TAG's Message

By Brig. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth, The Adjutant General of New Jersey

As we approach the traditional summer vacation season, more and more New Jersey National Guardsmen find themselves mobilized for extended active duty...and more and more Guard families are learning how to cope with the extended absence of their loved ones. This may not be the scenario many of us envisioned pre-September 11th, 2001...but it's a stark reality now in 2004. Through all the "Support the Troops" rallies, and even in light of the wonderful homecoming we shared with the members of the 253rd Transportation Company who returned from Iraq in May, there is a growing sense of the seriousness of the missions we have been asked to serve.

The harsh reality of war and the potential, deadly consequences of armed conflict came home in early June with our first four New Jersey Army Guard combat casualties. It came home again with the tragic death of another soldier killed in a car accident on his way back to Fort Dix. These tragic occurrences are indeed sobering. Yet the courage, commitment, and determination of our Citizen-Soldiers and Airmen remain undiminished. It is this character of our military members that embodies their selfless dedication.

As we continue to prepare for upcoming missions and deployments, we need to remain focused on our objectives. Those involved in training, preparation, and support also need to be the best they can be at doing those things. I like to refer to our National Guard as "New Jersey's Home Town Team". And at this point in time, that's exactly what it's going to take for us to succeed ... a team effort.

We have received tremendous support from throughout our local communities, from civilian employers to local organizations, as well as exceptional support from our families. For our part, we'll take care of the training, equipment, and supplies. We'll ensure that every soldier we deploy is fully prepared to deploy. Federal law provides certain guarantees regarding re-employment and job status when you come home. Our extensive family assistance and family support network will help care of your families while you're away. It's up to you to take care of yourself and help take care of your fellow soldiers.

The summer months encompass three major patriotic holidays. We began with the somewhat somber observance of Memorial Day at the end of May, we celebrate the Army's birthday on Flag Day in the middle of June, and we fully immerse ourselves in the festivities and fireworks surrounding Independence Day on the 4th of July. Despite the difference in mood or flavor, all three of these holidays reflect the very same pride in the values that made America great ... democracy, liberty, and freedom. And they reflect our nation's pride in the members of our Armed Forces. These annual patriotic observances also serve to remind us that we enjoy the gifts of freedom and liberty only because courageous young men and women like you, and the brave veterans who preceded you, have always been willing to fight to defend that freedom.

On behalf of all the people of New Jersey, and all your fellow citizens of these United States, "Thank you" for answering the call ... "Thank you" for the sacrifices you have made...and "Thank you" for your patriotism and your service to our great state and nation.

The successes of the past will not be sufficient to meet the challenges of the future”.

For those of us serving in the armed forces, the tragic events of September 11th marked our collective consciousness both personally and professionally. I believe this despicable act by the enemies of freedom and democracy has served to strengthen our resolve and focus our efforts to ensure that we, as soldiers are fully prepared to defend our communities, state, and nation against another terror attack and against all enemies both foreign and domestic.

Our professional competence, leadership abilities, and initiative long have been among the primary reasons America's armed forces are the best in the world. Given our increasing involvement in Homeland Defense, Homeland Security, and our continued role in local emergency response missions, it's even more important that we attain the highest possible level of professional skill and help our junior NCO's and enlisted personnel become the best soldiers they can become. We've received tremendous support from our elected officials and from throughout every aspect of our local communities. We've also been fortunate to have solid support from within our own chain of command. However, the successes of the past will not be sufficient to meet the challenges of the future.

We need to reinforce the importance of NCOES and obtain the necessary funding so that every promotable soldier in the NJARNG has the opportunity to attend NCOES schools. This includes the 1,000 soldiers who were promoted between January 2002 to 15 July 2004 and still have a military education requirement to complete NCOES.

As the State Command Sergeant Major I would like to identify four specific areas I feel are critical to the successful professional development of the Non-commissioned Officer Corps. These areas will be my top priorities for the next twenty-four months. It is my sincere belief that proper attention to these initiatives will increase our soldier's awareness of the

177th Supports OEF

By Capt. Yvonne Mays, 177FW/CCXO

On June 4, Congressman Frank A. LoBiondo, 2nd District of New Jersey, joined Brig. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth in bidding members of the 177th Fighter Wing a safe journey as they departed to Southwest Asia in support of Operation Enduring Freedom.

