R I C H M O N D, (Virginia) April 20.
We have been favoured with a few English papers as late as the 7th of February, from which we have extracted the following:

P E T E R S B U R G H, Dec. 28.
IN consequence of the resolution of the empress, our august sovereign, respecting the augmentation of her marine, orders have been issued for building 12 ships of the line at Cherson, and eight others, three deckers, here: by this arrangement, our marine will amount to 42 ships of the line for the Baltic, and 12 of the line for the Black Sea, exclusive of frigates, gallies, bomb-veffels, and other armed ships.

Madrid, (Spain) Jan. 1. Letters from the camp at St. Roche, dated Dec. 20, advise that on the 10th it was impossible to go on with their works, on account of the violent winds and rains which prevailed; but since that time they have continued working with activity, notwithstanding the brisk fire of the enemy, who have done us no damage during the last ten days, except wounding 14 men, three of them very dangerously. The fire of the enemy seems to be directed towards our advanced works.

Jan. 4. The night of the 19th ult. two ships of about 500 tons burthen, under favour of a west wind, have entered into the port of Gibraltar. It is not doubted that they were laden with provisions and ammunition, of which the garrison was much in need. From the care which the English take of dispatching several ships thus burthened to this place, it is evident that they have no intention of sending any squadron for the purpose of victualling Gibraltar.

Paris, (France) Jan. 21. The Marquis de la Fayette, and the Viscount de Noailles arrived here yesterday; at their departure from America every thing was quiet, no enterprize having taken place since the capitulation of Lord Cornwallis.

It seems certain, that by a treaty newly concluded between us and the Dutch East-India company, our government is to cede to them the port of l'Orient for two years to build ships, to receive returns, and make their sales.

It is reported as a decided matter that our Ministry are going to use reprisals at Grenada, and other islands we may take, to make good the losses our merchants sustained at St. Eustatia.

L O N D O N, January 26.
Extract of a letter from Plymouth, Jan. 21.

"This afternoon 30 Americans were landed from the prison-ship, and conducted to Mill-Prison. The number of American prisoners now there is 498."

On Saturday last Lord Cornwallis arrived at Exeter, in his way to town from Brixham, where he landed. The mayor and chamber immediately assembled at the Guildhall, where he was received by them in form, and presented with the freedom of the city, amidst the repeated acclamations of the people; and after having been addressed by the recorder, in a speech upon the occasion, his Lordship was pleased to express his thanks in the following manner:

"I most gratefully feel the honour conferred upon me by the city of Exeter. The approbation of my countrymen greatly overpays any hardships I may have undergone in my endeavours to serve them

"The severe blow which the British arms have sustained in America, and which has so unfortunately fallen on my head, impresses me with the deepest concern, although I am supported by a consciousness of having exerted the utmost of my abilities to prevent it. I beg leave to return my thanks to Mr. Recorder, for the very obliging manner in which he has been pleased to communicate to me the resolution of the chamber."

Lord Sandwich has assured the King that the only possible way of gaining a decided superiority over the house of Bourbon at sea, is to execute the project of a naval militia: Lord Southampton was present when the conversation passed, and he gave it as his opinion, that if a subscription was opened in all the counties in England, under the auspices of the Lord Lieutenants, money enough would be subscribed to build for each a ship of the line of proportional size to the largeness and wealth of the county; and that if this were made a voluntary measure, means would also be found to man them with landmen, subject to distribution and change, so that each ship might have a proper number of seasoned sailors on board. He also thought that the subscription should be taken at the estimate of a Thousand Pounds a gun—Lord Sandwich said it would be a very proper scheme to try; but if it failed, an act should pass to levy the money.

Jan. 29. Yesterday Lord Chewtons, son of the Earl of Waldegrave, was at the levee for the first time since his arrival from America.

The same day General Arnold was at the levee for the first time since his arrival from America, and was introduced to the King. He was dressed in regimentals, his left leg being much wounded, he wore a high-heeled shoe, and leaned on the arm of a young naval officer. He has a pleasing countenance, and a keen, penetrating eye. His stature is about five feet eight, and he appears to be about 45 years of age.

Jan. 30. Various council, have been lately held on the subject of the American war, produced by the new representations which have been made respecting its practicability by Lord Cornwallis and General Arnold. The latter gentleman is confidently of opinion, that the subjugation of America may still be effected, and has had repeated interviews with Lord North and the American Secretary, for the purpose of explaining his plan, and urging his acquiescence. His first proposition, which he makes the condition and corner-stone of his scheme, is a new Commander in Chief, and a reinforcement of sixteen thousand men. With these he pledges himself that the whole of the revolted provinces will be once more reduced under the power of this country. How far administration have concurred in this scheme has not yet transpired, but 8 regiments of infantry have been already determined upon for that service, and the Anspach and Hessian corps are also engaged, probably with the same view.

