On cross-examination, Robinson was questioned about employee training – specifically whether Loatman had received training on Documentation/Notes when she transferred from food handling into direct care as a HSA. In response he stated that all staff members, including Loatman, are routinely in-serviced on documentation. In-service training covers a myriad of topics that range from consumer injuries to trips on and off the facility grounds. While he could not recall the last time Loatman received in-service training, she was not on the "non-compliant list" which he checks periodically as part of his job responsibilities.

Robinson was also questioned whether he knew a Benita Dickerson, a CTS in Cottage 8 (C-8). In response, he stated that he knew Dickerson and that she and Butler were friends. At the time of the incident, he was not the direct supervisor of Butler as he was an Assistant SPRS. Butler's immediate supervisor was the Head Cottage Training Supervisor.

Brooke Butler (Butler), testified that she has been a CTS since 2015 which was when she started working at Woodbine. Prior to Woodbine, she worked in a group home for Vineland Development Center. Her current responsibilities include direct care to consumers and administrative oversight of staff members which include HSA's. According to Butler, HSA's are responsible for consumer personal hygiene and assistance in feeding, active treatment, and are required to complete documentation.

She is familiar with Loatman, an HSA in C-8, from a shift that she (Butler) picked up on April 4, 2015, and because of an incident that occurred between the two of them on that same date. Specifically, Loatman had been charged with taking a couple of consumers to church which was located on the facility grounds. According to Butler, when a consumer goes on an outing, the event and any concerns from the outing are required to be documented in the consumer's Notes. The Notes should be completed as expeditiously as possible as things happen as the day goes on and the information may not get recorded.

Several times throughout the day she reminded Loatman to complete the required documentation. The last time she told her to complete the Notes which was at the end of Loatman's shift, Loatman told her that, "I get on her fucking nerves" and that she (Butler) should stop trying to be a "super CTS... ." Loatman additionally told her that "the management ain't doing nothing to her so call them because they know who she be and she is Shawynae and I can tell anybody I want". The inference being that management would not do anything to her if Butler were to report the incident.

Butler testified that immediately after Loatman made the comments, she called the on-duty Assistant SPRS, Penny Maurone (Maurone), who instructed that both she and Loatman complete a written statement about the incident which she did. (R-3.) Maurone arrived at C-8 a few minutes later and spoke separately to the two of them.

Butler acknowledged that she is familiar with Dickerson through work however did not elaborate on whether they socialized outside of work.

On cross-examination, Butler stated that she had been working at Woodbine for approximately three months when the incident occurred. While she could not remember the exact number of times she asked Loatman to complete the Notes, she believes it was several times during the day - the last time ending with Loatman using derogatory language towards her.

When questioned where the incident occurred, Butler indicated that they were in the front of the cottage. In describing the location, she stated that she was in the CTS office and across the small hallway, Loatman was in the "family room." Neither room was very large and there was not much distance between the doorway of the two rooms. She could not remember what Loatman was doing in the family room; however, noted that there was a bathroom, TV and a table in that room. Butler also indicated that the binders for the Notes are kept in that room and that staff use the table to write on. It was her belief that Loatman had not yet completed the Notes at the time of the incident; however, upon arrival of Maurone, was directed to do so.

Shawynae Loatman (Loatman), testified that she was hired by Woodbine in June 2005 as a part-time HSA for a year. In 2006, she transferred into Food Services where she held the title of food service worker. In 2012 she took the position of full-time HSA which title/position she currently holds today. When she was first hired, as part of her orientation, she was trained on Documentation – specifically Notes. When she became a full-time HSA, she once again received orientation and in-service training.

On April 4, 2015, she worked her normal shift (7:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.) in C-8. At the time there were approximately thirty residents in C-8 with three HSA's on duty. Butler was the CTS on duty however this was the first time that she had worked on the same shift as her. Early that the morning, Butler asked Loatman to take three consumers to church, which she did as she was trying to be helpful and "give her a chance" as she (Butler) had a reputation for being harassing. Nothing eventful occurred on the way to, from, or at church with the consumers – the church located only twenty to thirty feet away from C-8.

Upon returning from church, she notified Butler of their return and went directly to the game room to start getting the consumers ready for lunch. Butler did not request or saying anything about documenting the church visit. While at lunch, Butler approached her and inquired whether Notes were required in the consumers' records after attending church. In response, she stated "not to her knowledge." An hour later Butler asked her again if Notes were required, to which she stated "no, I don't think so". An hour after that Butler again approached her, this time stating that she (Loatman) needed to document the church visit.

Around 2:30 p.m., Butler approached her and asked if she had a chance to document the church visit to which she responded that she had not; however, would get to it. At no time did she refuse to do the Notes. Given the fact that it was close to the shift change and there was consumer care required to be done prior to the end of the shift, she was not able to complete the documentation until 3:15 p.m. which was the end of her shift. It was at that time that she made her way to the family room to update the consumers' Notes.

When she was in the family room writing the Notes, Butler was in the CTS office located across the hallway and again asked her if she had done the Notes. Loatman kiddingly responded that she would do them tomorrow - both laughing as she was already in the process of completing them and was not working the next day. At no time did Butler explain the importance of doing the Notes in a timely fashion. In fact, she requested Butler to in-service her again because she did not recall learning that documentation was required when a consumer was taken to church. Loatman went on to state that she never used the terminology that she was accused of nor did she yell, scream or be hostile towards Butler. Her only comment to Butler was that she did not recall learning that Notes were required when taking a consumer to church. It was apparent to Loatman that Butler was determined to "debate" her. While she heard Butler on the phone with Maurone, she could not hear the conversation. When Butler got off the phone with Maurone, she came into the family room and told her (Loatman) that to write a statement.

When Maurone arrived, she questioned what the issue was. In response, Loatman told her that there was no issue, but rather a training question on when Notes were required to be completed. She wrote a statement to that effect. (P-2). The first time she learned that she was accused of using vulgar language was when she received the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action four or five months later.

It is Loatman's belief that Butler's actions were premeditated and retaliatory and resulted from a conflict that she had with Butler's close friend and colleague Dickerson, whom she had filed a harassment charge against. At the time she filed the harassment charges, Dickerson was her supervisor. In describing some of the harassing conduct, Loatman stated that during shift change, Dickerson and Butler would get together and if she (Loatman) asked a question they would either ignore her or say something rude. On several occasions, when she walked in the room, they would slam the door on her. The charges were ultimately deemed unfounded and since that time her relationship with Dickerson has been uncomfortable. According to Loatman, Dickerson uses her power in a harassing manner which is exactly what Butler did on the date in question. She went on to state that Butler had a reputation for harassing the workers to get things done. It is her opinion that Butler lied and fabricated the entire incident due to her close friendship with Dickerson.

FINDINGS

Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Cmty. Affairs Dep't, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

After hearing the testimony presented and review of the documentary evidence submitted, and having had an opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND as FACT that the testimony presented by Butler to be credible and consistent in that she reminded Loatman several times during the shift to complete the Notes for the consumers who were taken to church earlier in the day. I further FIND that the last time she reminded Loatman to complete the Notes, Loatman used derogatory language towards Butler. I FIND that as a result of Loatman's conduct, Butler called in the Assistant SPRS on duty, Maurone, to report the incident. I FIND that Maurone within minutes of being called, responded to C-8 and spoke to both Loatman and Butler regarding the incident. I FIND that it is important for Notes to be completed as expeditiously as possible to ensure accuracy of reporting and consumer welfare.

I further FIND Loatman's testimony and written statement inconsistent. Specifically, Loatman testified that after being reminded several times to write the Notes, she went to the family room at the end of her shift to write them. When Butler, who was across the hall in the CTS office asked if she had written the Notes, she kiddingly told Butler that she would write them the following day – both laughing as Loatman was off the following day and she was already in the process of writing them.

This testimony was contradictory to her statement wherein she reported that "my shift has ended and I wanted to go home. She demanded that I do it. I then wrote my active treatment notes." (P-2).

I further FIND that Loatman's and Butler's written statements, both of which were written almost contemporaneous with the event, were consistent in that both reflected intent and comments by Loatman that her shift was at and end; she wanted to go home; her belief that she was not in-serviced on writing Notes for church visits; and that she was not going to complete the Notes until commanded to do so.

I FIND that Loatman's testimony did not "hang together" as it relates to how rude and insulting Butler's and Dickerson's treatment towards her was over the preceding months had been, yet on the date of the incident, she went out of her way to assist Butler to "give her a chance."

Regarding Loatman's testimony that Butler's actions were premeditated and retaliatory on behalf of her (Butler's) friend Dickerson, I FIND that no credible evidence was presented in support of such an argument. The testimony that was presented consisted of unsupported hearsay and conjecture. The same holding true for Loatman's assertion that Butler had a reputation of harassing staff members to get work done.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

A civil service employee's rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12.6. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointment and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council Number 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex Cnty. Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this state is to provide public officials with appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b). A public employee who is thus protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may nonetheless be subject to major discipline for a wide variety of offenses connected to his or her employment. The general causes for such discipline are enumerated in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3.

In an appeal concerning major disciplinary action, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority to show that the action taken was justified. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). This applies to both permanent career service employees and those in their working test period relative to such issues as removal, suspension, or fine and disciplinary demotion. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-14, 2-6. The State has the burden to establish by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550 (1982).

This matter involves a major disciplinary action brought by Woodbine against Loatman seeking a twenty-day suspension. Specifically, Loatman has been charged with insubordination - C9 (intentional disobedience or refusal to accept a reasonable order, assaulting or resisting authority, disrespect or use of insulting or abusive language to supervisor)

The "incident" giving rise to the FNDA identifies the following basis for the sustained charges:

> On April 4, 2015 at 3:15 p.m. you were directed to complete Active Treatment Notices on three gentlemen who you had taken to church that day. You began to yell and curse refusing to complete the documentation.

Loatman's argument centers on credibility or lack thereof on Butler's part and a perceived premeditated and retaliatory motive by Butler due to a complaint that she had previously lodged against Butler's friend Dickerson. For the reasons cited above - I disagree.

Insubordination is defined as intentional disobedience or refusal to accept a reasonable order, assaulting or resisting authority; disrespect or use of insulting or abusive language to supervisor. Black's Law Dictionary 870 (9th ed. 2009) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Id. at 802. Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Such dictionary definitions have been utilized by courts to define the term where it is not specifically defined in contract or regulation.

Similarly, case law generally interprets the term to mean the refusal to obey an order of a supervisor. See e.g. Belleville v. Coppla, 187 N.J. Super. 147 (App. Div. 1982); Millan v. Morris View, 177 N.J. Super. 620 (App. Div. 1981); Rivell v. Civil Service Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1971), certif. denied, 59 N.J. 269 (1971).

According to Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) "insubordination" refers to acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience.

I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the legally competent, credible evidence that appellant committed acts of insubordination. Appellant's behavior towards her supervisor in raising her voice and use of inappropriate and derogatory language, demonstrated defiance and an utter lack of respect for authority.

PENALTY

A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to her duties may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b), 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). This requires a de novo review of appellant's disciplinary action. In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

Respondent seeks to suspend the appellant twenty-working-days for her actions. In her thirteen years working for Woodbine, appellant has been disciplined multiple times. (J-1.) In 2006, she was disciplined for fighting or creating a disturbance and insubordination for which she received a ten-day suspension. On at least six occasions from 2007 through 2017, she was disciplined for chronic excessive absenteeism. The penalties ranged from a written warning and official reprimand to a six-day suspension January 2009. On three occasions (July 28, 2011, February 1, 2013 and May 2, 2013), she was disciplined for violation of a rule, regulation, policy procedure or administrative decision. The penalties ranged from a final to a six-day suspension in May 2013. She has been disciplined for being absent from work without permission and/or proper notice on two occasions (October 5, 2013 and September 12, 2017) for which she received either an official reprimand or a written warning. In March 2017, she received a written warning for a serious mistake due to carelessness.

After having considered the proofs offered in this matter and the impact of the appellant's behavior upon the institution, and after having given due deference to the principal of progressive discipline, I CONCLUDE that appellant's violations are significant enough to warrant a penalty, which, in part, is meant to impress upon her the seriousness of her actions and conduct towards her supervisor.

As this is a second violation for insubordination, I CONCLUDE that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant for twenty working days is reasonable and consistent with progressive discipline, and should be affirmed.

ORDER

I hereby order that the charges are sustained. Accordingly, I ORDER that the action of the respondent is AFFIRMED, and the appellant shall be suspended for twenty working days.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B 10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CSC DKT. NO. 2018-2240

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: AUGUST 3, 2018 BW

The appeal of Malcolm Poulard, Human Services Specialist 3, Hudson County, Department of Family Services, 15 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Ernest M. Bongiovanni, who rendered his initial decision on June 26, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on August 1, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Malcolm Poulard.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

MALCOLM POULARD,

Seth Gollin, (Field Representative, AFSCME) appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(A)6 for appellant

John J. Collins, Esq., (Assistant County Counsel for Hudson County) for respondent

Record Closed: June 6, 2018 Decided: June 26, 2018

BEFORE ERNEST M. BONGIOVANNI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Malcolm Poulard challenges the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated January 8, 2018, imposing a fifteen-day working suspension for chronic or excessive lateness, in violation of Civil Service Rule 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, in violation of Civil Service Rule 4A:2-2.3(a)(7).

The Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13 to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on January 16, 2018.

The hearing was held on June 6, 2018 at which time the record was closed.

ISSUES

The issues in this case are whether there is sufficient credible evidence to sustain the charges of neglect of duty, chronic or excessive lateness, or other sufficient cause, and if sustained, whether a penalty of a fifteen-day working suspension is warranted.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

Malcolm Poulard is employed as a Hudson County Department of Family Services, as a Human Services Specialist #3. He was the subject of two prior disciplinary actions for lateness, one resulting in a one-day suspension, the other in a five-day suspension.

SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

Respondent's Case

Roger Quinata, personnel officer for the Hudson County Department of Family Services, was the only witness for respondent. He has held the same title for ten years. He supervises staff in all matters of personnel, including issues concerning human resources, medical benefits and disciplinary matters. Part of his duties concern employee attendance, although support staff oversee and maintain these records. He is familiar with the appellant, his attendance and disciplinary history.

Mr. Quinata explained that Article XLI, entitled "Lateness," (R-2) of the local 2036 collective bargaining agreement governs the employees' duty to arrive to work on time. Under the policy, there is a five-minute grace period, so that an employee who arrives 5 minutes late or less is not marked as late. For a first infraction, an employee who is late nine or more times in a calendar quarter of a year (January-March, April-June, July-September, October-December) shall be subject to a one-day suspension. Subsequent infractions are based on "rolling quarters," that is 90 days commencing after the last instance of lateness for which the suspension was imposed. A second infraction occurs where the employee was late 9 times or more times in a quarter, subjecting the employee to a five-day suspension. A third infraction occurs where the employee is late seven or more times in a quarter, subjecting him to a fifteen-day suspension.

Mr. Quintana produced attendance records compiled for the hearing (R-3). This attendance record was based on the Department's "Kronos" system of maintaining attendance which designates the attendance by the employer issuing codes assigned to a given day, including such designations as, among others, MED/L for medical leave of absence and FAM/L for family leave, S, for sick, and AWOL for absent without leave. (R-4). Employees have access to this system and can track how their attendance is being kept by the employer. According to the attendance records, Poulard was late for work eight times between September 7, 2017 and November 15, 2017. Also, the exact amount of lateness for each instance was recorded, which ranged from the least being 9 minutes and the most being two hours.

All the instances of lateness on the Kronos record were designated by the numbers of minutes Poulard was late (as fractions of an hour or hours) and all were followed with the designation "WO" (the designations such as AWOL are abbreviated for space). Mr. Quintana explained the procedure by which the employee would call in to explain why he was late and the process of excusing lateness. In some instances, even where the employee doesn't call in, for instance when he is too sick to do so, an instance of lateness can be excused. In Mr. Poulard's case, there was no record of any request to excuse any lateness. None of the instances of lateness were excused. This was Mr. Poulard's third infraction for excessive lateness (R-6) and (R-7).

During the quarter under consideration, Mr. Poulard was covered by a leave of absence, for a six-month period, under the Family and Medical Leave Act, (FMLA) for having a serious health condition, evidenced by a statement signed by his treating doctor, allowing him to be absent, without pay, for 8 hours a day, twice a month. According to Mr. Poulard's chiropractor, his "flare ups" (the diagnosis or symptoms were not otherwise described) "can occur one time every two weeks" resulting in an "incapacity to work" for a period lasting up to two days (R-7, page 3, Addendum).

Under cross examination, Mr. Quintana was repeatedly asked if he was aware of instances where Mr. Poulard's supervisor (s) were made aware of, and/or approved of Mr. Poulard's use of his FMLA time during days when he was marked late. Mr. Quintana was unaware of any such instance. Moreover, he said, such instances could not be approved because the leave of absence permitted was for periods of eight hours a day, once every two weeks, not for the periods of work for which Mr. Poulard arrived late.

Moreover, according to Mr. Quintana, Mr. Poulard was given time between notification of a pending disciplinary charge to submit reasons for his lateness, and Mr. Poulard never explained during that period that he meant to use his FMLA time off to excuse his lateness.

Appellant's Case

Malcolm Poulard testified as follows. He has worked for the Hudson County Department of Family Services for seven years and is now a Human Services Specialist #3. He was never made aware of the lateness problem until he received the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) (R-1).[1] He was aware that his doctor had prescribed the use of intermittent or periodic leave of absence, of 8 hours a day, every two weeks, but said he "could not afford to use" the leave in that manner as it would compel him to give up 8 hours of salary earned for those days, as FMLA is leave without pay.[2]

He said that when his FMLA began he was told by a Supervisor, Lucy Diaz, that although his doctor had authorized absences of 8 hours a day once every two weeks, he could exercise the leave for lesser periods, such as hours or minutes in a given day. He also called every time he was late or going to be late to advise, either Ms. Diaz, Susan Egbert, "Janet" or "Debbie" of the reason for lateness being attributable to his FMLA.

Under cross examination, he said that after the PNDA was taken it was "too late" for him to explain his belief that the instances of lateness were instead instances where he was using FMLA time. He said that although all the calls he made to his office during these lateness episodes to explain his reasons for being late were on his cellphone, he was not going to "go back a year" to search for records of calls. Asked if he recalled the December 2017 hearing, he stated that at the time "there was a lot going on in my life." Although he called in each time he was late owing to the use of FMLA, he believed that once the initial FMLA six-month period was approved he could "use it at my discretion" as to specific hours and dates. During the period in which the appellant is charged with excessive lateness, he took no paid sick time, vacation or personal time, as he had used all the accumulated or annual time for that period.

CREDIBILITY

When witnesses present conflicting testimony, it is the duty of the trier of fact to weigh each witness's credibility and make a factual finding. Credibility is the value that a fact finder assigns to the testimony of a witness, and it incorporates the overall assessment of the witness's story considering its rationality, consistency, and how it comports with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2D 718 (9TH Cir. 1963); see In Re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). Credibility findings "are often influenced by matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 474 (1999). A fact finder is expected to base decisions on credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 847, 93 S.Ct. 2357, 37 L.Ed.2d 380 (1973).

[2] He stated: "I do it in a way that allows me to...recuperate and make it to work in a timely manner."

The finder of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witnesses, and credibility does not automatically rest on the party with more witnesses. In Re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514 (1950). Testimony may be disbelieved, but may not be disregarded at an administrative proceeding. Middleton Twp. V. Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super 511 (App. Div. 1962). Credible testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but must be credible in itself. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-555 (1954).

Mr. Quintana was forthright in his testimony. He was straightforward and direct in his answers. When he did not know an answer, such as in one case not knowing why on a specific date medical leave was granted, he said so. He was credible and believable. His testimony likewise was credible.

Mr. Poulard was not direct in his answers. He was at times vague and evasive. He appeared incapable of giving simple answers when called for, such as if he agreed he was late (whether excused or not) for the specific times that were recorded on the time sheets. At first, he said he didn't dispute the timesheets, then said he did dispute them. When asked if he was changing his testimony he asked to speak to his attorney before giving another answer. He also claimed he wasn't aware of the "idiosyncrasy" of having to call in to advise that he was using his FMLA time once he had an approved FMLA, yet he also said he always called in to advise when he would be late owing to the FMLA. Appellant also sidestepped the question of why he never noticed that none of his FMLA time ever appeared in the Kronos timekeeping system even though he had everyday access to these records. Specific statements he made simply defied credulity. To name a few, he claimed not to have heard anything about the charges in the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action until the date of the Departmental hearing. Although he posited it that he called one of four named supervisors from his cellphone whenever he would be late because of his exercise of FMLA, regarding proof of same, he said he would not check his cell records from "over a year ago", although the departmental hearing was only two months after the last lateness incident and the Administrative Appeal less than seven months after it. Finally, he claimed that when his FMLA was approved he was told by a supervisor, Ms. Diaz that he could use FMLA for minutes or hours over several days rather than 8 hours a day, once every two weeks. He said he had no reason to believe Ms. Diaz could not testify at the departmental or administrative hearings. He also had been through two prior disciplinary proceedings and regarding this current infraction, had representation at the departmental hearing and up to and including the administrative proceeding. Despite that background, in explaining why Ms. Diaz was not asked to be a witness, he claimed "I didn't know I could bring any witnesses."

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing, as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS.

1. As a supervisor in the Hudson County Department of Family Services, Mr. Poulard is a full-time employee working eight hours daily beginning 8:30 A.M., Mondays through Fridays.

2. Poulard was late for work eight times in a measured "rolling quarter" or 90 days, between August 29, 2017 and November 15, 2017 as follows:

    1. September 7, 2017 - 52 minutes
    2. September 12, 2017 - 12 minutes
    3. September 14, 2017 – 9 minutes
    4. September 25, 2017 - 1 hour, 9 minutes
    5. October 2, 2017 - 11 minutes
    6. October 4, 2017 - 24 minutes
    7. November 14, 2017 – 2 hours
    8. November 15, 2017 – 21 minutes

3. Appellant has an approved leave of absence, under the Family and Medical Leave Act, for six months, which period included the rolling quarter in question, which permitted him to take off, without pay, 8 hours a day, once every two weeks.

4. During the quarter, in addition to the eight times Poulard was late, he had six additional days (August 30, September 21, September 27, October 17, October 30, November 3,) where he took approved medical leave for the entire day, and several other occasions with approved medical leave for part of the day.

5. During the quarter, the attendance records show no evidence that Mr. Poulard intended to exercise or did exercise his FMLA unpaid time.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6 governs a civil service employee's rights and duties. The act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service. It is to be liberally constructed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council No. 1 N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super 583 (App. Div. 1972) Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n., 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of New Jersey is to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority to public officials in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A1-2 (b). To carry out this policy, the Act also includes provisions authorizing the discipline of public employees.

The public employee who is protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may be subject to major discipline for a wide variety of offenses connected to his or her employment. The general causes for such discipline are set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2 2.3(a). In an appeal from such discipline, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relies by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); Polk, 90 N.J. 550. The evidence must ne such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, the judge must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del Lackawanna and W.R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Preponderance may be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

This appeal to the Merit System Board requires that the Office of Administrative law conduct a de novo hearing and determine the appellant's guilt or innocence as well as the appropriate penalty. In the Matter of Morrison, 216 N.J. Super 143 (App. Div. 1987).

Charge 1 of the FNDA charges Poulard with "Chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness." Courts have held that excessive absenteeism need not be accommodated and that attendance is an essential function of most jobs. Mueller v Exxon Research and Engineering Co., 345 N.J. Super 595, 605-606 (App. Div. 2001). Although Muller refers to absenteeism, logic dictates that it also applies to excessive lateness, for the impact of such conduct on the work environment is the same.

The collective bargaining agreement between the employees and employer contains a policy on lateness for employees with two prior infractions as having seven unexcused instances of lateness in a 90-day measured "rolling quarter." An instance of lateness is being late more than five minutes after reporting time. No cautionary warnings are needed before an employee can be disciplined for lateness. Here the evidence is irrefutable that the appellant was late eight times in said quarter. Although appellant had trouble admitting it, his case was not that he wasn't late but that his lateness was excused because he was exercising his FMLA leave of absence each time he was late. However, in his only instance of candor appellant stated that he couldn't "afford" to exercise his FMLA time with the prescribed 8 hours a day once every two weeks, so that he chose to "do it in a way that allows me to... recuperate and make it to work in a timely manner." He believed he could exercise his FMLA time "at [his] discretion."

In fact, however, his approved FMLA gave him no such discretion. It was uncontested that all employees are required to call in sick when sick or as soon as they are physically able to do so, that all instances of lateness must be excused, and that employees that don't want to incur a disciplinary infraction only have a five-minute grace period from the reporting time or have an excused lateness before they are considered late. Poulard obviously was reluctant to use his FMLA time. If exercised six times in a quarter, as permitted, he would have lost 48 hours of pay, whereas he only lost approximately six hours of pay for lateness.

However, if an employee under FMLA doesn't exercise his excused leave time in accordance with the approved plan that his own doctor prescribed, he also can't expect to live by unwritten rules about FMLA substituting as lateness because a supervisor allegedly told him it was alright to do so. It flies in the face of the literal words of the approved FMLA, and it contradicts the uncontested attendance records. It strains all reason to believe his employer would reward the employee by letting him save money by being late to work. The respondent more than carried its burden of proving chronic or excessive lateness by preponderance of the credible evidence.

As to the second charge and third charges neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, neither party presented evidence distinct from the lateness, nor made any arguments that those charges should be sustained. Accordingly, those two charges are dismissed.

There remains the issue of the imposition of a fifteen-day suspension for this infraction. In deciding which penalty is appropriate, the courts have looked toward the concept of progressive discipline. W. New York v. Bock, 38 NJ at 523-524. The New Jersey Supreme Court held that evidence of a past disciplinary record, including the nature number and proximity to prior instances of misconduct can be considered in determining the appropriate penalty. The penalty imposed must not be so disproportionate to the offense and the mitigating circumstances that the decision is arbitrary and unreasonable.

In this matter, Poulard has a moderate disciplinary history, having been disciplined twice before, also for lateness. For the first infraction he received the one-day penalty prescribed in the collective bargaining agreement and for the second the prescribed five-day penalty. Both infractions took place in successive quarters in late 2016. This third infraction took place almost exactly one year after the first two. Combined lateness for all three infractions show 26 instances of lateness between October 1, 2016 and November 15, 2017. During a substantial portion of that time, Appellant has had the benefit of a requested FMLA.

The Collective Bargaining agreement provides for a 15-day suspension for a third infraction for lateness. As the aim of that policy is to provide a uniform penalty focused on one particular cause for discipline, lateness, the court should be reluctant to consider, if possible, a different penalty. Further, the policy reasonably addresses the interest of providing progressive discipline. Finally, neither of the parties argued for a different penalty if the charge was sustained.

I CONCLUDE by the preponderance of the credible evidence that Mr. Poulard was guilty of chronic or excessive lateness, and that the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action should be upheld. I further CONCLUDE that the penalty of a fifteen-day working suspension is appropriate.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the appellant's Appeal is DENIED.

It is further ORDERED that the appellant's fifteen-day suspension is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

In the Matter of Juan Rivera Hudson County, Department of Roads and Public Property	FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION
CSC DKT. NOS. 2018-506, 2018-1571 & 2018-1398 OAL DKT. NOS. CSV 12873-17, 18165-17 & 18185-17 (Consolidated)

ISSUED: AUGUST 3, 2018 BW

The appeals of Juan Rivera, Truck Driver, Hudson County, Department of Roads and Public Property, 10 working day suspension and two 20 working day suspensions, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Susana E. Guerrero, who rendered her consolidated initial decision on June 26, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on August 1, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision to uphold the 10 working day suspension, modify the first 20 working day suspension to a 15 working day suspension and uphold the second 20 working day suspension.

Since the penalty for Juan Rivera's first 20 working day suspension has been modified, he is entitled to five days of back pay, benefits and seniority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. However, he is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), the award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div.

March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, although Rivera's penalty was modified by the Commission, charges were sustained and major discipline was imposed. Thus, Rivera did not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as they have failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining Juan Rivera was justified. The Commission therefore upholds the 10 working day suspension, modifies the first 20 working day suspension to a 15 working day suspension and upholds the second 20 working day suspension. The Commission further orders that Juan Rivera be granted five days of back pay, benefits and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

Samuel B. Wenocur, Esq., for appellant Juan Rivera (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

John J. Collins, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Hudson County (Donato J. Battista, County Counsel)

Record Closed: May 24, 2018 Decided: June 26, 2018

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This consolidated proceeding consists of three appeals by Juan Rivera (Rivera or appellant) of three suspensions imposed by the Hudson County Department of Roads and Public Property (Hudson County or respondent). Respondent issued a ten-day suspension and two twenty-day suspensions for three separate instances of alleged misconduct over the course of nearly four months. Rivera challenges the respondent's findings and the severity of the discipline imposed.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or around June 28, 2017, respondent served Rivera, a truck driver, with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) informing him of the charges made against him for not completing his work assignment and failing to follow County procedures when picking up a county showmobile on June 11, 2017. Rivera was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated August 10, 2017, which sustained all charges set forth in the PNDA. Rivera was issued a non-consecutive ten-day working suspension, from August 22, 2017 through October 25, 2017, which has since been served.

On or around October 5, 2017, Rivera was served with two additional PNDAs. One involved an incident that allegedly occurred on September 30, 2017, when appellant failed to appear for a 10:00 p.m. pick-up of a showmobile at Braddock Park. A FNDA was issued on November 30, 2017, which sustained all charges set forth in the September 30, 2017 PNDA, and appellant was assessed a twenty-day suspension to be served between March 6, 2018 and June 5, 2018. The second PNDA dated October 5, 2017, involved an incident that occurred on October 2, 2017, when appellant allegedly failed to return to work contrary to his supervisor's directive. A FNDA was issued on November 30, 2017, sustaining the charges and imposing a twenty-day suspension for the infraction, to be served non-consecutively between December 5, 2017 and March 1, 2018.

The New Jersey Civil Service Commission, Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs, (Commission) transmitted the first matter with the FNDA dated August 10, 2017, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 5, 2017, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. This matter was initially assigned to the Honorable Joan Bedrin Murray, Administrative Law Judge, and the matter was reassigned to the undersigned after Judge Bedrin transferred to Tax Court.

The Commission transmitted the second and third matters, with the August 30, 2017 FNDAs to the OAL, which were filed on December 12, 2017. These matters were initially assigned to the Honorable Elissa Testa, ALJ.

On February 7, 2018, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.1 and 17.3, the undersigned consolidated the three matters in the interest of efficiency and economy, and pursuant to respondent's request and appellant's consent.

The consolidated hearing was held on April 19, 2018. The record closed on May 24, 2018, upon receipt of information from the parties concerning appellant's disciplinary history.

CHARGES

The sustained charges in each of the three FNDAs include: Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee; Neglect of Duty; Insubordination; and Other Sufficient Cause.

The incident(s) giving rise to the charges listed in the August 10, 2017 FNDA, for which Rivera received a ten-day suspension, reads as follows:

> On June 11, 2017 you were scheduled to drop off and pick up the County Showmobile at Lincoln Park. This is a two man operation, the County procedure is that you are to go to the County Garage[,] pick up the showmobile with the other driver > who is scheduled with you, then follow the same procedure when picking it up. Instead of picking the showmobile back up with the driver, you went directly to Lincoln Park in your personal car, dressed in a suit with your family, hitched the showmobile to the truck and got back in your personal car and drove off, leaving the driver by himself to return the showmobile. You submitted an overtime sheet for 4 hrs for the pickup of the Showmobile which was denied. This is a safety issue to the public and the other driver, and you did not follow procedure.

The incident(s) that allegedly took place on September 30, 2017, giving rise to the charges in a FNDA dated November 30, 2017, for which Rivera received a twenty-day suspension, reads:

> On September 30, 2017, you were assigned to pickup and transport the County Showmobile, you were advised to arrive at work at 10pm for an 11pm pickup, you failed to show up on time. Gregory McMillan at 10:30pm called Supervisor John Saar to inform him that you hadn't showed up. Sup[ervisor] Saar contacted you and you informed him you would be there in 10 mins. At 11pm you still weren't at work and Mr. McMillan was told to go home.
> The transport had to be rescheduled for the next day. During the winter and fall seasons the use of the Showmobiles are in high demand and the time scheduling is precise for delivery and pickup for multiple events that are on a time table. This is not acceptable. You are currently serving a 10 day suspension for another incident with Showmobile.

The incident(s) that allegedly occurred on October 2, 2017, giving rise to the charges in the second FNDA dated November 30, 2017, for which Rivera received a twenty-day suspension, reads:

> On October 2, 2017, your Supervisor was doing his rounds, drove up to your work area, where 4 employees were assigned to cut weeds and clean debris. Two of the employees were [sic] and two remained in the truck. After about 10 minutes your Supervisor approached the truck to inform you to get out of the truck and back to work. You [sic] found you on your personal cell phone while your coworkers were out working on their assigned jobs. You were told to get back to work, you told your Supervisor to wait a minute

> [and] you remained in the truck still on your cell phone for a [sic] least another 10 minutes before getting out of the truck. You have been written up several times for being insubordinate to your Supervisors.

June 11, 2017 Incident (CSV 12873-2017)

Wally Wolfe (Wolfe), the Division Chief with the County of Hudson, Roads Divison, testified on behalf of the respondent. Wolfe explained that the County owns a thirty-foot long showmobile that is used for shows and events around the County. The showmobile is hitched to a County truck for transporting, and County Guidelines require that, for safety reasons, two County employees transport and set up the showmobile (referred to as the "two-man safety rule"). The drop-off and pick-up of the showmobile constitutes overtime when it occurs outside regular business hours. These overtime assignments are voluntary, and are offered to employees on the basis of seniority. If an employee declines the assignment, it is offered to the next employee on the seniority list. Prior to accepting the overtime assignments, employees are informed of the showmobiles drop-off and pick-up times, and location. When transporting the showmobile outside regular business hours, overtime is typically compensated in increments of four hours.

Wolfe had received complaints that employees transporting the showmobile were not following operating procedures by failing to report on time, wear the County uniform and adhere to the two-man safety rule, which caused safety concerns and risk of damage to the equipment. In response, Wolfe asked Robert Spinello (Spinello), a Traffic Supervisor, to check up on the showmobile transport scheduled for June 11, 2017.

Spinello observed the showmobile pick-up on June 11, 2017 at Lincoln Park in Jersey City, and reported his findings to Wolfe. Wolfe documented the information provided to him by Spinello in a memo to his supervisor, who then prepared the PNDA. (R-2.) In his June 13, 2017 memo, Wolf indicates that Spinello observed the transportation of the showmobile following the completion of an event in Lincoln Park on June 11, 2017, and that:

> At approximately 11:50pm, Spinello observed a Class A operator D. Feliciano to drive from the Roads Duncan facility alone into Lincoln Park . . . . At approximately 12:00, Spinello observed the other Class A driver Juan Rivera to arrive shortly thereafter in a personal vehicle with a female within the car.
> He was observed out of uniform to assist Feliciano in hitching up the showmobile to the truck and then he re-entered the personal vehicle and drove away . . . . Subsequent to that, Spinello observed the single Class A driver to transport the showmobile back to Duncan/Roads and back . . . into the storage area in the yard alone without the required safety guide, (Rivera). Lastly, CDL Driver Rivera submitted a request for 8 hours overtime which is being held and denied."

Wolfe testified that County procedures require that both the driver and the guide ride in the County truck together when hauling the showmobile to and from an event. When transporting a County showmobile, County employees are also required to wear their County uniform. This is reflected in a memorandum dated June 10, 2015 to all Supervisors and Staff which states in part that Class A drivers, including operators and guides, "are to arrive on time, in uniform and operate the showmobile in a safe matter [sic] . . ." This memo was available to all employees, and it memorialized what was already Standard Operating Procedure (SOP).

Robert A. Spinello, Supervisor of Traffic Maintenance for Hudson County Roads and Bridges, also testified on behalf of the respondent. He was asked by Wolfe to check on the employees picking up the showmobile in Lincoln park at approximately noon on June 11, 2017, and he observed the pick-up at that time. The employee driving the County truck to the park to pick-up the showmobile, Feliciano, wore his County uniform. Rivera, however, was dressed in slacks and a dress shirt, not his County uniform. After they finished hitching the showmobile to the truck, Rivera got back into his minivan and drove away.

A request for eight hours of overtime was completed for the June 11, 2017 assignment, which Rivera signed. (R-5.) Spinello denied Rivera's request for overtime because Rivera did not complete his task, and violated SOP, when picking up the showmobile out of uniform and failing to accompany the driver back to the garage. An overtime sheet was later approved for Rivera, for four hours, to cover the drop-off of the showmobile at Lincoln Park. (R-6.)

Rivera has been employed by respondent since December 2005. He testified that prior to picking up the showmobile on June 11, 2017, he attended service from eleven to noon at a church near Lincoln Park. He conceded that he did not wear his County uniform when he presented to pick-up the showmobile, but that his supervisor, Saar, was aware that Rivera would attend church immediately before pick-up. Saar, did not, however, authorize Rivera to complete his assigned overtime in his church clothes or using his personal vehicle. Rivera was aware that he was required to wear his County uniform during these overtime assignments, but testified that he did not have time to change. He was also aware that, for safety reasons, two employees are required to pick-up and return the showmobile to the County garage. Rivera testified that he intended to go back to the County garage after hitching the showmobile to the County truck, but when he returned to his car after hitching the showmobile to the truck, his wife was crying in pain and he decided to take her home. Rivera never communicated with anyone at any time that he did not return to the garage because of his wife's condition.

Respondent imposed a ten-day suspension in light of his past behavior and prior discipline.

September 30, 2017 Incident (CSV 18185-2017)

John Saar (Saar), a General Roads Supervisor for Hudson County Roads Department, testified on behalf of respondent. He is charged with supervising Rivera, and prepared and signed the October 5, 2017 PNDA for an incident that allegedly occurred on September 30, 2017. At approximately 10:30pm on September 30, 2017, Saar received a telephone call from a driver, Gregory McMillan (McMillan), who reported that he had been waiting for Rivera at the Jersey City Duncan Avenue garage for about half an hour. Rivera was scheduled to meet McMillan at the garage at 10:00 p.m. for an 11:00 p.m. pick-up of a showmobile in Braddock Park in North Bergen. This was an overtime assignment that Rivera voluntarily accepted. McMillan asked Saar to reach out to Rivera concerning his whereabouts, and when Saar called Rivera at approximately 10:30 p.m., Rivera indicated that he was on his way to the garage and that he would be there in about ten minutes.

When Rivera failed to arrive at the garage, McMillan called Saar back at approximately 11:00 p.m. and Saar gave McMillan permission to go home since Rivera had not arrived. Rivera arrived at the garage shortly after McMillan had left, and called Saar a few minutes past 11:00 p.m. Since Rivera did not present on time that evening to pick up the showmobile, the pick-up had to take place the next day (Sunday). The showmobile, which remained in Braddock Park overnight, was scheduled to be used in Kearny the following day, and since the showmobile was not returned to the Duncan Avenue garage in Jersey City on Saturday evening, respondent asserts that there was a delay in getting the showmobile to the event in Kearny the next morning.

Rivera conceded that he was aware that he was to appear at the Duncan Avenue garage at 10:00 p.m. for a scheduled showmobile pick-up on September 30, 2017. He testified that he was at his mother's house in Philadelphia that evening, and left her house at approximately 8:00 p.m. to go to the Duncan Avenue garage. He testified that it takes approximately an hour and forty-five minutes to get to Jersey City from Philadelphia, however, there was an accident on the road that evening that caused him to be late. He also testified that when Saar called him the first time, Rivera told him that he would be 15-20 minutes late. He then called Saar at approximately 10:55 when he arrived at the garage and offered to pick-up the showmobile alone but Saar told him that it would be picked up the next day. Rivera also testified that he dropped off the showmobile in Kearny the following day and that it did not arrive late to the event.

October 2, 2017 Incident (CSV 18165-2017)

Juan Rafael Vazquez (Vazquez), Assistant Supervisor at the Hudson County Roads Department, testified on behalf of respondent. Vazquez supervises Rivera and he completed and signed the statement in the PNDA dated October 5, 2017 relating to an alleged incident that took place on October 2, 2017. On October 2, 2017, Vazquez drove to a job site at Paterson Plank Road to ensure that the workers returned to the job site after lunch, which ended at noon. The truck with the four workers, including Rivera, arrived at the site from their lunch break sometime between 12:10 and 12:15 p.m. Two workers exited the truck and returned to work, however, Rivera and another employee, Keith Mortensen (Mortensen), remained in the truck. After another ten to fifteen minutes from when the truck returned to the job site, Vazquez walked over to the truck and asked Rivera and Mortensen to exit the truck and get to work. Mortensen was sleeping and Rivera was on his personal cell phone, according to Vazquez. Vazquez then watched the truck for approximately another ten minutes until Rivera and Mortensen finally exited the truck. Even after exiting the truck, Rivera remained on his phone for a few minutes before returning to work.

Vazquez wrote up Rivera and Mortenson for failing to comply with his direct order to return to work. He did not discipline the four employees for returning fifteen minutes late from lunch.

Rivera denied that he returned to work late. He testified that on October 2, 2017 he was assigned to Paterson Plank Road to clean sidewalks. Their lunch break ended at noon, and Rivera testified that they returned from lunch at 11:55 a.m., and that he stayed in the County truck while he spoke with his wife on the telephone for two to four minutes. Rivera testified that he called his wife at 11:55 a.m., and that he remained in the truck with Mortensen after the other two employees existed the truck. Rivera denies that Vazquez ever spoke to him at the job site. He asserts that he returned to work on time, and specifically at 11:59 a.m.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties stipulated that the following consists of Rivera's prior disciplinary history and I, therefore, FIND them as FACTS:

1. On February 28, 2012, Rivera received a three-day suspension for refusing to do work; refusing to hang up cell phone; and for not being able to be found by his supervisor. This was upheld on a mediation award.

2. On June 9, 2015, Rivera received a one-day suspension. This was upheld through an arbitrator's award.

3. On October 25, 2015, Rivera received a written warning for his failure to appear for pre-scheduled overtime.

4. On June 16, 2017, Rivera received a five-day suspension for his failure to pick-up a showmobile on pre-scheduled overtime.[1]

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also must be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

[1] This was processed prior to, but close in time to, the ten-day appeal here, and respondent considered this five-day suspension when imposing the ten-day suspension.

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

While the underlying facts of what occurred on June 11, 2017 are largely uncontested, Rivera's testimony that he intended to return to the garage with his co-worker, but decided to drive his wife home when he saw her crying in pain, lacks credibility. This was not information that he shared with his co-worker or supervisor at the time, and his explanation did not appear truthful. Similarly, Rivera's explanation as to why he arrived approximately an hour late to his scheduled assignment on September 30, as well as his timing of the telephone calls with Saar and his arrival at the garage, strained credibility as contracted with Saar's account of the events that evening.

Finally, with respect to the incident of October 2, 2017, Vazquez testified convincingly concerning his recollection of the events that afternoon when he observed Rivera and his co-workers at the job site. Rivera's account, on the other hand, and particularly his timing of the events, including his testimony that he returned to work at 11:59, exactly one minute before the end of his lunch break, appeared entirely fabricated and farfetched.

Based on the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess credibility, I make the following additional FINDINGS of FACT:

With respect to the June 11, 2017 incident (CSV 12873-2017), the underlying facts of what occurred are largely uncontested. Rivera arrived at the job site, at Lincoln Park, to pick-up the showmobile wearing his personal clothing, not his County uniform, as Rivera concedes was required when dropping off and picking up the showmobile. Rivera also concedes that he did not accompany his co-worker (driver) back to the garage after hitching the showmobile to the truck. At the time, Rivera was aware of the "two man safety rule" which required him to accompany his co-worker to return the showmobile safely to the County garage. Rivera also signed and submitted an overtime sheet for the four hours of overtime when he did not complete his assignment by failing to return the showmobile to the garage with the driver.

With respect to the September 30, 2017 incident (CSV 18185-2017), Rivera volunteered to work overtime on that evening, and he knew that he was required to meet his co-worker at the County garage at 10:00 p.m. for an 11:00 p.m. pick-up of a showmobile. Rivera did not arrive at 10:00 p.m. At approximately 10:30 p.m., as Rivera had still not arrived, he received a telephone call from Saar, his supervisor, inquiring as to his whereabouts. Rivera indicated to Saar that he would be there in approximately ten minutes, but he failed to arrive until approximately 11:00 p.m. Due to Rivera's tardiness that evening, his co-worker was permitted to leave at approximately 11:00 p.m., and the pick-up could not be accomplished that evening since the job required two workers. Rivera arrived at the garage approximately an hour late and since his co-worker had been relieved, the pick-up had to take place the following morning and this created a disruption to the pick-up and drop-off schedules.

With regard to the October 2, 2017 incident (CSV 18165-2018), Vazquez testified credibly that while all four employees arrived at the job site approximately ten to fifteen minutes late, Rivera remained in the truck on his personal cell phone while Mortensen, a co-worker, slept in the truck. After approximately ten minutes after their arrival at the job site, Vazquez instructed them to exit the truck and get back to work. Rivera, however, remained on his cell phone and did not return to work for another ten minutes, approximately. While the four employees were not disciplined for returning to work fifteen minutes late, Rivera and Mortensen were disciplined for failing to comply with their supervisor's directive.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Public employees' rights and duties are governed and protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12-6, and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 to 4A:2-6.2. However, public employees may be disciplined for a variety of offenses involving their employment, including the general causes for discipline as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). An appointing authority may discipline an employee for sufficient cause, including failure to obey laws, rules and regulations of the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11).

In disciplinary cases, the appointing authority has both the burden of persuasion and production and must demonstrate by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that it had just cause to discipline the employee and lodge the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958).

The first issue in this proceeding is whether a preponderance of the credible evidence establishes that the appellant's actions constitute a violation of the charges set forth in the three FNDAs. If so, the second issue is whether the violations warrant the discipline imposed.

Rivera is charged with Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, Neglect of Duty, Insubordination, and Other Sufficient Cause in the three FNDAs. "Conduct Unbecoming" is an "elastic" phrase that encompasses conduct that "adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit . . . [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services." Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998) (citing In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

June 11, 2017 Incident (CSV 12873-2017)

On June 11, 2017, Rivera failed to follow County protocol by appearing at the job site out of County uniform. More importantly, after hitching the showmobile to the County truck, he failed to complete his work assignment by allowing his co-worker to return the showmobile to the County garage without him. Rivera was aware of the "two-man safety rule," which he failed to follow, causing a safety risk to the other driver. Based on my findings, including my credibility determinations, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct on June 11, 2017 constitutes Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, Neglect of Duty, Insubordination, and Other Sufficient Cause, and that such charges must be SUSTAINED.

September 30, 2017 Incident (CSV 18185-2017)

On September 30, 2017, Rivera volunteered to arrive at the County garage at 10:00 p.m. for an 11:00 p.m. pick-up of a showmobile. He failed to arrive at the scheduled time, offered no plausible or justifiable reason for arriving late, and did not complete the assigned task due to his tardiness. Rivera's arriving at the job site an hour late also impacted his co-worker's ability to complete his work, it caused a delay in the delivery of the showmobiles, and it impacted the work assignments the following day. Therefore, based on my findings, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct on September 30, 2017 constitutes Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, Neglect of Duty, Insubordination, and Other Sufficient Cause, and that such charges must be SUSTAINED.

October 2, 2017 Incident (CSV 18165-2017)

On October 2, 2017, Rivera, together with his co-workers, returned to the job site fifteen minutes late. Discipline was not sought for this fifteen-minute delay, however, Rivera delayed his return to work even longer. He remained sitting in the truck, on a personal phone call, for another ten minutes before Rivera's supervisor directed him to exit his truck and return to work. Rivera ignored this instruction, and remained on the phone for another ten minutes before returning to work. Based on my factual and credibility findings, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct on October 2, 2017 constitutes Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, Neglect of Duty, Insubordination, and Other Sufficient Cause, and that such charges must be SUSTAINED.

PENALTY

When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W.N.Y. v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 1996 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 467 (April 16, 1996). Pursuant to Bock, concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). Depending upon the incident complained of and the employee's past record, major discipline may include suspension, removal, etc. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522-24

Here, respondent maintains that appellant should receive discipline greater than that issued pursuant to the FNDAs, given his disciplinary history and his record of not being where he is scheduled to be and doing what is expected of him. Appellant argues that the twenty-day suspensions are excessive, particularly since they were issued at around the same time and Rivera had no opportunity to correct his behavior before being disciplined with the second twenty-day suspension. Rivera argues that he caused no actual harm when he failed to deliver the showmobile on the evening of September 30, 2017, and the September 30 and October 2 incidences should be treated as one since they occurred so close in time and the PNDAs for both were issued on the same day. I do not agree with this position. Rivera was charged with two separate infractions on September 30 and October 2, and the fact that they occurred within two days of each other should not mitigate what would otherwise be considered an appropriate discipline for each offense.

Given Rivera's past disciplinary history and the nature of these offenses, I CONCLUDE that the misconduct warrants progressive discipline.

In light of appellant's prior disciplinary history over the past five years, the fact that Rivera has already been disciplined for similar infractions—i.e., failing to appear for overtime assignments and for failing to work—and because Rivera was subject to discipline on four separate occasions in 2017, I CONCLUDE that the ten-day suspension is appropriate and proportionate to the offense that occurred on June 11, 2017. In light of the above, I also CONCLUDE that a fifteen-day, rather than a twenty-day, suspension is more appropriate and proportionate in connection with the September 30, 2017 incident. Finally, given the aforementioned discipline and Rivera's documented history of failing to perform his job duties and "refusing to do work," I CONCLUDE that a twenty-day suspension is appropriate to the offense that occurred on October 2, 2017.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

JANETTE RODRIGUEZ, on her own behalf and on behalf of her heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Janette Rodriguez" or "Rodriguez"), and the MIDDLESEX COUNTY BOARD OF SOCIAL SERVICES, on its own behalf and on behalf of its successors, assigns, departments, elected and appointed officials, employees, agents, representatives, attorneys, and insurance carriers (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Board"), have reached the within Settlement Agreement and Release (hereinafter "Agreement") in final settlement of any and all disputes between and among them from the beginning of time until the present.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and undertakings set forth herein, the parties hereby agree as follows:

1. Janette Rodriguez, on her own behalf and on behalf of her heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns hereby releases and forever discharges the Board, and all related entities, its successors, assigns, departments, and its appointed officials, employees, agents, representatives, attorneys, and insurance carriers, including but not limited to their heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns, and the estates and/or heirs thereof from any and all claims, demands, damages, and causes of action, known and unknown, relating to or arising out of her employment or any other alleged conduct of the Board, and resulting from anything which has happened from the beginning of time up to the date Rodriguez executes this Agreement, including claims for attorneys' fees and cost of suit.

Without limiting the foregoing provision in any way, Rodriguez releases all claims, benefits, demands, damages, and causes of action relating to or arising out of her employment or any other conduct of the Board, including, but not limited to, all claims, benefits, demands, and damages arising under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and 1991, as amended, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e, et seq. and laws amended thereby; the Civil Rights Act of 1966, 42 U.S.C. § 1981, et. seq.; the Civil Rights Statutes contained in 42 U.S.C. §§ 1983, 1985, and 1986 and any related laws; the Americans with Disabilities Act ("ADA"), 42 U.S.C. § 12101, et. seq.; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination ("NJLAD"), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1, et. seq.; the New Jersey Civil Rights Act, N.J.S.A. 10:6-1, et seq.; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, 29 U.S.C. § 1001, et seq., the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729, et seq.; the Occupational Safety and Health Act, 29 U.S.C. §651, et seq.,; and any other Federal, State or local laws, regulations, collective negotiations agreement, or ordinance; or claims of quasi-contract, tort, negligence, intentional act, civil conspiracy, harassment, fraud, defamation, intentional and/or negligent infliction of emotional distress; or any common law claim; or any claim for punitive damages, and any other duty or obligation of any kind or description to the fullest extent permissible by law. This Release waives any and all claims for discovery, whether asserted or unasserted, relating to materials or events that predate the execution of this Agreement. This Release shall apply to all known, unknown, unsuspected, and unanticipated claims, liens, injuries, and any contractual benefits and wages from the beginning of time up to and including the day of the date of this Agreement.

Janette Rodriguez represents that as of the date she executes this Agreement, she has not filed any charge, complaint, claim, or action with any court, organization, governmental entity, or administrative agency, or directed or authorized such charge, complaint, claim, or action to be filed on her behalf against the Board, except the appeal referred to in paragraphs 2 and 5 in this Agreement and any claim, if any, for worker's compensation benefits. Rodriguez does not hereby waive (1) her right to enforce the terms of this Agreement; (2) the right to file any unwaivable charge or complaint (although Rodriguez does waive and release any right to recover damages or obtain reinstatement in connection with any such charge or complaint relating to anything which has happened up to the date she signs this Agreement); and (3) rights or claims that cannot lawfully be released.

2. In consideration of the above Release, the Board agrees to settle the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated January 19, 2018 as follows:

a. The Final Notice of Disciplinary Action will be amended to reflect that Rodriguez resigned her employment with the Board effective January 19, 2018;

b. Rodriguez will receive compensation equal to two-weeks of pay at her January 2018 rate of pay, with ordinary withholdings and deductions, except pension contributions; and

3. 4. In further consideration of this Agreement, Rodriguez agrees that she will not apply for or otherwise seek employment with the Board or any of its departments, affiliates or subdivisions and agrees that neither the Board nor any of its departments, affiliates or subdivisions has an obligation, whether arising under the New Jersey Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1, et seq., under contract or policy, or otherwise, to hire or employ her in the future.

5. In accepting this Settlement, Rodriguez acknowledges that she is waiving her right to proceed to a hearing on her appeal to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission pending at the Office of Administrative Law under Docket No. CSV 2390-2018S. Rodriguez understands that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Civil Service Commission and further understands that, once approved by the Civil Service Commission, the aforementioned appeal will be deemed resolved and the matter closed. Upon approval by the Civil Service Commission, the payment referred to in paragraph 2.b. above will be made to Rodriguez.

6. Upon the request of any prospective employer seeking a reference about Rodriguez, consistent with Board policy on references, the Board agrees that it will provide only her dates of employment, her last held title, that she resigned, and her salary, if requested.

7. The parties agree to continue to explore the removal, if possible, of the PSE&G credit from Rodriguez's bill that was posted thereto in or about November, 2017. The inability or impossibility of removal of the credit shall not impact settlement of this matter however. This exploration shall survive past the date of this agreement.

8. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall not be amended, modified or amplified except in writing signed by both parties. No oral statement of any person shall in any manner or degree modify the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

8. If any of the provisions, terms, clauses, or waivers or release of claims or rights contained in this Agreement are declared illegal, unenforceable, or ineffective in a legal forum, such provisions, terms, clauses, or waivers or release of claims or rights shall be deemed severable, such that all other provisions, terms, clauses, and waivers and releases of claims and rights contained in this Agreement shall remain valid and binding upon all parties.

10. This Agreement shall inure to the benefit of, and may be enforced by, the parties hereto and all of their respective heirs, legal representatives, successors and assigns.

11. The parties agree that this Agreement shall be construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey, and that the laws of the State of New Jersey will apply to any dispute concerning it. The parties choose the Superior Court of New Jersey as their forum for resolving any dispute concerning this Agreement. The parties further agree that this Agreement shall not be filed with any court except in an action to enforce or challenge its terms.

12. Janette Rodriguez acknowledges that she has had ample time to consult with her Union, CWA Local #1032, throughout the negotiations that preceded her execution of this Agreement; that she has been represented by her Union during the entirety of this matter; that she has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, including the Release; that she is voluntarily executing this Agreement without coercion or duress and in consultation with her Union; that she has had adequate time to review this Agreement and the release contained in this Agreement; and that she understands and acknowledges that she is waiving any right to proceed to a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law by signing this Agreement.

13. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement is a joint product and shall not be construed for or against any party on the ground of sole authorship. This Settlement may be executed in multiple originals, each of which shall be considered an original instrument, but all of which shall constitute one (1) agreement, and shall bind the parties hereto and their successors, heirs, assigns, and legal representatives.

14. CWA Local #1032 hereby expressly agrees that this settlement between the Board and Rodriguez shall not be deemed a precedent or be considered a past practice and shall have no effect on future cases, be it through arbitration or otherwise, and that the contents of this Agreement shall be confidential and non-evidential in any future matter involving the Board and CWA Local #1032 and/or one of its bargaining unit members.

Mr. Nash and DAG Creuz:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Jessica Stewart from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Ms. Stewart is to be reinstated. However, that reinstatement is "contingent upon her first successfully clearing any and all Department of Human Services (re)hiring prerequisites . . . ". The Civil Service Commission will not acknowledge a settlement where contingencies are not completely accounted for. In this matter, the settlement does not indicate what will happen should Ms. Stewart fail to complete all the referred to prerequisites. For example, will she then be entitled to reinstate her appeals of her removals or will she be issued new disciplinary action, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

Appellant filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission on or about March 30, 2016. The matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on April 15, 2016, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was heard on June 15, 2017, and September 30, 2017. The record closed on May 30, 2018, after the parties submitted post hearing briefs.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are not in dispute in this matter and as such I FIND them as FACT:

Appellant was employed as a laborer by Vineland. On July 17, 2015, he was working on a road crew repairing pot holes at the intersection of eastbound Landis Avenue and southbound Mill Road at approximately 1:30 pm with another laborer, Kyle Suprun. Another crew was working on eastbound Landis Avenue doing sink hole repair under the supervision of then Acting Director of Public Works, Joseph DiCriscio. There was no signage relating to either work site. Vineland Police Sergeant Baron McCoy (now deceased) and then Officer Nick Dounoulis (now Sergeant) were both members of the Traffic Unit. On July 17, 2015, while returning to the police department from lunch, Dounoulis and McCoy initially observed the road crew of DiCriscio and advised him of the signage problem. DiCriscio advised that they had just finished the street repair and complied with the officers' instructions to wrap up the work site without incident. As the officers continued eastbound on Landis Avenue, they encountered the other road crew at the intersection of Landis and Mill Road. An encounter ensued between the officers and appellant which resulted in appellant being arrested and charged with Obstructing Highways and Other Public Passages, N.J.S.A. 2C:33-7B(1), and Obstructing Administration of Law, N.J.S.A. 2C:29-1. A municipal court trial was conducted on November 16, 2015, and appellant was convicted of violating the charge under 2C:33-7B(1) and was fined. During the hearing before this tribunal, appellant was ordered to sequester his witness, Kyle Suprun. Although the witness was not in the court room on the first hearing day, appellant secretly recorded the proceedings and shared the testimony with Mr. Suprun who had not yet testified. When these circumstances were disclosed and after counsel had an opportunity to brief the issue, I ordered that Mr. Suprun's testimony be barred.

Testimony

Lieutenant John McCann testified on behalf of Vineland. He is a twenty-two-year veteran with Vineland Police Department (VPD) and served as training lieutenant for a year and a half on July 17, 2015. On that date, McCann responded to the scene of appellant's arrest to investigate a complaint filed by Suprun against McCoy. He prepared a supplemental report. (R-1.) When McCann arrived at the scene, no one was present. He went to a nearby convenience store and was approached by an individual who identified himself as Joe Kubiak. Mr. Kubiak advised McCann that he observed the road crew site at the intersection of Landis and Mill Road and also observed a police officer and road crew member yelling at each other. Mr. Kubiak observed appellant directing traffic at the site in a safety shirt and a whistle. Appellant waived Mr. Kubiak through the intersection and nearly caused an accident. McCann is familiar with the intersection of Landis Avenue and Mill Road and explained that it is a high volume intersection that has been the location of many serious motor vehicle accidents.

Joseph DiCriscio next testified on behalf of Vineland. He has since retired after working for Vineland for forty-four years. On July 17, 2015, he was serving as Acting Director of the Public Works Department and had been repairing sink holes with a small crew. Between 1:00 and 1:30 pm, DiCriscio's crew were working in the outside eastbound lane of Landis Avenue when they were visited by Seargent McCoy and Officer Dounoulis. DiCriscio was advised that the work site was without any signage and he agreed to break down the work site within five to ten minutes. This work site was not in an intersection and DiCriscio did not consider it a traffic obstruction. He complied with the police directions and the site was broken down within ten minutes. He was not aware at the time that appellant's work crew was approximately 300 feet ahead of them.

While heading to another job site with his crew, DiCriscio arrived at appellants job site and noticed the same officer interacting with appellant and Suprun. Appellant was noticeably angry and was pacing by the police car repeating "This is bullshit." McCoy told appellant to remove the traffic cones that were in the street and move the dump truck that was blocking the intersection off of the road. Based on the location of the work site and the dump truck, vehicles were unable to make a right from eastbound Landis Avenue onto Mill Road. The intersection in question is very busy. Appellant had a whistle around his neck and was directing traffic. When McCoy instructed appellant to remove the traffic cones, he refused. DiCriscio also instructed appellant to remove the cones but he may not have heard him because appellant was angry. McCoy then got out of the police vehicle and threw the cones off of the roadway onto the curb approximately twenty feet away. Appellant went to the center of the roadway and started taking photos. McCoy told him several times to get off of the roadway and when he refused, appellant was arrested. Dicriscio noted that appellant was somewhat out of control and was not listening to the police but he did not feel that appellant's work site was a safety concern.

Sergeant Nick Dounoulis next testified on Vinelands behalf. He has been employed with VPD for seventeen years, five as a special police officer and twelve as a full-time police officer. On July 17, 2015, he was working under McCoy in the Traffic Unit. The Traffic Unit's primary function is to ensure the safety of the roadway. He has received training and holds certificates in traffic safety. (R-2.) McCoy had also taken traffic safety courses and was the VPD Chaplain and pastor for his church. Dounoulis worked directly with McCoy for seven years and had never known him to use obscene language and never heard McCoy swear.

Part of the Traffic Unit's duties is to check construction sites. On July 17, 2015, he and McCoy were returning to the police department after having lunch and first come upon DiCriscio's work site. McCoy told DiCriscio that his work site was not set up properly because there were no advance warning signs of the road work and DiCriscio agreed to break down the work site without any incident. The officers could not see appellant's work site from DiCriscio's. After they left DiCriscio's work site, they came upon appellant's work site. There were no advance warning signs and appellant was attempting to direct traffic in an unsafe manner. The intersection of Landis Avenue and Mill Road is a very high traffic area with heavy commercial traffic. There was more congestion at appellant's work site than at DiCriscio's. Appellant's dump truck was partially into the intersection and blocking one lane on Landis Avenue and Mill Road. McCoy felt it necessary to intervene to remove the dangerous condition. He has shut down many work sites and has never before or since been met with non-compliance. He first spoke to Suprun and advised him they needed to shut down the job site. Suprun became defensive and explained that he was doing his job. Appellant involved himself in that conversation and started yelling, swearing and got out of hand. Appellant stated "This is bullshit" several times. McCoy gave appellant three of four opportunities to comply with his directions and told appellant that if he did not comply, he would be arrested. Appellant did not follow McCoy's directions. Instead he walked into the intersection and started taking photos. McCoy arrested appellant while he was standing in the box of the intersection. Appellant was not charged with having an improper work site. The entire incident lasted about ten minutes.

Albert Alvarado, appellant, testified on his own behalf. He was employed as a laborer and was primarily repairing potholes on the streets of Vineland. He has received training for his job and has completed safety courses which include the use of cones and signage requirements as well as the use of hand signals for directing traffic. On July 17, 2015, appellant was instructed by his supervisor to fill potholes along Landis Avenue with his co-worker Kyle Suprun. They started working at the intersection of Landis and Mill Road around 1:30 pm and set up a short taper of cones to block one lane of travel along Landis Avenue. No advance warning signage was utilized and the work was conducted in unison with the traffic lights at the intersection. By the time the police arrived at the scene, they had already completed filling the potholes at the location. McCoy immediately started yelling at them and asked where the signs were. Appellant explained to McCoy that they did not need signs. McCoy threatened to shut them down and appellant suggested to the officer that he was out of control and unprofessional. DiCriscio was present when appellant was speaking to McCoy. He did not remove the cones when instructed by McCoy because they police vehicle was still at the scene and it would have been unsafe without the cones. Appellant feels he was arrested for taking photos. He admits that he had a whistle for safety but did not attempt to direct traffic. He asserts that he did not argue with the officer or raise his voice and did not make any statements to provoke the officers. He did not curse or yell at McCoy.

Prior to conducting a legal analysis and making conclusions, it is necessary to address the arguments of the parties regarding the credibility of the testimony. "The interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . trier of fact, whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952). The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See, Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1974); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact-finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521–22 (1950); see, D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

The present matter revolves entirely around what appellant said and did when the police arrived at his work site. Although McCoy is now deceased it is clear from the other witnesses that testified that appellant had a heated verbal confrontation with McCoy. Both DiCriscio and Dounoulis testified that appellant was yelling and both recall him using the phrase "this is bullshit" several times. This is also corroborated by the statements made to McCann by the individual he spoke to in the convenience store, Mr. Kubiak, who indicated that appellant was yelling. Appellant, on the other hand asserts that he did not argue with the officer or raise his voice and did not make any statements to provoke the officers. He did not curse or yell at McCoy. I deem appellant's version of the incident is not credible. Not only does his testimony not jive with the others in this case, he also was convicted of violating the charge under 2C:33-7B(1) and was fined in municipal court. Furthermore, appellant's credibility is tainted by his attempt to influence his witness by recording an entire day of testimony and then playing that testimony for his witness. Such action suggests that appellant is inclined to do or say anything to support his version of the incident.

Based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, and having had the opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following additional FACTS: Appellant had a heated verbal confrontation with McCoy and stated "this is bullshit" several times. McCoy gave appellant three of four opportunities to comply with his directions and told appellant that if he did not comply, he would be arrested. Appellant did not follow McCoy's directions, instead he walked into the intersection and started taking photos. McCoy arrested appellant while he was standing in the box of the intersection. Appellant was not charged with having an improper work site. Appellant was angry, out of control and was not listening to the police.

In an appeal from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof to show that the action taken was appropriate. N.J.S.A. 11A:-2.21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The authority must show by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal, based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

The respondent has sustained charges of violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(5) (conviction of a crime); N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6 (conduct unbecoming a public employee); and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)12 (other sufficient cause), specifically, interfering with the duties of a police officer; refusing the lawful order of a police officer; and based on City Policy 3140 Conduct: (1) Neglect of Duty; (7) Disorderly Conduct; (8) Conviction of a Crime; (9) Violation of a Statute, Rule or Regulation Relating to Public Employment; (12) Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee; (15) Failure to Follow Work Rules; (16) Failure to Follow Safety Rules; (18) Putting Life or Self, Co-Workers or Public in Danger.

With regard to the charge of conviction of a crime, appellant was convicted of obstructing highways and other public passages, a petty disorderly offense. He was charged with violating both N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(5) and City Policy 3140(8). Appellant's petty disorderly persons offense is not "a conviction of a criminal act under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(5) as disorderly persons offenses are considered petty offenses and are not crimes within the meaning of the Constitution of the State. See, N.J.S.A. 2C:1-4b. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has not met its burden in demonstrating support to sustain a charge of conviction of a crime pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(5). Therefore, the charge of violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(5) is hereby DISMISSED. However, the City's Conduct Policy 3140(8) provides that discipline may be given for "conviction of any criminal act or offense." A forfeiture of public office under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 does not require a conviction of a crime, rather the conviction of an "offense" is sufficient. James Slater v. Sheriff's Office of Bergen County, OAL Dkt. No. 7465-91. N.J.S.A. 2C:1-14(k) defines an "offense" as a crime, disorderly persons offense or petty disorderly persons offense. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has met its burden in demonstrating support to sustain a charge of conviction of any criminal act or offense pursuant to the City's Conduct Policy 3140(8). The charge of violation of the City's Conduct Policy 3140(8) is hereby SUSTAINED.

Respondent also sustained charges against appellant for Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). To the extent that the appellant is charged with violation of the City's Conduct Policy 3140(12), which addresses unbecoming conduct, consideration of such violation will be addressed in concert with the current analysis.

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also, In re Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. at 555 [quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)]. Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) [quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)]. Suspension or removal may be justified where the misconduct occurred while the employee was off-duty. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. at 140.

In the present matter, the record reflects that appellant had a heated verbal confrontation with McCoy and stated "this is bullshit" several times in the presence of the public. Appellant was angry, out of control, and was not listening to the police. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has met its burden in demonstrating support to sustain a charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee. Charges of violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) and the City's Conduct Policy 3140(12) are hereby SUSTAINED.

Appellant has also been charged with a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) (Other Sufficient Cause). Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Specifically, appellant is charged with violations of interfering with the duties of a police officer; refusing the lawful order of a police officer; and based on City Policy 3140 Conduct: (1) Neglect of Duty; (7) Disorderly Conduct; (8) Conviction of a Crime; (9) Violation of a Statute, Rule or Regulation Relating to Public Employment; (12) Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee; (15) Failure to Follow Work Rules; (16) Failure to Follow Safety Rules; (18) Putting Life or Self, Co-Workers or Public in Danger.

Appellant's conduct was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. The City's Conduct Policy concerning Failure to Follow Work Rules, Failure to Follow Safety Rules, Neglect of Duty and Putting Life or Self, Co-Workers or Public in Danger were all implicated during appellant's confrontation with the VPD. Appellant, as a public employee, has an obligation to obey the law while performing his job. That includes following the directions of police officers within their jurisdiction. He refused to take down the work site after the VPD determined it to be unsafe and a danger to the traveling public in violation of appellants duty to follow the commands of the VPD and his supervisor, Joseph DiCriscio. As such, I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions fit this charge. Charges of violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) and interfering with the duties of a police officer; refusing the lawful order of a police officer; and based on City Policy 3140 Conduct: (1) Neglect of Duty; (7) Disorderly Conduct; (8) Conviction of a Crime; (9) Violation of a Statute, Rule or Regulation Relating to Public Employment; (12) Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee; (15) Failure to Follow Work Rules; (16) Failure to Follow Safety Rules; (18) Putting Life or Self, Co-Workers or Public in Danger are hereby SUSTAINED.

PENALTY

In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). However, where the charged dereliction is an act which, in view of the duties and obligations of the position, substantially disadvantages the public, good cause exists for removal. See Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 163 N.J.

Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978); In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 (2007). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

Some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007), citing Rawlings v. Police Dep't of Jersey City, 133 N.J. 182, 197–98 (1993) (upholding dismissal of police officer who refused drug screening as "fairly proportionate" to offense); see also In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (DYFS worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old):

> . . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.
> Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

As set forth is appellant's disciplinary record, attached to Vineland's post hearing submission and now moved into evidence as B-1 through B-8, appellant has exhibited insubordinate, disobedient, vulgar and threatening conduct during his employment. On September 25, 2015, appellant created a disturbance to the point of upsetting the City Personnel Manager and staff uneasy and uncomfortable. Appellant was suspended for five days without pay which was reduced to one day if he agreed to take an anger management class. (B-1.) Appellant did not engage in the anger management course and the five day suspension remained. (B-2.) On September 16, 2015, appellant falsely claimed to be on light duty and refused to work. He was sent home without pay and disciplined with a reprimand. (B-3.) On June 11, 2015, appellant was given a reprimand for disobedient and insubordinate behavior towards a supervisor by refusing to perform weed waking. Instead, appellant said to the supervisor to "get some fucking goats." (B-4.)

On April 23, 2010, appellant was suspended indefinitely without pay for having an argument with a City contracted doctor when the doctor refused to prescribe him Percocet. Appellant became enraged and disrespectful. (B-6.) Following his April 2010 suspension, appellant harassed Public Works employees demanding his return to work and irately yelled and cursed at staff. (B-5.) As far back as 1982, appellant engaged in insubordinate and disrespectful conduct towards authority by cursing at a Forman (B-7) and engaging in arguments at work. (B-8.) After having considered all of the proofs offered in this matter, and the impact upon the institution regarding the behavior by appellant herein and in light of the seriousness of the offense and in consideration of appellant's prior disciplinary record, I CONCLUDE that the removal of the appellant is appropriate.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: AUGUST 17, 2018 BW

The appeal of Erica Davis-Smith, County Correction Officer, Mercer County, Department of Public Safety, removal effective November 15, 2012, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jeff S. Masin, who rendered his initial decision on July 17, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on August 15, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining the appellant was justified. However, the Commission modifies the removal to a resignation in good standing.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION

IN THE MATTER OF ERICA DAVIS-SMITH, MERCER COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

OAL DKT. NO. CSR 16665-16

CSC DKT # 2013-3349

Jason LeBoeuf, Esq., for appellant Erica Davis-Smith

Kristina E. Chubenko, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Mercer County Department of Public Safety (Arthur R. Sypek, Jr., County Counsel)

Record Closed: June 26, 2018 Decided: July 17, 2018

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

Erica Davis-Smith was employed by the Mercer County Department of Public Safety/Corrections as a County Corrections Officer. She began her employment on August 19, 2002, and on April 23, 2012, she suffered an injury at work and was placed on workers' compensation. She was seen several times by Dr. Hornstein. On July 2, 2012, Dr. Hornstein referred her for a Functional Capacity Examination (FCE). This examination was conducted on July 5, 2012, by Kinematic Consultants, Inc. (Kinematic). The FCE report advised that the examinee had demonstrated ability for light-medium category work, with restrictions on activities. On July 16, 2002, Dr. Hornstein concluded that the appellant had reached maximum medical improvement (MMI). On November 21, 2012, the County issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action, advising Ms. Davis-Smith that she was to be removed from her position due to her inability to perform duties. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)3. On May 23, 2013, the appointing authority issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, removing Ms. Davis-Smith from her position, effective as of November 16, 2012, due to her inability to perform her duties. Ms. Davis-Smith filed an appeal of the appointing authority's action with the Civil Service Commission and the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The parties are unclear as to precisely why that appeal was not initially docketed and why for some reason the contested case was not filed at the OAL until November 2, 2016. The case was initially assigned to Hon. Laura Sanders, Chief ALJ, and when Judge Sanders left the OAL, it was reassigned to Hon. Patricia Kerins, ALJ. Early attempts to schedule the case for hearing apparently were unsuccessful due to witness availability issues. On March 23, 2013, the respondent filed a motion for summary decision, as permitted by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Ms. Davis-Smith filed a response on April 27, 2018. The County replied on May 1, 2018. Due to the heavy calendar of cases pending before Judge Kerins, the matter was transferred to this administrative law judge, sitting on recall. Oral argument was conducted by telephone conference on June 26, 2018.

Essentially, the appointing authority seeks summary decision based on the allegedly undisputed fact that as of the date of the Preliminary and, most significantly, the Final Notices, Ms. Davis-Smith was undisputedly incapable of performing all of the required duties of a corrections officer, as they are detailed in a job specification entered into evidence for the motion. In response, Ms. Davis-Smith, while not denying that as of those dates she had not been cleared to perform all duties of the position, nevertheless offers additional facts which she believes indicate that the County acted prematurely when it declared her at maximum medical improvement and then concluded that she was unable to perform her duties. According to a Certification filed by Ms. Davis-Smith in response to the motion, when she was advised that she had failed the FCE and was told that surgery would not help her to fully recover, she sought a second opinion from a specialist, an orthopedist at Mercer-Bucks Orthopaedics, who advised her that she had torn the medial meniscus in her left knee and that, despite what she says was Dr. Hornstein's advice that her problem could not be corrected, surgery could be performed to correct the injury. Surgery was performed in January 2013. Following rehabilitation, she underwent another FCE in October 2013, which cleared her for "medium-heavy" work. Despite this, she was not returned to her position. According to her Certification, her treating physician informed the County that she was able to resume work on October 18, 2013, without restrictions.

The circumstances under which Ms. Davis-Smith underwent this second FCE were the subject of some discussion in both the briefs and the oral argument. As part of her submission in opposition to the motion, Ms. Davis-Smith included a Settlement Agreement and General Release, a document which was signed on October 9, 2013, by both parties. In this Agreement, the parties agreed that Ms. Davis-Smith had been on unpaid leave since November 2012, due to her admitted inability to perform the duties and that they would like to amicably resolve the matter. It was agreed that she would undergo a functional capacity examination on October 10, 2013. The purpose was to determine whether she was physically able to fully perform the essential job functions with no restrictions for the position of corrections officer. If Kinematic determined that she could fully perform the physical demands, specifically, "(heavy category work) with no restrictions or limitations," she would be returned to work following a return-to-work physical and drug screen. She would then withdraw the appeal pending before the OAL. However, if the determination were that she could not fully perform the physical demands without restriction the parties would proceed with the matter pending before the OAL.

The County takes the position that it is inappropriate to make any reference to this settlement agreement in connection with the determination of the motion for summary decision. It notes that settlement discussions are generally not admissible evidence, as "Offers of settlement, proposals of adjustment and proposed stipulations shall not constitute an admission and shall not be admissible." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5. Alternatively, even if one were to consider the results of this second FCE to be relevant, the results did not clear Ms. Davis-Smith for the performance of all of the duties of a corrections officer and therefore the provision that would require her to be returned to that position did not become operable. All that said, the County's primary position is that the only really relevant fact is that, as of the date of the removal, Ms. Davis-Smith was unable to perform all of the duties of her position, a fact which Ms. Davis-Smith does not deny. The County cites what it argues is an analogous case, In the Matter of Kamal Abdelall, Bayonne Housing Authority, \http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/csv12994-11.pdf, where a laborer had been injured on the job in February 2011. An FCE was performed on June 9, 2011, and on July 14, 2011, the orthopedic doctor placed the appellant at MMI, with permanent restrictions for light/medium category work with occasional lifting up to thirty-five pounds. The Housing Authority issued a Preliminary and a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action and removed Abdelall for inability to perform duties, effective as of August 5, 2011. Eighteen days later, on August 23, 2011, the appellant's personal physician determined that he was able to return to full duty with no restrictions. Concluding that the effective date of removal had already occurred prior to the date on which the personal physician had cleared the appellant to return to full duty with no restrictions, the administrative law judge upheld the removal. The sole issue was whether the appellant was fit for duty as of the date of removal. As a result, the physician's clearance permitting a return-to-work after the date of removal was irrelevant. The Civil Service Commission adopted the judge's decision, nevertheless noting that the removal did not constitute a disciplinary action and that the termination should be changed to a resignation in good standing, citing Newark v. Bellezza, 159 N.J. Super. 123, 128 (App. Div. 1978).

In opposing this motion, appellant first argues that the County has relied solely upon hearsay evidence in support of its motion. She argues that in respect to the determination of the motion for summary decision, reliance upon hearsay is inappropriate, as the judge is required to makes credibility determinations to determine the appropriate weight to give to the hearsay evidence. As an ultimate finding must be based upon competent evidence and not based solely on hearsay, N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5 (a) and (b), it would be inappropriate to grant summary decision in this case, where no such competent evidence has been offered in respect to the motion.[1] In particular, counsel for Ms. Davis-Smith notes the County relies upon a "blanket statement" that it does not have light duty positions at the Corrections Center. That statement is contained in a Certification provided by Ollie Young, an Assistant Personnel Director with the County of Mercer since 2008. Young also notes that "corrections officers are required to be capable of performing heavy category work with no restrictions." Noting that the standard for determining motions for summary decision requires that all reasonable inferences arising from the evidence must be accorded to the party opposing the motion, counsel notes that an examination of the job specification provided in the record does not include any reference to there being no light duty available for corrections officers. The absence of any such limitation in the job specification allows the inference that light duty is permissible. As the only evidence refuting this is Young's hearsay statement, there is a material dispute of fact as to light duty that might have been offered to Ms. Davis-Smith during the time when her ability to perform all of the heavy-duty functions of the position was restricted. Additionally, assessment of the credibility of Young's assertion as to the lack of light duty requires that a plenary hearing be held.

[1] First, evidence submitted in support of a motion for summary judgment must be admissible. Sellers v. Schonfeld, 270 N.J. Super. 424, 427, 637 A.2d 529 (App. Div. 1993). Compare R. 1:6-6 (the facts asserted in an affidavit in support of a motion must be "admissible in evidence"). [Jeter v. Stevenson, 284 N.J. Super. 229, 233 (App. Div. 1995) (Pressler, J.A.D.)]

In addition, Ms. Davis-Smith asserts that she was inexplicably determined to be at maximum medical improvement and a premature FCE was scheduled while she was still healing from a workplace injury. Given the opportunity to heal and the surgical intervention in January 2013, she was able to demonstrate in October 2013 that she was able to perform the duties of her position. To this point, counsel notes that the report on that second FCE provided that she could perform "Medium-Heavy category work (occasional lift and work up to 75 lbs.)." As for the County's reliance upon Abdelall, counsel argues that that determination was only made after an evidentiary hearing.

Summary Decision

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 provides that a party may move for summary decision. The procedure is set forth in N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), > (b) The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may > be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding.

The summary decision motion is the administrative law equivalent of the Judiciary's summary judgment motion. The New Jersey Supreme Court defined the standard for determining motions for summary decision in Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In this case, the Court elaborated upon the standards first established in Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J 67, 74-75 (1954). Under the Brill standard, a motion for summary decision may only be granted where there are no "genuine disputes" of "material fact." The determination as to whether disputes of material fact exist is made after a "discriminating search" of the record, consisting as it may of affidavits, certifications, documentary exhibits and any other evidence filed by the movant and any such evidence filed in response to the motion, with all reasonable inferences arising from the evidence being accorded to the opponent of the motion. In order to defeat the motion, the opposing party must establish the existence of "genuine" disputes of material fact. The substantive law governing a dispute determines which facts are material. Only disputes regarding "those facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment." Dungee v. Northeast Foods, Inc., 940 F. Supp 682, 685 (D.N.J. 1996), quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed.2d 202, 211 (1986)(Anderson).

In Judson, at 75, the Supreme Court stated that the material facts allegedly in dispute upon which the party opposing the motion relies to defeat the motion must be something more than "facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious, . . . ," (citations omitted). Brill focuses upon the analytical procedure for determining whether a purported dispute of material fact is "genuine" or is simply of an "insubstantial nature." Brill at 530. Brill concludes that the same analytical process used to decide motions for a directed verdict is used to resolve summary decision motions. "The essence of the inquiry in each is the same: 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that a party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Id. at 536, quoting Anderson at 477 U.S. 251-52, 106 S. Ct 2505, 2512, 91 L.Ed 2d 214. In searching the proffered evidence to determine the motion, the judge must be guided by the applicable substantive evidentiary standard of proof, that is, the "burden of persuasion" which would apply at trial on the merits, whether that is the preponderance of the evidence or the clear and convincing evidence standard. If a careful review under this standard establishes that no reasonable fact finder could resolve the disputed material facts in favor of the party opposing the motion, then the uncontradicted facts thus established can be examined in the light of the applicable substantive law to determine whether or not the movant is clearly entitled to judgment as a matter of law. However, where the proofs in the record are such that "reasonable minds could differ" as to the material facts, then the motion must be denied and a full evidentiary hearing held.

Discussion

The appointing authority determined that Ms. Davis-Smith was to be removed from her position because she could not perform the full duties for which a corrections officer is responsible. This decision was made after she suffered a knee injury and an FCE determined that she was restricted to "light-medium category work." As her counsel agreed during oral argument, at no point after that FCE was issued, through the dates upon which the Preliminary and Final Notices of Disciplinary Action were issued, was Ms. Davis-Smith cleared for full duty. There is simply no factual dispute regarding this. While the appellant disputes that she should have been sent for the FCE when Dr. Hornstein ordered it in July 2012, she does not contend that she was capable of performing all of the duties for which a corrections officer might be responsible, either in July 2012 or anytime thereafter, until she was, as she asserts, cleared in October 2013. While she had surgery on the knee in January 2013, she does not contend that the surgery resulted in an immediate resolution of her problems such that she then became capable of performing even heavy category work at any time after this surgical procedure until that October FCE cleared her for "Medium-Heavy" work.

The County contends that the only relevant issue is whether the appellant was capable of performing all of the duties of the position as of the data of her removal, at which date she was admittedly not so capable. Therefore, the motion for summary decision must be granted. As for the October FCE, it is irrelevant to the determination of this case, as her removal had already occurred at a time when she unquestionably was unable to perform all of the duties of a corrections officer. However, the County notes that even if it were relevant, the wording of the October 2013, FCE does not actually clear Davis-Smith for heavy-duty work without restriction. The FCE report categorizes the work that Davis-Smith could perform as "Medium-Heavy category work (occasional lift and work up to 75 lbs.) with precautions" and with recommendations concerning allowing changes in activity during periods of prolonged or repetitive in the range left knee flexion or moderate weight-bearing due to her "demonstrated gait movement," and provides that certain activities are not recommended, including "running to codes, involvement with altercations, restraining unruly individuals" and "activities requiring pivoting on the LLE." Thus, even if one word to read all of this in the most favorable light possible toward Ms. Davis-Smith, the County offers that this report does not demonstrate that Davis-Smith met the standard for return-to-work established in the settlement agreement, which required that she be capable of performing "(heavy category work) with no restrictions or limitations."

Ms. Davis-Smith questions the County's assertion in Ollie Young's Certification that "the County does not have light duty positions at the correction center." Presumably, if light duty was available, then Davis-Smith could have possibly been returned to work long before the Preliminary Notice was issued, even though she could not have performed all of the duties for which a corrections officer might be liable. There is no indication in the record that she made a request for such accommodation, and Ms. Smith-Davis does not mention any such request in her Certification. While it is true that Young's certification is hearsay, Young was the assistant personnel director for the County and presumably in a position to know whether the County offered light duty positions at the Correction Center.[2] He could certainly testify to this fact at a hearing. In response to this claim, Davis-Smith offers no evidence to the contrary. She provides no indication that there are any facts indicating that the County does in fact offer light duty at this institution. She only offers that the Civil Service job specification, provided as evidence by the County, does not say that light duty is not available. While it is correct that there is no such statement in the job specification, there appears no warrant to imply the availability of light duty merely from the absence of any reference to it, positively or negatively, in the four corners of the written job description. More importantly, counsel for the County notes that the availability of light duty has been determined by the Public Employee Relations Commission (PERC) to be a management prerogative. In the context of a correctional facility, the fact that management may have determined not to offer light duty as an exercise of that prerogative seems understandable. Be that as it may, Young's certification that no light duty positions were available at the Correction Center is not opposed by any evidence whatsoever on the part of the appellant. Thus, she has not demonstrated any basis for concluding that the existence of light duty constitutes a genuine dispute of material fact. And, the appellant does not claim that she was capable of performing all of the tasks set forth in the job specification. Indeed, she agrees that she could not do so as of the time of her termination.

As for the Settlement Agreement and the second FCE, it is true that while the appeal of the termination was pending, the parties entered into an agreement that provided for this FCE and also for what would occur following the receipt of the report on the outcome of the FCE. This agreement offered the appellant the possibility of a return to her position if she was found capable of "fully" performing "the essential job functions with no restrictions." Once the FCE results were issued, the parties had to decide how to respond to them. The County did not advise Ms. Davis-Smith that it understood her to have met the standard set in the Agreement and that she should return to work.[3] Thus, it must be understood that as far as the County was concerned, she had failed to meet the test set forth in the Agreement and as such, as the Agreement stated, the matter pending at the OAL (this case) "shall proceed." As for Davis-Smith, if she believed that the results of the October FCE were such that she met the test, then, from her perspective, the County's failure to return her to her position could be seen as constituting a violation of the settlement agreement, allowing her to proceed with action to enforce that agreement. Such action presumably would have been by means of a motion to enforce the settlement, compelling the County to return Ms. Davis-Smith to her position based upon the terms of the settlement agreement. Given that there was a pending case before the Civil Service Commission regarding her employment status with the County, that motion could presumably have been made in the pending case. And if it was determined that she did meet the test, presumably an order would have emerged ordering the County to return her to her position. If it did not do so, presumably an action could have been brought in the Superior Court to compel the County to comply with the Civil Service Commission's order for her return. As agreed by her counsel, no such proceedings were instituted after the FCE results were received and the County did not return her to her position. As such, this case will determine whether the County's action terminating Ms. Davis-Smith as of November 2012, was valid.

[2] As the County notes, the determination of whether to have any light duty is a management prerogative. The Public Employee Relations Commission has so held.

Based upon the record provided for this motion for summary decision, I FIND that it is undisputed that following her injury in April 2012, she was placed on workers' compensation. As of that date, the appellant was unable to perform all of the essential requirements of the position of County Corrections Officer as set forth in the Civil Service job specification. An FCE was performed In July 2012, and the report provided that she could not do "heavy" category work. She was declared at MMI by Doctor Hornstein in July 2012. After obtaining a second opinion, she had surgery in January

[3] Indeed, it must be said that the wording of the second FCE does not appear to completely clear Ms. Davis-Smith to perform all duties that she might be expected to be capable to perform as a corrections officer, as it notes the need for "precautions" and recommends against her performing a number of tasks that might be expected to arise in prison settings, such as "running to codes, involvement with altercations, restraining unruly individuals" and "activities requiring pivoting on the LLE."

2013. She underwent rehabilitation and in October 2013, following entry into a settlement agreement with the County, she underwent a second FCE. After the report of that examination was received she was not returned to her position.

I FIND that Ms. Davis-Smith does not dispute that she was not cleared for the performance of heavy category work until, giving her the benefit of the doubt, October 2013, and, as such, prior to that time she had not been cleared for the performance of all of the essential duties of the position. I FIND that there is no evidence in the record to refute the appointing authority's assertion that there is no light duty available in the Corrections Center. While the appointing authority's proof is a Certification, and thus hearsay, it was authored by someone who, due to the position that person holds in the County's personnel department, was quite likely to know if the County had permitted such light duty as an exercise of its managerial prerogative and as such if such work was available, and the assertion therefore has a reasonable indicium of reliability. Additionally, the facts asserted through this certification would be admissible at hearing, and the author of the document would, no doubt, be competent to testify on this subject. In addition, I FIND that the Civil Service job specification is silent as to any reference to light duty for one in this position. Given this, and considering the nature of the setting in which this position operates, that is, in a correctional facility, if Ms. Davis-Smith were to demonstrate the existence of a genuine dispute of material fact as to the existence of light duty in opposition to the movant's position, she would have to offer something more concrete than the mere absence of any reference, one way or the other, to light duty in the job description. She offers no evidence that the County has determined to allow light duty, that it has been allowed for other employees during any relevant period of time, that there is any legal duty on the part of this correctional facility to permit light duty, or that the claim made by the assistant personnel director is incorrect. Nor does she claim to have sought light duty. As such, I FIND that light duty did not exist in this facility. And, while it is of course the case that at any given time a corrections officer may not be called upon to perform all duties relevant to the position, or more, specifically to undertake "heavy" duties, in the absence of specific "light duty" assignments provided with the understanding that personnel so assigned will not under any circumstances be required to also undertake duties that are not "light," an employee incapable of performing all of the essential duties incumbent on a corrections officer is not capable of performing that position.

I CONCLUDE that Ms. Smith-Davis was incapable of performing the duties of her position at the time of her termination. And to be clear, I CONCLUDE that this inability was existent from the date of her accident on through both on the date that the appointing authority deemed the effective date of removal, November 16, 2012, as well as the much later date on which the Final Notice was issued, May 23, 2013, a date itself nearly five months earlier than the issuance of the results of the second FCE, which, as noted, are, on its face, limited by the need for precautions and recommended restrictions.

ORDER

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the motion for summary decision is GRANTED. The appeal from Ms. Davis-Smith's separation from her position must fail. However, as the reason for this separation was her inability to perform her job due to physical injury and not as the result of any conduct or action that is properly worthy of discipline, in accord with prior decisions, her termination is hereby changed to a resignation in good standing.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

In the Matter of Elvis Lugardo,
City of Newark Police Department

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 08254-16

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: AUGUST 17, 2018 BW

The appeal of Elvis Lugardo, Police Officer, 60 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jude-Anthony Tiscornia, who rendered his initial decision on July 12, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on August 15, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision to modify the 60 working day suspension to a 30 working day suspension.

Since the penalty has been modified, Lugardo is entitled to 30 days of back pay, benefits and seniority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), the award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, although Lugardo's penalty was modified by the Commission, charges were sustained and major discipline was imposed. Thus, Lugardo did not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as he failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining Elvis Lugardo was justified. The Commission therefore modifies Elvis Lugardo's 60 working day suspension to a 30 working day suspension. The Commission further orders that Elvis Lugardo be granted 30 days of back pay, benefits and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of Lugardo to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 08254-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2016-4142

IN THE MATTER OF ELVIS LUGARDO,
CITY OF NEWARK POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Anthony J. Fusco, Esq., for appellant (Fusco & Macaluso, attorneys)

Joyce Clayborne, Esq., for respondent, Assistant Corporation Counsel (Kenyatta Stewart, Esq. Acting Corporation Counsel, City of Newark)

Record Closed: June 18, 2018 Decided: July 12, 2018

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Elvis Lugardo (Lugardo/appellant) appeals sixty-day suspension due to conduct unbecoming a public employee and related charges stemming from the alleged misuse of a City of Newark Police Department form for personal business.

ISSUE

Does appellant's act of drafting an agreement on a Newark Police Department form, known as a "1001 Form," constitute a misuse of Department property? Does appellant's act of presenting said agreement to a Bellville Board of Education employee in order to establish residency for a minor child constitute an abuse of power? Does aforementioned conduct support a sixty-day suspension?

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant was served With a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) seeking removal on February 18, 2016.

Appellant was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action seeking a sixty-day suspension on May 3, 2016. (R-1.) Included in the Sustained Charges were the following:

Charge I: Violation of Newark Police Department Rules and Regulations, Chapter 3:1.1; Conduct in Public and Private;

Charge I-B: Violation of Civil Service Rules 4A:2-2.3(a)(6): Conduct unbecoming a public employee;

Charge III: Neglect of Duty;

Charge IV: Violation of Newark Police Department Rules and Regulations, Chapter 17:1.18 – Division Stationary Restriction – Police officers shall not use Division Stationary for their private correspondence.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had an opportunity to consider all the evidence and to observe the witnesses and make credibility determinations based on the witnesses' testimony, I FIND the following FACTS in this case:

Appellant is a sixteen-year veteran of the Newark Police Department (department). In 2016, appellant was in his office at a Newark Police precinct. He was notified by the desk sergeant that Mrs. Caban (Caban) had come into the precinct seeking help and guidance regarding her teenaged daughter. Lugardo was asked to come down to assist. Appellant met with the mother who informed Lugardo that her daughter was a chronic runaway and may be engaging in prostitution. As the conversation progressed, the mother asked Lugardo if he and his wife would take the daughter in to live with them at their home in Belleville and enroll her in high school there. After discussing the issue with his wife, Lugardo agreed to taking in the daughter.

On February 9, 2016, Lugardo used a City of Newark Police Department Administrative Submission Form, commonly referred to as a "1001 form" to draft what purports to be some sort of a contractual agreement between himself, his wife, and the mother of the child. (R-2.) The purpose of the agreement was for Lugardo to establish some sort of guardianship over the child. Lugardo had this agreement notarized at a local bank. Lugardo signs the agreement as "Legal Guardian."

Lugardo traveled in uniform to the administrative office of Bellville High School and presented this letter/agreement to David Rubin, Director of Safety Services for Belleville Public Schools. David Rubin, a former law enforcement officer, testified that he recognized the document as an official City of Newark Police Department administrative form.

Rubin testified that the body of the document was a notarized agreement purporting to hand custody and guardianship rights of the child over to Lugardo.

Lugardo asked Rubin if this document would be sufficient to enroll the child in school. Rubin informed Lugardo that he could not accept a letter written on an official Newark police report form as a means by which to establish residency for the child and further informed Lugardo that legal custody of a child could only be accomplished through the court system. Lugardo explained that the youth in question was a member of his Newark Explorers group and that he was approached by Caban and asked to take custody of the child. Rubin advised Lugardo to consult with the Legal Affairs office at the Newark Police Department for guidance.

Lugo then proceeded to his precinct and presented the document to the legal affairs office. The document was reviewed by Detective Eusnelys Tellez who retained the document for further review and advised Lugardo he would be contacted regarding the document. The following disciplinary proceeding resulted.

I FIND appellant drafted a personal agreement on a Newark Police Department 1001 form and attempted to use that document to enroll a minor in Belleville High School without having the authority or permission of the Department to do so. I CONCLUDE appellant's acts constitute a misuse of Department property.

Respondent City of Newark argues that when Lugardo showed up at Belleville high school in uniform with what appeared to be an official police document in hand, he gave the impression that he was acting in some sort of official capacity. I FIND Lugardo's display of a purportedly official police document while in uniform constitutes a misuse of official authority as Lugardo's actions may be wrongfully perceived by a layman as being performed under color of law.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Applicable Standard

The Civil Service Act and the implementing regulations govern the rights and duties of public employees. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 to 4A:10-3.2. An employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties or who gives other just cause may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). In a civil service disciplinary case, the employer bears the burden of sufficient, competent and credible evidence of facts essential to the charge. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a)(2), -21; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1, "burden of proof," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4. That burden is to establish by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982).

An appointing authority may discipline an employee on various grounds, including inability to perform duties, conduct unbecoming a public employee and other sufficient cause. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). Such action is subject to review by the Merit System Board, which after a de novo hearing makes an independent determination as to both guilt and the "propriety of the penalty imposed below." W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 519 (1962). In an administrative proceeding concerning a major disciplinary action, the appointing authority must prove its case by a "fair preponderance of the believable evidence." N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Polk, supra, 90 N.J. at 560; Atkinson, supra, 37 N.J. at 149.

The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958.) Greater weight of credible evidence in the case – preponderance – depends not only on the number of witnesses, but "greater convincing power to our minds." State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47, 49 (1975). Similarly, credible testimony "must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against him/her and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); Bock, 38 N.J. 500.

This case is particularly sensitive because it involves law enforcement officials.

> [A] police officer is a special kind of public employee. His primary duty is to enforce and uphold the law. He carries a service revolver on his person and is constantly called upon to exercise tact, restraint and good judgment in his relationship with the public. He represents law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public . . . .
> [Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966).]

Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee

"Unbecoming conduct" is broadly defined as "'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the [governmental unit] [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services.'" Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998) (citations omitted); In re Nicosia, A-5285-04T5 (App. Div. May 17, 2007), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>. The conduct need not be "predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960).

Under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), an employee may be subject to major discipline for conduct unbecoming a public employee. Although not strictly defined by the Administrative Code, "conduct unbecoming" has been described as that "which adversely affects the morale or efficiency" of the public entity or tends "to destroy public respect for . . . [public] employees and confidence in the operation of . . . [public] services." Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. at 140 (citation omitted); see Karins, 152 N.J. 532.

In the case at bar, it is undisputed that appellant improperly utilized a Newark Police Department 1001 form by drafting a custody agreement on it. While this alone is certainly improper conduct worthy of an admonishment I CONCLUDE appellant's attempt to use this document to enroll a minor in a high school, presumably under color of law, falls far below the standard of conduct expected from a public employee, especially a law enforcement officer. I further CONCLUDE that appellant exhibited conduct unbecoming a public employee.

Neglect of Duty

Neglect of duty is one of the grounds for disciplinary action in a civil service matter under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(7). Although not defined by the regulation, it generally means that a person is not performing his or her job. The person may have failed to perform an act that the job requires or may have been negligent in the discharge of a duty.. The duty may arise by specific statute or from the very nature of the job itself.

In the case at bar, appellant neglected to properly notify his superiors of his intent to temporarily house a minor child who he came to know through his involvement with the Explorer's program. Lugardo testified that he filled out the 1001 form in order to apprise the department of his intended actions. He bolsters this position by stating that he actually did submit the form to the legal affairs department at his precinct. This testimony is rebutted by the undisputed fact that he presented the form to Bellville Highschool in an attempt to enroll a minor in the school and only submitted the form to legal affairs after being advised to do so by an official at Belleville High School. Further, the legal affairs office at the precinct is not appellant's supervisor, so I therefore CONCLUDE that appellant's act of submitting the form to the legal affairs office does not constitute adequate notice to his superiors. I CONCLUDE appellant neglected his duty as a police office.

Use of Division Stationary for Private Correspondence

In the case at bar, it is undisputed that appellant misused a Newark Police 1001 form and did so for personal reasons. While the 1001 form may be considered more of an internal document than stationary, the name of the office (Newark Police Department) is clearly visible on the form and any laymen presented with the form may be under the impression that they are being presented with some sort of official Newark Police Department document. I FIND appellant's misuse of the 1001 form violates the spirit of the above-referenced regulation prohibiting the use of Division Stationary for private use.

Appropriateness of Penalty

It is well-established that the employee's past record and any mitigating circumstances may be reviewed in assessing a penalty. See Bock, 38 N.J. 500. The severity of the infractions must also be balanced against "whether removal or something less is appropriate under the circumstances." In re Figueroa, CSV 3819-01, Initial Decision (October 10, 2003), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; see Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980). Progressive discipline may be "bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct," especially where the offense involves "public safety" and risks "harm to persons or property." In re Herman, 192 N.J. 19, 33-34 (2007). In assessing penalties, "[t]he overriding concern" is the "public good." George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 49 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463, 465.

"[W]here the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature," an individual may be removed regardless of disciplinary history. In re Glenn, CSV 5051-03, Initial Decision (May 23, 2005), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; see Henry, 81 N.J. at 571. Counseling, warnings, meetings, etc., do not constitute discipline under merit system rules. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-3.1. Here, as the charges resulted from offenses occurring from August to September of 2010, "it was incumbent upon [respondent] to follow the concept of progressive discipline" and advise appellant that "failure to change [her] behavior could result in termination from employment." Glenn, CSV 5051-03.

Appellant has a history of mostly minor disciplinary infractions and one major infraction, which resulted in a five-month suspension in 2007. The case at bar is to be the second major disciplinary action against him. Nonetheless, it is undisputed that appellant's actions at the heart of this disciplinary proceeding were entirely altruistic in nature as appellant had no prospect of pecuniary gain of any kind. Appellant believed he was acting in the best interest of the minor child and the community at large, though his actions were misguided and uninformed.

Based on the forgoing, I CONCLUDE the penalty should be reduced from sixty days to thirty days.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that appellant, Elvis Lugardo, be given a suspension of thirty days.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Administrative Action

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT ("Agreement") is entered into this 30th day of June, 2018 by and between Township of Monroe police officer Karl Johnson ("Johnson") and the Township of Monroe, Department of Public Safety ("Township").

WHEREAS, on January 6, 2017, the Township served Johnson with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action alleging: (1) Incompetency and inefficiency; (2) Inability to perform duties; and (3) violations of departmental rules and regulations regarding work expectations; and

WHEREAS, the foregoing disciplinary charges all alleged violations of various departmental rules and regulations, as well as violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)1 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a); and

WHEREAS, on January 18, 2017, the Township served Johnson with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action alleging: (1) Incompetency and inefficiency (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)1); and (2) Inability to perform duties (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)2); and

WHEREAS, on February 3, 2017, Johnson filed a timely removal appeal with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and requested that the matter be transferred to the Office of Administrative Law for plenary hearing; and

WHEREAS, Johnson's appeal was subsequently granted and docketed with this Tribunal on February 22, 2017; and

WHEREAS, on July 24, 2017, Johnson filed a Motion for Summary Decision alleging that the Township's termination of Johnson was premature; and

WHEREAS, on August 23, 2017, the Township opposed Johnson's Motion for Summary Decision; and

WHEREAS, on September 21, 2017, the Honorable Mary Ann Bogan, A.L.J., denied Johnson's summary-decision motion; and

WHEREAS, in the interests of avoiding the costs and uncertainty associated with continued litigation, Johnson and the Township desire to resolve the aforenoted disciplinary charges without trial.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, Johnson and the Township agree to the following terms as full and final settlement of the above-captioned matter:

1. Resignation: Johnson shall, in "good-standing" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.1, resign his appointment as a Township of Monroe police officer effective January 18, 2017. All Department records related to this matter shall be maintained and or disclosed in accordance with its Internal Affairs' Policy and Procedures Manual promulgated by the Division of Criminal Justice; and

2. Waiver of Future Employment: Johnson shall forevermore refrain from seeking employment with the Township in any capacity; and

3. Discharge: Each party (the releasing party) hereby remises, releases, acquits, satisfies, and forever discharges the other party (the released party) and its heirs, successors, assigns, members, officers, directors, principals, employees, and attorneys of and from all actions, suits, debts, dues, sums of money, accounts, reckonings, bonds, bills, specialties, covenants, attorneys' fees, expenses, contracts, controversies, agreements, promises, variances, damages, judgments, executions, claims, and demands whatsoever, in law or in equity, whether arising by statute, at common law, or otherwise, whether arising under federal, state, foreign, or other law, which the releasing party ever had, now has, or may have or which any heir, successor, assign, member, officer, director, employee, or attorney of the releasing party hereafter can, shall, or may have against the released party or its heirs, successors, assigns, members, officers, directors, employees, or attorneys for, upon, or by reason of any matter, cause, or thing whatsoever, from the beginning of the world to the date of this release; and

4. Dismissal of Action: The Township hereby dismisses and withdraws all charges against Johnson, with prejudice; and

5. Payment and Timeliness Thereof: In exchange for the valuable consideration offered herein the Township shall pay Johnson the gross sum of $4,000 in settlement of all of his claims, and inasmuch as this sum is not classified as back pay, no payroll deductions or taxes shall be withheld therefrom; and

6. Pension Service Credit: No Police and Firemen's Retirement System ("PFRS") service credit shall be afforded Johnson after the effective date of the date set forth on the FNDA served upon him on January 18, 2017; and

7. No Admission of Liability: By execution of this Agreement, neither party admits any liability to the other nor to the truth or falsity of any allegation, statement, communication or fact discussed, disclosed, or communicated in any manner, regarding any transaction, communication, contact, statement, or action between the parties, or in connection with this Agreement.

8. Attorneys' Fees and Costs: The parties hereby agree that they shall be solely responsible for any and all legal fees and costs respectively incurred from the beginning to the end of this matter. Each party waives any and all rights to seek legal fees and costs against the other party.

9. Choice of Law and Forum: This Agreement shall be construed, interpreted, and governed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey. The parties hereby agree that any action to enforce or interpret this Agreement shall be brought in a court of competent jurisdiction in the State of New Jersey.

10. Entire Agreement: This Agreement, consisting of five pages, contains the sole and entire agreement between the parties hereto and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof, and is intended to fully memorialize the settlement of any and all claims and disputes between the parties. The parties respectively represent and acknowledge that prior to executing this Agreement, they obtained the advice of counsel, that they had ample time to do so, and that they had not relied upon any representation or statement not set forth in this Agreement which was or may have been made by any party hereto or by any parties' counsel or representatives with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement. The parties hereby agree that no other promises or agreements shall be binding upon the parties unless made in writing, signed by the parties hereto, and expressly stated to represent an amendment to this Agreement.

11. Severability: The parties agree that if any court of competent jurisdiction declares any portion of this Agreement unenforceable, the remaining portions shall remain in full force and effect.

12. Effective Date: This Agreement shall become effective on the date on which all parties to this Agreement have fully executed it.

13. Purpose and Scope: This Agreement is not intended to be used, nor shall it be used, as evidence for any other purpose in any other action, matter, or proceeding, other than to serve as evidence of the parties' compromise as set forth herein, or to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

BY SIGNING THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE, THE PARTIES ACKNOWLEDGE THAT:

1. THEY HAVE READ IT;

Albert C. Buglione, Esq., appearing on behalf of respondent, Passaic County Board of Social Services

Record Closed: July 24, 2018 Decided: July 25, 2018

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ:

Appellant, Cynthia Pena, appeals from the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated March 17, 2018, terminating her employment for chronic excessive absenteeism or lateness. Appellant filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission and the Commission granted appellant's request for a hearing and transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on April 23, 2018, for determination as a contested case. By notice dated May 1, 2018, appellant and respondent's counsel were notified of a telephone prehearing scheduled for May 21, 2018 at 3:00 p.m. The notice requested that appellant provide a telephone number where she could be reached for the call. On May 18, 2018, Union Representative David H. Weiner entered an appearance on behalf of appellant. The undersigned held a pre-hearing telephone conference on May 21, 2018, whereby Mr. Weiner advised that he was having an issue trying to reach his client. An in-person conference was scheduled for July 23, 2018. Prior to this hearing, Mr. Buglione spoke to Mr. Weiner and was advised that he still had not been able to reach appellant.

Based upon the lack of appearance by either Mr. Weiner or his client and having had notices sent to all parties on May 21, 2018, I must FIND this conduct tantamount to an abandonment of her request for a hearing.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I ORDER that the appeal filed by appellant in this matter be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Rather than continuing further with the appeal of Rivera's suspension at the Office of Administrative Law on the following charges:

A. CAP 2016-042; IOP 2016-107 (50-Day Suspension): Conduct; Safekeeping of Prisoners; Guarding Prisoners; Neglect of Duty; False Statements; Report of Crime; Responsibility for Own Actions; Knowledge of Laws and Regulations; and other sufficient causes, as codified at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6 and 4A:2-2.3(a)7, NPD Rules and Regulations Chapters 3:1.2-9; 3:1.2-10; 3:2.3; 3:2.7; 18:6 and 18:20, and;

B. CAP 2016-003; IOP 2015-627 (10-Day Suspension): Insubordination 4A:2-2.3(a)2 and violation of Rules and Regulations Chapter 18:8-Acts of Insubordination and Chapter 18:5-Unfavorable Conduct; and the City, the Union and Rivera (collectively referred to hereinafter as the "Parties") have determined to resolve this matter by this Agreement, and agree as follows:

C. CAP 2016-035; IOP 2016-030 this matter was merged with CAP 2016-003/IOP 2015-627 referenced in paragraph "B"

[1] On the date which gave rise to the incident noted in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, Ms. Rivera was employed as a Police Officer, with the Newark Police Department.

1. The Parties hereby agree that Charge 3 of CAP 2016-042; IOP 2016-107 - Guarding of Prisoners will be upheld. As a result, Rivera will receive 25-Days suspension for said violation. Rivera will receive 25-Days back pay for suspension previously served.
2. The Parties hereby agree that CAP 2016-003; IOP 2015-627 and CAP 2016-035 & IOP 2016-030 will be dismissed. Rivera will receive 10-Days back pay as a result of said dismissal.
3. The City will amend the FNDAs on all matters to reflect the above agreement.
4. The parties agree the total amount of back pay owed to Rivera is Thirty-Five (35) Days.
5. The Parties acknowledge under N.J.A.C. 17:1-2.18(b) and (c), no pension or seniority time may be credited for periods for which the employee is not paid by the employer
6. Rivera further waives any and all rights or claims which she has or may have to a hearing on the merits of the disciplinary action taken under this Agreement and/or to challenge the suspension penalty imposed as a result of same.
7. Rivera and the Union each agree not to appeal the terms and conditions of this Agreement to any agency or court, including, but not limited to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and/or to any other New Jersey State Court or agency and/or to any United States Court or agency.
8. Rivera and the Union each further agree that there is no consideration due Rivera, her counsel and/or Union, including, but not limited to, any claim for back pay and/or counsel fees, arising from her employment and/or the execution of this Agreement, except as otherwise provided herein.
9. Except for the assessment of Rivera's disciplinary record in any subsequent personnel disciplinary hearing, nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party.

