THE STATE CAPITOL OF NEW JERSEY.

HISTORY OF NEW JERSEY.

In 1606, King James of England granted a new patent for Virginia (ignoring that of Sir Walter Raleigh, dated in 1584), in which was included the territory now known as the New England States and New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland. The possession of Eastern New Jersey was claimed by the Dutch, the Swedes claiming the right to the Western portion. The former built Fort Nassau, on the Delaware, near Gloucester; Fort Orange, on the Hudson, near Albany; and the Hirsse of Good Hope, on the Connecticut; the latter found the settlements along the Delaware river, after the Dutch built Nassau, the fort not being of sufficient strength to maintain their shadowy claims. Disputes as to the rightful possession of territory continued for years, until the early spring of 1664, when Charles II. sold to his brother James, Duke of York, "all that tract of land adjacent to New England, and lying and being to the westward of Long Island; bounded on the east part by the main sea and part by the Hudson river, and hath upon the west Delaware bay or river, and extendeth southward to the main ocean as far as Cape May, at the mouth of Delaware bay, and to the northward as far as the northernmost branch of said bay or river of Delaware, which is forty-one degrees and forty minutes of latitude, and worketh over thence in a straight line to Hudson river, which said tract of land is hereafter to be called by the name or names of NOVA CÆSAREA or NEW JERSEY." James soon sold this to Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret.

The name was given in honor of Carteret, on account of his gallant defense of the Island of Jersey, at the time he was Governor of the island.

This grant regarded the Dutch and Swedes as intruders, and Berkeley and Carteret not only became rulers, but acquired the right to transfer the privilege to others. Measures were speedily devised for peopling and governing the country. The proprietors published a constitution, dated February 10th, 1664, by which the government of the province was to be exercised by a Governor and Council and General Assembly. The Governor was to receive his appointment from the proprietors; the Council was to be selected by the Governor, who might make choice of six Councilors, at least (or twelve, at most), or any even number between six and twelve.

On the same day that the instrument of government was signed, Philip Carteret, a brother of one of the proprietors, received a commission as Governor of New Jersey. He landed at Elizabeth in August, 1665.

The precise date of the first settlements in New Jersey is not known, though it is believed that the Danes or Norwegians, who crossed the Atlantic with the Dutch colonists, began a settlement at Bergen about the year 1624. About ten years previous, an attempt was made to form a settlement at Jersey City. In 1623, the Dutch West India Company sent out a ship under the command of Capt. Cornelius Jacobse Mey, who entered the Delaware bay and gave his name to its northern cape, and, sailing up the river to Gloucester, built Fort Nassau, which may be considered the first permanent settlement of the State.

Upon the arrival of Governor Carteret, he entered at once upon a vigorous discharge of his duties. A large number of settlers flocked thither, and at an early period the executive authority of the province was established by the appointment of a Council, composed of Captain Nicholas Varlett, Daniel Pierce, Robert Bond, Samuel Edsall, Robert Vanquellen and William Pardon. James Bollen was appointed Secretary of the province.

The first Legislative Assembly in the history of New Jersey met at Elizabethtown, on the 26th of May, 1668. The session lasted four days, and was characterized by harmony and strict attention to the business for which the Burgesses and Representatives were summoned by Governor Carteret. It may be noted that this Assembly passed laws by which twelve distinct offenses were made punishable with death. The Assembly adjourned sine die, and seven years elapsed before another convened. The capture of New York by the Dutch, July 30th, 1673, was followed by the subjection of the surrounding country, including the province of New Jersey. The whole of the territory, however, swung back to the possession of the English crown, by the treaty of peace with Holland, on the 9th of February, 1674.

The second General Assembly began its session on the 5th of November, 1675. Eight members of Council, including the Governor, were present, and fourteen Representatives appeared from the towns. Laws were enacted looking to the proper military defense of the province, for the institution of regular courts, and for the assessment of taxes. A code of capital laws was also adopted, similar in its provisions to that passed in 1668.

On the 18th of March, 1673, Lord Berkeley, one of the original proprietors of New Jersey, disposed of his right and interest in the province to John Fenwick and Edward Byllinge, members of the Society of Quakers, or Friends, who paid the sum of £1,000 for the same. John Fenwick received the conveyance in trust for Edward Byllinge, and a dispute as to the terms having arisen, William Penn was called in as arbitrator. He gave one-tenth of the province and a considerable sum of money to Fenwick, and the remainder of the territory was adjudged to be the property of Byllinge. A permanent settlement was made at Salem, in June, 1675.

Owing to the continued disputations and dissensions, a division of the territory of the province was agreed upon. By this "Indenture Quintipartite," dated July 1st, 1676, the line of division was made to extend across the province, from Little Egg Harbor to a point in the Delaware river in forty-one degrees of north latitude. These divisions were known respectively as East and West Jersey, until the charters of both were surrendered, and the two portions included together under a royal government.

By the retrocession of New Jersey to Great Britain, by the treaty of 1674, the question arose whether the title returned to the proprietors or to the King. To avoid all difficulty, the King recognized the claim of Carteret, and made a new grant to the Duke of York, who also executed a fresh conveyance to Carteret, covering, however, only a part of the original territory of New Jersey. But, before making this conveyance, the Duke included the province in a commission given to Sir Edmund Andros, Governor of New York, who refused to recognize the authority, as Governor, of Philip Carteret, arrested all magistrates who would not submit to his own jurisdiction, and finally, on April 30th, 1680, carried Carteret himself prisoner to New York. The Duke was finally prevailed upon to acknowledge the claims of the proprietors, and in 1681 the government of Andros came to an end.

West Jersey, in February, 1682, was purchased by William Penn and eleven other Quakers, and settlements were made at Burlington, "ye falls of ye Delaware" or Trenton, and a flourishing whaling station established at Cape May, not to mention Salem, already a growing town. The first Governor under the new proprietors was Robert Barclay, a Scotchman, and one of the twelve purchasers, under whom the country became an asylum for the oppressed members of his creed, and for a time enjoyed great prosperity. But the number of proprietors, the frequent sub-divisions and transfers of shares, and various other difficulties in the way of good government, soon involved the province in trouble, and in 1702 the proprietors surrendered the rights of government to the Crown.

Queen Anne appointed Lord Cornbury Governor of New York and New Jersey, but each continued to have a separate Assembly. In 1738, New Jersey petitioned for a distinct administration, and Lewis Morris was appointed Governor. The population was then about 40,000. The last Royal Governor was William Franklin, the illegitimate son of Benjamin Franklin. A State Constitution was adopted July 2d, 1776, and some of the most important battles of the Revolution took place upon its soil. Among these were the battles of Trenton, Princeton, Red Bank and Monmouth.

The first Legislature met at Princeton, in August, 1776, and chose William Livingston, Governor. The Federal Constitution was adopted by a unanimous vote, December 18th, 1787. The State Capital was established at Trenton, in 1790.

New Jersey, out of 98,806 men liable to do military duty, furnished 88,305 during the civil war, being 10,057 in excess of the number called for by the general government, and within 10,501 of her entire militia at that time. Of this number 79,348 served with State organizations, and the remainder in regiments of other States. The naval and marine enlistments from New Jersey numbered 4,853. The entire expense to the State for organizing, equipping, subsisting, supplying and transporting her troops, was $2,894,384 99.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

OF THE

UNITED STATES.

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness. That, to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it, and to institute a new government, laying its foundations on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly, all experience hath shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having, in direct object, the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world:

He has refused his assent to laws the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operations till his assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the Legislature—a right inestimable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable and distant from the repository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved representative houses repeatedly, for opposing, with manly firmness, his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused, for a long time after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the State remaining, in the meantime, exposed to all the dangers of invasions from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavored to prevent the population of these States; for that purpose, obstructing the laws for the naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migration hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependent on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our Legislatures.

He has affected to render the military independent of, and superior to, the civil power.

He has combined, with others, to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitutions, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us;

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment, for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these States;

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefit of trial by jury ;

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offenses ;

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighboring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies ;

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering, fundamentally, the forms of our governments ;

For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection, and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burned our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun, with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow-citizens, taken captive on the high seas, to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrection among us, and has endeavored to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers, the merciless Indian savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions, we have petitioned for redress, in the most humble terms; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A prince whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in our attentions to our British brethren. We have warned them, from time to time, of attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them, by the ties of our common kindred, to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They, too, have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name and by the authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are also absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is, and ought to be, totally dissolved; and that, as Free and Independent States, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and do all other acts and things which Independent States may of right do. And, for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand, but each State shall have at least one representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts, eight; Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, one; Connecticut, five; New York, six; New Jersey, four; Pennsylvania, eight; Delaware, one; Maryland, six; Virginia, ten; North Carolina, five; South Carolina, five; and Georgia, three.

5. The house of representatives shall choose their speaker and other officers, and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

SENATE—HOW COMPOSED.

Section III.

1. The senate of the United States shall be composed of two senators from each State, chosen by the legislature thereof, for six years, and each senator shall have one vote.

ROTATION OF SENATORS.

2. Immediately after they shall be assembled, in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year; of the second class, at the expiration of the fourth year; and of the third class, at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one-third may be chosen every second year. And if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the legislature of any State, the executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

THEIR QUALIFICATIONS.

3. No person shall be a senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

6. The senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose, they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the chief justice shall preside. And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two-thirds of the members present.

7. Judgment, in cases of impeachment, shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall, nevertheless, be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment according to law.

MEMBERS OF CONGRESS—HOW ELECTED.

Section IV.

1. The times, places and manner of holding elections for senators and representatives shall be prescribed in each State, by the legislature thereof; but the congress may, at any time, by law, make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing senators.

Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members; and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner and under such penalties as each house may provide.

RULES, &C.

2. Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member.

JOURNALS.

3. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may, in their judgment, require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of each house, on any question, shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

APPOINTMENT TO OFFICE.

2. No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time ; and no person holding any office under the United States, shall be a member of either house during his continuance in office.

REVENUE BILLS.

Section VII.

1. All bill for raising revenue shall originate in the house of representatives ; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

PASSING BILLS, &C.

2. Every bill which shall have passed the house of representatives and the senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States ; if he approve, he shall sign it ; but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to that house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of that house, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

ORDERS AND RESOLUTIONS.

3. Every order, resolution or vote, to which the concurrence of the senate and house of representatives may be necessary (except on the question of adjournment), shall be presented to the President of the United States, and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or, being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two-thirds of the senate and house of representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

POWERS OF CONGRESS.

Section VIII.

The congress shall have power :

ARTICLE II.

THE EXECUTIVE POWER.

Section I.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and, together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows :

HOW ELECTED.

2. Each State shall appoint, in such manner as the legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors equal to the whole number of senators and representatives to which the State may be entitled in congress ; but no senator or representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an elector.

ELECTORAL COLLEGES.

3. The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot, for two persons, of whom one, at least, shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each ; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit, sealed, to the seat of the government of the United States, directed to the president of the senate. The president of the senate shall, in the presence of the senate and house of representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors appointed ; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the house of representatives shall immediately choose by ballot, one of them for President ; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list, the said house shall in like mannner choose the President. But in choosing the President, the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote ; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two-thirds of the States, and a majority of the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the electors, shall be the Vice-President. But if there should remain two or more who have equal votes, the senate shall choose from them, by ballot, the Vice-President. [See XIIIth amendment.]

4. The congress may determine the time of choosing the electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes, which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

WHO MAY BE ELECTED PRESIDENT.

5. No person except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States. [See XIIIth amendment.]

ON THE DEATH, REMOVAL, &C., OF THE PRESIDENT, THE POWERS AND DUTIES DEVOLVE UPON THE VICE-PRESIDENT.

6. In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President; and the congress may, by law, provide for the case of removal, death, resignation or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

COMPENSATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

7. The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive, within that period, any other emolument from the United States or any of them.

8. Before he enters on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation:

Section II.

1. The President shall be commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States, and of the militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

TREATIES, AMBASSADORS, &C.

2. He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the senate shall appoint, ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, judges of the supreme court, and all other officers of the United States whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law. But the congress may, by law, vest the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of department.

APPOINTING POWER.

3. The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the senate, by granting commissions, which shall expire at the end of their next session.

DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT.

Section III.

He shall, from time to time, give to the congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both houses, or either of them; and in case of disagreement between them with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive ambassadors and other public ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

IMPEACHMENT, &C.

Section IV.

The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

EXTENT OF THE JUDICIAL POWER.

(See Amendments, Art. XI.)

ORIGINAL AND APPELLATE JURISDICTION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

2. In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the supreme court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before mentioned, the supreme court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the congress shall make.

TRIALS FOR CRIMES.

3. The trials of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crime shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the congress may by law have directed.

TREASON—WHAT AND HOW PUNISHED.

Section III.

1. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

2. The congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

ACTS, RECORDS, &C., OF EACH STATE.

Section I.

Full faith and credit shall be given, in each State, to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the congress may, by general laws, prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

PRIVILEGES OF CITIZENS.

Section II.

1. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE.

2. A person charged in any State with treason, felony or other crime, who shall flee from justice and be found in another State, shall, on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

SERVANTS, &C., TO BE SURRENDERED ON CLAIM.

3. No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up, on claim of the party to whom such service or labor may be due.

HOW NEW STATES ARE ADMITTED.

Section III.

1. New States may be admitted by the congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State, nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States or parts of States, without the consent of the legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the congress.

THE DISPOSITION OF TERRITORIES.

2. The congress shall have power to dispose of, and make all needful rules and regulations respecting, the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

GUARANTY AND PROTECTION OF THE STATES BY THE UNION.

Section IV.

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and, on application of the legislature or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened), against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION—HOW MADE.

The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this constitution; or, on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several States, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which in either case shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the congress; provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year eighteen hundred and eight shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article, and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the senate.

ARTICLE VI.

FORMER DEBTS VALID.

Section I.

All debts contracted, and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this constitution as under the confederation.

THE SUPREME LAW OF THE LAND.

Section II.

This constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE CONSTITUTIONAL OATH NO RELIGIOUS TEST.

Section III.

The senators and representatives before mentioned, and the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound by oath or affirmation to support this constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office of public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

WHEN THE CONSTITUTION TO TAKE EFFECT.

The ratification of the conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in the convention, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the twelfth.

STATE CONSTITUTION.

A CONSTITUTION agreed upon by the delegates of the people of New Jersey, in convention begun at Trenton on the fourteenth day of May, and continued to the twenty-ninth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-four, ratified by the people at an election held on the thirteenth day of August, A. D. 1844, and amended at a special election held on the seventh day of September, A. D. 1875.

We, the people of the State of New Jersey, grateful to Almighty God for the civil and religious liberty which He hath so long permitted us to enjoy, and looking to Him for a blessing upon our endeavors to secure and transmit the same unimpaired to succeeding generations, do ordain and establish this CONSTITUTION:

ARTICLE I.

RIGHTS AND PRIVILEGES.

1. All men are by nature free and independent, and have certain natural and unalienable rights, among which are those of enjoying and defending life and liberty; acquiring, possessing and protecting property, and of pursuing and obtaining safety and happiness.

2. All political power is inherent in the people. Government is instituted for the protection, security and benefit of the people, and they have the right at all times to alter or reform the same, whenever the public good may require it.

3. No person shall be deprived of the inestimable privilege of worshipping Almighty God in a manner agreeable to the dictates of his own conscience; nor, under any pretense whatever, to be compelled to attend any place of worship contrary to his faith and judgment; nor shall any person be obliged to pay tithes, taxes or other rates for building or repairing any church or churches, place or places of worship, or for the maintenance of any minister or ministry, contrary to what he believes to be right, or has deliberately and voluntarily engaged to perform.

4. There shall be no establishment of one religious sect in preference to another; no religious test shall be required as a qualification for any office or public trust; and no person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil right merely on account of his religious principles.

5. Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press. In all prosecutions or indictments for libel, the truth may be given in evidence to the jury; and if it shall appear to the jury that the matter charged as libelous is true, and was published with good motives and for justifiable ends, the party shall be acquitted; and the jury shall have the right to determine the law and the fact.

6. The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated; and no warrant shall issue but upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched and the papers and things to be seized.

7. The right of a trial by jury shall remain inviolate; but the legislature may authorize the trial of civil suits, when the matter in dispute does not exceed fifty dollars, by a jury of six men.

8. In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall have the right to a speedy and public trial by an impartial jury; to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel in his defense.

9. No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense, unless on the presentment or indictment of a grand jury, except in cases of impeachment, or in cases cognizable by justices of the peace, or arising in the army or navy; or in the militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger.

10. No person shall, after acquittal, be tried for the same offense. All persons shall, before conviction, be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or presumption great.

11. The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

12. The military shall be in strict subordination to the civil power.

13. No soldier shall, in time of peace, be quartered in any house without the consent of the owner; nor in time of war, except in a manner prescribed by law.

14. Treason against the State shall consist only in levying war against it, or in adhering to its enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason, unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

15. Excessive bail shall not be required, excessive fines shall not be imposed, and cruel and unusual punishments shall not be inflicted.

16. Private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation; but land may be taken for public highways as heretofore, until the legislature shall direct compensation to be made.

17. No person shall be imprisoned for debt in any action, or on any judgment founded upon contract, unless in cases of fraud; nor shall any person be imprisoned for a militia fine in time of peace.

18. The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives, and to petition for redress of grievances.

19. No county, city, borough, town, township or village shall hereafter give any money or property, or loan its money or credit, to or in aid of any individual association or corporation, or become security for or be directly or indirectly the owner of any stock or bonds of any association or corporation.

20. No donation of land or appropriation of money shall be made by the State or any municipal corporation to or for the use of any society, association or corporation whatever.

21. This enumeration of rights and privileges shall not be construed to impair or deny others retained by the people.

ARTICLE II.

RIGHT OF SUFFRAGE.

1. Every male citizen of the United States, of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a resident of this State one year, and of the county in which he claims his vote five months, next before the election, shall be entitled to vote for all officers that now are, or hereafter may be, elective by the people; provided, that no person in the military, naval or marine service of the United States shall be considered a resident in this State, by being stationed in any garrison, barrack, or military or naval place or station within this State; and no pauper, idiot, insane person, or person convicted of a crime which now excludes him from being a witness unless pardoned or restored by law to the right of suffrage, shall enjoy the right of an elector; and provided further, that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which, and the time and place at which, such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election districts in which they respectively reside.

2. The legislature may pass laws to deprive persons of the right of suffrage who shall be convicted of bribery.

ARTICLE III.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE POWERS OF GOVERNMENT.

1. The powers of the government shall be divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial; and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as herein expressly provided.

ARTICLE IV.

LEGISLATIVE.

Section I.

1. The legislative power shall be vested in a senate and general assembly.

2. No person shall be a member of the senate who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for four years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year, next before his election; and no person shall be a member of the general assembly who shall not have attained the age of twenty-one years, and have been a citizen and inhabitant of the State for two years, and of the county for which he shall be chosen one year next before his election; provided, that no person shall be eligible as a member of either house of the legislature, who shall not be entitled to the right of suffrage.

3. Members of the senate and general assembly shall be elected yearly and every year, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November; and the two houses shall meet separately on the second Tuesday in January next after the said day of election, at which time of meeting the legislative year shall commence; but the time of holding such election may be altered by the legislature.

Section II.

1. The senate shall be composed of one senator from each county in the State, elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, for three years.

2. As soon as the senate shall meet after the first election to be held in pursuance of this constitution, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the first year; of the second class at the expiration of the second year; and of the third class at the expiration of the third year, so that one class may be elected every year; and if vacancies happen, by resignation or otherwise, the persons elected to supply such vacancies shall be elected for the unexpired terms only.

Section III.

1. The general assembly shall be composed of members annually elected by the legal voters of the counties, respectively, who shall be apportioned among the said counties as nearly as may be according to the number of their inhabitants. The present apportionment shall continue until the next census of the United States shall have been taken, and an apportionment of members of the general assembly shall be made by the legislature at its first session after the next and every subsequent enumeration or census, and when made shall remain unaltered until another enumeration shall have been taken; provided, that each county shall at all times be entitled to one member; and the whole number of members shall never exceed sixty.

Section IV.

1. Each house shall direct writs of election for supplying vacancies, occasioned by death, resignation, or otherwise; but if vacancies occur during the recess of the legislature, the writs may be issued by the governor, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law.

2. Each house shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties, as each house may provide.

3. Each house shall choose its own officers, determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behavior, and, with the concurrence of two-thirds, may expel a member.

4. Each house shall keep a journal of its proceedings; and from time to time publish the same ; and the yeas and nays of the members of either house on any question shall, at the desire of one-fifth of those present, be entered on the journal.

5. Neither house, during the session of the legislature, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two houses shall be sitting.

6. All bills and joint resolutions shall be read three times in each house, before the final passage thereof ; and no bill or joint resolution shall pass unless there be a majority of all the members of each body personally present and agreeing thereto ; and the yeas and nays of the members voting on such final passage shall be entered on the journal.

7. Members of the senate and general assembly shall receive annually the sum of five hundred dollars during the time for which they shall have been elected and while they shall hold their office, and no other allowance or emolument, directly or indirectly, for any purpose whatever. The president of the senate and the speaker of the house of assembly shall, in virtue of their offices, receive an additional compensation, equal to one-third of their allowance as members.

