The undersigned, a practical printer, hereby offers to execute the current printing of the Senate, embracing bills, pamphlets and miscellaneous printing ordered, at twenty per cent. less than prices now authorized to be paid by law, until other provision is made for such printing by act of the Legislature. This offer a business proposition, without agreement or association with others, political or otherwise.

Respectfully,

JOS. T. CROWELL.

[illegible]y, N. J., January 13th, 1879.

Mr. Gardner, of the committee appointed to wait upon the Governor, reported that they had waited upon his Excellency, and that he had informed them that he would communicate by message.

The annual message of his Excellency, the Governor, was received at the hands of his Private Secretary, and read as follows:

Gentlemen of the Senate and General Assembly:

In compliance with the requirement of the Constitution, I have the honor to lay before you a statement of the condition of the State. As a correct test of the manner in which the affairs of the Commonwealth are administered, and as one of the most important subjects for your consideration, I first invite your attention to the state of the finances, as set forth in the clear and able reports of the Comptroller and Treasurer, which will afford you very great gratification by the results shown therein. No advantage would be gained by incorporating in this message the various details of the subject. I shall, therefore, touch only upon some of the most important points, leaving to your zeal and sense of duty the examination of all the minor matters treated of. The financial condition is most satisfactory. You will observe that the indebtedness of the State has been decreased within the year by six hundred thousand dollars ($600,000), and that, as all temporary loans and the unpaid balances of former appropriations have been discharged, the existing debt consists solely of the outstanding bonds of the war loan, and now amounts to two million one hundred and ninety-six thousand three hundred dollars ($2,196,300).

As the Sinking Fund now reaches the sum of one million four hundred and fifty-eight thousand eight hundred and fifty-two dollars and thirty-four cents ($1,458,852.34), and as one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) of the principal is paid off each year, this debt may be regarded as a small and temporary burden. Under the law of the last session requiring the Sinking Fund to provide hereafter for the accruing interest, and for ten thousand dollars ($10,000) of the annually maturing principal, the State Fund, in other words the State Taxation, is materially relieved, and will henceforth furnish only ninety thousand dollars ($90,000) each year. In the course of a few years, should nothing occur to interrupt the natural working of the system, the State Fund can be still further relieved, and no long time will elapse before the Sinking Fund will furnish all the means required to meet the principal and interest of the debt.

While the receipts from taxes have fallen off some forty-one thousand dollars ($41,000), and those peculiar to the year nearly twenty thousand dollars ($20,000), the receipts from income—i. e., from taxes on corporations, interest and dividends, State Prison receipts, fines, licenses, etc.—have increased some eighty-one thousand dollars ($81,000), so that the total receipts exceed those of the last year by about twenty thousand dollars ($20,000). On the other hand, in consequence of the care exercised by the last Legislature in regard to appropriations, and from other causes, the expenditures proper to the year were nearly four hundred thousand dollars ($400,000) less than those of the preceding year, so that it has been possible to pay off all the floating debt, and enter the new year with a credit balance of nearly one hundred and twenty thousand dollars ($120,000).

I invite your especial attention to the facts and reasoning by which the Comptroller demonstrates the practicability of reducing the State tax from one mill to one-half of one mill on the dollar. I do not consider a greater reduction prudent at present, but I do most earnestly recommend that this reduction—viz., to one-half of one mill on the dollar—be made.

If nothing unforeseen occurs, and no large unexpected appropriations are made, it is more than probable that a further reduction will be practicable and proper in another year.

While it is a source of congratulation that we can reduce the State tax one-half, I would impress upon you, and, through you, upon the citizens of the State, how small a portion it forms of the entire taxation.

Remembering that the State tax proper now calls for one dollar ($1) on every one thousand dollars ($1,000) of valuation, and that, if the reduction recommended is made, it will call for only fifty cents on each thousand dollars of valuation, I would ask the taxpayers of the State to examine their tax bills and determine for themselves how much more they pay for county, township and municipal purposes than for the expenses of the State. In making this comparison, it must be remembered that the State School tax of two mills upon the dollar, or two dollars on each thousand of valuation, returns directly to the people in the form of a pro rata distribution to the public schools of the various districts, so that it—the State School tax—has really nothing whatever to do with the expenditures of the State government, and should be separated from the State tax proper in making the comparison referred to.

In order to bring out this contrast more forcibly, I present the following tabular statements, obtained from official sources, and which may be regarded as authentic as far as they go:

In connection with this table it must be mentioned that the bonded debt of the State, less the Sinking Fund, is about seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000); that it has no floating debt; that the amount to be raised during the present year by taxation is five hundred and sixty-six thousand dollars ($566,000); that the population of the State by the census of 1875 is one million nineteen thousand four hundred and thirteen (1,019,413); that the net State debt is seventy (70) cents per capita, and State taxation for 1878 is fifty-five (55) cents per capita; and that, if the Legislature makes the reduction recommended in this message, the State taxation for 1879 will be twenty-seven and a-half (27½) cents per capita.

I regret that it has been impossible to obtain, in season for this message, accurate statements of the financial affairs of the counties and townships, but it is believed that, as a general rule, the financial condition of the rural counties is good.

The above facts show that while there should, of course, always be a careful supervision over the expenditures of the State government, the true direction in which to look for reform and a large decrease of outlay is in the minor subdivisions of the State.

In some of our cities the problem is very serious and difficult of solution, and demands the utmost wisdom, so heavy is the burden of debt, so grievous the taxation.

When the financial affairs of an individual or a community are in disorder, there are but two honorable methods of meeting the difficulty, viz., an earnest effort to reduce the expenditures, and honest endeavors to increase the receipts.

I have already said that the State government has done its best by the exercise of wise economy to afford all the relief in its power, and I feel sure that you will give your cordial support to continued efforts in the same direction.

It is also within the power of the State to do something toward increasing the wealth of the people by aiding in their industrial education, by spreading information as to our undeveloped resources, by endeavoring to give a proper direction to the energies of the workingman and the employment of capital, and by affording at least a moral support to industries and undertakings which promote the general prosperity.

But when the State has done all in its power, very little will have been effected in comparison with the magnitude of the necessities of the case.

The people must realize the fact that this work is their own; and that it is as much each man's affair as the management of the business which yields him his daily support; and that unless they take it up in solemn earnest very little good can be accomplished.

There are some political principles so simple that many men habitually disregard them as unworthy of notice, yet so weighty that on them depend the prosperity of nations, the stability of forms of government.

The theory upon which our national government is based, recognizes the sovereignty of the States; the general government possessing no powers beyond those conferred upon it by the Constitution; each State retaining every power and attribute of sovereignty not expressly conceded to the general government. The State government of New Jersey exercises all the sovereign powers of the people, excepting such as have been granted to the United States, and such as the people of the State have in the Constitution forbidden it to exercise. The form of our State Constitution, differing from that of other States in the Union, recognizes in the organized government a right to exercise all powers of government, and limits the exercise by specific prohibitions.

The powers conferred on the general government were such as was believed could be wisely exercised for the good of all the people of the States, occupying vast territories, having diverse climates, employments and interests.

Powers are reserved to the State of New Jersey and permitted to be exercised by the State government which, it is supposed, can be wisely exercised by one government for the best interests of all the people of a single State. Still other powers, prohibited to the State government, are reserved to be exercised by the people themselves in localities and even in small communities, and by some provisions of the Constitution the powers of municipal bodies once created or recognized by the government, are guarded from special legislation affecting them.

The theory of republican government in New Jersey is, and always has been, the correct theory of reserving to the people, as far as possible, local self-government. It has been intended that in purse and person the people should feel most directly the local governing power, less directly the State power, and less directly still the power of the general government.

