The purpose of the Civil Service Act is to remove public employment from political control, partisanship, and personal favoritism, as well as to maintain stability and continuity. Connors v. Bayonne, 36 N.J. Super. 390 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 19 N.J. 362 (1955). The appointing authority has the burden of proof in major disciplinary actions. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4. The standard is by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Major discipline includes removal or fine or suspension for more than five working days. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2. Employees may be disciplined for insubordination, neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming a public employee, and other sufficient cause, among other things. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. An employee may be removed for egregious conduct without regard to progressive discipline. In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). Otherwise, progressive discipline would apply. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Hearings at the OAL are de novo. Ensslin v. Twp. of N. Bergen, 275 N.J. Super. 352 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 142 N.J. 446 (1995).

"Unbecoming conduct" is broadly defined as any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the governmental unit or which has a tendency to destroy public respect and confidences in the delivery of governmental services. The conduct need not be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior, which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960).

N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5, known as the residuum rule, states as follows:

> (a) Subject to the judge's discretion to exclude evidence under N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1(c) or a valid claim of privilege, hearsay evidence shall be admissible in the trial of contested cases. Hearsay evidence which is admitted shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability.
> (b) Notwithstanding the admissibility of hearsay evidence, some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b) recites what is commonly referred to as the residuum rule, which was best described in Justice Francis's foundational opinion for the New Jersey Supreme Court in Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, 50-51 (1972):

> It is common practice for administrative agencies to receive hearsay evidence at their hearings. . . . As Judge Learned Hand said for the Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in NLRB v. Remington Rand, 94 F.2d 862, 873 (1938), mere rumor would not support a board finding, "but hearsay may do so, at least if more is not conveniently available, and if in the end the finding is supported by the kind of evidence on which responsible persons are accustomed to rely in serious affairs." And see Goldsmith v. Kingsford, 92 N.H. 442, 32 A.2d 810 (1943) . . . . However, in our State as well as in many other jurisdictions the rule is that a fact finding or a legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added > probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it.

In this matter JCSD alleged that Cortez sexually harassed S.W. There was no testimony from anyone who was present during any of the alleged harassment. Although S.W. filed a complaint and spoke to Padua, she did not testify in this matter. She was scheduled to testify on two separate days and failed to appear each time. Serrano and Santiago, who spoke to Walker stating that they heard Cortez ask Serrano if he was having sex with S.W. and he should share her, and that they saw Cortez leer at S.W. again did not testify in this matter. At no time did respondent have an opportunity to cross-examine S.W., Serrano or Santiago regarding their statements and observations. Smith gave conflicting statements to Walker and Padua and again she did not testify in this matter. The evidence against Cortez is hearsay. There is no legally competent evidence in this matter to support the ultimate finding of fact.

Prevailing employees in a civil service appeal are entitled to an award of back pay, benefits, seniority, and reasonable attorney fees "as provided by rule." N.J.S.A. 11A:2-22. Pursuant to its broad authority to adopt rules for effective implementation of a comprehensive personnel-management system, the Civil Service Commission has discretionary power to deduct mitigation from a back-pay award. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(d); cf. Mason v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 51 N.J. 115 (1968) (interpreting predecessor legislation as authorizing the Civil Service Commission to require mitigation of back pay upon restoration to employment).

Under the circumstances, discipline is not appropriate; I CONCLUDE that the penalty of ninety-day suspension is not supported by the facts and evidence in this matter.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing findings of fact and applicable law, it is hereby ORDERED that the determination of Jersey City Public Schools that Juan Cortez be suspended for ninety days is REVERSED.

I further ORDER that appellant be awarded any back pay associated with the ninety-day suspension.

I hereby file my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, P.O. Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Yolanda Curtis
Department of Children and Families

CSC DKT. NO. 2016-4028
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 8037-16

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: MAY 4, 2018 BW

The appeal of Yolanda Curtis, Assistant Family Service Worker 2, Department of Children and Families, 120 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jeff S. Masin, who rendered his initial decision on February 15, 2018 reversing the 120 working day suspension. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on May 2, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the penalty has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to 120 days of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Further, since the appellant has prevailed, she is entitled to counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Children and Families, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Yolanda Curtis. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted 120 days back pay, benefits, and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay or counsel fees.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay or counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

INITIAL DECISION

IN THE MATTER OF YOLANDA CURTIS, DEPARTMENT OF CHILDREN AND FAMILIES.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 8037-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2016-4028

William A. Nash, Esq., for appellant Yolanda Curtis (The Nash Law Firm, attorneys)

Jamie Valentine, Employee Relations Coordinator, for respondent Department of Children and Families, pursuant to N.J.A.C 1:1-5.4(a)2

Record Closed: January 22, 2018 Decided: February 15, 2018

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ t/a:

The Department of Families and Children (DCF) employed Yolanda Curtis as an Assistant Family Service Worker 2 at its Gloucester West Local Office. On April 26, 2016, the appointing authority issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) suspending Ms. Curtis for 120 days based on findings that she had violated several provisions of the Administrative Code, specifically, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)1, incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties; (a)6, conduct unbecoming a public employee; (a)8, misuse of public property, including motor vehicles; and (a)12, other sufficient cause-violation of policy.[1] Ms. Curtis filed an appeal with the Civil Service Commission, which transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law. The assigned administrative law judge held several status and settlement conferences, and scheduled the plenary hearing for January 22, 2018. However, as the judge left the OAL just prior to that date, the case was reassigned to this judge on January 17, 2018, and was heard on January 22, 2018. The record closed that day following testimony and closing statements by counsel and the agency's non-attorney representative.

The Specification of Charges that was set forth in the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) explained that on August 12, 2015, Ms. Curtis was assigned to transport children under the supervision of DCF to a supervised visit with their mother at the local office and to return them to their grandmother's house where they resided. On the return from the visit, "you were almost in an accident with another vehicle." The Specification notes that the Office of the Public Defender Conflict Unit conducted an investigation as to whether Ms. Curtis had engaged in conduct either abusive or neglectful of these children and had concluded that the allegation of either abuse or neglect was "not established." However, the investigation did conclude that Ms. Curtis had placed the children at "substantial risk of harm." The Specification continues, "You admitted to slamming on your brakes. The children sustained injuries." The children were upset by the incident but "you failed to appropriately assess their need for medical treatment and safety" in violation of the expectation that as an assistant family service worker, she would "ensure the safety and well-being of the children in your care while conducting transports in the community. You failed to perform your duties and your actions placed the children at substantial risk of harm."

Amanda Rose Hammond-Jakubowicz, the local office manager for the Gloucester West office, testified that at the time of the incident in question, she was not Ms. Curtis' direct supervisor, although she had supervised her in the past. She explained the duties of an assistant family service worker, including the supervision of parental visits and transportation of children to and from such visits. She identified the Job Specification for the position and also policies, such as those for seat belt use and regarding the use of State vehicles. Ms. Hammond-Jakubowicz became aware of the incident in question on August 12, 2015, when she was notified by telephone of a "near accident." The investigation began after the children's grandmother referred the matter. The Public Defender's Office Conflict Unit was involved as the investigation involved the actions of a DCF employee. Ultimately, the witness learned that the investigation led to a finding that allegations of abuse or neglect by Ms. Curtis were "not established." Agency-level disciplinary action was then instituted.

The witness identified the DCF Policy Manual provision addressing "Use of State Vehicles." (R-3). This provides that employees are prohibited from using wireless devices, including hands-free devices, while operating a State vehicle. This includes cell phones and GPS devices. As for the use of such directional devices, the policy provides that they are to be utilized "prior to driving" and the operator may "listen to it as they drive. If there is a need to re-program the device, the driver is required to pull over and stop driving to do so."

Ms. Hammond-Jakubowicz did not know if the vehicle's "black box" had been examined after the near accident, and stated that there was no report of any bodily damage to the vehicle. Vehicles are inspected before the car is driven. The witness acknowledged that an employee operating a vehicle is to avoid an accident if that is possible.

Roger Broyles, now retired but previously a principal investigator with the Public Defender's Office Conflict Unit, and prior to that position a police officer for twenty-six years, was assigned to investigate Ms. Curtis' conduct in regard to the near accident. He interviewed the children's grandmother, R. It was her daughter that the children met with that day and from which visit they were returning. The children, ages sixteen, eleven and seven, were removed from their mother's custody in May of 2015. The grandmother had custody of the two youngest and the older boy, J.G., was residing at a State residential setting due to his behavior.

On August 12, Ms. Curtis first picked up the sixteen-year-old, J.G., and then the two younger children, the seven-year-old, A.S., and the eleven-year-old, D.K. She took all three to the Gloucester West Local Office for the visit. When the vehicle arrived back at the grandmother's home, J.G. jumped out of the car and was yelling and screaming. He said that they had been involved in an accident and that Curtis had left the scene of the accident. He was holding A.S., the seven-year-old, and said that she was injured. He went into the house and placed the girl on a couch. The grandmother called the police and an ambulance. These arrived shortly after the call. The police observed no damage to the State vehicle. The seven-year-old was transported to the hospital, complaining of a bump on her forehead above her left eye, and pain in her stomach area. The grandmother took the two older children to the hospital herself.

Broyles interviewed the children on August 13. According to A.S., they were in a seven-passenger van. She was seated directly behind Curtis, who was driving. She had her seat belt on, and told Broyles, as reflected in his report, that she had put it on herself and "put it extra tight." A vehicle made an abrupt left turn in front of Curtis and she slammed on the brakes. A.S. first said that the vehicles came in contact, but then said that there was no contact. She said that her forehead hit the back of the seat in which Curtis was sitting. Her stomach hurt and she started to cry. Curtis told her to "shut up, you're not hurt, you'll be fine." She also said that they would be home in a few minutes. A.S. did have a bump above her left eye. There was no bruising in the stomach area. The girl recalled that at the house her older brother brought her in and put her on the couch.

A.S. claimed that before the other vehicle turned into the path of their vehicle, Ms. Curtis had been looking down at a GPS on her cell phone. She thought that it was in the ashtray.

D.K., the eleven-year-old, also claimed that he saw Curtis look down at her cell phone just before the near accident. He was seated in the back row, to the right of and next to J.G., who was seated directly behind A.S. D.K. felt that the vehicles made contact and he felt a "little dizzy." He did not recall much after that.

J.G. was interviewed at Ranch Hope in Alloways Township, the residential setting where he lived. He claimed that Curtis had changed her route from that she had previously used when she had transported the children on other occasions. He did not understand why she got off at Exit 14 rather than at Exit 13. According to J.G., he observed that the vehicle was travelling at 45 miles per hour in a 35-mile-per-hour-zone. He too claimed that Curtis looked down at the GPS just before the other vehicle turned in front of them. According to Broyles' report, J.G. told him that Curtis sideswiped the other vehicle after slamming on her brakes. As recorded by Broyles, J.G. said it was not a solid hit, but her vehicle did make contact with the rear of the other car. The other vehicle then sped up and went into the parking lot into which it had been turning. Curtis came to a complete stop, briefly looked to her right at the other car, and then continued on down the road. The witness testified the boy said she stopped for thirty seconds, although that figure does not appear in his report.

J.G. told Broyles that after the accident, his sister was crying because she was injured. He unbuckled her and lifted her over the seat into his seat and cradled her. The report states that J.G. explained that although he did not hit the seat in front of him because "he was wearing his seatbelt," he had some discomfort to the right of his collar bone.

J.G. told Broyles that after the accident, Curtis missed a turn. He wanted to get out and told her to stop and let them out, but she continued on, telling them that they "will be fine and they were almost home." When they got to his grandmother's house, he jumped out with his sister and took her inside and put her on a couch. Curtis drove off.

The investigator interviewed Yolanda Curtis on August 14. She explained that the visit with the children's mother was cut short because the eleven-year-old had football practice. They left the local office at about 4:50 p.m. Prior to leaving she made sure that all the children were wearing their seat belts. The girl had outgrown the booster seat. He asked Curtis about the GPS and she said that she had no need to be distracted by it. She had programmed it before she left and it had audio. As for the "accident", she explained that as she was driving she observed a vehicle coming in the other direction which then made a sudden left turn in front of her and she had to slam on the brakes. There was no contact, although it was a close call. She saw that the other driver did not get out of the vehicle after it went into the parking lot where it was headed, and after thirty seconds she departed. All of the children said that they were okay, and said that "we almost got into an accident." After this, they had to travel .7 (seven-tenths) miles to the grandmother's house from the scene of the near collision. She did hear the little girl whimper or moan, and she told the children that they would be at their grandmother's house in one minute. According to Broyles, Curtis told him that she only heard this whimpering after the girl had been removed from her seat by her brother. In her interview, she told Broyles that when she heard the whimpering, she told them that they would be home in a minute, J.G. said, "Fuck that, let me out of this car. My sister is crying." He then began to punch the back panel or back of the seat, took off his seatbelt and lifted his sister over her seat and consoled her. At that point she did hear A.S. crying. Curtis explained that she was not about to stop the vehicle in the middle of the street to let anyone out.

When they arrived at the grandmother's house, Curtis tried to explain what happened, but her other daughter (this actually appears to have been another older sister of the children) became very aggressive, yelling and trying to assault Curtis. Curtis got back in the van and for her safety drove a bit up the street to await the police and EMS. She called 911 once she was safely away from the house. The police told her that they already had received a report and were on the way. Curtis then called her immediate supervisor.

Broyles contacted the investigating officer, Wayne Maiden. There was no contact between the vehicles and no damage. No tickets were issued. Medical records were secured from Salem Hospital.

After concluding his investigation, Broyles wrote his report and determined that allegations of abuse or neglect were "not established." There was not a preponderance of evidence that the children had been abused or neglected, but they had been placed at a substantial risk of harm and there had been minor soft tissue injuries.

Broyles could not recall if the van had hand rests. The front seats are "relatively high." He did not recall if the seat belts were lap and shoulder belts. He agreed that the mark on D.K.'s right shoulder could have been from the shoulder restraint.

According to Broyles, it was the children who volunteered information about a GPS. In his report, he does not mention the GPS in regard to his report of his interview with D.K., nor does he say that D.K claimed that Curtis was "inattentive." However, he explained that he had no reason to doubt Curtis's claim that she had pre-programmed the GPS. In fact, in his view, if had she been inattentive she would have T-boned the other vehicle.

The witness agreed that J.G. made it clear that he did not like Curtis. The boy explained that he did not like the way she talked to the children and, as an example, the boy reported that she had once not finished parking and A.S. was unbuckling her seat belt. Curtis told her to put it on as she was not done parking. J.G. said that what bothered him was not so much what she said as how she said it. A.S. also said that she did not get along with Curtis even before the near accident, although the report does not give an indication why this was so.

Queried about the possibility that A.S. was actually injured either when J.G. lifted her out of and over her seat or when he rapidly exited the vehicle with A.S. in his arms, Mr. Broyles was unable to say how it was that A.S. was actually injured. Broyles also did not know the time sequence regarding when during the .7 mile trip from the scene of the near accident and the grandmother's home J.G. unbuckled his sister's seat belt. He also did not know what the traffic conditions were as the van processed toward the home.

Joanna Delvecchio, M.D. was the emergency room physician on duty at Salem Memorial Hospital when the children were brought there after the incident. In order to testify she reviewed the hospital records to refresh her recollection. A.S. was transported by ambulance and complained of chest and abdominal pain. A chest x-ray and ultrasound were normal, as was her physical examination. She had a frontal hematoma, but no imaging was performed of her head. Her neurological examination was normal. The doctor was told that there had been a sudden slamming of vehicle's brakes and the chief complaints were consistent with such an event. The child was given ibuprofen and discharged the same day. D.K. had no imaging studies performed. He had a right-side neck abrasion, a superficial injury consistent with a seat belt tightening. J.G. complained of pain in his hand from having punched the "car."

A.S., now A.R., having been adopted by her grandmother and now ten years old, testified that there was an "accident", "but there really wasn't." She said that Curtis "kept looking at her GPS." After the incident, Curtis drove to another road not where the house was. The girl recalled getting out of her seat belt and her brother holding her when she was out of the car. She also recalled that when the brakes were put on, the shoulder belt was "tight." She said that Curtis stopped the car two streets from the house when her brother took off her seat belt. She cried because she had hit her head, but she did not tell the driver this. The driver yelled at her to put her seat belt on. J.G. was "kind of really angry" and hit the window with his hand. He pulled her over the arm rest, and she described herself as "arching and stood up." The driver told J.G. to sit down and put A.S. back in her seat.

D.K., now D.R., also adopted by his grandmother, described that after the near accident, he recalled both his brother and sister out of their seatbelts. He remembered that his sister was crying. He does not recall if Curtis asked her why she was crying or if she asked if anyone was injured.

Yolanda Curtis testified that she has been employed by DCF since January 20, 2007. Ms. Curtis explained that when she transported the children, she did have a Tom Tom 4x4 GPS which had an audio feature. She placed the device in the drink cup and plugged it into the lighter. After the fifty-minute visit she proceeded to drive the children to their residences. She programmed the device as soon as she got into the vehicle. She checked to make sure the children were belted into their seats, turning around to check on each of them. She saw that A.S.'s belt was over her shoulder, and from her experience with this child, during which she had stood with the door open to make sure the seat belt was properly secure, she trusted that A.S. could close the belt herself. The child was not in a booster seat, and at the time the policy was that the booster was to be used for children up to five years old, although that policy has since been changed. She noted that due to the height of the front seats, so long as they were belted into their seats, the children could not see what she was doing as she drove. Although she acknowledged that she had used other routes in transporting the children, on this day she drove the route that she had been using more recently, travelling on Route 295 for thirty minutes and then on Route 130. She then made a right on Broad. She denied that at this point she was looking down at anything or that her phone had fallen on the floor. A black Explorer, travelling in the opposite direction than she was, approached her vehicle, stopped, and then as she, having the right-of-way, continued, the Explorer made a sudden left turn directly in front of her. She braked the van "harder", although she denied that she "slammed" the brakes. The person in the other vehicle, which had driven into the parking lot of a store, did not get out of that vehicle. There was no contact between the vehicles. Curtis noted that she was glad that the children had their seatbelts on, because they were always taking them off. The children all verbally indicated that that they were okay, either saying "yes" or "uhhum." No one said anything about banging their head and she saw no indication of any injury, so she did not think that anyone had been hurt. She was near the grandmother's home, about five blocks away. She made a right and then a left turn. Two blocks from the house, the girl began to cry and her seat belt was off, as her brother pulled her from her seat. Curtis told him to put her back in the seat. At this point she was one block from the house, which was already in sight. Curtis was travelling at the speed limit. She agreed that she had never been trained that it was acceptable to drive with anyone not belted in.

According to Curtis, even before he removed his sister's seat belt, J.G. was ranting and punching the window, saying that they had had an accident, when in fact they had not. Curtis described J.G. as having a violent temper and as he was acting out, she felt that she needed to get to the grandmother's home. This was not the first time that the boy had acted this way; he "just mouthed off at times."

Curtis noted that it was quite common for the seatbelts to lock up so as to become very tight. It happened "all the time."

The appellant described the confrontation that she was faced with at the house, with the children's sister. She never had an opportunity to ask why A.S. was crying. J.G., who had carried his younger sister into the house, came out to restrain his older sister to keep her from assaulting Curtis. Curtis got back in the van and pulled away, and as she did, something was thrown at the van. She knew that as J.G. did not live at his grandmother's home, he could not be left there, so Curtis called J.G.'s caseworker.

Ms. Curtis explained that seat belt training was not mandatory, but she had taken one day of training, not completing a five-day course due to car trouble. She did not get out of the van directly after the near accident to check for damage. She did not stop the vehicle in the street when she became aware that the girl's seat belt was off, as she was so close to the house and felt it best under the circumstances to get the children there. She did not know if there were vehicles behind her on the street as she proceeded to the home over the last block or two.

Curtis recalled that Mr. Broyles asked her if she had been distracted, which she denied.

Discussion

In a civil service disciplinary proceeding, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence that an employee has violated provisions of the Administrative Code. N.J.A.C. 4A:2.2-3 provides the several grounds for the imposition of discipline. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk , 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982).

The appointing authority provides the charged employee with notice of the charges through the medium of a PNDA, which contains a section denoted "Incident giving rise to the charge(s)." This section provides the specification of the basis for the contention that the employee acted in opposition to the expected standards of conduct that govern her employment. Here, the specification refers to certain "facts" upon which the claim that Ms. Curtis violated her duties and placed the children at "substantial risk of harm" are based. Referring to the events of August 12, 2015, it notes that the employee and her juvenile charges were "almost in an accident with another vehicle", that the investigation of possible abuse or neglect resulted in a finding of "not established", that Curtis acknowledged that she had slammed on the brakes, that the children sustained injuries, that they were upset and that Curtis "failed to appropriately assess their need for medical treatment and safety." No indication of exactly how she failed in that task is revealed by the Specification, although there does seem to be an implication that the fact that there was almost an accident was somehow a failure on her part to protect the children's safety.

I FIND that on August 12, 2015, Yolanda Curtis was performing her delegated responsibility to transport three children to and from a visit with their mother. On the way back to the children's grandmother's home, where the younger two of the three resided, an Explorer suddenly turned directly in front of the van Curtis was driving. Apparently the Explorer was doing so in order to enter a store parking lot. Faced with the prospect of immediate danger to herself and the three children, Curtis applied the van's brakes quickly and with force. She herself described doing so "harder," meaning harder than normal, whereas the children said that she slammed on the brakes. Indeed, the Specification claims that Curtis "slammed on your brakes." Of course, faced with the direct threat of a collision, it would be the natural and correct course of action for her to do just that, slam on the brakes to avoid colliding with a vehicle turning abruptly into her path. Even by their own accounts, the children were belted in at the time.

In assessing the incident as a conclusion to an investigation conducted by the Conflict Unit of the Public Defender's Office, the investigator, Mr. Broyles, and his supervisor who approved the release of his report and the report of the conclusion regarding whether any abuse or neglect occurred, characterized the children as having been "placed at substantial risk of harm." This statement in and of itself is no surprise. Of course they were placed at such risk at the time that the Explorer crossed in front of the van. An actual collision could have substantially harmed them, as well as Ms. Curtis. However, this threat of harm was not caused by Curtis, that is, unless her driving was a factor in the near collision. However, the police issued no tickets to her for any offense. Mr. Broyles, a police officer for over twenty years, testified that in his opinion if she had been inattentive she would have collided with the Explorer, she would have "T-boned" that vehicle. Despite what the children had told him, he also had no reason to doubt Curtis' explanation that she had pre-programmed the GPS.

The Specification claims that by her actions, Curtis "placed the children at substantial risk of harm." N.J.A.C. 3A:10-7.3(c) defines several findings that can be made following an investigation of an allegation of child abuse or neglect. A charge can be either "substantiated", "established", "not established", or "unfounded." "Not established" means "there is not a preponderance of the evidence that a child is an abused or neglected child as defined in N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21, but evidence indicates that the child was harmed or was placed at risk of harm." N.J.A.C. 3A:10-7.3(c)3. By its very definition, this finding means that even where the alleged perpetrator of child abuse or neglect did absolutely nothing wrong, if the situation under investigation by its facts did involve exposure of a child to "risk of harm" or the child was harmed, the finding must be "not established." This is in contrast to a finding of "unfounded", where just as with "not established", "there is not a preponderance of the evidence indicating that a child is an abused or neglected child as defined in N.J.S.A. 9:6-8.21", but where "the evidence indicates that a child was not harmed or placed at risk of harm." Based upon the competent evidence presented here, I FIND that Ms. Curtis testified truthfully that she pre-programmed the GPS which then operated verbally and that she was not distracted when she was driving just before the Explorer unexpectedly crossed directly in front of her as she proceeded, with the right-of-way. She had no choice but to push hard on her brakes in order to avoid a collision. The threat of such a crash was quite real, and, as such, she and the children were all placed in a situation which presented a real risk of harm, even substantial harm to each of them. However, despite the choice made here by the appointing authority to charge her with placing the children at "substantial risk of harm," in fact, I FIND that Ms. Curtis' action prevented the children from suffering any significant harm.

As for the children's each having claimed that Ms. Curtis was looking down at the GPS or phone just before the near collision, I find it hard to believe that even if the three could all see above or around the high front seats to observe the area where the GPS rested, that each just happened to be looking right there just before the brakes were applied. While I cannot be sure that they were coached to say this, it seems far-fetched that all three would claim having been aware of this supposed distracted conduct. I therefore discount their assertions of distracted driving or inattentiveness on Curtis' part as unreliable.

As noted, the Specification does not clearly detail exactly what facts the appointing authority contended showed the alleged lack of proper conduct by Curtis. But the reference to the children being upset and injured suggests that at least part of the supposed misconduct occurred after the crash was avoided and Curtis began to drive to the grandmother's home, some .7 of a mile from the spot where the near collision occurred. After the near collision, it is not surprising that the occupants of the van would have been shaken by the sudden stop and the realization of such a near miss. As for her conduct after leaving the scene of what thankfully was a near miss, I FIND that Ms. Curtis did not ignore the children or berate them. She inquired if all were okay, and at first they might well have thought that they were. I FIND that they each verbally confirmed that they were okay. The abrasion caused by the seat belt, and any muscle soreness resulting from the tightening of the belts at the time of the sudden application of the brakes, might well not have manifested enough immediate discomfort for the children to have even been aware so quickly that they were injured. As for the bump on A.S.'s head, as the van proceeded for the short journey from the scene of the near crash to the children's grandmother's home, the seven-year-old girl, perhaps the most vulnerable of the three to becoming upset at the sudden event, began to cry. Whether her initial response of crying was characterized as a whimper or not, she was upset. By the time this child arrived at the hospital she had clearly bumped her head, as the doctor confirmed. But how she sustained this injury, which fortunately was not serious and required only ibuprofen as treatment, is not at all clear. There is absolutely no evidence that either at the time of the near collision or directly thereafter any of the children were not securely seat-belted. In fact, the girl told Broyles that she had made the seat belt "extra tight." As such, it is not clear how A.S. would have been thrust forward in such a manner as to bump her head on the rear of the driver's seat. None of the other occupants appear to have been moved in such a fashion. While the doctor confirmed that this type of injury was consistent with a sudden slamming of the brakes, it is also possible that this injury could have been the result of the child being yanked up and over the back of her seat by J.G. into his seat as the vehicle moved, as she may have banged her head then, or she might have banged her head on the door frame as she was rushed out of the van by J.G. And, even if the injury did somehow result from the sudden application of the brakes in an emergency, given that the girl was wearing her seat belt at the time, I FIND that that is hardly any reason to fault Ms. Curtis for the child having been injured. Indeed, in the face of the sudden emergency, her action undoubtedly saved all of the children from more serious injury.

As for what occurred as the van proceeded for less than one mile to their grandmother's, it is clear enough that when J.G. heard his sister crying he got upset. In fact, he was already upset before she cried. He seemed to blame Curtis for the near miss. As Broyles related, the children all seemed to have thought that an actual collision did occur, or at least that is what they claimed. Even his siblings confirmed that J.G. had a temper. He admitted to Dr. Delvechhio that he punched the window. He unbuckled his sister from her seat and somehow pulled or yanked her over the seat into his lap. He yelled at Curtis. Apparently, the appointing authority thinks that at that point Curtis should have stopped the van, either in the middle of the street, or possibly pulled over if such was possible on this street, rather than proceed directly to their grandmother's house. Curtis explained her judgment as that it was best, given the extremely limited distance left to travel, to get to that house, where presumably some adult assistance could limit J.G.'s rage and calm the children.

I FIND that Ms. Curtis exercised rational judgment in the face of the conduct of J.G. It is true that hindsight might suggest that she possibly could have stopped the vehicle in the midst of the .7 mile trip, tried to calm J.G., who might well have been out of control at that point, and made sure that all were buckled up. But the situation must be examined as it presented itself to her at the time. If the journey she needed to take from the point when J.G. started to act out had been longer in distance or time, I would agree that she likely would have had to stop and try to regain control. But events do not happen in a vacuum. Here, the necessary journey was of minimal distance, and stopping on the street to try to calm things down might well have ended up with J.G. bolting off, with or without his sister. The grandmother's home was at least a better place for him to go than out of the van at some spot short of that house.

While perhaps what Curtis did was not 100 percent perfect, I CONCLUDE that she did not fail in her charge to assess the situation and try to assure the safety of her charges. I CONCLUDE that the appointing authority has failed to establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Ms. Curtis violated any of the several provisions of the Administrative Code. The charges against her are DISMISSED and it is HEREBY ORDERED that if she has served any of the suspension time, she is to be made whole for any lost wages and benefits.[2]

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

[2] Should the Civil Service Commission see fit to find against Ms. Curtis, it is noted that she has no prior disciplinary record.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: MAY 4, 2018 BW

The appeal of Sha-Keana Davis, County Correction Officer, Mercer County Correction Center, 10 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Judith Lieberman, who rendered her initial decision on March 26, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority. A reply to the reply was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on May 2, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Sha-Keana Davis.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

IN THE MATTER OF SHA-KENANA DAVIS,
MERCER COUNTY CORRECTIONS CENTER,

Respondent.

DAVID BECKETT, Esq., for appellant (Law Offices of David Beckett, attorneys)

KRISTINA E. CHUBENKO, Esq., Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Mercer County Corrections Center (Paul R. Adezio, County Counsel)

Record Closed: February 9, 2018 Decided: March 26, 2018

BEFORE JUDITH LIEBERMAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The appellant, Sha-Keana Davis, appeals the determination by the respondent, Mercer County Corrections Center (Appointing Authority), that she committed Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee and violated Administrative Procedures and/or Regulations involving Safety and Security, for which she received a ten-working-day suspension.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 10, 2017, the Appointing Authority issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PDNA) setting forth the charges and specifications made against appellant. After a departmental hearing, which was held on April 4, 2017, the Appointing Authority issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) (J-1) on May 2, 2017, sustaining the charges in the PDNA and suspending the appellant from employment for ten working days, effective May 15, 2017, and ending May 29, 2017, for failing to attend mandatory harassment training. The appellant filed a timely appeal on May 8, 2017, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 22, 2017, for hearing as a contested case. The case was heard on November 16, 2017. The record remained open for the receipt of written summations by the parties. On February 9, 2018, all summations were received, and the record closed.

Testimony

For respondent:

Deputy Warden Phyllis Oliver testified that all officers were required to attend one session of the harassment training. Training sessions for non-supervisory officers were scheduled on various days, starting December 7, 2016, and ending January 19, 2017. A memorandum advising of the training was read aloud by shift commanders during lineup for seven consecutive days and was displayed in the lobby and officer's dining room. The memorandum stated that failure to attend the training would result in discipline. The officers were given early notice of the training requirement so that they could adjust their schedules to be able to attend. Officers were to attend on their own time and would be compensated for attendance. They did not need to register in advance; attendance was on a first come, first served basis.

December 8, 2016, was the first training day that the appellant could have attended. That day, training sessions were scheduled for 7:30 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. The appellant worked the 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift preceding the training sessions and could have attended both training sessions. However, she worked a voluntary overtime shift on December 8, 2016.

December 15, 2016, was the next day the appellant could have attended a training session. She was unable to attend because she was assigned mandatory overtime.

January 5, 2017, was the next day the appellant could have attended a training session. The appellant worked a voluntary overtime shift from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. on January 4, 2017, and then her regular shift, 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m., from January 4 to January 5, 2017. After departing at 7:00 a.m. on January 5, 2017, she could have returned to the facility to attend either the 12:00 p.m. or 3:30 p.m. session that day.

The next training sessions that the appellant could have attended were scheduled for January 9, 2017. The sessions were held 7:30 a.m. and 12:00 p.m. The appellant could have attended either training session but instead worked a voluntary overtime shift from 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. that day.

Oliver testified that the appellant would have been able to attend the January 18 and 19, 2017, sessions had she not been injured while working on January 18.

Oliver testified that the training schedule was issued early to allow officers to adjust their schedules in advance so they would be able to attend a session. Oliver added that ninety percent of the officers attempt to be the first to attend mandatory training sessions to ensure that they comply in the event they are later prevented from being able to do so. The appellant was on notice that the training was mandatory and that failure to attend would result in discipline. The appellant failed to comply, notwithstanding that she could not attend training during the last two days.

The appellant was disciplined pursuant to the Mercer County Public Safety Table of Offenses and Penalties that applied to the Correction Center. The offense was "Violations of Administrative Procedures and/or Regulations Those Involving Safety and Security." (D6). The "step charge" was "step two", which indicated a three-day removal for a second infraction. (R-1.)

For appellant:

Sha-Keana Davis testified that between November 2016, and January 2017, she was assigned to the 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift. She had attended training sessions in the past and understood that she would either be paid or receive compensatory time for attendance at a mandatory training session.

The appellant is the parent of three children who have asthma who need to utilize a machine every three to four hours to help them when they are ill. The appellant used family leave time to be with her children when they were ill. She would also use compensatory time when she needed to tend to the children.

The appellant testified concerning the assignment of overtime shifts. The need for officers to accept overtime varied from day to day; sometimes fifteen officers would be needed to work overtime, while on another day, it might be seven. An officer was often required to work an overtime shift even though she may have indicated she did not want to do so. Two consecutive overtime shifts would result in a total of sixteen hours of work. Officers were prohibited from attending training if they previously worked sixteen hours.

Officers with less seniority were more likely to be required to work an overtime shift. The appellant estimated there were three officers with less seniority than her in December 2016. Therefore, she was more likely than more senior officers to be "stuck" with overtime. However, once she worked an overtime shift, she would be less likely to be required to work a subsequent overtime shift, given the prohibition on working more than sixteen consecutive hours. A more senior officer would be required to cover an overtime shift under these circumstances. The appellant would opt to work an overtime shift knowing that she would be able to tend to her children the next day.

The appellant testified concerning the days she did not attend the training session. December 8, 2016, was the first day should could have attended the training session.[1] However, she worked a voluntary overtime shift from 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. after her regular 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift. She voluntarily worked overtime so that it would be less likely that she would be "stuck" with overtime afterward.

January 5, 2017, was the next day she could have attended a training session. She worked an overtime shift, 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. the prior day, January 4, 2017, and then worked her regular 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. shift on January 5, 2017. She opted to work overtime on January 4, 2017, so that she would not be "stuck" after 7:00 a.m. on January 5, 2017, and be able to take her daughter to school.

On January 9, 2017[2], the appellant worked a voluntary overtime shift from 7:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

[1] The parties stipulated that the appellant was unable to attend training sessions on December 7 and 19, 2016, because she used FLMA leave those days. They also stipulated that she was unable to attend a training session on December 15, 2016, because she was assigned mandatory overtime that day.

[2] During direct examination, the appellant referred to January 9, 2017, as the next day listed on the training memorandum. Rather, the next training session listed on the memorandum was January 8, 2017, to which the appellant stipulated.

The appellant testified that she intended to attend the 3:30 training session on January 18, 2017. She worked an overtime shift from 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. on January 17, 2017, and then her regular shift, 11:00 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. on January 18, 2017. She sustained an injury during the overnight shift. She was sent for a medical appointment at 2:30 p.m. on January 18, 2017, and the medical staff ordered a two-week medical leave. She was not permitted to attend the training while she was out of work.

On cross-examination, the appellant testified that she could have attended the 3:30 p.m. training session on January 5, 2017. She did not ask anyone if she could attend the 12:00 p.m. session that day, as she would have been prohibited because she previously worked sixteen hours.

Officer James Chambers is a corrections officer for the respondent and Acting President of the PBA. He testified that overtime was frequently required in November 2016. Knowing this, officers would attempt to schedule their work hours in advance, as an assignment would likely continue throughout the week. The officers would utilize scheduling strategies to be able to attend trainings or tend to family matters.

Because overtime was often mandatory, officers would need to come to work on their days off to attend training sessions. However, the appellant was unable to do this here, as none of the training sessions was scheduled on her days off. Officers may not work more than sixteen hours in twenty-four hours. Any hours worked beyond sixteen are considered "double time" and such assignments are "frowned upon."

After having the opportunity to review the evidence and consider the testimony, and the joint stipulation, I FIND the following additional FACTS:

1. The appellant was aware of her obligation to attend mandatory harassment training on one of the specified days.

2. The appellant was aware that officers who failed to attend the training session would be disciplined.

3. On December 8, 2016, the appellant voluntarily worked an overtime shift that precluded her from attending training sessions that day.

4. On January 4, 2017, the appellant worked an overtime shift prior to her regular shift on January 5, 2017, so that she would not be required to work after her regular shift. She did not attend training sessions scheduled for 12:00 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. on January 5.

5. On January 8, 2017, the appellant worked a voluntary overtime shift instead of attending either training session that day.

6. The appellant believed she would not be permitted to attend a training session after having worked sixteen consecutive hours.

7. The appellant knew she would not be able to attend a training session on any of her regularly scheduled days off.

8. The appellant did not alert a supervisor that she was unable to attend the training session due to overtime assignments or medical leave.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and the regulations promulgated there under. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment, or provides other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6, -20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.2, -2.3

The Appointing Authority has the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

As a corrections officer, appellant is held to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). Corrections officers represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee", pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), is an "elastic" phrase that encompasses conduct that "adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit ... [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services." Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998)(citing In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960)). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Here, the appellant had been employed by the Appointing Authority for over six years at the time she was disciplined. She previously attended mandatory training sessions, and was fully aware of her responsibility to attend the mandatory training session at issue. There was a limited number of days during which the appellant could have attended the training session. She knew that she could not attend training sessions on her days off and that she could be required to work a mandatory overtime shift that would conflict with a scheduled training session. Despite this, she opted to work voluntary overtime shifts on three days, December 8, 2016, January 4, 2017, and January 8, 2017, even though those shifts prevented her from attending training sessions. As such, the appellant waived her limited opportunities to attend the mandatory training session when she could.

The appellant did not alert any of her supervisors that she was having difficulty attending the training session. She did not alert a supervisor that her work-related injury would cause her to lose her last opportunities to attend the training session. Rather, she made clear, through her testimony, that she would utilize the overtime scheduling system to her best advantage, when possible.

The complexities associated with involuntary overtime assignments are significant. However, it was incumbent upon the appellant to ensure that she complied with mandatory work duties. Compliance is essential to the morale and efficiency of a governmental unit. This would necessarily impact the operations of the corrections center, which requires discipline and rule compliance.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) (Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee), and that such charge must be SUSTAINED.

The charge of violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), Other Sufficient Cause, is based on an allegation of violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. Here, the record reflects that the appellant failed to satisfy her clearly stated obligation. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)

(12) (Other Sufficient Cause), and that such charge must be SUSTAINED.[3]

PENALTY

A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to her duties may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b), 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). This requires a de novo review of appellant's disciplinary action. In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

The Appointing Authority seeks to suspend the appellant ten-working-days for her actions. In her seven years as an officer for the Appointing Authority, the appellant has been disciplined multiple times. (J-5.) On February 28, 2013, she received a written reprimand for chronic, excessive absenteeism. On June 28, 2013, she received a written reprimand for having been absent without proper notice. On July 1, 2013, she was suspended ten days for neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming and for violating a rule, regulation or policy. On February 5, 2016, she received a written reprimand for chronic, excessive absenteeism. On June 21, 2016, she was suspended five days for chronic, excessive absenteeism. On January 5, 2017, she received a written reprimand for having been absent without proper notice. Ibid. Here, the petitioner has been disciplined once before for Conduct Unbecoming an Officer and for violating a rule, regulation or policy.

[3]Appellant argued that the respondent applied its rules inequitably because Deputy Warden Oliver did not attend the training sessions at issue. As discussed during the hearing, it is of no moment whether the Deputy Warden attended the training. Nonetheless, the appellant was provided an opportunity to offer evidence that officers, similarly situated to the appellant, failed to attend the training and were not disciplined. The appellant did not offer such evidence.

After having considered the proofs offered in this matter and the impact of the appellant's behavior upon the institution, and after having given due deference to the principal of progressive discipline, I CONCLUDE that appellant's violations are significant enough to warrant a penalty, which, in part, is meant to impress upon her the seriousness of the failure to comply with training mandates. The petitioner did not conduct herself in a manner intended to ensure she would be in compliance. As this is a second violation for Conduct Unbecoming and Public Employee and violation of Administrative Procedures and/or Regulations, I CONCLUDE that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant for ten working days is reasonable and consistent with progressive discipline, and should be affirmed.

ORDER

I hereby order that the charges are sustained. Accordingly, I order that the action of the Appointing Authority is AFFIRMED, and the appellant shall be suspended for ten working days.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Van Jenkins

OAL Docket No. CSV 15785-2017

ISSUED: MAY 23, 2018 (SLK)

The appeal of Van Jenkins, a Mechanic with the City of Camden, of his removal, effective August 1, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Elaine B. Frick (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on March 22, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and a reply to exceptions and cross exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on May 2, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact as detailed in the initial decision. Further, the Commission adopted the ALJ's recommendation to reverse the removal. However, the Commission did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to reinstate the appellant to suspended without pay status. Rather, the Commission ordered that the appellant's reinstatement be subject to a return to work drug test.

DISCUSSION

The appellant was charged with violating the appointing authority's Drug and Alcohol Policy (D&A Policy) and a second chance agreement. Specifically, the appointing authority alleged that after the appellant initially tested positive for marijuana, the appellant's return to work drug screen tested positive for marijuana. Upon the appellant's appeal to the Commission, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case.

The ALJ set forth in her initial decision that the appellant began his employment with the appointing authority in 2005. On July 27, 2017, the appellant tested positive for drugs. The ALJ noted that the appellant had never been previously tested positive for drugs nor had he ever previously been disciplined.

Martin Hahn, Risk Manager for the appointing authority, testified that there was no evidence that the appellant ever had a drug problem or been impaired at work prior to being randomly selected to take a drug screen on July 27, 2017 pursuant to the appointing authority's D&A Policy. Hahn indicated that, like other employees who test positive, the appellant was given an opportunity to sign a second chance agreement. The second chance agreement stated that the appellant would be suspended without pay from August 1, 2017 until he was cleared to return to work, which included the appellant passing a return to duty drug test among other criteria. Hahn stated that on August 29, 2017, he was informed that the appellant was ready to be considered for return to duty and therefore, he directed the appellant to get a return to work urine screen completed through the appointing authority's designated laboratory facility. He then received the drug testing summary report for the appellant which indicated that he tested positive for marijuana on August 30, 2017. Hahn agreed that the appellant was a reliable and valuable employee who had no prior employment issues. Additionally, Hahn confirmed that if the appellant had not used drugs after signing the second chance agreement and the positive drug test was a result of residual marijuana in the appellant's system from use prior to July 27, 2017, then the appellant would not be in violation of the second chance agreement. However, Hahn indicated that he did not have the ability to determine if the positive drug test was due to residual marijuana use and, since the appellant did not pass the return to duty urine screen, he could not return to work.

Harsh Dangaria, M.D., Medical Review Officer for the appointing authority, testified that he reviewed the appellant's laboratory test result from the urine sample collected on August 30, 2017, which was positive for marijuana. Further, Dangaria called the appellant on September 6, 2017 and he did not receive any information from the appellant that indicated that there may have been an alternate medical reason as to why he tested positive. Dangaria acknowledged that the appellant's July 27, 2017 drug test indicated quite a high result for marijuana metabolite and the appellant's August 30, 2017 marijuana metabolite result was significantly lower. However, Dangaria stated that the August 30, 2017 results were still above the federal Department of Transportation guidelines (guidelines) for a positive test for marijuana, which he is required to follow. Dangaria indicated that the guidelines provide that residual marijuana may stay in one's system for up to 30 days from the time of use. Dangaria agreed that it is possible that someone may test positive, negative, and then positive again for the same marijuana use; however, he stated that situation would only be within the 30 day time frame from when the use occurred. Dangaria acknowledged that he was aware of other research where individuals tested positive for marijuana for up to 40 days from use, but he emphasized that he is required to follow the guidelines which only indicate that residual use may stay in one's system up to 30 days. Dangaria agreed that weight loss after marijuana use could impact the length of time it remains in one's system. However, he reiterated that he would follow the guidelines, which are the "gold standard" for employee drug testing, which state that a positive result would only continue up to 30 days from use.

The appellant testified that on August 22, 2017, he had a positive test for marijuana. Thereafter, on August 29, 2017, he submitted another urine sample and was advised that the test was negative. Accordingly, the appointing authority was advised he was ready to return to work. The appellant indicated that on August 30, 2017, he was tested at the appointing authority's approved facility and he expected that the result would be negative based on the results from the day before. The appellant states that if he knew that the results would come back positive, he would have never requested the return to duty drug screen. The appellant indicates that he lost 25 pounds during his suspension.

Gary Lage, Ph.D., testified as an expert in pharmacology and toxicology for the appellant. Lage presented that there have been studies that indicate that marijuana can stay in one's system for up to 70 days after initial exposure even if there has been no additional exposure to marijuana. Lage stated that it was his expert opinion that the appellant's 90 percent decrease in his marijuana metabolite level from the initial drug screen to the return to duty drug screen indicated that this dramatic decrease represented residual marijuana in the appellant's system from use prior to the first positive test and the appellant had not been exposed to marijuana after the initial drug screen. However, Lage did concede that it was possible that the appellant was exposed to marijuana in between the two tests, but reiterated this would contradict the facts in this matter. Lage also testified that there is a high correlation between weight loss, which affects the release of the metabolite from fat tissue, and how long the last positive urine test for marijuana occurs.

The ALJ found all the witnesses to be credible, but that Lage's testimony was the most persuasive based on his expertise and the scientific research he used to support his conclusions. Specifically, the ALJ found that the appellant's positive drug test on August 30, 2017 was due to residual marijuana from use prior to the initial drug test on July 27, 2017 and not from subsequent use based on the appellant's significant decrease in his marijuana metabolite level and the impact that the appellant's weight loss could have on the length of time he could have tested positive for marijuana without subsequent use. Additionally, the ALJ found that both the appointing authority's and the appellant's expert witnesses confirmed the appellant's positive, then negative, and positive drug tests were not unusual. Further, the ALJ stated it would not make sense for the appellant to have sought to return to duty if he thought he would test positive again. Based on the foregoing, the ALJ found that the appellant had not violated the appointing authority's D&A policy and the second chance agreement and the ALJ reversed the appellant's removal and ordered that he be reinstated to suspended without pay status.

In the appointing authority's exceptions, it argues that it cannot be confirmed that the August 30, 2017 positive drug test was a result of residual marijuana use. Instead, the appellant's expert could only testify that it was likely that the positive result was due to residual marijuana. Further, the appellant signed a second chance agreement that indicated that if he failed a subsequent drug test, he would be removed. Therefore, the appellant violated the appointing authority's D&A Policy and the second chance agreement by failing the return to duty drug screen and should not be given a third chance. The appointing authority presents that N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.4 does not provide for a suspension for greater than six months except for when there are pending criminal charges. Therefore, the appointing authority asserts that the ALJ incorrectly ordered the appellant to be reinstated to "suspended without pay" status and it was further error for the ALJ to not specify how long the appellant would remain in that status. The appointing authority emphasizes that it has an obligation to put the safety of the public and its employees at the forefront of all decisions and argues that it is arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable to reinstate an employee who has twice tested positive for marijuana.

In the appellant's reply to exceptions and cross exceptions, he states that the appointing authority has not provided any factual or legal argument to support its exceptions. Specifically, the appointing authority failed to demonstrate that the ALJ's conclusion that the appellant's positive drug screen on August 30, 2017 was a result of residual marijuana was arbitrary and unreasonable. On the contrary, the ALJ explained why that the appellant's expert's testimony was the most persuasive based on his experience and scientific studies that supported the conclusion that the appellant's decreased marijuana metabolite level and weight loss were evidence that the positive result on the return to duty drug screen was based on residual marijuana and not new use. Further, Hahn confirmed that if the positive drug test was based on residual marijuana than the appellant would not be in violation of the appointing authority's D&P Policy and the second chance agreement. Additionally, he argues that the Commission is not bound by the appointing authority's drug policy to determine the proper penalty and the appellant is not being provided a third chance as he only tested positive on August 30, 2017 due to residual marijuana being in his system. Further, public safety is not at risk as the appellant will only return to work upon passage of a return to work drug screen, which is a common condition that the Commission imposes where positive drug tests are involved.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ regarding the reversal of the charges, but does not agree with the ALJ's recommendation that the appellant be reinstated to suspended without pay status. In this regard, where a removal is reversed, an appellant is normally entitled to be reinstated subject to any conditions imposed by the Commission. Where charges are dismissed and the penalty reversed, an appellant cannot be returned to any type of suspended status. Accordingly, as it has done in similar matters, the Commission orders that the appellant undergo a return to work drug test as a condition of reinstatement. Should the appellant fail his return to work drug test, the Commission orders that the appointing authority issue a new Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) removing the appellant effective August 1, 2017. Upon receipt of the FNDA, the appellant may appeal that matter to the Commission in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.8. Upon timely submission of any such appeal, the appellant would be entitled to a hearing regarding the current drug test only. Should he be unsuccessful in that appeal, he shall be deemed removed effective August 1, 2017.

If the appellant passes the drug test, the appellant is to be reinstated, and is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Typically, when there is a reversal of charges, mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority would be from the effective date of the suspension, which in the case is August 1, 2017. However, in light of the fact that the appointing authority had legitimate grounds for suspending the appellant effective that date due to an undisputed positive drug screen on July 27, 2017, the Commission finds that the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from August 30, 2017, the date of the appellant's return to duty drug screen by the appointing authority's authorized facility which resulted in a positive result due to residual marijuana.

With respect to counsel fees, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12 provides for the award of full reasonable counsel fees incurred in proceedings before it and incurred in major disciplinary proceedings at the departmental level where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues before the Commission. In this case, the Commission reversed contingent on his passing a return to work drug test. Should he pass that test, he is entitled to reasonable counsel fees. Should he fail that test, counsel fees are denied. Additionally, in light of the Appellate Division's decision in Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. February 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. However, under no circumstances should his reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any back pay or counsel fee dispute.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the removal of the appellant was not justified and therefore, reverses that action. The Commission also orders that the appellant undergo a return to work drug test prior to his reinstatement. Should the appellant fail the drug test, the appointing authority is to issue a new FNDA with a removal date of August 1, 2017. Should he pass the drug test, he should be immediately reinstated. If ultimately reinstated, the Commission further orders that the appellant be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the period from August 30, 2017 to the date of actual reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated to the extent of any income earned or that could have been earned by the appellant during this period. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of the issuance of this decision.

It is further ordered that, should the appellant pass the return to work drug test, counsel fees should be awarded to the appellant as the prevailing party pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. The appellant shall provide proof of income earned and an affidavit of services to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. If the appellant fails the drug test, counsel fees are denied.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay or counsel fees within 60 days of the appellant's reinstatement. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Appellate Division.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 15785-2017
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-1038

IN THE MATTER OF VAN JENKINS, CITY OF CAMDEN, DEPARTMENT OF PERSONNEL.

James Katz, Esq., for appellant Van Jenkins (Spear Wilderman, P.C., attorneys)

Ilene Lampit, Esq., Assistant City Attorney, for respondent City of Camden

Record Closed: February 5, 2018 Decided: March 22, 2018

BEFORE ELAINE B. FRICK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Respondent, City of Camden (the City), removed appellant, Van Jenkins, from his position as a mechanic, effective August 1, 2017. The City alleges there was just cause for the disciplinary action under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, because the appellant's return to work drug screen tested positive for marijuana, in violation of the City's Drug and Alcohol Policy (D&A Policy) and a second chance agreement.[1] Appellant contests his removal and seeks reinstatement to his employment and back pay.

[1] Although the Preliminary and Final Notice of Disciplinary Action forms in this matter list additional charges of insubordination, conduct unbecoming, and neglect of duty, the City has specified the only charge upon which they are basing the removal of appellant is N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) other sufficient causes.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On August 1, 2017, the City issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action setting forth charges against appellant, and suspending him effective August 1, 2017, without pay. On September 7, 2017, the City issued a second Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action to appellant, recommending removal effective August 1, 2017.

A departmental hearing was conducted on September 28, 2017. The City issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action on October 2, 2017, disciplining appellant with removal from his position, effective August 1, 2017. Appellant requested an appeal, and the matter was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 24, 2017, to be scheduled for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The matter was heard on January 25, 2018. The parties submitted post-hearing summation briefs and the record closed on February 5, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The parties stipulated the following facts and I therefore FIND them as FACTS:

1. Vance Jenkins began employment with the City of Camden on April 27, 2005.

2. His permanent Civil Service title at [the] time of removal was mechanic.

3. Prior to the incident which occurred on July 27, 2017, Mr. Jenkins had never been disciplined by the City of Camden for any reason in connection with his employment.

4. Prior to the drug test on July 27, 2017, Mr. Jenkins was previously tested for drugs in connection with his employment with the City of Camden.

5. Prior to the drug test on July 27, 2017, Mr. Jenkins had never previously tested positive for drugs in connection with his employment with the City of Camden, nor had there been any issues in connection with any prior drug test administered by the City of Camden to Mr. Jenkins in connection with his employment. (J-1).

TESTIMONY

Martin Hahn, Risk Manager, City of Camden, testified for the respondent. He has been employed as a risk manager for approximately thirty-six years, and has worked for the City of Camden in that position for the past fourteen years. Approximately twelve years ago, he crafted the City's D&A Policy with the then City attorney. (R-1.) The D&A Policy outlines six types of employee drug and alcohol testing that may occur, two of which are random drug screens for employees in safety sensitive positions, such as appellant's position as a mechanic; and return-to-work testing, used in situations where an employee has been absent from work due to enrollment in a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program. (R-1 at 104.)

The City had no evidence of appellant ever having a drug problem or being impaired at work prior to, or on July 27, 2017. The City had no evidence of appellant ever failing to perform his job duties prior to, or on July 27, 2017. Pursuant to the D&A Policy, an outside vendor randomly selects employees to submit to drug screens. Appellant was randomly selected on July 27, 2017.

Mr. Hahn is the Drug Enforcement Representative (DER) for the City, and is responsible to oversee the City's drug testing program and the Employee Assistance Program (EAP) related to the D&A Policy. As DER, he receives the results of employee drug tests and received the appellant's positive random urine screen of July 27, 2017. The result of the random drug screen was positive for marijuana. (R-4.)

The City issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action to the appellant, charging him with violation of the D&A Policy, for having tested positive for marijuana. (R-6.) The appellant was suspended without pay, pending a hearing. The appellant was not terminated. Rather, like all other employees who test positive, he was given the opportunity to sign a second chance agreement.

Mr. Hahn assisted the City's attorney in crafting the City's second chance agreement many years ago. The purpose of the second chance agreement is to give an employee who has tested positive for drugs the opportunity to become rehabilitated, instead of immediately being discharged. The parties signed the appellant's second chance agreement on August 1, 2017. (R-3.)

The second chance agreement identifies that appellant would be suspended without pay from August 1, 2017, until he was cleared to return to work. (R-3.) The agreement provided that the appellant had to cooperate and comply with the EAP recommended program or treatment. (R-3 at paragraph 3.) If he did not comply with the EAP program, the City could precede with disciplinary action. (R-3 at paragraph 3.)

The second chance agreement also required the appellant to pass a return to duty drug test. (R-3 at paragraph 4.) Mr. Hahn acknowledged there were no consequences in that paragraph as to what would occur if the appellant did not pass the return to duty drug test. There are no time constraints as to when the appellant would be required to pass a return to duty drug screen. Mr. Hahn identified a subsequent paragraph in the agreement which provides that if appellant tested positive at any time in the future, then his employment with the City would be terminated. (R-3 at paragraph 8.)

The second chance agreement further provided that upon the appellant's return to active duty, he would be required to participate in a two-year after-care program and would be required to submit to at-will drug testing. (R-3 at paragraph 5.) The consequences for non-compliance with the after-care program, or a positive test for drugs during that time, would result in immediate termination. (R-3 at paragraph 5.)

After the second chance agreement was signed, Mr. Hahn did not reach out to the company that independently operates the EAP program. He did not reach out to the appellant regarding the status of his compliance with the EAP program. Mr. Hahn learned that appellant wanted to return to work and had tested negative for drugs through a test the appellant had obtained on his own. Mr. Hahn received a letter dated August 29, 2017, from an EAP representative, indicating that appellant was ready to be considered for return to duty. (P-1.) He directed appellant to get a return to work urine screen completed through the City's designated laboratory facility. He then received the drug testing summary report for the appellant, with a positive result for marijuana, from the return to work urine sample collected from appellant on August 30, 2017. (R-2.)

Another Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued, this time recommending removal because of the positive return to duty drug screen of August 30, 2017. (R-7.) A departmental hearing was conducted on September 28, 2017. (R-8.) The City issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, removing appellant, effective August 1, 2017. (R-9.)

Mr. Hahn agreed that appellant was a reliable and valuable employee. The appellant had no prior employment issues.

Mr. Hahn confirmed that if the appellant did not use drugs after signing the August 1, 2017, second chance agreement, then he would not be in violation of the agreement. He further confirmed that if the August 30, 2017, positive result for drugs was due to residual marijuana in the appellant's system, from use prior to the July 27, 2017, positive random drug screen, then the appellant would not be in violation of the agreement. He emphasized he does not have the ability to determine if the positive result was due to residual marijuana, because the D&A policy only requires a positive result, without any further analysis of the quantity or comparison to prior tests. The appellant could not return to work, because he did not pass the return to duty urine screen.

Harsh Dangaria, M.D., testified on behalf of the City. He is a doctor of medicine and his primary line of work is in the field of pain management and he also works as a Medical Review Officer (MRO). He was qualified as an expert in the field of reviewing medical reports and urinalysis report review.

All MROs are required to follow federal Department of Transportation (DOT) guidelines when reviewing medical reports. Even though the appellant is a non-DOT employee, Dr. Dangaria, as a certified MRO, must adhere to DOT guidelines. Those guidelines provide that a urine screen will be considered positive for marijuana if the marijuana metabolite level is greater than 15 ng/mL.

Dr. Dangaria's duties as an MRO are to review an employee's positive laboratory drug result to determine if the result is correct, and speak to the employee to determine if there is some other medical explanation as to why the positive result occurred. He accepts the written results at face value, and does not conduct tests on the actual sample. It is beyond his duties as an MRO to conduct research to determine how or when an individual was exposed to marijuana. He reviews the chain of custody notations regarding the urine sample to ensure that each step has been initialed by an individual as having been completed. He does not independently verify that every individual involved, from the collection of the sample to the handling and testing of the sample, completed each task and complied with proper procedures.

Dr. Dangaria reviewed the appellant's laboratory test result from the urine sample collected on August 30, 2017, which was positive for marijuana with a level of 33 ng/mL. (R-2 at page 4.) He called the appellant on September 6, 2017, after 9:00 p.m. and spoke to him, but did not independently recall the conversation. He could not recall specifically what they discussed, but indicated that he did not receive any information from the appellant that there may have been an alternate medical reason as to why the test was positive. Dr. Dangaria signed the report confirming the test result to be positive for marijuana. (R-2 at page 3.)

If there happens to be a prior drug test, Dr. Dangaria does not review it as part of his duties. He did not review appellant's first test from July 27, 2017, until a few days prior to the hearing when he received a copy of it. (R-4.) He agreed that the quantitative result from July 27, 2017, of 319 ng/mL of marijuana metabolite was quite high. He would not be able to determine when the usage occurred, but the quantitative result would be indicative of recent high quantity use, and not a casual use a long time prior to the testing. He agreed that marijuana can stay in one's system, generally seven days for casual user, and up to thirty days for a chronic user, according to the DOT guidelines he must follow.

Dr. Dangaria acknowledged that the 33 ng/mL marijuana metabolite result from appellant's return to duty drug test of August 30, 2017, was significantly lower than the July 27, 2017, quantitative result of 319 ng/mL. That differential would not have affected his conclusion that the second test was positive, since the 33 ng/mL quantitative result was still above the DOT guidelines of 15 ng/mL being the cut off for a positive test. He agreed that the August 30, 2017, result may reflect casual use of marijuana a long time ago, but such use would have occurred within thirty days prior to the test sample being collected, as per the DOT guidelines.

Dr. Dangaria has not done research into the length of time marijuana can remain in one's system, but has reviewed research articles. He agreed there is the possibility that someone may test positive, negative, then positive again from the same use, but that would only be within the thirty-day time frame from when the use occurred. He is aware of other research literature where individuals tested positive for marijuana thirty to forty days from use, but they are just case studies, they are not the DOT guidelines he is required to follow as an MRO.

Dr. Dangaria agreed that weight loss after use of marijuana can have an impact on the length of time marijuana remains in one's system because marijuana metabolite is stored in fatty cells. When there is a loss of weight, the marijuana may continue to show up in urine screens for some time after the drug use. However, he would still adhere to the DOT guidelines that a positive result would only continue up to thirty days from use. The DOT guidelines are considered the "gold standard" for all types of drug testing for employers. He is retained to review a report and if it is considered positive, over the DOT guideline cut off of 15 ng/mL, it is a positive test, regardless of weight loss, or when and how the drug use occurred. Thus, the appellant's August 30, 2017, return to work drug screen was confirmed as positive for marijuana.

Van Jenkins testified on his own behalf. He was hired by the City of Camden to be a mechanic in 2005. He was suspended without pay because of testing positive for marijuana from the random drug screen urine sample collected on July 27, 2017. His last pay was as of July 28, 2017.

The appellant was presented a second chance agreement. He reviewed it and executed it in the presence of his union representative on August 1, 2017. He understood the terms of the second chance agreement to require him to complete a recommended course of EAP treatment and produce a clean return to work urine screen before he would be returned to active duty. Once he would be returned to active duty, he knew he must comply with an after-care program for two years. He also understood that if he tested positive for drugs at any time after being reinstated to active duty, he would be immediately terminated.

He was evaluated by a representative of the EAP program. He was required to refrain from drug use. He has not used marijuana or any illegal drugs since he tested positive from the random screen collected on July 27, 2017.

The EAP representative recommended that appellant attend three weekly lectures. (P-2.) He attended those lectures as scheduled in August of 2017. (P-3.) He was told by the EAP representative he did not have to attend a fourth lecture listed on the schedule, regarding grief and loss.

The EAP program representative also recommended that the appellant take his own drug screens, to monitor his status. On August 22, 2017, he went to his primary care doctor and submitted a urine sample. He was advised it was positive for marijuana. He went back to his primary care doctor on August 29, 2017. He submitted another urine sample and was advised it was negative. His primary care doctor noted on her prescription blank form that appellant had a negative urine drug screen in the office on that date. (P-4.)

Upon receipt of the note from his doctor, the appellant advised the EAP representative of the negative result. The EAP representative authored a letter dated August 29, 2017, indicating the appellant was ready to return to duty. (P-1.) The EAP representative advised the appellant to contact the City's Risk Manager, which he did. He was given forms to go to the City's approved laboratory facility to submit a urine sample for a return to duty drug screen.

The appellant went the next day, August 30, 2017, to the City's specified laboratory facility and provided a urine sample. He was later advised the result was positive. He believed he would be negative since the day prior his primary care doctor advised him that his urine screen was negative and he had not used any illegal drugs since he entered into the second chance agreement. He never would have requested to submit to the return to duty drug screen if he knew he would be positive. He never was advised he could be re-tested or submit a second sample. Instead, he was notified he would be terminated.

The appellant lost approximately 25 pounds while he was suspended. He had gone to his doctor in mid-July, and recalled being told he weighed 223 pounds, which he thought was high for him. On August 22, 2017, when he went to his doctor to have a urine screen done, he weighed 198 pounds.

The appellant asserts he is ready, willing, and able to return to work. He has had his own urine screen completed again. As of January 16, 2018, he tested negative for illegal drugs. (P-5.)

Gary Lage, Ph.D., testified on behalf of the appellant. He was qualified as an expert in pharmacology and toxicology. He explained that a positive urine screen indicates there is a suggestion of previous exposure to marijuana at some time in the past. It cannot pinpoint how or when it was ingested. The urine screen is testing for THC COOH, (marijuana metabolite) which is a metabolite of THC, the active ingredient in marijuana, which is formed in the body when someone is exposed to marijuana. Marijuana metabolite is a fat-soluble substance which has a long elimination from one's system because it can have a long half-life. For example, when marijuana is smoked, it effects the brain first because of the fatty tissue in the brain. Over time, the metabolite ends up being stored in the body fat, where it can remain for a long time. Once in the body fat, it will leek back into the blood, then into the urine, where it is excreted. As a result, an individual may continue to have a positive urine screen for marijuana for a very long time, after the use.

Mr. Lage is aware that the DOT standard setting the time frame for marijuana remaining in one's system is up to thirty days. He considers that cut off as a "regulatory" standard. There have been research studies finding that marijuana may remain in an individual's system for thirty to seventy days after initial exposure. (P-7A at 1.)[2] This may occur even when there has been no additional exposure to marijuana. It is also not unusual for an individual to test positive, then negative, then positive again, as the metabolite is released from the fat to the blood to the urine. (P-7A at 1.)

Mr. Lage correlated one research study with the appellant's circumstances. (P-7A and B.) The purpose of the study was to determine the time period for the urinary excretion of marijuana metabolite by individuals who were under a monitored abstinence program. This would enable a better understanding of the patterns of excretion, to differentiate recent cannabis use from residual drug excretion in urine screens. The study followed sixty individuals, breaking them into three subset groups according to initial positive quantitative levels of marijuana metabolite. The individuals were also tracked according to their Body Mass Index (BMI).

The appellant's random positive drug screen of July 27, 2017, had a quantitative result of 319 ng/mL, which correlated with 20 individuals in the subset group of the study who had a greater than 150 ng/mL initial positive test. (R-4.) The study monitored numerous urine samples of the individuals over a fixed protocol of thirty days. Six of the individuals in the group similar to appellant's situation, were still testing positive for marijuana in their drug screens late into the study, on the twenty-seventh day, twenty-eighth day, and the twenty-ninth day, which was the final testing day. (P-7B; P-7A at 5.) Mr. Lage opined that some of those individuals may have continued to test positive beyond thirty days. However, he conceded that the study did not go beyond thirty days and he recognized that the appellant's positive return to work screen on August 30, 2017, was thirty-four days after the July 27, 2017, result.

The research study results that have found large differentials of the quantitative levels of marijuana metabolite from the initial positive test to the subsequent positive tests, that marijuana metabolite will continue to be excreted for a long time after initial exposure. Similarly here, the appellant had a nearly 90 percent decrease in his quantitative initial positive result of 319 ng/mL versus the positive result with 33 ng/mL. Mr. Lage reasoned that if the appellant had abstained from any exposure after his first positive test, the dramatic decrease would represent residual marijuana in his system from the first positive test of July 27, 2017. He conceded there was the possibility that appellant was exposed to marijuana between July 27, 2017, and August 30, 2017, but it was not consistent with these facts.

The appellant's BMI also correlated with the six individuals in the research study who continued to test positive late into the study. The appellant's BMI based upon his height and weight as of mid-July 2017, would be considered overweight, just as the six individuals were categorized by their BMI. The appellant lost twenty-five pounds within a month. During a period of abstinence from marijuana, the release of the metabolite from fat tissue into the blood is highly variable, and weight loss can affect that release, which in turn leads to variability in the urinary marijuana metabolite concentration. (P-7A at 5.) Thus, there is significant correlation between BMI and the time until the last positive urine test occurs. (P-7A at 5.) Coupled with weight loss, where any body fat chemicals get thrown into the blood, then excreted through the urine, the metabolite will continue to be excreted and will result in a positive urine screen.

Mr. Lage concluded that it was his expert opinion that it was toxicologically probable that appellant's positive urine screen of August 30, 2017, was the result of residual marijuana from the first positive test of July 27, 2017, if the appellant had not been exposed to marijuana since that time. The conclusion was based upon the decline in quantitative levels from the appellant's July 27 random test to the August 30 return to work test; the scientific research finding that individuals may test positive, negative, then positive again as the marijuana metabolite is excreted; the scientific research finding the length of time marijuana remains in one's system more than thirty days after use; and the variability that occurs in the excretion of marijuana from one's system for an individual who has lost weight during a period of drug abstinence.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A fact finder is obligated to weigh the credibility of witnesses. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). Credibility is the value that a fact finder gives to a witness' testimony. It is best described as that quality of testimony or evidence that makes it worthy of belief. "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself. It must be such as the common experience and observations of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Estate of Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and the way it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). The fact finder also should consider the witness' interest in the outcome, or any motive or bias. The fact finder may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

I deem the testimony of Martin Hanh, Risk Manager for the City of Camden, as being credible. He testified in a forthright and confident manner, having decades of experience in his line of work. He assisted in crafting the City's D&A Policy and the second chance agreement and had firsthand knowledge of the City's intent to rehabilitate employees to enable them to return to active work. He candidly acknowledged that Mr. Jenkins would not be in violation of the second chance agreement, if the positive test result of August 30, 2017, was due to residual marijuana in Mr. Jenkin's system.

I deem the testimony of Van Jenkins to be credible. He testified in a very business-like manner, with a flat affect. He did not fidget. He maintained eye contact with the attorneys when questioned during direct and cross examination. He did not respond to questions in a mechanical or coached manner. Rather, he was very thoughtful in his responses and paused at times before responding. His factual assertions were consistent with other facts, and not inherently incredible. He has a substantial stake in the outcome, but he did not exaggerate his testimony, nor was he displaying desperation in his demeanor. His disposition came across as a man who simply wants to get back to work. This intent is supported by the logical steps he took in following the terms of the second chance agreement to get reinstated to active duty.

I further deem his factual testimony credible, because it is consistent with the scientific research. The appellant refrained from drug use from the time of the positive random screen of July 27, 2017, through the time of the positive return to work screen on August 30, 2017. This is supported by his actions in immediately following the EAP recommendations. He monitored his own drug level status by getting drug screens through his primary care doctor's office. When he still tested positive on August 22, 2017, he went back a week later, and tested negative on August 29, 2017, according to his primary care doctor. It defies logic that the appellant would seek out taking the return to work screen the very next day if he had used marijuana.

I deem the testimony of Dr. Harsh Dangaria as credible, but not as persuasive as Mr. Lage. His testimony was consistent with the job he was engaged to do: review a lab report. He is required to follow DOT guidelines. That is why he would adhere to the DOT standard position that marijuana may remain in one's system up to thirty days, but it is irrelevant to him because he only confirms if a report is positive or negative. He thus acknowledged the possibility that the appellant's August 30, 2017, positive test result could be due to residual marijuana, but only because of use within thirty days prior to the positive result, because that is what the DOT guidelines provide. He rigidly held to the DOT standards, because he is bound to them, despite his knowledge of scientific studies that identify the possibility of marijuana remaining in one's system beyond thirty days.

I deem the testimony of Gary Lage, PhD, to be credible, and most persuasive. He has decades of experience and has testified as an expert in hundreds of matters. He is deemed to be credible not just due to experience, but also due to his reasoning and opinion being supported by several scientific studies, which were not discredited or rebutted.

Mr. Lage's expert opinion is consistent with the totality of the facts, when viewed with the scientific research, which compels the conclusion that the positive return to work drug screen was the result of residual marijuana. The quantitative levels of marijuana metabolite from the random test, 319 ng/mL, compared to the subsequent result of the return to work test of 33 ng/mL, demonstrates that this was residual marijuana, for an individual who has abstained from marijuana. Both experts confirmed this was a significant decrease. Although there is the possibility that the positive result of the return to work test was due to recent exposure, all other factors weigh in support of this being residual marijuana.

Both experts agree that weight loss could have an effect on the time frame when marijuana remains in one's system. The appellant experienced a twenty-five-pound weight loss during the time frame the marijuana continued to be excreted from his system. Therefore, the weight loss caused variability in the excretion of the metabolite.

The City's expert could only agree that the appellant could test positive up to thirty days, because that is the DOT guideline he is bound to follow as an MRO. Those guidelines are regulatory. As Mr. Lage explained, the research supports appellant's circumstances, that the length of time to excrete the residual marijuana may go beyond thirty days. It is not a stretch to think that residual marijuana was still in appellant's system four days beyond a thirty-day regulatory cut off, and when coupled with the appellant's weight loss.

The pattern of appellant's self-initiated drug screen results also supports the proposition that residual marijuana continued to be excreted. Both experts confirmed that an individual may test positive, negative, and positive again while the metabolite continues to be excreted. It defies logic for appellant, as a long-term employee with no prior issues, to seek out return to active duty, if he thought he would test positive again. He had a negative self-test the day prior to the return to work screen. This pattern is not unusual, as described by both expert witnesses. Although the City's expert again adhered to the thirty-day cut off period for that pattern to occur, the totality of the circumstances, as supported by other scientific studies cited by Mr. Lage, compels the conclusion that that this was residual marijuana.

Based upon a review of the documentary evidence and having had the opportunity to listen to the testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following as FACTS in this matter:

1. The City's D&A policy governs the drug testing procedures for illegal and abusive drug use for City employees and job applicants.

2. The City's D&A policy outlines six types of drug tests the City is authorized to conduct, two of which are return-to-work testing and random testing.

3. The City's D&A policy may require employees in safety-sensitive positions to submit to random drug testing.

4. The City's D&A policy may require employees in safety-sensitive positions to submit to return-to work drug testing at the discretion of the DER, where the employee has been absent from work due to enrollment in a drug or alcohol rehabilitation program.

5. The City's D&A policy provides that upon receipt of a verified or confirmed positive drug test result, the employee will be permitted to return to work upon verification of rehabilitation and/or treatment by the DER and the employee successfully completing a drug screen.

6. The City's D&A policy provides that when the employee returns to work after their rehabilitation and/or treatment, they are required to enter a two-year program of EAP supervision and be subject to drug testing without prior notice.

7. Van Jenkins submitted to a random drug screen on July 27, 2017, which tested positive for marijuana. The quantitative result was 319 ng/mL.

8. The City issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action to Mr. Jenkins on August 1, 2017, notifying him of the charges against him, and that he was suspended effective August 1, 2017, without pay, until after a Loudermill Hearing, and then it would be determined when he would be suspended or removed from employment.

9. The parties entered into a second chance agreement on August 1, 2017.

10. The second chance agreement held in abeyance the City's disciplinary action, but suspended the appellant without pay, until he was cleared to return to work.

11. The second chance agreement required Mr. Jenkins to submit to and cooperate in a substance abuse program through the EAP, and participate and comply with the recommendations of the EAP.

12. The second chance agreement required Mr. Jenkins to pass a return to duty drug test, in order to return to work.

13. The second chance agreement required Mr. Jenkins to participate in a continuing after care program, including at-will testing, for a period of two years, commencing with his date of return to active duty.

14. Mr. Jenkins was recommended by EAP to attend a lecture series, which he did in August 2017.

15. Mr. Jenkins was recommended by EAP to monitor his status by obtaining his own independent drug screens, which he did on August 22, 2017, and August 29, 2017, through his primary care doctor's office.

16. The result of Mr. Jenkins' August 22, 2017, drug screen administered through his doctor's office was positive for marijuana.

17. The result of Mr. Jenkins' August 29, 2017, drug screen administered through his doctor's office was negative for marijuana.

18. Mr. Jenkins took a return to duty drug screen, at his request, on August 30, 2017, administered through the City-approved facility.

19. The result of Mr. Jenkins' August 30, 2017, return to duty drug screen was positive for marijuana. The quantitative result was 33 ng/mL.

20. Mr. Jenkins did not use marijuana or illegal drugs from July 27, 2017, through August 30, 2017.

21. Mr. Jenkins had a weight loss of twenty-five pounds from mid July 2017, through August 22, 2017.

22. Mr. Jenkins positive return to work drug screen of August 30, 2017, was the result of residual marijuana metabolite from appellant's prior exposure to marijuana before the July 27, 2017, test.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Civil service employees' rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 11A:12-6; N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1. The Act is an inducement to attract qualified people to public service. Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Commission, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline, including removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consolidated Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co.,

26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Here, the City has the burden to demonstrate by a preponderance of the evidence that the appellant violated the D&A policy and the second chance agreement, to justify the disciplinary action of removal. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). This is a fact-sensitive determination as to whether the positive return to work drug screen of August 30, 2017, mandated removal of the appellant.

I CONCLUDE that the appellant is required under the City's D&A Policy and the second chance agreement, to complete two conditions before he is returned to active duty, and then is subject to the conditions of the after-care program. The two conditions to be completed before return to active duty are compliance with the treatment recommended to him through the EAP program, and for him to pass a return to duty drug screen. A plain reading of the D&A policy in conjunction with the second chance agreement, supports that both conditions must be completed before the appellant is returned to active duty.

I CONCLUDE the appellant has completed the terms of the EAP program that were recommended to him. After executing the second chance agreement, the appellant immediately contacted the EAP representative, was evaluated, and then given the recommended course of treatment: stay drug free; complete the three weekly lecture series; and monitor his status with self-obtained drug screens. He followed all those recommendations, completed the tasks, and the EAP representative confirmed he was ready to return to active duty. (P-1.)

The second condition the appellant was required to complete to be returned to active duty, was to pass a return to duty drug screen. He did not do that. The return to duty drug screen of August 30, 2017, was positive for marijuana. The City contends the positive screen mandated the removal of the appellant because it was a violation of the D&A policy and the second chance agreement.

The paragraph of the second chance agreement requiring the appellant to pass a return to duty drug screen, before returning to active duty, does not specify any consequences if the appellant tested positive. Nor does the D&A policy outline any consequences. There are no time constraints as to when the appellant must pass the return to work drug screen. In contrast, there are consequences outlined in the second chance agreement if he failed to comply or complete the recommended treatment of the EAP program. There are consequences outlined if he failed to comply with the after-care program once he is returned to active duty. The only requirement without consequences within the second chance agreement is the requirement to pass a return to duty drug screen. The only consequence would be he is not yet returned to active duty. Thus, it logically flows that if the City, which was the scrivener of the agreement, intended the major disciple action of removal to occur if the return to duty test was positive, that consequence would have been spelled out, and it was not.

To interpret paragraph 4 of the second chance agreement to require immediate termination if a positive return to work drug screen was produced, frustrates the intent of the second chance agreement. The City's long time Risk Manager, and assistant drafter of the policy and agreement, confirmed that the City intended to provide an employee who tests positive from a random drug screen the opportunity to be rehabilitated before returning to active duty. It is contrary to that intent if the appellant is removed because he has not yet demonstrated compliance with a second condition of the agreement, which has no time frame, nor such drastic consequences specified within the agreement or the policy.

It is logical that there is no time constraint on the employee to produce a clean return to work drug screen. An employee may be compliant with recommended EAP treatment, but may continue to test positive for drugs that remain in one's system for some time after the use of the drug that resulted in the initial positive random drug screen. They may also test positive, negative, then positive again before the metabolite is completely excreted from their system. This was confirmed by both experts. That is precisely what occurred here. The appellant was compliant with the recommended EAP program, refrained from drug use, but tested positive by his primary care physician, then negative, then was positive on the return to work screen.

It is further reasonable and logical for the appellant to believe he was still in suspended status. That is supported by the structure of the agreement. Paragraphs 1 through 3 of the second chance agreement address the EAP conditions and consequences of non-compliance. Paragraph 4 addresses the suspension without pay and that appellant must pass a return to duty drug test to be considered an active duty employee. Paragraphs 5 through 7 address the conditions of the after-care program and the consequences of non-compliance. Paragraph 8 of the agreement provides that the appellant could be terminated at any time if there was a positive test, which reasonably is interpreted to mean after the appellant returned to active duty.

The structure of the City's D&A Policy supports the appellant's interpretation of the second chance agreement. The D&A Policy outlines six different types of employee drug testing that may occur. There is a distinction between a random drug screen and a return to duty drug screen. A return to duty test means just that: it is a test taken before an employee is returned to duty. Hence, it is logical and reasonable for Mr. Jenkins to believe that he had to pass that test, before he was considered returned to active duty.

Although the D&A Policy only goes by a positive or negative result, and does not get into an analysis of the quantity of marijuana metabolite from the initial test versus the subsequent test, the City's Risk Manager confirmed that if there was no drug use by Mr. Jenkins after the random screen on July 27, 2017, and the return to work drug test of August 30, 2017, was positive because of residual marijuana metabolite from the prior exposure, then there would be no violation of the second chance agreement. Since the totality of the circumstances supports that the positive return to work screen of August 30, 2017, was the result of residual marijuana, and Mr. Jenkins refrained from drug use, by the City's own admission, Mr. Jenkins would not be in violation of the D&A policy or the second chance agreement.

I CONCLUDE that the appellant's positive return to duty drug test of August 30, 2017, occurred while the appellant was suspended from his work duties. I CONCLUDE that the positive return to work drug screen did not violate the D&A policy and the second chance agreement. I further CONCLUDE that the neither the D&A policy nor the second chance agreement mandated removal of the appellant because of his positive return to work drug screen.

The City certainly has a duty to put the safety of the public of paramount importance and require employees in safety sensitive positions to undergo random drug screens. However, the City also recognizes the rights of their employees and have balanced the importance of safety with the rights and health of their staff, by providing the second chance agreement as an opportunity for rehabilitation, rather than automatic termination.

The appellant is exactly the candidate for a "second chance". He is a long-term employee with no prior discipline issues and is responsible and valuable to the City. Clearly something was amiss for him to test positive for marijuana approximately fourteen years into his employment, without ever having tested positive previously. When given the second chance opportunity, he immediately agreed to comply with the conditions of the agreement to be reinstated to work. He immediately began the EAP recommended program. He did everything he was advised to do by the EAP representative. He did not hesitate in attending the lectures, and submitting himself to independent urine screens through his primary care doctor to ensure he would have a clean urine screen. He took on these tasks within one month from when he signed the second chance agreement. He reasonably interpreted the second chance agreement in a logical manner consistent with the language of the D&A policy and the language of the agreement. This is a man who wanted to get himself rehabilitated and get back to work as soon as possible.

I CONCLUDE that the positive return to work test of August 30, 2017, did not violate the City's D&A Policy and the second chance agreement. I CONCLUDE that the D&A policy and the second chance agreement do not mandate that removal will occur if there is a positive return to work test. I CONCLUDE that the appellant would still be in suspended without pay status, subject to the terms of the second chance agreement, before he can be returned to active duty. Therefore, I CONCLUDE the City has not sustained its burden by a preponderance of the evidence that removal of the appellant is warranted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient causes.

DECISION AND ORDER

I ORDER that the City's decision to remove the appellant is REVERSED. I further ORDER that the appellant shall be reinstated to suspended without pay status.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BEFORE TAMA B. HUGHES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Joseph Maglione ("Maglione" or "appellant") a lieutenant with the Ewing Township Police Department ("respondent" or "Department") appeals the Department's decision to remove him from employment.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 14, 2017, a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), was issued seeking appellant's removal based on the following violation of Departmental Rules and Regulations (DR&R), specifically, Sections: 3.1.1(a) (Police Officers Shall: Take Appropriate Action To Protect Life And Property); 3.1.3 (Police Officers Shall: Abide By All Rules, Regulations And Department Procedures And Directives Governing Police Officer Employees); 3.1.5 (Police Officers Shall: Coordinate Efforts With Other Employees Of The Department To Achieve Department Objectives); 3.1.10 (Police Officers Shall: Perform All Related Work As Required); 3.2.1 (Supervisors In The Department Shall: Enforce Department Rules And Insure Compliance With Department Policies and Procedures); 3.2.3 (Supervisors In The Department Shall: Exercise Necessary Control Over Their Subordinates To Accomplish The Objectives Of The Department); 3.2.4 (Supervisors In The Department Shall: Guide And Train Subordinates To Gain Effectiveness In Performing Their Duties); 4.1.1 (General Conduct - Performance Of Duty); 4.1.5 (General Conduct - Truthfulness); and 4.12.6 (Judicial Appearance And Testimony - Truthfulness)

On August 23, 2017, and September 3, 2017, a Department hearing was held. On October 18, 2017, all charges against appellant were sustained and incorporated into a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA). (R-146.) The proposed penalty was removal from employment.

Appellant appealed his removal to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was perfected on November 2, 2017. Prior to the hearing, appellant partially waived the 180-day rule, granting a 90-day waiver. The hearing in this matter commenced on January 26, 2018, and continued thereafter on January 31, 2018, February 1, 2018, February 12, 2018, and February 21, 2018. Upon receipt of the parties' summation briefs, the record closed on March 9, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Nicholas A. Muscente (Muscente), a detective with the Ewing Township Police Department, testified that he has been with the Department for the past fifteen years and in the Internal Affairs Department (IAD) since 2015. On May 31, 2017, he was formally assigned to handle an internal investigation (Investigation) regarding an incident that occurred on May 20–21, 2017, involving a high-risk missing child and how Maglione, as the supervisor on duty, handled the investigation. As part of the investigation, Muscente pulled and reviewed several reports, including telephone records and tapes (audio and video), and conducted interviews. Muscente's findings were placed in an Administrative Investigation Report. (R-12.)

According to Muscente, there are Departmental "General Orders" or Guidelines in place for the investigation and handling of a missing-person case, as well as Attorney General (AG) directives. (R-13; R-17.) Each officer is required to read and initial receipt of General Orders and AG directives. (R-14; R-18.) Protocol for investigating a "high-risk" missing person requires the responding officers and/or supervisor to, among other things:

- Search the house completely—inside and out, including basement and attic areas;
- Treat the place last seen (PLS) as a crime scene;
- Set up a command post;
- Notify the appropriate supervisors in the chain of command;
- Contact the "on-call detective";
- Notify the Child Abduction Response Team (CART) in accordance with the Attorney General Guidelines;

- Contact the K-9 unit.

Procedures for setting up a command post are typically kept in a binder in the supervisor's vehicle or can be accessed on the patrol-car computer. Additionally, General Orders and AG Guidelines can also be accessed back at the station.

Muscente testified that one of the first reports that he reviewed as part of his investigation was the investigative report (IR) prepared by Officer Paul Dorio (Dorio), dated May 21, 2017. (R-1.) According to the IR, on May 20, 2017, at 11:53 p.m., Dorio was detailed to the residence of a missing juvenile (J.D.). Upon arrival, Dorio met with J.D.'s father (J.B.) and stepmother (L.S.), who informed him that J.D. was last seen earlier that day around 3:00 p.m. and had not been seen since. The report further stated that "a search of the residence and surrounding area proved negative" and that a side window had been left open, indicating that J.D. had left through the window. The IR was approved by Maglione. In looking at the report history, prior to approving the report, it was "modified" by Maglione four times. (R-21.) Muscente stated that when a report is "modified" it means that something has been changed in the report.

Dorio's body-camera footage (footage) was also reviewed as part of the Investigation. (R-87.) According to Muscente, the footage, which included audio, picked up the voices of Dorio, Maglione, J.B., and L.S. Review found that neither Dorio nor Maglione conducted a search of the house; they did not request permission from the parents to conduct a search; and they did not have any discussion between themselves regarding a search of the residence. Additionally, while there was a seventeen-year-old sibling asleep upstairs, he was not interviewed at the time.

Muscente went on to state that there was no request by Maglione to Dorio to search the surrounding area at that time; no command center was set up; no K-9 unit was called in even though one was available; the on-call detective was never notified; and no additional backup was called in to assist in the search, even though resources were available.

Also reviewed were the taped calls that were made on May 20 – 21, 2017, pertaining to the missing juvenile. (R-86.) The first call was the 911 call by L.S. reporting that J.D. was missing. The second call was from Dorio to the New Jersey State Police, Regional Operations Intelligence Center (ROIC). The third call was from Dorio to Maglione wherein Maglione instructs Dorio to go back to the residence to speak to J.D.'s brother. The fourth call was from Officer Cabell (Cabell) to Maglione wherein Maglione requested Cabell to accompany Dorio when he returned to J.D.'s residence to speak to the brother. A fifth call was from Dorio to Maglione filling Maglione in on the visit to the residence. The sixth call was from Dorio to Officer Pellegrino, a former juvenile detective, seeking his expertise. Muscente noted that at no time was CART contacted or Dorio or Cabell advised to search the interior of the residence.

As part of his Investigation, Muscente also interviewed a number of witnesses, which included Cabell, Captain David Muller (Muller); Detective Patrick Holt (Holt); Lieutenant Jeffrey Jacobs (Jacobs); Sergeant William Lardieri (Lardieri); J.B.; J.S.; Dorio; and Maglione. All interviews were taped. (R-88.) In synopsizing their interviews, Muscente stated:

> Cabell. Cabell was interviewed twice. During his first interview, Cabell stated that he accompanied Dorio when he (Dorio) returned to J.D.'s residence for the second time. While he was the K-9 officer, no K-9 services were requested by Maglione. Cabell informed Muscente, for this type of missing person, a bloodhound, not his K-9, would have been recommended. Maglione only asked him to accompany Dorio to the residence not to search the interior or exterior of the home. During Cabell's second interview, which occurred after Maglione had been interviewed, Cabell did not recall Maglione asking him to search the house, much less every floor and closet.
> Muller. Muller stated that the first he learned of the incident was on May 21, 2017, from Jacobs, the Day Shift Supervisor. Jacobs learned of the missing juvenile after reading the Line-up (shift report) which gets distributed via email and at roll call for the next shift. (R-22; R-23.) It was not reported to him by Maglione.

Jacobs. Jacobs stated that no information was relayed to him from Maglione during the shift change regarding the missing juvenile. He learned about it from the shift report.

Lardieri. During Lardieri's interview, he knew that the juvenile was still missing however, did not know that anything else needed to be done. If additional actions needed to be taken, there would have been a directive to continue the investigation.

Holt. Holt stated that he was the on-call detective on May 21, 2017, and after reading the shift report, called to see if the juvenile had been located. After learning that the juvenile was still missing, he contacted CART and was informed that they had not been contacted. After activating CART, he reached out to the Ewing schools superintendent for contact information at J.D.'s school. Upon reaching school officials at J.D.'s school, Holt was able to get the names and numbers of J.D.'s friends. Thereafter J.D.'s friends were contacted, resulting in J.D. being located unharmed. Prior to reaching out to school officials, a complete search of J.D.'s residence was performed.

J.B. and J.S., (J.D.'s parents) stated that they would not have objected to their house being searched however, there was no such request. J.S. was familiar with the missing person protocol, due to one of her children having previously gone missing and found hiding in the house after the police searched it.

Dorio. Dorio initially stated that he searched the residence however, this statement changed at the end of the interview with the admission that he had not searched the residence. He did not recall Maglione telling him to search the residence including the exterior, even on his (Dorio's) second visit. According to Dorio, Maglione while present during the initial contact with J.D.'s family, left when Dorio went out to the patrol car to get paperwork. While he thought that he had contacted CART and told Maglione the same, in actuality he contacted ROIC not CART. Dorio could not recall what changes were made to his IR by Maglione.

Maglione. Rather than synopsizing Maglione's interview, the taped interview was played, which revealed in relevant part:

Maglione stating that he and Dorio arrived at J.D.'s residence at the same time. Upon entering the residence, they met with J.B. and J.S., in the foyer area of the home. While Dorio was obtaining information from the parents, he stood nearby and listened. While he could not remember the explicit conversation, he requested Dorio to search the interior of the residence while he went outside to check the exterior. Shortly thereafter, they met on the sidewalk outside of the residence at which point he told Dorio to contact Pellegrino as a resource, which Dorio did. Maglione stated that when Dorio left to meet Pellegrino, he also left to go back to the station. When Dorio arrived back at the station, he entered J.D. into NCIC.

Once back at the station, he met up with Dorio, and given the fact that the initial contact with J.D.'s parents provided no leads other than J.D. liked to play basketball, he instructed Dorio to check the surrounding area, including parks and schools. About an hour later, Dorio and Cabell went back to the residence to speak to J.D.'s brother. Maglione was not sure whether the brother was present at the residence when he and Dorio were initially there. Back at the station, he overheard Dorio talking to Pellegrino about CART activation.

After a short break, wherein Muscente requested Maglione's counsel and Maglione to step out, the interview continued. Maglione stated that J.B. was questioned about his son's possible whereabouts however, no real answers were provided. At some point he went outside while Dorio remained inside. When Dorio came out, he (Maglione) suggested that Dorio contact Pellegrino, given his prior experience as a juvenile detective. After that, he left and went back to the station where he met with Dorio and asked if he (Dorio) had contacted the Detective Unit and CART. Maglione could not remember Dorio's response other than he did speak to a sergeant regarding CART and had K-9 respond. Maglione then had Dorio return to the residence to perform a search.

Maglione stated that he did not have his body camera on or his vest when he responded to J.D.'s residence. Once inside the residence, he stayed in the foyer and did not see the window where J.D. climbed out. He stayed in the foyer until he went outside and searched the exterior of the residence - except for the garage. He did not know whether Dorio searched the house after he went outside. He was also unsure whether the garage was searched.

When questioned again about their arrival at J.D.'s residence, Maglione stated that he and Dorio entered the residence together, but at some point he left Dorio alone inside the residence and he went outside. He could not remember when he told Dorio to search the house, the first or second visit, but he did tell him to search it. Maglione went on to state that he did not search the house—his thought was that Pellegrino would be contacted to assist. Maglione agreed that both he and Dorio should not have left the house and that CART and the on-call detective should have been called.

It was Maglione's impression that the Detective Unit had been called however, he himself did not call them. He could not answer why he left the residence the first time without CART's arrival, although he did instruct Dorio to contact them and he was under the impression that they had been called. While he had Dorio and Cabell go back to J.D.'s residence, he could not answer why a bloodhound had not been called in or why backup officers were not utilized to assist in the search other than it was a busy night and he did not know who was available.

Maglione stated that he advised the incoming sergeant on the next shift about the missing juvenile, but did not give them direction. It was his impression that they would follow up. He did not contact Muller. Maglione first found out that CART had not been contacted when he received a call at home from Holt. He did not realize that the number Dorio called was from a flyer on the station wall for ROIC. (R-24.) While he questioned why CART was not coming in, he did not think to call CART or the on-call detective himself because he thought that they had already been contacted, citing to the fact that Holt was involved. Maglione was unsure whether a "Be On the Look Out" (BOLO) had been sent, the explanation being that it had been a busy night and that was something the officer handles. He was unsure whether anything had been sent to the Attorney General's office.

With regard to Dorio's IR, Maglione stated that he may have made changes to the report. When questioned about the statement "search of the surrounding area proved negative" and "search of the residence proved negative"—he was not sure who wrote it, but he did not believe that he had. He recalled telling Dorio to check the closets, attic and the house. He may also have requested Cabell to search the residence when he went with Dorio. That was the whole reason he sent him (Cabell) and Dorio back—to talk to the brother and search the residence and surrounding area. When asked again whether he told them to search the house, Maglione stated, "I don't know if I told them to search the house...that is what we do." Maglione could not answer why the IR was incomplete or whether he felt the report was adequate.

While Maglione was aware of the Attorney General's Guidelines regarding the handling of a missing person, he could not recall what they stated. (R-17; R-18.) He was not sure why information was left out of his shift report such as who from CART had been contacted; what on-call detective had been notified; and who searched the residence. Maglione acknowledged that it was his responsibility to ensure that the report was complete, that CART had been contacted and that additional assistance was called in—stating, "I'm done, it was my job."

Muscente stated that the interview was stopped one time to allow him (Muscente) to speak to Maglione's counsel regarding his client's inconsistent statements such as searching J.D.'s residence and the instruction to Dorio to search the residence. Other statements Muscente found to be inconsistent included Maglione's comments regarding search of the exterior of the residence; the request that Cabell search the house when he went back with Dorio; and whether Dorio had made the requisite calls. In all, Muscente stated that Maglione lied to him at least three times when questioned on searching the interior of the residence and two times when questioned on searching the exterior.

On cross-examination, Muscente stated that he was verbally assigned to investigate the May 20, 2017, incident on May 31, 2017, at which time he started scanning documents into the IA-Pro, the IA software program. He was aware that Muller had previously been assigned to investigate the matter, but not as an IA investigation—probably to determine if it needed to go to IA. Muscente explained that the IA-Pro is the software program that IAD uses for investigations. The other program that the Department supervisors use is "Blue Team." If documents are scanned in through the Blue Team, it transfers over into the IA-Pro program.

While the system can generate a log which tracks who accesses an IA investigation, Muscente is unfamiliar with the log and could not explain what all of the coding meant. (R-137.) Additionally, even though he may access the IA-Pro to "link" or "add documents," such administrative work does not go into his Investigation reports.

Muscente recollected that the prosecutor's office was contacted on May 31, 2017, by Captain Colanduoni (Colanduoni). He was present during that telephone call. Two weeks later, on June 14, 2017, or June 15, 2017, he was present at a meeting with the Prosecutor's office which lasted approximately two hours. Prior to that however, he was given permission to start his investigation and thereafter, on June 12, 2017, he commenced the investigation reviewing reports, footage, and General Orders, among other things. Over the next few days he conducted witness interviews and went to J.D.'s home to diagram the layout. (R-26.) On June 17, Dorio was interviewed and thereafter, Maglione on June 22, 2017. Dorio and Cabell were re-interviewed on June 27, 2017.

According to Muscente, he drafted the majority of the charges in this matter. When questioned why the charges were brought on July 14, 2017, but the report was dated three days later, July 17, 2017, he explained that the investigation was complete on June 27, 2017, and the report was completed shortly thereafter, however, there was an administrative hold on filing the charges because of ongoing settlement discussions. The report was not signed off until July 17, 2017.

When questioned about Dorio's interview, specifically his questions to Dorio regarding who drafted the search of the interior and exterior of the residence verbiage, Muscente responded that Dorio claimed that it was his verbiage.

With regard to the gap in time between being formally assigned on May 31, 2017, to investigate the May 20, 2017, incident and when he began formal interviews, Muscente testified that he believed that the matter was with the prosecutor's office during that time period. He did not know what action the prosecutor's office took nor did he receive anything from them when the criminal investigation was closed out. He was not familiar with the Attorney General Guidelines regarding cessation of IAD investigations if the matter is being reviewed criminally. (R-128.)

Muscente testified that he has been involved in numerous missing children investigations. After referencing General Order titled, "Handling Missing Persons," he acknowledged that pulling in additional assistance is discretionary on the part of the supervisor, and that command posts are not set up in every instance. (R-13.) He went on to state, however, that while the verbiage in the General Order states the PLS "should" be treated as a crime scene, the word "should" should be interpreted as "shall," given the age of the child. Muscente disagreed that bloodhounds are not required in every situation, especially in high-risk missing persons—if a K-9 is called and nothing is found, then a bloodhound is brought in.

Patrick Holt (Holt), testified that he has been employed by the Department for the past twenty-one years and is currently assigned to the Criminal Investigation Unit. On May 21, 2017, he was the on-call detective for the Department.

According to Holt, on May 21, 2017, when he reviewed the line-up (shift report) from the previous shift, there was a report of a missing eleven-year old. The report noted that the missing child had been entered into the National Criminal Information enter (NCIC) and that a TRAK Message had been sent.[1] Upon reading this, Holt called Jacobs, the Day Shift Supervisor, and questioned whether the child had been found. According to Jacobs, the child had not yet been located and when he (Jacobs) had spoken to Maglione, no additional information was provided other than CART had been contacted. Upon learning this, Holt called the on-call detective from the prior shift and learned that there had been no notification to the Detective Bureau regarding the missing child.

Holt next called the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office CART Team Liaison, Sergeant Gary Wasko (Wasko), to see if they had been notified and learned that there had been no notification. Upon hearing this, Holt called Maglione and questioned him about the status of the juvenile. In response Maglione stated that he had gone to the house; that the child had been entered into NCIC; that a TRAK notification had gone out; and that CART had been notified. Maglione did not know who Dorio had spoken to from CART other than a female. No instruction was given by Maglione as to what needed to be done with regard to the investigation.

According to Holt, based upon what he learned, he went into the station to conduct the investigation into the missing juvenile. As part of his investigation, he went to J.D.'s residence, along with Lardieri and Jacobs to speak to J.D.'s family members. Holt testified that when they arrived at the residence, no other vehicles were there. If CART had been notified, the homicide task force would have been present and the scene would not have been left unattended in case the child comes home. Holt notified Wasko of the situation who indicated that they would be responding immediately to the scene. Holt also reached out to Dorio and questioned who he had spoken to from CART. All Dorio could remember was that he had spoken to a female sergeant but he did not know her name.

[1] According to Holt, the TRAK system is a criminal alert system that is statewide. In the case of a missing child, a picture of the child, physical details of the child and additional identifiers are placed in the TRAK system which disseminates the information statewide. (R-8.)

At that point, Jacobs went back to the station to pull the phone records. In so doing, it was learned that Dorio had called the ROIC and not the CART. This information was relayed to Holt and Wasko. Back at J.D.'s residence, Holt and Lardieri set up a command post. When the CART arrived, they set up in front of the house.

In speaking to J.B., Holt learned that J.D. had not been seen since 3 p.m. the prior day - May 20, 2017. While their son had run away in the past, they had not reported it because he typically came home later in the day. This time was different because he had been gone for so long and had not called. While the location was not set up as a crime scene, a search of both the interior and exterior of the residence was undertaken which proved negative for J.D. Holt testified that at that juncture, the Sheriff's Department was called to activate a bloodhound. Additionally, calls were made to J.D's school to obtain contact information for J.D.'s school friends. Upon receipt of this information, officers spread out to assist in the bloodhound tracking and reaching out to J.D.'s friends. J.D. was subsequently found at one of his friend's houses.

On cross-examination Holt was questioned about his experience with CART. In response, Holt stated that he was involved in one prior case where CART was notified and upon arrival, they (CART) took over the scene. Holt stated that usually the on-call detective is notified of a situation and they in turn, notify CART. It is up to CART to determine if they will respond to the scene.

Holt was also questioned about report procedures as found under General Order "R" (Report Procedures). (R-100.) He testified that road officers are required to get their reports in by the end of the shift, if not then, by the next tour. This rule does not apply in the Detective Bureau, due to the volume of cases however, it is not unusual to finish a report three or four days later. Even then, it may not get reviewed by a supervisor for a couple of days. In this case, his supplemental report regarding the missing juvenile was delayed due to the heavy volume of cases he had at the time. Additionally, it may not have been approved by his supervisor right away. Holt did not recall whether he kept hand-written notes regarding his investigation. If he did, they would have been scanned in and attached to the file.

Holt testified that as part of his responsibilities, he is also assigned to IAD. He is familiar with the policies and procedures of IAD and the IA-Pro system. According to Holt, if he is a witness in a matter, he would not get assigned to investigate it. He could not say one way or the other, whether he could or should access an IAD investigation file if he was a witness in an IAD investigation. Holt was also unable to explain why he accessed the IAD file for Maglione multiple times over the course of the IAD investigation even though he knew he was going to be a witness. (R-137.) Holt noted that documents in the IA-Pro are scanned in as PDF's and cannot be altered.

Holt stated that throughout his investigation on May 21, 2017, he kept his supervisors apprised of the situation which would have included Jacobs, Caldwell and Muller. Holt could not remember if he spoke to Muller or Colanduoni on May 21, 2017, however, recalled a meeting on May 22, 2017, in Stemler's office where Maruca, Muller and Stemler were present.

Michael Pellegrino (Pellegrino), testified that he has been with the Department for twenty-four years and currently holds the position of police officer in the Community Response Unit. Prior to his current assignment, he was in the Detective Bureau—Juvenile Division as a school resource officer.

While on duty on May 20, 2017, he heard the report of a missing child over the radio. At some point during his shift, he received a call from Dorio questioning if he knew the missing child due to his prior involvement in the school system as a Resource Officer. Pellegrino stated that he was not the on-call detective at the time nor was he Dorio's supervisor. Dorio did not ask him to contact anyone regarding the missing juvenile or ask who the current juvenile detective was. According to Pellegrino, the call only lasted a couple of seconds. He saw Dorio back at the station at the end of his shift. Dorio was working on his report and they had limited conversation at that time. There was no discussion regarding CART.

David Muller (Muller), testified that he has been with the Department for the past twenty-one years and a Captain for the past two years. In his current position, he is in charge of, among other things: Patrol; K-9 Unit; vehicle fleet; and traffic services.

Muller stated that on May 21, 2017, he received a call from Jacobs questioning if he was aware of a missing eleven-year-old, of which he was not. Jacobs filled him in on the situation and let him know that the Detective Bureau would be handling the investigation. Jacobs had learned of the missing juvenile by Holt, the May 21, 2017 on-call detective. According to Muller, such late notification on a high-risk juvenile was contrary to policy and procedure as he (Muller) should have been notified sooner as the patrol commander. After speaking to Jacobs, Muller called Stemler to inform him of the situation. Sometime later in the day, Jacobs notified Muller that the child had been located. This information was relayed to Stemler as well.