The deploying Airmen, which represent nearly every career field on the base, will be deployed for periods ranging from two weeks to 90 days.

Brig. Gen. Rieth applauded the more than 350 guardsmen and women who were departing as well as the hundreds of support personnel who helped prepare and equip them for this deployment. General Rieth urged the deploying personnel to “take care of one another and be safe.”

Congressman LoBiondo also addressed the deploying personnel thanking them for their service and sacrifice to the Nation. 🇺🇸

The 108th Air Refueling Wing's Civil Engineering Squadron recently completed its two-week annual training at Borinquen, a U.S. Coast Guard Station in Puerto Rico from Mar. 27 through Apr. 10.

While the training could be done at home station, Maj. Paul Novello, Commander, CES, noted that the squadron gains valuable, real-world experience by participating in training deployments. “By deploying to various areas throughout the world we have the opportunity to use different construction methods and materials. At Borinquen most structures are concrete, compared to McGuire where wood and metal frame structures are more common.

The deployments have additional benefits. “In addition to providing planning logistics experience the training deployments are a good tool for recruiting, morale and retention,” concluded Maj. Novello. “It’s a win-win situation.” 🇺🇸

Combat Veteran To Head NJANG

Story and photos by Tech. Sgt. Mark Olsen, 177FW/PA

In a ceremony attended by more than 1,500 dignitaries, family members, guests and Guardsmen from the 177th Fighter Wing and the 108th Air Refueling Wing Brig. Gen. Eugene Chojnacki assumed command of the New Jersey Air National Guard from Maj. Gen. Clark W. Martin Apr. 17.

Brig. Gen. Glenn K. Rieth, The Adjutant General of New Jersey, appointed General Chojnacki to command the more than 2,400 members of the New Jersey Air National Guard.

Brig. Gen. Chojnacki, a decorated Vietnam Veteran, served as a special operations pilot. He was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Air Force after graduating from Officer Training School, Lackland Air Force Base (AFB), Texas, in 1968. In 1971, General Chojnacki attended helicopter transition training at Sheppard AFB, Texas and was assigned to the 20th Special Operations Squadron, Cam Rahn Bay, Republic of Vietnam, as an UH-1N pilot. During his combat tour, he flew 120 missions over Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam. In 1977, he accepted a commission with the New Jersey Air National Guard as the executive support officer for the 177th Fighter Interceptor Group. In August, 2002, he was appointed the vice commander of the New Jersey Air National Guard and subsequently promoted to brigadier general. General Chojnacki is rated as a pilot with more than 2,000 hours. His major awards include the Distinguished Flying Cross with One Oak Leaf Cluster, Air Medal with One Silver Oak Leaf Cluster, Vietnam Service Medal with One Bronze Star Device, and the Republic of Vietnam Gallantry Cross with Device.

In his remarks, Brig. Gen. Chojnacki spoke about the new roles facing the New Jersey Air National Guard. "We have seen the Air National Guard move from it's cold war posture... into being an integral and utilized part of our nation's military capability in day-to-day operations, in our war against terror and in the protection of the homeland. It is the hard work, the dedication, and the patriotism of each individual Guardsman that has made our past so successful - and our future so bright."

As Commander, New Jersey Air National Guard, General Chojnacki will be promoted to the rank of Major General pending federal recognition. 🇺🇸

'Faithful And Brave' Arrive In Guantanamo

Members of 2nd Battalion, 113th Infantry Regiment, arrived at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, ready to assume responsibility for the Joint Task Force (JTF) perimeter security.

"It's a great opportunity for the battalion," said Lt. Col. Patrick Dacey, Battalion Commander. "It's a challenge but the battalion is ready for it."

The battalion is ready because they have been anticipating a mission for about a year and a half. The location changed but the desire to serve did not.

"It's a chance for us to not only give something back but to take the years of training and experience that we've had and put them to use," said Maj. Arthur DiBenedetto, battalion executive officer.

Soldiers have been training diligently to validate basic infantry skills and individual tasks at Fort Dix. Collective task training there ended in a five-day mobilization training exercise which was a live scenario based specifically on the JTF mission.