Thus, if the people govern themselves, as they ought, honestly and intelligently, they have the opportunity to reform most easily, abuses affecting most directly their persons and property. The people of a municipality, or a township, for example, know their own needs, they know how much they can afford to expend for local purposes, they know the character of their neighbors, and can determine who possess the qualifications for local offices, and can best hold them to a just responsibility. Each successive step in the political organization should press as lightly as possible upon that beneath it, and never make itself felt unnecessarily. The greatest abuses which have occurred, and the greatest necessity for reform and economy which now exist, are in the minor political subdivisions of the State.

Experience has shown that many of these abuses in our own and other States have arisen from attempts of the State government to exercise control through commissioners not appointed or desired by the mass of the people, and that the evils resulting from such commissions are far greater than those resulting from the apathy or neglect of the people themselves.

The only safe course is to leave such things where they properly belong, and appeal to those directly interested to take the management into their own hands.

In this and other States it is upon the minor subdivisions, such as the county, township and municipality, that the control of the most important and immediate interests of the citizen properly devolves; as, for example, the construction and care of roads and streets, the lighting and police of cities, the detection, trial and punishment of criminals; in brief, the protection of person and property. Consequently the expenditures are greater than those for the general purposes of the State, and it is a rule that where most money is expended, there is the greatest probability of extravagance and dishonesty, and the greatest need of unremitting watchfulness. Unhappily it is too often the fact, that in precisely such cases there is most carelessness and lack of supervision on the part of those interested.

I cannot too strongly urge upon the people of this State the necessity of carefully preserving their county and municipal rights, and of faithfully performing every duty corresponding to those rights. Every right and privilege of self-government abstracted from these subdivisions is a blow against republican institutions; and every citizen who neglects to exercise the privileges and perform the duties growing out of those rights, does much to weaken and subvert the institutions on which the stability of our government and the prosperity of the people depend.

So important is this subject that I must repeat what I said one year ago, and that is, to restore order to the financial affairs of the municipalities and townships, to reduce expenditures, increase receipts, prevent waste and malversation, and preserve the financial good name of localities suffering under a burden too heavy to be borne, it is absolutely necessary that every citizen should take an active and intelligent interest in the concerns of local government. If they will attend the primary elections, do their best to secure the nomination of honest and capable candidates for all offices, work for the election of such nominees, oppose all others, and carefully watch and assist the officers elected, it will soon be found that a long stride has been made in the desired direction.

Nor, does this concern only those possessed of a certain amount of property, and paying largely in direct taxes; it is even more the affair of the workingmen, who apparently give but little in the shape of direct taxes, for they pay at least their full share in the increase of rents, the enhanced prices of all they consume, and the scarcity of employment, resulting from high taxation which drives away business and manufactures.

It is by the active and honest efforts of all classes of our citizens in their local governments that we must look for relief from the principal burdens which oppress our people. In view of the magnitude of the interests at stake in these local matters, party divisions should give way in favor of economy, honesty and intelligence on the one hand, as against extravagance, dishonesty and incompetence, on the other.

In connection with the subject of the finances, I would ask your attention to the lack of uniformity in the methods of valuation and assessment practiced in different parts of the State, and to the delay, which, I am informed, often occurs, on the part of township collectors in paying over their quotas to the county collectors.

In making the examination which has led me to some of the conclusions already given, I have been strongly impressed by the difficulty of promptly obtaining full information as to the financial affairs of the counties, cities, townships, &c., and to the necessity for this information being in the possession of the Legislature to enable it to determine the merits of proposed measures involving the interests of the people and the smaller communities. I would, therefore, respectfully ask your consideration of the propriety of requiring, under suitable penalties, that the proper officials of all the subdivisions of the State, including the townships, shall every year report to the Comptroller their full financial condition, giving the funded and floating debt, with the purposes for which contracted, rates of interest, time when the debts fall due, nature and conditions of the sinking funds, if any, annual expenses of every kind, rate of tax, &c., &c., and that the Comptroller submit the results to the Legislature in a properly tabulated form. Not only would this information be useful to the Legislature, but it is of great importance to the people, and will greatly assist them in controlling expenditures.

PUBLIC EDUCATION.

With the progress of years this vital question more and more engages the attention of thoughtful men in all civilized countries. Very few, if any, intelligent persons can now be found who deny that it is the right and duty of the government, whatever its form may be, to take some part in this interesting question.

As our institutions are based upon the supposition that all males of mature age participate in the affairs of government, as electors, at least, all will agree that the government should in some way assure itself that all citizens possess sufficient intelligence to enable them to perform properly, at least, their lowest duties as citizens. It is just here that opinions diverge, for some would arrest the hand of the State at this point, while others would have it furnish to all a more or less complete and finished education. As is so often the case, it is probable that the true solution is to be found in adopting a medium course. It will probably be conceded that it is the duty of the State to insist that all children shall be thoroughly instructed in reading, writing, composition and arithmetic, with a pretty accurate knowledge of the geography, Constitution and history of our own country, together with a general acquaintance with the history and geography of other countries. Thus much, at least, in the way of preparation for their political duties.

But if the duty of the State terminates here, its interests do not, and the question at once arises as to how far it can safely go, or, perhaps, what is the least it can properly do in the direction of preparing its youth to become useful and industrious citizens, skilled workmen, producers of wealth.

This is a vast subject, of infinite importance, and so much is said on both sides that our progress towards its solution must be slow, cautious and experimental.

It would appear to be a sound proposition that, having reached the limit of the subjects as to the necessity of which all agree, further progress in education should, in a great measure, be regulated by the probable future pursuits of the majority of the pupils in the different localities.

For example, in an agricultural region, where most of the boys will probably become farmers, it would seem natural to turn their studies in the direction of farming pursuits.

Not that the public schools can furnish the means of making them accomplished agriculturists, but they might be taught enough of the fundamental principles of the science of agriculture to enable them afterwards to pursue the study of agricultural chemistry and economy, enough of the principles of mechanics to enable them to learn how to detect the difference between a good and bad machine, enough of the principles of engineering to enable them afterwards to learn the best method of draining and the use of materials in rural construction, &c.

So, in the large cities, where manufactures and the mechanic arts flourish, their instruction might well be turned in those directions without in any case attempting to convert the public into technical schools. I can see no harm, but much good, as probably resulting from devoting a little time in the public schools to the practical instruction of the girls in some of those branches of domestic industry which can easily be taught, and are most certain to prove useful to them in the households over which they will eventually be called to preside.

The purpose of public school education ought to be to furnish the boys and girls with the tools of education, and teach them how to use them in educating themselves for their various pursuits in life.

In considering the subject of turning education ever so slightly in the direction of the future pursuits of the pupils, we should not lose sight of the elevating effect upon the pursuits themselves.

For instance, the farmer's boy, whose ideas of farming are limited to the mere manual labor of practical agriculture, will take a very different view of it when he learns that there is such a thing as the science of agriculture, and that many sciences find wide and practical application in his every-day work. When he discovers that the intelligent farmer has an ample field for study, and that to obtain success his mind must co-operate with his hands, he will learn to love and respect his occupation, and will be more contented to hold to it. The same is true with regard to the mechanical arts and trades.

Those who recognize the indisposition of so many young Americans to follow callings involving manual labor, will realize the vast importance of any measure tending to elevate the agricultural and mechanical vocations, to bring the educated mind to bear upon the work of the hands, and to supply that great lack of skillful and accomplished American workingmen which has long been widely felt.

It is clearly good political economy in the State which educates its children, to make that education tend, in some measure at least, to the benefit of the commercial and other industries of the State.