The following day, May 22, 2017, Muller met with Stemler and after some discussion, Stemler requested that he (Muller) look into whether there were policy and procedural violations such as why the Detective Bureau wasn't contacted; why CART wasn't notified and why he (Muller) wasn't contacted sooner.

Muller testified that as part of his investigation, he reviewed Dorio's IR and footage. In so doing, questions arose regarding the discrepancy in the report versus what was seen on the footage. Specifically the IR stated that the house was searched and CART was activated or notified when the footage revealed that the house was not searched and there was no further action done in the investigation other than taking the initial report. Based upon this, there was concern that the IR was either false or had been changed—the latter being an issue in the past with Maglione. Muller went on to state that supervisors are only allowed to make grammatical but not content changes to reports. (R-100; R-124.) In review of the report log for Dorio's IR, Maglione's name appears multiple times as "modifying" the report. (R-21.)

Based upon these concerns and upon discussion with Stemler, the matter was referred to IAD as it was unclear whether the matter went beyond a policy and procedural error. Muller did not contact the Prosecutor's office and was not involved in any meetings however, he was aware that they had been contacted.

Muller stated that he is familiar with the IA-Pro system that IAD utilizes and as an Administrator, he has access to it and in fact, initiated the investigation in IA-Pro. (R-137.) Once you enter documents into the IA-Pro, his responsibility ended. Other than being interviewed, he was not involved in the Investigation.

On cross-examination, Muller was questioned about his multiple entries into IA-Pro on May 24, 2017. In response, Muller stated that while he's never seen the IA-Pro log before, he made one entry on that date however, if you make changes, it may show as a different entry and add lines to the log. Muller did not recall what changes if any were made. When questioned if Dorio was included in his entry, Muller could not recall—stating that he added Maglione because he was Maglione's immediate supervisor. He was not Dorio's immediate supervisor—there were levels between he and Dorio. While he knew that Dorio had violated the rules as well, his only concern was Maglione, given his twenty-two years of experience with the Department.

In questioning Muller regarding his statement about Maglione altering reports in the past, Muller stated that there were implications in the past of report content being changed by Maglione. While the allegations could not be substantiated, Maglione was verbally counseled on the issue which was appropriate under the General Order on Professional Review and Disciplinary Procedures. (R-124.) It was Muller's concern that was what happened in the missing juvenile investigation. He did not learn until after formal interviews were conducted that Dorio admitted that the verbiage in his IR was his.

William Lardieri (Lardieri), a sergeant with the Department, testified that he has been employed by the Department for the past ten years. Prior to his promotion to sergeant, he was a patrolman. As part of his responsibilities, he handles roll call; overtime; and shift assignments. His supervisor is Lieutenant Jacobs.

On May 21, 2017, he was on duty working the 7:00-a.m.-to-7:00-p.m. shift. During shift change, he spoke to Maglione about what had occurred on the prior shift at which time he learned about the missing eleven-year old. Maglione informed him that he and Dorio had responded to the juvenile's residence; that Dorio had taken a report; searched the house; and that CART had been contacted.

According to Lardieri, based upon his prior dealings with CART, he was under the assumption that CART was handling the investigation. The information conveyed to him by Maglione and the information in the shift report were passed along to the shift during line-up. (R-23.) He did not notify Jacobs as he assumed that he (Jacobs) had received notification through the shift report. It was not until sometime later that he learned from Jacobs that neither CART nor the on-call detective had been contacted. According to Lardieri, it is the responsibility of the sergeant or lieutenant on duty to notify the on-call detective.

On cross-examination, Lardieri stated that each shift typically has two supervisors working—a sergeant and a lieutenant. If one supervisor is off, which is not unusual, the other supervisor takes on the missing supervisor's responsibilities. Regardless of whether there is one or two supervisors on duty, at all times departmental policies are to be followed. It is the responsibility of the supervisors to contact the on-call detective if an incident occurs, regardless if you are down a supervisor.

Lardieri testified that other than questioning if the juvenile had been located, he did not ask Maglione any additional information regarding the investigation. In discussing the shift report, Lardieri stated that supervisors put what they believe to be pertinent information in their shift report so that the next shift knows what to expect or what happened on the previous shift.

Jeff Jacobs (Jacobs) testified that he has been employed by the Department for the past seventeen years and a lieutenant for the past eighteen months. Currently, he is in the Professional Standards Bureau however, in May 2017, he oversaw a platoon. On May 21, 2017, he was working the 7-a.m.-to-7-p.m. shift. His responsibilities at the time included oversight of his platoon and patrol sergeant, review reports, cell checks, and review service calls.

Jacobs stated that prior to coming on shift, he read the shift report that had gone out via email. (R-22.) When he came on duty, other than saying good night to Maglione, he did not speak to him regarding the missing juvenile. According to Jacobs, as long as a supervisor is notified on the next shift of the situation, then that suffices. In this case, it appeared that Maglione had updated Lardieri. Jacobs heard Lardieri, during his morning briefing to the platoon, re-read the shift report and tell the platoon that CART had been notified – even though it was not in the shift report. As such, it was his belief that CART was handling the investigation. After receiving a call from Holt, who asked about the status of the investigation into the missing juvenile, he learned that the on-call detective had never been notified.

In looking at the IR, it stated that CART was notified but did not identify who was contacted from that agency. This information was relayed to Holt who thereafter, reached out to CART directly. Around noon, Holt called back and informed him that CART had not been notified. Upon learning this, Jacobs notified his supervisor—Muller. Thereafter, he went to J.D.'s residence to assist in the search of the outside area. Upon arrival, other officers were present, including Lardieri. When CART arrived, he left to assist with the bloodhound search. He later learned that the child was located.

Jacobs testified that he has been involved in numerous missing juvenile investigations in the capacity of a supervisor and a detective. As a supervisor, he made sure that a supervisor went to the scene—even if it was a sergeant. He also made sure that CART and the on-call detective were notified. If he was the supervisor, he would get involved in the search of the residence as one is required. Depending on the type of case, he may or may not leave the scene however, someone should stay if possible. Once the on-call detective is notified, it becomes their case and they determine how to investigate the matter. If deemed beneficial and if available, K-9 would be called in. For the duration of the investigation, Jacobs stated that he would stay in touch with the detectives and CART to get updates and would most likely have officers involved in the search until CART indicates that their assistance was no longer needed.

On cross-examination, Jacobs stated that when he spoke to Dorio that evening, Dorio did not seem surprised when he informed him that CART had not been contacted. Dorio informed him that the number came from a flyer on the bulletin board in the charge room and he believed at the time that it was the correct number. Jacobs never mentioned anything to Maglione.

When asked if his responsibilities increase when he works without a supervisor, Jacobs responded by stating "yes—obviously, you have one less supervisor so you can't split responsibilities—you handle both the sergeant and lieutenant's job." Jacobs went on to state that while the situation changes every night, the sergeant is the first line supervisor for the officers and conducts roll call; assigns zones and reads the shift report among other things; the lieutenant handles the in-house responsibilities. If both are working on the shift, the lieutenant has the discretion to go out on the road depending on the workload.

When questioned about his shift report for May 21, 2017, Jacobs stated that he only places noteworthy events on his shift report. (R-23.) On May 21, 2017, only one incident was listed as that was the only noteworthy event. With regard to investigations into missing persons, Jacobs acknowledged that the PLS is not always treated as a crime scene and a command post is not always set up—that is in the discretion of the detective or supervisor and on a case-by-case basis. Additionally, while a supervisor does not have to participate in searching the PLS, the PLS must get searched.

Larry Wayne Cabell (Cabell), testified that he has been with the Department since 2002 and currently he holds the rank of sergeant. In May 2017, he was a patrol officer assigned to the K-9 unit.

On May 20, 2017, Cabell heard a call go out regarding a missing eleven year old boy. Sometime thereafter, while on patrol, he received a call from Maglione who asked if he could accompany Dorio to J.D.'s residence so that Dorio, who had less than three years of service at that time, was not by himself. Maglione did not ask him to search the residence nor was he asked to bring in the K-9.

Upon arrival at the residence, there were no other officers present. After knocking several times on the door with no answer, they had dispatch call the residence to see if anyone was home at which time J.B. answered the door. In speaking to J.B., they learned that J.D.'s brother was not home however, they were able to contact him by phone. While waiting to talk to him, Cabell wandered around the entrance hall area. Neither he or Dorio searched the residence. It was Cabell's assumption that the house had already been searched. When he and Dorio walked out, he briefly looked around outside. He thought it strange that the family was not out looking for the missing juvenile.

Cabell stated that at the end of his shift, he mentioned to Maglione that he thought it was odd that the family did not answer the door; the door was locked so even if J.D. came home he couldn't get in; and he didn't see any photos of J.D. even though there were pictures of the other kids. Cabell could not recall what Maglione's response was.

According to Cabell, as an Officer, he has been involved in the search of high-risk missing persons. Cabell stated unlike his dog that can track scents for up to forty-five minutes, bloodhounds are more effective as they can sense the odor of the missing person.

On cross-examination, Cabell recalled that there was an auto accident during his shift however, it was subsequent to his visit to J.D.'s residence. The accident was a DWI which occurred on a major artery in the township with the call coming in about three hours after the call for the missing juvenile. (R-135.) The vehicle hit a fire hydrant, light pole and traffic signal which caused every officer in the platoon to respond. The driver was transported to the station after being apprehended. According to Cabell, when a suspect is transported to the station, it is ideal to have a supervisor present. The accident was cleared up by the time his shift was done.

Rocco Maruca, Jr. (Maruca), testified that he has been with the Department for over twenty-two years and a Captain since October 2014. Among his responsibilities is the oversight of the IAD. Maruca first learned about a missing juvenile on May 22, 2017, when he received a text from Stemler informing him that there was a missing eleven-year old and that the investigation had not been handled properly by Maglione. He also learned that CART had not been notified. When he arrived at work the next day, Stemler brought him up to speed on the investigation and informed him that the matter had been assigned to Muller, Maglione's direct supervisor, to gather additional information.

Sometime between May 22nd and May 31st, he learned that Muller wanted the matter referred to IAD due to the inconsistencies in Dorio's IR and the footage. This inconsistency raised a concern that there may be a criminal aspect in the matter if a false report had been filed. Because of the criminal nature of the matter, it was referred to IAD.

On May 31, 2017, a meeting was convened with Colanduoni, the lieutenant in IAD and Muscente. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the investigation that was being turned over to IAD and to contact the First Assistant Prosecutor, Doris Galuchie (Galuchie) with the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office to discuss the possible criminal activity. The concerns raised with Galuchie were the fact that the report stated that the residence had been searched when it was not; questions as to whether Dorio was ordered by Maglione to put the verbiage in the report to cover their tracks; or did Maglione himself change Dorio's report. According to Maruca, the matter had to be fully investigated before action, if any, was taken against Dorio and/or Maglione.

After speaking to Galuchie, it was decided that the IAD would proceed with the investigation; interview witnesses; collect evidence; and do everything needed to be done before the targets (Dorio and Maglione) were interviewed. At that point, the Prosecutor's Office would be contacted and they would discuss how to proceed from there.

According to Maruca, Muscente took the lead on the investigation however, he remained in constant contact with him. The Prosecutor's Office was also contacted during Investigation seeking their input on whether certain interviews should be taped. Around mid-June 2017, when the preliminary investigation was complete, the Prosecutor's Office was again contacted to determine how to proceed with the interviews of Dorio and Maglione. Thereafter, on June 15, 2017, a meeting was convened with Galucci to discuss how to proceed with the investigation and target interviews. At that time, it was decided that Dorio would be interviewed first.

On June 17, 2017, Dorio was interviewed. On June 20, 2017, they met with Galucci and went through Dorio's interview. After some discussion, it was decided that the criminal investigation would be closed out and the matter would proceed administratively. Additionally, Dorio was given use immunity.

On June 22, 2017, Maglione was interviewed. Sometime after Maglione's interview, there was some settlement discussions in lieu of charging however, the discussions ended and the Department moved forward with the administrative charges which were drafted by Muscente and reviewed by him. The disciplinary charges were served on Maglione on July 14, 2017 and included ten charges of alleged misconduct. Maruca stated that he signed the disciplinary charges in the capacity of Acting Chief as Stemler was away. (R-63.)

On cross-examination, Maruca stated that he first learned of a missing child on May 22, 2017, when Stemler texted him about the investigation and its mishandling by Dorio and Maglione. When he went into the office later that day, he spoke with Stemler about the incident and was informed that Muller was going to be following up on the matter. Muller is not in IAD. Maruca went on to state that when an investigation is opened in the IAD, it is logged into the IA-pro system through either an IA officer or a supervisor through Blue-Team.

Maruca stated that the prosecutor's office was contacted on May 31, 2017, and informed that there may have been criminal activity surrounding the investigation of a missing juvenile. The call was made by Colanduoni in his presence along with Muscente. Maruca could not recall whether the call was on speaker phone or not.

When questioned about Dorio's interview and whether he (Dorio) lied during the interview, Maruca stated that he could not recall and would have to review the taped interview. Maruca did state however, that he spoke to Muscente after the interview and it was Muscente's opinion that Dorio had lied.

Maruca testified that Dorio was administratively charged with a recommended disciplinary action of removal. (R-79.) While some of the charges levied against Maglione were similar to Dorio's, additional charges were levied against Maglione as a supervisor. When Dorio transferred to the MCSD, the administrative charges were dismissed. He closed the administrative charges out in the IA-pro system because Dorio was no longer with the Department. Maruca does not know who made the decision to dismiss the charges. He was not involved in Dorio's transfer.

The investigator's involved in the IAD investigation were Muscente and Colanduoni. Holt was an IA investigator in the IAD in May 2017, however, was not involved in the investigation as he was involved in the initial investigation regarding the missing juvenile and therefore a witness in the IAD investigation. Maruca stated that to maintain the integrity of an investigation, individuals who are witnesses in an IAD investigation should not access the IA-Pro. He went on to state that there are both word documents and PDF documents in the IA-Pro system. You cannot create a report in the IA-Pro however, you can change certain documents. Maruca was unaware that Holt had repeatedly accessed the IAD file on Maglione. (R-137.)

With regard to the notification to the Prosecutor's Office, Maruca testified that typically initial notifications are done by phone and in some instances, followed up with a written form that provides information on the matter. In this instance, no written form was sent. When the Prosecutor's Office closed out the criminal matter, nothing was sent to the Department confirming that fact. Maruca acknowledged that he read Muscente's report before it was finalized and confirmed that there was no reference to the telephone conversation with the Prosecutor's Office on May 31, 2017.

John Stemler (Stemler) testified that he has been with the Department for twenty-four years and has been the chief for the past three. He became aware that there was a missing juvenile when he read the line-up post online. The line-up post stated that there was a missing juvenile and that there was an investigation. At some point he was contacted by Muller, Maglione's direct supervisor, who explained that the juvenile had been found after Holt came into work to handle the investigation. He was also informed that there were issues with the underlying investigation, among them being no notification to CART.

When he went into work the next day, May 22, 2017, he spoke with Muller who advised that while CART was notified, the notification did not occur until many hours after the report came in. This was contrary to the Attorney General Directive and would have to be reported to the Prosecutor's Office. Once notified, CART immediately came out and shortly thereafter, the juvenile was located. After the juvenile was located, he and Muller started looking at what happened with the investigation, specifically, reviewing the IR, footage and phone logs.

In review of the footage, Dorio and Maglione were observed responding to the juvenile's residence and interviewing his parents. Upon gathering the necessary information, Dorio and Maglione left the residence and went to Dorio's car where they briefly conversed. During this conversation, Maglione told Dorio to contact Pellegrino to see if he had any information. Maglione left after this to go back to the station. There was no search of the residence – inside or out.

Also reviewed were the phone logs. From the logs, it appeared that: Dorio contacted the ROIC not CART; Maglione called Dorio and told him to go back to the residence to speak to the juvenile's brother; and Maglione contacted Cabell and told him to go to the residence with Dorio so that he was not by himself, and to check around outside, "real quick" to see if the juvenile was spotted.

After review of the information, Stemler told Muller to look further into the matter to determine why certain protocols were not followed. At some point, it was brought to his attention that there was a possibility of a false report filed by either Maglione or Dorio. Given the fact that there may be a criminal element involved, the matter was referred over to the IAD in accordance with the Attorney General guidelines. No charges were brought at that time as the investigation was not complete.

After IAD conducted their investigation, it was determined that Maglione and Dorio did not follow DR&R or the AG guidelines and that both appeared to be untruthful during their statements.

Stemler went on to state that IAD contacted the county Prosecutor's Office. He was only involved in one of the meetings which was in July 2017. The purpose of that meeting was to discuss Dorio's statement and the fact he was untruthful during his interview. Due to his untruthfulness, Dorio would be subject to a "Brady" disclosure and the Department would not be able to have Dorio testify in court and his reports would be called into question. Given that, Dorio would have to be terminated.

According to Stemler, at some point, he was informed by Maruca that the County Prosecutor had closed out their criminal investigation however, IAD's investigation continued. At the conclusion of the IAD's investigation, it was determined that Maglione had been untruthful in his statement regarding the search of the residence and the actions that he took or allegedly ordered to be taken. With his (Stemler's) approval, charges were prepared and signed off by Maruca in his absence.

The decision to suspend Maglione without pay was done in July 2017, to maintain the safe and smooth operation of the Department. Due to the issue of untruthfulness and how the investigation was handled, there was also concern about Maglione's ability to lead a platoon. Termination was recommended because they had an officer who lied during an internal affairs investigation and now, was subject to a "Brady" disclosure. It was questionable whether he could even sign off on any reports because that too, would have to be disclosed. Additionally, he did not want a precedence set that it was acceptable to lie during an IAD investigation. Last, there were concerns about how Maglione would be perceived by the officers and their faith in his leadership. This was due to Maglione having lied when he claimed to have told the officers to search the house - inferring that they (the officers) did not follow direction when it was clear that no direction was ever given. Stemler went on to state that to keep Maglione on the job, the integrity of the entire police department would be in jeopardy. Therefore, termination was appropriate.

On cross-examination, Stemler stated that as of May 22, 2017, he was aware that Dorio's report conflicted with the footage; that CART had not been notified; that the residence had not been searched; and that the on-call detective had never been notified.

Stemler went on to state that he assigned Muller to look in to what happened with the investigation and that Muller opened the file in the IA-Pro system—not the Blue Team. According to Stemler, regardless of which system the investigation was opened in (IA-Pro or Blue Team), the file would have been merged into the IAD's investigative report in IA-Pro.

According to Stemler, discipline begins and ends with him. He is the only one in the Department who determines what type of discipline is levied against an officer. In this case, he authorized the charges filed against Maglione. With regard to Dorio, the charges were dismissed when he (Dorio) transferred out of the Department pursuant to a settlement agreement. Stemler acknowledged that one of the stipulations in the settlement agreement was the requirement that Dorio testify at Maglione hearing.

When questioned about his meeting with the Prosecutor's Office, Stemler revised his earlier testimony that he met with the Prosecutor's Office in July 2017, stating that the meeting was actually held in June 2017, when the criminal investigation was closed in this matter. (P-1.)

Stemler was also questioned about Holt's access to Maglione's investigative file in the IA-Pro system and whether that was a violation of the Departmental policies given the fact that Holt was a witness. In response, he stated that he could not respond without first seeing why Holt accessed the IAD report.

Paul Dorio (Dorio)[2] testified that he is currently a sheriff's officer with the Mercer County Sheriff's Department (MCSD) and has been employed in that capacity for the past four to five months. Prior to joining the MCSD, he was a police officer for three years with the Department.

While on duty on May 20, 2017, he was dispatched to the residence of a missing juvenile where he met up with Maglione. Upon entering the residence, they were met by J.D.'s parents. In speaking to J.D.'s father, he learned that J.D. left through the window of the house. The parents did not know who J.D.'s friends were or where he could be. No search of the residence, interior or exterior, was performed by either himself or Maglione, nor did Maglione instruct him to do so on this visit or when he went back later in the day. The parents were not asked for permission to search the house.

When he and Maglione exited the residence, Maglione told him to contact Pellegrino as he may be familiar with J.D. He also told Dorio to contact the Prosecutor's Office, but did not specifically identify CART. When Dorio went back into the residence to obtain additional information from the parents, Maglione left to go to the station. (R-2.) Dorio did not see if he left right away.

Dorio reached out to Pellegrino who informed him that he was unfamiliar with J.D. Dorio also reached out to what he believed to be the Prosecutor's Office for CART, however it was ROIC.

After leaving the residence, he went back to the station and started drafting the IR and entered J.D. into NCIC. (R-1.) Dorio testified that the final draft of his IR was not the same as the first draft. He could not remember all the changes made to the IR however, the IR went back and forth between Maglione and him several times. Dorio did not recall informing Maglione that he had searched the residence and admitted that he did not fully or completely search it.

[2] Prior to Dorio's testimony, appellant made an application to introduce the Fitness for Duty Evaluation of Dorio on the basis that: 1) respondent examined it and considered it in making a decision to charge appellant; 2) the information may further support appellant's defense and may contain admissions by Dorio; and 3) the probative value outweighs any potential prejudice. The application was denied on the basis that the information sought was for a person who was not a party to the litigation; was not himself charged and was not information that was reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

Additionally, once back at the station and after speaking to Sergeant Estevez (Estevez) who he believed to be with the CART, he filled Maglione in on the conversation. That is when Maglione told him to go back to the residence a second time to speak to J.D.'s brother. Additionally, he was also told to search the exterior of the house and surrounding neighborhood to see if J.D.'s bike was there. Cabell met him at the residence as back-up. Prior to entering the residence, they looked around the exterior of the residence. While Cabell's K-9 was in the patrol vehicle, it was not used.

Upon entering the residence and while waiting to speak to J.D.'s brother, he looked around but did not search the first floor to see if there were any clues. In speaking to the brother via phone, no additional information was obtained. After leaving the residence, he drove around the neighborhood looking for J.D.'s bike. It was around this time that a call came in regarding a car hitting a telephone poll to which he responded.

According to Dorio, the only calls that Maglione asked him to make in reference to the missing juvenile were the calls to Pellegrino and the Prosecutor's Office. At no time did Maglione ask him to contact the on-call detective. Additionally, at no time did Maglione ask him to search the interior of the residence, including the basement or attic or the exterior of the residence.

Dorio stated that when he arrived home from his shift, he received a call from Holt who questioned whom he had spoken to from CART. Dorio relayed his conversation with Estevez to Holt.

On cross-examination, Dorio stated that he was interviewed by IAD two times and was truthful during both interviews. When questioned if he told Muscente that he had searched the residence, he responded by stating that he looked around the first floor. When questioned if he told Muscente that he searched the home outside the presence of Maglione, he stated, "I might have."

When questioned about contacting CART, Dorio stated he did not know what CART was however, acknowledged that Maglione did tell him to contact the Prosecutor's Office. He could not remember if Maglione specifically mentioned contacting CART. He then stated that maybe it was Pellegrino who told him to contact CART when he saw him back at the station. He could not remember the specifics of that conversation; however, he did recall asking Pellegrino for CART's telephone number and Pellegrino referring him to the "on-call book."

The "on-call book" contains various agency contact numbers which includes CART's telephone number. When he went to dispatch to find the "on-call book" he noted that the contact information was outdated. In questioning dispatch for the CART's telephone number, he was directed to a flyer on the wall which he later learned was for ROIC. (R-24.)

With regard to his IR, Dorio testified that he completed it after his second visit to J.D.'s residence and after he responded to the auto-accident. When questioned about the wording in his IR and his interview with IAD wherein he claimed the wording was his, Dorio stated that he told IAD that the wording in the IR "could be" his. He went on to state that he could not remember what wording was specifically his at this time, but at the time he was interviewed by IAD, he was truthful.

Regarding the disciplinary charges levied against him, Dorio stated that he was charged and suspended. Subsequently, he entered into a separation agreement however, prior to entering into the separation agreement, he transferred over to the MCSD.

Dorio's videotaped statement with IA was played during his cross-examination. In relevant part, the videotaped interview revealed:

> On May 20, 2017, Dorio was dispatched to the residence of a missing eleven-year old (J.D.) where he met Maglione. In speaking with J.D.'s father, they learned that J.D. had not come home that night after leaving the residence through the living room window. According to the father, this has happened before with J.D. leaving to play basketball and not telling anyone where he was going. J.D.'s father did not know any of J.D.'s friends. After speaking to J.D.'s parents, he and Maglione went outside to get paperwork however, Maglione left when he went back inside. Upon going back inside, he searched the residence. Dorio went on to state that he searched the neighborhood and later went back to the residence a second time to speak to J.D.'s brother. Cabell was present on the second visit to the residence, at which time the residence was again searched.
> Later, back at the station, he spoke to Pellegrino who told him to call CART. He found the number for CART off a flyer on the wall. When he called, a female sergeant informed him that they could not assist him unless the Department needed a helicopter or a dog. After he got off the phone, he told Maglione about his conversation with the sergeant. Maglione told him to go back to the residence to speak to the brother and search the neighborhood for the juvenile's bike. When questioned why the brother wasn't interviewed the first time he and Maglione were at the residence, Dorio stated that the father informed them that the brother wouldn't know anything. While he was out looking for the bike, a call went out over the airways regarding an auto accident to which he responded.
> Muscente questioned Dorio a couple of times about whether he searched the residence during his first visit. Dorio changed his statement a couple of times, first admitting that he did not search the residence and again when he stated that he did not "fully and completely" search the residence. When questioned if he searched the exterior of the residence including the garage on his first visit, he admitted that he had not. When questioned if Maglione gave him any instructions prior to him leaving, he stated that Maglione told him to call Pellegrino. Maglione did not tell him to call CART or the on-call detective. He also did not tell him to search the interior of the residence.

When he went back to the residence the second time, Dorio stated that he and Cabell searched the exterior of the residence. When he went inside, he looked around the downstairs, walking into the rooms, but did not go upstairs. This statement later changed wherein he stated that he only looked in some of the rooms downstairs. When questioned about the kitchen which was one of the rooms he claimed to have looked in, he could not describe it, explaining that he did not turn on the lights and only used his flashlight. When he left the residence, he called Maglione who told him to look around the neighborhood for the juvenile's bike. No other directives were given.

In questioning who drafted the IR, Dorio stated that for the most part, the words were his however, Maglione may have changed a word or two. When questioned who drafted the verbiage "search of the house proved negative," Dorio stated that he was pretty sure that he wrote it but could not remember if Maglione told him to, or if Maglione himself added it. He went on to say that he was under the assumption that J.D.'s parents had been looking all day for him and that he (J.D.) was not in the residence. Dorio also pointed out that the wording doesn't specifically say that he (Dorio) searched the house, just that a search proved negative. The second visit to the residence was not in his report because he had finished the report prior to going out to the residence. He didn't believe that there was any additional relevant information to add.

Joseph Maglione (Maglione) testified that he worked for the Department for over twenty-two years, working his way up through the ranks until he was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in May 2016. On May 20, 2017, he worked the 7:00-p.m.-7:00-a.m. shift. Due to the fact there was no sergeant on duty, he had to handle the responsibilities of both sergeant and lieutenant. The sergeant supervises the road officers and is on calls for service – making judgements as to what is needed out on the road. The lieutenant handles the "house" and administrative matters which includes checking everything the sergeant does. Typically, weekends are the busiest time in the Department.

On May 20, 2017, the Department was busy with officers finishing one job and getting dispatched to another. Among the calls on May 20, 2017, was an assault/robbery which resulted in an arrest; a missing juvenile; and a motor vehicle accident which also resulted in an arrest. If an arrest is made in a matter, the lieutenant needs to be present at the station. On the night in question, he was at the station handling the complaint paperwork for the individual involved in the assault/robbery when a call came in at 11:53 p.m. for a missing juvenile.

He responded to the juvenile's residence where he met Dorio, both arriving at the same time. They had a short discussion prior to going into the residence wherein he told Dorio to search the house; call Pellegrino and to call CART as that was protocol for a missing child under the age of fourteen.

Upon entering the residence, Dorio spoke to J.B. and walked around the first floor. He stayed in the entrance area, not searching the interior of the residence as he was only there to supervise Dorio. It was Dorio's responsibility to search the residence and area to make sure the child was not there and to get the necessary information from the parents to prepare a report. There were protocols that are in place that needed to be followed. According to Maglione, they were there for at least twenty minutes.

Maglione went on to state that there came a point when he left the inside of the residence. Once outside, he spoke to Dorio where he reiterated to him that he needed to call Pellegrino, due to his experience as a juvenile detective and school resource officer, as well as to call the Prosecutor's Office. After speaking to Dorio who went back inside the residence, he looked around the outside and at cars near the house. He also walked the block looking for anything unusual or relevant before he went back to the station. No crime scene was established because in his judgment and based upon what J.B. stated, no crime had occurred.

Dorio arrived back at the station about a half hour later and informed him that he was going to make calls; enter J.D. into NCIC; prepare a TRAK message; and prepare his IR. A little while later, he overheard Dorio discussing CART with Pellegrino. Sometime thereafter, he went into the line-up room to ask Dorio about the case specifically asking if he had spoken to the brother. When he learned that he had not, he had Dorio to go back to the residence to speak to the brother and make sure that J.D. was not there. He also told him to check the area parks and schools. Additionally, he also had Cabell to go to the residence to assist Dorio. No other officers were ordered to assist at that time as he was not sure of their availability and thereafter, everyone was occupied with the auto accident.

Maglione testified that all the officers, including himself, responded to the accident which had occurred at 2:45 a.m., due to the location and gravity of the accident which resulted in road closures. The accident scene was not cleared up until noon the following day due to the utility repair work that was required before the road could be opened. When he returned from the accident scene prior to the end of his shift, he prepared the shift report. He also spoke to the day shift sergeant (Laurdieri) and informed him about the prior night's incidents.

The first he learned that Dorio had not contacted CART was on June 9, 2017. When he was interviewed by Muscente, a month after the incident, he was trying to be truthful. He did not review the footage or listen to the recorded calls prior to his interview. Maglione went on to state that Dorio told him that he had called CART and spoken to a female sergeant, who questioned if aviation or a K-9 were required. He could not recall whether Dorio informed him that he had called the on-call detective. With regard to the IR, he stated that he probably did edit it, recalling that Dorio had the juvenile's name reversed and the wrong age of the child. Additionally, some of the grammar had to be corrected. At no time did he add, "search of the residence" or "search of the surrounding area proved negative" nor did he add "CART unit was contacted".

Maglione admitted that when he responded to the residence, he did not have his body armor or vest on, explaining that he was working at his desk when the call came in and he responded immediately without putting it on. He acknowledged that things could have been done better however, at no time did he have any malice or ill intent. He went on to state that over the twenty-two years that he has been with the Department, he has received numerous awards, commendations and medals, many of them for saving lives and for exceptional service. (R-40; P-3.)

On cross-examination, Maglione was questioned about Dorio's report log and the number of times he modified the IR. Maglione could not recall what specific modifications were made to the IR or when. When questioned about the verbiage "search of the residence" and whether that was in the IR when it was sent to him, Maglione could not recall. Maglione went on to state that he was in the residence with Dorio half of the time and outside of the residence the other half. The residence was not searched in his presence and he did not know if Dorio searched it when he went back however, it was in his (Dorio's) report and he relied upon that.

Maglione was also questioned why he did not search the residence given the fact that it was a high-risk missing child. Maglione responded by stating that in his judgment, the situation did not call for it, adding that Dorio was sent back to make sure the child had not returned. He also reiterated that he told Dorio to search the residence upon arrival, prior to going inside. When Dorio was inside, he was outside. It was his belief that was when Dorio searched the residence. While ideally, if he had had the time, he would have wanted to make sure that the house had been searched. He made a judgement call based on his experience and the father's comments that he expected his son to return home.

Maglione stated that he has never been involved in a high-risk missing child investigation. He did not ask any other officer or supervisor to assist him in the matter but in his judgment, there was no indication that the residence was a crime scene. Additionally, Dorio was given instruction and direction and it was his belief that Dorio could handle it. He did not verify that Dorio called CART commenting that he wasn't sure what he would have verified. Other than receiving the General Order, he has never received any training on CART. While he never had any dealings with CART, in his experience with the Department, detectives either respond immediately or in the morning and they may not contact him. He called the on-call detective when he got home after his shift. Muller was notified through his shift report and the TRAK message.

When questioned again about searching the house, Maglione stated that he spoke to Dorio about the case at the station and asked him then if he searched the residence. This statement subsequently changed with Maglione stating that he saw that the residence had been searched when he read Dorio's IR. The statement was later modified wherein, he stated that he told Dorio in the Line-up room to search the interior of the residence, including the basement when he went back for the second visit. When Dorio went back to the residence to speak to the brother, he sent Cabell to assist. While Cabell was not asked to use the K-9, it was Maglione's position that Cabell should know.

Upon speaking to Cabell when he returned to the station, Cabell stated that when he went through the residence, he did not see any photos of J.D. While he did not specifically ask Cabell if he searched the residence, it was his belief, based upon those comments, that he had.

In questioning Maglione on the importance of protocols, he stated that he is familiar with what he signed for. He agreed that the protocols do not say to call a former juvenile detective, and that the protocols may require that the on-call detective be notified. It was his belief that Dorio had contacted the on-call detective even though admittedly it was his responsibility to confirm it. Maglione went on to state that he did the best he could with what he had to work with, there was no sergeant on duty that night, which happens occasionally and it was a busy night. He likened it to triage—there were life-safety issues that he was trying to deal with and mitigate. In this case, he did not want anything to happen to the prisoner or anyone to burn in the accident and he would have loved to have found the child and return him home.

When questioned about his shift report, Maglione stated that there were four main incidents that occurred that evening: a shoplifting; a warrant arrest; a missing juvenile; and a DWI auto accident. The call for the missing juvenile came in at 11:53 p.m. and two hours later, at 2:45 a.m., the call for the DWI came in. (R-22.) There were no calls in between the two incidents. He did not get assistance from any other officers because he did not ask or know if any were available. He did not call the captain or the on-call detective for their resources either. He relied on Dorio to make the appropriate calls as directed, based upon his (Dorio's) prior work experience. Cabell went with Dorio on the second visit to the residence to assist him, not "hold his hand."

With regard to Dorio's IR and his review of the same, Maglione admitted that the report could have been better and that information was missing such as the second visit to the house; the conversation with the brother; and the search of the residence and area. Despite not having this information, even after reviewing the IR five or six times, he approved it.

FINDINGS OF FACT

When assessing credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness' expression, tone of voice and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transp. Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). Additionally, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

Having considered the testimonial and documentary evidence offered by the parties, I FIND the testimony of all of the witnesses to be credible except for Dorio and Maglione.

With regard to Dorio's testimony, I FIND that parts of his testimony were self-serving in his attempt to contrive an interpretation of the word "search" in the context of his report and justify his actions. I also FIND that he was not truthful in his IAD interview. Despite this finding, I do FIND Dorio's testimony credible that he was never told by Maglione to search the residence—interior or exterior—or that he was given no direction or assistance by Maglione other than to call Pellegrino and the Prosecutor's Office.

I FIND Maglione's testimony incredible with regard to his assertion that he told Dorio to conduct a full search of the residence prior to going inside. I further FIND Maglione's testimony incredible that when he walked out of the residence, he looked around the area and walked the block. I FIND that Maglione did not tell Cabell or Dorio to search the residence, including the attic and basement when they went back to speak to J.D.'s brother.

I FIND that on May 20, 2017, a call came into the Department as it relates to a missing eleven-year-old. I FIND that due to the juvenile's age, he was deemed a "high-risk" missing child under the General Order "T" and AG guidelines. I FIND that General Order "T" and the AG guidelines provide protocol for the handing of missing persons.

I FIND that Dorio and Maglione were the initial responders to the residence. I FIND that after speaking to the parents of the juvenile, both Dorio and Maglione left the residence without searching either the interior or exterior. I FIND that Maglione did not have on his body armor when he responded to the residence.

I FIND that no crime scene or command post was set up at the residence. I FIND that other than telling Dorio to call the Prosecutor's Office and Pellegrino prior to heading back to the station, Maglione provided Dorio no other directives. I further FIND that no BOLO was issued on the missing juvenile; the surrounding municipalities were not contacted and no additional resources were called in. I FIND that Maglione did not direct, question or look to see if any of that had been done.

I FIND that Maglione did not provide Dorio any directives or directions regarding CART or how to notify them. I further FIND that Maglione did not follow up on the lack of response by CART or whether the Detective Unit had been contacted. I FIND that other officers were available to assist in this matter but none were called in. I FIND that the K-9 unit was available, but not activated.

I FIND that Dorio's IR was reviewed and edited by Maglione several times. I further FIND that material information was missing from Dorio's IR, but it was still approved by Maglione.

I further FIND that no notification of the missing juvenile was sent to Maglione's superiors. I FIND that several times during his IAD interview, Maglione was not truthful.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6, governs a public employee's rights and duties. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v.

Essex DOC Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). Governmental employers also have delineated rights and obligations. The Act sets forth that it is State policy to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority to public officials so they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b).

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against him and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In this matter, respondent bears the burden of proving the charges against appellant by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962).

The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, I must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna & W. R.R. Co., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). For reasonable probability to exist, the evidence must be such as to "generate belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959) (citation omitted). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Credibility, or, more specifically, credible testimony, in turn, must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554–55 (1954).

In the case at bar, appellant was determined to have violated the following DR&R:

1) 3.1.1a Police Officers shall take appropriate action to protect life and property;

2) 3.1.3 Police Officers shall abide by all rules, regulations and departmental and directives governing police officer employees;

3) 3.1.5 Police Officers shall coordinate their efforts with other employees of the department to achieve department objectives;

4) 3.1.10 Police Officers shall perform all related work as required;

5) 3.2.1 Supervisors in the Department shall enforce department rules and ensure compliance with department policies and procedures;

6) 3.2.3 Supervisors in the Department shall exercise the necessary control over their subordinates to accomplish the objectives of the Department;

7) 3.2.4 Supervisors in the Department shall guide and train subordinates to gain effectiveness in performing their duties;

8) 4.1.1 General Conduct—Performance of Duty—All employees shall promptly perform their duties as required or directed by law, departmental rule, policy or directive or by lawful order of a superior officer;

9) 4.1.5 General Conduct—Truthfulness—Employees are required to be truthful at all times to members of the Department, including supervisors unless it jeopardizes the confidentiality of an investigation. Any employee not being truthful will be required to justify his deception; and

10) 4.12.6 Judicial appearance and Testimony – Truthfulness – Employees are required to be truthful at all times whether under oath or not.

Appellant argues that the respondent has failed to satisfy its burden of proof to sustain the disciplinary charges lodged against him, specifically, the Department:

1) Failed to prove that he should be responsible for the deficiencies in contacting the CART and/or the on-call detective;

2) Failed to prove that he should be responsible for deficiencies in searching the missing juvenile's residence;

3) Has not established that he had an imperative obligation to contact the on-call detective and establish a command post and/or crime scene;

4) Failed to establish that he was untruthful during his investigation.

For the reasons cited below, I disagree.

Under Count 1—violation of Section 3.1.1a—respondent determined that appellant violated DR&R:

Specifically:

- not ensuring a complete and thorough missing person's investigation/search for an eleven-year-old child was done.

- not ensuring the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office, Child Abduction Response Team (CART) was contacted for the missing eleven-year-old missing child.

- not broadcasting or making sure a broadcast of a BOLO for the missing eleven-year child was completed on the Ewing Police Radio channel, Mercer County Crime Alert Radio Channel, phoning surrounding agencies such as but not limited to the Trenton Police Department or the Lawrence Police Department.

Departmental General Order "T," Section IV(C)(1) states in relevant part that if a child thirteen years old or younger is missing, the initial responders shall complete a search of the subject's residence which should include all storage areas, cellars, attics and outbuildings among other locations.

Appellant's testimony on this issue was all over the place and inherently contradictory. Appellant's testified that he told Dorio to search the interior of the residence prior to entering it and before the Dorio's body camera was turned on. When he left the residence, it was his assumption that Dorio was going to search the house when he went back inside to handle the paperwork. According to appellant, if he had had more time, he would have stayed to make sure that the house had been searched but he made a judgment call to return to the station based upon his experience and J.B.'s comments that he expected his son to return. Before heading back to the station however, he walked the block looking around for anything unusual. The residence was approximately five to ten minutes from the station. When he arrived back at the station, Dorio showed up a half hour later.

The residence is a three-story home that contained multiple rooms. (R-26.) Yet Dorio arrived back at the station within a half hour of appellant's return. Even factoring in the time appellant alleges to have spent looking around the block, the time line does not add up as Dorio would have had to have completed the necessary paperwork with J.D.'s parents; conducted a thorough search of the three-floor residence and arrived back at the station in less than a half hour. Dorio's presence back at the station so soon after leaving the residence, was never questioned by appellant. By his own admission, at no time was the exterior of the residence searched.

The inconsistencies on this issue continued when appellant testified that he asked Dorio if the residence had been searched and was told yes. This statement subsequently changed when he later testified that he saw that the residence had been searched when he read Dorio's IR. This was again modified when he stated that he told Dorio in the Line-up room to search the interior of the residence, including the basement when he went back for the second visit.

Based upon the credible evidence presented in this matter, it is clear that appellant and Dorio, as initial responders, did not conduct a search of the residence—interior or exterior—nor was there a directive by appellant to Dorio to do so prior to entering the residence. It is also clear that when Dorio and Cabell went back to the residence the second time, no search of the residence, interior or exterior, was undertaken nor was there a directive to do so. As the lieutenant in charge of the shift, appellant was responsible to ensure that the residence (interior and exterior) was thoroughly searched to properly assess the situation and need for additional resources in accordance with General Order "T."

Under General Order "T," Section IV(C), and the Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4, upon the report of a high-risk missing child, CART must be immediately notified.

It is undisputed that CART was not immediately notified as required under the guidelines or that Dorio, contacted ROIC not CART. Appellant argues that he properly relied upon Dorio's representation that CART had been notified.

In his testimony, appellant stated that he did not verify that Dorio had called CART commenting that he wasn't sure what he would verify. Other than receiving the guidelines, he has never had any training on CART. He himself did not contact the on-call detective and he wasn't sure if Dorio had. It was his assumption that all the necessary calls had been made. At no time did appellant reach out to his supervisor to determine if additional steps were required to be taken given his lack of experience in a high-risk missing child investigation. No flags went up with appellant when Dorio relayed his conversation with whom he believed to be CART. According to appellant, this was because he has never been involved in an investigation where CART had to be notified.

Ignorance is no excuse for failure to follow departmental protocol of which appellant received and signed off on. Had appellant followed the guidelines or at least looked at them, particularly since he never had to handle a high-risk missing juvenile before, he would have known what to do, how to do it, and would have been able to direct or further guide Dorio in the proper notification procedures.

Appellant was additionally charged with failing to broadcast or making sure a broadcast of a BOLO for the missing eleven-year-old child was completed on the Ewing Police Radio channel, Mercer County Crime Alert Radio Channel, phoning surrounding agencies such as but not limited to the Trenton Police Department or the Lawrence Police Department.

It is undisputed that a BOLO was not issued in this matter or that the surrounding municipalities were not notified. In questioning Dorio, his statement was that he did not think to do one. During appellant's interview, he stated that he was unsure whether one had been issued but stated that sending out a BOLO was the responsibility of the officer. There was no guidance or follow-up by appellant on this notification, just an assumption that Dorio had sent out a BOLO in a high-risk missing-child investigation.

With the above in mind, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.1.1(a) of the DR&R.

Under Count 2—violation of Section 3.1.3—respondent determined that appellant violated DR&R:

Specifically:

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons.

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons, if the missing person is a child of thirteen years of age or younger, the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Child Abduction Response Team (CART) shall be contacted in accordance with Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4.

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons, as a first step, a complete search of the subject's residence should have been conducted which includes but not limited to all storage areas, cellars, attic and outbuildings.

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons by notifying the Ewing Police Criminal Investigation Bureau supervisor or the on-call Ewing Police Detective as instructed.

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order; Handling Missing Persons by not requesting that a K-9 come to the scene for a track of the eleven-year-old missing person.

- Failing to abide by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons by not notifying your command staff either by a phone, call, text or email or any other way, of the incident.

- Failure, by his own admission in the interview at Ewing Police Department on June 22, 2017, to wear the appropriate Body Armor Vest while in uniform, investigating the report of a missing eleven-year-old as required by the Ewing Police Department General Order: Body Armor.

Under General Order "T," Section IV(C), if a missing child is age thirteen and under, initial responders are required to refer to Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4—CART.

Under this count, appellant is charged with failure to notify CART. It is undisputed that CART was not initially notified. Appellant asserts that he relied upon Dorio's representation that CART had been notified. Ordinarily, it would not be unreasonable for a supervisor to rely upon an officer's statement that a task had been completed. In this case however, it was not reasonable to rely upon Dorio's representation that CART had been contacted given Dorio's level of experience and after hearing the content of Dorio's conversation with "CART" or rather, the lack of response/assistance from the same. While appellant has never had to contact CART in his twenty-two years of service with the Department, he has received, reviewed, and signed off on both the General Order "T" and the Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4 and should have realized that something was amiss.

At a minimum, even if he didn't realize that something was off, the guidelines should have been pulled and reviewed, particularly since this was his (Maglione's) first high-risk missing child investigation, so as to ensure that all protocol had been properly followed.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, it is clear that Maglione failed to abide by General Order "T," Section IV(C).

Under General Order "T," Section IV(C)(1), a complete search of the residence should be conducted, including but not limited to all storage areas, cellars, attics and outbuildings.

In this case, neither appellant or Dorio, as initial responders, conducted a search of the residence—interior or exterior—nor was there a directive by appellant to Dorio to do so prior to entering the residence. It is also clear that when Dorio and Cabell went back to the residence the second time, no search of the residence, interior or exterior, was undertaken nor was there a directive by appellant to do so. As the lieutenant in charge of the shift, appellant was responsible to ensure that the residence (interior and exterior) were thoroughly searched to properly assess the situation and need for additional resources in accordance with General Order "T," which he failed to do.

For these reasons and the ones cited above, it is clear appellant failed to ensure that a thorough search of the residence was conducted in accordance with General Order "T," Section IV(C)(1).

Under General Order "T," Section IV(B)7, if a missing person is deemed a high-risk, the patrol supervisor will notify the Criminal Investigations Bureau supervisor (or "on-call detective" when after-hours).

Here, it is undisputed that neither appellant nor Dorio contacted the on-call detective. According to appellant, he assumed that Dorio made the necessary calls, including contacting the on-call detective; however, he admittedly failed to confirm that fact or question why he had not heard from the on-call detective.

For the reasons cited above, it is clear appellant, as the supervisor in charge of the investigation in a high-risk missing child, failed to contact the on-call detective as required under General Order "T," Section IV(B)7.

Under General Order "T," Section IV(C)(9) and Section IV(D), should the initial search actions fail to locate the lost subject, an early decision should be made to call in a K-9 unit. Under Section IV(D), should a K-9 unit be called in, appropriate measures are required to be put in place to secure the last place seen.

In this case, no K-9 was called in by appellant during any part of this investigation. While appellant directed Cabell to go to the residence a couple of hours after the initial call came in so that Dorio was not alone, he was not requested to go in his (Cabell's) capacity as the K-9 officer. According to appellant, while Cabell was not asked to use the K-9, he should know.

As appellant should be aware under the guidelines, K-9 officers work in two capacities—that of police officer and, when detailed, a K-9 officer. In this case, appellant gave no directive for the use of a K9, therefore, Cabell's assistance in this matter was that of a patrol officer.

For the reasons cited above, it is clear appellant failed to request the services of a K-9 initially, or thereafter, to assist in tracking J.D. in accordance with General Order "T," Section IV(C)(9) and Section IV(D).

Under General Order "T," Section IV(B)7, the patrol supervisor, in addition to notifying the on-call detective, is required to notify the command staff.

In this case, appellant testified that Muller received notification through the shift report. The shift report which is generated daily, was posted online and was posted prior to the end of Maglione's shift, almost seven hours after the initial call came in for a high-risk missing child. At the time the shift report was sent out, the child was still missing. Muller testified that he did not learn about the missing child until he received a call from Jacobs the following morning. Maglione did not make any personal attempts to contact either Muller or Stemler regarding the missing child or progress, or lack thereof, in the investigation.

It is essential that unit supervisors and command staff be informed immediately of any critical and/or serious incidents. The report of a high-risk missing child clearly is a serious incident which should have been immediately brought to the attention of the unit supervisors and command staff. Sending out a Departmental email to the general staff that contains all incidents that occurred on the prior shift, falls far short of the type of notification which should have occurred in this instance.

For the foregoing reasons, it is clear appellant failed to notify command staff as required under General Order "T," Section IV(B)7.

Under General Order E, officers are required to where the appropriate body armor vest while in uniform and engaged in field activities. (R-146.)

By his own admission and as seen on the footage, appellant failed to wear his body armor vest while in uniform and responding to a call regarding a missing juvenile on May 20, 2017.

For the foregoing reasons, including those previously cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.1.3 of the DR&R.

Under Count 3—Section 3.1.5—respondent determined that appellant violated the DR&R by specifically: "not organizing police officers under your command to conduct a search for an eleven-year-old missing child."

Other than having Cabel go back to the residence so that Dorio would not be alone, no additional resources were called in to assist in the search of the missing juvenile despite the fact that other officers were available. No crime scene was set up because in appellant's judgment, based upon his years of experience and the statements of the missing juvenile's father, no crime had been committed. Despite the fact that he has never been involved in a high-risk missing child investigation, appellant did not search the residence due to time constraints. Additional resources were not called in until Holt took over the investigation and within hours the missing juvenile was located.

For the foregoing reason including those previously cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.1.5 of the DR&R.

Under Count 4—Section 3.1.10—respondent determined that appellant violated DR&R:

> by not ensuring all work related to a missing eleven-year-old child was performed as required, such as a complete search of the home was never conducted, the proper notifications were not conducted, a BOLO was not completed, a K9 was never utilized, the investigation report by Police Officer Dorio was not thorough nor complete and yet approved by you.

It is undisputed that no search of the residence—interior or exterior— was performed by Dorio or appellant during the initial visit to the residence. Nor was there a directive by appellant to Dorio to do so. Also undisputed is the fact: that proper notifications were not sent out; a BOLO was not sent out; and the K9 was never called in.

With regard to the IR, by appellant's own admission it was deficient with material information missing. Despite this fact, and having reviewed and edited the IR multiple times, Maglione signed off.

Under General Order "R," Section II(C), a supervisor shall review all reports for spelling and grammatical errors, and to ensure that each report meets departmental standards as follows: (4) The report is complete and accurate. (R-100.) That did not happen in this instance.

For the foregoing reasons including those previously cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.1.10 of the DR&R.

Under Count 5—Section 3.2.1, respondent determined that appellant violated DR&R:

Specifically:

> By not ensuring that the Ewing Police Department General Order; Handling Missing Persons was followed;
>
> By not ensuring that the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Child Abduction Response Team (CART) was contacted in accordance with Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4, when a missing person is a child of thirteen years of age or younger;
>
> By not ensuring as a first step, a complete search of the subject's residence should have been conducted which includes, but is not limited to, all storage areas, cellars, attic and outbuildings in accordance with the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling a Missing Persons;
>
> By not ensuring that the Ewing Police Criminal Investigation Bureau supervisor or the on-call Ewing Police Detective was notified as instructed in the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons;
>
> By not ensuring that a K9 was requested for a track of the eleven-year-old missing person as instructed in the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons;
> By not ensuring that the residence of the eleven-year-old missing child was treated as a crime scene as instructed in the Ewing Police Department General Order: Handling Missing Persons.

Appellant argues that respondent has failed to establish that he had an absolute obligation to contact the on-call detective and establish a command post and/or crime scene. This is based on the fact that the General Order uses the word "should" not "shall" in the applicable sections. I disagree.

In the DR&R policy, Section 2.7, the word "should" means "that the action indicated is expected and will be taken." Under Section 2.11 of the policy, the words shall/will as used, indicates that the action required is mandatory. Under Section 2.4 of the policy, a Directive, which includes General Orders, details the performance of a specific activity or method of operation and falls under the umbrella of the overall policy.

While the word "should" is not defined in General Order "T," the same definition as found under the DR&R is applicable. In looking at the policy as a whole, it is apparent that "should" is not a discretionary term, rather the next step in the investigative process. This is particularly evident when looking at Section IV(C) of the General Order "T," which provides a step-by-step breakdown of an initial responder's responsibilities.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.2.1 of the DR&R.

Under Count 6—Section 3.2.3—respondent determined that appellant violated the DR&R: "Specifically, by not ordering members of your patrol platoon to coordinate a search of an eleven-year-old missing child."

There appears to have been no follow-up or supervision by appellant in this matter. According to appellant, Dorio had enough experience between being a police officer for two years and a sheriff's officer prior to that, to know how to search a residence and handle the necessary calls and paperwork. While appellant himself, a twenty-three-year veteran had never handled a high-risk missing-child investigation or activated CART, he apparently felt that Dorio knew how.

While appellant had Dorio go back to the residence with Cabell, a more experienced officer, to speak to the brother, no other directives were given or resources pulled in. There was absolutely no follow-up by Maglione as the supervisor in charge to see what had or had not been done in the investigation and what additional resources could be utilized. It appears that the search for a high-risk missing juvenile was not a priority and in fact, took a back seat when the auto accident occurred a couple of hours later.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.2.3 of the DR&R.

Under Count 7—Section 3.2.4—respondent determined that appellant violated DR&R:

> Specifically, by not guiding and training Police Officer Dorio on how to contact the Mercer County Prosecutor's office Child Abduction Response Team (CART) when needed for the missing eleven-year-old child or any missing child thirteen years of age or younger.

Other than telling Dorio to contact the Prosecutor's Office, there was no other guidance provided by appellant on what CART was and how it could be contacted. Dorio testified that he did not even know that he had to contact CART until Pellegrino told him. Even then, he called the wrong agency not knowing any better. There was no guidance or follow-up by appellant.

For the foregoing reasons and ones cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 3.2.4 of the DR&R.

Under Count 8—Section 4.1.1—respondent determined that Maglione violated departmental rules and regulations:

Specifically:

> By not conducting a missing person investigation in accordance with the Ewing Police Department General Order Title: Handling Missing Persons;

> By not ensuring the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Child Abduction Response Team (CART) was activated in accordance with Attorney General Law Enforcement Directive No. 2008-4;
>
> By not notifying the Command Staff in accordance with Ewing Police Department Order: Notification Policy – On Call;
> By not notifying the Youth and Family Services Juvenile Detective in accordance with Ewing Police Department General Order: Notification Policy on Call.

For the foregoing reasons and ones previously cited above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 4.1.1 of the Department Rules and Regulations.

Under Count 9, Section 4.1.5 and Section 4.12.6, respondent determined that appellant violated the DR&R:

Specifically:

> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente, that while you were inside the home at . . . with Police Officer Dorio, you instructed Police Officer Dorio to check the house, inside and outside of the home in an attempt to find the missing eleven-year-old child.
>
> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente that you left the home at . . . while Police Officer Dorio was inside speaking to the family and you stated that you searched the exterior of the home, in an attempt to find the missing eleven-year-old child while Police Officer Dorio was speaking to the family.
>
> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente, that when Police Officer Dorio and Police Officer Cabell came back to Ewing Police Headquarters after leaving the residence . . . they informed you that the inside and outside area revealed nothing more than the initial contact.
> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente, that you asked Police Officer

> Dorio if he made the appropriate calls, which mean to you, calling the on-call detective and the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office Child Abduction Response Team (CART).
> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente, that you asked Police Officer Dorio if he checked closets, the attic, basement and stating to Police Officer Dorio that he needed to check the inside, outside and every bit of the house . . . in an attempt to find the missing eleven-year-old child.
> By stating in your interview on June 22, 2017, with Ewing Police Detective Nicholas Muscente, that you instructed Police Office Cabell to return to [the residence] with Police Officer Dorio and speak to the brother of the missing eleven-year-old and to conduct a better search, inside, outside and surrounding area.

During his taped interview, the only consistent statement that appellant made was that he did not search the interior of the residence. Thereafter, his statements to Muscente repeatedly changed and once again changed at the hearing with appellant's testimony varying from his taped interview.

By way of example, during his interview, appellant initially stated that when he and Dorio were inside the residence, he told Dorio to search the interior and that he left to go outside to check the exterior. This is contrary to the footage and his testimony at the hearing.

Later in his interview, appellant stated that he could not recall if he told Dorio to search the residence the first time or the second time. A short time later in the interview, appellant stated that he specifically told Dorio to search the closets and attic when he went back on the second visit. He had Cabell go back to assist with the search both interior and exterior. Both statements were contrary to Dorio and Cabell who testified that no such requests was made by appellant.

Appellant also stated during the interview that he left to go back to the station after speaking with Dorio outside of the residence. During the hearing, appellant testified that when Dorio went back inside the residence to handle paperwork, he walked the block and looked at vehicles. There was no search of the exterior of the residence or the garage. This statement is inconsistent with his interview.

At the hearing, eight months after the incident, appellant testified that prior to going into the residence and before Dorio's body camera was turned on, he told Dorio to do a thorough search of the interior and exterior of the residence. This version of events was not provided during his interview, despite being questioned repeatedly on whether he told Dorio to search the residence.

In sum, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant violated Section 4.1.5 and 4.12.6 of the DR&R.

Appellant also argues that the Department is holding him responsible for it's own shortcomings. Specifically, the Department is seeking to make him a scapegoat for a deficient investigation when it fails to take into consideration the magnitude of Dorio's actions; its own shortcomings in supervisory staffing; and its failure to keep the investigative tools such as the "on-call" book up to date.

This argument is specious at best given the credible evidence presented in this matter. While Dorio's actions were relied upon by appellant to some extent, for the reasons cited above, it was appellant's own actions, or lack thereof, as an officer and supervisor, that formed the basis for the disciplinary charges levied against him. Additionally, as appellant himself testified, the fact that there was only one supervisor working on May 21, 2017, happens occasionally. It is not a Departmental shortcoming. Lastly, the argument that the "on-call" book was out of date, which led Dorio to look elsewhere, is equally without merit and misses the underlying crux of the issue which is appellant's lack of supervision over the investigation as a whole.

Appellant further argues that the charges must be dismissed under the auspices of the 45-day rule.

Prior to the commencement of the hearings, appellant filed a Motion to Dismiss most of the charges for respondent's failure to bring the disciplinary charges within the time constraints set forth under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147. N.J.S.A. 40:A14-147 is commonly referred to as the "45-day rule."

Through this motion, appellant asserts that respondent had sufficient knowledge and/or information to bring disciplinary charges against the appellant on May 22, 2017, yet failed to file the Preliminary Notice of disciplinary Action until July 14, 2017, approximately fifty-three days after the incident in violation of the 45-day rule.

In support of this argument, appellant cites Aristizibal v. City of Atlantic City, 380 N.J. Super. 405 (Law Div. 2005), where the court held that Atlantic City violated the 45-day rule under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 by failing to start an investigation into alleged violations of police department rules and regulations until seventy-two days after an incident in which over 100 police officers called out sick from work as part of a labor dispute. According to the court, there was an absence of "extraordinary circumstances" that justified the appointing authority's failure to promptly begin an investigation and "the investigation did not involve a complicated matter" because "[e]ither the police officers had valid excuses for failing to report to work, or, they did not. 380 N.J. Super. at 434.

Respondent argues that the disciplinary charges brought against Maglione were within the time constraints set forth. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147. Specifically: 1) The department requires a full investigation to confirm whether there are sufficient documents and/or proofs to substantiate that a violation of departmental rules and protocols have occurred; 2) There was a concurrent criminal investigation by the Mercer County Prosecutor's Office regarding possible criminal law violations by appellant; and 3) When respondent was preparing to serve appellant with the disciplinary action, appellant requested additional time from respondent to discuss possible settlement with his family and attorney.

N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 states in pertinent part:

> A complaint charging a violation of the internal rules and regulations established for the conduct of a law enforcement > unit shall be filed no later than the 45th day after the date on which the person filing the complaint obtained sufficient information to file the matter upon which the complaint is based. The 45-day time limit shall not apply if an investigation of a law enforcement officer for a violation of the internal rules or regulations of the law enforcement unit is included directly or indirectly within a concurrent investigation of that officer for a violation of the criminal laws of this State. The 45-day limit shall begin on the day after the disposition of the criminal investigation. . .

The 45-day rule applies only to alleged violations of internal rules and regulations and not to the general causes for major discipline listed under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). McElwee v. Bor. of Fieldsboro, 400 N.J. Super. 388 (App. Div. 2008).

A complaint charging a violation of internal rules and regulations may be dismissed if an appointing authority unnecessarily delays an investigation or fails to file the complaint within forty-five days of obtaining sufficient information. As the former Merit System Board explained in McCormick v. Lawrence Township, CSV 6319-00, Initial Decision (September 21, 2001), rejected, MSB (December 27, 2001), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/:

> N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147 is designed to protect police officers from an appointing authority unduly and prejudicially delaying the imposition of disciplinary action. However, the statute does not prohibit an appointing authority from doing a proper investigation into a matter to determine whether disciplinary charges are necessary and appropriate. The fact that such normal and necessary investigation may span a period of time, which may exceed 45 days, does not automatically call for the dismissal of such charges. Rather, for the purposes of N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, the charges much be brought within 45 days of the "person filing the complaint" obtaining sufficient information to bring such charges. The "person filing the complaint" is generally acknowledged to be the Chief of Police. See N.J.S.A. 40A:14-118. There, the 45 days start when the Chief of Police has sufficient knowledge to bring the charges against an officer. However, the Board does not interpret this provision to allow an appointing authority to unnecessarily delay the bringing of charges by not promptly attempting to obtain sufficient information to bring charges and promptly forwarding such information to the person responsible for filing the complaint. Under such circumstances, it would be appropriate to dismiss charges against a police officer based on the 45-day > rule. Conversely, the statute is undoubtedly not designed to force an appointing authority, at the risk of being estopped, to prospectively bring ultimately valid, but unripe, disciplinary charges within 45 days of an incident without properly investigating the matter to ensure that sufficient information to bring such charges is obtained.

The instant matter is distinguishable from Aristizibal for a couple of reasons. First, the Department did not obtain "sufficient information" to bring charges until the IAD investigation was complete.

The incident occurred on May 20–21, 2017. Upon review of the IR, footage and phone logs by Stemler on May 22, 2017, he directed Muller to look further into the matter to determine why certain protocols were not followed. In so doing, a concern arose that there may be a criminal element to the matter. Thereafter the matter was formally turned over to IAD on May 31, 2017. Also on this date, the Prosecutor's Office was contacted.

Over the next couple of weeks, interviews were done by IAD, of which the Prosecutor's Office were kept apprised. Once the preliminary interviews were done, the targets of the investigation were interviewed, first Dorio and thereafter, appellant. After viewing Dorio's interview, the Prosecutor's Office made a determination not to proceed criminally however, the IAD investigation was not complete until appellant was interviewed and Dorio and Cabell were re-interviewed. This occurred on June 27, 2017, at which time the IAD investigation was complete and charges were ready to be filed.

With the above in mind, until the completion of the IAD investigation, there was insufficient information on May 22, 2017, to bring formal disciplinary charges against appellant.

Second, while appellant argues that respondent "concocted" the notion that there was a concurrent criminal investigation, laying great emphasis on the lack of written documentation and taped calls from the Prosecutor's Office, such argument is misguided.

The credible testimony presented in this matter finds that the Prosecutor's Office was notified on May 31, 2017 and thereafter, kept apprised of the progression of the IAD investigation, including the timing of the target interviews. After lengthy meetings on June 15, 2017, and June 20, 2017, which was after Dorio's interview, the Prosecutor's Office made a determination not to proceed criminally. The fact that no referral form or written communication from the Prosecutor's Office was presented at the hearing, does not negate or undermine the credible evidence presented to the contrary.

Third, the disciplinary charges were not immediately filed due to an administrative hold after good faith settlement discussions were undertaken between Maglione and respondent. Once those discussions fell through, charges were immediately brought on July 14, 2017, seventeen days after the IAD investigation was complete. Had the charges been filed on June 27, 2017, they would have been well within the 45-day rule.

For the reasons cited above, I CONCLUDE that there was no violation of the 45-day rule pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147, and therefore DENY appellant's motion to dismiss.

The next question is the appropriate level of that discipline. A system of progressive discipline has evolved in New Jersey to serve the goals of providing employees with job security and protecting them from arbitrary employment decisions. Progressive discipline is considered to be an appropriate analysis for determining the reasonableness of the penalty. See Bock, 38 N.J. at 523–24. The concept of progressive discipline is related to an employee's past record. The use of progressive discipline benefits employees and is strongly encouraged. The core of this concept is the nature, number and proximity of prior disciplinary infractions should be addressed by progressively increasing penalties. It underscores the philosophy that an appointing authority has a responsibility to encourage the development of employee potential.

The law is also clear that a single incident can be egregious enough to warrant removal without reliance on progressive-discipline policies. See In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (Division of Youth and Family Services worker snapped lighter in front of five-year-old), in which the Court stated:

> . . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

In addition to considering an employee's prior disciplinary history when imposing a penalty under the Act, other appropriate factors to consider include the nature of the misconduct, the nature of the employee's job, and the impact of the misconduct on the public interest. Ibid. Depending on the conduct complained of and the employee's disciplinary history, major discipline may be imposed. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522–24. Major discipline may include removal, disciplinary demotion, or a suspension or fine no greater than six months. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a), -20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.4.

Respondent argues that Maglione knowingly and intentionally violated all departmental protocol, placing the Township at risk, in the investigation into a high-risk missing child. Compounding the matter was the fact that Maglione lied about his actions; took no responsibility as a supervisor; and his utter lack of concern about the missing child when he left his shift without verifying that some agency was searching for the missing child.

Appellant argues that over the course of a twenty-two-year career, he has had an exemplary and unblemished record, receiving numerous awards and commendations for his meritorious service to the community.[3] To terminate him would be harsh and excessive, and flies in the face of progressive discipline.

[3] Reference was made during the hearing about a prior disciplinary action against the appellant. That matter is currently pending appeal under OAL Docket No. 03275-17 with no final decision having been rendered. As such, it will not be considered for purposes of this matter as it relates to consideration of progressive discipline.

There is no question that Maglione has had an exemplary record over the course of his twenty-two years in law enforcement. Unfortunately, his actions or lack thereof, if not intentional, were grossly negligent in the handling of a high-risk missing child. This was compounded by his lack of candor in his IAD interview and calls into question his fitness to be a supervising officer. Such conduct places not only the public but the Department at risk.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that removal is the appropriate discipline for the violations of DR&R Sections: 3.1.1a (Take Appropriate Action to Protect Life and Property); 3.1.3 (Abide By All Rules, Regulations and Departmental Procedures and Directives Governing Police Officer Employees); 3.1.5 (Coordinate Their Efforts With Other Employees Of The Department to Achieve Department Objectives); 3.1.10 (Perform All Related Work as Required); 3.2.1 (Enforce Department Rules and Ensure Compliance With Department Policies And Procedures); 3.2.3 (Exercise Necessary Control Over Their Subordinates To Accomplish The Objectives Of The Department); 3.2.4 (Guide And Train Subordinates To Gain Effectiveness In Performing Their Duties); 4.1.1 (Peformance of Duty); 4.1.5 (Truthfulness); and 4.12.6 (Truthfulness). I further CONCLUDE that the disciplinary action taken by the Department be AFFIRMED.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action of the Ewing Township Police Department against appellant, Joseph Maglione, is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BURLINGTON COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE OF CLAIMS

OAL Docket No. CSV16747-2013S

WHEREAS, the County of Burlington and the Burlington County Department of Corrections ("County") served Rosalee Nieves ("Nieves") with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action ("FNDA") dated November 4, 2013; and

WHEREAS, the matter involving Nieves's employment with the County is the subject of an appeal which was pending in the Office of Administrative Law under the above-referenced Docket Number (the "Appeal") and was the subject of a settlement conference conducted on January 8, 2018; and

WHEREAS, the County and Nieves have engaged in settlement discussions and have agreed upon the terms of an agreement which provides for a Stipulation of Settlement and Release of Claims ("Agreement") which will conclude this matter including any further appeals by either party in this matter, the salient terms of which was placed on the record before the Honorable Dorothy Incarvito-Garrabrant on January 8, 2018; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to the Agreement, the parties have agreed to forego the continuation of this matter before the Office of Administrative Law and/or Civil Service Commission; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement is not, and shall not be deemed, an admission by Nieves or the County of a violation of any statute or law or wrongdoing of any kind, and it is understood that the County expressly denies that it wrongfully terminated Nieves' employment and/or that such termination was in violation of any Department Rule or Regulations and/or any other law, rule, or regulation; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement is not, and shall not be deemed, an admission or finding that any claim the parties to this Agreement raised or might have raised against each other, including but not limited to those raised in the charges against Nieves as stated in the FNDA and Nieves's defenses thereto, be considered in any way valid or meritorious; and

WHEREAS, Nieves and the County acknowledge that this Agreement is a compromise of disputed claims and charges and that Nieves and the County are entering into this Agreement solely to avoid the inconvenience and expense of further protracted proceedings;

NOW THEREFORE, the parties hereto, intending to be legally bound, hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Each reference to Nieves in this Agreement includes Nieves, and her agents, executors, administrators, heirs, beneficiaries, successors and assigns.
2. This Agreement sets forth the full and final settlement and resolution of any and all claims that Nieves may have or may have had against the County for any action that has occurred up to the date of the Agreement with regard to Nieves' employment with the County, the Appeal, and/or claims that the County may have or may have had against Nieves for any action that has occurred up to the date of this Agreement with regard to her employment with the County, including but not limited to all claims, charges, and defenses that were or might have been raised in the disciplinary charges against Nieves in the FNDA or the Appeal.

3. For and in consideration set forth in this Agreement, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Nieves knowingly and voluntarily dismisses and withdraws the appeal pending under Docket No. CSV16747-2013S and also waives, releases, and covenants not to sue the County and their present or former subsidiaries, affiliates, insurers, and any of their present or former officers, trustees, employees, volunteers, servants, agents, attorneys, representatives, predecessors, successors and assigns with respect to any and all claims of any kind or nature whatsoever based upon any action that has occurred up to the date of this Agreement with regard to her employment with the County, regardless of whether such claims are now known or are later discovered, including, but not limited to all claims or causes of action which were or might have been asserted in any civil action; all rights, claims or causes of actions under any other federal, state, or local law; and all other claims or causes of action (whether at common law or otherwise) arising out of his employment or the conclusion of that employment, with the County, regardless of whether such claims are now known or are later discovered, including but not limited to any alleged violations of the following:

This paragraph is intended to become part of the consideration for settlement of this claim.
11. In the event that Nieves breaches any portion of this Agreement, Nieves agrees that the County is entitled to seek injunctive relief and an award of damages and reasonable costs for any such breach.
12. Nieves and the County agree that this Agreement and its terms shall be governed by, construed and enforced under New Jersey Law, regardless of New Jersey's choice of law provisions. The parties agree that they have been represented by counsel. Any dispute related to or involving this Agreement will be litigated in the Superior Court of New Jersey, either Law or Chancery Division, Burlington County.

13. By signing this Agreement, Nieves acknowledges that she has had the opportunity to consult her attorney and that Nieves fully understands the meaning and intent of this Agreement, including but not limited to its binding effect.

14. Nieves and the County agree that if any provision of this Agreement is declared or determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be unenforceable or invalid for any reason, the validity of the remaining parts or provisions shall not be affected thereby, and the said part, term or provision declared or determined invalid or unenforceable shall be deemed not to be part of this Agreement.

15. This Agreement shall become effective and enforceable upon execution by the parties.

16. This Agreement may be signed in counterparts and shall be deemed fully executed when all parties have signed the Agreement. The parties agree to accept facsimile/scanned signatures in lieu of original signatures which shall have the same validity and effect of original signatures.

17. Nieves has read and understands the terms of this Agreement and by signing below acknowledges and voluntarily agrees to accept the terms of this Agreement with full knowledge of its significance. Nieves acknowledges that she has been given ample time to consider the terms of this Agreement. Nieves has been and is advised to review and discuss this Agreement with her attorney prior to signing it.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have executed this Agreement intending to be legally bound hereby.

The County agrees that the term referred to does not apply to any appeal regarding removal or release subs went to the end of the working test period. Please advise if this is sufficient.

Mr. Catanzaro and Mr. Saginario:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Roselee Nieves from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, the settlement indicates that Ms. Nieves "will be employed . . . as a new employee . . . with no seniority for time previously employed with the County." The settlement further states she will be required to, inter alia, attend the Police Academy and that she "waives any right to appeal and/or challenge [any] such failure and/or dismissal."

Please be advised that as Ms. Nieves was originally appointed from an open competitive list to a competitive career service title, she would not be permitted to return to employment as a "new employee." In this regard, Ms. Nieves is not actually being reemployed, but rather reinstated. Thus, any settlement terms that would involve her return to work must credit her prior tenure with the County for Civil Service seniority purposes (such as layoff, exam seniority, etc.; but not necessarily for non-Civil Service seniority purposes, such a contractual rights, bidding, etc.). Additionally, as she would be considered to be reinstated, the period of time from her removal to the date of her reinstatement must be accounted for. Such time periods are most commonly recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay.

With regard to the waiver of her appeal rights, the Civil Service Commission does not generally permit individuals to agree to forfeit potential future appeal rights in disciplinary matters. However, the term in question seems to deal with dismissal from a Police Academy which is appealable to the Police Training Commission. If it only pertains to that right to appeal, the Commission has no jurisdiction to object to that term. However, clarification is necessary to indicate that the term does not pertain to any future appeal of any subsequent removal or release at the end of the working test period from employment with the County.

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties. Absent sufficient clarification, this matter cannot be acknowledged by the Commission and instead would be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of James Reyes, City of Paterson

CSC Docket No. 2017-2772
OAL Docket No. CSR 03407-17

ISSUED: MAY 25, 2018 (HS)

The appeal of James Reyes, a Fire Captain with the City of Paterson (Paterson), of his removal effective February 23, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Barry E. Moscowitz (ALJ), who rendered his initial decision on March 20, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of Paterson and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on May 2, 2018, adopted the ALJ's recommendation to reverse the removal but ordered the appellant to undergo a pre-reinstatement fitness for duty examination.

DISCUSSION

Paterson removed the appellant on charges of incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties, inability to perform duties, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty and other sufficient cause. Specifically, it asserted that the appellant had been absent from work on Workers' Compensation, receiving full pay, since June 22, 2016 based upon his representation that he was in too much pain to return to work when he was, in fact, able to return to work. Paterson identified 12 separate instances between December 13, 2016 and January 11, 2017, captured by video surveillance, that allegedly demonstrated the appellant's misrepresentation and fraud. In the video surveillance, the appellant was observed shoveling snow and lifting water cases, among other things. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case.

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, the ALJ set forth in his initial decision that the appellant was injured on June 22, 2016. Robert Kayal, M.D., his treating doctor and an orthopedist, excused him from all duty. Kayal operated his own orthopedics practice, Kayal Orthopedic Center. Paterson alleged that the appellant could have returned to work on modified or light duty, that it had informed him that modified or light duty was available to him, and that he intentionally withheld this information from Kayal to perpetuate the fraud that he was in too much pain to return to work. However, the ALJ found that Gabriel Abouyan, the Battalion Chief who served as the sick-injury officer, did not tell the appellant, Kayal or Sulayka Perez, the staff person at Kayal Orthopedic Center responsible for the administration of all Workers' Compensation claims at the orthopedic office, that modified or light duty was available to the appellant or that modified or light duty could be made available to him. Similarly, no one else from Paterson told the appellant, Kayal, Perez or anyone else from Kayal's office that modified or light duty was available to the appellant or how modified or light duty could be made available to him.

The ALJ stated that, in the alternative, Paterson alleged that it never told the appellant that modified or light duty was available to him, but that it was generally known among all firefighters that modified or light duty is always available, and that he intentionally withheld this information from Kayal to perpetuate the fraud that he was in too much pain to return to work. However, the ALJ found that a preponderance of the evidence did not exist that it was generally known among Paterson firefighters that modified or light duty was available or could be made available to Paterson firefighters at any time. Paterson had not, in fact, made modified or light duty available to the appellant and had acted, instead, upon Kayal's medical advice that the appellant was incapable of returning to work on full duty and, as a result, excused the appellant from all duty. Likewise, Paterson never required the appellant to undergo a fitness evaluation. The ALJ found that modified or light duty was not offered to the appellant in December 2016 when the video surveillance of him was obtained, and Kayal had not cleared him for any.

The ALJ found that the appellant was honest about his symptoms and his pain and what he could and could not do; that he had not lied to anyone about his symptoms and his pain and what he could and could not do; and that the video surveillance did not contradict or contraindicate that the appellant was honest about his symptoms and his pain, and had not lied to anyone about what he could and could not do. In this regard, David Weiss, D.O., a board-certified orthopedist and board-certified independent medical examiner, testified that none of the activities the appellant was seen to perform in the video surveillance contradicted his medical profile.

The ALJ found that the appellant cannot return to work on full or heavy duty but that he can return to work on modified or light duty and that he is willing to return to work on modified or light duty, which Paterson has still not offered or made available to him. In short, the ALJ found that Paterson had not proven any of the specifications alleged by a preponderance of the evidence. As such, the ALJ recommended that the charges be dismissed and that the appellant be reinstated to his position of Fire Captain.

In its exceptions, Paterson argues that even if the initial decision were to be upheld, back pay or benefits are not due pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(d)9, which provides that "[a] back pay award is subject to reduction for any period of time during which the employee was disabled from working." It maintains that if the appellant was actually disabled as of December 2016 and not able to perform modified or light duty, there is no record evidence that his condition has improved to the point where he could perform modified or light duty; that he has been cleared for modified or light duty; or that he is no longer taking opioids. It states that the only record evidence is that of Weiss, who indicated that the appellant's condition had deteriorated between December 2016 and August 2017.

In his reply to exceptions, the appellant notes his agreement with the initial decision and requests that it be affirmed without modification.

Upon its de novo review, the Commission affirms the ALJ's recommendation to dismiss the charges and reverse the removal. However, the Commission disagrees with the ALJ's determination that the appellant is able to return to work on modified or light duty and his recommendation that the appellant be reinstated to modified duty. Rather, it is for Paterson to determine whether it can provide the appellant the reasonable accommodation of such duty. Therefore, the Commission orders that Paterson provide the appellant with a pre-reinstatement fitness for duty examination. If the appellant is found able to perform full or modified duty that can be accommodated, he is to be reinstated. If he is found not able to perform full or modified duties or Paterson cannot accommodate temporary or permanent modified duties, Paterson should initiate a new disciplinary charge for the appellant's removal due to his inability to perform duties based on his current unfitness, with a current date of removal. Upon receipt of a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action on that charge, the appellant may appeal that matter to the Commission in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.8. Upon timely submission of any such appeal, the appellant would be entitled to a hearing regarding the current finding of unfitness only. In either case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the appellant would be entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from February 23, 2017 until the time he is either reinstated or removed. The Commission further orders that, pursuant to

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(d)9, the appellant is not entitled to back pay for any period of time he was medically unable to work.[1]

Since the charges have been dismissed, the appellant is entitled to reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by Paterson. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. February 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, should the appellant pass the pre-reinstatement fitness for duty examination ordered herein, Paterson shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that Paterson's action in imposing a removal was not justified and therefore reverses that action. The Commission also orders that the appellant undergo a pre-reinstatement fitness for duty examination. The outcome of that examination shall determine whether the appellant is entitled to be reinstated or removed, as outlined previously. In either case, the appellant is entitled to back pay, benefits and seniority from February 23, 2017 through the date of his actual reinstatement or removal. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to Paterson within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(d)9, the appellant is not entitled to back pay for any period of time he was medically unable to work.

The Commission further awards reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to Paterson within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay or counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fees dispute.

[1] It is noted that N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(d)9 presupposes full duty.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and/or counsel fees within 60 days of the issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties, and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSR 03407-17

IN THE MATTER OF JAMES REYES,
CITY OF PATERSON FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Christopher A. Gray, Esq., for appellant (Sciarra & Catrambone, attorneys)

Steven S. Glickman, Esq., for respondent (Lite DePalma Greenberg, attorneys)

Record Closed: February 20, 2018 Decided: March 20, 2018

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 22, 2016, James Reyes, a fire captain, was injured, and his treating physician, an orthopedist, excused him from all duty. Although Reyes could work modified or light duty, no such duty was ever offered to Reyes or made known to his treating physician. Should Reyes be terminated for failure to perform duties or conduct unbecoming? No. Such violation requires the ability to perform a duty and the decision to disregard that duty.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 23, 2017, Paterson served Reyes with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. In its notice, Paterson charged Reyes with incompetency, inefficiency, and failure to perform duties in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1); inability to perform duties in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3); conduct unbecoming a public employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); neglect of duty in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7); and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12). Paterson also charged Reyes with violation of Paterson's Injury/Sick-Leave Policy, Reissue of General Order 2004-13, dated September 23, 2014, including Section VIII, entitled, "Sick Leave Policy," and the statutory standard of behavior required of firefighters under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-17, and Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998).

In its specifications, Paterson alleged that that Reyes had been absent from work on workers' compensation, receiving full pay, since June 22, 2016, based upon his representation that he was in too much pain to return to work, when Reyes was, in fact, able to return to work. In support of these specifications and allegations, Paterson identified twelve separate instances between December 13, 2016, and January 11, 2017, captured by surveillance, that allegedly demonstrate Reyes's misrepresentation and fraud. As a result, Paterson suspended Reyes without pay on January 23, 2017.

On February 10, 2017, Paterson sustained the charges and specifications and removed Reyes from its employ effective February 23, 2017. Notice was given in a Final Notice of Preliminary Disciplinary Action of the same date. On March 11, 2017, Reyes filed this appeal and the case was assigned to me for hearing.

Hearing dates were scheduled for June 21, 23, and 26, 2017, but then adjourned on June 15, 2017, at Reyes's request, until October 10, 11, and 20, 2017, which proceeded as scheduled.

At the hearing, Paterson further specified and alleged that Reyes could have returned to work on modified or light duty, that it had informed Reyes that modified or light duty was available to him, and that Reyes intentionally withheld this information from his treating doctor, Robert Kayal, M.D., to perpetuate the fraud that he was in too much pain to return to work.

In the alternative, Paterson specified and alleged that it never told Reyes that modified or light duty was available to him, but that it was generally known among all firefighters that modified or light duty is always available, and that Reyes intentionally withheld this information from Kayal to perpetuate the fraud that he was in too much pain to return to work.

Since the specifications could be fairly read to include these more specific allegations, the hearing was held, and this decision was written, with these two alternatives in mind.

By February 20, 2018, the parties submitted their closing briefs, and on that day I closed the record.

DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS OF FACT

Reyes

Reyes was born and raised in Paterson. He became a firefighter with the Paterson Fire Department in 1993 and rose to captain seven years later. From 2000 to 2016, Reyes served as captain in different roles. More specifically, Reyes served as the captain or supervisor of the engine company, the ladder company, and the rescue company.

On June 22, 2016, the date Reyes was injured, Reyes was serving as the captain or supervisor of the EMS unit. On that date, Reyes injured himself when he stepped out of his vehicle, landed on uneven pavement, and twisted his torso. On June 23, 2016, the following day, Reyes went to the ImmediCenter in Clifton, New Jersey, for treatment. Reyes testified that this urgent-care facility is where all Paterson firefighters are sent when they are hurt on the job.

On July 11, 2016, Reyes underwent an MRI of the lumbar spine, which revealed a disc bulge at L5-S1, and Reyes was referred to an orthopedist, Robert Kayal, M.D., for treatment.

On August 10, 2016, Reyes saw Kayal for the first time.

Kayal (Part I)

Kayal is a board-certified orthopedist. He operates his own orthopedics practice under the eponymous Kayal Orthopedic Center in no less than three locations. Kayal treated Reyes for his injuries and prided himself on the fact that he seldom treats patients who are out of work on workers' compensation. In fact, Kayal boasted that the treatment of patients out of work on workers' compensation is only 2 percent of his practice.

Kayal testified that Reyes had slipped and fallen coming out of a fire truck, and that he subsequently treated Reyes for pain in his back and hips. His treatment notes state that Reyes slipped when he stepped out of the truck onto uneven pavement. Kayal further testified that Reyes complained of pain in his low back consistent with sciatica, and that an x-ray and an MRI of his low back revealed a degenerative condition. Kayal testified that later subjective complaints of pain in the neck were also confirmed by objective tests revealing a degenerative condition.

Yet Kayal explained that an MRI of the left hip was equivocal for a labral tear. Kayal specified that an MRI of the right hip revealed only a contusion, but that the MRI of the left hip revealed neither a tear nor a detachment. "It was fluid," Kayal said. Nevertheless, Kayal put Reyes out of work for August, September, October, November, and December 2016. The exact nature of the dysfunction did not matter.

Letters

After each visit, Kayal wrote a letter to Reyes, excusing him from all work. Those letters were admitted into evidence as R-9. After Reyes received these letters, he submitted them to Paterson.

August 2016

Kayal's first letter, dated August 10, 2016, states, "Please excuse JAMES REYES from all work through 9/2/16, due to medical reasons. Please do not hesitate to call my office should you have any questions." Paterson accepted the letter, excused Reyes from all duty, and never called Kayal to question him.

September 2016

Kayal's second letter, dated September 2, 2016, states, "Please excuse JAMES REYES from all work until he can be re-evaluated on 10/14/16. Please do not hesitate to call my office should you have any questions." Paterson accepted the letter, excused Reyes from all duty, and never called Kayal to question him.

October 2016

Kayal's third letter, dated October 14, 2016, states, "Please excuse JAMES REYES from all work through November 16th, 2016, due to medical reasons. Please do not hesitate to call my office should you have any questions." Paterson accepted the letter, excused Reyes from all duty, and never called Kayal to question him.

November 2016

Kayal's fourth letter, dated November 16, 2016, states, "Please excuse JAMES REYES from all work until December 7th, due to medical reasons. Please do not hesitate to call my office should you have any questions." Paterson accepted the letter, excused Reyes from all duty, and never called Kayal to question him.

December 2016

Kayal's fifth letter, dated December 9, 2016, states, "Please be aware that James is actively treating with our practice. Please excuse JAMES REYES from all work until further notice, due to medical reasons. Please do not hesitate to call my office should you have any questions." Paterson accepted the letter, excused Reyes from all duty, and never called Kayal to question him.

Abouyan

Paterson, however, did question Reyes. Gabriel Abouyan, the battalion chief who serves as the sick-injury officer for Paterson, testified that he called Reyes after he received each of these letters, and that he asked Reyes how he was doing. Abouyan explained that the handwritten notes on the letters admitted into evidence as R-9 are his handwritten notes, which memorialize the conversations he had with Reyes on each of the dates he wrote that he spoke to Reyes.

On Kayal's first letter, dated August 10, 2016, Abouyan wrote, "Spoke to [Reyes] 8/10/16; Capt. stated in serious pain."

On Kayal's second letter, dated September 2, 2016, Abouyan wrote, "Spoke to [Reyes] 9/6/16; no change in injury."

On Kayal's third letter, dated October 14, 2016, Abouyan wrote, "Spoke to [Reyes] 10/26/16; no change."

On Kayal's fourth letter, dated November 16, 2016, Abouyan wrote, "Spoke to [Reyes] 11/18/16."

On Kayal's fifth letter, dated December 9, 2016, Abouyan wrote, "Spoke to [Reyes] 12/7/16; Asked him how injury is doing (no better/worse); Suggested see another doctor; Said he is going to Mamood."

Nowhere in his handwritten notes does Abouyan question whether Reyes was sincere or honest in his response about his pain or injury or whether Reyes could return to work on modified or light duty.

Goow

Samir Goow is the risk manager for Paterson. Goow testified that he was hired by Paterson almost three years ago and is responsible for overseeing all the workers' compensation claims filed with the City. Goow explained that Paterson has a history of abuse and neglect concerning workers' compensation claims, and that he has been very aggressive in closing out those claims against the City and returning its employees to work. Goow was an assertive witness who was insistent on providing his opinions about Reyes, including his medical condition, even though Goow had no medical expertise to do so. Goow did not even have any judicially-recognized expertise in risk management.

First, Goow testified that he had known nothing about Reyes until the third-party administrator for Paterson, the Claims Resolution Corporation (CRC), had called him because the fire chief had wanted Reyes surveilled, and the CRC needed Goow to approve the surveillance. Goow explained that he deals with hundreds of workers' compensation claims at a time and that he relies heavily on his insurance adjusters to apprise him of them. Goow continued that he approved the surveillance, forwarded the video to Kayal for his review, and was shocked by what he saw on the recording.

Next, Goow testified that Reyes had been lying about his medical condition. Goow opined that six months was too long for Reyes to have been out of work, especially when no other firefighter in Paterson had been out of work for that long, and that Reyes should have been returned to work on at least modified or light duty. Notwithstanding the fact that Goow had no medical expertise, or any judicially recognized expertise in risk management, Goow admitted on cross-examination that he never even reviewed the medical record. More expansively, Goow conceded that he never spoke to anyone about whether what he saw on the video was consistent with what Reyes complained of, whether it was consistent with his medical condition, whether Reyes should get a second opinion, whether Reyes should undergo a functional-capacity evaluation, whether Reyes could return to work on modified or light duty, or whether Reyes should not return to duty at all.

Ultimately, Goow conceded that Kayal had, in fact, excused Reyes from all duty in August, September, October, November, and December 2016, and that the parties were, as a result, obligated to follow that medical advice.

Surveillance

Paterson, through the CRC, hired Confidential Security Associates (CSA), a surveillance company, to surveil Reyes. Jeffrey Eisenberg is the employee from CSA who recorded the surveillance. Eisenberg has worked in the surveillance business for the past ten years and at CSA for the past two. His video recording was admitted into evidence as R-6 and his written findings were admitted into evidence as R-4 and R-5. At the hearing, Eisenberg was professional in his presentation and matter-of-fact in his testimony.

Eisenberg testified that he was given no information about Reyes or this case before or during the surveillance and was simply instructed to perform the surveillance. Eisenberg explained that he assumed that the case had something to do with a personal injury, so he parked his car outside Reyes's home and videoed Reyes on a digital recorder when Reyes left his home. Eisenberg further explained that he then dictated what he saw in another recorder and turned in all his recordings to the owner of CSA, who produced the video footage and written reports for the hearing. A review of the written reports reveals that Eisenberg dictated what he saw without embellishment.

Similarly, at the hearing, Eisenberg simply repeated what he saw on the video as we watched the excerpts of the footage, resisting calls for embellishment when asked.

Video

Eisenberg surveilled Reyes on eleven days in December—Friday, December 9, 2016; Saturday, December 10, 2016; Monday, December 12, 2016; Tuesday, December 13, 2016; Wednesday, December 14, 2016; Saturday, December 17, 2016; Monday, December 19, 2016; Tuesday, December 20, 2016; Wednesday, December 21, 2016;

Thursday, December 22, 2016; and Friday, December 23, 2016— for ten to twelve hours each day.

Yet Paterson alleged only thirteen instances of fraud from the 110–132 hours of surveillance. Once again, all the surveillance takes place outside the home and does not capture what Reyes did once he returned inside his home. For easy reference, the allegations are reproduced below:

- On December 10, 2016, James Reyes was observed dragging a garbage can to the curb at his residence.
- On December 13, 2016, James Reyes was observed vigorously sweeping the front of his residence.
- On December 14, 2016, James Reyes was observed dragging and carrying a garbage can onto his property.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed lifting the hood of a Toyota, believed to be his vehicle.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed brushing snow off the two vehicles, a Toyota and an Audi, believed to be his vehicles.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed [connecting] jumper cables to his Toyota. He was then observed getting into the Audi and starting it up, pulling the Audi near the Toyota, and connecting the jumper cables to the Audi. After jump starting the Toyota, James Reyes parked the Audi and closed both vehicles.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed bending down to pick up a garbage can lid and then dragging the garbage can onto the side of his property.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed shoveling snow on the side and front of his property [and on the] steps and front porch [of his property]. He was observed throwing salt down on the steps and walkway.
- On December 17, 2016, James Reyes was observed using a broom to clean the tops of the Toyota and Audi and his steps.
- On December 21, 2016, James Reyes was observed exiting his residence carrying a garbage bag to the curb. He was then observed bending over to move the garbage bag. James Reyes was then observed walking to the side of his property, dragging a garbage can to the curb, and then lifting the garbage bag and placing it in the garbage can.
- On December 22, 2016, James Reyes was observed at the Costco in Clifton, New Jersey pushing a shopping cart.

He then opened the rear trunk of his vehicle, lifting five (5) cases of water and placing them in his trunk.

- On December 22, 2016, James Reyes was observed back at his residence lifting several cases of water from his trunk and carrying each one up his stairs and into the front door of his residence.
- On January 11, 2017, James Reyes saw Dr. Kayal, stating that he was unable to be active at all at home due to continuing lower back and leg pain. James Reyes informed Dr. Kayal that his wife was required to perform many of his "chores," including shoveling snow because the pain was too severe. James Reyes further indicated that he was unable to return to work.

Kayal (Part II)

Like Goow, Kayal was outraged by what he saw in the video. In a letter to the CRC dated January 11, 2017, Kayal summarized his treatment for Reyes, but wrote that after he reviewed the video, he no longer believed Reyes. As a result, Kayal cancelled all future appointments and all further treatment.

First, Kayal wrote that he saw Reyes six times between August 10, 2016, and December 21, 2016, and that he had prescribed physical therapy for Reyes throughout this period, but that Reyes's pain did not subside. Second, Kayal wrote that on three of those six visits, Reyes received local injections into his low back to alleviate his pain. Third, Kayal wrote that the last visit was for a pre-op history and a physical exam so Reyes could receive fluoroscopically guided injections into his left hip.

At the hearing, Kayal explained that the injections were to provide additional diagnostics as well.

Kayal then wrote that when he saw Reyes for the last time, on January 11, 2017, Reyes continued to complain of low-back pain and bilateral hip pain, that Reyes was still unable to be active at all at home, and that his pain was interfering with his quality of life.

Similarly, Kayal wrote that Reyes told him that his wife still did many of the household chores because his pain was too severe, that he still had numbness and tingling in his left foot, and that his pain was still a 10 out of 10 in severity.

But Kayal did not believe him:

> It is evident after reviewing these videos of my patient Mr. James Reyes, that he can work and that his subjective pain levels that he reports during his office visits with me are not consistent with the activities he's able to perform on the videos I've reviewed. Furthermore, Mr. Reyes was willing to receive medical treatment including multiple local injections, MRI studies and physical therapy, all modalities typically reserved for patients that are severely injured and incapable of performing the activities observed on these videos.

As a result, Kayal cancelled the physical therapy, the hip injections, and the diagnostic surgery.

At the hearing, Kayal testified that he had kept Reyes out of work because of his subjective complaints of pain, and that the video is what changed his mind about him. Kayal further testified that he had brought Reyes into his office on January 11, 2017, to confront him and confirm what he saw on the video. Specifically, Kayal testified that he asked Reyes if he still could not shovel snow or sweep steps and if he still could not perform other activities of daily living, and that Reyes answered that he still could not do any of these and that his wife still had to do all of them for him.

But Kayal wrote in his office note that Reyes had told him that his wife had to do "many" of the chores, including shoveling snow, not that his wife had to do "all" of the chores.

Kayal was even unwilling to consider the possibility that Reyes had only shoveled the few inches of snow from his front porch and steps (which could be seen in the video), but that his wife had to shovel the entirety of snow from the driveway and sideway (which could not be seen in the video), or that she had to shovel the seven inches of snow that had fallen on a different date in December and was not captured by video.

Kayal also did not know whether Reyes was on any medication when he performed the activities of daily living that he saw on the video, whether those activities aggravated Reyes's condition, whether Reyes had to take any medication after he performed the activities of daily living that he saw on the video, or whether those activities were consistent with the ones Reyes performed at physical therapy.

To explicate, Kayal testified that he did not care whether the activities of daily living that he saw on the video were consistent with the ones Reyes performed at physical therapy, and that he did not even review the physical-therapy notes, because he is an orthopedist, and he was going to make his own determination whether the activities of daily living that he saw on the video were consistent with Reyes's condition.

As such, it was just Kayal's self-assured belief that if Reyes had truly been in pain, then he would not, and could not, have performed any of the activities of daily living that he saw Reyes perform on the video.

Most damaging to Kayal and his credibility, however, was the fact that Kayal had made up his mind about Reyes before Reyes even returned to his office on January 11, 2017. Kayal had testified on direct examination that he had brought Reyes into his office on January 11, 2017, to confront him about what he had seen on the video and give Reyes a chance to explain himself. As it turns out, Kayal never did confront Reyes about the video or give Reyes a chance to explain himself. In fact, Kayal admitted as much on cross-examination.

Incredibly, Kayal also admitted on cross-examination that he had drafted his letter dated January 11, 2017, which terminated all treatment for Reyes, on January 5, 2017, six days before he was supposed to confront Reyes about the video and give him a chance to explain himself.

Upon review, the only difference between the draft dated January 5, 2017, and the letter dated January 11, 2017, is the paragraph in which Kayal memorialized Reyes's continued complaints of pain as of that date.

Kayal tried to minimize this discovery by cloaking it in medical opinion, but his explanation merely revealed that he was chapped because he thought he had been duped by a patient out of work on workers' compensation, the very kind of patient Kayal tries to avoid for this very reason.

To be clear, Kayal testified that he saw himself as a "traditional orthopedic surgeon," not a "workers' compensation doctor," and he even went so far as to change the percentage of patients he said he treats on workers' compensation from "2 percent of his practice" to "1½ percent of his practice," and later still to "less than 1 percent of his practice."

Finally, Kayal confirmed that he never spoke to anyone at Paterson about whether Reyes could return to work on modified or light duty.

Reyes (Part II)

Reyes testified that Kayal only saw him on his first office visit on August 10, 2016, when Kayal administered the sciatic injections and prescribed the pain medication, and on the last office visit on January 11, 2017, when Kayal asked him who had shoveled the snow during the most recent accumulation. Reyes explained that he saw physician's assistants on all the other office visits in between. Reyes also testified that he was truthful about his symptoms and compliant with his treatment. Reyes explained that he attended physical therapy three times a week until Kayal cut him off, and that he was forthcoming about his physical activity with all of his healthcare providers throughout his treatment with them.

For example, Reyes testified that he told both the physician's assistant and the physical therapist that he had lifted the cases of water out of the shopping cart and placed them into the trunk of his car, one at a time, and that he had lifted them out of the trunk of his car and carried them into his house, one at a time. Ryes explained that the physical therapist was angry with him—not because he had lifted and carried the cases of water—but because Reyes had thought he was not allowed to do so. In short, Reyes testified that the physical therapist had encouraged him to be physically active. "That's why you come to physical therapy," Reyes recounted the physical therapist telling him; "I expect you to do that!"

Reyes also clarified what he and Kayal discussed during the last office visit on January 11, 2017, when Kayal supposedly confronted Reyes about shoveling snow. Reyes explained that he and Kayal had talked about two different things. Reyes noted that the snow he had shoveled on the video was in December 2016 and was not the most recent snowfall, so when Kayal asked him about who had shoveled the snow, Reyes naturally thought that Kayal was asking about the most recent snowfall in January 2017, so he answered that his wife had shoveled it. In fact, Reyes asserted that he could not have shoveled the snow in January 2017 because he had been doing too much at that time and was in pain.

Reyes continued that when he did shovel the snow on the porch and on the walkway in December 2016, he had been in so much pain afterward that he had to lie down once he returned inside, and put heat packs on his affected areas. Reyes explained that he had shoveled the snow because his wife had been doing so much around the house during that time and he did not want her to keep having to do everything. He said he felt "useless" so he "sucked it up." Reyes noted that the walkway he shoveled is only four feet long, but that that the driveway and walkway his wife shoveled is much longer. Reyes further explained that he can be seen shoveling the walkway because it is in the front of the house, and that his wife cannot be seen shoveling the driveway and sideway because they are to the side and back of the house and out of view.

Reyes then offered that he brushed the snow off the cars on the video because his mother-in-law is elderly and his wife looks after her, so he wanted his wife's car to be ready in case she needed it to help her mother after the snowfall.

Reyes testified that Kayal cut off his physical therapy in December, that he cancelled his injections scheduled for January before he saw him in January, and that he received no further treatment because he had no insurance. Reyes's condition then began to deteriorate. For example, Reyes said that he had to start using a cane his cousin gave him because his legs began to weaken, and that he needed the cane for stability and confidence when he walked.

Reyes admitted that he did speak to Abouyan about returning to work on modified or light duty in December 2016, but that he had been in too much pain at the time to do so, and that Kayal had not cleared him for modified or light duty anyway. Reyes explained that he had worked modified duty during a prior injury, but that he had been cleared for it. Reyes said that he would have worked on modified or light duty if Kayal had cleared him for it, and that he would still be willing to work on modified or light duty if it were offered to him.

Weiss

David Weiss, D.O., is a board-certified orthopedist and a board-certified independent medical examiner. He is also a diplomate of the American Academy of Pain Management. Weiss works for Regional Independent Medical Evaluations and has significant experience performing medical evaluations in workers' compensation claims, writing reports, and testifying in court proceedings like this one. He also has served on the medical expert advisory panel for the State Board of Medical Examiners. As a result, Weiss was offered and accepted as an expert in orthopedic medicine and disability impairment without objection.

History

On August 1, 2017, Weiss performed an independent medical evaluation of Reyes and wrote a report. In his report, Weiss recounts that on June 22, 2016, Reyes was injured at work while stepping out of his vehicle, landing on uneven pavement, twisting his torso, and causing injury to his lumbar spine and bilateral hips. He was first seen at ImmediCenter, where an MRI was recommended, and on July 11, 2016, an MRI of the lumbar spine revealed a disc bulge at L5-S1.

On August 10, 2016, Reyes was evaluated by Kayal, who recommended injections, and on an unspecified date Reyes received ultrasound-guided bilateral sciatic injections.

On August 29, 2016, Rahul Sood, D.O., a pain-management specialist, recommended physical therapy and additional injections.

On September 6, 2016, Sood performed transforaminal epidural injections with steroids at left L4-L5 and L5-S1 under fluoroscopy, and on September 21, 2016, Sood performed lumbar facet injections with local anesthetic and steroids at left L3-L4, L4-L5, and L5-S1 under fluoroscopy.

On October 19, 2016, an MRI of the cervical spine revealed disc bulge at C3-C4, C4-C5, C5-C6, and C6-C7; an MRI of the right hip revealed a bone contusion versus a stress reaction along the right superior acetabular rim; and an MRI of the left hip revealed a posterior superior labral tear.

Reyes was to receive ultrasound-guided left-hip injections in January 2017, but Kayal canceled the procedure.

To remind, Kayal never consulted with the physical therapist who had been treating Reyes for his dysfunction, and he never consulted with Sood, who had been treating Reyes for his pain.

Complaints

Weiss testified that when he examined Reyes on August 1, 2017—more than six months after Kayal had cancelled all his treatment, including the physical therapy, the pain medication, the hip injections, and the diagnostic surgery—and that Reyes had deteriorated. At the hearing, Weiss referred to his report. In his report, Weiss wrote that

Reyes complained of low-back pain and stiffness, which was daily and constant, and radicular pain, which radiated into the left lower extremity. Weiss also wrote that changes in the weather, and coughing and sneezing, exacerbate or aggravate the pain.

In addition, Weiss wrote that Reyes complained of right-hip pain and stiffness, which was daily, but that it waxed and waned and was also exacerbated by changes in the weather.

Similarly, Weiss wrote that Reyes complained of left-hip pain, stiffness, and weakness, which was daily and constant and exacerbated by changes in the weather.