8. Members of the senate and general assembly shall, in all cases except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the sitting of their respective houses, and in going to and returning from the same ; and for any speech or debate, in either house, they shall not be questioned in any other place.

Section V.

1. No member of the senate or general assembly shall, during the time for which he was elected, be nominated or appointed by the governor, or by the legislature in joint meeting, to any civil office under the authority of this State which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased, during such time.

2. If any member of the senate or general assembly shall be elected to represent this State in the senate or house of representatives of the United States, and shall accept thereof, or shall accept of any office or appointment under the government of the United States, his seat in the legislature of this State shall thereby be vacated.

3. No justice of the supreme court, nor judge of any other court, sheriff, justice of the peace nor any person or persons possessed of any office of profit under the government of this State, shall be entitled to a seat either in the senate or in the general assembly ; but, on being elected and taking his seat, his office shall be considered vacant; and no person holding any office of profit under the government of the United States shall be entitled to a seat in either house.

Section VI.

1. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the house of assembly; but the senate may propose or concur with amendments, as on other bills.

2. No money shall be drawn from the treasury but for appropriations made by law.

3. The credit of the State shall not be directly or indirectly loaned in any case.

4. The legislature shall not, in any manner, create any debt or debts, liability or liabilities, of the State which shall, singly or in the aggregate with any previous debts or liabilities, at any time exceed one hundred thousand dollars, except for purposes of war, or to repel invasion, or to suppress insurrection, unless the same shall be authorized by a law for some single object or work, to be distinctly specified therein; which law shall provide the ways and means, exclusive of loans, to pay the interest of such debt or liability as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt or liability within thirty-five years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall be irrevocable until such debt or liability, and the interest thereon, are fully paid and discharged; and no such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received the sanction of a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election; and all money to be raised by the authority of such law shall be applied only to the specific object stated therein, and to the payment of the debt thereby created. This section shall not be construed to refer to any money that has been, or may be, deposited with this State by the government of the United States.

Section VII.

1. No divorce shall be granted by the legislature.

2. No lottery shall be authorized by this State, and no ticket in any lottery not authorized by a law of this State shall be bought or sold within the State.

3. The legislature shall not pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

4. To avoid improper influences which may result from intermixing in one and the same act such things as have no proper relation to each other, every law shall embrace but one object, and that shall be expressed in the title. No law shall be revived or amended by reference to its title only; but the act revived, or the section or sections amended, shall be inserted at length. No general law shall embrace any provision of a private, special or local character. No act shall be passed which shall provide that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be made or deemed a part of the act, or which shall enact that any existing law, or any part thereof, shall be applicable, except by inserting it in such act.

6. The fund for the support of free schools, and all money, stock and other property which may hereafter be appropriated for that purpose, or received into the treasury under the provision of any law heretofore passed to augment the said fund, shall be securely invested and remain a perpetual fund; and the income thereof, except so much as it may be judged expedient to apply to an increase of the capital, shall be annually appropriated to the support of public free schools, for the equal benefit of all the people of the State; and it shall not be competent for the legislature to borrow, appropriate or use the said fund, or any part thereof, for any other purpose, under any pretense whatever. The legislature shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all the children in this State between the ages of five and eighteen years.

7. No private or special law shall be passed authorizing the sale of any lands belonging in whole or in part to a minor or minors, or other persons who may at the time be under any legal disability to act for themselves.

8. Individuals or private corporations shall not be authorized to take private property for public use, without just compensation first made to the owners.

9. No private, special or local bill shall be passed unless public notice of the intention to apply therefor, and of the general object thereof, shall have been previously given. The legislature, at the next session after the adoption hereof, and from time to time thereafter, shall prescribe the time and mode of giving such notice, the evidence thereof, and how such evidence shall be preserved.

10. The legislature may vest in the circuit courts, or courts of common pleas within the several counties of this State, chancery powers, so far as relates to the foreclosure of mortgages and sale of mortgaged premises.

11. The legislature shall not pass private, local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases; that is to say:

"I do solemnly swear [or affirm, as the case may be,] that I will support the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the State of New Jersey, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of senator [or member of the general assembly, as the case may be,] according to the best of my ability."

And members-elect of the senate or general assembly are hereby empowered to administer to each other the said oath or affirmation.

2. Every officer of the legislature shall, before he enters upon his duties, take and subscribe the following oath or affirmation: "I do solemnly promise and swear [or affirm] that I will faithfully, impartially and justly perform all the duties of the office of ———, to the best of my ability and understanding; that I will carefully preserve all records, papers, writings or property intrusted to me for safe-keeping by virtue of my office, and make such disposition of the same as may be required by law."

ARTICLE V.

EXECUTIVE.

1. The executive power shall be vested in a governor.

2. The governor shall be elected by the legal voters of this State. The person having the highest number of votes shall be the governor; but if two or more shall be equal and highest in votes, one of them shall be chosen governor by the vote of a majority of the members of both houses in joint meeting. Contested elections for the office of governor shall be determined in such manner as the legislature shall direct by law. When a governor is to be elected by the people, such election shall be held at the time when and at the places where the people shall respectively vote for members of the legislature.

3. The governor shall hold his office for three years, to commence on the third Tuesday of January next ensuing the election for governor by the people, and to end on the Monday preceding the third Tuesday of January, three years thereafter; and he shall be incapable of holding that office for three years next after his term of service shall have expired; and no appointment or nomination to office shall be made by the governor during the last week of his said term.

4. The governor shall be not less than thirty years of age, and shall have been for twenty years, at least, a citizen of the United States, and a resident of this State seven years next before his election, unless he shall have been absent during that time on the public business of the United States or of this State.

5. The governor shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation which shall be neither increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected.

6. He shall be the commander-in-chief of all the military and naval forces of the State; he shall have power to convene the legislature, or the senate alone, whenever in his opinion public necessity requires it; he shall communicate by message to the legislature at the opening of each session, and at such other times as he may deem necessary, the condition of the State, and recommend such measures as he may deem expedient; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and grant, under the great seal of the State, commissions to all such officers as shall be required to be commissioned.

7. Every bill which shall have passed both houses shall be presented to the governor; if he approve he shall sign it, but if not, he shall return it, with his objections, to the house in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it; if, after such reconsideration, a majority of the whole number of that house shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved of by a majority of the whole number of that house, it shall become a law; but in neither house shall the vote be taken on the same day on which the bill shall be returned to it; and in all such cases, the votes of both houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each house respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the governor, within five days (Sunday excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the legislature by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law. If any bill presented to the governor contain several items of appropriations of money, he may object to one or more of such items while approving of the other portions of the bill. In such case he shall append to the bill, at the time of signing it, a statement of the items to which he objects, and the appropriation so objected to shall not take effect. If the legislature be in session he shall transmit to the house in which the bill originated, a copy of such statement, and the items objected to shall be separately reconsidered. If, on reconsideration, one or more of such items be approved by a majority of the members elected to each house, the same shall be a part of the law, notwithstanding the objections of the governor. All the provisions of this section in relation to bills not approved by the governor shall apply to cases in which he shall withhold his approval from any item or items contained in a bill appropriating money.

8. No member of congress, or person holding an office under the United States, or this State, shall exercise the office of governor; and in case the governor, or person administering the government shall accept any office under the United States or this State, his office of governor shall thereupon be vacant. Nor shall he be elected by the legislature to any office under the government of this State or of the United States, during the term for which he shall have been elected governor.

9. The governor, or person administering the government, shall have power to suspend the collection of fines and forfeitures, and to grant reprieves, to extend until the expiration of a time not exceeding ninety days after conviction; but this power shall not extend to cases of impeachment.

10. The governor, or person administering the government, the chancellor, and the six judges of the court of errors and appeals, or a major part of them, of whom the governor, or person administering the government, shall be one, may remit fines and forfeitures, and grant pardons, after conviction, in all cases except impeachment.

11. The governor and all other civil officers under this State shall be liable to impeachment for misdemeanor in office during their continuance in office, and for two years thereafter.

12. 60. When nominations shall be made by the Governor to the Senate, they shall, unless otherwise ordered by the Senate, be referred to appropriate committees; and the final question on every nomination shall be, "Will the Senate advise and consent to this nomination?" which question shall not be put on the same day on which the nomination is received, nor on the day on which it may be reported by a committee, unless by the unanimous consent of the Senate.

61. When acting on Executive business, the Senate shall be cleared of all persons except the Senators and Secretary.

62. All information or remarks concerning the character or qualifications of any person nominated by the Governor to office shall be kept a secret.

63. The Legislative and Executive proceedings of the Senate shall be kept in separate and distinct books.

64. All nominations approved by the Senate, or otherwise definitely acted on, shall be transmitted by the Secretary to the Governor, with the determination of the Senate thereon, from day to day, as such proceedings may occur; but no further extract from the Executive journal shall be furnished, published or otherwise communicated, except by special order of the Senate.

HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY.

RULES ADOPTED THIS YEAR.

Of the Meeting of the House.

1. Any member or members less than a quorum may meet and adjourn the House from day to day, when necessary.

2. Every member shall attend in his place precisely at the hour to which the House was last adjourned; and in case of neglect, he shall be subject to a reprimand from the Chair, unless excused by the House; nor shall any member absent himself from the House for more than the space of a quarter of an hour without leave previously obtained.

3. In case a less number of members than a quorum shall be present after the arrival of the hour to which the House stood adjourned, they are hereby authorized to send their Sergeant-at-Arms, or any other person or persons by them authorized, with a warrant duly executed, for any and all absent members, as the majority of such as are present may agree, and at the expense of such absent members, respectively, unless such excuse for non-attendance shall be rendered as the House, when a quorum is convened, shall judge sufficient. Immediately after the appointment of the Standing Committees, the members shall arrange among themselves their several seats appropriated to their counties; and in case of disagreement, the same shall be decided by lot.

Of the Duties of the Speaker.

4. He shall take the chair at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned, and immediately call the members to order; and on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read, which may then be corrected by the House.

5. He shall preserve order and decorum, and in debate shall prevent personal reflections, and confine members to the question under discussion; but he shall not engage in any debate, nor propose his opinion on any question, without first calling on some member to occupy the chair. When two or more members rise at the same time, he shall name the one entitled to the floor.

6. He shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House, when demanded by any four members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.

7. All questions before the House shall be stated by the Speaker, and distinctly put in the following form, to wit: "As many as are in favor of (the question) will say aye;" and after the affirmative is expressed, "Those of a contrary opinion, no." If the Speaker doubts, or a division be called for, the House shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative; and in case of an equal division, the Speaker shall decide.

8. All Committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House.

9. All acts, addresses and joint resolutions shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the order of the House shall be under his hand and seal, and attested by the Clerk. If the Speaker be absent, a less number of members than a quorum may appoint a Speaker pro tempore, who may sign any warrants, or perform any act requisite to bring in absent members.

10. He shall have a general direction of the hall, and he may name a member to perform the duties of the Chair; but such substitution shall not extend beyond a second adjournment.

Of the Order of Business.

11. After the reading of the journal, the business of the first meeting of each day shall be conducted in the following manner, to wit:

I. Letters, petitions and memorials, remonstrances and accompanying documents may be presented and disposed of.

II. Reports of Committees may be read.

III. Original resolutions may be offered and considered; items of unfinished business referred; motions to reconsider and to appoint additional members of Committees made; and leave of absence, leave to withdraw documents, and leave to introduce bills asked.

Leave for Bills and to Introduce Bills.

IV. Bills and joint resolutions on a third reading may be taken up.

V. The House shall then proceed in the order of the day, preference being always given to the unfinished business of the previous sitting; after which bills and joint resolutions on a second reading shall be taken in their order; and the House, in its afternoon session, will proceed to business as though there had been no adjournment of its morning session, excepting that original resolutions, and leave to introduce bills of Committees, be the first business in the afternoon session; and shall, on demand of the majority, proceed with the order of the day.

12. The Clerk shall make a list of all public bills and joint resolutions. He shall keep a separate calendar of private bills. No bills for granting, continuing, altering, amending, or renewing a charter for any corporation, other than a municipal corporation, shall be placed on the calendar of public bills. All bills, public and private, shall be numbered according to the time of their introduction into the House. They shall be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they were reported, or ordered to a third reading, as appears by the calendar; and the calendar shall be proceeded in until all the bills thereon are called up before the commencement of the calendar anew.

13. All messages shall be sent from this House to the Senate by the Clerk.

Of Decorum and Debate.

14. When a member is about to speak in debate, or communicate any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the Speaker, confining himself to the question under debate, and avoiding personality.

15. If any member in debate transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order, in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain. The House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate; if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the House, and if the case require it, he shall be liable to censure of the House.

16. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.

17. No member shall speak more than twice, or longer than five minutes each time, without leave of the House.

18. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the hall; nor in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall anyone entertain private discourse; nor shall anyone, while a member is speaking, pass between him and the Chair.

19. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is particularly interested, nor in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.

20. Every member who shall be in the House when the question is put shall give his vote, unless the House for special reasons shall excuse him. All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced; any member requesting to be excused from voting may make a brief verbal statement of the reasons for such request, and the question shall then be taken without further debate.

21. Petitions, memorials and other papers addressed to the House shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made by the introducer, and, if called upon, he shall declare that it does not, in his opinion, contain any indecent or reproachful language, or any expressions of disrespect to the House, or any committee of the same.

22. It shall be the duty of the Sergeant-at-Arms, at all times, not to allow any person to smoke in the Assembly chamber.

On Motions.

23. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.

24. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker, or being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair and read aloud by the Clerk, when it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House and open to debate; but it may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

25. When a question is under debate no motion shall be received but—

1. To adjourn.
2. A call of the House.
3. To lay on the table.
4. For the previous question.
5. To postpone indefinitely.
6. To postpone to a day certain.
7. To go into a Committee of the Whole on the pending subject immediately.
8. To commit to a Committee of the Whole.
9. To commit to a Standing Committee.
10. To commit to a Select Committee.
11. To amend.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are stated, and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

26. A motion to strike out the enacting clause of a bill or joint resolution shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and if carried shall be considered equivalent to its rejection.

27. A motion to adjourn shall be always in order, except when the House is voting, or while a member is addressing the House, or immediately after the question to adjourn has been negatived; that, and the motion to lay on the table, shall be decided without debate.

28. Any member may call for a division of the question, which shall be divided if it comprehends questions so distinct that one being taken away from the rest may stand entire for the decision of the House; a motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

29. When any motion shall be made and seconded, the same shall, at the request of any two members, be entered on the Journal of the House.

30. When a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member who voted with the prevailing party to move for the reconsideration thereof, on the same day or on the next day of actual session of the House thereafter; all motions may be reconsidered, by a majority of the members present; but bills, to be reconsidered, must have the same majority that would be necessary to pass them; and such vote, on motion to reconsider, shall be by taking the yeas and nays.

31. When a blank is to be filled, the question shall first be taken on the largest sum, or greatest number, and remotest day.

32. The yeas and nays shall be entered on the Journal of the House, when moved for and seconded by five members, and in taking the yeas and nays the names of the members, including the Speaker, shall be called alphabetically.

33. The previous question shall be put in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present, and its effect shall be, if decided affirmatively, to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon amendments reported by a committee, if any, then upon pending amendments, and then upon the main question; if decided in the negative, to leave the main question and amendments if any, under debate for the residue of the sitting, unless sooner disposed of by taking the question, or in some other manner. All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

34. After the Clerk has commenced calling the yeas and nays on any question, no motion shall be received until a decision shall have been announced by the Chair.

38. All committees appointed at the first sitting shall continue to act during every subsequent sitting of the same Legislature, or until they have reported on the business committed to them, or have been discharged.

Of the Committee of the Whole House.

39. In forming a Committee of the Whole House, the Speaker shall leave his chair, and a chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the Speaker.

40. The rules of proceeding in the House shall be observed, as far as practicable, in Committee of the Whole, except that any member may speak oftener than twice on the same subject, but shall not speak a second time until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken; nor shall a motion for the previous question be made therein.

41. All amendments made in Committee of the Whole shall be noted by the Clerk, but need not be read by the Speaker on his resuming the chair, unless required by the House.

On Bills and Joint Resolutions.

42. All bills and joint resolutions shall be introduced by motion for leave, or on the report of a committee, and the member offering the same shall indorse his name on them, that the committee may confer with him should they so desire.

43. Every bill and joint resolution shall receive three separate readings in the House previous to its passage, but no bill or joint resolution shall be read twice on the same day, without special order of the House.

44. All bills and joint resolutions shall, after their first reading, be printed for the use of the members, and referred to their appropriate committees.

45. All bills and joint resolutions may be made the order of a particular day, on which day they shall be taken up in preference to others on the calendar; and the calendar of private bills shall not be taken up until the calendar of public bills shall have been gone through with.

46. All bills and joint resolutions, previous to their final passage by the House, all petitions, motions and reports, may be committed at the pleasure of the House. And the recommitment of any bill or resolution, when the same has been ordered to a third reading, shall have the effect of placing the same upon the second reading.

47. All bills and joint resolutions ordered to be engrossed shall be executed in a fair, round hand, and no amendment by way of rider shall be received to any bill or joint resolution on its third reading.

48. On a motion to strike out any item in the incidental bill, the question to be submitted to the House shall be, "Shall the item be retained in the bill?" and a majority of all the members of the House shall be necessary to adopt the same.

49. After the introduction of any private bill, the applicants for said bill shall, at their own expense, furnish the usual number of copies for the use of the members, unless the printing thereof be dispensed with by a special order of the House.

50. On the question of the final passage of all bills and joint resolutions, the yeas and nays shall be entered on the journal of the House.

51. Whenever a bill or resolution that has passed the House shall be carried to the Senate, all papers and documents relating thereto, on the files of the House, shall be carried with such bill or resolution to the Senate.

Of Rules.

52. No standing rule or order of the House shall be rescinded or changed without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor; nor shall any rule be suspended except by a vote of the majority of the whole number of members of the House.

53. When an Assembly bill is returned amended by the Senate, the report thereof by the Secretary of the Senate shall be taken as the first reading, and the same be entitled to a second reading, without a motion for that purpose; after its second reading, the question shall be, "Shall the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. — have a third reading?" If ordered to a third reading, the amendments shall be read, but these readings shall be on different days; the question shall then be, "Will the House of Assembly concur in the Senate amendments to Assembly bill No. —?" upon which question the votes shall be by yeas and nays. If concurred in by a majority of the whole House, the bill shall be re-engrossed, the amendments embodied therein, and the re-engrossed bill examined and reported upon by the Committee on Engrossed Bills, and read in open Assembly, to the end that it may be known to be correctly engrossed, and then signed and certified as other bills.

54. Cushing's Manual shall in all cases, when not in conflict with the rules adopted by the House, be considered and held as standard authority.

55. No person shall be allowed on the floor of the House during its sessions except State officers and members and officers of the Senate, unless by written permission of the Speaker.

56. No committee of this House shall report a bill adversely without notifying the introducer of the bill; nor shall such adverse report be acted upon unless the introducer of the bill is in his seat.

57. After the calling of the roll has been commenced upon any question, no member shall be permitted to explain his vote.

58. Every bill amended in the House, after its report by the committee to which it was referred upon introduction, shall, when ordered to be engrossed and have a third reading, be delivered to the Committee on Bill Revision, whose duty it shall be to examine the same, and if it be found that such amendment agrees with the context the bill shall then be engrossed. If in the opinion of the committee such amendment is, as to form, improper, they shall report to the House with such recommendation as they think fit. Such report shall be made within two days from the receipt of the bill.

59. That hereafter any motion or resolution which will result in relieving a standing committee of a bill referred to it, shall not be entertained unless one day's notice shall be given the House of the introduction of such motion or resolution.

JOINT RULES AND ORDERS

OF THE

2. After each House shall have adhered to their disagreement, a bill or resolution shall be lost.

3. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed in one House is rejected in the other, notice thereof shall be sent to the House in which the same shall have passed.

4. Each House in which any bill or resolution shall have passed shall transmit therewith to the other House all papers and documents relating to the same.

5. When a message shall be sent from either House to the other, it shall be announced at the door of the House by the doorkeeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it is sent.

6. After a bill shall have passed both Houses, it shall be delivered by the Clerk of the Assembly, or the Secretary of the Senate, as the bill may have originated in one House or the other, to a Joint Committee on Passed Bills, of two from each House, appointed as a Standing Committee for that purpose, and shall be presented by said committee to the Governor for his approbation, it being first indorsed on the back of the bill, certifying in which House the same originated, -which indorsement shall be signed by the Secretary or Clerk, as the case may be, of the House in which the same did originate, and shall be entered on the journal of each House. The said committee shall report on the day of presentation to the Governor, which time shall also be carefully entered on the journal of each House.

CONSTITUTIONAL COMMISSION

On April 4th, 1873, the Legislature passed a concurrent resolution empowering the Governor to appoint, by and with the advice of the Senate, a commission of two persons from each Congressional District, to suggest and propose amendments to the State Constitution for submission to and consideration by the next two Legislatures, and afterwards to be submitted to a vote of the people.

On April 24th, of the same year, Governor Parker nominated the following gentlemen, who were duly confirmed by the Senate:

First District—Benjamin F. Carter, Woodbury; Samuel H. Grey, Camden. Second District—Mercer Beasley, Trenton; John C. Ten Eyck, Mount Holly. Third District—Robert S. Green, Elizabeth; John F. Babcock, New Brunswick. Fourth District—Martin Ryerson and Jacob L. Swayze, both of Newton. Fifth District—Augustus W. Cutler, Morristown; Benjamin Buckley, Paterson. Sixth District—Theodore Runyon and John W. Taylor, both of Newark. Seventh District—Abraham O. Zabriskie and Robert Gilchrist, both of Jersey City.