New Jersey has many great industries, employing thousands of her citizens and enriching her cities and villages. Some of these industries are, at the present moment, in condition to be extended, their importance and employing powers vastly increased by judicious legislation on the subject of education.

It is now universally recognized that industrial drawing—i. e., drawing as applied to the arts and trades, not landscape drawing—is the basis which underlies the vast majority of the pursuits of our people, and that it can profitably be made a part of the course in our public schools.

The difficulty is in the lack of competent teachers, and, as the first step, I think that instruction in this branch should at once be introduced in the Normal and Model Schools, with provision for special classes composed of teachers from the schools of the large cities, so that, as soon as possible, the system may be introduced, commencing with the cities and manufacturing centres.

In addition to this, and without waiting for its accomplishment, we need technical schools in various parts of the State.

For instance, in South Jersey one is required in the interests of the glass-makers of that region; in Paterson they are needed in the interests of the silk and cotton factories and the great machine shops of that city. In Trenton a school is needed immediately for the benefit of the potteries, where boys and girls may be instructed in modeling, designing and decorating, as well as in the making of pottery itself; for the potteries of Trenton have now reached a point where they daily suffer from the lack of a sufficient number of skilled employees, and if properly encouraged they will soon develop into one of the largest and most important interests of the country.

Technical schools are needed also in other parts of the State, if our agriculture and manufactures are to progress and reach such a point of excellence as to give them marked superiority.

I have given a great deal of time and thought to this subject, and have reached the conclusion that such schools will vastly increase the prosperity of the industrial pursuits of the State, and that no better investment can be made by it than by devoting a moderate sum to such purposes.

I think that a general law should be passed encouraging the organization of such schools by local associations, and appropriating a moderate sum towards aiding them when properly constituted.

These schools should, I think, be supported partly by the State, partly by those in whose interests they are created, partly, perhaps, by the municipalities, and partly by moderate tuition fees—for the instruction should not in all cases be gratuitous.

I would also ask your favorable consideration of two modifications suggested by the Superintendent of Public Instruction in his report, namely, a change in the time of election of the School Trustees, and a modification of the law in regard to the so-called three hundred and fifty dollar districts. An examination into the facts of these cases will, I am confident, convince you that the changes suggested are necessary and proper.

NORMAL SCHOOL.

This admirable institution deserves the cordial support of the Legislature. It is conducted with remarkable good judgment, and well accomplishes the purpose for which it was founded.

I commend to your careful consideration the recommendation of the Board of Trustees in regard to the mortgage on the Boarding Hall property.

MEDIA.

Those feeble-minded children, who are proper subjects for the charity of the State, are cared for at the institution at Media, Pennsylvania, under the direction of Dr. Kerlin. There are forty-four of our children now at Media. I have visited this institution and have thoroughly examined it, making myself acquainted with the system pursued, and seeing all of our New Jersey children who are within its walls. The result is entirely satisfactory, and I am confident that it would not be possible for us to offer the same advantages to these unfortunate beings for anything like the sum we now pay to this institution. I am therefore convinced that it would not be wise to make any change in the system.

DEAF AND DUMB.

We have one hundred and twenty-six (126) children of this class who are being educated at the expense of the State; of these, fifty-nine (59) are at the institution on Washington Heights, in New York city, and six (6) at the institution for the Improved Instruction in the same city; twenty-three (23) are at Fordham; twenty-seven (27) in Philadelphia; five (5) at Buffalo, and six (6) at the Whipple Home. I have visited the majority of these children, and, both from personal examination and the reports received from the institutions, I am satisfied that every possible care is bestowed upon them.

BLIND.

We have twenty-five (25) blind children under instruction at the institution in New York city, and fourteen (14) in Philadelphia. With regard to them I have the same remarks to make as with reference to the feeble-minded and the deaf and dumb.

The general conclusion which I have reached in regard to these classes of cases is, that the time has not yet arrived when we would be justified in establishing special institutions for their care and instruction in the State. They are as kindly treated and as well instructed as they can be under any circumstances, and at a much smaller cost than would be possible were we to organize establishments of our own. The time may come when, from the increase in the number of these unfortunate children, it will be necessary to take into consideration the propriety of organizing our own institutions for the instruction of the feeble-minded, blind and deaf mutes, but that time has not yet arrived. In any event, I am strongly inclined to the opinion that instead of establishing State institutions for these classes, it would be far better to encourage the formation of associations for the purpose, aiding them by paying for the support and instruction of those sent by the State. I am glad to be able to state that the reports of the individual conduct of the children who are recipients of the charity of the State in these institutions, is, as a rule, very favorable, and that nearly all show a commendable desire to profit by the opportunities afforded them. As a further incentive to exertion I have thought it proper to grant permits for their admission for one year only, renewable at the expiration of this term if the report in each case is favorable, in order that both the children and their parents may feel that their continuance at the institution depends upon their good behavior and improvement.

Our thanks are due to the trustees and officers of these institutions for the kind care they have bestowed upon all we have entrusted to them. The improvement in many cases is most marked and gratifying; in nearly all quite favorable results have been achieved.

INSANE.

From an inspection of the asylums for the insane, and from the reports of the managers, I am well satisfied with the conduct of these institutions. The important question of the best disposition to be made of insane criminals attracted my attention at an early day. Appreciating the importance of the subject, and desirous that all concerned in its proper solution might have the benefit of the best professional advice, I requested the State Board of Health to undertake a careful investigation of the subject. I have great satisfaction in laying before you, as one of the documents accompanying the report of that body, a very valuable paper upon the subject in question. The high standing of the gentlemen composing the board will, no doubt, secure your careful attention to their report, which strongly commends itself to my judgment.

REFORM SCHOOL AT JAMESBURG.

I have good reason to believe this to be a useful institution and am satisfied that it is well conducted. Although convinced, from personal examination, that the accommodation is too limited for the number of inmates, I felt bound to advise the Board of Control to withhold their assent to the proposal of the trustees to erect another family house from their earnings, as it seemed improper to make any extension of the establishment without the formal consent of the Legislature. As the subject will probably be brought before you during this session, it seems proper for me to state that the buildings are not sufficient for the proper accommodation of the present occupants, but I am of the opinion that there is room for reasonable doubt as to the best method of curing the evil. The question for the Legislature to decide is, whether it is well to enter upon a system of indefinite extension, or whether it is advisable to limit the sphere of action of the institution by more carefully defining the classes of cases which may be sent there. If no limit is placed upon the future extension, there is grave danger that the State may be called upon to perform the duties of which careless and unnatural parents may seek to rid themselves, as in the case of idle children, those who are untruthful or so self-willed as to be difficult of control. It is not probable that the intention of the Legistature could have been to substitute the State for the parents in such cases—the task would be too great—but that it was to seek the reform of those who, although they had actually committed crimes for which they were amenable to the law, were yet so young in vice that by removing them from the associations of prison life, and placing them under good influences, they might be saved to society. The Reform School would appear to me as intended neither for those who had committed no actual crime under the law, nor for young criminals so hardened as to be irreclaimable. I would, therefore, suggest that before any further extension of the institution be authorized, this question be fully investigated, for if the Legislature agree with me in these views, it may prove to be the case that the existing accommodations, or some very slight addition to them, will suffice for the necessities of the near future.

Unless you deem it necessary to increase the accommodations, an appropriation of thirty thousand dollars ($30,000) will meet the requirements of this school for the current year.

STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

This establishment is in excellent condition, and merits the support it has received. It will require three thousand dollars ($3,000) less than the usual appropriation for the coming year.

HOME FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS.

The Home for Disabled Soldiers is well managed, and probably serves a useful purpose. I see no reason why a total appropriation of more than fourteen thousand dollars ($14,000) is needed for this institution this year.