Regarding activities of daily living, Weiss wrote that Reyes complained that he could no longer work as a firefighter, that he needed his wife's help to complete household tasks, and that he even had difficulty with self-care. Examples included washing the dishes, washing himself, and getting dressed. Weiss continued that Reyes can sit comfortably for only fifteen minutes in an hour and can stand comfortably for only ten minutes at a time. As a result, Reyes can only walk no more than two blocks and now needs a cane to ambulate.

Weiss also wrote that Reyes noted difficulty sleeping, climbing stairs, and moving from a seated to a standing position. Similarly, Weiss wrote that Reyes noted difficulty bending, twisting, and lifting. More specifically, Weiss wrote that Reyes has difficulty lifting weights greater than ten to fifteen pounds; that Reyes has difficulty kneeling and squatting on his left side; and that Reyes has difficulty squatting (but not kneeling) on his right side. As such, Reyes can no longer exercise.

Finally, Weiss wrote that Reyes noted that he can no longer drive or ride in a motor vehicle without difficulty, and that he can no longer have sex without difficulty or dysfunction.

Weiss reported that Reyes stated that his pain was 6–10 on a scale of 1–10 involving the lumbar spine, 1–6 on a scale of 1–10 involving the right hip, 4–10 on a scale of 1–10 involving the left hip, and 3–8 on a scale of 1–10 involving the left lower extremity.

Meanwhile, Patient Reported Outcomes Measurement Information Systems (PROMIS) revealed a moderate pain disability, namely, a chronic low-back disability. Weiss further reported that the PROMIS revealed a 62 percent bilateral lower-extremity disability.

Examination

Physical examination revealed paravertebral muscle spasm and tenderness over the posterior midline, iliolumbar ligamentous tenderness bilaterally, and tenderness over the L4-L5 and L5-S1 facet joint on the left and over the L5-S1 facet joint on the right. Facet-joint compression testing was positive too. Range of motion of the lumbar spine revealed forward flexion of 80/80 degrees, backward extension of 10/30 degrees, left lateral flexion of 10/30 degrees, and right lateral flexion of 20/30 degrees. All ranges of motion were carried though with pain at the extremes.

The sitting root sign was positive on the right at 90 degrees, producing axial low pain, and was positive on the left at 75 degrees, producing pain in the left-hip joint. Straight leg raising was positive on the left at 90 degrees, producing axial low-back pain, and the extensor hallucis longus muscles were graded 5/5. At the hearing, Weiss noted that straight leg raising produced pain in the low back and in the left-hip joint, that the left quadricep had atrophied, and that both the leg rolling and the Patrick's test produced pain in the left inguinal region.

Weiss made other physical findings (which he detailed in his report) and he reviewed the medical record (which he explained at the hearing) to diagnose Reyes with the following:

- Chronic post-traumatic lumbosacral sprain and strain
- Bulging lumbar disc L5-S1
- Post-traumatic lumbar facet joint syndrome
- Aggravation of pre-existing quiescent degenerative disc disease L5-S1
- Post-traumatic interventional pain management with lumbar epidural block and facet joint block
- Post-traumatic left hip strain and sprain

- Post-traumatic acetabular labral tear to the left hip confirmed by MRI on 10/19/16
- Post-traumatic femoral acetabular impingement syndrome to the left hip
- Chronic post-traumatic right hip strain and sprain

Explication

Most important, Weiss explained at the hearing that his physical findings meant that Reyes could bend forward, but not backward, without pain, and that none of the activities he saw Reyes perform on the video, including the shoveling of snow and the lifting of water cases, contradicted his medical profile, because the shoveling of snow and the lifting of water cases involved bending forward, not backward. In addition, Weiss explained that the labral tear in the left hip has nothing to do with forward or backward flexion. Moreover, Weiss explained that he saw nothing in the video demonstrative of the moderate to heavy duty that Reyes would have to perform as a firefighter. Finally, Weiss explained that no evidence existed of any symptom magnification.

Thus, Weiss concluded that there was no fraud:

> There is no evidence of comparative fraud on this claimant's part nor is there any evidence contradicting this claimant's symptomatology in light of the objective orthopaedic findings in both the orthopaedic examination and the neurodiagnostic imaging (MRI lumbar spine, MRI left hip and MRI right hip).

Weiss testified that based on the video he saw, Reyes could have returned to work in December 2016 on modified or light duty—provided it did not involve anything physical and Reyes was no longer taking class-two opioids, which affect cognitive ability—but none was offered, so none was considered. Toward this end, Weiss noted that Paterson could have had Reyes undergo a functional-capacity evaluation, but never required him to do so. As a final comment, Weiss said that he would not have recommended the epidural blocks and facet-joint blocks Sood performed so soon without more information, but he would have recommended the diagnostic injection Kayal cancelled to obtain that additional information.

Kayal (Part III)

On rebuttal, Kayal confirmed that modified or light duty was never offered, so it was never considered, but that he disagreed with Weiss that the activities of daily living he saw on the video did not involve backward flexion. Kayal then conceded that he never checked the left quadricep for atrophy, that he only examined Reyes on the first and last visits (and that physician's assistants examined Reyes in between), and that he did not (nor did any of the physician's assistants) test Reyes for symptom magnification. Remarkably, Kayal admitted that even though he was going to cut Reyes off from further treatment because he thought Reyes had been lying to him about his symptoms, Kayal (the doctor) kept this information to himself and did not share it with Reyes (his patient) at the follow-up office visit on January 11, 2017.

Then Kayal lied in the medical record that he was going to continue treatment as planned by writing that he was going to perform the hip injections, that Reyes should schedule another follow-up visit in six weeks, that he was going to refer Reyes to another doctor for facet-joint injections, and that Reyes should schedule an appointment with yet another doctor for his lower back pain:

If the record is not clear by now, I believe that Kayal is not a trustworthy witness and I will not credit his testimony.

Injury/Sick-Leave Policy

Brian McDermott is the deputy fire chief for Paterson Fire Department and serves as its executive officer. McDermott was a straightforward and honest witness. In short, McDermott testified that Reyes is in violation of the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy for lying about his injuries and for failing to report for modified or light duty.

McDermott explained that modified or light duty is offered to anyone who is qualified for it, and that Reyes could have been accommodated for it, but McDermott did not testify that Reyes was qualified for modified or light duty or that any accommodation was made for him. Nor did McDermott testify that Reyes was required to report for any. To be sure, McDermott admitted on rebuttal that Kayal had not cleared Reyes for modified or light duty, and that Paterson could not have put Reyes on modified or light duty without such clearance.

McDermott's testimony aside, a review of the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy readily reveals that the policy does not support the position Paterson asserts. Nowhere in the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy does it say that modified or light duty is available to any or all firefighters; nowhere in the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy does it say that it is the duty or responsibility of the injured or sick firefighter to request or seek modified or light duty; and nowhere in the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy does it say that it is the duty or the responsibility of the injured or sick firefighter to apprise any or all treating physicians about the possibility of modified or light duty.

To the contrary, the Injury/Sick-Leave Policy states that it is the responsibility of the tour commander/division commander to obtain all information necessary to complete the Reporting Sick/Injured form, to obtain specifics about the sickness or injury, or, if unknown, a description of the symptoms. It is the responsibility of the tour commander/division commander to monitor and enforce the policy and procedure. Indeed, it is the responsibility of the tour commander/division commander to check every sick/injured report for correctness and content. Finally, in evaluating fitness for duty, if practical, it is the responsibility of the chief of the Department to require a member to undergo a fitness evaluation.

These are Command's responsibilities, not Reyes's responsibilities, and no one at Command discharged them.

Duty

Abouyan testified that he suggested to Reyes that he return to work on modified or light duty and that Reyes told him that he was in too much pain to do so. Abouyan, however, did not remember when he had this conversation with Reyes. Reyes later testified that Abouyan had this conversation with him in December 2016, and that he did in fact tell Abouyan that he was in too much pain to return to work on modified or light duty, but that he also told Abouyan that Kayal had not cleared him to do so.

Significantly, Abouyan did not testify that he told Reyes to return to work on modified or light duty or that modified or light duty was even available to Reyes.

Abouyan testified that he also spoke to Kayal about Reyes returning to work on modified or light duty, but a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that this conversation ever occurred. First, on cross-examination, Abouyan changed his testimony and stated that he spoke to Kayal's office, not Kayal, about Reyes returning to work on modified or light duty, and that he informed Kayal's office that modified or light duty was available to Reyes. Abouyan said that he even explained to Kayal's staff what he meant by modified or light duty.

Abouyan then guessed that he called Kayal's office in October 2016, before Reyes's follow-up office visit on October 14, 2016, to talk to Kayal's staff about Reyes returning to work on modified or light duty, but Sulayka Perez, the staffperson at Kayal Orthopedic Center who is responsible for the administration of all workers' compensation claims at the orthopedic office, conceded on cross-examination that Abouyan never spoke to her about Reyes or returning him to work on modified or light duty.

Moreover, Perez admitted on cross-examination that she never spoke to Kayal about modified or light duty being available to anyone at Paterson, let alone to Reyes.

Given this discussion, I FIND that Abouyan did not tell Reyes, Kayal, or Perez that modified or light duty was available to Reyes or that modified or light duty could be made available to him.

Similarly, I FIND that no one else from Paterson told Reyes, Kayal, Perez, or anyone else from Kayal's office that modified or light duty was available to Reyes or how modified or light duty could be made available to him.

In addition, I FIND that a preponderance of the evidence does not exist that it was generally known among Paterson firefighters that modified or light duty was available or could be made available to Paterson firefighters at any time.

Indeed, I FIND that Paterson had not, in fact, made modified or light duty available to Reyes and had acted, instead, upon Kayal's medical advice that Reyes was incapable of returning to work on full duty and, as a result, excused Reyes from all duty.

Likewise, I FIND that Paterson never required Reyes to undergo a fitness evaluation.

To be clear, I FIND that Reyes could have returned to work on modified or light duty in December 2016 when the video surveillance was obtained—provided that the work did not involve any physical activity and that Reyes did not need to take any opioids to do it—but modified or light duty was not offered to Reyes and Kayal had not cleared Reyes for any.

Above all, I FIND that Reyes was honest about his symptoms and his pain, and what he could and could not do; that Reyes had not lied to anyone about his symptoms and his pain, and what he could and could not do; and that the video did not contradict or contraindicate that Reyes was honest about his symptoms and his pain, and had not lied to anyone about what he could and could not do.

On this score, I FIND that Weiss, not Kayal, was a credible witness, and I credit Weiss and his testimony, not Kayal and his testimony.

Finally, I FIND that Reyes cannot return to work on full or heavy duty, but that he can return to work on modified or light duty, and that he is willing to return to work on modified or light duty, which Paterson has still not offered or made available to him.

In short, I FIND that Paterson has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the specifications it alleges in its Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, or at the hearing, and that Reyes did not engage in any of the misconduct with which he is charged.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

In appeals concerning major disciplinary action, the appointing authority bears the burden of proof. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The burden of proof is by a preponderance of the evidence, Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962), and the hearing is de novo, Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 579 (1980). On such appeals, the Civil Service Commission may increase or decrease the penalty, N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19, and the concept of progressive discipline guides that determination, In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 483–86 (2007). Thus, an employee's prior disciplinary record is inherently relevant to determining an appropriate penalty for a subsequent offense, In re Carter, 191 N.J. at 483, and the question upon appellate review is whether such punishment is "so disproportionate to the offense, in the light of all the circumstances, as to be shocking to one's sense of fairness," Id. at 484 (quoting In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 578, (1982) (internal quotes omitted)). Indeed, progressive discipline may only be bypassed when the misconduct is severe, when it renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when the application of progressive discipline would be contrary to the public interest—such as when the position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007).

Since I found that Paterson has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of the specifications it alleges in its Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, or any of the additional specifications it alleged at the hearing, and that Reyes did not engage in any of the misconduct with which he is charged, I CONCLUDE that Paterson has not proven by a preponderance of the evidence any of charges contained in its Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, that the charges against Reyes should be dismissed, and that Reyes should be reinstated to his position of fire captain.

As a result, I further CONCLUDE that Reyes should be awarded all requisite back pay, benefits, attorney fees, and costs associated with this case.

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that all the charges against Reyes be DISMISSED, that Reyes be REINSTATED to his position of captain, and that Reyes be AWARDED all requisite back pay, benefits, attorney fees, and costs associated with this case.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified, or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which is authorized by law to make a final decision in this case. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify, or reject this decision within forty-five days, and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: MAY 4, 2018 BW

The appeal of Purvis Ricks, County Correction Officer, Burlington County Jail, removal effective September 26, 2017, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Mary Ann Bogan, who rendered her initial decision on March 20, 2018. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of May 2, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Purvis Ricks.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSR 15058-17

IN THE MATTER OF PURVIS L. RICKS,
BURLINGTON COUNTY JAIL.

Mark W. Catanzaro, Esq., for appellant Purvis L. Ricks (Law Offices of Mark W. Catanzaro, attorneys)

Andrew C. Rimol, Special County Counsel, for respondent Burlington County Jail (Capehart Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 5, 2018 Decided: March 20, 2018

BEFORE MARY ANN BOGAN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant Purvis Ricks, a county correction officer with respondent Burlington County Jail (County), appeals from disciplinary action removing him for incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties; conduct unbecoming; neglect of duty; other sufficient cause—violation of Policy and Procedures Manual sections 1009, 1022, 1023, 1038; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.5(a)(2), opportunity for hearing before the appointing authority; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7(a)(2), actions involving criminal matters; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7(c), actions involving criminal matters. The allegation relating to these charges is that appellant pled guilty to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a), theft of movable property. Appellant admits that he pled guilty, but contends that he has not been convicted, the notice does not set forth the underlying conduct, and therefore removal is not the appropriate discipline.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On December 12, 2016, the respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth charges for an incident that allegedly occurred on November 11, 2016. On September 26, 2017, the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), sustaining the charges and removing the appellant.

After issuance of the FNDA the appellant filed a direct appeal of this matter with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 10, 2017. The hearing was originally scheduled for December 19, 2017, and adjourned at the request of the respondent. The hearing was again scheduled for January 12, 2018, and was adjourned this time at the request of the appellant. The hearing was held on February 6, 2018, although the appellant did not appear. The record remained open for the submission of briefs. After the briefs were filed on March 5, 2018, the record closed. The appellant waived his right to restoration of pay in the event a disposition of this matter under N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201, otherwise known as the 180-day rule, specifically (b)(4), for a period from January 12, 2018, to February 6, 2018. All parties agree that the County is responsible for the corresponding time period from December 19, 2017, to January 12, 2018, due to adjournment of the hearing at the County's request.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

T.G. Blango (Blango) is the administrative lieutenant for the County. His responsibilities include conducting background checks and determining appropriate disciplinary action for employee wrongdoing. It is his job to collect and review incident reports and videos, and to conduct investigations. Based upon his investigation and review, Blango makes disciplinary recommendations to the warden with respect to employee conduct.

Blango reviewed the complaint/warrant which sets forth that on November 11, 2016, appellant obtained a credit card from a person without the cardholder's consent when he took and concealed a wallet at Old Navy belonging to a customer in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:21-6(c)(1), a fourth-degree crime. (R-1.) The Washington Police Department Incident Report indicates that the customer reported she mistakenly left her wallet on the counter at Old Navy. The store camera footage depicts a black male with a sweatshirt taking the wallet off the counter and placing it in his pocket. (R-2.) On December 9, 2017, the appellant issued a voluntary written statement to the police admitting that he noticed a wallet similar to the wallet his daughter carries on the store counter, and then mistakenly picked up the wallet thinking it was his daughter's wallet. (R-3.) On August 9, 2017, appellant pled guilty to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a), theft of movable property, in Washington Township Municipal Court. (R-4.) On December 12, 2016, the County issued a PNDA setting forth charges for the plea of guilty to the theft on November 11, 2016. (R-5.) The FNDA, sustaining the charges and removing the appellant, was issued on September 26, 2017. (R-6.)

On September 27, 2012, appellant certified that he received the County's Standard Operating Policies and Procedures Disk or Manual for Burlington County Detention Facility and Corrections and Work Release Center. (R-7.) Among the charges, the appellant was terminated for violating specifically:

Section 1009, in part:

> [A]ll County Correction Officers after having met all requirements shall be qualified as Peace Officers, therefore a bona fide Law Enforcement Officer and expected to uphold the highest standards of professionalism both on duty and off duty.

[R-8.]

Section 1022, in part:

> No officer shall violate the laws, statutes or ordinances of the United States . . . . Violation of any law shall subject the officer or employee to prosecution.

[R-9.]

Section 1023, in part:

> All officers of the Burlington County Department of Corrections shall be responsible to observe, comply strictly adhere and enforce all rules, regulations and to follow the policies and procedures contained herein and any amendment promulgated and approved by the Warden.

[R-9.]

Section 1038, in part:

> No officer shall act or behave, either in an official or private capacity, to the officer's discredit, or to the discredit of the department.

[R-9.]

Appellant's disciplinary history was also made part of the record. (R-10.)

Blango acknowledged that he did not interview the victim, he did not speak to Detective Meyer, who prepared the complaint/warrant, and he did not attend municipal court on August 9, 2017. He did view the footage of the incident on the store camera, and determined that a theft occurred when the appellant took the wallet off the store counter.

Based on the testimonial and documentary evidence presented, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Appellant was employed as a correction officer with the Burlington County Jail.

2. On December 6, 2016, appellant was charged with credit-card theft, N.J.S.A. 2C:21-6(c)(1), a fourth-degree crime.

3. Appellant was then charged by the respondent with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty. Appellant was also charged with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, for violation of Policy and Procedures Manual sections 1009, 1022, 1023, and 1038, for failure to uphold the highest standards of professionalism both on duty and off duty; for violating the laws; and for engaging in conduct that brings discredit to himself and the Department.

4. On August 9, 2017, appellant pled guilty to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a), theft of movable property, before Judge Martin W. Whitcraft, JMC, in the Washington Township Municipal Court.

5. Appellant was then suspended on August 16, 2017, without pay.

6. Appellant was served with an FNDA relating to the charges and ordering his removal as a correction officer with the Burlington County Jail as of September 26, 2017.

7. Appellant was offered entry into the conditional-dismissal program.

8. At no time was appellant convicted of the offense contained in the complaint.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 et seq., governs a public employee's rights and duties. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. Mastrobattista v. Essex Cnty. Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act sets forth that State policy is to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory, and other personnel authority to public officials so they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b). However, consistent with public policy and civil-service law, a public entity should not be burdened with an employee who fails to perform his or her duties satisfactorily or who engages in misconduct related to his or her duties. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(a). To carry out this policy, the Act authorizes the discipline (and termination) of public employees. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6.

A civil-service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2. The general causes for such discipline are set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). In appeals concerning major disciplinary actions, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The standard of proof in administrative proceedings is a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). The preponderance may be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in a case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Both guilt and penalty are redetermined on appeal from a determination by the appointing authority. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

Here, the appellant challenges the sufficiency of the disciplinary notice served upon him because the FNDA does not set forth that he committed a theft. The respondent submits that the specifications provided appellant with "plain notice" of the disciplinary charges filed against him. The respondent, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7(b)(1), served a second PNDA after appellant pled guilty to criminal charges in municipal court.

Ultimately, the FNDA was served after the appellant decided not to request a departmental hearing.

In Sabia v. City of Elizabeth, 132 N.J. Super. 6, 14 (App. Div. 1974), the Appellate Division held that a disciplinary proceeding for a public employee is in no way a criminal or quasi-criminal proceeding and, consequently, the employee in such a proceeding does not come within the shield of the various constitutional guarantees accorded persons accused of a crime. Departmental disciplinary proceedings are civil in nature; requirements of due process are satisfied so long as proceedings are conducted with fundamental fairness, including adequate procedural safeguards. See also In re F.P., Dep't of Corr., No. A-1368-13 (June 10, 2015), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that appellant was served with sufficient notice of the charges against him.

Moreover, even though the appellant does not dispute the fact that he pled guilty to N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a), theft of movable property, he submits that the charges cannot be sustained because he was not convicted. The appellant was charged administratively with pleading guilty to an offense in municipal court, but he had not been convicted of anything since he was admitted to the conditional-dismissal program,[1] which is not a conviction. Appellant argues that this procedural nuance, which allows for a later dismissal of the criminal charge, negates his act of pleading guilty to the underlying conduct upon which the administrative charges are based, especially since after appellant's successful completion of the conditional-dismissal program, the charges will be dismissed.

Respondent argues that appellant's participation in the conditional-dismissal program does not preclude the County from seeking the appellant's termination, because he pled guilty to the underlying conduct. Respondent submits that these disciplinary charges apply to the conduct of appellant underlying the criminal charges. (Resp't's Br.,

[1] N.J.S.A. 2C:43-13.1.

March 2, 2018 (citing Reno v. Dep't of Corr., CSV 9685-00, Initial Decision (December 26, 2002), adopted, MSB (March 5, 2003), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/).)

Here, the respondent brought disciplinary action and seeks removal of the appellant because of the underlying conduct that brought forth his arrest, the charges, the guilty plea, and appellant's subsequent admission into the conditional-dismissal program. The fact that the charges could ultimately be dismissed after he successfully completed the conditional-dismissal program is not relevant. "Where the conduct of a public employee which forms the basis of disciplinary proceedings may also constitute a violation of the criminal law, . . . the absence of a conviction, whether by reason of non-prosecution or even acquittal, bars neither prosecution nor finding of guilt for misconduct in office in the disciplinary proceedings." Sabia, 132 N.J. Super. at 12.

I CONCLUDE that the charges against appellant are founded upon the conduct underlying the criminal charges against him. I also CONCLUDE that appellant's participation in the conditional-dismissal program does not preclude the respondent from pursuing disciplinary action against the appellant based upon the underlying conduct.

The County seeks to impose major discipline, namely removal, on the appellant for violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty. Appellant was also charged with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, for violation of Policy and Procedures Manual sections 1009, 1022, 1023, 1038, for failure to uphold the highest standards of professionalism both on duty and off duty, for violating the laws, and for engaging in conduct that brings discredit to himself and the County.

As to the charges of incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), the Administrative Code does not define these grounds for disciplinary action. However, case law has determined that incompetence is a "lack of the ability or qualifications necessary to perform the duties required of an individual [and] a consistent failure by an individual to perform his/her prescribed duties in a manner that is minimally acceptable for his/her position." Sotomayer v. Plainfield Police Dep't, CSV 9921-98, Initial Decision (December 6, 1999) (citing Steinel v. City of Jersey City, 7 N.J.A.R. 91 (1983); Clark v. New Jersey Dep't of Agric., 1 N.J.A.R. 315 (1980)), adopted, MSB (January 24, 2000), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. "Inefficiency" has been defined as the "quality of being incapable or indisposed to do the things required of an officer" in a timely and satisfactory manner." Glenn v. Twp. of Irvington, CSV 5051-03, Initial Decision (February 25, 2005), adopted, MSB (May 23, 2005), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Appellant has been inefficient in his duties, as he is no longer capable of performing his duties. It was appellant's duty to observe and obey all laws, rules, and regulations, and orders of the Department. Instead he conducted himself in a manner that caused harm to other citizens, while in public, which resulted in a criminal plea. Accordingly, he can no longer uphold the integrity of the County and he remains inefficient in his duties. I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this charge.

Conduct unbecoming a public employee has been interpreted broadly as conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect for governmental employees and confidence in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "'be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency.'" Karins, supra, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not "'be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior.'" Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)). Appellant pled guilty to theft of movable property, and the conduct he pled guilty to is unbecoming to a public employee. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this charge.

Appellant was also charged with neglect of duty, violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7). Neglect of duty can arise from an omission to perform a duty or failure to perform or discharge a duty, and includes official misconduct or misdoing, as well as negligence. Steinel v. City of Jersey City, 7 N.J.A.R. 91, 95 (1983), modified on other grounds, Civ.

Serv. Comm'n, 7 N.J.A.R. 100 (1983), modified on other grounds, 193 N.J. Super. 629 (App. Div. 1984), aff'd, 99 N.J. 1 (1985). Generally, the term neglect connotes a deviation from normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). Appellant neglected to uphold the policies and procedures of the County when he did not follow the policies and procedures and conduct himself with the highest standards of professionalism, both on duty and off duty. Therefore, respondent has proven that appellant has committed an act of neglect of duty, and I do so CONCLUDE.

Appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419 (1955). As to the charge of other sufficient cause, appellant conducted himself in a manner that violated standards of good behavior when he violated Policies and Procedures sections 1009, 1022, 1023, and 1038. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this charge.

I also CONCLUDE that the charges of violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.5(a)(2), N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7(a)(2), and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7(c) are not conduct charges; these are regulations set forth for purposes of procedural guidelines.

PENALTY

Once a determination is made that an employee has violated a statute, regulation, or rule concerning his employment, the concept of progressive discipline must be considered. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). However, it is well established that where the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature, the imposition of a penalty up to and including removal is appropriate, regardless of an individual's disciplinary history. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33–34 (2007). The principal of progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007). Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished record. Ibid.

In this case, the appellant's misconduct is serious, as he pled guilty to theft of movable property. The charges are particularly egregious, in that a law-enforcement officer is held to a higher standard of conduct than other employees and, more than other employees, is expected to act in a responsible manner, honestly, and with integrity, fidelity, and good faith. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576 (1990); Reinhardt v. E. Jersey State Prison, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 166. It is settled that suspension or removal may be justified where the misconduct occurred off-duty; were it otherwise, "the desired goal of upholding the morale and discipline of the force, as well as maintaining public respect for its officers, would be undermined." In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 140.

Furthermore, the policies and procedures that appellant failed to adhere to, as a paramilitary organization, are to be strictly followed. Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority are not to be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

The County relies principally on the egregiousness of the conduct to support termination. In addition, appellant has a history of thirteen sustained major disciplines beginning in 2003 to present, including a 100-day suspension. (R-10.)

Having considered all of the proofs offered in this matter, and the impact upon the institution of the behavior of the appellant herein, I CONCLUDE that appellant's misconduct was so egregious as to warrant removal, and respondent's action of removing the appellant from his position is appropriate. Appellant betrayed his official duties for personal gain, and deprived a fellow citizen of their rights and benefits in direct contradiction to the conduct expected of him.

I CONCLUDE that the action of the appointing authority removing appellant for his actions should be affirmed.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the charges against the appellant for violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), Incompetency, Inefficiency or Failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), Conduct unbecoming; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), Neglect of Duty and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause including appellant's failure to perform his duties in accordance with Department Rules and Regulations 1009,1022,1023, and policy 1038 for engaging in conduct which brings disrepute on the Department are AFFIRMED. (The charges for N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.5(a)(2), 4A:2-2.7(a)(2); 4A:2-2.7(c) are regulations set forth for purposes of procedural guidelines, and are not conduct charges).

Accordingly, I ORDER that the action taken by the County in removing appellant from his position as a county correction officer is AFFIRMED, and the appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 1463-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-2276

IN THE MATTER OF CARLTON SANKOH, DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL.

William A. Nash, Esq., appearing for appellant (Nash Law Firm, LLC, attorneys)

Aimee Blenner, Deputy Attorney General, appearing for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 12, 2018 Decided: April 16, 2018

BEFORE MARY ANN BOGAN, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 31, 2017, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Settlement Agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

Re: Terrence Statham v. New Jersey City University (CSC Docket No. 2018-2788 and OAL Docket No. CSV 5725-18) - SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Spencer and Mr. Piaskowsky:

The appeal of Terrence Statham, a Senior Building Maintenance Worker, New Jersey City University, of his removal effective March 9, 2018 on charges, was before Chief Administrative Law Judge and Acting Director Lisa James-Beavers (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on May 21, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on May 22, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on July 6, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective July 7, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo
Deputy Director

IN THE MATTER OF KARSHAWN J. BATIE,
BURLINGTON COUNTY JAIL.

Daniel M. Rosenberg, Esq., for appellant Karshawn J. Batie (Daniel M. Rosenberg and Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Andrew C. Rimol, Esq., for respondent Burlington County (Capehart and Scatchard, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 6, 2018 Decided: April 16, 2018

BEFORE PATRICIA M. KERINS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant Karshawn J. Batie (Batie) appeals his termination from his position as a Burlington County correction officer for failing to conduct required security checks and for making false entries in the facility's logbook that he had performed those security checks. Batie does not dispute that he falsified the entries and failed to conduct the required security checks, but asserts that the penalty of termination is excessive.

Respondent Burlington County (Burlington) terminated Batie on November 13, 2017, by two Final Notices of Disciplinary Action (FNDA). On August 4, 2017, Burlington had issued two Preliminary Notices of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) against Batie charging him with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3), inability to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, specifically, violations of Policies and Procedures Manual sections 1007, 1023, 1030, 1031, 1038, 1065, 1066, 1172, 1190, 1192, and 1250, for failure to conduct required security checks and making false entries regarding those security checks. The first PNDA cited events occurring on June 27 and 28, 2017, while the second cited the same conduct occurring on June 30 and July 1, 2017. Batie had waived a departmental hearing, and Burlington then issued two Final Notices of Disciplinary Action, each terminating appellant effective November 13, 2017. His appeal was received at the Office of Administrative Law on December 4, 2017 (N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202(d)), and scheduled for hearing on January 3, 2018. However, when he filed his appeal form, the FNDA for the June 30 and July 1, 2017, charges was attached, but only the PNDA for the June 27 and 28, 2017, charges, not the FNDA, was attached.

During a telephone status conference held on January 2, 2018, the parties requested an adjournment of the January 3, 2018, hearing date, and the matter was rescheduled for February 8, 9, and 13, 2018, and a letter was received from appellant's counsel regarding the excludable time under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.13(h)(8). The hearing date of February 8, 2018, was adjourned at the parties' request, and the matter was heard on February 9, 2018. At the hearing on February 9, 2018, respondent for the first time raised the issue of whether the matter was moot due to Batie's failure to attach the second FNDA to his appeal. Burlington contended that since only the second PNDA was attached to the appeal, Batie's termination on the charges regarding incidents on June 27 and June 28, 2017, was uncontested and therefore final. As such, it asserted that his appeal on the other FNDA was moot. The appellant disagreed, and the hearing proceeded on both FNDAs, with a decision on Burlington's argument reserved.

Testimony concluded on February 9, 2018, and the record remained open for post-hearing submissions. The record closed on March 6, 2018, after the receipt of the submissions and the appellant's disciplinary history.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The material facts in this matter are not in dispute. Batie was employed as a correction officer by Burlington County. On two shifts in 2017, June 27–28, and June 30–July 1, he did not perform required periodic tours of I Wing, the section of the Burlington County Detention Center ("the facility") to which he was assigned. Despite not having performed the inspections, he documented that he had performed the inspections in the facility's log. Batie's failure to perform the inspections came to light following an examination of video recordings of I Wing that had resulted from a request made by the attorney for another officer facing disciplinary action in an unrelated matter. Batie was charged in two separate Preliminary Notices of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), one for each shift, with violations of the New Jersey Administrative Code, as well as violation of various internal policies. Batie does not deny that he did not perform the inspections set forth in the specifications.

At the hearing, Burlington presented the testimony of Captain Matthew Leith (Leith), the current administrative captain of the facility. He testified as to the investigation conducted by Captain McDonnell, who reviewed video recordings on the unit for the shifts in question. That review showed that Batie failed to conduct security tours on the 1800–0600 (6-p.m.-to-6-a.m.) shift on June 27–28, 2017, at 2130, 2202, 2225, 2301, 2331, 0001, 0028, 0128, 0201, 0206, 0224, 0303, 0324, 0401, 0429, and 0501. He then entered false entries into the official logbook for these security checks, when in fact he had not performed them. Additionally, on the 1800–0600 shift on June 30–July 1, 2017, Batie failed to perform security tours at 1800, 1925, 2131, 2158, 2201, 2227, 2301, 0058, 0130, 0150, and 0328. In each instance he again entered false entries into the logbook showing that he had conducted the inspections.

Leith also testified as to the importance of the periodic tours that officers are required to conduct during their time assigned to a wing. I Wing is a small wing which houses new admissions to the facility. He described it as a dormitory-like area with bunks. As there is no desk for an officer directly on the wing, officers must be buzzed in and out of the control room to make their rounds. On cross-examination, Leith admitted that two superior officers assigned to I Wing during this period were not disciplined when a review of the videos showed that they had not conducted their required tours as set forth in P-3 and P-4, duties for sergeant and lieutenant, respectively. He was also questioned about discipline imposed in 2014 by Burlington on an officer for infractions similar to those of Batie. Those charges only resulted in a suspension (P-1; P-2). Leith stated that the new administration of the facility has chosen to impose a harsher penalty for such infractions.

Leith identified several policies and procedures of the facility that are applicable and that spell out the responsibilities of correction officers—policies and procedures that the County charges Batie violated. Policies and Procedures Manual section 1007 provides that officers are to listen for unusual sounds in cell blocks, changes in noise levels, and calls for help; detect unusual odors; prevent escapes and suicides; and patrol cell-block areas to check for safety-and-security hazards such as fires, smoke, broken pipes or windows, etc. This is all done in order to "protect the security and safety of the inmates and the institution." (J-7.)

Burlington's Policies and Procedures Manual sections 1012–1074 provide that officers are subject to discipline, including dismissal, for any violation of the policies and procedures. Policy 1023 specifically requires such compliance with the policies. Policy 1030 holds officers responsible for "the efficient performance of duties assigned and for the proper supervision of any inmate in his/her custody." Policy 1031 requires that officers "promptly obey any lawful order." Policy 1038 prohibits officers from acting in any manner that is to the officer's, or the department's, discredit. Policy 1065 prohibits any officer from making "any false or misleading statements or written reports by intentional omission or misrepresentation of facts or information known to the officer." And Policy 1066 provides that "[n]o officer shall . . . enter, in any official book or record, any false or misleading statements." (J-8.)

Policy 1172 specifically provides for the maintenance of logbooks, in which are to be recorded any events, inmate movements, incidents, and situations of special circumstance. Officers are trained in the use and maintenance of these logs. Section C.15 of this Policy provides that the logbook contains "Officer security/touring wing (30 min general security check)." Section A.4 of this Policy provides that "falsification of these documents will not be tolerated; offender(s) are subject to disciplinary action and/or criminal charges (Official Misconduct)." (J-9.) Leith noted that the jail's logbooks are legal documents used for official purposes, even becoming evidence in legal proceedings.

Policy 1190, section C, provides that "Security tours will be made approximately every thirty (30) minutes at irregular intervals. An accounting of inmates is also done during security tours, which enables the shift to accomplish the dual requirements of security and count procedures." (J-10.) Policy 1250, section A.15, requires "routine tours of the entire tier or post" to be made "approximately every thirty (30) minutes. This duty requires the officer to physically walk around to make an inspection. The officer will document in the post logbook when such duty was performed and note findings of each tour." (J-11.)

Burlington also entered into evidence a 2012 receipt signed by Batie confirming that the Policies and Procedures Manual had been received and was in effect. (J-12.)

Based on the record in this matter, I FIND that Officer Batie did not perform the required walking inspections of I Wing on June 27–28, 2017. He made false entries in the logbook to indicate that he had performed these inspections. Further, I FIND that on June 30–July 1, 2017, he failed to perform the required walking inspections and, again, he made false entries in the logbook to show that he had performed the tours.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In a civil-service disciplinary action, the appointing authority bears the burden of establishing alleged violations of Administrative Code provisions that subject the employee to disciplinary sanction. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). The proof must be by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982).

Burlington asserts that Batie violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3), inability to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause. This latter charge alleges violations of Policies and Procedures Manual sections 1007, 1023, 1030, 1031, 1038, 1065, 1066, 1172, 1190, 1192, and 1250. During the hearing, Burlington withdrew the charge of violation of Policy 1192.

The first issue that must be addressed is the procedural motion made by Burlington that the matter is moot, as Batie did not include the FNDA for the June 27–28, 2017, charges with his appeal form. Rather, he admittedly only included the PNDA for those charges. Burlington contends that since that FNDA for the June 27–28, 2017, charges—which was issued on the same day as the FNDA for the June 30–July 1, 2017, charges—was not included in the appeal transmittal, that termination was effective, and any appeal of the other FNDA is moot. Appellant disagrees, disputing whether he was even served with the second FNDA, pointing out that Burlington has not presented a certified mail receipt for the June 27–28, 2017, FNDA.

It should be noted that in determining whether appellant perfected the appeal for the FNDA relating to the events of July 27–28, 2017, both parties admitted on the first day of hearing that they had just noticed the discrepancy in the appeal documents. No motion regarding the mootness of the appeal had been made prior to that time and respondent had filed no objection to the appeal going forward. Additionally, the matter had been transmitted to the OAL for hearing without the discrepancy being noted. Further, both FNDAs were issued on the same day and, other than the date of the incident, mirror each other in specifications and charges.

Appellant's inclusion of the PNDA for the July 27–28, 2017, charges, rather than the FNDA, shows an intent to appeal both sets of charges. While his inclusion of the wrong form was in error, there was no prejudice to either side, and the error was likely the result of confusion engendered by Burlington's choice to file two sets of identical charges for the same conduct that took place over two shifts. As such, Burlington's request to dismiss the appeal as moot is DENIED.

Appellant has readily acknowledged that on June 27, 28, and 30, and July 1, 2017, he did not conduct required walking-tour inspections of his assigned post on I Wing. Further, he admitted that his entries in the logbook make it appear that he had in fact performed the required tours. He therefore does not contest that he violated the several policies and procedures discussed above.

I CONCLUDE that Batie violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), failure to perform duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), conduct unbecoming a public employee, in that he entered false information and neglected his vital duties in a correctional setting, acts that have the ability to undermine the public's trust in government and its employees and bring discredit to the institution, Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 557 (1998); N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), neglect of duty; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), other sufficient cause, in that he violated Policies and Procedures Manual sections 1007, 1023, 1030, 1031, 1038, 1065, 1066, 1172, 1190, and 1250.

DISCIPLINARY HISTORY

Appellant's disciplinary history is contained in R-1. It shows three suspensions, consisting of one, three, and five days, respectively, as well as several reprimands and warnings.

SANCTION

While Batie does not deny that he is guilty of failing to perform his duties on the two days in question, he argues that removal is too harsh a penalty. He claims that he is the subject of disparate treatment as to the penalty imposed, and in even being charged with these violations. He cites two bases for his assertion. The first is that Burlington's review of video recordings of the facility's wings first focused upon I Wing, his assigned post. As a result, other officers assigned to other wings of the jail, who may have similarly failed to perform the required tours, were not identified, as the video recordings of the other wings of the institution were not reviewed.

Additionally, the recordings showed that a Sergeant Hernandez, also assigned to I Wing, and a lieutenant, also assigned to that wing, failed to perform their required inspection tours, and yet they were not disciplined. Further, Batie cites In re Cox, Mercer County Department of Public Safety, No. A-02471-14 (App. Div. December 7, 2016), https://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/, a matter involving a Mercer County correction officer found guilty of the same offenses as Batie who was only given a forty-five-day suspension by the appointing authority, which was upheld by the Civil Service Commission and then affirmed by the Appellate Division.

The appellate courts of New Jersey have analyzed the factors to be considered in determining the proper penalty when a correction officer fails to perform required security checks, thereby neglecting his/her duty, including the additional complication of the officer falsifying records. In Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980), the Civil Service Commission reduced a penalty imposed from removal to a ninety-day suspension where a correction officer had falsified a report. On appeal, the Supreme Court held that the Civil Service Commission had acted arbitrarily when it failed to consider a relevant factor, namely, the seriousness of a single instance of a State correction officer's falsification of a report, particularly in the context of a prison setting, where order and discipline are necessary for safety and security. As the Court said, "The falsification of a report can disrupt and destroy order and discipline in a prison." Henry, 81 N.J. at 580.

In In re Warren, 117 N.J. 295 (1989), the Court considered an appeal of Warren's thirty-day suspension. The appointing authority had removed him, but the administrative law judge (ALJ) imposed only a thirty-day suspension. On appeal, the Appellate Division split over whether the Merit System Board (then the name of the current Civil Service Commission) had properly chosen to suspend, and not remove, Warren from his position as a correction officer. As that court explained, there was some uncertainty as to the exact charges against Warren, for the Board had expressed concern as to whether the case was limited to neglect of duty or also involved falsification. In upholding the Appellate Division's majority opinion affirming the suspension, as opposed to the dissent, which argued that removal should have been imposed, the Supreme Court stated that in the context of the case, the penalty imposed by the Board was not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. However,

> [i]n the clearer context of a corrections officer's trial for intentional falsification of a report, there can be no doubt that the Board must consider this as an offense striking at the heart of discipline within the corrections system. Failure to accord due consideration to that factor in the prison setting would violate implied legislative policies regarding prison security.
> [Warren, 117 N.J. at 299.]

The Merit System Board had an opportunity to apply those rulings when it ruled in In re Castillo, CSV 4472-05, Initial Decision (October 11, 2007), modified, MSB (January 18, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/. Castillo had been charged with neglect of duty and falsification, resulting in his termination. On de novo review, the ALJ determined that he had performed the required security tours, although not at the times that he had entered in the logbook. While the ALJ dismissed the neglect charge, the Board concluded that Castillo had neglected his duty when he failed to perform these tours at the required times, and concurred that he had falsified the records. The ALJ had reduced the removal to a thirty-day suspension. However, the Board imposed a six-month suspension, the maximum suspension allowable. As the Board noted,

> [i]n determining the propriety of the penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the appellant's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. North Princeton Developmental Center, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 463, 465 (CSV) 1996. Although the Board applies the concept of progressive discipline in determining the level and propriety of penalties, an individual's prior disciplinary history may be outweighed if the infraction at issue is of a serious nature. Henry v. Rahway, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not "a fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that > some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). Even when a law enforcement officer does not possess a prior disciplinary record after many unblemished years of employment, the seriousness of an offense may nevertheless warrant the penalty of removal where it is likely to undermine the public trust. In this regard, the Board emphasizes that a law enforcement officer is held to a higher standard than a civilian public employee. See Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560 (App. Div. 1965), cert. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). See also In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567 (1990). In the instant matter, the Board emphasizes that the appellant is employed in a paramilitary setting and is charged with maintaining security, discipline and order in a correctional facility. The precise requirements of such a position are not mere technicalities but are established and must be adhered to in order to ensure the utmost security of the facility. The appellant's admitted failure to perform his duties in a timely manner and his falsification of official records are, indeed, egregious infractions, whether or not it has been established that grave consequences resulted.

In determining the appropriate penalty for an offense, each case must be assessed on its own facts. As the cited cases show, there is no fixed, immutable penalty for the offenses charged here. Unlike Mercer County in Cox, here Burlington imposed the maximum penalty of removal on Batie. Unlike in Castillo, where the officer performed at least some of his mandated tours but did not do so at required times, and then falsified the record, here Batie did not even conduct the tours. Further, the falsification of records is especially "egregious," Castillo, CSV 4472-05, Initial Decision (October 11, 2007), modified, MSB (January 18, 2008), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/, and "strik[es] at the heart of discipline within the corrections system." Warren, 117 N.J. at 299. While Cox may suggest some doubt as to how the Commission may view the seriousness of these charges, that decision provides no reliable guide for the current case. In Cox, the appointing authority chose, for reasons that the record does not reveal, to suspend a neglectful and untruthful correction officer for forty-five days. While acknowledging the seriousness of Cox's violations, the Board chose to not upgrade the penalty. Given that the original penalty was a suspension, the Board could not have removed Cox on the de novo appeal. Had Mercer County removed Cox, or imposed a stiffer suspension, it seems clear enough that the Commission would have affirmed that sanction.

In his request for a sanction lesser than termination, Batie contends that he has been the victim of disparate treatment. He makes no allegation that he was charged as a result of some invidious discrimination due to race, sex, age, or other such classification. "Disparate treatment," which involves enforcement of the law "applied and administered by public authority with an evil eye and an unequal hand," State of N.J., Twp. of Pennsauken v. Schad, 160 N.J. 156, 183 (1999) (quoting Cox v. Louisiana, 379 U.S. 536, 538–41 (1965)), raises concerns of a "constitutional" nature. However, both the United States Supreme Court and the New Jersey Supreme Court have limited claims of "disparate treatment" to situations involving differing treatment arising due to such distinctions. Oyler v. Boles, 368 U.S. 448 (1962); Schad, 160 N.J. at 183 ("The conscious exercise of some selectivity in enforcement is not a constitutional violation unless the decision to prosecute is based upon an unjustifiable standard such as race, religion, or other arbitrary classification.").

Batie does raise other facts, however, as a basis for his claim of disparate treatment. They include the fact that other officers stationed on other wings may have escaped detection for their infractions, as Burlington chose not to review their conduct on videos of their wings. While it might be argued that a more complete review of other officers' conduct may have been appropriate in the management of the facility, that does not justify ignoring the inappropriate conduct of appellant.

More germane to the determination of the appropriate penalty, however, is the conduct by Burlington not to impose discipline on higher ranking officers for conduct similar to that of Batie. As noted earlier, Burlington chose not to impose discipline on a sergeant and a lieutenant identified through the videos as not performing their security checks. The issue is not so much a disparate-treatment argument as an issue of a fair and proportionate penalty for the offense charged. While it is concerning that officers of a higher rank were not disciplined for similar conduct, there is not enough in the record to determine the reasoning used by Burlington in its decisions to forgo discipline in their cases. The record does not show whether the two superior officers also falsified their records, nor does it show that they were aware of the failure of those they supervised to conduct their security checks. Without more, it is not possible to determine if the penalty imposed on Batie was so disproportionate as to call for a lesser penalty than termination.

While differing penalties have been meted out for offenses similar to those of Batie, his offenses were serious. They involved a failure to perform his required duties necessary for the safety of the inmates and the facility. He compounded that failure by his falsification of records. As such, the penalty of termination was warranted.

It is hereby ORDERED that the appeal filed by Officer Karshawn J. Batie is DENIED, and that Batie be REMOVED from his position as a correction officer. Officer Batie's removal is effective as of November 13, 2017.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Tia Bragg
Vineland Developmental Center,
Department of Human Services

CSC Docket No. 2018-2103

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

Reconsideration

ISSUED: May 25, 2018 (BW)

Tia Bragg, a former Human Services Assistant with Vineland Developmental Center, Department of Human Services, petitions the Civil Service Commission (Commission) for reconsideration of the attached administrative decision, rendered on January 11, 2018, in which the Director of the Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs denied her request for a hearing with respect to her removal.

By way of background, in an November 28, 2017 Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), the petitioner was removed, effective September 11, 2017, on charges of violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision, insubordination, intentional disobedience or refusal to accept a reasonable order, assaulting or resisting authority, and disrespect or use of insulting or abusive language. Specifically, the appointing authority asserted that the petitioner conducted herself in an insubordinate and unprofessional manner towards her supervisors and neglected to provide appropriate care to clients under her care. In this regard, the petitioner was seen by the Head Cottage Training Supervisor talking loudly on her cell phone while having consumers in her care, and not performing her assigned tasks of monitoring and interacting with the consumers.

The record indicates that the petitioner's FNDA was sent by certified mail on November 29, 2017 to her address on file. Ultimately, the mail was returned to the appointing authority on December 4, 2017 as the forwarding time for her mail had expired. This notice returning that mailing indicated the petitioner's correct address on the label. No attempt was made by the appointing authority to resend the FNDA to the correct address or to contact the petitioner by phone. The appointing authority has provided proof that both the certified and regular mail was returned to it. As the certified mail was returned on December 4, 2017, and the petitioner's appeal was postmarked January 3, 2018, her request for a hearing was denied.

In her request for reconsideration, the petitioner claims she only became aware of her termination on January 3, 2018, when she saw on the State of New Jersey's website a message stating she was no longer employed as of December 8, 2017. The petitioner then went to Vineland Developmental Center on January 3, 2018 and spoke to the Employee Relations Coordinator. It is unclear by the record if petitioner was given her FNDA on this date, but she was advised of the termination. By letter postmarked January 3, 2018, the same day she was advised of the termination, the petitioner submitted an appeal to the Commission. She argues that she should be given a new hearing and be reinstated.

Further, the petitioner states that in October 2016 she gave her change of address form to Ms. Marylnn Colon-Zamot in Human Resources who also signed the book. She has provided documents sent to her with her correct address from Vineland Developmental Center dating back to as far as March 1, 2017.

In response, the appointing authority states that appellant did not change her address. It references that on October 17, 2017, a letter was sent to the address on file regarding her departmental hearing and petitioner signed for the letter and appeared for the hearing making no mention of the change of address. It also indicates that petitioner went to Human Resources on January 3, 2018 to confirm her address which was listed as her old address. Petitioner requested another change of address.

CONCLUSION

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.6(b) sets forth the standards by which a prior decision may be reconsidered. This rule provides that a party must show that a clear material error has occurred or present new evidence or additional information not presented at the original proceeding, which would change the outcome of the case and the reasons that such evidence was not presented at the original proceeding. A review of the record in the instant matter reveals that reconsideration is justified.

N.J.S.A. 11A:2-15 provides that appeals from major disciplinary matters shall be made in writing to the Commission no later than 20 days from receipt of the final written determination of the appointing authority. This 20-day time limitation is jurisdictional and cannot be relaxed or waived. See Borough of Park Ridge v. Salimone, 21 N.J. 28, 46 (1956); See also, Mesghali v. Bayside State Prison, 334 N.J. Super. 617 (App. Div. 2000), cert. denied, 167 N.J. 630 (2001); Murphy v. Department of Civil Service, 155 N.J. Super. 491, 493 (App. Div. 1978).

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.8(b) states that "If the appointing authority fails to provide the employee with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, an appeal may be made directly to the Commission within a reasonable time".

In the matter at hand, the appellant claims that she did not receive the FNDA. The appointing authority confirms that both the certified and regular mail was returned unable to forward. While it is an employee's responsibility to maintain a current address with his or her employer, in this case, it is clear that the appointing authority had the petitioner's current address. In this regard, the petitioner has provided documents with her proper current address from the appointing authority dated months before the issuance of the FNDA. Further, while the Commission usually will deny a hearing where it is shown that an employee has not appealed within 20 days of certified mail being returned, to do so in this case, under the circumstances outlined above, would be unjust. Further, the petitioner promptly appealed after she received the actual notice of her removal. Accordingly, her petition is granted.

ORDER

Therefore, it is ordered that this petition for reconsideration be granted and the matter be referred to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing.

Mr. Nash and DAG Saxon:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Miguel Citron from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Mr. Citron's removal was effective May 1, 2017 and he is settling to a general resignation effective May 1, 2017, the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action in this matter indicates that his removal was effective September 13, 2016. In this regard, while it is perfectly acceptable for the parties to agree to the general resignation effective date of May 1, 2017, the time period from September 13, 2016 to May 1, 2017 must be accounted for. Before a settlement can be acknowledged by the Civil Service Commission, all periods of time must be specifically accounted for in an employee's personnel record. For example, is that time period to be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

Re: Latoya Daniels v. City of Newark, Department of Public Safety (CSC Docket No. 2018-1212; OAL Docket No. CSV 16599-17) – SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Stehling and Ms. Clayborne:

The appeal of Latoya Daniels, a Public Safety Telecommunicator, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety, of her six-month suspension on charges, was before Administrative Law Judge Jude Anthony Tiscornia (ALJ), who issued his initial decision on May 23, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on May 25, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on July 9, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective July 10, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo
Deputy Director

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.
2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. LATOYA DANIELS,	:	STATE OF NEW JERSEY
	:	OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW
Appellant,	:
v.	:	OAL DOCKET NO. CSV 16599-2017N
CITY OF NEWARK,	:	SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE
Respondent.	:

This Settlement Agreement and General Release ("Agreement") is made and entered into by Newark Police Public Safety Tele-Communicator, Latoya Daniels ("Daniels" or "Appellant"), Newark Council 21 ("Union") and the City of Newark ("City "or "Respondent") (collectively referred to hereinafter as the "Parties"). The Parties herein have voluntarily agreed to resolve all disputed matters arising from the disciplinary action taken against Daniels by the City. This Agreement is made and entered into by the Parties in full settlement of Daniels' appeal regarding the above matter.

On December 9, 2016, the Newark Department of Public Safety, Police Division ("Department of Public Safety") brought departmental disciplinary charges against Daniels in the form of a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action ("PNDA") stemming from her abuse of sick leave. Daniels plead not guilty, waiving her opportunity for Hearing before the Trial Board. On September 26, 2017, Final Notice of Disciplinary Action and Specifications (hereinafter referred to as "FNDA") were issued with the following charges: in violation of Newark Police Department Rules and Regulations Chapter 18:29.1; Official Inefficiency or Incompetency and New Jersey Civil Service Rule N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)1, Incompetency or Inefficiency. A copy of the September 26, 2017 FNDA is attached herein as Exhibit A. Based on these charges, the Department of Public Safety suspended Daniels for six months (6), a period of (180) days beginning January 1, 2018 to June 29, 2018 pursuant N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.4 (e).

After further negotiations, the Parties have agreed to resolve this matter as follows:

1. The charges listed in the FNDA are upheld.
2. Daniels' suspension is reduced from one hundred and eighty (180) days to fifteen (15) days. The City will amend her FNDA to reflect fifteen (15) days suspension.
3. The City's Public Safety Director will provide a return date back to work for Daniels.
4. The City will calculate back pay based upon the date of return, anticipated no later than June 29, 2018 as per the FNDA.
5. The City will make the appropriate adjustments to her pension and seniority based upon the return date.
6. Daniels waives any and all right or claim which she has or may have to a hearing on the merits of the disciplinary action taken under this Agreement and/ or to challenge the suspension penalty imposed as a result of same, including, but not limited to, any right to a departmental hearing concerning the charges in the FNDA, except to the extent necessary to enforce terms of this agreement, or as required by law.
7. Daniels and the Union each agree not to appeal the terms and conditions of this Agreement to any agency or court, including, but not limited to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and/or to any other New Jersey State Court or agency and/or to any United States Court or agency.
8. Daniels and the Union each further agree that there is no consideration due Daniels, her counsel and/or Union, including, but not limited to, any claim for additional back pay and/or counsel fees, arising from her employment and/or the execution of this Agreement, except as otherwise provided herein.
9. Except for the assessment of Daniels's disciplinary record in any subsequent personnel disciplinary hearing, nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either Party.
10. Daniels and the Union acknowledge that this Agreement precludes them from bringing any type of legal or contractual action in any forum including, but not limited to, filing a Complaint in New Jersey Superior Court or the United States Federal Court, filing any type of complaint with the City, Essex County, the State of New Jersey or the United States of America, and filing a grievance and/or requesting arbitration, that is in any manner grounded, based upon, or related to the FNDA, except to the extent necessary to enforce terms of this agreement, or as required by law.

11. Daniels is bound by this Agreement. Anyone who succeeds to Daniels's rights and responsibilities, such as heirs or the executor of her estate, shall also be bound.
12. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent or practice in any matter involving the City or other City employees or the Union.
13. Daniels and the Union each agree that this Agreement shall not be offered, used or considered as evidence in any proceeding of any type against or involving the City, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.
14. This Agreement contains the sole and entire agreement between Daniels, the Union and the City, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. Daniels specifically represents and acknowledges that in executing this Agreement, she has not relied upon any representations, with regard to the subject matter in this Agreement, which are not set forth herein. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by all the Parties, and expressly stated to be a modification of the Agreement.
15. Daniels agrees and acknowledges that she has been fully and fairly represented by her Union and counsel in this matter, and she is satisfied with that representation and with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.
16. Daniels agrees and acknowledges that she has had a full opportunity to review this Agreement with her counsel and/or union representative and she enters into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily.
17. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Settlement Agreement shall be fully enforceable.
18. This Agreement will become effective only if approved by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION. Any disapproval by the Civil Service Commission shall not interfere with the rights of either Party to pursue the matter further.
19. By signing this Settlement Agreement, Daniels states that:

a) She has read it;

b) She understands it and knows that she is giving up important rights, and any and all other federal and state employment causes of any kind, including, but not limited to The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Equal Pay Law, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1967, as amended, The Conscientious Employee Protection Act, The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and any other constitutional, statutory or common law suit, attorney's fees and costs of this proceeding, and any public policy of the United States, the State of New Jersey, or other State;

c) She accepts everything in it;

d) Her representative negotiated this Agreement with her knowledge and consent;

e) She has been advised to consult with her attorney prior to executing this Agreement, and has in fact done so;

f) She has signed this Settlement Agreement knowingly and voluntarily.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties have caused this Settlement Agreement to be executed.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 07672-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-3657

IN THE MATTER OF ROBERT FIGLIUOLO, BOROUGH OF RINGWOOD, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS.

Matthew P. Rocco, Esq., for appellant (Rothman Rocco La Ruffa, attorneys)

Justin D. Santagata, Esq., for respondent (Kaufman Semeraro & Leibman, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 26, 2018 Decided: April 10, 2018

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Robert Figliuolo (Figliuolo/appellant) appeals demotion to step-one building maintenance worker and thirty-day suspension due to his careless operation of a municipal vehicle.

ISSUE

May the Borough of Ringwood (respondent) demote and suspend appellant based on his careless use of municipal vehicles while at work?

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 25, 2017, appellant was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) indicating a thirty-day suspension effective March 3, 2017, and a demotion to step-one building maintenance worker effective May 1, 2017. (R-1.) Appellant was found to have violated the following New Jersey Administrative Code:

> N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a): Neglect of duty, incompetency, failure to perform duties, other sufficient cause, conduct unbecoming.

Appellant appealed and The Civil Service Commission, Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs, transmitted the instant appeal to the Office of Administrative Law on May 31, 2017. A hearing was conducted on December 19, 2017. Final Submissions were received on March 26, 2018, at which time the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following facts are undisputed and I therefore FIND them to be the facts of the case.

Appellant has been employed with the Borough of Ringwood, Department of Public Works since February 26, 2001. Appellant was originally employed as a truck driver, which required a CDL license and daily operation of heavy trucks. Appellant was subsequently demoted to the position of laborer-1 for disciplinary reasons. Borough Director of Public Works Scott Heck testified that the specific incident that gave rise to his demotion to laborer-1 involved appellant improperly operating a heavy truck and sideswiping a building, causing the steps on the side of the truck to tear off. Mr. Heck testified that appellant had a history of improper operation of municipal vehicles. The laborer-1 position does not require a CDL license but does require appellant to routinely operate municipal vehicles that do not require the driver to hold a CDL.

On March 3, 2017, appellant was operating a municipal dump truck during the course of his normal work activity. The truck had a mechanical salt spreader attached to the bed of the truck at the time. The bed of this particular truck had a hydraulic lift which allowed for the bed of the truck to be raised. Upon returning to the municipal garage, appellant proceeded to hose out the back of the truck. To facilitate this maintenance activity, appellant raised the bed of the truck slightly so that the water could flow out.

Appellant then drove the truck from the municipal garage to a local deli, a distance of less than one mile. Appellant had inadvertently left the bed of the truck partially raised while driving, which is against protocol and potentially dangerous. Appellant's co-workers attempted to contact him over the radio to inform him of this error but could not reach him. Appellant testified that his radio was off at the time. Appellant was ultimately contacted via cellphone and instructed to lower the bed of the truck, which he did. Upon returning to the municipal garage appellant was reprimanded. No damage was caused to person or property.

Appellant was served a notice of removal (PNDA) dated March 3, 2017. A departmental hearing was conducted at the municipal level and the removal was subsequently converted to a thirty-day suspension and demotion from laborer-1 to maintenance worker, a position that does not require appellant to operate any vehicle at all.

Appellant testified that he makes less money as a maintenance worker than he did as a laborer. Mr. Heck testified that appellant complained to him regarding the reduced compensation and Heck increased appellant's hours as a courtesy. Heck also testified that the municipality considers appellant's operation of municipal vehicles to be a liability.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The Appointing Authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant does not dispute that he improperly operated a municipal dump truck by driving the truck with the bed partially raised. Rather, appellant argues that this inadvertent mistake caused no harm to person or property and the penalty imposed is disproportionate to the offense and must be overturned.

1. Inadvertent mistake resulting from lapse of judgement is grounds for termination Absence of judgment alone can be sufficient to warrant termination if the employee is in a sensitive position that requires public trust in the agency's judgment. See In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 32 (2007) (DYFS worker who waved a lit cigarette lighter in a five-year-old's face was terminated, despite lack of any prior discipline). In the case at bar appellant's employment required operating a municipal vehicle on the public roadways in the normal course of his work. An integral aspect of this charge of duty is the responsibility to operate the vehicle safely at all times. The mere fact that good fortune did not allow for death, destruction, or injury to person or property to occur should not negate the inherent careless nature of the misconduct and corresponding need for discipline.

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998).[1] "In addition, there is no right or reason for a government to continue employing an incompetent and inefficient individual after a showing of inability to change." Klusaritz v. Cape May County, 387 N.J. Super. 305, 317 (App. Div. 2006) (termination was the proper remedy for a county treasurer who couldn't balance the books, after the auditors tried three times to show him how). In the case at bar the appellant has exerted incompetent behavior on more than one occasion and the municipality contemplated terminating appellant for his misconduct but ultimately resolved to suspend and demote appellant instead. I FIND that there were grounds for termination under the circumstances set forth herein and I further FIND that the penalty sought by respondent is less severe and should therefore be upheld.

2. Appellant had been progressively disciplined

The concept of progressive discipline is often used as a guiding principle when determining the degree of severity and overall fairness of an agency's disciplinary action against its own employee. Progressive discipline allows for an employee's past disciplinary record to be used as "guidance in determining the appropriate penalty for the current specific offense. See W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

In the case at bar, the appellant started out at a relatively high paying "truck driver" position and was subsequently demoted to a lower paying "laborer-1" position because of disciplinary infractions, many of which stem from his improper operation of municipal vehicles. While employed in the position of laborer-1 appellant continued to operate some municipal vehicles, including the dump truck at the center of the forgoing matter. The respondent ultimately found appellant to be a liability on the road and demoted him to a position which would not involve the operation of any municipal vehicles whatsoever. Respondent could have sought to uphold a removal as indicated in the PNDA but instead chose to apply progressive discipline and move towards a less severe course of action.

[1] Gaines had a substantial prior disciplinary history, but the case is frequently quoted as a threshold statement of civil service law.

I FIND that the discipline being appealed herein is logically connected to appellant's misuse of municipal vehicles and is the result of progressive discipline and I CONCLUDE appellant's demotion and the corresponding suspension is warranted and is therefore upheld.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the forgoing appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, P.O. Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Anthony Herrera

CSC Docket No. 2018-1192
OAL Docket No. CSV 16600-17

ISSUED: JUNE 6, 2018 (DASV)

The appeal of Anthony Herrera, a Police Aide with the City of East Orange, of his removal, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Susana E. Guerrero (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on April 19, 2018. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on May 23, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact as contained in the attached initial decision but did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to modify the removal to a 90 working day suspension. Rather, the Commission modified the penalty to a 30 working day suspension.

DISCUSSION

The appellant was removed, effective October 3, 2017, on charges of conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause. Specifically, the appointing authority asserted that the appellant violated the East Orange Police Department (EOPD) General Order Social Media Policy (Social Media Policy), which indicated in part that "Department personnel shall not post, transmit, or otherwise disseminate any information to which they have access as a result of their employment without written permission from the Chief of Police or his or her designee." It was alleged that the appellant admitted to taking unauthorized photographs of the inside of jail cells, hallways leading to the intake area and cellblocks, an EOPD "authorized document," and a van to transport detainees while on duty and then publishing them on social media in video format. Upon the appellant's appeal to the Commission, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case.

In the initial decision, the ALJ set forth the testimony of the witnesses and found that the appellant while on break from duty took pictures on his cell phone of the EOPD's intake cells, hallways, and the sally port. He also photographed an EOPD transport vehicle. The appellant then published these pictures on social media in video format and titled the video, "East Orange Police Jail Graffiti." During an investigation of this matter, the appellant admitted in his interview that the took the photographs and placed them on YouTube. He took down the post immediately after being directed to do so on the same day of his interview. There were 12 pictures in all, with seven images of graffiti on the walls, doors, and a bench inside of the jail cells. Another photograph was taken of a sign which read: "DO NOT ENTER UNLESS YOU HAVE A PRISONER OR IT IS APPROVED BY THE DESK SERGEANT." The other pictures were of the transport van and a "dimly lit hallway outside of the jail cells leading into the intake area." There were no pictures of inmates or employees and the video did not identify where the photographs were specifically taken in the EOPD. The ALJ further found that the appellant has an interest in graffiti artwork and prison culture. There was no evidence that the photographs were intended to disclose confidential information, place the EOPD in a negative light, or jeopardize the safety of staff or inmates. Additionally, the ALJ found that, although the appellant was subject to the Social Media Policy, he was not familiar with the policy and the appointing authority had not demonstrated that the appellant received the policy or was trained on it.

Based on these findings, the ALJ determined that in taking the photographs inside the EOPD and publishing them on YouTube without authorization, the appellant had violated the Social Media Policy. Therefore, the charges against him, namely conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, had been sustained. Regarding the penalty, the ALJ indicated that seven photographs depicted "close-up images" of graffiti, and although the "DO NOT ENTER" sign hung in a restricted area, there was no evidence that the images of the graffiti or disclosure of the sign compromised safety or contained sensitive or confidential information. Moreover, the picture of the transport van also did not disclose confidential information. The van could be seen on the road by the public. Furthermore, the ALJ stated that while the other photographs were in a restricted area, the images were of a dimly lit hallway and the location was not identified. The ALJ was not persuaded that the publishing of these photographs presented an actual threat to the safety of the staff and inmates of the EOPD, as argued by the appointing authority. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that while the appellant "undoubtedly exhibited poor judgment," his misconduct was not so severe under the circumstances to warrant his removal. The appellant had only a minor discipline of a written reprimand in 2012 for a sick leave violation in his 11 years of employment.[1] Nonetheless, major discipline was appropriate considering the seriousness of the appellant's actions. Therefore, the ALJ recommended that the appellant's removal be modified to a 90 working day suspension.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ regarding the charges. The appellant's conduct, in taking unauthorized pictures and then publishing them on YouTube, which he admitted, is clearly a violation of the Social Media Policy and sustains the charges against him. However, as discussed further below, the Commission does not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to modify the appellant's removal to a 90 working day suspension. Rather, a more appropriate penalty is a 30 working day suspension.

In determining the proper penalty, the Commission's review is de novo. In addition to its consideration of the seriousness of the underlying incident in determining the proper penalty, the Commission also utilizes, when appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In assessing the penalty in relation to the employee's conduct, it is important to emphasize that the nature of the offense must be balanced against mitigating circumstances, including any prior disciplinary history. However, it is well established that where the underlying conduct is of an egregious nature, the imposition of a penalty up to and including removal is appropriate, regardless of an individual's disciplinary history. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007).

In the instant matter, the record reveals that the appellant was a relatively long-term employee of 11 years with only one minor discipline of a written reprimand for an unrelated charge. His conduct, while serious in nature, is not sufficiently severe to disregard progressive discipline principles and remove him from employment given his employment history. The Commission is mindful of the society we now live in where so much of our lives are depicted in social media. Nonetheless, a public employee must show discretion as to what he or she posts, especially when it touches upon employment. In this case, there is no doubt that the appellant exercised poor judgment when he took pictures at his worksite. What is more troubling is he took pictures of restricted areas of a jail. However, the record does not indicate that the appellant received the Social Media Policy or was trained on it. Moreover, the evidence does not demonstrate that the photographs actually compromised safety or revealed sensitive or confidential information. Indeed, many of the pictures were close-up images of graffiti and the transport van was on the road, visible to the public. The Commission emphasizes that it does not condone the appellant's misconduct. However, given the totality of the circumstances, the Commission finds that neither removal nor a 90 working day suspension is proportionate to the offense. It is also noted that the appellant cooperated in the investigation and immediately took down his post as directed. The Commission is satisfied that a major discipline of a 30 working day suspension will impress upon the appellant that his conduct was improper and serve as a warning to the appellant that future offenses may result in a more serious penalty, up to and including removal. Accordingly, the foregoing circumstances provide a sufficient basis to modify the removal imposed by the appointing authority to a 30 working day suspension. See N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.9(d).

[1] Agency records indicate that the appellant was provisionally appointed pending open competitive examination procedures as a Police Aide on March 13, 2006. He received a regular appointment to the title effective January 22, 2007.

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to back pay, benefits and seniority following the 30 working day suspension up to his date of reinstatement. With regard to counsel fees, the record does not indicate that the appellant is represented by an attorney. Rather, he is represented by his union. Nonetheless, it is noted that the charges against the appellant were sustained and the penalty has only been modified. In that regard, the primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). As such, the appellant has not prevailed on the primary issue of his appeal. Therefore, an award of counsel fees would be improper. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the appointing authority's action in removing the appellant was not justified. Therefore, the Commission modifies the removal to a 30 working day suspension. The Commission further orders that the appellant be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the period after the imposition of the 30 working day suspension through the date of his actual reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 16600-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-1192

IN THE MATTER OF ANTHONY HERRERA, CITY OF EAST ORANGE POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Jenelle Blackmon, Union Representative, Communications Workers of America, for appellant Anthony Herrera pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Allan C. Roth, Esq., for respondent City of East Orange (Roth D'Aquanni, attorneys)

Record Closed: March 13, 2018 Decided: April 19, 2018

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant Anthony Herrera (Herrera or appellant) appeals the determination of the respondent City of East Orange Police Department (EOPD or respondent) that found appellant took unauthorized photographs of the EOPD's intake and cell area, of an EOPD authorized document, and of the EOPD van used to transport detainees; and posted these photographs in video format on the appellant's YouTube channel. Respondent terminated Herrera based on these actions, and while appellant does not dispute that he took the photographs and posted them to his YouTube channel, he asserts that termination is not warranted, and he seeks reinstatement to his prior position as police aide.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 5, 2017, respondent served Herrera, a police aide, with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) informing him of the charges made against him for taking several photographs of the EOPD's property while on duty and posting the photographs on social media without authorization. An internal disciplinary hearing took place on September 7, 2017 pursuant to Herrera's request. On October 14, 2017, Herrera was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated October 2, 2017, which sustained all charges set forth in the PNDA. The disciplinary action taken against Herrera was removal, effective October 3, 2017.

On November 8, 2017, the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs, transmitted the within matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to B-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to F-13. This matter was assigned to the undersigned and the hearing was held on February 23, 2018. Following receipt on March 13, 2018 of color copies of the photographs presented at the hearing, the record closed.

CHARGES

The charges in the FNDA include violations of: N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), Conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), Neglect of duty; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), Other sufficient cause.

The specification of the charges sustained in the FNDA reads as follows:

Mr. Herrera admitted to taking photos of the intake and cell area in the EOPD including the graffiti on the cell walls, benches and doors of the jail cell, of hallways leading to intake and the cellblock, an EOPD authorized document and the EOPD van used to transport detainees. Mr. Herrera further admitted that the photos were put into video format and uploaded publicly onto the social media site YouTube on Herrera's channel known as "elgordowon" on or about December 6, 2016. On or about January 26, 2017, Herrera admitted to the Professional Standards Unit of EOPD that he took the photos, without authorization and posted the video to YouTube without authorization in violation of the EOPD General Order Social Media policy.

Summary of Testimony

Appellant's Witnesses

Herrera was employed as a police aide for the EOPD for eleven years. His responsibilities included processing bails and prisoner releases, working the information desk, taking calls, directing civilians, feeding and checking on prisoners, cleaning cells, taking DNA swabs, fingerprints and mugshots. In his eleven years at the EOPD, Herrera's disciplinary history consisted of one written reprimand in 2012 for "sick leave violation-chronic and/or excessive absenteeism." (R-1.)

Herrera has always admitted to having taken the photographs at issue, and fully cooperated with the EOPD's investigation of the matter. He admits that he did not receive any authorization from his supervisor to take these photographs, and that taking the photographs was outside the scope of his job duties. Herrera took the photographs with his personal cell phone while on break from duty at the EOPD. The photographs contain images of graffiti taken inside several EOPD cell blocks; three photographs of a hallway outside the cell blocks; a picture of a EOPD prisoner transport van; and a picture of a typed sign/notice posted inside the EOPD. On December 6, 2016, Herrera posted these pictures onto YouTube to document graffiti artwork in the prison. Herrera testified credibly that he took the photographs because he has an interest in prison culture and graffiti artwork, and has taken and posted images of other graffiti online in the past. During cross-examination, he confirmed that the three photographs of the EOPD hallway outside the intake cells do not contain any graffiti.

Appellant was first confronted about the video/photographs by Detective Adkins in January 2017, and Herrera removed the online post that same day. Detective Adkins conducted an investigation of the matter and told Herrera that he would just get a "slap on the wrist" for his actions.

Herrera testified credibly that he was unaware of the EOPD General Order on Social Media Policy in effect at the time he took the photographs and published them on YouTube, and that he never received any training on the Social Media Policy or any EOPD General Orders, which he believed only apply to police officers. He appeared remorseful at the hearing and stated that he would never take photographs inside the EOPD again if he were to be reinstated.

Nicole Walters (Walters) is employed as a Community Service Clerk 2 at the EOPD, where she has been employed for approximately fifteen years. She is also a union shop steward and Secretary for the CWA Executive Board. Walters was appellant's co-worker at EOPD, and she represented him at the departmental hearing. She testified as a CWA union representative in this matter and asserted that the EOPD General Orders are given to new sworn officers only. She did not know whether the EOPD provides any General Orders or policies to police aides or other civilian employees.

Respondent's Witness

Detective Hewlett S. Adkins Jr. (Detective Adkins) has been employed with the EOPD for fourteen and a half years. For the past four years, he has been assigned to the Professional Standards Unit, where he investigates police misconduct and ensures that all employees adhere to the EOPD's rules and regulations. Detective Adkins investigated this matter and prepared an administrative report with a summary of his investigation, findings and recommendation, dated February 10, 2017. (R-1.) He also prepared the PNDA, dated March 28, 2017. (J-2.)

Detective Adkins' investigation consisted of his review of the YouTube video created by Herrera which lasted three minutes and twenty-one seconds, and contained approximately twelve photographs. (R-3.) The first photograph shown on the video depicts a typed sign/notice located in a restricted area of the EOPD that reads: "DO NOT ENTER UNLESS YOU HAVE A PRISONER OR IT IS APPROVED BY THE DESK SERGEANT." This sign is not visible by the general public, only by EOPD employees and inmates taken into that area of the police department. Detective Adkins also identified three photographs of a hallway outside the jail cells which shows the closed door leading to the police intake area. When a prisoner is processed, he is taken down this hallway and into his cell. Seven photographs contain images of graffiti found on the walls, doors and a bench found in EOPD jail cells, and one photograph depicts the exterior of the EOPD prisoner transport van, which is on the road and observable by the public.

After initially viewing the video and speaking with Herrera, Detective Adkins informed Herrera that he would "probably just get a slap on the wrist" for his actions, and that it was "not a big deal." Herrera was initially charged with a thirty-day suspension, as documented in the PNDA, but he was later removed following his departmental hearing. While Detective Adkins testified that he does not determine the discipline to be imposed on EOPD employees, he was unable to explain why Herrera was initially charged with a thirty-day suspension in the PNDA and later removed in the FNDA. Although he mentioned that a thirty-day suspension was proposed before the investigation was fully concluded, he did not testify as to what, if any, additional information was discovered during the investigation to cause the respondent to change the recommended discipline of a thirty-day suspension to a removal. When he prepared the PNDA, Detective Adkins had already reviewed the core piece of evidence --the video-- and questioned Herrera, who admitted to taking the pictures.

The EOPD General Order - Social Media Policy addresses prohibitions on the use of social media by EOPD personnel. The Social Media Policy prohibits divulging: "confidential information, including photographs or videos, related to department training, activities, or work-related assignments without express written permission" from the Chief of Police. Herrera never received permission from the Chief of Police to post any information on social media, and he is not an EOPD employee authorized or designated to post on behalf of the department. While respondent asserts that Herrera was subject to the Social Media Policy as an EOPD employee, there was no signed receipt of the General Order on Social Media Policy by Herrera, and no evidence was offered to suggest that Herrera was ever trained on the Social Media Policy.

The Social Media Policy also contains a section addressing the personal use of social media by all EOPD personnel. It states in relevant part that "Department personnel shall not post, transmit, or otherwise disseminate any information to which they have access as a result of their employment without written permission from the Chief of Police or his or her designee." Detective Adkins testified that Herrera did not have permission from the Chief of Police or his designee to post pictures of the EOPD and, therefore, acted in violation of the Social Media Policy. Respondent also maintains that it is common knowledge that taking pictures inside the EOPD is prohibited.

The photographs taken by Herrera were deemed by the respondent to be confidential in nature because they depict actual jail cells where inmates are held that are not accessible by the public. Detective Adkins testified that the posting of the photographs of the transport van, the hallway, and exit areas compromised the safety of inmates, personnel and visitors and that this warrants Herrera's removal. He also briefly referenced the risk of inmate escape by the publishing of these photographs. While Detective Adkins repeated multiple times that safety had been compromised by Herrera's posting of the photographs, he did not explain or expand upon this assertion.

Herrera was charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), Conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), Neglect of duty; and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-

2.3(a)(12), Other sufficient cause, because he admitted to taking the photographs during his shift as a reserve man at the EOPD when he was not authorized to do so.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The parties stipulated the following facts and I, therefore, FIND them as FACTS:

1. Anthony Herrera was a police aide with the City of East Orange.

2. Anthony Herrera, while on break from duty, took still pictures of the inside of the East Orange Police Department Intake cells, hallways and sally port.

3. Anthony Herrera, while on break from duty, took still pictures of the East Orange Police Department Police Transport vehicle.

4. On or about December 6, 2016, Anthony Herrera published these pictures by placing them on the social media site YouTube.

5. On January 26, 2017, during the interview with Detective Adkins, of the East Orange Police Department Professional Standards Unit, Anthony Herrera admitted to Detective Adkins that he took the aforementioned photographs and placed them on his social media site that is hosted by YouTube.

Based on the documentary and testimonial evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and to assess credibility, I make the following additional FINDINGS of FACT:

1. Herrera was not authorized to take the photographs and publish them onto a social media website, nor did he receive permission from the Acting Chief of Police or any other authorized agent to do so.

2. As an employee of the EOPD, Herrera was subject to the EOPD General Order – Social Media Policy.

3. The EOPD General Order – Social Media Policy reads, in part: "Department personnel shall not post, transmit, or otherwise disseminate any information to which they had access as a result of their employment without written permission from the Chief of Police or his or her designee."

4. As an EOPD civilian employee, Herrera was not familiar with the General Order - Social Media Policy, and respondent was unable to substantiate that Herrera ever received a copy of, or received training on, the General Order - Social Media Policy.

5. Herrera posted onto his YouTube channel twelve photographs depicting the following:

   - Seven photographs depicting images of graffiti found on the walls, doors and a bench inside the EOPD jail cells;
   - A photograph of a typed sign/notice that appears in a restricted area of the EOPD that reads: "DO NOT ENTER UNLESS YOU HAVE A PRISONER OR IT IS APPROVED BY THE DESK SERGEANT."
   - A photograph depicting the exterior of the EOPD transport van used to transport detainees.
   - Three photographs of a dimly lit hallway outside the jail cells leading into the intake area. (R-3.)

6. The photographs do not contain images of any inmates, EOPD officers/employees, or any individual. Not all of the images depict graffiti. The video is labeled "East Orange Police Jail Graffiti," but the individual pictures in the video are not labeled, and the video does not identify where in the EOPD the photographs were taken.

7. Appellant took the photographs to document graffiti in the prison because he has an interest in graffiti artwork and prison culture, and no evidence was presented to suggest that appellant took or posted the photographs intending to disclose confidential information, to jeopardize the safety of EOPD staff or inmates, or to place the EOPD in a negative light.[1]

8. Herrera's prior disciplinary history consisted of one written reprimand in 2012 for a sick leave violation and/or excessive absenteeism.

9. Herrera cooperated with the EOPD's investigation of this matter, and removed the online posting of his video immediately after being directed to do so.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Public employees' rights and duties are governed and protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12-6, and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 to 4A:2-6.2. However, public employees may be disciplined for a variety of offenses involving their employment, including the general causes for discipline as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). An appointing authority may discipline an employee for sufficient cause, including failure to obey laws, rules and regulations of the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11).

In disciplinary cases, the appointing authority has both the burden of persuasion and production and must demonstrate by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that it had just cause to discipline the employee and lodge the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958).

[1] Respondent did not allege that Herrera intentionally violated any rule or policy, or that he took or published the photographs for any purpose other than to document graffiti artwork.

The first issue in this proceeding is whether a preponderance of the credible evidence establishes that the charges set forth in the FNDA as a result of appellant's taking of several photographs at the EOPD and publishing the photographs on a social media website warrant disciplinary action. If so, the issue to be addressed is whether termination is the appropriate disciplinary action. The parties stipulated as to the underlying action—i.e., that the appellant took the photographs and posted them online—but the appellant maintains that he was unaware of, and never received, the respondent's Social Media Policy, and that his removal is an excessive measure that falls outside the scope of progressive discipline.

Herrera is charged with Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct Unbecoming" is an "elastic" phrase that encompasses conduct that "adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit . . . [or] which has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services." Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998) (citing In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Here, the appellant's actions in taking photographs inside the EOPD and publishing them onto YouTube without the required authorization constitute a violation of the EOPD General Order – Social Media Policy. Therefore, based on my findings, I CONCLUDE that respondent has demonstrated, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that appellant's conduct constitutes a violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) (Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee), N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) (Neglect of Duty), and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) (Other Sufficient Cause), and that such charges must be SUSTAINED.

When dealing with the question of penalty in a de novo review of a disciplinary action against an employee, it is necessary to reevaluate the proofs and "penalty" on appeal based on the charges. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19; Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W.N.Y. v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 1996 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 467 (April 16, 1996). Pursuant to Bock, concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). Depending upon the incident complained of and the employee's past record, major discipline may include suspension, removal, etc. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522-24

Progressive discipline may only be bypassed when the misconduct is severe, when it renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when the application of progressive discipline would be contrary to the public interest. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007). Termination of employment is the penalty of last resort reserved for the most severe infractions or habitual negative conduct unresponsive to intervention. Rotundi v. Dep't of Health and Human Services, OAL Dkt. No. CSV 385-88 (Sept. 29, 1988)

Here, respondent argues that Herrera's misconduct was so severe that it falls outside of progressive discipline. Respondent asserts that removal is appropriate because Herrera compromised the safety of EOPD staff and inmates when he published on social media photographs taken inside restricted areas of the EOPD. This, respondent argues, not only violated the EOPD's Social Media Policy, but a broader, unwritten "general rule" that is common knowledge at the EOPD. Herrera maintains that removal is an excessive penalty, that he was unaware of the Social Media Policy and that his "mistake" should not cost him his job.

I thoroughly examined the twelve photographs that appear on Herrera's YouTube video. Seven of the twelve photographs depict close-up images of graffiti found in various jail cells. The content of the graffiti was not raised as a concern; no individuals appear in the photographs; and respondent did not present any credible evidence to establish that these seven photographs of graffiti compromised safety at the EOPD. The one photographs of the "DO NOT ENTER" sign does hang in a restricted area of the EOPD and is directed to EOPD staff, however, the content of the sign itself does not contain any sensitive or confidential information. Moreover, the video does not disclose where in the EOPD the sign appears; and there is no evidence that the public disclosure of this sign compromises safety at the EOPD. Similarly, the photograph depicting the exterior of the EOPD transport van does not disclose any confidential information, as the van can be seen on the road by the general public, and no individual appears in the photograph. The respondent also did not sufficiently establish how the publishing of the exterior of the van jeopardizes the safety of EOPD staff or inmates. Finally, with regard to the three photographs of the hallway outside the jail cells, while they were taken in a restricted area generally accessible only by EOPD staff and inmates, I am not persuaded, based on my review of the photographs and testimonial evidence presented at the hearing, that the posting of these photographs presented an actual threat to the safety of the EOPD staff or inmates. These photographs contain images of a dimly lit hallway with unmarked closed doors, leading to an unmarked intake area. It is unclear to the viewer where these photographs were taken, and the location is not identified in the video/photographs. Moreover, respondent did not sufficiently explain how safety was compromised by publishing these photographs, nor how these photographs may create a risk of inmate escape, particularly when inmates are routinely brought through this area when they are taken to their cells. While Herrera undoubtedly exhibited poor judgment in publishing pictures taken inside an EOPD restricted area, I am not convinced that the publishing of these photographs online presented an actual threat to the safety of EOPD staff or inmates.

Herrera's actions in taking the photographs inside a restricted area of the EOPD was inappropriate and careless. However, I CONCLUDE that the misconduct here is insufficiently severe to render appellant unsuitable to continue in his position, and I further CONCLUDE that the penalty of removal is excessive, and that progressive discipline should apply.

Finally, it is undisputed that in his eleven years at the EOPD, appellant's disciplinary history consisted of one single written reprimand in 2012 for a sick leave violation and/or excessive absences. Nonetheless, the sustained charges against appellant are serious in nature and major disciplinary action is warranted. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that a ninety-day suspension is more appropriate and proportionate to the offense.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the determination of the City of East Orange Police Department that Anthony Herrera be removed is REVERSED.

It is ORDERED that Anthony Herrera be suspended for ninety days and receive the return of appropriate benefits.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Wayne Kubs
Borough of Rutherford

CSC DKT. NO. 2015-1640
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 05914-17

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: MAY 25, 2018 BW

The appeal of Wayne Kubs, of the removal of his name from the eligibility list for Police Officer (S9999R), Borough of Rutherford, was heard by Administrative Law Judge John P. Scollo (ALJ), who rendered his initial decision on March 23, 2018 reversing the removal of Kubs' name from the list. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on May 23, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached ALJ's initial decision.

It is noted that the S9999R eligible list has expired. As such, that list should be revived at the time of the next certification for Police Officer, Borough of Rutherford to allow Kubs' name to appear on that certification. Further, as Kubs is a veteran, his appointment from that certification is mandated absent any disqualifying issues identified upon an updated background check which may include medical and psychological examinations.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing Wayne Kubs' name from the eligibility list for Police Officer (S9999R), Borough of Rutherford was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Wayne Kubs.

Further, the Commission revives the Police Officer (S9999R), Borough of Rutherford, eligible list at the time of the next certification for Police Officer, Borough of Rutherford to allow Kubs' name to appear on that certification. Further, as Kubs is a veteran, his appointment from that certification is mandated absent any disqualifying issues identified upon an updated background check which may include medical and psychological examinations.

Should Kubs ultimately be appointed, upon the successful completion of his working test period, the Commission orders that he be granted a retroactive date of appointment to the date he would have been appointed if his name had not been removed from the subject eligible list. This date is for salary step placement and seniority-based purposes only. However, the Commission does not grant any other relief, such as back pay or counsel fees, except the relief enumerated above.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 05914-17
CSC DKT. NO. 2015-1640

WAYNE R. KUBS,

Petitioner,

v.

BOROUGH OF RUTHERFORD,

Respondent.

Catherine M. Elston, Esq., for Petitioner (C. Elston & Associates, LLC, attorneys)

Dominic P. DiYanni, Esq. for Respondent (Eric M. Bernstein & Associates, LLC attorneys)

Record Closed: January 26, 2018 Decided: March 23, 2018

BEFORE: JOHN P. SCOLLO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a veteran, is appealing the April 19, 2017 decision (issued on April 26, 2017) of the Civil Service Commission, which upheld the appointing authority's (Borough of Rutherford's) removal of his name from the eligible list for Police Officer candidates. The name of another candidate, who was not a veteran and who was the nephew of Rutherford's Mayor, Joseph DeSalvo, remained on the list and was appointed as a police officer. The sole issue before the Office of Administrative Law is whether the extent to which Rutherford's Mayor was present during several of the candidate interviews created a conflict of interest, which tainted the appointment process.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Civil Service Commission transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on April 28, 2017 as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

On May 4, 2017 this matter was assigned to John P. Scollo, A.L.J. On May 16, 2017, Judge Scollo, along with Appellant's counsel, Catherine M. Elston, Esq. and Respondent's counsel, Dominic DiYanni, Esq. held an initial telephone conference. On May 18, 2017 Judge Scollo issued his Pre-Hearing Order setting dates for the completion of discovery, a motion schedule and setting a hearing date. This Order was amended on May 23, 2017 and thereafter various extensions were granted to allow additional discovery, including depositions. Subsequent telephone status conferences were held.

On December 19, 2017 both sides moved for Summary Decision. On or about January 3, 2018 the Tribunal received Opposition papers from both sides and on or about January 8, 2018 the Tribunal received Appellant's reply to Respondent's Opposition. After clarifications were made, the Tribunal deemed the motion record completed by January 26, 2018.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented in the parties' Motion, Opposition and Reply papers, as well as in the Joint Certification of Counsel (Joint Appendix) containing various documents, I FIND that the parties are not in dispute about the following FACTS and that there are no issues of material fact outstanding, which would preclude a disposition of the issue by Summary Decision:

1. The municipal government of the Borough of Rutherford consists of an elected Borough Council and an elected Mayor. The Mayor votes only to break a tie. (DeSalvo Dep. 15:18)

2. The process for the appointment of police officers in the Borough of Rutherford is as follows: After receiving recommendations from the Chief of Police, the Mayor decides which candidates to appoint; then the Council decides and votes on whether to appoint or not appoint each individual candidate. (DeSalvo Dep. 50:4 through 51:13; 116:23 through 117:7; and 119:6 through 122:16)

3. In June, 2014 the Borough of Rutherford (hereinafter "Boro", or "Rutherford") Police Department (hereinafter "RPD") conducted interviews of candidates for the position of police officer.

4. Russo chose between five and eight RPD detectives to serve as investigators. It was the job of each investigator to do background research on the candidates assigned to him by Chief Russo and to assist the Chief in interviewing the candidates. Mayor Joseph DeSalvo and Councilman Frank Nunziato, who was the Council's Police Liason, were invited to attend the interviews by the Chief. (Russo Dep. 25:19 through 27:3 and 39:2 through 40:17)

5. The hiring procedure for new police officers was explained by Chief Russo. Generally, the Tribunal's summary of the process, based on the evidence submitted, is as follows: The RPD would contact the Mayor and Boro Council through the Police Liason regarding the need for new officers to replace those expected to retire. After the RPD received authorization from the Boro government, the RPD contacted the Civil Service Commission to obtain a list of candidates. Potential candidates were contacted to ensure that they were still interested in a position and efforts were made to screen potential candidates to ensure that they would be eligible (e.g. residency requirements, etc.). Then RPD would send applications to potential candidates. Those responding within the time limit would have their applications assigned to RPD's investigators, who would do background research. After the background research was done on each of the applicants assigned to them, the investigators prepared a summary report for the Chief to review regarding each potential candidate. The Chief would discuss the background information with the investigators and if there were no outright objections or other issues, then the Chief would arrange dates and times for the applicants to be interviewed. (Russo Dep. 25:19 through 27:3; 29:18 through 30:12; 32:11 through 33:18; and 43:3 through 44:11)

6. The purpose of the interview was to learn about the candidate, to clarify issues about his background, and to ask him scenario-based questions in order to further evaluate him. (Russo Dep. 43:3 – 6; 45:25 through 47:8; and 53:23 through 60:25; see also, the Deposition of Mayor Joseph DeSalvo 94: 2-9 and 118: 17 through 119:5)

7. The interviews of the candidates were conducted by Chief Russo and available members of his team of investigators, who would ask questions of the candidates. Mayor DeSalvo and the Police Liason, Councilman Frank Nunziato, were invited to attend the interviews, but they did not speak with or ask questions of the candidates and neither of them attended all of the interviews. (Russo Dep 34:16 -25; DeSalvo Dep. 94:6 through 97: 13)

8. Chief Russo wrote a list of fourteen questions for each of the candidates to answer during his interview. Each candidate answered each of these questions during his interview. Questions posed to the candidates were not limited to those on the Chief's list of questions. The questioners were able to ask other questions. (Russo Dep. 43: 25 through 44:19; 54: 17-19; 55:7-10; 58:5-11; 62:19-20)

9. Paper copies of the Chief's list of fourteen questions were given to the investigators. (Russo Dep 45:6-24)

10. One of the candidates interviewed was James Fecanin, who is the nephew of Mayor DeSalvo. (Russo Dep. 67:18 through 70:23 and DeSalvo Dep. 102: 11 through 103:12)

11. Chief Russo and the investigators knew that James Fecanin was Mayor DeSalvo's nephew. (Russo Dep. 68:7-25; 70:7-23; and DeSalvo Dep 102:11 through 103:12)

12. Mayor DeSalvo attended the interviews of several, but not all, of the candidates before his nephew was interviewed. (Russo Dep. 76:12-15; 108:10-13; and DeSalvo Dep. 118:1-3 and 14-16)

13. Mayor DeSalvo did not attend the interview of his nephew, James Fecanin. (DeSalvo Dep. 100: 1-8)

14. For the interviews that Mayor DeSalvo attended, he heard the candidates being asked all fourteen questions on Chief Russo's list. (DeSalvo Dep. 95: 22 through 96: 5 and 106: 2-20). Mayor DeSalvo heard the questions before his nephew, James Fecanin, was interviewed. (Russo Dep. 107: 2 through 111:10)

15. Mayor DeSalvo was not asked to sign a document promising that he would not disclose to his nephew any information about the interview process, including the contents of the Chief's 14-question list. (Russo Dep. 110:17-20)

16. Having been present during the several candidates' interviews, which took place before James Fecanin was interviewed, and having heard all of the questions on Chief Russo's 14-question list as well as other questions posed to the candidates, Mayor DeSalvo received information, which could have been advantageous to James Fecanin, if Mayor DeSalvo had disclosed it to him before Fecanin's interview. (Russo Dep. 107:2 through 114:14 and DeSalvo Dep.)

17. Regarding the possibility of James Fecanin becoming employed as a police officer for the Boro, Mayor DeSalvo admitted that this would be deemed to be a personal interest of his arising out of their uncle-nephew relationship. (DeSalvo Dep. 115: 3-6)

18. Mayor DeSalvo admitted that a member of the public could perceive it to be a conflict of interest if, before James Fecanin was interviewed, the Mayor had already heard the actual questions that the other police officer candidates had been asked. (DeSalvo 111: 21 through 113:23 and 126:8 through 128:8)

APPLICABLE LAW

In 1991, New Jersey enacted the Local Government Ethics Law (LGEL), which is found at N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.1, et seq. At N.J.S.A. 40A:9-2.2 the Legislature declared that: (a) public offices and public employments are public trusts; (b) that democracy depends upon the public's confidence in the integrity of its representatives; (c) that whenever the public perceives a conflict between the private interests and the public duties of a government officer, that confidence is imperiled; (d) that governments have the duty to provide standards of conduct for government service and to appraise the conduct of government officials while conducting their public duties; and (e) that this law was enacted to set and enforce ethical standards and require appropriate financial disclosures by those who are in government service.

N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.3 sets forth the definitions of various terms used in the LGEL. One such term is "member of immediate family". Member of immediate family is defined as: "the spouse or dependent child of a local government officer or employee residing in the same household." An Appellate panel in Haggerty v. Red Bank Borough Zoning Board of Adjustment, 385 N.J. Super. 501, 514 (App. Div, 2006) summarized the Local Government Ethics Law's definitions of "local government officer" and "local government agency" as follows:

> The Ethics Law defines "local government officer" as any person "serving on a local government agency which has The authority to enact ordinances, approve development applications or grant zoning variances," N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.3 (g) (2), and a "local government agency" as a municipal board which performs functions in other than a purely advisory nature. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.3 (e).

N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.5 sets forth provisions with which local government officers and employees must comply. Among the pertinent provisions are the following:

> a. No local government officer or employee or member of his immediate family shall have an interest in a business organization or engage in any business, transaction, or professional activity which is in substantial conflict with the proper discharge of his duties in the public interest;
>
> c. No local government official or employee shall use or attempt to use his official position to secure unwarranted privileges or advantages for himself or others;
> d. No local government officer or employee shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment;

> g. No local government officer or employee shall use, or allow to be used, his public office or employment, or any information not readily available to the members of the public, which he receives or acquires in the course of or by reason of his office or employment, for the purpose of securing financial gain for himself, any member of his immediate family, or any business organization with which he is associated....

N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.10 and 22.11 set forth penalties for ethical violations and provide for various disciplinary actions, including demotion, suspension, or removal. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.13 mandates the establishment of a County Ethics Board to serve the members of the county government; N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.20 has similar provisions on the municipal level. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.15 mandates the adoption and publication of a county Code of Ethics. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.21 has similar provisions on the municipal level. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.16 empowers the County Ethics Board to investigate and hold hearings on possible ethical violations involving county or municipal officials or employees. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.22 has similar provisions on the municipal level. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.17 provides that any county of municipal officer or employee to request from the County Ethics Board an advisory opinion as to whether any proposed activity or conduct would, in its opinion, constitute a violation of the County Code of Ethics or any financial disclosure requirements. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.24 has similar provisions on the municipal level.

New Jersey has a Conflicts of Interest Law codified at N.J.S.A. 52:13B-12 to -28. New Jersey's conflicts of interest jurisprudence has its origins in the Common Law. The New Jersey Supreme Court has, in no uncertain terms, set clear guidelines for attorneys and judges to follow in conflict of interest issues.

In New Jersey, prerogative writ jurisdiction has served as the mechanism for the supervision of government officials. In Wyzykowski v. Rizas, 132 N.J. 509 (1993), a case brought under the Municipal Land Use Law, the Supreme Court set forth a comprehensive history of the origins of our conflicts of interest law as well as expounding its general principles for application in a variety of legal and factual contexts. Starting on p. 522 the Court said:

> "Our judicial system is historically vested with a comprehensive prerogative-writ jurisdiction, which it inherited from the King's Bench. We have frequently exercised that jurisdiction in the supervision of government tribunals, including administrative agencies. Avant v. Clifford, 67 N.J. 496, 520 (1975). That common law jurisdiction is guaranteed under N.J. Constitution, article VI, section 5, paragraph 4. The oft-cited function of the common law writ of certiorari is " to bring before the superior court for inspection the records of the proceedings of the inferior tribunal, to determine whether the latter had jurisdiction and had proceeded according to law." State v. Court of Common Pleas, 1 N.J. 14, 19 (1948). Among the guarantees of the common law is the entitlement to a fair and impartial tribunal.
>
> These obligations are not mere theoretical concepts or idealistic abstractions of no practical force and effect; they are obligations imposed by the common law on officers and assumed by them as a matter of law upon their entering public office. The enforcement of these obligations is essential to the soundness and efficiency of our government, which exists for the benefit of the people who are its sovereign. [Driscoll v. Burlington-Bristol Bridge Co., 8 N.J. 433, cert. denied, 344 U.S. 838 (1952).]
>
> Thus, common law principles concerning the participation of public officials in matters in which they have a personal interest primarily govern this dispute. At common law '[a] public official is disqualified from participating in judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings in which the official has a conflicting interest that may interfere with the impartial performance of his duties as a member of the public body.' Scotch Plains-Fanwood Bd. of Educ. v. Syvertsen, 251 N.J. Super. 566, 568 (App. Div. 1991).
>
> The Municipal Land Use Law codified the common law principles, expressly prohibiting a planning board member from acting "on any matter in which [the member] has, either directly or indirectly, any personal or financial interest." N.J.S.A. 40:55D-23.b.
> We repeat the general guidelines for determining whether a particular interest is sufficient to disqualify. "The decision as > to whether a particular interest is sufficient to disqualify is necessarily a factual one and depends upon the circumstances of the particular case." Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 268 (1958) (citing Aldom v. Borough of Roseland, 42 N.J. Super. 495, 503 (App. Div. 1956)). "The question will always be whether the circumstances could reasonably be interpreted to show that they had the likely capacity to tempt the official to depart from his sworn public duty." Van Itallie, supra, 28 N.J. at 268.

>
> Local governments would be seriously handicapped if every possible interest, no matter how remote or speculative, would serve as a disqualification of an official. If this were so, it would discourage capable men and women from holding public office. Of course, courts should scrutinize the circumstances with great care and should condemn anything which indicates the likelihood of corruption or favoritism. But in doing so they must also be mindful that to abrogate a municipal action at the suggestion that some remote and nebulous interest is present, would be to unjustifiably deprive a municipality in many important instances of the services of its duly elected or appointed officials. The determinations of municipal officials should not be approached with a general feeling of suspicion, for as Justice Holmes has said, "Universal distrust creates universal incompetency." Graham v. United States, 231 U.S. 474, 480 (1913); see also Ward v. Scott (II), 16 N.J. 16 (1954). [Id. 28 N.J. at 269.]
> Actual proof of dishonesty need not be shown. Aldom, supra, 42 N.J. Super. at 503. An actual conflict of interest is not the decisive factor, nor is "whether the public servant succumbs to the temptation," but rather whether there is a potential for conflict. Griggs v. Borough of Princeton, 33 N.J. 207, 219 (1960) (citing Aldom, supra, 42 N.J. Super. Atv 502). A conflicting interest arises when the public official has an interest not shared in common with the other members of the public. Id. 33 N.J. at 220-21. Another way of analyzing the issue is to understand that "[t]here cannot be a conflict of interest where there do not exist, realistically, contradictory desires tugging the official in opposite directions." LaRue v. Township of East Brunswick, 68 N.J. Super. 435 (App. Div. 1961)."

As the decision in Wyzykowski demonstrates, the Supreme Court intended that its statement of general principles should be applied universally. As will be seen, it also adopted a four-part categorization of conflicts of interest that should result in disqualification. Continuing at p. 524 the decision reads as follows:

> "Our courts have invoked the application of the test under varied circumstances. See Griggs, supra, 33 N.J. 207 (invalidating determination of "blighted" area by borough council where two participating councilmen were professors of university benefitted by designation); Pyatt v. Mayor of Dunellen, 9 N.J. 548 (1952) (voiding vote for ordinance where councilmen were employees of corporation that substantially benefitted); Barrett v. Union Township Committee, 230 N.J. Super. 195 (App. Div. 1989) (voiding vote where councilman's mother resided in nursing home favored by zoning amendment); Sokolinski v. Woodbridge Township Municipal Council, 192 N.J. Super. 101 (App. Div. 1983) (enjoining vote of board of adjustment members employed by or related to employees of board of education who benefitted by variance); Marlboro Manor, Inc. v. Board of Commissioners, 187 N.J. Duper. 359 (App. Div. 1982) (voiding vote where councilmen were members of church opposed to transfer of liquor license); S&L Associates v. Township of Washington, 61 N,J, Super. 312 (App. Div. 1960) (invalidating zoning amendment enhancing value of property owned by certain voting members of governing body), aff'd in part, rev'd in part, 35 N.J. 224 (1961); Aldom, supra, 42 N.J. Super. 495 (voiding zoning ordinance where employer of councilman who voted for enactment would be benefitted); Hochberg v. Borough of Freehold, 40 N.J. Super. 276 (App. Div. 1956) (voiding zoning amendment permitting enlargement of horse track at which a participating councilman operated horsemen's kitchen), certif. denied, 22 N.J. 223 (1956); Bracey v. City of Long Branch, 73 N.J. Super. 91 (Law Div. 1962) (voiding ordinance where architect-member of planning board stood to gain by urban renewal ordinance benefitting his client-agency). But see Van Itallie, supra, 28 N.J. 258 (upholding zoning amendment although participating councilman's brother held a "lower echelon" position in benefitted corporation).
> A commentator has distilled those varying circumstances into four types of situations that require disqualification: (1) "Direct pecuniary interests," when an official votes on a matter benefitting the official's own property or affording a direct financial gain; (2) "Indirect pecuniary interests," when an official votes on a matter that > financially benefits one closely tied to the official, such as an employer or family member; (3) "Direct personal interest," when an official votes on a matter that benefits a blood relative or close friend in a non-financial way, but a matter of great importance, as in the case of a councilman's mother being in the nursing home subject to the zoning issue; and (4) "Indirect personal interest," when an official votes on a matter in which an individual's judgment may be affected because of membership in some organization and a desire to help that organization further its policies. See, Michael A. Pane, Conflict of Interest: Sometimes a Confusing Maze, Part II, New Jersey Municipalities, March 1980, at 8,9."