Shortly afterwards Chief Justice Mercer Beasley declined to serve, and Philemon Dickinson, of Trenton, was appointed in his stead. Martin Ryerson resigned and Joseph Thompson, of Somerset, was appointed to fill the vacancy. Chancellor Theodore Runyon also declined and George J. Ferry, of Orange, was appointed in his stead. Ex-Chancellor Zabriskie was unanimously elected president of the Commission, and upon his decease, which occurred in a short time afterwards, Dudley S. Gregory, of Jersey City, was appointed to fill the vacancy in the Seventh District. John C. Ten Eyck was elected president, vice Zabriskie, deceased. The secretaries were Joseph L. Naar and Edward J. Anderson, both of Trenton. Subsequently Robert Gilchrist resigned and William Brinkerhoff, of Jersey City, was appointed in his place. John W. Taylor also resigned and Algernon S. Hubbell, of Newark, was appointed in his place.

The first session of the Commission was held on May 8th, 1873, and the last on December 23d, of the same year. The amendments submitted were partially adopted by the two succeeding Legislatures, and were ratified by a vote of the people at a special election held on September 7th, 1875.

STATE INSTITUTIONS.

THE STATE CAPITOL.

This edifice, a massive structure, erected at sundry times and various periods, is located on West State street, at the corner of Delaware street, running thence westerly along State street to the grounds of the late ex-Chancellor Green, and southerly to the Water Power. The location is a good one, and although the style of the building is not modern, yet it answers the purposes for which it was intended, even if it does not present a very imposing appearance.

The seat of Government was fixed at Trenton by an act of the Legislature, approved November 25th, 1790. James Cooper, Thomas Lowery, James Ewing, Maskell Ewing, George Anderson, James Mott and Moore Furman were appointed commissioners to select, purchase or accept so much land as was needed, and to erect thereon suitable buildings for the use of the Legislature. They purchased the present site, containing about three and three-quarters acres—a frontage on Second street (now West State street) of 247 feet and 6 inches, and a depth from the front to low water line of the Delaware river of 666 feet—at a cost of £250 5s. The old State House was a plain, bare-looking, rough-cast building, and was erected at a cost of £3,992 3s. $\frac{1}{2}$ d. By an act of March 4th, 1795, a building was erected to serve as an office for the Secretary of State, and for the preservation of the public records, at a cost of £620 19s. 10d. Numerous improvements and repairs were made, and on March 3d, 1806, an act was passed appointing commissioners to make certain repairs to the State House, to provide and hang a suitable bell, &c. This was done, and the bell was used for informing the members of both houses, as well as the courts, of the hour of meeting. The bell was eventually discarded, and an American flag substituted, which waves from the building unto this day, when the Legislature is in session, and upon holidays and State occasions. In 1848, the State House was altered by the removal of the rough-casting, and changing the front to the style of the Mercer County Court House, placing neat porticoes over the front and rear entrances, and erecting two additional buildings adjoining the main one, as offices for the Clerks of the Chancery and Supreme Courts. The rotunda was also erected, and the grounds fenced, graded, laid out and shade trees planted, all at a cost of \$27,000. The commissioners under whose directions the work was completed, were Samuel R. Gummere, Samuel R. Hamilton and Stacy A. Paxson. In 1863, '64 and '65, appropriations were made and expended in building additions for the State Library, Executive Chambers, &c. In 1871, Charles S. Olden, Thomas J. Stryker and Lewis Perrine were appointed commissioners to cause a suitable addition to be built—more commodious apartments for the Senate and Assembly, &c. The sum of \$50,000 was appropriated, and the buildings for the Legislature were ready for occupancy in time for the meeting of the Legislature of 1872. In 1872, \$120,000 was appropriated for completing the building, \$3,000 for fitting up the Executive Chamber, \$4,000 for fitting up the Chancery and Supreme Court rooms, and \$2,000 for fitting up the offices on the first floor of the east wing. In 1873, the sum of \$43,000 was appropriated for the improvement of the front of the building, completing unfinished repairs and improvements, and for fitting up the Library, &c. On March 18th, 1875, the sum of \$15,000 was appropriated for the purpose of putting a new three-story front to the building, and to fit up offices on the second floor for the Clerks of the Court of Chancery and Supreme Court, and for providing a suitable museum for geological specimens, and the battle-flags of New Jersey volunteer regiments, carried during the war of the Rebellion.

On March 21st, 1885, the front portion was destroyed by fire, and the Legislature appropriated $50,000 for rebuilding, and, in 1886, an additional appropriation of $225,000 was granted.

The new building was finished in 1889. It is of rectangular shape and of the Renaissance style of architecture, with a frontage of one hundred and sixty feet on State street, a depth of sixty-seven feet, and three and a half stories high, with a rotunda thirty-nine feet across, which connects the new section of the Capitol with the original part. The rotunda is surmounted by a dome one hundred and forty-five feet high.

The building has about sixty feet more frontage than the former one, and approaches about ten feet nearer the street.

The walls are constructed of solid, fire-proof, brick masonry, faced with a light-colored stone from Indiana, known as Salem Oolitic, with foundations and trimmings of New Jersey freestone, from the Prallsville quarries, in Hunterdon county. The portico, door-head and trimmings about the door are of the same material. The portico, with balcony, is supported by massive pillars of polished granite and surmounted by the coat of arms of the State.

The apartments used for offices are very spacious, fitted throughout in the most approved modern style, and each department is supplied with one or more of the finest fire-proof vaults. The first and second stories are set aside for offices, and the entire third story is used for the State Library.

The old State Library apartments have been improved and extended, and are now used as offices for the Attorney-General, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Commissioner of Banking and Insurance. A new story was added, which is used for the Geological Museum and State offices.

In 1891, a new Assembly Chamber was erected. The old one was too small and poorly ventilated, and besides, there was a lack of suitable committee rooms. The Legislature of 1891 passed a Joint Resolution, which was approved on March 20th, authorizing the Governor "to provide a suitable chamber and committee rooms for the use of the General Assembly of this State," &c., and also, "to make such additions and alterations as will afford the necessary accommodations for the Supreme Court and Court of Errors and Appeals, or for other State offices, and sufficient money is hereby appropriated for that purpose, to be paid by the Treasurer of this State on the warrant of the Comptroller, after approval by the Governor."

The new chamber was built by James W. Lanning, of Trenton, from plans prepared by James Moylan, of Jersey City, and under the superintendency of Bernard J. Ford, of Newark. It covers the site of the former chamber, and extends beyond it to Delaware street on the east and to the water power on the south. It has a frontage on Delaware street of 120 feet and a depth of 75 feet. The exterior finish and design of the building are similar to the adjoining portion of the Capitol. The foundation is of brown stone, from the Stockton quarries, and the trimmings of light Indiana stone. The interior is finished in Trenton tile, quartered oak and Italian statuary marble. It is a fire-proof building throughout, and is specially ventilated. The committee rooms are ample and convenient, and the interior design, arrangement and finish make it a model legislative chamber. It cost the State $140,500. The cost of the steam heating and ventilating systems was about $25,000.

The other new addition to the Capitol provides a consultation room for the Judges of the Supreme Court and the Court of Errors and Appeals and a private room for the Governor, a room for the Museum of the Geological Survey, and other offices, and cost $34,500.

An electric light apparatus was also placed in the Capitol, which cost $23,000. Every department in the building is now lighted by electricity.

A new Otis elevator has been placed in the front part of the building, which gives easy access to all the upper floors.

THE STATE LIBRARY.

This valuable collection of books is located on the third floor of the State Capitol. The old saying, "Great oaks from little acorns grow," most appropriately applies to this institution.

The first library of the State was a case ordered to be procured by Maskell Ewing, Clerk of the House of Assembly, for the keeping and preservation of such books as belonged to the Legislature. It was ordered by a resolution passed March 18th, 1796. This was the nucleus of the present extensive library. On February 18th, 1804, William Coxe, of Burlington; Ezra Darby, of Essex, and John A. Scudder, of Monmouth, were appointed a Committee on Rules, and to make a catalogue; they reported that there were 168 volumes belonging to the State, and presented a code of seven rules, which was adopted. On February 10th, 1813, an act (the first one) was passed, entitled "An act concerning the State Library." Up to 1822 it appears that the Clerk of the House had charge of the books, as Librarian, and, on November 16th, 1822, an act was passed for the appointment of a State Librarian, annually, by joint meeting. In 1846, on April 10th, an act was passed making the term of office three years. The Law Library at that time belonged to the members of the Law Library Association. The only persons allowed the use of the Library were members of the Association, the Chancellor, and the judges of the several courts. Stacy G. Potts was Treasurer and Librarian of the Association. The Law Library was kept in the Supreme Court room until 1837, when the Legislature authorized the State Librarian to fit up a room adjoining the Library for the care and reception of the books and papers belonging to the State Library. Thus the two Libraries were consolidated. On March 13th, 1872, $5,000 per year for three years was appropriated for the Library by the Legislature, and by the act of March 15th, 1876, the sum of $2,500 was appropriated for finishing and refurnishing the Library room. In 1890, the Library was removed to the third story of the new part of the Capitol.

THE STATE ARSENAL.

The building now used as the State Arsenal was formerly the old State Prison. It is situate on Second street, in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton, and has on its front the following inscription :

LABOR, SILENCE, PENITENCE.
 THE PENITENTIARY HOUSE,
 ERECTED BY LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY.
 RICHARD HOWELL, GOVERNOR.
 IN THE XXII. YEAR OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE, MDCCXCVII.
 THAT THOSE WHO ARE FEARED FOR THEIR CRIMES,
 MAY LEARN TO FEAR THE LAWS AND BE USEFUL.
 HIC LABOR, HOC OPUS.

In the messages of Governors P. D. Vroom and S. L. Southard, recommending the erection of the new prison, it was proposed that the old one be converted into an Arsenal for the safe keeping of the arms and military property of the State, which, previous to that time, had been kept in the old State Bank, corner of Warren and Bank streets, with accoutrements and camp and garrison equipage at the State House. After the removal of the State convicts from the old prison, permission was given to the county of Mercer to occupy it as a jail until their jail, then in course of completion, was finished, and when it was again vacated it was converted into an arsenal.

Among the stores, &c., at the Arsenal are one bronze gun, French, of the date of 1758; two bronze guns, English, four-pounders, and two iron six-pounders. There is also one gun captured at the battle of Trenton, December 26th, 1776, and two guns captured at Yorktown, October 19th, 1781. There are also a large quantity of fire-arms, ammunition, ordnance, tents, clothing, blankets, &c.

STATE LUNATIC ASYLUM,

NEAR TRENTON.

This institution is located in Ewing township, in Mercer county, two and half miles northwest of the city of Trenton, on the Belvidere Delaware Railroad, and near the Delaware river. A very fine view is had from the Asylum. The building is built of reddish sand-stone (from the Ewing quarries on the premises), laid in rubble and broken range work, and pointed, with hammer-dressed stone for base. The roof is covered with slate, except the dome, which is covered with tin.

In 1844, after many futile attempts to cause action to be taken for the building of a State Asylum for the Insane, commissioners were appointed to select a site, and an appropriation of $35,000 was made to pay for the land and commence the erection of a building. The commissioners selected the present site. During the year 1845, commissioners were appointed to contract for and superintend the erection of the Asylum, which was done by William Phillips and Joseph Whittaker, of Trenton—the builders of the State House. It was opened for the reception of patients May 15th, 1848. Numerous additions were made to the building from time to time, and under the direction of the present Superintendent, Dr. J. W. Ward, a fine green-house has been added, and he has introduced many new plans and devices for the comfort and amusement of the patients. Handsome pictures have been hung up in the wards and dormitories of the patients; flowers and hot-house plants are a source of much pleasure to the unfortunates, who regard them with rare appreciation; and during the fall and winter months there have been regular weekly entertainments, consisting of tableaux, concerts, dancing, the performance of minor theatricals, and stereopticon exhibitions. The effect of these, besides breaking up the monotony of long evenings, seems to call the minds of the patients from their troubles, and not unfrequently tends towards the restoration of their mental health.

An addition was made to the building in 1889.

STATE LUNATIC ASYLUM.

MORRIS PLAINS.

Owing to the crowded condition of the Trenton Asylum, commissioners were appointed to select a site and build an additional asylum in the northerly portion of the State. They purchased 430 acres, at a cost of $82,672.11, in Hanover township, Morris county, and plans were drawn by Samuel Sloan, architect, of Philadelphia. The building was erected and occupied by August 17th, 1876. It is 1,243 feet in length, and is 542 feet deep from the front of the main center to the rear of the extreme wing, and will accommodate 800 patients. The total cost was $2,250,000.

STATE NORMAL AND MODEL SCHOOLS.

These schools are located in the city of Trenton, on a piece of ground belonging to the State, at the junction of Clinton avenue and Perry street. There are two buildings—one called the Normal and the other the Model Hall.

As early as the year 1839, the Trustees of the School Fund, in their annual report, advised the erection of schools for the education of teachers. The appeal was unheeded. Normal schools, so far as this country was concerned, might then have been considered an untried experiment. There was but one in the United States, and that had just gone into operation in Massachusetts.

For upwards of fifteen years, New Jersey continued to forego the means for the education of teachers; but the Legislature of 1855, with an enlightened liberality, passed a law for the establishment of a State Normal School. The object was declared to be, the training and education of teachers in such branches of knowledge, and such methods of instruction, as should qualify them to become teachers of our common schools.

The location of the school and its general management were committed to a board of ten trustees, two from each Congressional District in the State, to be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

The lot was purchased of William P. Sherman, Esq., at a cost of $3,000. The architect was Chauncey Graham. The corner-stone was laid by Governor Price, October 9th, 1855. The school was opened in a temporary building, October 1st, 1855, under the direction of the chosen Principal, Prof. William F. Phelps, there being fifteen candidates for entrance examination—five gentlemen and ten ladies. The school continued under the management of Prof. Phelps till March 15th, 1865, when Prof. John S. Hart, Principal of the Model School, took charge of the two schools. The latter resigning February 7th, 1871, Lewis M. Johnson, of Newark, was elected Principal, and was succeeded by Washington Hasbrouck, July 1st, 1876. James M. Green succeeded Mr. Hasbrouck in 1889. The property of these schools is valued at $250,000. In 1890 and '91, an addition was made to the buildings at a cost of $48,000.

An auxiliary to the Normal School is the Farnum Preparatory School, at Beverly, Burlington county, founded by Paul Farnum, in 1856, who gave $70,000 in money and property for its support.

STATE REFORM SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

This institution is situate at Jamesburg, Middlesex county, and was authorized by an act of the Legislature, passed April 6th, 1865. Juvenile criminals between the ages of eight and sixteen years are here cared for, and every influence tending to their reformation is brought to bear upon them. Numerous additions have been made to the original building, to which is attached a farm of 490 acres. The first pupils were received July 6th, 1867.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

This institution is located on the line of the Trenton Branch of the Delaware and Bound Brook Railroad, in Ewing township, near the Trenton Lunatic Asylum, and is located on a farm of about 79 acres of land. A substantial building was erected, at a cost of $23,334, and other improvements made, which bring the value of the place, with furniture, &c., up to $37,740. Previous to the erection of the new building, the school was at "Pine Grove," in the Sixth Ward of the city of Trenton. This place had been leased so as to afford room for persons sentenced under the act of April 4th, 1871.

THE STATE PRISON.

The New Jersey State Prison, situated on the block enclosed by Federal, Third, Cass and Second streets, in the city of Trenton, is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the country. Its erection was authorized by an act of the Legislature passed February 13th, 1832, and it was completed in the year 1836, having 150 cells, at a cost of $179,657.11. It was built of red sand-stone, from the Ewing quarries, and the style of its architecture is Egyptian, having four Egyptian columns in front of the main entrance, on Third street. It consists of a main building, used as a residence for the Keeper and as reception rooms and offices. From time to time the prison has been enlarged, and although there is not sufficient room to afford separate confinement for each prisoner, as required by law, the provisions of the act are carried out as far as possible. The rules and regulations now in force have brought the internal affairs of the institution, as to cleanliness, discipline, victualing, &c., to a much higher standard than was ever before reached, and a visit thereto will convince the visitor that the management is as perfect as can be.

On March 4th, 1847, $5,000 was appropriated to build an additional wing to the original building. On March 25th, 1852, $15,000 was granted for the erection of a new wing for hospital purposes. On March 22d, 1860, the sum of $17,000 was voted for the purpose of building an additional wing for cells, and on February 16th, 1861, a further sum of $2,243.01 was appropriated to complete the same. On April 16th, 1868, $6,000 was appropriated for the building of an additional wing to provide room for female convicts. An act passed April 2d, 1869, provided for the appointment of commissioners to extend the grounds of the prison to the wall of the State Arsenal, to build an additional wing and work shops, and made an appropriation of $50,000 for that purpose, and in the same month $9,734 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the wing of the female department. On April 4th, 1871, the sum of $75,000 was appropriated for the purpose of completing the new or east wing, and on April 4th, 1872, a further sum of $28,700 was appropriated for the completion of the same. March 3d, 1874, $12,000 was voted for the construction of gas works for the supply of illuminating gas for the prison. On March 8th, 1877, the sum of $100,000 was appropriated for the enlargement of the prison and the purchase of a burial ground for deceased convicts. The north wing was remodeled out of this last appropriation, and a burial ground purchased.

Previous to the year 1798 there was no State Prison, and prisoners were confined in the county jails. On March 1st, 1797, Jonathan Doane was appointed by an act of the Legislature as an agent to purchase a lot of land from Peter Hunt, situate at Lamberton, containing six and a half acres, and to erect suitable buildings thereon. This was done at an expense of £9,852 0s. 3d., and what is now the State Arsenal, at Second and Cass streets, is the result. Solitary confinement was not practiced previous to 1836, in which year the old prison was vacated and the present one occupied.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

This institution is located in Kearny township, Hudson county, to which place it was removed from Newark in 1888. It was organized under a joint resolution of the Legislature approved April 12th, 1862. The Home in Newark was opened July 4th, 1866. The Legislatures of 1886 and 1887 appropriated $175,000 for the erection of a new Home, under the direction of Commissioners appointed by the Legislature. The present site, consisting of 17½ acres, was selected, and six new and commodious buildings were erected thereon. The Home has a frontage of 600 feet on the Passaic river, and contains over three hundred inmates.

NEW JERSEY SCHOOL FOR DEAF-MUTES.

The New Jersey School for Deaf-Mutes occupies the building and grounds formerly belonging to the Soldiers' Children's Home, at the corner of Hamilton and Chestnut avenues, Chambersburg, about a mile and a quarter from the State Capitol. By an act of the Legislature, approved March 31st, 1882, this property was set apart for its present use, and a Board of Trustees, consisting of the Governor, the State Comptroller, the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and eight other gentlemen, was appointed.

Under the provisions of this act and of another act, approved March 5th, 1883, the Board have made such repairs, alterations and additions to the buildings as were necessary for adapting them to the purposes of the new institution, have furnished them suitably and placed the grounds in thorough order.

The school opened in the fall of 1883, and shortly afterwards contained about 90 pupils, though it is expected that the attendance will ultimately reach 150, which is about the number of such pupils whom the State has hitherto been supporting in schools outside her own limits, and which is the limit of the capacity of the present accommodations. Pupils are received between the ages of five and twenty-one, and the length of the term allowed is five years.

The object of the institution is to give to the afflicted children, who are here received, a knowledge of the English language in its written, and, in the case of some pupils, in its spoken form—a knowledge which, but for such institutions, they would never acquire, and to instruct them in the rudiments of an English education. They are also trained to acquire such a degree of general intelligence and of manual dexterity that they may become self-supporting men and women. Their training also enables moral forces to be brought to bear upon them with the effect of raising them from a condition of moral irresponsibility to the level of respectable citizens.

THE STATE INSTITUTION FOR FEEBLE-MINDED WOMEN, VINELAND

This institution was established under an act of March 27th, 1888, with Rev. S. O. Garrison as superintendent. On November 15th, of the same year, he was succeeded by Mary J. Dunlap, M.D. It is one of the most admirably situated public buildings in the State. Lying nearly opposite the Home for Feeble-Minded Children, and facing Landis avenue, Vineland's main street of several miles in length, it enjoys facilities of the city yet surrounded by acres of fruit, vineyards and orchards. The main building is well arranged, and a large annex was erected in the winter of 1891-'92. It is a home for females of twelve years of age and upwards. It is a fact that this branch of State work is one of New Jersey's greatest monuments. Though late in being recognized, it will grow more and more in interest as its existence is better known and a knowledge and inspection of its work made and rightly understood.

NEW JERSEY TRAINING SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE-MINDED CHILDREN, VINELAND.

This institution is an outgrowth of a private one which Rev. S. Olin Garrison established in Millville, Cumberland county, on September 1st, 1887. It was opened at Vineland on March 1st, 1888 with an enrollment of ten inmates. Adjacent properties were soon acquired and a handsome building, costing about $18,000, was erected in 1890-'91. There are eight cottages located on a farm of one hundred acres. The wards of New Jersey are now sent there.

The plan and scope of training and education by the School, requires eight teachers in English, Kindergarten and Manual Trades departments, thereby indicating the special and comprehensive fields of instruction. There is also a custodial department for the idiotic, and a hospital department for epileptics.