RUTGERS.

I have made an examination of the Rutgers Scientific School, and am well satisfied with it. The course is well selected and taught; the graduates are admirably fitted to become useful workers in the cause of Industrial Science. There are forty (40) free scholarships at this institution; the rules regulating admission to these scholarships will be found in the Report of the Trustees. There are also in the same Report tables showing the limited extent to which this privilege has been availed of in the past. The advantages offered by this school are very great, and the instruction is precisely what is most needed in many parts of the State, so that it is not at all creditable that so little advantage has heretofore been taken of the privilege.

All the free scholarships should be constantly full. I fully agree with the Board of Visitors in their remarks upon this subject, and also invite your personal co-operation in your respective counties to accomplish this desirable object. I cordially indorse their statement in regard to the College farm, and entertain no doubt that it should be made, in connection with the College laboratories, the main or central station of a series of experimental agricultural stations throughout the State. The condition of agriculture in this State is not always what it should be, and to introduce a better system of cultivation we need agricultural schools, as well as experimental stations in various parts of the State, where the farmers of each vicinity can see for themselves the effects produced by fertilizers, modes of cultivation, and selection of crops adapted to the soil of each locality. This system has been fully and successfully tried in almost all parts of Europe.

A recent survey of South and West Jersey by the State Geologist has developed the fact that there is very much more good land there, available for cultivation, than had been generally supposed. The climate of that region is so excellent; its situation (as is that of the whole State) so favorable with regard to markets, that it is the interest of the State to do its part towards the general good in efforts to improve the system of cultivation pursued, and thus attract immigration.

No large sum is required for this, and anything so devoted will be well spent.

STATE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

This admirable work has been steadily carried on. Among the marked results of its operations this year are the approximate survey of South Jersey, already alluded to, the detailed survey and maps of the northern portion, and the practical completion of the drainage of the Pequest Valley, which is thoroughly successful, and reclaims a large tract of waste land.

The survey showing the character of the soil in South Jersey is of great importance, and should be pushed to early completion.

So, also, the detailed surveys of the Valley of the Passaic and its vicinity are of the utmost interest, as furnishing the means of solving two questions of great magnitude, viz., the draining of the Valley of the Passaic above Little Falls, and the water supply of Paterson, Passaic, Orange, Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken, etc. This work has now reached such a point that practical use should be made of it. The water supply of the cities just named is of such vast importance, that it should be held for the general good, and not in the interest of any particular city or association.

It seems to me that this question should be placed for solution in the hands of a board or commission, composed of men representing the various localities interested, and so high in character and position as to be beyond the reach of temptation. The sources of the water supply, and its conveyance to the borders of each city supplied, should be held in trust for the general good.

The work of the Geological Survey shows that the question is not difficult of solution, and indicates at once the sources of supply, and the best means of conveying the water to its destination.

It is a fortunate circumstance that the most promising plan for the solution of the water question involves the better draining of the Passaic above Little Falls. There are some crowded localities in the same general neighborhood where the question of drainage and sewerage is becoming of pressing need. The work of the survey will, when completed, furnish the data required to solve this important problem, which claims the attention of all who are interested in the health and welfare of the people.

In all respects, the work accomplished by the Geological Survey is most creditable and satisfactory; so much so that I would draw your attention to the propriety of pushing the work more rapidly while we can command the services of the most excellent chief of the survey. An addition to the annual appropriation is desirable, in fact necessary, for the true interest of the State. In closing this subject, I would invite attention to the report made by the State Geologist in regard to his recent visit to Europe.

STATE PRISON.

From frequent inspection of the State Prison, I am satisfied that the administration is excellent. The discipline is admirable; although it is rigid, as must necessarily be the case, it is neither harsh nor cruel, but just and unvarying, and as kind as the circumstances permit. The food of the prisoners is as good as it ought to be, and thorough cleanliness is enforced. I do not think that any well-founded complaint can be made against the officers of the prison, who are, so far as I am able to judge, of a high class, and eminently fitted for their difficult work.

The new wing is a model construction, and it would be difficult to imagine any improvement upon it as regards security, ventilation, health and convenience. It is with satisfaction that I invite attention to the excellent quality of the materials and work employed, and to the fact that it was completed and placed in use for some six thousand dollars ($6,000) less than the appropriation at the disposal of the commissioners, who are entitled to great credit for the able and honest performance of their responsible duties.

Some of the old wings are far from what they ought to be, and the new wing does not give all the accommodation required. As the present is a favorable time for such work, I invite the consideration of the Legislature to the propriety of altering another of the old wings, on precisely the same plan as that followed for the wing last constructed.

The expense would be less than that of the last, as more of the old walls would be available, and the cost of labor and material is diminished. The arrangements for cooking, washing, and the supply of gas, are on too limited a scale for the present needs of the institution, and it would be advisable to authorize the expenditure of a sufficient sum to enlarge the kitchen, laundry and gas works.

I invite your attention to the report of the inspectors of the prison, especially to their remarks upon the question of prison labor. Although not now prepared to recommend any practical plan for an improvement of the present system, I cannot avoid expressing the conviction that it is defective in throwing all classes of prisoners too much together. There are, doubtless, cases of young men, and others convicted of a first offence, (not hardened criminals and not belonging to the criminal classes,) who might advantageously be confined elsewhere than in the State Prison. At some future time I may take occasion to revert to this subject.

Unfortunately, we must anticipate the necessity of a further increase in the number of convicts, and it is very clear that the present crowded area should be enlarged. I therefore recommend that the present State Arsenal be turned over to the State Prison, and that the prison wall be continued so as to enclose the whole of the area thus gained. One of the arsenal buildings can readily be converted, at a trifling expense, into a prison chapel, which is very much needed. Perhaps some of the other buildings can be made available for prison use, and the free space gained will be of great advantage to the health of the prisoners, as well as affording the space necessary to introduce other kinds of labor than the only one now practiced, and thus be of great advantage to the State. I urgently recommend the adoption of this measure.

The building and grounds formerly used as a home for soldiers' children still belong to the State, and can be cheaply converted into a far better arsenal than the existing one, which is not well adapted to the purpose.

I found the building and the grounds in a wretched condition, and fast going to ruin. I therefore changed the system of caring for it, and have placed it under the direct charge of the Quartermaster-General; I caused it to be thoroughly cleansed, and have made the repairs required to prevent further destruction. The building is now well taken care of, at a much reduced expense; for the details, I refer to the Quartermaster-General's report.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

I ask attention to the excellent report of the State Board of Health, and to the interesting documents which accompany it. This board has done good and valuable work, and will do much more in the future. So important is the subject of public health; so valuable the results already achieved by the board, and so wide the field of its future labors, that it should receive the full support and encouragement of the State government.

I cordially commend to your approval the views of the board in reference to the Registry of Vital Statistics, a subject of great interest and importance.

COMMISSIONERS OF FISHERIES.

The efforts of this board in enforcing the fishery laws, and in fish culture, have been eminently successful. The general interests of the community are best served by preventing the indiscriminate taking of fish at improper seasons; and the replenishing of the lakes and rivers with food-fish is a wise and profitable measure.

I trust that the labors of the Commissioners will be approved, and that ample provision will be made for the continuance of the work.

I invite attention to the report of the Commissioners for a full explanation of the object of the commission, and a detailed statement of their operations.

NATIONAL GUARD.

The National Guard of the State has rendered good service in the past, and will do so whenever called upon in the future. It is an honorable and necessary institution, which merits the confidence and kind feeling of all worthy citizens, and should be maintained in such force and efficiency as to enable it to preserve the peace within the borders of the State without the necessity of invoking the assistance of the general Government or any of the other States.