The Supreme Court's ruling in Wyzykowski provides government officials and employees with guidance which enables them to decide whether they have an interest (be it financial or personal), which is something "not shared in common with the other members of the public" concerning a matter on which they will be called upon to deliberate and vote. It is the dual functions of deliberation and voting that makes the process quasi-judicial. If the government official or employee has a financial or personal interest and encounters "contradictory desires tugging [him] in in opposite directions" then a potential for a conflict of interest exists and recusal is required.

The courts of New Jersey have recognized that the quasi-judicial functions of government officials are governed by the same ethical standards that apply to judges. In Kremer v. City of Plainfield, 101 N.J. Super. 346 (Law Div. 1968) an applicant's attorney appeared before the Board of Adjustment. One of the Board's members was the uncle of the applicant's attorney. After the Board of Adjustment granted the application for a variance, the plaintiff brought a prerogative writ action seeking to set aside the grant of the variance. Judge Wood, citing various authorities noted that judges are required to recuse themselves when a party to a case is related by blood or marriage or where his conduct of the case could result in the impression that he could be affected by the "kinship, rank, position or influence of any party or other person."

The judge noted that the standards he relied on applied to judges, but went on to rule that

> "[T]here is no sound reason why a lesser standard should govern the conduct of those acting in a quasi-judicial capacity. The need for unquestionable integrity, objectivity and impartiality is just as great for quasi-judicial personnel as for judges." Kremer at 352-53.

The Appellate Division in Randolph v. City of Brigantine Planning Board, 405 N.J. Super. 215, 226 (App. Div. 2009), quoted the reasoning of Judge Woods and adopted Kremer. The panel ruled that:

> "planning board members, in their quasi-judicial capacity, may not participate in evaluating an application in any matter in which their direct or indirect private interests may be at variance with the impartial performance of their public duty." Randolph at 225.

In Wyzykowski at p. 523 the Court underscored the principle, handed-down from the common law, that:

> "[a] public official is disqualified from participating in judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings in which the official has a conflicting interest that may interfere with the impartial performance of his duties as a member of the public body."

The Court emphasized that judicial and quasi-judicial functions are to be regarded as equally important from the standpoint of the ethical responsibilities. Thus the standards imposed on government officials in the discharge of their quasi-judicial functions rise to the same high level which judges must meet in the discharge of their judicial duties.

It follows that government officials must conform to the appearance of impropriety standard when issues of conflicts of interest arise in the performance of their quasi-judicial duties. The Supreme Court said exactly that in Kane Properties, LLC v. City of Hoboken, 214 N.J. 199, 220 (2013). Re-affirming that the appearance of impropriety standard applies to all judicial and quasi-judicial proceedings, the Court categorically stated:

> "[T]he appearance of impropriety standard has never been altered as it relates to judges, see, Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 2 ("A judge should avoid impropriety and the appearance of impropriety in all activities."), and, as our Appellate Division has observed, it remains applicable to municipal officials acting in a quasi-judicial capacity, see, Randolph v. City of Brigantine Planning Board, 405 N.J. Super. 215, 226 (App. Div. 2009) (citing Kremer v. City of Plainfield, 101 N.J. Super. 346, 352-53 (Law Div. 1968)." Kane at 220.

The Court went on to further explain its continuing adherence to the appearance of impropriety standard for both attorneys and for judges at p. 221 of Kane, saying:

> "Our traditional explanation of the appearance of impropriety standard recognized that '[t]o maintain public confidence in the bar it is necessary that the appearance of, as well as actual, wrongdoing be avoided.' In re Cipriano, 68 N.J. 398 (1975); accord, In re Opinion Number 415, 81 N.J. 318, 323 (1979). In particular, we have commented that "[w]hen representation of public bodies is involved, the appearance of impropriety assumes an added dimension [because positions] of public trust call for even more circumspect conduct.' In re Opinion Number 415, 81 N.J. 318 at 324 (footnote omitted). As our Appellate Division has observed, when an 'office calls for the service of an attorney in areas where the public interest is involved, the possible areas of conflict of interest are subject to even closer scrutiny and more stringent limitation.' Lafayette, supra, 208 N.J. Super. at 473 (citing In re Opinion 452, 87 N.J. 45, 50 (1981)).
> We recently articulated the manner in which a claim that a judge's act violated the appearance of impropriety standard is to be evaluated. DeNike v. Cupo, 196 N.J. 502, 514-19 (2008). We defined the appropriate standard to use in determining whether there was an appearance of impropriety in that context as: 'Would a reasonable, fully informed person have doubts about the judge's impartiality?' Id. at 517; see, In re Tenure Hearing of Onorevole, 103 N.J. 548, 561 (1986). As we explained, if a judge's conduct gave the public 'reason to lack confidence in the integrity of the process and its outcome [,]' the decision rendered would have to be reversed and the matter retried. DeNike, supra, 196 N.J. at 517.

> In establishing that approach, we did not require evidence that the judge in fact conducted the proceedings in a biased or unfair way. Id. at 517-19. Instead, we made it clear that "it is not necessary to prove actual prejudice..." to establish an appearance of impropriety; an "objectively reasonable" belief that the proceedings were unfair is sufficient.' Id. at 517 (quoting State v. Marshall, 148 N.J. 189. cert. denied, 522 U.S. 850 (1997)); see Griggs v. Borough of Princeton, 33 N.J. 207, 220 (1960) (holding that when an appearance of impropriety standard applies, it is 'the mere existence of a conflict, not its actual effect, which requires the official [municipal] action to be invalidated')."

The applicable law in the matter before the Tribunal in rooted is the Common Law. The Common Law established the enduring principle that a public officer is disqualified from participation in a judicial or quasi-judicial matter wherein he has an interest which may interfere with the impartial performance of his governmental duties. While each case is fact sensitive, the question is always the same: whether the circumstances could reasonably be interpreted to show that they have the capacity to tempt the officer to depart from his sworn public duties. Van Itallie v. Franklin Lakes, 28 N.J. 258, 268 (1958). The standard to be applied to those in judicial and quasi-judicial positions is an appearance of impropriety standard, meaning that if a reasonable, fully-informed person had reason to doubt the decision-maker's impartiality, then a conflict exists and the action would have to be set aside. DeNike v. Cupo, 196 N.J. 502, 514-19 (2008).

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The issue before this Tribunal is whether the extent to which Mayor DeSalvo was present during several of the candidate interviews created a conflict of interest, which tainted the appointment process. The fact question is whether DeSalvo had a sufficient-enough personal, monetary or other interest in the proceedings to invalidate the decision-making process. The resolution of this or any other fact question in a conflict of interest case depends on the circumstances of the particular case. Van Itallie v. Borough of Franklin Lakes, 128 N.J. 258, 268 (1958). Here, the relevant facts are not in dispute: (1) Mayor DeSalvo is the uncle of James Fecanin; (2) Several candidates for the position of police officer were interviewed before James Fecanin; (3) Mayor DeSalvo sat in on several interviews and learned all of the questions on Chief Russo's 14-question list plus several other questions posed to the candidates; (4) A candidate's knowledge of the aforementioned questions before his interview would be valuable to a candidate and would give him an advantage over other candidates.

In DeNike v. Cupo, 196 N.J. 502, 518 (2008) our Supreme Court observed that a trial judge's discussion of employment opportunities with a law firm which was representing a party in a case that was still pending before that judge constituted a pattern of factual circumstances that "invites doubt about the trial judge's partiality". Certainly this applies also to people holding a quasi-judicial office. See, Scotch Plains-Fanwood Board of Education v. Syvertsen, 251 N.J. Super. 566, 568 (App. Div. 1991); Kremer v. City of Plainfield, 101 N.J. Super. 346, 352-53 (Law Div. 1968); Randolph v. City of Brigantine Planning Board, 405 N.J. Super. 215, 226 (App. Div. 2009); Wyzykowski v. Rizas, 132 N.J. 509, 523 (1993). In DeNike, the Supreme Court formulated a standard by which judges and those in quasi-judicial positions could decide whether to participate in a matter or not. That standard is set forth in the form of the following question: "Would a reasonable, fully informed person have doubts about the judge's (or quasi-judicial person's) impartiality?" DeNike at 517. If a reasonable, fully informed person would have doubt, then a recusal is indicated. DeNike at 518.

I CONCLUDE that Mayor DeSalvo had a sufficient personal interest (the hiring of his nephew, James Fecanin) in the outcome of the appointment / hiring process to warrant his recusal from the process.

I CONCLUDE that Mayor DeSalvo had the present, apparent ability to give the interview questions to his nephew and thus afford him an advantage over the other candidates.

When the above-reference standard, enunciated in DeNike, is carried-over into the matter at hand, the question becomes: Would Mayor DeSalvo's learning of the interview questions (the 14-question list and the others) before his nephew was interviewed cause a reasonable, fully informed member of the public to have doubts about the integrity of the appointment / hiring process? The answer to this question was actually stated by Mayor DeSalvo himself. Mayor DeSalvo admitted that a member of the public could perceive it to be a conflict of interest if, before James Fecanin was interviewed, the Mayor had already heard the actual questions that the other candidates had been asked. (DeSalvo Dep. 111: 21 through 113: 23 and 126:8 through 128:8). I CONCLUDE that, even though it has not been proven that the Mayor actually violated his oath by actually providing his nephew with the interview questions, the reasonable perception of a conflict of interest in the mind of a reasonable, fully informed member of the public was enough to taint the appointment / hiring process.

I CONCLUDE that Mayor DeSalvo's presence at and during the police officer interviews / selection process and his exposure to the questioning of police officer candidates created a conflict of interest, which indeed tainted the police officer selection process.

In fashioning an appropriate remedy, I CONCLUDE that it would be impractical, as well as unfair to the police officers who were hired, to invalidate the entire appointment / hiring process that took place in 2015. However, I CONCLUDE that it would be appropriate to reverse the removal of Wayne Kubs' name from the eligible list and thereby restore it to the list for consideration when the Borough of Rutherford next seeks to hire police officers.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing and because the actions of Mayor Joseph DeSalvo, tainted the appointment / hiring process for the hiring of police officers in 2015, it is hereby ORDERED that the following remedies shall be put into place:

(1) the police officers hired in 2015 by the Borough of Rutherford shall remain in their positions;

(2) the removal of Wayne Kubs from the eligible list is hereby REVERSED;

(3) the name of Wayne Kubs shall be RESTORED to the list of eligibles and shall therefore be considered with the names of future candidates the next time the Borough of Rutherford seeks to hire police officers.

It is further ORDERED that the decision of the Civil Service Commission upholding the Respondent's decision to remove Petitioner's name from the list of candidates is hereby REVERSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Kristina E. Chubenko, Assistant County Counsel, for respondent Mercer County (Paul R. Adezio, County Counsel)

Record Closed: April 24, 2018 Decided: April 24, 2018

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

This matter involves the appeal of Wayne N. Miller, Sr. (Miller) of the decision of respondent Mercer County Department of Transportation and Infrastructure (the Department) to remove him from employment, effective August 15, 2017, on charges of (1) chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(4); (2) conduct unbecoming a public employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); (3) other sufficient cause, specifically violations of the Mercer County Table of Offenses and Penalties, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and (4) resignation not in good standing, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b).

The Department notified Miller of the above charges by a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 5, 2017. Upon receipt of Miller's hearing request, the matter was transmitted on October 23, 2017, to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

As a result of a settlement conference, the parties agreed to a settlement of all issues in dispute and have prepared a settlement agreement, which is attached and fully incorporated herein. The settlement agreement provides Miller with a seven-day right of revocation following his execution of the agreement. Miller signed the settlement agreement on April 16, 2018. He did not submit notice of revocation by April 23, 2018; accordingly, the settlement agreement became effective and irrevocable on April 24, 2018, and the record closed.

I have reviewed the record and terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures on the settlement agreement.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

I CONCLUDE that this matter is no longer a contested case before the Office of Administrative Law. It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

v.	:	OAL DOCKET NO.: CSV 13531-2017N
CITY OF NEWARK, Respondent	:

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND GENERAL RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and General Release (hereinafter, referred to as the "Agreement") is made and entered into by the City of Newark, its affiliates, subsidiaries, officials, officers, agents, employees, attorneys, successors, heirs, and assigns (hereinafter, referred to as the "City"), and Deicles Moschen, his agents, attorneys, successors, heirs and assigns, to resolve the disciplinary matter as it relates to the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action ("FNDA") dated July 18, 2016. Rather than continuing further with the appeal of Moschen's termination at the Office of Administrative Law on the charges of Inability to Perform Duties and other sufficient causes, as codified at N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(3) and (a)(12); Moschen and the City have independently determined that it is in their best interest to resolve the dispute between them that are the subject of appeal at the Office of Administrative Law in the above matter;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the agreements contained herein, Mr. Moschen and the City agree as follows:

1. Deicles Moschen agrees he was employed with the City as an electrician. He sustained injuries while employed with the City on August 16, 2014.
2. On or about September 24, 2015, he was released from disability by his physician to return to work on a "light duty" basis.

3. The Parties agree the City of Newark does not have "light duty" available to provide to Mr. Moschen.

4. On December 11, 2015, Mr. Moschen filed for disability retirement application with the State of New Jersey, Public Employment Retirement Systems. Said application was granted on August 17, 2016, with an effective date of January 1, 2016.

5. In exchange for the terms and promises in this Agreement, the City agrees it will rescind the termination effective October 14, 2015.

6. The City will amend the FNDA to reflect Moschen retired.

7. Moschen agrees to waive any future employment with the City.

8. Moschen agrees not to seek any medical health payments/benefits from October 14,2015 to January 31, 2018.

9. The parties agree any medical health coverage obligations of the City to Moschen, pursuant to the Collective Bargain Agreement for disability retirement, shall commence on February 1, 2018.

10. The Parties agree this Agreement resolves all outstanding claims asserted by Mr. Moschen that arise from his employment with the City.

11. Moschen and/or his agents agree not to appeal the terms and conditions of this Agreement to any agency or court, including, but not limited to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and/or to any other New Jersey State Court or agency and/or to any United States Court or agency.

12. Moschen and/or his agents each further agree that there is no consideration due Moschen, his counsel and/or Union, including, but not limited to, any claim for back pay and/or counsel fees, arising from his employment and/or the execution of this Agreement, except as otherwise provided herein.

13. Except for the assessment of Moschen's disciplinary record in any subsequent personnel disciplinary hearing, nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party.

14. Moschen and/or his agent further acknowledge that this Agreement further precludes either of them from bringing any type of legal or contractual action in any forum including, but not limited to, filing a Complaint in New Jersey Superior Court or United States Federal Court, filing any type of complaint with the City, Essex County, the State of New Jersey or the United States of America, and filing a grievance and/or requesting arbitration, that is in any manner grounded, based upon, or related to the FNDA.

15. Moschen and/or his agent is bound by this Agreement. Anyone who succeeds to Moschen's rights and responsibilities, such as heirs or the executor of his estate, shall also be bound.

16. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent or practice in any matter involving the City or other City employees.

17. Moschen and/or his agent agree this Agreement shall not be offered, used or considered as evidence in any proceeding of any type against or involving the City, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.

18. This Agreement contains the sole and entire agreement between Moschen and the City, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. Moschen specifically represents and acknowledges in executing this Agreement that he has not relied upon any representation or statement by the City, or City's counsel or representatives, with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, which is not set forth herein. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by all the Parties, and expressly stated to be a modification of the Agreement.

19. Moschen agrees and acknowledges that he has been fully and fairly represented by his Union/Attorney in this matter, and he is satisfied with that representation and with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

20. Moschen agrees and acknowledges that he has had full opportunity to review this Agreement with his counsel and/or union representation and he enters into same knowingly and voluntarily.

21. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Settlement Agreement shall be fully enforceable.

22. This agreement will become effective only if approved by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION. Any disapproval by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further with a hearing at OAL.

a. By signing this Settlement Agreement, Moschen states that:

Mr. Feeley and Ms. Casseus:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Deicles Moschen from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, the settlement indicates, inter alia, that Mr. Moschen in exchange for a rescission of his removal effective October 14, 2015, will retire effective January 1, 2016. However, the settlement does not account for the time from the effective date of his removal to the effective date of his retirement. In that regard, we need to know how that time should be reflected in his official personnel record. Should it be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An email reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

ISSUED: MAY 25, 2018 BW

The appeals of Dallas Newman, Senior Correction Officer, Bayside State Prison, Department of Corrections, two removals effective August 5, 2016, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge Dorothy Incarvito-Garrabrant, who rendered her initial decision on April 18, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeals of Dallas Newman.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

IN THE MATTER OF DALLAS NEWMAN,
BAYSIDE STATE PRISON,
DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

William Blaney, Esq. for appellant Dallas Newman (Blaney & Karavan, attorneys)

Emily M. Bisnauth, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, Bayside State Prison (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: January 8, 2018 Decided: April 18, 2018

BEFORE DOROTHY INCARVITO-GARRABRANT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Dallas Newman, a Senior Corrections Officer at the Ancora Satellite facility of Bayside State Prison, (BSP),[1] Department of Corrections, (respondent or DOC), appeals from the determination of respondent that he be terminated, pursuant to a first Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated August 5, 2016, for violations of N.J.S.A 52:13D-23 Uniform Ethics Code; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) conduct unbecoming an employee; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically violations of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended; C(11) conduct unbecoming an employee; E(1) violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure order or administrative decision; and E(2) intentional use or misuse of authority or position, (R-4); and the determination of respondent that he be terminated pursuant to a second FNDA dated August 5, 2016, for violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) conduct unbecoming an employee; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically violations of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended; C(8) falsification: intentional misstatement of material fact in connection with work, employment, application, attendance or in any record, report, investigation or other proceeding; C(11), conduct unbecoming an employee; D(4) improper or unauthorized contact with inmate-undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their families or friends; D(6a) loss or careless control of keys, pager/beepers or cellular phones; D(6b) loss or careless control of radios, mace, or handcuffs; E(1) violation of rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. (R-2.)

[1] Ancora is a minimal security unit facility, which is a satellite unit of BSP located on the grounds of Ancora Psychiatric Hospital in Camden County.

The appellant denies the allegations that he falsified information or lied during an investigation, that he was unduly familiar with an inmate, a parolee, their family, or friends, that he took inmates outside of the facility for them to repair his personal vehicles or property, or that he carelessly lost control of his radio and keys during a shift change. Appellant further contends that the charges brought against him were not timely filed. He also contends that he was labeled as a "bad employee" after a workplace injury led to an opioid addiction, from which he recovered after treatment. As a result, he maintains he was targeted for termination with these false and unsubstantiated allegations.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 13, 2016, respondent issued a first Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth the charges and specifications against appellant. (R-3.) On July 12, 2016, respondent issued a second PNDA setting forth the charges and specifications against appellant. (R-1.) Following a departmental hearing on July 15, 2016, the respondent issued Final Notices of Disciplinary Action on August 5, 2016, sustaining the charges brought in both preliminary notices and terminating appellant from employment. (R-2 and R-4.) Appellant filed a timely notice of appeal. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 26, 2016, for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13.

On February 7, 2017, the Honorable Dean J. Buono, A.L.J. denied appellant's evidentiary motion to suppress appellant's cellular telephone records obtained pursuant to a valid Camden County Communication Data Warrant (CDW).

The hearing in this matter was held on June 21, August 29, and October 19, 2017. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on January 8, 2018.[2]

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

For Respondent

Edward Soltys (Soltys) is a Principal Investigator in the Special Investigations Division (SID) for DOC. He has been employed by DOC for twenty years and became a Principal Investigator in 2015. Soltys participated in the interviews conducted in this matter with Principal Investigator Stephen Manera. He also contacted Verizon to obtain a "key" from Verizon. The key explained what type of data was included within the columns on the telephone records produced pursuant to the valid CDW.[3]

Stephen Manera (Manera) is a now retired Principal Investigator for DOC's SID. He was employed by DOC for approximately twenty years. During his employment as an investigator, his job duties included conducting investigations, interviewing witnesses, reviewing documents and evidence, and writing reports. Initially, Manera was assigned to investigate the appellant relative to criminal allegations. However, the investigation became administrative after the Camden County Prosecutor's Office issued a declination to prosecute letter on March 28, 2016. Thereafter, the matter was remanded to SID, which was tasked with continuing their investigation for further investigation and action. Manera issued a supplemental report dated April 7, 2016. (R-25.).

[2] An extension of time until April 18, 2018, was granted for the filing of this initial Decision.
[3] The key was obtained after the local hearing.

As part of the criminal investigation of appellant, and another BSP senior corrections officer, Manera reviewed appellant's personnel file, and also applied for and received the CDW, which allowed for disclosure of appellant's cellular phone records. (R-36-R-38.)[4] Manera explained that the cellular records included the person receiving the call, the date, duration of the call, and whether the call was incoming or outgoing. (R-40.)

While conducting the investigation, Manera received information relative to an alleged relationship between appellant and L.M., the father of inmate D.M., who had been incarcerated at Ancora and worked on a maintenance detail assigned to appellant. Manera interviewed L.M. and recorded the interview.

During that interview, L.M. stated that he knew appellant through his son, D.M., who had been incarcerated in the Ancora facility of BSP. L.M. provided his cell phone number, ending in X423, to Manera and stated that he spoke to appellant on the phone. Also, L.M. showed Manera that he had saved appellant's phone number, ending in X609, in his phone under appellant's first name, "Dallas." L.M. stated that he provided appellant with baked ziti to take to his son, D.M., while he was incarcerated in Ancora. Appellant had delivered this food to D.M. D.M. had told L.M. that he and appellant were good friends, and that after his release D.M. and appellant were going to get in shape together.[5]

Manera confirmed numerous cellular communications between appellant and L.M., during and after the time D.M. was incarcerated at BSP. (R-40.) There were thirty communications, which were recorded in the telephone records between September 15, 2013 and September 1, 2014, produced pursuant to the CDW.[6] Manera stated there were approximately sixty communications. D.M. was released from BSP to a half-way house.[7] However, Manera did not know when D.M. was released or the duration of [4] The other Senior Corrections Officer was criminally charged.

[5] L.M.'s statements were recorded on a CD. (R-45.)
[6] The cellular records were admitted into evidence as R-40. They detail appellant's cellular communications during the period from September 15, 2013 and September 1, 2014. There are thirty cellular communications between appellant and L.M. during that period. It is noted that the records for the period between March 1, 2013 and September 15, 2013, which were produced pursuant to the CDW, were not submitted in this proceeding.
[7] D.M. was still under the custody and control of DOC while he was in this half-way house.

D.M.'s sentence at the half-way house. Thereafter, D.M. became deceased in October 2013.

Additionally, during the criminal investigation, Manera was also provided with information that appellant parked his truck with attached fifth wheel camper at BSP and took an inmate, J.L., outside of the facility to repair it on July 16, 2014. A group of inmates were assigned to the H07 work detail, the function of which was to complete maintenance tasks inside and outside of the BSP facility. They were permitted to leave the facility to complete the tasks and returned back via DOC transport to Ancora each time to remain in custody. Manera interviewed members of the H07 detail and testified that several indicated that appellant and an inmate were seen near the camper, outside the facility's perimeter on July 16, 2014. (R-24.) One inmate on the work detail saw J.L. with appellant outside the perimeter of the facility.

As a result, J.L was interviewed by Manera and SID investigators on July 24, 2014. (R-46.)[8] Manera testified that he made no promises or threats to J.L. to entice his statement. During the interview, J.L. stated that he was an inmate at Ancora and that he worked on appellant's truck and camper outside the facility's perimeter on three separate occasions. J.L. did not indicate the dates of the first two repairs. He made mistakes during his statement about the date on which he completed the third repair. In a prehearing conference with investigators, J.L. had provided a different date than in his taped interview. He corrected the date in the interview.

J.L. completed the truck and camper repairs, including repairs to the hot water system, the vehicle suspension, and the motor which lifts the camper off the towing truck's bed, with tools brought from within Ancora. During the interview J.L. stated that relative to the third repair, he and appellant did not exit through the metal detector. Instead, they left through an area in the gate shed, where the table had been pulled away from the metal detector by appellant. While completing the third repair, the H07 details van returned to the facility. J.L. stated that appellant told him to go back inside.

Additionally, in his statement, J.L. provided the make and color of appellant's truck and other personal information about appellant, including his wife's and children's names, his residence, and the family's hobbies. J.L. stated that appellant would bring chicken into the facility for him to cook, and that he learned appellant's personal information because he hung out with appellant in the general assignment office to which appellant was assigned. He also crafted personal items for the appellant and his family.

Manera testified that he corroborated J.L.'s statements with records in appellant's personnel file and was not concerned that J.L. confused the dates for the repairs, since inmates are not permitted to have watches. Manera stated that J.L. had a pre-interview conference with J.L., during which he was given information about the questions he was going to be asked.

Manera also interviewed Officer Gressel, who was responsible for counting the inmates at the end of a shift on the night of July 16, 2014. Although he counted J.L. as being in the facility, he could not definitely state where J.L. actually was, because some inmates are permitted to be off of the unit. They are finishing up their duties like locking up the maintenance shop. No officer ever saw J.L. outside of the facility's secured perimeter. (R-24.)

Finally, during his investigation, Manera reviewed surveillance photographs from the gate shed entrance/exit from the Ancora facility on July 16, 2014. One photograph showed appellant passing through a metal detector to leave after his shift. A subsequent photograph showed appellant's keys and radio sitting on a table next to the metal detector. (R-28D & R-28E.) Manera interviewed Officer Luis Benvenuti (Benvenuti), who was the officer to whom appellant was to transfer his radio and keys on July 16, 2014. Benvenuti reported that appellant had already departed without handing off his keys and radio. Appellant had left those on the table.

On March 28, 2016, a declination to prosecute letter was issued by the Camden County Prosecutor's Office relative to appellant. The investigation of appellant changed from a criminal to an administrative SID investigation. Manera was tasked with continuing the investigation. On April 6, 2016, Manera and Soltys interviewed appellant, who was accompanied by his union representative Gerald Gribble. The interview was recorded. (R-44.) During the interview, appellant was questioned about all of the above referenced facts and circumstances. He was advised that his recorded interview statement would serve as his official statement and that by not telling the truth he would be falsifying his report.

Appellant stated that his truck and camper were parked at BSP on July 16, 2014, because the lift motor, which allowed the camper to be removed from the truck, malfunctioned, upon his return from a vacation the previous day. He did not have the part to fix it. Until it was fixed, the camper could not be removed from the truck.

Appellant stated that he knew J.L. and that J.L. had worked for him on his work/maintenance detail. J.L. was a leader on that detail and had access to tools. Appellant denied ever taking J.L. out of the perimeter gate to work on his camper. Appellant indicated that he was not friendly with J.L. and that J.L. could have learned personal information about him in various ways, including overhearing discussions between officers or on the internet.

In relation to L.M., appellant was provided a phone number and asked if he had ever received calls from D.M.'s family. Appellant denied the phone calls. When investigators presented the phone records, appellant then offered that, "there was a guy. An older man from Mays Landing that had an old truck at our facility when he was visiting. I gave this guy a jump. He worked at Home Depot." Appellant stated that he gave L.M. a jump at 2:00 p.m. and that this was the time for visits with inmates. Appellant stated "yeah" in response to the investigator's question "you have a guy parked at the Ancora parking lot; you know he was there for a visit?"

Appellant indicated that L.M. had two sons who had been incarcerated. Appellant denied knowing them. However, subsequently, appellant stated that one son was an inmate at Ancora, but he did not know who that inmate was and did not know that inmate's last name. Thereafter, appellant stated that D.M. worked in the kitchen at Ancora.

Appellant later stated that he met L.M. again at Home Depot, at which time he and L.M. recognized each other. L.M. helped him out with some electrical questions and issues. Appellant explained that L.M. was a union electrical worker. Appellant was doing construction at his home and needed help. The appellant gave L.M. his phone number. Appellant got electrical advice from L.M. by phone on numerous occasions. In response to questioning, appellant stated that he could have had over sixty calls with L.M. Appellant stated, that "electrical is no joke, it could burn your house down."

During the continued questioning, investigators asked appellant about L.M.'s son. Appellant stated that he did not know what happened to him. Appellant denied bringing any food into Ancora for L.M.'s son. Appellant never reported his out-of-work contacts with L.M. to BSP and indicated that he never thought he should.

Subsequently during the interview, investigators asked appellant if D.M. ever came up in conversations with L.M. The appellant rephrased the question and inquired, "what that his son's (sic) locked up?" Investigator Soltys responded in the affirmative, and asked if L.M. asked "how's my son doing? Stuff like that." Appellant stated "yeah, it could have, definitely." In response to questions about the context in which L.M. spoke to appellant about D.M., appellant stated that it was "small talk about his son" and that L.M. asked him "maybe you seen (sic) him in there. How's he doing?" Subsequent to D.M.'s release from Ancora and a halfway house, L.M. called appellant for help, when D.M. took L.M.'s truck, and could not be found. On October 4, 2013, L.M. also called appellant to tell him D.M. had died. The calls between appellant and L.M. continued after D.M.'s death.

During the interview, investigators questioned appellant about the hand-off of his keys and radio on July 16, 2014. Appellant stated it was his practice to leave the items and his cuffs on the table at the exit near the metal detector, if he did not personally hand them over to the next officer. He stated that he had already walked out on the day in question and confirmed that he would head over to the gate to leave the facility after his shift, when last count was done in the unit.

Manera testified that he did not know appellant outside of work. He stated that he had no stake in the outcome of this hearing.

Albert Ferrari (Ferrari), Lieutenant, testified that he has been employed by the DOC for twenty-three years. Twenty-two of those years he has served at BSP where he was the Administrative Lieutenant. His duties included being responsible for overseeing the policy, procedures, rules and regulations, and discipline at NJSP. Two codifications of the rules, regulations and procedures, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of the New Jersey DOC and Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations primarily govern the actions of law enforcement officers.

Ferrari explained pertinent portions of the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of the New Jersey DOC. (R-7.) Officers cannot engage in unduly familiar relationships with inmates or their family members because it can corrupt the officer and lead to possibilities for corruption, which place the officer, inmates, civilians and the public in danger. The Handbook provides in the General Principles, Subsection C that employees are prevented from "becoming unduly familiar with any inmate or group of inmates or permit[ting] himself to become obligated in any way to an inmate or his family; a parolee or his family." General Rules and Regulations, subsection K provides that "employees must not give or receive from any inmate or parolee or any inmate or parolee's friend, relative, or representative anything in the nature of a gift or promise or favor, however trivial." Appellant received training on undue familiarity and acknowledged receipt of the handbook, rules and regulations, and ethics code. (R-7 – R-15.)

Pursuant to the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article III, Section 4, "no officer shall become unduly familiar with inmates who are incarcerated, on community release, or on parole status, within one year of the completion or vacating of all court imposed sentences or while the former inmate is under any form of criminal justice jurisdiction. An officer shall report all prior relationships with inmates or parolees in writing to the Administrator or his designee." (R-8.) The one-year time period begins when the inmate is released from DOC's custody and control. Ferrari explained that the Handbook and the Personnel Rules and Regulations must be read together. Therefore, the one-year prohibition period includes the former inmates' family and friends.

Pursuant to Article III, Section 3, the ethical standard for law enforcement officers is that, "no officer shall act or behave either in an official or private capacity, to the officer's discredit, or to the discredit of the Department. Officers are public servants twenty-four hours a day and will be held to the law enforcement higher standard both on and off duty."

Unduly familiar relationships violate the public trust, by compromising the officer and place the officers, facility, inmates, and community at risk. Ferrari testified that it is inappropriate for an inmate at BSP to work on the personal vehicles of officers.

BSP Level III, Internal Management Procedure, (IMO), 400 applies to facilities within the BSP complex. (R-6.) Subsection 17 required that, "as the officer being relieved it is your responsibility to pass on all necessary equipment, keys, and information to the oncoming officer." Appellant violated this requirement by leaving a radio and keys on a table. That action was insufficient to satisfy the pass on requirement. Once appellant left his radio and keys on the table, he lost control over them or carelessly controlled them.

Ferrari indicated that providing false information causes safety issues.

Ferrari discussed the ranges of penalties for the offenses appellant was charged with in this matter. He explained that the charges are identified in HRB 84-17, and that the level of punishment depends on the totality of the circumstances and egregious nature of the actions.

Ferrari testified that he had no bias against appellant. He stated that he had no stake in the outcome of this hearing.

For Appellant

Dallas Newman, appellant, a Senior Corrections officer, testified that he began working for the DOC in 2001. Appellant suffered a workplace injury in 2011, for which he was prescribed oxycodone, to which he subsequently became addicted. As a result, he sought help from his union and completed an inpatient rehabilitation program. Appellant explained that prior to the treatment he had no disciplinary issues. This changed after he sought help and treatment. Appellant testified that he had had difficulties with Ferrari relative to inmate assignments and overtime.

Appellant denied taking J.L. outside the secured perimeter to work on his truck or camper, and that he ever had J.L. produce any personal items for him or his family. Appellant stated that inmates often pick up personal information about officers by listening to discussions between the officers or through the internet. He also indicated that inmates get personal information about officers from other inmates.

Relative to L.M, appellant first came in contact with him in the Ancora parking lot when he helped L.M. by jump starting his vehicle. He did not know L.M. or why he was there. Other civilians utilized the lot.

D.M. worked in the kitchen at BSP and not on appellant's detail. Appellant denied bringing baked ziti from L.M. into BSP to D.M.

Appellant next met L.M. at a Home Depot approximately four to five months after meeting him in the Ancora parking lot. Although at that time appellant could not remember where he had met L.M. previously, he eventually recognized where they first met. L.M. provided appellant with help with an electrical project appellant was doing at his house. After several encounters at Home Depot, appellant and L.M. exchanged telephone numbers. L.M. provided advice about the electrical installation by telephone. L.M. helped appellant hook up a breaker panel, electrical box, and drop ceiling lights at his home.

Thereafter, appellant became aware that L.M.'s son was a former inmate. In October 2013, L.M. called appellant and told him D.M. was missing. Appellant believed that maybe L.M. thought he could assist in investigating missing people or cars. L.M. then also called appellant to tell him D.M. had become deceased. L.M. and appellant continued to communicate after D.M.'s death about appellant's electrical project.

Appellant maintained that he was never told he was prohibited from having contact with the family of a former inmate for one year after the inmate left custody.

Relative to his radio and keys, appellant stated that he generally handed off his radio and keys to the incoming officer in the gate shed where the metal detector is located. He did not remember leaving his radio or keys unattended. Standard procedure was to place the items on the table for the next officer. On the date in question, Benvenuti replaced him. Appellant's keys and radio never went missing.

Credibility

Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . .

. [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Cmty. Affairs Dep't, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

After reviewing the evidence, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

The testimony presented by Soltys and Manera about their investigatory actions, observations of appellant's behavior and statements, and the facts as detailed in Manera's special report were consistent. Collectively, their testimony of the events of the incident and the information they gathered during their investigation made sense and hung together to describe what occurred. It was undisputed that appellant and L.M. engaged in several meetings and numerous, at least thirty, telephone communications during D.M.'s incarceration, his half-way house sentence, and after D.M.'s release and death.

Manera and Ferrari expressed no pre-existing issues with or animosity toward appellant, which made their testimony believable. Although appellant alleged he was labeled a "bad officer" and targeted for discipline after he received treatment for his prescription drug addiction, he failed to produce any competent evidence to support his position. Appellant's allegation alone was insufficient to mar the credibility of Manera and Ferrari.

It further failed to demonstrate that appellant's renditions of the facts were believable. Appellant's statements were inconsistent and contradictory. In this regard, appellant's rendition of the facts surrounding his relationship with L.M. and D.M developed from a denial about knowing L.M. and D.M., until appellant was confronted with evidence to the contrary; to an admission of having met L.M. in the Ancora parking lot while he was there to visit D.M.; to an admission of numerous telephone communications with L.M. beginning while D.M. was incarcerated at BSP; to discussions about how D.M. was fairing in BSP; to an admission that L.M. materially helped appellant complete electrical construction at his home.

Further, appellant's testimony in this proceeding then contradicted his interview statements, despite stating under oath that both were true. In this regard, appellant denied knowing L.M. and D.M. He knew that L.M. was visiting an inmate, when he met him in the Ancora lot because it was visiting time. He and L.M. had conversations about how D.M. was fairing in BSP. L.M. believed his son's statements that appellant and D.M. were friends and were going to work out together after he was released. However, appellant testified that L.M. provided significant help with his electrical construction, that he did not know why L.M. was in the Ancora parking lot because other members of the public used it, and that D.M. had been already been released when he was communicating with L.M.

In sum, Appellant's statements could not be reconciled to make them consistent or justify his conduct. The other witnesses' renditions of the disputed facts have a greater "ring of truth," than the scenarios offered by appellant, who plainly had a greater interest in the outcome of this proceeding.

I accept Manera's testimony about his investigation, the interviews he conducted and conclusions insofar as it relates to appellant's relationships and conduct with L.M and D.M. and the hand-off of appellant's radio and keys, and other attendant facts. The information regarding L.M and D.M. was supported in the CDW phone records and appellant's own admissions.

Additionally, during his interview, appellant's responses to some questions were articulated clearly and with a strong voice. However, when responding to questions, which related to the crux of the allegations of violative conduct, his relationship with D.M., or L.M., or allegations of lying during the interview, appellant's voice became significantly lower in volume and his responses were mumbled, inarticulate or delayed. He also responded with questions which rephrased the initial inquiry and never quite answered the question that was asked. In nearly every instance, appellant delivered each answer by first hanging his head. Similarly, appellant exhibited the same behavior during his testimony in this proceeding, especially on cross-examination when he was questioned about telling the truth. This affect undermined his credibility.

Appellant's behavior, and his inconsistent statements and testimony lacked credibility. The discrepancies in appellant's testimony and changing renditions of the facts made appellant's testimony unbelievable.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After carefully reviewing the exhibits and documentary evidence presented during the hearing, and after having had the opportunity to listen to testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following to also be relevant and credible FACTS in this matter:

Appellant was assigned to BSP as a Senior Corrections Officer. He had been employed in that capacity since 2001. In 2011, appellant suffered a workplace injury to his shoulder. He was prescribed oxycodone and became addicted to the prescribed medication. Appellant received help from his union and underwent rehabilitation treatment at an inpatient facility.

In or about 2014, appellant was the subject of a criminal investigation. During the criminal investigation, information was provided alleging that on July 16, 2014, appellant had taken an inmate, J.L., outside of the secured perimeter of the Ancora BSP facility to repair his truck and camper. They further advised that appellant had J.L. produce personal items for his family, and that appellant inappropriately shared personal information with J.L.

SID investigated these allegations. BSP had a H07 work detail which was comprised of inmates, who completed maintenance projects inside and outside of BSP. The detail returned to BSP's custody each night, when they were assigned to a project outside BSP. Manera interviewed the inmates assigned to the work detail to determine if they had seen J.L. outside the perimeter with appellant, when their van returned on July 16, 2014. Manera also interviewed six Ancora officers to determine whether they knew about appellant taking J.L. outside the perimeter fence.

Manera conducted a pre-interview conference with J.L. to review the information and questions, which would be included within his interview. During the conference, J.L. provided inaccurate information relative to the dates of the alleged repairs to appellant's vehicles. J.L. was then interviewed to corroborate some of the information and allegations, which had been provided to Manera. During the interview, J.L. corrected the dates he had previously provided.

Manera retrieved appellant's marriage certificate and children's birth certificates from appellant's personnel file. He obtained pictures of appellant's house, vehicle, and camper.

Respondent did not subpoena or produce J.L., the members of the H07 work detail, or the six Ancora officers to testify in this proceeding. No evidence was produced to support J.L.'s or the other witnesses' statements. Respondent failed to locate and subpoena J.L. or the H07 witnesses, who might not have been in DOC custody at the time of this proceeding, to testify. Respondent failed to subpoena or produce the Ancora officers to testify. Appellant did not have the opportunity to cross-examine these witnesses.

On July 16, 2014, appellant was photographed at 21:30 hours as he left the facility after inmate count through the BSP gate shed. Appellant failed to properly hand-off his radio and keys to the officer replacing him on the next shift as required, when he left them unattended on the table next to the metal detector. At 21:40 hours, appellant's radio and keys were still unattended on a table.

Officer Benvenuti replaced appellant on the next shift at 21:42 hours, at which time he retrieved the equipment from the table. Appellant abandoned his radio and keys for twelve minutes, and departed before Benvenuti arrived for the shift change and the required hand-off of equipment. This was appellant's ordinary practice and conduct.

A CDW issued out of Camden County during the criminal investigation for the disclosure of appellant's cellular phone records for the period between March 1, 2013 and September 1, 2014, showed numerous cellular communication between L.M. and D.M. Between September 15, 2013 and September 1, 2014, thirty calls were exchanged between appellant, whose cell phone number ended in X609, and L.M., whose cell phone number ended in X423. Appellant and L.M. had additional communications.

Appellant and L.M. exchanged telephone numbers and had numerous telephone communications and appellant's personal cell phone number was stored in L.M.'s phone under appellant's first name, "Dallas."

On March 28, 2016, a declination to prosecute letter was issued by the Camden County Prosecutor's Office. As a result of that correspondence, appellant's matter was remanded to SID for an administrative investigation.

Appellant was formally interviewed by SID investigators on April 6, 2016, with his union representative present. Appellant was informed and knew that his statements would constitute a formal report and that lying during the questioning would constitute falsifying his report. Appellant's interview statements were inconsistent and contradictory about his knowledge of the events and circumstances, and his contact D.M. and L.M.

In this regard, initially, appellant denied knowing D.M. or L.M. When confronted with the telephone records, appellant only then recalled meeting L.M. in the Ancora parking lot at 2:00 p.m. and giving him a jump start. Appellant stated that he knew L.M. was at Ancora to visit an inmate, because 2:00 p.m. was visiting time.

Despite having denied knowing L.M., appellant and L.M. engaged in at least thirty cellular communications. Appellant met L.M. in Home Depot where L.M. worked multiple times. L.M. provided appellant with the benefit of his experience as a union electrician, and helped appellant install electrical service and fixtures in his home and complete his home improvement project. Appellant received significant benefit from L.M.'s help.

Appellant stated that D.M. worked in the BSP kitchen. However, D.M. was actually assigned to appellant's work detail. Moreover, during their communications and meetings, appellant and L.M. discussed L.M.'s sons who were incarcerated. Appellant and L.M. engaged in "small talk about his son." L.M. asked him, "maybe you seen (sic) him in there. How's he doing?" L.M. and appellant conversed about how D.M. was fairing in Ancora. L.M. provided appellant with a baked ziti, which he took into Ancora for D.M. L.M. believed his son that appellant and D.M. were friends, while D.M. was an inmate in Ancora and afterwards, and that appellant and D.M. were going to work out and get in shape after D.M. was released. Appellant's relationship with L.M. and D.M. began while D.M. was incarcerated at BSP.

D.M. was ultimately released to a DOC half-way house to complete his sentence. Although the date of D.M.'s release to the half-way house is unknown, appellant continued to engage in communication and contact with L.M. during that time. Appellant and L.M. continued their relationship and appellant continued to receive help from L.M. relative to his home improvement project, after D.M. was released from DOC custody. In October 2013, L.M. contacted appellant, because D.M. had gone missing with L.M.'s car. Shortly thereafter, L.M. contacted appellant and told him D.M. had died. Appellant and L.M. continued to communicate after D.M.'s death.

Appellant's relationships with D.M. and L.M. began while D.M. was incarcerated at BSP. Appellant's relationship with L.M. continued after D.M.'s death. Appellant never reported his relationships with L.M or D.M. to his Administrator or employer. These were unduly familiar relationships. Such behavior was unbecoming a corrections officer and violated the public trust.

SID issued a supplemental report, dated April 7, 2016, which recommended actions including continuing the investigation of appellant to allow DOC to review the investigatory information including the video recording of appellant's interview.

Appellant was trained regarding the requirements provided in the Handbook, and Rules and Regulations, and about familiar and consensual relationships and ethics. Appellant acknowledged receipt of these materials and training.

The first PNDA issued on May 13, 2016, related to the allegations surrounding J.L. For these charges a FNDA was issued on August 5, 2016. The second PNDA issued on July 12, 2016, and related to the allegations regarding L.M. and D.M. For these charges a FNDA was issued on August 5, 2016.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant's status as a correction's officer subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

> The need for proper control over the conduct of inmates in a correctional facility and the part played by proper relationships between those who are required to maintain order and enforce discipline and the inmates cannot be doubted. We can take judicial notice that such facilities, if not properly operated, have a capacity to become "tinderboxes."

Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305-06 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994).

J.L.

Judicial rules of evidence do not apply to administrative agency proceedings, except for rules of privileges or where required by law. N.J.R.E. 101(a)93); DeBartolomeis v. Bd. of Review, 341 N.J. Super. 80, 82 (App. Div. 2001); N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-10(a); and N.J.A.C. 1:1-15(c).

Hearsay are statements other than ones made by the declarant while testifying at a hearing, offered into evidence to prove the truth of the matter asserted. N.J.R.E. 801(c). Hearsay is usually not admissible because it is deemed untrustworthy and unreliable, (N.J.R.E. 802), unless it falls within an exception set forth in N.J.R.E. 803 or 804. However, hearsay is admissible in an administrative proceeding such as this one subject to the "residuum rule," which mandates that the administrative decision cannot be predicated on hearsay alone. Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972).

> [A] fact-finding or legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal competent evidence in the record to support it. Id. at 51.

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules governing administrative agency proceedings codify this doctrine by requiring that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(c). In assessing hearsay evidence, it should be accorded "whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a).

I accept Manera's testimony about his investigation and interview of J.L. However, J.L.'s demeanor during his interview and rendition of the events lacked a ring of truth that undermined his credibility. J.L. was given a pre-interview conference during which he was provided with the questions to be asked and information about the events about which he was to be questioned. J.L.'s interview statements revealed that he had incorrectly identified the repair date in the pre-interview conference and had to correct himself in the taped interview.

Additionally, appellant's marriage certificate, children's birth certificates, pictures of his residence, or make and color of his vehicle, which were obtained by Manera or retrieved from appellant's personnel file, did not constitute a residuum of competent evidence to support J.L.'s statements. If J.L. knew this information, it could have been overheard from conversations between corrections officers, gathered from documents J.L. or others obtained from the internet and public documents, or obtained in other ways. The nexus between those records, and the substance of J.L.'s statements including his alleged relationship with appellant, as presented in this proceeding, was too tenuous to deem his statements credible and reliable. The personal documents retrieved from appellant's personnel file did not support the position that appellant gave that information to J.L., that appellant took J.L. outside the facility's secured perimeter, or that J.L. worked on appellant's vehicles. This rendered the substance of his statements and information unsubstantiated.

No residuum of competent evidence existed to give credibility to or support J.L.'s hearsay statements. No photographs of appellant taking J.L. outside of the secured perimeter gate to the parking lot were introduced. No document was produced supporting J.L.'s allegations. No corroborating witness was produced to testify. I CONCLUDE that J.L.'s statements were hearsay.

Therefore, I exclude Manera's testimony about the facts he gathered and conclusions he made, which related to J.L. and the attendant circumstances. I reject the credibility and reliability of J.L.'s statements and the information provided by him in his interview. As it specifically and only relates to facts and circumstances alleged to involve J.L., I CONCLUDE that the investigation's findings and conclusions, and J.L.'s statements were hearsay and not supported by a residuum of competent evidence.

Furthermore, N.J.R.E. 804 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> (a) Definition of unavailable. Except when the declarant's unavailability has been procured or wrongfully caused by the proponent of declarant's statement for the purpose of preventing declarant from attending or testifying, a declarant is "unavailable" as a witness if declarant:
>
> (4) is absent from the hearing because of physical or mental illness or infirmity, or other cause, and the proponent of the statement is unable by process or other reasonable means to procure the declarant's attendance at trial...

In civil cases, where the use of out of court statements does not trigger the Sixth Amendment's Confrontation Clause protections, determining whether a party used "reasonable means" to locate a declarant is a decidedly fact sensitive inquiry, which is generally left to the trial court's sound discretion. Rodriguez v. Hayman, 2013 WL 1222644, 2 (2013). The Rodriguez court found that the touchstones of "reasonable means" under N.J.R.E. 804(a)(5) are variation and repetition, which require various methods for finding the witness, and then, employing some or all of those methods recurrently. Ibid. While the circumstances will vary with each case, a party seeking to show that a declarant is unavailable under Rule 804(a)(5) should generally demonstrate two things. First, that it fashioned a multifaceted approach to locate the declarant.

Second, that it implemented each of these methods more than once, unless it was clear at the time that repetition of any one method would have proven futile. Ibid.

Despite the fact that Manera spoke with the H07 detail and a confidential informant who stated that appellant took J.L. out of the facility to work on his personal vehicle, no such witness testified in this proceeding.[9] The recordation of those statements in Manera's report alone did not constitute a residuum of competent evidence sufficient to warrant the hearsay being admitted, and was insufficient to substantiate the charges stemming from those allegations.

Respondent failed to demonstrate that J.L., or any other member of the H07 team, was an unavailable witness. Whether J.L. was still in DOC custody, such that his production could have been compelled, is not the issue, as suggested by respondent. If J.L. was no longer in DOC custody, then he could have been located and subpoenaed to testify. Respondent advised that J.L. was not subpoenaed. Respondent failed to produce any information about whether it attempted by any means to locate or produce J.L. to testify in this proceeding. These attempts, if any, were unreasonable. No fact or evidence was produced which demonstrated J.L.'s unavailability. Therefore, I do NOT FIND that J.L. was unavailable to testify. Since no residuum of competent evidence was produced to substantiate J.L.'s statements and appellant was denied the opportunity to cross-examine the witness, J.L.'s statements are excluded.

Similarly, I do NOT FIND that any of the H07 members or officers related to the J.L. facts and events or identified in Manera's report, (see footnote 9 herein), were unavailable to testify. Again, respondent failed to utilize reasonable means to locate and attempt to produce each of them to testify in this proceeding. Their statements recorded in Manera's report are hearsay that lack any residuum of competent evidence to support them. Accordingly, their statements are also excluded.

[9] Manera also interviewed six Ancora Officers relative to the J.L. allegations. "All gave statements that they had no knowledge of SCO Newman bringing inmate [J.L.] outside the secure perimeter to work on his camper." (R-24.)

Based on the foregoing, respondent failed to satisfy its burden to substantiate the charges brought against appellant based on the information related to J.L. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has failed to present competent evidence to satisfy its burden and substantiate the charges provided for in the first FNDA. I CONCLUDE that the charges brought in the FDNA dated August 5, 2016, for violations of N.J.S.A 52:13D-23 Uniform Ethics Code; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) conduct unbecoming an employee; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically violations of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended; C(11), conduct unbecoming an employee; E(1) Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure order or administrative decision; and E(2) intentional use or misuse of authority or position are DISMISSED.

45-day Rule

Appellant argued in his summation that the charges must be dismissed under the auspices of the 45-day rule because respondent failed to bring the disciplinary charges within the time constraints set forth under N.J.S.A. 30:4-3.11a.

N.J.S.A. 30:4-3.11a provides as follows:

> A person shall not be removed from employment or a position as a State corrections officer, or suspended, fined or reduced in rank for a violation of the internal rules and regulations established for the conduct of employees of the Department of Corrections, unless a complaint charging a violation of those rules and regulations is filed no later than the 45th day after the date on which the person filing the complaint obtained sufficient information to file the matter upon which the complaint is based. A failure to comply with this section shall require a dismissal of the complaint. The 45-day time limit shall not apply if an investigation of a State corrections officer for a violation of the internal rules and regulations of the Department of Corrections is included directly or indirectly within a concurrent investigation of that officer for a violation of the criminal laws of this State; the 45-day limit shall begin on the day after the disposition of the criminal investigation. The 45-day requirement in this section for the filing of a complaint against a State corrections officer shall not apply to a filing of a complaint by a private individual.

In the first instance, appellant alleged that the Camden County Prosecutor Office's declination letter was received by DOC on March 28, 2016, and therefore, respondent had to file its charges on or before May 12, 2016. Appellant acknowledged that the earliest PDNA is dated May 13, 2016; however, appellant claims this is one day beyond the statutory limit.

In the second instance, appellant alleged that the only charge which post-dated the March 28, 2016, declination letter related to appellant lying about an unduly familiar relationship with an inmate and his father. Appellant reasoned that since Manera's supplemental report was dated April 7, 2016, the statutory limit for bringing that charge was May 22, 2016. Appellant submitted that this charge was filed on July 12, 2016, which was forty-six days too late.

Relative to the first PNDA, dated May 13, 2016, and the corresponding FNDA, dated August 5, 2016, the issue is moot because those charges have been dismissed for the reasons set forth above.

Relative to the second PNDA, dated July 12, 2016, as a result of the Camden County Prosecutor's Office's declination letter, dated March 28, 2016, the internal affairs investigation changed from criminal to administrative. Appellant's matter was remanded to SID for further investigation.

SID interviewed the appellant on April 6, 2016. In a report, provided to departmental authorities for review, dated April 7, 2017, appellant's interview was summarized. The report specifically stated as follows:

> It should also be noted, all of the aforementioned statements from the video recoded (sic) interview are a synopsis of the video recording. These statements are not a transcript and further information may be obtained by reviewing the video recording.

N.J.S.A. 30:4-3.11(a) did not preclude respondent from completing its investigation, reviewing the video or any other evidence or statements gathered in the criminal and administrative portions of the investigation, before bringing all charges against appellant. The date of the supplemental report is not controlling to commence the running of the forty-five day period. Transmission of that report and the statements contained therein indicate that the investigation was ongoing. The report and the other referenced investigatory information, had to be reviewed by departmental authorities.

Additionally, appellant did not suffer prejudice because the charges were filed on July 12, 2016. Appellant's argument to the contrary that the approximate two-year period between the incidents on July 16, 2014, and the date of the local hearing damaged appellant's ability to remember the events and defend against the charges is without merit. The ability to bring charges against appellant was tolled during the nearly two-year criminal investigation. Appellant was accompanied by his union representative during his interview. He was provided with his Weingarten Rights. He understood the events and circumstances about which he was being questioned. He understood the investigation was ongoing.

I CONCLUDE the second charges were timely brought on July 12, 2016.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6)

Appellant was charged with "conduct unbecoming a public employee." N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase that encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

The basis for the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee was appellant's unduly familiar and inappropriate relationship with L.M. and D.M. and that appellant lied during his internal affairs interview by changing his rendition of the facts relating to L.M. and D.M. multiple times. Appellant engaged in a relationship with D.M. while he was incarcerated at BSP and thereafter, until the date of his death. Appellant engaged in a relationship with L.M. while D.M. was incarcerated at BSP. Appellant became unduly familiar with L.M. and D.M. Appellant took food from L.M. to D.M. while D.M. was in BSP. In return, appellant exchanged the access to D.M., which his position as an SCO provided, for receipt of electrical contracting expertise and help with his home improvement project. Appellant received benefit from his relationship with the father of an inmate during the inmate's incarceration, term in a half-way house, and within one year of the inmate's release from DOC custody. This conduct compromised appellant.

Moreover, appellant repeatedly lied by making false and contradictory statements to investigators, during his internal affairs interview. Appellant's rendition of the facts surrounding his relationship with L.M. and D.M developed from a denial about knowing L.M. and D.M., until appellant was confronted with evidence to the contrary; to an admission of having met L.M. in the Ancora parking lot, while he was there to visit D.M.; to an admission of numerous telephone communications and meetings with L.M. beginning while D.M. was incarcerated at BSP; to discussions about how D.M. was fairing in BSP; to an admission that L.M. materially helped appellant complete electrical construction at his home.

Further, appellant's testimony in this proceeding then contradicted his interview statements, despite his stating under oath that both were true. In this regard, appellant denied knowing L.M. and D.M. He knew that L.M. was visiting an inmate, when he met him in the Ancora lot because it was visiting time. He and L.M. had conversations about how D.M. was fairing in BSP. L.M. believed his son's statements that appellant and D.M. were friends and were going to work out together after he was released. However, appellant testified that L.M. provided significant help with his electrical construction, that he did not know why L.M. was in the Ancora parking lot because other members of the public used it, and that D.M. had been already been released when he was communicating with L.M. Appellant's statements could not be reconciled to make them consistent or justify his conduct. Simply put, appellant lied about the relationship and his contact with L.M. and D.M. in his interview.

As a corrections officer, appellant was held to a higher standard of conduct. The public respects officers for discovering, reporting, and championing the truth in circumstances of wrongdoing and while they are satisfying their duties. Appellant's conduct in these unduly familiar relationships and his lies to investigators adversely affected the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit and would tend to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Appellant's actions were violative of his obligations in a position of public trust. It offended publicly accepted standards of respect and decency.

No circumstances existed to warrant or justify appellant's deceitful conduct. Moreover, no circumstances existed justifying his relationship with L.M. or D.M. Those unduly familiar relationships existed while D.M. was incarcerated in BSP, while D.M. was serving his sentence in a DOC half-way house, and during the year after.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

Appellant has also been charged with violating of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended; C(8) falsification: intentional misstatement of material fact in connection with work, employment, application, attendance or in any record, report, investigation or other proceeding; C(11), conduct unbecoming an employee; D(4) improper or unauthorized contact with inmate-undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their families or friends; D(6a) loss or careless control of keys, pager/beepers or cellular phones; D(6b) loss or careless control of radios, mace, or handcuffs; E(1) violation of rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision

Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17

HRB 84-17, as amended, provides in pertinent part as follows:

> In any disciplinary matter, reference must always be made to the collective bargaining agreement covering the disciplined employee, relevant Department of Personnel Rules, appropriate Department bulletins or memoranda, the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of New Jersey Department of Corrections, and/or the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations.

C(8) Falsification: Intentional misstatement of material fact in connection with work, employment application, attendance or in any record, report, investigation or other proceeding.

Appellant was advised that his recorded interview statement would serve as his official statement and that by not telling the truth he would be falsifying his report. Despite this warning, appellant lied and otherwise intentionally misstated facts repeatedly during his internal affairs interview relative to his relationship with L.M. and D.M.

In the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article III, Section 4 requires an Officer to, "report all prior relationships with inmates or parolees in writing to the Administrator or his designee." Appellant never reported his relationship with L.M. or D.M. I CONCLUDE this omission was an intentional misstatement of fact meant to conceal his relationships.

Appellant contradicted himself numerous times during his interview. Appellant's rendition of the facts surrounding his relationship with L.M. and D.M developed from a denial of knowing them, until appellant was confronted with evidence to the contrary; to an admission of numerous telephone communications with L.M.; to an admission that L.M. materially helped appellant complete electrical construction at his home. Further, appellant's testimony in this proceeding then contradicted this his SID interview statements. Appellant's statements could not be reconciled to make them consistent or justify his conduct. Simply put, appellant lied about the relationship and his contact with L.M. and D.M. Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated C(8) by falsifying and intentionally misstating facts in connection with work, the SID investigation, and his statement which under the circumstances presented herein served as his report.

C(11) Conduct Unbecoming an Employee; and D(4) Improper or Unauthorized Contact with Inmate-Undue Familiarity with Inmates, Parolees, Their Families or Friends

General Principles, Subsection C of the Handbook of Information and Rules for Employees of the New Jersey DOC provides that employees are prevented from, "becoming unduly familiar with any inmate or group of inmates or permit[ting] himself to become obligated in any way to an inmate or his family; a parolee or his family." General Rules and Regulations, Subsection K provides that "employees must not give or receive from any inmate or parolee or any inmate or parolee's friend, relative, or representative anything in the nature of a gift or promise or favor, however trivial."

Furthermore, the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations provides in pertinent part Article III, Subsection 4 provides that "no officer shall become unduly familiar with inmates who are incarcerated, on community release, or on parole status, within one year of the completion or vacating of all court imposed sentences or while the former inmate is under any form of criminal justice jurisdiction. An officer shall report all prior relationships with inmates or parolees in writing to the Administrator or his designee."

Appellant was required to follow both the Handbook Rules and the Law Enforcement Rules. The two policies must be read together and supplement each other. The purpose of the policies is consistent. It is to prevent officers from being compromised or becoming obligated to inmates, their friends, or families. These unduly familiar relationships compromise officers, the facility, inmates, and the public. They are an avenue to corruption.

Appellant's relationship with L.M. began while D.M. was incarcerated in BSP. Appellant conversed with L.M. about D.M. and how he was fairing in BSP. Appellant took baked ziti from L.M. to D.M. in BSP. Appellant received a benefit and favor from L.M. when he received electrical construction help and advice from L.M. which permitted him to complete the construction at his house. This was an unduly familiar relationship. Such behavior is unbecoming a corrections officer and violates the public trust.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated D(4), improper or unauthorized contact with an inmate and undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their family or friends by engaging in a relationship with L.M. and D.M. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions violated C(11), conduct unbecoming and employee by engaging in an unduly familiar relationship with an inmate and his family for which appellant exchanged his access and ability to aid or favor an inmate to receive a benefit.

D(6a) loss or careless control of keys, pager/beepers or cellular phones; D(6b) Loss or Careless Control of Radios, Mace, or Handcuffs; and E(1) Violation of Rule, Regulation, Policy, Procedure, Order or Administrative Decision

IMO 400 General Duties, Subsection 17 required that "as the officer being relieved it is your responsibility to pass on all necessary equipment, keys, and information to the oncoming officer." The purpose of this policy is to prevent the officer's radio, keys, cuffs and other required uniform tools from becoming lost, or finding their way to the inmates and becoming contraband. On July 16, 2014, appellant left his shift at 21:30 hours through the metal detector in the gate shed. He placed his keys and radio on the table and left BSP. Appellant's keys and radio were left unattended for twelve minutes. They were then retrieved by the next shift's officer. Appellant did not hand-off the equipment to the next officer as required. His actions were insufficient to satisfy the pass-on requirement. Once appellant left his radio and keys on the table he lost control over them or carelessly controlled them.

Appellant admitted that his practice was place his keys and radio on the table next to the metal detector and leave. Appellant's "no harm, no foul" justification that his keys, cuffs and radio never went missing as a result of this practice was without merit. The fact that a consequence did not occur is insufficient reason to permit appellant to violate the rules, regulations, and policies. Appellant failed to abide by rules, procedures and orders by abandoning a radio and keys on a table.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated D(6a) by losing and carelessly controlling his keys. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated D(6b) by losing control of his radio and keys. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated E(1) by failing to abide by these rules, procedures and orders by abandoning his keys and radio.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause

Finally, appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, appellant's conduct was such that he violated this standard of good behavior. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

PENALTY

The next question is the appropriate level of that discipline. A system of progressive discipline has evolved in New Jersey to serve the goals of providing employees with job security and protecting them from arbitrary employment decisions. Progressive discipline is considered to be an appropriate analysis for determining the reasonableness of the penalty. The concept of progressive discipline is related to an employee's past record. The use of progressive discipline benefits employees and is strongly encouraged. The core of this concept is the nature, number, and proximity of prior disciplinary infractions should be addressed by progressively increasing penalties. It underscores the philosophy that an appointing authority has a responsibility to encourage the development of employee potential.

The law is also clear that a single incident can be egregious enough to warrant removal without reliance on progressive-discipline policies. See, In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (Division of Youth and Family Services worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old), in which the Court stated:

> ". . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest."

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

In addition to considering an employee's prior disciplinary history when imposing a penalty under the Act, other appropriate factors to consider include the nature of the misconduct, the nature of the employee's job, and the impact of the misconduct on the public interest. Ibid. Depending on the conduct complained of and the employee's disciplinary history, major discipline may be imposed. Id. at 522–24. Major discipline may include removal, disciplinary demotion, or a suspension or fine no greater than six months. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a), -20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.4.

Respondent argued that appellant knowingly and intentionally engaged in unduly familiar relationships with D.M. and his father, L.M., while D.M. was an inmate at BSP, was serving his sentence in a DOC half-way house, and after D.M. was released. Appellant continued this relationship with L.M. after D.M.'s death. Respondent further argued that appellant lied about these inappropriate relationships during his SID interview; thus, falsifying his report. Respondent also argued that appellant violated safety and security rules, orders and procedures, when he lost control over his keys and radio. Respondent submitted that appellant's conduct placed appellant, inmates, the public and the BSP facility at risk.

Appellant argued that after he suffered a work place injury in 2011 he became addicted to his prescription medication and sought treatment, he was labeled a "bad employee," and targeted for discipline. Prior to that date, and throughout his first eleven years of his employment he had no significant disciplinary problems. To terminate him would be harsh, excessive, and flies in the face of progressive discipline.

There is no question that appellant had few disciplinary issues prior to the events of July 16, 2014. In this regard, appellant had an official reprimand for attendance and unexcused lateness in 2001, and a one-day suspension for negligent actions relating to property, which was a violation of safety and security precautions, in 2003. Thereafter, in 2006, 2007, and 2011, appellant received commendations.

Unfortunately, appellant's actions in engaging in unduly familiar relationships with D.M. and L.M., through which appellant received personal and significant benefit, and became obligated to D.M. and L.M., violated the public trust and put the safety of the inmates, the facility, DOC, and the public at risk. This was compounded by his blatant lying in his formal interview. His cavalier attitude about his practice of abandoning his keys and radio, his loss of control over his equipment, and his omission to report his relationship with L.M or D.M., was indicative of his behavior. Moreover, his morphing rendition of the facts was an intentional attempt to conceal his actions and attempt to limit his liability. Appellant's actions consistently showed that he believed he was above the rules. Such conduct placed not only the public, but the DOC at risk.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that removal is the appropriate discipline for the violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) conduct unbecoming an employee; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11), specifically violations of Human Resource Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, as amended; C(8) falsification: intentional misstatement of material fact in connection with work, employment, application, attendance or in any record, report, investigation or other proceeding; C(11), conduct unbecoming an employee; D(4) improper or unauthorized contact with inmate-undue familiarity with inmates, parolees, their families or friends; D(6a) loss or careless control of keys, pager/beepers or cellular phones; D(6b) loss or careless control of radios, mace, or handcuffs; and E(1) violation of rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision be AFFIRMED.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the second Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, dated August 5, 2016, (R-2), of the Bayside State Prison, Department of Corrections, against appellant, Dallas Newman, is hereby AFFIRMED.

BEFORE SUSANA E. GUERRERO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This consolidated proceeding involves appeals by Manuel Parra (petitioner or Parra) from his dismissal by the Bergen County Police Academy (respondent or Police Academy) and his subsequent removal by the City of Union City Department of Public Safety (Union City). The Police Academy dismissed petitioner pursuant to Police Training Commission (PTC) rules and guidelines because petitioner was served with a Temporary Restraining Order (TRO). As a result of petitioner's dismissal from the Police Academy, Union City terminated his employment as a police recruit.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed a timely notice of appeal of his dismissal from the Police Academy, and the PTC transmitted the case to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, where it was filed on September 19, 2017. Petitioner also appealed his dismissal from Union City, and the Civil Service Commission (CSC) transmitted the matter to the OAL, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, where it was filed on September 28, 2017.

An Order of Consolidation and Predominant Interest was entered on November 22, 2017, consolidating both matters for hearing and determining that the PTC had the predominant interest since the disciplinary action taken against petitioner by Union City stems from the action taken by and under the auspices and control of the training academy petitioner was attending.

Respondents Union City and Police Academy filed motion for summary decision on December 7, 2017 and December 26, 2017, respectively. Petitioner filed an opposition to respondents' motions on January 18, 2018, and a reply was filed by Union City on January 23, 2018. A hearing in these consolidated matters was scheduled for January 29, 2018, which was adjourned pending the disposition of the summary decision motions.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

I FIND the following FACTS are not in dispute:

Petitioner was hired by Union City as a Police Officer Recruit on June 30, 2017. As a condition of employment as a Police Officer for Union City, petitioner enrolled in the Bergen County Police Academy for training. On August 2, 2017, petitioner was served with a TRO, issued pursuant to the New Jersey Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17 et seq.

Upon learning of the TRO issued against petitioner, he was terminated from the Police Academy on August 3, 2017. On August 7, 2017, petitioner was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) and a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) for his immediate removal as a Union City Police recruit. The reason for removal, as noted on the PNDA and FNDA, was listed as: "On August 2nd 2017 Recruit Manuel Parra was served with a Temporary Restraining Order issued by Judge George Savino of the Lyndhurst Municipal Court (Bergen County, NJ). As a result of such, Recruit Parra was dismissed from the Bergen County Police Academy."[1]

By Directive 3-2016, dated August 17, 2016, the PTC adopted a revised Basic Law Enforcement Court Training Manual that became effective January 1, 2017 and provides ". . . [A]ny trainee who is served with a Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) or a Final Restraining Order (FRO), issued pursuant to the New Jersey Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17 et seq., shall be dismissed from the academy within 24 hours of the required notice being made to the academy."

Respondents assert that these consolidated matters are ripe for summary decision as there is no genuine issue of material fact. Specifically, respondents maintain that there is no dispute that petitioner was served with a TRO pursuant to the New Jersey Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17 et seq. and that the dismissal from the Police Academy was mandated by PTC rules. Union City also maintains that as a result of petitioner's dismissal from the Police Academy, he failed to complete the Police Academy training and was, therefore, appropriately terminated from Union City pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68(a).

In opposing summary decision, petitioner submitted a Certification of Counsel. The certification states that the Police Academy should have reinstated petitioner because the restraining order was dismissed on September 11, 2017, and because the TRO was obtained by petitioner's paramour with the express purpose of preventing him from continuing as a police recruit. The certification further states that there is no substantiation of the underlying domestic violence allegations and once the restraining order was dismissed, any bar to petitioner's ability to serve as a public recruit was lifted.

Moreover, the certification states that Union City violated petitioner's right to due process when it failed to afford him five days, after receiving the PNDA, to notify Union City of his request for a hearing, and that Union City improperly dismissed petitioner based on PTC policy because the policy only applies to Bergen County and not the appointing authority. Petitioner argues that, despite Union City's assertion, it was not constrained to terminate petitioner.

Union City filed a reply to petitioner's opposition. Union City asserts that while the merit of the TRO is immaterial to the legal positions of the parties, the petitioner's contention that the TRO was based on "wholly uncorroborated allegations" is inaccurate as reflected in the language contained in the Municipal Court Judge's order finding good cause to issue the TRO. Union City maintains that its dismissal of petitioner was appropriate because he failed to complete the Police Academy as required.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

Summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b).

The standard for granting summary judgment (decision) is found in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In Brill, the Court looked at the precedents established in Matsushita Electrical Industrial Co. v. Zenith Radio Corporation, 475 U.S. 574, (1986), Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. 242, (1986), and Celotex Corporation v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, (1986), wherein the Supreme Court adopted a standard that "requires the motion judge to engage in an analytical process essentially the same as that necessary to rule on a motion for a directed verdict: 'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a jury or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law.'" Brill, 142 N.J. at 533 (quoting Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 251-52). The Court stated that under the new standard, > a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial."

> [Brill, 142 N.J. at 540 (quoting Liberty Lobby, 477 U.S. at 249).]

The Brill standard contemplates that the analysis performed by the trial judge in determining whether to grant summary judgment should comprehend the evidentiary standard to be applied to the case or issue if it went to trial. "To send a case to trial, knowing that a rational jury can reach but one conclusion, is indeed 'worthless' and will 'serve no useful purpose.'" Brill, 142 N.J. at 541.

Following the Brill standard, after considering all papers and evidence filed in support of and in opposition to summary decision, I CONCLUDE that there are no issues of fact that require a plenary hearing and that this matter is ripe for summary decision.

Petitioner's Dismissal from the Academy

The Bergen County Police Academy is a school approved by the PTC pursuant to N.J.A.C. 13:1-3.1 et seq. to provide basic courses of study for law enforcement trainees. The PTC has the power and duty to promulgate rules and regulations. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-71. N.J.A.C. 13:1-7.2(a)(8) vests the Academy with the power > [t]o dismiss a trainee who has demonstrated that he or she will be ineligible for Commission certification, for unacceptable behavior or for other good cause.

Here, petitioner does not dispute that a TRO was issued against him pursuant to the New Jersey Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17, et seq. while he attended the Bergen County Police Academy as a police recruit. The Police Academy was required to dismiss petitioner within twenty-four hours of receiving notice of the TRO pursuant to the controlling PTC Directive N. 3-2016. This PTC Directive does not provide the Police Academy any discretion to evaluate the merits of the TRO or wait for disposition of the restraining order, nor does it require the agency to reverse its determination when a restraining order is later dismissed. Since there is no dispute that a TRO was issued here, and that PTC's rules require immediate dismissal from the Police Academy when a recruit is served with a TRO, I must CONCLUDE that the Police Academy appropriately dismissed petitioner from the Police Academy as mandated by PTC rules.

Petitioner's Termination of Employment

An appointing authority may discipline an employee for, among other causes, an inability to perform duties. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(3). The Department bears the burden of proving the charges against petitioner by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). In this matter, Union City terminated petitioner's employment predicated on his inability to perform duties, stemming from his failure to successfully complete the training course at the Police Academy.

The statutory scheme governing police training dictates that successful completion of a police training course at a PTC-approved school is a mandatory prerequisite to a permanent appointment as a police officer. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68 instructs that "every municipality and county shall require that no person shall hereafter be given or accept a permanent appointment as a police officer unless such person has successfully completed a police training course at an approved school." In other words, the training laws apply to all police officers and establish a classification of temporary or probationary employment for police officers until successful completion of the mandatory program of training. Borger v. Borough of Stone Harbor, 178 N.J. Super. 296, 301–02 (Ch. Div. 1981); see N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68, -69.

The failure to complete the training provided by the Academy is grounds for termination of employment. In its motion, Union City relies on Gottlieb v. Monmouth County Sherriff's Office, 1995 N.J. AGEN LEXIS 1057 (Feb. 7, 1995), which states:

> The controlling statute, N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68.1 leaves no room for discretion. Before permanent appointment, there must be completion of the basic Police Training Commission course for correction officers, among others. In like fashion, civil service rules do not anticipate continued employment of law enforcement officers who do not complete the Police Training Commission course, if so required . . . . The appointing authority, the New Jersey Department of Personnel and Merit System Board may only look to the fact, or no, of course completion. Here, there was none. For that reason, with the threshold condition unmet, the appointment must cease. (Emphasis added.)

Here, as a result of petitioner's dismissal from the Academy and subsequent inability to complete the training, petitioner could not qualify for employment as a Police Officer with Union City. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Union City's determination to terminate petitioner's employment for failure to complete the Police Academy, a sine qua non to a permanent appointment, was within the scope of its authority and cannot be said to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable under the circumstances.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the respondent Union City Department of Public Safety's motion for summary decision is GRANTED.

FINAL DECISION

OAL Docket No. PTC 13808-17

OAL Docket No. CSV 14254-17

(CONSOLIDATED)

The Police Training Commission received an Initial Decision in this matter on January 31, 2018. The Police Training Commission requested and was granted one extension on February 5, 2018 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. This final decision was rendered within the time limits prescribed by N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

Petitioner Manuel Parra was enrolled in the Bergen County Police Academy through the Union City Police Department. On August 3, 2017, Petitioner was dismissed from the Police Academy after he was served with a Domestic Violence Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) on August 2, 2017. On August 7, 2017, Petitioner was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action and a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action for immediate removal as a Union City Police Recruit.

Petitioner filed an appeal with the Police Training Commission, which was referred to the Office of Administrative Law. Petitioner also filed an appeal of his dismissal from Union City Police Department. On November 22, 2017, an Order of Consolidation and Predominant Interest was entered consolidating petitioner's dismissal from the Academy and termination as a Union City police recruit. The Police Training Commission was determined to have the Predominant Interest.

Respondents Union City Police Department and Bergen County Police Academy filed motions for summary decision on December 7, 2017 and December 26, 2017, respectively. A plenary hearing for these consolidated matters had been initially scheduled for January 29, 2018. The hearing was adjourned pending the disposition of the summary decision motions.

On January 26, 2018, following consideration of all papers and evidence filed, the Honorable Susana E. Guerrero, Administrative Law Judge, determined that Petitioner had been dismissed from the academy following the issuance of a Temporary Restraining Order against the Petitioner, pursuant to the New Jersey Prevention of Domestic Violence Act, N.J.S.A. 2C:25-17, et seq. and that the Order had been issued while the petitioner was attending the police academy. Pursuant to PTC Directive 3-2016, any trainee who is served with a TRO or an FRO must be dismissed from with Academy within 24 hours. Judge Guerrero concluded there were no issues of fact that required a plenary hearing and that the matter was ripe for a summary decision.

On January 26, 2018, Judge Guerrero granted the Motions for Summary Decision filed by the Bergen County Police Academy and the City of Union City Department of Public Safety, concluding that the Petitioner was appropriately dismissed from the police academy and terminated from employment.

On April 4, 2018, at a regular meeting of the Police Training Commission, the commissioners reviewed the Initial Decision rendered by Judge Guerrero. The commissioners voted to ADOPT the Initial Decision as the FINAL DECISION.

The appeal of Daniel Purdy, County Correction Officer, Camden County Correctional Facility, removal effective January 19, 2015, on charges, were heard by Administrative Law Judge John S. Kennedy, who rendered his initial decision on April 6, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of May 23, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Daniel Purdy.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 20, 2015, the respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), seeking appellant's immediate suspension. Appellant waived his departmental hearing and respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) on March 9, 2015, sustaining the charges and seeking appellant's removal. The appellant requested a hearing and the appeal was filed with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on March 26, 2015, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 40A:14-202(d). On October 1, 2015, this tribunal signed an Order under OAL Dkt. No. CSR 03599-2015 consolidating appellant's matter with seven other related matters: Kevin Crossan v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 3599-2015; William Leister v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 4306-2015; Lance McCarthy v. Camden County Correctional Facility OAL Dkt. No. CSR 3600-2015; Thomas McNellis v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 4305-2015; Michael Jacob v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 8847-2015; Thomas Grosmick v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 10598-2015; and Albert Daniels v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 11669-2015. On June 2, 2016, and June 8, 2016, appellants Kevin Crossan, Lance McCarthy and William Leister withdrew their appeals. Hearings were held in this matter on January 19, 2017, April 21, 2017, May 10, 2017, and July 27, 2017. Prior to the January 19, 2017, hearing, appellant Albert Daniels, withdrew his appeal. On April 19, 2017, appellant Michael Jacob, withdrew his appeal and on June 15, 2017, appellants Thomas Grosmick and Thomas McNellis, withdrew their appeals leaving Daniel Purdy as the sole remaining appellant. The parties submitted post-hearing submissions on November 21, 2017, and December 11, 2017, and the record closed on January 5, 2018. An Order was entered in this matter on February 21, 2018, to allow for the extension of time in which to file the Initial Decision.

SUMMARY

Appellant is a CO at the CCCF. The allegations involve highly inflammatory racist, sexist and other discriminatory text messaging between eleven white male corrections officers, including the appellant, which were directed towards colleagues, superiors, inmates and others in general. In addition to the offensive nature of the messages themselves, the messages demonstrate that cell phones were being taken into the CCCF, photographs were being taken of officers and inmates in the jail and photographs were taken of confidential information on the correction center computer. There were no black officers or individuals involved in any of the text messaging. As a result of a shakedown in the facility, the cell phone of CO Michael Jacob was confiscated. The prosecutors retrieved nearly 6,000 text messages from this phone which were part of the group chats between the officers in question. The appellant does not dispute that he received any of the messages in question but argues that he only authored 461 of the messages. Of these 461 messages, just 39 were authored by him while he was on duty and of these 39 messages, 21 of those were sent while appellant was either on break or lunch. The appellant does not deny using his cellular phone while at work. He concedes he never received authorization to bring his personal phone into the facility but asserts that cellular phone use by employees at CCCF was not uncommon.

TESTIMONY

For respondent:

Deputy Warden Christopher Foschini had been a CO for the CCCF for twenty-one years, before his retirement in October of 2014. He was assigned to Internal Affairs (IA) for eighteen years. He completed the investigation of this matter and prepared a report which he submitted to the Warden following his investigation. (RP-2.) He testified that on December 30, 2014, his unit was conducting an investigation into cell phones in the facility, which is strictly prohibited. The investigation followed a shakedown that they conducted in November. They questioned CO King during their investigation and he advised them that CO Jacob was in possession of a phone and was using it in the facility. When they questioned CO Jacob, it was obvious that he was hiding something, but he denied that he was in possession of a cell phone. He said that his cell phone was in his car and he did not bring the cell phone into the facility. Foschini observed him take something out of his vest and hide it on the shelf in the room where they were questioning him. They caught him when he went to retrieve it as he was leaving the room. CO Jacob had two cellphones because he had a girlfriend who communicated with him on a separate phone than the one he used for his wife and family. The phones were confiscated and turned over to the Camden County Prosecutor's Office. Jacob signed a written consent to search his phone.

Foschini identified a notebook entered into evidence which contained a print out of all the text messages between appellant and the other officers in the CCCF. There were nearly 6,000 messages between the officers from September 30, 2014, to December 28, 2015. The messages contain photographs and videos taken in the jail and thousands of messages between the officers. The photographs demonstrate that several of the officers, including appellant smuggled phones into the facility. Cell phones and photographs are prohibited in the facility. In addition, photographs were taken of inmates and computer screens in the facility which contains highly confidential information. Foschini testified that there were 5,782 text messages retrieved between the periods of September 30, 2014, to December 28, 2014.

All of the 5,782 text messages entered into evidence were broken down into two separate chats. Chat number 4389 (P-1) and chat number 549 (P-2.) Foschini read several of the messages which he deemed to be inappropriate, racist and in violation of the policy prohibiting discrimination in the workplace and constituted conduct unbecoming an employee.

Some of the text messages which came from appellant were as follows:

- "Happy Born day nigga"
- "That one smooth ape over-paid nigga" (referring to Darryl Johnson, the Warden's assistant)

- Appellant posted a picture of a white male wearing a red shirt with an American flag stating "I like shooting cans, Mexican, Africans, um Puerto Ricans"
- "How many years that crazy nig got"
- "sleepy nigga" (referring to his African American boss, Warden Owens)
- "Nah, that spook at home making stuffed shells"
- Appellant posted a picture providing information regarding "White European Pride" with a link to an organization called "The Advanced White Society"
- Appellant posted that he wanted to "curb stomp" one of his supervising officers
- Appellant called then Captain, now Warden, Karen Taylor, who is Hispanic, "Dora the Explorer"
- Appellant made a comment about a female co-worker "They calling her a dusty coon . . . um . . . negress something about her hair . . . It was like a jailhouse mop"

Foschini explained that not all of the Attorney General Guidelines are followed by the I.A. unit of CCFC because they are not mandatory for corrections officers. He also agreed that appellant was never a target of any prior Law Against Discrimination (LAD) or other protected class complaint or investigation throughout his tenure as a CO.

Warden Karen Taylor has been employed as a CO for the CCCF for twenty years. In 2015, she was a Captain but has been Warden of the facility for approximately two years. Taylor reviewed and signed appellants PNDA and FNDA (RP-1.) She considered appellant's actions to be so egregious that his relatively decent disciplinary history did not need to be considered in determining that removal was appropriate. She recommended the discipline to Warden Owens based on several factors: appellant had a duty to inform of the group texting; he disseminated and received information and should have informed the department; he admitted having his cellular phone in the jail and violating policy; he admitted receiving racist, sexist and demeaning texts, pictures and he himself posted some racial texts. Taylor considered appellant a "disgrace to the badge."

For appellant:

CO Daniel Purdy is a thirty-six-year-old white male who is married with three children. He had been employed at CCCF from January 2003, until January 2015. He admitted that he had a cell phone in the secure perimeter of the facility and that he was a party to the chats that had been identified by CO Foschini and entered into evidence. He testified that he and his colleagues sent messages to each other and would send pictures of black people to poke fun at their race. He acknowledged the use of derogatory language, photographs and jokes that were neither appropriate or professional but "mindless banter". Appellant conceded on cross-examination that many of the comments were derogatory, but refused to admit that they were racist. He eventually conceded that he could be viewed as racists based on the content of the chats.

The appellant does not dispute that he received any of the messages in question but argues that he only authored 461 of the messages. Of these 461 messages, just 39 were authored by him while he was on duty and of these 39 messages, 21 of those were sent while appellant was either on break or lunch.

Appellant acknowledged that he deserved discipline for certain infractions he admittedly committed but he does not believe he should have been terminated for those infractions.

FINDINGS OF FACT

In view of the contradictory testimony presented by appellant and the respondent witnesses, the resolution of the charges against appellant requires that I make a credibility determination with regard to the critical facts. The choice of accepting or rejecting the witnesses' testimony or credibility rests with the finder of facts. Freud v. Davis, 64 N.J. Super. 242, 246 (App. Div. 1960). In addition, for testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also has to be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experiences and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo

v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witnesses' story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718,749 (1963). A fact finder is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness, even though not directly contradicted, when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514. 521-22 (1950). See D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997).

Having had an opportunity to carefully observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I deem Foschini was truthful and credible. His testimony was consistent with the evidence and the statements that were taken during his investigation. With respect to appellant, he did not dispute the essential facts in this case. He conceded that he had a personal cell phone in the facility and never obtained permission to have it. He conceded that he was aware that other officers had cell phones in the facility and he never reported this conduct. He was also aware that inappropriate photographs were being taken in the facility and transmitted by text message to other officers, including him, and he never reported this conduct. He also conceded that he was a party to the nearly 6,000 text messages which were moved into evidence in this case.

With respect to the nature of the text messages, I deem appellant's testimony was not credible that he was unaware that the comments and the dialogue of the text messages were derogatory, offensive, racist and a violation of the policy prohibiting discrimination and just a joke and mindless banter. This is particularly true considering appellant eventually conceded that he could be viewed as racists based on the content of the chats.

Accordingly, I FIND:

1. Between October 2014, and December 2014, appellant received and sent multiple derogatory, inappropriate and racist text messages.

2. Between October 2014, and December 2014, appellant possessed a personal cell phone in the secure part of the CCCF, which he did not have permission to have.
3. Appellant received various text messages which contained photographs or videos taken in the CCCF of confidential information.
4. Appellant was aware that this conduct was occurring and he was aware that it was a violation of the policies and procedures of the CCCF. He never reported this conduct to anyone.
5. Appellant was a member of a group text chain in which inappropriate text messages containing disparaging and racist comments about his supervisors and other colleagues were sent and received. Appellant authored 461 of these text messages both while on duty and off duty.
6. The messages were inappropriate, derogatory, and racist and violated the policy prohibiting discrimination, harassment or hostile environments the workplace; constituted conduct unbecoming and other sufficient cause.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The Civil Service employees' rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12.6. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointment and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council Number 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1971); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Commission, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this State is to provide public officials with appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b).

Conduct unbecoming a public employee is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re

Emmons, 63 NJ. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Unbecoming conduct has also been defined as any conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the department or which has a tendency to destroy public respect for employees and confidence in the operations of government services. Hartmann v. Police Department of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992). The Merit System Board and its predecessor and now successor, the Civil Service Commission (CSC), and the courts have generally held that law enforcement officers are held to a higher standard than the conduct unbecoming employees because discipline is invoked. Correction officers are law enforcement officers to which this higher standard applies.

The standard of behavior for police and correction officers is set higher than that of other civil service employees, meaning that infractions will lead to major discipline of officers than otherwise may not have warranted severer discipline for some other position. See Moorestown Township v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965). When applied to correction officers, a charge of conduct unbecoming can be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960); Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301 (App. Div. 1993).

This matter involves a major disciplinary action brought by the respondent appointing authority against appellant. An appeal to the CSC requires the OAL to conduct a de novo hearing to determine the employee's guilt or innocence, as well as the appropriate penalty if the charges are sustained. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987). The appointing authority has the burden of proof and must establish by a fair preponderance of the credible evidence that the employee was guilty of the charges. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550 (1980). Evidence is found to preponderate if it establishes that the tendered hypothesis, in all human likelihood, is true. See Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959), overruled on other grounds, Dwyer v. Ford Motor Co., 36 N.J. 487 (1962).

Applying the law to the facts in this case, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has proven all the charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. I CONCLUDE that appellant engaged in conduct which constituted a violation of the policy prohibiting discrimination, harassment or hostile environment in the workplace and conduct unbecoming an employee. I also CONCLUDE that the respondent has proven that appellant had a cell phone in the CCCF, which is prohibited. I also CONCLUDE that appellant knew that he and his colleagues were violating the cell phone and no photography rules in the CCCF and failed to report such conduct in violation of the rules of the CCCF. I also CONCLUDE that appellant was aware that photographs were taken of confidential computer screens and sent by text messages, a violation of the dissemination and confidentiality rules. I further CONCLUDE that this same conduct also constituted a violation of rules regarding Neglect of Duty, Insubordination, Inattentiveness to Duty, Courtesy, Dissemination of Information, Personal and Professional Code of Conduct, Official Correspondence, and General Orders #73, #74, and #203.

Appellant argues that respondent is barred by the Law of the Case Doctrine from claiming that the Initial Decision of the Honorable Sarah G. Crowley, A.L.J. issued in a companion matter is, in any manner, dispositive in this matter. See State v. Reldan, 100 N.J. 187 (1985); State v. Hale, 127 N.J. Super. 407 (App. Div. 1974); Lombardo v. Hoag, 269 N.J.Super. 36 (App. Div. 1993). While I agree that Judge Crowley's Initial Decision in Thomas McNulty v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 3608-15; creates no legal precedent upon which this tribunal is bound to follow, I do, as can be gleaned from the conclusions made herein, agree with her findings of fact and conclusions of law insofar as the two cases are similar and derive from the same IA investigation.

Appellant further argues that respondent is required to adopt guidelines consistent with the New Jersey Attorney General Guidelines on Internal Affairs Policies and Procedures as it relates to the operation of its IA Unit. N.J.S.A. 40A:14-181 states that "every law enforcement agency . . . shall adopt and implement guidelines which shall be consistent with the guidelines governing the "Internal Affairs Policy and Procedures" of the Police Management Manual promulgated by the Police Bureau of the Division of Criminal Justice in the Department of Law and Public Safety." However, as stated in In the matter of Nolan Cox, Mercer County Department of Public Safety, 2016 WL 7148390, the relevant guidelines exempt correctional facilities from the requirements of N.J.S.A. 40A:14-181. Correctional facilities are agencies not under the supervision of the Attorney General as set forth in the Criminal Justice Act of 1970 as their primary mission does not include enforcing the criminal laws of the State of New Jersey. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that they are under no obligation to implement the provisions of the New Jersey Attorney General Guidelines on Internal Affairs Policies and Procedures.

Appellant next argues that because the text messages at issue were published in various newspapers prior to the hearing, the case should be dismissed as being in violation of the New Jersey Attorney General Guidelines on Internal Affairs Policies and Procedures asserting that appellant has been deprived of procedural and substantive due process. However, no evidence was provided at the hearing in this matter that appellant was in any way prejudiced by the aforementioned publication or that it even occurred. It was not until this tribunal reviewed appellants closing brief that it was discovered that these texts had been previously disseminated in a news publication. Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 1:1-14.1 provides that administrative hearing conducted before the OAL shall be conducted as public hearings. To the extent that the text messages at issue in this case were identical to the text messages previously entered into evidence in the matter of Thomas McNulty v. Camden County Correctional Facility, OAL Dkt. No. CSR 3608-15, I CONCLUDE that appellant cannot assert an expectation of privacy in this matter. Therefore, I further CONCLUDE that appellant has not been deprived of procedural and substantive due process.

Appellant next argues that he has a First Amendment right under the Federal Constitution and a right to speak freely under Article 1, Paragraph 6 of the New Jersey Constitution as it relates to his private text messages.

The First Amendment of the Constitution of the United Sates reads:

> Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceable to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

Article 1, Paragraph 6, of the New Jersey Constitution provides:

> Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subjects, being responsible for the abuse of that right. No law shall be passed to restrain or abridge the liberty of speech or of the press.

It is asserted that appellant was not required to waive any constitutional rights to which they were entitled under these provisions and therefore, the texts at issue in this matter are entitled to protection under both the Federal Constitution and the New Jersey Constitution. There are, however, exceptions to free speech. As noted in Karins v. Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532 (1998), one such exception requires the balancing of the public employees freedom of expression against the interest of the State, as an employer, in promoting the efficiency of the public services it performs through its employees. The question here, as in Kerins, is whether appellant's speech may be fairly characterized as constituting speech on a matter of public concern. Id. at 549. While it is true that most of the texts sent and received by appellant were done so while he was off-duty, it is undisputed that at least some of these texts were sent and received while he and the other members of the group were on duty. Comments such as those posted to this group by appellant and the other members of the group chats were inappropriate, derogatory, and racist and violated the policy prohibiting discrimination, harassment or hostile environments the workplace. This is especially true considering appellant worked in a jail and his job description required him to exercise control over and interact with the very individuals targets by the inappropriate, derogatory, and racist chats. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's speech cannot be characterized as constituting speech on a matter of public concern and that the State's interest in promoting the efficiency of the public services it performs through its employees out way appellant's interest in making these racist and derogatory comments. Appellant is responsible for the abuse of his right to free speech afforded him in Article 1, Paragraph 6, of the New Jersey Constitution.

PENALTY

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), which was decided more than fifty-years ago, our Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations and the like on the one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously brought to the attention of and admitted by the employee." Bock, supra, 38 N.J. 523-24.

As the Supreme Court explained in In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30, "[s]ince Bock, the concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways when determining the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." According to the Court:

> . . . First, principles of progressive discipline can support the imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct . . .
> The second use to which the principle of progressive discipline has been put is to mitigate the penalty for a current offense . . . for an employee who has a substantial record of employment > that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions . . .

>
> . . . [T]hat is not to say that incremental discipline is a principle that must be applied in every disciplinary setting. To the contrary, judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when . . . the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.
> [In re Hermann, 192 N.J. at 30-33 (citations omitted).]

In the case of In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474 (2007), the Court decided that the principle of progressive discipline did not apply to the sanction of a police officer for sleeping on duty and, notwithstanding his unblemished record, it reversed the lower court and reinstated a removal imposed by the Board. The Court noted the factor of public-safety concerns in matters involving the discipline of correction officers and police officers, who must uphold the law and "present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." In re Carter, 191 N.J. at 486 (citation omitted).

In the matter of In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182 (2011), a Camden County pump-station operator was charged with falsifying records and abusing work hours, and the ALJ imposed removal. The CSC modified the penalty to a four-month suspension and the appellate court reversed. The Court re-examined the principle of progressive discipline. Acknowledging that progressive discipline has been bypassed where the conduct is sufficiently egregious, the Court noted that "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses." In re Stallworth, 208 at 193. Finding that the totality of an employee's work history, with emphasis on the "reasonably recent past," should be considered to assure proper progressive discipline, the Court modified and affirmed (as modified) the lower court and remanded the matter to the CSC for reconsideration.

A penalty in this case is unavoidable. The case law setting sworn law enforcement officers apart from other public servants as "special" is consistent. The standard guiding their behavior and informing their discipline is strict:

> A police officer is a special kind of public employee. His primary duty is to enforce and uphold the law . . . He represents law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have respect of the public.

[Twp. of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 898 N.J. Super. 560, 566, 215 A.2d 775 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80, 219 A.2d 417 (1966); See also In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 577 (1990)]

In the case of In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 485-486 (2007), affirming removal of a police officer who slept while on duty, the Court held:

> In matters involving discipline of police and corrections officers, public safety concerns may also bear upon the propriety of the dismissal sanction. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580, 410 A.2d 686 (1980) (affirming appellate reversal of Board decision to reduce penalty from dismissal to suspension for prison guard who falsified report because of Board's failure to consider seriousness of charge); In re Hall, 335 N.J. Super. 45, 51, 760 A.2d 1148 (App. Div. 200) (reversing Board's decision to reduce penalty imposed on police officer for attempted theft from dismissal to suspension), certif. denied, 167 N.J. 629, 772 A.2d 931 (2001); Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305-06, 633 A.2d 577 (App. Div. 1993) (holding that it was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable to reduce penalty from removal to six months suspension for prison guard who gambled with inmates for cigarettes), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469, 640 A.2d 850 (1994).

To determine whether a lesser penalty than the respondent's termination of appellant is appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline is generally examined. Our courts uniformly have upheld the concept in a long line of cases, beginning with West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523 (1962): (an employee's past record of both discipline and commendations can be considered). See also In re Hermann, 192 N.J.

19, 21 (2007). However, the judiciary also agrees that progressive punishment can be waived when the offense involved is sufficiently egregious. In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182, 196-197 (2011). However, the Court in Hermann also declared that progressive discipline can be used to mitigate the penalty where there is a substantial record of employment that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions. In re Hermann, 192 N.J. at 32-33.

I am satisfied that appellant's conduct in this case was egregious such that progressive discipline need not be considered. The public who is served, and other employees, deserve to be able to expect that those individuals that exercise control over and interact with them will not make them targets of inappropriate, derogatory, and racist chats. To expect otherwise is to invite disorder and confusion in responding to certain functions within the jail, possibly leading to worse, more dangerous situations, and serves to undermine the confidence the public places in the correctional system. It cannot be tolerated. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the respondent's action in removing the appellant from his position was justified.

ORDER

I ORDER that the action of the appointing authority removing CO Daniel Purdy is AFFIRMED and the appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. IN THE MATTER OF STEPHANIE WALLACE-SMITH, PASSAIC COUNTY, PREAKNESS HEALTHCARE CENTER.

Terry Woodrow, AFSCME, appearing for appellant Stephanie Wallace-Smith pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Jose Santiago, Assistant County Counsel, appearing for respondent Passaic City (William J. Pascrell, III, County Counsel, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 16, 2018 Decided: April 17, 2018

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

By Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated July 18, 2017, and made effective July 25, 2017, Passaic City, Preakness Healthcare Center (City), suspended appellant Stephanie Wallace-Smith (appellant) for thirty (30) days from her civil service position as a Nurse's Aide for insubordination, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, namely, that she allegedly refused a supervisor's instruction to assist with the dressing of a resident. Appellant filed a request for a hearing appealing her suspension, which appeal was filed with the Office of Administrative Law by the Civil Service Commission for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13 on September 5, 2017.

The matter was assigned to me on September 5, 2017. On September 13, 2017, I scheduled the matter for a hearing date of January 25, 2018. Prior to the scheduled plenary hearing, the parties communicated that they were in the process of negotiating a resolution of the matter and, accordingly, the hearing was converted to a settlement conference. The parties were given the opportunity to reduce the settlement to writing.

Under cover of March 9, 2018, but not received in this Office until April 16, 2018, the parties submitted to the undersigned a fully executed Settlement Agreement. On the basis of the written agreement submitted, I FIND that all parties in this matter are satisfied with the terms and conditions of that agreement. I have reviewed the record and terms of the Settlement Agreement, made a part hereof, and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties and/or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the applicable law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and therefore, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be and are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

INITIAL DECISION
SETTLEMENT
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 01958-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-1967

IN THE MATTER OF DEVON YOUNG,
CITY OF NEWARK, FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Lynsey A. Stehling, Esq., for appellant Devon Young (Law Offices of Daniel J. Zirrith, attorneys)

France H. Casseus, Assistant Corporation Counsel, for respondent City of Newark (Kenyatta K. Stewart, Acting Corporation Counsel)

Record Closed: April 23, 2018 Decided: April 25, 2018

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

Appellant Devon Young filed an appeal regarding his removal from employment by respondent City of Newark, Fire Department. The Civil Service Commission transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on February 7, 2017, for determination as a contested case. The matter was originally assigned to Administrative Law Judge Joan Bedrin Murray and later reassigned to the undersigned. On January 17, 2018, the parties appeared at the OAL and engaged in discussions toward an amicable resolution of the matter. Under letter dated March 1, 2018, counsel for respondent forwarded a Settlement Agreement and General Release, which was later amended by the parties on April 23, 2018. The revised Settlement Agreement and General Release is attached hereto and indicates the terms of agreement between the parties.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMIN. LAW

IT IS HEREBY AGREED by and between the City of Newark ("City"), Council 21 ("Union"), and Employee Devon Young ("Young"), to resolve the matter as it relates to the Notice of Termination, dated December 23, 2013. Rather than continuing further with the appeal of Young's termination at the Office of Administrative Law, the City, the Union and Young (collectively referred to hereinafter as the "Parties") have determined to resolve this matter by this Agreement, and agree as follows:

1. The City will rescind the termination effective December 23, 2013.
2. The Parties agree from December 23, 2013 until the date Young returns to work will be deemed an unpaid leave of absence.
3. The City agrees to pay Young the amount of Thirty Thousand Dollars ($30,000) as settlement for any and all monies due to Young in relation to the facts in the above matter in further execution of this settlement agreement.
4. The Settlement payment referenced above will be reflected on Internal Revenue forms. The City makes no representation as to the tax consequences of any payment hereunder. The City shall comply with all provisions of the law relating to the settlement payment.

5. Young acknowledges and agrees that she will be responsible for the payment of all applicable state, federal and local taxes with respect to the payments under this Agreement, and assumes full responsibility and liability with respect to same.

6. This Agreement will be presented to the City Council for review at the first City Council meeting conducted after this settlement agreement is executed. Any disapproval by the City Council will require the matter to be returned to OAL for hearing.

7. The City will make its best efforts to ensure any payment that is due pursuant to this Agreement is made within forty-five (45) days from the date of approval of the City Council.

8. Young agrees she will return as a Public Safety Telecommunicator Trainee for the Department of Public Safety, specifically working with the Police Department.

9. Young agrees to complete a criminal background check prior to her return to work. Failure to successfully pass a background check is grounds for the City to immediately terminate Young. Young is not waiving her right to appeal termination on basis of a failed background check.

10. The parties agree the background check will be conducted within 7 days of Ms. Young's execution of said agreement. Ms. Young will return to work immediately upon successfully passing background check.

11. Young agrees to complete a 90 days working test period.

12. Young understands failure to successfully complete her working test period is grounds for removal. Young does not waive her right to appeal a determination that she failed her working test period.

13. The parties agree that, upon reinstatement, Ms. Young will complete the full three month working test period. Additionally, the parties agree Ms. Young's employment previously completed by Ms. Young will be counted toward the one year of service time necessary for completion of the PST Trainee title. Upon completion of the PST

Trainee title, Ms. Young will be immediately placed in the PST title and will receive the appropriate salary increase and any and all contractual benefits associated with the movement from the PST Trainee title to the PST title.

14. Young's return to work is subject to her performance of all obligations and conditions that are set forth in this Agreement.

15. ~~Young's return to work is subject to the review and approval of the NJ Department of Community Affairs (DCA). Any disapproval by the DCA will not interfere with the rights of either party to move forward with OAL Hearing.~~ DCA approval not required effective March 10 Personnel matters. No longer under State oversight. FC 4/23/18 LS 4/23 4/23/18

16. The Parties acknowledge under N.J.A.C. 17:1-2.18(b) and (c), no pension or seniority time may be credited for periods for which the employee is not paid by the employer.

17. Young and the Union each agree not to appeal the terms and conditions of this Agreement to any agency or court, including, but not limited to the New Jersey Civil Service Commission and/or to any other New Jersey State Court or agency and/or to any United States Court or agency except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.

18. Young and the Union each further agree that there is no consideration due Young, her counsel and/or Union, including, but not limited to, any claim for back pay and/or counsel fees, arising from her employment and/or the execution of this Agreement, except as otherwise provided herein.

19. Nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party.

20. Young and the Union further acknowledge that this Agreement further precludes either of them from bringing any type of legal or contractual action in any forum including, but not limited to, filing a Complaint in New Jersey Superior Court or United States Federal Court, filing any type of complaint with the City, Essex County, the State of New Jersey or the United States of America, and filing a grievance and/or requesting arbitration, that is in any manner grounded, based upon, or related to the facts/circumstances related to the termination on 12/23/13, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.

21. Young is bound by this Agreement. Anyone who succeeds to Young's rights and responsibilities, such as heirs or the executor of her estate, shall also be bound.

22. This Agreement shall not constitute a precedent or practice in any matter involving the City or other City employees.

23. Young and the Union each agree this Agreement shall not be offered, used or considered as evidence in any proceeding of any type against or involving the City, except to the extent necessary to enforce the terms of this Agreement, or as required by law.

24. This Agreement contains the sole and entire agreement between Young, Council 21 and the City, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements and understandings pertaining to the subject matter hereof. Young specifically represents and acknowledges in executing this Agreement that she has not relied upon any representation or statement by the City, or City's counsel or representatives, with regard to the subject matter of this Agreement, which is not set forth herein. No other promises or agreements shall be binding unless in writing, signed by all the Parties, and expressly stated to be a modification of the Agreement.

