Upon assuming the chair, the Speaker addressed the House as follows:

Fellow-Members of the General Assembly:

Elevation to the position of presiding officer of this body must necessarily carry with it the trust and confidence of its members. To you, my colleagues, I wish to express my deep appreciation and thanks for your faith and belief in my ability to assume and discharge the duties of the office of Speaker during the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Session of the General Assembly.

Never before in the history of our great State has keener interest been shown by the people in the activities of our tax-spending governmental agencies. Never before has such interest been shown by the people in the contemplated activities of our State Legislature. They are seeking relief through our executive and legislative branches of State government from taxation which in many instances has become not only burdensome but also oppressive. Many problems will confront the Legislature in its efforts to make such relief effective without impairment of the orderly and efficient functioning of our municipal, county and State governments. To be stampeded into the enactment of hasty and ill-considered legislation may bring chaos, a remedy worse than the ailment, and therefore I urge upon every member of this House to give thoughtful and careful consideration to all proposed legislation. It is immaterial whether such consideration of legislation makes for a session of long duration provided worth-while results are accomplished for the general good of the people of our State.

Certain committees of this House, tentatively appointed, in conjunction with similar committees of the Senate, have been diligently employed in the preparation of important legislation which will be submitted for your consideration at an early date. Such proposed legislation will relate principally to mandatory laws affecting counties and municipalities, changes in the general election laws, taxation, and reorganization of State government. The purpose of this proposed legislation is to make effective reduction in the cost of government. Partisanship should have no place in the consideration of these proposed laws, but constructive suggestions and criticism should be welcomed by the members of the Legislature. The economic situation in our State and nation today demands courage and spirit of cooperation in matters affecting the common welfare of our people. May we prove to our constituents that we are possessed of these qualities as their representatives in this House.

Our law-making bodies have been subject to much severe and adverse criticism because of the enactment of many useless and unnecessary laws. To expedite the consideration and passage of important legislation which will come before us at this session, may I urge upon each of you to introduce only such measures as are of importance to your respective constituencies and the State at large.

I want to take this opportunity to thank my predecessor, Mr. Greenberg, and Mr. Brown, Majority Leader during the last session, for the consideration and many courtesies accorded to me as Minority Leader during the last session. To Mr. Rafferty, Minority Leader for the present session, I want to give my assurance that every consideration and courtesy will be extended to him and the members of the minority.

In conclusion, may I again express my personal thanks as well as the thanks of my constituency of the great county of Union to the members of this House for this selection of Speaker for the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh session of this, the House of Assembly of the State of New Jersey.

The Speaker announced the appointment of Mr. R. R. Engisch, of Union County, as secretary to the Speaker.

Mr. Altman offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the House now proceed with the election of the Clerk of the House for the One Hundred Fifty-seventh session of the Assembly.

The Hon. Lloyd Schroeder, of Bergen County, placed in nomination the name of Robert W. Purdy, of Bergen County, as Clerk of the House of Assembly, which nomination was seconded by Fred W. Fort, Jr., of Essex County, and further seconded by Thomas S. Doughty, of Bergen County.

Mr. Eugene Hejke, of Hudson County, placed in nomination the name of Louis Weiss, of Essex County, which nomination was seconded by Nicholas McLaughlin, of Hudson County.

Mr. Altman moved that the nominations be closed.

Which motion was adopted.

Upon calling the roll by Addington Campbell, a former assistant Clerk of the Assembly, Mr. Purdy was elected Clerk of the House by the following vote:

Members voting for Mr. Purdy were—

Messrs. Altman, Blank, Bleakly, Bradley, Burrell, Calabrese, Carpenter, Cavinato, Chamberlain, Clymer, Cunard, Doughty, Fort, Gurk, Gutowski, Hunt, King, Kinzley, Muir, Mutchler, Naughright, Newcomb, Otto, Pascoe, Peters, Platts, Preiser, Reinert, Schroeder, Siracusa, Tamboer, Travaline, Trube, Turner, Ward, Waugh, Willis, Yuill—38.

Members voting for Mr. Weiss were—

Messrs. Bischoff, Bowers, Brown, Bucino, Burke, Downing, Dunn, Galdieri, Greenberg, Gross, Hejke, Lance, Maloney, McCampbell, McLaughlin, Pesin, Rafferty, Scheidemann, Shock, Vavrence, Walker—21.

Mr. Rafferty moved that the election of Mr. Purdy be made unanimous.

Which motion was adopted.

The Speaker declared Mr. Purdy unanimously elected Clerk of the House of Assembly for the year 1933.

Mr. Siracusa then administered the oath of office to Mr. Robert W. Purdy, who subscribed to the same.

Mr. Altman offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the Speaker appoint forthwith a committee of three to wait upon the Governor and inform him that the House of Assembly has organized by the election as Speaker of the Hon. Charles A. Otto, Jr., of Union County, and of Hon. Robert W. Purdy, of Bergen County, as Clerk of the House, and is now ready to proceed to business and to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

The Speaker then appointed Mr. Brown, of Middlesex County; Mrs. Emma Peters, of Bergen County and Mr. Thomas Muir, of Union County, as a committee to wait upon the Governor.

At the direction of the Speaker, the above named committee then retired to wait upon the Governor, and later returned with the Governor, His Excellency A. Harry Moore, who briefly addressed the House.

Mr. Altman offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the Clerk of the House is hereby directed to inform the Senate that the House of Assembly has organized by the election as Speaker of the Hon. Charles A. Otto, Jr., of Union County, and of Hon. Robert W. Purdy, of Bergen County, as Clerk of the House and has proceeded to business.

Mr. Altman, offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the House proceed to fill the remaining several offices of the House, and the nomination be made and a vote taken for all of the offices at one and the same time.

Mr. Altman offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

Resolved, That the following named persons be and they are hereby elected to the offices set opposite their respective names:

Calendar Clerk—Mrs. Emma Newton, Passaic.

A message was received from the Governor by the hands of his Secretary.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
TRENTON, JANUARY 10, 1933.

To the Legislature:

Once more I am privileged to communicate with you by way of this annual message respecting some of the problems touching the welfare of the people of our State. I do this with a deep sense of the administrative responsibilities that rest upon you and me in this particular crisis.

ADMINISTRATIVE RESPONSIBILITY AND CO-OPERATION

Rich and strong as America is, the people suffer. Resourceful and self-contained as is our own beloved State, we have not been able to turn from our door the devastating forces which hold the comfort and well-being of our friends and neighbors in their unrelenting grasp.

During the past season our farms produced all the food that our people need. Much of it has rotted in the fields and a great part of that which has been harvested has sold below the price of handling. Our factories are sufficient to give every worker a job, yet the wheels of industry are idle and there is no market. Merchandising and business places are stocked with goods, but sales are not equal to operating costs. Public revenues have been reduced until receipts of county and municipal governments are not equal to current operating costs and a growing number of our municipal governments are unable to meet their fixed obligations or to borrow additional funds for their most necessary expenses. Tax burdens have become unbearable and good citizens with steadily diminishing incomes are unable to pay taxes already laid. At the same time we have the new and unusual responsibility of feeding, and sheltering, and clothing some five hundred thousand of our fellow citizens and neighbors out of the tax moneys of local governments, heavily supported by funds from the State Treasury. Never before, within the memory of any of us, has our country and our State faced a graver problem.

I am reciting these conditions not in any acknowledgment of defeat or of permanent failure for I am fully confident that these United States and our own State of New Jersey will rise from these experiences a chastened but stronger people and that prosperity, and confidence, and comfort will again return to us. I am saying these things rather because of my conviction that we should recognize the conditions with which we are faced and that we should take counsel as to our own responsibilities in meeting them.

The obligations that are resting upon you and upon me are definite and heavy. They transcend personal and party interests. I propose that throughout this session we shall give to the important tasks before us the serious and wholehearted consideration that they deserve, and that we shall ignore every other consideration but the interests of the people of our State. I urge that acting together we work out a legislative program which will permit us to improve the operations of the State government, provide essential relief from confiscatory taxes and mandatory laws for counties and municipalities, make adequate provision for the feeding, and care of our unemployed, bringing about real economies in the conduct of all of our public business, make possible the continuance of essential work of the State, balance our budgets, aid in the improvement of the financial and credit conditions of our local governments and lighten the burdens and protect the interests of the whole citizenry of the State.

I stand ready to meet with and work with you in every attempt to solve the grave problems which confront us.

I seek your full co-operation; I pledge you mine.

ECONOMIES AND SAVINGS

We are agreed, I am sure, of the necessities for such reductions in the cost of State as well as local governments as will bring our public expenditures in line with our greatly reduced earnings and income and within our ability to pay. It is likewise clear that we must have sufficient government to insure protection and safety to all of the people, and provide educational facilities for our children and reasonable comfort for those committed to the State's custodial care. The only way by which these ends can be achieved is by the exercise of the strictest kind of economy in every department and activity of government and an unwavering determination to hold the public good above our own personal interests and desires.

Under the authority that the Legislature generously conferred upon me at its last session, I have eliminated a number of offices and positions and reduced the rates of pay in others so that my recommendations for salaries for the year beginning July 1 are $1,660,928.80 less than was spent for this purpose last year. This includes $553,621.03 resulting from salary reduction legislation passed at the last session.

I have not hoped to satisfy everybody in this matter of discontinuing existing jobs and modifying rates of pay in others nor have I by any means exhausted the possible savings in this direction. I am of the opinion that notwithstanding the eliminations that have already been made, the work of the State Government is being, and can be, carried on just as efficiently as before and that there is no good reason for a further continuance of the positions already eliminated.

I have also given constant consideration to the economies that could be brought about in the current operating costs of every department and activity of the State Government. I am presently informed that notwithstanding the savings already made and indicated there may be a small deficit at the end of the fiscal year. As later estimates of receipts are available I shall expect to work out with proper legislative committees ways and means by which we may meet any deficit that may finally result. Unless there is a further shrinkage in anticipated receipts and if we are able to maintain the rate of savings as shown in the first six months for the remainder of the year I am hopeful that we shall come out in the end on the right side of the ledger.

As a result of my insistence upon immediate economies from the very beginning of my present term of office, the unexpended balances at the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1932, totaled $1,072,989.07, almost $600,000 above the estimated normal lapses. This represents money saved. Up to December 31 the Purchasing Department reports a reduction in the cost of State purchases as compared with the same period of the last fiscal year of $1,378,991.30 and an estimated reduction for the year of $2,250,000.00. The Department of Institutions and Agencies reports a gross reduction in operating costs for the first half of the fiscal year of almost $400,000.00 under the operating costs of the previous year and a total probable reduction of $1,000,000.00 for the entire year. By reason of delays in the complete inauguration of the Old Age Relief System at the beginning of the fiscal year and of the further fact that some of the counties have not yet begun operation under this law, the Department of Institutions and Agencies further reports an indicated balance of $750,000 out of the $2,391,124.00 appropriations for Old Age Relief purposes for the current year.

I anticipate other substantial savings in travel allowances in the curtailment of automobile service at State expense, and in practically every other item of departmental expenditure. From the savings thus far made it is indicated that there will be substantial balances in present appropriations remaining at the end of the fiscal year.

As I have stated, practically every department supported from special or dedicated funds has shown substantial savings in the form of reduced operating costs. As a result of my instructions to the State Highway Commission, for instance, I anticipate a reduction in operating costs in that department of at least one million dollars for the twelve months' period parallelling the fiscal year for all other State departments. While the reductions in expenditures in the State Highway Department and from other dedicated funds are not immediately reflected in the condition of the treasury, nevertheless they represent real savings to the people of the State.

This movement toward savings and economy in the State government must be gratifying to you as it is to me. Not the least important result of it is the fact that department heads and commissions have found that it is possible to cut their operating costs and still continue their essential work. These temporary economies, however, are not enough. Greater ones must be effected and more important than this they must become a permanent part of our governmental policy.

A study of the appropriation act and the reports of departments and agencies whose funds are not appropriated out of the general treasury indicates that the moneys provided for travel allowances for State officers and employes for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, totaled about $800,000. For the same period State departments and agencies spent or had available for expenditure $672,000 for vehicular transportation and supplies and additions and improvements to the fleet of State-owned automobiles. Departmental requests for travel expenses and State-owned automobile service, not including the Highway Department for 1932-33, amounted to more than $1,100,000. These figures were reduced in the appropriation act to $727,000 and it is indicated that the Highway Department will spend under these headings $380,000 for the year. These reduced amounts are still too great. I am confident that these figures can be further substantially reduced and still provide for necessary transportation.

In checking departmental practices with respect to travel allowances I have found little uniform practice as among departments or even within departments. I have issued temporary instructions restricting travel expenses within the State and suspending all travel of State officers and employees outside the State at public expense except upon my direct approval. I anticipate that substantial savings in this account will be realized during the year. Definite and complete travel regulations should be established for the entire State service and careful observance of these regulations required of everybody.

I have made also a complete survey of the number, kind and assignment of State-owned automobiles and other motor equipment. On October 1 last, the fleet of State-owned automobiles numbered 686. Two hundred and sixty-four of these were operated by the Highway Department and 422 by other State departments and agencies. These cars were housed in numerous public and private garages and to a great extent under the free control of the persons to whom they had been assigned. In addition to the passenger automobiles, the State Highway Department has 419 trucks and pieces of other motor equipment, and other departments and agencies have 360 trucks and delivery cars.

I am satisfied that we have more State-owned automobiles and trucks than are actually required for the proper discharge of the necessary service now carried on by State departments and agencies. The investment and the maintenance costs for this motor equipment are great enough to warrant the placing of this whole service on a strictly business basis. Forty or 50 cars have been temporarily withdrawn from service at my direction. All highway motor equipment has been transferred to the Fernwood Station and I am planning to utilize the highway city garage for a central garage service for State automobiles located in and around Trenton.

Furthermore, it is obvious that purchases of passenger automobiles have been dependent upon the notions of the department head or his subordinates rather than in pursuance of any general policy looking to adequate transportation at a minimum cost. In many instances the type of car purchased has not borne much relation to the needs involved. We have cars of almost every variety ranging from the serviceable cheap car up to expensive 12-cylinder types. Now is the time for us to fix a policy under which State-owned automobiles shall be reduced to the lowest possible limit, that every car be used on necessary State business and in no other way, that the housing and service of these cars be placed upon a strictly business basis, and that we see to it that only such cars shall be hereafter purchased as will provide cheap and serviceable transportation.

I have directed the Purchase Commissioner to disapprove the purchase of any new automobiles during this fiscal year except in such cases where it may be shown that the purchase is absolutely necessary, and not to approve under any circumstances, either by way of direct purchase or under an exchange arrangement, the purchase of any car whose list price is in excess of $2,000. I propose this maximum limit as reasonable and during my term of office I shall not approve the acquisition by any State department of a new car in excess of that price.

However sanguine we may be as to early improvement in our business and economic conditions, the people of the State and of the nation have lost too much by way of shrinkage in values, in income, and in earnings to expect an early swing back to the prosperity of former years. The experience of other States and of our Federal Government should make it clear to us that regardless of the added schemes of taxation or the increase in existing taxes there is a definite limit to the amount of taxes that can be collected in periods of economic strain such as we are now experiencing. Both our local tax receipts and State revenues indicate to me at least that these revenues cannot be safely increased.

As individuals we have adjusted our family and personal budgets to our income. If we have not done so we know that we are facing certain financial disaster. The same economic laws apply to cities, counties and States. We must go back to the humble virtues of thrift and prudence and self-denial.

THE PHILADELPHIA-CAMDEN BRIDGE BONDS

A year and a half ago, under enabling legislation, the Philadelphia-Camden Bridge was sold to the Delaware River Joint Commission with the provision that bridge bonds would be sold and New Jersey paid in full for her investment therein. The amount due this State as of January 1, 1933, is $13,329,960.68. New Jersey not only needs this money but she has surrendered a valuable revenue producing property in which she has invested public funds.

I recommend that a legislative committee be designated to take up this matter with the Joint Commission and to see to it that such steps shall be taken as will insure the early payment of this money into the treasury of this State.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

The first annual report of Chester I. Barnard, State Director of Emergency Relief, for the year ending October 13, 1932, merits a careful reading by every member of the Legislature. It sets forth the grim realities of our relief problem but it is also an impressive record of the concern and neighborly regard of the people of the State for those among them who are in need. With rare judgment and discrimination, Mr. Barnard has co-ordinated the efforts of State and local governments as well as the forces of the private, social and charitable agencies into a single attack upon the whole relief problem. We owe to him a debt of gratitude for his brilliant service. It is with a great deal of regret that I am accepting his resignation effective March 4 from this most important and difficult post. The work which he has established must be carried on at the same high level. It must continue free from every consideration and influence other than the relief of the needy and the careful and intelligent expenditure of public funds.

Up to October 1 last, the State had provided $13,880,146 in cash for relief purposes. Of this amount $10,100,000 had been spent or committed and it was anticipated at that time that the moneys available would be exhausted by December 1, 1932. It may be that the actual expenditures will not quite equal commitments but current commitments are being made against the $20,000,000 bond money approved at the general election.

During the annual period for which the State Director has reported it is estimated that local governments have spent of their own funds for relief purposes an additional $10,000,000, and private charities $5,000,000 more. More than 300,000 people were on relief rolls and it is estimated that this number will increase to 500,000 during the winter months.

Private funds are growing less. Municipalities in increasing numbers are finding themselves unable to raise additional funds. The demands upon State funds are daily increasing. I wish that it were possible for the State to assume the full cost of relief work during the next six months, at least, so that those municipalities still able to help might have temporary relief from this extraordinary burden. The requirements are so great, however, that we must continue the policy of distributing the load between the State and the municipalities, aided by private agencies, to the fullest extent of their ability.

By the terms of Chapter 394 of the session laws of 1931, under which the State Emergency Relief Administration was set up, the whole State relief program ends on January 31, 1933. I urge as your first legislative act the re-enactment of this law as amended by chapter 215 of the 1932 laws.

I am hopeful that the money available for further relief purposes from the sale of the $20,000,000 bond issue as it is needed will be sufficient to carry us through the present calendar year. It may not be enough. Before the end of this session I shall expect to report the situation as it then stands and present for your consideration such further measures as may seem necessary. Our most important immediate duty is to see to it that all of our people in every part of the State shall be fed, clothed and sheltered. I am confident that you join me in the determination that this shall be done. We should not delay our preparation on the theory that federal assistance may be made available. If federal aid is forthcoming it will be a very great help indeed but we must plan to take care of our own.

THE PRINCETON SURVEY

When I returned to the Governor's office a year ago my immediate problem was to complete and present the executive budget for the fiscal year July 1, 1932, to June 30, 1933. The annual and special appropriation acts for the preceding year 1931-32 totaled $36,715,748. This total had later been reduced by repealers to the extent of $2,148,000.00. Departmental requirements as represented in their budget requests for 1932-33 totaled $36,565,165.90. The estimated available treasury funds amounted to $20,403,619.48, as opposed to $25,396,591.13 for the preceding year. Falling revenues and increasing expenditures had exhausted the treasury balance and the State had a relief problem on its hands requiring extraordinary expenditure of at least $1,000,000 per month from State funds.

As a result of my studies of the State government I was convinced that substantial savings could be effected in its operation if we could get at the facts. It seemed to me that we could not longer delay with safety a further consideration of this whole problem. It was my conclusion that the process demanded the careful skill of the surgeon's knife rather than the slashing methods of the broad axe. I accordingly invited Acting President Edward D. Duffield to have Princeton University undertake a study of our administrative procedure and to formulate and submit a non-partisan, unbiased economy program under which we would be able to carry on essential State services within our revenues, restore public confidence, and which would serve as a standard for such readjustments as must be made. I stipulated that the survey should be complete by January 1st and that I would lay such recommendations as might be made before this legislative session. Dr. Duffield promptly accepted my invitation with the assurance that the facilities of the University are always at the disposal of the people of New Jersey. The important and difficult task of planning and executing the survey and the assembling of the faculty group and experts in the various fields into a working staff was assigned to Professor H. W. Dodds, Chairman of the Administrative Committee of the School of Public and International Affairs. Dr. Dodds is a recognized authority in the field of public administration. He knows both the theory and practice of governmental procedure. The entire cost was borne by the University and I am presenting the Princeton report in a separate volume as Princeton's contribution to the interests of better government in the State of New Jersey. Whatever may be our final disposition of the recommendations contained in this survey the State of New Jersey owes a debt of appreciation to Princeton, to Acting President Duffield, to Professor Dodds, and his associates for this service.

The great advantage of the Prnceton survey is that it is free from the suspicion of political or personal bias that has been charged against every investigation and survey made of all or of any part of the State government in my whole public experience. A reading of this document will convince the most skeptical, I think, whether or not he agrees with the Princeton authorities, that this task was regarded as a professional one to be done in a professional way. The facts, as the survey staff observes them, have been recorded and conclusions drawn therefrom without regard to the desires or hopes of any individual in the State service.

"The guiding principle of this survey," Dr. Dodds writes, "is that retrenchment must be sought primarily in the economic and efficient administration of existing services rather than in blind cuts. Throughout the report suggestions are made by which this end can be attained . . ."

The scope of the survey is outlined as follows:

> "The recommendations of this survey have in general been confined to the spending agencies in the administrative branch of the government. Enough information has been gathered, however, to indicate that additional economies are possible both for the courts and for the Legislature, in addition to the reductions already effected this year.
> "The survey has proceeded on the assumption that it is the obligation of the State to operate as economically as possible, which means spending no money for labor or materials which can be avoided. While retrenchment should be carried out with a minimum of hardship to the employees involved, we condemn the principle that it is proper for the State to continue dispensable services or employees as a method of unemployment relief or as an aid to business recovery. Saving money in the normal services will do more to restore prosperity than wasteful State spending on such services. Unemployment relief and specific aids to business recovery are separate and distinct problems which should not be permitted to becloud the primary duty to reduce the costs of the State's normal operations. In our judgment funds for unemployment relief for 1933-34 must come from current revenues. Further borrowing will be unwise if not impossible. It is estimated that the $20,000,000 loan authorized last November will be exhausted before next winter. Every dollar spent unnecessarily by the regular spending departments will constitute an unpardonable reduction in the resources available for food and clothing for direct relief of urgent want.

"We have recommended only such changes in organization as in our opinion will lead to immediate economies. Although the disintegrated administrative organization of the State government increases the difficulty of adjusting expenses to income, we have not undertaken to report a comprehensive reorganization plan. For the most part we have taken the State organization as we found it, although in our opinion it is unsatisfactory and cumbersome in many respects. We recommend, however, that the Governor and the Legislature attack seriously the problem of improving the lay-out of departments and agencies, in order that our administrative system may be made more compact, economical, and responsible."

The economy recommendations total $14,013,000, and this total includes $7,657,000 in proposed net savings, and $6,356,000 in increased current revenue. These savings and increased revenues are summarized as follows:

"I. Net savings by reducing expenditures for 1933-34 below the appropriations for 1932-33 and the estimated expenditures of this year which are not covered by the appropriation act, $7,657,000.

"The larger items in this figure are:

(a) Savings from salary reductions, salary standardization and cutting out unnecessary positions in addition to the savings from the reduction in personnel which will result from following the other recommendations of the survey, $2,500,000.

(b) Reduction in the appropriations to the Department of Institutions and Agencies, $1,158,000. This includes a reduction of $855,000 in the appropriation for old age relief below the appropriation for the current year, which it has been unnecessary to use.

(c) Reduction of the current operating expenditures of the Highway Department, $1,071,000.

(d) Saving of the annual charge for debt service by refusing to issue $16,337,000 of highway bonds and $3,500,000 of institution construction bonds which have been authorized but unissued, $1,041,000. (Assuming that 35-year bonds would have been issued at an interest rate of 3¾ per cent.) This method of calculation has been used to take account of the annual savings from the reduced construction program recommended.