10. Rivera and the Union further acknowledge that this Agreement further precludes either of them from bringing any type of legal or contractual action in any forum including, but not limited to, filing a Complaint in New Jersey Superior Court or United States Federal Court, filing any type of complaint with the City, Essex County, the State of New Jersey or the United States of America, and filing a grievance and/or requesting arbitration, that is in any manner grounded, based upon, or related to the FNDA.
11. Rivera is bound by this Agreement. Anyone who succeeds to Rivera's rights and responsibilities, such as heirs or the executor of her estate, shall also be bound.
12. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent or practice in any matter involving the City or other City employees.
13. Rivera and the Union each agree this Agreement shall not be offered, used or considered as evidence in any proceeding of any type against or involving the City, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.
14. This Agreement contains the sole and entire agreement between Rivera, The Department of Public Safety and the City, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. Rivera specifically represents and acknowledges in executing this Agreement that she has not relied upon any representation or statement by the City, or City's counsel or representatives, with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, which is not set forth herein. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by all the Parties, and expressly stated to be a modification of the Agreement.
15. Rivera agrees and acknowledges that she has been fully and fairly represented by her Union in this matter, and she is satisfied with that representation and with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

16. Rivera agrees and acknowledges that she has had full opportunity to review this Agreement with her counsel and/or union representation and she enters into same knowingly and voluntarily.
17. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Settlement Agreement shall be fully enforceable.
18. This agreement will become effective only if approved by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION. Any disapproval by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.
19. By signing this Settlement Agreement, Rivera states that:
    a) She has read it;
    b) She understands it and knows that she is giving up important rights, and any and all other federal and state employment related causes of any kind, including, but not limited to The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Equal Pay Law, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, The Conscientious Employee Protection Act, The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and any other constitutional, statutory or common law suit, attorney's fees and costs of this proceeding, and any public policy of the United States, the State of New Jersey, or any other State;
    c) She agrees with everything in it;
    d) Her representative negotiated this Agreement with her knowledge and consent;
    e) She has been advised to consult with her attorney prior to executing this Agreement, and has in fact done so; and
    f) She has signed this Settlement Agreement knowingly and voluntarily.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSR 01913-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A

IN THE MATTER OF DARIO RUIZ, SOUTH WOODS STATE PRISON.

Michael L. Testa, Jr., Esq., for appellant, Dario Ruiz (Testa Heck Testa & White, PA, attorneys)

Jessica M. Saxon, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, South Woods State Prison (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 18, 2018 Decided Date: July 18, 2018

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, a Senior Corrections Officer, appeals his removal effective December 7, 2017. The respondent, South Woods State Prison (SWSP) alleges that based upon an investigation conducted by the Special Investigation Division (SID), the appellant knowingly provided an electronic communication device to a person or persons who were confined within a state correctional facility. SWP further contends that, through self-admission, the appellant acknowledged that this occurred on multiple occasions and that it is documented in the SWSP/SID investigation.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The appellant filed a timely appeal of the removal and requested a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The matter was transmitted to the OAL, where it was filed on February 1, 2018, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The respondent filed the within motion for summary decision on March 9, 2018. (R-1.) The appellant waived the 180-day requirement to complete this matter on March 21, 2018. The appellant filed his response in opposition of the within motion for summary decision on May 16, 2018. (A-1.) A telephonic management conference was held on May 14, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

The following facts of this case are not in dispute; therefore, I FIND as FACT:

1. The appellant was employed as a Senior Corrections Officer at SWSP during all relevant times.

2. In March 2017, the SID received information from a confidential witness that the appellant was introducing contraband into SWSP and receiving haircuts from an inmate.

3. An additional confidential informant provided information that the appellant was seen retrieving several duffle bags from his personal vehicle and bringing them into the property room where the appellant supervised inmates who processed, sorted and loaded all inmate property arriving or departing SWSP. This confidential informant also reported that the duffel bag contained hair clippers that were utilized by inmates to cut the appellant's hair. This confidential informant further reported that they witnessed the appellant on a cell phone while next to inmates and had a conversation on speaker phone.

4. Based upon the forgoing, the SID commenced an investigation that resulted in a formal investigative report that was issued on October 30, 2017. (R-1, Exhibit 2.)

5. The aforementioned investigation included electronic surveillance of the SWSP property room depicting events occurring on March 28, 2017, March 29, 2017, and April 4, 2017. (R-1, Exhibits 3 and 4.) A review of the recorded surveillance showed that the appellant introduced a duffle bag into the property room, received haircuts from an inmate and navigated through a cellphone while inmates viewed the screen's content.

6. SID then contacted the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office and The Honorable Cristen D'Arrigo, J.S.C., issued a search warrant on April 12, 2017, to search anything that was accessible to the appellant. (R-1, Exhibit 5.)

7. The appellant was served with the search warrant and submitted to a pat down search. During the pat down search, it was discovered that the appellant had $2,514.55 in U.S. currency on his person as well as sixty-four bank statements and several hand-written notes that contained inmates' names and identification numbers.

8. During the execution of the search warrant, numerous items were seized from the appellant, his vehicle and his lockers that included:

    - $2,514.55 cash
    - sixty-four Bank of America receipts
    - seventeen papers containing various names and telephone numbers
    - five hair clippers, six combs and four brushes
    - twenty-one clipper blades, nine screw drivers and three screws
    - eight razor blades
    - one knife
    - five cell phones
    - one loaded Glock 22.40 caliber Smith & Wesson handgun and one handgun holster
    - three loaded Glock .40 caliber hollow point ammunition magazines
    - one pair of handcuffs
    - State issued inmate undergarments

9. On April 13, 2017, the appellant waived his Miranda Rights and provided an audio-video recorded statement. (R-1, Exhibit 6.) The appellant admitted ownership of the duffel bag seen in the videos and photos. (R-1, Exhibits 3, 4 and 8.) He stated he purposely left his loaded, off-duty firearm in his vehicle despite being afforded the opportunity to properly secure the weapon pursuant to departmental policy. The appellant stated that he accessed his personal cell phone while inside SWSP, while inmates were present and "revealed" its contents. He admitted to receiving haircuts from an inmate while in the property room on several occasions using the appellant's personal hair clippers that he brought into the prison for that specific use. The appellant stated that he obtained the unauthorized possession of the cell phones seized from his vehicle after he removed them from the prison's property room. He admitted to giving inmates access to food items and to taking possession of DOC issued underwear.

10. On March 13, 2017, the appellant was issued Summons S-2017-000676-0601, charging him with violating N.J.S.A. 2C:29-10(d), a crime of the second degree and N.J.S.A. 29-6(b), a petty disorderly persons offense. (R-1, Exhibit 6.) The Cumberland County Prosecutor's office administratively dismissed these charges on November 2, 2017, and listed the basis for dismissal as "insufficient evidence." (R-2 at Exhibit A.)

11. On April 13, 2017, the appellant was issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (R-1 at Exhibit 13), a Departmental Hearing was held on November 30, 2017, and a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued on December 7, 2017, (R-1 at Exhibit 14) that resulted in the appellant being charged with the following violations:

    - N.J.A.C 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) – Conduct unbecoming a public employee
    - N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) – Other sufficient cause
    - HRB 84-17 (as amended) (D-4) – Improper or unauthorized contact with inmate – Undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their families or friends
    - HRB 84-17 (as amended) (D-7) – Violations of an administrative procedure and/or regulation involving safety and security
    - HRB 84-17 (as amended) (C-11) – Conduct unbecoming an employee

- HRB 84-17 (as amended) (E-1) – Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides that a motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. See also Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The opposing party must submit responding affidavits showing that there is indeed a genuine issue of material fact, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding, and that the moving party is not entitled to summary decision as a matter of law. Failure to do so, entitled the moving party to summary judgment. Id. at 520. Moreover, even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, the courts must grant summary judgment if the evidence is "so one-sided that [moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. If the non-moving party's evidence is merely colorable, or is not significantly probative, summary judgment should not be denied. See Bowles v. City of Camden, 993 F. Supp. 255, 261 (D.N.J. 1998). However, "the court must grant all the favorable inferences to the non-movant." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co.,142 N.J. at 536.

Here, the appellant is charged with conduct unbecoming a public employee pursuant to N.J.A.C 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann

v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955).

The basis for the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee was the appellant's unduly familiar relationship with inmates. At all relevant times, the appellant was assigned to the property room at SWSP. On April 13, 2017, the appellant provided an audio-video recorded statement during which he admitted to receiving haircuts from an inmate while in the property room, on several occasions, using the appellant's personal hair clippers that he brought into the prison for that specific use. The appellant admitted that he accessed his personal cell phone while inside SWSP, while inmates were present and "revealed" its screen contents to the inmates. He also admitted to giving inmates access to food items. During his interview, the appellant was evasive and untruthful until confronted with the video surveillance and photographs.

Here, the appellant admittedly introduced items into the prison that included hair clippers, clipper blades and razor blades. These items were then entrusted to inmates who in turn provided personal grooming services to the appellant. Such objects could easily be utilized as deadly weapons against the appellant, other corrections staff or inmates. The appellant admitted that he scrolled through his personal cell phone and then share its screen's contents with inmates. Furthermore, the video surveillance confirmed that the appellant would share food items with inmates by opening the packaged food and pouring into their hands.

As a corrections officer, appellant was held to a higher standard of conduct. The public respects officers for discovering, reporting, and championing the truth in circumstances of wrongdoing and while they are satisfying their duties. Appellant's conduct in these unduly familiar relationships and his evasiveness to investigators adversely affected the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit and would tend to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Appellant's actions were violative of his obligations in a position of public trust. It offended publicly accepted standards of respect and decency. No circumstances existed to warrant or justify appellant's conduct. Moreover, no circumstances existed justifying his relationship with inmates under his charge. Those unduly familiar relationships existed while the inmates were incarcerated in SWPS.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

HRB 84-17, as amended, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> In any disciplinary matter, reference must always be made to the collective bargaining agreement covering the disciplined employee, relevant Department of Personnel Rules, appropriate Department bulletins or memoranda, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of New Jersey Department of Corrections, and/or the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations.

General Principles, Subsection C of the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of the New Jersey DOC provides that employees are prevented from, "becoming unduly familiar with any inmate or group of inmates or permit[ting] himself to become obligated in any way to an inmate or his family; a parolee or his family." General Rules and Regulations, Subsection K provides that "employees must not give or receive from any inmate or parolee or any inmate or parolee's friend, relative, or representative anything in the nature of a gift or promise or favor, however trivial."

Correction officers are also subject to the DOC Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations. Article I, Section 2 states in pertinent part:

> No officer shall knowingly act in any way that might reasonably be expected to create an impression of suspension among the public that an officer may be engaged in conduct violative of the public trust as an officer.

Article II, Section 3 states in pertinent part:

> Officers shall be held responsible for the proper performance of duty and for strict adherence to these rules and regulations.

The Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations provides in pertinent part, at Article III, Section 4 that "no officer shall become unduly familiar with inmates who are incarcerated, on community release, or on parole status..." Appellant was required to follow both the Handbook Rules and the Law Enforcement Rules. The two policies must be read together and supplement each other. The purpose of the policies is consistent. It is to prevent officers from being compromised or becoming obligated to inmates, their friends, or families. These unduly familiar relationships compromise officers, the facility, inmates, and the public. They are an avenue to corruption.

The appellant admittedly maintained relationships with the SWSP inmates under his charge. He admitted to receiving haircuts from an inmate while in the property room, on several occasions, using the appellant's personal hair clippers that he brought into the prison for that specific use. The appellant also admitted that he accessed his personal cell phone while inside SWSP, while inmates were present and "revealed" its screen contents to the inmates. Furthermore, he admitted to giving inmates access to food items. This was an unduly familiar relationship. Such behavior is unbecoming a corrections officer and violates the public trust.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the appellant's conduct violated HRB 84-17 (as amended), D-4, improper or unauthorized contact with an inmate and undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their family or friends by engaging in a relationship with SWSP inmates under his charge. Furthermore, I CONCLUDE that the appellant's actions violated HRB 84-17 (as amended), C-11, conduct unbecoming and employee by engaging in an unduly familiar relationship with SWSP inmates under his charge.

Next, the appellant admitted that he purposely left his loaded, off-duty firearm in his vehicle while at work, despite being afforded the opportunity to properly secure the weapon pursuant to departmental policy. The Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article V, Subsection 7 states in pertinent part:

> (a) An employee entering a correctional facility grounds while armed with an off-duty firearm must proceed directly to the weapons collection station of the correctional facility. The off-duty firearm shall be turned in fully loaded, in its holster, > attached to the State of New Jersey, Firearms Unit Weapons Card. One extra loaded magazine or one extra speedloader in a carrier may be turned into the weapons collection station of the correctional facility with the firearm. No other loose or additional ammunition shall be brought into the correctional facility or carried onto Department property.

> (c) Employees are prohibited from storing off-duty weapons or ammunition in their personal vehicles while on Department property.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the appellant's conduct violated HRB 84-17 (as amended), D-7, violation of an administrative procedure and/or regulation involving safety and security by admittedly purposely leaving his off-duty firearm in his personal vehicle while on-duty as SWSP.

Furthermore, the appellant admitted that he obtained the unauthorized possession of the cell phones seized from his vehicle after he removed them from the prison's property room and that he took possession of DOC issued underwear. The Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article V, Subsection 3 states in pertinent part:

> Officers shall not willfully, carelessly or negligently lose, destroy, spoil, damage, wrongfully dispose of or convert for personal use or for unauthorized use of another:
> (a) Any property belonging to, or assigned by the Department
> (b) Any property belonging to, or assigned to, any inmate or parolee under the custody and care of the Department.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the appellant's conduct violated HRB 84-17 (as amended), E-1, violation of a rule regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision by obtaining the unauthorized possession of the cell phones seized from his vehicle after he removed them from the prison's property room and by taking possession of DOC issued underwear.

Finally, appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, the appellant's conduct was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

PENALTY

"The New Jersey Department of Corrections, Human Resources Bulletin 84-17, As Amended, Disciplinary Action Policy" provides that a range of penalty, from three days suspension to removal, may be issued for the sustained charges of conduct unbecoming a public employee. The DOC in this manner has determined that the appropriate penalty is removal. The appellant has been employed by the DOC for over twenty-seven years. He contends that during his employment he has had an exemplary disciplinary record and he argues that a lesser penalty is appropriate under the circumstances and with taking into consideration the principal of progressive discipline.

However, the principle of incremental, or progressive, discipline does not need to be applied in every disciplinary setting, particularly when the misconduct "is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest." In re Hermann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007). New Jersey courts have repeatedly concluded that, even in the absence of a prior disciplinary record, removal may be imposed if the charges are serious enough in nature. Ibid.; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). While one error, even a serious one, does not necessarily require the ultimate penalty of removal, in cases involving correctional facilities, the evaluation of the seriousness of the offenses and the degree to which such offenses subvert discipline are matters peculiarly within the expertise of the corrections facilities. Bryant v. Cumberland County Welfare Agency, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 369.

I have reviewed the appellant's Work History and I am aware of his length of employment with the DOC. (A-1, Exhibit B.) However, based upon all the facts detailed above, I CONCLUDE that the appropriate penalty is removal.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 02415-14
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2014-1963

IN THE MATTER OF SAMAD WASHINGTON,
CITY OF NEWARK POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Anthony Fusco, Esq. (Fusco & Macaluso, attorneys)

Karron Rizvi, Esq., Assistant Corporation Counsel, for respondent (Kenyatta Stewart, Corporation Counsel)

Record Closed: July 12, 2018 Decided: July 16, 2018

BEFORE JOANN LASALA CANDIDO, ALAJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Samad Washington (appellant) appeals his ninety-day suspension as a police officer with the City of Newark (respondent) which sustained charges against him alleging that he violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2), insubordination; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty, and departmental policies and procedures Rules and Regulations 18.8, acts of insubordination, Rules and Regulations Chapter 3:1. 2-4, demonstration of respect, Rules and Regulations Chapter 5:1.1, conduct unbecoming, and Rules and Regulations Chapter 5:4.1, obedience to orders. The specification reads:

> On April 4, 2013, at approximately 12:25 p.m., at 311 Washington Street, Communication Division, Police Officer Samad Washington, assigned as dispatcher, did commit an act of insubordination to Lieutenant Robert Clark, a superior officer, to wit: Lieutenant Clark gave Officer Washington instruction regarding his dispatch duties at which time Officer Washington became verbally confrontational and questioned Lieutenant Clark. Officer Washington stood up walked towards Lieutenant Clark while glaring at him as he made threatening remarks, "You need to remember who you're talking to." Officer Washington attempted to walk up onto the supervisor's Platform and was physically blocked by Police Officers Alnesa Mallory and Michael Walski. Officer Washington continued to push towards the platform, Captain Wilfredo Mercado then exited his office and Assisted in the restraint of Officer Washington, who was eventually escorted from the dispatch floor.
> On April 4, 2013, at approximately 12:25 p.m., at 311 Washington Street, Communication Division, Police Officer Samad Washington, assigned as dispatcher, did receive a lawful verbal order from Captain Wilfredo Mercado, a superior officer, directing Officer Washington to leave the dispatch floor and go to the hallway, he did disobey this order when he failed to comply as directed.

Appellant disputes the charges sustained enumerated above in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated February 4, 2014.

On February 26, 2014, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed as a contested case. The matter was heard by former Administrative Law Judge Joan Bedrin-Murray on April 20, 2015, and September 16, 2015. The matter was re-assigned to Judge Leslie Celentano on December 20, 2017, upon Judge Bedrin-Murray leaving the OAL, before being re-assigned to the undersigned on June 29, 2018. The record closed on July 12, 2018, upon receipt of the appellant's complete disciplinary record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented in the file, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Appellant, a police officer, has been employed by respondent at the time of this hearing for twenty-four years. He was assigned to the prison and processing division, Squad B.
2. On or about April 4, 2013, while a dispatcher and wearing headsets, appellant received a call from an officer in the East District who was attempting to pull over a suspicious vehicle. He was wearing his headsets while dispatching. Washington was attempting to get the location of the officer to send back-up.
3. Lieutenant Robert Clark was appellant's immediate supervisor. On April 4, 2013, Lieutenant Clark announced that he needed the air to dispatch a message and waited approximately five seconds before taking over Channel 3 that appellant was communicating on. Lieutenant Clark was looking for a police vehicle when he took the air.
4. Appellant told Lieutenant Clark that he had the air when the lieutenant interrupted. Appellant and Clark loudly spoke to each other about the interruption and two fellow officers walked out of the dispatch room with appellant after being directed by Captain Wilfredo Mercado to leave the area on more than one occasion.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The City of Newark Police Department has the burden of proving the charges against Officer Samad Washington by a preponderance of the credible evidence. N.J.S.A.11A:1-1 to 12-6. Preponderance is the greater weight of credible evidence and convincing power presented, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Moreover, the evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). And, where the standard is reasonable probability, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Lowe v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant is charged with insubordination. The Civil Service Commission utilizes a more expansive definition of insubordination than a simple refusal to obey an order. In re Chaparro, CSV 4112-10, Initial Decision (November 12, 2010), modified, CSC (March 18, 2011) (citing In re Stanziale, A-3492-00T5 (App. Div. April 11, 2002), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/> (appellant's conduct in which he refused to provide complete and accurate information when requested by a superior constituted insubordination)); In re Lyons, A-2488-07T2 (App. Div. April 26, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>; In re Moreno, CSV 14037-09, Initial Decision (June 10, 2010), modified, CSC (July 21, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; In re Bell, CSV 4695-09, Initial Decision (May 12, 2010), modified, CSC (June 23, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; In re Pettiford, CSV 8804-07, Initial Decision (March 13, 2008), modified, Merit System Board (May 21, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. (Moreno, Bell, and Pettiford all concerning disrespect of a supervisor.)

The Civil Service Commission also has determined that an appellant is required to comply with an order of his or her superior, even if he or she believed the orders to be improper or contrary to established rules and regulations. See Palamara v. Twp. of Irvington, A-5408-05T3 (App. Div. February 28, 2005), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>; compare, In re Allen, CSV 11160-04, Initial Decision (May 23, 2005), remanded, Merit System Board (July 14, 2005), CSV 09132-05 Initial Decision, (November 22, 2005), adopted, Merit System Board (January 26, 2006), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (in which the Board determined that the appellant's disobedience was justified by concerns for the safety of the clients on a bus and reversed his removal).

In this case, there is sufficient evidence that appellant was insubordinate when directed to leave the dispatch room and failing to do so until his fellow officers escorted him out as well as engaging in an argument with a superior. I therefore CONCLUDE that appellant engaged in conduct that amounted to insubordination and disrespect.

"Conduct unbecoming" a public employee is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (Pa. 1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Based upon all of the foregoing, including the evidence and certifications submitted, I CONCLUDE that appellant violated the rules and policies of the Institution when he confronted his superior in an argumentative manner and needed to be escorted out of the dispatch area by at least two fellow officers. I therefore CONCLUDE that respondent has satisfied its burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence conduct unbecoming a public employee.

I further CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, all charges against appellant.

Respondent suspended the appellant for ninety days. Violation of Newark Police Department Rules and Regulations of insubordination or disrespect for any superior officer and as per N.J.A.C. 4a:2-2.3(a)(2) insubordination, in regard to the established conduct for a law enforcement unit, public employees who are protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may be subject to major disciplinary action for a variety of offenses involving their employment. An appointing authority may discipline an employee for sufficient cause, including failure to obey laws, rules and regulations of the appointing authority. The same holds true for conduct unbecoming. In determining the reasonableness of a sanction, the employee's past record and any mitigating circumstances should be reviewed for guidance. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). However, the courts should not adhere to rigid disciplinary guidelines in assessing penalties. To determine whether sufficient cause exists to justify the sanction, the conduct must be examined considering certain factors. Moreover, the employee's conduct must be evaluated in context with its relationship to the nature of the job and the circumstances, which may impact specific conduct. On appeal, the Board may modify a penalty originally imposed. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). Indeed, the Board is empowered to substitute its judgment on the appropriate penalty, even if the local appointing authority has not clearly abused its discretion. Henry, 81 N.J. at 579. However, the penalty imposed may not be so disproportionate to the offense and the mitigating factors that the administrative decision is arbitrary and unreasonable. Feldman v. Town of Irvington Fire Dep't, 162 N.J. Super. 177, 182 (App. Div. 1978), overruled on other grounds by Steinel v. Jersey City, 99 N.J. 1 (1985). The following charges have been sustained:

1. 03/22/93 - Two-day suspension for False Statement.
2. 12/22/92 - Three-day suspensions for Disobedience of Orders.
3. 02/24/94 - Division Answering Subpoena.
4. 10/30/95 - Two-day suspension for Disobedience of Orders.
5. 07/17/99 - Five-day suspension for Acts of Insubordination.
6. 05/23/00 - Sixty-day suspension for Acts of Insubordination.
7. 10/30/06 - Reprimand

The determination as to the appropriate penalty is properly considered in the context of the ongoing and continuous violations of Newark Police Department policy and the disregard for standing orders. Also considered, but of less import, is the prior disciplinary record, consisting of seven disciplinary actions, ranging from a two-day suspension to a sixty-day suspension. I CONCLUDE that the nature of the conduct, against the backdrop of the prior disciplinary record here, amply justifies the ninety-day suspension.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming, and the Newark Police Department Rules and Regulations against appellant are and hereby shall be SUSTAINED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, P.O. STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Christopher Munn, City of Trenton Police Department	DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION
CSC Docket No. 2018-2366
	Administrative Appeal

ISSUED: AUGUST 17, 2018 (BW)

Christopher Munn, a Police Officer with the City of Trenton Police Department, represented by Paul W. Tyshchenko, Esq., requests to reinstate the appeal of his 120-hour suspension, which was dismissed on the basis of his failure to appear at the April 17, 2018 settlement conference at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

The appellant timely appealed his suspension to this agency which transmitted the matter to OAL as a contested case. The OAL scheduled the matter for a settlement conference on April 17, 2018, and sent a notice dated March 6, 2018 to this effect to the appellant's attorney and the City of Trenton's (City) attorney. On the scheduled date, the appellant and/or his attorney failed to appear. The OAL issued a "Failure to Appear" notice which indicated that the appellant and his attorney failed to appear at the scheduled proceedings. On April 24, 2018, the matter was returned to the Civil Service Commission (Commission) for a final decision, with a notice giving the parties 13 days to present any excuse for failure to appear to this agency.

In support of the appellant's request for reinstatement of his appeal, the appellant's attorney argues that he did not appear as a result of a clerical error either on the part of his office or the OAL, as he never received the notice. Moreover, the appellant's attorney asserts that the appellant should not be denied a fair hearing because of a clerical error.

In response, the appointing authority, represented by Stephen E. Trimboli, Esq., maintains that the appellant's request in this matter should be denied. Specifically, the appointing authority asserts that the appellants failure to appear is the latest in a series of actions designed to burden the City and cause it to incur legal fees unnecessarily. The City had to pay for the services of its attorney and the loss of two superior police officers for the period of time they were required to appears for a settlement conference. The appointing authority states the OAL sent the notice to appellant's attorney and not to the appellant as is the procedure when someone is represented by an attorney. The City requests that if the appeal is reinstated that the appellant refund the City all costs and legal fees incurred by the City when it appeared for the settlement conference.

CONCLUSION

With regard to the instant matter, the appellant's attorney indicates that he did not receive the Notice of Settlement Conference dated March 6, 2018. In this regard, as noted correctly by the appointing authority, when an appellant is represented by an attorney, OAL only sends notice to the attorney. Accordingly, as the appellant does not bear any individual responsibility for his failure to appear at the settlement conference on April 17, 2018 and he did not intend to abandon his appeal, it would be unfair not to permit him to pursue his statutory right to challenge his suspension based on a clerical error by his attorney.

Moreover, the City's request for reimbursement due to nonappearance is denied as the Commission has no jurisdiction over sanctions for nonappearance at a settlement conference. In this regard, while N.J.A.C. 4A:10-1.1 and N.J.A.C. 4A:10-2.1 provide that if there is evidence of a violation or noncompliance with Title 11A or N.J.A.C. 4A, the Commission may take action which includes assessing costs, charges and fines, no such regulatory violations are evident in this matter. Rather, OAL rules, specifically N.J.A.C 1:1.14.4, govern such sanctions. That rule indicates that if the Judge does not receive an explanation from a party for nonappearance within one day, the matter is referred back to the transmitting agency. Sanctions under that rule are only considered where the Judge has received an explanation from a party and finds no good cause to reschedule the hearing. That did not occur in this matter. Moreover, even if the Commission could utilize this provision, since it has found good cause for the matter to proceed, no such sanctions would be warranted. Accordingly, the Commission finds that under the circumstances presented in this matter, to deny the appellant a hearing on the merits of his disciplinary action would be unjust.

ORDER

Therefore, it is ordered that Christopher Munn's request to reinstate his appeal be granted and the matter be transmitted to the OAL for further proceedings.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Gary Bode and Fred O'Callaghan, Department of Corrections

CSC Docket Nos. 2018-1671 & 2018-1708
OAL Docket Nos. CSR 18358-17 & CSR 18648-17 (consolidated)

ISSUED: September 21, 2018 (EG)

The appeals of Gary Bode and Fred O'Callaghan, Correction Lieutenants[1] with East Jersey State Prison, Department of Corrections (DOC), of their removals effective December 7, 2017 and December 15, 2017, respectively, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Susana E. Guerrero (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on August 1, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and exceptions and a reply to exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellants.

Having considered the record and the attached ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on September 5, 2018, did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to modify the removals to 180 calendar day suspensions. Rather, the Commission modified the removals to 60 working day suspensions.

DISCUSSION

The appellants were charged with conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty and other sufficient cause. Specifically, the appointing authority alleged that the appellants entered general population unsuited and without following proper procedure, creating an unsafe environment for medical and custody staff members. Upon the appellants' appeals, the matters were transmitted to the OAL for hearings as contested cases. The matters were consolidated at OAL.

[1] Pursuant to P.L.2017, c.293, the title of Correction Lieutenant has been retitled Correctional Police Lieutenant.

The ALJ set forth in her initial decision that on August 26, 2107, the appellants were the highest-ranking officers at the prison. During the first shift that day there was a physical altercation between two inmates in the big yard. An officer witnessed the altercation and called in a code. O'Callaghan responded by approaching the gates. He was informed by the officer that one inmate had picked up another inmate and slammed him to the ground on his head. O'Callaghan could see the injured inmate convulsing on the ground. O'Callaghan then witnessed the inmate stop convulsing and ordered the gate opened. He also called in a code 53 medical emergency and called for a suited team. O'Callaghan then preceded to enter the yard and was followed by nine officers. These officers were not ordered by O'Callaghan to enter the yard. O'Callaghan and these other officers were not suited with protective gear. The 97 inmates in the yard at the time of the incident were ordered to retreat to the far end of the yard, about half the length of a football field away from the injured inmate. They all complied before O'Callaghan entered the yard. Once O'Callaghan entered the yard, he ran directly to the inmate and checked his pulse. Medical staff arrived within two minutes of O'Callaghan entering the yard. O'Callaghan remained with the medical staff for approximately 10 to 15 minutes, until the inmate was carried away on a stretcher. After the codes were called, Bode also entered the yard without any protective gear.

Correction Sergeant[2] Vargas responded to the code by arriving at the gates to the yard with 13 officers. He entered the yard and ordered the 97 inmates to lay on the ground, put their hands behind their heads and to cross their legs as a protective measure. The 13 officers then created a barrier between the inmates and the injured inmate, O'Callaghan, the other officers with O'Callaghan, and the medical staff. Vargas claims that Bode denied his request for a second team and that Bode had ordered that his team remain in the yard with the inmates after the injured inmate had been removed from the yard.

The appointing authority's witnesses testified that the appellants violated several provisions of at least three Internal Management Procedures (IMPs), as well as the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations. The IMPs provided the procedures to be utilized during emergency situations, and the responsibilities and the requirements for Lieutenants in such situations.

The ALJ found that O'Callaghan entered the yard unsuited and that his entry caused other officers to enter the yard unsuited. The ALJ stated O'Callaghan's actions constituted neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a public employee as he violated the IMP requiring him to enter suited and with a team of 13 suited officers. Further, O'Callaghan failed to ensure the safety of the officers who accompanied him and the medical staff. Additionally, the ALJ found that Bode's actions in entering the yard without being suited and his ordering of Vargas' team to remain in the yard with the inmates after the injured inmate was taken away constituted neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a public employee. The ALJ found Bode's actions reckless and unnecessarily jeopardized the safety and security of Vargas' team. Moreover, the ALJ found that the charge of other sufficient cause against the appellants were proven by the appointing authority as both appellants clearly violated IMPs.

With regard to the penalty, the ALJ determined that the errors committed by O'Callaghan in responding to the code in question were insufficiently severe to render O'Callaghan unsuitable to continue in his position. The ALJ indicated that in O'Callaghan's 18 years with DOC, his disciplinary history consisted of a single written reprimand. Therefore, she concluded that a 180 calendar day suspension was a more appropriate penalty. In assessing the proper penalty for Bode, the ALJ indicated that the penalty was excessive for the infractions he committed. The ALJ stated that Bode only had one written reprimand present in his disciplinary record in his 12 years with DOC. Thus, the ALJ determined a 180 calendar day suspension a more appropriate penalty for Bode.

In its exceptions, the appointing authority argues that the ALJ properly found all the charges were proven and sustained against the appellants, but that the ALJ applied irrelevant and immaterial factors in reducing the penalties. Specifically, it argues that the fact that no riot, hostage situation or deaths occurred did not excuse the actions of the appellants. The potential for harm, violation of procedures, and risk of safety to the prison was inexcusable for the highest-ranking officers in the prison at the time of the incidents. In this regard, it contends that the appellants actions were so egregious that removal was warranted.

In their exceptions and reply to exceptions, the appellants argue that the ALJ erred in finding the appellants violated the IMPs. They contend that a plain reading of the IMPs in question indicate that the appellants did not violate any procedures. Additionally, the appellants contend that ALJ improperly found the testimony of Assistant Superintendent Jeffery Crothers credible and did not give enough weight to their testimony. Specifically, they contend that the testimony of Crothers contained many inconsistencies. Finally, the appellants argue that the 180 calendar day suspension was too severe in the instant matter based on their disciplinary histories and the fact that both appellants acted with good intentions and there were no injuries or negative consequences as a result of their actions.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ's determination regarding the charges. However, the Commission does not agree with the ALJ's recommendation to modify the removals to 180 calendar day suspensions. Rather, the Commission modifies the removals to 60 working day suspensions. In their exceptions, the appellants argue that the ALJ erred in finding the appellants violated the IMPs as a plain reading of the IMPs in question indicate that the appellants did not violate any procedures. The Commission does not agree. As the ALJ clearly indicated, both the appellants violated IMPs regarding the proper and safe response to emergency situations. Both appellants entered the yard where inmates were present without the proper safety equipment and without the properly equipped number of other officers in violation of the IMPs. Their failure to follow proper procedures risked escalating the situation and potentially put the lives of other officers and medical personnel in danger.

The appellants also contend that the ALJ did not give enough weight to their testimony and claimed the testimony Crothers was inconsistent with the facts. In this regard, the Commission acknowledges that the ALJ, who has the benefit of hearing and seeing the witnesses, is generally in a better position to determine the credibility and veracity of the witnesses. See Matter of J.W.D., 149 N.J. 108 (1997). "[T]rial courts' credibility findings . . . are often influenced by matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of the witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." See In re Taylor, 158 N.J. 644 (1999) (quoting State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 474 (1999)). Additionally, such credibility findings need not be explicitly enunciated if the record as a whole makes the findings clear. Id. at 659 (citing Locurto, supra). The Commission appropriately gives due deference to such determinations. However, in its de novo review of the record, the Commission has the authority to reverse or modify an ALJ's decision if it is not supported by the credible evidence or was otherwise arbitrary. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); Cavalieri v. Public Employees Retirement System, 368 N.J. Super. 527 (App. Div. 2004). Nevertheless, upon its review of the entire record, the Commission finds that there is sufficient evidence in the record to support the ALJ's credibility determinations. The ALJ explicitly indicated that she found Crother's testimony credible that Bode should not have entered the yard at all and that he should have reported to his appropriate post once the code was called. Further, while the ALJ specifically found the appellants' testimony that they were never specifically trained on how to respond to a code in the yard nor specifically instructed not to enter the yard while inmates were present, the Commission agrees with the ALJ that they were required to be familiar with and follow the IMPs. The appellants claim that not enough weight was given to this finding in determining the charges is unpersuasive.

In determining the proper penalty, the Commission's review is de novo. In addition to considering the seriousness of the underlying incident in determining the proper penalty, the Commission utilizes, when appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). Although the Commission applies the concept of progressive discipline in determining the level and propriety of penalties, an individual's prior disciplinary history may be outweighed if the infraction at issue is of a serious nature. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). Further, even when a law enforcement officer does not possess a prior disciplinary record after many unblemished years of employment, the seriousness of an offense may nevertheless warrant the penalty of removal where it is likely to undermine the public trust. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, supra, 81 N.J. at 579-80. In the instant matter, both appellants had only one written reprimand each in their disciplinary histories. O'Callaghan had been employed for 18 years with DOC, while Bode was employed for 12 years. Moreover, given the actual incident in question, the Commission does not find removal to be appropriate under these circumstances. In this regard, while it is clear the appellants both violated IMPs and that the appointing authority proved the charges, as the ALJ indicated, they acted with benevolent intentions to preserve the life of the inmates and did not believe that they put any officers or medical personnel in danger. Further, no officers, medical personnel or inmates sustained any injuries as a result of their actions. However, the Commission acknowledges that the appellants' failure to follow procedures could have resulted in severe consequences. In this regard, the Commission notes that a law enforcement officer is held to a higher standard than a civilian public employee. See Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560 (App. Div. 1965), cert. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). See also, In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567 (1990). The Commission is particularly mindful of this standard when disciplinary action is taken against a high ranking law enforcement officer in a correctional facility. Accordingly, the Commission imposes 60 working day suspensions on both appellants, which will serve as an indication that any further infractions committed by the appellants will potentially subject them to removal from employment.

Accordingly, the appellants are entitled to back pay, benefits and seniority for the period after the imposition of the 60 working day suspensions up to their dates of reinstatement. With regard to counsel fees, since the appellants have not prevailed on the primary issues on appeal, they are not entitled to awards of counsel fees. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, while the penalty was modified, all the charges were upheld and major discipline imposed. Consequently, as the appellants have failed to meet the standard set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12, counsel fees must be denied.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v.

Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellants to their permanent positions.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the appointing authority's actions in removing the appellants were not justified. Therefore, the Commission modifies the removals to 60 working day suspensions. The Commission further orders that the appellants be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the period after the imposition of the 60 working day suspensions through the dates of their actual reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellants to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay. However, under no circumstances should the appellants' reinstatements be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay dispute.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Kevin Jarvis, Esq., for appellants Gary Bode and Fred O'Callaghan (O'Brien, Belland & Bushinsky, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 19, 2018 Decided: August 1, 2018

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Correction lieutenants Gary Bode ("Bode") and Fred O'Callaghan ("O'Callaghan") (collectively appellants) appeal the decisions of the New Jersey Department of Corrections (NJDOC), East Jersey State Prison (EJSP or "respondent"), to remove them from their employment. The removals stemmed from a determination that the appellants failed to properly respond to an incident at EJSP on August 26, 2017, and that this was detrimental to the orderly operations of the facility and jeopardized the safety and security of EJSP, including its staff.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) dated October 6, 2017, notifying Bode of the charges made against him concerning his response to an emergency code. (J-3.) An internal disciplinary hearing took place on November 15, 2017, and a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) was issued on December 7, 2017, which sustained all charges in the PNDA. (J-1.)

O'Callaghan was also issued a PNDA dated October 6, 2017, notifying him of the charges made against his response to an emergency code. (J-4.) A departmental hearing was held on November 28, 2017, and an FNDA was issued on December 15, 2017, sustaining the charges listed in the PNDA. (J-2.)

Bode and O'Callaghan each requested a hearing, and the appeals were filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 11, 2017, and December 20, 2017, respectively, to be heard as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202(d).

In the interest of fairness and efficiency, the undersigned consolidated the appeals on February 5, 2018, pursuant to appellants' request, and without objection from respondent. The matter was heard over the course of four days, April 4, April 5, May 11, and June 18, 2018, and the record closed on June 19, 2018, upon the undersigned's receipt of a copy of an exhibit.

CHARGES

The sustained charges in Bode's December 7, 2017, FNDA and O'Callaghan's December 15, 2017, FNDA are identical. They include the following: conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); neglect of duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7); other sufficient cause, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and violations of the following provisions of Human Resources Bulletin 84-17, as amended: serious mistake due to carelessness but not resulting in danger to persons or property (B.7); conduct unbecoming an employee (C.11); violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security (D.7); and violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision (E.1).

The incidents giving rise to these charges are as follows:

> On 10-06-2017 Administration received a completed investigative report from S.I.D. based on an incident on 8/26/2017 where you responded to an incident in the General Population big yard, unsuited and without following proper procedures, policies or administrative guidelines. Your actions were detrimental to the orderly running of the facility and jeopardized the safety and security of the institution. In addition your actions jeopardized the safety of medical and custody staff members.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Most material facts in this matter are undisputed, and I, therefore, FIND the following to be the relevant and credible FACTS in this matter:

Bode became employed by the NJDOC in July 2006, and became a lieutenant at EJSP in March 2016. On August 26, 2017, he was the first-shift operations relief lieutenant at EJSP.

O'Callaghan has been employed by the NJDOC since approximately 2000. He was promoted to lieutenant in or around July 2012. On August 26, 2017, O'Callaghan was the first-shift area lieutenant, and his area of responsibility included the Big Yard.

On the morning of Saturday, August 26, 2017, Bode and O'Callaghan, as lieutenants, were the highest ranking officers at EJSP. EJSP staffs fewer officers and supervisors on weekends.

During the first shift on August 26, 2017, there was a physical altercation between two inmates in the EJSP's Big Yard, which is an enclosed large outdoor area, approximately the size of two football fields, where a sally-port[1] leads into the prison. The fight occurred during a movement (i.e., when a large number of inmates were being moved in groups from the Big Yard back to their cells). There were approximately 190 inmates in the Big Yard prior to the movement.

Upon witnessing the two inmates fight, Officer Bennett, who was assigned to the Big Yard, called a Code 33.[2] There were approximately ninety-seven inmates in the Big Yard at the time the Code 33 was called, in addition to the two inmates involved in the fight.

When the Code 33 was called, O'Callaghan responded by approaching the gates to the Big Yard. Bennett informed him of the fight he had witnessed, and that one inmate picked up the other and slammed him to the ground, and that the inmate was dropped on his head. From the gate area (at the entrance to the yard), O'Callaghan witnessed the injured inmate (inmate W.) convulsing on the ground.

The inmate who injured inmate W., inmate M., obeyed orders to approach the gate to be taken out of the yard. He was handcuffed and escorted out of the Big Yard without incident. This occurred before O'Callaghan entered the yard. O'Callaghan then saw that the injured inmate had stopped convulsing and was motionless, and he ordered Bennett to open the sally-port gate to the Big Yard so that he could enter the yard and assess the injured inmate. O'Callaghan called a Code 53 at that time.[3] He also yelled over the radio for a suited team.[4]

O'Callaghan was followed into the yard by approximately nine officers. He did not order them to follow him into the yard. O'Callaghan and these other officers entered the yard unsuited, not wearing any protective gear.

[1] A sally-port consists of a holding area with two gates that controls movement going into and out of the prison from the yard.

[2] A Code 33 is an emergency code, for an inmate fight or disturbance.

[3] A Code 53 is a medical emergency.

[4] "Suited" refers to wearing protective gear, including a helmet and a protective vest, and carrying a baton. Some officers are also required to carry shields as part of a suited team, and the supervisor would have an MK46 spray (a type of mace used for crowd control, also referred to as an MK9).

While inmate M. was being taken out of the yard, and before O'Callaghan entered, the ninety-seven inmates were ordered to retreat to the far end of the Big Yard (the distance being about half of a football field), away from the injured inmate. They all complied with the directive to walk to the end of the yard and face the fence.

Sgt. Anthony Vargas, the operations sergeant, responded to the Code 33 by arriving at the gates of the Big Yard with his team of thirteen officers.

Once the inmates were at the other end of the Big Yard, O'Callaghan entered the yard and ran directly to the injured inmate. O'Callaghan checked the pulse of inmate W., and medical staff arrived within a minute or two of O'Callaghan approaching the injured inmate. O'Callaghan remained with the injured inmate and the medical staff in the yard for approximately ten to fifteen minutes, until the inmate was carried away on a stretcher.

Vargas entered the Big Yard with his team, and they ordered the ninety-seven inmates to lay on the ground, put their hands behind their heads, and cross their legs, as a protective measure. He and his team created a barrier between the ninety-seven inmates and inmate W., O'Callaghan and the other officers accompanying him, and medical staff. Vargas ordered the unsuited officers to leave the yard. Vargas and his team were all suited.

After the codes were called, Bode also responded to the Big Yard without wearing any protective gear.

Vargas radioed Stephen Linardos, the Star sergeant, requesting a second response team and MK46. Vargas maintains that Bode denied his request for a second team and MK46, which prompted him to then call Center Control[5] to make a subsequent request for a second team and mace. The mace was delivered to Vargas in the yard, and a second team was never sent.

[5] Center Control is the unit that coordinates the security and communication functions in the facility.

Once the injured inmate was taken out of the yard, accompanied by O'Callaghan and medical staff, Vargas instructed his team to exit the yard. However, Bode stopped Vargas and instructed him to remain in the yard with his team, and Bode left the yard to speak with Linardos on a landline about moving the inmates out of the yard. Once Bode left the yard, Vargas, contrary to Bode's order, directed his team to exit the yard. As they were exiting the yard, O'Callaghan radioed Vargas with instructions to exit the yard. Vargas and his team later moved the ninety-seven inmates back into the building without incident.

O'Callaghan prepared an Unusual Incident Report in response to the incident. Bode wrote a report of the incident after he was instructed to do so two days after the incident. These reports do not mention that any officers entered the yard unsuited on August 26, 2017.

Respondent asserts that Bode and O'Callaghan violated several provisions of at least three EJSP Internal Management Procedures (IMPs), as well as the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations. These are listed below:

IMP for Emergency Response

EJSP's IMP for Emergency Response (J-6) states: "Custody Staff members are reminded to assess the risk to themselves and other staff members and act appropriately. Common sense and sound judgement as well as a sense of duty shall guide staff in their decision making process."

When responding to an emergency, the IMP specifically states the following with regard to an Initial Response Team:

> One (1) Supervisor and five (5) Officers will be dispatched from the Star for all disturbance codes that occur on housing units, shops, and other areas with the exception of the Mess Hall, Yards and Drill Hall or other self contained secured area with no staff or visitors present. The designated Supervisor will be issued the emergency Response Belt. Designated Response Officers are issued batons (marked with red tape) > and handcuffs at the beginning of their respective Shift. The Initial Response Team for the Mess Hall, Yards and Drill Hall (or other self contained secured area) will consist of one (1) Supervisor and thirteen (13) Officers suited in protective gear.

With respect to the Secondary Response Team, the IMP states:

> One (1) Supervisor and ten (10) Officers suited in protective gear will be dispatched from the Star for all disturbance codes that occur on housing units, shops, and other areas with the exception of the Mess Hall, Yards and Drill Hall or other self contained secured area with no staff or visitors present. The Secondary Response Team for the Mess Hall, Yards and Drill Hall (or other self contained secured area) will consist of one (1) Supervisor and thirteen (13) Officers suited in protective gear.

The IMP for Emergency Response states that when a Code 33 is called, > the Star Sergeant will clear the immediate area of all inmates and seal the barrier doors to the unaffected areas. The Star Sergeant will give out the Emergency Response Belt (handcuffs, leg irons, MK-9 spray and keys as needed) to the Initial Response Supervisor (affected Area Sergeant or first available supervisor). . . . The Initial Response Supervisor will be in charge of the scene and must use sound judgement and take control of the situation. . . .

> If a major disturbance occurs in the Mess Hall, Yard Area, Drill Hall or other self contained secured area with no staff or visitors present, the Initial Response Team will consist of 13 officers and one supervisor equipped with helmet, vest and baton from the Pass Office ready Room. Five members of this team will be assigned protective shields. The supervisor will also have the MK-9 OC spray. Once the team is suited they shall proceed to the area of the emergency as one unit. The highest ranking staff member present shall assess and determine whether the Response Team will enter the affected area to control the disturbance based on safety and security concerns and > the totality of the circumstances. A Secondary Response Team shall be assembled in the Rotunda consisting of 13 officers and supervisor suited with the same equipment as the first team. The first team will not enter the affected area until the secondary team is assembled. If the secondary response team is advanced to the affected area, a third team will be assembled in the Rotunda with the necessary equipment, utilizing equipment from the Arsenal if necessary.

With respect to responding to a Code 33 in the yards, the IMP states in part:

> All unit and area activities will be terminated, all movement will be suspended and all compounds will be secured. Civilian traffic within the confines of the institution will be controlled accordingly. These areas cannot be entered until an assessment of the situation can be made. If the involved inmates comply with all staff directives and report to a sally-port for removal then only the necessary officers and supervisors will be dispatched with any necessary equipment. If the situation involves non-compliant inmate(s) and entry may be required then the Initial Response Team (13 Officers) will suit up with protective gear and respond to the area. This team may enter via any entry point as deemed appropriate by the on-scene supervisor or Shift Commander. A Secondary Response Team (13 Officers) will suit up with protective gear and stand-by for assignment.
> Note #1: The first team may only enter the area when the second team is prepared. Any additional staff and/or equipment will be sent to the area upon request of the on-scene supervisor or as directed by the Shift Commander . . . .

IMP for Operations Lieutenants

EJSP's IMP for Operations Lieutenants (J-7) states, in part:

> Whenever an emergency code is called by Center and/or the "Whooper" alarm is activated, the Operations Supervisor on duty will secure the outermost entrance door to the Operations Unit and report to the Star for emergency response assignment until the emergency is cleared by the Center.

> Nothing in this document shall preclude an Officer or Supervisor from responding to the aid of another staff member. Custody Staff members are reminded to assess the risk to themselves and other staff members and act appropriately. Common sense and good judgment as well as sense of duty shall guide staff in their decision making process . . . .

IMP for Area Lieutenants

The IMP for Area Lieutenants (J-8) addressing responding to a Code 33 states, in part:

> All inmates in the affected area are to be secured in their assigned cells/dormitory or an unaffected area. In unaffected areas officers are to ensure that all inmate movement into and out of the unit/area ceases until the Shift Commander clears the emergency code.

It later states:

> Nothing in this document shall preclude an Officer or Supervisor from responding to the aid of another staff member. Custody Staff members are reminded to assess the risk to themselves and other staff members and act appropriately. Common sense and good judgment as well as sense of duty shall guide staff in their decision making process.

The EJSP IMP for Operations Lieutenants and the IMP for Area Lieutenants both require those lieutenants to be knowledgeable of all posts and written decrees within their areas of responsibility and ensure staff compliance with all post orders, rules, regulations, policies, procedures, and administrative decisions. (J-7; J-8.)

NJDOC's Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations

Article II, Section 3, of the NJDOC's Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations reads: "Officers shall devote their full attention to their assignments to ensure that all duties are performed in accordance with current rules and regulations. Lack of diligence on the part of officers will not be tolerated." (J-5.)

Testimony

For Respondent

Assistant superintendent Jeffrey John Crothers ("Crothers") was promoted to assistant superintendent at the NJDOC in August 2017, and has more than seventeen years of experience with the Department. He testified as an expert for respondent, particularly with respect to EJSP's policies and procedures concerning emergency response.

Crothers began his employment at EJSP in August 2017, but was on vacation on August 26. On August 28, he participated in an administrative review of the events that occurred on August 26, which consisted of reviewing video surveillance[6] and reports issued of the incident. The team conducting the review then referred the matter to the NJDOC's Special Investigations Division (SID) for an investigation. Those involved in the SID investigation determined that Bode and O'Callaghan should be disciplined, and the administrator and the Office of Employee Relations called for their removal.

Crothers testified that it was a violation of EJSP policy for O'Callaghan and Bode to enter the yard unsuited, and that there is a general rule that officers do not go into the Big Yard. He believes that there were another nine officers, approximately, who also entered the yard unsuited, and that they did so because they were following their leader, O'Callaghan.

Crothers also noted that O'Callaghan omitted things in his report, and that Bode did not even write a report until ordered to do so days later. Their reports improperly failed to indicate that they, or other officers, entered the yard unsuited.

[6] The incident was recorded on multiple video cameras, and footage of the August 26, 2017, incident was viewed at the hearing.

Crothers testified that when the Code 33 was called, policy required that the Tie-To[7] be cleared first (by Linardos and his General Assignment officers). O'Callaghan and his response team should have gone to the Ready Room to get suited. A second team also should have gone to the Ready Room to suit up, and, once suited, both teams should have gone to the Star[8] together. Bode should have suited up that second team, which would have been led by a sergeant, in this case, Vargas. The first team, led by O'Callaghan, would have entered the yard to assess the situation, make the calls, and bring the aggressor through the sally-port. Bode would have remained at the Star, and the second team would have stayed in the prison and only have gone into the yard if necessary. This, according to Crothers, is consistent with the IMP for a Code 33 occurring in a mass-movement area, such as the Big Yard, and should have occurred here. Crothers considered O'Callaghan to be the initial-response supervisor, and, pursuant to the IMP for Emergency Response, he was also required to report to the Star and take charge of all subsequent operations and response teams, and ensure that his compound is secure and under control. This did not occur.

Crothers testified that the response to the Code 33 was initially chaotic and that the central hub of the jail was not being controlled. For example, some inmates who had moved out of the Big Yard to go back to their cells and were passing through the Tie-To at the time the Code 33 was called, walked around, instead of through, the metal detector. Crothers did agree, however, that it was the duty of the Star sergeant to secure the Tie-To, lock down the area, and stop any and all movement, and that this did not appear to have been done.

Crothers describes O'Callaghan's (and his accompanying officers') response on August 26 as one that would have been proper had the code been called in a housing unit, a hallway, or a shop. However, since the code occurred in the Big Yard, the IMP requires that there be, at a minimum, twenty-six suited officers (thirteen as part of the [8] The Star is a central location in the prison that houses the Star sergeant, who controls movement inside the jail.

Initial Response Team and thirteen as part of a Secondary Response Team) and two suited supervisors.

Crothers agreed that O'Callaghan properly called the Code 53. Crothers testified that the two nurses should have arrived with an officer and two inmate porters, but they arrived without them due to the urgency with which O'Callaghan called the code.

With respect to Bode, Crothers testified that Bode should have come out of operations and should have taken control of the floor when the Code 33 was called. He should not have been in the yard at all. Crothers criticized Bode for denying Vargas's request for an MK46 and a second team. Crothers described Bode's order to Vargas to remain in the yard as "reckless" and "unreasonable," but not unlawful, and he agreed that Vargas disobeyed Bode's orders to remain in the yard and pat down the ninety-seven inmates in the yard. Crothers believes Bode abandoned Vargas and his team, and that the situation in the yard was not safe. Crothers agreed that O'Callaghan made the right decision by having Vargas leave the yard. Once the aggressor and victim were removed from the yard, the staff should have exited.

While Crothers recognized that errors were committed by other officers in responding to the code, only the lieutenants were disciplined.

Crothers testified that he believed that there were inmates in the sally-port who were being moved into the prison from the yard at the time the Code 33 was called. He testified that when an emergency code is called and recreation is in progress, recreation officers are to immediately lock both sally-port gates and lock down the yard. According to Crothers, however, Bennett led the twenty-five inmates into the sally-port, did not lock it down or let them go out, and when O'Callaghan ordered the gate opened, there were fifty inmates, instead of just the twenty-five, moving into the prison at once. Crothers, however, concedes that this is not documented in any report and is based on his reasonable belief. Bennett's report only mentions that he was ordered to open the gate so that O'Callaghan could enter the yard.

Crothers testified that familiarity with the IMPs is part of lieutenant training. There is a ten-day mandatory course prior to becoming a lieutenant, and one course addresses how to be a competent leader. He taught emergency response, which Bode attended. O'Callaghan also received emergency-response training at the academy.

Following this incident, EJSP majors, lieutenants, sergeants, and officers were retrained on emergency response, and changes to policy were made. Now, for example, custody staff must receive administrative approval from the shift commander prior to entering the yard during a code when the yard is occupied by inmates.

Sgt. Stephen Linardos ("Linardos") has been employed by the NJDOC for eighteen years and has held the position of sergeant at the EJSP for five and a half years. He has been the Star sergeant at EJSP for approximately two years, and served as Star sergeant on August 26, 2017.[9]

Linardos was at the Star when Bennett called the Code 33. When the code was called, all the custody staff that was in the Tie-To responded to the Big Yard, and Linardos testified that they should have gone to the Star before exiting. When the code was called, inmates were left in the Tie-To area that had to be secured, and Linardos tried to get them back into their wings, and temporarily secured them in a holding cage.

Linardos recalled that O'Callaghan called a Code 53, and said "Call 911" and "I need that suited team now" over the radio, at which point Vargas's suited team was dispatched.

Linardos recounted that Bode called from the yard and stated that they would start sending inmates back inside the prison. Linardos told him not to do so because most of the custody staff was in the yard.

Sgt. Anthony Vargas ("Vargas") has been employed by the NJDOC for fifteen years, and has been a sergeant at EJSP since July 2011.

[9] As a Star sergeant, Linardos handles scheduling, calls out mass movements, and sets up emergency-response teams in the event there is an emergency.

Vargas was the operations sergeant on August 26, 2017. When Bennet called the Code 33, Vargas proceeded to the Star. Linardos told him that the Initial Response Team went out to the yard, and that he needed to suit up in the Pass Office with the other officers. Vargas was in charge of suiting up, and he put on his gear and counted his thirteen officers. He then heard O'Callaghan's radio transmission that he needed a suited team to the yard ASAP. According to Vargas, O'Callaghan was yelling on the radio, and Vargas's initial thought was that an officer was down.

Vargas did not know what Bode was doing in the yard. Vargas radioed the Star and asked for cans of mace and for the second team to come to the gate. Vargas testified that Bode went on the radio and said that Vargas did not need the additional mace or team, and Vargas then radioed the shift commander requesting the same.

Vargas ordered his team to leave the yard once the injured inmate exited the yard with the medical staff because he believed it was unsafe to stay in the yard. He testified that Bode had ordered him to keep his team in the yard, and that Bode wanted them to pat down the inmates, ten at a time, in the yard before sending them inside. Vargas explained to Bode why it would be unsafe to pat down prisoners in the Big Yard. Bode radioed Linardos to tell him that he was going to send the yard in, but Linardos radioed Bode back asking Bode to call him on the landline. Bode then left the yard to call Linardos, and Vargas made the decision to have his team exit the yard despite Bode's order to stay in the yard.

Vargas drafted two reports in response to the incident. The first, a Preliminary Incident Report, was written less than two hours after the August 26 incident. (R-8.) Vargas then prepared a Special Custody Report on August 28, 2017. (R-9.)

After this incident, Linardos did a "debriefing" for the officers about being suited in the yard, and Vargas also verbally counselled the officers that they should never go into the yard, mess hall, or drill hall unsuited during an emergency.

Senior correction officer Larry Clouse ("Clouse") has been a senior correction officer since 1997, and has worked at EJSP since 2004. Currently, he is a General Assignment officer at EJSP.

Clouse was part of Vargas's response team on August 26, 2017. While in the Ready Room, Clouse heard O'Callaghan calling that he needed a team "now," screaming and hollering and indicating that he needed a suited team. O'Callaghan's panicked tone caused Clouse to think that they had possibly lost a cop.

Clouse was concerned in the yard because the officers were significantly outnumbered by the inmates, and that it could have turned into a hostage situation. He recalled Vargas telling Bode that the inmate was removed from the yard and that he wanted the team out of the yard, but that Bode denied this request and instead contacted Center by radio to ask if they were ready for the yard to return. The radio transmission asked Bode to call back immediately.

Clouse wrote a Special Custody Report four days after the incident because he was asked to do so. (R-10.)

Senior correction officer James Vincent Colacci ("Colacci") became employed by the NJDOC in 2017 as a correction officer recruit. On August 26, 2017, he was working in the Tie-To. He responded to the Code 33 with officer Eddie Parin and another officer. They ran over to the inmate that was on the ground and stood by him. He ran in unsuited because he did not want to let O'Callaghan run in alone, but he was aware that he was required to be suited in the yard. He later left the yard when Vargas ordered him to do so. He drafted a Special Custody Report on August 26, 2017. (R-11.)

Patrick Nogan ("Nogan") is an administrator with the NJDOC, where he serves as chief executive of EJSP. He has served in this position for approximately four years, and has twenty years of experience with the NJDOC.

Nogan became aware of the August 26 incident when he received an email from the shift commander advising him of the Code 33 yard incident. Approximately two days later, he received a written complaint from the PBA vice president and an executive board member of the sergeants unit alleging that what was reported concerning the events was not accurate, and that what occurred jeopardized security and put the officers in danger. He scheduled an emergency meeting with several majors, the assistant superintendent, and the associate administrator. They reviewed the reports and the video of the incident to determine whether there was any validity to the union's complaint. He was shocked and dismayed, and stated that he had never seen anything that egregious, reckless, and dangerous in a correctional facility. These actions put not only the officers' lives at risk, but also those of the inmates, and jeopardized public confidence and trust. Nogan testified that the slightest miscalculation could have resulted in total loss of custody control of the facility. He referenced that the sally-port gates were open and inmates could have rushed the Tie-To, where there was not enough staff to handle it.

After consultation with the management team, it was determined that only the leaders (i.e., lieutenants) of this reckless and dangerous situation should be disciplined. The "reckless leadership," retreating to safety and leaving the staff in danger, and ordering the staff to stay in a very dangerous situation, constituted a "deliberate" violation of policy. Nogan testified that while he is familiar with the policies, he is not an expert.

Nogan criticized Bode's and O'Callaghan's failure to properly report the incident. Bode purposefully failed to write a report, which he should have written since he was involved in the incident, and had to be ordered to do so days after the incident. According to Nogan, O'Callaghan made purposeful omissions in his report.

After the incident, there was a "refamiliarization," not a "retraining," with the security major and supervisors to go over emergency-response procedures. A written order was also put out prohibiting a lieutenant from ordering entry into any yard or mess hall without first consulting the on-call.

For Appellants

Senior correction officer Edward Parin ("Parin") was employed by the NJDOC, at the EJSP facility, for the past seven years. He is a General Assignment officer.

When the Code 33 was called, Parin was standing in the Tie-To scanning the movement. Parin responded to the sally-port at the moment inmate W. was making his way to the sally-port. Parin cuffed and escorted him to the infirmary with other officers.

Parin recalled Vargas asking for mace over the radio at least twice, and that it sounded urgent. Parin went to Linardos at the Star, who already had the mace ready, and Parin took it into the yard. Parin was not suited when he entered the yard. Vargas ordered Parin to leave the yard as soon as he brought in the mace. He could not remember the other officers, aside from Bode and O'Callaghan, who were not suited in the yard. He prepared a Special Custody Report for the incident. (A-2.)

Within two to three weeks of the incident, Parin was verbally counseled by Vargas about "being more mindful."

Senior correction officer Edwin Cordova ("Cordova") has been employed by the NJDOC for eighteen years. He is a senior correction officer, and has been assigned to EJSP since 2002. On August 26, 2017, he was a General Assignment officer assisting Bennett in the Big Yard. He was at the sally-port gate when the inmates were being moved from the yard back into the building. Cordova was asked to open the sally-port gate when the Code 33 was called. He testified that there were no inmates in the sally-port at the time the code was called. Cordova entered the yard with O'Callaghan and other officers. He was unsuited. Cordova then went back to the sally-port and assisted with returning the inmates back into the building. Cordova authored a report on August 26, 2017, concerning this incident. (A-3.)

Fred O'Callaghan has been employed by the NJDOC since approximately 2000, and was promoted to lieutenant in approximately July 2012.

While O'Callaghan did receive lieutenants training, and other training at EJSP, he testified that he never received training for responding to an emergency in the EJSP yard. He also testified that he was never instructed not to enter the yard unsuited while inmates were present.

O'Callaghan could not remember exactly where he was when the Code 33 was called, but it was somewhere near the Tie-To or Star. He responded to the code as the area lieutenant, and his job was to respond to the area and assess the situation. As area lieutenant, he would never go to the Star and suit up as part of a team. O'Callaghan testified that he acted consistently with the IMP for Area Lieutenants.

When O'Callaghan heard the code and approached the yard, there were officers in the sally-port, including Officers Parin and Schuler. O'Callaghan also entered the sally-port, and there he asked Bennett about what had happened in the yard. O'Callaghan then ordered inmate M. to the gate, and ordered the other inmates to move to the other side of the yard, about half a football field away. They all complied with the orders. When inmate M. approached the gate, the gate was cracked open about a foot and a half, and then immediately shut. Inmate M. was handcuffed and escorted out. When inmate M. was at the gate, O'Callaghan called for a suited team to escort the inmate out. Vargas was in the sally-port with O'Callaghan before they entered the yard.

When O'Callaghan ordered inmate M. to the yard gate, he saw inmate W. going into convulsions and shaking violently on the ground. When the inmate stopped moving, O'Callaghan thought that he may have stopped breathing or had a broken neck. He then ordered Bennett to open the gate so he could enter to check the inmate's vitals. O'Callaghan testified that custody has an obligation to perform CPR when medical staff is not available. When he entered the yard, the inmates were on the far side of the yard, laying on the ground in compliance with the orders given.

O'Callaghan testified that he never ordered any officer to go into the yard with him, and he never believed that ordering the gate opened, and entering unsuited, placed anyone in danger.

O'Callaghan called the Code 53 after inmate M. was removed from the yard. He was not panicked when he called the Code 53, but did call with a sense of urgency. He never had concerns regarding the medical team's safety. In the yard, while tending to the injured inmate, O'Callaghan heard Vargas urgently call for more mace. O'Callaghan estimates that he was in the yard for a total of approximately ten to fifteen minutes.

When O'Callaghan left the yard with the injured inmate, medical staff, and another officer, he met with Linardos at the Star. They still had approximately forty to fifty inmates in the Tie-To holding cage. He testified that they were going to move the inmates held in the holding cage out first, to get them back to their housing units, and then begin to slowly remove the inmates from the yard, ten at a time. After speaking with Linardos, O'Callaghan went back to the yard area, where he informed Vargas that they would empty the holding cage before letting inmates out of the yard.

O'Callaghan prepared an Unusual Incident Report and emailed it to the facility major and his secretary.[10] He denied intentionally leaving anything out of his report, as he did not feel that it was pertinent to mention in the report that he entered the yard unsuited. Moreover, he never denied that he went in unsuited.

Gary Bode began his employment with the NJDOC in July 2006, and became a lieutenant at EJSP in March 2016.

Bode received two weeks of training when he became a lieutenant, but he did not receive any training on how to respond to a code in EJSP's Big Yard. He agreed that he was ill-prepared by the NJDOC to handle an emergency response. To prepare for any emergency response, he read the IMPs.

Bode asserts that this matter was initiated against him because members of the administration and Vargas had an issue with him. In January 2017, a major issued a letter of instruction alleging that Bode violated the chain of command with respect to his handling of inquiries concerning the calculation of overtime. Vargas then filed an Equal Employment Division (EED) complaint against Bode in December 2016 that was determined to be unfounded in December 2017. Vargas filed another EED complaint against Bode in November 2017, which was found to be administrative in nature.

[10] The Unusual Incident Report is not in evidence.

When the Code 33 was called, Bode was on the second floor; he went downstairs, started walking towards the Star, and then he heard the Code 53. Linardos mentioned that he was putting teams together, and Bode wanted to see what was happening in the yard. In his experience, the lieutenant does not suit up with the team. When he arrived at the gate to the yard, he saw all the inmates lying on the floor, and he saw the injured inmate having a seizure. Bode then went back inside to see if Linardos needed anything.

Since O'Callaghan was handling the one injured inmate, Bode went into the yard to provide an overall assessment of the incident. Bode testified that in the yard, Vargas was getting jumpy, was loud and in a panic, and Bode kept telling him to calm down. Vargas then started calling out for a second team and for an MK9, which he should have had with him. However, Bode testified that he never denied Vargas's requests for an MK9 and a second team.

Bode saw O'Callaghan and the injured inmate exit the yard, so he radioed Linardos at the Star to ask him to let him know when the area was clear to start bringing the inmates into the building. Linardos asked Bode to call him on the landline, and during that time Vargas is saying "we are not supposed to be in here" loud enough for other officers and inmates to hear him. Bode told Vargas to relax, and that he was going to make a phone call and would be right back. He went to speak with Linardos about clearing out the yard. Bode left to make the call to Linardos, and Vargas disobeyed his direction and left the yard. On the phone, Linardos told Bode that there were no officers in the Tie-To.

Bode later told Vargas that he was insubordinate for not following his order. Vargas told Bode that he did not have to be in the yard since nobody was in danger.

Bode asserts that no IMP or other policy explicitly prohibits one from entering the yard unsuited. According to the Post orders for operations lieutenant, he was required to go to the Star in an emergency, which he did. Bode conceded that according to the IMPs, he was supposed to report to the Star and remain there until the code had cleared. (J-7 at 13.)

Bode did not write a report on the day of the incident because, according to him, he had no impact on the code, and he has never had to write a report in response to a Code 33 or Code 53. His major asked him to write a report days later. The only thing he left out of his report was his argument with Vargas that day because he felt that he had already dealt with it. His report did not mention unsuited officers, because he was unaware of anyone in the yard who was unsuited, and there was no purpose to document that or the fact that he was unsuited. He believes that he and other officers in the yard were not required to be suited, and that they would only have to be suited if there was a noncompliant inmate. He never felt that they were in danger in the yard, because the inmates were compliant.

Robert D. LaPenta ("La Penta") has been employed for twenty-six and a half years with the NJDOC. He became a lieutenant in 2005, and worked at EJSP from 1996 until approximately June 2018, at which time he transferred to the correctional staff training facility in Sea Girt. He was a training lieutenant at the time of this incident (and since 2013), and testified that he only trained custody staff on emergency response in this facility after the August 26, 2017, incident.

LaPenta testified that the IMPs cannot cover every situation. One main objective of officers is the preservation of human life and the security of the institution, and he mentioned the importance of using good judgment and common sense when a policy does not apply to a specific situation.

In his thirteen years of experience as a lieutenant, he has never seen a lieutenant as part of a suited team, and he, himself, was never part of a suited team as a lieutenant.

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACTS

When assessing credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness's expression, tone of voice, and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transp. Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). Additionally, the witness's interest in the outcome, motive, or bias should be considered. Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After reviewing the exhibits and documentary evidence presented and after having had the opportunity to listen to testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following to be the additional relevant and credible FACTS in this matter:

When O'Callaghan presented to the gate to the Big Yard, he was responding to the Code 33. Crothers testified convincingly that O'Callaghan presented as the initial-response supervisor and, as such, the IMPs for responding to a Code 33 in the yard required that, prior to entering the yard, O'Callaghan present to the Ready Room to get suited with the required protective gear and thirteen officers, and that this initial suited response team not enter the yard until the second response team is assembled. While Vargas and his suited team were present when O'Callaghan entered the yard with several unsuited officers, O'Callaghan did not have the required number of officers with him to constitute a complete team, and O'Callaghan and his team failed to suit up as required by the IMPs. This, in turn, jeopardized the safety and security of the medical staff, the other unsuited officers, and O'Callaghan himself. O'Callaghan's running into the yard unsuited also created a disruption to the orderly running of the facility, in that it caused the officers in the Tie-To to abandon their posts to follow O'Callaghan, their leader, into the yard while inmates passing through the Tie-To avoided the metal detectors before being shepherded into a holding cage. O'Callaghan's running into the yard unsuited also created a disruption to the orderly running of the facility because it caused other officers to follow O'Callaghan into the yard without being suited, jeopardizing the safety of all those involved in the response to the code.

Despite assertions made by Crothers and Nogan that the sally-port gates were left open by O'Callaghan (leaving the jail vulnerable because the inmates in the yard could have rushed the Tie-To), and that O'Callaghan ordered the gate opened while there were twenty-five inmates held there (resulting in a disruption in the movement and an influx of twenty-five additional inmates into the jail during the lock-down), no reliable evidence presented substantiated these allegations.

Crothers testified credibly that Bode should not have entered the yard at all and that the IRP for Operations Lieutenant required that he respond to the Star once the code was called and remain there until the emergency was cleared. While Bode may have initially responded to the Star, he did not remain there until the emergency was cleared. This constitutes a violation of EJSP's IMP for Operations Lieutenants. Moreover, while Bode argues that no IMP specifically requires all custody staff to be suited when entering the yard, as Crothers testified, the IMPs addressing emergency responses in the yard expressly require all those responding to the code to be suited in protective gear. Bode's entering the yard unsuited during the code ran contrary to EJSP procedures, showed poor judgment, and jeopardized, at a minimum, his own safety.

Finally, Bode concedes that he instructed Vargas and his team to remain in the yard with the ninety-seven inmates despite Vargas's attempts to leave the yard once the injured inmate and all those attending to him were no longer in yard. While Bode maintains that his order was reasonable and that there was no danger to Vargas or his team because the inmates were compliant, Vargas, Clouse, and Crothers testified credibly that it was unsafe to stay in the yard, in part because they were significantly outnumbered by the inmates. Bode did not offer any convincing justification for prohibiting Vargas and his team from leaving the yard once the injured inmate had been removed, and his order to Vargas showed poor judgment and was reckless. The fact that O'Callaghan later ordered Vargas to exit the yard (after Bode had directed Vargas to stay) only highlights the unreasonableness of Bode's order.

Finally, while Bode and O'Callaghan were required to be familiar with IMPs, rules and regulations that apply to them as lieutenants at EJSP, and while they received general emergency-response training as part of their lieutenants training, both O'Callaghan and Bode testified credibly that they were never specifically trained on how to respond to a code in the EJSP Big Yard, and they were never specifically instructed not to enter the yard unsuited while inmates were present. In carrying out their duties, however, both lieutenants were required to use sound judgment and common sense, and to follow the applicable IMPs.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Under the Civil Service Act, a public employee may be subject to major discipline for various employment-related offenses, N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6. In an appeal from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof to show that the action taken was appropriate. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The authority must show by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal, based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Neglect of Duty

O'Callaghan and Bode are both charged with "neglect of duty," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7). "Neglect of duty" has been interpreted to mean that "an employee . . . neglected to perform an act required by his or her job title or was negligent in its discharge." In re Glenn, CSV 5072-07, Initial Decision (February 5, 2009) (citation omitted), adopted, Civil Service Commission (March 27, 2009), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. The term "neglect" means a deviation from the normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). "Duty" means conformance to "the legal standard of reasonable conduct in the light of the apparent risk." Wytupeck v. Camden, 25 N.J. 450, 461 (1957) (citation omitted). Neglect of duty can arise from omitting to perform a required duty as well as from misconduct or misdoing. Cf. State v. Dunphy, 19 N.J. 531, 534 (1955). Neglect of duty does not require an intentional or willful act; however, there must be some evidence that the employee somehow breached a duty owed to the performance of the job.

O'Callaghan

In the within matter, O'Callaghan entered the Big Yard unsuited, and this predictably caused other officers to follow him into the yard, also unsuited. Entering the yard unsuited, and without a team of thirteen suited officers, constitutes neglect of duty not only because O'Callaghan's response to the Code 33 runs counter to the IMP for Emergency Response, but because he failed to ensure the safety of the officers who accompanied him and the medical staff. This clearly constituted a breach of the duty owed by O'Callaghan to the performance of his job as a lieutenant in a State prison.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the charge of neglect of duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), should be sustained as to Fred O'Callaghan.

Bode

With respect to Bode, the IMP for Operations Lieutenants required that he report to the Star and remain there until the emergency had cleared. Instead, he entered the yard and did so without any protective gear, risking his safety. Bode also unreasonably ordered Vargas and his team to remain in the yard, and in a potentially dangerous situation, when their presence there was no longer necessary. Bode's order to Vargas was reckless and unnecessarily jeopardized the safety and security of Vargas and his response team.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the charge of neglect of duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), should be sustained as to Gary Bode.

Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee

O'Callaghan and Bode are also charged with "conduct unbecoming a public employee," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase that encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Appellants' status as lieutenants in a prison setting subjects them to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576–77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Twp. of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967).

> The need for proper control over the conduct of inmates in a correctional facility and the part played by proper relationships between those who are required to maintain order and enforce discipline and the inmates cannot be doubted. We can take judicial notice that such facilities, if not properly operated, have a capacity to become "tinderboxes."
> [Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305–06 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994).]

O'Callaghan

The charge of conduct unbecoming, with respect to O'Callaghan, is supported by his mishandling of the code, which constituted a violation of the IMP for Emergency Response, and specifically his failure to respond to the yard suited and with a team of thirteen suited officers. This put at risk the safety of the medical staff and the officers in the yard, and could have resulted in a serious threat to the prison had the inmates in the yard not been as cooperative as they were that morning.

I CONCLUDE that O'Callaghan's response to the emergency in the Big Yard supports the charge of conduct unbecoming, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6).

Bode

With respect to Bode, the charge of conduct unbecoming is supported by his failure to follow the IMP for Operations Lieutenants, that required him to report to the Star for emergency-response assignment until the emergency was cleared, and by presenting to the yard unsuited and directing Vargas and his response team to remain in the yard when their presence there was unwarranted and only further exposed them to the potential danger of an inmate attack.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Bode's actions in response to the code amounts to conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6).

Other Sufficient Cause

Appellants have further been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "other sufficient cause." Specifically, both O'Callaghan and Bode are charged with violating NJDOC Human Resources Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended, including: B.7, serious mistake due to carelessness but not resulting in danger to persons or property; C.11, conduct unbecoming an employee; D.7, violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security; and E.1, violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision. (J-1; J-2.) Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct.

O'Callaghan

O'Callaghan's conduct in response to the code in the Big Yard was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. Specifically, O'Callaghan's failure to suit up before entering the yard in response to the code, his failure to ensure that the officers accompanying him were also suited, and his failure to assemble a suited team of thirteen officers, and only enter the yard when the second team was at the gate, constituted a serious mistake due to O'Callaghan's carelessness, in violation of HRB 84-17, B.7. As indicated above, under "Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee," O'Callaghan's actions constituted conduct unbecoming, as well as a violation of administrative procedures and policies involving safety and security, specifically the IMP for Emergency Response, which provides procedures for responding to an emergency code in a safe, secure, and expected manner.

As such, I CONCLUDE that respondent has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that O'Callaghan violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, as well as HRB 84-17, as amended: serious mistake due to carelessness but not resulting in danger to persons or property (B.7); conduct unbecoming an employee (C.11); violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security (D.7); and violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision (E.1).

Bode's conduct on August 26, 2017, was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. Specifically, Bode's failure to remain at the Star when the code was called and until the emergency cleared violated the IMP for Operations Lieutenants, and his decision to enter the yard, and enter the yard unsuited, during the emergency code was inconsistent with emergency-response procedures set forth in the IMP for Emergency Response. As these failures compromised the orderly operations of a code, and jeopardized the safety of officers in the yard, Bode's actions constituted a careless error in violation of HRB 84-17, B.7. As explained above, Bode's response to the code when he entered the yard unsuited constitutes conduct unbecoming a public employee, which is also a violation of HRB 84-17, C.11. Bode's violation of the IMPs for Operations Lieutenants and Emergency Response, as explained above, also constitutes a violation of HRB 84-17, D.7 and E.1, as these IMPs contain administrative procedures/policies affecting the safety and security of those in the prison.

As explained above, Bode's order to the operations sergeant and his team to remain in the yard with ninety-seven inmates when their presence there was no longer needed and after the sergeant had voiced his justifiable concerns about remaining in the yard, also constituted unbecoming conduct in violation of HRB 84-17, C.11.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Bode violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, as well as HRB 84-17, as amended: serious mistake due to carelessness but not resulting in danger to persons or property (B.7); conduct unbecoming an employee (C.11); violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security (D.7); and violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision (E.1).

PENALTY

In attempting to determine if a penalty is reasonable, the employee's past record may be reviewed for guidance in determining the appropriate penalty for the current specific offense. The concept of progressive disciplinary action is described in West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. at 519. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his duties may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b), 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). Depending upon the incident complained of and the employee's past record, major discipline may include suspension, removal, etc. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522–24. Termination of employment is the penalty of last resort reserved for the most severe infractions or habitual negative conduct unresponsive to intervention. Rotundi v. Dep't of Health & Human Servs., CSV 385-88, Initial Decision (Sept. 29, 1988).

Here, respondent argues that the appellants' misconduct was so severe that it falls outside of progressive discipline, and that removal is the only appropriate remedy because the appellants both compromised the safety and security of EJSP, its staff, and the inmates. I do not agree.

O'Callaghan

O'Callaghan's decision to enter the Big Yard unsuited during an emergency was inappropriate and jeopardized not only his own safety and security, but that of the officers who followed him into the yard and the medical staff who responded to the code. I do believe, however, that O'Callaghan entered the yard with the benevolent intention of preserving the life of an inmate who he believed was seriously injured, and that at the time, O'Callaghan did not feel that any medical or custody staff in the yard was in any real danger—the inmates were complying with all orders and Vargas's team had formed a protective barrier between the inmates and those tending to the injured inmate. Also, while O'Callaghan's mishandling of the code is not inconsequential, no staff or inmate was injured, and it is also worth noting that several other officers also made errors in responding to this code but were never disciplined, only counseled or re-trained. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the errors committed by O'Callaghan in responding to the code on August 26, 2017, were insufficiently severe to render O'Callaghan unsuitable to continue in his position, and I further CONCLUDE that the penalty of removal is excessive, and that progressive discipline should apply.

It is undisputed that in his eighteen years at the NJDOC, and six years as a lieutenant, O'Callaghan's disciplinary history consisted of only one written reprimand, in approximately 2004, for arriving thirty minutes late to work. Nevertheless, the sustained charges against O'Callaghan are serious in nature and major disciplinary action is warranted. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that a 180-day suspension is more appropriate and proportionate to the offense.

Bode

While Bode's order to Vargas was misguided and reckless, ultimately the response team did not remain in the yard with the inmates for any significant period of time following Bode's order. Vargas and his team began to retreat from the yard almost immediately after Bode left the yard to call Linardos about moving the inmates back into the prison. Vargas and his team were already retreating from the yard when O'Callaghan ordered their removal from the yard, and they were back inside the prison before Bode returned to the yard. As stated above, all inmates fully complied with orders during the code, and nobody was injured. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that removal is an excessive discipline here, and that progressive discipline should apply.

In his twelve years at the NJDOC, Bode has only been written up once, for allegedly violating the chain of command. As with O'Callaghan, however, the sustained charges against Bode are serious and major disciplinary action is warranted. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that a 180-day suspension is the more appropriate and proportionate discipline.

ORDER

O'Callaghan

Respondent has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence the following charges against O'Callaghan: N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause; and the following violations of NJDOC Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended: (B.7), serious mistake due to carelessness but not resulting in danger to persons or property; (C.11), conduct unbecoming an employee; (D.7), violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security; and (E.1), violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision. Accordingly, I ORDER that the charges against O'Callaghan be and are hereby SUSTAINED. Furthermore, I ORDER that O'Callaghan be suspended for 180 days.

I further ORDER that O'Callaghan be reinstated to his position as a lieutenant, and that any applicable back pay and other benefits be issued to O'Callaghan.

Bode

Accordingly, I ORDER that the charges against Bode be and are hereby SUSTAINED. Furthermore, I ORDER that Bode be suspended for 180 days.

I further ORDER that Bode be reinstated to his position as a lieutenant, and that any applicable back pay and other benefits be issued to him.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") is made and entered into by and between Alain Gomez ("Gomez"), the Town of West New York (the "Town"), and Communications Workers of America Local 1045 (the "Union"), (collectively, the "Parties").

WHEREAS, on or about August 28, 2017, the Town served Gomez with a preliminary notice of disciplinary action ("PNDA") charging him with violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (the "Charges"); and

WHEREAS, the PNDA indicated that, due to the Charges, Gomez could be subject to a suspension of ninety (90) working days beginning August 28, 2017 and ending January 2, 2018; and

WHEREAS, Gomez requested a department hearing before the appointing authority regarding the Charges; and

WHEREAS, Gomez was consequently granted a departmental hearing, which took place on September 15, 2018; and

WHEREAS, following the departmental hearing, the departmental hearing officer determined that the Charges sustained Mr. Gomez's ninety (90) day suspension, and Gomez was accordingly issued a final notice of disciplinary action on or around October 20, 2017; and

WHEREAS, Gomez appealed the decision of the departmental hearing officer to the Civil Service Commission; and

WHEREAS, on or about February 21, 2018, the Union filed a grievance on Gomez's behalf, which was scheduled for arbitration before the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) under docket number AR-2018-390 (the "Grievance"); and

WHEREAS, the Grievance related to the Town having denied Gomez's six-week vacation request (July 10, 2017 through August 18, 2017), and instead having granted him three-weeks of approved vacation leave; and

WHEREAS, the above-described issues involved in the Grievance were also at issue in the Charges and the scheduled hearing before the Civil Service Commission; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and mutual covenants contained herein and for other good and valuable consideration, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties agree as follows:

1. The Town agrees to reduce Gomez's ninety (90) working day suspension to a sixty (60) working day suspension. Accordingly, the Town agrees to provide Gomez with a check for wages in an amount equal to thirty (30) working days' pay minus garnishments and tax withholdings as required by law.

2. The Union hereby withdraws the Grievance and any and all other pending grievances concerning Gomez's employment with the Town pertaining to the October 20, 2017 final notice of disciplinary action, with prejudice.

3. The Parties expressly agree that this Agreement shall have no mitigating precedential effect on any other pending or future disciplinary actions. Gomez, with full understanding of his legal rights, voluntarily and unconditionally releases and forever discharges the Town, as well as the Town's past and present employees, officers, insurers, reinsurers, directors, agents, attorneys, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Releasees") from all contracts, agreements, promises, liabilities, claims, causes of action, charges, complaints, grievances, obligations, costs, losses, damages, injuries, attorneys' fees and other legal responsibilities (collectively, the "Claims") of any form whatsoever arising from the beginning of the world through the date Gomez signs this Agreement, whether known, unknown, unforeseen, unanticipated, unsuspected or latent, which Gomez ever had or now has against any of the Releasees.

A. Gomez's release of Claims against the Releasees includes but is not limited to: any and all Claims arising out of and/or related to Gomez's employment with the Town; any and all Claims under any federal, state and/or local statutory, constitutional, common law or tort cause of action for battery, assault, pain and suffering, lost wages, bonus, sick leave, vacation leave and other paid-time-off, intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress, defamation, breach of collective bargaining agreement, breach of contract or implied contract, breach of public policy, wrongful discharge and/or for benefits owed (except for vested benefits); any and all Claims under the National Labor Relations Act, the Labor Management Relations Act, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1866 and/or 1991, the federal False Claims Act, the Reconstruction Era Civil Rights Acts, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, the Internal Revenue Code, the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Immigration Reform and Control Act, the federal Whistleblower Protection Statutes, the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the New Jersey Constitution, the Millville Dallas Airmotive Plant Job Loss Notification Act, and the New Jersey Wage and Hour Laws and any and all amendments to each of the foregoing laws; and any and all Claims under any other federal, state and/or city laws, codes, rules or regulations. This Agreement applies to all Claims through the date of Gomez's execution of this Agreement and not to Claims arising thereafter. The release of Claims in this Paragraph does not apply to Claims that cannot, as a matter of law, be waived by private agreement.

4.5. Gomez represents he has not filed any Claims against the Town. To the extent any such Claims have been filed, Gomez agrees to promptly withdraw and/or direct the pertinent court or agency to dismiss their respective matters with prejudice. Nothing in this Agreement is intended to interfere with (a) the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission's ("EEOC") or any comparable state or local agency's ability to enforce any anti-discrimination law within their jurisdiction, or (b) Gomez's ability to participate in an investigation, file a charge, or otherwise communicate with the EEOC or comparable state or local agency responsible for enforcing anti-discrimination laws.

~~5.~~6. Nothing in this Agreement shall constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by the Town and/or the Union, nor shall it create or constitute a practice or precedent.

~~6.~~7. Gomez acknowledges and agrees that the Union has fully and fairly represented Gomez in all matters concerning his employment with the Town, including but not limited to the negotiation and execution of this Agreement, and Gomez fully releases the Union from any and all claims and liability.

~~7.~~8. The provisions of this Agreement are to be severable so that in the event any provision(s) is held to be illegal or unenforceable by any court or agency of competent jurisdiction, or by operation of any applicable law, the remaining terms of this Agreement shall remain valid and in full force and effect.

~~8.~~9. This Agreement has been negotiated and entered into in the State of New Jersey, and shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey, without giving effect to any conflict of laws principles, except to the extent federal law controls.

~~9.~~10. This Agreement contains the entire agreement of the parties as to the subject matter hereof and cancels and supersedes all other written and oral agreements and understandings between them as to such subject matter. Gomez represents and acknowledges that in executing this Agreement, he has not relied upon any representation or statement made by any of the Releasees or the Union regarding the subject matter, basis, or effect of this Agreement other than as specifically stated in this Agreement. The terms in this Agreement can only be modified in a written document signed by Gomez, the Union, and the Town.

~~10.~~11. Gomez represents and warrants that he has carefully read each and every provision of this Agreement and that he fully understands all of the terms and conditions contained in each provision of this Agreement. Gomez represents and warrants that he enters into this Agreement voluntarily, of his own will, without any pressure or coercion from any person or entity including, but not limited to, the Town.

~~11.~~12. The precatory phrases ("whereas clauses") are not mere recitals, but are specifically agreed to by the parties and are incorporated herein by reference.

~~12.~~13. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, each of which will be deemed an original, but all of which will constitute one and the same agreement. A signature affixed by a party to a counterpart of this Agreement and delivered by electronic transmission is valid, binding and enforceable against such party.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND COMPLETE RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Complete Release ("Agreement") is entered into this _____ day of April, 2018 and is by and between the Monmouth County Sheriff's Office ("MCSO"), the County of Union ("Union County"), and Vincent Ortmann ("Ortmann").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, Ortmann was employed by Union County as a County Corrections Officer; and,

WHEREAS, Ortmann was required to successfully complete the Basic Course for County Corrections Officers as a condition of his continued employment by Union County as a County Corrections Officer; and,

WHEREAS, Union County enrolled Ortmann in the Basic Course for County Corrections Officers at the Monmouth County Police Academy ("MCPA"), which is a division of the MCSO, commencing on or about February 13, 2017; and,

WHEREAS, Ortmann was dismissed from the MCPA on March 7, 2017 for failing to meet the minimum required physical conditioning standards set forth in Directive 4-2016, dated August 17, 2016, effective January 1, 2017, issued by the Police Training Commission ("PTC") for failing to perform the required push-ups in the specified time frame; and,

WHEREAS, due to his dismissal from the MCPA, Union County removed Ortmann from his employment as a County Corrections Officer effective March 17, 2017; and,

WHEREAS, Ortmann timely filed an appeal (the "Dismissal Appeal") of his dismissal from the MCPA to the PTC, which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under docket number PTC 04452-2017 S; and,

WHEREAS, Ortmann also timely filed an appeal (the "Removal Appeal") of his removal from employment at Union County to the Civil Service Commission ("CSC"), which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under docket number CSV 11287-2017 N; and,

WHEREAS, the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal were consolidated for a plenary hearing before Administrative Law Judge Kathleen M. Calemmo; and,

WHEREAS, prior to the commencement of the hearing at the OAL, the parties engaged in settlement discussions; and,

WHEREAS, the MCSO, Union County and Ortmann now desire to resolve all outstanding issues with respect to the foregoing events via this Agreement and amicably resolve both the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and conditions set forth herein, the adequacy of which is hereby acknowledged, the MCSO, Union County and Ortmann hereby agree as follows:

1. RESOLUTION OF THE DISMISSAL APPEAL AND REMOVAL APPEAL; TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

The MCSO, Union County and Ortmann agree as follows:

a. In lieu of his dismissal from the MCPA's Basic Course for County Corrections Officers, Ortmann shall be deemed to have voluntarily withdrawn from same.

b. In lieu of his removal from employment by Union County, he shall be deemed to have resigned from his employment in good standing as a County Corrections Officer, effective and retroactive to March 17, 2017.

c. The parties agree that Ortmann may seek future employment as a sworn law enforcement officer with Union County. In the event that Ortmann is hired by a law enforcement agency that utilizes the MCPA for training purposes, there shall be no bar on his ability to re-enroll in the MCPA.

d. Ortmann waives any and all claims arising from or relating to his dismissal from the MCPA or his removal from Union County, including but not limited to, back pay, benefits, attorneys' fees and/or costs.

e. The MCPA and Union County will amend their records to conform to the terms of the Agreement and will do all that is reasonably necessary to cause any Civil Service records to reflect Ortmann's resignation in good standing instead of removal. All internal records will remain intact. Internal records shall also include a copy of this Agreement and any related documents.

2. COMPLETE RELEASE AND RELINQUISHMENT OF CLAIMS.

In consideration of the settlement hereinabove, and to the fullest extent permissible by law, Ortmann, along with his successors, assigns, heirs, representatives and estates (collectively, "Releasor"), agrees to irrevocably and unconditionally relinquish any and all causes of action, demands or claims, including claims for attorney's fees and costs, Releasor had, has or may have from the beginning of time up to the date this Agreement is executed against the MCSO (as well as its funding agent, the County of Monmouth) and Union County, as well as all of their elected and appointed officials, officers, members of the governing body, agents, attorneys, employees, agencies and instrumentalities (collectively, "Releasees"), regardless of whether such claims are presently known or unknown to Releasor. This full and unconditional relinquishment and release of claims includes, but is not limited to, any causes of action, demands or claims relating in any way to Ortmann's enrollment at the MCPA or his removal from employment by Union County, or any other events, information or disputes giving rise to this matter, the Dismissal Appeal, the Removal Appeal or the Agreement.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, matters arising at common law, such as breach of contract, expressed or implied, promissory estoppel, wrongful discharge, tortious interference with contractual rights, infliction of emotional distress, defamation and any other common-law tort.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, matters arising under federal, state or local laws, statutes, regulations, ordinances, orders or policies, common law, public policy, including, but not limited to, the United States Constitution, the federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), the federal Equal Pay Act (EPA), the federal Civil Rights Act of 1866, Title VII of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, the federal Civil Rights Act of 1991, the federal Age Discrimination and Employment Act (ADEA), the federal Older Workers Benefit Protection Act (OWBPA), the federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the federal Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the federal National Labor Relations Act; the federal Immigration Reform and Control Act; the federal Occupational Safety and Health Act; the New Jersey Constitution, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA), the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (NJLAD), the New Jersey Family Leave Act, the New Jersey Civil Rights Act, the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, the New Jersey Wage and Hour Laws, the New Jersey Wage Payment Laws.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, claims for reemployment by contract or recall rights, compensatory damages, punitive damages, reinstatement, back pay, overtime compensation, back benefits, back emoluments, attorneys' fees, equitable relief, or any other relief.

Ortmann represents that there are no outstanding charges, complaints, claims or actions against the County of Union, which involve claims related to Ortmann. In the event that there is outstanding any such proceeding, action, charge, complaint or claim filed against the County of Union, by or on behalf of Ortmann, Ortmann shall cause the immediate withdrawal and dismissal with prejudice and on the merits of each such proceeding, action, charge, complaint or claim. However, this full and unconditional Release does not prevent, and is not intended to prevent, Ortmann from making an allegation of discrimination to the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC"), the New Union Division on Civil Rights ("NJDCR") or any other state or local civil rights agency. However, Releasor irrevocably waives any right to receive any monetary relief or any other compensation whatsoever in connection with the prosecution of a charge or suit brought on Ortmann's behalf by the EEOC, NJDCR, or any other third party such as another federal, state or local governmental agency or entity.

Ortmann represents and warrants that he has no knowledge of any work-related injury or illness incurred while working for the County of Union, that he has not filed a claim or an application for benefits under the Workers' Compensation Laws, and that he does not contend that he has any such claim.

3. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Ortmann acknowledges that this Agreement shall resolve all issues related to the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal and that he has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with his legal counsel, Joshua M. Forsman of Caruso Smith Edell Picini, P.C., prior to entering into it and that he has availed himself of this right, that he has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

The parties shall not utilize this settlement in any way with respect to any other proceeding involving the MCPA or Union County unless specifically provided for herein.

13. OTHER ACTIONS.

Ortmann agrees that he will not, in another action or proceeding before any state, federal or local court or any governmental or administrative agency or during any arbitration or mediation, obtain discovery, offer evidence or voluntarily assist in any claims or litigation that may be pending or filed in the future, unless required by law or court order (in which case he agrees to notify the MCPO and Union County before doing so to provide for an opportunity to oppose such a request. In the PTC matter a prehearing conference was held by the Honorable John P. Scollo, ALJ, on February 1, 2017, who thereafter entered a prehearing order dated February 10, 2017.

In the CSV matter a prehearing conference was held by the undersigned on March 20, 2017. A prehearing order was entered on March 22, 2017.

Petitioner filed a motion to consolidate both matters on March 27, 2017.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.2(c) oral argument on the motion was held telephonically on March 30, 2017, wherein the parties consented to the consolidation and agreed the predominant interest lies with the Police Training Commission. An Order of Consolidation and Predominant Interest was entered by the undersigned on March 30, 2017.

The parties appeared for the hearing on April 26, 2017 and advised that the matter was settled and placed the terms of the settlement upon the record.

An executed settlement agreement was received on June 25, 2018, whereupon the record was closed.

The parties have voluntarily agreed to resolve all disputed matters and have entered into a settlement as set forth in the attached settlement agreement.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall forward the record, including this recommended

Upon transmitting the record, POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c), request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION within forty-five days of the predominant-agency decision. OAL DKT. NO. CSV 19368-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-1921

IN THE MATTER OF MILLIODERE SENESCAT, DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, NEW LISBON DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER.

Rashidah Hasan, Esq., for appellant Milliodere Senescat

Aaron Creuz, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Department of Human Services, New Lisbon Developmental Center (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 25, 2018 Decided: August 2, 2018

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, appellant, Milliodere Senescat, challenges her removal on August 19, 2016, on charges of violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6, conduct unbecoming a public employee, and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)12 (other sufficient cause). Specifically, B.2-2, Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would result in danger to persons or property; B.3-2, Sleeping while on duty; D.7-2, Violation of administrative procedures and or regulations involving safety and security; and E.1-2, Violation of a rule regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. The event allegedly committed on May 14, 2016. The event, falling asleep while assigned for enhanced supervision of a patient. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on December 27, 2016, as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The respondent presented its case on May 16, 2018, the parties agreed to a settlement on the record of a voluntary resignation in good standing without any back pay or attorney's fees. The undersigned permitted the parties to submit a settlement agreement within ten days of that date. The settlement agreement did not appear. The OAL set up a telephone conference for July 17, 2018, to discuss the whereabouts of the settlement agreement. Appellant's counsel failed to appear for the July 17, 2018, telephone conference and requested to be excused from the failure to appear which the undersigned granted. Appellant's counsel represented his inability to obtain appellant's signature on the settlement agreement; and requested a new hearing date. The failure to appear was excused. On July 20, 2018, the respondent through counsel, Aaron J. Creuz, DAG, objected to granted new hearing dates due to the interruption of the presentation of its case with the settlement, and the loss of available witnesses which were available for testimony back on May 16, 2018; but now were no longer employed by the respondent. A second telephone conference was scheduled for July 24, 2018. Appellant's counsel again failed to appear for the telephone conference and requested that the failure to appear be excused, new hearing dates be set, and he be allowed to make a motion to be relieved as counsel.

FACTUAL FINDINGS REGARDING THE PROCEEDINGS

Based upon a review of the record, and the submission of respondent's counsel to the second request of appellant's counsel to be excused from the failure to appear at the July 24, 2018, telephone conference, and giving fair weight thereto, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. The appellant's counsel's reason to be excused from the failure to be available for the telephone conference on July 24, 2018, is a law office failure and does not meet the criteria to be excused from the failure to appear.

2. The respondent will suffer additional costs and expenses, if compelled to complete its hearing; and there are no assurances that respondent's witnesses previously available will be available in the future. Accordingly, respondent will be prejudiced by the reopening of the matter.

3. The transcript from May 16, 2018, reflects that the appellant agreed to the terms of a settlement; and then changed his mind to execute a document memorializing the settlement which provided for a general resignation in good standing, with no back pay or attorney's fees and an agreement not to reapply for employment with the respondent.

4. The representation of appellant's counsel that she would be seeking to be relieved as counsel is inconsistent with the prehearing order in this matter as it would delay further hearing dates.

ORDER

IT IS ORDERED that the petition be DISMISSED outright or in accord with the settlement agreement reached on the record of a resignation in good standing, without back pay or attorney's fees, and a representation that appellant will not seek further employment with the respondent; and,

IT IS ORDERED in the event of remand by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION to excuse the default and provide a new hearing for appellant that it do so only conditioned on a payment by appellant of the additional costs incurred by the respondent to present the initial hearing, in the event an entirely new hearing is required, or the remainder of the hearing, if an entire new hearing is not required.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 16989-17
AGENCY REF. NO. 2018-1195

IN THE MATTER OF SEKOU SHERIFF,
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES,
HUNTERDON DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER.

Rashida Hasan, Esq., for appellant

Shareef Omar, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewel, Attorney General, State of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: July 26, 2018 Decided: August 1, 2018

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This case involves the appeal by appellant, Sekou Sheriff (Sheriff), of the decision of respondent, New Jersey Department of Human Services (DHS or Department), that Sheriff's absence from the job on five consecutive days without permission was job abandonment, resulting in Sheriff's resignation not in good standing from the position of Cottage Training Technician at the Hunterdon Developmental Center (HDC).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 24, 2017, DHS mailed a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) dated March 10, 2017, to Sheriff, charging him with (1) job abandonment in violation of Administrative Order A3.1; (2) resignation not in good standing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(c); (3) conduct unbecoming a public employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); and (4) other sufficient causes pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). Sheriff did not request a departmental hearing, and, on April 17, 2017, DHS mailed a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated April 12, 2017, to Sheriff, sustaining all charges against him, with notice that he would be removed from employment effective February 19, 2017. Both the PNDA and the FNDA were sent by certified mail to the last address Sheriff provided, but both mailings were returned unclaimed.

Sheriff attempted to return to work on October 23, 2017, at which time he was provided with courtesy copies of the PNDA and FNDA. Sheriff filed this appeal on October 24, 2017, and the Civil Service Commission (CSC) transmitted this matter on November 14, 2017, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), which filed it for determination as a contested case on November 15, 2017, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

This matter was initially assigned to the Honorable Gerald Foley, ALJ, who held a settlement conference with the parties on December 19, 2017. Since settlement was not reached, this matter was reassigned to the undersigned and scheduled for a prehearing telephone conference on January 29, 2018. At appellant's request, this conference was adjourned. I held prehearing telephone conferences with the parties on February 26, 2018, and May 8, 2018, after which I issued a prehearing order and scheduled the hearing for July 30, 2018.

On June 27, 2018, respondent filed a motion for summary decision in its favor claiming there are no genuine issues of material fact in dispute. Specifically, respondent seeks that summary decision be granted in its favor finding that Sheriff's appeal was not filed in a timely manner and must be dismissed and, in the alternative, that Sheriff is guilty of the charges described in the FNDA, and that DHS properly recorded him as having resigned not in good standing. Accordingly, I adjourned the hearing to allow time to address the motion.

On July 20, 2018, Sheriff submitted a brief in opposition to the motion for summary decision. The DHS filed a reply brief in further support of the motion for summary decision on July 26, 2018, and the motion is now ripe for determination.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Based on the papers filed by the parties in this case, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS:

Sheriff was employed by DHS as a Cottage Training Technician at HDC since 2003. On or about December 20, 2016, a leave request submitted by Sheriff was approved by his supervisors at HDC by which Sheriff used vacation and administrative leave from January 14, 2017 through February 2, 2017. Sheriff was expected to return to duty on February 6, 2017. Letter Br. of Resp't. (June 27, 2018), Exhibit B.

Sheriff did not return to work on February 6, 2017, and his absence was noted as unauthorized. Id., Exhibit C. The next two days, Sheriff called out sick. Ibid. On February 8, 2017, Violet H. Savice (Savice), LPN/CM, transmitted to HDC an application for Sheriff to take medical leave pursuant to the Family and Medical Leave Act.[1] Id., Exhibit D. In this application, Savice described Sheriff's medical condition as hypertension and diabetes and estimated he would be incapacitated from February 3, 2017, through March 15, 2017. Ibid. On February 13, 2017, HDC sent notice to Sheriff that his FMLA application was not approved as additional information was needed to determine whether the FMLA applied to his request. Id., Exhibit E. HDC required Sheriff to respond on or before February 21, 2017, but failed to specify what information was missing from his initial application. Ibid.

[1] 29 U.S.C.A. 2601, et seq.

On February 15, 2017, Gemeh Kesselhe (Kesselhe), Attending Medical Officer at Redemption Hospital, Monrovia, Liberia, transmitted a medical report to HDC regarding Sheriff, which stated that he was seen in the Emergency Room on February 3, 2017, diagnosed with diabetes and hypertension, admitted to the hospital for one week, and advised to "suspend travel" until March 15, 2017. Id., Exhibit F. On March 24, 2017, Kesselhe transmitted a second medical report to HDC regarding Sheriff, which stated that his recovery had been "gradual, not as anticipated," and therefore, Sheriff was "further admonished to suspend travel" through May 15, 2017. Id., Exhibit G. Respondent provided no copies of additional correspondence, if any, generated by HDC in response to the doctor's reports described above.

In the PNDA and the FNDA, DHS claims that Sheriff failed to notify his supervisor of his intended absences and failed to report to work on February 19, 21, 22, 23, and 26, 2017, and all subsequent work days up to and including March 10, 2017, and then April 12, 2017, the dates of the PNDA and FNDA, respectively. Id., Exhibits H and I.

HDC sent both the PNDA and the FNDA to Sheriff by certified mail to the address in Newark, New Jersey, which Sheriff had provided, however, both certified mailings were returned to HDC unclaimed by Sheriff. Ibid. In the papers filed to support this motion, respondent first stated that the PNDA and FNDA were also sent to Sheriff by regular mail. Id., p. 4. In its reply brief, however, respondent stated that the documents were also sent to Sheriff by registered mail. Reply Br. of Resp't. (July 26, 2018), p. 2. Sheriff claims he did not receive either the PNDA or the FNDA prior to October 23, 2018.

Sheriff was last seen by Kesselhe at his office in Liberia on September 24, 2017, at which time Kesselhe issued a medical report stating that Sheriff "can now resume active job as required." Letter Br. of Appell't. (July 20, 2018), Appendix A. Sheriff presented this report to HDC in person on or about October 23, 2017.[2] Further, Sheriff presented HDC the report of Total Medical Support Group, Irvington, New Jersey, that he was cleared to return to work, effective October 16, 2017. Letter Br. of Resp't., Exhibit M.

[2] The record is not clear as to whether Sheriff returned to HDC on only one or more than one occasion in his attempt to resume working.

Respondent did not permit Sheriff to return to work and, instead, on October 23, 2017, provided him with "courtesy copies" of the PNDA and FNDA. Id., Exhibits K and L. On October 24, 2017, Sheriff appealed the decision of respondent to record his resignation not in good standing.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

Respondent claims first that Sheriff's appeal is untimely and therefore, should be dismissed. According to respondent, the CSC improperly granted Sheriff's appeal "based on the handwritten date on the courtesy copy of the FNDA" which Sheriff obtained when he returned to HDC in October 2017, seven months after the FNDA was issued. Id., p. 6. In support of its position, respondent cites the statute which provides that appeals of removals must be "made in writing to the [CSC] no later than 20 days from receipt of the final written determination of the authority." N.J.S.A. 11A:2-15. Respondent contends that "there is nothing in HDC's records suggesting Appellant's change of address, or that the FNDA was not delivered to him." Letter Br. of Resp't., p. 7.

Appellant responds that respondent failed to effectuate personal service of the PNDA and/or the FNDA on Sheriff and should not be permitted to proceed with this matter. "Service by certified or registered mail also require proof of such service," which respondent does not provide. Letter Br. of Appell't., p. 3. Regular mail, which respondent initially claimed to have used, cannot substitute for personal service or service by certified or registered mail. Ibid.

In its reply brief, respondent claims for the first time that the PNDA and FNDA were sent to appellant by certified and registered mail. Reply Br. of Resp't. (July 26, 2018), p. 2. (Presumably, though respondent does not say that it erred in its initial statement that regular mail was used, respondent means to substitute "registered" for "regular" with respect to the form of mailing.) Respondent refers to the green return-receipt card on which the boxes for both certified and registered mail are checked, and claims it satisfied its notice obligations. Id.; Letter Br. of Resp't., Exhibit J.

Alternately, respondent claims it is entitled to summary decision because there is no genuine issue of material fact that Sheriff abandoned his job while abroad in Liberia. Even if the medical reports provided by Sheriff's Liberian doctor are presumed credible, respondent argues that Sheriff was cleared to return to work twice—on March 15, 2017, and then again on May 15, 2017—but did not return nor request additional leave. The next correspondence from Sheriff and/or his doctors was dated September 24, 2017, and received by HDC on October 23, 2018, more than five months after Sheriff had previously been cleared to return to work.

Respondent argues that HDC is a twenty-four hour psychiatric care facility which "relies on the diligence of its employees to remain in operation." Employee attendance policies are strictly enforced and "DHS policy mandates automatic removal for a first offense of job abandonment." See, Letter Br. of Resp't., Exhibit A (NJ DHS Disciplinary Action Program (January 1, 1981), p. 4). Further, DHS policy defines job abandonment as "absence from work as scheduled without permission for five (5) consecutive days." Ibid.

In response, appellant claims that summary decision is not appropriate as there is a genuine dispute as to whether HDC had sufficient reason to deny FMLA leave to Sheriff and whether HDC had effective notice of the basis for Sheriff's continuing absences.

Finally, respondent argues that even if Sheriff had produced the medical report dated September 24, 2017, when it was initially issued rather than in October 2017, neither Sheriff nor his doctor provided any communication to HDC between May 15, 2017, and October 23, 2017, a gap of more than five months. Appellant has yet to explain why he did not notify his supervisors, or request permission for his absence, after May 15, 2017, or why he waited for almost a month after being cleared to return to work in September 2017, to attempt to return to work in October 2017.

Summary decision is a well-recognized procedure for resolving cases in which the facts that are crucial to the determination of the matters at issue are not actually in dispute.

By applying the applicable law and standard of proof to the undisputed facts, a decision may be reached in a case without the necessity of a hearing at which evidence is presented and testimony taken. The procedure is equally applicable in judicial as well as executive branch administrative proceedings. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

The regulations provide that the decision sought by the movant "may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). For the adverse party (in this case, Sheriff) to prevail, he "must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

The standards for determining motions for summary judgment are found in Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 74–75 (1954), and later in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). A motion for summary decision may only be granted where the moving party sustains the burden of proving "the absence of a genuine issue of material fact," and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Judson, 17 N.J. at 74-75. The existence of disputed facts will only prevent summary decision if the disputed facts are material to the application of the underlying charges. Frank v. Ivy Club, 120 N.J. 73, 98 (1990).

Summary decision is appropriate when "the evidence . . . is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Brill, 142 N.J. at 541 [quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 251–52, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2512, 91 L. Ed. 2d 202, 214 (1986)]. In reviewing the proffered evidence to determine the motion, the judge must be guided by the applicable evidentiary standard of proof that would apply at trial on the merits.

The respondent contends that removal from employment was the appropriate response to appellant's absence from duty for five or more consecutive business days without approval. Under the regulations, such an absence is considered abandonment of the employee's position and is recorded as a resignation not in good standing. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b). Further, the violation by an employee of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, or order, such as the DHS Disciplinary Action Program, provides the employer other sufficient cause to impose discipline, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12).

Respondent argues that summary decision is appropriate here for two reasons, first Sheriff's appeal was not timely filed; and second, Sheriff was absent from work without permission for five or more consecutive work days, which by DHS policy constitutes job abandonment and for which automatic removal from employment is mandated.