25. Young agrees and acknowledges that she has been fully and fairly represented by her Union in this matter, and she is satisfied with that representation and with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

26. Young agrees and acknowledges that she has had full opportunity to review this Agreement with her counsel and/or union representation and she enters into same knowingly and voluntarily.

27. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Settlement Agreement shall be fully enforceable.

28. This agreement will become effective only if approved by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION. Any disapproval by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION will not interfere with the rights of either party to move forward with OAL hearing.

29. By signing this Settlement Agreement, Young states that:

    a. She has read it;

    b. She understands it and knows that she is giving up important rights, and any and all other federal and state employment related causes of any kind, including, but not limited to The New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, The New Jersey Equal Pay Law, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, The Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967, as amended, The Conscientious Employee Protection Act, The Americans With Disabilities Act of 1990, the Fair Labor Standards Act, and any other constitutional, statutory or common law suit, attorney's fees and costs of this proceeding, and any public policy of the United States, the State of New Jersey, or any other State;

    c. She accepts the terms of the Agreement;

    d. Her representative negotiated this Agreement with her knowledge and consent;

    e. She has been advised to consult with her attorney prior to executing this Agreement, and has in fact done so;

    f. She has signed this Settlement Agreement knowingly and voluntarily.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the Parties have caused this Settlement Agreement to be executed.

Re: Gloria Pineda v. The College of New Jersey (CSC Docket No. 2018-2582 and OAL Docket No. CSV 4419-18) - SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Ciccone and Mr. Canavan:

The appeal of Gloria Pineda, a Senior Building Maintenance Worker, The College of New Jersey, of her six-month suspension on charges, was before Administrative Law Judge Susan L. Olgiati (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on May 24, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on May 25, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on July 9, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective July 10, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

In the Matter of John Mulligan
East Jersey State Prison,
Department of Corrections

CSC DKT. NO. 2017-2469
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 02610-17

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JUNE 8, 2018 BW

The appeal of John Mulligan, Institutional Trade Instructor 1, East Jersey State Prison, Department of Corrections, removal effective January 23, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jude-Anthony Tiscornia, who rendered his initial decision on April 18, 2018 reversing the removal. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on June 6 , 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the removal has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority for the period of separation to the actual date of reinstatement. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Additionally, the appellant is entitled to reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Public Safety, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of John Mulligan. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted back pay, benefits, and seniority for the period of separation to the actual date of reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 02610-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-2469

IN THE MATTER OF JOHN MULLIGAN,
EAST JERSEY STATE PRISON,
DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

Rashidah N. Hasan, Esq., for appellant

Aimee Blenner, Esq., Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of The State of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: March 26, 2018 Decided: April 18, 2018

BEFORE JUDE-ANTHONY TISCORNIA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, John Mulligan, (Mulligan) appeals removal by respondent New Jersey Department of Corrections (DOC) from employment as an Institutional Trade Instructor 2 at East Jersey State Prison. Respondent alleges that appellant stole a wristwatch that belonged to another DOC employee and that appellant provided false and misleading statements to investigators. Appellant does not dispute that he took the watch but argues that he owns a nearly identical watch and that he mistakenly took possession of the watch in question thinking it belonged to him.

ISSUE

Did appellant wrongfully take a co-worker's watch and provide misleading statements to investigators and, if so, may respondent DOC remove appellant based on his actions?

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 23, 2017, John Mulligan was served with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), calling for his removal from the position of Institutional trade instructor 2, cooking. (R-1.) The following charges were sustained against appellant:

1. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) – conduct unbecoming a public employee;

2. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) – other sufficient cause;

3. HRB 84-17, as amended, C.8 – falsification: Intentional misstatement of material fact in connection with work, employment application, attendance of any record, report, investigation or other proceeding;

4. HRB 84-17, as amended, C.11 – conduct unbecoming an employee;

5. HRB 84-17, as amended, C.13 – actual or attempted theft of state property or equipment or the property of other employees, residents, clients, or inmates;

6. HRB 84-17, as amended, E.1 – violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on February 22, 2017. A Motion for Summary decision was filed by respondent, heard by me on November 8, 2017, and ultimately denied. A plenary hearing was conducted on January 3, 2018. The record was kept open pending submissions of post-hearing transcripts and closing arguments. Closing arguments were received on March 26, 2018, at which time the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The alleged theft at the center of this appeal was caught on surveillance camera. The recording was admitted into evidence and was viewed several times during the hearing. Having had an opportunity to consider all the evidence and to observe the witnesses and make credibility determinations based on the witnesses' testimony, I FIND the following FACTS in this case:

Appellant has been employed with East Jersey State Prison since 2000, where he served as an institutional trade instructor charged with supervising and instructing inmates in preparing meals.

On September 28, 2016, Senior Correction Officer Carr, (Carr) an employee of East Jersey State Prison, entered into what has been described on the record as the "inner front door area" of the prison, herein after referred to as the "area." This area is under twenty-four-hour surveillance and is heavily guarded. There is a free-standing metal detector in the area. All who enter the front door of the prison must pass through this metal detector including prison employees. Immediately in front of the metal detector there is a heating element attached to the wall, the top of which is a flat surface. This flat surface is about waist high and is wide enough to accommodate a few small objects being placed upon it.

Upon entry Carr removed the contents of his pockets and placed them on the top of the heater. He then removed his wristwatch and placed it on top of the heater next to the contents of his pockets. He then proceeded through the metal detector, circled around back to the heater and retrieved the items he had placed there. He neglected to retrieve his wristwatch. The wristwatch remained on top of the heater for approximately fifteen minutes, at which time appellant, returning from a cigarette break, entered the front-door area, emptied the contents of his pockets onto the top of the heater and proceeded through the metal detector. He then circled around back to the heater and collected the items he had placed there and also picked up Carr's wristwatch. He then exited the front-door area and proceeded inside the prison in order to return to work. The timeframe within which appellant entered the area, cleared security, and exited the area was less than ten seconds.

Later that day Officer Carr realized he had misplaced his watch and reported the missing watch to the prison authorities. The authorities viewed the surveillance video wherein Carr is seen leaving his watch on the heater in the area. The authorities noted that the appellant was the next individual to enter the area, and noticed the appellant placed his possessions on the heater in the same location where Carr placed his watch, and thereby deduced that the appellant must have taken the watch from the heater when he went back to retrieve his own possessions.

On October 4, 2016, appellant was formally interviewed regarding the missing watch at which time appellant denied taking the watch or any items that did not belong to him. Appellant explained to the prison authorities that he owned two watches; the one he was wearing at the time (which did not fit the description of Carr's watch) and one that was located in the center console of his vehicle. The missing watch was described as a Movado watch with a silver band and a black face.

The appellant was then briefly excused so that he may go to his vehicle and retrieve his other wrist watch so the authorities could inspect it. The appellant returned a short time later having retrieved two silver colored watches, both with black faces, from his vehicle. One of the watches belonged to appellant, the other was Carr's missing watch. Appellant explained to the authorities that he must have inadvertently picked up Carr's watch and put it in his center console thinking it was his own, noting that the two watches were very similar in appearance, to which one of the prison authorities responded, "you make me sick." The foregoing removal ensued.

At the hearing, Carr's watch, the item at the center of this case and controversy, was not produced. Appellant did produce his own watch which was silver in color, with a black face with the letters ESQ printed on it. Appellant testified that ESQ was a line of watches manufactured by Movado, the same manufacturer as Carr's watch. The watch produced by appellant appeared to match the description of Carr's watch as described by both respondent's and appellant's witnesses and I therefore FIND the two watches to be similar, if not identical, in appearance.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A: 1-2, 11A: 2-6, 11A: 2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A: 2-2.

The Appointing Authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

In the case at bar the sole question is whether appellant wrongfully took the watch. If so, appellant is subject to discipline. In the foregoing case, appellant is accused of theft of a coworker's property and of providing misleading statements to authorities upon investigation. Given the egregious nature of the alleged act removal may be warranted if it is found appellant actually stole the watch and intentionally mislead the ensuing investigation when he denied the theft.

DISCUSSION

The outcome of this case lies largely on a determination of credibility. Respondent asserts that appellant took the watch with the intent to deprive the rightful owner of same. I FIND that appellant could not have possibly known of the presence of the watch on the heater until the moment he entered into the security checkpoint area at the entrance of the prison. Given that the entire occurrence wherein appellant obtained possession of the watch took a matter of seconds and based on all evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND that appellant inadvertently took possession of Carr's watch on September 28, 2016.

Respondent argues that due to the lapse of time between September 28, 2016, and October 4, 2016, even if the watch was inadvertently taken on September 28, appellant would have had ample time to realize his mistake and return the watch. Appellant's failure to report the mistaken possession of the watch would then constitute a wrongful act subject to discipline. This argument is rebutted by the fact that appellant kept the watch in the center console of his vehicle. I FIND it irrational and improbable that an individual, upon realizing his mistaken possession of another's property, who then makes the affirmative decision to deprive the rightful owner of same, would continuously transport the now stolen item back and forth to work for several days.

Respondent presented two witnesses, Kenneth Luongo (Luongo) and Major James J. Jones (Jones), in support of its case. Luongo is employed with the Special Investigations Unit at the NJ Department of Corrections. He was the lead investigator regarding this matter. He testified that he reviewed the surveillance tape, was involved in the interview of the appellant, but did not make a final determination of intent or culpability regarding appellant's actions. He simply gathered evidence and reported same to his supervisors who then made the final determination.

Kenneth Luongo testified that appellant went to the parking lot and retrieved two silver watches from his vehicle; one his and the other belonging to Carr. This account was reiterated by the appellant who added that that he would routinely store his own watch in the center console of his vehicle. Appellant further testified that he would periodically retrieve the watch and wear it from time to time.

Jones is the Administrative Major at East Jersey State Prison. He testified that he is responsible for policy and procedures at the prison as well as any disciplinary proceedings. He was not presented as a fact witness but to discuss DOC disciplinary policies generally. Jones testified to the general policies and procedures regarding DOC employees. He noted that truthfulness is a character required of all employees.

Jones then went through some of the rules contained in the employee handbook pertaining specifically to theft. Jones testified that theft of any kind violates the agency's ethics policy and would bring into question an employee's trustworthiness and would therefore be grounds for termination. Jones was asked whether he understood the act of theft to include an element of intent. Jones testified that all DOC employees are held to a higher standard and as such, an employee may still be disciplined even if he inadvertently took possession of another's property. I FIND this testimony to be inaccurate on its face and I FIND that an employee that inadvertently takes another employee's property by mistake cannot be found to have committed theft and cannot be disciplined for theft.

In the case at bar the respondent failed to produce any witness or evidence that tended to show appellant knowingly took wrongful possession of the watch. The surveillance tape at the center of respondent's case shows no evidence of premeditation and no conclusion regarding appellant's state of mind can be drawn from it. Appellant acknowledges that he took the watch but argues he mistook it for his own.

Respondent's case relies heavily on the argument that appellants own silver colored watch does not match the description of officer Carr's watch. I find appellant's watch does match the description of officer Carr's watch. Since only appellant's watch was presented at the hearing there is no evidence to rebut the argument that the two watches are alike if not identical.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the forgoing appeal is GRANTED and appellant's removal be overturned.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. In the Matter of William Shorter,
Department of Corrections

CSC Docket No. 2018-1384
OAL Docket No. CSR 17546-17

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: June 22, 2018 (EG)

The appeal of William Shorter, a Correction Sergeant[1] with South Woods State Prison, Department of Corrections, of his removal effective October 3, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Catherine A. Tuohy (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on May 8, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the attached ALJ's initial decision, and having reviewed the testimony and evidence presented before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on June 6, 2018, did not adopt the ALJ's recommendation to uphold the removal. Rather, the Commission modified the removal to a 120-calendar day suspension.

DISCUSSION

The appellant was charged with conduct unbecoming a public employee and other sufficient cause. Specifically, the appointing authority asserted that the appellant violated departmental policy by taking cannabidiol oil and neglecting to indicate this on the medication sheet prior to a random urine test and that his urine sample tested positive for Carboxy-THC. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the OAL for a hearing as a contested case.

[1] Pursuant to P.L.2017, c.293, the title of Correction Sergeant has been retitled to Correctional Police Sergeant.

The ALJ set forth in her initial decision that appointing authority witnesses testified that on September 12, 2017, the appellant was subjected to a random drug test in which he was required to submit a urine sample. As part of the testing procedure the appellant was required to complete a Drug Testing Medication Information sheet indicating the names of all prescription and nonprescription medication he had taken in the past thirty days, the date last taken, and the prescribing physician. Completion of the form was not witnessed by the monitor but is placed in a separate envelope and sent to the lab with the urine sample. A second sample was maintained frozen in case of a positive result to allow for the appellant to have an independent test done on the urine. The results of the test indicated a positive result for cannabinoids (THC) that was not related to any of the medications listed on the medication form. The State Toxicologist testified that the appellant's sample indicated THC carboxy levels of 23 nanograms per milliliter which was over the 15 nanograms per milliliter cutoff for a positive sample. The State Toxicologist also testified that the source of the THC was not clear and that there was no way knowing or identifying the source of the THC. Upon the appellant being notified of the positive result he provided investigators with a handwritten note on a prescription pad dated October 20, 2107, from Russel Little, APN, indicating the appellant was under his care and was prescribed CBD oil.

The appellant testified that he failed to list the CBD oil he had been taking for just a few days on the medication form. He indicated that he was concentrating on listing all of the prescription medication he had been on for a while and simply forgot to list the CBD oil. The appellant provided a copy of a receipt indicating that he had purchased the CBD oil on September 7, 2017. He testified that he had taken 15 droplets under his tongue twice a day as directed by his physician on September 8, 9, 10, 11 and again on he morning of the urinalysis, September 12, 2017. The appellant stated that he was taking the CBD oil due to debilitating pain caused by degenerative arthritis of his spine. Additionally, the appellant testified that he was not aware that the website for the CBD oil he was taking indicates that their oil contains 0.3% THC. The appellant did state that he was aware that THC was a prohibited substance.

Dr. Gary Lage, who testified on behalf of the appellant, was accepted as an expert in the field of toxicology. Dr. Lage indicated that in his professional opinion, the low level of THC present in the appellant's sample was consistent with the use of CBD oil rather than the use of marijuana. Dr. Lage also testified that the website for the CBD oil the appellant used indicated that it was produced from hemp, which would contain small quantities of THC.

The ALJ found the testimony of the appellant, that he forgot to list a cannabis product he took as recently as the morning of the drug test, not credible. The ALJ also found the testimony of the State Toxicologist more persuasive than that of Dr. Lage. She stated that the appointing authority has a zero tolerance drug use policy. Additionally, the ALJ found that the appellant failed his random drug test by testing positive for THC. She indicated that as a Correction Sergeant, the appellant represented law and order to the public and must present an image of personal integrity. Drug use among law enforcement personnel is conduct which adversely affects the morale and efficiency of a governmental unit and has a tendency to destroy public respect. Therefore, that ALJ found that the appointing authority met its burden of proof in establishing conduct unbecoming, other sufficient cause, and violation of policies. Further, the ALJ found that the appellant's argument that his substantive due process rights were violated because the State lab did not advise his testing lab, Relievus, of what were the proper parameters for the testing of the frozen sample was without merit. The ALJ determined that Relievus lab did not check with the State lab prior to running its test and the appellant's own expert witness, Dr. Lage, concurred with the State toxicology lab report that the THC was present in the appellant's urine sample. With regard to the penalty, the ALJ found that the appointing authority's drug policy provided that the only option for a violation of the drug policy was removal. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that removal was the appropriate penalty.

In his exceptions, the appellant argues, in pertinent part, that the evidence presented at OAL indicated that the presence of THC in his system was due to the prescribed CBD oil and not an illegal or controlled substance. He argues that the State Toxicologist and his own expert witness testified that hemp, an ingredient in the CBD oil he took, does contain small amounts of THC. Further, the appellant relies on Dr. Lage's testimony that in his professional opinion, the low levels of THC present in the appellant's sample was consistent with the use of CBD oil rather than the use of marijuana. Moreover, the appellant argues that he was not terminated for not disclosing the CBD oil on the medication sheet but rather for failing a drug test. The appellant also argues that his due process rights were violated because the State lab did not advise Relievus lab of what were the proper parameters for the testing of the frozen sample. In this regard it argues that the failure of the appointing authority to provide the testing parameters was contrary to administrative precedent and the Attorney General guidelines regarding the testing of a second urine sample by an outside agency.

In its reply to the exceptions, the appointing authority argues, in pertinent part, that it does not need to prove the source of the THC that resulted in a positive drug result. It argues that it has a zero tolerance policy with regard to positive drug tests. In addition, it contends that it followed its policies and procedures with regard to the handling of a second or frozen sample, which does not indicate that it is responsible for ensuring the appellant's laboratory of choice uses the proper cut off level. Further, it asserts that it is exempt from and not subject to the Attorney General's Law Enforcement Drug Testing Policy.

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission agrees with the ALJ's determination regarding the charges. However, the Commission does not agree with the ALJ's recommendation to uphold the removal. Rather, the Commission modifies the removal to a 120-calendar day suspension. In his exceptions, the appellant argues that the evidence presented at OAL indicated that the presence of THC in his system was due to the prescribed CBD oil and not an illegal or controlled substance. The appointing authority responds that it does not need to prove the source of the THC that resulted in a positive drug result. The Commission agrees. The fact that the appellant tested positive for THC is sufficient to uphold the charges against him. Given the myriad of ways an individual could end up with a drug in their system, it would be unreasonable to require an appointing authority to pin point the exact cause which led to a positive drug result. Further, while the appellant contends that he was terminated for not disclosing the CBD oil on the medication sheet, such a listing prior to the testing would have alerted the appointing authority to a prescribed drug he was taking which could result in a positive drug test.

Moreover, the Commission agrees with the ALJ's credibility determination regarding the appellant's failure to list the CBD oil on the medication sheet. In this regard, the Commission acknowledges that the ALJ, who has the benefit of hearing and seeing the witnesses, is generally in a better position to determine the credibility and veracity of the witnesses. See Matter of J.W.D., 149 N.J. 108 (1997). "[T]rial courts' credibility findings . . . are often influenced by matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of the witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." See In re Taylor, 158 N.J. 644 (1999) (quoting State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463, 474 (1999)). Additionally, such credibility findings need not be explicitly enunciated if the record as a whole makes the findings clear. Id. at 659 (citing Locurto, supra). The Commission appropriately gives due deference to such determinations. However, in its de novo review of the record, the Commission has the authority to reverse or modify an ALJ's decision if it is not supported by the credible evidence or was otherwise arbitrary. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); Cavalieri v. Public Employees Retirement System, 368 N.J. Super. 527 (App. Div. 2004). In the instant matter the ALJ clearly stated that she did not find the appellant's reason for not including the CBD oil on the medication sheet credible. The Commission agrees with this finding. It is not credible that the appellant would forget to indicate a drug that he just took the morning of the drug screening and that required a more elaborate method of ingestion, 15 drops under the tongue, than merely taking a pill. Therefore, based on the foregoing the Commission agrees with the ALJ's determination that the appellant tested positive for THC and that the appointing authority met its burden of proof with regard to the charges.

With regard to the appellant's contention that his due process rights were violated because neither the State lab nor the appointing authority advised Relievus lab of the proper parameters for the testing of the frozen sample, the Commission agrees with the ALJ's findings. The ALJ concluded that Relievus lab did not check with the State lab prior to running its test and Dr. Lage concurred with the State toxicology lab report that the THC was present in the appellant's urine sample.

In determining the proper penalty, the Commission's review is de novo and it is not bound by an appointing authority's penalty schedule. In addition to considering the seriousness of the underlying incident in determining the proper penalty, the Commission utilizes, when appropriate, the concept of progressive discipline. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). Although the Commission applies the concept of progressive discipline in determining the level and propriety of penalties, an individual's prior disciplinary history may be outweighed if the infraction at issue is of a serious nature. Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980). It is settled that the theory of progressive discipline is not a "fixed and immutable rule to be followed without question." Rather, it is recognized that some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. See Carter v. Bordentown, 191 N.J. 474 (2007). In the instant matter, the appellant had no prior major disciplinary actions since his employment began in May 2001 and his record indicates that he received one minor disciplinary action, a written reprimand in 2003. Moreover, given the actual incident in question, the Commission does not find removal to be appropriate under these circumstances. In this regard, while it is clear the appellant tested positive for small amounts of THC, the record also indicates that the CBD oil, for which the appellant had a valid prescription, likely caused the positive result. Further, while the appellant should have indicated his CBD oil use on the medication form, in the present case his failure to do so should not result in his termination. Accordingly, the Commission imposes a 120-calendar day suspension, which will serve as an indication that any further infractions committed by the appellant will potentially subject him to removal from employment. In addition, the appellant is advised that he must properly and fully complete any future medication forms given as part of a drug screening.

Accordingly, the appellant is entitled to back pay, benefits and seniority after the imposition of the 120-calendar day suspension up to his date of reinstatement. With regard to counsel fees, since the appellant has not prevailed on the primary issues on appeal he is not entitled to an award of counsel fees. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, while the penalty was modified, charges were upheld and major discipline imposed. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12, counsel fees must be denied.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to his permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the appointing authority's action in removing the appellant was not justified. Therefore, the Commission modifies the removal to a 120-calendar day suspension. The Commission further orders that the appellant be granted back pay, benefits and seniority for the period after the imposition of the 120-calendar day suspension through the date of his actual reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay dispute.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSR 17546-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A

IN THE MATTER OF WILLIAM SHORTER, SOUTH WOODS STATE PRISON.

Frank M. Crivelli, Esq., for appellant (Crivelli and Barbati, LLC, attorneys)

Jessica M. Saxon, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 13, 2018 Decided: May 8, 2018

BEFORE CATHERINE A. TUOHY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, William Shorter, a Corrections Sergeant at South Woods State Prison (respondent) appeals his removal, effective November 7, 2017, after testing positive for tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) following a random drug urine screening on September 12, 2017. Appellant was charged with violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), Conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)12, Other sufficient cause; Human Resources Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, C-11, Conduct unbecoming a public employee; HRB 84-17, C-2, Reporting for duty while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs; HRB 84-17 C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody); HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. The appellant denies the allegations and states he was taking cannabinoid (CBD) oil for back pain on the advice of his healthcare provider.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 20, 2017 respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action setting forth the charges and specifications made against the appellant (J-1). Appellant waived a departmental hearing. On November 6, 2017 the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action sustaining the charges in the Preliminary Notice and removing appellant from employment, effective November 7, 2017 (J-2). Appellant filed a direct filing removal appeal on November 13, 2017 to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on November 21, 2017 as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15; N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to 13. The hearing was held on March 23, 26 and 27, 2018. The record remained open to allow the parties to submit post-hearing submissions and the record closed on April 13, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSIONS AND FINDINGS

Dwayne Grade testified on behalf of the respondent. He has been employed by the New Jersey State Department of Corrections (DOC) for twenty-two years and has been the Chief Investigator of the Special Investigations Unit since July 2017. As Chief Investigator, he oversees the criminal and administrative investigations for the DOC. He is familiar with the drug screening process and he has undergone several random drug screenings throughout his career. There is a zero-tolerance policy for drug use in the Department and all sworn law enforcement personnel are subject to random drug testing. The first workday of every month the special investigations unit receives from OIT a computer printout list of those random individuals selected by a computer algorithm to be drug tested. All of the union representatives are made aware of the random urine selection process (R-29). William Shorter was on the Master List for Donor Notifications for the period September 1, 2017 to September 30, 2017.

Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article IV, Section 1 states

> No officer shall
>
> a. Report to duty under the influence of alcohol.
>
> b. Use, possess or sell any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance, whether on or off duty,
>
> c. Frequent any business, private house or establishment where illegal drugs or controlled dangerous substances may be used, purchased or sold with the exception of any appropriate medical establishment for the purpose of receiving appropriate medical care. (R-34)
>
> Section 2 provides that an officer shall report the use, possession, or sale of any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance by another officer, whether on or off duty. The report shall be made as soon as possible to the institutional Administrator or his/her designee. (R-34)

All new employees acknowledge that they receive the various policies. William Shorter acknowledged that he received the Rules and Regulations when he was hired (R-25).

The Department of Corrections Human Resources Bulletin 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009 sets forth the Drug Testing Policy (R-22).

Section IV, paragraph 3 provides that "Prior to the submission of a urine specimen, all individuals shall complete a medical questionnaire which clearly describes all medications, both prescription and over the counter (non-prescription), ingested in the past thirty days (R-22, page 5).

Section VIII entitled "Consequences of a Positive Result"

A. Any covered person who tests positive for illegal drug use shall be:
   1. Suspended immediately from all duties and subjected to Loudermill and Departmental disciplinary procedures;
   2. Processed for termination from service;
   3. Reported by Internal Affairs to the Central Drug Registry maintained by the Division of State Police, and
   4. Barred permanently from future law enforcement in New Jersey. (R-22, page 8)

Sgt. Shorter acknowledged that he received Human Resources Bulletin (HRB) 99-01 (Drug Testing Policy) dated February 26, 1999 on August 22, 2001 (R-27, page 091).

Chief Grade is familiar with Human Resources Bulletin 84-17 as amended and the Table of Offenses and Penalties (R-23). Section C.2 Personal Conduct – Selling or possession of alcoholic beverages or controlled dangerous substances while on State property and/or duty. The penalty for the first offense is removal. (R-23, page 072). C.11 Conduct unbecoming an employee, the first offense is a minimum of a three-day suspension to removal (R-23, page 074). C.30 Use, possession or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody), the first offense is removal (R-23, page 077). E.1 General Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision, the first offense warrants anywhere from an official written reprimand to removal (R-23, page 082). Sgt. Shorter acknowledged receipt of this policy (R-25, page 085).

Chief Grade is familiar with Sgt. Shorter's work/disciplinary history (R-24) which was moved into evidence for purposes of progressive discipline only.

Bryan Bonomo testified on behalf of the respondent. He is a twenty-two -year employee of the N.J. DOC and has been employed as a Principal Investigator at South Woods State Prison since August 2017. Prior to that he was employed as a Special Investigations Division (SID) Officer since February 2001. His responsibilities as an Investigations officer is to conduct all administrative and criminal investigations for the department in the field unit that he is assigned. They maintain all the evidence at the facility and investigate all crimes that occur in the facility and monitor the staff drug testing. He has monitored hundreds if not a thousand of drug tests. When first hired as an investigator, they receive the policy as to how the drug testing should be administered and then are assigned to a senior investigator to conduct the drug testing until they are ready to administer it on their own. He himself has undergone several random drug tests in the course of his career.

The first working day of the month, the central office draws a list of random names and social security numbers of those officers to be tested that month. Central office notifies the investigator who then goes to central office to pick up the list and then goes to the facility with the list of those to be drug tested. Sgt. Shorter's name was on the Master List for Donor Notifications for September 2017 (R-17). Investigator Bonomo called the shift commander to have Sgt. Shorter report to SID and when Sgt. Shorter reported, he was advised that he had been selected to provide a random urine sample for that month. Investigator Bonomo monitored Sgt. Shorter's drug test. There is a drug testing booklet that is filled out with the individuals' name and social security number (R-11). There are monitor instructions that are checked off outlining the procedures to be followed. Attachment A-1 is the Drug Testing Employee Notice and Acknowledgement form signed by Sgt. Shorter and witnessed by Investigator Bonomo dated September 12, 2017. It provides as follows:

> "I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, I will be dismissed from the New Jersey Department of Corrections and from my position as a "Covered Person".
> I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, that information will be forwarded to the Central Drug Registry maintained by the Division of State Police, Information from the registry can be made available by court order as part of a confidential investigation relating to law enforcement employment.
> I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, I will be permanently barred from serving as a law enforcement officer in New Jersey." (R-11, page 022).

After Sgt. Shorter signed the acknowledgement, he was given the Drug Testing Medication Information sheet to fill out indicating the names of all prescription and nonprescription medication he had taken in the past thirty days, the date last taken and prescribing physician (R-11, page 025). This form is not witnessed by the monitor but is placed in a separate envelope and sent to the lab with the urine sample.

The medication form and the urine sample are the only two things that are sent to the laboratory. The Continuity of Evidence – Urine Specimen form (R-12, page 026) summarizes the procedure for the drug testing. It indicates that it was a random drug screening on September 12, 2017 of Sgt. Shorter that was ordered at 9:20 a.m. on September 12, 2017 at the South Woods State Prison facility. Sgt. Shorter gave the urine sample at 9:39 a.m. on September 12, 2017. Investigator Bonomo placed the specimen in the evidence refrigerator at 9:40 a.m.

The procedure followed is that after the medication form is filled out and the employee advises that they are ready to provide a sample, they are taken into the bathroom and wash their hands with soap and water to make sure there is nothing on their hands that could dilute the sample. There is a box of sealed urine containers, they are directed to pick a container or two if they are going to be providing a second sample to be frozen. There are labels inside the sealed containers that the employee fills out using a number two pencil to write their social security number and the date and place back in the container away from the temperature strip, so it can be read once the sample is provided. Then they are walked into the bathroom with the containers and are directed to provide at least thirty milliliters or more in each container. They seal it up in the restroom and bring it to the monitor who verifies the social security number and the date. The temperature is checked to make sure it reads between ninety to ninety-six degrees on the temperature sticker on the side of the bottle. This is to ensure the sample was not tampered with. Mr. Shorter provided two samples simultaneously at 9:39 a.m. The last thing Investigator Bonomo did was place the sample into the freezer. Mr. Shorter also provided a second sample that was to be frozen in case of a positive result to allow for the employee to have an independent test done on the urine (R-13). The second sample is maintained in their freezer until such time as they are notified the test was negative or the employee directs that the sample be released to another lab for testing as was done in this case.

Pursuant to the directions of Sgt. Shorter, Investigator Bonomo released the frozen sample to Hamwon Seo (Jayden), a courier for Relievus, at 3:40 p.m. on October 25, 2017, after verifying the identity of the courier (R-13, page 029). A summary worksheet is prepared of the process: on September 12, 2017 at 9:41 at South Woods State Prison, a random drug test was administered to Mr. Shorter, Principal Investigator Bonomo was the monitor; there was an order to submit to the random test; the medication form was completed; an acknowledgement form was signed; the chain of evidence form was signed; the sample was obtained on September 12, 2017 at 9:39 a.m.; Sgt. Shorter provided a second sample to be frozen; water was made available to him; and the sample was sealed (R-14, page 031). Investigator Bonomo acknowledged that he received the frozen specimen provided by Sgt. Shorter on September 12, 2017 at 9:39 a.m. (R-15, page 032). The lab submission form is maintained in their office with the social security number, the test basis which is or "officer random", the date collected, that the temperature was checked, and the monitor's initials (R-16). This form is submitted to the laboratory with all of the urine samples taken around that time.

Investigator Bonomo was notified of the results that there was a positive of one of the samples that was not related to any of the medications listed on the medication form.

Sometimes there may be a positive reading related to a medication that an employee is taking. The toxicology report for Sgt. Shorter's social security number came back positive for cannabinoids (THC). The medical review officer's review indicated that the controlled substance was found and was not listed on the medication sheet (R-10).

After Sgt. Shorter was notified of the positive results, he provided the investigations unit with a handwritten note on a prescription pad dated October 20, 2017, from Russel Little, APN indicating that William Shorter was under his care and was prescribed CBD oil (R-18, page 037).

Investigator Bonomo prepared and signed an administrative investigation report summarizing this incident and consistent with his testimony (R-9).

On cross-examination Investigator Bonomo was asked what conversation he had with the lab courier when he handed the lab courier the frozen sample. He did not provide him with any information as to what levels the specimen should be tested. Investigator Bonomo just requested that the courier provide his drivers' license as identification to make sure the individual Sgt. Shorter had advised was coming to pick up the sample was the correct person. Investigator Bonomo only monitored one urine test that month and it was the one involving Sgt. Shorter. He is the supervisor and only had time to do one that month and that sample came back positive.

Maria Jackson has been an investigator with the special investigations unit of the DOC for two years. She has been employed by the DOC for sixteen years. She was an instructor at the DOC academy for four and a half years and a corrections officer for nine years. As an investigator they do criminal and administrative investigations and monitor urine drug tests. She has monitored approximately two hundred urine tests. The process is that they receive a master donor list of those to be tested. They then notify those staff on the list and give them the option of producing one or two samples. They fill out the paperwork including the medication sheet indicating all medications they are taking and put their social security number on it and sign and initial it. They put the white copy in the envelope and seal it and write their social security number on the outside and the date the sample is produced. They seal it up and then the monitor takes them into the bathroom to wash their hands and instruct them on how to fill out the label. The cup is sealed in a plastic bag that is sealed. They open it up take out the white label and write their social security number and the date they produced the sample on the label. They put it back inside, go into the bathroom to produce their urine, they void and then they seal it up themselves and put it in the freezer. The monitor does not review the medication sheet. The monitors are assigned male to male, female to female.

She is familiar with William Shorter as a sergeant at South Woods state prison. She is aware that he was randomly drug screened by Investigator Bryan Bonomo. She did not play any part in the collection or storage of the urine sample. The samples are stored in the SID office in a secured closet inside of which is a secured freezer. When the donor comes with their sample it is unlocked in front of them and they place the sample on the one side that is going to the lab and the other side is for the frozen sample. Attachment E2 is part of the packet that Investigator Bonomo prepared. At the bottom of the form is Investigator Jackson's signature indicating that she took the specimen out of the freezer for it to be taken to the lab on September 13, 2017 (R-12). The booklets are stored in a file cabinet and there is also a white sealed envelope containing the donor's medical paperwork. Investigator Jackson makes sure all three items, the booklet, medical paperwork and the urine sample all match with the dates and social security numbers. Then she puts the envelopes and the urines in a box and gives it to the driver who also inspects them and then he signs the booklet at the time he is taking the samples out. R-16 is kept by the freezer and every time a urine sample is done, the social security number of the donor, the test basis or, the date of collection, and the monitor's initials are all listed on the form. This document also goes with the urine samples, booklets and envelopes and everything has to match. Once she gives it to the courier she waits for the courier to return with the paperwork showing they were delivered to the lab.

Paul Zoyac testified on behalf of the respondent. He has been employed by the DOC as a courier for ten years and his title is ITI 2. He is assigned to the institutional warehouse at South Woods State Prison. He does daily runs to Trenton and does urine runs for the staff to the Medical Examiners' office in Newark as needed, usually once a week. On September 13, 2017, he transported urine to the Medical Examiner's office. R-16 is the log of urine samples he took that day. He makes sure the number of urines match the log. The urines are transported in a divider box and transported in a van. When he gets to the lab he signs in and gives his identification and goes to the lab on the second floor. His signature is on the log indicating he picked up the samples at the facility and delivered it to the lab (R-16).

On cross-examination Mr. Zoyac stated he signed R-16 when he received the samples at South Woods facility at approximately 8:00 a.m. The lab signs off on the form under 'received by'. The box is open and has thirty-six slots. He transported seven samples of urine that day. He delivered the box opened. He could remove urine and others could be placed in there. The box is never sealed.

On re-direct Mr. Zoyac stated that he has never removed a urine sample from the box.

Robert Havier testified on behalf of the respondent. Dr. Havier is the Acting Director of the state toxicology laboratory in Newark, N.J. He has been employed by the state for thirty-nine years as a forensic toxicologist. As the acting director, he sets the goals for the laboratory and specifies the methods for analysis, certifies data and finalizes reports for law enforcement drug testing. He has a B.S. degree in chemistry from Long Island University, an M.S. from Adelphi University in organic chemistry and biochemistry, and a Ph.D. from the State University of New York at Buffalo in Biochemistry with a minor in organic and medicinal chemistry (R-31). Forensic toxicology is an interdisciplinary field of science that involves analytical chemistry, pharmacology and toxicology towards the analysis and interpretation of drugs in a legal setting. He has been conducting drug tests for thirty-nine years. There are two sections in the lab, the post-mortem and law enforcement drug testing. Seventeen thousand tests are done a year for the law enforcement drug testing, approximately fourteen hundred a month just from the urine drug testing. Of those seventeen thousand tests, only about two percent or less are positive for drugs. He has qualified as an expert witness in approximately thirty cases. Dr. Havier was qualified as an expert witness in drug testing and toxicology.

He is familiar with the DOC's drug testing policy. The state toxicology lab is the only lab authorized to conduct the drug testing for the law enforcement drug testing. When he finalizes a report for a case, he reviews all the data submitted from the screening and confirmation testing as well as the certification from the medical review officer. Exhibit R-30 is the litigation packet for a law enforcement drug testing case. The first page is the submission form containing the social security numbers of the people donating specimens for analysis. The form is filled out by the monitor in charge of collecting the specimens. The donor will give the specimen to the monitor who will check the temperature of the specimen and indicate that the temperature was checked. The date of submission must be within thirty days of its submission to the lab and preferably overnight or the same day. This form is presented with all the specimens that are submitted for testing and usually are sent by courier or overnight mail. A receptionist in the laboratory receives all drug testing specimens. In this case, Jean Smith received the specimens and accepted each specimen for testing as indicated by her initials after each specimen and her name at the bottom of the submission form (R-30, page 176). The criteria she follows for accepting the sample is to check that the container has not been opened once it was sealed or tampered with in any way. She also checks the volume and appearance of the sample. The social security on the label inside of the container is checked and compared to the submission form and put into the computer which generates a toxicology number. The case is then referred to by the toxicology number. The toxicology number assigned to Mr. Shorter was 17L012120 (R-30, page 194).

After the samples are received and accepted for testing they are stored in the refrigerator and collected by an analyst from the law enforcement drug testing section and placed in a secured refrigerator in that unit. The sample will be subjected to a first screening procedure, an immunoassay procedure using antibodies to identify drugs or classes of drugs that may be present in the sample. If the sample is screened positive, that is, it contains one or more of the drugs they are looking for, the original specimen will be tested by a confirmation method completely different from the screening method. The equipment used for the screening procedure is the Architect which is manufactured by Abbot laboratories.

The drugs tested for are amphetamines, barbiturates, benzodiazepines, cocaine, creatinine for validity (to make sure the urine is human), methadone, opiates, oxycodone, phencyclidine (PCP) and tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) the major metabolite of tetrahydrocannabinol, the active ingredient in marijuana. The results of the immunoassay drug screening test in this matter were positive for cannabinoids (R-30, page 190). The creatinine level was normal. The test identifies whether a certain level of drug is present or not. Once a sample screens positive for a drug another aliquot of the original sample will be confirmation tested by a procedure called gas chromatography/ mass spectrometry (GCMS) which is the benchmark for the whole industry as far as confirming the identity and the amount of any particular drug. An aliquot is a small portion of the original sample for testing. An aliquot of the original sample is taken and is subjected to an extraction procedure to obtain a metabolite of marijuana, tetrahydrocannabinol. The criteria for identifying a particular compound includes the retention time, the weight of the fragments that it produces and the ratio of the fragments to one another. The GC/MS drug confirmation report identified the drug as a metabolite of THC 11th carboxy THC and the amount of that metabolite was twenty-three nanograms per milliliter (R-30, page 194). This information was sent to the medical review officer to review whether anything listed on the medication sheet would account for this positive result. In this case, there was not.

Dr. Havier reviewed all the screening and confirmation data and the report from the medical review officer. He concluded all the testing was properly conducted and he generated a final report for this case. The medication form submitted by the urine donor was reviewed only by the medical review officer and was not submitted to the lab (R-30, page 193). The medical review officer certification indicated that the screening results were positive for cannabinoids and the GC/MS results were positive for 11 carboxy THC. This was not accounted for on the medication sheet (R-30, page 191).

The electronic chain of custody record for 17L012120 sets forth precisely what was done to the sample, when it was done and by whom (R-30, page 222).

All of the instruments that are used for the screening and confirmation testing are tested and checked in advance to make sure they are functioning properly and calibrated properly before the tests are run that day (R-30, pages 177 – 190, 196-197).

The cutoff level of fifteen nanograms is used because that is the industry accepted level for the drug based on possible passive inhalation or casual exposure that cannot produce a reading over fifteen nanograms.

The toxicology report indicated that the screening result by immunoassay was positive for cannabinoids and the confirmation results by mass spectrometry were positive for eleven carboxy THC with a cutoff limit of fifteen nanograms per milliliter (R-30, page 221) The toxicology report indicated carboxy levels of twenty-three nanograms per milliliter. Dr. Havier was aware that a second sample was tested by Relievus lab at the request of Sgt. Shorter and requested a copy of the results. All of the drugs listed were not detected (R-20, page 48). The cutoff level the Relievus lab used for THC was one hundred nanograms per milliliter and not the fifteen nanograms per milliliter which is the accepted cut off level used by the state toxicology lab.

Dr. Havier also had occasion to review the ToxicLogics expert report of the appellant. He disagrees with the statement that most laboratories recognize that any reported value have a margin of error recognizing the uncertainty associated with quantitative value. For Delta-9 – carboxy THC this uncertainty is usually +/- 20-25% of the reported value. Dr. Havier disagrees with this statement and believes that margin of error is too high. However, Dr. Havier points out that even if he accepted that premise, the conclusion that "This means that Mr. Shorter's value of 21 – 23 ng/ml on September 12, 2017 could be as low as 15.75 ng/m" support respondent's position that Sgt. Shorter's levels were over the 15 ng/ml acceptable level (P-2, page 4). Furthermore, Dr. Havier points out that Dr. Lage supports Dr. Havier's analysis of the test results. "Since the Relievus product is an extract of hemp it would contain both Cannabidiol and small levels of THC. This small level of THC is, in my opinion, responsible for the very low level of THC – COOH identified in Mr. Shorter's urine." (P-2, page 4). Dr. Havier said there is no way of knowing the source of the THC.

Dr. Havier's expert report considered all of the information from the confirmation analysis and all of the criteria for identification and quantification of the metabolite, and concluded that the urine specimen contained the metabolite of THC at the level of 23 ng/ml which is above the generally accepted cutoff value of 15 ng/ml (R-32).

On cross-examination, Dr. Havier admitted that analysts perform the testing so there is a human element as well as the instruments used to test the sample. The screening is done by a machine called the Architect and there are five machines for the confirmation test. The submission form contains stickers on the far-right hand side of the form which is a laboratory number used as the identifier once the drug sample is accepted by the laboratory (R-30, page 176). Labels are printed out with the toxicology laboratory number and the stickers are attached to the sample and the medication form. There is a label printed to identify the aliquot (R-30). An aliquot is taken from the original container and placed in a smaller plastic conical tube that is labeled with a bar code. Moving the urine from the container to the various smaller containers is reflected in the electronic chain of custody. As far as he is aware, no mistakes have been made in the transfer of the urine in the thirty-nine years Dr. Havier has been with the state lab, even though seventeen thousand tests are done a year. If the instrument used to perform the test is not functioning properly, no test will be performed until the equipment is working properly. The machine malfunctioned in a preliminary test for testing oxycodone the first time (R-30, page 177). The analyst made a mistake the second time (R-30, page 178). The third time the test was checked, it was found to be running properly (R-30, page 179). Blanks, urine samples that contain no illegal substances, are used as controls and are purchased from a commercial source.

The sample at issue in this case came back positive for the active metabolite for THC in the screening test and thereafter was sent through GC/MS for confirmation.

The tabulation of the confirmation testing for cannabinoids from instrument five, one of the GC/MS machines, was set forth at R-30, page 196. The instruments are not inspected for accuracy by any outside agency, but are maintained internally according to the manufacturers guidelines. This particular test was run with a cutoff analysis of 15 ng/ml. The frozen sample sent to the outside lab used a cutoff off of 100 ng/ml. No information was provided to the second lab as to what standards they should have used but the state lab should have been notified. The donor can choose the lab, but the lab has to be certified to do the testing. Dr. Havier was not notified that the second sample was released to the second lab. If he had been notified, they would have advised the other lab as to the proper cutoffs that should have been used for the testing.

There were twenty-eight samples that were tested. Items 1-12 are controls and blanks samples. Items 13-23 were actual urine samples that were received by the lab and tested (R-30, page 196). Items #1 – 5 were also urine samples received by the lab for testing (R-30, page 197). There were two aliquots taken for testing of Mr. Shorter's urine which produced positive readings for THCC at 21 ng/ml (diluted) and 23 ng/ml. (R-30, page 197). Another urine sample at Item # 19 had a reading of 806.6 and item # 20 had a reading of 605.5. The concentration was too high and fell outside the normal range for accuracy. The reason for this may be that the donor of the sample metabolized the THC either at a high dose or that the exposure to the drug occurred shortly before the urine sample was collected. Items # 19 and #20 were not accepted as a positive because the concentration was too high. The analysis would be repeated.

Dr. Havier was asked if he was familiar with the term cross-contamination as it pertains to urine testing for controlled dangerous substances and that is when one sample gets mixed in with another sample.

There is no way to confirm how the metabolite got into the urine in the case of THC. The exposure is not identifiable. The exposure from a pure CBD oil would not produce a positive result for THC. However, exposure to hemp oil would produce a positive result for THC.

On redirect-examination, Dr. Havier stated that the other laboratory did not contact the state laboratory regarding how to conduct the testing or standards to be used prior to performing the testing on the frozen sample.

Charles Warren testified on behalf of the appellant. He is currently employed as the Deputy Warden for the Cumberland County jail but was previously employed by the DOC for twenty-six years. He started his career in 1987 at the New Jersey State prison; moved to the rank of sergeant at South Woods State Prison in Cumberland county; then became the assistant superintendent at the New Jersey State Prison; left that position to become the associate administrator at Southern State Correctional Facility; then became the Administrator at Southern State Correctional Facility; then returned to the New Jersey State Prison as the Administrator from where he ultimately retired. The administrator oversees every facet of the correctional facility and is also known as the warden.

He has known Sgt. Shorter since 2001 and was one of his supervisors when he first started working at South Woods State Prison. They socialized together at Christmas parties and family events since one of Sgt. Shorter's cousins is a very good friend of his. He has never known Sgt. Shorter to use illegal drugs or talk about using illegal drugs. His opinion as to Mr. Shorter's character as a sworn law enforcement officer is that he knows him to be an upstanding young man. Mr. Warren has no time for people who use or sell drugs and certainly would not invite him into his home if that was the case.

Cesare Coslop IV testified on behalf of the appellant. He is a lieutenant presently employed as a shift commander at South Woods State Prison. He has been a corrections officer with the DOC since June 1997. In 2004, he made sergeant and was transferred to Southern State Correctional facility for approximately six months and then returned to South Woods. He knows Sgt. Shorter since 2001 when he started and they were officers together and worked at the same facility. They ended up being partners together and they continue to work together. They have a mutual friend in common outside of the department and socialize outside of work as well as attending retirement and graduation parties. When Lt. Coslop returned as a sergeant to South Woods in 2004, he was Sgt. Shorter's direct supervisor until Lt. Coslop made lieutenant. Lt. Coslop was Sgt. Shorter's last direct supervisor at South Woods. He has never known Sgt. Shorter to use illegal substances. He has never heard him speak about using illegal substances. His opinion is that Sgt. Shorter is a fantastic officer and a great guy, he speaks to him daily and he has never been under the influence of any narcotics. He is proud of his family and proud to wear the badge and would never do anything to jeopardize this by using drugs.

On cross-examination, Lt. Coslop admitted he was not with Sgt. Shorter at night or on weekends.

William Shorter testified on his own behalf. He is not employed at the present time. He was employed as a sergeant with the DOC at South Woods State Prison until he was terminated in October 2017. He is forty years old and lives and grew up in Vineland. He is married and has a sixteen- year old daughter. He had been a sergeant for five and a half years and prior to that was a corrections officer for eleven and a half years, since May 2001. Sgt. Shorter was the Vice President of his labor union, the New Jersey Law Enforcement Supervisors Association (NJLESA). Prior to working for the DOC, Sgt. Shorter worked as a class I special officer for the City of Vineland Police Department for two and a half years. He then worked for four months with the Federal Bureau of Prisons as a corrections officer until he switched to the State of New Jersey DOC because of better benefits and pay.

Sgt. Shorter attended the corrections officer training academy before starting work with the DOC. Besides the instant matter, he had one prior discipline in his work history (R-24). In December 2003 his power went out and his alarm did not go off and he was late for work. He received a written reprimand.

He has received several commendations. In 2003, during a snow emergency he came to work in a blizzard and stayed an extra shift to cover for the shortage. He received a letter of commendation from the administrator at the time. In 2008 he received a letter of commendation for gathering information that led to a major drug bust at South Woods. In April 2013 he received a letter of commendation for saving an inmates life who had been stabbed several times.

Sgt. Shorter is familiar with the DOC policy on illegal drug use. It is against policy to own, distribute, use and be in possession of illegal narcotics. This has been the policy as long he has been a corrections officer.

On September 12, 2017, he was working as the master center sergeant/ manpower sergeant. As master center sergeant, he was to keep up with the blotter and keeping up with the inmates going in and out for trips or transfers. As the manpower sergeant he was in charge of any extra officers as well as all of the general assignment officers as well as assigning anyone to go out on any emergency trips. Back in September 2017, his regular shift was Monday through Friday 5:30 a.m. – 1:30 p.m., with Saturday and Sunday being his regular days off.

On September 12, 2017 at 9:00 a.m., Sgt. Shorter received an order from his shift commander, Lt. Cesare Coslop, to report to SID (Special Investigations Division). Lt. Coslop told Sgt. Shorter that Investigator Bonomo needed to see him in SID. Sgt. Shorter asked what it was in regards to and Lt. Coslop said that Investigator Bonomo did not specify what it was in regards to but that he did not need a union representative. Sgt. Shorter did not respond to SID immediately because Lt. Coslop needed Sgt. Shorter to train someone to take over his duties while Sgt. Shorter reported to SID. That took about a half hour. Sgt. Shorter then telephoned Investigator Bonomo as to why he needed to report. Sgt. Shorter explained that as a union representative, they never encourage anyone to report to SID without knowing why they were going there. Sgt. Shorter stated that Investigator Bonomo advised him that he did not need a union representative and to report to SID immediately. Sgt. Shorter then reported to SID following the phone call. When he arrived at SID, Investigator Bonomo wanted to know why it took Sgt. Shorter so long to report to SID and why Sgt. Shorter did not respond to his orders. Sgt. Shorter responded that Investigator Bonomo was not in his chain of command and that his commander, Lt. Coslop had ordered him to train another sergeant to take over so that Sgt. Shorter could report to SID. He also reminded Investigator Bonomo that it only took a half hour.

Investigator Bonomo informed Sgt. Shorter that he would be taking a urine test and provided Sgt. Shorter with the paperwork. Prior to taking the test, Sgt. Shorter filled out a medication sheet in his own handwriting (P-9 and R-30, page 193). Looking back, Sgt. Shorter admitted that he failed to list the CBD oil he had been taking for just a few days that was prescribed by Dr. Young Lee, his pain management doctor. Sgt. Shorter indicated that his adrenaline was running after the confrontation with Investigator Bonomo and he was concentrating on listing all of the prescription medication he had been on for a while and simply forgot to list the CBD oil he had been on for only a few days. CBD oil is not listed on the medication sheet Sgt. Shorter filled out. P-7 is a photocopy of a photograph of a droplet bottle reading "Relievus CBD Oil" that was taken by Sgt. Shorter of what Dr. Lee had prescribed for him.

At the time of the urinalysis, Sgt. Shorter had been using the CBD oil for four days. He purchased the CBD oil from Relievus at Dr. Lee's office in Vineland. Dr. Lee recommended that he take the CBD oil. Sgt. Shorter purchased the CBD oil on his debit card and received a receipt for the purchase dated September 7, 2017 (P-4). Dr. Lee suggested he take it the next morning on September 8, 2017. He was to take fifteen droplets twice a day under his tongue in the morning and again at night before bedtime. He took the CBD oil twice a day on September 8, 9, 10 11 and again the morning of the urinalysis, September 12, 2017 before reporting to work. Sgt. Shorter was taking this medication for pain relief due to debilitating pain caused by degenerative arthritis of his spine which he has suffered from for two years. Sgt. Shorter also takes an anti-inflammatory, a muscle relaxer and Tylenol 5 for his pain, all of which were listed on his medication sheet (R-30 & P-9, page 193).

Sgt. Shorter took the random drug test on September 12, 2017 and was informed in October by his major that it came back positive. He was telephoned at home and told to report with his union representative to the prison within two hours which he did and that is when he learned the test had come back positive.

When he gave samples for the urinalysis on September 12, 2017, he voided a second sample to be frozen for later testing if needed. This is the normal procedure he always followed whenever he took a urinalysis. He had the second sample tested. He was informed that he would bear the cost and Investigator Bonomo told Sgt. Shorter to follow the policy. Sgt. Shorter reached out to Lab Corps and Quest lab who advised that they only test urine samples for their clients, one of them being the state of New Jersey who would have to request that the sample be tested. Sgt. Shorter did not reach out to anyone from the State of New Jersey thereafter. His doctor, Dr. Lee volunteered to have his lab test the second sample for Sgt. Shorter. Sgt. Shorter reached out to Investigator Bonomo as to how to accomplish this. The lab had to be accredited, written instructions on the company letterhead and identification had to be provided to allow the lab to pick up the frozen sample. These procedures were followed and the Relievus lab did perform the urinalysis test on the frozen sample (R-8).

Since starting his employment with DOC, he has never ingested any illegal substances. He has had approximately ten random urinalyses since becoming employed by the DOC. Prior to voiding the urine sample on September 12, 2017, he never smoked or ingested marijuana in any way. He has been suspended since October 2017. He is not working and is collecting unemployment. He wants to return to the DOC and continue his career as a sergeant.

On cross-examination, Sgt. Shorter admitted that he was prescribed the CBD oil on September 7, 2017 and took it twice a day for four days, yet on September 12, 2017, he did not remember he was taking it and failed to list it on the medication sheet. Sgt. Shorter did not go to a pharmacy to get the CBD oil. Dr. Lee's office is Relievus. Sgt. Shorter did not do any research on CBD oil or look on the Relievus website. He was not aware that the Relievus website listed their CBD oil as containing 0.3% THC. He is aware that THC is a prohibited substance. Sgt. Shorter was asked if he is aware that as a law enforcement officer he cannot have THC in his system. He replied that he is aware that he cannot take any illegal substances, but that he was taking the medication that his doctor prescribed.

Stephanie Shorter testified on behalf of the appellant. She has been married to William Shorter for eight years. As a couple, they are homebodies. They like to stay home and watch movies. They will go out to dinner on weekends or attend family events or work- related events such as retirement parties. Every once in a while, Mr. Shorter will go out with his friends. Since she has been with Mr. Shorter, she has not known him to have ever used any illegal substances at any time.

Gary Lage testified on behalf of the appellant. He has a B.S. degree in pharmacy from Drake University and a M.S. and PhD. In pharmacology from the University of Iowa, all of which were conferred in the 1960's. He has been employed since 1996 by ToxiLogics in Landenberg, Pa. He is the president and founder of the company. After he received his PhD., he became an assistant professor of pharmacology and toxicology at the University of Kansas for approximately six years. He then became an associate professor of pharmacology and toxicology at the University of Wisconsin for approximately six years. Then he became a professor of Toxicology at the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science for approximately nine years, the last four of which he was the Chairman of the toxicology and pharmacology department. In the late 1980's he left academia and became a consultant for Roy F. Westin for five years. After that, he became a consultant with Environ Corp. in Princeton for approximately five years and then consulted for ERM for a couple of years before starting ToxiLogics in 1996 (P-1). At toxiLogics he works on a wide range of projects involving drugs, alcohol and chemicals and their effects on the human body and the analysis relating to those chemical substances in relation to their toxic effects. He was board certified in toxicology until 2015 when he let his certification lapse. Board certification in toxicology began in 1980 and required experience in the field of toxicology demonstrated by peer review and taking an extensive test to be board certified. Board recertification was required every five years. He belongs to the American Society of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics which is the major scientific society for pharmacology. Dr. Lage is also a member of the Society for Toxicology, which is the major scientific society for toxicology. He has written numerous articles and peer review publications. His major interest is in the relation of toxic chemicals to their effects on the human body. Dr. Lage has qualified as an expert witness in the field of toxicology in the state courts in New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Indiana, Arizona and Alaska. He has also been accepted as a toxicology expert in the OAL in other cases.

Dr. Lage was accepted as an expert in the field of toxicology. Dr. Lage was contacted by Mr. Crivelli's office to serve as an expert witness in this case. Dr. Lage was asked to evaluate the urine drug sample of Mr. Shorter in relation to whether it represented use of marijuana or whether it was consistent with his use of CBD oil. Based upon his review of the material that was sent to him, it was his opinion that the low levels of the marijuana metabolite identified in Mr. Shorter's urine was most likely the result of his use of the CBD oil. This opinion is reflected in his expert report and supplemental report (P-2, P-3).

Marijuana is a recreational drug that causes euphoria, sedation, changes in mood and in certain doses it can cause changes in coordination and memory. The active ingredient of the marijuana plant is THC, tetrahydrocannabinol, and most of the effects are due to THC. Marijuana is most commonly smoked but can be ingested as well in any kind of food substance such as brownies and would be absorbed through the intestinal tract. CBD is an abbreviation for cannabidiol which is another ingredient of the hemp plant which is where marijuana comes from. It is not a psychoactive substance that causes the effects that THC does and it has been shown to have some positive medical benefits in terms of pain and anxiety and is being recognized as a significant medical treatment for a lot of people. Hemp oil is an extract and will have small levels of THC present but not enough to cause a psychoactive effect. CBD oil can be more purified than hemp oil and not have any small levels of THC in it. In comparison to marijuana, the difference in the toxicology of hemp oil and CBD oil is that they will not produce the psychoactive effect that marijuana will produce and although hemp oil may contain small levels of THC, it is insufficient to produce a psychoactive effect.

Dr. Lage visited the Relievus website and found that the product that Mr. Shorter was prescribed and using was an extract of the hemp plant and by definition would contain small quantities of THC. The website did disclose that there were small amounts of THC in the product. He also reviewed the urinalysis test results at issue in this case and found that the state initially and appropriately used an immunoassay screening test commonly used in the drug testing industry which gives a positive or negative for different drug classes. Then the procedure that is used and was used in this case, once the screening test was positive, is to do the more definitive, confirmatory and quantitative test using the GC/MS to confirm that the drug is present and in what amounts. The GC/MS test was done twice, which was appropriate. The first test showed 23 ng/ml and the diluted test showed 21 ng/ml. Both readings are relevant. The cutoff used in this test was 15 ng/ml. Mr. Shorter's readings were quite low, just above the cutoff. He has seen quite high levels in the several hundreds up to thousands. All scientific tests have a margin of error a plus minus for the results obtained. Some laboratories actually report the test results with the plus/ minus margin of error with their analysis. NMS Labs in Willingrove, Pennsylvania. one of the largest toxicology labs in the country, in the last two years has reported their test results for THC drug testing with a 20 – 25% margin of error. This is used because nanograms per milliliter is an extremely small quantity and the analysis is not that accurate. Although they did not find THC in Mr. Shorter's urine, they found THC carboxy which is an inactive metabolite of THC. Based on the margin of error, Dr. Lage calculated that the amount of THC in Mr. Shorter's urine could be as low as 15.75 ng/ml or slightly above the 15 ng/ml cutoff. Drug levels measured in concentrated urine would read higher than drug levels present in diluted urine. The concentration of urine is measured by the creatinine levels. Mr. Shorter's 188.6 creatinine level is mostly normal, maybe slightly concentrated, but not very concentrated. Most labs use a twenty-creatinine level as a cutoff as urine being too diluted to test.

In Dr. Lage's opinion, the positive results of Mr. Shorter's urine test were consistent with his CBD oil use and not consistent with marijuana use. Dr. Lage bases his opinion on the fact that Relievus recognizes that there are small levels of THC in their CBD oil and this would be consistent with Mr. Shorter's use of the CBD oil. The levels of 23 ng/ml and 21 ng/ml found in Mr. Shorter's urine are consistent with his use of the CBD oil. Dr. Lage's opinion is based upon a reasonable degree of scientific certainty.

On cross-examination, Dr. Lage was referred to his expert report where he opined that "Since the Relievus product is an extract of hemp it would contain both Cannabidiol and small levels of THC. This small level of THC is, in my opinion, responsible for the very low level of THC-COOH identified in Mr. Shorter's urine" (P-2, page 4). Dr. Lage accepts the fact that the carboxy THC was present in Mr. Shorter's urine.

Stephen Serbeck testified on behalf of the appellant. Sgt. Serbeck has been employed by the N.J. DOC for twenty-one years, eight years as a sergeant, and has been assigned to the South Woods State Prison the entire time. He has known Sgt. Shorter for approximately twenty-four years since high school where they were friends and football team mates. He socializes with Sgt. Shorter a couple of times a year outside of work. He has never seen Sgt. Shorter use or discuss using illegal drugs. In his opinion, Sgt. Shorter is one of the best men he knows and always does his job in the most honorable way he can. Besides his abilities as a sergeant, he is a good man and cares about others and helps whenever he can.

Russell Little testified on behalf of the appellant. He has a masters of science in nursing (MSN) from Rutgers Camden and is a nurse practitioner/advanced practice nurse currently employed by Relievus Pain Management. He identifies any problems that his patients are experiencing and recommends treatment options and pain medications based on their diagnosis. A nurse practitioner is an advanced practice nurse who is able to diagnose, treat and prescribe medications, order x-rays and recommend treatment options. A regular nurse carries out orders whereas an advanced practice nurse can diagnose a patient, write orders and prescribe medications. Relievus is mainly an interventional pain management practice. They do injections, nerve blocks and epidurals.

Mr. Little has been a nurse practitioner for approximately three years and has worked at Relievus for two and a half years.

Mr. Little knows Mr. Shorter who has been a patient approximately one year and who Mr. Little has seen at least six times. Mr. Shorter has degenerative changes in his spine as well as bulging and herniated discs that cause pain. They initially treated Mr. Shorter with a sacroiliac joint injection, nerve blocks and nerve burning as well as an epidural. Mr. Shorter was referred by a chiropractor and tried chiropractic therapy first, which is usually the first line of treatment. They tried oral medications and that is when Mr. Little recommended the CBD oil because Mr. Shorter wanted to get better without the use of narcotics. Mr. Little recommended the CBD oil product to Mr. Shorter. The CBD oil was a product sold by Relievus. Mr. Little knew where Mr. Shorter worked and was aware that Mr. Shorter was subject to urine drug screenings. He recommended Mr. Shorter try the CBD oil because as far as Mr. Little was aware, it would not cause a positive THC result. He had a conversation with Mr. Shorter as far as whether the drug would show up in a drug screen and Mr. Little told Mr. Shorter it would not. Mr. Little had discussions with the head doctors at Relievus during monthly meetings regarding the best way to treat patients and they said it would not show up. Mr. Little wrote a letter dated October 23, 2017 "To Whom It May Concern: Mr. William Shorter has been under our care and was prescribed CBD oil. There is a difference between CBD oil and THC, however CBD can give a false positive to THC. It is required that a second test called a GC/MS test be done in order to confirm that it is in fact not THC. Please call me if you have any questions. Thank you so much. Sincerely, Russell Little, APN Relievus" (P-12).

Mr. Little also authored an undated note on Relievus letterhead which stated as follows:

> "Mr. William Shorter came to our practice to help alleviate pain in his lumbar spine. He has been through multiple treatments with us as well as prescribed medication with no relief. After seeing William multiple times, it was my recommendation that he try CBD oil also known as hemp oil. This has been proven to help with inflammation and pain. He did not want to rely on narcotic medication and I believed this to be our best alternative. On September 7, 2017 William purchased the CBD oil through our practice with his credit card. We will provide original receipt with this letter. William has been a great patient and only doing as > recommended by our practice and that is why he tried the CBD oil to begin with. If there are any questions please contact me personally. Thank you so much."

Mr. Little no longer recommends CBD oil to any of his patients as a result of this incident.

On cross-examination, Mr. Little stated that CBD oil is not a prescription medication so a prescription is not required although he wrote the recommendation on a prescription blank dated October 20, 2017 (R-18, page 037). Mr. Little was the provider who recommended Mr. Shorter take CBD oil, not Dr. Lee. Relievus was also the facility that tested Sgt. Shorter's frozen urine sample (R-20, page 048). Prior to testing, the urine Mr. Little did not contact the state lab as to how the test should be conducted. Mr. Little had written that there was a difference between CBD oil and THC, however CBD can give a false positive to THC (P-12, page 039). Mr. Little was aware Mr. Shorter retained an expert in this case although he did not review the expert's report. Mr. Little could not answer whether it would come as a surprise to him that the expert confirmed the presence of THC in Mr. Shorter's urine sample.

On redirect-examination, Mr. Little admitted that he has no formal training or degrees in toxicology. The drug screening by Relievus was ordered by Mr. Little (P-20). He made the arrangements to obtain the second sample to run the confirmation testing, but did not speak to anyone at the state lab as to what levels should be used to run the confirmation test.

When assessing credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness' expression, tone of voice and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transportation Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). Additionally, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App Div. 1958).

Sgt. Shorter was a corrections officer for eleven and a half years and a sergeant of corrections for five and a half years before his removal. He also was the vice president of his labor union, the New Jersey Law Enforcement Supervisors Association. He was familiar with the DOC drug testing protocol and has submitted to approximately ten random drug screenings as a condition of his employment. Prior to producing the urine sample for testing on September 12, 2017, Sgt. Shorter completed "Attachment D, Drug Testing Medication Information" (P-9 and R-30, page 193). The form indicates that "As part of the drug testing process, it is essential that you inform us of all medications you have taken in the last thirty (30) days. Please carefully complete the information below." Sgt. Shorter indicated that during the past thirty days he had taken the following medication prescribed by a physician:

Name of Medication	Prescribing Physician	Date Last Taken
Tylenol 4	Dr. Young Lee	8/12/17
Nucynta	Dr. Young Lee	9/10/17
Metformin	Dr. Young Lee	9/11/17
Ramipril	Dr. Young Lee	9/11/17
Meloxicam	Dr. Young Lee	9/11/17
Amrix	Dr. Young Lee	9/11/17

Sgt. Shorter further indicated that during the past 30 days, he had taken the following non-prescription medications (cough medicine, cold tablets, aspirin, diet medication, nutritional supplements, etc.)

Non-prescription Medication	Date Last Taken
Centrum multi vitamin	Daily
Excedrin migraine	9/5/17
Rolaids	9/8/17

Sgt. Shorter did not list the CBD oil he testified was prescribed by Mr. Little on September 7, 2017. Sgt. Shorter did not list the CBD oil on the medication sheet despite the fact that he testified he took fifteen droplets of the CBD oil under his tongue twice a day in the morning and again before bedtime on September 8, 9, 10, 11 and again on the morning of the urine drug test, September 12, 2017. He testified that his adrenaline was running after the confrontation with Investigator Bonomo and he was concentrating on listing all of the medication he had been on for a while and simply forgot to list the CBD oil he had only been on for a few days. Sgt. Shorter's testimony in this regard is not believable. He was very familiar with the drug testing protocol and the need to list every medication he was taking, both prescription and non- prescription. He listed Rolaids and Excedrin that he took the week before the random drug test, yet he forgot to list a cannabis product he took as recently as the morning of the drug test. I DEEM that Sgt. Shorter's testimony in this regard is not credible.

The testimony of Dr. Havier was highly credible. His knowledge of the laboratory testing and procedures were precise and technical. He disagreed with Dr. Lage's opinion that there was a margin of error of 20-25% in the testing, however pointed out that even calculating with that number, Sgt. Shorter was still over the accepted cut off rate at 15.75 ng/ml. Dr. Havier also testified that there is no way of knowing the source of the THC metabolite, only that the THC metabolite was present in Sgt. Shorter's urine. Dr. Havier also pointed out that Dr. Lange agreed with Dr. Havier's test results. The Relievus lab did not test the frozen sample according to the accepted cut off level of 15 ng/ml but rather used a much higher cut off level of 100 ng/ml. Although both Dr. Havier and Dr. Lage testified credibly, I DEEM Dr. Havier's testimony to be more persuasive.

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at this hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following as FACTS:

On September 12, 2017, Sgt. Shorter was randomly selected for a urine drug screening pursuant to the DOC drug testing policy set forth in HRB 99-01 (R-22). Sgt. Shorter was fully familiar with the drug testing policy and the consequences of a positive result. Investigator Bonomo monitored Sgt. Shorter's drug testing and the drug testing booklet was completed outlining the procedures followed (R-11). Prior to producing the specimen, Sgt. Shorter filled out a medication sheet listing all prescription and non-prescription medications he had taken in the last thirty days (P-9, R-30, page 193). Sgt. Shorter did not list the CBD oil as a medication he was taking.

At approximately 9:39 a.m. Sgt. Shorter provided two urine samples, one for testing at the N.J. State Toxicology Lab and a one to be frozen for later testing if the first sample tested positive. Both samples were placed in the evidence refrigerator by Investigator Bonomo at 9:40 a.m. On September 13, 2017 at 8:00 a.m. Investigator Maria Jackson removed the first sample from the evidence refrigerator and gave it to Paul Zoyac, the South Wood State Prison courier, for transport to the State Toxicology Lab for testing (R-12.) The sample was received at the State Lab on September 13, 2017 and an electronic chain of custody was maintained (R-30, page 222). The continuity of evidence was maintained at all times and there was no break in the chain of custody of the urine samples from the time it was produced up to and including the time it was confirmation tested at the state lab. The equipment used to test the urine was functioning and calibrated properly before the urine was tested (R-30, pages 177-190, 196-197).

The immunoassay drug screening test was positive for cannabinoids (R-30, page 190). A further confirmation drug test was performed using gas chromatography/mass spectrometry (GC/MS) which indicated that 11 – Carboxy-THC was detected in the amount of 23.0 ng/ml with a confirmation cutoff concentration of 15.0 ng/ml (R-30, page 194). The Medical Review Officer reviewed the results and indicated that the controlled substance found was not listed on the medication sheet (R-30, page 191, 221).

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The Appointing Authority bears the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962) Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co, 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J Super. 93,104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant was charged with "Conduct unbecoming a public employee," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained -of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, supra, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In reZeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't. of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Appellants status as a corrections officer subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1980). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304. N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

The DOC has a zero tolerance for drug use policy and requires that as a condition of employment officers submit to random urine drug testing. The DOC policy requires that a negative result is required to maintain employment and a positive result will result in termination. Sgt. Shorter failed his random drug test on September 12, 2017 by testing positive for the metabolite of THC. The New Jersey DOC Rules and Regulations for Law Enforcement Personnel prohibit an officer from using any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance, whether on or off duty. As a sergeant of corrections, Sgt. Shorter represented law and order to the public and must present an image of personal integrity. Drug use among law enforcement personnel is certainly conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit and has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing conduct unbecoming.

Appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Sgt. Shorter tested positive for the THC metabolite following his random drug test on September 12, 2017. Law enforcement personnel are prohibited from using illegal drugs or controlled dangerous substances. Appellant's conduct violates the implicit standard of good behavior one would expect from a sergeant of corrections. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of other sufficient cause.

Appellant has also been charged with various offenses set forth in HRB 84-17, including C-11, Conduct unbecoming a public employee; HRB 84-17, C-2, Reporting for duty while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs; HRB 84-17 C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody); HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. As stated above, the same reasons for finding that the respondent has met its burden of proof for the conduct unbecoming violations set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(a)6 apply to the C-11 conduct unbecoming charge. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17, C-11.

As far as the violation of HRB 84-17, C-2, Reporting for duty while under the influence of intoxicating liquors or drugs, the fact that Sgt. Shorter was subjected to the random drug test while on duty on September 12, 2017 and tested positive for the THC metabolite supports the fact that he was under the influence of drugs while on duty that day. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17, C-2.

Appellant has also been charged with a violation of HRB 84-17, C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance. On September 12, 2017 Sgt. Shorter was subjected to a random drug test and tested positive for the THC metabolite. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant was in possession and used a controlled dangerous substance and respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17, C-30.

Appellant has also been charged with a violation of HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. On September 12, 2017 Sgt. Shorter submitted to a random officer drug screening as a condition of his continued employment with the DOC. Sgt. Shorter tested positive for the metabolite of THC. Sgt. Shorter's conduct is in violation of the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations prohibiting an officer from possessing or using any illegal drug or dangerous substance whether on or off duty. Sgt. Shorter's conduct is also in violation of the DOC's drug testing policy set forth in HRB 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision.

Appellant argues that his substantive due process rights have been violated because the state lab did not advise the Relievus lab what the proper parameters were for the testing of the frozen sample and the sample was tested far above the cut-off level utilized by the state lab. I FIND this argument to lack merit. Mr. Little was the individual at Relievus who made the arrangements with the DOC to have the second sample released to be tested by the Relievus lab, at the request of Sgt. Shorter. The Relievus lab did not check with the state lab to inquire as to how the test should be run before they tested the frozen sample. However, more importantly, appellants own expert, Dr. Lage, concurs with the results of the state toxicology lab report and the fact that the carboxy THC was present in Mr. Shorter's urine.

Dr. Lage reviewed the State Toxicology Lab test results in this case and found that the state initially and appropriately used an immunoassay screening test commonly used in the drug testing industry which gives a positive or negative for different drug classes. Then the procedure that is used and was used in this case, once the screening test was positive, is to do the more definitive, confirmatory and quantitative test using the GC/MS to confirm that the drug is present and in what amounts. The GC/MS test was done twice, which was appropriate. The first test showed 23 ng/ml and the diluted test showed 21 ng/ml. Both readings are relevant. Dr. Lage does not dispute the state's lab test results. What he does opine is that certain labs recognize that there is a 20-25 %+/- margin of error for THC drug testing. Dr. Lage further opined that if you calculate the margin of error on the high side, Sgt. Shorter's level could be as low as 15.75 ng/ml. In any event, that is still above the 15 ng/ml cut off level.

PENALTY

In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). However, where the charged dereliction is an act which, in view of the duties and obligations of the position, substantially disadvantages the public, good cause exists for removal. See Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 163 N.J. Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978); In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 (2007). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

Some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007), citing Rawlings v. Police Dep't of Jersey City, 133 N.J. 182, 197–98 (1993) (upholding dismissal of police officer who refused drug screening as "fairly proportionate" to offense); see also In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (DYFS worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old):

> . . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

Pursuant to the DOC HRB 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009, any covered person who tests positive for illegal drug use shall be suspended immediately from all duties and processed for termination from service (R-22, page 5). The DOC drug policy does not call for a range of discipline and removal is the only option for a violation of the drug testing policy. Appellant knew that as a condition of his continued employment he had to pass the random drug urine screens. Sgt. Shorter acknowledged that he understood that if he produced a positive result for illegal drug use, he would be dismissed from his position with the NJDOC (R-11, page 22). Therefore, the only appropriate penalty in this case is removal. I CONCLUDE that the removal of the appellant was appropriate.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the action of the respondent is AFFIRMED, as set forth above. Appellant's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." AGENCY REF. NO. 2018-1380

IN THE MATTER OF CHARITY SIMS, CITY OF PATERSON, DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT.

Seth Gollin, AFSCME, appearing for appellant Charity Sims pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Steven S. Glickman, Esq., (Lite DePalma Greenberg, LLC) attorneys for respondent

Record Closed: May 16, 2018 Decided: May 16, 2018

BEFORE GAIL M. COOKSON, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

By Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated December 6, 2017, and made effective November 8, 2017, respondent City of Paterson, Department of Economic Development (City), terminated appellant Charity Sims (appellant) from her civil service position as a Keyboarding Clerk 1 for failing to report back to work after the exhaustion of extended unpaid leaves of absence. Appellant filed a request for a hearing appealing her suspension, which appeal was filed with the Office of Administrative Law by the Civil Service Commission for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F1 to -13 on December 18, 2017.

The matter was assigned to me on December 20, 2017. On January 12, 2018, I convened a telephonic prehearing conference during which we scheduled the matter for a hearing date of March 2, 2018. At the scheduled plenary hearing, the parties communicated that they were in the process of negotiating a resolution of the matter and, accordingly, the hearing was converted to a settlement conference. When the parties reported that same day that they had reached an accord, all terms and each parties' consent were placed on the record. The parties were given the opportunity to reduce the settlement to writing.

On May 16, 2018, the parties submitted to the undersigned a fully executed Settlement Agreement. On the basis of the written agreement submitted, I FIND that all parties in this matter are satisfied with the terms and conditions of that agreement. I have reviewed the record and terms of the Settlement Agreement, made a part hereof, and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of the parties and/or their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the applicable law.

I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and therefore, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be and are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS, Charity Sims (hereinafter referred to as "Sims") filed an appeal of her termination of employment by the City of Paterson (hereinafter referred to as the "City") with the New Jersey Civil Service Commission, which was assigned OAL docket number CSV 18378-2017 N, Agency Reference No. 2018-1380; and

WHEREAS, Sims' appeal under docket no. CSV 18378-2017 N was assigned to the New Jersey Office of Administrative Law for a hearing before the Honorable Gail Cookson, A.L.J.; and

NOW HEREFORE, the parties, on March 2, 2018, agreed as follows in full and final settlement of the matter under docket no. CSV 18378-2017 N:

1. The City will rescind Sims' termination from employment with the City, and her separation from employment with the City shall be deemed a resignation in good standing.

2. The City will provide only a neutral recommendation for communications concerning Sims' prospective future employment. Specifically, the City will only provide the beginning and end dates of Sims' employment with the City to the extent requested by prospective future employers.

3. Without prejudice to future employment with the City after November 8, 2019, Sims is hereby ineligible to apply for employment with the City in any capacity for a period of two (2) years commencing on November 8, 2017 and concluding on November 8, 2019.

4. The City will not challenge any past or future application by Sims for unemployment compensation benefits in connection with her separation from employment with the City.

5. The disciplinary charges appealed under docket no. CSV 18378-2017 N are hereby dismissed with prejudice.

6. Sims hereby withdraws her appeal under docket no. CSV 18378-2017 N with prejudice.

7. GENERAL RELEASE

In consideration of the Agreement described above, Sims waives, releases and gives up any claim she, her heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns may have against the City and any of its present or past representatives, administrators, supervisors, employees, officers, directors, agents, contractors, etc., and each of their predecessors, successors and assigns, based upon any event arising out of any and all outstanding employment issues between the City and Sims, including her disciplinary appeal and including, but not limited to, all claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family Leave Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Equal Pay Act, the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, Title 11A-the Civil Service Act, the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Public Employee Occupational Safety and Health Act, the New Jersey Smoking Act, New Jersey wages and hours law, public works statutes, unemployment compensation laws, disability benefits laws, the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution, any workers compensation or common law claims and any contract express or implied. This waiver includes all claims involving any continuing effects of actions or practices which arose prior to the date of this Memorandum of Agreement and bars the use in any way of any past action or practice in any subsequent claims, except pending workers compensation claims.

8. KNOWING AND VOLUNTARY WAIVER

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Tia Smith, a County Correction Officer at the Camden County Correctional Facility (CCCF), operated by the Camden County Department of Corrections, (respondent or CCDOC), appeals from the determination of respondent that she be terminated, pursuant to a first Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated October 3, 2017, for violations of N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(1) Incompetency, Inefficiency, Failure to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) Insubordination; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) Conduct unbecoming an employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) Neglect of Duty; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), specifically violations of C.C.C.F. On March 28, 2017, respondent issued a first Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth the charges and specifications against appellant. (R-9.) Following a departmental hearing on July 18, 2017, the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action on October 3, 2017, sustaining the charges brought in the preliminary notices and terminating appellant from employment. (R-9.) Appellant filed a timely notice of appeal. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 26, 2016, for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The hearing in this matter was held on March 27, 2018, and March 28, 2018. The parties filed post-hearing briefs and the record closed on April 19, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

For Respondent

Joseph Coleman (Coleman), Sergeant, is an Internal Affairs (IA) Investigator. He has been employed by respondent for twenty-one years and has been an investigator for twelve years. On February 14, 2017, he was referred appellant's matter to conduct an IA investigation about her absence from her shifts, which involved a vacation in Las Vegas and an alleged sick call out of work.

As part of his investigation, Coleman reviewed the Absentee Log, Sick Visitation Report, and the Unusual Incident Report. (R-2-R-4.) During his employment as an investigator, his job duties included conducting investigations, interviewing witnesses, reviewing documents and evidence, and writing reports.

Coleman conducted two IA interviews of the appellant. The first was conducted on February 17, 2017. (R-5a.) This was four days after appellant returned from a vacation to Las Vegas, and three days after, she called out sick after her vacation. The second was on February 28, 2017, after appellant had presented an itinerary of her trip to Coleman. (R-7.)

Coleman testified that appellant told him that she went on a four-day Las Vegas trip with her girlfriends for her birthday between Thursday, February 9, 2017, and February 13, 2013. Appellant explained that she found out about the trip a few days before she left, since it was a surprise present.

Coleman stated that appellant knew she had to work on Monday morning, February 13, 2017, the return date for the trip. Appellant did not put in a slip to request off on February 13, 2017, which Coleman noted. The itinerary which appellant subsequently produced after the interview, in response to Coleman's request, indicated that appellant was scheduled to fly to Las Vegas on February 11, 2017 at 7:00 a.m. and return from Las Vegas to Newark on February 13, 2017 at 4:35 p.m.

Coleman testified that appellant stated she attempted to change her flight to return earlier before she left. Appellant indicated that the cost of a ticket was not an issue. However, appellant never changed her flight or bought a different ticket to return earlier. Also, appellant called Vegas.com, the travel company through which the reservation was placed, before she left on Friday, February 11, 2017. Vegas.com advised that the entire trip would have to be cancelled and that there would be a $200 per person cancellation fee. As a result, she did not change her flight.

Appellant went to Las Vegas. Subsequently, on Sunday, February 12, 2017, appellant and her friends went on an ATV excursion in the desert. Appellant alleged she became sick after the excursion.

Coleman testified that appellant made the following statements during her first interview:

1. She left for Las Vegas on Thursday;
2. She did not book her trip because it was a gift from her friends;
3. She found out about the trip a couple days before she left and this was when she first knew the dates for departure and return;
4. She was going to catch an earlier return flight. She had called Vegas.com to change her flight before she left, but the cancellation fees were $200 per person and she decided not to cancel;
5. She went on an ATV excursion on Sunday, February 12, 2017, after which in the afternoon she became ill;
6. She called out of work sick for her Monday, February 13, 2017, morning shift, from Las Vegas on Sunday around noon because she was not feeling well;
7. She said she left at 4:00 a.m. for the airport in Las Vegas by herself. Her friends left at 6:00 a.m. for the airport;
8. She understood that she could not make it back for her Monday, February 13, 2017 shift (or tour of duty).; and
9. She stated she knew she had to get back for her Monday shift; however, when she became ill on Sunday, she said "forget it."

Coleman requested that appellant produce the following after the interview:

1. Airline Ticket Stubs for your Departure and Arrival;
2. Receipt for the purchase of your Airline Tickets;
3. Total cost for you Airline Tickets; and
4. Your Trip Itinerary that Includes Dates and Hotel Information. (R-5b.)

Coleman interviewed appellant again on February 28, 2017, after she produced her itinerary in response to his requests. He conducted this second interview because he believed the itinerary information contradicted her prior statements. The itinerary showed appellant had booked and paid for the trip on January 29, 2017, even though appellant said she only knew about the trip a few days before she left.

During this interview, appellant confirmed that the itinerary was correct and that she left on Friday, February 11, 2017, and not Thursday, February 10, 2017, as she stated previously. Also, the itinerary showed appellant was to return to Newark at 4:35 p.m. on Monday, February 13, 2017. Coleman stated that this raised a red flag for him because there was no way appellant could have made it back for her shift beginning at 6:45 a.m.

Coleman stated that appellant confirmed it was her Visa card that was used to book the trip. She told him that her card was used by her friends to do this because they did not have a credit card. This information was not provided to Coleman during the first interview.

Coleman testified that appellant made the following additional statements during her second interview:

1. She was on the phone with Cook at which time she provided Cook with her credit card number and Cook booked the trip;

2. She called Vegas.com to change the flight to return before Monday;

3. She called Spirit Airlines on Saturday, February 11, 2017 to change her flight;

4. She stated "I could have just paid, I guess not to go...I just know that before I left, I should have just tried to switch the day like you said last time or I could have tried to put in for that day."

Coleman testified about his conclusions. He stated he discussed this investigation with Deputy Warden Foschini who recommended that Coleman generate a Supervisor's Staff Complaint. Coleman was not the final decision maker about the charges or the penalty.

Christopher Foschini (Foschini), Deputy Warden testified that he has been employed by the CCDOC for twenty-three years. He supervised the IA Division since 2005. His duties included being responsible for overseeing IA, policy and procedures, operations, and discipline at CCCF. He reviewed the investigation and materials in this matter. He approved the charges in this matter.

He spoke with Coleman prior to the first interview and between the two interviews. He also discussed the facts and findings with Warden Karen Taylor and Director Owens, who were the final decision makers. Foschini discussed appellant's prior discipline with them too.

Foschini stated that termination was recommended for appellant because she lied during the IA investigation and violated several policies. Foschini testified that appellant had changed her story about who booked and paid for the trip, lied about being sick on February 13, 2017, while in Las Vegas, had not obtained a plane ticket to return for her Monday shift, and failed to provide any proof that she had made any attempt to return earlier than planned. Appellant's prior discipline was taken into consideration.

Foschini testified about appellant's violations of pertinent policies and procedures. IA Order #001 requires that, "[e]mployees being questioned are obligated to answer all questions truthfully or he or she will be subject to disciplinary action up to an may include termination." Appellant was not truthful during her IA interview.

Appellant violated the following Rules of Conduct:

1. 1.2 Conduct Unbecoming: because she brought the department into disrepute by lying during her IA interview, calling out from her shift while in Las Vegas when she was not ill, and knowing that she was unable to attend work because she had not obtained a ticket to return in time for her shift.

2. 1.3 Neglect of Duty: when she lied to IA, called out sick from Las Vegas, and was untruthful about her whereabouts after her return from Las Vegas.

3. 1.4 Insubordination: when she failed to obey her supervisors' orders by lying to IA and to Lieutenant Earl O'Connor, Shift Commander, when she told him she was at her residence and she was not because she had just landed in Newark.

4. 2.1 Abuse of Sick Leave: when she when she advised that she was at her residence and she was not because she had just landed in Newark.

5. 2.4 Reporting Off Sick: when she feigned an illness in Las Vegas and called out sick because she could not return to New Jersey for her shift. (R-11.)

Foschini testified that appellant also violated General Order (GO) #28 Section 2, subparagraph F and subparagraph C relative to reporting sick, because appellant was not permitted to leave her place of confinement during her scheduled tour of duty except for the purpose of seeking medical attention. (R-12.) Appellant was to notify her Shift Commander that she left her place of confinement; the reason she was leaving her residence, the date, her name, the time and the purpose and estimated time of return. Appellant relayed untruthful information and did not report leaving her place of confinement and flying home.

Foschini further testified that appellant violated GO#073 Personal Conduct of Employee when she failed to come to work, failed to advise she was leaving her place of confinement, failed to comply with all department rules and regulations, and failed to cooperate and provide truthful and full disclosure in IA investigations after having been provided notice that she had to be truthful. (R-13.) Appellant violated GO #074 Professional Code of Conduct because she was unprofessional when she lied during her interview. (R-14.)

Foschini testified that appellant was required to bring in a doctor's note when she returned to work after having called out sick the day after vacation. Appellant failed to bring in such a doctor's note. As a result, the Shift Commander automatically brings charges. That occurred here by way of written reprimand. (A-1.) That was separate from these charges.

Foschini recommended termination.

For Appellant

Cachet Cook (Cook) testified that she has been appellant's friend since they were twelve years old. She knew appellant was a Corrections Officer and knew that she had off on weekends. She would do anything for appellant.

She and Adams wanted to give appellant a Las Vegas trip for her birthday. Initially, they were going to use her mother's casino comps to book it. However, she was unable to do this.

Subsequently, Cook testified that she booked the Las Vegas trip approximately a week before appellant's birthday on February 7th. Cook could not recall whether she told appellant before or after her birthday about the trip. The trip was a present from Cook and Adams. They used appellant's credit card for the trip and were intending to each pay one-half of the costs of appellant's portion as her birthday present by reimbursing appellant the entire cost of the trip. Cook booked the trip in appellant's name and used appellant's email address because it was linked to the credit card. The confirmation of the trip and itinerary was sent to appellant's email address. Although it was to be a surprise, Cook had not thought it through sufficiently to foresee that the email confirmation would be sent to appellant.

Cook testified that appellant attempted to change her flights. Cook called Vegas.com, not appellant, to determine if they could change appellant's flight, but was advised that it would cost $200 per person to cancel the trip and rebook with other flights. Cook and Adams could not afford that. Appellant attempted to get a buddy pass from a friend, Kyle, to fly home earlier and attempted to change her flight before they left, but could not.

The three friends traveled to Las Vegas. On Saturday, February 11, 2017, the friends shopped, walked the strip, and did sightseeing. She did not know where or when the appellant attempted to call the airlines. She did not recall if appellant stated she could not get a flight back. Cook stated that appellant became sick on Sunday, February 12, 2017, after riding ATV's in the desert. Cook also felt nauseated. Cook heard appellant vomit. Cook declined to purchase over-the counter medicine for appellant because it was too expensive.

When departing Las Vegas, the three friends left the hotel for the airport together and flew home together. They were never separated. Cook denied that appellant traveled to the airport separately from Adams and her, as appellant had stated.

Tia Smith, appellant, Corrections Officer, testified that she began working for the CCDOC in 2011. She has a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration and a Master's Degree from Farleigh Dickenson University.

Appellant testified that in early 2017, she had been suffering from work stress and her friends, Cook and Adams, wanted to surprise her with a trip to Las Vegas for her birthday. She spoke with Cook on the phone and confirmed that Cook should book the trip using her mother's casino comps. However, they were unable to use the comps.

After that, she again spoke with Cook about booking the trip. She provided Cook with her credit card because Cook and Adams did not have one. Cook booked the trip. The itinerary was emailed to appellant, but she did not review it because she never checks her email.

Appellant's birthday, February 7th, is important to her. She threw herself a Karaoke party on February 7th. She requested and was approved for off on February 8, 2017 and February 9, 2017. She always celebrates her birthday as a week-long event. Appellant's regularly scheduled days off were February 10, 2017 through February 12, 2017. Appellant's next shift was Monday, February 13, 2017 at 7:00 a.m.

Appellant testified that she found out about the trip and its details a couple days before her birthday on February 7, 2017. She indicated that she found out about the itinerary on a "Sunday." It was then that she knew she would not return in time for her Monday, February 13, 2017 shift. She was not physically in work to put in a slip for off from her tour of duty on Monday. She could have physically gone into the CCCF and placed a slip in for off on that day. However, she did not.

Appellant testified she attempted to get a buddy pass to fly home earlier from a friend, Kyle, who works for the airlines. However, he did not have any buddy passes. She also had Cook call Vegas.com to change her flight. She reiterated that Vegas.com told Cook that it would be a $200 penalty per person for cancelling the flight.

Appellant went on the trip with the intention of changing her flight and returning home sooner. Appellant conversely testified that she did try to change her flight before she left or after she got to Las Vegas. On Saturday, February 11, 2017, appellant attempted to change her flight by contacting American Airlines. However, every available flight would have returned her later than her scheduled flight. Alternatively, appellant also testified that she was not sure she had not tried to change her flight on February 11, 2017. Appellant specifically testified in response to questioning about calling the airlines as follows: "I'm not sure if it was before or after I left." Appellant specifically testified that she was unsure she called the airlines on February 11, 2017, to change her flight.

Appellant knew before she went to Las Vegas that she would not be able to return in time for her shift. Appellant testified that she knew it was a problem when she could not get another flight home in time for her Monday shift. Appellant testified that she knew before she became sick after ATV riding that she could not return before her shift.

The friends' plans for Sunday included an ATV excursion in the desert and reservations at a high-end restaurant. ATVs were an activity she had done several times before and enjoyed. In fact, she sought out such ATV excursions on her vacations.

Appellant completed the ATV excursion, after which, in the afternoon, she became nauseated and developed a headache. She vomited and spent the rest of Sunday in bed in the hotel. She asked Cook to purchase over-the-counter medicine; however, Cook did not purchase it because it was too expensive. Appellant did not go to dinner on Sunday night because she still did not feel well.

Appellant called out sick on Sunday around noon, because she was ill and would not be in for her shift on Monday. At that time, she advised that she was in Las Vegas and provided the pertinent information about her location. Appellant also did not work on Tuesday, February 14, 2017, because she was still sick. She did not go to a doctor for treatment, because she only does that as a last resort.

Appellant testified that she and her friends left the hotel for the airport on Monday morning together. She testified that when she landed in Las Vegas and turned on her phone and there was a message from her Shift Commander. She was unaware of the rule that required her to call the department before leaving her place of confinement to travel home, after she called out sick. She called him when she landed in Newark at 5:26 p.m. and stating that she had returned and was in route to her house. She knew if she had lied and said she was home she would have received two to three days of discipline. Lieutenant O'Connor's statement in his Unusual Incident Report that she was home was inaccurate. (R-4.)

Relative to her IA statements, she indicated that she did not lie to Coleman. She was nervous and answered the questions he asked. She did not think she had to provide information if he did not ask for it.

Credibility

Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950). A fact finder

"is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may reject testimony as "inherently incredible" and may also reject testimony when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). Similarly, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the . . . [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted). The choice of rejecting the testimony of a witness, in whole or in part, rests with the trier and finder of the facts and must simply be a reasonable one. Renan Realty Corp. v. Cmty. Affairs Dep't, 182 N.J. Super. 415, 421 (App. Div. 1981).

After reviewing the evidence, I make the following FINDINGS of FACT:

The testimony presented by Coleman and Foschini about their investigatory actions, appellant's statements, and the facts as detailed in Coleman's report were consistent. Collectively, their testimony of the events of the incident and the information they gathered during the investigation made sense and hung together to describe what occurred. It was undisputed that appellant departed for Las Vegas with no guarantee or certainty that she could change her flight or book a different flight to return home before her tour of duty on February 13, 2017. Appellant's statements and conduct after her return were designed to cover for this undisputed fact.

Appellant's rendition of the facts repeatedly changed from the first interview through her testimony. In this regard, appellant changed her story about who booked of the trip, when she became aware about the itinerary, what effort she, or others made to change her plans and return before her next scheduled tour of duty, when she reported a feigned illness to call out sick from a tour of duty that she knew she was going to miss, and what she told her Shift Commander about her whereabouts.

In sum, appellant's statements and those of her witness, could not be reconciled to make them consistent or justify her conduct. The other witnesses' renditions of the disputed facts have a greater "ring of truth," than the scenarios offered by appellant, who plainly had a greater interest in the outcome of this proceeding. The discrepancies in appellant's testimony and changing renditions of the facts made appellant's testimony unbelievable.

FINDINGS OF FACT

After carefully reviewing the exhibits and documentary evidence presented during the hearing, and after having had the opportunity to listen to testimony and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, I FIND the following to also be relevant and credible FACTS in this matter:

Appellant was assigned to CCCF as a Corrections Officer. She had been employed by CCDOC in that capacity since 2011.

A few months before appellant's birthday, which was February 7, 2017, appellant's friends, Cook and Adams, decided they wanted to take appellant to Las Vegas to celebrate her birthday. At that time, Cook wanted to pay for the trip using her mother's casino comps. Cook approached appellant and asked if she would like to do this. Appellant responded by telling Cook, "Okay, book it." Subsequently, Cook became aware she could not use her mother's comps and the Las Vegas trip was shelved.

Subsequently, Cook and Adams decided again that they wanted to go to Las Vegas for appellant's birthday. Appellant's birthday celebrations were very important to her. Appellant celebrated not only her birthday each year, but also her birthday week. This was a priority for appellant. She threw herself a Karaoke party on February 7, 2017. She requested and was approved to be off on February 8, 2017 and February 9, 2017, after the party. February 10, 2017 through her February 12, 2017, were her regularly scheduled days off from work. She was scheduled to return to work for her next tour of duty on Monday, February 13, 2017, at 7:00 a.m.

On January 29, 2017, Cook and appellant booked the trip utilizing Vegas.com and paid for a vacation package for appellant, Adams, and herself using appellant's credit card. Appellant knew Cook was using her credit card to book the trip for the three and authorized Cook to use it. She provided Cook with the credit card number on that day to book the trip. Although Cook manually entered the information on the website, appellant aided her by providing her with the mechanism, the credit card, which allowed them to actually book the trip. The package included airfare and hotel accommodations.

The trio was scheduled to fly from Newark to Las Vegas on Friday, February 10, 2017, and return to Newark airport on Monday, February 13, 2017. Cook and Adams intended to reimburse appellant one-half of the cost of the trip each; thereby gifting appellant's trip to her. On January 29, 2017, the itinerary was emailed to appellant's personal email address because her credit card had been used to pay for the trip. This itinerary detailed the flights and accommodations and advised appellant that she would not return to Newark from her trip until Monday, February 13, 2017 at 4:35 p.m. Appellant admittedly knew about the plans on a "Sunday" before her trip. January 29, 2017 was a Sunday.

Appellant learned the particulars about the vacation from the itinerary. Therefore, on January 29, 2017, appellant knew that she would not be returning in time for her shift on Monday, February 13, 2017 at 7:00 a.m. Appellant had Cook call Vegas.com to attempt to change the flights. Vegas.com advised that there would be a $200 per person penalty for cancelling the flights and package. Appellant decided not to cancel because her friends could not afford the penalty and she wanted to go to Las Vegas.

Appellant never changed her return flight with the airline. Appellant did not purchase a different ticket to return from Las Vegas earlier. Appellant did not put in a slip requesting off from her shift on Monday, February 13, 2017, before she left for Las Vegas on Friday, February 10, 2017.

Appellant departed with her friends for Las Vegas on Friday, February 10, 2017, knowing she had no guarantee or certainty of returning before her tour of duty. On Saturday, February 11, 2017, she shopped, walked the Strip, and did sightseeing. She did not change her flight or purchase another flight home. She did not contact any airlines, despite alleging that she did. Cook never heard or knew about appellant contacting any airlines.

On Sunday, appellant engaged in an ATV excursion in the desert. This was an activity she had done several times before and enjoyed. In fact, she sought out ATV excursions on her vacations. Appellant also had a reservation at a high-end restaurant for Sunday night.

On Sunday, February 12, 2017, knowing she had no possibility of returning home by the time of her shift, she said "forget it." Appellant decided to falsely call out sick for her Monday, February 13, 2017, 7:00 a.m. shift, alleging she became ill as a result of her ATV excursion to cover her actions. Appellant identified her place of confinement as Las Vegas and provided her address.

On Monday, February 13, 2017, appellant, accompanied by Cook and Adams, left the hotel together for the airport for their flight home. They arrived in Newark at approximately 4:35 p.m. At that time, appellant turned on her phone and discovered she had received a voicemail from Lieutenant O'Connor, the Shift Commander, relative to when she left her place of confinement and relative to her whereabouts. Appellant called Lieutenant O'Connor at 5:26 p.m. and advised that she was home. Lieutenant O'Connor recorded this in the Unusual Incident Report memorializing the officer's which were absent on February 13, 2017. Appellant was not home when she made that representation, because she had just landed.

Appellant's conduct resulted in an IA investigation. On February 17, 2017, appellant was interviewed by IA Investigator Coleman about the events and circumstances surrounding her Las Vegas vacation. Appellant lied or materially misstated facts when she stated the following. She did not book or pay for the trip and she had no advance notice of the trip because it was a gift from her friends. She found out that her friends had booked this trip for her a couple days before she left, right around her birthday, and that this was the first she knew about the dates for departure and return.

She attempted to change her trip by calling Vegas.com, at which time she discovered that there was a $200 per person cancellation fee. She left for the trip on Thursday, which was February 9, 2017. She knew she had a shift on Monday morning and intended to catch an earlier return flight. Further, she went on an ATV excursion on Sunday, February 12, 2017, after which in the afternoon she became ill. As a result, she called out of work sick for her Monday, February 13, 2017, morning shift, from Las Vegas on Sunday around noon because she was not feeling well. She said she left at 4:00 a.m. for the airport in Las Vegas by herself. Her friends left at 6:00 a.m. for the airport.

After the interview, appellant provided the Vegas.com itinerary to Coleman in response to his requests for documents substantiating her statements. The itinerary had been emailed to appellant on January 29, 2017. Appellant's credit card had been used to book and pay for the vacation package. The itinerary showed that appellant departed Newark for Las Vegas on Friday, February 10, 2013 at 7:00 a.m. The return flight was scheduled to arrive in Newark on Monday, February 13, 2017 at 4:35 p.m. This was nine and one-half hours after her shift was to begin on that day.

As a result of this itinerary information which contradicted her statements, a second IA interview of appellant occurred on February 28, 2017. During that interview, appellant's version of the facts changed. Appellant stated that her credit card was used to book the vacation by her friends who were paying for the trip as a surprise for her birthday. She stated she was on the phone with Cook when she booked it and provided Cook with her credit card number. She did not read the emailed itinerary even though it was sent to her email. Appellant called Vegas.com to change the flight to return before Monday. She intended to change her flight before she left, but was unable to do so. She stated, "I could have just paid, I guess not to go...I just know that before I left, I should have just tried to switch the day like you said last time or I could have tried to put in for that day."

Also, appellant alleged she called Spirit Airlines on Saturday, February 11, 2017, while in Las Vegas, to change her flight and that all of the flights returned later than the one she had scheduled. However, appellant failed to produce any evidence to demonstrate she actually did these actions or that she had become ill.

Appellant returned to New Jersey at approximately 4:35 p.m. on Monday. This ended her seven-day birthday week celebration.

While testifying, appellant changed her version of the events again. She stated that she attempted to get a buddy pass to fly home on an earlier flight from her friend Kyle before she left. However, he did not have any passes to share. She stated that she had contacted American Airlines to change her flight. Appellant knew before leaving she could not return before her shift on Monday. She shopped and did sightseeing on Saturday. She made ATV plans and dinner reservations for Sunday. Appellant knew when she engaged in the ATV excursion that she would be unable to return for her Monday morning shift. Appellant knew on Sunday before she called out sick that she would not be able to return for her Monday morning shift.

With no other alternative to cover her conduct, appellant falsely called out sick for Monday, falsely reporting she was ill. Appellant also called out of work sick on Tuesday, February 14, 2017. This separate event was addressed in a written reprimand.

The PNDA issued on March 28, 2017, alleging violations of N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(1) Incompetency, Inefficiency, Failure to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) Insubordination; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) Conduct unbecoming an employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) Neglect of Duty; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), specifically violations of C.C.C.F. Rules of Conduct: 1.1 Violations in General; 1.2 Conduct Unbecoming; 1.3 Neglect of duty; 1.4 Insubordination; 2.1 Abuse of Sick Leave; 2.4 Reporting Off Sick; 2.12 Fictitious Illness or Injury Reports; Internal Affairs Order #001; General Order #28, General Order #73; General Order #74. For these charges a FNDA was issued on October sustaining the charges and removing appellant from her employment as a corrections officer.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The appointing authority shoulders the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co., 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct. 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant's status as a correction's officer subjects her to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

> The need for proper control over the conduct of inmates in a correctional facility and the part played by proper relationships between those who are required to maintain order and enforce discipline and the inmates cannot be doubted. We can take judicial notice that such facilities, if not properly operated, have a capacity to become "tinderboxes."

Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305-06 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994). It is well recognized that correctional facilities operate through a rigidly hierarchical, almost "paramilitary," structure. Lockley v. Dep't of Corr., 177 N.J. 413, 425 (2003).

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against him and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962).

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee

Appellant was charged with "conduct unbecoming a public employee." N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase that encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

The basis for the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee was that appellant lied during her IA interviews by changing her rendition of the facts, lied to her Shift Commander, and falsely called out sick to cover for her voluntary inability to return from vacation in Las Vegas for her tour of duty.

