"I have known Bruce for almost 18 years as a colleague, a client, and a friend. As an attorney, he has the rare ability to counsel clients in complex financial and business transactions, paying attention to every detail of the deal while never losing sight of the larger picture. He employs the same techniques to governing: first as a councilman and now Mayor in the Borough of Chatham. Bruce is thorough, inquisitive, and insightful in every task that he undertakes. I believe that these are essential skills of an appellate justice and would serve him extremely well if appointed to our State's highest Court."