With respect to respondent's first argument, it must prove that there is no genuine issue of material fact as to whether Sheriff had notice of the charges lodged against him—and of his recorded resignation not in good standing—more than twenty days prior to October 24, 2017. Respondent states that there is nothing in HDC's records suggesting that the FNDA was not delivered to Sheriff. But, to date, respondent has shown nothing in HDC's records to prove that either the PNDA or the FNDA were delivered to Sheriff prior to October 23, 2017. In fact, it appears that HDC staff wrote "returned unclaimed" on copies of both documents. See, Letter Br. of Resp't., Exhibits H, I, K, and L.

In its initial brief, respondent stated that the PNDA and FNDA were sent by regular and certified mail, but in its second brief changed this to registered and certified mail. A review of the exhibits raises even more uncertainty. The FNDA was issued on April 12, 2017, and sent by certified or registered mail on or about the same day, with a receipt numbered 7015 3010 000056941912. Id., Exhibit I. The green card which accompanied that mailing bears the same receipt number and was return to HDC with no delivery date indicated and no signature. Id., Exhibit J. Both the boxes for certified mail and registered mail are checked on the green card; both types of mail require a signature of the recipient. Both the FNDA and the green card bear the handwritten note, "sent reg mail 4/17/17." If the "reg" meant registered rather than regular, there should be a second green card with a new receipt number and respondent has not provided one.[3] I CONCLUDE that when considering the evidence in a light most favorable to appellant, questions remain as to whether he obtained actual notice of the PNDA and/or the FNDA prior to October 23, 2017, when he was given courtesy copies of both documents by HDC staff.

There is nothing from the CSC proving that the agency determined that the deadline for filing the present appeal was based on the date HDC gave Sheriff the courtesy copies of the PNDA and FNDA. However, the inference to be drawn from the CSC's transmittal of Sheriff's appeal to the OAL is that the CSC found the appeal timely. I CONCLUDE that when considering the evidence in a light most favorable to appellant, this appeal was timely filed with the CSC, less than twenty days from the date Sheriff had actual notice of the recording of his resignation not in good standing.

As to the second issue, whether Sheriff was absent from work without permission for five or more consecutive days, when the evidence is viewed in a light most favorable to appellant, there are genuine issues as to material facts but only as to the period prior to May 15, 2017.

Sheriff requested FMLA leave on February 8, 2017. Although respondent notified appellant less than one week later that this leave was not yet approved, respondent failed to advise Sheriff as to the basis for rejecting his application or what specific additional information was needed.[4] Prior to the deadline for responding, Sheriff's doctor sent additional information to HDC, specifically that Sheriff was recovering slowly and was advised not to travel prior to March 15, 2017. At that point, HDC knew why Sheriff was absent from work and knew when he was expected to return. As appellant argues, there are genuine issues as to whether HDC had sufficient reason to deny Sheriff's application for FMLA, or if HDC even did officially deny the application. Significantly, respondent provides no evidence of any response to either Sheriff or Kesselhe, raising the question of whether Sheriff was reasonable in presuming that his leave was approved through March 15, 2017.

[4] In its brief, respondent notes that Sheriff's FMLA application "does not explain how [diabetes and hypertension] prevented [him] from traveling or working," but respondent offers no proof that this information was requested by HDC at any time. Letter Br. of Resp't., p. 3.

On March 24, 2017, Kesselhe sent a new medical report to HDC, stating that Sheriff could not travel until May 15, 2017. Again, respondent provides no evidence of any response by HDC. By this time, of course, DHS had already issued the PNDA to Sheriff, but as he claims not to have had notice, he may have reasonably presumed that the second medical report was sufficient to extend his FMLA leave through May 15, 2017.[5] Sheriff has offered no evidence, however, to support the conclusion that he provided any notice to HDC of his intention to extend his medical leave after May 15, 2017, nor has Sheriff offered any evidence that HDC expressly or implicitly approved such an extension.

Even when considering the undisputed facts in the light most favorable to Sheriff, he has provided no reasonable explanation for his failure to report to work and/or to notify his supervisor of his inability to so report between May 15, 2017, and October 23, 2017. As respondent states, a twenty-four-hour facility like HDC relies on the diligence of its employees to remain in operation and, for this reason, DHS policy mandates removal for a first offense of job abandonment. Sheriff was absent without permission for much longer than five consecutive days; when considering the facts in the light most favorable to him, I CONCLUDE that Sheriff was absent without permission every work day over the course of five months, a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) and (12) and of the DHS Disciplinary Action Program.

For the reasons described above, I CONCLUDE that the decision of DHS to record Sheriff's resignation not in good standing is appropriate but modify the effective date of appellant's removal to May 16, 2017, the first work day after the date on which Kesselhe advised HDC that Sheriff could travel, a prerequisite for his return to work.

[5] Neither party provided any information regarding the amount of FMLA leave time that would have been available to appellant at the time of his initial application, or whether such leave time would have been exhausted prior to May 15, 2017.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that the decision of the DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES that Sheriff's absence from the job on five consecutive days without permission was job abandonment resulting in his resignation not in good standing is AFFIRMED.

In the Matter of Sean Tonner, Edna Mahan Correctional Facility, Department of Corrections

OAL Docket No. CSV 12882-16

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: SEPTEMBER 21, 2018 (ABR)

The appeal of Sean Tonner, a former Senior Investigator, Parole and Secured Facilities,[1] with the Edna Mahan Correctional Facility, Department of Corrections (DOC), of his 10 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Carl V. Buck, III (ALJ), who rendered his initial decision on August 2, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on September 5, 2018, did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to uphold the 10 working day suspension. Rather, the Commission modified the penalty to a five working day suspension.

DISCUSSION

The appointing authority suspended the appellant for 10 working days on charges of neglect of duty and other sufficient cause. Specifically, it asserted that on July 2, 2016, the appellant, while assigned to be "on-call," failed to respond to emails and telephone calls from his supervisor which were made to his State-issued and personal cellular telephones during a two-hour period. The appellant was located after his supervisor contacted the Palmer Township,[2] Pennsylvania Police Department (PTPD) and had it check on the well-being of the appellant. PTPD officers located the appellant at his residence and directed the appellant to contact his supervisor. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case.

In his initial decision, the ALJ found that at the end of his shift on July 1, 2016, the appellant's supervisor informed him that due to scheduling changes, he was to be placed "on call" effective immediately. Prior to being placed "on call," the appellant planned to attend a party with M.M., his girlfriend, but after he was placed "on call" he stayed home and M.M. attended without him. Around midnight on July 2, 2016, the appellant was awakened when M.M. returned home, entered their bedroom and physically assaulted him with her fists and a metal beverage container. The appellant called the PTPD and reported the incident. However, M.M. left the premises before the PTPD arrived on scene. Later that night, M.M. returned to the home and the appellant placed a second call to the PTPD. The PTPD returned to the residence and arrested M.M. on a domestic violence charge. After M.M.'s arrest, the appellant drove M.M.'s daughter to the home of M.M.'s mother in Phillipsburg, New Jersey. When the appellant went back to sleep at approximately 4:30 AM on July 2, 2016, he had his State-issued cellular phone near him,[3] but not his personal cellular phone. Representatives of the PTPD notified the appellant's supervisor of the domestic violence incident. As a result, between 7:33 AM and 9:31 AM on July 2, 2016, the appellant's supervisor made seven attempts to contact the appellant; i.e., three emails, two calls to his State-issued cellular phone and two calls to his personal cellular phone. After the appellant failed to respond, the appellant's supervisor requested that the PTPD check on the appellant's well-being. The PTPD reported to the appellant's home and told him to contact his supervisor, which he did at approximately 9:41 AM on July 2, 2016. The ALJ found that the appellant was aware of the appointing authority's directives requiring investigative personnel in possession of a State-issued communication device to carry it on their person and be able to respond to calls and emails within a "reasonable" or "immediate" timeframe. Based upon the foregoing, the ALJ found that the neglect of duty charge was supported by the appellant's failure to respond to his supervisor while "on call" due to his failure to turn his State-issued cellular phone to "on" or "ring" after a training session the previous day. Additionally, the ALJ sustained the charge of other sufficient cause, finding that the appellant failed to discharge his duties in accordance with DOC policy, as he did not respond to his supervisor within a "reasonable" or "immediate" timeframe while "on call."

[2] The ALJ's mistakenly refers to the Palmer Township Police Department as the Northampton Township Police Department.

[3] The ALJ found that the appellant had put is ringer on his State-issued phone on vibrate during a training session he attended on July 1, 2016 and had not turned the ringer back on.

In weighing the appropriate penalty, the ALJ considered the appellant's employment record, which included three commendations and three disciplinary actions since he began his employment with the appointing authority in 1995. The ALJ noted that the appellant received an official written reprimand for reporting for duty late in December 1998, an official written reprimand for an "emergency comp day" request in December 2003 and a three working day suspension for charges related to his failure to properly complete a work assignment in September 2015.[4] The ALJ stated that although the nature of the domestic violence incident was a mitigating factor, neither it nor the commendations in his employment record warranted a reduction of the penalty. Therefore, the ALJ affirmed the 10 working day suspension.

In his exceptions, the appellant argues that his failure to respond to his supervisor's phone calls and emails do not support the disciplinary charges because he was the victim of a domestic violence attack and the calls from his supervisor had nothing to do with the appellant's work obligations or his "on call" status. The appellant argues that the neglect of duty charges were not warranted because the ALJ ignored several key facts, including that the appellant had two phones on him that night, but "temporarily" lost one during the domestic violence attack; that the applicable DOC directives did not prohibit "on call" employees from placing their phones on vibrate; and that the appointing authority had not previously disciplined other employees who failed to call back immediately while "on call." Additionally, the appellant argues that the ALJ failed to accord proper weight to the effect that the trauma of the domestic violence attack had on the appellant. Specifically, he contends that he did not violate the applicable DOC policies because his supervisor's calls on July 2, 2016 were made in the capacity of a friend wishing to check on his well-being, rather than involving a work incident. Furthermore, he argues that the timing of his response to his supervisor's calls was reasonable given the chain of events that stemmed from the domestic violence incident, which occurred shortly after midnight. He argues that his supervisor testified that other investigators had failed to respond to communications within 15 minutes while "on call," but were not subjected to disciplinary action and he notes that the appointing authority's Disciplinary Action Policy prescribes an official written reprimand as the appropriate sanction for a first neglect of duty violation. Finally, the appellant submits that the penalty was also unwarranted given the three commendations in his employment record and the lack of any disciplinary charges related to neglect of duty in his more than 20 years of service prior to this incident.

In reply, the appointing authority argues that the ALJ properly considered the impact of the subject domestic violence assault, having identified it as a mitigating factor in his initial decision. It argues that the appellant's actions following the assault show that he should have been able to, at minimum, respond to his supervisor's emails on the morning of July 2, 2016. The appointing authority also contends that the DOC's rules and regulations make clear that an investigator assigned to be "on call" must respond in a "reasonable" or "immediate" timeframe, 24 hours per day, seven days per week, even if the call does not concern an incident at a facility. It argues that the appellant's response to his supervisor, more than two hours after he was initially contacted while "on call," was not "reasonable" or "immediate" as required. Further, it maintains that the appellant's failure to respond to his supervisor's calls under these circumstances is not a mistake that is justified by the assault. Accordingly, it maintains that the ALJ properly sustained the charges and the 10 working day suspension.

[4] The ALJ's initial decision states that the appellant's three working day suspension occurred in September 2005. However, a review of the record indicates that this suspension occurred in 2015.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ regarding the charges but does not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to uphold the 10 working day suspension. In determining the proper penalty, the Commission's review is de novo. In addition to its consideration of the seriousness of the underlying incident in determining the proper penalty, the Commission utilizes, when appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In determining the propriety of the penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. North Princeton Developmental Center, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 463. Moreover, it is well established that where the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature, the imposition of a penalty up to and including removal is appropriate, regardless of an individual's disciplinary history. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). Further, the Commission notes that a law enforcement officer is held to a higher standard than a civilian public employee. See Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560 (App. Div. 1965), cert. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). See also, In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567 (1990). The Commission is particularly mindful of this standard when disciplinary action is taken against a supervisory law enforcement officer. Upon an independent review of the record and in consideration of the underlying incident, the Commission concludes that a 10 working day suspension is too severe of a penalty. In the instant matter, while the appellant failed to promptly respond to the appointing authority's attempts to contact him while he was "on call," the Commission is sympathetic to the fact that the appellant was the victim of the domestic violence incident which caused the attempts to contact him. As the officer "on call," it was the appellant's responsibility to ensure that he could be contacted by the appointing authority and that he respond within a reasonable amount of time, or that he request the appointing authority to have someone else be contacted for "on call" matters. However, while the facts of the underlying incident do not excuse the appellant's failure to promptly respond to his supervisor while "on call," they do offer mitigating circumstances. The Commission notes that after the appellant was assaulted around midnight on July 2, 2016, he had to address his injuries, call the PTPD to have it respond to his residence twice and ensure that his attacker's young daughter was placed into the proper care of a relative. The record indicates that he did not resolve these issues until approximately 4:30 AM. Moreover, the appellant was a long-term employee whose disciplinary history only included minor discipline. Given these circumstances, a more fitting penalty is a five working day suspension, which gives the appellant sufficient notice that similar conduct in the future could result in major discipline. Accordingly, the foregoing circumstances provide a sufficient basis to modify the 10 working day suspension imposed by the appointing authority to a five working day suspension. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.9(d).

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to five days of back pay, benefits and seniority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. However, the appellant is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), an award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. Mar. 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In this case, the Commission agreed with the ALJ's determination sustaining all of the charges and only modified the penalty. Thus, the appellant has not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Commission finds that the appointing authority's action in imposing a 10 working day suspension was not justified. Therefore, the Commission modifies the 10 working day suspension to a five working day suspension. The Commission further orders that the appellant be granted five days of back pay, benefits and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated to the extent of any income earned during this period. Proof of income earned shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 13882-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-646

IMO SEAN TONNER, EDNA MAHAN CORRECTIONAL FACILITY, DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

Matthew Areman, Esq., for Sean Tonner, appellant (Markowitz & Richman, attorneys)

Karen Campbell, Legal Specialist, appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a) 2, for Edna Mahan Facility, Department of Corrections, respondent

Record Closed: March 19, 2018 Decided: August 2, 2018

BEFORE CARL V. BUCK III, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Sean Tonner, a Senior Investigator at the Edna Mahan Facility Correctional Facility for Women of the State of New Jersey, Department of Corrections (respondent, Mahan, or DOC), appeals disciplinary action seeking a suspension for ten (10) working days for neglect of duty in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), specifically violations of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended, "B.1. Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would not result in danger to persons or property"; HRB 84-17, as amended, "D.7. Violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security"; and HRB 84-17, as amended, "E.1. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision" (R-1).

The appellant denies the allegations. He asserts that he neither neglected his duty nor violated these administrative procedures and or regulations involving safety and security; specifically, in relation to an incident which occurred on July 2, 2016. Tonner seeks back pay, benefits, seniority, interest, attorney's fees, costs and additional relief deemed appropriate.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 6, 2016, Mahan issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) for the charges and specifications made against Tonner (R-1). This was served on Tonner on July 12, 2016. A disciplinary hearing was held on August 10, 2016 and on August 23, 2016 Mahan issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) sustaining the charges in the PNDA.

On August 30, 2016 Tonner requested a hearing, and on September 6, 2016 the Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on September 13, 2016. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. In October 2016, this matter was assigned to the Honorable Joseph Ascione, ALJ who entered a pre-hearing order on April 5, 2017 detailing the issues to be addressed. This matter was subsequently reassigned to the undersigned in October 2017. The hearing was conducted on October 26, 2018 and December 18, 2017. The record was left open for the parties to submit post-hearing briefs and responses following their receipt of the transcripts of the proceedings. The transcript was delayed, and briefs were to be submitted by both parties by March 9, 2018. The record closed on March 19, 2018 and extensions were requested by the undersigned and granted for the filing of this Initial Decision.

Tonner has been employed by the DOC in the Edna Mahan Correctional Facility for Women since 1995 (J-1). In 2001, he was promoted to the rank of Corrections Sergeant (J-2). He worked with the Special Operations Group from 2001 to 2005 and in 2005 he joined the Special Investigations Division (SID) and served with SID until the date of the incident (J-2).

On July 12, 2016 Tonner was served with a preliminary notice of disciplinary action (PNDA) recommending a ten (10) working day suspension for failure to respond to answer his telephone on July 2, 2016 (R-1). On July 15, 2016 Tonner filed notice of his desire to appeal the disciplinary action. On August 10, 2016 Tonner's appeal was heard by way of an internal disciplinary appeal proceeding with the employers OER legal specialist, Tamara Rudow, presiding(J-3). August 23, 2016 Rudow issued her decision, upholding the disciplinary decision (J-3). On August 23, 2016 Mahan issued a final notice of disciplinary action (FNDA) against Tonner upholding Tonner's ten (10) working day suspension (R-2). The present appeal was timely filed and challenges the employer's imposition of discipline against Tonner.

The preceding facts were stipulated to by the parties through the introduction of Joint Exhibits J-1 through J-4 and are not disputed and I FIND such as FACT. I also FIND the following "background synopsis" as FACT:

On July 2, 2016, Tonner was serving in an "on-call" capacity at Mahan. On that day, during an approximately two-hour period, he failed to respond to telephone calls and emails from his supervisor at Mahan, Principal Investigator Jerome Scott (Scott). These attempts at contact were made by email and by calling his work-issued and personal cellular telephones. Mahan then requested that the Palmer Township police department conduct a "well check" on Tonner, the result of which was that Tonner was notified to contact his supervisor, Scott.

Tonner relayed to Scott that Tonner's work issued cellular telephone was turned "off" the day before while Tonner attended a training class for the department.[1] They also discussed the domestic violence incident of the evening before.

Information on the domestic violence incident was detailed in a report prepared by Officer John Billiard of the Palmer Township Police Department (R-12) and in an arrest report regarding M.M.[2] (R-12). Information on the domestic violence incident was also provided through an email submitted by Tonner to Scott at 10:16 a.m. on July 2, 2016 (R-11).9

Jerome Scott

Principal Investigator Jerome Scott testified on behalf of respondent. He has been employed with the DOC since April 1995. He testified to his employment with the Special Investigations Division (SID) ultimately becoming a supervisor at Mahan in August 2015.

Scott testified to the following:

On July 2, 2016, at approximately 7:30 a.m., he was contacted by Mahan Administrator William Anderson. Anderson notified Scott that the shift commander at Mahan, Lieutenant Ricky Nestor, was contacted by the Northampton County (Pennsylvania) jail. The jail notified Nestor that M.M., a civilian employee at Mahan, had been arrested on a domestic violence charge which involved Tonner. Because of receiving that information, Scott contacted the jail in Northampton County and attempted to contact Tonner.

[1] The parties refer to the state issued telephone as being "off" and on "vibrate" the result being that the telephone did not issue an aural notice of an incoming message or incoming telephone call.
[2] Initials are used as "M.M." is the subject of a criminal complaint.

Scott was concerned for Tonner's well-being, as the information he had received was regarding a domestic violence incident. He was Tonner's supervisor and considered himself to be a friend to Tonner. Again, he related his concern about Tonner's well-being. He contacted Tonner by email on July 2, 2016 at 7:36 a.m. stating "I need you to call me as soon as possible" (R-4). He sent Tonner another email at 8:26 a.m. stating "Sean, please call me immediately" (R-5). At 9:31 a.m. he sent a third email with the same message as the 8:26 email (R-6). These email messages were sent on July 2, 2016.

Scott attempted to call Tonner, several times, using both Tonner's state issued cellular telephone and personal cellular telephone. During this period, Scott was in communication with Chief Manuel Alfonso (Alfonso), Chief at the time of the incident, and the Assistant Chief (at the time of the incident) Duane Grade and relayed to them the he (Scott) could not reach Tonner. Scott expressed to them that he was concerned, as Scott was unable to reach Tonner by telephone or email. At a certain point Scott contacted the Palmer Township Police Department and spoke with Sergeant Thomas Cardell and requested a "well check" at Tonner's residence.

Thereafter, Scott was advised by Sergeant Cardell that two officers had contacted Tonner at approximately 9:41 a.m. Scott was then contacted by Tonner who informed Scott that his state issued cellular telephone was on silent because Tonner had attended a training class the previous day (turning his work cellular telephone on silent as to avoid a disruption to the class) and forgot to turn the cellular telephone back "on." Scott stated that turning your state issued cellular telephone off for more than nine hours constituted a violation, as investigators need to be accessible and it could further constitute a violation if you are on-call.

During the telephone call, Scott and Tonner discussed the domestic violence incident of the night before.

Scott identified interoffice communications relating to answering telephone calls while "on call". Specifically, relating information contained in an Inter-Office

Communication (communication) from Chief Alfonso, dated November 6, 2014. That communication related what constitutes an "immediate timeframe" for a response (R-10). Scott state that after the issuance of that communication he called a meeting of his staff to discuss the Internal Management Procedure (IMP) Policy IMP-001 (policy). At that meeting Scott advised Tonner, and others, of the employee's responsibility regarding response to a message or contact. These events occurred before the incident which led to the disciplinary charges Tonner is facing here.

At the point Scott was contacted by Tonner, Scott was not concerned about a potential violation of an IMP but was solely concerned about Tonner's well-being. Shortly after speaking with Tonner, Scott wrote an email to Chief Alfonso at 10:31 a.m. detailing the background of the incident and his contact with Tonner (R-2). Scott stated that he was directed by Alfonso to prepare a second email, sent at approximately 12:16 p.m., detailing his conversation with Tonner and the time frame between the ending of the training class (12:00 p.m. July 1, 2016) and his contact with Tonner (9:41 a.m. July 2, 2016). During this time Tonner's state issued cellular telephone was on "vibrate" mode (R-3).

Scott further testified that he wrote two emails, the second of which would be sent to the State Commissioner of Corrections (to whom the SID unit reported directly). He testified that he was specifically told by Alfonso to prepare the second email as this would be sent to the Commissioner. Scott further discussed the IMP policy as issued on November 6, 2014 (R-10) and a follow-up email sent by Scott on November 24, 2015 (R-7) at the direction of Alfonso to guarantee that members of the investigative staff were aware of the policy and that it needed to be adhered to. The meeting of November 24, 2015, occurred several months before the incident date.

Scott stated that the "immediate timeframe" as mentioned in the IMP and the communication previously mentioned, constituted a period of fifteen minutes. The period of fifteen minutes was taken from Scott's interpretation of what constitutes "immediate." He also testified that there is not a policy or memorandum or any other documentation which states that an immediate timeframe period is fifteen minutes.

Scott stated that Tonner had been involved in two prior incidents where Tonner had not responded to a call within a fifteen-minute time frame. On one occasion Tonner was able to be reached on his personal cellular telephone. The second was an incident when Tonner did not report to work. In this those two incidents Tonner was not disciplined for not responding; however, there was a letter of counseling issued to Tonner (although from the testimony it was not clear as to whether the letter was issued for the nonresponse call incident or for another incident relating to an inappropriate language contained in an email).

On cross-examination, Scott changed his statement regarding the number of times he attempted to contact Tonner by telephone. Scott originally testified that he attempted to contact Tonner a total of seven times by telephone but modified his statement that he attempted to contact Tonner a total of seven times; three times by email and four times by telephone. Scott called Tonner's state issued cellular telephone twice and his personal cellular telephone twice.

Chief Investigator Duane Grade (Grade) then testified for the respondent. He testified to his background and experience with the DOC going back to January 1994. He left the DOC in 2008 for a position with an outside company, returning to DOC in 2010. He was promoted to Assistant Chief (now "Deputy Chief") in 2013 and served in that title until June 2017 when he was promoted to Chief Investigator. As Chief Investigator he supervises 110 persons, 83 of which are investigators and reports directly to the Commissioner of the DOC.

Grade testified to the following:

He identified IMP 001 for the SID (R-14) and the content of the document, the timeframe needed for immediate response regarding contact and he addressed the supplement to the internal management procedure. The supplement was a notification put out by former chiefs regarding cellular devices assigned to investigative staff. He related his knowledge and opinion regarding "immediate timeframe" - that being not a minimum timeframe; but stating that a two-hour and eight-minute time frame (the time frame involved here as the first attempted contact was at 7:36 a.m. and Scott was contacted by Tonner at 9:41 a.m.) is unacceptable. Grade further detailed Tonner's work history. He stated that in reviewing discipline, an evaluation of the incident and determination as to what constitutes appropriate discipline, is to be considered. He was aware that chiefs have consulted with the Office of Employee Relations (OER) for advice and guidance in disciplinary matters and that SID only recommends a sanction. SID does not determine the number of days or whether a person should be removed. They consult with the OER and make a recommendation.

On cross-examination, Grade testified that he was not involved in this disciplinary matter. As Deputy Chief, he was appointed as management's representative for the disciplinary hearing at the departmental level. Also, on cross-examination, he was question on the issues of "reasonable timeframe" and "immediate timeframe." He stated that, in his consideration, they were the same thing.

Grade also testified to the testimony of Chief Alfonso at the departmental hearing. Specifically, Chief Alfonzo's statement that he reviews cases regarding failure to call on a case-by-case basis, considering the totality of the circumstances. Chief Grade also stated that it was his practice to follow the same type of review and look at the totality of the circumstances in each case involved. He then testified as to prior disciplinary actions of Tonner.

Grade further testified to the practice of maintaining contact through his cellular telephone, specifically his cellular Blackberry, as provided by the DOC.

Appellant

Sean Tonner

Senior Investigator Sean Tonner testified on his own behalf.

Tonner testified that he had been employed with the DOC for approximately twenty-two years. He currently holds the rank of Sergeant and on July 2, 2016, had the title Senior Investigator. He had that title for approximately twelve and half years. He stated that, on the date in question, he was the senior investigator assigned to be on call.

Tonner testified to the following:

The protocol for being "on call' was that the institution would reach out to you if there was an event or something which required an investigator to be present. During the twelve and half years he had been at Mahan, he said there had not been a meeting or direction regarding the issue of "timeframe." Tonner stated that he did not recall the specifics of the meeting that investigator Scott testified to, which occurred in November 2015. There were a number of meetings, which were frequently conducted around lunch, where a number of matters could be discussed. He did not recall specifically discussing the contents of IMP-001 during one of those meetings.

Prior to the July 2016 event, Tonner had not been charged with failing, refusing or not responding, in a timely fashion, to a telephone call or email while he was "on call."

He then discussed the events which occurred in the evening of July 1, 2016 into July 2, 2016. He was informed that he was on call effective July 1, 2016. The call schedule calendar (put out six months in advance) stated that he was to begin call duty on July 4, 2016. Renée Caldwell, the individual scheduled to be on call on July 1, had told Scott she felt she had too many holidays included in her "on call" time; therefore, Scott changed Tonners "on call" status and Tonner was told this on July 1.

On that date he resided with his girlfriend who was a civilian employee of the DOC, M.M. He also resided with M.M.'s twelve-year-old daughter. Tonner and M.M. had planned to go to a birthday party for a relative of M.M. on Friday night, July 1. However, Tonner informed M.M. that he was on call and felt it would be best for him to stay home - rather than traveling forty-five minutes to an hour away. M.M. was not happy and went to the party. He contacted her by text several times and ultimately went to bed. After falling asleep he was awakened by the door opening, the lights coming on and being hit by M.M. M.M. struck Tonner with her fists and struck Tonner in the head and face with a stainless-steel object[3]. He identified a photograph of the metal container he was struck with (P-1(1)).

At that point he jumped out of bed and separated himself from M.M. and told her that he was going to call the police department. He did call the police, but by that time the police arrived, M.M. had left. The police arrived, saw the condition of the house, saw the metal container that caused Tonner's injuries and called a first aid squad.

Tonner identified a picture of his head after the event, although he did not recollect who held the camera or took the picture (P-1(2)-(5)). Tonner refused to go to the hospital and told the police that he would contact them if M.M. returned. He felt embarrassed. He then cleaned up the bedroom and at some point, thereafter, M.M. returned to the house. Tonner discovered her asleep and called the police who returned to the house and took M.M. into custody. This was approximately 1:30 a.m. on July 2, 2016.

Tonner then identified the police report from the Palmer Township Police Department (P-2). The document stated that M.M. was turned over to staff at approximately 3:00 a.m. She was charged with simple assault and harassment and released. Charges were pressed by the police department. After the arrest, Tonner felt that M.M.'s twelve-year-old daughter should be in the care of a family member, not him. He contacted M.M.'s mother and informed her what occurred. He then drove M.M.'s daughter to her grandmother's home in Phillipsburg.

He then returned to his house at approximately 4:30 a.m. He went to bed after affixing his CPAP device. He did not have both his telephones with him when he went to bed at 4:30 a.m., but he did have his work issued telephone with him.[4] He was unable to locate his personal cellular telephone (which he found the next day downstairs). He presumed that his personal telephone had been thrown at some point.

He stated the telephone was on vibrate. He fell asleep and stated that the next thing he recalled was pounding at the door and the dog barking. He went downstairs to answer the door and saw two police officers from Palmer Township. They were not same officers who had responded to the incident the night before. They asked his identity and told him that his office was looking for him and that his supervisor wanted Tonner to reach out to him.

He then contacted Scott. Scott asked if Tonner was all right - as Scott had received word that a domestic violence incident had occurred at the house. Tonner explained to Scott what happened, Scott discussed the domestic violence protocol and a number of other issues and Scott stated that the Chief wanted a report on what occurred. Tonner told Scott that as he only had his Blackberry, and it would be difficult to type a report on the Blackberry, that the report could wait until Monday; but Scott stated that the Chief wanted the report "now" to which Tonner replied that he would do his best.

Scott did not mention any violation of the on-call policy and they did not discuss the on-call policy. When Scott asked why Tonner did not answer the telephone, Tonner's response was that he went to training yesterday (July 1) and he was talking on the telephone now (meaning as he was speaking with Scott). When he went to the training he might have put the telephone on vibrate - but he was not certain. He checked the telephone after speaking with Scott and the telephone had battery content and was on vibrate.

On July 12, 2016, Tonner was served with a PNDA. Between July 2, 2016 and July 12, 2016, no one asked him about the on-call issue nor was he interviewed as part of an investigation. On July 12, 2016, he was scheduled to see a therapist and, as the therapist had an earlier availability, Tonner asked his supervisor (Scott) if he could leave early to go to his therapy session. As Tonner was leaving, Scott took the document (the PNDA) out of the printer signed it and handed it to Tonner. Tonner stated he was flabbergasted when receiving this as his experience in SID was that the "call back" timeframe was not strictly enforced. Tonner has, in the past, taken more than fifteen minutes return a telephone call while he was "on call" and had never been disciplined for such delay. On questioning, he stated that others he worked with, such as Renee Caldwell and Michael Kubik had taken longer than fifteen minutes to return calls and without disciplinary consequences.

[4] He stated he had both telephones with him when going to sleep initially before the domestic violence event.

On cross-examination it was established the Tonner still resides with M.M.

Respondent

Michael Kubik

Senior Investigator Michael Kubik (Kubik) testified for the respondent. Kubik testified to his background and experience since joining the DOC in April 1996. Kubik testified to his experience in SID.

Kubik testified to the following:

He was question to his opinion as to an "immediate timeframe". Kubik's position was that "immediate" meant "immediate". A two-hour delay was not reasonable. His interpretation of when an officer is on call a "reasonable timeframe" was the same thing as "immediate". In this context the two were the same. A reasonable delay would be if an individual was cutting the grass and did not hear a telephone or if there was something drastic which occurred - such as a death in the family. The purpose of "on call" was for the facility and the necessity of having an officer available.

After reviewing the evidence presented at the hearing as well as having the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I ALSO FIND the following:

1. Tonner is an employee of the Edna Mahan Correctional Facility under the New Jersey Department of Corrections. He has been employed by the Department of Corrections since 1995 and has held the title of senior investigator with SID for twelve and one-half years.

2. Tonner was scheduled to be "on call" for the period commencing July 4, 2016. Due to scheduling changes he was informed at the end of his shift on July 1, 2016, that he was to be assigned as the "on call" officer effective immediately.

3. During that day he had attended a work training session during which he had placed his state issued cellular device on vibrate or off.

4. He had scheduled with his live-in girlfriend M.M. to attend a birthday party that evening. On the date of the event, Tonner resided with M.M. and M.M.'s twelve-year-old daughter.

5. On the evening of July 1, 2016, M.M. left to attend the birthday party. The parties had some contact via text message during the evening and Tonner went to sleep with both his cellular telephones.

6. Tonner was awakened by M.M. who proceeded to physically assault him with her fists and a metal tube object.

7. Tonner called the Northampton Township Police Department who responded to the scene and ultimately, during a second visit to the house, arrested M.M. on a domestic violence charge.

8. Tonner declined to be transported to a hospital.

9. Tonner decided that M.M.'s twelve-year-old daughter would be better suited by staying with a relative. Tonner contacted M.M.'s mother and drove the twelve-year-old to M.M.'s mother in Phillipsburg.

10. Tonner returned to the house at approximately 4:30 a.m., at which point he affixed his CPAP device and went to bed.

11. Tonner had his work issued cellular telephone with him but did not have his personal cellular telephone.

12. During the evening Scott was notified by representatives of the Northampton Township Police Department of the domestic violence incident which occurred at Tonner and M.M.'s residence. Scott attempted to contact Tonner three times by email and four times by telephone call (twice each to his work cellular telephone and to his personal cellular telephone) between the timeframe 7:33 a.m. and 9:31 a.m. on July 2, 2016.

13. Tonner did not respond to the emails or telephone calls.

14. Scott requested that the Northampton Township police conduct a well check at Tonner's house and the police did conduct a well check and informed Tonner to contact his superior, Scott.

15. Tonner contacted Scott at approximately 9:41 and recounted that the evening's events. The issue as to violation of the on-call policy was not discussed.

16. On September 12, 2016, Tonner was served with a PNDA for the charges detailed therein.

17. On August 10, 2016, a disciplinary hearing was held during which the notices of violation measures issued in the PNDA of September 12, 2016, were upheld.

18. A FNDA was issued to Tonner on August 23, 2016.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant's status as a correction's officer subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7)

Neglect of Duty

Neglect of duty has been interpreted to mean that "an employee . . . neglected to perform an act required by his or her job title or was negligent in its discharge." In re Glenn, CSV 5072-07, Initial Decision (February 5, 2009) (citation omitted), adopted, Civil Service Commission (March 27, 2009), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. The term "neglect" means a deviation from the normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). "Duty" means conformance to "the legal standard of reasonable conduct in the light of the apparent risk." Wytupeck v. Camden, 25 N.J. 450, 461 (1957) (citation omitted). Neglect of duty can arise from omitting to perform a required duty as well as from misconduct or misdoing. Cf. State v. Dunphy, 19 N.J. 531, 534 (1955). Neglect of duty does not require an intentional or willful act; however, there must be some evidence that the employee somehow breached a duty owed to the performance of the job.

In the within matter, the record reflects that appellant did not respond to several attempts to reach him by his supervisor, Scott. Scott sent three emails between 7:41 a.m. and 9:31 a.m. He called appellant's personal cellular telephone twice and appellant's work issued cellular telephone twice – all attempts at contact going unanswered. As a senior investigator, appellant was aware of his duties and obligations of being "on call." When appellant turned his work issued cellular telephone to "off" or "vibrate" during a training class, appellant should have returned the telephone to "ring" or taken steps to be aware if the telephone was being used in an attempt to contact him. This behavior from a supervisor clearly could adversely affect a situation at the facility in the event that appellant was needed.

While much of the testimony at the hearing revolved around the domestic violence incident which occurred overnight of July 1, 2016 to July 2, 2016; however, the nexus to the incident is Tonner's turning his state issued cellular device to "off" or "vibrate" during the training session on July 1, 2016, and neglecting to return the device to an "on" or position where it would issue an aural notice of an incoming message or incoming telephone call. This action (or here, inaction) constitutes neglect.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the DOC has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the charge of neglect of duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), should be and hereby is sustained.

Appellant has also been charged with violating HRB 84-17, as amended; "B.1. Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would not result in danger to persons or property"; "D.7. Violation of administrative procedures and/ or regulations involving safety and security"; and "E.1. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision."

Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17

HRB 84-17, as amended, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> The penalty imposed must be within the range of sanctions set forth in this bulletin for the particular type of offense, unless consideration of mitigating or aggravating factors would cause it to be inappropriate. Mitigating or aggravating factors that may be considered are length of service, total employment record and/ or other legitimate circumstances.
>
> In any disciplinary matter, reference must always be made to the collective bargaining agreement covering the disciplined employee, relevant Department of Personnel Rules, appropriate Department bulletins or memoranda, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of New Jersey Department of Corrections, and/or the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations.

B1 Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would not result in danger to persons or property

First, pursuant to HRB 84-17, as amended, the appellant was required to follow the IMPs established. IMP #001 Unit Coverage and Hours of Work policy required that "Investigators shall provide twenty-four-hour coverage via on-call status utilizing an air pager or cellular telephone... Therefore, an Investigator at each institution shall be available as needed twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week throughout the entire year. While on-call, Investigators shall report to the institution if necessary within a reasonable time."

Appellant had been made aware of directives from the Chief Investigator of SID regarding the use of Blackberry devices; specifically the Inter-Office Communication from Chief Manuel Alfonso of November 6, 2014, which states, in part, "[a]ll SID Investigative personnel who are in possession of a Blackberry device must carry the communication device on their person and be able to respond to telephonic and email communications within an immediate timeframe."

I CONCLUDE that appellant violated HRB 84-17, as amended by failing to discharge his duties in accordance with B.1., "B1. Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would not result in danger to persons or property".

D.7. Violation of administrative procedures and/ or regulations involving safety and security

Second, pursuant to HRB 84-17, as amended, the appellant was required to follow the IMPs established. IMP #001 Unit Coverage and Hours of Work policy required that "Investigators shall provide twenty-four-hour coverage via on-call status utilizing an air pager or cellular telephone... Therefore, and Investigator at each institution shall be available as needed twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week throughout the entire year. While on-call, Investigators shall report to the institution if necessary within a reasonable time."

I CONCLUDE that appellant violated HRB 84-17, as amended by failing to discharge his duties in accordance with D.7., "D.7. Administrative procedures and regulations involving safety and security" and IMP #001 and Inter-Office Communication of November 6, 2014.

E.1. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision

Third, appellant failed to return telephone calls and email messages within an "immediate timeframe." Notwithstanding that testimony was given to show that "immediate timeframe" constitutes a period between "immediately", "fifteen minutes" and "as soon as possible", it is irrefutable that a period in excess of two hours is unacceptable. Further the terminus of that period only came at the intervention of police officers conducting a "well check." Pursuant to HRB 84-17, as amended, the appellant was required to follow the IMPs established. IMP #001 Unit Coverage and Hours of Work policy required that "Investigators shall provide twenty-four-hour coverage via on-call status utilizing an air pager or cellular telephone Therefore, and Investigator at each institution shall be available as needed twenty-four hours per day, seven days per week throughout the entire year. While on-call, Investigators shall report to the institution if necessary within a reasonable time."

Appellant did not respond to inquiries made to him within a "reasonable" or "immediate" timeframe. Such is unacceptable in a situation where he is "on call."

I CONCLUDE that appellant violated HRB 84-17, as amended by failing to discharge his duties in accordance with E.1., "E.1. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision" and IMP #001 and Inter-Office Communication of November 6, 2014.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12) Other Sufficient Cause

Finally, appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, appellant's conduct was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

That an incident which violated the directives of IMP-001 is not in question. Having concluded that an incident occurred, I must determine the proper penalty or discipline to be assessed. A system of progressive discipline has evolved in New Jersey to serve the goals of providing employees with job security and protecting them from arbitrary employment decisions. Progressive discipline is considered to be an appropriate analysis for determining the reasonableness of the penalty. See Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-24. The concept of progressive discipline is related to an employee's past record. The use of progressive discipline benefits employees and is strongly encouraged. The core of the concept of progressive discipline is the nature, number and proximity of prior disciplinary infractions should be addressed by progressively increasing penalties. It underscores the philosophy that an appointing authority has a responsibility to encourage the development of an employee's potential.

PENALTY

In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). However, where the charged dereliction is an act which, in view of the duties and obligations of the position, substantially disadvantages the public, good cause exists for removal. See Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 163 N.J. Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978); In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 (2007). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

For his actions arising out of this incident, appellant has been found to have violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12), other sufficient cause, and NJDOC rules, regulations and policies. Appellant was charged with a ten-working-day suspension. This suspension is consistent with the disciplinary process outlined in NJDOC's table of offenses which shows discipline ranging from an "Official Written Reprimand" to "Removal" for the offences violated here (R-16). Within that range a determination as to appropriate discipline must be made.

In this matter, a mitigating factor was present in that petitioner was the subject of a domestic violence incident the evening before. Although the memorandum submitted by appellant's supervisor Scott to Chief Alfonso states, in part:

> SI Tonner stated that he had just woke up when the police department had knocked on his door at approximately 9:35 AM. SI Tonner continued that he did not want to wake my (sic) up in the middle of the night to advise me of the incident and the he was going to contact me upon awakening. SI Tonner stated that he did not hear any of the notifications because he had notification sounds turned off due to him attending the ECDR Training class and had forgotten to turn it back on. It should be noted that ECDR Training concluded at 12:00 PM, July 1, 2016. SI Tonner state he did not turn the notification sounds back on after completing ECDR Training.
> Upon being informed of SI Tonner's explanation, I reminded him that he was "On-Call" and that he needed to make all necessary arrangements to make himself available should be needed.

No testimony at the hearing detailed appellant's desire to spare Scott from being woken up in the middle of the night, so that Tonner could advise Scott of the unique circumstances which had befallen Tonner although information to that effect was contained in Scott's report to Chief Alfonso.

In the present case, there are three instances of prior disciplinary action against appellant. On December 7, 1998, appellant received an official reprimand on a "late for duty" charge. On December 29, 2003, appellant received an official reprimand on for an "emergency comp day" request. On September 15, 2005, appellant was suspended for three working days following charges relating to completion of an assignment.

It should also be noted that appellant's work history also details three commendations. Do the three disciplinary actions and three commendations weigh out? I think not. Testimony was given by Chief Grade which stated that cases regarding "on call" violations shall be reviewed on a "case by case" basis and so I have taken that approach in my review and determination.

After having considered all of the proofs offered in this matter, and the impact upon the institution regarding the action (or inaction) by appellant herein, and after having given due deference to the impact of and the role to be considered by and relative to progressive discipline, I CONCLUDE that appellant's violations are sufficient to warrant a penalty, which, in part, is meant to impress upon him, as well as others, the seriousness of any further infractions by him in that regard.

Here, the respondent is seeking the imposition of a ten-day working suspension. A review of appellant's disciplinary history informs that this would be a fourth infraction to the date of the incident – although not on this specific charge. In consideration of the foregoing, along with appellant's disciplinary records, a ten-day suspension appears to be a reasonable penalty consistent with progressive discipline. Appellant's arguments that he is being penalized when others have not for the committing the same offense, or that leeway should be given considering the domestic violence event, are unpersuasive. Although this incident progressed over a several-hour period, appellant had the presence of mind to clean up his house after the "first" encounter, call the police after the "second" encounter, and then call M.M.'s mother and drive M.M.'s daughter to her grandmother's house. Appellant at any point could have called his supervisor to request relief from his duty due to the events which occurred - but he did not.

A ten-day penalty serves to impress the importance of the seriousness of these infractions and significance of the duties required of the appellant, and others, in the position of Senior Investigator and while "on call" and given the conduct exhibited here and the circumstances surrounding this event, I CONCLUDE that the imposition of a ten working day suspension is consistent with the range of penalties specified in NJDOC's table of offenses and is AFFIRMED.

ORDER

I ORDER that the respondent has met its burden of proof as to the charges of violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12), other sufficient cause; and HRB 84-17, as amended, B.1. Neglect of duty, loafing, idleness or willful failure to devote attention to tasks which would not result in danger to persons or property; HRB 84-17, as amended, D.7. Violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security; HRB 84-17, as amended, E.1. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision and that these charges be and are hereby sustained.

I ORDER that the action of the appointing authority in imposing a ten-working day suspension on appellant shall be AFFIRMED.

I FURTHER ORDER that petitioner's request for payment of interest, attorney's fees, costs and additional relief is DENIED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ISSUED: SEPTEMBER 7, 2018 BW

The appeal of Eric Warren, County Correction Officer, Burlington County Jail, removal effective October 16, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Joseph A. Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of September 5, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Eric Warren.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
DKT. NO. CSR 07100-18 (ON Remand CSR 16796-17)
AGENCY REF. NO. 2018-1234

IN THE MATTER OF ERIC WARREN, BURLINGTON COUNTY JAIL.

Daniel M. Rosenberg, Esq., for appellant Eric Warren (Daniel M. Rosenberg & Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Andrew C. Rimol, Esq., for respondent Burlington County Jail (Capehart Scatchard, P.A., attorneys)

Record Closed: June 8, 2018 Decided: July 23, 2018

BEFORE JOSEPH A. ASCIONE, ALJ:

Eric Warren (appellant) appeals from the decision of the Burlington County Jail (BCJ) to remove him from his position as a correction officer at the BCJ on charges of violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), (3), (6), (7), and (12), incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties, inability to perform duties, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, relating to the failure to conduct ten required general security checks during his shift commencing at 18:00 hours on July 2, 2017, and terminating at 06:00 hours on July 3, 2017, and the improper entry in the logbook of ten security tours during that shift. Additional charges include violation of Policy & Procedure Manual Sections 1007, 1023, 1030, 1031, 1038, 1065, 1066, 1172, 1190, and 1250. Appellant does not deny the charges. Appellant asserts that removal is not the appropriate sanction.

On September 7, 2017, a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action was filed seeking appellant's removal. The appellant requested a departmental hearing, which was held on September 21, 2017. On October 19, 2017, a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued, sustaining the disciplinary charges and removing appellant from his position with the BCJ effective October 16, 2017. Appellant appealed that removal action under cover letter dated October 31, 2017. The matter was filed simultaneously with the Civil Service Commission and the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), under the expedited procedures of P.L. 2009, c. 16, N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202(d), where it was stamped received on November 2, 2017, for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On November 30, 2017, the matter was assigned to me. On December 6, 2017, I convened a telephonic case-management conference to discuss discovery requirements and schedule the evidentiary hearing. The hearing was scheduled for January 26 and January 31, 2018. Appellant requested an adjournment of the January 26, 2018, hearing date. On January 31, 2018, the hearing was held. At the hearing, appellant waived his right to reinstitute pay under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201 et seq., until April 2, 2018. A separate Order regarding salary is being issued simultaneously with this Initial Decision. At the close of the plenary hearing, counsel for both sides presented written closing statements and briefs. The record closed on January 31, 2018 and an initial Decision was rendered on July 23, 2018.

On May 4, 2018, the Civil Service Commission remanded the matter to the OAL, for the entry into the record of the appellant's disciplinary record. After receipt of the appellant's disciplinary record, the record in this matter closed on June 8, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Administrative Captain Matthew Leith was precluded by the tribunal from testifying at the initial hearing regarding the prior disciplinary matters. The parties at the initial hearing represented to the tribunal that the prior disciplinary matters were not significantly related to the violations charged, and the prior disciplinary record was not sought to be introduced under seal pending the ALJ's determination of the violations and penalty. It is the ALJ's practice to avoid the appearance of improperly considering the prior disciplinary matters to determine the violations, and only consider them after the violations have been found and the penalty imposed.

As the order of remand requested the prior disciplinary history for completeness. The ALJ requested the prior disciplinary history from the respondent. Appellant made no objection to accepting the history as an exhibit and the ALJ accepted it into evidence on June 8, 2018, as J-13. No additional hearing was schedule to allow the respondent to address that history. Appellant reserved the right to file additional exceptions to the ID on Remand, which is granted.

Based upon the submission of the respondent of the prior disciplinary history without objection, I FIND AS FACT that J-13 is the prior disciplinary history of the appellant.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The introduction of the prior disciplinary history, does not alter the initial decision issued in this matter. The previous analysis and conclusions of law are incorporated herein by reference.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action against appellant Eric Warren is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Eric Warren, Burlington County

CSC Docket No. 2018-1234
OAL Docket No. CSR 16796-17

ISSUED: May 4, 2018 (SLD)

The appeal of Eric Warren, a County Correction Officer with Burlington County, of his removal effective October 16, 2017, on charges, was before Administrative Law Judge Joseph A. Ascione (ALJ), who rendered his initial decision on February 28, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to the exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the attached ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on April 18, 2018 ordered that this matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

DISCUSSION

The appointing authority presented the appellant with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated October 19, 2017 which charged him with incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties: inability to perform duties; neglect of duty; conduct unbecoming a public employee; and other sufficient cause and removed him from employment, effective October 16, 2017. Specifically, the appointing authority asserted that on July 2 and 3, 2017, the appellant neglected to conduct required security tours. It also asserted that the appellant had entered false and misleading entries into the official logbook by documenting 10 security tours that he did not actually conduct. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the OAL for a hearing as contested case.

In his initial decision, the ALJ found that the appellant did not dispute that he violated departmental policies. The ALJ noted that although the appellant did not testify, one witness confirmed that a County Correction Sergeant "may have acted similarly" in misreporting security checks, but had not been disciplined. Specifically, the appointing authority indicated that it was too late to discipline that County Correction Sergeant, but that six individuals, including the appellant, had been identified as having committed similar violations. The appointing authority further noted that none of the six identified employees were currently employed by the appointing authority. As the appellant essentially admitted to the infractions, the ALJ upheld the charges.

With regard to the issue of the penalty, the ALJ noted that the appellant's disciplinary history was not made part of the record, as "such history reflected attendance or lateness issues, which would be of slight values to either positively or negatively affect the determination of the issue of penalty" in the instant matter. The ALJ found that the appellant had failed to establish that the charges against him were the result of disparate treatment, as the exercise of some selectivity in enforcement is not an issue unless it was based on an improper reason. The ALJ found that the appellant's failure to perform security checks and his falsification of records was egregious misconduct and warranted removal.

In his exceptions, the appellant argues that the Supreme Court and Appellate Court's decisions in In the Matter of John E. Warren and Gerald Sowa, 117 N.J. 295 (1989), In the Matter of Nolan Cox, Docket No. A-2471-14T4 (App. Div. Dec. 7, 2016) and In the Matter of Ramona Carter, Docket No. A-3105-14T4 (App. Div. March 7, 2017) establish that the removal is an excessive penalty for the charges alleged. In this regard, he maintains that although his conduct was negligent, it did not warrant removal.

In its reply to the exceptions, the appointing authority argues that the appellant's actions were particularly egregious as he knew he was required to perform a security check every 30 minutes, he failed to perform 10 of those required checks and that 10 of his 15 logbook entries corresponding to the security checks were knowingly false. Moreover, it argues that the decisions cited by the appellant do not support his assertion that removal is not an appropriate penalty. Furthermore, it notes that the appellant was a sworn law enforcement officer that knowingly and willfully made false entries into an official logbook to cover up his misconduct in not completing the required security tours.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ's findings to uphold the charges. However, with regard to the issue of the penalty, the Commission finds it necessary to remand this matter to the OAL. In this regard, the Commission notes that although the ALJ references a disciplinary history, he decided not to admit that history into the record. However, the Commission notes that even when there is no dispute as to the charges, and an ALJ has determined that the claimed behavior was egregious, the disciplinary history must be admitted into the record to allow the Commission to have a complete record so that it may make its decision. In this regard, it cannot be assumed that the Commission, which has de novo review of both the underlying charges and the penalty imposed, will automatically agree with an ALJ's conclusions as to the severity of the misconduct or the penalty determination. Thus, an appellant's prior disciplinary history may provide the Commission with a more complete record for it to determine the appropriate penalty. Further, while the ALJ noted that the appellant's prior disciplinary history was apparently for dissimilar conduct, that, in and of itself, does not mean that such a history cannot be considered in determining the proper penalty.[1] The Commission notes that the inclusion of an appellant's disciplinary history is essential, even in matters where the Commission ultimately agrees with an ALJ's assessment of the severity of the misconduct or determines that the alleged misconduct is so egregious that the penalty imposed is appropriate even without regard for that history. This is the case, since, if the Commission does not agree, it is left without a critical piece of information in the record which will hamper its ability to impose a proper penalty. Moreover, notwithstanding the appellant's admission of the conduct, one witness did give testimony. However, the ALJ failed to summarize that witness' testimony. Therefore, the Commission remands the matter to the OAL so that the appellant's disciplinary record may be entered into the record, the witness' testimony may be summarized and a new initial decision may be issued.

ORDER

The Commission orders that this matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings as set forth above.

[1] Of course, the Commission agrees with the ALJ that any disciplinary history may be ignored when the misconduct is of such an egregious nature that removal may be imposed regardless of an employee's history. However, it does not agree that the history should, therefore, not be included as part of the underlying record.

N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202d. A first hearing was held before the Honorable Bruce M. Gorman, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) under OAL Docket Number CSR 08054-12 and five hearing days were consumed with testimony. On May 21, 2014, an Amended FNDA was executed by then Vineland City Mayor Ruben Bermudez providing for dismissal of all charges against the appellant. On June 4, 2014, appellant withdrew the appeal and Judge Gorman entered an initial decision permitting the withdrawal pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19. By Judge Gorman's Order, the file was returned to the CSC. On July 11, 2014, appellant filed a Complaint in Superior Court seeking to enforce the Appointing Authority's dismissal of the charges pursuant to the May 21, 2014, Amended FNDA. On September 30, 2014, Vineland City Council filed a Complaint in Superior Court against Mayor Bermudez and appellant seeking the Court's declaration that the Mayor's dismissal of the charges was ultra vires. On August 28, 2015, the Superior Court entered an Order dismissing both lawsuits without prejudice and retaining jurisdiction to all and permitted the appellant to reopen his de novo appeal before the OAL. The CSC remanded the matter to the OAL where it was filed on November 4, 2015. Transcripts of the five hearing dates conducted before Judge Gorman were submitted to the undersigned and considered so that the testimony would not have to be reproduced. Due to a defect in the transcript of the previous testimony of the City's witness, Special Agent Ronald Cuff of the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office, Mr. Cuff's testimony was taken a second time before the undersigned. Additioanl hearings were conducted in this matter on March 5, 2018, March 6, 2018, and April 11, 2018. The parties filed post hearing briefs with the court and the record closed on July 6, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Appellant was employed as a Police Officer for approximately sixteen years. As of August 3, 2010, appellant was assigned to the Detective Division of the Vineland Police Department (VPD). He had previously worked on numerous drug related investigations utilizing information provided by a particular confidential informant named "Ryan Howard", a pseudonym ordered by the court for confidential reference in this case. Mr. Howard had communicated frequently with appellant by cell phone as well as in-person meetings, as needed. A "confidential informant" is aspecific classification of informant in a range that basically includes entirely anonymous "tipsters" who are, in fact, unknown, in any respect, to law enforcement; "tipsters" who identify themselves but otherwise have no relationship to law enforcement; and confidential informants who have a formal relationship with law enforcement by way of established use and experience, and may, as in the case of Ryan Howard, have been formally registered with an agency, such as the VPD. Mr. Howard was also a confidential informant for the U.S. Division of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms (ATF). On August 3, 2010, appellant engaged in numerous phone contacts with Ryan Howard. Appellant denies knowing to whom he was speaking during any of those contacts.

As of August 3, 2010, Mr. Howard had been working with appellant as a confidential informant for the preceding six years and had almost daily phone contact with him. Howard, as of that date, had been using a cell phone, registered in the name of his mother, to communicate with appellant. That cell phone's number was (856) 776-XXXX. Appellant used a VPD issued cell, with phone number (856) 297-XXXX. On August 3, 2010, Howard called appellant on three occasions in the afternoon. The first two calls were listed on the call detail for the CI's mother's phone (R-21 for 08/03/10), at 1:22 and 2:48 PM for one minute each. The third was at 3:27 PM for three minutes. That night at 8:54 PM, Ryan Howard called appellant's cell phone, and the call was listed as a two minute call. It was followed by a return call , listed as "Incoming Call, from appellant's phone at 8:57 PM for one minute and at 9:01 PM listed as a two minute call. At 9:10 PM, appellant called Howard, the call was listed as a two minute call and at 10:08 PM, appellant called Howard, and call was listed as a two minute call. At 10:17 PM Howard called appellant for four minutes and then for the last time on August 3, at 10:38 PM for three minutes. There were ten calls all together; six from Howard to appellant and four from appellant to Howard. Appellant, nevertheless, maintains that he did not know to whom he was speaking. In addition to being a long time confidential informant for appellant, he describes Howard as being a "testifying informant", and that he is someone who has been especially useful to him and law enforcement.

During the evening of August 3, 2010, at approximately 9:00 PM, Ryan Howard was visited at his home by three men in a Cadillac with Pennsylvania tags whom he understood to be members of a criminal gang. He observed that they were armed, in possession of drugs and planning a home invasion of a Vineland resident named H.L. Howard, using his mother's cell phone, called appellant on his department issued cell phone.

Ryan Howard was interviewed, under oath, by the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Agent Ron Cuff, on November 1, 2010, in connection with a criminal investigation into false swearing charges against appellant. He stated to Agent Cuff that the gang members called him on his cell phone to say that they were in Vineland to "... run in H.L.'s house" (Transcript of Hearing on February 18, 2014; 29/14-24.); i.e. to do a home invasion. They wanted Ryan Howard "to drive them out there." (Transcript of February 18, 2014; 30/14-24.) When asked by Agent Cuff what he told appellant on that date, Howard related that when the three gang members left his house"...I called Gami and I said... 'Yo, these guys from Philly they're down here to turn over H.L.'s house,' and he said ' Where are they at?' And I gave him the description of the car." Cruz responded "All right. I'm going to go out now and see if I can find the car." Cruz later "... ended up finding the car... and ... wanted a little more than I was telling him." At that point, Howard gave more details concerning their descriptions, that the "fat guy" has a gun, where the gun was in the car, who was driving, who was in the back, who was the passenger, that one of them rolled a joint or a "dutch", that they were "very particular" about going over to H.L.'s house, and that one of them, named "Dink", was a high ranking member in the Crips gang. At that point Howard stated to Cuff, in reference to what Howard had been telling appellant: "I told him [Cruz] about that dude Dink is supposed to be a high ranking man in the Crips and I said whatever he [Cruz] does don't blow my cover and he said 'No, no, no, I ain't going to blow your cover.' Howard further stated that "I talk to him [Cruz] like every day...whenever he's working" and acknowledged being a confidential source for Cruz for three years. (Transcript of Hearing on February 18, 2014; 39, 40/1-25) According to affidavits given by both appellant's supervisor, Sergeant Paul Shadinger (Sgt. Shadinger) (R-33) and one of his co-officers, Gary Mollik (R-34), appellant reported to them, after taking the call, the nature of the call and specifically identified Ryan Howard as the caller and source of the information.

Upon informing Sgt. Shadinger of the call from Mr. Howard, appellant was advised by Sgt. Shadinger to issue a BOLO (Be on the look-out). Shortly afterwards, Officer Wallace reported seeing the subject Cadillac on Park Avenue and intercepted it at the driveway of XXX West Park Avenue. At that time, appellant pulled into the driveway of the adjacent property and made observations. Marijuana and handcuffs were found in the possession of two of the subjects, marijuana and latex gloves were observed in plain view, and the subjects were arrested, handcuffed and transported to VPD headquarters. Their vehicle was towed to headquarters where appellant made arrangements to make a telephonic search warrant application.

Appellant first contacted the on-call Assistant Prosecutor (AP), John Jesperson, for permission to make an application to a judge. He did not advise AP Jesperson that he knew his informant or request any advice concerning the nature of his earlier contact with the informant. Upon making phone contact with Superior Court Judge Walter Marshall, and being placed under oath, appellant, in commencing his recitation of probable cause, stated "...I got a phone call from an anonymous subject...". Judge Marshall shortly after, during appellant's account, asked specifically "Alright uhh, the subject you said was anonymous, you did not know this person?" Appellant responded "Correct. Correct." (R-6.)

Appellant denies he definitively knew during any of the multiple calls of August 3, 2010, that he was speaking to Ryan Howard. He states he only thought it was Howard. It was not until the next day, August 4, 2010, in a follow-up call from Howard, that he claims he realized definitively it was Howard. Appellant executed a confirmatory affidavit (R-27e) for review and approval by the warrant judge and AP Jesperson after he made this realization. That affidavit referenced to appellant's source as "a subject who wished to remain anonymous." He also executed a Search Warrant Approval Form (R-16), with box number twelve (12) marked "NO" to the question whether the investigation involved a confidential informant or source. He also prepared a police report (R-27c) stating that his source was a "subject who wished to remain anonymous." Upon realizing that the caller was Ryan Howard, appellant did not correct the record or prepare a supplemental police report to reflect that his source was a known confidential informant.

AP David Branco, prepared an Inter-Office Correspondence of October 18, 2010, to Cumberland County Prosecutor, Jennifer Webb McRae (R-13) while in the midst of preparing a Pre-Indictment Referral Report Form (PIRRF) in connection with the charges against the suspects arrested on August 3, 2010. AP Branco had read a memorandum, dated August 24, 2010, (R- 29) prepared by AP Katie Wilson. It stated at the outset "This is a brand new case. Vineland Police (Gami Cruz) received info from an individual who wished to remain anonymous (possibly someone who knows Gami?)..." Ms. Wilson concluded her memo, noting "Also, we need to find out...whether caller is truly anonymous or known to Detective Cruz." In his interview with Special Agent Cuff, AP Branco explained the significance of the phrase "subject who wishes to remain anonymous" to someone in law enforcement:

> "When [Cruz] stated in his police report that he received a tip from a caller who wished to remain anonymous, that choice of words to me means something very different than I got an anonymous tip. (J-1 and P-5, p.8.)

Before completing his PIRFF, AP Branco spoke to appellant while he happened to be in the Prosecutor's Office. At the outset of that conversation, Branco asked appellant if he had known the "tipster" and he admitted that he knew the tipster and admitted that he had intentionally "... worded his affidavit as described herein to protect the identity of the caller."(R-13 p.2) Thus, Branco's assessment of the phrase "a person who wished to remain anonymous" was what appellant had used it to shield the identity of and protect his confidential informant.

Branco explained his concerns with the statement made by the appellant:

> "I also explained to him that this would have to be brought to the attention of the court as well as in the discoverable material to the defense attorney, should the case move forward. He understood the gravity of my concerns with the procedures that he had utilized. He also asked what else he could have done to protect the identity of the informant so as not to have fatal consequences visited upon him and still maintain the integrity of the case. Without getting into the specifics with him, I told him that there was a legal process that we may have been able to use. However, that option may now be closed to us because Sr. Trial Attorney John Jesperson, who had received the advice call on this search warrant, was unaware of the informant category. As such, he could not explore other options with the detective. I was very open to Det. Cruz and told him he was going to have to take his lumps on this when it came to court." (R-13, p.2.)

The County opened a criminal investigation on October 26, 2010. Special Agent Cuff interviewed AP David Branco on October 27, 2010. On Novemebr 1, 2010, Agent Cuff also interviewed appellant's confidential informant, Ryan Howard, who acknowledged his long history with appellant and the information he had given to him. Among other things, he stated that he told appellant "Don't blow my cover." He did not interview appellant since his investigation was criminal in nature and not a disciplinary proceeding.

The County Prosecutor, on November 8, sent a letter to VPD Chief Codispoti (R-23) advising that the Prosecutor was declining prosecution of appellant for false swearing and any related charges arising out of the events of August 3, 2010. The letter specifically noted there was ". . . more than sufficient evidence to support criminal charges" but noted ". . . obtaining a conviction at trial could have catastrophic effect on the safety of other persons." The letter further stated "... this Office shall be required from this date forward to disclose Detective Cruz's integrity issue to the defense in all future criminal prosecutions. So please consider this when taking administrative action." (R-23, p.1.)

Upon receipt of the Prosecutor's declination letter, the City of Vineland Internall Affairs (IA) unit, headed by Leutenant Lene Bowers (Lt. Bowers) and Sergeant Andrew Catti (Sgt. Catti), re-opened its investigation of appellant's conduct. The City conducted an interview of appellant on November 12, 2010. During the interview, (see Interview Transcript as recorded during testimony of Sgt. Catti, Transcript of Hearing on April 23, 2014; 109-123) appellant acknowledges that he knew the caller was Ryan Howard when he took the call, even though Mr. Howard did not state his name:

> "DETECTIVE CRUZ: I got a call stating that there were three subjects in a red car with Pennsylvania tags... We towed the car back to the station and I just called in for a telephonic wanant based on that.
> SERGEANT CATTI: You did.
>
> DETECTNE CRUZ: I did. I did it myself, correct.
>
> SERGEANT CATTI: Okay. The information you received concerning this it was a confidential informant.
>
> DETECTNE CRUZ: Yes.
>
> SERGEANT CATTI: That you have dealt with in the past.
>
> DETECTIVE CRUZ: Yes.

SERGEANT CATTI: Okay. And you know his name, correct.

DETECTIVE CRUZ: Well, I know his name, correct.

SERGEANT CATTI: Okay. And then you went for the telephonic search warrant?

DETECTIVE CRUZ: Yes

(Transcript of Hearing on April 23, 2014; 112-13.)

Appellant then explains his reasons for stating the nature of his caller to the judge: "I went for the search warrant and my big-my big thing was when I was talking to the Judge even prior to even calling him up and so forth was protecting this informant, that was my main concern was protecting the informant." (Transcript of Hearing on April 23, 2014; 113/13-18) Appellant recalled the judge stated " 'You do not know who the subject was' or something like that and I said "Correct, correct,' and I went along with that." (Transcript of Hearing on April 23, 2014; 115/1-5) Appellant went on to note that although "obviously the guy never gave me his name but, you know, I had-you know, I dealt with him and I'm-... you know, familiar.." (Transcript of Hearing on April 23, 2014; 115/1-13) appellant stated in his IA interview that he had never been asked by a Superior Court Judge for a confidential informant's name, so it " ... caught me off guard."

Upon conclusion of the interview of appellant on November 12, 2010, a PNDA, dated November 12, 2010, and executed by Chief Tim Codispoti, was served on appellant, charging, among other things, violations of truthfulness standards and conduct unbecoming a public employee, and seeking a ninety-day suspension. While a hearing on the November 12, 2010, charges was pending, by letter, dated March 11, 2011, the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office, through First AP, Harold Shapiro (see R-27i) advised Chief Codispoti that appellant's false testimony had led the Prosecutor's Office, as of March 8, 2011, to dismiss with prejudice eleven cases, involving twenty defendants. In thirteen instances, first or second degree charges had been dismissed, mostly involving appellant as the affiant on the respective search warrant applications. Following receipt of the March 11, 2011, letter from the Prosecutor, the City prepared a new PNDA (R-27j), dated March 11, 2011, and served it on appellant on March 14, 2011. It stated additional charges related to the impact of the Prosecutor's decision to not proffer future testimony of appellant and sought removal of appellant.

During his testimony before this tribunal, appellant explained that on August 3, 2010, he was a Dectective of Narcotics with VPD. Ryan Howard had been a Confidential Informant with whom he had worked with for six years prior and spoke to him approximately three or four times each week. Ryan Howard called appellant on his VPD issued cell phone from a number he did not recognize. Appellant spoke to him three times on August 3, 2010, but asserts that he did not recognize his voice. Ryan Howard asked him not to "blow his cover" and appellant knew that Ryan Howard was one of just a few informants that would give him this type of information. Appellant ran the situation by one of his supervisors, Sgt. Shadinger and appellant told him he thought it might be Ryan Howard. Sgt. Shadinger stated he was informed by appellant that he had received a call, the evening of August 3, 2010, from his confidential informant, "Ryan Howard." He recalled that appellant "... specifically identified "Mr. Howard" by name. Ryan Howard had never wished to remain anonymous in any of appellant's prior dealings with him. Appellant could not tell Judge Marshall that he had a hunch about the identity of the caller but did not discuss his "hunch" with AP Jesperson when discussing the possibility of calling for a telephonic search warrant.

At the time he spoke to Judge Marshall, appellant's main concern was protecting the identity of his informant. He had no ill intent. Judge Marshall caught him off guard when he asked him if he knew the identity of the caller so he went along with the Judge and followed his questions. On cross-examination, Cruz stated that he felt he had a duty to the identity of Ryan Howard and that was his intent when he spoke to Judge Marshall on August 3, 2010.

In view of the contradictory testimony and evidence presented by appellant and the respondent witnesses, the resolution of the charges against appellant requires that I make a credibility determination with regard to the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experiences and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witnesses' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718,749 (1963). A fact finder is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514. 521-22 (1950). See D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to carefully observe the demeanor of the witnesses and compairing the transcripts of the testimony of all of the witnesses in this proceeding, I deem appellant's testimony, that he did not know the identity Ryan Howard when he called Judge Marshall for the telephonic search warrant, is not credible. Appellant testified that he had spoken to Ryan Howard approximately three to four times each week for the previous six years. He also testified that his main concern was to protect the identity of his informant. This contradicted his testimony that he did not know the identity of the individual that gave the tip. During his IA interview appellant stated that he had never been asked by a Superior Court Judge for a confidential informant's name in any other telephonic search warrant applications, so it " ... caught me off guard." If appellant did not know the identity of the caller, he would not have been caught off guard. Accordingly, I FIND as FACT that appellant knew that the individidual with whom he was speaking, on August 3, 2010, was his confidential informant, Ryan Howard. I also FIND as FACT that he knew Ryan Howard's identity prior to speaking to Judge Marshall during his application for a telephonic search warrant.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After carefully reviewing the exhibits and documentary evidence presented and after having had the opportunity to listen to testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following to be the additional relevant and credible FACTS in this matter: As of August 3, 2010, appellant had been employed by VPD for approximately sixteen years. On August 3, 2010, appellant received a call from his confidential informant advising that he had been visited at his home by three men in a Cadillac with Pennsylvania tags whom he understood to be members of a criminal gang. He observed that they were armed, in possession of drugs and planning a home invasion of a Vineland resident named H.L. As a result of this information, three individuals fitting the description given where arrested. Appellant contacted Superior Court Judge Marshall to obtain a telephonic search warrant of the Cadillac. Appellant did not inform Judge Marshall that he knew the identity of the informant. By letter, dated March 11, 2011, the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office advised Chief Codispoti that appellants's false testimony had led the Prosecutor's Office, as of March 8, 2011, to dismiss with prejudice eleven cases, involving twenty defendants. In thirteen instances, first or second degree charges had been dismissed, mostly involving appellant as the affiant on the respective search warrant applications. Following the receipt of the March 11, 2011, letter from the Prosecutor, the City prepared an amended PNDA dated March 11, 2011, and served it on appellant on March 14, 2011. It stated additional charges related to the impact of the Prosecutor's decision to not proffer future testimony of appellant and sought removal of appellant.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Under the Civil Service Act, a public employee may be subject to major discipline for various employment-related offenses, N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6. In an appeal from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof to show that the action taken was appropriate. N.J.S.A. 11A:-2.21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The authority must show by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal, based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Respondent has sustained charges of violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)1— Incompetency, Inefficiency, or Failure to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6— Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)3— Inability to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)11— Other Sufficient Cause; VPD Rules & Regulations 4:1.4, Abide by all Rules, Regulations and Departmental Procedures; 4:1.7, Officers Will Conduct Themselves in Accordance with high Ethical Standards; 4:9.2, Performance of Duty; 5:5.6, Truthfulness While Under Oath; 5:5.1, Duty of Employee to Appear and Testify.

Appellant argues that the charges against him should be dismissed because he did not know the identity of the caller and therefore was not untruthfull.

Under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), an employee may be subjected to major discipline for "incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties." Absence of judgment alone can be sufficient to warrant termination if the employee is in a sensitive position that requires public trust in the agency's judgment. See, In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 32 (2007) (DYFS worker who waved a lit cigarette lighter in a five-year-old's face was terminated, despite lack of any prior discipline).

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). (Note: Gaines had a substantial prior disciplinary history, but the case is frequently quoted as a threshold statement of civil service law.)

"In addition, there is no right or reason for a government to continue employing an incompetent and inefficient individual after a showing of inability to change." Klusaritz v. Cape May County, 387 N.J. Super. 305, 317 (App. Div. 2006) (termination was the proper remedy for a County treasurer who could not balance the books, after the auditors tried three times to show him how.)

> In reversing the MSB's insistence on progressive discipline, contrary to the wishes of the appointing authority, the Klusaritz panel stated that "[t]he [MSB's] application of progressive discipline in this context is misplaced and contrary to the public interest." The court determined that Klusaritz's prior record is "'of no moment" because his lack of competence to perform the job rendered him unsuitable for the job and subject to termination by the county.

[In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 at 35-36.]

There is no definition in the administrative code of the term "inefficiency," and therefore, it has been left to interpretation.

In general, incompetence, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties exists where the employee's conduct demonstrates an unwillingness or inability to meet, obtain or produce effects or results necessary for adequate performance. Clark v. New Jersey Dep't of Agric., 1 N.J.A.R. 315 (1980).

The fundamental concept that one should be able to perform the duties of the position is stated in Briggs v. Department of Civil Service, 64 N.J. Super. 351, 356 (App. Div. 1960), which happens to be a probationary period case involving a nurse:

> Manifestly, the purpose of the probationary period is to further test a probationer's qualifications. Neither the Legislature nor the Commission has given the courts any guidance in determining the extent of assistance or orientation which a probationer must receive. Undoubtedly her duties must be explained to her and she must be given reasonable opportunity to perform the duties expected of her. But this does not mean she is entitled to on-the-job training in the manner of performing her duties. This is what > she must be qualified for—the proper performance of her duties as outlined by the appointing authority.

In the present matter, the record reflects that appellant failed to perform several of his duties specifically involving how to respond to questions of a Superior Court Judge during a telephonic search warrant and by not disclosing his "hunch" as to the identity of the anonymous called to AP Jasperson. He clearly demonstrated an absence of judgment in a sensitive position requiring public trust in the agency's judgment. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the charges of a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1) (incompetence, inefficiency, failure to perform duties) must be and is hereby SUSTAINED.

Respondent also sustained charges against appellant for conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). To the extent that appellant is charged with violation of VPD Rules and Regulations 4:1.7, which addresse an Officers Conduct, consideration of such violation will be addressed in concert with the current analysis.

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that "adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also, In re Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. at 555 [quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)]. Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) [quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)]. Suspension or removal may be justified where the misconduct occurred while the employee was off duty. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136 at 140.

In the present matter, the record reflects that appellant failed to perform duties required of him in his handling of the call to Judge Marshall for a telephonic search warrant. Appellant knew the identity of the caller and failed to advise the Judge of this fact when asked. Even though appellant's intent was to protect the identity of his informant and was not done with ill intent, his untruthfulness creates issues whereby he cannot testify in any criminal court without a prosecutorial disclosure of his "Brady Issue," thereby, reducing his ability to serve as a police officer. This clearly constitutes behavior which could not only adversely affect the morale of the facility and undermine public respect in the services provided. The refusal of the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office to call appellant as a witness in any criminal trial serves to eleiminate appellant's ability to perform central functions of his job; namely making arrests and testifying in court. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has proven, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the charges of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6 (conduct unbecoming a public employee), and VPD Rules and Regulations 4:1.7, as well as Inability to Perform Duties, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)3, and VPD Rules and Regulations 5:5.1 should be and are hereby SUSTAINED.

Appellant has also been charged with a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) (other sufficient cause). Specifically, appellant is charged with violations of VPD Rules & Regulations 4:1.4, Abide by all Rules, Regulations and Departmental Procedures; 4:1.7, Officers Will Conduct Themselvese in Accordance with high Ethical Standards; 4:9.2, Performance of Duty; 5:5.6, Truthfulness While Under Oath; 5:5.1, Duty of Employee to Appear and Testify. PENALTY

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), which was decided more than fifty years ago, our Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations and the like on the one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously brought to the attention of and admitted by the employee." West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-24.

As the Supreme Court explained in In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30, "[s]ince Bock, the concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways when determining the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." According to the Court:

> . . . First, principles of progressive discipline can support the imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct . . .
>
> The second use to which the principle of progressive discipline has been put is to mitigate the penalty for a current offense . . . for an employee who has a substantial record of employment that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions . . .
> . . . [T]hat is not to say that incremental discipline is a principle that must be applied in every disciplinary setting. To the contrary, judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when . . . the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.

In the case of In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474 (2007), the Court decided that the principle of progressive discipline did not apply to the sanction of a police officer for sleeping on duty and, notwithstanding his unblemished record, it reversed the lower court and reinstated a removal imposed by the Board. The Court noted the factor of public-safety concerns in matters involving the discipline of correction officers and police officers, who must uphold the law and "present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." In re Carter, 191 N.J. at 486.

In the matter of In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182 (2011), a Camden County pump-station operator was charged with falsifying records and abusing work hours, and the ALJ imposed removal. The CSC modified the penalty to a four-month suspension and the appellate court reversed. The Court re-examined the principle of progressive discipline. Acknowledging that progressive discipline has been bypassed where the conduct is sufficiently egregious, the Court noted that "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses." In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, at 193. Finding that the totality of an employee's work history, with emphasis on the "reasonably recent past," should be considered to assure proper progressive discipline, the Court modified and affirmed (as modified) the lower court and remanded the matter to the CSC for reconsideration.

To determine whether a lesser penalty than the respondent's termination of appellant is appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline is generally examined. Our courts uniformly have upheld the concept in a long line of cases, beginning with West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523 (1962): (an employee's past record of both discipline and commendations can be considered). See also In re Hermann, 192 N.J. 19, 21 (2007). However, the judiciary also agrees that progressive punishment can be waived when the offense involved is sufficiently egregious. In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 196-197 (2011). However, the Court in Hermann also declared that progressive discipline can be used to mitigate the penalty where there is a substantial record of employment that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions. In re Hermann, 192 N.J. at 32-33.

I am satisfied that appellant's conduct in this case was egregious such that progressive discipline need not be considered. The public who is served, and other employees, deserve to be able to expect that police officers are able to make arrests that will lead to convictions of those deserving such punishment. Appellant's inability to testify in a criminal court proceeding within Cumberland County eliminates his efectivness to serve the public as a Police Officer within the respondent. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent's action in removing the appellant from his position was justified.

DECISION AND ORDER

The appointing authority has proven by a preponderance of credible evidence the charges against appellant with violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1) Incompetency, Inefficiency; Failure to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) Conduct Unbecoming; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3) Inability to Perform Duties; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause, and I ORDER that these charges be and are hereby SUSTAINED. Furthermore, I ORDER that the penalty of removal is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

ISSUED: SEPTEMBER 21, 2018 BW

The appeal of Melissa Johnson, County Correction Officer, Passaic County Sheriff's Department, removal effective February 29, 2016, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Ellen S. Bass, who rendered her initial decision on June 1, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on September 20, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining the appellant was justified. However, the Commission modifies the removal to a resignation in good standing.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

MELISSA JOHNSON, Petitioner, v. MORRIS COUNTY PUBLIC SAFETY TRAINING ACADEMY, Respondent.	OAL DKT. NO. PTC 03938-16
IN THE MATTER OF MELISSA JOHNSON, PASSAIC COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT.	OAL DKT. NO. CSV 16886-16 AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-1323

Jeffrey S. Ziegelheim, Esq., for petitioner/appellant Melissa Johnson (Alterman and Associates, attorneys)

Robert Greenbaum, Esq., for respondent Morris County Public Safety Training Academy

Jose Santiago, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Passaic County Sheriff's Department (William J. Pascrell III, County Counsel, attorney)

Record Closed: May 2, 2018 Decided: June 1, 2018

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this consolidated proceeding, petitioner/appellant Melissa Johnson appeals both her dismissal from the Morris County Public Safety Training Academy (the Academy) and her removal from employment with the Passaic County Sheriff's Department (Passaic), for inability to perform her duties. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 29, 2016, the Academy dismissed Johnson for failing to fully participate in and complete more than 20 percent of the required physical-training sessions. On October 11, 2016, Passaic issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) removing Johnson as a correction officer effective February 29, 2016, citing her probationary status and her failure to complete the required Academy course.

Johnson appealed to the Police Training Commission (PTC) by letter dated March 3, 2016, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 11, 2016. She appealed Passaic's decision via letter dated October 18, 2016, and the Civil Service Commission transmitted her appeal to the OAL on November 4, 2016. An order consolidating the two appeals was entered on December 21, 2016. That order directed that, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.6 and N.J.A.C. 1:4A-17.1, the PTC has the predominant interest in reviewing Johnson's appeal of her termination.

After several unsuccessful attempts to achieve an amicable resolution, the matter proceeded to hearing on May 2, 2018. Via letter dated April 4, 2018, counsel for Passaic advised that "the Passaic County Sheriff's Department will not be appearing or participating in the hearing." Accordingly, only the Academy and the petitioner/appellant appeared.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The underlying facts are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

Johnson was hired by Passaic as a county correctional officer in April 2015. Between April and September 2015 she worked as a probationary officer pending her entry into the Passaic County Training Academy. Johnson worked out regularly prior to beginning her course at the Academy; she ran on a treadmill and used an elliptical machine at the gym, and went to CrossFit. She passed a physical assessment at the Passaic Academy on or about September 10, 2015. Her time there was progressing well when, on October 5, 2015, she injured her foot during a run.

Johnson was sent to a doctor via Workers' Compensation, who restricted her activity; advised her to limit pressure on her foot; and advised that she neither run nor jump. She was given an air cast and soft boot. Johnson testified that her injury was ultimately diagnosed as a stress fracture, although the medical documentation that she shared spoke only to a foot and ankle sprain. But in any event, it is uncontroverted that Johnson was placed on light duty on October 9, 2015, which a memorandum defined as "no inmate contact/sedentary duty." A medical report of that date confirmed various activity restrictions, to include limits on lifting and carrying, limits on pushing and pulling, and the continued directive that Johnson engage in "no running."

A doctor's note dated October 20, 2015, indicated that Johnson could return to full duty, "with [the] exception of no running or jumping." She did return to full duty the next day, but continued to wear her air cast. And after a day of work, she could engage in no further physical activity; rather, she went home and rested. Johnson continued to be followed by physicians into December 2015. As late as December 1, 2015, a doctor's note indicated that she should continue to refrain from running and jumping. On December 15, 2015, Johnson was released to full duty with no restrictions. But, she continued to use the air cast until January 12, 2016, when she was advised that Passaic was sending her to the Morris County Academy to resume her training. Johnson stressed that she had not been to the gym, or otherwise prepared herself physically for the work she would need to perform at the Academy, due to her injury.

Johnson began her course at the Academy with an orientation on January 25, 2016. She readily admitted that she was not ready for the physical aspects of her work at the Academy; she did not successfully complete the required physical-training component. Indeed, Johnson stated quite unequivocally that her dismissal was appropriate, and that her only complaint against the Academy was that its personnel should not have accepted her in the first place, in light of her personal circumstances.

Lt. Mark Meehan is the lead fitness instructor at the Academy. He explained that there are several components of training, to include academics, shooting, and fitness. To pass the fitness component a recruit must fully participate in 80 percent of the sessions; a recruit would be terminated after eight sessions if she had not fully participated. Meehan clarified that "fully participate" means demonstrating an ability to correctly perform the required exercise drills.

Meehan spoke well of Johnson, describing her as an earnest, hard-working recruit whom he would welcome back to the Academy at any time. He indicated that he and his staff tried to assist Johnson, and were anxious for her to succeed. But from the first day, Johnson presented with strength and endurance limitations that impeded her ability to keep up with the Academy program. She could not run at the required pace, and could not perform the required push-ups and sit-ups. Meehan was in communication with Passaic, and alerted the personnel there that Johnson was struggling. Meehan did not receive any information about Johnson's medical history, nor was he made aware about her withdrawal from the prior academy in Passaic County. But Meehan implied that this background would have been of no moment, as the fitness requirements cannot be waived, regardless of the reason. Meehan did confirm that physical conditioning is critical prior to starting the Academy, and that without such conditioning a recruit is unlikely to succeed. He moreover confirmed that a recruit like Johnson, who was just recovering from an injury, would have a very difficult time with the physical aspects of the Academy program.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Discharge from the Training Academy

The Police Training Act mandates successful completion of a basic training course at a school approved by the PTC as a prerequisite to permanent appointment as a correction officer. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68.1. The PTC prescribes standards for approval of police training schools and the minimum qualifications for their instructors, and "prescribe[s] the curriculum, the minimum courses of study, attendance requirements, equipment and facilities, and standards of operation for such schools." N.J.S.A. 52:17B-71(a)–(d).

A recruit is eligible for certification by the PTC when the Academy director affirms that "[t]he trainee has achieved the minimum requirements set forth in the basic course applicable to his or her appointment and has demonstrated an acceptable degree of proficiency in the performance objectives contained in the particular basic course." N.J.A.C. 13:1-5.1(a)(1). The Academy has the power and responsibility "[t]o implement the required curriculum" and "[t]o dismiss a trainee who has demonstrated that he or she will be ineligible for Commission certification, for unacceptable behavior or for other good cause." N.J.A.C. 13:1-7.2(a)(8). "Good cause" has been defined as protection from arbitrary discharge, and requires that termination be motivated by legitimate performance-related concerns. See Greenwood v. State Police Training Ctr., 127 N.J. 500 (1992).

I CONCLUDE that good cause existed for Johnson's termination by the Academy. Although by all accounts Johnson tried her best, and was an otherwise excellent and desirable recruit, she was simply not physically prepared to successfully complete the Academy's course of study. She does not contend otherwise. An inability to perform the physical aspects of Academy training constitutes good cause for termination. See DeRogatis v. Jersey City Police Dep't, CSV 9557-95 and PTC 4576-95, Initial Decision (September 7, 2000), adopted, Merit Sys. Bd. (October 24, 2000), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; Martin v. Jersey City Police Acad., PTC 11501-06, Initial Decision (October 3, 2007), http://njlaw.rutgers.ed/collections/oal/; Pantoliano

v. Bergen Cty. Police Acad., PTC 9806-02, Initial Decision (November 27, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

I CONCLUDE that the Academy's action in dismissing Johnson from the basic training course was consistent with applicable law and should be upheld.

Discharge from the Passaic County Sheriff's Department

The Civil Service Act and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto govern the rights and duties of a civil service employee. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1, et seq. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined are whether the employee is guilty of the charges brought against her and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Passaic terminated Johnson's employment due to her inability to perform her duties. That inability was a direct result of her failure to successfully complete the training course at the Academy. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3). I CONCLUDE that Passaic's action was consistent with the statutory scheme. In Gottlieb v. Monmouth County Sheriff's Office, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 573, the administrative law judge held:

> The controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68.1 leaves no room for discretion. Before permanent appointment, there must be completion of the Basic Police Training Commission course for correction officers . . . . [C]ivil Service rules do not anticipate continued employment of law enforcement officers who do not complete the Police Training Commission course, if so required. . . .
> . . . [T]he New Jersey Department of Personnel and the Merit System Board may only look to the fact, or not, of course completion. Here, there was none. For that reason, with a threshold condition unmet, the appointment must cease.

The training laws establish a classification of temporary or probationary employment until successful completion of the mandatory program of training. Borger v. Borough of Stone Harbor, 178 N.J. Super. 296, 301–02 (Ch. Div. 1981).

Johnson urges that Passaic treated her unfairly because its personnel sent her back to the Academy immediately after recovery from an injury, and without affording her the time needed to become physically prepared for the rigors of the training course. But, she offered no legal support for the notion that Passaic, having withdrawn her from a prior Academy due to an injury and placed her on light duty, was further obliged to afford her time to physically prepare to re-enroll in the required Academy course. Indeed, to the contrary, the case law is clear that Passaic was under no obligation to "recycle" Johnson, or provide her with multiple chances to successfully complete her training at the Academy. See Crespo v. Passaic Cty. Police Acad., PTC 7453-05 and CSV 3476-05, Initial Decision (July 14, 2006), adopted, PTC (August 21, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; see also DeRogatis, CSV 9557-95 and PTC 4576-95, Initial Decision (September 7, 2000), adopted, Merit Sys. Bd. (October 24, 2000), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/; McGorty v. Cty. of Hudson, CSV 9567-05, Initial Decision (March 14, 2006), adopted, MSB (May 12, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Passaic's determination to terminate petitioner's employment for failure to complete the Academy, a sine qua non to a permanent appointment, was within the scope of its authority. But, notwithstanding Passaic's clear authority to end its relationship with Johnson, under the totality of the circumstances presented here, removal is too severe a result. The proper outcome can be found by reference to Gottlieb, where, under analogous facts, the administrative law judge acknowledged that although the matter before him was a disciplinary appeal, the appellant there had not been charged with any wrongdoing. The judge noted that "[t]he appointing authority acted only on what it perceived, correctly, to be a compulsion of law. Appellant failed to meet a threshold requirement because of injury, rather than because of a culpable act or omission." Gottlieb, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) at 574. In its final decision, the Merit System Board determined that the "harsh consequences of a removal which would preclude the appellant from seeking future public employment should be modified . . . [and] changed to a resignation in good standing." Id. at 575.

Here too, I CONCLUDE that "[t]he interests of all parties are better protected and a proper decision is effected by [a] change in termination status." Ibid.; see also Raymond v. Cty. of Hudson, CSV 1224-05, Initial Decision (November 7, 2005), adopted, Merit Sys. Bd. (February 9, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. I CONCLUDE that while Passaic's actions found full support in the law, a fairer, more equitable, result is one that will permit Johnson to pursue public employment in the future.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the action of respondent Morris County Public Safety Training Academy dismissing Johnson from the basic training course for good cause is AFFIRMED.

I further ORDER that the action of respondent Passaic County Sheriff's Department removing Johnson is MODIFIED to reflect a resignation in good standing.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Police Training Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies that may be within its statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c), request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION within forty-five days of the predominant-agency decision. If the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL, POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex, PO Box 085, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0085, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Mr. Little and Ms. Sweeney:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Desire Lee from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, the settlement indicates that Ms. Lee, in exchange for a rescission of her resignation not in good standing effective April 25, 2018, is agreeing to a resignation in good standing effective August 28, 2018. However, the settlement does not account for the time from the effective date of her resignation not in good standing to the effective date of her resignation in good standing. In that regard, we need to know how that time should be reflected in her official personnel record. Should it be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An email reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT

THIS MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT, made and executed this 22nd day of June, 2018, by and between the City of Paterson (hereafter referred to as the "City") and Luis Barros (hereafter "Barros"), represents the full and final understanding between the City and Barros regarding all outstanding employment issues between the City and Barros, including his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N.

1. The City and Barros agree that the disciplinary charges brought against Barros by the City pursuant to a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action dated August 2, 2017 will be withdrawn.

2. The City agrees to return Barros to active status as of June 25, 2018 as a Laborer in the Department of Public Works.

3. The City and Barros agree that the time served by Barros without pay due to his disciplinary action will be converted to a leave of absence without pay.

4. Barros agrees that for the remainder of his employment with the City he will be subject to random drug testing at the discretion of the City at any time(s) the City, at its sole discretion, deems appropriate.

5. Barros agrees and understands that if he tests positive for any controlled dangerous substance, Barros shall be entitled to an administrative disciplinary hearing regarding same. However, the sole issue at the administrative disciplinary hearing shall be whether the alleged misconduct occurred. If the said alleged misconduct is substantiated, Barros consents to a penalty of termination. If Barros does not request a hearing within the requisite five (5) calendar day period as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.5(c), after receiving notice of the adverse administrative action, Barros agrees to the imposition of termination immediately thereafter.

6. Barros agrees and understands that if another allegation of misconduct is made for any of the same reasons as expressed in the Specifications of the above-referenced Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action, or for any other misconduct where major discipline is recommended, Barros shall be entitled to an administrative disciplinary hearing regarding same. However, the sole issue at the administrative disciplinary hearing shall be whether the alleged misconduct occurred. If the said alleged misconduct is substantiated, Barros consents to a penalty of termination. If Barros does not request a hearing within the requisite five (5) calendar day period as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.5(c), after receiving notice of the adverse administrative action, Barros agrees to the imposition of termination immediately thereafter.

7. Based on the above, Barros agrees to withdraw his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N.

8A. GENERAL RELEASE

In consideration of the Agreement described above, Barros waives, releases and gives up any claim he, his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns may have against the City and any of its present or past representatives, administrators, supervisors, employees, officers, directors, agents, contractors, etc., and each of their predecessors, successors and assigns, based upon any event arising out of any and all outstanding employment issues between the City and Barros, including but not limited to his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N.

For and in consideration of the release, representations, and agreements contained above, the City releases and forever discharges Barros from any and all claims which could have been asserted by the City against Barros arising out of any and all outstanding employment issues between the City and Barros, including but not limited to his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N.

As an inducement for the City to enter into this Agreement, Barros hereby withdraws any requests for a hearing on any and all outstanding employment issues between the City and Barros, including but not limited to his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N.

8B. KNOWING AND VOLUNTARY WAIVER

Barros acknowledges that in the execution of this Agreement he is affecting a knowing and voluntary waiver of any claims, liabilities or causes of action against the City and any of its members of the governing body, employees, agents, successors and assigns of the City by reason of any and all outstanding employment issues between the City and Barros, including but not limited to his disciplinary appeal, OAL Docket No. CSV 17729-2017N. Barros further acknowledges that he has discussed the terms of this Agreement with his union and/or legal representatives and that any questions he may have regarding this matter have been answered to Barros's full satisfaction. Barros also hereby agrees and acknowledges that he has been fully, fairly and adequately represented in this matter.

9. This Memorandum of Agreement is not precedent setting on either party in that the Union and the employee cannot interpret and construe this Memorandum of Agreement or the terms of this settlement as a waiver of the City of Paterson's policy and procedures, or interpret and construe this settlement as a waiver of the parties' contract and applicable labor laws. The parties and the Union agree that the terms of this Agreement are specific to the facts and circumstances of this particular action and binding only as to this matter.

10. This Agreement may be modified or amended only by a written instrument duly signed by each of the parties or their respective successors or assigns.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 07810-17

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: OCTOBER 5, 2018 BW

The appeal of Fatima Beatty, Omnibus Operator, Hudson County, Department of Health and Human Services, 90 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Kelly J. Kirk, who rendered his initial decision on August 24, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on October 3, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision to modify the 90 working day suspension to a 60 working day suspension.

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to 30 working days of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. However, the appellant is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), the award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, although the penalty was modified by the Commission, charges were sustained and major discipline was imposed. Thus, the appellant has not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore modifies the 90 working day suspension to a 60 working day suspension. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted 30 days of back pay, benefits, and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

Samuel B. Wenocur, Esq., for appellant Fatima W. Beatty (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

Nidyara Y. Rourk,[1] Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Hudson County Department of Health and Human Services (Donato J. Battista, Hudson County Counsel, attorney)

BEFORE KELLY J. KIRK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Hudson County (County) Department of Health and Human Services/Meadowview Psychiatric Hospital (Meadowview or hospital) suspended

[1] Georgina Giordano Pallitto, Assistant County Counsel, appeared at the hearing.

omnibus operator Fatima Beatty for ninety working days for neglect of duty, insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On or about February 28, 2017, the County served Beatty with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), charging her with neglect of duty (x5), incompetency and inefficiency, insubordination (x4), conduct unbecoming a public employee (x7), misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause. (C-1.) A departmental hearing was held on March 28, 2017, and the charges of neglect of duty, insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause were sustained. (J-1.) On or about April 4, 2017, the County served Beatty with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), suspending her for ninety working days, beginning April 10, 2017, and ending August 17, 2017. (J-1.)

Beatty appealed, and the Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 2, 2017. The hearing was held on April 13, 2018, and the record remained open for post-hearing submissions. The record closed on June 11, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Walt Boraczek, Patricia McCarthy, and Noel Garriga testified on behalf of the County. Fatima Beatty testified on her own behalf.

Background

I FIND the following preliminary FACTS in this case:

Beatty began working as an omnibus operator (driver) for the County in 2003. She was initially assigned to the County welfare department, where she drove a bus. On June 15, 2015, she was reassigned to Meadowview, an eighty-four-bed inpatient psychiatric hospital for adults operated by the County. Beatty works Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Meadowview had two other drivers: Albert Gunnell, whose shift was 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., and Francis Torres, whose shift was 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. There are no drivers at Meadowview scheduled to work before 7:00 a.m. or after 4:30 p.m. Shifts are staggered because sometimes there are early-morning or late-afternoon trips or "runs," and Meadowview tries to always have a driver available. Generally, early runs were assigned to Gunnell and late runs were assigned to Beatty. Meadowview has three twelve-to-fifteen-seat passenger vans for transportation. The Meadowview emblem appears on the front and rear doors of each van. Each driver was assigned a specific van, for which the driver was responsible.

Noel Garriga has been employed at Meadowview as a maintenance supervisor for almost ten years. From November 2016 to March 2017, the transportation-department supervisor was out due to illness, so Garriga was the acting supervisor of the transportation department. Garriga's supervisor was Joanne Reilly.

The main task of the drivers is transporting patients to and from medical appointments, the Social Security office, and group homes. There are also occasions where the drivers drive patients to retail stores, but there would be an order and it would be coordinated with the transportation department. Specifically, the doctor, social-services worker, or therapist requesting transport would complete a transportation form and take it to the transportation office. Garriga would then write the trip on a white board in the transportation office and assign the trip to a specific driver, noting the driver on the white board. Meadowview policy requires that travel first be approved by the patient's psychiatrist, and that the patient be accompanied by a minimum of one hospital attendant. Drivers are not attendants.

Walt Boraczek is employed at Meadowview as a systems analyst. Patricia McCarthy has been employed at Meadowview as a principal account clerk for almost twenty years. Among her responsibilities are handling commitment papers as a liaison between the court and Meadowview.

While employed at the County welfare department, Beatty was previously suspended for three days. While employed at Meadowview, Beatty was previously suspended for twenty days for refusing to make a trip. (C-20.)

Testimony

December 27, 2016, Meadowview-Van Incident

Walt Boraczek

On December 27, 2016, while on his lunch break, Boraczek saw Beatty at around 1:00 p.m. in the parking lot of Walmart in Secaucus. As he parked his personal vehicle, he noticed a Meadowview van parked approximately ten feet away. He had an unobstructed view of the van and saw Beatty walking toward it carrying several Walmart bags. She loaded the bags into the van and drove off in the direction of Walmart. Boraczek looked for the van again as he walked toward Walmart, but he did not see it. Upon entering Walmart, Boraczek sent a text message to Garriga, asking if there was a patient trip or legitimate business purpose for the Meadowview van to be at Walmart at that time. Garriga advised that there was not, and he requested that Boraczek document what he had observed. Boraczek emailed Garriga on January 5, 2017. (C-2.)

Noel Garriga

There was no trip to Walmart assigned to Beatty on December 27, 2016. There had been no written request for such trip, and there was no such trip written on the white board. Garriga only became aware that Beatty's van was at Walmart via text from Boraczek, and he asked Boraczek to memorialize the incident in writing. Garriga spoke with Beatty later that day and asked her to tell the truth about whether she had been at Walmart with the Meadowview van. Beatty denied that she had, and asked him why he would ask her that. Garriga emailed Reilly about the incident on December 28, 2016. (C-3.) He received an email from Boraczek on January 5, 2017. (C-2.)

Fatima Beatty

Beatty went to Walmart with the Meadowview van that day as a last-minute substitute for Gunnell. She drove a client to Walmart to get some personal items because he was being discharged. Beatty, the client, and an attendant, Anthony Braxton, had gone into Walmart together. After the client purchased his items, he had to wait on a special line to purchase cigarettes. Beatty told the client and Braxton that she would put the items in the van and pull the van in front of Walmart.

Beatty had a conversation with Garriga later that day. Garriga asked if she had driven the Meadowview van to Walmart for personal use during her lunch hour. Beatty told him that she had not, and asked him why would he ask her that. She never denied going to Walmart. She only denied that she had driven to Walmart for personal use, because that was the only question Garriga had asked.

Drivers are not required to assist patients. On trips, Beatty sometimes goes inside and sometimes remains in the van. Braxton might ask her to come in to speed up the process if something needed to be picked up on the other side of the store. Beatty might also leave the van to use a restroom or something of that nature, but nine out of ten times she remains in the van.

January 9, 2017, Snow Incident

Noel Garriga

On January 9, 2017, it had snowed, and there was approximately three inches of snow on the vans. It is the responsibility of each driver to remove the snow from his or her assigned van. A snow brush is kept at the back of each van, behind the last seat. Additionally, there is a broom located in the front-entry vestibule of the hospital to reach any high areas. The vans are parked in the rear hospital parking lot at night, and each driver is responsible for moving his or her assigned van to the front of the building. Snow must be removed before the vans are moved to the front of the hospital.

Beatty came to Garriga's office and asked who was responsible for removing snow from the vans. Garriga advised her that it is the driver's responsibility, which Beatty disputed. Garriga obtained a copy of the Civil Service Commission job specification for omnibus driver and provided Beatty with a copy of it. (C-6.) Garriga also contacted Transcend, the County's separate department of drivers, to confirm that it is the driver's responsibility. Even after providing the job description to Beatty she did not remove the snow from the van. Beatty said that she did not have tools or gloves, and she walked toward the van with the patient and the attendant. Garriga told Beatty there was a broom in the vestibule, but Beatty did not make any attempt to remove the snow. The patient, the attendant, and Beatty all got into the van, and Beatty drove away with the snow on the roof and on the windshield, except for where the wipers had cleared it. The view out the front window was still partially obstructed when she drove away.

Garriga checked all three vans after the incident, and there was a snow brush in each van. Gunnell and Torres had each removed the snow from their vans before moving the vans to the front of the hospital. Torres is approximately Beatty's height, possibly a little shorter. Garriga emailed Reilly about the incident on January 9, 2017. (C-5.) Meadowview utilizes closed-circuit-television cameras, which captured this incident. (C-21.)

Fatima Beatty

Beatty had never previously worked during a snow storm and no one ever told her she would need to remove snow from the van. When she worked for the welfare department, she drove a twenty-passenger bus that was almost double the size—taller and wider—than her Meadowview van. When it snowed, maintenance personnel removed the snow from the bus. She had never previously removed snow from a County vehicle.

That day, she went into Garriga's office and asked who was responsible for removing snow from the vans. Garriga told her it was the driver's responsibility. She responded that she had never removed snow from a vehicle and did not have gloves, and she checked the van, but there were no tools, such as an ice scraper or brush, in her van.

Garriga made a call, and he also obtained a job description and gave it to her. Garriga never told Beatty to use a broom or the location of a broom. Beatty went to the van, which was preheated, turned on the windshield wipers, and left with the patient and the attendant. Beatty asked Torres how she had cleaned her van, and Torres said she used her personal equipment from her car.

January 17, 2017, Welfare-Division Incident

There was no testimony from any witness relative to this incident, and therefore it is not considered herein.

January 19, 2017, Assignment-Refusal Incident

Patricia McCarthy

On January 19, 2017, at approximately 2:00 p.m., McCarthy received a request to deliver a patient's re-commitment papers to a judge. McCarthy completed a civil-commitment order and made copies for the judge, which took approximately ten minutes. McCarthy put the paperwork into an envelope and contacted Garriga to arrange delivery. She spoke to Garriga in person, with Gunnell present, about the delivery because a new court process required that the paperwork be delivered to Superior Court in Jersey City for signature by a Superior Court judge, rather than to municipal court. Since that was the first time delivering the papers to Superior Court, McCarthy did not know how long it would take. She wrote down the names of several Superior Court judges whom the driver could ask for on arrival. Eventually Beatty showed up, and McCarthy explained to Beatty what she had already explained to Garriga and Gunnell. McCarthy handed the envelope to Beatty. McCarthy explained that she did not know whether any judges would be available to sign the papers, so the driver might have to wait. Beatty was not happy about that, and stated, "Oh, what am I going to have to wait there?" Beatty did not seem to want to go. Gunnell volunteered to deliver the papers, so Beatty handed the envelope to Gunnell, and said "Okay, good, you take them then." Beatty was not cooperative in taking the assignment. Beatty did not say that she would not take the assignment, but it seemed to McCarthy that she was unwilling. Beatty was not yelling and did not use profanity. McCarthy prepared a written statement on February 7, 2017. (C-11.)

Noel Garriga

McCarthy requested the run at approximately 2:00 p.m. Garriga reached out to Beatty because it was a late trip. Gunnell's shift ended at 3:00 p.m., so he would have been paid overtime thereafter. When he was going over the trip with Beatty and McCarthy, it was obvious that Beatty did not want to make the run. She was verbally defiant, and was not cooperating or being a team player. Beatty said she did not want to go on a wild-goose chase. Beatty had the papers, but because she was being difficult and uncooperative, Garriga took the papers from her and assigned the trip to Gunnell. Beatty's voice was raised, but she did not say she would not do the trip or refuse to do the trip. A driver is not required to accept a run that would require work beyond his or her scheduled work hours. Overtime or comp time would be offered. Garriga wrote an email to Reilly on January 19, 2017. (C-9.)

Fatima Beatty

The assignment was to go to the judge's chambers to get re-commitment papers signed. McCarthy said she did not know which judge to go to because it was a new courthouse and new procedure. Beatty asked McCarthy what she was supposed to do when she arrived at the courthouse, or if she was supposed to just go there and stand around. McCarthy was trying to explain and Beatty was asking questions, like what floor she should go to and whom she would have to see. McCarthy told Beatty she would give her a list of judges. Beatty asked McCarthy if she was sure the judges were there, and then turned to Garriga and advised him that she gets off work at 4:30 p.m. and asked him if she would have time to get back to sign out at 4:30 p.m. so she could pick up her daughter. Her husband is not able to pick up her daughter. McCarthy was talking in a regular tone, but Garriga was getting irritated because Beatty was asking questions. Garriga got irritated and he took the packet out of Beatty's hand and gave it to Gunnell, who said he would make the trip. Beatty never said she would not do the job. She never yelled or used any obscenities.

January 20, 2017, Microwave Incident

Noel Garriga

Garriga had a microwave in the transportation office that was left by a prior supervisor. Garriga asked Gunnell to move the microwave to the locker room because it had become an excuse for non-driver employees to hang out in the transportation office. The transportation office is intended for use only by the three drivers and Garriga, and there was no reason for other employees to be in there. The next morning Garriga was advised by Gunnell that Beatty had moved the microwave back into the transportation office. Garriga wrote emails to Reilly on January 19, 2017, and January 20, 2017. (C-9; C-10.)

Fatima Beatty

Beatty was not told why the microwave was removed from the transportation office until after she brought it back. Beatty did not check with anyone before moving it back to the transportation office.

January 23, 2017, January 25, 2017, January 26, 2017, January 27, 2017, January 30, 2017, February 3, 2017, and February 21, 2017, Attendance Incidents

Noel Garriga

Timesheets are kept on a sign-in table to the right of the hospital entrance. Employees sign in and out for the day and for lunch breaks on the timesheets. At the end of each two-week pay period, Garriga reviews the timesheets and signs off on them. Garriga also notes and initials any exceptions and overtime. Beatty's Bi-Weekly Attendance Sheet reflects that on January 23, 2017, January 25, 2017, and January 26, 2017, she signed out for lunch at 3:30 p.m., and signed in from lunch at 4:30 p.m. However, Beatty left at 3:15 p.m. on January 23, 2017, as observed on the video cameras, and at 3:30 p.m. on January 25, 2017, and January 26, 2017, and never returned thereafter on any of those days to sign in from lunch or out for the day. (C-12.) On January 23, 2017, Garriga emailed Reilly and advised that Beatty left at 3:15 p.m. without approval when her shift was to end at 4:30 p.m. (C-13.) On January 27, 2017, the timesheet reflects that Beatty signed out for lunch at 3:30 p.m., signed in from lunch at 4:30 p.m., and signed out for the day at 4:30 p.m., but the exceptions reflect Garriga's note that Beatty was approved to do so on that day because she had not been able to take a lunch due to a work trip. Sometimes a trip causes a driver to miss lunch, so the driver contacts Garriga to seek approval, which Garriga would grant, though he does not always physically sign the book after they call in. However, Garriga noted the January 27, 2017, approval on the timesheet that same day, so Beatty would have seen the approval when she signed in on January 30, 2017.

Garriga did not recall if he spoke to Beatty about her unapproved early departures on January 23, 2017, January 25, 2017, and January 26, 2017. On January 30, 2017, Beatty signed out for lunch at 12:30 p.m., signed in from lunch at 1:00 p.m., and signed out for the day at 4:00 p.m. However, cutting her lunch in half and leaving half an hour early was not approved by Garriga. On February 3, 2017, Beatty signed out for lunch at 2:30 p.m., signed in from lunch at 3:30 p.m., and signed out for the day at 3:30 p.m. Leaving an hour early was not approved by Garriga.

Beatty's Bi-Weekly Attendance Sheet reflects that on February 21, 2017, Beatty wrote "no lunch" and "no breaks" and signed out at 4:00 p.m. (C-14.) Garriga noted and initialed in the exceptions that this was not approved. Drivers are supposed to call on their County-issued cell phone if they are going to work through lunch. Not taking a lunch and signing out early or taking lunch at the end of the day must be approved by a supervisor. It defeats the purpose of the staggered schedule to not have a driver on duty after 3:30 p.m. Garriga addressed the early departures with Beatty. Signing in and out for lunch and out for the day at the same time is a falsification of the time sheet. The driver is expected to return to sign out, even if lunch is taken the last hour of the day.

Fatima Beatty

She completed her time sheets. Her understanding of when she was supposed to take lunch was that if she was inside the building without any specific runs, drop-offs, or pickups, she was to take lunch between 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. Meadowview provides a free lunch for everybody from 11:00 a.m. to approximately 2:00 p.m. Once lunch is over, the cafeteria closes. If out on a trip during lunch, it has been past practice that the driver gets lunch on the back end of the day, or the driver could request in writing an hour of comp time.

Beatty either called Garriga or went to his office on January 23, 25, and 26 to request approval to take lunch late because she had no lunch and no breaks, and Garriga approved the requests. She did not see Garriga sign the exceptions on January 27, and he did not speak to her that week or the following about her having taken lunch at 3:30 on January 23, 25, and 26. No one spoke to her about signing out prior to the time listed.

At the end of the day, she usually signs out at 4:15 or 4:30, but does not actually leave the premises. It takes five to ten minutes for her to walk out, drive her van to the rear of the hospital, clean any garbage out of the van, and mark her mileage. Past practice for all drivers was to sign out first and then do final van checks.

January 27, 2017, Uniform Incident

The County provides the drivers with a uniform consisting of a light-blue shirt, dark-blue pants, and a jacket. The shirt and jacket both have the County logo on them. It is required that the uniform be worn daily. Beatty was provided with uniforms—five shirts, five pants, and one jacket. It was an ongoing problem that Beatty did not report to work in uniform. Garriga emailed Reilly on January 27, 2017, about Beatty not wearing a uniform or any clothing identifying her as a County employee. It is important that drivers wear the uniforms to easily identify them, especially when out with patients. For warmer months, a light windbreaker is provided.

Fatima Beatty

She received uniforms when she started. However, she was approximately seventy pounds heavier than she is now, so her uniform became too big. So she had to wear her regular clothes for the first two weeks while they ordered her new uniforms. She received the new uniforms in December, but the new pants did not fit properly. She spoke to the office clerk, but was advised that she would have to wait for new pants because orders are only placed at certain times. Beatty purchased her own navy-blue pants in the same color as the uniform. Other drivers also wore their own personal pants.