Appellant repeatedly lied by making false and contradictory statements to investigators, during the course of her two IA interviews. Appellant's rendition of the facts surrounding the Las Vegas trip and her illness developed as follows: from a denial about booking the trip; to an admission that although Cook manually entered the information on the website, appellant aided her by providing her with the mechanism, the credit card, which allowed them to book the trip; to an acknowledgement that the booking confirmation and detailed itinerary was emailed to her personal email address on Sunday, January 29, 2017, to an inability to recall when she learned about the trip; to an admission she learned about it a couple days before her birthday on February 7, 2017, and that she learned about the trip on a Sunday before her birthday at which time she knew that she would miss her shift on Monday February 13, 2017, because of the time of the return flight; to an allegation that she called Vegas.com to attempt to change her flight and discovered there would be a penalty for cancellation, to an admission that she did not call and Cook did; to stating that she left on Thursday, February 9, 2017 to stating that she left on Friday, February 10, 2017; to an alleged intent to change her flight to return and contacting Spirit Airlines, despite subsequently stating that she called American Airlines and attempted to get a buddy pass in her testimony at this hearing.

Appellant alleged she was ill, when she was not. This was to cover up for her inability to return for her shift.

In sum, it was an ever-morphing version of what occurred from her first interview through her testimony in this proceeding. Simply put, appellant lied about the facts and circumstances surrounding her Las Vegas vacation.

Moreover, appellant's conduct in voluntarily choosing to leave for Las Vegas without any guarantee or certainty of her ability to return was unbecoming conduct and irresponsible. The responsible corrections officer would have purchased a different ticket for an earlier return flight, if any, or foregone the vacation to report to work and serve the public and the department. Her unbecoming conduct was further exacerbated when she lied about being sick to conceal her actions and inappropriately avoid her shift, for which she already knew she had no excuse to miss.

Finally, appellant lied to her shift commander when she stated she was home at 5:26 p.m., when in fact she had just landed in Newark.

As a corrections officer, appellant was held to a higher standard of conduct. The public respects officers for discovering, reporting, and championing the truth in circumstances of wrongdoing and while they are satisfying their duties. Appellant's conduct, her lies to investigators, and her voluntary choice to prioritize her week-long birthday celebration by vacationing, adversely affected the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit and would tend to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Appellant's actions were violative of his obligations in a position of public trust. It offended publicly accepted standards of respect and decency.

No circumstances existed to warrant or justify appellant's deceitful conduct.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(1) Incompetency, Inefficiency, Failure to Perform Duties

Appellant failed to perform her duties when she chose to voluntarily travel to Las Vegas without any guarantee or certainty of her ability to return. This conduct was unreasonable and irresponsible. The responsible corrections officer would have purchased a different ticket for an earlier return flight, if any, or foregone the vacation to report to work and serve the public and the department. Her conduct was further exacerbated when she lied about being sick to inappropriately avoid her shift, for which she already knew she had no excuse to miss.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of incompetency, inefficiency, and failure to perform duties, in violation of N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(1). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) Insubordination

Appellant was insubordinate when she lied during her IA interviews. Additionally, she was insubordinate when she failed to advise the department that she had left her place of confinement in Las Vegas and when she told Shift Commander Lieutenant O'Connor that she was home, while she was in route to her home after just having landed at Newark airport. Appellant had a duty not to lie to her superiors. That act was insubordinate.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of insubordination, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) Neglect of Duty

Neglect of Duty can arise from an omission or failure to perform a duty as well as negligence. Generally, the term "neglect" connotes a deviation from normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). "Duty" signifies conformance to "the legal standard of reasonable conduct in the light of the apparent risk." Wytupeck v. Camden, 25 N.J. 450, 461 (1957). Neglect of duty can arise from omission to perform a required duty as well as from misconduct or misdoing. Cf. State v. Dunphy, 19 N.J. 531, 534 (1955). Although the term "neglect of duty" is not defined in the New Jersey Administrative Code, the charge has been interpreted to mean that an employee has neglected to perform and act as required by his or her job title or was negligent in its discharge. Avanti v. Dep't of Military and Veterans Affairs, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 564; Ruggiero v. Jackson Twp. Dep't of Law and Safety, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV) 214.

Appellant neglected her duty when she traveled to Las Vegas knowing she would not be able to return for her morning shift on Monday, February 13, 2017. Appellant could have put a slip in and requested off from her shift on Monday, February 13, 2017. She chose not to do so. Appellant neglected her duty when she falsely reported an illness and called out on February 13, 2017, to cover her actions. Appellant neglected her duty when she lied to investigators and her Shift Commander and did not follow departmental rules, regulations, and orders.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior did rise to a level of neglect of duty, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7). I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue.

Appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), Other sufficient cause by violating C.C.C.F. Rules of Conduct: 1.1 Violations in General; 1.2 Unbecoming Conduct; 1.3 Neglect of duty; 1.4 Insubordination; 2.1 Abuse of Sick Leave; 2.4 Reporting Off Sick; 2.12 Fictitious Illness or Injury Reports; Internal Affairs Order #001; General Order #028, General Order #073; General Order #074.

CCCF Rules of Conduct 1.1 Violations in General

CCCF Rules of Conduct 1.1 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> Any employee who violates any rule, regulation, procedure, order or directive, either by an act of commission or omission, whether stated in this manual or elsewhere, or who violates the standard operating procedure as dictated by department practice, is subject to disciplinary action in accordance with the New Jersey Department of Personnel (Civil Service) rules and regulations. Disciplinary actions shall be based on the nature of the rule, regulation, procedure, order, or directive violated, the severity and circumstances of the infraction and the individual's record of conduct

1.2 Unbecoming Conduct

Rule 1.2 provides as follows:

> All personnel are required to conduct themselves, both on and off duty, in such a manner as to reflect favorably on the department. Conduct unbecoming an employee shall include that which brings the department into disrepute, reflects discredit upon the employee as a member of the department, or which impairs the operation or efficiency of the department or employee.

Appellant was required to make truthful statements to the IA investigator during her interviews and make truthful statements to her Shift Commander about her whereabouts. Despite this knowledge and duty, appellant lied and otherwise intentionally misstated facts related to her Las Vegas trip repeatedly during her IA interview. She further lied to Lieutenant O'Connor about her location upon her return.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Rule1.2 by falsifying and intentionally misstating facts in connection with her vacation during her internal affairs investigation and to her superiors.

1.4 Insubordination or Serious Breach of Security

Rule 1.4 provides in pertinent part as follows:

> (a) Personnel shall promptly obey all lawful orders of any supervisor. Failure or deliberate refusal of any employee to obey a lawful order of a supervisor, ridiculing a supervisor or his/her order, in or out of the supervisor's presence, or disrespectful, mutinous, insolent or abusive language directed toward the supervisor, shall constitute insubordination or serious breach of discipline.

Regarding the charge of Insubordination, to the extent that appellant is charged with violation of Rule of Conduct 1.4, which addresses Insubordination and Serious Breach of Security, consideration of such violation will be addressed in concert with the current analysis. Black's Law Dictionary 802 (7th Ed. 1999) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Such dictionary definitions have been utilized by courts to define the term where it is not specifically defined in contract or regulation:

> 'Insubordination' is not defined in the agreement. Consequently, assuming for purposes of argument that its presence is implicit, we are obliged to accept its ordinary definition since it is not a technical term or word of art and there are no circumstances indicating that a different meaning was intended.
> [Ricci v. Corporate Express of the East, Inc., 344 N.J. Super. 39, 45 (App. Div. 2001) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, this definition incorporates acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience. Thus, insubordination can occur even where no specific order or direction has been given to the allegedly insubordinate person. Insubordination is always a serious matter, especially in a paramilitary context. "Refusal to obey orders and disrespect cannot be tolerated. Such conduct adversely affects the morale and efficiency of the department." Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 59 N.J. 269 (1971).

When appellant chose to lie to IA investigators about the facts and circumstances related to her Las Vegas vacation and when she chose to leave for Las Vegas knowing she had no certainty of changing her flight and returning before her shift, appellant failed to obey her orders and committed a serious breach of discipline. When appellant falsely reported an illness to avoid her shift and cover her choice to go to Las Vegas, she did not obey her orders. When appellant chose to lie about her whereabouts to the Shift Commander she also did not obey orders and committed a serious breach of discipline. I CONCLUDE that appellant's behavior was uncooperative, disrespectful to her supervisors, and adversely affected the efficiency of the department.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Rule1.4 by failing to obey orders and lying to her shift commander and during an IA investigation.

2.1 Abuse of Sick Leave

Rule 2.1 provides that employees must follow General Order #28, Section 2, which provides in subparagraph C as follows:

> If reporting sick from a location other than the member's own residence, the name of the person from whose residence they are reporting sick, address, city and telephone number

The reporting requirements continue in subparagraph F which provides as follows:

> Personnel may not leave their place of confinement during their scheduled tour of duty except for the purpose of seeking medical attention, securing a prescription or for emergencies including family emergencies, provided however, such information is relayed to the shift commander or the designee before had and such outings are for and limited to the intended purpose. The shift commander or the designee will include the following information in the log. The reason the employee is leaving their residence, the date, their name, the time, the purpose and the estimated time of return.

To begin, appellant failed to present any evidence that she was in fact ill. Notwithstanding same, although she did report her confinement in Las Vegas, she failed to report to the Shift Commander that she was leaving her place of confinement in Las Vegas on the morning of February 13, 2017, to fly home.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Rule 2.1 and General Order #028.

2.4 Reporting Off Sick

Rule 2.4 provides as follows:

> Personnel who report off sick are required to remain at home during the hours they would normally be on duty. Visits to a physician, dentist, or pharmacy are exempted, provided such information is relayed to the proper authority prior to such outings are for and limited to the intended purpose.

This rule must be read with Rule 2.1 and General Order #028 detailed above. Appellant reported her confinement in Las Vegas. However, appellant failed to report to the Shift Commander that she was leaving her place of confinement in Las Vegas on the morning of February 13, 2017, to fly home.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Rule 2.4.

2.12 Fictitious Illness or Injury Reports

Rule 2.12 provides that, "[p]ersonnel shall not feign illness or injury, falsely report themselves ill or deceive or attempt to deceive any supervisor as to the condition of their health."

Appellant knew when she departed for Las Vegas that her next tour of duty was scheduled for Monday, February 13, 2017 at 7:00 a.m. Appellant knew on January 29, 2017, when she received the vacation itinerary, that she had to change her flight to return earlier in order to work that shift. Appellant failed to put a slip in to request off on Monday February 13, 2017, because it may or may not have been granted. Instead, appellant departed knowing she had not obtained an earlier return fight.

Appellant took no effort in Las Vegas to purchase a different flight with an earlier return date or to modify her existing reservation to return before February 13, 2017.

Appellant was an experienced ATV excursion participant. At the time appellant returned from this activity on Sunday, appellant knew she was not going to report for work on Monday morning. She said, "forget it." To cover the consequences of her choosing to go to Las Vegas without a guarantee she could return for her shift, appellant alleged and falsely reported she was ill. Appellant took no over-the-counter or prescription medication and did not go to the doctor's. Appellant failed to provide any evidence to substantiate her alleged illness. I CONCLUDE appellant feigned her illness in an attempt to cover up her inability to return home and be present for her tour of duty. This was done with design to deceive her supervisor as to the condition of her health.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Rule 2.12.

Internal Affairs Order #001

Internal Affairs Order #001 provides in Section 9 Interviewing the Subject Officer, subparagraph h, that, "[e]mployees being questioned are obligated to answer all questions truthfully or he/she will be subject to disciplinary action, up to and may include (sic) termination."

Appellant was required to make truthful statements to the IA investigator during her interviews. Despite this knowledge and duty, appellant lied and otherwise intentionally misstated facts repeatedly during her IA interview relative to facts and circumstances related to her Las Vegas trip.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated Internal Affairs Order #001, Section 9, subparagraph h.

General Order #73

The purpose of the policy provided for in General Order #73 is to provide employees with a standard of conduct. It provides in pertinent part as follows:

> All department employees, when on and off duty, will conduct themselves in a manner that will not bring discredit or criticism to the department. Common sense, good judgment, consistency and the department's mission will be the guiding principles for the expected employee standard of conduct.
>
>
> 4. Employees will comply with all department rules and regulations and all laws of the United States and the State of New Jersey.
>
>
> 6. Employees will cooperate and provide full disclosure in any department investigations involving employee or offender misconduct.
>
> ...
> 12. Employees are responsible to know all department policies as well as county policies and act in accordance with them.

Appellant acted in an unbecoming manner which brought disrepute among other things to the department. She neglected her duties and failed to perform them. She was insubordinate. She abused her sick leave. She reported a feigned illness to cover up the consequences of her actions. She lied during an IA investigation and otherwise did not cooperate during the investigation. Her conduct violated department rules and regulations, state law. Her actions discredited the department.

Additionally, appellant did not report to Lieutenant O'Connor that she was leaving her place of confinement in Las Vegas when she departed for New Jersey. Appellant stated that she did not know that she had to call the Shift Commander and report when she left her place of confinement. Therefore, appellant did not know department policies which she was obligated to follow.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated General Order #073, Sections 4, 6, and 12.

General Order #074.

General Order #074 provides as follows:

> All sworn personnel in the department will conduct themselves in a professional and ethical manner at all times. Conduct which detracts from a professional and ethical manner is prohibited an circumstances suggesting an officer has engaged in unbecoming conduct will be investigated and disciplinary action will be taken where appropriate.
>
> 1. Sworn personnel will conduct themselves in accordance with the Constitution of the United States, the New Jersey Constitution and all applicable laws and rules enacted or established pursuant to legal authority. Sworn personnel are also obligated to follow all other departmental and county policies.

Appellant acted in an unbecoming manner which brought disrepute, among other things, to the department. She neglected her duty and failed to perform them. She was insubordinate. She abused her sick leave. She reported a feigned illness to cover up the consequences of her actions. She lied during an IA investigation and otherwise did not cooperate during the investigation. Her conduct violated department rules and regulations, state law. Her actions discredited the department.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's conduct violated General Order #074, Section 1.

N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12) Other Sufficient Cause

Finally, appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. As detailed above, appellant's conduct was such that she violated this standard of good behavior. As such, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof on this issue. I CONCLUDE that appellant's actions violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12).

I further CONCLUDE that all charges brought herein against appellant are SUSTAINED.

Double Jeopardy Argument

Finally, the appellant argued that because she received a written reprimand, dated March 22, 2018, for failing to provide a doctor's note after she called out on February 14, 2017, for calling out sick the day after a vacation, the respondent was precluded from bringing more serious disciplinary charges against her seeking her termination. This argument is misplaced.

Appellant was charged with numerous separate and distinct offenses which resulted from appellant's deceitful and unbecoming conduct. Those charges are unrelated to the written reprimand for failing to provide a doctor's note for her absence on February 14, 2017. Appellant is not being punished twice for the same offense.

PENALTY

The next question is the appropriate level of that discipline. A system of progressive discipline has evolved in New Jersey to serve the goals of providing employees with job security and protecting them from arbitrary employment decisions. Progressive discipline is considered to be an appropriate analysis for determining the reasonableness of the penalty.

The concept of progressive discipline is related to an employee's past record. The use of progressive discipline benefits employees and is strongly encouraged. The core of this concept is the nature, number, and proximity of prior disciplinary infractions should be addressed by progressively increasing penalties. It underscores the philosophy that an appointing authority has a responsibility to encourage the development of employee potential.

The law is also clear that a single incident can be egregious enough to warrant removal without reliance on progressive-discipline policies. See, In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (Division of Youth and Family Services worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old), in which the Court stated:

> ". . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest."

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

In addition to considering an employee's prior disciplinary history when imposing a penalty under the Act, other appropriate factors to consider include the nature of the misconduct, the nature of the employee's job, and the impact of the misconduct on the public interest. Ibid. Depending on the conduct complained of and the employee's disciplinary history, major discipline may be imposed. Id. at 522–24. Major discipline may include removal, disciplinary demotion, or a suspension or fine no greater than six months. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a), -20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.4.

Respondent argued that appellant lied about the facts and circumstances which related to her Las Vegas vacation during her IA investigation, that she also failed to report she was leaving her place of confinement in Las Vegas to return home and that she then lied to the Shift Commander when she reported she was home when she had just landed in Newark. Respondent submitted that appellant's conduct brought disrepute to the department and placed appellant, inmates, the public and the CCCF at risk.

Appellant denied the allegations that she lied during an IA investigation, that she was insubordinate and that she violated rules, regulations, orders, and policies when she called out sick for work from Las Vegas for her February 13, 2017, tour of duty. Appellant argued that the statements to IA were confusions when answering inarticulately asked or compound questions. Appellant argued to terminate her would be harsh, excessive, and flies in the face of progressive discipline.

Appellant received three significant disciplines in the past. In 2015, appellant was suspended for 180 days for conduct unbecoming and neglect of duty. In 2016, appellant was suspended for three days for failure to perform duties, conduct unbecoming and neglect of duty.

A review of the discipline revealed that appellant lied to investigators in relation during an investigation in 2015. This was, in part, the reason for the 180-day suspension. As a result, during the instant IA investigation, appellant knew she had to be truthful and fully disclose all relevant information to the investigators. She chose to act in a contrary and deceitful manner. Appellant's behavior violated the public trust and put the safety of the inmates, the facility, DOC, and the public at risk, when she did not ensure she could return home for her shift and when she then called out for her shift to cover this fact.

Appellant exhibit poor judgment and a cavalier attitude for her position and the department, when she chose to depart for Las Vegas knowing she had no guarantee or certainty of returning before her next tour of duty. Appellant's actions consistently showed that she was more concerned about her birthday week and her vacation time, than she was in following department policies, orders, rules and regulations and protecting the public by working as scheduled. Such conduct placed not only the public, but the CCDOC at risk.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that removal is the appropriate discipline for the violations of N.J.A.C.4A:2-2.3(a)(1) Incompetency, Inefficiency, Failure to Perform Duties; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2) Insubordination; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6) Conduct unbecoming an employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7) Neglect of Duty; and other sufficient cause in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), Specifically violations of C.C.C.F. Rules of Conduct: 1.1 Violations in General; 1.2 Unbecoming Conduct; 1.3 Neglect of duty; 1.4 Insubordination; 2.1 Abuse of Sick Leave; 2.4 Reporting Off Sick; 2.12 Fictitious Illness or Injury Reports; Internal Affairs Order #001; General Order #028, General Order #073; General Order #074 be AFFIRMED.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, dated October 3, 2017, of the Camden County Department of Corrections, against appellant, Tia Smith, is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." Importance: High

Mr. Nash and DAG Creuz:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Miguel Citron from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Mr. Vazquez removal effective December 19, 2016 is being settled to a demotion to Senior Laundry Worker, it does not indicate how to record the time from his removal until his reinstatement in the lower position. Before a settlement can be acknowledged by the Civil Service Commission, all periods of time must be specifically accounted for in an employee's personnel record. For example, is that time period to be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

Re: Carlos Lopez v. City of Newark, Department of Public Safety (CSC Docket No. 2018-999; OAL Docket No. CSV 15789-17) – SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Stehling and Ms. Casseus:

The appeal of Carlos Lopez, a Public Safety Telecommunicator, City of Newark, Department of Public Safety, of his resignation not in good standing, effective September 22, 2017, was before Administrative Law Judge Kelly J. Kirk, (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on June 22, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on June 22, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on August 7, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective August 8, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo
Deputy Director

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Frederick Bender
City of Trenton Police Department

CSC DKT. NO. 2013-2228
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 02992-13

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JUNE 22, 2018 BW

The appeal of Frederick Bender, Police Officer, City of Trenton Police Department, 90 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Kathleen M. Calemmo, who rendered her initial decision on May 9, 2018 reversing the 90 working day suspension. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on June 20, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the penalty has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to 90 days of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Further, since the appellant has prevailed, he is entitled to counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay and counsel fees are finally resolved.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Frederick Bender. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted 90 days back pay, benefits, and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay or counsel fees.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay or counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 02992-13
AGENCY REF. NO. 2013-2228

IN THE MATTER OF FREDERICK BENDER,
CITY OF TRENTON POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Stuart J. Alterman, Esq., for appellant (Alterman & Associates, LLC, attorneys)

George R. Saponaro, Esq., for respondent (Saponaro Law Group, attorneys)

Record closed: March 22, 2018 Decided: May 9, 2018

BEFORE KATHLEEN M. CALEMMO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Frederick Bender (Bender), a Police Officer with the City of Trenton, Police Department (Trenton), appealed a 90-day suspension he received as major discipline for allegedly engaging with four other officers while off duty in a street fight on January 17, 2011. Trenton sustained the following charges: conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); other sufficient cause, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11); and misconduct, N.J.S.A. 40A:14-147. Trenton also determined that Bender violated the following Trenton Police Department Rules and Regulations: 2:2.38, 3:1.3, 3:1.1, and 4:8.3. Bender denied the allegations as baseless and unjustly harsh.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 15, 2011, Trenton issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth the charges and specifications against Bender. Following a departmental hearing held on October 5, 2012, Trenton issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) on February 19, 2013 sustaining the charges in the PNDA and suspending Bender from employment for ninety working days. Appellant appealed on February 21, 2013. The matter was transmitted by the Civil Service Commission Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on March 1, 2013 for hearing as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15; N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to 13.

The case was originally assigned to a different Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Three adjournments were granted for the following dates: February 20, 2014; July 23, 2014; and January 5, 2015. The matter was reassigned to me on February 10, 2017. On March 10, 2017, respondent filed a Substitution of Counsel reassigning the case to Mr. Saponaro. After a telephone conference with the parties on February 28, 2017, I scheduled the hearing for May 17, 2017. The parties mutually requested an adjournment so I conducted a telephone conference on May 16, 2017, granted the request, and scheduled a status conference for August 17, 2017. During the telephone conference on August 17, 2017, Mr. Saponaro informed me that of the four police officers who had been charged regarding the same incident, two were still waiting for their final hearings at the local level. Mr. Saponaro requested additional time to resolve the issues with the other two officers. His intent was to reach a global settlement involving all three officers or a consolidation of the three matters. With Mr. Alterman's consent, I scheduled another status conference for September 27, 2017. At the September 27 conference, Mr. Saponaro reported that he had made no progress with the companion cases. Because

Mr. Alterman objected to any further adjournments, as unduly prejudicial to appellant, I scheduled the hearing dates for October 31, 2017 and November 9, 2017.

On the morning of the hearing, appellant was present and prepared to go forward. Mr. Saponaro appeared for respondent but did not bring any witnesses and represented that respondent was not prepared to go forward. He requested an adjournment of the October 31, 2017 hearing date and represented that respondent would be able to proceed on November 9, 2017. Mr. Alterman objected to this last-minute request. I allowed the parties to state their positions on the record. As Mr. Saponaro was not able to proceed with the hearing on behalf of respondent on the date scheduled for the hearing, I adjourned the hearing dates to allow appellant leave to file a motion to dismiss.

On February 28, 2018, appellant, through counsel, filed a motion to dismiss the disciplinary action due to respondent's failure to proceed. Respondent did not file any opposition to the motion. Respondent has not taken any action in this matter since October 31, 2017 and respondent's counsel has remained attorney of record.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

Appellant moved to dismiss the disciplinary action with prejudice for respondent's failure to proceed at the time of the scheduled hearing date of October 31, 2017 in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14 seeking a sanction of dismissal of the charges with prejudice.

Appellant was present and prepared to go forward on the date of the hearing, October 31, 2017. Respondent's counsel appeared but represented that he was unable to proceed with the hearing because respondent was in the process of changing law firms. To date, there has been no substitution of counsel, and significantly, no opposition to appellant's motion. Despite the filing of appellant's motion to dismiss on February 28, 2018, respondent has yet to provide any explanation for its failure to proceed in this matter.

In an appeal concerning major disciplinary action, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority to show that the action taken was justified. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The County bears the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). Bender filed his appeal on February 21, 2013 for an incident that occurred on January 17, 2011. Respondent has had more than ample time to show that the action taken against Bender was justified.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that, because respondent failed to proceed on the date of the hearing, October 31, 2017; failed to offer any explanation for its failure to proceed; and failed to oppose appellant's motion to dismiss, the sanction of dismissal under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.14(a) is warranted. I further CONCLUDE that without participating in the due process hearing, the disciplinary charges against appellant, Frederick Bender, cannot be sustained by respondent, City of Trenton Police Department, and must be DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby ORDER that the disciplinary action imposed by respondent against appellant set forth in the FNDA dated February 19, 2013 is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 15927-16

AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-1095

IN THE MATTER OF CHRISTOPHER HINES, WOODBINE DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER, DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES.

Samuel Gaylord, Esq., for appellant Christopher Hines (Gaylord Popp, LLC, attorneys)

Kimberly A. Eaton, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Woodbine Developmental Center (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 13, 2018 Decided: May 11, 2018

BEFORE BARRY E. MOSCOWITZ, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On June 5, 2014, Christopher Hines was injured at work. He was granted a leave of absence but never returned to work after it expired. Did Hines resign not in good standing? Yes. Under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(c), an employee who has not returned to duty for five or more consecutive business days following an approved leave of absence shall be considered to have abandoned his or her position and shall be recorded as a resignation not in good standing.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 7, 2016, the Woodbine Developmental Center served Hines with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. In that notice, Woodbine specified that on May 22, 2015, it advised Hines that his leave of absence would reach one year on June 9, 2015, and that it could only grant him a leave of absence for up to one year. Woodbine further specified that on June 9, 2015, it advised Hines to return to work or resign, and that he had failed to apply for accidental disability retirement. Moreover, Woodbine specified that on June 13, 2015, it advised Hines that his leave of absence had reached one year on June 9, 2015, and Woodbine reminded Hines that it could only grant him a leave of absence for up to one year. Therefore, Woodbine charged Hines with having violated N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(c), because he had been absent from work without permission for five consecutive days, and sought his resignation not in good standing.

On September 21, 2016, Woodbine served Hines with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action sustaining the charges and specifications in the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action following a departmental hearing.

On September 28, 2016, Hines appealed the determination.

On October 18, 2016, the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested under the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act establishing the Office of Administrative Law, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -23, for a hearing under the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 to -21.6.

On December 11, 2017, Woodbine filed a motion for summary decision. Although Hines is represented by counsel, Hines refused to communicate with his attorney and participate in his own appeal. Therefore, the motion for summary decision will be decided unopposed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the exhibits attached to the Certification of Kimberly Eaton, DAG, in support of the motion for summary decision, I FIND the following as FACT:

Appellant, Christopher Hines, was employed by the Woodbine Developmental Center as a human services assistant since March 31, 2007. Ex. G. The job requirements for a human services assistant include lifting and/or moving residents as required, bathing and/or assisting residents with bathing, and rendering basic first aid and emergency care to residents when necessary. Ex. H. On June 5, 2014, Hines was injured while working, and filed a Workers' Compensation claim, which was approved. Ex. A. Hines's Workers' Compensation claim eventually expired, and he did not return to work following the injury. Ibid.

On May 22, 2015, Angela Santandrea, the Manager of Human Resources, notified Hines by letter that his leave of absence had exceeded one continuous year, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:6-1.1. Ibid. That letter also advised Hines that he had three possible options: (1) return to work, if medically possible, prior to June 9, 2015, with appropriate documentation from his physician; (2) apply for accidental disability retirement benefits from the Public Employees' Retirement System; or (3) resign effective June 9, 2015. Ibid. That letter further advised Hines that if Woodbine received no response by June 9, 2015, the appointing authority would pursue his removal. Ibid.

On August 19, 2015, Hines applied for an Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) accommodation of occasional lifting of no more than thirty-five pounds, and no push/pull greater than sixty-three pounds. Ex. B. These restrictions were outlined in his Functional Capacity Evaluation, dated June 17, 2015. Ibid. The job specification for a human services assistant states that "[p]ersons with mental or physical disabilities are eligible as long as they can perform essential functions of the job with or without reasonable accommodation. If the accommodation cannot be made because it would cause the employer undue hardship, such persons may not be eligible." Ex. H.

Gina M. Wasik, the ADA coordinator, informed Hines in a letter dated September 4, 2015, that Woodbine was unable to accommodate this request, "as it would result in the removal of an essential function of your position as Human Services Assistant." Ibid. Ms. Wasik advised Hines that due to the expiration of his one-year leave of absence, he was not eligible for any additional leave time. Ibid. Ms. Wasik further advised Hines that he might be eligible for accidental disability retirement benefits or, alternatively, could resign in good standing effective immediately. Ibid. Ms. Wasik instructed Hines that he had until September 14, 2015, to notify her of his decision, or he would be considered a resignation not in good standing. Ibid.

Subsequently, Hines applied for accidental disability retirement benefits, and was denied due to his failure to provide medical documentation. Ex. C. On June 13, 2016, Ms. Wasik advised Hines by letter that if he did not resign by June 24, 2016, the appointing authority would seek his removal as a resignation not in good standing. Ibid. On June 27, 2016, Hines was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action. Ex. D.

A departmental hearing was held on September 13, 2016, in which Woodbine recommended a resignation not in good standing. Ex. E.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Motions for summary decision shall be entered if no genuine issue of material fact exists and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party, in order to prevail, must, by responding affidavit, set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. Ibid. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered. Ibid.

In this case, it is undisputed that Hines's last day of work was June 5, 2014, and that Angela Santandrea advised Hines in the May 22, 2015, letter that he had three options: (1) return to work, (2) retire, or (3) resign. Ex. A. It is also undisputed that Hines failed to return to work or resign, and that his application for accidental disability retirement benefits was denied because he failed to supply supporting medical documentation. Ex. E. Indeed, the record confirms that Hines was instructed to provide medical documentation clearing him to return to work, and that he failed to do so. Moreover, Ms. Santandrea stated in the letter that "[i]in the event that our physician clears you to return to duty with limitations, the interactive process must be initiated to determine if an accommodation can be approved." Ibid.

Since Hines did not return to work, retire, resign, provide medical documentation clearing him to return to work, participate in the process to determine if his accommodation could be approved, or even participate in his appeal, I CONCLUDE that Hines has abandoned his job and that his position shall be recorded as resigned not in good standing under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(c).

ORDER

Given my findings of fact and conclusions of law, I ORDER that the motion for summary decision is hereby granted, and that Hines resigned not in good standing under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(c).

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." INITIAL DECISION
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2013-618

IN THE MATTER OF JASEN T. MITCHELL, BOROUGH OF WILDWOOD CREST
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Amie E. DiCola, Esquire, for appellant (Fusco & Macaluso Partners, L.L.C., attorneys)

Kyle D. Weinberg, Esquire, for respondent (Blaney and Karavan, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 3, 2018 Decided: May 15, 2018

BEFORE DEAN J. BUONO, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Borough of Wildwood Crest ("respondent") sustained a charge of "Resignation Not In Good Standing" in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2. The discipline stemmed from an allegation that appellant failed to report for training from June 4, 2012 through June 8, 2012, as a public safety telecommunicator without approval of his superior. He was considered to have abandoned his position. Appellant contends that he acted appropriately and did not abandon his position.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 11, 2012, respondent prepared and served appellant with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action because of his actions. A Final Notice of Disciplinary Action was issued on August 23, 2012, sustaining the charge and penalty. A timely appeal was filed and the matter was transmitted by the Civil Service Commission to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") as a contested case on September 20, 2012, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Hearings were held on March 10, 2014, February 12, 2016, April 20, 2016 and May 25, 2017. The matter was originally assigned to The Honorable Bruce M. Gorman, who retired from the bench and the matter was then reassigned to The Honorable W. Todd Miller, who was appointed to the Atlantic County Superior Court in 2016. The Honorable Edward T. Delanoy, Jr., Assignment Judge, sent correspondence to counsel on August 24, 2016, notifying them of the appointment of Judge Miller and requesting a telephone conference. A telephone conference was held on October 18, 2016, with counsel and Judge Delanoy to discuss how the parties wished to proceed. This matter was reassigned to the undersigned in late October 2016 and a final hearing was held on May 25, 2017. Post-hearing briefs were scheduled to be received by the parties on March 15, 2018. However, appellant's brief was received on April 2, 2018 and the record closed on that date.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Testimony

For Respondent

Kevin Yecco ("Yecco") was the Borough's administrator and clerk from 1986 through 2013. In his role as Borough administrator/clerk, part of his responsibility was dealing with employee and personnel matters. He was familiar with the circumstances surrounding this case and his office was responsible for insurance matters. He knew Mitchell was injured and would no longer be able to function in full capacity as an EMT. Yecco received documentation from Shore Orthopedic University Associates indicating Mitchell could return to work on modified duty and placed restrictions and limitations on his future assignments including, but not limited to: climbing stairs, running, jumping, ladder climbing, and squatting.

As a result, Yecco had a conversation with the Borough's Mayor, Carl Groon, and Chief of Police Thomas DePaul, about the possibility of appellant becoming a public safety telecommunicator ("dispatcher"), a position still in the Department of Public Safety, because appellant's limitations did not preclude him from completing the Civil Service Commission's job functions of a dispatcher. After conferring with both the Mayor and the chief of police, Yecco determined there was a position of employment available for appellant. The Borough had previously discussed creating a relief dispatcher position and believed appellant could fill schedule voids. The need to add a dispatcher was because of low retention rates and having to pay police officers overtime to fill the voids.

At the time, the exact title for appellant's new position could not be determined, it would either be as a public safety telecommunicator or public safety telecommunicator trainee, because Mitchell had to undergo training for the position. Thereafter, in April 2012, Yecco, the Chief of Police, and the Borough's chief financial officer, Neil Young, met with appellant to advise him that a dispatcher position would be made available, which would not conflict with his work restrictions as expressed by his doctors. Yecco indicated to Mitchell that he would be keeping the same salary he had while serving as an EMT, and would be made whole in all respects, including but not limited to, retaining all seniority rights and benefits afforded to him as an EMT. In fact, in his new position of dispatcher, Mitchell would receive more money than the already employed dispatchers at that point in time. During the above meeting, Yecco does not recall Mitchell ever indicating that he had concerns with attending training for the dispatcher position. However, Yecco recalled having a discussion with Mitchell about his hesitation with being able to fully understand the requirements of the dispatcher position. After appellant expressed his apprehensions, Yecco informed him that the Borough would find out exactly what his limitations were but the training would determine his ability to perform in one of the two capacities. Yecco was under the impression Mitchell voluntarily wanted to take the training.

Yecco testified the training for Mitchell was scheduled at the expense of the Borough for June 4 through June 8, 2012 and June 11 through June 14, 2012. Additionally, notice was provided to appellant of the training schedule. T1:26-14. Yecco acknowledge he received a letter on June 1, 2012 dated May 30, 2012, from appellant indicating he was pursuing an accidental disability retirement and would remain on sick leave until that time. Yecco wrote back to Mitchell on June 1, 2012 indicating that his disability request would not preclude him from serving as a dispatcher and he was ordered to appear for the training as required. Yecco added the Borough was making reasonable accommodations to appellant and there would be problems with his disability application because he was not totally and permanently incapacitated. Yecco reviewed the New Jersey Administrative Code with regard to Civil Service transfers and it was determined appellant's transfer would be considered lateral, which does not require the consent of appellant. The Borough never received anything from appellant or someone acting on his behalf objecting to the transfer.

Mitchell was scheduled to appear for training on June 4, 2012, but he did not appear. On the same date, Yecco stated the Borough received notification from the Borough police department that Mitchell was lugging heavy-duty sound equipment to and from the Borough's elementary school. This observation was later confirmed through video. Yecco indicated that from the time appellant received notice to appear at training he did not receive any notification from appellant that he would not be attending the training or that he was requesting an extended leave of absence. According to Yecco, Mitchell did not attend the training as instructed for a period of five (5) consecutive days without authorization to otherwise be absent, which constituted a resignation not in good standing. Thereafter, a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (31-A) was generated.

Aside from his employment with the Borough, Yecco stated Mitchell had his own landscaping business, a position with the Borough elementary school, and a Christmas light decorating business.

On cross-examination, Yecco explained his understanding of what a permanent/lateral transfer meant, that it was a transfer simply within one department and that the Administrative Code gives the Borough the right to make such a transfer without the consent of the employee. Mitchell was being moved to a public safety telecommunicator trainee on a permanent basis. Yecco acknowledged that under the Administrative Code a thirty-day notice requirement for a permanent transfer is needed and the permanent transfer needs to be approved by the Civil Service Commission. Yecco said in this case, Civil Service approval was not yet sought related to appellant's transfer because the Borough did not know the title for Mitchell until he completed his training. During Mitchell's training, Yecco indicated Mitchell would have remained in his Civil Service title of EMT, and paid as such, until the Borough could determine if he would be titled as a dispatcher or dispatcher trainee. At no time would he have lost Civil Service protection and his rights under the Administrative Code because his status was guaranteed.

Yecco stated that although Mitchell never signed an agreement with respect to the transfer to dispatcher, there was an oral agreement between the parties. As noted above, at the meeting between Yecco, chief of police, chief financial officer, and Mitchell, the job specifications of the dispatcher position and his salary were discussed. Yecco added that Mitchell was being paid a higher salary than other full-time dispatchers because the Borough was trying to maintain his employment. Yecco acknowledged that Mitchell had some misgivings about the dispatcher position, specifically, he was unsure if he could perform the duties of a dispatcher. However, Yecco stated had he not been able to fulfill his duties, Mitchell would have been placed in the position of dispatcher trainee and he would have had the opportunity to learn the position.

The position of relief dispatcher was created because of the void primarily in the Borough's dispatch department as well as to accommodate Mitchell. Yecco stated that Mitchell's experience as an EMT would be invaluable to his transfer to the position of dispatcher. Appellant had experience in dealing with calls as an EMT and handling the same, although Yecco did not know whether or not EMTs in the Borough ever used dispatching computer equipment.

Yecco reiterated he had a meeting with Mitchell on April 20, 2012. At the meeting, Mitchell was offered the position of dispatcher or dispatcher trainee. It was relayed to him that he would be made to suffer no loss of wages and he would be making the same amount of money working less hours, no loss in seniority. Prior to offering this position, Yecco did not recall the Borough having the position of relief dispatcher. After the meeting, Yecco believed Mitchell understood and accepted the conditions of the dispatcher position, including that he would be going to training. Yecco was not sure whether or not the training provided by the Borough to Mitchell was in compliance with N.J.A.C. 17:24-2.2. However, Yecco stated Mitchell made no requests for accommodations related to the training because of his mental or physical hardships or incapabilities. Although Mitchell stated he had some concerns with the training, he did not ask for further assistance or accommodations. Additionally, the Borough indicated to Mitchell the training would be provided and if there were issues, they would deal with them. Yecco testified the Borough determined sometime in March 2012 that appellant would be transferred once he had a declaration from his doctor that he was being released with limitations.

Yecco acknowledged he received Mitchell's letter dated May 30, 2012 indicating he was applying for disability pension. However, at the time of the April 20, 2012 meeting, Yecco understood that Mitchell was going to appear for the training and the Borough would schedule the same through the police department. In response to Mitchell's May 30, 2012 letter, Yecco sent a letter to Mitchell stating he was still required to attend the training because the Borough maintained that Mitchell and his doctor certified that he was not totally and permanently incapacitated. The assignment of dispatcher was a reasonable accommodation so that Mitchell could continue as a productive employee in the Borough through retirement. The Borough could not approve Mitchell's request for a pension or disability pension because he was not totally and permanently incapacitated.

Yecco was not aware that Mitchell filed for retirement in March of 2012 because the letters sent from the Division of Pension and Benefits would have been sent to the Borough's CFO, not Yecco. Yecco held the April 20, 2012, meeting based on the receipt of Mitchell's doctor's note indicating he had limitations, not because he was aware that he filed for retirement. Yecco was unaware of whether any police officer, EMS employee, or firefighter was working as a full-time scheduled dispatcher. However, Yecco felt Mitchell could do the job because it was in the same Department that he was currently situated and the duties of the two positions were related. Yecco had no knowledge as to what appellant's schedule would have been as a dispatcher.

Yecco felt Mitchell's disability pension claim was not a legitimate claim because he had three other jobs, all of which involved lifting heaving lighting and sound equipment. In fact, on the day he was supposed to report to training, appellant was at the elementary school doing just that. Additionally, Yecco personally observed Mitchell moving heavy-duty sound equipment at a park and was provided photographic evidence that Mitchell was operating a lawn mower on September 12, 2012, well after he was deemed to be permanently restricted as to the type of work he could perform.

Neil Young ("Young") is the former chief financial officer ("CFO"), for the Borough of Wildwood Crest. Part of Young's duties were to review budgetary items. He would occasionally meet with the Borough's commissioners to review budgets. Young recalled having discussions with DePaul or Mayor Groon regarding excessive pay to the police officers to cover when dispatchers did not come in or when they did not have a relief dispatcher available. In fact, salary and wage line items were always on their minds. As a result, Young remembered discussing the possibility of adding a relief dispatcher to eliminate the use of police officers on overtime to cover dispatch duties.

Young had little involvement with Mitchell until he was on a workers' compensation case. At that time, the workers' compensation check would be sent to Young, and in turn he would give it to Mitchell. Aside from his role as Borough CFO, Young served as the Borough's certifying officer for pension reasons. As far as pensions, Young recalls receiving documentation from the Division of Pensions with regard to Mitchell and sending records/letters back and forth. Young acknowledged he received a letter from the Division of Pensions dated April 10, 2012, asking if there was a job available for the Mitchell. As to whether there was a position available for Mitchell, Young would not have determined that, rather the Borough administrator would make that decision. After it was determined if a job was available, Young's response to the pension board would be based upon the Borough administrator's determination.

Young sent a letter dated May 1, 2012 to the Division of Pension and Benefits. (T1:161-10.) In said letter, Young stated he was unable to complete the pension forms because Mitchell was not totally and permanently disabled. His understanding of the law was that an applicant must be permanently and totally disabled to receive a disability retirement; Mitchell was not. The letter stated that Young was notifying the Division that a reasonable accommodation had been made and that a job was offered and subsequently accepted by Mitchell. This representation was based upon a meeting Young had with Mitchell, Yecco, DePaul and Mr. Hawthorne.

According to Young, Yecco presented Mitchell with the offer to become a dispatcher. Mitchell had some concerns about a learning disability and that he may not be able to complete the training. However, at the end of the meeting, Young assumed all parties were on board with the assignment. Young thought Mitchell was going to take the position as dispatcher and would attend the training. Additionally, the Borough paid for the training. Young testified that also at the meeting, Mitchell was informed that he would keep the same salary as he had as an EMT, the same benefits, and the same seniority. Young added Yecco told Mitchell the Borough would do everything in its capacity to help him make it through the training. Mitchell did not attend training.

On cross-examination, Young reviewed letters and determined appellant applied for his pension before May 1, 2012. The reason it took the Borough some time to respond to the Division of Pension and Benefits letter of March 2012 was because the Borough disagreed with Mitchell's application for disability retirement. Although there was no actual letter sent to Pensions until May, Young recalled being in communication with the Division throughout the process.

Young stated Yecco dealt with personnel matters, including making reasonable accommodations. Young had no involvement in title changes or position changes of employees, only salaries. (T2:182-7.) There were no adjustments to appellant's salary because he never showed up for work after the April 2012, meeting as he was out on paid personal leave until training was to begin on June 4, 2012.

Chief Thomas DePaul ("DePaul") is the Borough's former chief of police. Part of his duties included supervising the dispatchers and the rescue squad, both fell under the Department of Public Safety. Although the dispatchers were under his command, DePaul did not directly supervise the dispatchers, they were supervised by sergeants or medium level supervisors.

DePaul became involved when the Borough was attempting to find continued, suitable employment to accommodate Mitchell. After discussions with the Borough's administrator, DePaul made the determination that a position of dispatcher could be offered to him. DePaul stated during budgeting that he frequently had discussions with administration related to overtime payments to police officers for fill-in dispatcher duties. If he made Mitchell a dispatcher, it would have allowed the Borough to have a relief dispatcher on staff and eliminate the overtime payments to the police officers.

DePaul testified he first spoke to Mitchell about the position in March 2012. It was a short conversation and DePaul advised Mitchell they needed to sit down with the administrator with respect to the dispatcher position. During this first meeting, Mitchell did not indicate to DePaul that he did not want to consider the job being offered to him.

(T2:193-17.) Additionally, during the conversation, DePaul did not recall if Mitchell indicated he was going to submit his retirement papers. (T2:193-20.)

Thereafter a second meeting was held in April between DePaul, Yecco, Young and Mitchell. At the meeting, the individuals discussed the position of dispatcher for Mitchell, the time he had on the books, how the time would be utilized, seniority and the job duties. Mitchell's salary was to remain the same as the EMT job and he would maintain his seniority. In order to have the position of dispatcher, he would have to complete training just as any other dispatcher would; 911 training and EMD training. At the meeting, it was DePaul's understanding that Mitchell was going to be enrolled at training. DePaul stated that Mitchell was concerned whether or not he was able to complete the training, but DePaul compared the dispatcher position/training to the EMT job he already had and expressed to Mitchell the similarities between the two. DePaul believed the training for the EMT position is more difficult than the dispatcher training.

DePaul first learned that Mitchell was not going to attend the training on June 4, 2012; the first day he was scheduled to report. DePaul received a call from Borough Administrator Yecco advising him that Mitchell was down at the elementary school with DJ equipment. In response to the telephone call, DePaul viewed the video of the cameras from the elementary school which showed Mitchell coming in and out of the school on the day he was supposed to be at training. Mitchell never informed DePaul that he would not be at the training or that he intended to file for retirement.

DePaul was aware of Mitchell's additional businesses, including a landscaping business and a lighting business. DePaul had asked his officers that if anyone noticed Mitchell working a second job, that they document the same. As to the particular incident of August 17, 2012, DePaul personally saw Mitchell pushing a wheelbarrow working with mulch.

DePaul indicated that he did not know the extent of Mitchell's limitations but knew they included lifting. Additionally, had there been concerns about his ability to sit for extended periods of time; it would have been a non-issue because the Borough was in the process of redoing the dispatch center to include tables that allowed the employee to stand and work.

On cross-examination, DePaul recalled the April 20, 2013 meeting and the participants which included: Yecco, Young, Mitchell, and himself. DePaul did not recall if Hawthorne was present. Although DePaul could not remember if Mitchell used the exact words of "yes, I am accepting the position of dispatcher", DePaul recalls that was his understanding of what was being said. DePaul reassured Mitchell the Borough would get him the proper training and would work with him, as they all were experiencing a learning curve with this situation. It was never discussed that if Mitchell was not able to obtain the certification through training that he would be subject to termination. At all times relevant, DePaul stated that he did not know if Mitchell had notified anyone of his intentions to retire until after training had started.

Mayor Carl Groon was Mayor of Wildwood Crest for twelve years and in charge of the Department of Public Safety. Mitchell was initially hired as an EMT and had one prior discipline about lying about some issue on the job.

Mitchell was offered the job of Dispatcher but declined it and does not know why. "He was able to do the EMT job. . . even with his issues, he would have been able to be a dispatcher." Mitchell was offered the job because "it would have been a good fit" and "it was close to his then current salary as an EMT." Incidentally, his salary would have been higher than the rest of the dispatchers.

Two years later, the offer of the dispatcher position was open and, again, rejected by Mitchell. After that, they discussed the County dispatch system and the job was no longer opened (March 12, 2015) but instead a local dispatcher, not county dispatcher.

On cross-examination, Mayor Groon testified that Mitchell was not the reason that the Borough joined the County dispatch, in fact, it was a monetary issue with the 2 percent cap that the Governor imposed, coupled with the fact that a fifth dispatcher is not financially possible.

He confirmed that the offer to Mitchell of the dispatcher position was never put in writing. Mitchell as a dispatcher would have been "good" for Wildwood Crest, but he never took accepted the position and never showed up for training. In fact, Mitchell submitted a letter prior to training that said he would not be attending.

For Appellant

Jasen Mitchell, is currently thirty-seven years old and had been employed by Wildwood Crest as an EMT. He responded to emergencies and provided medical assistance. In 2003, he passed the EMT exam and started at Wildwood Crest soon after. Admittedly he had a hard time passing the test but spent eight years as a full-time EMT.

He recalled that in February 2010, he slipped on ice and fell while on a call as an EMT loading a patient and hurt his knee. He went to a workers' compensation doctor for two years before reaching maximum medical improvement. However, he was told that he was going to need knee surgery by the age of forty-seven.

After the two years, he applied for PERS accidental disability because the doctor said he could not perform the duties of an EMT. Sometime thereafter, he received a letter offering him the position of dispatcher (March 21, 2012; R-2). (R-6). At that time, Mitchell had a lot of questions, especially what would happen if he could not pass the test, or if he could not perform the duties of the job. He had concerns about performing the job duties because, by himself he was concerned about "doing 7 things at once" and the "high turnover rate."

He claims that he was told that if he received an accidental pension, it would cost the Borough "one to two million dollars" over the course of his life and if he had trouble with the job, the town would "cross that bridge" when they got to it. He noted that he never received anything in writing regarding training. Only orally was he noticed that he must go to training. (R-10). Mitchell thought he was being scammed and was uneasy about the job of dispatcher. Although the salary and seniority were the same, the raises were different and it made no sense to him because the "top out" salary for dispatcher was a little lower. He said he never accepted the position and said he would let them know.

There was clearly an "expectation" from Gecko that he would go to training. However, Mitchell never led them on that he was going to accept the job. In fact, his impression was that he was only offered the job because if he got a pension it would cost the City too much money.

When confronted with Exhibit R-34, Mitchell described that "this was what the Borough was supposed to fill out but did not." However, Mitchell received several letters from pensions that stated. (Exhibits R-8 through R-11.) When confronted with (R-13), Mitchell claimed that the letter came "after the fact" and was "late" on June 5, 2012 or June 6, 2012, and was in response to his May 30 letter and was clearly a rejection of his accidental pension application.

Mitchell testified that he did not go to training because he did not want to go and that he rejected the job to pursue his pension claim. He recalled that on June 4, 2012, the day of training, he was at school performing duties as a DJ for "Play Day" in the school. A detective did surveillance on him and used school video to do surveillance on him. (R-33).

There are allegations that he can perform the duties of the job and is not injured. However, appellant explained that he makes accommodations to get through the day. He is a DJ and owns a Christmas lighting company. He uses hand-trucks and has employees do the work. He noted that the Borough never restricted side-job participation.

He indicated that the PNDA lists for removal on June 11, but nothing after June 4, 2012 (day of training) that said removal. In fact, (R-1) indicates that he failed to show up for work for five consecutive days, from June 4, 2012 through June 8, 2012.

Lastly, he noted that the sedentary nature of the job is also a problem because his knee bothers him when sitting for a long period of time. Also, the fact that the Borough has not brought on a fifth dispatcher is a problem because when there are money problems the people who get fired first are the ones not needed.

On cross-examination, Mitchell testified that he had a diagnosis of a disease similar to dyslexia but was not sure what it was and did not disclose it in his application to Wildwood Crest where it asks for his disability. His application enclosed twenty certificates that he performed fine but he was still worried about not passing the dispatcher test because he thought he would be fired. Again, he was told "we would cross that bridge when we cross it." (R-37).

When he decided to pursue the disability, he claimed that a dispatcher is more complicated and "harder." "An EMT has one job, a dispatcher has as many as five." He claims that Yecco threatened that he would not get a pension. Mitchell claimed that he corresponded to the Borough that he was not attending the training. (R-12). However, the letter is not indicative of that fact.

He still has the DJ and tree lighting business. Fortunately, now as a DJ he has six trailers and the Christmas lighting is "not a small business." He has employees for every business and does not really have to be involved.

Mitchell Hawthorne was formerly employed by Wildwood Crest as a lieutenant in the police department.

He alleges that he talked to Mitchell in March 2012, about putting in papers for disability for the injury that he sustained. He recalled a meeting where Mitchell expressed concerns about what the dispatcher job entailed and whether or not an EMT and dispatcher were similar.

He recalled that he was ordered by DePaul to issue a letter and scheduled training for Mitchell. So, he did it. He was never "ordered to cancel training" and the Borough still paid for it. (R-10). On June 4, DePaul told him to check the school security cameras and observe Mitchell around the school. He made the recordings as ordered and gave them to the Chief. He remembered that Mrs. Yecco was the one who called the Chief and reported Mitchell at the school on June 14.

There was an indication that there was a "Brady Letter" issued by prosecutor Robert Taylor regarding Michael Hawthorne. The letter noted that Hawthorne is "deceitful and demonstrated dishonesty and lacks integrity." Hawthorne noted that Taylor was the "Judge, Jury and Executioner of Michael Hawthorne." He thinks it is "hogwash" and would never not tell the truth.

On cross-examination, Hawthorne testified that the letter says he is "deceitful and demonstrated dishonesty and lacks integrity." Also, Mitchell never asked for a Union representative, wife, or witness at the meeting, contrary to what Mitchell said.

He was ordered by DePaul to photograph Mitchell if he saw him when not working as an EMT. He saw him using a "stand on and steer" lawn mower. Also, he was asked to be a soccer coach on July 16, 2013. He said the Chief asked him to move one of the school cameras so that it would cover the soccer field. He took photo R-33, because he was following up on DePaul's request (September 10, 2012 lawn mower photo).

Findings Of Fact

For testimony to be believed, it must not only come from the mouth of a credible witness, but it also must be credible in itself. It must elicit evidence that is from such common experience and observation that it can be approved as proper under the circumstances. See Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954); Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1 (App. Div. 1961). A credibility determination requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Also, "'[t]he interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After hearing the testimony and reviewing the evidence, I FIND as FACT that Mitchell was injured on the job when employed as an EMT while loading a patient. I FURTHER FIND as FACT, that as a reasonable accommodation, Mitchell was offered a position as dispatcher. I FURTHER FIND as FACT that Mitchell was ordered to attend training as dispatcher and failed to do so.

Interestingly, the underlying facts in this case are somewhat uncontested. In that I mean, all the witnesses testified that Mitchell was injured and offered the job of a dispatcher. However, the divergence is explanations on how it was offered and why he failed to show for the training. It is this explanation where Mitchell lacks credibility. The testimony of appellant's witnesses was especially credible and persuasive. Their testimony, as a whole, was more convincing and explained the logical facts without embellishing or piling on.

Conversely, Mitchell's testimony was not credible in terms of his factual recitation of the cases nor with the manner in which it was given. His own testimony assisted the respondent in proving the facts of the case by a preponderance of the evidence. Mitchell simply was not credible, he was evasive and condescending in the tone of his testimony as well as sarcastic. He claims that he was bullied by the Borough in taking the dispatcher job but just wanted to be out on disability. However, it was the conspiracy theory he attempted to portray against him that fell short on believability.

It was obvious that Mitchell attempted to "sell" his version of the facts to the undersigned. His recitation and demonstration of the contact with the Borough officials was not credible nor true.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The New Jersey Civil Service Law protects classified employees from arbitrary dismissal and other onerous sanctions. Prosecutor's Detectives and Investigators Ass'n v. Hudson County Bd. of Freeholders, 130 N.J. Super. 30, 41 (App. Div. 1974); Scancarella v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 24 N.J. Super. 65, 70 (App. Div. 1952). The law provides relief to civil service employees from public employers who may attempt to deprive them of their rights. Prosecutor's, 130 N.J. Super. at 41. To this end, the law is liberally construed. Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). Consistent with this policy of civil service law, there is a requirement that in order for a public employee to be fined, suspended or removed, the employer must show just cause for its proposed action. The law provides that the duty is to ensure the reasons supporting disciplinary action are sufficient and not arbitrary, frivolous, or "likely to subvert the basic aim of the civil service program." Prosecutor's, 130 N.J. Super. at 42 (quoting Kennedy v. Newark, 178 N.J. 190 (1959)).

Public employees' rights and duties are governed and protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to 12-6, and the regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, N.J.A.C. 4A:1-1.1 to 4A:2-6.2. However, public employees may be disciplined for a variety of offenses involving their employment, including the general causes for discipline as set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). An appointing authority may discipline an employee for sufficient cause, including failure to obey laws, rules and regulations of the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(11). If sufficient cause is established, then a determination must be made on what is a reasonable penalty. In attempting to determine if a penalty is reasonable, the employee's past record may be reviewed for guidance in determining the appropriate penalty for the current specific offense. The concept of progressive disciplinary action is described in Bock, 38 N.J. at 519. In Bock, the officer had received a thirty-day suspension and seventeen minor disciplinary actions during eight years of service. The prior disciplinary actions and the suspension of thirty days were strongly considered in determining if the thirty-day suspension was warranted. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his duties may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b), 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.3(a). Depending upon the incident complained of and the employee's past record, major discipline may include suspension, removal, etc. Bock, 38 N.J. at 522-24.

In disciplinary cases, the appointing authority has both the burden of persuasion and production and must demonstrate by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that it had just cause to discipline the officer and lodge the charges. See Coleman v. E. Jersey State Prison, CSV 1571-03, Initial Decision (February 25, 2004), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (citations omitted); see also N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Super. 454, 458 (App. Div. 1971); N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a) (2), -21; N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1, "burden of proof"; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4. A preponderance of evidence has been defined as that which "generates belief that the tendered hypothesis is in all human likelihood the fact." Martinez v. Jersey City Police Dep't., CSV 7553-02, Initial Decision (October 27, 2003), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/ (quoting Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J. Super. 93, 104 (App. Div. 1959)).

The rule governing resignation not in good standing is found at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b). It provides:

> Any employee who is absent from duty for five or more consecutive business days without the approval of his or her superior shall be considered to have abandoned his or her position and shall be recorded as a resignation not in good standing. Approval of the absence shall not be unreasonably denied.

The Civil Service Code also provides "the appointing authority or the Board may modify the resignation not in good standing to an appropriate penalty or to a resignation in good standing," Cumberland County Welfare Board v. Jordan, 81 N.J. Super. 406 (1963). Although the record may clearly establish that an appellant was absent without authorization in excess of five consecutive business days, if the appellant was unable to work due to medical reasons (no evidence was presented on this issue), a resignation not in good standing should be modified to a resignation in good standing. Sykes v. New Jersey Judiciary, Middlesex Vicinage, CSV 4461-04, Initial Decision (July 12, 2005), adopted, Comm'r (September 23, 2005), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/csv4461-04.pdf>; Taylor v. New Lisbon Medical Center, CSV 2842-05, Initial Decision (December 9, 2005), adopted, Comm'r (January 18, 2006), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/csv2842-05.pdf>; Salley v. Hudson County Dep't of Roads and Public Property, CSV 11813-09, Initial Decision (January 4, 2011), adopted, Comm'r (February 18, 2011), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/csv11813-09.pdf>. The validity of modifying a resignation not in good standing has been settled law in this New Jersey for some time. See Weil v. Atl. County Dep't of Public Safety, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 413, 418; McLaughlin v. N.J. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 137 N.J. Law 338 (Sup. Ct. 1948), aff'd, 1 N.J. 284 (1949); Griffin v. City of Jersey City, 4 N.J. Super. 81 (App. Div. 1949).

Here, there is no dispute that appellant had medical issues that precluded him from performing the duties of an EMT. There also is no dispute factually that Mitchell was offered a job as a dispatcher, was scheduled to appear for training and failed to appear for the training without notice to the Borough. Respondent argues that Mitchell is seeking relief by asserting he filed his paperwork seeking a disability pension and, unfortunately, his application for a disability pension does not excuse his failure to appear at training without notice under either the law or equity. I agree.

The Borough of Wildwood Crest is a Civil Service municipality and is, therefore, governed by the Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1, et seq. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed towards attainment of merit appointment and broad tenure protection. Moore v. Central Transp. New Jersey Dept. of Corrections, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) (N.J.Admin.), 1992 WL 240328 (citing Essex Cty. No. 1, N.J. Civ. Serv. Assoc. v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576, 580-581 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972). The Act recognizes the public policy of this State that an appointment authority must not be saddled with an employee who is "absent from duty for five or more consecutive business days without the approval of his or her superior shall be considered to have abandoned his or her position and shall be recorded as a resignation not in good standing." Id.; see also N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2.

Here, appellant admits he did not attend the dispatcher training sessions on June 4, 2012 through June 8, 2012. At that time, he was still an employee of the Borough and would have been compensated as such, had he appeared for training. Mitchell argues that he was unaware the training was required because he was not going to accept his accommodation to the position of dispatcher and instead would continue his claim for a disability pension. It is argued that his application for a disability did not act as a resignation of his employment. Respondent argues that he cannot "have his cake and eat it too." "Had appellant simply filed a disability pension application and resigned from his position as an EMT using proper procedures, we would not be in this Court." I agree.

Factually, by his own admission, after filing a disability pension application in March 2012, Mitchell continued to meet with Borough administration and explore reasonable accommodations that would allow him to continue his employment with the Borough. This led to the Borough offering him dispatcher training with the ultimate intent of a lateral transfer to public safety telecommunicator or trainee with the same pay and status. He never rejected this proposed accommodation, allowing the Borough to make arrangements for training and appellant's future employment.

Respondent's counsel correctly argues that Mitchell's indecisiveness in accepting or rejecting a reasonable accommodation resulted in an expense to the Borough when he failed to show for training. As expressed through the testimony of Yecco, appellant's claim that his filing of a disability pension application somehow altered his position with the Borough is without merit. Respondent further correctly argues that, in order to collect as an employee in the Public Employees' Retirement System ("PERS"), said employee must be permanently and totally disabled from participating in work their employer has available. Kelly v. Board of Trustees, Public Employees' Retirement System, 2017 WL 1548705 (App. Div. 2017), (citing Bueno v. Bd. of Trs., Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund, 404 N.J. Super. 119, 130-31 (App. Div. 2008) (finding in order to establish entitlement to ordinary benefits, an applicant must establish an incapacity to perform duties in the general area of their regular employment, rather than merely showing an inability to perform his or her specific job). By contrast, a public safety employee under the Police and Firemen's Retirement System ("PFRS"), may collect a disability pension and continue working in a non-police and fire related position. See State of New Jersey Division of Pensions and Benefits Fact Sheet #86, Post-Retirement Employment Restrictions. Because of this distinction, appellant's argument that his application for a disability pension somehow impacts his obligations to the Borough, under the circumstances, is not appropriate because he was not permanently and totally disabled and could complete the duties which the Borough was attempting to assign. Bueno at 131 (finding an applicant is not entitled to benefits by merely "establishing incapacity to performing duties in the general area of their employment," but rather the applicant must demonstrate physical inability to perform substantially different duties or produce evidence of general physical unemployability).

Respondent argues correctly that it was obvious that Mitchell sought to keep the Borough and the potential dispatcher position in limbo while proceeding with his disability application. The determination as to whether or not there is a reasonable accommodation for his disabilities must pre-date a determination on a PERS disability application because the application cannot be processed until a determination on whether a reasonable accommodation was necessary. Mitchell would have had to resign from his position as EMT or be terminated for inability to perform duties. That is not the case here.

Under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b), five or more consecutive days absence without approval of an employee's supervisor is regarded as abandonment of the position and deemed a resignation not in good standing. In the current instance, Mitchell did not return to work for training.

"There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job." State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Perth Amboy v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at this de novo hearing are whether Kinion is guilty of the charge brought against her and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, that should be imposed. See Henry, 81 N.J. 571; Bock, 38 N.J. 500. In this matter, the City bears the burden of proving the charges against Kinion by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Suero, CSV 5039-04, Final Decision (June 22, 2005), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

There is no debate that Mitchell failed to report to work for training, or that he failed to contact anyone to advise them. Mitchell's attempts to cloud the issue by arguing that he was confused, did not understand, and was unaware of the training is not persuasive.

The record establishes that Mitchell had the duty to appear for training. Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Borough has met its burden of proving by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that Mitchell was absent from training duty for five or more consecutive business days without approval of his supervisor. It is within the discretion of an appointing authority as to whether a request for a leave of absence should or should not be granted. See Smith v. College of New Jersey, CSV 977-98, Final Decision (October 14, 1998), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the Borough did not grant Mitchell any leave of absence from the training. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Mitchell's absence from training effectuated a resignation not in good standing. Mitchell is charged with resigning from his position, not in good standing, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b). Based upon the above findings, I CONCLUDE that Mitchell has resigned from his position not in good standing effective June 1, 2012.

In an appeal, from a major disciplinary action, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority to show that the action taken was justified. N.J.A.C. 11A:2-21, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). This burden requires the appointing authority to establish by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence that the employee is guilty of the stated offenses. Atkinson, 37 N.J. 143; Polk, 90 N.J. 550. Here, the respondent charges the appellant with resignation not in good standing.

Based on testimonial and documentary evidence presented, in regard to charges creating violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a), I CONCLUDE that the Civil Service Rule N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b), resignation not in good standing, if an employee is absent from duty for five or more consecutive business days, or has not returned to work for five or more business days following an approved leave of absence, without the approval of his superior, he shall be considered to have abandoned his position and shall be recorded as a resignation not in good standing. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.2(b)(c). In the instant matter, appellant was absent for more than five consecutive days without a supervisor's approval. Respondent has proven that Mitchell abandoned his employment by failing to attend training. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the penalty of a resignation not in good standing on the charges as set forth herein, is reasonable and warranted and the charge should be upheld.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Jasen T. Mitchell is hereby deemed to have RESIGNED from his position not in good standing, effective June 1, 2012.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Michael Polizzi, City of Passaic, Department of Public Safety

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 07694-16

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JUNE 22, 2018 BW

The appeal of Michael Polizzi, Fire Fighter, City of Passaic, Department of Public Safety, 44 working day suspension (24-hour days), on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Richard McGill, who rendered his initial decision on April 24, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appointing authority and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on June 20, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision to modify the 44 working day suspension (24-hour days) to a 32 working day suspension (24-hour days).

Since the penalty has been modified, the appellant is entitled to 12 working days (24-hour days) of back pay, benefits, and seniority, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. However, the appellant is not entitled to counsel fees. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), the award of counsel fees is appropriate only where an employee has prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues in an appeal of a major disciplinary action. The primary issue in any disciplinary appeal is the merits of the charges, not whether the penalty imposed was appropriate. See Johnny Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 128 (App. Div. 1995); James L. Smith v. Department of Personnel, Docket No. A-1489-02T2 (App. Div. March 18, 2004); In the Matter of Robert Dean (MSB, decided January 12, 1993); In the Matter of Ralph Cozzino (MSB, decided September 21, 1989). In the case at hand, although the penalty was modified by the Commission, charges were sustained and major discipline was imposed. Thus, the appellant has not prevailed on all or substantially all of the primary issues of the appeal. Consequently, as the appellant has failed to meet the standard set forth at N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12(a), counsel fees must be denied.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in disciplining the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore modifies the 44 working day (24-hour) suspension to a 32 (24-hour day) working day suspension. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted 12 working days (24-hour days) of back pay, benefits, and seniority. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay.

Counsel fees are denied pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter should be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 07694-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2016-3805

IN THE MATTER OF MICHAEL POLIZZI, CITY OF PASSAIC DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Colin M. Lynch, Esq., for appellant Michael Polizzi (Zazzali, Fagella, Nowak, Kleinbaum & Friedman, attorneys)

Philip G. George, Esq., for respondent City of Passaic Department of Public Safety

Record Closed: April 16, 2018 Decided: April 24, 2018

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

Michael Polizzi ("appellant") appeals from a 144-day suspension on charges from the position of Firefighter with the City of Passaic Department of Public Safety ("respondent").[1] The charges against appellant are chronic and excessive absenteeism, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty and other sufficient cause in the form of violation of departmental rules and regulations. The specification states that appellant was late for his shift on January 9, 2016, and he failed to report his tardiness to his Battalion Chief.

[1] 144 eight-hour days are equivalent to 44 24-hour days or approximately six months.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Respondent notified appellant of the charges by Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action dated January 13, 2016. Thereafter, respondent informed appellant by Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 6, 2016, that the charges were sustained and that the disciplinary action was a suspension for a period of 144 eight-hour working days.

Appellant requested a hearing on April 21, 2016, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on May 23, 2016, for determination as a contested case. Hearings were conducted on January 29 and 30, 2018, at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey, and the record closed on April 16, 2018, upon receipt of written summations.

ISSUES

The issues in this proceeding are whether the charges should be sustained and, if so, whether the disciplinary action imposed by respondent is warranted. Appellant's main contention is that the suspension for a period of 144 working days is excessive.

FACTS

Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND as follows. Appellant has been employed by respondent for nine years as a Firefighter. On January 9, 2016, appellant was scheduled to work a 24-hour shift beginning at 8:00 a.m. Appellant's daughter, who was just under two years old, was seen by a doctor on January 5 and 7, 2016, and was diagnosed with a double ear infection, clinical pneumonia and an exacerbation of her asthma. As a result, appellant's daughter missed school from January 4 to January 8, 2016, and she was in a hospital emergency room from late January 6, 2016, to early January 7, 2016. Appellant was awake until approximately 5:00 a.m. on January 9, 2016.

Prior to 8:00 a.m. on January 9, 2016, there was a fire in a three-story house in Passaic. Appellant usually arrived before 7:30 a.m. for a shift to begin at 8:00 a.m. When appellant had not arrived by 7:30 a.m., Lt. Stephen Mastroberte called appellant on the phone to find out where he was. Appellant had fallen asleep, and the telephone call woke him up. Appellant said that he would call his Battalion Chief and come to work as soon as possible. Lt. Mastroberte said that he would notify the Battalion Chief, and appellant arrived at work at 8:30 a.m.

At the time, appellant was assigned to Engine 4 at the West Side Fire Department. By the time appellant got to work, Engine 4 had responded to the fire alarm shorthanded.

The Manual of Rules and Regulations of the Passaic Fire Department states in part as follows:

> SECTION 10 Tours of duty for both Superior Officers and members shall be in accordance with the prescribed department's working schedule. All members of the department shall report to their respective company or units no later than ten (10) minutes before their prescribed time. Temporary changes to such prescribed departmental tours of duty either for Officers or members shall be made only by permission of the Chief of the Department.
>
> . . . .
>
> SECTION 94 Members shall not absent themselves from quarters, fires, or any assignment without permission of the Officer in command.
>
> . . . .
>
> SECTION 97 Members shall not do anything which may bring discredit to the department.

Respondent's Employee Handbook states in pertinent part as follows:

Causes for discipline include, but are not limited to the following:

. . . .

- Failure to report to work the day or days prior to or following a vacation, holiday and/or leave, and/or any other unauthorized day of absence.

. . . .

- Unauthorized absence from work area, and/or roaming or loitering on the premises during scheduled work hours.

. . . .

- Conduct unbecoming a public employee.

On February 15, 2011, appellant was given a written warning, because equipment was in poor condition when it should be inspected and operational. On October 9, 2012, appellant was given a written reprimand for chronic and excessive absenteeism or lateness, because he was late for duty on October 1 and 5, 2012. On May 20, 2013, appellant was given a written reprimand, because he was late for work on May 17, 2013. On March 12, 2015, appellant was counseled in regard to procedure of calling available after being on sick leave because he had not called to report that he was available for duty. On August 27, 2017, appellant was given a 45.5-day suspension, because he was asleep while on duty and did not respond to three separate announcements with the result that he was left at the Fire Station while other Firefighters responded to the call.

On June 18, 2015, appellant was diagnosed with severe obstructive sleep apnea - hyponea syndrome. The recommendation was use of a CPAP machine nightly with heated humidification. On August 11, 2015, appellant had a fitness for duty evaluation. The determination was that appellant could perform the essential duties of his job as a Firefighter contingent upon his ability to use the CPAP machine during the time that he sleeps while at work.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

An appointing authority may discipline an employee for chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a). The appointing authority's action is subject to review by the Civil Service Commission, which after a de novo hearing makes an independent determination as to both the charge and the penalty. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 519 (1962). In an appeal concerning a major disciplinary action, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The appointing authority must prove its case by a fair preponderance of the believable evidence. In re Polk License Revocation, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); In re Darcy, 114 N.J. Super. 454, 458 (App. Div. 1971).

The first charge against appellant is chronic and excessive absenteeism, which is interpreted to include lateness. The importance of a firefighter being present for his shift is apparent, and the fire in this matter underscores the point. Appellant was previously disciplined for lateness on October 1 and 5, 2012, and May 17, 2013. Appellant was late again on January 9, 2016. Under the circumstances, the charge of chronic lateness must be sustained. This lateness also violates Sections 10 and 94 of respondent's Rules and Regulations.

The second charge against appellant is conduct unbecoming a public employee. "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a government unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also, In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). A finding of misconduct need not "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v.

Police Dept. of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dept. of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955).

Here, appellant was scheduled to be on duty for a shift beginning at 8:00 a.m. on January 9, 2016. Appellant was not present when the other firefighters on his shift had to respond to a fire shorthanded. It seems evident that this situation would tend to undermine morale and public confidence in the Fire Department. Appellant's conduct fell short of the implicit standard of good behavior for a public employee. Therefore, the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee must be sustained.

Another charge against appellant is neglect of duty. Here, appellant was not present for his beginning of his assigned shift. Therefore, the charge of neglect of duty must be sustained. Section 93 of respondent's Rules and Regulations also prohibits neglect of duty.

The final charge against appellant is violation of departmental Rules and Regulations. Based upon the prior discussion, appellant's tardiness violated Sections 10, 93 and 94 of respondent's Rules and Regulations. It follows that this charge must be sustained.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that the following charges must be sustained: (1) chronic or excessive lateness; (2) conduct unbecoming a public employee; (3) neglect of duty; and (4) violation of the above-mentioned departmental Rules and Regulations.

Disciplinary Action

The factors to consider with respect to the disciplinary action are the nature of the charges sustained and appellant's past record. West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-24. Progressive discipline is a recognized and accepted principle in choosing the appropriate disciplinary action. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007).

In the context of a fire department, lateness can have serious consequences as demonstrated by the facts in this case. In addition, appellant's past record contains five disciplinary actions including a suspension for the equivalent of two and a half months. On the other hand, the record in this proceeding indicates that appellant's lateness on January 9, 2016, was only the fourth in his nine-year career. Further, there were mitigating circumstances in that appellant was awake until 5:00 a.m. on January 9, 2016, caring for his sick daughter.

Based on progressive discipline, the suspension in this matter should be longer than the previous suspension for two and a half months. Balancing the various considerations in this matter, I CONCLUDE that the disciplinary action in this matter should be a suspension for a period of four months.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The charge of chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness be sustained.
2. The charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee be sustained.
3. The charge of neglect of duty be sustained.
4. The charge of violation of departmental Rules and Regulations be sustained.
5. The disciplinary action in this matter shall be a suspension for a period of ninety-six eight-hour working days, which would be equivalent to a four-month suspension.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

In the Matter of Mariela Rivera Essex County, Department of Corrections

CSR DKT. NO. 2018-1777
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 00265-18

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JUNE 22, 2018 BW

The appeal of Mariela Rivera, County Correction Officer, Essex County, Department of Corrections, removal effective January 4, 2018, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Ellen S. Bass, who rendered her initial decision on May 24, 2018 reversing the removal. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on June 20, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the removal has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from December 18, 2017 to the actual date of reinstatement. See N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Additionally, the appellant is entitled to reasonable counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Public Safety, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay or counsel fees are finally resolved. In the interim, as the court states in Phillips, supra, if it has not already done so, upon receipt of this decision, the appointing authority shall immediately reinstate the appellant to her permanent position.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Mariela Rivera. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted back pay, benefits, and seniority from December 18, 2017 to the actual date of reinstatement. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned and an affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay and counsel fees. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed pending resolution of any potential back pay or counsel fee dispute.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay and counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

OAL DKT.NO. CSR 00265-18
AGENCY DKT. NO. N/A

IN THE MATTER OF MARIELA RIVERA, ESSEX COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

Nicholas Palma, Esq., for Appellant

Jill Caffrey, Assistant County Counsel, for Respondent (Courtney Gaccione, Essex County Counsel, attorney)

Record Closed: May 23, 2018 Decided: May 24, 2018

BEFORE ELLEN S. BASS, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Mariela Rivera, a Corrections Officer formerly employed by the Essex County Department of Corrections (the County), appeals the termination of her employment. The County charged Rivera with conduct unbecoming an employee after she was criminally charged with harboring a criminal. Rivera denies that she engaged in criminal activity; the charges against her were dismissed after she successfully completed a Pretrial Diversion Program.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 4, 2016, Rivera was indefinitely suspended, per a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) issued on February 25, 2016. That suspension came in the aftermath of a criminal complaint filed against her, and was imposed pending disposition of the criminal charges. The criminal charges were filed on September 24, 2015, and were dismissed on December 18, 2017, after Rivera successfully completed six months of a Pretrial Diversion Program, per an agreement she reached with the U.S. Attorney's Office dated May 17, 2017.

Rivera was still on an unpaid suspension, when, on September 12, 2017, the County again served her with a PNDA in which it sought her removal. The specifications provided as follows:

> On August 30, 2017, it was learned that Employee, a Corrections Officer at the Essex County Correctional Facility, entered into an Agreement for Pretrial Diversion on May 15, 2017. Previously this employee was arrested and charged with United District Court Criminal Complaint Mag. No 15-8033 dated September 24, 2015 for violating Title 18, United States Code, Section 1071 and Section 2.
>
> Specifically, the employee was charged with knowingly and intentionally harboring and concealing Omar Serrano, a person for whose arrest a warrant and process had been issued under the provision of a law of the United States, so as to prevent the discovery and arrest of Omar Serrano, after notice and knowledge of the fact that a warrant and process had been issued for the apprehension of Omar Serrano, and which warrant had been issued on a felony charge.
>
> As a result of the violations set forth above, employee's conduct rises to the level of Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee and therefore the employee's continued suspension and ultimate removal are necessary to maintain the safety, health, order and/or effective operation of the Department of Corrections.

Following a Departmental hearing conducted on November 20, 2017, the County served Rivera with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) dated December 4, 2017, sustaining charges of conduct unbecoming a public employee, and other sufficient cause, and removing Rivera from her position of employment effective January 4, 2016.[1]

Rivera filed an appeal with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 26, 2017. At a prehearing conference conducted via telephone on January 22, 2018, counsel for the County asked that the matter not be scheduled until May 2018, to accommodate the schedule of the assigned attorney who was on a leave of absence. Counsel for Rivera consented to May 9, 2018, as a hearing date, and moreover agreed to toll the 180-day requirements of N.J.S.A. 40A:14-201(a). See also: N.J.S.A. 40A: 14-201b.

The hearing was conducted on May 8, 2018. At the request of counsel, post-hearing written submissions were filed on May 9 and 22, and 23, 2018, at which time the record closed. As this decision was issued on May 24, 2018, and in light of appellant's waiver, forty-four days have elapsed from filing to decision.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Rivera had been employed by the County since 2006 when, on September 24, 2015, a criminal complaint was filed against her. The complaint alleged that she knowingly and intentionally harbored and concealed Omar Serrano, a person for whose arrest a warrant and process had been issued. At the time, Serrano was Rivera's husband. A narrative that accompanies the criminal complaint states that, on the morning in question, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) agents arrived at a two-family home in Newark, New Jersey to execute an arrest warrant for Serrano. The author of the narrative, Paulo Oliveria, indicates that law enforcement knocked on the front door for some fifteen minutes; and during that time, and after peering out the window, Rivera advised her husband to go to a separate upstairs apartment, and only then opened the door to her residence. The FBI agents duly identified themselves, but Rivera advised that she did not know where to locate Serrano, and that she had not seen him for several days. After conducting a search of her apartment, and concluding that Serrano was not there, the officers proceeded to the upstairs apartment. They ultimately entered the apartment forcibly, and found Serrano there with an elderly female. According to Oliveria, Rivera subsequently supplied a video-recorded statement admitting that Serrano had been at her apartment that morning and that she had assisted Serrano in attempting to elude arrest by hiding him upstairs.

[1] The removal was retroactive to the date of the suspension without pay.

Oliveria's statement was accepted into evidence, because hearsay is admissible in administrative proceedings. However, in accordance with the "residuum rule," a factual finding cannot be based on hearsay alone. Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36 (1972). As the Weston court stated:

> Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal competent evidence in the record to support it.
> [Id. at 51]

The Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules are in accord, and require that "some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness." N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(b). Hearsay evidence must be accorded the weight deemed appropriate when the nature, scope and character of the evidence, together with the circumstances of its creation and production, are taken into account. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5(a).

No competent evidence was offered to corroborate Oliveria's version of the events; nor was the recorded statement to which he refers offered into evidence. A representative of the County, Sergeant Joseph Regateiro, readily admitted that he had no personal knowledge regarding the events that led to Rivera's arrest. He based his recommendation for removal exclusively on the paperwork available, to include the criminal complaint and the Pretrial Diversion Agreement. The only witness with first-hand knowledge of the events of September 2015 was Rivera herself. And she told a very different story.

Rivera's testimony was entirely uncontroverted. I thus FIND that on September 24, 2015, at about 7:00 a.m., Rivera was at home in the master bedroom of her apartment, which was in the rear of the unit, and the furthest point from the front door. To access the apartment, which was part of a two-family house, a visitor would enter an outside front door, and then climb a few steps to the door to Rivera's residence. Another flight of stairs led to an upstairs apartment. Rivera was nursing her newborn baby, having given birth via cesarean section on September 4, 2015, a mere twenty days earlier. She has two small dogs. Although they are prone to barking, that morning their barking became incessant, and Rivera became concerned.

She got up, but moved slowly, because she was still recovering from surgery. Rivera dressed herself, gathered her baby, and proceeded to the front of the house. She saw people outside, but they were in plainclothes, and not readily identifiable as police officers. Rivera then heard the outer front door bell, and heard yelling; only when she opened her apartment's door did she realize that the people outside were shouting "FBI". She went to the outside front door, which was then opened by the officers with such force that she and her newborn were crushed between it and the wall. Her incision was reopened, and the baby was bruised. The officers asked for Serrano. Rivera indicated that he did not reside with her; that he lived upstairs with his mother.

Although the FBI agents presented no paperwork or warrants, she allowed them to search her apartment, and she told them her husband was upstairs. As the officers watched, Rivera texted Serrano, and advised that the police were looking for him. The FBI agents proceeded upstairs and apprehended Serrano. Rivera was not arrested or charged, but was asked to accompany the officers back to their office to supply a statement. She rode in the front of the car, and was not handcuffed. She was not told she was suspected of having committed a crime; the officers did not Mirandize her.

After giving a statement, and answering the questions asked of her, she thought the matter was over. Rivera was waiting for a ride home when the officers informed her that they would have to charge her with a crime.

Rivera adamantly denied that she harbored her husband in violation of law. She urged with credibility that she entered the Pretrial Diversion Program not because she admitted guilt, but because she wanted a speedy dismissal of the charges against her so she could return to work. Although the program can include a probationary period of as long as eighteen months, Rivera was required to participate for only six months, at which point the charges against her were dismissed. She has formally filed for divorce against Serrano.

The Pretrial Diversion Agreement confirmed that it was entered into by the parties after consideration of the nature of the offense and Rivera's background, and based on a determination that doing so would serve "the interests of the United States, [Rivera's] own interest and the interests of justice..." Moreover, and critically, the agreement expressly confirms that entry into Pretrial Diversion does not constitute an admission of guilt, as it states, "[a]ny statements made by [Rivera] in this Agreement will not be admissible on the issue of guilt in any subsequent proceeding."

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6, governs a public employee's rights and duties. The Act is designed to attract qualified personnel to public service and is liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965).

A Civil Service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be removed or subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing before an administrative law judge are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against her and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, to be imposed. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. N.Y. v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). The appointing authority bears the burden of proving its charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962).

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

I CONCLUDE that here, the County has failed to meet its burden of demonstrating that Rivera is guilty of conduct unbecoming a Corrections Officer. The specifications allege only that Rivera was arrested; a criminal complaint was filed against her; and the charges were dismissed after successful completion of a Pretrial Diversion Program. And these are the only facts that were presented by the County at the OAL hearing. The argument that an arrest alone, without more, rises to unbecoming conduct violates every notion of fundamental fairness, especially where the underlying conduct has been denied in unrebutted testimony. Indeed, Rivera herself offered the only legally competent evidence of what happened on September 24, 2015; she steadfastly maintained her innocence. [2] See: In re Rosado, CSR 16402-14, Initial Decision (July 19, 2016), deemed adopted, (September 19, 2016), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>.

[2] As we know, criminal charges must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt, and a lesser standard governs this proceeding before me. The County thus could have proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Rivera illegally harbored her husband, even if the charges were dismissed at the criminal proceeding, and even if the criminal proceeding resulted in an acquittal at trial. But, it did not do so; indeed, its proofs did not even address Rivera's underlying conduct.

The fact that the criminal matter was dismissed after Rivera participated in a Pretrial Diversion Program does not alter my conclusion. The agreement Rivera executed makes it plain that there was no determination as to guilt made or implied by that agreement. She credibly explained her reasoning for choosing diversion over a trial. I CONCLUDE that Rivera must be reinstated to her position of employment as a Corrections Officer.

The post-hearing submissions of the parties address the issue of Rivera's entitlement to back pay. Rivera's period of unpaid suspension has been a lengthy one, dating back to January 2016.[3] She was initially placed on an indeterminate period of suspension, pending the disposition of the criminal charges against her, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.7. That regulation permits a suspension to continue, if the employee enters a diversionary program, until completion of the probationary period stipulated by the diversionary program agreement. And the regulatory scheme moreover makes it clear that if the criminal charges are dismissed via a diversionary program, there is no back pay awarded. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(c)(1).[4] DelRossi v Department of Human Services, 256 N.J. Super. 286 (App. Div. 1992).

The County asserts that even if she is reinstated, Rivera is entitled to no back pay whatsoever. It overstates the limitations on Rivera's entitlement to relief. But, the County is correct, and I CONCLUDE that, for the period from January 2016, through the discharge of the criminal charges in December 2017, it is not obligated to make Rivera whole. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10(c)(1). As for the period from December 18, 2017, to date, I CONCLUDE that Rivera is entitled to back pay. In re Gauthier, Rockaway Twp., 2018 CSC LEXIS 125, is instructive. There, a police officer was suspended without pay pending successful completion of PTI. He thereafter received back pay, covering the period between his completion of the intervention program and his reinstatement. But,

[3] In her post hearing submission, Rivera asks for back pay during the period from October 25, 2015, through January 4, 2016. But, that suspension came in the aftermath of an earlier disciplinary action, which was amicably resolved with an agreement to reinstate Rivera as of October 25, 2015. But, that earlier Civil Service appeal and any issues pertaining to it, are not before me.

[4] The regulation references Pre-Trial Intervention (PTI), the New Jersey equivalent of the Federal Pre-Trial Diversion Program that Rivera successfully completed here.

a claim for additional back pay for the period from his indictment to his completion of PTI was denied by the Civil Service Commission. So too here, Rivera is entitled only to be made whole for any compensation lost after the dismissal of her criminal complaint. See also: Walcott v. City of Plainfield, 282 N.J. Super. 121, 125 (App. Div. 1995).

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the disciplinary action entered in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action of the Essex County Department of Corrections against Rivera is hereby REVERSED.

It is ORDERED that no penalty be imposed in this matter.

I further ORDER that Rivera be awarded back pay, benefits, and seniority in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and reasonable counsel fees in accordance with N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. The period for which Rivera is entitled to back pay shall commence on December 18, 2017, and shall continue to date.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: May 23, 2018 Decided: May 23, 2018

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

This matter involves the appeal of Olumide Sanyaolu (Sanyaolu) of the decision of respondent Department of Human Services, Ancora Psychiatric Hospital (Ancora) to remove him from employment, effective June 2, 2017, on charges of (1) conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); (2) other sufficient cause, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and (3) violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision, specifically, Administrative Order 4:08 E-1.1.

The Civil Service Commission notified Sanyaolu of the above charges by a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 5, 2017. Upon receipt of Sanyaolu's hearing request, the matter was transmitted on October 4, 2017, to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

IN THE MATTER OF

Olumide Sanyaolu

v.

Department of Human Services,
Ancora Psychiatric Hospital

The parties in this appeal have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following settlement, which fully disposes of all issues in controversy between them.

A. The Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated September 5, 2017, contains the following charges:

1. Conduct unbecoming a public employee, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6);
2. Other sufficient cause, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and
3. Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order, or administrative decision, Administrative Order 4:08 E-1.1.

The FNDA proposes removal, effective June 2, 2016, as discipline for the above charges.

B. In lieu of removal, the parties have agreed to the following terms:

1. The petitioner will obtain an updated doctor's note advising the appointing authority, within a reasonable degree of medical certainty, whether it would be difficult for him to produce the 45 mL of urine required to perform a urinalysis drug screen. In the event that the petitioner is unable to produce 45 mL of urine, the doctor's note will further advise the appointing authority as to whether it would be medically inadvisable for the petitioner to drink up to 40 oz. of fluid within a three-hour period.

2. After the petitioner obtains the doctor's note described above and submits it to the appointing authority, Ancora Psychiatric Hospital's Human Resources Department will promptly instruct the petitioner to report to WorkNet Occupational Medicine in Stratford, New Jersey, where he will submit to a physical exam and a tuberculosis test. The appointing authority will then refer the petitioner to an alternative form of a drug test that is consistent with his medical restrictions. The petitioner will comply accordingly.

3. If the appointing authority is able to schedule the petitioner's alternative drug test promptly, the petitioner's return to work will be conditioned upon a negative drug test result. If the appointing authority is not able to schedule the test promptly, the petitioner shall return to work before completing the test, but his continued employment will be conditioned upon compliance with the procedure outlined above and a negative test result at a later time.

4. Upon returning to work, the petitioner will comply with any future drug tests as may be required and will follow the procedure outlined above, as well as all directions of the drug testing facility. The petitioner shall notify the appointing authority immediately of any changes in his medical condition that enable him to perform a urinalysis drug screen.

5. The appointing authority will provide the petitioner with mitigated back pay from June 2, 2016 through December 31, 2017, less all customary payroll deductions for federal taxes, state taxes, Medicare, Unemployment Insurance, Temporary Disability Insurance, Family Leave Insurance, FICA, pension contributions, and any other deductions required by law or contractual agreement.

6. The back pay to which the petitioner is entitled under this agreement will be calculated using the following figure as the petitioner's base salary: $35,123.40. The petitioner will receive all benefits as provided by N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10.

C. The petitioner withdraws his request for a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law, and the appointing authority agrees that the charges outlined in the FNDA will be dismissed with prejudice.

D. The parties acknowledge that under N.J.A.C. 17:1-2.18(b), no pension or seniority time may be credited for periods for which the employee is not paid by the appointing authority.

E. The appointing authority shall amend the petitioner's personnel records to conform to the terms of this settlement agreement. All internal records will be kept intact. Nothing herein shall preclude the State from releasing information on this matter to anyone who has a release executed by the petitioner or as consistent with the law. Any information regarding the underlying charges will be provided to the Public Employees Retirement System pursuant to N.J.S.A. 43:1-3.3 as amended effective April 14, 2007.

F. The petitioner waives all other claims against the Department of Human Services, Ancora Psychiatric Hospital, with regard to this matter, including any award of back pay, counsel fees or other monetary relief, except as may otherwise be provided herein.

G. Except for the assessment of the petitioner's disciplinary record in any subsequent personnel disciplinary hearing, nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party. This agreement shall not constitute a precedent in matters involving other employees.

H. The petitioner waives all claims, suits or actions, whether known, unknown, vested or contingent, civil, criminal or administrative, in law or equity against the State of New Jersey, Department of Human Services, its employees, agents, or assigns, including but not limited to those which have been or could have been made or prosecuted on account of any conduct of any party occurring at any time with respect to the events, information or disputes giving rise to this action up to the date of this agreement, including, but not limited to, all claims under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Americans with Disabilities Act, the Family Leave Act, the Family and Medical Leave Act, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the Equal Pay Act, the Conscientious Employee Protection Act, the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, Title 11A - the Civil Service Act, the Older Workers Benefits Protection Act, the Occupational Safety and Health Act, the Public Employee Occupational Safety and Health Act, the New Jersey Smoking Act, New Jersey wages and hours law, public works statutes, unemployment compensation laws, disability benefits laws, the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution, any workers compensation or common law claims and any contract express or implied. This waiver includes all claims involving any continuing effects of actions or practices which arose prior to the date of this Settlement Agreement and bars the use in any way of any past action or practice in any subsequent claims, except pending workers compensation claims.

I. The parties agree that if any portion of this Settlement Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of this Settlement Agreement shall be fully enforceable.

J. The parties waive the right to file exceptions and cross exceptions with regard to this matter.

K. This agreement will become effective only if approved by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION. Any disapproval by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

RE: In the Matter of Olumide Sanyaolu, Department of Human Services (Health), Ancora Psychiatric Hospital - OAL Docket No. CSV 14876-17 and CSC Docket No. 2018-808 - SETTLEMENT

Mr. Iavicoli and DAG Raso:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Olumide Sanyaolu from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Mr. Sanyaolu's removal effective June 2, 2016 is being settled to reinstatement (along with a drug test) with back pay through December 31, 2017, it does not indicate how to record the time from January 1, 2018 until his actual reinstatement. Before a settlement can be acknowledged by the Civil Service Commission, all periods of time must be specifically accounted for in an employee's personnel record. For example, is that time period to be recorded as an approved leave of absence without pay, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties. Please make sure you "reply to all."

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 4001-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2016-1696

IN THE MATTER OF MATTHEW BULZAK, CAMDEN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS.

Christopher A. Gray, Esq., appearing for appellant, Matthew Bulzak (Sciarra & Catrambone, LLC, attorneys)

Antonietta P. Rinaldi, Assistant County Counsel, appearing for respondent, Camden County Department of Corrections (Christopher A. Orlando, County Counsel)

Record closed: April 27, 2018 Decided: June 8, 2018

BEFORE JEFFREY N. RABIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Matthew Bulzak, a former corrections officer for respondent, Camden County Department of Corrections (DOC), appeals a thirty calendar day disciplinary action for conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6); neglect of duty, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7); other sufficient causes, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), those being violations of Camden County Correctional Facility Rules of Conduct 1.1 Violations; 1.2 Conduct Unbecoming; 1.3 Neglect of Duty; 4.1 Courtesy; 4.5 Public Statement and Appearances, and General Orders #073, #074 and #203.

At issue is whether respondent DOC acted properly in suspending appellant for thirty calendar days.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 13, 2015, suspending him without pay for thirty calendar days.[1] A departmental hearing was held on October 16, 2015, and on October 28, 2015, a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action was served on appellant, suspending him without pay for a thirty-calendar day period of November 8, 2015, through December 7, 2015.

Appellant filed an appeal, failed to appear at a settlement conference scheduled for February 2, 2016, and his appeal was dismissed. Appellant's appeal was reinstated by Administrative Appeal issued on January 18, 2017, and the Civil Service Commission transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on March 22, 2017. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

After two adjournments for health-related reasons, the Hearing was held on April 24, 2018.[2] The record remained open until April 27, 2018, for post-hearing documentation, and the record closed on that date.

[1] Rather than a thirty-calendar day suspension for eight hours per day (240 hours), respondent treated this as a fifteen-working day suspension of twelve hours per day (180 hours).

[2] Appellant Bulzak failed to appear on April 24, 2018, but authorized his counsel by text message to proceed with the Hearing, which was acceptable to respondent-counsel.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Undisputed Facts from the within Hearing:

1. On March 25, 2015, appellant was employed as a Corrections Officer by respondent DOC, and had been so employed since 2009. (Exhibit R-2.)

2. On or about March 25, 2015, DOC Internal Affairs Investigator Sgt. Joseph Coleman used his personal Facebook account and discovered that appellant had posted on the Matthew Bulzak Facebook page that he worked as a "Zookeeper at Camden County Wildlife Refuge" (the "Facebook Post"). (Exhibits R-1 and R-2.) Appellant made this post while he was employed by DOC, and at a time when there was no Camden County Wildlife Refuge.

3. By March 26, 2015, appellant had removed the Facebook Post. (Exhibit R-4.)

4. Appellant offered two alternative explanations for why he wrote the Facebook Post; it was either a joke, or he wrote it to keep the public from knowing where he was employed. (Exhibit R-2.)

5. Appellant has stated that it was unprofessional for him to have referred to inmates as animals, and that such a reference was inappropriate. Appellant was familiar with the policies and procedures applicable to his position. (Exhibits R-2 and R-6 through 9.)

6. Appellant had one prior major disciplinary action on his record, a ten-day suspension from January 2015 for having posed with other officers for a cellphone photograph in the Camden County jail, shot from a contraband cellphone (employees were not permitted to bring cellphones into the jail). (Exhibit R-10.) Appellant was charged with a security violation, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and inattentiveness to duty.

Testimony:

For respondent:

Sgt. Joseph Coleman had been with DOC for twenty-one years, twelve years as an Investigator for DOC's Internal Affairs department. He was responsible for monitoring social media accounts of DOC employees. It was irrelevant if a complaint had been filed, or whether social media violations happened while the officer was on-duty or off-duty. Because appellant's Facebook Post was on a public page, it could be viewed by members of the public. This could create problems at the county jail, because members of minority groups, such as African-Americans and Hispanics, could take appellant's post to mean that the jail is a zoo and the inmates are animals.

Credibility:

In evaluating evidence, it is necessary to assess the credibility of the witnesses. Credibility is the value that a finder of the facts gives to a witness's testimony. It requires an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with the other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F. 2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). "Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness but must be credible in itself," in that "[i]t must be such as the common experience and observation of mankind can approve as probable in the circumstances." In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514, 522 (1950).

A fact finder "is free to weigh the evidence and to reject the testimony of a witness . . . when it is contrary to circumstances given in evidence or contains inherent improbabilities or contradictions which alone or in connection with other circumstances in evidence excite suspicion as to its truth." Id. at 521–22; see D'Amato by McPherson v. D'Amato, 305 N.J. Super. 109, 115 (App. Div. 1997). A trier of fact may also reject testimony as "inherently incredible" when "it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience" or "overborne" by the testimony of other witnesses. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958).

After having the opportunity to review the evidence and observe his testimony, I accept Sgt. Coleman's testimony as credible and truthful. Accordingly, I FIND as fact that: Appellant's Facebook page was accessible to the general public. Appellant's Facebook Post could create safety problems at the county jail, because inmates could take appellant's post to mean that employees consider the jail to be a zoo and the inmates to be animals.

LEGAL ARGUMENT AND CONCLUSION

At issue is whether respondent DOC acted properly in suspending appellant for thirty calendar days.

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.

In assessing the propriety of a penalty in a civil disciplinary action, the primary concern is the public good; factors to be considered are the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline and the employee's prior record. George v. North Princeton Development Center, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d 465 (CSV)(1996). Progressive discipline is required in those cases where an employee is guilty of a series of offenses, none of which is sufficient to justify removal. Harris v. North Jersey Developmental Center, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (CSV)(1994).

Respondent charged appellant with conduct unbecoming a public employee, in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). In the DOC "Rules of Conduct", Topic 1.2, DOC personnel were required to conduct themselves in such a manner as to reflect positively on DOC, both on- and off-duty. It defined "Conduct unbecoming an employee" to include an action which "brings the department into disrepute, reflect discredit upon the employee as a member of the department, or which impairs the operation or efficiency of the department or the employee."

If appellant's sole interest was to protect his identity by not revealing where he was employed, he could have either denied the public access to his Facebook page, or chosen a fake job title unrelated to Camden County. By posting that he served as a "zookeeper" at a "wildlife refuge" in a county that does not operate a wildlife refuge, appellant left himself open to an interpretation that he worked at a zoo, filled with unruly animals and wildlife that needed a zookeeper to keep them under control. This might not only insult inmates by referring to them as animals and not humans, but might also insult the jail and jail employees themselves. Referring to a county facility as a "zoo" suggests that those responsible for the safe operation of the jail are not competent to perform their job functions, discrediting the men and women who work the difficult positions associated with working in a jail. Inmates' families, or inmates themselves, might be able to look up Bulzak's name on Facebook and see that he considers them to be wild animals. This could lead to safety issues brought by inmates against jail personnel.

Appellant himself stated that he was familiar with the policies and procedures applicable to his position, and admitted that it was not professional for him to have referred to inmates as animals, and that such a reference was inappropriate.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that appellant's Facebook Post evidenced conduct unbecoming a public employee.

As to the charge of neglect of duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), such neglect is defined in DOC's Rules of Conduct. (Exhibit R-6, Topic 1.3.) Any failure to comply with any departmental rule which causes a detriment to DOC or its personnel will be considered a neglect of duty.

Appellant failed to comply with several DOC rules: Appellant violated the "Personal Conduct of Employees" policy (General Order #73) by showing disrespect and lack of courtesy to inmates and jail employees, and exhibiting behavior which could demonstrate prejudice, contempt or ridicule towards inmates. (Exhibit R-7.) Appellant violated the "Professional Code of Conduct" by failing to demonstrate respect towards fellow jail employees. (Exhibit R-8.) Appellant violated General Order #74 by publicly criticizing or ridiculing DOC and/or its employees. Appellant violated General Order #203 by posting onto social media a statement which might undermine the public trust and confidence in officers and employees of DOC, or which was a negative comment on the internal operation of DOC, by insinuating that the Camden County Jail was a zoo. (Exhibit R-9.)

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that appellant's Facebook Post evidenced neglect of duty.

Once a determination is made that an employee has violated a statute, regulation or rule concerning his employment, the concept of progressive discipline must be considered. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). Appellant had a prior major disciplinary action on his record, having been charged in January 2015 with a security violation, conduct unbecoming a public employee, neglect of duty, and inattentiveness to duty. He was given a ten-day suspension. In both disciplinary actions the charges included conduct unbecoming a public employee and neglect of duty. It was therefore reasonable to issue a longer suspension for a second major disciplinary action. Because the second disciplinary action was discovered a mere two months after the first, a thirty-calendar day suspension (which in reality was only a fifteen-work day suspension) appeared reasonable.

I CONCLUDE that DOC acted properly in suspending appellant for a thirty-calendar day period.

ORDER

I ORDER that the disciplinary action of respondent Camden County Department of Corrections in suspending appellant Bulzak from his position as a Corrections Officer for thirty calendar days is AFFIRMED, and that the appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6., by which law it is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF MARK DIPASQUALE, SOUTHERN STATE CORRECTIONAL FACILITY.

Sean Sprich, PBA Local #105, for appellant, Mark DiPasquale, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Jessica M. Saxon, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent, Southern State Correctional Facility (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: May 11, 2018 Decided: June 8, 2018

BEFORE JOHN S. KENNEDY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Mark DiPasquale, a Corrections Officer at Southern State Correctional Facility (respondent) appeals his removal, effective December 21, 2017, after testing positive for tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) following a random drug urine screening on August 24, 2017. Appellant was charged with violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), Conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)12, Other sufficient cause; Human Resources Bulletin (HRB) 84-17, C-11, Conduct unbecoming a public employee; HRB 84-17, C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody); HRB 84-17, D7, Violation of administrative procedures and/or regulations involving safety and security; and HRB 84-17, E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. The appellant denies the allegations and states he was unaware he had ingested THC.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 25, 2017, respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) setting forth the charges and specifications made against the appellant. (J-1.) A departmental hearing was conducted on November 22, 2017. On December 21, 2017, the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) sustaining the charges in the PNDA and removing appellant from employment, effective December 21, 2017. (J-2.) Appellant filed an appeal directly with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) challenging his removal. The appeal was filed and perfected at the OAL on January 16, 2018. The hearing was held on May 3, 2018. The record remained open to allow the parties to submit redacted exhibits and the record closed on May 11, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSIONS AND FINDINGS

The parties made the following Joint Factual Stipulations and I therefore FIND the following as FACT:

1. Chain of custody is intact, complete and legally acceptable from the time the urine sample was taken from Mr. DiPasquale until the time it was tested at the State Toxicology Laboratory.
2. Mr. DiPasquale acknowledged receipt and signed for HRB 99-01, HRB 84-17, and the New Jersey Department of Corrections (NJDOC) Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations based on his new hire checklist.

Testimony

Duane Grade testified on behalf of the respondent. He has been employed by the NJDOC for twenty-two years and has been the Chief Investigator of the Special Investigations Unit (SIU) since July 2017. As Chief Investigator, he oversees the criminal and administrative investigations for the NJDOC. He is familiar with the drug screening process and he has undergone several random drug screenings throughout his career. There is a zero-tolerance policy for drug use in the NJDOC and all sworn law enforcement personnel are subject to random drug testing. The first workday of every month the SIU receives from Office of Information Technology (OIT) a computer printout list of those random individuals selected by a computer algorithm to be drug tested. All union representatives are made aware of the random urine selection process. Appellant was on the Master List for Donor Notifications for the period August 1, 2017, to August 31, 2017. (R-1.)

Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations, Article IV, Section 1 states:

> a) Report to duty under the influence of alcohol.
> b) Use, possess or sell any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance, whether on or off duty,
> c) Frequent any business, private house or establishment where illegal drugs or controlled dangerous substances may be used, purchased or sold with the exception of any appropriate medical establishment for the purpose of receiving appropriate medical care. (J-5, at 9-10.)
>
> Section 2 provides that an officer shall report the use, possession, or sale of any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance by another officer, whether on or off duty. The report shall be made as soon as possible to the Institutional Administrator or his/her designee. (J-5, at 9.)

All new employees acknowledge that they receive the various policies. Appellant acknowledged that he received the Rules and Regulations when he was hired. (J-7.)

The NJDOC HRB 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009, sets forth the Drug Testing Policy. (J-3.)

Section IV, paragraph 3 provides that "Prior to the submission of a urine specimen, all individuals shall complete a medical questionnaire which clearly describes all medications, both prescription and over the counter (non-prescription), ingested in the past thirty days. (J-3, at 5.)

Section VIII entitled "Consequences of a Positive Result"

> A. Any covered person who tests positive for illegal drug use shall be:
>
> 1. Suspended immediately from all duties and subjected to Loudermill and Departmental disciplinary procedures;
> 2. Processed for termination from service;
> 3. Reported by Internal Affairs to the Central Drug Registry maintained by the Division of State Police, and
> 4. Barred permanently from future law enforcement in New Jersey. (J-3, at 8.)

Chief Grade is familiar with HRB 84-17 as amended and the Table of Offenses and Penalties. (J-4.) C.11, Conduct unbecoming an employee, the first offense is a minimum of a three-day suspension to removal. C.30, Use, possession or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody), the first offense is removal. E.1, General Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision, the first offense warrants anywhere from an official written reprimand to removal. Appellant acknowledged receipt of this policy. Chief Grade is familiar with appellant's work/disciplinary history (J-6) which was moved into evidence for purposes of progressive discipline only.

Dennis Gunn testified on behalf of the respondent. He is a twenty-year employee of the NJDOC and is currently employed as a Principal Investigator at Southern State. His responsibilities as an investigations officer is to conduct all administrative and criminal investigations for the department in the field unit that he is assigned. They maintain all the evidence at the facility and investigate all crimes that occur in the facility and monitor the staff drug testing. He has monitored hundreds if not a thousand of drug tests. When first hired as an investigator, they receive the policy as to how the drug testing should be administered and then are assigned to a senior investigator to conduct the drug testing until they are ready to administer it on their own. He himself has undergone several random drug tests in the course of his career.

The first working day of the month, the central office draws a list of random names and social security numbers of those officers to be tested that month. The central office notifies the investigator who then goes to central office to pick up the list and then goes to the facility with the list of those to be drug tested. Appellant's name was on the Master List for Donor Notifications for August 2017. (R-1.) Investigator Gunn called the shift commander to have appellant report to SID and when appellant reported, he was advised that he had been selected to provide a random urine sample for that month. Investigator Gunn monitored appellant's drug test. There is a drug testing booklet that is filled out with the individuals' name and social security number. (R-2.) There are monitor instructions that are checked off outlining the procedures to be followed. Attachment A-1 is the Drug Testing Employee Notice and Acknowledgement form signed by appellant and witnessed by Investigator Gunn, dated August 24, 2017. It provides as follows:

> "I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, I will be dismissed from the New Jersey Department of Corrections and from my position as a "Covered Person"".
> "I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, that information will be forwarded to the Central Drug Registry maintained by the Division of State Police. Information from the registry can be made available by court order as part of a confidential investigation relating to law enforcement employment."
> "I understand that if I produce a positive test result for illegal drug use, I will be permanently barred from serving as a law enforcement officer in New Jersey." (R-3.)

The Continuity of Evidence – Urine Specimen Form (R-5) summarizes the procedure for the drug testing. It indicates that a random drug screening occurred on August 24, 2017, of appellant that was ordered at 6:00 a.m. Appellant gave the urine sample at 7:12 a.m. on August 23, 2017. Investigator Gunn placed the specimen in the evidence refrigerator at 7:14 a.m.

Appellant provided two samples simultaneously at 7:12 a.m. The second sample was frozen in case of a positive result to allow the employee to have an independent test done on the urine. The second sample is maintained in their freezer until such time as they are notified the test was negative or the employee directs that the sample be released to another lab for testing as was done in this case. Appellant did not ask to have the second sample tested.

Investigator Gunn was notified of the results that there was a positive of one of the samples. The toxicology report for appellant's social security number came back positive for cannabinoids. (R-9.) Investigator Gúnn prepared and signed an administrative investigation report summarizing this incident and consistent with his testimony. (R-11.)

Robert Havier testified on behalf of the respondent. Dr. Havier is the Acting Director of the State Toxicology Laboratory in Newark, New Jersey. He has been employed by the State for thirty-nine years as a forensic toxicologist. As the Acting Director, he sets the goals for the laboratory and specifies the methods for analysis, certifies data and finalizes reports for law enforcement drug testing. He has a Bachelor of Science Degree (B.S.) in Chemistry from Long Island University, an Master of Science (M.S.) from Adelphi University in Organic Chemistry and Biochemistry, and a Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) from the State University of New York at Buffalo in Biochemistry with a Minor in Organic and Medicinal Chemistry. (R-12.) Forensic toxicology is an interdisciplinary field of science, that involves analytical chemistry, pharmacology and toxicology towards the analysis and interpretation of drugs in a legal setting. He has been conducting drug tests for thirty-nine years. There are two sections in the lab, the post-mortem section and law enforcement drug testing section. Seventeen thousand tests are done a year for law enforcement drug testing, approximately fourteen hundred a month just from the urine drug testing. Of those seventeen thousand tests, only about two percent or less are positive for drugs. He was qualified as an expert witness in approximately thirty cases. Dr. Havier was qualified as an expert witness in the field of drug testing and toxicology.

Dr. Havier is familiar with the NJDOC's drug testing policy. The state toxicology lab is the only lab authorized to conduct the drug testing for law enforcement drug testing. When he finalizes a report for a case, he reviews all the data submitted from the screening and confirmation testing as well as the certification from the medical review officer. A receptionist in the laboratory receives all drug testing specimens. In this case, Jean Smith, received the specimens and accepted each specimen for testing as indicated by her initials after each specimen and her name at the bottom of the submission form. (R-8.) The criteria she follows for accepting the sample is to check that the container has not been opened once it was sealed or tampered with in any way. She also checks the volume and appearance of the sample. The social security on the label inside of the container is checked and compared to the submission form and put into the computer which generates a toxicology number. The case is then referred to by the toxicology number. Appellant's sample was given Toxicology Number 17L012142.

After the samples are received and accepted for testing they are stored in the refrigerator and collected by an analyst from the law enforcement drug testing section and placed in a secured refrigerator in that unit. The sample will be subjected to a first screening procedure, an immunoassay procedure, using antibodies to identify drugs or classes of drugs that may be present in the sample. If the sample is screened positive, that is, it contains one or more of the drugs they are looking for, the original specimen will be tested by a confirmation method completely different from the screening method. The equipment used for the screening procedure is the Architect which is manufactured by Abbot Laboratories.

The drugs tested for are amphetamines, barbiturates, benzodiazepines, cocaine, creatinine for validity (to make sure the urine is human), methadone, opiates, oxycodone, phencyclidine (PCP) and tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) the major metabolite of tetrahydrocannabinol, the active ingredient in marijuana. The results of the immunoassay drug screening test in this matter were positive for cannabinoids. (R-9.) The creatinine level was dilute which indicates that the appellant had consumed a large amount of water. The test identifies whether a certain level of drug is present or not. Once a sample screens positive for a drug another aliquot of the original sample will be confirmation tested by a procedure called gas chromatography/mass spectrometry (GCMS) which is the benchmark for the whole industry as far as confirming the identity and the amount of any particular drug. An aliquot is a small portion of the original sample for testing. An aliquot of the original sample is taken and is subjected to an extraction procedure to obtain a metabolite of marijuana, tetrahydrocannabinol. The criteria for identifying a particular compound includes the retention time, the weight of the fragments that it produces and the ratio of the fragments to one another. The GCMS drug confirmation report identified the drug as a metabolite of THC 11th carboxy THC and the amount of that metabolite was twenty-three nanograms per milliliter (ng/ml). (R-9.) This information was sent to the medical review officer to review whether anything listed on the medication sheet would account for this positive result. In this case, there was not.

Dr. Havier reviewed all the screening and confirmation data and the report from the medical review officer. (R-9.) He concluded all the testing was properly conducted and he generated a final report for this case. The medical review officer certification indicated that the screening results were positive for cannabinoids and the GCMS results were positive for 11 carboxy THC. All of the instruments that are used for the screening and confirmation testing are tested and checked in advance to make sure they are functioning properly and calibrated properly before the tests are run that day.

A sample is deemed to be positive if it contains more than fifteen (15.0) ng/ml of THC. The cutoff level of fifteen (15.0) ng/ml is used because that is the industry accepted level for the drug based on possible passive inhalation or casual exposure that cannot produce a reading over fifteen (15.0) ng/ml. The toxicology report for appellant's urine sample indicated carboxy levels of sixty-six (66.0) ng/ml. (R-9, p. 101.)

Dr. Havier's opinion concluded that the urine specimen contained the metabolite of THC at the level of sixty-six (66.0) ng/ml which is above the generally accepted cutoff value of fifteen (15.0) ng/ml.

Appellant testified on his own behalf. He was employed with the NJDOC at Southern State Prison from September 2008 until he was terminated in December 2017. He had been required to take four or five random drug cases during his employment and has never tested positive in the past. He had no idea he was going to test positive in October 2017, and asserts that he does not do drugs. At some point prior to the October drug test, appellant alleges that he went to a party in Washington DC. He did not know at the time but there was food laced with marijuana (edibles) being served at the party. He never felt the effects of the drug. At some point after he was notified that he tested positive, but before his Departmental Hearing on November 22, 2017, appellant discovered, for the first time, from a friend that there were edibles at the party and presumes that he must had eaten one. He did not disclose this presumption at the Departmental Hearing and never disclosed it to anyone prior to his testimony at this hearing because he did not think it would matter and did not know that he needed to report it.

When assessing credibility, inferences may be drawn concerning the witness' expression, tone of voice and demeanor. MacDonald v. Hudson Bus Transportation Co., 100 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 1968). Additionally, the witness' interest in the outcome, motive or bias should be considered. Credibility contemplates an overall assessment of the story of a witness in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963).

A trier of fact may reject testimony because it is inherently incredible, or because it is inconsistent with other testimony or with common experience, or because it is overborne by other testimony. Congleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp., 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App Div. 1958).

Appellant was a Corrections Officer for nine years prior to his removal. He was familiar with the NJDOC drug testing protocol and has submitted to approximately four or five random drug screenings as a condition of his employment. Appellant asserts that he consumed an edible at a party prior to the drug test. He also asserts that he does not know what he ate that was laced with marijuana and only discovered that he consumed the edible after he received the PNDA. Appellant's testimony in this regard is not believable. He asserts that he discovered that he had consumed the edible prior to the Departmental Hearing and certainly before he received the FNDA yet he never revealed this information to anyone prior to his testimony before this tribunal. Furthermore, his testimony derives from information he received from a friend. Out-of-court statements, if offered to prove the truth of the matters stated, are hearsay. While the rules of evidence applicable to proceedings in the judicial branch permit certain hearsay to be accepted as competent evidence under recognized exceptions to the general rule excluding hearsay, in administrative hearings the rule governing the admissibility of hearsay evidence is different. That rule is codified at N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5:

> (a) Subject to the judge's discretion to exclude evidence under N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1(c) or a valid claim of privilege, hearsay evidence shall be admissible in the trial of contested cases. Hearsay evidence which is admitted shall be accorded whatever weight the judge deems appropriate taking into account the nature, character and scope of the evidence, the circumstances of its creation and production, and, generally, its reliability.
> (b) Notwithstanding the admissibility of hearsay evidence, some legally competent evidence must exist to support each ultimate finding of fact to an extent sufficient to provide assurances of reliability and to avoid the fact or appearance of arbitrariness.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.5 (b) recites what is commonly referred to as the residuum rule, which was best described in Justice Francis' foundational opinion for the New Jersey Supreme Court in Weston v. State, 60 N.J. 36, 50-51 (1972):

> It is common practice for administrative agencies to receive hearsay evidence at their hearings. . . . As Judge Learned Hand said for the Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit in NLRB v. Remington Rand, Inc., 94 F.2d 862, 873 (1938), mere rumor would not support a board finding, "but hearsay may do so, at least if more is not conveniently available, and if in the end the finding is supported by the kind of evidence on which responsible persons are accustomed to rely in serious affairs." And see, Goldsmith v. Kingsford, 92 N.H. 442, 32 A.2d 810 (1943) . . . . However, in our State as well as in many other jurisdictions the rule is that a fact finding or a legal determination cannot be based upon hearsay alone. Hearsay may be employed to corroborate competent proof, or competent proof may be supported or given added probative force by hearsay testimony. But in the final analysis for a court to sustain an administrative decision, > which affects the substantial rights of a party, there must be a residuum of legal and competent evidence in the record to support it. . . .

In light of the foregoing I FIND that no legally competent evidence has been presented to support the allegations contained in appellant's hearsay testimony. Therefore, I deem that appellant's testimony in this regard is not credible.

Based upon due consideration of the testimonial and documentary evidence presented at this hearing, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following as FACTS:

On August 24, 2017, appellant was randomly selected for a urine drug screening pursuant to the NJDOC drug testing policy set forth in HRB 99-01. The immunoassay drug screening test was positive for cannabinoids. A further confirmation drug test was performed using GCMS which indicated that 11 – Carboxy-THC was detected in the amount of sixty-six (66.0) ng/ml with a confirmation cutoff concentration of fifteen (15.0) ng/ml.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The Appointing Authority bears the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962) Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co, 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J Super. 93,104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant was charged with "Conduct unbecoming a public employee," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained - of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't. of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Appellants status as a corrections officer subjects him to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1980). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Township of Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304. N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

The NJDOC has a zero tolerance for drug use policy and requires that as a condition of employment officers submit to random urine drug testing. The NJDOC policy requires that a negative result is required to maintain employment and a positive result will result in termination. Appellant failed his random drug test on August 24, 2017, by testing positive for the metabolite of THC. The NJDOC Rules and Regulations for Law Enforcement Personnel prohibit an officer from using any illegal drug or controlled dangerous substance, whether on or off duty. As a Corrections Officer, appellant represented law and order to the public and must present an image of personal integrity. Drug use among law enforcement personnel is certainly conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit and has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing conduct unbecoming.

Appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Appellant tested positive for the THC metabolite following his random drug test on August 24, 2017. Law enforcement personnel are prohibited from using illegal drugs or controlled dangerous substances. Appellant's conduct violates the implicit standard of good behavior one would expect from a corrections officer. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of other sufficient cause.

Appellant has also been charged with various offenses set forth in HRB 84-17, including C-11, Conduct unbecoming a public employee; HRB 84-17, C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance (custody); HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. As stated above, the same reasons for finding that the respondent has met its burden of proof for the conduct unbecoming violations set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(a)6 apply to the C-11 conduct unbecoming charge. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17, C-11.

As far as the violation of HRB 84-17, C-30, Use, possession, or sale of any controlled dangerous substance, on August 24, 2017, appellant was subjected to a random drug test and tested positive for the THC metabolite. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that appellant was in possession and used a controlled dangerous substance and respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17, C-30.

Appellant has also been charged with a violation of HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision. On August 24, 2017, appellant submitted to a random drug screening as a condition of his continued employment with the NJDOC. Appellant tested positive for the metabolite of THC. Appellant's conduct is in violation of the Law Enforcement Personnel Rules and Regulations prohibiting an officer from possessing or using any illegal drug or dangerous substance whether on or off duty. Appellant's conduct is also in violation of the NJDOC's drug testing policy set forth in HRB 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of HRB 84-17 E-1, Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure, order or administrative decision.

PENALTY

In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). However, where the charged dereliction is an act which, in view of the duties and obligations of the position, substantially disadvantages the public, good cause exists for removal. See Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 163 N.J. Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978); In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 (2007). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

Some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007), citing Rawlings v. Police Dep't of Jersey City, 133 N.J. 182, 197–98 (1993) (upholding dismissal of police officer who refused drug screening as "fairly proportionate" to offense); see also In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (DYFS worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old):

> . . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

Pursuant to the NJDOC HRB 99-01, Amended November 6, 2009, any covered person who tests positive for illegal drug use shall be suspended immediately from all duties and processed for termination from service. (J-3.) The NJDOC drug policy does not call for a range of discipline and removal is the only option for a violation of the drug testing policy. Appellant knew that as a condition of his continued employment he had to pass the random drug urine screens. Appellant acknowledged that he understood that if he produced a positive result for illegal drug use, he would be dismissed from his position with the NJDOC. Therefore, the only appropriate penalty in this case is removal. I CONCLUDE that the removal of the appellant was appropriate.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the action of the respondent is AFFIRMED, as set forth above. Appellant's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 40A:14-204.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

J-1

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND COMPLETE RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement and Complete Release ("Agreement") is entered into this 3rd day of ~~March~~ April (sub), 2018 and is by and between the Monmouth County Sheriff's Office ("MCSO"), the County of Middlesex ("Middlesex County"), and Matthew Hahn ("Hahn").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, Hahn was employed by Middlesex County as a County Corrections Officer; and,

WHEREAS, Hahn was required to successfully complete the Basic Course for County Corrections Officers as a condition of his continued employment by Middlesex County as a County Corrections Officer; and,

WHEREAS, Middlesex County enrolled Hahn in the 33rd Basic Course for County Corrections Officers at the Monmouth County Police Academy ("MCPA"), which is a division of the MCSO, commencing on August 29, 2016; and,

WHEREAS, Hahn was dismissed from the MCPA on September 8, 2016 following an incident that occurred earlier that day; and,

WHEREAS, due to his dismissal from the MCPA, Middlesex County removed Hahn from his employment as a County Corrections Officer effective November 4, 2016; and,

WHEREAS, Hahn timely filed an appeal (the "Dismissal Appeal") of his dismissal from the MCPA to the Police Training Commission ("PTC"), which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under docket number PTC-14419-16; and,

WHEREAS, Hahn also timely filed an appeal (the "Removal Appeal") of his removal from employment at Middlesex County to the Civil Service Commission ("CSC"), which was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under docket number CSV-18089-16; and,

WHEREAS, the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal were consolidated for a plenary hearing before Administrative Law Judge Dean Buono; and,

WHEREAS, prior to the conclusion of the hearing at the OAL, the parties engaged in settlement discussions; and,

WHEREAS, the MCSO, Middlesex County and Hahn now desire to resolve all outstanding issues with respect to the foregoing events via this Agreement and amicably resolve both the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the promises and conditions set forth herein, the adequacy of which is hereby acknowledged, the MCSO, Middlesex County and Hahn hereby agree as follows:

1. RESOLUTION OF THE DISMISSAL APPEAL AND REMOVAL APPEAL; TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

The MCSO, Middlesex County and Hahn agree as follows:

a. In lieu of his dismissal from the MCPA's 33rd Basic Course for County Corrections Officers, Hahn shall be deemed to have voluntarily withdrawn from same.

b. In lieu of his removal from employment by Middlesex County, he shall be deemed to have resigned from his employment in good standing as a County Corrections Officer, effective and retroactive to November 4, 2016. The parties agree that to the extent that it is within their control, this retroactive resignation date should not have any impact on any unemployment benefits that may have been obtained by Hahn.

c. Hahn agrees not to seek future employment as a sworn law enforcement officer with Middlesex County. However, nothing in this Agreement shall be construed as limiting Hahn from applying for future law enforcement positions with any other law enforcement agency, or seeking any other employment whatsoever, whether or not that employment is governed by the Civil Service Act. In the event that Hahn is hired by a law enforcement agency that utilizes the MCPA for training purposes, there shall be no bar on his ability to re-enroll in the MCPA.

d. Hahn waives any and all claims arising from or relating to his dismissal from the MCPA or his removal from Middlesex County, including but not limited to, back pay, benefits, attorneys' fees and/or costs.

e. The MCPA and Middlesex County will amend their records to conform to the terms of the Agreement and will do all that is reasonably necessary to cause any Civil Service records to reflect Hahn's resignation in good standing instead of removal. All internal records will remain intact. Internal records shall also include a copy of this settlement agreement and the transcript and exhibits from the first and only day of the OAL hearing on November 29, 2017.

2. COMPLETE RELEASE AND RELINQUISHMENT OF CLAIMS.

In consideration of the settlement hereinabove, and to the fullest extent permissible by law, Hahn, along with his successors, assigns, heirs, representatives and estates (collectively, "Releasor"), agrees to irrevocably and unconditionally relinquish any and all causes of Action, demands or claims, including claims for attorney's fees and costs, Releasor had, has or may have from the beginning of time up to the date this Agreement is executed against the MCSO (as well as its funding agent, the County of Monmouth) and Middlesex County, as well as all of their elected and appointed officials, officers, agents, employees, agencies and instrumentalities (collectively, "Releasees"), regardless of whether such claims are presently known or unknown to Releasor. This full and unconditional relinquishment and release of claims includes, but is not limited to, any causes of action, demands or claims relating in any way to Hahn's enrollment at the MCPA or his removal from employment by Middlesex County, or any other events, information or disputes giving rise to this matter, the Dismissal Appeal, the Removal Appeal or the Agreement.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, matters arising at common law, such as breach of contract, expressed or implied, promissory estoppel, wrongful discharge, tortious interference with contractual rights, infliction of emotional distress, defamation and any other common-law tort.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, matters arising under federal, state or local laws, statutes, regulations, ordinances, orders or policies, including, but not limited to, the United States Constitution, the federal Fair Labor Standards Act, the federal Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 (ERISA), the federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), the federal Equal Pay Act, the federal Civil Rights Act of 1866, Title VII of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, the federal Civil Rights Act of 1991, the federal Age Discrimination and Employment Act (ADEA), the federal Older Workers Benefit Protection Act (OWBPA), the federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the federal Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA), the New Jersey Constitution, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act (CEPA), the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (NJLAD), the New Jersey Family Leave Act, and the New Jersey Civil Rights Act.

This full and unconditional Release also specifically includes, but is not limited to, claims for reemployment by contract or recall rights, compensatory damages, punitive damages, reinstatement, back pay, overtime compensation, back benefits, back emoluments, attorneys' fees, equitable relief, or any other relief.

This full and unconditional Release does not prevent, and is not intended to prevent, Hahn from making an allegation of discrimination to the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ("EEOC"), the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights ("NJDCR") or any other state or local civil rights agency. However, Releasor irrevocably waives any right to receive any monetary relief or any other compensation whatsoever in connection with the prosecution of a charge or suit brought on Hahn's behalf by the EEOC, NJDCR, or any other third party such as another federal, state or local governmental agency or entity.

Nothing in this release shall apply to any vested benefits or any claim to determine or enforce rights with respect to said benefits, nor with respect to any claim filed under the New Jersey Workers Compensation Act.

3. ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.

Hahn acknowledges that this Agreement shall resolve all issues related to the Dismissal Appeal and the Removal Appeal and that he has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Agreement with his legal counsel prior to entering into it and that he has availed himself of this right, that he has carefully read and fully understands all of the provisions of this Agreement, and that he is entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily in exchange for good and valuable consideration.

6. HEADINGS.

The headings contained in the Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not in any way affect the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

7. SEVERABILITY CLAUSE.

Should any provision of this Agreement be declared or determined by any court of competent jurisdiction to be illegal, invalid or unenforceable, the legality, validity, and enforceability of the remaining parts, terms, or provisions shall not be affected thereby and said illegal, unenforceable or invalid part, term, or provision shall be deemed not part of this Agreement.

8. AMBIGUITIES.

Each party and their counsel have participated fully in the review and revision of this Agreement. Any rule of construction to the effect that ambiguities are to be resolved against the drafting party shall not apply in interpreting this Agreement. The language in this Agreement shall be interpreted as to its fair meaning and not strictly for or against any party.

9. MODIFICATIONS TO BE IN WRITING.

The parties agree that this Agreement and Release may not be altered, amended, modified, superseded, canceled or terminated except in writing and duly executed by all the parties, or their attorneys on their behalf, which makes specific reference to this provision.

10. ENTIRE UNDERSTANDING.

This Agreement and Release sets forth the entire understanding between the MCPA, Middlesex County and Hahn, and fully supersedes any and all prior agreements or understandings between them pertaining to the subject matter thereof, if any.

11. NON-ADMISSION.

Nothing in this Agreement shall be construed as an admission by any party that any action it has taken was unlawful or wrongful, or that any action constituted a breach of contract or violated any federal, state, or local law, policy, rule or regulation.

12. AGREEMENT NON-PRECEDENTIAL.

The parties agree that this Agreement shall be non-precedential, is limited to specific, unique facts and circumstances, and is not intended to create a past practice nor shall it be binding with respect to any other enrollee at the MCPA or any other employee of Middlesex County. The parties shall not utilize this settlement in any way with respect to any other proceeding involving the MCPA or Middlesex County unless specifically provided for herein.

13. CONFIDENTIALITY.

The parties agree that this document constitutes a confidential personnel record under the Open Public Records Act and/or the common law governing public records, and will not be publicly disclosed, except as consistent with law. Hahn agrees that he will not, in another action or proceeding before any state, federal or local court or any governmental or administrative agency or during any arbitration or mediation, obtain discovery or offer evidence, unless required by law or court order (in which case he agrees to notify the MCPA and Middlesex County before doing so to provide for an opportunity to oppose such a request), relating to the terms or execution of this Agreement.

14. APPROVALS.

The parties acknowledge that this Agreement may be subject to approval by the PTC and the Civil Service Commission and shall be provided to the PTC, the Civil Service Commission and/or the assigned Administrative Law Judge for their respective approvals if so required. Any disapproval by the PTC or the Civil Service Commission shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

15. REPRESENTATIONS.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JULY 20, 2018 BW

The appeal of Louis Hightower, Sheriff's Officer, Hudson County Sheriff's Department, 10 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Thomas R. Betancourt, who rendered his initial decision on May 30, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on July 18, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Louis Hightower.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant, Louis Hightower, appeals a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, dated July 28, 2017, imposing a ten-day suspension without pay.

The Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on September 5, 2017.

A prehearing conference was conducted on September 20, 2017, and a prehearing order of the same date was entered by the undersigned.

A hearing was held on February 15, 2018. The record remained open to permit the parties to file post-hearing submissions. The record closed on May 11, 2018.

ISSUES

Whether there is sufficient credible evidence to sustain the charges set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action: Insubordination, N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2); Neglect of Duty, N.J.A.C. 4A:2.2-3(a)(7); and, Other Sufficient Cause N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and, if sustained, whether a penalty of a ten-day suspension without pay is warranted.

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT TESTIMONY

Respondent's Case

Patrick Schifano, testified as follows:

He is a captain with the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. At the time of the incident of June 9, 2017, he was the commanding officer. After he works his normal shift of 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. a supervisory officer is named as the "night boss." On June 9, 2017, the night boss was Sergeant Ingrid Baird. A sergeant can give an order to an officer or detective. It does not matter if that sergeant is the particular officer's direct supervisor as a sergeant is a superior officer and may issue orders.

He is aware of an interaction between Sergeant Baird and Appellant that occurred on June 8, 2017. He had requested written reports from both of them. He also requested written reports from Lieutenant Toft, Sergeant Carrillo, and Appellant. Captain Schifano also spoke with these individuals, except for Appellant.

Captain Schifano recommended disciplinary action against appellant after he completed a review of the interaction between Sergeant Baird and Appellant. That resulted in the issuance of a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA). The charges set forth therein were sustained in a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action.

As Appellant had previously been the subject of a minor disciplinary action Captain Schifano recommended major disciplinary action.

Sergeant Baird had the authority to order Appellant to stay on the job. The Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Department, Rule 1.4, requires an officer to promptly comply with a lawful order of a supervisor.

The situation on June 8, 2017, was an emergent circumstance as a medical run may have been needed to transport a prisoner. Two officers are required to perform a medical run.

Captain Schifano was not present on June 8, 2017.

Officers should be aware of who is the night boss.

Captain Schifano admitted that Appellant ultimately obeyed Sergeant Baird's order. He felt Appellant was disrespectful towards Sergeant Baird by not obeying the order and trying to leave the building. He also stated being given an order and then walking away is a bit insolent.

Captain Schifano does not know if Sergeant Baird made inquiry into her unit for available officers for the medical run. Appellant is not in her unit.

It does not matter if Sergeant Baird is the night boss or just a sergeant. She is a superior officer and Appellant did not promptly comply with her order.

Ingrid Baird testified as follows:

She is a sergeant with the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. On June 9, 2017, she was the night boss. She oversees the building at night. That night she received a telephone call from Investigator Trombetta that there was a potential need for a medical run. The medical run was for a person waiting to be picked up on a warrant issued out of Jersey City. She told Investigator Trombetta to advise Appellant he was needed for the medical run. No one from her unit was available to do the medical run. Two officers are needed for a medical run and she needed to be sure she had them available. She considered the matter emergent.

Thereafter she went to the lobby of the building. Investigator Conti and Officer Domingues were working at the time. Sergeant Baird told Investigator Conti he was required to do the medical run. Investigator Conti complied with Sergeant Baird's order.

Sergeant Baird had authority to issue an order to an officer. She did not need to be that particular officer's direct supervisor. She had the right to order Appellant to do mandatory overtime.

Sergeant Baird spoke directly with Appellant in the lobby. She saw him leaving the building. She apologized to Appellant, but said she needed him. He said he had signed out and was not staying. Sergeant Baird again stated the order. Appellant responded by stating he was going to speak with his direct supervisor, Sergeant Carrillo. The Appellant returned approximately fifteen minutes later. Ultimately Appellant complied with the order.

Sergeant Baird thought the situation with Appellant was inappropriate and his behavior unacceptable. Sergeant Baird stated that Appellant "supervisor shopped."

She never had a previous problem with Appellant. She is aware of his prior five-day suspension.

The medical run was not needed as Jersey City Police picked up the individual and transported him.

Michael Trombetta testified as follows:

He is an Investigator with the Hudson County Sherriff's Department. He was on duty on June 9, 2017. He noted a prisoner had a possible medical condition and called Sergeant Baird to advise her. Sergeant Baird asked if there were available officers. Investigator Trombetta replied that Appellant was available. Sergeant Baird asked Investigator Trombetta to tell Appellant he was needed for a possible medical run. When told he needed to stay Appellant replied "no" and left. Investigator Trombetta told Appellant a second time that Sergeant Baird required him to stay.

Carlos Carrillo testified as follows:

He is a sergeant with the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. He was on duty on June 9, 2017. He is Appellant's direct supervisor. He spoke with Appellant in the garage. Appellant asked him if he needed to stay to do a medical run. Appellant stated he was "mandated" by Sergeant Baird when he was leaving the building. Sergeant Carrillo advised Appellant it would be in his best interest to follow Sergeant Baird's order. Sergeant Carrillo could not overrule Sergeant Baird. The conversation with Appellant took approximately five minutes. He prepared a written report regarding his conversation with Appellant.

Generally, officers do not question an order from a superior officer.

Joseph Toth testified as follows:

He is a Lieutenant with the Hudson County Sherriff's Department. He was on duty on June 9, 2017. He spoke with Appellant and Sergeant Carrillo at approximately 5:00 p.m. He was leaving for the day and was stopped by both men. Appellant told him of the order by Sergeant Baird regarding a medical run and that he wanted to leave. Lieutenant Toth asked Appellant if he had an emergency. Appellant stated he did not. He just wanted to leave. Lieutenant Toth stated that Sergeant Baird's order was legitimate. He told Appellant it would be in his best interest to go back and find Sergeant Baird. He prepared a written report regarding the matter.

Andrew Conti testified as follows:

He is an officer in the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. He was on duty on June 9, 2017. He was doing security in the lobby. He could not remember the name of the other officer working with him. He spoke with Sergeant Baird who told him to stay past his shift for a medical run. His shift ended at 6:00 p.m. Two officers are needed to do a medical run. He saw Appellant in the lobby walking toward the front door. Officer Conti did not speak with Appellant. He heard Sergeant Baird tell Appellant to stay. Appellant responded that he was not staying. Sergeant Baird stated it was an order. Appellant responded by stating he would speak with his own supervisor. He estimated the distance between Appellant and Sergeant Baird to be thirty-five feet. Officer Conti complied with Sergeant Baird's order and reported to the holding cell at 5:50 p.m. He did not recall if Appellant was there. Officer Conti thought Appellant was disrespectful and should not speak to a supervisor the way he did. Officers are trained to follow orders of superiors, even if given by someone not a direct supervisor. The medical run was not necessary as Jersey City Police picked up the prisoner. He did not prepare a written report.

Andrea Domingues testified as follows:

She is an officer with the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. She was on duty on June 9, 2017. She was working security in the lobby with Officer Conti. Sergeant Baird was the night supervisor. She does not recall Sergeant Baird speaking with Officer Conti. She did not know if Officer Conti was asked to do a medical run. She observed Sergeant Baird and Appellant speak. Appellant was leaving at the time and Sergeant Baird asked Appellant to stay. She recalls Appellant saying, "I refuse to stay." Appellant told Sergeant Baird he would speak with Sergeant Carrillo. Sergeant Baird responded that Sergeant Carrillo was not her supervisor. Sergeant Baird ordered Appellant to stay for mandatory overtime. She stated a sergeant has the right to give an order. She considered this a direct order. She did not think Appellant was disrespectful. She did not prepare a written report.

Appellant's Case

Louis Hightower, Appellant, testified as follows:

He is an officer with the Hudson County Sherriff's Department. He was on duty on June 9, 2017. His normal shift is 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. At approximately 5:05 p.m. he was leaving the court house. Investigator Trombetta asked him if he was interested in working overtime. He had no other conversation with Investigator Trombetta. He saw Investigator Trombetta on the telephone. He spoke with him in the hallway. When he went to leave, Investigator Trombetta told him that Sergeant Baird mandated him to stay. He replied that he had already signed out. Sergeant Baird is not his immediate supervisor. He was not aware she was the night boss that day. He went to leave the building and Sergeant Baird saw him and told him he had to say for overtime. That conversation lasted less than a minute. He told Sergeant Baird he was not the only one there and that he was going to talk with his supervisor, Sergeant Carrillo. He knew Sergeant Carrillo was downstairs. He told Sergeant Carrillo that Sergeant Baird had mandated him for overtime. Sergeant Carrillo told him to obey the order. Lieutenant Toft also told him to obey the order. He then went to the ground floor to tell Sergeant Baird he was going to get changed. His intention at this point was to do the medical run. Sergeant Baird told him not to question her order. They were arguing with each other. He stated he was not being insubordinate. He prepared a written report. He is familiar with the overtime procedures set out in the Collective Bargaining Agreement (CAB). Overtime is first assigned within a unit. Sergeant Baird's unit is the second floor. He did not know if the second-floor unit was questioned for overtime. If the unit cannot do the overtime then it is assigned to the division. He is not a member of Sergeant Baird's unit. He was not intentionally insubordinate. He never said he would not stay. The medical run never took place. He left the building about 6:45 p.m. He understood the order relayed by Investigator Trombetta, but Investigator Trombetta cannot relay that order. His intention was to leave when Sergeant Baird told him to stay. He stated he could not be mandated to stay by another officer. He does not know how to obey an order relayed by another officer. He does not have to obey an order if relayed by an officer of same rank. He understands the rules of the department and that he must carry out an order. He felt he was targeted by this order.

FINDINGS OF FACT

I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Appellant is employed by the Hudson County Sheriff's Department.
2. He was on duty on June 9, 2017, and was about to leave at the end of his shift.
3. He was advised by Investigator Trombetta not to leave at the direction of Sergeant Baird.
4. Sergeant Baird was the "night boss" on June 9, 2017, and had the authority to order appellant to perform mandatory overtime.
5. Investigator Trombetta informed appellant a second time not to leave as he was being mandated by Sergeant Baird to stay for a possible medical run.
6. Appellant then attempted to leave the building and was confronted by Sergeant Baird who gave appellant the order directly.
7. Appellant responded by advising Sergeant Baird he was not the only officer available and that he would go speak with his supervisor, Sergeant Carillo.

8. Rather than immediately complying with the order appellant sought out his direct supervisor, Sergeant Carillo, to discuss whether he should comply with Sergeant Baird's order.
9. Appellant did speak with Sergeant Carillo and Lieutenant Toft, who happened to be with Sergeant Carillo at the time. Appellant was advised by Sergeant Carillo to obey Sergeant Baird's order.
10. Thereafter, Appellant did obey the order.
11. Appellant admits that the proper procedure regarding an order is to comply with said order and thereafter file a grievance should he think the order was inappropriate.
12. Appellant is required by Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Office to comply with an order from a superior officer. (R-5.)
13. Sergeant Baird is Appellant's superior officer.
14. The collective bargaining agreement between Appellant's union and the Hudson County Sheriff's Department require Appellant to continue to observe all rules and regulations pending the outcome of a grievance. (R-7.)
15. Appellant was served with a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) dated June 21, 2017, charging him with insubordination, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause. (R-1.)

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6, governs a civil service employee's rights and duties. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this state is to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory and other personnel authority to public officials in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b). In order to carry out this policy, the Act also includes provisions authorizing the discipline of public employees.

A public employee who is protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may be subject to major discipline for a wide variety of offenses connected to his or her employment. The general causes for such discipline are set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2 2.3(a). In an appeal from such discipline, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relies by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, the judge must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna and W. R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). This burden of proof falls on the agency in enforcement proceedings to prove violations of administrative regulations. Cumberland Farms v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987).

This forum has the duty to decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, in accordance with a reasonable probability of truth. Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein, 26 N.J. at 275. The burden of proof falls on the appointing authority in enforcement proceedings to prove a violation of administrative regulations. Cumberland Farms, 218 N.J. Super. at 341. The respondent must prove its case by a preponderance of the credible evidence, which is the standard in administrative proceedings. Atkinson, 37 N.J. 143. The evidence needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis.

An appeal to the Merit System Board requires the Office of Administrative Law to conduct a de novo hearing and to determine appellant's guilt or innocence as well as the appropriate penalty. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987).

There is no constitutional or statutory right to a government job. State-Operated Sch. Dist. of Newark v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6. The issues to be determined at the de novo hearing are whether the appellant is guilty of the charges brought against him and, if so, the appropriate penalty, if any, which should be imposed. See Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571 (1980); W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). In this matter, the Hudson County Sheriff's Department bears the burden of proving the charges against appellant by a preponderance of the credible evidence. See Polk, 90 N.J. 550; Atkinson, 37 N.J. 143.

Police officers are held to a higher standard of conduct than ordinary public employees. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 576-77 (1990). They represent "law and order to the citizenry and must present an image of personal integrity and dependability in order to have the respect of the public." Moorestown v. Armstrong, 89 N.J. Super. 560, 566 (App. Div. 1965), certif. denied, 47 N.J. 80 (1966). Maintenance of strict discipline is important in military-like settings such as police departments, prisons and correctional facilities. Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 50 N.J. 269 (1971); City of Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317 (App. Div. 1967). Refusal to obey orders and disrespect of authority cannot be tolerated. Cosme v. Borough of E. Newark Twp. Comm., 304 N.J. Super. 191, 199 (App. Div. 1997).

An employee may be disciplined for insubordination, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause, among other reasons. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. This matter involves a major disciplinary action, brought by the respondent appointing authority against appellant, seeking a ten-day suspension. Respondent has charged Appellant with insubordination, neglect of duty, and other sufficient cause.

The salient facts in this matter are basically undisputed. Appellant was first advised by Investigator Trombetta that he was to not leave per Sergeant Baird as he may be needed to do a medical run. Appellant's reply was that he had checked out and was leaving. Investigator Trombetta advised Appellant a second time that Sergeant Baird wad mandating he stay. Thereafter Appellant went to the lobby to leave the building. In the lobby Sergeant Baird gave Appellant the order directly. Appellant did not promptly obey the order. Instead he went to speak with his immediate supervisor, Sergeant Carrillo. Sergeant Carrillo, and Lieutenant Toft, who was there at the time, advised Appellant to obey the order.

Appellant argues that not much time transpired from the time he was given the order directly by Sergeant Baird and the time when he eventually complied with the order. This argument is a red herring. There is no dispute he did not promptly comply with the order as required by the Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Department. Rather Appellant sought to not comply with the order by speaking with Sergeant Carrillo. He knew, or should have known, the rules. He admitted in his testimony that he is to obey superior officers' orders. He admitted in his testimony that the proper procedure is to file a grievance if he believed an order to be inappropriate. That he ultimately complied does not negate his initial non-compliance.

INSUBORDINATION N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(2)

Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Importantly, this definition incorporates acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience. Thus, insubordination can occur even where no specific order or direction has been given to the allegedly insubordinate person.

Further, Insubordination, though not defined in the New Jersey Administrative Code, has been given a more expansive definition, to include acts of disobedience, non-compliance and non-cooperation." In re Stanziale, CSV 4113-00, Final Decision (January 29, 2001), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, aff'd, No. A-3492-00

(App. Div. April 11, 2002). It thus encompasses more than a simple refusal to obey an order. In re Chaparro, 2011 N.J. CSC LEXIS 102 (N.J. CSC 2011) (CSC decision citing In re Stanziale,No. A-3492-00T5 (App. Div. April 11, 2002) (employee's conduct in which he refused to provide complete and accurate information when requested by a superior constituted insubordination)); In re Lyons, No. A-2488-07T2 (App. Div. April 26, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>; In re Moreno, CSV 14037-09, Initial Decision (June 10, 2010), modified, CSC (August 9, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; In re Bell, CSV 4695-09, Initial Decision (May 12, 2010), modified, CSC (June 24, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>; In re Pettiford, CSV 08801-07,Initial Decision (March 13, 2008), adopted, Merit System Board (June 13, 2008), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (Moreno, Bell, and Pettiford all concerning disrespect of a supervisor).

The Civil Service Commission also has determined that an appellant is required to comply with an order of his or her superior, even if he or she believed the orders to be improper or contrary to established rules and regulations. See Palamara v. Twp. of Irvington, A-5408-05T3 (App. Div. February 28, 2005), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/>; compare, In re Allen, CSV 11160-04, Initial Decision (May 23, 2005), remanded, Merit System Board (July 14, 2005), CSV 09132-05 Initial Decision, (November 22, 2005), adopted, Merit System Board (January 26, 2006) <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (in which the Board determined that the appellant's disobedience was justified by concerns for the safety of the clients on a bus and reversed his removal).

I CONCLUDE that appellant is guilty of Insubordination for not promptly following the direct order of Sergeant Baird. Insubordination is defined in the Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Department, R. 1.4(a), as follows:

> Personnel shall promptly obey all lawful orders of any supervisor. Failure or deliberate refusal of any employee to obey a lawful order of a supervisor, ridiculing a supervisor or his order, in or out of his presence, or disrespectful, mutinous, insolent or abusive language directed toward a supervisor, shall constitute insubordinate or serious breach of discipline.

NEGLECT OF DUTY N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7)

Neglect of duty is not defined under the New Jersey Administrative Code, but the charge has been interpreted to mean that an employee has failed to perform and act as required by the description of their job title. Generally, the term "neglect" connotes a deviation from normal standards of conduct. In re Kerlin, 151 N.J. Super. 179, 186 (App. Div. 1977). It has been applied both to not fully carrying out duties and to acting incorrectly. See, e.g., In re Marucci, CSV 07241-09, Initial Decision (January 1, 2010), modified, CSC (March 6, 2010), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/>, aff'd, A-3607-09T1 (App. Div. January 3, 2012), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/courts/> (removal of a police officer with no disciplinary record where he failed to remove drugs from under a sewer grate and then lied about his actions); see also In re Dona, CSV 10782-08, Initial Decision (August 3, 2009), modified, CSC (August 8, 2009), <http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/> (affirming twenty-day suspension for failing to pat down inmate properly, missing a wooden shank).

I CONCLUDE that appellant is guilty of Neglect of Duty for not promptly complying with the direct order of Sergeant Baird. Neglect of Duty is defined in the Rules and Regulations of the Hudson County Sheriff's Department, R. 1.3, as follows:

> Personnel are required to give suitable attention to the performance of their duties. Any act or omission or commission indicating failure to perform or the negligent performance or compliance to any rule, regulation, directive, order or standard operative procedure as dictated by Sheriff's Office practice, or as published, which causes any detriment to the Sheriff's Office, its personnel, and any prisoner or to any member of the public, shall be considered neglect of duty.

OTHER SUFFICIENT CAUSE N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12)

There is no definition in the New Jersey Administrative Code for other sufficient cause. Other sufficient cause is generally defined in the charges against Appellant. The charge of other sufficient cause has been dismissed when "respondent has not given any substance to the allegation." Simmons v. City of Newark, CSV 9122-99, Initial Decision (February 22, 2006), adopted, Comm'r (April 26, 2006), http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/final/. Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct.

I CONCLUDE that appellant is guilty of Other Sufficient Cause for violating this standard of good behavior.

The final issue to be addressed is the appropriate penalty warranted under these circumstances. Appellant's prior disciplinary record may be considered for guidance in determining the appropriate penalty, as the principle of progressive discipline is applied in this state. Bock, 38 N.J.at 523. Although an employee's past record may not be considered for purposes of proving the present charge, past misconduct can be a factor in determining the appropriate penalty for the current misconduct. In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007); In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007); Bock, 38 N.J. at 522-23. The underlying intendment of progressive discipline is to provide an employee with notice of his deficiencies and the opportunity to correct them.

Unless the penalty is unreasonable, arbitrary, or offensively excessive, it should be permitted to stand. Ducher v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 7 N.J. Super. 156 (App. Div. 1950). Appellant's entire record of performance must be considered when attempting to determine if the judgment of the appointing authority was unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious. See Bock, 38 N.J. 500.

Appellant has one prior disciplinary matter arising from an incident from October 30, 2015. Appellant refused to comply with an order to man a crosswalk post. Appellant's contention at the time was that he was protecting his contractual rights as assignment to this post was by seniority. A five-day suspension was imposed and upheld by an arbitrator.

I CONCLUDE that the respondent has carried its burden to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that appellant was guilty of the Charges sustained in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action: Insubordination N.J.A.C. 4A;2-2.3(a)(2); Neglect of Duty N.J.A.C. 4A:2.2-3(a)(7); and, Other Sufficient Cause N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12); and, that the penalty of a ten-day suspension without pay should be affirmed.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I ORDER that the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action, and the imposition of a ten-day suspension without pay, is hereby AFFIRMED; and,

It is further ORDERED that Appellant's appeal is DISMISSED, with prejudice.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, P.O. Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

In the Matter of Tamika Jones-Richardson
City of East Orange

CSC DKT. NO. 2017-3599
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 08152-17

DECISION OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JULY 20, 2018 BW

The appeal of Tamika Jones-Richardson, Data Control Clerk, City of East Orange, Department of Property Maintenance Revitalization, removal effective April 12, 2017, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Thomas R. Betancourt, who rendered his initial decision on May 4, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant.

Having considered the record and the ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on July 18, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached ALJ's initial decision as well as his recommendation to modify the removal to a 30 working day suspension. The Commission also upholds the recommendation that the appellant undergo a psychiatric examination prior to her reinstatement.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was not justified. Accordingly, the Commission modifies the removal to a 30 working day suspension. The Commission also orders that the appellant undergo a psychiatric examination prior to her reinstatement. If the appellant is found not able to perform her duties based on the results of that examination or fails to complete the evaluation, the appointing authority may initiate a new disciplinary charge for the appellant's removal based on her current unfitness or noncompliance, with a current date of removal. Regardless, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the appellant would be entitled to receive mitigated back pay, benefits and seniority from the conclusion of the suspension until the actual date of reinstatement or removal. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. An affidavit of mitigation shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10, the parties are encouraged to make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to back pay. However, under no circumstances should the appellant's reinstatement be delayed based on any dispute regarding back pay.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, unpublished, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay are finally resolved.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

CITY OF EAST ORANGE, DEPARTMENT OF PROPERTY MAINTENANCE REVITALIZATION, Respondent.

Jennelle Blackmon, Union Representative, CWA, AFL-CIO for Appellant, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Mark A. DiPisa, Esq., for Respondent (Roth D'Aquanni, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 19, 2018 Decided: May 4, 2018

BEFORE THOMAS R. BETANCOURT, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant, Tamika Jones-Richardson, appeals a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated April 12, 2017, providing for a penalty of removal effective the same date.

The Civil Service Commission transmitted the contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where it was filed on June 9, 2017.

A prehearing conference was held on June 23, 2017, and a prehearing order of the same date was entered by the undersigned.

A hearing was held on February 2, 2018, March 1, 2018, and March 8, 2018. The record remained open to April 19, 2018, to afford the parties the opportunity to submit written summations.

ISSUES

Whether there is sufficient credible evidence to sustain the charges set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action; and, if sustained, whether a penalty of removal is warranted.

SUMMARY OF RELEVANT TESTIMONY

Respondent's Case

Michele Ralph-Rawls testified as follows:

She is the Director of Human Resources for the City of East Orange. She knows the appellant as an employee of East Orange. She had input in drafting the Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) dated November 1, 2016, in conjunction with the department director. She stated appellant refused to submit for an examination with a forensic psychologist, which was insubordination; refused a fitness for duty examination at Concentra and created a situation there that was conduct unbecoming a public employee; and, was frequently tardy and absent from work.

Appellant was sent to Concentra after Ms. Ralph-Rawls had a conversation with appellant about her tardiness and absenteeism in October 20, 2016. The department director, Dwight Saunders, had complained about this after issuing a written warning. She noted that appellant had two prior disciplinary matters for tardiness and absenteeism: a verbal warning and a written warning. During the conversation appellant had stated to Ms. Ralph-Rawls that she was depressed. This was the reason for the referral to Concentra for a fitness for duty examination.

Appellant had changed departments. She left Senior Services as she had problems with the manager there. Appellant requested a transfer. Appellant was transferred to the Department of Property Maintenance.

During the conversation with appellant in October 2016 appellant requested a return to Senior Services as she liked working with the senior population. Appellant told Ms. Ralph-Rawls she would only go back if the manager was removed.

She felt the referral to Concentra was necessary as appellant had stated she was depressed and it was incumbent on her to do something about it. Concentra is the medical service where the city sends its employees for fitness for duty examinations. The only reason for the referral was appellant stating she was depressed.

At Concentra appellant refused to be examined over an objection to Concentra's privacy agreement and did not want to sign it. She thought it was too broad. Appellant called the witness to advise her of her objection. The assistant manager at Concentra also called to advise appellant would not be examined for this reason.

Sergeant Williams from the city police department was called by Concentra as there was an outburst by appellant at Concentra. Sergeant Williams is the city's medical liaison officer. Sergeant Williams called the witness and communicated to her what the director at Concentra had said.

Appellant left Concentra and was not seen this day. Concentra edited the privacy statement by letter and this was acceptable to appellant. Appellant went back to Concentra a second time and was not seen. Appellant left but Ms. Ralph-Rawls did not know the reason why. Appellant went back a third time and was examined. Concentra recommended that appellant undergo a psychiatric evaluation.

An appointment was made for appellant to go to the Institute for Forensic Psychology (IFP) for an examination. Appellant was asked to come in to pick up registration documents for IFP. The examination was scheduled for October 31, 2016. Appellant did arrive at Ms. Ralph-Rawls but did not pick up the documents. IFP called to advise that appellant did not keep her appointment. Appellant was called and told it would be re-scheduled. Appellant advised she did not go as she did not have the money to get to IFP. Appellant was told arrangements would be made to get her to IFP. Appellant was also told that her continued employment was contingent on the examination. This was now in November 2016. Appellant did not go to the second appointment at IFP. Ms. Ralph-Rawls advised the doctor at IFP of appellant's work history at the city and why she was being referred for an evaluation.

Director Dwight Saunders submitted a memorandum to the witness, dated October 31, 2016, regarding appellant's impact upon the department by her tardiness and absences.

A Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA), dated November 1, 2016, was prepared and suspended appellant without pay effective immediately. An amended PNDA was prepared, dated November 18, 2016. A Notice of Disciplinary Action was prepared by Director Dwight Saunders dated October 31, 2016, outlining her continued absences on October 26 and 27, 2016, where appellant called out sick; and, on October 28, 2016, where appellant did not call and did not report to work; and October 31, 2016, did not report to work or go to her fitness for duty examination. This document aided in the preparation of the PNDA.

Ms. Ralph-Rawls stated that appellant was suspended for ninety days, later reduced to forty-five days, when working at Senior Services. When appellant transferred into Property Maintenance the city did not continue with progressive discipline and gave her a clean slate in her new position.

Appellant was not referred to the Employee Assistance Program (EAP). Ms. Ralph-Rawls oversees EAP. When employees have mental health issues she has referred them to EAP. It is not city policy to send employees for a fitness for duty examination for excessive tardiness or absenteeism. The only reason appellant was sent for a fitness for duty examination was she said she was depressed.

On or about October 20, 2016, she met with appellant regarding her tardiness and absenteeism. This is also the day appellant went to Concentra.

A call was received by Sergeant Williams this date. He is the medical officer for the East Orange Police Department. He was called by Concentra regarding an incident with appellant. She understood that appellant was cursing at a Concentra employee. Cursing is a significant fact. She was not at Concentra when the incident occurred. The PNDA does not mention cursing. Cursing is also not mentioned in a letter from the witness to appellant dated November 1, 2016, advising appellant she was suspended.

She spoke with appellant regarding Concentra's privacy policy which appellant felt was too broad. She spoke with the director at Concentra to get the privacy policy changed.

The witness prepared a memo to file regarding appellant dated November 15, 2016. She acknowledged the contact with the director at Concentra to get the policy changed so that appellant could be seen. Concentra did submit a letter modifying the privacy policy for appellant. Thereafter appellant was seen by Concentra on October 24, 2016. Appellant was not refusing to be seen at Concentra. She was refusing to sign the privacy policy.

The IFP examination was scheduled for the end of October 2016. The second date scheduled was maybe November 14, 2016. This was after the PNDA date of November 1, 2016. Appellant was suspended from work immediately after November 1, 2016, without pay. The PNDA was dated October 31, 2016.

Ms. Ralph-Rawls was not sure if appellant was sent Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA) documents due to absenteeism. She does not distribute this material. It is another employee.

Mark James Barner testified as follows:

He is the Director of the Division of Property and Maintenance for the City of East Orange. He started as director on January 1, 2018. Prior to this he was Assistant Director. Appellant was employed in his division. He spoke to appellant regarding her frequent tardiness and absenteeism. Appellant had started in Property Maintenance in April 2016. By that time she had used all her available sick time. By July she had used all her vacation time. Appellant continued to call in sick and arrive late. Initially he gave Appellant a verbal warning. He then gave her a written warning.

Petitioner would arrive late two or three times per week by fifteen to twenty minutes. Sometimes she would arrive at noon or one p.m. Sometimes she would leave early. When appellant did show up for work she performed her job. The policy for using sick time was to call. Appellant did not call every time she would be absent.

Mr. Barner stated appellant was given a verbal warning and then a written warning regarding her tardiness and absenteeism.

Mr. Barner reviewed appellant's time cards and time tabulation for appellant.

The policy is to call in when absent. Appellant did not do this every time. Appellant would come in late and leave early. One time appellant called in she was crying and stated she did not want to be at work. Appellant did not say why.

Prior to the Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 1, 2016, appellant had no prior disciplinary matters at Property and Maintenance.

Michael Williams, Jr. testified as follows:

He is a sergeant with the East Orange Police Department. He is the medical officer. He tracks sick time, processes FMLA matters and line of duty cases. He knows appellant. He received a telephone call from Giovanni and Debbie from Concentra in the late afternoon. He does not recall the date. Giovanni is the manager at Concentra. Debbie works at Concentra also. Debbie told him an employee was being unruly and would not sign off on paperwork so the employee could be treated. He was called as he is one of the liaisons for the city with Concentra. He was called as Concentra could not locate Ms. Ralph-Rawls. He reached out for Director Saunders who told him that appellant did not work for him, but for Ms. Ralph-Rawls. Ms. Ralph-Rawls called him and he related the conversation he had with Debbie from Concentra. He has no idea of the time between the incident and the time he received the telephone call.

Deborah Beck testified as follows:

She is the Assistant Operations Manager for Concentra. Concentra does fitness for duty examinations for East Orange. She knows appellant from when she was at Concentra for a fitness for duty examination in October 2016. She recalls an incident with appellant. Appellant came in for a fitness for duty examination. Appellant did not feel comfortable with the forms and chose not to sign them. An evaluation could not be done without signed forms. Appellant still wanted the services provided but did not want to sign the forms. Appellant was aggravated. Appellant came in and out of Concentra. She was on her cell phone. Appellant became loud and disruptive and called her a "sarcastic bitch." Ms. Beck told appellant if the forms are not signed no service could be provided. Appellant left Concentra at this time. The date was October 20, 2016. Appellant did sign the forms on October 21, 2017.

Ms. Beck shared with Giovanni what happened and they felt the need to speak with someone at East Orange. They called Sergeant Williams as they deal with him a lot.

Petitioner was examined on October 24, 2016.

Giovanni Lepiani testified as follows:

He is the Operation Director for Concentra. He remembers appellant. He met her at Concentra, but does not remember the date. He did not witness the incident on October 21, 2016. Ms. Beck told him about it. He was told a patient was irate and used derogatory terms. He called Sergeant Williams. It is not normal to have disruption at the center. He told Sergeant Williams what happened. He spoke with Human Resources and later wrote the letter regarding Concentra's privacy policy. He spoke with appellant the next day and advised her she must sign the privacy policy to receive the examination. He had a good interaction with appellant.

Appellant signed the return to work evaluation after the doctor spoke with her.

Appellant asked him to write a letter stating that the police were not called to the center.

Appellant's Case

Tamika Jones-Richardson, Appellant, testified as follows:

On October 20, 2016, she was told she was being sent to Concentra for a fitness for duty exam. She was not told why. She did not refuse to go. She went to Concentra on October 20, 2016, signed in and waited. She read the literature at Concentra. She became concerned and asked to speak with someone regarding the policy of sharing private health information. She was concerned that her private health information could be shared. She wanted it limited to sharing with East Orange and her insurance company. She asked to speak with the manager, who was not in. She spoke with Deborah Beck the assistant manager. She was told by Ms. Beck "nope, not gonna happen," "not going to do it." Ms. Beck smiled at her which appellant took as sarcastic and condescending. Appellant asked to speak with a supervisor and was told the supervisor was not there. Ms. Beck told appellant she would tell her employer that she refused to be seen. She did not curse at Ms. Beck.

Appellant went back to work and was called into a meeting with Ms. Ralph-Rawls and the director and assistant director of Property Maintenance. She was asked why she refused to be seen at Concentra. She stated her concerns with the privacy policy. Ms. Ralph-Rawls told her she would call Concentra. Ms. Ralph-Rawls already knew what transpired at Concentra. No mention was made at this time regarding Ms. Beck stating appellant cursed at her.

The secretary at Human Resources called her to advise Concentra would amend her privacy policy to accommodate her concerns. Appellant went back on October 21, 2016, and spoke with Mr. Lepiani and had a good conversation with him. She thanked him for accommodating her concerns. She spoke with him for about thirty minutes. Mr. Lepiani never mentioned her cursing at Ms. Beck. Mr. Lepiani told her the wait that day would be about three hours. Appellant could not wait as she is a single mother and had to pick up her daughter. She went back to Concentra on October 24, 2016, and was examined.

After the October 24, 2016, examination at Concentra she was asked to pick up paperwork to do a follow-up examination. This was at 4:00 p.m. The examination was for Monday morning, October 31, 2016. She could not pick up the paper work as she had to be in court on a traffic warrant. She advised the assistant director of this and showed him the court notice.

She did not make the October 31, 2016, appointment as she suffered an extreme panic attack that morning. She did call out. She also had a pre-scheduled therapist appointment. She did go to her therapist appointment. It was a therapeutic appointment. She tried to give this to her employer. It was not accepted as they were already in a termination meeting. She was given FMLA paperwork by her therapist. She tried to give this to the benefits coordinator when at work on November 1, 2016. They were not accepted. She went back to her desk and was told to go to Human Resources. She was told she was being terminated. As of November 1, 2016, she assumed she was terminated.

She had already exhausted her sick time. She did provide documentation for her previous doctor appointment. She submitted a document from Care Station Medical Group that she would be out of work from October 5, 2016, to October 12, 2016. She still received a discipline write up.

She did not go to the appointment with IFP on November 14, 2016, as she was already terminated and did not have funds to travel to IFP. The city never offered assistance with transportation.

She has been undergoing therapy and has much improved. She is able to cope in the work place now.

She acknowledged that the PNDA proposes termination. She was never told she was terminated. She assumed she was being terminated. She was suspended without pay as of November 1, 2016.

She did not find out about the October 31, 2016, meeting until Friday, October 28, 2016. She told an employee, Tonya, at the city that she had a scheduled appointment with her doctor.

CREDIBILITY

When witnesses present conflicting testimonies, it is the duty of the trier of fact to weigh each witness's credibility and make a factual finding. In other words, credibility is the value a fact finder assigns to the testimony of a witness, and it incorporates the overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, consistency, and how it comports with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963); see Polk, supra, 90 N.J. 550. Credibility findings "are often influenced by matters such as observations of the character and demeanor of witnesses and common human experience that are not transmitted by the record." State v. Locurto, 157 N.J. 463 (1999). A fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837 (1973).

The finder of fact is not bound to believe the testimony of any witness, and credibility does not automatically rest astride the party with more witnesses. In re Perrone, 5 N.J. 514 (1950). Testimony may be disbelieved, but may not be disregarded at an administrative proceeding. Middletown Twp. v. Murdoch, 73 N.J. Super. 511 (App. Div. 1962). Credible testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of credible witnesses but must be credible in itself. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954).

Ms. Ralph-Rawls testified is a straightforward and truthful manner. She was professional in her demeanor and did not shy away from or avoid answering questions. I deem her credible. However, her testimony as to what transpired at Concentra on October 21, 2016, is given no weight. This testimony is based upon a conversation with Ms. Beck, Mr. Lepiani, and Sergeant Williams. She did not witness the event.

Mr. James Barner was also credible. His testimony was largely confined to appellant's time tabulation and time cards, and the times she would either be late or miss work.

Sergeant Williams was also credible. His testimony was of little help as he did not witness the incident at Concentra on October 21, 2016, and was only able to relate what was told to him.

Ms. Deborah Beck was also credible. She related her understanding of what transpired between her and appellant on October 21, 2016, in a straightforward and direct manner.

Ms. Tamika Jones-Richardson was also credible. She related her understanding of what transpired between her and Ms. Beck on October 21, 2016, in a straightforward and direct manner. The balance of her testimony was likewise credible.

It is not unusual for two witnesses to relate different versions of the same event and both be credible. It is ultimately up to the finder of fact to determine which version is more likely than not, or to determine that neither version carries the day in terms of preponderance.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner was employed by the City of East Orange in the Department of Property Maintenance. Prior to this position she was employed by the city in Senior Services.
2. During the course of her employment, and prior to the November 1, 2016, appellant had exhausted her personal, sick, and vacation time. (R-7, R-8, R-9 and R-10.)
3. Appellant continued to be absent and tardy from work even though she had no available personal, sick, or vacation time. (R-7, R-8, R-9 and R-10.)
4. Due to repeated tardiness and absenteeism, appellant received a Notice of Disciplinary Action (Verbal Warning) dated September 1, 2016. (R-9.)
5. Appellant was late eight times and absent eleven times after receipt of the verbal warning. Appellant received a Notice of Disciplinary Action (Written Warning) dated October 12, 2016, regarding this. (R-10.)

6. Appellant provided her employer with a note from Care Station Medical Group that appellant could return to work on October 12, 2016. (A-14.)

7. Appellant provided her employer with a Certification of Health Care Provider for Family Member's Serious Health Condition form under the FMLA, dated October 16, 2016. (A-13.)

8. Appellant was called into a meeting with Ms. Ralph-Rawls, director of Human Resources for the city, to discuss her continued tardiness and absenteeism. This meeting took place on October 20, 2016.

9. During the course of this meeting appellant advised Ms. Ralph-Rawls that she was feeling depressed. Ms. Ralph-Rawls then advised appellant that she was to undergo a fitness for duty examination at Concentra. The only reason for the request for the fitness for duty examination was appellant stating she was depressed. The fitness for duty examination was scheduled for October 20, 2016. (R-6.)

10. Appellant reported to Concentra to undergo the examination on October 20, 2016. While there she read the center's privacy policy and had issues with who could review appellant's medical information. She spoke with Ms. Beck, the assistant manager at Concentra, who advised appellant that the privacy form could not be changed and that without signing it the examination could not take place. Appellant asked to speak with Ms. Beck's supervisor and was advised that he was not present. Appellant left Concentra on October 20, 2016, without undergoing the examination.

11. After appellant left Concentra on October 20, 2016, upon Mr. Lepiani's return to the center, a call was placed to Sergeant Williams as he is the contact person for Concentra with the city. The call was made as Ms. Beck characterized appellant as unruly. Sergeant Williams contacted Ms. Ralph-Rawls to advise. Ms. Ralph-Rawls spoke with Ms. Beck and Mr. Lepiani.

12. Appellant called Ms. Ralph-Rawls to let her know about her concerns with the privacy policy. Ms. Ralph-Rawls, who had already spoken with Ms. Beck and Mr. Lepiani from Concentra, told appellant she would assist with getting the privacy statement modified. This was done by Mr. Lepiani by letter dated October 21, 2016, and was to appellant's satisfaction. (R-12.)

13. Appellant returned to Concentra on October 21, 2016, and spoke with Mr. Lepiani, the manager at Concentra, who advised her that the wait for an examination would be approximately three hours. Appellant, who is a single mother, could not wait that long as she had to pick up her daughter. Appellant left Concentra on October 21, 2016, without being examined.

14. On October 24, 2016, appellant returned to Concentra and was examined. The result of that examination was a recommendation for a psychiatric evaluation prior to appellant's return to work. (R-13.)

15. Mr. Lepiani wrote a letter, at the request of appellant, dated January 25, 2017, stating that Sergeant Williams was called as the public safety manager for the city was not available. Mr. Lepiani characterized the basis for the call was a "misunderstanding" that occurred.

16. An examination was scheduled at IFP for October 31, 2016. Appellant did not make this appointment for several reasons: she had no funds for transportation; she had a panic attack; and, she had a scheduled appointment with her therapist. (A-12.)

17. Prior to her appointment at IFP, which was on a Monday, appellant was asked to pick up paper work for IFP on Friday, October 28, 2016. Appellant did not pick up the paper work that day as she had to be in court regarding a traffic warrant. (A-11.)

18. The IFP examination was rescheduled for November 14, 2016. Appellant did not appear for the examination this date as she assumed she had already been terminated from employment.

19. Appellant, while not terminated, had been suspended without pay and served with a PNDA seeking termination on November 1, 2016. (R-1 and R-18.)

20. Ms. Ralph-Rawls authored a memorandum regarding appellant, dated November 15, 2016, which led to the issuance of an amended PNDA. (R-4 and R-19.)

21. A FNDA was issued on providing for termination from employment effective April 12, 2017. (R-5.)

22. While employed at Senior Services appellant was twice disciplined, resulting in a five-day suspension and a ninety-day suspension (reduced to forty-five days after a hearing at the OAL). (R-20 and R-21.)

23. Respondent waived, in terms of progressive discipline, the discipline imposed on appellant while at Senior Services. (CourtSmart audio 2/2/18, 10:26:37 a.m. to 10:27:19 a.m.)

24. While the emotional issues appellant suffers from were not defined during the course of the hearing, based upon the testimony of Ms. Ralph-Rawls regarding her conversation with appellant on October 20, 2016, and the testimony of appellant, it is clear that appellant does suffer from some emotional issues and is undergoing therapy. (A-13 and A-14.)

LEGAL ANALAYSIS AND CONCLUSION

The Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1-1 to -12.6, governs a civil service employee's rights and duties. The Act is an important inducement to attract qualified personnel to public service and is to be liberally construed toward attainment of merit appointments and broad tenure protection. See Essex Council No. 1, N.J. Civil Serv. Ass'n v. Gibson, 114 N.J. Super. 576 (Law Div. 1971), rev'd on other grounds, 118 N.J. Super. 583 (App. Div. 1972); Mastrobattista v. Essex County Park Comm'n, 46 N.J. 138, 147 (1965). The Act also recognizes that the public policy of this state is to provide appropriate appointment, supervisory, and other personnel authority to public officials in order that they may execute properly their constitutional and statutory responsibilities. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2(b). In order to carry out this policy, the Act also includes provisions authorizing the discipline of public employees.

A public employee who is protected by the provisions of the Civil Service Act may be subject to major discipline for a wide variety of offenses connected to his or her employment. The general causes for such discipline are set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2 2.3(a). In an appeal from such discipline, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relies by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982). The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Therefore, the judge must "decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, and according to the reasonable probability of truth." Jackson v. Del., Lackawanna and W. R.R., 111 N.J.L. 487, 490 (E. & A. 1933). This burden of proof falls on the agency in enforcement proceedings to prove violations of administrative regulations. Cumberland Farms v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987).

This forum has the duty to decide in favor of the party on whose side the weight of the evidence preponderates, in accordance with a reasonable probability of truth. Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes 'the reasonable probability of the fact.'" Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). The evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein, 26 N.J. at 275. The burden of proof falls on the appointing authority in enforcement proceedings to prove a violation of administrative regulations. Cumberland Farms, 218 N.J. Super. at 341. The respondent must prove its case by a preponderance of the credible evidence, which is the standard in administrative proceedings. Atkinson, 37 N.J. 143. The evidence needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis.

An appeal to the Merit System Board[1] requires the Office of Administrative Law to conduct a de novo hearing and to determine appellant's guilt or innocence as well as the appropriate penalty. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987).

The sustained charges in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (R-5) are set forth as: insubordination; chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness; and, conduct unbecoming a public employee. These charges are set forth in N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(2), (4), and (6), respectively.

[1] Now the Civil Service Commission.

"Conduct unbecoming a public employee" encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atl. City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998). It is sufficient that the complained-of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Id. at 555 (citation omitted). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (citation omitted).

As to the charge of conduct unbecoming a public employee, at hand there are two different versions of what transpired at Concentra on October 21, 2016. One is given by Ms. Beck, the other by appellant. The versions of the incident set forth in the testimony of Ms. Ralph-Rawls, Sergeant Williams, and Mr. Lepiani are not given any weight. They are based entirely on their memory of what Ms. Beck told them. The two individuals actually involved in the matter testified. Only their respective testimony is considered herein in determining if respondent carried its burden by a preponderance of the credible evidence as to this charge. As there are two credible witnesses as to this event, each with their own version of what transpired I cannot determine that there is a preponderance of credible evidence either for or against sustaining this charge. The evidence is in equipoise.

Black's Law Dictionary 802 (7th Ed. 1999) defines insubordination as a "willful disregard of an employer's instructions" or an "act of disobedience to proper authority." Webster's II New College Dictionary (1995) defines insubordination as "not submissive to authority: disobedient." Such dictionary definitions have been utilized by courts to define the term where it is not specifically defined in contract or regulation.

> "Insubordination" is not defined in the agreement. Consequently, assuming for purposes of argument that its > presence is implicit, we are obliged to accept its ordinary definition since it is not a technical term or word of art and there are no circumstances indicating that a different meaning was intended.

> [Ricci v. Corp. Express of the E., 344 N.J. Super. 39, 45 (App. Div. 2001) (citation omitted).]

Importantly, this definition incorporates acts of non-compliance and non-cooperation, as well as affirmative acts of disobedience. Thus, insubordination can occur even where no specific order or direction has been given to the allegedly insubordinate person. Insubordination is always a serious matter, especially in a paramilitary context. "Refusal to obey orders and disrespect cannot be tolerated. Such conduct adversely affects the morale and efficiency of the department." Rivell v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 115 N.J. Super. 64, 72 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 59 N.J. 269 (1971).

As to the question of insubordination, again I cannot determine that appellant was insubordinate. While Ms. Ralph-Rawls characterized appellant's behavior as a refusal to submit to a fitness for duty examination at Concentra, I cannot reach this conclusion. Appellant did go to Concentra on October 20, 2016, for purposes of submitting to an examination. She had an issue with the privacy policy and would not agree to it as written. She communicated this to Ms. Beck who advised her it could not be changed. This was incorrect as it could be changed and was by Mr. Lepiani. Further, appellant communicated her issue to Ms. Ralph-Rawls who then assisted with the change to the privacy policy. The second time appellant went to Concentra the wait, three hours, was too long as she had to attend to other business. Appellant did submit to the examination on October 24, 2016. This is hardly a refusal to submit for an examination.

The other examination, at IFP, was scheduled for October 31, 2016. Appellant did not make the appointment, advising Ms. Ralph-Rawls that she did not have funds to pay for transportation. Ms. Ralph-Rawls advised appellant that the city would arrange to get her to the appointment, which was re-scheduled for November 14, 2016. Appellant also had an appointment with her therapist the same day. Appellant was served with a PNDA, dated October 31, 2016, and a letter from Ms. Ralph-Rawls, dated November 1, 2016, advising her she was suspended without pay and that respondent was seeking her termination. Appellant did not make the appointment on November 14, 2016, based upon her understanding that she was terminated and that it would be superfluous to attend. I cannot conclude, based upon these facts, that appellant was insubordinate for not undergoing the examination at IFP.

As to the charge of chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness respondent has more than met their burden by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In fact, appellant does not dispute the number of days she was either late or absent. Nor does she dispute that at times she failed to comply with policy and call in.

I CONCLUDE that the respondent has carried its burden to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that that appellant was guilty of the charge of chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action.

I further CONCLUDE that the respondent has not carried its burden to prove by a preponderance of the credible evidence that that appellant was guilty of the charges of insubordination and conduct unbecoming a public employee set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action.

The question remains as to what the appropriate penalty should be. Here appellant has several prior disciplinary matters, as follows: appellant was suspended for five days by Notice of Minor Disciplinary Action dated May 19, 2014, for conduct unbecoming a public employee; appellant was suspended for ninety days by Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated October 28, 2014, for conduct unbecoming a public employee[2]; appellant received a verbal warning by Notice of Disciplinary Action dated September 1, 2016, for tardiness and absenteeism; and, appellant received a written warning by Notice of Disciplinary Action dated October 12, 2016, for tardiness and absenteeism. The two suspensions occurred while appellant was working for Senior

[2] This suspension was later reduced to forty-five days by the Honorable Leland S. McGee, ALJ, after a hearing at the OAL. See CSV 00937-15, http://njlaw.rutgers.edu/collections/oal/.

Services. The verbal and written warnings occurred while appellant was working for Property Maintenance.

Although the focus is generally on the seriousness of the current charge as well as the prior disciplinary history of the appellant, consideration must also be given to the purpose of the civil service laws. Civil service laws "are designed to promote efficient public service, not to benefit errant employees . . . The welfare of the people as a whole, and not exclusively the welfare of the civil servant, is the basic policy underlining the statutory scheme." State-Operated School District v. Gaines, 309 N.J. Super. 327, 334 (App. Div. 1998). "The overriding concern in assessing the propriety of the penalty is the public good. Of the various considerations which bear upon that issue, several factors may be considered, including the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record." George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d. (CSV) 463, 465.

In West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 522 (1962), which was decided more than fifty years ago, our Supreme Court first recognized the concept of progressive discipline, under which "past misconduct can be a factor in the determination of the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 29 (2007) (citing Bock, 38 N.J. at 522). The Court therein concluded that "consideration of past record is inherently relevant" in a disciplinary proceeding, and held that an employee's "past record" includes "an employee's reasonably recent history of promotions, commendations and the like on the one hand and, on the other, formally adjudicated disciplinary actions as well as instances of misconduct informally adjudicated, so to speak, by having been previously brought to the attention of and admitted by the employee." Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-24.

As the Supreme Court explained in Herrmann, 192 N.J. at 30, "[s]ince Bock, the concept of progressive discipline has been utilized in two ways when determining the appropriate penalty for present misconduct." According to the Court:

> . . . First, principles of progressive discipline can support the imposition of a more severe penalty for a public employee who engages in habitual misconduct . . . .

> The second use to which the principle of progressive discipline has been put is to mitigate the penalty for a current offense . . . for an employee who has a substantial record of employment that is largely or totally unblemished by significant disciplinary infractions . . . .
> . . . [T]hat is not to say that incremental discipline is a principle that must be applied in every disciplinary setting. To the contrary, judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when . . . the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.
> [Hermann, 192 N.J. at 30-33 (citations omitted).]

In the matter of In re Stallworth, 208 N.J. 182 (2011), a Camden County pump-station operator was charged with falsifying records and abusing work hours, and the ALJ imposed removal. The Commission modified the penalty to a four-month suspension and the appellate court reversed. The Court re-examined the principle of progressive discipline. Acknowledging that progressive discipline has been bypassed where the conduct is sufficiently egregious, the Court noted that "there must be fairness and generally proportionate discipline imposed for similar offenses." Id. at 193. Finding that the totality of an employee's work history, with emphasis on the "reasonably recent past," should be considered to assure proper progressive discipline, the Court modified and affirmed (as modified) the lower court and remanded the matter to the Commission for reconsideration.

In deciding what penalty is appropriate, the courts have looked toward the concept of progressive discipline. In Bock, 38 N.J. at 523-524, The New Jersey Supreme Court held that evidence of a past disciplinary record, including the nature, number, and proximity of prior instances of misconduct, can be considered in determining the appropriate penalty. Also, where an employee's misconduct is sufficiently egregious, removal may be warranted and need not be preceded by progressive penalties. In re Hall, 335 N.J. Super. 45 (App. Div. 2000), certif. denied, 167 N.J. 629 (2001); Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385, 397 (Law Div.

1976), aff'd, 163 N.J. Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978), certif. denied, 79 N.J. 497 (1979). The penalty imposed must not be so disproportionate to the offense and the mitigating circumstances that the decision is arbitrary and unreasonable.

In the instant matter the penalty herein of termination seems disproportionate to the offense and mitigating circumstances as to be arbitrary and unreasonable. Respondent, pursuant to the testimony of Ms. Ralph-Rawls, gave appellant a clean slate when she was transferred from Senior Services to Property Maintenance. While appellant does have a disciplinary history which includes two prior suspensions for conduct unbecoming a public employee while at Senior Services, I cannot consider them in terms of progressive discipline as the city has, in effect, waived them in terms of progressive discipline.

Further, I have determined that respondent has not met its burden as to the charges of insubordination and conduct unbecoming a public employee. That leaves the only sustained charge of excessive absenteeism and tardiness. It is important to note that the tardiness and absenteeism was extensive. It is also important to note that appellant is addressing her emotional issues by seeking therapy. This willingness to address the issue that caused appellant to either be late or miss work is a mitigating factor.

It would be appropriate herein to impose a substantial suspension in lieu of termination. In light of the fact that appellant continued to be late and absent after receiving a verbal and then written warning for this, it is not disproportionate to the offense and mitigating circumstances to impose a penalty of suspension for thirty days. It is also appropriate for appellant to undergo a psychiatric evaluation as recommended by Concentra in their return to work evaluation dated October 24, 2016.

Based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the penalty of termination be reversed and that a penalty of a thirty-day suspension be imposed; and, that appellant undergo a psychiatric evaluation prior to her return to work.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that charge contained in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 12, 2017, of Chronic or Excessive Absenteeism or Lateness in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(a)(4) is SUSTAINED; and,

It is further ORDERED that charges contained in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated April 12, 2017, of Insubordination in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(a)(2) and Conduct Unbecoming a Public Employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2.3(a)(6) are NOT SUSTAINED; and,

It is further ORDERED that the penalty of termination is REVERSED; and that the appropriate penalty shall be a suspension, without pay, of thirty days; and,

It is further ORDERED that appellant undergo a psychiatric evaluation prior to her return to work; and

It is further ORDERED that appellant be awarded appropriate back pay for the period of her separation from employment in excess of thirty days (subject to mitigation for income earned during this period), including benefits, and seniority subject to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 11294-17
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2017-4083

IN THE MATTER OF CARLA LANE,
SUPERIOR COURT OF NEW JERSEY,
MIDDLESEX VICINAGE.

Connor Meara, Organizer/Field Representative, AFSCME New Jersey, for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(6)

Susanna J. Morris, Esq., for respondent (Counsel's Office, New Jersey Courts, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 28, 2018 Decided: June 18, 2018

BEFORE TRICIA M. CALIGUIRE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On February 28, 2017, respondent Superior Court of New Jersey, Middlesex Vicinage (Court) issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) to appellant Carla Lane (Lane) charging her with incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), conduct unbecoming a public employee in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6), and neglect of duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7). On March 27, 2017, respondent conducted a departmental hearing. A Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) was issued to appellant on June 14, 2017, by which appellant was charged with incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), and neglect of duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7). In the FNDA, respondent notified appellant that she would be suspended from employment as an Investigator for thirty working days.

Appellant filed this appeal on June 20, 2017, which was transmitted by the Civil Service Commission to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 8, 2017, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The parties were scheduled to appear before the Honorable Gerald Foley, ALJ, on September 26, 2017, for a settlement conference, but before the conference began, appellant obtained the consent of respondent to an adjournment. On October 24, 2017, the parties met before Judge Foley for a settlement conference, but were unable to reach a resolution.

On November 22, 2017, this matter was reassigned to the undersigned. On January 3, 2018, I held a prehearing telephone conference with the parties and scheduled the hearing for February 23, 2018. At the request of appellant, this hearing date was adjourned to April 2, 2018. The hearing was conducted on April 2, 2018, and the record left open for the parties to submit post-hearing briefs and responses following their receipt of the transcripts of the proceedings. Briefs were submitted by both parties on May 18, 2018; neither party filed a response (nor notified the undersigned that they would not be doing so) and the record closed on May 28, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

Lane faces a penalty of suspension for thirty working days on charges of incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties, and neglect of duty, as a result of incidents which took place on January 17, 2017, and February 6, 2017. Most of the material facts are not in dispute. The following is not a verbatim report of the hearing testimony but a summary of the relevant testimony of Lane and respondent's witnesses, Lori Grimaldi (Grimaldi) and Jennifer Sincox (Sincox).

Lane has worked for respondent for twenty-four years, and has held the title of Investigator for most of that time. As an investigator, Lane's duties now and during the period in question include handling inmate applications for public defenders, annotating bail motion lists, and preparing bail workups.[1] She works five days per week, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

In June 2016, Grimaldi became a Team Leader in the Criminal Division, supervising eight employees, including Lane. On July 1, 2016, Grimaldi held a team meeting that was attended by Lane. (R-3; R-9.) Grimaldi testified that at this meeting, she discussed among other topics, the call-out policy by which employees are required to notify their supervisor of their same-day absence from work by 8:45 a.m.; time management and the need to "be mindful of due dates;" and that investigators must "ensure that all Bail Motions are done[.]" (R-3.) Grimaldi testified, and Lane acknowledged, that at the end of the July 1 meeting, Grimaldi gave her cell phone number to the team and told them to use it when they had questions or problems.

On August 2, 2016, and on September 8, 2016, Lane violated the call-out policy but was not disciplined. On September 9, 2016, Grimaldi met with Lane to discuss these infractions and Grimaldi warned Lane that future violations of the call-out policy could result in disciplinary action. (R-10.) At this meeting, Grimaldi also asked Lane to clean up her office, organize files, and consider time management training. Lane responded that her heavy workload made it difficult to find time to file, and requested extra help rather than training. (R-10.)

At the beginning of both 2016 and 2017, respondent issued Annual Performance Advisory forms to Lane, which Lane signed on January 25, 2016, and January 31, 2017, respectively. (R-1; R-2.) In both these documents, the "Supervisor's Expectation for [Lane's] Performance" for the calendar year include:

[1] All persons who testified drew a distinction between annotating a bail motion list and preparing a bail workup, but in documents introduced at hearing, this distinction is not as clear. (R-1; R-2; R-6.) Respondent later clarified that the terms "bail workup" and "bail investigation" mean the same thing, and are completed before a defendant's initial bail is set. The investigation workup is updated and then attached to the bail motion list ("annotating" the bail motion list). (Letter Br. of Resp't., (May 18, 2018) at 7.)

- Reliable and Timely Attendance.

- All bail motion workups must be submitted to the judge's secretary by Noon the day before the scheduled bail motion date.[2]

- Inform immediate supervisor when work is not completed within stablished time frames.

Incident of January 12, 2018

There is no dispute that, on January 12, 2018, Lane did not complete the task of annotating the bail reduction motion lists prior to leaving for the day. As Grimaldi explained in her testimony, every Friday, the judges in the Criminal Division hear bail reduction motions filed by individuals who have been arrested and charged, and are being held in the County jail due to their inability to post the required monetary bail.[3] Prior to the hearings, staff provides the judges with information that they may require to properly evaluate the motions.

The entire process of accumulating, storing and processing information related to bail is as follows:

1. When an individual is arrested, a bail investigation is conducted by an investigator and documented. This document—the bail investigation workup—is given to the judge, who then sets bail.

2. The workup is scanned into the court's computer system and a hard copy is filed (in the filing room, located one floor below Lane's office).

[2] These documents, which bear Lane's signature, directly contradict her testimony on cross-examination that the deadlines that must be met for the benefit of the judges are not found in documents.

[3] Since bail reform was instituted in New Jersey in January 2017, the number of individuals held on monetary bail has been reduced significantly and, therefore, the number of bail reduction motions filed and heard in any given week has also been reduced. At the time of the incident involved in this matter, however, the full impact of bail reform was not yet felt and persons who had been incarcerated prior to January 1, 2017, were still assessed bail under the former system.

3. Individuals who cannot make bail are sent to the County jail and may move for a reduction in bail.

4. Each week by 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, the investigator receives the bail reduction motion lists, one for each of the judges in the Criminal Division to whom that investigator is assigned.[4]

5. The investigator annotates the lists by adding information such as the amount of current bail, whether an interpreter is needed, an up-to-date criminal record, and information regarding the arrest and the incident which led to the arrest. He or she would obtain this information from the County computer system, the municipal court systems and the bail investigation workups. For each movant, the investigator includes the original bail workups conducted upon arrest and completed prior to when bail was initially set.

6. The entire packet is emailed by the investigator to each judge (and their staffs) by noon on Thursday.

On December 8, 2017, prior to the events involved in this matter, Lane told Grimaldi that she had trouble meeting the noon deadline for the bail motion workups on those Thursdays when Lane was required to attend Central Judicial Processing (CJP) Court. In response, Grimaldi and her immediate supervisor, Sincox, Assistant Criminal Division Manager, agreed to relax the above deadline from noon to 4:30 p.m., when Lane had CJP Court duties. (A-3.) On cross-examination, Lane stated that she actually wanted help with the work rather than more time to do the work, but admitted that she made no further attempts to ask for such help.

On January 12, 2017, Grimaldi left the office at approximately 1:00 p.m. She testified that prior to leaving, she walked around the office to let her staff know of her early departure and that Sincox would be covering for her. Sincox testified that she is responsible for oversight of ninety staff persons and all Criminal Division courtrooms. She confirmed that, on January 12, 2017, Grimaldi left early on preapproved leave and Sincox covered for her.

There is a dispute as to whether Grimaldi spoke with Lane prior to leaving, but this is immaterial, as Lane does not claim that Grimaldi's absence impacted whether she got her work done on time. Lane could not recall Grimaldi leaving early as she was in CJP Court until 12:45 p.m., and then took an hour lunch, returning to the office at 1:45 p.m., after Grimaldi left. Lane testified that when she returned at 1:45 p.m., she still had about one-quarter of the bail reduction motions yet to complete.

Between 2:00 p.m. and 3:00 p.m.,[5] on January 12, 2017, Sincox received a call from the Honorable Colleen M. Flynn, J.S.C., asking for her bail motion workups. Sincox then went to Lane's cubicle and asked about Judge Flynn's motion workups. Lane told her that the work for Judge Flynn was almost done; Lane sent the workups to Judge Flynn between 4:00 and 4:30 p.m.

At 4:30 p.m., the Honorable Benjamin S. Bucca, J.S.C., called Sincox, asking for his bail motion workups. Sincox went to Lane's cubicle; Lane told her that she was still working on Judge Bucca's list. Lane testified that at that point, she had completed all of Judge Bucca's workups except one, and for that one motion, she told Sincox she could not find the initial bail investigation workup in either the computer system or the file room. Sincox testified that she directed Lane to complete the work and that she did not speak to Lane again that day. When Sincox left the building at 5:30 p.m., she walked by Lane's cubicle, did not see Lane and so assumed that she had completed her work.

Lane testified that she continued to search for the paperwork for a single defendant until 6:00 p.m., and surmised that she was in the file room when Sincox stopped by her cubicle at 5:30 p.m. Since her search was unsuccessful, Lane emailed all but one of the bail motion workups to Judge Bucca and his secretary with an apology for the delay. Lane

[5] Sincox testified that this call came between 2:00 and 2:30 p.m., but in a document that Sincox wrote and filed with her supervisor on January 20, 2017, she stated that the call from Judge Flynn came at 3:00 p.m. (R-5.)

did not contact Grimaldi because she had already spoken to Sincox about the delay and Lane conceded that Sincox assumed Lane would complete the job.[6] Lane stated that she went to Sincox's office at 6:00 p.m., but that Sincox had already left.

When Sincox returned to work the morning of January 13, 2017, she saw e-mails from Judge Bucca's staff to Lane asking for the missing workup on one defendant. (R-5.) Sincox asked Lane, who responded that she did not finish the bail motion workup for that defendant. Lane testified that her intention was to complete this workup when she arrived on the morning of January 13, 2017. Of the nineteen bail motions on the list for January 12, 2017, Lane completed all but one. Judge Bucca heard one bail reduction motion without the proper paperwork.

Much testimony was given regarding the responsibility of Shirley Scott, Judiciary Clerk Level 2, for scanning the bail investigation workups into the shared drive.[7] Sincox and Grimaldi called the scanning "a courtesy;"[8] Lane call this a "necessary prerequisite to efficiently performing [her] duties." (Letter Br. of Appell't. (May 18, 2018) at 6.) While Grimaldi and Sincox agreed that it would be easier and faster for an investigator to complete the bail motion lists if all the workups were timely scanned to the shared drive, they also agreed that not all the workups are so uploaded.

Hard copies of all bail workups, including those uploaded to the shared drive, are kept in the file room. No one disputed appellant's testimony that the file room is not well organized, filing is not current, and hard files are often difficult to locate. Sincox testified that in the event that paperwork is missing, the back-up plan is for an investigator to do the bail investigation workup from scratch, since she would have access to all the necessary documents. Lane testified, however, that she did not have the security clearance to obtain information that would

[6] Lane testified that at this point, she still did not realize that Grimaldi had left early.

[7] Lane testified that Scott took the files out of the building to scan, which is why the file Lane needed was not available. Sincox, however, stated that such files never leave the building and that Scott handled the scanning in the courthouse.

[8] This description is curious as a Court document titled "Scanning Procedure" states, "On a daily basis the bail workups need to be scanned to the shared drive." (A-9.)

be available using a defendant's fingerprints (e.g., prior criminal history). Even so, Lane testified that she did not attempt to do the bail investigation workup from scratch.

Respondent introduced ample evidence that as a member of Grimaldi's team, Lane knew to "inform [her] immediate supervisor" that the bail motion lists would not be completed by the close of business. (R-1; R-2.) Presumably, once the immediate supervisor has such notice, he or she will take appropriate action but Sincox conceded on cross-examination that she left for the day without checking with either Lane or Judge Bucca's office to ensure that his bail motion list was completed. Neither she nor Grimaldi explained what, if anything, Sincox should have done to assist Lane once she knew Lane was behind. Grimaldi did not testify as to what immediate assistance she routinely gives members of her team when they are struggling to meet a pressing deadline.[9] Once the judges started calling Sincox, she was certainly on notice that Lane needed help, if only for someone to pull the hard copies of files from the file room.

Incident of February 7, 2017

Prior to leaving work on February 6, 2017, Lane told Grimaldi that she would undergo a dental procedure later that same day. Grimaldi told Lane to call her on her cell phone after the procedure was completed if Lane needed to take sick time the following day, February 7, 2017. Lane responded that she did not want to make that decision until the morning after the procedure, depending on how she felt. Grimaldi then told Lane to be sure to call out, if necessary, by 8:45 a.m., pursuant to policy. (R-3.)

Lane called Grimaldi on February 7, 2017, at 9:21 a.m., and stated that she would be out sick that day. Lane blamed her delay in calling on the pain she was experiencing and the medicine she was taking. (A-6.)

[9] This is not to disregard the testimony that on December 8, 2016, Grimaldi and Sincox extended the deadline for Lane to complete bail motion lists from noon to 4:30 p.m., on days she attended CJP court, but only to point out that no examples were given of supervisors assisting staff in meeting a pressing, same-day deadline.

Following a departmental hearing, respondent charged Lane with incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), and neglect of duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(7), and determined that the proper penalty is suspension from employment for thirty working days. Lane has been disciplined a total of six times in the twenty-four years she worked for respondent, most recently in 2015, with a fifteen-day suspension from employment. (R-8.)

Findings

I FIND as FACT that the undisputed testimony shows that completing bail motion lists by the close of business on Thursday was one of Lane's duties and she failed to complete that task on January 12, 2017.

I FIND that the undisputed testimony also shows that Lane was well aware of the call-out policy and she failed to observe it on February 6, 2017, despite the reminder from Grimaldi the previous afternoon and having been warned in the prior six months that discipline would result from another such violation.

With respect to Lane's failure to inform Sincox that she would not complete Judge Bucca's bail motion list by the close of business, the line is not as clear. If, as respondent contends, the purpose of an employee providing such notice is to ensure that the supervisor is able to assist the employee in meeting a deadline, then once Judge Bucca called Sincox, additional notice was not necessary. It may be that Sincox did not hear a request for help in Lane's statement that she could not find the initial bail investigation workup online or in the file room. It may also be that, at 4:30 p.m., Lane still expected to finish the work before leaving for the day and so did not ask for help, or that Sincox did not simply ask, "what can I do to help?" Notwithstanding the above, there is no dispute that Lane did not notify her supervisors at any point during the day that she was at risk of missing a deadline and did not notify them of the missed deadline before she left for the day.[10] Court policies place the responsibility to notify supervisors of missed deadlines on the employee, and I FIND that Lane failed to meet that responsibility.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her duties, or gives other just cause, may be subject to major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6; N.J.S.A. 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3. In an appeal from such discipline, the appointing authority bears the burden of proving the charges upon which it relied by a preponderance of the competent, relevant, and credible evidence. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550 (1982).

Under N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1), and -2.3(a)(7), an employee may be subjected to major discipline[11] for incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties and for neglect of duty. In general, incompetence, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties exists where the employee's conduct demonstrates an unwillingness or inability to meet, obtain or produce effects or results necessary for adequate performance. Clark v. New Jersey Dep't of Agric., 1 N.J.A.R. 315 (1980). To prove neglect of duty, the employer must prove the employee did not perform an act required by his or her job title or was negligent in the discharge of that duty. Avanti v. Dept. of Military & Veterans Affairs, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d 564 (1996).

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that respondent has carried the burden of proving that appellant is guilty of incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties and of neglect of duty in violation of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1) and -2.3(a)(7).

[10] Although on cross-examination Lane stated that she saw no point to sending Sincox an email prior to leaving as Sincox did not have remote access to email, Lane did send an email to Judge Bucca's staff after hours and did not use Grimaldi's cell phone number to notify her of the missed deadline.

[11] Major discipline may include removal, disciplinary demotion, suspension or fine no greater than six months. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-(6)(a), - 20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2, -2.4.

PENALTY

The Civil Service Commission's review of penalty is de novo. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-19 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.9(d) specifically grant the Commission authority to increase or decrease the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. General principles of progressive discipline apply. Town of W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523 (1962). Typically, the Board considers numerous factors, including the nature of the offense, the concept of progressive discipline and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463.

Ultimately, however, "it is the appraisal of the seriousness of the offense which lies at the heart of the matter." Bowden v. Bayside State Prison, 268 N.J. Super. 301, 305 (App. Div. 1993), certif. denied, 135 N.J. 469 (1994). At hearing, and in her post-hearing brief, Lane argues that the penalty proposed by respondent is excessive, not justified, ignores extenuating circumstances, and was delivered prior to any attempt to resolve the problems which led to the discipline. (Br. of Appell't. at 9.) Respondent counters that Lane inexplicably chose not to follow well-established policies and, as a consequence, a thirty-day suspension is both a warranted and reasonable penalty for Lane's failure to complete the bail reduction motion list on January 12, 2017, failure to notify her supervisors in a timely manner that she would not complete her work on January 12, 2017, and failure to call-out sick as required on February 7, 2017. (Br. of Resp't. at 15.)

The offense that is the most serious is that Lane left for the day on January 12, 2017, without completing Judge Bucca's bail reduction motion list. It is particularly troubling that, at the same time the New Jersey courts were instituting significant reforms to the monetary bail system, the person who may have been harmed the most by Lane's failure to complete her work on January 12, was the defendant who was incarcerated and unable to make bail under the old system. A close second was Judge Bucca, who had to choose either to leave the defendant who could not make bail in prison for at least another week or to reduce the defendant's bail despite an incomplete record.[12] It is not lost on me that Lane finished eighteen of the nineteen bail motions on the list, but this is one of those times when close is not good enough.

With respect to Lane's failure to notify Sincox that she would not finish her work on January 12, 2017, in a timely manner, respondent claims that Lane knew that the reason to provide this notice was "so that alternate arrangements could be made to complete the task," and that her failure to so notify her supervisors removed "any chance they may have had to resolve whatever issues Ms. Lane claimed to be having in completing the lists." (Resp't. Br. at 14-15.) Here, neither the testimony nor documentary evidence support respondent's claims. While Lane's supervisors were responsive to her general request for a more relaxed deadline on days she had CJP Court duties, there was no evidence that raising a specific, time-sensitive problem would garner an immediate "all-hands" response. In fact, the evidence is just the opposite. By 4:30 p.m., the end of the work day, Sincox had been called by two judges about documents they needed the next day. When Lane told Sincox that Judge Bucca's list was not complete due to the absence of materials in the shared drive, Sincox did not offer a solution or offer to help locate the files. Instead, Sincox told Lane to get the work done and left the office without confirming with anyone that the work was in fact completed.[13]

Appellant argues that she was required to alone do the work previously shared with other investigators, that the files were a mess, and her supervisors did not respond to her prior complaints about difficulty finding necessary files. While all that may be true, and as discussed above, Sincox offered no assistance once she was alerted to the problem, what also comes through—from Lane's testimony—is that on this day, despite knowing that she had CJP Court duties, and that she still had to finish approximately four or five of the bail reduction motion lists by 4:30 p.m., Lane did not contact Grimaldi before she left for CJP

[13] In her post-hearing brief, appellant noted that one charge in the PNDA was dropped following the departmental hearing, the charge of "conduct unbecoming a public employee." Appellant argues that Sincox bore some of the responsibility for ensuring that Judge Bucca's bail motion lists were complete and instead of pitching in, Sincox used the opportunity "to exert disciplinary authority over an employee who she felt had disrespected her." (Br. of Appell't. at 3.) As appellant's union representative knows, only the charges in the FNDA are considered in this forum, and at hearing, appellant did not question Sincox about the verbal exchange that led to the since-dropped charge.

Court to request extra help. Lane's testimony regarding her earlier complaints about the filing system are a strong indication that she should not have been surprised to find that at least some of the files she needed that afternoon were hard to locate. Then Lane left for the day without notifying either Sincox or Grimaldi that a deadline had in fact been missed.

Under the specific circumstances, Lane's failure to call-out on February 7, 2017, by 8:45 a.m., does not on its own merit major discipline. Grimaldi knew that Lane was having a dental procedure and knew that Lane would be making a decision in the morning whether to come into work. Yes, Lane should have called earlier, but Grimaldi probably knew by 8:45 a.m., at which time Lane was already fifteen minutes late, that Lane would not be coming to work that day. Respondent argues with justification however, that this offense is exacerbated by the fact that Lane was late in calling out twice in the prior year, and had been counseled and warned.

Lane's prior disciplinary record includes six separate charges over the course of her twenty-four years employment, none prior to 2007. All of the charges, however, are similar in nature to the charges in this matter, including that in March 2011, she was charged with neglect of duty and was suspended for seven days, and that in April 2015, she was charged with incompetency, inefficiency or failure to perform duties and was suspended for fifteen days. (R-8.) Based upon the concept of progressive discipline, I CONCLUDE that the penalty of suspension for thirty working days was appropriate, and should be SUSTAINED.

DECISION AND ORDER

The appointing authority has proven by a preponderance of credible evidence the charges against Lane, specifically violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(1) and -2.3(a)(7), for incompetency, inefficiency, or failure to perform duties and neglect of duty. I ORDER that these charges be and are hereby SUSTAINED. Furthermore, I ORDER that the penalty of a thirty-day suspension is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." She understands that she may sign the Agreement at any time on or before the expiration of this 21 – day period. She also understands that for seven (7) calendar days after she signs this Agreement she has the right to revoke it, and that this Agreement will not become effective and enforceable until after the expiration of this seven (7) day period. However, she specifically understands and agrees that any attempt by her to revoke this Agreement after the seven (7) day revocation period has expired is, or will be, ineffective. She also understands and agrees that to receive the consideration provided for under this Agreement, she must properly complete, sign and return this Agreement to Employer.

7. Release of Claims by Employee. In exchange for the consideration which Employee will receive pursuant to this Agreement and to the fullest extent permitted by law, Employee and her successors, assigns, heirs, personal representatives, executors, administrators, agents, attorneys, and representatives hereby knowingly and voluntarily

She further affirms that other than as specifically provided herein, or as required by law, she is not entitled to any payment, compensation or benefit relating to or as a result of her employment relationship with Employer.

FINAL ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION
OF THE
CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JULY 20, 2018 BW

The appeal of Gary Mason, Senior Medical Security Officer, Ann Klein Forensic Center, Department of Human Services, removal effective November 7, 2016, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Catherine A. Tuohy, who rendered her initial decision on May 1, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting of July 18, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in removing the appellant was justified. The Commission therefore affirms that action and dismisses the appeal of Gary Mason.

This is the final administrative determination in this matter. Any further review should be pursued in a judicial forum.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 18078-16
AGENCY DKT. NO. 2018-1498

IN THE MATTER OF GARY MASON,
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES,
ANN KLEIN FORENSIC CENTER.

Rashidah Hasan, Esq., for appellant, Gary Marson

Marolhin D. Mendez, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent Department of Human Services (Gurbir S. Grewal, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: April 2, 2018 Decided: May 1, 2018

BEFORE CATHERINE A. TUOHY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Gary Mason, a Senior Medical Security Officer at respondent, Ann Klein Forensic Center, Department of Human Services appeals his removal effective November 7, 2016 for violations of N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)6 Conduct unbecoming a public employee; N.J.A.C 4A:2-2.3(a)11 Other sufficient cause; and Administrative Order 4:08 E1 Violation of a rule, regulation, policy or administrative decision as a result of his failure to pass a drug screening test upon his return to service following a first positive drug test.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On November 3, 2016, respondent issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (R-1) setting forth the charges and specifications made against the appellant. Appellant did not request a departmental hearing and the respondent issued a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (R-2) on November 7, 2016 sustaining the charges in the Preliminary Notice and removing appellant from employment effective November 7, 2016. Appellant appealed on November 10, 2016 and the matter was transmitted by the Civil Service Commission Division of Appeals and Regulatory Affairs to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where it was filed on December 1, 2016, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15; N.J.S.A. 52: 14F-1 to 13. The hearing was held on February 14, 2018. The record remained open to allow the parties to submit post-hearing submissions and the record closed on April 2, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSIONS AND FINDINGS

Charles Moore testified on behalf of the respondent. He has been the employee Relations Coordinator for respondent since April 2008 and is responsible for the administration of the employee disciplinary program; handling grievances; and acting as a conduit between the union and the administration at the Ann Klein Forensic Center. He had previously been a state corrections officer since 1976 and retired from that position. Mr. Mason was employed as a Senior Medical Security Officer and was responsible for the daily care of the clients such as making sure they were fed, cleaned and took their medications. The medical security officer has client contact on a twenty-four-hour basis. Ann Klein is the only forensic hospital in the state of New Jersey. They house patients who have been civilly committed, transferred from county jails and those awaiting competency hearings. Ann Klein houses the most complex clients with the most severe behavioral problems.