Its condition has claimed my especial care. During the past Spring many persons apprehended a recurrence of the troubles of the preceding year, so that I felt it my duty to place the National Guard in thorough condition for service. This has been done, and we have on hand, ready for immediate use, the camp equipage, equipments and ammunition required to supply the Division. Under the law of the last session two (2) companies have been mustered in for service with Gatling guns. The regiments of the National Guard are in good condition, except with regard to the use of their weapons. The brief opportunities they enjoyed for target practice at the Brinton Range have been of marked service, but much yet remains to be done, and no doubt the practice of the coming summer will effect a very great improvement. Nothing can be much more helpless and useless than a soldier armed with a breech-loading rifle which he has not been taught to use. Target practice is quite as important as instruction in tactics. It is absolutely necessary to require it of the National Guard, if they are to be of the slightest use in real service, and it must be regarded as a permanent and indispensable part of their instruction which must be repeated with each recurring year. I think that it is necessary to establish the position of Inspector General of Rifle Practice, and there should also be an Assistant Inspector for each Brigade.

It would be advisable to encourage emulation among the National Guard by authorizing the issue of prizes for markmanship.

The reports of the Adjutant General, Quartermaster General, Inspector General and the Acting Inspector General of Rifle Practice, will furnish all the detailed information required in reference to the National Guard.

BUREAU OF STATISTICS.

Late in the last session of the Legislature a law was passed constituting this Bureau. From the nature of the case great difficulties have been encountered in the initiatory work, for, on the part of both employers and employees there has been no little distrust, apathy and unwillingness to co-operate. Nevertheless, more has been accomplished than was the case with the Massachusetts Bureau during the first year of its existence, and there is good reason to believe that the results of the labors of the coming year will be much more satisfactory. Of the importance of the purpose in view there can be little doubt, and I think that much good ought eventually to result from the establishment of the Bureau.

We have so many undeveloped resources in the State that it is important that there should be some bureau specially charged with collecting information in regard to them, and conveying it to those whom it interests. For example, I have already stated that the Geological Survey has ascertained the fact that there is much more available farming land in South Jersey than had been supposed; I hope that through the Bureau of Statistics information concerning the qualities, quantity and location of this land, its price, the low rate of taxation in that part of the State, the climate, propinquity to good markets, etc., may be brought to the notice of immigrants, so that they may perceive the advantages offered to settlers in our State.

PARIS EXHIBITION.

Among the unpaid Commissioners appointed to represent the State at the Paris Exhibition, two only have made reports—the State Geologist and the Superintendent of Public Instruction; both of these contain much interesting and useful information, and are worthy of careful study.

At its last session the Legislature authorized me to appoint a Commissioner to visit Paris, for the purpose of procuring information for the benefit of the potteries of the State, and appropriated fifteen hundred dollars ($1,500) towards this expense.

After consulting with some of the leading representatives of the pottery interests, I selected Mr. Isaac Broome as possessing the requisite preliminary knowledge and qualifications. Illness has prevented him from completing his report in time to accompany this message, but I trust it will be ready before your adjournment. Deeply impressed with the importance of leaving no practical thing undone to develop and foster the industries of the State, that great branch which has its seat mainly at Trenton, has engaged much of my attention.

From certain special advantages of location, and other causes, Trenton is now the largest centre of potteries in this country, and there is no reason why, if properly encouraged and aided, it should not, before many years, become one of the large pottery centres of the world, and export its wares to other countries. So far as the plain and useful wares are concerned, our people now equal, at least, any in the world, and in some respects decidedly lead the European manufacturers.

What is mainly needed now is that they should also be able to supply the great demand for finer and more artistic wares. It has been clearly proved within a few months that they can make porcelain of the best quality. The lack is in educated and skilled modelers, designers and decorators. In another part of this message I have stated the necessity of aiding in this matter by encouraging technical schools, and desire to impress upon you that the schools are not required to create, but to meet an existing demand, and that a true regard for the interests of the State make the step recommended imperative. But something more than this is needed, and that is specimens of designs and work to serve as models and to suggest ideas to the workers. I have endeavored to supply this demand in part by procuring for the State Library such illustrated works bearing on pottery and glass making as were to be had in this country, and also authorized Mr. Broome to add to the collection in Europe. He has done this most intelligently, and the result is that the State Library now possesses a small but very excellent collection of illustrated works referring mainly to the ceramic art, but also to the glass making, furniture, tissues, etc. Arrangements will be made in the Library to enable artists and designers to make such studies and copies as they wish. But beyond this it is very desirable that there should be established a small museum or collection of characteristic and good specimens of pottery, porcelain and glass to serve as models and studies. I would advise a small appropriation to lay the foundation of such a collection, which will prove of infinite value to our future interests.

What has been done, and what I now recommend, for the pottery and glass interests should also be done for other industries, including the agricultural, for there is no sounder policy for a government than to do all in its power to encourage industry, and thus give employment both to capital and labor. And there is no State more favorably situated than our own for the rapid and favorable development of industry.

Let me say, also, that it has been found necessary by governments in other parts of the world to do precisely what I have recommended in order to create and develop similar industries. The wonderful development of English artistic and useful work in recent years is due to just such government aid, provided through the South Kensington Museum and other similar agencies. I ask for no new thing, but only urge that which the almost universal experience of other countries proves to be necessary, and which it will be a grave mistake for us to delay carrying into effect.

The State spends a great deal of money upon charitable and other necessary purposes, and it would form an exception to the rule if it did not sometimes spend money upon unnecessary purposes. There is no doubt that it can well afford to expend the very small amount necessary for the purpose of giving a new impetus to industry, of increasing the skill and resources of the working men and women, and greatly widening the field for labor. The object to be accomplished is in the interests of both capital and labor, and will go far towards drawing them more closely together and adding to the true prosperity of both. The tendency of the times is to increase the demand for skilled labor and to make that demand more constant; it is in the interest of the working classes to give them every reasonable opportunity for instruction and employment, and I feel it my duty and pleasure to urge every practicable and reasonable measure which tends in that direction.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion let me return to the subject which occupied an early part of this message, and urge a careful study of the causes which have brought disaster upon some of our cities, and oppressive burdens upon not a few townships. It is comparatively easy now to ascertain what errors or crimes of omission and commission, what disregard of the dictates of prudence or integrity, what evasion of good laws, what action of bad laws have brought about a state of things which all good men regret. There will probably be no more favorable opportunity in the future to collect and arrange for use the data on which to base wise and well-weighed general laws for the government of cities, which, if they cannot repair the injuries of the past, will, at least, arrest the evil where it is, and prevent the recurrence of similar action when our people shall be once more carried away by too prosperous winds.

There are certainly sound general principles which may be applied in all similar cases to guard the financial interests of the smaller communities, and render it difficult, if not impossible, for designing or too sanguine men to involve cities and townships in expenditures too great for their resources, or in advance of existing necessities. Men are unduly tempted to proceed in a wrong direction when it is easy to throw upon their successors the burden of meeting the unnecessary expenditures of the hour, and careful consideration may lead to the conclusion that, as a general rule, the resources of the year should meet its expenditures, and that the power to issue bonds should be confined within narrow limits.

I have laid before you the condition of the State and its various subdivisions as accurately as it is in my power to do. That of the State is eminently satisfactory, and to keep it so requires only the exercise of economy as to all unnecessary expense, and a wise liberality in all things that will increase the resources of the people.

The condition of many of the counties, townships and cities is doubtless very favorable, in others less so, and in a few very bad. The remedy in these last cases is that the people should look the matter fairly in the face, acquaint themselves with the worst, and set themselves honestly and vigorously at work to apply the best practicable remedies.