February 21, 2017, Assignment-Refusal Incident

Noel Garriga

On February 21, 2017, at approximately 3:00 p.m., he assigned Beatty a trip to Hoboken to pick up a resident from a group home, but she was defiant and refused to make the trip. There were no other drivers available. The trip was then reassigned to an aide, but the aide did not have a commercial driver license so he could not drive the van, and instead drove a sport-utility vehicle with another attendant to accompany him. Garriga wrote an email to Joanne Reilly about the incident on February 21, 2017. (C-18.) In addition to refusing the trip, Beatty signed out at 4:00 p.m. without approval.

Fatima Beatty

Before she started the job she let her interviewers know that she could not work overtime because she has a small child who must be picked up at 5:30 p.m. They advised that overtime was not mandatory. During rush hour it would have been thirty to forty-five minutes to get to Hoboken, and she would have had to pick up the patient and return to the hospital. Additionally, the time for the attendant to assist a patient to the van depends on the patient, and could take five minutes or up to twenty minutes. She did not believe she would have time to pick up her child, so she said it was late and her shift ends at 4:30 p.m. and she could not do overtime. Garriga said he would find someone else to do it and walked away. Beatty walked back to the transportation office. It was then approximately 3:30 p.m. and she had not gotten lunch or breaks that day due to trips. She sat in the transportation office. She left at 4:00 that day. She spoke to Garriga before she left and advised that she did not get any breaks or lunch, but he just walked away from her.

Additional Findings of Fact

A credibility determination requires an overall evaluation of the testimony in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but must be credible in itself. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 555 (1954). It must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances. Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1, 5 (App. Div. 1961). "The interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

As set forth below, appellant's testimony was inconsistent with and overborne by the record, including the documentary evidence and the concise, consistent, and credible testimony of the County's witnesses.

December 27, 2016, Meadowview Van Incident

Charge:

> On December 27, 2016, [Beatty] was observed utilizing a Hudson County Vehicle not in furtherance of any work related activity. Said Hudson County van was viewed parked in the Walmart Secaucus parking lot during lunch hours. The driver, Beatty was observed approaching the parked van alone and entering the van with multiple Walmart bags. There were no patients or other MPH staff observed to be with Beatty at the time. An email was received from the MPH staff person, [Boraczek], who observed Beatty's acts. Later that day, > supervisor [Garriga] spoke to Beatty regarding the matter. She denied using the County van to conduct personal shopping. This constitutes misuse of Hudson County public property, specifically the MPH transportation van, and is a violation of the County Standards of Conduct.

Beatty does not dispute that she was at Walmart on December 27, 2016, and now claims that it was on an assigned trip. She testified that she had never previously explained to anyone what she was doing at Walmart because she was never specifically asked if she was on a client trip, and had only been asked if she drove the van to Walmart for personal use. However, it is not probable under the circumstances that Beatty, after being questioned about the incident by her supervisor and after disciplinary charges were filed, would not simply have explained that it was an assigned work trip. Further, Beatty presented no evidence of an order or assigned trip, presented no witness, such as Braxton, to corroborate the trip, and she did not recall the client's name, physical description, or the location to which he was discharged. Beatty also testified that she typically remains in the van, and her general demeanor left the impression that she would not likely accept work outside her job description, so it is not credible that she would have been shopping with or carrying bags for a patient. In short, Beatty's testimony was not probable under the circumstances and was overborne by Garriga's testimony that she had not been assigned a trip to Walmart that day and there was no order for such trip.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to this incident:

The County Handbook Standards of Conduct reflect that "No employee should use or allow the use of County property . . . for other than officially-approved activities." (C-4.) Beatty was aware of the prohibition on the use of County property for other than officially-approved activities. Nevertheless, on December 27, 2016, Beatty used the Meadowview van to take a personal trip to Walmart and then was not truthful about the incident with her supervisor. Beatty was not assigned a work trip to Walmart on December 27, 2016.

January 9, 2017, Snow Incident

Charge:

> On January 9, 2017, Beatty inquired with Garriga as to who is responsible for cleaning snow off the transportation van. Garriga provided her with a copy of the job description, highlighting pertinent information and reviewing her responsibilities as Omnibus Driver. Beatty disagreed, stating that she did not have tools or gloves. Garriga provided her with a broom which is used for that purpose and kept in the front lobby of the hospital. Beatty continued to refuse to remove the snow from the van assigned to her. This constitutes neglect of duty and insubordination.

Although Garriga testified that State law requires that the van windshield and roof be cleaned, the charges do not stem from any summons or adjudicated statutory violation. Nevertheless, Garriga advised Beatty that she was responsible for cleaning the snow off the van, and provided her with a copy of her job description. That Beatty was not required to clean the much larger bus she drove at the County welfare department is of no moment. Beatty's testimony that there was no snow brush and that Garriga did not tell her about the broom was overborne by Garriga's testimony to the contrary, and by the video showing that the other two drivers had cleaned their vans.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to this incident:

Gunnell and Torres had cleaned the snow off their vans. A snow scraper/brush and broom were available to Beatty to clean the snow off the van. Beatty was advised by her supervisor that she was responsible for cleaning the snow off the van, but she refused to clean the snow off the van. The omnibus-operator definition reflects, "may also clean, service, and make minor repairs to such vehicles; does other related duties as required"; examples of work reflect, "[c]hecks, cleans, and performs minor servicing of vehicles"; and knowledge reflects, "[k]nowledge of State Motor Vehicle regulations" and "[k]nowledge of the care, maintenance, and competent/safe/efficient operation of vehicles, including cleaning, [and] lubricating . . . ." Per Beatty's job description, she is responsible for cleaning and safe operation of the van, but she refused to clean the snow off the van.

January 19, 2017, Assignment-Refusal Incident
& January 20, 2017, Microwave Incident

Charge:

> On January 19, 2017, Garriga asked a transport worker to remove the microwave from the transportation office and place it in the locker room for all employees to have access. It became apparent that traffic into the transportation office had increased. The same afternoon, at or around 2:00 P.M., a hospital worker asked if Garriga could send a driver over to 595 County Avenue to have commitment papers signed by a judge. Garriga called Beatty and asked her to make the run and she immediately went on a rant about the microwave. Garriga explained that it was his decision to remove microwave. She denied that there is increased traffic in the office, at which point Garriga mentioned that she also hangs out by the security desk and in the kitchen dining area, all of which she denied.
>
> Beatty and Garriga both then met in [McCarthy's] office. Beatty impatiently questioned McCarthy as to who she needs to see to have the papers signed because she did not want to go on a "wild goose chase," at which point Garriga grabbed the envelope back and asked another driver to make the run. McCarthy tried to explain the process to her but Beatty was less than cooperative.
> On January 20, 2017, the microwave needed to be removed from the Transportation Office, as Beatty had returned it despite prior direction. This constitutes neglect of duty and insubordination.

The charges reflect that Beatty "went on a rant" about the microwave being removed, and that Garriga had explained his decision to remove it to Beatty, but she disregarded his decision and moved the microwave back to the transportation office. Given the overall lack of credibility, Beatty's testimony that she did not know why the microwave had been removed was not probable under the circumstances, and one would expect that even absent an explanation she should ask her supervisor before moving a microwave from a locker room to the transportation office. However, there was no testimony in the record about a "rant" or that Garriga had explained his decision to remove it before it was moved back to the transportation office to corroborate the hearsay in the charges and Garriga's email to Reilly about the incident.

Additionally, while Beatty may have seemed unwilling and obviously did not want to make the trip, neither Garriga nor McCarthy testified that Beatty had actually refused to accept the assignment, and not being a "team player" does not amount to assignment refusal.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to the assignment-refusal incident:

A driver is not required to accept a run that would require work beyond his or her scheduled work hours.[2] Beatty did not refuse to take the trip. Beatty did not use profanity or yell.

January 23, 2017, January 25, 2017, January 26, 2017, January 27, 2017, January 30, 2017, February 3, 2017, and February 21, 2017, Attendance Incidents

Charge:

> On Monday, January 23, 2017, Beatty left MPH early, at 3:15 P.M., without prior approval from her supervisor. Her work schedule is Monday through Friday, 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. Beatty signed out of work at 3:30 P.M., but is viewed on the surveillance leaving at 3:15 P.M. She wrote on her timesheet that she took her lunch break from 3:30 P.M. to 4:30 P.M. This is not her assigned lunch period, nor did she receive permission to change her lunchbreak to the end of her shift, creating an early dismissal. Beatty repeated the same unauthorized alteration of her schedule on January 25, January 26, January 27, January 30, February 3, and February 21, 2017. This is a violation of MPH and County Policy on Standards of Conduct: Attendance and Punctuality. Thus, constitutes falsification of time sheets, theft of services and neglect of duty.

[2] It was not established whether the trip would have required that Beatty work beyond 4:30 p.m.

It is evident that Beatty was signing out for lunch at 3:30 p.m. and not returning to the hospital at 4:30 p.m. to sign in from lunch and out from work. Garriga credibly testified that not taking a lunch and signing out early or taking lunch at the end of the day would have to be approved by a supervisor, and it only stands to reason that Beatty would not be permitted to take her lunch and leave for the day at 3:30 p.m. without approval because she is the only driver on shift after 3:30 p.m. Beatty's testimony that she had spoken to Garriga and obtained permission to leave early or take her lunches at the end of the day was not credible and was overborne by Garriga's credible testimony to the contrary.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to these incidents:

The County Handbook reflects under Attendance & Punctuality: Employees must sign their own time sheets or punch their own time cards upon arrival to and departure from work. Employees who falsify time records or who sign a time sheet or punch a time card for another employee are subject to discipline, including immediate termination. (C-15.) Beatty did not speak to Garriga or obtain permission to leave early, or to skip lunch and leave early on any of the dates not noted as approved.

January 27, 2017, Uniform Incident

Charge:

> On January 27, 2017, Beatty reported to work not wearing the County provided uniform. This constitutes violation of MPH Policy HR-010, neglect of duty, and insubordination.

Notwithstanding Beatty's alleged issue with the uniform pants, Garriga testified, consistent with his January 27, 2017, email to Reilly, that contrary to Meadowview policy, Beatty had reported to work without a uniform identifying her as a County employee.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to this incident:

The Meadowview Dress Code policy states: all uniforms worn by Hospital staff must be clean and in good repair, and other County staff, vendors, or students who wear a uniform or lab coat should follow their Departmental guidelines. The County Handbook Dress Code reflects:

> Employees should present themselves in a neat, orderly, business-like manner and dress appropriately for the work performed. Employees assigned to offices must dress in appropriate business attire. Uniforms must be worn by employees when required.

The drivers have a uniform consisting of a light-blue shirt, dark-blue pants, and a jacket. The shirt and jacket have the County emblem on them, but the pants do not. On January 27, 2017, Beatty reported to work not wearing a uniform or any article of clothing identifying her as a County employee.

February 21, 2017, Assignment-Refusal Incident

Charge:

> On February 21, 2017, Beatty refused an assignment to pick up a patient in Hoboken at 3:00 P.M. As such, a social service aid[e] was sent on the run with the hospital Jeep. Beatty again left for the day at 4:00 P.M. without approval to leave early. This constitutes neglect of duty and insubordination.

If the trip was being assigned to Beatty at 3:00 p.m., it is evident that she was not on a trip and therefore could have taken her lunch prior. Further, her testimony that she had advised Garriga that she had not taken her lunch was not credible, as she then could have taken her lunch from 3:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m. or 3:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m., but did not. Further supporting that her testimony was not credible is that she left at 4:00 p.m. If she had not taken a lunch as she testified and finished her meeting about the trip at 3:30 p.m. as she testified, then she would have left at 3:30 p.m. for an hour lunch, but instead left at 4:00 p.m. Had Beatty left at 4:30 p.m., her testimony about not working overtime may have been more plausible. Additionally, 3:00 p.m. was not rush hour, and given the geographic proximity between Secaucus and Hoboken, Beatty should have had more than sufficient time to return by 4:30 p.m. Given that she signed out at 4:00 p.m., it appears that she intended to leave early and therefore refused the trip.

I FIND the following FACTS with respect to this incident:

Beatty left work early without approval from Garriga. Beatty refused to make a trip to Hoboken to pick up a patient, requiring that the hospital send an aide without a commercial driver license in an SUV to make the trip.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 through 12-6, the "Civil Service Act," established the Civil Service Commission in the Department of Labor and Workforce Development in the executive branch of the New Jersey State government. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-1. The Commission establishes the general causes that constitute grounds for disciplinary action, and the kinds of disciplinary action that may be taken by appointing authorities against permanent career-service employees. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6 vests the Commission with the power, after a hearing, to render the final administrative decision on appeals concerning removal, suspension or fine, disciplinary demotion, and termination at the end of the working test period, of permanent career-service employees.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2(a) provides that major discipline includes removal, disciplinary demotion, and suspension or fine for more than five working days at any one time. An employee may be subject to discipline for reasons enumerated in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a), including incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties, insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), (2), (6), (7), (8), and (12).

In appeals concerning such major disciplinary actions, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority to establish the truth of the charges by a preponderance of the believable evidence. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Beatty was suspended for ninety working days for insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause. The burden of proof is on the County to prove the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) does not define insubordination. Black's Law Dictionary 919 (10th ed. 2014) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Likewise, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) does not define conduct unbecoming. However, the Appellate Division has held that conduct unbecoming a public employee is "any conduct . . . which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services." What constitutes conduct unbecoming a public employee is primarily a question of law. Karins v. Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 553 (1998).

An employee may be subject to discipline for misuse of public property. Beatty utilized the Meadowview van on a solo personal trip to Walmart. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Beatty's use of the van for a personal trip was a misuse of public property, conduct unbecoming a public employee, and a violation of the standards of conduct in the County Handbook.

Beatty's supervisor provided her with a copy of her job description and advised that it was Beatty's responsibility to remove snow from the van. Snow-removal tools were available to Beatty, but she failed and refused to remove the snow from the van. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Beatty was insubordinate and neglected her duty.

With respect to the microwave, the testimony at the hearing did not entirely corroborate the charges. Thus, while entirely possible that Beatty was advised by her supervisor that the microwave was removed from the transportation office at his direction, and contrary to his decision she moved it back, I CONCLUDE that the evidence adduced at the hearing falls short of establishing insubordination. With respect to the January 19, 2017, trip, while there is little doubt that Beatty likely had a bad attitude about having to make the trip, she did not refuse to make the trip, and I CONCLUDE that the evidence adduced at the hearing fell short of establishing that she had been insubordinate or neglected her duty.

It was evident that Beatty was signing in and out for lunch and out of work at the same time, essentially leaving work an hour early. While she is entitled to a lunch hour, she is the only driver on duty after 3:30 p.m., and taking her lunch and leaving for the day required approval that she did not obtain. Thus, I CONCLUDE that Beatty's taking lunch at the end of the day and/or leaving work early, without approval, constitutes neglect of duty. Further, Beatty left work at 2:30 p.m. on February 3, 2017. The timesheet reflects that she took lunch from 2:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m., thus she left work an hour early without approval. Likewise, on February 21, 2017, Beatty left work half an hour early, and her assertion that it was because she did not take lunch that day was unsupported by the evidence. Thus, there were occasions on which she simply left work early and failed to work her full shift, which I CONCLUDE constitute neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a public employee.

On January 27, 2017, Beatty reported to work not in uniform as required, which I CONCLUDE was a violation of Meadowview policy and constituted neglect of duty and insubordination.

On February 21, 2017, Beatty left work early without approval and failed to work her full shift. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this constituted neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming a public employee. Additionally, I CONCLUDE that her refusal to make the trip to Hoboken constituted insubordination, neglect of duty, and conduct unbecoming a public employee.

As more specifically set forth above, I CONCLUDE that the charges of neglect of duty, insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause are sustained. The penalty imposed by the County was a ninety-working-day suspension. The Civil Service Commission may increase or decrease the penalty imposed by the appointing authority, though removal cannot be substituted for a lesser penalty. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19. When determining the appropriate penalty, the Commission must utilize the evaluation process set forth in West New York v. Bock, 38

N.J. 500 (1962), and consider the employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations, and the like, as well as formally adjudicated disciplinary actions and instances of misconduct informally adjudicated.

In view of Beatty's numerous instances of misconduct, as well as her disciplinary history, most recently a twenty-day suspension, I CONCLUDE that a sixty-working-day suspension is an appropriate penalty in this matter.

ORDER

I ORDER that the charges of neglect of duty, insubordination, conduct unbecoming a public employee, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause are sustained. I further ORDER that the penalty of a ninety-working-day suspension is MODIFIED to sixty working days, and that Beatty be awarded back pay in accordance with the guidelines set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 if she has already served any period of the suspension.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

[REMAINDER OF PAGE INTENTIONALLY BLANK]

Now, Wherefore, in consideration of the Parties' mutual promises and covenants contained herein, and good and valuable consideration, which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree to the terms and conditions as set forth at length herein.

Terms

1. Definitions; Recitals. The above-referenced Definitions and Recitals, in all respects, are incorporated herein by reference.

2. City Council Approval. This Agreement is subject to formal approval through adoption of a resolution by the City's governing body ("City Council") within 30 days following execution of same by Bailey. The Parties understand and acknowledge that execution of this Agreement by anyone acting on the City Council's behalf shall only be construed as confirmation that negotiation of the terms contained herein was authorized by the City Council's Subcommittee on Law and Legislation and that this Agreement is recommended for approval by the City Council, but under no circumstance shall such execution be considered effective and/or binding upon the City prior to formal approval by the City Council.

3. Consideration.

3.1. In consideration for Bailey's undertaking to be bound by this Agreement following the delivery to the City of a copy of the Agreement executed by Bailey, in addition to voluntarily withdrawal of the Notice of Claim with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.1 below, dismissing the Appeal with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.2 below, the general releases set forth in Paragraph 8 below, and Bailey's agreement to be bound by the nondisclosure and non-disparagement provisions set forth in this Agreement, the City shall make a single, lump-sum payment equal to $50,000.00 ("Settlement Payment") directly to Bailey's legal counsel, Sciarra & Catrambone LLC, and not to Bailey. The Settlement Payment shall be made in the manner set forth in Subparagraph 3.1.1 below, and shall be allocable to Bailey's legal fees, but shall not, in any way, be construed as an admission, allocation or apportionment of liability with respect to any of the Parties.

3.1.1. The Settlement Payment shall be made payable and sent to "Sciarra & Catrambone LLC" at the address set forth in Paragraph 10 below, such that it is received within 30 days after this Agreement is fully-executed. The City shall issue IRS form 1099 to Bailey and Sciarra & Catrambone LLC in connection with the Settlement Payment; however, the Parties expressly acknowledge that Bailey is not receiving any portion of the Settlement Payment.

3.1.2. Concurrent with Bailey's execution of this Agreement, her legal counsel, Sciarra & Catrambone LLC, shall provide the City with an IRS Form W-9.

3.1.3. The Parties make no representations regarding the federal or state tax consequences of the Settlement Payment. In the event any governmental bodies impose any taxes for the Settlement Payment upon Bailey, she agrees that she shall be solely responsible and liable for any such taxes and agrees to indemnify and hold the City harmless from and against any and all taxes, penalties and interest imposed and any and all expenses incurred as a result of or in connection with the payment of the Settlement Payment.

4. Withdrawal of Claims; Dismissal of Appeal.

4.1. As consideration for the Settlement Payment pursuant to Paragraph 3 above, Bailey's reinstatement pursuant to Paragraph 5 below, and in addition to the general releases set forth in Paragraph 8 below, Bailey agrees that by executing this Agreement, the Notice of Claim and the Alleged Torts shall be deemed withdrawn with prejudice.

4.2. As further consideration for the Settlement Payment pursuant to Paragraph 3 above, Bailey's reinstatement pursuant to Paragraph 5 below, and in addition to the general releases set forth in Paragraph 8 below, Bailey shall voluntarily dismiss the Appeal with prejudice. Concurrent with Bailey's execution of this Agreement, her legal counsel shall execute a Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal, consistent with the form appended hereto as Schedule A, dismissing the Appeal with prejudice ("Stipulation"), and shall submit an original copy of the Stipulation, bearing a "wet ink" signature, to the City's Office of the Corporation Counsel along with the original executed copy of this Agreement.

4.2.1. The executed copy of the Stipulation shall be held in escrow by the City's Office of the Corporation Counsel until this Agreement is approved by the City Council pursuant to Paragraph 2 above and executed by the City Administrator. Within 10 days after this Agreement is fully-executed by the Parties, the Stipulation shall be filed with the OAL along with a copy of this Agreement, thereby dismissing the Appeal and all claims alleged therein, with prejudice and without costs.

4.3. Bailey certifies that she has no other charges, claims and/or complaints of any kind currently pending against the City arising out of the subject matter of the Appeal and/or the Notice of Claim, including without limitation the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and/or the Alleged Torts. Bailey further certifies that she has not assigned to any third-party any right or claim that she had, may have had or now has, and/or believes she had, may have had or now has against the City arising out of the subject matter of the Appeal or the Notice of Claim, including without limitation the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and the Alleged Torts.

4.4. As consideration for Bailey voluntarily withdrawing the Notice of Claim with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.1 above, dismissing the Appeal with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.2 above, and the general releases set forth in Paragraph 8 below, the City agrees to withdraw the Disgorgement Claim, and any other known or contemplated actions or claims against Bailey regarding the conduct related to the 2016 Disciplinary Charges, with prejudice.

4.5. As further consideration for Bailey voluntarily withdrawing the Notice of Claim with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.1 above, dismissing the Appeal with prejudice pursuant to Subparagraph 4.2 above, and the general releases set forth in Paragraph 8 below, the City agrees to dismiss the 2016 Disciplinary Charges with prejudice, and further agrees to issue an Amended Final Notice of Disciplinary Action in the proposed form appended hereto as Schedule B ("2018 Amended FNDA"), to reflect that none of the 2016 Disciplinary Charges are sustained and no discipline is being imposed as a result of the 2016 Disciplinary Charges.

4.5.1. Within 7 days after this Agreement is fully-executed by the Parties, the City shall file the 2018 Amended FNDA with the Commission.

4.6. The City certifies that it has no other charges, claims and/or complaints of any kind currently pending against Bailey arising out of the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and/or the Disgorgement Claim. The City further certifies that it has not assigned to any third-party any right or claim that it had, may have had or now has, and/or believes it had, may have had or now has against Bailey arising out of the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and/or the Disgorgement Claim.

5. Reinstatement; Training/Re-Training.

5.1. Within 45 days after this Agreement is fully-executed by the Parties, Bailey shall be reinstated to the City's active payroll, with the same compensation, benefits, rank, tenure and seniority that she had as of her removal on January 23, 2018, in accordance with the collective negotiations agreement between the City and the FOP Lodge 111. Upon successful completion of all training/re-training pursuant to Subparagraph 5.2 below, Bailey shall be assigned to a unit within the EOPD as determined by the Chief of Police or her designee.

5.2. Upon her reinstatement pursuant to Subparagraph 5.1 above, Bailey shall be enrolled in any training/re-training programs that may be required by the New Jersey Police Training Commission ("PTC") in accordance with the Police Training Act, N.J.S.A. 52:17B-66 et seq. and/or any other applicable statute or regulation. Said training/re-training shall be completed through a police academy approved by the PTC ("Police Academy"), and Bailey shall be enrolled in the first-available training/re-training program. Selection of the Police Academy shall be within the sole discretion of the City; however, the City agrees to make best efforts to arrange for Bailey to complete any required training/re-training at the Essex County College Police Academy.

5.2.1. The City shall bear the full cost of Bailey's training/re-training but shall not be responsible for payment or reimbursement of any other expenses associated with said training/re-training (e.g., supplies, uniforms, etc.).

5.2.2. For purposes of Subparagraph 5.2, the term "first-available training/re-training program" shall mean the first training/re-training program with an open seat that is conducted by a City-selected Police Academy, where the start date falls after the date this Agreement is fully-executed and the Stipulation and 2018 Amended FNDA are filed.

5.3. Bailey acknowledges that her reinstatement pursuant to Subparagraph 5.1 above shall become permanent only upon successful completion of all training/re-training that may be required by the PTC and that, while attending said training/re-training, she shall be responsible for complying with the requirements of said training/re-training, and agrees to strictly adhere to any applicable rules, regulations and policies imposed by the Police Academy.

5.4. Bailey further acknowledges that if she is removed from any required training/re-training program by the Police Academy for any reason, and/or fails to successfully complete all training/re-training required by the PTC, she may be declared ineligible for continued employment with the City as a Police Officer by the PTC. The Parties expressly acknowledge that any action taken by the City relating to Bailey's removal from and/or failure to successfully complete any required training/re-training shall be subject to her rights to a hearing and/or appeal on such action under the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq., and its implementing regulations codified under N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1 et seq.; however, such action shall not serve as grounds for either of the Parties to allege a breach of this Agreement, and shall have no bearing upon the provisions set forth under Paragraphs 3 or 4 above, or the releases set forth under Paragraph 8 below.

5.5. The Parties acknowledge that if Bailey successfully completes all required training/re-training and her reinstatement pursuant to Subparagraph 5.1 above becomes permanent, she shall satisfactorily perform the duties of a Police Officer as assigned to her and shall be evaluated in the same manner as all other Police Officers in the City.

5.6. The Parties acknowledge that, by virtue of this Agreement, Bailey shall not be entitled to any special preferences and shall not be subject to retaliation by the City, either while attending the Police Academy or, if she successfully completes all required training/re-training, while serving as an employee of the City.

[REMAINDER OF PAGE INTENTIONALLY BLANK]

6. Future Discipline.

6.1. Bailey acknowledges that she is currently facing separate charges of driving while intoxicated and related offenses in Union Township and Bloomfield Township (collectively, "Pending DWI Charges"). Bailey further acknowledges that if she is convicted of any or all of the Pending DWI Charges, her driving privileges may be suspended or revoked, and she may be subject to further disciplinary action by the City, up to and including removal.

6.2. Bailey expressly acknowledges that she is entering into this Agreement with the understanding that the City is not waiving its right to take disciplinary action based on the Pending DWI Charges and/or her conviction of any or all of the Pending DWI Charges. Bailey further agrees that any disciplinary action based on the Pending DWI Charges shall not be construed as an act of retaliation by the City.

6.3. The Parties specifically agree that any future disciplinary action by the City against Bailey, and/or any other incident(s) occurring after this Agreement is executed, shall have no bearing or effect upon the provisions set forth under Paragraphs 3 or 4 above, or the releases set forth under Paragraph 8 below.

6.4. Bailey further acknowledges that, if she fails to perform any of her obligations under this Agreement and/or breaches this Agreement in any way, the City may, in its sole discretion and in lieu of or in addition to an action to enforce the Agreement, rescind the 2018 Amended FNDA (if filed with the Commission), and reinstate the 2018 FNDA, along with the discipline imposed thereunder, without being subject to any time limitations set forth in the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq., its implementing regulations codified under N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1 et seq., and/or any other applicable statutes, regulations, rules, ordinances, collective negotiations agreements or contractual provisions. If the City files an action to enforce this Agreement and Bailey is subsequently ordered by a court to perform and/or remedy the breach, the City shall reissue the 2018 Amended FNDA upon Bailey's compliance with that order.

7. Waiver of Back Pay. Bailey agrees that she is not entitled to any back pay or other compensation from the City for any period prior to her reinstatement pursuant to Subparagraph 5.1 above, including without limitation the period between October 23, 2014, and July 1, 2016, or the period subsequent to January 23, 2018, and by executing this Agreement, Bailey expressly waives any and all right and/or claim to any such back pay and other compensation.

8. General Releases.

8.1. The term "Releasees" as used throughout this Paragraph 8, shall specifically include the City and its present or former, direct or indirect affiliates, departments, boards, authorities, commissions, officers (elected or appointed), agents, administrators, insurers, attorneys, representatives, past and present employees and their respective heirs, representatives, successors and assigns.

8.2. In consideration of the promises contained in this Agreement, to which Bailey acknowledges she would not otherwise be entitled, Bailey agrees on her own behalf and on behalf of her representatives, heirs, estates, executors, administrators and assigns, and anyone claiming by, through or for her (collectively, "Releasors"), to irrevocably and unconditionally waive, release and discharge the Releasees from any and all actions, claims, counterclaims, cross-claims, third-party claims, allegations, demands, complaints, covenants, contracts, controversies, promises, judgments, obligations, duties, charges, legal/equitable/administrative causes of action, liability, lawsuits, costs, expenses, fees (including attorneys' fees, court costs, expert witness fees, etc.), damages, remedies and losses, known or unknown, which the Releasors ever had, may have had, or which were asserted or could have been asserted in any other forum as a result of any event or circumstance arising or existing prior to the date of the execution of this Agreement relating to the subject matter of the Appeal and/or the Notice of Claim, including without limitation the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and/or the Alleged Torts, and any claim or matter arising out of or relating, directly or indirectly, to any federal, state or local statute, common law, regulation, administrative decision, or municipal ordinance.

8.2.1. The claims and potential claims deemed to be released by the Releasors shall include, by way of example and not limitation: (a) any claims or causes of action in law, equity, contract, tort and/or public policy; (b) any claims or causes of action for breach of express or implied contracts, collective negotiations agreements and/or employment agreements, whether express or implied; (c) any claims or causes of action for negligence, failure to accommodate, retaliation, harassment and/or discrimination based upon, among other things, disability, handicap, sex, age and/or race; (d) any claims or causes of action for wrongful discharge, infliction of emotional distress, failure to promote, improper demotion, defamation and/or wrongful discharge; and, (e) any claims which were raised or could have been raised in the context of the Appeal.

8.3. Bailey agrees that she will not file or cause to be filed any charge, claim or complaint of any kind against the Releasees seeking civil and/or criminal sanctions, personal recovery and/or injunctive relief based upon any facts relating to the subject matter of the Appeal and/or the Notice of Claim, including without limitation the 2016 Amended FNDA, the 2018 FNDA and/or the Alleged Torts.

8.4. Nothing in this Agreement shall prohibit Bailey from filing a charge with or participating in any investigation or proceeding against the Releasees conducted by any governmental agency relating to the 2016 Disciplinary Charges, to the extent such a prohibition is inconsistent with applicable law; however, Bailey agrees to waive her right to recover any individual or monetary damages in any charge, investigation or proceeding against the Releasees by her or anyone else on her behalf, including any governmental agency, relating to the 2016 Disciplinary Charges.

8.5. The releases and waivers contained in Subparagraphs 8.2 and 8.3 above do not apply or extend to any right that, as a matter of law, cannot be released or waived, including without limitation unemployment insurance and workers' compensation benefits. However, Bailey affirmatively represents that, while employed by the City, she did not sustain any injuries that would have been compensable under the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, N.J.S.A. 34:15-1 et seq., as amended. Bailey also represents that she was paid all (nonwaived) wages due and owing to her by the City and was not denied any leave of absence accommodation by the City.

8.6. The releases contained in Subparagraphs 8.2 and 8.3 above are intended to be construed, collectively, as a full, final and general release by the Releasors of all claims against the Releasees to the broadest extent permitted by law and represent a full and final settlement of all claims as set forth in this Agreement. This means that the Releasors release all respective present and future claims that they have and/or may have had against the Releasees, including those not specifically mentioned in this Agreement; however, it is expressly acknowledged that the provisions of this Paragraph 8 shall not apply to or preclude any claims necessary to seek enforcement of the terms of this Agreement.

9. Beneficiaries of Agreement. This Agreement shall be binding on and inure to the benefit of the Parties, their respective present or former affiliates, departments, officers, directors, members, shareholders, agents, administrators, insurers, attorneys, representatives, past and present employees and all their respective heirs, representatives, successors and assigns.

10. Communications Between Parties; Notice. All communications between the Parties regarding the execution and implementation of this Agreement shall be through their respective legal counsel. Notices required or provided for hereunder shall be deemed to have been validly given upon receipt by the party to whom such notice is to be given through certified mail or other trackable means (e.g., Federal Express, UPS, Lawyers Service, etc.) and electronic mail, addressed as follows:

11. Nondisclosure; Non-Disparagement.

11.1. The Parties hereby agree that this Agreement contains confidential personnel information, and shall not be subject to public disclosure unless ordered by a Court of competent jurisdiction or the New Jersey Government Records Council. Notwithstanding, the Parties acknowledge that the City is a governmental entity and, as a result, may be required under the Open Public Records Act, N.J.S.A. 47:1A-1 et seq. ("OPRA") to disclose certain terms of this Agreement to the public upon request; however, to the extent the City is required to release this Agreement under OPRA, it shall be released in redacted form--without disclosing any confidential information.

11.2. Subject to Subparagraph 11.1 above, the Parties agree that, except as required by law, if asked, they or their respective attorneys may state that there was a dispute between the Parties that was resolved amicably but shall not disclose any details regarding this Agreement. This provision shall not limit the Parties or their respective attorneys from disclosing the terms of this Agreement where such disclosure: (a) is required by subpoena; (b) is required under an order entered by an arbitrator or court of competent jurisdiction; or (c) is necessary to implement, enforce and/or give effect to the terms of this Agreement. If either of the Parties is required to disclose the terms of this Agreement by subpoena, arbitrator or court for any reason, that party will provide the other party with written notice pursuant to Paragraph 10 above, at least 10 calendar days (including holidays) prior to making any such disclosure. If the Parties are required to file a copy this Agreement with a court or other tribunal for purposes of enforcing its terms, they shall make all efforts to do so under seal.

11.3. Except as required by Subparagraphs 11.1 and 11.2 above, the Parties agree that they shall not disclose, or cause to be disclosed, the terms of this Agreement, or the fact that this Agreement exists, except to immediate family members (i.e., spouse and children), attorneys, accountants and/or tax advisors, as applicable. Each such person who is provided information regarding the terms of this Agreement shall first be required to review this Agreement and agree to abide by the limitations on disclosure.

11.4. Bailey agrees that neither she nor her respective heirs, representatives, successors and assigns will directly or indirectly, in any capacity or manner, make, express, transmit, speak, write, verbalize or otherwise communicate in any way (or cause, further, assist, solicit, encourage, support or participate in any of the foregoing), any remark, comment, message, information, declaration, communication or other statement of any kind, whether verbal, in writing, electronically transferred or otherwise, that might reasonably be construed to be derogatory or critical of, or negative toward the City its present or former, direct or indirect affiliates, departments, boards, authorities, commissions, officers (elected or appointed), agents, administrators, insurers, attorneys, representatives, past and present employees and any and all of their respective heirs, representatives, successors and assigns.

11.5. The City agrees to instruct the Chief of Police and EOPD superior officers (i.e., Deputy Police Chiefs, Police Captains, Police Lieutenants and Police Sergeants) not to defame Bailey.

11.6. The Parties acknowledge that the provisions set forth in Subparagraphs 11.1 through 11.5 above are material terms of this Agreement and that, but for said provisions, the Parties would not enter into this Agreement.

12. Enforcement; Applicable Law; Choice of Forum/Venue.

12.1. The Parties acknowledge that their respective obligations under this Agreement are special to the circumstances and monetary damages may be inadequate to remedy a breach. Accordingly, except as provided in Subparagraph 6.4 above, in the event either party materially breaches any term or provision of this Agreement, the non-breaching party shall be entitled to bring an action against the breaching party for enforcement, including without limitation an action for specific performance. This entitlement shall not accrue, however, until the non-breaching party provides written notice to the breaching party in accordance with Paragraph 10 above and allows the breaching party at least 15 calendar days (including holidays) to remedy the breach.

12.2. This Agreement is made and entered into in the State of New Jersey and shall, in all respects, be interpreted, enforced and governed under the laws of this State.

12.3. The Superior Court of New Jersey, and any courts with direct appellate authority over said court, shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes arising out of or relating to, directly or indirectly, the interpretation, application, alleged violation, and enforcement of any provision of this Agreement.

13. Informed Agreement.

13.1. The City expressly certifies that it is fully-informed of its rights and obligations under this Agreement, and enters into this Agreement voluntarily and without force, constraint, compulsion, coercion, intimidation, duress or hardship.

13.2. Bailey expressly certifies that: (a) she has read the Agreement in its entirety; (b) she is fully-informed of and understands the terms of the Agreement; (c) she knows that she is giving up important rights and claims, including, but not limited to, rights and claims under the constitutions, statutes, regulations and common law listed in Paragraph 8 above, and that she is giving up any such rights or claims in exchange for the Settlement Payment as set forth under Paragraph 3 above and the City's agreement to reinstate her as set forth under Paragraph 5 above; (d) she has consulted or had the opportunity to consult with her legal counsel prior to executing this Agreement; (e) she has had a reasonable amount of time to consider the terms of this Agreement and, by executing same, she acknowledges that she has taken as much time as she deems necessary to consider the terms of this Agreement; and, (f) she executes this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily, without force, constraint, compulsion, coercion, intimidation, duress or hardship.

14. No Admission of Liability; No Past Practice. This Agreement shall not be construed, in part or in whole, as an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party with respect to the other. Furthermore, the City's consent to the Settlement Payment and/or Bailey's reinstatement shall not be construed as establishing a past practice for purposes of any grievance, unfair practice charge or other administrative or legal action against the City by any City employee (or any labor union, on behalf of any City employee), and shall not be binding upon the City as a past practice with respect to disciplinary action against any other City employee.

15. No Prevailing Party; Legal Fees & Costs. Neither Bailey nor the City shall be deemed a prevailing party under any fee-shifting principles, and notwithstanding the Settlement Payment, they shall each be responsible for payment of their own respective legal fees and costs relating to the Appeal and negotiation of this Agreement. Furthermore, neither Bailey nor the City shall be entitled to bring any action in any forum for any legal fees and/or costs against the other, and this provision fully and finally waives and extinguishes the Parties' respective rights to recover any legal fees and/or costs from one another.

16. Headings; Construction.

16.1. The headings of the several paragraphs and subparagraphs in this Agreement are solely for the convenience of reference and shall have no further meaning, force or effect.

16.2. The language contained in this Agreement is deemed to have been negotiated and drafted collaboratively by the Parties, and no provision of this Agreement shall be interpreted (in part or in whole) in favor of or against either of the Parties as a drafter. In all cases, this Agreement shall be construed as a whole according to its objective and fair meaning.

17. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the Parties regarding all aspects of the final and complete settlement of the Disciplinary Action and all other known or unknown claims by or between the Parties existing as of the Effective Date, and supersedes all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to same.

18. Modification. This Agreement shall only be amended, modified and/or amplified in a writing executed by the Parties. Oral statements by any person shall not serve to amend, modify and/or amplify the terms and provisions of this Agreement in any way.

19. Severability; Waiver. If any court of competent jurisdiction declares or determines that any provision of this Agreement is illegal, invalid or otherwise unenforceable, the validity and enforceability of the remaining provisions shall remain unaffected and the illegal, invalid or unenforceable provision shall be deemed removed from this Agreement. Furthermore, either party's failure to insist upon strict performance of any provision and/or obligation under this Agreement shall not operate as a waiver of that provision and/or obligation and shall not preclude that party from seeking enforcement of said provision and/or obligation pursuant to Paragraph 8 above at any time.

20. Signatures; Counterparts. The undersigned certify that they have full authority to enter into and bind the parties for which they are respectively signing to the terms of this Agreement. This Agreement may be executed in 1 or more counterparts, all of which together shall be considered a single document and the same, and shall become effective when 1 or more counterparts have been signed by each of the Parties. It is understood that the Parties need not sign the same counterpart.

Ms. Masker and Mr. Mizrahi:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Rajheher Massenburg (Bailey) from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, the settlement indicates that Ms. Massenburg's removal effective January 23, 2018 is being settled to, among other things, reinstatement. However, while the settlement indicates that she will not be receiving back pay, it does not specifically indicate how to record the time from January 23, 2018 until her actual reinstatement. Before a settlement can be acknowledged by the Civil Service Commission, all periods of time must be specifically accounted for in an employee's personnel record. For example, is that time period to be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties. Please make sure you "reply to all."

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: OCTOBER 5, 2018 BW

The appeal of Michael Megara, Police Officer, Township of Riverside, Department of Public Safety, removal effective June 27, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Tama B. Hughes, who rendered her initial decision on August 31, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of October 3, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Michael Megara.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSR 09622-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A
2018-27

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL MEGARA, TOWNSHIP OF RIVERSIDE.

Thomas A. Cushane, Esq., for appellant, Michael Megara (Cushane Law Firm, LLC, attorney)

Armando V. Riccio, Esq., for respondent, Township of Riverside (Armando V. Riccio, LLC, attorney)

Record Closed: August 22, 2018 Decided: August 31, 2019

BEFORE TAMA B. HUGHES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Michael Megara (appellant), appeals his removal as a police officer with the Township of Riverside (respondent). Respondent terminated appellant's employment following his denial of enrollment by the Division of Pensions and Benefits (Division) into the Police and Firemen's Retirement System (PFRS) and requirement by law that participation in PFRS was required as a condition of employment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The original Petition of Appeal was filed with the Civil Service Commission (CSC) on June 30, 2017.[1] The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case where it was received on July 5, 2017. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Appellant waived the 180-day hearing requirement on August 3, 2017. Due to ongoing discovery issues, the hearing dates were set for April 11, 2018, April 18, 2018 and April 19, 2018. On February 16, 2018, respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision. On February 26, 2018, the parties requested that the hearing dates be adjourned and the matter heard on the papers by way of Cross-Motions for Summary Decision. On April 2, 2018, appellant filed a Cross-Motion for Summary Decision. Oral Argument on the motions was held on June 21, 2018. Subsequently, appellant submitted additional documentation for consideration.[2] The record closed on August 22, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The following facts are not in dispute in this matter and as such I FIND them as FACT:

From December 2009 through August 2010, appellant was a Special Law Enforcement Officer (SLEO) for the City of Cape May located in Cape May County. (Certification of appellant, Exhibit B; respondent's Statement of Facts and Exhibits G, H, I and J.)

[1] Appellant filed an appeal with the Division; however, the Board of PFRS (Board) declined to hear the matter as appellant was not currently employed as a "policeman", therefore, there was no enrollment issue for the Board to consider. (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibit GG.) It is appellant's position that subject to this Tribunal's determination in the instant matter, an appeal of the Board's adverse-enrollment determination is still possible.

[2] Counsel for appellant submitted a copy of a Complaint in Lieu of Prerogative Writ (Complaint) which appellant filed against the Township of Riverside and requested that judicial notice be taken of the filing. This Tribunal does not have jurisdiction over the Complaint and the basis for it are not dispositive or relevant to the issues presented in this matter. As such, the supplemental submission has not been considered in the determination of this matter.

In 2010, appellant successfully completed the Law Enforcement Examination (LEE). As of the "Closing Date" for the 2010 LEE, respondent was under the age of thirty-five. The only municipality for which appellant sought certification as a full-time police officer was Gloucester Township located in Gloucester County. At the time appellant took the LEE, he resided in Camden County. (Second Certification of appellant, ¶ 6; respondent's Statement of Facts and Exhibit M.) Under the 2010 LEE guidelines, residency codes cannot be changed after the Closing Date for acceptance of applications. (Respondent's Brief, Exhibits N, and O.)

By law, no person may be appointed as a member or officer of a police department in any municipality wherein Title 11 (Civil Service) is operative, who is over the age of thirty-five. One exception to this rule is credit for time served in certain law enforcement titles. (Respondent's Brief, Exhibits F, N, O, and P.) Notice of the age requirements is given to LEE applicants as part of the application process. The position of SLEO does not fall within one of the exceptions. (N.J.S.A. 40A:14-146.14.)

From February 2011 through April 2012, appellant was a SLEO for respondent, which is located in Burlington County.

In August 2012, a revised Certification of Eligibles for Appointment List was posted wherein appellant's rank rose to fourth on the List of Eligibles for Gloucester County. (Appellant's Reply Brief, Exhibit L.)

In April 2012 through October 2014, he was employed by the City of Beverly (Beverly) as a SLEO. Beverly is located in Burlington County.[3] (Certification of appellant, Exhibit B; respondent's Statement of Facts and Exhibits G, H, I and J.)

On February 19, 2013, an internal memorandum was sent to the Gloucester Police Department (Gloucester), Chief Harry Earle, requesting that appellant be placed back on the current Certification of Eligibles List for Appointment. (Appellant's Reply Brief, Exhibit M.)

[3] Both Beverly and respondent are jurisdictions where Title 11 is operative.

In May 2013, Beverly, on behalf of appellant, submitted an enrollment application for PFRS. (Respondent's Brief, Exhibit K – Bate Stamp 424.)

By letter dated June 4, 2013, the Division denied appellant's enrollment application as the position/title of SLEO did not fall within one of the eligible titles to qualify for the PFRS. (Respondent's brief, Exhibit K - bate stamp P426 – 429, P-466 – 467.) On June 11, 2013, Beverly passed a resolution to make appellant a "full time police officer". (Respondent's Brief, Exhibit K – bate stamp 468.) By letter dated June 24, 2013, the Division requested additional documentation from Beverly/appellant in the form of a copy of the "Certification of Eligibles For Appointment (CS-10)" and a "copy of the flyer which shows the closing date for the examination and the position for which the applicant is applying." (Second Certification of appellant, ¶ 20; respondent's Brief, Exhibit K – bate stamp 471.) This information was never produced and appellant was not enrolled in the PFRS.

By letter dated July 2, 2013, appellant requested that he be removed from Gloucester's hiring process due to having obtained a full-time position as a police officer in Beverly. (Appellant's Reply Brief, Exhibit N.)

In the fall of 2013, while employed by the City of Beverly, appellant took the LEE. As of the Closing Date of September 4, 2013, appellant was thirty-seven years and twenty-five days old. (Second Certification of appellant ¶ 20; appellant's reply brief, Exhibit O; Respondent's Brief, Exhibits A, C, and E.)

In December 2013, appellant enrolled in the Public Employees Retirement System (PERS). (Respondent's Brief, Exhibits R, S and T.)

In October 2014, respondent resigned his position as a SLEO with Beverly having accepted a position with appellant as a Municipal Police Officer from the active Civil Service list. (Certification of Meghan Jack, ¶ 2; Respondent's Brief, Exhibit W.)

On or about January 8, 2015, respondent submitted an application for enrollment into the PFRS for appellant. On this same date, the Division denied the application for a number of reasons, one of which was appellant's age at the time of enrollment and second his lack of qualifying reductions to reduce and satisfy the age requirements. (Appellant's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit N; Certification of Meghan Jack.)

On March 5, 2015, respondent submitted a "Report of Transfer/Multiple Enrollment Form" with the Division seeking to transfer appellant's PFRS pension from Beverly to Riverside. (Second Certification of Meghan Jack, ¶ 6 and Exhibit B.) On this same date, the Division denied the application due to appellant's age at the time of enrollment and lack of qualifying reductions to reduce and satisfy the age requirements. Additional documentation was requested to satisfy the age requirement. Without the requested information, the "application would be considered an illegal hire". (Appellant's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit O.)

On March 6, 2015, respondent submitted additional information for consideration by the Division. (Appellant's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit P.)

On April 6, 2015, the Division notified respondent that an enrollment application for PFRS was required along with an Interfund Transfer Form (if eligible). Thereafter, on May 26, 2015, the Division also requested additional documentation in the form of "a copy of the Certification of Eligible for Appointment (CS-10)" and a copy of the "flyer which shows the closing date of the examination and the position for which the applicant is applying". (Appellant's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibits Q and R.)

On June 4, 2015, appellant submitted to the Division, an Enrollment Application for appellant into the PFRS and an application for Interfund Transfer to the Division seeking to transfer his PERS pension into the PFRS. (Appellant's Cross-Motion for Summary Decision, Exhibit R; respondent's Brief, Exhibit V.)

By letter dated January 11, 2016, the Division advised respondent that as a result of appellant having no former qualifying membership service time and due to his age, he would be considered an "illegal hire". (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibit U; respondent's Brief, Exhibit A.) Even after receipt of this correspondence, over the ensuing months, respondent continued to seek enrollment of appellant into the PFRS. (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibits V – AA; First Certification of Meghan Jack.)

By letter dated March 10, 2017, the Division again advised respondent that appellant's application for admission into the PFRS was denied because appellant was overaged and did not have any qualifying reductions to reduce and satisfy the age requirements. Through this letter, respondent was reminded that enrollment in the PFRS was a condition of employment, absent which, the individual could not be hired. (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibit BB; respondent's Brief, Exhibit C.)

On June 7, 2017, appellant was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) containing the following charges: 1) Unfit as it pertains to meeting legal requirements for the position; 2) Inability to perform job duties; and 3) Other sufficient cause. The disciplinary action sought was removal. The basis for the charges alleged inter alia that on January 11, 2016, the Division advised respondent that appellant was not eligible to become a member of the PFRS as he did not meet the age requirements. Based upon appellant's ongoing representation that he had been hired by Beverly from a list of "Eligibles", respondent continued to pursue enrollment in the PFRS on his behalf. On March 10, 2017, the Division reiterated its determination that appellant was overaged and therefore ineligible to enroll in the PFRS. (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibit CC.)

On June 28, 2017, appellant was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) wherein the sustained charges determined that appellant was: 1) Unfit as it pertains to meeting legal requirements for the position; 2) Inability to perform job duties; 3) Other sufficient cause. The disciplinary action sought was removal effective June 27, 2017. The sustained charges stated inter alia that on January 11, 2016, the Division advised respondent that appellant was not eligible to become a member of the PFRS as he did not meet the age requirements. Based upon appellant's ongoing representation that he had been hired by Beverly from a "List of Eligibles", respondent continued to pursue enrollment in the PFRS on his behalf. On March 10, 2017, the Division reiterated it's determination that appellant was overaged and there ineligible to enroll in the PFRS. (Appellant's Brief in Support of Summary Decision, Exhibit DD.)

After review of the documentary evidence submitted, in addition to the findings of FACT above, I FIND as FACT that as early as May/June 2013, while employed with Beverly, appellant was placed on notice that as a SLEO, he would not be eligible to participate in PFRS.

I further FIND that appellant voluntarily removed himself from consideration for a position with Gloucester: before he took the 2013 LEE; before he received the results of the 2013 LEE; and over a year before he applied for a job with respondent.

In FIND that appellant was cognizant of the fact that he had already "aged-out" when he took the 2013 LEE; that he did not have qualifying time as a law enforcement officer to reduce his age; and that he was ineligible for enrollment into the PFRS and to hold the position of Municipal Police Officer.

I further FIND that when he resigned from Beverly, he held the position of SLEO. (Appellant's Motion for Summary Judgment, Exhibit M.) I FIND that respondent, appellant provided a resume indicating that he was a police officer with Beverly and credentials which identified him as a patrolman with Beverly. (Appellant's Reply Brief, Exhibit Q; Second Certification of Michael Megara ¶ 35 and 37; Second Certification of Meghan Jack, Exhibit A.)

I FIND that at the time of hire, respondent believed that appellant was eligible for enrollment into the PFRS based upon his prior law enforcement experience and actively sought membership on his behalf. (Appellant's Second Certification, ¶ 28; First and Second Certification of Meghan Jack.)

I FIND that there was no knowing and intentional misrepresentation on the part of respondent to appellant regarding the hiring process or respondent's ability to enroll respondent in the PFRS.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 1:12-5, governing motions for summary decision, permits early disposition of a case before the case is heard if, based on the papers and discovery which have been filed, it can be decided "that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:12-5(b). The provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:12-5 mirror the language of R. 4:46-2 of the New Jersey Court Rules governing motions for summary judgment. To survive summary decision, the opposing party must show that "there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid. Failure to do so entitles the moving party to summary decision. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995).

Moreover, even if the non-moving party comes forward with some evidence, this forum must grant summary decision if the evidence is "so one-sided that [the moving party] must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 536. This tribunal is required to do "the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials as required by Rule 4:37-2(b) in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial." Id. at 539-540. Like the New Jersey Supreme Court's standard for summary judgment, summary decision is designed to "liberalize the standards so as to permit summary [decision] in a larger number of cases" due to the perception that we live in "a time of great increase in litigation and one in which many meritless cases are filed." Id. at 539 (citation omitted).

In the instant matter, the sustained charges against appellant were:

1. Unfit as it pertains to meeting legal requirements for the position;
2. Inability to perform job duties
3. Other sufficient cause.

The incident giving rise to the sustained charges state in part:

> "The Township of Riverside has relied upon your representations that you met all requirements, including but not limited to prior service and age requirements imposed by law and subject to State regulations, which would enable the Township to appoint you to the Civil Service title of police officer..."

Appellant concedes that at the time he took the 2013 LEE, he was over the age of thirty-five and had no prior creditable full-time law enforcement services that would reduce his age at the time of the Closing Date for the examination. Appellant argues however, that the principal of estoppel is applicable in this matter because: 1) The Civil Service Commission permitted him to sit for the 2013 LEE and placed him on the "Certified List of Eligibles"; 2) Respondent hired him off of the civil service list despite knowing his age at the time he was hired; 3) From the date of hire to the date of termination, his employment record was impeccable; and 4) he turned down an offer of employment with Gloucester based upon assurances from respondent's representatives of that he would be hired.[4]

Respondent argues: 1) As a matter of law, appellant is over the statutory age limit and therefore is ineligible for admission into the PFRS and appointment as a Municipal Police Officer; 2) Appellant's failure to avidly pursue review by the Division renders the instant appeal "moot" as this Tribunal lacks jurisdiction to render a decision pertaining to his enrollment in PFRS; 3) Equitable estoppel is an extraordinary relief for which appellant has failed to establish each element.

New Jersey statutory law prohibits the appointment of a full-time Police Officer whose age exceeds thirty-five years. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-127. Further, all full-time Municipal Police Officers must be enrolled in PFRS, which requires that a full-time

[4] Appellant asserts that he was offered a full-time position with the Gloucester County Police Department which he turned down based upon assurances from respondent's former and current Chief(s) of Police (Chief Tursi and Chief Earle – respectively) respondent would hire him as a full-time police officer if he got on the List of Eligibles. Respondent denies that any such promise of future employment was made and that appellant's claim of both a future job offer and reliance on appellant's part is a fabrication.

at 63. The Court went on to define the "relevant public and private interests" in that case that would "inform" the Board's analysis stating:

> [The Board] should look at the equities from Sellers' point of view, considering whether the government failed to "turn square corners" with him, whether he acted in good faith and reasonably, the degree of harm he will sustain if the age requirement is strictly enforced, and other factors that go to the fairness of applying the age restriction to him after he was hired and left a previous job to take the position. The Board must then consider the purposes of the age restrictions from the perspective of the municipal firefighter position and the pension system and determine whether or to what extent those purposes will be thwarted if relief is provided to Mr. Sellers, taking into account the extent to which he fails to meet the age criteria and the overall pension scheme.

In Petry v. Board of Trs., Police & Fireman's Ret. Sys., 2015 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 3011 the Appellate Court clarified its determination in Sellers stating:

> Despite our careful instruction, we did not compel the Board to conclude that Sellers was entitled to equitable relief. Nor did we hold that the Board is required to undertake this balancing analysis in every case where a municipality hires a police officer or firefighter whose age exceeds the statutory maximum.
> We stressed that the Board's equitable power is to be used "rarely and sparingly." Id. at 62. We acknowledged that granting equitable relief in such cases did not follow neatly from application of principles of equitable estoppel, because Sellers was "seeking to bind the Board, a State entity, for action taken by a municipality." Id. at 59; see also Bridgewater-Raritan Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ. of Bridgewater-Raritan Sch. Dist., 221 N.J. 349, 364-65, 113 A.3d 764 (2015) (refusing to bind school board to superintendent's representations regarding tenure eligibility, stating, "[i]n an application of estoppel the focus must be on the conduct of the person or entity who had the authority to act," which was the school board) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

In Juliano, a seventeen-year veteran and acting chief in a non-civil service municipality sued the municipality when she was passed over for appointment as chief. In defense, the Borough raised the argument that Juliano's original appointment should be declared illegal as she was over the age of thirty-five when appointed by the Borough. Citing to O'Malley v. Dept. of Energy, 212 N.J. Super. 114 (App. Div. 1986), the court found that the Borough could not assert that Juliano's appointment that had occurred seventeen years prior, was defective. In determining that estoppel was a proper remedy, the court stated:

> It is a disturbing prospect that a public employer could make an innocent mistake which could jeopardize an employee's job. In certain situations the employee might have to suffer the consequences. However, when the mistake is belatedly raised by the employer only in response to the employee's suit to enforce perceived employment rights, the mistake can be unforgivable and the employee should not suffer.
> Juliano at 510 – 511.

Here, appellant has failed to meet the essential elements of equitable estoppel. As early as April/May 2013, he was aware that he did not have qualifying law enforcement experience to reduce his age in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-127. When he sat for the 2013 LEE, he had already aged out and knew that his experience as a SLEO could not be counted towards the prior law enforcement experience required to reduce his age. As such, he was aware, long before he was hired by respondent and when he accepted the position with respondent, that he was over-aged and did not have any qualifying time to enable membership in the PFRS.

Appellant further argues that to his detriment, he turned down a job offer with Gloucester in reliance upon a future job opportunity with respondent. Assuming arguendo that that in fact was the case, any offer of future employment with respondent was speculative at best and fraught with a number of contingencies and intervening factors which included: appellant taking the 2013 LEE and scoring high enough to get placed on the List of Eligibles; respondent having a future job opening; appellant getting recommended and hired by respondent; and appellant qualifying for membership in the PFRS. As noted above, this last factor was the biggest hurdle and one which appellant, not respondent, was well aware of before he withdrew his name from Gloucester's consideration.

With regard to appellant's argument that he detrimentally relied upon the fact that he was allowed to sit for the 2013 LEE; that he was placed on the List of Eligibles from which respondent hired him; and that respondent was aware of his age at the time of hiring yet still hired him - this too lacks merit. As noted above, appellant was fully aware at the time he sat for the 2013 LEE, that he was overaged and had no qualifying law enforcement experience to reduce his age - yet he still sat for the exam. While it is undisputed that respondent hired petitioner off of the List of Eligibles and was aware of his age at the time of hire, it is equally undisputed that respondent was operating under the mistaken belief that appellant had sufficient qualifying law enforcement experience that would reduce his age to allow enrollment into PFRS. No credible facts have been presented in this matter to substantiate the assertion that respondent knowingly and/or intentionally misrepresented to appellant that it was aware that he did not have qualifying time and/or could overcome the age and enrollment requirements under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-127 and N.J.S.A. 43:16A-3 which induced him to turn down a job offer from another jurisdiction over a year earlier.

In a disciplinary action, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority, which must prove its case by a preponderance of the believable evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). In order for evidence to meet that threshold, it must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). That is to say, the tribunal must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna and W. R.R. Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Greater weight of credible evidence in the case – preponderance – depends not only on the number of witnesses, but "greater convincing power to our minds." State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47, 49 (1975). Similarly, credible testimony "must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself." In re: Perrone, 5 N.J. 14, 522 (1950).

Under the Civil Service Act, a public employee may be subject to major discipline for various employment-related offenses, including inability to perform duties, N.J.A.C.

4A:2-2.3(a), and other sufficient cause, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. On appeal from the imposition of such discipline, the appointing authority has the burden of proving justification for the action and the employee's guilt by a preponderance of competent, credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson, 37 N.J. 143; Polk, 90 N.J. 550.

In this matter, the sustained charges against appellant were: 1) Unfit as it pertains to meeting legal requirements for the position; 2) Inability to perform job responsibilities; and 3) Other sufficient cause.

At the time of hire, appellant was over the age of thirty-five and did not have the requisite law enforcement experience to reduce his actual age to meet the maximum age requirement of thirty-five years of age. As such, he was ineligible to hold such a position and ineligible for membership in the PFRS as required by law.

With the above in mind, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant was is ineligible for appointment to the position of Municipal Police Officer. Therefore, he is unfit as it pertains to meeting the legal requirements for the position.

Under the second count, Inability to Perform Job Duties (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3)), as more fully set forth above, it is clear that appellant, by operation of law, is ineligible for appointment to the position of Municipal Police Officer and therefore unable to perform the functions thereunder.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant is ineligible for appointment and unable to perform the job duties of Municipal Police Officer.

Under the third count, Other Sufficient Cause (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12)), appellant was charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419 (1955).

As to this charge, appellant was aware, long before he took the position with respondent that his prior law enforcement experience did not qualify to reduce his age to thirty-five. He was also aware that without this, he would not be eligible for membership into the PFRS. No credible evidence was presented that this very important piece of information was ever conveyed to respondent who was operating under the belief that appellant's prior law enforcement experience would properly reduce his actual age to qualify him for appointment and membership into the PFRS.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence the charge of Other Sufficient Cause.

PENALTY

With regard to penalty, consideration must generally be given to the concept of progressive discipline, involving penalties of increasing severity. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). However, progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007). It is well-established that when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest, progressive discipline need not apply. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 28 (2007); In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182 (2011).

Here, by law, appellant is ineligible for employment as a Municipal Police Officer and he is not entitled to equitable relief. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that removal is the appropriate discipline for violations of: Unfit as it pertains to meeting legal requirements for the position; Inability to Perform Job Duties (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3)); and Other Sufficient Cause (N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) (12)).

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that:

Respondent's motion for summary decision is GRANTED; and the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action of the Riverside Township Police Department against appellant Michael Megara is hereby AFFIRMED.

It is further ORDERED that appellant's motion for summary decision is DENIED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AND

JUVENILE JUSTICE COMMISSION

The parties in this appeal have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them.

A. The Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated 1/11/2017 contained the following charges and proposed discipline:

ESSEX COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF CITIZEN SERVICES.	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

It is hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the County of Essex Department of Citizen Services through the County of Essex ("County") and Trisha Nigro ("employee") (which are both collectively referred to herein as the "parties") that hereto the above-captioned matter be and same is hereby settled upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The employee hereby acknowledges that she was released at the end of her one (1) year Working Test Period, effective, December 6, 2017.

2. Thereafter, the employee filed an appeal of her release from the Working Test Period with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission. Prior to the hearing before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), which was scheduled for May 23 and May 24, 2018, the parties settled the matter.

3. In lieu of removal, the parties agree the employee will be returned to work for a Working Test Period, effective August 20, 2018 at 3:00 p.m. (Tour 2) pursuant to the following:

A. The parties agree that the employee will be returned to a Working Test Period for a period of one (1) year as a probationary employee at the County Juvenile Detention Center in the Civil Service title of Juvenile Detention Officer, commencing on the above return to work date of August 20, 2018 and ending on August 19, 2019.

B. The employee agrees that she is not entitled to backpay.

C. The employee agrees that there are no counsel's fees or other monetary relief payable from the County or from any of its Departments to the employee.

D. The employee agrees that she is not entitled to any carryover of benefit time based upon her prior Working Test Period.

E. The employee agrees that she is not entitled to seniority or promotion or any workplace priority based upon the prior Working Test Period.

F. The parties agree that the employee's annual salary upon her return to work will be Thirty-One Thousand Two Hundred Dollars ($31,200.00), which is the starting salary for a Juvenile Detention Officer.

G. If the employee successfully completes the one (1) year Working Test Period, the employee will become permanent in the position of Juvenile Detention Officer at Essex County Juvenile Detention Center at the conclusion of said Working Test Period on August 20, 2019;

H. During the Working Test Period, the employee must maintain an acceptable standard of performance and abide by the following terms and conditions:

(i) Employee expressly agrees to conform her conduct to all acceptable work standards and conduct, including but not limited to, an adherence to all Essex County Policies and Procedures and the Policies and Procedures of the Essex County Juvenile Detention Center;

(iii) Employee agrees that she will undergo training as required by the Essex County Juvenile Detention Center and attend all required training classes; and

(iv) Employee warrants that she is currently fit and able to fully participate and perform in a Working Test Period as a Juvenile Detention Officer, with no claim of limitation, medical or otherwise, and has no known condition or impediment that would prevent her from executing all Civil Service job duties of a Juvenile Detention Officer.

I. The parties agree that the failure of the employee's warranty above, and/or her failure to conform her conduct in accordance with paragraph (H) set forth above including, but not limited to, lateness, absenteeism, refusal to work overtime during the Working Test Period, shall give the County the right to immediately commence a disciplinary proceeding, seeking up to termination, for conduct and for breach of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release. If during the Working Test Period a departmental disciplinary hearing results in termination, the employee will accept the penalty of termination. The employee voluntarily and knowingly waives her right to appeal any departmental determination to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and voluntarily and knowingly waives her right to pursue a discipline any further on any level through any other forum, such as (but not limited to) the Office of Administrative Law, Equal Employment Opportunity Commission or State or Federal Court. The employee expressly agrees that she will accept any departmental decision and she expressly, knowingly and voluntarily waives an appeal after a departmental determination.

4. In the event that the employee is released at the end of the one (1) year Working Test Period, she shall be separated for unsatisfactory performance in accordance with N.J.S.A. 4A:4-5.4(a) and immediately terminated.

5. The employee agrees to withdraw her appeal and request for a hearing in this matter, however, the parties acknowledge that this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is subject to and contingent upon the approval by the New Jersey Civil Service Commission as adopted in a Final Agency Decision. In the event this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is rejected by the Court (OAL) and/or the New Jersey Civil Service Commission fails to approve and adopt this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release in a Final Agency Decision, the parties agree that they will, in good faith, attempt to renegotiate and resettle the matter, with the employee continuing to wave back wages, counsel fees and promotion/seniority. If after a reasonable time, the parties fail to resettle the matter, the parties agree that the employee's appeal to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, as represented by Agency Ref. No. 2018-1738, OAL Docket No. CSV-01496-2018N, is preserved and employee shall have the right to reinstate her case appealing her release from the original Working Test Period with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and the County retains its rights and defenses.

6. The employee and the County agree that the terms and conditions of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release and the discussions and negotiations leading up to it shall be kept absolutely confidential hereafter and shall not be disclosed by the employee to any other employee or former employee of the County or other persons or the general public unless compelled to do so by judicial process. However, the employee may make disclosures to the members of her immediate family, attorney/union representative and as may be required by their accountant in connection with the discharge of the latter's duties in preparation of tax returns or financial statements. Employee's failure to comply with the confidentiality provisions of this Settlement and General Release may result in the dissolution of the within Stipulation of Settlement and General Release at the sole and exclusive option of the County.

7. In the event that an action is brought by the County for the employee's breach of the confidentiality conditions set forth in paragraph six (6) hereof, in addition to such other relief as is appropriate, the County may be entitled to reasonable attorney's fees and costs.

8. This Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is not, and shall not in any way be construed, as an admission by the County of any violation of any federal or state constitutional prohibition or any federal or state or local law or ordinance or regulation, or any express or implied contract of employment, or in violation of any other legal duty owed to employee, but instead constitutes the good faith settlement of a disputed claim and the County specifically disclaims any liability to employee or any other person. The parties have entered into this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release for the sole purpose of resolving employee's claims concerning their employment with the County, both asserted and unasserted, in order to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of litigation. No findings of any kind have been made or issued by any court and employee does not purport to be the prevailing party in any threatened or pending litigation.

9. Employee agrees that this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release shall operate as a complete and final disposition of this matter. In consideration of the County's satisfactory action in resolving the disciplinary offenses, employee agrees to release and forever discharge the County, the County's officers, agents, officials, employees, attorneys, administrators, representatives, elected officials, departments, boards, officers and all persons acting by, through, under or in concert with, both in their official and individual capacities, from any and all claims to any relief of any kind from the County, whether or not (s)he knows about those rights, arising out of his/her employment with the County, including, but not limited to, claims for breach of contract; fraud or misrepresentation; violation of Title VII or the Civil Rights Acts of 1964, or other federal, state or local civil rights law based on age or other protected class status including

It is emphasized that employee is waiving all possible claims against the County from the beginning of employee's first Working Test Period with the County to the date this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is approved by the OAL.

10. Employee represents and warrants that she has no current litigation contemplated nor has she filed any complaints against the County which are active, in any forum, including, but not limited to State and Federal Court, or before the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Violation of this provision shall void this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release.

11. Employee represents and certifies that she has carefully read and fully understands all of the provision of and effects of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release and has thoroughly discussed all aspects of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release with her attorney. Further, the employee certifies that she is knowingly and voluntarily entering into this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release and that the County has not made any representations concerning their terms of effects of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release, other than those contained herein.

12. The parties hereby represent that they acknowledge that this Stipulation of Settlement is in the best interest of the parties and that they have entered into this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release in good faith.

13. This Stipulation of Settlement shall neither set a precedent nor constitute a past practice.

14. This Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is made and entered into in the State of New Jersey and shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced and governed under the laws of the State of New Jersey. The language of all parts of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release, shall, in all cases, be construed as a whole, according to its fair meaning and not strictly for or against any of the parties.

15. Should any provision of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release be declared or determined by any court to be illegal or invalid, the validity of the remaining parts, terms or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal or invalid part, term or provision shall be deemed not to be a part of this Stipulation of Settlement and General Release.

16. This Stipulation of Settlement shall not be considered binding and/or final until approved by the Civil Service Commission.

17. The foregoing constitutes a full and final disposition of this matter.

18. Employee shall not institute an appeal in this matter.

19. Employee shall not request relief with respect to this matter, in any forum, beyond that which is contained herein.

20. This Stipulation of Settlement may not be modified, altered, or changed, except upon the prior, express written consent of both parties.

21. This Stipulation of Settlement and General Release is the result of negotiations with employee's attorney, with whom employee had an opportunity to consult and to whom she provided consent prior to signing same.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 11981-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-435

IN THE MATTER OF MARILYN CAMP, ATLANTIC COUNTY, DEPARTMENT OF PERSONNEL.

Yolanda Lawson, Staff Representative, AFSCME NJ, for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Jennifer P. Starr, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent (James F. Ferguson, County Counsel)

Record Closed: August 7, 2018 Decided: September 21, 2018

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent Atlantic County (County) removed appellant Marilyn Camp (Camp) from her position as an Employment Specialist, effective August 2, 2017. The County alleged there was just cause for the disciplinary action under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, because on June 14, 2017, Camp did not contact her supervisor before taking two hours and fifty-five minutes of administrative leave time in violation of Atlantic County Policies and Procedures and her Last Chance Agreement. Camp contests her removal claiming that she had administrative leave time and she notified the designated supervisor in charge that she would be late.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 21, 2017, the County issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth charges against Camp and suspending her and recommending removal for a date to be determined. (R-1.)

A departmental hearing was conducted on July 12, 2017. The County issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) on August 1, 2017, removing Camp from her position, effective August 2, 2017. (R-1.) Appellant requested an appeal, and the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 18, 2017, to be scheduled for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The hearing was scheduled for December 12, 2017 but was adjourned at the County's request with Camp's consent. It was rescheduled for March 7, 2018 but adjourned due to a scheduling conflict with my calendar. I heard the case on August 7, 2018 and closed the record.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The parties stipulated to the following facts and I therefore FIND them as FACTS:

1. On Monday, June 12, 2017, Camp worked a full day.

2. On Tuesday, June 13, 2017, Camp was out of the office serving a suspension.

3. On Wednesday, June 14, 2017, Camp clocked in for work at 11:25 a.m., two hours and fifty-five minutes after her scheduled start time of 8:30 a.m.

4. Camp did not submit her request for administrative leave time for Wednesday, June 14, 2017 on the County's electronic system which is an email system for submitting requests and receiving responses.

5. Camp executed a Settlement and Last Chance Agreement with the County on October 6, 2015.

TESTIMONY

Shirley Smith (Smith) was Camp's supervisor during the incident and testified for the County. On November 1, 2017, Smith retired from the County. Prior to her retirement, Smith was an employment specialist supervisor for five years.

Smith testified that the County used an electronic system for the employees to input requests for leave. When a leave request was submitted, Smith would review it and approve it, if appropriate. In emergency situations, an employee could submit a verbal request by leaving Smith a voice message on her office telephone. Smith testified that Camp was familiar with the procedure and she used it for leave requests in the past. According to Smith, it was her responsibility as the employment specialist supervisor to approve requests for time off from work. This was not a task that she delegated to others in her office. Smith testified that when she was out of the office, she delegated certain responsibilities to Regina Ludmer, but she never delegated the responsibility to approve leave requests because that was a supervisor's job.

When Smith arrived at work on June 14, 2017, there were three members of her department missing from work, including Camp. Smith had received a voice mail message from one staff member advising her that the employee would not be at work due to sickness. The other employee had requested leave in advance. Only Camp had provided no prior notice of her absence. Smith stated that she asked other staff members if they had heard from Camp. Later that day, Smith testified that she saw Camp and asked her if she had requested time off from work for that morning. Camp's only response was that she used her administrative time. According to Smith, it was not normal practice for any employee to take time off without prior notice to their supervisor. Smith explained that her employees service the public, therefore, she needs to know in advance how many employees will be available each day.

Smith stated that Camp put in her administrative leave request after the fact, but she denied it as against policy for not requesting the leave time before the event. Smith understood that Camp had sufficient notice of the event that required leave time to make her request in proper order.

On cross-examination, Smith stated that she has discretion whether to deny or grant a request for leave. Smith believed that she had a fairly good working relationship with Camp. Smith responded that she keeps a calendar on her desk and her staff are welcome to write reminders or notes for her on it. However, a leave request could not be written on her calendar without it being approved first. Smith also stated that a staff member could not submit a leave request on behalf of someone else. According to Smith, the process was not burdensome because an employee always had the option of leaving a verbal voice message on Smith's telephone if there was no opportunity for advance notification through the electronic email system.

Regina Ludmer (Ludmer) works as an employment specialist and testified on behalf of the County. Ludmer testified that she is not a supervisor, so she cannot approve or deny leave requests. Over the course of her employment with the County, she recalled having requests for leave denied.

On June 12, 2017, Ludmer recalled having a conversation with Camp at the end of their work day about attending graduation activities involving their children. Ludmer was taking Friday off to attend a graduation. She recalled telling Camp that she would mark Camp's time on Smith's calendar when she wrote her own time. Ludmer wrote on Smith's calendar that both she and Camp would be off on Friday, June 16, 2017. She assumed from their conversation that Camp had also taken Friday off from work because the only day they discussed was Friday. Friday had been the day that the office was going to celebrate birthdays but it had to be changed due to the amount of employees taking Friday off from work.

Ludmer testified that all employee requests for leave must be entered in the computer system. Each employee has an individualized log in and password. No one can enter a request on behalf of a co-worker. Ludmer also stated that she made notations on the calendar as a reference or reminder.

On cross-examination, Ludmer stated that she received training on the computer system in January 2017. She could not recall if there were complaints or problems with the system. Ludmer stated that when Smith was not available, Ludmer would be designated as the acting supervisor to deal with any day to day problems. She could not recall if she was every approached about becoming a union shop steward. Ludmer stated that she wrote on Smith's calendar as a courtesy. Her recollection was that she had been speaking to Camp about graduation ceremonies and the only day discussed was Friday, so she assumed Camp's event was on Friday. Ludmer stated that all employees have access to Smith's desk calendar and anyone can write reminders on the calendar.

Rhonda Lowery (Lowery) is the Executive Director and the Director for Workforce Development. She has been employed by the County for thirty-four years and has been the Director for over ten years.

Employees are required to use the time clock to verify their time spent at work, break, and lunch. Lowery stated that the worker is required to use the computer system for leave requests. The computer generates an email and notifies the employee when the supervisor approves a leave request. She understood that the system is not liked by the employees. She stated that all employees received training but there are glitches in the system.

Lowery stated that she was familiar with Ludmer. Ludmer is an employment specialist, which is not a supervisory position. Lowery is also familiar with Camp, who is also an employment specialist.

Lowery was the director who signed Camp's Settlement and Last Chance Agreement on October 6, 2015. (R-2.) Lowery recalled that Camp's time and attendance were the concern prior to the agreement. She described it as "no call, no show."

After the June 14, 2017 incident, Lowery signed the PNDA. (R-1.) According to Lowry, because the employees deal with the public, it is important for the supervisors to know who is available on any given day. She stated that it is not efficient for the department if employees do not show up for work on time without notice.

On cross-examination, Lowry stated that she was told about the event before she signed the PNDA. She did not remember being told about the notation on Smith's calendar. Lowry focused on the fact that Camp did not request leave before she failed to show up for work. She further stated that if she had known about the calendar notation, her decision would not have changed because the employees know they must call for emergencies or input their request into the computer system. She stated that there are always exceptions but those would involve life-threatening events.

Lowry testified that under the Atlantic County Policies and Procedures P.S. 5.11, any absence from work which is not approved by the supervisor is considered an unauthorized absence, known as "W-time."

Daphne Brown (Brown) testified on behalf of Camp. Brown is a shop steward for the AFSCME NJ, the union for the County employees. As the shop steward, Brown recalled that Camp had filed a complaint against Smith alleging disparate treatment and there had been telephone calls and complaints by Camp about her treatment.

Brown testified that she is familiar with the computer system, but she does not use it for administrative leave requests. As described by Brown, every employee gets three personal days each year to be used as needed by the employee. The time can be taken in any increments of one hour. Brown stated that she just tells her supervisor when she is taking her administrative time.

On cross-examination, Brown stated that she does not have the same supervisor as Camp because they work in different departments. Brown stated that she always calls first if she is going to be late. The computer system is new for the workers. Although Brown does not always use the computer system, she stated that she always lets her supervisor know if she is going to be late. She never just tells a co-worker.

On redirect, Brown stated that she understood that Ludmer was the acting supervisor when Smith was not available.

Melanie Griffin (Griffin) is a clerk who has been employed by the County for fourteen years. Griffin testified on behalf of Camp. Griffin knows Camp from the time they both worked in the Pleasantville office. Griffin stated that it is common to input administrative time after the fact. The main thing is to input your time prior to payroll so that you are paid correctly. Griffin was aware that there were personal confrontations between Smith and Camp. She also knew that Camp had trouble getting her vacation time approved, but after Camp filed a complaint alleging a hostile work environment, her vacation was approved.

On cross-examination, Griffin testified that many employees notify their supervisors, instead of using the computer for leave requests. Griffin stated that employees either tell their supervisor or they tell the person in charge. Smith was not Griffin's supervisor, but she also understood that Smith made Ludmer the acting supervisor when Smith was not available.

Marilyn Camp (Camp) testified on her own behalf. She stated that on June 12, 2017, Smith was not in the building. Her past practice was to talk to Ludmer when Smith was not available.

Camp described problems with using the computer system for leave requests. By way of example, Camp used her administrative leave request entered into the computer for April 17, 2017 to show that Smith never issued a response, even though Camp used the time with no ramifications. (P-1.)

On June 12, 2017, Smith was out of the building and Camp recalled being very busy with clients. Camp stated that at approximately 3:30 p.m., she learned that there would be no family representative at a school function for one of her children. As a single parent and because she had available administrative time, she decided to go. At the end of the work day, while conversing with Ludmer, Camp asked Ludmer to let Smith know. Camp also stated that Ludmer told her she would mark it on Smith's calendar. Because she was requesting administrative leave, Camp was not concerned because there was never a problem with getting administrative time approved. It was not until she questioned Ludmer on June 21, 2017 that she realized Ludmer put the wrong date on the calendar. Camp stated that she never thought Smith would not approve her administrative time because the practice has always been that administrative time had to be entered into the computer before the next payroll cycle.

Camp testified that she was aware that there were only two months remaining on her last chance agreement. If she did not think that telling Ludmer was sufficient, she would have made the request on the computer or left a voice message for Smith. Camp acknowledged that she knew about the event in enough time for her to either enter it into the computer or leave a voice mail for Smith. She reiterated that she worked for the County for many years and there was never a problem with taking administrative time.

On cross-examination, Camp acknowledged that before taking time off from work she needed to tell her supervisor, but she believed that telling Ludmer, the acting supervisor, was good enough.

I asked Camp to describe her conversation with Ludmer on June 12, 2017. Camp responded that she told Ludmer that her daughter was getting an award during a school program and she would be attending. There was also a discussion about moving the birthday celebration from Friday, June 16, 2017 because so many people were going to be out of the office. Ludmer is the birthday coordinator for the office and according to Camp, after their conversation, Ludmer stated that she would take care of it and put it on Smith's calendar.

ANALYSIS AND ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

To resolve the inconsistencies in the witness testimony, the credibility of the witnesses must be determined. Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness considering its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

I deem the testimony of Smith to be credible. She testified in a very business-like manner, with a flat affect. She did not fidget and maintained her composure during questioning. Her responses were thoughtful but not coached. Her factual assertions that supervisors must be notified before an employee takes time off from work was not disputed. Her responses were delivered in a no-nonsense matter of fact manner. There was no bias against Camp noticed by me during her testimony. There is nothing in the record to dispute Smith's assertion that she was unaware that Camp intended to be out of the office on June 14, 2017. Smith had prior knowledge that she would be missing two employees on Wednesday, June 14, 2017, so it is reasonable that missing a third employee from her department could prove problematic, especially when there was no notice. Smith testified that she designated Ludmer as the supervisor in charge when she was not available to handle daily operations. However, Smith stated that she did not delegate the authority to approve leave time requests to a non-supervisor. There is nothing inherently incredible in that statement. Smith's testimony about delegation of tasks was also supported by Ludmer's understanding of her limitations when she was acting supervisor in Smith's absence. Camp also testified that she did not request Ludmer to approve her leave time but simply to tell Smith that she would not be in the office.

Ludmer and Camp both recalled having a conversation at the end of the work day on June 12, 2017. There were similarities in their testimony about the time of the conversation, the discussion of graduation activities, and the need to change the birthday celebration from Friday, June 16, 2017. Ludmer acknowledged telling Camp that she was going to mark the event on Smith's calendar, but the date marked on the calendar was Friday, June 16, 2017 not Wednesday, June 14, 2017. There was nothing from Ludmer's testimony to suggest that she understood Camp was asking her to approve an administrative leave request for Camp. Surprisingly, Camp's testimony did not provide details of exactly how she informed Ludmer of her need to use a certain amount of administrative leave on June 14, 2017. The testimony about the conversation was vague. I gave Camp the opportunity to provide more details about the nature of her conversation with Ludmer, but in her response she never mentioned the words administrative time, never provided details about how many hours she was taking, or even if she was planning to come back to work after the event. Camp has a substantial stake in the outcome, yet she responded to questions by using a flippant tone of voice. Her argument that she thought it was good enough to tell Ludmer was not persuasive, especially because she was not able to articulate exactly what she told Ludmer regarding the specific leave request. I FIND that Ludmer's testimony about the nature of the conversation had a greater ring of credibility and Ludmer's actions in writing on Smith's calendar that Camp would be out of the office on Friday, June 16, 2017 demonstrated that Ludmer did not know that Camp was taking administrative time on Wednesday, June 14, 2017.

While I found the testimony of Brown and Griffin to be credible, they were not present for the conversation between Ludmer and Camp and they both agreed that advance notice to a supervisor is required, even for administrative leave.

Lowry testified that she based her decision on her conversation with Smith who informed her that Camp took leave time without notice or approval. I deemed Lowry's testimony to be credible and consistent with the rules and regulations governing requests for administrative leave time. As set forth in the Agreement between the County of Atlantic and AFSCME Local #2302, "[r]equests for administrative leave of absence must be approved in advance by the employee's supervisor." (R-4.)

The testimony from Brown, Griffin, and Camp was that administrative leave time was flexible and it could be entered in the computer at any time prior to the next billing period for payroll purposes. While I do not deny that this may have been common practice among certain employees for computing time, it does not strike at the crux of the matter regarding whether leave can be taken without notice to a supervisor.

Based upon a review of the documentary evidence and having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following as FACTS in this matter:

1. Before the end of the work day on June 12, 2017, Camp decided to use administrative leave time on Wednesday, June 14, 2017.

2. At the end of the work day on June 12, 2017, Camp and Ludmer had a conversation about attending graduation events and moving the office birthday celebration from Friday, June 16, 2017.

3. On June 12, 2017, Smith was out of the office so Ludmer was designated to handle routine office matters on her behalf.

4. Ludmer was not a supervisor and requests for leave of absence may only be approved by an employee's supervisor.

5. Camp did not enter her request for administrative leave on the computer system prior to taking three hours of administrative leave on June 14, 2017.

6. Camp did not leave a voice message for her supervisor, Smith, about taking administrative leave time on June 14, 2017.

7. Smith, as Camp's supervisor, did not approve Camp's administrative leave time entered after the fact in the computer system.

8. Under Camp's Last Chance Agreement, Camp acknowledged that there would be a zero tolerance by the County of "any future conduct resulting in a no-call, no-show, or any other unauthorized absences from work." (R-2.)

9. The Last Chance Agreement stated that any "future infraction implicating time and attendance issues resulting in 'W' time during the next 24 months shall be cause for and result in employee's removal (termination) from employment with Atlantic County."

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Civil service employees' rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1. The Act is an inducement to attract qualified people to public service. Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Commission, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline, including removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consolidated Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Here, the County has the burden to demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that the appellant violated the County's policies and procedures and the last chance agreement to justify the disciplinary action of removal. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). This is a fact-sensitive determination as to whether Camp's claim of mentioning that she would be out of the office for her child's school event to the supervisor in charge satisfied the requirement in her collective bargaining agreement that requests for administrative leave must be approved in advance. (R-4.)

I CONCLUDE that the County has established by a preponderance of the evidence that all employees are required to notify their supervisors in advance before taking administrative leave time. This procedure is stated in the Collective Bargaining Agreement. (R-4.) The testimony from the supervisor, Smith, the Executive Director, Lowry, and all the County employees, including Camp, established that an employee cannot miss work without notifying her supervisor in advance. While I acknowledge that the procedure for administrative time requests may be less formal than other types of leave requests, there is nothing in the record to support an employee taking administrative time and notifying her supervisor after the fact.

I further CONCLUDE that the testimony about Camp's conversation with Ludmer, regardless of whether Ludmer was designated as acting supervisor, does not support Camp's position that she gave Ludmer advanced notice of her request for administrative leave for June 14, 2017. There were no facts from the testimony to corroborate Camp's assertion that she notified Ludmer that she needed to take administrative leave time on June 14, 2017, or that notifying Ludmer was sufficient.

Finally, I CONCLUDE that Camp violated her last chance agreement by engaging in conduct that resulted in a no-call, no-show, or an unauthorized absence from work. Camp testified that she was aware there were two months remaining on her agreement. Camp also testified that she had the ability to enter her leave request on the computer or leave Smith a voice message regarding her absence. Camp did neither.

DECISION AND ORDER

I ORDER that the County's decision to remove Camp is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Gerrell Elliott, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety

CSC DKT. NO. 2017-653
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 18316-16

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: OCTOBER 19, 2018 BW

The appeal of Gerrell Elliott, Battalion Fire Chief, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety, nine working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Julio C. Morejon, who rendered his initial decision on September 21, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on October 17, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision to modify the nine working day suspension to a five working day suspension.

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to four days of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. However, the appellant is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), the award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, although the penalty was modified by the Commission, charges were sustained. Thus, the appellant has not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore modifies the nine working day suspension to a five working day suspension. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted four days of back pay, benefits, and seniority.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 18316-16
AGENCY DKT NO. CSC 2017-653

GERREL ELLIOT,

Appellant,

v.

CITY OF NEWARK, DEPT. OF PUBLIC SAFETY,

Respondent.

Sebastian B. Ionno, Esq., for appellant, Gerrel Elliot (Ionno & Higbee, L.L.C., attorneys)

Joyce Clayborne, Assistant Corporation Counsel, for respondent City of Newark, Department of Public Safety (Corporation Counsel, City of Newark, attorneys)

Record Closed: August 10, 2018 Decided: September 21, 2018

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDERUAL HISTORY

Appellant, Captain Gerrell Elliott,[1] City of Newark, appealed the respondent, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety's (Newark) action imposing a major discipline of a nine-day working suspension effective August 20, 2018, for violating the civil services regulations for incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties; inability to perform duties; neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause. In addition, respondent found that Elliott violated the Newark rules and regulations for duties and responsibilities; care, prevention maintenance, and repair of department vehicles; neglect, proper use of Newark equipment, services and supplies, and acts of omission constituting neglect of duty.

Elliott requested a fair hearing and the matter was filed at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 5, 2016, to be heard as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 14F-1 to 13. A telephonic prehearing conference was held on March 2, 2017. Sebastian Ionno, Esq., (Mr. Ionno) appeared for Elliot, and Corrine Rivers, Esq., (Ms. Rivers), appeared for respondent. A hearing was scheduled for July 14, 2017. On July 5, 2017, Joyce Clayborne, Esq. (Ms. Clayborne), wrote to Mr. Ionno that she had taken over the handling of the case from Ms. Rivers. The hearing was adjourned to October 3, 2017 and October 5, 2017, to allow for the exchange of discovery.

A hearing was conducted on October 3, 2017, and October 5, 2017. Prior to the commencement of the hearing on October 5, 2017, Elliott made a motion to exclude his disciplinary history, as the document discovery concerning the same was not provided by Newark during the time allowed under the Prehearing Order. The motion was granted, and a ruling was made by the undersigned excluding Elliott's disciplinary history as Newark failed to provide a compelling reason for not providing the same during the discovery period.

At the conclusion of the hearings on October 5, 2017, counsel were allowed to file written summations by December 15, 2017. Newark field its written summation on December 11, 2017, and Elliott, with Newark's consent, filed his written summation on January 17, 2018, and the record was closed.

An Order of Extension was entered on March 5, 2018, under N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8, allowing the undersigned to complete the initial decision by April 19, 2018. The record was re-opened on April 17, 2018, to allow Newark to re-submit a CD containing recorded departmental interviews of Elliott and other witnesses, as the same submitted in evidence was inaudible. Respondent provided the original CD sometime in June 2018, and the same was heard by the undersigned on August 10, 2018, at which time the record was closed.

ISSUES

The issues to be determined in this matter are the following:

1. Whether Elliott is guilty of the alleged conduct, that he failed to have the replacement apparatus restocked with the necessary tools and equipment, and in doing so, is his conduct unbecoming a public employee, failure to perform duties and inability to perform duties.

2. Whether the disciplinary action against Elliott should have been a reprimand or lesser suspension on principles of progressive discipline.

Summary of Testimony

Kyle White, Fire Fighter/Driver:

Kyle White, ("White") is employed as a Fire Fighter with Newark since May 1998. On direct-examination, White testified that on April 22, 2016, he was the scheduled driver for Tour 4, Ladder 12, which commenced a twenty-four tour at 800 hours through April 23, 2018. White testified that Elliott was on twenty-four hours overtime, working the tour for Captain Edward Wilcher (Wilcher), the Captain assigned to Tour 4. White testified that it is the driver's job to make sure that the "apparatus (fire truck or rig) is in operating condition and that all of the necessary equipment on the apparatus is in working condition. If the apparatus is/are not functioning properly or essential equipment is missing, it is the driver's responsibility to notify his or her Captain.

White testified that during his routine vehicle preventative maintenance check at about 7:45 am, he discovered multiple tools and equipment missing from the apparatus, including some ladders and power tools such as the "Holmatro" spreaders and cutters. White testified that he verbally notified Elliott of the same, and that Elliott responded: "I'll take care of it." White stated that Elliott did not address the missing equipment. White also testified that the apparatus he inspected was an older model, as the regular apparatus was out for repair.

In addition to the vehicle preventative maintenance check, White testified that he also performed a mechanical inspection of the apparatus and he prepared a report which was placed on Elliott's desk. White testified that the mechanical inspection report is not a missing equipment checklist. A mechanical inspection report concerns specific issues with the apparatus. White testified that the Newark does not have a missing equipment checklist, and that if something is missing he verbally reports it to his Captain.

White testified as to the protocol for the fire station log book. He testified that Firefighters are not permitted to make entries in the log book regarding missing equipment. The log entries for missing equipment is the responsibility of the Fire Captains (See, R-8 and R-10).

On cross-examination, White testified that he was instructed by "one of the Chiefs" to prepare a memo concerning the missing equipment and who he informed as result of the same. As a result, White prepared a memo dated April 27, 2016, addressed to Fire Chief John Centanni (Centanni), indicating that he informed Elliott of the missing equipment on April 23, 2017, after performing the preventive maintenance check (See, R-5). White also prepared a second memo to Chief Centanni dated May 17, 2016, which contained a detailed description of the items that were missing from the apparatus on April 23, 2016, that White reported to Elliott (See, R-6).

White testified that he believed he complied with that obligation on April 23, 2016. White also testified that he was suspended for fourteen (14) hours because of the missing equipment on April 23, 2016. As to the memo White prepared May 17, 2016 (R-6), White was asked to compare the same to the memo prepared by Captain Miguel Fresse (Fresse) dated April 24, 2016, to Centanni, concerning the missing equipment on April 23, 2016 (See, A-11). The two memos appeared identical, even as to a typographical error regarding the word "exemption", which White acknowledged should have been "exception". White testified that he prepared the memo on a computer at the fire station, after he was told to do so because of the missing equipment on April 23, 2016.

On questioning from the undersigned, White testified that he prepared the May 17 memo concerning the detailed missing items from memory and that he had verbally informed Elliott on April 23, 2016, of the items listed in the May 17 memo.

Captain Miguel Fresse:

Captain Miguel Fresse ("Fresse") is employed as a Captain by Newark for the last two and one-half years, and twenty-years with Newark overall. On direct-examination, Fresse testified that on April 23, 2016, he was assigned overtime to Engine Company 26, which is in the same command station as Ladder 12. Fresse stated that he was working the engine in the same firehouse that night; however, his overtime shift did not begin until 1800 hours or 6:00 p.m. From that time up until April 24, 2016, at 8:00 a.m. Elliott and Fresse were working together. Fresse further testified that if there were any fires during the time frame that they were both working that both he and Elliott would have to respond to said fire.

Fresse also testified that the replacement fire truck used by Ladder 12 on April 23, 2016, was an antiquated fire truck and he made a joke regarding the condition of the replacement truck. On direct, Fresse testified that his comment was directed at the fire engine assigned to Elliott's command as it appeared unequipped and bare following Fresse's visual inspection. Fresse stated that Elliott respond to his comment, that "it was like that when I got here", and that Elliott did nothing to rectify the unequipped/ bare fire truck under his command. Freese admitted that he did not act to rectify Elliott's replacement fire truck at the time, as Elliott was still in command of the tour. He testified "that anyone who walked into the garage would notice that the truck was deficient, it was quite obvious."

On cross-examination, Fresse testified further that when Elliott's shift was done, he took charge as Captain of Ladder 12, (Tour 1), and made sure to rectify the equipment missing from the replacement fire truck. Fresse stated that he called "Mr. Maya", the civilian caretaker in charge of the garage in order to restock the replacement fire truck with all the necessary ladders, tools and equipment. Fresse confirmed that he and Elliott's shift had overlapped for fourteen-hours, but that he did not take any action on the replacement fire truck during the fourteen-hour overlap "out of respect" for Elliott's command of his tour.

Fresse testified that he was instructed by his superiors to submit a report listing all of the missing equipment, which he had observed during Elliott's shift (See, R-9). Fresse testified on April 24, 2016, he prepared a memo, which stated that "at 1800 while performing preventative maintenance on spare rig 1312 [replacement fire truck] we discovered that the majority of tools and equipment was missing." (See, R-9). Fresse testified that he did not include Elliott's name in the memo because there's a "brotherhood" among the firemen, and he did not want to "rat out" Elliott.

On cross-examination, it was pointed out to Fresse that both his memo and that of White dated May 17, 2016, were identical, including the typographical error. (See, R-6 and R-9). Fresse denied giving White a copy of his memo dated April 24, 2016, and also denied allowing White to use the personal computer located in the Captain's desk at the fire station.

Fresse testified further that he followed the chain of command and notified the Battalion Chief on duty as to the missing equipment in the replacement fire truck. Fresse confirmed the log book entry of April 23, 2016, which contained White's findings and Freese's actions (See, R-8).

Battalion Chief Ciottariello:

On direct-examination, Battalion Chief Ciottariello ("Ciottariello") was on duty during the time of the incident and had no knowledge of any issues with Ladder 12. (See,

R-4). On direct, Ciottariello testified that Elliott did not notify him of any missing equipment from the replacement fire truck during his shift. Ciottariello testified that it is the Standard Operating Procedure ("SOP") for a Captain to notify the Battalion Chief, in the event any issues occur during the Captain's tour.

Ciottariello further testified that the document admitted into evidence as A23-3, identified as a City of Newark vehicle check list is a check list that is utilized by the driver who is supposed to inspect the vehicle and list any missing equipment on the check list. Ciottariello testified that he was presented with a copy of the check list from the shift in question but the same cannot be located.[2]

Fire Detective Dwane Cobbs:

Fire Detective Duane Cobbs (Cobbs), has been with Newark for twenty-one years, and is currently assigned to the Newark Fire Department Internal Affairs Unit. Cobbs' testified on direct that he was assigned to investigate White and Elliott's conduct concerning the missing equipment in the fire truck at Ladder company 12 on April 23, 2016. As part of his investigation, Cobbs took a recorded statement from White and Elliott (See, R-10 and R-10).

Cobbs' testified that his investigation concluded that the allegations that Elliott was aware that tools and equipment were missing from the fire truck at Ladder company 12 on April 23, 2016, were founded (See, R-19).

Battalion Chief Gerrell Elliott: [3]

[2] The check list was not provided by respondent as part of the discovery in this matter. Elliott requests a ruling by the undersigned of an adverse inference by respondent as to the missing checklist as it fails to contain the alleged missing items from Ladder 12 and supports Elliott's position that he was never made aware of a majority of the equipment that was missing from Ladder 12 on the shift at issue. Elliott's request will be addressed in the legal analysis which follows.

[3] When this incident occurred on April 23, 2016, Elliott held the rank of Captain. On September 2016, Elliott obtained the rank of Battalion Chief.

On direct-examination, Elliott testified that he has been employed with Newark since, January 8, 2000. Elliott testified that during his employment he has never received a major discipline, other than the within matter.

Elliott testified that on April 22, 2016, he was the Captain for Tour 4, Ladder 12, which commenced a twenty-four tour at 800 hours through April 23, 2018. Elliott testified that he was on twenty-four hours overtime, working the tour for Captain Wilcher, the Captain assigned to Tour 4.

Elliott testified that for the shift in question the normal fire truck used by Ladder 12 was in the vehicle repair shop and they had a replacement fire truck that was already in the station when he commenced his shift. Elliott testified that when the prior platoon dropped off the fire truck for repairs it failed to switch out whatever equipment and ladders that would fit on the antiquated back up fire truck that Ladder 12 needed to use. Elliott testified that he was never advised by the Captain he relieved that certain equipment and ladders were not transferred over and that information did not appear in the log book or any of the vehicle check sheets.

Elliott confirmed that White was the driver for the tour and date in question, and that it is the driver's job to make sure that the apparatus is in operating condition and that all of the necessary equipment is on the apparatus and in working condition. Elliott testified that If the fire truck is not functioning properly or essential equipment is missing it is the responsibility of the driver to advise his or her Captain.

Elliott testified that White informed him that the fire truck was missing ladders and some tools/equipment. Elliot further testified that the Holmatro spreaders and cutters, which is used to rescue individuals trapped in vehicles, was missing as well.

Elliott also testified that he was never advised that the majority of the equipment or tools were missing from the replacement fire truck, as Fresse and White stated in their testimony and in their respective memos. Elliott admitted as testified to by Fresse and White, that Elliott was aware that some ladders were missing and also the extraction tools, the Holmatro cutters, spreaders and the power unit for the Holmatro tools was missing.

Elliott also testified that based on the age of the fire truck there was limited space and not all of the equipment tools and ladders from a normal fire truck would fit on the replacement fire truck; that some of the storage units were smaller and that you could not fit all of the normal ladders on truck.

Elliott testified that despite the replacement fire truck missing some equipment and tools, the rig was "fire ready" in the event of a fire. Elliott testified that neither White or Fresse informed him that the replacement fire truck was not fire ready. Elliott testified that he was being disciplined for not having proper tools and equipment on a replacement rig that was assigned to another Captain whose shift Elliott was covering, and that Elliott did not create the problem but inherited it.

On cross-examination, Elliott testified that he has worked with missing equipment on a fire truck before. He stated that it was not uncommon for Newark not to properly stock the rigs that were in service, and that he was always working in "unfit conditions". Elliott testified that if he were to respond to a fire or emergency with the replacement fire truck assigned to him, any missing equipment that was needed could be obtained from another rig or fire station.

[4] Subsequently re-codified as N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3 (a) (12). Hereinafter referred to as N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3 (a) (11). As originally charged.

The disciplinary charges in this matter result from an overtime shift for Ladder 12 that then Captain Elliott worked on April 23, 2016. At the time Ladder 12 was not Elliott's normal assignment as he was filling in for another Captain. For the shift in question the fire truck used by Ladder 12 was in the vehicle repair shop and they had a replacement truck that was already in the fire station when Elliott arrived for the start of his shift.

When the prior squad dropped off the truck for repairs it failed to switch out whatever equipment and ladders that would fit on the replacement truck that Ladder 12 needed to use. Elliott was never advised prior to starting the shift by the Captain he relieved that certain equipment and ladders were not transferred from the truck over to the replacement truck. The log book and vehicle check sheets did not reflect the lack of transfer of equipment and tools.

Elliott's tour started at 800 hours on April 23, 2016. White was the driver for Elliott that day on Ladder 12. It is the driver's job to make sure that the truck is in operating condition and that all of the necessary equipment is on the truck and in working condition. If the truck is not functioning properly or essential equipment is missing it is the responsibility of the driver to advise his or her Captain. White was disciplined for his conduct in failing to make sure the replacement truck contained adequate tools and equipment, and he served a 14-hour suspension.

The replacement fire truck utilized in Elliott's shift was antiquated and did not have the full capacity to hold all regulation ladders and equipment. It is also undisputed that the replacement truck utilized on April 23, 2016, was missing all of the equipment identified by White in his May 17, 2016, memorandum which was marked and admitted into evidence as R6 and also the equipment outlined by Fresse in R9 that was also admitted into evidence at the hearing. White provided Elliott with an oral list of the tools and equipment that was missing from the replacement truck, which included ladders and some of the power tools such as the Holmatro spreaders and cutters. White did not communicate to anyone else in the chain of command that additional tools or equipment were missing the entire time he was on his shift.

Elliott and Fresse were working together for part of the twenty-four-shift on April 23, 2016. Fresse was working the engine in the same firehouse that night; however, his overtime shift did not begin until 1800 hours or 6:00 p.m. During the time Fresse and Elliott worked together, Fresse took notice of the poor condition of the replacement truck and joked about the same with Elliott. In addition, Fresse could see that the replacement truck was missing ladders and equipment. When Elliott's tour ended, Fresse took the necessary steps to rectify the situation of missing ladders and equipment, including contacting the garage to see about the return of an updated fire truck.

As a result of the incident at issue, White and Fresse were instructed to prepare a memorandum concerning the equipment that was missing on the replacement truck, and their actions concerning the same. Thereafter, an internal affairs investigation was conducted and White and Elliott were issued Preliminary Notices of Disciplinary Action (PNDA). White did not contest the charges and served a seven-day suspension. Elliott did contest the same, which resulted in a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), and the within appeal. No PNDAs were issued as to Fresse or any Battalion Chief over-seeing Tour 4 of Ladder company 12.

After the incident on April 23, 2016, Captain Elliot was promoted to Battalion Chief in September 2016.

Credibility

Prior to conducting a legal analysis and making a conclusion as to the testimony provided herein, it is necessary to address the credibility of the testimony of White, Freese and Elliott. "The interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . trier of fact, whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony." State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952). The choice of accepting or rejecting the witness's testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521–22 (1950); see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

I FIND the testimony of all of the witnesses to be credible concerning the condition of the replacement truck on April 23, 2016. They have all been consistent as to their observations that equipment was missing on the replacement truck. The same is conceded by Elliott as he does not dispute that the replacement truck was lacking certain equipment and supplies. There is a witness credibility issue, however, concerning whether White and Freese informed Elliott as to all of the items that were missing in the replacement truck on April 23, 2016. In addition, there is a credibility problem regarding what White communicated to Elliott on April 23, 2016.

The credibility issue concerns White and Fresse's memoranda, which were prepared more than three weeks apart, containing identical list of equipment that was missing in the same order with the same punctuation and even the same typo. Clearly, one of them had to copy the exact list from the other. Since Fresse's list was prepared on April 24, 2016, and White's memo was prepared May 7, 2016, I FIND that White copied word for word from Fresse's April 24, 2016 memo, and therefore my finding questions White's veracity that he verbally informed Elliott on April 23, 2016, that all of the items listed in his memo of May 17, 2016, was in fact communicated to Elliott. Consequently, I FIND White's testimony not credible that he verbally informed Elliott on April 23, 2016, that the replacement truck was missing the equipment and ladders referenced in White's memo of May 17,2016.

I FIND that White and Fresse collaborated in preparing their respective memos, and consequently, I FIND Freese's testimony not credible that he took no action to correct the missing equipment during Elliott's tour out of "respect" for him. Similarly, I FIND Freese's testimony not credible that the replacement truck was "not fire ready" as his failure to take corrective action during Elliott's tours is inconsistent with the items listed in his memo. In other words, how can I believe Freese that the replacement truck was missing all the items listed in his memo and that of White, when he is concerned that the truck is not fire ready, and Freese does not take corrective action until Elliott has concluded his tour? The answer is contained in my FINDING concerning Freese's lack of credibility.

I FIND Elliott's testimony consistent with that of Fresse and White that Elliott was aware that some equipment was missing; specifically ladders, extraction tools, the Holmatro cutters, spreaders and the power unit for the Holmatro tools was missing.

I FIND Elliott's testimony credible that based on the age of the replacement truck, there was limited space and not all of the equipment tools and ladders from a normal fire truck would fit, including that the storage units were smaller and that you could not fit all of the normal ladders on the replacement truck.

I FIND Elliott's testimony convincing that based on what was reported to him and based on what he actually observed, that the replacement truck was fire ready.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

In appeals concerning major disciplinary action, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The burden of proof is by a preponderance of the evidence, Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962), and the hearing is de novo, Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 579 (1980). On such appeals, the Civil Service Commission may increase or decrease the penalty, N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19, and the concept of progressive discipline guides that determination, In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 483–86 (2007).

Thus, an employee's prior disciplinary record is inherently relevant to determining an appropriate penalty for a subsequent offense, Id. at 483, and the question upon appellate review is whether such punishment is "so disproportionate to the offense, in the light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness," Id. at 484 (quoting In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 578 (1982) (internal quotes omitted)). Indeed, progressive discipline may only be bypassed when the misconduct is severe, when it renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when the application of progressive discipline would be contrary to the public interest, such as when the position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 33.

In the within matter, Elliott is charged with violating the civil services regulations for incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties; inability to perform duties; neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause. In addition, respondent found that Elliot violated the Newark Fire Department rules and regulations for duties and responsibilities; care, prevention maintenance, and repair of department vehicles; neglect, proper use of Newark equipment, services and supplies, and acts of omission constituting neglect of duty.

The basis for Newark's findings that Elliott violated the civil services regulations, and the rules and regulations arise from Elliott's failure to take any corrective actions concerning the missing equipment and ladders from the replacement fire truck. I CONCLUDE that Newark has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Elliott was aware that some of the equipment was missing from the replacement fire truck and that he took no action to correct the same, and the respondent's decision concerning the same is AFFIRMED.

I CONCLUDE further that Newark has failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Elliott's admission that the items he thought to be missing from the replacement truck rendered the replacement truck unsafe or not fire ready.

Having concluded that Elliott's conduct was in violation of the civil services regulations and the Newark Fire Department rules and regulations, I must determine if the penalty assessed by Newark is consistent with the concept of progressive discipline inherent in the Civil Service Commission ability to increase or decrease the penalty, under N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 483–86 (2007).

In determining if the nine-day suspension is consistent with the concept of progressive history, I am limited in considering Elliott's complete disciplinary history, as Newark did not provide the same in discovery, and I have ruled that the same was excluded as a result of Newark's conduct. However, I can consider Elliott's testimony that he had some prior disciplinary history in his file and I can also factor that Newark elevated Elliott to the rank of Battalion Chief on September 2016, five months after this incident occurred. In addition, my conclusion that Newark failed to prove that the replacement fire truck was not fire ready is also factored into my decision of a proper penalty to be imposed on Elliott.

As such, I CONCLUDE that the nine-day suspension assessed by Newark against Elliott, deemed a major suspension, should be REVERESED and that the appropriate suspension should be five-days, a minor suspension.

My decision is formed from Newark's inability to prove that Elliott was made aware of all items missing from the replacement truck and limited to what he personally knew to be the case. In addition, no proof was presented that Elliott had violated civil service rules or departmental rules and regulations in the past to justify the imposition of a major disciplinary charge.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that respondent's decision that Elliott violated the civil services regulations and the Newark Fire Department rules and regulations, is AFFIRMED and I further ORDER that respondent's decision to suspend appellant for nine-days is REVERSED and the appropriate suspension should be five-days.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Deputy Director Angiulo:

As you know, Zeller & Wieliczko, LLP represents the Petitioner, Matthew Harden, in the above-referenced matter.

I have had an opportunity to discuss your clarification request with counsel for the Millville School District. We are in agreement that Mr. Harden was on an "involuntary leave of absence without pay" during the period of time between his original separation from the District on December 18, 2017 and his eventual resignation on August 7, 2018.

Please advise us of any additional questions or clarifications you may have.

Importance: High

Mr. Diamantis and Mr. Betley:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Matthew Harden from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, the settlement indicates that Mr. Harden agrees to, among other things, a resignation from his position effective August 7, 2018. However, the settlement does not reflect how to record the time period from his original separation (December 18, 2017) to his resignation date. Before the matter can be acknowledged by the Commission, we require all periods of time to be accounted for in an employee's personnel record. In this regard, is that time period to be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

ISSUED: OCTOBER 19, 2018 BW

The appeal of Robert Mapes, County Correction Sergeant, Morris County Sheriff's Office, 30 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Ernest M. OAL DKT NO. CSV 06418-18
AGENCY REF. NO. CSC 2018-2917

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERT MAPES,
MORRIS COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

Peter N. Gilbreth, Esq., or appellant, Robert Mapes

Robert J. Greenbaum, Esq., for respondent, Morris County Sheriff's Office

Record Closed: August 1, 2018 Decided: September 12, 2018

BEFORE ERNEST M. BONGIOVANNI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Sgt. Robert Mapes (appellant/Mapes) challenges the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated January 8, 2018, imposing a thirty working days suspension for failing to interrupt inappropriate or excessive force by a fellow sworn staff member, in violation of the policy on Use of Force (UOF). He is also charged with failure to follow policy and procedure in reporting an incident involving the use of force without mentioning the nature of the use of force or injury to an inmate in the incident report, and for his failure to follow the reporting requirements of the Injury to Inmate reporting procedure.

The Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13 to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed on May 4, 2018. The hearing was held on August 1, 2018 at which time the record was closed.

SUMMARY OF FACTS

The evidence consisted of joint exhibits following an investigation a Use of Force (UOF) incident conducted by the Internal Affairs unit of the Morris County Correction Facility (MCCF). The following facts were not disputed.