Mr. Moore co-facilitates the random drug screening program at Ann Klein together with Anne Kenyon and is familiar with the facts of this case. Mr. Mason violated the drug policy set forth in Administrative Order 4:23 that was implemented on September 7, 2010 (R-3). The purpose of the policy was to develop a drug testing policy because it was necessary to have a drug free environment to ensure the patients safety. All employees are given this policy and Mr. Mason received this policy. Once an employee tests positive on a random screening, the employee is referred to EAS (Employee Advisory Services) for a consultation and the counsellor will recommend a course of treatment for the employee. The employer does not know what the course of treatment is, only that the employee went to EAS and that they were referred to a program that might require them to miss work for a period of time. EAS will usually advise the employer how long the employee will need to be out of work. EAS is not part of the Department Human Service or the Department of Health, they are a part of civil service. Mr. Moore explained that he would call and make an appointment for the employee to attend EAS for the first time while the employee is on duty and then the employee would follow-up on their own time. Employees are advised that if they refuse to submit to a random drug test they may be terminated. They are further advised that if they test positive for unlawful use of any controlled dangerous substance, they may be referred to EAS or terminated from employment with DHS (R-4).

Mr. Mason's name randomly came up on a list of employees to be tested and he was scheduled to be tested on November 5, 2015 (R-5). Employees are selected quarterly for random drug testing by a third-party company, Energetix TPA, Toxicology Services Group. Employees receive notice the same day they are to be tested to report for a random drug screen. Mr. Mason received notice of the random drug screen on November 5, 2015 and was directed to immediately report to Corporate Health for drug testing on that day (R-6). Mr. Mason acknowledged that he understood that a negative result was a condition of his continued employment with DHS (R-6). On November 5, 2015 Mr. Mason gave a urine sample for drug testing (R-7). Usually the results are provided within seventy-two hours and they are negative. If there is a positive reading for any of the twelve panels they test for, the medical review officer will contact the employee to review any prescription medications they may be taking that could have provided a positive result. In those cases, it may take about a week if the employee provides the prescription and the medical review officer will review same to see if that prescription would cause a positive drug test. If the medical review officer determines that the prescription the employee was taking produced the positive test, they will advise that the drug test is negative because the employee had a prescription. On November 13, 2015 the lab results of Mr. Mason's November 5, 2015 drug test came back positive for cocaine (R-8). Mr. Mason was referred to EAS and completed the return to work protocol. On May 24, 2016 Mr. Mason was notified to report to Capital Health for a follow up drug test (R-14). Capital Health by letter dated May 26, 2016 advised that Mr. Mason passed the drug test after his return to work (R-15). An additional notice for drug testing was served upon Mr. Mason to report for a drug test on October 6, 2016 (R-17). Mr. Mason provided an additional urine specimen on October 6, 2016 which tested positive for cocaine (R-18). This was the second follow-up after Mr. Mason's return to work. The medical clearance report dated October 14, 2016 which attached the Quest Diagnostic Lab Report indicated that Mr. Mason failed his follow-up urine drug test of October 6. 2016 by testing positive for cocaine metabolites (R-19).

On cross-examination Mr. Moore admitted that Mr. Mason was not a discipline problem. An employee is referred to EAS after they fail the drug test. The employer is not advised of what the treatment consists of before the employee is cleared to return to work. Departmental policy requires that an employee be terminated after the failure of the second drug test and they are not referred to EAS again by the employer. On October 7, 2016 David Botti, a Counselor with EAS wrote to Anne Kenyon, Director of Human Services for Ann Klein Forensic Center that Mr. Mason had been seen for an assessment on October 7, 2016 and an outside referral was recommended which would require him to be on medical leave for thirty to forty-five days, effective October 10, 2016 (R-20). Mr. Moore explained that this letter indicates that EAS made a referral to Mr. Mason and not that the employer referred Mr. Mason to EAS. Mr. Mason self-reported to EAS on October 7, 2016.

Anne Kenyon testified on behalf of the respondent. She is the Director of Human Resources at Ann Klein Forensic Center. She has worked for the State in human resources for thirty years and has been at Ann Klein since July 1993. Ms. Kenyon became Director of Human Resources in 2003 and oversees all human resource functions including hiring, promotions, timekeeping and payroll, training and staff development, finger printing and drug screening processes. She knows Mr. Mason as an employee and has never had any personal issues with him. Ms. Kenyon is familiar with the drug testing policy at Ann Klein. When an employee tests positive for drugs for the first time on a random drug screening, the test results are sent to her electronically from the medical review officer and she prints out the document and gives it to the employee relations coordinator, Charles Moore, who will meet with the employee and refer them out to EAS and explain the procedures to them. The return to duty drug testing process begins at the EAS, the employee advisory service. They are required to clear the employee to return to duty by having a drug test screening that is in compliance with the policy and then notify the employer that this has been accomplished and the employee is returned to work. The employee is then subject to a minimum of three follow-up tests within the year. The consequences of a second positive on a follow up drug screen is a removal from employment.

An EAS counsellor evaluated Mr. Mason on November 18, 2015 and an outside referral was recommended. The Compliance Signature Sheet was signed by EAS counsellor, Mr. Botti and Mr. Mason on November 18, 2015 indicating the necessary steps Mr. Mason had to follow to be in compliance with the return to work policy (R-10).

By letter dated January 7, 2016, Mr. Mason was cleared to return to work after completing treatment and the return to work protocol which included a negative drug test result (R-13). There also was a letter submitted from Gen Psych, a behavioral health organization dated January 11, 2016 indicating Mr. Mason was able to return to work (R-13). Mr. Mason did return to work after January 11, 2016. After an employee returns to work, they are required to pass a minimum of three follow-up random drug tests within the year. If an employee tests positive on a follow-up, the employee is administratively removed (R-3). The October 7, 2016 letter from EAS was sent to the Ann Klein Forensic Center advising them that Mr. Mason was there, but it was not because he was referred to EAS by his employer (R-20).

On cross-examination, reference was made to paragraph "E" of the drug testing policy entitled "Voluntary Participation in Drug Treatment" which provides that:

> "Employees in direct care functions who have drug abuse problems are encouraged to voluntarily seek treatment. Treatment may be sought through the Employee Advisory Service (EAS) or independently by the employee without employer involvement.

> Nothing herein shall prevent the employer from taking appropriate disciplinary action for violations under this policy." (R-3)

Gary Mason testified on his own behalf. He was employed by respondent for over nine years as a medical security officer before his removal. As a medical security officer, he provided daily care for the mentally ill clients he serviced, including taking care of their hygiene needs and making sure they had clean clothes and ate properly.

In November 2015 after he received the first positive drug test, he was referred by his employer to the EAS. He went to the EAS and spoke with Mr. Botti who referred him to Gen Psych. Mr. Mason did not know what to expect since he had never been in treatment. It was two hours a day, three times a week for a thirty-day program. He had a cognitive/rational thinking class, and an art and music class. Looking back, it really was not a treatment program at all. Mr. Mason was not working during this time. He finished the program and returned to work. Prior to getting the test results back from the last test that he failed, he called Mr. Botti before he took the test. Mr. Botti advised him that he could not refuse it, so take the test and call him the next day and he would try and help him. Mr. Mason went to his office and Mr. Botti called around for various treatment programs and found one in West Palm Beach Florida. He went the next day to Florida. It was supposed to be a ninety-day program but on the twentieth day there was a problem with the insurance so they discharged him. Mr. Mason felt that this program focused more on inter-personal relationships and was not geared towards drug or alcohol abuse. Mr. Mason called Mr. Botti who advised him to come back and he would find Mr. Mason another program. Mr. Mason did not receive anything from his employer regarding his job status while he was in Florida. Mr. Mason came back to New Jersey and then returned to Florida three days later and attended the Recovery Institute of South Florida (RISA) for seventy-five days. He had his own therapist, medical doctor and psychiatrist. He was seen by a specialist to adjust his medication. Mr. Mason was required to go to outside meetings four days a week. The staff were professional and the recovery personnel educated him on the disease of addiction. They brought up issues he did not know he had. This facility dealt with his underlying psychological issues. Mr. Mason received the help he needed and is glad he went for treatment. Mr. Mason wishes he was sent there first. He has been clean and sober since his treatment at RISF.

On cross-examination, Mr. Mason was asked how he was able to pass the first drug test upon his return to work if the first EAS referral program did not help him. He returned to work and was clean for a while but was trying for three months but could not stop using drugs. If he had the proper treatment initially, he would have been able to remain clean. Mr. Mason was shown R-10, the Direct Care Employee Compliance Sheet which he signed acknowledging that he understood that a second positive drug test may result in termination.

The following facts having been stipulated to by counsel as not being in dispute (J-4) are FOUND as FACTS:

Mr. Mason acknowledged that he received and signed for the DHS Administrative Order 4:23 Policy regarding Drug Testing on October 8, 2010 (R-4). He was randomly selected to be drug tested on November 5, 2015 (R-5). Mr. Mason submitted his urine as part of the random drug testing procedure on November 5, 2015. He signed the drug testing custody and control form on November 5, 2015 (R-7). On November 13, 2015 the lab results indicated that Mr. Mason tested positive for cocaine metabolites (R-8). The veracity of the lab results from November 5, 2015 are not in question. Mr. Mason was referred to meet with an EAS counsellor on November 17, 2015 (R-9). On December 29, 2015 lab results came back negative for all illicit drugs. In January 2016 Mr. Mason successfully completed the return to work procedures and was recommended to return to work in January 2016. On May 24, 2016, Mr. Mason was notified of a subsequent drug test. Mr. Mason submitted his urine as part of the random drug testing procedure on May 25, 2016. On May 27, 2016 the lab results came back negative for all illicit drugs. The veracity of the lab results was not in question. On October 6, 2016 Mr. Mason was notified of a subsequent drug test (R-17). On October 6, 2016 Mr. Mason voluntarily reported to EAS. Mr. Mason submitted his urine as part of the random drug testing procedure on October 6, 2016 which was a follow-up. Mr. Mason signed the drug custody and control form on October 6, 2016 (R-18). On October 14, 2016 the lab report results came back indicating that Mr. Mason testified positive for cocaine metabolites (R-19). The veracity of the lab results was not in question. Mr. Mason subsequently entered the Recovery Institute of South Florida. The treatment records from RISF were stipulated into evidence in their entirety as J-3.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Appellant's rights and duties are governed by laws including the Civil Service Act and accompanying regulations. A civil service employee who commits a wrongful act related to his or her employment may be subject to discipline, and that discipline, depending upon the incident complained of, may include a suspension or removal. N.J.S.A. 11A:1-2, 11A:2-6, 11A:2-20; N.J.A.C. 4A2-2.

The Appointing Authority bears the burden of establishing the truth of the allegations by a preponderance of the credible evidence. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962) Evidence is said to preponderate "if it establishes the reasonable probability of the fact." Jaeger v. Elizabethtown Consol. Gas Co, 124 N.J.L. 420, 423 (Sup. Ct 1940) (citation omitted). Stated differently, the evidence must "be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion." Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263, 275 (1958); see also Loew v. Union Beach, 56 N.J Super. 93,104 (App. Div. 1959).

Appellant was charged with "Conduct unbecoming a public employee," N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(6). "Conduct unbecoming a public employee" is an elastic phrase, which encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained of conduct and its attending circumstances "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, supra, 152 N.J. at 555 (quoting In reZeber, 156 A.2d 821, 825 (1959)). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't. of Ridgewood, 258

N.J. Super. 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Serv., 17 N.J. 419, 429 (1955)).

Appellant was a Medical Security Officer who had daily direct care contact with the clients at respondent's facility. Mr. Mason was responsible for taking care of the client's physical needs including ensuring their safety, good hygiene, nutrition, and clean clothing. The Ann Klein Forensic Center cares for the most complex clients with the most severe behavioral problems. To protect their clients and employees' safety, respondent has instituted a drug testing policy to ensure that their employees be free from the effects of controlled dangerous substances. Mr. Mason failed a random drug screening test by testing positive for cocaine metabolites on November 5, 2015. He returned to work after having completed the return to work policy, knowing that he was subject to three additional random urine drug screens for the next year and knowing that a second positive test would result in his termination. On October 14, 2016, Mr. Mason underwent another random urine drug test and again tested positive for cocaine metabolites and was terminated November 17, 2016. Mr. Mason's conduct in using illicit drugs, i.e. cocaine, adversely effects the morale and efficiency of the Department of Human Services and has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. His conduct in using cocaine endangers the safety of the clients he services as well as other employees. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of unbecoming conduct.

Appellant has also been charged with violating N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.3(a)(12), "Other sufficient cause." Other sufficient cause is an offense for conduct that violates the implicit standard of good behavior that devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct. Appellant's conduct in using cocaine violates the implicit standard of good behavior one would expect from a Medical Security Officer. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the respondent has met its burden of proof in establishing a violation of other sufficient cause.

The appellant was also charged with a violation of Administrative Order 4:08 E1, "Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure or Administrative decision." On September 7, 2010 respondent implemented Department of Human Services Administrative Order 4:23 which provided for mandatory drug testing for applicants for employment and direct care staff members employed in State psychiatric hospitals and developmental centers in order to promote the safety and welfare of its employees and clients (R-3). In order for the Department Human Services State psychiatric hospitals and developmental centers to meet their commitment to consumers and employees, it is essential that the Department Human Services operate in a drug free environment, and that its employees be free from the effects of controlled dangerous substances. It is the responsibility of each employee to ensure that he is drug free in compliance with the law and the requirements of this policy. As a condition of employment with the Department Human Services, employees are prohibited from being under the influence of illegal drugs.

The unlawful use, possession, solicitation for or sale of controlled dangerous substances including prescription drugs is strictly prohibited (R-3, page 1). The policy required that direct care staff members be subject to random drug testing for controlled dangerous substances (R-3, page 2). Employees who test positive for unlawful use of a controlled dangerous substance may be suspended from duty, referred to employee advisory service (EAS), or terminated from employment (R-3, page 5). Upon receipt of documentation which substantiates a positive drug test, the facility Office of Human Resources/Employee Relations will contact the employee to explain to the employee the procedures with regard to his mandated referral to the employee advisory service (EAS) and a return to work drug screen. The employee will not be allowed to return to work until the employee is cleared by EAS and has been authorized to return to work by the facility Office of Human Resources/Employee Relations (R-3, page 8). An employee who has been subject to random drug testing and has engaged in conduct prohibited by this policy shall, prior to his return to work, undergo a return-to-work drug test with a result indicating a verified negative result for controlled dangerous substance use (R-3, pages 11 & 12). When an employee is permitted to return to duty requiring the performance of direct care functions, the employee shall be subject to unannounced follow-up controlled dangerous substances tests at least three (3) times in the first 12 months following the return-to-duty (R-3, page 13).

Based upon the facts of this case as set forth above, I CONCLUDE respondent has met its burden of proof that appellant has violated Administrative Order 4:08 E1, "Violation of a rule, regulation, policy, procedure or Administrative decision" by violating the drug testing policy of respondent contained in Department Human Services Administrative Order 4:23 by testing positive for cocaine metabolites a second time, after his return to work following his first random urine drug screen tested positive for cocaine.

PENALTY

In determining the appropriateness of a penalty, several factors must be considered, including the nature of the employee's offense, the concept of progressive discipline, and the employee's prior record. George v. N. Princeton Developmental Ctr., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 463. Pursuant to West New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500, 523–24 (1962), concepts of progressive discipline involving penalties of increasing severity are used where appropriate. See also In re Parlo, 192 N.J. Super. 247 (App. Div. 1983). However, where the charged dereliction is an act which, in view of the duties and obligations of the position, substantially disadvantages the public, good cause exists for removal. See Golaine v. Cardinale, 142 N.J. Super. 385 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 163 N.J. Super. 453 (App. Div. 1978); In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19 (2007). The question to be resolved is whether the discipline imposed in this case is appropriate.

Some disciplinary infractions are so serious that removal is appropriate notwithstanding a largely unblemished prior record. In re Carter, 191 N.J. 474, 484 (2007), citing Rawlings v. Police Dep't of Jersey City, 133 N.J. 182, 197–98 (1993) (upholding dismissal of police officer who refused drug screening as "fairly proportionate" to offense); see also In re Herrmann, 192 N.J. 19, 33 (2007) (DYFS worker who snapped lighter in front of five-year-old):

> . . . judicial decisions have recognized that progressive discipline is not a necessary consideration when reviewing an agency head's choice of penalty when the misconduct is severe, when it is unbecoming to the employee's position or renders the employee unsuitable for continuation in the position, or when application of the principle would be contrary to the public interest.

Thus, progressive discipline has been bypassed when an employee engages in severe misconduct, especially when the employee's position involves public safety and the misconduct causes risk of harm to persons or property. See, e.g., Henry v. Rahway State Prison, 81 N.J. 571, 580 (1980).

Pursuant to the New Jersey Department of Human Services Administrative Order 4:23 does not call for a range of discipline and removal is the only option for a second violation of the drug testing policy. Appellant knew that as a condition of his continued employment he had to remain drug free after his first positive drug test for cocaine metabolites. Appellant does not dispute the fact that he failed his follow up drug test. What appellant argues is that his first treatment program failed and he should be given a third chance. Although it is commendable that Mr. Mason did eventually seek the further treatment he needed and received at the RISF, respondent's actions in terminating him after he tested positive the second time was appropriate and in the interest of public safety. As a medical security officer in a psychiatric facility providing direct care services for the most complex clients with the most severe behavioral issues, Mr. Mason was required to free from the effects of controlled dangerous substances. After having considered all of the proofs offered in this matter, and the impact upon the institution regarding the behavior by appellant herein and in light of the seriousness of the offense, I CONCLUDE that the removal of the appellant was appropriate.

ORDER

Accordingly, I ORDER that the action of the respondent is AFFIRMED, as set forth above. Appellant's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, DIVISION OF APPEALS AND REGULATORY AFFAIRS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." vs.	:	AGENCY REF. NO.: 2018-1401
NEWARK PUBLIC SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	SETTLEMENT AND
Respondent.	:	LAST CHANCE AGREEMENT

The parties in this appeal have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Settlement Agreement that fully disposes of all issues and claims in controversy between Appellant Kimberly McCall ("Appellant" or "McCall") and Respondent Board of Education of the City of Newark, County of Essex ("Respondent" or the "Board"), and Appellant and Respondent intending to be legally bound, mutually agree as follows:

1. Appellant will withdraw, with prejudice, her appeal and request for a hearing filed under OAL Docket No. CSV 18141-2017N, Agency Ref. No.: 2018-1401 including all claims which were raised or which could have been raised in relation thereto.

2. Appellant also agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, any and all other suits or claims that she may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. It is understood by the parties that this Settlement Agreement will serve as a formal letter of withdrawal for any other suits or claims, except for workers compensation claims, should Appellant fail to submit a formal letter of withdrawal for each suit or claim.

3. The parties agree that the charges set forth in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated November 6, 2017 are sustained but that Petitioner's removal will be amended to a six (6) month suspension without pay commencing November 6, 2017. Appellant will be deemed to have served said suspension during the pendency of this current appeal.

4. Respondent agrees to reinstate Appellant within a reasonable time after the Civil Service Commission has approved this settlement. Appellant will be assigned to a location at the discretion of Respondent. For the balance of time from the end of her

6 month unpaid suspension to her reinstatement, Appellant will be deemed to be on administrative leave without pay. Respondent shall amend Appellant's personnel records to conform to the terms of this settlement.

5. Appellant shall not accumulate or receive any sick, vacation or personal days for any time between her six month suspension and the date of her reinstatement.

6. Appellant shall not receive any back pay, monies or any other emoluments as part of this settlement.

7. Appellant understands and agrees that this is a "Last Chance Agreement" constituting a probationary period and as such, she is subject to immediate termination by Respondent for incurring in excess of the following enumerated infractions over the next 12 months after execution of this Settlement Agreement: (a) no more than one (1) sick day per month which must be accompanied by appropriate notice beforehand to her supervisors along with competent medical documentation to be received by the Talent Department within 72 hours of the absence; (b) should Appellant be absent for more than one day each month due to her own hospitalization, Appellant will be required to produce to the Talent Department within 72 hours of her return, with due notice to her supervisors, hospital admittance and discharge papers evidencing her hospitalization and accounting for the entire time she was absent from duty, the failure to produce such documentation or account for all of her time absent due to her own hospitalization will be deemed to be a violation of the terms of this Agreement; (c) no more than one (1) instance of lateness/tardiness per month; (d) absolutely no unauthorized leaves or Absences Without Leave ("AWOLs") will be permitted; (e) Appellant understands that she has a responsibility to be at the work site during her entire work shift and that her failure to do so or respond to her supervisors when paged will result in being marked AWOL; (f) Appellant will perform her duties, complete all assignments and tasks assigned to her during the relevant time period to the satisfaction of her supervisors after they have had an opportunity to review said assignments; and (g) no instances of insubordination or neglect of duty will be permitted. After the initial 12-month period, Appellant understands that she will be subject to further major discipline, up to and including termination, for any infraction that she commits.

8. Appellant acknowledges that she has now been suspended or written up on several prior occasions for charges pertaining to chronic or excessive absenteeism or lateness, and is familiar with the "notice to employee" sections of prior recommended decisions. As such, Appellant acknowledges that any further violations will result in disciplinary action, up to, and including termination.

9. Except for the conduct committed by Appellant which resulted in the Final Notice of Disciplinary Action dated November 6, 2017, nothing in this Settlement Agreement serves as a waiver to the filing and pursuing of disciplinary action against Appellant for any other incidents that may have occurred during her employment up to this point in time and likewise, nothing prohibits the District from pursuing disciplinary action against Appellant related to any claims of misconduct, inefficiency or incapacity that may have already accrued or occurred in the past or that may accrue or occur in the future.

10. Appellant understands and agrees that Respondent retains the managerial prerogative and sole discretion to assign Appellant to any school it deems fit.

11. The Parties agree that Appellant is not a prevailing party, and as such, Appellant expressly waives any claims for attorneys' fees incurred in connection with this action.

12. Appellant fully understands that this Agreement can be used by Respondent in future disciplinary proceedings.

13. In exchange for the consideration set forth in Paragraphs 3 and 4, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Appellant hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that she has or may have against the Board, the Superintendent, Board of Education and Board members, and any and all other officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns of Respondent (collectively, the "Released Parties"), including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Appellant's employment, up until the time that this agreement is fully executed and approved by the necessary administrative agencies. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Appellant may have regarding insurance, COBRA, tenure, withholding of increment, discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the Civil Service Act, the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensations laws, disability benefits laws, retaliation provisions of the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law; the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution; and/or any other alleged violation of any federal, state or local law, regulation or ordinance; any claim based on contract, implied contract, collective bargaining agreement, tort law, personal injury, or public policy, having any bearing whatsoever on her employment by and/or termination of her employment with the District, including but not limited to any claim for wrongful discharge, back pay, insurance, vacation pay, sick pay, personal day pay, wages, attorneys' fees, costs, and/or future wage loss. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Appellant does not waive or release any workers' compensation claim.

14. Notwithstanding Paragraph 13 of this Settlement Agreement, it is understood by the parties that Appellant is not waiving her rights to workers compensation claims. Further, it is also understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commissioner, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 14, Appellant agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

15. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act, if applicable, this Agreement advises Appellant of the legal requirements of the Act and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Agreement, Appellant acknowledges that she: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Agreement; (iii) specifically waives her right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given twenty-one (21) days within which to consider this Agreement; and (v) has 7 days from the date of the execution of this Agreement to revoke it. Appellant understands that she may rescind this Agreement within 7 calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the Respondent either by hand or by certified mail within the 7 day period.

16. This Agreement may not be modified, altered, changed, discharged, terminated or waived except upon express written consent of the Parties.

17. Appellant acknowledges that she has entered into this Agreement voluntarily and hereby signs it without duress or coercion, and with the opportunity to consult counsel.

18. Appellant understands, agrees to and acknowledges that she is bound by this Release. Anyone who succeeds to Appellant's rights and responsibilities, such as Appellant's heirs or the executors of Appellant's estate, are also bound. This Settlement Agreement is made for the benefit of the Appellant and the District and all who succeed to their rights and responsibilities.

19. This Agreement shall be governed by the laws of the State of New Jersey.

20. The Parties agree that this Agreement may be signed in counterparts and that facsimile of signatures will have the same force and effect as original signatures.

21. The Parties agree to keep confidential and not share any information as to the terms of the settlement agreement and release, except as required by law.

22. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party. This Settlement Agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

23. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Agreement shall be fully enforceable.

24. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the undersigned representative of the Board who represents and warrants that she is authorized and empowered to sign this Agreement on behalf of the Board and is able to bind the Board to the terms of this Agreement. Any disapproval by the Board representative shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

25. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the Civil Service Commission and will only become final and binding on Appellant and Respondent upon the approval of the Civil Service Commission. Any disapproval by the Civil Service Commission shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue the matter further.

The parties in this appeal have voluntarily resolved all disputed matters and enter into the following Settlement Agreement that fully disposes of all issues and claims in controversy between Appellant LaVonn Motley ("Appellant" or "Motley") and Respondent Board of Education of the City of Newark, Essex County ("Respondent" or the "District"), and Appellant and Respondent intending to be legally bound, mutually agree as follows:

1. Appellant will withdraw, with prejudice, her appeal and request for a hearing filed under OAL Docket No. CSV 03240-2018N, Agency Ref. No.: 2017-3888 including all claims which were raised or which could have been raised in relation thereto.

2. Appellant also agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, any and all other suits or claims that she may have previously filed against the District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies with the exception of workers compensation claims. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all of Appellant's outstanding claims against the District related to her employment. It is understood by the parties that this Settlement Agreement will serve as a formal letter of withdrawal for any other suits or claims, except for workers compensation claims, should Appellant fail to submit a formal letter of withdrawal for each suit or claim.

3. The parties agree that Appellant will be deemed guilty of "Failure to Perform Duties" for the conduct that she committed on January 26, 2017.

4. In exchange, and for good consideration as hereby acknowledged by the parties, the District will convert Appellant's termination effective February 2, 2017 to an unpaid six (6) month suspension as discipline for the conduct committed on January 26, 2017. The unpaid suspension period shall be recorded as February 2, 2017 through August 2, 2017. Between August 3, 2017 and the actual date Appellant is reinstated, Appellant will be deemed to have been placed on an unpaid leave of absence.

5. Except for the conduct committed by Appellant on January 26, 2017, nothing in this Settlement Agreement serves as a waiver to the filing and pursuing of disciplinary action against Motley for any other incidents that may have occurred during her employment up to this point in time, subject to applicable law, and likewise, nothing prohibits the District from pursuing disciplinary action against Motley related to any claims of misconduct, inefficiency or incapacity that may have already accrued or occurred in the past or that may accrue or occur in the future, subject to applicable law. Motley reserves and retains the right to assert all applicable and/or available defenses.

6. Appellant understands and agrees that Respondent retains the managerial prerogative and sole discretion to assign Appellant to any school it deems fit.

7. Appellant shall not receive any back pay or any other payment as part of this settlement.

8. Appellant shall not receive any sick, vacation or personal days for any time between February 2, 2017 and the date of her reinstatement.

9. The Parties agree that Appellant is not a prevailing party, and as such, Appellant expressly waives any claims for attorneys' fees incurred in connection with this action.

10. Appellant fully understands that this Agreement can be used by Respondent in future disciplinary proceedings.

11. In exchange for the consideration set forth in Paragraph 4, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, Appellant hereby waives, releases and discharges any and all claims or rights that she has or may have against Respondent, the Superintendent, Board of Education and Board members, and any and all other officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns of Respondent (collectively, the "Released Parties"), including any claim for attorneys' fees, costs or other monetary relief. This waiver, release and discharge includes, without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Appellant's employment, up until the time that this agreement is fully executed and approved by the necessary administrative agencies. 19. Nothing in this Settlement Agreement shall be deemed to be an admission of liability on behalf of either party. This Settlement Agreement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

20. The Parties agree that if any portion of this Agreement is deemed unenforceable, the remainder of the Agreement shall be fully enforceable.

21. This Settlement Agreement is subject to final approval by the undersigned representative of the District who represents and warrants that she is authorized and empowered to sign this Agreement on behalf of the District and is able to bind the District to the terms of this Agreement. Any disapproval by the District representative shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

In the Matter of Betty Ramos Irvington Township, Department of Public Safety CSC DKT. NO. 2017-2816 OAL DKT. NO. CSV 04239-17	:	STATE OF NEW JERSEY DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

ISSUED: JULY 20, 2018 BW

The appeal of Betty Ramos, Police Officer, Irvington Township, Department of Public Safety, 40 working day suspension, on charges, was heard by Administrative Law Judge Jeffrey A. Gerson, who rendered his initial decision on June 7, 2018 reversing the 40 working day (20 days held in abeyance) suspension. No exceptions were filed.

Having considered the record and the Administrative Law Judge's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission, at its meeting on July 18, 2018, accepted and adopted the Findings of Fact and Conclusion as contained in the attached Administrative Law Judge's initial decision.

Since the penalty has been reversed, the appellant is entitled to back pay, benefits, and seniority, for the actual number of days she was suspended pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Further, since the appellant has prevailed, she is entitled to counsel fees pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12.

This decision resolves the merits of the dispute between the parties concerning the disciplinary charges and the penalty imposed by the appointing authority. However, in light of the Appellate Division's decision, Dolores Phillips v. Department of Corrections, Docket No. A-5581-01T2F (App. Div. Feb. 26, 2003), the Commission's decision will not become final until any outstanding issues concerning back pay and counsel fees are finally resolved.

ORDER

The Civil Service Commission finds that the action of the appointing authority in suspending the appellant was not justified. The Commission therefore reverses that action and grants the appeal of Betty Ramos. The Commission further orders that appellant be granted back pay, benefits, and seniority for the actual number of days she was suspended. The amount of back pay awarded is to be reduced and mitigated as provided for in N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10. Proof of income earned shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision.

The Commission further orders that counsel fees be awarded to the attorney for appellant pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.12. An affidavit of services in support of reasonable counsel fees shall be submitted by or on behalf of the appellant to the appointing authority within 30 days of issuance of this decision. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.10 and N.J.A.C. 4A:2.12, the parties shall make a good faith effort to resolve any dispute as to the amount of back pay or counsel fees.

The parties must inform the Commission, in writing, if there is any dispute as to back pay or counsel fees within 60 days of issuance of this decision. In the absence of such notice, the Commission will assume that all outstanding issues have been amicably resolved by the parties and this decision shall become a final administrative determination pursuant to R. 2:2-3(a)(2). After such time, any further review of this matter shall be pursued in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Appellate Division.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. CSV 04239-17
AGENCY DKT NO. 2017-2816

IN THE MATTER OF BETTY RAMOS, IRVINGTON TOWNSHIP, DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY.

Peter B. Paris, Esq., for petitioner Betty Ramos (Law Office of David Beckett, attorney)

Lindal Scott-Foster, Esq, for respondent, Township of Irvington, attorney)

Record Closed: November 13, 2017 Decided: June 7, 2018

BEFORE: JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ t/a:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Betty Ramos, a Police Officer in Irvington Township was suspended for 40 working days, 20 of which were held in abeyance, on February 21, 2017.

On February 24, 2017, Officer Ramos filed her Major Disciplinary Appeal form on August 8 and on August 24, 2017 the matter was heard at the Office of Administrative Law.

The record was closed on November 13, 2017 after receipt of the final submission of a letter brief.

FACTS

Despite some minor differences between the parties, the facts in this matter are not in significant dispute.

On March 22, 2016, Officer Betty Ramos was assigned to the "Call Taker" position in the Irvington Police Department Communication Center. As Call Taker, Ramos was responsible to receive 911 calls and relay the information to the dispatcher.

On the date in question, Ramos received a call from a civilian at approximately 10:40 p.m. reporting a motor vehicle accident involving damage to parked vehicles with the offending vehicle leaving the scene and, according to the citizen, endangering two pedestrians.

The citizen was in the process of following the offending vehicle and reported the location and provided Ramos with a license plate number. Ramos maintained communication with the citizen who remained at the scene where the offending vehicle was subsequently parked.

While in contact with the civilian, Ramos searched the license plate number of the vehicle which produced the name of the owner. Ramos recognized the name of the owner as an Irvington Police Officer.

At the time of the call, Ramos was already entering information in the CADE report (computer system) and notified the dispatcher, not only of the incident, but told her of the involvement of an Irvington Police Officer.

The first witness to testify on behalf of the Township was Detective Sergeant Gerard Malek. Malek conducted the investigation that subsequently led to the charges against Ramos among several others.

Malek testified that Ramos was required to notify the desk supervisor of an unusual incident after determining that the offending vehicle was registered to an Irvington Police Officer. Malek went on to indicate that R 3.1.7 "performance of duty" requires the officer to perform all the duties designated to them. From this general description, Malek determined that Ramos had violated this provision, though the basis of that violation was never clarified in his testimony. He went on to indicate that Ramos also violated R 3.1.26 which indicates that when an officer becomes aware that another officer is involved in a violation of law or ordinance or rule, they are required to report that in writing to their supervisor. The third charge filed by Malek against Ramos was that she violated a General Order which required all reports to be "concise and documented".

Malek confirmed that as a result of the original citizen call, a notification from Ramos to the Dispatcher occurred which resulted in the appearance at the scene of several officers. The officers at the scene interviewed the Irvington Police Officer who they subsequently determined was not only the owner but also the operator of the offending vehicle. It was the conduct of these officers at the scene which led to the notification to the Essex County Prosecutor's office reporting what was perceived to be the shortcomings of their conduct.

The next witness to testify on behalf of Irvington Township was Joseph J. Santiago, who formally was the Police Director for the Township of Irvington from 2008 to 2014. He presently does some consulting work for the Township of Irvington in addition to his employment privately with Santiago Associates.

Santiago's testimony was apparently offered to clarify some of the Orders and operating procedures governing the Irvington Township Police.

The last witness to testify on behalf of the Township was Lieutenant Clinton Franks, who on the date of the incident was working as a desk Lieutenant.

According to Lieutenant Franks, it was not until the following day when he reviewed the reports and upon that initial review did not see anything that would have triggered an unusual incident report, but subsequently learned that omissions by both the Dispatcher and the on scene officers distorted the actual facts surrounding the incident.

Officer Ramos testified that she received the call from a citizen complainant, took all of the information offered, prepared a CAD report and advised the Dispatcher verbally that the registered owner of the offending vehicle was "one of us" or actually relayed the name of the offending officer.

Officer Ramos testified that she did not believe that the incident could be categorized as an "unusual incident" and that the information that the incident involved an Irvington Police Officer was not only verbally given to the dispatcher, but also subsequently attached to the CAD report. She contended that her actions on the night in question were in complete comportment with all rules, regulations and orders governing the conduct of a "Call Taker".

DISCUSSION

Charge I against Officer Ramos was as follows:

> R 3.1.7 Performance of Duties states:
>
> All members and employees shall perform their duties as required or directed by law, police department rule, policy or Order, or by order of a superior officer. All lawful duties are required by competent authority shall be performed promptly > as directed, notwithstanding the general assignment of duties and responsibilities.

No testimony offered by Irvington Township indicated with any specificity what conduct of Officer Ramos would lead to the conclusion that she did not do perform her duties as required. A review of Exhibit A-10, the duties of a Call Taker specifies nine procedures to be followed, none of which any of the witnesses pointed to as being violated by Ramos.

The second Charge is that Ramos failed to perform her duty when she did not notify the desk supervisor of an "unusual incident" when she became aware that the owner of the vehicle was an Irvington Police Officer.

General Order 2008-01 discusses "unusual incident" that require notifications to various officials. A review of what is categorized as unusual incidents reveals that most are serious crimes or citizen complaints against police officers. The incident of March 22, 2016 involving Officer Ramos as a Call Taker does not fall into any of the listed items in the Order and requires an extraordinary stretch of everyday language to consider this event as an extraordinary occurrence and thereby an "unusual incident.

The last charge against Officer Ramos was that she failed to immediately report in writing that an Irvington Police Officer was the owner of a motor vehicle which was reported to be driving erratically and involved in an accident.

Though there is simply no basis for this charge since it is quite clear that a CAD report was filed immediately and attached to the CAD report was the details of who the operator and registered owner was of the vehicle.

Over simplified, Officer Ramos took a call from a concerned citizen which eventually was determined to involve an Irvington Police Officer. Ramos documented the details and notified the Dispatcher, not only of the nature of the call, but of the potential involvement of a fellow police officer. The subsequent involvement of several on duty police officer officers which may have involved some overprotective aspects of a fellow officer, create ripple effects which extended out to Ramos though her performance did not warrant the subsequent discipline. If Irvington would like to have the Call Taker notify superiors of any call that comes in involving a police officer, a General Order so requiring such notification would not be hard to author. The Rules, Regulations and Orders as presently constituted require notification under specific circumstances, most of which are serious offenses and none of which will require Officer Ramos to be disciplined.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the disciplinary charges filed against Officer Betty Ramos are hereby dismissed and any loss of salary and/or seniority resulting in the already served suspension be reinstated immediately.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DIRECTOR, MERIT SYSTEM PRACTICES AND LABOR RELATIONS, UNIT H, CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, 44 South Clinton Avenue, PO Box 312, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0312, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BEFORE KELLY J. KIRK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner/appellant Christopher Reece appeals his dismissal by the Passaic County Police Academy for failure to fully participate in 80 percent of the total physical training as per the Police Training Commission (PTC) standards. Petitioner/appellant further appeals his termination by the City of Passaic Department of Public Safety for failure to complete the police training.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In Christopher Reece v. Passaic County Police Academy, OAL Docket No. PTC 02976-16, Reece requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 23, 2016, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, for a hearing as a contested case. In In the Matter of Christopher Reece, City of Passaic Department of Public Safety, OAL Docket No. CSV 11753-16, Reece requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the OAL on August 4, 2016, for a hearing as a contested case. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:4A-17.1, an Order was issued on September 23, 2016, consolidating the matters and deeming the PTC to have the predominant interest.

The hearing was held on November 9, 2017, and November 16, 2017, and the record remained open for post-hearing submissions. The record closed on April 2, 2018, upon receipt of the final submission.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Background

Based upon a review of the testimony and the documentary evidence presented, and having had the opportunity to observe the demeanor and assess the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following FACTS in this case:

Dennis Schlosser retired as a captain from the Passaic County Sheriff's Department in September 2009 after twenty-five years. He has been employed full-time by the Passaic County Police Academy (PCPA) as a physical training (PT) instructor since November 2009. He has been the assistant director of the PCPA for approximately fourteen months, and prior thereto he was a senior PT instructor for four years. He had previously been a PT instructor, on and off, since approximately 1988.

Mohamed Lostan retired as a captain and has been a PT instructor for twenty-eight years.

The PCPA runs basic police, basic corrections, special one and special two, juvenile detention officer, and park ranger classes, as well as general in-service classes for prior graduates. To maintain its certification, the PCPA must conduct a minimum of two classes per year. Instructors take a forty-hour in-service class to be certified by the PTC. Schlosser took the certification class in November 2009. The class covers the PTC Physical Conditioning Training Manual. When Schlosser started at the PCPA, the PCPA was on basic class police officer (BCPO or class) number 33, and it is now on class number 50.

Christopher Reece was sent to the PCPA by the Passaic Police Department (Passaic PD). He started the BCPO at the PCPA on November 5, 2015. Reece was one of 141 trainees in class 15-46BCPO, so each trainee was also given a number for more specific identification. Reece's identification number was 95. The BCPO averages twenty-four weeks. Class 15-46BCPO concluded in March 2016, and 113 of the 141 trainees graduated.

Reece is six feet tall. At his medical examination several weeks prior to starting at the PCPA Reece weighed approximately 255 pounds. (J-11.) A trainee's physical condition is assessed three times during the class. Trainees are assigned numerically to exercise group 1 (entry), group 2 (intermediate), and group 3 (advanced). For the first assessment, a trainee's physical condition is assessed on the fourth day of the class, after three easy days of PT, to determine which exercise group the trainee should be in. On November 9, 2015, the first physical condition assessment was conducted.

On that date, Reece weighed 248 pounds and his 1.5-mile-run time was 16.36. (J-12.) The run assessment was based on the trainee's own pace, six times around the track. Reece was assigned to group 1.

On November 5, 2015, Reece signed a confirmation that he read, understood and agreed to comply with the PCPA Rules and Regulations. (J-8.) Chapter 6-1 of the PCPA Rules and Regulations addresses physical-fitness training as follows:

> a. Proper physical fitness and posture are necessary attributes for a Law Enforcement Officer. Total fitness for Law Enforcement duties include[s]: technical fitness, mental and emotional fitness, and physical fitness. If any of these attributes are lacking, the Officer's effectiveness suffers proportionately.
>
> b. Scheduled physical exercise as prescribed by the Police Training Commission's Physical Conditioning Program Manual will be conducted so that each "Trainee" can maintain a high level of physical fitness.
>
> c. Each Trainee will undergo prescribed physical fitness tests. Strengths and weaknesses shall be identified for the Trainee. Alternative training may be required as necessary. All Trainees are to participate fully in physical training sessions. Police Training Commission's rules shall be adhered to at all times.
>
> d. The New Jersey State Police Training Commission has set minimum standards for participation as per Directive #6-98. The minimum sessions will be forwarded to you during Orientation Day.
>
> e. It is the responsibility of all persons involved in the training process, to pay close attention to the personal safety of everyone involved in the training course. While attending the Passaic County Police Academy, Instructors and Trainees alike will not jeopardize the health or safety of themselves or others for the sake of the training mission.
> [J-8.]

Per PTC Directive #6-98, an individual enrolled in the BCPO "must participate in a minimum of 80 percent of the physical conditioning sessions scheduled by a school with an individual participating in no less than 40 physical conditioning sessions as described in the [C]ommission's Physical Conditioning Training Program Manual." (J-54.)

The PCPA provides each trainee with the PCPA's definition of "participation" (Participation Notice). On November 5, 2015, Reece signed the Participation Notice, which states in part:

> Participation in the Physical Training Program consists of sharing with, or keeping up with your assigned group. Your assigned group consists of recruits with a similar level of physical fitness as determined by your initial physical training assessments. If you refuse to share or keep up with your assigned group you are not participating in the program. If you do not participate in the program you will not be given credit for that particular training session.
>
>
> If you fail to participate you fail to be part of the team. If you fail to be part of the team your time at the academy and in this program may be limited.
> [J-10.]

The PT program includes cardiovascular endurance, muscular strength, and endurance and flexibility. There are exercise programs for a five-day week and for a three-day week, all of which generally include a warm-up, flexibility exercises, aerobic activities, transition cool-down, calisthenics/strength exercises, speed and agility exercises, and cool-down. One of the aerobic activities at the PCPA is running. Reece did not receive credit for the PT runs on November 18, 2015, November 19, 2015, November 20, 2015, November 23, 2015, November 24, 2015, November 25, 2015, and November 30, 2015. (J-14; J-16; J-18; J-20; J-22; J-24; J-26; J-27; J-28.) On November 30, 2015, Reece signed an acknowledgment listing the seven no-credit/non-participation dates and stating that the PTC "has set minimum standards for participation as per Directive 6-98," and that "[t]rainees must complete 80% of scheduled performance objectives as per 13.1."[1] (J-27.)

Reece did not receive PT credit for the PT runs on December 2, 2015, December 3, 2015, December 4, 2015, December 7, 2015, December 8, 2015, December 9, 2015, December 10, 2015, December 11, 2015, and December 23, 2015. (J-30; J-32; J-34; J-36; J-38; J-40; J-42; J-44; J-46; J-47.) December 23, 2015, was the twenty-seventh day of PT. (J-46.)

On January 4, 2016, the second physical condition assessment was conducted and all group 1 trainees were moved to group 2, so group 1 was eliminated. Based on performance, some group 2 trainees were moved into group 3. On that date, Reece weighed 248 pounds and his 1.5-mile-run time was 14.38. (J-12.)

Reece did not receive PT credit for the PT run on January 15, 2016. (J-49; J-50.) January 15, 2016, was the thirty-fifth day of PT. (J-50.) The total number of PT sessions on the schedule for Reece's class was seventy-five, so Reece needed participation credit for at least sixty PT sessions in order to meet the PTC standard of 80 percent participation. (J-50.)

Schlosser recommended that Reece be dismissed from the PCPA for failure to fully participate in 80 percent of the total physical-conditioning sessions as per PTC standards. (J-50.) On February 2, 2016, Reece was notified of his dismissal from the PCPA. (J-51.) The Dismissal Notice reflects that he was being dismissed for (1) violation of the PCPA Rules and Regulations, specifically Chapter 6-1d; and (2) violation of PTC Rules—N.J.A.C. 13:1-5.1 and failure to participate in the minimum standard of PT as set by the PTC as per Directive #6-98. (J-51.)

Reece was subsequently removed from his position as a police officer by the Passaic PD because he was dismissed from the PCPA. (PS-1.)

Testimony

Captain Dennis Schlosser

Schlosser recommended Reece's dismissal from the PCPA based upon Reece's failure to fully participate in 80 percent of the total PT sessions. Trainees are given notice of the trainee requirements with the enrollment packet, before they get to the PCPA. The rules and regulations and the general program are covered on the first day of orientation at the PCPA. The class generally reads the PCPA Rules and Regulations word for word and then the trainees are required to sign the Confirmation of Rules and Regulations.

Schlosser described the physical-conditioning exercises' timing and procedure. Trainees must continuously run for twenty minutes, usually three days per week. The total time of an exercise session may not exceed seventy minutes. The minimum run is twenty minutes, but sometimes they run twenty-two to twenty-three minutes. Instructors train with the classes and therefore actively run with the groups. Schlosser actively runs with group 1 because he is generally unable to keep pace with the faster groups. The pace is decided in advance by the instructor depending upon which instructors are present. Instructors utilize a stopwatch. Trainees are not permitted to utilize fitness devices. At the end of a run, the instructor will announce the length of the run and time that the group completed the run. The pace is typically around 2:30 (two minutes, thirty seconds) for one lap around the track. The PCPA has two GoPro video cameras to video the runs.

[12] Instructor wrote below Reece's report: "No credit for PT/Non-Participation."

Examples of non-participation are walking, stopping, or not finishing a run. The run must be a continuous twenty-minute run. One instructor generally leads the run, and, depending upon how many instructors are present, an instructor will run in the middle and/or the back. The instructor's job is to keep the group together. If a trainee separates to walk or stop, the trainee will not get credit for PT that day. The group generally completed the runs in twenty minutes, but at times Reece took longer than twenty minutes. There were various reasons that Reece did not complete the runs in twenty minutes, including stopping and walking.

A general PT report is prepared daily by an instructor. The trainees are required to complete a Trainee Report if they fall out of a run, are injured, or otherwise do not participate. Instructors want details on Trainee Reports to determine the problem and help the trainee improve. Trainees are expected to improve in PT. After seven Non-Participations, they sit the trainee down and tell the trainee to get with the program. Non-Participations are written by the PT instructors at the end of PT for trainees who receive a Non-Participation.

The PTC Rules are adhered to at all times. The PTC did not define a run step-wise. If the instructors set a pace, then the trainees must keep up with that pace. It is not possible to train an individual who is behind the group on the other side of the track or by himself or herself. That is not participating. Trainees are verbally notified of their assessment numbers/scores, and know their scores. The information is not provided to the trainees in writing. The PCPA has been implementing the program this way for at least the eight years that Schlosser has been an instructor there. The PTC makes unannounced visits and verifies compliance, and the PCPA has not had any complaints from the PTC.

Captain Mohamed Lostan

The PTC requires full participation. If a trainee is not with the group, the trainee is not participating. Reece was running by himself. If Reece were not running at the pace set by the instructor or separated from the group it would result in a Non-Participation. There is a difference between a shuffle and a jog. A slow shuffle by definition is not running. Based upon his twenty-eight years of experience as an instructor, Lostan knows the difference between a jog and a shuffle. A shuffle is a leisurely pace.

Lostan sometimes ran with group 1. One instructor cannot keep track of every trainee during the runs. Before and after PT the trainees are asked if they are sick or injured, and they are instructed that if they are sick or injured to report it to an instructor. Videos are taken daily, in order to keep records on times, but they are not all saved due to server space. The PCPA is not required to video the runs, but does so to keep track of times. The videos are reviewed by the instructors after the runs. One GoPro is at the front, primarily used for audio.

The PTC recommends a 10 percent increase in running distance per week. The pace is also increased in order for trainees to progress. There is no limit or maximum on run time, but the total exercise session cannot exceed seventy minutes. The PCPA is allowed to schedule a thirty-minute run. The PTC Aerobic Activities Prescription Guidelines are sample guidelines. No electronic equipment is allowed at the PCPA. The trainees start off going to PT five days per week. PT is later reduced to three days per week to allow for defensive tactics, after the trainees are more physically fit.

Reece was dismissed before the end of the class because he already had more than fifteen Non-Participations and it was not possible for him to meet the 80 percent requirement.

Christopher Reece

To prepare for the PCPA, Reece began running 1.5 miles a day the day after he received the paperwork packet from the PCPA. Reece utilized several fitness technology "apps" to record his runs, including Map My Run, Nike+ Run Club, and Fitbit. According to his fitness-apps data, in October Reece was running 1.5 miles three days per week in approximately 14:20, thereby averaging a mile in under ten minutes.

For the first physical condition assessment run, trainees were broken into three groups. He was in a mixed group, with some trainees who were slow and some who were fast, because the PCPA did not yet know the trainees' abilities. Reece tried to keep up with the fast runners for laps one, two, and three, at a faster pace than his normal pace, so by the end of lap three he was winded.

Captain Schlosser and Captain Lostan told the trainees that if a trainee reaches out his hand and cannot touch the back of the trainee running in front of him, provided that the trainee running in front is still in/with the group, then the trainee is deemed to have fallen out. Reece estimated that he did not participate in approximately four PT runs. If a trainee falls out of a run, the instructors require the trainee to complete a Trainee Report. The trainees submit the Trainee Reports to the squad leader and the reports are handed up the chain of command. He never saw the Trainee Reports again, unless he was later advised that additional information was required. An example of such additional information would be if an instructor wanted the trainee to include that the instructor had observed the trainee being lapped by the group. Reece tore up and rewrote numerous Trainee Reports.

Reece denied that he stopped running on November 18, 2015. Reece denied that he stopped running on November 20, 2015, and testified that he was "absolutely not" walking and was not slow shuffling; rather, he was jogging. He denied that he stopped running on November 23, 2015, but he could not reach out and touch the trainee in front of him. He stopped running to throw up on November 24, 2015, but then resumed running. He caught up with the group, but then fell back again. He stopped running to throw up on November 25, 2015. On November 30, 2015, he did not participate. On December 2, 2015, he stopped running and fell back from the group and then resumed running, but he was not with the group. On December 3, 2015, he stopped running one or two times to stretch on the fence because of cramping and then resumed running. He ran continuously on December 4, 2015, and December 7, 2015, but could not touch the trainee in front of him. He did not stop running on December 8, 2015, or December 9, 2015. He was told what to write on the December 8, 2015, and December 9, 2015, reports because he was not permitted to use a technology device and would not otherwise have known what time he finished or how far behind the group he was. The reports are completed in the lecture hall, and on any given day there were fifteen to twenty trainees completing reports. Reece did not stop running on December 10, 2015, or December 11, 2015. He denied walking, because there would have been no way for him to have caught up if he had been walking. Reece did not stop running on January 15, 2016. Reece denied that he would have been three minutes behind the group, because most of the time he fell out, he was only five to fifty yards behind, and three minutes behind is a large amount of time.

Outside of the PCPA, Reece tried to address the running problem by signing up for fourteen sessions with a private trainer, on Thursday evenings and Saturday mornings, beginning on November 28, 2015. He did not run very often outside of the PCPA. The PCPA had instructed the trainees to run on Saturdays, but to rest on Sunday. One or two days per week he ran outside the PCPA at Garret Mountain, so he was consistently running six days per week. The PCPA run was flat, but Garret Mountain was up and down. While at the PCPA, Reece asked Captain Lostan for help improving his running performance. Captain Lostan told Reece that if he could run a ten-minute mile there would be no reason why he would fall out and not stay with the group. Reece told Captain Lostan that he can run a ten-minute mile outside of the PCPA, but at the PCPA with the group the pace seemed faster.

Before the PCPA, Reece did not run, ate what he wanted, and only did light gym work. After the PCPA, his lifestyle dramatically changed. He ate sardines and protein shakes at the PCPA, and he now weighs 225 pounds. He presently runs two miles per day, five days per week, at Tryon Park. He has been running approximately a 9:20 mile.

Reece was not provided with a copy of the Trainee Counseling Form/Written Notification for his records. He thinks at the end of the run the instructor shouted out the times to the individual trainees. Reece did not receive copies of the Physical Training/D.T.s or the January 15, 2016, Instructors Report memo. Reece was never provided with a copy of his Individual Physical Fitness Assessment Profile.

Captain Schlosser called him out of the study hall for the February 2, 2016, meeting. There were three officers there from the Passaic PD, and Reece was advised that he had failed. He was shocked and did not understand how he had failed when others behind him had not. He was never absent, was never cited for any rule violation, never received any demerits, and had approximately an 80 average when he was dismissed.

Additional Findings of Fact

A credibility determination requires an overall evaluation of the testimony in light of its rationality or internal consistency and the manner in which it "hangs together" with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718, 749 (9th Cir. 1963). Testimony to be believed must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but must be credible in itself. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 555 (1954). It must be such as the common experience and observation can approve as probable in the circumstances. Gallo v. Gallo, 66 N.J. Super. 1, 5 (App. Div. 1961). "The interest, motive, bias, or prejudice of a witness may affect his credibility and justify the [trier of fact], whose province it is to pass upon the credibility of an interested witness, in disbelieving his testimony.'" State v. Salimone, 19 N.J. Super. 600, 608 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 10 N.J. 316 (1952) (citation omitted).

The Non-Participations and corresponding Trainee Reports establish that Reece repeatedly fell behind in the group runs. Twelve of the seventeen Non-Participations have entries for "Time walking or not at a running pace," and the instructor specifically indicated that Reece was at some point during the run observed to be either walking or slow-shuffling: November 19, 2015 ("walking"); November 20, 2015 ("walking pace" and "slow shuffled"); November 23, 2015 ("walking pace" and "slow shuffle"); November 24, 2015 ("slow shuffle/walking" and "moving at his own pace/walk"); November 30, 2015 ("walking," "slow shuffle, then run, then walk, back to slow shuffle," and "[o]bserved walking at least two times"); December 3, 2015 ("slow shuffle" and "walking"); December 7, 2015 ("slow shuffle" and "walking"); December 8, 2015 ("slow shuffle"); December 10, 2015 ("slow shuffle"); December 11, 2015 ("slow shuffle" and "walking"); December 23, 2015 ("walking"); and January 15, 2015 ("slow shuffle" and "not at run pace"). Although Reece denied that he stopped running on November 20, 2015, the Non-Participation reflects that Schlosser established a walking pace next to him at 7:00 minutes. Additionally, although the December 9, 2015, Non-Participation reflects "n/a" at "Time walking or not at a running pace," the comments reflect that Reece "stopped running" twice, and that he was lapped by his group and finished more than three minutes behind. Accordingly, there were thirteen days on which Reece was not continuously running.

Reece was advised on November 30, 2015, that he had received seven Non-Participations, but thereafter he received additional Non-Participations for the same physical training. Given that Reece signed up for fourteen sessions with a private trainer to address his running problem beginning on November 28, 2015, Reece was already aware that his running was an issue. Additionally, Reece testified that he had a conversation with Captain Lostan about improving his running, and told Captain Lostan that he could run outside the PCPA, but at the PCPA the pace seemed faster.

Reece's testimony that his technology "apps" indicated that he was running approximately a 9:20 mile was credible, but even assuming that the apps were accurate in recording and reporting Reece's run times, this does not establish that Reece was running at that pace during PT, nor does it establish that Reece never stopped running or that he never slow-shuffled. There are any number of reasons that the PT runs may have resulted in stopping, walking or slow-shuffling or in physical effects, including, but not limited to, differences in routes, warm-ups, hydration, or other training.

It is noted that four other Non-Participations reflect "N/A" for "Time walking or not at a running pace," and the instructor comments reflect only that Reece was not with the group and was moving at his own pace: November 18, 2015 ("separating and running at his own pace"); November 25, 2015 ("separating from the group and moving at his own pace" and "lapped by the group once"); December 2, 2015 ("separated from his exercise group and moved at his own pace"); and December 4, 2015 ("separated from his exercise group and moved at his own pace" and "finished 2:50 minutes behind his group"). While these four Non-Participations may not specifically state that he stopped running, they do reflect that Reece was not with his group.

Having had an opportunity to consider the evidence and to observe the witnesses and make credibility determinations based on the witnesses' testimony, I FIND the following additional FACTS in this case:

Reece signed up for fourteen sessions with a private trainer twice per week, beginning on November 28, 2015. In seventeen of thirty-five group PT runs, Reece failed to maintain pace with his group and fell out from his group. On at least seven of those seventeen group runs, Reece was far enough behind that he was lapped by his group. On thirteen of the thirty-five group runs, Reece did not maintain a continuous run because he stopped, walked, and/or slow shuffled. Stopping, walking, and slow-shuffling are not running and will result in a Non-Participation. If a trainee is not within arm's length of the group, the trainee is not participating.

LEGAL ANALYSIS AND CONCLUSIONS

Dismissal by PCPA

N.J.S.A. 52:17B-66 states:

> The Legislature of New Jersey hereby finds and declares that a serious need for improvement in the administration of local and county law enforcement exists in order to better protect the health, safety and welfare of its citizens; that police work, a basic adjunct of law enforcement administration, is professional in nature, and requires proper educational and clinical training in a State whose population is increasing in relation to its physical area, and in a society where greater reliance on better law enforcement through higher standards of efficiency is of paramount need; that the present need for improvement can be substantially met by the creation of a compulsory educational and training program for persons who seek to become permanent law enforcement officers wherein such persons will be required, while serving in a probationary capacity prior to permanent appointment, to receive efficient training in this profession provided at facilities selected, approved and inspected by a commission created for such purpose; and that by qualifying and becoming proficient in the field of law enforcement such persons shall individually and > collectively better insure the health, safety and welfare of the citizens of this State in their respective communities.

N.J.S.A. 52:17B-70 established the PTC in the Division of Criminal Justice in the Department of Law and Public Safety. The PTC is vested with multiple powers, responsibilities and duties, including: (a) to prescribe standards for the approval and continuation of approval of schools at which police training courses are conducted, including but not limited to presently existing regional, county, municipal and police chief association police training schools; (b) to approve and issue certificates of approval to such schools, to inspect such schools from time to time, and to revoke any approval or certificate issued to such schools; (c) to prescribe the curriculum, the minimum courses of study, attendance requirements, equipment and facilities, and standards of operation for such schools; (d) to prescribe minimum qualifications for instructors at such schools and to certify, as qualified, instructors for approved police training schools and to issue appropriate certificates to such instructors; and (e) to certify police officers, corrections officers, juvenile corrections officers and juvenile detention officers who have satisfactorily completed training programs and to issue appropriate certificates upon completion. N.J.S.A. 52:17B-71.

Generally, all instructors participating in a course authorized by the PTC must be certified before they are permitted to teach. N.J.A.C. 13:1-4.1. The Passaic County Police Academy and its instructors are certified by the PTC in accordance with N.J.A.C. 13:1-3.1 to -3.7 and N.J.A.C. 13:1-4.1 to -4.6. A curriculum issued by the PTC is the required curriculum at a PTC-approved school and constitutes the minimum requirements for trainee certification. N.J.A.C. 13:1-6.1. The PTC curricula are incorporated into the act by reference. Ibid. An approved school must conduct basic courses and other courses required by the PTC. Ibid. A school's certification may be suspended or revoked by the PTC for failure to comply with PTC requirements. N.J.A.C. 13:1-3.7(a)(1).

A trainee is eligible for certification when the school director affirms that: (1) the trainee has achieved the minimum requirements set forth in the basic course and has demonstrated an acceptable degree of proficiency in that course's performance objectives; (2) the trainee has participated in no less than 90 percent of the total instructional time assigned to those performance objectives designated by the PTC; and (3) the trainee has successfully completed the training required by the PTC to be conducted by the employing law enforcement agency. N.J.A.C. 13:1-5.1(a).

Per Chapter 6 of the PCPA's Rules and Regulations, "[a]ll Trainees are to participate fully in physical training sessions," and the PTC "has set minimum standards for participation as per Directive #6-98." Reece confirmed that he understood the Rules and Regulations and agreed to comply with them. Additionally, Reece signed the PCPA's Participation Notice, which required that Reece keep up with his assigned group and advised that if Reece refused to keep up with his assigned group he would not be participating in the program and that such non-participation would result in no credit for the training session.

Further, the PTC's Physical Conditioning Exercise Program in the PTC's Physical Conditioning Training Manual states, in pertinent part, as follows:

> The third component of the program is the physical conditioning exercise program (see Section V, The [] Administration and Implementation of the Physical Conditioning Exercise Program). The exercise program serves two purposes. It will improve one's ability to perform job-related physical tasks and instill the concept of maintaining lifetime fitness. Each exercise session shall emphasize these dual objectives. The following are requirements of the exercise program that must be met:
>
> 1. Each exercise session, including the warm-up and cool-down phase, shall not exceed 70 minutes in length. (An additional 10 minutes, however, will be allowed for more highly fit trainees undergoing exercise. Also, additional time is permitted for trainees who require rest during the performance of speed and agility exercises. These variations are delineated in the exercise prescription [guidelines] for each activity.) The time needed to change clothes and to move to the appropriate training facilities is not to be included in the 70 minutes of exercise time.
>
> . . .
> 2. A minimum of 40 physical conditioning sessions shall be scheduled in a five-day program, and 20 physical conditioning sessions shall be scheduled in a three-day > program. In addition, a trainee must fully participate in eighty-percent of the scheduled physical training sessions, and meet the standard which produces the higher number of sessions based upon the course schedule. Failure to fully participate in eighty-percent of the total physical conditioning sessions shall be grounds for dismissal from the police academy.

>
> 7. Full participation shall be defined as participating continuously and without stopping in a twenty-minute run. Recruits shall demonstrate to staff their ability to engage in aerobic training running continuously for this period of time. Full participation in calisthenics and strength exercises shall be approved by the evaluation of physical training staff at each academy, on a recruit-by-recruit basis.

Reece argues that he was still maintaining a "running" pace, albeit slower than his group, and that his own pace was sufficient to satisfy the PTC requirement that "[f]ull participation shall be defined as participating continuously and without stopping in a twenty-minute run." The PTC's definition of full participation is vague, in that it does not also define "participating continuously." However, as set forth in the regulations, the curriculum issued by the PTC constitutes the minimum requirements for trainee certification. Therefore, I accept the PCPA's definition of participation in the Participation Notice and the testimony of the instructors and Reece that the PCPA's requirement is that Reece be no further than an arm's length from the trainee immediately in front of him, and that he be "keeping up with [his] assigned group." There were initially three groups. Reece was assigned to group 1, but was unable to keep up with the entry-level group.

On thirteen of the group runs Reece stopped, walked, and/or slow shuffled. There were four instances in which the Non-Participations do not clearly reflect that Reece had stopped, or that he was walking or slow-shuffling at any point. Reece argues that he was still maintaining a continuous "running" pace in those instances. However, even if Reece had been "running," he nevertheless fell out of those four runs, and failed to meet the PCPA's participation requirement. Thus, Reece failed to participate in seventeen PT exercises.

In sum, I CONCLUDE that the PCPA has established that Reece failed to participate in at least 80 percent of the PT exercises as required by the PTC, and I further CONCLUDE that the PCPA thereby established good cause for Reece's dismissal.

Removal by City of Passaic Department of Public Safety

Prior to the acceptance of a trainee into a basic course, the chief police officer or chief executive officer of the employing law enforcement agency must certify by completing a trainee record card issued by the PTC that, with respect to police officers, the appointing authority has complied with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68.1 and -69 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-4.4, including, but not limited to: (i) the individual has received a probationary appointment; and (ii) the individual has been granted a leave of absence with pay during the period of the police training course. N.J.A.C. 13:1-8.1(a).

The position of the City of Passaic Department of Public Safety is that Reece did not complete the BCPO at the PCPA, and by statute a police officer must complete the academy, so upon receipt of notice that Reece was dismissed from the PCPA, he was terminated from his probationary appointment. (PS-1.) Reece was not terminated for any other reason.

N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68(a) states:

> Every municipality and county shall authorize attendance at an approved school by persons holding a probationary appointment as a police officer, and every municipality and county shall require that no person shall hereafter be given or accept a permanent appointment as a police officer unless such person has successfully completed a police training course at an approved school; provided, however, that the commission may, in its discretion, except from the requirements of this section any person who demonstrates to the commission's satisfaction that he has successfully completed a police training course conducted by any Federal, State or other public or private agency, the requirements of which are substantially equivalent to the requirements of this act.

As established by N.J.S.A. 52:17B-68(a), Reece may not be given or accept a permanent appointment as a police officer unless he successfully completed a police training course at an approved school. Reece was dismissed from the BCPO at the PCPA and therefore failed to successfully complete the approved police training course. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Reece's removal by the City of Passaic Department of Public Safety for failure to complete the police academy was mandated by statute and therefore appropriate.

ORDER

I ORDER that Reece's dismissal from the PCPA, effective February 2, 2016, is AFFIRMED, and Reece's appeal is DISMISSED with prejudice. I further ORDER that Reece's removal by the City of Passaic Department of Public Safety, effective February 22, 2016, is AFFIRMED, and Reece's appeal is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this Initial Decision with the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make the final decision on all issues within the scope of its predominant interest. If the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision on all of the issues within the scope of predominant interest shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8, upon rendering its final decision the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall forward the record, including this recommended decision and its final decision, to the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which may subsequently render a final decision on any remaining issues and consider any specific remedies which may be within its statutory grant of authority.

Upon transmitting the record, the POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION shall, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.8(c), request an extension to permit the rendering of a final decision by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION within forty-five days of the predominant-agency decision. If the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION does not render a final decision within the extended time, this recommended decision on the remaining issues and remedies shall become the final decision.

Within thirteen days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL, POLICE TRAINING COMMISSION, Richard J. Hughes Justice Complex, PO Box 085, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0085, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

WHEREAS School District is an employer subject to the New Jersey Civil Service Act, N.J.S.A. 11A:1 et seq.;

WHEREAS Roman was employed by the School District as a custodial worker;

WHEREAS in 2017 the School District brought charges of chronic and excessive absenteeism and other just cause against Roman, resulting in Roman's removal from his position and this subsequent appeal to the Civil Service Commission (the "Appeal"); and

WHEREAS the Parties wish to resolve this matter in accordance with the terms set forth herein;

NOW, THEREFORE, subject to approval by the Civil Service Commission ("Commission"), the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1. The School District agrees to pay Roman, at his rate of compensation in effect in December 2017, for twelve and one-half (12.5) unused personal illness days, forty-five and 48/100 (45.48) unused vacation days and thirty (30) terminal leave days.

2. Roman agrees to resign his position as custodial worker with the School District effective December 22, 2017.

3. The School District agrees to take all steps necessary to convert Roman's termination to a resignation in good standing, and to inform the Civil Service Commission of the conversion.

4. Roman agrees to withdraw the Appeal with prejudice, and any and all claims or suits that he may have previously filed against the School District that are still pending in any and all courts and/or before any and all agencies, including the Civil Service Commission. This Settlement is intended to be the final resolution of all outstanding matters between the School District and Roman. Should Roman fail to withdraw any pending claims or suits, this Settlement Agreement will serve as Roman's formal written notice of withdrawal of those pending claims or suits.

5. This Settlement shall not constitute a precedent in any matters involving other employees.

6. Roman waives all claims of any nature against the School District with regard to his employment with and/or his separation from the School District, including fees, or other monetary relief.

7. By entering into this Settlement Agreement, and in exchange for good consideration as set forth above, the sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged by the parties, Roman releases and discharges the School District and any and all other School District officers, employees, representatives, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Released Parties") with respect to all claims or rights that he has or may have against the School District regarding his employment with the School District. This includes without limitation, any and all actions, claims, and liabilities of whatsoever kind or character, in law or in equity, now known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, directly or indirectly related to Roman's employment with the School District. It specifically includes, without limitation, all claims which Roman may have regarding discrimination on any basis, any federal or state civil rights law, any alleged violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, as amended; the Older Worker Benefits Protection Act; Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, as amended; Sections 1981 through 1988 of Title 42 of the United States Code; the Civil Rights Act of 1991; the Equal Pay Act; the Americans with Disabilities Act; the Rehabilitation Act; the Family and Medical Leave Act; the Fair Labor Standards Act; the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended; the Worker Adjustment and Retraining Notification Act; the National Labor Relations Act; the Fair Credit Reporting Act; the Occupational Safety and Health Act; the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Act; the Employee Polygraph Protection Act; the Immigration Reform Control Act; the retaliation provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; the Federal False Claims Act; the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination; the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act; the New Jersey Family Leave Act; the New Jersey Wage and Hour Law; the New Jersey Equal Pay Law; the New Jersey Occupational Safety and Health Law; the New Jersey Smokers' Rights Law; the New Jersey Genetic Privacy Act; the New Jersey Fair Credit Reporting Act; New Jersey Wages and Hours Law, unemployment compensation laws,

Nos. 2012-9358, 2015-1026 and 2015-3767 workers compensation proceedings. Roman agrees to save, hold harmless and indemnify the School District for any legal costs and attorneys' fees associated with the enforcement of the terms of this Settlement Agreement should enforcement become necessary.

8. Notwithstanding Paragraph 7 of this Settlement Agreement, it is understood and agreed that the parties are not prohibited from communicating with or participating in any administrative proceeding before the United States Department of Labor, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, or any other federal, state or local law agency. Should any entity, agency commission or person file a charge, action, complaint or lawsuit against the School District based upon any of the above-released claims in Paragraph 7, Roman agrees not to seek or accept any resulting relief whatsoever.

9. To comply with the Older Workers Benefit Protection Act of 1990, if applicable, this Agreement advises Roman of the legal requirements of the Act, and fully incorporates the legal requirements by reference into this Settlement Agreement. Accordingly, by executing this Settlement Agreement, Roman acknowledges that he: (i) fully understands the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement; (ii) has consulted with an attorney to review the Settlement Agreement; (iii) specifically waives his right to pursue any current claims he may have under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act; (iv) has been given sufficient time within which to consider this Settlement Agreement; and (v) has seven (7) days from the date of the execution of this Settlement Agreement to revoke it. Roman understands that he may rescind this Settlement Agreement within seven (7) calendar days of signing it, and such rescission must be in writing and delivered to counsel for the School District either by hand or by certified mail within the seven-day period.

10. The Parties respectively acknowledge that counsel has advised them regarding this Settlement Agreement and that each is signing this Settlement Agreement freely and voluntarily, without duress, coercion or pressure from the other party.

11. This Settlement Agreement constitutes the full agreement between the Parties, and shall be construed and enforced in accordance with New Jersey law.

12. If any provision or portion of a provision of this Settlement Agreement is held by a court of competent jurisdiction, or determined under applicable federal or state law to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the remaining provisions or remaining portions of a provision will continue and remain in full force and effect.

13. This Settlement Agreement shall be and is subject to final approval by the Commission. The effective date of this Agreement ("Effective Date") shall be the date of the School District's receipt of this Settlement Agreement, approved by the Commission, or the eighth day after the School District's receipt of this Settlement Agreement executed by Roman, whichever is later, provided that Roman has not exercised any right to rescind this Settlement Agreement. In the event of disapproval by the Commission or any failure to act on such approval, this Settlement Agreement shall be void and of no effect, and both Parties shall have the right to pursue any and all matters relating to the other, including but not limited to the Appeal.

14. The School District agrees to pay Roman the sum referenced in paragraph 1 above within sixty (60) days of approval of the Settlement Agreement by the Commission.

Re: Carol Calabrese v. Trenton Psychiatric Hospital, Department of Health (CSC Docket No. 2018-2957 and OAL Docket No. CSV 6410-18) - SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Spencer and Ms. Soto-Colon:

The appeal of Carol Calabrese, a Senior Building Maintenance Worker with Trenton Psychiatric Hospital, Department of Health, of her resignation not in good standing effective February 17, 2017, was before Acting Director and Chief Administrative Law Judge Lisa James-Beavers (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on July 23, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on July 23, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on September 6, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective September 7, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

Re: Ismael Rivera v. Motor Vehicle Commission (CSC Docket No. 2018-2779 and OAL Docket No. CSV 5776-18) - SETTLEMENT

Dear Ms. Spencer and DAG Wagner:

The appeal of Ismael Rivera, an Investigator 1 with the Motor Vehicle Commission, of his 10 working day suspension, was before Acting Director and Chief Administrative Law Judge Lisa James-Beavers (ALJ), who issued her initial decision on July 23, 2018 indicating that the parties had reached a settlement.

The Civil Service Commission (Commission) received this matter on July 23, 2018. Accordingly, the time frame for the Commission to make its final decision will expire on September 6, 2018. See N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6. In this regard, if the Commission could not decide the matter by that date, it would normally secure an initial 45-day extension of time to render its final decision. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. However, currently one of the Commission members must be recused from participating on this matter, thus, there is not a quorum of members available to vote. Until such a quorum is secured, or, in other words, until an additional Commission member is seated, this matter cannot be decided by the Commission. We have no timeframe as to when that may occur. Based on this information, and given the fact that the matter was settled by the parties and a review of the settlement by staff indicates that it complies with Civil Service law and rules, there is not a basis to further delay a final disposition in this matter. Thus, the Commission determined not to seek any extensions on this matter and, per N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c), it is to be considered deemed adopted, effective September 7, 2018.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo
Deputy Director

STATE OF NEW JERSEY

DECISION OF THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

In the Matter of Juarez Hill, Newark

CSC Docket No. 2016-1885
OAL Docket No. CSV 03284-16

ISSUED: August 16, 2018 (WR)

The appeal of Juarez Hill, a Code Enforcement Officer with Newark, of his removal effective January 2, 2015, on charges, was before Administrative Law Judge Caridad F. Rigo (ALJ), who rendered her initial decision on June 15, 2018. Exceptions were filed on behalf of the appellant and a reply to the exceptions was filed on behalf of the appointing authority.

Having considered the record and the attached ALJ's initial decision, and having made an independent evaluation of the record, the Civil Service Commission (Commission), at its meeting on August 1, 2018 ordered that this matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

DISCUSSION

The appointing authority presented the appellant with a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA), dated October 30, 2015, which charged him with conduct unbecoming a public employee; misuse of public property; and other sufficient cause and removed him from employment, effective January 2, 2015. Specifically, the appointing authority asserted that on December 29, 2014, the appellant stole a city-owned computer from his workplace. Upon the appellant's appeal, the matter was transmitted to the OAL for a hearing as a contested case.

In her initial decision, the ALJ found that the appellant accessed city property to steal a city-owned computer from the city's Code Enforcement Department offices on December 29, 2014. The ALJ found surveillance video from that date depicted the appellant pushing a cooler containing the city-owned computer and leaving the city-owned building. The ALJ also found that the testimony of the appointing authority's three witnesses "hung together and their respective pieces fit together." The ALJ further found inconsistencies in the appellant's and his witness' testimony and determined them to be not credible. Accordingly, the ALJ upheld the charges against the appellant. With regard to the issue of the penalty, the ALJ noted that, despite having no prior disciplinary history, removal was warranted due to the severity of the appellant's misconduct.

In his exceptions, the appellant argues that the ALJ improperly summarized the testimony of the appointing authority's three witnesses. The appellant also complains that the ALJ's initial decision improperly referred to irrelevant testimony from one of the appointing authority's witnesses concerning the appellant's work ethic and alleged absenteeism. Furthermore, the appellant argues that his testimony and his witness' testimony were credible. Finally, the appellant asserts that the appointing authority failed to prove that the he stole a city-owned computer. The appellant maintains that he removed a personal computer from the city-owned property.

In its reply, among other things, the appointing authority indicates that the testimony of Dorothy Townes, Alwanda Johnson and Marcia Harris was stricken from the record.[1]

Upon its de novo review of the record, the Commission finds it necessary to remand this matter to the OAL. Initially, the Commission notes that its review of the video was unavailing as to whether the contents of the cooler the appellant was pushing contained a computer. Thus, the Commission requests the ALJ to further detail her reasons, based on the witnesses' testimony and her credibility determinations, her finding to that effect. Additionally, the Commission requests that the ALJ explain why the testimony of Townes, Johnson and Harris was stricken from the record, and absent a compelling reason for excluding their testimony, the ALJ shall summarize their testimony. If necessary, the Commission further requests that the ALJ address how the stricken testimony affects her credibility determinations or her ultimate findings. Therefore, the Commission remands the matter to the OAL for the reasons herein explained.

ORDER

The Commission orders that this matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings as set forth above.

---

[1] The record indicates that this testimony was stricken by order of the ALJ. As no written order could be located, it is assumed that the order was verbal.

OAL DKT. NO. CSV 03284-16
CSC DKT. NO. # 2016-1885

IN THE MATTER OF JUAREZ HILL,
CITY OF NEWARK,
DEPARTMENT OF NEIGHBORHOOD AND RECREATIONAL SERVICES.

Cynthia H. Hardaway, Esq., for petitioner

John J. Zidziunas, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: April 24, 2018 Decided: June 15, 2018

BEFORE CARIDAD F. RIGO, ALJ (Ret. on recall)

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Juarez Hill appeals his termination from the position of a code enforcement officer for the City of Newark Code Enforcement Department on charges of conduct unbecoming a public employee, misuse of public property, and other sufficient cause. Specifically, the respondent City of Newark alleges that while petitioner was serving as a code enforcement officer he stole a Dell Optiplex 9010 computer from the city on December 29, 2014.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 29, 2016, for a hearing as a contested case. The matter was heard on August 25, 2016, November 21, 2016, December 28, 2016, January 12, 2017, and February 21, 2018. Both parties had a change of counsel, coupled with this ALJ's retirement, which delayed the conclusion of these proceedings.

ISSUES

Did petitioner take the Optiplex 9010 computer on December 29, 2014? Was petitioner's removal appropriate?

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Thomas McDonald

Testified on behalf of City

Thomas McDonald at the time of his testimony was the liaison of the Code Enforcement Department to the city's Neighborhood Services Department, he had been with the city for twenty-eight years. He oversaw fourteen subordinates in the department. The department of Code Enforcement enforced city ordinances with respect to housing, sanitation, zoning ordinances, streets, sidewalks, public and building safety. The department has access to confidential information such as driver's licenses, business licenses, and other pertinent information for property owners and/or business owners, this information is stored in the department's offices and in their computers.

McDonald was petitioner's supervisor from 2003 until petitioner's termination. He said petitioner started out as an intern employed by the City on a temporary basis. According to McDonald petitioner in the first few years was extremely competent, efficient, and dedicated to the department. He said petitioner was very good with IT issues and the electronics they used. Petitioner worked his way into becoming a code enforcement officer in 2007. He knew petitioner personally. He observed petitioner to be "out of it" also known as "high" during petitioner's tenure. He said he told all three directors about petitioner's behavior. McDonald furthered that in late 2014, petitioner's behavior got "pretty bad." McDonald referred to Exhibit R-1, the department's attendance log, showing petitioner's absences.

McDonald furthered that inspectors/code enforcement officers were assigned desktop computers. The inspectors were assigned passwords issued by the city but individuals could log into another computer if necessary. McDonald testified that the code enforcement officers used department computers because those computers contained information regarding violations or other issues that were pertinent to the city's codes and regulations. He furthered that the inspectors were assigned computers and each inspector was responsible for his/her individual computer. Hill had been assigned a computer sometime between 2013-2014. However, there came a time when Hill did not have a computer on his desk, but he was not the only officer that did not have a computer on his/her desk. The officers did not always need a computer to do their work.

Hill often brought in his own laptop to do his work. Some city computers had multiple users.

Code enforcement offices were located in City Hall Broad Street, Room 420, Newark, New Jersey. The inspectors all shared one large office. The Code Enforcement department was relocated on or about March 3, 2015, to Mt. Prospect Street, Newark. However, McDonald said that he did not authorize anyone to move equipment or anything from the City Hall offices on December 29, 2014, because they did not have access or authority to move anything into the new location. The new location was still under construction on December 29, 2014.

He furthered that the entry door to the Code Enforcement office was locked and the entire staff, clerical support, and officers were provided with keys.

McDonald stated that he learned that petitioner was terminated because he was accused of stealing a computer from the Code Enforcement Department. McDonald said that he learned of it from Marsha Harris, who was acting as a supervisor while he was away. He said Harris asked him if he had moved a computer because one was missing. He said he told her no and that he had not been in the office and would not be returning until after the new year. He told Harris to report the matter to the director.

McDonald furthered that the matter was referred to the Inspector General's Office and an investigation ensued. After the investigation was completed he was given the reports, Exhibits R-2, R-3, R-4, and the video tape R-6.

On cross-examination McDonald stated that petitioner was assigned a computer between 2013 and 2014. However, McDonald furthered that although every officer had a desktop computer on his/her desk not every officer, at all times, had a computer. And, at the time that petitioner is alleged to have stolen a computer petitioner did not have a desktop computer assigned to him. There were times petitioner had his own personal laptop that he would bring into the office and he would hook it up into the city system. Every computer that is issued by the city any employee in the city has access to those computers using their own password.

The actual computer that went missing was assigned to Inspector Dorothy Townes. And it was Townes who actually reported the computer missing from the desk.

The department employees were told that the department was going to be moved to a new location outside of City Hall sometime in November 2014.

McDonald stated that some employees came to work on vacation days or on their days off but petitioner was not one of them.

McDonald said he viewed the video and observed petitioner exiting City Hall building on the Green St., employee exit door. The video is dated December 29, 2014, at 6:01:22 p.m. McDonald stated that petitioner was supposed to be on vacation on that day.

Patrick Council

Testified on behalf of City

Patrick Council is employed by the City of Newark and is the Director of Neighborhood and Recreational Services. He oversaw five departments such as park and grounds, code enforcement, and city recreation. He is the enforcer of policies and discipline. Thomas McDonald reported to him and McDonald was the manager of the Code Enforcement Department. He met petitioner when he became the director of the code enforcement department.

He found out about the missing computer when McDonald told him about it. McDonald had already referred the matter for investigation to the inspector general's office. When the investigation was completed the inspector general's office recommended that charges be filed against the petitioner. Council furthered that internal hearings occurred and he did not testify at that hearing. Council said he was told that the hearing officer recommended to uphold the charges.

Council testified that after he received the inspector general's report, the hearing officer's recommendation, and a review of petitioner's work attendance and work behavior, a conglomerate of things that added up. He decided to terminate petitioner's employment with the City of Newark. Council said that petitioner was not prohibited from accessing the building on his day off.

Council testified that although the issue of the theft was "still pending" it did not stop him with terminating petitioner. Council furthered that based on the reports of the investigation and his view of the video he determined that petitioner took the computer.

Under cross-examination Council testified that he in fact signed off on the final notice of disciplinary action, which resulted in petitioner's removal from the City of Newark's employment. Council acknowledged that none of petitioner's alleged work deficiencies and other factors that he took into consideration when deciding to terminate petitioner were ever formally addressed in a hearing, oral or written warnings. Petitioner was never provided with progressive discipline.

Council testified that petitioner was fired based on the fact that he was identified as having stolen a computer.

Council stated that when he viewed the video he saw petitioner moving a wheeled ice cooler out of City Hall. He saw computer wiring hanging out of the cooler. He saw petitioner situating things in the cooler and pushing things down into the cooler.

Khalif Thomas

Testified on behalf of City

Khalif Thomas is the manager of Newark's public buildings and has been so for about three years. He oversees sixty-two buildings. He is responsible for armed security, general maintenance, the HAVC, electrical, plumbing, and the security systems for all city buildings.

Thomas explained that Newark has its' own thirty-two channel DVR which sees all exit doors around City Hall; inside as well as the side buildings; and the system is backed up to the city's data network in his office. The system records for fifteen days. After fifteen days they erase and start back re-recording.

Thomas furthered that supervisor, McDonald, came to him asking if they could go over the video and see if a computer was taken out of City Hall. Thomas furthered that they went to the DVR in his office and reviewed the video of every camera in the building. As he watched the video of the 31 Green St., entrance/exit he saw petitioner coming in and leaving the building. The date of the video was December 29, 2014, at 18:01 hours. The video records everyone entering and leaving the building at Green St. Thomas testified that the camera system is High Definition (HD). He said when a request is made for a specific video he gives them fifteen minutes after and fifteen minutes before the time requested. He testified that his procedure is to put the portion of the video requested on a flash drive and gives that flash drive to the person that made the request, this is what he did in this case.

City Hall is open to all employees 24/7. He furthered that only Code Enforcement and personnel and himself have access to the code enforcement offices, the offices where the subject computer was.

Thomas testified that as he looked at the video he saw that it was petitioner. And, when he zoomed in on the cooler he saw the side of a computer in the cooler. On the stand at the hearing as he viewed the scene from the flash drive he again identified the petitioner and the side of a computer in the cooler. He said he first saw this when he and Mr. McDonald looked at the video in his office.

Under cross-examination Thomas said that McDonald specifically asked for Juarez Hill on a specific date and time. Thomas stated that City Hall has six exit/entrance doors and that after 4:00 p.m. there is only one exit/entrance open and that is on Green Street. He furthered that at the time that he reviewed the tape in his office he said he saw the side of a computer. He said on the tape he could zoom in on the cooler. He said that the video tape was clearer than the flash drive.

The original tape with the original footage no longer exists. He copied the original footage on to a CD then onto flash drive. He testified that he had to zoom in onto the cooler in order to see the computer in the cooler.

Det. Lt. Louis Wohltman

Testified on behalf of the City

Detective Lieutenant Louis Wohltman is employed by the City of Newark Police Department assigned to the special investigations unit that investigates city employees. He is a twenty-four-year veteran of the city. He investigates employees and vendors that do business with the city. He also investigates referrals that he receives from department managers or anonymous employees. If the matter is of a criminal nature he refers the matter to the Inspector General's Office.

This matter came to his attention when Thomas McDonald told him about the computer being missing from the Code Enforcement office and he thought a computer was taken some time between December 29 and 30. McDonald told him that Juarez Hill was in the office on that day and that Hill should not have been there. Wohltman then testified that he went to Khalif Thomas and looked at the videos in his office.

Wohltman testified that he saw the video on Thomas' flat screen TV. He said he saw Hill leaving City Hall from the Green St. entrance wheeling a big cooler down three steps. He furthered that he saw Hill lift the cooler over the steps. He testified that he saw a computer in the cooler especially because he was able to zoom in on the cooler. He said he knew it was a city computer because city computers are unique to the city. The city computers have the monitor and tower attached and they have a carrying handle attached to it. He said it was the attached metal handle that identified it to him as a city computer. There was a bag sitting on top of the computer but he could still see what was under the bag.

Wohltman said he zoomed in on the screen on DVR in Thomas' office and that he was able to identify the computer as a City of Newark computer. He also said that those computers can be used at home. He was familiar with what that computer looked like because he uses one like that every day. He got his computer in the summer of 2014.

Wohltman furthered that he did not have enough to prosecute petitioner criminally because he had no eye witnesses. He said he never spoke to the petitioner.

Under cross-examination Wohltman said he could not find an eye witness. He said he made his determination based on what he saw was in the cooler and that the computer he saw belonged to the City of Newark. He described the silver handle that is unique to the city. He did not see the monitor but he saw the tower that is black. He noted that the lid to the cooler was open because the computer was standing up straight.

Arlene Chambers

Testified on behalf of petitioner

Arlene Chambers is employed by the City of Newark for twenty-one years as a code enforcement officer. Chambers knew petitioner as they were co-workers, she worked the heating schedule in January and her hours were 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Chambers stated that December 29, 2014, was a Friday and that she worked the heating schedule. Chambers was certain that December 29, 2014, was a Friday because she took the following Monday off and returned to work on the following Tuesday.

Chambers testified that petitioner came into the office that afternoon and she told him that while he was there he was to pack up his stuff because on Monday they were moving. She said that petitioner did not have a city computer so he brought his own computer. Chambers furthered that she saw petitioner pack up all of his stuff and leave the office. She furthered that about a half-hour later she left the office, went downstairs, and she saw petitioner talking to the security guard and then he left. Chambers stated that petitioner never had a city computer on his desk. Chambers furthered that some months prior to December 29, 2014, when petitioner returned from vacation he discovered that his computer was gone. She recalled that petitioner asked other co-workers about his computer but no one knew what happened to his computer. She said petitioner always had his cooler by his desk. She said after that petitioner used his personal computer/laptop.

Chambers stated that when she returned to work after that Friday, December 29, 2014, she took off the following Monday and returned to work that next Tuesday and she reported to the new location on Mount Prospect street and not to City Hall.

Chambers said that on all city issued computers the towers were on the floor and the monitors were on the desk.

She said no one asked her anything about this investigation.

Under cross-examination Chambers testified that her schedule of working 1:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. started in January of 2015, and that was the time she saw petitioner in the office and it was at that time that she told petitioner to pack his stuff because on the following Monday the department was moving to Mount Prospect Ave. Chambers furthered that it was that next Tuesday, when she returned to work, that she heard about the missing computer. And, that she reported to work on that Tuesday to the Mount Prospect Avenue work site.

Chambers also testified that on December 29, 2014, she left the office about 6:30 p.m. or so and went downstairs and saw petitioner talking to the guard he was about to leave out the door carrying his stuff.

Chambers said that she was the only one that was physically present in the office with petitioner when he was packing and moving his stuff on the day that he allegedly took the computer. She also said that she never told anyone that she was there and knew that petitioner did not take a computer. She did not say anything because no one asked her.

Under re-direct Chambers testified that when she returned to work on Tuesday she saw petitioner and she saw him at the City Hall offices. Chambers also furthered that petitioner would gather his stuff just about every day and leave the City Hall offices and sometimes he would take his cooler.

Juarez Hill

Juarez Hill is the petitioner and he testified on his own behalf. Hill stated he started working for the City of Newark in 2001 as a code enforcement officer. Petitioner's job required him to protect and enforce the City's interests and ordinances pertaining to housing, zoning ordinances, building safety, and sanitation. As a code enforcement officer, he had 24-hour access to the City Hall building and his offices.

Hill stated that on December 29, 2014, a Monday he was on vacation but went to his job offices located in City Hall to do some paperwork on his laptop. While he was there Arlene Chambers told him that he should pack his things because they were moving the office to the new location. He had a refrigerator, microwave, a Nutri-bullet, laptop, printer, monitor, a shredder, books and photos at the office; these were all his personal property. Hill furthered that he took it upon himself to bring them into the office so he could do his city work. He testified that he only packed his personal things and denied taking anything that belonged to the city.

Hill said that on December 29 he went into City Hall twice. The first time he came in and saw Chambers he was told to remove his personal belongings, which he did. However, he realized he forgot some paperwork so he returned got those and then left again. The next time he returned to City Hall was on January 2, 2015.

When questioned as to why he returned to the City Hall and not the new location Hill responded that he had not packed all of his things that he had only taken some of his belongings home on December 29, 2014. He said he had massive stuff in his office; that he had a whole apartment in his area of the office. He testified that his moving from City Hall to the Mt. Prospect Avenue office was a process.

Hill said that at one time he had a city computer assigned to him but he was out on a medical leave and when he returned his computer was missing and he later found out that his computer was given to someone else. He never received another computer so he did his work on his own personal computer and equipment that he brought into the office.

During cross-examination petitioner acknowledged that he was visible on the video of the Green St., entrance/exit of the City Hall building. Petitioner explained that the cooler was a mid-size cooler, less than 2-feet wide and 2-feet deep. It was on wheels and had a handle so he could pull/push it similar to a suitcase with wheels. He stated that he stacked up the items in the cooler to the point that he could not close the cooler's lid. He stated that the cooler was heavy because the bag he had on top of the open cooler was heavy with his stuff.

Summary of Video

There are two views of the surveillance video of the passage way of the Green St. entrance/exit of City Hall. One view shows petitioner walking towards the camera as he walks towards the exit doors. The video shows petitioner pushing a blue cooler by its handle down a hallway. The cooler lid is open. The cooler is packed with items and has a black bag/backpack sitting on top of the items. It is apparent that the cooler is heavy because petitioner is seen lifting the cooler with both hands trying to manage a few steps. Petitioner is also seen trying to steady with both hands the black bag/backpack so it does not fall off the cooler. The black bag/backpack sitting on top of the open cooler obstructed the ability to see an item in its complete form. However, one can definitely see a flat silver metal plate or board that can be described as the side of a computer. There was something large protruding from the cooler and it was evident that the black bag/backpack was blocking a full view of the contents of the cooler.

The second view of the video shows the same passage way but from the opposite angle, in this video the petitioner is walking away from the camera pushing the cooler.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The central issue to be determined is did petitioner commit an act of theft of a City of Newark computer on December 29, 2014.

Having listened to the testimonies of all of the witnesses and having viewed the surveillance video, Exhibit R-6, and the other documentary evidence I FIND the following:

I FIND It is more reasonable than not that petitioner knowingly and willfully committed an act of misconduct when he utilized his position and access to city property to facilitate a theft of a Dell Optiplex 9010 computer from the city's Code Enforcement Department offices on December 29, 2014, at approximately 6:00 p.m. I make this finding because of the credible testimony of Khalif Thomas, who oversaw the City of Newark's building security and the security surveillance DVR systems that monitored all doors around City Hall. Mr. Thomas identified the petitioner pushing a cooler and he saw the side of an Optiplex 9010 city computer inside the cooler. Thomas testified that he zoomed in on the video and saw the computer.

I FIND the testimony of Detective Louis Wohltman, a detective in the City's Special Investigations Unit credible and persuasive. Wohltman's testimony made sense in view of what he saw in the video. Det. Wohltman, like Mr. Thomas, was able to zoom in on the cooler on a flat 30-inch flat screen HD-TV. Wohltman noted that he could not see more of the computer in the cooler because it had a black bag on top of it. Wohltman said the computer model that was missing was the same model he was currently using.

I FIND the testimony of Arlene Chambers incredible. She was adamant that the day in question was a Friday when in fact it was a Monday. Chambers said she told petitioner to pack because the office was moving on Monday when in fact the office moved on March 5, 2015. Also, the fact is that no manager or department head told her to tell anyone to move their personal belongings. Ms. Chambers had many inconsistencies with respect to her own work schedule especially as to where she was working, the times she worked and the days and months she worked. And, according to Chambers she knew petitioner had not stolen the computer because she allegedly saw him pack his personal things on December 29, 2014, yet at no time prior to the instant hearing did she relay what she saw petitioner do to anyone at City Hall. I FIND it incredible that Ms. Chambers told petitioner to pack up his things because the office was going to move to Mt. Prospect Avenue over the weekend. What weekend was Chambers referring to? Her testimony was not coherent.

I FIND the testimony of Juarez Hill incredible. I FIND it incredible that Hill went into the office on his vacation day during Christmas week and that he went there to do work after normal working hours. Of significance is the fact that December 29, 2014, was a Monday. Hill testified that it was a Monday and he testified that that after that Monday he returned to work on January 2, 2015, that was a Friday. Chambers and Hill's account of what happened on December 29, 2014 are not in sync. And, by Hill's own account, the next time he reported to work, he went to City Hall not Mt. Prospect Avenue, unlike Chambers' account that they reported to Mt. Prospect Avenue, allegedly on that following Tuesday.

The testimony of McDonald, Thomas, and Wohltman hung together and their respective pieces fit together.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

In an appeal such as this from a disciplinary action or ruling by an appointing authority, the burden of proof is on the appointing authority to show that the action taken was justified. N.J.S.A. 11A;2.21; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-1.4(a). The burden is to establish by a preponderance of the competent, relevant and credible evidence that the employee is guilty as charged. Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Precisely what is needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to the given conclusion. Bornstein v. Metro. Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power. State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47(1975).

Credibility is the value a fact finder assigns to the testimony of a witness, and it incorporates the overall assessment of the witness's story, in light of its rationality, consistency, and how it comports with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d 718 (9th Cir. 1963). A fact finder is expected to base decisions on credibility on his or her common sense, intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837

(1973). Credible testimony must not only proceed from the mouth of credible witnesses but must be credible in itself. Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546 (1954).

In proceedings before an Administrative Law Judge, it is only necessary to establish the truth of the charges by a preponderance of the believable evidence. In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982). Preponderance of the evidence is the minimum standard of proof required in administrative proceedings. This standard of proof requires a litigant in this venue to establish that a desired inference is more probable than not.

Hill was charged with "conduct unbecoming a public employee" which is an elastic phrase that encompasses conduct that adversely affects the morale or efficiency of a governmental unit or that has a tendency to destroy public respect in the delivery of governmental services. Karins v. City of Atlantic City, 152 N.J. 532, 554 (1998); see also In re Emmons 63 N.J. Super., 136, 140(App. Div. 1960). It is sufficient that the complained of conduct and its attending circumstance "be such as to offend publicly accepted standards of decency." Karins, 152 N.J. at 155 (quoting In re Zeber, 156 A.2d 821 (1959). Such misconduct need not necessarily "be predicated upon the violation of any particular rule or regulation, but may be based merely upon the violation of the implicit standard of good behavior which devolves upon one who stands in the public eye as an upholder of that which is morally and legally correct." Hartmann v. Police Dep't of Ridgewood, 258 N.J. Super., 32, 40 (App. Div. 1992) (quoting Asbury Park v. Dep't of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 429 (1955).

In a civil service disciplinary action the penalty should be determined based on the charges and the proofs presented during the hearing. A fact finder must also determine if there are mitigating circumstances which should impact the charges and penalty. Mitigating circumstances must be taken into consideration when determining whether there is just cause for the penalty imposed. A misappropriation of the property of another is a complete disregard of basic property rights that show a lack of an ethical standard.

I CONCLUDE Hill's conduct was unbecoming of a public employee. I CONCLUDE that Hill failed to uphold the high standards of being a public employee.

Hill's actions showed a complete disregard of the City's and the general public's property rights.

Therefore, for the reasons set forth herein, I CONCLUDE that the City of Newark was correct in terminating Juarez Hill as an employee. The City's decision is supported by the preponderance of the credible evidence and should be affirmed.

PENALTY

When dealing with the issue of penalty at an Office of Administrative Law hearing such as this what penalty should be imposed is determined on a case by case basis. A key factor in determining the severity of the penalty depends on the facts and circumstances of the conduct complained of and the employee's disciplinary history. W. New York v. Bock, 38 N.J. 500 (1962). Removal, suspension or a fine of no more than six months and disciplinary demotion are considered major discipline. N.J.S.A. 11A:2-6(a)-20; N.J.A.C. 4A:2-2.2-2.4.

In this case Hill has no disciplinary history. However, the severity of his misconduct in this matter cannot be disregarded or mitigated simply because this was his first misconduct. To reduce the penalty in any way would send the wrong message to the public and to the other city employees.

I have taken into consideration Hill's claim that he should be reinstated in his position with the City of Newark and be reimbursed for his lost wages and benefits. However, having FOUND the above-stated misconduct, I have no choice but to agree with the City of Newark's removal of Juarez Hill from employment.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that respondent's termination is appropriate.

ORDER

Based on all of the above findings it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's removal as a Code Enforcement Officer, for the City of Newark, Department of Neighborhood and Recreational Services effective January 2, 2015, is hereby AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION, which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Civil Service Commission does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Mr. Nash and DAG Creuz:

I am the Deputy Director in charge of this agency's hearing unit. We have received the settlement regarding Allen Holden from the Office of Administrative Law. However, prior to forwarding it to the Civil Service Commission for acknowledgment, clarification is required.

Specifically, while the settlement indicates that Mr. Holden is to be reinstated. However, that reinstatement is "contingent upon" him contacting EAS, completing an EAS program and clearing any and all Department of Human Services rehiring prerequisites. The Civil Service Commission will not acknowledge a settlement where contingencies are not completely accounted for. In this matter, the settlement does not indicate what will happen should Mr. Holden fail to complete all the referred to prerequisites. For example, will he then be entitled to reinstate his appeals of his removal/resignation not in good standing or will he be issued new disciplinary action, or something else?

Please let me know the intention of the parties as soon as possible. An e-mail reply is sufficient so long as agreed upon by the parties.

Sincerely,

Nicholas F. Angiulo

SHAWYNAE LOATMAN,
DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES,
WOODBINE DEVELOPMENTAL CENTER.

William A. Nash, Esq., for Shawynae Loatman, appellant (Nash Law Firm, LLC, attorney)

Steven Katz, Employee Relations Coordinator, for Department of Human Services, Woodbine Developmental Center, respondent, appearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-5.4(a)(2)

Record Closed: June 20, 2018 Decided: June 26, 22018

BEFORE TAMA B. HUGHES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Appellant, Shawynae Loatman ("appellant" or "Loatman") a Human Services Assistant (HSA), with the respondent, Woodbine Developmental Center ("respondent" or "Woodbine") appeals a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action and the twenty-day suspension for Insubordination (C9.2). The basis for the suspension originate from Loatman's alleged refusal to complete Active Treatment Notes (Notes) and usage of derogatory language towards Cottage Training Supervisor (CTS), Brooke Butler (Butler).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On April 29, 2015, Loatman was issued a Preliminary Notice of Disciplinary Action (PNDA) suspending her for twenty days on a date to be determined. A departmental hearing was held on March 28, 2017, the result of which was the issuance of a Final Notice of Disciplinary Action (FNDA) on April 3, 2017, suspending Loatman for twenty days.[1] Loatman requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law where it was received on May 22, 2017, to be heard as a contested case. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and 14F-1 to 13. The matter was heard on May 11, 2018, and upon receipt of written summations, the record closed on June 20, 2018.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Grant Robinson (Robinson), a Supervisor of Professional Residential Services (SPRS) for Woodbine, testified that he has worked for Woodbine for the past twenty-five years. Woodbine is a long-term care facility for men and women with mental and physical disabilities (consumers) who cannot care for themselves. In addition to taking care of consumers' physical needs (feeding, bathing, clothing), the facility offers various services which include among other things, programs for speech and hearing.

According to Robinson, each consumer has an individualized program that staff members from all disciplines (Nursing, HSA, Psychology, etc.), follow to take care of a consumer. Documentation or Notes are placed in consumers files based upon different situations that may occur during the day. The Notes allow staff members to gauge how a consumer is progressing or digressing from their program and evaluate their needs. Notes may include among other things, a consumer's refusal to attend a program on one of the days; refusal to eat; or acting out. Such actions are documented so that a consumer's care can be adjusted accordingly. Notes are continuous and it is the responsibility of staff members who interact with a consumer to write Notes in a consumer's file with whom they have interacted with. Failure to do so by a staff member is grounds for discipline.

Woodbine has implemented a Disciplinary Action Program which outlines various offenses and levels of discipline that may be imposed based upon the incident. (R-2.) It also has a zero tolerance for a hostile work environment. When discipline is initiated, the facility has a checks and balances in place. Part of that checks and balances is a review of the file for completeness. When the instant matter arose, it was his job to ensure that all information had been gathered; determine if the charge was appropriate and review everything for accuracy and completeness and then forwarding the matter for a hearing and/or settlement. He did not witness the incident and no additional investigation was undertaken.

Robinson went on to state that as part of his responsibilities, he provides supervision to second line supervisors who oversee certain buildings where the consumers live. He has known Loatman for approximately ten years and was at one point her supervisor, but in his current position, she is not in his chain of command. He is also familiar with Butler. It was his opinion that Butler was a good supervisor who was attentive to her staff and consumers and was never known to be partial to either. She was not known to have conflicts with other staff members.