It is fortunate that prosperity is again returning to our country and State, slowly and surely, but all the more likely to be permanent because it is slow, because our people are learning the needful lesson of economy, and because there is no probability of the recurrence of another fatal period of unnatural inflation during the lifetime of the present generation.

To the Profession of the State of New Jersey:

GENTLEMEN—We will make a contract with the State of New Jersey to publish, for five years or more, the new Decisions of the Supreme Court and the Decisions of the Court of Chancery of the State of New Jersey, as they are decided from time to time, after the date of the contract, at a price not exceeding $1.75 a volume, or at a less price if a chance is given us to make a bid. We would suggest that the State officers receive bids for the contract, and that the contract be given to the lowest bidder.

The volume or volumes commencing after the contract is given out, to be published in A1 style—printing, paper, binding, and in appearance, the same as Volume 70 (25th Sickles, New York Court of Appeals Reports). No one volume to be less than 750 pages. We will also agree to give and deliver free to the State, at any named place in New Jersey, three hundred of each and every bound volume, as they come out from time to time, and to deliver free any volume at the contract price to any person in the State of New Jersey. We will also agree that the volumes published under the contract will be superior in appearance, and do the State of New Jersey more justice than the preceding volumes. The State will save thousands of dollars yearly, and the Profession will save about $3.25 a volume. If the bid is lower than $1.75 the Profession will save more.

We are well known as law publishers, and will guarantee satisfaction.

We have been informed that the State takes 300 copies of each volume as issued, at $5 a volume in sheets; the binding costs 90 cents a volume. A complete bound volume costs the State $1,770. Two volumes are published in one year, making a cost to the State of $3,540. This amount ($3,540) would be saved to the State.

Yours respectfully,

BANKS & BROTHERS,
New York City.

On request of the President, Mr. Vail took the Chair.

Mr. Hobart, Chairman of the Committee on Elections, made the following report upon the proceedings to contest the right of Hon. William J. Sewell to a seat in the Senate of New Jersey from the county of Camden:

To the Senate:

The Committee on Elections, to whom was referred the proceedings to contest the right of the Hon. Wm. J. Sewell to a seat in the Senate of New Jersey, as Senator from the county of Camden, beg leave respectfully to report:

That immediately after the reference in this case they caused to come before them the prosecutors and to be produced the exhibits which had been offered in evidence before the Judge to whom, under the statute, the order of reference had been made.

Your committee beg to say that they have read and considered the evidence, have inspected each and every exhibit offered, and heard counsel who appeared on behalf of the prosecutors, as well as the counsel who appeared on behalf of the Hon. Wm. J. Sewell.

The committee do not deem it important, in this report, to do more than to state the ground on which this contest was based, and briefly to call the attention of the Senate to the methods by which the prosecutors sought to establish their case.

There was but one fact stated upon which the prosecution based their right to contest, and that was, on the assumption that the Senator elect was not a citizen of the United States nor of the State of Jersey at the time of his election in November, 1878.

When your committee consider the fact, which is a public record, that the said William J. Sewell had been twice considered constitutionally eligible for the office of Senator, by a majority of the legal voters of Camden county—had served that county in that capacity for two successive terms, aggregating six years of service in this body—and had twice taken the oath prescribed by law as such Senator, your committee agree in saying that the prosecutors beginning such a contest, on the ground of Mr. Sewell's ineligibility, took upon themselves the burden of making a case which should have had for its inception more reason than that presented in the testimony.

The prosecutors, to prove their case, called as their witness the Hon. William J. Sewell, who forthwith presented a copy of his original declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States, dated August 12, 1853, as also his original certificate of naturalization, dated February 24, 1859, signed by William L. Church, Clerk of the Circuit Court of the county of Cook, in the State of Illinois, and sealed with the common seal of that county—said certificate bearing upon its face every sign and mark of absolute authenticity.

There seemed, from that moment, in the minds of your committee, to have been no reason for any further contest, yet your committee regret to say, that from and after that time there was a continuance of the proceedings, on the part of the prosecutors, on a theory which, had it been supported by proof, would have involved the commission of crimes on the part of the Senator elect, which neither the prosecutors nor their counsel are willing to impute.

The prosecutors, after the lapse of weeks, produced before the judge, as testimony, what are known in the cause as Exhibits Nos. 4, 5 and 6, consisting of three separate affidavits (attached to other papers) of the said William L. Church, who was Clerk of Cook county, in the State of Illinois, in the year 1859, the object of which proof was to show the proper signature of the said Church in that year, and if possible by that line of proof to show that the signature of William L. Church to the original certificate of naturalization might not be genuine.

This line of proof was introduced in the cause without notice, without right on the part of the respondent of examination and cross-examination, contrary to the law establishing the rules of taking testimony in cases of contested elections and to disprove the testimony of their own witness.

Notwithstanding the introduction of this class of proof, your committee, in order that they might do fullest justice even to the prosecutors, decided to admit and consider as part of the cause all of the said exhibits, and have given them, in coming to their conclusions, the full force of competent legal testimony. It is almost needless for your committee to say that the attempt to disprove the authenticity of the original certificate of naturalization utterly failed; nor would nor did the counsel for the prosecutors insist that he had made a case successfully attacking the certificate, with its common seal and proper signature; nor would nor did he insist that the evidence by which he attempted to sustain the prosecution was even admissible, competent or legal.

In no sense, then, has the prosecution succeeded in proving anything but that the said William J. Sewell was a citizen of the United States, and of the State of New Jersey, on the 5th day of November, A. D. 1878, and as such citizen, and by virtue of his certificate of election, was entitled to his seat in this body.

At the expense of repetition, your committee are therefore unanimous in the expression of their absolute conviction that certain facts are indisputable, to wit:

That William J. Sewell was and is a citizen of the United States, duly and legally naturalized.

That he has been a citizen of the United States since February 24, 1859, and a citizen of New Jersey for upwards of nineteen years, and is entitled to all the right and privileges which citizenship bestows.

That he holds as absolute proof of citizenship an original certificate of naturalization, sealed with the common seal of Cook county, and signed in the proper and genuine handwriting of William L. Church, in the year 1859, then being the Clerk of said county.

There is no proof whatever to sustain or establish the contest on the part of the prosecution, and that in the opinion of your committee it should have been abandoned before it was begun.

RECOMMENDATION.

Your committee therefore recommend that the proceedings be dismissed, and that by the sense of the Senate it should be unaminously ordered that said William J. Sewell holds and shall hold his seat as Senator-elect from Camden county, as fully in all respects, by virtue of anything in these proceedings, as if they had never been commenced, and that hereby the prosecution be declared unsustained in every particular.

Dated Trenton, March 11, 1879.

GARRET A. HOBART,
J. F. LEAMING,
G. C. LUDLOW,
Committee.

Said report was read, and,

On motion of Mr. Hobart, ordered to be spread on the Journal of the Senate, and in order properly to rebuke such proceedings, the sense of the Senate be taken by a call of the ayes and noes.

In support of this motion, Mr. Hobart said the only reason he could divine for the continuance of these proceedings by the prosecution was the hope that possibly the State of New Jersey would compensate them in the liberal manner which she has sometimes shown in contested election cases. He had never known or heard of a case so insulting to a Senator, nor so dishonorable to those engaged, as this one. There was not the slightest grounds upon which the prosecution could rest their case. The comparison of the signature of W. L. Church, Clerk of Cook county, Illinois, with his signature of to-day, left not a shadow of doubt that the papers were genuine.

Upon a call of the Senate said report was concurred in by the following vote:

In the affirmative, were

Messrs. Beekman, Bodine, Canfield, Cooper, Cramer, Emson, Francis, Gardner, Hobart, Leaming, Ludlow, Marsh, Pidcock, Rabe, Schenck, Vail, Ward, Whitlcar—18.