Mapes is a Sheriff's officer employed by the Morris County Sheriff's Office at the MCCF. In the early morning of April 4, 2017, Mapes was the supervising officer who, with four other officers, was responsible for transferring an inmate, Michael Utter, from Housing Unit 3A to 3D. The relevant part of the transfer was videotaped in color and with sound, by an officer per Departmental policy. During the transfer, Utter was placed in Cellblock #9. In the process of being uncuffed, a UOF incident against the inmate took place, at which time, fellow Officer Michael Provenzano used excessive force by employing unnecessary punches and a kick to the inmate's facial area while he was being pressed to the ground by Provenzano and three other officers.

Soon after the incident, Mapes completed an incident report (J-3) which did not mention the eight blows to the head/face received by Utter or any subsequent other blows to the inmate's face by Provenzano; nor did the report mention that the inmate had complained immediately of being beat up and struck in the face by the officers or officer. Mapes was supervising investigator of the incident. During that investigation, he failed to seek a witness statement from the inmate. He also signed two "Injury to Inmate" reports which also failed to mention the multiple blows to the face.

As a result of the UOF and the events that immediately followed it, Mapes was charged with failing to interrupt a fellow officer who was using excessive force and failing in multiple reporting requirements to accurately report these events. (J-4). After a departmental hearing, Mapes received a 30 working days suspension. (J-5).

EVIDENCE

Corporal Santana Internal Affairs (IA) Investigator for the Morris County Sherriff's Office testified first. He has been employed by the Morris County Sheriff's Office for 22 years. He has worked for Internal Affairs at the Morris County Correctional Facility (MCCF)/ Correctional Facility) since 2012. Before that, he worked in the Intake unit at the Facility for several years. He was the administrative investigating officer for the investigation concerning the UOF Incident that occurred on April 4, 2017. The investigation included interviews of the officers involved in the incident, an interview of inmate Utter, and a review of the video recorded incident. Corporal Santana's detailed report (R-1), also included a summary of relevant policies which he claimed justified the charges against Sgt Mapes. Santana also presented the Video, (J-1) as evidence.

The Video

The following explanation of this evidence is a result of multiple examinations of the 16-minute video. For clarity, it is divided by into three sections.

1. The Transfer to cellblock #9

The inmate is first seen in cuffs with hands behind his back and being escorted by four officers, one each holding the arm on either side of him. Two others are close behind, with Mapes directing them, from one corridor on the 3rd floor of the MCCF into and out of an elevator to another floor towards what was later described as Cellblock #9 on the first floor. The transfer proceeds without incident for a minute, then Inmate Utter looks toward Officer Provenzano, who is holding the inmates left arm and says, "You have my arm tight." Just before being led into an elevator, the inmate is seen slightly pulling his shoulder away from Officer Provenzano. The transfer process without incident for about a minute, until soon after the inmate and officers enter Cellblock #9.

2. The Use of Force (UOF) Incident.

The inmate is guided to face a wall in the cellblock and is made to kneel on a bench while facing the wall. Officer Salonia begins to remove his cuffs. Just after Utter's left hand is freed from the cuffs, without being ordered to, the inmate places his left hand firmly against the wall, while Officer Provenzano remains with his grip on Utter's left side and holds his hand to the wall. Utter is ordered by Mapes to "Stay in that position until you hear the door shut." Although Utter's right arm, still behind his back, cannot be fully seen, Officer Salonia is apparently attempting to remove the cuff when something causes him to shout at Utter to "Stop it, stop!" Utter responds by saying "What are you doing bro?". Almost immediately after, the officers surge toward the inmate who yells in apparent anger or possibly pain and is then pushed to the ground by the combined force of the officers. Mapes almost immediately sounds an alarm by using his body radio and unhooks his "OC" (pepper spray) canister from his holster.

With the inmate's body pressed to the ground, Provenzano, still gripping the inmate, punches Utter's face and head with eight rapid blows with his right fist. Mapes is observed facing Provenzano and Utter just before the blows to the face are delivered. Mapes then goes to the other side of Utter's body, which is now seen to be pinned to the ground by the other three officers. Provenzano, who has now stood up and repositioned himself on the same side as Mapes, delivers another strike with his right fist to Utter's head. He also "knees" the supine inmate just before getting to the other side of him. Sergeant Shawn Johnston who entered the cell, in response to the alarm, directs Utter to "stop resisting". Provenzano then issues two more strikes to Utter's head/upper body. Sgt. Johnson issues another command to "stop resisting." Mapes sprays Utter's face with the OC. Soon thereafter, with some of the officers showing some effect of the spray (e.g. coughing, spitting)[1] the inmate is fully secured.

3. Decontamination of the OC and nurse's treatment following the Use of Force

[1] It is not clear when the pepper spray was first deployed. It may have been deployed soon after Sgt. Mapes is first seen pointing it in the direction of Utter, or while Mapes was going around Provenzano to the other side of Utter. Only one blast of spray is completely shown on camera, right after or just as Provenzano gives a final punch to the inmate. Within a second or two of that blast of OC the inmate and officers seem to show a clear reaction to the spray.

The remaining 13 minutes of the video show Utter being decontaminated in a shower, twice getting drops administered by a nurse, getting changed into dry clothes and slippers, being photographed and being led into another Cell (Cell#2) The relevant portions of the video shows that at various times beginning immediately after the Use of Force, Utter complains repeatedly of "being punched in the face" and questions why the officers they had to do that. Utter asks for the police to be called while repeating the repeated the allegations. After Utter to complains to all those around him "Why did you punch me in the face?", Mapes replies by saying "just be quiet till we get it checked and conned" (meaning decontamination). A few minutes later, during a medical assessment and treatment for the OC Spray near the Intake unit's work station, Mapes asks the Inmate "Claiming any injuries? Besides your face?" Mapes then has photographs taken of Utter's face. A minute later as Utter still complains of being hit in the face, Mapes tells him to "Be quiet."

After presenting the video of the incident, Corporal Santana also testified concerning the interviews he supervised of the inmate and the officers involved in the incident. Interviews of the Officers and the Inmate.

The inmate, interviewed one week after the UOF incident, admitted that during the uncuffing, after his one hand was freed, he tensed up his body because of the aggression used in placing his hand to the wall, and even clenched his fist. However, he believed the officers' actions were instigated not by any resistance by him, but rather by comments made between him and Officer Salonia just prior to the escort. He stated he never resisted nor intended to resist. He noted that during the UOF, his head bounced off the ground because of the blows to the head.

Officer Provenzano claimed the initial blows he delivered to the inmate's head and face were justified because as they both came down to the ground "he (Utter) had my arm." However, he conceded his very last strike to the inmate was not necessary.

R-1, page 16[2] The other officers made somewhat contradictory accounts of the events, none of which are relevant to the issues in dispute and are hence not detailed here.

Sgt. Mape's Interview

He was interviewed October 26, 2017, with his counsel present. His interview was audiotaped (J-2). Appropriate instructions and cautions, including a warning that it was a violation of his oath to fail to give truthful and complete information. Mapes stated:

He was the supervisor in charge of the transfer of the inmate. He reviewed the video after the incident and reviewed it before the interview. He described the inmate, with whom he had prior experience, as a "mouthy type" but who cooperates. When the UOF began, Mapes turned his attention away from the action to sound his body alarm and unholster his OC spray. He claimed he didn't see the first series of blows administered by Provenzano, but he did witness the final series of blows.

He admitted the use of force to the inmate was "excessive" or "borderline excessive." He said that a compliance hold would have been more correct and more effective. He said the strikes to the inmate's face were "questionable" and "weren't the best judgement to control the situation." He also admitted that Inmate Utter had repeatedly alleged to Mapes that he had been punched in the face during the incident.

Mapes claimed to have little experience in use of force incidents as a supervisor. He was unaware of the details of the Morris County Sheriff's Office Use of Force Policy and Procedure. The policy requires the staff officer to whom the allegation is first reported to complete an allegation of force incident report. Mapes admitted he did not make such report. About his unfamiliarity with the policy, Mapes said he was "still learning."

[2] His words regarding whether he thought that strike was necessary were "I wouldn't say necessary, no."

Similarly, Mapes was questioned about the written incident report he made soon after the event. His incident report, in pertinent part said that:

> A UOR 15-17 occurred...Inmate Utter was given numerous orders from me to stop resisting and failed to comply with all orders. This supervisor applied a short burst of OC to the facial area of Inmate Utter. After this was done, Inmate Utter was placed back in handcuffs, and escorted to the shower area to be decontaminated. This was done without further incident.

Thus, in describing the use of force, Mapes never mentioned the multiple blows administered to the inmate's head and face, nor that the inmate immediately thereafter complained of getting punched and kicked in the face. Mapes attributed any failings to being "overwhelmed" and having "lack of experience... I didn't know half what I needed to know."

The disciplinary charges and penalty

Corporal Santana stated that. Mapes failed to exercise the command presence required by a supervisor. Specifically, he was charged with failing to follow, MCCF Policy and Procedure, Use of Force, Number 1:8.6 Section II, which states:

> C. Sworn staff is expected to interrupt the flow of events to ensure that a fellow sworn staff member does not resort to employing an inappropriate or excessive use of force.

The Guidelines to this policy include:

> The amount of force shall only be that which is necessary in the circumstances to restrain the inmate and control the situation. For example, blows should not be struck if control holds would be adequate to restrain the inmate. Multiple blows should not be employed if a single blow is adequate to stop the inmate's attack. Unless unavoidable, blows should be directed away from the head and kicks should not be used.

Regarding this charge, Santana stated that Mapes admitted witnessing the second series of blows to the head and face. During the incident, he issued no orders to resist. He failed to tell Officer Provenzano to stop punching the inmate and did not physically intercede in any way.

According to Santana, Mapes, also failed to follow, from the same Policy, IV Procedures E. Allegation of Force, which states:

> 1. If an allegation of force is made by an inmate, a witness statement will be requested from the inmate and forwarded to the shift commander
> 2. The staff member the allegation is first reported to shall complete an incident report and forward it to the shift commander.

While Mapes completed an Incident report (J-3) he neglected to state that he observed the blows to the head sustained by the inmate, or that the inmate repeatedly complained of these blows to him. Moreover, Mapes failed to request a witness statement from the inmate, so that it could be forwarded to the shift commander.

Finally, Mapes failed to follow Policy and Procedure, Injury to Inmate Report, Number 3.13.2 which provides:

> A.[A]ny inmate suspected of being injured and who claims to be injured is referred to the medical department for examination and treatment by appropriate medical personnel, accompanied by the Injury to Inmate Report...
> J. [T]he Investigating Supervisor shall ensure all information provided within the report is complete, accurate and concise. All investigations should be structured to answer the following questions:
> a. Where, when, how and who received the injury...

Regarding the injury to Inmate report, two such reports were generated, by officer John Henderson. Mapes signed the reports as Supervisor. The first report said, "OC sprayed to the face" and detailed the eyewash procedure following decontamination and ice pack issued to apply to the eyes. The second, reported an hour after the incident, stated the inmate complained of pain and a bump to his head behind his left ear, and detailed the medical department's pain protocol that followed which included taking precautionary measures. Neither report mentioned that the bump on the head sustained by the inmate followed upon his receiving multiple punches to the head and facial area.

Warden Christopher Klein also testified. He has been the Warden of the Facility since 2013 and employed there since 1999. He oversees day to day operations at the facility and is the second highest ranking official there, after the Undersheriff for the County. He directed the matter to IA on the same morning of the event, after reviewing the Use of Force reports and the video. After IA completed the investigation and after consulting with the Sheriff and the Undersheriff he made the decision to bring the disciplinary charges against Mapes. He noted that the medical staff was not properly advised by Mapes. Regarding the penalty, he thought it was justified because it was "significant", and in fact "one of the worst uses of force" he has seen since being Warden. Further, Mapes actions and failures to act "could have resulted in significant injury" to the inmate. In issuing the penalty, he considered Mapes' past disciplinary record. He believes the egregiousness of the misconduct warranted going beyond the process of progressive discipline.

FINDINGS OF FACTS

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing, as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS.

1. Mapes was the supervisor in charge of an inmate transfer and was present while excessive force was used on the inmate by another officer.

2. Mapes witnessed the excessive force, which included initial rapid multiple blows to the head and face of an inmate partly cuffed while being held to the ground by three other officers. Mapes admitted seeing an additional three punches to the facial area administered by a fellow officer. While interviewed later about these events, Mapes admitted the force used was "excessive" or "borderline excessive."

3. During the incident, Mapes remained silent and did not interject in the series of punches to the inmate's facial and facial area. Although supervising the officers involved, he issued no orders during the use of force. He said nothing and did nothing.

4. Soon after the incident, when the inmate complained repeatedly of being punched in the face, Mapes told the inmate to "keep quiet." He also asked if the inmates had any complaint "other than" those involving his face.

5. Mapes filed an incident report soon after the incident and never mentioned the blows to the face sustained by the inmate nor that the inmate complained of having been beaten to his face.

6. Mapes did not request a witness statement from the inmate, which was to be sent to the shift commander once obtained, although he was repeatedly made aware of the allegation of force by the inmate.

7. Mapes signed as an investigating supervisor two Injury to an Inmate reports which failed to state how the inmate was injured, or possibly injured.

LAW

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6 governs a civil service employee's rights and duties. The act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service. It is to be liberally constructed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council No. 1 N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n., 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of New Jersey is to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority to public officials in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A1-2 (b). To carry out this policy, the Act also includes provisions authorizing the discipline of public employees. Consistent with public policy and civil service law, a civil service employee may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(a). Major discipline involves removal or fine or suspension for more than five working days. Employees may be disciplined for insubordination, neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming a public employee and other sufficient cause, among other things. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. Hearings at the Office of Administrative Law are conducted de novo and determine the appellant's guilt or innocence as well as the appropriate penalty. In the Matter of Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987). Ennslin v. Twp. Of N. Bergen, 275 N.J. Super. 352 (App. Div. 1994) cert. den., 142 N.J. 446 (1995).

In an appeal from a disciplinary action, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relies by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); Polk, 90 N.J. 550. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, the judge must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del Lackawanna and W.R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Preponderance may be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

Maintenance of strict discipline is important in quasi-military settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivelli v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. den. 142, N.J. 446 (1995). City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). In such settings, the primary duty of the officers and supervisors is the safety and security of the facility.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

In this matter, Mapes' failures to exercise command endangered the safety and security of the Correctional Facility, Mapes' fellow officers, and the inmate. It was argued that that the excessive force used by Provenzano took place under chaotic circumstances, that at a critical point Mapes turned his body so that his back was to Provenzano and Utter, while he sounded his body alarm and grasped for and withdrew his OC spray canister. However, the video shows that Mapes only turned his back for two seconds or less. He immediately (at two minutes 51 seconds on the video) turned back to face Provenzano and Utter and pointed his OC spray toward the action before the first series of head blows (beginning at 2 minutes 53 seconds) by Provenzano were struck.

Moreover, it was argued that Mapes suffered a bad reaction to the OC which affected his judgement. The UOF Policy includes a "Special Note" which he argued required a finding that Mapes had to be "clearly convinced" that another officer is using force in violation of the Use of Force policy and/or state law It was posited that Mapes did not have sufficient time to become "clearly convinced" that the fellow officer was using excessive force.

I found these arguments unpersuasive and at variance with the facts and logical inferences from them. Despite his denial, Mapes was perfectly positioned to see and hear[3] the first series of eight repeated punches to the inmate and admitted seeing the second series of blows. Nearly everything an officer shouldn't do, Mapes' fellow officer Provenzano did while Mapes stood by and watched. Provenzano struck the inmate multiple times to the face when the inmate was on the ground. Once the inmate was on the ground which was almost immediately, none of the officers faced danger which would require strikes to the face, notwithstanding the slight, almost indiscernible struggle by the inmate who had an arm with a handcuff and key in it. The officer employed multiple punches without any concern for whether one punch was adequate.

[3] Owing to the acoustics in the barren cell, the punches and/or the inmates head being bashed on the floor by them, were accompanied with loud basketball-bouncing-like thuds.

Finally, all the blows were administered to the inmate's face or facial area. During all that, Mapes, the supervising officer, did nothing, not even making a minimal effort to warn the inmate to not resist. This was in marked contrast to Sgt. Johnson, who rushed into the scene after the UOF was underway and quickly yelled twice to Utter to "stop resisting!" Under the circumstances, it is not plausible that Mapes was "overwhelmed" by the events.

Regarding his actions taken after the UOF, Mapes heard all the inmate's many complaints of being punched in the face, including Utter's request to have the police called. Mapes responded twice to Utter's complaints to "Be quiet." He also asked Utter "Do you have any complaints, other than your face?" His incident report left out critical information. He failed to request a witness statement. He signed two Injury to Inmate reports which left out the required information to explain how the inmate was injured or possibly injured and who was responsible. Mapes actions and inaction can be fairly seen and characterized as impeding a required investigation of a Use of Force and Injury to and Inmate allegation, one in which he failed to act.

Additionally, some of Mapes explanations for his actions strain credibility. For example, Mapes went to great lengths to excuse his behavior after the UOF as simple negligence, rather than what can be construed as a "cover up." His first official act, after getting the injured inmate into another cell was to write an incident report that was bare of any essential facts and contained a self-serving inaccuracy. His report states inaccurately stated that the inmate was given "numerous orders by me to stop resisting." The video shows Mapes did not give a single order. Moreover, he admitted in his interview he gave no such order, and feebly suggested that there was no need to re-enforce another officer's command to stop resisting.

Regarding the two Injury to Inmate reports generated by Officer Henderson, Mapes signed the report as the "Investigating Supervisor". Under the policy the "Investigating Supervisor shall ensure all information within the report is complete, accurate and concise." Further the investigation is to be structured so as to answer questions, "where, when how and who received the injury." As there were two such reports generated, Mapes as investigating supervisor had two opportunities to report the injuries to Utter in the complete and accurate manner as required by the policy. Instead he signed, approved and forwarded two incomplete and inaccurate reports concerning the source of injury to an inmate.

I CONCLUDE the charges constituting "other sufficient cause" under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a) General cause; (12) other sufficient cause were proved by a preponderance of the credible evidence in that, Sgt. Mapes violated the Morris County Sheriff's Office Bureau of Corrections Standard Operating Policy and Procedures on Use of Force, 1:8.6 subsections II (C) subsection III (B) and subsection IV.(E) and the Morris County Sheriff's Office Bureau of Corrections, Standard Operating Procedure on Injury to Inmate reports, 3:13.2 subsections III (J)

PENALTY

There remains the issue of the imposition of a thirty working days suspension for this infraction. In deciding which penalty is appropriate, the courts have looked toward the concept of progressive discipline. W. New York v. Bock, 38 NJ at 523-524. The New Jersey Supreme Court held that evidence of a past disciplinary record, including the nature number and proximity to prior instances of misconduct can be considered in determining the appropriate penalty. The penalty imposed must not be so disproportionate to the offense and the mitigating circumstances that the decision is arbitrary and unreasonable.

Mapes was the subject of seven prior disciplinary actions, the last being in 2012 (J-6), which resulted in a major discipline, with six days suspension. The parties stipulated that Officer Provenzano, had no prior disciplinary history and received a thirty-day suspension. Mapes seeks a lower penalty. The number of prior disciplines is mitigated somewhat by their apparent minor nature.

Mapes attempted to minimize both the seriousness of the infraction and his own culpability and failed to make a convincing case for a lesser penalty. Progressive discipline need not be strictly followed considering an egregious violation, as occurred here. Further, a 30-day suspension following a 2012 six-day suspension is not a significant deviation from the goals of progressive discipline.

I CONCLUDE by the preponderance of the credible evidence that all the charges were proven, and that the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action should be upheld. I further CONCLUDE that the penalty of a thirty working days suspension is appropriate.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the appellant's Appeal is DENIED.

It is further ORDERED that the appellant's thirty working days suspension is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, P.O. Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: OCTOBER 19, 2018 BW

The appeal of Neeham Roghanchi, Laborer 1, Township of Union, Department of Public Works, release at the end of the working test period effective September 5, 2017, was heard by Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Leslie Z. Celentano, who rendered her initial decision on September 26, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on October 17, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision. However, the Commission does not adopt the recommendation to uphold the release at the end of the working test period. Rather, for the reasons expressed in the initial decision, the Commission dismisses the appeal as moot.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission dismisses the appeal of Neeham Roghanchi as moot.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 15252-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-765

IN THE MATTER OF NEEHAM ROGHANCHI, TOWNSHIP OF UNION, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Robert D. Kuttner, Esq., for appellant Neeham Roghanchi

Robert J. Merryman, Esq., for respondent Township of Union (Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy, P.C., attorneys)

Record Closed: August 28, 2018 Decided: September 26, 2018

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

Appellant Neeham Roghanchi ("appellant") appeals his termination as a laborer at the end of his working test period for respondent Township of Union ("Union"). Appellant had also been charged with conduct unbecoming, and those charges were sustained and resulted in his termination as of August 31, 2017, three days before the working test period expired.

Appellant did not appeal his termination for conduct unbecoming, and that decision is therefore final. Respondent asserts that appellant's appeal of his removal at the end of his working test period is therefore moot, and should be dismissed. On October 13, 2017, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. On August 8, 2018, respondent filed a motion for summary decision asserting that appellant's appeal of the removal at the end of the working test period is moot, as he was previously terminated for misconduct. No opposition has been received to the motion, and would have been due on or before August 28, 2018.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Union filed the following statement of facts in support of its motion for summary decision. Since the motion is unopposed, I FIND it as FACT:

Appellant was hired as an entry-level laborer by the Township of Union on or about June 5, 2017. As a new employee, appellant was subject to a ninety-day probationary period which ran from June 5, 2017, through September 3, 2017.

On or about August 4, 2017, appellant was involved in an incident at work in which he physically assaulted another Township employee, Benny DelMauro. This incident occurred during the workday in the break room. After the incident, the Human Resources director, Karen Caulfield, investigated the matter and requested statements from the individuals who had witnessed the incident. Ms. Caulfield also interviewed the individuals who had witnessed the incident.

The eyewitnesses to the incident confirmed that appellant physically assaulted Mr. DelMauro without warning and without any immediate provocation. The witness statements further indicate that Mr. DelMauro never even had a chance to defend himself and was struck multiple times by appellant. When Ms. Caulfield interviewed appellant, he did not deny attacking Mr. DelMauro.

Based on the incident, appellant was immediately suspended, first with pay and then without pay. On August 31, 2017, appellant was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action charging him with conduct unbecoming a public employee based on his physical assault on a coworker without any immediate provocation. Appellant never requested a disciplinary hearing, despite written notice that he could request such a hearing within five days.

On September 7, 2017, appellant was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action advising him that the penalty for his conduct was termination of his employment, with an effective date of August 31, 2017. Petitioner never appealed his termination, despite the fact that he received written notice that he could file an appeal with the Civil Service Commission within twenty days of the receipt of the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Under N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, summary decision may be rendered if no genuine issue of material fact exists and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. In this case no genuine issue of material fact exists and Union is entitled to prevail as a matter of law for the reasons stated below.

The Constitution limits the judiciary to the adjudication of actual cases and controversies. U.S. Const. art III, § 2. Accordingly, "'[a] case is moot when the issues presented are no longer "live" or the parties lack a legally cognizable interest in the outcome.'" Donovan v. Punxsutawney Area Sch. Bd., 336 F.3d 211, 216 (3rd Cir. 2003) (citing Powell v. McCormack, 395 U.S. 486, 496 (1969)). Specifically, it is "[t]he court's ability to grant effective relief [that] lies at the heart of the mootness doctrine." Ibid. (citation omitted). For instance, when developments evolve during the "course of adjudication" that negate the plaintiff's interest in the outcome of a case or thwart a court from being able to give the requested relief, the suit must be dismissed as moot. Ibid. (citation omitted). "This requirement that a case or controversy be 'actual [and] ongoing' extends throughout all stages of . . . judicial proceedings . . . ." Ibid. (citing Khodara Envtl., Inc. v. Beckman, 237 F.3d 186, 193 (3rd Cir. 2001) (emphasis supplied). In the absence of an actual case or controversy, a ruling by a court would constitute an advisory opinion, disregarding the Constitution's limitation of jurisdiction. See id. at 217, n.3; see also Armstrong World Indus., Inc. v. Adams, 961 F.2d 405, 410 (3d Cir. 1992) (stating, "[Article III, section 2 of the Constitution] 'stands as a direct prohibition on the issuance of advisory opinions.'").

Similarly, the doctrine of mootness has utility in the administrative setting if no effective relief can be granted in a case. Benjamin v. Masciocchi, Comm'r of Educ., EDU 14102-11, Initial Decision (March 12, 2013), adopted, Comm'r (April 11, 2013), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (citing In re Tenure Hearing of Mujica, EDU 5184-01, Initial Decision (March 15, 2006), adopted, Comm'r (April 25, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/). An action is considered moot when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy, and the conflict between the parties has become merely hypothetical. Ibid. (citing In re Conroy, 190 N.J. Super. 453, 458 (App. Div. 1983)). It is well-settled law in New Jersey that cases that have become moot prior to adjudication are no longer actionable. Ibid. (citing Mujica, EDU 5184-01). Cases in which the issues are hypothetical, a judgment cannot grant effective relief, or there is no concrete adversity of interest between the parties are moot. See Advance Elec. Co., Inc. v. Montgomery Twp. Bd. of Educ., 351 N.J. Super. 160, 166 (App. Div. 2002) (citing Anderson v. Sills, 143 N.J. Super. 432, 437 (Ch. Div. 1976)).

In the within matter, appellant appealed from the termination at the end of his working test period when he had not appealed the separate removal effective August 31, 2017. The working test period concluded after the termination for cause on August 31, 2017, and appellant's failure to appeal the determination renders his working test period moot. Appellant cannot be reinstated even if successful in the working-test-period appeal by virtue of his failure to appeal his disciplinary termination. See In re Black, CSV 8953-06, Initial Decision (May 21, 2007), adopted, Merit Sys. Bd. (July 12, 2007), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Respondent is entitled to prevail as a matter of law.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the decision removing appellant at the end of his working test period be and hereby is AFFIRMED and the appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: NOVEMBER 2, 2018 BW

The appeals of Keisha Allen, Police Officer, Township of Hillside Police Department, 10 working day suspension and removal effective April 28, 2014, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Michael Antoniewicz, who rendered his initial decision on September 21, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of October 31, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision. The Commission also acknowledged the appellant's withdrawal of her appeal of the 10 working day suspension as noted by the ALJ.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending and removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms those actions and dismisses the appeals of Keisha Allen.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
(CONSOLIDATED)
OAL DKT. NOS. CSV 02286-14 and CSR 05767-14
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2014-1966

IN THE MATTER OF KEISHA ALLEN, TOWNSHIP OF HILLSIDE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Salvatore Bellomo, Esq., for appellant Keisha Allen (Law Offices of Salvatore Bellomo, attorneys)

Edward J. Kologi, Esq., for respondent Township of Hillside (Kologi & Simitz, attorneys)

Record Closed: September 5, 2018 Decided: September 21, 2018

BEFORE MICHAEL ANTONIEWICZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant Keisha Allen, a former police officer for the Township of Hillside Police Department (Hillside), appeals her removal for: 1) conduct unbecoming a public employee; 2) insubordination; 3) neglect of duty; 4) failure to perform duties; and 5) other sufficient cause. The Hillside Rules of Conduct: 3:1.3, cooperation; 3:1.8, performance of duty; 3:1.9, fitness for duty; 3:1.13, insubordination; 3:1.16, conduct toward superior and subordinate officers and associates; 3:1.22, criticism of official acts or orders; 3:1.33, withholding information—false reporting; 3:2.1, alcoholic beverages and legal drugs. The parties stipulated to the fact that this hearing did not concern suspensions imposed in the case docketed CSV 02286-14, as Allen did not appeal that action, and the only issue addressed in this hearing was Allen's termination contained in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated April 28, 2014, in the case docketed CSR 05767-14.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant waived her departmental hearing, and respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) on January 26, 2014, sustaining the charges for a ten-day suspension (under CSV 02286-14). On February 11, 2014, the respondent issued an FNDA seeking appellant's termination and her removal from her position as a police officer for the Township of Hillside.

The appellant requested a hearing, and the appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 25, 2014, as to CSV 02286-14. The hearing was held on March 20, 2017 and March 29, 2017. Subsequently, a second appeal was filed with the OAL on May 8, 2014, as to CSR 05767-14. I issued an order consolidating both matters on June 27, 2014. After numerous adjournment requests by both sides on many scheduled hearing dates for various reasons, including placing the matters on the inactive list, settlement discussions and unavailability of the attorneys and/or witnesses, the hearing was held on September 5, 2018, and the record closed on that date.

TESTIMONY

For Respondent

Police Chief Louis Panarese (Panarese) was the police chief for the Township of Hillside for about four years. Panarese worked for Hillside for thirty-four years and was a detective supervisor for more than twenty years. Panarese also handled administrative discipline for the Hillside Police Department. Panarese identified J-1 as the ten-day PNDA suspension for Allen and J-2 as an FNDA for the termination of Allen.

Panarese recalled that Allen was involved in a minor car accident on March 19, 2013, when patrolling a car dealership while on duty. Panarese saw the written accident report, and the report noted that there was no one injured and basically no damage to the motor vehicles. Panarese identified the police report dated March 19, 2013, and written by Sgt. Paul White. Panarese described the accident as minor, with both cars being driven away. Panarese stated that Allen was a passenger in the police vehicle. Allen stated to the responding officer that she had no pain and no injury.

Panarese testified that the next day, March 20, 2013, Allen stated that she was experiencing extreme back pain, and she went to the emergency room at Overlook Hospital. Panarese identified the picture of the minor damage of the police vehicle in which Allen was a passenger. (R-2.) Panarese described the damage as a dent in the front bumper.

Thereafter, Allen submitted a doctor's note regarding her injuries. Panarese received information which stated that Allen could return to work on April 20, 2013. Allen did not return to work on that date. Allen was referred to Concentra Medical Center for a review and examination. As the chief of police, Panarese receives all medical paperwork for the Hillside Police Department.

Allen advised Panarese that she was in a lot of pain, with a lumbar strain, and Allen remained out of work. Allen was then instructed to report to Concentra once again. On March 28, 2013, Allen went back to Concentra, which found that the pain could be controlled with heat. The diagnosis by Concentra was a lumbar thoracic strain. On March 28, 2013, Allen still did not return to work. Allen remained out of work and used sick time. In April 2013, Allen returned to Dr. Lester. Allen advised Lester that she had pain in the lower lumbar area. Allen stated that her movements were extremely limited. Lester considered such statements as subjective in nature. On April 18, 2013, Allen went back to Concentra for the third time. Concentra determined that Allen had a soft-tissue injury, with subjective pain and behavioral overlay.

An MRI was taken of Allen by Millburn Medical Imaging, and the MRI showed no herniated discs, with a normal examination. (R-3.) The report was dated April 26, 2013, and further confirmed no disc protrusion, and the impression was normal. Both Concentra and Overlook Hospital cleared Allen to return to work on April 20, 2013, full duty, without restriction. (R-4.) Despite this, Panarese stated that Allen did not return to full duty on April 20, 2013.

Allen did light duty. She worked the police desk in Hillside and answered the telephone. In this capacity, Allen worked for three days. On April 24, 2013, Dr. Lester discharged Allen to full duty. On April 29, 2013, Allen was sent back to Dr. Lester. Dr. Lester found that there was a normal MRI and that the subjective complaints were out of line with the findings. On this day, Dr. Lester cleared Allen for full duty.

Thereafter, Allen submitted a note from the Codella Family Practice that Allen needed to be out from May 2, 2013, until May 15, 2013, and that she could return to duty on May 16, 2013. Allen was once again sent to Concentra for a functional capacity evaluation (FCE). On May 7, 2013, Lester conducted an FCE. The FCE resulted in no report of any injury or re-injury. Allen reiterated that she was in pain. On May 14, 2013, Allen was placed on administrative leave with pay, pending an investigation. Thereafter, Allen went to the Codella Family Practice, which recommended her out from duty from May 15, 2013, until May 27, 2013.

An Internal Affairs (IA) investigation commenced to review Allen's conduct. The IA investigation was conducted by Captain Floyd. The IA investigation took approximately one month. Floyd provided Panarese his findings in a report. Thereafter, Allen was ordered back to work. There was a supplemental investigation after this order was given to Allen. As a result of this order to return to work and her failure to return to work, charges were brought against Allen, and those charges were sustained. The sustained charges were: 1) failure to perform duties; 2) insubordination; 3) conduct unbecoming a public employee; 4) neglect of duty; and 5) other sufficient cause. (J-2.) There were also eight other violations of regulations.

Allen was out of work until June 14, 2013. Respondent ordered Allen to go for an IME with Dr. Aragona (Aragona), an orthopedist. (R-5.) This exam took place on June 18, 2013. Aragona found pain patterns on the left sacroiliac. There was pain on Allen's right side and a complaint of pain on the left side.

Aragona supplied the respondent with a complete report (R-8) dated June 18, 2013. Aragona found that Allen had one painful or achy spot in the region of the left buttocks. There is no radiating pain and no numbness or weakness to the lower extremities. The pain is constant, but is worse with sitting more than two to three hours. It is somewhat improved by walking, stretching, massage, and use of a TENS unit. Aragona provided an opinion within orthopedic medical probability. Aragona noted that Allen advised him that the only remaining area of pain is at the left pelvic area, which corresponds to the sacroiliac joint. Aragona stated in his report that Allen's pain patterns were entirely subjective, without objective evidence. There is no evidence of restricted motion, spasm, or weakness. It was Aragona's opinion that Allen can return to full duties at work.

Based on the results of Allen's IMEs, deputy chief of police John Robertson forwarded a letter to Allen ordering her to return to work for her next regularly scheduled shift on July 24, 2013. (R-9.) Allen's eight-hour shift was to start at 8:30 p.m. on July 24, 2013. Allen did not work that day, nor did she work on July 26 or July 27, 2013, as she called out sick on both days.

Respondent then received a note from Overlook Hospital stating that Allen could return to work on August 2, 2013. (R-10.) They also received a doctor's note from Premier Healthcare stating that Allen had piriformis syndrome on the left side and could return to work on August 20, 2013. On August 15, 2013, Allen was sent to Concentra to see Dr. Lester. Dr. Lester examined Allen once again and concluded that Allen had a lumbar flexion, but could not explain Allen's other complaints. Lester found that Allen had significant behavior overlay. Lester found that Allen's injury was to soft tissue, and she could return to full-duty work. In his report dated August 15, 2013, Dr. Lester wrote that he could not explain this patient's subjective complaints. (R-6.) Lester explained that Allen's complaints had been completely nonspecific, generalized throughout the lumbar area, and now "all of a sudden are localized to the left buttock." It seemed unusual to Dr. Lester. "As she had a significant left SI joint injury or hip injury, I believe she would have been focusing our attention to the area much earlier in the injury treatment process."

Premier Healthcare determined that Allen could return to work on September 3, 2013. However, Allen did not return on September 3, 2013, and her suggested sick leave was extended until September 17, 2013. Panarese stated that Allen only came back to work for one half day. Respondent wrote to Aragona requesting a supplemental medical opinion. On September 6, 2013, respondent sent a letter to Aragona advising the doctor that they conducted an investigation into Allen and obtained footage of her daily activities. They further advised Aragona that they had received several doctor's notes that stated that Allen was in extreme pain as a result of left piriformis syndrome and sciatica and had been placed on sick leave through September 17, 2013. They requested from Aragona a supplemental medical opinion addressing the footage of Allen and the medical documents.

On September 10, 2013, Aragona provided Panarese with his report. (R-13.) Aragona found Allen to be miserable and very emotional. Aragona also referred to the video footage of Allen. Aragona describes the video as showing Allen exiting a motor vehicle and going up and down steps into a building. Allen is seen carrying objects in her hands without supporting herself on the handrails. In addition, on the video Allen is seen holding a cell phone and leaning over a rail, turning her body, and then re-entering the building. In another video, Allen exits a building holding a purse in one arm and locking the door with a key in her other hand. Allen uses the steps without the handrail and enters a vehicle smoothly. Allen is not walking with any limp. On one video, Allen is seen carrying trash to a disposal. Allen uses her left hand and closes the gate behind her. In another video, Allen walks with no limp and with objects in both hands. Allen also is seen pushing a shopping cart with both hands, with a few items in the cart, and Allen has no limp. Based on these reviews, Aragona gives his opinion within orthopedic medical probability that Allen had reached maximum medical improvement and could return to full duties at work. Aragona again stated that Allen has subjective complaints. Aragona found that Allen's neurology status was normal and her lumbar examination showed complete motion. Allen did report pain on palpation and lumbar motion on the left side. Aragona stated that piriformis syndrome is characterized by sciatica symptoms, which do not originate from the spinal roots or spinal disc compression.

It was Aragona's position that based on his past examination and the video footage, he did not find medical evidence of physical findings consistent with extreme pain from piriformis syndrome with sciatica. Aragona stated that patients with these clinical complaints have pain-avoidance behavior and show signs of limping, supported ambulation, and difficulty with activities such as entering and exiting a vehicle. Allen did not show such behaviors in the video. (R-13.)

On September 20, 2013, Allen went to Manhattan Physical Medicine. It was Allen's fourth treating facility. Manhattan stated that Allen should be out of work for four weeks.

Respondent, based on Aragona's most recent report, ordered Allen back to work on October 12, 2013. Panarese wrote a letter to Allen dated October 10, 2013, ordering her back to work on Saturday, October 12, 2013. (R-14). On October 11, 2013, Allen came into the police department while taking prescription medication. Allen did not come to work on October 12, 2013. Aragona stated that Allen is fit for full duty, including the wearing of her duty belt. (R-18.)

On October 11, 2013, the acting chief of police, Nicola Lamonte, sent a letter to Allen ordering her to submit a doctor's note to provide information regarding Allen's prescription drugs in nine separate categories. Pending receipt of this note, there was no need to appear for her October 12, 2013, shift. (R-15.) On October 14, 2013, Dr. Wilkins drafted a note with the breakdown of Allen's drugs. (R-17.) Aragona reviewed Wilkins's note, and it was his opinion that Allen could not be on regular police duty while on those medications. (R-20.) On October 28, 2013, Aragona wrote a letter stating that it was his opinion that the only medication that Allen was required to be on was an anti-inflammatory, such as diclofenac, and that he would not prescribe Percocet or Lorzone. Allen could still work as a police officer on an anti-inflammatory. (R-22.)

On October 18, 2013, Allen submitted a note from Manhattan for muscle spasms and lower-back pain. It stated that Allen could not stand, and should be out of work until November 18, 2013. On October 31, 2013, Allen was ordered to return to work on November 1, 2013, and not to take medication like Percocet. (R-23.) On November 1, 2013, Allen appeared for work and notified the lieutenant that she could not bend or kneel. On October 31, 2013, the respondent made a list for Allen to disclose her medications. On November 1, 2013, Allen took the drug Percocet. (R-24.) Based on taking this medication, Allen was not permitted to work that day and was required to take a sick day.

On November 2, 2013, Chief Panarese issued a letter with a Direct Order to return to work and not to take narcotic drugs. (R-25.) If Allen disobeyed this order she would be subject to progressive discipline. On November 2, 2013, Allen appeared at work after taking Percocet, even though she knew she was coming to work and was ordered not to take such drugs. (R-26.) Allen also took Skelaxin on that date. Allen stated that she gave this statement involuntarily, and that she was forced into giving this information.

On November 3, 2013, Allen called headquarters and called out sick. On November 4, 2013, the respondent sent a letter for Allen to provide an opinion as to Allen's need to take Skelaxin. It was Aragona's opinion that this medication was not necessary for Allen. Allen is only required to take an anti-inflammatory. (R-28.)

On November 11, 2013, Allen appeared for work under the influence of Percocet. (R-29.) Allen refused to fill out the Statement of Medications. Allen refused to sign the statement, and it was only signed by her lieutenant. Thereafter, Allen provided a note from Manhattan stating that Allen could not perform her duties, due to severe pain, until December 18, 2013.

On November 12, 2013, the respondent (Panarese) sent a letter to Allen ordering Allen to appear for work not under the influence of Percocet. The previous orders of October 31 and November 2, 2013, remained in effect. (R-30.) This was the third order issued to Allen by the respondent. This order further stated that if Allen continued to take Percocet, Lorzone, and Skelaxin, which would impair her ability to function, it would be considered an "unexcused" absence. An unexcused absence is like being absent without leave, explained Panarese. On November 12 and 13, 2013, Allen called out sick, and those absences were recorded as unexcused.

Accordingly, an Internal Affairs complaint form was filed against Allen. Allen was told to be compliant and forthcoming at the interview. Allen was interviewed on November 27, 2013, and the interview was recorded with the knowledge of Allen.

From November 21 through 25, 2013, December 1 through 5, 2013, and December 11 through 15, 2013, Allen called out sick. These were unexcused absences. On December 16, 2013, a note from Manhattan was submitted by Allen. The note stated that Allen was in severe pain and should be out of work until January 20, 2014. From December 15, 2013, until January 28, 2014, Allen did not appear for work, and those absences were noted as unexcused. Allen went on medical leave until February 17, 2014, and those absences were further unexcused absences.

On January 28, 2014, Allen was served with minor discipline, a ten-day suspension. In addition, on January 28, 2014, Allen was served with a Final Direct Order to Report to Work. (R-32.) This order stated that Allen must report to work on January 30, 2014. Allen was advised of possible termination if she disobeyed the order. Allen appeared to work on January 30, 2014, and completed the medical form. Allen stated that the answers on the form were given under duress. Allen had to requalify with firearms. Allen was required to kneel, and she stated that she could not kneel four times. Allen was unable to fire a round off. Allen grabbed her right side with pain. Allen refused medical attention, and she was taken home.

From January 31, 2014, until February 3, 2014, Allen was absent from work without excuse. On February 4, 2014, Allen waived the disciplinary hearing on the ten-day suspension. On February 10, 2014, a second IA compliant was issued against Allen. On February 11, 2014, the FNDA was served, and she was served with a second IA complaint. From February 9, 2014, until February 12, 2014, Allen refused to appear for duty, and those absences were recorded as unexcused. Allen submitted another note from Manhattan, which stated that she should be out of work until March 17, 2014. Allen just did not come in from February 17 until February 23, 2014. Allen also did not come in from March 1 through March 5, 2014, and those absences were cited as unexcused absences.

On March 10, 2014, Allen appeared for an IA interview. Allen had an attorney as her representative and was not on any medication. On March 12, 2014, the charges against Allen were sustained. Floyd found that Allen was absent without authorization. Floyd issued a report in April 2014. Allen did not report to work in March and April 2014.

The discipline issued against Allen was removal, with the specifications for the termination. It was stated that Allen did not follow the rules, and not following rules can result in chaos in the police department. The video of the IA interview shows Allen limping into the interview room. The interview lasted seventeen minutes and twenty-nine seconds.

There was also surveillance conducted of Allen by Creative Solutions (CS). Based on this surveillance, CS created a report. (R-35.) The report described in words what was seen on the videotapes of Allen.

On cross-examination, Panarese confirmed the date of the accident. Panarese stated that Allen complained of pain the next day. Panarese also confirmed that Allen went to the ER at Overlook the next day. Panarese said that Allen went to Concentra for a medical review. At that time Allen was reviewed and diagnosed with a lumbar strain. Panarese also stated that an MRI was done on Allen which showed no herniated discs. (R-3). In addition, Lester provided a report regarding his evaluation. Lester stated that the pain could be well controlled with heating pads. Lester believed that the pain in the lower back was subjective. Overlook also cleared Allen for work as of April 20, 2013.

Panarese admitted that he accepted the note from Codella. Concentra did an FCE and found no objective injury. Allen was excused from work from May 15 to May 27, 2013, by a note from Codella. Allen was further excused from work after May 30, 2013. Respondent ordered an IME by Aragona which resulted in a report of June 18, 2013. The report was submitted to Panarese. (R-8.) Panarese confirmed that Allen went to Overlook Hospital with complaints of lower-back pain.

Panarese admitted that the job of a police officer required the officer to sit for long periods of time. The officer had no weapon at the desk when sitting at the front desk. When Allen appeared at work she complained of pain, and was taken away in an ambulance; Allen walked to the ambulance.

Dr. Lester's report notes non-specific pain in the lumbar area. Panarese also stated that he contacted Aragona in order to obtain a supplemental report. Panarese confirmed that Manhattan treated Allen for lower-back pain and excused her from work for four weeks. On October 12, 2013, Allen was ordered back to work. On October 11, 2013, Allen returned to work, but she was on medication at that time.

Panarese described the police officer's belt as having a gun, handcuffs, two magazines, and other things. The belt can be cumbersome, and the officer can be in the car for hours at a time. Panarese did not find the belt to be uncomfortable. Captain Lamonte documented what happened when Allen said she could not wear the belt. On October 11, 2013, Chief Lamonte sent a letter to Aragona about the ability of Allen to wear her police belt. (P-1.) There were IA investigations in November 2013 and March 2014, and videos were taken of Allen.

The form regarding disclosure of medicines was created by counsel and is now a part of the general forms presently used at the department. Failure to complete the form will subject the officer to possible discipline. It is not voluntary, because the officer is required to fill it out.

Panarese stated that Aragona is paid by Hillside, as he is a township physician. Wilkins, on the other hand, was paid by Allen. The shooting exam was conducted by the firearms instructor. Allen was required to kneel on her left knee. Allen grabbed the right side of her back.

The order to require Allen back to work was based on Aragona's information. From January 2014 and after, the last doctor's note received by respondent was on March 11, 2014.

On redirect examination, Panarese stated that Allen received order after order, and that Allen did not obey the orders. Allen was free to take appropriate legal action to address these orders, but she did not. Concentra is also Hillside's medical facility. Panarese did not know about Aragona. Panarese also stated that it was not unusual to take nine months to do an IA investigation.

David Coleman (Coleman) has been employed by and is the owner of Creative Solutions Investigative Services. Coleman is licensed in both New York and New Jersey and has been doing investigations for more than four years. Coleman was asked to do an investigation of Allen. He took pictures of her and used social media. The investigation was done from August 2013 through December 2013. Coleman used both cameras and videos.

Coleman stated that he did not edit the video in any manner. Based on the surveillance, Coleman created a report, which was provided to Hillside. (R-35.) Coleman also provided a copy of the video on disc. (R-37.)

On cross-examination, Coleman stated that he was hired prior to August 3, 2013, and the first date of surveillance was August 3, 2013. The dates of surveillance were: August 3, 2013; August 5, 2013; August 6, 2013; October 10, 2013; October 31, 2013; and November 1, 2013. Coleman witnessed Allen carrying her purse and carrying other items. He also saw Allen going up and down steps. Coleman had been informed of Allen's complained-of symptoms by the attorneys representing Hillside.

On re-direct examination, Coleman said that he was a detective and a private investigator. Coleman was a county detective for the Morris County Prosecutor's Office. Each file had a date and used military time.

Dr. Michael Bercik (Bercik) was a doctor who did an examination of Allen. Bercik reviewed Dr. Aragona's reports. Bercik took a history from Allen and found that Allen was in a motor-vehicle accident, which was minor. The damage to Allen's vehicle, where she was a passenger, was not bad. Allen sought no medical treatment at the time and directly after the accident. Bercik also reviewed the surveillance videos of Allen.

After the accident, Allen went to the emergency room at Overlook Hospital. Hillside then referred Allen to Concentra for treatment and evaluation. Bercik also looked at the police report for the automobile accident. Bercik found that the police report noted a statement by Allen of no pain and no injury. Bercik stated that it was not a common sequence of events to go from no pain to extreme pain. A person can feel worse after the accident, just not that extreme. Bercik also found that Allen made inconsistent statements; first she said there was no pain, and then she stated that she had pain at the accident. As Allen was a passenger in a car, the pain should be on the right side, if there is any pain at all.

Bercik completed a physical exam on Allen and took a history. Allen referred Bercik to upper-back, lower-back and left-hip pain. X-rays were taken of the lumbar spine and other areas, which were normal. In addition, an MRI was taken of Allen, which also was normal. Bercik stated that if there were problems, there would be swelling.

It was Bercik's opinion that the complaints were subjective in nature, which is based on the patient's statements, and not objective, which cannot be controlled by the patient. Allen went to Concentra in September 2013 and the MRI was conducted on April 26, 2013.

In addition, an FCE was conducted and showed that Allen had difficulties not associated with her back. On August 15, 2013, Dr. Lester determined that Allen could continue with full-capacity work. An EMG was conducted, which checked Allen's nerves. The results of the EMG showed right and left piriformis syndrome. This syndrome is usually associated with a herniated or bulging disc.

Bercik described piriformis syndrome as a controversial position. The muscle is found in both legs, but Allen only had symptoms in the left leg. Such a diagnosis draws into question the EMG test. Bercik stated that even assuming piriformis syndrome, one does not need to suffer an injury or an accident to have such a syndrome occur. If a person has piriformis syndrome, it affects the person's hip, and thus the way the person walks.

Bercik reviewed the surveillance discs and videos of Allen. Bercik noted that upon reviewing those discs, he found that Allen bent and walked without any sign of distress. The videos were not consistent with piriformis syndrome or other ailments. Bercik noted that in one video he saw Allen carrying bags, with good balance. Bercik stated that this video was not consistent with any injury. Allen stated that she had pain in her left lumbar spine in the buttock, and that she had increased pain when walking.

Bercik compared those videos to the video during the IA investigation. This video, unlike the other videos, showed Allen walking unevenly and favoring the right leg. Bercik noted that this was not the leg she complained about. On the way out of the room, Allen favored her left leg. This showed inconsistent walking by Allen. Bercik noted that Allen demonstrated behavioral overlay based on subjective statements which were not based on objective evidence. This generally means that people think they are injured when in fact they are not. Bercik noted that Allen had no complaints regarding her neck or upper back. In the end, Bercik's exam was normal. There was no swelling or spasms in the lower back.

Bercik found that Allen had full range of motion. Bercik found normal muscle tone and strength and normal muscle power. Bercik found the left hip to be unrestricted and pain free. Bercik also reviewed Aragona's reports of June 18, 2013, September 10, 2013, and October 17, 2013, and agreed with the assessment that Allen could return to full duties. Allen had reached maximum medical improvement, as opined in Aragone's report dated October 17, 2013.

Bercik's opinion was that Allen had a diagnosis of post-lumbar sprain. Allen had no active injury, after the above injury had healed. Bercik determined that Allen had subjective complaints of pain without any supporting objective findings. Bercik found that Allen had a good prognosis. He had no difference of opinion with Aragona's findings. Bercik did not believe that any medical prescriptions were needed. Any pain could be adequately addressed with Advil, Tylenol, or Aleve, all of which are safe to take. Taking these medicines would permit Allen to continue her regular activities without restriction.

Bercik stated that he had taken care of many police officers in the past. Bercik was fully aware of the job requirements for police officers. Bercik was of the opinion that there was a definite way to confirm piriformis. He did not believe that Allen had piriformis.

On cross-examination, Bercik stated that Allen had a sprain in her back. Allen was hit on her right side. Allen would then move to the right and front. Allen complained of lower-back pain. In the Lester report of August 16, 2013, there was a complaint of left-buttock pain. Neither the MRI nor the x-rays would show a sprain or strain. However, one could see swelling. The MRI would not show piriformis. Piriformis is located where the thigh meets the buttock. Piriformis is very rare.

Bercik also stated that an FCE is based on subjective information. It does not show whether a person can or cannot lift a box, but rather whether the person will not lift a box. Bercik does not put a lot of stock in an FCE. It would not show Allen's ability to return to the police department.

Bercik saw a video that showed Allen carrying two bags, but Bercik did not know the weight of the bags. Bercik saw that Allen had objects in both hands. Bercik did not see any sign of pain, although Bercik admitted that she could have been in pain. Bercik stated that it is unusual for pain to be constant. Bercik stated that the video could have been taken when Allen was having a good day. However, Bercik stated that he did not see Allen in any pain, ever. Allen had stated that she had constant pain. Bercik stated that duty belts can be heavy (about ten pounds). It was Bercik's opinion that the belt would not have put pressure on her piriformis muscle. On examination, Allen's pain was not near her piriformis.

On redirect, Allen stated to Bercik that she had pain in her lower spine and buttocks. Allen stated that the pain was constant. Allen told Bercik that the pain was a lot during the day. Any serious injury would show in the MRI. Lester said that Allen was able to go back to work.

On recross-examination, Bercik stated that pain is a symptom, and Allen told him that the pain was constant. On another redirect, Bercik referred to the report of Dr. Nehmer. (P-2.) The medical records reviewed were the same as those reviewed by Bercik. Both doctors did a physical exam. Allen had the same subjective complaints to consider, but came to different conclusions. It was Bercik's opinion that there was piriformis syndrome. Allen has full range of motion. Bercik found that Allen walked unevenly but had no limp. Bercik found that Nehmer relied on Allen's complaints. Nehmer gave no weight to the lack of objective evidence found. On another recross, Bercik stated that there was no contusion of Allen's buttocks and the MRI was normal.

For Appellant

Dr. Steven Nehmer (Nehmer) testified as an expert in the field of orthopedics. Nehmer completed an exam on March 23, 2016, and issued a report dated March 24, 2016. (P-2.) Nehmer took a history from Allen and heard her complaints of back pain and pain in the left buttocks. Nehmer reviewed the records as set forth in his report. Nehmer also reviewed the MRI and EMG tests that were done. The EMG measures the function of nerves. Nehmer also reviewed Dr. Fishman's records. Dr. Fishman diagnosed Allen as having piriformis syndrome, and performed pain-relief injections at left S1-S2 and the left sacroiliac joint. These blocks help in stopping the feelings of pain and assist function. Nehmer found that there was a lumbar strain and a left-buttock contusion.

Nehmer explained that piriformis syndrome is a nerve that is irritated by the muscle. The muscle becomes injured, and thus is less flexible. An x-ray does not show a piriformis. The MRI would not show piriformis. The diagnosis is left piriformis syndrome, lumbar strain, and the left gluteal contusion. Nehmer calls such injuries permanent with a loss of function. At the time of the exam, it was three years post-injury. The prognosis was guarded, as Allen did not make a full recovery.

On cross-examination, Nehmer confirmed the list of records reviewed. Nehmer admitted that he did not review the police report, but read the narrative on page two. Nehmer stated that experiencing no pain at the time of the accident is not uncommon in a motor-vehicle accident. Nehmer referred to appellant's accident as a minor accident. Nehmer did not review the photo of the accident damage to the car. In addition, Nehmer did not review the surveillance video. Nehmer called it another piece of information, and it was important to review. Nehmer also reviewed the records and report of Aragona, Lester, and Hutter.

Nehmer called the accident a factor, but not a key factor. It was not unusual to not feel a contusion until the next day. Nehmer understood that Allen went to Overlook Hospital in the emergency room. The contusion could be caused by the motor-vehicle accident, which can be caused by blunt trauma. Nehmer is aware that Allen complained of back pain. Nehmer made no mention at first of buttocks pain. The primary complaint by Allen was low-back pain.

Nehmer stated that Allen went to Concentra on March 25, 2013. Allen spoke of intermittent tingling. This was mentioned in the ER. Nehmer confirmed that she spoke of tingling and not pain. When Allen returned to Overlook, Allen stated that her pain was in her back. Nehmer testified that medical records do not always reflect everything about the patient.

Nehmer stated that piriformis is principally located in the buttocks. Nehmer admitted that there is a difference between buttock pain and back pain. Nehmer stated that Lester made an inaccurate conclusion. Allen made the first mention of left-buttock pain well after the accident, and thereafter there is complaint of pain in left buttock. There was behavioral overlay as reported in the records and reports. Lester stated that Allen had complaints tied to her emotional state. Nehmer did not review Dr. Hutter's records. Hutter found that Allen's complaints were out of proportion to the objective findings. Nehmer did not agree with Hutter.

There was an EMG by Dr. Wilkins and a finding of bilateral piriformis syndrome in both buttocks. It was only symptomatic on the left side. Nehmer stated that piriformis can be caused by trauma, but there does not have to be a significant impact. Nehmer stated that he had seen six cases of piriformis in the past. Nehmer could not recall if there was significant trauma. The nerve is irritated. It can be asymptomatic, and then symptomatic after an accident. This condition can also be caused by overuse or exercise.

On redirect examination, Nehmer stated that an EMG is an objective test, and it showed bilateral piriformis. Nehmer again testified that records are never complete. Allen had thoracic pain in Concentra but not in Overlook. The police stated that Allen's gait was unsteady two days after the accident. This is consistent with piriformis. Allen may have full range of motion, but painful.

On recross examination, Hutter stated that spasms can cause piriformis. In Exhibit P-1 it stated, "She can no longer run, gym or roller skate."

Keisha Allen (Allen) testified on her own behalf. Allen stated that she was a police officer in Hillside. She went to the Academy in Union County. Allen became an employee in Hillside in January 2006. After the motor-vehicle accident, Allen filed for disability. Allen was terminated from the department in April 2014.

At the time of the accident at work, she was working the night shift from 8:30 p.m. to 7:15 a.m. The shifts were five days on and five days off. The accident occurred on March 18, 2013. Allen was a passenger in a police car, with her seat belt on. The police car was in the parking lot of a car dealership. It was nearly midnight when the accident happened. Allen described the accident as another vehicle backing up at a slow speed and coming in contact with the vehicle she was in. At the point of impact, she grabbed the hand rail. After the accident, she radioed headquarters and advised them of the motor-vehicle accident. Allen stated that she felt no pain at that time. Allen declined the use of an ambulance or the aid of an EMT. Sergeant White from the Hillside Police Department made out the accident report. Allen continued her tour of duty on that date and worked until 7:15 a.m. on March 19, 2013.

Allen went home after work, and while at home she felt no pain or discomfort. While at home Allen took a shower and sent her daughter off to school, and then went to bed. Later that day, Allen began to feel tight and could not get comfortable. Thereafter, Allen started to experience pain in her back. Accordingly, Allen went to Overlook Hospital because of this tightness on the sides of her back and top of her buttocks. Her pain began to get worse.

Allen did not call police headquarters on March 20, 2013, because she was not scheduled to work on that day. While at Overlook, they took her vitals, and she explained the motor-vehicle accident to the medical personnel. X-rays were then taken. The medical personnel advised her to see her primary-care doctor upon discharge. Allen was prescribed Motrin and a muscle relaxer. Allen was told that she would probably feel worse after discharge. When Allen went home she was able to sleep with the medications. When the medications ran out, the pain returned. There were times she could not get out of bed.

At this point in time, the pain was on and off. Allen then went to Concentra, while she was still on her days off. Captain Lamonte advised Allen to go to Concentra. Allen advised Lamonte that she was injured and had a note from the Overlook emergency room. Allen went to Concentra and saw a female doctor and a male doctor. Allen advised the doctors that she had pain on her side and the top of the buttocks. Thereafter, Allen went to Concentra for physical therapy (PT). PT went on for five days.

At some point, her workers' compensation case was closed. Allen did not go back to work. Allen then went to see her primary-care doctor, Vincent Codella, D.O. Allen told Codella about the motor-vehicle accident and her pain. Codella then began to treat her. Codella treated Allen for several months, and Allen had PT in Woodbridge. Allen's pain continued, although the pain was less at times, and worse at times. The pain on the left side was greater.

Allen was still employed by Hillside, and she was ordered into work. Allen went back to work and did some light duty for some days. Allen stated that because of her pain she could not sit to urinate or defecate. In addition, Allen stated that she could not run, and could not sleep or have sex. Allen had problems with sitting and wore a back brace.

When Allen went to work, she left work three or four times to go to the emergency room. She would get doctors' notes and give them to her supervisor in order to be out of work. Chief Panarese advised Allen that there was no light duty available. The medication she was prescribed was Percocet. Allen was ordered back to full duty, but she had a doctor's note to stay out of work. In addition, Chief Panarese and Captain Lamonte ordered her to stop taking narcotics; however, Allen kept on taking the narcotics. The Hillside Police Department required Allen to fill out a medication-disclosure form. Allen was ordered not to take Percocet at least twenty-four hours before work. Allen stated that she continued to take these medications because she was in pain.

In February 2014, Allen applied for accidental disability. In order to obtain such a benefit, Allen was required to see a State of New Jersey doctor. Allen went to two such doctors and was denied accidental disability, but was granted ordinary disability. In December 2014, Allen's ordinary disability stopped. Allen still cannot work and has no income. Allen testified that she is still in pain. Allen stated that she cannot lift objects because this causes the pain to increase. Allen stated that she can get in and out of a car, but steep stairs are difficult. Between five and six steps are no good. Allen stated that she can bend.

Allen stated that she has pain in her left buttocks area, and there is no pain on her right side. Allen still treats with Dr. Fishman, who had previously provided her with pain-relief injections.

On cross-examination, Allen stated that she has no employment at this time. Allen tried to get employment with NJ Transit, but she knew that she would not pass the drug test. Allen understood that corporate America would generally not hire her because of her use of medications. She got this information from speaking with other people and not from the employers themselves. She did not use a headhunter, nor did she follow up with those companies. Recently she lived on her savings to pay her bills.

Allen admitted that the damages to her car were minor, and she did not want any medical attention because she had no pain. Thereafter, the symptoms gradually increased. The pain started late on March 19 and into March 20 in 2013. Allen admitted that at first, right after the accident, she did not mention the pain in the buttocks, but only mentioned the lower-back pain. The records from Overlook Hospital referenced lower-back pain and nothing in the buttocks.

While Allen was at Concentra, she first mentioned discomfort in the buttocks by mentioning a tingling in that area. Allen also confirmed that as per Nehmer's report, she could not run, go to the gym, or roller skate. Allen would only go to the gym with someone else. She had no paid membership to a gym. She would go about three times a month to the gym. Allen stated that she was not an avid runner, and would only roller blade once a week. Allen would do yoga at home. Allen stated that she had to stay in shape in order to be a police officer.

Allen confirmed that the medical records did not show any pain into her leg. When she felt "electricity" in her leg, she went for PT in Woodbridge. Allen also saw Codella for treatment. Allen also confirmed that she had an FCE.

She recalled that she was ordered not to take narcotic medication, but Allen decided to take her medication anyway because of her pain. Allen admitted that she did not comply with the order not to take narcotic medication. Allen stated that orders must be followed unless they are illegal or will cause harm. Allen did not cite any rule, regulation, or case law to support her actions. Allen stated that she got an order again not to take medication, and she admitted that she did not follow this order. Allen said that she felt the order was going to harm her. She said that she sought out other medications, but they did not help.

Allen filed a claim for accidental disability after being on the job for eight years. In April 2014, Hillside filed a charge against her, seeking her termination. In September 2014 there was a decision from the Public Employees' Retirement System denying her application for accidental disability, but granting ordinary disability. Allen appealed the denial of accidental disability.

In a letter drafted by Allen, dated May 3, 2018, with copies to a large number of other people, Allen set forth a complaint for discrimination in the Hillside Police Department. The complaint focused mainly on Captain Lamonte and his actions. There was a proposed meeting about Lamonte to attempt to work out the issues, but that was unsuccessful, and Lamonte continued his comments to Allen, she alleged. Allen stated that his comments made her feel uncomfortable. Allen believed that Lamonte's motivation was to get Allen out of the police force.

Allen denied telling Lester that pain went up her back. Allen reviewed the specifications contained in the FNDA and admitted the following specifications: 8; 9; 10; 11; 12; 13; 14; 15; 16; 17; 19; 20; 22; 23; 24; 25; 30; 32; 41; and 58.

On redirect examination, Allen admitted that the chief was a superior officer, and she went to him in order to complain. Allen also complained to the mayor several times. These complaints were not acted upon. Allen kept supplying doctors' notes to the respondent to support her claims. Aragona believed that Allen could return to work. Allen stated that Aragona did not do an examination, but asked her to walk for him. She only went to Aragona one time. Allen denied that she told anyone that she had pain only in the right side. Allen stated that she told doctors that she had pain across the top of the buttocks.

Allen stated that she did not file any complaints with the police department regarding harassment. Allen believed she could have sued, but was unsure she should do that. Allen wanted to continue to work as a police officer. Allen would rather go back to work if she felt better. For every day she was out of work, she had a doctor's note. The police department found her absences to be unexcused. Allen was sure that the respondent was notified of her application for disability in February 2014.

FINDINGS OF FACT/CREDIBILITY

In view of the contradictory testimony presented by appellant's and respondent's witnesses for medical testimony, the resolution of the charges against appellant requires that I make a credibility determination with regard to the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (1963).

A fact finder is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521–22 (1950); see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to carefully observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I deem Dr. Michael Bercik credible. His testimony was consistent with the evidence and his opinions were based on a greater depth of information relevant to the basis for his opinion. With respect to appellant's medical witness, Dr. Steven Nehmer, he did not review the motor-vehicle-accident report, nor did he review the videos taken of Allen, which upon review by the undersigned were in conflict with Nehmer's opinions as well as the subjective complaints of Allen. Nehmer, although an experienced and well-intended doctor, testified in a vague and inconsistent manner.

I also question the credibility of Allen's testimony. I find Allen's testimony to be evasive, contradictory, and without detail. Her testimony seemed well rehearsed, which made it seem not credible. It would appear that her testimony was based on factors beyond an objective injury, and seemed to be motivated by hostility against some members of the Hillside Police Department and a general hostility against the police department as a whole.

Accordingly, I FIND AS FACT:

1) Allen was a police officer for the Township of Hillside.

2) On March 18, 2013, Allen was involved in a low-speed, low-impact motor-vehicle accident while on duty.

3) Allen, directly after the accident, advised the responding officer that she had no pain and no injury as a result of the accident.

4) The motor-vehicle accident report confirmed such a statement by Allen.

5) On March 20, 2013, Allen reported intense back pain and went to Overlook Hospital Emergency Room.

6) At the request of the Hillside Police Department, Allen was evaluated by Concentra Medical Center, where she reported that her back was painful.

7) Allen was diagnosed with a lumbar strain, with some symptom magnification, and a thoracic strain.

8) On March 28, 2013, Allen visited Concentra with reports of pain being well controlled and that heating her back gave her temporary pain relief. The diagnosis for Allen was a thoracic strain and a lumbar strain with some symptom magnification.

9) On April 18, 2013, Allen visited Dr. Jonathan P. Lester, M.D., of Concentra, a physiatrist, who evaluated Allen's complaints of pain. Allen described pain that started in the lower lumbar area and radiated up. Lester concluded that Allen's lumbar movements were profoundly self-limited and her reported complaints of severe low-back pain were subjective, and that his examination was suggestive of some degree of behavioral overlay.

10) On April 23, 2013, Overlook Hospital advised Hillside via a note that Allen was cleared to full duty without restrictions, effective April 20, 2013.

11) On April 24, 2013, Concentra advised Hillside that Lester would be discharging Allen to full duty.

12) On April 29, 2013, Allen visited Concentra for an additional evaluation by Lester. Lester certified that Allen's lumbar flexion in the standing position was markedly self-limited.

13) In addition, Lester noted that the patient now has a normal MRI and that her subjective complaint continued to be out of proportion to objective findings.

14) On April 29, 2013, Lester released Allen from care and noted that she may return to regular duty on April 29, 2013. Lester certified further that Allen had achieved maximum medical improvement effective April 29, 2013.

15) Allen submitted a physician's note from Codella Family Practice to Hillside stating that Allen must be excused from work from May 2, 2013, to May 15, 2013, and may return to work on May 16, 2013.

16) On May 7, 2013, Hillside ordered Allen to report to Concentra for a functional capacity evaluation (FCE) on May 14, 2013.

17) The FCE report concluded that there was no report or observation of injury or re-injury during or at the conclusion of the FCE.

18) Allen reported that she was in pain and was limited in certain movements, and thus she did not demonstrate the ability to work as a police officer.

19) Allen then submitted additional doctor's notes from Codella saying that Allen must be excused from work from May 15, 2013, to May 27, 2013, and that she may return to work on May 28, 2013, pending reexamination.

20) Thereafter, Allen submitted an additional doctor's note from Codella stating that Allen must be excused from work from May 30, 2013, to June 6, 2013, and may return to work on June 14, 2013.

21) On June 14, 2013, Hillside ordered Allen to attend an independent medical examination (IME) with Dr. James Aragona, an orthopedist, on June 18, 2013.

22) The IME was ordered because the FCE did not address whether Allen had any orthopedic impairments or conditions that would preclude Allen from performing as a police officer.

23) On June 18, 2013, Aragona sent his IME report to Hillside finding that Allen's reported pain focused on her left sacroiliac joint, even though her prior medical records discussed lumbar pain and right-sided piriformis pain.

24) In addition, Aragona found that Allen's pain patterns are entirely subjective, without objective evidence of musculoskeletal or related neurologic impairment. Aragona found that there was no evidence of restricted motion, spasm, or weakness, and that Allen could return to work without restriction.

25) Hillside, relying on Aragona's report, ordered Allen on July 23, 2013, to return to work for her next scheduled shift on July 24, 2013.

26) Allen did report for her next scheduled shift; however, she stated that she was in pain and required an ambulance. Allen walked to the ambulance and was transported to Overlook Hospital.

27) Allen called out sick on July 26, 2013, and submitted a doctor's note from Overlook that stated that she may return to work on August 2, 2013.

28) On August 5, 2013, Allen submitted a doctor's note from a new healthcare provider, Premier Healthcare Center, LLC, which provided that she was receiving care for left piriformis syndrome and sciatica and that she may return to work on August 20, 2013.

29) August 5, 2013, was the first date that Allen advised Hillside that she had piriformis syndrome.

30) On August 15, 2013, Allen visited Concentra, and Lester noted that Allen's lumbar MRI was normal. Lester found that the lumbar flexion was markedly self-limited.

31) Lester noted that Allen's complaints for more than five months had been completely nonspecific, generalized throughout the lumbar area, and now "all of a sudden" are localized to the left buttock. It seemed unusual to Lester.

32) Lester also found that there continued to be significant behavioral overlay. Lester also stated that he felt that Allen could continue full-duty work, to which Allen responded, in very emotional terms, that she could not do this.

33) On August 19, 2013, Allen submitted a physician's note from Premier Healthcare Center which stated that she was receiving care for left piriformis syndrome/sciatica and that she may return to work on September 3, 2013.

34) On September 3, 2013, Allen submitted a doctor's note from Premier which stated that she was under its care for a musculoskeletal condition and that she may return to work on September 17, 2013.

35) On September 6, 2013, Hillside wrote to Aragona and requested that he provide a supplemental medical opinion regarding whether Allen exhibited symptoms of left piriformis syndrome and sciatica during the IME and whether she made complaints to this effect.

36) On September 10, 2013, Aragona supplemented the results of the IME report by stating that he did not find medical evidence of physical findings consistent with extreme pain from a piriformis syndrome with sciatica.

37) Aragona further felt that Allen had reached maximum medical improvement and may return to work.

38) On September 20, 2013, Allen submitted a doctor's note from a new healthcare provider, Manhattan Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation (Manhattan), which stated that Allen was receiving care for low-back pain and piriformis syndrome. Manhattan stated that Allen had difficulty walking and sitting and standing for longer periods of time.

39) Manhattan further stated that Allen should rest and be excused from work for a period of four weeks.

40) Based on Aragona's reports, Hillside ordered Allen, on October 10, 2013, back to work for her regular shift starting on October 12, 2013, at 8:30 p.m.

41) On October 11, 2013, Allen visited the Hillside Police Department and stated that she would not return to work because she was taking prescription medications.

42) In addition, Allen confirmed with Hillside that she was not receiving workers' compensation benefits and that she would return to work, but could not wear her duty belt.

43) On October 11, 2013, Hillside wrote to Aragona and asked whether Allen may return to work as a patrol officer and complete all of her essential job functions while wearing her full-duty belt, which weighs about ten pounds.

44) On October 11, 2013, Hillside wrote to Allen and ordered her to submit a doctor's note by October 15, 2013, with the following information: 1) name of drugs prescribed; 2) date first prescribed each drug; 3) date each prescription was filled; 4) date she began taking drug; 5) the dosage of the drug and amount of times each day she was required or permitted to take drug; 6) dosage of the drug and amount of times each day actually taking the drug; 7) the side effects experienced while taking the drugs and the duration of any side effect; 8) whether the drug was prescribed for left piriformis syndrome/sciatica; and 9) how long she expected to be prescribed the medications.

45) Hillside then advised Allen not to appear for her next scheduled shift.

46) On October 14, 2013, Allen submitted a doctor's note from Manhattan which stated that Allen was prescribed Percocet, diclofenac, and Lorzone for left piriformis syndrome and sciatica and that the only side effect was vomiting.

47) On October 15, 2013, Aragona informed Hillside that Allen is fit for full duties, including wearing her duty belt.

48) On October 16, 2013, Hillside wrote to Aragona and asked whether Allen was required to take Percocet, diclofenac, and Lorzone for the reasons stated by Manhattan. Hillside also asked Aragona whether Allen is able to perform her duties while taking these medications.

49) On October 17, 2013, and October 28, 2013, Aragona wrote to Hillside and stated that Allen did not need to take Percocet and Lorzone for the reasons stated by Manhattan and that Allen could not be on regular police duty while taking Percocet or Lorzone, but Allen could work while taking diclofenac. Aragona also said that Allen would need to stop taking Percocet and Lorzone twenty-four hours prior to her shift.

50) On October 18, 2013, Allen submitted a note from Manhattan which stated that Allen was being treated for muscle spasms, piriformis syndrome, and lower-extremity pain. Further, it stated that Allen should be out on medical leave until November 18, 2013.

51) On October 31, 2013, based on Aragona's medical opinions, Hillside ordered Allen to return to work, setting forth Aragona's medical basis for this finding, including no medical impairment precluding her from work; that she can wear her duty belt; that it was not necessary to take Percocet and Lorzone; that she must cease taking Percocet and Lorzone at least twenty-four hours prior to work; that Allen would need to complete a written document regarding medications taken that may impair her job performance; that she should return to work on November 1, 2013, without taking Percocet and Lorzone in the previous twenty-four hours; and that she should be ready for full duty.

52) On November 1, 2013, Allen appeared for her shift and put on her duty belt. Allen advised Lieutenant Cureton that she could not bend or kneel. Allen also completed a Statement of Medications form and advised Cureton that she had taken Percocet earlier in the day and would be taking it every three to four hours. Hillside then transported Allen home and she did not work that day.

53) In addition, Allen amended the Statement of Medications form without authorization to state that the answers given were not voluntary and were given with coercion.

54) On November 2, 2013, Chief Panarese issued to Allen a "Direct Order" which set forth the following: 1) Aragona's conclusion that Allen did not need to take Percocet and Lorzone prior to her work schedule; 2) that Allen had no authorization to amend the Statement of Medications; 3) and that Allen's actions in taking her prescription medications, which Aragona found not to be medically necessary, were in direct violation of his order of October 31, 2013, thus disciplinary charges would be issued to Allen and she would be subject to a suspension without pay. By amending the Statement of Medications to say that the answers were not voluntary, Allen engaged in an act of insubordination that would subject her to a suspension without pay.

55) The November 2, 2013, Order required that Allen bring in, during her next shift, her prescription bottle of her "unknown" drug.

56) The November 2, 2013, Order provided that the October 31, 2013, Order remained in full force and effect, and that Allen may consider it a Direct Order that she return to work under the previous Order.

57) Allen was directed to report fit for work, and not under any influence of Percocet or Lorzone. Allen was required to complete a Statement of Medications form at her next scheduled shift.

58) In addition, the November 2, 2013, Order stated: if you refuse to obey this direct order, you will be subject to more progressive discipline. Hillside will consider each shift for which you fail to appear fit for duty as a separate violation warranting more severe discipline. Allen was reminded that no officer may be equipped with a service weapon under the influence of a narcotic that could impair them.

59) Allen was advised in writing that she would be subject to progressive discipline of increasing severity if she continued to disregard Hillside's Orders.

60) After receipt of this Direct Order, Allen reported to work for her next scheduled shift and Cureton presented her with the Statement of Medications form, and Allen certified that she had taken Percocet and Skelaxin the same day. Accordingly, Allen was deemed unfit for duty. Allen further stated that her answers were not given voluntarily, and they were given with coercion.

61) On November 3, 2013, Allen called police headquarters and stated that she would be out sick that evening. Hillside asked Allen whether she was ordered in that evening, and she said that she did not have anything in writing ordering her to report to work.

62) On November 4, 2013, Hillside wrote to Aragona and asked whether Allen was required to take Skelaxin for any orthopedic reason and whether Allen could perform her functions as a police officer on this medication.

63) In response, Aragona wrote to Hillside and stated that Allen was not required to take Skelaxin, and that the only medication an officer could require would be an anti-inflammatory such as diclofenac, as prescribed by Dr. Wilkins. Aragona also said that Allen could not perform as a police officer while taking Skelaxin in combination with Percocet, diclofenac, or Lorzone.

64) On November 8, 2013, Chief Panarese wrote to Lieutenant Floyd, the IA investigator, to request an IA investigation regarding a complaint Hillside filed against Allen.

65) On November 11, 2013, Allen reported to work under the influence of Percocet. Allen also refused to sign the Statement of Medications form, and, instead, submitted a letter stating that she was ordered back to work and ordered not to take medications, but she was taking her medications prescribed by her treating doctor. Allen also submitted a letter from Manhattan which stated that she was being treated for left piriformis syndrome, muscle spasms, and lower-extremity pain, and that she has impaired sitting, standing, and transferring. It also stated that Allen was unable to assume her duties because of pain, and she should be on medical leave until December 18, 2013.

66) Because Allen reported to work on Percocet on November 11, 2013, on November 12, 2013, Chief Panarese wrote to Allen to clarify her duty to report to work. Panarese confirmed that his October 31 and November 2, 2013, Orders remained in full force and effect; Allen was "Ordered" that she may not appear for her shift under the influence of Percocet or any other medication that would impair her ability to perform her job as a police officer. Accordingly, if Allen should wish to take Percocet, Lorzone, Skelaxin, or any other medication impairing her ability to perform her job duties, her nonappearance at work would be considered "unexcused" and she would be subject to progressive discipline.

67) On November 12–15, 2013, Allen called out sick, and Hillside deemed these absences to be unexcused.

68) On November 18, 2013, Lieutenant Floyd of IA sent Allen an IA Complaint Notification form advising her of an IA complaint against her.

69) On November 21–25, 2013, Allen called out of work sick, and Hillside deemed these absences unexcused.

70) On November 27, 2013, Allen appeared at the Hillside for her IA Administrative Interview. During this interview Allen was represented by an attorney; she was not under the influence of any medication and could proceed with the interview. The interview proceeded as scheduled.

71) On December 1–5, 2013, Allen called out of work sick, and Hillside designated these absences as unexcused.

72) In addition, Allen called out of work sick on December 11–15, 2013, and these absences were deemed unexcused.

73) On December 16, 2013, Allen submitted a note from Manhattan stating that she was being treated for piriformis syndrome, muscle spasms, and lower-extremity pain. Manhattan stated that Allen should be on medical leave until January 20, 2014.

74) On December 17, 2013, Lieutenant Floyd of IA issued a detailed report in response to Hillside's complaint against Allen, and Lieutenant Floyd found sufficient cause for numerous charges to be filed against Allen.

75) From December 15, 2013, to January 28, 2014, Allen did not appear for work for any scheduled shifts, and Hillside deemed these absences unexcused.

76) On January 17, 2014, Allen submitted a note from Manhattan stating that she was being treated for left piriformis syndrome, muscle spasms, and lower-extremity pain. It further stated that Allen was in severe pain and should be out of work until February 17, 2014.

77) On January 28, 2014, Hillside served Allen with a PNDA for a two-day suspension and a PNDA for a ten-day suspension with regard to her prior conduct. In addition, Hillside served Allen with a Final Direct Order to Report to Work, which stated: "the letter shall serve as my FINAL DIRECT ORDER for her to report to work on January 30, 2014, at 8:30 p.m. for duty in accordance with previous orders. Any additional disciplinary charges filed against you will seek TERMINATION of your employment."

78) On January 30, 2014, at 8:30 p.m., Allen reported to work for her shift and completed Hillside's Statement of Medications form, and she wrote that the answers were given under duress. Allen certified that she had not taken any medications within twenty-four hours of her shift. Allen then attempted to qualify her firearm; however, when it came time to kneel and fire her firearm, Allen was unable to kneel. On the fifth try to kneel, Allen was successful on her left knee, but was unable to fire any rounds and said she couldn't continue. Once Allen stood up, she grabbed her right lower back, at which point the firearm qualification was terminated. Allen refused medical attention that was offered to her, and Hillside escorted her home.

79) From January 31, 2014, to February 3, 2014, Allen was absent without authorization, and those absences were deemed unexcused.

80) On February 4, 2014, Allen waived her disciplinary hearing in connection with the ten-day PNDA and the two-day notice of minor disciplinary action.

81) On February 10, 2014, Hillside filed a second IA Complaint against Allen based on her continued failure to work her scheduled shifts and her modification of the Statement of Medications form on January 30, 2014.

82) On February 11, 2014, Hillside served an FNDA and a Final Notice of Minor Disciplinary Action. In addition, on February 11, 2014, Hillside served a second IA Complaint Notification Form informing Allen of new potential charges.

83) From February 9, 2014, to February 13, 2014, Allen was absent without authorization, and Hillside deemed these absences unexcused.

84) On February 17, 2014, Allen submitted a letter to Hillside from Manhattan recommending that Allen be on medical leave until March 17, 2014.

85) From February 21, 2014, to February 23, 2014, Allen was absent without authorization, and Hillside deemed these absences unexcused.

86) From March 1, 2014, to March 5, 2014, Allen was absent without authorization, and Hillside deemed these absences unexcused.

87) On March 10, 2014, Allen appeared at Hillside for her IA Administrative Interview, where she was represented by an attorney. Allen was not under any medication that would influence her ability to proceed. This interview proceeded as scheduled.

88) During Allen's IA interview, she stated that she had taken AMRIX and Valium on March 9, 2014.

89) On March 12, 2014, Lieutenant Floyd of IA issued a detailed report for the second IA complaint against Allen. Floyd sustained all of these charges and specifications against Allen.

90) Floyd noted that Allen was absent without authorization on January 31; February 1–3; February 9–13; February 21–23; March 1–5; and March 11, 2014, and that Hillside had sufficient cause to discipline her for these unauthorized absences from work.

91) Allen did not appear for any scheduled shifts in March 2014 and April 2014, and Hillside designated those absences as unexcused.

92) Allen's failure to perform her full duties on January 10, 2014, even though Allen had been issued an October 31, 2013, Order, a November 2, 2013, Direct Order, and a January 28, 2014, Final Direct Order compelling her to attend her regularly scheduled shifts fit for duty on a continuing basis, provided Hillside with sufficient cause to charge Allen with insubordination, failure to perform duties, and conduct unbecoming a public employee.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The Civil Service employees' rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12.6. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointment and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex Cty. Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this State is to provide public officials with appropriate appointment, supervisory, and other personnel authority in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b).

Conduct unbecoming a public employee is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)).

Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)). Unbecoming conduct has also been defined as any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the department or which has a tendency to destroy public respect for employees and confidence in the operations of government services. Id. at 40.

The Merit System Board and its predecessor and now successor, the Civil Service Commission (CSC), and the courts have generally held that law-enforcement officers are held to a higher standard than other public employees. Police officers are law-enforcement officers to which this higher standard applies. "It must be recognized that a police officer is a special kind of public employee. His primary duty is to enforce and uphold the law. . . . He represents law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public . . . ." Moorestown Twp. v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965).

This matter involves a major disciplinary action brought by the respondent appointing authority against appellant. An appeal to the CSC requires the OAL to conduct a de novo hearing to determine the employee's guilt or innocence, as well as the appropriate penalty if the charges are sustained. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987). The appointing authority has the burden of proof and must establish by a fair preponderance of the credible evidence that the employee was guilty of the charges. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550 (1980). Evidence is found to preponderate if it establishes that the tendered hypothesis, in all human likelihood, is true. See Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959), overruled on other grounds, Dwyer v. Ford Motor Co., 36 N.J. 487 (1962).

I CONCLUDE that Allen did not sustain an objective injury that would prevent her from fully doing her job as a police officer for Hillside. I further CONCLUDE that Allen was fully aware of the numerous orders given to her to appear at work, fit for duty, and her decision to disobey those orders was without a sound basis.

As a result, this matter rests on the issue of whether or not appellant was insubordinate. Black's Law Dictionary 802 (7th Ed. 1999) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Such dictionary definitions have been utilized by courts to define the term where it is not specifically defined in contract or regulation.

> "Insubordination" is not defined in the agreement. Consequently, assuming for purposes of argument that its presence is implicit, we are obliged to accept its ordinary definition since it is not a technical term or word of art and there are no circumstances indicating that a different meaning was intended.
> [Ricci v. Corp. Express of the East, Inc., 344 N.J. Super. 39, 45 (App. Div. 2001) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, this definition incorporates acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience. Thus, insubordination can occur even where no specific order or direction has been given to the allegedly insubordinate person. Insubordination is always a serious matter, especially in a paramilitary context. "Refusal to obey orders and disrespect cannot be tolerated. Such conduct adversely affects the morale and efficiency of the department." Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 59 N.J. 269 (1971).

Furthermore, on cross-examination of Allen, she for all intents and purposes admitted that she was aware that she was ordered to appear for work, fit for duty, and that her decision was to not obey that order. The reason for not obeying the order was her understanding that she could disobey an order that was "harmful." There was no definitive basis provided to support this understanding. Based upon the testimony provided, in addition to the findings set forth above, I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct was insubordinate.

Respondent had more than sufficient evidence and information from numerous medical personnel and entities supporting the fact that Allen could fully and properly do her job as a police officer. This makes their orders enforceable, and the failure of Allen to obey those orders was insubordination. The respondent painstakingly addressed Allen's countless failures to appear for her job with the intent to participate fully as a police officer, without taking unnecessary medications. Her attempt to rely on self-serving medical notes which continually placed her on medical leave was not sufficient to support her numerous failures to obey those orders. I can only characterize Hillside's explanations to Allen as detailed, clear, and generous.

Applying the law to the facts in this case, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has proven all the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. I CONCLUDE that appellant engaged in conduct that constituted insubordination, failure to perform duties, and conduct unbecoming an employee. I further CONCLUDE that this same conduct also constituted a violation of rules regarding failure to perform duties, insubordination, and conduct unbecoming a public employee.

Appellant further argues that although she admitted in her testimony that she violated direct legal orders, she was permitted to not follow those orders because they would cause her harm. Nowhere in her testimony nor in her attorney's closing argument was there any reference to any rule or case law that supports this position. In addition, neither Allen nor her counsel specifically referenced the harm that would be caused by following those orders. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Allen was aware that there was a legal order (on numerous dates) requiring Allen to appear for work, fit for duty, and Allen knowingly and purposefully disobeyed those orders.

PENALTY

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), our Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations and the like on the one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously called to the attention of and admitted by the employee." Bock, 38 N.J. at 524.

As the Supreme Court explained in In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30, "[s]ince Bock, the concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways when determining the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." According to the Court:

> First, principles of progressive discipline can support the imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct.
> . . . .
>
> The second use to which the principle of progressive discipline has been put is to mitigate the penalty for a current offense . . . for an employee who has a substantial record of employment that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions. . . .
>
> [T]hat is not to say that incremental discipline is a principle that must be applied in every disciplinary setting. To the contrary, judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration . . . when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.
> [In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30–33 (citations omitted).]

In the case of In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474 (2007), the Court decided that the principle of progressive discipline did not apply to the sanction of a police officer for sleeping on duty and, notwithstanding his unblemished record, it reversed the lower court and reinstated a removal imposed by the Merit System Board. The Court noted the factor of public-safety concerns in matters involving the discipline of correction officers and police officers, who must uphold the law and "present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." In re Carter, 191 N.J. at 486 (citation omitted).

In the matter of In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182 (2011), a Camden County pump-station operator was charged with falsifying records and abusing work hours, and the administrative law judge imposed removal. The CSC modified the penalty to a four-month suspension and the appellate court reversed. The Court re-examined the principle of progressive discipline. Acknowledging that progressive discipline has been bypassed where the conduct is sufficiently egregious, the Court noted that "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses." In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. at 193. Finding that the totality of an employee's work history, with emphasis on the "reasonably recent past," should be considered to assure proper progressive discipline, the Court modified and affirmed (as modified) the lower court and remanded the matter to the CSC for reconsideration.

I am satisfied that appellant's conduct in this case was egregious, such that progressive discipline need not be considered. The police department requires that legal and supportable orders be followed to the best of the officer's ability. Allen's conduct fell well short of that requirement. To expect otherwise is to invite disorder and confusion in responding to certain functions in the police department. Such behavior cannot be tolerated. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent's action in removing the appellant from her position was justified.

ORDER

I ORDER that the action of the appointing authority removing Keisha Allen is AFFIRMED and the appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

ISSUED: NOVEMBER 2, 2018 BW

The appeal of Patricia Aybar-Rodriguez, Sheriff's Officer, Middlesex County Sheriff's Department, removal effective September 20, 2016, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Kathleen M. Calemmo, who rendered her initial decision on August 10, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Patricia Aybar-Rodriguez.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this consolidated proceeding, petitioner/appellant Patricia Aybar-Rodriguez (Aybar-Rodriguez) appeals both her dismissal from the Monmouth County Police Academy (the Academy) and her removal from employment with the Middlesex County Sheriff's Department (Middlesex) for inability to perform her duties. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 19, 2016, the Academy dismissed Aybar-Rodriguez for failing to achieve an average score of eighty percent on the handgun qualification course during firearms training with her issued duty firearm. On October 17, 2016, Middlesex issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) removing Aybar-Rodriguez as a sheriff's officer effective September 20, 2016, stating that her employment was conditioned upon completion of the required Academy courses. (RE-10.)

Aybar-Rodriguez appealed to the Police Training Commission (PTC) by letter dated October 3, 2016, and the contested case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on November 9, 2016 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13A. Aybar-Rodriguez appealed Middlesex's decision via letter dated October 26, 2016, and the Civil Service Commission transmitted her appeal to the OAL on November 4, 2016. An order consolidating the two appeals was entered on February 23, 2017, determining that the PTC has the predominant interest with regard to the charges based upon the Aybar-Rodriguez's termination from an approved school or program for failure to meet the standards of N.J.S.A. 52:17B-71 and N.J.A.C. 13:1-7.2(a)(8).

The matter proceeded to hearing on August 2, 2017 and October 11, 2017. Due to difficulty in receiving the transcripts of the hearings, post-hearing submissions were not filed until June 26, 2018, after which I closed the record.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The underlying facts are uncontroverted, and I FIND:

On June 13, 2016, Aybar-Rodriguez was offered employment by Middlesex as a Sheriff's Officer, conditioned upon successful completion of all requirements from a PTC Certified Academy. (RE-1.) On July 25, 2016, Aybar-Rodriguez started her employment with a week-long training program provided by Middlesex that included a day spent in firearms training. Middlesex sent Aybar-Rodriguez to the Academy on August 1, 2016. Prior to starting the Academy, Aybar-Rodriguez was examined by a physician and deemed medically fit to participate in all aspects of the basic course for police officers without limitations. (R-7.)

To graduate from the Academy with a Law Enforcement Officer Certification, Aybar-Rodriguez was required to achieve a minimum qualifying score in handgun training. (R-10 at 19.) Part of her Academy training was geared to develop the skills necessary to obtain firearms qualification. Aybar-Rodriguez received firearms classroom training on September 6, 7 and 8, 2016. (RE-2b.) During classroom training, the recruit learns how the weapon works and the principles of shooting. The next phase is the "dry-training" where weapons are issued without ammunition to focus on the mechanics of drawing and holstering the weapon, gripping the weapon, and squeezing the trigger. After these sessions, Aybar-Rodriguez advanced to live firearms training at the shooting range. She received training on September 9, 2016 and September 12, 2016. (RE-2b.) After the September 13, 2016 firearms training session, Aybar-Rodriguez completed a form that noted her difficulties with her shooting and contained the instructor's comments. (R-3.) This process was repeated after the September 14, 2016 firearms training session with a listing of similar problems. (R-3.) On September 15, 2016, Aybar-Rodriguez took the initial handgun qualification testing. She had a total of 112 hits out of a possible 180 rounds fired, resulting in a score of 62.2 percent which was below the passing score of eighty percent. Aybar-Rodriguez was informed that she failed to shoot a qualifying score and she completed the forms noting her perceived difficulties. (R-3.) On September 15, 2016, Sergeant David Wentworth, the Range Master at the Academy, notified Undersheriff Kevin Harris of Middlesex of Aybar-Rodriguez's results and identified four problems that contributed to her failure to qualify. (R-4.) Wentworth recommended that Middlesex provide further training designed to help her pass her remedial qualification testing scheduled for September 19, 2016. Aybar-Rodriguez received another training session at the Academy on September 18, 2016. (RE-2b.)

The "Basic Course Firearms Manual" requires additional training for any trainee who fails to qualify and achieve an average score of at least eighty percent. (R-10.) Aybar-Rodriguez was part of a group of six Academy recruits who received remedial firearms training on September 18, 2016 with Firearms Instructor Ken Nguyan of Middlesex. The following day, Aybar-Rodriguez attempted her remedial qualification testing and scored 117 hits out of 180 for a total score of sixty-five percent. Because Aybar-Rodriguez failed to achieve the passing score of eighty percent, she was dismissed from the Academy effective September 19, 2017 (RE-4) and removed from her position as a sheriff's officer (RE-8).

In addition to the evidence that forms the foundation of the above findings of fact, a summary of pertinent testimony follows.

Chief Darryl Breckenridge, Sr. was the Director of the Academy in 2016. He explained that all trainees at the Academy receive training in accordance with the "Basic Course Firearms Manual." (R-10.) Each trainee receives the Academy's "Guidebook" that contains a provision on Firearms Training. (R-11.) On September 19, 2017, as the Academy's director, Breckenridge signed Aybar-Rodriguez's Dismissal Notice for her failure to attain an average score of eighty percent on the handgun qualification course. (R-1.) Director Breckenridge testified that the handguns used by a particular trainee are sent to the Academy by the sending agency. In this case, the handgun used by Aybar-Rodriguez was a .45 caliber, model H&K, determined by Middlesex. Director Breckenridge did not recall anything out of the ordinary about Aybar-Rodriguez's experience at the Academy.

Sergeant David Wentworth was the Range Master at the Academy. After Aybar-Rodriguez failed her qualifying round, Wentworth notified Undersheriff Kevin Harris at Middlesex and identified four areas that contributed to her failing score: 1. Poor sight alignment and sight picture; 2. Poor trigger control; 3. Poor use of time; and 4. Anticipation. He recommended that Middlesex provide additional training. (R-4.) On cross-examination, Wentworth testified that he was familiar with the H&K and noted that its first trigger pull requires a heavier pull than the second. He also testified that the holster draw is a timing issue that requires repeated practice. The guns and the ammunition given to the recruit are supplied by the sending agency. Aybar-Rodriguez's H&K was issued to her by Middlesex. Instructors were encouraged to identify problems early in the training, so they could be fixed prior to the qualifying rounds. The Academy instructors are all PTC certified. The range instructors stand behind the trainees to coach them as they are firing their shots. There were certain dry-fire exercises that could be performed at night that the recruits were encouraged to practice. However, the trainees were not encouraged to go to a firing range on their own because practice without proper instruction could prove detrimental by reinforcing bad technique. Aybar-Rodriguez's problems were identified during dry-fire training and continued through the live fire sessions and qualifying tests. There were no equipment issues so Wentworth attributed Aybar-Rodriguez's problems to be performance related. He testified that Aybar-Rodriguez never complained about her training. Wentworth only recommended remedial training after Aybar-Rodriguez failed the qualifying test. On cross-examination, Wentworth stated that although the "dummy" gun could be used to practice at home, it is of little use with "holster draw" or trigger pull. Wentworth stated that Aybar-Rodriguez would have benefitted from more range practice with a certified instructor; however, more practice could lead to fatigue which is also detrimental to performance. On re-direct examination, Wentworth was not aware of any regulation that required Middlesex to provide extra practice time or provide a different handgun to a struggling recruit.

Middlesex County Sheriff's Officer Ken Nguyen is a certified firearms instructor who conducted the remedial training session on September 18, 2016 for six Middlesex trainees who failed the qualifying test for handguns. He recalled that Aybar-Rodriguez's problems were with weapon anticipation, trigger control, and time management. He designed drills to help her hold her weapon steady. Her time management issues stemmed from her inability to quickly remove the weapon from her holster. On cross-examination, Nguyen admitted that he did not know anything about Aybar-Rodriguez's problems until he observed her during remedial training. Aybar-Rodriguez was one of six individuals in Nguyen's remedial class that was held as a four-hour training session.

During the testimony of Undersheriff Kevin Harris of Middlesex on cross-examination, it was determined that of the fifteen recruits in Aybar-Rodriguez's Academy class, six recruits initially failed to qualify for firearms and needed remediation training. Three recruits were subsequently discharged by Middlesex after failing the remediation testing. Harris also testified that the H&K handgun is the required handgun for sheriffs in Middlesex. Therefore, it is used by Middlesex recruits for firearms qualification at the Academy.

Ercilia Riordan was in the same Academy class with Aybar-Rodriguez and a recruit from Middlesex. She failed to pass the handgun qualifying and remediation tests. She testified that she was informed by her instructor during the "dry rounds" that she needed additional training. She stated that Instructor Bruce noticed that certain members of her Middlesex class were struggling with the mechanics of getting the weapon out of the holster and pulling the trigger. Her deficiencies were identified by Instructor Bruce, who told her she needed additional training before the live fire training. Riordan failed the qualifying test for firearms.

Aybar-Rodriguez testified that Middlesex provided one week of training prior to the Academy with one day for firearms. She recalled shooting sixty rounds. There were three instructors for fifteen recruits. Her instructor from Middlesex noted that she did not have strength in her trigger finger and she was "slapping the trigger and anticipating." At the Academy, the firearms training is divided into three parts: classroom instruction; dry-firing where the recruits practice without bullets; and live range firing. Instructor Bruce was her firearms instructor during the dry-firing, before she proceeded to the live range. Bruce pointed out her errors and told her that herself and the other Middlesex recruits needed further training before proceeding to live firing. To ask for additional training from Middlesex, Aybar-Rodriguez stated she went to Andrew Ferreira, who had been designated as their class liaison with Middlesex. She testified that she asked Ferreira whether he could arrange range time with Middlesex for remedial training prior to the live firing. According to Aybar-Rodriguez, she was told it was not possible for Middlesex to provide any range time.

On cross-examination, Aybar-Rodriguez testified that she was not disputing any of her scores on her training forms. (R-2.) In addition, she did not dispute that the Academy Instructors, including Bruce, tried to help her pass her firearms test. Aybar-Rodriguez admitted that she had never fired a firearm before her training week at Middlesex. She was able to strengthen her trigger finger at home by purchasing a training tool and practicing at home; however, she could not take her handgun home for additional practice. The agency-issued firearms stay at the Academy and cannot be utilized for practice. Aybar-Rodriguez stated that she never contacted Middlesex directly about her need for remedial training but contacted the designated liaison, Andrew Ferreira, for the Middlesex recruits to make the request.

Instructor Bruce and Andrew Ferreira were not called as witnesses to testify at the hearing. The statements attributed to them through the testimony of Riordan and Aybar-Rodriguez are hearsay. Hearsay statements are admissible in an administrative proceeding subject to the "residuum rule," which mandates that the administrative decision cannot be predicated on hearsay alone. Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972).

> [A] fact-finding or legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal competent evidence in the record to support it.

The statement attributed to Instructor Bruce that he identified the need for remedial training for certain Middlesex recruits after the dry-firing and prior to the live range firing was corroborated by the testimony offered by both Riordan and Aybar-Rodriguez. In addition, Aybar-Rodriguez's inability to quickly remove her weapon from her holster plagued her throughout firearms training. (R-3.) In addition, Sergeant Wentworth testified that the instructors' job was to identify problem areas early on so they could be corrected prior to the qualifying test. Therefore, I FIND that Instructor Bruce identified that Aybar-Rodriguez was having difficulty with performance after the dry-fire training.

The statement attributed to the liaison, Ferreira, that Middlesex did not have any available range time for remedial training prior to the start of live range training lacks the necessary corroboration. Although I FIND that Aybar-Rodriguez asked Ferreira to inquire about remediation training before live training, I cannot find from this record whether Ferreira complied with her request. There is nothing in the record corroborating any conversation that allegedly occurred between Ferreira and Middlesex about additional training.

It was apparent from the tenor of the testimony that the witnesses had no bias toward or against Aybar-Rodriguez. There is no dispute about Aybar-Rodriguez's failing score on the firearm's qualification test. After failing that test, she received remediation firearms training by a certified instructor from Middlesex. During her remediation round of shooting, the following day, Aybar-Rodriguez still failed to qualify by shooting a sixty-five percent instead of the required eighty percent.

The only issue for this appeal was whether Middlesex had an equitable duty to provide additional training or make an accommodation available for a trainee who had been identified by an instructor as having difficulty mastering a required task.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Dismissal from the Monmouth County Police Academy

A recruit is eligible for certification by the PTC when the Academy director affirms that "[t]he trainee has achieved the minimum requirements set forth in the basic course applicable to his or her appointment and has demonstrated an acceptable degree of proficiency in the performance objectives contained in the particular basic course." N.J.A.C. 13:1-5.1(a)(1). The Academy has the power and responsibility "[t]o implement the required curriculum" and "[t]o dismiss a trainee who has demonstrated that he or she will be ineligible for Commission certification, for unacceptable behavior or for other good cause." N.J.A.C. 13:1-7.2(a)(8). "Good cause" has been defined as protection from arbitrary discharge, and requires that termination be motivated by legitimate performance-related concerns. See Greenwood v. State Police Training Ctr., 127 N.J. 500 (1992).

N.J.A.C. 13:1-2.1 provides that the rules may be relaxed or dispensed with by the PTC in any instance where it shall be apparent to the Commission that strict adherence would result in an injustice to an individual or a law enforcement agency. However, based upon the facts and circumstances in this matter, and in view of the testimony and evidence in the record, I FIND that Aybar-Rodriguez has failed to show how strict adherence to the requirements for handgun qualification would result in an injustice.

I CONCLUDE that good cause existed for Aybar-Rodriguez's termination by the Academy. Despite her efforts, Aybar-Rodriguez could not successfully complete the Academy's firearms handgun qualification. She does not contend otherwise. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 13:1-7.2(a)(8), the Academy has the authority to dismiss a trainee who has demonstrated that she will be ineligible for certification by the PTC. In order for Aybar-Rodriguez to obtain a certification, it was necessary for her to achieve a minimum average score of eighty percent on the three highest consecutive matches during the handgun qualification course. Aybar-Rodriguez failed to achieve the necessary score, having finished her remedial training with an average of sixty-five percent for three matches.

The PTC's "Basic Course Firearms Manual" states that the firearms "[t]raining and qualification for the record shall be conducted with a handgun approved for official duty use by the trainee's law enforcement agency." (R-10 at 11.) Because Middlesex sheriff officers use a .45 caliber H&K handgun, Aybar-Rodriguez was issued a .45 caliber H&K handgun at the Academy. While other jurisdictions may allow for different weapons of varying sizes and dimensions, Middlesex did not offer such an accommodation. Aybar-Rodriguez did not issue any complaints about her weapon. There is nothing in the record to show that Aybar-Rodriguez was treated differently than any of the other trainees from Middlesex. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that there is no justification that would permit a relaxation of the rule requiring the trainee to use an agency-issued handgun.

In accordance with the PTC Manual, to pass the firearms qualification, a trainee must achieve an average score of eighty percent on three consecutive firings. If the trainee does not achieve an average score of eighty percent on three consecutive firings, the trainee receives additional training. "This remedial training must be given before the trainee is again allowed to re-attempt qualification." (R-10 at 12.) Aybar-Rodriguez acknowledged that she was given remedial training with six other Middlesex recruits on September 18, 2017 by Middlesex after failing to qualify. However, she maintains that she needed additional training when her difficulties where first discovered after "dry-firing." Aybar-Rodriguez does not dispute that she received the basic course firearms training as detailed on the training calendar. (RE-2B.) Because remedial training must be given after a trainee fails to achieve an average score of eighty percent, I CONCLUDE that Aybar-Rodriguez received remedial training prior to her second attempt at qualification. Middlesex provided remedial training at its range on Sunday, September 18, 2016 for four hours under the direction of Nguyan, a certified firearms instructor. In accordance with the PTC Manual, failure to pass the test upon requalification results in dismissal from the Police Academy, and possible dismissal from county employment. Although it appears that Aybar-Rodriguez's difficulties with her handgun were consistent, there is nothing in the record to suggest that her training was not adequate or in keeping with the standards of the Academy. The Academy contends that the rules should not be relaxed when the question is weapon's qualification. There is nothing in the record to support a relaxation of the rules in this instance. I CONCLUDE that Aybar-Rodriguez received appropriate handgun training and remedial training in accordance with the PTC Manual but was unable to achieve the required eighty percent qualifying average score.

In this case, Aybar-Rodriguez did not successfully complete basic training because she failed the firearms qualification. Given the clarity of the rules and the consequences of failure, I CONCLUDE that the Academy's action in dismissing Aybar-Rodriguez from the basic training course was consistent with applicable law and should be upheld.

Discharge from the Middlesex County Sheriff's Department

The Civil Service Act and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto govern the rights and duties of a civil service employee. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1, et seq. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3.

Middlesex terminated Aybar-Rodriguez's employment due to her inability to perform her duties. That inability was a direct result of her failure to successfully complete the firearms qualification at the Academy. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1). I CONCLUDE that Middlesex's action was consistent with the statutory scheme. In Gottlieb v. Monmouth County Sheriff's Office, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 573, the administrative law judge held:

> The controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68.1, leaves no room for discretion. Before permanent appointment, there must be completion of the Basic Police Training Commission course for correction officers. . . . [C]ivil Service rules do not anticipate continued employment of law enforcement officers who do not complete the Police Training Commission course, if so required. . . .
> . . . [T]he New Jersey Department of Personnel and the Merit System Board may only look to the fact, or not, of course completion. Here, there was none. For that reason, with a threshold condition unmet, the appointment must cease.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Middlesex's determination to terminate petitioner's employment for failure to complete the Academy, a sine qua non to a permanent appointment, was within the scope of its authority.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the action of respondent Monmouth County Police Academy dismissing Aybar-Rodriguez from the basic training course for failing to attain an average score of eighty percent on the handgun qualification course during firearms training is AFFIRMED.

I further ORDER that the action of respondent Middlesex County Sheriff's Department removing Aybar-Rodriguez is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make the final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL, POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex, PO Box 085, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0085, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 16368-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-1209

IN THE MATTER OF CAROLYN INGE, MERCER COUNTY CORRECTIONS CENTER.

Mark W. Catanzaro, Esq., appearing for appellant Carolyn Inge (The Law Offices of Mark W. Catanzaro, attorneys)

Stephanie Ruggieri D'Amico, Assistant County Counsel, appearing for respondent, Mercer County Corrections Center (Paul Adezio, County Counsel)

Record Closed: August 14, 2018 Decided: September 28, 2018

BEFORE SUSAN L. OLGIATI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Carolyn Inge, a Mercer County Corrections Officer, appeals the disciplinary action imposed by respondent, Mercer County Corrections Center (County) seeking a fifteen working day suspension for Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); Neglect of Duty in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3; and Other Sufficient Cause (Insubordination; intentional disobedience or refusal to accept reasonable order, assaulting or resisting authority, disrespect or use of insulting or abusive language to supervisor) in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), specifically by refusing to comply with an order given by her supervisor. Appellant denies the allegations.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 16, 2015, the County served appellant with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. On October 3, 2017, a departmental hearing was held in the matter. On October 18, 2017, the County served the appellant with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action suspending her for fifteen working days to be served from November 3, 2017, through November 23, 2017. She filed a timely notice of appeal, and on November 2, 2017, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to -13.

On April 6, 2018, the County filed a motion for summary decision. On April 16, 2018, the appellant filed a letter brief in opposition to the motion. By Order dated May 29, 2018, the Motion for Summary Decision was denied and the matter was scheduled for hearing.

The matter was heard on July 30, 2018, and the record remained open until August 14, 2018, to allow for written summations. The record closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

I. Undisputed Facts

The following facts are not in dispute:

1. Appellant is a Corrections Officer employed by the Mercer County Corrections Center.

2. On November 6, 2015, appellant was assigned to work as the jail entrance officer during the 3:00 P.M to 11:00 P.M. shift

3. Appellant's duties included responsibility for the mail and processing money orders.

4. On November 6, 2015, appellant was ordered by her supervisor, Sergeant Michael Murzda, to pick up a money order that had been left over from the prior shift.

5. She did not pick up the money order as directed.

6. After talking with Sergeant Murzda, appellant asked another officer to pick up the money order for her.

II. Testimony

For respondent:

Michael Murdza , is a Sergeant with the Mercer County Corrections Center. On November 6, 2015, petitioner was working as the jail entrance officer whose responsibilities include processing excess mail from the previous shift and relieving other officers. On that evening, Murzda received a call advising that an inmate had given the unit a money order[1]. Murzda learned from Officer Paige, that Paige had asked appellant to pick up the money order but she refused.[2] Murzda contacted appellant and ordered her to pick up the money order. She refused. Murzda explained that he did not remember the exact words they used, but that appellant argued it was not her responsibility but rather was the responsibility of the prior shift. Murzda and appellant "went back and forth" for a while. Murzda ordered appellant to pick up the money order because she was the next jail entrance officer on duty and as such, it was her responsibility to pick up and process same. Murzda told appellant she needed to pick up the money order; then she hung up on him.

[1] Inmates receive money orders from outside the Corrections Center for use to purchase items at the commissary. The money orders must be logged in and deposited into the inmate's account.

[2] Paige is not a supervisor of appellant. His request that she pick up the money order was not an order.

Michael Kownacki has been a Captain with the Mercer County Corrections Center since January 2018. As Captain, he is responsible for disciplinary charges. He did not draft the charges against appellant[3], but had reviewed same. Appellant had a prior 2013 discipline consisting of a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action for insubordination which imposed a three day suspension. (R-3)

Kownacki believed the current charges to be consistent with progressive discipline. The Mercer County Public Safety Table of Offenses and Penalties, provides for a fifteen day suspension for a second infraction, (also known as "Step Two" violation) for insubordination. Id. Kownacki explained that it did not matter where appellant was at the time she received the order from Murzda. The order was given and she needed to follow it. If a lawful order is given, it must be followed.

For Petitioner:

Carolyn Inge is a Corrections Officer with the Mercer County Corrections Center. On November 6, 2015, she was working as the jail entrance officer. Her duties in this position included finishing the mail, entering money orders, and relieving other officers who were going on break. On November 6, 2015, when she received the call from Murzda, she was relieving Office Smith in Control Room One (CR-1). She did not sign the log book for CR-1, as required, when she relieved Officer Smith that evening. She told Murzda that she didn't like picking up money orders from the previous shift. She explained that the reason she didn't like to do this was because she cannot confirm where the money orders had come from. She suggested that other officers, (contrary to rules/regulations) sometimes bring in money orders for inmates. She did not want anyone to think that she had brought in the money order.