"They've been training very hard, training for a long time and they are ready to get this mission on," said 1st Sgt. George Floyd, first sergeant of C Company.

"They are going to train you to standard," said Col. Nelson Cannon, Commander, Joint Detention Operations Group. "I know you will take it to the next level and you will leave here better than you came."

Soldiers of the 2nd Battalion, 113th Infantry Regiment are ready for the next step.

"We're looking forward to getting our on-the-ground training and being set in the direction that we need to go to complete our mission," said Command Sgt. Maj. Joseph Tatem.

The Battalion has members with deployment experience and one soldier, Cpl. Daniel Torres of D Company, served in Guantanamo Bay as a translator during the refugee mission in 1994 for four months.

He shared with his men what challenges he knew Guantanamo would hold for them.

"It's hot and it will take them a while to get climatized," said Cpl. Torres. "I tell them to drink a lot of water." ☞

More than 300 members of the 1st Battalion, 114th Infantry, New Jersey Army National Guard deployed to the Arabian Peninsula in support of Operation Enduring Freedom, the ongoing war against global terrorism.

Unlike past missions, this is the first time a New Jersey Army National Guard unit has been chosen for this type of deployment.

On May 18, a "Salute the Troops" ceremony was held at the Trenton War Memorial in Trenton to honor the battalion.

The deployment is expected to last up to 18 months and is part of the second round of rotations of Guard and Reserve units called up in support of Operations' Noble Eagle/Enduring Freedom. ۞

News Guard Families Can Use Better Soldiers Sailors Act

Compiled by the Guardlife Staff

A new law replacing the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act (SSCRA) of 1940 will provide military personnel greater protections to handle their personal financial and legal obligations.

The focus of the Service-members Civil Relief Act (SCRA) is to provide protections to service members who have difficulty meeting their personal financial and legal obligations because of their military service. The SCRA clarifies and updates provisions that existed in the SSCRA, while adding additional protections.

A significant change added in the SCRA is an automatic 90-day stay of civil proceedings upon application by the service member. This applies to all judicial and administrative hearings. In the past, stays were discretionary with the courts.

The SCRA states that the six percent limitation on interest rates for pre-service debts requires a reduction in monthly payments, and that any interest in excess of six percent is forgiven, not deferred.

The SCRA also expanded the protection against eviction. Previously, service members that entered into a lease for $1,200 or less could not be evicted without a court order. The SCRA increased that maximum lease amount to $2,400 and added an annual adjustment for inflation. For 2004, the maximum will be $2,465.

The SCRA also gives the service member who has received permanent-change-of-station orders or who is being deployed for not less than 90 days the right to terminate a housing lease with 30 days' written notice. Prior to the SCRA, service members could be required to pay for housing they were unable to occupy.

A provision in the SCRA that did not exist in the SSCRA was an added protection for service members who have motor vehicle leases. Any active duty service member who is being deployed for not less than 180 days, may terminate a motor vehicle lease. The law prohibits early termination charges so service members won't have to pay monthly lease payments for a car they can't use.

If service members have questions about the SCRA or the protections that they may be entitled to, they should contact their unit judge advocate for further assistance.

Guard Deploys To Flooded South Jersey

Photos and story by Tech. Sgt. Mark Olsen, NJDMAVA/PA

Master Sgt. Frank Adams at a checkpoint.

Soldiers assigned to Task Force Bulldog, a component of Task Force South of the NJNG, responded to flooding in Burlington County on July 13. In a matter of a few hours, rains averaging nine to 12 inches swelled local earthen dams. The excessive amount of rain caused one of the dams to break, creating a cascading effect, sweeping away seven other dams and flooding the towns of Lumberton, Medford and Medford Lakes.

"We had four trucks with eight drivers and assistant drivers on the road within four hours of our first call-up," stated Maj. Bryan Scully, Task Force Operations Officer.

Soldiers of C Battery, 3rd Battalion, 112th Field Artillery; Training and Training Technology Battle Lab and the 50th Personnel Services Battalion, along with members of the 108th Air Refueling Wing set up checkpoints and Light-Alls to keep the curious out and enable various state and federal agencies access to the town.