The property is worth between $50,000 and $60,000, with only a debt of $8,000. Besides very good property acquisitions at low cost, at least $30,000 have been donated to the school since its organization, to aid in the current expenses, in improvements and new buildings.

One hundred and forty children over the age of five years, residents chiefly of New Jersey, of which a few are private patients, enjoyed the facilities of the school in 1891.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

DEMOCRATIC.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, on Tuesday, September 14th, 1892.)

The Democratic party of New Jersey, in convention assembled, declare:

That they re-affirm the National Democratic Platform adopted at Chicago, and enthusiastically endorse the nomination of Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson for President and Vice-President of the United States.

That they endorse the administration of Governor Leon Abbett.

As an answer to the slanders of those who have persistently misrepresented the existing management of State affairs, we call the attention of the people to the following facts:

That the only permanent State officers to which any salary or compensation is allowed, created by the Democratic party during the past three years, are as follows: A Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, a Chief of State Police, a State Board of Taxation, a State Board for the Arbitration of Differences between Employers and Employés, a Board of Commissioners of Electric Subways, a Commissioner of Mines, a resident physician at the State Prison, and a Superintendent of the School Census.

The acts creating the office of the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, and Commissioners of Electric Subways, provide that the expenses of these departments shall be paid, respectively, by the insurance and telegraph companies doing business in this State. The total of all salaries to be paid by the State to permanent officers created by Democratic Legislatures during the present administration is less than $15,000.

The pledge made in our State Platform of 1889, that there should not be any general State tax imposed upon the people, has been faithfully kept, and we renew the promise then made that there shall not be any general State tax imposed while the affairs of the State are intrusted to the Democratic party. On January 1, 1889, the floating debt of the State amounted to $400,000.

Every dollar of this has been paid, and over a quarter of a million dollars expended for the improvement of public buildings and the purchase of a camp ground at Sea Girt. That these expenses have been met without the imposition of a single dollar of direct State tax upon the property of private owners, and without an increase in the rate imposed upon the property of corporations, supports the claim that the State Government of New Jersey is the most economical in the Union.

That in pursuance of its pledge made in its platform of 1889, to legislate in the interest of labor, the Democratic party has, during the present administration, through its legislative representatives, enacted the following measures, all of which received the approval of a Democratic Governor, to wit:—Acts which secure, beyond the reach of fraud, the payment of wages to mechanics and others engaged in the erection of buildings; an act providing for sixty free scholarships in the State Agricultural College; acts to authorize the establishment of free public libraries and reading rooms in cities and towns; an act giving a lien for wages due and labor performed and materials furnished in finishing silk and goods of which silk is a component part; an act for the improvement of the State Agricultural Experiment Station; an act making Saturday a half holiday; an act extending the provisions of the mechanics' lien law to money due for labor or materials furnished in the erection of public buildings; an act prohibiting corporations from forcing their employés to contribute to relief funds; an act creating a State Board of Arbitration for the amicable adjustment of grievances and disputes that may arise between employers and employés; acts providing for absolute secrecy in the exercise of the elective franchise; an act providing for a commissioner of mines to inspect all mines in this State and to secure proper safe-guards for the protection of the lives of men employed therein; an act making wages due workmen and laborers a first lien upon the assets of insolvent corporations; an act providing for the incorporation of trades unions and labor organizations, and other acts.

In dealing with the municipal government of the State, the Democratic party has adopted the plan of vesting in the Mayors of large cities the power of appointment of municipal boards and officers, and we submit to the people of the State that this plan of municipal government is entitled to a thorough test in lights other than those afforded by mere political partisanship. Under this system there is a concentration of personal and political responsibility in a single office, the occupant of which is chosen by the votes of the entire city. The plan is in no wise antagonistic to local self-government, but, on the contrary, affords an incentive to citizens to participate in municipal elections. Under it the grievous evil of sectional strife for municipal patronage can be avoided and economy enforced. While the plan is necessarily imperfect, it is subject to amendment and should be given a fair trial and receive impartial judgment before a return is made to a system under which responsibility is distributed and elusive. We denounce all frauds perpetrated upon the elective franchise, and we call the attention of the people to the fact that prosecution and punishment of those crimes have been the work of a Democratic court and prosecutor and Democratic jurors. We ask from fair-minded citizens a comparison of this fact with the action of a Republican Senate, which voted to seat, as Senator from Hudson, a man whom every one knew was not entitled to the office. The action of that Senate was protected by constitutional privilege; but it was none the less a crime.

The necessity for a diversion of the proceeds from the sale of riparian lands from the school fund to funds necessary to pay the expense of rebuilding the State House and other extraordinary expenses having ceased, we favor a repeal of the act allowing such diversion.

REPUBLICAN.

(Adopted at the State Convention held at Trenton, September 13th, 1892.)

The Republicans of New Jersey, through their representatives assembled in convention, re-affirm their adherence and undying devotion to the great principles of the Republican party, to which the nation owes long years of unexampled prosperity in the past, and through which we look for its future greatness and honor.

We approve and endorse the declaration of principles as set forth in the platform adopted by the Republican National Convention at Minneapolis, June 9th, 1892.

We re-affirm our belief in the doctrine of a tariff for the protection of American industry, supplemented by reciprocity, inaugurated by the present administration under the McKinley tariff act, and we are opposed to the pernicious doctrine of free trade, whether presented in its own true name or disguised as tariff reform.

We repudiate the Democratic doctrine as enunciated in the platform of that party, that "the Federal Government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only," and as evidences of wise Republican legislation on this subject, we call attention to the general prosperity of the country, the decreased prices of manufactured goods, the increased value of agricultural products, and the increased earnings of wage workers, as shown by statistics collected and published by Democratic officials, while, at the same time, our commerce, instead of diminishing, as was predicted, has been greater than ever before.

We re-affirm our endorsement of the wise and able administration of President Harrison, whose broad statesmanship in the treatment of every public question, whose apt and patriotic utterances on all occasions, and whose unerring accuracy of judgment and action in every emergency have earned for him the title of the man who never makes a mistake. The glorious past is an earnest of a still more glorious future, and we want no change in national affairs.

We denounce as utterly vicious and contrary to public policy, the passage by the last Democratic Legislature, under the direction of a Democratic Executive, with the coöperation of members of the Democratic State Executive Committee, of a bill to legalize an unconstitutional and pernicious combination of corporations engaged in the production and carrying of coal, as the result of which the prices of this necessary commodity have been increased, and the burdens of consumers have been vastly augmented. We remind the people that this legislation affects not only men of wealth and the great industries of the State, but increases the cost of living to that more numerous class who are compelled to meet the increased burden out of the proceeds of their daily toil.

Resolved, That labor and capital should be allies, not enemies. We favor arbitration and profit sharing as remedies for idleness, want and suffering, and tending to secure peace, plenty and prosperity to our people. We favor reduction in the hours of labor. We favor tenement house and factory inspection in the interest of health and morals.

We favor the passage of an act restoring the proceeds of the sale of riparian lands to the School Fund of the State.

We are opposed to an administration of the State Government for personal uses; to the subserviency of the Legislature and the courts to Executive dictation; to the abolition by the Legislature, under executive orders, of local home government; to the multiplication of public offices and the increase of salaries, for the furtherance of personal and political ends; to the appointment of public officers for a stated consideration to be paid to the party campaign fund; to the indiscriminate and wholesale pardon of convicts in the State Prison; to the unheard-of extravagance of the present State administration in the expenditure of public money; to clothing the Governor with dictatorial powers by acts of a Legislature obsequiously subject to executive control; to the creation of unnecessary boards and commissions for partisan purposes, investing them with arbitrary powers and placing them beyond the control of the people by making their term of office subject to the will of the Governor; to evasions and misconstructions of the constitution by the chief executive to secure political and personal support; to the countenance and support by State officers and party leaders of race-track gambling, with all its attendant evils; to the destruction of the right of suffrage by false registry, ballot-box stuffing and fraudulent count of votes; and to the general maladministration of public affairs which, in these and other matters during the current administration, have brought shame and disgrace upon the State.

We pledge ourselves to the thorough reform of these evils, and we appeal to all patriotic voters in the State to aid us in the re-establishment of a government of which Jersey men need not be ashamed.

Resolved, That we are in favor of the principle of home rule by all peoples everywhere; and especially do we favor the extension of this principle to the local governments in New Jersey.

Resolved, That we indorse the principles set forth in the communication from the colored voters of New Jersey, in convention assembled, in Trenton, on September 12th, 1892, and that Charles N. Robinson, of Camden, be added to the Republican State Committee, as desired by said convention.

BIOGRAPHIES.

GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY.

GEORGE T. WERTS.

Governor Werts was born at Hackettstown, Warren county, N. J., March 24th, 1846. He lived there until his parents moved to Bordentown, in 1849. His father was Peter Werts, who died about eight years ago, and his mother was sister of the late Attorney-General Jacob Vanatta. The Governor attended the Bordentown High School and the State Model School at Trenton, and at the age of seventeen went to Morristown to study law with Mr. Vanatta. He was admitted to the bar at the November term, 1867, and began the practice of law in Morristown. He was Recorder of that town from May, 1883, to May, 1885, and was Mayor from 1886 until his resignation in February, 1892. He was Senator from Morris county from 1886, and until he resigned in February, 1892, to accept the office of Justice of the Supreme Court, to which he was appointed by Governor Abbett, and his nomination was at once confirmed by a unanimous vote of the Senate. He took the place of the late Justice Knapp, of the Hudson county circuit.

During the legislative session of 1889, Governor Werts served as President of the Senate, when he discharged the duties of that office with marked ability and impartiality. While a member of the Senate, he drafted the Liquor and the Ballot Reform laws. He always took a prominent part in legislation, and during several sessions he was the leader of his party on the floor of the Senate.

He was elected Governor in 1892 by a plurality of 7,625 votes over John Kean, Jr. He occupied his seat on the bench during the whole of the campaign, and personally took no part in it beyond writing his letter of acceptance of the nomination, which had been unanimously tendered to him by the Democratic State Convention.

Werts, Dem., 167,257; Kean, Jr., Rep., 159,632; Kennedy, Pro., 7,750; Keim, Socialist-Labor, 1,338; Bird, People's, 894; Werts' plurality, 7,625.

UNITED STATES SENATORS.

JOHN RHODERIC MCPHERSON.

Senator McPherson was born at York, Livingston county, New York, on the ninth of May, 1833. He received a common-school and academic education. Leaving the academy when eighteen years old, he engaged in farming and stock raising, in which, by dint of hard work, he was moderately successful, until he became a resident of Jersey City, in 1858. Here he entered largely into the lives-tock trade, and very soon became one of the most prominent dealers. He invented, perfected and put into practice new and hitherto unknown devices and principles in the treatment of animal matter. He designed and put in operation in this country the great abattoir system in use in France, improving that system in many material ways. Senator McPherson was a member of the Board of Aldermen of Jersey City from 1864 to 1870, and for more than three years of that time he was President of the Board. He established in that city the People's Gas Light Company, and was elected its President. He was also President of several savings banks. In 1871 he was elected to the New Jersey Senate by an unusually large majority, and served for three years with great credit to his county and State. In 1876 he was a Presidential elector, when the State went for Tilden by a very large majority. In 1877 he was elected a United States Senator to succeed Hon. F. T. Frelinghuysen.

While a member of the State Senate, Mr. McPherson was noted for his readiness in debate, and his cogency and terseness of style. His record in the United States Senate on the leading questions of finance and the tariff is in perfect accord with the great majority of the people of his State—Republicans as well as Democrats.

He was elected to a second term as United States Senator by the Legislature of 1883, and to a third term by the Legislature of 1889. In 1884 he was a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, at Chicago, and supported Thomas F. Bayard for the Presidency, but when Cleveland was nominated he gave him his hearty support. He was also a delegate to the National Democratic Conventions held at St. Louis, in 1888, and at Chicago, in 1892, when he supported Cleveland for the nomination each time. His term as United States Senator will expire on March 3d, 1895.

JAMES SMITH, JR.

Senator Smith was born in 1851, at Newark, N. J., and was educated at private schools in his native city up to the time he went to college at Wilmington, Del. After graduating he located in New York in the dry goods business, his father having been in this line for many years in the same city. He did not like the business, however, and soon returned to Newark, where he engaged in the manufacturing of patent and enameled leather. He is now the sole owner of one of the largest concerns in that line of business in the country, and the product of his factories is shipped to all parts of this country and Europe. The concern is known and business is conducted under the firm name of J. H. Halsey & Smith. They have earned the reputation of manufacturing the finest carriage leathers in the world. Mr. Smith's first political office was that of Councilman of the city of Newark, having been elected in 1883, when the Council was a tie. While the ward he ran in was Republican, he was elected by more majority than the Republican candidate received votes. He at once became a leader, and in the following fall he was unanimously nominated for Mayor, notwithstanding that he wrote a letter to the convention that he would not accept. He stood by that letter, and declined the nomination, whereupon the convention was reconvened and Mayor Haynes was nominated.

Mr. Smith was President of the Board of Public Works of the city of Newark from the time of its creation and until a short period after he was elected United States Senator, when he resigned. Previous to his connection with that Board he had declined several offices which had been tendered to him by his party. He was nominated for United States Senator, to succeed Mr. Blodgett, in 1893, by a unanimous vote of the caucus, and he received every Democratic vote in each house on Tuesday, January 24th, when the election was held, the Republicans voting for General William J. Sewell. The vote stood—Senate: Smith, 16; Sewell, 5; House: Smith, 39; Sewell, 21.

Senator Smith's rise in politics has been rapid and remarkable. In a period of ten years he has been advanced from the office of Alderman to that of United States Senator. He has always been a zealous and an active Democrat, and during recent years he has been recognized as a prominent leader of his party. His term as United States Senator will expire on March 3d, 1899.

HENRY C. LOUDENSLAGER.

(Rep., Woodbury.)

Mr. Loudenslager was born in Mauricetown, Cumberland county, N. J., May 22d, 1852. His parents moved to Paulsboro, Gloucester county, in March, 1856, where he has continuously resided ever since. His education was obtained in the common schools. After leaving the farm of his father, he entered the produce commission business in Philadelphia, and continued in it for ten years, from 1872 to 1882. During this time his father was the County Clerk of Gloucester, and except when engaged in the market during produce season, the son was employed in the office. He was elected to the office in 1882, and was re-elected in 1887. At both of his elections he ran far ahead of his ticket, his plurality the last time being 946. Mr. Loudenslager is well known all over the State from his secret society connection. He is at present the Great Keeper of Wampum, Improved O. R. M., of this State. He is a member of Florence Lodge, No. 87, F. and A. M., and is a 32-degree Mason.

Mr. Gardner was born October 17th, 1845, in Atlantic county, N. J., and since 1856 has resided in Atlantic City, except during his term of service in the army during the late war. He is in the real estate and insurance business. He was elected Mayor of Atlantic City

In the session of 1883 he was President of the Senate, when he discharged the duties of the position with much ability and impartiality. He always took a prominent part in legislation, and during many years was the leader of his party in the Senate. He is noted for his readiness in debate, repartee and quick and forcible expression of ideas. He was a Delegate-at-Large to the National Republican Convention at Chicago in 1884. JACOB AUGUSTUS GEISSENHAINER.

(Dem., Freehold.)

Mr. Geissenhainer was born in the city of New York in 1840. His father and his grandfather were both clergymen of the Lutheran church of that city. He was graduated at Columbia College, and afterwards studied law at Yale and at the New York University. He commenced the practice of law in New York city in 1863, which he still continues, giving his attention especially to conveyancing, and has built up a large business, to which he devotes most of his time and attention.

He came to Freehold with his family in 1875, to spend the summer, and being pleased with the town, leased for a term of years the handsome property on South street, where he now resides, and upon which he has made some substantial and permanent improvements.

While Mr. Geissenhainer has always been a pronounced Democrat, and has not hesitated to express his views upon public questions at all proper times and on all suitable occasions, he has never been identified with any clique or faction of the party. This is his third term.

1892—Geissenhainer, Dem., 20,407; Hoffman, Rep., 17,080; Marshall, Pro., 992. Geissenhainer's plurality, 3,327.

JOHNSTON CORNISH.

(Dem, Washington.)

Mr. Cornish was born at Bethlehem, Hunterdon county, N. J., in 1857, and is a manufacturer of pianos and organs. He was Mayor of Washington in 1884, '85, '86. He was elected Senator for Warren county in 1890, and served as such for nearly a full term, when he resigned to qualify himself as a member of Congress. He defeated the late ex-Congressman Benjamin F. Howey, one of the strongest Republicans in the district, after an exciting campaign, by a plurality of 1,039.

1892—Cornish, Dem., 21,765; Howey, Rep., 20,726; Johnston, Pro., 2,307; Potter, People's, 595. Cornish's plurality, 1,039.

CORNELIUS A. CADMUS.

(Dem., Paterson.)

Mr. Cadmus was born in Saddle River township, Bergen county, N. J., October 7th, 1844, and, after a common school education, entered into mercantile business in New York City, where for a number of years he was a prominent produce merchant. He took up his residence in Paterson when young, and has always been identified with the progress of the city. He is now engaged in the grain and produce business. In 1883 he was induced to accept the Democratic nomination for Assembly in the Third District of Passaic county, a district which had always given a large Republican majority. Such was his popularity that he easily overcame the Republican majority and defeated a popular antagonist. After serving one term in the Assembly, he declined a renomination, which had been unanimously tendered him. In 1887 he was again induced to enter the political field, and accepted the Democratic nomination for sheriff of Passaic county. The county had elected a Republican sheriff three years before by over two thousand majority, and had since that time given large majorities against the Democrats. On the part of any other person the acceptance of the nomination would have been foolhardy, especially as the Republicans were almost unanimous in the selection of their candidate. But Mr. Cadmus not only overcame the odds against him, but was elected by a majority of 1,885. Again he entered the field as a candidate for Congress in 1890, and was elected by a majority of 1,356 over a strong competitor in a district which two years before had returned a Republican by a plurality of 1,072.

In 1892 he was re-elected to Congress over Henry Doherty, Republican, of Paterson, by a plurality of 1,462.

1892—Cadmus, Dem., 20,693; Doherty, Rep., 19,231; Warner, Pro., 464; Richter, Socialist-Labor, 428. Cadmus' plurality, 1,462.

THOMAS DUNN ENGLISH.

(Dem., Newark.)

Dr. English was born in Philadelphia, June 29th, 1819. The Englishes are an old New Jersey family, of Norman-Irish origin, which first settled on the banks of the Delaware, in Burlington county, over two centuries since. The mother of Dr. English was born in Ireland, and was the daughter of Joseph Kempstone and Alice (née) M'Millen. Dr. English began journalism at an early age, studied medicine, and received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in 1839. In 1842 he was called to the Philadelphia bar. He has practiced both professions, but of late years has depended mainly on authorship. On the 4th of July, 1876, William and Mary College, Virginia, conferred on him the degree of Doctor of Laws. He served two terms, 1863-4, as member of the House of Assembly of New Jersey.

This is his second term in Congress. In 1892, he was re-elected to Congress over Richard Wayne Parker, Republican, of Newark, by a plurality of 1,367.

GEORGE BRAGG FIELDER.

(Dem., Jersey City.)

Mr. Fielder was born in Jersey City, July 24th, 1842, and is the son of the late James Fielder, who was one of the most prominent citizens of Hudson county.

He attended school in Jersey City and afterwards went to Sellick's Institute at Norwalk, Conn., from which he graduated in 1859. He then came to New York and entered the New York National Bank, where he soon rose to the position of teller. He was afterward employed in the Irving Bank of the same city as receiving teller.

Mr. Fielder, who was then scarcely twenty years old, enlisted in the Twenty-first New Jersey Volunteers during the late war, and fought in all the battles his regiment was engaged in up to May 4th, 1863, and by that time he had risen to the position of Sergeant-Major.

He fought in the battle of Mary's Heights which was part of the Chancellorville fight, when his regiment was in the thickest of the carnage, and during a brilliant charge both he and Colonel Van Houten, the commander of the regiment, were severely wounded. They were captured by the Confederates and taken to an old barn, where Colonel Van Houten died from his wounds the next day, and was tenderly buried by Sergeant Fielder. For months Mr. Fielder languished in the rebel prison, and then he was exchanged on general orders from the War Department. He was so ill and emaciated by his confinement that he was obliged to return home.

For his conduct in that fight Joel Parker, then Governor of New Jersey, commissioned him a lieutenant of his regiment, and he was assigned to special service. He served as assistant chief mustering officer of New Jersey until the close of the war, when he was honorably discharged in 1864. He then returned to civil life, when he engaged in the contracting and building business with his father. In 1876 he was made clerk of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Hudson county, which position he held for nine years, when he was elected Register of the county. He was elected for a second term, which he is now serving.

Mr. Fielder is a prominent Grand Army man, and was commander of the New Jersey Department, and at the same time the late Congressman Edward F. McDonald was his chief of staff. He was captain of Company D, Fourth Regiment, for seven years. He is a member of Court Little John, the mother Court of Foresters of Hudson county, and is a member of Bergen Lodge, F. and A. M. He is secretary of the Sixth Army Corps Association, and a member of the Loyal Legion, an organization which is composed of honorably-discharged officers of the Union Army of the Rebellion.

He was nominated for Congress on the Saturday before election day, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Edward F. McDonald. Despite the very short time between his nomination and the day of election, he was elected by a plurality of 2,831 votes over Frank O. Cole, of Jersey City.