Appellant told Murzda that she could not pick up the order at the time of his call because she was relieving an officer in CR-1. She told Murzda she would pick up the money order when she was done relieving another officer. Upon questioning by this ALJ, Appellant stated that Murzda replied it was "no problem." Appellant claims she did not refuse Murzda's order and she did not hang up on him. After speaking with Murzda, she contacted Officer Smith and asked him to pick up the money order. He brought it to her and she processed the money order. She did not advise Murzda that she had asked another officer to pick up the money order for her.

Findings:

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

As to the credibility of the witnesses, I cannot accept the testimony of the appellant as credible. She admitted that she refused to pick up the money order when Paige, a fellow, non-supervising officer, asked her to do so. She also acknowledged that she did not like to take responsibility for money orders that had come from a previous shift. Her actions in refusing to comply with Sergeant Murzda's order are consistent with her prior refusal to pick up the money order and her expressed dislike for taking responsibility for same. Her actions are further consistent with her expressed belief that it was not her responsibility, and her opinion that this was something that should have been done by the prior shift.

Additionally, her explanation that she does not like to take responsibility for money orders from a previous shift because she was unable to verify the source of the money order and was concerned that she might be viewed as the source of same, simply does not make sense. She was told by Murzda that the money order had been left over from the prior shift. She was being ordered by her supervisor to pick it up. This being the case, there is no rational reason for appellant to believe that she might be viewed as the source of the money order.

Additionally, appellant's testimony that Murzda replied it was "no problem" in response to her alleged statement that she could not pick up the money order when directed but would pick it up later, is not only contrary to Murzda's testimony and incident report, it is also inconsistent with her own incident report. In her November 11, 2015, report, prepared just six days after the incident, appellant makes no mention of Murzda's alleged "no problem" reply.

Finally, appellant's testimony is best described as motivated by her desire to avoid discipline.

Conversely, Sergeant Murzda testified credibly. His testimony was forthright, consistent, and probable under the totality of the circumstances. He acknowledged that three years after the incident he did not recall the exact words of his conversation with appellant. He testified that he told her to pick up the money order, she argued with him that it was not her responsibility, and then hung up. Murzda's testimony as to these issues is consistent with his report which was prepared on November 6, 2015, the same date of the incident.

Finally, while Captain Kownacki was also credible, his testimony was limited to his review of the discipline and the appropriateness of the penalty. He had no direct knowledge of the facts that gave rise to the charges against the appellant.

After having the opportunity to review the evidence and consider the testimony of the witnesses, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

1. The appellant received a reasonable order from her supervisor, Sergeant Murzda and she did not comply.

2. Appellant failed to provide a reasonable excuse for not complying with the order.

3. After arguing that the directive was not her responsibility, appellant hung up on her supervisor.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

In an appeal from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof to show that the action taken was appropriate. N.J.S.A. 11A:-2.21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The authority must show by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal, based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Appellant's status as a correction's [law enforcement] officer subjects her to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

In the present matter, appellant is charged with Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); Neglect of Duty; in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7); and Other Sufficient Cause (Insubordination) in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3 (a)(12)

A. Conduct Unbecoming

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Here, appellant acknowledged that she was ordered by her supervisor to pick up a money order that had been left over from the prior shift. She admitted that she did not pick up the money order as directed. Appellant also admitted that she did not like to take responsibility for money orders from another shift. It is incumbent upon the appellant to comply with an order from her supervisor. She cannot argue with her supervisor over the directive, and she cannot refuse to comply simply because she does not like to do a particular task. Further, it is irrelevant where appellant was at the time of the order. If she was unable to immediately comply with the order she should have complied as soon as she was able. She cannot ignore the order by asking another officer to perform the task for her. Compliance is essential to the morale and efficiency of a governmental unit. Compliance, or lack thereof, adversely impacts the operations of the Corrections Center as maintenance of strict discipline is essential in para-military settings such as the Corrections Center.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), and that such charge must be SUSTAINED.

B. Neglect of Duty

Neglect of duty has been interpreted to mean that "an employee . . . neglected to perform an act required by his or her job title or was negligent in its discharge." In re Glenn, 2009 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 112, OAL DKT. No. CSV 5072-07. The term "neglect" means a deviation from the normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). "Duty" means conformance to "the legal standard of reasonable conduct in the light of the apparent risk." Wytupeck v. Camden, 25 N.J. 450, 461 (1957) (citation omitted). Neglect of duty can arise from omitting to perform a required duty as well as from misconduct or misdoing. Cf. State v. Dunphy, 19 N.J. 531, 534 (1955). Neglect of duty does not require an intentional or willful act; however, there must be some evidence that the employee somehow breached a duty owed to the performance of the job.

Here, appellant acknowledged that processing money orders is part of the duties of the jail entrance officer. She acknowledged that she received an order from her supervisor to pick up a money order that had been left over from the previous shift, and that she did not do it herself. By her own admission, appellant neglected to perform an act required by her job.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes Neglect of Duty, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), and that such charge must be SUSTAINED.

C. Other Sufficient Cause - Insubordination

Here, the appellant is charged with insubordination specifically, failure to obey a direct order. (Black's Law Dictionary 802 (7th Ed. 1999) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Such dictionary definitions have been utilized by courts to define the term where it is not specifically defined in contract or regulation.

> "Insubordination" is not defined in the agreement. Consequently, assuming for purposes of argument that its presence is implicit, we are obliged to accept its ordinary definition since it is not a technical term or word of art and there are no circumstances indicating that a different meaning was intended.
> [Ricci v. Corporate Express of the East, Inc., 344 N.J. Super. 39, 45 (App. Div. 2001) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, this definition incorporates acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience. Thus, insubordination can occur even where no specific order or direction has been given to the allegedly insubordinate person. Insubordination is always a serious matter, especially in a paramilitary context. "Refusal to obey orders and disrespect cannot be tolerated. Such conduct adversely affects the morale and efficiency of the department." Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 59 N.J. 269 (1971).

Appellant acknowledged that she did not get the money order as directed by Sergeant Murzda. Rather, she argued that it was not her responsibility, hung up the phone, and thereafter, asked another officer to pick up the money order for her.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes Other Sufficient Cause, Insubordination, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3 (a)(12), and that such charge must be SUSTAINED.

PENALTY

The Civil Service Commission's review of penalty is de novo. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.9(d) specifically grant the Commission authority to increase or decrease the penalty imposed by the appointing authority.

Once a determination is made that an employee has violated a statute, regulation or rule concerning his employment, the concept of progressive discipline must be considered. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). However, it is well established that where the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature, the imposition of a penalty up to and including removal is appropriate, regardless of an individual's disciplinary history. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). Progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007). Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished record. Ibid.

Typically, numerous factors, including the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline and the employee's prior record are considered. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463.

"Although we recognize that a tribunal may not consider an employee's past record to prove a present charge, West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523 (1962), that past record may be considered when determining the appropriate penalty for the current offense." In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 581 (1990).

Here, appellant is charged with a second infraction (also known as a "Step 2" violation) of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3 (a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause, (Insubordination). In addition to the present charge of insubordination arising from the November 6, 2015, incident, appellant has a prior 2013 charge of insubordination. That prior charge resulted in the imposition of a three day suspension. The Mercer County Public Safety Table of Offenses and Penalties provides that the penalty for a second infraction of insubordination is a fifteen day penalty.

In mitigation, appellant has been a Corrections Officer for eight years and her only other discipline occurred five years ago. This however, does not outweigh the appellant's failure to comply with an order from, and disrespectful conduct towards, her supervisor. As this is appellant's second infraction for insubordination and the proposed penalty is consistent with respondent's table of progressive discipline, it is reasonable.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the penalty of a fifteen working day suspension is appropriate, and must be SUSTAINED.

DECISION AND ORDER

I ORDER that the charges of Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); Neglect of Duty in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), and Other Sufficient Cause (Insubordination), in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), are sustained, and that the action of the respondent appointing authority imposing a fifteen working day suspension on appellant is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Release (hereinafter referred to as the "Agreement") is entered into this 24th day of September 2018 between the County of Hudson, (hereinafter referred to as the "County") and Precious Waters (hereinafter referred to as "Waters" or the "Employee"), in full resolution of all issues related to Employee's employment with the County.

WHEREAS, the County instituted disciplinary action against Waters in the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action dated February 26, 2018 and in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated March 28, 2018, wherein the penalty of removal from the position of Building Maintenance Worker was effective March 22, 2018 (hereinafter referred to as the "Disciplinary Action"); and

WHEREAS, Waters filed an appeal of the Disciplinary Action with the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter referred to as the "OAL"), specifically docket number CSV 06416-2018 N; and

WHEREAS, Waters and the County desire to resolve all outstanding issues with respect to the Disciplinary Action and the appeal pending in the OAL.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration for the promises and conditions set forth herein, the County and Waters agree as follows:

1. TERMS.

a. The County agrees to withdraw the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action issued against Waters, dated February 26, 2018 and the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action issued against Waters, dated March 28, 2018. The County also agrees to make a payment to Waters for thirty (30) working days of back pay, which payment is subject to all required deductions and withholdings. In exchange for the withdrawal by the County of the Disciplinary Action and the aforesaid payment of back pay, Waters agrees that she has resigned from her position with the County effective March 22, 2018 in good standing. Waters agrees that her execution of this Agreement shall serve as her written notice of resignation from employment with the County in good standing. The County will amend Water's personnel records to reflect that she resigned from the County effective March 22, 2018, in good standing.

b. Waters acknowledges that her employment with the County is permanently and irrevocably severed, effective March 22, 2018. Waters further agrees that she will not apply for or accept employment with the County and/or any of its independent but related agencies and that any such employment which may nevertheless occur in the future for whatever reason shall be deemed null and void ab initio. Waters hereby waives any reinstatement or reemployment with the County and/or any of its independent but related agencies in any capacity at any time in the future. Waters will neither appeal nor challenge in any court of law, administrative agency, governmental body or any other forum any refusal by the County and/or any of its independent but related agencies to hire her.

c. Waters acknowledges that she has been paid and/or has received all compensation, wages and benefits to which she accrued during her employment with the County, and she agrees that no other compensation, wages or benefits or any other monetary claims are due to her other than those payments and benefits set forth above in this Agreement. Waters also waives any claims for attorney's fees.

2. COMPLETE RELEASE.

In further consideration of the settlement hereinabove, Waters, her heirs, assigns and agents (hereinafter collectively referred to as "Releasor") voluntarily enter into this Agreement, and certify that Releasor has not been threatened or coerced into signing this Agreement, on the terms which follow:

a. Releasor hereby releases, waives and discharges the County, its affiliated departments, and its officers, trustees, agents, employees, successors and assigns (hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Releasees") from each and every claim, demand, cause of action, obligation, damage, complaint, expense, compensation or action or writ of any kind, nature, character of description that Releasor had, now has, or may in the future have against the Releasees on account of or arising out of the Disciplinary Action and her separation from employment. This Complete Release includes, but is not limited to, any claim, demand, cause of action, obligation, damage, complaint, expense, compensation, or action or writ of any kind, nature, character or description arising out of or under Federal, State or municipal statute or ordinance and any other law (whether such be common law, decisional law or statutory law), rule, regulation, executive order or guideline, and any and all claims for attorneys' fees and costs arising from the above acts including, but not limited to:

i. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (NJLAD) which, among other things, prohibits discrimination in employment on the basis of an individual's race, creed, color, religion, sex, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, familial status, handicap, atypical hereditary cellular or blood trait or liability for service in the Armed Forces of the United States.

ii. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII) or the Civil Rights Act of 1991, as amended, which, among other things, prohibit discrimination in employment on account of a person's race, color, religion, sex or national origin.

iii. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended (ADEA), which, among other things, prohibits discrimination in employment on account of a person's age.

iv. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) which, among other things, prohibits discrimination in employment on account of a person's disability or handicap.

v. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) which, among other things, entitles an employee to take reasonable leave for medical reasons for the birth or adoption of a child, and for the care of a child, spouse or parent who has a serious health condition, and any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising under the New Jersey Family Leave Act.

vi. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, which, among other things, prohibits discrimination in employment by Federal contractors against individuals with disabilities.

vii. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (ERISA), which, among other things, regulates pension and welfare plans and prohibits interference with individual rights protected under that statute.

viii. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Federal Older Workers Benefit Protection Act (OWBPA) which, among other things, amends provisions of ADEA and prohibits discrimination in employment and employment benefits on account of a person's age.

ix. Any claim, cause of action, demand or complaint arising out of or under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA) which, among other things, prohibits retaliatory action by an employer against an employee who objects to practices that she reasonably believes are incompatible with a clear mandate of law or public policy concerning the public health, safety or welfare.

The aforesaid list shall not be deemed exhaustive but by way of example and the recitation of a release of all claims as set forth in 2.a. shall not be diminished thereby.

b. Releasor has not and shall not hereafter seek money damages against the County or the Releasees in any matter lodged within the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) or with any Federal, State or local court or agency which has been settled herein. Nothing herein shall be construed as limiting any individual's right to file a charge of discrimination should s/he feel that s/he was a victim of unlawful discrimination.

c. If Releasor violates this Complete Release by filing any claim, charge or complaint as prohibited above, Releasor agrees to pay all costs and expenses of defending against the suit incurred by County and/or the Releasees, including reasonable attorney's fees.

d. This Release does not apply to any Workers' Compensation matters.

3. NON ADMISSION

This Agreement is executed and all consideration is given in final settlement of disputed claims, and shall not be construed as an admission of any allegation or of liability by the County, by whom any such obligation or liability is expressly denied.

4. NO DISPARAGING STATEMENTS

Waters agrees that she will not make any statement that has, have or can be expected to have the effect of disparaging the County.

5. CONSULTATION WITH ATTORNEY.

Waters has consulted with her attorney with respect to this Agreement and reviewed with her attorney all the terms and conditions of this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement.

6. COMPLETE AGREEMENT.

This Agreement contains the entire agreement between Waters and the County, and each of them, with respect to the subject matter and supercedes all prior agreements or understandings dealing with the same subject matter. There is no agreement on the part of the County to do anything other than as is expressly stated in this Agreement. This Agreement shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced and governed by the Laws of the State of New Jersey.

7. MODIFICATION.

No modification or amendment of this Agreement will be enforceable unless it is in writing and signed by the party to be charged.

8. SEVERABILITY.

Should any provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity, and enforceability of the remaining parts, terms, or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal, unenforceable or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not to be a part of this Agreement.

9. WATERS ATTESTS.

Waters represents and warrants that she has carefully read each and every provision of this Agreement and that she fully understands all of the terms and conditions contained in each provision of this Agreement. Waters represents and warrants that she enters into this Agreement voluntarily, of her own free will, without any pressure or coercion from any person or entity including, but not limited to, the County and the Releasees.

10. REASONABLE PERIOD OF TIME.

Waters agrees that she has been given a reasonable period of time of at least 21 days within which to review and consider this Agreement prior to executing this Agreement, but Waters may waive this 21 day period by signing the space provided at the end of this Agreement.

11. REVOCATION.

Waters may revoke this Agreement within seven (7) days after the date this Agreement is signed by Waters. This revocation must take the form of written notice by Waters that Waters intends to revoke this Agreement. This revocation must be provided directly to the County, c/o Denise D'Alessandro, at the Department of Roads & Public Property, 257 Cornelison Avenue in Jersey City. This seven (7) day revocation period may not be waived by Waters.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound hereby I, Precious Waters, executed the foregoing Agreement this ____ day of September, 2018.

ISSUED: DECEMBER 21, 2018 BW

The appeal of Sean Tonner, Senior Investigator, Parole and Secured Facilities, East Jersey State Prison, Department of Corrections, 60 working day suspension and demotion to Correction Sergeant on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge David M. state property, and violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision. The appellant denies the allegations.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The DOC issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action ("PNDA"), dated July 11, 2017, notifying Tonner of the charges against him. (R-1.) After a departmental hearing held on September 18, 2017, DOC sustained the following charges which were incorporated into a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action ("FNDA"), dated October 10, 2017, with a proposed penalty of a sixty-day-working suspension and demotion to the rank of correction sergeant: N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, DOC Human Resources Bulletin ("HRB") 84-17 §§ C-11, conduct unbecoming an employee, C-24, threatening, intimidating, harassing, coercing, or interfering with fellow employees on state property, and E-1, violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision.

The appellant timely requested a hearing and the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), where it was filed on October 24, 2017, to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52-14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The matter was heard on June 7, 2018, and July 11, 2018. The record remained open for the parties to provide post-hearing submissions and closed on October 11, 2018.

TESTIMONY AND FACTUAL DISCUSSION

For Respondent

Duane Grade, Chief Investigator, DOC Special Investigations Division ("SID"), has been with DOC for twenty-two years, assigned to SID since 1996, and has served as the chief investigator for SID since 2017. SID, which used to be called Internal Affairs, is the investigative arm of DOC. SID investigates crimes occurring in DOC facilities and charges of crimes involving DOC employees. Grade reports directly to the director of DOC.

At the time of the incident giving rise to this matter, Grade was asked by Manuel Alfonso, who was the chief investigator of SID at that time, to join him in a meeting with the appellant and Adrian Ellison. The meeting was held at DOC headquarters in Trenton, New Jersey. Both Tonner and Ellison were senior investigators with SID at that time. Ellison was also president of the Fraternal Order of Police ("FOP"), the labor union that represented SID investigators. The purpose of the meeting was for Chief Alfonso to give discipline to Tonner arising from a prior incident. After the meeting, Tonner and Ellison were going to the Edna Mahan Correctional Facility[1] ("Mahan") where Tonner worked so that Tonner could gather his personal items from his office. There was also a request made that Tonner's supervisor not be present at the facility when Tonner returned to Mahan that afternoon.

Grade had read reports that, subsequent to the meeting, Tonner had made statements threatening his supervisor. That conduct, as alleged, would be in violation of DOC rules and regulations. (R-3.) Grade knew that these allegations were referred to the Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office ("HCPO") for possible criminal charges, but he was not aware of when the charges were referred or when a response from HCPO declining to bring criminal charges was received. As a matter of policy, anytime there is an allegation of possible criminal conduct, DOC refers the matter to the appropriate prosecutor's office for review and determination if criminal charges are appropriate.

Adrian Ellison, Senior Investigator with DOC, has been with DOC for twenty-five years and with SID since 2008. He is also president of the FOP and part of his duty as FOP president is to accompany union members to disciplinary meetings.

Ellison was present at the February 15, 2017, meeting at DOC headquarters with Chief Alfonso, Tonner, and others. At that meeting, Tonner was served with a notice of disciplinary charges, and notified he was going to be demoted. After being served with these charges, Tonner was visibly shaken and clearly upset. Chief Alfonso asked Ellison to accompany Tonner back to Mahan to gather his belongings from his office since Tonner was going to be transferred to another DOC facility. Ellison knew that Tonner's supervisor, Gene Scott, was part of the complaint that led to the disciplinary charges raised at this meeting. He was also aware that Scott and Tonner did not get along, so Ellison asked that Scott not be present at Mahan when they went there to collect Tonner's belongings. After leaving the meeting, Ellison ran into DOC Investigator Valisa Leonard at DOC headquarters and asked her to accompany them to Mahan. Leonard also served as the sergeant-at-arms for the FOP.

When Ellison, Tonner, and Leonard arrived at Mahan, DOC Investigator Renee Caldwell-McCray was there. Tonner and Ellison entered Tonner's office, while Leonard and Caldwell-McCray remained outside. Once inside the office, Tonner asked Ellison "why the fuck did you tell them not to have that pussy Gerome [Scott] here?" Tonner added that "I was going to shoot that motherfucker." Surprised at what he had heard, Ellison asked Tonner to repeat himself because he could not believe that the situation between Tonner and Scott had gotten to that point, but Ellison was sure that that there was no ambiguity as to what Tonner had just said. Ellison noted that Tonner was armed with his service weapon at the time he made the statement about Scott.

Ellison tried to calm Tonner down and called for Leonard to come into the office while Tonner continued to pack his personal items. Tonner continued to blurt out expletives regarding that "big steroid motherfucker," and told Ellison that he had been wanting to get out of Mahan for a year. Ellison asked Tonner to repeat what he had said in front of Leonard but Tonner refused, saying "every time I say something in front of you, I get in trouble." Ellison left the building and asked Leonard to come with him. Outside, he explained to Leonard what happened and Leonard went back inside to ask Tonner to turn over his weapon. Tonner told Leonard that he was just venting and there was no need for him to surrender his weapon. Tonner made no additional comments after that.

Ellison explained that he held no animus towards Tonner and that he was in a very difficult position as the union president having to testify against a union member like Tonner. He and Tonner had a good relationship to that point, and Tonner would often call Ellison in his role as the union president with issues regarding his supervisor. Based on what he had heard Tonner say at Mahan, Ellison believed he had a duty to report the incident and sent Chief Alfonso an email detailing what had happened. (R-3.) After sending this email, Ellison did not take any further action on this matter.[2]

Gerome Scott, DOC Principal Investigator, SID has been with DOC for twenty-three years and has been the principal investigator at the Mahan facility since 2015. In that capacity, he supervises two investigators in the SID unit as well as two investigators in the fugitive unit. Tonner worked for Scott from 2015 until Tonner was transferred to DOC's Mountainview facility in 2017.

Chief Alfonso called Scott to tell him that Tonner was being disciplined with a fifteen-day suspension and demotion to a uniform rank. He was told that Tonner was upset due to the discipline imposed and was on his way back to Mahan. Alfonso asked Scott to leave the facility when Tonner came back because it would be in everyone's best interest to avoid a potential confrontation with Tonner. Scott complied and left the facility, not returning until around 4:00 p.m. that day. Later, he received a "duty to warn" call from DOC Investigator Edwin Soltys to warn him that Tonner had threatened him and let him know that Soltys was going to go and get Tonner's weapon.

Scott was involved in prior disciplinary incidents involving Tonner. One was an exchange where Tonner had used profanity in an email copying the chief. The chief administered verbal counselling to Tonner, and Scott had to issue a written letter of counselling to Tonner from that incident.

Another prior incident involved the investigation of an allegation from a female inmate against a prison administrator under the Prison Rape Elimination Act ("PREA").

[2] Ellison also gave a recorded interview to Investigator Soltys of DOC's internal affairs unit regarding this incident on March 31, 2017. (R-10.) The interview with Soltys was consistent with Ellison's hearing testimony.

The victim inquired as to the status of the complaint and Tonner reported that he had interviewed the victim, gathered reports, and forwarded the information to the PREA coordinator, Investigator Soltys, and the chief. When the Commissioner's office sought to follow up on the status of the investigation, however, Tonner could not locate the videotaped statements, and the investigation had to be reopened a year later. Tonner was disciplined for his failure to complete that investigation when he reported that the investigation had been completed.

In July 2016, Tonner's then-girlfriend was involved in a domestic incident with Tonner, and she was arrested in Pennsylvania. After her arrest, the authorities notified DOC because she was also a DOC employee. Upon learning of the incident, Scott tried to contact Tonner to see if he was "ok," calling his state-issued cell phone, but Tonner did not answer. When Scott had local police do a wellness check on Tonner, they learned that Tonner had put his phone on vibrate and forgot to put the ringer back on. Tonner was subsequently disciplined for his failure to respond to Scott's phone calls since he was on call at the time.

Another prior disciplinary incident from October 2016, was due to Tonner's work at DOC's Mountainview facility on a weekend with the Drug Interdiction Unit ("DIU"). Tonner submitted his time on this assignment as overtime, but he should have put the time in as "comp time" since time on DIU jobs were compensated with comp time. The chief disciplined Tonner, and he had to pay back the overtime paid to him. When Ellison first notified Tonner that he was being disciplined for the overtime incident, Ellison reported that Tonner called Scott a "black monkey." Upon hearing this, Scott filed an Equal Employment Discrimination ("EED") complaint against Tonner so he could be separated from him, but no findings were proven.

There is a policy within SID that personnel involved in a personal relationship with someone who also works for DOC cannot work together in the same facility. Tonner, however, was dating someone who also worked at Mahan. When Tonner left Mahan to work at the Mountainview facility, he wrote to the chief and indicated, in writing, that he was no longer in a relationship with someone working at Mahan. Tonner did not correct this when he was transferred back to Mahan—even though he was still in a relationship with this individual. At the February 2017, meeting, Tonner received notice of discipline for his failure to inform DOC that he was in a personal relationship with another DOC employee who also worked at Mahan. Tonner was contesting the discipline in that matter, and it is still under appeal within the OAL.

When he was informed about Tonner's verbal threat, Scott was concerned because of his prior interactions with Tonner. He believed that Tonner blamed him every time he was disciplined, and the current discipline was going to cause Tonner to lose his current position and impact his livelihood. Scott was aware that the incident had been reported to HCPO for possible criminal charges, and he was called by the first assistant prosecutor from HCPO to tell him that they did not believe the incident, as reported to them, met all the criteria to constitute a terroristic threat, so they were not filing criminal charges against Tonner. Scott could not recall, however, when he received that call.

Valisa Leonard, DOC Senior Investigator, SID, has been with DOC since 2000 and has worked in SID/internal affairs since 2012. On the day that Tonner received disciplinary charges from Chief Alfonso, Ellison saw her at the DOC central office and asked her if she would accompany him and Tonner to Mahan. Leonard believed Ellison asked her to come along because of her role as Sergeant-at-Arms with the FOP and because she was a friend of Tonner's who might be able to give Tonner a little personal support.

When they arrived at Mahan that day, DOC Senior Investigator Renee Caldwell-McCray was in the back office. Tonner arrived after Leonard and Ellison. Tonner and Ellison went into Tonner's office and Leonard stayed outside talking to Caldwell-McCray. Leonard was not present in Tonner's office when she heard Ellison calling her into the office. When she entered the office, she saw Tonner packing up, putting things in boxes, and Ellison asked Tonner to say what he just said. Tonner told Ellison, "look man, let me get this done, I'm just upset." Tonner appeared red-faced, and his eyes were watering while he continued to pack. Tonner kept repeating that he was upset and mad, he was complaining about not bringing home enough money to pay the bills and wanting to transfer to another SID office to get away from "that steroid motherfucker" which Leonard believed was a reference to Scott. (See R-4.) Leonard's written report of the incident also confirmed that, when Ellison asked Tonner to repeat what he had said, Tonner responded "every time I talk to you (Ellison), I get in trouble." (R-4.)

Ellison left the office and went to his car. Leonard went with him and they spoke in Ellison's car. Ellison told her that Tonner just said that he would shoot Scott if Scott was there and they had to get Tonner's gun. Because they had a good rapport, Leonard went back inside to get Tonner's gun and talk to him. She told Tonner what Ellison had told her about what he said regarding Scott. Tonner told Leonard that he was "venting" because he was mad. Leonard asked Tonner for his weapon, but Tonner refused to turn it over to her, saying that he did not feel there was any reason for him to give it up, he was not going to hurt anybody. During their conversation, Tonner never denied making any threat or statement to Ellison regarding Scott. He just did not agree that he needed to surrender his weapon but offered no further explanation. Leonard's report of the incident documented that, when asked to surrender his duty weapon, Tonner told her he "was not going to do anything to that man." (R-4.) Leonard and Tonner hugged, and Leonard went back outside to see Ellison and left.

While Leonard did not hear the exchange between Ellison and Tonner, she does not believe that Ellison would make this story up. During her testimony, Leonard was visibly crying. The reason for this, she explained, was that it was difficult for her to testify in this hearing because she and Tonner remain friends. Leonard wrote a report about the incident at the direction of Soltys documenting her interactions with Tonner that day. (R-4.)

Renee Caldwell-McCray, DOC Senior Investigator, SID, has been with DOC for seventeen years and, since 2007, holds the title of investigator. She worked at Mahan with Tonner and both she and Tonner were supervised by Scott. She was present at Mahan when Tonner and Ellison arrived with Leonard to clear out Tonner's office. She knew that Scott had been asked to leave the facility that day but did not know why. She did not witness any conversation between Ellison and Tonner while at the facility first hand but was told by Ellison about a conversation he had with Tonner where Tonner made a threat against Scott. Ellison told her that Tonner had said if Scott were there, he would have shot him. After telling her about his conversation with Tonner, Ellison left the facility. She heard some additional conversation going on in Tonner's office after Ellison left, but she could not hear what was being said. She did not talk to Tonner that day.

Michael Alfonso, DOC Chief Investigator (retired), SID has been with DOC for over twenty-eight years and was the chief investigator of SID from November 2015, until he retired in April 2017. As the chief investigator of SID, Alfonso supervised over 100 people and was the highest-ranking law enforcement officer within SID. Alfonso called for the meeting on February 15, 2017, so Tonner could be issued disciplinary paperwork. After the meeting, Tonner was going back to Mahan with Ellison to gather his personal belongings because Tonner was going to be temporarily transferred to DOC's Mountainview facility.

At Ellison's suggestion, Alfonso called ahead to Mahan to have Tonner's supervisor, Scott, leave before Tonner arrived. He agreed with Ellison's suggestion to ask Scott to leave Mahan before Tonner got there because he saw that Tonner was visibly upset in the meeting and appeared to be blaming Scott for the disciplinary action taken against him that day. Alfonso felt that, because emotions were running high, it would be better if Scott were not present when Tonner returned to Mahan in order to avoid a situation or confrontation. Later that day, Alfonso got a call from Ellison telling him that Tonner threatened Scott when they went up to Mahan. Ellison told Alfonso that Tonner called Scott a "steroid motherfucker" and asked why Scott was not present because Tonner was going to shoot him.

Alfonso was particularly concerned with this information because he saw how Tonner was upset in their meeting that day. Alfonso told Ellison to write up the incident for him, and he contacted Soltys and directed him to get a few more DOC investigators and go to Tonner's home to seize Tonner's service weapon. This was done as a precaution to minimize any danger to the people involved, including Tonner himself.

The email he received from Ellison (R-3) suggested to him that there may be potential criminal charges brought as a result of Tonner's conduct, which is why it was referred to HCPO. While DOC has the ability to investigate criminal matters, only a prosecutor's office has the authority over bringing any criminal charges, so the prosecutor's office makes the ultimate determination if a matter proceeds criminally or administratively.

Alfonso directed Soltys to contact the HCPO to advise them of the incident, gather preliminary facts, and send his findings to HCPO to allow them to ultimately make a determination if criminal charges would be brought. Because of the potential for criminal charges, Soltys' investigation was limited to interviewing persons who were not subject to possible criminal charges since they did not want to compel testimony from a DOC employee in an internal investigation that may lead to criminal charges against that employee because doing so would infringe upon their rights in any potential criminal proceeding.

Alfonso reviewed a letter from HCPO (P-2) which indicated that they received the investigation report from DOC on May 25, 2017. Alfonso suggested that this was the date they received a report on the incident from Soltys, but not the date that the matter was referred to them by DOC. HCPO declined to bring criminal charges and referred the matter back to DOC on June 12, 2017. (Id.)

Edwin Soltys, DOC Deputy Chief Investigator, SID, has been with DOC for over twenty-one years and has been assigned to SID since 2000. Soltys was promoted to the rank of deputy chief of SID earlier this year. Alfonso called Soltys to tell him about an incident at Mahan involving Tonner making a verbal threat against Scott and directed him to go to Tonner's home and take custody of Tonner's service weapon. Soltys went to Tonner's home with three senior investigators from DOC and some local police officers from the Palmer, Pennsylvania Police Department. Soltys' report documents that he and three other DOC investigators, along with assisting officers from the Palmer Police Department, arrived at Tonner's home around 8:00 that evening. (R-2.) After they arrived at Tonner's home, Tonner surrendered his weapon without incident.

Soltys also contacted Scott to warn him about the verbal threat made by Tonner against him. This was done as part of a standard "duty to warn" protocol. When SID is made aware of a threat made by an inmate, or even a DOC employee, they contact the individual against whom the threat is made to advise them of the nature of the threat and the actions that are being taken. The day after he went to retrieve the weapon from Tonner, Soltys received a call to tell him that a complaint was made with the FOP about him entering Tonner's home and that Tonner may file criminal charges against him. Soltys does not recall who the call was from, but he advised Alfonso about the call. Alfonso advised that Soltys should "hold off" on leading the investigation into the incident until they determine if any charges were filed against him. After a month passed, and no charges were filed, Soltys was assigned to lead the investigation, and Soltys' investigation report confirms he was assigned to lead the investigation on March 20, 2017. (R-2.)

Because of the potential for criminal charges from Tonner's conduct, this matter was referred to HCPO for review. Soltys had DOC Sr. Investigator Michael Cubik inform HCPO of the incident on February 16 or 17, 2017. He asked Cubik to inform HCPO since Cubik was going to be at their office meeting with them on another unrelated matter. DOC provided the information they had to HCPO, which consisted of information and statements of non-targets. Soltys received a declination letter from HCPO via email on June 12, 2017, informing him that they were declining to bring criminal charges arising from the incident.

As part of Soltys' investigation, he conducted multiple interviews and documented the content of those interviews in his investigation report. (R-2.) After HCPO declined to bring criminal charges, Soltys conducted a video-recorded interview of Tonner on June 23, 2017, which was played into the record. (R-9.) During his video-recorded interview, Tonner confirmed that, following his meeting with Alfonzo on February 15, 2017, he went back to Mahan and met Ellison and Leonard there. (Id.) Tonner had seen Scott at Mahan earlier that day when he reported to work and before he was called down to the central office for a meeting with Alfonso, but Scott was not at Mahan when he arrived back there following his meeting with Alfonso. (Id.)

Tonner denied that he made any comments to Ellison about shooting Scott when they were at Mahan that day. (Id.) He asked Ellison why Scott was not there that afternoon, but he asked because he felt that Scott had started the process that led to his discipline and should be there to explain how the situation had gotten that far. (Id.) He asserted that this was the only mention he made of Scott that afternoon, "end of discussion." (Id.) Tonner felt that Ellison, as his union president, had let him down by allowing him to be disciplined and not helping him get transferred out of Mahan. (Id.)

Tonner also denied talking to Leonard about hurting anyone. (Id.) He said that the only mention about hurting anyone made in his discussions with Leonard were about him hurting himself. (Id.) Tonner said that this was now the second incident where he believed Ellison was making something up involving him and Scott. (Id.) He felt that Ellison was useless as a union representative and was creating this allegation to jam him up just as he did with the former allegation that he referred to Scott as a "monkey." (Id.) Tonner had no interest in shooting anyone, and never said he was going to shoot Scott. (Id.) When he spoke to Leonard about "venting" he was referring to his venting to Ellison about how he was disappointed in Ellison for letting him down as his union representative. (Id.) Tonner felt that Ellison was on Scott's "team" and that he and Scott were working together to try and get him fired with fabricated charges. (Id.) Tonner believed Ellison was fabricating the allegation against him because Ellison does not want him to continue working at DOC.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

Due to the conflicts between Tonner's prior statement (R-9), and the testimony of Ellison regarding what Tonner said to Ellison on February 15, 2017, in Tonner's office at the Mahan facility, a determination of credibility is required. Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness' testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Dep't of Cmty. Affairs, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

Having had the opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND Ellison's testimony regarding his verbal exchange with Tonner on February 15, 2017, in Tonner's office at the Mahan facility to be credible. In addition to his role as president of the FOP, Ellison is a sworn law enforcement professional and an experienced criminal investigator. Tonner, in his June 23, 2017, statement to Soltys (R-9), attempted to discredit Ellison's account of the February 15, 2017, incident as being a biased fabrication designed to have Tonner dismissed from DOC.

While Tonner has a prior history of disciplinary actions involving Scott and Ellison, Tonner had no such negative history with Leonard. Having the opportunity to observe Leonard's testimony and her demeanor with the appellant during these proceedings, it is clear that Leonard and Tonner remain friends. Leonard has no known reason to fabricate her testimony in this matter and she was visibly distraught about giving sworn testimony that may be detrimental to someone she clearly considers to be her friend. I FIND Leonard's testimony in this matter to be extremely credible and her testimony provides corroboration to Ellison's testimonial account of the events of February 15, 2018.

While Leonard was not a witness to the verbal exchange between Ellison and Tonner, when she spoke to Tonner on February 15, 2018, he said to her that his exchange with Ellison was just venting. Tonner asserted in his statement to Soltys that the "venting" he was referring to was him expressing his frustrations with Ellison, not Scott, because he felt that Ellison had let him down. (R-9.) Tonner further said that, other than asking why Scott was not there to explain the disciplinary action, he did not make any further mention of Scott that afternoon. (Id.) Leonard noted, however, that when she entered Tonner's office, Tonner was complaining about that "steroid motherfucker" which Leonard believed was a reference to Scott—indicating that Tonner was verbally venting at least some of his anger at that time towards Scott, consistent with Ellison's testimony.

Leonard also testified that after she returned to Tonner's office to speak with him, she told Tonner what Ellison had told her about the verbal threat he made against Scott. In response, Leonard noted that Tonner never denied making any threat, but just dismissed Leonard's concerns that he may be a danger. In his interview with DOC, Tonner said that he and Leonard never discussed him hurting anyone other than himself (id.), however, Leonard testified that she addressed Tonner's threats to Scott in her discussions with Tonner and Leonard's report specifically states that, when Leonard asked Tonner to surrender his weapon, Tonner told her that he "was not going to do anything to that man." (R-4 [emphasis added].) This lends further credence to Ellison's account of events.

Leonard's written report also supported Ellison's testimony that, when Ellison asked Tonner to repeat what he had said in Leonard's presence, Tonner's response was "every time I talk to you [(Ellison)], I get in trouble." (R-4.) In his statement to Soltys, Tonner said he did not recall his response to this question to dispute the accounts of Ellison or Leonard. (R-9.) While Tonner asserted that the current incident was a second time that Ellison was fabricating a statement made by him about Scott, this comment to Ellison, as made in Leonard's presence, suggests that the current incident is the second time that Tonner made an intemperate comment to Ellison that got him into trouble. Whatever questions about Ellison's impartiality raised by Tonner's assertion that this was the second incident where intemperate comments he made about Scott to Ellison indicates a bias on the part of Ellison against him are more than overborne by the supporting and wholly credible testimony of Leonard.

Based upon the testimony and documentary evidence, and having had the opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. On February 15, 2017, Tonner was a senior investigator with the New Jersey DOC SID.

2. On February 15, 2017, Tonner was called to the DOC central office in Trenton, New Jersey, to meet with Chief Investigator Alfonso. At this meeting:

    a. Tonner was accompanied by Ellison, who attended the meeting as his union representative. In addition to being a senior investigator with SID, Ellison was also the president of the FOP, the union that represented investigators within SID.

    b. Grade was also present at this meeting.

    c. Tonner was served with notice of disciplinary charges, and notified he was going to receive a fifteen-day-suspension and a demotion to his last permanent title of sergeant.

    d. After being served with these charges, Tonner was visibly shaken and clearly upset.

    e. Alfonso asked Ellison to accompany Tonner back to Mahan so Tonner could gather his belongings from his office since Tonner was going to be transferred to another DOC facility.

    f. Because Tonner was visibly upset, Ellison asked Alfonso if Tonner's supervisor, Scott, could not be present at Mahan when they went there to clear out Tonner's belongings.

g. Alfonso agreed to Ellison's request, and contacted Scott to ask him to not be present at Mahan when Tonner went back to collect his belongings. Scott complied and left Mahan before Tonner's arrival.

3. After leaving the meeting, Ellison encountered Leonard at DOC headquarters and asked her to accompany him and Tonner to Mahan.

a. In addition to being a senior investigator with SID, Leonard was also Sergeant-at-Arms for the FOP.

4. Upon arrival at Mahan, Ellison and Tonner went into Tonner's office, and Leonard remained outside the office.

5. Caldwell-McCray was present at Mahan when Tonner, Ellison, and Leonard arrived to clear out Tonner's office, but did not accompany Ellison and Tonner into Tonner's office—instead, she remained in her office at the facility.

6. Upon entering Tonner's office, Tonner stated to Ellison, "why the fuck did you tell them not to have that pussy Gerome here? I was going to shoot that motherfucker." Neither Caldwell-McCray nor Leonard were present in Tonner's office at that time to hear the verbal exchange between Ellison and Tonner.

7. During this exchange, Tonner was armed with his DOC service firearm.

8. Following this verbal exchange, Ellison summoned Leonard to Tonner's office.

9. When Leonard entered Tonner's office, Tonner continued packing his belongings. Tonner appeared red-faced, and his eyes were watering while he was packing.

10. As he continued to pack, Tonner kept repeating that he was upset and mad. Tonner was complaining about requesting a transfer to another SID office to get away from "that steroid motherfucker" which Leonard believed to be a reference to Scott.

11. In the presence of Leonard, Ellison asked Tonner to repeat what he just said.

12. Tonner refused, responding to Ellison that "every time I talk to you [(Ellison)], I get in trouble."

13. Ellison left the building with Leonard and went to his car, leaving Tonner in his office. Ellison told Leonard that Tonner had just verbally threatened to shoot Scott and asked her to go back inside and get Tonner's gun.

14. Leonard returned inside and spoke to Tonner, explaining to him what Ellison had told her about his threat to shoot Scott. When Leonard asked Tonner for his weapon, Tonner did not agree to turn the weapon over. Tonner told Leonard that he was just venting and that he "was not going to do anything to that man." (R-4.)

15. Ellison notified Alfonso about the incident, and Alfonso contacted Soltys to inform him of what had been reported to him and to ask Soltys to go to Tonner's home and recover Tonner's service weapon. Alfonso also directed Soltys to contact HCPO to inform them of the incident and refer the matter to them for possible criminal charges.

16. Soltys contacted Scott to warn him of the verbal threat made by Tonner.

17. The evening of February 15, 2017, Soltys, accompanied by other investigators with SID and police officers from the Palmer Township Pennsylvania Police Department, went to Tonner's home and Tonner surrendered his service weapon without incident.

18. Soltys asked DOC Sr. Investigator Michael Cubik to inform HCPO of the incident, which Cubik did on February 16 or 17, 2017, to refer the matter to them for possible criminal charges.

19. On June 12, 2017, Soltys received a declination letter from HCPO via email informing him that they were declining to bring criminal charges arising from the incident.

20. Soltys conducted a video-recorded interview of Tonner (R-9) on June 23, 2017, and his report of the administrative investigation (R-3) was completed on July 5, 2017, and forwarded to Alfonso.

These factual findings are supported by a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND DISCUSSION

A civil service employee's rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12.6. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointment and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council Number 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex Cnty. Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this state is to provide public officials with appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b). A public employee who is thus protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may nonetheless be subject to major discipline for a wide variety of offenses connected to his or her employment. The general causes for such discipline are enumerated in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3.

In an appeal from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof to show that the action taken was appropriate. Cumberland Farms, Inc. v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987); N.J.S.A. 11A:2.21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The authority must show by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550

(1982). An appeal requires the OAL to conduct a de novo hearing and to determine the appellant's guilt or innocence, as well as the appropriate penalty. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987); Cliff v. Morris County Bd. of Social Serv., 197 N.J. Super. 307 (App. Div. 1984).

Application of the Forty-Five-Day Rule to the Charges Against Tonner

The appellant asserts that the charges against him should be dismissed for violation of the "forty-five-day rule." Under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, charges for removal or reduction in rank against a police officer, "shall be filed no later than the 45th day after the date on which the person filing the complaint obtained sufficient information to file the matter upon which the complaint is based." The incident at issue happened on February 15, 2017, and, on the evening of the incident, Ellison sent an email to Chief Alfonso advising him of what transpired that afternoon. (R-3.) The appellant argues that Chief Alfonso was aware on February 15, 2017, of the information on which the charges against Tonner were based, but charges (R-1) were not filed against Tonner until July 19, 2017, well past the forty-five days allowed by the statute. This failure to comply with the forty-five-day rule, appellant claims, "require[s] a dismissal of the complaint." N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147.

The forty-five-day rule, by its plain language, is limited in applicability to complaints "charging a violation of the internal rules and regulations established for the conduct of a law enforcement unit" and do not apply to the general causes for major discipline listed under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). McElwee v. Borough of Fieldsboro, 400 N.J.Super. 388, 394-95 (App.Div. 2008). If it were to be applicable at all, the forty-five-day rule would only be applicable to a subset of the charges in this matter alleging violations of the HRB.

The Law Division has noted that "[t]he 45-day period runs from the date upon which the person responsible for the filing of the disciplinary complaint receives sufficient information upon which to base a complaint." Aristizibal v. City of Atlantic City, 380 N.J. Super. 405, 427–28 (Law Div. 2005). Soltys, in his testimony, explained that

DOC could not complete the administrative investigation and conduct an interview of Tonner while the matter remained with HCPO for potential criminal prosecution. Soltys' investigation was not, and could not be, completed until after HCPO referred the matter back to DOC for administrative action on June 12, 2017. (P-2.) After the matter was referred back to DOC, Soltys completed his interview of Tonner (R-9) on June 23, 2017, and his report on the administrative investigation (R-3) was completed on July 5, 2017, and forwarded to Alfonso. The preliminary notice of disciplinary action (R-1) was served on Tonner on July 14, 2017—nine days after Soltys completed his administrative investigation giving DOC adequate information upon which to base an administrative complaint against Tonner. (See P-2.)

Further limiting the application of the forty-five-day rule in this matter is the provision that the rule itself:

> [S]hall not apply if an investigation of a law enforcement officer for a violation of the internal rules or regulations of the law enforcement unit is included directly or indirectly within a concurrent investigation of that officer for a violation of the criminal laws of this State. The 45-day limit shall begin on the day after the disposition of the criminal investigation.
> [N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 (emphasis added).]

This tolling provision is designed to permit "the completion of the criminal prosecution, including grand jury and all appeals, before the governing body is required to initiate and file administrative charges." Aristizibal, 380 N.J.Super. at 425 (quoting Grubb v. Borough of Hightstown, 331 N.J.Super. 398, 405 (Law Div. 2000), aff'd 353 N.J.Super. 333 (App.Div. 2002)). The tolling avoids the inherent futility of proceeding with administrative charges while a criminal investigation is pending because:

> [I]f such a criminal investigation were pending it is hard to envision how disciplinary proceedings could proceed since the subject of such an investigation would most likely decline to testify and invoke Fifth Amendment constitutional rights [citations omitted]—and might even seek a stay of administrative proceedings pending disposition of any such criminal investigation.

Tonner's conduct, as relayed by Ellison in his email to Alfonso, stating he wanted to shoot Scott and expressing this while in possession of a service firearm, raised a credible possibility of criminal prosecution. See N.J.S.A. 2C:12-13 (criminalizing terroristic threat "to commit any crime of violence with the purpose to terrorize another"); N.J.S.A. 2C:39-4(a)(1) (criminalizing possession of a weapon "with a purpose to use it unlawfully against the person or property of another"). The incident was referred, pursuant to DOC policy, to HCPO for investigation and possible criminal prosecution on February 16 or 17, 2017. HCPO did not complete their investigation and declined to bring criminal charges until June 12, 2017, when the matter was referred back to DOC for administrative action (P-2), making June 12, 2017, the day of "the disposition of the criminal investigation" as referenced in N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147.

Even if, at the time the matter was referred back to DOC for administrative action, DOC had adequate information on which to base a complaint without waiting for the completion of Soltys' investigation, the earliest date that the forty-five-day limit "shall begin" was June 13, 2017—"the day after the disposition of the criminal investigation." N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147. The preliminary notice of disciplinary action was served on Tonner thirty-one days later, on July 14, 2017. (R-1.) Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the charges filed against Tonner on July 19, 2017, were within the forty-five-day time limit imposed by N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 and are not subject to dismissal as untimely under the provisions of that statute.

Charges

The first charge against Tonner is conduct unbecoming a public employee. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). See also In re Emmons, 63 N.J.Super. 136, 140 (App.Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the conduct complained of and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 150 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct "need not be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Department of Ridgewood, 258 N.J.Super. 32, 40 (App.Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Tonner's status as a DOC Senior Investigator subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). As a law enforcement officer, Tonner represents "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J.Super. 560, 566 (App.Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons, and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J.Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect for authority in such settings cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J.Super. 191, 199 (App.Div. 1997).

In the present case, Ellison testified credibly that he heard Tonner state that he wanted to shoot his supervisor while in a DOC facility and armed with a service firearm. Although there were circumstances which may have explained why Tonner was venting his work-related frustrations to a colleague, who was also his union representative, these comments go far beyond that. Threatening to shoot one's supervising officer in the presence of another DOC Investigator while armed with a DOC service weapon displays a significant lack of judgment, thereby violating Tonner's obligations and duties. I CONCLUDE that Tonner's behavior on February 15, 2017, did rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) and the respondent has met its burden of proof to sustain this charge.

Tonner has further been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause. There is no definition in the New Jersey Administrative Code for other sufficient cause. Other sufficient cause is generally defined in the charges against appellant. The charge of other sufficient cause has been dismissed when the "respondent has not given any substance to the allegation" Simmons v. City of Newark, CSV 9122-99, Initial Decision (February 22, 2006), adopted, Comm'r (April 26, 2006), <hjttp://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/csv9122-99.pdf>.

Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Tonner's conduct was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. The testimony that Tonner verbalized a threat to shoot his supervisor in the presence of a fellow DOC investigator (and union representative) is credible. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this charge.

Tonner has also been charged with violating provisions of DOC Human Resource Bulletin ("HRB") 84-17, including: §§ C-11 (conduct unbecoming an employee), C-24 (threatening, intimidating, harassing, coercing, or interfering with fellow employees on state property), and E-1 (violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision).

HRB 84-17, as amended, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> In any disciplinary matter, reference must always be made to the collective bargaining agreement covering the disciplined employee, relevant Department of Personnel Rules, appropriate Department bulletins or memoranda, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of New Jersey Department of Corrections, and/or the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations.

Pursuant to HRB 84-17, Tonner was required to follow all policies established by DOC and—as it relates to this case—DOC Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations. (R-6.) Under these regulations, DOC officers shall not:

> a. Engage in threatening or assaultive conduct
>
> b. Direct insulting language, or behave in a disrespectful manner while in the performance of their duty
> [R-6 at Article III, § 1.]

By threatening to shoot his direct supervisor and referring to that direct supervisor as "a steroid motherfucker" to another DOC employee, while in a DOC facility and armed with a DOC service weapon, Tonner's conduct on February 15, 2017, clearly violated these provisions. As such, I CONCLUDE that Tonner's conduct was in violation of DOC HRB 84-17 §§ C-11, C-24, and E-1 and the respondent has met its burden of proof to sustain these charges.

PENALTY

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), which was decided more than fifty years ago, the New Jersey Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Bock Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations, and the like on one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously brought to the attention of and admitted by the employee." Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-24.

"Although we recognize that a tribunal may not consider an employee's past record to prove a present charge, Bock, 38 N.J. at 523, that past record may be considered when determining the appropriate penalty for the current offense." In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 581 (1990). Ultimately, however, "it is the appraisal of the seriousness of the offense which lies at the heart of the matter." Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 205 (App.Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994). The respondent has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence the following charges against Tonner: N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, DOC HRB 84-17 §§ C-11, conduct unbecoming an employee, C-24, threatening, intimidating, harassing, coercing, or interfering with fellow employees on state property, and E-1, violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision. A sixty-working day suspension and demotion in rank to Correction Sergeant was imposed upon Tonner for his actions. The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

The appellant's prior disciplinary history (R-8) is as follows: an official reprimand for being late for duty on December 7, 1998, an official reprimand for violation of HRB 84-17 A-01 (calling an institution to request an "emergency comp day") on December 29, 2003, and a three-working-day suspension for violation of HRB 84-17 B-05 (failure or excessive delay in carrying out an order) on September 14, 2015. In mitigation, the appellant's employment history also includes the following commendations: December 20, 2002, for responding to a vehicle fire, March 20, 2003, for participation in Operation Liberty Shield at Newark Liberty International Airport, and November 3, 2005, for preventing the attempted suicide of an inmate. (Id.)

While the imposition of a sixty-working-day suspension and demotion in rank is a significant escalation from what was imposed in prior disciplinary actions, appropriate focus must be given to the nature and seriousness of Tonner's current actions. Given the serious nature of these actions—even without a prior disciplinary history—imposition of major discipline would be warranted. (See, e.g., R-12 at 11 (HRB 84-17 noting penalties for § C-24 violation first offense ranges from official written reprimand to removal).) Tonner's status as a law enforcement officer places his conduct under heightened scrutiny. His primary duty is to enforce and uphold the law. "He carries a service [weapon] on his person and is constantly called upon to exercise tact, restraint and good judgment." In re Disciplinary Procedures of Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990) (quoting Moorestown, 89 Super. at 566). Being held to this heightened standard of conduct is one of the obligations Tonner undertook "upon voluntary entry into the public service." In re Emmons, 63 N.J.Super. at 142.

When uttered by an armed law enforcement officer, there is no such thing as an "idle" threat of violence. This is especially true when that verbal threat mentions the use of a firearm, is uttered within a DOC facility, is made in the presence of another sworn law enforcement officer who is duty-bound to take appropriate action upon hearing such a threat, and the statement is made while armed with a service firearm. A threat such as the one expressed by Tonner on February 15, 2017, must be taken seriously—even if it is uttered while "venting." The rapid and proportionate response of DOC to Tonner's utterances—Ellison's immediate report of the matter to senior members of DOC's chain-of-command, Soltys making a duty-to-warn call to Scott, DOC's referral to the Hunterdon County Prosecutor's Office for possible criminal charges, and the dispatching of DOC investigators to travel to Tonner's home in Pennsylvania accompanied by local law enforcement officers on the night of the incident to secure Tonner's service weapon—all underscore the gravity of Tonner's actions. While Tonner, and all law enforcement officers, are held to a high standard, Tonner's conduct on February 15, 2017, failed to live up to that standard to exercise "tact, restraint, and good judgment."

CONCLUSION

After having considered all of the proofs offered in this matter, the impact upon the institution regarding the behavior by the appellant herein, and in light of the seriousness of the offense and in consideration of the appellant's prior disciplinary record, I CONCLUDE that Tonner's conduct on February 15, 2017, was so egregious as to warrant the sixty-working-day suspension and demotion to the rank of corrections sergeant as imposed by the appointing authority, which, in part, is meant to impress upon him, as well as others, the seriousness of his infractions.

ORDER

The respondent has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence the following charges against Tonner: N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, DOC HRB 84-17 §§ C-11, conduct unbecoming an employee, C-24, threatening, intimidating, harassing, coercing, or interfering with fellow employees on state property, and E-1, violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision. Accordingly, I ORDER that these charges be and are hereby SUSTAINED.

I ORDER that the penalty of a sixty-working-day suspension and demotion to the rank of corrections sergeant is hereby AFFIRMED. The appellant's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: NOVEMBER 23, 2018 BW

The appeals of Yolande Dubuisson, Cottage Training Technician, Woodbridge Developmental Center, Department of Human Services, two removals effective September 14, 2012, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Leslie Z. Celentano, who rendered her initial decision on October 22, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of November 21, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeals of Yolande Dubuisson.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

IN THE MATTER OF YOLANDE DUBUISSON,
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES,
WOODBRIDGE DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER.

Edward A. Berger, Esq., for appellant Yolande Dubuisson

Christopher Weber, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Department of Human Services, Woodbridge Developmental Center (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: October 9, 2018 Decided: October 22, 2018

BEFORE LESLIE Z. CELENTANO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant, Yolande Dubuisson, appeals the decision of respondent Department of Human Services (DHS), Woodbridge Developmental Center (Woodbridge), terminating her for violating DHS and Woodbridge policies against sleeping on duty on July 23, 2011, and March 26, 2012, and removing her effective September 14, 2012. Her appeals of her two removals were dismissed for failure to appear, but were reinstated following an appeal. See In re Dubuisson, Dep't of Human Servs., No. A-1898-13T2 (App. Div. April 2, 2015), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/.

By way of background, appellant and her attorney failed to appear at a settlement conference at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 11, 2012. By notice dated December 13, 2012, they were notified that they had failed to appear and that the matter was being returned to the transmitting agency. The Failure to Appear Notice also instructed that if appellant still wished to have a hearing, she was required to explain in writing to the Civil Service Commission (Commission) why she did not appear, and do so within thirteen days of the notice.

Eight months later, on August 14, 2013, appellant appealed to the Commission, claiming that she had sent letters to the OAL requesting that the matter be rescheduled, but had not received a reply. Appellant's counsel claimed he had mistakenly sent his December 2012 request to reschedule the matter to the OAL, and not to the Commission as required. He provided an unsigned letter and blank certified-mail receipt. Appellant also claimed that they did not appear because neither she nor her attorney received notice of the settlement conference. The Commission denied the appeal, noting that the appeal ultimately filed was dated more than five months after the dismissal of the matter.

The matter was appealed to the Appellate Division, and appellant's counsel presented a signed return receipt for the 2012 letter, which had originally not been provided. The Appellate Division determined to grant his request to "supplement the record," and reversed the Commission's decision, remanding the matter to "reconsider the appellant's request in light of the new evidence." On remand, appellant reiterated that no notice had been received of the hearing and that, in any event, she should not be penalized for the errors of her attorney. The appointing authority, in turn, maintained that although counsel received the Failure to Appear Notice, there was no compliance with the instructions to send the request to the Commission. Moreover, the request was nearly eight months late, and a signed certified-mail receipt not offered until more than two years after the December 2012 letter is claimed to have been sent. The Commission also urged that it had been substantially prejudiced by the delay, especially in that Woodbridge Developmental Center had closed; files and documents are in storage; and a witness has retired and moved out of state.

Thereafter, the Appellate Division determined to reverse the Commission's decision, and the matter was remanded for hearing as a contested case.

By Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) dated October 25, 2011, respondent advised appellant of the charges and specifications as follows:

Charges:

> B.3 Sleeping while on duty.
> E.1 Violation of a policy and/or procedures. Second Infraction.

Specifications:

> On July 23, 2011, at approximately 4:00 a.m. during rounds the CTS, Lessie Anderson and Stephen Long, HCTS observed you sleeping. You were sitting in a chair with your head bent down and your back was to the entrance of dorm A. Upon entering the dorm area, they observed that your eyes were closed and you remained unaware of their presence until they called your name to awaken you.

By Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated September 14, 2012, appellant was removed effective September 24, 2012.

By PNDA dated May 8, 2012, respondent advised appellant of the additional charges and specifications as follows:

Charges:

> B.3 Sleeping while on duty. 3rd Infraction.

E.1 Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order. 3rd infraction.

Specifications:

On March 26, 2012, Mrs. Alexander (ASRL) made rounds in C/16. At approximately 3:15 a.m. she entered dorm B and observed what appeared to be Ms. Dubuisson sleeping.

By Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 14, 2012, appellant was removed effective September 14, 2012.

A disciplinary hearing was scheduled for August 30, 2012, at which time the charges were sustained. The decisions were appealed, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on June 17, 2015, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held over three days, and following receipt of post-hearing submissions and copies of all exhibits, the record closed.

TESTIMONY

Stephen J. Long

Mr. Long testified that he is employed by the DHS at the New Lisbon Developmental Center. He has been employed by the DHS for twenty-three years in various positions, including human services assistant (HSA); cottage training technician (CTT); resident service worker; cottage training supervisor (CTS); and head cottage training supervisor (HCTS), which is his current position. He was the HCTS at Cottage 16 at Woodbridge at the time of the incidents in the within matter. He oversees the entire building and supervises CTSs.

In Cottage 16 there were six CTSs. He worked various shifts, often 3:00 pm to 11:00 p.m. or the midnight shift, which he did every week. His normal hours were 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. He testified that sometimes he came in later and stayed into the night.

The CTSs were accountable for all staff and patients on their shifts, and each individual resident has staff assigned to them. CTTs worked directly with individuals and helped train HSAs and new employees, and worked one-to-one with individuals to bathe them, help them get dressed, take them to programs, and assist with meals and oral hygiene. CTTs also worked overnight shifts to keep an eye on residents and make sure they were sleeping and not soiled, and help them with the bathroom overnight if needed. They also were required to check on everyone periodically overnight.

The residents were developmentally disabled, and some had obsessive-compulsive or self-injurious behavior. Restraints were not used, so the individuals often needed redirection or physical prompting. Some were autistic and some had dementia; half were verbal and the other half were not. Some residents were incontinent. Some residents would at times try to leave their area without permission if not closely supervised, and others were aggressive towards others and needed to be watched. Staff was there to prevent and address these behaviors.

On July 23, 2011, Mr. Long arrived at approximately 4:15 a.m. to Cottage 16. He testified that he went in the front entrance, put his things down in the office, and then went to the CTS office to see who was on duty. He then did his rounds to check and make sure staff was in place and individuals were all accounted for. His tour took him down to the dorm area and through the hallway.

On the date in question he met with Ms. Anderson, a CTS, who was in her office. Ms. Anderson made his rounds with him, and as they entered the door into the dorm area, they observed appellant at a table with her back facing them and her head down. She was unresponsive and did not notice them walk in or stand next to her. Mr. Long testified that appellant did not respond at all when he asked Ms. Anderson for the sleep log, and when Ms. Anderson retrieved it and showed it to him, he saw that it was all filled in. (R-4.)

He noted his findings in the midnight-shift cottage log (R-5) that rounds had been made and that appellant was observed sleeping with her head down and not moving, and that this had also been observed by the CTS. The notation was made at 4:03 a.m., and all of the sleep logs were current when he saw appellant sleeping. Ms. Anderson then called appellant's name and received no response. She then called her name again and appellant woke up and reached for the sleep log.

Mr. Long completed a Sleeping on Duty Form on July 23, 2011, at 4:03 a.m. (R-6) and signed the form. This document is used when someone is observed sleeping on duty. Appellant did not hear them come in; did not hear them talking; and did not hear them take the sleep log and discuss it. In fact, she was not aware of their presence until they called her name twice. Appellant could not see the residents from where she was sitting. Appellant was responsible for only one patient, H.H., who had 1:1 care. Patients on 1:1 care have their own paperwork and their own book, and the log is kept with the employee responsible for that patient.

Emrice-Carla Alexander

Ms. Alexander is employed by Amazon as an associate and works in the sort center. She testified that she has been there for eight weeks, after being employed by the Department for twenty-three years, eleven months, and thirteen days. She testified that she was bumped at the end of June 2014, and her last day was July 8, 2014.

She worked at Woodbridge for her entire time with the Department, and was an HSA in 1993. In 1994 or 1995 she became a CTT. In 1999 she became a CTS, and in 2005 an HCTS. She supervised an entire building, including all staff and supervisors under her and all three shifts. In 2010 she became an assistant supervisor for residential living (ASRL), and that was her position in 2012.

The variety of patients at Woodbridge ranged from mildly autistic and high-functioning patients that went to school, to patients in wheelchairs or requiring total care or with physical deformities. As an ASRL her responsibilities included all three shifts, and she also worked from midnight to 8:00 a.m. There were no supervisors working that shift, so she had to go around the buildings and make sure all patients were properly cared for, and that staff was awake and aware and keeping track of patients, and performing their job functions. She was called every hour regarding the status of the buildings and was responsible for all paperwork. Anything that happened in the buildings was her responsibility, and she was required to report on incidents and had complete oversight. She reported to her supervisor or to Mary Jo Kurtiak, who was the CEO of the Center.

Ms. Alexander made rounds every night and went to each building, speaking to staff, checking on patients, and taking care of anything that needed doing. She testified that CTTs had to do a physical check of all patients every day when they came in, and were required to check the log book and see the status of each patient. They also had to do a proper body check of the patients. A discreet body check is done when a patient is in bed, but the next morning a full body check is done once they are awake and getting washed up and dressed for the day. There is a body-check book which indicates all details, including a "BM" book where bowel movements are documented, and everything is in binders. They also had to check on the patients every fifteen minutes and make sure they were breathing, and make entries in the sleep logs. Some patients had to be turned every two hours in bed, and some had to be elevated due to feeding tubes, and that was done with the aid of a nurse, to prevent chocking when sleeping. Some individuals awoke at different times overnight, and some had seizures or outbursts of behavior and would become combative and could hurt others. Some patients were also somewhat independent and could go to the bathroom by themselves; however, some would try and leave the building.

She recalled an incident involving appellant in March 2012 while making her rounds, which she did typically around 3:00 a.m. The buildings are in a circle, and so she would walk from the building in the center where her office is, up the hill, and then go around to the different cottages shaped like a hexagon. She went in the front door of building 18 and then out the back, and then in the back door of the next and out the front, etc. There were two dorms per cottage, dorm A and dorm B, and four rooms in each dorm, with four beds per room.

On the day in question she entered through the laundry-room door of building 16. Full capacity of each dorm is thirty-two patients; however, the facility was transitioning, so it was not full, and some patients had been transferred elsewhere. The dorms were on the left side of the building, and there was a nurse's station, a CTS office, a dining room, and a classroom on the right side. In the middle were bathrooms and showers. She went in the laundry-room door, went to the left approximately twenty-five steps and into dorm B through the double doors,[1] then said "good morning" out loud. She testified that the buildings were cinder block and noise echoed, and no public-address system was needed because when she said good morning it echoed through the building. She received no response to her greeting. On that date appellant was to her left, asleep. She stood there for a few seconds because she could not believe her eyes. She testified that she went to the CTS office to get CTS Jackson and asked him to walk with her to dorm B, and asked, "what are we going to do about this," to which Jackson shook his head. CTS Jackson went to appellant and tapped her, and she opened her eyes and said, "what?" CTS Jackson then said, "you were sleeping." Alexander testified that appellant was facing her, as was another staff member, and she could see that her eyes were closed, and her head was leaning against the doorframe. Appellant had her back to the bedroom door, and Alexander went to get CTS Jackson because she wanted a witness to see what she saw. Ms. Alexander prepared a report and copied the CEO, and her supervisor, and the head cottage supervisor Mr. Long, and Ms. Holmes, the unit manager (ASPRS). (R-9.)

Alexander testified that a log is kept in every cottage, recording any and all incidents, even things like someone stubbing their toe or cutting themselves, and when staff has lunch and breaks. Absolutely everything is logged. She also kept a log and wrote entries in black if they were related to staff and in red if related to a resident. Staff was required to keep patient sleep logs; they are supposed to check patients every fifteen minutes and make an entry with initials as to the status of the patient, to be sure that they are checked on often. Alexander testified that she checked the sleep log after Jackson woke appellant, and the books were all filled in, one up to 3:30 a.m. and appellant's up to 5:00 a.m., and this was at 3:10 or 3:15 a.m., when she was making her rounds.

Ms. Alexander was transferred to the New Lisbon Developmental Center when Woodbridge closed, and was an ASRL there too. Ultimately it was too far to travel so she retired.

[1] Alexander testified in great detail about the cottages, the cottage numbers, the layout, and even where the closets were located. She had tremendous recall of the details.

Steve Jackson

Steve Jackson is employed at Hunterdon Developmental Center (Hunterdon) and is a CTS. He has been with the Department for twenty years and has held multiple positions.

He was at Woodbridge for approximately thirteen years. During that time, he supervised, at various times, Cottages 10, 11, 12, 15 and 16, and in 2012 was supervisor of Cottage 16. He was responsible for making rounds every fifteen or thirty minutes and was responsible for the well-being of the staff and residents. The direct-care staff was responsible for getting residents dressed, helping with their teeth, choosing their clothes, and dealing with all of their needs. Jackson testified that he worked primarily the midnight shift, and at times the 3:00-p.m. shift. Rounds are done to check up on everyone and periodic calls are made to the office to confirm that everything is okay. If a supervisor is out of the building, the CTTs can take charge. They need to make sure that individuals do not leave out a window or door and make sure that everyone is sleeping at night, and need to enter information into a log.

Mr. Jackson testified that in March 2012 he was a supervisor in Cottage 16. He knows appellant, and recalls a disciplinary incident involving appellant that came to his attention. The ASPRS was making rounds and came to him and indicated that two staff members were sleeping. He then walked over with Ms. Alexander and observed appellant and another staff member asleep. Each was sitting at the end of a table asleep, ten feet from him. The lights were on, and appellant's head was leaned over to the side and her eyes were closed. This was the case with the other individual also. He woke up the male staff member by tapping on his shoulder, and then woke appellant by tapping on her shoulder. Ms. Alexander informed him that she wanted a statement prepared that day, and he did so and sent it to her directly.

Jackson testified that both he and the direct-care staff monitor residents' sleep in a sleep log every fifteen to thirty minutes. Notations must be made as to whether a resident is awake or asleep. Jackson testified that he checked the sleep logs at the time, and the sleep log for Cottage 16, dorm B (R-13) had already been filled in.

Jackson testified that he has a great memory of the incident because there is constant training, and this was the only incident like this he experienced.

Theresa Holmes

Theresa Holmes works at the Green Brook Regional Center and is the assistant supervisor of professional residential services (ASPRS). She has worked for the Department for thirty-nine years and has been at Green Brook since September 2015. Prior to that she was at Hunterdon for one month, and prior to that at Woodbridge from 1979 until February 2015. She was a direct-care staff member, then a supervisor, then an OD (ASRL), and then the ASPRS. Her responsibilities included staff safety, client safety, client care, and making sure the staff was doing their jobs and the building was safe. She supervised OD's, head supervisors, and CTTs, and was an ASRL at Woodbridge when she left.

In 2012 she was an SPRS, and her responsibilities included staff discipline, getting statements and reports, and gathering information and investigating. She is familiar with Department policies and procedures, and those of the facility also. Holmes knew appellant and knew of the prior discipline and incidents.[2] Initially, the head CTT supervisor, Stephen Long, brought the matter to her attention, and once it was reported to her she asked Long for the statements he had and reviewed everything. She determined that discipline was warranted. The CTTs were at Woodbridge to serve the residents, and overnight staff need to be awake and taking care of residents. The Sleeping on Duty Policy (R-2) must be referred to when someone is found asleep. The definition of "sleeping on duty" contained within that policy provides that an employee who is considered to be asleep is guilty of neglect of duty and is subject to major discipline, including termination. An individual can have their eyes closed and not be asleep, but if they do not respond one can assume they are asleep, and an individual does not need to be actually asleep to trigger the policy. Sleeping on duty is a very serious offense, and residents have at times died overnight, and so staff needs to be constantly checking on people overnight. The policy was violated, because appellant was asleep or appeared to be.

The Disciplinary Action Program (R-3) provides at page six that for the first infraction the penalty is a minimum of five days' suspension up to a maximum of removal, and the second infraction requires removal. The same policy provides at page 13 that the penalty for a first offense of violating a rule, regulation, policy, or procedure can range from counseling to removal, and the second offense prescribes a penalty of a minimum of a five-day suspension to a maximum of removal. Holmes obtained statements from the staff involved and initially learned about the incident from Ms. Alexander in an email. Employees were all made aware of the seriousness of these policies. Mr. Long also reported the incident to her and provided a write-up.

Yolande Dubuisson

Ms. Dubuisson testified that she lives in Willingboro, New Jersey, and was employed at Woodbridge from 2003 until 2012. She had the 3:00-p.m.-to-11:00-p.m. shift for the first three months of her employment, and after that worked the 11:00-p.m.-to-7:00-a.m. shift. Her shift was switched because one of her daughters has cerebral palsy and needed care during the day. During the evenings her other daughter stayed and watched her sister, so she needed the 11:00-p.m.-to-7:00-a.m. shift.

Dubuisson testified that she was not asleep on March 26, 2012, and that her head was not against the wall. She had been scheduled for her annual CPR training that day but did not go. She stated that when Alexander came back from doing her rounds she was awake; she knew Alexander was there and said nothing to her. She testified that Alexander looked into the rooms, checked the sleep log, and then left.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The Civil Service Act and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto govern the rights and duties of a civil service employee. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.1 to 4A:2-6.2. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties or who gives other just cause may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6, -20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3.

In an appeal such as this from a disciplinary action that resulted in the termination of employment, the appointing authority has the burden of proving the charges upon which it relied by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Precisely what is needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of the credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Credibility, or, more specifically, credible testimony, in turn, must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554–55 (1954). Both guilt and penalty are redetermined on appeal from a determination by the appointing authority. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Appellant is charged with violation of the Sleeping on Duty Policy. The definition of "sleeping on duty" within the policy provides:

> An employee who is either visibly asleep or who presents as though they may be asleep (as indicated by: eyes being closed for an extended period, relaxed posture, non-recognition that another individual has entered the immediate environment, lack of response when their name is called, heavy respirations or snoring, covered with a blanket or jacket, feet propped on a chair, etc.)[.] When these conditions are confirmed the employee is considered to be asleep, is guilty of neglect of their assigned duties, and is therefore subject to major disciplinary action up to and including termination.

The trier of fact must weigh the witnesses' credibility in order to make factual findings. Credibility is the value that the fact finder gives to testimony of a witness and contemplates an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Credible testimony must proceed from the mouth of a credible witness and must be such as common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955); Gilson v. Gilson, 116 N.J. Eq. 556, 560 (E. & A. 1934). A fact finder is expected to base credibility decisions on his or her common sense and life experiences. State v. Daniels, 182 N.J. 80, 99 (2004). Credibility is not dependent on the number of witnesses who appeared, State v. Thompson, 59 N.J. 396, 411 (1971), and the finder of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness, In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 521–22 (1950).

I found Stephen J. Long, Emrice-Carla Alexander, Steve Jackson, and Theresa Holmes to be extremely credible witnesses, offering truthful testimony. Each testified clearly and concisely as to how each was involved in this matter and the steps taken to investigate this matter, and no competent evidence was presented to dispute any of their testimony. Accordingly, I FIND and adopt the entirety of the testimony of Stephen J. Long, Emrice-Carla Alexander, Steve Jackson, and Theresa Holmes as FACT.

In the within matter, respondent asserts, and I agree, that appellant violated the Sleeping on Duty Policy. The testimony of respondent's witnesses was extremely clear, credible, detailed, and consistent and their testimony was entitled to more weight than the denials of appellant regarding her conduct on July 23, 2011, and March 26, 2012. The observations of respondent's witnesses amply confirm that appellant was found sleeping on duty not once, but twice. Their strong testimony was further corroborated by documentary evidence. Sleeping while on duty is an extremely serious offense because of the safety threat to vulnerable patients, as well as to staff. Respondent's witnesses testified at length as to the need to be vigilant with the care of patients with significant health concerns. The administrative policy requires removal after the second infraction, and these two incidents constitute the second and third infractions of sleeping while on duty.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that respondent has amply met its burden of proof by a preponderance of the credible evidence as to the charges in this matter and that the penalty imposed was appropriate, indeed it was required, under the circumstances.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that all the charges are sustained and the appellant's removal from her employment is AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 4009-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2016 2936

IN THE MATTER OF DOREEN D. MEHESKI, COUNTY OF MERCER. DEPARTMENT OF THE CLERK.

Jeffrey J. Dunn, Esq., for appellant Doreen D. Meheski (Weir & Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Stephanie Ruggieri D'Amico, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent County of Mercer (Paul R. Adezio, County Counsel, attorney)

Record Closed: October 2, 2018 Decided: October 25, 2018

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ (Ret., on recall):

Doreen Meheski was employed with the Mercer County Clerk's Office as a senior clerk typist. On October 7, 2015, her employer served her with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), charging that she had been chronically or excessively absent or late, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(4); had engaged in conduct that was unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2.2.3(a)(6) and "other sufficient cause", specifically, "chronic or excessive work without pay (Step 7)", N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). Following a departmental hearing, a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued on February 2, 2016, removing Ms. Meheski from her position. She appealed this determination to the Civil Service Commission. On March 14, 2016, the Commission transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law. On December 16, 2016, the appointing authority filed a motion for summary decision, as authorized by N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. On January 9, 2017, counsel representing Ms. Meheski filed a reply to the motion. On September 4, 2018, the file was transferred to this judge, retired on recall, due to the voluminous calendar of the previously assigned judge.

In its motion seeking summary decision, the appointing authority, supporting its contentions with certifications from its Deputy Clerk, Walker Worthy, and from Maureen Sparano, employed in the Personnel Department as a clerk transcriber and, at the time of her certification, as a principal personnel technician, offers that the appellant worked in a position whose job title was included in the bargaining unit represented by AFSCME 2287. Her work schedule, governed by Articles 4.1 and 4.3 of the Agreement, consisted of a work day of seven hours per day with one-hour paid lunch, Monday through Friday. Paid time off was covered by the Agreement. Article 9.1 permitted bereavement days, with employees receiving five days for the death of specified immediate family members. Article 9.4(b) provided employees were to receive fifteen sick days per year. Article 9.4(k) provided that sick days would not accrue while an employee was on leave without pay, except for military leave,). Article 9.6 provided that full-time employees receive three personal days per year. The amount of vacation time an employee was entitled to depended upon the employee's number of years of employment, Article 22. As of the time of her termination, the appellant had been employed for twenty-four years and received twenty-five vacation days at the beginning of 2015. Under Article 22.11 vacation credits would not accrue while an employee was on leave without pay, except for military leave.

As of the beginning of calendar year 2015, Ms. Maheski was entitled to 105 hours of sick time, 210 hours of vacation time and 21 hours of personal time. According to the appointing authority, during the month of January 2015, she utilized seven hours of vacation time on January 2, 5, 6, 7, 9, 13, 14, 16, 20, 21, 29 and 30. In February, she used 7 hours of vacation time on February 10, 13 and 26. In March, she used 7 hours on March 4,1.5 hours on March 17, .50 on March 19, 7 hours on March 24 and 25, .50 on March 26 and 7 hours on March 31. In April, she used to .50 hours on April 1 and 3.5 hours on April 9. In August, she used 3.5 hours on August 7 and 1.75 hours on August 27. Then on September 24, she used 2 hours of vacation time.

During 2015, Ms. Maheski used 7 hours of sick time on January 12, 15, 26 and 28. In February she used 7 hours on February 2, 3.5 hours on February 4, 7 hours on February 9, and 7 hours each on February 11, 12, 17, 18, 19, and 20. She also used 3.5 hours on February 25 and 7 hours on February 27. She used 7 hours of personal time on January 23 and August 25, 2015.

Ms. Maheski was docked hours on the following days in 2015: 7 hours on March 3, March 5 and March 6; 1.5 hours on March 20, 6.5 hours on March 26, 7 hours on March 2, 7 hours on April 8, and 7 hours on September 21.

In summary, the appointing authority asserts that as of April 20, 2015, the appellant had utilized 105 hours of sick time, 141.5 hours of vacation time and 7 hours of personal time. She was suspended without pay from April 20 through July 24, 2015. During that period of suspension, paid time off did not accrue.[1] She was prorated 7 hours of personal time, 61.25 hours of vacation time and 30.63 hours of sick time. Thus, when she returned to work on July 28, she had no hours of sick time remaining, 7.25 hours of vacation time remaining and 7 hours of personal time remaining.

According to Maureen Sparano's certification, Ms. Maheski called out of work on September 21, 2015. She had no time off available for her to utilize as of that date. When she returned to work the following day, she advised the deputy clerk that two family members, an aunt and cousin, had passed away the preceding Friday and that on Monday she had been tired. She also advised the deputy clerk that there was a funeral scheduled for that Wednesday and that she would be attending, utilizing, according to Mr. Worthy's certification, her remaining two hours of vacation time. The deputy clerk discussed the absence of September 21, with the clerk and disciplinary charges were initiated. When the charges were sustained following a departmental hearing, the penalty was determined based upon reference to the Mercer County Table of Offenses and Penalties. Reference to Ms. Maheski's prior disciplinary record, combined with the findings of violations of the applicable Administrative Code provisions which formed the basis for the PNDA, resulted in a determination that she should be removed from her position, as the infractions charged constituted a Step 7 infraction, for which the penalty authorized under the Table of Offenses and Penalties was removal.

[1] As explained at oral argument, while an employee had an allotment of fifteen days sick time for a year which could be utilized at any time during the year, sick time was actually accumulated on a monthly basis, at one and one-quarter day each month. Thus, if an employee was out of work for a period when sick leave did not accrue, the total sick time available to the employee for the calendar year would be reduced by a prorated amount.

. In moving for summary decision, the appointing authority asserts that none of the material facts are in genuine dispute. Therefore, under the principles laid out in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995), the appointing authority is entitled to summary decision in its favor, in that the appellant violated the provisions of the Administrative Code by her excessive and chronic absenteeism, which constitutes conduct which is unbecoming a public employee, as it affects the morale and operations of the County Clerk's Office.

In response to the motion, the appellant initially produced only a letter reply, unsupported by any affidavits or other evidentiary materials. However, counsel for the appellant points to the documentation offered by the respondent in support of its motion, asserting that while his client does not dispute the days from work that would missed, as they are outlined in the appointing authority's brief, nevertheless, reference to the chart on pages 3 and 4 of that brief shows that she only used 14 sick days in 2015, not 15. On September 17, 2018, Ms. Meheski provided an Affidavit. In it she claims that prior to 2015, she had no disciplinary record, but in 2015 she "refused to take part in an office event, a wedding, due to sincerely-held religious beliefs." She offers that she believes that her refusal led to "the supervisors at the County Clerk's Office seeking ways to remove me from the office." She was forced to miss work due to her own personal health problems and those of her mother, for whom she "was the primary caretaker." She used leave approved by New Jersey law, as well as sick and vacation time. She claims that she was "wrongfully told that I had exhausted my sick time for 2015, and was put in docked status for missed time, and a series of disciplinary actions were taken against me, including multiple suspensions." She did not appeal these "due to fear of furthering animosity and my belief in civil obedience." She acknowledges having called out on September 21, 2015, due to the death of two relatives. Due to her diagnosed depression, these caused "me to suffer debilitating bereavement." She offers that prior to her termination, Tammy Barringer, a timekeeper in the County Clerk's office, told her "that I had some additional form of administrative leave, such as FMLA, available to me that I could have taken during my absences." She states that Barringer told her that this had not been brought to Meheski's attention because, "they wouldn't let me tell you." Another employee, Yochin Duffell, "previously told me that "they are trying to get you fired." When she received her notice of termination, she requested that her union representative represent her, but he refused to do so.

In reply to the affidavit, counsel for the County offers documentary evidence that Ms. Meheski knew about FMLA, as in 2010, she received a notice explaining that her request for a medical leave of absence that met the requirements under the FMLA, had been approved, while in 2013 and 2014, she applied on several occasions for medical leave which was approved, although the forms presented as evidence note that while these requests for medical leave and then for an extension of previously approved medical leave were granted, these requests did "not meet the requirements under the FMLA . . . ." Counsel notes that Meheski's affidavit does not dispute that on September 21, 2015 she called out without having any time available for her to use.

As the appointing authority correctly argues, Ms. Meheski has not denied that she called out of work on September 21, 2015, because, as she offers, of the death of two relatives. She claims that these deaths caused debilitating bereavement. She also notes that she had been diagnosed with depression. She offers no evidence to support the latter contention, but even if she was so debilitated by these losses, that does not change the fact that when she called out she did not have any available sick time to utilize to cover her absence. She makes assertions that employees told her that she "had additional time available to her" of some undefined type that "they" apparently purposely, "wouldn't let [Ms. Barringer] tell" her about, and that she was told by an employee that "they" were trying to get rid of her. She also refers to some alleged animus to her, relating to her religious beliefs, that she "believe[s]" caused "the supervisors"[2] in the office to seek ways to remove her. Yet she does not appear to deny that she was absent as frequently as the appointing authority claims, or the records offered document. And she acknowledges that she received a series of disciplinary actions that she did not appeal, offering as a reason for not challenging them her "fear of further animosity" and her "belief in civil obedience." Thus, it appears that while the appellant does not deny the essential facts upon which the appointing authority seeks summary decision, including the multiple days when she was absent due to, it must be assumed, sickness, including September 21, 2015, as well as the multiple prior steps of discipline to which she was subjected, she seems to seek to raise the possibility that her assertion of religious beliefs was the cause of what she seemingly sees as a plot to remove her. The sole cited reference to anything that she contends might have prompted this animus is her refusal in 2015 to take part in what she describes as an office event, identified as a wedding, in which she apparently "refused to take part" "due to sincerely-held religious beliefs." Her affidavit does not indicate exactly what she means by not taking part and not taking "part in the ceremony", although it may be that she means to attend the event. She does not indicate if this was a wedding involving office personnel, or a wedding that was taking place in the Clerk's office between non-office personnel. She does not explain how she manifested this refusal, whether she ever told anyone why she would not "take part." Indeed, she makes no reference to ever having revealed her "sincerely-held religious beliefs" to anyone in the office, whether to supervisors or to staff members.

The New Jersey Supreme Court defined the standard for determining motions for summary decision in Brill v. The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, et al., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In this case, the Court elaborated upon the standards first established in Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J 67, 74-75 (1954). Under the Brill standard, a motion for summary decision may only be granted where there are no "genuine disputes" of "material fact." The determination as to whether disputes of material fact exist is made after a "discriminating search" of the record, consisting as it may of affidavits, certifications, documentary exhibits and any other evidence filed by the movant and any such evidence filed in response to the motion, with all reasonable inferences arising from the evidence being accorded to the opponent of the motion. In order to defeat the motion, the opposing party must establish the existence of "genuine" disputes of material fact. The substantive law governing a dispute determines which facts are material. Only disputes regarding "those facts that might affect the outcome of the suit under the governing law will properly preclude the entry of summary judgment." Dungee v. Northeast Foods, Inc., 940 F. Supp 682, 685 (D.N.J. 1996), quoting Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248, 106 S. Ct. 2505, 2511, 91 L. Ed.2d 202, 211 (1986) (Anderson).

[2] It appears that Meheski's references to "they" telling Barringer not to tell her of time available to her and the "they" referred to by Duffell are references to "supervisors." Nowhere does Meheski identify which supervisor(s) were the one or ones seeking her ouster or the withholding of the information from her. Also, nowhere does she identify whether Duffell was personally told of the intent to get her fired, or whether Duffell only was reporting hearsay information.

In Judson, at 75, the Supreme Court stated that the material facts allegedly in dispute upon which the party opposing the motion relies to defeat the motion must be something more than "facts which are immaterial or of an insubstantial nature, a mere scintilla, fanciful, frivolous, gauzy or merely suspicious, . . . ," (citations omitted). Brill focuses upon the analytical procedure for determining whether a purported dispute of material fact is "genuine" or is simply of an "insubstantial nature." Brill, at 530. Brill concludes that the same analytical process used to decide motions for a directed verdict is used to resolve summary decision motions. "The essence of the inquiry in each is the same: 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that a party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Id. at 536, quoting Anderson, at 477 U.S. 251-52, 106 S.Ct 2505, 2512, 91 L.Ed 2d 214. In searching the proffered evidence to determine the motion, the judge must be guided by the applicable substantive evidentiary standard of proof, that is, the "burden of persuasion" which would apply at trial on the merits, whether that is the preponderance of the evidence or the clear and convincing evidence standard. If a careful review under this standard establishes that no reasonable fact finder could resolve the disputed material facts in favor of the party opposing the motion, then the uncontradicted facts thus established can be examined in the light of the applicable substantive law to determine whether or not the movant is clearly entitled to judgment as a matter of law.

However, where the proofs in the record are such that "reasonable minds could differ" as to the material facts, then the motion must be denied and a full evidentiary hearing held.

Ms. Meheski's comments concerning some alleged animus arising from a 2015 wedding and her "refusal to take part" are properly characterized, from an evidentiary standpoint, as a mere "scintilla" of "gauzy" assertions that are both "insubstantial" in character and, in the absence of any detail and supporting evidence, "immaterial." As noted, she fails to provide any details about the circumstances of the wedding and of her "refusal." She provides hearsay about "they" wanting to get her out of the office and of withholding, at the behest of "they," of some unspecified information about additional leave time. And she does not explain, with any particularity, how the alleged animus might provide any defense to the undisputed facts of her numerous absences and her use of all available sick time prior to her calling out sick on September 21, 2015. As for her comment about the debilitating impact of the two deaths, while it may well be that she was devastated by these unfortunate events, it is still the fact that she called out sick and had no sick time available to utilize. As such, I FIND that the material facts underlying the appointing authority's charges and supporting its motion are undisputed.

I FIND that on September 25, 2015, Ms. Meheski called in sick. As of that date, she did not have any available sick time to utilize. She had exhausted her allotted number of sick days for calendar year 2015. Her annual allotment of fifteen sick days was reduced due to her having been out of work on suspension without pay earlier that year, which properly resulted in the reduction of her allotted sick days as per the contract between the bargaining unit and the County. I FIND that her use of sick time that was unavailable constituted an abuse of sick time and continued what was a pattern of chronic and excessive absence as established by prior disciplinary actions. I FIND that, for the reasons explained above, Ms. Meheski's allusions to some sort of religious animus and of an attempt to terminate her employment apparently arising from such animus constitute the sort of "insubstantial" and "gauzy" assertions of fact that the Supreme Court identified as insufficient to establish the existence of relevant, material and genuine factual disputes that can defeat summary decision in the face of undisputed facts that support the motion. In addition, to the extent these allusions may be viewed as seeking to raise legal defenses to an otherwise established factual basis for a finding of violations of the Administrative Code and for removal, the same analysis applies. As such, I CONCLUDE that the undisputed facts establish that Ms. Meheski was chronically or excessively absent or late, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(4) and engaged in conduct that was unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2.2.3(a)(6) and constituted "other sufficient cause", specifically, "chronic or excessive work without pay(Step 7)", N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

It is fundamental to the relationship between employer and employee that the employee will appear for work when scheduled. A contractual agreement that establishes the right of an employer to a specific number of days of sick time that may be taken during each calendar year establishes a framework for determining if the employee honors the limits or not. Here, the employee on this occasion, as before, failed to appear for work when she did not have any available sick time remaining. This establishes that the employee was guilty of excessive absenteeism.

> New Jersey courts have applied the standard of "conduct unbecoming" in numerous cases involving the discipline of police officers. For instance, in In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136 (1960), the Appellate Division confronted the issue whether an off-duty police officer's refusal to cooperate and to submit to a sobriety test following an automobile accident constituted "conduct unbecoming an officer." Id. at 140. The court observed that "[t]he phrase is an elastic one," that "has been defined as 'any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the bureau . . . [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect for municipal employees and confidence in the operation of municipal services.'" Ibid. (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (Pa. 1959)).
> [Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998)].

Certainly, when an employee fails to appear for work as scheduled that employee has acted in a manner that, by definition, affects the efficiency of the employing agency. And where the conduct is chronic, not only is this tendency to impair efficiency exacerbated, but the conduct can also negatively affect the public perception of the agency. Thus, Ms. Meheski's failure to appear and her excessive absenteeism does constitute conduct unbecoming a public employee.

As noted, Ms. Meheski does not dispute her prior disciplinary record. Her unsanctioned absence on September 25, 2015, was the latest of a string of such absences. The Table of Offenses utilized by the County allowed for removal for a seventh offense. I CONCLUDE that removal was the appropriate penalty.

ORDER

The County's motion for summary decision is GRANTED. Ms. Meheski's appeal of the appointing authority to remove her from her position is DENIED. On this de novo consideration, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that she be REMOVED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Jaime Velez,
Irvington Township

CSC Docket No. 2018-2778
OAL Docket No. CSR 05035-18

ISSUED: DECEMBER 7, 2018 (HS)

The appeal of Jaime Velez, a Police Sergeant with Irvington Township (Irvington), of his removal effective March 20, 2018, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Julio C. Morejon (ALJ), who rendered his initial decision on October 5, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and exceptions and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of Irvington.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on November 21, 2018, did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to modify the removal to a three working day suspension. Rather, the Commission modified the penalty to a 30 working day suspension.

DISCUSSION

Irvington removed the appellant on charges of violating the following departmental regulations: (1) Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) 2016-16.IV.B.3a (Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel); (2) SOP 2016-16.IV.B.3c (Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel); (3) SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.31 (Performance Standards: Accountability of Supervisors); (4) SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29 (Performance Standards: Official Inefficiency & Incompetency); (5) SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32 (Performance Standards: Inefficiency or Incompetency of Supervisors and Superiors); and (6) General Order 2:00.IV.A (Responsibility for Preliminary and Follow-Up Investigations). Specifically, it alleged that the appellant failed to monitor all radio transmissions and personally respond to a robbery to provide supervision and direction. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case.

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, the ALJ set forth in his initial decision that on October 12, 2017, the following officers were working the 8:45 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift (midnight shift) for the Irvington Police Department: Mark Green, Police Lieutenant; Jose Zepeda, Police Officer; Darryl Ewell, Police Officer; and the appellant. Ajah Dobson, Police Officer, was working as the radio dispatcher for calls to the police station, and the supervisors for the shift were Green, who was the desk supervisor, and the appellant. Near the end of the shift, the appellant arrested a man for heroin possession. Upon arrival at headquarters, the appellant brought the arrestee to Green. Thereafter, the appellant walked the prisoner to the report room where arrestees are processed. During this time, Zepeda and Ewell were in the report room. The appellant processed the prisoner between 6:04 a.m. and 6:13 a.m. At 6:02 a.m., Dobson received a 911 call from a robbery scene, a gas station/convenience market, but she had trouble understanding the caller and entered the call as a "fight." At 6:04 a.m., Dobson, knowing that the appellant had made an arrest earlier in the shift, called the appellant over the radio and asked if he still needed two officers. The appellant responded that she could "have Ewell back," meaning that Ewell was available to answer calls for service. At 6:07 a.m., Dobson received a second 911 call from the robbery scene. This time, Dobson was able to make out that the caller stated he had been "robbed." Not being able to reach Ewell, Dobson called the appellant in the report room by phone to ask if Ewell was with him. She did not mention anything about a robbery. Ewell answered Dobson's call, and Dobson dispatched him to the scene of the robbery report. At 6:13 a.m., Ewell arrived at the robbery scene. Ewell responded alone and did not receive assistance from any officer of the Irvington Police Department during the duration of his response. Ewell was aware that the rules required him to report the robbery to his supervisors, i.e., the appellant and/or Green. Ewell never confirmed over the radio that a robbery had taken place. At 6:21 a.m., the appellant completed fingerprinting and photographing the prisoner. The appellant never heard Dobson say the word "robbery." Zepeda was the only officer who heard Dobson say the word "robbery" over the radio. At the time, Zepeda was assisting the appellant in processing a prisoner, but he did not recall where he was when he heard the word "robbery." Zepeda was wearing a shoulder microphone that sat about six inches from his ear when he heard the dispatch call for a "robbery." Green did not hear the initial dispatch from Dobson in which she used the word "robbery," despite seeing the call on his computer. It was undisputed by the witnesses, including the appellant, that supervisors are required to respond to a robbery call under Irvington Police Department policy. The appellant and Green acknowledged that the robbery call would take precedent over the processing of the prisoner.

The ALJ stated that during the morning crime meeting following the midnight shift, Kenneth Price, Police Captain, read the incident report regarding the robbery call and viewed the store surveillance video. Noticing only Ewell at the scene, Price questioned why the appellant was not at the scene and summoned him. This was the first time the appellant learned that there was a robbery during the midnight shift. The appellant told Price that he did not respond to the crime scene as he was processing a prisoner. Price did not ask any further questions of the appellant because he determined the appellant violated departmental policy in not being at the scene and assigned Clinton Franks, Police Lieutenant, to investigate the matter. Franks reported back to Price on October 13, 2017. Franks' report found potential violations for the officers involved, including the appellant for failing to monitor his radio and respond to a robbery scene. Franks listened to the dispatch and created the chart of the various dispatch calls for the incident. Based on that report, Price sent an administrative report to Stephen Yannotti, Deputy Police Chief, on October 27, 2017. Price agreed with Franks' findings. Specifically, the radio dispatch at 6:10:52 a.m. dispatched a robbery, and the appellant did not respond. Price forwarded the findings to Yannotti, as it was typical procedure to first review a matter internally within the Patrol Division to determine if it warranted further investigation by Internal Affairs. Maurice Taylor, Police Officer, was the Internal Affairs investigator in the case and drafted a report dated December 12, 2017. Taylor reported that the appellant failed to monitor his radio, failed to respond to the robbery, failed to be aware of the response and actions of his subordinate Ewell, and violated General Order 2:00 IV.A in failing to ensure that an adequate and complete preliminary investigation was completed at the crime scene. Taylor's report was approved on December 15, 2017, and a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) was issued on December 25, 2017 and mailed to the appellant on December 26, 2017. The ALJ found that in removing the appellant, Irvington considered the hearing officer's recommendation, which included the appellant's disciplinary history and plea agreement in a previous 90-day suspension in 2016. In that case, the hearing officer stated that Irvington would "move for" removal in the event the appellant was found guilty of untruthfulness or incompetency in the future. The ALJ noted that the appellant did not sign a settlement agreement in the 2016 discipline case and that Irvington relied upon the recording of the hearing in that case as a "last chance" agreement in removing the appellant in this case. The ALJ stated that it was undisputed that the appellant was removed because he did not hear Dobson say the word "robbery" in a single transmission over the radio while he was fingerprinting and photographing an arrestee in police headquarters.

The ALJ determined that the appellant admitted that he did not hear Dobson's radio transmission of a robbery call, failed to monitor his radio as required by SOP 2016-16.IV.B.3a (Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel) and that the appellant's conduct was inefficient and incompetent under SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29 (Performance Standards: Official Inefficiency & Incompetency). In failing to respond to the robbery call, the appellant failed to patrol all activities of Dobson and Ewell via the radio and via the mobile data computer as required by SOP 2016-16.IV.B.3c (Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel). The ALJ found unpersuasive the appellant's defense that not hearing the radio does not equate to failure to monitor. The appellant was not attentive to the reason Dobson was inquiring if Ewell was available, and thus, he not only failed to monitor his radio but also failed to monitor the situation as required of supervisory officers. The ALJ further found that Ewell's mistakes in handling the robbery would have been corrected had the appellant responded to the robbery as required by Irvington's SOPs, and thus, the appellant was accountable for Ewell's conduct and failed to adhere to SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.31 (Performance Standards: Accountability of Supervisors). However, the ALJ found that the charges that the appellant violated SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32 (Performance Standards: Inefficiency or Incompetency of Supervisors and Superiors) and General Order 2:00.IV.A (Responsibility for Preliminary and Follow-Up Investigations), respectively, were not upheld. With respect to the penalty, the ALJ found that neither the document incorporating the 2016 90-day suspension nor the recording of the 90-day suspension hearing make any mention of a last chance agreement or that the appellant would be automatically removed for any future sustained disciplinary charges. The ALJ noted that Ewell and Dobson each received a one working day suspension for violating the departmental regulations in failing to notify the supervisory officers of a robbery and that Green received a three working day suspension for conduct similar to that of the appellant. Thus, the ALJ determined that the appellant, like Green, should receive a three working day suspension.

In addition, the ALJ rejected the appellant's argument that Irvington did not comply with the 45-day time period for filing disciplinary charges found in N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 (45-day rule). The appellant had argued that the 45-day time period began when Internal Affairs received the preliminary investigation report rather than when Internal Affairs conducted its own investigation. The 45-day rule provides:

> A complaint charging a violation of the internal rules and regulations established for the conduct of a law enforcement unit shall be filed no later than the 45th day after the date on which the person filing the complaint obtained sufficient information to file the matter upon which the complaint is based . . . A failure to comply with said provisions as to the service of the complaint and the time within which a complaint is to be filed shall require a dismissal of the complaint.

The ALJ noted that it was undisputed that in Irvington, Internal Affairs makes charging decisions and issues PNDAs. The ALJ found that Internal Affairs had sufficient information upon which to base a complaint at the conclusion of its investigation on December 8, 2017 and not when it received Franks' report on October 27, 2017. The assigned Internal Affairs investigator conducted witness interviews to uncover what happened, to confirm whether Franks' preliminary report was correct and to determine whether there was information that may exonerate any of the officers. Thus, the ALJ determined that Irvington complied with the 45-day rule when Internal Affairs signed off on the PNDA on December 25, 2017.

In his exceptions, the appellant contends that a suspension for not being able to hear the single word "robbery" is "patently unjust."

In its exceptions and reply to exceptions, Irvington argues that removal is the required penalty in this case. Specifically, it states that in 2016, the appellant pled guilty to a matter in which he was facing removal and accepted a 90-day suspension along with an understanding that if there was any further discipline involving either truthfulness or incompetency/inefficiency, Irvington would move for removal. Irvington proffers that the most obvious interpretation of the plea agreement is that the appellant would be removed if there is another sustained charge of inefficiency, incompetency or making a false statement. Irvington emphasizes that since it could always move for removal, any contrary interpretation would render the terms of the plea agreement meaningless. It contends that as incompetency/inefficiency on the appellant's part has been proven in this case, removal is the appropriate penalty under the plea agreement giving the appellant a last chance. Additionally, Irvington contends that based on the appellant's disciplinary history, disregarded by the ALJ by his inappropriate reduction of the penalty to the same one imposed on Green, removal is the logical next step under the concept of progressive discipline even without the plea agreement.

The Commission agrees with the ALJ's determination that Irvington complied with the 45-day rule and the ALJ's determination of the charges. The Commission also agrees with the ALJ's determination that there was no last chance agreement, in that there is no such written document in the record. Even assuming there were, it must be noted that the Commission is not strictly bound by a last chance agreement but rather uses it as a factor to be considered when determining the appropriate penalty in an appeal. In determining the proper penalty, the Commission's review is de novo. In addition to its consideration of the seriousness of the underlying incident in determining the proper penalty, the Commission utilizes, when appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In determining the propriety of the penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. North Princeton Developmental Center, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 463. Moreover, it is well established that where the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature, the imposition of a penalty up to and including removal is appropriate, regardless of an individual's disciplinary history. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not "a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). In this case, the Commission finds that the appellant's infraction was not so egregious as to warrant his removal, especially in light of the discipline imposed on the other involved individuals. Still, the ALJ incorrectly ignored the appellant's own prior record, which includes a 90 working day suspension, and incorrectly overreduced the penalty based on a comparison to the discipline imposed on the other involved individuals. Considering all factors, including the appellant's prior record, his actual infraction in this case, and the discipline imposed on the other involved individuals, the Commission finds a 30 working day suspension to be the appropriate penalty.

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to be reinstated with back pay, benefits and seniority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, following the 30 working day suspension. However, the appellant is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), an award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. Mar. 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In this case, the Commission upheld most of the charges and only modified the penalty. Thus, the appellant has not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by Irvington. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. February 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court stated in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, Irvington shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his position.

ORDER

The Commission finds that Irvington's action in removing Jaime Velez was not justified. Therefore, the Commission modifies the penalty to a 30 working day suspension. The Commission further orders that the appellant be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the period following his 30 working day suspension to the date of actual reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to Irvington within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay dispute.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of the issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties, and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT NO. CSR 05035-18

2018-2778

v.

IRVINGTON TOWNSHIP,

APPOINTING AUTHORITY.

Peter B. Paris, Esq., for appellant Jamie Velez (Law Office of David Beckett, attorneys)

Joseph M. Hannon, Esq., for respondent Irvington Township [1] (Genova Burns, LLC, attorneys)

Record closed: September 26, 2018 Decided: October 5, 2018

BEFORE JULIO C. MOREJON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Jamie Velez (Velez), was employed as a Police Officer, with respondent, Township of Irvington (Irvington), having attained the rank of Sargent. Velez appeals his termination on March 20, 2018, for allegedly failing to respond to a robbery call as the supervisory officer at the scene on October 12, 2017.

[1] The appeal filed with the Office of Administrative (OAL) refers to respondent as "Irvington Township, Appointing Authority." The respondent's correct name is "Township of Irvington."

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 26, 2017, Irvington issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), which alleged that Velez violated the following regulations:

1) SOP 2016-IV.B.3a, Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel;
2) SOP 2016-IV.B.3c, Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel;
3) SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31 Performance Standards: Accountability of Supervisors;
4) SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29, Performance Standards: Official Inefficiency & Incompetency;
5) SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32, Performance Standards: Inefficiency or Incompetency of Supervisors and Superiors, and
6) General Order 2:00 IV.A., Responsibility for Preliminary and Follow-Up Investigations (charges).

Velez plead not guilty to the charges and a hearing was scheduled for March 20, 2018, at the office of the Irvington's Director of Public Safety. At attendance for the hearing were the following individuals: Hearing Officer Joseph Santiago (Santiago), Velez, his legal counsel Mr. Paris, legal counsel for Irvington, and Detective Wesley Mondelus (Mondelus). Velez waived his right to a hearing and Santiago then made a recommendation to Director of Public Safety, Tracey Bowers (Bowers), to substantiate all of the charges against Velez. Bowers accepted Santiago's recommendations substantiating all of the charges against Velez and signed off on a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated March 20, 2018, substantiating the charges and terminating Velez effective the same date (R-1).

Thereafter, on March 27, 2018, Velez filed an appeal with the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202(d), contesting the substantiated charges and termination in the FNDA. On April 5, 2018, Velez filed with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, (Commission), a letter amending his appeal to include an alleged violation against Irvington of N.J.S.A. 11A:2-24, Protection Against Reprisals

(reprisals allegation). Velez alleged that agents of Irvington conspired to terminate Velez "in retaliation for [his] disclosure of information on the violation of any law or rule, government mismanagement or abuse of authority."

The Commission responded on June 13, 2018, that the appeal was amended to include Velez's reprisals violation charge against Irvington, and that Velez was instructed to present his proofs of the same in the underlying matter. [2]

A prehearing telephone conference was held April 13, 2018, where counsel for Velez, Mr. Paris, and Dwayne Warren, Township Attorney (Mr. Warren) appeared. The parties agreed to exchange discovery as expeditiously as possible, considering the 180-day rule under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201(a). A telephone status conference was scheduled for April 20, 2018, to allow the Commission to process Velez's amendment to his appeal concerning the allegations of reprisals violations by Irvington.

On April 20, 2018, a telephone status conference was held with Mr. Paris and Mr. Warren, wherein Irvington agreed to provide discovery by May 30, 2018. A Prehearing Order was issued on April 30, 2018, ordering that discovery be completed by May 30, 2018, scheduling a telephone status conference for May 14, 2018, and setting hearing dates for June 14 and 20, 2018.

On May 14, 2018, a telephone status conference was held and counsel for Veles informed the undersigned that discovery had not been completed and Irvington had not provided responses to interrogatories propounded by Velez. Counsel for Irvington agreed to provide all document discovery by May 31, 2018, and notwithstanding this date, agreed to provide Velez with a preliminary response to the Interrogatories and document discovery request by May 21, 2018. On May 18, 2018, an Amended Prehearing Order was issued to include the discovery compliance dates for Irvington, and the scheduling of a telephone status conference for June 5, 2018.

[2] During the hearing held on July 27, 2018, Velez informed the undersigned that he would not be proceeding with his claim against Irvington for reprisals violation and moved to dismiss the same. No opposition was made by Irvington, and the reprisals violation was dismissed.

On June 1, 2018, counsel for Velez wrote to the undersigned informing me that Irvington had not provided discovery as set forth in the Amended Prehearing Order of May 18, 2018, and that Irvington was no longer represented by Mr. Warren, and was now represented by Joseph Hannon (Mr. Hannon) from the law firm of Genova Burns.

On June 5, 2018, a telephone status conference was held, and Mr. Paris and Mr. Hannon appeared, wherein the following resulted: the hearing dates of June 14 and 20, 2018, 'were adjourned to July 25 and 27, 2018, to allow Irvington to provide discovery by June 30. Velez objected to a waiver or extension of the 180-day rule, however, he agreed to the new hearing dates as he could not proceed with the hearing dates of June 14 and June 20, as discovery had not been provided by Irvington, and Velez could not prepare for the June hearing dates. On June 5, 2018, a Second Amended Prehearing Order was issued incorporating the hearing and discovery completion dates.

On July 2, 2018, a telephone status conference was held and the parties informed the undersigned that discovery was completed, and the parties were prepared to proceed with the hearing scheduled for July 25 and 27, 2018. [3]

On July 30, 2018, the parties concluded submission of proofs in their respective cases, and it was agreed that mutual written summations would be submitted by August 17, 2018.

On August 15, 2018, counsel for Irvington wrote to the undersigned that the parties had not received the hearing transcripts and therefore, could not provide the written summations by August 17, 2018. A telephone status conference was held on August 15, 2018, and the parties were given an additional week to August 24, 2018, to submit their written summations.

On August 24, 2018, written summations were submitted by Velez and Irvington. On August 28, 2018, by letter from the undersigned, Velez and Irvington were informed that the 180-day provision under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201b(4) [4], was tolled 35-days between June 20, 2018, the original hearing date, and July 25, 2018, the adjourned hearing date. Consistent with my ruling on August 28, 2018, the record closed on August 24, 2018, and the 180 calendar days was calculated to expire on October 28, 2018.

Thereafter, on September 26, 2018, a telephone converse was had with counsel, wherein I ruled to re-open the record, and to allow respondent to amend their written summation to address the appellant's argument that the complaint should be dismissed under the 45-day rule (N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147). [5]

Consistent with my ruling on September 26, 2018, the 180 calendar days shall be calculated as follows:

- Appeal filed with OAL on March 27, 2018;
- Original 180 calendar days was September 23, 2018;
- Hearing adjournment June 2018- thirty-five calendar days accrued June 20 - July 25;
- Adjournment amended summation-eleven calendar days accrued to October 9, 2018;
- Revised 180th calendar day under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201(a)- November 8, 2018.

ISSUES

The issues to be determined in this matter are the following:

The issue in this case is whether the Department's determination that sustained charges in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated March 20, 2018, was proper, and if properly sustained, whether the charges warrant termination?

[4] If the officer and the agency or the firefighter and the department agree to any postponement or delay of a hearing before the 181st calendar day, the calendar days that accrue during that postponement or delay shall not be used in calculating the date upon which that officer or firefighter is entitled, pursuant to subsection a. of this section, to receive his base salary pending a final determination on his appeal . . . . (emphasis added) N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201b(4).

[5] Appellant included an argument in his written summation that was not raised in the hearing asserting that this case must be dismissed under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, also known as the "45-day rule". Respondent did not address this issue in its summation, as summations were submitted simultaneously.

Summary of Testimony

At the hearing, Irvington presented testimony from Officer Darryl Ewell, Officer Ajah Dobson, Officer Jose Zepeda, Lt. Mark Green, Capt. Kenneth Price, Det. Maurice Taylor, Lt. Clinton Franks, and Public Safety Director Tracy Bowers. Sgt. Velez called Carl Hamer, Det. William Gatling to testify, as well testifying himself on his behalf. Below is a brief description of the testimony provided.

Officer Darryl Ewell

Officer Darryl Ewell (Ewell) testified on direct that on October 12, 2017, he responded to a call at 558 Chancellor Avenue, which is a gas station/convenient market. Ewell stated that the call had originally been broadcast as a "robbery" and that, after he arrived at the scene he notified the dispatcher Officer Ajah Dobson that the "assault" call was actually a robbery. Ewell stated that he never heard the word "robbery" uttered by Officer Dobson over the radio. Ewell testified that he was aware that the rules required him to report a robbery to his supervisors working his shift. Ewell admitted that he never notified his supervisors, Lt. Mark Green or Sgt. Velez, that he had arrived at robbery call. Ewell agreed that he and Officer Dobson failed to follow the rules when they failed to notify their supervisors of the robbery. Officer Ewell accepted a one-day suspension for failing to notify his supervisors of the robbery call.