The Dutch have ten sail of the line at Amsterdam, seven in the Maese, and four in the ports of North-Holland, all nearly ready for sea.

Extract of a letter from Elfineur, Jan. 2.

"In the ports of Norway, as well as those of the Baltick, the yards are full of shipping, building for commercial purposes, for the use of the several powers of Europe. The Dutch, who once solely enjoyed this valuable trade, have lost it by the war; and it is now got into such hands, as will not easily give it up."

They write from Dublin, that the volunteers of Ireland are going to take field, in order to make themselves acquainted with the discipline and practice of camps. For this purpose there are to be 4 provincial camps, each to consist of about 15 or 16,000 men. The different corps are providing themselves with camp equipage, and it is said that early in the spring they will begin to march to the ground marked out for their respective encampments.

Baron Van Shamplet, lately arrived from Quebec, has made a proposition to the King to raise 30,000 men in Germany, which we hear has been accepted by his Majesty.—Morning Herald.

In a private negotiation with the Emperor, Minorca and Nova-Scotia have been offered to him, if he will engage in the present war for the recovery of Alsace; also a subsidy of a Million a year while he has 60,000 men actually in the field against France; and another subsidy to the King of Prussia, while he leaves the Emperor unmolested in such an undertaking. These are bold and spirited negotiations, and show that the present cabinet are solicitous to exert every nerve against the enemy.

Extract of a letter from Brussels, Jan. 16.

"Since the dismantling of the Bavarian towns, and the withdrawing of the Dutch garrisons, that republick have shown less disposition to recruiting their land forces, and are bestowing all their attention to their marine: men who had been raised in Holland for soldiers, are sent on board the ships of war, and made seamen: the conduct of their high mightinesses in this particular is somewhat remarkable, however it shows a confidence in the friendship of the Emperor."

Wednesday last the corporation of Bristol unanimously voted a petition to the house of commons, against the further prosecution of the war in America, and requesting that house to advise the King to a total change of the unhappy system which has involved this nation in such complicated misfortunes.

Near one third of the ships taken by the Squadron under Admiral Kempenfelt has been claimed as recaptures, having formerly been the property of British merchants.

Jan. 31. The court of Anhalt-Zerbst have made an offer of 6000 men to serve the court of London till the conclusion of the war, for which they are to be subsidised.

Sweden has built for France since the year 1762, 12 ships of the line, which, according to report, are the best constructed of any in their navy; they are all 74 gun ships.

Feb. 2. A capital merchant in this city has received advice from his correspondent at New-York, not to ship any thing more on his account for America, as Congress have issued positive orders that nothing shall be used of the manufacture of Great-Britain.

The whole plans for the subjugation of America, we hear, are in future to be under the direction of Mr. Arnold, so much has he ingratiated himself in the good opinion of Ministers!

Colonel Fanning, who brought home General Leslie's despatches from Charlestown, commands a loyal American regiment, and is a very active officer, having been of great service to Lord Cornwallis in his march through the Carolinas.

Yesterday some letters were received from Gen. Elliot, Governor of Gibraltar, which came by way of Lisbon; they mention that the Governor and garrison were in high spirits, and plentifully supplied with fresh provisions.

Extract of a letter from Amsterdam, January 16.

"It is now said that the duc Vaugstyon, the French Ambassador, will return hither from Paris as soon as ever the terms and articles of a treaty of alliance, offensive and defensive, between Holland and France, are settled by the French Ministry, which will then be negociated here. England has so many friends here as will possibly protract that business; for should it ever be brought to a conclusion, there is a lasting farewell to the political connection which has so long subsisted between Great-Britain and this republick."

Feb. 4. It is said that General Arnold is shortly to return back to America, and to have command of the loyalists, a prosecution of the war having been determined upon.

Lord Sandwich was at Buckingham House on Sunday evening, in order to lay before the King the lists of ships of the line that will be ready for sea next month, to form the fleets for the channel and the North-Sea.

Earl Cornwallis has had three private audiences of his Majesty since his arrival at Buckingham House, when he laid before the King the whole detail of his operations in the southern colonies of America, previous to the unfortunate capitulation of York-Town.

Feb. 7. The cartel ship, which brought some English officers and soldiers from America, is ordered for Portsmouth, to take on board a number of American prisoners from Forten prison.

The Spitfire, with provisions from Cork for Gibraltar, is taken by the Spaniards, and carried into Algebras: she was taken off Tangier by two Feluccas.

Extract of a letter from New-York, Dec. 5.

"We are under some apprehensions here for the safety of the garrison of Charlestown, South-Carolina. If that should meet with the same fate as York-Town in Virginia, America, it is feared, will be totally lost to Great-Britain."

F A L M O U T H, February 4.

Since our last arrived the Hampden packet boat, Captain Brathwait, from Lisbon with a mail. By her we learn, that a very successful sally has been lately made by the besieged at Mahon, in which 27 pieces of brass cannon and some iron ditto were spiked up, belonging to the Spaniards, and about 600 Spaniards taken prisoners.

KINGSTON, (Jamaica,) February 9.

Between one and two o'clock on Sunday morning, a fire broke out at the house of Mary West, a free quadroon, the north side of Harbour-street, and three doors from Princess-street; supposed to have been occasioned by the carelessness of a negro woman, who had been employed in ironing linen; a strong wind from the north at the same time prevailing, the flames were almost instantaneously communicated to the adjoining houses, and raged with such violence as to baffle every attempt that was made to extinguish them. Innumerable flakes of fire were carried by the breeze, and lodged upon the roofs on the opposite side of Harbour-street, which communicating with the stores in Port Royal-street, a scene of horror presented itself to view, of which none but those who are acquainted with the situation can have an adequate conception. The conflagration was truly dreadful, rapidly hastening to the destruction of the most valuable spot in the West-Indies. Several stores were blown up by order of the Magistrates, with a view of stopping the progress of the flames, but without producing the desired effect; it was, however, at last, happily accomplished, but not without the entire demolition of Mr. Allwood's vendue store, the corner of Harbour and King-streets, with all the other stores from thence to the water side, as likewise the market-house. A negro girl in the house of Mary West, where the fire began, having been chained to a large weight for some misdemeanor, unhappily perished in the flames.

By this dreadful calamity, in the space of about seven hours, upwards of eighty houses and stores were totally destroyed, as likewise vast quantities of merchandize upon the different wharfs, both publick and private. An estimate of the total loss cannot at present be made with any degree of certainty. It is, however, generally supposed to be little short of 500,000l. sterling.

Admiral Rowley, Captains Affleck and Hill, Major Pole, with other gentlemen of the army and navy; were usefully active on this melancholy occasion. Under their prudent direction, the several houses were blown up, and by that means the remainder of the town was happily preserved.

Though the late dreadful conflagration appears to have happened by accident, yet that there are incendiaries amongst us, is too evident to admit of a doubt, for on Thursday night an attempt was made to burn the house adjoining to Doctor Briant in Duke-street, several bricks had been taken out of the wall, and a fire stick prepared with tar put thro' the aperture. A naked negro was perceived at this work, and closely pursued, he however made his escape.

TRENTON, APRIL 8.

On Saturday the 27th ult. the Carteret packet, Captain Newman, with the February mail, arrived at New-York in eight weeks from Falmouth; and on Sunday the 28th the Duke of Cumberland packet, Captain Dashiwood, with the March mail, in six weeks from the same port: by them the following important advices were received, which we have extracted from New-York papers. These papers also contain part of the articles of capitulation of St. Philip's castle, (Minorca) and says, that the account of the dangerous situation of St. Kitts had reached London; and in consequence a fast sailing vessel had been dispatched after a fleet of merchantmen bound to the West-Indies, advising them of this news, in order that they might avoid the danger.

L O N D O N.

Feb. 5. We are informed, that Welbore Ellis, Esq. is to be secretary of state for American department, in the room of Lord George Germaine, who goes to the house of peers, with the title of Viscount Sackville, Baron Drayton, of Drayton.

Feb. 12. Lord Cornwallis had delivered his opinion at Buckingham house, on American affairs, with great openness and sincerity; and it is reported he has given it as his opinion, that even now negotiation may effect what he is afraid the sword never can.

House of Lords. Monday, Feb. 18.

The Duke of Chandos moved, that copies of all letters and expresses which had been received by any of his Majesty's ministers of state from the commanders of the different parts of the fleet in North-America, might be laid before the house.

Lord Sandwich said, that he had no objection to any papers being communicated to the house, which did not go to giving information to the enemy.

The papers were then ordered.

The Duke of Chandos then moved for the order for the inquiry into the cause of the surrender of General Earl Cornwallis being discharged, and that a new order should be made for going into that inquiry upon Wednesday the 17th instant; both which motions were agreed to.

Feb. 19. Two large Dutch ships laden with masts, yards, and other stores from Amsterdā, for Brei, are carried into Guernsey by their privateers. The French have fitted out five ships of war, with 800 troops; and, 'tis said, are gone against Goree, which they intend to demolish. Lord Mulgrave is to command his Majesty's ship the Atlas, of 90 guns, launched last Wednesday at Chatham.

Feb. 21. The matter now in agitation with the court of Petersburg, we hear, has not the Dutch war for its object, but a plan for a general peace, of which the Empress of Russia has proffered to be the mediatrix with all the belligerent powers: the same message delivered by the Russian ambassador last week to Lord Stormont, was delivered about the same time by the Empress's minister at Paris, Madrid and the Hague.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, February 27.

General Conway made the following motion, seconded by Lord Althorpe, "That it is the opinion of this house not to prosecute the war on the continent of America any longer by force, but to avail themselves of his Majesty's late gracious declaration in favour of the colonies, to bring about peace and tranquility."

After long debate, at half after one o'clock, the attorney-general moved the question of adjournment; on which the house divided,

Ayes - 215
Noes - 234

Majority 19 against the adjournment.

The house then immediately resumed the debate, when the ministry, finding so great a majority against them as 19, gave up the main question without a division.

FEBRUARY 28.

The attorney-general said he should move for leave to bring in a bill to enable his Majesty to make peace or conclude a truce with the revolted colonies of America; which, after some debate, was agreed to.

"Passports are forwarded to Amsterdam for Mr. John Adams, he being the only person in Europe authorized to treat of peace, on the part of the Congress; and he is expected in London next week.

"Wednesday Mr. Laurens was at Lord Sandwich's office, and had a conference of two hours with him."

March 2. Yesterday the members of the house of commons, attended by their speaker, waited on his Majesty at St. James's, to present their address, most humbly representing to his Majesty, that the farther prosecution of offensive war on the continent of North-America, for the purpose of reducing the revolted colonies to obedience by force, will be the means of weakening the efforts of this country against the European enemies; that it must tend, under the present circumstances, dangerously to increase the mutual enmity so fatal to the interests both of Great-Britain and America; and by preventing a happy reconciliation with that country, frustrate the earnest desire most graciously expressed by your Majesty, to restore the blessings of publick tranquillity."

The following is his Majesty's most gracious answer to the address of the house of commons, delivered the 1st instant.

Gentlemen of the house of commons,

"There are no objects nearer to my heart than the ease, happiness and prosperity of my people.

"You may be assured that, in pursuance of your advice, I shall take such measures as shall appear to me to be most conducive to the restoration of harmony between Great-Britain and the revolted colonies, so essential to the prosperity of both; and that my efforts shall be directed in the most effectual manner against our European enemies, till such peace can be obtained as shall consist with the interests and permanent welfare of my kingdom."

March 4. Yesterday an order was issued from the privy council, for the enlargement of Messrs. Gouverneur and Curzon, from their confinement, on condition of their giving bail for their appearance, similar to that entered into some time since by Mr. Laurens, the American prisoner.

March 8. The following are the resolutions, verbatim, that followed his Majesty's most gracious answer to the address of the house of commons.

Resolved, nemine contradicente,

"That an humble address be presented to his Majesty, to return his Majesty the thanks of this house, for his most gracious answer to their address, presented to his Majesty on Friday last, and for the assurances his Majesty has been pleased to give of his intention, in pursuance of the advice of this house, to take such measures as shall appear most conducive to the restoration of harmony between Great-Britain and the revolted colonies; and that his efforts shall be directed, in the most effectual manner, against our European enemies, until such a peace can be obtained, as shall consist with the permanent welfare and prosperity of his kingdom, this house being convinced nothing can, in the present circumstances of this country, so essentially promote those great objects of his Majesty's paternal care for his people, as the measures which his most faithful commons have most humbly, but earnestly recommended to his Majesty."

The same being read, was ordered to be delivered to his Majesty by the privy counsellors, members of that house.

Resolved,

"That, after the solemn declaration of the opinion of this house, in their humble address presented to his Majesty on Friday last, and his Majesty's assurance of his gracious intention, in pursuance of their advice, to take such measures as shall appear to his Majesty to be most conducive to the restoration of harmony, between Great-Britain and the revolted colonies, so essential to the prosperity of both; this house will consider as enemies to his Majesty and this country, all those who shall endeavour to frustrate his Majesty's paternal care for the ease and happiness of his people, by advising, or by any means attempting the further prosecution of offensive war on the continent of North-America, for the purpose of reducing the revolted colonies to obedience by force."