1892—Fielder, Dem., 22,416; Cole, Rep., 19,585; McDonald, Dem. (who was deceased), 2,368; Carman, Pro., 171; Zoller, People's, 100; Barthelmes, Soc.-Labor, 251. Fielder's plurality, 2,831.

JOHN T. DUNN.

(Dem., Elizabeth.)

Mr. Dunn was born in Tipperary, Ireland, in 1838, and is a lawyer by profession. He came to New Jersey in 1845, at the age of seven years. He worked on a farm for a short time, and at the age of eleven he shipped at Atlantic City as a cabin boy on a trading vessel to the West Indies. Two years later he returned and went to Gloucester City, where he was employed as a bobbin boy in a factory. Next he went to learn iron moulding, and then again the trade of brass turning and silver burnishing at Frankford, Pa. Afterwards he learned the trade of house-painting, which he followed for a number of years.

Early in life Mr. Dunn took a liking to politics, and during the Douglass campaign he spoke at Norwich, Conn., on the same platform with the "Little Giant." He was elected an Alderman of Elizabeth in 1878, and again three years ago. He was a member of the House of Assembly from Union county, in 1879, '80, '81 and '82, and was Speaker of that body during the latter year. In 1892 he was elected to Congress over Winfield S. Chamberlain, Republican, of Bayonne, by a plurality of 993.

SAMUEL D. HOFFMAN.

(Rep., Atlantic City.)

Senator Hoffman was born in Auburn, Salem county February 27th, 1850, and is an attorney and counselor at law. He was educated in the public schools of his native county, under John S. Locke, a noble educator and valiant soldier, and later on graduated from the New Jersey State Normal School. He is a strong champion of public schools, having taught in Salem and Atlantic counties, serving several years as County Examiner under Superintendents Rev. George B. Wight and S. R. Morse. He was Clerk of the Board of Freeholders for three years, and has been several times chairman of the Republican County Convention. In November, 1884, he was elected Alderman of Atlantic City, and served as chairman of the Finance Committee. In 1885 he was elected City Superintendent of Public Schools and retired from that position to take the mayoralty nomination in November, 1886, when he defeated Aikin, Democrat, by a decisive majority. He was re-elected in 1888 and in 1890, and so satisfactory was his conduct of the office that after receiving the Republican nomination he was endorsed by the Democrats. Mr. Hoffman, besides discharging his professional and official duties, finds time and pleasure in doing considerable newspaper work and is the President of the Atlantic City Journalist Club.

In 1892 he was a member of the House of Assembly. The Senator was a Delegate to the National Democratic Convention at Cincinnati in 1880, and cast his vote for Hancock. He was appointed by Governor Abbett, during his first term of office, as one of the managers of the State Insane Asylum at Morris Plains. The Miller ancestral home is near Town Bank, a whaling colony contemporaneous with the earliest settlements at Salem and Burlington. In 1869 Senator Miller's father died and left him to aid in the support of his wid-

Instead of leaving Cape May, Senator Miller remained on the peninsula and established himself as a general contractor. Never desirous of political preferment, he has held only one office, that of Chosen Councilman of Cape May City, to which he was elected in 1886, and served three years. His early training was at the Newark Wesleyan Institute, and later at the Flushing Institute, Long Island. Since leaving Princeton the Senator has been engaged in the manufacture of tin wares and sheet metal goods, employing many hundreds of persons. The firm of E. Ketcham & Co., with which he was connected from 1859 to 1885, was merged into a new corporation, one of whose factories is in Newark. The Senator is a director as well as secretary and treasurer of the Central Stamping Company. During the years 1884-5 he represented the Eleventh ward in the Newark Board of Education; in 1886 he was elected to the Common Council, and for four years he was an active member of that body. Besides being chairman of important committees and a member of the Committee on Finance, he took a leading interest in municipal questions, notably those of a new water supply and rapid transit. He is also a director of the American Insurance Company of Newark, the largest company of its kind in the State of New Jersey. He was a member of the House of Assembly from Essex county in 1891-92. The Senator was the author of the Saturday half-holiday law which was passed in 1891.

WILLIAM D. DALY.

(Dem., Hoboken.)

Senator Daly was born in Jersey City in 1851, and has resided in Hudson county all his life. He was educated in Public School No. 1, Jersey City, and at the age of fourteen left school and entered the iron foundry of Uzal Cory, at the foot of Greene street, Jersey City, as an apprentice at iron moulding, and at the age of seventeen he was a journeyman iron moulder. He continued at his trade until the age of nineteen, working in the meantime in the Erie foundry and at Blackmore's foundry, on Railroad avenue. Mr. Daly, while engaged at his trade, was always ambitious to become a lawyer, and at the time of the great strike on the Erie railroad, in 1870, was working in the Erie foundry and went out with the other moulders. Being then out of employment, he entered the law office of S. B. Ransom and ex-Judge Blair, in Jersey City, as a student of law. In May, 1871, and in June, 1874, he was admitted to the bar respectively as attorney and counselor. Since that time he has practiced law in all the courts of this State. He has probably been engaged in and has tried as many capital cases on the part of the defense as any lawyer in the State. Among the noted criminal cases in which he has been engaged was that of George Disque, for the killing of his wife. He also defended young Schlemmer, who, in a fit of jealous passion, in August, 1887, shot his wife and was sentenced to be executed. Mr. Daly carried this case to the highest courts, obtained a new trial and saved his client's life.

The Senator was the defender of Morris O'Brien for the killing of his brother; Murphy, for the Henderson street bridge murder; Harney, for the killing of Ford; the Goodwin brothers, for the alleged killing of their father; Murphy, for the killing of Denning, and Cuniff, for the alleged killing of his wife by setting her on fire with a lamp. He was also counsel for the arrested freight handlers in the great Erie strike in 1878, none of whom were convicted, and also for the Cigar Makers' Union in their strike in Jersey City six years ago, and upon their trial they were acquitted.

The Senator served as Assistant United States District Attorney for three years, having been appointed under the first Cleveland administration. He was an alternate delegate to the St. Louis Democratic National Convention in 1888. He has been counsel for the Hudson County Liquor Dealers' Association for several years, and he represented the Eighth District of Hudson county in the House of Assembly in 1891, when he was the leader of his party on the floor. He served as District Court Judge of Hoboken from 1891 and until he was sworn in as State Senator.

He was elected Senator after an exciting campaign by a plurality of 5,645, over J. Herbert Potts, a Republican of great strength and popularity.

Last year he served as Chairman of the Committee on Municipal Corporations, Elections, Unfinished Business and Sinking Fund, and as a member of the Committee on Public Grounds and Buildings.

When the subject of this sketch was very young his father died, leaving a wife and four children. Mr. Coyle being the eldest and only son, he had the care and responsibility of the family on his hands, which he assumed and most manfully carried out by hard work, industry and honesty. For fourteen years Mr. Coyle was an active member of the old Volunteer Fire Department, and for two years was foreman of Empire Hook and Ladder Company, No. 2, of Hoboken. His first political experience was in 1877, when he was elected a delegate to the Democratic State Convention and worked hard to secure the nomination of Leon Abbett for Governor.

In the spring of 1883 Mr. Coyle's activity in politics was mainly instrumental in making the city government of Hoboken Democratic, which it has continued ever since. He then became a Police Commissioner, a position he has held ever since through frequent re-appointments. His present term will not expire until 1895. In February, 1890, Mr. Coyle was appointed to fill a vacancy in the Board of Freeholders, caused by the death of James Kenney, and at the next fall election he was chosen for a regular term as the representative of the Ninth Assembly District. This is his third term in the Assembly. Last year he was Chairman of the Committee on Commerce and Navigation and a member of the Committees on Elections, Railroads and Canals and School for Deaf-Mutes.

Mr. Usher's home from the day of his birth has been in the district he now represents. Educated in the public schools of his native place, he early began to study for the legal profession, but did not finish his studies owing to his appointment as trustee of an estate in New York city. In addition to managing this trust, he conducts a real estate business in connection with loans, having offices at No. 9 Murray street, New York. Mr. Usher was elected to the Assembly by a plurality of 850. His opponents were Mr. G. W. Christie, the regular Republican nominee, whose name appeared also on an Independent ticket; Mr. Mann, the Socialistic-Labor candidate, and Mr. Fred. Lampe, the candidate of the Independent Citizens' convention.

In the opinion of experienced observers Mr. Usher's election by such a large majority was one of the remarkable incidents in a campaign in which so many of the candidates of his party were defeated. Mr. Usher is not a politician and has never previously held office. He has always been a consistent Democrat and is known to be scrupulously attentive to his political duties, holding that every one should be conscientious in this regard as a duty to the country and to the people.

He is the youngest son of Dr. Lloyd Wilbur, a well known and highly respected physician of Hightstown, who has served the county of Mercer most acceptably for a number of years past as County Superintendent of Schools. He is the brother of Dr. G. F. Wilbur, a leading physician of Asbury Park. While very young Dr. Wilbur attended the public school at Hightstown and afterwards was a member of the select class taught by Prof. Henry M. Worrell. His first knowledge of the classics was derived from his father, who was his teacher for some years. He entered the Peddie Institute in 1879, and was graduated from that institution in 1881. He was graduated from Princeton College in 1885 and from the Medical Department of the University of Pennsylvania in 1888, in which year he also received the degree of Master of Arts from Princeton. Both at Peddie Institute and at Princeton he distinguished himself in oratory, winning several prizes for excellence in this department. While at Princeton he was an enthusiastic member of Clio Hall, and took an active part in the debates and contests of that society. While at the University of Pennsylvania, he took a leading part in the production of the Greek play "The Acharnians," which was produced by the University students with signal success in Philadelphia, and afterwards at the Academy of Music in New York. Both at Princeton and the University of Pennsylvania the doctor graduated among the first in his class. Doctor Wilbur has been, all his life, an enthusiastic Republican and a worker in the ranks of the party. He comes of Republican ancestry, his grandfather having been a Republican voter and worker ever since the organization of the party. The old gentleman is still living and voted at the last election, though over ninety-one years of age. The doctor has been in the active practice of his profession with his father, at Hightstown, since his graduation, and has served a term as township physician, and is the present medical director of the Board of Health of the borough of Hightstown. JOHN CLEMENT, Haddonfield.

Judge Clement was born in Haddonfield, Camden county, November 8th, 1818, where he has ever since resided. The son of one of the most distinguished citizens of West Jersey, John Clement, Sr., Judge Clement has ever sustained the high reputation of his father. By profession Judge Clement, as was the elder, is a practical surveyor and conveyancer, and his thorough acquaintance with colonial land titles in the Jerseys has given him much more than a State reputation. Upon the first of May, 1851, the subject of this sketch was elected a member of the Council of Proprietors of West New Jersey, and in 1885 was elected president of that ancient body. In January, 1854, he was appointed Judge of the several courts of Camden county, and was re-appointed in 1860. In 1864 Judge Clement was selected by Governor Parker as Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals, and has been since re-appointed by Governors Randolph, Bedle, Ludlow and Green. In 1877 Judge Clement was selected as one of the Commissioners to examine into the prison system of New Jersey, and in 1879 was chosen as a member of a commission to prepare a system of general laws for the government of municipalities. In 1885 he settled a disputed boundary line between Burlington and Atlantic (old Gloucester) counties. As a historian and in the field of literature Judge Clement is an unquestioned authority. Among a few of his notable contributions have been articles in the proceedings of the Surveyors' Association of West New Jersey, his valuable "First Settlers in Newton Township, N. J.," contributions to the "History of Camden County," "The Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography," "Proceedings of the New Jersey Historical Society," of which organization he is president, and to the local press of South Jersey. Taking a hearty interest in antiquarian research, and yet a man distinctively in sympathy with modern life, he enjoys the reputation of being one of the most popular of prominent West Jersey men.

Judge Brown was born at Browntown, Middlesex county, upon the 23d day of June, 1833, where he now resides and where he has, since boyhood, followed the occupation of farming. His ancestors were John and Susannah Brown, and in the family Bible, under date of January 24th, 1737, appears a sketch of their nine sons and three daughters. One of this large family was Peter Brown, a great-great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch. The grandfather of Judge Brown was Whitehead Brown, who had one son, Abram W. Brown, who, like his ancestors, was a large plantation owner. Abram Brown was an active Democrat and held the office of Freeholder and Sheriff, and in 1843-1844 represented his party in the New Jersey Senate.

Judge Brown was educated at Matawan Institute. He early entered into the political arena—after the death of his father, in 1854—and became a pronounced Democrat. After serving as Freeholder, he was for ten years Law Judge of Middlesex county. In 1884 Governor Abbett appointed him one of the Judges of the Court of Errors and Appeals and he was re-appointed in 1890.

Pennsylvania before attaining his majority. In 1856 the Trustees of Lafayette College conferred on him the honorary degree of A. M. Whilst a student at college he received an appointment as a cadet at West Point on the recommendation of the Hon. Richard Brodhead, the then Senator from Pennsylvania. Being the only son, his father and mother interposed and he declined the appointment. After receiving the degree of M.D. he spent one year as one of the resident physicians in the Long Island Hospital, in Brooklyn, N. Y. In 1853 he located at Durham, Bucks county, Pa., and in 1854 was elected as a member of the Board of Control, and acted as its president for six years. In 1862 he moved to Manch Chunk, and in 1866 until 1869 was U. S. Pension Examining Surgeon. In 1872 his father died, and having left him executor of his estate he removed to New Jersey. In the organization of the Bloomsbury National Bank in 1875 he was one of its prime movers, and was elected its teller and book-keeper, which position he held until 1880 when, on account of close confinement and impairment of health, he resigned. In 1889 he was appointed by Governor Robert S. Green Lay Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals. Laible, Newark, and when that firm dissolved Mr. Laible built a new brewery for himself, and made Mr. Krueger foreman, a position he filled until 1865. He then formed a copartnership with Gottlieb Hill, and they purchased the old brewery in which Mr. Krueger had served his time, and also adjoining property. The business rapidly increased, and several additions were from time to time made to their brewery. In 1875 Mr. Hill, owing to ill health, was forced to retire from business, and Mr. Krueger became the sole proprietor. The brewery is now one of the most extensive in the State. The Judge served as a member of Assembly in 1877 and 1880. In 1872 he served as a member of the Essex County Board of Freeholders. WILLIAM WALTER PHELPS, Englewood.

Judge Phelps, only son of John J. He was graduated from Yale, holding high honors, in 1860, and was valedictorian of the Class of '63, in Columbia Law School. Ere thirty years of age he became counsel for the Rock Island and D., L. and W. Railroads, the United States Trust Company, City Bank and other influential corporations, and was at once offered a Judgeship in New York State, which he refused. In 1869, upon the death of his father, Judge Phelps established himself in New Jersey, at a charming home in Teaneck, Bergen county, and in 1872 he was elected a member of the House of Representatives from the Fifth District of New Jersey. In Washington, he soon became a Republican leader and he sprang into more than national prominence, not only as a debater, but as an honest and an independent statesman—worthy of the old school of Congressmen. He was sent as one of a committee to investigate the "White League," in Louisiana, and the Legislature of that State was organized according to the committee's report. His opposition to the "Civil Rights" bill cost him a re-election, but his independence of a party caucus had its reward in 1881, when President Garfield sent Judge Phelps as Minister to Austria, where, in Vienna, his thorough knowledge of European life and conditions made him a telling factor in diplomatic circles. Prior to his acceptance of the Austrian mission he had been a warm supporter of James G. Blaine, for President, in the conventions of 1876 and 1880. Upon his return to America, Judge Phelps was re-elected to the 48th, 49th and 50th Congresses, where he served with the highest credit to himself and his constituency. President Harrison selected Judge Phelps as Minister to the Court of Berlin, where he enjoyed the friendship of the Emperor of Germany and Prince Bismarck, and numbered among his friends the diplomats of all Europe.

In literary life, Judge Phelps has been for twenty years a Trustee of Yale University, a Regent of the Smithsonian Institute, Vice-President of the Yale Alumni Association, President of the Columbia Law School Alumni and a founder of the Union League and University Clubs of New York city. In 1893 Governor Werts appointed Mr. Phelps as a Judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals for a term of six years. It will expire in 1899.

He was promoted Major, January 20th, 1881; Lieutenant-Colonel, May 31st, 1882, and Colonel, September 7th, 1882. He was appointed Quartermaster-General by Governor Green, January 13th, 1890, which appointment was sent to the Senate by Governor Abbett, and unanimously confirmed by that body, March 5th, 1890.

General Donnelly was selected by Governor Ludlow as the Major of the provisional battalion which distinguished itself at Yorktown, at the centennial celebration in 1881, and was proffered by Governor Green the command of the veteran camp at Gettysburg, during the ceremonies of the unveiling of the monuments, in 1888, to the New Jersey heroes of the battle of Gettysburg, which he was obliged to decline in consequence of other engagements. He was chairman of the Board of Commissioners to select grounds and erect buildings for the new Soldiers' Home at Kearny, which was completed a few years ago. He was appointed a Trustee of the New Jersey State Reform School at Jamesburg, by Governor Abbett, in 1885. He was re-appointed by the Joint Meeting of the Legislature, in 1888. He is one of the Managers of the Home for Disabled Soldiers, having been appointed by Governor Green, on the recommendation of the Chief Justice, to fill a vacancy caused by the death of Hon. Rynear H. Veghte. In addition to the management of a large mercantile business, General Donnelly is interested in several stock companies and land associations as a director, notwithstanding which, he gives time to many beneficial and social societies to which he is attached, and indulges in a fair amount of healthful outdoor recreations, which receive his encouragement. Taking the statement of the press throughout, the appointment of General Donnelly as Quartermaster-general gave much satisfaction, especially to the National Guard and the Grand Army of the Republic, of which latter organization he is also an active member, being a Past Commander of Aaron Wilkes Post, No. 23. In 1892 he was chosen Commander of the G. A. R., Department of New Jersey.

The office of Quartermaster-General carries with it the responsible position of Commissary-General, Paymaster-General and Chief of Ordnance. Salary, $1,200.

General Donnelly is a Democrat in politics. He was twice elected to the House of Assembly, and has served two terms as Mayor of the city of Trenton.

Clerk of the Supreme Court.

BENJAMIN F. LEE, Trenton.

Mr. Lee was born in Port Elizabeth, Cumberland county, N. J., in 1828. His father, Hon. Thomas Lee, was a prominent public man, having served several terms in Congress and the State Legislature, and been a successful merchant in Port Elizabeth, where he died in 1856. The Hon. Thomas Lee was a brother of Colonel Francis Lee, of the Regular Army, and a graduate of West Point, who distinguished himself in the Mexican war, and the father of Dr. Thomas Lee, a surgeon in the Regular Army, who died in 1838 from disease contracted in the Florida war. This branch of the Lee family are descendants of the Lees and Alexanders (Scotch and Irish) who emigrated to this country prior to the Revolution.

The subject of this sketch finished a thorough English education under the tutorship of John Gummere, at Burlington, in 1845, and immediately entered his father's store, at Port Elizabeth, as partner. In time he succeeded the firm of Thomas and Benjamin F. Lee, and finally, in 1860, retired from the business altogether. In 1863 he was elected Treasurer of the Cape May and Millville Railroad Company, and in 1866 Treasurer of the West Jersey Marl and Transportation Company, which position he resigned upon entering on the duties of Clerk of the Supreme Court. He was for several years a Director of the State Agricultural Society of New Jersey.

Like his father, he was always an earnest and active supporter of the Democratic doctrine, and took an active part in politics. In 1856 he was a Presidential Elector, and had served a term on the State Central Committee. In 1858 his friends of the First District presented his name in convention for nomination for Congress, and he received thirty-nine of the forty-one votes necessary to a choice. He was afterwards nominated for the Legislature from this district, which was largely Republican, and after an exciting contest, was defeated by only three votes. In 1870 Mr. Lee was nominated for Congress in the First District. The district usually gave 3,700 Republican majority, and that year about 1,500 colored voters were added, making nearly 6,000 to overcome, but he was defeated by only 1,800 votes. This was the first inroad made upon the large Republican majority in the district. In the Gubernatorial Convention that nominated Hon. Joel Parker, in 1871, Mr. Lee received 118 votes as a candidate for Governor—the entire strength of his district. In 1872 he was appointed, by Governor Parker, Clerk of the Supreme Court, which appointment was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. In 1877 he was re-appointed by Governor Bedle, and his appointment had the singular and unusual compliment of a confirmation by the Senate without the customary reference to a committee; and again in 1882, he was similarly honored by Governor Ludlow and the Senate, thus giving him a third term. And again in 1887, he was re-appointed by Governor Green and unanimously confirmed by the Senate, and in 1892 by Governor Abbett, and the Senate paid him a similar compliment. He is at present Treasurer of the Democratic State Committee. His present term expires November 2d, 1897.

Clerk in Chancery.

ALLAN LANGDON McDERMOTT, Jersey City.