Officer Ajah Dobson

Officer Ajah Dobson (Dobson) testified that she was the radio dispatcher on October 12, 2017. Dobson testified that she initially received a call regarding a "fight" at 558 Chancellor Avenue, as the victim called stating that someone hit him. Dobson testified that she initially called for Ewell, but since he did not respond, she called Sgt. Velez on the radio and later by telephone, asking for Ewell and to inquire if Ewell was available. Sgt. Velez responded that Ewell was not with him and was available.

Dobson testified that when she spoke with Sgt. Velez, she did not mention a robbery call, as the call had come in as an assault. It was when the victim called again that he stated he had been "hit", that Dobson broadcast over the radio that the call to 558 Chancellor Avenue was now an "assault". Dobson stated that she knew Sgt. Velez was in headquarters processing an arrest when she called him and when she dispatched Ewell to the robbery call.

Dobson testified that when she broadcast the call as a robbery and Ewell responded to the scene, she did not contact Sgt. Velez as she knew he was on an arrest. Dobson stated that she accepted a one-day suspension for failing to notify her supervisors of the robbery.

Officer Jose Zepeda

Officer Jose Zepeda (Zepeda), testified that he was assisting Sgt. Velez in processing a prisoner when he heard Dobson say the word "robbery" over the radio. Zepeda could not recall where he was when he heard the word "robbery." Zepeda stated that was wearing a shoulder microphone which sits about six inches from his ear, instead of wearing the radio on his hip. Zepeda testified that sometimes he has difficulty hearing the radio and by wearing the shoulder microphone makes it easier for him to hear his radio call. Zepeda stated that he did not mention the radio call of a robbery to Sgt. Velez or Lt. Green. Zepeda stated that Velez is a "good officer" and "a good boss."

Lt. Mark Green

Lt. Mark Green (Green) was the desk lieutenant on October 12, 2017. Green testified that his duties "keeping charge of the police department...and just being aware of what's going on in the field." Green stated that he did not hear the initial dispatch from Dobson when she used the word "robbery." Green testified that he saw the call on his computer as a "fight call." Green testified that he did not have a shoulder radio but rather his radio was "to the side." Green testified that had he heard the robbery call, he and Sgt. Velez would have figured out what to do with Velez's prisoner and Sgt. Velez would have responded to the robbery call "to assess the situation."

Green acknowledged that a superior officer is required to respond to a robbery call as per the Irvington Police Department's Rules and Regulations. Green also stated that although an officer may be distracted, it does not excuse an officer to hear a dispatch call. Green accepted a three-day suspension for his role in this event in failing to respond to the robbery call. Green testified that he considers Velez to be a diligent officer and supervisor.

Capt. Kenneth Price

Captain Kenneth Price (Price) testified as to the origins of the investigation of this matter. Price stated that he generally works the 8:00AM-4:00PM shift, and did so on October 12, 2017. Price testified that at a morning crime meeting held at the beginning of the morning shift on October 12; 2017, he viewed the video of the 558 Chancellor Avenue incident, which revealed a robbery. Ewell testified that noticing only Ewell at the scene, he questioned, "Where's my Sergeant?" to which another officer in the meeting responded that Sgt. Velez was processing an arrest and was in the building.

Price testified that he then summoned Sgt. Velez to the crime meeting, and asked Sgt. Velez if he responded to the robbery to which Sgt. Velez answered "no". Price then testified that he asked Sgt. Velez why he did not respond and that Sgt. Velez answered he was processing an arrest. Price testified that after Sgt. Velez's response, Price determined that his conduct was in violation of Irvington's departmental policies, which required further investigation. Price assigned Lt. Franks to complete an investigation into the matter as to whether there was any violation with the handling of the 558 Chancellor Ave. robbery call.[6]

Cpt. Price had no involvement after he forwarded the findings to Deputy Chief Yannotti; however, Cpt. Price acknowledged that it is typical procedure to first review a matter internally within the Patrol Division to determine if it warrants further investigation by Internal Affairs. (T1 180:9-25; 181:1-2). The matter is not sent right to internal affairs because there is a need to review if a possible violation even occurred. (T1 196:6-14).

Lt. Clinton Franks

Lt. Clinton Franks (Franks) conducted his investigation and issued a report to Price on October 13, 2017. On direct examination, Franks' testified that the report found potential violations for the officers involved (Dobson, Elwell and Green), including Sgt. Velez for "failing to monitor his radio and respond to robbery scene." Franks stated that he listened to the dispatch audio and created the chart of the various dispatch calls. Franks' stated that based on his report, Price sent an administrative report to Deputy Chief Stephen Yannotti on October 27, 2017.

On cross examination, Franks testified to the following:

- that "a supervisor should have responded, however, there are extenuating circumstances when it comes to Sergeant Velez. He was on an arrest and he was in the back processing a prisoner. It was his arrest. So, it was only dispatched once from the tape so there's a likelihood that he may have missed it."
- there are times when he [Franks] has not been able to hear radio transmissions. He also testified that it is common for officers to miss transmissions.
- "Dobson spoke to him [Sgt. Velez] on the phone because she was looking for Ewell at one point...and she never said, 'there's a robbery.'"
- that a supervisor "is supposed to be dispatched" to a robbery incident.
- that it was difficult to hear the dispatch from Dobson, and that when he reviewed the dispatch tapes, he was in an office with the ability to rewind the tape and increase the volume.

- that if Ewell had broadcast a description of the robbery suspect over the radio, that description would have been repeated by Dobson and the "repetition of the description...would trigger something in my mind that something is going on that maybe I'd want to ask further if I'm not aware of what's going on."
- that there was no evidence that Velez had his radio off or that he was not trying to listen to the radio.
- that Velez simply did not hear the transmission where Dobson stated the call was now a "robbery."
- he uncovered no evidence that Velez did not monitor his radio; he simply did not hear the transmission.
- Franks considers Velez to be a good and diligent officer.

Det. Maurice Taylor

Detective Maurice Taylor (Taylor), testified that he was assigned to investigate the events of the October 12, 2017 incident by Sgt. Gerard Malek, the Internal Affairs Supervisor for the Irvington Police Department. Taylor testified that he proceeded through his investigation from October 27 through December 15, 2017 by doing the following: (1) reviewing the administrative reports on the matter; (2) summarizing the administrative reports; (3) interviewing Franks, Dobson, Ewell, Green and Sgt. Velez. Taylor stated that he proceeded to complete his report and that his investigation found that Sgt. Velez violated the following: SOP 2016-16.IV.B.3.a, SOP 2016-16.IV.B.3.a, SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31, SOP 2017-09 IV.E.3.1.29, SOP 2016-16, SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32, General Order 2:00 IV.A. Taylor testified that his report was then reviewed by his superiors and legal department, and that on December 26, 2017, the charges were served upon Sgt. Velez.

Public Safety Director Tracy Bowers

Director Tracey Bowers (Bowers) testified that as Director of the Irvington Township Public Service, he oversees the day-to-day activities of the Irvington Police Department, and as part of his duties he determines the penalty received by officers brought up on disciplinary charges. Bowers stated that does not get involved with internal affairs investigations as they are exclusively handled by Irvington's Internal Affairs division.

Bowers testified his designee, Joseph Santiago (Santiago), serves as hearing officer on all police disciplinary charges that have been first investigated by the Internal Affairs division. Bowers testified that in October 2016, Santiago presided over a prior discipline of Velez, in which a plea agreement was reached resulting in Velez agreeing to a ninety-day suspension, when faced with termination, regarding a charge that Velez made false official statement and inefficiency and incompetency. Bowers stated that Velez' prior plea agreement was made on the record, with representation of counsel, and the terms of the plea were memorialized as an attachment to the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, and provided for, "suspension without pay for 90 (ninety) days (9 Payrolls), effective October 20, 2016. Bowers testified that the October 2016 plea agreement called for Velez to be terminated if he were found to be guilty of any violations for sustained charges in the future. The tape of the plea agreement was played during Bowers' testimony.

In the present matter, Bowers' testified that he took into account Velez's October 2016 plea agreement as well as Velez's prior disciplinary record in determining that termination was the appropriate penalty in this matter. Bowers' stated that the Disciplinary Memorandum from Santiago, outlined Velez's history which included his disciplinary history of one performance notice, two counseling notices, four reprimands, four suspensions ranging from two days to ninety days, with the ninety days being the recent plea on October 20, 2016. Bowers' stated that Velez disciplinary history, and the underlying charges for inefficiency and incompetency, resulted in his decision that Velez be terminated in this matter, effective March 20, 2018.

Carl Hamer and Det. William Gatling

Carl Hammer (Hammer) and Det. William Gatling (Gatling), both testified as part of Velez's claim of Actions Against Reprisal against Irvington under N.J.S.A. 11A:2.24. Since Velez moved to dismiss the reprisal claim, their testimony is not germane to the underlying charges and will not be discussed.

Sgt. Jamie Velez

Velez testified that he grew up in Irvington, and after graduating high school, he enlisted in the Army for three years. Velez stated that upon his discharge from the Army he applied to be a police officer, was selected and graduated from the police academy on June 4, 2004. Velez stated that he has been a police officer for fourteen years and he has been a Sargent since May 2013.

Velez testified that during his time as patrolman and Sargent, he has had numerous assignments in the Irvington Police Department including the Narcotics Task Force, training officer for new officers, the Essex County Carjacking Task Force and Homicide Task Force. Velez stated that he has been honored with numerous awards and commendations during his fourteen years as an officer.

As to the underlying charges, Velez testified as follows:

- On October 12, 2017, he was nearing the end of his 7:45p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift, when he observed a suspicious individual in a high crime area around 5:00 a.m.
- He arrested the man for possession of heroin, and after having the individual's vehicle towed, Zepeda responded to transport the him to headquarters (with Velez following in his patrol vehicle). This occurred around 5:30 a.m.

- Upon arrival at headquarters, he brought the arrestee to the desk supervisor, Green, per Irvington policy, and then walked the arrestee to the report room where the arrestee was processed.
- Zepeda and Ewell were in the report room when Velez brought the arrestee for processing.
- As a practice, Velez submits "time stamps" on the computer while processing an arrestee, as "the department is really strict on completing reports within 60 minutes and if the jobs aren't completed within 60 minutes, they want to know why the job took so long. Me knowing that a drug arrest is not going to be able to get completed within 60 minutes, I've always entered pretty much step by step everything that I do on the job."
- He recalls Dobson calling him once on the radio and once by phone while he was processing the arrestee.
- Velez checked the suspect for warrants, photographed him and fingerprinted him.
- Dobson called Velez over the radio and asked if he still needed two officers, and Velez responded that she can "have Ewell back," meaning that Ewell is available to answer calls for service.
- Velez never heard Dobson say the word "robbery."
- The first time Velez learned that there was a robbery was when Price called him into the daily crime meeting.

FINDINGS OF FACT

I FIND the testimony of all of the witnesses to be credible. It is not disputed that Velez, as supervisory officer, was not present at the robbery scene October 12, 2017, contrary to Irvington's Standard Operating Procedures. What does appear to be in dispute is whether Velez's conduct merits the discipline commensurate to the charges filed against him. Accordingly, based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, and having had the opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND as FACT the following:

On October 12, 2017, the following police officers were working the 8:45 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift (midnight shift) for the Irvington Police Department: Green, Velez, Zepeda and Ewell. (T1 37:1-10). Dobson was working as the radio dispatcher for calls to the police station (T1 86:5-7). The supervisors for this shift was Green and Velez, Lieutenant and Sargent respectively.

Dobson initially received a call from a man stating that he had been "hit" in a fight that occurred at 558 Chancellor Avenue. (T1 86:8-13; 141:10-18; R8; R24). Knowing that Velez had made an arrest earlier in the shift, Dobson called Velez asking for Ewell and inquiring if he was available to respond to the assault call. (R23; Tr1 at 111). Velez responded that Ewell was available affirmatively. (Ibid.) The victim called the Police department again inquiring when the police would arrive and now stated that someone had "robbed" him. (R24). After the second call was received, now stating that a robbery had occurred, Dobson called Ewell on five separate occasions, but Ewell did not respond. (R8; R24). Finally, at 6:10:48 Ewell responded and Dobson dispatched Ewell to "respond to 558 Chancellor Ave. on a robbery report." (Ibid.) These dispatches span over a period of approximately eight minutes. (Ibid).

Ewell acknowledged that he received a dispatch that was initially an assault at 558 Chancellor Avenue, which is a gas station/convenient market. (T1 37:13-19; 37:20-25; 38:1-3). Ewell believed the original call was for an "assault" and "later learned" from the victim that a robbery had occurred. (Tr1 at 37). After he arrived and assessed the situation, Ewell notified dispatch that the "assault" call was a "robbery". (Tr1 at 39; R-9). However, there is no recording of Ewell ever using the word "robbery" over the radio. (See Exhibits R-8 and R-26). Ewell responded alone and did not receive assistance from any officer of the Irvington Police Department during the duration of his response. (T1 38:7-12). Ewell was aware that the rules required him to report the robbery to his supervisors, Velez and/or Green. (Tr1 at 64; R-26; Tr1 at 52-53).

Zepeda is the only officer who heard Dobson say the word "robbery" over the radio. (Tr1 at 74.) At the time, Zepeda was assisting Velez in processing a prisoner, but he did not recall where he was when he heard the word "robbery." (Tr1 at 74). Zepeda was wearing a shoulder microphone which sits about six inches from his ear when he heard the dispatch call for a "robbery". (Tr1 at 76). Green did not hear the initial dispatch from Dobson in which she used the word "robbery", despite seeing the call on his computer (Tr1 at 141; 143-144; 145).

During the "morning crime meeting" following the midnight shift, Price read the incident report regarding the robbery call at 558 Chancellor Avenue, and the store surveillance video. Noticing only Ewell at the scene, Price questioned, why Velez was not at the scene and summoned him. (T1 172:14-19; 174:16-21). Velez told Price that he did not respond to the crime scene, as he was processing a prisoner (T1 174:23, 24). Price did not ask any further questions of Velez, because he determined Velez violated departmental policy in not being at the scene and assigned Franks to investigate the matter (T1 175:7-16; 176-177).

Franks reported back to Price on October 13, 2017. (Tr1 at 177; R-12). Franks' report found potential violations for the officers involved, including Velez for failing to monitor his radio and respond to robbery scene. (T2 28:7-18; R-12). Franks listened to the dispatch and created the chart of the various dispatch calls for the incident (R8). Based on that report, Price sent an administrative report to Deputy Chief Stephen Yannotti (Yannotti) on October 27, 2017. (R13). Price agreed with Franks' findings. (R13; T1 178:4-22). Specifically, the radio dispatch at 6:10:52 dispatched a robbery and Velez did not respond. (T1 180:1-8). Price forwarded the findings to Yannotti, as it is typical procedure to first review a matter internally within the Patrol Division to determine if it warrants further investigation by Internal Affairs. (T1 180:9-25; 181:1-2).

Taylor was the Internal Affairs investigator in this case and drafted a report dated December 12, 2017 (Tr1-228; R-2). Taylor reported that Velez failed to monitor his radio, failed to respond to the robbery and failed to be aware of the response and actions of his subordinate, Ewell, and that Velez violated General Order 2:00 IV.A, in failing to ensure that an adequate and complete preliminary investigation was completed at the crime scene. (T1 237:18-25; 238:1-20; R-3). Taylor's report was approved on December 15, 2017, and a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued on December 25, 2017, and mailed to Velez on December 26, 2017 (R-3).

Bowers "did not hear the case" at the departmental level, although he signed the FNDA and issued a "disciplinary memo." (Tr2 at 79; R-1; R-19). Bowers did not serve as the hearing officer, but rather his designee, Santiago. (T2 79:11-25; 80:1-14). A departmental disciplinary hearing was held before Santiago on March 20, 2018, which resulted in sustaining the charges and recommending termination. (R19). On the same date, Velez was terminated. (R20). In determining if termination was appropriate, Bowers considered Santiago's recommendation which included Velez's disciplinary history and plea agreement in a previous suspension in October 2016, that any further disciplines would result in termination. (R19; T2 84:13-21). Bowers' agreed to Velez's termination in the within matter because he relied upon a prior case in which Santiago that Irvington would "move for termination" in the event. Velez was found guilty of untruthfulness or incompetency in the future. (Tr2 at 95-96; R-18; R-28).[7] Velez did not sign a settlement agreement in the October 2016 discipline case, which Irvington relied upon as a "last chance" agreement in terminating Velez herein (Tr3 at 65-67).

Although Bowers does not conduct the disciplinary hearings, he is the "ultimate authority" when it comes to disciplinary penalties. (Tr2 at 76-77). He has "sole authority" to discipline Irvington Police Officers. (Tr2 at 111). On the same date as the termination in this matter, the Township issued a 4-day suspension to Velez in a separate matter (P-43; Tr2 at 115-116).

In this case, it is undisputed that Velez, was terminated from his employment because, he did not hear Dobson say the word "robbery" in a single transmission over the radio while Velez was fingerprinting and photographing an arrestee in police

[7] During the colloquy in that prior case, Santiago states that "any further violations of Department regulations with respect to truthfulness, inefficiency, or incompetency will result in his termination." However, he was corrected by counsel for Velez, who stated, "Actually, if there is a sustained charge...for any similar truthfulness or inefficiency violation, the Township will move for termination." (Tr2 at 102; R-28). The hearing officer consented to the amended language by stating, "will move for termination, yes." (Tr2 at 102).

headquarters. On October 12, 2017, Velez was working a 7:45p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift. Near the end of his shift, Velez arrested a man for possession of heroin. Upon arrival at headquarters, Velez brought the arrestee to the desk supervisor, Green (Tr3 at 18). Thereafter, Velez walked the prisoner to the report room where arrestees are processed. (Tr3 at 19). During this time, Zepeda and Ewell were in the report room. (Tr3 at 19). While processing the prisoner, Velez recalls Dobson calling him once on the radio and once by phone (Tr3 at 20).

Velez processed the prisoner between 6:04 to 6:13 a.m. (P-3). At 6:02 a.m., Dobson received the first 911 call from the robbery scene, but she had trouble understanding the caller and entered the call as a "fight." (R-8; R-24). At 6:04 a.m., Dobson called Velez over the radio and asked if he still needed two officers. Velez responded that she can "have Ewell back," meaning that Ewell is available to answer calls for service (R-23; Tr1 at 87-89). At 6:07 a.m., Dobson received the second 911 call from the robbery scene. This time, Dobson was able to make out that the caller stated he had been "robbed".

Not being able to reach Ewell, Dobson called Velez in the report room by phone to ask if Ewell was with him. She did not mention anything about a robbery (R-8; R-24). Ewell answered Dobson's call, and Dobson dispatched him to the scene of the robbery report. (Ibid). At 6:13 a.m., Ewell arrived at the robbery scene (P-2) Ewell never confirmed over the radio that a robbery had taken place (Ibid.) At 6:21 a.m.; Velez completed fingerprinting and photographing the prisoner (P-3). Velez never heard Dobson say the word "robbery." (Tr3 at 24). The first time Velez learned that there was a robbery during his shift on October 12, 2017, was when Price called him into the daily crime meeting. (Tr3 at 24).

It was undisputed by the witnesses that supervisors are required to respond to a robbery call (T1 40:7-11; T2 27:10-23). Velez acknowledged and agreed that a supervisor must respond to a robbery call and that it is the policy of the Irvington Police Department. (T3 37:1-24). Further, Velez understood this to be the policy of the Irvington Police Department. (T3 37:9-16). Velez and Green both acknowledged that the robbery call would take precedent over the processing of the prisoner (T1 146:1-13; T3 38:14-16; 39:20-25; 40:1,2; 53:5-16).

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Applicable Standards

The Civil Service Act and the implementing regulations govern the rights and duties of public employees. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 to 4A:10-3.2. An employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties or who gives other just cause may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). In a civil service disciplinary case, the employer bears the burden of sufficient, competent and credible evidence of facts essential to the charge. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a)(2), -21; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1, "burden of proof"; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4. That burden is to establish by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982).

An appointing authority may discipline an employee on various grounds, including conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty and other sufficient cause. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). Such action is subject to review by the Civil Service Commission, which after a de novo hearing makes an independent determination as to both guilt and the "propriety of the penalty imposed below." W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 519 (1962). In an administrative proceeding concerning a major disciplinary action, the appointing authority must prove its case by a "'fair preponderance of the believable evidence.'" Polk, 90 N.J. at 560 (citation omitted); N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson, supra, 37 N.J. at 149.

The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958). The greater weight of credible evidence in the case—the preponderance—depends not only on the number of witnesses, but "the greater convincing power to our minds." State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47, 49 (1975). Similarly, credible testimony "must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

Velez is charged with having violated the following six departmental regulations in failing to respond to the robbery on October 12, 2017 and failing to appropriately supervise:

1) SOP 2016-IV.B.3a, Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel;

2) SOP 2016-IV.B.3c, Duties and Responsibilities of Supervisory Personnel;

3) SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31 Performance Standards: Accountability of Supervisors;

4) SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29, Performance Standards: Official Inefficiency & Incompetency;

5) SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32, Performance Standards: Inefficiency or Incompetency of Supervisors and Superiors, and[8]

6) General Order 2:00 IV.A. Responsibility for Preliminary and Follow-Up Investigations (charges).

It is undisputed by Velez that the Irvington Police Department requires supervisors to respond to a robbery call. SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.a provides that sergeants "shall...monitor all radio transmissions and personally respond to the following assignments to provide supervision and direction and control...other significant calls involving violent crimes." In addition, SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.c provides that sergeants shall "monitor all patrol activities via the radio and via the mobile data computer."

It is undisputed that Velez did not hear Dobson say the word "robbery" in a single transmission over the radio while he was fingerprinting and photographing an arrestee in police headquarters. Velez was listening to the radio while processing the prisoner, as he responded to Dobson minutes earlier calling for Ewell, as well as answering his phone when she called him. However, Dobson never mentioned a robbery call when she spoke with Velez because she was waiting for confirmation from Ewell that it was actually a robbery call. Ewell failed to call in and confirm that a robbery had taken place. When Dobson did state over the radio that the call was now a "robbery", Velez, Green and Ewell did not hear the transmission.

[8] Charge #5 references SOP 2017-09. is not in the record, and therefore, I CONCLUDE that Irvington has not carried its burden of proving a violation of this rule by a preponderance of the credible evidence, and the same is dismissed herein.

Price and Franks both testified that officers must monitor all radio dispatches at all times. I CONCLUDE that the evidence in this case reveals that a robbery was dispatched on October 12, 2017 and Velez did not hear his radio effectively so as to hear the dispatcher; Velez did not respond to the robbery and did not monitor the radio and MDC and the activities of Ewell responding to the robbery. The question then becomes did Velez's conduct rise to the level of a violation of Irvington's regulations by not "monitoring" his radio and that of Ewell?

I CONCLUDE that Velez by his own admission that he did not "hear" Dobson's radio transmission of a robbery call, failed to monitor his radio as required by SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.a, and I CONCLUDE that Irvington has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez's conduct is deemed inefficient and incompetent under SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29. In failing to respond to the robbery call, I CONCLUDE further that Velez failed to patrol all activities of Dobson and Ewell, via the radio and via the mobile data computer as required under SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.c. I CONCLUDE that Velez's defense that not hearing the radio does not equate to failure to monitor is not persuasive. I CONCLUDE that the record reveals that Velez was not attentive to why Dobson was inquiring if Ewell was available, and thus he not only failed to monitor his radio, but also failed to monitor the situation, as required of supervisory officers.

SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31, concerns the accountability of supervisors for subordinate officer's conduct. Ewell's mistakes in handling the robbery would have been corrected if Velez responded to the robbery as required by Irvington's SOPs. Velez acknowledged that he is required to respond to a robbery or at the very least, ensure that a superior officer is responding to the robbery, which did not occur. For these reasons, I CONCLUDE that Irvington has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez failed to adhere to SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31. and is accountable for Ewell's conduct at the scene in failing to ensure an adequate and complete investigation.

SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32, concerns Irvington's charge that Velez was inefficient or incompetent in failing to take corrective action against Dobson and Ewell after they did not meet departmental standards. This charge presumes that Velez was aware of Ewell and Dobson's conduct in real time, which the record reflects he was not, and therefore, I CONCLUDE that the evidence presented by Irvington did not demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez was unwilling to take corrective action or somehow refused to do so. Rather, I CONCLUDE the evidence reveals that Velez was unaware that corrective action was necessary until after corrective action was already initiated by Price in ordering Franks' to conduct a preliminary investigation. For these reasons, I CONCLUDE that Irvington failed to demonstrate that Velez did not adhere to SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32.

The charge under General Order 2:00 IV.A. concerning responsibility for preliminary and follow-up investigations applies only to patrolmen and not supervisors. Section C (1) of this rule states that "...the preliminary investigation shall be conducted by the uniformed patrol officer assigned to the call for police service." Section C (2) states, "...The patrol officer assigned shall be responsible for initiating action to inform other appropriate bureau units of a serious crime or one requiring immediate on-the-scene follow up investigation." Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Irvington has failed to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez is obligated under General Order 2:00 IV.A for the actions of the patrolman.

I CONCLUDE that Irvington has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez violated departmental charges SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.a, SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29, SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.c, and SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31.

I CONCLUDE that Irvington has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Velez violated departmental charges SOP 2017-09.IV.H.3.1.32 and General Order 2:00 IV.A.

Now to address Velez's argument that Irvington did not comply with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, also known as the "45-day rule." Velez alleges that the 45-day period began when the Internal Affairs Department received this preliminary investigation report rather than when Internal Affairs conducted its own investigation.

The 45-day rule provides:

> A complaint charging a violation of the internal rules and regulations established for the conduct of a law enforcement unit shall be filed no later than the 45th day after the date on which the person filing the complaint obtained sufficient information to file the matter upon which the complaint is based...a failure to comply with said provisions as to the service of the complaint and the time within which a complaint is to be filed shall require a dismissal of the complaint.
> N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147

"The 45–day period runs from the date upon which the person responsible for the filing of the disciplinary complaint receives sufficient information upon which to base a complaint." Aristizibal v. City of Atl. City, 380 N.J. Super. 405, 427, (Law. Div. 2005). The court in Aristizibal also makes clear that "The statute contemplates that an investigation may be necessary before a decision can be made as to whether a basis exists to initiate disciplinary charges." Aristizibal, 380 N.J. Super. at 427. The "45-day rule" is "undoubtedly not designed to force an appointing authority, at the risk of being estopped, to prospectively bring ultimately valid, but unripe, disciplinary charges within 45 days of an incident without properly investigating the matter to ensure that sufficient information to bring such charges is obtained." Id. at 426 (citing In the Matter of Joseph McCormick, OAL Docket No. CSV 6319-00, 2001 WL 34609057, 3 (Dec. 4, 2001).

It is undisputed that in Irvington, the Internal Affairs Department makes charging decisions and issues Preliminary Notices of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), not the Public Safety Director. I CONCLUDE that Irvington has proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Internal Affairs Department is responsible for making charging decisions, and that it had sufficient information upon which to base a complaint at the conclusion of its investigation on December 8, 2017, the date its investigation was completed, and not when it received Franks' report on October 27, 2017. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that Irvington complied with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, when its Internal Affairs Department signed off on the PNDA on December 25, 2017.

I CONCLUDE that Velez's argument is contrary to the decision made in Aristizibal, 380 N.J. Super. at 427, inasmuch as the Internal Affairs investigator assigned to this matter conducted interviews of the witnesses in order to uncover exactly what happened and to confirm whether Franks' preliminary report was correct, and also to determine whether there was information which may exonerate any of the officers.

Appropriateness of Penalty

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), our Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations and the like on the one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously brought to the attention of and admitted by the employee." Bock, 38 N.J. 523-24.

As the Supreme Court explained in In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30, "[s]ince Bock, the concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways when determining the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." According to the Court:

> . . . First, principles of progressive discipline can support the imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct . . .
>
> The second use to which the principle of progressive discipline has been put is to mitigate the penalty for a current offense . . . for an employee who has a substantial record of employment > that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions . . .

>
> . . . [T]hat is not to say that incremental discipline is a principle that must be applied in every disciplinary setting. To the contrary, judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when . . . the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.
> [In re Hermann, 192 N.J. at 30-33 (citations omitted).]

It is undisputed that Velez has a lengthy disciplinary history, which includes: (1) July 7, 2005 – written reprimand; (2) June 28, 2006 – 90 day suspension for leaving town during a break and an altercation with a girlfriend; (3) December 20, 2007 – written reprimand – driving privileges suspended; (4) June 15, 2010 – 2 days for failing to secure evidence; (5) March 24, 2011 – written reprimand – vehicular pursuit out of town boundaries; (6) January 8, 2013 – performance notice – overtime entry; (7) March 6, 2014 – written reprimand – AWOL; (8) February 7, 2014 – 10 day suspension – improper arrest ; (9) January 19, 2015 – 4 day suspension; (10) October 1, 2015 – counseling; and (11) June 23, 2016 – 90 day suspension and plea agreement for future violations.

Irvington has argued that Velez agreed to a "last chance agreement", which would result in his termination in the event of a future charge, when he agreed to plead guilty in the prior disciplinary action to ninety-day suspension. Irvington admitted that the ninety-day suspension plea agreement was essentially the sole justification for termination in the within matter. As a result, I examined the audiotape of the ninety-day suspension during the within hearing. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that that there is no mention of a last chance agreement in the ninety-day suspension hearing, and that the record was clear as to the same. I CONCLUDE that when Velez accepted the ninety-day suspension, Irvington would move for termination in the future if Velez was found guilty of another infraction, at no time did Velez waive any rights to a fair adjudication on the merits of any future disciplinary matter, including the within case.

I CONCLUDE that Irvington's decision to terminate Velez based upon a last chance agreement does not comport with the document incorporating the ninety-day suspension or it is not supported by the audiotaped rendition of that agreement, which was played twice in Court. I CONCLUDE that both the document and the recording make no mention of a last chance agreement, or that Velez would be automatically terminated for any future sustained disciplinary charges.

Notwithstanding the existence or non-existance of a last chance agreement, Irvington argues that termination is appropriate in this matter under the concept of "progressive discipline". It is undisputed that Velez has a lengthy disciplinary history as documented by Irvington. However, Velez has also been honored with numerous awards and commendations. In addition, there was no evidence presented by Irvington by testimony or documentation, that Velez was not a competent officer. The testimony of all the witnesses attested to the same.

I CONCLUDE that the concept of progressive discipline is not applicable herein, as I cannot ignore the mitigating factors in rendering my conclusion that Irvington has proven by a preponderance of the evidence that Velez violated departmental charges SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.a, SOP 2017-09.IV.G.3.1.29, SOP 2016-16 IV.B.3.c, and SOP 2017-09 IV.G.3.1.31. I CONCLUDE that these mitigating factors was that Irvington failed to prove that Velez intentionally failed to respond to the dispathcer's call of a robbery, and the testimony of Franks that there were "extenuating circustances" that prevented Velez from hearing the transmission, and Taylor's testimony that missing a transmission doe not equate to failing to monitor.

I CONCLUDE that Irvington did not prove (or even allege) that Velez deliberately failed to monitor the radio, and that the only proofs submitted by Irvington was that Velez could not hear the dispatcher say the word "robbery" when she dispatched Ewell.[9] The record reveals that Green and Ewell did not hear it either, and they were given minor discipline. The only witness who heard the word was Zepeda who was wearing a shoulder mic that rests inches from his ear. Velez did not have a shoulder mic.

I CONCLUDE that the penalty in this case was not proportionate to the punishment imposed for similar offenses. As the New Jersey Supreme Court has emphasized, "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses by public employers..." In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 192 (2011). In the matter of In re Stallworth, a Camden County pump-station operator was charged with falsifying records and abusing work hours, and the ALJ imposed removal. The Civil Service Commission (Commission) modified the penalty to a four-month suspension and the appellate court reversed. The Court re-examined the principle of progressive discipline. Acknowledging that progressive discipline has been bypassed where the conduct is sufficiently egregious, the Court noted that "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses." In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. at 193. Finding that the totality of an employee's work history, with emphasis on the "reasonably recent past," should be considered to assure proper progressive discipline, the Court modified and affirmed (as modified) the lower court and remanded the matter to the Commission for reconsideration.

In this case, Ewell and Dobson received one-day suspensions for directly violating the departmental regulations in failing to contact the supervisory officers of a robbery. I CONCLUDE that terminating Velez is clearly disproportionate when compared to similar conduct by Green who, like Velez, was guilty of nothing other than not being able to hear a word uttered during a radio transmission. Similarly, I CONCLUDE that Irvington's agreement to accept Green's three-day suspension for the same "conduct" as Velez, shows that the termination of Velez is disproportionate to the underlying charges.

Much has been said regarding Velez's ninety-day suspension. However, I CONCLUDE that the record is devoid of any evidence by Irvington concerning the severity of the original charges. Irvington chooses instead to argue that Velez agreed to a "last chance agreement", which I have concluded did not exist and on Velez's prior disciplinary history. However, as I have CONCLUDED "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses by public employers..." In re Stallworth, 208 N.J.192, and therefore, I CONCLUDE that termination was not appropriate in the within matter, and that Velez should be suspended, like Green, for three-days.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the action of the respondent, Irvington in terminating Velez is REVERSED, and that the appropriate discipline is a three-day suspension.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Re: William Fowler v. Green Brook Regional Center, Department of Law and Public Safety
(CSC Docket No. 2018-2915 and OAL Docket No. CSV 6408-18) - SETTLEMENT

Dear Mr. Fowler and Ms. Pinkas:

The appeal of William Fowler, a Truck Driver, Single Axle with Green Brook Regional Center, Department of Human Services, of his removal effective March 19, 2018, on charges, was before Acting Director and Chief Administrative Law Judge Lisa James-Beavers (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on November 26, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on November 27, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on January 11, 2019. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective January 12, 2019.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Cheryl Borowski
Kean University

CSC DKT. NOS. 2017-1322 & 2017-1391
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 09280-17

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: NOVEMBER 23, 2018 (NFA)

The appeal of Cheryl Borowski, former Adjunct Professor, Kean University, appeal of violation of the New Jersey State Policy Prohibiting Discrimination in the Workplace (State Policy), was before Administrative Law Judge Elissa Mizzone Testa (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on October 23, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, as well as having reviewed the exceptions and reply, and made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on November 21, 2018, accepted the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision wherein the appellant's appeal was dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

DISCUSSION

By way of background, in an unrelated appeal of the proper classification of a position filed by a State College employee in October 2017, four months after the subject matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing, the primary issue reviewed by the Commission was its jurisdiction with respect to certain classes of State College and University employees. After an exhaustive review of the legislative and regulatory history and the overlapping responsibilities between the Commission and State Colleges and Universities, it was determined that certain classes of employees, such as professors and adjunct professors, were not subject to the provisions of Title 11A of the New Jersey Statutes or Title 4A of the New Jersey Administrative Code pertaining to the classification of positions. A subsequent review was undertaken to determine whether those classes were similarly not subject to Title 11A and Title 4A in the context of a discrimination appeal. Of note in this regard, N.J.S.A. 18A:64-21.2, which became effective on July 9, 1986, provides that professional members of the academic, administrative, and teaching staff are not subject to the provisions of Title 11A. Therefore, per that statute, professors, adjunct professors and other teaching staff are not considered Civil Service employees.

N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.1(a)1 provides in pertinent part, that the State Policy applies to all employees and applicants for employment in State departments, commissions, State colleges or Universities, agencies, and authorities. N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(a) provides that all employees and applicants for employment have the right and are encouraged to immediately report suspected violations of the State Policy. Consequently, all employees of a State College or University, including those employees not covered by Title 11A may file a complaint alleging discrimination under the State Policy. However, the ability to appeal the resulting determination to the Commission is limited to specific classes of employees. Specifically, N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(m) states that a complainant who is in the career, unclassified or senior executive service, or who is an applicant for employment, who disagrees with the determination of the State agency head or designee, may submit an appeal to the Commission. Moreover, N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(n) provides that in a case where a violation has been substantiated, and no disciplinary action recommended, the party against whom the complaint was filed may appeal the determination to the Commission. Although N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(n) does not specify that the "party against whom the complaint was filed" must be in the career, unclassified or senior executive service or an applicant for employment, it is clear from a full reading of N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2 that the ability to appeal a determination is to be limited to only applicants for Civil Service employment, or employees already serving in the career, unclassified or senior executive service, i.e., individuals who are in the Civil Service or who are attempting to enter the Civil Service. To conclude otherwise is neither logical nor reasonable. In this regard, since N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(m) specifically limits appeals from complainants only to employees or candidates subject to Civil Service law and rules, the same conditions must apply to N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(n). To not conclude so would give parties against whom a complaint is filed who are not subject to Civil Service law and rules greater appeal rights than similarly situated complainants under N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(m). No such intent can be found in the legislative or regulatory history.

Consequently, as the appellant in this matter was an Adjunct Professor, her appeal to the Commission of the determination made regarding the subject State Policy matter was invalid. The Commission notes that variables such as the fact that its interpretation of the rules above prohibiting such classes of employees the right to appeal discrimination matters to the Commission occurred after the appellant's original appeal, or the fact that other previous appellants may have been afforded such rights, cannot be used as justification for the continuance of any such appeal. It is clear from the Commission's analysis that such employees do not have the right to appeal discrimination determinations to the Commission and any such appeals permitted previously were allowed in error. Thus, a current appellant cannot assert any estoppel or other rights to such an appeal as no vested or other rights are accorded by an administrative error. See Cipriano v. Department of Civil Service, 151 N.J. Super. 86 (App. Div. 1977); O'Malley v. Department of Energy, 109 N.J. 309 (1987); HIP of New Jersey v. New Jersey Department of Banking and Insurance, 309 N.J. Super. 538 (App. Div. 1998). Accordingly, the ALJ's dismissal of the appellant's appeal for lack of jurisdiction was proper.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission therefore dismisses the appeal of Cheryl Borowski for lack of jurisdiction.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

BEFORE ELISSA MIZZONE TESTA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 28, 2017, the above captioned matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.A.C. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was conducted in this matter on June 14, 20 and 26, 2018. Prior to the submission of Post Summation Briefs, a Directive from the Director of the Civil Service Commission, Christopher Myers, was forwarded to the undersigned indicating that the OAL does not have jurisdiction to review this matter. See, correspondence dated October 4, 2018 and October 19, 2018 attached hereto. More specifically, that Adjunct Professors are not considered Civil Service employees and therefore, do not have the standing to appeal a State Policy determination. Since C.B. is serving in a position not subject to Title 11A, this Directive impacts her appeal before the OAL because the Civil Service Commission does not haver jurisdiction to review her appeal. Consequently, as the issue of the Commission's jurisdiction was not raised prior to its review of C.B.'s appeal, this matter was improperly referred to the OAL for a hearing.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that this matter is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-

Dear Judge Testa:

Kean University is in receipt of correspondence from the Director of the Civil Service Commission (CSC) regarding a separate matter that impacts this case. Please see attached letter dated October 1, 2018. In this letter, the Director expressly says adjunct professors are not considered Civil Service employees and therefore do not have the right to appeal a State Policy determination. This directly impacts Borowski's appeal as the CSC does not have jurisdiction to review these matters.

Given this letter, we request this matter be formally withdrawn. Should Your Honor need any additional information, please do not hesitate to contact our office.

Respectfully submitted,

Re: In the Matter of C.B., Kean University; Discrimination Appeal (CSC Docket Nos. 2017 and 2017-1391)

Dear Judge Testa:

This letter is in furtherance of the above-referenced matter which was referred for a hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Civil Service Commission (Commission) on June 21, 2017. In this matter, C.B. is challenging the determination of the Chief of Staff, Kean University, which found that she had violated the New Jersey State Policy Prohibiting Discrimination in the Workplace (State Policy).

By way of background, in a classification appeal filed by a State College employee in October 2017, four months after the matter of C.B. was referred for a hearing, the primary issue reviewed by the Commission was the matter of its jurisdiction with respect to certain classes of employees of the State Colleges and Universities. After an exhaustive review of the legislative and regulatory history and the overlapping responsibilities between the Commission and State Colleges, it was determined that certain classes of employees, such as professors and adjunct professors, were removed from the provisions of Title 11A of the New Jersey Statutes (Title 11A). As a result, this agency reviewed the status of the employees of State Colleges and Universities to determine whether professional members of the academic, administrative and teaching staff, and the non-professional and clerical staff in those institutions were removed from Civil Service with regard to discrimination matters. In particular, N.J.S.A. 18A:64-21.2, which became effective on July 9, 1986, provides that professional members of the academic, administrative, and teaching staff are not subject to the provisions of Title 11A. Therefore, professors, adjunct professors and other teaching staff are not considered Civil Service employees, and thus, as set forth below, do not have the right to file an appeal to the Commission of a State Policy determination.

In that regard, N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.1(a)1 provides in pertinent part, that the State Policy applies to all employees and applicants for employment in State departments, commissions, State colleges or universities, agencies, and authorities. N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(a) provides that all employees and applicants for employment have the right and are encouraged to immediately report suspected violations of the State Policy. Consequently, all employees of a State College or University, including those employees not covered by Title 11A may file a complaint alleging discrimination under the State Policy. However, the ability to appeal the resulting determination to the Commission is limited to specific classes of employees. N.J.A.C. 4A:7-3.2(m) states, in relevant part, that a complainant who is in the career, unclassified, or senior executive service, or who is an applicant for employment, who disagrees with the determination of the State agency head or designee, may submit a written appeal, within 20 days of the receipt of the final letter of determination from the State agency head or designee, to the Civil Service Commission. Therefore, it is clear that C.B., as a former Adjunct Professor with Kean University, does not have a right to appeal the Chief of Staff's determination.

Consequently, as the issue of the Commission's jurisdiction was not raised prior to its review of C.B.'s appeal, the matter of the disputes of material fact was improperly referred to OAL for a hearing. As noted above, the matter of jurisdiction arose in another case before the Commission and it was determined that certain classes of State College and University employees, such as adjunct professors and professors, were statutorily removed from the provisions of Title 11A effective July 9, 1986. Therefore, since July 2018, the Commission has advised those employees serving in a position not subject to Title 11A that it does not have the jurisdiction to review any type of appeal.

Sincerely,

Christopher Myers
Director

In the Matter of Dwayne Austin
Hudson County Sheriff's Department

CSC DKT. NO. 2018-1881
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00726-18

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: DECEMBER 7, 2018 BW

The appeal of Dwayne Austin, Public Safety Telecommunicator, Hudson County Sheriff's Department, 30 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Margaret M. Monaco, who rendered her initial decision on October 26, 2018 reversing the 30 working day suspension. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on December 5, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the penalty has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to 30 days of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Further, since the appellant has prevailed, he is entitled to counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay and counsel fees are finally resolved.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Dwayne Austin. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted 30 days back pay, benefits, and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay or counsel fees.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay or counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00726-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-1881

IN THE MATTER OF DWAYNE AUSTIN, HUDSON COUNTY SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT.

Samuel B. Wenocur, Esq., for appellant Dwayne Austin (Oxfeld Cohen, attorneys)

John A. Smith III, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Hudson County (Donato J. Battista, County Counsel)

Record Closed: October 25, 2018 Decided: October 26, 2018

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This matter involves disciplinary charges against appellant Dwayne Austin, who is employed as a 911 operator with the Hudson County Sheriff's Department (the Department). Appellant appeals from a thirty-day suspension stemming from his use of sick time.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Department issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 20, 2017, informing appellant of the charges of inability to perform duties; chronic or excessive absenteeism; conduct unbecoming a public employee; and other sufficient cause issued against him. Specifically, the PNDA states:

> You have surpassed the allotted usage of sick days for calender [sic] year 2017. As of 9-20-17 you have logged 17 sick days. You have also demonstrated a pattern of absences on 4 separate occasions as indicated on the departmental reports and sign-in sheets therefore causing an inability and inefficiency to your performance by not be[ing] at your position during the directed hours of operation. Your lack of action for not following the Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Office is conduct unbecoming a public employee.

After a departmental hearing, the Department issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated December 18, 2017, sustaining the charges and providing for appellant's suspension for thirty days. Appellant filed an appeal, and the Civil Service Commission transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law, where it was filed for determination as a contested case. The hearing was held on June 7, 2018. After the conclusion of the testimony, the record remained open for the receipt of post-hearing submissions. The parties filed briefs in support of their respective positions, and the record closed upon receipt of the last submission.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

At the hearing, the Department presented testimony by principal personnel technician Richard Sires and 911 coordinator Elba D'Aiuto, and appellant testified on his own behalf. Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses who testified, I FIND the following undisputed FACTS.

Appellant has been employed as a full-time 911 operator with the Department since June 20, 2014. (R-3.) Elba D'Aiuto, who holds the position of 911 coordinator, supervised 911 employees, including appellant, during the pertinent period.

Pursuant to the applicable collective-bargaining agreement, after an employee's first calendar year of service, the County provides the employee with 15 days of sick leave at the beginning of each calendar year, and unused sick leave is accumulated from year to year without limit. (R-2.) At the beginning of 2017, appellant had 19.5 accrued sick days and, after receiving 15 days for calendar year 2017, he had a total of 34.5 days of sick leave. (R-3.)

Appellant's normal shift was 4:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m. Appellant's schedule rotated so that he had one out of every three weekends off and he was never regularly scheduled to work more than three or four days in a row. As of September 20, 2017, appellant had used 17 of his 34.5 sick days. (J-1.) He used sick days on April 6, 8, 9 and 10, 2017; June 21, 22, 23, 26, 27 and 28, 2017; July 30 and 31, 2017; August 2, 3, 4 and 31, 2017; and September 2, 2017. (See J-1; R-3.) The 17 days resulted from four sick-leave occurrences that were at least 2 days long. In April, appellant was out sick for 4 work days; he was out sick on April 6, he had a day off on April 7, and he was out sick on April 8, 9 and 10, 2017. In June, appellant was out sick for 6 work days; he was out sick on June 21, 22 and 23, he had days off on June 24 and 25, and he was out sick on June 26, 27 and 28, 2017. In July/August, appellant was out sick for 5 work days; he was out sick on July 30 and 31, he was off on August 1, he was out sick on August 2, 3 and 4, 2017, and he was off on August 5, 2017. In August/September, appellant was out sick for 2 work days; he was out sick on August 31, he was off on September 1, and he was out sick on September 2, 2017.

The County Employee Handbook, which appellant received, addresses "Sick Leave Abuse" and states:

> Abuse of sick leave or chronic or excessive absenteeism will result in discipline up to and including discharge. Abuse includes using sick leave when you are not ill. Examples of chronic or excessive absenteeism include situations where > employees routinely use more than the amount of sick leave earned in a calendar year or where a pattern of absences is established.

>
> [J-3; emphasis added.]

A substantially similar provision is set forth in the collective-bargaining agreement. (See R-2.)

The Department Rules and Regulations, which appellant received, also addresses "Abuse of Sick Leave." (R-1.) Specifically, Section 2.1 of the Rules and Regulations states:

> An employee who has been absent on sick leave for periods totaling more than fifteen (15) days in one calendar year consisting of periods of less than five (5) days may be required to submit acceptable medical evidence for any additional sick leave in that year and may be the subject of disciplinary action.
>
> An employee whose absence on sick leave indicates a pattern; i.e., adjacent to days off, holidays or vacation or compensation days, which occurs more than five (5) times in one calendar year will be required to submit acceptable medical evidence for any additional sick leave in that year and may be the subject of disciplinary action.
>

When an employee with the 911 call center is absent from work, another employee must cover the shift, which may result in mandatory overtime.

The submitted disciplinary record for appellant does not include prior discipline related to appellant's use of sick time. Appellant's prior disciplinary record consists of the following: a five-day suspension, via Notice of Minor Disciplinary Action dated January 23, 2015, for sleeping on duty and conduct unbecoming (R-5); a twenty-day suspension, with an additional ten days held in abeyance, for sleeping on duty (R-4); a two-day suspension, via Notice of Disciplinary Action dated May 9, 2016, for reporting late for duty and failing to call during the period of January to May 2016 (R-6); a five-day suspension, via Notice of Disciplinary Action dated October 31, 2016, for reporting late for duty and failing to call during the period of January to October 2016 (R-7); a written/verbal warning on June 15, 2017, for reporting late for duty and failing to call during the period of December 15, 2016, to June 15, 2017 (R-8); and a written/verbal warning on July 3, 2017, for failing to call the 911 center while using sick time in June 2017 to update his status. (R-9).

In addition to the evidence that forms the foundation of the above findings of facts, a summary of other pertinent testimony follows.

The Testimony

Richard Sires

Sires addressed the absenteeism provisions set forth in the County Employee Handbook, the collective-bargaining agreement, and the Department Rules and Regulations. He agreed that the Department Rules and Regulations were more narrowly tailored to appellant's department than the County Employee Handbook, which applies to all County employees. Sires also agreed that the County Employee Handbook and the collective-bargaining agreement contain substantially similar language and refer to "situations where employees routinely use more than the amount of sick leave earned in a calendar year." Sires articulated his belief that exceeding fifteen sick days in a year for the first time would probably support a warning or something else. He did not know whether appellant had used more than fifteen sick days in any prior year. Sires acknowledged that the Department Rules and Regulations require more than five instances in one calendar year of alleged sick days adjacent to a scheduled day off, a holiday, a vacation day, or a compensation day for an employee to be disciplined. Although the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action charges appellant with a pattern of absences on four separate occasions, Sires testified as to five occasions[1] and could not clearly explain the basis for some of appellant's absences

[1] These occasions included the following: appellant was out sick on April 6, 2017, and had a day off on April 7, 2017; appellant was out sick on June 23, 2017, in conjunction with the weekend off on June 24 and 25, 2017; appellant was out sick on August 2, 2017, in conjunction with time off on August 1, 2017; being considered an "in conjunction" sick day. He further admitted that since the Department had identified only five instances, appellant did not violate Section 2.1 of the Department Rules and Regulations as it relates to a pattern of absences.

Elba D'Aiuto

D'Aiuto testified that she had spoken to appellant about his attendance around June 2017 and that this discussion occurred before her written/verbal warnings to appellant on June 15 and July 3, 2017. D'Aiuto acknowledged that this discussion was not memorialized in a document and that the warnings she issued do not reference the number of appellant's absences or a warning that he was approaching fifteen sick days. According to D'Aiuto, she previously counseled appellant several times about his tardiness and absences, but could not identify when this occurred, except as documented in the notice she issued in November 2016, which refers to appellant's pattern of absences. (R-7.) She acknowledged that this referenced pattern of absence was not the subject of disciplinary action. Although D'Aiuto opined that appellant had previously used more than fifteen sick days in a calendar year, she did not provide detail as to the year this occurred or documents to support her testimony, which is not reflected in any disciplinary action against him. Although D'Aiuto also testified about seeing appellant at the mall on one of the days that he had called out sick, I give no weight to this uncorroborated testimony, which appellant denied, in that it goes beyond the scope of the charges against him.

Dwayne Austin

Appellant described that he had an underlying medical condition (i.e., diabetes) that affected his ability to work. Appellant disputed D'Aiuto's assertion that he had previously used more than fifteen sick days in a calendar year. Appellant acknowledged that he had discussions with D'Aiuto regarding his attendance, but described that most of these discussions involved his lateness. He testified that, prior to appellant was out sick on August 4, 2017, in conjunction with the weekend off on August 5 and 6, 2017; and appellant was out sick on August 31, 2017, in conjunction with a day off on September 1, 2017. (See J-2.)

---

the disciplinary action in 2017, D'Aiuto did not discuss with him the number of sick days he used, and appellant brought in doctor's notes for all of his seventeen absences. Appellant described that he distinguished sick days from absences; he understood absences to be when a person chose not to go to work, and he was not aware that he could not use sick time if he was sick.

Based upon a review of the testimony and documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

Appellant suffered from a medical condition in 2017 and brought in doctor's notes for all of his seventeen absences. Although D'Aiuto had a discussion with appellant regarding his attendance in 2017, I am not persuaded that this discussion concerned the number of sick days that appellant had used, which topic is not documented in the warnings D'Aiuto later issued to appellant. The credible, competent evidence also fails to demonstrate that appellant had previously used more than fifteen days in a calendar year. Although D'Aiuto articulated a belief that appellant had previously used more than fifteen days, the Department did not introduce documentation regarding appellant's attendance prior to 2017, and appellant's prior disciplinary actions and written warnings do not involve his use of sick time. That appellant had previously exceeded his allotted sick days is further undermined by the fact that appellant has only been employed by the Department since June 2014 and had 19.5 accrued sick days at the beginning of 2017.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The Civil Service Act and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto govern the rights and duties of a civil service employee. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1, et seq. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the employee is guilty of the charges brought against him and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

The Department bears the burden of proving the charges against appellant by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). This forum has the duty to decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to a reasonable probability of truth. Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna & W. R.R. Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958). Precisely what is needed to satisfy this burden necessarily must be judged on a case-by-case basis.

An appointing authority may discipline an employee for, among other causes, an inability to perform duties, chronic or excessive absenteeism, conduct unbecoming a public employee, and other sufficient cause. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). Conduct unbecoming a public employee has been described as an "elastic" phrase that includes "'conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency'" of the public entity or "'which has a tendency to destroy public respect for [public] employees and confidence in the operation of [public] services.'" In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960) (citation omitted); see Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998). Although the regulation does not define when absenteeism will rise to the level of chronic or excessive, it is generally understood that chronic conduct is conduct that continues over a long time or recurs frequently, Good v. N. State Prison, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 529, 531, and "excessive" is defined as "exceeding a normal, usual, reasonable, or proper limit." American Heritage Dictionary 638 (3rd ed. 1992); see Rios v. Paterson Hous. Auth., CSV 3009-02, Initial Decision (August 1, 2005), adopted, MSB (September 13, 2005), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

In the within matter, the County Employee Handbook, collective-bargaining agreement, and Department Rules and Regulations specifically define when an employee's absence will be deemed to rise to the level of sick-leave abuse warranting disciplinary action. The County Employee Handbook and collective-bargaining agreement explicitly state that "chronic or excessive absenteeism include[s] situations where employees routinely use more than the amount of sick leave earned in a calendar year." (Emphasis added.) Clearly, an event must occur more than once before it can be considered routine. See Cambridge English Dictionary (defining routinely "as part of the usual way of doing things"), https://dictionary.cambridge.org/us/dictionary/english/routinely; Merriam-Webster (defining routine as "of a commonplace or repetitious character"), https://www.merriam-webster.com/dictionary/routine; English by Oxford Dictionaries (defining routinely as "part of a regular procedure" and "[f]requently and without proper consideration of the consequences"), https://en.oxforddictionaries.com/definition/us/routinely. Accordingly, by their terms, the County Employee Handbook and the collective-bargaining agreement require evidence that the employee has previously used more than the allotted amount of sick days in a given year before an employee can be subject to disciplinary action. In short, the Department failed to demonstrate that appellant had exceeded fifteen sick days prior to 2017.

The Department Rules and Regulations also do not support grounds for disciplining appellant because of his seventeen sick days. Rather, the Rules and Regulations state that an employee may be subject to disciplinary action when the employee "has been absent on sick leave for periods totaling more than fifteen (15) sick days in one calendar year consisting of periods of less than five (5) days." (Emphasis added.) The plain reading of this provision does not purport to capture situations when an employee exceeds fifteen sick days in a calendar year due to an extended sick leave consisting of periods of five or more sick days. In the within matter, appellant had four sick-leave occurrences, two of which totaled eleven days and were for periods of five and six days in length. It was only because of those extended absences that appellant used more than fifteen sick days in 2017.

The Department also failed to demonstrate a pattern of absences by appellant warranting disciplinary action. Initially, all of the identified pattern-of-absence days were part of longer sick leaves, and the Department failed to demonstrate the basis for designating certain days as patterns-of-absence days. For example, some of the asserted patterned days were in the middle of extended sick leaves, while other sick days adjacent to scheduled days off were not considered pattern. More significantly, the Department Rules and Regulations define a pattern of absences that may subject an employee to discipline as when an employee uses sick days "adjacent to days off, holidays or vacation or compensation days, which occurs more than five (5) times in one calendar year." (R-1; emphasis added.) Simply put, the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action charges appellant with a pattern of absences on only four occasions. Although Sires testified as to five occasions, this testimony also falls short of the more-than-five-times requirement set forth in the Rules and Regulations. Indeed, Sires candidly acknowledged that since there were only five alleged instances in 2017, appellant's absences did not violate this provision of the Department Rules and Regulations.

Based upon a review of the totality of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that the Department has failed to shoulder its burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that appellant's use of seventeen sick days constitutes an inability to perform duties, chronic or excessive absenteeism, conduct unbecoming a public employee, or other sufficient cause that provides grounds for disciplinary action against him.

ORDER

I ORDER that the charges set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated December 18, 2017, be and hereby are DISMISSED. I further ORDER that back pay and other benefits be issued to appellant as may be dictated by N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CSR DKT. NO. 2018-3124
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 06489-18

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: DECEMBER 7, 2018 BW

The appeal of George Bailey, County Correction Officer, Cumberland County, Department of Corrections, removal effective April 17, 2018, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Dorothy Incarvito-Garrabrant, who rendered her initial decision on November 5, 2018 reversing the removal. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on December 5, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the removal has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from April 17, 2018 to the actual date of reinstatement. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Additionally, the appellant is entitled to reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Public Safety, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of George Bailey. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted back pay, benefits, and seniority from April 17, 2018 to the actual date of reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSR 06489-18

AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A

2018-3124

IN THE MATTER OF GEORGE BAILEY, CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

Peter Paris, Esq. for appellant, George Bailey (Law Office of David Beckett, attorneys)

Theodore Baker, Esq., Cumberland County Counsel for respondent, Cumberland County

Record Closed: September 21, 2018 Decided: November 5, 2018

BEFORE DOROTHY INCARVITO-GARRABRANT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, George Bailey, a Corrections Officer employed by Cumberland County, Department of Corrections (CCDOC or respondent) appeals from the determination of respondent that he be terminated, pursuant to a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated April 18, 2018, for violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) conduct unbecoming an employee; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically Cumberland County Department of Corrections Discipline Policy 3.02A, a/k/a 84-17 C(11) conduct unbecoming an employee.

The appellant denies the allegations that he had inappropriate sexual contact with a former inmate. He also contends that he was inappropriately added to a list of identified officers, who may have had improper relationships with that inmate, and that he was added to that group after that inmate instituted a civil suit in the United States District Court for New Jersey against the respondent and its corrections officers and officials. As a result, he maintains he was targeted for termination with these false and unsubstantiated allegations.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 30, 2017, respondent issued a first Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth the charges and specifications against appellant. Following a departmental hearing February 2, 2018, the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action on April 18, 2018, sustaining the charges brought in the preliminary notice and terminating appellant from employment effective April 17, 2018. Appellant filed a timely notice of appeal. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 4, 2018, for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13.

On August 14, 2018, after the first day of the hearing, the Honorable Dorothy Incarvito-Garrabrant, ALJ, entered a Confidentiality Order, which was consented to by counsel for both appellant and respondent, to protect certain discovery and evidential material, which may contain sensitive and confidential information about the parties herein and third parties, which should not be disclosed to third parties, other litigants, or to the public.[1] three exhibits, one which was redacted in part and two which were not have been placed in a sealed envelope and transmitted with this decision.

[1] Counsel for the parties advised that other civil service disciplinary matters are pending before the (OAL) which involve this inmate and other corrections officers, arising from allegations of inappropriate conduct and relationships, among other charges.

The hearing in this matter was held on August 2, August 30, and September 4, 2018. At the time of the hearing, due to the time constraints and scheduling of the hearing, the parties discussed and agreed that the initial decision would be submitted on November 5, 2018. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on September 21, 2018.[2]

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

For Respondent

Jennifer Cantoni (Cantoni)[3] is a forty-two-year-old woman, who admitted to being a heroin addict since she was eighteen years old.[4] Cantoni's heroin addiction caused her to be repeatedly incarcerated in the Cumberland County Jail, and for a short sentence in New Jersey State Prison, for most of the last twenty-four years. Cantoni stated that her heroin use caused her to commit and be convicted of multiple criminal acts of shoplifting and drug and paraphernalia possession. (CCDOC-1.) Cantoni admitted that her life-long drug addiction and heroin use has led to health and loss of memory issues. Cantoni testified that she has suffered, family, social, legal, and financial problems, as a result of her drug addiction and use. Cantoni admitted she prostituted herself to support her drug addiction. She only recollected being free from drug use after completing a one-year treatment program in Michigan in 1999. She began using heroin again within one year of that treatment.

[2] Appellant and respondent consented to the admission of an additional exhibit labeled P-2, which was provided with appellant's closing brief. This exhibit was a copy of multiple text messages from and to the inmate involved in this proceeding and a separate correction officer, who was previously employed by respondent. The parties argued the relevance of these messages in their closing summations. P-2 was admitted into evidence and given the weight deemed appropriate by the undersigned ALJ.

[3] Cantoni was accompanied in this proceeding by her social worker and Mark Natale, Esq., the attorney representing her in her litigation filed in the U.S. District Court against respondent and several officers under Docket No. 1:17-cv-07893. (CCDOC-3.) By consent of all parties, Mr. Natale was permitted to be present throughout the proceedings, although he did not participate.

[4] At the time of her testimony in this matter, August 2, 2018, Cantoni was in a residential rehabilitation program at Integrity House in Newark, New Jersey. She had been released to that facility from the Cumberland County Jail as a result of her cooperation with investigators in this and related matters involving other correction officers. During her testimony, Cantoni denied being under the influence of any drugs, alcohol, or substances, which would impair her ability to understand what she was doing or her ability to testify.

Most of Cantoni's incarcerations were in the Cumberland County Jail. Cantoni related that her incarcerations started when she was eighteen. Female inmates are assigned to the "A-pod" unit at the jail, and are separated from male inmates. Over the course of her incarcerations, she became a "trustee" worker. A trustee worker was permitted to leave the unit and do jobs like cleaning the warden's office or assignments in the admissions office. Cantoni stated that she was not supervised while doing her trustee work. Cantoni also stated that there were officers who supervised the trustees. She then stated that she was not supervised, when cleaning the Warden's office. Cantoni denied that she manipulated any of the officers to be selected as a trustee worker. She stated that she was selected because "[she] was trustworthy." Cantoni testified that she tried to become friends with the officers to get cigarettes, food, and money in jail from them.

Cantoni stated that she first encountered appellant when she was working as a trustee in CCDOC jail. She believed she first met him about five years after she began serving sentences in the jail. Her first recollection was seeing him in about 2000 talking to other officers. Appellant supervised Cantoni once while she was required to go outside the jail to clean the windows. Cantoni testified she knew his name and who he was. Cantoni stated that appellant recognized her name a couple of years after she began going to jail because he called her by it, while she was in the jail. When asked if there was any physical contact with appellant in the jail, Cantoni indicated there was not. She further stated that he did not give her any contraband while she was in jail. Cantoni thought they were friends while she was incarcerated in jail.

Cantoni testified that in 2008 or 2009 she had her first contact with appellant. It was outside of jail. It occurred at 2nd Street in Millville. Cantoni said this is an area known for prostitution. Appellant picked her up and they went back to appellant's house where they had sex, for which he paid her. Cantoni stated she believed that appellant knew who she was, when he picked her up in Millville; however, she could not remember if he knew her name on this occasion. She believed his house was down the street from the jail in Bridgeton. She did not recall the address, house, or street. She stated she remembered that his daughters' room was really pretty. She stated that appellant had twin daughters. Cantoni said that she was pretty sure the appellant drove a red SUV, but she was not sure if it was red or blue. Cantoni could not remember if he drove her back to Millville or not after their liaison.

She had learned in the jail that appellant had a transportation company that he owned.

Within two years, sometime between 2002-2005, Cantoni had her next contact with appellant. This was outside of jail. Cantoni stated that appellant called her. Appellant picked her up and took her to the same house. Robert Brownlow (Brownlow) was at the appellant's house doing construction. Cantoni knew Brownlow socially. While appellant and Cantoni were having sexual relations, appellant called Brownlow into the room and asked if he wanted to have sex with them. Cantoni stated she just gave him sad eyes to discourage him from joining in, and Brownlow declined the offer. Cantoni stated she knew Brownlow because he was a drug user. She knew Brownlow from jail.

The third contact between Cantoni and the appellant was at the Days Inn in Vineland. Appellant came to the Days Inn with a friend to buy lawn equipment from Cantoni's friend, Robert Kobash (Kobash), who had a lawn care business. Cantoni alleged that appellant paid Kobash three bricks of heroin for the lawn equipment. They made arrangements for her to go to appellant's house and have sex with him. Cantoni could not remember the date. She stated anywhere from 2001 to 2006 or 2007.

The fourth encounter occurred at her friend Lisette's apartment on Walnut Road. Cantoni needed money for heroin because she was sick and in withdrawal. Appellant came to the apartment and demanded oral sex, for which he would pay her $20. She was too sick, and he refused to give her the money for the heroin before he received the oral sex. Appellant ended up leaving with his money.

Cantoni and appellant had no other encounters outside of jail. Cantoni was subsequently sentenced to CCDOC jail again. During this jail term she saw appellant. He was still supervising the trustees.

Cantoni's son's father, Jimmy Pittman, met appellant in 2010 in jail.[5] He worked for the appellant in jail on a maintenance detail. Pitttan told Cantoni that appellant showed Pittman and others pictures of her birthmark, which is located on her lower back. Cantoni testified that she never saw the pictures and did not know they had been taken.

Cantoni admitted she never reported the incidents with appellant or the allegations about the picture to anyone at CCDOC. Cantoni was interviewed by Internal Affairs investigators Ortiz and Holbrook in 2016. Cantoni testified that, before speaking to them, she knew it had to be about another officer, Ellis, with whom she was involved in a relationship. When they called she testified that she knew Ellis was the only thing they could be calling me about. She did not mention appellant during that interview.

Ellis then went to the prosecutor's office about the picture and appellant. Subsequently, Cantoni gave an interview to the prosecutor's office on September 29, 2016. (CCDOC-2.) Relative to this interview, Cantoni testified that she was unable to tell them everything because she "was so messed up."

Cantoni testified that during that interview she was using heroin and scared. Cantoni admitted she told the investigators that she had not used heroin and was not under the influence during the interview. That was a lie. She alleged that she did not mention appellant during the interview because she was so confused at the time. It was only after Ellis talked to Cantoni about talking to the prosecutor's office that she did it. Cantoni testified that she asked Ellis "[w]ho do I talk about?" to which Ellis said tell it all. Cantoni only made the allegations against appellant after Ellis, got in trouble for their relationship and he urged her to talk about the other officers.

[5] Cantoni and Pittman's son was placed for adoption.

Cantoni testified that her drug use has "messed my brain up." She stated she remembers what occurred, but does not remember everything.

Cantoni acknowledged she is suing respondent and officers in federal court. (CCDOC-3.) Cantoni admitted that her drug use has damaged her body and her memory. She cannot recall dates and places. She engaged in prostitution activities regularly to support her drug habit.

In February 2017, Cantoni was interviewed by prosecutor's office by Investigator Cuff. Cantoni revealed she lied in the original interview because she was under the influence of heroin at that time. She told Cuff how she beat the drug tests she took.

Cantoni further testified that in jail she learned how to manipulate people. She had to lie part of the time as part of the prostitution and drug use lifestyle. Cantoni insisted she has never lied under oath.

Other than the incidents she testified to, she did not have any other contact with the appellant.

Michael Palau (Palau), Captain Cumberland County Department of Corrections, testified that he has been employed by the CCDOC for thirty-five years. He is the daily operations Captain. He testified that in or about 1995, recruits were trained by him in house. This was called agency training and was different from academy training. Palau stated that all recruits and officers were trained in policies and procedures prohibiting the fraternization and familiarity with inmates and ex-inmates. Palau testified that officers are prohibited from engaging in any relationships with inmates or ex-inmates. This was to ensure their credibility.

In 2000-2001, Warden Glen Saunders promulgated a new policy consistent with this prohibition. The officers acknowledged receipt of the policy through sign in sheets. CCDOC Policy 4.13 dealt with being unduly familiar with or fraternizing with inmates and ex-inmates. (CCDOC-4.) CCDOC 4.18 is the policy, which prohibits officers from engaging in unlawful activities. (CCDOC-5.) That policy was incorporated into and replaced by CCDOC 4.22, which also provides that an officer cannot become overly familiar with inmates or ex-inmates. (CCDOC-6.)

Palau testified that he "assumed" appellant got all of the policies and procedures, but could not absolutely verify it because it appeared at least one sign in sheet was missing. However, appellant had actual notice of these policies because he had been involved in a previous Internal Affairs investigation. In that investigation, one of appellant's drivers in his transportation business parked a vehicle in the Captain's spot at the jail. The driver was a former inmate and was at the jail for a visit with an inmate. Appellant was charged with being unduly familiar with an ex-inmate. This charge was dismissed; however, this gave appellant actual notice of the policy in 2011.

Ernest Cuff, Jr., (Cuff), Chief of Staff, Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office, testified that he has been employed by the prosecutor's office for thirteen years. He was assigned to investigate accusations made by Cantoni. Cuff stated that this occurred after a declination to charge Ellis was issued. After that occurred, Ellis' attorney Daniel Rosenberg, Esq. provided information of wrongdoing by other officers, including the appellant.

Cuff investigated Cantoni's allegations about appellant. Appellant was one of thirteen officers identified by Cantoni for prohibited conduct. Relative to appellant, Cuff interviewed Cantoni, Pittman, Brownlow, who was incarcerated at Bayside State Prison, and had a telephone interview with Kobash. Cuff testified that Brownlow died in September 2017. Cuff had recorded his interview with Brownlow in Bayside. (CCDOC-7.)

Cuff stated that Cantoni was reluctant to hurt Ellis and his job. They had been in a relationship for seven to eight years. Cantoni admitted to Cuff that she is "manipulative," resulting from years of her lifestyle. As the officers became more familiar with her, she became more manipulative towards them.

Cantoni said that appellant was "another pig." Cuff stated that he asked her questions to verify her story about appellant. She could not describe appellant's house, except to state that he had twin daughters with nice bedrooms. She never saw the pictures that appellant took and shared with Pittman. She was unaware appellant had taken any pictures of her.

Cantoni and Pittman had a child together. Cantoni stated that Kobash sold lawn equipment to appellant in return for three bricks of heroin. Cuff stated this was not corroborated.

Brownlow was a carpenter by trade. He worked at appellant's house. On one occasion, appellant got a phone call and left the residence. Appellant came back with Cantoni. Appellant offered for Brownlow to have sex with Cantoni and him. Brownlow declined the offer. Cantoni was a friend of Brownlow's fiancé. According to Cuff, Cantoni's and Brownlow's stories matched up about this incident.

Brownlow told Cuff that appellant had power with CCDOC. Appellant had inmates beat up other inmates. Cuff stated that this was not corroborated.

Cuff interviewed Pittman. Pittman told Cuff that appellant showed him a picture of Cantoni's tattoo and birthmark on her rear. Pittman could not name any other inmates who saw the photograph.

Cuff interviewed Kobash on the telephone. Kobash had been in a relationship with Cantoni. He called Cantoni a "liar." Kobash stated that he never sold any lawn equipment to appellant in exchange for heroin. A guy named Adam, who he had met in CCDOC and who had been a drug dealer, bought the equipment for cash. Kobash stated that appellant was not there when he sold the lawn equipment and did not know about the sale. Kobash stated that it is hard to tell the truth from lies when it comes to Cantoni.

There were no criminal charges against appellant. Cuff did not get phone records or any pictures after the criminal charges were declined. He never saw the alleged photograph.

Robert Brownlow, (Brownlow), died in September 2017. He was interviewed by Cuff on March 8, 2017, at the Southern State Correctional Facility. Brownlow knew Cantoni. His fiancé and Cantoni were friends before Cantoni became a prostitute to support her heroin addiction. Brownlow worked on appellant's maintenance detail in the CCDOC. Browlnow stated that he did work at appellant's home beginning in 2008. He identified the location of appellant's home and described it. He worked at the home prior to a garage being constructed there.

He was working at appellant's home when appellant received a telephone call and left. Appellant came back with Cantoni and they went into the bedroom. Appellant offered to have him join them having sex. After seeing Cantoni's look, Brownlow declined to have sex with them. Brownlow felt bad for Cantoni.

While in jail, Brownlow heard appellant tell other officers that Cantoni would have sex with them if they were interested.

Eventually, Brownlow refused to do any construction work for appellant because appellant refused to pay him for the work. He believed that appellant held this against him and made sure he did not get assigned to any work details when he was back in jail. Brownlow stated that appellant was a "dirty officer," who had the power to have inmates beat up by other inmates. However, Brownlow also stated that although appellant was bad, he was against the inmates having contraband or giving it to the inmates.

Brownlow stated that he also saw appellant pick up another former inmate in Millville, when she was prostituting herself to support her heron habit.

According to records, Brownlow was arrested and convicted of drug related charges and other criminal charges numerous times in Salem and Cumberland Counties. (J-1 through J-4.)

For Appellant

George Bailey, appellant, a corrections officer with the CCDOC, testified that he worked in this capacity for approximately twenty-one years. He is the officer in charge of maintenance. He supervises the maintenance crew. The maintenance crew is selected by him with referrals for certain inmates coming from other officers. He characterized his supervisory style as hard but fair to the inmates. He did not have a practice of being friendly or familiar with the inmates in or out of jail.

Appellant testified that he owns and drives a red 1999 Chevy Tahoe SUV. He drove it to work and parked it at the jail. In response to questioning about the fact that Cantoni said he picked her up in a red SUV, appellant testified that inmates can see the officer's cars parked in the lot from windows at the jail. Appellant denied he ever picked Cantoni up in his truck. Appellant stated that he does not have twin daughters. However, he does have daughters that are one year apart. Cantoni could have heard that in the jail. Appellant only supervised Cantoni once.

Appellant denied having contact with Cantoni outside of the jail. He denied ever having sex with her. He never purchased any lawn equipment from Kobash. He never had inmates beat up other inmates. Appellant denied that Brownlow ever worked on his house. He never invited Brownlow to have sex with him and Cantoni. Appellant testified that he knew that if he had a relationship with Cantoni in or out of jail, it would be a violation of policy. Appellant denied having any photograph of Cantoni and testified that Pittman lied.

Appellant's transportation business is for medical transportation. His business works for a company called Logisticare. In 2011, an issue arose with one of appellant's employees. A separate manager had done the hiring for the business. They did fingerprint background checks and if they came back clean, then the person could drive for the business. One of the driver's parked at the jail in the Captain's spot. Appellant was told by his superiors about it because it was one of his transportation vehicles. This is how appellant became aware that the person was a former inmate. The charges against him, which arose from this incident, were dismissed.

CREDIBILITY

Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Cmty. Affairs Dep't, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

After reviewing the evidence, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

Cantoni's rendition of the facts were implausible and unbelievable as they relate to this appellant. Her statements were inconsistent and contradictory. In this regard, Cantoni would have this tribunal believe that she was knowingly and voluntarily telling the truth as the key witness for respondent in this matter. However, Cantoni made admissions during her testimony, which subverted her credibility. Cantoni admitted that she is manipulative as a result of being a drug addict, heroin user, and prostitute for most of her adult life. She stated that she had a habit of lying as a result of her lifestyle.

More importantly, Cantoni admitted to having health issues and memory loss issues because of her daily usage of heroin for approximately twenty years. The effects of these issues were visible during her testimony. Cantoni's physical appearance and movements showed a physical degradation from her years of heroin use. During testimony, she could not remember dates, years, or time frames. Cantoni would have this tribunal believe that while actively engaged in heroin use, under the influence of heroin, or in the throws of withdrawal, she could remember the details about her encounters with appellant. However, while remembering these events the oldest of which was in 2002, and the most recent of which was allegedly in 2008, ten to sixteen years ago, she could not remember any specific details. She could not recall what appellant's house looked like. She did not state what his bedroom looked like. She did not mention any physical characteristics of appellant which would substantiate her allegations. She stated to Cuff that appellant drove her home after each encounter only after she threatened to tell on him. However, she testified that he did not drive her back to her house. She could not remember how she got home. She said his truck was "red or blue." This lack of detail and inconsistencies made her testimony unbelievable. Her use of knowledge about appellant's daughters or the general location of his house near the jail could easily have been information acquired by her in jail from other officers or inmates. Simply put, none of the information she attempted to utilize to support her story about the appellant was intimate or intimately related to his home, where nearly all of the sexual encounters took place. Cantoni's extent of drug use and loss of memory give pause when weighing her credibility and determining if her testimony is reliable. Her deficits and continued criminal activity are particularly debilitating to her credibility.

Cantoni's allegation about the lawn equipment exchange between Kobash and appellant, at which she declared she was present, was completely suspect. Kobash denied the entire event and that appellant even knew about it. Even Cuff stated there was no corroborating evidence for this. Cantoni was adamant in her interview that she never did drugs with the officers she has made allegations against.

In sum, Cantoni was not a credible witness relative to her allegations about this appellant.

Furthermore, Cantoni's version of the facts has changed become more detailed and sensational over time. Cantoni admitted that in her first interview with Internal Affairs, she never mentioned appellant. In Cantoni's interview on September 29, 2016, with Investigator Tucker, she never mentioned appellant. In this interview Cantoni's responses were as follows:

Tucker: Ok. So during the time that you have um, been in out of um, the Cumberland County Jail facility, did um, you become associated with certain, um Correction Officers?
Cantoni: Yes.
Tucker: Ok. And those type of associations, did they lead to um, relationship outside of the jail?
Cantoni: Yes.
Tucker: Ok. Now specifically um, can you tell me um, just their names at this point. Who um, if anyone you had a ah, relationship with at the Cumberland County Jail?
Cantoni: Um, B.P., ah, E.O., ah, J.G., C.R. [Redacted by this tribunal. Initial's used for confidentiality.][6]
Tucker: That's four individuals, correct?
Cantoni. Yes.

(CCDOC-2 at p.3, lns. 5-17.)

Toward the conclusion of the interview, Cantoni provided the following:

Tucker: Ok, I'm just going over my notes, I think we're about ah, finished. Um, besides what we discussed um, is there anyone else that you could think of that you had a relationship with that we didn't talk about.
Cantoni: No.

(CCDOC-2 at p. 27,lns.7-11.)

[6] Appellant is not one of the identified officers.

Additionally, on February 7, 2017, Cantoni was interviewed by Cuff. Cantoni for the first time identified thirteen officers with whom she had inappropriate contact. (CCDOC-1). Cantoni even claimed that there were additional officers that she was involved with for a "one-time here and there thing." However, she could not remember their names. This disclosure coincides with her institution of litigation in the United States District Court of New Jersey under case number: 1:17-cs-07893 against respondents and its corrections officers.

On October 25, 2017, an Amended Complaint was filed in that litigation. Appellant was not one of the defendants sued in the original complaint. Appellant became a named defendant in the Amended Complaint's caption. However, his first name is misidentified. The allegations against appellant are as follows. In paragraph 56 of the Complaint, appellant is identified as having "naked pictures of Jennifer without her knowledge or consent." The complaint at paragraph 57 goes on to state that the appellant "showed these pictures to numerous guards and inmates without Jennifer's knowledge or consent."

In paragraph 75, the complaint further alleges that only three officers, including Ellis, regularly harassed and abused Cantoni "through unwanted touching and sexually inappropriate comments." Appellant is not mentioned in this paragraph.

In paragraph 85, the complaint alleges that only four officers had "met with Jennifer for sex for money while she was not in jail." Appellant is not one of the four officers. In fact, it is not alleged anywhere in the complaint that appellant had any sexual relations with Cantoni. In fact, it only alleges that appellant, wrongfully showed the photographs to other officers and inmates in the jail.[7]

Similar to these inconsistent statements, Cantoni's versions of the facts in her interviews and testimony are inconsistent. For example, Cantoni stated that when he picked her up at the Walnut Road apartments he took her back to his house to have sex in exchange for money. This was the occasion during which he asked Brownlow if he wanted to join them having sex. However, during her testimony, Cantoni alleged when she was at the Walnut Road apartments she had called appellant to come to the apartment because she needed money for heroin. She was in withdrawal. Cantoni testified that when she could not perform oral sex because of being sick, appellant left with his money. Cantoni's descriptions are clearly inconsistent. However, they are consistent with the fact that years of heroin use have caused Cantoni to have memory loss and certainly confusion.

During her interview with Cuff, Cantoni called appellant a "pig" and stated that when she next saw him while she was in jail he was a "jerkoff," in her interview with Cuff; thus, broadcasting her feelings toward appellant and showing her motive. Cantoni has an interest is a successful result to the federal litigation.

In sum, Cantoni's rendition of the facts did not have a ring of truth. The discrepancies in appellant's testimony and changing renditions of the facts made appellant's testimony unreliable and unbelievable. It may be that Cantoni's allegations against other officer's are more plausible and credible. However, as to this appellant, the inconsistencies, memory loss, admitted daily heroin use for twenty years, lack of documentary evidence, and lack of details in the material facts and circumstances make her rendition of the facts suspect and her testimony not credible. Cantoni's statements are not corroborated by any other credible testimony or statements in this proceeding.

Judicial rules of evidence do not apply to administrative agency proceedings, except for rules of privileges or where required by law. N.J.R.E. 101(a)93); DeBartolomeis v. Bd. of Review, 341 N.J. Super. 80, 82 (App. Div. 2001); N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-10(a); and N.J.A.C. 1:1-15(c).

Hearsay are statements other than ones made by the declarant while testifying at a hearing, offered into evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted. N.J.R.E. 801(c). Hearsay is usually not admissible because it is deemed untrustworthy and unreliable, (N.J.R.E. 802), unless it falls within an exception set forth in N.J.R.E. 803 or 804. However, hearsay is admissible in an administrative proceeding such as this one subject to the "residuum rule," which mandates that the administrative decision cannot be predicated on hearsay alone. Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972).

> [A] fact-finding or legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal competent evidence in the record to support it. Id. at 51.

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules governing administrative agency proceedings codify this doctrine by requiring that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(c). In assessing hearsay evidence, it should be accorded "whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a).

Furthermore, N.J.R.E. 804 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> (a) Definition of unavailable. Except when the declarant's unavailability has been procured or wrongfully caused by the proponent of declarant's statement for the purpose of preventing declarant from attending or testifying, a declarant is "unavailable" as a witness if declarant:
>
> (4) is absent from the hearing because of death, physical or mental illness or infirmity, or other cause, and the proponent of the statement is unable by process or other reasonable means to procure the declarant's attendance at trial... [Emphasis Added].

Brownlow was unavailable to testify in this proceeding because he died in September 2017. The Brownlow statements recorded by Cuff during his investigation on March 8, 2017, are admissible hearsay statements. (CCDOC-7.) The record of Brownlow's criminal convictions and periods of incarceration are relevant and admitted evidence. (J-1 through J-4.)

However, similar to Cantoni's statements, his allegations are unsubstantiated by any corroborating credible testimony or documentary evidence. Similar to Cantoni, Brownlow's extent of drug use gives pause when weighing his credibility and determining if his testimony is reliable. His continued criminal activity is particularly debilitating to his credibility. Cuff found no evidence to corroborate Brownlow's allegations that appellant had inmates beat up other inmates in the CCDOC jail. Without appellant's opportunity to cross-examine Brownlow relative to his credibility, his relationships with Cantoni and the appellant, whether he was using heroin at the time he alleges he saw Cantoni at the appellant's house, etc., I FIND that Brownlow's statements have little weight and are unreliable. I FIND that no residuum of competent evidence existed to give credibility to Brownlow's hearsay statements and these statements did not credibly substantiate Cantoni's testimony.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After carefully reviewing the exhibits and documentary evidence presented during the hearing, and after having had the opportunity to listen to testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following to also be relevant and credible FACTS in this matter:

Appellant was a corrections officer, who has been employed by CCDOC in that capacity for approximately twenty-one years. Appellant was the officer in charge of maintenance and as part of his duties was responsible for supervising the maintenance work detail. Appellant occasionally supervised female trustee workers. Cantoni was often assigned as a trustee worker. Cantoni met appellant while she was incarcerated in CCDOC facility and assigned as a trustee to clean outside the jail building.

Cantoni is a forty-two year old female, who has been a drug addict and heroin user for nearly all of her adult life. Since age eighteen, Cantoni has used heroin daily and was during the past twenty-two years only "clean" for one year in 1999. As a result of her drug use, Cantoni has been repeatedly incarcerated over the last twenty-two years in the CCDOC jail. She has been convicted of shoplifting, drug and paraphernalia possessions numerous times. She prostituted herself regularly to support her heroin habit. As a result of her time in jail, her drug addiction and usage, and her lifestyle, Cantoni has admittedly become manipulative and a liar. Additionally, Cantoni has suffered health issues and memory loss, as a result of her heroin usage.

Cantoni had a relationship for seven or eight years with a corrections officer named Ellis. This relationship was discovered and Cantoni was interviewed. Text messages between Ellis and Cantoni show they were engaged in an ongoing sexual relationship. Ellis was clearly concerned that Cantoni had been interviewed about him and that she had kept letters from him, which she was supposed to have destroyed, and which were in the investigators' possession. On March 4, 2017, Cantoni sent text messages to Ellis and wrote: "You used me to get back at people and now you're giving me you (sic) ass to kiss...lol! Its (sic) all good! I should have known better." (P-2 at p. 41.) Cantoni was willing to do anything to help Ellis. She was clearly motivated by their relationship to help Ellis. (P-2.) Cantoni's allegations against appellant are suspect as a result of this relationship as evidenced in the text messages.

When the investigation into Ellis began and Cantoni was interviewed, she did not mention the appellant. Thereafter, when she was interviewed by investigator Tucker of the Cumberland County Prosecutor's Office, on September 29, 2016, she did not mention the appellant, despite Tucker's repeated questions about who all the officers, with whom she had had a relationship in jail and outside of jail, were.

It is not until the third interview on February 7, 2017, conducted by Cuff, that Cantoni finally alleged that appellant had sexual relations with her for money on at least two occasions at his home, that he demanded oral sex from her once at her friend's apartment on Walnut Road when she was in active withdrawal and could not perform the act, and that appellant paid three bricks of heroin for her friend, Kobash's, lawn equipment. These allegations were made approximately seven months before she filed an amended complaint in federal court adding appellant to the list of defendants. In that amended complaint, she only alleged that he had disseminated a naked picture of her to other correction officers and inmates. Unlike the allegations against the other defendant officers, Cantoni did not allege in any complaint that, knowing she was a former inmate, appellant had an inappropriate sexual relationship with her. Similar to the sensational development of claims against appellant, the list of officers who engaged in sexual relationships with Cantoni, grew with each interview she gave. This coincided with her increasing prospects for damages in the federal litigation.

In relation to the allegations against appellant, no credible testimony or documentary evidence was produced to support the allegations. No individual was produced to testify they had seen the photograph. No photograph was seen by anyone, except allegedly Pittman. No photograph of Cantoni was produced during this proceeding or discovered in the investigation conducted by the prosecutor's office. No phone records showing communications between Cantoni and the appellant were produced. Kobash specifically denies being paid three bricks of heroin by appellant for lawn equipment. Kobash was paid in cash. He admitted he probably used the cash to buy heroin because he was using at the time. This made Kobash's statement believable.

Cantoni cannot recall accurate dates or years for the events with appellant. She is not sure in which years these alleged encounters happened. Cantoni cannot recall basic details about appellant's home. She cannot consistently recall how she returned home after these alleged encounters. She provided inconsistent statements during the various interviews about the events, confusing what occurred where. The scant details Cantoni provided to substantiate her rendition of the facts, such as the color of appellant's car, the fact that he owned a transportation company, or that he had daughters who lived with him, could have easily been learned in the CCCDOC jail, in which she admitted she manipulated the officers.

No testimony or statements credibly corroborated Cantoni's allegations against this appellant.

Appellant did not engage in a sexual relationship with Cantoni. Appellant did not pay Cantoni for sex. Appellant did not pick up Cantoni in Millville in his 1999 red Chevy Tahoe in any year. Appellant did not exchange three bricks of heroin for Kobash's lawn equipment. No evidence was produced to show that appellant took or showed any photographs of Cantoni naked and engaged in sex with him to other officers or inmates. No evidence was produced to show that appellant directed inmates to beat up other inmates.

On March 30, 2017, respondent issued a PNDA setting forth the charges and specifications against appellant. Following a departmental hearing February 2, 2018, the respondent issued the FNDA on April 18, 2018, sustaining the charges brought in both preliminary notices and terminating appellant from employment.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant's status as a correction's officer subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

> The need for proper control over the conduct of inmates in a correctional facility and the part played by proper relationships between those who are required to maintain order and enforce discipline and the inmates cannot be doubted. We can take judicial notice that such facilities, if not properly operated, have a capacity to become "tinderboxes."

Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305-06 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994).

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6)

Appellant was charged with "conduct unbecoming a public employee." N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase that encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

The basis for the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee was appellant's unduly familiar and inappropriate relationship with Cantoni, who was a former inmate. This charge was based on Cantoni's allegations that, knowing she was a former inmate, appellant hired her as a prostitute and had sexual relations with her on three separate occasions, shared a picture of her he surreptitiously took while they were having sex in 2008, and that he purchased lawn equipment from her friend in exchange for three bricks of heroin. For the reasons set forth above, Cantoni's testimony was not credible and unsubstantiated relative to the allegations she made against the appellant. No credible evidence was produced to substantiate these allegations.

As a corrections officer, appellant was held to a higher standard of conduct. The public respects officers for discovering, reporting, and championing the truth in circumstances of wrongdoing and while they are satisfying their duties. Had the egregious conduct alleged herein been supported, substantiated, and proven, it would violate this standard. However, the testimony and admitted evidence produced in this proceeding are insufficient to terminate appellant from his twenty-one -year career. Mere allegations do not warrant his termination of service.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did not rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). I CONCLUDE that respondent has not met its burden of proof on this issue.

Appellant has also been charged with violating other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically Cumberland County Department of Corrections Discipline Policy 3.02A, a/k/a 84-17 C(11) conduct unbecoming an employee.

Cumberland County Department of Corrections Discipline Policy 3.02A, a/k/a 84-17.

84-17, as amended, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> In any disciplinary matter, reference must always be made to the collective bargaining agreement covering the disciplined employee, relevant Department of Personnel Rules, appropriate Department bulletins or memoranda, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of New > Jersey Department of Corrections, and/or the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations.

C(11) Conduct Unbecoming an Employee

Cumberland County Department of Corrections Code of Ethics, Article 13: Prohibited Conduct, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> ... The Corrections Officer will never discriminate by the dispensing of special favors or privileges to anyone, whether for remuneration or not, and never accept for himself/herself or his/her family, favors or benefits under circumstances which might be construed by reasonable persons as influencing the performance of he/her official duties. With the above in mind, no Corrections Officer, except in the discharge of duty, may knowingly associate with person engaging, allegedly engage in, or have a prior a prior history of engaging in unlawful activities. ... [Emphasis added].

Cumberland County Department of Corrections Policy 4.18, relating to over familiarization/fraternizing with inmates lists twelve improper activities and provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Employees shall not have a personal relationship with inmates and should not act in anyway that may cause that perception. Improper activities may include, but are not limited to the following:
>
> ...9. Dating or pursuing a personal relationship with inmates either inside or Outside (sic) of the facility; ...
>
> The policy covers inmates, ex-inmates, friends of inmates, family of inmates or ex-inmates. No staff can socialize with anyone in these categories. Any relationship that started in the jail would be strictly prohibited. Any appearance of a relationship would be sufficient cause for disciplinary action.

Policy 4.18 was updated and incorporated into Cumberland County Department of Corrections Policy 4.22., relating to over familiarization/fraternizing with inmates, which became effective on June 30, 2016. It also lists twelve improper activities and provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Employees shall not have a personal relationship with inmates and should not act in any way that may cause that perception. Improper activities may include, but are not limited to the following:
>
> ...9. Dating or pursuing a personal relationship with inmates either inside or outside of the facility; ...
>
> The policy covers inmates, ex-inmates, friends of inmates, family of inmates or ex-inmates. No staff can socialize with anyone in these categories. Any relationship that started in the jail would be strictly prohibited. Any appearance of a relationship would be sufficient cause for disciplinary action.

Here, the testimony and evidence presented are insufficient to satisfy the requirement that there was even an appearance of a relationship between the appellant and Cantoni. Cantoni's testimony was not credible. No reliable evidence was produced to substantiate Cantoni's claims.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did not rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically Cumberland County Department of Corrections Discipline Policy 3.02A, a/k/a 84-17 C(11) conduct unbecoming an employee and Article 13 of the Code of Ethics and policies 4.18 and 4.22. I CONCLUDE that respondent has not met its burden of proof on these issues.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause

Finally, appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, the Cantoni's allegations are unsubstantiated. Her testimony was not credible and her rendition of the facts in light of her life-long drug addiction and heroin use are completely suspect. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has failed to meet its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions did NOT violate N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent has failed to meet its burden proof on all charges made against the appellant. The administrative decision is REVERSED.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, dated April 18, 2018, of the Cumberland County Department of Corrections against appellant, George Bailey, is hereby REVERSED. Appellant, George Bailey's, appeal is GRANTED. It is further ORDERED that all charges against the appellant are DISMISSED. It is ORDERED that appellant, George Bailey, be returned to his employment as a corrections officer with respondent, Cumberland County Department of Corrections.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Mr. Nash and DAG Saxon:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the consolidated settlement regarding Ramon Gross from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Mr. Ramos is to be reinstated and waives back pay, the record appears to indicate an inaccurate date of the removal/resignation not in good standing and does not specifically reflect how to record the time period from the original date of removal/resignation not in good standing to the date of reinstatement. In this regard, the settlement indicates the removal/resignation not in good standing date as June 1, 2017 while the Final Notices indicate the date as November 17, 2016. Also, before a settlement can be acknowledged by the Civil Service Commission, all periods of time must be specifically accounted for in an employee's personnel record. Thus, please clarify the correct date for the removal/resignation not in good standing and how to categorize the time from that date to reinstatement (e.g., as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?).

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

IN THE MATTER OF BRYAN JANNELL	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE
Settled Prior to Administrative Law Hearing	:	CSV 03440-2018S

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT dated October 12, 2018 is entered into by and between Bryan Jannell ("Employee") and the County of Mercer ("County") (collectively "the parties").

WHEREAS, Employee was employed at a Public Safety Telecommunicator Trainee with the County in the Emergency Services Communication Center; and

WHEREAS, on or about January 4, 2018 Employee was released from employment at the end of his working test period; and

WHEREAS, Employee appealed the release at the end of his working period with the Civil Service Commission ("CSC") which was docketed as CSC Docket #2018-2298; and

WHEREAS, the CSC transferred the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), docket number CSV 03440-2018S; and

WHEREAS, the parties would like to amicably resolve the matters due to the uncertainties and expense of litigation; and

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein and further good and valuable consideration, the parties mutually agree as follows:

1. The County agrees to amend the release at the end of working test period to a resignation in good standing. Employee understands and agrees that he will not seek reemployment or reinstatement or accept reemployment with the Emergency Services Communication Center.

2. Employee agrees that this matter is fully resolved.

3. This Agreement is not, and shall not in any way be constructed, as an admission by the County and the Employee of any violation of any federal or state constitutional prohibition or any federal or state or local law or ordinance or regulation, or any express or implied contract of employment, or in violation of any other legal duty owed to or by employee, but instead constitutes the good faith settlement of a disputed claim and the parties specifically disclaim any liability to each other or to any other person. The parties have entered into this Agreement for the sole purpose of resolving the subject matter of this case and any related claims, both asserted and unasserted, in order to avoid the burden, expense, delay and uncertainties of litigation. No findings of any kind have been made or issued by any court and employee does not purport to be the prevailing party in any threatened or pending litigation.

4. Employee agrees that this Agreement shall operate as a complete and final disposition of this matter. As consideration for the County agreeing to these terms, Employee agrees to release and forever discharge the County, the County's officers, agents, officials, employees, attorneys, administrators, representatives, elected officials, departments, boards, officers and all persons acting by, through, under or in concert with, both in their official and individual capacities, from any and all claims relating to the subject matter of this agreement that he has now to any relief of any kind from the County, whether or not he now knows about those rights, arising out of his employment with County, including, but not limited to, claims for breach of contract; fraud or misrepresentation; violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Acts of 1964, or other federal, state or local civil rights law based on age or other protected class status including sex, race, color, national origin; the Americans with Disabilities Act; defamation; slander; libel, invasion of privacy; intentional or negligent infliction of emotional distress; breach of covenant of good faith and fair dealings; promissory estoppel; negligence; violation of public policy, Conscientious Employment Protection Act; New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, Equal Pay Act; New Jersey Employer-Employee Relation Act; New Jersey Family Leave Act and any other claims for unlawful employment practices with regard to these matters. It is emphasized that Employee is waiving all possible claims against the County with regard to this matter.

5. Employee represents and certifies that he has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of and effects of this Agreement and further, certifies that he is voluntarily entering into this Agreement and that the County has not made any representations concerning the terms of effects of this Agreement other than those contained herein.

6. This Agreement is made and entered into in the State of New Jersey and shall in all respects be interpreted, enforced and governed under laws of the State of New Jersey. The language of all parts of this Agreement shall, in all cases, be constructed as a whole, according to its fair meaning and not strictly for or against any of the parties.

7. Should any provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by any court to be illegal or invalid, the validity of the remaining part(s) term(s) or provision(s) shall not be affected thereby and said illegal or invalid part, term or provision shall be deemed not to be a part of this Agreement.

8. The foregoing constitutes a full and final disposition of this matter.

9. Employee shall not request relief with respect to this matter, in any forum beyond that which is contained herein.

10. This Agreement may not be modified, altered or changed, except upon the prior express written consent of the parties.

11. This Agreement is the result of negotiations with Employee and Employee had the opportunity to seek legal advice at his choosing.

12. This settlement fully and finally disposes of all issues in controversy. It is reached by way of compromise.

13. This Agreement shall not be considered binding and or final until approved by and executed by the County Administrator and or his designee. Any subsequent disapproval by the Civil Service Commission shall cause all the terms and conditions of this agreement to be null and void and shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

2. Meeks agrees to accept a Resignation from her Position of Police Officer with the City of Newark. The City will amend the disciplinary action in the FNDA to reflect the status of her removal from employment.

5. Meeks and the Union each agree not to appeal the terms and conditions of this Agreement to any agency or court, including, but not limited to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and/or to any other New Jersey State Court or agency and/or to any United States Court or agency.
6. Meeks and the Union each further agree that there is no consideration due Meeks, her counsel and/or Union, including, but not limited to, any claim for back pay and/or counsel fees, arising from her employment and/or the execution of this Agreement, except as otherwise provided herein.
7. Except for the assessment of Meeks's disciplinary record in any subsequent personnel disciplinary hearing, nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party.
8. Meeks and the Union further acknowledge that this Agreement further precludes either of them from bringing any type of legal or contractual action in any forum including, but not limited to, filing a Complaint in New Jersey Superior Court or United States Federal Court, filing any type of complaint with the City, Essex County, the State of New Jersey or the United States of America, and filing a grievance and/or requesting arbitration, that is in any manner grounded, based upon, or related to the PNDA.

AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

The above parties in this appeal have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants contained herein, the parties hereby agree to the following terms as full and final settlement of the above-captioned matter:

1. Enmanuel Pena ("Pena") and the Borough of Elmwood Park ("Borough" or "Elmwood Park") hereby agree to settle the instant appeal of the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action ("FNDA") dated May 18, 2018 pending under OAL Docket No. CSR 12298-18.

2. The FNDA dated May 18, 2018 will be dismissed and a new FNDA will be issued to reflect Pena's resignation in good standing effective March 1, 2019.

3. Concurrent with the execution of this Agreement, Pena shall submit to Chief of Police Michael Foligno, a valid and binding irrevocable letter of resignation from his employment with the Elmwood Park Police Department. A copy of this resignation letter is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

4. Notwithstanding the binding and irrevocable nature of Pena's letter of resignation, the letter will be held in escrow until March 1, 2019.

5. Between May 18, 2018 and November 2, 2018, the Borough's records will reflect that Pena was on an unpaid leave of absence. Between November 3, 2018 and February 28, 2019, Pena shall be placed on a paid leave of absence at his current rate of pay through such period with all normal and ordinary deductions at regular pay intervals. During this leave of absence with pay, Pena shall not accrue or accumulate any further time-related benefits, i.e. sick, vacation, personal, SAD, holiday or time due. All existing accumulated time shall be forfeited and Pena shall not receive health or any other benefits during this paid leave of absence. In the event that Pena becomes employed at another law enforcement agency prior to March 1, 2019, all remaining monies due from the Borough during his paid leave of absence shall be paid out in a lump sum and his resignation with the Borough shall become immediate.

6. In consideration of the terms of this Agreement, Pena acknowledges that, other than what is set forth above, he has been fully paid all wages and other benefits, and he is not owed any further monies or benefits from the Borough, whether by way of collective negotiations agreement, Borough policy, or otherwise, and that he specifically waives any claim for further benefits or monies and agrees that the Borough is not obligated to make any further payment or provide any further benefit.

All such requests will be directed to and responded to by the Chief of Police. The Borough agrees to execute approval of an intergovernmental transfer form if so presented by another Civil Service jurisdiction.

9. Pena waives any and all rights to file a grievance and any other form of appeal concerning this matter.

10. Pena, on his own behalf and on behalf of his heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns (hereinafter collectively referred to throughout this Agreement as "Pena") hereby releases and forever discharges the Borough of Elmwood Park, and all affiliated and related entities, including but not limited to their respective past, present and future trustees, officers, members, employees, agents, representatives, attorneys, successors and assigns and the estates and/or heirs thereof (hereinafter collectively referred to throughout this Agreement as "Elmwood Park") from any and all claims, known and unknown, resulting from anything which has happened up to the effective date of this Agreement, including those claims identified in his Notice of Tort Claim, and including any claims for attorneys' fees and costs.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of John Rivera
Township of Belleville, Department of Public Works

CSR DKT. NO. 2016-1368
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00228-16

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: DECEMBER 7, 2018 BW

The appeal of John Rivera, Laborer 1, Township of Belleville, Department of Public Works, removal effective February 21, 2014, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Gail M. Cookson, who rendered her initial decision on November 2, 2018 reversing the removal. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on December 5, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the removal has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from February 21, 2014 to the actual date of reinstatement. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Additionally, the appellant is entitled to reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Public Safety, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of John Rivera. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted back pay, benefits, and seniority from February 21, 2014 to the actual date of reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00228-16
AGENCY REF. NO. 2016-1368

IN THE MATTER OF JOHN RIVERA, TOWNSHIP OF BELLEVILLE, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Catherine M. Elston, Esq (C. Elston & Associates, for appellant John Rivera attorneys)

Michael A. Cifelli, Esq., (Florio Kenny Raval, attorneys) for respondent Township of Belleville

Record Closed: September 28, 2018 Decided: November 2, 2018

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

John Rivera (appellant[1]) appeals from disciplinary action taken by respondent, Township of Belleville (Belleville) Department of Public Works (DPW), to remove him from his position as a Laborer on charges of conduct unbecoming a public employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11). The charges relate to allegations of creating a hostile work environment for fellow employees in the DPW through bullying, verbal abuse, intimidation, and threats.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant was suspended without pay effective February 21, 2014, by Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action handed to appellant the previous day. Therein, it stated that a departmental hearing would be held on March 18, 2014; however, that date was adjourned because discovery had not yet been received. As of April 11, 2014, appellant had still not received discovery or a hearing due to ongoing discovery and other prehearing issues. The departmental hearing did not commence until December 2, 2014, and continued on December 5, 29, 2014, and February 9 and 20, March 13, and April 9, 2015. The opinion of the Hearing Officer was issued on August 3, 2015, and adopted by the Interim Township Manager on September 11, 2015, in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action. Appellant filed an appeal on September 29, 2015, which was granted by the Civil Service Commission on December 28, 2015.

The appeal was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), on December 30, 2015, for hearing as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. It was assigned to the Honorable Imre Karaszegi, A.L.J., on or about January 8, 2016. A hearing notice was sent scheduling the matter for July 19 and 21, 2016. Prior to that date, the hearing dates were adjourned until September 27, 2016, at the request of Belleville. Upon Judge Karaszegi's nomination for the Superior Court, the September hearing had to be adjourned. The matter was re-assigned to me on or about October 14, 2016. Within days, my office was attempting to get hearing dates scheduled for 2016 but ultimately, we could not get consensus for a date until February 2, 2017.[2] The notice for that hearing had been sent on October 18, 2016. That date also had to be adjourned.

[2] By electronic mail sent from counsel for Belleville to my chambers on January 24, 2017, and following his request for an adjournment of the February 2, 2017, hearing date, it was acknowledged:

> That is correct, back pay will continue if Mr. Rivera is reinstated without interruption. The Town of Belleville will not make any argument to the contrary and is prepared to pay Mr. Rivera for all time, including time in the adjournment period, IF he is reinstated.

The hearing was re-scheduled for April 24, 2017. On April 18, 2017, Belleville filed a Motion to Quash Subpoenas on two higher ranking officials of the town, which had been served two weeks prior on March 30, 2017. Telephonically on April 20, 2017, I reviewed the motion with the parties and memorialized on the record on the first day of the hearing my decision that I was deferring the motion to quash the subpoenas to demand in person testimony of the Mayor and the Township Attorney, without prejudice to appellant's right to renew the request for their testimony if it proved essential. Any subpoenas for documents would be responded to by Belleville.

The hearings were commenced on April 24, 2017, but additional dates were needed on September 6, 2017, February 6 and 23, and April 17, 2018.[3] Post-hearing summations were permitted to be filed, after receipt of the transcripts and another adjournment request, on September 28, 2018, on which date the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Robert Welter testified for Belleville. He has been the Assistant Road Supervisor for approximately five years and has been with the DPW for a total of twenty years. Welter was also the Shop Steward for the approximately forty-four DPW workers at the time of these alleged incidents.

Welter testified that he had heard rumors of Rivera bossing around other workers, but he never spoke to appellant about any of them. Welter stated at the hearing that he had purchased a fundraiser ticket for Mayor Kimble's fundraiser in the winter of 2014 but did not provide any other support.[4] He did not recall which laborers attended the fundraiser, but he did see Esposito, Gilbert, and Balsamo at that particular fundraiser.

On cross-examination, Welter testified that at no time did he receive any complaints about appellant from any of his members; nor did Balsamo or Gilbert ever complain to him about appellant. In fact, Welter testified that he had heard only rumors or gossip that appellant was bossing people around on the job site and did not believe in acting on gossip. He personally never heard appellant talk politics on the job.

Vincent Sousa was hired by Belleville DPW on or about November 4, 2013, as a laborer. He initially worked in the mechanic shop performing brake jobs, oil changes, changing tires, and taking out motors of the Township's vehicles. During snowstorms, he would prepare the salters and snowplows. Sousa also worked with the Water Department. In this job, laborers have to dig to locate water mains. The water mains are about five to six feet deep. It is important that when a laborer is in the hole digging around the main that the other laborer at street level ensure safety. Sousa was also required to assist with shoveling and salting during snowstorms.

During one snowstorm in the winter of 2014, Sousa was told by appellant that he was "going to work today." This occurred at the Senior Center. Sousa understood that comment to mean that he did not work particularly hard on other days. He felt that appellant was bossing him around. There was another incident at the Recreation Center where Sousa was going to help Fiscella take down a snow blower from the back of a truck when Rivera snapped at him saying, "you're going to help me, jerk-off?"

During that same storm, Sousa testified that appellant and Fiscella spoke of newer DPW employees getting fired after the election. Sousa did not discuss politics with appellant directly, but he claimed to have overheard him discussing politics with others by the punch clock. Sousa claimed that appellant did once tell him that both he and his mother would lose their jobs after the election.

On cross-examination, Sousa acknowledged that he had supported Mayor Kimble and his ticket in the upcoming 2014 election. He attended at least five of the Mayor's fundraisers. Sousa stated that he made various complaints about appellant to supervisor Rocco Balsamo and Shop Steward Welter but could point to no evidence or specifics to support that statement. Sousa admitted that he had been one of the workers who had taken a break from shoveling snow to engage in a snowball fight when appellant reacted by yelling at them all to get back to work. As testified to also at the departmental hearing regarding the snowball fight, Sousa reported that appellant told him: "Stop horsing around and get to work." He recalled other comments to the effect that they should grab the shovel and get back to work, and to stop being a "jerk off." These comments were conceded to have taken place just once and at the Recreation Center. In total, Sousa and appellant worked together only three times during the storms that winter. Sousa was never in a truck with appellant.

Further, it was clarified that Sousa had assumed he could be one of the DPW workers to lose his job if the election upset the Kimble ticket because he felt that he was one of the last ones hired. Yet, he knew that there were other DPW members hired after him, as he had worked there for two years by then. With respect to his testimony concerning his mother's job, Sousa confirmed on cross-examination that his job and that of his mother were not, in fact, connected. She was a crossing guard. Lastly, Sousa acknowledged that he never turned down overtime during snowstorms even if it meant he might have to work with appellant. Further, he did not recall complaining about appellant at the February 19th meeting in the town manager's office.

James DiModica was hired as a laborer in the DPW on January 5, 2014. DiModica was called into shovel snow during the snowstorms in January and February of 2014. DiModica testified that he worked with appellant only during the first snowstorm in 2014. DiModica thought appellant was a supervisor based upon his attitude because he was bossing around other workers. For example, DiModica was waiting in the truck with other workers to salt behind those that were shoveling ahead. Rivera came by the truck and yelled at them to "get the fuck out of the truck."

DiModica recalled that there was pizza for the workers the next day. DiModica texted Mauriello to inform him about the pizza, but Mauriello advised that he was with appellant eating Chinese food. DiModica was on the salting crew spreading salt after the shoveling crew cleared the snow when appellant screamed at the employees to get to work.

On cross-examination, DiModica admitted that he and others were sitting in a truck staying warm when appellant yelled at them to get out and help. While there were two other DPW members, John Romano and Pete Velardi, who were in the truck with DiModica at this time, neither of them complained. DiModica acknowledged that appellant was not yelling and cursing at him but just generally used a curse word, which really did not bother him.

DiModica testified that he never observed or heard appellant talk about anybody losing their jobs because of the election. DiModica did not report appellant to anyone verbally, or informally, and he did not write a written complaint. DiModica further testified that he did not want to "make a big thing" out of what happened with appellant and that the only person he spoke to was Balsamo. At the February 19th meeting with the town manager and town attorney, he just told them about the small "bossy" incident with the shoveling and the salting.

On further cross-examination, DiModica confirmed that Balsamo would tell everyone in the breakroom that there were fundraisers being held for the Mayor and that he would make tickets available so they could attend. DiModica ultimately confirmed that Balsamo told the DPW members that going to the fundraisers would get you further on the job, that you want to "show your face" at the fundraisers.

Michael Mauriello been employed for four years as a laborer, but his employment for Belleville began on January 6, 2014. His duties consist of picking up bags, taking care of the grass, patchwork on the roads, and other miscellaneous tasks. Within the first two weeks there was a snowstorm. During one snow storm, Mauriello was traveling in a municipal pick-up truck with appellant and Fiscella. The truck had a bench seat with Fiscella driving, appellant at the window, and Mauriello in between them. Mauriello stated at this hearing that the two men were discussing politics. Appellant told him that if Mayor Kimble's opposition won, they would take over and make changes. Mauriello also testified that when DiModica texted him about pizza at town hall, appellant said that Esposito could "choke on his pizza." Mauriello recalled later during that snowstorm, appellant and Sousa cursing at each other from a distance. Mauriello complained to Balsamo because he felt uncomfortable.

On cross-examination, Mauriello admitting attending Mayor Kimble's fundraisers out of loyalty to the person to whom he felt he owed his job even though he did not like getting involved in politics. Mauriello clarified that appellant only remarked that a new administration might lead to some changes for the better. There was no threat to jobs. It made him uncomfortable, however, because he could tell that Fiscella and appellant were not loyal to Kimble. Nevertheless, they were both good workers. Mauriello merely asked Balsamo to put him on a different crew for snowstorms because he did not want to get involved in talking politics. Accordingly, he only worked with appellant for that one heavy, overnight storm. He did not hear appellant state that DPW workers would lose their jobs if Kimble lost the election; only that changes would be made.

Louis Sacchiero was also a new DPW laborer in January 2014. He similarly thought that appellant was a supervisor based upon the way he screamed at others to get to work. Sacchiero only worked with Rivera once during a snowstorm. Sacchiero testified that the incident where appellant cursed at the other DPW workers who were having a snow ball fight took place from 70-100 yards away down the hill. Sacchiero testified that he never had any meetings with Balsamo or Gilbert regarding appellant. Sacchiero also agreed that it is not uncommon to hear DPW workers curse while working.

Giuseppe D. Cofone has been a Belleville DPW laborer for eleven years. He worked with appellant only a few times. He described appellant's demeanor as being harsh. Cofone testified that he heard Rivera discussing politics regarding a "new regime." On cross-examination, Cofone denied that he made any complaints about appellant to either Balsamo, Esposito or Murphy, or at the February 19th meeting in the town manager's office. Cofone admitted that when workers are not shoveling fast enough or throwing salt fast enough, someone has to step up and take charge. Appellant did yell at others to get back to work or to work harder. Cofone confirmed that he never felt that his job had been threatened by appellant and he never heard appellant tell anyone else that they might lose their jobs if Mayor Kimble lost.

William Gilbert is the Supervisor of the DPW, overseeing approximately forty-six employees. He described the structure of the DPW and his responsibilities. He has been a Belleville employee since 1985, starting as a laborer and thereafter getting promoted to mechanic and then management. Gilbert then explained the steps he took after Balsamo brought the DPW worker complaints to him. He testified that he condensed the worker's written complaints down to a two-page letter (Exhibit R-1), on February 20, 2014, and then shredded the underlying documents. He stated: "I shredded them for security. I didn't want other people to know what was going on." [T3:18:24-25.]

On cross-examination, Gilbert testified that it was Sousa, Mauriello and DiModica who had written complaints, the same three individuals who had been in Balsamo's office earlier. While Belleville had a harassment complaint procedure and policy in place, and a complaint form, neither Balsamo nor Gilbert advised these three employees to use the form or procedure set forth in the policy. Gilbert discussed the complaints from the DPW workers with Balsamo and then, alone, with Esposito.

Kevin Esposito is currently the Township Tax assessor. He was the Interim Township Manager between 2012 and 2016. As interim Township Manager, Esposito would oversee the day-to-day operations of the municipality. Esposito hired appellant in 2013 after he met with him seeking full-time employment. Esposito recalled that Rivera was experiencing financial hardship, but also had good recommendations and qualifications. Esposito described appellant's history of positions with the Township, starting with code inspector. He also set forth the documents that each new employee was provided and which each had to acknowledge. Esposito testified that appellant was transferred from code enforcement because there was a declining need for inspectors.

Esposito described a meeting held on February 19, 2014, with himself, the town attorney Murphy, Gilbert, and Balsamo. The union shop steward Welter was also present. The laborers who were present were Marra, Cofone, Mauriello, Sousa, DiModica, and Sacchiero. Mauriello reported appellant's comment "he can choke on his pizza." Esposito stated that he was told by several workers during that meeting that appellant threatened that they should not be supporting certain political groups and that everyone would be fired in the future. Appellant was reportedly aligned with a political power broker in town – Richard Yanuzzi.

Esposito decided that appellant was causing a distraction on the jobs undertaken by the Water Department and that such behavior put himself and his co-workers in harm's way. The complaints were summarized by Gilbert and Balsamo as follows: 1) he is saying what did you do to get thrown out of the garage; 2) they are going to lose their jobs when the election happens in May; 3) he is yelling and giving orders, and talking about when his organization takes over how everything is going to change; 4) he is constantly threatening workers about what will happen after the election during work hours; 5) when the manager bought the DPW workers pizza during a snow storm, he would not take an employee to get a slice of pizza at the manager's office and told the employee that the manager should choke on his pizza, and 6) that he cannot wait until May to walk in his office and fire the town manager. [Exhibit R-1.]

Esposito then convened a meeting with Gilbert, Murphy and appellant to address the complaints. The Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) was prepared prior to the meeting. Esposito stated that he had intended to give appellant an opportunity to respond to the allegations, but appellant became too angry, shouting "this is bullshit" and flailing his arms. Esposito determined to give him the PNDA right then and advised appellant that he was suspended without pay. Appellant was charged with conduct unbecoming of a public employee and other sufficient causes. Esposito testified that he based that upon the hostile work environment due to bullying, verbal abuse, intimidation, and threats to fellow employees.[5] Esposito insisted that appellant was not disciplined due to his political affiliations; rather, he was disciplined due to concerns of the other employees' safety and work place environment.

[5] Esposito testified that he received complaints from a member of the public and another Belleville employee about appellant prior to his re-assignment to the DPW. However, in both instances the individuals refused to reduce their complaints to writing. The member of the public allegedly advised Esposito that appellant, in his duty as a code inspector, was aggressive and hostile towards a property owner. As this is inadmissible hearsay without a residuum of competent evidence supporting it, it shall be disregarded. Further, appellant was never advised of these complaints or given the opportunity to tell his side of the story.

On cross-examination, Esposito admitted that he was the person who conducted the investigation and made the determination to fire appellant. Neither Esposito nor Balsamo asked any questions of appellant, and the PNDA was already prepared for his immediate suspension without pay prior to appellant entering the meeting. There was also no attempt by Esposito to interview other laborers or Fiscella, even though he was a witness and/or participant in several of the alleged incidents. Esposito seemed confused and uncertain when questioned as to the exact timeline of his investigation. The verbal complaints of the three workers might have been received on February 19 or 20; the timing of the complaints of Cofone and Maura were even less certain; although all these complaints were allegedly summarized in the Gilbert and Balsamo memorandum dated February 20.

Esposito also confirmed that it was against public policy for anyone to solicit monies for political fundraisers or to sell tickets to such events during the workday and on town property.

Rocco Balsamo has been employed by the Belleville DPW for 14 years. He was the Assistant Superintendent of DPW at the time of these incidents. His duties included meeting with each Department supervisor to review the assignments of the employees and pass along any orders from the Superintendent. Balsamo first met appellant in 2014 in Esposito's office when he was being transferred into the DPW. Rivera was assigned as a laborer in the Water Department.

Balsamo stated that he received complaints against appellant regarding one or two snowstorms from a group of newer employees over the course of a couple of days. He then asked that group of workers to come to his office. Balsamo was advised by Mauriello that he felt threatened and that appellant bossed him around. Mauriello told Balsamo that he was not allowed to get pizza, that he could not go for a break, and that appellant remarked that he did not do his job properly. Sousa complained about Rivera yelling, cursing, and demeaning him about working hard. Cofone complained about him taking the lead and acting like a supervisor. DiModica and Sacchiero complained about the same issues. According to Balsamo's testimony, the employees felt threatened because they were told there would be changes after the upcoming election and they were new hires. Also, Balsamo testified that he was told by the employees that they felt threatened and were not focusing on their jobs because of the upcoming election. Balsamo explained that he was concerned for their safety.

Balsamo testified that he took notes on exactly what he was told by the laborers and then presented them to Gilbert. After presenting the complaints to the DPW Superintendent Gilbert, Balsamo testified that Gilbert summarized them in writing and presented it to the Township Manager Esposito. Balsamo testified that he was called into the meeting with the Township Manager and Gilbert as to the complaints. He also attended another meeting with Esposito and the Township Attorney Murphy to review the complaints.

On cross-examination, Balsamo testified that even though he claimed that appellant's fellow laborers felt threatened, he was unable to identify any of the language or wording used that made them feel that way. Balsamo could also not recall anyone specifically saying that appellant used the term "regime change."

Joseph Marra was not called to testify but his departmental testimony of February 20, 2015, was admitted into the record. Therein, Marra could not recall working with appellant, or ever hearing him talk politics. Marra also denied hearing any other workers complain about appellant.

Vincent Fiscella, Jr. presented testimony on behalf of appellant. Fiscella was a laborer with Belleville between approximately October 3, 2011 through May 13, 2014.[6] Fiscella stated that during the snowstorms, the crews were given over twenty properties to clear of snow and lay down salt. Those properties included around town hall, which is a full block around, police parking lots, library, a recreation center, which is up a hill, and the senior citizen building. In the winter of 2014, there were a few significant snowstorms with very heavy snow. Fiscella recalled for one snowstorm, he was partnered with appellant and Mauriello. He testified that the town had snow blowers but that they were inoperable, which clearly made the job more arduous and time consuming. The laborers had worked throughout the night on that occasion. Fiscella said it was bitterly cold and all he and appellant wanted to do was get done and get warm.

Fiscella observed that throughout the night, the other DPW workers made excuses, such as having to get salt or shovels, in order to find some relief from the cold, leaving appellant, Mauriello, and himself to shovel. At some point, appellant recommended calling Fiscella's father, the Superintendent of Grounds at the Belleville Board of Education, to ask to borrow a snow blower. Fiscella's father agreed to provide the snow blower so their crew of three picked up the blower along with ramps to get it on the truck. Needless to say, it was a miserable storm and everyone was tired and cold. Fiscella observed appellant wearing a backbrace – of a Home Depot type -- when appellant took off his jacket at lunch. Fiscella further testified that appellant complained of his back hurting him, that it was sore and aching, and that he had surgery on his back.

Fiscella testified that the only discussion he recalled them having while they were in the vehicle concerned a comparison between how the Board of Education was well-operated as compared to the town, especially regarding broken trucks and equipment, and the general organization of the management. Fiscella testified that his father's trucks were older, but in tip-top shape, clean and functioning. So, he stated that the discussion was more about how the town could be run better if a new administration was voted in.

Fiscella further stated that after working through the night, he had called the Road Supervisor, Bob Welter, to ask if they could stop to get something to eat, which was granted. The only place open was a Chinese buffet on Main Street, so the three of them went there to eat. Appellant paid for Mauriello's lunch. After eating, Fiscella testified that he got a call from Welter telling them to return to City Hall because they needed the snow blower there to clean. Fiscella recalled that upon arriving, as they were taking the snow blower off the truck, Gilbert pulled up and said, "There's pizza inside if you guys want." At that point, Fiscella was indifferent to that news as they had just eaten. Fiscella confirmed that appellant was seen yelling at the workers who were throwing snowballs down the hill from the Recreation Center and not working. He recalled that appellant had also cursed while yelling at the men who were sitting in a truck earlier in the storm.

On cross-examination, Fiscella stated that he did not know appellant very well prior to and during their mutual employment with Belleville. His father knew appellant from the Board of Education, and Fiscella and appellant would see each other at the local cigar store where they hung out. Cigars were the subject of conversation in the break room on occasion. Because Fiscella had had a prior career in a more political agency, he knew better than to talk politics on the job; about which he could not say the same for Balsamo.

John Rivera testified on his own behalf. Appellant was initially hired to be an inspector for code enforcement. He remained in that position for approximately one year. Appellant was then transferred to be a clerk in the Municipal Court, but there was a conflict because of the fact that he was a Board of Education Trustee. He was then transferred to the DPW effective December 11, 2013. Appellant believed that the transfer was politically motivated. He was also not happy about having to work in the DPW because of his age and a bad back.

Appellant was assigned to the Water Department where that he received no complaints about his performance from Balsamo or Gilbert. Appellant testified that he worked two or three snowstorms the winter of 2014, where he and other laborers had to work fourteen to eighteen hours at a time. As others have stated, appellant testified that the snowstorms that year were comprised of one to two feet of very wet and heavy snow.

Unfortunately, appellant found that the DPW snowblowers were all broken and even some shovels were less than ideal in functionality. He also testified that there were no radios in the truck and the lift gates on the trucks were also broken, requiring the DPW members to do everything manually. Appellant confirmed that there were over 20 properties that had to be shoveled. Although they would be split into separate groups, one group would follow up on another group to finish clearing and salting a property. Appellant stated that there would be three laborers to a truck, and that he was always put with Fiscella during the snowstorms. Fiscella was always driving. Because the trucks had no radios, the supervisors would call Fiscella by phone. Appellant recalled that Sacchiero was with them in a truck for one storm but only for approximately two hours, and Mauriello for another occasion.[7]

Appellant testified that there was no conversation about politics with Sacchiero. The conversation he had with Fiscella about politics with Mauriello in the truck concerned how none of the town's equipment was working during a big snowstorm. After they contacted Fiscella's father, who was head of buildings and grounds for the Belleville Board of Education, to borrow a snow blower from the Belleville Board of Education, the conversation turned to how things would change for the better if the other candidates won. This was strictly in the sense of the town equipment and how the town seemed to be deteriorating with the upkeep and planning that seemed missing at that point. Appellant denied making any comment that anyone would lose their jobs after the election, nor did he ask Mauriello who he was planning on voting for.

With respect to the "pizza incident," appellant testified that they had been working since late evening and they had worked all through the night for twelve hours without food or a break other than grabbing coffee. Fiscella got a call from Gilbert telling them to go to lunch. Because of the storm, just about everything was closed but they found a Chinese restaurant on Main Street and went to eat there. Appellant paid for everyone's lunch. At that point, they had the snowblower in the truck, but they were tired, wet and cold. His back was killing him. When these three were done with lunch, they were told to go to town hall to clear the property. It was then that they found out that Esposito bought pizza for everyone. Appellant admitted that he made the statement that "Well, he can choke on his pizza," but it was because he was upset that he just paid $35.00 for Chinese food when they could have had free pizza. All he wanted to do was just finish clearing the properties and be done with this snow duty.

[7] Appellant testified that Cofone was on the truck with him for about twenty minutes. On that occasion, appellant was driving and Cofone was on the back of the truck spreading salt, but he was never inside the truck with him.

At one point, when appellant and Fiscella were clearing snow at the Senior Center, which runs around 200 yards, he was working to get the sidewalk clear. When appellant was approximately 100 yards towards the train trestle, he turned around, stopped the machine, and looked back. He observed several guys were down there having a snowball fight, including Sousa, DiModica and two or three others. Fiscella was right next to him. At that point, he yelled to them, "Pick up a fucking shovel, we got work to do." They picked up shovels and started working. On another occasion, DiModica and other members were sitting in a truck, with the windows closed staying warm, while he and the others were outside shoveling. Appellant did yell to them: "Get out of the truck. Let's go."

Appellant stated that at no time during the snowstorms did he ever witness Gilbert or Balsamo on the road. It was rare to see any supervisors out in these snowstorm events. He also reiterated that at no time when he met up with other groups of DPW workers did they hang out outside and talk politics. He never had a one-on-one conversation with Sousa about politics and he never commented that his mother was going to lose her job. There was only one verbal run-in when appellant felt that Sousa was standing around while Fiscella obviously needed help getting the snowblower off the back of the truck.

Appellant denied that he had any conversations with Cofone, DiModica, Sacchiero, or anyone other than Fiscella about Belleville politics, especially in light of his belief that the reason he was transferred to the DPW was as punishment for his political views. Appellant rarely stopped in the breakroom but walked through it to get to his truck. In the Water Department, laborers did not have to go to the breakroom to get assignments. With respect to his work with the Water Department, appellant stated that he only worked two water main jobs with each of Cofone and Sousa when they were shoveling dirt into a hole during which they had no conversation.

Appellant testified that on the day he was served with the PNDA, he was told to respond to town hall to see Esposito. He was not told what it was about and he had no idea of what was coming. Balsamo, Gilbert, Murphy and Esposito were there, as well as union representative Welter. He was immediately told that he was being suspended without pay because he had been "abusive" and "harassed" toward some of the other laborers. He was handed the PNDA within the first minutes of being there. Appellant said to Welter, "This is bullshit, help me here, what's going on?" Appellant testified that nobody spoke to him and nobody asked him his version of any of the alleged incidents. They told him he could get a hearing. Appellant insisted that his tone at the meeting was level because he was trying to save his job and his only income. He emphatically denied that he was yelling loudly and flailing his arms. At the hearing, he explained that he has a metal plate in his arm from an accident and "flailing" is not something he does with his arms.

On cross-examination, appellant admitted to the yelling he did during the snowstorms but stated that such was only in response to other employees shirking their jobs and in the absence of any supervisors.

It was clear both at the hearing and through reading the post-hearing submissions of both parties that this relatively short employment relationship was contentious and the employment action herein challenged was infused with at least some politics. Belleville's perspective was hyperbolic and fairly far afield of the actual evidence in the record.[8] Rivera's argument emphasized political connections and perceived conflicts.[9] My task is to see the truth through the weeds.

[8] For example –

> [Appellant]'s suspension stems from a vitriolic campaign of harassment, intimidation, and hostile conduct against virtually all his fellow laborers during which he subjected them to regular threats that he would gain political power and eliminate their livelihoods.
>

And --

For evidence to be credible it must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Credibility, or, more specifically, credible testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954). I FIND that respondent's witnesses were less credible than appellant. Credibility means the testimony as a whole holds or hangs together and makes sense. After listening carefully to every witness, it was clear to me that this entire case turned on the exaggerations and over-reactions, whether intentional or unintentional, of Balsamo and Esposito. At the hearing, they were placed in a position to defend a decision to immediately suspend without pay and then terminate a low-level DPW laborer on "safety concerns" that stemmed almost entirely from two big snowstorms in 2014 during which no one was hurt, threatened or confronted by hostile elements other than Mother Nature. Conversely, appellant's testimony was consistent, forthright, and believable, even when he admitted to raising his voice during those long hours of shoveling.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Accordingly, and based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at the hearing, and having had the opportunity to

---

> The laborers of Belleville's Department of Public Works deserved the ability, particularly during the historically brutal winter of 2013 – 2014, to attend to their critical job responsibilities without the distraction of a never-ending barrage of threats to their employment as well as crude personal insults.
>

[9] Appellant, who used the label "cousin" to describe the familial relationship between Gilbert and the Mayor seventeen (17) times, also had a decided bent to his post-hearing presentation –

> There is no dispute that all those involved in the decision to investigate, charge, suspend without pay, and terminate [appellant] supported the Mayor in the upcoming election by raising money, by selling tickets to the Mayor's fundraisers and/or purchasing tickets to the Mayor's fundraisers and/or participating in the fundraisers and/or actively campaigning for the Mayor[.]

observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Appellant is in his mid-fifties, having graduated high school in 1980. He took some college courses but did not matriculate. After some typical odd jobs, appellant was employed in security, then the banking and bond industry, and for a longer period in hospital financial services.

2. Appellant began employment with Belleville in early 2013 as a property maintenance inspector within the code enforcement department.

3. Appellant was also the President of the Board of Education for the Township of Belleville during all relevant times herein, specifically, two three-year terms from 2010 to 2016.

4. Appellant was transferred initially to the municipal court in or about November 2013, but it was then confirmed that his position with the school board prohibited that job assignment.

5. Appellant was thereafter transferred to the Department of Public Works as a laborer in the Water Department on or about December 11, 2013.

6. The reasons for that transfer cannot be determined on this record.

7. There were two snowstorms discussed in detail at the hearings.

8. Appellant yelled at some fellow laborers who were throwing snowballs while he and some others were still shoveling snow.

9. Appellant and Fiscella discussed the hope that a new municipal administration would operate the DPW better and provide functional equipment.

10. Mauriello was assigned to the same truck as appellant and Fiscella for only a few hours during one of the storms. He was uncomfortable with their viewpoints on the town government but never felt threatened in any manner.

11. The conversation between appellant and Fiscella while Mauriello was in the truck with them, which was only on and off for a few hours during one snowstorm, centered on frustrations with the DPW equipment and the invidious comparison to the BOE equipment.

12. Mauriello was never asked for whom he was planning on voting for Mayor and council.

13. All of the laborers had worked long, cold, and hard hours during these snowstorms. It is fair to surmise that everyone was tired, hungry, cold, and cranky. Each person reacts individually to those types of stressors.

14. Appellant got permission to take a meal break and treated Mauriello and Fiscella to a Chinese buffet before any of them knew about the free pizza back at the municipal building.

15. Appellant's comment that Esposito could "choke on his pizza" was not a threatening comment, but one expressed out of fatigue and aggravation, insofar as he had just paid for his and the others' meal. No reasonable person would have taken that comment literally when placed in context.

16. It is not unusual or surprising that DPW laborers use curse words during normal and/or heated conversations.

17. Appellant, as one of the oldest laborers, as well as President of the Board of Education, was probably not emotionally prepared to be doing manual labor at the bottom of the DWP pecking order. He had a propensity to be a little bossy to younger workers who he perceived were not pulling their weight even though he had been given no supervisory authority.

18. Appellant did not bully, harass or threaten any other laborer during these two snowstorms. Similar to many others on that job, his speech to get back to work was sprinkled with some common curse words.

19. During these two heavy snow events, there was no supervisory presence outside with the DPW crews shoveling and salting the public properties. Insofar as truck radios were non-functional, the DPW crews were pretty much on their own – self-governing -- during those long, overnight hours.

20. During regular Water Department jobs, appellant never harassed, threatened or bullied any fellow laborers.

21. Appellant did not threaten anyone's job in anticipation – that is, "if and when" – a new administration was to be elected in May 2014.

22. Every witness for respondent was politically and actively loyal to the Mayor. Appellant and Fiscella were politically and actively loyal to the challenger to the Mayor. Every person presented his belief that all the other person's witnesses were too political during working hours.

23. Appellant did not lobby other laborers to his political viewpoint in the break room. Appellant was rarely in the break room and even if he passed through, the conversation was just as likely to be about cigars as the election still months away.

24. Appellant did not threaten anyone's employment. Appellant expressed his opinion and observations that when elections are over and if new people are in positions of authority, changes are inevitable.

25. No laborer could reasonably have felt threatened, intimidated, or in a hostile work environment as a result of appellant's differing municipal allegiances.

26. Balsamo, who was in a supervisory position, did occasionally solicit laborers to purchase tickets to the Mayor's fundraising events that winter during working hours and on municipal property.

27. Balsamo let DPW workers know that their future employment prospects would not be hurt if they attended the Mayor's functions.

28. Only three laborers complained about appellant, and none of them felt that their jobs had been threatened.

29. This disciplinary action relies almost exclusively on verbal interactions between DPW laborers during two heavy snowstorms in February 2014.

30. No DPW employee's safety was ever at issue in any of the alleged complaints.

31. Neither Esposito or Balsamo attempted to discuss with appellant toning down his bossiness or viewpoints.

32. Appellant was given no verbal warning or written reprimand for these or any other allegations for his employment in Belleville.

33. Appellant was never given any minor or major period of suspension for these or any other allegations for his employment in Belleville.

ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6, governs a public employee's rights and duties. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). Governmental employers also have delineated rights and obligations. The Act sets forth that it is State policy to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority to public officials so they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b).

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against her and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In this matter, Belleville bears the burden of proving the charges against appellant by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962).

For reasonable probability to exist, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959) (citation omitted). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Therefore, the tribunal must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna and W. R.R. Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933).

Initially, appellant argues that the proceedings below were tainted by a conflict of interest in violation of the Ethics Law:

> No local government officer or employee shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family . . . has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independent of judgment.
> [N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.5(d).]

Appellant asserts that during the period of the investigation of the complaints about him, Gilbert was the Mayor's cousin and he was aware that appellant was not supporting the Mayor. Similarly, it is argued that Murphy investigated the complaints by interviewing the witnesses, but he had been the Master of Ceremonies for the Mayor at his fundraisers. Balsamo, the other managerial employee involved in this disciplinary action, sold tickets to laborers for the Mayor's fundraising events. Appellant asserts that the appearance of impropriety standard should be applied in what he refers to as a quasi-judicial proceeding, thusly: "'Would a reasonable, fully informed person have doubts about the judge's impartiality?'" Kane Properties, LLC v. City of Hoboken, 214 N.J. 199, 223 (2013) (quoting DeNike v. Cupo, 196 N.J. 502, 517 (2008)).

I CONCLUDE that the argument of an ethical conflict of interest at play in the bringing of the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action must be set aside because the proceedings here at the OAL are de novo. Accordingly, appellant's challenge as to validity of his suspension and termination after a local hearing based on political bias, and that the proceedings should be held to be void ab initio must fail. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 151 (App. Div. 1987). Even if the municipal attorney and DPW management were prejudiced and should have recused themselves, this is an entirely new hearing in which all evidence bearing on the case must be sought, and a substituted decision as to substantiation is made as if there had been no prior hearing and decision, thus correcting any prejudice which may have existed at the local level. See also Marro v. Civil Serv. Dep't, 57 N.J. Super. 335, 345-46 (App. Div. 1959); Carr v. Sharp, 454 F.2d 271, 272 (3d Cir. 1971).

Accordingly, this dispute turns solely on the factual underpinnings of the allegations, and not whether persons who drafted and investigated them for presentation at a departmental hearing were biased or had an appearance of impropriety.

Based upon the facts set forth above, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant was a threat to the safety of other crew members who needed to be immediately suspended without pay on February 20, 2014, effective February 21, 2014. There were no reports that any worker felt that his safety was threatened by the presence of appellant on the job. No testimony was produced at these hearings that anyone was so distracted by thoughts of possibly losing a job several months later as a result of things appellant might have said that they could not concentrate on their jobs. These assertions strains credulity. There were also no complaints about the quality of the work appellant did or the effort he applied, notwithstanding a bad back, arm injury, and being older than the average laborer.

In addition, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has not proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant's offense of being occasionally outspoken about the local politics and at times crude or bossy in his vocal interactions with fellow laborers rose to the level of bullying, harassment, or creating a hostile work environment. This conclusion is buttressed by the record facts showing that no one complained about appellant or made his conversations a big deal until Balsamo and Gilbert brought the workers into a common interview session on February 19, 2014. Further, the use of common curse words by DPW laborers, especially during arduous snowstorm duty, is hardly grounds for termination. If it was, I dare say most towns would have empty DPW departments.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent has not met its burden of proof on these disciplinary charges and that they must be dismissed. Whether this was politics at play, bad blood, or personalities rubbing the wrong way, there was simply barely any smoke to these charges and certainly not a blazing fire of outrageous work behavior as characterized by respondent. The respondent's assertions are also undermined by its failure to keep any underlying notes, complaints or statements, and by its utter failure to actually "investigate" both sides.

Even if I had concluded that Belleville had proven these disciplinary charges, I would CONCLUDE that the penalty imposed here was excessive and shocking to my sense of fairness. This entire situation could and should have been handled with a verbal warning or written reprimand. Put bluntly, these are trumped up charges on which Belleville has wasted its public resources, when the proper managerial approach would have been to remind everyone as to the behavior expected in that work environment.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action of the Township of Belleville, Department of Public Works against appellant John Rivera is hereby REVERSED. It is further ORDERED that appellant John Rivera is entitled to back pay and any other benefits that would have otherwise accrued had he not been removed.

It is further ORDERED that reasonable counsel fees should be awarded to the appellant as the prevailing party, subject to submittal of an affidavit of services and supporting documentation to the appointing agency, if settlement of fees is not successful, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: DECEMBER 21, 2018 BW

The appeal of Cassy Pollander, Police Officer, City of Gloucester Police Department, release at the end of the working test period, effective August 24, 2017, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Judith Lieberman, who rendered her initial decision on November 19, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on December 19, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in releasing the appellant at the end of the working test period was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Cassy Pollander.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further

INITIAL DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 15144-17

AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-800

IN THE MATTER OF CASSY POLLANDER, GLOUCESTER CITY, POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Arthur J. Murray, Esq., for appellant, Cassy Pollander (Alterman and Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Joseph Antinori, Esq., for respondent, Gloucester City, Police Department, (Brown & Connery, LLP, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 4, 2018 Decided: November 19, 2018

BEFORE JUDITH LIEBERMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The appellant, Cassy Pollander, appeals her dismissal by the respondent, Gloucester City Police Department (Department), at the end of her working test period.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 24, 2017, the respondent notified the appellant that her employment with the Gloucester City Police Department was terminated, effective August 24, 2017, and advised her of her right to appeal the termination. The appellant filed a timely appeal and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 13, 2017, for hearing as a contested case. The case was heard on June 5, 2018 and June 6, 2018. The record remained open for the receipt of written summations by the parties. On October 4, 2018, all summations were received, and the record closed that day.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Sergeant James Little worked for the Gloucester's City Police Department for thirteen years and has been a sergeant since 2016. He became a Field Training Officer (FTO) in approximately 2010 and received training for the position, including but not limited to instruction concerning training and evaluation of new recruits through the Field Training Program. The Field Training Program lasts twelve weeks for those recruits who do not encounter problems. The program is comprised of three phases: general police department operations and structure, motor vehicle stops, and observation of the officer as he works alone. Failure to successfully complete the Field Training Program would result in termination.

Little was the appellant's FTO. He utilized the Field Training Program – Recruit Training Manual, which enumerated each work function or objective that he was to review with the appellant. (J-4.) The appellant was required to perform and be deemed proficient in each category to pass the Field Training Program. The appellant received written materials concerning the functions and objectives listed in the manual and Little instructed her concerning each item. The appellant was then required to instruct and perform each function. Little indicated on the manual the date the appellant was first trained concerning a particular function or objective; the date the appellant performed the function or objective, either on the job or in a scenario-based training; and the date when she was deemed proficient in the subject. Little and the appellant initialed each entry when she was deemed proficient. Ibid. This portion of the appellant's training commenced August 27, 2016, and Little initialed the last entries on December 12, 2016. Ibid. Little explained that this did not mean that the Field Training Program was necessarily complete at that time.

Little was also required to review with the appellant multiple items listed on a Daily Observation Report ("DOR") (J-5.), and sign-off on the DOR when the appellant performed each item. On a daily basis, he assessed the appellant's performance and graded it using a numeric rating system. A rating of "1" through "3" indicated unacceptable performance; "4" was minimally acceptable; "5" through "7" was above average. Each day's DOR was signed by the appellant, Little, and a supervisor. Little reviewed the appellant's performance and progress with her daily or once every two or three days, and offered guidance concerning how she could improve. He directed her to policies and procedures when necessary. The appellant could be re-evaluated on subsequent days and could receive a higher rating if her performance improved. The DOR process commenced August 27, 2016, and ended January 19, 2017.[1]

September 19, 2016, was the first day Little formally evaluated the appellant's performance. That day, he found the appellant's performance was least satisfactory with respect to "Problem Solving-Decision Making." He wrote, "Pt. C. Pollander was unsure on several calls for service. She would not make eye contact with people she was dealing with. Her confidence level is low and she needs to work on speaking up while speaking with the general public." (J-5 at 110-111.) This continued to be a problem for the appellant, which Little recorded and discussed with her throughout the Field Training Program:

- On September 20, 2016, Little wrote the appellant was "very uncomfortable while processing a prisoner. She was hesitant to control the prisoner while fingerprinting him. This issue was discussed with her." Ibid. at 112-113.

- On September 23, 2016, the appellant "showed signs of being nervous and timid when asked to perform self-initiated field activity." Ibid. at 114-115.

[1] The data in the DOR was transferred, in summary form, to a Biweekly Progress Chart . (J-6.)

- On September 25, 2016, the appellant's "least satisfactory area of performance" involved officer safety. The appellant "responded to a removal of an intoxicated male from a bar. The male approached her and was standing very close to her. She became very nervous and would not tell the male to back away from her. I had to move the male away from her. While placing the same male under arrest he resisted other officers' attempts to place him in handcuffs. Ofc. Pollander stood by and would not intervene." Ibid. at 118-119. The appellant's performance was not acceptable, and she received a score of "3" for officer safety because she did not take control of the scene and allowed the male suspect to control it. Ibid.

- On October 3, 2016, the appellant's performance was not acceptable with respect to "problem solving - decision making." She needed "to work on being more confident when handling minor calls for service. She becomes very unsure and nervous when first arriving on scene. This will improve with experience." Ibid. at 124-125.

- On October 7, 2016, the appellant's least satisfactory area of performance was again "problem solving – decision making." Little wrote she "still needs to improve on her field performance. She becomes nervous at times and needs guidance." Ibid. at 128-129.

- On October 8, 2016, the appellant's least satisfactory area of performance was "self-initiated field activity." Little wrote, the appellant "still needs to improve on her field performance. She becomes nervous at times and needs guidance. She needs to be aware of her surroundings and identifying suspicious activity." Ibid. at 130-131.

- On October 9, 2016, the appellant's performance in the area of "self-initiated field activity" was not acceptable. Little wrote the appellant "still needs to improve on her field performance. She becomes nervous at times and needs guidance." Ibid. at 132-133.

- On October 13, 2016, the appellant's performance in the area of "office safety general" was not acceptable. Little wrote about an incident in which the appellant entered a vacant house without having her weapon out; walked through the first floor without checking corners; kept her weapon at her side when she unholstered it; did not point the weapon in the direction she was walking while she walked to the second floor; and "rushed from room to room without covering corners" on the second floor. Ibid. at 136-137. "I counseled Ofc. Pollander on scene and showed her several times how to clear steps and rooms." Ibid. Little also wrote the appellant was struggling in the area of "problem solving-decision making. While handling basic calls for service, which she has performed in the past, she freezes and look to me for advice. She needs to learn to make decisions on her own. This will come with time but she should be further along in this area." Ibid. Little discussed this with the appellant.

- On October 18, 2016, the appellant's performance in the area of "problem solving and decision making" was not acceptable. Little wrote the appellant, "continues to struggle in this area. She has been advised on several occasions to make decisions to solve the problem at hand." Ibid. at 140-141.

- On October 27, 2016, the appellant's performance was deemed "not acceptable" in five areas. Little wrote about a domestic violence call to which the appellant responded but "did not take charge of the scene or separate the parties involved." Ibid. at 150-151. Little wrote the appellant "continues to struggle in this area. When faced with a stressful situation, she freezes up and is unsure of how to solve the issue at hand. Upon arriving at the scene of a disorderly female call, Ofc. Pollander was advised the female left the area and was possibly in an apartment in that location.

She left the scene without checking any of the apartments." Ibid. Little reviewed this with the appellant.

- On October 31, 2016, the appellant's performance was "not acceptable" in the areas of self-initiated field activity and problem solving-decision making. Little wrote the appellant "continues to struggle in the area of [problem solving-decision making]. I have retrained her in this area. She understands and accepts that she needs to do a better job." Ibid. at 152-153.

Throughout the Field Training Program, Little conducted scenario-based training with the appellant. The training addressed domestic violence, room clearing, felony car stops, in addition to other matters. Several officers, including Chief Morrell, recreated the incidents or actions to be addressed and the appellant responded. The officers provided feedback to the appellant concerning her responses.

The appellant was also required to take four "Cycle Quizzes" that tested her proficiency with, among other things, codes, Department policies, Attorney General Guidelines. (J-7.) The appellant passed each of the four quizzes. Ibid.

Little prepared End of Phase Evaluation reports. In the first, dated, September 29, 2016, he wrote the appellant was not yet performing at "solo beat officer level." (J-8 at 246-248.) Little referenced the incident involving an intoxicated man, in which the appellant allowed him to "get too close to her on a call without asking or advising him to step back, before I intervened." Ibid. He also noted that she had "problems identifying suspicious activity as well as MV violations[,] and "had to be counseled on several occasions about officer safety issues." Ibid. "She approached vehicles during MV stops without looking in the back seat, prior to speaking with the driver. She did not blade[2] herself while speaking with drivers and stood at the driver's side door, looking down at documents with both hands. Although this will come with more experience she needs to identify the safety issues and fix them." Ibid. A supervisor reviewed and signed Little's report. Ibid.

Little prepared an October 27, 2016, End of Phase report that indicated the appellant was not then "performing at solo beat officer level." (J-8 at 249-250.) She "continued to struggle with decision making and self-initiated field activities. There were numerous times during this training period that [she] drove around the city without making any MV stops. During those times, I was with her and observed numerous MV violations. When [she] did make MV stops she often did not issue a traffic summons. Ofc. Pollander had safety issues during this time period. While responding to a domestic disturbance, she allowed all parties involved to continue to argue with one another. While on scene of an open door to an abandoned house, she entered without having her weapon out and did not clear corners." Ibid. Little wrote about these incidents on the End of Phase report because the appellant continued to have problems in these areas.

Given the appellant's performance and his belief that she was not qualified to serve as a solo officer, Little requested an extension of the appellant's Field Training Program. He discussed his concerns with his sergeant and Lieutenant Morrell and submitted a November 24, 2016, Field Training and Evaluation Program Remedial Training Report, in which he indicated the appellant's performance was "below standard" and she "needed special training concerning decision making, self-initiated field activity and officer safety." (J-9.) Little wrote the appellant "has a hard time when dealing with stressful situations. She often freezes and looks to fellow officers for help. She hesitates to take control of the scene. I have talked to Ofc. Pollander about her performance on several occasions. She was counseled on this issue as well." Ibid. The report also noted the appellant was "struggling with identifying and making MV stops. When she does make the MV stops she often gives verbal warnings. I discussed this with Ofc. Pollander on several occasions, and also demonstrated MV stops. With more time this area should improve." Ibid. With respect to officer safety, the report noted, the appellant "sometimes struggles in this area. She cleared a vacant residence without unholstering her weapon and she did not clear any corners. While on scene of a domestic disturbance she allowed numerous people to argue in front of her without taking action. I've discussed these issues with her on numerous occasions." Ibid. The appellant signed the report on November 24, 2016, and she was approved for two additional weeks. Ibid.

On December 13, 2016, Little issued a DOR in which he indicated the appellant's performance was unsatisfactory in the areas of officer safety-suspects/prisoners and control of conflict-voice. (J-5 at 196-197.) He wrote:

> Ofc. Pollander conducted an MV stop at King and Mercer Street. When she requested backup units she did not provide the correct location. Upon arriving on the scene, Ofc. Pollander was standing out front of [a residence]. She advised me that while conducting a MV stop the female driver exited the vehicle and went inside [the residence]. She went on to state that she attempted to take the suspect into custody and the suspect pulled away from her and entered the residence. I entered the residence with another officer and had to wrestle her to the floor, where she was subsequently placed under arrest. While wrestling with the suspect, Ofc. Pollander stood by and did not actively assist myself with the lock-up. Ofc. Pollander turned her back on the suspect and began to walk away look for street sign, at which point she gave an incorrect location. She then allowed the suspect to enter the residence with[out] attempting to stop her. Also, it was learned a male was with the suspect, which Ofc. Pollander did not tell arriving officers prior to entering the residence.
>
> While reviewing Ofc. Pollander's [body worn camera], it was learned that [she] did not take control of the incident. She allowed the suspect to continue to control the scene and would not listen to her commands. She also did not activate her body worn camera during the initial MV stop. While processing the suspect at Police H.Q.'s Ofc. Pollander stood by and had to be told to finish processing her.
> Ibid.

That same day, Little submitted a Remedial Training Report in which he described the above incidents and concerns. He noted the appellant "has a hard time when dealing with stressful situations. She continues to freeze up and looks to fellow officers for help. She hesitates to take control of the scene. I've talked to Ofc. Pollander about her performance on several occasions. She was counseled on this issue as well." The appellant signed that report. (J-9.) Little requested the appellant receive additional training and memorialized this in a December 14, 2016, Formal Notice of Unsatisfactory

Performance/Progress report, in which he wrote, "Failure to bring your performance up to an acceptable level will result in your re-phasing, and could result in not successfully completing the Field Training and Evaluation Program, which would result in your termination." (J-10). The appellant signed the Formal Notice of Unsatisfactory Performance on December 14, 2016. Ibid. She received additional remedial field training.

On January 19, 2017, Little prepared a third End of Phase report, at the end of the appellant's field training. He indicated the appellant was performing at "solo beat officer level." (J-8 at 251-252.) He indicated that he believed the two additional remedial training sessions were helpful; however, the appellant needed additional training concerning officer safety and would need another officer to provide guidance. He explained the appellant, "had to be remediated two times during this phase of training. I felt that her self-initiated field activities were lacking as well as decision making skills. During this training phase, I conducted numerous training scenarios with her, which covered building clearing, domestic violence calls and MV stops. Toward the end of this phase her confidence level increased and she was far more comfortable handling calls for service. She rarely looked to other officers for help and made decisions on her own. She will make a great asset to the Gloucester City Police Department. She needs to continue her studies and learn from minor mistakes. I feel that she needs to be placed with a supervisor who will monitor her activities and make the appropriate corrections." Ibid. Little no longer served as the appellant's FTO after she completed the Field Training Program.

Sergeant Jason Flood joined the Department in 2002 and has been a Sergeant since November 2009. While the appellant was in the Field Training Program, Officer Little discussed the appellant's performance with him. Little expressed concern about her safety and stressful situations skills and that the appellant did not take action and was not assertive. Flood and Little conducted scenario-based training for the appellant. They placed her in high stress situations to see how she would act and they critiqued her performance, noting positive and negative aspects of her responses, and stressed the safety aspects of the scenarios. He and Little spoke with the appellant about these concerns throughout her year with the Department.

After the appellant passed the Field Training Program, Flood became aware of an incident in which she was flagged down while responding to a call. The appellant's response caused him concern and he counseled her about the need to be more assertive and to take control of the scene. He stressed the importance of ensuring officers' safety. Flood's conversations with the appellant primarily concerned high stress, officer safety issues.

Flood also addressed the appellant after she responded to a call concerning two homeless men who were trespassing and drinking alcohol. The appellant responded to the scene alone. She used a flashlight because it was dark at that time. One of the men told her to turn off her flashlight and she did so. This presented a "huge safety aspect, not only that but she allowed the suspect to dictate what was going to happen during the stop." (T2[3] 8:17-19.) Also, one of the men acted in a flirtatious manner toward the appellant. Based upon his review of the appellant's body worn camera video, Flood believed the appellant "did not outright rebuff those flirtations, she didn't flirt back with him but she should have been a little more assertive" and made it clear that she was in charge of the scene. (T2 8:21-25.) Also, the appellant turned off her body camera too soon. Flood told Morrell that he was concerned about the appellant's performance.

Flood and Captain Morrell spoke with the appellant about this incident. Morrell explained that the officer is in charge and the suspect may not dictate an officer's actions during a stop. He also explained that the appellant committed a safety violation by turning off her flashlight; she should have rebuffed the flirtatious suspect immediately; and addressed the early end of her body camera video.

Flood told the appellant that the administration reviewed her body worn camera videos and that her difficulty handling stressful situations and poor judgment might jeopardize her future with the Department. He "stressed to her that she needs to take action, be assertive, handle the jobs herself and prove that she can do the job herself." (T2 10:12-14.)

[3] T1 refers to the transcript of the June 5, 2018, hearing date in this matter. T2 refers to the transcript of the June 6, 2018, hearing date.

After Flood advised the appellant that she needed to be more assertive, they responded to a domestic dispute together. As the appellant spoke with the two parties at the scene, Flood concluded the matter did not rise to the level of a domestic violence incident, as a crime had not occurred and there was not a threat of violence. Flood expected the appellant to tell the complainant that the police involvement was unwarranted. However, she did not. Flood took over because too much time had elapsed, and it appeared the appellant was unsure how to proceed. Flood discussed the incident with the appellant.

Based upon his interactions and observations of the appellant, Flood believed that, although she could handle "day to day routine calls", she froze when confronted by stressful situations and did not take "assertive action and handle the issue at hand." (T2 13:9-11.) His opinion of her capacity was "confirmed during the last incident when she allowed the driver to drive off the scene." (T2 21:22-23.) He explained:

> [E]very day in police work you . . . might not be involved in stressful situations. In those situations she did fine. When a stressful situation came up . . . there were concerns and they were addressed with her. As I said, Officer Little and I would address them with her and the last time happened to be that incident where the driver drove off. After then I had severe concerns about her ability to take action during stressful situations.

> [T2 21:22 to 22:7.]

Flood was not aware that the appellant had received documents concerning her performance and the risk of her not passing the working test period between January 19, 2017, and July 31, 2017. He did not recall preparing a document addressing his concerns while he was the appellant's supervisor, which was for approximately one year.

Lieutenant Stephen Burkhardt has been employed by the Gloucester City Police Department for twenty-three years and has served as a lieutenant for two and one-half years. He served as a sergeant for twelve years. As lieutenant, he served as supervisor of the Field Training Program with Captain Morrell.

FTO Little spoke with Burkhardt several times about the appellant's deficiencies during the Field Training Program. Little relayed his concerns about the appellant's performance while under stress and noted that it impacted the performance areas for which she was being evaluated, such as control of a conflict and officer safety. Little and Burkhardt discussed ideas for her training and Little asked Burkhardt to speak with the appellant. Burkhardt reviewed the appellant's training manual and observed the problems Little had encountered. He was also aware, from Little, Chief Morrell and Captain Morrell, that officers were assisting the appellant with scenario training and instruction, to help improve her decision making and conflict control skills.

Burkhardt spoke with the appellant in November 2016. They discussed the problems that Little identified and that were recorded in her file. He discussed ways she could better prepare to improve her performance in those areas and offered advice concerning contingency planning and other performance areas. He offered her "the same advice that was given to my own son who was a new officer about the same time as Officer Pollander and the things that I was telling him to try to prepare him and educate him, I gave the same advice to Officer Pollander." (T1:216-12-16.)

Burkhardt conducted an internal affairs investigation of which the appellant was the subject. On January 3, 2017, he issued a report on his investigation. He found the appellant did not comply with Department policy concerning use of her body worn camera during a traffic stop. She activated it after she had exited her vehicle and had already begun to engage with the driver of the stopped vehicle. This was contrary to the policy governing use of body worn cameras. Burkhardt recommended a "verbal reprimand" because this was the appellant's first violation of this policy. (J-22 at 335.) Chief Morrell issue an "oral reprimand" and noted that "[a]ny future violations may result in further discipline such as loss of time/suspension." (J-22 at 331.)

During his review of the body worn camera footage, Burkhardt observed that the appellant did not have control of the traffic stop and events following the stop. The driver of the stopped vehicle exited her vehicle and walked to the front door of her house. Neither action should have occurred; the appellant should have directed her to stay in the vehicle. Also, the appellant did not call out her location when she exited her vehicle, thus, no one knew where she was or what she was doing. Burkhardt also observed on the camera footage that, while other officers were asking where she was, the appellant walked away from the driver to look for a street sign so she could respond to the officers. Furthermore, the driver was able to walk into her house and close the door, while the appellant was present. Burkhardt believed the appellant demonstrated a lack of control and created officer safety problems by turning her back on the other parties involved and looking for her location. He considered this a "serious violation." (T1:221-17.) In addition, the appellant did not tell the other officers who reported to the scene that a second person was present. Consequently, when the other officers entered the house to assist the appellant with the driver, they were surprised to find a second person there. This put the other officers at risk. Burkhardt relayed his concerns to the appellant's FTO. Burkhardt was not consulted prior to the appellant's release from the Field Training Program on January 19, 2017 (J-11.)

On August 8, 2017, Burkhardt reviewed the appellant's body worn camera video in response to an incident that involved domestic violence and eluding. He observed her actions and determined her overall performance was below standard. She "failed to act in a manner consistent with the responsibilities and duties of a police office as well as the general rules and regulations set forth in the [Department] Rules and Regulations." (J-23 at 361.) Although the camera was activated late, he observed and learned from the appellant's report that the appellant drove her vehicle into a parking lot after a woman flagged her down. A man was also present there and the appellant proceeded to engage with both people before she announced her location and advised others of the circumstances. She should have immediately radioed her location and the nature of the incident to Central Communications. Her failure to do this was problematic, as the appellant was outnumbered, it was dark and no one else was in the area, and "things can go bad in a second and nobody is going to know that she's there in trouble." (T1 223:11-13.)

Furthermore, when the appellant drove into the parking lot, the man drove his vehicle alongside hers, such that their drivers' doors were "meeting." (T1 223:25.) The appellant exited her vehicle and was thus between both vehicles. Given that she did not know what the circumstances were at that time, this presented safety concerns "because the guy could have assaulted her with the door of his truck or sideswiped her." (T1 224:1-3.) The appellant should have pulled away and moved a safe distance from the other vehicle.

The appellant walked to the woman and spoke with her briefly before starting to walk back to the man. The man started to drive away, notwithstanding the appellant telling him to stay. Burkhart recognized that she was "trying to deal with two people that are irate[,]" which is difficult, and that any officer could be involved with an individual who ignores him. (T1 224-8.) However, the appellant did not get the entire license plate number of the truck, even though she was standing immediately behind it. She alerted other officers that the man left the scene and she then returned to the woman. The woman provided the man's name, date of birth, and where he lived. The appellant did not immediately relay this information to other officers. She continued to speak with the woman for over five minutes before she received a call from the dispatcher who asked if the appellant had any additional information about the man. The appellant relayed the information at that time. This created officer safety concerns and demonstrated a lack of control and initiative, as well as a failure to follow procedures. The incident raised concerns for Burkhardt regarding whether the appellant was fit to serve. He explained:

> [A]fter considering her training records and . . . the first [internal affairs] investigation and then this one, it seemed to me in my observation and in my experience dealing with recruits that her main issue was her performance under stress and . . . that problem branches out into other issues.
> And unfortunately . . . issues like that command presence, the critical decision making, and officer safety are the most critical parts of a patrol officer's job and she's lacking in those areas because of her performance under stress and to me it . . . seems like it's more of a personality thing. . . . [S]he kind of shies away from conflict I think, which most people don't like conflict, but I think she has a problem with the conflict and tries to avoid it and when it presents, she kind of freezes up and can't make . . . the correct decisions and act quickly and I think that's what is the cause of . . . these other issues.
> [T1 226:12 to 227:7.]

Burkhart authored an August 11, 2017, Internal Affairs report concerning his investigation of the incident. (J-21.) He did not recommend discipline, as he believed she did not intentionally fail to perform her duties. Rather, he thought she was "incapable of it in those situations." (T1 228-13-14.) He wrote in his report that he and the appellant

"discussed the fact that she had a great deal of additional training during and after her field training period and that she has nearly one year of experience on the street, yet still failed to respond appropriately and perform her duties properly during this incident." Ibid. He added that he "wasn't sure if she was just indecisive, wasn't sure how to do her job, or didn't have it in her to step up and take action. I also told her that I was concerned whether or not she was capable of fighting to protect herself or her fellow officers, or make an arrest, if need be." Ibid.

Burkhardt added that, at the end of the working test period, August 24, 2017, he was concerned that "eventually someone was going to suffer because of it, either herself or fellow officers or a citizen, because I was afraid she was going to . . . freeze up as she's shown to freeze up and not make the proper decisions and that's a liability to her and the other officers that we work with[.]" (T1 227:12-19.]

Burkhardt completed a "Report on Progress of Probationer," which indicated the appellant's performance during the work test period, from August 26, 2016 through February 26, 2017, was unsatisfactory. (J-16.) The report was prepared August 3, 2017 and was signed by the appellant, Burkhardt and Chief Morrell. Burkhardt was present when the appellant was provided a copy of the form. The progress report did not provide for an extension of the working test period or indicate that the appellant was to be terminated. (J-16.) Chief Morrell told the appellant she should have received the evaluation, but she had not received it. The August 3, 2017, report was to serve as her six-month evaluation.

Burkhardt explained that the form was prepared late because he and Chief Morrell did not previously know they were required to complete the form. The appellant was thus not advised, in writing, at or about the end of the initial review period, that her performance was unsatisfactory. Burkhardt was also not aware of any meetings with command level staff at or about the end of the initial review period during which the appellant was advised of her unsatisfactory performance. Burkhardt believed the August 3, 2017, notice was the first time the appellant was advised she received an unsatisfactory review for the first six months of her working test period.

Burkhardt prepared a second "Report on Progress of Probationer" for the working test period February 26, 2017, through August 26, 2017. This report was also dated August 3, 2017. This was before Johnson issued any reports from his observation of the appellant. The appellant's performance during this portion of the working test was deemed unsatisfactory and an extended working test was authorized. (J-17.) The Report was signed by the appellant, Burkhart and Chief Morrell. The Chief had warned the appellant, during the August 3, 2017, meeting that she was at risk of termination.

Burkhardt discussed an extension of the appellant's working test period with Chief Morrell and Captain Morrell and they requested permission to extend her training period by an additional ninety days. They also decided to assign the appellant to Sergeant Johnson so that he could observe her. This was motivated by the August 11, 2017, Internal Affairs report. Burkhardt agreed that the appellant could benefit from the guidance of Johnson, an experienced FTO. The goal was to "get another set of eyes on the problem and see if there's anything we could do. I agreed 100 percent with exhausting all the options that we had." (T1:193-18 to 25.) Johnson was instructed to "evaluate basically as a shadow, ride with Officer Pollander, and just observe what she's doing and what she's not doing" and report to Burkhardt. (T1:196-20-22.) The appellant was advised of this on August 14, 2017.

The Department was subsequently advised it was not permitted to extend the appellant's working test period. Chief Morrell completed an August 24, 2017, "Report on Progress of Probationer" for the working test period August 24, 2016, through August 24, 2017. (J-18.) It advised the appellant's performance was unsatisfactory and she was to be terminated. Ibid. Burkhardt signed the form. Burkhardt noted that the appellant had been warned that she was at risk of termination.

Burkhardt also noted that the end date on termination notice did not match the end date on the two other progress reports. He thought that, perhaps, August 26, 2016, was the appellant's first day of employment after her August 24, 2016, graduation from the Academy, though he was not sure.

Sergeant Johnson has been employed by the Department since 1999 and became a Sergeant in 2014. On August 14, 2017, he met with Chief Morrell, Captain Morrell and Lieutenant Burkhardt who told him that the appellant's working test period was being extended; that she was having some problems with safety and command presence; and they wanted him to observe her and report his observations. He had not previously supervised the appellant. Johnson reviewed the appellant's training manual from her field training and some of her body camera tapes. Commencing August 19, 2017, the appellant was assigned to Johnson for ninety days. He was to report his observations each day they worked together. He was not instructed to train her. Johnson told the appellant about this assignment and that he would write a report each/ day they worked together.

Johnson and the appellant worked together twice, on August 20, 2017, and August 23, 2017. They rode in the same police vehicle those days. Johnson had several concerns about the appellant, which he reported to Burkhardt. (J-15.) On August 20, 2017, Johnson observed the appellant on several jobs and traffic stops. He noted she did not actively search for work and appeared to not notice several vehicle infractions that were in view. He wrote:

> Ptl. C. Pollander does not attempt to quickly catch up to suspected violators to initiate a traffic stop. At one point, a vehicle rolled a stop sign in front of us as we were parked facing south, approximately 50 feet from the intersection of Collings Road and Essex Street. The offense was obvious and she did not notice. After pointing out and telling her to "to stop that car" she allowed 3 vehicles to pass us and get them between the violator and her patrol vehicle instead of driving around the cars in front of us in closing the gap. Once she turned onto Essex Street the car was no longer visible (it turned north onto Fillmore and ultimately stopped in front of the house on Sherman). Ptl. C. Pollander seemed unsure of how to find the offender after passing Fillmore in noticing it heading north. She was finally able to catch up to the offender after the offender had already parked and was exiting her vehicle. A verbal warning for the rolling of the stop sign was issued by me and we continued on.
> [J-15 at 301-302.]

Johnson complimented the appellant's "good command of the stops." Ibid. He noted that the radio calls they responded to were not stressful and the appellant handled each job professionally and efficiently, and he observed no problems with those types of stops. Ibid. Although the appellant did not receive a copy of the memorandum, Sgt. Johnson discussed his observations with her on August 23, 2017, the next time they were on patrol together.

In his August 23, 2017, memorandum to Burkhardt, Johnson noted that the appellant "actively looked for and stopped several violations including one that I did not even notice. She did much better in this area." (J-15 at 303.) He also commended her handling of two stops and arrests, after he reminded her of a Department policy concerning custodial arrest of suspended drivers. Ibid. He noted that she did not check rear threats on August 20, 2017, because she believed Johnson was covering for her then. He advised her to proceed as if he were not there and she handled stops without "officer safety issues." Ibid. He did not "observe anything unsafe or problematic" during several stops that were not "stressful." Ibid.

Johnson did not form a conclusion concerning whether the appellant had been adequately trained. He was not consulted by his supervisors concerning the appellant's termination. During the two days he worked with the appellant, he did not observe how she performed in stressful situations. Each of the matters with which they were involved were ordinary and not stressful.

Chief Brian Morrell worked for the Gloucester City Police Department for nineteen years and became Chief in January 2016. The appellant was the first person he hired. He received verbal reports from Burkhardt and Captain Morrell concerning her capacity to handle stressful situations on the street and officer safety issues. He found that the appellant continued to have difficulty with decision making, handling of stressful situations and officer safety issues after she was released from the Field Training Program.

Scenario-based training was established to help the appellant. Morrell played a "bad guy" in a domestic violence scenario, so he could observe how the appellant would react to a person on the street who challenges her authority. He saw that the appellant's performance varied; she performed poorly on some occasions and was "okay" other times. (T1 239-6.) He offered her constructive criticism afterward.

Morrell reviewed the internal affairs investigation of the appellant's use of her body worn camera and had concerns about her tactics and safety. She failed to control the suspect; allowed the driver to exit her vehicle and enter her home; did not know her location; and either did not call out her location or called out the wrong location because officers who were attempting to assist her could not find her. Morrell noted, "in those critical seconds anything could have happened." (T1 240:20.) Furthermore, the appellant stood directly in front of the door as she attempted to enter the house, while arguing with the person who was inside the house. The appellant's position placed her at risk of being shot by that person. The appellant should have stood to the side of the door or in another location that would have given her a tactical advantage. This was compounded by the appellant's failure to alert other officers that a second person was in the house, which placed all officers at risk. The appellant was trained concerning these issues.

Morrell reviewed the second internal affairs report, as well as the appellant's statement and her body worn camera video. This again caused Morrell to have concerns about the appellant's tactics and her safety. She allowed the suspect to control and dictate the events. She did not immediately alert the Department that she was involved with the incident; she went back and forth between the two people involved; and the man who fled from her had "the tactical advantage the entire time because he was seated in a truck above her." (T1 243:6-8.) Morrell noted the appellant did not know if the man had a weapon and, given how they were positioned, the appellant would have had no time to react had he exited the truck and attempted to attack her. Furthermore, after the man fled the scene in his truck, she failed to report important information to the responding officers and officers who were searching for the man.

On August 3, 2017, Morrell and Burkhardt met with the appellant because they were approaching the end of her working test period. The appellant had not passed the working test period and Morrell wanted to give her another ninety days to attempt to pass. He told the appellant her performance to date was unsatisfactory, particularly with respect to decision making, officer safety, street tactics and ability to handle stressful situations.

He told the appellant he would request permission from the Civil Service Commission to extend the working test period ninety days. He was not obligated to do this; he wanted to provide the appellant an additional opportunity to improve her skills and pass the test period.

During the same meeting, he gave the appellant two Civil Service Evaluation forms, both dated August 3, 2017. He testified that, when he inquired about an extension of the working test period, he learned that he was required to complete the forms. Even though the appellant did not receive one of the forms until almost six months after the end of the review period, the appellant was already aware of the concerns expressed in the document. He noted that the appellant should have been aware of the concerns, given "multiple safety violations, three Internal Affairs Investigations, and countless conversations[.]" (T1 275:19-21.) He acknowledged, however, that it would have been "fair" had the Department's concerns about her performance been memorialized and provided to her after she completed the Field Training Program and before the August 3, 2017, Evaluation Form.

Before the Civil Service Commission responded to his request for an extension of the appellant's working test period, Morrell decided to transfer the appellant from Flood to Johnson's supervision. He believed that, at that time, the appellant had received sufficient training and instruction. He hoped that if another officer rode with the appellant each day, observed her, and corrected any problems that arose, the appellant would pass her extended probationary working test period.

After the reassignment of the appellant to Johnson, Morrell learned that the Civil Service Commission denied his request to extend the appellant's working test period.[4] He, Burkhardt, Captain Morrell and PBA delegate Barbara Kane then met with the appellant. Chief Morrell told her that they tried to extend her working test period but their request was denied by the Civil Service Commission. The Department was, thus,

[4] On August 23, 2017, the Commission advised the City of Gloucester that an extension is permissible only when an employee took an approved leave of absence or furlough. The length of any extension would be limited to the amount of time used during the approved leave or furlough. (J-24.) Morrell testified that he did not recall discussing whether an extension was permissible prior to making the request.

required to either deem the appellant's performance satisfactory or terminate her employment. Morrell testified that, although he liked the appellant, he terminated her because he believed either she, another officer or a civilian was going to get hurt. Because the extension request was denied, Morrell issued an August 24, 2017, Report on Progress of Probationer, which notified that her performance was unsatisfactory and she would be terminated, and a letter explaining the appeals process (J-18, 19.)[5]

The appellant, Cassey Pollander, graduated from West Virginia University with a bachelor's degree in criminology in 2014. She applied for and was offered a position as a police officer with the Department, which was contingent upon graduating from the Academy. She started a twenty-two-week program with the Academy on April 4, 2016 and graduated on August 25, 2016. She commenced working as an officer with the Department on August 26, 2016.

She was required to complete a Field Training Officer Program, during which she was evaluated by an FTO and/or a sergeant with respect to a number of performance areas. She was assigned to Sgt. Flood's platoon under FTO Jimmy Little. The other FTOs were Sgt. Johnson, Kenneth Iepson and Keith Wall.

The Field Training Program was approximately three months long. The appellant's FTO was with her throughout the program to judge her progress and to provide instruction and respond to problems or questions. The program is conducted primarily in the field but is also conducted at police department headquarters. The appellant and her FTO traveled in the same vehicle except towards the end of the program during which time the appellant rode alone in her vehicle.

The appellant was aware that FTO Little recorded in the Field Training Program-Recruit Training Manual Acknowledgement Forms (J-4.) the areas in which she received training, the date of the training, the date she performed the training and "Final Sign-off."

[5] Morrell noted that the dates on the second Progress Report are incorrect. He should have written that the start and end dates of the working test period were August 26, 2016, and August 26, 2017. (J-18.)

FTO Little and the appellant initialed each entry; the appellant's initials were adjacent to "Recruit Officer" ("RO"). The last entry was dated December 12, 2016. Her field training continued for approximately one additional month after the last entry. (J-4.) (T1 36)

FTO Little also completed a "Daily Officer Report" ("DOR") for every shift that he and the appellant worked together. (J-5) Little rated the appellant's performance on various aspects of her performance, commencing August 27, 2016 and ending DOR January 19, 2017.

The appellant and Little would review the DOR and discuss her scores and how she might improve her rating, when necessary. The DOR was the only written documentation concerning the appellant's performance and areas where improvement was necessary. Biweekly Progress Charts contained the ratings from the DOR forms for August 27, 2016 through January 19, 2016. The appellant reviewed the biweekly progress charts when she met with her FTO.

The appellant was administered quizzes throughout the Field Training Program. (J-7.) The appellant and FTO reviewed the quizzes and discussed any incorrect answers. The FTO provided suggestions for improvement.

End of Phase Evaluations were issued, which identified the appellant's strengths and weaknesses throughout each phase of her training. (J-8.) FTO Little reviewed this information with her and he offered suggestions concerning how to improve where necessary. The evaluations were signed by the appellant, FTO Little and Sgt. Iepson. The last End of Phase Evaluation was issued in January 2017.

The appellant had three phases of training and an additional remedial phase. She was required to participate in a remedial training phase because it was determined that she was not then operating at a solo officer capacity. The remedial training involved reviewing matters the appellant previously engaged in and how she could handle those matters. She recalled that this added a month or two to her Field Training Program. Remedial Training Report Evaluations, dated November 24, 2016 and December 13, 2016, were issued and were signed by the appellant, FTO Little and Sgt. Iepson. (J-9.)

On December 14, 2016, a Formal Notice of Unsatisfactory Performance was issued to the appellant and signed by her, FTO Little and Sgt. Iepson. (J-10.) The document addressed areas in which the appellant needed improvement. Little discussed it with her and she understood that she would be sent for training on street survival at the Academy. The appellant attended and completed the street survival class at the Gloucester County Police Academy as well as a de-escalation training program that all Department members were required to complete

On January 9, 2017, Chief Morrell issued an internal affairs investigation report concerning the appellant's misuse of her body worn camera. (J-20.) As a result of the investigative findings, she received an oral reprimand. The appellant explained that the report followed a motor vehicle stop with which she was involved. She activated her vehicle overhead lights to indicate to the car in front of her that it should stop. The female driver of the stopped vehicle got out of her car and tried to go into a nearby house. The appellant forgot to activate her body worn camera as she exited her patrol vehicle. She activated it when she realized her mistake. This prompted the initiation of an internal affairs investigation.

On January 19, 2017, a Field Training Program Final Report, was issued. It indicated that the appellant had been released from the field training program. (J-11.) The appellant understood this to mean that she had successfully completed the program and would be released as a solo officer even though she would still be subject to a probationary period through August 2017. The appellant would then function as a police officer on patrol on her own, in a vehicle without another officer.

The appellant and another officer were the subjects of another internal affairs investigation concerning a domestic violence incident to which they responded. When she arrived at the scene Officer McKinney was talking to the person he believed was the victim. Neither the appellant nor McKinney got information from the victim and they instead entered the house to speak with the alleged defendant. Officer O'Donnell arrived at the scene and spoke with and gathered information from the victim. He learned that the victim was seventeen years old. The appellant believes she had been disciplined for this incident and had been told that she would attend a course concerning Attorney General guidelines for these situations.

The appellant claims that she met with supervisors on various occasions to discuss "how she could improve a situation," but that they did not discuss her progress. (T1 53:18.) Between January 19, 2017, when she completed the Field Training Program, and August 14, 2017, when she was advised that she had been reassigned to a different shift, she did not receive any memoranda, emails or other written documentation from supervisory staff concerning her performance, other than the Internal Affairs reports that she received. No supervisory staff spoke with her about areas in which she needed to improve.

On August 3, 2017, she met with Chief Morrell and Lieutenant Burkhart. They reviewed areas of her work that were unsatisfactory and advised that they would extend her working test by three months. The appellant was given a "Report on Progress of Probationer," which indicated her performance during the work test period, from August 26, 2016, through February 26, 2017, was unsatisfactory. The report was prepared August 3, 2017. It did not provide for an extension of the working test period nor indicate that the appellant was to be terminated. (J-16.) Chief Morrell told the appellant she should have received a six-month evaluation but had not. This report was to serve as her six-month evaluation. The appellant did not recall any discussion concerning the unsatisfactory rating.

The appellant was also provided a second "Report on Progress of Probationer" for February 26, 2017, through August 26, 2017. This report was dated August 3, 2017. The appellant's performance during this portion of the working test was deemed unsatisfactory and an extended working test was authorized. (J-17.) Both forms were signed by the appellant, Lieutenant Burkhart and Chief Morrell.

With respect to the second unsatisfactory rating, the Chief and Lieutenant told the appellant that her decision-making skills were lacking and they had concern for her safety and other officers' safety. The appellant did not recall seeing any documentation explaining their concerns. She was told during the August 3, 2017, meeting that she would be terminated at the end of her extended working test period if she did not improve in the areas in which she was deficient.

The appellant was the subject of a third internal affairs investigation, which resulted in an August 11, 2017, investigation report. (J-21.) A woman flagged down the appellant to report that there had been a hit-and-run accident. A man told the appellant that he hit the woman's car because she had thrown a rock at it. As the appellant spoke with the woman in an effort to "calm down the situation," the man drove off in his vehicle, ignoring the appellant's direction for him to stop. The appellant explained that she, "chose to stay with the female at the scene instead of chasing after the driver of the vehicle until I could figure out what the situation was." (T1 57:9-11.) The appellant was interviewed, and she understood that she was the subject of an internal affairs investigation because the Department believed she did not complete her duties properly. She did not recall receiving a written report contract concerning this incident as she was terminated before the outcome of the investigation. She had not previously seen the internal affairs investigation report.

On August 14, 2017 the appellant was "reassigned to a different shift" under the supervision of Sgt. Johnson. (J-14.) At that time, she believed that her working test period had been extended.

On August 24, 2017, the appellant met with Chief Morrell and Burkhart and was given a notice of termination. (J-18.) The notice advised that her performance during her working test period was unsatisfactory. Ibid. She was advised that her working test period had not been extended because the Civil Service Commission denied the Department's request. She was also given a memorandum from Chief Morrell, dated August 24, 2017, advising that she was terminated effective immediately and she could appeal this decision to the Civil Service Commission within twenty days. (J-19.) The appellant was unaware of the termination prior to the August 24, 2017, meeting.

With respect to discussions about her performance, the appellant recalled a conversation with a Captain, in the late spring or early summer of 2017, about an incident in which she was involved. The Captain reviewed a recording of an incident with her, and he advised her how she could have handled the situation differently and improve her performance. She also recalled a discussion with the Lieutenant after the first internal affairs investigation, during which he expressed appreciation that the incident occurred during her Field Training Program, and not while she was working on her own. He told her to keep up the good work. She was also counseled by Sergeant Flood after an internal affairs investigation concerning compliance with Attorney General guidelines and the need to confirm the age of domestic violence victims. She also met with Sergeant Johnson at or about August 20, to discuss his memorandum.

On cross-examination, the appellant acknowledged that her field training program had been extended twice, rather than once, and that it ended January 19, 2017, rather than November 2016, when it should have ended. Her program was approximately twenty weeks long, rather than twelve, which is the routine length of field training programs. During the training program, Officer Little counseled her concerning how to handle stressful situations and making better decisions at those time.

The appellant acknowledged that, even though she completed the Field Training Program, she was still on a probationary period in conjunction with her working test period. She also acknowledged that, at that time, the Department continued to have concerns about her performance, particularly her ability to handle stressful, confrontational situations, and it arranged for her to participate in hypothetical scenarios that would allow role playing of such circumstances. She recalled the January 19, 2017, End of Phase Evaluation Report, Officer Little wrote that she still had significant weaknesses, as she had to be "remediated" two times during this phase of training and her "self-initiated field activities were lacking as well as decision making skills." (J-8.) He added:

> During this training phase, I conducted numerous trading scenarios with her, which covered building, clearing, domestic violence calls and MV stops. Toward the end of this phase her confidence level increased as she was far more comfortable handling calls for service. She rarely looked to other officers for help and make decisions on her own. She will make a great asset to the Gloucester City Police Department. She needs to continue her studies and learn from minor mistakes. I feel that she needs to be placed with > a supervisor who will monitor activities and make the appropriate corrections.

> [Ibid.]

The appellant acknowledged that Officer Little recommended "more scenario-based training" for the appellant. Ibid. After January 19, 2017, officers developed hypothetical scenarios in which the appellant could roll play in order to help her develop skills and handling stressful, confrontational situations. The Department established this for the appellant, to help improve her performance. Some of the scenarios involved domestic violence incidents and how to clear buildings. She was reassigned to Sergeant Johnson's platoon in August 2017, "so that he could supervise me and that I would be in the vehicle with him and he would be discussing my performance with her supervisor throughout my extended working test period that the Department was going to give me." (T1:79-20-24.) This was intended to permit another officer to evaluate the appellant's performance as the Department wanted to have the input from a different officer, in addition to that of Sergeant Flood. The appellant was told by Sergeant Flood that if she did not improve in certain areas, she would be terminated, even though her field training was done. Although the appellant did not specifically recall that Officer Little told her that he believed she needed to be monitored by a supervisor after the Field Training Program was done, she testified that she had no reason to believe that he did not so advise her.

The appellant also recalled that Lieutenant Burkhardt counseled her in November 2016, concerning the need for her to engage in contingency planning to "help increase the speed and accuracy of the decision-making process in high stress situations." (J-21 at 365.) Lieutenant Burkhart reflected on that conversation in an internal memorandum that memorialized his August 11, 2017, meeting with the appellant. He wrote in the memorandum that they revisited their November 2016, conversation and he asked the appellant "if she had ever thought about what her plan would be if a male was coming at her and threatening to assault her. She stated she never thought about that scenario." Ibid. Lieutenant Burkhardt continued:

> I expressed to Ptl. Pollander that it bothered me that we talked so long ago, at great length, about contingency planning and > that she never took the initiative to follow through with this to improve her job performance and for her own safety, along with the safety of the officers she serves with. We discussed the fact that she had a great deal of additional training during and after her field training period and that she is nearly one year of experience on the street, yet still failed to respond appropriately and perform her duties properly. During this incident. I then expressed my concern as to the cause of this problem. I told her I was not sure if she was just indecisive, was not sure how to do her job, or did not have it in her to step up and take action. I also told her that I was concerned whether or not she was capable of fighting to protect yourself or her fellow officers, or make an arrest, if need be.

> [Ibid.]

The appellant acknowledged that it is important for a police officer to be able to handle confrontational, stressful situations. Failure in this regard could pose a danger to her, her fellow officers and the public. When asked if she had an "understanding throughout the one year working test period that one of the concerns that the [Department] had with you is that you had difficulty handling stressful, confrontational situations[,]" the appellant answered, "It was my understanding that they were more concerned with my decision-making which ultimately led to their evaluation of me possibly freezing up in stressful situations." (T1:80-22-25.) She was told this by Little during her field training and by other officers, including Flood, after the training was over. She acknowledged that the Department attempted to help improve her performance where it was lacking.

It is the obligation of the fact finder to weigh the credibility of the witnesses before making a decision. Credibility is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. To assess credibility, the fact finder should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, motive, or bias. A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp, 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963).

As the fact finder, I had the ability to observe the demeanor, tone, and physical actions of the witnesses during the hearing. Each of the Department's officers, Sergeant Little, Sergeant Johnson, Sergeant Flood, Lieutenant Burkhardt and Chief Morrell, comported themselves professionally and their testimony was internally consistent and consistent with the other witness' accounts. Their objective observations of the appellant's performance were confirmed by numerous contemporaneously-written documents. The documentary evidence corroborated that they attempted to extend the appellant's working test period and that an extension was procedurally impermissible. The witnesses demonstrated a sincere desire to see the appellant succeed and communicated with her about her performance throughout the year. However, none could permit the appellant to place herself, her fellow officers and citizens at risk due to her difficulty handling stressful, non-routine situations. I FIND each witness' testimony to be credible.

The appellant testified credibly, as she acknowledged that the officers with whom she worked raised concerns about her ability to perform under stressful circumstances and counseled her throughout the year of her working test period, including after her Field Training Program was finished. Even if she was not given written documentation of her deficiencies each time the issue was addressed, she acknowledged that she was routinely counseled and received extra training opportunities. She also acknowledged that her performance problems were significant and could lead to problematic outcomes.

Therefore, based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, and having the opportunity to observe the appearance and demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

The Department determined the appellant's performance was unsatisfactory in crucial performance areas such that it could not appropriately permit her to continue with the Department after her working test period ended. After months of observing and counseling the appellant, and based on objective criteria, the Department found that she performed poorly when confronted by non-routine, stressful situations. She "froze" or made poor decisions and demonstrated poor judgment on several occasions under such circumstances. This continued throughout her working test period, including an incident that required an internal affairs investigation and about which the Lieutenant expressed his concern that she still had not improved her job performance in areas that are among the most critical parts of a police officer's job.

The Department sought to help the appellant improve and pass her working test period. It provided her additional opportunities to improve her skills, including two remedial training sessions, scenario-based training, in which her supervisors participated, and additional training at the Academy. Officers and supervisors counseled her throughout her working test period, both during and after her Field Training Program. Toward the end of her working test period, she was assigned to another officer who was tasked with observing and counseling her. The Department even sought to provide the appellant additional time to successfully complete her working test period, notwithstanding her history of problems with stressful situations, poor decision making, and failing to comply with Department procedures.

The Department generated numerous reports throughout the appellant's working test period in which it documented its concerns. The appellant saw and signed several of the documents.

The appellant had ample notice of the Department's concerns. She did not contest that she was counseled by her supervisors throughout the year-long working test period. She acknowledged that the Department was concerned about her decision making and the possibility of her "freezing up in stressful situations." She also acknowledged that she was advised of these concerns during and after the Field Training Program and that the Department attempted to help improve her performance where it was lacking.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

A working test period is intended to "permit an appointing authority to determine whether an employee satisfactorily performs the duties of [his or her] title." N.J.S.A. 11A:4-15. The probationary period is not intended to provide an opportunity for further training to qualify for the position. "Rather, it is part of the testing process, given in addition to the examination conducted by the Civil Service Department. During that period the employee must demonstrate that he is competent to discharge the duties of the position." Briggs v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 64 N.J. Super. 351, 355 (App. Div. 1960). Termination at the end of the working test period may occur for unsatisfactory performance. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a)(4); N.J.A.C. 4A:2-4 and 4A:4-5.4(a); In re Voigtsberger, 2017 N.J. Super. Unpub. LEXIS 2599, *5-6 (October 17, 2017).

In an appeal from an employee's termination at the conclusion of a working test period, the employee shoulders the burden of proving that the appointing authority's "action was in bad faith." N.J.A.C. 4A:2-4.3(b). If bad faith is found, the employee is entitled to a new full or shortened working test period and, if appropriate, other remedies. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-4.3(c). The basic test is whether the appointing authority exercised good faith in determining that the employee was not competent to perform satisfactorily the duties of the position. See Briggs v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 64 N.J. Super. 351, 356 (App. Div. 1960); Devine v. Plainfield, 31 N.J. Super. 300, 303-04 (App. Div. 1954); Lingrell v. New Jersey Civil Serv. Comm'n, 131 N.J.L. 461 462 (1944). In general, good faith has been defined as meaning "honesty of purpose and integrity of conduct with respect to a given subject." Smith v. Whitman, 39 N.J. 397, 405 (1963). As stated in Schopf v. New Jersey Department of Labor, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 853 (CSV 1996):

> If the opinion is formed based upon actual observations of the employee's performance of the duties of the position, and is an honest assessment as to whether the employee will be able to satisfactorily and efficiently perform those duties if the appointment becomes permanent, it must be considered to have been made in good faith.

N.J.A.C. 4A:4-5.3(b) requires appointing authorities to prepare a progress report on law enforcement employees at the end of six months and a final report at the conclusion of the working test period. It has been held that "[a] fair evaluation period is further evidenced by the giving of guidance and advice due to a probationer, as well as a notification of any deficiencies in performance." Sokolowsky v. Twp. of Freehold, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 155, 157.

A new working test period has been ordered when an appointing authority failed to provide progress or final reports. In Sokolowsky, the Merit System Board concurred with the ALJ's conclusion that the appellant should be afforded a new working test period because the appointing authority failed to fulfill the evaluation requirements. Although the appellant had received verbal criticism from his supervisor during his working test period, the ALJ found he never had the impression that his supervisor was unsatisfied with his work. While the appellant's supervisor had prepared an interoffice memorandum stating that he was dissatisfied with the appellant's work approximately two months into the employee's working test period, the supervisor did not discuss the contents of this memorandum with the appellant and the evidence did not establish that the appellant received it. In concluding that the appellant was entitled to a new full working test period, the ALJ noted that a "fair evaluation period" is "evidenced by the giving of guidance and advice due to a probationer, as well as a notification of any deficiencies in performance." Sokolowsky, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) at 157. The ALJ held that "the appointing authority failed to fulfill the . . . requirements for a fair evaluation period." Ibid. Specifically, although the appellant "was verbally advised concerning deficiencies in his performance," "he received no written report concerning his progress," and "[t]he consequence of the appointing authority's failure to provide the appellant with timely written notification of deficiencies was denial of a fair evaluation of his work performance." Ibid.

In In the Matter of Jose Maldonado, Passaic County Board of Social Services, OAL Dkt. No. CSV 0773-04 (Adopted, Final Decision, July 30, 2008), the ALJ ordered the appointing authority to provide a new working test period to the appellant because it had not adequately informed the appellant of the deficiencies in his work performance during his working test period. The appellant was provided two written reports before he was released from employment: a training report, which contained positive reviews of his progress, and a partially unsatisfactory final evaluation. Prior to the final evaluation, his supervisors neither met with or counseled him to advise him of his progress or notice of deficiencies. The only written criticism provided by a supervisor concerned his cologne usage. The ALJ found that other comments made to the appellant by his supervisors did not provide him "fair notice of any deficiencies so as to afford him the opportunity to correct problems before the end of his working test period." Id. at 3. The ALJ found credible the appellant's testimony that he was not apprised of deficiencies in his performance. Accordingly, the ALJ found that "the appellant's release for deficiencies in his job performance that were not adequately brought to his attention through the required progress report evidenced a lack of good faith." Ibid.

The Commission adopted the ALJ's opinion. However, it noted, "[I]it must be emphasized that the lack of written notice, standing alone, does not evidence bad faith." Id. at 4. For an appellate to succeed on appeal, he must demonstrate bad faith on the part of the appointing authority. Ibid.

In In the Matter of James Matus, OAL Dkt. No. CSV5065-07 (Adopted, Final Decision, December 21, 2007), the Commission reiterated that "procedural violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:4-5.1 et. seq., including the non-receipt of progress reports, may create a presumption of bad faith. However, that presumption can be rebutted via evidence that the employee was otherwise aware of work performance and other deficiencies during the working test period."

In Matus, the appellant was provided no progress reports during his working test period. Nonetheless, the ALJ and Commission found that the appellant had been advised of his performance deficiencies and disciplined during the working test period. He was also warned about his excessive use of leave time. Thus, the determination concerning the appellant's continued employment was based on "legitimate, work-related reasons" and was made in good faith, notwithstanding the absence of progress reports. Id. at 2.

Here, although the appellant argued that she was "kept in the dark"[6] about how her work performance was viewed, there is ample evidence that she had actual notice of the Department's view of her performance. The evidence, including the appellant's testimony, demonstrated that she was advised of the Department's concerns throughout the working test period, including after she had completed the Field Training Program. Furthermore, there is no evidence indicating that the Department was motivated by bias or ill motive. Rather, there is substantial evidence that the appellant's colleagues liked her and wanted her to succeed. Indeed, they created additional training opportunities for her and sought to extend her working test period. Ultimately, the additional training did not correct the appellant's deficiencies and the Department was not permitted to extend the working test period. The appellant's supervisors could not legitimately conclude that she passed the working test period when she demonstrated that she still lacked fundamental skills. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE the appellant has not met her burden of proving, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Department[7] acted in bad faith when it released her at the end of her working test period.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I hereby ORDER that the Gloucester City Police Department's release of the appellant at the end of her working test period be AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

---

[6] Appellant's brief at 30.

[7] In her post-hearing brief, the appellant argued that Gloucester City is a party to this matter and that it had an ill intent toward her. She contended the City had an "interested motive in not complying with the Civil Service Rules and Regulations." Brief at 24. In support of this, she argued Gloucester City failed to train the Department's command-level staff concerning civil service rules and that this "equates to willful blindness." The appellant offered no evidence concerning the training provided by the City to the Department. Chief Morrell testified concerning his misunderstanding about the need for progress reports and acknowledged that it would have been fair to provide a timely progress report. Lt. Burkhardt acknowledged that they should have met with the appellant at the time her first progress report should have been issued. There was, however, no evidence that these omissions were caused by the absence of training or inappropriate training. Accordingly, the appellant did not present evidence in support of this claim.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve of the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

1. Employee accepts the charges set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 17, 2018 and agrees to dismiss her appeal Sowell-Washington v. Employee and/or her union representative or attorney agree that if the disclosure of the terms of this Agreement is necessary to comply with a court order, statute, or law, Employee and/or her union representative or attorney will provide the County with notice of such order or request for disclosure, and only disclose that information that is necessary to comply with such order, statute or law, without further comment or opinion.

ISSUED: DECEMBER 21, 2018 BW

The appeal of Serena Swaggerty, Clerk 1, Atlantic County, Department of Community Development and Economic Assistance, resignation not in good standing effective February 21, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jeffrey R. INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 05604-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-2989

IN THE MATTER OF SERENA SWAGGERTY, ATLANTIC COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT AND ECONOMIC ASSISTANCE,

Joseph Waite, Field Representative, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees New Jersey, AFL-CIO (AFSCME), for appellant, Serena Swaggerty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Jennifer P. Starr, Esq., Assistant County Counsel, for respondent, Atlantic County Department of Community Development and Economic Assistance, (James F. Ferguson, County Counsel, attorney)

Record Closed: October 9, 2018 Decided: November 20, 2018

BEFORE JEFFREY R. WILSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Serena Swaggerty, a Clerk-1, appeals the designation of "resignation not in good standing", effective February 21, 2017, because she was a "no call/no show" on February 14, 15, 16, 17 and 20, 2017.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) was filed on February 27, 2017. The Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) was filed on April 10, 2017, with the single sustained charge that alleged violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(12) – Other Sufficient Cause. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on April 24, 2017. The matter was heard on October 9, 2018, and the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Based on the testimony of the witnesses and examination of the documentary evidence, I FIND the following FACTS are undisputed:

The appellant began employment with the respondent in 2015, classified as a Clerk-1. Her primary duties were answering phones and filing. The appellant requested a leave of absence and submitted a prescription blank from Robert Williams, Jr., M.D., that listed the dates of leave from February 7, 2017, to March 5, 2017[1]. (R-4.)

On February 9, 2017, Birdie Cody, Chief of Administrative Services, issued a letter to the appellant that acknowledged receipt of the prescription blank but informed her that such requests for medical leave must be submitted on a "Request for Leave of Absence" and "Medical Certification" forms. (R-5.) The letter went on to inform the appellant that she did not have a minimum of 1,250 service hours in the prior twelve months under the Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) to qualify for a leave of absence and that the appellant was expected to return to work on February 14, 2017. The letter further indicated:

> Should you not return to work on February 14th, you will not be approved for additional leave time and will be subject to

[1] It was stipulated that the prescription blank was mistakenly dated "2/7/16". The actual date of the prescription blank was February 7, 2017.

> the conditions of the County's attendance policy P.S. 5.11 Unauthorized Absence, which states "Unauthorized absences for five consecutive days without notice and approval, or the failure to report to duty within five days after the expiration of any authorized leave, shall be considered a resignation not in good standing, consistent with New Jersey Department of Personnel regulations." (R-5.)

The appellant was a no call/no show on February 14, 15, 16, 17 and 20, 2017. However, on February 17, 2017, the appellant faxed a Medical Certification to Pat Rowan, in the Human Resources Department. (R-6.) She did not provide a copy to Ms. Cody or anyone else in her unit as required. There was no evidence that Ms. Rowan ever forwarded the Medical Certification to Ms. Cody or anyone on the appellant's unit.

The respondent did not question the authenticity of the Medical Certification submitted on February 17, 2017. However, the respondent indicated they had no objection modifying the resignation not in good standing to a resignation in good standing.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Pursuant to Atlantic County Policy P.S. 5.11 – Unauthorized Absence:

> Unauthorized absences for five consecutive days without notice and approval, or the failure to report to duty within five days after the expiration of any authorized leave, shall be considered a resignation not in good standing, consistent with New Jersey Department of Personnel Regulations.

Accordingly, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b) states:

> Any employee who is absent from duty for five or more consecutive business days without the approval of his or her superior shall be considered to have abandoned his or her position and shall be recorded as a resignation not in good standing. Approval of the absence shall not be unreasonably denied.

Here, it is undisputed that the appellant was informed that her request for medical leave under the FMLA was denied on February 9, 2017, and that her failure to report to work on February 14, 2017, would meet with specific consequences. It is further undisputed that the appellant failed to report to work on February 14, 15, 16, 17 and 20, 2017. There was no competent evidence provided that the appellant's request for a medical leave under the FMLA was unreasonably denied because it is also undisputed that the appellant did not have a minimum of 1,250 service hours in the prior twelve months under the FMLA to qualify for a leave of absence.

The appellant has been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, the appellant's conduct was such that she violated this standard of good behavior. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

DISCIPLINARY ACTION

In appeals concerning major disciplinary actions brought against classified employees, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The standard of proof in administrative proceedings is by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A2-1.4(a); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962).

The Act and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto govern the rights and duties of a civil service employee. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 et seq. New Jersey's Civil Service Act is construed liberally in order to protect employees from arbitrary discipline. Mastrobattista v. Essex Cty. Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965); Prosecutors, Detectives and Investigators Ass'n v. Hudson County Bd. of Freeholders, 130 N.J. Super. 30, 41 (App. Div. 1974); Scancarella v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 24 N.J. Super. 65, 70 (App. Div. 1952).

A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11:2-6; N.J.S.A.

11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. Grounds for discipline include, among other things, insubordination, chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness, conduct unbecoming a public employee, and other sufficient cause. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2), (4), (6), and (12).

I CONCLUDE that the appellant's failure to report to work as directed and failure to provide proper notice of her absence was sufficient to warrant disciplinary charges. The respondent had a right to expect that the appellant would be present at work, willing and able to work. Unauthorized and "no call / no show" absences cause disruption in the public work place and create a hardship for the remaining employees, who must absorb the job duties of a person who cannot or will not perform them. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof regarding other sufficient cause in this case.

PENALTY

Principles of progressive discipline should be considered in the disciplinary actions of civil service employees. The determination of whether a specific act supports discipline requires an evaluation of the conduct in terms of its relationship to the nature of the position itself and an evaluation of the actual or potential impairment of the public interest that may be expected to result from the conduct in question. Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385, 397 (Law Div. 1976). The frequency, number and continuity of the employer's warnings indicate the progression of the discipline. Ibid. On appeals from disciplinary action, the Merit Board may redetermine guilt or modify a penalty originally imposed. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). The Board is empowered to substitute its own judgment on the appropriate penalty, even if the local appointing authority has not clearly abused its discretion. Id. at 579. The Board must consider an employee's past record, including both mitigating factors and prior discipline when determining the appropriate penalty to be imposed. The frequency, number and continuity of the employer's warnings, previous discipline and other measures indicate the progression of the discipline.

Here, there was no evidence provided that there were any prior disciplinary actions against the appellant or that her work performance was in any way lacking. It must be noted that the respondent did not question the authenticity of the Medical Certification submitted on February 17, 2017, or call into question the doctor's diagnoses listed in the same. Furthermore, the respondent indicated they had no objection modifying the resignation not in good standing to a resignation in good standing.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(f) authorizes that the appointing authority or the Commission may modify the resignation not in good standing to an appropriate penalty or to a resignation in good standing

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the resignation not in good standing shall be modified to a resignation in good standing.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Ramone Wilson
City of Newark, Department of Public Safety

CSC DKT. NO. 2018-1519
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00233-18

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: DECEMBER 21, 2018 BW

The appeal of Ramone Wilson, Police Officer, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety, removal effective March 14, 2016, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Barry E. Moscowitz, who rendered his initial decision on November 23, 2018 reversing the removal. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on December 19, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Public Safety, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his position in order to complete the remainder of his working test period.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Ramone Wilson.

Since the charges against the appellant have been dismissed, the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority and reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. However, the appellant is not entitled to receive back pay, benefits and seniority for the entire period from the date of his removal to the date of his reinstatement. In this regard, the Commission notes that the appellant was still in his working test period when he was removed. Specifically, he received a regular appointment effective September 17, 2015 and was removed effective March 14, 2016. Since it cannot be assumed that the appellant would have completed his working test period, he should only receive back pay through September 16, 2016, which is the remainder of the working test period he did not complete. See In the Matter of Justin Miller (CSC, decided June 18, 2014); In the Matter of Terrell Twiggs (MSB, decided May 9, 2007); In the Matter of Jennifer Mortimer (MSB, decided April 26, 2006) and In the Matter of Rosalind Candelaria (MSB, decided November 10, 1998). Therefore, the appellant should be returned to work to complete the remainder of his working test period. Accordingly, the appellant is entitled to receive back pay, benefits and seniority from March 14, 2016 through September 16, 2016. Any time from that date to his actual reinstatement shall be considered a leave of absence without pay. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Newark Police Department (Newark) brought disciplinary charges against Ramone Wilson, temporarily appointed as a police recruit, before he completed his police training and began his working test period. Do these disciplinary procedures even apply to him? Yes. Under N.J.A.C. 4A:4-5.2(d)(1), major disciplinary procedures applicable to employees serving in a working test period are also applicable to police officers from the date of appointment until the completion of their police training.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 14, 2016, the Newark served Wilson with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. In its notice, Newark charged Wilson with violation of Chapter 18:24 of its rules and regulations, which states that department members shall not violate any criminal law, any provision of the Disorderly Persons Act, or any of its city ordinances. In addition, Newark charged Wilson with violation of Chapter 3:1.1 of its rules and regulations, which states that police officers in both public and private shall conduct themselves to avoid impugning the reputation of the department. Finally, Newark charged Wilson with violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), which states that a public employee may be subject to discipline for conduct unbecoming a public employee.

Newark specified that on March 12, 2016, Wilson violated these rules and regulations when he was arrested by the Irvington Police Department for receiving a stolen car in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:20-7.

As a result, Newark suspended Wilson without pay pending the resolution of the criminal charges against him.

On April 7, 2016, Newark served Wilson with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action. In its notice, Newark sustained all the charges and specifications in the preliminary notice. As a result, Newark suspended Wilson from his position as a police recruit without pay indefinitely.

On January 26, 2017, the criminal charge was dismissed.

On February 15, 2017, Newark served Wilson with another Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. In its notice, Newark charged Wilson again with violation of Chapter 3:1.1 of its rules and regulations, and violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). Newark specified that on December 25, 2015, Wilson falsified an official record when he said, during an interview, that the lease to his apartment was in his name when he knew, "in truth and in fact," that the lease to his apartment was in the name of Shastri Boyd Persad. Newark also specified that on January 3, 2016, Wilson created false documents, letters dated April 27, 2015, and June 14, 2015, to a superior officer, Sgt. Louis Forst, to justify an argument Wilson had with his neighbor. As a result, Newark removed Wilson from his position as a police recruit.

On November 9, 2017, Newark served Wilson with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action. In its notice, Newark sustained all the charges and specifications in the preliminary notice. As a result, Newark removed Wilson from his position as a police recruit.

On November 27, 2017, Wilson appealed the determinations.

On January 9, 2018, the Civil Service Commission transmitted these appeals to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On June 19, August 16, and August 31, 2108, I held the hearing on both appeals.

By October 8, 2018, the parties had submitted their post-hearing briefs for these appeals, and I closed the record upon the receipt of the final submissions.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

I.

Louis Forst is a lieutenant with the Newark Police Department. He has been employed by Newark since 1999 and was a sergeant in 2015 when he first met Wilson. During that time, Forst was the liaison between the Newark Police Department and the Passaic County Police Academy and Wilson was a police recruit at the academy. Previously, from 2008 to 2011, Forst worked in Internal Affairs and as an academy instructor in Newark, when Newark had its own police academy. Forst has been a lieutenant since 2016 and is currently the tour commander for the first precinct. He just became the tour commander this year.

A.

Forst testified that he had received a civilian complaint, which he called a "demeanor complaint," about Wilson from Wilson's downstairs neighbor, a Sunni Muhammad. Forst explained that he spoke to Muhammad; the property manager, a Jason Delgado; and Wilson about it. Forst continued that his findings are contained in his investigative report. The investigative report was admitted into evidence as Exhibit H.

Forst asserted that when he interviewed Wilson on December 25, 2015, Wilson told him that his name was on the lease for the upstairs apartment, but that Wilson had lied because his name was not on the lease for the upstairs apartment but on the sublease for the upstairs apartment.

Forst maintained that Wilson had lied even though Delgado had faxed him on January 21, 2016, a letter dated January 19, 2016, which stated that Wilson was a tenant in the upstairs apartment and a sublessee of Shastri Boyd Persad. Delgado also included the lease. Incredibly, Forst maintained that Wilson had lied to him even after he received a copy of the sublease from Wilson and saw that the sublease was in his name. The fact that neither Forst nor Wilson made a distinction between a lease and a sublease during the interview, and the fact that they talked only of "a lease" or "the lease" throughout their interaction, made no difference to Forst. According to Forst, Wilson had lied to him because Wilson said his name was on the lease and it was not.

Meanwhile, Persad testified that he did in fact sublease the apartment to Wilson, that he had gotten verbal approval from Delgado to do so, and that someone in his office ultimately provided a copy of the sublease to Delgado, who had later asked for it. Persad further explained that he was aware of the problem Wilson had with Muhammad. In fact, Persad testified that he had "run-ins" with Mohammad too, and that he had just had a "run-in" with Mohammad recently.

Delgado corroborated that Muhammad was a problem, testified that he explained this to Forst, and noted that Forst agreed with him that Muhammad was a problem. Delgado further testified that he did give permission to Persad to sublease the apartment to Wilson—just as he had given permission to Persad in the past to sublease such properties. Delgado continued that he did not maintain a copy of the sublease because it was not his lease, but that he did inform Forst that Wilson was the sublessee and not the lessee when he provided a copy of the lease to Forst. More significantly, Delgado noted that Forst did not ask for the sublease with any sense of urgency.

Wilson explained that he had found out about the apartment because he knew Persad, he had been doing office work for him, and had asked Persad if he would sublease the apartment to him. Wilson continued that he moved into the apartment in September 2014, and that he entered the academy in June or July 2015. Wilson also noted that he had achieved one of the highest scores on the civil service exam—which is the reason why he had been recruited by Newark to join its police department.

The trouble with Muhammad, however, began February or March 2015. Wilson explained that he first mentioned it to Persad, who told him to bring his complaint to Delgado, who told him that he was aware Muhammad was a problem and to put his future complaints in writing, just in case he needed to take legal action against him. Moreover, Wilson plainly stated that he told Forst that he was on the lease and not the sublease because the sublease was the only lease he had, the only lease he contemplated, and he simply made no distinction between the two.

B.

Forst testified that during his interview with Wilson on December 25, 2015, Wilson told him that he would also provide him with letters evidencing the ongoing trouble he had been having with Muhammad, and that he would provide Forst with those letters in a couple of days. On January 3, 2016, Wilson provided Forst with those letters in an attachment to an email Wilson sent to Forst that very day. The body of the email states, "As per our last conversation, I assured you that I would forward you the letters I sent to the property management regarding discrepancies with my neighbor. Attached are the letters, please let me know if there is anything in addition to the letters needed." The email and its attachments were admitted into evidence as Exhibit A.

Forst, however, asserted that the letters were written just before they were sent. Forst explained that Wilson sent him the email on January 3, 2016, at 8:28 p.m.; that he opened the letters and "right-clicked" on "properties" to reveal their "metadata"; and that the "metadata" evidenced that they were created on January 3, 2016, at 8:03 p.m. and 8:23 p.m., respectively. In his report, Forst writes that this was a "forensic check through the statistical properties" of the letters.

Regarding the first letter, Forst wrote:

> A forensic check through the statistical properties was conducted by the undersigned on January 16th. The Microsoft Word file sent on January 3rd at 8:28 p.m. shows that the first letter dated 4/27/15 was created on January 3, 2016 at 8:03 p.m. by author [Ramone] Wilson and last saved on January 3rd at 8:15 p.m. Wilson spent 14 minutes composing and editing this letter on January 3rd. The statistical page also shows that the file was printed by the undersigned on January 16th at 10:21 a.m.
>
> [Ex. H.]

Regarding the second letter, Forst wrote:

> A forensic check through the statistical properties was conducted by the undersigned on January 16th. The Microsoft Word file sent on January 3rd at 8:28 p.m. showed that the second letter dated 6/14/15 was created on January 3, 2016 at 8:23 p.m. by author [Ramone] Wilson and last saved on January 3rd at 8:23 p.m. Wilson spent only 1 minute composing and editing this letter on January 3rd as opposed to 14 minutes for the first letter. The statistical page also shows that the file was printed by the undersigned on January 16th at 10:21 a.m.
>
> [Ex. H.]

Forst later describes the letters as "original" Word files.

Approximately one month later, on February 5, 2016, Delgado emailed the same letters to Forst. They were admitted into evidence as Exhibit G. In his letter, Delgado states that he had them on file in his office.

But Forst did not believe Delgado. Forst explained that he had interviewed Delgado on January 18, 2016, and that Delgado had told him that he did not have any documentation about the dispute between Wilson and Muhammad on file. So, when Delgado emailed the two letters to him, he did not believe that the letters were genuine. Moreover, Forst implied that Wilson and Delgado had conspired to submit them.

Forst, however, is mistaken. First, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that by clicking on the "properties" icon of a Word document the "metadata" of the Word document is revealed. Second, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that Forst conducted a "forensic check through the statistical properties" of the letters. As such, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that Forst either reviewed the metadata of the letters or conducted a forensic check of their statistical properties—especially when no foundation was laid that Forst possesses such specialized knowledge.

Third, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that the letters were "original" Word documents.

Fourth, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that Wilson and Delgado conspired to do anything. While it is understandable why Forst may think so—based on his mistaken belief that he had discovered the metadata of the files—this conspiracy is not real but imagined. What is clear from the evidence is that Forst wanted to reach a certain conclusion in his investigation about Wilson.

To be sure, Delgado testified that when he first spoke to Forst (January 18, 2016), Forst only asked him for the lease, which he faxed to Forst on January 21, 2016, and noted that Wilson was a sublessee, not a lessee, and that when he next spoke to Forst (February 5, 2016), Forst first asked him for the letters, which he emailed to Forst on the same day, and noted that the letter dated April 27, 2015, should have been dated June 27, 2015, because that is the date he received it.

Wilson corroborated that the letter dated April 27, 2015, should have been dated June 27, 2015, because that is the date that he dropped the letter off for Delgado. Wilson explained that he had only retained copies of the letters on his computer, but that he no longer had copies of the letters on his computer when Wilson asked for them on December 25, 2015, because his computer had crashed and he had to replace the hard-drive. Wilson even offered copies of the receipt for the hard drive when asked for proof on cross-examination. Wilson further explained that he had taken pictures of the letters with his daughter's cellphone because he did not own a printer or a copier, and that Forst agreed he could retype the letters from his daughter's cellphone so there would be no discrepancies in the record. On cross-examination, Wilson asserted that his exact duplication of the letters is why the original typographical errors, including the incorrect date of April 27, 2015, were repeated in the duplicate letters he typed and then attached to the email he forwarded to Forst.

As such, Forst's assertion that Wilson composed and edited the letters dated April 27, 2015, and June 14, 2015, on January 3, 2016, to perpetuate a fraud, is not a fact of this case.

C.

On February 5, 2016, Forst closed the citizen's complaint. The result of his investigation was "not sustained," and no other issues or complaints had been reported since. But Forst still brought charges against Wilson for not having submitted the two letters timely. Forst asserted that he had expected them in "a couple of days," and that he received them later than that. In fact, Forst testified that he was annoyed that he did not get the letters sooner because he had asked Wilson for them more than once. Forst advised that if he were Wilson, and he had access to the letters, he would have provided them immediately.

Yet, on cross-examination, Forst acknowledged that he had interviewed Wilson on Christmas Day, December 25, 2015; that Wilson later told him that he did not have immediate access to the letters but could still get him the letters; and that Wilson did in fact provide him with the letters after the holidays, on January 3, 2016.

Still, the fact that December 25, 2015, was Christmas Day, the fact that Wilson did not have immediate access to the letters, and the fact that Wilson provided him with the letters after the holidays, just eight days later, did not matter to Forst because Forst still charged Wilson with failing to provide him with the letters within two days, which simply underscores his bias against Wilson.

Nevertheless, this charge of untimeliness was not included in the notices of disciplinary action, only the charge of falsification.

D.

On January 29, 2016, Forst wrote to Wilson that he had "fully investigated" his complaint about the lease and the letters, and that he had interviewed "all related witnesses and the Newark Police Department personnel involved in this matter to obtain all the facts surrounding the complaint." This letter was admitted into evidence as Exhibit F. Yet, Forst, by his own admission, had not "fully investigated" his complaint and he had not interviewed "all related witnesses." In fact, Forst completed no investigation and interviewed no witnesses.

Forst had learned from Delgado on January 21, 2016, that Wilson was on the sublease, not the lease. Yet Forst did not follow up with either Wilson or Delgado to question them about it. When asked on cross-examination why he never asked either Wilson or Delgado about the sublease on either of these occasions, Forst simply answered, "I don't know."

Earlier, Forst had received the letters from Wilson on January 3, 2016, but did not check their "properties" until January 16, 2016, and he did not follow up with either Wilson or Delgado to question either of them about the letters.

Likewise, when Delgado submitted the letters on February 5, 2016, Forst never followed up to ask how he had them, since Delgado had just told him on January 18, 2016, that he did not have them.

Moreover, Forst had spoken to Delgado on February 5, 2016, to advise him that he had closed the citizen's complaint filed by Mohammad. As such, Forst had the immediate opportunity to ask this follow-up question. When asked on cross-examination about what additional investigation he did do, Forst answered, "None," which both Delgado and Wilson corroborated during their direct examinations. Thus, Forst, by his own standard, should have been disciplined for falsifying an official record, because "in truth and in fact," he had not fully investigated his complaint and he had not interviewed all witnesses.

Indeed, throughout his cross-examination, Forst was uneasy about the pointed questions asked. He started to fidget in his seat, lean backward, and slouch. And he began to answer questions with either his hands or reading glasses in front of his mouth. In other word, he became defensive.

II.

Given this discussion of the facts, I FIND that Newark has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the salient specifications in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated November 9, 2017. First, a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that on December 25, 2015, Wilson falsified an official record when he said, during an interview, that the lease to the apartment was in his name when he knew, "in truth and in fact," that the lease to his apartment was in the name of Shastri Boyd Persad. The fact that Wilson was on the sublease and not on the lease is a distinction without difference. That Wilson did not make the distinction was perhaps unartful, but it certainly was not deceitful. The fact that Forst maintains that Wilson lied about it is the only thing I would characterize as deceitful. Indeed, taking together what Fort said and how he said it, I did not find Forst to be a credible witness.

In addition, I FIND that a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that on January 3, 2016, Wilson created false documents, namely, letters dated April 27, 2015, and June 14, 2015, to justify an argument he had with his neighbor.

Likewise, I FIND that a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that Wilson failed to provide these letters to Forst in a timely manner.

Finally, I FIND that Wilson failed to complete the police training course but remained employed by Newark as a radio dispatcher while he waited for the next police training course to begin.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The OAL shall acquire jurisdiction over a case only after an agency head has determined that the matter is a "contested case." N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.2(a). A contested case is an adversarial proceeding in which "the legal rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits or other legal relations of specific parties are required by constitutional right or by statute to be determined by an agency by decisions, determinations, or orders, addressed to them or disposing of their interests, after opportunity for an agency hearing." N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1. To determine whether a case is a contested case under this regulatory scheme, the agency head must determine three things: (1) whether the hearing is required by statute or constitutional provision; (2) whether the hearing will result in an adjudication concerning rights, duties, obligations, privileges, benefits, or other legal relations; and (3) whether the hearing involves specific parties rather than a large segment of the public. Bd. of Educ. of Upper Freehold Reg'l Sch. Dist. v. State Health Benefits Comm'n, 314 N.J. Super. 486, 494 (App. Div. 1998) (citing 37 New Jersey Practice, Administrative Law and Practice § 119, at 137 (Steven L. Lefelt, Anthony Miragliotta, & Patricia Prunty) (1988)).

In this case, the Civil Service Commission transmitted this case to the OAL as a contested case. Newark, however, argues that it is not. More specifically, Newark argues that the hearing is not required and that the hearing will not result in the adjudication of any right, duty, obligation, privilege, benefit, or some other legal relation because Wilson is not a permanent, full-time member of the police department.

To become a permanent, full-time member of a police department, a person must complete a police training course. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-69.2. During this time, the person shall hold a probationary or temporary appointment. See N.J.S.A. 52:17B-69. And during this time, the person shall be in the title of "trainee," "apprentice," "recruit," or "intern," among others. See N.J.A.C. 4A:3-3.7(a).

In this case, Wilson was in the title of "recruit," that is, "police recruit." Both the preliminary and final notices of disciplinary action identify him as such, and even Forst, in his complaint against Wilson, identified him as such. The question, then, is whether Wilson, as a temporary appointee, is subject to the same disciplinary procedures as a permanent appointee. As the notices of disciplinary action already suggest, the answer is yes.

Upon regular appointment, trainees must successfully complete a working test period, N.J.A.C. 4A:3-3.7(c), and in local service, law enforcement officers who are required to complete a police training course shall not begin their working test period until the Police Training Commission notifies the appointing authority that the law enforcement officer successfully completed the police training course, N.J.A.C. 4A:4-5.2(d)(1).

Nevertheless, major disciplinary procedures applicable to employees serving in a working test period are also applicable to police officers from the date of appointment until the completion of police training. Ibid.

That is this case. Since Wilson did not successfully complete the police training course, his working test period never began. But his employment did not end. Instead, Wilson remained employed as a radio dispatcher, while he waited for the next police training course to begin. And that is why he was served with notices of disciplinary action.

The fact that Newark argued for the first time, at the start of the hearing on June 19, 2016, just before the first witness was to take the stand, that these disciplinary procedures do not apply to Wilson, and that this tribunal does not have jurisdiction over this case, is disconcerting—especially since this case was transmitted to the OAL on January 9, 2018, numerous prehearing telephone conferences were held to discuss both the procedural and substantive issues of this case, and never once did Newark even suggest that this issue was a threshold issue in this case.

So, given this discussion of the law, I CONCLUDE that the disciplinary procedures applicable to employees in a working test period are also applicable to Wilson in this case, and that this tribunal has jurisdiction to hear this case and make its determination.

I also CONCLUDE that Newark has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the charges against Wilson in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 7, 2016. Although Wilson was arrested by the Irvington Police on March 12, 2016, the charges against him were dismissed on January 26, 2017. To conclude that Wilson engaged in conduct unbecoming for merely having been arrested under charges that were later dismissed would mean that all police recruits who are arrested have engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee regardless of whether the charges against them are dismissed. Accordingly, the charges against Wilson in this disciplinary action should be dismissed.

Likewise, I CONCLUDE that Newark has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the charges against Wilson in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated November 9, 2017. I note that this follows because I had found that Newark had not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the salient specifications in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated November 9, 2017. As such, Wilson should be restored to his employment in Newark in the title of police recruit, and the charges against him in this case in this disciplinary action should be dismissed as well.

Finally, I CONCLUDE that Wilson should be awarded all requisite back pay, costs, and attorney fees.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that Wilson be restored to his employment in Newark in the title of "police recruit," and that he be awarded all requisite back pay, costs, and attorney fees.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.
