully recommend the above suggestion of authorizing drafts on the State Treasurer, to the consideration of the Senate and Assembly.

Before closing their report, the Committee beg leave to add a word in reference to the duties and compensation of the Moral Instructor of the Prison. They believe that one of the great and important objects of the Institution, to wit, the reformation of the convict, would be especially promoted by so increasing the salary as to compensate a competent instructor in directing his whole time to the duties of his office. It is not so now, nor can it be expected at the present rate of compensation. The duties of the office are varied in character, arduous and valuable; and would be much more valuable could the instructor give his whole time to their proper discharge. The Committee recommend such increase of salary as will enable him to do so.

Mr. Stille, Chairman of the Joint Committee on the Lunatic Asylum, presented the following:

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

The Joint Committee on the New Jersey Lunatic Asylum, beg leave to report, that, in conformity with their duty, they have visited that institution, and examined the accounts, the condition, and management of the same.

The accounts, as transmitted to the Legislature, are believed to be correct.

The condition of the institution is sufficient testimony to the able management and untiring devotion of those to whose supervision it is entrusted.

In view of the greatly increased prices of every article of consumption, the amount of money annually received and the expenditure of the same, assures the Committee that the rigid economy there practiced is highly creditable to those intrusted with its control.

Your Committee would recommend an appropriation of ten thousand dollars to meet the deficiency of the past year, to provide for the present, and for the purpose of making the repairs necessary for the protection of the property, and the comfort of its inmates.

The Committee would call your attention to the crowded condition of the Asylum,—the number of patients now filling it to its utmost capacity, rendering it necessary at no far distant period, to provide for this steadily increasing inconvenience.

The attention of the Committee being directed to the fact, that many patients laboring under insanity of many years standing, cases pronounced incurable are admitted, not for the purpose of effecting a cure or benefiting the patient, but to relieve those having the care and charge of such insane persons from the trouble and burthen incident thereto. This, unless remedied by the action of the Legislature, must soon prevent the admission of patients afflicted less dangerously, and who, under the care and medical treatment of the Asylum, might be restored to reason and health.

SAMUEL STILLE,
W. W. WARE,
Senate Committee.

JOHN BATES,
ROBERT MOORE,
WM. CALLAHAN,
DAVID B. BOSS,
W. L. RROKING,

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, March 31st, 1865.

MR. PRESIDENT:

I return for reconsideration Senate bill, No. 25.

The object of the bill is to increase the fees of Surrogates. The bill as originally introduced specified the increased fee for each item of service. That part of the bill was stricken out, and an amendment made, intended to give an increase of 25 per cent. for all services, but that object is defeated, by retaining in the first section the words "hereinafter mentioned."

As no services are mentioned in the bill, it fails to accomplish that which it is evident the Legislature intended.