Mr. McDermott was born in South Boston, Mass., March 30th, 1854, and has lived in New Jersey since 1856. He served his apprenticeship as a "typo," leaving his trade in 1871 to enter the law office of Hon. Leon Abbett. In 1872 he concluded to "see the country," and for two years traveled through the West and South as a newspaper correspondent. Returning in 1874, he resumed his legal studies with Hon. A. B. Dayton; graduated from the Law School of the New York University in May, and was admitted to the bar of that State in June, 1877; as an attorney in New Jersey in November of the same year, and as counselor three years later. In April, 1879, Mr. McDermott was appointed Corporation Attorney of Jersey City, which position he resigned in 1883, having been appointed District Court Judge by Governor Ludlow. In 1884 Governor Abbett appointed him a member of the State Board of Assessors, and in 1886 to his present office, Clerk in Chancery. In 1891 he was re-appointed by Governor Abbett, and unanimously confirmed by the Senate. In 1883 Mayor Taussig appointed Mr. McDermott a member of the Board of Finance and Taxation of Jersey City, and he acted as President of that body for nearly two years. The reforms inaugurated under his recommendations while in this position won for him the high esteem of the people of Jersey City. Upon his retirement from the board, in 1885, the Jersey City Argus paid Mr. McDermott the following compliment: "The withdrawal of Allan L. McDermott from the management of our municipal finances is a public calamity. His clear head, his honesty of purpose and untiring energy have rendered him of inestimable value to our city. He was conspicuously the right man in the right place. By his efforts, mainly, the assessments upon corporate property have been re-adjusted as to yield annually an increased revenue of $217,000 to Jersey City. This service alone would be sufficient to merit for him the gratitude of the community. But he has done much more. He has introduced and enforced rigid principles of economy in our local expenditures, and has, with the aid of his colleagues, established an admirable financial system which has placed our credit above cavil or suspicion. In his retirement from this station, which he has so much honored, he will carry with him the respect and esteem of the people, who, so far as he is concerned, will accord to him the approbation due to the good and faithful servant who has done well."

Mr. McDermott was elected from the Fourth District of Hudson county to the Assembly in 1879 and 1880, and in 1881 was the Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House. He was Temporary Chairman of the State Convention which nominated Governor Abbett, and Permanent Chairman of the Convention which nominated Governor Green. He is now Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. To his services in that capacity is due, in no small measure, the extraordinary majority given for Governor Green in Hudson county; for Grover Cleveland, for President, in 1888 and 1892; for Governor Abbett, in 1889, and for Governor Werts, in 1892, and, also, for the marvelous success of his party in the legislative campaigns of 1890, 1891 and 1892. His term expires March 29th, 1896.

Superintendent of Public Instruction.

ADDISON B. POLAND, Jersey City.

Dr. Poland was originally a New England man. He was born at Winchendon, Worcester county, Massachusetts, March 26th, 1851. His boyhood was divided between the farm and the "district school" where his studies began. After leaving the village High School of his native place he was prepared for college at the Wilbraham Academy, and was admitted to Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Connecticut, at the early age of 17. After leaving college he was made principal of the Ashburnham, Massachusetts, High School. From the above place he was called to the principalship of the Salisbury, Massachusetts, High School. He resigned the latter position to take up the study of the law with the Hon. George F. Verry, Mayor of Worcester, Massachusetts, but the following year a tempting offer caused him to return to teaching and take the principalship of the Day Street Grammar School of Fitchburg, Massachusetts. From this position he was soon promoted to the principalship of the High School at Ilion, New York, whence he was appointed to the principalship of the Jersey City High School. After holding this position for nearly three years with the same marked ability and success, he was appointed to the Superintendency of the Jersey City public schools in 1887.

In the latter position he showed a force and tact which, combined with his large educational experience and study, enabled him to carry forward the work of that city in a manner that won the highest compliments of the Board of Education and the people. The degree of M. A. was conferred upon him by Wesleyan University in 1876, and that of Ph. D. by the University of the City of New York in 1890. He is at present an associate editor of the "Educational Review," the leading school publication of America. He has always taken a great interest in the educational work of the State. He is an active member of the New Jersey Council of Education, and was unanimously elected President of the State Teachers' Association for the year 1892. He enjoys the confidence of educational men throughout the country, and his appointment to and acceptance of his present office were asked for by nearly every prominent educational man in the State, he himself not seeking the position. His term will expire on March 1st, 1895.

State Prison Keeper.

JOHN H. PATTERSON, Trenton.

Mr. Patterson was born in the township of Middletown, Monmouth county, N. J., March 12th, 1834, on the farm that had been owned and occupied by his ancestors almost from the first settlement of the country. His grandfather was surveyor and one of the commissioners that located the Delaware and Raritan canal, was a member of the Assembly and Council (now Senate), and was one of the Judges of the Monmouth County Court for thirty-two years. His father, James Patterson, was an active business man. He was Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Monmouth county for seventeen years, was a member of the Assembly and Council, and President of the Council during the administration of Governor Pennington. Four of the Prison Keeper's brothers were graduates of college, one from Princeton, one from Madison University, of New York, and two from Columbia. The old people, in former years, did not consider it necessary for their children to have a collegiate education, except to enter a profession, as they termed it, and they believed a common school education was all that was necessary for a farmer. Consequently, John H. was sent to a district school until he was thirteen years of age, when he went to work on the farm. In the summer he learned all kinds of farm work, and attended school in the winter. Before he was twenty years of age he caught the gold fever, then raging in California, and, much against the wishes of his people, he determined to migrate, and left New York in April, 1853, on the old ship "Illinois," commanded by Capt. Herndon, for San Francisco, and arrived there about May 1st. He started at once for Northern California, and, arriving in Shasta, engaged in mining and shipping goods from that place to the different mining camps. He returned home in the winter of 1856, at the earnest solicitation of his father, who was growing old, and located on the homestead of his ancestors on the north bank of the Shrewsbury river, Monmouth county, where he has since been engaged in farming, oystering, and the lime and vessel business. His grandfather and father were both Jeffersonian Democrats. The first vote Mr. Patterson cast was for John Bigler, the second time he ran for Governor of California, when he was defeated by Neilly Johnson, the Know-Nothing candidate; and for Joseph McKibben, who was elected to Congress, and who at one time was one of the proprietors of the Girard House, Philadelphia. Mr. Patterson was a member of the State Convention of California that selected delegates to the Baltimore Convention which nominated James Buchanan for the Presidency. He was always active in politics in his own county, and was nominated for Sheriff in 1868, was elected for one year, and re-elected for two years. In 1872 he was nominated for Congress over Robert S. Green, late Governor, and Hon. Miles Ross, who were candidates before the Convention. This was during the celebrated Greeley campaign, and owing to dissension in the party, caused by the nomination of Mr. Greeley, there was then only one Democrat elected to Congress in the State. Mr. Patterson was badly defeated, and he has often wished that either of his competitors had carried off the honors. When the Democrats gained the ascendancy in the Forty-fourth Congress, Mr. Fitzhugh, of Texas, was elected Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives. He was very soon removed, and Mr. Patterson was appointed to the position. He was a candidate for re-election, but, in the distribution of the patronage, this office was conceded to the South, and Colonel Polk, nephew of ex-President Polk, and a conspicuous Confederate Army officer, was chosen in his stead, but was removed two months afterwards for irregularities in office. Mr. Patterson returned to his farm and business, which engrossed his attention until he received the appointment of Keeper of the New Jersey State Prison from Governor Abbett, which was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. He was re-appointed in 1891.

His salary is $3,500 per year, and his term expires April 22d, 1896.

State Librarian.

MORRIS R. HAMILTON, Trenton.

Col. Hamilton was born at Oxford Furnace, Sussex county, N. J., May 24th, 1820, and is the son of the late Gen. Samuel R. Hamilton, of Trenton, who was Quartermaster-General of the State for twenty-five years, being the immediate predecessor of General Lewis Perrine in that office. He was of Scotch descent, Col. Hamilton being a great-grandson of John Hamilton, Provincial Governor of New Jersey from 1736 to 1747, and of Andrew Robeson, Surveyor-General of the Province at the same time—both being Scotch emigrants. The State Librarian was educated at the old Trenton Academy, Lawrenceville High School, and Princeton College, from which he graduated in 1839. He studied law with his father, and was admitted to the bar in 1842. He practiced in Camden two years, and in Philadelphia two years, in addition to being employed in the Philadelphia Post Office, from 1844 to 1849, when he resigned to take editorial charge of the Trenton True American, which he conducted until 1853, when it was sold to Judge Naar. Since that time he has been professionally connected with the press of New Jersey, New York, Missouri and Pennsylvania, having occupied editorial positions upon the New York National Democrat, the Sussex Herald, the Camden Democrat, Newark Journal, Sussex Record, Kansas City News, Elizabeth Herald and Philadelphia Record, during a period of thirty-five years. He obtained the title of Colonel by serving upon Governor Fort's staff from 1851 to 1854. He was elected State Librarian by the Commissioners, February 27th, 1884, for a term of five years, and was re-elected for another term in 1889, which expires this year. His salary is $2,000 a year.

from 1879 to 1885. He was a member of Common Council for five years prior to his election as Mayor and he has also held that office since 1885. He was appointed a member of the State Board of Assessors by Governor Green, in May, 1889, for a term of four years, and was re-appointed by Governor Werts in 1893. His term will expire in May, 1897.

FERDINAND H. WISMER, Newark.

Mr. Wismer was born in Berlin, Germany, July 27th, 1833. He was educated in the common school, and is a tailor by trade. He came to the United States in 1851 and to Newark in 1852, where he has since resided. In 1856 he cast his first vote for James Buchanan. In 1857 he engaged in the wholesale manufacture of clothing. He was elected twice a member of the Aqueduct Board of Newark, and was a Director of the German National Bank from 1876 until 1890, when he withdrew. He has been President since its organization (1881) of the Newark German Building and Loan Association. He was appointed a member of the State Board of Assessors by Governor Green in 1887, and again by Governor Abbett in 1891. His term expires in 1895.

OLIVER KELLY, Metuchen.

Mr. Kelly was born near Metuchen, Middlesex county, N. J., in 1847. His father, Christian Kelly, was a prominent citizen of New Jersey and is now dead. Mr. Kelly's mother still lives and resides with him at his home in Metuchen. He received a good common school education and afterwards entered the real estate business, which he conducted successfully for twenty years, both in New Jersey and New York. He was appointed Collector of the Port of Perth Amboy by President Cleveland and held the office throughout his administration. Mr. Kelly has always been an active and influential Democrat, and his skill in politics has a State reputation. He was appointed a member of the State Board of Assessors by Governor Abbett in April, 1891, for a term of four years. His term expires in 1895.

ANTHONY R. KUSER, Trenton.

Colonel Kuser was born in Newark, N. J., May 12th, 1862, but has resided a greater part of his lifetime on the old homestead of his parents near Trenton. He is extensively engaged in manufacturing pursuits, and is well and favorably known in business and social circles throughout the State and also in New York. He was appointed by Governor Abbett soon after his inauguration in 1890, as a member of his personal staff, and in 1892 the Colonel was appointed as a member of the State Board of Assessors and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. Governor Werts appointed the Colonel a member of his personal staff soon after his inauguration in 1893. His term will expire in 1896.

COLONEL JOHN T. VAN CLEEF, Secretary, Trenton.

Col. Van Cleef was born at Coxsackie, New York, July 9th, 1849, but the family removed their residence to Jersey City when he was less than one year of age. His father, Rev. Paul D. Van Cleef, has been pastor of the Wayne Street Reformed Church, Jersey City, for over forty-one years, and is also a trustee of Rutgers College. The Colonel's early education was derived at Dr. Hasbrouck's Institute, in Jersey City, and when twenty years of age he was graduated from Rutgers. In 1873 he was admitted to the bar, and later on he became a member of the firm of Fleming, Van Cleef & Van Horn, who had an extensive practice, making a specialty of corporation laws. In 1874-75 he represented the Sixth District of Jersey City in the Board of Aldermen. He was appointed on Governor Green's personal staff in 1888, and was re-appointed by Governor Abbett and Governor Werts. To Colonel Van Cleef belongs the credit of having formulated the blanks upon which the railroads make their tax returns. They are not only thoroughly legal, but are convenient and easily understood. He has also compiled, with the assistance of Mr. J. Brognard Betts, the most thorough railroad map of the State ever issued. The Colonel has been Secretary of the State Board of Assessors ever since it came into existence in 1884. This position was extended to him at the personal solicitation of Governor Abbett, who had known him for ten years as the Secretary of the Board of Finance in Jersey City. Since his departure from Jersey City he resided in Somerville for some years, where he has been conspicuous as a party leader, and in 1893 he removed to Trenton.

Superintendent of the Capitol.

BERNARD J. FORD, Trenton.

Mr. Ford was born in Ireland, August 27th, 1835, and came to this country at the age of eight with his parents. At the age of fourteen he began to learn the hat finishing business with the old-established firm of Rankin, Duryee & Co., of Newark, N. J. Mr. Rankin was the grandfather and Mr. Duryee the father of Hon. George S. Duryee. Mr. Ford has been identified with the hat-finishing trade union and took an active part in its organization. He was president for three years, and a delegate to the National Convention. He was elected treasurer of the National Association, but declined the office, and was unanimously elected a director of that body for four years. In 1860 he was appointed Sealer of Weights and Measures by the Common Council of Newark, but after three months' service resigned. In 1876 he was appointed Excise Commissioner of Newark by the late Mayor Perry, was re-appointed in 1880 by Mayor Henry J. Yates, and in 1883 was again appointed by Mayor Joseph E. Haynes. In 1885 he was appointed Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue by Mr. Samuel Klotz, which office he held until appointed by Governor Green to the position he now holds. He was a strong advocate of Grover Cleveland in 1884, and went to the Chicago Convention to do what he could for his nomination. He has attended every Democratic National Convention since 1864, and knows every prominent man in the State of both parties. Among his warm personal friends were the late Governor Randolph, Governor Parker, Francis S. Lathrop, and ex-U. S. Senator William Wright; also, ex-Governor Bedle, and the late Lewis C. Grover. He was identified with the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. and the New Jersey Central Railroad for fifteen years, whose interests he looked after in the Legislature. In 1893 Governor Werts appointed him for a new term of five years, and the nomination was confirmed unanimously and without reference by the Senate, every member being present and voting. Both Houses, by a unanimous vote, passed the bill extending the term of office to five years and fixing the salary at $3,000 a year. His term will expire on February 21st, 1898.

He began the practice of his profession in Newark, where he has continued it ever since. In 1878 and '79 he served as a member of the House of Assembly from the then Fourth District of Essex county, and in the latter year he was the Democratic nominee for Speaker. Harvey, and in 1892 he was appointed for a full term, and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate. His term will expire on February 9th, 1895.

Private Secretary to the Governor.

JOHN STEVENSON McMASTER.

Mr. McMaster was born at Pocomoke City, Worcester county, Maryland, on December 29th, 1859. He is the son of the late Dr. John T. B. McMaster, who was a Union Democrat during the war. Dr. McMaster served one term in the Maryland Senate, beside holding various Federal appointments, and was the first President of the railroad to Pocomoke City, which has since been extended to Cape Charles, Virginia. He was actively engaged in the practice of his profession in Pocomoke City for forty years prior to his death in 1889.

Rev. Samuel McMaster, the great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch, was from Scotland, and was licensed to preach by the Presbytery of Lewes, Del., in 1774. For thirty-five years, and until his death in 1811, the reverend gentleman was pastor of several churches on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia.

On his mother's side Mr. McMaster is distantly related to Vice-President Adlai E. Stevenson, which branch of the Stevenson family emigrated to America from Ireland in the later part of the seventeenth century. His maternal grandfather, John S. Stevenson, was a prominent merchant, farmer and stump speaker, and during the late war was a staunch Confederate.

Private Secretary McMaster was educated at the Pocomoke City High School; attended Delaware College, at Newark, for one year, and for two years afterward taught school at his native home. He then attended Lafayette College at Easton, Pa., where he graduated in 1883 as Latin Salutatorian, with the degree of A.B.

After graduating he located at Morristown, N. J., and for the next five years taught mathematics and the natural sciences in the Morris Academy at that place; a boys' preparatory school. While in Morristown he studied law with Vice-Chancellor Pitney and later at University of Virginia, and was admitted to the bar in 1888 as an attorney at law and in three years as a counselor at law. For a short while he practiced law with Mahlon Pitney, at Dover, N. J., before going to Jersey City in the fall of 1889. Among his first cases in Jersey City he was one of the counsel for Mayor Cleveland, in the celebrated contested election case of Perkins vs. Cleveland. On April 1st, 1892, he became a member of the law firm of Dickinson, Thompson & McMaster, of No. 1 Exchange Place, Jersey City.

Mr. McMaster served as Private Secretary to President Werts, of the Senate, in 1889, and in a similar capacity to Speaker Heppenheimer, of the House, in 1890, and to President Adrain, of the Senate, in 1891 and '92. Governor Werts, as soon as he took the oath of office appointed Mr. McMaster his Private Secretary.

Chief of the Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries.

CHARLES H. SIMMERMAN, Trenton.

Mr. Simmerman was born in the year 1836 on a farm near Pitman Grove, Gloucester county, N. J. His father died when Mr. Simmerman was only six years of age, leaving his mother with five children to care for. Before the subject of this sketch was eight years old he was put to work on a farm in Salem county, and from that early age until he was twelve he earned his living by the labor of his hands. When he was fourteen years of age he went to work as a tending-boy in the glassworks at Glassboro, where he afterward became an apprentice at glass-blowing and worked at the trade for twenty-five years. His opportunities for education were limited to a quarter's schooling in the winter season while he lived on the farm, and about two months in the summer in the public school at Glassboro while he remained a tending-boy; but he does not remember the time when he could not read and write, for his mother taught him these rudiments, so that when he was separated from her at eight years of age he was able to carry on a correspondence with her.

In 1867 he was elected a member of the Board of School Trustees of Salem. In 1875 he was elected a member of the Board of City Assessors in Camden by 256 majority. He was the Democratic candidate for Congress in the First District of New Jersey in 1876, when he received 800 more votes than Mr. Tilden, who ran for President of the United States. In 1878 he was instrumental in having the Bureau of Statistics of Labor and Industries instituted; three years afterward he became Secretary of the Bureau, and in 1893 he was appointed Chief by Governor Werts. He was a member of the first union ever instituted in his trade, and when he was an apprentice and only twenty years of age, and from that time until the present he has taken an active interest in labor matters.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The State Board of Health was formed in 1877. Since then the entire health administration of the State has been developed until now every city and township has every facility for a proper care of the public health.

The Board, by its Reports and by constant care, oversight and correspondence, furnishes all necessary information.

Prof. C. F. Brackett, M.D., LL.D., is President of the Board, and E. M. Hunt, M.D., LL.D., Secretary. The Secretary of State, the Attorney-General and the State Geologist are members ex-officio. The other members are: Laban Dennis, M.D., Newark; Franklin Gauntt, M.D., Burlington; Prof. A. R. Leeds, Ph.D., Hoboken; John A. Githens, Esq., Asbury Park, and Edward R. O'Reilly, M.D., Elizabeth.

In addition to the duties assigned to the Board under the constituting act, it has charge of the laws as to contagious diseases of animals, adulteration of foods, the sale of petroleum and the sanitary inspection of all State and county institutions for the criminal and dependent classes.

Through the Bureau of Vital Statistics it is an office of record of all marriages, births and deaths in the State, and tabulates these for the information they give as to conditions of population and the causes of disease.

The Board is constantly consulted by cities and townships as to health ordinances, the removal of nuisances and plans for sanitary improvement.

Investigations into local causes of disease are conducted under its direction. Its annual reports and its health circulars are widely distributed through the State. As the comfort of the people and the material resources of the State depend so much upon the health of the population, it is able to render efficient service in various directions.

STATE BOARD OF AGRICULTURE.

OFFICERS OF THE BOARD.

President, Edward Burrough, Merchantville; Vice-President, E. B. Voorhees, New Brunswick; Treasurer, D. D. Denise, Freehold; Secretary, Franklin Dye, Trenton; Executive Committee, William R. Lippincott, Fellowship; H. F. Bodine, Locktown; Theodore F. D. Baker, Bridgeton; also the President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer.

A part of the work of the Board, as stated in the law, is "to collect and disseminate reliable and useful information, and to encourage a higher standard in the agriculture and horticulture of the State; to investigate such subjects relating to the improvement of land and agriculture, in its various branches in this State, as the Executive Committee may think proper; to cause to be made, experimental and practical, tests of specific remedies or cures of diseases of domestic animals and poultry, and of plants, vegetables and fruits, and of insects injurious thereto; and to employ suitable persons to lecture before the State Board of Agriculture at its annual or other meetings, and in the counties of the State as far as the sum herein appropriated will allow."

The act provides, also, for the organization of County Boards of Agriculture in the several counties. These are auxiliary to the State Board, and are a means of disseminating agricultural information among the farmers thus organized. All farmers of the State can become members of the County Boards if they desire to, and through them have representation in the State Board.

There are seventeen County Boards now organized, also a State Horticultural Society and a State Poultry Association. The meetings of these Societies are proving their value as a means of practical information on all questions connected with the improvement of the farm, stock, dairy, fruit and market-garden interests of the State, as is shown by increased membership and attendance.

All these societies, except the Poultry Association, receive financial aid from the State Board appropriation, amounting to from $1,000 to $1,800 annually.

The market value of lands now devoted to farming purposes varies in different parts of the State, running from $30 to $60 and $80 per acre, being cheaper in New Jersey, considering all the advantages, than any other State in the Union. The number of farms in the State is 34,307, having an average size of 85 acres. (Census of 1880.)

During the past year most farm crops in the State were below the usual average yield. Late spring, protracted drought and devastating storms contributed to this result.