At the end of the day, the Lumberton citizens were grateful to the Guardsmen for keeping order, providing stability and lending a helping hand during their time of need.

By Tech. Sgt. Mark Olsen, 177FW/PA, Photo by Tech. Sgt. Shawn Mildren, 177FW/MultiMedia Center

Tech. Sgt. Kenneth D. Johnson, Services Flight, 177th Fighter Wing, was one of 19 individuals worldwide to receive the coveted Air Reserve Component Non-Commissioned Officer, Air Force Services Award June 29.

This is the first time a member of the New Jersey Air National Guard has ever won the prestigious award. In addition, he was the only Guardsman in the United States to receive an award in the competition.

"This award is really recognition for all the Air Guardsmen that were deployed during Operation Iraqi Freedom," said Tech. Sgt. Johnson, Food Services Assistant Shift Leader, 177th Services Flight.

The Air Force Services Individual Awards Program recognizes Services personnel in 19 individual categories and 20 services program areas who make outstanding contributions to the Air Force Services Program, which covers a variety of areas including: dining facilities, lodging, Morale, Recreation and Welfare, mortuary affairs and fitness.

Tech. Sgt. Johnson was activated to support Operation Iraqi Freedom, from Feb. 22 to Nov. 15, 2003. Upon arrival in the combat theatre, he assisted with the build up of two bases, the first being at a classified location 34 miles from the Iraqi border where he served as part of the 688-member 447th Air Expeditionary Group where he played a vital role in the conversion of a small commercial airport to fully operational forward staging base in just 18 days.

Following the invasion of Iraq, Tech. Sgt. Johnson's unit deployed to Camp Sather, Baghdad International Airport (formerly Saddam International Airport), where he was instrumental in the rapid build-up and sustainment of coalition and humanitarian airfield operations, as well as special operations and combat search and rescue forces.

Finance Battalion Update

The 50th Finance Battalion has been busy setting up shop in Iraq.

In addition to the normal in-theatre training, 50th Soldiers have been traveling around the country supporting funding units within their "area of responsibility".

"They have performed admirably during the past six weeks," stated Maj. Angelo Capolupo, the unit's Commander.

"As the unit gets acclimatized, our troops are beginning to get involved with some quality of life projects. These include installing sleeping tents for visitors and improving the Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) facilities."

Maj. Capolupo noted that there was considerable activity related to renovating a building next to his office to be used for MWR. It has three rooms: one to be used for Friday night card and board games, one for a TV, and the last for reading and video games.

According to the Major, these improvements usually occurred while he and the command sergeant major were away. "It seems that every time the CSM and I are away, more and more work got done back at base camp. I think we have to stay away more often."

Mail and care packages also are making their way to the unit. "We're getting packages left and right and everyone's really happy about that. We've received many packages from the Family Readiness Program back in New Jersey and believe me, it is contributing to our well-being."

Given the extremes in daily living conditions, security concerns, and the scope of their mission, the unit's morale remains high.

The Commander summed it up best. "I'm happy to report that everybody is doing well."

In Memoriam

The Department of Defense announced the death of the following New Jersey Army National Guard soldiers supporting Operation Iraqi Freedom:

Sgt. Frank T. Carvill, 51, of Carlstadt
and
Spc. Christopher M. Duffy, 26, of Brick

Sgt. Carvill and Spc. Duffy died in Baghdad, Iraq, on June 4, 2004, when individuals using improvised explosive devices and rocket-propelled grenades attacked their convoy.

Sgt. Humberto F. Timoteo, 25, of Newark
and
Spc. Ryan E. Doltz, 26, of Mine Hill

Sgt. Timoteo and Spc. Doltz died on June 5, 2004 in Baghdad, Iraq, when their vehicle hit an improvised explosive device.

All four of these soldiers were assigned to the New Jersey Army National Guard's 3rd Battalion, 112th Field Artillery, in Lawrenceville.

These American soldiers answered our nation's call to secure freedom for the oppressed people of Iraq. In doing so, they paid the ultimate price so that others may have what we so proudly enjoy.

Please remember these New Jersey Army National Guard soldiers and their families in your thoughts and in your prayers.