After the close of the Executive Session the Senators were called together, and Mr. Ludlow rising, faced President Sewell, who was seated near him, Mr. Rabe being in the chair, and said:

"I am desired, sir, by your fellow Senators, to present to you this testimonial of their esteem and regard, and I wish to say that no man has ever filled your position who deserves more the praise, respect and esteem of his fellow Senators than the Senator from Camden.

"Though young, you are largely identified with public interests. As a soldier, you were brave, gallant and heroic; your record is equal to the bravest and best. In civil life you have been faithful, honest and just; as a legislator you have no superior; you have been true to the State, faithful to your constituents, and in all matters of a political nature just and fair to your opponents. Sitting in your chair, as presiding officer, you have discharged its duties in a perfectly faithful and honorable manner.

"Your fellow Senators desire to thank you most gratefully. Your watchfulness and kind considerations shown toward your fellow Senators has taken away all severity, and rendered our daily meetings for business like a social gathering of friends; and before closing the session we desire to present you some token of their regard and esteem. As time passes and age creeps upon you, may this serve to carry you back to this session, when you were surrounded by tried and trusty friends. In their behalf, therefore, I present this to you."

President Sewell, deeply impressed, replied:

"Of course it is exceedingly agreeable to receive this gift at your hands, presented as it is by the Senator from Middlesex. I have endeavored to fill the office of presiding officer as I do my every-day duty—as near right as it is possible for me to be. I have sought to show equal justice and rights to all, and I am exceedingly gratified to find my efforts so fully appreciated, and I can safely say that I am a friend to every Senator on this floor, and when we break up it will be with the kindest recollections toward all. I may say, too, I come here attracted greatly by the social relations, and I always leave it with the same pleasant memories, and more so this year than ever before. I thank you for this gift from the bottom of my heart."

The testimonial consists of a solid silver pitcher and goblets of elegant design. The pitcher contains the following engraved words:

"Presented to William J. Sewell, President of the New Jersey Senate, by his fellow Senators, March, 1879."

Mr. Hobart, Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary, reported

Assembly Bill No. 223, entitled

A supplement to an act entitled "An act to facilitate judicial proceedings in the county of Mercer," approved March ninth, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine.

Also,

Assembly Bill No. 334, entitled

An act to validate purchases of property in excess of appropriations and limit of expenditure heretofore made by township committees, boards of aldermen or common council, boards of election, boards of chosen freeholders and boards of commissioners of any county, township, city, town or borough, and to authorize payment therefor.

Adversely.

Mr. Hobart, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, submitted the following report:

To the Senate:

The Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred a resolution which reads as follows:

WHEREAS, It is publicly alleged that Henry C. Kelsey, Secretary of State, is receiving, in violation of the act of 1876, large fees from the State of New Jersey for sending out laws to be printed; therefore,

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, with power to send for persons and papers, to investigate said charges and report to the Senate,

Beg leave respectfully to report that while a careful reading of the preamble shows it to be limited in its scope and somewhat doubtful in its language, yet your committee have deemed it wise in making the investigation upon which the charge is based, to mention all the facts which seem pertinent to the inquiry, in order that at least there may be in the mind of Senators and others a correct understanding and appreciation of the laws applicable to the present Secretary of State in this particular, and under what laws compensation is made for services mentioned in the preamble of this resolution.

The testimony taken by your committee in reference to the dates of the appointment and commission of the Secretary of State and of the passage of the act called in the preamble the "act of 1876," may be briefly summarized as follows: The present Secretary was nominated to office by the Governor on January 18, 1876; the Senate consented to that nomination March 28, 1876; the Secretary was commissioned and sworn April 6, 1876.

The law referred to in the preamble was introduced by the Senator from Cape May, on April 10, 1876; passed the Senate April 12, 1876; and the House of Assembly April 20, 1876, and was approved April 21, 1876.

It will thus be observed that the present Secretary of State had been in office under oath and commission fifteen days prior to the passage of the act referred to, by the provisions of which, so far as concerns this investigation, the Secretary of State was to receive, for furnishing the newspapers with copies of the laws to be published the rates then allowed by law, provided the sum should not exceed one thousand dollars in any one year.

Your committee find that the present Secretary has claimed and received compensation for furnishing the designated newspapers with copies of the laws to be published under a law passed in 1846, and not under the act of 1876 referred to in the resolution, and it is but fair to the Secretary that your committee should say to the Senate that under date of April 3d, 1877, and before any settlement of accounts between the Secretary and the co-ordinate officers, be presented an opinion of the Attorney-General of the State, the tenor of which was, after reciting the facts, that for any sort of official service rendered by the Secretary of State since his term of office began, i. e., since April 6th, 1876, he is entitled to receive the compensation or allowance provided by law for like services at the time of, and immediately before his second term began.

In other words (he says) I am of the opinion that his fees or allowances for services rendered cannot be increased or diminished during his present term of office.

Under this opinion the Secretary has acted and has collected his fees for sending out the laws to be printed.

While your committee are not specifically required to inquire what those fees have been, yet they believe a statement of the result of their investigation is demanded, and therefore give it in this report.

In the year 1876 the number of folios sent out for publication to 61 newspapers, was 113,260½; which at the rate charged amounted to the sum of $9060.84.

In the year 1877 the number of folios sent out for publication was 75,979½, which at the same rate amounted to $6078.36.

In the year 1878 the number of folios sent out was 102,141½, amounting to the sum of $8171.32.

The several amounts annually increasing or decreasing according to the volume of laws passed to be sent for publication.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Dated March 14, 1879.

W. H. FRANCIS,
G. C. LUDLOW.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, January 27, 1879.

To the Senate:

The amendment to the constitution which removed the appointment of the Lay Judges of the Inferior Courts of Common Pleas from the Joint Meeting of the Legislature and committed their selection to the Governor, with the advice and consent of the Senate, was intended to elevate the character of these courts, and to remove the appointment as far as possible from merely partisan influences. The feeling of the great mass of the people of this State is, I believe, strongly against a strictly partisan composition of the courts.

Our Supreme Court and that of Errors and Appeals have long, if not always, been non-partisan in their character, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that the high reputation they so justly enjoy is in no small degree due to this fact.

It is my firm conviction that one of the greatest evils which can befall a community, especially in a Republic, is a strictly partisan judiciary.

Something more is necessary than that the judiciary should be really pure, impartial and just—it is also requisite that the people should believe them to be so, and that they should be convinced that no unintentional or unconscious party prejudice should work injury to any seeking justice.

I believe that, if the judiciary of any nation or State is entirely composed of any one political party, it will often be difficult to convince members of the adverse party that they can always obtain even-handed justice.

The Inferior Courts of the Common Pleas are now composed of two members of one political party and of one member of the other, and it happens that it now for the first time falls to the lot of a Governor of this State to decide whether this condition of affairs shall continue or whether only one party shall be represented in these Courts.

With a deep sense of my duty as the Chief Executive of this Commonwealth, whose province it is to render exact and equal justice to all its people, I have determined to preserve the non-partisan character of the Judiciary. I do this with the confident hope and expectation that both political parties will maintain this policy in the future, and that the precedent will be approved and followed by my successors in office, to whatever political party they may belong.

Very respectfully,

GEORGE B. McCLELLAN,

Governor.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,

In the negative, none.

Thereupon said nominations were declared confirmed.

On motion of Mr. Ward, the Executive Session then arose.

WEDNESDAY, February 5, 1879.

The Senate met in Executive Session at 11.30 o'clock A. M.

Under the direction of the President, the Secretary called the Senate, when the following Senators appeared and answered the call:

Messrs. Beekman, Bodine, Canfield, Cooper, Cramer, Emson, Francis, Gardner, Hobart, Keasbey, Leaming, Ludlow, Marsh, Pidcock, Rabe, Ridgway, Schenck, Sewell, (President), Vail, Ward, Whitcar—21.

Mr. Hobart, Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary, to whom was referred the communication of the Governor of January 27, 1879, and also the nominations made by the Governor in his communication of the same date, reported in writing as follows:

To the Senate:

The Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred the message of His Excellency the Governor, accompanying his nominations for Judges of Inferior Courts of Common Pleas, beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the said message and the principles embodied therein, as well as the names and character of the gentlemen nominated for the respective offices.

Your Committee are happy to state that they cordially endorse the Governor's views so cogently expressed in favor of a non-partisan judiciary.

The Governor is undoubtedly correct in saying that "the feeling of the great mass of the people of this State is strongly against a strictly partisan composition of the Courts."

The Committee agree with him in his firm conviction that "one of the greatest evils which can befall a community, especially in a Republic, is a strictly partisan judiciary."

We believe he correctly appreciates the average public sentiment when he remarks that "something more is necessary than that the Judiciary should be really pure, impartial and just. It is also requisite that the people should believe them to be so, and that they should be convinced that no unintentional or unconscious party prejudice shall work injury to any seeking justice."

His Excellency is no less wise than correct in his expression of a belief that "if a Judiciary of any nation or State is entirely composed of members of any one political party, it will often be difficult to convince members of the adverse party that they can always obtain even-handed justice."

It has also pleased your Committee to learn from his message that he has "determined to preserve the non-partisan character of the Judiciary."

Agreeing so fully as we do with the sound public policy expressed by the Governor in his admirable message, your Committee feel constrained, in order to fully carry out his views, to recommend that His Excellency's nominations for Law Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas in the counties of Essex, Monmouth, Middlesex and Mercer, be not confirmed by the advice or consent of the Senate.

The Governor may have overlooked the fact that by an act of 1878, the number of Lay Judges was reduced in all counties having not more than 50,000 inhabitants, and that reduction takes effect in the three counties last named during the present year, and were the nominations confirmed for these counties, the Bench, in such, would be unanimously of one political party and must so remain for some time to come.

Such a result His Excellency, the Governor, would doubtless deplore, for the reason given in his message, that "one of the greatest evils that can befall a community is a strictly partisan Judiciary, and that in such cases it would be difficult to convince members of the adverse party that they could always obtain even-handed justice."

Your Committee believe that the Courts, whose administration so directly affects the personal interests of the people, as the Courts of Common Pleas, Quarter Sessions and Orphans' Courts, should be especially free from the slightest suspicion that any unintentional or unconscious party prejudice shall work injury to any one seeking justice therein.

We believe earnestly in the principle of a non-partisan judiciary and in the fair and practical application to the counties named and to all others.

The judiciary at the present time in said counties of Monmouth, Middlesex and Mercer, is non-partisan, and your committee have failed to see or learn any reason why that condition of affairs should be changed by appointments which set the principle of a non-partisan judiciary at defiance upon the very moment of its promulgation.

The nomination for Law Judge of Essex county is largely open to the same objections already stated.

The administration of justice in that largely populated county, at least in criminal matters, devolves almost entirely upon the Court of Quarter Sessions, which would become by the appointment made by the Governor entirely of the one party, was this nomination confirmed.

While your committee, therefore, have deemed it wise to adopt the expressed views of the Governor, and to co-operate with him in whatever proper appointments he may make in accordance therewith, they are constrained for the foregoing and other satisfactory reasons, to advise the rejection of the nominations made for Law Judges of said counties of Essex, Monmouth, Middlesex and Mercer, as inconsistent with the letter and principles of the message.

The nominations of the Governor for Lay Judges in the counties of Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Gloucester, Hudson, Hunterdon, Warren, Union, Bergen and Morris, making a minority Republican representation in each of said counties respectively, and being entirely in accord with the principles enunciated in his message, it is recommended that they be confirmed.

Respectfully submitted,

GARRET A. HOBART,
W. H. FRANCIS,

Of the Judiciary Committee.

Dated February 4, 1879.

Mr. Ludlow, of the Judiciary Committee, reported in writing as follows:

To the Senate of New Jersey:

The subscriber, one of your Judiciary Committee, dissenting from the opinions and conclusions presented by the majority of said committee as to the nominations of Law and Lay Judges for certain counties of this State, now before the Senate, begs leave to report:

Governor McClellan, in the exercise of a duty imposed upon him by the Constitution, nominated certain gentlemen as Law Judges for the counties of Essex, Mercer, Middlesex and Monmouth, and as Lay Judges for the counties of Burlington, Camden, Hudson, Hunterdon, Warren, Union, Bergen, Morris, Cape May, Cumberland and Gloucester.

By usage and of right, the nomination of persons to hold these several judicial offices belongs to the Governor, the Senate having only the power to reject or confirm his nominations.

The Governor, together with his message communicating these nominations, also presented a special message, laying down certain principles which he considered should govern the Executive in making judicial appointments, which were an enlargement upon the policy adopted by previous Democratic Governors, looking toward a non-partisan judiciary in this State.

This fact is alluded to simply because the majority of the Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred as well the special message, as the nominations, have seen fit to use words carefully culled from that message, as the basis of their report advising the rejection of the nominations of the four Democrats for Law Judges and the confirmation of the eleven Republicans for Lay Judges.

If the dominant party in the Senate are willing to accept the principles laid down by the Governor, as the correct one, and by which they hereafter intend to be guided, they should at least be fair and accept it as he announced it.

Governor McClellan, in his special message to the Senate, refers solely to the Lay Judges of the Common Pleas, and his language is so plain that none can be deceived, save willingly. He says: "The Inferior Courts of the Common Pleas are now composed of two members of one political party, and of one member of the other, and it happens that it now for the first time falls to the lot of a Governor of this State to decide whether this condition of affairs shall continue, or whether only one party shall be represented in these courts."

To what can this language, which is the key-note of the message, be construed to apply, save to the Lay Judges? Of whom can it be said that two members are now of one political party and one of the other, except the Lay Judges of the Common Pleas, and of them alone?

The message of the Governor speaks for itself, and having by it enunciated a policy by which he proposes to govern his action, it will be admitted by all fair-thinking men that he should be allowed to develop and perfect that policy at such time and in such manner as he may consider for the best interests of the people, and if, at this time, at the very outset of his undertaking, he does not find it in his power to bring it at once to completion, his message most clearly commits him to its consummation, whenever and as the opportunity affords.

I respectfully insist that if the policy of the Governor, as expressed by his nominations, is to be adopted by the Senate, it should be adopted as a whole; and it remains for the representatives in the Senate of the party in power to say whether the principle of a non-partisan judiciary shall fall still-born, or whether it shall go on, broadening and extending itself until it includes all classes of the judicial branch of the government.

But, aside from all this, despite all factious criticism that may be made upon the message of the Governor, the fact remains that in the exercise of an undisputed right, the Governor of this State has sent to this Senate nominations which, with the advice and consent of that Senate, will become appointments.

It matters not what impelled the Governor to make those political nominations—that is beyond the question or cavil of the Senate. The only question properly before it is, are the persons named proper persons to hold the offices for which they are named. The majority of the committee do not even pretend otherwise.

For these reasons I respectfully dissent from the report of the majority of the committee, and recommend that the nominations for Law Judges and for Lay Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas, now before the Senate, be confirmed in their entirety.

Respectfully submitted,

G. C. LUDLOW,