The average yield per acre of farm crops in New Jersey for 1893, as taken from the U. S. Department of Agriculture Report, is: Corn, 26.4 bushels—the lowest by 10 bushels for years, owing to adverse weather; wheat, 14.5 bushels; rye, 13.4 bushels; oats, 23.9 bushels; buckwheat, 13.4 bushels; white potatoes, 73 bushels; sweets, 97 bushels; pears and grapes gave good crops; apples were much below an average yield; peaches, an excessive yield, which reduced both quality and price. There has been a reduction in the acreage of cereals in the State during the last decade amounting to 172,018 acres, or 22.24 per cent. Other crops, as dairy products, fruit, potatoes and market garden crops, are being substituted. The product of the dairy especially is increasing rapidly, being for that part of the State contiguous to Philadelphia only, as delivered at the Camden platform, 1,530,000 gallons during the past year. Number and value of farm animals in the State in 1892: Horses, 87,531; value, $8,782,860. Mules, 8,465; value, $962,987. Milch cows, 189,035; value, $6,616,225. Oxen and other cattle, 63,845; value, $1,835,731. Sheep, 102,077; value, $413,922. Swine, 190,547; value, $1,758,746. A total valuation of $20,370,471.

The canning business of the State is large. Of tomatoes alone there were packed, in 1891, 950,833 cases, New Jersey leading every other State. Last year Maryland exceeded New Jersey in the pack of this product. In commercial floriculture New Jersey makes the largest showing of any State in the Union in proportion to its size. Of florists' establishments we have 366; owned and managed by women, 8. Total square feet of glass, 3,703,554.

Total value of establishments,	$3,666,518 46
Total value of tools and implements,	155,107 14

Roses,	1,808,014

Plants sold, value,	$897,908 58
Cut flowers sold, value,	1,288,478 56
Total value,	$2,186,387 14

Of seed farms the State has thirty-four, comprising an acreage of 6,272.

Total value of farms, implements and buildings, $2,333,066 68

Farms devoted to the nursery business number 145, with a total acreage of 5,465.

Total value of nurseries,	$1,712 464 75
Total capital invested,	1,970,593 90

The above are only a few facts gleaned from census and statistical reports. The immense fruit, dairy and poultry products are not touched.

The demand made for the Annual Reports of the Board is increasing from year to year as their value and its work become better known. About five thousand copies are distributed each year in New Jersey, and it is called for in almost every other State in the Union, in Canada, England, France, Germany, New Zealand and Japan.

FIRST ANNUAL MESSAGE

—OF—

GEORGE T. WERTS, GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY

—TO—

THE LEGISLATURE, SESSION OF 1894.

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly:

In compliance with Constitutional requirement, I herewith submit to your Honorable Bodies my first annual message.

FINANCES.

The financial condition of the State, as exhibited by the current reports of the Comptroller and Treasurer, is of the most gratifying character.

The receipts from all sources for the fiscal year ending October 31st, 1893, including balance in bank, November 1st, 1892, were.	$2,582,020 95
The disbursements during the same period were	1,857,982 83
Balance in bank October 31st, 1893.....	$724,038 12

The balance above appearing is the largest ever shown in the history of the State. For specific information as to the particulars of the receipts and disbursements above stated, I respectfully refer you to the reports of said officials, wherein full details will be found.

There is no apparent necessity of any taxation of the citizen or of increased taxation upon corporations for State purposes. It is probable that, owing to the financial depression prevailing, there will be a falling off in the receipts of the present fiscal year, as compared with those of the year ending October 31st, 1893. For that reason, and in view of the extraordinary expenses that may be incurred for additional prison accommodations, armory construction, and contingencies at present unforeseen, it will be unwise to cut off or curtail any source of State income now existing.

Local taxation may in a measure be lessened, should the Legislature see fit to remove, either partially or wholly, the exemptions allowed on corporate property taxed under the act of 1884 for local purposes, so that the taxes paid by the owners of such property may be equalized, or more nearly so, to those paid by individuals.

PRISON ACCOMMODATIONS.

There is imperative necessity for increased prison accommodations. The law provides that "each convict shall be confined in one of the cells of the prison, separate and alone." The cell capacity of the prison is but seven hundred. The number of inmates on October 31st, 1893 (the date of the Keeper's report), was 968. This number is liable to be increased. The Keeper is thus obliged to disregard the law and confine two or more prisoners in one cell, unfit for the occupation of more than one person. The pernicious effects and immoral consequences of such a system are beyond controversy. It should not be allowed to continue. A remedy should be adopted and applied at once.

Two modes are suggested: either a considerable enlargement of the present institution or the erection of a reformatory or intermediate prison for youthful and first offenders, with a view to their possible reformation.

As an abstract proposition, the erection of a reformatory seems to me the preferable mode. Its exclusive adoption, however, would probably defer positive relief for an indefinite period. Certainly much longer than the time required for an extension of the present building.

There is already a law in existence (Laws of 1890, chapter 154) providing for the appointment, by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, of three competent persons, commissioners, to provide for the enlargement of the prison, by the erection of an additional wing. The act authorizes the expenditure of a sum not exceeding $100,000 for the purpose, whereof a sum not exceeding $10,000 shall be expended in erecting a hospital building within the prison walls. It has been represented to me (and I think correctly) that the needed proper addition to the prison can be effected largely within the appropriation of $100,000. I recommend, therefore, that the law referred to be so amended as to allow the Commissioners to be appointed thereunder discretionary powers as to the changes or additions to be made to the prison and the mode and manner of doing the work. I also recommend that the same or other Commissioners, to be appointed for the purpose, be authorized to select a proper site for a reformatory or intermediate prison and to report at the present or next session of the Legislature. Should their report be concurred in, provision then to be made for the erection of proper buildings upon the site selected. It may be wise to locate the reformatory upon the lands of the Reform School; or if that location be undesirable, to consider whether those lands should not be sold and the proceeds devoted to the new institution, incorporating therein such features of the Reform School as it is desirable to retain.

The hospital facilities at the prison are also improper and inadequate. Immediately adjoining the prison are the grounds of the State Arsenal. It has seemed to me an economical proceeding, if, as claimed, additional lands are requisite for prison or hospital purposes, to incorporate all those grounds within the prison limits and to locate arsenal buildings on the State Camp-ground at Sea Girt, thus saving the large annual expense of transporting the material at the arsenal to and from the camp ground. But, it is objected that the sea air and moisture would prove decidedly injurious, if not destructive, to the arms, ammunition, equipments and material on storage. Assuming that objection to be well founded, the arsenal grounds are, nevertheless, with economy of space, more than ample for arsenal purposes, and I therefore recommend that so much thereof as may be necessary be devoted to the prison extension and hospital, reserving the remainder for arsenal uses.

The last Legislature enacted a law (Chapter 230, Laws 1893) providing that every person sentenced to hard labor and imprisonment for any period over six months, should be confined in the State Prison. The presumed object of the law is to relieve the county jails and penitentiaries of the charge of convicts sentenced for a term exceeding six months. The relief sought has been obtained at the expense and detriment of the prison, adding unnecessarily to the already overcrowded condition of that institution. The law has also, unwisely, deprived the courts, in a degree, of discretionary power in imposing sentences. I recommend that it be repealed.

By adopting the above suggestions, the present urgent needs of the prison will be relieved, and on completion of the reformatory, or intermediate prison, the further relief thereby afforded will render the old prison sufficient for its purposes for many years to come. The cost of both will not be much, if any, beyond that of the greater enlargement of the old prison that otherwise will be required, and being extended over two or more years will not be burdensome to the State.

STATE REFORM SCHOOL FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENTS.

The report of the Trustees of the State Reform School and accompanying documents contain many recommendations that should receive the favorable consideration of your bodies, provided the suggestions above made concerning the Reform School be not acted upon.

COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION COMMISSION.

By act approved March 18th, 1891, entitled "An act to authorize the appointment of a board of commissioners to represent the State of New Jersey at the World's Columbian Exposition, to be held at Chicago, in the year 1893," the Governor was authorized to appoint eight persons, who should constitute the New Jersey Commission, and not receive any compensation for their services. To enable the Commission to discharge the duties imposed upon it, the sum of $20,000 was appropriated.

The act provided that the Commission should continue until such time after the close of the Exposition as might be necessary to complete and settle the business connected therewith, not later than January 1st, 1895.

The commissioners were duly appointed, and entered upon their duties, which have been performed until the present time faithfully and without compensation.

By a supplement to the original act, approved March 23d, 1892, an additional sum of $50,000 was appropriated "to further the work of the Board of Commissioners * * * and to build a proper building for the use of the citizens of this State in attendance at such exposition."

By a further supplement, approved March 13th, 1893, an additional sum of $60,000 was appropriated "to further the work of the Board of Commissioners, and to enable the State Board of Agriculture, the State Board of Education and the Geological Survey to make a full and proper exhibit in their respective departments, and to maintain a proper building for the use of the citizens of this State in attendance at such Exposition," provided, that such part or parts of the sum so appropriated as might be necessary to defray the expenses of the Legislative Joint Committee, appointed by concurrent resolution of the House and Senate, introduced February 28th, 1893, to visit Chicago and co-operate with said Board of Commissioners, and to employ a secretary to said committee, be paid therefrom, &c.

The total sum appropriated was thus $130,000, considerably smaller than the amounts appropriated by most of the other States.

In the discharge of its duties the Commission erected the "New Jersey Building" on the exposition grounds and maintained it for its appropriate uses and purposes until the close of the exhibition, October 31st, 1893. The building was the first State building completed, and was formally dedicated or opened May 1st, 1893, the day the exposition was opened, in the presence of the Governor and staff, State officials and many other citizens of the State.

The building was erected with a view of its removal to and re-erection upon the State camp-ground at Sea Girt, to replace the present "headquarters" there; but, after careful estimates by competent persons, it appeared that the cost of such removal and re-erection would exceed the cost of a new and more suitable building at Sea Girt. The building has, therefore, been sold for the sum of $2,000, which sum, while small as compared with the original cost, is the largest realized from the sale of any State building, although several of those sold cost originally hundreds of thousands of dollars more than the "Jersey" building. The educational, agricultural and geological exhibits were among the finest made at the Exposition. The sea-coast exhibit was the finest displayed by any State. All these exhibits attracted much attention from sister States and foreign countries, and greatly enhanced the reputation of the State. They cost large sums of money, but, as a whole, are worth more than they cost. They have been returned intact from the Exposition, and are now stored in the Fidelity Storage Warehouse in the city of Trenton, awaiting final disposition. By all means, these exhibits should be preserved. They are the finest and most complete the State has ever made, or probably ever will make again, as it would be impossible to duplicate them. I recommend the adoption of such measures as will insure their preservation in some place or places, as a museum or educational exhibit.

The furniture that was in the Jersey building, very fine and costing quite a large sum of money, has also been brought back to Trenton and stored with the exhibits. Some disposition should be made of it at an early day. Either it should be sold or a suitable place provided for it. A sale would probably realize but a small part of its actual value.

The work remaining for the commission is to close up its affairs—collect assets (if any), gather in and pay outstanding bills, dispose of the exhibits, furniture, etc. (under legislative direction), and make its final report. This it should be able to do before the expiration of the time limited, January 1st, 1895.

There is an apparent deficiency of from $8,000 to $10,000 in the funds of the Commission to meet all its obligations, occasioned, it is stated, mainly, if not entirely, by the fact that the Commission, in the prosecution of its work, has paid bills and claims that might properly have been paid by other departments. Should these claims be adjusted and the amounts thereof refunded to the Commission, the deficiency will be correspondingly reduced or wiped out, as the case may be.

It would, in my opinion, be a matter of regret and poor economy to sell either the exhibits or the furniture to meet a possible deficiency. It would simply be their ruinous sacrifice. If other departments recognize and satisfy the claims of the Commission out of funds in hand, without requiring reimbursing appropriations, the State will be the gainer by that mode of adjustment. Otherwise, it can make no difference to the State whether a deficiency be met by an additional appropriation to the Commission or to other departments, to enable them to meet the demands of the Commission.

I shall endeavor, before the close of your session, to communicate more definite information on this subject to your Honorable Bodies, to the end that, if a deficiency be finally established, it may be dealt with as you may deem proper.

THE NATIONAL GUARD, ARMORIES, AND STATE CAMP GROUND.

The National Guard maintains its high reputation. Despite disadvantages, it has improved in discipline and marksmanship and preserved its general morale. One serious obstacle to its efficient development has been and is the lack of adequate accommodations for drilling and the practice of military maneuvers. This difficulty is in the way of being removed by the erection of long-projected armories in different cities. The first of such buildings is in course of erection in Jersey City, the corner-stone having been laid on the twentieth day of December last. Other armories, to meet the reasonable requirements of the Guard, should be constructed as rapidly as the finances of the State will warrant.

The State camp-ground at Sea Girt is, without doubt, as to location and topographical features, the finest in the country. It possesses ideal advantages for the "school of the soldier," and has already proved of great benefit to the National Guard. Formerly leased, it is now owned by the State, and could readily be sold for considerably more than it cost. The mess halls (with one exception) and other structures pertaining to what is now a permanent camp-ground, are mere temporary affairs intended for removal, and placed upon the grounds when held under yearly lease. Besides being ill-adapted to the uses intended, they have become dilapidated and a constant source of expense for repairs. As a matter of economy, they should be replaced by others of the proper kind.

As before stated, it was proposed to replace the old building now on the camp-ground, and serving as a dwelling for the Superintendent and family, offices for the transaction of business and quarters for officers, by the Jersey building from the Chicago Exposition. That idea was abandoned because of the expense involved. The old building, in its present condition, is unfit for the purposes to which it is necessarily devoted. It is besides, decayed, damp and unhealthy. It should be repaired and enlarged or a new and suitable building (costing not more than repairs and additions to the old one) substituted. In the building thus enlarged or newly constructed, the furniture from the "Jersey Building," and probably the sea-coast exhibit, could be placed and preserved.

The changes and improvements thus indicated are, it seems to me, such as good judgment dictates in the management of a valuable property and I therefore, suggest for your consideration the propriety of placing the sum of $10,000 at the disposal of the State Military Board for the purposes proposed. In this connection it is proper to refer to the fact that the uniformity and contour of the camp-ground is broken, and its availability impaired by an adjacent tract of land covered with undergrowth and brushwood, bounded east by the ocean, west by the camp-ground, and north by the public road running along the northerly edge of the camp-ground, and continuing along the tract mentioned to the ocean. This tract of land, thus situated, projects itself into the camp-ground and cuts off most of the ocean front. For some probably good reason then existing, it was not included when title to the camp-ground was originally acquired. Whatever the reason may have been, I am advised it no longer exists. The tract omitted is essential to the State and will have to be acquired sooner or later, and the sooner the more cheaply. With the camp ground extended its full width to the ocean, as it would be by the acquisition of the tract in question, a proper site could be provided for the location of a sea-coast battery, for the State, by the United States Government, and which has been deferred hitherto for lack of such site. I recommend that this matter receive the attention, jointly or separately, of the Committees on Militia of your respective bodies, and that steps be taken looking to the acquisition of the tract of land referred to.

NAVAL MILITIA.

In several of the sea-coast States legislative acts have been passed providing for the organization of a naval militia or battalion, attached to the National Guard, and forming a part thereof. The acts thus passed contemplate the performance of the same amount of duty in each year as is required of the National Guard, except that such duty, or any part thereof, may be performed afloat. Such acts become operative only when the government of the United States is ready to supply necessary arms and equipments and a vessel or vessels of war for the performance of the duties required. The expense to the State is, I understand, inconsiderable. I am led to believe that, should such a law be enacted in this State, the necessary arms and equipments and a vessel or vessels will be placed at the disposal of the State authorities for carrying out the purposes of the act. Copies of the laws of several of the States, elaborating and detailing the system, will be found in the office of the Adjutant-General. I bring the matter to the attention of your Honorable Bodies, that you may take such action in the premises as you may deem advisable.

PUBLIC WATER-SUPPLY.

It is of the utmost public importance that measures be speedily taken for the systematic control, by the State, of the sources of potable water-supply within its borders for the common benefit of all its citizens. This, a matter of more or less interest to the entire public, has already become of special and immediate concern to the populous communities in the northeastern section of the State. In this connection, and as demonstrating the importance of the subject, the following extract from the late report of the State Geologist is submitted:

"It seems fitting that the Survey should again set forth the sources now available for supplying northern New Jersey towns with water. Briefly, these are the following water-sheds:

"Hackensack above New Milford.—Elevation at outlet, 4 feet. Supplying capacity, 76,599,000 gallons daily, used by Hackensack Water Co., Re-organized, to supply Hoboken, Hackensack, &c.

"Saddle River above Paramus.—Elevation at outlet, 90 feet. Supplying capacity, 14,000,000 gallons daily. Not utilized.

"Ramapo above Pompton.—Elevation, 202 feet. Supplying capacity, 107,000,000 gallons daily. Not utilized.

"Wanaque above Pompton.—Elevation, 200 feet. Supplying capacity, 73,000,000 gallons daily. Of the 109 square miles of water-shed, 28 square miles are tributary to Greenwood lake, a storage reservoir of Morris canal, the waters of which have to flow almost the whole course of the stream. The rights of the canal company on this stream are important.

"Pequannock above Pompton.—Elevation of outlet, 220 feet. Supplying capacity, 56,000,000 gallons daily. Utilized by East Jersey Water Company for Newark supply.

"Rockaway above Boonton.—Elevation, 480 feet. Supplying capacity, 78,000,000 gallons daily. Not utilized. The Morris canal draws its supply from Lake Hopatcong, and has claimed that it diverts no waters from the Rockaway permanently.

"The above are the only practicable sources of supply north of the Raritan water-shed which are sufficient for towns of over twenty thousand inhabitants. Of these only Saddle river, Ramapo, Wanaque and Rockaway rivers are available for new systems of supply of any magnitude. The aggregate supplying capacity of these four streams is 277,000,000 gallons daily. These are the sources to which our large cities must go in order to acquire ample, independent supplies.

"The importance of a proper development of these sources has frequently been pointed out, and it grows in the eyes of the close observer with every census and with the accumulation of data as to our water-sheds. Taking the counties of Hudson, Essex and Union, with Passaic, north, to and including Paterson, and Bergen northward to Hackensack, we have a population practically all dependent upon public water-supply systems. The growth of this population is shown in the following table:

CITY POPULATION OF NORTHERN NEW JERSEY.

1850	116,932	62
1860	224,617	92

1880	516,192	39
1890	726,442	41

"The increase for the last two decades is about 40 per cent. The consumption of water in the large cities is above 100 gallons per capita daily, and the tendency is to increase. Taking this as the rate, 72,000,000 gallons would be required daily, but the actual consumption may be estimated at 60,000,000 gallons in 1890. Increasing at the rate of 40 per cent., this would become as follows: 1900, 84,000,000; 1910, 117,600,000; 1920, 164,400,000; 1930, 230,400,000; 1940, 322,600,000; 1950, 451,700,000 gallons daily.

"Now, the total supply, above indicated, of potable waters reasonably accessible to this district is 409,000,000 gallons daily, and by our estimates this will all be required in about fifty years, which is not a long time for a State to look forward. The necessity of wise and judicious development of these water-sheds for the benefit of all of this populous district, rather than their segregation to the uses of a few powerful communities, is what these figures seem to teach.

"The entire metropolitan population, including the above and the counties of New York, Kings and Richmond, with Long Island City and Newtown, in Queens county, State of New York, aggregated 3,180,038 in 1890, and the average increase for three decades has been 32.2 per cent. Estimating an increase of 30 per cent. per decade, it will reach 15,349,000 by 1950, and will require, at 100 gallons per capita, 2,300 square miles of watersheds to supply it. It can readily be seen that all potable waters will eventually become of great value, and that the question can only be successfully dealt with as a whole comprehensively."

The facts and figures thus collated justify the opinion expressed as to the lesson they convey. The time has certainly arrived when the State, acting for the general welfare, should exert its authority to prevent the acquisition of the sources of potable water-supply, by private corporations for private gain, or the exclusive appropriation thereof by single municipalities. All legally vested rights of individuals or corporations should, of course, be respected, but the prerogative of eminent domain should, in this matter, be exercised to its fullest extent by the State in its own behalf.

I recommend legislation on this subject, similar in character to that proposed in Assembly bill No. 443, introduced (but not passed) in the last Legislature, entitled "An Act to ascertain the rights of the State in certain of the waters of the State, and to provide for furnishing a State water-supply to the municipalities thereof, and to create a State Water Board, empowered to construct and maintain works for that purpose."

PARKS AND RESERVATIONS.

Closely related to the matter of State control of the water-supply is that of natural parks and forest reservations. It is well agreed that places for public resort and recreation, under proper regulations, adjacent to and easily accessible from large centres of population, are conducive, not only to health and happiness, but to good citizenship. Indeed, such breathing places, as they are sometimes termed, are coming to be regarded as necessary, rather than convenient. In Massachusetts, a "Metropolitan Park Commission" has been established to consider the advisability of providing such open spaces in the vicinity of the towns and cities near Boston. In New York, Niagara and portions of the Adirondacks are already thus set apart. The Highlands in this State, whence the densely populated cities of its northern section must draw their water-supply, are not remote nor difficult of access. They abound in beautiful natural scenery and are admirably adapted to the purposes of parks and reservations. This subject is also discussed in the report of the State Geologist (page 24, &c.), to which I make reference and invite attention. I agree with the suggestion therein made, that, as so large a proportion of our population must procure potable water from the Highlands, it is a matter of self-interest to maintain at least a portion of those lands in a forested and natural condition, and that the question of control thereover, for the proper utilization of its waters and the preservation of its scenic beauties and many remarkable natural features, should receive attention. The establishment of a system of State water-supply would seem naturally to include that of parks and reservations, as a sanitary measure, involving little, if any, additional expense.