"This figure, $7,657,000, does not include large savings from increased efficiency, more effective fiscal control, and better purchasing procedure which will result from the adoption of the recommendations. These savings have not been included in the above estimate.

"II. Net increase in current revenues, $6,356,000.

"This sum includes:

(a) Increase in the license fees for commercial motor vehicles to a point mid-way between the fees charged by Pennsylvania and those charged by New York, $2,000,000.

(b) Increased efficiency in collection of existing State taxes and removal of exemptions from the gasoline tax, $3,918,500.

"III. Transfer of money in certain special funds to to the general treasury where it will be more useful, $1,130,400."

Every part of the administrative branch of the State government has been treated in the Princeton survey. In my opinion, this is the most complete and constructive study that has ever been made of the operating procedure of the State government. It points the way for both substantial economies and improvement in operating procedure. It is not the kind of report that should be allowed to gather dust on unused shelves. It will serve a more useful purpose as a critical handbook on the State government. In the face of the present emergency, we cannot afford to ignore the lessons which it presents. I submit it to you with the request that you give it careful study and consideration. I anticipate that we shall want to discuss its main provisions frequently during this legislative session.

A DEPARTMENT OF FINANCE

As Governor, I am assumed to be the official head of the administrative branch of the State government with the direct responsibility of carrying on the State administration in an efficient and economical way. Every Governor realizes that whatever may be the popular theory with respect to his office his normal powers and facilities are woefully inadequate to enable him to discharge in any effective way these direct and important responsibilities of his office. Every important survey of State government anywhere in the United States made in the past twenty years has proposed a department of fiscal control adequately staffed and empowered by law to keep, record and report financial facts relating to State administration and to see that the financial policy as established by legislative enactment shall be carried out and observed at all times. The Bright Committee proposed such financial control. The Abell Commission did the same, and while the Department of Audit and Accounts was created in the Comptroller's office as a result of the Abell Commission recommendations, the needs of the State in this respect have not been accomplished.

I recommended last year the creation of a Department of Finance, which would place under the direction of the Governor the financial and much of the general administrative control which he now has in theory only. It is axiomatic under our system of government that the Legislature shall establish the policies to be followed for an annual or other given period, and provide the appropriations and financial measures necessary therefor. This having been done, it becomes the responsibility of the Executive to see to it that the legislative will is carried out, that the public revenues from every source are carefully conserved, that every financial transaction is properly and plainly recorded, and that departments and agencies shall be limited in their spending to the amounts and for the purposes specifically provided in the legislative policy.

I had already determined to renew my request in this message for the creation of a department of finance directly responsible to the Governor. I am strongly supported in this action by the discussions and conclusions of the Princeton survey, which proposes the very plan which I have had in mind under the designation of a "Department of Fiscal Control" and points out the urgent need for action in this regard. Under the proposed plan, a Commissioner of Finance (or Fiscal Control) would be appointed as the direct agent of the Governor in exercising his powers over State expenditures and as "his right-hand man for preventing wasteful and unwise expenditures." In this new department would be segregated purchasing under a division of purchase; budgeting under a division of the budget; and accounting under a division of accounts. Each division would have a director as its executive officer who would be responsible to the Commissioner of Finance (Fiscal Control) as an integrating and correlating authority.

I propose the removal of the accounting functions of the Comptroller's office to the Department of Finance, leaving the Comptroller free as the legislative agent and as an independent and critical auditor of the administrative departments. The Treasurer likewise would be freed from some of the additional functions which have been placed upon him from time to time, and his duties would be in line with those contemplated under the Constitution as the custodian of public funds.

The personnel activities, especially as they relate to payroll costs, rates of pay, hours of service, etc., are closely related from an administrative standpoint to the budgeting, purchasing and accounting functions to be included under the proposed department of finance. The Civil Service Commission has made a great deal of progress in handling these functions and has worked in close co-operation with the Budget Commissioner in these matters. By reason of the quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial functions of the Civil Service Commission, and for the further reason that its supervision and responsibilities extend to the working forces of counties and municipalities, I am not proposing that it shall be included as an integral part of the department of finance. There must and will be maintained, however, a close relationship and full co-operation between the Civil Service Commission and the new department in all matters touching the State's employment policies.

In this time of falling revenues and increasing demands upon the State Treasury, it is vitally essential that the financial operations be recorded and accounted for in the same way as those of a well-managed business where a correct, complete and true financial statement can be obtained almost at the end of any business day. Those of you who have been studying the financial conditions of the State recognize how far we are in our accounting methods from that condition. Accounting officers are unable to agree even as to the amount of money on hand at any given time, much less as to obligations and commitments which have not yet made themselves apparent through the actual payment of cash. The Princeton survey observes that "no clear picture of the State's financial operations is possible," and that "no living person knows what expenditures have been authorized for the current year." As I have proposed elsewhere, dedicated or pre-allocated funds of whatever kind, nature or amount should be under the complete control of the general treasury. Plans for their expenditure and the projects to be undertaken should be fully available for legislative consideration, and all State revenues from every source annually appropriated in order that there may be full official knowledge of every State activity and that the executive budget and the annual appropriation act may present a complete picture of the State's financial undertakings. It is obvious that in our efforts thus far we have not made this possible. In my opinion, adequate financial control will not be had unless there is established a Department of Finance. I have had some preliminary work done in planning for this department and in the preparation of proposed legislation as a basis for later consideration.

THE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

In spite of the lack of definite planning and foresight, New Jersey has fine State highways. Their cost has been extremely heavy, and there is accumulating evidence that highway funds have not always been expended in accordance with reasonable and careful business standards. The Princeton survey confirms and corroborates my own investigations into the operation of the Highway Department independently undertaken. The period of rapid expansion in highway building must be considered, in my opinion, at an end. The functions of this department from now on will become one of maintenance of the roads already built, assistance in the co-ordinating of county and secondary roads with the State system, encouragement and aid in the improvement of township and local roads, and a limited volume of new construction each year in the gradual extension and replacement of the State system. As I have heretofore announced, I am convinced that the Highway Department should be placed under the immediate direction of a Commissioner of Highways, who shall act as the State highway engineer in complete charge of the Highway Department or, failing this, a bi-partisan board of two commissioners, subject to legislative and executive direction.

The activities of the highway commission should have been limited to the determination of policy and to seeing that the policy once established was carried out. The highway engineer should have been required to execute the program as established. It is evident that this policy has not obtained in the Highway Department. The commission has attempted to handle the executive and administrative work of the department, displacing the highway engineer as the executive officer. Friction has repeatedly developed between bureau and division heads with resultant loss in economical and efficient operation.

I am in general accord with the recommendations contained in the Princeton survey both as to the changes proposed in the department, the withholding of the issuance of further bonds especially in the present emergency, the changes in the acquisition of right-of-way and condemnation, the system of long-term planning by a State planning body, and the annual appropriation by the Legislature of all funds to be spent for highway purposes during the ensuing year. The elimination of gas tax exemption should commend itself to the farmers, who would and must be assured of the equivalent, or more, return by way of improvement on local roads which would be of particular benefit to them.

I am still of the opinion that some way should be found by which a moderate toll can be charged on the high-level viaduct from Elizabeth to the Holland Tunnel. It is estimated that a ten-cent toll would produce a revenue of approximately $2,000,000 a year.

I have caused to be made a number of efforts to get a ruling from the Federal Department of Agriculture under which the way would be cleared for charging toll on this particular highway. Thus far I have not been successful. Thomas H. MacDonald, Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads, wrote under date of December 16, last:

> ". . . any attempt under this regulation to clear the way for collecting tolls on the viaduct probably would encounter serious obstacles, both from a legal and administrative standpoint. If it assumed that an application to cancel the viaduct project would be approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, it still would be subject to attack in the courts, if tolls were collected, on the theory that once federal funds have been expended on a highway it must thereafter remain free under the provisions of Section 9 of the Federal Highway Act."

Notwithstanding this and earlier communication, I concur in the reported opinion of a number of the legislative leaders that every possible effort should be made to obtain a permissive ruling in this matter to the end that the federal aid on this particular roadway be transferred to another part of the highway system. If it is finally ruled that this cannot be done, I would favor the return of the $600,000 of federal money. In any event a vigorous presentation of New Jersey's case for charging tolls should be promptly made.

REORGANIZATION OF THE STATE GOVERNMENT

During the past two decades a number of efforts have been made to reorganize all or a part of the State government. The surveys and investigations undertaken for this purpose have cost a great deal of money. Most of these surveys or investigations have dealt with parts of the governmental structure only. Two of them—notably the Bright Commission and the Abell Commission—undertook studies of the whole government. Extensive reports of their findings were made and legislative bills were drafted and introduced into the Legislature. A great deal of time was spent in the discussion and consideration of these proposed measures. A number of changes, some good and some bad, have been made, but our main problem of revising our governmental machinery and properly co-ordinating it to our present needs has not been accomplished. As a matter of fact, our public undertakings have grown and expanded so rapidly and we have added so many new agencies that notwithstanding the improvements and changes that have been made from time to time we have hardly kept pace with the growing character of the State government. As a consequence, we are relatively as far away from a centralized, co-ordinated government as we were in 1918 when the first major effort was made in this direction.

The Princeton survey, as has already been stated, has been pretty closely lmited to immediate retrenchment in State spending. By reason of what seemed to the surveyors to be immediate necessities for better fiscal control and a changed policy in highway construction, they do propose reorganization plans for a department of fiscal control and the highway department. I have already discussed these proposals. Throughout the Princeton survey repeated reference is made to the need for "improving the lay-out of departments and agencies, in order that our administrative system may be made more compact, economical and responsible." These conclusions support like conclusions of the Bright and Abell investigating Commissions as well as the wide-spread feeling throughout the State that general changes should be made in our administrative set-up.

The hearings of the Bright and Abell Commissions furnished a forum for the airing of individual and group grievances as well as the offering of constructive proposals. It was not possible, it seemed, to keep out of these investigations the feeling of partisan attack or the motion that groups or individuals were jockeying for advantageous positions. Last year in my inaugural message I urged that we should take advantage of the data already assembled and, in view of the pressing need for improvements and economies in the State government, we should make another attempt to accomplish the main essentials of State reorganization. I presented a partial plan based upon these previous extensive studies and upon my own knowledge of the functioning of the State administration. I caused bills to be prepared as a basis for consideration. Some of these measures were looked upon as controversial matters rather than as working bases from which progress could be made, and nothing was accomplished. I am still of the opinion that something should be done at this time about the reorganization of our State administrative machinery. It is needlessly complicated, and neither the Governor nor the Legislature can exercise such prompt and adequate control over many State departments and agencies as is necessary to insure adherence to any fixed policy. I shall not try to schedule now definite savings that should result from a thorough reorganization of the State government. They will be substantial and we must save money. Aside from this there will be tremendous gains in improved administration.

With the special authority which the Legislature granted to me during the present year I am able to exercise a considerable measure of control, but I do not have the facilities either to get at the true facts or to bring all departments and agencies in line with a single State policy. Other than the control exercised under this emergency measure, our State government is composed of a series of independent or semi-independent departments and agencies, each seeking its own field of activity, and some of them in actual competition with others. Regardless of what may be said to the contrary or what may be the reasons for a continuance of our present organization, not only by our own experiences but those of many other States with comparable problems the facts remain amply proved that the best results cannot be obtained under our decentralized and complicated system and that the economies that are compelling at this time cannot be realized.

Throughout the year I have continued to study our State organization. I have made some progress in devising a reorganization plan which will meet our principal objectives and which can be effected by legislative action only and without requiring any constitutional changes. I have discussed this matter with the Princeton authorities and others skilled in public administration. With the data in hand from previous investigations and that gathered by the Princeton surveyors, we are now in better position to consider reorganization plans than at any time in the past.

I urge, therefore, that a legislative committee for the purpose of considering the reorganization of the administrative departments of the State government be appointed and that it begin immediate consideration of this problem. I am authorized to say that Princeton University will make available at a nominal cost the further services of Dr. Dodds and his associates for assistance in such reorganization work as may be undertaken. I assume that the total cost of all of the work required in determining upon a complete reorganization plan and in preparation of the necessary legislation will not exceed ten or fifteen thousand dollars. By accepting this help that is available, by calling freely upon departmental authorities, and by an industrious study of the whole problem by the proposed committee I am satisfied that the study can be completed within two months and that we can accomplish the whole task at this session of the Legislature.

I shall be glad to give such a committee my full cooperation and to say in advance that in this proposal I am concerned only with the improvement of our State administration. I shall not desire to take any political advantage in any changes in department heads or departmental workers in such reorganization plans as may be concurred in. Wherever a Republican department head is displaced I shall be willing to appoint a capable Republican, satisfactory to the Legislature, to serve out what may be determined as the normal term of the present incumbent. I am making these proposals with a full appreciation of the difficulties that have heretofore accompanied reorganization plans and out of my fixed contention that we must take courageous and disinterested action in the improvement of the government and the relief in every possible way from increased governmental costs of the citizens of this State.

I think I should remind you in this connection that it will not be enough merely to rearrange our present departmental activities. We must decide what services are essential, what are non-essential, and what can be postponed or delayed until our financial and economic conditions have improved. Non-essential services must be discontinued. Those that can be safely delayed must be postponed and those that are necessary must be carried on with the highest possible efficiency and the greatest possible economy.

BANKING AND INSURANCE

As compared with those of many other States, New Jersey's banking institutions have fared well during the economic crisis through which we have been passing. There have been failures and considerable losses in the banking field just as there have been in all other lines of business. The strain that has been placed upon our banking system has shown that it can and should be further strengthened.

These experiences through which we have been passing will be of little value if steps are not taken to prevent a recurrence of conditions that are preventable. The backbone of our credit system is the protection of depositors' funds and confidence in the integrity and management of our banking institutions. The greatest possible protection must be provided within the principles and practices of sound banking.

Restrictive legislation is needed to curtail or prohibit loans to officers, directors, and affiliate or subsidiary companies which are frequently designed to provide a method for loans to officers, directors or favored individuals.

The lessons of the past two years and the experiences of other States would indicate that New Jersey should give serious consideration to branch banking. Twenty-four States now permit it. Eight of these States authorize branch banks throughout the entire State. Banks and trust companies organized under the laws of this State may establish and maintain branch offices subject to certain provisions and various restrictions in the area in which they may be established. Bankers and financial experts insist that these provisions and restrictions nullify in great measure the desired results and defeat the very purpose of branch banking.

Most of the banks that have failed during the past two years or have found themselves in serious difficulties have been the smaller banks with poor management and limited capital. Numerous failures have been averted and borrowers' funds have been conserved by mergers with larger institutions. A limited number of strong financial banking institutions in the State, properly supervised and controlled, will be much better than a large number of small banks with limited resources and inadequate management.

I recommend that a legislative committee be established to consider the whole banking system, to the end that the system may be strengthened and improved, further failures averted, and depositors' and shareholders' funds and investments fully safeguarded.

There have been few failures among building and loan associations, and actual losses have been extremely limited. This record should inspire further confidence in this important home owners' institution.

DEBTS AND FORECLOSURES

The loss of income and wages, bad business conditions, and food and commodity prices have created for the farmer, the home owner, business man and workers a critical situation with respect to their debt and mortgage obligations. Half of the farms in the State are mortgaged and a much larger proportion of homes and small business enterprises are likewise encumbered. Earnings for the past three years have been so greatly reduced that the average farmer and the man who carries on his own individual business no longer has the necessary capital or credit for operating purposes. He is further burdened by interest and amortization charges on his property mortgages, taxes and other obligations. The home owner is faced with the same financial difficulties as are the farmer and the business man.

I have watched with growing concern the great numbers of mortgage foreclosures and suits for other indebtedness against thousands of our people who would willingly pay, but who are unable to do so. It is natural for those to whom money is owed to undertake its collection, but under existing conditions the holder of a mortgage who rushes into foreclosure proceedings and creditors who obtain judgment against debtors who cannot pay have not in most instances improved their own financial position. The loss of his farm to the farmer and of his home to the head of a family into which he has put his life's effort is a tragedy. I recognize the binding obligations on all of us to pay our debts and to maintain the integrity of our whole financial structure, but I am asking that creditors, whether they be individuals or great financial institutions, exercise patience and consideration for the good of all when it is shown that debtors cannot presently pay.

Even though I desired to recommend a general moratorium, there is no such power vested in either the legislative or executive branch of the State government to give effect to such a proposal. A moratorium would immediately involve all kinds of complicated legal and constitutional questions, and none of us can foresee the ultimate effects of such a procedure. Our mortgage and debt situation, however, is serious enough and general enough in its effects to demand legislative notice.

I have already appointed a commission to study especially the farm mortgage situation. A great proportion of farm mortgages are held by federal land banks, joint stock land banks, insurance companies and out State banking institutions. I have requested this commission to study the problems involved and to seek a solution through co-operative action. I am hopeful that some plan may be worked out by which the amortization and interest charges may be so adjusted as to make it possible for the farm owner to carry on by making such payments as he can during this trying period, in the hope that his economic condition will soon improve and that in due course he will be able to resume his normal obligations.

It is essential that some plan of relief be provided for the farmer. I want to see this done. It must be remembered, however, that important as he is to our economic life he represents only a small part of the total population in our industrial State and the much greater number of home owners in our towns and cities dependent upon industry and business for a livelihood and a purchasing power which will make it possible to buy the products of our farms is equally entitled to consideration and relief when his needs are the same. I propose that the Legislature shall give consideration to the home mortgage problem and that efforts comparable to those undertaken by the commission studying farm mortgages be made in the interests of home-owners throughout the State. I am of the belief that the insurance companies and banks holding great numbers of home mortgages will be willing to reduce or suspend their amortization schedules and extend the term of mortgages to many of those whose savings will be wiped out by foreclosure action. It is the special responsibility of our building and loan associations, which have made possible the building of tens of thousands of homes in the State, to adjust the load to the necessities of the mortgagor. No building and loan mortgage should be called as long as the home owner is able to pay his interest charges. Many of our building and loan association officials have shown a fine understanding of the needs of member borrowers. I would urge that building and loan officials generally take the lead in devising ways and means not only to conserve the assets of their shareholders but also to assist individual home borrowers in conserving the equities in their homes. I am of the further opinion that municipalities should not rush into tax sales in their efforts to keep their own budgets in balance. Every legitimate means of tax collection should be used and those who can pay should be required to pay, but no good purpose is served in adding sales costs to taxes that owners of real property cannot pay. In many instances such action is merely an invitation to the mortgagee to initiate foreclosure proceedings. The addition of high interest rates on delinquent taxes serves mainly to aggravate a bad situation at this time and not as a spur to prompt payment.

As an emergency measure, at least, consideration may well be given to methods for slowing up foreclosure proceedings and providing as a part thereof a redemption period of six to twelve months.

WATER

In my message to the Legislature of 1932, in discussing the subject of water supply, I recommended that the Water Policy Commission be abolished, and that its work with regard to the approval of water projects and grants be transferred back to the Department of Conservation and Development with which it was lodged before the creation of the Water Policy Commission.

I was led to make this recommendation because it was clearly a case of overlapping of useless commissions which have been costing the taxpayers of New Jersey large sums of money annually to maintain. The Water Policy Commission had filed its report with the Legislature on the next major project for water supply, and there was no further need for a continuation of this commission which was costing the taxpayers upwards of $160,000 a year.

The Legislature did not pass any legislation abolishing this commission but gave me the blanket authority to discontinue the services of any State employees whose services were of no substantial benefit to the people of New Jersey. Upon investigation I became so fully convinced that the continuation of the work of the Water Policy Commission with regard to its investigation of the water resources of the State was a waste of the taxpayers' money, that on September 2, 1932, I was constrained to issue an order suspending the entire staff which was engaged on the study of the new or additional water supplies and by so doing saved the State of New Jersey $42,680 per year, in addition to the operating expenses of this staff and its automobiles. This suspension is effective until July 1, 1933.

Intensive and continual studies have been made of the State's water resources by various State officials and men of national prominence as far back as 1895. The files of the State contain a great amount of data and many reports on the State's water supplies. These records are thorough and complete, and contain reports which include several made by the Water Policy Commission, by the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, by the Board of Conservation and Development, and by the Geological Survey. These are available to all of the municipalities of the State that are interested, and they are much used by those seeking to improve their water supplies.

In my opinion, any additional reports at this time will be merely a duplication and a rehash of those already paid for by the State. The water supply situation in New Jersey is relatively simple and is only complicated by those who desire to make further inroads on the State treasury. The Legislature has set up the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission as a constructing and operating board. It has vested it with authority to build new or additional water supplies for any cities in the State in need of water supplies upon the application of the municipalities in need. The North Jersey District Water Supply Commission has recently completed the water supply system on the Wanaque River, adding thereby one hundred million gallons of water daily to the metropolitan supply. It stands ready to construct additional supplies for any municipalities which are in need. To date, I am advised, that no municipalities have made application to this commission for additional supplies. This leads me to the inevitable conclusion that none of the municipalities in northern New Jersey are now urgently in need of new water supplies. Should they become so, their course of action is plain. They may apply to the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, go alone, or unite with other municipalities under the Home Rule Act.

From the studies and investigations which I have made, I am convinced that by an economical and intensive development of the present supplies now owned by the several municipalities of the State, additional or auxiliary supplies may be obtained at a relatively small cost and in sufficient quantity to carry the water consumers of the metropolitan district for an additional fifteen or twenty years. During this interval the burden of taxation may be lifted from the people, credit will become freer, and as the needs of the water consumers develop the return from the sale of water will increase and the several municipalities will be financially able either singly or in groups to carry forward these gigantic water projects at the expense of the water consumers rather than at the expense of the taxpayers of the State. This is as it should be.

The setting up of any other agency to duplicate or supplement the work of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission and the Department of Conservation and Development is a useless waste of public funds.

To speak of the need of preparing for future supplies of water as though it were an undeveloped field is nothing short of ridiculous. The State House teems with data concerning the water possibilities of every nook and cranny of the State, and I venture to say, without fear of contradiction, that within five minutes after any municipality applied for water, an abundant possible source could be pointed out from the available data.

To spend hundreds of thousands of dollars in maintaining a high-priced body of engineers and an extensive suite of offices is, to my mind, a wanton extravagance of public money. I, therefore, recommend that the Water Policy Commission be abolished, and that its duties with regard to applications and permits formerly administered by the Department of Conservation and Development be transferred back to that body.

At the general election held in 1930 the people of the State voted bonds in the amount of eighty million dollars for highway construction, thirteen million for institutions and agencies, and seven million for the initiation of water projects. At the time this referendum was held the depression had not broken on the country with the fury which it later acquired and with which it still persists. The burden of taxation had not yet acquired its crushing proportions. These bonds for a new water supply have not been issued to date, but when issued they will constitute a mortgage on the taxable property of the State, and not only must they eventually be paid but the interest during their continuance must be met by the taxpayers.

In view of the enormous burden now being carried by the taxpayers with every form of taxation, I recommend that these bonds be not issued and that suitable legislation be passed so that the people may have an opportunity at the next election to permanently cancel this bond issue. I see no reason why the people of the State of New Jersey should be loaded with debt for the construction of water supplies for municipal water departments. The construction and operation of water works constitutes a public utility, and both the construction and operating costs should be borne by the water consumers who are benefited by this construction and not by the taxpayers of the State at large.

I, therefore, recommend that legislation be passed looking to the cancellation of the proposed $7,000,000 water debt.

In my investigation of the operation of various State boards and commissions with a view of suggesting or initiating economies in the interests of the taxpayers, my search has led me to two quasi-State commissions; namely, the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission and the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission, both operating in and for the benefit of the citizens of Passaic, Bergen, Essex, Hudson and Union counties. The members of the commission operating the Wanaque water supply system and the members of the commission operating the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission are appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Legislature, although the money for their operations is raised from the municipalities benefited and generally in proportion to the benefits received. Both commissions are creatures of the Legislature and as such are subject to legislative control.

During the year 1932 the cost of operating the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission was $797,672.41, and it is estimated that the cost for the ensuing year, 1933, will approximate the same amount. The budget for 1932 for the operation of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission amounted to $317,321.20, or a total for the two commissions of $1,114,993.61. Of the amount spent by the sewer commission, the City of Newark paid approximately 43.5 per cent, Paterson 19 per cent, and twenty other cities and towns the balance in lesser amounts, of course. Newark pays 40.5 per cent of the operating costs of the North Jersey District Water Supply Commission, Paterson 20 per cent, Kearny 12 per cent, Passaic 11 per cent, and four other municipalities the balance in lesser amounts.

In addition to these two commissions operating in this district, there are also several other independent sewerage commissions functioning under the 1899 sewerage act, including the Union County joint outlet sewer and the Rahway Valley joint trunk sewer. The overheads of these separate joint sewerage commissions run into large figures, and there is no reason why the duties performed by them cannot be more economically handled by a Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Commission.

It is my belief that the consolidation of these several commissions as a Metropolitan Water and Sewer Commission operating in the metropolitan district is entirely feasible and in the interests of economy. I believe that upwards of $200,000 could be saved annually by proper coordination of the work of these commissions under a law patterned after the laws of Massachusetts setting up the Metropolitan Water and Sewerage District for the City of Boston and its environs.

I recommend your earnest consideration to this situation, and, to the end that you may be informed thereon, I propose you or I call a conference of the mayors of the cities most benefitted by these economies and solicit their cooperation and suggestions.

MANDATORY LEGISLATION

I have recently had compiled a list of the more important mandatory laws which in one way or another affect the tax levies and the spending programs of counties, municipalities and school districts.

This list includes more than 350 statutes, and it is by no means exhaustive. It does include all of the important mandatory laws affecting local budgets and finance and should prove both adequate and valuable for reference purposes. It suggests a bewildering mass of legislation upon all kinds of regulatory and routine administrative matters which should be properly handled by boards of chosen freeholders, city commissioners or councilmen, township committeemen or other governing bodies. It serves to remind those of us who have had a part in the law-making process how apparently willing we have been to bind local bodies by legislative action at the urging of interested and benefited individuals or groups and how important it is that we should consider not only the direct provisions of every measure presented before it is enacted into law but its relation to and its effect upon the broad home-rule principles and responsibilities of local governments.

There are some obligations resting upon counties and municipalities which are in a sense mandatory and essential to the public good. Some of these laws deal with such matters as the conduct of elections, the provisions for local courts, the payment of municipal obligations, financial audits, provision for the care of dependents and the maintenance of a public school system. All of these, however, are subject to reasonable limitations and municipal governments should not have the authority to make commitments, even in these matters, beyond their ability to pay.

A great proportion of these mandatory laws deal with the numbers and titles of local officers and employes which may be appointed and the arbitrary fixing of the rates of pay for such officers and employes. There may be found in this list, however, salary fixing laws for practically every elective or appointive county and municipal officer together with his deputy or deputies. It may be wise to fix by legislation a reasonable maximum for these offices, yet as it works out in practice the maximum is always paid. But certainly county and municipal authorities should be able and willing to fix the number and pay of large groups of subordinate employes and determine numerous other routine matters upon which they themselves have many times sought or at least approved legislation. At any rate, I have not heretofore noticed very much active opposition to mandatory legislation which is now harassing local authorities. Incidentally it should be remembered that there is still in the State service a number of salary-fixing mandatory laws among routine departmental employes. It is just as essential that these be discontinued while we are considering this subject.

In this emergency, county and municipal bodies must have the authority to raise or lower the compensation of all of their employes. They must assume that responsibility. I propose that county and municipal officials be invited to make known their desires with respect to existing laws and provisions which prevent them from effecting the economies that are required. I shall be glad to help restore to them the power to control their administrative costs and that responsibility which properly belongs to them.

INSTITUTIONS AND AGENCIES

In times of economic distress, the need for institutional facilities increases out of proportion to the normal increase in population. During the year the State's institutional population has increased approximately 4 per cent. Nevertheless, economies effected by a rigid scrutiny of every item entering into institutional costs, together with an intensive preventive program, has resulted in a decrease in the actual cash outlay for institutional purposes of 16 per cent. The total savings will approximate $1,000,000 under last year. The Commissioner and those associated with him have cooperated effectively in our economy program.

A revision of the laws having to do with child welfare has resulted in the reviewing and reclassifying of all dependent children cases. This will result in a reduction of more than $650,000 in cost to the counties for caring for dependent children during the present fiscal year. Furthermore, the 1932 Child Welfare Acts, which I approved, eliminated the objectionable mandatory features in the former laws.

In 1932 the State of New Jersey initiated the payment of old-age relief to persons more than seventy years of age who are unable to maintain themselves or have no legally responsible relatives financially able to support them. From present indications the administrative procedures used for putting this legislation into effect will result in the expenditure of $750,000 less than was estimated to be necessary by the commission which made the original study.

Although a slight general increase in the institutional population was experienced, it is encouraging to note that the population of the homes for juvenile delinquents and the sanatoria for the cure of tuberculosis decreased 12 per cent and 2.2 per cent respectively. While it is too early to state definitely that these decreases will continue, or can be still further reduced, it reflects in the first instance the benefits derived from the activities of character building organizations interested in boys' work.

A substantial decrease at this time is more gratifying because of the inevitable difficulties which arise in periods of economic depression.

The possibility of developing probation work and other preventive agencies is one worthy of serious consideration. The activities of the tuberculosis and mental hygiene clinics have demonstrated the advantages (both economic and humane) of the preventive policies inaugurated by the State through the Department.

EDUCATION

In common with all other public institutions, our public schools have not escaped the effects of the extreme business depression. The closing of the avenues of employment to the young worker has caused large numbers of boys and girls to remain in school. These conditions have placed an unusual strain upon the facilities of the schools, and have required reorganized programs in harmony with reduced budgets.

Notwithstanding this, our schools have been maintained at a high level. Our schools must be maintained as an efficient organization for training the future citizens of our democracy.

It is a satisfaction to report that during the last year not one school district has been forced to close its schools. I recognize that the teachers are doing their part in the present emergency. In many school districts throughout the State teachers are receiving reduced salaries; some have been paid irregularly and others only in part in the last several months. Many have rendered a noteworthy service by making liberal contributions for needy children in their own districts.

Economies have been introduced by boards of education through reductions in capital expenditures which will be reflected in the debt service of these communities. For the past two years for the State as a whole the reduction in capital outlay has been $12,634,762.46. Repairs and replacements in schools decreased $884,000 during the last year. Economies have been introduced also through reductions in the current maintenance budgets.

I recognize that economies must be made in education as well as in all other governmental undertakings. I do not believe, however, that economies in education should be carried to such an extent as to deprive our children of reasonable educational opportunities.

Our boards of education and school authorities generally should explore the whole field, to the end that every possible economy may be introduced. I feel satisfied that these problems can be solved if we enlist the active cooperation of both citizens and school authorities.

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture is not only important to those engaged in it but also as a source of food supply to the people of the State. Under normal conditions the annual value of our farm products approximates one hundred million dollars. I am told that this figure can be doubled by wise and progressive agricultural policies. With surplus crops throughout the country this is not the time to urge that immediate effort be made to increase our own output. Situated as we are with the greatest markets of the world at our very door, it is hard to believe that demand will be lacking if we grow quality products and place them on the markets properly graded and standardized. I want to see the State continue its program of furnishing such adequate service and encouragement as are necessary to promote sound growth, but I am more and more impressed with the thought that the best kind of agricultural development that can come to our own or to any State is that which is promoted and directed by the farmers themselves.

The ordinary problems that beset the farmer in ordinary times are largely local in their character. Farm taxes are heavy and in recent years they have been a charge against capital investment but, as I am pointing out in another part of this message, the tax problem is a local problem and must be dealt with locally. The State returns much more through State-aid or direct distribution of State collected revenues to farm areas than it takes away by taxation. Mandatory costs, so widely discussed in recent months, affect rural sections in a limited way only. Relief from taxation and governmental costs will come to the farmer when he becomes sufficiently active in his county and township affairs and sees to it that local budgets shall reflect his own wishes, that local spending shall not go beyond his ability to pay, and that his tax dollar is wisely and carefully spent.

I recognize, of course, that the farmer has not escaped the effects of this trying period. He is assured of food as a result of his own labor, but the lack of operating capital and the restriction of credit present problems that the individual farmer cannot overcome. The falling off in the buying power of the country and generous crops in practically all staple commodities have so reduced the price of farm products that profits have been almost entirely eliminated and a great proportion of the agricultural industry is operating at a loss. In the very nature of his business the farmer must invest millions of dollars in seed, fertilizer, feed, labor and equipment and must wait until his crops mature to realize on his investment. The farmer must have credit. I am satisfied that there is enough ingenuity and foresight in our financial institutions and our business interests in rural sections, and among the farmers themselves, to set up a workable credit system which will go a great way toward financing crop production and marketing. I urge local consideration of the farmers' problems supported by the services which the Department of Agriculture is in position to render. I understand that the Department has had an important part in developing a plan of credit assistance through a regional agricultural credit corporation of which recent announcement has been made. Such legislation as may be required to insure full participation in the credit so provided should be given prompt and favorable consideration.

Notwithstanding the difficulties which have stood in the way of agricultural development for the past two or three years, measurable progress has been made. I am advised that the new milk law designed to improve the quality of our milk supply and to protect New Jersey dairymen is functioning effectively. Great progress has been made in the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, and our State occupies an enviable position in this respect. Substantial gains have been made in the standardization and marketing of our agricultural products.

I commend especially to our agricultural interests the plans that are being developed by the Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural College for land utilization. New Jersey's agriculture is an important basic industry. Our aim should be to develop a sound and diversified agricultural system under which the farmer can stand on an equal footing with other business enterprises and receive a reasonable return for his investment and his labor.

COMMERCIAL MOTOR VEHICLES

Proper and adequate regulation of commercial motor vehicles should be undertaken at this session of the Legislature. New Jersey's highway costs in recent years ($354,500,000 from 1923 to 1931, inclusive) have been excessive, largely due to increased expenses of construction to meet the requirements of heavy commercial vehicles, particularly large trucks. To keep future costs within bounds, reasonable limits should be placed upon size, weights and speeds of such vehicles.

In addition to providing an adequate system of regulation for commercial vehicles, the Legislature should take all necessary steps to insure proper enforcement.

HEALTH AND SANITATION

Notwithstanding the reduced living comforts and the privations to which so many of our people have been subjected, the general health conditions have remained at a high level. Sporadic outbreaks of contagious and infectious diseases have occurred, but in every instance our health service has succeeded in bringing each outbreak under quick control. The spread of infantile paralysis last summer was the most serious of these threatened epidemics. In co-operation with the Crippled Children's Commission, the State Department of Health carried on a State-wide campaign for the purpose of obtaining blood for serum purposes from those who had recovered from this disease. The measures taken to control this outbreak and for treatment of those attacked have been unusually sucessful.

Health experts tell us that the malnutrition which it has been impossible to avoid will exact a heavy toll from our children later on. This threat makes it all the more necessary that our entire health service throughout the State be on the alert. The continuance of a vigorous child hygiene program and constant and careful supervision and inspection of our water, milk and food supply is highly important. The steps taken to prevent pollution of fresh waters, the program for sewage treatment in an effort to clear up the bathing beaches on the northern seacoast, and the extension of the inspection service to dairy products at the point of production under the new milk laws represent real progress.

Our health program has lagged behind some of our other activities. It is most important that this work be strengthened and that the Health Department receive every possible support to this end.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

During the past year the Board of Public Utility Commissioners report that the question of the influence of foreign holding companies upon operating companies within the State has required its attention. Under existing law, that board exercises no jurisdiction over these holding companies, but such companies may through their financial relationships influence and even control the activities of operating companies within the State. These foreign holding companies, it is reported, sometimes charge for supervision and management service beyond the true value of such service. In other instances it appears that funds of operating companies have been, through the direction of the holding companies, invested in the corporate securities of other affiliated operating companies in the holding system. The investment by operating companies in the State in the stocks and bonds of other utility companies outside the State, concerning which our Utility Board has no information, makes such investments speculative. Such practices should not be permitted to continue. There is need for legislation which will prevent any foreign holding company from exercising authority over operating companies in the State detrimental to the public good and which will further prevent the investment of funds of public utilities in the State in the corporate securities of any other public utility of this or any other State except upon the approval of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners. Drafts of proposed legislation will be prepared and submitted in due course.

COAST PROTECTION

A series of storms in the first part of November caused serious property damage along our seaboard and especially north of Shark River. Apprehensive of the greater damage which would almost certainly follow succeeding storms, representatives of oceanfront municipalities appealed to me for some action against these impending dangers. I invited representatives of the shore municipalities to co-operate with the Board of Commerce and Navigation in making a study of the immediate and necessary protection as well as in the formulation of a policy for a more or less permanent coast protection program, with a statement of estimated costs. I have received the report resulting from this study. It will be submitted to you for consideration.

The estimated cost of the protective work immediately needed along our entire coast line is fixed at $707,000, and a program for long-term protection involves an estimate of $4,578,000. The findings of the Board of Commerce and Navigation and the representatives of the shore municipalities are significant in that it is agreed that the building of groins and jetties at appropriate places along the shore line does provide permanent protection. The report is significant also in that it shows that the State's real problem in coast protection lies along the upper shore line.

The New Jersey shore is one of the great assets of the State. We cannot afford to neglect it. Under the provisions of Chapter 318 of the Laws of 1920, the State provided grants-in-aid to shore municipalities requiring help in constructing sea walls and jetties. This plan has seemed to justify itself. Those municipalities which are now endangered are unable to provide (or at least this is so in many cases) the necessary funds to match State appropriations even though such appropriations were made. I have not undertaken to make any provision for this extraordinary expenditure in the executive budget. I am of the opinion that we must find some way to construct promptly such protective works as are immediately necessary. I am suggesting that this question be referred to the proper legislative committee for consideration.

MUNICIPAL FINANCE AND CREDIT

A limited number of municipal governments have been unable to provide necessary revenues or obtain the required credit to meet current operating costs. A few of them have come under the jurisdiction of the municipal finance commission created under the provisions of Chapter 340, Laws of 1931. This commission has handled such matters as have come to it with consideration and discriminating judgment. The knowledge that such a body existed has in all probability served both as a reminder to local officials that their financial and credit problems must be handled in a careful and conservative way and as a measure of assurance to the creditors of any municipality whose financial and credit facilities have been seriously impaired.

In many States recent legislation and referenda have definitely fixed limits on municipal, and in some instances State, taxes and municipal borrowings. In some States the required machinery has been set up or is in process of erection to regulate closely municipal financial affairs.

Our municipal governments should take note of these things. The extent to which they find themselves able to bring their administrative costs within reasonable and acceptable limits, to improve their financial positions and restore their credit, will mark the measure of their continuing freedom to handle their own affairs. I believe thoroughly in preserving to municipalities every right to manage their own activities consistent with the public good. I recognize, however, that if our municipal governments fail for any reason to work out their financial problems, that tax limitation and municipal spending may come under direct State supervision, and a measure of the home rule which our local governments have heretofore prized and enjoyed will be lost to them.

Rapidly increasing costs of county and municipal administration in recent years and the consequent mounting tax rate have developed an increasing demand for State aid to local governments. Under the economic strain which has existed since 1929, the pressure for such aid has grown even stronger.

The recent commission to investigate county and municipal taxation and expenditure concluded that about one-fourth of all revenues coming into the State treasury in 1928 were distributed back to localities in one way or another. Since that time further allocations of State revenues for local purposes have been made, notably in the instances of the gas tax and provision for old-age relief.

From all of the indications it would seem that the policy of State aid to local governments is likely to be extended. No one knows or at least no considerable group of people are in agreement as to just what public service should be undertaken and paid for by the smaller municipalities or the larger ones on the one hand and the counties on the other, or what shall be undertaken and paid for by all municipalities including the counties on the one hand and the State on the other.

TAXATION

Taxation, as I have said many times in the past, is a local problem. While the State has been spending more than a hundred millions of dollars a year, counties and municipalities have spent at least four times as much. In addition to the State school tax which is returned to the taxing districts, the State levies direct annual taxes to the extent of $6,081,615.71 for the retirement of road bonds issued prior to 1927, and $811,000 against sinking fund requirements of the $12,000,000 bonds issued for the payment of the soldiers bonus. Out of local tax levies for 1932 of $258,000,000 the State takes for its own use $7,000,000, but it returns by way of State aid about $35,000,000. It should be clear, therefore, to the local taxpayer that his chief concern must be the financial program of his local governments.

There has been a great deal of discussion lately about the adoption of a new taxing system in relief of property taxes and the laying of special levies on certain sources of wealth for the support of schools and other particular activities. I appreciate the fact that property is bearing an unusually heavy burden and that it must be relieved, but in all my experience in public life I have not yet seen a new tax substituted for an old tax. The old tax has not only been continued, it has constantly increased, and the new tax has been used as a basis for further spending. I am not inclined toward a general overhauling of the tax system at this time. There must be relief to the property owner whose holdings have decreased so greatly in value and to the farmer whose profits have disappeared, but what we need most is a reduction in public spending rather than new taxes. Our combined energies just now must be directed to this end.

Another thing that is confusing our State and local tax situation, even though we undertook to revise our present system, is the taxing policy of the federal government. Federal taxes have been laid on practically everything that is taxable and it is proposed to extend them even further. The taxing sources for local and State purposes has been so restricted that almost any additional taxes laid other than upon real property would rest upon sources already taxed by the national government. I do not think that we can go on much longer without some comprehensive consideration of this whole problem in an effort to arrive at some understanding as to what sources should be taxed for federal purposes and what kinds of taxes should be preserved to the State and local governments.

In laying a basis for the need for governmental economy, the Princeton Survey made a study of our ability to pay taxes. This showed that our weekly payroll in the manufacturing industries has declined in 1932 from that of 1929, fifty-three per cent; the value of our manufacturing output sixty per cent; building construction more than fifty per cent; our farm products fifty per cent, and our foreign trade by at least sixty-six and two-thirds per cent.

In commenting upon these facts the Survey says:

> "It must be clear from the evidence available that under the present system of taxation in New Jersey, the funds from which taxes are paid in New Jersey have decreased since 1929 to distress levels in comparison with the amounts of taxes which are sought by governmental agencies. With drastic declines in market values of property, with catastrophic declines in income from property and with fixed costs such as interest remaining as high as before, or even higher, the net yields of real property from which to pay property taxes have decreased enormously. It should be evident that the real property tax as a source of revenue is likely to continue to decline, probably at an increasing rate as further adjustments in values take place and as the assessments get into line with current values. This will take place whether or not the adjustments are willingly made. If assessments are not reduced, the adjustments will take place through delinquencies and tax foreclosures.

"The conclusions which are reached in this report are as follows: (1) The emergency which exists is such that the tax on real property will yield smaller revenues even if the tax rate remains the same or conceivably even if it were increased. (2) So far as the State revenues are concerned, receipts from the general property and other taxes will decline so as to make it necessary to do away with allocated funds, or to cut down expenditures eventually to an extent that is probably not possible. (3) Nevertheless, expenditures must be cut wherever it is possible to do so, (a) by doing away permanently with nonessential services; (b) by increasing the efficiency or economy with which certain services are performed; (c) by postponement during the emergency of some services or capital expenditures which may be relatively less essential than others wherever this can be done without too great social cost, or to great future cost due to present neglect."

This counsel is especially applicable to the problems of local governments. It is the obligation of the State administration to aid local authorities in bringing about tax adjustments and lower costs and if need be to require that this be done.

REVISION OF LAWS

The task of "revising, simplifying, arranging and consolidating" all the general statutes of this State by the Commission on Revision and Consolidation of Statutes is nearing completion. It is anticipated that it will be finished by December 31st of this year and the final report ready for submission to the 1934 Legislature. While I directed early in this fiscal year a reduction of approximately 25 per cent in the operating costs of this commission, it was my conclusion that the importance of the work and the heavy investment already made in it warranted its completion. Beginning the new fiscal year, or July 1st next, the members of the commission will serve without compensation, a lesser number of employees will be required, and the rates of pay to those employed will continue at reduced levels.

The final report of the commission will embody all the general statutes as revised, with notes to all pertinent court decisions. This revision will supersede all previous revisions and compilations of laws and will contain a complete index to all the general statutes. The repeal of thousands of acts, amendments and supplements will be recommended, the substance of such acts recommended for repeal being included in the revision. The commission advises me that the title headings in the statutes will be reduced from two hundred and seventy-one, as now existing, to approximately seventy, and the number of volumes of current compilations and statute books will be reduced from sixteen to not more than three, including the index.

The clarification and simplification of the statutes of New Jersey should facilitate litigation and make it less costly and time-consuming to ascertain the meaning and effect of conflicting and overlapping laws. When the report of the commission has been adopted by the Legislature it will then be expedient to consider the adoption of some plan whereby the revised statutes may be kept current and in such form as to obviate the necessity of another general revision in the future.

STATE MILITIA

I have included in the Executive budget the sum of $20,000 for the maintenance of two companies of militia, not a part of the National Guard, because the State law so prescribes.

I deem it, however, my duty to present to you the status of this organization under the National Defense Act as determined by the Judge Advocate General of the United States Army. He advises:

> "The authority reposed in Congress to provide for the organization, arming and disciplining of the militia when exercised by it, as it has been in the National Defense Act (39 Stat. 166, 197-213) is exclusive. And since Congress has undertaken to prescribe what organized forces may be maintained by the State in time of peace, it is the opinion of this office that, except such as may be organized by State police or constabulary, a State cannot legally maintain military forces in time of peace, organized from the militia or otherwise, that are not organized, armed and equipped as provided by Congress for the National Guard * * * and so long as the present Federal laws remain unchanged, there can be no organized land militia except National Guard organized in accordance with those laws, (except as otherwise permitted in Sec. 63, National Defense Act) * * *."

To quote further from the Chief of the Militia Bureau:

"From the foregoing, it is apparent that States are not authorized in time of peace to organize and maintain units of the militia in addition to those units of the National Guard regularly organized and allotted to the State, as contemplated by the National Defense Act."

CONSOLIDATION OF LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

The ultimate solution of the cost of local government lies deeper, to my mind, than the repeal of mandatory laws or the free application of the home-rule principle. Our difficulties in this State lie in the fact that we have gone far beyond either necessity or reason in the continuance of small local governing communities designed for a day and age that has long since past. In 1900 the legislative index records 422 local governments other than counties; in 1930 it lists 563, a gain of 141. New Jersey is a small State. In the little more than 8,000 square miles of its area we have set up 584 separate local governments, 543 school districts and, it is estimated, something like 150 special regional or local districts or governing bodies having some powers of local administration and many of them having the power to require the laying of taxes and the issuing of bonds.

An examination of the population tables of the last census shows one borough of the State has 5 inhabitants, another 6, another 20; that 58 towns, villages, townships or boroughs have less than 500 inhabitants each, 139 less than 1,000 each, 285 less than 2,000 each, and 425 less than 5,000 each. If we eliminate the 21 counties from the list it will be seen that there are 138 municipalities of all kinds having population of 5,000 or more.

If we want to find one of the chief causes of the high cost of local government we need look no further. Today it is either a luxury or a needless extravagance to maintain all of these little governments with their separate quota of officials and other administrative structures when they have neither the resources to provide the services which modern communities require nor the population or the geographic need for an independent government.

In these days of good highways, automobiles, consolidated schools and easy communication it would be difficult to demonstrate that any area with less than 5,000 population should undertake either the cost or the responsibility of maintaining a separate government. If we expect to come out of these difficulties that now surround us we must do something ourselves to adjust our social life, our governmental functions and our economic procedure to the new conditions under which we are living. Hudson County, for example, should be one great city. Essex County would naturally group itself into a half-dozen or so municipalities which will or should eventually merge into a greater city. The towns, townships, boroughs and cities of other counties could combine to form a few larger units, with great savings and greatly improved local governments.

These things will not come about of themselves. Some machinery for leadership and information ought to be set up.

I believe it may be well to consider whether or not the time has not come when a legislative committee on the consolidation of local governments should be established for the purpose of studying this whole matter of local government, to assemble pertinent data and information relating thereto, to set up the tentative standards by which a self-contained municipal government should be continued or established and to formulate a program of action. There could well come, it seems to me, within the purview of such a body the consideration of a procedure by which local governments could be freed from a duplication of authority and assured of one set of administrative officers and one revenue raising and debt determining authority, the consolidation of school districts, control of budgets and expenditures for the whole municipality, a consideration of county functions which might better be transferred to the State and of local functions to the counties.

This problem of reduction in the number of local governments, extending even to the consolidation of counties, has been a subject of consideration by a number of other States. Notable progress has been made, I am advised, especially in North Carolina and Virginia. Nowhere in the country is there greater need for some such action than in our own compact industrial State.

Subordinate county commissions or bodies could be designated to study the consolidation problems in the separate counties, to discover the need and desires of the local communities, to provide for conferences and the spread of correct information and to present at the end of the year or of a fixed period a proposed plan of consolidation within the county. The State body, in turn, should be required to analyze and assemble the data received from the respective counties for the information of the Legislature and the people of the State. All of this could be done at a relatively small expense and undertaken in the spirit of a constructive contribution. I am not prepared to say that consolidations should be required without the consideration of local communities. I believe, however, that advanced steps must be taken in the direction of the consolidation of small governing areas and that some such plan as is here outlined is necessary to create the interest and to correctly inform the people as to the advantages and disadvantages of such proposals as may result.

CONCLUSION

I have discussed briefly herein a number of matters which seem to me to warrant your consideration. I have not exhausted the list. This year every problem of government is an important problem. I am gratified to note that legislative committees are already at work upon some of them.

This is indeed one of the testing times of our free institutions and of our form of government. The guiding principles for us in responsible authority must be the care of those in need, less spending of the people's money, and improved administration. There must be courageous action and unflinching devotion to duty. Together we can do the things that need to be done. Divided we can accomplish little. We must not fail. I seek your help. You shall have mine.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Mr. Altman moved that the communications be received and filed.

Which motion was adopted.

The following communication was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

PROCLAMATION

On Friday, February 3, 1933, the first Interstate Conference of Legislators will convene in Washington, D. C., to discuss problems of conflicting taxation and to consider means for co-operation between the States in dealing with each other and with the Federal Government in respect thereto.

This notice and invitation is presented to the Speaker of the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, for the official consideration of this body.

The Senate and House of Representatives of each of the forty-eight States is entitled—and is urged—to send a delegate, and the Governor of each State is invited to send an adviser to represent him.

INTERSTATE CONFERENCE OF LEGISLATORS

To the Governor, the Senate, and the House of Representaties of each of the forty-eight States:

It has long been apparent that substantial benefits would result to the citizens of all States from a closer contact between the various Legislatures, and that many governmental difficulties are aggravated by the absence of adequate facilities for conference between these law-making bodies.

In connection with problems of taxation, the evils resulting from this lack of contact has become especially acute even before the present economic depression. The further factor of the inability of the States to deal with the federal government in an orderly and co-operative manner has involved heavy burdens upon the taxpayer, upon the federal government, and upon each State.

The impaired ability of our citizens to bear the cost of government has now rendered these problems of taxation critical. The burdens of our individual taxpayers and the difficulties of each of our forty-eight States imperatively demand that an attempt be made to improve this situation.

This is a legislative problem. The present economic emergency creates an imperative necessity for joint counsel and concerted action. It is time for the States to make common cause.

Accordingly, after careful consideration and conference with representative legislators, eminent tax experts, and State revenue officials, the American Legislators' Association now issues this call.

CALL

The Interstate Conference of official delegates of the forty-eight Legislatures will be held on Friday and Saturday, February 3 and 4, 1933, in Washington, D. C. This will be the first official conference of this character which has ever convened in the United States.

PURPOSE

This conference is called to consider the advisability of establishing a standing committee of legislators—with an advisory board of fiscal officials—to study and confer upon the problems of conflicting taxation. It will be the duty of this committee, if established, to report its findings and recommendations at a subsequent meeting of the Interstate Conference of Legislators.

INVITATION TO LEGISLATURES

The Senate of each State is hereby invited to send as its delegate to this conference one of its members—chosen in such manner as the Senate may determine.

Similarly the House of Representatives of each State is hereby invited to send as its delegate to this conference one of its members—chosen in such manner as the House of Representatives may determine.

INVITATION TO GOVERNORS

The Governor of each State is hereby invited to send to the conference one or more principal fiscal officers of the State (such as the Budget Commissioner, the Chairman of the State Tax Commission, or the Director of the Department of Revenue) to represent him at the conference of legislators in an advisory capacity.

DESIGNATIONS

All such delegates and fiscal officials (and an alternate for each) should be designated on or before Thursday, January 12, 1933. And on or before that date official notification of the names of such delegates and alternates should be mailed in behalf of each State to the corresponding secretary of the conference by the Secretary of the Senate, the Clerk of the House of Representatives, and the Secretary to the Governor, respectively.

EXPENSES OF DELEGATES

In most cases the expenses of delegates to the conference will be provided from legislative contingent funds and the expenses of officials will be paid by their departments. Otherwise special administrative or legislative action will be necessary. But in each State, whether or not such financial provisions have been made prior to January 12, 1933, the delegates and alternates should be designated by that date. Each Legislature and each Governor is strongly urged to take action promptly in order that the roster of the States may be complete from the outset. Obviously the conference will have no official point of contact with any Legislature which fails to designate its delegates.

TIME, PLACE AND CORRESPONDENCE

The conference will be held at the Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C. The opening session will convene at 10 A. M. on Friday, February 3. Communications should be addressed in care of the American Legislators' Association, Drexel avenue and Fifty-eighth street, Chicago, Ill.

A prompt response to this invitation is cordially invited.

THE AMERICAN LEGISLATORS' ASSOCIATION,

WM. B. BELKNAP (Kentucky),
President.

GEORGE WOODWARD (Pennsylvania)
Vice-President.

SEABURY C. MASTICK (New York)
Vice-President.

HENRY W. TOLL (Colorado)
Director.

Mr. Altman moved that the communication be received and spread in full upon the minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

The following communications were sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

CITY OF CLIFTON

NEW JERSEY

Mr. Robert W. Purdy,
Clerk of the Assembly,
Trenton, New Jersey.

Dear Sir:

At the last regular meeting of the governing body of this city, the following resolution was adopted:

"Inasmuch as the law now provides that the first half of taxes are not due until April 1st and not delinquent until June 1st of each year, and the second half not delinquent until December 1st, although the expenses for the first half begin six months prior to June 1st and the expenses for the second half of each year begin six months prior to December 1st; therefore,

Be it Resolved, That the State Legislature and the New Jersey League of Municipalities be requested to formulate and have adopted, a law which will cause taxes to become payable and delinquent on the same date as the expenses of the city are designated to begin."

I might say that it is the intent and purpose of this resolution to have adopted such laws as are necessary to enable the municipalities of this State to carry on, on what we generally call a cash basis, by rearranging the financial structure so as moneys will be due and in the hands of the municipalities to meet expenses at the time that the said expenses commence. In other words, if we are to hold the calendar year as the fiscal year for the municipality, budgets will have to be adopted much earlier than now required by law, and the taxes called for in the budget and tax ordinance would have to be, perhaps, due and delinquent December 1st or 15th, as to the first half, and the second half due and delinquent June 1st or 15th. This would mean that municipalities would have funds with which to start paying January expenses in January and so on throughout the year. The other method to bring this about, of course, would be to change the fiscal year of the municipalities.

Trusting that something will be done along these lines to relieve at least a part of the financial difficulties of municipalities, we remain,

Very truly yours,

CITY OF CLIFTON,
By WILLIAM A. MILLER,
City Clerk.

PASSAIC, N. J.,
January 7, 1933.

House of Assembly,
State of New Jersey,
Trenton, N. J.

Gentlemen:

Due to the alarming widespread of crime which is getting an upper hand in our State, a "Vigilance Movement" composed of decent and law-abiding citizens, regardless of race, religion, or politics, is being organized for the purpose of combating crime and subduing criminals in a way and manner similar to methods used in the southern and western sections of the United States. Realizing that nowadays, law-abiding citizens haven't a chance and that our laws protect criminals in preference to citizens who fear crime, we must protect ourselves by handling bandits in so drastic a way, that they would actually become afraid to continue. While we strongly approve of letting the law take its course, it has come to a point where we must be secure in the enjoyment of absolute safety at any cost.

The increase of crime is placing our citizens in a very desperate situation. Disrespect for law and order, plus the indifference among criminals has gotten to the point where our governing bodies must take action at once, as the laxity of our laws is but an incentive for bandits and various types of desperadoes to continue their horrors, despite police and judicial action.

Each day the lives and safety of our decent law-abiding citizens are being placed in jeopardy by racketeers, robbers, various types of gunmen such as highway and holdup men, and other kinds of vicious criminals. More and more each day, our citizens are becoming terrorized for fear that bandits and various other types of desperadoes will overtake them at the point of a gun in search of easy money.

We cannot understand why bandits are getting away with it. They are making such a joke of our laws that it has become a public disgrace. Everything is in the favor of the outlaws and they, being cognizant of that fact, are neither afraid of the law nor do they fear the consequences. When criminals are caught, everything is in their favor, thereby making it impossible for decent and law-abiding citizens to even have a chance. What is going to be done about it?

Is society being protected from criminals or are criminals being protected from society? It is a positive fact that criminals are receiving the bulwark of protection due to our lax laws. Why? Are they not a menace to society? Isn't society better off when they are put away for good? Don't you realize that if these gunmen knew ahead of time that our laws were harsh and stringent, that they would think twice before they would commit their unlawful deeds? Why is it that when criminals are brought to justice they seem to know ahead of time that some legal loop-hole will get them out of it? Isn't it high time to change our laws in order that society may be protected from this menacing and threatening crime epidemic? We look to you to take action at once.

Our organization knows of many cases where gunmen have admitted doing a series of hold-ups and when brought before the judge, their sentence would be from three to five years, less time off for good behavior, when one of their hold-ups alone was sufficient for a much heavier sentence. People are inquiring as to what constitutes good behavior in a State's prison. It is absurd that desperadoes are freed because they have behaved themselves in State's prison. How else should they behave? It is only natural that they behave themselves while in prison, as they certainly do not while they are at large. Knowing the laxity of the law, as criminals do, they are becoming more brazen and daring every day. Life, law and property, is meaningless to them as they feel as though there is nothing to stop them in the pursuit of their illegal acts—and at the expense of innocent people.

We hold no quarrel with the police. They do their duty and do it in a meritorious way. We look to policemen as being our best friends. They usually capture criminals, but they inform us of the fact that the courts and the politicians do not assist them. They tell us that just as soon as a criminal is brought to justice, the judge is either too lenient with him, or if he does receive a lengthy sentence, the Board of Pardons sets them free in a very short space of time. Why should the Board of Pardons give criminals any more consideration than criminals consider the public? The Board of Pardons should have no power to parole racketeers and gunmen. That type of criminals should receive the strongest arm of the law.

May we also inquire as to the reason why racketeers and gunmen are let out on bail? Criminals do most of their mischief while out on bail. They feel it a good time to square up and in most instances to get the innocent person who may be responsible for charges pending against them. The recent killings of many policemen by bandits is proof enough.

We know of a case where a lone bandit held up a bus driver, who, when held up, was driving an empty bus on his last trip of the day. The bus driver positively identified the bandit at "Rogues' Gallery" and after the police apprehended the bandit, the bandit dared his victim to prove that it was he who held him up. Finally the bandit, who had a police record, was discharged on account of "lack of sufficient evidence." In other words, the honor of the innocent man whose record was spotless meant less than a gunman's with a police record and who is noted for his clever alibis. Is that justice?

As the 1933 Legislature is about to convene what steps are going to be taken to insure public safety? Are we going to bow to racketeers and gunmen and let them continue their malicious acts and get away with it? What is this Legislature going to do to make our State safe from criminals? Citizens, who are already victims of gun threats are terrorized, while others are in constant fear. The law must protect us and we look to you for protection. Otherwise, decent and law-abiding citizens, regardless of race, politics, or religion, will soon rise to protect themselves when this happens, as it surely will, a very serious situation will be presented, one that will be hard to overcome. We hope to avoid such actions and are appealing to your honorable Legislature to enact laws at once for our absolute safety and protection. Are racketeers and gunmen bigger than the State of New Jersey? We hope not. Won't you please take action at once?

We advocate the following measures and implore your action at once.

1. No bail for racketeers and gunmen.

2. No parole for racketeers and gunmen.

3. No time off for good behavior, as nothing but good behavior should be tolerated in a State's prison.

4. Extreme heavy penalties for racketeers, gunmen and all similar types of criminals.

5. We strongly advocate the passage of a law in our State similar to the Baume's Law in New York State, but even more stringent.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK CADMAN,

Northern New Jersey Vigilance Organization,
(Bergen, Passaic and Essex Chapters.)

Be it Resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring):

In the passing of our beloved Chief Justice, William S. Gummere, whose circuit comprises Essex County, the people of the State of New Jersey have suffered the deepest bereavement and have sustained an irreparable loss. Born in the city of Trenton on June 24, 1852, son of the late Barker Gummere who was an outstanding leader of the bar of this State, the Chief Justice actively practiced law in Trenton and Newark for many years up to February 18, 1895, when he was appointed as a Justice of the Supreme Court by Governor Werts. Six years later he was nominated by Governor Voorhees for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, taking the oath of office on November 19, 1901. He was reappointed successively by Governors Fort, Fielder, Edwards and Larson.

By virtue of his incomparable erudition, eminent fairness, and nobility of character, Chief Justice Gummere has endeared himself in the hearts of the people of the State of New Jersey. He was truly a great judge in his chosen profession of legal jurisprudence and in the broader field of humanity. His memory should serve as an inspirational ideal which we may well emulate.

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of New Jersey (the House of Assembly concurring), Do hereby express to Mrs. Gummere and to her family the sense of respect and grief of the members of this Legislature, and of the people of the State of New Jersey, in their deep bereavement.

Mr. Bradley submitted the following report, which was read by the Clerk:

Mr. Speaker:

Herewith I beg to submit my report on the First Interstate Conference which convened last Friday, February 3, 1933, at Washington, D. C., under the auspices of the American Legislators' Association.

The main topic of discussion concerned the problem of conflicting taxation. The object of the conference was to develop an agency through which the States might harmonize their taxing systems and also simplify tax procedure throughout the country.

The Interstate Legislative Assembly was greeted by President Hoover, who urged the need for a "scientific division of tax sources amongst the various governmental authorities." By so doing, he added, we will make a distinct contribution to the efficiency as well as to the economy of our whole governmental system. The President called attention to what he termed "a perfect maze of overlapping conflicting tax systems, with inevitable invasions by one authority of tax areas properly belonging to another authority."

President-elect Roosevelt said in a letter to the Assembly that he hoped "to make at least a small contribution of a better synchronized federal, State and local taxing system."

Some of the delegates representing certain of the States attending the conference advocated the plan whereby the Federal Government would be empowered to levy and collect all taxes except real estate levies as a way out of the present "tax jungle." Under another proposal the Federal Government would rebate part of the taxes to the States. A third group advocated the segregation of tax sources by mutual agreement between the States and the Federal Government.

In a recent address by the Honorable Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, the latter exhorted the nation to make the people tax conscious. After listening to the variegated imposts which are now being levied on the taxpayer by the different States, Senator Wolber said that we are in a fair way toward making the taxpayer unconscious, adding that he can be brought back to consciousness not by imposing more taxes but by lessening the load which is rapidly causing his insensibility now.

As spokesman for the group officially representing this State at the conference, including Senator Joseph G. Wolber, Budget Commissioner John A. Reddan, Professor Eugene Greider of Rutgers University, and myself, Senator Wolber addressed the conference.

He called attention to the complexity and lack of co-ordination in the matter of taxation with our nearby States of New York and Pennsylvania which has hampered the action of our Legislature in fostering much needed tax relief. He proposed a broader tax base and retrenchment in governmental expenditures as the best means of solving the vexatious problem. He urged the necessity for lightening the burden on general property. On the subject of interdependency of State and Federal taxation he pointed out that last year New Jersey paid $70,000,000 into the Federal treasury but received only $3,000,000 in grants, subsidies and other special benefits.

A committee was named by the Interstate Legislative Assembly to prepare recommendations for submission to Congress as soon as possible to end the cumbersome and expensive system of dual Federal and State taxation looking to the ultimate reduction of the tax burden.

An attempt will be made to bring the various States of the Union into accord on a plan in time for submission to the expected extra session of Congress.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

February 6, 1933.

To the Legislature:

The Attorney-General and his associates have obtained a signal and substantial victory for the State of New Jersey in the Lighterage Case now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The report of the Examiner discloses that by the abolition of free lighterage in New York Harbor, the railroads may save in excess of $30,000,000 annually, and this at a time when these carriers are crying for financial relief from taxes, cost of grade crossing elimination and unfair highway competition.

The railroads, according to newspaper reports, have been invited to join with the opponents of the State of New Jersey in opposing confirmation of the Examiner's report, and it is highly desirable that these carriers, most of whom operate their lines in or through New Jersey by charter or other legislative enactment of this State, realize that their interests and those of the State of New Jersey are identical insofar as this case is concerned, and that they should actively join with the Attorney-General in having the Examiner's report confirmed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the changes in the manner of freight interchange at New York Harbor therein recommended, adopted.

It is requested that you adopt the enclosed or similar resolutions.

Very truly yours,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

WHEREAS, The report of the Examiner of the Interstate Commerce Commission filed January 28, 1933, substantially sustains the complaint of the State of New Jersey; and

WHEREAS, The report of the Examiner shows that the free marine services afforded by the railroads in New York Harbor cost the carriers in excess of thirty million dollars annually; and

WHEREAS, The seven large trunk systems that perform such free marine service operate their lines in and through the State of New Jersey under charters of incorporation or other statutory authority conferred by the Legislature of this State; and

WHEREAS, Such railroads are appealing for substantial reduction in taxes in this State and for relief from the expense of grade crossings eliminations and from unfair highway competition; and

WHEREAS, It appears from the statements in the public press that powerful shipping and commercial interests opposed to the State of New Jersey have invited representatives of the railroads to confer with them with a view to having the carriers join with them in opposing the confirmation of said Examiner's report; therefore

Be it Resolved by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. That the railroad companies operating in and through the State of New Jersey be and they are hereby requested to cooperate with the Attorney-General of the State of New Jersey in supporting the Examiner's Report before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Naughright was escorted to the rostrum and addressed the Assembly.

At the conclusion of the address the Speaker thanked Mr. Naughright.

Mr. Pascoe moved that the address be spread in full upon the Minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

Mr. Naughright's address follows:

We are not met for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of Abraham Lincoln. His is an imperishable fame, to whose lustre we can add nothing.

Rather is it our purpose to seek to gain stimulus to a more purposeful life for us of 1933 through a study of the man and of his qualities and attainments.

Biographies of world figures are not penned solely with the thought of setting down in detail the upward rise to distinction. Were that the only purpose, our libraries would hardly accord large space to their housing. The great usefulness of these life histories is in kindling the latent spark of ambition and firing it with the zeal of emulation. Hence to a school child come impulses that lift history from mere study to a living drama as he reads of the deeds of such men of renown as was Abraham Lincoln.

Let us get a bit of the background of the days of him whom we seek to study.

The early English settlers of our country were drawn largely from the field of agriculturists. In the fullness of time the less congenial soil of the land along the Northern Seaboard attracted industry in its varied forms. Slowly but surely it became the manufacturing center, crowding out large-scale farming. A line of distinction eventually began to mark clearly the folk of the South from those of the North.

This obtained until the outbreak of the Civil War, which has been interpreted as a clash between the agricultural South and the industrial north.

A word as to conditions obtaining in 1861 would not be amiss, for on March fourth of that year, Abraham Lincoln was inducted into the office as Chief Magistrate of the nation.

The administration of James Buchanan, his predecessor, had drawn to a close. The period of eight years that marked his tenure of office showed a marked southern sway in all branches of the government. Even during the four months intervening between Election Day and March fourth, much preliminary work had been accomplished toward the setting up of a separate government in the South. Stores of ammunition and other munitions of war had been gathered.

Delegates from seven Southern States assembled at Montgomery, Ala., on February sixth, and organized what was termed a "Confederacy". Three days later, Jefferson Davis and Alexander H. Stephens were named as President and Vice-President, respectively.

Meanwhile, in Washington, delegates from the North sought by peaceful means to stem the onrush of the impending storm.

The stage is now set for the great drama. He who is to take the lead gains his histrionic distinction after having essayed the respective roles of farmer, woodsman, riverman, clerk, postmaster, captain of militia, a member of the Illinois State Legislature, and later its Speaker, a lawyer, and a Congressman.

The curtain rises and Abraham Lincoln is seen, the central figure amidst the inaugural ceremonies. Barely a month passes when Fort Sumter is fired on. The next scene takes place on April fifteenth, when a call to arms is sounded throughout the North.

We need not cudgel our memories to depict the days that followed. Impassioned orators urging youth to heed the call and enlist in Father Abraham's army. Soon the tread of marching hosts was heard throughout the land, as with colors streaming and bands playing, the flower of the youth of the land was afoot and away on a great adventure.

It was not long until the grim spectre of war made its presence felt. Disaster followed upon disaster, and victory seemed unwilling to perch upon the banner of the Union army.

The rumbling voices of discontent were not long in gathering volume, and soon the burden of it fell upon the shoulders of our war-time President. Even among his cabinet there was dissension.

Manfully he bore his burdens. Oftimes there were sleepless nights as the news of fresh disaster came throbbing over the wires.

There were in those days men who counseled that the "needless" sacrifice should cease and that peace and a divided nation should be sought as a way out of the slaughter. But these false guides failed to reckon with the man whose rise from a log cabin, through toilsome successive steps, to the present commanding position, was the result of painful toiling and much struggle. The will to go forward, despite obstacles was his by the exercise of indomitable energy and the giving of himself unstintedly in each avenue of effort.

He knew, too, that "a nation divided against itself cannot stand" and so he pressed forward and onward.

Two years roll on and we come to Gettysburg, where a defeated Union army makes its last stand on the rocky ledges of Little Round Top just outside this city. Here Meade turned the tables and crowned the third day's fighting with victory.

Those of you who have made a pilgrimage to Gettysburg cannot but marvel as the purport of the story told by the guides sinks into our consciousness. How was it possible for a defeated and seemingly routed army to gain the commanding position atop Little Round Top.

From then on, slowly and surely, the Union arms fought their way to victory and a united nation.

We have refreshed our memories by a recital of some of the highlights of Lincoln's administration.

Reading between the lines, we would see a boy reared amid poverty, with scant opportunity for study, become so graced in the art of expression as to have penned that which has lent fame to Gettysburg even beyond that of its battle.

If it were true that the battle of Waterloo was fought on the cricket fields of Eton, how much more can the origin of Lincoln's greatness be traced to the early days of his life.

Can we not vision him astride a furrow, following the plow. Long practice brought mechanical action. Eyes ahead, peering into the future, his mind conjured the way that led onward to new tasks, to new responsibilities. The details, the way toward accomplishment were thought out with mirror-like clearness.

As a river man, his flat boat moving lazily along on the bosom of the Mississippi, dreams were woven into plans against future need. Lincoln had vision. But no idle dreamer was he; for visions were transmuted into workable plans.

He was patient. That trait finds its expression in the story of his studying by firelight with a coal scoop as his slate. It was developed in later life to the point where, clothed with all the authority and power of the Chief Magistrate, he sought quietly, peacefully, and by conciliation to show the budding secessionists the error of their way. A smaller man would have used force and thus hastened the coming of the struggle.

He was courageous. When Sumter fell and the power of the government was impugned, he was adamant in his determination that the national government should be respected regardless of any effect it might have upon his person.

And when the storm of protest was focussed upon him against the tactics pursued by General Grant, he never waivered in his support of that man—he visioned the power of that general's sword and upheld him unflinchingly.

Finally, he was as big in heart as in stature. Those broad shoulders of his were a token of the breadth of his humanity. He had not forgotten the flat boat days, when he saw mother and child of a race different from him—who were on the block being sold into slavery and to separate buyers. That slavery was contrary to the doctrines of a free government was burned into his consciousness. He resolved that when the time was ripe he would strike a blow that would break the shackles of all the negroes that were held in bondage.

But great as was his repugnance against this crying evil, his love of justice was tempered by his adherence to law and to lawful acts.

So we find in one of the orders issued during the war, he commanded the leaders of army forces into whose camps straying slaves might enter to keep a record of the stragglers and of the work that was performed so that a future accounting might be made for their services and a way be found for their ultimate return to the plantations whence they fled.

There's an old-story, so hoary with age as to be almost new to the present generation. It concerns a stone worker, who, with the aid of a helper, was trying to split a large stone. He held the drill while his husky companion, with measured blows, struck the drill. A mighty heave was his. A curious bystander watched the proceedings until a final blow severed the stone. "Hey, young feller, that was a corking smash you gave that stone just then."

The stone worker looked up, eyed the bystander for a moment, and then said: "Say, that last blow didn't break that stone. It was the first blow, and the last blow, and all the other blows."

Lincoln assumed a commanding position in the eyes of the world as he met the problems that confronted him while in the White House. But that was merely the last blow—the outward demonstration of gathered power.

Go back to the early days of struggle if you seek to gain the secret of his power.

Is it an intense interest in humankind, particularly in the comman man? He was human in his interest for them because he was one of their kind. Their struggles were but a mirroring of his own. Their longings—were they not his?

Their ambitions—his, too, but with this difference. They merely wished for a change in circumstances; he compelled circumstances to change.

Is it patience—the ability to suffer the scornful abuse; the cruelly unkind words that cut to the quick; the clamor of the little-minded for a change that would bring victory at whatever price. Aye, he had it, and faith, too, in the plans of his making that needed only time to bring them to rich fruition.

Is it statecraft—none of his contemporaries measured up to greater stature in this respect.

Is it an ordered mind—yes, for such was his, fashioned in the school of dearly-bought knowledge, dinned into his brain by the slow process of committing to memory the full contents of the few books at his disposal. As a lawyer, he knew the statutes because of the labor expended in making their very punctuation an indelible pattern in his memory.

In short, Abraham Lincoln, by the intensity of his desire to attain a firm foothold upon one rung of the ladder before stepping ahead to the next, exhausted the possibilities of the old before reaching forward for the new.

It remains for William Cullen Bryant to sound the last note:

> Thy task is done; the bonds are free;
> We bear thee to an honored grave,
> Whose proudest monument shall be
> The broken fetters of the slave.
>
> Pure was his life; its bloody close
> Has placed thee with the sons of light,
> Among the noble host of those
> Who perished in the cause of Right.

Mrs. Mutchler's address follows:

Mr. Speaker, Members of the House and Friends:

It is fitting at this time for the officers and members of the House to pause if only for a few moments to pay homage to the greatest of great men, George Washington.

Washington was a noble figure to stand in the forefront at the beginning of a great nation's history.

His commanding presence was full of passion and enthusiastic fervor. He had so thoroughly learned the lesson of self-control in the long school of experience, that we think of him only as the calm and self-contained General and President.

His purpose was undaunted by the greatest obstacle.

His judgment was sane and well balanced to a remarkable degree.

His patriotism was boundless.

The way in which he succeeded in overcoming the obstacles that confronted him during the Revolutionary War remain the marvel of men and stamps him much more than a great General.

This is doubly true when we take into consideration his insistance upon working by means of Congress. When you will but remember Cromwell when he could not get action in Parliament and dissolved it. Napoleon when he thought the Directory was inefficient seized the Directory and gained absolute control.

Washington's difficulties were at least as great as those confronting either of these men. But he was determined to preserve and maintain the American institution of Government.

If his life had ended at the close of the Revolutionary War his would have been a remarkable career and would have given him lasting fame. After this he inaugurated a new Government with wisdom and launched a new nation with success. And this stamped him as a creative statesman.

His greatest power lay in his character. This character was tested to its utmost over and over again.

The greatest test was when he spent the winter at Valley Forge.

His army was without food and clothing.

The winter was cold and dreary.

There was great dissatisfaction and discouragement.

What did Washington do? He knelt down on the cold, cold ground and prayed. Can you hear that prayer? Oh, dear God, give me health, strength and endurance so that I may preserve my army. Oh, God, give us food and warmth. Methinks I see a recording angel go up to that throne to speak his dread message.

Father, the old world is baptized with blood.

Father, look with thine eternal eye and behold forevermore that terrible sight. . . . Man trodden beneath the oppressors' feet.

Murder and superstitition walking hand in hand over the graves of their victims and not one single voice to whisper hope to man. He stands there the angel trembling with the record of human guilt.

But hark! . . .

Jehovah speaks out from that awful cloud:
Let there be light again

Tell my people, the poor and oppressed, to go out from the Old World from blood and oppression and build my altar in the new.

As I live, my friends, I believe that divine spark in Washington's character gave him and made him. . . . The General . . . the Military Officer . . . the First President of the United States and the Father of our Country.

WHEREAS, The importation and sale of Russian coal in the United States serves to destroy the market for an American mined commodity; and

WHEREAS, The amount of such coal sold in the United States during the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two meant a loss of two million seven hundred thousand dollars ($2,700,000) in revenue, the enforced idleness of one thousand five hundred (1,500) coal miners in the anthracite region, and the loss in wages of one million six hundred thousand dollars ($1,600,000) with its loss of purchasing power;

WHEREAS, In spite of the two dollars ($2) per ton tariff placed on such coal by Congress as a deterrent, the importation of Russian coal during the last ten months of the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two amounted to 171,623 tons, or an average of 17,163 tons per month as against a monthly average of 18,082 tons for the year 1931; and

WHEREAS, Recent press reports indicate an intention to unload vast cargoes of Russian coal at Port Newark during the present year;

A communication was received from His Excellency the Governor as follows and read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
February 27, 1933.

To the Legislature:

My attention has been called to the fact that the Comptroller of the Treasury is required by the provisions of Section 503 of the General Tax Act of 1918 (P. L. 1918, page 863) to certify the deficiencies in the year 1932 and prior years in the amounts raised for public schools and for Soldiers' Bonus and State Road Tax. The Commissioner of Municipal Accounts has furnished me with a statement showing that for the year 1931 there is a deficiency in the State School Tax of $934,994.20; the Sate Road Tax, $764,452.08; and Soldiers' Bonus Tax, $103,973.42; and that for the year 1932 the deficiency for State School Tax amounts to $8,547,889.31; State Road Tax, $4,920,704.95; and Soldiers' Bonus Tax $671,811.37.

I am also advised by the Comptroller of the Treasury that partial payments on account of these taxes are being made practically daily. Under the circumstances, it seems to me that the Comptroller of the Treasury should not be required to certify the amount of these deficiencies for the years named, in view of the present emergency. Accordingly, an act has been drawn to accomplish that purpose, which I enclose herewith, and which by its terms will expire on the first day of February, 1934.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:

JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

A SUPPLEMENT to an act entitled "An act for the assessment and collection of taxes (Revision of 1918)," approved March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. The State Comptroller shall not be required to transmit to the county collector of any county a statement or statements of the deficiency in amount of taxes directed to be raised for public schools or for other State purposes for the year one thousand nine hundred and thirty-two or prior years.

2. This act shall become inoperative and void on the first day of February, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four.

3. This act shall take effect immediately.

STATEMENT

The design of the above bill is to relieve the Comptroller of the Treasury of the necessity of certifying deficiencies in the State School Tax, Soldiers' Bonus Tax, and State Road Tax, for the year 1932, or prior years, as required by Section 503 of the General Tax Act of 1918 (P. L. 1918, page 863). For the year 1931, as of February 14th, there was a deficiency of $934,994.20 in the State School Tax; $764,452.08 in the State Road Tax; and $103,973.42 in the Soldiers' Bonus Tax. For the year 1932 the deficiency in the State School Tax amounts to $8,547,889.31; State Road Tax $4,920,704.95; and Soldiers' Bonus Tax, $671,811.37. The above figures were obtained from the Commissioner of Municipal Accounts. If these deficiencies are required to be made up in the year 1933 many taxpayers who have paid their taxes will be required to contribute toward these several deficiencies.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EMERGENCY RELIEF ADMINISTRATION
OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR

February 27, 1933.

To the Honorable A. Harry Moore, Governor, and to the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

In closing my service at State Director of Emergency Relief, I desire to present for your information and consideration certain major problems of the relief work that seem to require determination of State policy by legislative authority or that materially affect the cost of relief work and the amount of appropriations therefor.

I. The policy of the State concerning financial responsibility for emergency relief is stated in the preamble to Chapter 394, P. L. 1931. In effect, the responsibility for relief remains with the municipalities and their citizens, but the State will provide special aid to the municipalities temporarily as an emergency measure because of the extreme conditions produced by this depression.

Under the system that was established by Chapter 394, P. L. 1931, the primary distribution of State aid was on the basis of population. This led to extravagance in the handling of relief programs in many instances and would have resulted in inadequate support for many other municipalities had it not been for the discretionary authority of the Director, with the advice and consent of the Administrative Council, to make additional allotments of funds above those provided by the pro rata population distribution.

Under the legislation of 1932, complete discretion in the allotment of State funds for emergency relief purposes was granted to the State Director of Emergency Relief. I have adhered to what seemed to be the spirit of the State's policy as expressed in the preamble to Chapter 394, P. L. 1931, and have assumed the entire cost of emergency relief in municipalities only where the conditions were such that it appeared impossible for the municipality to accept the financial burden of relief or where it seemed probable that for the municipality to do so would seriously cripple the discharge of other functions of municipal government. The conditions under which allotments have been made are covered in Rules and Regulations No. 10 of the State Emergency Relief Administration. In the administration of these Rules and Regulations, in conjunction with existing conditions of relief necessity and of municipal finance, the following treatment of municipalities as respects State aid has resulted:

215 municipalities are receiving no aid.

121 municipalities are receiving "normal" aid, i.e. (partial aid up to a maximum of 50% of the total cost of relief).

74 municipalities are receiving Special Grants, varying between 50% and 85% of the costs.

153 municipalities are receiving Special Grants, covering all or approximately all of the costs of relief. (In all of this class of cases the State manages the relief.)

Neither the system of pro rata distribution which obtained during the first seven or eight months of the Relief Administration's work nor the present system established under the authority of the State Director provides for an adequate or equitable distribution of State aid. When I first took charge of the emergency relief work I strongly recommended a policy which was not adopted, namely, that instead of treating the State's participation in relief work as one of aid or subsidy to the municipalities, the State should assume the entire financial burden of emergency relief conditions. This recommendation was rejected by the Joint Legislative Committee in 1931, and was not favorably viewed by the municipalities nor by various groups of interested citizens, all of whom in my opinion at that time were insufficiently impressed with the seriousness of the conditions and were not sufficiently convinced of the effect of the depression upon the financial resources of the municipalities or of private charities. The reasons which I at that time urged for the adoption of the policy that the State would assume financial responsibility for the entire emergency relief burden were principally:

1. Under the industrial and social conditions in New Jersey the political boundaries of the municipalities do not conform to the distribution of industrial and tax resources.

In consequence, the volume of relief needs are quite unevenly distributed as between municipalities. Local responsibility for emergency relief expense cannot be fair under such conditions.

2. The existing conditions justify the relief of local taxpayers from the large burdens which emergency relief would involve, the revenue sources of municipalities being practically confined to real property taxes.

The experiences of the Administration in the year and a half that has elapsed have confirmed in my opinion the soundness of these views. At the beginning, however, it was not anticipated that the financial difficulties of many municipalities would be as serious as they have since become. The facts now are that a very substantial proportion of the municipalities today either cannot or ought not to spend money to be raised by taxation or by loans for emergency relief purposes. Many of these municipalities are very large; for example, the Administration is now carrying by State funds 75% or more of the relief expenses in Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne, Newark, Orange, Paterson, New Brunswick, Trenton, Asbury Park, Camden and Atlantic City, and the present prospects are that there will be little dimunition, if any, in the necessity for the State assuming the major part of the burden of relief in these cities.

The results of this situation are that the distribution of State relief becomes increasingly inequitable as respects these municipalities which are more favorably situated from a financial standpoint. If a municipality is unable to show that it cannot borrow money or that its normal municipal functions will be seriously crippled the maximum aid it can receive from the State is 50% of the cost of relief and then only provided its relief load is sufficient to make the cost per inhabitant a substantial amount. This is, I believe, an equitable rule so long as the number of municipalities receiving complete State aid is not large and is temporary in duration as to most of them; but where the number of municipalities receiving special aid amounting to substantially all of the relief cost reaches the number of 150 and includes the major municipalities and is not of temporary duration, there is sound ground for objection to the system, especially as the ability of a municipality to carry the load is frequently a matter of opinion rather than demonstrable fact.

The operation of this plan was initially attended with few difficulties. The Administration has accepted the statement of municipal officials as to their inability to borrow money for relief purposes and has checked directly and through the Commissioner of Municipal Accounts the budgetary situation and the facts as to the payment of municipal employees, etc. However, it becomes increasingly evident and is almost inevitable that the great pressure to which municipal officials are subject (by reason of public reaction to tax burdens; by reason of the attitude of bankers; and by reason of political reactions) leads them to become more and more interested in securing the maximum possible State aid and the minimum expenditure for relief purposes on their own part regardless of the merits of their cases. This attitude and the competition between municipalities in this respect is placing upon the Relief Administration a responsibility for the analysis of municipal financial conditions which it is not in a position to discharge.

For these reasons I recommend my original proposal, that the financial responsibility for emergency relief costs be assumed by the State, that is, that the State accept all of the costs of Poor and Alms relief in each municipality in excess of those incurred for Poor and Alms relief in 1929.

Under the present laws the State Director of Emergency Relief has the technical authority to make effective this recommendation. I have not used this authority, except to the extent indicated above, in the belief that a fair administration required as close adherence as practicable to the spirit of the State's policy as laid down in the preamble to Chapter 394, P. L. 1931. I believe it is now demonstrated as a practical matter that the Legislature should specifically authorize a change in the policy. Such authorization should grant the right to any municipality to continue to manage its relief work where it is willing to assume 50% of the cost. In all other cases the State Director should be authorized to use the municipal government to administer relief, if he so desires.

II. The problem of housing is one of exceptional difficulty. It is estimated that approximately 100,000 families on relief lists are unable to pay any rent at the present time in this State, in addition to a considerable number not on public relief lists. A rent of $10.00 per month, which is as low an average as can be reckoned on, would involve a monthly expenditure of $1,000,000.00. The great expense involved, together with the opportunities for abuse, have led both the municipalities and the State Relief Administration to avoid, so far as possible, the payment of rents. In most cases rents are not paid at all until eviction proceedings have been started.

In many cases the landlords have been as willing and generous as any other class of population to aid the victims of economic distress and they have in fact been among the chief contributors, through inability to collect rents or to enforce eviction laws, to the relief of the destitute. These landlords are in innumerable cases small people whose situation in many cases has become so desperate that they are themselves, despite the ownership of their property, compelled to seek sustenance from public authority as are other unemployed; in the meantime their properties are subject to the accumulation of tax charges which they are unable to pay, having no income. It is true that in many instances, if not in most, these landlords would prefer to have their properties occupied even without rent than to have them unoccupied, and it has been the view of the Relief Administration and of the Poor and Alms Departments in many municipalities that because of this fact there was no inequity in not paying rents; that is, the position of the landlords was no worse than would be the case if the municipalities and the State made no provision whatever for emergency relief.

As the time has gone on, however, this position has become increasingly less tenable. It has been necessary, both for the Relief Administration and for the municipalities, to pay rents in an increasing degree in order to avoid eviction or to avoid the costs involved in moving destitute families, and the present practice has, therefore, become increasingly discriminatory as between landlords. In the interests of economy and having in mind some other aspects of the problem, I had hoped that a systematic treatment of the rent problem could be deferred until next Fall, but experiences of recent weeks have made it evident that to do so not only is operating to a substantially unfair disadvantage to landlords who are carrying destitute families, but that it is also operating very adversely to the collection of local taxes by reason of the financial condition of landlords themselves; and that it is likely to endanger public peace and order.

The Relief Administration has firmly declined all suggestions for the common housing of destitute citizens, except for single persons. The policy has been so far as possible to avoid, for many reasons, the concentration which common housing involves. These objections very greatly increase when applied to the common housing of substantial numbers of families. The difficulties and dangers of such a practice are obvious, in addition to which it may be noted that to make provision for the common housing of any substantial number of families would involve expenses which would still leave idle the properties vacated.

The position of public authority as respects the payment of rent is a delicate one. It is manifestly the fact that in many cases, if not in all, to some degree real estate is purchased not only for investment but also with a view to profit from unearned increment in value. It may, therefore, be advanced that the owners of these properties are not unjustly treated if they are required to accept the consequences of an unearned decrement in value, which the inability of tenants to pay rent at least temporarily involves. The fact remains, however, that in general effect the present practice of the State and of the municipalities is by indirect methods to require the use of private property for the housing of public charges without compensation at the same time that public authority is imposing substantial charges in the form of taxes against the property so used.

After considerable investigation and study, I have been prepared to recommend that rentals be paid for persons on poor relief lists (whose status is in general under constant check by the relief officials) in amounts that compensate the landlord for taxes on the property, for water rents and for a slight return on the property, disregarding depreciation, maintenance and insurance; this slight return to be figured as 6% on one-half of the assessed valuation. Such a formula clearly avoids any possibility of profit to landlords yet is sufficient to cover the unavoidable out-of-pocket expenses to which the ownership of these properties subjects them. Considering the conditions and the alternatives which are in most cases that the properties be vacant, under which conditions they are rapidly destroyed, such a treatment of the matter would, we believe, be acceptable as the best that all the circumstances of a bad situation would permit. This would involve payments of rent for destitute families during the period of destitution of from $10.00 to $12.00 each with a maximum of $15.00.

Such a rule, or one equivalent to it, is now being used locally in a number of instances but usually only after eviction notices have been served, due to the unwillingness of relief officials to take the responsibility of dealing with this situation on a comprehensive basis. I have declined to adopt or to authorize such a formula as a general rule of the Relief Administration, because to do so would have forced the position of the municipalities, because of its cost, which I estimate will run to about $1,000,000.00 a month in addition to the present relief costs, and because I think the principle of relationships between the Relief Administration and landlords housing destitute persons is one that should be defined by legislative authority. Rather than leave the statement of this problem to my successor, who would presumably require some time to come to a conclusion on so perplexing a matter, it has seemed to me advisable to bring this matter to your attention at this time and to recommend legislation authorizing the adoption by the relief authority of a formula similar to that stated above.

It is necessary to call your attention to the fact that present funds appropriated by the State to the Relief Administration are estimated to last until approximately the end of the year, provided the Relief Administration is not charged with Old Age Pension and Board of Children's Guardians cases; that they will last until August or the first of September if these additional classes of cases are made charges against relief funds, and that if the rent situation is dealt with along the lines of this recommendation, the funds as yet appropriated will not be sufficient to last beyond July.

All estimates of the magnitude of the relief load and its cost involves a great deal of speculation. The number of persons now being cared for in New Jersey at public expense through the Relief Administration and its associated municipalities is about 450,000 and it is expected to reach about 500,000 in March or April, which we believe and hope will be its maximum. These recommendations imply a cost to the State of about thirty million dollars per annum, but they involve a gross relief of local budgets and local taxpayers of between ten and fifteen million dollars, as nearly as I can determine, and to that extent would be a method of giving financial relief to the municipalities, it being understood that rents paid must be applied against local taxes as a matter of course.

III. The policy of the Legislature, as indicated in Chapter 394, P. L. 1931, and as advocated by myself and most others, was originally that of extending relief primarily through the form of wages paid for made public work. For reasons which have already been presented to the Governor and the Legislature in the Interim Report of the Administration, dated January, 1932, and in the First Annual Report, this policy was abandoned in June, 1932, having previously been abandoned by many municipalities and counties. The principal objections to the practice were that it involved unwarranted cash expense, invited political discrimination in giving relief, led to unjustified municipal extravagance and led to a pernicious although subtle form of a dole. It was my desire in abandoning this method of relief, however, to avoid so far as possible the loss of initiative and the deterioration of self-respect involved in the constant receipt of relief without any corresponding effort on the part of the recipient. For this reason it has been the effort of the Administration, so far as feasible, to have the heads of families receiving relief contribute to the community some compensating useful labor, a plan which had already been successfully adopted in a number of municipalities. The very essence of this plan was and is that the recipient of relief is voluntarily making counter-contribution to the community and it is the very opposite of the principle of this plan that the recipient of relief is being paid for labor by means of food tickets and other forms of support. In fact, one of the strongest reasons for the adoption of this plan as against the wage work relief plan was my unwillingness to be a party to the fixing of wages at the low level which the financial position of the State and the municipalities would have necessitated.

It is not easy in many communities and under many conditions to find work which the recipients of relief can do that does not involve substantial expenses for materials and for supervision, and the necessities of economy have of course eliminated such classes of work. Under the present policy and the efforts of the Administration's officials and those of the municipalities, approximately half of the heads of families receiving relief at the present time are working for relief given. In some cases, due to zeal and misunderstanding, I have no doubt that this labor has been required as a condition for the receipt of relief, but in general it is true that the voluntary character of the labor is understood and there is no question that the great majority of those who do work for relief are glad to do it and are glad of the opportunity to be removed from the classification of those who merely receive alms. There is also no question that the labor performed through this reciprocal effort on the part of recipients of relief has a very substantial value to the communities and that it also reduces the cost of relief where the labor is applied to the repair of clothing, the securing of fuel, etc.

The most serious problem in connection with this matter has been uncertainty as to the status of the men, voluntarily working for relief, under the Workmen's Compensation Statutes. In the case of work carried out in the municipalities, on county park properties, etc., this uncertainty has led to the purchase of compensation insurance, frequently at high cost. Where the work was done or supervised directly by the Relief Administration, no compensation insurance has been taken out.

Much useful work that might be done to the advantage of the State, the counties or the municipalities and to the advantage of persons receiving relief has not developed due to difficulties in this matter. It has been my view that persons working for relief were certainly not employed within the meaning of the Employers' Liability Statutes and that the treatment of persons working for relief as employees was entirely contrary to the policy and the practice of the Administration. On the other hand, it is recognized that a person injured while working for relief should be equitably treated. It should be pointed out that men working for relief rarely work more than one day in a week and that to apply the Workmen's Compensation Statutes required evaluating relief given in dollars and treating it as a wage and that the compensation must be based upon a weekly rate of pay. In addition to the inappropriateness of treating men working for relief as employees receiving wages, there is also the temptation on the part of a certain proportion of these men deliberately to injure themselves in order to obtain compensation in cash substantially greater than the value of relief, which is usually not given in cash. Moreover, I am authoritatively informed that the handling of this matter through the Workmen's Compensation tribunals involves a considerable amount of effort to secure awards not justified and also involves the employment of counsel and experts, all of which has a very unsavory aspect as applied to persons so situated that they are compelled to depend upon the public treasury for support.

The solution of this situation involves two subjects:

1. The removal of the doubt as to the status of persons working for relief by an enactment which clearly takes such persons out of the operation of the Workmen's Compensation Acts and;

2. The granting, by law, of authority to the State Director of Emergency Relief to make equitable money allowances to persons injured while performing labor as a reciprocal contribution on their part for public relief under the direction either of the Emergency Relief Administration or of the municipalities; and permitting the State Director of Emergency Relief to make, where advisable, payments in trust where permanent injuries or death are involved.

Such legislation would clarify the situation, make it possible to extend the opportunities of recipients of relief to contribute reciprocal effort; would make it possible for the State to be its own insurer of equitable risks, and would give the persons involved in work for relief equitable treatment without necessitating the formal processes with their attendant expenses which the compensation court practice would involve for these cases. It should be urged upon your attention that the plan of work for relief involves no private profit and actually results in a reduction in the cost of relief, which is important. I very much fear that the present unsatisfactory status of this matter may result in the discontinuance of this plan and the loss of its use to the State and to the municipalities as well as to the recipients of relief, and that public relief will thereby assume to a much greater extent, than is desirable or necessary, the character of a dole in kind.

The above are the important questions of emergency relief which seem to me to require legislative consideration, excluding the question of the method of financing, which is not strictly speaking a problem of the Relief Administration.

I hope that the services I have contributed will not make it presumptuous of me as a citizen, however, to reiterate the views which I have held from the beginning and expressed, as well as I was able, to the legislative leaders, that the financing of emergency relief by incurring debt continues to seem to me utterly unsound, especially as applied to the municipalities. As I have stated this view publicly before, there is no need to repeat the arguments, many of which were made by the opponents of the Emergency Relief Bond Act voted by the people at the last general election. I urged at the beginning, as I urge, that emergency relief be treated as an undertaking involving current expenditures for a current operation; that it be organized and operated as if the emergency would continue indefinitely, and that it be financed from that point of view. I should like to add that the intimate contact and study which I have had with the conditions of poverty during the last eighteen months and my consideration of the conditions of municipal finance and operation justify a repetition of the statement that public debt is a crushing burden in the last analysis falling chiefly upon the poor though it is so indirect that they rarely recognize it.

May I in conclusion express my most sincere appreciation of the confidence given to me by the Governor and by the Legislatures of 1931, 1932 and 1933 in giving me the opportunity to serve the State in this capacity; in granting me the very extraordinary authorities and control of the funds to carry out the work, and may I also express my very sincere appreciation of the support and the courtesy afforded to me by Governor Moore and by the members of these Legislatures individually. Such warm support and such sympathetic help makes me regret all the more keenly my inability to report the task finished and that I cannot advise you that the problem of relief need no longer be added to the other business of government.

Respectfully submitted,

State Director of Emergency Relief.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

March 13, 1933.

To the Legislature:

From an historical point of view, a very important occurrence has taken place in our State during the past few weeks. I consider this occurrence so important and so far-reaching in the development of those patriotic sentiments so essential to the strengthening and safeguarding of our American institutions, that I am bringing it to your especial attention.

The 72nd Congress of the United States which adjourned on March 4th passed an act creating the Morristown National Historical Park, which act was signed by the President on March 3d and thus became a Federal law.

It is the purpose of this act of Congress to establish in the Morristown area a great national shrine, which includes in its present scope the Washington Headquarters, now owned and maintained by the Washington Association; Fort Nonsense Park, owned by the Town of Morristown, and which includes the earthworks built by the Continental Soldiers during the occupation of Morristown by the Continental Army; and about one thousand acres of land in Jockey Hollow, on which twelve brigades of the Continental Army were cantoned during the winter of 1779 and 1780, and which were again occupied during the winter of 1780 and 1781 by the Pennsylvania Brigades; together with other historical houses and sites which may from time to time be added to the National Park.

The creation of this national park at Morristown will bring to the State of New Jersey one of the greatest national parks and patriotic shrines to be found anywhere in America. The plans call for the development, eventually, of a museum which will undoubtedly contain more relics and belongings of General Washington and his time than any other museum in the country, not even excepting Mount Vernon.

During the eight years duration of the Revolutionary War, General Washington spent, in the aggregate, more than one year in Morristown. Because of Morristown's intimate association with General Washington and the Continental Army throughout the period of the Revolutionary War, and for the further reason that the Ford House, occupied by Washington, and the Jockey Hollow Camp Grounds, occupied by the Army, continue in the same state as during the encampment, the National Park service plans great things for this area. The Service appreciates its possibilities as a National Park, and is whole-hearted in its determination to develop and maintain it as an outstanding national historical park, associated with Washington and the Revolution.

In order to make the Federal law effective it will be necessary for the Washington Association of New Jersey to have the power to cede to the United States the house and grounds occupied by General Washington, known as Washington's Headquarters, and the personal effects and relics therein contained. In the incorporation of this Association in 1874 by private act it was provided that when a stockholder of the Association died, in default of male descendant accepting the stock and becoming a member the stock was forfeited to the State. By this means the State is now the owner of a considerable number of these shares. Likewise, the act provided that the State make semi-annual payments of $1,250 to the Association toward the upkeep of the headquarters, which sum was, by legislative enactment, raised to $2500. The State, therefore, has an interest in the properties of the Association.

It is proposed to cede the State's interest in the headquarters, the grounds and personal property, to the United States, and the State's interest in the Association and its endowment fund to the Washington Association, which will continue to function in an advisory capacity as a patriotic organization. The State, on the other hand, ceases further payments for the upkeep.

Likewise, it will be necessary for the Town of Morristown to be authorized to dedicate its land embraced within the area of the National Park.

In order that the State of New Jersey may do its proper share in the creation of this National Park at Morristown,

I am transmitting to you through Senator Young, two enabling acts, which I recommend that you pass at an early date, so that this great patriotic enterprise may be brought to an early culmination. These bills are two in number; one is an enabling act in the interest of the Town of Morristown and the other an act surrendering the State's interest in the Washington Association of New Jersey, giving its trustees the power to cede its real estate and personal property to the United States, and donating to the United States Government any equities therein held by the State of New Jersey. This act also cancels all further annual payments for the upkeep of the headquarters. Because of the outstanding national importance of this subject from a patriotic point of view, I recommend your early favorable action thereon.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

A communication was received from His Excellency, the Governor, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

March 20, 1933.

To the Legislature:

In the interest of better and more economical administration of the important work of highway construction and maintenance in this State, I respectfully urge early and favorable action on Assembly Bill No. 362.

This bill is designed to abolish the present four-member commission of the State Highway Department and the substitution of a two-member commission therefor. By virtue of the authority which you accorded me under the provisions of Chapter 190 of the Session Laws of 1932, I have undertaken a policy of careful economy and reduced spending in all departments and agencies of the State government. The present State Highway Commission has failed to co-operate with me in this policy.

After a careful study of extensive data submitted by the Highway Department at my request in September last, I was forced to the conclusion that the department was neither properly organized nor well managed. There seemed to be no disposition on the part of the Highway Department to adjust the organization and working forces to the reduced volume of highway construction. At that time I was convinced that great savings could be effected without loss in efficiency or service.

The Princeton Survey, entirely independent of my own investigations, supported my conclusions that there was poor organization, inadequate administrative procedure, lack of careful spending and extensive over-manning. The Princeton Survey recommended radical changes in policy, the reduction of the number of employees and payroll costs and the elimination of the commission itself.

Six months have passed since I gave definite instructions to the Highway Department to reduce expenditures. These instructions have been carried out in a very limited and half-hearted way. They are entirely inadequate. Notwithstanding the very small volume of construction that has been carried on in recent months, the lay-offs of employees do not exceed, in my judgment, normal winter lay-offs. Nearly all of the savings that are shown in payrolls have been made at the expense of the low-paid employees by way of lay-offs or reduced hours of work. The high-priced employees have remained unscathed.

I take no satisfaction in the removal of public officials and would hesitate to recommend it in the present instance were I not firmly convinced that this action is in the public interest. The present situation requires a policy of retrenchment and careful spending in our Highway Department. I am satisfied that this cannot be brought about unless the department is reorganized and new directing heads are placed in control.

The present State Highway Commission has had ample time to set its department in order and to institute the procedure which I have directed. Any further delay in changing the highway policy of this State is without justification and unfair to the heavily burdened taxpayer.

I solicit your prompt and favorable action upon this pending legislation. By that support you will, in my opinion, have performed an important public duty and will make possible extensive economies and improvements in the Highway Department of the State. Without such action on your part I shall be compelled to reorganize the department on the present four-man basis. I strongly urge the two-man commission.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

TOM MUIR, BLIND DEAN OF THE ASSEMBLY, PUT ON LIQUOR BOARD FOR HIS VISION

HIS ELEVEN TERMS A RECORD, HE'S ONE OF THE STATE'S MOST BRILLIANT SOLONS

By Emmet Crozier

The lower house of the Legislature was droning through one of its long night sessions in the Assembly chamber of the old State House at Trenton. The hands of the clock behind the Speaker's dais warned of approaching midnight. Legislators thumbed through papers on their desks or sprawled back in their chairs, listening wearily to the dull bickering of parliamentary debate.

One of the rural Assemblymen left his desk in the back row at the left side of the chamber and wandered down the side aisle toward the dais. Leaning against the brass railing which divides the press gallery from the Assembly floor, he raised his voice in querulous opposition to the bill under discussion.

Suddenly a sharp voice cut into the debate.

"Mr. Speaker!"

Tom Muir, the old War Horse from Union County, was on his feet:

"The gentleman from Monmouth is out of order! He is not speaking from his desk!"

A breeze of laughter swept through the Assembly chamber. Tom Muir, blind, had caught a violation of the Assembly rules which all the other legislators, with good eyesight, had overlooked.

Tom Muir, blind, knows more about New Jersey's lawmaking machinery than many of the legislators who can see every move, every gesture in the Assembly chamber.

Behind the blue glasses that screen his sightless eyes is an alert mind that follows every important bill on the legislative docket and every debate on the Assembly floor.

I asked Muir recently how he happened to catch that rural Assemblyman in a violation of the House rules. Had his secretary, Arthur Robinson, told him the gentleman from Monmouth had strayed away from his desk?

Muir laughed.

"I don't need a secretary," he said, "to tell me a simple thing like that. I know every man on the floor of the House by the sound of his voice. I know—from the seating diagram—where every man is supposed to sit. If his voice doesn't come from his desk—he's out of order."

Simple enough, once Muir had explained it. But there are other things that go on in the State Legislature at Trenton which are not so simple. I wanted to know how Muir could thread his way through the maze of legislative detail, the confused sessions in the Assembly chamber, conferences in committee rooms, party caucuses. I wanted to know how he could deal with lobbyists, analyze men and their motives, and discharge all his obligations to his constituents, in spite of his handicap.

Here again, Muir's logical mind gave me a clear-cut explanation.

"It all goes back," he said, "to my newspaper training. For twelve years, before I lost my sight, I was an active newspaper man in Plainfield, Newark and New York. In those twelve years I got my background, my education in the fundamentals of life.

"A newspaperman comes in contact with politics, the law, business and society. He learns, if he is any good, to read between the lines, to judge the motives of men, to read character, and look beneath the surface for the deep significance of events.

"I had twelve years of this kind of training, and nothing can take it away from me. Today, when any problem comes up which calls for study and reasoned analysis, I draw upon that store of early experience."

The son of a hardy machinist of Scottish ancestry, Tom Muir learned early in life to work and struggle. There were ten children in the family, six boys and four girls. As a youngster, Muir sold newspapers on the streets of Plainfield to earn his own way through high school.

At 20 he took his first regular newspaper job on the old Plainfield Press, beginning first as a cub reporter, and working his way up through the ranks until he became one of the leading newspaper men of northern New Jersey.

Both as Plainfield correspondent and staff writer, his work was recognized in New York and Newark. He served on several newspapers, including the old New York Herald, and was on his way to a brilliant journalistic career when, in his early thirties, his sight began to fail.

The doctors said the trouble was due to a fall in his youth, in which a sharp blow on the back of his head caused cataracts to form.

For a time they held out hope that his eyes might be saved, and at least partial sight restored.

Three years Tom Muir sat in doctors' waiting rooms, endured the pain and uncertainty of numerous operations, and fumbled through a twilight world of gray shadows. They were years of alternate hope and despair. Muir looks back on them now as the darkest period of his life.

"I couldn't work," he told me, "and I wouldn't give up. I spent all my savings on doctors and hospitals, and in the end I had to face the fact that my sight would never be restored."

Once this was definitely established, Muir grimly set about the task of readjustment. Another man might have sought shelter in an institution. A weaker character might have drifted with the tide of adversity, preyed on human sympathy, and wound up selling shoestrings, tapping through crowded thoroughfares with a sign around his neck: "I am blind."

But Tom Muir was not made of that kind of stuff. Life had always been a struggle, and Tom had always been a fighter. Now, sightless, his handicap was just another challenge. He rolled up his sleeves, took a hitch in his belt and faced a world of sounds . . and darkness.

The first step on the road back was a newspaper job in Plainfield at $10 a week. For that salary he worked the telephone switchboard, took notes from country correspondents, and pecked with painful slowness at a typewriter keyboard.

His cheerful voice over the telephone reached out through Union County, across northern New Jersey, gathering news and making friends. Within a short time he was back in the forefront of the journalistic field, taking an active part in fraternal, social and civic affairs.

In 1922 Muir's name was mentioned as a candidate for the Assembly. He was a wet; he was strongly opposed to the prohibition law and all that went with it. In those days the Republican party in New Jersey was overwhelmingly dry, and Muir's candidacy looked pretty hopeless. However, he was backed by Federal Judge Runyon, a dry, who recognized other qualities in Muir beyond his stand on the prohibition issue.

Muir was elected to the Legislature that year—and every year since that time. Today, with eleven years' continuous service behind him, he is the Assembly veteran at Trenton, the only man in New Jersey's history to serve eleven consecutive terms in the Legislature!

While he devotes most of his time to the service of the State, Muir has other activities, too. He has a real estate and insurance business in Plainfield, and he is the Motor Vehicle Commissioner for Union County. Until a few years ago he kept up his newspaper work by serving as Associated Press correspondent for that section of New Jersey.

Muir has two secretaries, Arthur S. Robinson, his guide who accompanies him to Trenton, and Miss Grace Ciampa, the general office secretary at Plainfield. It is Miss Ciampa, he told me, who serves as his "second pair of eyes."

She goes over all the New Jersey newspapers, scanning the columns for editorials and news stories which might interest the veteran legislator. These she clips out and reads to him. She scrutinizes all the bills introduced at Trenton, segregating those which affect Union County, as well as important measures affecting the State as a whole.

For an hour or two each day Miss Ciampa's keen eyes and musical voice transmit to Muir the important events in the day's news, and the vital legislation pending at Trenton. As a result of this intensive, systematic study, he is one of the best informed men in the legislature.

Muir has taken a leading part in the passage of bills relating to social and welfare work. Co-operating with Joseph G. Buch, chairman of the State Crippled Children's Commission, he put through a series of bills providing for the care, education and rehabilitation of all crippled children in the State, from birth to 18 years of age. There are 13,000 of these unfortunates, now being sheltered and prepared for active, useful life as a result of Muir's work.

He is active on half a dozen important committees at Trenton, and a member of the State Prison Commission as well.

A week ago Muir was named to the important New Jersey State Liquor Law Commission by Speaker Otto of the Assembly. On this body he will have a leading part in shaping the regulations for the immediate sale of beer and light wines, as well as formulating a program for the return of the liquor traffic, when and if the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed.

Though blind, his broad vision in legislative matters was one of the prime factors which led to this important appointment.

Although he has made hundreds of political speeches, Muir has never prepared an address in his life. At various times he has appeared on the same platform with such national figures as the late Dwight Morrow, Nicholas Longworth and former Governor Walter Edge.

He has never seen one of his audiences, but he knows the massed crowds of listeners far better than many men who can look into their faces.

"No two audiences are alike," he told me. "Sitting on the platform while other speakers talk, I can tell by their silence, their laughter, and their reactions, what they are thinking. Some are quick and responsive, others stolid and defiant. Some will respond to logic and reasoning, others to a funny story."

Whatever their mood, Tom Muir is ready for them. He has a vibrant, resonant voice, a background of philosophy and a ready wit.

Not long ago a writer summarizing Muir's career in the New Jersey Legislature referred to him as "the wettest and wittiest member of the Legislature."

One more word might be added to that crisp definition of the man.

"Tom Muir, wettest, wittiest and wisest of New Jersey lawmakers."

Mr. Pascoe offered the following resolution, which was read by the Clerk and adopted:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

April 10, 1933.

To the House of Assembly:

I return herewith Assembly Bill No. 376, without my approval.

This is a bold and unjustified attempt to create a commission for the purpose of effectuating a gerrymander in the city of Elizabeth. This is sought to be accomplished by striking out of the present law the control of the governing body over the action of the Mayor in appointing a districting commission.

There seems to be no popular demand for the measure, hence it is vetoed.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

The Governor's message was then taken up.

Mr. Altman moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the minutes, and that the bill lie over.

A message was received from His Excellency the Governor, and read by the Clerk, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

April 10, 1933.

To the House of Assembly:

I return herewith Assembly Bill No. 251, without my approval.

This is another amendment to the so-called Superintendent of Elections Act.

In my opinion the amendments simply bring about duplication of power, an additional expense upon the taxpayer, and place more hardships upon the ordinary citizen in trying to cast his ballot. By its terms it permits the Superintendent of Elections at municipal elections to place unlimited deputies on his payroll, for which the municipality must pay, and it gives the Superintendent of Elections, among other things, the power to seize ballot boxes at any time after the ballots have been counted.

It appears to me that this is usurping a function of the Board of Elections, and will, in my opinion, result in nothing but a contest between these two bodies as to which shall have the duty of protecting the ballot box.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

The Governor's message was then taken up.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

April 10, 1933.

To the House of Assembly:

I return herewith Assembly Bill No. 229, without my approval.

This is another unwarranted and unreasonable interference with the freedom of citizens in exercising the right of suffrage. There is no need for imposing any further restriction upon the registration of persons entitled to vote.

No demand for this measure exists, and in my judgment it is simply another illustration of the constant extension of power sought by Commissioners of Elections.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

April 11, 1933.

Mr. Speaker:

I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Assembly that the Senate has passed the following concurrent resolution:

WHEREAS, It has come to the knowledge of the members of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey that through the intelligent, efficient and untiring research work of Dr. Henry A. Cotton during the thirteen years that he was the Medical Director of the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton, the State of New Jersey was saved the expenditure of millions of dollars because of the large number of cures effected through the methods used by Dr. Cotton; and

WHEREAS, It appears that during the incumbency of the said Dr. Henry A. Cotton as said Medical Director the increase in the population of the institution was but six and six-tenths per centum of the population, while since his detachment from the institution the increase has been twenty-two per centum, an increase of over three hundred per centum, due to the fact that less inmates are now being discharged as cured than was the fact during the incumbency of Dr. Cotton and

WHEREAS, Under such circumstances it would seem to be to the great beneficial interest of the State and its wards that the ability and initiative of Dr. Cotton be utilized; now, therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate of the State of New Jersey (the House of Assembly concurring):

1. That the Department of Institutions and Agencies be and hereby is requested to make further use of the services of Dr. Henry A. Cotton, because of his great ability and because the curing of the mentally sick is of great humane and economic value to the State and that the ability of such a man as Dr. Henry A. A message was received from His Excellence the Governor, and read by the Clerk, as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

April 24, 1933.

To the Legislature:

There is need for immediate action on the part of the State to cope with the emergency in the production and distribution of milk. The price of milk has fallen considerably below the cost of production and there is serious danger of the destruction of the industry in this State. In view of the fact that the sum of $75,000,000 is invested in the industry in New Jersey, and the value of the annual output in normal times approximates $22,000,000 to producers, there is contained in the present situation a threat to an important economic interest of our people. Furthermore, such declines in prices as have occurred to milk producers jeopardize the sanitary standards of milk and dairy products, not only as produced in this State, but as produced in surrounding States and shipped into New Jersey for consumption. Consumers, as well as producers, are directly affected.

New Jersey has assumed a position of leadership in establishing regulations governing the quality of the milk consumed by our citizens, but unless some effective and immediate action is taken to meet the present situation, all the advances that we have made may be cancelled and an industry to which the State is well adapted threatened with extinction. You are familiar, no doubt, with the fact that the demoralization of prices has caused strikes and disorders in surrounding States, accompanied by loss of property and injury to many persons.

The fact that New York State has, within the last few days, established a milk control board to supervise and regulate the entire milk industry of that State makes it imperative that New Jersey take similar action as a means of self-protection. The control now being exercised by the State of New York may add to the demoralization in this State if we do not organize at once to prevent being flooded with surpluses not needed in either State.

Milk under present conditions is a necessary article of human food for which there is no adequate substitute, and procurement and maintenance of an adequate supply of milk of proper chemical and physical content and free from contamination is vital to the public health. Sanitary regulations adopted by health authorities, however effectively enforced, cannot alone cope with the present situation so as to safeguard the consuming public and the persons engaged in the milk industry in its various branches against evils which threaten the economic integrity of the industry and tend to undermine health regulations. The evils consist of unfair, unjust, destructive and demoralizing trade practices which have been, and are now, being carried on in the production, sale and distribution of milk, constituting a menace to the health and welfare of the inhabitants of this State.

I therefore urge upon you the necessity for passing without delay adequate emergency legislation to provide for the setting up of a milk control board with broad powers to supervise and regulate the entire milk industry of New Jersey, including the production, transportation, distribution and sale of milk and milk products. It is my firm belief that such action will serve the general public interest.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Altman moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY THE GOVERNING BODIES OF THE BOROUGHS AND TOWNSHIPS OF PASSAIC COUNTY IN JOINT ASSEMBLY ON APRIL 21, 1933

The governing bodies of the boroughs and townships of Passaic county, assembled in joint meeting for the purpose of considering the question of proposed legislation pertaining to the sale of alcoholic beverages permitted by law, being firmly convinced that the sale of such beverages should be regulated and controlled by each municipality without restriction by the State, do hereby resolve:

The right of home rule is a sacred right of each municipality. That right should not be violated by the State. Each municipality should possess the right, which is inherent, of issuing licenses to applicants who reside in their respective municipalities.

The governing bodies of the boroughs and townships of Passaic county are opposed to the creation of county boards to administer the task of issuing licenses for the sale of alcoholic beverages.

A county board or other body foreign to the municipality should not have the power to issue licenses to applicants residing in boroughs and townships of Passaic county.

The governing bodies of the boroughs and townships of Passaic county are by reason of proximity to the contemplated places of business and acquaintance of the proprietors there, better able to determine the suitabiliy of the location and the reputation of the applicant.

If the power to issue licenses is vested in a county board or other bodies foreign to the municipality, the will of the majority of the citizens thereof will not be recognized as readily by such board as would be the case if the governing body of the municipality which is immediately accountable to its inhabitants for its actions, were responsible for the issuance of such permits.

The revenue derived from the issuance of such licenses is properly that of the municipality, as it must police, inspect and supervise such place of business.

(Signed) ANDREW VANRIPER,

Chairman of the Joint Meeting of the Governing Bodies of the Boroughs and Townships of Passaic County.

A message was received from His Excellency the Governor and read by the Clerk as follows:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

May 1, 1933.

To the House of Assembly:

I return, without my approval, Assembly Bill 54.

This measure was passed in substitution of Assembly Bill 319, which was filed in the State Library.

While certain of the objections which I made to Assembly 319 have been met by the present measure, the latter, nevertheless, still possesses what I think is the fundamental vice, viz., discrimination as between citizens of the various sections of the State.

In its limitation upon the right of transfer upon Election Day this bill is confined to counties of the first class.

I am opposed to restrictions upon the right of suffrage, and certainly no such restriction, operative in portions of the State only, can be justified. No reason exists, in my judgment, for permitting one living in Bergen County to obtain a transfer upon Election Day, and refusing the same privilege to one living in Hudson County; hence this veto.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.
Secretary to the Governor.

To the Governor and Members of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, State House, Trenton, N. J.

It is reported that bills are in course of preparation for the establishment of new taxes on incomes, sales, intangible property and estates in the State of New Jersey, preparatory to introduction thereof in the Legislature during the coming week.

The citizens of the State represented by the undersigned organizations are opposed to any additional or new taxes.

They are convinced that a substantial permanent reduction in the tax burden can be secured in both budgeted and unbudgeted expenditures by the establishment of certain recognized measures of economy and fiscal control.

The undersigned organizations request that no action be taken by either branch of the Legislature upon any such additional or new taxes without a public hearing and we insist that if such bills are introduced and action thereon contemplated we be given an opportunity to be heard with adequate advance notice.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
SENATE CHAMBER,
August 30, 1933.

Mr. Speaker:

I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Assembly that the Senate has passed the following concurrent resolution:

WHEREAS, The President of the Senate in a public statement issued on Tuesday, August twenty-second, nineteen hundred and thirty-three, did, among other things, charge:

"There are other forces at work to defeat a permanent bill that are quite as sinister as any that the racketeer perpetrated during the period of prohibition. There are brewery interests in New Jersey, who, for business reasons, wish to see the control of the beer business remain in the State Tax Department. They do not want State control by a State Commission.

"After your last meeting and before the recess of the Legislature representatives of these interests met certain prominent politicians in a hotel room in Trenton. One of these politicians, a man whose name is frequently in the public print and whom I regret to say is a member of my own party, was entrusted with a large sum of money with which to defeat the permanent act if it were presented to the Legislature.

"I am now disclosing this situation so that both you and the public will know why the permanent beer bill was blocked"; and

WHEREAS, The charge so made is of grave concern to the members of the Senate and House of Assembly; and

WHEREAS, It is fitting and appropriate that an investigation should be undertaken to ascertain the truth of the charge; therefore,

Be It Resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring):

1. That the Senate Committee on Judiciary and the House Committee on Judiciary shall constitute a joint committee, and are hereby directed to enter upon an investigation or inquiry of the truth of the charge.

2. That the said Joint Committee shall sit forthwith, and shall have power to compel the attendance before them of such person or persons as they may deem necessary and proper to testify in the matter under investigation, and shall be authorized to issue subpœnas, signed by any member of the committee, to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of books, papers and records.

3. The committee shall embody its findings in a recommendation, or recommendations, to the Legislature, and shall, if deemed necessary, present appropriate legislation in connection therewith, and to take such other steps as may be necessary to effectuate this resolution.

4. In addition to the powers in this resolution granted the committee shall likewise have all such powers of investigation as determined by the provisions of an act entitled "An act to define the powers of legislative committees of investigation," approved March eleventh, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

NEW JERSEY SENATE

Oliver F. VanCamp,
Secretary of Senate,
Point Pleasant, N. J.

October 6, 1933.

Honorable Robert W. Purdy, Clerk of the House of Assembly, State House.

DEAR MR. PURDY: Enclosed herewith please find report of the Joint Committee created by Concurrent Resolution of August 30, 1933, to investigate certain charges made by the President of the Senate.

Very truly yours,

CLIFFORD R. POWELL,
Chairman.

CRP:B

Mr. Altman moved that the communication and report be received and spread in full upon the Minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

REPORT

To the Legislature of the State of New Jersey:

This Joint Committee was created by concurrent resolution of August 30, 1933, which constituted the respective Senate and House Committees on Judiciary a Joint Committee to investigate the truth of the charge, hereinafter mentioned, made by the President of the Senate.

We organized by electing Senator Clifford R. Powell, Chairman; Assemblyman Joseph Altman, Secretary; and Assemblyman John J. Rafferty, Assistant Secretary. We have been attended by D. Frederick Burnett as counsel.

We have held three public hearings, examined sixteen witnesses and taken voluminous testimony. We have heard the President of the Senate and all the witnesses who were named by him as the persons on whose statements he relied in making his charge.

THE CHARGE

The President of the Senate, in a public statement made before the State Beverage Control Commission on August 22, 1933, charged:

> "There are other forces at work to defeat a permanent bill that are quite as sinister as any that the racketeer perpetrated during the period of prohibition. There are brewery interests in New Jersey, who, for business reasons wish to see the control of the beer business remain in the State Tax Department. They do not want State control by a State Commission.
>
> "After your last meeting and before the recess of the Legislature representatives of these interests met certain prominent politicians in a hotel room in Trenton. One of these politicians, a man whose name is frequently in the public print and whom I regret to say is a member of my own party, was entrusted with a large sum of money with which to defeat the permanent act if it were presented to the Legislature."

Subsequently, on August 29, 1933, the President of the Senate amplified the above charge by stating on the floor of the Senate, among other things:

"The facts are these: There was a meeting of some of the Republican County Chairmen in Trenton. Mr. Jesse R. Salmon and Mr. David Baird attended that meeting. They met privately in a hotel room at which meeting was present a representative of the Krueger Brewing Company.

"There was present also Assemblyman Stanley Bleakly, a member of the Beer Commission.

"At this meeting the Krueger representative explained that for business reasons they did not desire a permanent bill. They were satisfied to have the beer control in the hands of Mr. Grimm of Essex County; that they knew where they stood; that they did not want to be interfered with in certain plans they had for pushing their bottled product by a commission; that they were willing to spend money to bring about the defeat of the permanent bill.

"I wish to say here and now that so far as Mr. Baird is concerned he was not interested in the money side of this project, took no part in it and received none of it.

"The money, said to be $25,000, was turned over to Jesse R. Salmon, according to one of the eye witnesses, who has on a number of occasions repeated the story to various persons. This then is the basis for my charge."

FINDINGS OF FACT

We find the following to be the salient facts:

Thomas F. Bryce, Vice-President and General Manager of Krueger Brewing Company of Newark, and in charge of its public relations, in March of this year, upon learning of the Congressional amendment to the Federal Prohibition Law, commonly known as the Volstead Act, permitting, so far as the Federal Government was concerned, the sale and distribution of beer of higher alcoholic content than allowed by the Volstead Act, desired enabling legislation enacted in New Jersey to legalize the manufacture, distribution and sale of beer in this State with similarly increased alcoholic content. At that time Bryce conceived that the best business interests of his brewery would be promoted if the sale of beer should be prohibited over the bar and on Sundays, and that the beer industry, as thus limited, should be subject to a centralized State control and licensing power in respect to the manufacture and distribution of the beverage.

To accomplish those objectives, Bryce first sought the political intercession of Mr. Frank Hague of the Democratic Party. Mr. Hague did not actively interest himself but declared himself as favoring local referenda on Sunday sales and bars. Thereupon, Bryce arranged a private meeting on April 3, 1933, in his room in the Stacy Trent Hotel in Trenton, with Mr. Jesse R. Salmon, Mr. David Baird, and Assemblyman Bleakly, all of the Republican Party, and succeeded in interesting them in his project.

On April 5, 1933, legislation was enacted by our Legislature and approved by the Governor, entitled: "An act concerning the manufacture, distribution and sale of certain beverages having an alcoholic content and providing for licenses, regulations and fees in connection therewith and penalties for violations thereof." This act vested the licensing power over brewers in the State Tax Commissioner, and prohibited the sale of beer over bars and on Sundays.

Subsequently, and on several occasions, we find the fact to be, despite his sworn denials on the stand, that Assemblyman Bleakly did state to credible persons who testified before us on their respective oaths to the effect that Assemblyman Bleakly declared that he was present in a room in the Stacy-Trent Hotel with Mr. Baird, Mr. Salmon, and a representative of the Krueger Brewing Company; that $25,000 had been put up by the Brewing Company to influence legislation favorable to them; that when money was talked about, Mr. Baird immediately left and refused to have anything to do with it; that Mr. Salmon got the money.

On June 27, 1933, the above entitled act approved April 5, 1933, was amended by eliminating the provisions prohibiting the sale of beer over bars and wholly on Sunday. This amendment, while contrary to the desires of Mr. Bryce as embodied in the original act, was approved by him because of the sales resistance encountered by his brewery from the retailers or licensed beverage dealers generally throughout the State who were wholly against prohibiting the sale of beer over bars and in favor of Sunday selling after church hours and who openly charge Mr. Bryce, his company and his advisers as being responsible for the original restrictions deemed inimical to the interests of the retailers.

CONCLUSIONS

We conclude:

1. The President of the Senate in making his charge relied upon the statements ascribed to Assemblyman Bleakly by the several witnesses.

2. Reserving the mention of money, those statements by Assemblyman Bleakly, hereinbefore found by us to have been made by him, were true.

3. As regards the passing or promise of money, there is no proof before us except Assemblyman Bleakly's declarations. They are not entitled to credence in view of the fact that his sworn denials of having made such statements were wholly discredited by other witnesses. It is true that political influence was sought, but there is no proof that it was bought.

4. Mr. George W. Grimm, Jr., should be wholly exonerated.

RECOMMENDATIONS

We recommend that the Legislature give serious consideration to broadening the bribery laws to extend their application to persons not officially members of the Legislature and to proposed as well as pending legislation.

We have considered the advisability of legislation to register and regulate lobbyists, but have concluded not to advocate it. The experiment has not proved satisfactory in other States. It has succeeded merely in driving lobbyists from the open into more devious and sinister channels. We cannot recommend a law which we believe would prove inept and inert. There is no substitute for straight-forward, frank and honest interchange of opinion in the open. Citizens who desire to promote or advocate legislation should state their positions and their arguments openly and candidly to their duly accredited representatives in the Legislature. In cases where special Commissions have been appointed for the very purpose, such as the State Beverage Control Commission, full opportunity of such statement is afforded at public hearings. If this course had been pursued by Mr. Bryce, instead of resorting to conferences with persons who are neither Senators nor Assemblymen but who are commonly believed to have power to dictate legislation, this investigation would have been unnecessary.

We recommend that a copy of the testimony taken and this report be lodged permanently in the State Library.

Trenton, N. J., October 3, 1933.

A message was received from the Senate by the hands of its Secretary as follows, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
SENATE CHAMBER,
October 9, 1933.

Mr. Speaker:

I am directed by the Senate to inform the House of Assembly that the Senate has passed the following concurrent resolution:

Be It Resolved by the Senate (the House of Assembly concurring), That the vacancy which has happened in the Delaware River Joint Commission by the death of Killam E. Bennett be and the same hereby is filled by the appointment of Asa Matlack Stackhouse for the unexpired term of the said Killam E. Bennett.

In which the concurrence of the House of Assembly is requested.

O. F. VAN CAMP,
Secretary of the Senate.

The Senate message was then taken up, and

Mr. Altman moved that the House concur in the Senate concurrent resolution.

Which motion was adopted.

The Speaker declared the Senate concurrent resolution concurred in.

The following summary was submitted by Mr. Pascoe and he moved that same be spread in full upon the Minutes.

Which motion was adopted.

Sensing the importance of the present financial situation existing throughout the nation, the Legislature has devoted much of its time this year to enactment of emergency legislation in co-operation with the Federal Government.

The work of any deliberative body such as the State Legislature is never completed. However, the accomplishments of the present Legislature, in view of existing conditions, have been many. They cover a wide list of subjects, each of vital interest to the people of the State. They include:

1. Continuation of emergency relief to the people of the State without added taxation.

2. Relieving local governments of mandatory legislation. Real home rule. Allows municipalities and counties to run their own affairs without outside interference.

3. Convention to repeal the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

4. Temporary legislation regulating the sale of beer.

5. Protection of financial institutions of the State following the national moratorium. This included banks, savings institutions, insurance companies, building and loan and title and mortgage companies. This afforded added protection to policy holders, depositors and stockholders.

6. Reduction in cost of State government of some $6,500,000.00, or 26 per centum.

7. Several bills to aid taxpayers. These included advance payment of taxes with interest allowance. Installment payment of arrearages. Quarterly payment of taxes beginning next year, saving to the municipalities some $3,000,000.00 per annum in interest charges on tax anticipation notes.

8. Discontinuance of mill road tax on property for highway bonds. The monies for this purpose will be taken from gas tax, thus those who use the roads will pay for them and property will be relieved of this unfair taxation.

9. Minimum wages for women in industry—a most forward-looking act.

10. Board of Control for Milk and Cream. Great benefit to farmers.

11. Permit use of scrip by municipalities and counties in financial distress.

12. Permit municipalities and counties to borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

13. Local referendum on Sunday movies.

14. Increased assistance from State fund to counties and municipalities for road repairs and upkeep. This relieves the local budgets by taking monies from the gas tax. Again the users of the roads will pay for them and property taxes will be relieved proportionately.

15. Budgetary control of State highway expenditures. The cost of this department heretofore was without legislative or executive control. A Princeton survey recommendation.

16. Bipartisan common pleas judges. Keeping courts out of politics. A recommendation of the judicial council.

17. Special provisions to bring our building and loan associations, savings institutions and banks under the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of material benefit to distressed property holders.

18. Several emergency acts to have New Jersey support Federal legislation to defeat depression.

19. New Jersey State Act to conform to the National Recovery Act applies to intrastate business.

20. Reduction in salaries of State employees, saving $650,000 per year.

21. Emergency fund to pay teachers' salaries.

22. Fiscal legislation. Reorganizing the State government financial structure based on the recommendations of the Princeton Survey.

23. Created office of fiscal agent, with powers to affect further reductions in cost of State government as he may find possible.

24. Commission to study workmen's compensation.

25. Commission to study possibility of consolidation of governments.

26. Mortgage deficiency bill. Protects mortgagor against unfair practices at sheriff's foreclosure sales.

27. Defeated the effort to destroy civil service in the highway department.

The following message was received from the Acting Governor, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

October 9, 1933.

To the Legislature:

Supplementing my special message to you of September 28th, I wish to urge upon the members favorable action upon a resolution which empowers the Governor to appoint a Commission to investigate and report, not later than November 14th, in the form of bills or recommendations, proposals to create a central authority that can assist in defrosting frozen deposits in our closed and restricted State banks.

While I have already said to you that I believe that the Federal Government should assume this burden because it is morally and almost legally responsible for the conditions that now obtain, nevertheless we cannot afford to court disaster by further delay. It may be that no workable proposals will be forthcoming, but I believe that every effort should be put forth in the direction of finding relief for the depositors in our State institutions who had faith in the State of New Jersey and the institutions that it created.

I am advised by men of ability and understanding that something can be done, and it is my belief that a Commission, after hearing all the suggestions, will be able to formulate a plan that will protect and strengthen our State banks and result in the release of the hundreds of millions of dollars now taken out of our financial and economic structure.

Since last addressing you, I have been appealed to by men and women of very high standing in this State to actively consider legislation for the regulation of the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors, which are again about to become legal with the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. It now appears more than probable that the constitutional inhibition against the manufacture and sale of such beverages will have ceased to apply within the next sixty days.

It is therefore important that something adequate be done in the premises. These outstanding citizens of our State have suggested that a Commission be appointed by the Governor to study and report upon the subject, such Commission to be authorized at this special session. With this suggestion I am in hearty accord.

I therefore recommend that the Legislature authorize the creation of a Commission with ample authority to inquire into all phases of the subject and charged with the duty of bringing a concrete proposal before the Legislature when it meets on November 14th.

Respectfully submitted,

EMERSON L. RICHARDS,
Acting Governor.

Mr. Pascoe assumed the chair and addressed the House as follows:

In assuming this important office, I desire to make the following comments:

The Legislature has been criticised somewhat for their alleged failure to meet the situation now confronting the people of the State and nation. A review of the records, however, will disclose many important pieces of legislation which have been passed to meet the present emergency.

Our work is not yet completed. There is much more for us to do. I urge you to heed the demands of the public. Let the House of Assembly strive to close its deliberations for this session with the enactment, during the remaining two months, of such laws as are necessary to give the people proper relief.

Among such items I would include:

A definite reduction in cost of all government with a revision of the taxing methods whereby the cost of government will be spread over a wider base, to be borne by those who can best afford to pay it.

A fuller compliance with those major recommendations of the "Princeton Survey", which are found to be practicable.

Curtailment of municipal expenditures in keeping with their revenues. This may be done by a modification of the proposal to establish a maximum tax rate. Also by consolidations of municipal government.

A workable liquor control law—one free from political influence—one which will give to the people what they wish. Such a bill should include local option, raising of revenue for municipal use to offset the falling off in tax payments, abolish the saloon as we previously knew it, protection of the youth, and by all means the proper conduct of the business to avoid the mistakes of pre-prohibition days, which, if they are practiced today, will only tend toward a return of prohibition.

I do not believe we can spend our way out of the depression nor can we borrow ourselves out of debt. Public monies spent for capital improvements now will have to be repaid from taxes later on. Neither do I believe we can legislate ourselves out of the depression. We must instill in the hearts, the minds and the consciences of the people a stronger sense of faith, determination and courage. Faith in the future of New Jersey and the nation as a whole, determination to do our part now and the courage to see it through to a successful conclusion.

The Speaker filled the vacancies on the various committees as follows:

Economy and Reorganization, Mr. Rafferty and Mr. King.

Highways, Mr. Travaline.

Taxation, Mr. Kinzley, and Mr. Naughright to act as chairman.

Elections, Mr. Muir.

Conference, Mr. Ward.

The following was sent to the desk and read by the Clerk:

To the Members of the House of Assembly:

In view of my having been elected to the office of Surrogate of Union County at the recent election and it having been determined that this being a constitutional office it would be incompatible for me to continue as a member of the House of Assembly, I therefore, hereby tender my resignation as a member of the House of Assembly to take effect at once.

It is with regret that I thus sever my pleasant associations for the past seven years as a member of the House of Assembly. I particularly desire to express my deep appreciation of the many courtesies that have been extended to me by both the majority and minority parties of the present Assembly. These fond recollections will linger long in my memory and be cherished as the outstanding features of my public career.

ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE COMMISSION OF NEW JERSEY

November 22, 1933.

Honorable Herbert J. Pascoe,
Speaker of the House of Assembly of New Jersey,
Trenton, N. J.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER—I am enclosing herewith an original duly executed copy of the report of the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission and draft of suggested statutes.

Very truly yours,

THOMAS N. MCCARTER,
Chairman.

REPORT

November 20, 1933.

To the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

On the 9th day of October, 1933, the following Joint Resolution was passed by the Legislature and signed by the Acting Governor:

"BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey:

1. There is hereby created a commission to investigate, inquire into and report concerning proposed legislation for the regulation and taxation of traffic in alcoholic beverages. Said commission shall consist of seven citizens of the State, to be appointed by the Governor.

2. The said commission shall organize by the selection of a chairman and secretary, and is authorized to obtain from the Attorney-General such assistance as may be necessary.

3. The said commission shall embody its recommendations in a report to be submitted to the Legislature on November fourteenth, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three.

4. There is hereby appropriated the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) for the expenses of said commission.

5. This resolution shall take effect immediately."

And on the same day the Acting Governor appointed the following Commission:

Dr. Robert C. Clothier, New Brunswick
Dr. Harvey N. Davis, Hoboken
Wm. C. Heppenheimer, Jr., Jersey City
Dr. Andrew F. McBride, Paterson
Thomas N. McCarter, Newark
Mrs. Reeve Schley, Far Hills
Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, Trenton

On Tuesday, the 17th day of October, the members of the Commission were summoned to Trenton by the Governor for purposes of organization. The Commission organized by the election of Thomas N. McCarter as Chairman; Dr. Andrew F. McBride as Vice-Chairman, and Frank J. Davis as Secretary, and immediately thereafter commenced to hold meetings in connection with the performance of its duties. These meetings have been held frequently and as often as the other engagements of the commissioners would admit. There have been in all eight (8) meetings. On Thursday, October 26th, the Commission held an all-day public hearing in the Public Service Auditorium, 80 Park Place, Newark, notice of which hearing was given the widest publicity in all the newspapers of the State. The hearing was attended by eighty-three persons. Those present included some who represented themselves only; others represented various organizations and thus spoke for considerable numbers of people. One member of the Assembly and one municipal official attended. The Commission feels constrained to record its disappointment at the relatively small number who attended this hearing upon a subject of such vital consequence to all the people of the State, and especially that there were not more municipal officials sufficiently interested in the matter to aid the Commission with their views.

The Commission has gone about its labors with a deep realization of the seriousness of the problem entrusted to it and with a determination to perform so far as has been within its power in the time allotted a piece of constructive work for the benefit of the State. It has been greatly handicapped by the shortness of the time within which it can function. It quickly found that it would be impossible to make its report upon November 14th, the date mentioned in the Resolution, but was equally determined that the report must be filed as soon as possible thereafter in order that the Legislature might have time to act on or before December 5th, when it is anticipated that the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment will have been consummated.

The underlying purpose of the Commission has been to recognize that within a short time some form of the liquor industry would be legal, and it has been the aim of the members of the Commission to so harmonize their various views upon this most difficult subject as to enable the Commission to recommend some kind of legislation that would be in the interest of true temperance. To that end we have set up a plan which if enacted into law and carried out according to its true intent by the officials entrusted with the operation thereof will make relatively easy the sale and consumption of beer, ale and natural light or fermented wines; and make relatively difficult the sale and consumption of distilled liquors and fortified or treated wines. We have provided for the issuance of licenses by State authority for brewers of beer and ales and for the manufacturers of fermented wines, and for the distribution thereof at moderate rates. And we have provided for the issuance of retail licenses for the sale thereof by reputable concerns at license fees of $100, reserving, however, to the governing body of a municipality in which the licensed place is located the right either to lower this license fee to a minimum of $50 or to raise it to a maximum of $200, as the character of the locality, the population, the density thereof, and various other factors are considered. Said licenses to be issued to taverns, hotels, restaurants and clubs, for consumption upon the premises; with provision for the issuance of licenses for the sale of these articles by reputable concerns not for consumption on the premises. We have provided for the issuance of licenses by State authority to distillers and manufacturers of fortified wines. And then we have likewise provided for the issuance of retail licenses of an all-inclusive character; that is to say, for the sale not only of beers, ales and fermented wines, but for distilled liquors and fortified or treated wines at much higher rates, the license fee being $1,000, reserving also to the governing body of a municipality in which the licensed place is located the right either to lower this license fee to a minimum of $500 or to raise it to a maximum of $1,500, depending upon similar conditions to those hereinabove set forth in reference to licenses for beers, ales and fermented wines. Here again we have provided for licenses for the sale of these articles by reputable concerns not for consumption on the premises. It is part of our plan that all these retail license fees shall inure to the benefit of the municipality within which the licensed place is located. The brewers' or manufacturers' license fee and the distributor license fee will inure to the benefit of the State at large. We also recommend the imposition of an excise tax of 3⅓¢ per gallon for beers and ales; and 10¢ per gallon for naturally fermented wines, to accrue to the benefit of the State; and 40¢ per gallon for all other wines, and $1.00 per gallon for distilled and all other liquors, likewise to accrue to the benefit of the State. In the fixing of these various excise taxes and elastic license fees, our first thought has been to recommend amounts that would not result in prohibitive prices to the consumer and thus encourage the continuation of bootlegging and speakeasies. We are not unmindful of the desirability of revenue from this business for the benefit of the State and the municipalities, but we believe revenue to be secondary in importance as compared with the destruction of bootlegging, racketeering and speakeasies. We have also provided for the licensing of dining-cars and boats.

We have been very careful in our recommendation as to the setting up of local boards of alcoholic beverage control, entrusted with the power to grant retail licenses of any kind. In every case we recommend a board to consist of three persons, not more than two of whom shall belong to the same political party, and at least one of whom shall be a woman. We provide that in municipalities having a population of forty thousand or more there shall be a municipal board of alcoholic beverage control, to be appointed by the Mayor of such municipality. And that as to all other municipalities, there shall be set up in each county a county board of alcoholic beverage control, consisting of three persons, as above set forth, to be appointed in each case by the Justice of the Supreme Court presiding over the circuit in which the particular county is located. The retail licenses are in the first instance to be granted by these local boards, but they do not become fully effective until approved as hereinafter set forth. We have provided for the creation of a State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, with an executive and administrative head consisting of a single person known as the Commissioner, to be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice of the Senate, for a term of seven years, at a compensation of $15,000 per year. We recommend that this Commissioner be given the most important powers, such as the approval of all licenses issued by the local boards; the right to revoke the same; and in extreme cases the right to grant licenses where the local board has in the Commissioner's judgment arbitrarily or improperly refused to grant a license.

The said Commissioner should also have the power to prescribe in detail the conditions surrounding the legalized sale of liquor, such as, for example, the proper identification of all persons engaged in the business; the prohibition of screens; back-rooms; family entrances; sale of liquor to minors; the hours during which it shall be lawful or unlawful to dispense any kind of liquor on weekdays and Sundays where not prohibited; and all other rules and regulations legitimately concerned with the operation of this business. We have thought it best to clothe the Commissioner with these powers rather than attempt to set them all out in a statute. We have reached this conclusion because we are of the opinion that, as in almost every other walk of life, experience will be the best teacher.

We have not attempted to limit the sale of liquor in licensed places to any particular building with a certain number of rooms in it, or to any restaurant equipped to serve a certain number of people, because we are of the opinion that these distinctions are illusory and while they may actually exist at the time the license is granted they become a dead letter thereafter. We feel that the success or failure of the plan that we have set up will very largely depend upon the personnel of the local boards and their responsiveness to public sentiment in their respective localities; and even more especially to the personnel, to the integrity and to the underlying purpose of temperance to be possessed and practiced by the State Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control. We have, in addition, provided the machinery whereby the people of any municipality who desire to forbid the issuance of either or both kind of licenses within the bounds of such municipality may by popular vote so determine, with the qualification that in any such municipality, notwithstanding such license prohibition, it shall be lawful to deliver liquors from licensed localities to the homes of residents for their personal use, but under no circumstances for sale. We have further provided similar machinery whereby the people of any municipality may by popular vote prohibit the sale of beers, ales and fermented wines, and of distilled liquors and fortified wines, on Sunday.

Submitted herewith and made a part hereof are drafts of three acts which we think, taken collectively, embody the foregoing recommendations. The first act covers the subject generally and provides for the machinery and administration of liquor control. The second act relates to the taxation of liquors; and the third act repeals all hitherto existing legislation inconsistent with the plan recommended, our object being so far as possible to make the new proposed legislation comprehensive of the whole subject. The drafts of bills submitted herewith embody in concrete form the general ideas above set forth and are, we believe, in shape for immediate adoption if it so please the Legislature. The basic plan of the Commission is properly set out and we ask indulgence for whatever relatively inconsequential errors may appear.

We do not feel that we are possessed of complete wisdom in our recommendations, made after so short a study, upon a subject that has rocked the world for ages, but we do feel that we have produced a well-balanced plan with which the State may safely begin anew a rigid control over what should hereafter be a legitimate and not an outcast industry, and that it is a plan which while probably not satisfactory to extremists is one that we hope will meet with general approval. Furthermore, it will easily lend itself to amendment for purposes of improvement as experience thereunder may indicate to be wise.

The Commission desires to make acknowledgment of the assistance rendered by Mayor LaBarre of Trenton; Assemblyman McCampbell, of Monmouth County; and all others who participated in the public hearing; to those who have communicated with it in writing, and to Commissioner Mulrooney, of New York, and Dean Gauss, of Princeton, who personally appeared before the Commission and gave us the benefit of their judgment and experience. The Commission has had the co-operation and assistance of J. H. Thayer Martin, State Tax Commissioner, and is under a special obligation to Judge George W. Grimm, Jr., of the Beverage License Tax Division of the State Tax Department, for his invaluable assistance; to certain members of the clerical force of the New Jersey State Police and to the State Tax Department for their tireless efforts; to the Commission on Revision and Consolidation of the Public Statutes; to D. Frederick Burnett, whom the Commission employed as its counsel, and to the Secretary of the Commission.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
November 27, 1933.

To the Members of the Legislature:

As part of the National Recovery Program of the President of the United States there was appropriated under the terms of the National Industrial Act three billion three hundred million dollars, of which there is remaining four hundred and fifty million dollars. In order that the State of New Jersey may qualify under the regulation of the Federal Emergency Housing Corporation to receive loans and grants for the purpose of slum clearance and low cost housing it is necessary to create a State Housing Authority.

Senate Bill No. 505 creates a State Housing Authority and outlines its functions and powers. It is of prime importance to the social and economic welfare of our State that this bill should be approved without delay.

The purpose of the bill is to make the State eligible to receive loans and grants from the Federal Emergency Housing Corporation with the following benefits: It will create employment in the building industry, which is now 80% unemployed. No other form of construction provides as much employment for labor as housing construction and no other form of construction will help the manufacturing industries as much. Permanent benefit to the State is afforded by this opportunity to rid our towns and cities of insanitary slum areas which are a social menace and an economic liability to the communities in which they exist.

A State Housing Authority will enable the State or private corporations to construct and operate model housing providing sunshine and ventilation, sanitary construction and arrangement for a lower rental than can be obtained by any other means now at our disposal.

No expense to the State is involved beyond the cost of administration of the State Housing Authority. Thirty per centum of the cost of labor and materials in any project is a grant from the Federal Government; the loan will be repaid to the Federal Government over a period of from 25 to 35 years from the income from the project.

Several States have already created similar housing authorities to that proposed in this bill and these are ready to do so as their Legislature meets.

It is hardly necessary for me to point out to you the benefits which will accrue to the State by the proper development of slum and blighted areas of our cities for the accommodation of families of very low income made possible by this bill.

I bespeak your earnest and favorable consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Altman moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes and referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Which motion was adopted.

The following message was received from His Excellency the Governor, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
November 27, 1933.

To the Members of the Legislature:

A summary recently completely of the financial conditions of the municipalities of the State of New Jersey discloses an altogether disquieting situation. Because of weaknesses in basic State laws, municipalities in New Jersey possessed the authority to borrow, not only for public improvements, but for financing tax delinquencies, tax titles and "emergency" budget delinquencies.

So long as there was a ready market for the securities of these municipalities at good price, none of them was pressed for cash, even though their tax burdens had long since passed the ability of their citizens to pay, as was reflected in the high rate of tax delinquencies. However, when the effects of industrial depression began to make themselves felt, the market for New Jersey municipal securities dried up to a large extent. In addition, many of the municipalities concerned had heavily over-borrowed during prosperous times and also had spent more for operations than their revenues justified. They, therefore, entered the depression period in a far from sound condition. Thus the increased burdens attendant upon the depression, the decreased ability of the citizens to pay taxes and the inability of the municipalities to market securities has placed most of our municipalities today in a serious plight.

Moreover, improved tax collections will of themselves not solve this problem. Of sixty-nine municipalities studied only eleven could pay their current obligations were they to succeed in collecting the aggregate amount of their uncollected taxes for 1930, 1931 and 1932. In other words, these municipalities, were they able to collect all of the delinquent taxes for these years, would still have to raise more than $16,000,000 from future taxes to pay for past operating expenses. High debts, mounting tax delinquencies, and large operating deficits have all contributed to bring our municipalities to this pass. The Joint Committee on Taxation of the Senate and House of the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Legislature of the State of New Jersey released a statement under date of August 14, 1933, which corroborates what I stated above.

Senate Bills Nos. 57 and 58 simplify and clarify budget and bond procedure with the view of restoring confidence on the part of the investor in order to rehabilitate the credit of our municipalities and assist them in financing their needs in the present critical period. They are designed to place the finances of our municipalities on a sound basis by assuring taxpayers and those loaning money that the financial policies of our municipalities will be sound and worthy of confidence. After all, the foundation of credit is confidence, and sound credit cannot be had unless we live within our incomes. The time has come when all of our municipalities must operate on a cash basis. The first step is the adoption of budget and bond procedure which is recognized and accepted as sound and business-like.

Both bills provide for refinancing obligations which, under present conditions, are proving too burdensome, but this relief cannot be had unless at the same time the other provisions of the bills are adopted in order to afford assurance that a sound credit structure will be set up and maintained. To some this may seem a high price to pay, but there is no easy way to restore shaken credit and in the end the beneficial results will far outweigh present sacrifice.

This legislation has been conceived in a spirit of utmost impartiality by those who know the situation and are recognized as authorities on the subject. Full consideration has been given to the interests of all concerned and the results of these deliberations as embodied in these two bills are such as should be acceptable to all who are genuinely interested in the State as a whole.

The situation is not hopeless. For, as the Joint Committee of the Legislature pointed out, "It is not impossible for New Jersey to regenerate its local governments, re-establish their credit and prevent their collapse. But decisive and courageous action is required."

The time for such action has long since arrived. I therefore, recommend the passage of Senate Bills Nos. 57 and 58 without further delay.

Respectfully submitted,

A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Altman moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes and referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Which motion was adopted.

The following message was received from His Excellency, the Governor, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
November 22, 1933.

To the Legislature:

I should feel remiss in my duty were I to fail to direct your serious attention to the importance of the problems confronting the State growing out of the railroad tax litigation now pending in the courts and tax tribunals involving railroad taxes being withheld for the years 1931, 1932 and 1933, tying up in excess of $15,000,000 of anticipated revenues at a time when local governments are struggling to avoid bankruptcy.

The seriousness of the situation was clearly emphasized in a communication I received from the Attorney-General last Wednesday, too late to afford me an opportunity then to address you.

Section 3 of the Railroad Tax Act requires railroad property to be assessed at true value under four separate classifications, namely:

1. The main stem.

2. Other real estate used for railroad purposes in each taxing district, including the road bed, other than main stem, tracks, buildings, water tanks, water works, riparian rights, docks, wharves and piers, and other real estate, except lands not used for railroad purposes.

3. Tangible personal property.

4. The value of the remaining property, including the franchise.

The act does not prescribe the method of ascertaining true value, but leaves it to the judgment and discretion of the assessing authorities (at present the State Tax Commissioner). The assessor has always made a physical valuation of the several classes of property except the fourth class (franchise), which he has assessed according to some formula plus individual judgment.

The statute contemplates a physical valuation of each class of property. Returns are made by the railroad companies in which they state the cost and the true value of their property. The assessor examines these returns, makes personal inspection of the property and after due investigation fixes what in his judgment is a fair taxable value, taking into consideration physical conditions, usability, and other elements which might properly modify cost, or reproduction cost figures.

The statute requires that those four different classes of property must be separately valued, and assessed at different rates, and the proceeds of each class is distributed differently. This, alone, precludes the possibility of any method which attempts to value the whole without regard to the statutory classification.

As the Attorney-General points out, for the past forty-nine years railroad property has been assessed by that method. The method appears to have received the approval of the Legislature and the courts. This year, for the first time, the railroad companies have tried their appeals on the theory that that method is entirely wrong, and that the only proper method is to ascertain the value of the entire system of each railroad on the basis of the average stock exchange price of stocks and bonds outstanding in the hands of the public, and ascertaining of systematic operating income capitalized at six per centum, both averaged over a period of ten years, added together and divided by two to find the true value of the entire property of the railroad company, and then to allocate to New Jersey the proportion of that value represented by the factors of road miles, all track miles, revenue tons per mile, revenue passengers per mile, freight train miles, freight car miles, gross ton miles, passenger train miles, passenger car miles, and the sum of all these factors, according to the road, averaged to ascertain the percentage of true value thus obtained to be allocated to New Jersey as a basis for taxation.

It is not necessary to go into the details of these elements at this time with regard to this method or these factors, except to say that there are decisions of the Federal courts which lend weight to the railroad companies' theory of assessment on this basis. There are, however, other cases which clearly hold that if any method other than physical valuation is to be used, other factors should enter into the determination of value and that the factors which the railroad companies have used cannot be given one hundred per centum validity.

The aggregate assessed valuation of the appealing railroads for 1933 is $511,143,851.00 and the total tax is $19,321,897.50. The method of assessment insisted upon by the railroads in these appeals would cut these figures approximately in half.

To this reduced assessed valuation, the railroads propose to apply a seventy per centum factor which they claim, and offered considerable testimony to prove, was the average rate of true value at which other property was assessed throughout the State, which they insist is an intentional, systematic and persistent undervaluation which the courts have held amounts to discrimination.

If the railroad companies succeed to the extent of their claims in the present appeals, the railroad tax revenue of the State for 1933 will be reduced (in round numbers) from a little over nineteen millions to something less than seven million dollars.

In the 1933 appeals before the State Board of Tax Appeals, the railroads contend that:

1. The valuation of all classes of property is excessive, and state what they regard as the true value of their respective properties.

2. The assessment was made on erroneous principles.

3. The assessment includes property not used for railroad purposes.

4. The assessment was not made under general laws and uniform rules according to true value, in violation of Article IV, Section VII, paragraph 12 of the Constitution of New Jersey.

5. The rate of the assessment intentionally and systematically exceeds the rate of assessment of other like property similarly situate and is in different proportion to true value, in violation of the XIVth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States.

6. Other property is systematically and intentionally assessed at a substantially lower ratio to true value than railroad property, and the adoption of the lower ratio of assessment requires the proportional reduction of the assessment of railroad property.

7. The assessment is without warrant or authority in law.

8. The rate of assessment is excessive, erroneous, unlawful and illegal.

9. The valuations and assessments are wrongful, erroneous, unlawful, intentionally and systematically discriminatory, illegal and unconstitutional, and contrary to the statutes.

The Pennsylvania Railroad System, Reading System, Lehigh and Hudson River Railway Company and Rahway Valley Railroad Company expressly waived their complaint about the method of the assessment, the aggregate assessed valuation, or the total tax assessed upon their roads, respectively. All they ask is that if discrimination is found they shall have the benefit of whatever percentage of reduction in assessed valuation the Board finds applicable to the other railroad companies, on account of discrimination.

No proof was offered on the separate appeals of Wharton and Northern Railroad, Dover and Rockaway Railroad, Ogden Mine Railroad, Mount Hope Mineral Railroad, Bay Shore Connecting Railroad, Lehigh Valley Harbor Terminal, and Hoboken Manufacturers' Railroad, and those appeals must be regarded as abandoned, unless some or all of those companies may be included in their respective parent systems if the Board adopts the method of valuation proposed by the railroads.

Both in the nature and extent of the attack upon these assessments, the case exceeds in importance any other tax case before our courts since the contest of the constitutionality of the original act of 1884-88.

The 1931 assessments are on review, on other grounds, before the Court of Errors and Appeals, whose decision has not yet been rendered. That case is bound to go to the Federal courts in some form or other, whichever way the Court of Errors and Appeals decides. If the assessment is reversed, the whole case will have to be tried over again before the Board of Tax Appeals. If the assessment is sustained, the railroads will undoubtedly appeal and carry their case through to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Two of the railroad companies filed bills in the United States District Court to enjoin the collection of the 1932 taxes and that case is awaiting trial and involves retaining taxes amounting to about three and a quarter million dollars. It may be assumed that the railroad companies intend to present their case in that court along the same lines as they have tried their 1933 appeals before the Board of Tax Appeals. The State's defense to that case is unprepared and cannot be properly prepared without adequate funds to employ expert real estate and accounting witnesses. If that case is decided against us in the District Court, the State may have to appeal. If it is decided in our favor, the railroad companies will undoubtedly appeal.

This concerted and heavy attack upon the railroad assessments in New Jersey has been in the course of preparation for two years and is to be carried through the courts on each successive year's assessment until they have failed, or until they have broken down the present method of assessment of railroad taxes.

The State can ill afford to have its tax monies due from the railroads tied up in endless litigation. If abuses of the law or their administration exist resulting in just complaint, they should be corrected to afford equal protection of the law to the railroads operating in the State, thereby putting an end to interminable controversy over the subject matter of discrimination. No more important problem confronts you at this moment.

I, therefore, respectfully urge that a committee representative of the Legislature and of the State be appointed that will with diligence and dispatch undertake in a painstaking and systematic manner the study of this question for the purpose of reaching some intelligent conclusion as to the course of action necessary to be taken by the Legislature for the modification or clarification of this law. While it may be impossible to sustain railroad assessments to the amount which they have been assessed in recent years, it is entirely probable that some basis of rate and method of assessment may be arrived at which we can sustain in the courts, and thus end the interminable controversies which we now appear to be engaged in.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,

Which motion was adopted.

The following message was received from His Excellency, the Governor, and read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXCEUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
December 5, 1933.

To the Legislature:

I am constrained to return, without my approval, Assembly Bill No. 611, despite the clamor that such action on my part may result in some temporary confusion as to the sale of liquor.

In view of the fact that for the past thirteen years the sale of beer and hard liquors has been carried on illegally, generally and notoriously, and that even today it is generally understood that the majority of places where beer is sold and consumed under license also sell hard liquor without let or hindrance, I do not think we should be concerned over the brief delay incident to over-riding my veto or amending the bill.

This is especially so in view of the fact that, names to the contrary notwithstanding, the saloon has returned, and we must intelligently and dispassionately meet the situation, or we shall soon be back to the same condition which existed before and which contributed largely to the enactment of prohibition.

Some time ago your body authorized a commission to study the situation and report to you. A most excellent commission of high-class citizens was appointed and submitted a report and a bill which, in my opinion, is more acceptable than the present measure, and one which I would have little hesitancy in approving.

I am in receipt of hundreds of telegrams from different interests in the State, importuning me to veto the measure in question. Nine thousand grocers of the State urge me to withhold my approval, on the ground that under its provisions they will be unable to sell beer in bottles, to be consumed off the premises. Many fraternal organizations have telegraphed me to exercise my right of veto, on the ground that under the terms of the bill they might be unable to sell liquor in their clubhouses. The mayors of many municipalities have telegraphed me that they are opposed to any State Commission. The State Federation of Women's Clubs, through its Chairman on Legislation, importunes me to veto the bill on the ground that further revision is needed for the restriction of the sale of liquor, and non-political control.

The Attorney-General points out objections to the bill from the standpoint of constitutionality, which objections I am sure you may wish to consider, and I am therefore incorporating them in this message.

In our State the function of appointing to office is an executive function. The constitution, and almost invariably the statutes of our State, vest this power in the Governor.

He is elected by and responsible to the whole people, and when powers and duties State-wide in character are to be exercised by an official, the person so selected should be the executive appointee.

The Liquor Control Commission, composed of outstanding citizens, after careful thought and deliberation, incorporated in the commission bill a provision that the State Commissioner of Alcoholic Beverage Control should be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. While I have no objection to the man whom you have selected, and believe him well qualified, yet I must object, on principle, to your action in depriving the Governor of what is properly an executive function.

The bill creates a Board of Alcoholic Beverage Appeals, consisting of the Governor, President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Assembly.

Under our Constitution, Article III, paragraph I, the powers of the government are divided into three distinct departments—the legislative, executive and judicial, and no person or persons belonging to, or constituting one of these departments, shall exercise any of the powers properly belonging to either of the others, except as expressly therein provided, which exceptions need not here be noted, but are pointed out in the case of Clifford vs. Heller, 63 N. J. Law, page 105.

What is the significance of the words in the constitutional clause, "except as herein expressly provided?" The framers of this article said by this exception, in unmistakable language:

> "There are some powers belonging to one department of the government which it is expressly provided in this Constitution shall be exercised by a person or persons belonging to one of the other departments."

It is significant that where such powers are to be exercised by a person belonging to another department, they can all be found in the Constitution.

The President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, it is needless to say, belong to the legislative branch of the government which enacted the law, and these members of such branches are now to execute it, at least in part. That this cannot be done is clearly pointed out in Saint, Attorney-General, et al. vs. Allen, et al., 126 Southern Reporter, page 548. In that case certain members of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana were officers or employees in the highway department of that State. The Louisiana Constitution provides as follows:

> "The powers of the government of the State of Louisiana shall be divided into three distinct departments—legislative, executive and judicial. No one of these departments nor any person or collection of persons holding office in one of them, shall exercise powers properly belonging to either of the others except in the instances hereinafter expressly directed or permitted."

An examination of our Constitution and of that of Louisiana will show that the language of the two constitutional provisions are quite similar. In the Louisiana case, the Supreme Court of that State held that:

> "It is not necessary, to constitute a violation of the article, that a person should hold office in two departments of government. It is sufficient if he is an officer in one department and at the same time is employed or performs duties or exercises powers properly belonging to another department; the words 'exercises powers' speaking officially, means performance of duties or function."

The Liquor Control Commission constituted the State Commissioner of Alcoholic Beverage Control as the official to hear and determine appeals. This is, I believe, as it should be. Any abuse of his discretion or power is subject to review by certiorari to the Supreme Court, where it can hardly be said that politics would avail.

The last purely legal matter to which I desire to call your attention is the manner in which the act delegates to municipalities legislative powers under the guise of local self-government.

Section 37 of the act authorizes the governing body of a municipality, by resolution, to absolutely prohibit the sale or retailing of alcoholic beverages within the municipalities and makes such resolution instantly effective in such municipalities upon its adoption. This is a clear violation of the law. The Legislature may impose its will as law upon municipalities, but, if some other will is to intervene, it must be that of the people who are to be governed by such municipal law and not an alien will, even though it be that of the governing body, for the time being, of such municipality. Attorney-General vs. McGuinness, 78 N. J. Law, 346.

The subject of alcoholic beverage control is a matter of deep and vital concern to all of our citizens. Its proper regulation under liberal, but wise and fair laws, is our immediate concern. I bespeak for these views which I communicate to you your thoughtful and intelligent consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.

Attest:
JOHN J. TOOHEY, JR.,
Secretary to the Governor.

Mr. Altman moved that the message be received and spread in full upon the Minutes, and that the bill lie over.

The following message was received from His Excellency, the Governor, and was read by the Clerk:

STATE OF NEW JERSEY,
EXCEUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
December 5, 1933.

To the House of Assembly:

I return, without my approval, Assembly Bill No. 550

The Master Barbers' and Journeymen Barbers' Associations of New Jersey point out that among the exemptions from the provisions of the act are "persons practicing hair and beauty culture in beauty shops." This, in their opinion, may be construed to mean that the changing of the name of a barber shop to a beauty shop will make it possible to practice barbering without a license.

The original bill provided that female persons practicing hair and beauty culture in beauty shops would be exempted from the provisions of the act. To this exemption the master and journeymen barbers have no objection. Their request is that the word "female" be restored to the bill. I think that their complaint is a just one.

Respectfully submitted,
A. HARRY MOORE,
Governor.