AGRICULTURE AND ROADS.

The Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture reports that "the yield of nearly all farm crops has been below an average good year," but that in special branches of agricultural industry, such as the dairy, egg production, market gardening, truck farming and floriculture, the State is rapidly advancing, and, in some of them, has already taken the leading place.

The intimate connection of the development and conservation of forest growth with agriculture is adverted to by the Secretary, and is well worthy your careful consideration. The large annual losses inflicted by forest fires and the consequent detriment to agriculture, made apparent by the report, should, so far as possible, be remedied by appropriate legislation. Under this heading it is proper to invite your attention to and action upon the valuable suggestions contained in the Geological Report (pages 16, etc.), concerning the reclamation of tide marsh lands and the drainage of wet lands and meadows, for agricultural and other uses and purposes. It is a question how far State aid can be extended to the objects mentioned, but so far as the State can legitimately exercise its authority or help in those directions it should do so. The land, now worthless or useless, that might be reclaimed and rendered valuable, would add largely to the productive area of the State and greatly enhance its ratables.

A law was enacted in 1891, and amended in 1892, entitled "An act to provide for the more permanent improvement of the public roads in this State." This law has come to be known as "the stone road law," and "the State aid road law." It was passed, in recognition of the now admitted fact that good, firm roads, passable at all seasons of the year, are beneficial, not only to agriculture, but to the whole community, as an economical investment and enhancing the value of property generally.

The law as amended, after detailing the proceedings to be taken to cause such roads to be built, and providing that the estimated cost of contracts therefor, awarded in any one year, by any Board of Chosen Freeholders, shall not exceed one-half of one per centum of the ratables of the county as reported to the State Comptroller for the last preceding year, further provides that one-third of the cost of all roads constructed thereunder shall be paid for out of the State Treasury, provided the amount so paid shall not in any one year exceed the sum of $75,000; if one-third of said cost shall exceed said sum, the said $75,000 shall be apportioned by the Governor and the President of the State Board of Agriculture, among the counties of the State, in proportion to the cost of roads constructed therein for such year, etc.

The remaining two-thirds are to be paid by the counties within which the roads are constructed, less ten per centum of the entire cost of the improvement, which shall be assessed on the lands fronting or bordering on the road; if a deficiency shall exist, in consequence of the cost exceeding the estimate, or the receipt of less than one-third of the cost from the State Treasury, the Board of Chosen Freeholders has authority to borrow on temporary loans, etc.

The different counties were at first slow to avail themselves of the provisions of the new law, but, as its benefits have become manifest, a desire for the new roads has been created that promises to necessitate the proportional disbursement during the coming year of the entire State appropriation, thus leaving a deficiency, to be provided for by the respective counties.

During the year ending December 31st, 1892, the amount disbursed by the State for such roads was $20,661.85. For the year ending December 31st, 1893, the amount was $71,237.22.

These details are submitted in order that your Honorable Bodies may, if you deem it advisable so to do, in view of the probable insufficiency of the State appropriation to cover, in full, one-third of the cost of the roads likely hereafter to be constructed, further amend the law by increasing the State appropriation or the per centum to be assessed upon the bordering lands.

The construction of these roads has, in addition to his other duties, devolved much labor, requiring much time, upon the President of the Board of Agriculture. He receives no compensation whatever. It is only just that the State should reasonably compensate him for performing the exacting duties imposed upon him. My immediate predecessor, in his last annual message, recommended that as the time of the President of the Agricultural Board has been almost continuously occupied in the service of the State, owing to the increased duties imposed by the road law and work in connection with the Columbian Exposition, that he be properly compensated, and I here repeat that recommendation.

RAILROAD GRADE CROSSINGS OF HIGHWAYS.

The frequency of railroad accidents at surface or grade crossings of streets and highways, calls for remedial legislation looking to the ultimate abolition of such crossings. The engineering difficulties in many localities of avoiding such crossings are apparent. It is not necessary, however, that all grade crossings should be abolished at one and the same time. The same necessity does not exist in all cases. In densely populated cities such crossings are a constant menace and danger, and should be done away with at the earliest possible day. In other places, less dangerous, all necessary precautions to prevent accident should be compulsory and enforceable by public authority. A law abolishing all grade crossings, either by depression of the highways or elevation of the tracks, within a specified number of years, with a proviso, permitting a continuance, in exceptional cases, beyond the time limited, to be determined on application to the courts, would enable the work to be performed gradually and systematically, and without unnecessary annoyance to the parties concerned. Meanwhile authority should be vested with some public official or officials, to compel the adoption and use of all precautionary measures deemed necessary, or the abolition within a given time of any grade crossing, decided by the courts to be dangerous to the public safety. In changes involving large expenditure, and of exceptional advantage to the public, it might properly be provided that a portion of the cost, to be ascertained by proceedings in court, should be borne by the municipality benefited.

COMMISSION TO REVISE AND CONSOLIDATE STATUTES CONCERNING VILLAGES, TOWNS AND TOWNSHIPS.

In 1891 an act was passed providing for the appointment of a commission of three persons "To revise, simplify, arrange and consolidate all the general statutes of this State, applying and relating to villages, towns and townships," and to "lay a printed copy of the said general statutes so revised and consolidated by them before the Legislature at its next session, that the same might be re-enacted if the Legislature should so determine."

The Commission was duly appointed, and began its work June 2d, 1891.

In 1892 a supplemental act was passed enacting that inasmuch as the Commission had been unable to complete its work in time to lay a complete report thereof before the Legislature of 1892, it should be continued with the same duties and powers and "lay before the Legislature at its next session a complete report of the work of said Commission."

In 1893 a further supplement was passed continuing the Commission and providing that it should "lay before the next Legislature a complete report of the work of said Commission."

Under the last mentioned act a complete report of the work of the Commission should be presented to the present Legislature. I presume that will be done, but should it not, I would not recommend a further continuance of the Commission. In case its labors should not be completed, as provided in the last supplemental act, and the Legislature should deem the completion of the work desirable, I suggest that some one person be designated to complete it within a limited time on a per diem allowance.

STATE BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, ETC.

Complaints are at times made of the number and variety of State offices, boards and commissions. In so far as such complaints are well founded, the appropriate remedy should be applied. Relative thereto, my present views are as expressed in my inaugural address, namely: "That unnecessary new offices be not created; that sinecures in existing offices and departments be abolished, and different offices relating to the same or kindred subjects consolidated, and salaries and other charges correspondingly reduced."

Adverse criticism of system and management has also been made. If, in any case, such criticism be warranted, corrective measures should be devised. Re-organization, in a proper manner and upon a non-partisan basis, would probably prove all-sufficient. As regards the system of government and mode of management established for the State Hospitals for the Insane, I would not, in any event, recommend any change beyond that suggested, being convinced, that for all objects and purposes, it is better and more economical that both institutions be governed by the same Board and managed upon the system at present adopted.

HORSE RACING AND BETTING.

I recommend the absolute repeal of chapters 16, 17 and 18 of the Laws of 1893, known as the "race-track laws." This should be done, not only upon moral grounds, but in obedience to the popular will emphatically expressed.

If it be the legislative desire to apply radical treatment to the subject-matter of horse racing and betting thereon, the proviso contained in section 55 of the Crimes act (Revision, 237) should be repealed, and chapter 147 of the Laws of 1880 should be repealed bodily.

The proviso in section 55 permits horse racing at fairs and exhibitions of any agricultural or other incorporated society or body. Without exception, all tracks where racing is habitually carried on, and most other tracks, are owned by some incorporated society or body, for the purpose of bringing them within the proviso of section 55. The simple repeal of the legislation of last winter will not prevent horse racing. It will remain lawful under the proviso of section 55.

Prior to the passage of chapter 147 of the Laws of 1880, betting on any horse race, or being a stakeholder thereat, or advertising any such race, or being rider or driver thereat, or contributing to or procuring to be made up any purse to be raced for, or leasing or permitting lands to be used for racing purposes, was unlawful and punishable by fine and imprisonment, under sections 56, 57, 58 and 59 of the Crimes act. (Rev. 237.)

Chapter 147 of the Laws of 1880, by amendments to the four sections last mentioned, purports to legalize the practices theretofore interdicted by those sections, when the same are done on the grounds or under the auspices of a fair or any agricultural or other incorporated body.

It will thus be seen that, although the legislation of last winter be repealed, horse racing will still be legal, under the proviso in section 55, and betting, and the offering of prizes or purses to be raced for, will be legal under the legislation of 1880. If horse racing, for purses or otherwise, remains legalized, the opportunity for betting thereon will remain, and experience teaches that where opportunity is afforded to indulge in any forbidden practice, it will be indulged, to greater or less degree, and more or less openly, as it may be regarded safe or unsafe to do.

There is no doubt that it was the concealed purpose of the promoters of the legislation of 1880 to legalize book-making and pool-selling on race-tracks, and, until the decision in 1887, by the Court of Errors and Appeals, of the case of McClean vs. The State (reported in 20 Vroom 471), such practices were carried on, ostensibly, by virtue of that legislation. The acts of last winter were, I apprehend, really intended to effectuate the objects and purposes of the legislation of 1880, which had been in a measure defeated by the decision of the Court of Errors and Appeals before mentioned. Had not the legislation of 1880 been in existence, that of last winter would have been useless to its promoters.

I suggest, therefore, that the remedy to be applied in this case be heroic; that you pass each of the repealing acts recommended, and also re-enact, in their original form, sections 56, 57, 58 and 59 of the Crimes act. By so doing, and eradicating the cause, you will prevent all pernicious effects.

REFORM IN PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The necessity of reform in the methods of conducting primary elections is conceded. How that reform shall be effected is engaging the attention of many writers and thinkers on political problems.

In my inaugural address, I made allusion to the subject as follows:

"Ballot reform has, in recent years, accomplished much in the direction of honest elections. It would seem that the enactment of a law, applying the same principles and methods to the caucus or primary, would prove equally efficacious."

Further reflection has produced conviction that the plan suggested affords a wise and effective remedy. In explanation and illustration of the scheme proposed, I have (without any intention of encroaching upon the legislative prerogative) appended hereto the draft of a legislative act, drawn upon the lines of our ballot-reform law, and in conformity with the recent decision of the Supreme Court, that Assemblymen be elected upon a general ticket.

Under the system embodied in the proposed law, nominating elections for the nomination of candidates would be held four weeks preceding the regular elections, except in cities and certain municipalities for the election of municipal officers, where the nominating elections would precede the regular elections three weeks.

To the possible objection that the plan involves expense, the answer is that no scheme can be formulated that will not be attended with some outlay. The plan proposed is really not more expensive than any other likely to be adopted. If the matter of necessary expense is to be an insuperable bar, all idea of reformatory legislation in the direction indicated may as well be abandoned.

The nominating elections are fixed for the day on which the boards of registry now begin the house-to-house canvass. As those officers are to hold the nominating elections, a change is thus necessitated in the ballot-reform law changing the date of the house-to-house canvass. That could be made to begin one week earlier and the meetings of the boards of registry, for the correction of the registers and the personal registration of voters, could then be fixed for four weeks preceding the election, instead of three weeks as now provided. The nominating elections and the day for personal registration would thus fall together, and be conducted for one and the same expense already existing. In practice, such an arrangement would probably remove many objections now made to any plan of registration providing for personal registration only, and thus enable the large expense of the house-to-house canvass to be largely decreased, and ultimately dispensed with altogether. The booths and other fixtures required for the nominating elections are now generally on hand, ready for use, so that the greatest extra expense attending such elections would be the cost of the official ballots to be used thereat; and that charge could be largely, and, perhaps, entirely offset by savings effected in other directions.

Should it be urged that the proposed law provides for too frequent elections, such objection should have little weight, because the nominating elections are but substitutes for the already established system of election or nomination by caucus or primary. It is of no consequence whether the mode of nominating candidates be called a caucus, a primary or a nominating election, but it is of great importance that the mode adopted impartially and honestly record and express the voter's will. That result seems impossible under the existing system, and (except in the matter of public expense above alluded to) there can be no objection made to a nominating election held four weeks preceding a regular election that does not apply in much greater degree to a primary or caucus election held on the same date.

Should the proposed act become operative, it will probably be found that the interval between the nominating election and the regular election can be materially decreased (if that be desirable) without impairing the efficiency of the law, as has been the case under the ballot reform act; but in the first instance it is only prudent that sufficient time be allowed to insure the experiment a fair and honest trial, leaving to experience the suggestion of such changes as may be necessary or advisable.

It is proper that each political party, whether already existing or newly formed, should nominate its own candidates by votes of its own members. The proposed law recognizes that right and enforces it. Under the plan adopted, members of one party may sometimes, notwithstanding the risk thereby incurred, vote to nominate the candidates of another party; but such instances will about counterbalance each other, and will not be of such frequent occurrence as now. The penalties provided against any such action will prove sufficient to deter the average voter from any infraction of the law in that respect. The provisions that the use of the official ballot shall be confined to the polling-room, that the voter shall be registered, that in voting at the nominating election he shall make known and receive the party ticket he desires to vote, and that only, and be restricted in the designation of candidates to the names printed upon his party ballot, are necessary and proper, not only to the purity of the election, but to enable each party to nominate its candidates by votes of its own members. Such provisions are no invasion of the voter's rights, inasmuch as it is entirely competent to provide for viva voce voting at primary elections, and the voter has a voice in determining the names to be placed upon the printed ballots, and may, at the election for filling the offices, vote for the candidate nominated at the nominating election, or such other person as he sees fit.

The act, as drafted, does not apply to electors for President and Vice-President. It can easily be made to do so if thought best, but such a provision would in some years require a State nominating election for the sole purpose of choosing such candidates, consequently those officials are left to be nominated otherwise than under the proposed law.

The act is drawn with a view to its flexibility. Sections inserted may be omitted, or vice versa. It can readily be accommodated to any changes that may be made in the existing ballot reform law.

Without further dwelling upon details, the appended bill is submitted for the careful consideration of your Honorable Bodies, with the earnest recommendation that it, or one similar thereto, be enacted. Under a law containing such provisions, the power of the political "boss" will be destroyed and the influence of the "machine" become merely advisory. The powers usurped by those agencies will be restored to and exercised by the aggregate voters of the respective parties.

I deem it unnecessary to make any reference in this message to the reports of the different State officers, departments and commissions further than has already been done. For information on any subject connected with the State government, and not herein contained, I respectfully refer you to the appropriate report or reports herewith submitted. Should further information be required than is contained in any such report, it will be the pleasure of the Executive department to furnish it on request, if of ability so to do.

In conclusion, I desire merely to express the hope that the Legislative and Executive departments, although not in political accord, may nevertheless be able conscientiously to co-operate in wise and beneficent legislation for the public good.

The Democratic Contention.

The argument in support of the foregoing contention is embraced in an address which the Democratic Senators issued to the people of New Jersey on January 16th, 1894, as follows:

There has been so much partisan misrepresentation of the attitude of the Democratic State Senators that we deem it a duty to our constituents to present the plain statement of the steps taken to organize the State Senate on the 9th inst. On that day there was in existence a Senate composed of thirteen members.

There cannot be a time in New Jersey when there is not a Senate in existence subject, if not in session, to be called together by the Governor.

The constitutional direction to the Legislature was to meet on the 9th of January. Pursuant to that direction the nine Democratic Senators met in the Senate Chamber at 3 o'clock. The four Republican members absented themselves until about ten minutes past three.

Our position is that the nine Democrats and four Republicans were the State Senate; that it was their duty to come together at the Senate Chamber and organize at the time fixed by the Constitution; and that admission to this Senate can be legally and regularly had in but one way, that is by the action of the Senate as a political body. These propositions are elementary.

The Constitution provides that the Senate shall be the "Judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members." And no one can become a member of the Senate until the judgment of that body shall have been passed upon the returns showing his election upon the election itself and upon his qualifications. To say that the Senate is bound to admit any one presenting the return of a canvassing board is to reduce the proposition that the body is the judge of its own membership to an absurdity. In the history of the State no man has ever been admitted to the Senate in any other way than by the presentation of his credentials to a Senate in session and the acceptance of those credentials by such Senate. The Senate is not bound to receive credentials or admit applicants at any particular time.

This was decided by the Senate in 1887. Whoever will refer to page 17 of the Senate Journal of that year will find that thirteen hold-over members of the Senate met in the Senate chamber on January 11th, 1887. Hon. John W. Griggs, Senator from Passaic county, offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the organization of the Senate be postponed until to-morrow at the hour of 3 o'clock P.M. and that we do now adjourn to that day and hour.

This resolution was adopted and a similar one was thereafter adopted each day in the month of January, receiving the votes of nine hold-over Republicans and the opposition of five hold-over Democrats.

During this month of January, 1887, the Senators-elect, Werts, of Morris; Cranmer, of Ocean; Gardner, of Atlantic; Bogert, of Bergen; Baker, of Cumberland; Edwards, of Hudson, and Rue of Mercer, were refused admission to the Senate.

It was admitted by all that there could not be an admission to membership except by the assent of the body. On the 1st of February, 1887, the Republican members of the Senate permitted its organization, the manner of admission being illustrated by the following extract from the minutes of that date, page 22 of Journal :

"Mr. Griggs presented the credentials of Hon. John J. Gardner, Senator-elect from the county of Atlantic, which were read and approved, and the oath prescribed by law having been duly administered to Mr. Gardner by the President pro tempore, he took his seat in the Senate."

It will be seen that the credentials of the applicant were approved by the Senate before his admission, and this course has been pursued always during the history of the Senate.

Being a majority of the existing Senate at 3 o'clock of the 9th instant, the Democrats were not only entitled to meet, but were in duty bound to do so, and were invested with the power to send for absentees.

After the election of a President pro tem. a recess was taken until the arrival of the four Republicans, who entered the Senate and demanded that seven other gentlemen be admitted to membership. The credentials of the applicants were not submitted to the Senate, nor was any motion made for their admission. A resolution was adopted that all credentials be referred to a special committee.

This is all that was done, and it will be seen that the question involved is, "Has the Senate the right to examine the returns, elections and qualifications of its members?" or is a member justified in demanding that any applicant be seated in membership who presents credentials without even so much as an examination of the paper purporting to be such credentials.

Protests have been filed against the admission of the applicant from Monmouth county.

These protests allege charges which would, if true, disqualify the member returned from that county. They are signed by many citizens, including nearly a hundred of his immediate neighbors.

Has not the Senate a right to determine what shall be done with the returns and protests in this case? If the objections are sustained he is not entitled to a seat in the Senate.

This granted, is it true that the Democratic Senators are bound to put the gentleman returned from Monmouth county in a position where it will require a vote of his partisan colleagues to deprive him of his seat?

The Democratic minority have a perfect right to protect themselves and to object to any applicant being put in a position that he would have the deciding vote in his own case.

The Republican attitude is this: They will not submit their claims unless they are assured that the judgment will be in their favor; they will not apply to any court that they do not control.

The Democratic members respectfully and firmly submit that they are in duty bound to examine and pass upon the "elections, returns and qualifications" of those who claim to be members-elect of the Senate. For any abuse of this duty they are willing to submit to the strictest accountability, but they urge that the Republicans have deviated from the path of duty.

The Republican Contention.

The permanently organized Senate, which has been recognized by the House of Assembly, is composed of the following hold-over Senators: Messrs. Skirm, Hoffman, Stokes and Smith, and the following Senators elected in November, 1893: Messrs. Bradley, Ketcham, Packer, Rogers, Thompson, Voorhees and Ward.

Previous to their organization the newly-elected Senators above named had, pursuant to the Constitution, taken their oath of office, and were provided with certificates of their election properly authenticated and regular in form.

On the day previous to that fixed by the Constitution for the organization of the Senate, nine hold-over Senators (all Democrats) had taken possession of the Senate Chamber and excluded therefrom all of the Republican Senators.

At the time established by custom, on the 9th of January, the eleven Senators above named presented themselves at the doors of the Senate Chamber and demanded admittance. They found the doors locked, and were denied entrance until some time after the usual hour for organization.

Prior to the usual hour for organization the nine hold-over Senators had gone through a pretended organization without permitting the excluded four hold-over Republican Senators from taking part therein.

The eleven Senators were then admitted. Upon gaining admittance they requested that the organization of the Senate should be effected in the manner established by universal custom and precedent. This request was denied. The credentials and oaths of the newly-elected Senators were then tendered, and demand made that they should be permitted to take part in the organization of the Senate. This request was also declined on behalf of the Democratic hold-overs, and a motion was then made and entertained that all credentials were to be referred to a committee to be appointed by the Democratic hold-overs, who should pass upon the validity of all elections. Protest against this method of procedure was made by the newly-elected Senators, and they claimed that they were present, duly accredited and properly sworn and clothed with the right to participate in the organization. Their protests were unheard, and their claims ignored. The eleven Senators then withdrew, and proceeded to effect a permanent organization, having first invited all Senators to take part therein.

The organization of the Senate—comprising the following named Senators: Messrs. Bradley, Hoffman, Ketcham, Packer, Rogers, Skirm, Smith, Stokes, Thompson, Voorhees and Ward—was properly effected at the usual time and place by the selection of the following officers:
