Trenton has not returned any of the disability payments to Ms. Pratico which she forwarded to it, nor has Trenton paid to the petitioner any portion of the $9,246 salary differential which she claims she should have received as compensation.

ANALYSIS

The issue presented is whether Ms. Pratico may elect to use her accumulated sick leave during the absence at issue or whether she must accept the temporary disability payments under the workers compensation law as respondent has directed.

Petitioner argues that she has a statutory right to her sick leave and should be allowed to decide when to apply it to an absence. Respondent basically argues that to do so would "undermine the statutory requirements of the worker's compensation act". (Respondent's Brief at 5).

However, the "elective provisions of our statute (N.J.S.A. 34:15-8) were only intended to deny employees their traditional common law tort remedies." Toland v. Atlantic Gahagan Joint Venture Dredge No. 1, 57 N.J. 205, 207 (1970). There is nothing to suggest that the Worker's Compensation Act preempts the application of any other employment benefits. To the contrary, it has been held that although an employee cannot accept both unemployment and worker's compensation benefits simultaneously, the worker may elect the benefit that provides compensation closest to the original salary.

In Khalil v. Revlon, Inc., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (WCC) 135, the petitioner sustained a work-related injury and was partially disabled. Because her employer could not accommodate her condition due to economic layoffs, petitioner became unemployed and collected unemployment benefits. While receiving these benefits, petitioner was awarded temporary disability benefits. The court found that a "miscarriage of justice would result if the award of duplicate benefits for the same period of time was permitted to stand. The legislature intended that an unemployed worker receive either Worker's Compensation temporary total disability, N.J.S.A. 34:15-12(a), Unemployment Insurance benefits, N.J.S.A. 43:21-1 et seq., or temporary disability benefits, N.J.S.A. 43:2-25 for a work absence." Id., at 135. The court also found that the petitioner would receive more money from unemployment benefits, and concluded, "When one looks to the beneficent purpose of both the wage replacement statutes, it would seem that the purpose of the entire statutory wage replacement system would be met if the petitioner were able to recover the maximum amount of compensation which most closely matches the wage loss." Id., at 136.

In the area of education law, a statute has been promulgated governing the work absences of teachers in addition to those listed by the Khalil court, supra. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1, et seq. This statutory allowance of sick leave "is not merely for the personal benefit of teachers, but is intended to promote the greater public good:"

> There is a public interest in allowing a teacher sick leave with pay and, indeed, in allowing her to accumulate unused sick leave. A sick teacher might, in the absence of available paid-leave time, continue to teach in order to obtain her salary. We think that such a person should not be encouraged to continue to work in those conditions and come into close dealing with school children."

Brockman v. Totowa Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 502, 504-03, quoting Hackensack Bd. of Educ. v. Hackensack Educ. Ass'n, 184 N.J. Super. 311, 318 (App. Div. 1982), certif. den. 91 N.J. 217 (1982).

The public interest at stake in Brockman, supra, is also implicated in this matter. Forcing petitioner to accept worker's compensation benefits, which provide for a rate of compensation lower than her original salary, rather than allowing her to exercise her discretion in using accumulated sick time, which provides for compensation at a rate equal to her original salary, produces the risk that petitioner may return to work while still injured in order to earn full salary. This risk threatens the interest expressed in Hackensack, supra. Furthermore, the beneficent purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1, et seq., weighs in favor of providing petitioner with that compensation closest to her original salary. Khalil, supra. Petitioner, therefore, should be allowed to exercise her discretion in using her accumulated sick leave to compensate her for her absence while she recovers from the surgery.

Any amount petitioner received from worker's compensation has been held in trust by her attorney and returned to the compensation carrier. Petitioner should therefore be awarded the $9, 246.00 she was denied in sick leave benefits. She should not be awarded pre-judgment interest, however, as it appears respondent's suit was bona-fide and not instituted frivolously.

Accordingly, the motion by petitioner for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED. It is therefore ORDERED that petitioner be award $9,246 which represented sick leave benefits to which she was entitled, absent prejudgment interest.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

EDNA PRATICO,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The Board's exception arguments challenge the legal basis on which the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) supported his determination that petitioner's motion for summary decision should be granted in the instant matter. The Board contends that the ALJ ignored the Appellate Division's holding in McIntosh v. De Filippo, 282 N.J. Super. 171, 176 (1995) as to the exclusivity of remedies provided by the Worker's Compensation Act. (Board's Exceptions at p. 3) The Board maintains that "since Petitioner's leave of absence is due to a work-related injury, all aspects of her compensation, permanent disability, and temporary

* It is noted that the Board also submittted a "response to the 'apparent' Cross-Exceptions filed on behalf of the Petitioner." (Board's Submission of July 24, 1997) disability, should be regulated by the standards set forth by the Legislature covering workers' compensation matters." (Id.)

The Board further asserts that the within matter concerns the interrelationship between N.J.S.A. 18A and N.J.S.A. 34. It posits that McIntosh, supra, and Sharon Tompkins v. Hamilton Twp. Bd. of Ed., 11 N.J.A.R. 520 (1989) > require [that] the application of N.J.S.A. 18A in a work-related injury matter must defer to the requirements of N.J.S.A. Title 34. Therefore, since N.J.S.A. 34:15-12(a) provides lesser monetary benefits in the form of temporary total disability payments than use of sick leave provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1 et seq., [the] Legislature has limited the Petitioner's benefits. (Id. at p. 5)

Lastly, the Board distinguishes Brockman, supra, from the instant matter. In Brockman, the Board recites, > the teacher was unable to work and the Board's application for involuntary disability retirement was rejected by the Division of Pensions. The Commissioner, as well as the ALJ, felt that in that circumstance, she would not be receiving any form of compensation when her employer  denied her use of her accumulated sick leave. Thus, it was ruled that a teacher who is sick (nonwork-related illness) and unable to work is entitled to use her sick leave. Clearly, in that situation, there is a real pressure on a teaching staff member to return to work because there is no source of income whatsoever. In the within matter, Petitioner does have a source of income, workers' compensation temporary disability benefits. (Id. at pp. 5, 6)

In reply, petitioner contends that the Board's position that she is barred from exercising her sick leave because she received benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is not supported by statute. Petitioner asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 provides an additional benefit for employees who have suffered work-related injuries over and above the sick leave provisions provided by the same section of the statute. (Petitioner's Reply at p. 1) Moreover, petitioner reasons that, once the maximum benefit of salary for up to one year is exhausted, it is logical that the employee would resort to drawing from her sick leave bank, which constitutes an earned benefit. (Id. at pp. 1, 2)

Petitioner does object, however, to the ALJ's failure to award pre-judgment interest in this matter. Petitioner contends "there is no basis in law or fact for the Respondent to have taken the position it did in this case." (Id. at p. 2)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion, for the reasons set forth herein. The Commissioner rejects the Board's view that McIntosh, supra, compels petitioner to seek compensation during the course of her absence from the provisions of the Workers Compensation Act. In McIntosh, the plaintiff was a member of the Old Tappan Volunteer Ambulance Corps and defendant De Filippo was the police officer providing dispatching services to Old Tappan. When the plaintiff arrived on an emergency scene to which she was dispatched by De Filippo, she was attacked and bitten by a dog. Plaintiff claimed that De Filippo failed to mention that there were vicious dogs on the premises. The question before the court was whether plaintiff and defendant De Filippo were co-employees at the time of the incident, so as to bar plaintiff's claim by the fellow-employee tort immunity provision of the Worker's Compensation Act. McIntosh, supra, at 174-177. The McIntosh Court highlighted N.J.S.A. 34:15-8, the provision of the Act which establishes that its remedies are exclusive. The Act provides:

> Such agreement shall be a surrender by the parties thereto of their rights to any other method, form or amount of compensation or determination thereof than as provided in this article and an acceptance of all the provisions of this article, and shall bind the employee.... McIntosh, supra, at 176, citing the Workers' Compensation Act, N.J.S.A. 34:15-8.

The Court further specified that the Act provides "immunity from suits brought by a co-employee arising from injuries at work." (Id.) However, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 34:15-8, the statute stipulates that "[i]f an employee experiences a compensable accident, he may not maintain a common law tort action against a fellow employee arising out of the same incident." (Id.) Thus, the exclusivity of remedies to which the McIntosh Court referred pertains to instances where a claimant who suffers a work-related injury elects to be satisfied by the Workers Compensation Act, and, in so doing, forecloses the possibility of other remedies which may be available.

In the instant matter, petitioner did not apply for benefits under the Workers Compensation Act, and, apparently, exhausted her salary benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. Having exhausted those benefits, the Board maintains that, during her subsequent work-related injury leave, she was not entitled to use her sick leave, but was only entitled to disability payments pursuant to the Workers Compensation Act. (Board's Exceptions at p. 5) The Commissioner finds no support in the relevant statutory scheme for this position.

Sick leave is defined, in pertinent part, as "the absence from his or her post of duty, of any person because of personal disability due to illness or injury ." N.J.S.A. 18A:30-1. Notably, the statute does not qualify or limit the nature of the illness or injury.

Further, the Commissioner recognizes that "[t]he purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2 is to guarantee that a school district employee, who is absent from work due to an injury arising out of and in the course of employment, will receive his or her full salary for periods of absence up to one calendar year without losing annual or accumulated sick leave. This statute is meant to 'complement workers' compensation benefits for a strictly limited time period.'" Mona J. Outland v. Monmouth-Ocean Education Service Commission, 295 N.J. Super. 390, 395, citing Theodore v. Dover Bd. of Ed., 183 N.J. Super. 407, 416 (App. Div. 1982). However, the time limitation imposed by the Legislature may well be interpreted as a limit not on the employee's entitlement to receive her full salary, but on her entitlement to receive her full salary without having to draw from her annual or accumulated sick leave.

Inasmuch as petitioner rightfully accumulated sick days pursuant to Article XVI of the Agreement signed by the Board and the Trenton Administrators and Supervisors Association, and acquired a sufficient number of same to cover her absence, the Commissioner finds no basis on which to restrict the application of that sick leave because petitioner's injury was caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of employment.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms that petitioner must be granted summary decision in the instant matter. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner declines, however, to award petitioner pre-judgment interest, as there has been no showing of bad faith or deliberate violation of law on the part of the Board, as required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.16. The Board is hereby directed to pay petitioner $9,246, representing the amount of sick leave benefits which she was denied.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning art teacher alleged the Board's reduction in her compensation for the 1996-97 school year and its failure to offer her a full-time elementary classroom teaching position violated her tenure rights.

ALJ concluded petitioner's tenure rights were violated when the Board failed to appoint her to one of the vacant elementary teacher positions. ALJ determined that petitioner was entitled to the full-time elementary teaching position because she was eligible for the appropriate endorsement at the time of the RIF. Summary decision on behalf of petitioner was granted. Board was ordered to pay petitioner back pay and other emoluments.

Reconciling the within matter with Francey, the Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

This is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Procedural History

On July 12, 1996, petitioner, Susan Albert, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that respondent's reduction in petitioner's compensation for the 1996-97 school year and its failure to offer petitioner a full-time elementary classroom teaching position, violated petitioner's tenure rights. Respondent filed an answer on August 1, 1996, alleging that petitioner had failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. On August 13, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on August 23, 1996, and a prehearing telephone conference scheduled for October 1, 1996. A prehearing conference was held on that date at which time the issues were isolated and a hearing scheduled for June 17, 1997 at the Office of Administrative Law. In addition, the parties indicated that cross-motions for summary decision would be filed. Subsequent thereto the dates for submission of the joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision were extended. On or about March 24, 1997, the parties filed a joint stipulation of facts and cross-motions for summary decision. Thereafter, the parties filed reply briefs. The record has now closed in this matter and it is ripe for determination.

Issue

At the prehearing the parties agreed that at issue is whether respondent violated petitioner's tenure rights by failing to appoint her to a full-time elementary classroom position. A sub issue is whether petitioner's notice to respondent in March 1996 that she was eligible for an elementary endorsement was sufficient to establish her tenure rights to the elementary classroom position.

Facts

The parties have stipulated to the requisite facts in this matter and the stipulation of facts (J-1 in evidence) is hereby incorporated by reference as my findings of fact.

Discussion

In New Jersey, state statutes grant teachers the right to tenure. The Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 to -18, defines the conditions under which teachers are entitled to the security of tenure. Tenure rights are designed to foster a competent and efficient school system by affording teachers and administrators a measure of security. Viemeister v. Bd. of Ed. of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Since it is of remedial purpose, the Tenure Act is to be liberally construed to achieve its beneficent ends. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). The burden of proving a right to tenure rests with the teacher. Canfield v. Bd. of Ed., Borough of Pine Hill, 51 N.J. 400 (1968).

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 describes the criteria which must be met in order for a teacher to acquire tenure: 1) work in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; 2) hold the appropriate certificate; and 3) serve the requisite period of time. See Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982). N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 allows a board of education to reduce its teaching staff for reasons of economy. A reduction in force (RIF) opens the door to reemployment rights based on the seniority of the "riffed" teacher. See N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. Here, there is no question that petitioner was a tenured teaching staff member, having taught art at the K-5 level for approximately ten years. While petitioner's position was not abolished, her hours were reduced. Such a reduction in hours constitutes a reduction in force. Polo v. Bergen County Bd. of Ed. of Vocational Schools, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 230, 232. See also Popvich v. Wharton Bd. of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 737, 745 (Comm'r Oct. 7, 1975).

At issue in the instant case is whether petitioner was entitled, by virtue of her tenure, to the position of elementary school teacher which became available for the following school year. Petitioner holds, as required, an instructional certificate pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1. Petitioner also holds an endorsement in art. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1(a) governs endorsements and provides as follows:

> Each teaching endorsement is required for the corresponding teaching assignment. Each endorsement is valid for all levels, except that the elementary endorsement is valid for grades nursery through eight.

The law is now well-settled that a tenured teacher with the appropriate certificate is entitled to tenure protection for all positions under that certificate and all endorsements thereto. "[T]enure is achieved in and tenure protection attaches to all endorsements upon a staff member's instructional certificate, and not just those under which the individual has actually served for the requisite period of time pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 or 18A:28-6." Francey v. Salem Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 347, 348 (St. Bd. of Ed), aff'd 286 N.J. Super 354 (App. Div. 1996). Accord, Dennery v. Passaic County Bd. of Ed., 131 N.J. 626 (1993). See also Ellicot v. Frankford Bd. of Ed., 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) (holding that tenured speech correctionist with educational services certificate was entitled to learning disabilities teacher-consultant position even though she never worked in that position because she enjoyed tenure for all positions under the educational services certificate); Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Ed., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987), certif. denied, 110 N.J. 512 (1988) (tenured elementary art teacher with instructional certificate and art endorsement was entitled to secondary art teacher position over non-tenured employee even though she had never taught art at the secondary level); Capodilupo v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certif. denied, 109 N.J. 514 (1987) ("[A] tenured teacher seeking reinstatement within the endorsements on his or her certificate is entitled to preference in a RIF as against a non-tenured applicant with the same certification"). Thus, the New Jersey courts have consistently held that an educator with tenure in a specific endorsement can extend or transfer that tenure to other endorsements that are subsumed under the same certificate.[1]

Here, petitioner claims a tenure right to an elementary teacher position. Petitioner thus seeks to extend her tenure protection under her instructional certificate to include not only the art endorsement, but also the endorsement she recently acquired in elementary education.

At issue in the instant case is whether petitioner can claim a tenure right to the elementary position when she completed the requirements for the relevant endorsement before the RIF but was issued the endorsement after the RIF took place. The issue of when tenure rights attach was recently decided by the Appellate Division in Francey v. Salem Bd. of Ed., 286 N.J. Super. 354 (App. Div. 1996). In Francey, a tenured home economics teacher was laid off in a RIF. Two years later, Francey acquired an elementary endorsement to her instructional certificate and then claimed a tenure right to subsequent vacancies in elementary teacher positions. In the final agency decision, the Acting Commissioner noted that the "case is one of first impression, raising the threshold question of whether a tenured employee's rights to recall are frozen at the time of RIF or continually expandable through acquisition of subsequent additional endorsements." 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 449, 452. The Commissioner balanced the protectiveness of the tenure statutes and the Board's need for finality of employee entitlement decisions and concluded that:

> the date of an employee's RIF can be the only reasonable date certain on which the employee's rights can be reckoned for future entitlement purposes. To deprive boards of this certainty by permitting riffed staff to continually revise and expand their entitlements at will would at the very least pose an unreasonable administrative burden on the district, and, of more concern, would likely lead to amassing of endorsements following a RIF, reduce to chaos any attempt by a district to ascertain its legal responsibilities > upon the arising of a vacancy, and unduly restrict boards in their efforts to provide a thorough and efficient education by choosing the most qualified staff for open positions.

[1] Note that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, as clarified by L. 1996, c. 58, Section 1, tenure status is not transferable between the so called "separately tenurable" positions, that is, administrative and supervisory positions. Under the amended statute, tenure accrues in those positions only by actual employment and time served in that position.

Thus, the Commissioner determined that a teaching staff member's tenure rights are fixed at the time of the RIF.[2] The State Board of Education affirmed the Commissioner's decision but modified the analysis somewhat. See 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 347, 348 (State Bd. of Ed.). The State Board confirmed that:

> Rights emanating from the achievement of tenure are triggered at the time of a RIF. Edison Township Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 1073, 1083, aff'd by the State Board of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 1085, aff'd, Docket #A-2030-84T7 (App. Div. 1986). As a result, district boards are required to recognize the tenure rights of affected parties as they existed at the time of its action. Parker and Pelegrino v. Board of Education of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District, decided by the State Board of Education, May 2, 1990.

Further, the State Board found that there was no authority in the tenure statutes for a teaching staff member to accrue additional rights in a tenured position after dismissal in a RIF. Id. Therefore, in Francey, Francey's tenure rights and protections were triggered and fixed as of the date of the RIF and extended only to those endorsements on her instructional certificate at that time. Id. The State Board concluded that the subsequent acquisition of an elementary endorsement did not enlarge petitioner's tenure rights beyond those achieved by the date of the RIF. Id. Francey did not have a tenure right to the elementary teaching positions.

[2] Note that a RIF is effective on the date the Board makes the RIF decision, not the date the RIF takes effect (i.e. the beginning of the next school year). Marshall v. Neptune Bd. of Ed., Dkt. No. A-2595-85T1 at 7-8 (App. Div., March 10, 1987) (unreported); Edison Township Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, 1984 S.L.D. 1073 (Comm. of Ed), aff'd, 1984 S.L.D. 1085, (State Bd. of Ed.), aff'd, Dkt. No. A-2030-84T7 (App. Div. 1986).

The Appellate Division affirmed the State Board of Education decision by deferring to the board's interpretation that tenure rights are fixed as of the date of a RIF.

> Here, the statute... is entirely silent as to whether the reemployment protections it accords are to be fixed as of the date of the RIF decision or may thereafter be expanded by the addition of subsequent endorsements on a teacher's teaching certificate. Given the absence of a contrary legislative directive, we give considerable weight to the Commissioner's and State Board's expertise, particularly since we think their interpretation is well-supported by cogent education policy consideration and is not discordant with the underlying legislative objectives to be served by the Tenure Act.

See also Johnstone v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Ed., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 506 (following Francey and holding that the two teachers were not entitled to positions for which they received endorsements after being riffed).

In the instant case, petitioner was tenured under her instructional certificate with an endorsement in art. Anticipating a RIF, petitioner took the General Knowledge Examination in February 1996 in order to obtain an elementary teacher endorsement. In March 1996, petitioner notified the Board that she passed the qualifying exam and was now eligible for an elementary teaching position. At the same time but by separate letter, petitioner in fact applied for an elementary teaching position. However, petitioner did not receive her elementary endorsement until May 1996. In the meantime, on April 25, 1996, the Board voted on the RIF and agreed to eliminate one-half of petitioner's art position, reducing her to part time.

Following Francey, petitioner's tenure rights were fixed at the time of the RIF. Petitioner's tenure protection clearly entitles her to a position under the art endorsement to her instructional certificate. However, petitioner's elementary endorsement may also be protected if she satisfied the requirements for the endorsement prior to the RIF but simply had not yet received the paperwork.

Petitioner gave notice to the Board on March 13, 1996 that she was eligible and qualified for the elementary endorsement, having taken and passed the General Knowledge Examination. By a second letter on the same date, petitioner also applied for the vacant elementary position for the upcoming school year. Petitioner requested in March that the Board complete a Priority Request Form to expedite the issuance of her certificate. Apparently, the Board did not do so. While the Board was under no obligation to expedite her certificate, statutory or otherwise, the Board was then on notice of petitioner's eligibility for the endorsement and potential tenure claim under that endorsement.

The Board may be required to honor all known and reasonable entitlements of a teaching staff member. In Francey, the Commissioner and the State Board of Education both held that "boards of education need not go to extremes to accommodate employment rights when all known and reasonable entitlements have been honored at the time of RIF." Francey v. Salem Bd. of Ed., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 449, 453, aff'd, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 347 (State Bd. of Ed). Here, the Board stipulates that it knew of petitioner's eligibility for the elementary endorsement. The Board further stipulates that it knew petitioner was applying for an elementary position and petitioner in fact later interviewed for that position. The Board was on such notice beginning in March 1996, well before the RIF decision was made on April 23, 1996. Thus, the Board of Education was required to honor this known and reasonable entitlement at the time of the RIF that petitioner holds a tenure claim to an elementary position. See also Johnstone v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Ed., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 506, 508 ("Neither can the Board claim surprise or prejudice by the necessity to honor petitioners' entitlements...as it was fully aware of both their interest and certification status before it filled the disputed vacancies").

Moreover, to hold that petitioner was not entitled to an elementary position because she did not have the physical certificate in her possession is merely placing form over substance. As indicated above, there is no question that petitioner was eligible and qualified for the elementary endorsement, having passed the requisite examination. Various school law decisions have held that eligibility for a certificate controls, not the actual possession of the certificate.[3]

In Reinish v. Cliffside Park Bd. of Ed., 1965 S.L.D. 50, aff'd, 1966 S.L.D. 252 (State Bd. of Ed.), aff'd, 1966 S.L.D. 253 (App. Div.), petitioner, a guidance counselor, was not re-employed after six years of employment with the Board as a guidance counselor. Reinish claimed a tenure right generally as a teacher and asserted that the Board had a duty to reassign him to a teaching position for which he was qualified. Reinish was eligible for a teacher certificate in Social Studies but such certificate was never issued to him. In holding that Reinish must be reinstated as a teacher in the school district, the Commissioner of Education stated:

> Nor is there any merit in the argument that even though petitioner may have been eligible for the issuance of a certificate to teach Social Studies, none was issued to him. This is also consistent with usual practice. Application for a certificate is made when employment is obtained and for the particular license needed. Petitioner, having no need of a Social Studies certificate, could not be expected to apply for its issuance until he had need for it. The fact that he qualified for such a certificate is enough.
> [Id. at 54 (emphasis added).]

In Kane v. Hoboken Bd. of Ed., 1975 S.L.D. 12, the Commissioner of Education held that even though a junior high school principal did not hold an elementary principal certificate, he was entitled to an elementary principal position because he was eligible for that certificate. His eligibility for an elementary principal certificate at the time of the deadline for filing applications for the position was dispositive notwithstanding the fact that he did not receive the certificate until seven months later. In upholding that principal's right to the position, the hearing examiner stated: "[t]o hold that a candidate would be precluded from appointment to a position of principal because he did not have in his possession a specific certificate, while acknowledging he was eligible for it, would place form over substance." Id. at 17 (emphasis in original). This conclusion was adopted by the Commissioner who determined that a candidate's eligibility for proper certification is sufficient to qualify him or her for the position. Ibid. See also Nangle v. Cherry Hill Bd., of Ed., 1986 S.L.D. 1; Saad v. Dumont Bd. of Ed., 1982 S.L.D. 440, 445 ("The law is clear that eligibility for, instead of actual possession of, an appropriate certificate has been held sufficient to allow one to assume a position").

[3] Each of these cases addresses eligibility for a certificate, not an endorsement. However, this is simply a misuse of the terminology. See Howley v. Ewing Township Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 509, 513-514 (EDU 1982). In the older school law decisions, the term "certificate" was often used when "endorsement" was meant. Under the current regulations, there are only three kinds of certificates: 1) instructional; 2) administrative; and 3) educational services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. Endorsements are issued in specific fields, such as math, English or art, and attach to the certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2. Both the appropriate certificate and endorsement are required to hold a teaching staff member position.

Further, the Commissioner of Education has held that time served by a teacher may count towards tenure where the teacher applied for but had not yet received a teaching certificate. Givens v. Newark Bd. of Ed., 1974 S.L.D. 906. In Givens, the Commissioner determined that petitioner's service without the required certificate counted towards tenure where the petitioner's inability to obtain the certificate was due to administrative delay, not her own doing, and because the County Superintendent could have issued an interim certificate if he had chosen to do so. In so concluding, the Commissioner determined that "[f]airness alone dictates that such teachers ought not be penalized by the administrative delay which necessarily exists in processing great numbers of applications for certificates by teachers required to staff public schools serving nearly one-half million New Jersey school children." Id. at 908.

However, the same is not true where a teacher has not applied or is not otherwise eligible for a required certificate. In Sydnor v. Englewood Bd. of Ed., 1976 S.L.D. 113, the Commissioner of Education held that the petitioner did not achieve tenure even though she served the requisite time because she was not certificated and had not even applied to the Board of Examiners for a teaching certificate. The State Board of Education affirmed (unpublished, 1984). In Ledwitz v. Manalapan-Englishtown Bd. of Ed., 1987 S.L.D. 1963, the Commissioner of Education reversed the ALJ and held that a teacher's time served did not count towards her tenure where she was not in fact eligible for a certificate in handicapped instruction because she did not have enough course credits. The Commissioner found that the delay in the issuance of the certificate was due only to petitioner's fault and that Ledwitz had misrepresented her possession and/or eligibility for certification as a handicapped teacher. Id. at 1987. The State Board of Education affirmed (unpublished).

In the instant case, petitioner was eligible for the elementary endorsement as of March 1996. The delay in the issuance of the certificate was administrative, not due to any fault on the petitioner's part. The fact that the actual paperwork of the endorsement was not received by petitioner until May 1996 does not interfere with her qualification and eligibility for an elementary teaching position. The case law makes clear that to hold otherwise is merely placing form over substance. Therefore, petitioner had a tenure right to the position of elementary teacher as she was eligible for an elementary endorsement at the time of the RIF.

Conclusion

The Board violated the petitioner's tenure rights when it failed to appoint her to one of the vacant elementary teacher positions. Petitioner is entitled to the full time elementary teaching position because she was eligible for the appropriate endorsement at the time of the RIF.

Order

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted. It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner receive back salary in the amount of $13,161.50 ($2,632.50) per month from September 1996 through January 1997, recompense for the cost of substituted dental insurance coverage, and seniority credit for full-time service from September 1996 through January 1997.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SCOTCH PLAINS-FANWOOD REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and the reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Board challenges the decisions cited by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) which stand for the proposition that eligibility for a certificate is sufficient to qualify an individual for a position. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 1, 2) The Board asserts that these decisions no longer have effect in that they are inconsistent with the holding in Francey, supra.[1] The Board affirms its position that the holding in Francey precludes petitioner from succeeding on her motion for summary decision, notwithstanding the ALJ's statement "that 'petitioner's elementary endorsement may also be protected if she satisfied the requirements for the endorsement prior to the RIF but simply had not yet received the paperwork.'" (Id. at p. 2, citing Initial Decision at pp. 7, 8) The Board maintains that Francey does not place significance on an individual's eligibility for an endorsement at the date of a RIF but, rather, places significance on an individual's legal status at the date of the RIF. (Id. at pp. 2, 3)

The Board further challenges the ALJ's apparent reliance on a portion of Johnstone, supra, which states that a board can be neither surprised nor prejudiced when it is notified of petitioners' interest and certification status prior to filling disputed vacancies. (Id. at p. 3, citing to Initial Decision at p. 8) However, the Board asserts that this statement was merely the Commissioner's recitation of petitioners' argument in Johnstone, and said position was ultimately rejected. (Id. at p. 3)

In reply, petitioner reiterates her contention that this matter is distinguishable from Francey for the following reasons: (1) With the undisputed knowledge of the District's administration, petitioner was fully eligible, and had applied, for the elementary endorsement more than one month prior to the RIF; (2) Petitioner's employment with the Board was reduced, but not terminated, as a result of the RIF; and (3) Although the Board had the opportunity to expedite issuance of petitioner's elementary endorsement, it failed to do so. Petitioner contends that this failure was a "deliberate attempt to thwart [her] tenure rights." (Petitioner's Reply at p. 2)

Petitioner additionally argues that she remained an employee of the Board after the RIF. She claims that her right to use her elementary endorsement attached when it was issued in May of 1996. However, at that point, petitioner notes, the Board had not yet voted on her 1996-97 assignment. Thus, petitioner reasons that when the Board acted on May 23, 1996 to assign her to half-time position, it did so after her receipt of the actual certification document. (Id. at pp. 3, 4)

Finally, petitioner points to Francey's discussion of the statutory language of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

> That statute, as the court notes at 286 N.J. Super. 358, allows a claim [by a riffed teacher] "...whenever a vacancy occurs in a position for which such person shall be qualified" (emphasis added by the Court, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12).
>
> The Court rejected Francey's claim that "shall be qualified" was meant to apply to certificates acquired in the future.  However, the Court does note that
>
> > "Qualified," in its ordinary sense, means: "[to have] complied with the specific requirements or precedent conditions...." Webster's Third New International Dictionary Unabridged 1858 (3d ed. 1981). Francey, supra at 358.

Thus, petitioner reasons that she was qualified because she complied with the specific requirements for obtaining her elementary endorsement prior to the RIF. Petitioner argues that she should not be barred from asserting her tenure rights "because the printing of a document takes time." (Id. at p. 4)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights when it failed to appoint her to one of the vacant elementary teacher positions following a RIF in April 1996. (Initial Decision at p. 11) Where petitioner, prior to the RIF, undisputedly fulfilled the single requirement for obtaining her elementary endorsement, i.e. obtaining a passing score on the general knowledge examination, and duly applied for this endorsement;

where the Board was notified prior to voting on the RIF that petitioner was eligible and had applied for, but not yet received, her elementary endorsement, and where the Board does not assert that delay in receipt of the certification document was for any reason other than administrative burden, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's tenure protections and attendant rights as triggered by the RIF may properly encompass the elementary endorsement.

The Appellate Division in Francey analyzed the statutory construction of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12, examining the purpose of, and policy considerations inherent in, the statute.

> N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 is a reemployment statute. It looks to the reestablishment of a prior employment relationship. That relationship does not logically exist for additional endorsements or teaching certifications acquired after the employment relationship ends.
> When enacting the tenure laws for teachers, the Legislature was responding to concerns regarding those teachers who had devoted their efforts to an employment relationship with a local school district, and sought to protect such teachers from an arbitrary termination of that relationship.
> These concerns govern a tenured teacher's rights while in the employment of a school board and afford protection thereafter for rights attained during that relationship. Whether the same considerations arise so as to extend tenure protection to an expansion of the scope of a teacher's teaching certificate, after the employment relationship has ended, is plainly a matter of policy.  Thus, on the one hand, when a teacher is RIF'd, but, during employment with the school board, has earned tenure rights within the scope of a teaching certificate and all endorsements thereon, the teacher is entitled to preferred reemployment only to positions within that certificate and endorsements. On the other hand, like a distinct, separate teaching certificate, subsequently acquired endorsements do not fall into the scope of needed protection. Francey, supra at 359, 360, citations omitted.

Unlike the petitioner in Francey, petitioner herein took all necessary steps to expand the scope of her teaching certificate while in the course of her relationship with the Board, and the Board was duly apprised of those steps well in advance of the RIF underlying this dispute. No claim has been made by the Board that the actual issuance of petitioner's elementary endorsement was anything other than a ministerial function of the Department of Education; petitioner's certificate having been duly processed in accordance with standard agency practice, the timing of her application simply resulted in the actual certificate document being issued shortly after the RIF. Under these circumstances, the Commissioner determines that a finding that petitioner was "qualified" to hold the full-time elementary position within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 is not inconsistent with the Court's analysis in Francey.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to adopt the initial decision for the reasons expressed therein.[2] Petitioner's motion for summary decision is granted, and the Board is ordered to compensate petitioner, as outlined in the initial decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] To the extent the Board argues that the case law employed in the Initial Decision of the ALJ is without legal significance in the wake of Francey, the Commissioner notes that his determination is not based on those cases.

PETITIONER-RESPONDENT,

V. : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SCOTCH PLAINS-FANWOOD REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, UNION COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 6, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Bucceri & Pincus (Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Casper P. Boehm, Jr., Esq.

The decision of the Commissioner of Education is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. We stress in so doing that our determination is predicated on the specific facts in the record of this case, which indicates that petitioner had satisfied the qualifications for an elementary education endorsement and submitted an application for such certification to the Department of Education prior to the Board's action to reduce its staff, and that the Board was aware of such circumstances at the time of its action.[1]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teaching staff member, sought reinstatement to her position and back pay, alleging Board violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, in refusing to allow her to rescind her retirement when she was denied acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program.

Having considered the written communication between the parties, the ALJ concluded that petitioner did not resign or retire. ALJ concluded that petitioner's acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program was a condition precedent to the operation of a valid resignation/retirement. Thus, because petitioner failed to qualify for that program, the ALJ concluded that no resignation/retirement occurred. ALJ concluded petitioner was entitled to reinstatement, back pay and benefits less mitigation from wages earned.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's analysis and determination that petitioner's acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program was a condition precedent to her resignation/retirement from her tenured position and, because she failed to qualify for such program, no resignation/retirement occurred. Commissioner directed Board to reinstate petitioner to her position and to promptly compensate her for lost salary and emoluments owed for the period of her improper termination. The Board, however, was entitled to reduce this amount to the extent of unemployment benefits petitioner received during this period. Commissioner noted that it is well-settled in law that the burden to establish that petitioner did not put forth reasonable efforts to mitigate her damages during this period lies with the Board and the Board failed to satisfy its required burden of proof.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Tracy Summers claims that she is entitled to continue her employment with respondent, Board of Education of the City of Union (Board).

Respondent asserts that petitioner resigned and/or retired from employment.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 2, 1996, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1-15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1-13. A hearing was held on December 19 and 23, 1996. Thereafter, the parties filed post hearing briefs. The record closed on January 23, 1997. The forty-five (45) day statutory period within which to file the initial decision with the Department of Education expired on March 9, 1997. Based on the administrative law judge's voluminous case load and hearing schedule an extension of time to complete the initial decision was granted. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8. On April 21, 1993, the record was reopened to receive copies of the final stipulation of facts and the parties' exhibit lists. The documents were received on April 28, 1997 on which date the record closed.

The issues are (a) whether petitioner resigned or retired from employment and if so, can petitioner's action be rescinded?; (b) Whether petitioner is entitled to reinstatement, back pay, and other relief?

STIPULATED FACTS

The parties have agreed to a final stipulation of facts which are adopted as FACT:

1. Petitioner was employed by Respondent as a teaching staff member for a period of twenty-one years and four months.

2. Petitioner was properly certified throughout her employment with Respondent.

3. On April 19, 1994, Petitioner submitted a letter to Thomas Highton, superintendent of schools, in which she stated:

> I would like to leave Union City Education system in June of 1995, with an extension of the five year pension program, if possible! What is the procedure for doing so? How soon would it have to be sent. Where to, etc.,?

4. On April 25, 1994, Petitioner submitted a letter to Thomas Highton in which she stated:

> I am hereby requesting to retire with the window of opportunity in June, 1995.
> Thanking you for any consideration I remain,
> Tracy Summers Jefferson School.

5. In a letter of April 29, 1994, Respondent advised petitioner that she was required to submit an application for retirement to be processed by the State Division of Pensions and Benefits.

6. In January 1995, Respondent forwarded petitioner's certification and final salary to TPAF.

7. The document stated that Petitioner would have been employed for a total of 26 years, 4 months as of the expected retirement date of June 30, 1995.

8. On or about April 20, 1995, petitioner notified the state TPAF as follows:

> Due to the fact that I do not have 25 years of service and therefore will not be entitled to the five years buyout, I am rescinding my June 30, 1995 resignation.

9. On May 5, 1995, petitioner informed Asst. Superintendent Frank Vaccarino that she was rescinding her retirement due to an error in calculations of her years of service. Petitioner's letter indicated that she had only 21.5 years of service. On May 16, 1996, Petitioner sent the same letter to board member Abraham Antun and the Board of Pensions.

10. By letter dated May 18, 1996, Asst. Superintendent Vaccarino informed Respondent that she had not complied with the Superintendent's oral direction of April 27, 1995, to submit a request to rescind her retirement to the Board.

11. Superintendent Highton placed Petitioner's request to cancel her retirement on the discussion section of his agenda for the Board's June 13, 1995 agenda session, a public meeting of the Board.

12. The Board discussed Petitioner's request at its caucus meeting in executive session on June 13, 1995. No motion was made on the request and no action was taken at that time.

13. On September 5, 1995, Petitioner appeared at her previous place of employment and remained there all day.

14. Petitioner appeared the next day for work.

15. At its September 28 public meeting, Respondent approved the payment of $5,536 to petitioner for accumulated sick days at retirement.

16. Petitioner received a check for accumulated sick days at retirement, minus applicable deductions, in the amount of $4,510.79, and cashed the check.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Petitioner asserts that she submitted a notice of intent to retire under a retirement incentive program. She testified the term "extension of the five year pension program" used in her letter on April 19,1994, referred to an early retirement incentive then being offered by the Board. She "used the language in this letter because she felt it showed that her request was contingent on receiving the retirement incentive." (Petitioner's Brief at 1). Thus, Petitioner submits that a condition for retirement was based on the Early Retirement Incentive Program (ERIP).

Respondent argues that petitioner's letter constituted retirement and/or resignation "without condition". (Respondent's Brief at 1).

Regardless of respondent's construction of petitioner's letter, on April 28, 1994, the Board voted to approve Summers' request to retire under the Early Retirement Incentive Program. Indeed, the Board's letter states:

> Receipt is acknowledged of your communication whereby you are retiring from your position at Union Hill High School. Please be advised that at the regular meeting of the Union City Board of Education held on April 28, 1994, your retirement was accepted under the Early Retirement Incentive Program-Delayed Retirement Provision, effective July 1, 1995.
>
> Please be advised that you are requested to submit an application for retirement and the application must specify the retirement date as July 1, 1994 even though your employment will be continued. The actual retirement date and retirement benefit will be governed by the approved retirement date. Extensions cannot be processed by pension unless a retirement application is on file with the Division of Pensions and Benefits. If an application has not been filed as of this date, your prompt attention to this filing is critical.

Pursuant to the instructions in the letter, Summers filed an application with PERS for early retirement.

In April 1995, the Division of Pensions informed Summers that she was not eligible for the early retirement program because she did not have the required service time. On May 5, 1995, Summers sent a letter to the assistant superintendent of schools which stated in part:

> This letter is to inform you that due to an error in calculations of my years of service that I am rescinding my retirement and will not be retiring as of June 30, 1995.

On May 18, 1995 Asst. Superintendent Vaccarino informed Summers that she had not complied with the Superintendent's oral direction of April 27, 1995, to ask the Board to approve her request to rescind her retirement. Further, Vaccarino directed Summers to "send a written request to the Board asking them to consider your change of heart." On May 31, 1995, the Division of Pensions granted Summers' request to cancel her Application for retirement.

Superintendent Highton testified that on June 13, 1995, the Board discussed Petitioner's past work history but took no formal action on her request to rescind her retirement/ resignation. Thereafter, "he notified Petitioner of the Board's inaction on her request when Petitioner called him after the agenda session." Respondent's Brief at 3.

Also, the record reflects that on June 13, 1995, the Board approved Summers' participation in a Computer Camp. Summers' appeared for work on September 5, 1995, the start of the 1995-96 school year. She was not assigned to teach and told that she no longer worked for the school. Summers returned to the Wilson School on September 6 and 7. On September 7, 1995, she received a hand delivered letter from the superintendent of schools which stated:

> Please be advised that you are not an employee of Union City Board of Education and as such you may not remain on Board property.
> If you do not vacate the premises immediately you will be charged with trespassing and be subject to police sanctions.

There is little difference between the efficacy of a retirement or resignation in terminating a teacher's employment. See, Laing v. Edison Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1977 S.L.D. 422, 426 (The act of filing for retirement "terminated her employment just as effectively as the acceptance of a letter of resignation would have done."). To determine whether an employee has proffered an effective resignation, courts have applied the principles of contract law. An employee is said to have "offered" a resignation, while a school board "accepts" the offer. Kozak v. Waterford Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1976 S.L.D. 633, 638. Thus, the offer once accepted by the school board creates a binding resignation, and can only be rescinded after acceptance if the school board agrees. Ibid. This is so even if another governmental entity separately agrees to rescind the resignation. Laing, supra, at 426.

Traditional defenses available to any contracting party are also available to a resigning teacher, e.g., mental incompetency, duress, or equitable defenses. See, Knoblauch v. Point Pleasant Bd. of Ed., 1978 S.L.D. 761 (finding resignation ineffective due to board's knowledge of teacher's mental incompetency at time of resignation); Brunnquell v. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 327, 342 (It is "basic that a resignation from one's employment, thereby waiving all accrued rights to that employment, must be knowingly and voluntarily proffered without duress or coercion."); Evaul v. Camden City Bd. of Ed., 35 N.J. 244 (1961) (resignation overturned on equitable grounds).

To determine whether Summers effectively resigned or retired I have considered as a useful guide ordinary contract principles. A resignation effectively terminates a teacher's employment if it is "offered by the teacher with intent to terminate his employment to the board or officer having the power to remove or dismiss, and it must be accepted strictly in accordance with the terms of the offer by the board having power to accept, acting as a board." Kozak, supra, at 638 (quoting 78 C.J.S. 1101, 1102). To require a board of education to accept a resignation strictly in accordance with its terms limits the board's power of acceptance by the existence of any conditions precedent.

"A condition precedent is a fact or event occurring subsequently to the making of a valid contract and which must exist or occur before there is a right to immediate performance, before there is a breach of contract duty or before the usual judicial remedies are available." Moorestown Mgmt. v. Moorestown Bookshop, et al., 104 N.J. Super. 250, 262 (Ch. Div. 1969).

Here, the writings between the parties indicate the existence of a condition precedent. Petitioner's first communication to the school board specified that she wished to retire "with an extension of the five year pension program, if possible." Because this initial communication is not written clearly, it is difficult to determine whether petitioner meant it to constitute an attempt to enter into negotiations or as an actual offer to resign/retire. Even if it is construed as an offer to resign/retire, it is difficult to know whether the "extension of the five year pension program" was meant to operate as a condition of the contract or merely an expression of hope or intent.

Ambiguous or uncertain terms are interpreted as a matter of fact. Anthony L. Petters Diner, Inc. v. Stellakis, 202 N.J. Super. 11, 27-28 (App. Div. 1985). By using the phrase "if possible", petitioner expressed her unconditional desire to retire in June 1995, with the possibility of receiving the ERI being an added benefit. However, in construing the "common intention of the parties to a contract, the court must consider the relations of the parties, the attendant circumstances, and the objects they were trying to attain." Id., at 28. Summers credibly testified that this language was meant to condition her retirement on acceptance into the ERIP.

Regardless of the ambiguity of petitioner's writing, the terms of the retirement were clarified by the Board's letter to Summers. The letter notes that Summers' "retirement was accepted under the Early Retirement Incentive Program-Delayed Retirement Provision". The Board's writing, when coupled with Summers' stated intention, implies that the parties intended for petitioner to retire if she was accepted into the ERIP. Summers' acceptance into this program is an event that must occur before any duty to perform under the agreement between petitioner and respondent arises. Because Summers was not eligible for the ERIP, petitioner's duty to terminate her employment never arose. If the Board wished to provide for petitioner's retirement regardless of her acceptance into the ERIP, they could have and should have so indicated in its letter to her. Thus, subsequent discussions had by the Board is unpersuasive.

The courts finding that an employee's resignation was wrongly accepted by a board of education have awarded the petitioner back pay and reinstatement. See, Manzo v. Jersey City Div. of Health, 92 N.J.A.R.2d (CSV) 117, 125, rev'd on other grounds, No. A-2872-91 & A-1326-92 (App. Div. Nov. 1, 1993); Knoblauch, supra, at 770; Austin v. Mahwah Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1954-55 S.L.D. 98, 104.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner did not resign or retire. I CONCLUDE that the intent of the parties is inferable from the writings between them. I CONCLUDE that Petitioner's acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program was a condition precedent to the operation of a valid resignation/retirement. Because petitioner failed to qualify for that program, I CONCLUDE that no resignation/retirement occurred.

I CONCLUDE that Petitioner is entitled to reinstatement, back pay, and benefits less mitigation from wages earned.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Petitioner be reinstated to her tenured position of employment

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

TRACY SUMMERS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF UNION, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL)[1] have been reviewed. By letter dated May 19, 1997, counsel for the respondent Board requested and was granted a 10-day extension of the period within which to submit exceptions in this matter to allow him to procure and submit hearing transcripts. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with the established schedule.

The Board initially excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) conclusion that petitioner's acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program was a condition precedent to her retirement. Rather, it maintains that petitioner's letter of retirement submitted to the District, along with consideration of selected portions of petitioner's hearing testimony which it presents, clearly evidences that her actual intent was to unconditionally resign from the District because of her dissatisfaction with her teaching assignments and to, additionally, take advantage of the early retirement program, if possible. (Board's Exceptions at p. 3) The Board argues that, in reaching her erroneous conclusion here, the ALJ "exalt[ed] the unexpressed, potential subjective intent of Petitioner" (id. at p. 4), and incorrectly accepted petitioner's testimony as credible while ignoring the credible testimony of its witness in this regard.

The Board next contends that even assuming, arguendo, that petitioner's retirement letter to the District was ambiguous, the ALJ erred in not applying requisite contract law principles which dictate that any ambiguity is to be construed against the drafter of the document, citing Mautz v. J.P. Patti Co. et al., 298 N.J. Super. 13, 19 (App. Div. 1997); Leonard & Butler, P.C. v. Evan M. Harris, 279 N.J. Super. 659 (App. Div. 1995); Michele Matthews, Inc. v. Kroll & Tract, 275 N.J. Super. 101 (App. Div. 1994); and In the Matter of the Estate of Alton Glenn Miller, 90 N.J. 210 (1982) as its authority for this proposition. (Board's Exceptions at pp. 6-7)

The Board further argues that petitioner should be estopped from claiming anything other than a retirement status by virtue of the fact that she accepted and cashed a check for $5,536, representing payment for accumulated sick leave entitlement, a retirement benefit under the parties' collective bargaining agreement.

Finally, the Board urges that if ordinary contract principles are to be dispositive in this matter as espoused by the ALJ, in the event that it is ultimately determined that petitioner should be reinstated to her position, the public interest requires that such reinstatement should be without back pay due to petitioner's failure to mitigate damages. (Board's Exceptions at p. 9) It cites hearing testimony of petitioner which it asserts establishes that petitioner never completed any application to teach during this period or earned any money but, rather "merely collected unemployment benefits and retirement benefits." (Board's Exceptions at p. 12)

In reply, petitioner posits that the Board's argument with respect to petitioner's intent to retire unconditionally is belied by the resolution that the Board expressly adopted (Exhibit J-4), accepting Summers' retirement under the Early Retirement Incentive Program. She argues that "[g]iven the clarity of the Board's action, it is completely disingenuous for the Board to claim now that the petitioner's request was not conditioned on entry into the Early Retirement Incentive Program; [t]he Board knew it, approved it and may not now assert a contrary position." (Petitioner's Reply at pp. 1-2) Further, she asserts that acceptance of the Board's contention that ambiguity in petitioner's initial letter should, pursuant to contract law, be construed against her and in favor of the Board would entail adoption of an extremely limited view of contract law and a total ignoring of the subsequent Board actions establishing that petitioner's intent to retire was conditional.

With respect to petitioner's acceptance of a check from the Board in September 1995, petitioner asserts that there is no reasonable basis on which to conclude that her acceptance of such check "constitutes the acceptance of retirement benefits so as to justify a forcible separation from employment." (Petitioner's Reply at p. 8) She posits that upon her restoration to employment, the sick leave bank should be restored by a set-off from her back pay damage award.

Lastly, petitioner asserts that although the Board argues the issue of mitigation, it has not met its burden of establishing a failure to mitigate. Citing West Orange Supplemental Instructors Association v. West Orange Board of Education, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 287 (Comm.

Ed.), aff'd in part, reversed in part, 301, 302 (State Board of Education) as authority, petitioner maintains that "[t]he Board bears the burden of proving the existence of comparable jobs that Summers could have taken." (Petitioner's Reply at p. 9) In order to meet this burden, petitioner states that the Board would need to show the existence of positions for Speech and Drama Teachers "that would be available to a 50+ year old teacher with 21 years of experience that were not remote to the petitioner." (Id.) In that the Board failed to present any evidence on this issue, petitioner argues that it cannot now argue a failure to mitigate damages. Moreover, petitioner asserts that the record substantiates that she not only sought teaching positions during this period but also sought employment in the theater arts and, as such, has met her duty to mitigate damages. (Id.) Petitioner argues that the only mitigation applicable in the within matter would be unemployment compensation, which she contends would only arise if the Board reimburses the unemployment benefits. (Id.)

Upon a full review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts of the two days of hearings at the OAL,[2] the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's analysis and conclusion that petitioner's acceptance into the Early Retirement Incentive Program was a condition precedent to her resignation/retirement from her tenured position and, because she failed to qualify for such program, no resignation/retirement occurred. As such, the action of the Board in refusing to continue the petitioner's employment was improper and she must, therefore, be immediately be reinstated to her position.

Notwithstanding the Board's protestations that petitioner's communication indicating her intent to retire was "ambiguous" and that it understood such to represent her unconditional intent to leave the District, its subsequent actions in this matter strongly belie such a contention. In this regard, the Commissioner notes that the minutes of the Board's April 28, 1994 meeting (Exhibit J-3) indicate that it acted on that date to accept what appears to be the unconditional retirement of certain individuals. (See Meeting Minutes at pp. 3 and 5.) Petitioner's retirement, on the other hand, was specifically considered and approved under the "Early Retirement Incentive Program - window of opportunity extension" (Id. at p. 7) Moreover, the Board's awareness with respect to the specifics surrounding petitioner's retirement was further confirmed in its April 29, 1994 letter to her which stated in pertinent part

> Receipt is acknowledged of your communication whereby you are retiring from your position at Union Hill High School. Please be advised that at the regular meeting of the Union City Board of Education held on April 28, 1994, your retirement was accepted under the Early Retirement Incentive Program-Delayed Retirement Provision, effective July 1, 1995.

As such, the Commissioner finds it amply established, through the Board's own actions, that it understood and accepted that there was a "condition" to petitioner's notice to retire, thereby effectively preserving to her the right to rescind such retirement if the operative condition did not come to pass. (See Cutler et al. v. Board of Education Parsippany-Troy Hills, N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division, A-1464-90T3 (January 27, 1992)). This position is further buttressed, again through the Board's own actions, by events which transpired at its June 13, 1995 meeting. Although, admittedly, taking no action on petitioner's profferred recission of her retirement/resignation at this meeting, the Board did, however, act to approve petitioner's participation in a Computer Camp later that summer which petitioner, uncontrovertedly asserts she did, in fact, attend and for which she was compensated. The Commissioner concludes that this action, along with those previously noted, are totally inconsistent with the Board's contention that it considered petitioner terminated from its employ as of June 30, 1995[3]. With respect to the Board's expressed disagreement with the credence given to testimony of the witnesses, the Commissioner finds no cause, based upon the full record before him, to call into question the credibility determinations made by the ALJ herein.

Turning to the issue of how principles of mitigation affect this matter, the Commissioner observes that, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-30 specifies

> Any person holding office, position or employment in the public school system of the state, who shall be illegally dismissed or suspended therefrom shall be entitled to compensation for the period covered by the illegal dismissal or suspension.

Under the provisions of this statute, the within Board is required to reinstate the petitioner to her position and restore the back pay and emoluments which she would have received had the Board not acted improperly in discontinuing her employment. Case law in this area, however, has consistently held that, under common law principles, petitioner was under a duty to mitigate her damages during this period by making reasonable efforts to secure alternative employment, notwithstanding that she was improperly terminated from her position. See Zielenski v. Board of Education of the Town of Guttenberg, Hudson County, 1981 S.L.D. 759; White v. Township of North Bergen, 77 N.J. 538 (1978); Mullen v. Board of Education of Jefferson Township, 81 N.J. Super. 151 (App Div. 1963); Miele v. McGuire, 31 N.J. 339 (1960). The Commissioner observes that petitioner contends that she has met her burden in that she made a diligent search for employment, filling out applications and going on auditions for theater jobs in New York. (Tr. I, 155-22 to 156-15) She, additionally, testified that there were no openings in most of the schools. (Tr. I, 158-7) The Commissioner further observes it is also well-settled in law that the burden to establish that petitioner did not put forth reasonable efforts to mitigate her damages during this period lies with the Board. (See Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19 (1981); West Orange, supra, Zielenski, supra.) To sustain its burden, the Board would be required, by the preponderance of the credible evidence, to establish that during the relevant period comparable employment opportunities were available to petitioner and she failed to take advantage of those opportunities. (Goodman; West Orange) In the within matter, although the Board charges that petitioner's damage award must be reduced due to her failure to expend reasonable efforts to mitigate her damages, it failed to satisfy its required burden of proof in support of this assertion. Merely arguing the possibility of a lack of reasonable mitigation, absent concrete evidence, renders the issue purely speculative. As such, there is no basis upon which the Commissioner can award the Board's requested relief in this regard.[4]

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated therein. The Board is hereby directed to reinstate petitioner to her position and to promptly compensate her for lost salary and emoluments owed for the period of her improper termination. The Board, however, is entitled to reduce this amount to the extent of unemployment benefits petitioner received during this period.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

[4] Although the unemployment benefits received by petitioner are to be deducted by the Board from the back pay due petitioner, and this will serve to "mitigate" her award, it is noted that such benefits are recoverable from the Board by the State. Willis v. Dyer, 163 N.J. Super. 152 (App. Div. 1978).

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Commissioner finds that although the ALJ characterized the initial decision as a dismissal, in that the dismissal was pursuant to the parties' application for same, this matter shall, instead, be considered a withdrawal, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2.

The Commissioner, therefore, approves the withdrawal, and determines that this matter shall be dismissed.

PATRICIA VAN OSTENBRIDGE, Petitioner, v. GREEN BROOK BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.	STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW Agency Ref. No. 416-9/96 OAL Docket No. EDUOR 08832-96S STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, on September 11, 1996, the Public Employment Relations Commission (hereinafter referred to as "PERC") issued a complaint in response to an unfair practice charge filed by the Green Brook Education Association (hereafter referred to as the "Association") on behalf of Patricia Van Ostenbridge whose position of instructional music teacher was abolished by respondent, Green Brook Board of Education (hereinafter referred to as the "Board");

WHEREAS, on or about September 16, 1996, petitioner, Patricia Van Ostenbridge (hereinafter referred to as "Van Ostenbridge"), filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education which alleged an entitlement to a newly created position in the Green Brook School District (hereinafter referred to as the "District"), effective the 1996-1997 school year, by virtue of her tenure and seniority rights in the District;

WHEREAS, on December 2, 1996, PERC accepted as an amendment to the complaint the Association's allegation that the Board had abolished the music program and established the position of teacher of performing arts in retaliation against Van Ostenbridge exercising her rights under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act;

WHEREAS, the parties are desirous of resolving the claims filed by the petitioner and Association without having to resort to further litigation; and

WHEREAS, in settling the verified petition of appeal and the unfair practice charge, neither party is acknowledging the merits of the position taken by the other party in the proceedings before the Commissioner of Education and the Public Employment Relations Commission;

NOW, WHEREFORE, based on the foregoing premises and the mutual promises and covenants contained herein, the parties agree as follows:

1. The Board agrees to pay Van Ostenbridge one half of the annual salary she would have received if she was employed as a full time teaching staff member for the 1996-1997 school year and for five months of the 1997-1998 school year. There shall not be a deduction from this amount for any monies that she earned during the 1996-1997 and 1997-1998 school years. The sum of twenty three thousand seven hundred fifty and 00/100 dollars ($23,750.00) for the 1996-1997 school year and twelve thousand eight hundred seventy five and 00/100 dollars ($12,875.00) for five (5) months of the 1997-1998 school year shall be subject to applicable taxes, pension contributions and deductions from the source of wages. Pension contributions shall be paid in accordance with law. In no event shall Van Ostenbridge be responsible for any pension contributions in excess of the employee's share of pension contributions.

2. Van Ostenbridge shall receive credit for pension and seniority purposes for one and one half (1.5) school years of employment on a one-half (1/2) of full time basis.

3. The Board shall not be obligated to pay Van Ostenbridge any other benefits attributable to the crediting of one and one half (1.5) years of employment with the Board.

4. Van Ostenbridge waives any rights that she may have to the position of teacher of the performing arts. She shall, however, remain on the preferred eligibility list for services performed pursuant to the music endorsement on her instructional teaching certificate and be entitled to reemployment consistent with her tenure and seniority rights in the District.

5. The Association agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, the unfair practice charge that it filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission, as amended, which bears docket number CO-H-95-339. Van Ostenbridge agrees not to file an independent unfair practice charge which pertains to any of the issues raised in CO-H-95-339 or the reduction or abolishment of the music teaching positions, the creation of the performing arts program and the hiring of another individual to the position of teacher of the performing arts.

6. Van Ostenbridge agrees to withdraw the verified petition of appeal with prejudice. The Association agrees not to file an independent verified petition of appeal which pertains to any of the issues raised in Agency Reference Number 416-9/96 and OAL Docket Number EDUOR 08832-96S or the reduction or abolishment of the music teaching position, the creation of the performing arts program and the hiring of another individual to the position of teacher of the performing arts.

7. Within thirty (30) days after the approval of this stipulation by the Commissioner of Education, the Board shall pay Van Ostenbridge back salary up to the end of the month the date the Commissioner of Education approves the Stipulation of Settlement. The balance of monies due Van Ostenbridge shall be paid to her in accordance with the regular payment schedule for certified employees in the District through January 31, 1998.

8. The undersigned represent that they have the requisite authority to sign this Stipulation of Settlement on behalf of their respective parties.

On February 13, 1997, petitioner, Ho-Ho-Kus Board of Education filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting a determination of the proper pupil tuition rate to be charged by Midland Park to Ho-Ho-Kus for the school year 1994-95, including any adjustments for prior and subsequent years, the return of overpayment, interest, attorneys fees and costs. 	:	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

This Stipulation of Settlement is made by and between the Ho-Ho-Kus Board of Education, with offices at 70 Lloyd Road, Ho-Ho-Kus, New Jersey 07423, (hereinafter referred to as "Ho-Ho-Kus") and the Midland Park Board of Education with offices at 31 Highland Avenue, Midland Park, New Jersey 07432 (hereinafter referred to as "Midland Park"). In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, Midland Park has provided high school education to Ho-Ho-Kus students for some years and Ho-Ho-Kus has paid tuition to Midland Park for the provision of high school education of Ho-Ho-Kus students; and

WHEREAS, the sending/receiving relationship between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park has terminated and will phase out at the end of the 1998-99 school year; and

WHEREAS, there had arisen a disagreement between Ho-Ho-Kus and Midland Park as to the appropriate tuition for the school years 1994-95 through 1998-99; and

WHEREAS, Midland Park and Ho-Ho-Kus have recently shared information which has enabled them to establish appropriate tuition for the aforementioned years and resolve the dispute without the payment of additional expenses.

IT IS on this 12th day of ~~May~~ June, 1997, agreed that:

1. That amount paid by Ho-Ho-Kus to Midland Park for tuition for the 1994-95 and 1995-96 years is deemed to be final and no adjustment shall be made for any reason including that of certification of tuition costs by the Department of Education.

2. Tuition for the 1996-97 school year shall be $10,000.00 per pupil. The amount paid in excess of the foregoing, $45,500.00 as of June 1997, shall be charged against the June 1997 estimated tuition charge in the amount of $56,550.00. Thus, in June 1997 Ho-Ho-Kus shall pay Midland Park $11,050.00 in lieu of $56,550.00. No other adjustments shall be made with respect to the 1996-97 school year for any reason including that of Certification of Tuition by the Department of Education.

3. For the 1997-98 and 1998-99 school years, tuition shall be $10,200.00 per person. No adjustment shall be made for any reason including that of certification of tuition costs by the Department of Education to the foregoing except as to reflect increases or decreases from estimated enrollment, which adjustments shall be made no later than June of each applicable school year.

4. Nothing in this agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of the school districts herein relevant but rather represents the desire of the parties to amicably resolve their dispute.

5. The above-captioned case shall be dismissed with prejudice; provided, however, that the parties acknowledge that their agreement to dismiss is subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

The record and the initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) in the form of a joint stipulation of settlement have been reviewed.

After a careful and independent review of the full record in this matter and the terms of the settlement, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured, in that it does not comport with relevant State mandates.

Specifically, paragraphs one, two, and three indicate that no adjustments to the tuition rates, as determined, shall be made for any reason, including that of certification of tuition costs by the Department of Education. (Stipulation of Settlement at p. 2) The Commissioner finds that such provisions create the potential for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:38-19, which prohibits the board of education of a receiving district from determining a tuition rate in excess of the actual cost per pupil as certified by the Department of Education. Further, the Commissioner determines that paragraph two of the agreement directly contravenes N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1(e) et seq.

which provides, in pertinent part, that contractual agreements established between sending and receiving boards of education > shall require that all adjustments which shall be made because of a difference in cost or in the number of pupils sent shall only be made during the third school year following the contract year. N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1(e)1.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein. The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for further revision of the documents, consistent with the above concerns. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a plenary hearing on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: October 17, 1997 Decided: October 24, 1997

BEFORE: ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

On February 13, 1997, petitioner, Ho-Ho-Kus Board of Education filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education requesting a determination of the proper pupil tuition rate to be charged by Midland Park to Ho-Ho-Kus for the school year 1994-95, including any adjustments for prior and subsequent years, the return of overpayment, interest, attorneys fees and costs. The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge and thereafter a settlement was reached. An initial decision was filed with the Commissioner of Education on July 2, 1997. On August 14, 1997, the Commissioner rejected the settlement agreement because it did not comport with relevant State mandates. More particularly, the Commissioner determined that paragraphs one, two and three created the potential for violating N.J.S.A. 18A:38-19, which prohibits the board of education of a receiving district from determining a tuition rate in excess of the actual cost per pupil as certified by the Department of Education. Further, the Commissioner determined that paragraph two of the agreement directly contravened N.J.A.C. 6:20-3.1(e) et seq. As a result, the Commissioner remanded the matter to the OAL for further revision of the documents or if the parties were unable to agree on a modified agreement, a plenary hearing on the merits.

The matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law on September 4, 1997. It was assigned to the undersigned on September 15, 1997 and a prehearing conference scheduled for October 20, 1997. Prior to the prehearing conference, the parties advised that they had reached agreement on the terms of a modified stipulation of settlement which was consistent with applicable law and addressed the concerns raised by the Commissioner's August 14, 1997 decision. As a result, the prehearing conference was adjourned.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The Stipulation of Settlement addresses the concerns expressed by the Commissioner of Education in his August 14, 1997 decision.

3. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

5. Nothing in this Agreement shall be deemed to constitute precedent, past practice or policy as to the rights of the school districts herein relevant, but rather represents the desire of the parties to amicably resolve their dispute.

6. The above-captioned case shall be dismissed with prejudice; provided, however, that the parties acknowledge that their agreement to dismiss is subject to the approval of the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals.

Respondent.

Louis C. Rosen, Esq., for petitioner (Patino-Treat and Rosen, attorneys)

Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., for respondent (Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell & Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 18, 1997 Decided: June 26, 1997

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case in September 1996 as the result of charges filed by the Board against the respondent, a tenured custodian, for alleged unbecoming conduct. A prehearing conference was conducted on December 6, 1996 and a hearing was scheduled for April 25, 1997. On that date, although a hearing commenced, continuing discussions between the parties led to an amicable resolution and a Stipulation of Settlement was signed by respondent, his attorney and by the attorney for the Board. Since then, the agreement has been retained by me awaiting receipt of a formal Board resolution adopting the same. That resolution has now been adopted and a copy sent to me which is attached hereto and made a part hereof.

I have reviewed the terms and conditions of the settlement as set forth in the agreement and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the terms of the settlement as evidenced by the signatures of respondent and both counsel.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Agreement is made and entered into as of this 10 day of June 1997, by and between the BLOOMFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION (hereinafter referred to as "the Board) and R.G., by and on behalf of his mother, L.R.C. (hereinafter referred to as "R.G.").

WHEREAS,

A. R.G. is enrolled as a student in the Bloomfield Public Schools; and

B. On April 2, 1997, R.G. was involved in a fight in the Bloomfield Middle School; and

C. The Board has obtained an Order, to be signed by the Honorable Richard McGill, A.L.J., compelling the Child Study Team ("CST") evaluation of R.G.; and

D. Further pursuit of any present or future proceedings related to the April 2, 1997 incident, regardless of the outcome, would cause disruption to the education of R.G. and to the School community; and

E. It is in the best interests of the parties to resolve this matter permanently without further disruption;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties,

IT IS on this 10 day of June, 1997, agreed:

1. In return for compliance with this settlement, R.G. agrees to:

(a) Permit the entry of Judge McGill's Order compelling the CST evaluation of R.G., in the form annexed as Exhibit A, and refrain from any further appeal of that Order.

(b) Remain on home instruction for the remainder of the 1996-97 school year. Pending completion of his work, R.G. will be promoted to Bloomfield High School for the 1997-98 school year.

(c) Continue private psycotherapy during the summer, 1997 and provide reports to the Board as to R.G.'s status and prognosis.

(d) R.G. will withdraw his Petition of Appeal filed with the Commissioner of Education and his request for an emergent relief hearing in the action known as L.R.C. on behalf of minor child R.G. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield, Agency Ref. No. 175-5/97, OAL Docket No. EDUOS 05504-97N.

2. In return for R.G.'s compliance with this Agreement, the Board agrees to:

(a) Provide home instruction services to R.G. for the remainder of the 1996-97 school year.

(b) Promote R.G. to Bloomfield High School for the 1997-98 school year upon completion of 1996-97 school work.

(c) Remove all disciplinary records from R.G.'s pupil records. The pupil records, without discipline, will be forwarded to Bloomfield High School.

3. R.G. and the Board mutually agree to hold Judge McGill's CST Order in abeyance. If there are no further disciplinary incidents during the 1997-98 school year, the Order will not be implemented. However, upon R.G.'s first disciplinary incident during the 1997-98 school year, the Board will implement the Order and commence the CST evaluation without any objection by R.G.

4. The Board agrees to withdraw the criminal complaint filed with the Bloomfield Police against R.G. with regard to the April 2, 1997 incident. Both parties mutually agree to refrain from filing or prosecuting any further criminal charges in any forum against each other for conduct related to the April 2, 1997 incident.

5. R.G., in consideration of this Agreement, releases and forever discharges the Board and the Board's members, directors, trustees, officers, employees and assigns (the Board and the foregoing persons and entities are hereinafter collectively referred to as the "Releasees") from:

(a) Any and all claims asserted or which could have been asserted in the action captioned L.R.C. on behalf of minor child R.G. v. Board of Education of the Township of Bloomfield; Agency Ref. No. 175-5/97, OAL Docket No. EDUOS 05504-97N.;

(b) Any and all claims, charges or complaints asserted, or which could have been asserted concerning any aspect of the fighting incident of April 2, 1997 at Bloomfield Middle School of which R.G. was a participant, including all criminal, civil rights or civil damage claims.

Nothing in this release shall be deemed to bar the right of R.G. to pursue a claim to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

6. The Board, in consideration of this Agreement, releases and forever discharges R.G. from any and all claims asserted or which may be asserted against him related to any aspect of the April 2, 1997 incident. Nothing in this release shall be deemed to bar the right of the Board to pursue a claim to enforce the terms of this Agreement.

7. This Agreement shall be interpreted, construed and enforced pursuant to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

8. This Agreement sets forth the entire agreement between the parties hereto.

9. This Agreement shall not in any way be construed as an admission by the Board or R.G. of any liability, or of any unlawful acts whatsoever; and the Board and R.G. specifically disclaim any liability for any wrongful or unlawful acts whatsoever.

10. Both R.G. and the Board expressly acknowledge, represent and warrant that the terms and provisions of this Agreement are the only consideration for signing this Agreement; that no other promise or agreement of any kind has been made to or with any person or entity whatsoever to cause the signing of this Agreement; and that in executing this Agreement, R.G. does not rely and has not relied upon any representation or statement made by any of the Board's agents, representatives or attorneys with regard to the subject matter, basis or effect of this Agreement or otherwise.

11. This Agreement is expresly conditioned upon approval by the Board.

12. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

13. The signatories to this Agreement expressly acknowledge, represent and warrant that they have carefully read this Agreement and have fully reviewed and discussed its terms; that they have had the opportunity to discuss the terms of this Agreement with legal counsel; that they fully understand this Agreement's terms, conditions and significance; and that they have executed this Agreement voluntarily, and knowingly.

The record of this matter and the initial decision incorporating a stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

The Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter.[1] The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.[2]

[1] It is noted that Term 11 on page four of the Settlement Agreement specifies that such agreement is conditioned upon the approval of the Board of Education. Because agency approval renders this settlement a final decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(c)2, accord to its terms by all necessary parties must be accomplished prior to the Commissioner's approval. In that the record of this matter indicates that the Board approved the agreement at its meeting on June 10, 1997, the Commissioner finds that approval of the settlement may be granted.

[2] It is further noted that, while the within matter was transmitted to the OAL as an application for emergent relief, the terms of the agreement reach to the merits of the matter. Accordingly, this matter is deemed fully resolved.

Record Closed: August 6, 1997 Decided: August 7, 1997

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The petitioners claimed that the action of the Board of Education of the Cumberland Regional School District, in awarding a contract for a surveillance CCTV system to Atlantic Coast Alarm, Inc. acted improperly in that the requirements of the public bidding laws were not followed.. In this action, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(b), petitioners have requested emergent relief in the form of an order that no contract be entered until such time as a public bid process, done in compliance with the public bidding law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4, is completed and an award made thereunder.

Petitioners, in their argument for emergent relief, did not request the award of the contract to Radar Security Systems, Inc.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioners appealed to the Department of Education and on July 24, 1997 the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was scheduled for oral argument on the motion for emergent relief on August 6, 1997 at 10:30 p.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, Quakerbridge Road, Hamilton, New Jersey.

DISCUSSION

The threshold issue raised was whether petitioner Rose Lockman has standing as a taxpayer of Cumberland regional School District (hereinafter referred to as "the District:). Ms. Lockman's certification states that she is a property owner and taxpayer of the District, and that she owns Derfield (sic) Village Antiques on Route 77, Deerfield, NJ. Ms. Lockman did not present the address of her residence. Ms. Lockman asserts that she is the owner of a business that pays property taxes to the District. Therefore, I FIND, for purposes of this emergent motion, that Ms. Lockman does have standing to pursue this matter. This finding may be rebutted with an appropriate showing to the contrary, in an subsequent motion or in the plenary hearing..

The issue in this application for emergent relief is not whether the contract should have been awarded to another, but whether the District acted properly in not putting this contract out for public bid, and by treating the purchase and installation of a CCTV surveillance system to be an extraordinary unspecified service, exempt from the requirement for an open and public bid process. I FIND that District did not act properly by treating the purchase and installation of a CCTV surveillance system as an extraordinary unspecified service, exempt from the requirement for an open and public bid process, and that the District should have put this contract out for public bid.

On June 18, 1997, the District issued specifications entitled "Master Procurement Specification" for an access control system, a CCTV surveillance system, and an alarm system. These three items were not linked so that a proposal that addressed only one item would be deemed incomplete and therefore insufficient. Quotations for each item could be entered separately. The item here in question is the CCTV surveillance system.

The District declared the purchase and installation of a CCTV surveillance system to be an extraordinary unspecified service (hereinafter "EUS"), per N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5(a)2, and on July 10, 1997, the District awarded the contract to Atlantic Coast Alarm, Inc. (hereinafter "Atlantic.")

An extraordinary unspecified service, as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1, is a service which is specialized and qualitative in nature, requiring expertise, extensive training and proven reputation in the field of endeavor. An "extraordinary unspecified service" is an exception to open competitive bidding, and thus is to be construed narrowly. The use of this exception is limited by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(b), and by a requirement that the District Board of Education is required to state the supporting reasons for its action in the resolution awarding the contract.[1]

[1] To date, the Board has passed a resolution accepting the lowest bid (Atlantic's) for a CCTV surveillance system. No statement by the District Board of Education of the supporting reasons for its action was presented. No contract for a CCTV surveillance system has yet been signed.

The "extraordinary unspecified service" exception may not be used if precedents exist in the form of other school districts which have bid for such services ((b)3.), to show that bidding for such services is feasible - petitioner Radar asserts that it has won other bid contracts for such services (Petitioner's Exhibit C). The "extraordinary unspecified service" exception also may not be used if detailed specifications could be written ((b)4.) - the "Master Procurement Specification" was written for these services.

The District claims that the installation of security systems is an emergency, because a student was killed in school in April, 1997. Undoubtedly, security is a valid concern in today's society. The District acted properly in attempting to provide a secure, safe school environment. But security concerns are not a recognized exemption from the open public bidding law. Also, the purchase and installation of the access control system and the alarm system are not here challenged. Therefore, no ruling is here made on the propriety of the process by which these other two systems were awarded. Absent a challenge, purchase and installation of these two systems may proceed apace, and presumably they will be ready for the start of the new school year.

The District had (and still has) time to award the bid for a CCTV surveillance system through the public process set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4. Any delay in the purchase and installation of the CCTV system occasioned by this Order should not be excessively burdensome. The completion of the public bid process can be accomplished within a few weeks, and there is still about a month left before the school year begins. A CCTV system can be installed after the school year commences.

The District mentioned its secrecy concerns if the details of its desired surveillance system were made known too publicly. To this Administrative Law Judge, it seems highly unlikely that someone intent on assaulting a school child would read a request for proposals of a surveillance system. In any case, the request for proposals would not contain the kind of technical information that would be useful in defeating a surveillance system, once installed.

Although the question was not put to me, it does not appear at this time that the purchase and installation of a CCTV system is the type of building construction that would require a prequalified or classified bidder.

As of July 10, 1997, Atlantic was not prequalified and was not classified. If indeed Atlantic's lack of a prequalification is merely due to a delay in the paperwork, Atlantic should shortly be in the position of being able to bid on the contract.

Also, respondent claims that petitioner Radar had installed a security system at Gloucester County Special Services School District, without going through the public bidding process. Petitioner claims that the system for the Gloucester County Special Services School District was different, and the situations dissimilar. Without the specific facts before me, no determination can be made that the situations were sufficiently similar, or if indeed Gloucester County Special Services School did validly employ the EUS exclusion.

Respondent also claimed that petitioner Radar's submission was insufficient because it did not cover maintenance and repair beyond one year. Since this ORDER does not award the contract to petitioner Radar, but instead directs an open, public bid, the adequacy or completeness of petitioner Radar's bid is not at issue.

The criteria for determination of an application for emergent relief have been set forth in Crowe v. Degioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). Four standards are articulated:

1. The relief should not be granted unless it is necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is generally considered irreparable if it cannot be adequately redressed by monetary damages.

2. Such relief should not be granted when the legal rights underlying the claim are unsettled.

3. A preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits must be made.

4. The relative hardship of the parties in granting or denying the relief sought should be considered.

If emergent relief were not granted, the District would contract with Atlantic and installation of the CCTV system would proceed. I CONCLUDE that money damages would not benefit petitioners if this happened, and respondent District could perhaps face the possibility of having one company start the installation, and another ultimately be awarded a properly-bid contract. The legal right underlying the claim, that all contracts, except those within the narrowly-defined exclusions in N.J.A.C. 6:20-8.1(b), be subject to open, competitive bidding, is indeed well-settled. Although petitioner Radar may not ultimately be awarded the contract, the ultimate success on the merits of the proposition that this contract should have been publicly bid is clear. The harm to petitioners, should the contract go through without public bidding, is considerable, while the District will only be required to bid the contract, as it should have done in the first place. The possibility of harm to Atlantic might be significant, but only if it cannot or does not enter the public bidding process. If Atlantic is able to "get its paperwork together" in time to qualify to enter the public bidding process, it may still be the lowest bidder and may yet be awarded the contract.

Therefore, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(b), I ORDER that the District enter into no contract for the provision of CCTV services until such time as a public bid process, done in compliance with the public bidding law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4, is completed and an award made thereunder.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, including the audiotape of proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and her Order on Motion for Emergent Relief have been reviewed. By letter dated August 8, 1997, from the Director of the Office of Controversies and Disputes, the parties were provided until close of business on Tuesday, August 12, 1997, to file exceptions to the Order, and until close of business on Wednesday, August 13, 1997, to file replies. The District's exceptions and Radar's reply were filed in accordance with the established timelines.

Notwithstanding that the District generally excepts to some of the legal and factual conclusions of the ALJ in this matter, it states that, because determination of these issues on their merits will require protracted hearings, and the timeline established by the District for the completion of this project can no longer be met, "[it has] determined to submit to the recommendation of Judge Clark and attempt to publicly bid the contract with the provision that no work will be done after September 1, 1997, in the building except after 3:00 p.m., when the majority of the students are not present in the school." (District's Exceptions at pp. 1-2)

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, for the reasons well expressed in her decision, that petitioners have met the standards for the granting of emergent relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), and, further, duly notes that the within District has acceded to the granting of such relief. Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ granting petitioners' Motion for Emergent Relief is adopted, and this matter is hereby returned to the Office of Administrative Law for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

Petitioner, tenured elementary school teacher, contended the Board's withholding of his salary increment for alleged unsatisfactory performance for school year 1996-97 was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

ALJ found that although petitioner was given directives on setting up goals and objectives, his performance showed no significant improvement. Thus, the ALJ found that petitioner's unsatisfactory performance was reasonable basis for the Board to withhold his increment. Moreover, petitioner failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

Citing Kopera, the Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the initial decision as his own.

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Richard Tiberio, appeals from the action by respondent, Board of Education of the Borough of Totowa, Passaic County, (Board) withholding his salary increment for school year 1996-97. Petitioner alleges that the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable and without good cause.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on July 31, 1996, as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on March 27, 1997. The parties filed posthearing briefs and the record closed on April 22, 1997. The forty-five-day statutory period to file the initial decision with the Department of Education expired on June 6, 1997. A request for an extension of time to issue the initial decision was granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimonial and documentary evidence, I FIND the following relevant FACTS:

1. Tiberio is a tenured teacher in the Totowa Borough School District.

2. Tiberio holds a master's degree in guidance and school administration and has earned credits towards a doctorate. Tiberio is certified to hold the positions of administrator, classroom teacher, and social worker.

3. Tiberio has been employed as a physical education teacher, an assistant principal, a classroom teacher for sixth, seventh and eighth grades, a guidance counselor, and a member/case manager of a child study team[1] (CST).

4. Tiberio was employed by the Board from 1973 to 1991, when his teaching position was terminated due to a reduction in force (RIF).

[1] The CST is responsible for evaluating pupils for special education services. N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(a). Generally, the CST includes a psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher-consultant (LDTC), a social worker, and, under certain circumstances, a speech correctionist or speech-language specialist. N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b).

5. The Board rehired Tiberio for the 1995-96 school year.

6. Tiberio was assigned to teach fourth grade at Washington Park School.

7. Teachers are evaluated in two areas, "Teaching Skills and Techniques" and "Planning and Classroom Organization." The evaluator records the teacher's performance on a "Classroom Observation Report." "Teaching Skills and Techniques" includes ten sections:

(a) presents objectives/tasks clearly;
(b) provides for individual needs;
(c) encourages pupil progress and growth;
(d) exhibits command of subject area;
(e) develops student responsibility;
(f) varies teaching methods;
(g) structures lesson presentation;
(h) utilizes effective questioning techniques;
(i) incorporates student responses and ideas;
(j) exhibits involvement and enthusiasm.

"Planning and Classroom Organization" includes six sections:

(a) prepares lessons thoroughly;
(b) attempts to achieve district's goals;
(c) organizes materials/resources;
(d) assesses pupils' academic progress;
(e) implements efficient classroom procedures;
(f) maintains adequate control for this learning situation.

The Classroom Observation Report may include the observer's narrative comments and suggestions.

8. On October 11, 1995, Dr. Vincent N. Varcadipane, principal of Washington Park School, evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a science lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in four sections, "continued emphasis needed" in five sections, and "unsatisfactory" in one section. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in one section and "continued emphasis needed" in five sections. R-1.

9. On October 13, 1995, Varcadipane evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a reading lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in four sections, "continued emphasis needed" in three sections, and "unsatisfactory" in three sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in one section, "continued emphasis needed" in one section, and "unsatisfactory" in four sections. R-2.

10. On October 13, 1995, Varcadipane evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a math lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in six sections, "continued emphasis needed" in one section, and "unsatisfactory" in three sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in one section, "continued emphasis needed" in three sections, and "unsatisfactory" in two sections. R-3.

11. On October 16, 1995, Dr. Viktor J. Joganow, superintendent of the Totowa Borough School District, evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a math lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Joganow rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in two sections, "continued emphasis needed" in six sections, and "unsatisfactory" in two sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Joganow rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in two sections, "continued emphasis needed" in two sections, and "unsatisfactory" in two sections. R-4.

12. On February 19, 1996, Varcadipane evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during an English lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in five sections, "continued emphasis needed" in one section, and "unsatisfactory" in four sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "continued emphasis needed" in two sections and "unsatisfactory" in four sections. R-5.

13. On February 21, 1996, Varcadipane evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a math lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in five sections, "continued emphasis needed" in two sections, and "unsatisfactory" in three sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Varcadipane rated Tiberio "continued emphasis needed" in one section and "unsatisfactory" in five sections. R-6.

14. On February 26, 1996, Joganow evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a language arts lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Joganow rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in three sections, "continued emphasis needed" in five sections, and "unsatisfactory" in two sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Joganow rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in one section, "continued emphasis needed" in two sections, and "unsatisfactory" in three sections. R-7.

15. On March 11, 1996, Joganow evaluated Tiberio's teaching performance during a science lesson. In the area of "Teaching Skills and Techniques," Joganow rated Tiberio "satisfactory" in three sections, "continued emphasis needed" in three sections, and "unsatisfactory" in four sections. In the area of "Planning and Classroom Organization," Joganow rated Tiberio "continued emphasis needed" in three sections and "unsatisfactory" in three sections. R-8.

16. On April 25, 1996, Joganow notified Tiberio that the Board had accepted the administration's recommendation to withhold his salary increment for school year 1996-97. The notice stated the administration's reasons for recommending the action and provided a "Job Target (Professional Improvement Plan)" for petitioner's "professional improvement." R-11.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold "a teacher's salary increment for inefficiency or other good cause." Salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). Thus, the Legislature has vested local boards with the power to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Indeed, a decision to withhold an increment is a matter of management prerogative which the Legislature has delegated to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). Accordingly, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his judgment for that of the board.

The scope of review on appeal is limited to whether there exists a reasonable basis for the board's decision. The local board's exercise of discretionary powers may not be upset unless it is patently arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, the Commissioner must determine: "(1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they were experts." Id. at 296-97. The burden of proving that the increment withholding was arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable rests with the person challenging the decision. Id. at 297.

I have considered petitioner's many years of experience in education. He was employed by the Totowa School District for seventeen years with an "unblemished" record. Indeed, during his twenty-two years of teaching, his "teaching style, procedures and evaluations were consistently good." Petitioner's Brief at 2. Petitioner has submitted copies of prior evaluations and letters from parents commending his performance. He believes that his experience entitled him "to acquit himself in his newly assigned fourth grade position." Ibid. Instead, on his return to the district in 1995 he was treated as if he were "a first year teacher." Ibid. For example, he was subjected to a series of "humiliating" observations and directives from the principal and superintendent.

Petitioner acknowledged that observation reviews and performance evaluations are subjective. However, he was surprised at the "administration's reaction to [his] performance." Petitioner's Brief at 3. Petitioner avers that "it is the administrator's job to set the standards and the teacher's obligation to strive to meet them." Petitioner's Reply Brief at 2. Petitioner maintains that the Board failed to establish clear teaching standards. Moreover, he was not given a professional improvement plan to inform him of the standards sought by the administration. Petitioner asserts that "[i]n the absence of such a guide, there was no basis to make fundamental changes in a teaching style and method that worked well for 22 years." Ibid. Thus, petitioner submits that the Board's expectation for "any employee to reach an unknown standard" was arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable. Ibid.

The Board argues that it properly exercised its discretionary power to withhold Tiberio's increment for inefficiency or other good cause.

Petitioner testified that he has used the same teaching methods and styles since 1973. He acknowledged that Principal Varcadipane had met with him in October 1995 and March 1996. At the meetings, Varcadipane gave petitioner directives on setting up goals and objectives. Petitioner believed, however, that the standards applied to him were inappropriate. Petitioner also believed that Varcadipane focused narrowly on goals and objectives.

Varcadipane candidly acknowledged that he viewed Tiberio, upon his return to the Totowa School District and to a teaching assignment, as a first-year teacher. Tiberio had not previously taught fourth grade, thus Varcadipane observed Tiberio's performance several times during the school year, formally and informally. Varcadipane noted deficiencies in Tiberio's performance, and used follow-up observations to determine if improvement had been achieved. Varcadipane met with Tiberio on October 13, 1995, to discuss his assessment of Tiberio's performance during three lessons. Varcadipane believed that goals and objectives were an important learning guide and focused on those areas. He directed Tiberio to submit daily goals and objectives for each lesson. In a memorandum, he provided a detailed description of the information requested. R-12.

I reject petitioner's assertion that respondent's conduct, including the frequency of observations and the manner of prescribing corrective action, was contrary to the regulation. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3 requires that tenured teaching staff be evaluated annually. The purpose of an annual evaluation is to > 1. Promote professional excellence and improve the skills of teaching staff members;

> 2. Improve pupil learning and growth; and
>
> 3. Provide a basis for the review of performance of tenured teaching staff members.

Petitioner was evaluated eight times during school year 1995-96. During the second observation Varcadipane noted continued deficiencies in petitioner's performance and directed him to submit daily detailed lesson plans. Understandably, after twenty years of teaching without fault, petitioner felt burdened and humiliated by the criticism. Comparatively, the current administrators' standards and expectations may have been higher than the standards and expectations of the evaluators who had observed Tiberio in past years. Tiberio's reliance on well-established teaching styles and techniques was unsatisfactory when viewed by administrators Varcadipane and Joganow.

Varcadipane considered Tiberio's cumulative performance, not merely one day's performance. Indeed, a teacher's performance on one day may not reflect overall ability. Thus, formal and informal observation of tenured staff who exhibit deficiencies is not contrary to the rationale requiring "the annual evaluation of all tenured teaching staff." N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(a).

Varcadipane acknowledged that Tiberio's students performed well on standardized tests. Further, the school received no complaints against petitioner from the students' parents. Varcadipane also distinguished teaching effectiveness from teaching styles. He believed that the teacher's effectiveness was the basis of the student's learning. Varcadipane sought to promote a standard of excellence in his teaching staff.

Varcadipane reviewed students' report cards before they were distributed. In a memorandum dated November 29, 1995, Varcadipane noted that Tiberio's comments on the report cards for the first marking period contained misspelled words, incomplete sentences, and punctuation errors. For example,

> #1. "[C.] is a great student, works hard, is a pleasure in class." It should read: "[C.] is a great student, works hard, and is a pleasure in class."
> #4. "He has a great Mom & Dad. Thanks for your help. Cupcakes." As mentioned above, leave this out. Send a separate note if you feel the need. Keep comments limited to student progress.
> #6. "[J.] is doing very well, He work very well sometimes to fast. He is cooperative, and a real nice boy." First Sentence: Put a period instead of a comma after well: "[J.]

> is doing very well." Second part of the sentence does not make sense - "to fast" should be "too fast." No comma in the second sentence after "cooperative." I don't understand the last sentence: "He up the good work." I think you mean: "Keep up the good work."
> #11. "[S.] is doing well, he works hard in class." "If he works a little harder he can have straight A's." First sentence: [S.]'s name is [correct spelling]. Make this sentence into two: "[S.] is doing well. He works very hard." Or: "[S] is doing very well and he is working very hard." Last sentence: "if he works a little harder he has the potential to earn straight A's." To "have" straight A's sounds like you are going to give him all A's even without earning it through documentation.

Varcadipane found that fifteen out of nineteen report cards needed some form of correction, and he directed Tiberio to redo each report card. Ibid.

Additionally, in April 1996 Tiberio's report cards did not contain the requested BUG, Superstar, and Pizzazz Club award forms. The students who receive these awards in recognition of their academic achievements have their names published in the school newsletter and are invited to have a pizza lunch with the principal. Varcadipane reviewed the students' grades to determine who would receive the BUG and Pizzazz Club awards. Tiberio conceded that he did not timely submit the candidates for the Superstar award, but maintained that he did submit names for the BUG and Pizzazz Club awards. I agree with respondent that petitioner's omission was inexcusable. R-21. Petitioner's failure to submit candidates for the Superstar award meant that the significant academic achievements of at least one student went unrecognized. Ibid.

Petitioner's teaching performance was observed on three occasions by Superintendent Joganow. He met with Tiberio and Varcadipane on February 9, 1996. At the meeting the administration expressed its concerns over Tiberio's spelling deficiency and how it would influence his students. In a memorandum to Tiberio, Joganow noted that at the meeting Tiberio had conceded that he "always had difficulty with spelling." R-24. Tiberio "reassured the administration that [he] would be more careful in reviewing all of [his] work in an effort to minimize these problems." Ibid.

Thereafter, Joganow reviewed student journals submitted by Tiberio. On February 29, 1996, Joganow wrote in a memorandum to Tiberio that the students' work contained "numerous errors including spelling, recognition of contractions, and the lack of quotation marks." R-23. Tiberio had not corrected these errors. Joganow wrote that Tiberio's "failure to specifically identify obvious errors sends a false impression to the students regarding their work." Ibid. He added that Tiberio's failure to "identify errors for the students will only perpetuate poor writing and spelling habits." Ibid. Joganow directed Tiberio to "make every effort to identify all errors for the students so they can learn not to repeat those errors in upcoming assignments." Ibid.

The purpose of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is "to reward only those who have contributed to the educational process thereby encouraging high standards of performance." Bernards Township, supra, 79 N.J. at 321. An annual increment is not a statutory right; it is a reward for good performance. North Plainfield, supra, 96 N.J. at 594. Petitioner's overall performance for school year 1995-96 did not meet the standards of performance required by the school district. Varcadipane found deficiencies in Tiberio's performance. He met with Tiberio throughout the school year to discuss his assessment of the deficiencies and ways to improve petitioner's performance. After several meetings, Varcadipane found that Tiberio's goals continued to be unsatisfactory and saw no significant improvement in his performance.

Based on careful review of the record, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to meet his burden of proof, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's action was unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious.

I further CONCLUDE that the Board had a reasonable basis for its decision to withhold petitioner's salary increment.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the Board's decision to withhold petitioner's salary increment for school year 1996-97 for unsatisfactory performance is AFFIRMED and the relief requested by petitioner is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). As the District properly instructs, it is petitioner's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the District's decision to withhold his increment was unreasonable, based on the facts. Kopera, supra. He has failed to do so.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

Petitioner, unsuccessful bidder for gas burner conversion project at respondent Board's schools, contested the award of contract to respondent Alliance.

ALJ concluded that the bids submitted by both petitioner and respondent were defective and not in compliance with the statutory provisions found at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 and N.J.S.A. 45:5A-9. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the bid submitted by Alliance and accepted by the Board was null and void and must be rejected. ALJ ordered the Board to re-advertise its bid in order that the acceptable lowest and responsible bid be in strict compliance with all relevant statutory provisions.

Commissioner adopted the initial decision and ordered the Board to rebid for the work.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter comes before the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) through the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) by the filing of a Verified Petition of Appeal by Buena Plumbing (Buena) together with Brief, Certifications and Exhibits seeking an Order setting aside a bid of the Alliance Company, Inc. (Alliance) and to enjoin the Board of Education of the City of Somers Point (Board) from awarding contracts for gas burner conversion at its Jordan Road School and its New York Avenue School to Alliance and award the contract to Buena, as the lowest qualified bidder. The matter was transmitted to the OAL pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Oral Argument on petitioner's application was heard on July 2, 1997, at the Atlantic City OAL, Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, New Jersey. The hearing record closed on July 2, 1997.

The relevant and material facts are not in dispute. Buena is a New Jersey corporation engaged in the business of plumbing, heating and air conditioning. Alliance is a New Jersey corporation doing business as a general contractor. In May of 1997, the Board advertised for bids for gas burner conversions at the Jordan Road and New York Avenue Schools. The specifications stated the bid required electrical work and that the electrical work was to be performed in accordance with all applicable local, state and other codes and ordinances.

Bids were submitted on June 13, 1997 and opened that same date. Respondent Alliance had the lowest total bid of $49,690 and petitioner Buena submitted the second lowest total bid of $51,600. Petitioner Buena was informed of the Board's intention to award the contract to respondent Alliance. The specifications for the project listed "Electrical Work" as a component of this project and stated "this subcontractor shall provide the necessary labor and material for all electrical work required under this contract." The specifications listed the electrical work involved in the project as including labor and materials for the following: new circuit breaker protection, run new conduit and wire in the boiler room, installation of burner control panel, operating and limit controls and gas burner wiring.

Petitioner argues among other things, that the Board and Alliance failed to comply with the Public Schools Contract Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 and N.J.S.A. 45:5A-9 Contractors Law.

Under N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18, all bids submitted for projects involving subcontractors for electrical work must contain the name and performance security of the subcontractor. Under N.J.S.A. 45:5A-9, a licensed electrical worker is required to perform the electrical work contained in the Board's specifications for the gas burner conversion. Alliance is not a licensed electrical contractor by the State of New Jersey. Petitioner argues, that since Alliance is not a licensed electrical contractor, it is precluded from performing the electrical component of the project and, therefore, must provide a subcontractor to perform the electrical component of the contract. Petitioner argues further that since Alliance failed to list an electrical subcontractor in its bid, its bid was materially deficient and must be rejected for failure to comply with the Board's specifications.

Petitioner admits it is likewise not a licensed electrical contractor. However, it asserts that it did list an electrical subcontractor in its bid submission as required by the bid specifications and New Jersey law.

Petitioner contends that the contract awarded to Alliance should be declared null and void and the contract awarded to Buena for the gas burner conversion as the lowest responsive and responsible bidder.

The Board argues, among other things, the Buena's bid did not include a performance security as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18. It asserts, therefore, that Buena's bid for the contract is as defective as Alliance's bid. The Board argues further, that it is not required to award the contract to the second lowest bidder but, rather, it may rebid the contract to insure its correctness.

CONCLUSIONS AND ORDER

In the Matter of Hillside Twp. vs. Sterin, 25 N.J. 317, 323 (1957) our Supreme Court held that all bids must comply with the terms imposed and any departure therefrom invalidates a nonconforming bid as well as any contract based upon it. If that were not the rule, the mandate for equality among bidders would be illusory and the advantage of competition would be lost. In Meadowbrook Carting Co. v. Island Heights Borough 138 N.J. 307 (1994), cited by the Board, the Supreme Court relied, in part, upon its holding in Hillside, supra. and held that: "strict compliance is required, and a municipality generally is without discretion to accept a defective bid." Id. at 314.

The Meadowbrook Court went on to say:

> . . . As Justice Francis observed in Hillside, supra. "In this field it is better to leave the door tightly closed than to permit it to be ajar, thus necessitating forevermore in such cases speculation as to whether or not it was purposely left that way." 25 N.J. at 326, 136 A. 2d. 265.
> As a result, all bids must comply with the terms imposed, and any material departure invalidates a nonconforming bid as well as any contract based upon it. Id. at 323, 136 A. 2d. 265. "It is firmly established in New Jersey that material conditions contained in bidding specifications may not be waived." Terminal Constr. Corp., supra., 67 N.J. at 411, 31 A. 2d. 327 (citing Hillsides, supra., 25 N.J. at 324, 136 A. 2d. 265). Id. 314

I FIND and CONCLUDE that the bids submitted by Buena and Alliance are both defective and not in compliance with the statutory provisions found at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 and N.J.S.A. 45:5A-9.

Consequently, I CONCLUDE that the bid submitted by Alliance and accepted by the Board is null and void and must be rejected. I CONCLUDE, moreover, the Board is required to re-advertise its bid for the gas burner conversion in its Jordan Road School and New York Avenue School in order that the acceptable lowest and responsible bid is in strict compliance with all statutory provisions attendant thereto. It is so ORDERED.

It is FURTHER ORDERED that petitioner's Motion for Temporary and Permanent Restraints against the Board is hereby DENIED and its Motion DISMISSED.

This tribunal does not retain jurisdiction of this matter.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the bids submitted by both petitioner and respondent Alliance are defective and not in compliance with the statutory provisions found at N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 and N.J.S.A 45:5A-9 for the reasons expressed therein. The Commissioner further concurs that, consequently, the bid submitted by Alliance must be rejected and that the Board must readvertise its bid for the gas burner conversion project in strict compliance with all relevant statutory provisions.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the OAL for the reasons expressed therein, ordering the Board to rebid for the work contemplated in accordance with the ALJ's instructions.

Petitioning District certified tenure charges of neglect of duty, excessive tardiness and insubordination against respondent administrative secretary. Respondent contended charges constituted inefficiency and, as such, were to be dismissed for failure to comply with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

ALJ concluded that the District accurately characterized respondent's practice of willfully engaging in personal activity during the work day despite warnings from her supervisor as neglect of duty rather than inefficiency. Such charge of neglect of duty was sustained as was the charge of excessive tardiness. ALJ dismissed the charge of insubordination as respondent did not engage in outright defiance of her supervisors. ALJ determined that respondent's tardiness and neglect of duty demonstrated a pattern which spanned an entire school year and interfered with the proper functioning of the office. Thus, the ALJ concluded dismissal was warranted. Respondent was ordered removed from her position of administrative secretary as of the date of her suspension.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's conclusions regarding the tenure charges, sustaining the charges of neglect of duty and excessive tardiness and dismissing the charge of insubordination. Commissioner also agreed with the ALJ's analysis concerning the appropriate characterization of the charges as neglect of duty not inefficiency. Moreover, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the penalty of dismissal was warranted given the circumstances herein. Commissioner, however, ordered respondent's termination effective as of the date of his decision, rather than the date the District initially suspended her.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 9325-96
AGENCY DKT. NO. 308-7/96

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CHARLOTTE WHITFIELD, STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF PATERSON.

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson

Gregory T. Syrek, Esq., for Charlotte Whitfield (Bucceri & Pincus, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 11, 1997 Decided: July 9, 1997

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The State-Operated School District of the City of Paterson ("District" or "petitioner") filed charges against Charlotte Whitfield ("respondent"), who it employs as a tenured administrative secretary. The District seeks dismissal of respondent or a reduction in her salary. Respondent denies the charges.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The District filed the charges with the Commissioner of Education on July 29, 1996, and respondent filed an answer on August 16, 1996. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 11, 1996 for determination as a contested case. A hearing was conducted on March 25, 26 and 27, 1997 at the Office of Administrative Law in Newark, New Jersey, and the record closed on April 11, 1997, upon receipt of briefs.

ISSUES

The charges in this proceedings are neglect of duty, insubordination and excessive tardiness. Respondent's defenses frame the issues in this matter. Respondent maintains that despite the District's use of terminology such as neglect of duty and insubordination, the factual allegations fall within the definition of "inefficiency" and that the District has failed to comply with procedural requirements set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Based upon the failure to comply with those procedural requirements, respondent contends that the charges must be dismissed. Respondent further contends that the District has failed to prove the charges of neglect of duty, insubordination and excessive tardiness. Lastly, respondent maintains that the facts in this matter do not warrant dismissal.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

The parties entered into a stipulation setting forth the following undisputed background facts in this matter:

1. The Paterson Public Schools hired the respondent as an Administrative Secretary, assigned to the Personnel Office, on August 3, 1987.

2. On May 1, 1994, the State District Superintendent implemented a reorganization wherein the respondent's position was changed to Administrative Secretary, Central Office.

3. On December 16, 1991, Deborah West was hired as Assistant to the Director of Personnel, Dr. John A. Nolan.

4. As the Assistant to the Director, Ms. West supervised the respondent, Birdie Gregory, and Lucille Gibson, secretaries in the Personnel Office.

5. On December 4, 1992, Dr. Nolan and Mrs. West (formerly Ms. Bonhannon) prepared a joint evaluation of the respondent. The respondent signed the evaluation instrument.

6. The respondent was transferred to an administrative secretary position, Central Office (Dr. [Benjamin H.] Williams' Office), effective May 1, 1994.

7. On July 11, 1995, the petitioner hired Joy Anne Friedman as the new Public Information Officer, replacing Charles Coligan.

8. During the 1995-96 school year, the respondent was assigned to work for Ms. Friedman and T.K. Wells, Principal on Special Assignment.

9. On June 26, 1996, the respondent was suspended with pay and served tenure charges.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

The District presented the testimony of respondent's supervisor, Joy Anne Friedman, who is the Public Information Officer, and four other employees including Deborah West, who is the Assistant to the Director of Personnel; Stephen Cohen, who is the District Technology Planner; and two secretaries, Janira Steward and Carol Madsen. Respondent testified on her own behalf.

a. Joy Anne Friedman

Joy Anne Friedman began her employment with the District as the Public Information Officer on July 11, 1995. Her duties included regular contact with the press, preparation of speeches for the District Superintendent and reports for the New Jersey Department of Education, and communications with parents and other members of the community. Friedman's staff included respondent, who was an administrative secretary. In addition to general secretarial duties, respondent was responsible for scanning newspapers for articles related to the District. Respondent was also required as part of a group of secretaries to answer telephones for a suite of offices.

Friedman spoke with respondent about tardiness in August 1995 and again in September 1995, but the problem grew worse. As a result, Friedman scheduled a meeting for November 13, 1995 with respondent and Assistant Personnel Director Deborah West and prepared a memorandum to respondent bearing the same date. Friedman's two main concerns were tardiness and respondent's failure to complete assignments. According to the memorandum, respondent was scheduled to work from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and she was supposed to scan the newspapers between 8:00 a.m. and 9:00 a.m. The purpose of this schedule was to provide Friedman with any newspaper articles that required her attention by the beginning of her work day. However, respondent was not completing this function in a timely manner, because she was not arriving for work on time. Additionally, Friedman often had early morning meetings outside the office. On numerous occasions, Friedman attempted to reach respondent by telephone for some type of assistance, but respondent was not in the office. Further, respondent's extended lunch hours, and random absences hindered Friedman's ability to perform her duties.

The memorandum further stated that respondent's work assignments were often not completed in a timely manner. Friedman attributed this situation to insufficient time spent in the office and far too much time spent on personal matters. Examples of personal matters included preparing respondent's resume, paying bills, working on church responsibilities and taking personal telephone calls.

As a result of the tardiness, Friedman changed respondent's work hours to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with newspapers duties to be completed by 9:30 a.m. Further, Friedman required respondent to give advance notice before taking personal or vacation time and to sign-in each day, accurately recording her starting time. Additionally, Friedman directed respondent to attend to her responsibilities concerning the upkeep of the fax machine and not to handle personal matters during work hours. The memorandum concludes by stating that adverse personnel action will be taken if immediate improvement is not evident.

As of November 13, 1995, respondent had been tardy on twenty-six occasions detailed as follows: one hour and ten minutes on July 11, 1995; forty-five minutes on July 19, 1995; one hour on August 1, 1995; one hour on August 3, 1995; one hour and thirty minutes on August 15, 1995; twenty minutes on August 22, 1995; one hour and fifteen minutes on August 29, 1995; thirty minutes on September 6, 1995; thirty minutes on September 7, 1995; one hour on September 12, 1995; one hour on September 13, 1995; two hours on September 14, 1995; thirty minutes on September 15, 1995; twenty minutes on September 18, 1995; one hour on September 19, 1995; fifteen minutes on September 21, 1995; thirty minutes on September 22, 1995; four hours on September 25, 1995; one hour on September 26, 1995; thirty minutes on September 27, 1995; one hour on October 2, 1995; ten minutes on October 3, 1995; thirty minutes on October 10, 1995; thirty minutes on October 26, 1995; fifteen minutes on November 6, 1995; and twenty minutes on November 8, 1995. Initially, Friedman did not request explanations for respondent's tardinesses and respondent did not provide any. In September 1995, respondent said that her tardiness was caused by personal problems. Friedman acknowledges that on five or six occasions, she asked respondent to go to another location such as the print shop or the camera shop before reporting to the office. At the meeting on November 13, 1995, respondent did not give any further explanation for her tardiness. On occasion, respondent stayed late to make up for her tardiness.

One instance where respondent's tardiness impacted Friedman occurred in late September or early October 1995. Friedman was at a school and wanted a consent form faxed to her. Friedman telephoned her office, and another secretary informed her that respondent had not arrived at work. Later, Friedman asked respondent for an explanation, and respondent said that she had personal problems.

Respondent's duties included upkeep of the fax machine, which generally meant replacing the imaging film, and distribution of fax transmittals. However, the fax transmittals were not being distributed in a timely manner. In addition, the fax machine was not being maintained such that the machine did not produce a transmittal when a message was received or the printing was so light that it could not be read. With respect to personal matters during work hours, Friedman noticed respondent paying bills, taking telephone calls and working on a church bulletin for an extended period of time, shortly before the meeting on November 13, 1995. Friedman thought that respondent should attend to these matters on her lunch hour or on breaks during the day. Friedman spoke with respondent informally about this matter several times before the meeting on November 13, 1995, because it was interfering with respondent's ability to complete her work in a timely manner.

The same type of conduct by respondent persisted after the meeting on November 13, 1995. After receiving complaints concerning fax transmittals from Dr. Laval S. Wilson, who is the State District Superintendent, and from Stephen Cohen, the District Technology Planner, Friedman looked into the matter and found that fax transmittals were sitting around for days at a time despite the fact that the fax machine was located only two or three feet from respondent's desk. Additionally, respondent had failed to replace the imaging film with the result that the visual quality of many of the fax transmittals was very poor. In some instances, the machine could not receive a message at all due to the lack of imaging film. When Friedman called this situation to respondent's attention, respondent said that she would take care of it. Friedman also saw respondent doing personal business during work hours on many occasions after November 13, 1995. Those activities included paying bills, working on a church bulletin and taking personal telephone calls.

Tardiness also continued to be a problem. From November 13, 1995 to February 7, 1996, when Friedman wrote another memorandum, respondent was tardy on nine occasions. The details are as follows: fifteen minutes on December 7, 1995; five minutes on December 8, 1995; fifteen minutes on December 12, 1995; five minutes on December 13, 1995; forty-five minutes on January 18, 1996; fifteen minutes on January 24, 1996; ten minutes on January 30, 1996; five minutes on February 1, 1996; and ten minutes on February 5, 1996.

There were two specific incidents at the beginning of February 1996 in which respondent failed to complete an assignment in a timely manner. One assignment related to New Jersey School Report Cards, which were prepared by the New Jersey Department of Education. The District was required to distribute these report cards to various governmental entities, the community and the public at large. Friedman had 100 copies of the report cards for each of thirty-six schools. Friedman gave respondent the task to collate the copies into packages containing one report card for each school. In giving respondent this assignment, Friedman stated that she needed the collated packages as soon as possible. According to Friedman, this task could be completed in several hours. By February 7, 1996, three weeks had gone by and respondent still had not completed the assignment. In the meantime, the District had received numerous requests for school report cards. As a result of respondent's failure to complete the assignment promptly, the report cards were not issued to the public in a timely manner creating a negative effect on the image of the District.

On February 1, 1996, Friedman instructed respondent to complete a critical work assignment related to the District's monitoring process by the New Jersey Department of Education by February 6, 1996. By the end of February 5, 1996, respondent had not touched the assignment, and on February 6, 1996, respondent called in sick. As a result of respondent's failure to complete the assignment and due to its critical nature, Friedman had to request temporary assistance from another staff member, thereby disrupting the activity of another department.

Friedman summarized the above course of events in a memorandum dated February 7, 1996. Friedman also mentions in the memorandum that respondent takes extended lunch hours, regularly provides incomplete telephone messages and has failed to relay several important messages from press representatives. The memorandum emphasizes that respondent's chronic tardiness, unreliability and attention to personal matters delayed the completion of time-sensitive work assignments and hindered the productivity of the office.

By memorandum dated April 2, 1996, Friedman reported to the Director of Personnel that respondent's work performance had not improved. After mentioning various concerns about respondent as well as complaints concerning poor telephone manners, Friedman requested that personnel action be taken against her.

Respondent's use of work time to complete personal business continued despite the warnings. On May 3, 1996, Friedman noticed that respondent spent the entire morning working on a college application for her husband. Respondent made no attempt to hide her actions and made at least one telephone call in the process. Between 11:00 a.m. and 11:30 a.m., Friedman asked respondent to put the application aside. Respondent began to bang things on her desk and then went to the restroom.

On that same date, Friedman had a priority assignment for the District Superintendent. The assignment involved preparation of a report to be accompanied by videotapes of a Board member speaking at a City Council meeting. The report had to be sent to the Department of Education in Trenton. Before lunch, Friedman gave respondent a portion of this assignment which required her to view various videotapes.

Respondent normally took one hour for lunch. On this day, however, respondent went to lunch at 12:10 p.m. but had not returned by mid-afternoon. Respondent did not have any work assignment on her lunch hour. If an employee is delayed returning from lunch, she should telephone her supervisor. Friedman was in her office writing the report, but she did not receive a call from respondent. As the afternoon progressed and respondent did not return from lunch, Friedman took two employees from other tasks and assigned them to this project. Friedman planned to have the report and videotapes hand-delivered to Trenton that afternoon.

Respondent returned from lunch at 3:40 p.m. Friedman discussed the situation with respondent, who stated that she was delayed returning to work by an accident on the highway.

Respondent began the assignment, but by the end of the work day, there were still more tapes to be viewed. By this time, it was too late to send the report to Trenton. As a result, the project was not completed until the following day.

Respondent's tardiness continued through the end of the school year. Respondent was tardy on ten occasions from February 7, 1996 to the end of the school year. The details are as follows: five minutes on February 26, 1996; five minutes on February 27, 1996; five minutes on March 1, 1996; five minutes on March 7, 1996; five minutes on March 18, 1996; ten minutes on March 22, 1996; five minutes on March 28, 1996; ten minutes on April 1, 1996; thirty-five minutes on April 10, 1996; and thirty minutes on June 14, 1996.

Employees were required to record the time that they arrived at work in a sign-in book. Two secretaries, Carol Madsen and Janira Steward, advised Friedman that respondent's entries were not accurate.

In late June 1996, Friedman completed an evaluation of respondent for the 1995-96 school year. The lowest of the five categories on the evaluation form is "unsuccessful," and the second lowest is "fair," which means less than satisfactory performance. Friedman rated respondent as unsuccessful in most areas including punctuality and fair in six areas. Respondent was tardy a total of forty-five times during the 1995-96 school year.

Friedman also rated respondent as unsuccessful with respect to telephone etiquette. In addition to hearing respondent speak inappropriately on the telephone, Friedman received complaints from various individuals. One complaint came from a newspaper reporter, who said that respondent was rude to her. Friedman spoke with respondent about this incident. Respondent did not deny it or apologize but was basically indifferent.

Friedman received a complaint from the Mayor, who said that respondent was not helpful. Friedman spoke with respondent and told her that calls from the Mayor were particularly sensitive and that she should be helpful. Nonetheless, Friedman received additional complaints from the Mayor.

Similarly, Friedman received a complaint from the District Superintendent, who said that respondent was not helpful. Friedman told respondent to be particularly sensitive to calls from the Superintendent and that they were to be given priority. Nonetheless, Friedman received several complaints from the District Superintendent.

Friedman rated respondent as unsuccessful with respect to acceptance of criticism, because she became angry and hostile. With respect to dependability, Friedman also rated respondent as unsuccessful. Friedman emphasized that it is critically important to have a dependable secretary.

Friedman tried to dictate to respondent and found that respondent was writing in longhand. Respondent did not use shorthand. As a result, Friedman rated respondent as unsuccessful with respect to dictation. Likewise, Friedman rated respondent as unsuccessful with respect to spreadsheets, which were used to provide data for the compliance officer on subjects such as the dropout rate.

b. Stephen Cohen

As the District Technology Planner, Stephen Cohen oversees both the educational and business aspects of technology for the District. Cohen began his employment with District in 1969. Cohen's office is in the same area to which respondent was assigned.

The fax machine was located four or five feet from the door to Cohen's office and a similar distance from respondent's desk. It was respondent's duty to maintain the fax machine and ensure that it was operational. In order for the fax machine to function, it must have fax imaging film. One film will produce 100 to 150 fax transmittals.

In this particular office, one imaging film was good for approximately half a day. To ensure continuous operation, it was necessary to have at least two imaging films available in addition to the one in the machine. When down to one, respondent should call for another imaging film, which would be delivered the next day. The fax machine has an indicator such that it is readily observable when it is running out of film.

Problems with the fax machine occurred almost daily. On numerous occasions, the fax film ran out and was not replaced. When this situation occurred, it was possible that a fax transmittal could be lost. The lack of proper functioning of the fax machine posed problems for Cohen and others with respect to their daily responsibilities. Cohen did not keep any written records and he could not recall specific dates. However, Cohen stated that the fax machine was a constant problem.

Cohen spoke with respondent many times about the fax machine. Respondent said that she would take care of it and eventually she did. However, it could be hours or even days later when she corrected the situation. Cohen spoke with Friedman many times about respondent's failure to maintain the fax machine.

c. Janira Steward

Janira Steward is currently employed by the District as an administrative secretary. Steward began her employment with the District on March 1, 1995, as a temporary employee and substitute secretary and was assigned to an area where there were six secretaries. At that time, Steward worked for the Ombudsperson and the District Technology Planner, Stephen Cohen. Respondent's desk was very near Steward's. Steward became a permanent employee on March 11, 1996. Shortly thereafter, Steward was advised that she would be laid off effective July 1, 1996. However, Steward was assigned to Public Information Officer Friedman effective July 1, 1996, in effect replacing respondent.

Steward's hours of work as a secretary were 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and at first, respondent worked the same hours. Secretaries were required to sign in and out upon arrival and departure. The sign-in book was located on a file cabinet approximately four or five feet from Steward's desk. Steward noticed that some secretaries were not signing in and that others were signing for an entire week at a time. During a meeting, Steward called this situation to the attention of the Assistant District Superintendent.

Steward observed respondent sign in late frequently. At the time, Steward was not Friedman's secretary, but if respondent was late, Steward would have to do respondent's work such as newspaper clipping. Steward was not certain of the exact number of times that respondent was late, and she did not know the reasons for the lateness. Steward discussed the situation with Friedman, who changed respondent's work hours to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Steward observed respondent arrive late for work on several days at the end of April 1996 and not sign in. Steward wrote down the times when respondent actually reported to work. Respondent signed in for the dates in question a few days later, but the entries were not accurate. Steward discussed this situation with Friedman, who asked to see the sign in book.

Respondent's duties included maintenance of the fax machine, which was located approximately two feet from her desk. However, respondent did not carry out her responsibility with respect to the fax machine.

Respondent was given an assignment to collate school report cards. However, respondent did not complete this task, and Steward had to collate the school report cards.

Respondent took personal telephone calls during the work day. Steward knew that the calls were personal because they were long and involved a lot of laughter.

In May 1996, Friedman gave respondent an assignment which required her to view videotapes. When respondent did not return from lunch, Steward was asked to view the videotapes and began the assignment. Respondent returned from lunch between 3:30 p.m. and 3:45 p.m. and at that point began to work on the assignment. Steward did not ask respondent why she was late returning from lunch.

d. Carol Madsen

Carol Madsen is employed by the District as a confidential secretary and is assigned to the Assistant Superintendent's office. Her work area is several desks away from respondent.

The secretaries signed in when they arrived and signed out when they departed from the office. The sign-in book was a few feet from her desk. Respondent worked from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., and during the school year, her hours were changed to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Madsen observed respondent sign in late on various occasions. Madsen's work hours were from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., but for two days in August, she arrived at work at 7:30 a.m. Respondent arrived between 8:15 a.m. to 8:20 a.m., but she signed in at 8:00 a.m. Madsen reported to Friedman that respondent was falsifying her reporting time.

Respondent's tardiness became problematic. When respondent was late, Madsen had to call personnel and request assistance. Madsen and Friedman discussed the possibility of respondent making up her late time by working through lunch or at the beginning or end of the day. Madsen suggested changing respondent's work hours to 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Respondent had the responsibility to maintain the fax machine and distribute the fax transmittals. The Assistant District Superintendent complained about waiting two days for a fax transmittal, and other staff members complained as well.

Respondent was scheduled for lunch from 12:00 noon to 1:00 p.m., and Madsen went to lunch from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. The lunch hours were scheduled so as to maintain telephone coverage. During one particular morning, Madsen asked respondent to go to lunch on time, because Madsen had scheduled a doctor's appointment for her lunch hour. Respondent agreed but instead of going to lunch on time, she took a personal telephone call for thirty to forty-five minutes. Madsen reminded respondent at 12:15 p.m., but respondent continued her conversation. Madsen thought the incident showed a lack of concern for others in the office.

In May 1996, Friedman had an important assignment for the Assistant District Superintendent. Friedman assigned part of the task to respondent, but she did not return from lunch. As a result, Madsen had to take Steward off of other office work to do respondent's job.

e. Deborah West

Deborah West has been employed by the District since December 1991 and is now Assistant to the Director of Personnel. West is responsible for non-certificated positions and, as part of her duties, reviews recommendations for disciplinary action. When West began her employment, respondent was assigned to the personnel office as a confidential secretary.

Respondent continued to work as a confidential secretary in the personnel office during the 1992-93 school year. Respondent's duties included typing, word processing, clerical and minor administrative functions. West observed respondent during this period of time and prepared an evaluation of respondent for the 1992-93 school year, which she signed along with the Director of Personnel.

The five levels of performance on the evaluation form are "distinguished," "commendable," "competent," "fair" and "unsuccessful." Respondent was rated as commendable in four areas, competent in ten areas and fair in seven areas. Respondent did not receive any ratings as distinguished or as unsuccessful. Respondent was rated as only fair with respect to telephone etiquette and punctuality. According to West, respondent was repeatedly late at the beginning of the day and also returning from lunch. The comments refer to respondent's lack of patience with persons who call on the telephone and to her conducting her "homebuyers" business during work hours. However, the overall evaluation refers to respondent as a valued employee and encouraged her to continue her high level of service.

West felt that respondent's work needed improvement and suggested that respondent consider the possibility of a transfer to another section. Initially, respondent was not receptive to the idea, but subsequently, respondent agreed to a transfer. Effective May 1, 1994, respondent was transferred to the central office as an administrative secretary.

In the central office, respondent was assigned to work for the public information officer. In November 1995, Public Information Officer Joy Anne Friedman brought to West's attention certain concerns about respondent's work performance. As a result, West met with Friedman and respondent in the personnel office on November 13, 1995. During the meeting, Friedman raised various concerns such as lack of punctuality, failure to complete work assignments and attending to personal matters during work hours. Respondent did not agree with Friedman's comments. Friedman wrote a memorandum dated November 13, 1995, detailing her concerns.

West had subsequent discussions with Friedman concerning respondent during the school year. On May 3, 1996, West received a report from Friedman that before lunch, she gave respondent a priority assignment and that respondent went to lunch at noon. By 3:20 p.m., respondent still had not called or returned from lunch. Friedman also advised that respondent had spent the entire morning preparing a college application for her husband. Later in the day, West met with the respondent, who stated that she had called her supervisor.

As a result, West sent a memorandum to the Director of Personnel in which she referred to the incident on May 3, 1996. West also stated that respondent's "continued abuse and defiance of employment policies and procedures, poor work quality and ethics, and blatant disrespect to her immediate supervisors is greatly affecting the progress of the Public Information Office." Based on these circumstances, West requested immediate dismissal action.

f. Charlotte Whitfield

Respondent testified that she began her employment with the Paterson public schools on August 3, 1987, as a secretary in the personnel office. Respondent worked in the personnel office, until she was transferred to the central office in May 1994. During the time that respondent was in the personnel office, she was never disciplined for any reason and never had her increment withheld. Respondent was not evaluated until December 1992. Respondent was not transferred for disciplinary reasons but rather because there were problems with the secretaries in the central office.

In the central office, respondent was assigned to Public Information Officer Chuck Coligan. Respondent's primary duties were to clip articles from newspapers, type press releases and answer the telephone. Respondent was assigned to Coligan, until he was transferred in February 1995. During the time that respondent was assigned to Coligan, she had no written evaluations, she was not subject to any discipline, and there was never discussion of any problems. From February 1995 to July 11, 1995, Dr. Williams was considered to be her supervisor. Similarly during this time, there was no evaluation, respondent was subject to no discipline, and there was no discussion of any problems.

On July 11, 1995, Joy Anne Friedman became the public information officer. Friedman increased respondent's duties in two respects. First, Friedman expanded the newspaper clipping to include the sports section as well as articles concerning other school districts. Respondent scanned four newspapers on Tuesday through Friday. On Mondays, there were twelve newspapers including weekend editions. Second, Friedman made respondent responsible for the fax machine effective August 16, 1995. Respondent's responsibilities were to ensure that fax transmittals were distributed to the receiving individual and to replace the imaging film.

On November 13, 1995, Friedman gave respondent a memorandum concerning her work performance, and a meeting was held on that same day. Friedman's main concerns related to tardiness, the fax machine, use of work time for personal matters and failure to complete work assignments in a timely manner. Respondent thought her performance was good but did not argue with most of Friedman's concerns.

In regard to the fax machine, Friedman stated that people were not getting their fax transmittals. In response, respondent took steps to improve the situation. She made a fax box and distributed transmittals throughout the day. She received no complaints after this point in time. With respect to the imaging film, one extra box was kept under the machine and the others were kept in the basement of another building. Respondent had to make a telephone call to have another box delivered to the central office. It took some time to get the imaging film, but there were no long delays. Respondent states that both Friedman and Stephen Cohen were not telling the truth, when they testified that they spoke to her many times about problems with fax transmittals.

Another matter concerned use of work time for personal matters such as receiving telephone calls. Respondent did not dispute this point during this meeting, but respondent now states that she performed no personal tasks during the 1995-96 school year. Testimony to the effect that she used work time to pay personal bills, to prepare a church flyer on the school computer or to speak on the telephone with her husband was not true. Additionally, in regard to the incident in which Carol Madsen asked respondent to go to lunch at her assigned time, respondent states that she was not taking a personal telephone call on that occasion.

In regard to tardiness, respondent states that she was sometimes given an assignment which required her to stop at another location, such as the print shop, the camera shop or the resource center, prior to reporting to the central office. Under the sign-in procedure in effect until August 1995, respondent would sign-in at 8:00 a.m., even if she was on such an assignment. In August 1995, the procedure was changed such that respondent was required record the time when she actually arrived at the central office. Respondent usually went to these locations prior to reporting to work in the morning, but on occasion she stopped on her return from lunch.

Respondent discussed a number of days on which she was late on an individual basis. According to petitioner's records, respondent was late on twenty-six occasions from July 11, 1995 to November 13, 1995. Respondent's testimony indicates that during this period of time she went to the resource center four times and once to the camera shop. Respondent had four doctor's appointments, and she was late due to personal problems on four occasions. Respondent took a half day off on one date on which she is listed as late, and on three occasions, she called in stating that she would be late and made up the time.

According to petitioner's records, respondent was late on nineteen occasions through the balance of the school year. However, respondent states that she was late on only seven occasions. According to respondent, she went twice to the resource center, twice to the print shop and once to the bank, and on one occasion, she called in stating that she would be late and made up the time.

In regard to the testimony to the effect that respondent signed in on time on occasions when she was actually late, respondent states that she is not aware of any instance in which this happened.

Two incidents occurred in early February 1996. On February 1, 1996, Friedman gave respondent an assignment related to school monitoring reports to be completed by February 6, 1996. Respondent was about to start this task on February 5, 1996, but Friedman gave her another assignment. Then, respondent was sick on February 6 and 7, 1996. As a result, another employee completed the task.

Another assignment related to school report cards for each of the District's thirty-six schools. Friedman gave appellant the assignment to collate the report cards into piles that had one report card for each school. Friedman directed respondent to use the DeLuccia Room for this task. However, the DeLuccia Room was in use with the result that respondent did the collating two weeks later in Friedman's office. Respondent had no indication that she was not doing the job fast enough.

In a letter dated February 7, 1996, to respondent, Friedman mentions those two incidents as examples of unreliability and unacceptable work performance. The letter also mentions difficulties with the fax machine, incomplete telephone messages and continued tardiness. Because of these circumstances, Friedman advises that she is requesting that disciplinary action be taken against respondent.

In a memorandum dated February 1, 1996, to the Director of Personnel, Friedman requested that respondent's increment be withheld due to her unsatisfactory job performance. Respondent did not receive a copy of this memorandum. By memorandum dated April 2, 1996, to the Director of Personnel, Friedman again requested personnel action due to respondent's work performance. Respondent did not receive a copy of this memorandum.

On May 3, 1996, Friedman gave a respondent a critical assignment at 11:55 a.m. The task required respondent to view twenty videotapes and stop them a point where a particular individual began to speak. Respondent then had to prepare labels and envelopes.

At no time during that day or at any other time did respondent work on a college application. Respondent states that Friedman was not telling the truth, when she testified that respondent was working on a college application on May 3, 1996.

Respondent decided to complete some other work before going to lunch and with Friedman's approval went to lunch at approximately 1:00 p.m. Respondent proceeded to Montclair State College to drop off a financial aid application for her husband, who was a student there. The trip takes thirty to forty-five minutes one way, and she expected to be back by 2:00 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. However, on her return trip, respondent was caught in a traffic jam caused by an accident for approximately an hour and fifteen minutes. Respondent was unable to make a telephone call. The financial aid application was completed by respondent's husband. Respondent did not work on it at all.

Respondent returned from lunch at 3:30 p.m. and began to work on the assignment which had been started by another employee. Respondent completed the assignment at 5:30 p.m. and was able to contact Friedman, who said that they would discuss it in the morning.

As a result of this incident, Friedman sent a memorandum dated May 3, 1996, to the Director of Personnel, recommending disciplinary action against respondent. Respondent received a copy of this memorandum.

On June 26, 1996, Friedman completed an evaluation of respondent for the 1995-96 school year, and on that date respondent was suspended from her position. Respondent did not agree with the evaluation which she states was unfair to her. First, Friedman rated respondent as "unsuccessful" with respect to skills which were rarely if ever utilized. With respect to computer competency, Friedman rated respondent as "unsuccessful" in regard to "spreadsheet" and "communication." Respondent did an assignment based on a speadsheet only once during her employment, and she had no duties utilizing computer communication. Respondent also did not use "data base" on which she was rated as only "fair." Friedman also rated respondent as "unsuccessful" with respect to taking dictation. Respondent states that she did not have to take dictation, although she had no problem with speed writing. Similarly, Friedman rated respondent as "unsuccessful" with respect to production of basic reports even though it was not respondent's duty to produce reports.

Respondent states that she was also evaluated unfairly with respect to areas which were applicable. In regard to telephone etiquette, respondent states that reporter Roya Rafei complained to Friedman that respondent was rude to her. However, Friedman had instructed respondent not to interrupt her during a meeting. Rafei called on the telephone and wanted to speak with Friedman. Because of Friedman's instruction, respondent would not allow Rafei, despite her persistence, to speak with Friedman. As a result, Rafei complained to Friedman that respondent was rude. Respondent was not aware of any problems with respect to telephone etiquette concerning the Mayor or the Superintendent.

Friedman rated respondent as "unsuccessful" with respect to "professional attitude." Respondent states that she did not have a bad attitude. In regard to a rating of "unsuccessful" with respect to "punctuality," respondent states that she did not realize that this item was a serious concern.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

A tenured secretary holds her employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and may not be dismissed, suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offenses. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. In the event of a dismissal, suspension or reduction in compensation, the school district must proceed in the manner prescribed in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq. Various procedural safeguards are set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, including requirements that the charges be set forth in writing and that the employee be given the opportunity to respond thereto. Additionally, if the charge is inefficiency, the school district must give the employee at least ninety days in which to correct and overcome the inefficiency. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. The school district must prove the charges by a preponderance of the believable evidence.

The first issue is whether the factual allegations in regard to the charges of neglect of duty, insubordination and excessive tardiness are supported by a preponderance of the evidence. Petitioner's witnesses were credible, and their testimony as summarized above is accepted as true. Respondent testified to the same general course of events, but her version conflicted with the testimony of petitioner's witnesses in certain key respects. In view of the credibility of petitioner's witnesses, respondent's testimony cannot be considered to be reliable.

In regard to the charge of excessive tardiness, petitioner alleged that respondent was late on forty-five occasions during the 1995-96 school year. Petitioner's exhibit shows that respondent was late on twenty-six occasions prior to the meeting on November 13, 1995, and nineteen times thereafter. Respondent offered explanations for a number of the latenesses. On various occasions, Friedman directed respondent to stop at another location before reporting to the central office. This circumstance constitutes a legitimate excuse for lateness. Respondent's testimony indicates that she was sent to another location on five occasions prior to November 13, 1995, and five times thereafter. Accordingly, the unexcused latenesses should be reduced to twenty-one occasions prior to November 13, 1995, and fourteen times thereafter. Respondent offered other explanations such doctors' appointments or personal matters, but these circumstances do not alter the fact that she was late for work. Additionally, the fact that respondent made up the time or took time off does not alter the fact that she was tardy on certain dates.

Two other secretaries testified that respondent signed in on time, when she was actually late. However, this testimony was not sufficiently specific as to dates and times to be reliable.

It is noteworthy that the latenesses were considerably more egregious prior to the meeting on November 13, 1995. During the four-month period from July 11, 1995, to November 13, 1995, respondent was late on twenty-one occasions, averaging approximately five latenesses per month. The average length of the latenesses was fifty minutes. Subsequent to November 13, 1995, respondent had fourteen latenesses in a period of seven and a half months averaging two occasions per month. The average length of the latenesses was eight minutes.

Respondent's tardiness impacted her duties related to reviewing newspapers for articles related to school matters. Friedman directed respondent to complete this assignment between 8:00 a.m. and 9:00 a.m. so that Friedman would be aware of the articles at the beginning of her work day. Friedman's testimony to the effect that respondent frequently failed to complete this task in a timely manner was credible.

Friedman and Cohen testified at length concerning respondent's failure to carry out her responsibilities concerning the fax machine. Respondent stated that the testimony of Friedman and Cohen in regard to the fax machine was not true. Friedman and Cohen were credible witnesses, and their testimony is accepted as true.

The charges against respondent include allegations that she did not take accurate phone messages and that she failed to copy documents. Petitioner did not present evidence to support these allegations other than a letter dated February 6, 1996, from Friedman warning respondent about incomplete telephone messages.

Friedman testified to several specific instances where respondent failed to complete an assignment in a timely manner. In addition, Friedman stated that respondent took personal telephone calls and engaged in various personal activities during the work day. Friedman's testimony in regard to these matters was credible. With respect to the incident on May 3, 1996, the credible evidence indicates that respondent left for lunch at 12:10 p.m. and returned at 3:40 p.m. Further, the trip to Montclair State College and return takes one hour to one hour and fifteen minutes. The difference between the three and a half hours that respondent was away from her desk and the one hour and fifteen minutes of travel time is two hours and fifteen minutes. Respondent's claim that a traffic jam caused her to lose the additional time was not believable.

Another allegation concerned respondent's telephone etiquette. Friedman testified that she heard respondent speak in an unprofessional manner on the telephone and that she received complaints about respondent's telephone etiquette. In regard to this allegation, there is a certain lack of specificity as to the language used by respondent and the manner in which she spoke over the telephone. This is particularly true as to the complaints. Under the circumstances, the testimony concerning complaints should be limited to bolstering Friedman's credible testimony to the effect that she heard respondent speak in an unprofessional manner on the telephone.

Finally, petitioner alleges that respondent's various shortcomings continued despite warnings. In the memorandum dated November 13, 1995, Friedman warned respondent concerning tardiness, upkeep of the fax machine and use of work time to deal with personal matters. Additionally, by letter dated February 7, 1996, Friedman warned respondent concerning chronic tardiness, failure to complete assignments, attention to personal matters and failure to provide complete telephone messages.

Based upon the evidence presented at the hearing, I FIND:

1. Respondent had thirty-five unexcused latenesses during the 1995-96 school year.

2. Twenty-one of the latenesses occurred between July 11, 1995, and November 13, 1995, when Friedman warned respondent about her tardiness. On average, respondent was late four times per month for a period of fifty minutes.

3. After the warning, respondent had fourteen additional unexcused latenesses. On average, respondent was late twice per month for a period of eight minutes.

4. It was respondent's duty to review newspapers for articles related to school matters between 8:00 a.m. and 9:00 a.m. so that Friedman would be aware of the articles at the beginning of her work day.

5. Respondent frequently failed to complete this task in a timely manner, largely due to her latenesses.

6. It was respondent's responsibility to maintain the fax machine. As part of this responsibility, respondent had to replace the imaging film, which is needed to produce a legible fax transmittal. It was also respondent's responsibility to distribute fax transmittals.

7. Respondent failed to maintain the fax machine with the result that fax transmittals were frequently illegible and sometimes were lost. Respondent also frequently failed to distribute fax transmittals.

8. On numerous occasions, respondent used work time to engage in personal activities such as taking telephone calls, paying bills and working on a church bulletin.

9. In January 1996, Friedman gave respondent an assignment which required her to collate New Jersey School Report Cards for the District's thirty-six schools.

There were 100 copies of each report card. Respondent was supposed to collate the school report cards into packages containing one report card for each school. This task would take several hours to complete. In assigning this task to respondent, Friedman stated that she needed the collated packages as soon as possible.

10. Three weeks went by, and respondent still had not completed the assignment. During that time, the District had received numerous requests for the report cards. As a result of respondent's failure to complete the assignment promptly, the report cards were not issued to the public in a timely manner.

11. On February 1, 1996, Friedman instructed respondent to complete a critical work assignment related to the District's monitoring process by the New Jersey Department of Education by February 6, 1996. By the end of February 5, 1996, respondent had not touched the assignment, and on February 6, 1996, she called in sick. As a result, Friedman had to request temporary assistance from another staff member.

12. Friedman heard respondent speak on the telephone in an unprofessional manner on various occasions.

13. On May 3, 1996, respondent spent the entire morning working on an application for financial aid for her husband, who attended Montclair State College.

14. Between 11:30 a.m. and noon, Friedman gave respondent a priority assignment for the District Superintendent. The assignment required respondent to view videotapes of a City Council meeting and stop the tape when a particular individual was about to speak. The tapes and other material were to be sent to the Department of Education in Trenton that day.

15. Respondent went to lunch at 12:10 p.m. and drove to Montclair State College to deliver the application for financial aid. Respondent returned from lunch at 3:40 p.m.

16. In the meantime, another employee began the assignment. Upon her return, respondent took over the task and completed viewing the videotapes by 5:30 p.m. However, it was then too late to have the material delivered to Trenton. As a result, the project was not completed until the following day.

The next issue is whether respondent should have been charged with inefficiency instead of neglect of duty, insubordination and excessive tardiness. If so, the certification of charges would be defective because respondent was not given the ninety day period required by N.J.S.A. 18A-6.11 in which to correct any alleged deficiencies. In regard to this issue, it is noteworthy that one pertinent statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, provides that neglect may form a basis for dismissal, suspension or reduction in compensation.

Considering the totality of respondent's actions, it becomes apparent that her difficulties stem largely from a refusal to put aside personal matters during the work day. With respect to her tardiness, respondent attributed some her latenesses to doctors' appointments and "personal matters." The various instances in which respondent did not complete her assignments were largely attributable to the fact that she devoted work time to personal activities such as telephone calls, paying bills and working on the church bulletin. A particularly egregious instance occurred on May 3, 1996, when respondent spent the entire morning working on an application for financial aid for her husband. Then, despite having received a priority assignment from her supervisor, respondent departed for lunch at 12:10 p.m., drove to Montclair State College to deliver the application and did not return to work until 3:40 p.m. As a result, the priority assignment was not completed in a timely manner. Respondent's practice of willfully engaging in personal activity during the work day despite warnings from her supervisor, while her assignments, priority or otherwise, remained incomplete is more accurately characterized as neglect of duty than inefficiency. Therefore, respondent's contention that the charges must be dismissed because she was not given a ninety-day period to correct any deficiencies must be rejected.

The first charge is neglect of duty. Based upon the above findings including the fact that respondent's difficulties result largely from her refusal to refrain from engaging in personal activities during the work day, I CONCLUDE that the charge of neglect of duty must be sustained.

The next charge is insubordination. Insubordination in this context is more akin to outright defiance than failure to comply with a direction to complete an assignment. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Mary E. Cummings, 1974 S.L.D. 323, 329. Here, respondent did not engage in any conduct remotely resembling outright defiance of her supervisors. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this charge must be dismissed.

The third charge is excessive tardiness. Here, respondent was late thirty-five times during one school year averaging approximately thirty minutes. Under the circumstances, I CONCLUDE that the charge of excessive tardiness must be sustained.

The last issue is whether dismissal is warranted under the circumstances of this case. Here, respondent's tardiness and neglect of duty demonstrate a pattern which spanned the entire school year. Further, her tardiness and neglect of duty interfered with the proper functioning of petitioner's Public Information Office. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that dismissal is warranted under the circumstances of this case.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The charge of neglect of duty is sustained.

2. The charge of insubordination is dismissed.

3. The charge of excessive tardiness is sustained.

4. Respondent be removed from the position of administrative secretary in petitioner's school district effective as of the date of her suspension.

I hereby FILE my initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CHARLOTTE WHITFIELD,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF PATERSON, PASSAIC	:
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions essentially recast and reiterate the arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in her post-hearing brief. She again asserts that notwithstanding the District's use of terminology such as neglect of duty and insubordination in titling the within charges, they are more appropriately categorized as inefficiency. As such, she urges that because the District has failed to comply with the procedural requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, the charges must be dismissed. Respondent also renews her post-hearing brief discussion contending that the District has failed to establish its charges. Finally, respondent proffers that although the ALJ recommends termination as the appropriate penalty in this matter, he "fails to set forth [a] real analysis or reason justifying this penalty." (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 12) Respondent urges that the allegations against her do not rise to the level of severity justifying dismissal, particularly in light of her over seven years of satisfactory service in the District.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the charges of neglect of duty and excessive tardiness against respondent have been established by the District. He, likewise, agrees that the charge of insubordination was not sustained and, therefore, must be dismissed. With respect to respondent's contentions concerning the appropriate characterization of the within tenure charges, the Commissioner finds such assertions without merit, rather he agrees with the ALJ's cogent analysis

> Considering the totality of respondent's actions, it becomes apparent that her difficulties stem largely from a refusal to put aside personal matters during the work day. Respondent's practice of willfully engaging in personal activity during the work day despite warnings from her supervisor, while her assignments, priority or otherwise, remained incomplete is more accurately characterized as neglect of duty than inefficiency.
> (Initial Decision at p. 26)

Finally, the Commissioner determines that respondent's protestation that her behavior does not warrant her termination and that the ALJ reached his determination in this regard without considering her prior record or advancing a reasoned analysis of why such penalty was appropriate given the circumstances herein, is unpersuasive. Rather, he concludes that the derelictions of duties outlined by the ALJ on pages 24-26 of the initial decision, along with the fact that, although respondent received written warnings from her employer about her various shortcomings and the disruptive effect they were having on office operations (see Exhibits P-2, P-7), she remained unwilling or unable to modify her behavior to an acceptable level, amply establish that termination from her position is the appropriate penalty in this matter. It is observed, however, that contrary to the conclusion of the ALJ, respondent's termination from her position as a consequence of the within determination, is effective as of the date of this decision, rather than the date the District initially suspended her.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL, as modified herein, is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. Respondent is hereby terminated from her tenured position in the State-operated School District of the City of Paterson.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

HEARING OF TAFT REED, STATE-	:

THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:	DECISION
COUNTY.	:

District filed tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against physical education teacher due to his arrest by State Police for illegal drug possession. In May 1997, respondent entered a guilty plea in Superior Court to one count of theft by deception, a crime in the third degree, which resulted in a forfeiture pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(1), prior to the adjudication of the tenure charges. Remaining at issue, however, was respondent's claim for back pay and emoluments for the period beginning with the date of his suspension, October 29, 1996, to the date of respondent's voluntary resignation on December 1, 1996.

Respondent having failed to appear at hearing and having failed to keep in touch with his attorney, the ALJ granted summary judgment to the District, accepting the allegations set forth as uncontroverted and concluding that the District demonstrated a prima facie case of illegal drug and paraphernalia possession which constituted unbecoming behavior for a tenured teacher. ALJ ordered respondent dismissed from his position, effective October 29, 1996, the date of certification of charges.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the uncontroverted allegations contained in the pleadings advanced by the District with respect to respondent's arrest by the State Police and subsequent charge of illegal drug and paraphernalia possession constituted unbecoming conduct and mandated his termination from his tenured position. Commissioner found that respondent could not claim entitlement to back pay and emoluments for the period of his suspension pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3. Commissioner noted that had respondent not forfeited his tenured position in May 1997, his termination as a result of this decision would be effective as of the date of this decision, not the date of certification of charges as stated by the ALJ.

INITIAL DECISION
SUMMARY DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11677-96

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF TAFT REED, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for Petitioner State Operated School District of Newark

Robert T. Pickett, Esq., for Respondent Taft Reed

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LaFIANDRA, ALJ:

Record Closed: July 2, 1997 Decided: July 10, 1997

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The State Operated School District of Newark, Petitioner, filed tenure charges alleging unbecoming conduct against Taft Reed, Respondent, a tenured physical education teacher. Pursuant to the Certificate of Determination of Tenure Charges and Suspension of Employee without Pay, the District Superintendent authorized the filing of charges with the Commissioner of Education and suspended Respondent without pay on October 29, 1996.

Respondent filed answer to the Statement of Charges on December 13, 1996. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on December 23, 1996, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and was scheduled for a hearing on May 12 and 14, 1997. Prior to those dates, counsel for the District advised the undersigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that Respondent had resigned, effective December 1, 1996, and requested a telephone conference to discuss the implication of the resignation on this tenure removal case.

Respondent's counsel represented that his client wished to resolve the matters; he had no desire to have a hearing. Counsel agreed to prepare a Stipulation of Settlement, a copy of which was received by the ALJ on April 14, 1997. The executed agreement was to be submitted on or about April 16, 1997; however, counsel requested several extensions which were granted. On May 14, 1997, both counsel were present before this ALJ on another matter in which both were involved and which had been scheduled in place of the instant matter on the representation that this matter would be settled. At that time, counsel for Respondent advised opposing counsel that he had been unable to secure Respondent's signature on the proposed agreement because Respondent had not been in contact with his attorney since some time in March, despite counsel's efforts to reach him which included an attempt to visit Respondent at home.

Counsel was instructed to contact his client by certified mail, return receipt requested, to advise him that if an executed agreement was not submitted by May 28, 1997, a summary decision would issue. Despite the warning of counsel that such a decision could adversely affect Respondent's eligibility to receive continued pension benefits, Respondent did not sign the agreement until well after the deadline, and then only with unilateral modifications to which the District would not agree.

On May 14, 1997, Respondent entered a guilty plea in Superior Court to one count of theft by deception, a crime in the third degree. (N.J.S.A. 2C:20-4). The plea resulted in a forfeiture pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(1), which rendered the tenure charges in the instant matter moot, as did the resignation of December 1, 1996, insofar as a determination in favor of the District would have resulted in termination. There are, however, outstanding issues of reimbursement and sick leave, according to counsel, for the period between October 29 and December 1, 1996, resolution of which a determination in this matter is required, according to counsel for the District.

Reed has been uncooperative in making himself available to his attorney; he has also failed to appear at scheduled times for hearing, albeit he was unaware of the dates and times of the hearing on account of his failure to keep in touch with his attorney, despite counsel's efforts to reach him; he failed to execute the Stipulation of Settlement in a timely manner. Accordingly, the allegations set forth in the verified pleadings are accepted as uncontroverted; therefore, they form the factual basis for summary decision in this matter.

I incorporate the following uncontroverted allegations in the pleadings as the factual determinations in this matter.

1. On or about January 29, 1993, Reed was arrested by the State Police for possession of a controlled dangerous substance (cocaine) in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2 and 2C:35-10; and conspiracy to distribute a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana) in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2 and 2C:35-5a(1). (See State Police Investigation Report, including certified lab report attached hereto as Exhibit 1).

2. On May 18, 1993, Respondent was indicted by a Bergen County Grand Jury charging him with, among others, conspiracy to possess a controlled dangerous substance (cocaine) in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:5-2 and 2C:35-10.

3. On or about April 15, 1994, by resolution of the Newark Board of Education, Respondent was suspended without pay pending the resolution of his indictment.

4. On October 14,1993, Respondent entered a guilty plea to possession of a controlled dangerous substance, N.J.S.A. 2C:35-5a(1)(g)(3). Respondent was then sentenced to two years' probation.

5. On March 9, 1994, the District notified Respondent of the automatic forfeiture of his teaching position. Respondent then sought to withdraw his guilty plea. By Order dated April 11, 1994, Superior Court Judge George Parsons permitted Respondent to withdraw his guilty plea because the Prosecutor's Office failed to advise him that his guilty plea would result in forfeiture of his teaching position. Respondent's attorney then filed a motion to suppress the evidence. The Court granted the motion on April 24, 1994, based upon the lack of probable cause by the State Police to search Respondent. On May 10, 1995, the Court dismissed the Indictment and Complaint against Respondent.

6. On September 8, 1995, the State District Superintendent suspended Respondent with pay pending the filing of tenure charges.

Tenure charges were filed and Reed was suspended without pay on October 29, 1996.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

A contested matter before an ALJ may be disposed of by summary decision using the same standard applied in Superior Court for summary judgment. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. Recently, the New Jersey Supreme Court adopted the federal standard of review which encourages "trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 541 (1995). As a result of this ruling, the party opposing the motion for summary judgment must present a prima facie case in keeping with his burden of proof in order to thwart the motion. When, however, the evidence is so one sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, summary judgment is appropriate. Id. at 540 (citation omitted).

In the instant case, the allegations contained in the pleadings are supported by documentary evidence, including a State Police Investigation Report, a request for Examination of Evidence by the State Police laboratory and a certified laboratory report.

The tenure charge of unbecoming conduct is based on an incident in which Respondent was arrested by the State Police and charged with illegal drug possession after a search of Reed disclosed that he had three bags of cocaine, three crack pipes and other drug paraphernalia in his possession. Reed also admitted to being in possession of these items.

I CONCLUDE that Petitioner has demonstrated a prima facie case of illegal drug and paraphernalia possession which constitutes unbecoming behavior for a tenured teacher. Since the evidential materials are uncontroverted either by way of a verified document executed by Respondent or by testimony, summary decision is appropriate in this matter.

Accordingly, Petitioner's oral application for summary decision made on May 14, 1997 and discussed with counsel for both sides at length during a telephone conference on July 2, 1997, is GRANTED. The tenure charges have been sustained and termination is appropriate.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that Mr. Reed's employment be and hereby is terminated, effective October 29, 1996.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." 	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon his independent review of the within record, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the uncontroverted allegations contained in the pleadings advanced by the District with respect to respondent's arrest by the State Police and subsequent charge of illegal drug and paraphernalia possession constitutes unbecoming conduct for a teacher, and mandates his termination from his tenured position. As such, respondent can claim no entitlement to back pay and emoluments for the period of his suspension pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3.[1] The Commissioner observes, however, that, contrary to the finding of the ALJ herein, respondent's termination from his position as a consequence of this determination would be effective as of the date of this decision, rather than the date the District certified tenure charges against him.[2]

[1] It is noted that the sole period of time at issue herein is that from October 29, 1996, when the District certified charges against respondent and suspended him without pay, to December 1, 1996, when respondent voluntarily resigned from his position.

[2] In that respondent forfeited his employment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2(a)(1), on May 14, 1997, removal from his position at this point in time is a moot issue.

Accordingly, the initial decision granting summary decision to the District, as modified herein, is adopted as the final decision in this matter.

Petitioner, Department of Human Services, certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct/insubordination against special education teacher for her continued refusal to comply with directives that her students participate in regular education classes as part of the school inclusion program.

ALJ determined that although respondent was acting based on her honest belief in what was best for her students, insubordination and unbecoming conduct on behalf of any teacher cannot be countenanced since it disrupts the educational process and interferes with the basic purpose of the school. Respondent was found guilty of the charges; however, in view of her good disciplinary record, her reputation as a very good teacher, and her acting in good faith, the ALJ concluded that suspension without pay for a period of ten days was the appropriate penalty.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Department of Human Services sufficiently demonstrated that respondent was guilty of unbecoming conduct by her continued refusal to comply with direct orders that she participate in the school inclusion program, and that such conduct additionally constituted insubordination. Commissioner found that petitioner's decision to suspend respondent for ten days without pay was fair and appropriate.

Record Closed: May 30, 1997 Decided: July 11, 1997

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Department of Human Services, Office of Education, brings charges against respondent, a tenured teacher holding the position of Teacher 1, for unbecoming conduct. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 30, 1996, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference to be held on November 19, 1996. Because of an attorney conflict, the telephone prehearing conference was rescheduled for November 20, 1996. On that date a prehearing conference was held and a Prehearing Order was entered on December 13, 1996, settling the procedures to be followed in this matter. The hearing was scheduled for February 7, 1997.

On February 7, 1997, the matter was heard and concluded. However, the record remained open to permit the attorneys the opportunity to submit closing arguments. Attorney for respondent submitted a written closing argument on March 11, 1997. When no closing argument was submitted by Deputy Attorney General Gottlieb who was representing petitioner at that time, various contacts were made to determine when such closing argument would be submitted. Eventually on May 21, 1997, a Letter Order was entered ordering that the record be closed as of May 30, 1997. When no additional submission was received by that date, the record closed on May 30, 1997.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Respondent does not deny that she refused to comply with orders and directives of her immediate supervisors to bring students assigned to her classroom to participate in regular education classes as part of the school inclusion program. Respondent challenges these orders and directives as being unreasonable since there were no written guidelines covering the implementation of the program, and the program was not included in the students' IEPs. Respondent also felt the that it was not in the best interests of and was detrimental to the students assigned to her class, and the directives were not being applied on an equal basis since educational technicians who refused to take part were not disciplined.

Barbara Newman testified that she is the School Administrator for Cumberland and Gloucester Day Training Centers and is respondent's supervisor. She holds the title Supervisor of Education Program I. Her duties and responsibilities are that of a school principal and she is responsible for the entire educational programs at both Centers. She indicated that respondent is a Teacher 1 at the Cumberland campus. Respondent runs a good classroom and does a good job.

Ms. Newman testified that the present policy of the Office of Education is for the mainstreaming of all students and for school inclusion. Its goal is to give student's access to all activities and facilities in the school and the community. It is believed that community integration and meaningful vocational training are essential for the inclusion of students in their communities. Under this theory all children are entitled to participate in regular education programs.

Ms. Newman indicated that she is a proponent of school inclusion. She identified a Curriculum Guide for Educational Programs in the Department of Human Services (P-1). This Curriculum Guide provides for the utilizing of community settings for training of skills, for student outings to teach the use of community recreation and leisure facilities and opportunities, to provide opportunities for student interaction with handicapped and non-handicapped students and families in the school and in the community, and to model appropriate interactions with handicapped students reflecting the manner in which non-handicapped students are treated. Ms. Newman also identified an Educational Mission Statement for the Cumberland Day Training Center (P-2). This Educational Mission Statement indicates that the goal of the school is to give students access to all activities and facilities in the school and in the community and that community intergration and meaningful vocational training are essential for the inclusion of students in their communities.

Ms. Newman identified a series of memos (P-3 through P-9) which indicate that 15 of the 16 Day Training Centers throughout the State are involved in school inclusion as part of their educational programming.

Ms. Newman testified that school inclusion was taking place prior to her being assigned to Cumberland and Gloucester. School inclusion or inclusion of the students in the regular education program can be requested by anyone, but the child study team must agree to it and the parent must consent to it. The teacher is primarily responsible for carrying out school inclusion. When school inclusion is appropriate it is mandatory for teachers.

Ms. Newman testified that the only teacher in the Cumberland Day Training Center who refused to participate in school inclusion of students in regular classrooms was respondent. This refusal started at the end of October or beginning of November 1995. Ms. Newman decided not to mandate participation until the whole process was explained. As a result, in March 1996 an in-service was held to explain school integration and inclusion. She identified an outline for the in-service which she presented orally, and which respondent attended. Ms. Newman identified her outline for the presentation which she made (P-10). She testified that it was made clear at the in-service that it was mandatory for teachers to participate. It was also included in paragraph 10 of respondent's Performance Agreements for 1995 (P-11) and 1996 (P-12) wherein respondent was required to organize and provide appropriate community based instruction.

Ms. Newman testified that on March 27, 1996, she gave respondent direct order to accompany one of the students assigned to her to a school inclusion program, and respondent refused to go. As a result Ms. Newman prepared a memo to respondent dated March 29, 1996, concerning this refusal (P-13). She then met with respondent, a representative of the union and the Executive Director of the union in April 1996. At that meeting, respondent agreed to participate in school inclusion but on a rotating basis. As a result, a schedule of participation with the students in respondent's class was arranged on May 16, 1996 (P-14). She indicated that respondent never participated. She was scheduled to attend with a student on Thursday, May 6, 1996 (P-14), but she refused.

Ms. Newman testified that respondent's refusal was beginning to affect the morale of the other members of the staff. Ms. Newman issued a memo to the Employee Relations Officer on May 6, 1996 (P-15), and also issued a memo dated May 9, 1996, requesting disciplinary action for a refusal on the part of respondent which occurred on that day (P-16). Ms. Newman indicated that the students scheduled for the school inclusion program missed the program because of no other staff member being available. As a result, the student missed the opportunity for socialization with regular education students.

Ms. Newman testified that another incident occurred on May 14, 1996. Respondent again refused to participate in regular classroom inclusion (P-17). She again refused to participate on May 20, 1996 (P-18).

Ms. Newman also identified a memo dated May 20, 1996, when Ms. Newman gave respondent a direct order to go with a student and respondent answered no. As a result, Ms.

Newman gave respondent a written warning for insubordination, refusal to accept a reasonable order (P-20). Respondent's only response to this was "no comment". Ms. Newman indicated that when she indicated that she gave this written warning to respondent, she asked respondent if she would go in the future and respondent said "no". (P-21). Respondent again refused a direct order on May 22, 1996 (P-22). Respondent was again given a direct order to accompany a student on Wednesday, May 29, 1996 and she again responded "no". (P-23). As a result she was given an official reprimand for the incident of May 21 and May 22, 1996 (P-24). Ms. Newman testified to additional incidents of respondent's refusal to go and that respondent continued to refuse to participate in the school inclusion program through June 1996 (P-28 and P-29).

On cross-examination, Ms. Newman testified the students in respondent's class are severely and profoundly impaired. They are ages 10 to 13 but their intellectula levels range from 11 months to approximately two years of age. They attend age-appropriate fifth or sixth grade regular classes. She indicated that school inclusion is mandatory and teacher involvement is one of her requirements because the teacher is an educator. She indicated that respondent is involved in community inclusion but the problem is school inclusion. She indicated that technicians also participate in school inclusion in most Day Training Centers but one technician at Cumberland Day Training Center asked not to go. Technicians are in the classroom in the absence of teachers. She admitted that respondent asked for guidelines and before she would participate in school inclusion and, as a result, Ms. Newman gave the in-service presentation. She also referred respondent to the Educational Mission Statement for the Cumberland County Day Training Center (P-2) and to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:28. School inclusion is also in one of the student's IEPs.

Cynthia Brooks who was subpoenaed to be a witness, testified that she has been employed by Cumberland Day Training Center since July 1992. She has been a teacher since September 1980. She has known respondent for four and one-half years. She teaches a class in early elementary education, ages 3 to 7 and she take part in the inclusion program, somewhat. She testified that she initially recommended a student who was chosen to go to school inclusion. Respondent goes on field trips to the supermarket and library. She also indicated that community inclusion is not necessarily in the IEP. She explained that a school can provide more than the IEP but it cannot deliver less. She indicated that she views school inclusion as part of her job.

Donald Mangus, New Jersey Department of Human Services, Assistant Director of Employee Relations, testified that he administers the employee relations function. He has been with the Department of Human Services since 1976. He testified that he is familiar with respondent. He identified the Disciplinary Action Program of the Department (P-30). The booklet contains various infractions and recommended penalties. On page 5 of this document, insubordination is defined as intentional disobedience or refusal to accept reasonable order. It employs progressive discipline which he described as a corrective process. It is the imposition of successive steps of increasing penalties to try to correct an individual's behavior, and it was applied in this case. It is for this reason that the original 30 day suspension sought as a penalty in this matter has been reduced to a 10 day suspension. On cross-examination, Mr. Mangus indicated that the recommended penalties are firm and the Department attempts to follow them closely to avoid disparate treatment.

Valerie A. Gardner testified that she had a Bachelor of Science degree in Special Education and has a Teacher of the Handicapped certificate. She has been at Cumberland School for ten and half years. She was only subject to discipline about one year ago and she was given a written warning for violation of the sick leave policy.

Respondent testified that prior to March 1996, she accompanied a student one time. Her student are ages 12 to 14 and their intellectual level is such that they are exempt from any testing. They are severely and profoundly impaired and they have an I.Q. of 20 to 30, but they cannot be tested. Her job is very physical and it involves physical therapy, occupational therapy, positioning of the child, changing of diapers and taking care of medical problems.

Respondent testified that she is familiar with Barbara Newman. She indicated that prior to Barbara Newman, the program of school inclusion ceased. However, Barbara Newman said that the program is mandatory. When Ms. Newman made that statement, respondent asked her for something that said that the program is mandatory, and she has never received anything. She recalls saying that she would go to Superior Court to challenge the program. She refused to participate because she never received anything in writing. She indicated that it is reasonable to take children for school inclusion, but there are no guidelines as to what is reasonable. Presently there is one student who attennds fifth grade music class, but he just sits there and there is no interaction with other students or with the teacher of the handicapped.

Respondent admitted to saying that she had no comment with respect to one of the incidents because she did not want to get into a confrontation with Ms. Newman. She asked to have a meeting with Ms. Newman and to iron things out but has still not received anything in writing. Another reason why she has refused to participate in school inclusion is because if she is supposed to be carrying out school inclusion, it should be brought up at an IEP meeting. If it is in the IEP, it causes people to be responsible and to carry out the provisions of the IEP.

On cross-examination respondent questioned the legality of the orders requiring that she participate in school inclusion. She testified that the child study team must okay school inclusion. She also testified that she has been at Cumberland Day School for ten and half years and has never received a direct order. She admitted to attending the in-service which explained the program and why, and she indicated that she tape-recorded it.

On rebuttal Ms. Newman identified two IEPs of two special education students in respondent's classes who are required to participate in mainstream or regular education classroom settings (P-31 and P-32).

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The Commissioner of the Department of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The discipline of tenured school employees is authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, which generally provides that no tenured school employee shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation during good behavior and efficiency except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause, and then only after written charges and a hearing.

The charges in this matter which were certified on August 14, 1996, by the Office of Education, New Jersey Department of Human Services, allege that respondent, a Teacher 1 at the Cumberland Day Training Center, Vineland, New Jersey, is charged with conduct unbecoming a tenured employee. The specifications for the charges are that on June 11, 1996, she refused to accompany a student in her classroom to the school integration program, and continued to refuse the reasonable order made by her supervisor to participate in the community-based instruction program for the pupils at Cumberland Day Training Center. It is asserted that this constitutes conduct unbecoming a tenured employee.

Generally, in order for the charging party in a tenure hearing to prevail, the truth of the charges must be established by a preponderance of the credible evidence. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 575 (1990); In re Polk, 90 N.J. 550, 560 (1982); Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143, 149 (1962). In order to determine whether the petitioner met the elements of the charge in this matter, it is necessary to discuss what is intended by the term, "unbecoming conduct". There is no single definition of the term. In Laba v. Newark Board of Education, 23 N.J. 364, 384-385 (1957), it was made clear that the touchstone of the charge is a teacher's fitness to discharge the duties and functions of the office or position. In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 28-29 (App. Div. 1974), certif. denied, 65 N.J. 292 (1974).

There are numerous cases in which specific conduct was found to be unbecoming conduct. For example, the use of physical force by a teacher to maintain discipline was held to be unbecoming conduct. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967). A teacher with an uncontrollable temper who verbally and physically abused students was found to have engaged in unbecoming conduct. Matter of Tenure Hearing of Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737, (App. Div. 1988).

Outside the field of education, unbecoming conduct on the part of public employees is conduct which adversely affects the morale or efficiency of the agency of which the employee is a member, which has a tendency to destroy public respect for government employees and confidence in the operation of governmental services, or which violates an implicit standard of good behavior. See, City of Asbury Park v. Dep't. of Civil Service, 17 N.J. 419 (1955). A finding of unbecoming conduct does not require that any specific rule or regulation have been violated but may be based primarily on a violation of an implicit standard of good behavior. In re Emmons, 63 N.J. Super. 136, 140 (App. Div. 1960); Newark v. Massey, 93 N.J. Super. 317, 323 (App. Div. 1967).

> In an educational setting, unbecoming conduct has been held to be demonstrated by a series of incidents indicating a pattern of behavior, or by a single incident if sufficiently flagrant. See Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369 (Sup. Ct. 1943), affirmed o.b. 131 N.J.L. 326 (E.&A. 1944). In that matter, a school principal was found guilty of the charges of inefficiency, incapacity, insubordination, lack of cooperation, unfitness and conduct generally unbecoming a principal. See, Redcay v. State Board of Education, 128 N.J.L. 281, 282 (Sup. Ct. 1942).

The charges in this matter appear to indicate that the unbecoming conduct which respondent is alleged to be guilty of is insubordination and failure to cooperate in providing for the education of the students in respondent's charge. Insubordination, which is the disobedience and refusal to observe the orders and directions of duly constituted authority, has long been recognized as a valid ground for teacher discipline. See, Harrison v. State Board of Education, 134 N.J.L. 502 (Sup. Ct. 1946); Cheeseman v. Gloucester City, 1 N.J. Misc. 318 (Sup. Ct. 1923). The Court's decision in Cheeseman involved a school principal who refused to obey an order of transfer to another school on the basis that the transfer was illegal. In that matter, the Court indicated that Ms. Cheeseman could have accepted the transfer under protest pending her appeal, but instead chose to assume that her transfer was illegal and refused to comply. The Court indicated that in doing so she acted at her peril and that, since the order of transfer was determined to be legal, she was guilty of insubordination.

The language of the Court in Pietrunti v. Bd. of Ed. Brick Tp., 128 N.J. Super. 149, (App. Div. 1974), cert. den. 419 U.S. 1057 (1974); certif. den. 65 N.J. 573 (1974), is instructive in the present matter. In that case, a tenured teacher who was the president of the local education association severely criticized the board of education and superintendent in an orientation day speech. The Court indicated that a teacher is expected to exhibit loyalty to the district in which he or she is employed and to cooperate with the administration in seeking the educational goal. A teacher is expected to show a reasonable respect for the authority of his or her employer. Id. at 165; see also, Bd. of Educ., Tp. of Teaneck, Bergen County v. Wilburn, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 48, aff'd 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 328; aff'd A-4663-91 (App. Div., April 12, 1993). In that case, a teacher was found guilty of acts of insubordination when he willfully failed to comply with the legitimate request of his supervisor to provide him with lesson plans as required by the policy of the district and the professional improvement plan to which he agreed.

In the present matter, although at one point in her testimony respondent denied that she was ever given a direct order, she does not deny that she refused to comply with orders and directives of her immediate supervisors to bring students assigned to her classroom to participate in regular education classes. Respondent challenges these orders and directives as being unreasonable since there were no written guidelines covering the implementation of the program, and the program was not included in the students' IEPs. Respondent also felt the that the directives were not being applied on an equal basis since educational technicians who refused to take part were not disciplined. She argues that the school inclusion program was not included in child study team evaluations until 1996 (P-31). She also felt that the school inclusion program was unreasonable since it is unreasonable to expect a 13 or 14 year old child with the mental capacity of a one or two year old because of a severe mental disability to take part in a seventh or eighth grade class. She pointed to the testimony of Cynthia Brooks who indicated that there is a lack of interaction with the regular class and the students just sit there until the class is over. Respondent also points out that Ms. Newman gave no specific evidence as to the relevancy of the program to the specific students in respondent's class who were affected. Finally, respondent argues that she did not refuse to participate for any personal gain or benefit, but only because of her honest beliefs.

The children assigned to respondent are severely disabled and are entitled to special education and related services under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.A. §§1400-1485. The primary purpose of this Act is to ensure that all disabled children will be provided a free and appropriate public education. 20 U.S.C.A. §1400(c). Such an education is provided through an individualized education plan (IEP), which is the cornerstone of the Act. The IEP is a written statement prepared by the school child study team, in consultation with parents, to address the unique needs of a particular child. 20 U.S.C.A. §1401(20). The Act makes it clear that removal of children with disabilities from the regular educational environment should occur only when the nature or severity of the disability is such that education in regular classes with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily. 20 U.S.C.A. §1412(5)(B). In Oberti v. Bd. of Educ. of Clementon, 995 *F.*2d 1204 (3rd Cir. 1993), the Third Circuit Court of Appeals made it clear that mainstreaming is the policy of the Act and analyzed the factors that must be considered by a child study team in making the determination whether the mainstreaming policy has been complied with.

It is not necessary to analyze the Act, the Oberti decision, or the specific facts related to children assigned to respondent in order to determine whether respondent was justified in refusing to carry out the orders and directives of her superiors. To hold a due process hearing in an effort to determine whether respondent should comply with an order or directive to bring a child to a regular education classroom would be a substantial waste of time and effort. Certainly, respondent could make known to the child study team and her superiors her specific objections to having those children in her charge participate in regular education classrooms. She should do this through reasoned discussions with the child study team, her superiors and the parents of the child. However, mainstreaming is the policy of the IDEA, and the removal of children with disabilities from the regular educational environment is only permitted when the disability is such that education in regular classes cannot be achieved satisfactorily. 20 U.S.C.A. §1412(5)(B). Since this is the case, it is up to the child study team, in consultation with the parents, to decide that a child with disabilities should not participate in regular education classes. It is not up to the teacher to unliaterally make this determination. Therefore, I FIND that respondent's refusal on June 11, 1996, to accompany a student in her classroom to the regular education classroom integration program of the Cumberland Day Training Center is clearly insubordinate and unbecoming conduct on her part. I FIND that respondent's continued to refusal to comply with the reasonable order made by her supervisor to participate in the community-based instruction program for the pupils at Cumberland Day Training Center is also insubordinate and unbecoming conduct on her part. I FIND that petitioner's dealings with educational technicians and their alleged refusal to participate is irrelevant as to this issue since respondent is an educator and the educational technicians are classroom aides. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondent is guilty of the charge of unbecoming conduct in this matter.

The next issue to be decided is the appropriate remedy or penalty based on the finding of guilt in this matter. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Elizabeth Merkooloff, School District of the Twp. of Washington, 1980 S.L.D. 1370, 1371, the Commissioner stressed again that which he previously said in Clinton F. Smith et al. v. Bd. of Ed. of the Boro of Paramus, 1968 S.L.D. 62:

> The principal enunciated by the Court in Bates v. Board of Education, 72 P. 907 (Calif. Sup. Ct., 1903), and quoted with approval in McGrath v. Burkhard, 280 P.2d 864 (Calif. App. 1955), bears repeating here:
> The public schools were not created, nor are they supported, for the benefit of the teachers therein, . . . but for the benefit of the pupils and the resulting benefit to their parents and the Community at large. . . (at 67).

It was stated In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Herman B. Nash, School District of the Twp. of Teaneck, 1971 S.L.D. 284 at 296:

> A teacher, as any citizen, who decides to take any form of action or inaction does so at his own risk. No matter what the ultimate objective sought, the individual must accept the responsibility for his actions . . and must accept the consequences of his actions.
>
> The Commissioner's basic and fundamental concern must be in the welfare of the students in the Teaneck School System and, therefore, in the proper administration of that School System.

In this matter, it is clear to me that respondent is a very good teacher with a minimal disciplinary record. As I alluded at the hearing, the care and assistance which she provides to the severely and profoundly impaired students in her charge must be attended by unimaginable difficulties. I agree with respondent's counsel that respondent does not appear to have anything to gain by the position she took in this matter, and that she was acting based on her honest belief in what is best for her students. However, insubordinate and unbecoming conduct on the part of any teacher cannot be countenanced since it disrupts the educational process and interferes with the basic purpose of the school. Under normal circumstances, I would have considered a much more severe penalty than a ten day suspension. However, in view of respondent's good disciplinary record, her reputation as a very good teacher, and her good faith belief that she was acting in the best interests of her students, I FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent should be suspended for a period of ten days based on the finding of guilt in this matter.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing I FIND respondent guilty of the charge of unbecoming conduct and I ORDER the imposition of a penalty of a ten day suspension.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF VALERIE GARDNER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF	:	DECISION
HUMAN SERVICES.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the Department of Human Services has sufficiently demonstrated that respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member by her continued refusal to comply with direct orders that she participate in the school inclusion program, and that such conduct additionally constitutes insubordination. The Commissioner finds that the Department's decision to suspend respondent for ten days without pay is fair and appropriate.

Moreover, notwithstanding the ALJ's consideration of respondent's "good faith belief that she was acting in the best interests of her students" (Initial Decision at p. 12) in determining the appropriate penalty in this matter, the Commissioner stresses that, as the ALJ instructs, where a student's educational program is guided by the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), it is the student's parents and the school's child study team, in consideration of relevant local and State policies and in collaboration with school staff, who determine a student's educational plan. "It is not up to the teacher to [unilaterally] make this determination." (Id. at p. 11)

Accordingly, the conclusions and order of the ALJ in his initial decision are adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Respondent is directed to serve her ten-day suspension, if she has not already done so.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MORRIS PLAINS, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured social worker, appealed Board's determination to terminate her employment by a reduction in force and the contracting of her child study team services to Morris County Educational Services Commission, alleging such action was violative of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b).

ALJ found that pursuant to regulation, the Board is prohibited from contracting with an Educational Services Commission for the services of a core member of the child study team. The ALJ concluded that petitioner was entitled to full reinstatement for the 1996-97 year with no loss of rights and benefits and to restoration of retroactive compensation for the 1996-97 school year, less mitigation.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed reinstatement of petitioner with back pay and emoluments, as appropriate, for the 1996-97 school year and thereafter. Commissioner additionally emphasized that the contracts and joint agreements through which a local board of education may provide child study team services if it elects not to employ its own team must be with public entities such as ESC's, jointure commissions or other school districts.

BEFORE: MARIA LaFIANDRA, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

Petitioner in this matter is appealing the decision of Respondent to terminate her tenured employment by a reduction in force (RIF) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and to contract with an Educational Services Commission for reasons of economy. The matter was received by the Department of Education on July 17, 1996; it was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and was received by OAL on August 26, 1996.

Petitioner asserts a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) which mandates that the members of the CST be employees of the local district, as well as a violation of her tenure and reemployment and seniority rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, 11 and 12.

The parties agreed to certain facts as set forth below and to proceed with by way of motion and cross motion for summary decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Findings of Fact

The following facts were stipulated by the parties and are incorporated herein as the factual determinations in this matter. Both parties reserved their right to dispute the relevance of any fact stipulated as well as the weight to be attributed to any particular fact in the context of this litigation.

1. Petitioner Auerbach's employment history as an employee of the Board is as follows:

April-June, 1992	per diem Social Worker
1992-93	Social Worker - part time
1993-94	Social Worker - part time
1994-95	Social Worker - part time
1995-96	Social Worker - part time

2. Petitioner Auerbach was certified as a school Social Worker by the New Jersey Department of Education in April, 1977. (J-2)

3. Petitioner Auerbach alone performed all School Social Worker services in connection with the Respondent's Child Study Team throughout her years of employment.

4. Petitioner achieved tenure in Respondent's district by virtue of her service as a School Social Worker.

5. On June 11, 1996, Respondent voted to abolish the position of School Social Worker and terminate Petitioner's service as a district employee effective June 30,1 996.

6. Respondent's decision to abolish Petitioner's position was motivated by a desire to economize by contracting with the Morris County Educational Services Commission ('MCESC") for Child Study Team Social Worker services as proposed by Respondent's Superintendent of Schools. (J-1).

7. For the 1996-97 school year, the only Social Worker services provided in Respondent's district are those being provided by the MCESC, including all Child Study Team Social Worker services.

8. The individual performing school Social Worker service to the Child Study Team in Morris Plains for the 1996-97 school year received her School Social Worker certificate from the New Jersey Department of Education in May 1996.

9. For the 1996-97 school year, school Social Worker services have been provided to Morris Plains through its contract with the MCESC on a three (3) day per week, or .6 annual part-time basis.

10. MCESC provided social worker services to the Morris Plains district from August, 1996, through the present and will continue to do so through June 30, 1997, at least. For the period September, 1996, though June, 1997, Respondent has paid $23,880 to the MCESC for Child Study Team Social Worker services. (J-4 through J-8).

11. Petitioner is the only person on the preferred eligibility seniority recall list for the position of Social Worker in the Morris Plains school district.

Discussion and Conclusions

A contested matter before an Administrative Law Judge may be disposed of by summary decision employing the standard applied in Superior Court for summary judgment. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12-5. A matter is ripe for summary decision when there is no genuine issue of material fact to be decided. R. 4:46-2.

In deciding such a motion, the judge is required to engage in analyzing and evaluating the evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion which would apply if the matter went to trial. The nonmoving party must demonstrate that an issue of fact substantial enough to lead a rational finder of fact possibly to find in favor of the nonmoving party exists. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 42 N.J. 520, 540.

In this case, the parties prepared and executed a joint stipulation of the facts surrounding the issues in this matter; both conceded that only a decision on the applicable law remained; therefore, summary decision is appropriate. Petitioner filed a motion for summary decision on or about April 18, 1997. Respondent's response and Cross-Motion for summary decision followed.

In seeking summary decision, Petitioner, whose motion was filed first in time, relies on the statutory mandate requiring each board of education to provide for basic or "core" child study team (CST) services. The board may establish its own CST or it may contract with one or more boards of education or state agencies to provide the services. However, the statute requires that the CST consist of a school psychologist, a learning disability teacher consultant and a school social worker. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1. In addition, all members of the CST are required, by regulation, to be employees of the district board of education. N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b).

Petitioner relies on three cases to support the position that a district board which determines to maintain its own CST must employ all the members of that team. In the first case, the regional board of education was compelled to reinstate the tenured members of the CST whose position had been reduced to part-time on account of a reduction in force. (RIF) The board contracted with an educational services commission for the services which had been vacated. The ALJ determined that the board never intended a reduction in force for economic reasons; its ultimate goal was to transfer the services provided by the CST to an outside provider. The initial decision was affirmed by the agency and by the Appellate Division. Cochrane v. Watchung Hills Regional High School BOE, 1985 S.L.D. 1978 (State Board of Educ.), aff'd, App. Div., Docket No. A2327-85T7 (12/22/86) (unpublished)

The second case, involved a tenured certified school psychologist on one of the local boards' CSTs who was subject to a RIF. Later, the board contracted with a private group to provide evaluation and diagnostic services, including psychological services. The ALJ in this case found that only when there is an existing CST, can a board contract out supplemental services, Elson v. Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools Board of Educs., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 229, aff'd, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 236.

The third case on which Petitioner relies is one which is factually most directly on point with the facts of this case. In Vicenzo v. BOE of Twp. of Bedminster, OAL Dkt. No. 06468-96S (Dec. 19, 1996), aff'd Commissioner of Education, February 5, 1997, Petitioner had been employed as a part-time social worker. The position was eliminated by a RIF; the district then contracted with an ESC to perform social histories. The ALJ found that the board's action violated the mandate of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), which is the regulation upon which the instant matter is predicated. Id.

Respondent asserts that reliance on these three administrative cases is misplaced. First, Cochrane was decided before the decision in Impey v. Board of Education of the Borough of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388 (1995), and, based on Respondent's analysis, is no longer good law with respect to the issue of whether the position of a tenured member of a basic CST, the members of which are employed by the district, and as defined in N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), can be subject to a reduction in force and the services contracted to an ESC.

Respondent also argues that the decision in Elson is inapposite to the instant case as well as the Vicenzo decision, discussed below, because the issue in Elson was whether a school district could contract with a private, approved clinic pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)(1). Respondent makes the conclusory statement that N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1, delineating the services which may be provided to district boards by approved agencies or clinics, is inapplicable to arrangements between school districts and public entities such as the ESC in this matter; however, Respondent fails to offer any analysis of the subject regulation or legal authority in support of this conclusion.

Respondent questions the relevancy of the determinations in Cochrane & Elson because they were issued before Impey was decided. While there is no question that a school district may effect a RIF for reasons of economy and enter into an agreement with an ESC to provide services formerly provided by an employee of the district, the issue in the case under consideration here is whether a school district can replace one member of its CST by contracting with an ESC to provide services. The services at issue here are those of a social worker, a member of the CST; the Petitioner in Impey was a speech correctionist.

The Court, in Impey, specifically found that speech correctionists are not members of the basic CST . Id. at 395. I find that a fair implication to be drawn from that determination is that, in light of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), had the speech correctionist been a member of the core CST, the district would have been prohibited from contracting with an ESC for those services. I conclude, therefore, that, because of the different status of the Petitioner in the instant matter and the Petitioner in Impey, the Impey decision is inapplicable to this case; therefore, the decision in Cochrane, Elson, and Vicenzo cases are relevant to deciding the issues presented here.

The Vicenzo case fails to acknowledge the broad sweep of Impey, according to Respondent and together with Elson, represents an incorrect decision which fails to acknowledge the persuasive and controlling authority of the Supreme Court decision, Impey. For that reason, Respondent asserts that neither case should be considered persuasive by this forum.

Respondent dismisses difference between the Petitioner in this case, a member of the CST, and the Petitioner in Impey, a speech correctionist, who, the Court determined was not a member of the basic CST, as a distinction without a difference. This is simply not so; every district providing special education services must have a CST, whereas, it is conceivable that the services of a speech correctionist may not be required. This difference between the two Petitioners is substantial. Respondent further asserts that a construction of the language in N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) which would require all members of the child study team to be employees of the district and which would prohibit a school district from providing child study team services through an ESC is in derogation of the school district's statutory and regulatory authority and should be declared void.

It is black letter law that an agency's interpretation of the regulations it promulgates in accordance with the enabling legislation are presumtively valid. Substantial weight and deference is generally accorded to an agency interpretation of the statute it is charged with enforcing and the regulations promulgated pursuant to the legislation G.E. Solid State, Inc. v. Director, Div. of Taxation, 132 N.J. 298, 306 (1993). (citations omitted) The burden of overcoming the presumption of validity rests with the party opposing the regulation, in this instance, the Respondent.

I FIND that the cases on which Petitioner relies are legitimate interpretations of the regulations at issue here as applied to the facts of this case insofar as all deal with members of the CST who were subject to a RIF; moreover, none limit the authority of a local district to contract with an ESC for a child study team. The only limitation imposed is the requirement that a district either employ all members of the CST or contract with an ESC to provide all members of the CST. Further, N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) defines an overall policy which addresses legitimate concerns engendered by the "split" team concept. (Vicenzo, supra; Elson, supra.). Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that Respondent has failed to overcome the presumption of validity accorded to the agency's interpretation of its regulations.

Respondent further asserts that a construction of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1 which would require all CST members to be employed by the district would effectively prohibit schools from exercising their statutory and regulatory authority to enter into joint agreements to provide educational services and would contravene the authority of a local board to effect a RIF for reasons of economy where a joint agreement might produce savings. The interpretation of the regulation is not so board as to prohibit districts from entering into joint agreements. The regulation and the interpretations at issue here address only the issue of the CST; the educational services to be provided by a district are far more numerous and broad than the services provided by the CST.

For the same reason, i.e., the limitation of the regulation solely to the CST, it is not in contravention of the statutory authority of a local board to effect a RIF. It merely requires a different analysis of how savings can be achieved.

Because of the specific application of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) to the CST as well as the interpretative authority which merely requires that a district make an initial decision either to employ a full CST or to contract with an ESC to provide the CST, I find that the regulation does not transgress, is not inconsistent with, nor does it contravene, legislative authority or purpose. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the interpretation of the regulation in Vicenzo is not ultra vires.

Finally, with respect to the interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), Respondent asserts that a reconciliation between this regulation and N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f) is required; therefore, there is a need for further rulemaking to clarify the issues. Based on the analysis set forth immediately above, it is clear that such a reconciliation is not required, nor is further rulemaking required.

Even if the Board did act in good faith in terminating the Petitioner for economic reasons, the fact remains that the termination is precluded under the regulation. Since Respondent, having determined to maintain its own CST, is prohibited from contracting with an ESC for the services of a single member of the team, the only other alternative is to fill the position of social worker with a qualified individual. Clearly, this board must employ a social worker; a vacancy does exist and has existed continuously since the termination of Petitioner's employment.

Based on the fact that she is the only candidate on the preferred eligibility seniority recall list, I CONCLUDE that Petitioner is entitled to full reinstatement for the 1996-97 year with no loss of rights and benefits. She is also entitled to restoration of retroactive compensation for the 1996-97 school year, less mitigation.

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED Petitioner's motion for summary decision be granted; it is further ORDERED that Petitioner be reinstated to her position of social worker for the 1996-97 school year with no loss of rights and benefits; it is further ORDERED that Respondent compensate Petitioner in the full amount of her salary, less mitigation. Respondent's cross motion for summary decision is denied.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF MORRIS PLAINS, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. l:1-18.4.

Respondent's exceptions recast and reiterate those arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in post-hearing submissions, again, essentially, contending that Impey, supra, is controlling in this matter and that the interpretation of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) espoused by petitioner and the ALJ is beyond the authority of the State Board of Education, absent clarification of the regulations by further rulemaking. The Commissioner concludes that respondent's exception issues were fully considered and addressed in the ALJ's initial decision and will not, therefore, be readdressed herein.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to adopt the recommended decision of the OAL, as he fully concurs with the ALJ's applied analysis and conclusion. The Board's termination of the within petitioner, a tenured member of the "core" child study team, and its contracting of her duties to the Morris County Educational Services Commission, is violative of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) and, as such, petitioner must be reinstated to her school social worker position.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein.* The Board is directed to reinstate petitioner to her former position as school social worker with back pay and emoluments, as appropriate, for the 1996-97 school year and thereafter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

*In so affirming, the Commissioner stresses that the contracts and joint agreements through which a local board of education may provide child study team services if it elects not to employ its own team must be with public entities such as ESCs, jointure commissions or other school districts.

IN THE MATTER OF RODNEY BOND,	:
ASBURY PARK BOARD OF EDUCATION,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
MONMOUTH COUNTY.	:	DECISION

AUGUST 20, 1997

IN THE MATTER OF	:	Before the School Ethics Commission
RODNEY BOND	:	Docket Nos. C21-96 and C24-96
Asbury Park Board of Education	:	(Consolidated)
Monmouth County	:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter arises from two complaints filed separately by Barbara Lesinski and James G. Olson. In both complaints, complainants named the Asbury Park Board of Education (Board) as the respondent even though the allegations were against only Board members Rodney Bond and James Famularo. As set forth in its March 7, 1997 determination on probable cause, with the consent of complainants, the School Ethics Commission (Commission) considered the complaint to be filed only against Mr. Bond and Mr. Famularo. Additionally, since both complaints involved the identical events and individuals and made basically the same allegations, the Commission consolidated the complaints.[1]

In her complaint filed with the Commission on July 12, 1996, Ms. Lesinski alleged that Board member Rodney violated the School Ethics Act (Act), N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq. when he voted in favor of allowing Solid gold Productions to use a school district facility to state a concert. Ms. Lesinski alleged that Mr. Bond resided in the same household with the concert promoter, Rayfield James, Jr., and that Mr. Bond would profit from the concert. Mr. Olson filed a similar complaint on July 30, 1996, alleging that Mr. Bond violated the Act because he had an interest in the concert and would profit from it. Mr. Olson likewise alleged that Mr. Bond and Mr. James resided at the same address. By Written Statement Under Oath filed on July 25, 1996, in answer to Ms. Lesinski's complaint, Mr. Bond admitted that he voted in favor of Solid Gold Productions' use of the facilities, but denied that this vote violated the Act. Relying on N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(h), Mr. Bond answered that his vote did not violate the Act because he had no interest in Solid Gold Productions nor would he benefit in any way from the concert. Mr. Bond further stated that while Mr. James is a good friend of his, Mr. James in not an immediate family member within the definition of the Act and Mr. James, while he did not appear before the board in support of the application, likewise would receive

[1] In its March 7, 1997, determination on probable cause, the Commission dismissed the allegations against Mr. Famularo, finding that Mr. Famularo's vote did not violate the Act because he did not have a sufficient direct or indirect personal involvement with the concert promoter.

The Commission also dismissed the allegations concerning the Board attorney's, Kim Fellenz, Esq., failure to properly review the Board's facilities use policy when advising the Board on the Concert application. The Commission found that there was no probable cause to credit these allegations as they did not set forth any alleged violations under the act.

no benefit from the concert. On August 22, 1996, Mr. Bond filed virtually the identical Written Statement Under Oath in answer to Mr. Olson's complaint.

By letters dated December 27, 1996, the Commission advised Mr. Bond to appear before the Commission at its January 28, 1997, meeting. By letter dated January 14, 1997, Mr. Bond, through his attorney, advised the Commission that he would be unable to attend the Commission meeting due to a scheduling conflict. By letter dated January 16, 1997, the Commission rescheduled Mr. Bond's appearance for its February 25, 1997, meeting. On February 25, 1997, Mr. Bond had to leave before the Commission reached his case. Ultimately, the Commission determined that it was not necessary to its investigation to seek further information from Mr. Bond beyond that which was in his Written Statement Under Oath.

At its public meeting on February 25, 1997, the Commission orally found probable cause to credit the allegations in the complaints against Mr. Bond. The Commission memorialized this oral determination in a written finding dated March 7, 1997, and adopted the Resolution dated March 25, 1997. As set forth in its March 7, 1997, determination, the Commission concluded that the material facts were not in dispute and, therefore, advised Mr. Bond that he could submit, by April 7, 1997, a written statement to the Commission as to why his actions did not violate the Act and as to appropriate sanction should a violation be found. By letter dated March 21, 1997, and filed March 27, 1997, Mr. Bond submitted his arguments as well as supporting certifications. Mr. Bond also requested a copy of the record in the matter. By letter Dated May 5, 1997, the Commission provided Mr. Bond with the requested information and gave him additional time in which to submit a supplemental response should he so choose. Mr. Bond filed a supplemental response on May 19, 1997.

FACTS

The material facts in this matter, which are evident from the pleadings, testimony, and documents submitted, are undisputed. An Application for Permit to Use Public School Building dated March 12, 1996, (March 12 Application) was submitted to the Board. The March 12 Application lists Solid Gold Productions as the organization, with Charles Rouse and Rodney Bond as the contacts. The March 12 Application requests the use of the Asbury Park High School Football Stadium Field for a musical festival. The March 12 Application contains two signature lines at the bottom for sponsors and provides that "[t]he sponsors below agree to be responsible for any violation caused by non-compliance with the rules and regulations of the Board of Education." Each line provides space for "Name (Please Print)," "Signature," and "Address." Typed on the first line is "Solid Gold Productions" and the signature space next to it is signed by Charles Rouse who lists the address as 3701 Hwy. 33, Neptune, NJ 07753. The next line has printed "Rodney Bond" and is signed by Rodney Bond. The address space was left blank. Mr. Bond admits that he was a sponsor on the March 12 Application. He states that his intent was to assist his "good friend" with the planning and holding of the concert. As set forth in the Board's minutes for its March 18, 1996, meeting, Mr. Bond, Mr. Ray James, and Mr. Charles Rouse appeared before the Board on that date in support of the March 12 Application. Mr. Bond and Mr. James reside at the same address. The Application was carried over to another meeting.

In April 1996, Mr. Bond was elected to the Board and sworn in as a member. Subsequently, on May 13, 1996, a new application on behalf of Solid Gold Productions (May 13, 1996 Application) was submitted to the Board for a proposed concert. The application form for the May 13 Application was identical to the form used for the March 12 Application. This time, however, the sponsors were not the same. Solid Gold Productions, Inc. was listed as the organization, but Toney Slaughter was now listed as the contact. The May 13 Application this time was signed only by Charles Rouse as sponsor. Although the date of the event was different, it still was the same event that was being proposed. The Board's minutes for the May 13, 1996, meeting state that the Board approved a Motion to Approve Solid Gold Productions' use of the high school football field for a music festival at a date to be determined. Mr. Bond made the Motion to Approve. Mr. Bond submitted a certification from himself, the School Board Secretary/Business Administrator, Dora E. Mylchreest, and Board President, Shelia Solomon, which stated that prior to moving and voting on Solid Gold Productions' May 13, Application, Mr. Bond advised the Board the he had divested himself of all interests in Solid Gold Productions and the he sought the advice of Board counsel who, after asking questions, ultimately advised him that he could vote on the Application.

ANALYSIS

Mr. Bond raised two procedural arguments which the Commission will address initially. First, Mr. Bond argues that once the Commission found probable cause, it was required to refer this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing. According to Mr. Bond, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b) and (c) require the Commission to refer all cases to the OAL upon a finding of probable cause, regardless of whether there are material facts in dispute. In support of this argument, Mr. Bond relies on N.J.A.C. 1:1-4.1 which defines a "contested case" and states that a hearing in a contested case should be designed to resolve "...disputed questions of fact, law or disposition relating to past, current, or proposed activities or interests." Mr. Bond reasons that N.J.A.C. 1:1-4.1 supports his position because it refers to resolving matters other than disputed questions of fact. The Commission disagrees. The Commission is not required to transmit a matter to the OAL for hearing if there are no disputed material facts.

N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(b) provides in relevant part:

> ...If the Commission determines that probable cause exists, it shall refer the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing to be conducted in accordance with the 'Administrative Procedure Act,' P.L.1968,c.410(C.52:14B-1 et seq.), and shall notify the complainant and each school official named in the complaint.

The language in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) specifically makes reference to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA). Accordingly, the relevant provisions of the APA must be considered when determining the Commission's obligation to refer complaints to the OAL for hearing. Pursuant to the APA, an agency head [2]retains full authority to determine whether a case is contested and to make final decisions in contested cases. N.J.S.A. 52:14F-7; In Re Uniform Adm'n Procedure Rules, 90 N.J. 85 (1982). The APA simply provides a mechanism for providing a hearing once the agency head has determined that a matter is contested and requires an evidentiary hearing. Valdez v. New Jersey State Bd. of Medical Examiners, 205 N.J. Super. 398, 404 (App.Div. 1995). As the Supreme Court noted in In Re Uniform Adm'n Procedure Rules, the APA and the OAL's rules implementing the APA "...do not interfere with the agency procedures for resolving cases, or to hear and decide contested cases." Id. At 105.

Given the agency head's authority concerning cases before it, Courts have found that an agency head's discretion to determine how to handle a particular case is not circumscribed by the use of "shall" in a statutory provision relating to transfer of cases to the OAL. In Hills Development Co. v. Bernards Tp., 229 N.J. Super 318 (App. Div. 1988) and In Re Township of Warren, 247 N.J. Super 146, (App. Div.), certif. denied 127 N.J. 557 (1992), the Appellate Division concluded that the use of the word "shall" in the statutory provision relating to transfer of matters to the OAL did not require the Council on Affordable Housing (COAH) to automatically refer objections to a municipality's affordable housing plan to the OAL for hearing. The Fair Housing Act, N.J.S.A. 52:27D-301 et seq., allows parties to object to a municipality's plan to provide affordable housing and provides in the relevant part, "[i]f mediation efforts are unsuccessful, the matter shall be referred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case defined in the 'Administrative Procedure Act', [citations omitted]." (emphasis added), N.J.S.A. 52:27D-316(c). The Appellants in Hills and Warren argued that use of the word "shall" required COAH to transfer automatically, without discretion, any unresolved objections to the OAL for a hearing. The Appellate Division in both cases dismissed those arguments and found that the Fair Housing Act's reference to the APA incorporated the APA's provisions which allow the agency head to determine whether a case involved contested material issues of fact, thereby making it a contested case requiring an evidentiary hearing.

While the language of the Act and the Fair Housing Act are not identical, Hills and Warren are nonetheless instructive. These cases demonstrate that, despite the use of the word "shall," referral of a matter to the OAL is within the agency's discretion when the statutory provision in question makes specific reference to the APA. Under the APA, the agency head retains the right in the first instance to determine whether a case is contested and requires an evidentiary hearing. The use of the word "shall" does not abrogate this authority.

[2] "Agency head" in the case of the Act refers to the Commission as a public body. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(d)

Indeed, this interpretation of the Act is consistent with the function served by the OAL. The OAL was created to provide an independent agency to promote fairness and consistency in the conduct of administrative hearings before State Agencies. In Re Uniform Adm'n Procedure Rules, supra, 90 N.J. at 90-91. The role of the OAL is to conduct administrative hearings when there are factual disputes. Public Advocate Dep't v. Public Utilities Bd., 189 N.J. Super. 491 (App. Div. 1983) It is well established that where no disputed issues of material facts exist, an administrative agency need not hold an evidentiary hearing in a contested case. Cunningham v. Dept. of Civil Service, 69 N.J. 13, 24-25 (1975); Bally Mfg. Corp. v. Casino Control Com'n, 85 N.J. 325, 334 (1981). In such a case where there are no material facts in dispute, a party's right to a hearing is satisfied by giving the party the opportunity to provide written submissions. In Re Solid Waste Util. Cust. Lists, 106 N.J. 508,521 (1987).

Mr. Bond's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-4.1 is misplaced. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c) provides that "[u]pon completion of the hearing, the Commission, by majority vote, shall determine whether the conduct complained of constitutes a violation of this Act or whether the complaint should be dismissed." As discussed above, the right to a hearing is satisfied by providing the respondent with the opportunity to submit his position in writing to the Commission. When there are no facts in dispute and thus no need for an evidentiary hearing, it certainly makes sense for the Commission to exercise its discretion to consider the matter directly rather than send the matter to OAL. Likewise, N.J.A.C. 1:1-4.1 offers no support for Mr. Bond's arguments. This regulation simply sets forth what kind of matters are to be considered contested cases. The fact that a contested case includes matters that involve questions of law is not dispositive as to whether an agency must refer a case to the OAL. As discussed above, the APA does not divest a State agency of its inherent authority to consider a matter itself.

In his March 21, 1997, submission in response to the finding of probable cause, Mr. Bond requests that the Commission allow board President, Shelia Solomon, Board Secretary/Business Administrator, Dora E. Mylchreest, and Board Vice President, John Moor to address the Commission. Mr. Bond submitted certifications from Ms. Solomon and Ms. Mylchreest with his response. Both certifications state that prior to the May 13, 1996, vote on Solid Gold Productions' application, Mr. Bond advised the board that he had divested himself of all interests in Solid Gold Productions and that he would not profit in any way from the concert. The certifications further state that Mr. Bond sought the advise of Board counsel as to whether he had a conflict and that the Board attorney, after questioning, advised Mr. Bond that he could vote on the application. Mr. Bond also submitted his own certifications which states the same. It is the Commission's understanding the Mr. Moor would provide the same information if he appeared before the Commission. The Commission finds that there is no need for the appearances of the above individuals. The Commission has the certifications. Accordingly, the Commission accepts that prior to the May 13, 1996, vote, Mr. Bond advised the Board that he had no interest in Solid Gold Productions and that the Board attorney advised Mr. Bond that he did not have a conflict that would disqualify him from voting on the May 13 Application.

With these procedural matters resolved, the Commission will now determine whether Mr. Bond's vote on Solid Gold Productions' May 13 Application violated the Act. For the following reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Bond violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted on the May 13 Application. This provision states:

> No school official shall act in his official capacity in any matter where he, a member of his immediate family, or a business organization in which he has an interest, has a direct or indirect financial or personal involvement that might reasonably be expected to impair his objectivity or independence of judgment.

This provision must be interpreted in accord with the legislative intent of the Act, which is to "ensure and preserve public confidence" in school officials. As the Legislature stated, "[t]hese board members and administrators must avoid conduct which is in violation of their public trust or which creates the justifiable impression among the public that such trust in being violated." In interpreting an identical provision of the Local Government Ethics Law, N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.1 et seq., the New Jersey Supreme Court found that this provision requires a public official to discharge his duties with "undivided loyalty." MacDougall v. Weichert, 144 N.J. 380, 401 (1996).[3]

In this case, there certainly can be the justifiable public perception that Mr. Bond did not execute his duties with "undivided loyalty." Mr. Bond signed the March 12 Application as a sponsor. He appeared before the Board at a public meeting as an advocate for the Application on March 18, 1996. He has stated in his March 24, 1997, certification that one of the reasons he acted as a sponsor and advocate for the concert was to help his good friend Charles Rouse. Despite his involvement with the concert and the Application, On May 13, 1996, Mr. Bond voted in favor of the revised May 13 Application. This Application was for the same event except the revised May 13 Application had Mr. Bond's name removed as sponsor. In fact, Mr. Bond's name was not removed from the Application until May 13, the date he voted on it. Also, Mr. Bond had appeared before the Board on the original application less than two months before and it was only one month since he had been elected to the Board. Under these circumstances, there certainly is the justifiable impression that Mr. Bond's independence of judgement and objectivity were impaired and he should not have voted on the May 13 Application.

Mr. Bond's claims that he has no interest in Solid Gold Productions and that he would receive no benefit from the concert do not alleviate the problem. It certainly is reasonable for the public to perceive that Mr. Bond's independence of judgment or objectivity might be impaired when the application of his good friend, on which he initially was a sponsor and in support of which he appeared before the Board shortly before his election to the Board, comes before the Board for a vote. The Act does not require an actual conflict. Rather an apparent conflict is prohibited as well, as evidenced by the legislative intent, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-22. Likewise, the violation is not erased because Mr. Bond sought and received legal advise in which the Board attorney advised him that there was no conflict. While the Commission may consider the Board Attorney's advice in determining sanction, the violation still has occurred.

[3] The Local Government Ethics Law was enacted to ensure public confidence in local government officials by providing a comprehensive scheme of ethical standards for local government officials. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.2. N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.5 provides the standards of conduct and N.J.S.A. 40A:9-22.5(d) is identical to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

Mr. Bond also relies on Petrick v. Planning Board of the City of Jersey City, 287 N.J. Super. 325 (App. Div. 1996) and Monmouth Medical Center v. State Department of Health, 272 N.J. Super. 297 (App. Div. 1994) in support of his argument that no conflict existed when he voted on Solid Gold Productions' May 13 Application. Neither case supports Mr. Bond's position. Initially, it should be noted that neither case was decided under the Act. Rather, they involved an analysis of conflicts of interest under the common law principles. While cases such as these may offer some insight, they do not involve a comprehensive scheme to guide the ethical conduct of school officials.

In any event, neither case supports Mr. Bond's claim that his action did not violate the Act. As Mr. Bond points out, Petrick stands for the proposition that cases involving conflicts of interest must be evaluated on the particular facts of each case and the Courts should determine whether the circumstances could be interpreted to show that the public official could have been tempted to depart from his sworn duty. Relying on Petrick, Mr. Bond argues that his interest was sufficiently remote so as not to disqualify him from performing his duties as an elected official. As discussed above, in this case, the facts demonstrate that Mr. Bond's actions violated the Act. Mr. Bond voted on an application on which he initially had been a sponsor and on which he had appeared before the Board as an advocate, only one month before his election to the Board and only two months before he voted on it as a Board member. Furthermore, the application admittedly was an application of a close friend, which is one reason Mr. Bond initially became involved in the application. These facts certainly demonstrate a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) and Petrick offers no support for concluding otherwise.

Likewise, Monmouth Medical offers no support for Mr. Bond's position. The relevant issue in Monmouth Medical was whether a member of the Health Care Administration Board who was also affiliated with a hospital seeking a certificate of need, should be disqualified from voting on regulations concerning cardiac care. As in Petrick, the Appellate Division noted that the circumstances of each case must be reviewed individually. In Monmouth Medical, the Court concluded that there was not conflict of interest because the member was not voting on a matter directly affecting her or the hospital with which she was affiliated. Rather, the Court noted that she was voting on general regulations. In this case, Mr. Bond voted on an application on which he initially had a direct involvement. His name was not removed from the May 13 Application until the day that he voted on the Application. Monmouth Medical does not support Mr. Bond's claim that his vote did not violate the Act.

In his Written Statement Under Oath, Mr. Bond also argued the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(h) applies to his vote and, therefore, he cannot be found in conflict. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(h) provides:

> No school official shall be deemed in conflict of these provisions if, by reason of his participation in any matter required to be voted upon, no material or monetary gain accrues to him as a member of any business, profession, occupation or group, to any greater extent than any gain could reasonably be expected to accrue to any other member of that business, profession, occupation or group.

Mr. Bond argues that this provision applies because he would receive no monetary gain from the concert. This provision does not absolve Mr. Bond from the violation. As discussed above, the violation in this case in based on Mr. Bond's involvement with the application in question. The fact the he would not have received any money is not determinative. Indeed, if Mr. Bond were correct, any school official could vote on a matter where he has a direct or indirect personal involvement so long as he did not receive any monetary benefit. This is contrary to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c).

DECISION

For the foregoing reasons, the Commission finds that Mr. Bond violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24(c) when he voted on Solid Gold Productions' May 13 Application. The Commission now will address the isue of appropriate sanction. Mr. Bond argues that the appropriate sanction in this case is a reprimand. In support of this argument, Mr. Bond states that he became involved with the event partially in an effort to improve the cultural and social life of Asbury Park. Mr. Bond further points out that prior to his vote, he advised the entire Board that he had divested himself of any interest in Solid Gold Productions and he sought legal advice from the Board attorney on whether he could vote on the May 13 Application.

The Commission agrees that a reprimand is the appropriate sanction in this case. Prior to his vote, Mr. Bond did disclose to the full board that he no longer was involved with the concert or the Application. More importantly, he did seek legal advice from the Board attorney to determine whether he could vote on the matter. In recognition of the fact that the Board attorney advised Mr. Bond that he could vote on the matter, the Commission recommends to the Commissioner of Education that a reprimand be imposed.

The allegations against Mr. Freeman occurred during the short time period of January 18, 1996 through May 10, 1996, and prior to that time, Mr. Freeman had been a capable employee for the Board but exhibited serious errors of judgment in addressing disruptive students in his class during this brief time period;

Miller and the Commissioner of Education, and if such approval is denied, the terms and contents of this Agreement shall not be admissible in any legal or administrative proceedings of any nature, and will be without prejudice to their positions in such proceedings, and that in such event the parties may again attempt to settle the matter in a manner which is satisfactory to the Commissioner of Education.

8. Mr. Freeman requests that the tenure hearing be held in abeyance in order to obtain approval of this Settlement Agreement by Administrative Law Judge Robert S. Dear Judge Masin:

As you will recall, this office represents the Washington Township Board of Education. By Order of March 22, 1996, this matter was placed on the inactive status for purposes of Mr. Fritz pursuing an ordinary disability retirement with the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund. ("TPAF"). Please be advised that Mr. Fritz's ordinary disability retirement was approved by the TPAF effective March 1, 1996. Accordingly, it is respectfully requested that the tenure charges be reinstated from the inactive list for purposes of dismissal with prejudice. A Stipulation of Dismissal to be executed by both parties will be filed in the near future. If you will need any further documentation, please advise.

Thank you for your consideration and cooperation in this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JOHN FRITZ, SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF	:	DECISION
WASHINGTON, GLOUCESTER COUNTY.	:

The record and notice of withdrawal transmitted to the Commissioner by the Office of Administrative Law pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 have been reviewed.* The Assistant Commissioner, to whom this responsibility has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34c, approves the withdrawal of this tenure matter as the record establishes that such withdrawal is appropriate and that the within respondent has been approved by the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund for an ordinary disability retirement. Consequently, the matter is no longer deemed to be a contested matter before the Commissioner and is accordingly dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

ASSISTANT COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* It is noted that this matter was characterized as a settlement, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, by the Administrative Law Judge in his initial decision.. The Commissioner determines that because no settlement terms were brought to the record and the document signed by the parties was entitled a Stipulation of Dismissal, this matter is more appropriately categorized as a withdrawal under N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2.

Record Closed: August 15, 1997 Decided: August 18, 1997

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was commenced by Buena Plumbing, Inc., a New Jersey corporation, on August 4, 1997, with the filing of a petition of appeal and an application for temporary emergent relief. The petition alleged that the respondent Board of Education intended to award the contract for a water line extension for the Cumberland Regional High School to Mathis Construction Company, a bidder which (1) was not properly prequalified by the Division of Building and Construction as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-26, and (2) is not a licensed master plumber and did not list a licensed master plumber as a subcontractor in its bid in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18. The application for emergent relief sought, inter alia, an order enjoining the award and performance of the contract. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 4, 1997, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Oral argument on petitioner's motion for temporary emergent relief was scheduled for August 8, 1997, at 2:00 p.m. at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. Pursuant to the request of counsel for the Cumberland County Regional School District, however, and with the consent of the other parties, the matter was rescheduled for 2:00 p.m. on August 15, 1997. Respondent Board of Education filed an answer and a letter memorandum in response to petitioner's application for emergent relief on August 14, 1997. Respondent Mathis Construction Company filed a letter memorandum in opposition to the application for emergent relief on August 7, 1997, and an answer to the petition on August 15, 1997. The parties appeared and oral argument on the motion was heard on August 15, 1997, whereupon the record closed.

FINDING OF FACTS

The facts relevant to a determination of this application are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

In May 1997, Cumberland Regional School District advertised for bids for a water line extension at the Cumberland Regional High School. The proposed construction will connect the existing water system at the high school to the water main of Upper Deerfield Township. Bids were submitted on June 19, 1997, and were opened on the same date. Respondent Mathis had the lowest total bid, and petitioner Buena submitted the second lowest total bid. Respondent Board of Education announced its intention to award the contract to respondent Mathis. By letter dated June 20, 1997, petitioner Buena advised respondent Board Secretary of its position that "the provisions of the Public School Contract Law, 18A:18A-18 mandated the listing of subcontractors with the bid proposal. More specifically, Mathis Construction failed to list a plumbing subcontractor which is required on this project."

Mathis Construction Company, Inc., is prequalified by the Division of Building and Construction. Its prequalification certificate includes, inter alia, "underground water and utilities." Although the bid submitted by Mathis Construction Company made no mention of hiring a subcontractor, by letter dated July 2, 1997, Christopher D. Mathis, Corporate Secretary, advised respondent Board in pertinent part as follows:

> Please be advised that we intend to comply with Article 5, Section 2.5, page 00802-4 and will furnish a licensed plumber no later than 30 days after award of the Contract.
> When we do this type of work, we hire a Subcontractor whom is a licensed plumber. Again, we will supply the name within 30 days after award of the Contract.

The portion of the specifications referred to in the July 2, 1997, letter provides as follows:

> 5.2 AWARD OF SUBCONTRACTS AND OTHER CONTRACTS FOR PORTIONS OF THE WORK
> 5.2.1 Unless otherwise stated in the Contract Documents or the bidding requirements, the Contractor, as soon as practicable after award of the Contract, shall furnish in writing to the Owner through the Engineer the names of persons or entities (including those who are to furnish materials or equipment fabricated to a special design) proposed for each principal portion of the Work. The Engineer will promptly reply to the Contractor in writing stating whether or not the Owner or the Engineer, after due investigation, has reasonable objection to any such proposed > person or entity. Failure of the Owner or Engineer to reply promptly shall constitute notice of no reasonable objection.

> 5.2.1.1 Not later than 30 days after date of commencement, the contractor shall furnish in writing to the Owner through the Engineer the names of persons or entities proposed as manufacturers of each of the products identified in the Specifications and, where applicable, the name of the installing Subcontractor.

The specifications do not elsewhere require a bidder to list the names of intended subcontractors in the bid. Petitioner Buena contends, however, that N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 requires bidders to list proposed subcontractors in this bid and concludes that since respondent Mathis did not do so and since respondent Mathis is not a licensed master plumber (all parties acknowledge that the specifications include the installation of a back flow preventer which will require a master plumber for installation) that the contract should be awarded to Buena Plumbing as the lowest qualified bidder. Buena seeks a temporary restraining order staying the awarding and performance of the contract pending a final determination of petitioner's legal challenge.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

It is clear that petitioner, as an unsuccessful bidder, may not challenge the legality or sufficiency of the specifications pursuant to which respondent school board intends to award the contract to respondent Mathis Construction Company, Inc., the low bidder. Camden Plaza Parking v. City of Camden, 16 N.J. 150 (1954); Waszen v. City of Atlantic City, 1 N.J. 272 (1940); Albert f. Ruehl Co. v. Bd. of Trustees, Industrial Ed., 85 N.J. Super. 4 (Law Div. 1964). The rationale of these holdings is "that one cannot endeavor to take advantage of a contract to be awarded under illegal specifications and then, when unsuccessful, seek to have the contract set aside." Waszen, supra, at 276. If petitioner had a problem with the clarity of the specifications, the time to raise that issue was before the bids were opened, not after.

The only requirement in the specifications concerning the listing of subcontractors requires the successful bidder to furnish in writing to the school board "the names of persons or entities proposed as manufacturers of each of the products identified in the specifications and where applicable the names of the installing subcontractor." This information is to be provided not later than thirty days after the date of commencement. Petitioner Buena argues that this provision must be read in conjunction with N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 to mean that the successful bidder has thirty days to advise the school board which of the subcontractors listed in the original bid will be used to install which products produced by which manufacturers. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 provides in pertinent part in this regard:

> In the preparation of plans and specifications for the construction, alteration or repair of any building by a board of education, when the entire cost of the work and materials will exceed the amount set forth in, or calculated by the Governor pursuant to, N.J.S. 18A:18A-3 separate plans and specifications shall be prepared for each of the following, and all work and materials kindred thereto to be performed or furnished in connection therewith:
> a. The plumbing and gas fitting work;
> b. The hearing and ventilating systems and equipment;
> c. The electrical work, including any electrical power plant;
> d. The structural steel and ornamental iron work;
> e. All other work and materials required for the completion of the project.
> The board of education or its contracting agent shall advertise for and receive, in the manner provided by law, (1) separate bids for each of said branches of work, and (2) bids for all the work and materials required to complete the building to be included in a single overall contract. There will be set forth in the bid the name or names of, and evidence of performance security from, all subcontractors to whom the bidder will subcontract the furnishing of plumbing and gas fitting, and all kindred work, and of the heating and ventilating systems and equipment, and electrical work, structural steel and ornamental iron work, each of which subcontractors shall be qualified in accordance with this chapter.

As pointed out by respondent Board in its responding papers, the purpose of this statutory requirement is evident from a further reading of the statute which requires the award of separate contracts for each branch of work when the sum total is less than the lowest responsible bid for all the work and materials. Both respondent Board and respondent Mathis accurately point out, however, that N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 is not applicable to the within matter because the Board of Education is seeking bids for a project that does not involve the "construction, alteration or repair of any building." The subject contract is a water line extension unrelated to the construction, alteration or repair of any building. Accordingly, the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18 does not on its face apply to the within project. As further evidence that the Department of Education does not regard the within project as controlled by the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18, respondent Board has offered copies of its August 6, 1996 letter to John Garcia, the Acting Director of the Bureau of Facility Planning Services in the Department of Education, and his response dated August 9, 1996, advising that "construction of hook up to water main of Upper Deerfield Township" does not require review of the plans and specifications by the Bureau; if building construction were involved, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-16 would require submission and approval for educational adequacy.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that there is no statutory requirement that bidders list intended subcontractors in the bids for this project. Furthermore, the specifications as issued required notification concerning specific subcontractors only after the award of the bid, and although petitioner's arguments concerning the logic and wisdom of such a requirement might otherwise be persuasive, as previously noted, if petitioner had a problem with the clarity of the specifications, the time to raise that issue was before the bids were opened, not after. The relief which petitioner seeks herein, an order from the Commissioner of Education enjoining the awarding and performance of the water extension contract requires a prima facie showing by petitioner, inter alia, of a reasonable probability of success on the merits. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and Morris Cty. Transfer Station v. Franks Sanitation, 260 N.J. Super. 570 (App. Div. 1992). Petitioner cannot make that required showing, and accordingly, the application is DENIED. Respondents may proceed with the awarding and performance of the contract.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PRINCETON REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MERCER COUNTY AND C.J. VANDERBECK & SONS, INC.,	:	DECISION ON MOTION

This matter was initially brought before the Commissioner of Education by a Petition of Appeal filed on March 7, 1997, seeking to recover damages in connection with a boiler replacement project which petitioner, a New Jersey corporation which sells heating oil and related equipment, was not awarded. By letter dated March 13, 1997, petitioner was given twenty days to present its arguments as to why this matter should not be dismissed, in that the Commissioner is not authorized to award such damages.[1] Petitioner failed to submit its arguments or to formally respond to the request for information. Accordingly, by letter dated April 25, 1997, the Commissioner dismissed this matter, pursuant to his authority under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.9.

Now, upon petitioner's Motion for Reconsideration, this matter is again before the Commissioner. Petitioner filed a brief in support of its motion; the Board filed a reply brief.

[1] The record shows that petitioner received this notice on March 17, 1997.

Petitioner argues that, on or about July 16, 1996, it duly submitted a bid responsive to the Board's capital improvement project for boiler replacements at the Princeton Regional High School. Respondent Vanderbeck also submitted a bid for the project. Petitioner asserts it was the low-bidder on the project and that, on or about July 17, 1996, Vanderbeck submitted a protest to the Board alleging that petitioner's bid was "non-responsive and unqualified." (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Request for Reconsideration at p. 2) Petitioner contends that the Board then "rejected all bids based upon an alleged 'unexpected contingency' involving a structural problem" at its Littlebrook Elementary School. (Id.) The Board subsequently awarded the replacement project to Vanderbeck, without advertising for new bids. As a result, petitioner asserts it has suffered damages.

Petitioner acknowledges that N.J.S.A. 18A:18-46 specifically provides that

> No action for damages shall lie against the state board, any state official, or any board of education or any of its officers because of any action taken by virtue of the provision of this chapter. N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46.

However, petitioner contends that since it was without knowledge that the Board awarded the contract to Vanderbeck until after the work had been completed, it was deprived of exercising its right, as the lowest responsible bidder, to immediately challenge the contract by filing a Motion for Emergent Relief or by requesting a determination hearing, the sole remedies available to it under the existing school law.

Petitioner further claims that the Board's award of the contract to Vanderbeck violates school law, in that Vanderbeck was not the lowest responsible bidder, and although N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-5 establiishes an exception to the requirement to advertise for bids, "the Board cannot deny that none of the provided exceptions apply in this matter." (Id. at p. 4) Thus, petitioner concludes that the Board capriciously awarded the contract to Vanderbeck, leaving it without remedy. Petitioner continues,

> In such instances, the only logical remedy is to grant the lowest responsible bidder damages in the amount of lost profits that it would have received had it been awarded the contract. To do otherwise would permit school boards to arbitrarily and unjustly abrogate the overall purpose of competitive bidding, which is "to put all actual or potential bidders on the same footing."  While granting damages is typically left for state courts, state courts "do not hear a school law matter until after the State Board of Education has rendered a decision . . . and the State Board has authority to review only a determination of the Commissioner of Education."  However, once a petitioner files an administrative petition, as required by the school law in these matters, the petitioner is barred from bringing the same action in state court. Thus, the Commissioner should have the authority to grant damages in limited situations that are similar to the facts presented here.  (Id. at pp. 5, 6, citations omitted)

In reply, and by certification of the School Business Administrator, the Board avers that, after advertisement of and receipt of bid packages for the boiler/burner replacement projects at Princeton Regional High School and the John Witherspoon School, which it refers to as the HVAC project, it was faced with "the unexpected catastrophe of the collapse of classroom floor areas at the Littlebrook Elementary School." (Board's Affidavit of Daniel Swirsky in Support of Respondent's Brief in Opposition to Petitioner's Request for Reconsideration at p. 2) The Board asserts that the floors, which were concrete slabs on grade construction, "had begun 'sinking' with large voids also existing below the slabs." (Id.) The Board was unable to assess whether the collapse was a localized condition or whether the entire Littlebrook facility was on the verge of sinking. (Id.) Due to budgetary constraints, boiler/burner replacement projects at both the High School and the John Witherspoon School were canceled until the scope of the problem at Littlebrook could be determined. By letter dated

July 29, 1996, letters of rejection citing the need "to meet an unexpected contingency" were sent to all bidders on the project. (Id. at p. 3)

Thereafter, the Board hired Raise-It Concrete Co. of Allentown, Pennsylvania, to remedy the sinking floor areas at the Littlebrook Elementary School, and further determined by a subsurface soil analysis that the distress to the school was localized, rather than systemic, and was safe for occupancy. In August 1996, the Board's facilities staff advised that the risk of opening the high school for the 1996-97 school year with its aged HVAC system "posed too great a risk to the health and safety of school personnel and students because the supply of hot water would be affected as well as the capacity to heat the high school before the onset of the Fall and Winter months." (Id. at pp. 3, 4) Finding that there was insufficient time to prepare new bid specifications and rebid the project, the Board, on August 20, 1996, passed an emergency resolution authorizing "a 'partial replacement' HVAC project, which would complete only essential HVAC work at Princeton Regional High School." (Id. at p. 4) A contract was signed with Respondent Vanderbeck, a licensed contractor already "in place" working on completing a boiler replacement project at the Board's Valley Road Administration Building. (Id.)

The Board asserts that its contract with Vanderbeck was properly awarded on an emergent basis, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-7 which allows for same. (Board's Brief at p. 5) Moreover, it reasons that, at the point at which it rejected all bids, "Petitioner's status as lowest responsible bidder ceased to be an issue as a relevant or dispositive factor in the instant action." (Id. at p. 6) Thus, the rights and privileges which petitioner claims accompany its status as a lowest responsible bidder are not applicable. The Board further asserts it is "ridiculous" for petitioner to contend that the Board would voluntarily seek to increase its financial burdens by awarded a contract to a higher responsible bidder. (Id.)

As to Vanderbeck's protest that petitioner's bid was nonresponsive and unqualified, the Board asserts that it rejected all bids before addressing Vanderbeck's protest. However, the Board reasons that "Vanderbeck's protest is the source of the Petitioner's motive for the filing of the instant action." (Id. at p. 7)

The Board avers that the purpose of the bidding statute, to protect the public interest by keeping costs to a minimum and preventing fraud, has not been frustrated. It rejected all bids in good faith when it was faced with the "unexpected catastrophe" at the Littlebrook Elementary School. (Id.) Accordingly, the Board requests that the Commissioner deny petitioner's request for reconsideration.

Upon review of the papers submitted, the Commissioner initially observes that, notwithstanding that the parties have reached to the merits of this matter by their arguments, supra, the immediate issue before him is whether petitioner has demonstrated that this matter warrants reconsideration. As such petitioner must show that, contrary to the Commissioner's determination of April 25, 1997, the Commissioner is authorized to hear and determine this matter pursuant to his general authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and that N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 does not specifically preclude petitioner's action for damages. The Commissioner determines, however, that petitioner has failed to meet its burden.

The within Petition of Appeal seeks to recover damages from respondents for what petitioner posits to have been capricious action on the part of the Board. While petitioner may have been deprived of the opportunity to appeal on an emergent basis in order to obtain injunctive relief, the Commissioner rejects the concomitant conclusion that this circumstance entitles petitioner to recover damages, notwithstanding the specific limitations of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46. The Commissioner observes, > Ordinarily, we derive a statute's meaning by first looking to its plain language.  If the language's meaning is clear and unambiguous, it will be given effect "absent any specific indication of legislative intent to the contrary." (emphasis in text) Chase Manhattan Bank v. Josephson, 135 N.J. 209, 225 (1994).

Here, petitioner points to no legal authority which would persuade the Commissioner that the plain language of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 should be rendered a nullity. Moreover, our school law statute is buttressed by New Jersey decisional law which restricts the right of an unsuccessful bidder to recover money damages against a public body. Specifically, while an unsuccessful bidder may attack the award of a contract, that bidder may not recover money damages even if the challenge succeeds. See M.A. Stephen Const. v. Borough of Rumson, 125 N.J. Super. 67, 75 (App. Div. 1973), as cited in Feriozzi v. City of Atlantic City, 268 N.J. Super. 310, 315 (App. Div. 1993). As Feriozzi instructs,

> The reason why an unsuccessful bidder may not receive money damages, even if the challenge to the award of the contract succeeds, is to prevent the public from paying twice. It is the public interest, not the private interest of the bidder, which is paramount. Feriozzi, supra, at 316.

Accordingly, petitioner's Motion for Reconsideration is hereby denied. The decision of April 25, 1997 dismissing the within matter shall not be disturbed.

I held a prehearing conference on July 30, 1996, and the matter was scheduled for a hearing on December 3 and 4, 1996. Prior to the commencement of the hearing, Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., on behalf of the petitioner, requested that the matter be adjourned since the parties were having settlement discussions. I adjourned the matter. The matter was rescheduled for May 15 and 30, 1997, since it had not settled. Prior to the hearing, Mr. Hunter informed me that the case was settled and I adjourned the hearing dates.

Petitioning teacher, whose supervisory position was abolished, sought reinstatement to other supervisory position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director, held by staff member with allegedly less seniority than petitioner.

ALJ found that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, each administrative or supervisory position is to be treated separately for tenure and seniority purposes. Thus, petitioner did not have tenure in the separate supervisory position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director. Moreover, the ALJ found that although the other individual (Ms. Ryan) was in the same situation as petitioner, when their seniority was calculated by including their length of service in "all categories in which he or she previously held employment" after obtaining tenure in a supervisory position and including the "full recognition of the previous years of service within the district" after tenure was obtained in the supervisory category, Ms. Ryan had greater seniority than petitioner and, therefore, greater seniority entitlement to the position in question. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner found that petitioner had acquired tenure as a supervisor, as had Ms. Ryan. However, the Commissioner further found that neither petitioner nor Ms. Ryan maintained a seniority claim to the position in question, in that said position was a new one, and not merely a new title affixed to an existing position. Accordingly, the Board was free to exercise its discretion in selecting a person to fill the position. Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that absent a showing by petitioner that the Board's actions in selecting Ms. Ryan over petitioner were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, the Board's decision was presumed valid and would not be disturbed. Commissioner further noted that the decision in Nelson and the resultant statutory amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 clarifying the separately tenurable nature of the positions enumerated therein, did not apply to the facts in this matter, inasmuch as the positions which petitioner and Ms. Ryan held in the past, and the position to which they both laid claim herein were in the same separately tenurable category of supervisor. Commissioner dismissed petition.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter, Jerry Nester (petitioner) seeks instatement, on the basis of tenure and seniority, to the position of "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director," which was established by the Board of Education of Old Bridge Township (respondent or Board of Education).

On August 19, 1996 the instant matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to the New Jersey Administrative Procedure Act. A telephone prehearing conference was held on November 7, 1996. The hearing itself was held on May 5, 1997. The record closed upon counsel's submission of legal memoranda.

The essential facts in this case are not in dispute, having been established by stipulations made by counsel at the outset of the hearing and by the credible testimony of 3 witnesses, including petitioner himself.[1] Accordingly, I set forth separately hereafter those facts that were stipulated and those supplementary facts that I have found after listening to and considering the testimony of the witnesses.

STIPULATED FACTS

1. In November 1968, petitioner Nester earned a teaching certificate with endorsements as secondary teacher of Biology, General Science, Physical Education and Health Education.

2. On September 1, 1969, Nester became employed by the Old Bridge Board of Education as a teacher of Science.

3. In June 1974, petitioner earned an Administrative/Supervisory Certificate with Principal and Supervisor endorsements.

4. On September 2, 1972, Nester earned tenure as a teacher.

5. On September 1, 1985, petitioner was appointed to the position of Athletic Director.

6. Effective July 1, 1994, petitioner Nester was appointed to the position of Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals.

7. The Administrator of Athletics position requires that the holder of the position maintain a valid Administrative/Supervisory Certificate with a supervisory endorsement.

[1] The 2 who testified besides petitioner were Andrew Korshalla (Superintendent of Schools of the Old Bridge Township School System) and Dona Ryan, who was appointed by the Board of Education to the position of "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director," the position sought by petitioner.

8. Effective June 3, 1996, as part of a reduction in force, Nester was returned to his former position as teacher.

9. In June 1968, Dona Floeck Ryan earned a teaching certificate with endorsements in Physical Education, Health Education and Driver Education.

10. On September 1, 1968, Dona Ryan was appointed to a teaching position within the Old Bridge school district. Ryan earned tenure as a teacher on September 2, 1971.

11. On May 1, 1974, Dona Ryan was appointed to the position of Department Chairperson of Physical Education.

12. From November 15, 1979 through March 15, 1980, Dona Ryan took a maternity leave of absence.

13. In May 1979, Ryan earned an Administrative/Supervisory Certificate with a supervisory endorsement.

14. On June 30, 1982, Ryan was returned to her former position as a teacher of physical education as apart of a reduction in force.

15. On March 1, 1988, Dona Ryan was appointed Department Chairperson of Physical Education.

16. On June 30, 1990, as part of a reduction in force, Dona Ryan was returned to her former position as Physical Education teacher.

17. On July 1, 1996, Dona Ryan was appointed to the position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director. A Supervisory Certification is required for this position.

ADDITIONAL FACTS

During the 9 years (1985-1994) petitioner served as Athletic Director, his duties were primarily as follows: to interview applicants for coaching positions and to recommend coaches for new hires; to supervise the coaches and at the end of the year to evaluate them; to schedule games for athletic contests between and among schools; to discipline coaches if and when necessary; to "keep track" of gate receipts from such sports as football; to obtain and to pay persons to officiate at athletic contests; to prepare the athletic department budget, including allocating the monies that would be used for each sport; and to maintain equipment inventories.

Admittedly, petitioner's focus was extracurricular. He never evaluated teachers, and his evaluation of coaches was more of a formality then anything else. He was not involved in the regular educational program, viz., he did not prepare lesson plans, resolve classroom instructional problems, or serve as Department Chair for any of the regular educational programs. His bargaining unit was the Old Bridge Education Association (the teachers' union), rather than the Old Bridge Supervisors Association (the union representing Principals, Vice-Principals and other supervisors of instruction).

During her years as Department Chairperson of Physical Education, Dona Ryan's principal duties were: to supervise the 10 or 12 teachers of Physical Education and Health in Madison High School (1 of the 2 high schools in the Old Bridge school district); to develop and evaluate instructional programs; to observe and evaluate teachers; to help teachers improve their performance; to insure that proper and adequate supplies were received; and to interview and recommend new teaching hires.

Sometime in late 1993 or early 1994, the 2 separate Athletic Director positions were eliminated and 1 new position - - "Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals" - - was created. Effective July 1, 1994 petitioner was appointed to that position. In general, the duties of that position were to coordinate and supervise both extracurricular athletics and the intramural program. The new position, however, did not operate to the satisfaction of the Board of Education and, prior to July 1, 1996, it was eliminated. A new and different position, "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director," was created.

On July 1, 1996 Ms. Ryan was appointed to the latter position. Her duties included the following:

1. Develops the high school's athletic program and supervises physical education teachers in the development of instructional guides, course outlines and other curricular materials related to the physical education program.

2. Participates in interviewing and hiring of teachers and coaches as assigned.

3. Evaluates performance and makes recommendations regarding personnel assigned by principal or central office administrators.

4. Coordinates department operations and acts as liaison between the department and administration, guidance and other departments.

5. Checks lesson plans regularly to insure that curriculum requirements are being met and that available materials are being utilized.

6. Supervises assigned personnel, makes classroom visitation, provides follow-up consultation and provides assistance in the solution of instructional problems.

Most of Ms. Ryan's time (about 60%) she devotes to the educational aspect of the position; the remainder she spends on the extracurricular (athletics) part.

The duties of this newly created position are far more similar to the duties and responsibilities of the position of "Department Chairperson of Physical Education" (held at one time by Dona Ryan) than to the position of "Athletic Director" (held for 9 years by petitioner).

ISSUES AND ANALYSIS

The essential question in this case is whether petitioner has sustained his burden of proving that he has a greater entitlement to the position of "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" than does Dona Ryan, the person whom the Board of Education has appointed. For the reasons to be expressed hereafter, I am of the opinion that this question must be answered in the negative.

Petitioner's argument proceeds from the assumption that he acquired tenure and seniority rights as a supervisor in his prior position of "Athletic Director" and "Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals." This assumption is disputed by respondent, who argues that the evidence clearly establishes that petitioner performed few, if any, supervisory functions in those job titles. Thus, says respondent, since it is duties performed, rather than the title of the position that is controlling, Effenberger v. Toms River Regional Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 66, 69 (Comm'r Ed.), aff'd 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 203 (St. Bd. Ed. 1995), petitioner did not acquire tenure and seniority as a supervisor. The position in question is admittedly supervisory in nature.

It is unnecessary to decide this issue, and I will not do so. Assuming that petitioner did acquire tenure in the 2 aforementioned positions, he is not automatically entitled to the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, tenure "accrues only by the employment in [a specific] administrative or supervisory position [and does] not extend to any other administrative or supervisory position." The recent amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 clarifies the legislative intention that each administrative or supervisory position be treated separately for tenure and seniority purposes. Nelson v. Board of Education of Township of Old Bridge, 148 N.J. 358, 370 (1977). Thus, regardless of whether petitioner obtained tenure in other previous positions, he does not have tenure in the separate supervisory position of "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director."

Similarly, if petitioner does have seniority because of his service in prior positions, that seniority cannot be used to claim an entitlement to the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l), each supervisory title in the school district is a separate category for seniority purposes. The effect of treating each supervisory title as a separate category is that seniority will accrue separately in each specific supervisory title held, and seniority accrued in one supervisory title cannot be used to support an entitlement to a position under a separate supervisory title. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(b). Thus, even if he accrued seniority as "Athletic Director" and/or "Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals," petitioner's seniority based upon his service in those positions does not entitle him to the position at issue in this case.

Although Ms. Ryan may be in the same situation as petitioner, i.e., not automatically entitled to the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position, the Board of Education was faced with choosing between 2 employees, neither of whom had a superior entitlement. The Board of Education was then entitled to exercise its discretion in choosing Ms. Ryan, Chammings v. Rockaway Township Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 891, 895 (Comm'r of Ed. 1993), so long as its discretion was not abused, and there has been no showing whatever of that. Furthermore, the Board's choice under these circumstances is entitled to a presumption of validity. Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327, 332 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966); Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 280, 294 (App. Div. 1960). This presumption of validity has clearly not been overcome.

Additionally, if one assumes that both petitioner and Ms. Ryan have tenure and seniority rights to the position in question, then their respective seniority will determine which of them is entitled to the position. Seniority is determined according to "the number of academic or calendar years of employment, or fraction therefore, as the case may be, in the school district, in specific categories," N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(b), and includes any period of employment in the district prior or subsequent to acquiring tenure in a category, even after a move from that category. N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(c) and (h). Accordingly, if petitioner and Ms. Ryan both have tenure and seniority rights with respect to the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position, a simple mathematical calculation reveals that Ms. Ryan has greater seniority and therefore a superior entitlement to the position.

As noted above, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(h), seniority for both petitioner and Ms. Ryan is calculated by including their length of service in "all categories in which he or she previously held employment" after obtaining tenure in a supervisory position. Further, the computation of seniority includes the "full recognition of the previous years of service within the district" after tenure is obtained in the supervisory category.

Ms. Ryan's seniority is calculated beginning with her appointment to the "Department Chairperson of Physical Education" (May 1, 1974), or, at the latest, when she obtained her administrative certificate with supervisory endorsement while in that position (May 1979), through the date on which the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position was filled (July 1, 1996), minus her maternity leave (November 15, 1979 through March 15, 1980). This gives her seniority of 21 years and 10 months, at the most, or 16 years and 10 months at the least.

Petitioner's seniority is calculated as beginning upon his appointment to the "Athletic Director" position (September 1, 1985) through the date on which the "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" position was filled (July 1, 1996). This gives petitioner seniority of 10 years and 11 months.

In short, Ms. Ryan's seniority is greater than petitioner's by a minimum of 5 years and 11 months. Thus, she has the greater seniority entitlement to the position.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

For the reasons expressed above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to the position of "Department Supervisor/Athletic Director" and that his petition should therefore be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

JERRY NESTER,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board submitted exceptions in support of the initial decision of the ALJ, which submission is merely a verbatim reiteration of its arguments raised at the OAL and, therefore, will not be summarized herein.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included a transcript of the proceedings conducted on May 5, 1997 at the OAL, the Commissioner determines that petitioner is not entitled to instatement in the position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director, for the reasons set forth herein.

Initially, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has acquired tenure as a supervisor, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and 18A:28-6, by virtue of his employment as an Athletic Director, from 1985 to 1994, and as the Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals, from 1994 to 1996. Despite the parties' apparent dispute about the certification requirement for the position of Athletic Director, the job description for that position, on its face, required a "Master's Degree with Supervisor's Certificate." (Exhibit J-1, attachment A) Additionally, the parties have stipulated that the Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals position required that the holder of the position maintain a valid administrative certificate with supervisory endorsement. (Initial Decision at p. 2) In spite of the Board's characterization of these positions as "clerical in nature," (Board's Exceptions at p. 4), petitioner was required to interview applicants for coaching positions, to recommend coaches for new hires, to supervise coaches and to evaluate coaches at the end of the year. (Initial Decision at p. 3) Moreover, coaches are certificated teachers, (N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.3 et seq.) notwithstanding that their depth of participation in the District's educational program varies from that of classroom teachers. This conclusion is buttressed by the legislative history of the statute requiring that athletic directors hold endorsements as supervisors. The Legislature therein affirmed that > Athletics have become an increasingly significant component of the educational program in every school in the State. With the expanding emphasis on athletics has come a multidimensional expansion in the supervisory responsibilities and duties of athletic directors. These supervisory responsibilities include recruiting, selecting and evaluating coaches and trainers, ordering equipment, maintaining inventories, establishing crowd control and safety, reviewing eligibility, providing transportation and scheduling comprehensive physical examinations. (P.L. 1991, c. 17, Senate Education Committee Statement to Senate, No. 2343, April 26, 1990)

The Commissioner additionally finds that Ms. Ryan, too, has acquired tenure as a supervisor. Here, the record indicates that, although Ms. Ryan was appointed to the position of Department Chairperson of Physical Education in 1974, the job description for Department Chairpersons did not, until September 11, 1979, require that the holder possess a supervisor's endorsement. (Exhibit J-1, attachment C; Transcript at p. 72) Ms. Ryan's tenure as a supervisor, therefore, could not begin to accrue before September 11, 1979. (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4) Initially, she served as Department Chairperson until June of 1982, thereby satisfying the time requirement set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 for obtaining tenure pursuant to a transfer or promotion. Thus, her tenure accrued because she was employed for the requisite time period as a Department Chairperson and because, as of 1979, she was required to hold, and did in fact possess, an administrative certificate with a supervisory endorsement. Moreover, the record clearly supports the conclusion that the functions of the Department Chairperson after September 11, 1979 were supervisory in nature.[1]

With respect to the determination of tenure rights, the Commissioner clarifies that neither petitioner's nor Ms. Ryan's membership in a particular bargaining unit is dispositive:

> Tenure is created by statute, and the Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-1 et seq., defines with specificity the conditions under which teaching staff members are entitled to the security of tenure. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 72 (1982). Tenure supersedes any contractual terms, and whether a teaching staff member is entitled to the protection of tenure never depends on the contractual agreement between the staff member and the employing board. Id., at 72, 77. Rather, in order to obtain tenure, the precise statutory conditions must be met. Zimmerman v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 38 N.J. 65, 72 (1962). John Zachau v. Burlington County Vocational and Technical Schools, Burlington County, decision by State Board of Education September 4, 1996, rejecting petitioner's claim that the particular bargaining unit in which he was represented was material to the determination of his statutory tenure rights. Slip Opinion at p. 4.

The Commissioner next finds that, having acquired tenure as a supervisor, petitioner accumulated just under nine years of seniority as an Athletic Director, and just under

[1] The Commissioner does not herein make a determination with respect to the nature of Ms. Ryan's job functions as Department Chairperson prior to September 11, 1979, since that period of time cannot, in any event, count toward her acquisition of tenure as supervisor, in that she was not properly certified. (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4)

two years of seniority as the Administrator of Athletics and Intramurals (N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l)10i) as of July 1996, when the new position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director was created. Likewise, as a tenured supervisor, Ms. Ryan had accumulated over 16 years of seniority in the title of Department Chairperson of Physical Education (N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l)10i) as of July 1996.[2]

Further, notwithstanding the Board's assertions that the functions of the new position are "substantially similar" to those of the Department Chairperson of Physical Education (Board's Exceptions at pp. 11-15), the Commissioner finds that the record supports the conclusion that the position of Department Supervisor/Athletic Director is a new position, not merely a new title affixed to an existing position, which represents a fairly balanced blend of the job duties formerly performed by the Department Chairperson of Physical Education and the Athletic Director. (Initial Decision at p. 5; Transcript at p. 77) Accordingly, neither petitioner nor Ms. Ryan maintained a seniority claim with respect to the new position, and the Board was, therefore, free to exercise its discretion in selecting the person to fill the position. As the ALJ properly noted, absent a showing by petitioner that the Board's actions in selecting Ms. Ryan over petitioner were arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable, the Board's decision is presumed valid, and will not be disturbed.

Finally, the Commissioner notes that the decision in Nelson, supra, and the resultant statutory amendment to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 clarifying the separately tenurable nature of the positions enumerated therein, do not apply to the facts in this matter, inasmuch as the positions which petitioner and Ms. Ryan held in the past, and the position to which they both lay claim now, are in the same separately tenurable category of supervisor.[3] The Commissioner, therefore, does not reach to the ALJ's discussion in this regard.

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines to affirm the conclusion of the ALJ, for the reasons expressed herein. The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[3] The Commissioner herein notes that the job description for the position of Administrator of Athletics and Intramural, facially indicates that the holder is required to maintain "A Principal's Certificate." (Exhibit J-1, attachment B) However, inasmuch as the parties have stipulated that the position required a supervisor's endorsement, the Commissioner accepts that stipulation as determinative in this matter.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

In consolidated matters, Board challenged domicile of minor pupil, I.H.S. and sought tuition payment, while parent challenged District's determination that I.H.S. was not domiciled in the District.

ALJ determined that even though I.H.S. resided at his father's home on a temporary basis, I.H.S. intended to remain permanently with his natural mother and legal guardian, J.E.D. Thus, the residence of his mother, which was in the District, was his domicile. Petition and cross-petition were dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: June 3, 1997 Decided: July 24, 1997

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

This matter involves the petition of the petitioner, the Board of Education of the Borough of Roselle Park and the cross petition of the respondent, Joanne E. Devine, parent and guardian of Ian Hans Schnug. On December 6, 1993, the Board of Education filed a petition with the State Department of Education to remove a student, Ian Schnug from its school district. The petition further requested that the respondents A.H.S., J.E.D. and I.S., and be assessed resident tuition as of the date of enrollment to the date of departure, additional investigation, court costs and legal fees. On December 16, 1993, the Department of Education transmitted the petition to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned OAL docket no. EDU 12013-93.

On November 30, 1993 the respondent, Joanne Devine filed a cross petition with the State Department of Education alleging that Ian Schnug be immediately readmitted to Roselle Park Public School System and compensatory education for the time that he was denied admission into the District's schools. The petition further requested that an Order be issued from the Commissioner that would prohibit expulsion of any student from the system until there is first an opportunity to rebut the charges. On March 9, 1994, the Commissioner transmitted the cross-petition to the OAL for hearing and possible consolidation with OAL Docket No. EDU 12013-93.

On April 4, 1994, the cross petitioner, requested that the matters be consolidated. A prehearing conference was held on February 17, 1994. The request to consolidate the matters was granted. Further, the parties' request to schedule this matter for settlement conference was also granted. A settlement conference was held on April 26, 1994. Subsequently, the parties were not able to resolve the entire controversy. Telephone conferences were conducted and the matter was scheduled for a plenary hearing on December 9, 1996 and that date was adjourned for good cause.

On June 3, 1997 a hearing was held and the parties submitted Joint Stipulations.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on stipulation of the parties, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Ian's legal guardian is his natural mother, Joanne E. Devine, who presently resides at 111 Columbus Place, Roselle Park, New Jersey. Ms. Devine's domicile is undisputed.

2. In a legal action, Civil Action Complaint Docket No. FD-20-001207-94E, Ms. Devine was granted legal custody.

3. Alfred Schnug is Ian's putative father. Alfred Schnug has visitation rights.

4. Under the Consent Order for Support, Docket No. 30-D-285, which are treated liberally by both parents.

5. Ian Schnug attended grades K through five in the Elizabeth public schools, while living with his mother in that district.

6. Ian began the sixth grade enrolled in the Westfield public schools, still living with his mother, but transferred because their new living arrangements were unexpectedly terminated. During the period that Joanne Devine was technically homeless, Ian resided with his father and attended the Union public schools, where he completed the sixth grade. At that time, the Union school district resisted enrolling Ian because his father did not have legal custody. When Joanne Devine obtained an apartment in Roselle Park in 1992, Ian enrolled in the Roselle Park public schools.

7. While attending school in Union, Ian Schnug lived at 387 Spring Street, Union, New Jersey, with his father.

8. On or about August 31, 1992, Joanne Devine presented to the appropriate representatives of the Roselle Park School district a sworn statement from her landlord stating that she and Ian were living at 111 Columbus Place, Roselle Park, New Jersey.

9. During the beginning of eight grade, Ian Schnug informed the Roselle Park School District nurse that he was living with his father in Union, New Jersey. The nurse then forwarded this information to the Roselle Park School District attendance officer, who initiated a residency investigation.

10. Due to Ms. Devine's attendance at college courses on weekday evenings, Ian Schnug spent considerable time at his father's residence during the school semester in question. This was deemed by both parents to be in the best interest of Ian as a temporary solution to providing care to Ian while his mother attended school.

11. Roselle Park Board of Education policy provides that "No child shall be registered as a student in the school district unless the child maintains his or her residence in the district. "Residence" is defined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:1-1 to mean domicile."

12. In October 1993, on four (4) separate occasions, the Roselle Park residency investigator surveilled the residence of Joanne Devine at 111 Columbus Place, Roselle Park, between 7:30 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., and never observed Ian Schnug exist this residence, although Ian Schnug was in attendance at Roselle Park High School.

13. On three (3) separate occasions in October and November 1993, the Roselle Park residency investigator observed Ian Schnug being picked up by Joanne Schnug in front of Roselle Park High School and driven to 387 Spring Street, Union, New Jersey, where Ian Schnug existed the vehicle and entered the residence.

14. On four (4) separate occasions in October and November, 1993, the Roselle Park residency investigator surveilled Alfred Schnug's residence at 387 Spring Street, Union, New Jersey, observed Ian Schnug existing this residence and being driven to Roselle Park High School.

15. On November 17, 1993, Mr. Clarke posted a letter to Ms. Devine which stated "Through our investigation process, we have determined that your son is not a resident of Roselle Park."

16. At a meeting with Mr. Clarke on November 23, 1993, both parents contended that Ian Schnug was domiciled at 111 Columbus Place, Roselle Park, New Jersey. Both parents confirmed that Ian had spent more time at his father's address during the semester in question than was usual, but that he was not domiciled at that address.

17. "Domicile" is the place where an individual had his permanent home or principal establishment, to where, whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning.

18. "Domicile" is "The one technical pre-eminent headquarters, which a result either of fact or fiction, every person is compelled to have in order that by aid of it certain rights and duties which have been attached to it may be determined."

19. "Every person has at all times only one domicile, and no person has more than one domicile at a time."

20. Residence is not equal to domicile since a person can have many transient residences where he may be temporarily found but only one domicile which is the residence to which he always intends to return and to remain permanently.

21. The residence to which Ian Schnug always intends to return and where he intends to remain permanently is that of his natural mother and legal guardian, Joanne Devine.

22. Ian's residing at his father's home on a temporary basis in no way constitutes domicile, since domicile is not equal to residence.

23. Ian's domicile is 111 Columbus Place, Roselle Park, New Jersey.

FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

Based on the above FACTS, I hereby FIND that Ian Schnug is domiciled and has a residence in the petitioner's school district. I further FIND that he is lawfully entitled to attend school in the district where he is domiciled and resides at with his mother.

Based upon the Stipulations and the fact that Ian Schnug has continued to be educated in the Roselle Park School District with the exception of a one week period prior to the filing of the petition by the Roselle Park Board of Education due to a miscommunication, I FIND no violation of law on the part of either the Roselle Park Board of Education or Joanne Devine as alleged in the respective Petitions. Thus, I FIND and CONCLUDE that there is no longer a justiciable controversy and therefore the petition and cross petition are hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that I.H.S. is domiciled with his mother, J.E.D., his custodial parent, within the District, so as to permit him to attend school in the District, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL dismissing the Petition of Appeal and the Cross-Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter. The Board is hereby ordered to continue to admit I.H.S. into its public school system, free of charge, so long as there is no change in J.E.D.'s circumstances that would alter her son's entitlement.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, former students at Park Ridge High School in 1992 who were barred from participating in year-end school ceremonies, including graduation, due to consumption of alcoholic beverages, challenged the Board's policy on alcohol consumption, contesting regulations referenced as "Prom/Snowball" regulations. Petitioners contended the regulations were illegal, i.e. contrary to certain statutory provisions.

ALJ found that the relief sought by petitioners in the current matter was the same as that sought by petitioners' parents in 1992. The ALJ in the prior matter considered petitioners' arguments and found that the regulations were not illegal and inconsistent with the Board's policies. That decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board. The State Board's decision, which urged rephrasing of the policy, was affirmed by the Appellate Division and the Supreme Court denied certification. Although the prom regulations in effect in 1992 did not specifically address the possession/consumption of alcohol or drugs during travel to a prom, which subject is addressed in the current regulations, it is clear that the legality of the Board policy barring a student from attending graduation ceremonies because he/she consumed and/or possessed alcohol or drugs during travel to a prom was considered, and upheld, in the prior litigation. Thus, the ALJ was convinced that the issues raised by petitioners herein were litigated and determined in prior relevant proceedings. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that res judicata and collateral estoppel should be applied in the current matter against petitioners. Board's motion for summary decision was granted; petitioners' cross-motion for summary decision was denied. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with and adopted as his own the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and, thus, accepted her recommended decision dismissing the within Petition of Appeal on the basis of res judicata and collateral estoppel.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Rory Freedman (Freedman or petitioner) and Lorraine Hennessy (Hennessy or petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) on August 31, 1995, contesting certain regulations promulgated by the Board of Education (Board or respondent) of the Borough of Park Ridge (Park Ridge). Respondent filed an answer on September 18, 1995. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 22, 1995 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted, by telephone, on January 24, 1996, at which time hearings were scheduled for July 1996. Telephone conferences were subsequently conducted throughout the proceedings. Numerous orders, addressing various motions, were issued by this judge. Several were reviewed, and upheld, by the Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner). All orders are incorporated herein.

The Board filed a motion for summary decision on May 13, 1996. Various replies and responses were subsequently filed by the parties. Petitioners filed a cross-motion for summary decision on October 9, 1996. The last motion paper was filed on November 1, 1996. This judge issued a final order on December 9, 1996, on which date the record was closed. The deadline for the issuance of an initial decision was extended.

NATURE OF THE CASE

The regulations in question address the consumption of alcohol applicable to Park Ridge High School (High School), which regulations are referenced as "Prom/Snowball" regulations (Prom Regulations). In their initial petition, petitioners argued that paragraphs 1 and 12 of the Prom Regulations are illegal, i.e., contrary to certain statutory provisions. Paragraph 1 restricts the use or possession of any alcohol/drugs on school property or at school functions, which restrictions are applicable to the use or possession of alcohol/drugs prior to a prom, at any pre-prom activity, and during travel to a prom. Paragraph 12 of the Prom Regulations mandates that the High School implement action against any individuals who attempt to attend a prom in an unsatisfactory condition and/or are found to be in possession of alcohol and/or drugs.

Petitioners filed an amendment to their petition on February 20, 1995. The Board filed a responsive position, arguing that petitioners should not be permitted to amend their initial petition. I issued an order on March 26, 1995, granting petitioners' request to amend their petition.

In their amended petition, petitioners requested a determination that paragraphs 1 and 12 of the Prom Regulations violate respondent's Substance Abuse Policy 5131.6 and, again, a determination that the pertinent provisions of the Prom Regulations are unlawful. Petitioners also requested awards of compensatory and punitive damages, interest, costs, and any such other relief as the Commissioner may deem just and proper.

In its motion for summary decision, respondent argues that res judicata and collateral estoppel are applicable to the current matter.[1] Petitioners reiterate the positions articulated by them in their initial and amended petitions and also argue that res judicata and collateral estoppel are not applicable to the current matter. The issue, broadly, is whether the motions should be granted.

[1] Respondent's Prom Regulations have previously been considered by various tribunals. The applicable prior proceedings are referenced in the findings of fact articulated hereinafter.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the motion papers, as well as relevant decisions, I FIND the following to be facts.

Petitioners were seniors at the High School as of June 1992 and were minors at that time. On June 5, 1992, petitioners consumed champagne in a privately rented limousine or "party bus" while traveling to their senior prom. R.F. v. Park Ridge Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. 79, 80 (EDU) (Park Ridge). See also, Appendix 1 to petitioners' brief in opposition to respondent's motion, p.1 (petitioners' brief). Petitioners were under the legal age for drinking alcoholic beverages at that time. (Park Ridge, supra, at 80).

At that time, the Board's substance abuse policy prohibited, in part, the use by students of illegal substances at all times in school buildings, on school property, and at any activity sponsored by and under the supervision of school officials. (Ibid.) Pursuant to this policy, respondent's Superintendent developed the Prom Regulations. Those applicable as of June 1992 prohibited, in part, students from hosting or attending pre-prom/snowball parties where alcohol/drugs would be served. School officials reserved the right to inspect limousines chauffeuring students to and from a prom if there were a reasonable suspicion of alcohol/drug consumption. (Ibid.) The regulations also provided that any student or guest who violated them would be asked to leave the prom. The content of the Prom Regulations in effect as of June 1992 is as stated in Appendix 6 to petitioner's brief.

As a result of their consumption of alcoholic beverages, petitioners were directed to leave the prom and were barred from participating in year-end school ceremonies, including graduation ceremonies, which were scheduled for June 18, 1992. (Park Ridge at 80. Appendix 1, pp. 1-2).

On or about June 17, 1992, petitioners, individually, and by their parents, filed a complaint with the DOE, seeking an order from the Commissioner allowing petitioners to participate in graduation ceremonies. The content of the petition is as stated in Appendix 3 to petitioner's brief. In an order on application for emergent relief, dated June 18, 1992, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Bruce R. Campbell denied petitioners' requests. The content of this order is as stated in Appendix 1. Judge Campbell's order was affirmed by the Commissioner on June 18, 1992. (Park Ridge, supra, at 79).

In an initial decision issued October 19, 1992, ALJ Edith Klinger, who was assigned at the time to preside over the preliminary matter, granted a motion for summary decision by respondent. (Park Ridge, supra). The Commissioner affirmed. (Id. at pp. 81-82).

The State Board of Education (State Board) issued a decision on May 5, 1993, affirming the Commissioner's decision. R.F., et. al and L.H. et. al v. Bd. of Ed. of the Bor. of Park Ridge, 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. 416 (EDU). The State Board's decision was affirmed by the Appellate Division, No. A-5058-92 (App. Div. November 22, 1993), and certification was denied by the State Supreme Court, 135 N.J. 469 (1994). 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. 416 (EDU).

The Board subsequently modified its Prom Regulations in certain respects. The content of the current regulations is as stated in the attachment to respondent's letter brief in support of the Board's motion for summary decision (Current Regulations). The Board's substance abuse policy is as stated in Appendix 7 to petitioners' brief.

On August 31, 1995, petitioners, who have now reached the age of majority, and who are no longer students in respondent's district, filed a petition with the Commissioner, arguing that the Current Regulations are unlawful in certain respects. (Order denying Meredith Freedman's motion, p. 3.) The DOE transmitted this matter to the OAL for determination as a contested case.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The school laws address substance abuse policies of local boards of education.

Every board of education is required to establish a substance abuse program in elementary and secondary schools. Each district is also required to develop a written policy statement outlining its program in certain respects, including discipline of pupils who are substance abusers. Id. at §40A-10.

Each board, in addition, is required to adopt and implement policies and procedures for the evaluation, referral for treatment, and discipline of students involved in incidents of possession of abusive substances on school property or at school functions, or who demonstrate significant symptoms of the use of such substances on school property or at school functions. Id. at §11.

The applicable statutory provisions also mandate certain procedures to be followed by educational personnel of any public school in the State when it appears to such individuals that a pupil may be under the influence of the substances in question. Id. at §12 (Supp 1997). For purposes of these provisions, '(S)ubstance' is defined as alcoholic beverages, controlled dangerous substances, as defined in certain statutory provisions, anabolic steroids, or any chemical or chemical compound which releases vapors or fumes creating a condition of intoxication, inebriation, excitement, stupefaction, or "dulling of the brain or nervous system." Id. at §9.

The doctrine of res judicata provides that a cause of action once finally determined between parties on the merits by a tribunal with jurisdiction cannot be relitigated by the parties, or their privies, in a new proceeding. Roberts v. Goldner, 79 N.J. 82 (1979) (Roberts). Collateral Estoppel, in contrast, precludes relitigation of questions 'distinctly put in issue' and 'directly determined' adversely to the party against whom estoppel is asserted. Eatough v. Bd. of Medical Examiners, 191 N.J. Super. 166, 175 (App. Div. 1983) (citations omitted) (Eatough). Doctrines such as res judicata and collateral estoppel are applicable in administrative proceedings. City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1 (1980).

It is clear that both Judges Campbell and Klinger considered the substantive merits of arguments by petitioners that the pertinent Prom Regulations were contrary to applicable statutes, including any arguments relevant to the Board's substance abuse policy. Judge Campbell specifically found that petitioners were not likely to proceed on the merits. (Appendix 1, p.4).

The relief sought by petitioners in the proceedings before Judge Klinger is the same as that sought in the current matter. See, Park Ridge at 79. Judge Klinger considered petitioners' arguments that the prior regulations were illegal and inconsistent with the Board's policies. As found, Judge Klinger's decision was affirmed by the Commissioner and the State Board. The State Board specifically noted in this respect:

> Although we recognize that there is no relief that could be granted to petitioners' children and that graduation has passed, our decision does not rest on those grounds. Rather, our review of the papers filed in this appeal reinforces our conclusion that, for the reasons expressed in the decision below, the Board was entitled to summary judgment based on the merits of the case. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 416.

The State Board agreed with Judge Klinger's observations, regarding the Prom Regulations then under consideration, that although '. . . what the policy says is clear. It might have been phrased better,' but '. . . it is absolutely clear. . . there was adequate warning. . .' Ibid. "However, to reduce the possibility of misunderstanding in the future concerning the wording of the Board's policy," the State Board went on to "urge the Board to review its written policy to determine if it can be phrased better." Ibid. The State Board's decision was affirmed by the Appellate Division, and the State Supreme Court denied certification. Ibid.

As found, respondent subsequently amended the Prom Regulations in certain respects. The main differences between the current and prior regulations are that the current regulations specifically address the use or possession of alcohol/drugs prior to a prom and any pre-prom activities, and during travel to a prom, and specifically provide that such restrictions apply to all students and guests who attend a prom, regardless of age; and state that a student is deemed to be in an unsatisfactory condition if any alcohol/drugs is consumed at a prom, prior to a prom, at any pre-prom activity, or during travel to a prom.

Although the Prom Regulations in effect in 1992 did not specifically address the possession/consumption of alcohol or drugs during travel to a prom, which subject is now referenced in the Current Regulations, it is clear that the legality of a Board policy barring a student from attending graduation ceremonies because he/she consumed and/or possessed alcohol or drugs during travel to a prom was considered, and upheld, in the prior litigation. Appendix 1, pp.1-2. Park Ridge, supra. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 81-82. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 416.

I am persuaded that the issues raised by petitioners in the instant matter pertinent to paragraphs 1 and 12 of the Current Regulations were litigated and determined in the prior relevant proceedings.

I am also persuaded that petitioners were privy to their parents who were designated as petitioners in the prior litigation. See, Roberts, supra., and Save Our Schools Ass. et al. v. Bd. of Ed., Bloomfield, 1988 S.L.D. 1 (Save Our Schools). Judges Campbell and Klinger, as well as the Commissioner and the State Board, all recognized that relief was being requested in the prior litigation on behalf of petitioners and that, in fact, relief could only be given to petitioners. Appendix 1, p.4. Park Ridge, supra., at pp. 80-81. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 81. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 416. Parenthetically, it is noted that the Commissioner does not have authority to grant punitive damages, nor attorney costs and fees. 93 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 81.

There is no question that the tribunals considering the matter in the prior litigation had jurisdiction and that the substantive issues raised in the current proceeding were finally determined on the merits. I am therefore persuaded that res judicata should be applied against petitioners in this proceeding.

For the reasons discussed in relation to res judicata, I am also persuaded that collateral estoppel should be applied. The issues raised by petitioners in the current matter were put in issue and directly determined adversely to them in the prior litigation. See, Save Our Schools, supra. Petitioners' arguments that the decisions in the prior litigation addressed the clarity, not the legality, of the Prom Regulations and that res judicata and collateral estoppel cannot be applied because the prior litigation addressed the original Prom Regulations, not the revised ones, are without merit.

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and any discovery demonstrate that no genuine issue exists regarding any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. The decision may be rendered if the papers and discovery, in addition to any affidavits, demonstrate that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

The material facts in the current matter are clearly not in dispute. For the reasons discussed hereinabove, I am persuaded that the Board's motion for summary decision should be granted and petitioners' cross-motion for summary decision should be denied. At this judge's request, the parties filed supplemental post-hearing letter memoranda addressing the question of whether petitioners have standing in the current matter. Although respondent's arguments in this respect have merit, it is not necessary to decide this question in light of my conclusions regarding the application of res judicata and collateral estoppel.[2]

[2] I note in this respect that petitioners presented no affidavits that they are currently residents or tax payers of Park Ridge.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that res judicata and collateral estoppel should be applied in the current matter against petitioners, that respondent's motion for summary decision should be granted, that petitioners' cross-motion for summary decision should be denied, and that Hennessy's and Freedman's petition should be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED, petitioners' cross-motion for summary decision be and is hereby DENIED, and Hennessy's and Freedman's petition filed with the DOE in the current matter be and is hereby DISMISSED, with prejudice.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioners' exceptions essentially recast and reiterate the arguments advanced in their brief in opposition to respondent's motion for summary judgment advanced to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) prior to her decision in this matter, which the Commissioner finds were addressed and considered by the ALJ and will not be revisited herein.[1]

Upon an independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with and adopts as his own the findings and conclusion of the ALJ and, thus, accepts her recommended decision dismissing the within Petition of Appeal on the basis of res judicata and collateral estoppel. A thorough assessment of the submissions in this matter make it clear that no new substantive issue has been raised by these petitioners, notwithstanding their arguments to the contrary. That the within Board regulations differ from the ones challenged in the 1992 matter before the Commissioner is of no import here in that the gravaman of petitioners' allegation in both instances vis-a-vis these regulations is identical, i.e., they challenge the Board's legal authority to discipline students consuming alcohol in transit to the prom. Confirmation that the substantive merits of petitioners' arguments have previously been litigated and determined is fully evident from the Commissioner's decision in the prior matter, R.F., et al. and L.H., et al. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Park Ridge, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 79; aff'd State Board of Education 416; aff'd Appellate Division, No. A-5058-92 (App. Div. Let there be no misunderstanding of the Commissioner's conviction in this regard: be it a sip, a slug, or a keg of alcohol consumed on the way to, during or following a school-sponsored event, such behavior as exhibited by these teenaged students, who were fully cognizant of the consequences that could flow from their voluntary act, cannot and will not be sanctioned, excused or mitigated in the face of the Legislature's clear intent as stated in N.J.S.A. 18A:37-1[2] and reflected in the Board's policy on prom deportment, "that the public schools of the State of New Jersey will act to 'help control the problem of youth/alcohol abuse, especially in the school.' PETITIONERS-APPELLANTS,	:

V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF PARK RIDGE, ET AL., BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS-RESPONDENTS.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 12, 1997

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Rory Freedman and Lorraine Hennessy, pro se

For the Respondents-Respondents, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Allan P. Dzwilewski, Esq., of Counsel)

This matter had its genesis in June 1992, when Rory Freedman and Lorraine Hennessy, who are the petitioners in this case, were high school seniors in the Borough of Park Ridge. At that time, the Board took disciplinary action against them based on a determination that they had consumed alcoholic beverages in a limousine on the way to the prom in violation of the Board's policy against the consumption of alcohol at any school activity. Because petitioners were minors, Meredith Freedman, who is petitioner Freedman's mother, brought the challenge to the disciplinary action on their behalf, together with one of Lorraine Hennessy's parents.

Adopting Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) Bruce R. Campbell's determination, the Commissioner denied the emergent relief which had been sought on behalf of petitioners. The Commissioner also adopted ALJ Edith Klinger's subsequent determination granting summary decision to the Board on the merits of the matter. The State Board affirmed the Commissioner's decision on May 5, 1993, and the Appellate Division affirmed the State Board's determination of November 22, 1993. The New Jersey Supreme Court declined to review the matter and denied certification, thereby ending that litigation.

On August 31, 1995, petitioners initiated the current matter by filing a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the Board's revised regulations relating to substance abuse. By motion filed on November 15, 1995, Meredith Freedman moved to amend the petition to include her as a party so that she could participate in the matter. In that petitioners were no longer minors, the ALJ denied that motion.

On July 25, 1997, the ALJ issued her initial decision, recommending that res judicata and collateral estoppel be applied against petitioners and that the Board's motion for summary decision dismissing the petition should be granted.

By decision of September 12, 1997, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's findings and conclusion and accepted her recommendation to dismiss the petition on the basis of res judicata and collateral estoppel. In doing so, the Commissioner found that petitioners in this case had not raised any new substantive issue and that the merits of the arguments that petitioners were making in this case had been litigated and decided in the prior matter.

On appeal to the State Board, petitioners contend that the decision to dismiss that matter on the grounds of res judicata and collateral estoppel is erroneous because that matter considered the legality of the original prom regulations, but not the revised regulations which are the subject of their petition in this case. Petitioners argue that the revised prom regulations are invalid because N.J.S.A. 18A:40-11 and the Board's substance abuse policy do not provide for disciplining students who consume alcohol while traveling to a school activity or in their home prior to arrival. Petitioners also claim that the revised regulations are in violation of the due process and equal protection clauses of the United States Constitution.

In addition, petitioners have moved to recuse from consideration of this matter all members of the State Board who participated in the State Board decision of May 5, 1993, arguing that they do not believe that such members would act any differently in the current matter and contending that "[in] essence, the State Board members would be passing judgment on their own decision." Petitioner's letter brief of November 15, 1997, at 2.

Initially, we deny petitioners' motion to recuse all State Board members who participated in the May 1993 decision. Quite simply, petitioners have failed to provide any legitimate basis for such recusal.

Upon review of the arguments submitted in this appeal, we affirm the determination of the Commissioner to dismiss the petition. As the ALJ and the Commissioner properly concluded, principles of collateral estoppel preclude petitioners from relitigating any issue which was litigated on their behalf and decided in the prior matter. Moreover, we conclude that petitioners lack the standing to challenge the Board's revised prom regulations. Petitioners have long since graduated from high school and have failed to identify any interest in the Board's revised prom regulations on their part which would justify allowing them to litigate this matter any further. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1.[1] [1] We note that because petitioners' challenge does not appear to involve any actual controversy arising from the revised prom regulations, their petition may be properly characterized as one for a declaratory ruling under N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1. We also note that the determination to entertain such petitions lies within the discretion of the Commissioner. Id.

Date of mailing JAN 09 1998

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former Risk Manager, challenged the District's abolishment of his position which he held for 18 years and sought reinstatement to the position of Insurance/Risk Manager. The District contended statute mandated that State-operated districts abolish central administrative positions as part of the reorganizational process, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c).

ALJ found that pursuant to statute, employees whose positions are abolished shall not retain tenure or seniority rights in the abolished position. Thus, the State-operated district is under no obligation to rehire an employee whose position was abolished as a result of reorganization. ALJ found that petitioner had no basis on which to bring a claim for rehire. ALJ granted the District's motion for summary decision. Petition was dismissed. (Petitioner's rights to other non-central positions are properly brought before the N.J. Department of Personnel, Division of Human Resource Management.)

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: July 3, 1997 Decided: July 31, 1997

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LaFIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, an employee of the district for 23 years, is challenging the determination of Respondent, a State Operated School District, to abolish the position of Risk Manager which Petitioner occupied for 18 years. Respondent asserts that the actions taken by the District were mandated by the statute requiring that State operated school districts abolish central administrative positions as part of the reorganization process, N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-4(c), and has made application for summary decision. Petitioner submitted a brief in opposition to the application and Respondent replied.

Where there is no genuine issue of material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law, summary decision may be employed for disposition. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super., 106, 121 (1995). In determining an application for summary decision, the judge must review the evidentiary materials presented in a light most favorable to the non-moving party, here, the Petitioner, and must determine whether there is sufficient evidence to permit a rational fact finder to resolve a disputed issue of fact in favor of that party. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

Summary decision is appropriate in this case because the parties agree on the relevant facts:

> the Petitioner's position was abolished as a required > when the State took over the Newark school system; and > the petitioner was not rehired by the superintendent.

Petitioner, however, raises the legal issue which requires determination. That issue is whether, under the statutory provisions governing the creation and operation of State operated school districts, Petitioner is entitled to reinstatement to his position with back pay and full benefits.

Respondent asserts that the governing statute is clear on its face: the position of Risk Manager is a central administrative position the abolition of which is within the contemplation of the statute; the Superintendent of a State-operated school district may hire a person whose position is abolished, based on the needs of the reorganized district and the evaluation of such person; no employee whose position is abolished by operation of this statutory provision shall retain any right to tenure or seniority in the positions abolished in accordance with the provision of the statute. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) (emphasis supplied).

Before proceeding to resolution of the legal issue, Petitioner's assertion that Respondent failed to provide adequate answers to his interrogatories which hindered his ability to respond to this application for summary decision must be addressed. Review of the interrogatories propounded reveals that Petitioner did, in fact, seek information which was not relevant to the issue of this case; nor was the information sought calculated to lead to the production of admissible evidence. The decision in this factual context rests solely on statutory interpretation, upon which the information sought by Petitioner through interrogatories has no effect.

Petitioner does not challenge the abolition of the position of Risk Manager. Instead, he predicates his appeal on the fact that he was not rehired to fill the position of Insurance/Risk Manager created in the reorganized school district. Review of N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c) reveals that employees whose position is abolished shall not retain tenure or seniority rights in the abolished position. This provision coupled with the permissive language indicated above, that a superintendent "may" rehire an individual whose position is abolished, is the explicit authority for the superintendent of a State operated school district to deny rehiring a central administrative staff employee upon reorganization.

Petitioner further asserts that, because he received a good evaluation and there is, apparently, a need within the district for an Insurance/Risk Manager, the decision of Respondent to terminate his employment and not to rehire him was not made in good faith. Once again, the permissive language of the statute with respect to rehiring as well as the statutory language which explicitly states that employees whose positions are abolished "shall not retain any rights to tenure or seniority" in the abolished position are controlling. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that a State operated district is under no obligation to rehire an employee whose position was abolished as a result of reorganization.

The statutory language also establishes that Petitioner has no basis on which to bring a claim for rehire. The language of the statute is clear; individuals whose positions are abolished and are not rehired in the discretion of the reorganized district's superintendent shall be given either 60 days' pay or 60 days' notice in lieu of pay, which shall be in lieu of bringing any other claim based on the abolition of the position.

The parties agree that the statute permits the assertion of civil rights claims "for discrimination." See also, Cirasa v. State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 141, aff'd. State Bd. of Educ., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 149. In addition, an individual whose position has been abolished may, pursuant to statute, assert violation of certain contractual rights as well as a claim to any position or to placement on a preferred eligibility list for any position for which the employee may be entitled by virtue of tenure or seniority within the district. N.J.S.A. 18A:7A-44(c). This petition, however, is devoid of any claim of a civil rights violation; therefore, that issue is not before this forum. With respect to contractual issues related to benefits to which petitioner may be entitled, as Respondent observes in its reply brief, resolution of such issues is through the mechanism delineated in the collective bargaining agreement.

Last, Petitioner raises the issue of his rights to other non-central administrative/supervisory positions within the State Operated School District of the City of Newark. These displacement and bumping rights issues are properly brought before the N.J. Dept. of Personnel, Division of Human Resource Management, N.J.A.C. 4A:8-2.1 et seq. The fact that the union may have appealed a final decision of that agency on behalf of several of its members and the appeal has not yet been determined, does not provide a basis for denying summary decision in this matter, the sole issue of which is whether Petitioner is entitled to reinstatement in the position of Insurance/Risk Manager.

In opposing a motion for summary decision, the non-moving party must demonstrate that an issue of fact exists which, upon resolution, is substantial enough that the non-movant may prevail. It is hereby ORDERED that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Board (now State-operated District) certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent teacher for alleged corporal punishment, as well as excessive absenteeism.

Having considered the record and the credibility of witnesses from numerous days of hearing, the ALJ found the charges of conduct unbecoming and the subsidiary portion of excessive absence to be fact. ALJ found that several incidents of physical intervention by respondent rose to the level of corporal punishment. In addition, respondent's absences were found to impede the educational goal and cause an interruption in delivering services to the students. ALJ noted that respondent's unsatisfactory evaluations, as well as refusal to comply with directives, was not inefficiency but, rather, conduct unbecoming a teacher. ALJ concluded that the Board sustained by a preponderance of credible evidence, the charges of conduct unbecoming, as well as other just cause. Further, the ALJ concluded that the seriousness of the charges when contrasted against respondent's mitigating evidence, remained of such overwhelming weight as to require respondent's dismissal. ALJ ordered respondent dismissed.

Having conducted his own careful and exhaustive review of the record, which included transcripts from ten days of hearing at the OAL, as well as respondent's exceptions, the Commissioner determined to affirm the ALJ's conclusion with modification as to some of the ALJ's factual findings. Commissioner initially affirmed the Order rendered by the ALJ upon interlocutory review on March 24, 1997, which denied respondent's Motion to Dismiss the within matter for the District's asserted failure to comply with the requisite procedural mandates for bringing tenure charges. Commissioner dismissed the charges which seemed to be charges of inefficiency as the District did not comply with the procedural safeguards identified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's conclusion that the District sustained by a preponderance of credible evidence its charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause. Commissioner emphasized that by her proven inappropriate physical interventions with students, her insubordination and her excessive absenteeism, respondent was guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher. Citing Dusel and Courtney, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ's recommendation of dismissal. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from her tenured teaching position in the District as of the date of this decision and referred the matter to the State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF THOMASINA LEMON, STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for petitioner

Eugene Liss, Esq., for respondent
(Robert T. Pickett, Esq. on the post-hearing brief)

Record Closed: March 24,1997 Decided: August 1,1997*

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-MC CLOUD, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter concerns tenure charges brought against respondent, Thomasina Lemon, and served upon counsel for the respondent on February 9,1995. A special Board of Education meeting was held on May 2,1995 at which time a determination to certify charges against the respondent was made. On May 4,1995 Virginia Haskins Devane, Executive Director for the Board of Education of the City of Newark, filed a Certificate of Determination and certified the charges against respondent, Thomasina Lemon, with the Commissioner of Education. An answer was not filed by respondent with the Department of Education until three separate notices had been sent from the Department of Education, the last of which was dated July 14, 1995. This answer was finally filed with the Department on July 25, 1995. In the interim, the Newark school district was placed under State operation by order of the State Board of Education dated July 5,1995.

On August 15, 1995, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The hearing was held on non-sequential days between June 5, 1996 and December 9, 1996. The record remained open for posthearing submissions by the parties at their request to be simultaneously submitted on or before January 21,1997 with any responsive filing on or before January 28, 1997. During this time frame a post hearing motion was filed and a request to hold the record open for determination of that motion was granted. As a result the record did not close until March 24, 1997. Extensions of time to file the initial decision in this case were granted for good cause due to sick leave involving surgery to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). This extended the time to file until August 6, 1997.*

TESTIMONY

During the course of the case R. L. B., Jr. testified. He was 13 years old at the time of the hearing and had been taught by respondent Lemon in 1993. He stated that he was not "disciplined too much" but that on one occasion he was talking with M. D. and said a curse. Respondent asked who had said the curse and one of the students identified R. L. B., Jr. He stated that Ms. Lemon hit him with a ruler on the left arm approximately eight times and then told the witness and M. D. to go into a coat closet and remain there. The witness testified that he had observed Ms. Lemon take out a ruler and hit other students although he was unable to say how many times other than it occurred more than once.

The witness confirmed that he had no other complaints about Ms. Lemon prior to this incident but that he did complain to his mother, who called the school. R. L. B., Jr. did acknowledge that Ms. Lemon was a good teacher and taught him right from wrong.

M.S.H. also testified. This child was 11 years old at the time of the testimony and had previously been taught in the fourth grade at the 14th Avenue School by Ms. Lemon. He stated that on one occasion Ms. Lemon was angry and put her hands on his neck and pushed him into a classroom. At that time other students were coming to class from lunch. They were lining up and according to the witness some were misbehaving. He testified that there were nail marks on his neck from when he was pushed into the class. When this occurred, he was near the door. At the end of the school day he told the principal and he also told his mother who came to school the following day. He confirmed that he was not grabbed in any other location on the body. When this incident occurred, he testified that he was not causing any type of disturbance but that he was trying to get Ms. Lemon's hands off his neck.

Sylvia Ward, who is the mother of S. M. H. also testified. She stated that her son had come home during his fourth grade year and stated that Lemon had pulled his ear and that he had nail marks. As a result of this conversation, she called the principal, Ms. Barillari, but at that point Ms. Lemon had left for the day. A meeting took place the following day at which time the witness stated that she was very upset and had come to fight.

M. T. was also a fourth grade student of Ms. Lemon at the 14th Avenue School. He stated that on one occasion he was grabbed by the right arm and thrown into a chair. He testified that he did not know why this occurred, only that his arm hurt. The only person he told was his mother and as a result she came to the school. He testified that he never saw Ms. Lemon physically grab or touch other students as she did to him.

He did state that she had pushed E. B., another student, and that his head hit a wall. E. B. then started crying.

The witness agreed that when he was grabbed and put into the chair, there were rules in the class as to when one could stand or must be sitting. He testified that he had gotten up to get paper. At that time, the "paper monitor" who usually gave out paper was not there. He testified that she did not request that he be seated before the incident. The witness also testified that during the school year, Ms. Lemon had taken a musical instrument away and other privileges although he could not remember what had caused this to occur. He stated that these events were, however, before the incident involved with him being grabbed and placed in the chair.

Maxima Rodriquez, the mother of M. T., stated that she used to go to the school frequently to speak with Ms. Lemon regarding her child. She stated that she never spoke with Ms. Lemon about the incident of grabbing her son although she did speak with the principal the following day. After speaking with Ms. Barillari, she was informed that the principal would talk with Ms. Lemon. She herself did not speak with either Ms. Lemon nor Ms. Barillari after that.

Paula Greenberg, a teacher at the 14th Avenue School, testified. She has worked for the Newark district for 20 years and is a second grade teacher. During the 1991-92 school year, the witness observed Ms. Lemon cursing and threatening Ms. Barillari and her daughter. As a result, she wrote a narrative. (P-16E)

At the time of the incident she stated that she was approximately 8 to 10 feet from Ms. Lemon who was cursing at Ms. Barillari. She stated that she heard the words "white motherfucker;" "son of a bitch" and "I am going to get your daughter too." This occurred when the witness was signing out. She states that she wrote the document because she was extremely upset and not in anticipation of any hearing which might occur. She confirmed that she did not give the statement to anyone. She did recall an investigator from the Newark Board of Education talking to her after she wrote the narrative. She did not tell Ms. Barillari that she had this. She acknowledged that she did not know what the actual subject of the conversation was between the two.

Ms. Greenberg testified that she has a professional relationship with Ms. Barillari, although not a personal one, and that Ms. Barillari, as principal, is responsible for her professional evaluations.

The witness described that Ms. Lemon was in the hallway and Ms. Barillari was in an office and the two were approximately 18 to 20 feet apart when this took place. She stated that students were in the area as well as some teachers. Prior to this incident, the witness testified that she had seen Ms. Lemon be abusive to students although she neither wrote this up nor reported it to Ms. Barillari or anyone else. She acknowledged that since that time she has never seen Ms. Lemon act in an abusive manner to Ms. Barillari.

The witness stated that it was her opinion that the behavior compromised professionalism. She was aware that Ms. Lemon was the NTU building representative. She stated that she had never had conversations with Ms. Lemon regarding smoking, teaching or taking children anywhere specific for punishment. She testified that she and respondent had enjoyed a speaking relationship but that Ms. Lemon had stopped speaking to her approximately five or six years previously.

The witness stated that during the verbal altercation Barbara Dawkins, Shirley Givens, Shanda Faison and Louise Fusco were present. She recalls Barbara Dawkins standing in front of Ms. Lemon trying to calm her down.

K. M. M., who was 11 years old as of the time of the hearing, also attended the 14th Avenue School and had Ms. Lemon as her teacher in fourth grade. S. M. H. as well as M. T. were students in the class with her. She testified that she did not see Ms. Lemon hit S. M. H. but did state that Ms. Lemon would touch S. M. H. on the arm. She also testify that Ms. Lemon hit E. B. by grabbing him by the upper arm and swinging him into a wall. She testified that it was his back that made contact with the wall. E. B. began to cry.

The witness also testified that she saw Ms. Lemon hit several students in the arm when they would not do work or be quiet. She saw Ms. Lemon hit A.; S.M.H.; M.T. and E. B. On cross examination the witness testified that S. M. H. was a bad student and would talk back, that he would some times hit students, walk around and misbehave. She stated that Ms. Lemon had a problem with S. M.H. nearly daily. As far as E. B., who was in her class, she stated that he often was not doing his work and talked back to Ms. Lemon. The witness stated that respondent at no time touched her with a ruler. On redirect she testified that she did recall that S. M.H. had been hit by Ms. Lemon with a ruler. She stated that he was talking or arguing with a friend first.

N. W. also testified that she had had Ms. Lemon in fourth grade. She was in the same class with S. M. H. and E. B. She stated that she did not recall observing Ms. Lemon hit any students with a ruler but she did remember that when S. M. H. and another student, L., would misbehave, Ms. Lemon would hit them with her open hand on their arm. She also remembered E. B. misbehaving but states that she never saw Ms. Lemon hit or touch him.

The principal of the 14th Avenue School, Alyson Barillari, also testified at length. She stated that there are currently 240 students attending the 14th Avenue School. The school is a kindergarten to fourth grade school and also runs nine special education classes. There are 65 staff members, 10 teachers, 9 special education teachers and one crisis teacher. As of the time of her testimony, it was her 25th year with the Newark school district. She had been vice-principal in several other schools and in March 1991 she came to the 14th Avenue School. It was at this location that Ms. Lemon was assigned to her building.

The witness testified regarding an incident on September 22, 1994 involving Ms. Lemon, E. B., S. M. H., L. J. and M. T. She stated that when an incident occurs involving physical mismanagement of students, she is required to call the assistant superintendent's office and that, as principal, she has 48 hours to investigate the situation. She stated that Sylvia Ward came to see her about S. M. H. and that after this conversation she began filling out forms for the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS). M. T.'s mother also came in approximately one hour later stating that her son had been physically mismanaged. M. T. also named another child, E. B., and he was called down and told the witness that he had been thrown into a wall, the day before. She also received information from Ms. Hanley, who was a crisis teacher, that L. J. had been mismanaged on the same day.

Upon receiving the information, Ms. Barillari contacted the Institutional Abuse Unit of DYFS. She also reported this to Mrs. Nelms, the assistant superintendent. She received a call from Ms. Shaw, who is a screener with DYFS, within approximately two hours recommending that the four students be removed with Ms. Lemon's class. She then went to Ms. Lemon's class and told Lemon that she had no discretion. The students were removed to another class, and a letter was written to the parents. The letter was given to the students to take home.

The witness also testified regarding the attendance record of Ms. Lemon. In 1989-90, her total absences for the school year were 25. (P-22a). In the 1990-91 school year, she reflected a total of 20.5 absences. (P-22b). In the 1991-92 school year, a total of 35 days of absence were reflected. (P-22c). The witness began at the 14th Avenue School in March 1991. She testified that the 1991-92 absences had a significant impact and caused problems with continuity of program and instruction. In 1992-93, 27 days of absence were reflected (P-22d) and the 1993-94 total absences including absences without pay reflected 43 days. (P-22E). The witness stated that the absence record shows a pattern of nonattendance. In April 1994 the witness wrote a memo to Ms. Lemon regarding an application for allotment from the professional improvement fund. This stated that he could not sign the application for allotment based upon "excessive absences this school year." (P-24).

The witness also had both formal and informal observations of Ms. Lemon in her teaching capacity. She did an annual evaluation as well. The witness states that her evaluation, based on everything, was that Ms. Lemon's performance was unacceptable. In May 1992 the witness had sent a memo to the respondent regarding lack of plan book submission. (P-5). This memo dealt with five separate occasions upon which the witness states that no plan books and lesson plans were submitted as required. The witness testified that lesson plans are extremely important because they are the foundation from which everything functions. They are used for conformity, standardized testing guidelines and other things which must be covered. On the opening day of school, at which respondent was present, all teachers are informed that their plan books must be submitted every two weeks. At the time of the memo at least ten weeks had elapsed without submission of any lesson plans. The witness also recalled a November 15, 1991 post observation conference at which she discussed the necessity of the plan book with respondent. The plan book which is to be submitted every two weeks must be submitted prior to the lessons. That way they are used as a curriculum guide. She stated that she also had other conversations with respondent regarding lesson plans.

Subsequently the witness also a memo to Ms. Lemon dated June 8, 1992 regarding additional lesson plans which had not been submitted. No lesson plans had been submitted between March 27, 1992 and June 8, 1992.

On March 5, 1992 the witness sent a memo to the respondent regarding insubordination. The witness explained that the district participates in African-American History Month and that Ms. Lemon was participating in securing speakers. She had requested biographical sketches of the different speakers who would be speaking to students on March 6, 1992. This was requested so that information about the speakers could be disseminated to the children prior to the event. She had originally spoken with respondent approximately one month previously. On March 4, 1992, she specifically asked for information regarding the speakers to be heard two days later. According to the witness Ms. Lemon said that it was at home and that she would bring it. She did not bring it and on March 5, 1992 and wrote a letter to Ms. Barillari stating that she would not meet with Ms. Barillari concerning insubordination until after the March 6, 1992 date. (P-6c). She also did not provide the information to Ms. Barillari at any time prior to the assembly.

Ms. Barillari discussed the matter with her supervisor, Ms. Nelms, and a conference was set up between Nelms, Barillari and Lemon.

The witness also testified to having had problems with Ms. Lemon regarding the issue of a locked classroom door. She stated that a memo was sent to Ms. Lemon (P-10a) regarding Ms. Lemon's continued locking of the classroom door. By doing so the children were able to exit but others, including the principal, were not able to get in. The witness stated that on October 4, 7 and 28, 1993 she went to Ms. Lemon's class but could not get in because of the locked door. This also occurred on November 18 and 30, 1993 as well as December 1 and 7,1993. Prior to the memo being sent in December 1993, the witness stated that she had had conversations with Ms. Lemon in which she told her that it was a violation of policy as well as state statute to lock a classroom door. She also testified that a copy of a document entitled "State of New Jersey, Department of Education; Fire Drills and Fire Protection" was attached to the memo and is required to be posted in every classroom.

Prior to the December 16, 1993 memo, the witness also sent a memo on December 1, 1993 directing Ms. Lemon to unlock the door and leave it unlocked at all times and stating that Ms. Lemon would be subject to disciplinary action. After that memo, the witness returned on December 7, 1993 and the classroom door was still locked. A prior memo from November 30, 1993 specifically told Ms. Lemon that a locked classroom door was considered a safety hazard and directed her to have it unlocked at all times. (P-10E). Prior to this another memo had been sent on October 28, 1993 directing her to leave the classroom door locked whenever children are present and that lack of compliance would result in disciplinary action. She testified that some of the memos were handed to her personally. The witness went through other memos on the same topic and also recalls having spoken with Ms. Lemon between seven and nine times regarding this. The witness recalls at least 15 or more incidents of finding a locked classroom door with students inside. At no time did Ms. Lemon ever state that she would not comply but, according to the witness when told that it was a fire hazard, said loudly "that's not what I was told."

Barillari also testified regarding a memorandum and the events which surrounded quarterly test results that were not submitted in time and had to be hand scored. Ordinarily they are scanned; however, they were not received by the May 4,1992 deadline and as a result had to be hand scored. She also testified that they had not received quarterly results and that tests form a part of student's grade. Report cards which were due in Barillari's office on April 29, 1992 and had not been received. She also discussed communication as well as a memo regarding disciplining of students and the need for supervision. An example she gave was that she had seen approximately six students standing outside Ms. Lemon's locked classroom door. During the year Ms. Barillari had also determined that other students were not being supervised such as those coming back from the playground. The six who were observed outside the classroom door and were not supervised had apparently been told not to report to the playground. Barillari waited with the six students and saw other students return from the playground and join them. According to her, Ms. Lemon never advised the office or Barillari that she wanted to discipline students.

The witness also testified regarding conduct which she characterized as a threatened assault against herself. She stated the incident took place on May 14, 1992 between approximately 2:40 p.m. and 3:00 p.m. At this time school hours were between 8 a.m. and 2:45 p.m. Barillari first encountered respondent in the main office after a public address announcement saying that mentoring elections for the next day were canceled. The election had been scheduled between 8 a.m. and 8:10 a.m. on May 15, 1992 by Ms. Lemon who had not consulted with Barillari. The witness was in her office and Ms. Lemon was in the hallway. It was from that location that Lemon was screaming and said that Barillari should come out of her office and that she wanted "to kick her ass." According to Barillari, Ms. Lemon also stated that she would "get her daughter" and called her a "white motherfucker." She later reported the incident to a security guard, Ms. Nelms and the police.

Barillari also testified that there was a problem regarding an unsupervised student who had an accident in a classroom. She testified that L. L. was injured when Ms. Lemon left her class unsupervised. Barillari responded and remained with the student for approximately ten minutes. She stated that a procedure had been established with Ms. Lemon prior to this that if she had to leave either the teacher next door could assist her or she could notify the main office so that supervision could take place. According to the incident report, Ms. Lemon was quoted as saying that she was in the teacher's restroom when the incident occurred. Barillari stated that the established practice was that a nearby teacher was alerted and then the office and that this was not done.

Barillari also recounted a problem with Ms. Lemon smoking in the front doorway. When this occurred it was during dismissal of special education students and Ms. Lemon had one foot in the school straddling the doorway and the other foot out. She observed Lemon lighting the cigarette and testified that there is no smoking in the school.

Additionally Barillari testified that there was a policy that when someone was to be absent that staff member was responsible to contact the school, either the day before the absence or before 7:30 a.m., identify themselves and the reason for their absence. This was in order to get appropriate substitutes for instructional purposes. February 25, 1994 was to be the day of a post observation conference and Ms. Lemon did not notify anyone until 8:45 a.m. that she would be absent. At that time the witness had to get the children in Ms. Lemons' class herself and had to split those children among other classes.

Ms. Barillari testified that she did observe Ms. Lemon on June 6, 1992, at which time she was teaching reading. There were work book exercises, however, the lesson activity did not, according to Barillari, speak to a specific skill. The problems that she found during the observation involved noncompliance with lesson plan submissions. She requested the lesson plan book and was told that it was not available. She indicated that teacher characteristics were unsatisfactory in that materials were used unsatisfactorily and the lessons seemed conceived "on the spot." It also involved unrelated matters. The total time of the observation was approximately 50 minutes. She also found the area of teacher enthusiasm to be unsatisfactory. The students read silently and then were asked questions and the lesson was devoid of any stimulation. There was no stated objective and the children randomly gave answers. They never knew why an answer was wrong and according to the witness is was a totally inappropriate lesson. An overall rating of unsatisfactory was given and a number of attempts to schedule the post observation conference were unsuccessful.

Another observation took place between 9:45 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. on December 1, 1993. The overall rating given was unsatisfactory. Upon arrival Ms. Barillari indicated that she was there for formal observation. She asked for the plan book and respondent told her to take a seat. This happened three times and respondent's tone was rude and discourteous. At no time during the observation did she provide the lesson plans.

A subsequent teacher observation was done by someone from outside the district. A March 11, 1994 evaluation was performed by Robert O'Bannon.

Ms. Barillari confirmed on cross examination that she may have met Ms. Lemon prior to beginning in 1991 at the school at a political function at which they exchanged pleasantries. In the spring of 1992 a grievance was filed regarding discretionary funds. At a building committee meeting they discussed the discretionary funds and this took place between herself and Ms. Lemon and others present. The committee consisted of the principal, respondent and another individual. After this, Ms. Lemon did not interact with Barillari.

In the spring of 1991 at orientation there was no discussion as to the matter of assignment. A posting was made by Barillari that all assignments were subject to change. Changes by posting moved fourth grade teachers from the second to the third floor and that included respondent. Barillari received a call at home from Ms. Nelms the night before school was to begin saying that the superintendent directed that she move Ms. Givens and Ms. Lemon back to their floor.

Barillari stated that she copied the NTU and administration because she had been informed that the policy was to copy the union and the administration regarding anything of a potentially disciplinary nature. She did acknowledged that some of the memos that were copied were not things which would subject Lemon to potential discipline or reprimand but were copied for informational purposes. She stated that between September 1991 and 1994 she did write letters regarding disciplinary matters on other teachers and also copied the NTU and members of the administration.

The witness stated that a September 1991 observation of Ms. Lemon involved controversy and Barillari withdrew the observation after consultation with someone in labor relations.

On cross examination Barillari referred to the situation in which a student was injured while Ms. Lemon was not in the classroom. She stated that the respondent told the teacher in the classroom next door that she was leaving the classroom. Barillari went on to say that the policy is to use the intercom and advise the office. She did recall Lemon contacting the office on several other occasions when she had to leave but did not recall her contacting them on this occasion. She conceded that it was possible that she might not be in the office when a particular teacher called in. There was, however, a log book in September 1992. Barillari also checked with the teacher next door who confirmed that Lemon had told her she was going to the bathroom. She said that if teachers called she covered classes herself on numerous occasions.

Barillari confirmed that as a result of the verbal confrontation following the question of mentoring elections, criminal complaints were filed by both herself and Ms. Lemon against each other. Both sides stipulated that those charges were ultimately dismissed in municipal court on April 26, 1993 when both sides withdrew the complaints with prejudice.

Although Barillari ordinarily does the observations of the teachers, in 1994 she requested that an outside evaluator be brought in.

Robert O'Bannon, Jr. who is the assistant director of the Teaneck Board of Education and was a principle in Newark before moving to the Teaneck Board of Education, testified. He had spent 26 1/2 years with the Newark district. While building principle, he did classroom observations and had received training through the district as well as with the State program. On March 11, 1994 Mr. O'Bannon observed respondent's classroom and recorded his observation in a standard observation report (P-31). After the evaluation he signed the document as did Ms. Barillari, however, Ms. Lemon refused to sign it.

O'Bannon stated that the lesson was not focused and there was no clarity or plan in the lesson itself. In the second page of his observation, he delineated areas of strength as well as areas needing attention. The areas needing attention listed were "planning" and "lesson implementation." He stated that he was unable to figure out what the lesson was about and that Lemon seemed to move from one thing to another. He gave suggestions for planning and lesson implementation in the report. A discussion was held at the post observation conference which included Ms. Lemon's union representative. Ms. Lemon's union representative asked O'Bannon to rescind the report. He offered to come back and do another evaluation but he would not rescind the report.

He testified that when he was called in to do the evaluation he had no preconceived notions but assumed that the teacher might have received an unsatisfactory rating causing a request for an outside evaluator. He acknowledged that when the observation began he asked for the lesson plans and he reviewed them. He stated that the lesson plans were not clear and did not focus on what was intended by the lesson. He characterized the lesson as an "attempt" at a reading lesson. He also stated that he had never worked in any department in Newark with Ms. Barillari nor had he worked on any projects with her that he recalled.

The petitioning district also presented testimony of Anzela K. Nelms, who is the assistant superintendent of the district and responsible for all aspects of the needs of the individuals schools. She has 31 years of employment with Newark public schools.

Nelms testified that in the spring of 1990, the principal was a Mr. Megaro and he had expressed concerns over Ms. Lemon's conduct with her on several occasions. He had put a list of concerns in writing. She also received an evaluation from Megaro. Nelms outlined a number of memos that were sent and meetings that she had with Ms. Lemon and her NTU representative.

Nelms also discussed the district's absence policy as well as the teacher attendance improvement program that was in place. She stated that principals were directed to list attendance problems on annual evaluations. She pointed out that in Ms. Lemons' case, attendance problems were noted on annual evaluations. She stated that even if a medical certificate was presented an absence was not exempted from district attendance policy. Nelms testified that between 1989 and the 1994-95 school year, the attendance improvement plan was in effect and that if a teacher was absent more than five days, a letter would go out, more than nine days a letter would go out, and a conference could be held with the teacher and a vice-principal to try and develop a plan. These initial stages were to iron out the process. She stated that she knows that Lemon received letters and had monitoring in place and that the attendance improvement plan (AIP) was part of monitoring. Nelms stated that workshop days and conferences were excused absences and administrative days were excused days as were funeral days and person days. She stated that sick days presented a situation where some were not held against a teacher for the AIP. A long term illness consisting of five days or more required the teacher to come in with a doctors' excuse. These were counted as sick days.

The witness recalled Lemon coming to her on a number of occasions regarding incidents such as concerns about the door to her classroom.

Respondent testified on her own behalf and has been with the Newark School System for 27 years. Over the years, in addition to teaching, she has been a participant in the PTA, recreation programs, has organized talent shows, picnics and bake sales and also was instrumental in programs for black history month. She has also been a union participant since early on.

Respondent stated that she first met Ms. Barillari on March 22, 1991, in Old Bridge. On March 25, 1991 Ms. Barillari started and a meeting took place that Ms. Lemon described as hostile. She said that Ms. Barillari did not speak during the meeting although afterward a number of people came up to her.

Respondent states that initially she had an excellent rapport with Ms. Barillari. She states that she helped Miss Barillari.

Ms. Lemon recalls that in 1991 there were two meetings at which she asked if there would be any changes in classrooms and was told that there would not. Respondent states she knows of no teacher asking for a room change and that would require time. Lemon stated that she also had decorated her classroom for opening day as did other teachers. Upon arrival at the school in September 1991, she found that her room had been changed. Other teachers were also upset with room changes because they had made preparations. Ms. Lemon states that she went to Barillari, both individually and as a union representative. Lemon began a grievance and advised Barillari that she was doing so. She states that Barillari told her to do whatever she had to do. Subsequently, all classroom changes were rescinded by the superintendent.

The witness states that between March 1991 and the filing of her grievance, she had an excellent rapport with Barillari. However, after the grievance, she complained that Barillari was neither professional nor cooperative with her.

Also in September 1991 an observation took place of Lemon by Barillari and as a result of this she filed a grievance which caused the observation to be rescinded. She states that her prior evaluations including one in June 1990 by a prior principal were satisfactory.

Lemon described the March 1992 situation involving the black history month assembly. She stated that she ordinarily would have put the program on in conjunction with another teacher who had been out ill for a prolonged period. She ultimately received the date of March 6, 1992 from Barillari which she needed for the speaker who was to be Congressman Donald Payne. She testified that she told Ms. Barillari the name of the guest speaker and other people who would participate prior to the program. She states that Ms. Barillari walked a memorandum regarding insubordination into her classroom and gave it to her. She confirmed that Barillari did request biographical sketches of speakers. She states that she told Barillari that she had a student who would give oral biographical information during the play. She states that she could not make the information known to Barillari on March 5, 1992 which was the day before the assembly because she was busy with preparation for the play. She states that she was involved the black history month presentation in the two subsequent school years and Ms. Barillari did not participate or review information before the program was given.

Lemon states that the incident involving students outside her classroom was not the result of her leaving them unsupervised. She states that she does escort her students by going down to the playground and bringing them up. The students in the cafeteria are supervised by an aid and she states that these students came up on their own.

According to Lemon, the mentoring elections were set up and are run by the NTU building representative, the position that she occupied. She had set up the date of May 14, 1992 between 8 a.m. and 8:15 a.m. She states that Barillari made an announcement on May 14, 1992 that the mentoring election would take place the following day at approximately noon. Lemon was scheduled to be out of the building with students at a different school. Lemon testified that she went to speak with Ms. Barillari and that it was Barillari who was yelling and Lemon herself, at no time, raised her voice or yelled back. At the end of the conversation she spoke with Willy Hutchinson, who was in charge of the mentoring program, and told him that Barillari had changed the time to one when she would be out of the building. He told her to inform Barillari there would be no elections. She testified that she knocked on Barillari's door and told her this from the doorway. She also informed the candidates that there would be no election based upon what Hutchinson told her. On May 18, 1992, the next school day after the proposed election date of May 15, 1992, Lemon came to school and came in contact with Ms. Nelms, the assistant superintendent. She was told that she could not remain in the building. She states that she went to the union office and was told by Mrs. Nelms that charges were made by Barillari stating that Lemon had threatened her. Lemon denies doing so. On June 1, 1992 Ms. Lemon returned to the 14th Avenue School. Approximately two or three days after that she received a notice that her annual increment was to be withheld. Lemon testified that from September 1992 on she saw what she characterized as a pattern of harassment based upon the memos sent to her by Barillari.

Lemon says that the incident regarding L. L. as being injured in the classroom when unattended, was when she had gone to the lavatory and was gone for only a short period of time. Upon returning she observed Barillari and had no idea what happened to L. L. She states that she felt that Barillari was harassing her.

Lemon also denies smoking in the school building while discharging students to buses. She states that she did smoke outside of the front door at the top of the steps.

Lemon explained that she had locked her classroom door and kept the classroom door locked from the inside from when Barillari started in 1991 on. Each memo was dropped off regarding the door being locked. Lemon testified that the reason for locking the door is safety. She occupies a classroom across from a stairwell exit. Between 1988 and 1991 she indicates that there were memos regarding stolen pocketbooks, things taken from the nurses' office, intruders and persons without a pass. According to Lemon after Ms. Barillari asked in writing that she unlock the door, she went to the union and while waiting for a resolution, she continued to keep the door locked until she received a memo from Ms. Nelms. She pointed out that the locked door did not keep students from exiting but did keep others with entering.

Lemon denies ever having hit R. B. with a ruler and states that he never presented a behavior problem. With respect to E. B., she characterizes the incident as a fight having almost broke out between E. B. and M.T. while lining up. She states that E. B. was not in his proper place and she took his arm. He jerked away and as a result hit the wall. She states that she was brought up on DYFS charges as a result of this.

With respect to M. T., she states that he was well behaved initially but subsequently had to be disciplined by removing him as student counsel representative as well as from instrument classes. She states that she never touched M. T. or pushed him into a cloakroom. According to Lemon, S. M. H. did have to be disciplined by keeping him in at lunch or after school. However, she states she never touched him or any other student other than E. B. She states that she never struck or touched other students.

Lemon described the attendance improvement program and states that her understanding was that if you had a doctor's note for any days that they were excused from the attendance improvement program. In 1990-91 school year she states she provided the school with approximately ten doctors' letters. In the 1991-92 year she states that she was not in the attendance improvement program because she had medical notes. The same held true for the 1992-93 and 1993-94 school years.

Lemon states that from the time that she began teaching in approximately 1990 until June 1991, she never was late submitting a plan book. In September 1991 she acknowledges that she was late in submitting her plan book because she did not have teachers' guides and she had not received textbooks. She also acknowledged having clerical work to turn in.

Lemon described the evaluation process and provided copies of evaluations from the 1982-83 school year through the 1989-90 school year. She also states that in June 1991, she was evaluated by Barillari and at no time prior to this did she receive an unsatisfactory rating. She disputes the accuracy of the evaluation (P-26). She also disagreed with the unsatisfactory evaluation in May 1992. (P-30). The witness states that the June 10, 1992 unsatisfactory evaluation (P-29) was the first unsatisfactory that she had received and that this evaluation was undertaken while the complaints were pending between herself and Barillari. Lemon also disagreed with the unsatisfactory evaluation done by the out evaluation, Robert O'Bannon. (P-31). Additionally, she disagreed with the December 1, 1993 evaluation by Barillari which also rated her as unsatisfactory.

On cross examination Lemon acknowledged that she did not remember how many times Barillari had spoken to her and informed her that she was not to lock her classroom door. She also recalled memos instructing her not to lock the door. She acknowledged that Barillari had specifically directed her not to lock the door and that as principal Barillari had the authority to have her comply with reasonable directives. She states that Willy Hutchinson told her to wait and see what Ms. Nelms said about the situation. Hutchinson was her NTU representative but Barillari was Lemon's supervisor.

Lemon also acknowledged that she failed to comply during the 1991-92 school year with submitting plan books on time. She does state, however, that the plan books were submitted late. Lemon states that regarding the program on African-American heritage, Barillari gave her a date for the program and also did request biographical information regarding the speaker. She acknowledges that she did not provide Barillari with biographical information and feels that it was not reasonable to request such information.

Lemon discussed the question of attendance and the total number of yearly absences requested by the records. Although she recalls receiving a copy of an unsatisfactory rating (P-29), that also indicated attendance problems, she states that her absences did not, in her opinion, have an adverse effect on teaching. In the 1993-94 school year there were approximately 43 absences and she states that those did not adversely affect teaching. Lemon stated that according to contract she is permitted fifteen sick days per year, however, there is a provision for people who have more and that three days of leave without reasons per year are permitted. Although additional days are permitted if reason warrants. She testifies that her absences were due to things such as the flu, an upper respiratory problem and hypertension. She states that her hypertension became worse and that absences from March 25, 1994 to the end of the school year were due to hypertension.

Lemon also acknowledged having turned in a late class register but that it was handed in time to go out.

Angie Armour testified that she is a basic skills teacher and also does remediation and standardized testing. She stated that she has observed Lemon and her class and that her classroom was always colorful, the children well mannered and respectful and on appropriate occasions privileges were taken away. She also stated that between 1990 and 1995 she observed educational progress in her position and noted that Ms. Lemon had very few retentions.

Sherlene Gibbons testified that she occupied a classroom near that of Ms. Lemon. The witness had an extended absence in the Fall of 1991 and Spring of 1992. She states that between the 1988-89 school year and the 1993-94 school year, she observed Lemon's bulletin board to be reflective of what was going on in the classroom and conducive to learning. She would frequently visit the classroom and found it conducive to education. She states that Lemon had an excellent rapport with her students, that she took time, was caring and supportive.

J. L., a 12-year-old seventh grader, testified that he was in fourth grade with Ms. Lemon. He stated that he had perfect attendance that particular year. He also knew R. B. and described him as disruptive and "goofy" in class. He states he never saw Lemon push, shove, strike or place students in cloakrooms.

Louise Fusco also testified and was the project coordinator for the Title I Program. In the 1991-92 school year, she was at the 14th Avenue School as were Lemon and Barillari. She testified regarding the May 14,1992 disturbance in the hallway. She stated that she recalled that Ms. Lemon present and somewhat agitated around 2:30 or 2:45. There were a number of people in the area but that she does not recall Lemon her using any form of profanity but does not whether know whether she did or did not.

Sherlene Gibbons testified that she has been a teacher in Newark at the 14th Avenue School and has been with the Newark district for 18 or 19 years. She knows Ms. Lemon personally and has worked with her for several years. She testified that on May 14, 1992 Lemon was at school and was upset and was talking. She stated that Lemon might have used profane statements but that she did not know. She states that she never tried to physically restrain Lemon. She did not know why Lemon was upset, only that she was upset Barillari.

Patricia Evans who is a cashier at the cafeteria in the 14th Avenue School testified that aids are responsible in the cafeteria for the students during lunch and at the end they go on the playground. The aids remain responsible. She did state that classes do not go back on their own.

Catherine McNeil testified that in 1994 she began as a volunteer aid with kindergarten. She brings children in from the playground and would also take notes to Lemon and see how she was doing. She characterized the class as consisting of girls who were well behaved and boys who sometimes misbehaved on the playground. She acknowledged that she volunteered three to three and one-half hours, five days per week, and that she was not located in Ms. Lemon's classroom. She testified she never saw fighting in the classroom and that she never saw the principal enter the class.

N. P., a 13-year-old eighth grade student who also had been a fourth grade student of Ms. Lemon, testified that Ms. Lemon had taught her in the 1992-93 school year. She stated that she did not recall if Lemon disciplined students and stated that she never saw Lemon hit children with rulers or put them in closets. She acknowledged having been absent several times in the 1992-93 school year and also stated that L. L. was a classmate, although she did not recall any accident or incident occurring with respect to L. L.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having listened to the testimony and observed the demeanor of the witnesses and having taken into account all of the evidence in this case I FIND that this case turns solely and exclusively on the credibility of the witnesses.

I FURTHER FIND the following to be fact:

1. Thomasina Lemon is tenured teacher employed by the State Operated School District of Newark. She has been employed by that district since the early 1970's.

2. Respondent struck R. L. B. on the arm with a ruler and placed him in a cloakroom as discipline.

3. Put her hands on the neck of S. M. H. and pushed him into a classroom leaving demonstrable fingernail impressions on his neck.

4. Grabbed M. T. by the arm and forcefully put him into a chair and grabbed E. B. by the arm and in the ensuing motion caused E.B. to hit his head against the wall.

5. On May 14, 1992 respondent acted in an unprofessional manner by using loud language and profanity as well as threats against the principal of the school in front of students and staff.

6. Respondent ignored written and verbal directives to follow New Jersey statutes and regulations regarding the locking of classrooms during the school day. Although specifically directed by Principal Barillari to leave her classroom door open, Lemon did not do so.

7. For the evaluation years of 1992, 1993 and 1994, respondent has received unsatisfactory evaluations. Observations were conducted both by Principal Barillari and by an outside evaluator.

8. Out of a total of nine teacher observation reports between 1991 and 1994, respondent received eight unsatisfactory observations.

9. Suggestions as to changes in instructional methods contained in teacher observation reports were not implemented.

10. Respondent has not complied with mandated deadlines for submission of lesson plans, registers and other administrative requests for information.

11. During 1990-91 school year, respondent was absent 20.5 days.

12. During the period from 1991 to the end of the 1992 school year, respondent was absent 35 days.

13. During the school year 1992-93, respondent was absent a total of 27 days.

14. During the 1993-94 school year, respondent was absent a total of 43 days.

15. Respondent's pattern of absences are excessive and causes interruption in instructional continuity requiring the use of substitute teachers to continue classroom instruction during her absence.

16. No testimony of any nature was elicited regarding any instance of physical abuse or physical mismanagement in 1994.

DISCUSSION

As indicated above, this case turns solely and exclusively on the credibility of the witnesses as observed in the hearing along with other documentary evidence which was presented. The burden upon the Board of Education is to prove the tenure charges by a preponderance of the credible evidence. School District of the City of Paterson v Eddie Lee Harrell, 186 S. L. D. 356, 358. In this case the school district has, as demonstrated by the findings of fact above, proved the substance of the tenure charges by as preponderance of the credible evidence. It should be noted that the tenure charges were brought by way of separate counts all alleging conduct unbecoming as well as excessive absenteeism. While not all individual subsections have been found as fact, the charges of conduct unbecoming and the subsidiary portion of excessive absence have been found to be fact.

The undersigned has been in the position to observe each and every witness and assess their credibility. What has become abundantly clear in this case is that differences have existed over time between the principal and the respondent. Notwithstanding those differences, there have been severe breaches in respondent's comportment with respect to responding to directives. The testimony of Ms. Lemon regarding the incident surrounding the cancellation of the mentoring elections that she never raised her voice nor engaged in any profanity whatsoever was not credible. There is testimony from other witnesses that either they did not hear the respondent's raised voice or that respondent did raise her voice. One witness, specifically recalls the very words that the respondent used which included offensive content and threats. These statements were made in front of other people within ear shot of students and are not acceptable professional comportment for a teacher. They clearly are insubordination when the object of them is the teacher's supervisor and are made in the presence of students and faculty.

The 1992-93 school year was marked with several incidents of physical intervention on the part of Ms. Lemon. Respondent, in her posthearing submission, points out that the degree of discipline imposed must be directly related to the circumstances presenting themselves. While to some degree that is accurate, the situations described here involve inappropriate conduct. The hitting of any student with a ruler, the placing of the hands of a teacher on the neck of the child and leaving marks on his neck, as well as physically moving any child by either grabbing the arm to remove him from a line or by grabbing an arm and forcefully placing a child into a seat, are all incorrect ways of managing students. They do, in fact, rise to the level of corporal punishment. It is not the resulting injury incurred by the child but the actual imposition of the corporal punishment that is of grave concern.

In addition to failing to comply with deadlines, mandates and directives, Ms. Lemon has been absent on an ongoing, every increasing basis from the 1990-91 school year. Respondent took the position, apparently, while testifying that if absences were excused or for a medical purposes, they did not count in determining whether they are excessive. That is not and has not been the criterion for whether or not absences are excessive. The criterion is whether or not the absences are such that they impede the ability to deliver a free and appropriate education to students. Absences which are medically justified may still be considered to be excessive because they interfere with the instructional program by requiring the hiring and putting in place of substitutes to take on the normal classroom duties of the absent teacher. The question is whether or not the absences impede the educational goal and cause an interruption in delivering services to the students. In the case the absences are sufficient and excessive to the point that the educational goal is impeded. That, taken in conjunction with the unsatisfactory evaluations, make clear that her students have not received the educational benefit that is expected to be derived in the classroom.

Counsel for respondent argues that the second count of the tenure charges which deals in large part with absences and other conduct which might be characterized as unbecoming must be dismissed because absences and unsatisfactory performance, in respondent's view, amount at most to insufficiency which must be charged separately under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. This would trigger the procedural safeguards found in the statute and which were not used here. That is an incorrect reading of what is being charged. Count II of the charges restates by reference each and every allegation contained in the first count as if reproduced at length and then discusses both unsatisfactory evaluations as well as refusal to comply with directives such as the locked door, submission of lesson plans and substitute plans as well as excessive absenteeism. Whether taken alone the unsatisfactory ratings might be subject to a charge of inefficiency which would trigger the provisions in respondent's brief is not the only thing which is at issue in Count II. While it does not have a subject heading under Count II, the excessive absences alone are sufficient for dismissal as falling under the language "for other just cause" found in 18A:6-10. The failure to comply with directives is not inefficiency but rather conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Based upon the findings and the conduct in this case, the Board has sustained, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, the charges of the conduct unbecoming as well as other just cause The seriousness of the sustained charges, when contrasted against respondent's mitigating evidence, remains of such overwhelming weight as to require the dismissal of respondent Lemon.

CONCLUSION

As a result, I CONCLUDE that dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 is appropriate in this case.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent be dismissed for engaging in conduct unbecoming a teacher and that she therefore be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

Having conducted his own careful and exhaustive review of the entire record in this matter, which included transcripts from the ten days of hearing at the OAL, as well as each of the exceptions advanced by respondent, the Commissioner determines to affirm the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), with modification and some elaboration upon her factual findings, as set forth herein.

The Commissioner initially affirms the Order rendered by the ALJ upon interlocutory review on March 24, 1997, which denied respondent's Motion to Dismiss the within matter for the District's asserted failure to comply with the requisite procedural mandates for bringing tenure charges.[1] The Commissioner so affirms for the reasons articulated by the ALJ in her Order, and further notes that the record shows that respondent, who was represented by an attorney during the period in question and throughout the proceedings, was duly notified on three occasions that the then Board of Education had repeatedly failed to vote to certify tenure charges on the dates expected, but nevertheless still planned to do so. (Respondent's Exceptions, Exhibits D, E and F) Respondent's attorney raised no objection to the delay. Neither did respondent's Answer to the tenure charges dispute the District's apparent delay in certifying those charges. Finally, to the extent respondent had a viable claim in this regard, her counsel was provided the opportunity by the ALJ to file a Motion to Dismiss, but failed to timely do so.[2] Respondent's attorney's continued protest that he was without the necessary information to file such a motion, notwithstanding his knowledge of the purported violation, is disingenuous. (Tr. June 10, 1996 at 3, 4)

The Commissioner also accepts the ALJ's recitation of the facts as developed and elicited during the testimony of the various witnesses, notwithstanding respondent's contention that the ALJ's recitation of testimony is erroneous, or that the purported omissions in said recitations are significant. The Commissioner finds that "even assuming arguendo that [respondent's] allegations of factual error were correct in their entirety, they would in no way serve to alter the overwhelming balance of evidence in this matter." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Christine Pellagatti, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 121, 125. Further, the Commissioner finds no basis in the record on which to overturn the credibility assessments rendered by the ALJ.

[1] Respondent contends that the District failed to certify tenure charges to the Commissioner within 45 days of serving them upon respondent, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13.

[2] As the record shows, respondent's counsel was, on June 10, 1996, provided ten days in which to file a Motion to Dismiss. (Tr. June 10, 1996 at 7) He failed to file said motion in a timely manner, and instead, filed a Motion to Dismiss on January 27, 1997, after the record closed.

As to the ALJ's factual findings set forth on pages 24 and 25 of the initial decision, the Commissioner affirms the first finding, as herein modified:

> 1. Thomasina Lemon is a tenured teacher employed by the State Operated School District of the City of Newark. She has been employed by the District since 1970. (Tr. July 25, 1996 at 7)

In accordance with testimonial and documentary evidence, the Commissioner next modifies the ALJ's second, third and fourth factual findings as follows:

> 2. Respondent struck then-fourth-grade student R.L.B. with a ruler about four times and placed him in a cloakroom for approximately one-half hour as discipline. (Tr. June 5, 1996 at 45-47) Respondent also hit M.D. with a ruler about eight times and sent him to the cloakroom for discipline. (Id. at 42-44)
>
> 3. In September of 1994, (Petitioner's Exhibit P-4), respondent put her hands on the neck of S.M.H. and pushed him into a classroom leaving demonstrable fingernail impressions on his neck. (Initial Decision at p. 24)
> 4. In September of 1994, respondent grabbed M.T. by the arm and forcefully put him into a chair and grabbed E.B. by the arm and, in the ensuing motion, caused E.B. to hit his head against the wall. (Id.) The District contacted the Institutional Abuse Unit within DYFS, and four children were removed from respondent's class. (Initial Decision at p. 7; Tr. June 6, 1996 at 53; Petitioner's Exhibit P-4)

The Commissioner determines that the above factual findings support the conclusion that respondent's physical interventions were inappropriate. There is "sufficient corroboration among the witnesses to sustain" such a finding. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Millicent Smith, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 729, 739. The Commissioner is cognizant that

> Physical and verbal abuse of students falls within the broader category of "unbecoming conduct." In re Cowan, 224 N.J. Super. 737 (App. Div. 1988). N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 prohibits school employees from inflicting "corporal punishment" on a student, without precisely defining that term. However, the statute provides clarification of its meaning by authorizing the use of such force as > may be "reasonable and necessary" to quell a disturbance threatening injury to others; to obtain possession of weapons or other dangerous objects; for the purpose of self-defense; or for the protection of persons or property. Generally, the Commissioner equates "corporal punishment" with "any punishment causing or intending to cause bodily pain or suffering." Craze v. Allendale Bd. of Ed., 1938 S.L.D. 185, 186. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Charles Courtney, 92 N.J.A.R. 399, 403.

In the instant matter, the Commissioner cannot find that the harsh physical interventions were in any way reasonable or necessary, in accordance with statutory parameters, particularly in view of the age of the students. (Id.)

The Commissioner next adopts, without modification, the fifth, sixth and tenth factual findings as follows:

> 5. On May 14, 1992 respondent acted in an unprofessional manner by using loud language and profanity as well as threats against the principal of the school in front of students and staff.
>
> 6. Respondent ignored written and verbal directives to follow New Jersey statutes and regulations regarding the locking of classrooms during the school day. Although specifically directed by Principal Barillari to leave her classroom door open, Lemon did not do so.
> 10. Respondent has not complied with mandated deadlines for submission of lesson plans, registers and other administrative requests for information. (Initial Decision at p. 24)

The Commissioner determines that these findings clearly constitute insubordination. Here, he observes that "[i]nsubordination is synonymous with disobedience, it is an unwillingness to submit to authority. It is more than being merely argumentative or fractious." In re Smith, supra, at 731. The Commissioner finds particularly disturbing the events of May 14, 1992, in that respondent's unprofessional conduct is all the more offensive when displayed before other staff and students. See Morris School District Board of Education v. Christine Brady, 92

N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 410, 412. This "is not the conduct pupils should be encouraged to emulate." (Id. at 420) He further notes that respondent's flat denial of the events which occurred on this date, in the face of specific and largely uncontroverted testimonial and documentary evidence to the contrary, is simply not credible.

The Commissioner notes that the seventh, eighth and ninth factual findings of the ALJ are as follows:

> 7. For the evaluation years of 1992, 1993 and 1994, respondent has received unsatisfactory evaluations. Observations were conducted both by Principal Barillari and by an outside evaluator.
>
> 8. Out of a total of nine teacher evaluation reports between 1991 and 1994, respondent received eight unsatisfactory observations.
> 9. Suggestions as to changes in instructional methods contained in teacher observation reports were not implemented. (Initial Decision at pp. 24, 25)

Here, the Commissioner agrees with respondent's argument that these findings emanate from charges which sound predominately in inefficiency, and that said charges, therefore, trigger the procedural safeguards identified in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. That is, the charged employee must be provided at least 90 days in which to overcome the inefficiency before the charge may properly be certified to the Commissioner. See Bd. of Ed. of the Township of Teaneck, Bergen County v. Willburn, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 48, 58, aff'd 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 328, aff'd Dkt. No. A-4663-91 (App. Div. April 12, 1993). In that the record does not evidence the District's compliance with the procedural mandate, the Commissioner determines to dismiss the charges found at 3a, 3b, 3c, and 5 of the Second Count. He further determines not to reach to the ALJ's seventh, eighth and ninth factual findings, as noted, supra, as well as the related analysis in the initial decision.

The Commissioner next affirms, with elaboration, the ALJ's findings with respect to respondent's record of absenteeism:

> 11. During the 1990-91 school year, respondent was absent 20.5 days.
>
> 12. During the period from 1991 to the end of the 1992 school year, respondent was absent 35 days. Her absences caused problems with the continuity of instruction; respondent's substitute plans were often unavailable or not up to date. (Initial Decision at p. 7; Tr. June 6, 1996 at 58)
>
> 13. During the school year 1992-93, respondent was absent a total of 27 days.
> 14. During the 1993-94 school year, respondent was absent a total of 43 days. Petitioner was notified by memorandum dated April 27, 1994 that, due to her excessive absences, she would not be approved for use of funds for professional improvement, in that such use would require her to be out of the building once again. (Initial Decision at p. 7; Tr. June 6, 1997 at 62; Petitioner's Exhibit P-24)

With respect to these absences, respondent argues, inter alia, that they are not excessive when one considers that an employee is permitted 15 sick leave days by contract.[3] Respondent also argues that the District did not duly notify her of her problematic absentee record, in accordance with its policy. However, the Commissioner rejects these assertions, in that an employee's absenteeism may be considered excessive even though related to legitimate health problems, where such absences negatively impact on students, and where the teacher was advised that her attendance needed improvement. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City v. Pellecchio, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 267, 271, aff'd 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 30. In the instant matter, respondent's principal testified that, on numerous occasions, when respondent was returning from sick leave, she requested documentation from respondent to substantiate her use of sick time, but did not receive such documentation.[4] Principal Barillari further attested that she spoke with respondent in this regard, that she sent her communications in accordance with District policy,[5] and that respondent also attended conferences, along with her union representative, to discuss these issues. Principal Barillari indicated that, once the conferences were held, respondent would produce the requested documentation covering the period of time in which she had been out sick. (Tr. June 11, 1996 at 19-21) The Commissioner further notes the Annual Evaluation Report prepared by Principal Barillari for respondent dated June 10, 1992 which indicated that her attendance needed improvement (Exhibit P-29), as well as the testimony presented by Assistant Superintendent Nelms establishing that respondent received notice of her attendance problems, as per the District's policy. (Tr. December 11, 1996 at 43)

[3] Respondent's contract provided for a total of 15 sick leave days per year, and an additional 10 sick leave days for employees with 25 years of service. (Exhibit R-1 at p. 41) Respondent, however, did not have 25 years of service as of the time of her noted absences. Testimony further established that the sick leave days were cumulative. (Tr. June 11, 1996 at 17)

Recognizing that "[t]he point at which absenteeism is judged to be chronic falls within the prerogative and discretionary authority of the Board subject to a determination by the Commissioner of Education ," In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Blanche Sheets, School District of the Township of Colts Neck, Monmouth County, 1979 S.L.D. 790, 798, the ALJ's fifteenth factual finding is affirmed as follows:

> 15. Respondent's pattern of absences [is] excessive and causes interruption in instructional continuity requiring the use of substitute teachers to continue classroom instruction during her absence.

[4] Principal Barillari later clarified that these were, indeed, requests, in that District policy does not compel the employee to provide such documentation under all circumstances. (Tr. June 11, 1996 at 20)
[5] The Attendance Improvement Plan.

As to the ALJ's final factual finding that "[n]o testimony of any nature was elicited regarding any instance of physical abuse or physical mismanagement in 1994," (Initial Decision at p. 25), the Commissioner sets aside this finding as inconsistent with the record and with the factual findings, supra, at numbers three and four.

Finally, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's conclusion that the District has sustained, by a preponderance of credible evidence its charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause. The Commissioner herein reiterates that by her proven inappropriate physical interventions with students, her insubordination and her excessive absenteeism, respondent is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. As to the appropriate penalty, the Commissioner has considered respondent's apparently sound teaching record and her extended employment within the District, but nonetheless concurs with the ALJ's recommendation that respondent be dismissed from her tenured position in the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark. The Commissioner recognizes that fitness for a particular position requires a balancing of interests. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Arlene Dusel, 1978 S.L.D. 526, 531. "Unfitness for a position in the school system may be shown by a single incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but is 'best shown by numerous incidents.'" In re Courtney, supra, at 403, citing Redcay v. State Bd. of Ed., 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1934), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). The Commissioner finds that the totality of the testimonial and documentary record clearly supports the ALJ's conclusion.[6]

In reaching this conclusion, the Commissioner underscores the now axiomatic language of a prior tenure decision maintaining that

[6] To the extent the initial decision may be read to suggest that any of the factual findings may independently constitute sufficient grounds for dismissal, said affirmation is specifically disavowed.

> [teachers] are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment.  In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321.

The Commissioner herein notes with concern that respondent's instances of unbecoming conduct toward her pupils are serious and should not be discounted. "School officials need not wait until some child is badly injured before removing a teacher prone to violence." In re Courtney, supra, at 403. Respondent's pattern of absences is sufficiently high to raise serious concerns about her professional commitment and responsibility, see In re Courtney at 402, and her defiance of authority and disregard for established procedures and mandates of the District serve to interfere with smooth District operation. Taken together, the evidence demonstrates that her removal is warranted.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed, as modified herein. Respondent is dismissed from her tenured teaching position with the District as of the date of this decision. This matter is further referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 for action against her certificate as it deems appropriate.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 17, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Gregory G. Johnson, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Robert T. Pickett, Esq.

The decision of the Commissioner of Education dismissing respondent from her tenured employment is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we reject respondent's contention that we should dismiss the charges against her at this point on the procedural grounds that the district board did not certify those charges to the Commissioner within 45 days, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13.[1] We stress that on June 10, 1996, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") expressly provided respondent with the opportunity to file a motion to dismiss the tenure charges on this basis, requiring only that she file the motion within ten days. Tr. 6/10/96, at 3-8. Respondent, however, failed to file such a motion, and did not do so until January 27, 1997, more than seven months later and after completion of the extensive hearings in this matter.

Petitioner, media specialist who was riffed, alleged the Board wrongfully hired another individual to fill an educational media specialist position in violation of her recall rights.

ALJ found that the individual hired for the new position would serve as both a media specialist/librarian and a teacher of elementary subject matter. ALJ determined that petitioner was certified to teach English in the elementary schools, but she presented no information which suggested that she had the necessary endorsement to teach mathematics. Thus, she was not qualified for the new position that included teaching math. Moreover, the Board did not have to bifurcate the position to suit petitioner's areas of endorsement. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board's dual certification requirement was proper. Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that absent a showing that the Board violated state law, administrative code or acted arbitrarily, the Commissioner will not interfere with the Board's decision to combine the library/media and instructional duties into one position. Petition was dismissed.

MILLTOWN BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Record Closed: July 29, 1997 Decided: August 6, 1997

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

Alice Yucht was employed by the respondent Board of Education as a media specialist. She was terminated as the result of a reduction in force ("RIF") effective June 30, 1994. In March 1996 the Board advertised for a combined school librarian and elementary school teacher. The Board ultimately hired Tammy Simons for the position. Mrs. Yucht filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education, alleging that the Board had violated her tenure rights when it failed to offer this position to her. The Commissioner transferred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on December 6, 1997. The matter was scheduled for hearing on April 30, 1997, before an administrative law judge, but on April 10 it became apparent that that judge would have to recuse himself. The case was then reassigned to this judge and scheduled for hearing on July 7, 1997. The parties thereafter agreed that the dispute could likely be resolved based on the documentary record, and cross-motions for summary decision were filed. The last brief was received on July 7, and supplemental material requested by this judge was submitted thereafter. The record is deemed closed as of the last submittal on the requested information on July 29, 1997.

BACKGROUND OF THE DISPUTE

The advertisement issued by the Board for the position eventually filled by Ms. Simons was published in the Sunday Ledger on March 3, and March 10, 1996. It read

The posting for "All Staff," dated February 5, 1996, provided that the position was

1. Librarian

Full-time, commencing for the 1996-97 school year due to retirement of the current librarian.

- K-8 position
- service two schools
- accept related club responsibilities
- help finalize and implement plan for the new Parkview School computer lab/library/media center
- availability to teach general elementary program class(es) as schedule permits

See the draft job description for further details.

The Job Description for the "Librarian/Media Specialist (commonly, "the librarian")" identifies the qualifications required as including

> Certification in the State of New Jersey as any of the following: (1) Educational Media Specialist, (2) Associate Educational Media Specialist, or (3) such other appropriate certification as may be required by the New Jersey Department of Education, and (4) with preference considered for those also possessing an Elementary School Teacher certificate

The "Performance Responsibilities" for the position included

> 2. Developing lesson plans in order to adapt and teach the curriculum to the needs of the pupils including but not limited to library skills, computer education, and general elementary education as the master schedule permits, in cross curricular and interdisciplinary formats

The job description for the position held by Mrs. Yucht prior to her being riffed, which was designated as "Librarian/Media Specialist," listed no specific qualifications other than "as determined by State certification requirements."

According to the letter received from counsel for Mrs. Yucht in response to my request for clarification, she "is the holder of a Teacher of English endorsement which authorizes her to teach English in all public schools." She is also certified as a "Professional Librarian" and an "Educational Media Specialist."

DISCUSSION

The Board of Education determined that it would employ someone to fill two functions. The hire would serve both as a media specialist/librarian and would also teach subject matter material in the elementary grades. According to the submissions from the parties, Mrs. Yucht is certified to teach English in the elementary schools, but she has presented no information which suggests that she has the necessary certification to teach mathematics. Indeed, in her counsel's response to the Board's letter brief, he appears not to contest that she is not qualified for the teaching assignment which includes math teaching, but instead he argues that she should at least receive a half-time position at the Joyce Kilmer School, where the current hire does not teach, but serves only in the media specialist capacity.

Based upon the evidence and the arguments of counsel, I am convinced that Mrs. Yucht could not expect to have received the position advertised by the Board. The job description for the new position of Librarian/Media Specialist specifically called for a person to perform duties including: "general elementary education as the master schedule permits, in cross curricular and interdisciplinary formats." This description did not limit the teaching assignment to English, and Mrs. Yucht's endorsements do not permit her to teach mathematics in the elementary grades. Thus she was not qualified for the position's responsibilities. As for the possibility of splitting the position, so that Mrs. Yucht could hold the Joyce Kilmer position, which apparently does not currently require the holder to teach classroom subjects, and someone else could be hired to hold the position at Parkway School, such as Ms. Simons (who holds an elementary school certificate along with her emergency school librarian certificate), clearly this was not the choice which the Board made. The Commissioner is traditionally loath to interfere in decisions made by local Boards of Education as to the structure of employment positions unless they violate the law or act in bad faith. Here, the Board might have chosen to split the position, but its determination to hire one individual to fill the spot certainly does not constitute an arbitrary, unreasonable or illegal action. The fact that the hired individual can both teach elementary school and serve in the media specialist/librarian capacity affords the Board flexibility. The Board has the "predominant responsibility to maintain a thorough and efficient system of education" and it need not bifurcate positions to suit the "desires and maximize its scheduled course offerings to coincide with (petitioner's) areas of certification." Fitzpatrick v. Weehawken Township Board of Education, N.J. App.Div, June 16, 1982, A-3278-80T3 (unpublished) at 3-4; Davis v. Board of Education of Ewing Township, EDU 6539-84 (March 14, 1985), adopted by Commissioner of Education (April 29, 1985), adopted by State Board (September 4, 1985); Hart v. Board of Education of Ridgefield, OAL DKT. 9002-86 (June 25, 1987) adopted by Commissioner of Education (August 4, 1987.

ORDER

The petitioner has failed to establish that she has any right to the position she now seeks. The Board did not violate her tenure or seniority rights. Her petition is therefore DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Notwithstanding the significance which petitioner places on the Board's stated "preference" for a candidate who possessed an elementary endorsement to the instructional certificate,* the Commissioner notes that the advertisement, as posted in the newspaper clearly states that the candidate must hold such an endorsement. Moreover, as petitioner notes in her exception arguments, it is the duties attending the position in question which determine whether the elementary endorsement was properly considered to be a requirement. In that the performance responsibilities clearly anticipate the holder of the position to "[develop] lesson plans in order to adapt and teach the curriculum to the needs of pupils including  general elementary education as the master schedule permits, in cross curricular and interdisciplinary formats" (Initial Decision at p. 3), the Commissioner cannot find that the Board's dual certification requirement is improper. As the ALJ correctly notes, that the Board decided to combine the library/media and instructional duties is not a decision in which he will interfere, absent a showing that the Board has violated state law, administrative code or has acted arbitrarily. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that such is not the case.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

For the Respondent-Respondent, Borrus, Goldin, Foley, Hyman & Stahl (Anthony B. Vignuolo, Esq., of Counsel)

Alice H. Yucht (hereinafter "petitioner") was employed by the Board of Education of the Borough of Milltown (hereinafter "Board") as a librarian/media specialist until her position was abolished as the result of a reduction in force effective June 30, 1994. It is undisputed that the petitioner had achieved tenure as a result of such employment. On November 6, 1996, the petitioner filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board had violated her tenure rights when it failed to reinstate her in a newly-created position of "Librarian/Media Specialist" for the 1996-97 school year. The job description for that position required certification "as any of the following":

July 5, 2000

> (1) Educational Media Specialist, (2) Associate Educational Media Specialist, or (3) such other appropriate certification as may be required by the New Jersey Department of Education, and (4) with preference considered for those also possessing an Elementary School Teacher certificate.

Exhibit A, in evidence.

The responsibilities for the position, as listed in the job description, included:

> Developing lesson plans in order to adapt and teach the curriculum to the needs of the pupils including but not limited to library skills, computer education, and general elementary education as the master schedule permits, in cross curricular and interdisciplinary formats.

Id.

The petitioner held the following certifications: Teacher of English, Professional Librarian and Educational Media Specialist. The job description for her abolished librarian/media specialist position specified its "Primary Function" as: "Assumes responsibility for the instruction of assigned students in accordance with the district and school's instructional goals approved by the Board of Education as well as the comprehensive management of the library/media center." Schedule A, in evidence.

On August 6, 1997, an administrative law judge ("ALJ") recommended dismissing the petition, concluding that the petitioner had failed to establish any entitlement to the newly created position. The ALJ found that the job description specifically included instructional duties in general elementary education and that the petitioner was not qualified to perform such responsibilities since her instructional certification was in English rather than elementary education. The ALJ further found that the Board's decision to combine the various functions into a single position was not arbitrary, unreasonable or illegal, observing that the Board was not required to "bifurcate positions to suit the 'desires and maximize its scheduled course offerings to coincide with (petitioner's) areas of certification.'" (Citations omitted.) Initial Decision, slip op. at 4.

On September 17, 1997, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and dismissed the petition. The Commissioner indicated that he:

> cannot find that the Board's dual certification requirement is improper. As the ALJ correctly notes, that the Board decided to combine the library/media and instructional duties is not a decision in which he will interfere, absent a showing that the Board has violated state law, administrative code or has acted arbitrarily. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that such is not the case.

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 9.

The petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

After a careful review of the record, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner as modified herein.

On the basis of the record before us, including the job description and the actual duties identified by the parties, we find that the newly-created position constituted an unrecognized position title requiring both an instructional and an educational services certificate. While the county superintendent is charged with responsibility in the first instance for determining the appropriate certification for service in an unrecognized position title based upon the specific duties required to be performed, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b), the State Board of Education has the ultimate administrative authority for determining certification requirements.[1] South River Education Association v. Board of Education of the Borough of South River, decided by the State Board, November 4, 1987, aff'd, Docket #A-1695-87T8 (App. Div. 1990); Pezzullo v. Board of Education of the Township of Willingboro, decided by the State Board, March 1, 1989, appeal dismissed, Docket #A-4006-88T1 (App. Div. 1989).

[1] We note that there is no indication in the record that the job description for the newly created position was submitted to the County Superintendent for approval and determination of the appropriate certification as required for unrecognized positions.

In this instance, we agree that the duties of the newly-created position as reflected in the record before us are of such character as to require possession of a teaching certificate in elementary education in addition to an appropriate educational services endorsement in order to be qualified to perform such functions.[2]

We find, in addition, as pointed out by the Board, that the newly created position is substantially different from the petitioner's abolished position in that it requires instruction in general elementary education. The petitioner's instructional certification in English, which permits her to "teach English in all public schools," N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)7, does not authorize her to teach "general elementary education...in cross curricular and interdisciplinary formats," as provided in the job description, including mathematics, the subject area assigned to the position in 1996-97. Exhibits C and D, in evidence.

Consequently, as modified herein, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner to dismiss the petition.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

Arnold G. Hyndman abstained.

[2] We reject the petitioner's argument, reiterated in her exceptions to the report of our Legal Committee, that an elementary endorsement is not required for the position since the job description adopted by the Board indicated only a "preference" for such certification. As previously stated, it is the county superintendent who is charged in the first instance with the responsible for determining the appropriate certification for service in an unrecognized position. It is that determination, made on the basis of the specific duties required to be performed in the position, which is determinative. We remind the Board in that regard that an unrecognized position title is required to be submitted annually to the county superintendent for review. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b).

RESPONDENT.	:

Petitioner, teaching staff member who retired in 1995, sought restoration of sick days following work-related injury. Board contended petition was filed untimely.

ALJ determined that the petition was filed untimely as petitioner did not file within 90 days after the workers' compensation judgment. Summary judgment was granted to the Board; petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the initial decision as his own while noting that since the State Board decision in Verneret, wherein a petitioner claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 must file a petition with the Commissioner of Education within 90 days of the Board's action which has the effect of denying such benefits to petitioner, specifically directed that this decision concerning timing of claims be applied on a prospective basis only, the controlling legal authority applicable herein was that which existed prior to Verneret. Commissioner found that, given the prior law which required a petition be filed after a determination from the Division of Workers' Compensation, petition herein was untimely as petitioner did not file until more than 4-1/2 months beyond the entry of petitioner's workers' compensation Order for Judgment. Petition was dismissed as untimely.

ANTHONY ALFERI,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,

Respondent.

Gail Oxfeld Kanef, Esq., for the petitioner (Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell & Cohen attorneys)

Francis X. Journick, Jr.,, Esq., for the respondent (Wilentz, Goldman & Spitzer, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 25, 1997 Decided: August 5, 1997

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the petition filed by the petitioner, Anthony Alferi, seeking the restoration of sick days following a work related injury. The respondent, the Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, Middlesex County (Board) alleged that the petitioner is not entitled to the restoration of any sick days and that the petition was not filed timely in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). On February 7, 1997, the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

I had telephone conferences with the parties on March 6, 1997, and May 30, 1997, and the parties agreed to submit briefs on the threshold issue of whether the petition was filed in a timely manner. The parties submitted briefs, and the record closed on June 25, 1997.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

On October 11, 1991, the petitioner sustained a work related injury and was absent from his teaching position consecutively from October 15, 1991, through November 27, 1991, and intermittently thereafter. The Board paid the petitioner his full salary for these absences and deducted the days from the petitioner's accrued sick days

The respondent gives each teaching staff member a notice, at the beginning of each school year, of the number of unused sick days that the individual has accrued. The petitioner received such notices, including a notice at the commencement of the 1994-95 school year. The petitioner retired on July 1, 1995.

On December 11, 1991, the petitioner filed a workers' compensation claim seeking recovery for his work related injury and specifically asking for the restoration of "all sick days petitioner was forced to use because of a work related injury" (Exhibit A, attached to the respondent's brief, dated May 29, 1997). A workers' compensation judgment was entered on April 4, 1996. It was determined that the October 11, 1991 injury was work related but the judgment did not grant the petitioner any award for temporary disability for time missed from work due to the compensable injury (Exhibit B, attached to the respondent's brief, dated May 29, 1997).

On August 14, 1996, the petitioner spoke to Nancy M. Mongon, an employee of the Board, and requested the restoration of the sick days which were used for his 1991 work related injury. Ms. Mongon told the petitioner that he was not entitled to the restoration based on the provisions of the workers' compensation judgment. Ms. Mongon prepared a memo on August 14, 1996, memorializing her conversation with the petitioner (Exhibit C, attached to the respondent's brief, dated May 29, 1997).

On November 21, 1996, a petition was filed on behalf of the petitioner with the Commissioner. It was acknowledged by the petitioner that this petition was filed ninety-nine days after his August 14, 1996 conversation with Ms. Mongon. In a certification attached to the petitioner's brief, Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq. stated that he was handling the matter at the time and that he had to fly to California since his son was involved in a very serious car accident on November 7, 1996. Mr. Oxfeld filed the petition immediately upon his return to New Jersey.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Both parties agree that a motion for summary decision on the issue of timeliness is appropriate since there are no factual disputes material to this issue. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).

The issue in this matter is whether the petition was filed within the time period set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). This section provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The Board argued that the enforceability of the ninety day rule has been clearly established by the courts and that such a provision is necessary in order to provide finality in education matters, Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572, 583 (1993). The Board argued that the petition should have been filed within ninety days after he became aware that the Board had used his accrued sick days for his work related injury since cases have held that the ninety days starts after notice of the Board's action and not after the disposition of the petitioner's workers' compensation claim, Veneret v. Bd. of Educ. of Elizabeth, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 191, modified and affirmed, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134 (State Bd. of Educ. Jan. 4, 1995); McKeon v.

Bd. of Educ. of Elizabeth, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 120 (Commissioner of Ed., October 8, 1996). Based on the facts, the Board argued that the petitioner was aware that his accrued sick days were used when he filed the workers' compensation claim on December 11, 1991, and that the petition in this matter was clearly filed out of time.

Even if the ninety day period were to run from the date of the workers' compensation judgment or the date of the petitioner's conversation with Ms. Mongon, the Board argued that the petition was still not timely.

Further, the Board argued that there is no reason to relax the ninety-day rule in this matter since there are no compelling circumstances justifying such a relaxation, Medeiros v. School District of Jersey City, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 276, 280 (State Bd. of Educ. Jan. 8, 1997).

In his response, the petitioner argued that the ninety day period started to run after the conversation between the petitioner and Ms. Mongon on August 14, 1996, and that the ninety-day rule should be relaxed in view of the stressful personal situation of Mr. Oxfeld. The petitioner noted that N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15 allows the Commissioner to relax the ninety-day rule "where strict adherence thereto may be deemed inappropriate or unnecessary or may result in injustice" and argued that not relaxing the ninety-day rule would penalize the petitioner for Mr. Oxfeld's family problem. I concur with the petitioner's argument that the ninety-day should be relaxed but only if the ninety-day period started to run after the petitioner's conversation with Ms. Mongon.

The petitioner argued that this matter is distinguishable on the facts from the Kaprow, Veneret and McKeon decisions. Further, the petitioner noted that the Veneret decision states that the holding should only have prospective application and that it is therefor not applicable in this matter.

In its reply, the Board argued that even if the petitioner was not foreclosed by not filing his petition within ninety days after he filed the workers' compensation claim pursuant to the ruling in the Veneret case, the petitioner was foreclosed since he did not file the petition within ninety days after the workers' compensation judgment which did not restore his sick days. The Board argued that there was no basis for the petitioner to assume that the Board would restore his sick days after the workers' compensation judgment. The Board argued that the time for filing the petition began to run on April 4, 1996, the date of the workers' compensation judgment, and lapsed on July 5, 1996.

I agree with the respondent's argument that the ninety day period started to run with the filing of the workers' compensation judgment, and that the petitioner has presented no compelling reason to relax the ninety-day rule.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that this matter was not filed in a timely manner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), and I ORDER that the matter be dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ANTHONY ALFERI,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions of petitioner and those of the Board were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The parties' exceptions present no substantive additional arguments over and above those advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in the Board's motion for summary decision and petitioner's submission in opposition to such motion and, therefore, will not be presented herein.

Upon an independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner is in accord with the ALJ's conclusion that the 90-day period within which petitioner should have filed the instant Petition of Appeal began to run on April 4, 1996, the date of his workers' compensation judgment, and lapsed on July 5, 1996, rendering the instant petition, filed on November 21, 1996, untimely and requiring its dismissal. Despite his concurrence with this ultimate conclusion of the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that further explication with respect to the reasoning surrounding this finding is necessary.

Initially, the Commissioner observes it is clear that, with the advent of the State Board's decision in Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134 (decided January 4, 1995), "any petitioner claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 must file a petition with the Commissioner of Education within 90 days of the district board's action which has the effect of denying such benefits to petitioner." (Verneret at 135) Although it is undisputed that at the time the within petitioner filed his workers' compensation claim on December 11, 1991, he was fully aware that the Board had charged his accumulated sick leave to make his salary payments during the period of his mid-October 1991 through November 27, 1991 absence, the Commissioner is in agreement with petitioner's contention and the ALJ's conclusion implicitly intimated, although not specifically stated in the initial decision, that the mandatory timelines established by Veneret are not dispositive in this matter. Rather, he notes that the State Board, in its 1995 decision in Verneret, recognizing that its holding represented a departure from previously understood interpretations of the timing of claims vis-à-vis the 90-day rule contained in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) in this area, specifically directed that this decision be applied on a prospective basis only. (See Verneret at 135.) As such, the controlling legal authority applicable herein is that which existed prior to Verneret, established by Steven B. Hern v. Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County (letter decision of May 8, 1991, affirmed by the State Board on August 7, 1991); Joseph R. Mulford v. Board of Education of the Township of Hillside, Union County (letter decision of May 29, 1990); Angelo Bracoloni v. Board of Education of the Princeton Regional School District, Mercer County, 1990 S.L.D. 447, and the precedents on which they rely, including Forgash v. Lower Camden County School, 208 N.J. Super. 461 (App. Div. 1985), which were understood prior to Verneret to stand for the proposition that a determination from the Division of Workers' Compensation, establishing a nexus between a petitioner's injury and his employment, is an absolute prerequisite before any claim arising from N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 may be filed with the Commissioner and requiring that any filing before the Commissioner prior to this determination be rejected as "premature."

Given the law as it existed prior to Verneret and in light of the specific facts existing in this matter, the Commissioner finds petitioner's contention that the 90-day limitation period specified by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) began to run on August 14, 1996, the date on which he had a conversation with an employee of the Board, is untenable. Rather, he concurs with the ALJ that the running of this period began upon the entry of petitioner's workers' compensation Order for Judgment on April 4, 1996, and expired on July 5, 1996. Petitioner did not, however, file his petition until November 21, 1996, more than 4-1/2 months after the limitations period had expired, and, as such, his appeal is time barred. Moreover, it is noted that petitioner has presented no argument whosoever to explain or justify his failure to file during the applicable period, nor do the facts before the Commissioner present any exceptional circumstances that would warrant relaxation of the 90-day filing requirement pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein and expanded upon above, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the OAL finding the instant Petition of Appeal untimely, and orders that this petition be dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Respondent.

No one appeared for or on behalf of petitioner

Anthony V. D'Elia, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: August 5, 1997 Decided: August 5, 1997

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Procedural History

This is an appeal brought on behalf of a student seeking enrollment in respondent's school district for a portion of the 1996-97 school year. Petitioner J.L.M. filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on January 7, 1997. Subsequently, on March 3, 1997, the Commissioner transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case. On June 17, 1997, the OAL notified the parties that a hearing was to be held on August 5, 1997 at 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey, 07102. At the hearing, J.L.M.'s wife explained that her husband was in Santo Domingo. Thus, petitioner was unable to proceed with any proofs.

Findings of Fact

Based on the representations made at the hearing, I FIND:

1. The minor child, H.A.M.D., is presently in Santo Domingo, but will soon be going to Puerto Rico to live with his father.

2. H.A.M.D. will not return to Clifton High School for the 1997-98 school year and has abandoned any claim to domicile in the Clifton School District

3. In view of the foregoing, the Clifton Board of Education waives any claim for payment of tuition.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to appear for the hearing without good cause and has abandoned his claim for relief.

Order

It is ORDERED that the petition is dismissed, with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause against respondent custodian for failure of a random drug test administered after he returned to work from a leave of absence for in-patient drug rehabilitation.

Having considered the record and the testimony of witnesses, the ALJ concluded that the collection and testing procedures used for respondent's test were more than consistent with reasonable medical office and laboratory practice. Citing Caravello, the ALJ noted that strict adherence to federal drug testing regulations is not required to validate drug tests which are not regulated by the federal government. ALJ concluded that the positive cocaine metabolite result on respondent's urine sample was valid. Thus, in light of his earlier agreement with the Board when he was granted a leave of absence to enter rehabilitation, the positive test for cocaine established the Board's tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause, warranting respondent's dismissal from his tenured position as custodian. ALJ ordered dismissal.

Upon review of the record, which included transcripts of the two days of hearing at OAL, the Commissioner concurred with the findings and determination of the ALJ and adopted them as his own. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured position as a custodian as of the date of this decision.

Record Closed: January 27, 1997 Decided: August 6, 1997

BEFORE BARBARA A. HARNED, CALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In this matter petitioner Board of Education filed tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent Robert Benjamin based on his asserted failure of a random drug test administered after Mr. Benjamin returned to work from a leave of absence for in-patient drug rehabilitation. The Board certified and filed the charges with the Commisioner of Educaton on September 13, 1995. On November 6, 1995 respondent filed an Amended Answer to the charges. The matter was transmitted on November 20, 1995 by the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on January 16, 1996, at which time the hearing was scheduled for June 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21, 1996. During a status conference held on May 15, 1996, it was agreed that the hearing would be adjourned until August 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, 1996, subject to witness availability, due to problems the Board of Education had encountered in providing requested discovery to respondent. However, on May 17, 1996, counsel for the Board advised that its witnesses were unavailable during that week and the hearing was rescheduled for September 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13, 1996.

On September 5, 1996, counsel for respondent requested an adjournment of the hearing dates because his expert witness was not available during the week of September 9, 1996. A conference call was held on September 6, 1996, at which time it was agreed that the hearing would be adjourned until October 7, 8 and 9, 1996. The hearing commenced on October 7 and concluded on October 8, 1996. The final post-hearing submission was received on January 27, 1997, at which time the record closed.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

It is undisputed that Robert Benjamin held a tenured position as a custodian with the South Brunswick Board of Education. At the hearing the parties stipulated to the following facts and I adopt them as FINDINGS OF FACT.

1 At a meeting on May 8, 1995, Mr. Benjamin advised Michael Lacey (Personnel Director) that he had a cocaine addiction and that his drug use was the cause of his absences and failures to call in when absent or tardy.

2. By a letter dated June 1, 1995, Mr. Lacey informed Mr. Benjamin that the school administration recommended to the Board of Education that it approve Mr. Benjamin's request for an unpaid leave of absence to attend a drug rehabilitation program at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Coatesville, Pennsylvania, for the period of May 31, 1995, to July 1, 1995. This recommendation was based on two conditions: (1) that Mr. Benjamin provide periodic documentation of his actual commencement and continued attendance in the VA program, and (2) that Mr. Benjamin would be subject to random drug screening upon his return to work.

3. By a letter dated June 27, 1995, Mr. Benjamin was informed by Mr. Lacey that his leave of absence had been approved by the Board of Education.

4. Mr. Benjamin returned to his duties as school custodian on July 5, 1995.

5. On August 8, 1995, Mr. Benjamin consented to a random drug test; on that date he gave a urine sample to the Dayton Family Practice, 397 Monmouth Junction Road, Dayton, New Jersey 08810 (J-1).

This concludes the stipulated facts.

The urine sample referred to in the fifth stipulation was collected by Judith L. Davis, a medical assistant employed by Dayton Family Practice who testified on behalf of the Board. The relevant portions of Ms. Davis' testimony are uncontradicted by respondent. In addition, I found Ms. Davis to be a very credible witness. Accordingly, I adopt the following description of her testimony as FINDINGS OF FACT. Ms. Davis attended Memphis University for four years although she has not yet completed her degree. She has approximately four years experience as a medical assistant, the last two years with Dayton Family Practice. Dayton Family Practice is owned by Dr. James Boudwin who provided on the job training for Ms. Davis in the collection of urine samples for drug testing. She does five to twenty urine sample collections a day. In collecting the samples, Ms. Davis follows specific written procedures established by the testing laboratory and sent to Dayton Family Practice. In this instance, the testing laboratory was SmithKline Beecham (SB) Clinical Laboratories in Norristown, Pennsylvania and Ms. Davis accordingly followed the collection protocol established by SB in collecting the urine sample from Mr. Benjamin. That protocol was hanging on a wall. It contained 23 steps which she followed in collecting the sample.

Ms. Davis first obtained Mr. Benjamin's written consent to the obtaining of a urine sample for drug testing and reporting of those results to Board of Education (P-2). On this consent form, Mr. Benjamin indicated that he had taken three medications in the past two weeks: "Doxycycline, Menonidazole, [and] Zantac." (P-2). While Ms. Davis did not specifically recall asking Mr. Benjamin for his identification, it is the first step of the protocol which she follows on a regular and ongoing basis and there would have been no reason for her to deviate from that protocol.

Ms. Davis next filled out appropriate portions of a seven-page SB Chain of Custody and Control form, a blank example of which is entered into evidence as P-3. Copy 4 of this form for Mr. Benjamin's drug test is entered into evidence as P-5. At the top left hand corner of the form is a printed seven-digit number called the "Specimen Id. No. (P-3, P-5). The Specimen Id. No. for Mr. Benjamin's urine sample given on August 8, 1995 is "4235399" (P-5). Following the protocol, Ms. Davis then asked Mr. Benjamin to randomly select a drug testing kit from a bin kept under a counter. An unused example of such a kit is entered into evidence as P-4. The type of test used is called a "split specimen" and requires the use of two bottles. Ms. Davis instructed Mr. Benjamin to remove one of the bottles. The kit contains a "temperature strip" which Ms. Davis put on the bottle selected by Mr. Benjamin. The temperature strip is used to ensure that the urine sample returned in the bottle actually came from the individual being tested and at the time of testing since it should read between 90 and 100 degrees when returned to the collector.

Mr. Benjamin was then instructed to take the bottle into the bathroom and urinate into it and that he was not to flush the toilet. Donors are not instructed to wash their hands before giving a sample. Ms. Davis did not actually see Mr. Benjamin give the sample. However, the sink taps are closed and the toilet water is kept blue so the urine sample cannot be diluted. After urinating, Mr. Benjamin returned the bottle to Ms. Davis who verified that the specimen temperature was within the 90 to 100 degree range (P-5). Ms. Davis then "split" the specimen by pouring 15 milliliters into the second bottle in Mr. Benjamin's presence, leaving 30 milliliters in the first bottle. Mr. Benjamin did not act suspiciously or give Ms. Davis any problems. He listened to her directions and did not act "wired."

On the right hand side of the Custody and Control Form are two security strips (P-3). These strips contain the same pre-printed Specimen Id. No. as contained on the upper left hand portion of the Custody and Control Form (P-3). The strips also contain a line to enter the date and a line for the donor to initial (P-3). Mr. Benjamin initialed the security strips which Ms. Davis then placed across the top and sides of each bottle to prevent tampering. If the security strips indicate any tampering SB will not test the specimen but rather will inform the collector to obtain another specimen. The bottles were placed in a plastic bag along with the first three pages of the Custody and Control Form. On the first three sheets, the donor's name does not appear, only his or her social security number and the pre-printed Specimen Id. No. The three sheets are folded in half and placed in the bag with the sample bottles. The bag is then sealed and the donor is asked to initial the seal. Ms. Davis then arranged for distribution of copies 4 through 7 of the Custody and Control Form: copy 4 to the employer's Medical Review Officer; copy 5 to the donor; copy 6 to Dayton Family Practice as the collector and copy 7 to the employer (P-3). On copies 4, 5, 6 and 7, the donor is asked to write his phone number, date of birth, date of specimen collection and to print and sign his name (P-3). Mr. Benjamin provided this information (P-5). This information, however, is not included on the first three copies of the Custody and Control Form which are sent to the laboratory for testing.

The sealed bag with the "split sample" and the first three copies of the Custody and Control Form were placed in a special basket by Ms. Davis in the nurse's station. This basket is not locked and is accessible to the public but Ms. Davis was unaware of any unauthorized access to the specimens having occurred. A courier from SB picks up the specimens from Dayton Family Practice at noon and 6 p.m. Since Mr. Benjamin's specimen had been taken at 10:25 a.m. on August 8, 1995, his specimen was picked up by the SB courier at noon on that day. Ms. Davis signed the Custody and Control Form indicating that she had received Mr. Benjamin's urine specimen at Dayton Family Practice and that she released it to the SB courier on August 8, 1995 (P-5).

Susan P. Mills, Manager of SB's Forensic Toxicology Laboratory in Norristown, Pennsylvania, was qualified without objection as an expert in forensic toxicology and testified on behalf of the Board as to the testing procedure performed on Specimen No. Id. 4235399 at SB (2T 11-13 to 11-18, P10). While Ms. Mills' opinion on the reliability and accuracy of the test results reported on respondent's sample are challenged by respondent, her factual testimony is largely uncontradicted by respondent. In addition, I found Ms. Mills to be a very credible witness. Accordingly, unless noted that the testimony is the opinion of Ms. Mills, I adopt the following testimony as FINDINGS OF FACT. Separate findings will be made as to Ms.Mills' opinion testimony. As Manager of the Forensic Toxicology Laboratory, Ms. Mills has total responsibility for forensic urine drug testing at the lab (2T 5-19). She identified and explained documents contained in the Test Documentation Package for respondent's specimen. Copy 2 of the Custody and Control Form for Specimen Id. No. 4235399 indicates that the specimen was reviewed at the SB Laboratory by Stephanie Jose (P-8), identified as a member of the accessioning staff at SB Labs (2T35-8 to 35-17).[1] The accessioning staff are processors who, inter alia, check the specimens after they arrive at the Lab for evidence of tampering (2T34-12 to 35-7). Ms. Jose did not testify. However, on Copy 2 of the Custody and Control Form she wrote that Specimen Id. No. 4235399 was reviewed by her on August 9, 1995 at 12:05 a.m. (P-8, P-11, page 5). She further indicated that the sealed bag was intact; the tamper resistant seals on the specimen bottles were intact and the identification number on the seals on the bottles matched the identification number on the Custody and Control Form, i.e. 4235399 (P-8, 2T 34-21 to 36-2). The process performed by Ms. Jose is known as the "pre-log" step. The pre-log function is performed on a batch of samples up to a maximum of 36 (2T39-20) and generates a Chain of Custody pre-log manifest (P-11, page 5). The pre-log manifest contains information such as client number, Specimen Id. No., date and time the sample was received and a sequence number assigned to each sample (P-11, page 5). The client number does not refer to the donor of the sample but rather to the client referring the sample for testing, in this case Dayton Family Practice (2T27-24). The pre-log manifest which included Specimen Id. No. 4235399 assigned sequence number 19 to that sample (P-11, Page 5). In the opinion of Ms. Mills, the particular sequence number assigned to a sample on the pre-log manifest has "absolutely n[o]" significance, other than the fact that once it reaches 36, no further samples will be added to that batch (2T39-17 to 39-22).

The next step in the process, called the "full log" requires scanning information from the Custody and Control Form into the computer (2T36-12). The bar coding on the top left-hand section of the form, including the client number and the Specimen Id. No., is scanned into the computer and the employee Social Security number, the reason for the test, the test code and the collection date and time are also entered into the computer (2T36-12 to 36-17). The computer then assigns a laboratory accession number to the specimen and generates bar coded labels which include the laboratory accession number, the client's identification number and the Specimen Id. No. Stephanie Berg, an accessioner who did not testify, performed the full log (2T43-5). The bar coded labels generated during the full log process are then applied to the specimen bottles and to the Custody and Control Form (2T36-17 to 36-20, 40-25 to 41-8). The laboratory accession number assigned to Specimen Id. No. 4235399 was 378047B (2T36-23). The bar coded labels with accession number 378047B were applied to the upper right-hand portion of Copy 1 of the Custody and Control Form for Specimen Id. No. 4235399 and to the specimen bottles (P-11, page 3, 2T41-16). The label includes the accession number of 378047B, the Specimen Id. No. of 4235399 and the client number of 10033325 (P-11, page 3). As noted above, the client number identifies the requester of the test, in this case Dayton Family Practice, and not the donor (2T27-23). Chris Pankey, an accesssioner who did not testify, performed the labeling function (2T43-10). Once the full log and labeling functions were completed the specimen was ready for the actual testing.

The SB laboratory is certified by the federal Department of Health and Human Services to perform federal drug testing (2T 12-4). As Specimen No. Id. 4235399 (accession number 378047B) was submitted as a federal drug test, the testing protocol followed by SB for this specimen was designed to meet the guidelines and requirements of the federal Department of Health and Human Services and the Department of Transportation (2T17-16 to 18-2).

Pursuant to the federal guidelines, SB utilized a two-tier testing process on Specimen Id. No. 4235399 (2T18-17). The first test performed is an enzyme immunoassay, or EIA test (2T18-18 to 18-25). This is a rapid screening test during which the specimen is tested for multiple analytes by taking absorbance readings on the specimen relative to specific cut-off levels. If the specimen is equal to or greater than the cut-off level that has been established, it is considered to be a presumptive positive and additional testing is performed (2T19-11 to 19-16). To perform the EIA test, a small portion of the urine sample is removed from the original bottle and placed into a small cup to be tested. This portion is called the aliquot (2T41-19 to 42-4). After the aliquot is removed from the bottle, the bottle is placed in temporary storage in a secured walk-in refrigerator in the lab (2T42-16 to 42-23). Bernard Nonan, another accessioner who did not testify, performed the aliquot function (2T43-16).

Alan Kochenberger, a technologist who did not testify, performed the EIA test on the 36 samples in the batch containing laboratory accession number 378047B (2T44-1 to 44-15). The work list for this load (load # 0809003) of tests includes the laboratory accession number, participant number (usually social security number), the type of test ordered, an instrument identification number and a sequence number for each sample to be tested in the load (P-11, page 9, 2T46-6 to 46-14). The sequence number assigned to laboratory accession number 378047B is 22 instead of the 19 assigned to it on the pre-log manifest (compare P-11, page 5 with P-11, page 10). Again, in Ms. Mills' opinion, the sequence number's significance is "[t]hat just shows that in this batch the sample was placed in sequence 22" (2T48-25 to 49-1). There are 40 sequence numbers included in the work list for the load, reflecting the 36 donor samples in the batch plus "control" samples that the lab adds to the batch in order to calibrate the testing instruments (2T49-9 to 49-18). The testing on laboratory accession number 378047B, sequence number 22, for load # 0809003 "showed that the sample screened presumptively positive for cocaine metabolite" (2T52-10, P-11, page 14). As a result it was necessary to run a confirmatory test on this sample to confirm the presence of the cocaine metabolite (2T55-11). Upon completion of the EIA test, Mr. Kochenberger discarded the aliquot (P-11, page 8).

The confirmatory test following the EIA test utilizes a methodology of gas chromatography mass spectrometry known as GC/MS (2T20-11). In the first part of this confirmatory test, a portion of the urine sample is injected into the gas chromatography equipment which results in analytes coming off at different times and into different ovens. The sample then goes through the mass spectrometer where it is bombarded with electrons and the fragments coming off are monitored. The mass spectrometer identifies a particular drug by "giv[ing] essentially what's called the fingerprint pattern for a drug" and can do a quantitative analysis (2T21-18 to 22-4). Under federal regulations, the GC/MS test is the only drug test confirmation method allowed (2T22-8).

Later on August 9, 1995 SB employee Darlene Devany, who did not testify, removed a number of samples from temporary storage in the locked refrigerator to set up the GC/MS confirmatory test for samples that tested positive in the initial screening test (2T55-10 to 55-23, P-11, page 17). The sample with laboratory accession number 378047B was among these samples which were pulled to perform the cocaine metabolite confirmation test (P-11, page 18, 2T56-23). The reason for pulling the samples was to prepare aliquots for the confirmatory testing (2T57-13). There was a technical problem with the confirmatory test on that date and no results were reported for any of the samples (2T58-11 to 59-1). Accordingly, Ms. Devany repulled the same samples on August 10, 1995 and again prepared aliquots for each of the samples (2T58-3, P-11, page 17). The first step in preparing the aliquots is scanning by computer the bar coded labels on the sample bottles (2T125-2). The computer generates another bar coded label which includes, inter alia, the laboratory accession number of the sample bottle. The accessor compares the computer-generated label with that on the sample bottle and if they correspond, the new computer-generated label is attached to a glass test tube or vial by the accesssor (2T125-7, P-11, page 26). This comparison of labels results in the generation of the Specimen ID Verification Report (2T67-1 to -10, P-11, page 26). The accessor then pours a portion of the urine from the sample bottle into the labeled glass test vial for testing (2T124-2 to 124-24). The sample labeled laboratory accession number 378047B was included in the samples repulled for testing on August 10, 1995 (P-11, page 20). The Specimen ID Verification Report indicates that for accession number 378047B, the Specimen Id. No. (called Req.# on this report) was 4235399, the Specimen Id. No. assigned to respondent's sample, and the Donor Id. was respondent's social security number (P-11, page 26).

As the aliquots are prepared, the computer also creates a worklist for the testing and assigns a load number to identify the batch of samples to be tested (2T64-19 to 64-23, 125-17, P-11, pages 22 and 23). In this instance, the worklist is for "Txncoms," which is an acronym for testing for cocaine metabolites and the load number is 0810001 (2T55-12, P-11, page 22). In creating the worklist the computer will automatically place the samples to be tested into a sequence. "[B]asically it will accept up to 39 samples and just place them onto a work list to be extracted." (2T64-19 to -22). According to Ms. Mills, the sequencing does not always represent the order in which the aliquots will be injected into the GC/MS but rather "[i]t's really just to count to see how many samples are being placed into the batch to make sure the batch size does not exceed the . . . allowed number" (2T65-6 to -18). The aliquot with laboratory accession number 378047B was given sequence number 23 for load 0810001 on the August 10, 1995 Txncoms worklist (P-11, pages 24, 26). After scanning, labeling and pouring, the aliquots are ready for testing and are placed in a test rack in the order in which they were prepared (2T125-17 to 126-7). The aliquots are then placed into a pass through area, which is a secured storage area (2T61-7, P-11, page 22). The chain of custody log for load 0810001 indicates that Ms. Devany placed the aliquots for that load in the pass through area on August 10, 1995 (P-11, page 22).

Before the actual testing of the donor samples the GC/MS instrument was tested for proper functioning on August 10, 1995 at 4:12 p.m. In Ms. Mills' opinion, the "Autotune Report" generated at that time indicated that the instrument was operating properly and was ready for operation (2T71-22 to 72-13, P-11, page 28). Respondent offered no conflicting expert opinion on the proper operation of the GC/MS instrument. Accordingly, I FIND that the GC/MS instrument was operating properly and ready for operation. Prior to the injection of donor samples into the GC/MS instrument, there are a number of calibration and control injections made to calibrate the instrument (2T62-25 to 63-3). For load 0810001 on August 10, 1995, the first injection (i.e. vial 1) was an "unextracted standard," a solution containing cocaine metabolite to check the chromatography and ensure that the instrument is acceptable for use (2T87-7 to 88-7, P-11, page 23, R-3). Vials 2, 3 and 4 were "calibrators" used to establish a calibration curve (2T73-13 to 79-5, P-11, pages 23, 30 to 35, R-3). It should be noted that on the worklist for the load to be tested, the calibrator vials were listed as sequence numbers 1, 2 and 3, (P-11, page 23), while on the data sheets from the actual GC/MS run they are listed as vials 2, 3 and 4 (P-11, pages 30 to 35). Ms. Mills explained that the "sequencing on the work list is not the same as the injection sequence on the instrument" (2T73-16). In this instance, the worklist did not include the "unextracted standard" described above and injected as vial 1 (P-11, page 23).

The fifth vial injected into the instrument on this load was a "negative" control (2T80-6 to 8, P-11, page 23). As with the calibrator vials, there is a difference in the sequence number for the negative control on the worklist (sequence number 4) and its vial number on the data sheets from the actual GC/MS run (vial number 5) as a result of vial number one being used for the "unextracted standard" (compare P-11, page 23 with P-11, page 37). Vials 6 and 7 were additional control injections to ensure the correct operation of the GC/MS instrument (2T83-5 to 85-7, R-3). Again, as with the previous vials, the sequence numbers of these control injections on the worklist (sequence numbers 5 and 6) were one lower than their vial numbers as a result of the "unextracted standard" injected as vial number one and not included on the worklist (compare P-11, page 23 with P-11, pages 39 to 42).

In Ms. Mills' opinion the results obtained from injecting vials one through seven indicated that the instrument "was functionally acceptably" and ready for injection of donor samples (2T85-22 to 24). As respondent offered no conflicting expert testimony, I FIND that the GC/MS instrument was properly calibrated and functioning in an acceptable manner. Vial 8, with the accession number of 377944, was the first donor sample injected (R-2, R-3). As with the previous control and calibrator vials, the sequence number for the eighth vial on the worklist was one lower (seven) than its vial number as a result of the unextracted standard injected as vial number one which was not included on the worklist (compare R-2 with R-3). Vial 9, with the accession number of 3777939, was the second donor sample injected (R-2, R-3). Again, as with the previous vials, the sequence number for the ninth vial on the worklist was one lower (eight) than its vial number as a result of the first vial containing an unextracted standard (compare R-2 with R-3). Vial 10, with the accession number of 377641B, was the third donor sample injected (R-2, R-3). As with the previous vials, its sequence number on the worklist was one lower (nine) than its vial number (compare R-2 with R-3). According to the worklist, the next donor sample to be injected, sequence number ten, was another sample for accession number 377641B (R-2). That second sample, however, was not needed for testing and thus was not injected (R-3, 2T131-23 to 132-1). As a result, the next donor sample, accession number 376709B, which was listed as sequence number eleven on the worksheet, was injected as vial number eleven (compare R-2 with R-3).

The next ten donor samples, listed as sequence numbers twelve through twenty-one on the worksheet (R-2, P-11, page 24) were injected as vials twelve through twenty-one (R-3). The work sheet indicates that sequence number twenty-two was scheduled to be a "negative control" injection (P-11, page 24). A negative control contains a urine sample with no presence of cocaine metabolite (2T69-7). The negative control injection is made to check whether the instrument will report the test as negative. If the instrument renders a positive reading, it is an indication that "carry over" has occurred. "Carry over" means cocaine metabolite from previous donor samples has remained in the instrument. At SB, the policy is to inject a negative control every fifteen donor samples (2T69-17).

When the worksheet was compiled, the fifteenth donor sample to be injected was scheduled to be sequence number twenty-one and the negative control was thus to be injected as vial number twenty-two (P-11, page 24). However, because the duplicate sample for accession number 377641B was not injected as vial number ten, there had been only fourteen donor samples injected at this point. Accordingly, instead of injecting the negative sample as vial number twenty-two, the next donor sample was injected (2T131-22 to 132-8). The next donor sample, listed on the worksheet as sequence twenty-three, was respondent's sample (P-11, page 24). This sample, for accession number 378047B, was injected as vial number twenty-two (R-3). The negative control was then injected as vial number twenty-three (R-3).

In Ms. Mills' opinion, there is no significance to the fact that respondent's sample was listed as sequence number twenty-three on the worklist but was injected as vial twenty-two (2T73-16 to 74-12). Rather, proper identification of the donor samples is not based on the sequence in which they are injected into the instrument but on the bar code labeling placed on the vials containing, inter alia, the accession number of each sample. Moreover, there are two independent reviews by technologists during the process to verify identifying information (2T73-21 to 74-12).

Respondent's urine sample tested positive for benzoyl ecgonine, a cocaine metabolite (2T91-18, P-11, pages 43 and 44). The GC/MS result obtained for respondent's sample was 616 ng/ml, above the cut-off amount of 150 ng/ml (2T89-14). Following the testing, one of SB's Certifying Scientists, David Wallner, conducted a review of all the data and checked all quality controls in order to ensure that all data was interpreted correctly, that all chains of custody were completed properly and that appropriate protocols were followed in the testing process (2T62-1). Mr. Wallner then signed a worksheet certifying that respondent's specimen produced a result of 616 ng/ml of benzoylecgonine (a cocaine metabolite) (P-11, page 50). A laboratory report containing the results of the test was issued by Mr. Wallner (P-11, page 52) and sent to Dayton Family Practice for interpretation by the medical review officer for the Board of Education, Dr. James Boudwin (2T95-14, P-8). Mr. Wallner also completed Step 7 of the Custody and Control Form, certifying that the subject specimen tested positive for cocaine metabolites (P-11, page 53).

As noted above, SB received two bottles containing respondent's urine sample. The primary bottle was used for testing and the split bottle was retained at the laboratory for four months in the event that respondent requested a retest (2T96-6 to 98-4). After the four months the split bottle was discarded (2T98-4). There was some sample remaining in the primary bottle after testing which was kept in frozen storage by SB and was still available at the time of the hearing (2T98-5 to 98-12).

Dr. James Edward Boudwin operates the Dayton Family Practice where respondent's urine sample was taken and he is the Medical Review Officer for petitioner Board. Over the objection of respondent, Dr. Boudwin was qualified as an expert in Family Medicine and in the analysis of drug test results. As with Ms. Mills, while Dr. Boudwin's opinion on the accuracy and reliability of the report on respondent's urine sample was challenged by respondent, his factual testimony was essentially uncontradicted. In addition, based on his credibility as a witness, I adopt the following factual testimony as FINDINGS OF FACT. Separate findings will be made as to Dr. Boudwin's opinion testimony. A Medical Review Officer (MRO) reviews the results of employee drug tests for employers. For any positive result, the MRO reviews the donor's medical history to ascertain whether there is a legitimate medical reason for the presence of the drug. The concept of an MRO is based on federal regulations governing federal drug testing issued by the Department of Transportation. Dr. Boudwin, however, has not taken a federal MRO examination nor is he certified as an MRO. Rather he designated himself as an MRO. In New Jersey, neither certification nor examination is required. All that is required is that the individual be a medical doctor. Dr. Boudwin has practiced as an MRO in New Jersey for ten years.

In reviewing the results of a drug test that is not a federally regulated test, Dr. Boudwin reviews the consent form filled out by the donor which asks the donor to list all medications he is taking (P-2). He received the report from SB indicating that respondent had tested positive for cocaine metabolites (P-7). None of the medications reported by respondent could cause a false/positive result in testing for cocaine metabolites (P-2). Accordingly, Dr. Boudwin notified the Board that respondent had tested positive for cocaine (P-9). If respondent's drug test had been a federally regulated drug test, Dr. Boudwin would have been obligated to verify that the laboratory performed the test properly which usually involves a telephone call to the lab director or head toxicologist (1T77-24 to 78-3). In addition, if the test had been a federally regulated test, Dr.

Boudwin would have been obligated to call respondent and discuss the results with him (1T79-24 to 80-11). Dr. Boudwin did not call SB's lab director or chief toxicologist but rather relied on SB's federal approval from the National Institute of Drug Abuse (NIDA) and his past experience with SB since respondent's test was not a federally regulated drug test (1T91-1 to 91-23). He also did not call respondent but instead checked the consent form for medications respondent was taking because the test was not a federally regulated drug test and there are no state regulations requiring such actions (1T80-12 to 80-14, 88-3 to 4). To Dr. Boudwin's knowledge, although respondent's test was not a federally regulated drug test, SB nevertheless followed federal guidelines and regulations in performing the testing on respondent's sample (1T114-23 to 115-6).

On cross examination, Dr. Boudwin acknowledged that the money supply in the United States contains a significant amount of cocaine resin and that his practice does not require donors to wash their hands before giving their samples (1T108-13 to 108-16). However, in Dr. Boudwin's opinion, having cocaine resin on a donor's hands which could potentially end up in his urine sample would not effect the outcome of the drug test because the test looks for cocaine metabolites in the urine. The only way to have cocaine metabolites in a donor's urine is for the liver to have metabolized the cocaine, i.e., the cocaine had to have been ingested (1T109-16 to 109-25). Nor did Dr. Boudwin believe that drinking herbal tea would cause a false/positive result (1T110-1 to 110-5). Respondent presented no conflicting expert opinion that his positive result could have been caused by cocaine resin on his hands from the money supply or from drinking herbal teas and I found Dr. Boudwin's testimony on these issues convincing. Accordingly, I FIND that neither cocaine resin on his hands nor the drinking of herbal tea caused respondent's positive result. Dr. Boudwin did not physically examine respondent and thus did not observe any signs such as jitters or dilated pupils that would have indicated he was under the influence of cocaine when he gave his urine sample (1T112-13 to 112-23). Nor did Dr. Boudwin ask respondent if he had had any recent nose surgery or anesthesia (1T110-22 to 110-25).

Dr. Boudwin also acknowledged that respondent's urine sample was listed as sequence number 23 on the worksheet but was injected as vial number 22 and that vial number 23 had tested negative for cocaine (1T117 to 118). Dr. Boudwin characterized this as causing some "confusion" (1T128-14). However, "[t]here's still no question" in his mind that respondent's sample tested positive for cocaine metabolites because the machine generated results clearly identified vial number 22 as respondent's (1T123-22 to 124-9, 1T128-16 to 129-7). In addition, in Dr. Boudwin's opinion, the injection of the negative control after respondent's sample rather than before as listed on the work sheet had no impact on the reliability of the test on respondent's sample (1T132-12 to 132-15). He reached this opinion because the negative control injected as number 23 tested as containing 4.2 nanograms per milliliter of cocaine metabolites (1T131-10 to 132-11). Such a low reading indicates that there was no problem with carry over, referred to as "wash out" by Dr. Boudwin, in the GC/MS instrument as a result of the positive samples tested prior to the injection of the negative contr. (1T132-2 to 132-11).

Karl Verebey, Ph.D. testified on behalf of respondent. Dr. Verebey was formerly the Director of Toxicology for the New York State Institute for Basic Research/CCL and the Chief Toxicologist for the City of New York (R-4). Since 1989 Dr. Verebey has performed laboratory inspections for the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA) and its predecessor, NIDA (2T154-20 to 155-10). Laboratory inspectors go into labs and check their total operation against a lengthy check list (2T155-17). They inspect personnel, premises and the testing methods used by the laboratory (2T155-19). They also examine random records of testing for accuracy and chain of custody procedures and administrative errors (2T155-22 to 156-1). Laboratories are spot-checked twice a year (2T156-10). Federal approval of laboratories can be suspended if sufficient errors are found by inspectors (2T157-17). The Board stipulated that Dr. Verebey was qualified as an expert in toxicology and forensic toxicology (2T159-3 to 159-15).

Dr. Verebey submitted a written report in which he concluded that respondent's positive test result was "forensically flawed" and "the entire test of Mr. Benjamin is forensically negative" because the GC/MS > confirmation work list identified Mr. Benjamin's sample as the 23rd sample to be injected into the gas chromatograph. The GC/MS technician made a mistake by mixing up sample # 22, the negative control, and sample #23, Mr. Benjamin's sample. Thus, Mr. Benjamin's sample was injected where the negative control should have been, in the position of sample #22. This mixup caused Mr. Benjamin's sample to follow 11 positive samples without blanks or negatives among them, thus having a clear possibility of carryover of cocaine from previous samples (R-5).

Dr. Verebey further opined that

> The most disturbing issue in this case is that a sample mixup occurred and it was not discovered by multiple review of the data. Furthermore, if such a mixup in the order of confirmation samples can occur, it is conceivable that someone else's sample was injected in place of that of the subject of the record. Since most samples in a confirmation run are positive for the particular drug tested (in this case, cocaine), in the absence of occasional negative controls or blank injections carryover is a clear possibility, especially for a relatively low reading of 616 ng/ml (R-5).

Dr. Verebey reiterated this conclusion during his testimony. In his opinion, the work list for a run "should identify the order in which the samples should be injected." (2T161-13). This is necessary to "avoid confusion" (2T161-4). His concern, particularly with a big lab like SB that performs up to 2500 tests a day, is that not following the work list sequence could result in a mix-up of donor samples (2T161-9 to 164-10). In fact, general instructions given to inspectors in November, 1992 advised that in recent months "there have been several incidents involving mistaken specimen identity" and that a vulnerable area included "procedures for the set up and injection of aliquots on auto injectors" (R-1). Inspectors were directed to "evaluate whether or not the procedures in the laboratory's Standard Operating Procedures provide adequate safeguards to maintain correct sample identity, and whether or not these safeguards are being followed in the laboratory" (R-1). In Dr. Verebey's opinion "in order to avoid confusion, most laboratories follow the work list as an order of injection made" (2T167-7). He further testified that "all the previous samples prior to Mr. Benjamin's sample were in order of that work list [and] it seems to me that that was the only variation" (2T167-9). This testimony conflicts with the information contained on R-3 which, as described above, indicates that other sequence numbers and vial injections numbers changed as a result of the injection of an unextracted standard as vial number 1 (R-3). Dr. Verebey was not provided R-3 prior to the hearing for him to review.

In addition to his concern with the work list sequence not being followed, Dr. Verebey testified that because the negative control was injected after respondent's sample and there had been eleven positive samples injected prior to respondent's sample "the possibility of carry over has to be considered" (2T162-11 to 162-13). In his opinion, the error in the sequence injection of respondent's sample should have been caught during SB's review process and the sample re-extracted and retested

On cross examination, Dr. Verebey agreed that he was "not suggesting that someone else's sample was tested and the results given to Mr. Benjamin" (2T173-24 to 174-2). Because of the bar codes placed on the vials that go into the GC/Ms instrument, at this point of the testing it cannot happen that the results from somebody else's sample would be reported as the results of respondent's sample test (2T174-11 to 12). Dr. Verebey specifically stated that he "didn't see any result mix-up" (2T174-24) and that there was nothing technically that would make a sample different it if were injected in the twenty-second place instead of the twenty-third (2T176-12 to 176-21). In addition, while it is Dr. Verebey's experience that most large laboratories strictly follow their work list sequence in injecting samples, he was not aware of any federal regulations that require such strict adherence (2T180-1 to 180-14). He further testified that he knew of no federal guideline or requirement as to the frequency of injecting negative samples and he took no issue with SB's practice of injecting a negative control every 15 donor samples (2T174-25 to 175-16). Although Dr. Verebey had concerns about carry over resulting from the positive samples that were injected prior to respondent's sample, after reviewing handwritten notations of the level of cocaine metabolite reported for those samples (R-2), he testified that he saw no problem of carry over for the twenty-second vial injected, i.e., respondent's vial (2T177-22, 2T179-3 to 5). However, Dr. Verebey could not attest as to the accuracy of the hand-written notations without the computer-generated results which were not provided to him (2T181-9 182-12).

On rebuttal, Ms. Mills testified as to how the handwritten notations were placed on the document reviewed by Dr. Verebey during his testimony (2T185-10). Based on her rebuttal testimony, which was not contradicted except for her concluding opinion, I FIND that the handwritten notations were entered by a technologist, Domenico Palumbo, who reviewed the computer generated results and marked on the work list whether the criteria was in or out, the quantitative level found in the sample and a P or an N to indicate a positive or negative result (2T186-17 to 187-8). The handwritten results were then reviewed by the certifying scientist, David Wallner, who re-reviewed the computer generated reports and the transcriptions. Based on her supervision, experience and expertise, it was Ms. Mills' opinion that the results handwritten on the work list were the same results actually obtained from the GC/Ms test (2T187-18 to 187-24). Other than suggesting a human error could have been made in transcribing the results from the computer, respondent offered no evidence that such a mistake had been made. Based on Ms. Mills' testimony on the checking and rechecking done on these handwritten notations, I FIND that the handwritten notations of the level of cocaine metabolites found in each donor sample on R-2 are accurate.

As is evident from the above discussion there are no factual disputes as to the detailed procedure followed in obtaining and testing respondent's urine sample. What is disputed are the various expert opinions as to whether the positive test result can be considered valid. Respondent's expert, Dr. Verebey, opines that the change in injection sequence from the worklist invalidates the test. Dr. Verebey also initially at least testified that he had concerns of carry over because of the number of positive samples tested prior to respondent's. However, I FIND that no carry over occurred which would invalidate respondent's test. I base this conclusion on both Dr. Boudwin's testimony that the level of cocaine metabolite found in the negative control injected right after respondent's sample showed no problem with carry over and on Dr. Verebey's cross examination during which he was shown the handwritten notations on R-2, which I have found to be accurate, and agreed that the levels of cocaine metabolite found in the prior positive samples would not have caused a carry over problem.

The more difficult issue is whether the deviation from the worklist sequence invalidates the test result. Ms. Mills and Dr. Boudwin opine that the test result is valid regardless of the change in sequence while Dr. Verebey testified that the sequence change requires that respondent's sample be viewed as "forensically negative" rather than positive. Dr. Verebey may very well be correct in his testimony that more documentation of the reason for the change was needed and that such sequence changes are generally not done in laboratories. However, he clearly acknowledged on cross examination that there was no "result mix-up" in reporting the results of respondent's test as a result of the sequence change and that the computer bar codes placed on the test vials prevent "mix ups" in reporting test results. Based on that testimony, while the sequence change may not have been the best practice, it simply had no impact on the validity of the positive result reported for respondent's sample. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the positive test for the presence of cocaine metabolites in respondent's urine is not invalidated by the change in the injection sequence.

Respondent did not testify nor did he appear at the hearing.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

In addition to the sequence "change" and carry over issues, respondent also challenges the validity of his drug test based on asserted violations of the federal Department of Transportation Drug and Alcohol Testing Procedures, 49 C.F.R. Part 40. Federal procedures said to have been violated include: (1) failure to provide respondent with written instructions setting forth his responsibilities in violation of 49 C.F.R. section 40.23(c)(ii); (2) not requiring respondent to wash and dry his hands prior to providing the urine sample in violation of 49 C.F.R. section 40.25(f)(5); (3) failure to note any unusual behavior or appearance on the custody and control form in violation of 49 C.F.R. section 40.25(f)(8) and (4) using a collection container or specimen bottle that holds less than 60 milliliters of urine in violation of 49 C.F.R. section 40.25(b)(ii). The third so-called "failure" is a specious argument since it is uncontradicted that no unusual behavior or appearance of respondent was observed by Ms. Davis. While it is uncontradicted that "failure" numbers 1, 2 and 4 did occur, I am not persuaded that these deviations from the federal regulations invalidate respondent's drug test.

Respondent does not cite any authority which imposes federal workplace drug testing standards on the test performed on his urine. Moreover, while Dayton Family Practice, to a certain extent, and SB, to a greater extent, did follow federal guidelines, some deviation from those guidelines does not invalidate the test. Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Harry Caravello, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 163, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU), aff'd App. Div., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d 160. As noted by the ALJ, the State Board of Education and the Appellate Division in Caravello, strict adherence to federal drug testing regulations is not required to validate drug tests which are not regulated by the federal government. Rather, the issue is whether the collection and testing procedures used were consistent with reasonable medical office and laboratory practice. As stated by the Appellate Division "there was sufficient credible evidence from which the ALJ could reasonably conclude that the positive cocaine test was sufficiently trustworthy to support appellant's dismissal." Caravello, supra, at 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 160.

In this matter, I conclude that the collection and testing procedures used for respondent's test were more than consistent with reasonable medical office and laboratory practice. As shown by Ms. Davis' and Ms. Mills' testimony, a very detailed chain of custody procedure was followed by both Dayton Family Practice and SB. In addition several checks and rechecks of the results were performed by SB staff. Moreover, the United States Supreme Court has recognized that the combination of a screening enzyme immunoassay test with a confirming GC/MS test, as performed herein, "is highly accurate, assuming proper storage, handling and measurement techniques." National Treasury Employees Union v. Von Raab, 489 U.S. 656, 103 L. Ed. 2d 685, 109 S.Ct. 1384, 1395 n. 2 (1989). Under these circumstances, failure to provide respondent with written instructions and use of a smaller container than that mandated by federal regulations do not suffice to establish that the positive cocaine result is untrustworthy. Similarly, that respondent was not told to wash and dry his hands had no appreciable effect on the outcome of the test because, as Dr. Boudwin testified, the laboratory test was for cocaine metabolites which can only appear in the urine if the cocaine was ingested and metabolized by the liver.

Respondent further contends that federal regulations were violated when Dr. Boudwin did not contact respondent to discuss his test result and/or advise respondent that he had the right to request a retest by an independent laboratory. As discussed above, the federal regulations are not requirements imposed on non federal employee drug tests. Respondent contends, however, that the failure to discuss his test result and notify him of his right for a retest, combined with the lack of written instructions, "substantially prejudiced" him by "prevent[ing] him from requesting a retest by an independent laboratory." In this regard, respondent is apparently relying on due process and fundamental fairness arguments. However, it is undisputed that respondent was advised of the test results (2T149-20 to -23). While the actual date of notification of the test results does not appear on this record, respondent certainly knew of the results no later than the filing of the tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education on September 14, 1995. Ms. Mills' testimony that respondent's split sample was not destroyed until December 4, 1995 was uncontradicted. Thus, respondent had between September 14, 1995 (at the latest) and December 4, 1995 to request a retest on the split sample and failed to do so. As respondent did not testify at the hearing, there is no explanation for his failure to request a retest. Moreover, Ms. Mills' testimony that a frozen portion of the original sample was still available at the laboratory as of the date of the hearing was uncontradicted. Respondent was represented by counsel at least since November 2, 1995 when counsel filed an answer to the tenure charges on his behalf. At no time during the pendency of this action, did respondent request a retest of the original sample. In Caravello, supra, the validity of a drug test was upheld even though the urine sample was destroyed after 30 days. Respondent had a much longer time within which to request a retest. Under these circumstances, respondent was not prejudiced in any way.

Respondent further contends that destruction of his urine sample violated 49 C.F.R. section 40.29(h) which requires retention of frozen positive urine samples for at least one year. Firstly, as discussed above, deviation from the federal regulations does not invalidate a non-federally regulated drug test. More importantly, respondent ignores Ms. Mills uncontradicted testimony that a portion of his frozen urine sample was still available at the time of the hearing in October, 1996, well over a year after the test was done. Similarly, respondent's reliance on Capua v. City of Plainfield, 642 F. Supp. 1507 (D. N.J. 1980); Burka v. New York City Transit Authority, 747 F. Supp. 214 (S.D.N.Y. 1990) and Egloff v. New Jersey Air National Guard, 684 F. Supp. 1275 (D. N.J. 1988) is misplaced. In those three cases the employees were never given the opportunity for an independent retest of their urine samples. In this case, as discussed above, respondent had the opportunity to ask for a retest but failed to exercise that opportunity. Respondent also relies on Franklin v. Office of Court Administration, 2 IER 783 (Sup. Ct. 1987) to invalidate the result of his drug test. In Franklin, the court held that an employer had an obligation to advise an applicant for employment that he had the right to ask for an independent retest of his positive drug sample. Respondent herein was not told by the Board nor by Dr. Boudwin that he could ask for a retest and thus he asserts that the positive result should be rejected. However, I do not find Franklin to be applicable to the circumstances of this case. As discussed above, respondent has been represented by counsel since November, 1995. At that time both the split sample and the frozen portion of his original sample were still available for retesting and no such request was ever made.

Respondent also contends that SB's testing of his urine sample violated 49 C.F.R. sections 40.29(n)(4) and 40.31(d)(7). Subsection 40.29(n)(4) requires remedial actions to be taken when "systems are out of acceptable limits or errors are detected." Subsection 40.31(d)(7) requires the laboratory to notify the federal Department of Transportation "[s]hould a false positive error occur on a blind performance test specimen and the error is determined to be an administrative error (clerical, sample mixup, etc.). . . ." Firstly, as with the other regulations relied upon by respondent, failure to comply with the federal DOT regulations on drug testing does not invalidate a non-federal drug test which in all other aspects was conducted in accordance, as here, with reasonable medical office and laboratory practice. Secondly, even if the federal regulations applied to this drug test, based on the factual findings set forth above, there simply were no errors or sample mixups for which SB would be required to take remedial action or report to the DOT.

Finally, respondent contends that any SB employee who actually performed any part of the testing should have been called as witnesses by the Board rather than the Director, Ms. Mills, and that the Board's failure to do so requires that an adverse inference be raised against the Board. The adverse inference which respondent contends should be raised is that the testimony of these employees "would have been that all testing procedures required by D.O.T. regulations and Capua and Egloff were not followed" (Respondent's Brief, page 37). Respondent's argument is this regard is not persuasive. In a large laboratory like SB where over 2,500 samples a day are tested, it is highly unlikely that any technician would have an independent recollection of one particular test performed over a year earlier. Rather, those employees would have had to rely on the same laboratory documentation testified to by Ms. Mills and which was admitted into evidence without objection from respondent. Ms. Mills, as Director, was clearly qualified and competent to interpret and explain the lab documentation of the test. In these circumstances, the failure to elicit the testimony of other SB employees does not make evident that the Board feared calling them as witnesses and therefore an adverse inference cannot be raised. Caravello, supra, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 163, 166.

Based on the foregoing, it is my conclusion that the positive cocaine metabolite result on respondent's urine sample is valid. As to the proper disciplinary action to be taken, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 provides that no person under tenure in the public school system "shall be dismissed or reduced in compensation . . . except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, or other just cause." Respondent's positive test for cocaine, particularly in light of his earlier agreement with the Board when he was granted a leave of absence to enter rehabilitation, establishes the Board's tenure charges of unbecoming conduct and other just cause, warranting respondent's dismissal from his tenured position as custodian.[2]

[2] In light of the prior agreement, respondent has not argued that the Board failed to provide him with a reasonable accommodation of his drug abuse handicap. See, Caravello, supra; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Alvin Davis, State Operated School District of the City of Paterson, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 595, aff'd Commissioner, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 596.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, IT IS ORDERED that respondent be dismissed from his tenured position with the Board of Education of the Township of South Brunswick, Middlesex County.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

HEARING OF ROBERT BENJAMIN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE	:	DECISION
TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK,	:
MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.[1]

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts from the two days of hearing at the OAL,[2] the Commissioner finds no cause to disturb the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) findings or conclusions. In this regard, he is not persuaded by petitioner's renewed contention that, "in essence," and by application of agency principles, the Board has adopted federal drug testing requirements and procedures as its own because the Board's physician testified that the drug testing he performed for the Board was pursuant to federal regulations. (Respondent's Exceptions at pp. 1, 2) Rather, as the ALJ aptly noted in citing Carevello, supra,

> Respondent does not cite any authority which imposes federal workplace drug testing standards on the test performed on his urine. Moreover, while Dayton Family Practice, to a certain extent, and [Smith Kline Beechum], to a greater extent, did follow federal guidelines, some deviation from those guidelines does not invalidate the test. (Initial Decision at p. 19)

The Commissioner further concurs that the Board has established that respondent is guilty of unbecoming conduct and other just cause, warranting his dismissal from his tenured position as a custodian, particularly in view of his earlier agreement with the Board upon his leave of absence to enter drug rehabilitation. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that

> Protection of the public is particularly vital in the school environment, where a custodian has ready access to impressionable young children who are not under the watchful eye of their parents. New Jersey has an expressed public policy of ridding the schools of the scourge of illegal drug use. The Legislature has recognized the special nature of the school setting by enacting stiffer penalties for drug offenses committed within the vicinity of school property. Such laws are intended "not only to protect school children by shielding them from direct drug sales," but also to immunize students from the indirect effects of drug dealings . (Citation omitted) Larry Hall v. New Jersey State Department of Education, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 46, 47.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Respondent is hereby dismissed from his tenured position as a custodian as of the date of this decision.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination and failing to perform duties against District superintendent. In consolidated matter, Board brought second set of tenure charges against respondent for unbecoming conduct.

ALJ dismissed the first set of tenure charges, finding that they did not constitute unbecoming conduct or insubordination, but, rather, as the charges were related to the Board's dissatisfaction with respondent's performance, as such, they amounted to inefficiency. In that the Board had not accorded respondent the 90 days to improve his performance as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, the ALJ dismissed the charges. ALJ dismissed the second set of tenure charges as having no legal or factual basis.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In the first of these matters having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8591-96, petitioner Board of Education brings charges against respondent, a School District Superintendent, alleging unbecoming conduct, insubordination and failing to perform duties. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on October 4, 1996, for hearing as a contested case. A telephone prehearing conference was held on January 15,1997, and a prehearing order was entered on January 27, 1997, settling the procedures to be followed in this matter. As a result of the prehearing order, the matter was scheduled to be heard on June 12, 13, and 16, 1997. Because of scheduling conflicts, the matter was rescheduled for July 2, 10, and 11, 1997.

In the second of these matters having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4488-97, petitioner Board of Education brought a second set of tenure charges against respondent for unbecoming conduct. The matter was transmitted to the OAL on June 2, 1997, for a hearing as a contested case. The matter was scheduled for a telephone prehearing hearing conference to be held on July 14, 1997.

The hearing scheduled for July 2, 1997, was adjourned and a settlement conference was scheduled for that date. During the settlement conference, certain understandings and agreement were entered into between the parties with respect to a number of procedural issues. The parties agreed to the consolidation of these two matters into a single proceeding and expressed the opinion that the matters could be resolved by way of motion. Accordingly, an Order for Consolidation was entered on August 6, 1997.

On July 14, 1997, the attorney for respondent submitted a motion for summary decision as to the two sets of tenure charges filed against respondent by petitioner. Attorney for petitioner verbally indicated that he agrees to the Joint Stipulation of Undisputed Facts, and that petitioner does not intend to submit a response to the motion or to the Certification of Paul Jablonsky in support of the motion.

The facts in this matter are contained in a Joint Stipulation of Undisputed Facts which is part of the motion for summary judgment (sic) submitted by respondent herein. The stipulated facts are set forth in 23 numbered paragraphs and are as follows:

1. Richard Adams at all times relevant hereto was the tenured Chief School Administrator for the Ocean Gate School District.
2. On September 4, 1996, the Board certified its first set of tenure charges against Mr. Adams to the Commissioner of Education under OAL Docket #EDUTH 08591-96S, and Agency Ref. #413-9/96.
3. Except for set forth herein, for purposes of this Motion for Summary Decision only, Respondent, Richard P. Adams, will accept the allegations as set forth in the first set of charges as certified to the Commissioner as true.
4. Prior to the filing of the within charges, Richard P. Adams filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board illegally reduced his compensation.
5. By order of the Honorable Joseph F. Martone, entered on March 10, 1997, the Board was ordered to restore Mr. Adams' compensation to its previous level.
6. The parties have a long-standing history of differences in ideas as to the management of the school district as well as the extent of the Board's involvement in the operation of the district.
7. Richard Adams recommending hiring of Lynn Adams after notifying her that she would be required to obtain a county emergency certificate to perform counseling services.
8. While Mr. Adams was not certified to counsel special education students upon her hiring, she was certified as a Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant (LDTC) and, thus, qualified to perform all relevant services in the latter capacity.
9. Ms. Adams was the only individual who applied for the LDTC position for the 1995-96 school year, there was not other individual on staff qualified to perform LDTC services during the school year. For that reason, a situation was created requiring the immediate hiring of someone with LDTC certification.
10. Other members of the child study team were qualified to perform counseling services while Ms. Adams' emergency certificate was pending.

11. Notwithstanding the above, Mr. Adams decided to terminate Lynn Adams after review of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-14 with the Board attorney.
12. After notifying Ms. Adams that her services would be terminated, Mr. Adams placed the termination on the agenda. However, that item was removed from the Board's agenda.
13. With regard to charge number 10, though individual members of the Board directed Mr. Adams to provide a written report as to certain allegations raised by the parent, although there is no indication in the minutes of any meeting that the Board formally voted to so direct Mr. Adams.
14. The Board collectively, and through the directive of individual members, repeatedly informed Mr. Adams of the Board's desire for a bi-monthly newsletter, and Mr. Adams informed the members of the Board that he did not have the time or staff to prepare a bi-monthly newsletter.
15. Neither party attempted to meet to discuss a solution to their respective ideas regarding the bi-monthly newsletter.
16. As of the filing of the within motion, no bi-monthly newsletter has ever been prepared by any individual or by the Board since Mr. Adams was suspended from the district.
17. Notwithstanding the claim that the special education program was noncompliant, the program, as approved by the State Department of Education, was never found by the Department of Education to be out of compliance prior to the time of Mr. Adams' suspension.
18. During the 1994-95 and 1995-96 school years, the Board did not give Mr. Adams written notice of inefficiency or allow him 90 days to correct his performance pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Mr. Adams received his only written notice of deficiencies in his performance when he received a copy of the first set of tenure charges.
19. On March 13, 1997, the Board filed its second set of tenure charges against Mr. Adams to the Commissioner of Education under OAL Docket #EDUTH 04488-97S, and Agency Ref.#169-5/97.
20. The allegations set forth in the second set of tenure charges all arise from the allegation that Respondent received income from a business owned by Paul Jablonsky.
21. The Certification of Mr. Paul Jablonsky, attached hereto as Respondent's Exhibit A, Mr. Adams never received any financial compensation or thing of value for any tasks he might have performed on occasional visit to Mr. Jablonsky's place of business.

22. The Board does not have any information available to it which documents the payment of a particular level of compensation by Mr. Jablonsky to Mr. Adams. Mr. Jablonsky's Certification indicates that, he never paid or promised financial compensation or any other thing of value to Mr. Adams for hiring his daughter Lynne by the Ocean Gate School District.
23. Mr. Adams did file and sign all financial disclosure statements referred to the Board in the second set of charges.

Additional facts are set forth in the Certification of Paul Jablonsky submitted by respondent in connection with this motion. Attorney for petitioner orally indicated that petitioner does not dispute the contents of the Certification and does not intend to respond thereto.

In his certification, Mr. Jablonsky indicated that he is the owner of Dino's Pizzeria located at 26 and Long Beach Boulevard, Ship Bottom, New Jersey. He indicated that he the sole owner of this establishment and that Richard P. Adams has no ownership interest of any kind. He also indicated that he is the father of Lynn Jablonsky.

Mr. Jablonsky certified that he has been a personal friend of Richard P. Adams for approximately 25 years and that on occasion Mr. Adams has assisted him in doing work in the establishment, particularly when the business has been exceptionally busy or if there has not been enough staff available. Mr. Adams has volunteered his time for this purpose and Mr. Jablonsky indicated that he has never paid Mr. Adams any financial compensation for his assistance or for any reason by or on behalf of the business. He has never discussed with Mr. Adams the hiring of his daughter Lynn by the Ocean Gate School District. He indicated that he did not offer or promise Mr. Adams any financial compensation or any other thing of value for hiring Lynn by the Ocean Gate School District. He indicated that Lynn does not work at Dino's and has no direct knowledge of any payments paid by Dino's to any individual or vendor and has no direct knowledge of the terms under which Richard Adams was present on the occasions mentioned.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides in relevant part that a motion for summary decision:

> . . . may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

Since the language of N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 is virtually identical to that found in the Court Rules governing summary judgment, court interpretations of the rule are helpful in understanding its requirements. Summary decision is a device for expeditiously reviewing the merits of a case to determine if the moving party is entitled to a favorable decision without the necessity of a hearing. See, Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 73-75 (1954); Templeton v. Boro. of Glen Rock, 11 N.J.Super. 1, 4 (App. Div. 1950). As the Supreme Court recently stated:

> . . . [A] determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weight the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial."

Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 540 (1995) citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986).

In order to determine if a motion for summary decision should be granted or denied, the applicable law must be applied to the undisputed facts. Here, where there are no facts in dispute, and where the petitioner has not responded to the motion, it is clear that this matter should be resolved by way of summary decision.

In the first of these matters having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8519-96, the charges allege that respondent Richard Adams was guilty of unbecoming conduct for: (1) allegedly falsely reporting to the Board on or about December 20, 1995, and February 28, 1996, that the District's special education program was in full compliance with applicable requirements when he knew or should have known that it may not have been (charges Nos. 1 and 2); and (2) recommending to the Board the hiring an individual, Lynn W. Adams, to fill a Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant and Guidance Counselor position, while knowingly and intentionally failing to report to the Board that she did not have the necessary certification for the Guidance Counselor position (charges Nos. 3, 4, 6 and 7). The charges further allege that respondent is guilty of insubordination by: (1) terminating the services of Lynn W. Adams without the approval of the Board when the Board complained that she did not have the proper emergency certification (charge no. 8); (2) failing to provide a written report as directed by individual members of the Board of Education (charge no. 10); and, (3) failing to prepare a bi-monthly newsletter for distribution in the school district even though he notified the Board that the school district did not have the staff or finances to perform this task (charge no. 11). Finally, these charges allege that respondent is guilty of "failing to perform his duties" in: (1) failing to determine if Lynn Adams obtained an emergency certification required by law to provide counseling services (charge 5).; (2) directing a sixth grade student be assigned to the Resource Room outside the student's age range (charge no. 9); and, (3) failing to act to bring the special education program into compliance (charge no 12).

Respondent argues that based upon the undisputed facts as well as the applicable law, all of the foregoing charges sound in inefficiency and thus, must be dismissed pending notice to Mr. Adams of his inefficiency, and the providing of 90 days to correct and overcome the inefficiency pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

Inefficiency amounts to the teaching staff member failing to effectively perform his or her duties. Rowley v. Manalapan-Englishtown Board of Education., 205 N.J. Super. 65,70 (App. Div. 1985). In sustaining charges of inefficiency, the Commissioner noted conduct must amount to "inefficiencies and inadequacies' in a respondent's performance of his duties. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Slovney, 84 S.L.D. 1764, 1794. The charges which allege failure to perform duties are, by definition, another phrase for the term of "inefficiency." Accordingly, Charges 5, 9, and 12 are viewed as charges of inefficiency. Clearly the allegations as pleaded attest to the Board's view that respondent did not perform effectively as a Chief School Administrator.

In a review of the other allegations set forth in the first set of charges number 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, and 7, it is clear that the Board is asserting that it is dissatisfied with respondent's performance of his duties. While it must be assumed for purposes of deciding this motion that the allegations as set forth in the charges are true, clearly, based upon the undisputed facts presented, I FIND that the allegations amount to the Board's complaint of the inadequacy in respondent's performance of his duties as chief school administrator.

Respondent argues that the charges of unbecoming conduct are unfounded based upon the allegations presented by the petitioner. It is clear from the extensive case law involving charges of unbecoming conduct that such charges are successful when the respondent has committed offenses that are illegal, immoral, or otherwise shocking and offensive. For example, in The Tenure Hearing of Horowitz, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 232 (March 1, 1993), charges which amounted to unbecoming conduct against a superintendent of schools included yelling and shaking respondent's hand in the face of a senior citizen, disrupting a board meeting by loudly voicing negative comments about the Board, giving false testimony in a hearing before the Office of Administrative Law. For other examples of unbecoming conduct see In re Tenure Hearing of Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302 and In re Tenure Hearing of McIntyre, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 718 (both holding that possession of a controlled dangerous substance by a teaching staff member constitutes unbecoming conduct even if possession occurs off of school grounds); In re Tenure Hearing of Powers, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 508 (employee guilty of unbecoming conduct where employee performed duties as volunteer fireman while on leave due to an injury under Workers' Compensation); Parsippany-Troy Hills Board of Educ. v. Molinaro, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 268 (employee dismissed due to unbecoming conduct where he was convicted of petty disorderly offense of making harassing phone calls off of school grounds where calls were harassing and contained graphic sexual references and implied threats); In re Tenure Hearing of Gilbert, 1982 S.L.D. 274 (unbecoming conduct found where teacher displayed constant negativity and insensitivity in dealing with students); Johnston v. Newark, 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 439 (physical and mental abuse of students constitutes unbecoming conduct).

There are no reported cases in which charges of unbecoming conduct were sustained when the conduct at issue amounted to a difference of opinion between the Board and an administrator over management decisions. However, the charges against respondent do, on their face, amount to a dissatisfaction on the part of the Board with the management decisions of the respondent as the chief school administrator. As such, even if these charges are true, they do not constitute unbecoming conduct, and I so FIND.

As to the charges of insubordination, upon review of the evidence presented by the Board, it is clear that they also amount to a difference of opinion as to the management decisions between the Board and the chief school administrator. For example, with regard to charge 8, the facts indicated that, upon review of the relevant law with the Board attorney, it was Mr. Adams' belief that Lynn Adams should be terminated immediately. He sent her notice of termination, and placed this action on the agenda to notify the Board at the next meeting. It is also undisputed that the Board was not notified of this action because the Business Administrator removed the item from the agenda. See Board's Exhibit F, attached to its first set of charges at p. 1774. This could not be considered insubordination as the Board never gave respondent any directive with regard to this matter. Further, he attempted to discuss this action with the Board at its next meeting only to have the Business Administrator remove the item from the agenda. Thus, it is clear that, while the Board was dissatisfied with the manner in which the termination of Lynn Adams was handled, the actions by respondent neither amounted to insubordination nor exceeded the authority of respondent. Thus, I FIND that this charge likewise sounds in inefficiency.

With regard to Charge 10, as is clear from the Board's own Exhibit R attached to its charges, the Board never voted to direct respondent to do anything with regard to the allegations which surfaced at the July 12, 1995 meeting. With regard to Charge 11, the Board's own exhibits indicate that on several occasions, respondent attempted to inform the Board that it would not be possible to do a bi-monthly newsletter, and that the principal's report should suffice. Respondent attempted to satisfy the Board's request through the preparation of a principal's report which was distributed at all Board meetings. Although respondent attempted to comply with the Board's directive, the Board was unhappy with the way in which respondent performed this duty. Therefore, since the record indicates that charges 10 and 11 amount to mere dissatisfaction by the Board as to the manner in which respondent performed with regard to these two items, these two charges cannot amount to insubordination. As to charge 10, respondent received no directive with which he failed to comply. As to charge 11, respondent attempted to comply but the Board was not satisfied with the manner in which he performed this duty. Therefore, I FIND that charges 10 and 11 amount to inefficiency.

Assuming that these inefficiencies and inadequacies as set forth in the first set of charges are true, it is the Board's obligation, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 to give respondent written notice of the inefficiency and allow him 90 days to correct the problem with his performance. As is clear from the record, there was no written notice of inefficiency until the Board provided respondent with a copy of the first set of tenure charges. Thereafter, respondent was not given the opportunity to correct his performance. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the first set of charges should be dismissed, and respondent should be given 90 days to improve his performance pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.

In the second of these matters having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4488-97, the tenure charges filed against respondent allege that respondent received compensation from a business owned by Paul Jablonsky and that respondent failed to report this income in his financial disclosure statements. Further, the Board charges that respondent had a conflict of interest in recommending the appointment of Lynn Jablonsky to a position in the district due to this financial involvement.

Based on the Certification of Mr. Jablonsky which has not been disputed by petitioner, respondent never received any financial compensation or other thing of value from Mr. Jablonsky. Since respondent has no source of income related to Mr. Jablonsky, all of the information provided in the financial disclosure statement is true and accurate. There is no other credible evidence which indicates that respondent had any financial dealings with Mr. Jablonsky.

Because the undisputed facts indicate that respondent received no compensation from Mr. Jablonsky, and because his financial disclosure statements are true and accurate, I FIND that respondent had no conflict of interest in recommending the appointment of Lynn Jablonsky to a position in the district. Since there is no legal or factual basis for the second set of tenure charges, I CONCLUDE that they must be dismissed in their entirety.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the tenure charges against respondent in the matter having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 8519-96, amount to charges of inefficiency and, based upon petitioner's failure to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, shall be DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that the tenure charges filed against respondent having OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4488-97 are hereby DISMISSED as having no legal or factual basis.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon his review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge. The record establishes that the first set of tenure charges herein, OAL Docket No. EDU 8519-96, are properly categorized as inefficiency and must, therefore, be dismissed for the Board's failure to comply with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. Likewise, the Commissioner agrees that the Board's second set of tenure charges against respondent, OAL Docket No. 4488-97, must be dismissed as the record does not provide any legal or factual basis for such charges.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein, and the instant tenure charges against respondent are hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought reversal of the determination of the Department of Education, Office of Compliance (Department), that the Board had transportation contract violations. The Board sought restoration of $53,777.79 in state aid entitlements.

Since the facts in this case were not in dispute, the ALJ found the matter ripe for summary judgment. ALJ concluded that the correct interpretation of N.J.S.A. 18 A:39-1.1 and 39-3 can only be that the transportation of pupils to and from school for any purpose whatsoever including, but not limited to, athletic and extracurricular activities requires a school district to obtain bids for contracts for that transportation. Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4 requires a school district to obtain bids for all contracts over $7,500. Thus, the ALJ concluded the Board was required to obtain bids for the contracts herein. ALJ also concluded that the doctrine of equitable estoppel did not apply herein as the reviews conducted in 1983 and 1989 of the Board's pupil transportation practices did not include practices for transportation of pupils to and from athletic and extracurricular activities and those reviews had been conducted by the County Superintendent, not the Department. The County Superintendent never requested the Department to conduct a review and the Department never conducted an audit of the transportation services of the two other school districts mentioned by the Board. Finally, the ALJ found that the Department is not restricted by the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:21-19 et seq. when auditing a school district's transportation contracts and procedures; the Department may audit a school district's transportation records and accounts regardless of whether the County Superintendent requested an audit or provided a school district an opportunity to correct its transportation procedures. ALJ denied Board's motion for summary decision and granted Department's cross-motion for summary decision.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own. In light of statutory authorization and the Department's certification that it conducts audits of transportation contracts and records of school districts that are not requested pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:21-19.5, the Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the Board failed to demonstrate that the Department's actions were arbitrary and capricious or were otherwise contravened by State law. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE MARIE P. SIMONELLI, A.L.J.:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Lakeland Regional High School District, Passaic County (the Board), seeks reversal of the decision of respondent, New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of Compliance (collectively referred to hereinafter as the Department), as reflected in recommendations 4 and 7 of a Notice of Determination, dated October 12, 1994. The Board also seeks restoration of the sum of $53,777.79 in state aid entitlements.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 3, 1996, the Board filed a Petition of Appeal. On September 20, 1996, the Department filed an Answer to Verified Petition. On October 10, 1996, the Commissioner of the Department transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (the OAL) for a hearing as a contested case.

On February 24, 1997, the Board filed a motion for summary decision. On March 24, 1997, the Department filed a reply to the Board's motion and a cross-motion for summary decision. On April 7, 1997, the Board filed a response brief. On April 11, 1997, the Department filed a reply brief and an affidavit. On April 15, 1997, the Board filed a reply letter brief. On April 21, 1997, the Department filed a supplemental certification. On April 25, 1997, the Board filed an objection to the supplemental certification. On April 29, 1997, the Department filed a response to the Board's objection.

UNDISPUTED FACTS

The following facts are not in dispute. I, therefore, FIND them to be FACTS in this case:

The Board has two constituent school districts, Ringwood and Wanaque. The Board provided pupil transportation to and from school through contractual arrangements with private contractors and joint transportation agreements. During fiscal year 1993, the Board also provided transportation to one special education pupil by a private vehicle owned and operated by the pupil's parents. The Board also provided pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities through private contractors. The Board did not advertise for bids for pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities.

The Department conducted an audit of the Board's transportation operations for the periods July 1, 1991 to June 30, 1992, and July 1, 1992 to June 30, 1993. On October 12, 1994, the Department submitted an examination report to the Board wherein it notified the Board that it had found several violations, including the following:

1. A transportation contract was not executed for a route to the Lakeview Learning Center during fiscal year 1992. The route was operated for 92 days at a total cost of $5,244.

2. A joint transportation agreement was not executed for Route S-20 during fiscal year 1993 with the host district, the Ringwood Board of Education.

3. A parental contract was not executed for the transportation of the special education pupil by a vehicle owned and operated by the pupil's parents. Neither a certificate of liability insurance in the amount of $1 million combined single limit coverage, nor evidence of an S-2 or handicapped vehicle registration was available for review.

4. The above were not in accordance with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.1(c) and (f), which requires the approval of the County Superintendent of Schools for all transportation contracts.

5. There was no documentation of solicited quotations for a to- and from-school transportation route to the Lakeview Learning Center with an annual cost of $5,244.

6. The Board failed to advertise for bids for pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities during fiscal years 1991-92 and 1992-93 in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq., thus disallowing state aided portion of total costs in the sum of $25,866.16 for fiscal year 1991-92 and in the sum of $27,911.63 for fiscal year 1992-93 for total disallowed costs of $53,777.79.

As a result of its findings, the Department made the following recommendations:

1. the Board must adhere to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:21-16.1(f) which require the County Superintendent's approval of all transportation contracts;

2. the Board must execute transportation agreements and contracts for all awarded routes;

3. the Board must execute a contracts for transportation by the special education pupil's parent;

4. the Board must adhere to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. regarding advertisement for bids and solicitation of quotes as applicable;

5. the Board must obtain invoices prior to payment and attach the purchase order;

6. the Board must take the necessary steps to recover the overpayment of $2,337.14 for the Lakeland Learning Center route;

7. the Board must refund to the Department the state aided portion of disallowed costs in the amount of $53,777.79; and

8. the Board must provide nonpublic transportation or pay aid-in-lieu-of transportation for pupils in the constituent as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

On November 21, 1994, the Board submitted a corrective plan and an audit appeal. The Board appealed the finding that it had failed to advertise for bids for pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. resulting in state aided portion of disallowed costs of $53,777.79. The Board also appealed recommendations 4, 6 and 7 set forth above.

On October 26, 1995, the Department issued a Notice of Determinations for the audit appeal. The Department reversed the finding that the Board had failed to advertise for bids for pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. The Department upheld recommendations 4 and 7 and the disallowed costs set forth therein. In so doing, the Department determined that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. applies to pupil transportation services to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities and that the Board had violated this statute by failing to advertise for bids for these transportation services.

On November 10, 1995, the Board filed a second audit appeal as to recommendations 4 and 7. The Department issued a Notice of Determination on June 6, 1997, again upholding recommendations 4 and 7. The Board then filed the present Petition of Appeal.

MOTION AND CROSS-MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

The Board relies on a strict construction of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. It argues that it did not violate the bidding requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. because that statute requires publicly advertised bids only for contracts for the transportation of pupils "to and from school." The transportation contracts in question do not involve the transportation of pupils "to and from school." Rather, they involve the transportation of pupils "to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities." In addition, the Board argues that a proposed amendment to the statute supports its strict construction because the amendment specifically includes the words "to and from extracurricular activities." The amendment, thus, expands the scope of the statute beyond the transportation of pupils "to and from school."

The Department argues that N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. applies to contracts for the transportation of pupils to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities, not just to and from school. The Department claims that it always has interpreted this statute to include pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra curricular activities. It argues that this all-encompassing interpretation conforms with the plain language of the statute. The Department also argues that the proposed amendment to this statute to specifically include the words "to and from extracurricular activities" is merely to clarify, not expand, the scope of the statute. In response, the Board argues that if the plain language of the statute is clear and unambiguous, as the Department argues, then no clarifying amendment is needed.

The Department also argues that, regardless of whether or not N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. applies to contracts for the transportation of pupils to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4 requires public bidding for any contract over $7,500. This would include contracts for the transportation of pupils both to and from school and to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities. In response, the Board argues that in the Notice of Determination, dated June 6, 1996, the Department specifically stated that the Board's transportation contracts are not governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4. In addition, the Board argues that even if this statute did apply, with the exception of two purchase orders, each of the transportation routes, which are the subject of this appeal, were under $7,500. The Board, thus, concludes that it did not violate N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4.

The Board also argues that the Department is estopped from asserting that it violated N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 et seq. because in two previous monitorings, the Department had approved the Board's transportation practices for athletic and extra-curricular activities. Due to these previous approvals, the Board believed that it was in complete and total compliance with the law. The Board also argues that it detrimentally relied on the previous approvals in continuing a practice for which it now is being penalized. The Board further argues that it complied with the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:21-19 et seq. It submitted all of its transportation reports and contracts to the County Superintendent for review and the Department approved them through the monitoring process. Since the Department did not notify the Board of any deficiencies, the Board was unaware of any need to change its practices. In addition, contrary to statutory safeguards, the Department failed to inform the Board prior to the audit that its practices were not in compliance and it failed to provide a progressive review to the Board and an opportunity to comply prior to conducting a compliance audit.

In response, the Department argues that during the time of the two previous monitorings, State Categorical Transportation Aid was not provided for pupil transportation for athletic and extra-curricular activities. Rather, transportation for these services was funded with Unrestricted State Aid. Therefore, when the Department previously reviewed the Board's transportation costs and practices, it did not do so for athletic and extra-curricular activities because these transportation services were not part of the State aid category being reviewed.

Finally, the Board argues that the Department must be estopped from recovering the funds at issue because it acted arbitrarily and capriciously in failing to follow the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:21-19 et seq. in conducting the audit at issue . The Board claims that the Department only can conduct an audit if there is a referral from the County Superintendent. There was no such referral in this case. The Board further argues that the Department must be estopped because it acted arbitrarily and capriciously in allegedly not penalizing two other school districts that also had allegedly failed to bid for pupil transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities.

The Department argues in response that it did not penalize the two other school districts because it never conducted any audit of these districts. With respect to its non-compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:21-19 et seq., the Department argues that it is not restricted by this statute when auditing a school district's transportation contracts and procedures.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision may be granted "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law."

Summary decision in administrative proceedings parallels summary judgment in the Superior Court. The traditional concept of summary judgment is:

> [T]o provide a prompt, business-like and inexpensive method of disposing of any cause which a discriminating search of the merits in the pleadings, depositions and admissions on file, together with the affidavits submitted on the motion, clearly shows not to present any genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at trial.
> [Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954).]

Pursuant to Judson, in an administrative proceeding, as in the Superior Court, it is "the movant's burden to exclude any reasonable doubt as to the existence of any genuine issue of material fact...." 17 N.J. at 75.

The New Jersey Supreme Court modified the Judson standard in Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Co., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In Brill, the Supreme Court adopted the summary judgment standard employed by the federal courts and held:

> [W[hen deciding summary judgment motions trial courts are required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential material as required by Rule 4:37-2(b) in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. Under this new standard, s determination whether there exists a 'genuine issue' of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 249, 106 S. Ct. at 2511, 91 L.Ed. 2d at 212. Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not the judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a 'genuine' issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 250, 106 S.Ct. at 2511, 91 L.Ed. 2d at 213. The import of our holding is that when the evidence 'is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law,' Liberty Lobby, supra, 477 U.S. at 252, 106 S.Ct. at 2512, 91 L.Ed. 2d at 214, the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment.

Since the underlying facts in this case are not in dispute, this matter is ripe for summary decision concerning whether or not the Board must advertise for bids for contracts for the transportation of pupils to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities.

N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:39-3 clearly require the Board to obtain bids for contracts for the transportation of pupils "to and from school." The question is whether or not these statutes also requires the Board to obtain bids for contracts for the transportation of pupils "to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities."

The Board's attempt to limit the scope of these statues to include only pupil transportation to and from a student's home to school is illogical. A pupil cannot get to an athletic or extra-curricular activity from school and from the activity back to school except by transportation services provided by a school district. The correct interpretation of these statutes can only be that transportation of pupils to and from school for any purpose whatsoever including, but not limited to, athletic and extra-curricular activities requires a school district to obtain bids for contracts for that transportation, and I so CONCLUDE.

In addition, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-4 requires a school district to obtain bids for all contracts over $7,500. Since the contracts in question in this matter were over the sum of $7,500, this statute required the Board to obtain bids for those contracts, and I so CONCLUDE.

I further CONCLUDE that the doctrine of equitable estoppel does not apply in this case. Firstly, although the Board's pupil transportation practices were reviewed in 1983 and 1989, those reviews did not include the Board's practices for the transportation of pupils to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities. Those reviews also were done by the County Superintendent, not by the Department, and the County Superintendent never requested the Department to conduct a review. Secondly, the Department never conducted any audit of the transportation services of the two other school districts mentioned by the Board.

Finally, the Department is not restricted by the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:21-19 et seq., when auditing a school district's transportation contracts and procedures. N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 permits the Commissioner to assign an assistant commissioner or director, to inspect and audit a school district's records and accounts for any reason. Thus, the Department may audit a school district's transportation records and accounts regardless of whether the County Superintendent requested an audit or provided a school district an opportunity to correct its transportation procedures.

ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby ORDER as follows:

1. The Board's motion for summary decision be and hereby is DENIED.

2. The Department's cross-motion for summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED. The Board's appeal be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE my Initial Decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the Judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE LAKELAND REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and the Department's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the initial decision of the ALJ. In so doing, he notes that the Board's exception arguments essentially recast its position as argued before the ALJ, challenging, inter alia, that the ALJ "summarily" concluded that equitable estoppel was not appropriately applied in this matter. (Board's Exceptions at p. 3) In this regard, the Commissioner underscores the ALJ's discussion on page nine of the initial decision, and finds, contrary to the Board's assertions, that said decision adequately informs " the interested parties and any reviewing tribunal of the basis on which the final decision was reached so that it may be readily determined whether the result is sufficiently and soundly grounded or derives from arbitrary, capricious or extra-legal considerations." State Department of Health v. Tegnazian, 194 N.J. Super. 435, 443 (App. Div. 1984), citing Application of Howard Savings Institution of Newark, 32 N.J. 29, 52 (1960). The Board points to no legal authority which compels the hearing tribunal to do more.

Moreover, even if the Board is correct in asserting that the Department, through the County Superintendent as its agent, "repeatedly approved its practices relating to transportation to and from athletic and extra-curricular activities" in its prior audits (Board's Exceptions at p. 4) and the Board, was, therefore entitled to rely upon that review, as the Department notes, it > may still properly enforce the law and recover the money at issue. Where a government agency realizes that it may have allowed its designee to act in contravention of applicable laws, it is not only permitted, but is compelled, to immediately rectify the fault. Mathesius v. Mercer County Improvement Authority, 177 N.J. Super. 626 (App. Div. 1981). (Department's Reply at p. 4)

Additionally, as to the "retroactive penalty" which the Board repeatedly refers to as being unjustly applied in this matter, as the Department argued below, it is not assessing a penalty but is attempting to recover State aid which the Board was not entitled to receive. (Board's Exceptions at p. 9) The Department adds,

> N.J.S.A. 18A:4-35 provides the authority to the Department [to] review and audit the books and records of local school districts. N.J.A.C. 6:5-1.28 gives the Commissioner the authority to withhold State aid from districts who fail to comply with school laws or State Board of Education regulations. In this case, the Department, as in all such cases, may withhold State aid to recover the amount due based on the audit at issue. Such withholding of > aid is clearly within the authority provided by the above cited statutes and regulations. (Department's Reply at p. 9)

In view of this statutory authorization, and further noting the Department's certification that it conduct audits of transportation contracts and records of school districts that are not requested pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:21-19.5,* the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board has failed to demonstrate that the Department's actions in this matter were arbitrary and capricious or were otherwise contravened by State law.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:

For the Respondent-Respondent, John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey)

The State Board of Education affirms the decision of the Commissioner of Education for the reasons expressed therein. In doing so, we reject appellant's claim that an audit of the Emerson school district, which appellant submitted in support of its appeal, shows that the Lakeland Regional High School District was treated in a discriminatory manner by the Department of Education. In this respect, we stress that while Lakeland's audit was a multi-year audit, Emerson's was a single-year audit.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHERRY HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

Petitioning parent contested Board's determination that minor child, M.M. was not domiciled in the District. Petitioner sought to apply for special education benefits through the District.

ALJ found that although petitioner had residences in Florida and Cherry Hill and conducted business in Philadelphia, petitioner did establish through a preponderance of evidence and the operative law that he and M.M. were domiciled in Cherry Hill and, thus, lived within the District and any entitlements which flow from that fact, for which they were otherwise eligible, must be provided by the District.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own, concluding petitioner and M.D. were domiciled in the District and thus, M.D. was entitled to the benefits afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, so long as there is no change in petitioner's circumstances that would alter M.D.'s entitlement.

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, B.M., on behalf of his daughter, M.M., seeks to establish domicile status in Cherry Hill, so that he may be eligible to apply for special education benefits through the Individuals with Disability Education Act (IDEA) as administered by the Cherry Hill Board of Education.

Respondent Cherry Hill Board of Education contests the appeal, and seeks compensation for past schooling in the Cherry Hill School District.

Today's Initial Decision upholds petitioner B.M.'s claim of domicile in the Cherry Hill School District (the District).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This case was filed in Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the agency head on March 18, 1997. Hearing convened on March 21, 1997, but closed as required by rule when respondent Board moved for recusal. An Order Denying Motion For Recusal issued that day, which respondent did not appeal.

Hearings then reconvened with substituted counsel representing petitioner on May 5, 1997, and May 28, 1997. Briefs were submitted, the last of which were filed in the OAL on June 23, 1997. On that date, the record closed.

ANALYSIS OF THE RECORD

Background:

Why this appeal was brought:

This appeal by petitioner, B.M, on behalf of his daughter M.M., arises from an earlier appeal by B.M. for special education compensation from the Board. M.M. was placed unilaterally in a school in Utah, and petitioner wants the Board to assume responsibility for the costs. The Board has declared that M.M., during the time at issue, was not, and now is not, domiciled in the Cherry Hill School District, and for that reason sought to have the special education matter dismissed. Today's decision only recommends resolution of the dispute over domicile. The power to finally decide this question, it has been ruled earlier, reposes solely in the Commissioner of Education. Until this controversy is decided by the Commissioner, the pending placement appeal (OAL DKT. NO. EDS 0001-97) may not proceed.

The relevant history of petitioner B.M., and his family:

B.M. is a mechanical contractor who owns a business in Philadelphia. The business installs and services plumbing, heating and fire suppression equipment, and during the time in question it was located at 1514 Fairmount Avenue. In January 1997, the business was moved two blocks away, to 1719 Fairmount Avenue.

There are two residences which B.M. owns with his wife, P.Z.M. One is in Cherry Hill, New Jersey, at 402 Province Drive, which he claims as his domicile. The other, also owned with his wife, is in Boca Raton, Florida, at 5572 Fox Hollow Drive. The Board contests petitioner's assertion of domicile in Cherry Hill, and demands compensation for unlawful schooling of M.M. in the past, as well as dismissal of the pending special education appeal. Petitioner also owns some rental properties in Philadelphia.

The history of B.M.'s family life is relevant to the consideration of domicile:

In 1981, B.M. married his first wife, S.M., and in that same year, M.M. was born. In 1984, S.M. died. Eventually, petitioner, his daughter and his present wife, P.Z.M., as well as her two children from a previous marriage, M.T. and T.T., lived at 21 Woodbury Court, Cherry Hill, owned by P.Z.M., across the street from the District's Cooper Elementary School. From there, M.M., who was classified by the District as emotionally disturbed (ED) attended this school until she was ten. At that time, her father sent her to live with her maternal grandparents in Florida for the 1992-93 school year. M.M. was taken from the grandparents by her father after a month because of domestic turmoil, and placed with a Florida couple nearby. Despite the change, M.M. managed to complete the academic year in Florida at another, special school.

Meanwhile, petitioner, P.Z.M., and her two daughters continued living at 21 Woodbury Court in Cherry Hill. Petitioner did travel to Florida periodically to assess M.M.'s progress. Deciding at the end of the 1992-93 school year that M.M. had become too disruptive to remain in the south, B.M. brought his daughter back to the Cherry Hill Schools. He enrolled her in Kilmer School, where she stayed until June 1994.

At the end of the 1993-94 school year, B.M. testified, he decided to send P.Z.M. and all three children to Boca Raton, Florida, anticipating a sale of his business in Philadelphia (as it happened, in the end, the sale did not go through). The house at 21 Woodbury Court in Cherry Hill was sold, B.M. and P.Z.M. purchased the above-mentioned Boca Raton townhouse at 572 Fox Hollow Drive, and the entire family moved in. M.M. attended Boca Raton Middle School during that 1994-95 school year.

In March of 1995, B.M. and P.Z.M. were formally married. Neither he nor his wife adopted the respective children from their former marriages. B.M. himself stayed in Philadelphia at the 25 South 22d Street address during this time, living in a building he owned at 25 South 22d Street. Because she did not like the Florida school, P.Z.M.'s daughter T.T. stayed with petitioner, attending Cherry Hill High School for the 1994-95 school year, with B.M. paying out-of-state tuition. Petitioner recalled that he traveled to Florida every other weekend to be with his wife and the other two children.

Notwithstanding the Florida move, petitioner stated, he was forced to conclude by mid-May 1995 that escalating misbehavior by M.M. compelled him to bring her and P.Z.M. back to Philadelphia, where he could personally exercise control. The other two girls, who both were much older than M.M. and out of high school, remained behind in Florida. Just prior to the beginning of September 1995, B.M. testified, he and his wife purchased the property at 402 Province Drive, in Cherry Hill, and with M.M., went to live there. M.M. began eighth grade in the District's Beck School that month, attending for the entire 1995-96 school year.

The summer of 1996 was not a good one for M.M., petitioner testified, and after failed trials at JCC camp, the Hyde School in Massachusetts, and Red Cliff Ascent in Utah, he placed M.M. unilaterally in Cross Creek Manor, also in Utah, for the 1996-97 school year. She remains there pending resolution of these appeals. B.M. maintains that during the 1996-97 school year and even now, he has continued to be domiciled at 402 Province Drive.

The indices of domicile:

Petitioner's evidentiary case:

Recounting her personal arrangements after they moved to Province Drive in September 1995, P.Z.M. recalled that, from late fall through early spring during every year since, she has returned to the Florida townhouse in Boca Raton. She explained that this was because the cold weather in New Jersey adversely affects her perforated left ear. P.Z.M. stated that, because she is responsible for the payment of all personal bills, they are sent to the Florida address during this time.

Sorting out the various taxes in three states, New Jersey, Florida, and Pennsylvania, B.M. testified that this variety of locations was due to his Pennsylvania business, as well as the bi-location of his wife because of her ear injury and the domicile of her two daughters. He himself remained at the true domicile of himself and his wife, B.M. stated, which is Cherry Hill. He was certain that he stayed there some 340 days per year. He was absent from the State only during intermittent weekend and holiday trips to be with his family. This testimony was supplemented by that of Linda Schneider, a semi-retired next-door neighbor on Province Drive, who saw him at least once a week year-round, and heard his car entering the adjoining garage four-to-five times per week.

Petitioner explained that his voting registration in Florida was by unthinking happenstance, and has been changed to New Jersey on legal advice. His driver's license was obtained in Pennsylvania (he no longer had one in Florida) for business reasons, and in particular to obtain a gun permit to carry a weapon during rent collections from the apartment houses he owns in Philadelphia. The differing leases in the vehicles he owns reflected the business/home dichotomy between Pennsylvania and New Jersey. This was true as well for the various post office boxes he maintained over three states.

Petitioner pointed out that his banking was carried out in the nearby Commerce Bank on Route 70, in New Jersey, and Maria Loughlin, the bank employee handling his accounts there for the past ten years confirmed his regular appearance at least three times per week and more, over that time. Ms. Loughlin added that, like her B.M., her husband, P.Z.M. conducted banking business there too, using their Commerce Bank personal and business accounts. Ms. Loughlin saw P.Z.M. in the summer months, and was aware that she resided in Florida during the winter. She recalled that the couple used the New Jersey Post Office Box address, 3870. The bank had recorded their home address as 402 Province Drive, Cherry Hill.

The Board's countering testimony:

The Board offered the investigation results of its Director of Security, Michael Nuzzo, as proof that petitioner was not domiciled in the District. Mr. Nuzzo, a retired police lieutenant with twenty-seven years' law enforcement experience, noted that he had personally conducted the Board's review at the request of the Director of Special Education programs, made in February 1997, which was unusual, in his experience.

Mr. Nuzzo found that the property record card for 402 Province Drive in the Centura development of Cherry Hill listed both B.M. and P.Z.M. as owners. However, on his two visits to this guard-gated community, on February 27 and March 20, 1997, petitioner was not at home. His message asking for a return call, left on petitioner's answering machine, went unanswered. On one day, an unidentified female, not the guard, but apparently part of Centura management, disclosed to Mr. Nuzzo that B.M. lived there. According to Mr. Nuzzo, she also thought that the couple resided in Florida during the summer months.

Beyond this, Mr. Nuzzo observed, petitioner had no voter registration in Cherry Hill, and there were no New Jersey driver's licenses or registrations in the name of husband or wife. Mr. Nuzzo acknowledged that the DMV record revealed a leased vehicle registered with B.M.'s business, having the Cherry Hill P.O. Box 3870 as the address. As to voting, B.M. was registered in Palm County, Florida, and also was licensed to drive in that state, Mr. Nuzzo disclosed. Although he had never entered the development or talked to neighbors, the sum of this information convinced Mr. Nuzzo that the couple lived in Florida.

Gloria Quigley, a social worker with whom the District had contracted for a report to be used in the pending special education appeal, recalled that she had difficulty arranging a meeting with B.M. and P.Z.M., because repeated calls to the Province Drive answering machine were not immediately returned. However, she recalled that each time petitioner had replied, he was on a car phone, and said he was returning from the business in Pennsylvania to his home at 402 Province Drive. Because of the difficulties in reaching him, Ms. Quigley stated, B.M. apologized, blaming the long hours and constant movement he experienced in running his business.

Eventually, on March 9, 1997, she was received by both B.M. and P.Z.M. in the gated-community home at 402 Province Drive. The hour-and-a-half interview was pleasant; the house itself was furnished, and had a lived-in appearance, Ms. Quigley recalled from her observation at that time.

Finally, the Board presented the testimony of Antoinette Rath, Supervisor of Special Education Student Services, who recalled that a letter addressed to 402 Province Drive had been returned as undeliverable. She did not know why, did not know what was in the letter, and conceded this was the only postal problem the Board had experienced which raised a residency question.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Findings of fact:

To resolve disputes over material facts, I make, or adopt from the record, the following FINDINGS:

1. In accordance with the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, it is the longstanding policy of the Cherry Hill Public School District that no student who is not domiciled within Cherry Hill Township is entitled to a free public education in the township's schools (R-1 to R-5).

2. Petitioner, B.M., is the parent of the minor child M.M.

3. At some time subsequent to June 1996, B.M. unilaterally placed M.M. in a residential facility in Utah.

4. In September 1996, B.M. filed a due process petition seeking relief upon issues surrounding M.M.'s IEP, program and placement, and requiring the school district to assume financial responsibility for the Utah placement.

5. Around the end of February 1997, during the course of discovery in the due process matter, the question arose as to the validity of the M.'s domicile in Cherry Hill, and the eligibility of M.M. for a free public education in the Cherry Hill School District.

6. B.M. and P.Z.M. were married on February 13, 1995.

7. M.M., date of birth December 9, 1981, is B.M.'s daughter from a previous marriage. He has had no children with P.Z.M., and P.Z.M. has not adopted M.M.

8. Mrs. M. has two children from a prior marriage, which B.M. has not adopted. P.Z.M.'s children are M.T., now twenty-two years old, and T.T., now nineteen years old. Both M.T. and T.T. reside in Florida.

9. B.M is self-employed as is the president of American Sprinkler and Alarm, a mechanical contractor and fire suppression firm since 1981, with its principal place of business in Philadelphia since 1983.

10. B.M. and P.Z.M. own rental properties and a town home-villa at 5572 Fox Hollow Drive, Boca Raton, Florida, which they purchased in February 1995. B.M. has a mortgage on the property in Boca Raton and uses a post office box in Boca Raton for that property.

11. In August 1995, B.M. and P.Z.M. purchased a townhouse at 402 Province Drive in Cherry Hill, New Jersey. For the mortgage obtained in New Jersey, B.M. used a Florida address.

12. B.M. travels to be with P.Z.M. on some weekends, and various holidays, during the winter months when she is in Florida.

13. Although B.M. does not own any automobiles registered in New Jersey, there are approximately seven to ten vehicles which are all leased through American Sprinkler and registered here. These vehicles are used by project managers, employees in the field and B.M. He currently drives a 1997 Yukon, registered through P.O.

Box 3870, Cherry Hill. No personal vehicles are insured by B.M. in New Jersey.

14. B.M. and P.Z.M. have four cars in Florida: a Mustang, an Acura, a Lexus and a Nissan. B.M. is responsible for the payments on the Acura. It is registered in Florida and has Florida tags and Florida insurance.

15. B.M. has only one driver's license, issued by the State of Pennsylvania.

16. B.M. produced a United States Individual Tax Return (1040) (P-5) and a New Jersey Tax Return (1040), both for 1996 (P-6).

17. B.M. and P.Z.M. bank at Commerce Bank, Cherry Hill, New Jersey. They have personal and business accounts there. The personal account is held jointly. Their transactions utilize P.O. Box 3870 in Cherry Hill. Nothing is ever sent directly to their home. All statements are sent to P.O. Box 3870.

Conclusions of Law:

Burden of persuasion:

Petitioner concedes that, as the applicant for a benefit (the costs of placement for M.M., potentially) he must demonstrate that he is domiciled in the Cherry Hill School District. He must prove his case by a preponderance of the credible evidence, which is the standard in administrative proceedings, Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Precisely what is needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion, Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power, State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975). Credibility, or more specifically, credible testimony, in turn, must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well, Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954).

These are the standards which, when applied to the record, informed the FINDINGS made above.

Applying the law to the facts:

The law:

Residence is where you hang your hat. Domicile is where your heart is.

This venerable legal cliché has been recast consistently in standard juristic phraseology, without destroying the pith of its meaning. E.g., it has been held that, generally speaking, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercadante, et al. v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970), aff'd., 58 N.J. 112 (1971). Further, a person may have multiple residences, but may have only one domicile at a time; as such, the residence may coincide with domicile, but does not alone determine domicile. State v. Benny, 20 N.J. 238, 251 (1955). Intent is the touchstone of domicile, and the manifestation of a person's intent converts residence from a mere place in which a person lives to a domicile, Ibid. Finally, the question of domicile is one of fact, and must be determined on a case-by-case basis. Lea v. Lea, 18 N.J. 1, 7 (1955).

The facts:

The intent which must be determined case-by-case can only be divined, as here, by evaluating the words and demeanor of the person claiming domicile, and then matching his or her assertions with the artifacts of record which, when evaluated holistically, leave a persuasive impression of true domicile.

In these times, this impression is not easily obtained. It cannot be reasonably gainsaid that in our society people live, work, and travel over a broad geography. For that reason, domestic presence may be identified through a variety of symbols, and in assorted locales: a license in one state, voter registration in another, properties (rental or owned; personal and real) often found throughout the length of their travels. Repeat marriages and the diverse children of these unions are not uncommon, and neither will all the families necessarily be found living together.

Such is the case here.

The record is unrefuted that B.M. has conducted his business in Philadelphia since at least 1981. He continues to do so. For most of the time since then, M.M. has been schooled in the District. M.M. left New Jersey during one school year at age ten because of disruption at home (it must be remembered that M.M. is classified as emotionally disturbed). Notwithstanding, she came back to Cherry Hill and continued in the District for two more years. When B.M. anticipated a sale of his business, the entire family moved south, and for one year, 1994-95, M.M. attended a Florida school. When the business did not sell, she once again returned to the District to complete eighth grade.

As the preponderating evidence reveals, B.M. returned to Cherry Hill to continue to manage his business. It is uncontroverted that, as a consequence of his return, B.M. and P.Z.M. have owned 402 Province Drive in the township since August 1995. For the 1995-96 academic year, M.M. was placed in the District, at Beck School, and she attended from this Province Drive address. The testimony of B.M., P.Z.M., Linda Schneider, Maria Loughlin, and the Board's own witness, Gloria Quigley, are most credible, and corroborate B.M.'s contention that he lives primarily at the Province Drive locale approximately 340 days of every year, and that this address is intended to be, and is, his "home base."

B.M.'s domicile:

There is confusion caused by the various indices of geographical connection: P.Z.M.'s obviously greater involvement in Florida, from where she pays their personal bills; B.M.'s business vehicle leases, diverse post office boxes, and his driver's license to obtain a gun permit, his personal car ownership, voting registration (B.M. now legally votes in New Jersey), and his variously located properties. This confusion is superficial. It is clear that the family survival depends on B.M., and the evidence preponderates that he tends to this duty by commuting throughout the year from the couple's home in Cherry Hill to conduct his business in Philadelphia. The collective circumstances of B.M. are consistent with his intent, and they confer domicile.

M.M.'s domicile:

If then B.M. is domiciled in the District, what impact do P.Z.M.'s extensive stays in Florida have on the domicile of M.M.? The answer is: none. P.Z.M. is not M.M.'s mother. The child was not adopted by P.Z.M. The evidence strongly implies that the relationship is not totally harmonious. The direct attachment of M.M. is to her father, B.M. He continues to assume responsibility for her care. Under school law, the domicile of a child for school purposes is that of the natural father. Bd. of Ed., Little Egg Harbor v. Bds. of Ed., etc., 145 N.J. Super. 1, 12 (App. Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting), rev'd. per curiam, based on dissent below, 71 N.J. 537 (1976) (citing Mansfield Tp. Bd. of Ed. v. State Bd. of Ed., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925)); V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Ed., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286 (Educ. 1980), aff'd., State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1553, rev'd sub nom. on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Ed., 550 F. Supp. 481 (D. N.J. 1982). Consequently, M.M. is domiciled in the District.

Conclusion:

Petitioner, B.M., has established through preponderating evidence and the operative law that he and his daughter, M.M., are domiciled in Cherry Hill, New Jersey, and thus live within the District. Any entitlements which flow from that fact, for which they are otherwise eligible, must therefore be provided by respondent Cherry Hill Board of Education.

ORDER

I ORDER therefore that the Cherry Hill Board of Education record the domicile of B.M. and M.M. as being at 402 Province Drive, Cherry Hill, New Jersey.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF CHERRY HILL, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm, with clarification as herein stated, the well-reasoned findings and conclusions offered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) in a matter which presents a rather unique set of circumstances requiring a finding of domicile for a petitioner whose family has multiple geographic connections. The Commissioner appreciates that such an analysis is sensitive, and further recognizes that "[c]oncepts of domicile  are not immutably fixed and the term 'may have different content and shades of meaning depending upon the context in which it is used.'" Clifton Bd. of Education v. Sauro, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 497, 500, citing In re Estate of Gilmore, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 86-87 (App. Div. 1968). Thus, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that intent, the touchstone of a domicile analysis, must be determined "by evaluating the words and demeanor of the person claiming domicile, and then matching his or her assertions with the artifacts of record which, when evaluated holistically, leave a persuasive impression of true domicile." (Initial Decision at pp. 11, 12)

In so doing, the Commissioner notes that the Board raises extensive exceptions with respect to the factual findings of the ALJ based on the testimony of the witnesses and the credence and weight ascribed to such testimony. However, in that the record before the Commissioner did not include transcripts from the two days of hearing conducted in this matter, challenges to the factual findings predicated upon credibility determinations made by an administrative law judge require the party asserting such exceptions to supply the agency head with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcript. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158 (App. Div. 1987). The ALJ's findings cannot be properly rejected, as the Board so urges, without appraisal of the portions of the transcribed record which are relevant to the Board's exceptions. (Id. at 159) Thus, without such pertinent transcript citations from which to draw his own conclusions, the Commissioner defers to those credibility determinations reached by the ALJ who was in a position to hear and adjudge the credibility of witnesses. See Parker v. Dornbierer, 140 N.J. Super. 185, 188 (App. Div. 1976). Further, the Commissioner finds that such factual findings and conclusions are sufficiently grounded in the record before him, and such record does not provide any cause to challenge the weight ascribed to evidence, nor to credibility assessments rendered by the ALJ. That is, there are sufficient objective indicia, or "artifacts," of domicile in the record to support petitioner's claim.

In response to the Board's concern, as raised in its exception arguments, that the ALJ improperly commingled evidence relating to M.D.'s special education proceeding which has been bifurcated from this matter, the Commissioner clarifies that his conclusion herein is reached without consideration of any such facts or conclusions, as may have been offered by the ALJ, in that they are irrelevant to a domicile analysis. (Board's Exceptions at p. 8)

Finally, the Commissioner observes that, although the ALJ rightfully notes that the domicile of a child traditionally follows that of her natural father (Initial Decision at p. 13), the more obliging, and still legally correct, rule for a changing society is that an unemancipated child's domicile is equated with the domicile of the parent or guardian "having legal control of the child." Sauro, supra, citing Mansfield Twp. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474, 479 (Sup. Ct. 1925). In any event, that person is petitioner.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Having established through a preponderance of credible evidence that petitioner and M.D. are domiciled in the District, M.D. is thus entitled to the benefits afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, so as long as there is no change in petitioner's circumstances that would alter M.D.'s entitlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, September 22, 1997

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Richard Chambers, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, James L. Jackson, Esq.

The decision of the Commissioner of Education declining to entertain the instant request for declaratory judgment is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. Our review of the record confirms the Commissioner's finding that the educational issues raised by petitioner in his request for declaratory judgment also form the basis for a petition of appeal which he filed with the Commissioner on August 14, 1997. That petition is currently pending in the Office of Administrative Law. We note, in addition, that an appeal filed by petitioner from a decision of the Commissioner denying his request for emergent relief is currently pending before the State Board.

Petitioner's request for oral argument is denied as not necessary for a fair determination of this matter. N.J.A.C. 6:2-3.2.

K.B., petitioner, pro se

Steven J. Mushinski, Esq., for respondent (Parker, McCay & Criscuolo, attorneys)

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, petitioner, a resident within respondent's regional high school district in Burlington County, contests the refusal of respondent to provide transportation for H.B.'s attendance at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy of Performing Arts.

Respondent has refused to provide this transportation and petitioner filed the within petition together with a petition requesting emergent relief with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on September 4, 1997. Thereafter, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 9, 1997, for consideration of the emergent relief application. A hearing on the application for emergent relief was scheduled for September 16, 1997. On that date oral argument was considered and the undersigned administrative law judge (ALJ) reserved decision pending receipt of additional information. When this additional information was provided on September 17, 1997, the proceedings regarding the application for emergent relief were concluded.

With certain significant exceptions which are identified herein, the facts in this matter are not disputed.

Petitioner, K.B., mother of H.B., resides in Rancocas, New Jersey and is a resident of the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District. Petitioner is a single parent with two children. In her petition for emergent relief, petitioner indicates that she has always known that her daughter, H.B., has creative ability, and two years ago they moved into the Westhampton Township School District where her talents were recognized and developed. Through a teacher therein, H.B. and petitioner became aware that a high school for the performing arts was opening in Gloucester County, New Jersey for the 1997-98 school year.

K.B. attended a meeting for parents of potential students for the high school of the performing arts and the parents were assured that transportation would be provided by the sending districts. H.B. applied and auditioned for acceptance at the high school even though only 25 students would be accepted for drama. In April 1997, H.B. received her letter of acceptance.

K.B. was under the impression that the Gloucester County Institute of Technology would be arranging with the local school district for transportation. It was subsequently determined that this transportation would not be provided by respondent whereupon K.B. made formal application to respondent herein for such transportation in mid-August 1997. This request was denied despite the decision of the Commissioner of Education in a matter entitled M.R., etc., et al, v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pompton Lakes, Passaic County, Agency Dkt. No. 386-97 (decided July 29, 1997).

Following respondent's denial of petitioner's request for transportation, the Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy for the Performing Arts agreed to provide such transportation to H.B. on a temporary basis until the determination in the present matter.

During the emergent relief oral argument on September 16, 1997, petitioner was asked whether the transportation temporarily being provided by the Gloucester County Institute of Technology would continue until the hearing and final decision in this administrative proceeding, or whether it would only continue until such time as the application for emergency relief was heard and decided. Petitioner did not know the answer to that question and petitioner was given additional time to obtain information concerning this issue. It was explained to petitioner that this question could have an impact on the hardship issue being claimed in this matter.

On the afternoon of September 17, 1997, Victor Morrella, Superintendent of the Gloucester County Vocational and Technical School contacted the undersigned ALJ and left a message that the Gloucester County Vocational and Technical School will continue to transport K.B., but will be charging the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District for transportation and tuition.

K.B.'s employment requires that she work from 10:30 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. As a result, she is unable to provide transportation to H.B. It was represented that it would take approximately 45 minutes, one way to transport H.B. from her home to the Academy. It was also represented that if transportation is not made available, H.B. will not be able to continue at the academy and will be required to enroll in the local school district, and that this is the irreparable harm that would be suffered by petitioner by the refusal of this application for emergent relief. Petitioner also indicated that H.B. will be devastated if she is not given this opportunity to continue at the Academy of Performing Arts.

K.B. also argued the unique nature of the program at the Academy which includes specialized training in the area of drama, speech, dance and the performing arts leading to advance preparation for either employment or college level courses.

In response to this, the respondent school district takes the position that it has no obligation or responsibility to provide transportation to H.B. to attend the Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy of Performing Arts. Respondent admits that it has refused to provide transportation to H.B. but denies that this refusal as in violation of the decision of the Commissioner of Education in M.R. v. Pompton Lakes. Respondent takes the position that it provides a drama program within the school district which is available to all students, including first year students. Respondent employs a full-time drama teacher and courses include theater preparation, speech and communication and performance of the arts. Thus, respondent argues that there is a clear factual dispute as to whether the Gloucester County program and the program of respondent are comparable, and that this issue can only be decided as a result of a full hearing.

In addition, attorney for respondent argues that there is some question whether an academy for the performing arts is a vocational school program requiring a local school district to provide transportation for a student's attendance.

In addition, respondent argues that if the Gloucester County School has agreed to provide transportation to petitioner during the pendency of the hearing, there is no hardship shown which would entitle petitioner to emergent relief, and that the application should be denied.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The standard for granting or denying emergency relief is set forth at N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6(e) and (f). This provides that where circumstances require some immediate action to preserve the subject matter of the application pending a hearing, an order granting temporary relief may be issued. It further provides that it shall include a finding that immediate and irreparable harm will probably result before adequate notice can be given, that the relief must be based on the likelihood that the moving party will prevail when the application is fully argued by all parties, and must be as limited in scope and as temporary as is possible.

The standards applicable to a request for emergency relief in administrative proceedings are analogous to those applied in New Jersey Courts.

The most recent court decision dealing with the grant or denial of emergent relief is set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). In that case, the Supreme Court set forth the various factors to be considered in determining whether to grant or deny emergent relief. These may be summarized as follows:

1. The relief should not be granted except when necessary to prevent irreparable harm, or harm for which there is no adequate legal remedy. In certain circumstances, severe personal inconvenience may constitute irreparable harm.
2. The relief should not be granted when the legal right underlying the applicant's claim is unsettled.
3. The applicant for relief must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits, but mere doubt as to the validity of the claim is not an adequate basis for refusing to maintain the status quo.
4. The relative hardship to the parties in granting or denying relief must be considered.

In the present matter, the irreparable harm being claimed in this matter is the inability of H.B. to remain at the Gloucester County Academy if transportation is not provided. Petitioner is a single parent and does not have the means to provide transportation unilaterally. This is not a situation where she would be able to pay for the cost of transportation and seek reimbursement from respondent in the event it is subsequently determined that respondent is responsible for providing such transportation. In addition, petitioner would lose the ability to remain at the academy for the school year if she were not provided with this transportation. I FIND that K.B. will not be able to provide the transportation on her own because of her work schedule. I also FIND that when weighed one against the other, the relative hardship to the parties is such that it weighs more heavily on petitioner. While the expense of providing transportation to H.B. would be significant, the overall burden and hardship on respondent would be much less than that on petitioner. However, in view of the apparent fact that the Gloucester County Vocational Technical School will continue to provide transportation pending the disposition of this matter, I FIND that the relief requested by petitioner is not necessary to prevent irreparable harm

Another difficulty I have with petitioner's application is with respect to whether respondent has the legal obligation to provide transportation and whether petitioner has a reasonable probability of ultimately succeeding on the merits. Respondent asserts that it has a comparable program of performing arts within the high school district and that H.B. is able to attend this comparable program without the necessity of proving transportation and the tuition cost associated with the Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy. Even though the petitioner read into the record from the curriculum for the new program at the Gloucester County Academy, there is simply insufficient information on the record upon which I am able to make a determination whether or not there is a comparable program within the local school district. Accordingly, I FIND that I am unable to determine whether petitioner has a reasonable probability of ultimately succeeding on the merits with respect to the criteria and requirements which are set forth in M.R. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pompton Lakes. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that I must deny petitioner's application for emergent relief.

Following the guidance given by the Commissioner of Education in the M.R. case, I FIND that the issues raised in this matter are appropriately decided through an expedited hearing and decision on the merits. Because, I am unable to make this determination based on the existing record, I FIND and CONCLUDE that a plenary hearing with respect to these issues should be scheduled on an expedited basis.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by Commissioner of Education who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, including the audiotape of proceedings before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and the Order on Motion for Emergent Relief of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's denial of emergent relief herein, pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, supra, in that, because the Gloucester County Vocational Technical School will continue to provide transportation to H.B., pending the disposition of this matter on its merits, he agrees that the relief requested by petitioner is not necessary to prevent irreparable harm.

It is noted that this matter is scheduled for plenary hearing on October 22, 1997, to resolve the issue of whether the drama program offered by the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District is a comparable program to that available at Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy of the Performing Arts. Although the record additionally indicates that the Board raises a question as to whether the Performing Arts Program offered by the Gloucester County Institute falls within the scope of vocational education as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1, the Commissioner takes judicial notice of the program's inclusion in the Department of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs (DOE Publication PTM No. 1123.00, Revised 1995), reflecting its status as a DOE approved trade and industrial program.* As such, it is clearly within the purview of the cited statutory provisions and, therefore, there is no necessity for resolution of this question at the plenary hearing. Additionally, in reviewing the Directory, the Commissioner notes that the program at issue herein is the only approved vocational program in Dance and Performing Arts in southern New Jersey (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, and Gloucester Counties).

Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ denying petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and this matter shall proceed to its scheduled October 22, 1997 plenary hearing on the sole issue of whether the respondent school district offers a program in Dance and Performing Arts comparable to the type offered by the Gloucester County Institute.

Petitioning parent contested the refusal of her district of residence Board (Rancocas Valley) to provide transportation for her child, H.B., to attend an Academy of Performing Arts in another district. Rancocas Valley alleged it provided a comparable program.

ALJ found that the Rancocas Valley's program consisted of a first year performing arts course followed by subsequent years of independent study. ALJ found that there is no approved vocational program of performing arts or dance at Rancocas Valley and that Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program. Thus, the ALJ found that Rancocas Valley does not offer a program in dance and the performing arts comparable to that offered by the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), Academy of the Performing Arts. ALJ concluded petitioner and intervenor were entitled to relief requested, respondent Rancocas Valley was to provide transportation to H.B. for attendance at GCIT.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed respondent Rancocas Valley to provide transportation to H.B. for attendance at GCIT. Commissioner reminded respondent that notwithstanding that petitioner only sought transportation costs, respondent was likewise responsible for payment of H.B.'s tuition and, to the extent permitted by law, any imposed nonresident fee.

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

In this matter, petitioner, a resident within respondent's regional high school district in Burlington County, contests the refusal of respondent to provide transportation for H.B.'s attendance at the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT) Academy of the Performing Arts. Petitioner filed the within petition together with a petition requesting emergent relief with the Commissioner of the Department of Education on September 4, 1997. Thereafter, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on September 9, 1997, for hearing as a contested case. A hearing on the application for emergent relief was held on September 16, 1997. By an Order entered on September 17, 1997, emergent relief was denied. The matter was then scheduled for an expedited hearing on October 22, 1997.

At the hearing scheduled for October 22, 1997, the petitioner was not prepared to proceed and requested that the matter be adjourned. This request was granted and the hearing was rescheduled for October 31, 1997, with the understanding that the parties would be fully prepared to proceed on the rescheduled hearing date.

On October 30, 1997, attorney for intervenor filed a motion seeking leave to intervene on behalf of the GCIT. Oral argument on this application was heard on October 31, 1997, and the application was granted with the understanding that the intervenor would not seek any relief in addition to that requested by petitioner herein and that the intervention would not delay this proceeding.

A hearing was held and concluded and the record closed on October 31, 1997.

With certain significant exceptions which are identified herein, the facts in this matter are not disputed.

It was established at the hearing on the application for emergent relief that petitioner, K.B., mother of H.B., resides in Rancocas, New Jersey and is a resident of the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District. Petitioner is a single parent with two children. In her petition for emergent relief, petitioner indicated that she has always known that her daughter, H.B., has creative ability, and two years ago they moved into the Westhampton Township School District where her talents were recognized and developed. Through a teacher therein, H.B. and petitioner became aware that a school for the performing arts was opening in Gloucester County, New Jersey for the 1997-98 school year.

K.B. attended a meeting for parents of potential students for the school of the performing arts and the parents were assured that transportation would be provided by the sending districts. H.B. applied and auditioned for acceptance at the school even though only 25 students would be accepted for drama. In April 1997, H.B. received her letter of acceptance.

K.B. was under the impression that the GCIT would be arranging with the local school district for transportation. It was subsequently determined that this transportation would not be provided by respondent whereupon K.B. made formal application to respondent herein for this transportation in mid-August 1997. This request was denied despite the decision of the Commissioner of Education in a matter entitled M.R., etc., et al, v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pompton Lakes, Passaic County, Agency Dkt. No. 386-97 (decided July 29, 1997).

Following respondent's denial of petitioner's request for transportation, the GCIT Academy for the Performing Arts agreed to provide transportation to H.B. on a temporary basis until the determination in the present matter, but will be charging the respondent herein for transportation and tuition.

K.B.'s employment requires that she work from 10:30 p.m. to 7:00 a.m. As a result, she is unable to provide transportation to H.B. It takes approximately 45 minutes, one way, to transport H.B. from her home to the Academy. If transportation is not made available, H.B. will not be able to continue at the Academy and will be required to enroll in the local school district. Petitioner also indicated that H.B. will be devastated if she is not given this opportunity to continue at the GCIT Academy of the Performing Arts.

K.B. also testified to the unique nature of the program at the Academy which includes specialized training in the area of drama, speech, dance and the performing arts leading to advance preparation for either employment or college level courses.

In response to this, the respondent school district took the position at the emergent hearing that it has no obligation or responsibility to provide transportation to H.B. to attend the GCIT Academy of the Performing Arts. Respondent admitted that it has refused to provide transportation to H.B. but denied that this refusal violates of the decision of the Commissioner of Education in M.R. v. Pompton Lakes. Respondent takes the position that it provides a drama program within the school district which is available to all students, including first year students. Respondent employs a full-time drama teacher and courses include Theater Preparation, Speech and Communication and The Performing Arts. In addition, attorney for respondent argued that there is some question whether an academy for the performing arts is a vocational school program requiring a local school district to provide transportation for a student's attendance.

At the plenary hearing held in this matter on October 31, 1997, Meredith Flynn, Assistant Superintendent at GCIT, testified that she has been employed at GCIT for 23 years. In her present position she performs institutional research and development and applies for grants for funding of programs at GCIT. She has been involved with program development for the past six years. She was involved in the development of The Southern New Jersey Academy of the Performing Arts at GCIT and she identified a Program of Studies for School Year 1997-1998 (I-1).

Ms. Flynn testified that eight years ago the GCIT started to develop this program. The program is designed as a secondary course of study for high school students who are seriously considering careers in dance, drama and radio and television production.

Ms. Flynn testified that the approval process for the Academy took 18 months and fully complies with the requirements of the regulations.[1] The GCIT was required to study the labor market needs and to prove that it will prepare individuals for future employment and occupations in the performing arts. The substance of the program is required to prove that it is preparing students for entering into the career fields of dance, drama and radio and television production. Approval for the Academy was received approximately three years ago.

Ms. Flynn described and highlighted the present elements of the Program, the details of which are set forth in the Program of Studies booklet (I-1). It is a full-time career academy and it is a school within a school. It teaches students who are focused in a particular area. The academy consists of 55 students out of a total of 1,100 attending the GCIT. Two and half to three hours each day are spent by students in dance and drama courses. The academic programs are focused on and geared towards the performing arts and are integrated into the performing arts. All of the students' classmates are other performing arts students. The academic courses consist of English, foreign languages, science, humanities and mathematics. Ms. Flynn explained that the academic courses are applied to various aspects of the performing arts. For example, sciences such as chemistry and physics address aspects of the performing arts, and in mathematics, subjects such as geometry are applied to sets and blocking.

One-hundred, fifty-seven credits are required for graduation from the Academy as compared to the State requirement of 110 credits for graduation from high school. Sixty credit hours of courses of study in the performing arts are required for graduation. There is a separate diploma issued by the Academy.

Ms. Flynn described the application process for admission to the Academy. Students are invited to apply and there is an audition before a panel of performing artists. In addition, early warning test scores are considered. Most recently there were 120 applicants for positions at the Academy and 58 were accepted.

The Academy has an ongoing relationship with professional groups and performers. In fact the impetus for the Academy came from a group of performing artists. This group recommended an Academy which would teach college preparatory courses in the performing arts.

Ms. Flynn indicated that it is not a requirement, but the students are able to attain membership in either Actors' Equity or in the Screen Actors' Guild. The achievement of Actors Equity membership requires 50 weeks of performances in Actors' Equity productions. She explained that there are Actors' Equity-sponsored productions and this means that such productions involve producers, directors and artists who are Actors' Equity members.

Ms. Flynn described the facilities at GCIT used by the Academy. They include a theater in which the scenery is able to be raised and lowered onto the stage from above rather than being moved to the side or back. In addition there is a full dance studio and rehearsal rooms and other facilities. All of the teachers at the Academy are fully vocational certified. This requires seven years of work in a particular career field. In addition, the Academy brings in guest professional artists to teach in specialized areas. Seventy-five to ninety days a year are scheduled for visiting performing artists. She also indicated that the Academy has an advisory committee made up of professional performing artists, talent agents, college faculty members and representatives of actors' unions. The advisory committee recommends changes in the curriculum and methods of improving the work of the Academy. The Academy also employees a paid consultant, Abraham Beller, who has extensive experience in the performing arts.

Ms. Flynn testified as to the recruiting efforts which are made by the Academy. She indicated that the Program of Studies booklet is one of the efforts. Representatives of the Academy travel to various schools seeking talented students for enrollment in the Academy.

The Academy provides both career and personal counseling (I-1, page 7). It is also involved in dialogues with colleges and universities whereby students will obtain advance credit standing in colleges.

Ms. Flynn indicated that students are expected to give three dance performances and three drama performances per year as part of the program of study.

On cross-examination, Ms. Flynn identified the core curriculum required of all students (I-1, page 12). These total 157 credits required for graduation. The electives are any GCIT courses. She indicated that there are three drama productions each year, including one in January, one in March and one in late May. She also indicated that the Academy is not focused towards music because it did not want to duplicate existing programs. It is also exploring an affiliation or involvement with a professional production company in Wilmington, Delaware. She indicated that the Academy theater at GCIT does not have fixed seating but it was intended to be a smaller theater where there were would be more interaction between performing artists and the audience.

Ms. Flynn also indicated that she has reviewed the Rancocas Valley course profile, R-3, and she finds it to be comparable to one part of the GCIT Academy curriculum in the freshman year. She identified this as the dance or drama portion of the freshmen year program (I-1, page 31).

Peggylou Welch testified on behalf of respondent. She has been employed by Rancocas Valley since 1976. She teachers theater, speech and communications and performing arts. She also teaches English courses. She teaches three classes and she also directs plays, participates in the Arts Fest and is involved in local and instrumental music. She testified as to her educational background and experience and indicated that she is a graduate of High Point University with a degree in theater and speech. She holds certifications in English, grades 9-12, theater K-12 and speech and communication K-12. She teaches the Theater Preparation program. The students study four different full-length plays in this program.

Ms. Welch identified the Fine and Performing Arts Program of Studies found in the Program of Studies for Rancocas Valley for School Year 1997-1998 (R-1, pages 6 and 7). She testified that the theater preparation class has as its goal to make its students feel more comfortable, to raise students' self-esteem and self-confidence, and to establish and show that students must work together for successful performances. Students are also involved in pantomime, soap operas and they are also able to use and be involved with a television broadcasting studio.

Ms. Welch identified the Course Profile for Theater Preparation (R-2). She also indicated that the Course Profile for the Performing Arts course (R-3) is an advanced class for students interested in the performing arts. Students are auditioned and cast in a show scheduled for January of each year. They are also involved in one acts, character studies, creation of sets, lighting and make-up. They work with a guest artists from McCarter Theater in Princeton, New Jersey, and they are also involved in various specialized types of instruction such as performing artists who teach theater in combat. She indicated that students are able to take the Performing Arts courses all four years, although the Course Profile (R-3) indicates that it is for grades 10, 11 and 12. She indicated that freshmen year students who have knowledge and experience in the performing arts are able to take it their freshmen year. The course consist of 84 minutes each day, five days a week. After a student takes and completes the first year course, she creates the curriculum and it is an independent study course for students taking it in subsequent years.

Ms. Welch described the facilities at Rancocas Valley. There is a classroom facility and they also have a small theater which seats 100. They are in the process of converting it into a "black box" theater.

Ms. Welch also identified the Course Profile for the Speech and Communication course (R-4). This is part of the Fine Arts curriculum. She indicated that this is a five credit course and she indicated that as part of it she set up a court trial from history.

Ms. Welch also testified that extracurricular actives are also available at Rancocas Valley. These include the Art Fest, a children's show, and an Arts Honor Society. Rancocas Valley also has a concert choir, a show choir, a men's chorus and a women's chorus. Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program but it has "Movements Unlimited" which is an extracurricular activity involving dance. There are five public performances and the chorus and show dance does six performances. Students are also involved in competitions such as the Rider College competition and the Surflight Theater, two or three times each year. Students are encouraged to participate in local community theaters.

Ms. Welch also testified that she has participated in the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation which works with different teachers in the State of New Jersey. There are workshops in which she has participated and these have resulted in a tremendous network of teachers she is able to contact to assist students in the furtherance of their careers in the area of the performing arts.

Ms. Welch testified that the Fine Arts classes are always full, and there is always a waiting list. There is a Thespian Society. In addition, for the most recent play there were 150 people who auditioned for ten parts. She also indicated that there are students at the high school who are on track to take all 45 credits available in the performing arts. The auditorium seats 600 and is a prosthenum theater with a fixed seating arrangement. The television studio is also able to record scenes and students are able to participate in music programs.

On cross-examination Ms. Welch indicated that the Performing Arts course changes curriculum each semester for students taking advanced courses. Each student is able to take Performing Arts for a total of four years. There have been three or four exceptions permitting freshmen to take the Performing Arts course in their freshmen year. In order to do so, that individual student must go through an audition. She also indicated that people having no interest in a career in the performing arts are able to take courses. She admitted that there is no approved vocational program of performing arts or dance at Rancocas Valley.

Ms. Welch testified that she has been involved as an actor in community theaters. However, she does not have an Actors' Equity card or Screen Actors' Guild membership.

Ms. Welch indicated that of the 25 students who took the Performing Arts course in the first semester, three have taken it in the second semester. In order for a student to take a total of 45 credits it must be their choice. No one else teaches classes in the performing arts other than her. Students also take other general academic courses in addition to the fine arts courses. There is no interrelationship between the performing arts courses and other academic courses. She indicated that the musical plays are broadcast and some other activities are broadcast on the local television station. Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program. She has personally encouraged students to continue to take courses but there is no school policy which encourages this. The only services to assist students in pursuing future jobs or careers in the performing arts is the assistance provided by her and by the guidance counselors. She indicated that the fine arts courses are both academically-oriented and career-oriented. There has been one professional actor or consultant providing teaching to students since September 1997, although another is scheduled for this year. Last year one professional actor or consultant came in.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

Before discussing the statutory provisions and controlling decision of the Commissioner of Education, it is necessary to determine the issue or issues which must be decided in this matter.

Following the entry of the Order Denying Emergency Relief dated September 17, 1997, the Commissioner of Education conducted an independent review of the record of the emergent application. In his Decision On Motion dated September 25, 1997, the Commissioner affirmed the denial of emergent relief. The Commissioner stated therein:

> Although the record additionally indicates that the Board raises a question as to whether the Performing Arts Program offered by the Gloucester County Institute falls within the scope of vocational education as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1, the Commissioner takes judicial notice[2] of the program's inclusion in the Department of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Educational Programs (DOE Publication PTM No. 1123.00, Revised 1995), reflecting its status as a DOE approved trade and instructional program. As such, it is clearly with the purview of the cited statutory provisions and, therefore, there is no necessity for resolution of this question at the plenary hearing. Additionally, in reviewing the Directory, the Commissioner notes that the program at issue herein is the only approved vocational program in Dance and Performing Arts in southern New Jersey (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland and Gloucester Counties).

The Commissioner then goes onto to state that the plenary hearing should proceed "on the sole issue of whether the respondent school district offers a program in Dance and Performing Arts comparable to the type offered by the Gloucester County Institute." Thus, this is the sole issue before me.

The entitlement of New Jersey students to attend county vocational schools is initially established by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. This entitlement is further elaborated through a State Board of Education regulation found at N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11, which provides as follows:

[2] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.2, official notice may be taken of judicially noticeable facts as explained in Rule 9 (now Rule 201) of the New Jersey Rules of Evidence.

> (a) Pupils shall be admitted to enroll in programs of vocational instruction offered by district boards of education other than their residential district so long as the resident district board of education does not offer a comparable type of program and space is available for additional enrollees in the programs offered by the receiving district board of education.
> (b) To the extent that space is available, each type of program of vocational instruction offered by the State Board [pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:43-2.1(a), the State Plan for Vocational Education] shall be made available to all pupils residing in the State, and each program of instruction offered by a district board of education shall be made available to all pupils residing in the district or community served by the district board of education offering such instruction.
> (c) Pupils shall be admitted for enrollment in classes and provided instruction on the basis of their potential for achieving the occupational or other objective of such instruction.

As was stated by the Commissioner in his decision in a matter entitled M.R. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Pompton Lakes, Passaic County, (decided July 29, 1997), these enactments clearly establish a statewide delivery system for vocational education that ensures pupil access to such education through a tiered structure that first directs pupils to the local or regional district, then to the county district if the local district does not offer a comparable type of program, and then to schools statewide, to the extent that facilities and students qualify, if a comparable type of program is unavailable within the county district. The Commissioner indicated that the terms of both the statute and rule are plain in their directive that county districts shall admit nonresident students to the extent space is available and students qualify, and that they shall be entitled to collect tuition from the sending districts in which their pupils reside, together with a nonresident fee to the extent permitted by law. The Commissioner concluded that there could be no question that students are entitled to attend, without cost to the student or parent, vocational schools outside their district and county of residence when comparable types of programs are not available within the county. In this decision, the Commissioner goes onto indicate that such right of access of necessity entails a concomitant right to transportation.

As previously indicated, the Commissioner's decision on motion of September 25, 1997, concluded that the performing arts program offered by GCIT falls within the scope of vocational education as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1. I will now address the sole issue before me which is whether respondent school district offers a program in dance and performing arts comparable to the type offered by GCIT.

K.B. testified in layman's terms about the unique nature of the program at the Academy which includes specialized training in the area of drama, speech, dance and the performing arts leading to advance preparation for either employment or college level courses.

The GCIT developed a program designed as a secondary course of study for high school students who are serious about careers in dance, drama and radio and television production. The impetus for the Academy came from a group of performing artists which recommended an Academy which would teach college preparatory courses in the performing arts. The approval process for the Academy required that it prove that it will prepare individuals for future employment and occupations in the performing arts and that there is a need in the labor market for such employment. The program prepares students for entry into the career fields of dance, drama and radio and television production. The Academy was approved as being in compliance with the requirements of the regulations.

The details of the Academy's program are set forth in the Program of Studies booklet (I-1). It is a full-time career academy and it is a school within a school. It teaches students who are focused in a particular area. There is extensive training of students in dance and drama courses, and the traditional academic courses are focused on and geared towards the performing arts, are integrated into the performing arts and are applied to various aspects of the performing arts.

One hundred fifty seven credits are required for graduation from the Academy as compared to the State requirement of 110 credits for graduation from high school. Sixty credit hours of courses of study in the performing arts are required for graduation.

Students are invited to apply and there is an audition before a panel of performing artists and early warning test scores are considered. All of the students are other performing arts students. Students are able to attain membership in either Actors' Equity or in the Screen Actors' Guild if they comply with the other requirements for membership.

The facilities at the Academy include a prosthenium theater, a full dance studio and rehearsal rooms and other facilities. All of the teachers are fully vocational certified which requires seven years of work in a particular career field. In addition, visiting professional artists are brought in on a regular basis to teach in specialized areas. The Academy has a paid consultant, with extensive experience in the performing arts, and an advisory committee made up of professional performing artists, talent agents, college faculty members and representatives of actors' unions to recommend improvements in the curriculum of the Academy.

The Academy provides both career and personal counseling (I-1, page 7). It is also involved in dialogues with colleges and universities whereby students will obtain advance credit standing in colleges.

On the other hand, respondent Rancocas Valley has one teacher who teaches theater, speech and communications and performing arts. She also teaches English courses. She teaches three classes and she also directs plays, participates in the Arts Fest and is involved in vocal and instrumental music. She has participated in the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation and has participated in workshops which have resulted in her having a tremendous network of teachers she is able to contact to assist students in the furtherance of their careers in the area of the performing arts.

The Fine and Performing Arts Program of Studies is found in the Program of Studies for Rancocas Valley for School Year 1997-1998 (R-1, pages 6 and 7). The theater preparation class has as its goal to make its students feel more comfortable, to raise students' self-esteem and self-confidence, and to establish and show that students must work together for performances. Students are also involved in pantomime, soap operas and are able to use and be involved with a television broadcasting studio.

The Performing Arts course (R-3) is an advanced course for students interested in the performing arts. Students are auditioned and cast in a show, and they are also involved in one acts, character studies, creation of sets, lighting and make-up. They work with guest artists from McCarter Theater in Princeton, New Jersey, and are also given various specialized types of instruction by performing artists. However, there has been only one professional actor or consultant providing teaching to students since September 1997, although another is scheduled for this year. for the 1996-97 school year, one professional actor or consultant came in. Students are able to take the Performing Arts courses all four years, although the Course Profile (R-3) indicates that it is for grades 10, 11 and 12. There have been three or four exceptions permitting freshmen to take the Performing Arts course in their freshmen year. In order to do so, applying students must go through an audition and must show that they have knowledge and experience in the performing arts. The course consist of 84 minutes each day, five days a week. After a student takes and completes the first year course, the curriculum for subsequent years becomes an independent study course designed by the teacher.

The Speech and Communication course (R-4) is part of the Fine Arts curriculum, and is a five credit course.

Extracurricular actives are also available at Rancocas Valley including the Art Fest, a children's show, and an Arts Honor Society, a concert choir, a show choir, a men's chorus and a women's chorus. There is also a Thespian Society. Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program but it has an extracurricular activity involving dance. Students are also involved in competitions such as the Rider College competition and the Surflight Theater, two or three times each year and are encouraged to participate in local community theaters.

There are students at the high school who are on track to take all 45 credits available in the performing arts. People having no interest in a career in the performing arts are able to take courses. There is no approved vocational program of performing arts or dance at Rancocas Valley.

Rancocas Valley has a classroom facility and a small theater which seats 100 and which is in the process of being converted into a "black box" theater. The auditorium seats 600 and is a prosthenum theater with a fixed seating arrangement. The television studio is also able to record scenes and students are able to participate in music programs.

Students also take other general academic courses in addition to the fine arts courses, but there is no interrelationship between the performing arts courses and other academic courses. Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program. The only services to assist students in pursuing future jobs or careers in the performing arts is the assistance provided by the teacher and the guidance counselors.

I FIND that the respondent school district does not offer a program in dance and performing arts comparable to the type offered by GCIT. This finding may be made on the sole basis that respondent does not provide any program in dance other than as an extracurricular activity.

Aside from the deficiency of respondent's program with regard to dance, I FIND that the GCIT Academy of the Performing Arts offers a completely integrated program of specialized training in the area of drama, speech, dance and the performing arts leading to advance preparation for either employment or college level courses. I FIND that GCIT is a full-time career academy and it is a school within a school which teaches students who are focused in a particular area of the performing arts. There is extensive training in dance and drama courses and the traditional academic courses are integrated into, focused on and applied towards various aspects of the performing arts. I FIND that this program of studies prepares individuals for future employment and occupations in the performing arts, and specifically prepares students for entering into the career fields of dance, drama and radio and television production. Of the 157 credits required for graduation from the Academy (as compared to the State requirement of 110 credits for graduation from high school) 60 credits of courses in the performing arts are required for graduation. All of the teachers are fully vocational certified which requires seven years of work in a particular career field, visiting professional artists are brought in on a regular basis to teach in specialized areas, and the Academy has a paid consultant, with extensive experience in the performing arts, and an advisory committee made up of professionals in the field of the performing arts. I FIND that the Academy provides both career and personal counseling.

I FIND that respondent Rancocas Valley has only one teacher who teaches courses in theater preparation, speech and communications, and performing arts. I FIND that the Fine and Performing Arts Program of Studies consists of a Theater Preparation course, a Performing Arts course and a Speech and Communication course. The Performing Arts course is an advanced course for students interested in the performing arts, and students are cast in a show, are also involved in one acts, character studies, creation of sets, lighting and make-up., work with guest artists and are given various specialized types of instruction by performing artists. However, after a student takes and completes the first year course, the curriculum for subsequent years becomes an independent study course designed by the teacher. I FIND that this course is comparable to the dance or drama portion of the freshmen year program of the GCIT Academy curriculum in the freshman year (I-1, page 31).

I FIND that there is no interrelationship between the performing arts courses and other academic courses at Rancocas Valley. I FIND that there is no approved vocational program of performing arts or dance at Rancocas Valley, and that Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program. I FIND that the only services which are available to assist students in pursuing future jobs or careers in the performing arts is the assistance provided by the single teacher and the guidance counselors.

In summary, I FIND that the respondent school district does not offer a program in dance and performing arts comparable to that offered by the GCIT Academy of the Performing Arts. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner and the intervenor are entitled to the relief they are seeking.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that respondent Rancocas Valley Regional High School District shall provide transportation to H.B., a resident within the school district, for attendance at the Southern New Jersey Academy of the Performing Arts at Gloucester County Institute of Technology. It is further ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner and intervenors is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board filed exceptions which, essentially, recast and reiterated its arguments presented before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ).

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that the respondent District does not offer a program in dance and performing arts comparable to that offered by the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), Academy of the Performing Arts, and, therefore, petitioner is entitled to provision of transportation to H.B. by the District for the child's attendance at this school.*

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein. Rancocas Valley Regional High School District is hereby directed to provide transportation to H.B. for attendance at the Southern New Jersey Academy of the Performing Arts at GCIT.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* Respondent is reminded that, notwithstanding the fact that the within Petition of Appeal only seeks transportation for H.B.'s attendance at GCIT, Academy of the Performing Arts, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1c, the District is likewise responsible for payment of H.B.'s tuition and, to the extent permitted by law, any imposed nonresident fee.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, September 25, 1997

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 29, 1997

MAR. 1, 2000

For the Petitioner-Respondent, K.B., pro se

For the Respondent-Appellant, Parker, McCay & Criscuolo (Stephen J. Mushinski, Esq., of Counsel and Frank P. Cavallo, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Intervenor-Respondent, Capehart & Scatchard (Joseph F. Betley, Esq., of Counsel)

K.B. (hereinafter "petitioner"), who resided within the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District in Burlington County, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education, along with an application for emergent relief, alleging that the Board of Education of the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District (hereinafter "Board") had improperly refused to provide transportation for her daughter, H.B., who attended the Gloucester County Institute of Technology Academy of Performing Arts ("GCIT" or "Gloucester County Institute"). The Board countered that it had no obligation to provide transportation for H.B., contending that it offered a performing arts program that was comparable to the program provided by the Gloucester County Institute. See N.J.A.C. 6:43-3.11. The Board also questioned whether an academy for the performing arts was a vocational program within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. so as to require a school district to provide transportation for a student's attendance.

On September 17, 1997, an administrative law judge ("ALJ") recommended denying the petitioner's application for emergent relief. The ALJ found that although the relative hardship to the parties weighed more heavily on the petitioner, the relief requested was not necessary to prevent irreparable harm since the Gloucester County Institute had agreed to provide transportation during the pendency of this case. In addition, the ALJ found that there was insufficient information in the record to determine whether the petitioner had a reasonable probability of prevailing on the merits of her claim. The ALJ therefore concluded that a plenary hearing should be scheduled on an expedited basis.

On September 25, 1997, the Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's decision to deny the petitioner's application for emergency relief, agreeing that the relief requested by the petitioner was not necessary to prevent irreparable harm. The Commissioner added:

> Although the record additionally indicates that the Board raises a question as to whether the Performing Arts Program offered by the Gloucester County Institute falls within the scope of vocational education as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1, the Commissioner takes judicial notice of the program's inclusion in the Department of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Educational Programs (DOE Publication PTM No. 1123.00, Revised 1995), reflecting its status as a DOE approved trade and instructional program. As such, it is clearly within the purview of the cited statutory provisions and, therefore, there is no necessity for resolution of this question at the plenary hearing. Additionally, in reviewing the Directory, the Commissioner notes that the program at issue herein is the only approved vocational program in Dance and Performing Arts in southern New Jersey (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland and Gloucester Counties).

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 9.

The Commissioner therefore denied petitioner's motion for emergent relief and directed that this matter proceed to a plenary hearing limited to the issue of whether the Rancocas Valley Regional High School District offered a performing arts program comparable to the program offered by the Gloucester County Institute.

The Board filed the instant appeal to the State Board, arguing that nothing in N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. or its legislative history suggested that the Legislature had intended the definition of vocational education to include the type of program at issue herein.

On November 12, 1997, following a hearing, the ALJ concluded that the Board did not offer a program in the performing arts that was comparable to the program offered by the Gloucester County Institute. Consequently, he recommended that the Board be directed to provide transportation for H.B. to the Gloucester County Institute. On December 29, 1997, the Commissioner adopted the findings and conclusions of the ALJ and directed the Board to provide such transportation. The Commissioner added in a footnote:

> Respondent is reminded that, notwithstanding the fact that the within Petition of Appeal only seeks transportation for H.B.'s attendance at GCIT, Academy of the Performing Arts, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1c, the District is likewise responsible for payment of H.B.'s tuition and, to the extent permitted by law, any imposed nonresident fee.

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 21.

The Board filed an appeal to the State Board from that decision, contending that the Commissioner erred in determining that its performing arts program was not comparable to the program offered by the Gloucester County Institute. In addition, the Board argued that the Commissioner had gone beyond the scope of the petition in determining that the Board was also responsible for H.B.'s tuition.

Since they arise from the same claim, we have consolidated the two appeals filed by the Board.

After a careful review of the record, we reverse the Commissioner's decision and remand this matter for further proceedings in accordance with our determination herein.

We reject the Commissioner's assertion in his decision of September 25, 1997 that inclusion of the GCIT performing arts program in the Department of Education's Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs ("Directory") conclusively establishes that such program is "clearly within the purview of the cited statutory provisions and, therefore, [that] there is no necessity for resolution of this question at the plenary hearing." Initially in that regard, we find that the Commissioner failed to follow the proper procedure for taking official notice of the Directory. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.2, which permits an agency to take official notice of "judicially noticeable facts" and "generally recognized technical or scientific facts within the specialized knowledge of the agency," requires that > (c) Parties must be notified of any material of which the judge intends to take official notice, including preliminary reports, staff memoranda or other noticeable data. The judge shall disclose the basis for taking official notice and give the parties a reasonable opportunity to contest the material so noticed.

In this instance, we can find no indication in the record certified to us by the Commissioner that he notified the parties of his intent to take official notice of the Department's Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs or provided them with the opportunity to contest such material. Nor is there any indication that he informed the parties that he intended to rely upon a staff memorandum dated September 24, 1997 from the Director of the Department's Office of School-to-Work Initiatives to the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes to conclude that the GCIT program was the only approved program in these occupational fields in southern New Jersey.[1]

We stress in this regard that it is well established that the Commissioner cannot consider materials outside the record without divulging their substance and providing the parties with the opportunity to address them. See Edison Township Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Edison, decided by the State Board of Education, September 7, 1994, aff'd, Docket #A-895-94T1 (App. Div. 1996). In Elizabeth Federal S. & L. Assn. v. Howell, 24 N.J. 488, 506-507 (1957), the State Supreme Court emphasized that:

> The determination of the Commissioner cannot be made to rest upon information outside the record in the case before him which the parties have not had the opportunity to meet. This principle of exclusiveness of the record was discussed in Mazza v. Cavicchia, 15 N.J. 498 (1954) and was held there to be established law in this state. We said in that case, 15 N.J., at page 514:
> "In any proceeding that is judicial in nature, whether in a court or in an administrative agency, the process of decision must be governed by the basic principle of the exclusiveness of the record. 'Where a hearing is prescribed by statute, nothing must be taken into account by the administrative tribunal in arriving at its determination that has not been introduced in some manner into the record of the hearing.' Benjamin, Administrative Adjudication in New York, 207 (1942). Unless this principle is observed, the right to a hearing itself becomes meaningless. Of what real worth is the right to present evidence and to argue its significance at a formal hearing, if the one who decides the case may stray at will from the record in reaching his decision? Or > consult another's findings of fact, or conclusions of law, or recommendations, or even hold conferences with him?"

[1] The memorandum was in response to a request for information regarding the performing arts program at the Gloucester County Institute. Along with his memorandum, the Director of School-to-Work Initiatives provided the "pertinent pages" of the Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs—the title page and page 17, which included the GCIT program at issue. He indicated in his memorandum that "[t]he program at Gloucester County Vocational School is the only approved program in these occupational fields in southern New Jersey (Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, and Gloucester Counties)."

> Beyond question the use of expert knowledge gained by the Department is a desirable attribute of the administrative process, but it need not be applied in a manner which is unfair. By taking appropriate official notice of such material and making such facts part of the record and giving the parties fair opportunity to meet, explain or refute it, the Commissioner can satisfy the requirements of fairness and adequately protect the interests of all concerned.

In Edison Township Education Association, supra, slip op. at 7, the State Board observed that:

> "It is a fundamental principle of all adjudication, judicial and administrative alike, that the mind of the decider should not be swayed by materials which are not communicated to both parties and which they are not given an opportunity to controvert." Mazza, supra, at 516....
> Moreover, the Administrative Procedure Act, while authorizing the agency to take notice of generally recognized technical facts within the specialized knowledge of the agency, requires that the parties "shall be notified either before or during the hearing or by reference in preliminary reports or otherwise, of the material noticed, including any staff memoranda or data, and they shall be afforded an opportunity to contest the material so noticed." N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(b).

As previously stated, there is no indication in the record of the instant matter that the Commissioner notified the parties that he intended to rely upon the memorandum from the Director of School-to-Work Initiatives or that he intended to take official notice of the Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs. Consequently, the parties were not afforded the opportunity to contest those materials.

Moreover, as previously indicated, the record before us contains only two pages from the Directory—the title page and page 17, which includes the GCIT performing arts program along with a partial list of the approved vocational programs in Gloucester County. The limited information contained on those two pages does not permit the conclusion that the GCIT performing arts program is the only approved program of its type in southern New Jersey. Such an approach does not "satisfy the requirements of fairness and adequately protect the interests of all concerned," Elizabeth Federal S. & L. Assn., supra, at 507, particularly in light of the fact that the parties were not notified of the memorandum submitted to the Commissioner by the Director of School-to-Work Initiatives, which was the sole authority upon which this conclusion rests.

We conclude, in addition, that even if the Commissioner had followed the required procedure for taking official notice of the fact that the GCIT program was listed in the Department's Directory of Verified Occupational Education Programs, it was not proper for him to construe such inclusion as providing conclusive proof that the program satisfied the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. The record before us is devoid of any information regarding the procedure for inclusion of a program in the Directory during the period relevant to this matter. Nor is there any indication of the basis for the determination to include the GCIT performing arts program or the standard applied in determining to include that program. The title page of the Directory, which is included in the record, indicates only that it was "revised for 1995" and was "[p]repared under the direction of New Jersey Occupational Competencies Project, Northeast Curriculum Coordination Center."

Under these circumstances, in which we are unable to review either the legal or factual basis for the inclusion of the GCIT program in the Directory, we would be abdicating our quasi-judicial responsibilities if we were to affirm the Commissioner's determination to foreclose review of that program without any factfinding or legal analysis concerning whether the program was vocational within the intendment of the statute. See In re Masiello, 25 N.J. 590, 606 (1958).

Therefore, for the reasons expressed herein, we reverse the Commissioner's decision that the Board was responsible for H.B.'s transportation to the Gloucester County Institute and remand this matter to him with the directive that he transmit it to the Office of Administrative Law for such proceedings as are necessary to determine whether the GCIT performing arts program was vocational within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:54-1 et seq. during the period relevant to this matter and for a resultant determination on the merits of the petitioner's claim for transportation. Since the petitioner did not make a claim against the Board for the payment of H.B.'s tuition and the parties, therefore, did not litigate the Board's obligation to pay tuition, we also set aside the Commissioner's determination in a footnote that the Board was responsible for H.B.'s tuition at the Gloucester County Institute. Hence, the Commissioner's determination on remand, in the absence of proceedings to resolve the tuition issue, must necessarily be limited to the petitioner's request for transportation.

We retain jurisdiction.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning clerical worker challenged Board's withholding of his increment for the 1996-97 school year for alleged insubordination and unsatisfactory performance. Petitioner contended the Board's actions were procedurally defective pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

ALJ found that the procedural deficiencies alleged by petitioner were either not proven or de minimus in nature given the facts in this matter. ALJ granted the Board's motion for summary decision dismissing the petition and denied petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision restoring his increment.

Commissioner affirmed the ultimate conclusion of the ALJ dismissing the petition, but for reasons other than those expressed by the ALJ. Commissioner noted that since petitioner was a "reproduction clerk," not a teaching staff member, the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 were not applicable herein. Thus, in that petitioner had made no showing of entitlement to a salary increment, alleged no violation of procedures set forth in contract or Board policy, and did not contend that the Board lacked a reasonable basis for withholding his increment, petitioner advanced no cognizable cause of action before the Commissioner. Petition was dismissed.

RICO PAGE,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,

Respondent.

Keith Waldman, Esq., for petitioner (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Karen A. Murray, Esq., and Yvonne D. Catley, Esq., for respondent (Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 30, 1997 Decided: August 13, 1997

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on September 23, 1996, when Rico Page (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order determining that the action of the Board of Education of the City of Camden (hereinafter respondent) withholding his salary increment for the year 1996-97 was arbitrary, capricious and ultra vires and in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on October 15, 1996 and on October 30, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was scheduled for January 13, 1997. That date was adjourned, however, at the request of petitioner's attorney because of an anticipated settlement agreement. Apparently, settlement efforts did not result in a settlement agreement because on April 15, 1997, respondent's attorney filed a motion for summary decision, together with supporting papers. Petitioner's attorney replied by letter dated May 1, 1997, wherein petitioner also cross-moved for summary decision. On May 19, 1997, respondent filed a letter memorandum in opposition to petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision, together with the affidavit of Leon Freeman, executed May 15, 1997, and the affidavit of Cecelia Brown-Cannon, executed May 15, 1997. Oral argument on the cross-motions took place by telephone conference call on June 24, 1997. Thereafter, pursuant to the request of the undersigned, respondent's attorney provided a copy of the Non-Official Report of the Superintendent of Schools for June 24, 1996 and a full copy of the official meeting minutes of the Camden City Board of Education, June 24, 1996. These exhibits were received on June 30, 1997, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of the within matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner is employed by respondent as a reproduction clerk. In that capacity his duties include reproducing materials mandated by the State, such as the Safe and Drug-Free Schools Student Handbook and the Parent Handbook to be distributed to schools in the district. On May 14, 1996, Cecelia Brown-Cannon, the Director of State and Federal Funding for respondent who is petitioner's direct supervisor, submitted a recommendation to respondent that petitioner's salary increment of the 1996-97 school year be withheld. Ms. Brown-Cannon listed the following reasons for her recommendation:

INSUBORDINATION:

Mr. Page has failed to obey district and department procedures by:

- leaving the worksite without permission
- not submitting log sheets or completed work orders on a daily basis
- duplicating materials during working hours that are not job-related
- not calling in each time he is absent or late
- refusal to do assigned tasks

INADEQUATE PERFORMANCE

- failure to complete assigned tasks

OTHER

- to date Mr. Page has clocked in late 11 times
- to date Mr. Page has 35 1/2 occasional absences

The impact of his actions has caused a back log of material to be duplicated

In support of her recommendation, Ms. Brown-Cannon provided to respondent numerous memoranda which had been sent to petitioner regarding his insubordinate behavior, his absences, and his failure to follow department and district policies and procedures. The memoranda record numerous occasions when petitioner failed to submit log sheets and work orders on a daily basis, failed to call in each time he was late or absent, refused to perform assigned copying tasks and repeatedly left his work site without permission. On his Clerical Appraisal Form dated January 29, 1996, he received an unsatisfactory evaluation. On January 26, 1996, Ms. Brown-Cannon met with petitioner regarding his attendance and inadequate performance. An Individual Improvement Plan was developed to assist petitioner in the improvement of his deficiencies. In March 1996, petitioner received another unsatisfactory evaluation, however. On March 26, 1996, another conference was held with petitioner to discuss his continued failure to complete assignments and his attendance. Present at that meeting were Roy J. Dawson, Jr., Ed.D., Superintendent of Schools; Ms. Brown-Cannon, petitioner, and Ms. Antionette Cummings, CEA representative. At the conclusion of that meeting, Dr. Dawson issued the following directives to petitioner:

What Dr. Dawson said Mr. Page is to Do

1. Give Mrs. Jason and Dr. Dawson a copy of the log sheet on a daily basis.
2. Complete the Parent Handbook by the end of April.
3. Dr. 2,000 additional copies of the Drug Free School Policy.
4. Be at his post as required.

At the time Ms. Brown-Cannon issued her recommendation for increment withholding on May 14, 1996, petitioner had used all of his contractual leave time for the 1995-96 school year (thirteen sick days and two personal days). Petitioner had also been absent approximately nineteen days without pay; he was late twenty-nine days and left early without pay five days. By June 30, 1996, petitioner was absent without pay approximately twenty-six days; he was late thirty-three times and had left early without pay nineteen times.

By letter dated June 3, 1996, respondent advised petitioner that the Board of Education would be considering the withholding of his increment for the 1996-97 school year at the June 24, 1996 Board meeting. The letter also advised petitioner of his option to waive his right to privacy and request a public discussion of this action. On June 3, 1996, petitioner and a union representative reviewed petitioner's personnel file and received copies of the documents related to evaluations and increment withholding. Petitioner did not request that respondent's discussion concerning his increment withholding take place in public, and on June 24, 1996 respondent voted by a recorded roll call majority vote (9-0) to adopt the report of the superintendent of schools which, inter alia, recommended the withholding of petitioner's 1996-97 salary increment.* On September 23, 1996, petitioner filed the within petition of appeal contesting the Board's June 24, 1996 action.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was recently modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or > herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial.". . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

* The report of the roll call vote in the official minutes of the June 24, 1996 meeting is somewhat confusing, in that the minutes recite that the motion was made and seconded to adopt the report of the superintendent of schools, but after each name recites "(Exc. pg. 10 H-1)"; the report of the superintendent which is incorporated in the minutes of the June 24, 1996 meeting, lists "Withholding of Increments" as item H. It is clear, however, from a review of the documents submitted and from the uncontested affidavit of Leon Freeman, Business Administrator/Board Secretary for respondent, that the reference to section H-1 was to the unofficial report submitted by the superintendent of schools prior to the meeting. That report did contain a Section H-1 entitled "H. Appointment-(late item) 1. Purchasing Agent." Mr. Freeman explains that since H-1 was voted down, it was not made a part of the official report and the Withholding - of - Increment section which had appeared in the unofficial report under the letter "I" had been redesignated by the letter "H" in the official report. It is clear therefore that there was a recorded roll call majority vote of the entire Board on the increment withholding where all nine board members voted in favor.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, petitioner's responding papers have not challenged the accuracy of any of the underlying substantive facts. Respondent's submission of the May 15, 1997 affidavits addresses any concerns petitioner might otherwise have had that facts relied upon were not of record. The essence of petitioner's challenge is that respondent's actions are procedurally defective, and there are no facts in dispute concerning the procedural history. Accordingly, the within matter is ripe for summary decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, the statute relevant to a determination in this matter, provides:

> Any board of education may withhold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment, or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education. It shall be the duty of the board of education, within 10 days, to give written notice of such action, together with the reasons therefor, to the member concerned. The member may appeal from such action to the commissioner under rules prescribed by him. The commissioner shall consider such appeal and shall either affirm the action of the board of education or direct that the increment or increments be paid. The commissioner may designate an assistant commissioner of education to act for him in his place and with his powers on such appeals. It shall not be mandatory upon the board > of education to pay any such denied increment in any future year as an adjustment increment.

The standard for review of a local board's action pursuant to the statute is set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960) wherein the court said that "the scope of the Commissioner's review is . . . not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." Id. at 296. Petitioner does not question whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluations claimed or whether it was unreasonable for the Board to conclude as it did based upon those facts. Rather, relying on Schwab v. Board of Ed. of Borough of Manasquan, 1982 S.L.D. 1310, petitioner claims that by merely adopting the report of the superintendent of schools, respondent failed to withhold his increment by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the Board. In Schwab, supra, the Board voted on the superintendent's recommendation of a contract salary list for the 1981-82 school year which included Schwab's salary. Id. at 1317, 1321. The salary list did not mention increment withholding and did not state any reason for the withholding. Id. The Commissioner concluded that the Board had failed to comply with the statutory requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. In the present matter, unlike in Schwab, the superintendent's recommendation was not merely a salary list, but was a specific recommendation to withhold the salary increments of specific individuals. The names of the individuals and the reasons for the recommendations together with supporting documentation were supplied to respondent prior to the June 24, 1996 meeting. When each Board member voted to adopt the superintendent's recommendations, he or she voted to withhold petitioner's salary increment and that vote was done by roll call and was recorded. Accordingly, the within matter is clearly distinguishable from Schwab.

Although it is true, as petitioner states, that the minutes of the June 24, 1996 meeting are devoid of any evidence that the Board members engaged in any individualized consideration of the reasons set forth in the superintendent's recommendations to withhold petitioner's increment, the requirement for minutes to so reflect pertains only to decisions to certify tenure charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, not to decisions to withhold increments pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. Stephenson v. Greenbrook Board of Ed., Borough of Somerset County, 1980 S.L.D. 713, aff'd

State Board, 1981 S.L.D. 1501. Furthermore, the affidavit of Leon Freeman and the supplemental exhibits provided by respondent's counsel upon request of the undersigned clarify that the withholding of petitioner's increment was not contained in the section of the report of the superintendent of schools which was not adopted by respondent (Section H-1 on p. 10). Finally, petitioner's contention that respondent's motion should be denied because it failed to provide him with written notice of its June 24, 1996 action within ten days thereafter together with reasons for the action as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 must also be rejected. When this issue has been considered on other occasions, the Commissioner has ruled that such technical procedural errors will not void the action of the Board where there was a rational basis for the action and the petitioner knew or should have known the reason for the increment withholding. In Marshall v. Southern Ocean County Regional High School District, 1978 S.L.D. 593, the Commissioner noted that "[t]he intent of the notification requirement . . . is to give the affected employee opportunity to appeal the action to the Commissioner." In the within matter, petitioner filed a timely petition of appeal challenging respondent's action withholding his increment. Petitioner had been provided with copies of all of the letters and memoranda recording the facts which provided the basis for Ms. Brown-Cannon's recommendation to the superintendent. In fact, respondent's records reveal that on June 3, 1996, the date petitioner was given notice of the superintendent's recommendation to the Board to withhold his increment, he reviewed his personnel file together with a union representative and received copies of memos related to evaluation and withholding of increment. Petitioner must acknowledge that he suffered no prejudice from respondent's failure to comply with the ten-day written notification requirement of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. This is not to say that respondent should cavalierly ignore this requirement in the future, but under the circumstances, it is an inconsequential omission and should not provide a basis for denying summary decision where the undisputed facts support respondent's determination.

For all the foregoing reasons, respondent's motion for summary decision dismissing the within petition of appeal is hereby GRANTED. Petitioner's cross-motion for summary decision restoring his increment is DENIED. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the petition of appeal is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE and these proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. O. BOX 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RICO PAGE,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF CAMDEN, CAMDEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon an independent review of the record in this matter, although the Commissioner determines to affirm the ultimate conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), i.e., dismissal of the within Petition of Appeal, he does so for the reasons which follow, rather than those expressed in the initial decision.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that all issues and arguments of the parties, and the discussion of the ALJ, are framed in terms of procedures dictated by N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14, a statutory provision which is specifically applicable only to teaching staff members. As the record here indicates that the within petitioner is a "reproduction clerk," the requirements of that statute are not applicable to these proceedings.

As such, given that petitioner has made no showing of entitlement to an increment, either by contract* or through Board policy; has not claimed any violation of procedures set forth in any such contract or policy; nor does he contend that the Board did not have a reasonable basis for withholding his increment, he has advanced no cognizable cause of action before the Commissioner.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL dismissing the within Petition of Appeal is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons articulated herein, and such petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* It is noted that a claim of a contractual entitlement would place this matter outside the jurisdictional purview of the Commissioner of Education.

BEFORE BARBARA A. HARNED ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On July 23, 1996, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Department of Education for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 petitioner is seeking his full salary for one year and restoration of accumulated sick leave and personal leave. He contends that his illness or injury and resulting disability was caused by a work related accident or illness.

On November 4, 1996, this matter was placed on the inactive list at the OAL at the request of both parties pursuant to the State Board of Education decision in Jacques Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, Union County, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134 (1991). The matter was to remain on the inactive list at the OAL until such time as a workers' compensation judge renders a decision on the issue of whether petitioner's injury arose out of and in the course of his employment. On May 6, 1997, a second order of inactivity, continuing the case on the inactive list was issued.

By letter dated May 15, 1997 counsel for respondent notified the OAL that the worker's compensation petition was dismissed on April 17, 1997 for lack of prosecution. A telephone conference call was held on June 16, 1997 at which time both parties agreed that this matter should be removed from the inactive list and that respondent would file a motion to dismiss the case within thirty days. An order removing the case from the inactive list was entered on June 18, 1997. On July 8, 1997, respondent Board filed a motion to dismiss. No opposing papers were filed by petitioner.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS

In the absence of any opposing papers, the following facts are undisputed and are adopted as FINDINGS OF FACT. Petitioner filed a claim for workers' compensation, alleging that his illness or injury and resulting disability was caused by a work related accident or illness. However, that claim was dismissed on April 17, 1997 for lack of prosecution because petitioner had not answered interrogatories nor appeared for required medical examinations.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 provides as follows:

> [w]henever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in > the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or in the accumulated sick leave provided in sections 18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation, of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.

In Jacques Vernert, supra, the State Board of Education held that the "[t]he question of whether an injury 'arose out of and in the course of employment' within the meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 is controlled by the standards established under the Workers' Compensation Act. 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) at 134. In such cases, the "State Board has held that the Commissioner of Education should refrain from exercising his jurisdiction pending a determination of that issue by the Division of Workers' Compensation." Id. at 135. While the Commissioner may decide to refrain from acting until a determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation, a petitioner is nevertheless required to file his petition under the school law with the Commissioner of Education within the 90 day filing period provided for by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. Accordingly, the State Board concluded in Verneret that "the proper course for the Commissioner to follow when he confronts [such] a case . . . is to hold the matter in abeyance, rather than to dismiss the petition, while awaiting the determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation." Ibid.

Both the statutory provisions and the decision in Verneret envision that a petitioner seeking an award pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 will in fact present a Workers' Compensation claim and prosecute same. Petitioner cannot be awarded any damages under 18A:30-2.1 until the compensation claim has been determined because under the statute the Board is entitled to a reduction for the Workers' Compensation award made for temporary disability and because under Vernet the question of whether the injury arose out of and in the course of his employment is to be determined by a proceeding in the Division of Workers' Compensation. As petitioner has voluntarily chosen not to pursue his Workers' Compensation claim, his claim under the school law sick leave statute will be dismissed with prejudice.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, IT IS ORDERED that the petition in this matter BE DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon his review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that, as petitioner has elected not to pursue his Workers' Compensation claim, his within claim under the school law sick leave statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, must be dismissed.*

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly stated therein, and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

RODERICK N. WALKER,
Petitioner,
v.
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,
Respondent

Roderick N. Walker, petitioner, pro se

Appearance without personal representation for respondent, pursuant to *N.J.A.C.*1:1-5.6

Record Closed: August 5, 1997 Decided: August 12, 1997

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This is an appeal by the petitioner, Roderick N. Walker, from a determination by the respondent, disqualifying him from employment as a custodial/maintenance worker for the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Center, following receipt of a record of criminal conviction, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In April 1996 the Passaic County Cerebral Palsy Center (Center), a facility under the supervision of the New Jersey State Department of Education requested a criminal history background check on the petitioner, an applicant for employment as a custodial/maintenance worker. Petitioner was accepted and had begun working.

The Office of Criminal History Review returned advice to the Center and to the petitioner indicating that a fingerprint search through the New Jersey State Police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation revealed a criminal record that would disqualify the petitioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, from continued employment in the position for any school or other institution under the supervision of the Department of Education.

The petitioner was advised that he had 30 days from the date of the written notice sent to him (April 16, 1996) to appeal the decision by filing a petition with the Commissioner of Education in accordance with the statute.

The petitioner filed a timely appeal, and on September 17, 1996 the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A hearing was held in the OAL in Newark, New Jersey on August 5, 1997. The petitioner appeared and testified in his own behalf. The respondent appeared, without personal representation, but relied on the documents included in the transmittal, in addition to copies of the criminal record inquiries and answers returned to the parties. These documents included the petitioner's two page letter of appeal and letter recommendations on behalf of the petitioner from various persons and agencies.

ISSUE

The issue is: Whether the petitioner should be disqualified from employment in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, because his criminal history record check revealed a record of conviction under subsection (b) of the statute, relating to crimes or offenses involving controlled dangerous substances; or should such disqualification be vacated or not imposed pursuant to the rehabilitative factors set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1(e). The petitioner requested a stay of the disqualification determination issued by the respondent.

TESTIMONY AND EVIDENCE

The petitioner, Roderick N. Walker, was the only witness who testified at the hearing. None of the facts stated by him or elicited from him in his testimony were contested by the respondent, who presented no witnesses or argument in opposition. Similarly, the respondent did not contest the contents of the documentary exhibits that had been presented by the petitioner and which were included in the transmittal to the OAL.

Because neither the testimony or the contents of the exhibits were contested, all of the same are accepted as FACTS, which can be summarized as follows:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. The petitioner is 30 years of age and resides in Paterson, New Jersey.

The petitioner was accepted by and commenced employment at the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Treatment Center in Clifton, New Jersey, as a custodial/maintenance worker.

2. The petitioner's criminal history record is as follows:

> June 1985: conviction for possession of marijuana; thirty day suspended sentence.
> August 1987: conviction for possession of a controlled dangerous substance; possession with intent to distribute, within 1,000 ft of a school; five year mandatory sentence with mandatory three years to serve before parole eligibility.

3. The petitioner served three years of the sentence, beginning in October 1988. He was paroled and released in 1991.

4. The petitioner has no other arrest or criminal history record.

5. The petitioner was 18 years old at the time of his first offense, which involved being apprehended while he was smoking marijuana. He pleaded guilty to that offense.

6. The petitioner acknowledges that the second offense was more serious, committed when he was twenty years old. The petitioner admits that it occurred at a time in his life when he thought he wanted to live fast and take shortcuts, like others living around him. After serving the mandatory three years, he was released for good behavior.

7. The petitioner has not committed any offenses or been arrested since his release, six years ago.

8. Petitioner then realized that his life had become disorganized, painful and self-defeating. He decided to seek help and rehabilitate himself. His attitude in that respect has been consistent and unwavering. He realizes that he needed to face his past in order to create a productive future. He also understands that he needed to prove his value to himself, his family and his community.

9. Looking back, the petitioner realizes that he was caught up in unsavory neighborhood activities, and he became involved primarily because of peer pressure. He has since moved away from that neighborhood.

10. Petitioner asserts that he never harmed anyone but himself.

11. In May 1996 Lawrence Horyd, a vocational rehab. counselor in the New Jersey State Department of Labor, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services, wrote an affirmative letter of recommendation to the manager of the New Jersey State Department of Education, Office of Criminal History Review. This letter stated that the petitioner is a former participant in the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Program and that his case was closed, in Rehabilitated Status, in February 1995. Mr. Horyd also stated that the petitioner received supportive counseling and vocational training at Bergen County Technical Schools. Finally, the counselor stated his opinion that Mr. Walker has been drug free, has demonstrated a positive attitude and truly wants to be a productive member of society.

12. Washington Griffin, who has known the petitioner for at least fifteen years, also wrote a letter of commendation. This letter referred to the petitioner's previous difficulties, but stated that he is older, more mature and deserves a second chance.

13. On June 10, 1996, Jean Godfey, a teacher in the Paterson Board of Education, wrote a letter to the Office of Criminal History Review stating that she has known Mr. Walker for his entire life and is aware of his past problems. She indicated that he has worked hard to get his life on the right track again and clean himself up, with great integrity. She stated that the petitioner worked diligently and conscientiously to mainstream himself properly in society. Ms. Godfey writes that she believes Mr. Walker has learned the value of a safe and drug free life through counseling and is better able to cope with his problems. She states that he is a hard worker and will be an asset to any job.

14. The petitioner's mother, Selina Walker, in a letter dated June 1, 1996, stated her knowledge of the rehabilitation efforts pursued by her son. These included a voluntary admission into a five day detoxification program in the Beth Israel Hospital of Passaic and two long term care programs in Florida and Virginia, where he attended Narcotics Anonymous meetings and participated in a Work Release Program. He also attended a Beth Israel Hospital Outpatient Program called "Hope," which included attendance at meetings and individual counseling sessions. Ms. Walker also stated that her son has completed an Air Conditioning and Refrigeration training program and currently holds down two jobs. She feels that he has learned many lessons from his former destructive past. The petitioner's mother stated that petitioner has her love and support.

15. The petitioner has continued attending Narcotics Anonymous (NA), on a regular basis, three or four times a week.

16. The petitioner also belongs to a panel that travels to various hospitals and their rehabilitation and detoxification sections. He speaks of his experiences and attempts to assist the patients in those facilities.

17. The petitioner is anxious to be able to resume and retain his job at the Passaic County Elks Cerebral Palsy Center . He states that he enjoys the work, receives adequate pay and feels that it is a beneficial atmosphere.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 requires a disqualification from employment in facilities supervised by the Department of Education if an individual's criminal record check reveals a record of conviction for a diverse series of crimes and offenses, including the sale, possession or habitual use of controlled dangerous substances.

Subsection (e) of the statute provides as follows:

> Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, an individual shall not be disqualified from employment or service under this act on the basis of any conviction disclosed by a criminal record check performed pursuant to this act if the individual has affirmatively demonstrated to the Commissioner of Education clear and convincing evidence of his or her rehabilitation. In determining whether an individual has affirmatively demonstrated rehabilitation, the following factors shall be considered.
>
> (1) The nature and responsibility of the position which the convicted individual would hold;
>
> (2) The nature and seriousness of the offense;
>
> (3) The circumstances under which the offense occurred;
> (4) The date of the offense;
>
> (5) The age of the individual when the offense was committed;
>
> (6) Whether the offense was an isolated or repeated incident;
>
> (7) Any social conditions which may have contributed to the offense;
>
> (8) Any evidence of rehabilitation, including good conduct in prison or in the community, counseling or psychiatric treatment received, acquisition of additional academic or vocational schooling, successful participation in correctional work release programs, or the recommendation of persons who have had the individual under their supervision.

A review of the foregoing factors, in this petitioner's case, leads to the following findings:

(1) The nature and responsibility of the position the petitioner would hold, custodial and maintenance services, needs no explanation.

(2) The nature and seriousness of the offenses of which the petitioner was convicted involved what is known as the "drug scene." Of course, this was serious, because it has the capacity to damage society as well as the individual. However, petitioner must be commended for his successful efforts in eliminating this illness from his life.

(3) the offenses occurred under circumstances that involved the petitioner's personal use of drugs, as part of a community that subjected him to such pressures.

(4) The offenses were committed twelve and ten years ago.

(5) The petitioner was eighteen years of age at the time of the first offense and twenty years old the second time.

(6) The two offenses, occurring two years apart, were not preceding by any prior arrest, nor have they been repeated since.

(7) The social conditions in which the petitioner lived at the time definitely contributed to the offenses. He resided in a neighborhood populated by many young people involved with drugs, and he was caught up by the peer pressure.

(8) The petitioner's record since his release shows constant evidence of rehabilitation. He conduct in prison was good, and he has been a benefit to his community since. He participated in counseling and drug treatment programs and acquired vocational schooling. He also participated successfully in a correctional work release program, and he belongs to a panel in which he uses his experience to assist others in their rehabilitation efforts. Additionally, the petitioner frequently attends regular meetings of NA. Lastly, the petitioner has submitted impressive recommendations of persons who have known him and attest to his rehabilitation.

CONCLUSIONS

Having considered all of the foregoing, including the testimony, exhibits, applicable law and particularly the rehabilitative factors set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1e, it is CONCLUDED that the petitioner has affirmatively demonstrated, by clear and convincing evidence, that he has undoubtedly been rehabilitated from any adverse factors that might have followed from his convictions. His trustworthiness and demonstration of good moral character and reliability has been demonstrated, also by clear and convincing evidence. No adverse factors have been noted in the petitioner's character or standing in the community since he began his rehabilitative efforts.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the petitioner should not be disqualified from his employment at the facility supervised by the Department of Education; and the disqualification required by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 should not be applied to him.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:
DISQUALIFICATION FROM SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
EMPLOYMENT OF R.N.W.	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner adopts the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) arising from petitioner's appeal from disqualification from school employment. Consequently, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has demonstrated rehabilitation in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1 and is, therefore, qualified for school employment within the intent of the criminal history record check laws.

It is observed in reaching this decision, that the Commissioner had no cause to question the ALJ's assessment of petitioner's credibility as such assessment is not belied by the record. Moreover, it was the ALJ who had the opportunity to hear petitioner's sworn testimony and to observe his demeanor, so that he was in the optimum position to make such determination.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision as the final decision in this matter and petitioner is deemed qualified for school employment as a custodial/maintenance worker.

SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 11544-96

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST MILFORD, PASSAIC COUNTY,

Respondent.

David C. Dixon, Esq., for petitioner (Scangarella & Feeney, attorneys)

Vito A. Gagliardi, Jr., Esq., for respondent (Ravin, Sarasohn, Cook, Baumgarten, Fisch & Rosen, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 30, 1997 Decided: August 19, 1997

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On October 17, 1996, petitioner, Arthur Jordan, Inc. (Jordan), filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking to set aside the contract awarded to a competitor to provide pupil transportation in the respondent school district during the 1996-97 school year. Petitioner also seeks damages, attorney's fees and costs. On November 1, 1996, the Board of Education of the Township of West Milford (Board) filed its answer and on November 20, 1996, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was held with the parties on February 4, 1997, and the matter was set down for hearing on September 9, 1997. On June 30, 1997, the Board moved for summary decision to dismiss Jordan's petition on the grounds that it is now moot because the performance of the contract has been completed and the Commissioner of Education cannot award damages and attorney's fees to petitioner. The record closed on July 30, 1997, when the final submission was received from the parties.

UNDISPUTED MATERIAL FACTS

In July or August 1996, the Board advertised for bids to provide pupil transportation services for the 1996-97 school year. The bids were to be in accord with the specifications entitled "PUBLIC/NONPUBLIC AND IN/OUT-OF-DISTRICT HANDICAPPED STUDENT TRANSPORTATION, 1996-97 School Year," further identified as "BID CODE #96-13 . . . TRANSPORTATION ROUTE TO CHILDREN'S CENTER AND ALLEGRO SCHOOLS IN AIR CONDITIONED LIFT VEH. WITH AIDE." The bid opening date was August 26, 1996.

The contract was awarded to Laidlaw Transit, Inc., and Jordan objected, claiming to be the lowest responsible bidder. On October 17, 1996, Jordan filed its petition with the Commissioner of Education contesting the award and seeking related relief. Petitioner did not apply to the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, for emergent relief, so the matter was scheduled at the Office of Administrative Law as early as possible consistent with the availability of parties and hearing dates.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

On June 30, 1997, the Board moved for summary decision on the grounds that Laidlaw has already completed performance of the contract in question and petitioner is entitled to no relief which would allow it to provide the transportation. Under the relevant statutes and case law, it argues, the Commissioner of Education cannot award compensatory damages for loss of profits nor attorney's fees nor costs of appeal, so there is no relief which may be granted to petitioner.

Petitioner concedes that its claim for certain forms of relief, that is, setting aside the contract, awarding it to Jordan, or rejecting all bids and/or rebidding the contract, are now moot, but still presses its request for damages, attorney's fees and costs. It further claims that its petition is not moot because it is entitled to represent the public's interest in the integrity of the bidding process through the present appeal.

N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 provides that no damages may be recovered against any board of education or any of its officers because of any action taken by virtue of Title 18A, Chapter 18A, which governs public schools contracts. Jordan argues that, since N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-49.1 excludes pupil transportation contracts from the provisions of Chapter 18A, it also excludes them from the effect of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46. Pupil transportation contracts are governed by Title 18A, Chapter 39, which does not specifically prohibit the award of damages. From this, Jordan infers that damages and attorney's fees are available under Chapter 39 and that the Commissioner of Education can award them.

DISCUSSION OF LAW AND CONCLUSIONS

Although Title 18A, Chapter 39, contains no provision equivalent to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46, it does not thereby follow that Jordan is entitled to recover damages from the Board.

In general, the prohibition of damages is based upon public policy considerations which apply to all contracts with public bodies.

> It is true that, as the contractor-plaintiffs point out, a bidder claiming to be entitled to the award of a contract for public work has long been held to have sufficient standing to challenge the rejection of his bid or the letting of the contract to another bidder, and to compel the award of the contract to him. But such standing was granted simply and solely in order that the public interest might be served by compelling the lax or erring public official to properly perform his public trust. It was not thereby intended to create or establish in the bidder entitled to the award of the contract a right which, if violated, would render the public agency liable in damages to the bidder.
> [M. A. Stephen Constr. Co. v. Borough of Rumson, 125 N.J. Super. 67, 74 (App. Div. 1973) (citation omitted); Delta Chemical v. Ocean Co. Util., 250 N.J. Super. 395, 400 (App. Div. 1991).]

These rights are conferred on the bidder "to the end that the public will obtain all that is due it in the procurement process, rather than for [the bidder's] individual aggrandizement." Morie Energy Management v. Badame, 241 N.J. Super. 572, 576 (App. Div. 1990), quoting Trap Rock Indus. v. Kohl, 59 N.J. 471, 480 (1971). A bidder would not have the incentive to notify the contracting agency promptly of an illegal contract if it were aware that it could subsequently recover damages for its losses. Id. at 577-78. The M. A. Stephen court wrote:

> Nor should it be overlooked that, to allow the lowest responsible bidder to recover damages not only would violate and run counter to sound and long established principles of law, but also would invert the very policy and reasons which gave rise to the obligation of the public official to accept the bid proposal which best serves the public interest. Thus, where a public authority improperly rejects the lowest bid and awards the contract to the next lowest bidder, who performs the contract work before the ultimate resolution of the legal propriety of the rejection, to > permit the low bidder to recover damages would simply twice penalize the public. A "disobedience of the provisions of the statute will make the [public authority] pay the difference between the lowest bid and the bid for which the contract is made, and also the profit that the lowest responsible bidder would have made if the statute had not been violated."

> [125 N.J. Super. at 75-76 (citation omitted).]

Given the strong underlying public policy involved, I CONCLUDE that, by enacting N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-49.1, the Legislature did not intend to make pupil transportation contracts the only public school contracts for which damages are available. I CONCLUDE that, if the Legislature intended to make such a radical change in public policy, it could have stated its intention to do so in the form of a statute specifically authorizing the recovery of damages by bidders solely in the case of pupil transportation contracts.

I CONCLUDE that this statute simply recognizes that pupil transportation contracts have unique features which call for bidding requirements different from those of other public school contracts. Consequently, N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-49.1 notwithstanding, I CONCLUDE that N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-46 must be read to apply to pupil transportation contracts also.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that Jordan is not entitled to recover damages for the award of the pupil transportation contract to Laidlaw. The only relief which was available to petitioner was to apply to the Commissioner of Education in a timely manner for emergent relief to set aside the award and prevent performance.

Further, it is settled law that the Commissioner of Education has no authority to award counsel fees, or any other legal expenses, including costs, without express authorization by statute, rule or contract. This power is not included among the incidental powers which are implied in order to permit the Commissioner to fulfill his statutory function. Balsley v. North Hunterdon Regional High Sch., 225 N.J. Super. 221, 225 (App. Div. 1988). I, therefore, CONCLUDE that petitioner is not entitled to recover legal fees or costs with respect to this appeal.

In summary, petitioner's only hope of achieving financial redress was to seek emergent relief from the Commissioner before the disputed contract could be performed. Since this was not done, I CONCLUDE that Jordan is entitled to no relief in this matter.

Petitioner correctly argues that it served the public interest in bringing this appeal. This is in accord with the public policy expressed in M. A. Stephen, supra, 125 N.J. Super. at 74.

> But such standing was granted simply and solely in order that the public interest might be served by compelling the lax or erring public official to properly perform his public trust.

By denying damages, public policy compels the bidder to act promptly against the contracting agency to prevent performance of an illegal contract in order to fulfill the purpose for which standing is granted: protection of the public. This purpose is lost if the bidder sits back and waits to collect damages while the public is forced to pay more than necessary for services. Morie Energy Management, supra, 241 N.J. Super. at 577. Once the contract is performed, N.J.A.C. 6:21, subchapter 19, provides for the review and evaluation of pupil transportation contracts and the imposition of sanctions for non-compliance; further intervention by a bidder serves no purpose. The bidder has, in effect, lost its standing to continue its appeal.

As a result, I CONCLUDE that Jordan's appeal is moot, not only because the contract has been performed, but also because, if the public interest remains to be vindicated, petitioner is no longer the proper party to pursue it.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b), summary decision is appropriate if there is no genuine issue of any material fact challenged and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. I FIND that there is no genuine issue of material fact in the present matter and I CONCLUDE that respondent is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law.

It is, therefore, ORDERED that the petition of Arthur Jordan, Inc., is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Record Closed: July 7, 1997 Decided: August 14, 1997

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

On September 5, 1995 the petitioner, Barry Young, filed a Verified Petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking payment of continued salary from the respondent, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, after having been injured in the course of his employment. The petitioner, being temporarily disabled, remained out of work. It was undisputed that petitioner was covered by Worker's Compensation. The respondent filed an answer on October 10, 1995, asserting various affirmative defenses, particularly relating to the pending matter in Worker's Compensation Court and the timeliness of the petition.

On October 13, 1995 the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The transmittal by the Commissioner asked the ALJ to consider the timeliness of the petition and whether or not the particular facts underlying the claim are such that the Commissioner should refrain from considering the matter until a determination has been made by the Division of Worker's Compensation, as threshold issues. See Jacques Verneret v. Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth, (State Bd. of Ed. Jan. 4, 1995)

A hearing was scheduled for July 11, 1996, but the matter was placed on the inactive list until January, 1997, at the request of the parties, in order to await a determination from the Division of Worker's Compensation. At the same time, the matter was consolidated with another similar case that had also been transmitted to the OAL by the Commissioner of Education, with the same instructions, Tanya Wilson v. Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, Union County, OAL DKT. EDU 11527-95.

Counsel thereafter advised that the instant matter had been concluded in the Division of Worker's Compensation, in a manner that would result in a withdrawal of the petition. On July 7, 1997 written advice was received from petitioner's attorney requesting that the petition be withdrawn and the matter closed. A copy of such advice is attached hereto. (Since the Tanya Wilson case has yet to be determined in the Division of Worker's Compensation and will remain pending for at least another ninety days, it is severed from this matter and is retained at the OAL.)

It is CONCLUDED that good cause has been shown for withdrawal and dismissal of this matter, based upon petitioner's request.

It is therefore ORDERED that withdrawal and dismissal of this contested case, with prejudice, be approved, subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." HENRY AKIN-MARTINS, :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, provisional teaching staff member, alleged his termination was arbitrary and capricious. Petitioner sought reinstatement as a provisional teaching staff member, subject to Alternative Route Program (ARP) certification; restoration of all benefits and salary; and reimbursement of tuition and costs to maintain his enrollment in College in order to obtain required educational certification.

ALJ concluded that the District's action terminating petitioner, based upon reports of the use of unjustified and inappropriate methods of physical intervention with students, was not improper. Moreover, ALJ concluded that equitable estoppel and laches should not be applied against respondent. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

In November 1995, Henry Akin-Martins (petitioner or Akin-Martins), filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE), seeking certain relief from the State-Operated School District of the City of Newark (respondent or District). The petition was not properly served, and counsel subsequently retained by petitioner filed a letter on December 26, 1995 with the DOE, advising that proper service had been effected and again filing the petition. Respondent filed an answer on or about January 19, 1996. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on February 2, 1996 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Telephone conferences were conducted throughout the proceedings. Hearings were conducted on January 29 and 30, 1997. The deadlines for the filing of initial and reply post-hearing briefs were extended at the requests of the parties. Akin-Martins and the District filed initial and reply briefs in April 1997. Additional communications thereafter occurred among this judge and counsel for the parties, including a request by me that petitioner provide a copy of a certain case referenced in his initial brief, which document was filed on April 17, 1997.

Petitioner's initial brief contained, in part, references to four documents which had not been moved into evidence during the hearings; copies of those documents were transmitted with the brief. Petitioner requested that they be deemed moved into evidence. Respondent objected to consideration of and moving the documents into evidence in its reply brief. The District's objections were deemed by this judge to constitute a motion to strike, and the parties were permitted to file final positions regarding the issue. On July 3, 1997, I issued an order that the documents in question, which were deemed to be marked for identification as Exhibits P-6 through P-9, not be admitted into evidence. The record was closed on July 3, 1997.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner was initially employed, as a substitute teacher with the District, during the 1991/92 school year. He held a provisional certification issued by the DOE as an elementary school teacher and a teacher of Bilingual/Bicultural Education. During the time he was employed by respondent, Akin-Martins was a participant in the State Alternative Route Program (ARP) for teacher certification and a student at Saint Peter's College (College), in New Jersey. In September 1995, petitioner was advised, by letter from Dr. Beverly L. Hall (Hall), the then Acting State District Superintendent, that his employment was terminated effective October 21, 1995.

Petitioner argues that the District's action terminating his employment was arbitrary and capricious. Petitioner seeks reinstatement, as a provisional teaching staff member, subject to ARP certification; restoration of all benefits and salary; and reimbursement of tuition and costs to maintain his enrollment in the College in order to obtain required educational certification.

Respondent argues that the termination action was not arbitrary nor unreasonable, that petitioner's employment was terminated in accordance with his employment contract, that pertinent statutes were not violated, and that the Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) is not empowered to award tuition and costs to allow petitioner to obtain a teaching certificate. The issues, broadly, are whether petitioner is entitled to relief, and, if so, the type of relief.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the entire record, including credibility assessments, I FIND the following to be facts.

Akin-Martins was employed by the then Board of Education (Board) of the City of Newark in approximately January 1992 as a substitute teacher at the Avon Avenue School (Avon). On January 23, 1992, the Institutional Abuse Investigation Unit (Unit) located within the Division of Youth and Family Services (DYFS), State Department of Human Services, received an allegation of physical abuse pertinent to petitioner. Subsequent to an investigation by DYFS, an investigator with the Unit advised petitioner of the results by letter dated May 22, 1992. The allegation of physical abuse was not substantiated, "with concerns." The Unit concluded that Akin-Martins had used "an inappropriate method of physical intervention placing the students at risk of harm."

(Exh. R-3). The letter noted that the Board had been notified of the results of the investigation and concluded by advising petitioner of his right to appeal the findings.

The Unit subsequently received allegations of physical abuse by petitioner at the Elliot Street School (Elliot) on March 12, 1992. Petitioner was assigned as a substitute teacher at Elliot as of that date. Akin-Martins allegedly had struck a student on the thigh with a yard stick. The Unit found that the allegation of physical abuse at Elliot was substantiated. At some point, petitioner and the Board were notified of the Unit's determination. Akin-Martins was also notified that he could appeal such determination. Petitioner was removed from the roster of substitute teachers at Elliot.

Petitioner commenced substitute teaching at the McKinley School (McKinley). Several days later, the Unit received a third allegation of physical abuse pertinent to petitioner. It was alleged that petitioner had slapped a student on the face. Subsequent to an investigation, the Unit determined that that allegation of physical abuse was not substantiated "with serious concerns related to your actions" (Exh. R-2). The Board and petitioner were notified by the Unit of its determination, and petitioner was again notified of his right to appeal. Petitioner was thereafter removed from the roster of substitute teachers at McKinley.

Petitioner subsequently was able to obtain employment as a substitute teacher at the Miller Street School (Miller). The Unit received a fourth allegation of abuse by petitioner, at Miller, on May 22, 1995. Apparently, the administration at Miller agreed not to use Henry Akins' services as a substitute teacher, pending the outcome of an investigation by the Unit. The Unit found that "[P]hysical abuse was unsubstantiated with concerns regarding your actions . . . " (Exh. P-4). The Board was advised of the results of the Unit's investigation. Akin-Martin was also advised of the results by letter dated August 17, 1995. The Unit informed petitioner of his rights of appeal.

In approximately July 1995, the DOE assumed operation of the Newark School District. Petitioner continued to teach as a substitute teacher, employed by respondent.

In 1993, petitioner had taken, and passed, the National Teacher's Exam, which made him eligible for employment as a regular teacher pursuant to the ARP in New Jersey. Petitioner made efforts, between 1993 and 1995, to obtain such employment with respondent, generally communicating with Lynn Antonacci (Antonacci), an employee in the District Department of Human Resources. Antonacci interviewed petitioner on approximately March 14, 1994 and February 22, 1995 for a regular teaching position. On or about June 30, 1995, petitioner sent a letter to a Ms. Copinegro, then Director of Human Resources with the District, expressing his frustration at not being hired as a regular teacher.

By letter dated August 17, 1995, the Unit advised Dr. John P. Duggan (Duggan), Director of School Operations with respondent, of its conclusions regarding its investigation pertinent to the May 22, 1995 allegation. The Unit advised that "[P]hysical abuse was unsubstantiated with concerns regarding the actions of Substitute Teacher Henry Martins . . . " (Exh. R-5, p. 1). The letter noted that the student in question, A., had swung his coat and accidentally struck another student on the eye. Noting that A. did not constitute a continued danger to himself, nor others, the Unit concluded that petitioner did not attempt "[V]erbal intervention" and that:

> The method of intervention was inappropriate. Mr. Martins walked over to A. and slapped him on the face, near the eye, once with an open hand using a partial arm swing as retaliatory disciplinary action and forced A. to apologize for hitting the student with his coat. [Ibid.]

The Unit found that petitioner's actions constituted "a dangerous technique" and " . . . placed A. at an unnecessary and undue risk of harm. . . . Mr. Martins has an established pattern of the use of unjustified and inappropriate methods of physical intervention with students." Id. The letter noted in the latter respect the prior investigations by the Unit, indicating that petitioner had been "administratively counseled" regarding the January 1992 investigation. (Ibid.)

The Unit concluded, in part, that:

> It should be noted that following the investigation of 3/16/95 Mr. Henry Martins was terminated as a substitute teacher with the Newark Public Schools on March 26, 1992. Mr. Martins reapplied and entered the Newark Public School System as a substitute teacher using the name Henry Akin-Martins. It is recommended that the Newark Public Schools terminate Mr. Henry Akin-Martins' employment as a substitute teacher based upon his actions in this matter and his pattern of the use of unjustified and/or inappropriate methods of physical intervention. [Ibid.]

In approximately August 1995, the District conducted a "Job Fair," attended by prospective employees. (Tr., 1/29/97, p. 49). Petitioner attended and was interviewed by several individuals. Files relevant to the Job Fair interviews were thereafter sent to the Assistant Superintendent's Office. Any principal of a school with a vacancy had an opportunity to review the files and select individuals based on such review. Those individuals were offered employment.

Petitioner applied for a position as a bilingual teacher. He subsequently spoke to Iris Martinez-Arroyo, Director of the Bilingual and Bicultural Department, who advised him that his application had not been sent to her as a "qualified candidate." (Id. at pp. 55-52).

In August 1990, petitioner was subsequently informed, "by someone in the personnel office," that his personnel files had been "canceled," that is, that a notation to the effect "do not renew for any position" had been written on the pertinent files. (Id. at p. 39). Apparently, a Ms. Burgess, a secretary involved with processing renewals of substitute teachers' employment, provided this information to petitioner.

August 25, 1995, petitioner met, at his initiative, with Patricia Lucas (Lucas), Acting State District Superintendent, Human Resources Services. After reviewing personnel files pertinent to Akin-Martins, and speaking with Antonacci, Lucas told petitioner that he would be immediately employed as a substitute teacher and that he would also be considered for a vacant position as a regular bilingual teacher. Lucas then had a letter prepared, summarizing the situation, and gave it to petitioner. The letter, which was dated August 25, 1995, read as follows:

> Per our conversation during our meeting today, please be advised that you are immediately reinstated as a substitute teacher for the 1995-96 year.
> Also be advised that your candidacy is being considered for vacancies in the Bilingual Department; however, this is in no way to be construed as a guarantee of permanent employment. [Ibid.]

Lucas was one of a number of individuals temporarily assigned by the DOE to the District during a transition period. Lucas' assignment ended in late August or early September 1995.

By letter dated August 31, 1995, Lucas advised petitioner that he was being employed at the Vailsburg Middle School as an elementary/bilingual teacher, commencing September 5, 1995 (Exh. R-8).

On August 31, 1995, petitioner and an employee of the District executed an employment contract, pertinent to the position of elementary/bilingual teacher. The contract stated, in pertinent part, that:

> The appointment and employment hereunder may be terminated by either party, at any time, upon thirty (30) days' written notice prior to attainment of tenure. This notice provision shall not be interpreted to require the Board of Education to give individual notice to the employee prior to implementing personnel actions other than termination. [Exh. P-1, p. 1.]

Petitioner understood, when he executed the contract, that he could be terminated upon thirty-days' notice for any reasons. He commenced teaching in the elementary/bilingual position on September 5, 1995.

Petitioner was not an education major in college. Petitioner understood that he had to enroll in such a program to become a certified teacher in New Jersey.

Subsequent to August 31, 1995, petitioner enrolled in a one-year program at the College, which, he hoped, would result in his obtaining teacher certification, pursuant to the ARP.

Hall, the then Acting State District Superintendent, sent petitioner a notice of termination, dated September 21, 1995. Hall stated that, based upon recommendations of the Acting State District Assistant Superintendent for Human Resource Services, Akin-Martins' employment was terminated, effective October 21, 1995. Hall characterized the action as being taken pursuant to the thirty-days' notice provision of the August 31, 1995 employment contract. Petitioner was also advised that he was immediately suspended with pay from his duties as an elementary/bilingual teacher, until the date of his termination. Hall summarized prior investigatory conclusions of the Unit, noting that petitioner had been deemed to have exhibited a pattern of "unjustified and inappropriate methods of physical intervention" and advised that the decision to terminate petitioner's services was based upon the Unit's recommendation. (Exh. P-3, p. 1).

Petitioner thereafter applied for State unemployment benefits, which application was approved. The State Department of Labor (DOL) issued a notice of determination, advising petitioner that he was eligible for unemployment benefits commencing October 22, 1995. The notice stated the DOL's conclusions, based upon information submitted, that "ALLEGED INCIDENT OF UNJUSTIFIABLE AND INAPPROPRIATE METHODS OF PHYSICAL INTERVENTION DURING THE PERFORMANCE OF YOUR WORK," were not substantiated; "THERE IS NO EVIDENCE OF WILLFUL OR DELIBERATE BEHAVIOR IN CONNECTION WITH YOUR DISCHARGE. NO DISQUALIFICATION ARISES" (Exh. P-7).

At some point, petitioner sent a letter to the Commissioner stating his belief that he had been terminated because of retaliatory action, that is, because he had complained of nepotism in hiring practices of the District. By letter dated October 20, 1995, the Commissioner advised petitioner that:

> Your termination appears to have been implemented within the terms of your contract. Since the underlying basis for your claim appears to be retaliation for bringing charges of wrong doing against superiors, you may choose to file in Superior Court under the Conscientious Employee Protection Act (N.J.S.A. 34:19-1 et seq.). [Exhibit R-4.)

Duggan has been employed a total of 28 years in the Newark district. His most recent title is that of Director of Student Information Services. He also functions as the "point of contact" with DYFS pertinent to instances of institutional abuse allegations pertinent to the District. (Tr. 1/30/97, p.4). He has served in the latter position since 1989. Subsequent to receiving any reports from DYFS, Duggan's practice is to discuss the situation with the pertinent Assistant Superintendent regarding whether or not recommendations of DYFS should be acted upon. In any case in which there is a concern with the behavior of an employee, action is recommended pertinent to the employee's employment status.

In 1992, after receipt of the pertinent DYFS report, petitioner was removed from the list of eligible substitutes because the District deemed his actions and behaviors to have put students at risk of harm. The intent was that Akin-Martins would not be rehired again. Petitioner was subsequently rehired. Duggan did not know why nor how petitioner was rehired. Petitioner was again terminated subsequent to March 26, 1992.

Petitioner "was known" to the District in 1992 as "Mr. Henry Martins." (Id. at p.15). To Duggan's knowledge, petitioner apparently reapplied for substitute teacher employment, utilizing the name "Mr. Henry Akin-Martins," a change not "caught." (Ibid.) Petitioner was apparently deemed to be a new employee, and any prior records pertinent to previous employment were not reviewed.

Upon receipt of the August 1995 report from DYFS, Duggan recognized petitioner's name and requested that respondent's Department of Human Services review the matter to determine if it were the same individual who had been terminated in 1992. Upon learning that it was, Duggan notified Antonacci and the pertinent Assistant Superintendent of the situation.

The Unit's recommendation that petitioner's employment be terminated was "taken very seriously" by District personnel, because ". . . one of the first issues that educators must address in public education is making sure that we can ensure the safety of our students and that students will come to no harm as part of their educational experience." (Id. at p.16). The incidents which had occurred in 1992 and 1995, however, would have supported a termination action even if the Unit did not so recommend. It is Duggan's practice to report to DYFS regarding any actions taken subsequent to receipt of reports from the Unit. The District has in the past terminated employees based upon one substantiation of child abuse. It is a common practice in the District to terminate employees in situations where DYFS finds unsubstantiated allegations of abuse but articulates concerns.

Petitioner received all the pertinent Unit letters advising of the results of the investigations. He did not appeal any of the conclusions.

Antonacci currently holds the title of Personnel Administrator, a position which she has held since July 1996. She previously worked with the District in a similar capacity under a different title. She has been employed in the Newark district for a total of nine years. As of August 1995, her responsibilities included recruitment, selection, and placement of all instructional personnel.

Antonacci was not aware of all interviews with applicants for regular teaching positions. However, Akin-Martins was interviewed on several occasions for the position of elementary school teacher. He was deemed to be an "unsuccessful" applicant as a result of those interviews, i.e., the interviewers, who are administrators in the pertinent instructional areas, apparently concluded that he did not have the potential to be a successful teacher. (Id. at p.41). To Antonacci's knowledge, petitioner was deemed to be "successful to some degree" as a result of the Job Fair interviews but not in subsequently scheduled ones. (Id. at p.42).

Antonacci did not have access to any of the pertinent files. She had no input into whether or not Akin-Martins would be hired subsequent to the Job Fair. In addition, Antonacci had no knowledge of any ratings given to petitioner. Lucas never accused Antonacci of "holding back" petitioner's Job Fair file. (Id. at p.45). Lucas was Antonacci's superior at the time. Antonacci was not involved in the 1995 action terminating petitioner's employment. Antonacci was also not involved in prior decisions to terminate petitioner's employment as a substitute teacher.

Antonacci's office schedules job interviews; she personally has no involvement in such scheduling. She is usually not involved in interviewing employees. She is also not personally involved in the employment of substitute teachers, although such is handled by her office. The District's practice is not to conduct interviews with individuals seeking employment as substitute teachers. Antonacci did not know, as of 1992, that petitioner's employment had been terminated. Antonacci had no knowledge of any of the allegations pertinent to petitioner communicated by DYFS prior to the issuance of the 1995 termination notice. Documents pertinent to DYFS investigations are not included in employee's personnel files. They are maintained separately by Duggan.

Antonacci's office's involvement in the termination process consists of receipt of a termination letter, or generation of such upon request, removal of the individual from the payroll system, and ensuring that the individual's file is taken off inactive status.

It is the practice of Human Resources Department personnel to make notations on certain personnel files that individuals should not be rehired, although it is not a regular practice. Individuals other than Antonacci have authority to make such notations on personnel files.

Petitioner sometimes uses the name Henry Martins, "and other times, Henry Akin-Martins." (Id. at p.87). His college degree, which is from Kean College in New Jersey, was issued to "Henry Akin-Martins." (Id. at p.89). His Social Security card states his name to be "Henry Akin-Martins." (Id. at p.88). Petitioner's name is listed as Henry Akin-Martins on his driver's license. (Id. at p.94).

Petitioner was not interviewed when he applied for a position as a substitute teacher. He did provide access to his Social Security card and his driver's license. Each year when he was employed as a substitute teacher, he "just registered for another school year. . ." (Id. at p.93), showing his Social Security card and driver's license. Consistent with the district's practices, petitioner was required to apply for a substitute teacher position each year. Petitioner never executed an employment contract during the years he was employed as a substitute teacher. He was employed as such on a per diem basis, called to work daily, as needed.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner has jurisdiction generally to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9.

On or before May 15 of each year, a nontenured teaching staff member continuously employed by a local board of education since the preceding September 30 shall either receive a written offer of a contract of employment for the next succeeding year or a written notice that such employment will not be offered. Id. at §27-10 (Supp. 1997). N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10. This provision is not applicable in the current matter because petitioner was not continuously employed since September 30, 1994.

If the employment of a teaching staff member is terminated on notice, pursuant to a contract entered into with a local board of education, it is optional with the board whether or not the staff member shall continue to perform his/her duties during the period between the giving of the notice and the date of termination. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-9.

The pertinent contract provided that petitioner's employment could be terminated, for any reason, upon 30 days' notice. There is no question that Akin-

Martins was given 30 days' notice prior to his termination in 1995. Teaching contracts containing a termination provision 'may be terminated in accordance with their terms, without the need to demonstrate "good" or "just" cause.' Siegel v. Garfield Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 766, 767.

A nontenured teacher does not have a right to have an employment contract renewed, nor is he/she ordinarily entitled to a statement of reasons for a nonrenewal, nor to a hearing prior to such action. A local board of education has "extremely broad" discretion in such matters. Winston v. Bd. of Ed. So. Plainfield, 125 N.J. Super. 131, 143 (App. Div. 1973) (citation omitted) (Winston). However, the discretion of a board of education regarding matters such as the appointment, dismissal, and nonrenewal of teachers ". . . is conditioned upon Fourteenth Amendment limitations." (Ibid.) (citations omitted). It has been specifically recognized, for example, that nonrenewal of a nontenured public school teacher's one-year contract may not be based on his/her exercise of First and Fourth Amendment rights. Id. at p.144. However, " . . . the bare assertion or generalized allegations of infringement of a constitutional right does not create a claim of constitutional dimensions." (Ibid.)(citation omitted).

Respondent's action terminating petitioner, based upon the reports from the Unit, were reasonable, even if not all the allegations were found to be substantiated. The Unit, on each occasion in question, viewed the allegations with concern and ultimately communicated its recommendation to the District that Akin-Martins' employment be terminated because of a disturbing pattern of inappropriate conduct with students. As respondent argues, ensuring the safety of students is of paramount concern. In addition, respondent's actions pertinent to petitioner were consistent with its general policies and practices. The determination by the DOL is not determinative of the issues presented in the current matter.

It is not entirely clear from the record why petitioner was reemployed subsequent to the 1992 termination. However, such is not determinative of the question of whether the termination action in 1995 was reasonable. Duggan acted reasonably, and consistent with respondent's practices regarding DYFS recommendations and reports, in initiating action against petitioner subsequent to receipt of the August 1995 letter from the Unit.

Petitioner's argument that he was not terminated because of recommendations from DYFS, but because of animus by employees of the District, including Antonacci, are not supported in the record. Akin-Martins' testimony was ambiguous and nonspecific in this respect. In addition, Antonacci's testimony that she had no involvement in any decisions to terminate petitioner, and had no knowledge of prior investigations by DYFS, until subsequent to issuance of the 1995 termination notice, was credible. In addition, petitioner was advised by the Commissioner that any action for retaliatory termination should be initiated in another forum. There is no evidence in the record addressing the question of whether or not petitioner subsequently did so.

Arguments on behalf of petitioner that laches and equitable estoppel should be applied against respondent are also not persuasive. Equitable estoppel reflects the doctrine that one should not be allowed to repudiate an act or position when such would work an injustice to another who, having the right to do so, has detrimentally relied thereon. Anske v. Bor. of Palisades Park, 139 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1976). The claiming party must demonstrate that the alleged conduct was done, or representation was made, intentionally or under such circumstances that it was both natural and probable that it would induce action. The conduct must be relied on, and the relying party must act so as to change his/her position to his/her detriment. Miller v. Miller, 97 N.J. 154 (1984).

Estoppel against a governmental entity may be detrimental to the public interest and could interfere with central governmental functions. O'Malley v. Dept. of Energy, 109 N.J. 309 (1987) (O'Malley). An element of intentional misrepresentation, or demonstration that a public official knew or should have known of material facts but acted as if he/she did not have such knowledge, causing a misrepresentation, must be demonstrated. (O'Malley, supra.) The burden of proving intent is on the party seeking the benefit of estoppel. Newark v. Natural Resource Counsel, Dept. of Environ. Prot., 82 N.J. 530 (1980) (Natural Resource).

Laches, similar to estoppel, does not apply to governmental entities to the same extent as against private parties. Natural Resource , supra. Laches applies when there is an unexplained and inexcusable delay in enforcing a known right and prejudice results to the other party because of such delay. Matter of Adoption of a Child of Indian Heritage, 111 N.J. 155 (1988). Time alone is not determinative. Pavlicka v. Pavlicka, 84 N.J. Super. 357 (App. Div. 1964). The application of laches is particularly dependent upon considerations of equity. Auchiello v. Stauffer, 58 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1959).

Petitioner has not demonstrated any intentional misrepresentation by employees, nor agents, of respondent pertinent to Akin-Martins' enrollment in the ARP at the College. In fact, he has not demonstrated any conduct nor representation made intentionally or under any circumstances inducing action on his part. Akin-Martins has not, in addition, demonstrated any inexcusable delay in enforcing any right of petitioner, nor any prejudice as a result thereof. Finally, I note that the application of equitable doctrines against respondent in this case would likely interfere with an essential function of the District, that of ensuring the safety of its students. I am therefore persuaded that equitable estoppel and laches should not be applied against respondent. I am also persuaded, for the reasons articulated in respondent's reply brief, that petitioner's reliance on Sheets v. Teddy's Frosted Foods, 179 Conn. 471 (1980) is misplaced.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has not demonstrated, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that respondent's action of September 21, 1995, terminating his employment with the District, effective October 21, 1995, was arbitrary nor unreasonable. To the contrary, I CONCLUDE that the action in question was reasonable. I also CONCLUDE that laches and equitable estoppel should not be applied against respondent and that Akin-Martins' petition should be dismissed. In light of these determinations, it is not necessary to reach issues raised by the parties regarding any relief to be awarded to Akin-Martins.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that Akin-Martins' petition, filed with the DOE on December 26, 1995, be and is hereby DISMISSED.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included transcripts from the two days of hearing at the OAL, the Commissioner concurs with the Adminsitrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that the District's decision to terminate his employment contract was in any manner contrary to law. The Commissioner further concurs that petitioner's claims that the District's actions should be barred in equity are not persuasive.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.* The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* The Commissioner herein clarifies, however, that, contrary to the ALJ's statement on page 13 of the initial decision, any teaching staff member receiving notice that a teaching contract for the succeeding year school year will not be offered by the local board, may, within 15 days thereafter, request in writing a statement of reasons for such nonemployment which shall be given to the teaching staff member within 30 days after receipt of such request. SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Council alleged the Board improperly adopted a resolution that placed on the ballot a question to determine whether the membership of the Board should be reduced from nine to seven. Council alleged the resolution was barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31. In prior proceeding, the Commissioner denied Council's motion to enjoin placement of the question on the ballot at the 1997 annual school election.

ALJ concluded that the Board acted within the compass of authority the Legislature granted it when, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12, it determined that it was in the best interest of the District that the membership of the Board be reduced and it put that question to the public. ALJ noted that even if the interpretation is less than liberal, the structure of Chapter 271 of the Laws of 1967 makes clear the legislative intent that any type II school district may increase or reduce its membership provided it follows the statutory prescription at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12. (Consolidated school districts have all the powers and duties and are subject to the same restrictions as a board of education in a type II school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-28.) Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own, clarifying that New Hanover is a consolidated school district.

SUMMARY DECISION

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 2811-97

AGENCY DKT. NO. 78-3/97

WRIGHTSTOWN BOROUGH COUNCIL,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEW HANOVER,

Respondent.

John T. Barber, Esq., for petitioner

Denis C. Germano, Esq., for respondent (Hulse & Germano, attorneys)

Record Closed: July 25, 1997 Decided: August 20, 1997

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Wrightstown Borough Council claimed the New Hanover Township Board of Education improperly adopted a resolution that placed on the ballot a question to determine whether the membership of the Board should be reduced from nine to seven. Wrightstown alleged the resolution is barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 and that the Board's adoption of the resolution violated the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 through -21, or N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.2 or both.

The Board denied the claims and said it was not a consolidated school district, nor did it violate the OPMA or provisions of the New Jersey Administrative Code, Title 6.

The Borough opened the matter before the Commissioner of Education on March 5, 1997 by request for emergent relief in which it asked the Commissioner to enjoin placement of the question on the ballot at the 1997 annual school election. On April 9, 1997, the Commissioner denied the motion.

The matter was then transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. After notice, telephone conferences were held. Counsel tried to resolve the matter amicably, but those attempts failed. The matter now proceeds on cross-motions for summary decision, all facts being stipulated. The OPMA issue is no longer argued.

ARGUMENTS

The Petitioner

Although the New Hanover Board of Education now acknowledges that it is, in fact, a consolidated school district, a question remains. It must be determined what legal effect this determination has on the reduction of members of the Board from nine to seven.

Boards of education are creatures of the Legislature, are controlled by statute and may exercise only those powers expressly delegated to them by statute. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41 generally apply to consolidated districts. The Borough asserts that these statutory provisions govern the outcome of the present case. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 provides that a consolidated board shall consist of nine members and that the members shall serve for terms of three years and that vacancies for unexpired terms shall be filled in the same manner as in other type II districts. The Board, on the other hand, points to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15 which apply to type II boards in general and at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-14 provides for reduction in the membership of a board.

The Borough urges that the Board has presented no authority in support of the legal interpretations it urges this tribunal to adopt. There may be no specific decisions that provide an interpretation of certain statutes implicated here. However, there is plenty of guidance in the field of statutory interpretation.

The Board contends that the rules of statutory construction favor an interpretation that N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 and -14, contained within general provisions for type II school districts, should override the particular statutory direction in N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31, specific to consolidated school districts. This interpretation is in conflict with the specific and express provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31, which provides

> The board shall consist of nine members and the members shall serve for terms of three years and vacancies for the unexpired terms shall be filled in the same manner as in other type II school districts. The board shall provide annually for election of members from the former constituent districts to succeed the members selected therefrom as their terms expire.

When the Legislature uses the word "shall" within a statute, there is a presumption that what is thus commanded must be done. N.J.S.A. 1:1-1, General Rules of Construction, provides

> In the construction of the laws and statutes of this state, both civil and criminal, words and phrases shall be read and construed in their context, and shall, unless inconsistent with the manifest intent of the legislature or unless another or different meaning is expressly indicated, be given their generally accepted meaning, according to the approved usage of the language.

N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 is drafted in the imperative. This creates the clear understanding that the Legislature intended boards of consolidated school districts to be governed by nine members, and nine members only. In Diodato v. Camden County Park Comm'n, 136 N.J. Super. 324 (App. Div. 1975), the court held, "whenever the word 'shall' appears in a statute, it creates a presumption that what is thus commanded must be done." Clearly, the Legislature chose to use the word shall when commanding the number of board members for a consolidated school district.

It is a settled principle of statutory construction that when there is a conflict between a specific statutory provision and a general enactment, the specific provision controls. Where, as in the present case, a conflict arises between a general statute and a specific statute on the same subject, the specific provision controls. The New Jersey Supreme Court has addressed the issue many times. See, e.g., State v. Hotel Bar Foods, 18 N.J. 115 (1955), citing Hackensack Water Co. v. Division of Tax Appeals, 2 N.J. 157 (1949), which held

> [T]he general rule of statutory construction [is] that "where there is any conflict between a general and specific statute covering the same subject in a more minute and definite way the latter will prevail over the former and will be considered an exception to the general statute."

The same reasoning and holding are expressed in scores of cases. With these well-established rules in mind, the Borough offers the proper interpretation of the statutes concerning board membership for consolidated school districts. Application of the in pari materia doctrine is inappropriate under the present circumstances. The Board argues that the doctrine justifies applying the statutory provisions generally established for all type II school districts in a way that supersedes the specific provisions that were enacted for consolidated school districts. But such an application has been held to be inappropriate in circumstances of the present type. International Broth. of Elec. Workers v. Gillen, 174 N.J. Super. 326 (App. Div. 1980) held that

> The rule that statutes in pari materia are to be construed together is one which may be helpful in resolving doubts and uncertainties and in ascertaining the legislative intent. But it is merely an aid to the interpretation of doubtful or ambiguous statutes, and where, as here, "an act is plain and unambiguous in its terms, the rules is fundamental that there is no room for judicial construction, since the language employed is presumed to evince the legislative intent." The doctrine is not invoked to engraft the terms of one statute onto another merely because the general subject matters of the two enactments are similar.

The statutory enactments here are quite clear. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41 were enacted specifically to establish and maintain the procedural and operational structure for consolidated school districts. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 specifically mandates that the board of education of a consolidated school district shall consist of nine members. By resorting to the general provisions for type II school districts to argue that the number of board members for a consolidated school district may be submitted to the voters, the Board is attempting to "engraft terms of one statute onto another merely because the general subject matters of the two enactments are similar." This is improper and the tribunal should so rule.

In addition, if two statutory provisions are enacted by the same Legislature, and the former designates certain operational provisions while, on the same subject, the latter is silent, the inference is created that the distinction was a purposeful one. In short, the Legislature is presumed to be cognizant of its prior acts each time it enacts a new statute. This being so, it can be inferred that the Legislature intended the distinction between the statutes that the Borough posits.

The legislative histories of these two statutory sections is extensive. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 traces its history through R.S. 18:5-17.7 and -17.9 in the Laws of 1947, chapter 86 revision from the Laws of 1903 (2nd Sp. Sess.) chapter 1, §105. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 traces its history through R.S. 18:7-4 and -5 to the Laws of 1919, chapter 192, §1 and from that point through the Laws of 1904, chapter 28, §1 and back to the Laws of 1903 (2nd Sp. Sess.) chapter 1, §78. The statutes have been amended from time to time, but both are substantially rooted in the comprehensive education laws created by the Second Special Session of the Legislature in 1903.

The Borough believes it is clear that the Legislature enacted and intended to continue separate provisions mandating that consolidated school boards shall consist of nine members. Other type II districts, which normally are comprised of only one municipality, may determine to vary the membership number. This direction stems from a desire to provide for the balancing of the potentially diverse interests of the various constituent municipalities in a consolidated district. If the Board's position were accepted, a given municipality in a consolidated school district might be represented by only one member, which could prove insufficient even to obtain the necessary second to have a motion placed upon the floor for discussion.

Both series of statutory provisions establish the organizational structure for type II school districts. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15 apply generally to all type II school districts. However, N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41 apply specifically to consolidated school districts. The more specific enactments pertaining to consolidated school districts expressly set the number of board members at nine and remain silent as to altering the statutorily set number. The more general provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15, on the other hand, provide for changing the number of board members generally, as for other type II school districts. This distinction can be viewed only as a purposeful distinction, created by the Legislature and meant to distinguish the membership of boards of education of consolidated school districts from the membership of boards of education of other type II school districts.

The statutory construction and interpretation offered by the respondent would render N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 inoperative, superfluous and meaningless. A construction that will render any part of a statute inoperative, superfluous or meaningless is to be avoided. State v. Reynolds, 124 N.J. 599 (1991).

And the Appellate Division has stated that it is required to enforce the legislative intent as written and not according to some supposed unexpressed intention. Gillen, above, 174 N.J. Super. at 329.

N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 specifically provides that there are to be nine board members for consolidated school districts. Nowhere in Article 5, N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41, has the Legislature provided for changing the number of board members in a consolidated district. Because the Legislature provided no mechanism for changing the number of board members in a consolidated district, it may be inferred that the Legislature specifically intended that nine school board members are to govern the boards of consolidated school districts.

Similarly, nothing in the statutes that provides for the creation of a new school district requires any other interpretation. In N.J.S.A. 18A:12-11.1, the language states, "Whenever a new school district, except a regional school district, or a consolidated school district . . . is created, there shall be placed upon the official ballot to be voted upon, at the first annual school election, the question of whether the board shall consist of three, five, seven or nine members." The Legislature could not have been more clear. It expressly adopted the statement, "except a regional school district, or a consolidated school district."

The Borough's interpretation is supported and illustrated. The Legislature has been quite clear. Where it intends to include consolidated boards in a provision, it so states. Where it intends not to include consolidated boards, it also makes this apparent.

The Superior Court has determined that a statute should not be broadened or enlarged, if that would be contrary or detrimental to the legislative intent. In Mulcahy v. Bergen County Board of Elections, 156 N.J. Super. 430 (Law Div. 1979), the court stated

> Even where the legislative intent might warrant liberal construction it should be done only where the facts warrant and violence will not be done to the legislative scheme by such construction. [At 435, n. 2.]

This tribunal should decline to use the statutory construction urged by the Board to render unnecessary the statutory provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41.

The Respondent

The Board concedes at the outset that a review of legislative history and certain historical acts of the New Hanover Township Board of Education demonstrates that the Board is, indeed, a consolidated board of education. Having conceded that the district is a consolidated school district, the Board argues nevertheless that voters of consolidated school districts may be given the choice to reduce membership on their boards of education from nine to a lesser number.

Reading various sections of the statutes together, the Board urges that districts such as New Hanover are type II school districts and all of the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15 apply. One of those provisions, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12, clearly states that the board of any type II school district may call for a referendum to reduce, or increase, the number of seats on the board.

The Borough maintains that N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 mandates nine-member boards for consolidated districts:

> The board shall consist of nine members and the members shall serve for terms of three years and vacancies for the unexpired terms shall be filled in the same manner as in other type II school districts.

The Borough asks the tribunal to read the final phrase, "in the same manner as in other type II school districts," as relating only to unexpired terms. In other words, the only thing that consolidated school districts do in the same manner as other type II school districts is fill vacancies. But, board members for consolidated districts serve for terms of three years, and this is no different from other type II school districts. The Board's precise argument on this point is as follows:

> The petitioner asks the court to read the final phrase, "in the same manner as in other type II school districts," as relating only to unexpired terms. In other words, [it] asserts that the only thing that consolidated school districts do like other type II districts is fill vacancies. But note, board members for consolidated districts "serve for terms of 3 years" no different than "other type II school districts." So too, aren't nine (9) member boards authorized for type II school districts? As the undersigned argued in our brief in opposition to the petitioner's request for emergent relief, while this section can be read as the petitioner does, can't it just as easily be read to mean that consolidated districts have nine (9) member boards, whose members are elected for 3 year terms, and whose vacancies are filled, all as in other type II school districts? [Respondent's brief at 3.]

The Board concedes that the petitioner's reading of N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 is reasonable standing alone. However, the Board's reading of the statute is buttressed by and consistent with many other sections of the title. First, N.J.S.A. 18A:9-3(a)(4) provides that four different kinds of local school districts, including consolidated school districts, are type II districts and, in the final section of the statute, says that such districts "shall be subject to the provisions of this title relating to type II districts except as otherwise so provided in the case of regional districts."

Consolidated school districts then, in the Board's view, are governed by those parts of Title 18A that relate to type II school districts. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15 deal specifically with type II school districts having elected board members. New Hanover is such a district. The first statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 provides that the statutes are to apply to all type II school districts except as otherwise provided in this title for regional districts and except those districts in which the members of the boards of education are appointed. The statute clearly does not carve out consolidated districts. The provisions of subarticle B of Article 4, Chapter 12 apply to all type II school districts. All of those provisions apply to consolidated school districts. One of the provisions, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 provides

> If the board of any district shall determine by resolution that it is for the best interest of the schools that the membership of the board shall be increased from whatever number than composes it to five, seven or nine members, or reduced from said number to seven, five or three members, the question of such increase or reduction shall be submitted to the voters of the district at the next annual school election and the question shall be stated in the notice of the election.

The Board asserts that further support for its position is found at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-11.1. The first paragraph of that section reads

> Whenever a new school district, except a regional school district, or a consolidated school district or a new district created under the terms of article 4 of chapter 8 of this title is created, there shall be placed upon the official ballot to be voted upon, at the first annual school election, the question whether the board shall consist of three, five, seven or nine members.

According to the Board, the tribunal would have to find that when the Legislature enacted N.J.S.A. 18A:12-11.1, it was aware that all provisions of subarticle B of Article 4 applied to all type II school districts and then immediately forgot that fact when it enacted N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 if the tribunal is to sustain the Borough's position. And, N.J.S.A. 18A:9-3 provides that four different kinds of local school districts and all regional school districts are type II districts. The statute concludes with the words, "[each] such district shall be subject to the provisions of this title relating to type II districts except as otherwise so provided in the case of regional districts." When the Legislature failed to include consolidated districts within the exception language, the Legislature signaled its intent to make all general rules applicable to type II school districts applicable to consolidated school districts. The tribunal should find that nine-member consolidated boards of education are mandated only by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-11.1, which refers to newly-created consolidated districts and their boards of education and that the reference in N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 to consolidated school districts having nine-member boards is merely a reflection of the fact that these boards, unlike other local school districts, must begin as nine-member boards.

DETERMINATION

Counsel carefully researched the Board of Education's history. The school district was established as a consolidated school district in 1918, pursuant to laws that emanated from the Second Special Session of the Legislature in 1903. Since 1918, new legislation has been established and older legislation has been modified or supplanted. In 1967, the Legislature passed and the Governor signed into effect chapter 271 of the Laws of 1967. This act is codified, in part, at N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41. This is also referred to as Article 5 of Chapter 8, Title 18A.

N.J.S.A. 18A:8-27 provides for the adoption of a different name for consolidated boards previously created. This requires only a majority vote of the local board and approval of the State board. Once approved, this is certified to the Secretary of State, and the new title becomes the corporate title of the district.

N.J.S.A. 18A:8-28 provides that a consolidated school district shall have all the powers and duties and be subject to the same restrictions as a board of education in a type II school district unless an exception shall appear in Chapter 8.

N.J.S.A. 18A:8-29 through -38 address apportionment of board membership, organization of the board, custodial of school monies, supervision of consolidated districts, elections, collection and payment of appropriations and certifications to county boards of taxation. N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 expressly states, "The board shall consist of nine members and the members shall serve for terms of three years and vacancies for the unexpired terms shall be filled in the same manner as in other type II districts." The statute goes on to say, "The board shall provide annually for election of members from the former constituent districts to succeed the members selected therefrom as their terms expire." Given its place in Article 5, it is certain that N.J.S.A. 18A:8-31 speaks to the period in which a consolidated board is created. That a slightly different procedure existed in Title 18 and was employed when this district was formed in 1918 is not unimportant, but neither is it controlling. The Legislature has carefully preserved the fiscal and corporate integrity of boards created prior to January 11, 1968. Note, for instance, N.J.S.A. 18A:8-39 and -40. These statutes expressly provide that R.S. 18:5-18 and -19 are saved from repeal. Certain school districts earlier consolidated continued to exist; debt incurred by those districts was protected. In short, the article rewrote the manner in which consolidated districts are formed, thus replacing the procedure this school district used in 1918, but protected the corporate and fiscal integrity of existing consolidated districts.

It must be noted that, when this package of statutes was enacted, the Legislature offered incentives to school districts to create consolidated districts and regional districts, both all purpose and limited purpose. It may reasonably be inferred that the Legislature sought to do nothing that would act as a disincentive to regionalization or consolidation.

Subarticle B, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10 through -15, was part of chapter 271, Laws of 1967. The legislation must be treated as a whole. The Legislature was, simultaneously, encouraging regionalization and consolidation and being careful not to impair the integrity of existing districts. In addition to new material, the Legislature reenacted much existing statute.

It is beyond argument that the Legislature intended consolidated school districts to be type II school districts, in all respects. The language in Article 5, N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25 through -41 is addressed to consolidated school districts. At N.J.S.A. 18A:8-25, it provides that the chapter shall be applicable to all consolidated local school districts already in existence. It provides at N.J.S.A. 18A:8-28 that each consolidated school district shall have all the powers and duties and be subject to the same restrictions as a board of education in a type II school district. It provides at N.J.S.A. 18A:8-29, -30 and -31 for the apportionment of membership of the board. At N.J.S.A. 18A:8-32, it provides that consolidated boards shall organize annually in the manner prescribed for other type II districts. The word other is significant. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-10, applicable to choice of members, requires that provisions of the subarticle in which it is contained shall apply to all type II school districts except regional districts and those districts in which the members of the boards of education are appointed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-16 through -19.

N.J.S.A. 18A:9-3 provides that type II school districts shall include every consolidated school district. If, as the Borough suggests, there were any ambiguity in the many statutes applicable here, N.J.S.A. 18A:9-3 dramatically eliminates it. The parties agree that the New Hanover School District is a consolidated school district. Every consolidated school district is a type II school district. Upon formation, each consolidated school district shall have a board consisting of nine members. Similarly, if a type I school district using the procedures prescribed at N.J.S.A. 18A:9-4, -5 and -8, should be reclassified as a type II school district, N.J.S.A. 18A:9-10 requires that the first board in any such district shall consist of nine members. Yet, both a consolidated district and a district that has reclassified from type I to type II may, under the clear provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 increase or reduce its membership. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12 was enacted as were nearly all the statutes discussed as part of chapter 271, Laws of 1967, effective January 11, 1968. The Legislature was cognizant of what it was doing. Notwithstanding that certain boards had to begin corporate life with nine members, the Legislature also said

> If the board of any district shall determine by resolution that it is for the best interest of the schools that the membership of the board shall be increased from whatever number of members than composes it to five, seven or nine members or reduced from said number to seven, five or three members, the question of such increase or reduction shall be submitted to the voters of the district at the next annual school election and the question shall be stated in the notice of election.

Thus, the whole structure of chapter 271, Laws of 1967 is internally consistent. School districts are classified as either type I or type II, where formerly, under Title 18, they were referred to as Chapter 6 or Chapter 7 districts. All consolidated districts were designated type II districts. New consolidated districts and type I districts reclassifying as type II districts must initially have nine-member boards. Thereafter, if the board of any district determines that it is in the best interest of the schools that the membership of the board be adjusted, then that question shall be put to the voters at the next annual school election. If the voters approve, the board, with the guidance of the county superintendent of schools, shall so resolve and shall put the change into effect.

In consideration of the foregoing, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the New Hanover Township Board of Education acted within the compass of authority the Legislature has granted it when, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12, it determined that it was in the best interest of the district that the membership of the Board be reduced and it put that question to the public. The readings of the statutes that the Borough urges are simply too strained. The legislation discussed is hardly penal. Therefore, it should be interpreted liberally. Even if the interpretation is less than liberal, the structure of chapter 271 of the Laws of 1967 makes clear the legislative intent that any type II school district may increase or reduce its membership provided it follows the statutory prescription at N.J.S.A. 18A:12-12.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner Borough of Wrightstown has not carried the burden of persuasion and that the petition of appeal must be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P.O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEW HANOVER, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions were filed by the Board and replies thereto were timely filed by the Council in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board takes exception only to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) failure to include a finding as to whether or not New Hanover is a consolidated school district as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:8-4.

Council recasts and reiterates arguments raised before the ALJ contending that Article 5 (of Chapter 8, Title 18A) does not authorize a change in the statutorily mandated number of board members in a consolidated school district.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to uphold the determination of the ALJ finding the reasoning contained therein to be consistent with applicable statutory provisions. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that the ALJ carefully considered Council's arguments and provided a basis for their rejection.

Further, the Commissioner recognizes that the ALJ did not render a declaration as to the status of the New Hanover School District. In that the parties stipulated that the District was consolidated for purposes of the within proceeding, the Commissioner concurs with the parties' assessment, and herein declares New Hanover to be a consolidated school district.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the OAL, as clarified, and dismisses the instant Petition of Appeal.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, spouse of a deceased school employee, contended the Board improperly categorized his wife as resigned rather than on leave of absence, thereby depriving him of benefits at her death.

ALJ concluded that since petitioner's cause of action arose, at the very latest, at the time of his discussion with the Board's secretary in the spring of 1995, his petition filed in April 1996 was time barred under the 90-day provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Commissioner adopted the initial decision as his own. Petition was dismissed as untimely filed.

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Samuel Schoonover, alleged that the Board of Education improperly accepted his wife's resignation at a School Board meeting held on August 21, 1989, which affected certain pension rights of his wife, now deceased, and ultimately of the petitioner. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case, pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

FACTS NOT IN DISPUTE

The within matter comes before the Office of Administrative Law as a contested matter as a result of a Petition filed by petitioner, Samuel Schoonover against the Board of Education of the Atlantic County Vocational Technical School (Voc-Tech) which in effect alleges that the Board acted improperly in accepting the petitioner's decedent's resignation at a School Board meeting held on August 21, 1989 and that said decision has affected certain pension rights of the petitioner and petitioner's decedent. The facts are not in dispute.

Petitioner is the husband of the decedent, Patricia Schoonover, who was employed as a LPN instructor at Voc-Tech commencing March 29, 1989 through approximately July 12, 1989, when petitioner's decedent sustained injury in the course of her employment. As a result of the injury sustained in the accident as well as a subsequent illness, petitioner's decedent did not return to work. On or about August 21, 1989, the Voc-Tech Board voted to accept the resignation of petitioner's decedent effective September 1, 1989. Petitioner alleges in his Petition at paragraph 7, that said action of the Board was without written notice to him. Petitioner's decedent died on August 20, 1991, two years later, following a lengthy illness. During that two years, petitioner's wife never challenged the Board's decision nor did anyone on her behalf nor is there any allegation she ever applied for a benefit. Petitioner takes the position that at all times his wife, the decedent, was on a medical leave of absence and that it was her intention at all times to return to work following recovery from her illness. This claim is being made despite that fact that the petitioner's decedent was a non-tenured employee and due to her limited length of service was not eligible for medical leave of absence pursuant to contract.

At some unspecified date subsequent to the death of petitioner's decedent the petitioner contacted the school business office to inquire about benefits and claims and he was initially told that no benefits were available. He later alleges that in the Spring of 1995, he received a letter from the Atlantic County Vocational School indicating that unclaimed benefits were available.

At about the same time the petitioner contacted Paul Trivellini, the Board secretary and was informed that the school had accepted his wife's resignation on August 21, 1989, effective September 1, 1989.

Notwithstanding the receipt of this information in the spring of 1995, the petitioner waited until December 1995 before he requested the Board to reconsider its decision from August 1989. At the meeting held on January 16, 1996, the petitioner submitted his certification and the Board rejected petitioner's request.

The respondent maintains that the Board's action of August 21, 1989, is the conduct or Board decision which is at issue and not the Board's subsequent denial of petitioner's request at the January 16, 1996, meeting. Although the petitioner alleges that neither he nor his wife was ever notified of the Board's August 21, 1989, decision at any time in close proximity to the decision, nevertheless the petitioner's certification and the Petition filed in this matter readily concede that he certainly was aware of the Board's decision in the Spring of 1995 as a result of his conversations with Mr. Trivellini. That being the case, the respondent, Voc-Tech maintains that the Petition filed in this matter is untimely pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 and seeks a dismissal of the Petition with Prejudice. Schoonover has not replied to the Board's motion or otherwise contested the facts stated therein. He does not explain why he thought his wife was on a leave of absence during the two years prior to her death.

LAW AND ARGUMENT

The respondent, Voc-Tech seeks a dismissal of the Petition pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) which states as follows:

> The petitioner shall file a Petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the District Board, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The matter at issue in the instant Petition is the Board's action of August 21, 1989. Although the petitioner alleges that neither he nor his wife received written notice of that decision, the instant Petition, as well as the petitioner's earlier certification clearly establish that he had notification of the Board's earlier decision through his conversation with Mr. Trivellini in the Spring of 1995. The respondent Board takes the position that the ninety day time frame accrues from that time (Spring of 1995) and not as of the Board's rejection of petitioner's request for reconsideration in January 1996. The subject regulation has been interpreted in a number of administrative and court cases. The leading case is Kaprow v. Board of Education of Berkeley Township, 131 N.J. 572 (1993). In Kaprow, the Court upheld the authority of the Commissioner of Education and the State Board's authority to adopt the subject regulation which in effect imposes a period of limitation and repose. Secondly, the Court found that the imposition of the limitations period did not violate the petitioner's due process rights and finally, the court found that the ninety day time limitation period was triggered by unofficial, informal communications from the Board's secretary.

In that case the petitioner, who was an assistant superintendent, was terminated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. At the time of his termination he was the only tenured assistant superintendent in the school district. The termination was as a result of a reduction in force (RIF). The local Board failed to notify the petitioner of his post RIF rights to other positions in school district. Having received no notice from the local school Board the petitioner requested from the local Board a list of eligible positions in February 1988. On February 23rd the petitioner received a note from the Board secretary informing him that certain positions to which he held tenure rights had already been filled. After various exchanges of correspondence the petitioner on August 1, 1988, filed a verified Petition with the Commissioner. One of the issues that the Court was called upon to decide was whether petitioner received adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2. The Court in determining that the "unofficial and informal notice" by the Board secretary was sufficient to trigger the ninety day limitation stated as follows:

> The local Board was clearly required to give Kaprow official notice of that action. Kaprow, however, did not receive any notice of the Board's action until February 23, 1988, when he learned from the secretary of the local Board that it had created and filled two positions in which he claimed tenure rights. That notice, although it was unofficial and informal, was sufficient to trigger the ninety day limitations period. It is clear that Kaprow learned that the local Board had in fact taken final and formal action. Kaprow obviously believed that his tenured status entitled him to one or both of those positions under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 and the notice he had received was adequate to enable him to pursue his claim. In the future, it would be better if such information and notice is officially authorized and communicated by the local Board. Nonetheless, Kaprow's February 28th letter to the secretary of the local Board demonstrates that he had sufficient knowledge of the relevant facts to bring a RIF claim . . . Kaprow's attempt to resolve his claim through negotiations with the local Board is irrelevant. It does not negate the fact that he received adequate notice on February 23, nor does it toll the running of the limitations period. ...
> Kaprow received adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) on February 23, 1988, to trigger the ninety day limitations period. On that date he learned from the local Board the existence of that state of facts that would enable him to file a timely claim. To insist under these circumstances that there be additional or more specific notice will not further the objectives of the regulatory scheme, and would only defeat the considerations of repose and interfere with the efficient administration of the school laws. Because Kaprow received adequate notice on February 23, he was obligated to file his petition within the ninety day period. Kaprow, however, did not file his Petition until August 1, more than two months after the limitations period had expired. We, therefore, find that his claims are time barred by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). 131 N.J. at 588-589.

The Court also went on to find that the Board action taken subsequent to petitioner's dismissal was not sufficient to allow petitioner to invoke the Doctrine of Equitable Estoppel. See, 131 N.J. at 588-591.

The facts in the Kaprow matter are not unlike those in the instant matter since in Kaprow the initial actions taken by the Board occurred back in 1981 and he did not receive notification of positions being filled until February 1988 even though those positions had been filled approximately a year and a half to two years earlier. The facts in Kaprow also indicate that the notice of the Board's prior action was informal and unofficial not unlike the notification which the petitioner admits he received in this action from the Board's secretary in the Spring of 1995. Certainly petitioner was aware from oral communications with the Board secretary that the Board had taken action which effected a claimed right and there is no plausible explanation for petitioner waiting for almost nine months to come before the Board and then several more months or until April 12, 1996, before filing a Petition. See, also Nissman v. Board of Education of the Township of Long Beach Island, Ocean County, 272 N.J. Super. 373 (App. Div. 1994) cert. denied 137 N.J. 315 (1994), wherein the court upheld the limitations provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 and determined that the subsequent petition was time barred. In that case the Court determined that the ninety day time frame runs from the time that the petitioner first became aware of the Board's action and not from the date that the consequences of the action are directly felt by the employee. 272 N.J. Super. at 381-382. See, also Hoffman v. Township of Hillsborough, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 678-96, Agency Docket No. 22-1/96 in which the Commissioner noted that the petitioner's Petition was deemed to have been filed out of time under the ninety day rule where it was found that she was given notice that her request for a salary adjustment was denied by the Board and the ninety day limitations provisions would not be relaxed, notwithstanding that the parties were negotiating the issue.

CONCLUSION

Based upon the factual allegations contained in the filed Petition, as well as the facts recited in the earlier certification, the accrual of the petitioner's cause of action, occurred at the very latest upon petitioner's conversation with the Board's secretary in the Spring of 1995 and the filing of the instant Petition approximately a year later is time barred under the ninety day provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that the Petition of Samuel Schoonover is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former Director of Buildings and Grounds, contended the Board wrongfully refused to accept withdrawal of his retirement notice but, rather, subsequent to receipt of such notice, acted to eliminate his position.

Initially, the ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to show good cause to compel the taking of depositions and, therefore, the motion to compel depositions was denied. ALJ found that petitioner's claim that his acquisition of knowledge regarding his workers' compensation benefits or his learning that the Board had not accepted his withdrawal did not trigger the 90-day limitations period. Rather, the Board's action of June 27, 1995 accepting his resignation for retirement started the clock. Thus, the ALJ concluded that as a matter of law petition filed in October 1996 was time barred. ALJ concluded that even if this action were not time barred, petitioner cannot now unilaterally rescind or renegotiate his retirement package as it was duly accepted by the Board. The Board's motion for summary judgment was granted. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own with modification. Commissioner concurred with the denial of motion for deposition as petitioner failed to establish "good cause" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(c)i. Commissioner further agreed with the ALJ that the law was clear that petitioner could not unilaterally rescind his planned retirement that had been duly accepted by the Board. Therefore, Commissioner granted Board's motion for summary decision. The Commissioner determined given that the result in this case on its merits was clear, that it was unnecessary to consider the procedural issue with respect to the exact point in time petitioner's within cause of action arose in that it would contribute nothing to the ultimate outcome of this matter. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

On or about October 16, 1996 petitioner, Richard Manfria, filed a petition for Emergent Relief with the Department of Education. The petition sought an Order from the Commissioner declaring that the respondent, the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools (Board), acted illegally when it terminated the petitioner; the Board's refusal to accept a withdrawal of the petitioner's resignation; reinstatement, back pay and benefits retroactive to June 30, 1996; and temporary reinstatement pending the outcome of the instant controversy.

On October 15. 1996 the Commissioner directed that the petition for emergent relief be perfected within ten days. The petitioner timely perfected the pleadings and on November 8, 1996 the Board filed its answer in opposition to the petition. By Order dated November 15, 1996, the Commissioner DENIED the motion for emergent relief and transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing as a contested case.

On February 19, 1997, petitioner filed a motion to compel the depositions of the Superintendent of the School District and the School Business Administrator. On March 3, 1997, respondent filed a brief in opposition to the motion and a cross-motion for summary judgment which seeks to dismiss this matter with prejudice. This matter is scheduled for plenary hearings on October 27 and 28, 1997.

This initial decision concerns the motions filed by the parties.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

Richard Manfria, (Manfria) was employed by the respondent as its Director of Buildings and Grounds for approximately thirteen years and thus, was a tenured employee. In February 1993, Manfria, while on the job slipped and fell and sustained injuries to his back. He filed a worker's compensation claim and was out of work for ten months. In February 1994, Manfria returned to work. However, he continued to suffer from his injury and found that the pain made it impossible for him to carry out his job duties. (Affidavit of Richard Manfria (Manfria Affidavit), paragraph 5). Manfria spoke with the Superintendent of the School District, Dr. Thomas Bistocchi (Bistocchi) about his salary and his desire to retire (Bistocchi Certification, Paragraph 6). Manfria and Bistocchi agreed that the salary issue could be resolved as a part of the petitioner's retirement package. On May 5, 1995, Bistocchi sent a letter to Manfria memorializing their prior discussion and setting forth a settlement of the salary dispute. (Bistocchi's Certification, Exhibit A). The letter further advised that the Board was accepting the proposed settlement pending receipt of his retirement letter tentatively scheduled to be effective April 1, 1996 but no later than June 30, 1996. Since the payment of salary differential was scheduled for the May 18, 1995 Board of Education meeting, Manfria was directed to sign and date the agreement and return it to Bistocchi's office no later than May 12, 1995. Manfria returned the executed agreement consistent with directives set forth therein.

Thereafter, Bistocchi submitted the resignation to the Board and at its June 26, 1995 meeting, a resolution was adopted accepting the resignation. On June 27, 1995, the Board notified Manfria of its action. (Bistocchi Certification, Exhibit C). Further, the Board acknowledged that it would pay the disputed salary pursuant to the signed agreement.

On January 24, 1996 Manfria sent a letter to the school Business Administrator, John Paredes, advising that he was "voiding out" his letter of retirement. Further, that he would be submitting a new retirement letter after he had back surgery. The Board did not respond to this letter. On October 16, 1996, Manfria moved for emergent relief.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION

Petitioner moves for an order compelling the respondent's to submit to deposition. Respondent cross moves for summary judgment. The motion to compel depositions will be addressed first.

Initially, it must be emphasized that the Uniform Administrative Procedure Rules (UAPR), N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.1 et seq., are construed so as to achieve just results, procedural simplicity, fairness in administration, and the elimination of unjustifiable expense and delay. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1(a), the purpose of discovery is to facilitate the disposition of cases and, to this end, give litigants access to facts which may support or undermine their position or that of their adversary. In considering a discovery motion, the ALJ is to weigh the specific need for the information, the extent to which the information is in the control of the party, and matters of expense, privilege, trade secret and oppressiveness. N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1(c).

The UAPR provides for the taking of depositions only upon a motion for good cause. N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(c).i

> Depositions upon oral examination or written questions and physical and mental examinations are available only on motion for good cause. In deciding any such motion, the judge shall consider the policy governing discovery as stated in N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1 and shall weigh the specific need for the deposition or examination; the extent to which the information sought cannot be obtained in other ways; the requested location and time for the deposition or examination; undue hardship; and matters of expense, privilege, trade secret or oppressiveness. An order granting a deposition or an examination shall specify a reasonable time during which the deposition or examination shall be concluded.

Div. of Consumer Affairs v. Acme Markets, 3 N.J.A.R. 210 (1981). Good cause generally cannot be shown unless other discovery methods have proved inadequate. Indeed, the parties are obligated to exhaust all less formal opportunities to obtain discoverable material before invoking provisions for discovery practice. Acme Markets, supra at 213.

I FIND that the parties have not engaged in any of the less formal discovery methods. No interrogatories have been propounded, no requests for production of documents were made, and no requests for admissions have been sought. N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(a). Petitioner asserts that the fact-sensitive nature of this case and the need to elicit information from Dr. Bistocchi and Mr. Paredes as to their conversations regarding petitioner's retirement render traditional discovery methods inadequate. Moreover, petitioner contends that interrogatories would be difficult to fashion and would lead to only general answers. Even assuming this to be true, good cause cannot be shown until other discovery methods prove ineffective. Petitioner is obligated to exhaust all less formal discovery options before moving to compel depositions. Acme Markets, supra at 213. Here, the record reflects and petitioner concedes that no discovery has taken place. Instead, petitioner merely asserts that fashioning written interrogatories to obtain the information would be "difficult if not impossible." Difficulty in fashioning written interrogatories is not a factor to be weighed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(c)i.

I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to show good cause to compel the taking of depositions and therefore the motion is hereby DENIED.

Respondent moves for summary judgment on the basis that the material facts herein are undisputed and it is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. *N.J.*A.C. 1:1-12.5; Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company of America, 142 N.J. 520, 529 (1995). First, the petition is time bared under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1(c) and thus it should be dismissed. Further, the petitioner cannot unilaterally rescind his resignation. Since the Board had accepted the petitioner's resignation, it had no obligation to re-hire or retain the petitioner after the effective date of the resignation. Moreover, it is clear that the petitioner does not seek to rescind his resignation but is seeking to renegotiate its terms.

Petitioner contends that there are genuine disputed facts. Specifically, it is contended that the petitioner was mislead by the respondent. Indeed, it was the respondent's misrepresentations that induced the petitioner to resign. Petitioner further asserts that since discovery has not taken place, summary judgment is inappropriate.

Moreover, petitioner disputes that the petition is time barred. The ninety day time limitation for the filing of the instant matter commenced on July 15, 1996 and expired on October 13, 1996. The petition was filed on October 11, 1996 within the ninety day time limitation.

In an administrative proceeding, an ALJ may grant summary decision if the papers and discovery show that no genuine issue exists as to any disputed material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides as follows:

> The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

The administrative regulation is essentially the same as the court rule, R. 4:46-2, which governs summary judgment in civil actions. Thus, summary judgment principles and precedent are sufficiently analogous to apply to proceedings at the OAL.

Summary judgment has long been recognized as a valid procedure under which a legal issue may be quickly and inexpensively disposed of where the pleadings, affidavits, and other papers filed clearly show that no genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at a hearing exists. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The moving party bears the burden of proof and the court must draw all inferences of doubt against the movant. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 70, 74-75 (1954).

I FIND that there are no genuine issues of material fact that would require a hearing in this matter. The issue herein are legal and not factual.

The first issue is whether this action is time barred by the ninety-day rule. If so, the matter will not be permitted to proceed. The second issue is whether the petitioner resigned from his position and is simply attempting to re-negotiate the terms of his retirement.

As an employee of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools, petitioner's action arises under the school laws. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) governs the filing of actions arising under the school laws and establishes the ninety day rule.

It provides that:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

Thus, the ninety day rule requires that a petition be filed within ninety days of the receipt of notice of a final order, ruling or other Board action. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The ninety days begin to run on the date of some identifiable action taken by the board. Here, the ninety days began to run when the petitioner received notice that the Board had accepted his resignation at their regular board meeting on June 26, 1995. The Board sent petitioner a letter to that effect on June 27, 1995. The ninety days began to run as of June 27, 1995.

The validity of the N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) was discussed in Kaprow v. Board of Ed. of Berkeley, 131 N.J. 572 (1993), wherein the Supreme Court upheld the authority of the Commissioner and the State Board to establish a time limitation for the resolution of disputes arising under the school laws. The Court reasoned that:

> The limitation period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between the teachers and the administration. ... The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. Moreover, because local school boards operate on a cash basis, claims must be filed promptly so that the local board can anticipate any back-pay requirements.

CF: Nissman v. Board of Ed., 272 N.J. Super 373, 380 (App. Div. 1994), certif. denied, 137 N.J. 315 (1994).

Petitioner contends that he did not know until January 24, 1996 that his worker's compensation claim would provide for his treatment and thus enable him to return to work. Thus, petitioner wrote to the Board at that time, indicating that he wished to submit a new retirement letter. The Board did not respond to this letter. There was no communication between the Board and petitioner until May 1996 when the Board sent a letter to petitioner regarding pension and benefits matters. It was at this time that he learned that the Board had not accepted his withdrawal of his resignation. Assuming the facts most favorable to the petitioner, the ninety days would have run by August 1996. However, petitioner did not file the petition until October 1996. Thus, it must be concluded that even if that May, 1996 action by the Board started the limitations clock, petitioner still filed his claim out of time.

Petitioner further asserts that he learned he had a cause of action in July 1996, when his attorney received a letter from the Board's attorney which indicated that the Board considered petitioner retired.

In Willson v. Toms River Regional School Dist., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 872 a similar argument was made and rejected. There a food services instructor retired after twenty-five years of service, during the last of which the school accommodated petitioner by extending the food services program so that petitioner could receive full retirement benefits. Pursuant to their arrangement, petitioner tendered his letter of resignation in January 1994 for retirement effective July 1995 and the Board accepted his resignation at a meeting in August 1994. In June 1995, after not being able to secure other employment, petitioner requested that his resignation be withdrawn. Id. It was concluded therein that the petitioner's action was time-barred, because the only date which could reasonably be construed as beginning the limitations period was the date on which the Board notified the petitioner that it had accepted his resignation, that is, August 1994. Id. at 874. The ALJ explicitly rejected the notion that the rescission letter constituted continuing negotiations with the Board. Id.

Here, the petitioner seeks to enlarge the period of time within which he had to file a petition based on what he know and when he had knowledge. However, the ninety-day rule specifically requires board action to trigger the running of the ninety days, not action or knowledge on the part of a claimant. As the court stated in Nissman, "the 90 days begin on the date on which the final action of the local Board took place,...not the date on which petitioner claims that a substantive right accrued." Nissman , supra at 381. Under the public policy rationale expressed in Kaprow, supra, if cases could be brought based on when knowledge accrued to a petitioner, the Board would never know when or if a claim was going to be pursued. Clearly, this violates the mandate of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) which is designed to offer both repose and security that claims can only be instituted within a given period of time. Kaprow v. Board of Ed., 131 N.J. 572, 582 (1993) Some objective event must occur to trigger the limitations period. Id. at 587.

Therefore, I FIND that the petitioner's claim that his acquisition of knowledge regarding his worker's compensation benefits or his learning that the Board had not accepted his withdrawal did not trigger the ninety day limitations period. Rather, only board action pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) can start the clock. I further FIND that the Board took its action on June 27, 1995, when it notified the petitioner that it had accepted his resignation for retirement. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that as a matter of law, the petitioner's action is time-barred.

I further CONCLUDE that even if this action were not time barred, petitioner cannot now rescind or re-negotiate his retirement package. It is well settled law in New Jersey that a resignation or retirement may not be unilaterally rescinded once it is accepted by the local school board.[1] Once retirement/resignation is accepted, the employment relationship is terminated and withdrawal of the resignation is ineffectual. See Andrews v. Lamb, 136 N.J.L. 548 (Sup. Ct. 1948); Cutro v. Hazlet Township Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 402; Fisher v. East Orange Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 8; Hanley v. East Brunswick Bd. of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 157; Sathan v. North Brunswick Bd. of Ed., 1989 S.L.D. 87. However, a resignation may be withdrawn before it is accepted, Kozack v. Waterford Bd. of Ed., 1976 S.L.D. 633, and can be rescinded if the local board consents to the rescission. See Mancuso v. No. Arlington Boro., 203 N.J. Super. 427 (App. Div. 1985).

Here, petitioner's retirement was clearly accepted by the Board at its June 1995 meeting. In addition, no claim can be made that the school board consented to a rescission. More importantly, however, is the fact that the petitioner's letter does not express that he wishes to rescind his resignation. Rather, the January 26, 1996 letter express an intent to re-negotiate the retirement package. Specifically, the letter provides: "I will be submitting a new retirement letter when I am released from the Doctor...." Petitioner makes no claim in this letter that he wants his position back or that he has any intent of returning to work. Rather, the letter reflects his intent to re-negotiate the terms of his retirement to correct an alleged pension problem with his pay and a dispute over vacation, sick and personal time. It is only in the instant brief before this tribunal that the petitioner asserts that he wants his job back. The Board did not respond to this letter and was under no obligation to do so, the matter of petitioner's retirement having been concluded seven months earlier.

[1] Note that under an analogous regulation of the Civil Service code, a permanent employee in the career service may resign in good standing by giving at least 14 days notice. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.1(a). A resignation is considered accepted by the appointing authority upon receipt of the notice of resignation. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.1(b). A request to rescind a resignation prior to its effective date may be consented to by the appointing authority. N.J.A.C. 4A:2-6.1(c).

Petitioner further asserts that he was misled by respondent regarding his Worker's Compensation benefits and medical treatment and that such information induced his retirement. However, a resignation can only be voided or rescinded upon a showing of duress or coercion in the procurement of the resignation. Coercion and duress exist only where there are threats made and one's will is controlled. In Gobac v. Davis, 62 N.J. Super. 148 (Law Div. 1960), a tenured employee with the Division of Alcoholic Beverage Control was told he must either resign or he would be terminated immediately without a hearing. Plaintiff signed a prepared letter of resignation and later claimed duress. In finding that plaintiff was coerced into resigning, the court looked to the threats made and the extent to which those threats controlled the will of the threatened person. Id. at 157.

Conversely, in McBride v. Atlantic City, 146 N.J. Super. 498 (Law Div. 1974), aff'd 72 N.J. 201 (1976), a police officer was told he must resign or he would be criminally charged. The police officer was a mature person and experienced policeman who was well aware of his legal rights and right to a hearing before discharge. Id. at 506. The court concluded that the officer was not coerced because he had participated in several meetings with the commissioner and deputy commissioner regarding his options and had time to consider the consequences of his decision. Id. In Manzo v. Jersey City Div. of Health, 92 N.J.A.R.2d 117 (CSV), petitioner resigned because his circumstances made him saddened, upset and possibly depressed. The Appellate Division, upholding the ALJs decision and reversing the Merit System Board, determined that "distressful circumstances" do not rise to the level of duress or coercion. Instead, evidence of unlawful threats and the will of the person being overcome must be present. I/M/O/ Manzo, A-2872-91 and A-1326-92 (unreported) (App. Div., Nov. 1, 1993) Evaul v. Camden Bd. of Ed., 35 N.J. 244 (1961).

In the instant case, petitioner claims only that he was misled. Even if he was misled, which is doubtful since petitioner was represented at all times by a worker's compensation attorney, this clearly does not rise to the level of threats sufficient to overcome his will. Misinformation simply cannot be likened to duress and coercion.

Therefore, whatever information petitioner later learned regarding his worker's compensation benefits and/or insurance coverage cannot be used now as a basis for rescinding his resignation. I FIND and CONCLUDE that the petitioner's resignation was voluntarily entered into, was submitted to the Board at his behest, and the Board acted in accordance with the terms of his retirement.

It is therefore ORDERED that the petitioner's motion to compel the taking of the respondent's deposition is hereby DENIED and it is further ORDERED that the respondent's motion for summary judgment is hereby GRANTED and this matter is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RICHARD MANFRIA,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE UNION COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, UNION COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon his review, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, as the within petitioner has failed to establish "good cause," pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.2(c)i, to justify depositions being compelled from the District's Superintendent and School Business Administrator, his motion in this regard must be denied. The Commissioner further agrees with the ALJ that the law is clear that petitioner in this matter, having proffered notice of his planned retirement, which was duly accepted by the Board in June 1995, cannot, subsequently, unilaterally rescind such retirement, (see Andrews, Cutro, Fisher, Hanley, Sathan, supra) and, as such, the Board's motion for summary decision must be granted.*

* In that the result in this case on its merits is clear, i.e., the Board is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law, the Commissioner resolves that an arduous consideration of the parties' respective arguments and the discussion of the ALJ on the procedural issue with respect to the exact point in time petitioner's within cause of action arose is unnecessary in that it would contribute nothing to the ultimate outcome of this matter. As such, the Commissioner declines to reach this procedural issue.

Accordingly, the initial decision, as modified herein, is adopted. Summary decision is hereby granted to the Board, and the Petition of Appeal is dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

DEBORAH SUITT-GREEN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:
NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

State-operated School District certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, corporal punishment and insubordination against respondent teacher.

Initially, the ALJ denied respondent's motion to dismiss certain charges based on alleged incidents that occurred between 1989 and 1993 due to application of res judicata, collateral estoppel or N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13. ALJ found that the charges were not litigated in 1993; the Board did not render a decision on the merits; and the District was not barred from subsequent refiling of the charges. Next, in light of overwhelming testimony and documentary evidence, the ALJ found that the District did prove incidents documenting respondent's propensity to become upset, yell, scream, use offensive and abusive language, engage in irrational behavior and lose self-control among students and her colleagues. ALJ also found that the District gave her numerous reprimands and negative memoranda. Thus, the ALJ concluded that respondent had given the District just cause for dismissing her. Considering the seriousness of the offenses, the number of offenses and the length of time over which these offenses were committed, from 1989 to 1996, the penalty of dismissal was not excessive or unreasonable. (Redcay) ALJ ordered respondent dismissed from her tenured teaching staff position.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed respondent be dismissed from her position as of the date of this decision. Matter was referred to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.

STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY, Petitioner,

v.

DEBORAH SUITT-GREEN,

Respondent.

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for petitioner

Eugene G. Liss, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: July 28, 1997 Decided: August 25, 1997

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

This matter involves tenure charges filed by the petitioner, the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, against respondent, a tenured teaching staff member, for dismissal or reduction in compensation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County (District), certified and filed tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education against the respondent, Deborah Suitt-Green, on April 4, 1996. The Statement of Charges alleges that the respondent is guilty of corporal punishment, unbecoming conduct and insubordination, which, if true, would warrant dismissal or reduction salary. An answer, denying the charges and asserting affirmative defenses, was filed by the respondent on June 12, 1996.

On June 24, 1996, the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was held on September 16, 1996, resulting in the entry of a prehearing order, dated September 26, 1996, fixing hearing dates, providing for discovery, and regulating other procedural matters connected to the forthcoming hearing. The hearing was scheduled to be held at the OAL in Newark, New Jersey, from May 5 through May 9, 1997.

On April 16, 1997, the respondent filed a motion to dismiss many of the charges based on the alleged incidents that occurred between April 7, 1989, and June 24, 1993, because those charges had been considered by the Newark Board of Education (Board) in 1993, at which time the Board decided not to certify them to the Commissioner. The petitioner filed papers in opposition. (The Board was the District's predecessor.)

The motion to dismiss, which was the equivalent of a motion for partial summary decision, was not decided because of late filing, approximately two weeks before the hearing was to begin. Instead, the application was deferred, to be dealt with at the end of the entire case.

The hearing was held on May 5, 6, 7 and 9, 1997. Twelve witnesses testified for the petitioner and four witnesses, including the respondent, testified for Ms. Suitt-Green. More than forty documentary exhibits were marked in evidence by the parties, an itemized list of which is contained in the Appendix attached hereto. Posthearing briefs were filed by both parties, and the record closed on July 28, 1997, when the last submission was filed.

ISSUES

The issues, as set forth in the prehearing order, are:

a) Did the acts of the respondent, as alleged in the charges, constitute unbecoming conduct or other just cause for dismissal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.?

b) If the charges or any of them are proved, is the penalty of dismissal justified?

c) Are some of the charges barred because they were prior charges that were not acted on or were dismissed?

Charge Five: Pattern of Insubordination

5. During the 1993-94 through to the present school year, the respondent committed numerous acts of insubordination, defiance and gross insubordination by refusing to comply with the directives, instructions and assigned duties by her supervisors. The respondent refused to quiet her class, enroll students in her class, submit reports or attendance figures upon request.

TESTIMONY FOR THE DISTRICT

The petitioner's first witness was Mark Davis, an executive assistant, facilities management, who worked as a substitute teacher at the Mount Vernon School in 1994-

95. He testified about an incident that occurred on April 3, 1995, involving a student, M.G., who wanted to retrieve his coat from Ms. Suitt-Green's classroom. According to Mr. Davis, the respondent refused his request to allow the boy to get his coat, because she did not have time and was leaving the building.

Mr. Davis said that he then escorted M.G. to a vice principal, who gave Mr. Davis the key to respondent's classroom with instructions to escort the student into the room, retrieve the coat, lock the door and return to the vice principal's office. Mr. Davis indicated that upon leaving the classroom, he and the student were confronted by Ms. Suitt-Green and accosted for entering the classroom. Ms. Suitt-Green made various loud accusations against the student, saying that he was a thief, a criminal, a drug dealer, a motherfucker and "he ain't shit."

Mr. Davis testified that the vice principal and several other teachers overheard the confrontation, and that when the vice principal tried to find out what the problem was Ms. Suitt-Green continued the verbal assault, calling M.G. "poor white trash." Mr. Davis stated that he felt insulted by the unprofessional language used, and that M.G. was reduced to tears. The next day Mr. Davis submitted a written report of the incident to the acting principal, Carol Schwartz (Exhibit P-4).

Antoinette Odoms was a substitute special education teacher at the Peshine Avenue School during the 1988-89 school year. She testified about an incident that occurred in April 1989 when she was in the auditorium preparing for a PTA fashion show. According to Ms. Odoms, the respondent, who seemed to be angry and upset, asked her to cover her class because she was going to "whip someone's ass." Ms. Odoms was concerned by this remark and reported it to Vice Principal William May.

William May, who was a vice principal at the Peshine Avenue School in 1988-89, testified about a different incident in which he was personally involved, on April 7, 1989. Mr. May had been speaking to a class about proper behavior, and he told the students that he expected the same standards of behavior from them as from his own son, who was in private school. According to Mr. May, when the respondent saw him in the hall the next day she charged out of her room and shouted "I don't give a flying hyena about your son in private school." Confirming a written statement about the incident, Mr. May said that Ms. Suitt-Green was ranting and raving in a very high-pitched voice, the veins in her neck were bulging and her eyes were glassy and watery. Mr. May said that he remained calm and left the area after telling Ms. Suitt-Green that he thought it would be best for her to leave for the day, which she did. See Exhibit P-2 at 1 and 4.

Daniel Antonacci, Sr., vice principal at the Vailsburg Middle School in the 1993-94 school year, testified that at a meeting in May 1993 the respondent made several remarks about other staff members that he considered to be unprofessional. He also indicated that, as a group of staff members walked down the stairs with a student, Ms. Suitt-Green accused another staff member, Ms. Felder, of being a drug addict, a cocaine addict and someone who "nods off" at her desk. Mr. Antonacci stated that he told her to contact the authorities if she had evidence of illegal activities. However, he believed her remarks to be without foundation. See Exhibit P-6.

Deborah Yvonne Irvin, an eighth-grade teacher in the Mount Vernon School, testified in support of an incident report she addressed to Dr. Charles Mitchel, her principal, about an occurrence she witnessed in June 1995. After hearing a commotion in the hallway involving two eighth-grade students, Ms. Irvin found another teacher nearby, Mr. Best, and she asked him to explain what had happened. As Mr. Best was telling Ms. Irvin about the incident, the respondent came down the hall hollering and screaming at Mr. Best. Ms. Irvin said that Ms. Suitt-Green "jumped in [Mr. Best's] face," pointing her finger at him, while yelling and conducting herself in a very unprofessional manner. The respondent attacked Mr. Best's manhood and called him many disrespectful names. According to Ms. Irvin, the more she attempted to calm the respondent down, the louder the respondent became, continuing to shout at Mr. Best, face to face with him. While she had no independent recollection of the respondent's specific accusations, her report states that the respondent told Mr. Best that he was worse than the scum of the earth, and he needed to find out who he was. Finally, the respondent left the scene and walked toward her classroom, still screaming. Ms. Irvin said that Mr. Best did not respond to Ms. Suitt-Green's attack, and he conducted himself in a very professional manner. See Exhibit P-11.

Ray Dandridge, assistant principal at the Mount Vernon School from 1994 through 1996 and the respondent's immediate supervisor, testified that a meeting had been called on March 7, 1996, to give the respondent an opportunity to respond to a complaint made against her by a community aide, Ms. Pettys. Present at the meeting were the respondent, the principal, Mr. Dandridge, and Ms. Key, another staff member. According to Mr. Dandridge, after he had informed Ms. Suitt-Green of the purpose of the meeting, she used unprofessional and inappropriate language in reference to her colleagues at the school. In the course of the meeting, she stated, about another staff member, "you are not a 'house nigger' like others around here. You do not go running to the 'Caucasian master.' They (your colleagues) did it with Dr. D'Agostino (a former principal) and now they are doing it with you." Exhibit P-8.

In a memorandum to Ms. Suitt-Green dated March 12, 1996, Mr. Dandridge wrote, in reference to Ms. Suitt-Green's remarks at the March 7 meeting, "This kind of racially derogatory language is both unprofessional and a totally inappropriate manner [in which] to refer to fellow employees in a school setting. You are cautioned never to use this kind, or any other kind of unprofessional language at Mount Vernon School again." Exhibit P-8. The respondent received the memo, but refused to sign the receipt for it.

Mr. Dandridge testified about another occurrence on March 13, 1996, when he escorted two of the respondent's students back to her class and reminded them that they had been instructed to line up with the group before proceeding to the next class. He said that the respondent defended them in a loud, boisterous voice, indicating that her students were role models and that the problem students belonged to other teachers who needed to be spoken to. When Mr. Dandridge asked Ms. Suitt-Green to lower her voice because she was speaking inappropriately and not setting a good example for the students, the respondent disregarded that instruction and persisted, stating that she would see him in court. According to Mr. Dandridge, the respondent continued to speak very loudly, and he thought it best to remove himself from the scene. The next day he sent a memorandum to Ms. Suitt-Green about this incident, in which he called her behavior unbecoming of a professional (Exhibit P-7).

The last incident testified to by Mr. Dandridge involved a student, M.G., who had been administratively assigned to the respondent's class on March 2, 1995. Mr. Dandridge said he had escorted M.G. to respondent's classroom and informed Ms. Suitt-Green that the boy was being transferred to her class. He testified that she refused to accept M.G. When Ms. Suitt-Green attempted to explain her reason, Mr. Dandridge suggested that the conversation be continued at another time because the student was becoming upset by her tone of voice and adverse comments about him. In addition, the conversation took place inside the classroom, with other students present. Mr. Dandridge then escorted the student away from the scene. This event was documented by Mr. Dandridge in a memo to the respondent dated March 2, 1995 (Exhibit P-14).

Shirley Key was a fifth-grade teacher at the Mount Vernon School from 1994 through 1996. She was also a union representative and grade-level chairperson. Ms. Key testified that she was present at the meeting on March 7, 1996, that was called by the principal. Ms. Key stated that she heard the respondent refer to Ms. Pettys as a "house nigger." In addition, Ms. Key said that the respondent was classifying other staff members as either "house niggers" or "field niggers." Ms. Key did not recall which teachers were placed in which category. She said that she immediately tried to get Ms. Suitt-Green to be quiet, and that the principal was speechless. At that point, the principal ended the meeting. See Exhibit P-8.

Thomas J. Ward, supervisor of security services, was a public school investigator for the City of Newark in 1988-89. At that time, he investigated reported misconduct by the respondent at the Peshine Avenue School. After speaking to several staff members, including the respondent, Mr. Ward filed his report with the senior investigator of the Division of Security Services. In his testimony, Mr. Ward referred specifically to page four of his report, wherein Ms. Suitt-Green confirmed her confrontation with William May on April 7, 1989, during which she said, "I don't give a flying hyena about your son in private school." The respondent denied, however, that she had used any foul or abusive language with the vice principal.

In addition, Mr. Ward pointed to page five of his report, which contains teacher Robert Wright's statement that the respondent said to him, "Get the fuck out you little punk," and Ms. Odoms's statement that the respondent was threatening to beat someone up and had said to her, "Cover my motherfucking class, I am going to whip some ass." The report also contains Ms. Odoms's statement that the respondent had jumped her, after which she informed supervisors that Ms. Suitt-Green was cursing in the hallway. (There are some details in the report that did not come out in the testimony of Ms. Odoms.) When asked on cross-examination about the manner in which he compiled his report, Mr. Ward stated that he wrote only what he was told by the people he interviewed, without embellishment. See Exhibit P-2, which contains statements made to Mr. Ward by the people he interviewed.

D.C., presently a tenth-grade student at Barringer High School, testified about an incident that took place in June 1993 when the respondent was his teacher in the Vailsburg Middle School. According to D.C., he became involved in a violent confrontation with another student after the respondent left the classroom; he hit the other student, and that student started to cry. When the respondent returned to the classroom and heard about the incident she instructed the other student to hit D.C. back. That student tried to follow her instructions, but D.C. resisted, and Ms. Suitt-Green pushed D.C.

D.C. further testified that the respondent drove to and stopped in front of his home that day after school, yelling and cursing at him out of the car window. He said that she threatened him while he stood on his front steps, but she did not leave her car. D.C. stated that Ms. Suitt-Green remained there for about fifteen or twenty minutes, and then drove away. No one else was at home at the time, but when his mother returned he reported the incident to her, and she reported it to school authorities.

C.J., D.C.'s mother, testified that she went to the school on the following day to speak to the principal, but he was not in his office. Instead, she went to the respondent's classroom, but she could not get in because the door had been locked. C.J. then reported the incident to Vice Principal Antonacci. Mr. Antonacci accompanied her back to the respondent's classroom, at which time Ms. Suitt-Green unlocked the door and came out into the hallway. According to C.J., her other son, G., asked the respondent why she had hit his brother. C.J. said that, in response, the respondent took out a container of mace and sprayed G. with it. Charges were then filed against Ms. Suitt-Green, but C.J. did not show up for the hearing. No further testimony was elicited about the mace incident.

Charles Mitchel, currently administration chairman at Seton Hall University, was principal of the Mount Vernon School in Newark during many of the years that respondent was employed there. He testified about several incidents involving Ms. Suitt-Green. The first incident reported to him took place on the morning of April 7, 1989, at the Peshine Avenue School. See Exhibit P-1. As assistant executive superintendent, Dr. Mitchel was responsible for that school at the time.

In his testimony, Dr. Mitchel reviewed Exhibit P-2, the seven-page document written by investigator Thomas Ward containing statements by various staff members concerning Ms. Suitt-Green's behavior on the morning of April 7, 1989. Mr. Ward's report primarily dealt with abusive and profane language used by the respondent toward others, beginning early that morning. For example:

> Sharon Hall stated that the respondent came to her door and said, "I am going to fuck you up," and "I am going to beat your ass." "Don't you fuck with my kids, I will get you at your car." Exhibit P-2 at 1.

> Ms. Odoms informed Mr. May that the respondent was "ranting and raving and threatening to beat someone's m-----f------ ass." Exhibit P-2 at 2.

Teacher Robert Wright stated that the respondent intervened when he attempted to speak to another teacher. Mr. Wright reported that the respondent said "you don't scare me, you fucking punk." After being told that there was a female ranting in an upstairs hallway, Vice Principal Vivian Brown called security, who in turn advised her to call the superintendent's office. She was instructed to first speak with the respondent to calm her down and tell her that she would have to leave for the rest of the day. She was further told to call Board security to put Ms. Suitt-Green out if she would not leave. However, Ms. Brown reported that security personnel arrived and informed her that the Newark Police Department would have to remove Ms. Suitt-Green because she was an employee in the Newark Board of Education. Exhibit P-2 at 2-3.

When summoned to a conference about these incidents on April 7 and told that she was endangering the students in her present state and had to leave the building, the respondent refused to do so. Exhibit P-2 at 3.

The last three pages of Exhibit P-2 contain short statements taken from various staff members who were affected by the respondent's behavior.

Dr. Mitchel also produced a memorandum written to the respondent on April 28, 1989, detailing some of the documentation he received about her conduct (Exhibit P-3). He met with her and others at the central Board office and concluded thereafter that the documentation of unprofessional conduct was overwhelming. Exhibit P-3 was given to Ms. Suitt-Green and a copy was placed in her personnel file. It is considered to be a strong warning.

Dr. Mitchel then referred to Exhibit P-10, a letter submitted to him by eighth-grade teacher Charles Best in which Mr. Best documented allegations of rudeness toward him by the respondent in the presence of others. June 1995 written statements from three other teachers (Exhibits P-11, P-12, and P-13) corroborate Mr. Best's account. According to Dr. Mitchel, the respondent claimed that Mr. Best had agitated the situation, contrary to the written statements of the other teachers. In October 1995, Mr. Best wrote another report relating to additional offensive conduct toward him by the respondent. He indicated that when he told one of Ms. Suitt-Green's students to stop acting up outside of the classroom, the respondent came out of the room and said "I'm sick of this shit and this man's mouth" and she slammed her door. Mr. Best said that he had a problem with her use of foul language in front of the students. Dr. Mitchel met with Ms. Suitt-Green again, and he testified that she interpreted the incident with Mr. Best differently and said that it had been instigated by Mr. Best. See Exhibit P-9.

Dr. Mitchel further testified about the events of March 7, 1996, which caused him to write a memorandum to the respondent relating to her "house nigger" comments (Exhibit P-8). Dr. Mitchel stated that he heard the remarks that she made during the meeting, and he considered them to be exceedingly unprofessional, regardless of the fact that she was angry because her colleagues had complained about her. Dr. Mitchel stated that he did not know the respondent to be a racist, but he considered her use of racially derogatory language to be unprofessional and totally inappropriate.

Dr. Mitchel also reviewed a letter sent to him by another teacher, Denise Hampton, on March 18, 1996, wherein Ms. Hampton identified several incidents of verbal attacks and threats against her by the respondent (Exhibit P-22). Ms. Hampton wrote, "I have been subjected to her rage constantly. I have endured her harassment up to this point. But now I am exhausted, and am no longer willing to work under such a stressful environment." She was concerned that the respondent's verbal attacks toward her would escalate into violence, and that continued conduct like this by the respondent would be detrimental to the Newark Board of Education and the Mount Vernon School. Ms. Hampton wrote that if the Board did not deal with the harassment swiftly, she would have her attorney contact the Board.

Dr. Mitchel testified that, after reviewing all of the incident documentation (some of which is recited above) and the results of meetings and consultations with other administrators, he decided to proceed with tenure charges, which were subsequently filed.

On cross-examination about the meeting that was held on March 7, 1996, regarding the allegations against the respondent by Ms. Pettys, Dr. Mitchel said that he had concluded that the information he received in total did not support Ms. Pettys's allegations. His reprimand to the respondent (Exhibit P-8) dealt with her conduct and language at the meeting. He interpreted her racially derogatory language to be her way of criticizing those who chose to complain to higher authorities. He did not find fault with such complaints.

Charles Best, a fifth-grade teacher in the Mount Vernon School, testified about the incident that occurred on June 19, 1995, and was recorded in detail by him (Exhibit P-10). He saw two students having an argument in the hall, which escalated into a fight. One of the students was in the respondent's class, and the respondent pulled that student into her classroom after Mr. Best had instructed both of the students to go to the vice principal's office. He said that the respondent refused to send her student to the office and she began to yell and scream at Mr. Best, telling him to "get out of [her] face." Then she told him that she would send the student out after she washed her face, and Mr. Best agreed. Mr. Best said that as he was walking away, the respondent shouted at him in front of the students and teachers, calling him a "faggot" and saying that he was a beast and the lowest scum of the earth. In his report, Mr. Best wrote, "No matter the reason, I as a professional should not be subjected to this kind of cruelty and madness. I don't know how I kept my cool, but I did." He identified the other teachers who witnessed this incident.

Mr. Best then testified about an incident that took place on October 10, 1995, when a student was acting up near the respondent's classroom and he told the student to stop. At that point, the respondent came out of her classroom and said, "I'm sick of this shit and this man's mouth," and she slammed the door. In a memo about this incident, Mr. Best wrote, "I don't have a problem with Ms. Green shutting the door, I have a problem with her using foul language in front of the students." Exhibit P-9.

Written statements by three other teachers corroborated Mr. Best's testimony and report about the June 1995 incident. Deborah Irvin wrote that she witnessed the respondent screaming at Mr. Best and calling him many disrespectful names. Ms. Irvin stated that Ms. Suitt-Green became louder each time she tried to walk her away, and she was still shouting at Mr. Best when she left. Exhibit P-11. Ms. Hampton wrote that she saw Ms. Irvin trying to get the respondent to calm down, without success. Ms. Hampton remained at the scene long enough to get the students out of the hallway and to watch the respondent finally walk back to her classroom. Exhibit P-12. Ms. Hannibal confirmed that the respondent questioned Mr. Best's manhood and made other unprofessional and embarrassing remarks during the verbal attack in front of students and staff members. Ms. Hannibal also noted that the respondent became more agitated as Ms. Irvin attempted to quiet her down. Exhibit P-13.

All three statements referred to above clearly state that Mr. Best did not respond to the respondent's yelling and finger pointing in any way, and he kept his composure throughout the verbal bashing. The statements indicate that Mr. Best is to be commended for conducting himself in a very professional manner, despite extreme provocation.

Carol Schwartz, a vice principal at Mount Vernon School who supervises instruction and instructional staff, also testified about the incident that occurred in early March 1995. Ms. Schwartz directed Mr. Dandridge to take a student, M.G., to the respondent's class and enroll him there as an administrative assignment. Mr. Dandridge reported to Ms. Schwartz that Ms. Suitt-Green had refused to accept the student. See Exhibit P-14. Mr. Dandridge further reported that when the respondent attempted to explain to Mr. Dandridge why she did not want the student to be in her class, he recommended to her that the discussion be continued another time, because M.G. was hurt by Ms. Suitt-Green's derogatory remarks about him.

According to Ms. Schwartz, for five days following that incident M.G. was not enrolled in any class and just wandered the school or was absent. On March 6, 1995, the respondent sent a memo to Ms. Schwartz, Exhibit R-2, explaining why she, along with other seventh-grade teachers, would not accept M.G. She referred to the student as a drug abuser and trafficker. She also stated that M.G. had a gun in his possession and was therefore a danger to students and staff.

Ms. Schwartz asked to be supplied with specific documentation of these allegations about M.G., which she referred to as serious and in need of substantiation. Exhibit P-16. Ms. Schwartz testified that she then met with the respondent, who became "agitated and out of control" and accused her of being a racist, along with another vice principal. According to Ms. Schwartz, the respondent said to her, "You'll be sorry you ever met me." In a later memo to the respondent, Ms. Schwartz stated that she felt threatened and intimidated by these comments and by Ms. Suitt-Green's uncontrolled anger (Exhibit P-18). She testified that Ms. Suitt-Green was trembling during this conversation. After consulting with a teachers' union representative, Ms. Schwartz wrote a directive to the respondent, Exhibit P-15, giving her a direct order to enroll M.G. in her class. This directive also stated that the respondent's allegations about the student were investigated and proved to be unfounded.

On cross-examination of Ms. Schwartz, counsel attempted to show that M.G. was dangerous and incorrigible to the point where a teacher was justified in refusing to accept him. However, Ms. Schwartz stated that the refusal took place in front of the student, who later said that he knew he was not wanted. Ms. Schwartz indicated that she would have been willing to discuss the matter, but strongly objected to the manner in which the respondent went about the refusal, in front of M.G. She also stated that the respondent never obtained any information in support of the allegations she made about the student.

TESTIMONY FOR THE RESPONDENT

Testifying in her own behalf, the respondent, Deborah Suitt-Green, discussed the M.G. enrollment-refusal matter. She said that this young man was taller and older than the average student in her class; that the other pupils were afraid of him; and that she was afraid that he would destroy the atmosphere in the class. The respondent said that M.G. had previously beaten up other students, had absenteeism and drug problems and was known to be difficult in class. She also stated that some teachers had told her that he took things and could not be controlled because he floated all over the school. In addition, the respondent testified that a crossing guard had told her that she saw M.G. with a gun, passing drugs and allowing adults into the building.

Ms. Suitt-Green stated that she did not know ahead of time that M.G. would be assigned to her class, and when she was instructed to take him she wanted to negotiate the situation and delay it. She denied refusing to admit the student, saying that the incident did not occur as described. Ms. Suitt-Green testified that M.G. was standing there, and that Mr. Dandridge wanted to discuss M.G.'s admittance to her class at another time. He then took the boy back with him.

Respondent stated that M.G. ultimately was admitted to her class, after her written warning to the administrative staff on March 6, 1995. See Exhibits R-2 and P-17, which appear to have been written simultaneously. The respondent stated that M.G. destroyed property in her classroom, much of it her own. She described specific incidents involving M.G. in order to show how difficult this student was. See Exhibits R-3, R-4 and R-6.

The respondent identified a March 9, 1995 letter from the school crossing guard, Anixa M. Williams, to the Newark Board of Education (Exhibit R-5) as her source for the allegation that M.G. was involved in drugs and possessed a gun. In the letter, Ms. Williams referred to a group of youths, but she did not mention any names. The respondent admitted that she never saw M.G. with drugs, never saw him dealing drugs and never saw him with a gun in his possession. She said that she just believed that the information given to her by the school crossing guard was true.

Referring to Charges 1b and 3c, which relate to the April 4, 1995 incident involving M.G., the respondent stated that she did not know why he appeared in her room to get a coat, and she did not know if it was his coat. In addition, she was worried about her own property in the classroom. Ms. Suitt-Green said that M.G. was upset, called her names and swore at her. She denied calling him derogatory names, such as "poor white trash," as testified to by Mark Davis and reported in his account of the incident (Exhibit P-4).

The respondent then discussed the incident of March 8, 1995, testified to by Acting Principal Carol Schwartz. Ms. Suitt-Green denied that she shouted or called Ms. Schwartz a racist. She denied threatening Ms. Schwartz by saying "You'll be sorry you ever met me" (Charge 3j). The respondent admitted that prior to this incident, she had taken offense at being called a "gal" by Ms. Schwartz. She said that African-American women are offended by that term, which is considered to be degrading and possibly racist. Ms. Suitt-Green indicated that her grandfather used to call his mule "gal," and that the term has become derogatory and is used to show disrespect. She said that the same interpretation is given to the term "girl."

Ms. Suitt-Green wrote a memorandum to Ms. Schwartz (Exhibit R-7) on March 15, 1995, after she received a memo of understanding from Ms. Schwartz (Exhibit P-18). The respondent wrote that she could not say if she had called Ms. Schwartz or anyone else a racist, but that she considered some of the actions taken against her and other staff members and students as racist in nature. She chastised Ms. Schwartz for using the term "gals," which she said is the same as calling an African-American man a "boy" or a "nigger." She concluded her memo by differentiating between interpretation and opinion.

On cross-examination, the respondent denied having called Ms. Schwartz a racist, and reiterated that she interpreted "gal" as racist terminology.

The respondent's version of the June 19, 1995 incident involving Charles Best (Charge 3d) was completely different than that of Mr. Best and others. Ms. Suitt-Green said that the two students fighting in the hall ended up in front of her door, and that she went out and stopped them. According to the respondent, no other teachers were in the hall at the time. She said that Mr. Best came out and yelled at her and called her a bitch, incompetent, unprofessional and interfering. She said that he told her to mind her own business, and then he went away.

Ms. Suitt-Green documented her version of the incident (Exhibit R-8). She wrote that she went out into the hallway and found an eighth-grade student crying, cursing, yelling, etc. It appeared that another student was "coming after her." Ms. Suitt-Green told the student to come into her room, calm down and wash her face. She said that when she stepped back out into the hallway to see if any eighth-grade students were there she was verbally assaulted by Mr. Best, who called her names, said that she was interfering, told her to stay out of his business and said that the children should not speak to her. Ms. Suitt-Green wrote that, if necessary, she would contact the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and have an ACLU representative explain to Mr. Best that he could not dictate to whom students or teachers could speak. She concluded her written statement with the criticism that the talent shows produced by Mr. Best always have sexual overtones.

The respondent then testified about Daniel Antonacci's testimony and his report of May 24, 1993, relating to unprofessional conduct by the respondent (Exhibit P-6). Referring to the portion of the report about her charge that Ms. Felder was a drug addict and that she "nods off" at her desk, the respondent admitted that she said Ms. Felder "nods off" and that she is suspected of being a drug addict. The respondent testified that she could see powder in Ms. Felder's nose.

Ms. Suitt-Green admitted that during the March 7, 1996 conference with Dr. Mitchel she stated that she was not a "house nigger" like others and that she does not go running to the "Caucasian master" (Charge 3a). She said that she was frustrated with her inability to get to Dr. Mitchel and see to it that the complaint against her by Ms. Pettys would be left alone. She further explained that she used the words to inform Dr. Mitchel about the meaning of those words as she understood it.

On cross-examination, the respondent was confronted with her own affidavit, wherein she said that she never used the terms "house nigger" or "Caucasian master."

She explained that the denial was her way of trying to respond to the memo sent to her by Dr. Mitchel, Exhibit P-8, which she regarded as misleading. Ms. Suitt-Green said that she did use the words, but "not in that context." The respondent equivocated when asked if these terms were racist, unlike her certainty about the word "gal."

Testifying about the June 1993 incident involving D.C., Ms. Suitt-Green acknowledged that she did go to the student's house, but not because she wanted to confront him or shout at him. She did not find anyone at home, so she left. She said that she had wanted to speak to D.C.'s mother, who had previously asked Ms. Suitt-Green to let her know about any problems with her son, and that she had to go to the house because the family had no telephone. She had noticed that D.C. had been asking to go to bathroom at about the same time every day, and she found out that D.C. had been smoking in the bathroom with a group of other students each afternoon. The respondent said that she did not actually see the smoking, but smelled smoke outside of the bathroom.

Ms. Suitt-Green said that one week later, D.C.'s mother and other family members came to her classroom, acting belligerently and demanding to know why she had assaulted D.C. She told them she did not know what they were talking about, and she sent two of her students to inform security that she felt threatened. Ms. Suitt-Green also said that D.C.'s brother threatened to beat her up, and she sprayed mace in his direction when he lunged toward her.

In her testimony relating to Charge 5 (pattern of insubordination), the respondent denied having raised her voice to Mr. Dandridge, and she denied having commented that she would see him in court.

Teacher Denise Hampton had charged, in a letter to Dr. Mitchel in March 1996 (Exhibit P-22), that Ms. Suitt-Green had discussed Ms. Hampton's finances with several of her colleagues and made false statements about Ms. Hampton's private life and her relationship with her husband. She also complained of other incidents of alleged harassment. The respondent denied these accusations by Ms. Hampton, and she indicated that she had filed a complaint with the ACLU naming Denise Hampton. Ms. Suitt-Green likewise denied or could not recall the alleged incidents of disruptive behavior, verbal assault and threats of physical harm by her against others described in an incident report (Exhibit P-1) filed by Vice Principal Vivian Brown on April 10, 1989 (Charges 3e, f & g).

The respondent submitted five evaluation reports for the school years preceding 1994-95. Her overall performance rating was satisfactory in each of these evaluations.

Anixa Williams, the school crossing guard who wrote a report on unauthorized persons within school boundaries, testified on respondent's behalf about her impression of M.G., the student whom the respondent initially refused to accept into her class. Ms. Williams said that she had seen M.G. smoking marijuana, drinking alcohol and fighting on the street during school hours. Ms. Williams indicated that M.G. was part of a larger group whom she wrote about generally in her report. However, she stated that she never saw him with a gun.

Ruth DiChiara, a retired teacher, testified that she was on the Supervisory Committee of the Newark Board of Education Teachers' Credit Union along with the respondent. Ms. DiChiara stated that she never received any complaints about a breach of confidentiality by Ms. Suitt-Green.

RESPONDENT'S MOTION TO DISMISS CERTAIN CHARGES

As set forth in the procedural history above, respondent filed a prehearing motion to dismiss certain charges of unbecoming conduct and "other just cause" based on alleged incidents that occurred between April 7, 1989, and June 24, 1993. These prior tenure charges were filed with and considered by the Newark Board of Education on October 26, 1993. The respondent and her attorney appeared at a closed session of the Newark Board of Education at that time to answer the charges and the statement of evidence presented. The Board did not find probable cause to certify the charges to the Commissioner of Education, and respondent was returned to employment.

The current tenure charges against respondent, dated April 4, 1996, generally allege corporal punishment, conduct unbecoming a teacher and a pattern of insubordination. These charges are based upon the incidents previously considered by the Newark Board of Education in 1993, as well as incidents which have occurred since then and up to March 18, 1996.

The respondent has characterized the Board's 1993 decision not to certify the tenure charges as a final determination on the merits and claims that new litigation of those charges must be barred in accordance with the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel. The respondent also claims that the earlier tenure charges filed against respondent are barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13. The motion was not decided prior to hearing because of late filing, but is considered and decided now.

The respondent's argument for dismissal because of the application of res judicata or collateral estoppel is incorrect. The tenure charges were not litigated in 1993 by the Newark Board of Education, and the Board did not render a decision on the merits. The proceeding before the Board included the filing of tenure charges, consideration of those charges by the Board and the Board's subsequent determination that the charges would not be certified to the Commissioner of Education, based on lack of probable cause.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 provides:

> Any charge made against any employee of a board of education under tenure during good behavior and efficiency shall be filed with the secretary of the board in writing, and a written statement of evidence under oath to support such charge shall be presented to the board. The board of education shall forthwith provide such employee with a copy of the charge, a copy of the statement of the evidence and an opportunity to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence under oath with respect thereto. After consideration of the charge, statement of position and statements of evidence presented to it, the board shall determine by majority vote of its full membership > whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge and whether such charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary. The board of education shall forthwith notify the employee against whom the charge has been made of its determination . . . . In the event the board finds that such probable cause exists and that the charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall forward such written charge to the commissioner for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:6-16.[1]

This statute imposes no requirement on a local board of education to adjudicate the tenure charges filed against an employee, nor to render a final decision on the merits of those charges. Instead, the board is required to consider the submitted written statement of evidence and the employee's written statement of position and to "determine by a majority vote . . . whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges and whether such charges, if credited, are sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary." N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b)(4). As indicated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, where charges are certified to the Commissioner, any required hearing is conducted by the Commissioner.

Therefore, a board's consideration of tenure charges and a decision not to certify the charges to the Commissioner is not tantamount to plenary litigation and final determination in a prior cause of action, as contemplated by the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel, both of which are applicable to administrative proceedings, City of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1, 29 (1980), and are related but separate doctrines of preclusion. To avoid the confusion which has resulted over the years from the interchangeable use of these two terms, the courts have refined the nomenclature used in the preclusion doctrine.

The term "claim preclusion" has been applied to res judicata, and "issue preclusion" has been applied to collateral estoppel. Wade v. City of Pittsburgh, 765 *F.*2d 405, 408 (3rd Cir. 1985); Gregory v. Chehi, 843 *F.*2d 111, 116 (3rd Cir. 1988); see also Migra v. Warren City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., 465 U.S. 75, 104 S. Ct. 892, 79 L. Ed. 2d 56 (1984).

Res judicata, or claim preclusion, refers broadly to the common-law doctrine barring relitigating claims that have already been adjudicated. In essence, the doctrine of res judicata "provides that a cause of action between parties that has been finally determined on the merits by a tribunal having jurisdiction cannot be relitigated by those parties or their privies in a new proceeding." Velasquez v. Franz, 123 N.J. 498, 505 (1991). Both New Jersey law and federal law require three basic elements for application of the res judicata doctrine: (1) The judgment in the prior action must be valid, final and on the merits; (2) the parties in the later action must be identical to or in privity with those in the prior action; (3) the claims in the second action must derive from the same transaction or occurrence as the claims in the first one. Federated Dep't Stores, Inc. v. Moitie, 452 U.S. 394, 398, 101 S. Ct. 2424, 2428, 69 L. Ed. 2d 103, 108 (1981); In re Energy Cooperative, Inc., 814 *F.*2d 1226, 1230 (7th Cir. 1987); Watkins v. Resorts Int'l Hotel and Casino, 124 N.J. 398, 412 (1991); Velasquez, supra, 123 N.J. at 505-06; Culver v. Insurance Co. of North America, 115 N.J. 451, 460 (1989); Roberts v. Goldner, 79 N.J. 82, 85 (1979).

To determine whether two claims or causes of action are the same for res judicata purposes, a court must consider: (1) whether the acts complained of and the demand for relief are the same; (2) whether the theory of recovery is the same; (3) whether the witnesses and documents necessary at trial are the same; and (4) whether the material facts alleged are the same. Culver, supra, 115 N.J. at 461-62, quoting United States v. Athlone Indus., Inc., 746 *F.*2d 977, 984 (3d Cir. 1984).

Collateral estoppel, as a separate but related concept, has been defined as "that branch of the broader law of res judicata which bars relitigation of any issue which was actually determined in a prior action, generally between the same parties, involving a different claim or cause of action." State v. Gonzales, 75 N.J. 181, 186 (1977). Collateral estoppel will be applied where:

> (1) the identical issue was decided in a prior adjudication; (2) there was a final judgment on the merits; (3) the party against whom the bar is asserted was a party or in privity with a party to the prior adjudication; and (4) the party against whom the bar is asserted had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in question.
> [Board of Trustees of Trucking Employees of North Jersey Welfare Fund, Inc. v. Centra, 983 *F.*2d 495, 505 (3d Cir. 1992).]

For either doctrine to apply, there must be a prior adjudication and a final judgment on the merits. These elements are absent in the present circumstances. As discussed above, there was no adjudication or subsequent final decision on the merits by the Newark Board of Education in 1993. Therefore, neither claim preclusion (res judicata) nor issue preclusion (collateral estoppel) is applicable to the instant matter, and the respondent's motion for dismissal of the earlier charges based on these doctrines must be DENIED.

An alternative argument presented by respondent is that the tenure charges based on incidents considered and not certified by the petitioner in 1993 should be dismissed because they are barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13. That statute provides:

> If the board does not make such a determination within 45 days after receipt of the written charge, or within 45 days after the expiration of the time for correction of the inefficiency, if the charge is of inefficiency, the charge shall be deemed to be dismissed and no further proceeding or action shall be taken thereon.

The respondent asserts that, while this section "speaks to a board's inaction and the consequences of dismissal and no further proceeding or action shall be taken thereon, it can't be argued that once a determination is made not to certify charges after a hearing, a board can, thereafter, bring the same charges." Respondent's Motion to Dismiss at 12.

The respondent's argument is incorrect. The "such a determination" referred to in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 is the requirement established by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. That statute provides that when any tenure charge is filed against an employee of a board of education,

> [a]fter consideration of the charge, statement of position and statements of evidence presented to it, the board shall determine by majority vote of its full membership whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charge and whether such charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary. . . . In the event the board finds that such probable cause exists and that the charge, if credited, is sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary, then it shall forward such written charge to the commissioner for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S. 18A:6-16, together with a certificate of such determination.

The petitioner complied with the statute and made a timely determination, on October 26, 1993, that there was no probable cause to certify the tenure charges to the Commissioner. As such, the section of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 which requires that where a timely determination is not made the "charge shall be deemed to be dismissed and no further proceeding or action shall be taken thereon" was never applicable to the instant matter. See Montville Bd. of Educ. v. Pinto, 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 507, 514, where the Commissioner, in noting that the parties had agreed to extend the period for the board to reach its determination on whether to certify tenure charges, indicated in footnote 2 that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13, tenure charges are deemed dismissed if the district board does not make a determination on whether to certify such charges to the Commissioner within 45 days after receipt of the written charges.

The respondent does not actually argue that the petitioner failed to render a timely determination. Rather, she has somehow drawn from N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 the insupportable position that "it can't be argued that once a determination is made not to certify charges after a hearing, a board can, thereafter, bring the same charges." The respondent then repeats the argument made in support of her attempt to invoke the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel, that the determination in 1993 was a full and final adjudication on the merits.

The respondent's reliance on N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13 is misplaced. First, the petitioner satisfied the necessary requirements in 1993, and the section which would have required dismissal of the charges was never triggered. Second, the respondent's arguments regarding a full adjudication on the merits are irrelevant and further indicate a misinterpretation of the statute. Accordingly, there is no support for the respondent's contention that the statute bars any of the currently filed tenure charges. The purpose of the statute is to ensure that boards of education promptly determine whether filed tenure charges against an employee should be certified to the Commissioner for a hearing. The statute does not state, nor can it be reasonably implied, that where such charges are not certified, subsequent refiling and reconsideration of the same charges, which may result in certification to the Commissioner, is barred.

Therefore, the respondent's claim that the prior tenure charges are barred by N.J.S.A 18A:6-13 must also be DENIED.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having heard the testimony, observed the witnesses, reviewed the exhibits, and considered the arguments of counsel, I FIND the following FACTS, by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

1. The respondent, Deborah Suitt-Green, is a tenured teaching staff member, since 1986, in the State Operated School District of the City of Newark. The District replaced the Board of Education of the City of Newark in July 1995.

2. In April 1989, while in the school auditorium, the respondent angrily asked Antoinette Odoms to cover her class because she was going to "whip someone's ass."

They are considered to be business records. As such, the facts related in them are also found to be evidential, without the need for repetition herein.

15. Numerous reprimands and negative memoranda were issued to the respondent by her superiors and administrators in the Newark School District. See Exhibits P-3, P-7, P-8, P-14, P-15, P-16 and P-18. The factual matter described in these memoranda to the respondent is found as fact.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

In any case involving tenure charges, a board of education has the burden of proving the truth of the charges by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. In re Tenure Hearing of Dusel, Sayreville Sch. Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 526; In re Tenure Hearing of Ribacka, Sussex-Wantage Reg. Sch. Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 929; In re Tenure Hearing of Brown, Bayonne Sch. Dist., 1970 S.L.D. 239.

A variety of charges, general and specific, were filed by the District against the respondent. The general charges are characterized as corporal punishment, conduct unbecoming a teacher and a pattern of insubordination. The specific charges, encompassed within the general charges, are itemized above. Several of the charges were withdrawn by the petitioner or dismissed during the hearing. These are identified as Charges 3h, 3i, and 3k, and Charge 4 (which includes 4a). Some of the charges were inartfully drawn or inaccurate in some respect, but the conclusions to be reached here will be based on the credible evidence presented at the hearing, both testimonial and documentary.

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, dealing with the tenure of teaching staff members, provides:

> The services of all teaching staff members . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation > except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause

> [See also N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to -29.]

The charges involved in this matter, if true, can constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member or other just cause under the statute. There was no allegation that the respondent was not capable of the teaching duties that were assigned to her or that she was inefficient, and no complaints were registered about the respondent's performance of her duties on an academic level.

If it is determined that the charges, or any of them, are true, it then becomes necessary to address the question of the appropriate penalty to be imposed. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 speaks of dismissal or reduction in compensation. Factors to be taken into account in making a penalty determination include the nature and circumstances of the incidents or charges, the teacher's prior record and present attitude, the effect of such conduct on the maintenance of discipline among the students and staff, and the likelihood of such behavior reoccurring. In re Tenure Hearing of Ostergren, Franklin Sch. Dist., 1966 S.L.D. 185, 187; In re Tenure Hearing of Kittell, Little Silver Sch. Dist., 1972 S.L.D. 535, 541; In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404 (App. Div. 1967).

Also, in determining the respondent's fitness to continue in the position, the pronouncement in Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd, 131 N.J.L 326 (E. & A. 1944), serves as a concise guideline:

> Unfitness for a task is best shown by numerous incidents. Unfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents. Unfitness to hold a post might be shown by one incident, if sufficiently flagrant, but it might also be shown by many incidents. Fitness may be shown either way.

The charges in the instant matter relate to numerous alleged incidents of conduct by this teacher which was described as unprofessional, profane, threatening, intimidating, insubordinate, harassing, demeaning, abusive and disrespectful to

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that the respondent be DISMISSED from her position as a tenured teaching staff member employed by the State Operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 River View Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7071-96
AGENCY DKT. NO. 178-5/96

IN THE MATTER OF THE	:
TENURE HEARING OF	:
DEBORAH SUITT-GREEN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL	:	DECISION
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:
NEWARK, ESSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision rendered by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

Having conducted his own careful and independent review of the entire record in this matter, which includes transcripts of the four days of hearing conducted at the OAL[1], and the exceptions filed by respondent, the Commissioner determines to affirm the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons well expressed therein.

Initially, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's denial of respondent's motion to dismiss certain of the within charges based on alleged incidents which occurred between April 7, 1989 and June 24, 1993. Notwithstanding respondent's exceptions, which continue to advance the arguments with respect to these charges presented below[2], the Commissioner is in full accord with the ALJ's consideration and resolution of this motion detailed on pages 22-28 of the initial decision.[3]

[1] The record reflects that the hearing was held on May 5, 6, 7, and 9, 1997.

Next, the Commissioner accepts the ALJ's factual findings (Initial Decision at pp. 28-31), finding these to be amply supported by the record before him. Despite respondent's exception assertions to the contrary, he finds no basis either in the transcripts or in the record as a whole to challenge the ALJ's credibility determinations, being fully satisfied that the ALJ's recitation of testimony is both accurate and thorough, and that he carefully measured conflicts, inconsistencies and potential biases in deciding which testimony to credit in reaching such findings of fact. In this regard, the Commissioner is unpersuaded by respondent's attempts to discredit certain of the District's witnesses by advancing unsubstantiated allegations aimed at impugning their general character and, in some cases, undocumented accusations of their involvement in criminal conduct.[4]

In making his determination herein, the Commissioner duly recognizes, as was pointed out in respondent's exceptions, that the within charges were filed despite "satisfactory" ratings in respondent's formal evaluations completed during the period covered by such charges.

[2] Respondent again asserts that because these charges were previously considered by the Board on October 26, 1993, and a decision was made at that time that there was not sufficient probable cause to certify them to the Commissioner, such determination was a "final adjudication" with respect to these charges, requiring their dismissal here. Respondent also renews her alternative argument that, as these charges are based on incidents which were considered and not certified by the Board in 1993, they are now barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-13, which places a 45 day time limitation on the period in which a board must certify charges.

[3] It is additionally noted that the initial decision establishes that the majority of these "contested charges" were either withdrawn by the District during the course of the hearing or found by the ALJ not to have been proven by the District. (Charges 1a, 3e, 3f, 3h, 3i and 3k, and all of 4.)

[4] Particularly troublesome was a declaration, raised for the first time in respondent's exceptions, that one of the District's witnesses had been charged with a serious criminal violation. Respondent also enclosed a newspaper article which, it is assumed, was intended to lend credence to her charge. The Commissioner admonishes respondent for this unwarranted and improper submission and stresses that this material was neither reviewed nor considered in the within determination.

Specifically, respondent maintains that such ratings in two specific categories, "Functions as a member of the total school program" and "Meets accepted standards of professional behavior" included on her evaluation forms, undermine the legitimacy of the charges in that they indicate "that the incidents collectively amassed were individually of minor consequence and of such insignificance that no warnings via the evaluative process" were necessary, (Respondent's Exceptions at p. 5) The Commissioner categorically rejects such a contention. Nor can he reasonably conclude, as argued by respondent, that she had no reason to believe that her conduct during this period was unprofessional, as her evaluations specifically indicated the contrary. (Id.) Rather, the Commissioner opines that "[t]he absence of comment in evaluations of respondent's performance regarding the incidents now forming the tenure charges does not render these charges invalid." Morris School District Board of Education v. Christine Brady, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 410, 419. Rather, he observes that it is oftentimes customary that individuals who routinely perform these evaluations are specifically directed to record observations which they actually witness in the classroom setting and prepare their evaluations only upon that basis. (See Brady, supra.) That no mention of any of these incidents was made in any observation or evaluation is explicable by the fact that none of the conduct at issue herein was observed while in a formal observation setting. Indeed, the Commissioner concludes that the witnesses in this case who wrote detailed incident reports contiguously with the specific events provide a more trustworthy version of respondent's performance in these areas than customary performance evaluations conducted in the regular course of business. Moreover, given the numerous reprimands and negative memoranda issued to respondent by her superiors and administrators in the District during this period (see Exhibits P-3, P-7, P-8, P-14, P-15, P-16, and P-18), the Commissioner finds disingenuous her assertion that she had no knowledge that her conduct was viewed as unbecoming or that she was in any way prejudiced by the absence of comment to this effect on her evaluation forms.

The Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that the evidence advanced by the District, both in terms of testimony and documentary evidence elicited from a wide range of staff members and administrators, is "overwhelming." (Initial Decision at p. 37) The incidents proven herein document respondent's propensity to become upset, yell, scream, use offensive and abusive language, engage in irrational behavior and lose self-control. Particularly disquieting is respondent's categorical denial of the details of each of these incidents and her failure to adequately explain the facts in the testimony of the large number of District witnesses. As such, the Commissioner cannot infer, based on this record, that respondent's conduct was an aberration, nor can it be reasonably predicted, based on her failure to accept responsibility for any of her actions herein, that it is more likely than not that such conduct would not be repeated in the future.

Finally, as to the appropriate penalty in this matter, the Commissioner was particularly cognizant that it has long been recognized that, by virtue of the unique position they occupy, educators must be held to an enhanced standard of behavior. As was succinctly stated in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, School District of Black Horse Pike Regional, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321

> [Teachers] are professional employees to whom the people have entrusted the care and custody of tens of thousands of school children with the hope that this trust will result in the maximum educational growth and development of each individual child. This heavy duty requires a degree of self-restraint and controlled behavior rarely requisite to other types of employment.
> (Emphasis added)

Likewise, he is mindful that "[u]nfitness for a position under the school system is best evidenced by a series of incidents." Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943), aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E. & A. 1944). While considering respondent's apparently sound teaching record and the length of her employment within the District, the Commissioner is nonetheless satisfied that the charges and proofs established herein are not "trivial" but rather reflect a pattern of professionally unacceptable conduct which cannot be tolerated in a school setting, and comprise the "series of incidents" envisioned by the Court in Redcay, warranting respondent's loss of her tenured position.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons expressed therein. Respondent is dismissed from her tenured teaching position with the State-operated School District of the City of Newark as of the date of this decision. This matter is further referred to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case on July 31, 1996. Prehearing conferences scheduled for October 3, 1996 and December 12, 1996 were adjourned when counsel represented that the matter either would be settled or withdrawn. Subsequently, as a result of discussions between counsel and their respective clients I was advised that a settlement had been reached.

A Stipulation of Settlement containing the terms and conditions of the agreement reached between the parties has now been submitted to me for review and recommendation to the Commissioner for approval. I have reviewed the terms of the Stipulation and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures on the Stipulation.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all the issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning uncle challenged the Board's determination that minor child, E.Y., was not domiciled in the District and, therefore, not entitled to a free public education in its schools.

ALJ found that E.Y. was not seeking to be educated in Tenafly solely for the purpose of receiving a free education within the District. ALJ found that E.Y. did meet the requirements of the "affidavit student" law as articulated in Gunderson. Thus, the ALJ concluded that E.Y. was entitled to admittance in the District's schools free of charge. Respondent's motion for summary judgment was denied.

Commissioner determined to reverse the initial decision of the ALJ. Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the matter was properly analyzed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the "affidavit student" provision. Commissioner noted, however, that notwithstanding petitioner's apparently undisputed claims of supporting E.Y. gratis, he did not provide a sworn statement by the parent or guardian, together with supporting documentation, that E.Y.'s parents are not presently capable of supporting or providing care for E.Y. due to family or economic hardship, and that E.Y. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free education in the District. (J.B. State Board decision) Commissioner directed petitioner to remit to the Board tuition for E.Y., prorated to the time of his ineligible attendance in the District.

Record Closed: June 9, 1997 Decided: August 21, 1997

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On February 28, 1997, petitioner, Paul B. Kim (petitioner or P.B.K.) on behalf of a minor child, E.Y., filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) seeking to have E.Y. admitted to the Tenafly Public School System. Respondent, Tenafly Board of Education, filed an Answer to the petition on March 20, 1997 wherein it admitted that it had denied E.Y. admission to its public school district because E.Y. failed to meet the legal requirements for admission. On March 27, 1997, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 14F-1 to 13. A hearing was scheduled for June 11, 1997. The hearing was adjourned to allow for the disposition of the respondent's motion for summary judgment which was filed on May 19, 1997. On June 5, 1997, petitioner filed a brief in opposition to motion. On June 9, 1997, the respondent field a reply brief and the record was closed.

ISSUES

Whether the respondent's motion for summary judgment should be granted. Whether the petitioner has established that E.Y. is entitled to a free public education in the respondent's school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

I FIND the following facts to be undisputed and thus they are adopted as the FACTS:

E.Y. is a citizen of the United States. His parents, however, reside in Seoul, South Korea. E.Y. recently returned to the United States in order to continue his education and resides with his uncle in Tenafly, New Jersey. One week after his return to the country, E.Y. attempted to enroll in the Tenafly School District but was denied admission. Thereafter, petitioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, submitted a sworn statement with the Secretary of the Board of Education that E.Y.'s parents have relinquished custody and control of their son, to him. Petitione is E.Y.'s uncle. Further, that he is supporting E.Y. gratis and that he lives with the petitioner and his wife year round. In re ɔonse to questions 7 and 8 of the sworn statement, petitioner stated that E.Y. had left his parents in order to continue his education in the United States.

Respondent concedes that the documents submitted by the petitioner satisfy the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 in all but two respects. Respondent contends that the documents fail to establish that E.Y. is living with petitioner and his aunt due to family or economic hardship. Further, the documents affirmatively demonstrate that E.Y. is living with the petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. Respondent relies on sworn statement of the petitioner which provides:

> Q. Explain in detail why the child is not living with his/her natural parents.
>
> A. Is an American citizen. His parents currently resides (sic) in Seoul Korea. "E" want (sic)to continue his education in the United States. I am his uncle.

Further, the affidavit of E.Y.'s parents provides:

> Q. Explain in detail why the child is not living with you.
>
> A. "E.Y." is residing with his uncle ("P.B.K.") because I ("E.Y.'s parent") currently reside in Seoul Korea and "E." wants to continue his education in the United States.

Thus, the sworn affidavits undisputedly demonstrate that that E.Y. now lives in Tenafly so that he can complete his education in the United States.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION

Respondent moves for summary judgment on the basis there are no material facts in dispute. The only disputed issue concern the application of the applicable law to the instant facts.

Petitioner opposes summary judgment but does not present any disputed facts. Indeed, petitioner contends that the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) have been satisfied. Consequently, E.Y. is entitled to a free public within the respondent's school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. I will sua sponte treat petitioner's request for relief as a Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment.

In an administrative proceeding, an ALJ may grant summary decision if the papers and discovery show that no genuine issue exists as to any disputed material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b) provides as follows:

> The motion for summary decision shall be served with briefs and with or without supporting affidavits. The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must be responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. If the adverse party does not so respond, a summary decision, if appropriate, shall be entered.

The administrative regulation is essentially the same as the court rule, R. 4:46-2, which governs summary judgment in civil actions. Thus, summary judgment principles and precedent are sufficiently analogous to apply to proceedings at the OAL.

Summary judgment has long been recognized as a valid procedure under which a legal issue may be quickly and inexpensively disposed of where the pleadings, affidavits, and other papers filed clearly show that no genuine issue of material fact requiring disposition at a hearing exists. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. Of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). The moving party bears the burden of proof and the court must draw all inferences of doubt against the movant. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co., 17 N.J. 67, 70, 74-75 (1954).

I FIND that there are no genuine issues of material fact that would require a hearing in this matter. The issues herein are legal and not factual.

This matter is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 which provides:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age.
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. . . .

Respondent concedes that the petitioner has met the first prong of the statute. Specifically, that E.Y. is domiciled in the district. Further, that the petitioner is supporting E.Y. gratis. It argues, however, that it is the second prong of the statute that the petitioner has failed to satisfy. The documents herein fail to establish that E.Y. is with the petitioner due to family or economic hardship. Further, the documents affirmatively demonstrate that E.Y. is living with the petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district."

Petitioner argues that the "affidavit student" law N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) is inapplicable because E.Y. is in fact now domiciled with him and thus is entitled to a free public education by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Domicile is a matter of intention, and it can be acquired upon the "concurrence, even for a moment, of physical presence at a dwelling place with the intention of making it a permanent abode. . ." Lyon v.

Glaser, 60 N.J. 259, 264 (1972). Thus once E.Y. arrived in Tenafly with the intention to remain indefinitely, he became domiciled in Tenafly.

Petitioner further contends that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) in inapplicable because he is E.Y.'s guardian for all purposes. Indeed, he is in the process of being appointed E.Y.'s guardian by the Bergen County Surrogate. Moreover, N.J.S.A. 18A:30-16(1) is intended to apply to those minor students who are residing within the district with someone other than their parent or guardian and in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. In this case, E.Y. is living in the district with the petitioner who is E.Y.'s guardian. E.Y.'s parents are not living in this country and the welfare of E.Y. has been placed in the hands of his relatives. Of equal importance is the fact that E.Y. does not have an entitlement in any district via parental domicile. As such, if the respondent's argument were accepted, E.Y. would not be entitled to a free public education anywhere in New Jersey. Clearly, the statute was not intended to create this situation.

It is well established that domicile is obtained by an individual in three possible ways (1) by birth or place of origin; (2) through the choice of a person legally capable of choosing his or her domicile; or (3) by operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice. In re Estate of Gillmore, 101 N.J. Super. 77, 87 (App. Div., certif. Den. 52 N.J. 175 (1968). As a child is considered to lack capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice, it has been well settled in the school law that a child's domicile is determined by the domicile of the child's natural father. See, Bd. of Ed. of Little Egg Harbor v. Bds of Ed., etc., 145 N.J.Super. 1, 12 (App.Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting), rev'd per curium, based on dissent below, 71 N.J. 537 (1976) (citing Mansfield Tp. Bd. of Ed. v. State Bd. of Ed., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925); Summit City Bd. of Ed. v. Millburn Twp. Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 506, 507; V.R. on Behalf of A.R. v. Hamburg Bd. of Ed., 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286 (Educ. 1980), aff'd State Bd., 1981 S.L.D. 1553, rev'd sub nom on other grounds, Rabinowitz v. N.J. State Bd. of Ed., 550 F.Supp. 481 (D.N.J. 1982).

Attempts to broaden the traditional rule of domicile in order to afford a child a free public education have been rejected by the Commissioner. See, C.N. v. South Orange and Maplewood Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 913 (Commissioner rejected ALJ's finding that child no longer domiciled with father when child lives with grandparents and receives no financial support from father); T.C. v. South Orange and Maplewood School District, 97 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 370, 374 (Commissioner refused to find child domiciled with non-parent when parent's responsibility not legally terminated). The only apparent means by which to change a child's legal domicile to other than that of the child's father, then, is through "a legal termination of parental responsibility". V.R., supra, at 287. Although, P.B.K. has initiated guardianship proceedings, he has not yet been successful in obtaining guardianship. Until such time, E.Y. must be considered to be domiciled with his parents in Korea.

Nonetheless, E.Y. is entitled to a free public education if he meets the requirements of the "affidavit student" law. There are four requirements imposed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). First, the petitioner must establish domicile within respondent's school district. Second, petitioner must demonstrate that he is supporting E.Y. gratis. Third, it must be shown that E.Y.'s family is not capable of supporting or providing care for him due to family or economic hardship. Fourth, it must be shown that E.Y. is not residing with petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in respondent's school district. The burden of proof is on the petitioner to demonstrate each and every element. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

Respondent concedes that E.Y. is a U.S. citizen. He does not lose his U.S. citizenship because the marital domicile of his parents is in Seoul, Korea or because he resided with them for a period of time. Fantony v. Fantony, 21 N.J. 525, 536 (1956). One of the incidents of U.S. citizenship is that a citzen has an unqualified right to take up residence in this country, and is free to fix and change one's residence, whether in this country or abroad, for the rest of one's life without impugning the validity of one's citizenship. Acosta v. Gaffney 558 F.2d 1153 (3rd Cir. 1977). Furthermore, while the right tp a free public education is not a fundamental right protected by the Constitution, it is also not "merely some governmental 'benefit' indistinguishable from other forms of social welfare legislation." Plyler v. Doe, 457 U.S. 202, 221 (1982). Rather, education has a fundamental role in maintaining the fabric of our society, providing the basic tools by which individuals might lead economically productive lives, preparing citizens to participate effectively and intelligently in our open political system, and otherwise inculcating fundamental values necessary to the maintenance of a democratic political system. Ibid.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that the child cannot reside with the resident of a school district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. Thus, by the plain meaning of the statute, if other motives besides a desire to receive a free public education within that particular school district can be found to explain why the child has taken up residence with the person domiciled in the school district, this requirement of the "affidavit student" law has been satisfied.

In this, case E.Y. has relatives domiciled in the United States who are willing to support him gratis, and this fact, more than a specific desire to go to school in Tenafly, that has dictated E.Y.'s choice of residence. Indeed, the fact that residency was estabished in Tenafly is purely happenstance. If his uncle had resided in Leonia, for example, E.Y. would have enrolled in that school district. Thus, I FIND E.Y. is not seeking to be educated in Tenafly solely for the purpose of receiving a free education within the district.

By operation of the affidavit student law, it must also be shown that E.Y. has been sent to live with P.B.K. due to "family or economic hardship". This requirement, however, has not been strictly construed by the Commissioner. In Gunderson v. City of Brigatine Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 39, the Commissioner ruled that:

> In interpreting a statute, the Commissioner must look to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. N.J. Builders, Owners, & Managers Association v. Blair, 60 N.J. 330, 333 (1972). Moreover, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy. Brewer v. Porch, 53 N.J. 167, 174 (1969); San-Lan Builders, Inc. v. Baxendale, 28 N.J. 148, 155 (1958).

The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 effectuated by P.L. 1993, c. 380 were intended to ease the burden on local boards of education by attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, specifically those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be, but is not, domiciled within the district, and those living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. (See Sponsor's Statement, Senate Education Committee Statement and Governor's Conditional Veto Message to Senate Bill No. 1447 of 1993, enacted as c. 380).

The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme when it is clear that the child has no home, or possibility of school attendance, other than with the non-parent district resident and that such resident is for all intents and purposes the sole caretaker and supporter of the child. Neither is its parental affidavit provision meant to act as a bar to a child who, do(sic) to particular circumstances, cannot produce such an affidavit but provides evidence that the underlying requirements of the law are being met. To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize, unreasonably places form over substance and overlooks the substantial State interest in ensuring the education of all its children. Sabella v. Lacey Tp., 204 N.J. Super. 55, 60 (App. Div. 1985); Restaurant Enterprises, Inc. v. Sussex Mutual Ins. Co., 52 N.J. 73, 77 (1968).
[Id, at 42 (emphasis added)]

I FIND that E.Y. has met the requirements of the "affidavit student" law as articulated by the Commissioner in Gunderson, supra. E.Y. has no home, or possibility of school attendance, other than with the non-parent district resident and ... such resident is for all intents and purposes the sole caretaker and supporter of the child. Ibid. It is undisputed that the petitioner has taken full charge of E.Y.'s welfare, and is currently in the process of obtaining guardianship over E.Y.. As noted by petitioner, E.Y. would otherwise have no entitlement to an education anywhere in the U.S. The spirit of the law in this case should control over the letter, for to hold otherwise would work a substantial injustice by harming a party the legislature never meant to penalize, and would subvert the state's interest in providing an education for its children. For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that E.Y. is entitled to admittance in the respondent's school district.

It is therefore ORDERED that E.Y. shall be admitted to the respondent's school district and this matter is hereby DISMISSED. It is further ORDERED that respondent's motion for Summary Judgment is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3637-97

P.B.K., on behalf of minor child, E.Y.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF TENAFLY, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the initial decision of the ALJ, for the reasons set forth herein.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's and the Board's view that, since petitioner has not brought forth proof that he has gained legal custody of his nephew, then E.Y. cannot be found to be domiciled with him, since the domicile of an unemancipated minor follows that of the parent or guardian having legal control over him. See Clifton Board of Education v. Vincent Sauro and Mildred Sauro, 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d* (EDU) 497 at 500, citing Mansfield Twp. v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 478 (Sup. Ct. 1925). Thus, the matter is properly analyzed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the "affidavit student" provision.

The Commissioner further agrees with the Board that, notwithstanding petitioner's apparently undisputed claims that he is supporting E.Y. gratis, that he will assume all personal obligations for E.Y. relative to school requirements, and that he intends to keep E.Y. and support him gratuitously for a longer period than the school term, petitioner must also provide a sworn statement by the child's parent or guardian, together with supporting documentation, that E.Y's parents are "not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district." (emphasis added) (N.J.S.A 18A:38-1b(1)) See, J.B. on behalf of her grandchild, R.H. v. Board of Education of the Twp. of Ocean, Monmouth County, decided by State Board of Education September 3, 1997.

Here, both petitioner and E.Y.'s parents have specifically affirmed that E.Y. is living with his uncle because he "wants to continue his education in the United States." (Initial Decision at p. 3, citing parental affidavit) Further, as the Board noted in its exceptions, petitioner has not established, nor has he even claimed, that E.Y.'s parents, due to family or economic hardship, are not presently capable of supporting or providing care for E.Y.; instead, petitioner incorrectly argues that this provision of the statute is inapplicable in this matter. In this regard, the Commissioner is cognizant of the State Board's recent guidance concerning a petitioner's burden to demonstrate family or economic hardship in order to fulfill the requirements of the affidavit student statute. The State Board has specifically provided that > in order to satisfy that standard, the family or economic hardship must be real and demonstrable, evincing a current incapability on the part of [the minor child's] parents to support him or provide care as the result of that hardship." (J.B., supra, slip opinion at p. 6)

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ determining that E.Y. is entitled to admittance in the Board's district is reversed. Further, with respect to the ALJ's statement that, absent a conclusion that E.Y. is entitled to admittance in the Board's district, E.Y. "would otherwise have no entitlement to an education anywhere in the U.S." (initial decision at p. 9), the Commissioner notes that, should E.Y.'s parents wish to procure an education for their son in a school district in New Jersey, they may presumably do so, with the consent of the local board, by paying the necessary tuition, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3. Having determined, however, that petitioner fails to meet the relevant statutory requirements, the Commissioner cannot find that E.Y. is entitled to a free education and, accordingly, directs, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), that petitioner remit to the Board tuition for E.Y., prorated to the time of his ineligible attendance in the District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Decision on motion by the State Board of Education, April 1, 1998

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Cillick & Sprague (Michael J. Sprague, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Apruzzese, McDermott, Mastro & Murphy (Robert Merryman, Esq., of Counsel)

P.B.K. (hereinafter "petitioner") filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that his nephew, E.Y., who resided with him in Tenafly, was entitled to a free public education in that district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.[1] E.Y., an

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 provides, in pertinent part:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as

JAN. 5, 2000

American citizen, had resided with his parents in South Korea before moving to Tenafly in December 1996 to live with the petitioner. The Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly (hereinafter "Board") countered that E.Y. had failed to meet the legal requirements for a free public education in the district. The Board subsequently filed a motion for summary decision.

On August 21, 1997, an administrative law judge ("ALJ"), finding that there were no genuine issues of material fact, concluded that the petitioner had established that E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in Tenafly. The ALJ found that E.Y. was not seeking to be educated in Tenafly solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district and that he had otherwise met the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b. The ALJ stressed that "petitioner has taken full charge of E.Y.'s welfare, and is currently in the process of obtaining guardianship over E.Y. As noted by petitioner, E.Y. would otherwise have no entitlement to an education anywhere in the U.S." Initial Decision, slip op. at 9. Treating the petitioner's request for relief as a cross-motion for summary decision, the ALJ recommended that E.Y. be admitted to the Tenafly district and that the Board's motion for summary decision be denied.

> if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district....

On October 14, 1997, the Commissioner rejected the ALJ's recommendation, concluding that petitioner had not established that E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in Tenafly. Initially, the Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that "since petitioner has not brought forth proof that he has gained legal custody of his nephew, then E.Y. cannot be found to be domiciled with him, since the domicile of an unemancipated minor follows that of the parent or guardian having legal control over him." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 12. The Commissioner found that "petitioner has not established, nor has he even claimed, that E.Y.'s parents, due to family or economic hardship, are not presently capable of supporting or providing care for E.Y.," id. at 13, as required by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). The Commissioner observed that "should E.Y.'s parents wish to procure an education for their son in a school district in New Jersey, they may presumably do so, with the consent of the local board, by paying the necessary tuition in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3." Id. at 14. Accordingly, the Commissioner directed the petitioner to remit tuition to the Board for the period of E.Y.'s attendance in the district.

Petitioner filed the instant appeal to the State Board. He also filed a motion seeking to supplement the record on appeal with 1) an affidavit of E.Y.'s father averring that E.Y. was living with the petitioner as the result of a family and economic hardship, and 2) Letters of Guardianship issued by the Bergen County Surrogate on June 11, 1997 appointing petitioner as the legal guardian of E.Y.

On April 1, 1998, the State Board granted the petitioner's motion to supplement the record and, in addition, stayed the decision of the Commissioner sua sponte pending its final determination on the merits of this matter.

After a careful review of the record as supplemented on appeal, we conclude that E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in the Tenafly school district.

As pointed out by the Commissioner, the domicile of an unemancipated minor follows that of the parent or guardian having legal control over him. Thus, once the petitioner was appointed E.Y.'s legal guardian on June 11, 1997, the inquiry became whether he was domiciled in Tenafly. V.H., on behalf of minor, J.T. v. Board of Education of the Township of Quinton, decided by the Commissioner of Education, October 15, 1996, aff'd by the State Board of Education, May 7, 1997. The Board does not dispute the fact that the petitioner has been domiciled in Tenafly during all periods relevant to this matter. Nor is there any indication of fraud on his part. Given these circumstances, we conclude that E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in the Tenafly school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a once the petitioner was appointed as his legal guardian.

The only remaining issue involves the period between December 1996, when E.Y. began to live with the petitioner in Tenafly, and June 11, 1997, when the petitioner became E.Y.'s legal guardian. In his affidavit submitted in supplementation of the record, E.Y.'s father, H.K.Y., avers that E.Y. had been born in California and had lived there until the family moved to Korea when he was three. According to H.K.Y., his son had attended the international school in Korea "at substantial expense to us" in preparation for attending college in the United States. In 1994, H.K.Y. lost his job with Citibank and was unemployed for two years before securing a position at a "substantially lower salary." He indicates that the cost of sending E.Y. to the international school was an expense he could no longer afford. H.K.Y. further avers that:

> 7. The public high school in Seoul is not an option due to the fact that E.Y. is an American citizen and because he had attended the international middle school. At the international school, he had been instructed in English, and the curriculum and cultural environment were substantially different from that in the public school. E.Y. does not have the foundation in the Korean language necessary to succeed at an advanced educational level in the public school. His status as an American citizen is cause for harassment at the hands of students at the public school.
> 8. Thus, the family was faced with the prospect of not being able to provide our son with a proper education due to economic hardship. Although I am employed, my salary is not sufficient enough to be able to pay the international school tuition while providing for the other needs of my family....
> 9. ...It was solely for the reason of economic hardship that E.Y. moved to Tenafly to live with his uncle, who has obtained legal guardianship of him....

Although the record does not indicate when the petitioner applied to become E.Y.'s legal guardian, a consent form submitted by H.K.Y. to the Bergen County Surrogate's Court assenting to the appointment of the petitioner as his son's guardian was notarized on January 21, 1997, shortly after E.Y. began to live with the petitioner in Tenafly. As previously indicated, petitioner was appointed E.Y.'s legal guardian on June 11, 1997. Given the unique circumstances before us and on the basis of the record as supplemented, we conclude that the petitioner has demonstrated that E.Y.'s parents were not capable of supporting or providing care for him due to a family or economic hardship and that E.Y. was not residing with the petitioner solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the district.

Consequently, on the basis of the record as supplemented on appeal, we conclude that E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in the Tenafly school district commencing in December 1996, when he began to live with the petitioner.[2]

Attorney exceptions are noted.

Date of mailing JAN - 7 2000

[2] In response to exceptions filed by the Tenafly Board to the report of our Legal Committee, we note that our review of this matter is not limited to consideration of the documents which the petitioner had provided to the Board at the time he was attempting to enroll E.Y. in the district. Rather, the issue before us is whether–on the basis of the entire record developed during these proceedings–E.Y. was entitled to a free public education in the Tenafly district under the standard set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. We reiterate in that regard that the petitioner had not filed a motion for summary decision with the ALJ. Rather, the ALJ treated the petitioner's claim for relief as a motion for summary decision and determined on the basis of the record before him that the petitioner had established E.Y.'s entitlement to attend school in Tenafly. Hence, the petitioner had not submitted documents in support of such a motion during the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law.

Moreover, in any event, N.J.A.C. 6:2-1.9 expressly authorizes the State Board to direct supplementation of the record if "[a]t any time during the pendency of the appeal...it appears that evidence unadduced at the proceedings below may be material to the issues on appeal...." By decision dated April 1, 1998, we granted the petitioner's request to supplement the record with, inter alia, the affidavit of E.Y.'s father. Such document was, therefore, part of the record before us during our review of the merits of this case.

James P. Granello, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 9, 1997 Decided: September 9, 1997

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on November 7, 1996, when Mark Bogdany filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order, inter alia, enforcing petitioner's recall rights to the position of social studies teacher and placing petitioner in a social studies teaching position. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on November 15, 1996 and on December 6, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on April 30, 1997, at which time counsel for respondent agreed to provide certain information to counsel for petitioner which might resolve the issues in the case. During a supplemental prehearing conference on May 22, 1997, counsel for petitioner represented that the materials he had received appeared to eliminate the areas of dispute, that he would confirm with his client that the petition of appeal should be withdrawn and that written confirmation of the withdrawal would follow within a few weeks. Having received nothing from counsel for petitioner, on June 12, 1997, the undersigned wrote to Mr. Klausner requesting that he forward written confirmation that the petition of appeal in this matter is withdrawn. Thereafter the secretary to the undersigned placed numerous telephone calls to Mr. Klausner's office requesting that he reply to the June 12, 1997 letter. By letter dated August 27, 1997, the undersigned again wrote to Mr. Klausner, as follows:

> When we spoke on May 22, 1997 you indicated that the information provided by Mr. Granello at my request appeared to eliminate the areas of dispute and that you would confirm with your client that the petition of appeal should be withdrawn. I thereafter wrote to you by letter dated June 12, 1997, copy attached. My secretary has called you a number of times since to request that you forward a letter withdrawing the petition. Please have your letter of withdrawal on my desk no later than 5 p.m. on September 8, 1997. Failure to comply with this directive necessarily will result in the issuance of an initial decision dismissing the matter for lack of prosecution.

To date, no responding communication has been received from petitioner's counsel. Based upon all of the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that the within matter is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE for lack of prosecution.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Joel G. Scharff, Esq., for the petitioner (Ruderman and Glickman, attorneys)

James E. Collins, Esq., for the respondent (Cerrato, Dawes, Collins, Baker and Brown, attorneys)

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns an application for emergent relief filed with the Commissioner of Education, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on October 9, 1997, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. Oral argument was heard on October 10, 1997. At the oral argument, I indicated that I would keep the record open until October 14, 1997 for receipt of supplemental legal briefs.

I FIND that the pertinent facts are undisputed.

G.E. is a senior in the Marlboro High School of the Freehold Regional High School District and is captain of the boys' varsity soccer team. On September 23, 1997, he was observed by a faculty member smoking a cigarette on school property. G.E. was told to go to the office where he signed a suspension form for a violation of the school's chemical substances policy, which was established in 1989. The definition of "chemical substances" includes tobacco and provides for a minimum suspension of two months from sport team activities.

G.E. does not deny that he was smoking a cigarette on school property and he knew that the penalty was a two month suspension. This penalty is listed in the student handbook and is contained in an attachment to the athletic eligibility form which was signed by G.E. and his parents. According to G.E., he was upset on September 23,1997 because he was slightly injured during a soccer game, his grandmother had an operation and his younger brother injured his knee while playing soccer. G.E. forgot he was smoking when he drove onto the school property.

G.E. plans to go to college, and his participation in soccer team activities during his senior year may be a factor considered by college officials in deciding whether to accept him as well as his eligibility for financial assistance.

On September 24, 1997, G.E. and his parents meet with James Mullevey, the principal of Marlboro High School, the vice-principal, and an assistant Superintendent regarding the penalty. The petitioner was advised that the penalty would not be reduced. G.E.'s parents asked for an in-person hearing by the Board of Education. The Board reviewed the matter on the papers, and deferred to the administrator's decision.

On behalf of the petitioner, Joel G. Scharff, Esq., argued that the petitioner has meet the requirements for emergency relief. He argued that the penalty in this matter is equal to an expulsion from the soccer team and is an extreme penalty for a minor violation. Also, Mr. Scharff argued that G.E. was deprived of his due process rights and that he should have been given a full hearing by the school officials and by the board of education. R.R. v. Bd. Of Ed. Shore Reg. High School, 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970).

Lastly, Mr. Scharff argued that the respondent was bound by NJSIAA rules and that the school's rule regarding chemical substances (which includes tobacco) was in conflict with the NJSIAA rule regarding chemical substances (which does not include tobacco) (P-1). Mr. Scharff argued that the NJSIAA rules preempted any conflicting school rule.

On behalf of the respondent, James E. Collins, Esq., argued that there was no due process violation and that G.E. had an opportunity to present his position regarding the penalty when he and his parents meet with the school officials. Also, Mr. Collins stated that the board of education considered the matter based on the written record, which includes a letter from G.E. (R-1) and a letter from his father (R-2). Mr. Collins noted that the penalty for cigarette smoking on school property is clearly stated in the student handbook and in the attachment to the athletic eligibility form which was signed by G.E. and his parents.

Mr. Collins argued that the petitioner had not shown that the rules of the NJSIAA preempted the respondent's rule regarding cigarette smoking, and that the portion of the NJSIAA rules introduced into evidence as P-1 does not deal with tobacco violations.

Lastly, Mr. Collins argued that the petitioner has not meet the prerequisites for emergency relief. G.E. has not shown a reasonable likelihood that he will succeed since the respondent's penalty rule is reasonable and G.E. was aware of the rule prior to the violation. G.E. has not shown irreparable harm since there is only about two weeks left in the soccer season, and G.E. will be able to participate in other sports during the remainder of his senior year. According to Mr. Collins, the granting of emergency relief will cause a greater harm to the school since it will send a message to the students that they can violate the school rules and not pay the penalty.

To qualify for emergency relief, the petitioner must show he meets the following four prerequisites: a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits, an irreparable harm to the petitioner, a settled legal right, and a showing that petitioner will suffer a greater hardship if relief is denied in relationship to any hardship on the respondent, N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-34 (1982). I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not established a reasonable likelihood of success on the merits.

It is unlikely that the petitioner will be able to show that the penalty for cigarette smoking on school property is unreasonable or that the school did not give G.E. an adequate opportunity to present his defenses. The courts have recognized that the nature of the hearing to be afforded to a student depends on the circumstances of the case, Shore Reg. High School. In this matter, there are no factual disputes regarding the violation, and the sole issue was whether the school should reduce the penalty. G.E. had the opportunity to try to convince the school officials that they should mitigate the penalty.

As to the NJSIAA rules, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has not shown a likelihood of success in his argument that the NJSIAA rules preempt the school's rule regarding cigarette smoking on school property. The portion of the NJSIAA rules presented by the petitioner only govern the use of alcoholic beverages and illegal substances during and after games (R-1), and does not contain any language which would prohibit a school from establishing a tobacco ban.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to establish the prerequisites for emergency relief, and it is ORDERED that the petition be DENIED.

This order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergency relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this matter, including the audiotape of emergent proceedings by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), and the initial decision on Motion for Emergent Relief of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ denying emergent relief as petitioner failed to meet the standards for such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6, R. 4:52-1.

Accordingly, the ALJ's determination to deny emergent relief is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and, the relief sought by petitioner as to his return to the soccer team now being moot, this matter shall proceed at the OAL to the extent that petitioner wishes to pursue issues raised concerning allegations of infirmity in respondent's school policy.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case in August 1996 as a result of the filing of a petition of appeal by Dover Transportation, Inc. challenging the respondent Board's award of certain transportation routes to another bidder. A hearing scheduled for September 3, 1996 was adjourned at my suggestion in light of the fact that no hearing had been provided to the petitioner by the respondent with respect to its action. Counsel agreed that such a hearing would be held and that jurisdiction would be retained by me pending the outcome of the same.

Following a hearing at the local level the matter was not resolved and a plenary hearing was scheduled to be conducted by the undersigned Administrative Law Judge for late May 1997. On the first date of that hearing counsel conferred with one another and with their respective clients and a tentative settlement was reached with the understanding that the terms and conditions would be reduced to writing and submitted in a Stipulation of Settlement.

I now have received the fully executed Stipulation of Settlement which contains the agreement reached between the parties and which has been signed by the petitioner's president, the respondent's president and by counsel.

I have reviewed the terms of the Stipulation of Settlement and I FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures on the Stipulation.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all the issues in controversy and is consistent with law.

I CONCLUDE the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Agreement, made this day of August, 1997, by and between:

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF RUMSON, COUNTY OF MONMOUTH ("Board"),

and

KATHLEEN HUNTER ("Ms. Hunter").

RECITALS:

A. During the schools years 1994-1995, 1995-1996 and 1996-1997, Ms. Hunter resided in the Borough of Fair Haven with her child.

B. In the school years 1995-1996 and 1996-1997, Ms. Hunter sent her child to the Rumson School District.

C. Ms. Hunter was aware that, as a non-resident of the Borough of Rumson, her child was only permitted to attend the Rumson School District tuition-free if she was a resident of the Borough of Rumson.

D. Ms. Hunter understood, based on warnings and information provided to her by the the Superintendent, that she was obligated to pay tuition for her child's attendance at the Rumson School District while a resident of Fair Haven.

E. The Board's resolution that Ms. Hunter was not domiciled within the Borough of Rumson during the 1995-1996 school year and 1996-1997 school year is accurate, attached and incorporated herein by reference.

SEP 15 11 20 AM '97
STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

F. On or about February of 1997, Ms. Hunter filed a Petition with the Commissioner of Education claiming residence in Rumson during the above referenced school years, to which the Board filed an Answer contesting the allegations, requesting the Commissioner to find that Ms. Hunter was not domiciled in Rumson Borough and impose tuition for the time periods when Ms. Hunter was not domiciled in the Rumson School District.

G. Ms. Hunter has no proof of her domicile in the Borough of Rumson.

H. The Board does not wish to incur the costs associated with the hearing process, the decision and the collection of tuition, which costs may exceed the tuition to be charged.

NOW, THEREFORE, IN CONSIDERATION OF THE MUTUAL COVENANTS HEREIN CONTAINED, the Board and Ms. Hunter agree as follows:

1. The Recitals are incorporated herein.

2. Ms. Hunter acknowledges that she was not domiciled within the Borough of Rumson during the school years 1995-1996 and 1996-1997, and that as a result of her non-residence she would have been obligated to pay tuition for her child's attendance at the Rumson schools.

3. Given Ms. Hunter's admissions as set forth herein, the Board agrees that it will not seek tuition or its collection in this or any other forum for the two school years.

4. The Board and Ms. Hunter agree to exchange general releases, the only exception to those releases being the terms and conditions of this Settlement Agreement.

5. The Petition and Answer shall be dismissed with prejudice.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. It is noted that the within Board sought and received an extension of time within which to file exceptions in this matter. Its exceptions were timely filed in accordance with the extended timeline and were duly considered in the Commissioner's determination of this case.

Upon careful review and consideration, the Commissioner affirms the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, under the circumstances existing herein, the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1) have been satisfied, thereby entitling minor child, A.L., to receive a free public education in the District for the period of enrollment at issue. As such, the Board's counterclaim for payment of tuition must be dismissed. In reaching this determination, the Commissioner accepts the credibility assessments reached by the ALJ in that she had the benefit of observing the witnesses first hand and the record before the Commissioner provides no basis for overturning such assessments.*

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons stated therein. The Board's counterclaim for tuition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

* Notwithstanding the fact that the Board's exceptions raised arguments challenging factual findings and credibility assessments made by the ALJ, it did not provide transcripts of the hearing below for the Commissioner's consideration (see In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987)), nor did it supply the tape recording which it contends contains certain admissions of petitioners supporting the Board's position. Consequently, the Board's exceptions challenging such credibility assessments and the factual findings predicated thereupon are rejected as being without merit.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who, by law, is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

J-7 Letter, Deus to A.L. and J.S.C., February 11, 1997

Having had an opportunity to hear the testimony of J.C., V.C., and A.L., and having observed their demeanor, I FIND their testimony wholly and completely credible. The District claimed that their testimony was incredible not because of contrary evidence that they introduced but because in our society, people who have only known someone for four months do not take that person into their home for free and treat them as one of their own children. While this is generally true, that is an unfortunate comment on our society, and the petitioners and A.L. have convinced me that in this case, an unusually generous and caring event indeed occurred.

Based on their testimony, I FIND the following FACTS. A.L. lived in petitioners' home in the District and was supported by petitioners gratis. He was treated during the period of time when he was there as the petitioners' own child. Petitioners assumed all the personal obligations for the child relative to the school requirements. Petitioners were willing to open their home to the child beyond the school term, if necessary, through the time he went to junior college.

Further, I FIND that A.L.'s father was not capable of providing support and care for the child due to both family and economic hardships. The father had been working both a full-time and a part-time job just to support himself; the arrival of his teenage son plainly strained his already strained finances. By contrast, petitioners offered A.L. his own room, regular meals, driving instructions, vacations, clothes, allowance, and basketball fees. The father's need to work so many hours created a dearth of supervision that was a family hardship. The fact that the father has taken his son back into his home now that the family's economic and financial hardships have been alleviated corroborates this finding.

Additionally, I FIND that the child was not residing within the District solely for purposes of receiving a free education within the District. The reason for this finding was that petitioners were willing to go to extraordinary lengths here to help this child. They recognized a troubled child, who had been wandering in many different places and wound up at their dinner table. They perceived A.L.'s need for stability and guidance in his life and offered to provide them for an extended period of time. Keeping A.L. in the high school was not a purpose in and of itself, but rather one of the factors necessary to provide much needed stability for this youth. If the sole purpose had been for A.L. to receive a free education in the District, petitioners would not have provided all the other support and opportunities to A.L., such as allowance, vacations, help with homework, driving instructions, and even advice and goal setting.

Just as family discord has been found to constitute hardship entitling the student to public education under the statute, so too does the family hardship that A.L. faced because his father worked two jobs just to make ends meet and was unable to give him support or supervision. See, R.H. v. Ocean Co. Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 629. Indeed, the unique and compelling circumstances in this case arise to the same level of hardship as did the circumstances in R.H. "To hold otherwise harms a party the legislature never meant to penalize...and overlooks the substantial state interest in ensuring the education of all its children...." Gundersen v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Brigantine, Atlantic Co., 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 39, 42. "The intent of the 'affidavit student' law is not now and never has been to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be contemplated by the statutory scheme...." Id.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners satisfied the residency requirements pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1. Consistent with the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioners are not liable for tuition to the Board during the period of time that A.L. went to school in the District.

ORDER

I ORDER that the petitioner's' petition to allow A.L. to go to school in the District is hereby DISMISSED as moot. I ORDER that the District's counterclaim for payment of tuition is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

He generally based his recommendations on the information in the affidavits. In this case, he based his decision to recommend that A.L. be removed from the District school on the discrepancies in the affidavits as well as conversations with teachers. For instance, the affidavits said that there was no health insurance and at the hearing, A.L.'s father said that he had covered his son with health insurance. He remembers that A.L. testified that he was making $250 per week.[1] He said that J.C. said that he had offered A.L. a chance to live with his family because he did not want A.L. to move and go to Dover High School and he never discussed supervision. J.C. kept saying over and over at the hearing, "We just want to help this kid. We don't want the system to lose another kid." After hearing all the evidence, his recommendation was the same as he did not believe that any hardship existed.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION OF LAW

The applicable statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, reads in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the district. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the > validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Thus, the proofs in this matter must show that 1) petitioners are domiciled within the District; 2) petitioners are supporting A.L. gratis; 3) A.L.'s parents are not capable of supporting or caring for him due to family or economic hardship, and 4) A.L. is not residing with petitioners solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in the District.

Here, the District challenged the reasons given by petitioners for taking A.L. in their home as incredible. Because credibility is an issue, the obligation and responsibility of the undersigned administrative law judge is to weigh the credibility of the witnesses in order to make factual findings. Credibility is the value a fact finder gives to a witness's testimony. The word contemplates an overall assessment of the witness's story in light of its rationality, internal consistency, and manner which it hangs together with other evidence. Carbo v. United States, 314 F.2d. 718 (9th Cir. 1963). The terms have been defined as testimony which must proceed from the mouth of credible witnesses and must be such as our common experience, knowledge, and common observation can accept as probable under the circumstances. State v. Taylor, 38 N.J. Super. 6, 24 (App. Div. 1955). The fact finder is expected to base decisions of credibility on his or her common sense, which is also referred to as intuition or experience. Barnes v. United States, 412 U.S. 837 (1973).

The credibility of each witness is to be judged separately but after testing the credibility of each witness's testimony, the fact finder as an additional factor in determining the truth or falsity of the charges may examine the testimony of all of the witnesses to determine if there are similarities in their factual allegations. It is not expected that the witnesses will testify to the same incident using exactly the same language. In addition, human experience teaches us that individual observations vary based on matters as simple as where they were located during an incident and as complex as their background and environment.

A.L. had met J.C.'s son on his third day at school and soon started eating dinner regularly at the petitioners' house. He had had a problem at the mall in October and missed a court date in November. In January J.C. went with him to straighten out the matter. He has contact with his dad whom he saw once or twice a week. He recently went to Canada on a trip with petitioners' family which was a lot of fun.

A.L. said that living with petitioners had given him a new view of what life could be like. He talked a lot to J.C. who convinced him that he should have goals and plans for the future. He has been thinking for the first time that he would like to become a teacher and help kids. J.C. has convinced him that just "hanging out" with no aim is "not where it's at." Some of the rules in J.C.'s house were difficult to live by, but he was willing to abide by the rules in order to continue living with petitioners. He also expressed his gratitude towards both Mr. and Mrs. C. for everything that they had done for him so far.

Manuel E. Deus

Manuel E. Deus, the business administrator and board secretary of the District, testified that one of his responsibilities as board secretary is residency of the students. He became involved with A.L. in September 1996, when A.L.'s aunt first signed an affidavit of residency because there was no lease bearing the parents' names. After residency verification, A.L. was admitted into school the next day.

In the second or third week of January 1997, Deus heard from a teacher that A.L. was moving with his father to another school system. Later he heard that A.L. was staying in the District with someone else. He sent the standard affidavits to the father and the resident to be filled out. The signed affidavits were returned approximately January 29, 1997, and they raised some concerns due to certain inconsistencies.

Both affidavits stated that A.L. was living with petitioners because A.L.'s arrival had been unexpected and A.L.'s father was unable to support his son. The father's affidavit erroneously said that A.L. had been living with J.C. for three years. Moreover, the father's affidavit did not answer the question, "The pupil will or will not (circle one) be residing with the individual named for the sole purpose of receiving a free public education in the district." The father also said that both J.C. and he would be claiming A.L. as a dependent in 1997. Both affidavits denied that there was any health insurance for A.L., although it came out at the hearing that the father had health insurance for A.L. Because the application was considered incomplete and inconsistent, Deus reported it to the superintendent of schools, who decided that a board hearing was necessary.

On January 31, 1997, the District sent a notice to A.L.'s father that the superintendent was making an application to have A.L. removed from the District school, as it had determined that A.L. was not living in the home of a District resident and being supported by that resident gratis due to a family or economical hardship. The letter also informed A.L. that he was entitled to come to a hearing on February 10, 1997. After the hearing, at which the father and J.C. testified, the Board decided that A.L. was not entitled to a free public education in District schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

Because this petition was filed in a timely manner, A.L. was not removed from the school and completed the school year. Deus testified that the yearly school tuition is $12,200 per pupil. The District had heard from A.L.'s counselor that the original plan was that the father and son were going to move to the new district together. They said that A.L. told the guidance counselor that he was moving in with petitioners so that he could continue to attend the high school.

Dr. James McNasby, superintendent of schools for respondent, testified that part of his duties included making recommendations to the Board in reference to residency.

Both V.C. and J.C. had spoken to school officials concerning A.L.'s progress during the time A.L. was under their care. A.L. also had had some problems with the police before moving in with the family. J.C. went once by himself with A.L. and another time with A.L.'s father to discuss A.L.'s problem with the juvenile authorities. When the District sent affidavits of residency, J.C. and A.L.'s father worked on the affidavits together. Any discrepancy was totally inadvertent.

At no time did he receive any money from A.L.'s father for the support of A.L. The family took A.L. into their home not so he could stay in the District but rather to give him some stability, help him grow up and get through high school. They did this because they thought it was the Christian thing to do to help someone in need. J.C. has a college degree in education and he worked to help kids whenever he could. He went through tough times when he was A.L.'s age and if people had not extended themselves, he might have been lost. The whole family was willing to extend themselves to give A.L. a chance at a better life.

At the hearing, J.C. testified that he had recently spoken to A.L.'s father who had gotten a new job with daytime hours which paid twice as much as his former job. If he passed the probationary period, they were going to discuss whether, because his financial position had changed as well as his ability to be home in the evenings, A.L. should return to live with him.

V.C.

V.C., the wife of J.C., testified that the family made a very deliberate decision to take in A.L. The arrangement was that A.L. would be given chores but that he also would be helped with school work, he would be given allowance and go on any family vacations. In the beginning what she objected to most was having to drive a third child around like she drove her two others, but she and her husband and her two children agreed that if A.L. came into the house, he would come on an equal basis. She thought that A.L. should not move with his father because the father really was barely able to afford to take care of himself, let alone a child. She felt that A.L. had been shuffled around too many times and was having problems because his father was not able to supervise him, which held the potential for A.L. getting into trouble. Additionally, she knew that A.L. did not want to move because A.L. was happy where he was. The father was moving into a one-bedroom apartment which would mean that A.L. would not still have his own bedroom. In petitioners' house, A.L. was given his own bedroom. They had bought him clothes and personal items. He was going for his driver's license and they were providing for driver's education. V.C. was trying to find a job for A.L. so that he will both be able to make money and have something to do with his time in the afternoons. Additionally, they enrolled him in an AAU basketball league and paid for him. Petitioners also set boundaries for A.L. and have given him a curfew and a phone curfew.

A.L., the minor in question, testified that until September 1996, he had been living with his mother on public assistance in Florida. He and his friends got into some trouble and he was placed on probation. After probation, his mother sent him to live with his father so that he did not get into more trouble. His mother gave his father only one week's notice that she was sending him. At that time, his father was living in a one-bedroom apartment with his sister (A.L.'s aunt) and his father was sleeping on the sofa in the living room. When A.L. arrived, he also stayed in the living room. His aunt worked full time and his father worked a full-time and a part-time job, so he did not have much adult supervision; mainly, he hung out with friends or at the mall. His father worked in a canning factory as well as a fast food restaurant and got home around midnight. In Florida he had missed so much school that although he was almost seventeen, he only had ten high school credits.

Petitioners claimed that the minor child was entitled to a free education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)1, as he was being kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and was supported by that other person. Respondent claims that A.L. was being kept in the home of petitioners for the sole purpose of attending District schools. Respondent has filed a counterclaim for payment of tuition.

On March 27, 1997, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on June 17, 1997. The record was held open for submission of additional documents by petitioners until June 27, 1997, with the proviso that respondent, after examining the documents, would have the choice of asking for another hearing date. After petitioners' submissions of additional documents, respondent chose not to ask for another hearing date. On July 26, 1997, J.C. notified the undersigned that because A.L.'s father's economic and personal situation had changed, he was able to take his son back into his household. Upon receipt of written arguments from the parties, the record was closed on August 5, 1997. On August 21, 1997, counsel for the District notified the undersigned that A.L. had transferred to Dover High School on August 7, 1997. Therefore, the remaining issue is the District's counterclaim for payment of out-of-district tuition for the five months that A.L. attended the high school after his father had moved out of the District.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

J. C.

J.C., a resident of the District, testified that in September 1996, his son met the minor in question here, A.L., and they became friends. A.L. began coming over the petitioners' house a great deal and playing ball with his son. Soon A.L. became a regular at the dinner table and on occasion he slept over. J.C. and his family got to know A.L. and liked him a lot. They discovered that he had come from a troubled background and that his present living situation was not stable.

In January 1997, J.C.'s son told him that A.L. was going to move and leave the school district because A.L.'s father was unable to afford the apartment he was living in and was moving to a cheaper apartment in another school district. J.C. had investigated the family situation and knew that A.L. as running around a lot without the supervision of his father. J.C. believed that A.L. had finally found a small degree of stability in his current situation which included spending a lot of time at petitioners' home. After consulting with his wife and then with his two children, J.C. met with A.L.'s father and offered to take A.L. into petitioners' home. He made this decision because the father was having a difficult time supporting himself, let alone A.L., by working two jobs and thus was unable to give A.L. much needed support and supervision. Moreover, A.L. had a history of unsuccessful times at school and he was having the most successful year he had ever had. J.C. felt that if A.L. had to be uprooted and make a new set of friends and moved to another school, it could very well set him back and deter him from his beginning steps towards success and stability.

J.C. brought A.L. into his home without receiving any money from A.L.'s father. While A.L.'s father did have health insurance that covered his son, there were no health insurance claims. For instance, J.C. bought a brace for A.L. when A.L. sprained his ankle. The arrangement agreed to by the entire family was that if A.L. was brought into the house, he would be treated like the other two children. A.L. received allowance but also had family responsibilities. J.C.'s goal was to help raise the child and make him responsible. The family offered to take A.L. not only through high school but also at least through community college. J.C. knew that when A.L. was living with his father, A.L. was not eating regularly. His father worked at a fast food restaurant and the main thing A.L. had to eat was chicken. J.C. had seen that A.L. needed help and support during the fall and he had tried to provide it in a limited way. J.C. felt that, if he did not intercede further, another kid would be lost because no one cared.

Petitioners, District residents who took in A.L., contested the Board's residency determination.

In light of testimony, the ALJ concluded that petitioners satisfied the residency requirements pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). ALJ found that petitioners took in A.L. as their own child; they supported him gratis as A.L.'s father was not capable of providing support and care for the child due to both family and economic hardships. Thus, the ALJ found that the child was not residing within the District solely for purposes of receiving a free education within the District. ALJ concluded petitioners were not liable for tuition to the Board during the period of time that A.L. went to school in the District; and, therefore, the Board's counterclaim for payment of tuition was dismissed with prejudice. ALJ determined that petitioners' petition to allow A.L. to go to school in the District should be dismissed as moot in that the new employment of A.L.'s father had alleviated the family and economic hardships so as to permit A.L. to once again live with his father.

Accepting credibility assessments reached by the ALJ, the Commissioner adopted the initial decision as his own.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8651-97

K. W. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, C.W.,

Petitioner,

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF EWING, MERCER COUNTY,

Respondent.

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., for petitioner (Sumners, Council, George & Dortch, attorneys)

John G. Dyer, III, Esq., for respondent

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was opened before the undersigned on an application for temporary emergent relief. K.W., on behalf of her minor child, C.W., (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on October 21, 1997, together with a motion for emergent relief. The motion seeks an order staying the ten day suspension which was imposed upon C.W. as disciplinary action commencing October 15, 1997, pending a determination by the Commissioner after a plenary hearing. On October 21, 1997 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6. Oral argument on the motion was scheduled for October 27, 1997. Following a telephone conference call with both parties which was initiated by the undersigned on October 24, 1997, respondent agreed to readmit C.W. to school on October 27, 1997 and to withhold the final two days of the ten day suspension pending a determination on the within motion. An answer and responding papers were filed on behalf of respondent on October 27, 1997. Oral argument was conducted by telephone conference call, also on October 27, 1997.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following undisputed facts appear from the petition, the answer and the motion papers filed by counsel.

C.W. is enrolled as a student in respondent's school district and attends Fisher Middle School. On Friday, October 10, 1997, C.W. and another student, R.J., were involved in an altercation on the school bus after school. K.W., mother of C.W., was one of two parents who contacted Vice Principal Darryl Jackson to report the incident. Mr. Jackson had not been aware of the incident and indicated that he would look into the situation as soon as the students returned to school on October 14, 1997 (Monday, October 13, 1997 was a school holiday). On October 14, 1997, Mr. Jackson spoke individually with each of the two students involved, C.W. and R.J., and received written statements from each student. Although there were many witnesses to the incidents occurring on the school bus and directly upon departure, both students involved had identified D.B. and D.C. as students who had observed the incidents and accordingly, Mr. Jackson thereafter met separately with D.B. and with D.C. He received written statements from each of these students as well. After speaking with the students and reading their statements, Mr. Jackson concluded that both C.W. and R.J. had been engaged in a fight, that blows were exchanged and that both parties appeared to be willing participants. He also concluded that the incident was more than a mere scuffle between students, and accordingly, pursuant to the Fisher Middle School Behavioral Guide, he imposed the ten day out of school suspension specified for a first offense of "Fighting (Physical combat between two or more students)." Mr. Jackson advised R.J. and C.W. separately of the conclusions of his investigation. Both were afforded an opportunity to respond. C.W.'s mother appealed the suspension to the Superintendent. In the Superintendent's absence Assistant Superintendent Raymond Broach met with K.W. The Assistant Superintendent affirmed the administrative disciplinary action. K.W. then withdrew C.W. as a student from the Ewing public schools. She thereafter determined to re-enroll C.W., however, and as previously noted, C.W. has been permitted to attend classes commencing on October 27, 1997 and until the Commissioner issues a determination in the within matter. Respondent has agreed to consider C.W.'s absences from school between October 15, 1997 and October 27, 1997 as suspension days served.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

Pursuant to the standards articulated in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 120 (1982), which are incorporated by reference in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.5(b), to establish entitlement to emergent relief petitioner must demonstrate: 1) the likelihood of irreparable harm, 2) settled legal principles governing the right to relief in the controversy, 3) a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits, i.e., "a preliminary injunction should not issue where all material facts are controverted" and 4) a balancing of the relative hardships to the parties in granting or denying relief such that the equities favor the grant of temporary relief to maintain the status quo pending the outcome of a final hearing.

In the within matter, there can be no reasonable argument made by petitioner that permitting the final two days of the suspension to be served would cause irreparable harm. Because of the time involved in processing the application for emergent relief, eight of the ten days have already been served; the work missed can certainly be made up, and should petitioner ultimately prevail upon the merits, the disciplinary record can be expunged. The legal principles involved are clear, i.e., N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2(d), identifies "physical assault upon another pupil" as conduct which shall constitute good cause for suspension or expulsion of a pupil from the public schools in New Jersey. It is also well settled that actions of local boards which lie within the area of their discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 28 (App. Div. 1960). Petitioner no longer alleges that the due process rights guaranteed to C.W. prior to the imposition of a disciplinary suspension, i.e., notice and an opportunity to be heard, have been violated, and under the Kopera standard, the argument that the sanction imposed was too harsh is not one which is likely to prevail. K.L. v. Matawan-Aberdeen High School District, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 74, 76. Furthermore, the material facts are definitely in issue. Although from the statement written by C.W. one might conclude that she was the innocent victim of R.J.'s aggression, the statements of R.J. and two other witnesses, D.B. and D.C., set forth numerous facts which are inconsistent with C.W.'s position. It appears that there was ample evidence to support Mr. Jackson's conclusion that C.W. was a willing participant in a fight rather than simply an innocent victim. The sanction imposed by Mr. Jackson, a ten day suspension from school, is the sanction specified in the Disciplinary Handbook distributed to students for "Fighting (Physical combat between two or more students)". The disciplinary policy further specifies that incidents occurring on the school bus shall be handled as outlined in the policies just as though the offense took place in school.

The equities which must be balanced here are respondent's interests in protecting the integrity of the disciplinary process and petitioner's interest in attending school for two additional days. Respondent argues, persuasively, that interference with its ability to impose short-term disciplinary actions under circumstances such as those in the within matter would erode its authority to control disruptive behavior and to maintain a safe school environment.

The appropriate standard of review of the Board's action in this matter is set forth in Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, supra. Where the issue is one involving the exercise of a local board's discretion, the scope of the Commissioner's review is "not to substitute his judgment for that of those who made the evaluation but to determine whether they had a reasonable basis for their conclusions." Id. at 297. Actions of local boards of education which lie within the area of their discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Quinlin v. Board of Ed. of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966); K.L. v. Matawan/Aberdeen High School Dist., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 74; M.G. v. Monmouth Regional High School, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 38. Although it is possible that petitioner may meet this standard following a plenary hearing, it is by no means "reasonably probable" on the basis of the facts in the emergent relief papers. Petitioner has failed to satisfy the conditions for imposition of the extraordinary pre-trial remedy which she seeks. Accordingly, the motion for emergent relief must be DENIED.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, including the audio tape of the telephonic hearing conducted on October 27, 1997, and the Order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon such review*, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner has failed to meet the standards for the granting of emergent relief set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Accordingly, the recommended Order of the ALJ denying petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief is adopted for the reasons well expressed therein and this matter shall proceed to a plenary hearing on its merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

*It is noted that the record reflects that, although the instant emergent relief motion seeks an order staying the Board-imposed 10-day suspension of C.W. which began on October 15, 1997, such motion was not filed with the Commissioner until October 21, 1997, and was transmitted to the OAL for adjudication, via facsimile, on that same date.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, tenured teacher specialists whose 12-month positions which required instructional certificates were abolished in July 1993, contested their reassignment to 10-month classroom teaching positions, averring that the Board continued their 12-month positions staffing them with nontenured individuals, thus, violating petitioners' tenure and seniority rights.

ALJ considered the duties required by fourteen positions to which petitioners claimed entitlement. ALJ determined that petitioners had no rights to five positions that were vacant or abolished as of the RIF and were never filled. Also, they had no entitlement to hold two positions, Bilingual Parent-Community Liaison and Computer Technician, which required unique qualifications. The scope of the determination of petitioners' tenure and seniority rights was limited, therefore, to seven positions. However, the ALJ made no finding as to entitlement to two positions which were never submitted to the county superintendent for a determination of the proper certification required. ALJ found that Petitioners Dare and Avery were entitled to four of the five remaining positions with the difference in compensation. Petitioner Williams had no entitlement to any of the above positions as her position as personnel specialist was more administrative in nature, requiring no interaction with students or parents, and not implementing plans or programs that have a direct effect on curriculum and school policy. Her claims were dismissed.

Commissioner reversed in part the initial decision as he was not persuaded that the circumstances herein supported the conclusion that petitioners were subjected to a RIF. Petitioners were never dismissed from employment; rather, the Commissioner found that the Board acted pursuant to its managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members within the scope of their certification. Commissioner found, however, that petitioners were subject to a reduction in salary violating their tenure rights. Commissioner directed that petitioners must be reinstated to their respective salaries as of April 1993, and given the differential of what they actually received and what they should have received in subsequent years. Commissioner noted that the Board may elect to freeze petitioners at their prior salary until such wages are in accord with the teachers' salary guide.

Jacob Green, Esq., for respondent (Green & Dzwilewski, attorneys)

Record Closed: June 23, 1997 Decided: August 4, 1997

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On June 8, 1993, the individual petitioners filed their petition of appeal before the Commissioner of Education. They each alleged that they are tenured teaching staff members employed by respondent (the "Board" or "Trenton"). Each, at one time, held a twelve-month teaching staff position, which had been abolished by respondent for reasons of economy or efficiency, and the basis of the petitioners' appeal is their respective assertions that they possess various bumping rights based upon their tenure and seniority.

On August 23, 1993, the respondent filed its answer before the Commissioner and essentially denied that any of the petitioners were accorded less rights than they would otherwise have been entitled to under the education laws and that, further, the petitioners have failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted. Thereafter, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13, on or about September 1, 1993.

Following extensive prehearing discovery and conferences, it was finally decided between counsel that the matter should be submitted on cross-motions for summary decision. I did not oppose that approach. As a condition to it, however, it was agreed that counsel for the petitioner would reach out to any and all of those individuals who could be potentially negatively impacted by a determination in this proceeding in which any or all of the petitioners could prevail by way of tenure, seniority and bumping rights, and advise the former of their rights to intervene. Mr. Friedman comported with this request. After approximately a thirty-day period following placing these individuals on notice, none of the individuals placed on notice either moved to intervene or participate. Accordingly, I closed the record on June 23, 1997, the date measuring approximately thirty days from when the last letter advising potential intervenors of their rights was mailed by petitioners' counsel.

THE FACTS AND ANALYSIS

The facts of this matter have been stipulated, and can be summarized as follows.

Petitioners Percy Dare, Ivy Avery, and Janice Williams were all employed by respondent Trenton Board of Education as "teacher specialists." These positions were twelve month positions that required instructional certificates although they apparently involved duties that were predominantly administrative in nature. The petitioners were assigned to these positions at various times, but all had their positions abolished in July of 1993. Almost immediately subsequent to the abolishment, petitioners were assigned to positions that were identical to the abolished positions, except that the new positions were only ten-month positions with the concomitant reduction in salary. Petitioners allege that this reassignment violated their tenure, and that they are eligible through their seniority rights to various twelve month "teacher specialist" positions held by teachers with tenure junior to theirs.

In total petitioners claim that there are fourteen positions to which one or all of them are entitled. The tenure of each petitioner, and the validity of their claims to each of the fourteen positions, will be discussed in detail infra. Before addressing the validity of the tenure claims, however, certain preliminary issues need to be addressed.

Preliminary Issues

A. Whether the Reassignments Violated Petitioners' Tenure Rights

Rather than concede that a RIF has occurred which triggers issues of tenure and seniority, respondent has characterized its action as a simple transfer of full-time employees to other full-time positions, with no reduction in compensation. Specifically, respondent argues that the tenure rights of the petitioners were not violated because their reassignment from twelve month positions to ten month positions did not reduce their employment status, i.e. they were still "full-time" employees, and because the transfers did not reduce the rate of their compensation. Respondent cites to three cases for support of this notion -- Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., 1979 S.L.D. 220, rev'd State Bd. of Ed., 1980 S.L.D. 1552, aff'd 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980), certif. denied, 87 N.J. 306 (1981); Basset v. Oakland Bd. of Ed., 223 N.J. Super. 136 (App. Div. 1988); and Casey v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Ed., 95 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 585 (State Bd. of Ed.). These cases, however, are not on point.

A teaching staff members' tenure rights are established at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, which provides that a teacher that has achieved tenure "shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such teaching staff member or other just cause. . . ." Generally, when construing a statute, a court "must first look at the wording of the statute to ascertain its plain meaning and intent. If a statute's language is 'plain and clearly reveals the meaning of the statute, the court's sole function is to enforce the statute in accordance with those terms.' " State in Interest of V.M., 279 N.J. Super. 535, 536-37 (App. Div. 1995), quoting Dep't of Law and Public Safety v. Bigham, 119 N.J. 646, 651 (1990) (other citations omitted). In applying the plain meaning of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the petitioners' tenure rights were violated. The petitioners are being paid 17% less now than when they were in twelve-month positions. Their compensation has been reduced.

The cases cited by respondent do not support its argument that actual compensation may be decreased as long as the rate of compensation is maintained. In Williams, supra, the petitioner's salary was not decreased; she was paid the same as an elementary school principal as she was in her previous position of high school principal. Therefore it was held in that case that her tenure rights were not violated because her salary was not reduced, even though her future salary expectancy was.

In Bassett, supra, a reading teacher had her full-time position reduced to part-time. The teacher did not contest the reduction to part-time status, nor the reduction in salary; she instead challenged the lower rate of compensation at which she was being paid. Reduction in actual compensation was not even at issue in Barrett, supra, rendering that case inapplicable.

Finally, Casey, supra, is likewise inapposite. In that case a teacher's aide holding a ten-month position was reassigned to a twelve-month library clerk position. The increase in months of work resulted in an increase in her annual salary, although her rate of compensation, and therefore monthly salary, was decreased. The State Board held that even though petitioner's salary was technically increased, the fact that her rate of salary and monthly salary were decreased violated her tenure rights. This case illustrates the broad interpretation that is given to salary protections. Thus, even if salary is increased, it still must be in a manner that maintains the integrity of the tenured employee's rate of compensation. Where salary is decreased, however, there can be no question that it must be in a manner consistent with the employee's tenure rights.

Respondent's action of abolishing the twelve month positions of petitioners actually constituted a RIF. Such RIF's are "entirely within the authority of the board if done for reasons of economy." Klinger v. Cranbury Tp. Bd. of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982).

There has been no contention that the RIF in this matter was not entirely legitimate. Nonetheless, the RIF must "be made on the basis of seniority according to standards . . . established by the commissioner with the approval of the state board." N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. It is this statutory section that petitioners allege respondent violated.

Respondent has contended that if it is found that a RIF did occur petitioners' bumping rights "would require that the board continue to pay the twelve-month salary to any tenured teacher bumped from his or her 12-month position by any of the Petitioners herein" (Respondent's Brief at 14-15). This is simply not the case. If the RIF was undertaken for bona fide economic reasons, the reduction in salary would be legitimate. However, that does not mean that petitioners are required to bear the brunt of that reduction. That determination is made by application of the seniority regulations.

B. Whether Petitioners were Entitled to Vacant Positions

Petitioners contend that they are entitled to the compensation of certain positions from the time those positions became vacant until the time those positions were actually abolished. Respondent counters that the decision to fill a vacant position rests solely in the discretion of the school board, and that it cannot be forced to fill a vacancy it has determined to let languish.

For support of their position, petitioners cite to Gainer v. Wayne Twp. Bd. of Ed., 94 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 217. In that case the petitioner, a tenured supplemental English teacher, was informed at the close of the school year that she would not be retained for the next year. During the summer, an English teaching position opened up, which the school board decided to fill with a non-tenured teacher. Prior to the start of the next academic year, but after the board filled the teacher position with the non-tenured teacher, petitioner was given a position identical to the one she had just lost, without any reduction in pay. Nonetheless, petitioner asserted that her tenure rights were violated because she should have been assigned to the English teaching position, which had a higher salary than the position she originally held and to which she was subsequently reassigned.

The ALJ in that matter denied petitioner's claim, finding that no reduction in force occurred because petitioner was reassigned to a position before the start of the school year. The Commissioner upheld the ALJ, but for different reasons. The Commissioner found that a RIF had in fact occurred, because petitioner received a letter informing her that her position had been abolished. Instead, the Commissioner found that petitioner's tenure rights were not violated because she was recalled before the start of the school year, and was therefore saved harmless by virtue of the recall. The State Board of Education reversed the Commissioner. The Board found that petitioner's tenure rights were activated from the moment of receipt of the letter, that she therefore should have been placed on a preferred eligibility list, and that she had entitlement to the higher-salaried teaching position over the non-tenured teacher. Id., at 222-23

Gainer illustrates that tenure rights are not dependent upon the start of a school year for activation; it does not stand for the proposition that teachers are entitled to vacant positions that school boards have determined to leave unfilled. The petitioner in that case claimed entitlement to a position the board had determined to fill with a non-tenured teacher. That action violated petitioner's tenure rights because she should have been immediately placed on a preferred eligibility list. When the board determined to fill the vacant position, her name should have come up first. Gainer therefore does not lend support to petitioners' position.

A case more on point is MacMillan, et al. v. East Brunswick Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 1. In that matter, several department chairs had their positions abolished. During that time, a vacancy existed as a chair of the mathematics/computer-science department. Two of the petitioners acknowledged that the decision to fill the vacant positions rests within the discretion of the school board, but claimed that if the school board did decide to fill the position they would have first rights thereto. Id., at 13. Since the board had not filled the mathematics/computer-science chair position, the ALJ dismissed that part of the complaint as there was "no authority to compel the Board to have filled the position." Id., at 19.

Petitioners' right to be put on a preferred eligibility list effective as of the date of the abolishment of their positions does not mean that they have the power to force the school board to fill a position it has determined to leave vacant. Petitioners' tenure rights do not supersede a school board's right to reduce the number of its teaching staff. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

C. Whether Petitioners are Entitled to Positions with Unique Qualifications

Petitioners claim entitlement to two positions with unique qualifications not possessed by any of them. Specifically, petitioners claim that they are entitled to the "Bilingual Parent-Community Liaison" teacher specialist position, and the "Computer Technician" position. The job description for the Bilingual Parent-Community Liaison position clearly requires that the employee be proficient in both Spanish and English. See, Joint Exhibit #33. The Computer Technician position does not have a job description, but the duties have been described by the parties as entailing "computer repair and maintenance of the district's computers and computer network (involving thousands of computers), attending to and maintaining the computer system and software, updating computers with software updates and other modifications, purchases of parts, etc."

None of the petitioners is bilingual, nor do any of them possess any technical skill in computers. Nonetheless, each claims a right to these positions. Petitioners cite to Johnson v. Englewood Bd. of Educ., 1985 S.L.D. 618, aff'd 1987 S.L.D. 2613, and South River Educ. Ass'n. v. South River Bd. of Educ., 1987 S.L.D. 2724. Those cases, along with Herbert v. Middletown Twp. Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2148, stand for the rule that although a school district may require qualifications or credentials for an unrecognized title in hiring or promotions, those additional qualifications cannot defeat the tenure or seniority rights of RIF'ed teaching staff members. This doctrine, however, has been significantly curtailed by the recent decision of White v. Bloomfield Bd. of Ed. and Rosamilia, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 846.

In White, supra, the petitioner held the position of Supervisor of Health and Physical Education, whose position was abolished. The board subsequently sought to hire a Supervisor of Elementary Education, an unrecognized title that had been approved by the County Superintendent, and which was listed as requiring a supervisor/administrative and an instructional certificate, as well as requiring a Master's degree and five years of elementary teaching and/or supervisory experience. Although petitioner held both certificates, the board nonetheless refused to appoint him to the position as it argued that an elementary endorsement was also required by the position, even though such requirement was not explicitly mentioned in the job description submitted to the County Superintendent.

The ALJ denied petitioner's claim. He entertained "little doubt, at the very least, that an elementary educational endorsement implicitly was required as witnessed by the clear description of the need for five or more years of elementary teaching and/or elementary supervisory experience." Id., at 850. Thus, even though the endorsement requirement was not explicitly listed in the job description, the ALJ found the nature of the job demanded that the employee meet that "local" qualification. "[T]hat requirement seems to me to be so basic as to be among the essence of the new position." Id., at 851.

Likewise, proficiency in English and Spanish goes to the essence of the Bilingual Parent-Community Liaison position. In this respect the instant matter differs from Johnson, supra. In Johnson, the petitioner was a school social worker who had her position abolished. Subsequently, a social worker with less seniority was appointed to the position of bilingual social worker. This position required certification as a school social worker, as well as proficiency in English and Spanish. Petitioner held the required certification, but could not speak Spanish. Nonetheless, petitioner claimed entitlement to the position.

In granting petitioner's claim, the state board of education found that there was little difference between the duties performed by a school social worker and a bilingual school social worker, and that only three of twelve of the listed duties required any proficiency in Spanish. Id., at 2615. Such is not the case here. Proficiency in Spanish is the very heart of the Bilingual Parent-Community Liaison position. The duties in this case involve direct contact with the Spanish-speaking community. The Liaison has to be able to conduct seminars and informational meetings, and also assists in the translation of informational materials. Someone with no knowledge of Spanish would not be able to perform the position's basic functions.

Such is even more the case for the position of computer technician. Petitioners would be wholly unable to perform any of the functions required by that position. Furthermore, there is nothing to suggest that computer technician belongs to the same job category as the petitioners. This position is an unrecognized title for which certification was never established and a job description never written. Just because the person currently holding the position holds an instructional certificate and used to teach computers, it does not necessarily follow that the same certification is required for his subsequent position. If this employee decided to become a janitor, that does not mean that an instructional certificate would thereafter be required to fulfill janitorial duties.

II. Individual Tenure Claims

A. Percy Dare

Petitioner Dare has been tenured the longest of all the petitioners. He was hired by respondent in September of 1969, and held his position as Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Center Manager from July 1, 1978 until June 30, 1993, accruing fifteen years tenure in that position. He has been employed as a "teacher specialist" since 1970, and therefore claims twenty-three years in seniority.

Petitioner claims entitlement to fourteen positions, including:

1. Early Childhood Transition Program Specialist, Head Start, and Early Childhood Position Grant
2. Teacher Specialist for Business and Industry Liaison
3. Teacher Specialist Follow-Thru Program
4. Teacher Specialist, Parent Community Relations
5. Peer Leadership Teacher
6. Teacher Specialist, Program for Adolescent Mothers
7. Personnel Specialist, Compensation
8. Family and Support Services Specialist and Head Start Public School Early Childhood Transition Grant
9. Follow-thru Staff Trainer, Teacher Specialist Follow-thru Trainer
10. OSR Teacher Specialist
11. Coordinator of Records, Benefits and Salary Guide Placement
12. Teacher Specialist, Adult Education, New Jersey Youth Core
13. Teacher Specialist, Bilingual Parent Community Liaison

14. Computer Technician

However, positions eight through twelve were vacant or abolished as of the RIF, and were never filled. As discussed above, petitioners had no rights to these positions. Furthermore, also as discussed above, petitioners were not qualified to hold positions thirteen or fourteen and therefore have no entitlement to those positions. Therefore, the scope of the determination of petitioner's tenure and seniority rights is limited to positions one through seven.

The first step in analyzing petitioner's claim to positions one through seven is to determine whether he had tenure in his "teacher specialist" position, and whether those rights entitle him to any of the controverted positions. In determining whether petitioner was entitled to tenure in his position, it is merely necessary to apply the three-prong test applied by the Supreme Court in Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Ed., 90 N.J. 63, 74 (1982) -- "an employee of a board of education is entitled to tenure if (1) she works in a position for which a teaching certificate is required; (2) she holds the appropriate certificate; and (3) she has served the requisite period of time." Applying this test it is plain that petitioner has achieved tenure. He is in a position of employment with respondent that requires him to hold a valid instructional certificate and has served in that position for more than three years. See, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. Petitioner has achieved tenure under his instructional certificate. Therefore, any positions to which his certification entitle him must be granted to petitioner over non-tenured personnel.

Petitioner alleges that positions number one and seven listed above are held by non-tenured teachers, and that therefore he has superior rights to those positions. Both of the current occupants of those positions, Sylvia Brown and Lillian Minus, however, had obtained tenure as teachers under their instructional certificates. Thus they have achieved tenure to all positions to which their certification entitles them. Ellicot v. Board of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342, 348-349 (App. Div. 1991); Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239, 242 (App. Div. 1987); Capodilupo v. W. Orange Tp. Ed. Bd., 218 N.J. Super. 510, 514 (App. Div. 1987). Because the "teacher specialist" positions require only an instructional certificate and no specific endorsements, the occupants of positions one and seven effectively transfer their tenure from their recognized teaching positions to their more recent appointments to unrecognized "teacher specialist" appointments.[1]

The tenure of Brown and Minus in the teacher specialist positions is also not affected by the fact that they were transferred from their teaching positions into their "teacher specialist" positions. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 provides:

> Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter . . . shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:
> (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position. . . .

This section has been interpreted to apply only to those transfers made between separately tenurable positions, and not to positions included under the educational services or instructional certificate. See, Kletzin v. Bd. of Educ. of Borough of Spotswood, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 367, 368, aff'd, 261 N.J. Super. 549 (App. Div. 1993), aff'd, 136 N.J. 275 (1994). Because the transfers of Brown and Minus were to positions included under the certificate to which they had achieved tenure, such tenure is transferable to the new positions and is not barred by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6.

Because all of the positions to which petitioner claims entitlement were held by tenured teaching staff members, petitioner's entitlement to those positions is determined by operation of the seniority regulations. Bednar, supra, 221 N.J. Super. at 243. Those regulations provide that

Bd. of Ed. of Old Bridge*, 148 N.J. 358 (1997), while significant decisions pertaining to the tenure rights of teachers, are not immediately relevant to the case at hand. Those cases dealt with the transferability of tenure across different certificates, and across different endorsements, respectively. As petitioners are not attempting to transfer tenure across certificates, and no endorsements were required for any of the positions involved in the instant matter, Dennery, supra, and Nelson, supra, do not apply. Further, those cases never modified or overruled the holdings in Ellicot, supra, Bednar, supra, or Capodilupo, supra. The holding in those cases are therefore still the controlling law.

> calendar years of employment, or fraction thereof, as the case may be, in the school district in specific categories as hereinafter provided.' ...
> [N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(b)]

The regulation establishing categories of employment, however, do not have a provision for "teacher specialist," or any other unrecognized title. See, N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(l). The regulation authorizing the use of unrecognized titles, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3, provides that:

> (b) If a district board of education determines that the use of an unrecognized position title is desirable, or if a previously established unrecognized title exists, such district board of education shall submit a written request for permission to use the proposed title to the county superintendent of schools, prior to making such appointment. Such request shall include a detailed job description. The county superintendent shall exercise his or her discretion regarding approval of such request, and make a determination of the appropriate certification and title for the position. The county superintendent of schools shall review annually all previously approved unrecognized position titles, and determine whether such titles shall be continued for the next school year. Decisions rendered by county superintendents regarding titles and certificates for unrecognized positions shall be binding upon future seniority determinations on a case-by-case basis.
> [Emphasis added]

Furthermore, the seniority regulations also provide that:

> (g) Where the title of any employment is not properly descriptive of the duties performed, the holder thereof shall be placed in a category in accordance with the duties performed and not by title. Whenever the title of any employment shall not be found in the certification rules or in these rules, the holder of the employment shall be classified as nearly as may be according to the duties performed, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3.
> [N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1(g) (Emphasis added)]

Therefore, in order to determine whether petitioner has any entitlement to the controverted positions, it is necessary to examine petitioner's title and job description, and compare it to the titles and job descriptions of the controverted positions. It has been found that:

> When deciding competing tenure and seniority claims, courts "look to the substance rather than the form." Viemeister v. Prospect Park Bd. of Ed., 5 N.J. Super. 214, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Thus, the nature of the work done, not the title, is "the crucial factor." Quinlan v. North Bergen Bd. of Ed., 73 N.J. Super. 40, 48 (App. Div. 1962). "[T]he duties performed, rather than the title of the position or job description, are controlling." Christie v. East Orange Bd. of Ed., 1985 S.L.D. (Comm'r 1985), slip. op. at 14. . . . Seniority regulations codify this approach by clarifying that "[w]here the title of any employment is not properly descriptive of the duties performed, the holder thereof shall be placed in a category in accordance with the duties performed and not by title." N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10(g).

[Joint Exhibit 7]

A comparison of the duties required of a "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" and an "Early Childhood/Transitions Program Specialist--Head Start/Public School Early Childhood Transition Grant" reveals that they are similar enough to belong to the same category of employment. Both require the implementation of government funded programs; the preparation of reports, applications, and budgets; interaction with parents and other community groups; the publication of informational materials; and the coordination and conducting of meetings.

The second position petitioner Dare claims entitlement to is "Teacher Specialist for Business and Industry Liaison." This position requires a valid instructional certificate and three years classroom experience. The duties for this position are enumerated as follows:

1. To serve as liaison between Trenton Public Schools and Mercer County for student job placement.

2. To establish criteria and to identify students for participation in the 10,000 jobs program.

3. To complete and update student education records and job placement records.

10. Provide student and parent orientation.

11. Investigate funding for expansion and/or continuation of program during upcoming school year(s).

12. Performs such other appropriate duties and assumes such other appropriate responsibilities as assigned by immediate supervisor.

A comparison of the duties required of a "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" and a "Teacher Specialist for Business and Industry Liaison" reveals that they are similar enough to belong to the same category of employment. Both require the implementation of government funded programs; the maintenance of records; interaction with parents and other community groups; and the designing of various programs and tests.

The third position to which petitioner Dare claims entitlement is "Teacher Specialist-Follow Through Program." That position requires a valid instructional certificate, experience in Follow Through Behavior Analysis Approach, and five years successful experience in the Follow Through Program. The duties for this position are enumerated as follows:

1. Assists the Director of School Operations/Elementary/Follow Through Program in the general management of the Follow Through Program toward the goal of optimum performance of personnel and pupils.

2. Develops, schedules, and monitors all Follow Through instructional aides, and in-service programs (teachers, teacher aides, parent educators).

16. Implements the Follow Through Behavior Analysis Program as specified in the program application at Caldwalader School in K-Grade 3 and one Follow Through class at Grant, Monument, Parker, Rivera, and Wilson Schools.

17. Develops curriculum relevant to the needs of the program.

18. Works with the P.A.C. Committee and conducts regularly scheduled meetings.

19. Serves as resource person to project director.

20. Performs such other tasks and assumes such other responsibilities as assigned by the Director of School Operations-Elementary.

A comparison of the duties required of a "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" and a "Teacher Specialist-Follow Through Program" reveals that they are similar enough to belong to the same category of employment. Both require the implementation of government funded programs; the preparation of reports, applications, and budgets; the development of programs; interaction with parents and other community groups; and the coordination and conducting of meetings.

The fourth position claimed by petitioner Dare is "Teacher Specialist, Parent Community Relations." This position required an instructional certificate. The duties for this position are enumerated as follows:

1. Plans and conducts training seminars for parents.

2. Assists parents and the community in the interpretation of the school district's Basic Skills Improvement Program in compliance with federal, state and local board of education rules and regulations.

3. Plans activities which encourage parent and community participation in school activities.

6. Works directly with district, area and school-site staff, PAC's, PTA's PTO's, Citizen's Advisory Committees and parent groups in initiating, interpreting and implementing parental education programs.

A comparison of the duties required of a "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" and a "Teacher Specialist, Parent Community Relations" reveals that they are similar enough to belong to the same category of employment. Both require the implementation of government funded programs; the development of programs; interaction with parents and other community groups; and the coordination and conducting of meetings.

The fifth position claimed by petitioner Dare is "Peer Leadership Teacher." This position requires a valid instructional certificate, five years secondary level teaching experience, and successful completion of peer leadership training. The duties of this position are enumerated as follows:

1. Develops peer group calendar, provides materials for daily leadership training, weekly peer group activities and peer group events.

2. Participates in peer leadership events.

3. Organizes and schedules peer group events for parent groups, tutoring, peer leaders and advisors, i.e., reservations, transportation, food, publicity.

4. Coordinates peer leaders' participation in all community events, i.e., Youth Speaks weekly radio broadcast; Board of Education meetings; youth council meetings.

5. Facilitates and conduct advisor planning meetings.

6. Assists with implementation of after-school tutoring.

7. Assists with crisis intervention among peer group members and peer leaders.

8. Confers with students about grades, personal growth and development.

13. Disseminates information, assists with planning and is actively involved in peer parents' groups.

14. Assists in making program changes based on evaluations.

15. Makes budget request, monitors and disseminates funds.

A comparison of the duties required of a "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" and a "Peer Leadership Teacher" reveals that they are similar enough to belong to the same category of employment. Both require the development of programs; the preparation of reports, applications, and budgets; interaction with parents and other community groups; and the coordination and conducting of meetings.

The sixth position to which petitioner Dare claims entitlement is "Teacher Specialist-Program for Adolescent Mothers." This position was never submitted to the county superintendent for approval, and no certification for the position was ever established. It is therefore impossible to determine whether petitioner Dare has any seniority entitlement to this position. Maintenance of this position by respondent is an ultra vires act as they have failed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b). Respondent is therefore directed to comply with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b) and submit the position to the county superintendent for a determination of the proper certification required. Because there remains a genuine issue of material fact as to the proper certification of this position, petitioners Dare, Avery and Williams' motion for summary decision with respect to this position must be DENIED.

The last position claimed by petitioner Dare is "Personnel Specialist-Compensation." The only qualifications listed in the job description for this position was a Bachelor's Degree and three years of appropriate personnel office experience. This position was occupied by Robert Nast in July of 1993 when petitioner's position was abolished. Nast later retired at the close of the 1994 school year, and the position was never filled and later abolished. Before serving in this position, Nast served as "Personnel Specialist-Unemployment Compensation." That position did require an instructional certificate, before it was abolished in July 1993 and Nast was reassigned to the "Personnel Specialist-Compensation" position. A material issue of fact exists as to whether an instructional certificate was also required for the "Personnel Specialist-Compensation" position. Respondent must seek clarification from the county superintendent as to what certification is required for the position in order to comply with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b). Because there remains a genuine issue of material fact as to the proper certification of this position, petitioners Dare, Avery and Williams' motion for summary decision with respect to this position must be denied.

Because petitioner Dare's employment is in the same category as positions one through five, the seniority he has accrued in his "Community Relations Specialist and Trenton Follow Through Resource Manager" position is creditable as against those five positions. Dare began in the "Community Relations Specialist" position in July of 1978, and the position was abolished in July of 1993. Dare therefore has 15 years of service credited to his "specialist" position. Dare also claims that he has been employed in "specialist" positions since 1970, giving him twenty-three years of creditable service. Dare has not, however, specified which positions he held in the eight years before 1978, and has not submitted job descriptions for these supposed "specialist" positions. There is therefore no way to determine whether these positions were substantively similar enough to belong to the same category as the "Community Relations Specialist" position. Because issues of fact must be resolved in favor of the non-moving party when deciding summary decision motions, Dare can only be credited with fifteen years of "specialist" service.

Moving to the first position claimed by Dare, "Early Childhood/Transition Program Specialist- Head Start/ Public School Early Childhood Transition Grant," it appears the Dare had an entitlement to the position at the time of the RIF. This position is currently held by Sylvia Brown. Ms. Brown was appointed to this position in August of 1992. She previously held

1. Assists in the implementation of the Desegregation Plan for Educational Excellence.

2. Provides direct assistance to principals in developing desegregation activities.

3. Assists in the planning of desegregation related inservice training for district staff.

4. Responsible for the collection and organization of all necessary statistical information, and maintenance of data files.

5. Develops appropriate instrumentation and forms for monthly monitoring, observes program and activities in schools, and assists in their evaluation.

6. Submits bi-weekly reports to Director of Planning, Research and Evaluation.

7. Coordinates transportation for Magnet activities.

8. Organizes committees of teachers and community to develop new desegregation programs and activities for integration into the plan.

9. Insures compliance with regulations and timelines established by the N.J. Office of Equal Educational Opportunity.

10. Assists in the preparation of monthly list of classified personnel vacancies.

11. Assists in the preparation of monthly agenda items related to classified personnel.

12. Assists in the development of job descriptions for classified positions.

13. Assists in updating seniority lists of classified personnel.

14. Assists in verifying accuracy of classified personnel data.

15. Performs such other tasks and assumes such other responsibilities as assigned by the Director of Planning, Research and Evaluation and the Director of Personnel.

For the reasons discussed above, the only positions to which petitioner Avery could potentially have any entitlement to are positions one through five. A comparison of her two positions and those five reveal that they are substantively similar enough to constitute employment in the same category. All to some degree require the implementation of government programs; development of programs; the preparation of reports, applications, and budgets; interaction with parents and other community groups; and/or the coordination and conducting of meetings.

Petitioner Avery does not have a claim to positions one or three, as the incumbents in those positions had greater creditable service. Petitioner Avery's claims to positions two, four, and five are subject to petitioner Dare's superior claims to those positions. After he has made his election, Avery may be entitled either to instatement into position five, or claim one years worth of pay difference for either position two or four.

C. Janice Williams

Petitioner Williams' claims are identical to those of petitioners Dare and Avery. She worked in a "specialist" position, "Personnel Specialist-Substitution Officer." She began this position in January of 1984, giving her 8½ years of creditable time. That position required a valid instructional certificate, and three years teaching experience. The duties of those positions are enumerated as follows:

1. Plans, organizes and administrates the overall substitute program for all instructional personnel.

2. Conducts research on substitute teacher operations.

3. Endeavors to reduce teacher absentee rate by working with principals and representatives of the T.E.A.

4. Assumes responsibility for all accounting procedures regarding substitutes.

5. Interviews all substitute candidates.

6. Recommends certified substitutes to principals for long term assignments.

7. Creates and maintains active substitute personnel files.

8. Writes special reports as needed.

9. Prepares and updates vacancy listings.

10. Works with accounting department regarding substitute funds, Home Instruction and Special Education substitute funds.

11. Ensures funding for substitutes is charged to proper account.

12. Prepares all items regarding substitutes for Board agenda.

13. Other duties and responsibilities as assigned by Director of Certified Personnel.

For the reasons discussed above, the only positions to which petitioner Williams could potentially have any entitlement to are positions 1 through 5. A comparison of the duties of "Personnel Specialist-Substitution Office" and those five positions, however, reveal that they are not part of the same category. Petitioner Williams' position was much more administrative in nature, requiring no interaction with students or parents, and not implementing plans or programs that have a direct effect on curriculum and school policy. She therefore has no entitlement to any of those positions and her claims should be DISMISSED.

It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 8316-93
AGENCY DKT. NO. 196-6/93

IVEY AVERY, PERCY DARE, AND JANICE WILLIAMS,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' and respondent's exceptions, and petitioners' reply thereto, are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to reverse the initial decision of the ALJ, for the reasons set forth below, in that he is not persuaded that the circumstances herein support the conclusion that petitioners were subjected to a reduction in force (RIF), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

Initially, the Commissioner observes that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or a change in the administrative or > supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article. (emphasis added) N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

The Commissioner is further mindful that the meaning of a statute is first derived by looking at its plain language. Where that language "is clear and unambiguous, it will be given effect 'absent any specific indication of legislative intent to the contrary.'" (emphasis in text) Chase Manhattan Bank v. Josephson, 135 N.J. 209, 225, 227 (1994). As the State Board of Education noted in Gainer, "It is well established that such reduction occurs whenever the number of teaching staff is reduced. Downs v. Board of Education of Hoboken Dist., 13 N.J. Misc. 853 (1935)." (emphasis in text) Gainer, supra, at 223. Although petitioners note that a RIF has been found to have occurred where a staff member's position was reduced from full-time status to part-time status, see Bednar, supra,[1] Klinger, supra,[2] and Popovich v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of Wharton, 1975 S.L.D. 737, 745,[3] such is not the case herein.

In the instant matter, although petitioners' former 12-month positions as "teacher specialists" were abolished in April of 1993, petitioners affirmed that "[a]t the same time, Respondent informed [them] that they would be placed in 10-month positions as Classroom Teachers,[4] effective for 1993-94 school year, and that they would not be employed or

[1] In Bednar, petitioner's full-time position as an elementary art teacher was reduced to a part-time elementary art teaching position. Bednar, supra, at 240.

[2] In Klinger, notwithstanding that the Appellate Division cites to Popovich, infra, for the broad principle that a "[r]eduction in hours of employment is considered a reduction in force," Klinger, supra, at 357, both the petitioners in Klinger and in Popovich were specifically full-time teachers reduced to part-time employment. In Klinger, petitioner was a full-time physical education teacher whose position was reduced to part-time as a result of declining enrollment. Klinger at 356.

[3] In Popovich, petitioner was a full-time vocal music teacher whose position was reduced to three days per week. Popovich at 737.

[4] Notwithstanding the ALJ's statement that the newly-assigned positions "were identical to the abolished positions, except that the new positions were only ten-month positions with the concomitant reduction in salary" (Initial Decision at p. 3), the Commissioner finds noteworthy that petitioners repeatedly assert that the new positions were, in fact, classroom teaching positions, an assignment which they characterized as a "demotion." (Petitioners' Brief in Support of Motion For Summary Disposition at pp. 3, 8) In that the Board does not dispute that the new positions were teaching positions, the Commissioner so finds.

compensated during July or August of 1993." (emphasis added) (Petition of Appeal at p. 3, paragraph 14) Petitioners do not assert, and neither does the record suggest, that they were, at any time, dismissed from employment in the District. Where the board has not reduced the number of staff members employed in the district either by termination of employment or by diminution of full-time positions to part-time positions as in Bednar, Klinger, and Popovich, the Commissioner is not convinced that the seniority regulations, which were established to effectuate a RIF pursuant to N.J.S.A 18A:28-9 et seq., must nevertheless attach, as petitioners so contend.[5] To accept petitioners' argument that the abolishment of their positions, under these circumstances, compels the application of the seniority regulations, would constitute a capitulation to semantics at the expense of sound educational policy. Thus, since the seniority regulations are not implicated in this matter, the Commissioner does not reach to petitioners' allegations that their seniority rights were subsequently violated.

Rather, the Commissioner finds that the Board acted pursuant to its managerial prerogative to transfer teaching staff members. Petitioners, who acquired tenure as teachers, and not as "teacher/specialists," were transferred within the scope of their certificates to alternative teaching assignments, i.e., as classroom teachers. The Commissioner recognizes that "a tenured teacher may be 'transferred' or reassigned within the scope of the endorsements on his or her Instructional Certificate  but may not be transferred involuntarily from one position to another." Howley and Bookholdt v. Ewing Township Board of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1328, 1340, aff'd State Board June 1, 1983. Here, petitioners cannot claim that the classroom teaching

[5] To the extent the language of the regulations governing seniority found at N.J.A.C. 6:3-5.1 et seq. appear to contradict the Commissioner's conclusion herein, it is noted that such regulations must be read to be consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 et seq. Carpenito v. Rumson Borough Board of Education, Monmouth County, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 959, 963, 964.

assignments are different "positions" for the purpose of a tenure analysis. "[T]he Commissioner has consistently maintained that, with unrecognized titles, the scope of a position for purposes of tenure entitlement is that of the endorsement(s) required to hold it." MacMillan, supra, at 22. The teacher/specialist positions formerly held by petitioners merely required that they hold instructional certificates, with no specific endorsements. Not unlike the State Board's observations in Williams, the certification required of the teacher/specialists and of these classroom teachers is the same, tenure as a teacher can be accrued in both titles, and the duties to be performed as classroom teachers "are of no less importance from an educational standpoint." Williams, supra, at 158.

However, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's view that petitioners were subjected to a reduction in salary and their respective tenure rights, therefore, were violated by the transfer. In this regard, the Commissioner determines that the Board must now reinstate petitioners to their respective salaries as of April 1993, and must reimburse them for the salary differential between what they actually received in the 1993-94, 1994-95, 1995-96, and 1996-97 school years, and what they would have received, had they been compensated with the same salaries and emoluments they enjoyed in their roles as "teacher/specialists."[6] In so finding, the Commissioner notes that the Board may elect to freeze petitioners at their respective prior salaries until such wages are in accord with the teachers' salary guide. Richard Siss v. Board of Education of the City of Long Branch, Monmouth County, Commissioner's Decision (unpublished) April 1, 1980, aff'd State Board November 5, 1980, New Jersey Superior Court Appellate Division decision, February 24, 1982, A-1630-80T2.

[6] In that petitioners have "no vested right in any future increases in salary," Williams, supra, at 162, they are not entitled to salary and emoluments beyond that which they had received as of April 1993.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is reversed to the extent set forth herein. The Board is directed to compensate petitioners, consistent with the Commissioner's directive above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: September 15, 1997 Decided: September 22, 1997

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ:

The three petitioners, Vincent Finch, Virginia McAlinden and George Brownlee, are teaching staff members in the State Operated School District of the City of Newark formerly the Board of Education of the City of Newark (Board). They filed verified complaints with the Commissioner of Education in September 1994, appealing actions taken by the Board to withhold their salary increments for the 1994-95 school year.

In October and December 1994 the three matters were transmitted by the Commissioner of Education to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. A prehearing conference was held on March 27, 1995 which fixed hearing dates in early September 1995, provided for discovery and ordered consolidation of the three cases for all future proceedings. A separate Order of Consolidation was also filed on April 21, 1995.

On the first hearing day, December 4, 1995, counsel advised that the underlying grounds for the increment withholdings were not contested, but that the only issue related to the question of whether the procedures followed by the Board in giving notices of its actions to the petitioners were legally sustainable. Counsel agreed that the matter could be determined, as a matter of law, based on stipulations of fact that they would prepare and file. The hearing was then adjourned, pending the submission of the stipulations of fact, within sixty-days.

The stipulations were not filed within the allotted time. In a telephone conference held on April 29, 1996, counsel advised that the stipulations were still being prepared, and would be filed by no later than June 21, 1996, to be followed by briefs within thirty-days thereafter.

The stipulations were not filed as scheduled. A further inquiry by letter on September 6, 1996 was followed by advice from counsel that the stipulations were still not finalized and would be submitted by December 31, 1996; later extended to January 15, 1997.

The stipulations were not filed by the date indicated above, and a letter from counsel was received on February 19, 1997 stating that the proposed stipulations had been exchanged between the parties and revisions were being considered.

Nothing was filed thereafter, and the three files remained dormant for another five or six months, without advice or communication of any kind from counsel.

On August 15, 1997 this judge wrote to both attorneys informing them that the cases dated back to December 1995 and had consistently been delayed thereafter because of assurances about a stipulation of fact that was never submitted. Counsel were reminded that the last correspondence was dated February 19, 1997, and that the matters had been pending for too long. Counsel were informed that unless definitive advice was received within the next ten days (following the August 15, 1997 letter) the three cases would be dismissed.

To date, no response or communication of any kind has been received.

Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioners no longer request relief or are interested in pursuing their appeals. It is therefore ORDERED that these matters be DISMISSED for lack of prosecution and abandonment of the petitions, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.4(a).

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DENYING EMERGENT RELIEF

JACK JACOBS

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN VALLEY REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY

Respondents.

Jack Jacobs, pro se

Phillip E. Stern, Esq., for respondents

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

Petitioner, Jack Jacobs, seeks emergent relief of transportation from respondent, Board of Education of the Northern Valley School District (District), for his son, Daniel, age 17. Daniel is not enrolled in the District. Instead, he receives home schooling. In July 1997, Jacobs enrolled Daniel in the Bergen County Technical School for school year 1997-1998. Daniel now receives home schooling in the morning and attends vocational school in the afternoon.

NEW JERSEY IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER

Jacobs drives his son to and from school which is 12 miles each way. Jacobs asserts that the District must provide transportation for his son. He relies on the acceptance of Daniel as a student by the Bergen County Technical School and a document from the District regarding payment of tuition for Daniel's attendance at the vocational school. Additionally, Jacobs maintains that it is a hardship to drive his son to school everyday because it interferes with his work schedule. Jacobs owns and operates a small business.

The District argues that it is not required to provide transportation to students who are not enrolled in the District. Indeed, such a precedent would result in financial hardship. Further, petitioner has not met the standard for emergent relief.

I have considered carefully the position of the parties. The purpose of emergent relief is to preserve the status quo pending the outcome of a full hearing on the merits. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.6 (a) provides that "where authorized by law and where irreparable harm will result without an expedited decision granting or prohibiting some action or relief connected with a contested case, emergency relief pending a final decision on the whole contested case may be ordered upon the application of a party". In Crowe v DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), the court was guided by "certain fundamental principals" to determine whether emergent relief should be granted.

First, the moving party must show that emergent relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm. Harm is considered irreparable if it cannot be redressed adequately by money damages. Here, if petitioner prevails, he can be reimbursed for transportation costs. Thus, neither petitioner nor his son will suffer irreparable harm if transportation is not immediately provided by the District.

Second, the moving party must make a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability of ultimate success on the merits. Parents who elect to educate their children at home must demonstrate to the local school district that the instruction provided is equivalent to that provided in the public schools. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25. The obligations of local school districts to students receiving home schooling are limited. For example, students who are instructed at home are not carried on local registers and "have no right to attendance at any school function limited to enrolled students or to participate in extra-curricular activities." Memorandum, Re: Commonly Asked Questions Relating to Home Schooling, The Department of Education, March 10, 1982. Moreover, they enjoy no entitlement to any diploma or certificate of completion issued by the local school district. Ibid. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1 sets forth when a local school district is obligated to provide transportation. In some instances, local school districts are required to provide payment in lieu of transportation. Here, it is undisputed that Daniel is not enrolled in the District. Moreover, the District has not developed his curriculum or referred him to the vocational school. Petitioner has not made a preliminary showing of a reasonable probability that he will succeed on the merits.

To determine whether petitioner's request for emergent relief should be granted, I have also balanced the relative hardship of each party. The trip to the vocation school takes approximately 50 minutes each way. Indeed, the time that petitioner takes to drive his son to school may interfere with operating a business. Although petitioner did not quantify any financial hardship, he explained that the nature of his business required his presence. On the other hand, the District will incur additional expenses if it is directed to provide transportation pending the result of a full hearing on the merits.

Based on the above, I CONCLUDE that petitioner has failed to show that irreparable harm will result if emergent relief of transportation is denied.

Therefore, it is ORDERED that petitioner's request for emergent relief of transportation is DENIED.

This order may be reviewed by the Department of Education either upon interlocutory review, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

JACK JACOBS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE NORTHERN VALLEY REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter and the initial order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included an audio cassette tape of the hearing conducted at the OAL, the Commissioner determines to reverse the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge. Initially, the Commissioner observes that the sole relief requested by petitioner is transportation for his son, D.J., a home-schooled student, to the Bergen County Vocational-Technical School, where it is undisputed that D.J. has been admitted.[1] Petitioner acknowledges that his son is not presently enrolled in the Northern Valley Regional School District. However, as required by law, respondent is apparently paying D.J.'s tuition to the vocational school, as petitioner, notwithstanding his initial prayer in the Petition of Appeal, did not request relief in the form of tuition at the hearing.[2]

[1] It is noted that, although petitioner named the Bergen County Superintendent of Schools as respondent in his initial filings, along with the Board of Education of the Northern Valley Regional School District, the Bergen County Superintendent is deemed severed from this matter since petitioner's allegations and requested relief do not in any way involve the County Superintendent.

[2] Although tuition appears to no longer be an issue in this matter, to the extent it was duly raised in the Petition of Appeal and may later be disputed, the Commissioner finds that the Board is obligated, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1, to pay the tuition for D.J. to the county vocational program, as he is a resident of the District.

The Commissioner recognizes that the pupil transportation statute provides, in pertinent part, that > [w]henever in any district there are elementary school pupils who live more than two miles from their public school of attendance or secondary school pupils who live more than 2 1/2 miles from their public school of attendance, the district shall provide transportation to and from school for these pupils. N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1.

The Board does not contest that D.J. is entitled to be admitted to the Bergen County Vocational-Technical School, notwithstanding that he is not enrolled in the Northern Valley Regional School District. N.J.S.A. 18A:54-20.1. Where a student is attending a public vocational school by statutory right, with tuition paid by the local district of residence, the pupil transportation statute does not require that the student be "enrolled" in the responsible local district in order to be entitled to transportation services from that district. Instead, the statute merely requires that the student reside in the district and live remote from the "public school of attendance."[3]

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is reversed. Respondent is hereby directed to provide transportation for D.J. to the Bergen County Vocational-Technical School, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:39-1, and this matter shall be returned to the OAL for such further proceedings as may be necessary to bring it to conclusion.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[3]The circumstance presented herein is to be clearly distinguished from attendance at out-of-district public schools on a voluntary tuition basis pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-3, which, for transportation purposes, is analogous to attendance at a nonpublic school.

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 5, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Jack Jacobs, pro se

For the Respondent-Appellant, Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Cheri L. Maxwell, Esq., of Counsel)

After reviewing the record developed thus far in this matter and the papers submitted in this appeal, the State Board of Education affirms that portion of the Commissioner's determination which awarded petitioner the transportation costs he had requested in his application for emergent relief. We do so, however, under the applicable legal standard for such relief, Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), rather than on the merits of petitioner's claim for transportation. In addition, under the De Gioia standard, we set aside that portion of the Commissioner's decision which would expand emergent relief to include the payment of tuition by the Northern Valley Regional School District. Since petitioner did not seek the payment of tuition during the proceedings in the Office of Administrative Law on his application for emergent relief, he has not demonstrated his entitlement to such relief at this time.

Pursuant to our determination, we direct the Commissioner to transmit this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for initial determination of the merits of petitioner's claims to both transportation and tuition. In view of our decision herein, we need not act on the Board's motion for a stay of the Commissioner's directive that it now pay petitioner's tuition.

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning relatives challenged Board's residency determination that minor nieces, J.H.L. and J.H.L., were not domiciled in the District.

Citing Gunderson, the ALJ found that petitioners met the requirements of the "affidavit student" law. Petitioners did prove that they were the sole caretakers and supporters of the children. ALJ concluded the children were not seeking to be educated in Fort Lee solely for the purpose of receiving a free education; thus, J.H.L. and J.H.L. were entitled to admittance in the District.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3305-96
AGENCY DKT. No. 69-2/96

S.W.H. AND D.S.H. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILDREN J.H.L. AND J.H.L.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF FORTLEE, BERGEN COUNTY,
Respondent.

Keith J. Roberts, Esq, for petitioners

Robert T. Tessaro., Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: September 11, 1997 Decided: September 17, 1997

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On February 26, 1996, petitioners, Sang Woo Han and Dae Sook Han, on behalf of two minor nieces J.H.L. and J.H.L., filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) seeking to have their nieces admitted to the Fort Lee Public School System. Respondent, Fort Lee Board of Education, filed an Answer to the petition on March 8, 1996 wherein it admitted that it had denied the petitioners' request for admission to its public school district because they had failed to meet the legal requirements for admission. Nevertheless, respondents allowed the minor children to attend school pending the disposition of the instant matter. On March 18, 1996, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 14F-1 to 13. A hearing was held on July 9, 1997. The record closed on September 14, 1997 upon submission of briefs by the parties.

ISSUES

Whether the petitioners has established that J.H.L. and J.H.L. are entitled to a free public education in the respondent's school district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

I FIND the following facts to be undisputed and thus they are adopted as the FACTS.

The petitioners, S.W.H. and D.S.H. reside in the Borough of Fort Lee. On or about December 26, 1995, Mrs. Boo-Rim Ahn, (Ahn) the sister of the petitioner, D.S.H. sent her two children from Seoul, Korea to live with the petitioners. Mrs. Ahn is a divorcee and is employed as a professional concert violinist with the Korea Broadcasting System Orchestra.

As a professional violinist, Mrs. Ahn is required to travel extensively around the world performing in such places as United States, Osaka, Japan, Vienna, Sydney and Australia. In addition, she is required to attend rehearsals. The constant travel requirements and time commitments has caused an inability for Mrs. Ahn to care for her children. Thus, she has relinquished all legal and parental responsibility to the petitioners. (P-2). Mr. Sung Hee Lee is the childrens' natural father and he also resides in Seoul, Korea also. According to Mrs. Ahns, he has "no personal or significant contact with Mr. Lee."

Petitioner, Mr. Han testified that he is the sole supporter of the two children. It is illegal to send money out of Korea and thus he receives no financial aid from his sister in law. He is currently self-employed at Gate Tour & Travel. The petitioners also have two children of their own, one of whom is a full-time out of state college student and the remaining child is at home. The four children are declared as dependents on the petitioners tax return. In 1996, the petitioners filed a joint tax return reporting income of $27,000. However, Mr. Han noted that he was laid off for six months in 1996 and thus his income was down from the $50,000 of income he had reported in 1995. While his income for 1996 was reduced, Mr. Han testified that it was not a financial hardship because the family lives a very modest life style.

DISCUSSION, FINDINGS AND CONCLUSION

Respondent contends that the petitioners have failed to meet the required burden of proof. First "it strains credibility that the petitioner's are the sole supporters of the children given their income.

Second, the fact that the children intend to remain with the petitioners only until they go to college, defeats the supposition that this is a long term transfer of guardianship. Rather, it supports that the present living arrangement is solely to obtain a free public education in a renowned public school district.

Third, the respondent asserts that petitioners have failed to show that there is a family or economic hardship. Petitioners have failed to demonstrate that the Mrs. Ahn's business travels renders her incapable of providing for her children. J.B. v. Ocean Twp. Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R.2d 628 (1996).

Petitioners contend that they have satisfied by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the children are not solely in the District to receive a free education. Further, they have demonstrated a legitimate family hardship within the intendment of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). The law does not preclude the natural mother from granting guardianship of her minor children to her immediate family with the benefit of a free public education. The family hardship of divorce and Mrs. Ahn's inability to care for her children with the restraints of her profession satisfies the statute. Hardship may take many forms. Further, the application of the hardship element of the statute must not overshadow the general intent of the statute which permits entry of a student to the district who demonstrates good faith, bona fide gratis guardianship of non-parents, and actual permanent domicile in the district.

Further, the Board's reliance on J.B. v. Ocean Twp. Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R.2d 628 (1996), is misguided. The Commissioner's analysis of the statute in the Ocean decision does not, in any way, support a finding that the minors in the instant case are not entitled to a free public education. The hardship analysis in the Ocean decision, as decided on remand, clearly states that "the absence of evidence on the record to rebut petitioner's account of the genesis of the current living arrangement precludes the Commissioner from finding that such arrangement is merely a facade to allow R.H. to attend Ocean Twp. . . . the essential evil which the pertinent statute attempts to defeat. J.B. v. Ocean Twp. Bd. of Ed., supra.

This matter is governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 which provides:

> Public Schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under twenty years of age.
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district;
> b. (1) Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his > tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. . . .

There are four requirements imposed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b). First, the petitioners must establish domicile within respondent's school district. Second, the petitioners must demonstrate that they are supporting their nieces gratis. Third, it must be shown that the children's family is not capable of supporting or providing care for them due to family or economic hardship. Fourth, it must be shown that the children are not residing with the petitioners solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education in respondent's school district. The burden of proof is on the petitioners to demonstrate each and every element. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b).

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) provides that the child cannot reside with the resident of a school district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education within the district. Thus, by the plain meaning of the statute, if other motives besides a desire to receive a free public education within that particular school district can be found to explain why the child has taken up residence with the person domiciled in the school district, this requirement of the "affidavit student" law has been satisfied.

In this case, the children have relatives domiciled in the United States who are willing to support them gratis, and this fact, more than a specific desire to go to school in Fort Lee, that has dictated their choice of residence. Indeed, the fact that residency was established in Fort Lee is purely happenstance. If their relatives had resided in Teneck, for example, they would have enrolled in that school district. Thus, I FIND J.H.L. and J.H.L. are not seeking to be educated in Fort Lee solely for the purpose of receiving a free education within a "renowned school district."

By operation of the affidavit student law, it must also be shown that J.H.L. have been sent to live with the petitioners due to "family or economic hardship". This requirement, however, has not been strictly construed by the Commissioner. In Gunderson v. City of Brigantine Bd. of Ed., 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 39, the Commissioner ruled that:

> In interpreting a statute, the Commissioner must look to the fundamental purpose for which the legislation was enacted, and where a literal reading will not accord with that purpose, the spirit of the law will control over its letter. N.J. Builders, Owners, & Managers Association v. Blair, 60 N.J. 330, 333 (1972). Moreover, the meaning of a statute is to be gathered from the mischief sought to be eliminated as well as the proposed remedy. Brewer v. Porch, 53 N.J. 167, 174 (1969); San-Lan Builders, Inc. v. Baxendale, 28 N.J. 148, 155 (1958).
>
> The amendments to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 effectuated by P.L. 1993, c. 380 were intended to ease the burden on local boards of education by attempting to remove illegally enrolled students, specifically those living with a parent or guardian who claims to be, but is not, domiciled within the district, and those living with a person other than the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free public education in a district other than that of their entitlement by parental domicile. (See Sponsor's Statement, Senate Education Committee Statement ad Governor's Conditional Veto Message to Senate Bill No. 1447 of 1993, enacted as c. 380).
> The intent of the "affidavit student" law is not now, and never has been, to deny an education to a child whose living arrangements may not be as contemplated by the statutory scheme when it is clear that the child has no home, or possibility of school attendance, other than with the nonparent district resident and that such resident is for all intents and purposes the sole caretaker and supporter of the child. Neither is its parental affidavit provision meant to act as a bar to a child who, do(sic) to particular circumstances, cannot produce such an affidavit but provides evidence that the underlying requirements of the law are being met. To hold otherwise harms a party the Legislature never meant to penalize, unreasonably places form over substance and overlooks the substantial State interest in ensuring the > education of all its children. Sabella v. Lacey Tp., 204 N.J. Super 55, 60 (App. Div. 1985); Restaurant Enterprises, Inc. v. Sussex Mutual Ins. Co., 52 N.J. 73, 77 (1968). [Id, at 42 (emphasis added)]

I FIND that the petitioners have met the requirements of the "affidavit student" law as articulated by the Commissioner in Gunderson, supra. The children have no possibility of school attendance, in any district in the State other than with the non-parent district resident. Thus, the petitioners are for all intents and purposes the sole caretaker and supporter of the children. Ibid. It is undisputed that the petitioners has taken full charge of the children's welfare. The children herein would have no entitlement to an education anywhere in the U.S. The spirit of the law in this case should control over the letter, for to hold otherwise would work a substantial injustice by harming a party the legislature never meant to penalize, and would subvert the state's interest in providing an education for its children.

In J.B. v. Ocean Twp Bd. Of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R.2d 628 (1996) the Commissioner's decision on remand makes clear that a family hardship can exist notwithstanding that the natural parents are financially capable of taking care of their child. However, a family hardship will exist where the facts demonstrate that the parents are incapable of meeting the child's emotional, social and developmental needs. In the instant matter, respondent have not rebutted that Mrs. Ahn's professional commitments render her incapable of caring for the children. Nor did the respondent refute that the father has no contact with his children. Likewise, there is insufficient evidence to refute that the petitioners are the sole caretakers. While one may speculate that $27,000 is insufficient to provide for a family of four, such speculation does rise to competent evidence. I am, in any event, persuaded by Mr. Han's testimony that the family lives modestly and the level of his earnings does not present a financial hardship for the family.

For the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that J.H.L. and J.H.L. are entitled to admittance in the respondent's school district.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF FORT LEE, BERGEN COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions were filed on an untimely basis and, therefore, such exceptions are not considered herein.[1]

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) as clarified herein. Initially, the Commissioner agrees that, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, minors J.H.L. and J.H.L. are entitled to a free public education in respondent's District. In this regard, the Commissioner is cognizant of the State Board's recent guidance concerning a petitioner's burden to demonstrate family or economic hardship in order to fulfill the requirements of the affidavit student statute. The State Board has specifically provided that

[1] Respondent's exceptions, due on October 14, 1997, were received in the Office of the Commissioner and by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on October 15, 1997. In that there was no indication by respondent that they were faxed or proof that they were otherwise filed on October 14, 1997, they may not be considered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a).

> incapability on the part of [the minor children's] parents to support [them] or provide care as the result of that hardship." (J.B., on behalf of her grandchild, R.H. v. Board of Education of the Twp. of Ocean, Monmouth County, decided by the State Board of Education September 3, 1997, slip opinion at p. 6)

Here, petitioners have established before the ALJ that the minors' parent is presently incapable of supporting or providing care for her children, due to family hardship, in that she is a professional concert violinist who is required to constantly travel around the world and is, therefore, unable to meet the childrens' emotional, social and developmental needs or provide a stable home environment. The Commissioner has no cause to question the ALJ's assessment of petitioners' credibility as such assessment is not belied by the record.

Accordingly, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the OAL for the reasons expressed therein. [2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[2] To the extent that the ALJ's comments at page 5 might be subject to misconstrual, the Commissioner clarifies that a finding of intent to attend school in a district other than that of domicile, so as to preclude eligibility for attendance at school under N.J.S.A. 38-1b, does not require that the family have chosen the particular district at issue, as opposed to some other district within the country or state, as the intended district of attendance. See P.B.K., on behalf of minor child, E.Y. v. Board of Education of the Borough of Tenafly, Bergen County, decided by the Commissioner October 14, 1997.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured teacher at Ancora Psychiatric Hospital, asserted respondent N.J. Department of Human Services improperly issued a written reprimand to him. Petitioner sought expungement.

ALJ found that respondent failed to follow the proper procedures for imposing disciplinary action which would result in a reduction in salary. Following intradepartmental hearing and the recommendation of the hearing officer, respondent recognized its error and imposed a written reprimand instead of suspension. If respondent had wished to suspend petitioner without pay, it would have had to follow the procedures set forth at N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.8(b) through (h) and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4. No such suspension was ever imposed. Thus, ALJ determined that to contest the validity of his reprimand, petitioner should have sought relief in the appropriate forum not before the Commissioner of Education. Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

DONALD GARLANGER,

Petitioner,

v.

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL,

Respondent.

Geoffrey B. Gompers, Esq., for petitioner

Jennifer Meyer-Mahoney, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: August 19, 1997 Decided: October 2, 1997

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on February 14, 1997, when Donald Garlanger (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking an order, inter alia, expunging from his personnel records a written reprimand issued to him by the State Department of Human Services, Ancora Psychiatric Hospital (hereinafter respondent). On March 14, 1997, an answer on behalf of respondent and a notice of motion to dismiss the petition along with supporting papers were filed. Petitioner filed a response to the motion on March 31, 1997, wherein he requested oral argument. Oral argument on the motion was considered by telephone conference call on June 25, 1997, at which time the undersigned requested additional documentation from respondent's attorney. The affidavit and time records which had been requested were supplied by respondent's counsel under cover letter dated July 10, 1997. Petitioner filed a letter reply dated July 30, 1997, and forwarded a copy of Ancora's notice of official reprimand which remains in petitioner's personnel file. This latter document was received on August 19, 1997, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a disposition of this motion are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner is a tenured Teacher I employed by the Department of Human Services and assigned to Ancora Psychiatric Hospital. On or about May 8, 1996, respondent issued to petitioner a "Notice of Suspension from Duty Without Pay" setting forth the following charges and specifications:

CHARGES:

1. A-11.1 - Leaving assigned work area without permission but not creating a danger to persons or property.

2. C-25.1 - Threatening and intimidating a fellow employee on State property.

SPECIFICATIONS:

1. On 3/28/96 between 9:15 a.m. and 9:30 you were in the Vocational Rehab wing and Maple Center during your scheduled program time without permission from your supervisor. On 4/16/96 you left the Maple School area from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m. without permission from your supervisor.

2. On 3/28/96 you followed Ms. Davis from the Vocational wing to the center of Maple yelling at and about her. On 3/29/96 you pointed your finger within 6 inches of Ms. Cohan's chest stating loudly that she was "in trouble" and "violating federal law."

An intra-departmental hearing was conducted on June 26, 1996, July 11, 1996 and September 26, 1996, following which the hearing officer concluded that management had met the burden of proof by a preponderance of the credible evidence and recommended that petitioner receive a 5-day suspension. By letter dated November 20, 1996, respondent wrote to petitioner as follows:

> Please be advised that your disciplinary action dated May 8, 1996 for a five (5) day suspension has been reconsidered and a penalty of an Official Reprimand is being imposed. The disciplinary action appeal hearing that was held on June 26, 1996, July 11, 1996 and September 26, 1996 will constitute your institutional appeal hearing.
> If you wish to appeal the penalty of this Official Reprimand further, you may do so by checking C. on Part III of the enclosed form.

Respondent acknowledges that it failed to follow the procedures set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4, which are required before a tenured teaching staff member may be reduced in compensation or removed. By way of explanation for its failure to follow tenure procedures, respondent states that Ancora Psychiatric Hospital employs very few teachers and consequently is not familiar with tenure hearings and did not realize that petitioner should be treated differently than the other members of the professional unit represented by CWA. No portion of the proposed 5-day suspension was ever served and petitioner did not suffer any reduction in compensation as a result of the disciplinary proceedings against him. The May 8, 1996 Notice of Suspension from Duty Without Pay has been removed from petitioner's personnel file and replaced with a Notice of Official Reprimand, dated November 20, 1996.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

As a tenured teacher petitioner is entitled to the protections of the Teacher Tenure Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 to 60-3. N.J.S.A. 18A:60-2, relevant to dismissal and reduction in salary for tenured personnel at State institutions provides:

> No such professor, associate professor, assistant professor, instructor, supervisor, registrar, teacher, or other person employed in a teaching capacity, so under tenure, shall be dismissed or subjected to a reduction in salary except for inefficiency, incapacity, conduct unbecoming a teacher, or other just cause, and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title. (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to 6-29)

Regulations adopted by the Department of Human Services implementing the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:60-1 and 18A:60-1.1, are also relevant to a determination in this matter and provide in pertinent part:

> N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.8 Disciplinary action-tenured staff
> (a) In a case where disciplinary action is recommended or implemented, which does not result in dismissal or reduction in salary, as a result of charges made against a tenured employee of the Department of Human Services, the appointing authority (in conjunction with the Supervisor of Education, for all instructional staff) shall act in accordance with Department of Human Services Administrative Order 4:08, a copy of which may be obtained from the employing facility.

> (b) In a case where disciplinary action will result in dismissal or reduction in salary, the charges shall be filed with the Director of Employee Relations. The charges shall be accompanied by a supporting statement of evidence, both of which shall be executed under oath by the person or persons instituting such charges.
> . . .

Unquestionably, in the within matter respondent failed to follow the proper procedures for imposing disciplinary action which would result in a reduction in salary. Following the intra-departmental hearing and the recommendation of the hearing officer, respondent obviously recognized its error and imposed instead a written reprimand. If respondent had wished to suspend petitioner without pay, it would have had to follow the procedures set forth at N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.8(b) through (h) and N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.4. No such suspension was ever imposed in the within matter, however. Respondent disciplined petitioner by imposing an official reprimand for leaving his assigned work area without permission and for threatening and intimidating a fellow employee. The jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education extends to controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The only school laws cited by petitioner are those protecting his tenure rights. No statute or regulation is cited which entitles a tenured teacher at a State institution to a hearing before the Commissioner to review the appropriateness of a reprimand unaccompanied by any salary reduction or loss of position, and I am not aware of any such legal authority which would entitle petitioner to a plenary hearing herein. Respondent utilized the disciplinary procedures established pursuant to N.J.A.C. 10:11-1.8 for imposing progressive discipline upon employees of the Department of Human Services (Administrative Order 4:08). If petitioner wished to contest the validity of his reprimand, he should have sought relief in the appropriate forum for such an appeal, not before the Commissioner of Education.*

* The petition also alleges retaliation for union activities, but the Commissioner of Education is not the appropriate forum for resolving that labor relations issue, either.

For all of the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that the Petition of Appeal is hereby DISMISSED and the within proceedings are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DONALD GARLANGER,	:
PETITIONER,	:

NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF HUMAN SERVICES, ANCORA PSYCHIATRIC HOSPITAL,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) view that the within matter is properly dismissed. When respondent determined that it failed to follow proper procedures for imposing disciplinary action upon a tenured staff member which would result in a reduction in salary, respondent reconsidered its penalty and, instead, imposed a penalty of reprimand. Having done so, its action no longer implicated N.J.S.A. 18A:60-2. Any matters remaining are, as noted by the ALJ, outside the jurisdiction of the Commissioner.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. The Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Record Closed: September 30, 1997 Decided: September 30, 1997

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENTS OF THE CASES

John Scott, a tenured teacher in the Ocean County Vocational-Technical School, operated by the Board of Education of the Ocean County Vocational School (BOE) was the subject of tenure charges and, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, -14, Mr. Scott demanded an order requiring the BOE to provide pay, etc. Thereafter, the BOE eliminated Mr. Scott's position and he claimed that the BOE acted in bad faith. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, -11. The cases have been settled as evidenced by the attached stipulation of settlement.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

EDU 4546-96

On April 26, 1996, Mr. Scott's verified petition demanding an order directing the BOE to pay his salary, etc., was filed with the Department of Education and, on May 13, 1996, the BOE's answer to the verified petition was filed. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The Department transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on May 28, 1996, it was filed as a contested case, bearing OAL docket number EDU 4546-96. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). On June 11, 1996, Mr. Scott's papers in support of his motion for summary judgment were filed in the OAL and, on July 8, 1996, the BOE's responding papers were so filed.

EDU 6243-96

On May 1, 1996, the BOE's tenure charges against Mr. Scott were filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11. On June 21, 1996, Mr. Scott's answer to the tenure charges was so filed. The Department transmitted the matter to the OAL where, on July 8, 1996, it was filed as a contested case, bearing OAL docket number EDU 6243-96.

The cases were consolidated and, in my September 25, 1996 "Order Granting Motion for Partial Summary Decision," I ordered BOE to pay to Mr. Scott's full pay or salary, etc., for the period from April 8 to May 1, 1996. N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.3.

Mr. Scott's papers in support of the motion for an order requiring the BOE to pay Mr. Scott's full salary pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14 were filed on October 16, 1996 and, in my October 31, 1996 "Order Granting Motion for Partial Summary Decision," I ordered BOE to pay to Mr. Scott's full pay or salary, etc., "less any sums received by [Mr. Scott] by way of pay or salary from any substituted employment assumed during such period of suspension," conditioned upon Mr. Scott's submission to the BOE of information relative to his income.

On January 31, 1997, Mr. Scott's petition challenging the BOE's abolition of his position was filed and, on February 13, 1997, the BOE's answer to the petition was filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. The Department transmitted the matter to the OAL where, on February 25, 1997, it was filed as a contested case, bearing OAL docket number EDU 957-97.

The cases were consolidated and scheduled for a hearing in May 1997 and, on April 14, 1997, the BOE filed a motion for summary decision, dismissing EDU 957-97. Mr. Scott filed a letter brief in opposition to the motion. Before a decision on the motion or the hearing occurred, the attorneys prepared a settlement agreement, conditioned upon approval by the BOE. The BOE did not approve of the settlement agreement and I notified the attorneys of the following: The BOE's exhibits in support of its motion include the Superintendent's affidavit and the BOE's resolution explaining and citing reasons of economy as the basis of the elimination of Mr. Scott's position. Mr. Scott's letter brief suggested that the reasons of economy were a pretext for releasing Mr. Scott. However, Mr. Scott no submitted competent evidence of bad faith sufficient to create a genuine issue of material fact. Consequently, in a letter/order, dated September 4, 1997, granted the BOE's motion to dismiss EDU 957-97. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5; Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, (App. Div. 1995), certif. den. 145 N.J. 372 (1996); Guarini v. Ocean County Vocational-Technical School District, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 331).

On September 18, 1997, the cases were scheduled for hearing. At that time, on a taped record made in the OAL, the parties entered into the settlement agreement whereby they agreed to withdraw and settlement of the claims, etc., set forth in these cases. On September 30, 1997, the attached, written, executed stipulation of settlement agreement and a joint certification of counsel were filed.

FINDINGS OF FACT & CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

I have reviewed the settlement agreement and I FIND and CONCLUDE:

1. The parties have voluntarily entered into the settlement agreement.

2. The settlement disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

3. The settlement agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and should be approved.

ORDER

I approve the settlement agreement, ORDER that the parties comply with it and ORDER that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

JOHN SCOTT,	:
PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE OCEAN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:
RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
AND	:	DECISION
IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN SCOTT, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE OCEAN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL, OCEAN COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision incorporating a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review of the full record of this matter and the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured since he cannot be satisfied by the present record that the proposed settlement meets the Cardonick standards for settlement of tenure matters. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

It is well established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them.

In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth S. Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, affirmed with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, affirmed N.J. Superior Court Appellate Division January 30, 1986. The present record contains no such explanation.

Further, there is no indication that the within teaching staff member was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of certificate.

Therefore, while the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Additionally, the Commissioner is constrained to note that the language of the settlement on its face does not appear to contemplate that the settlement document will become a matter of public record as contested matters before the Commissioner generally are pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, when transmitted to the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-1. et seq.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the settlement terms or other appropriate explication and clarification. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified or more fully explicated agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a determination on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN SCOTT, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE OCEAN COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL, OCEAN COUNTY.	:

For the Petitioner/Respondent-Respondent, Wills, O'Neill & Mellk (Arnold C. Mellk, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent/Petitioner-Appellant, Shea & Novy (Robert C. Shea, Esq., of Counsel)

The Board of Education of the Ocean County Vocational-Technical School District (hereinafter "Board") certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against John Scott (hereinafter "appellant"). a tenured teaching staff member. On November 13, 1997, the Commissioner of Education rejected a proposed settlement agreement entered into between appellant and the Board. The Commissioner stressed that while he did not preclude the possibility of a settlement in this case, he found it necessary to ensure that the terms of the settlement were in accord with the principles expressed in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, decided by the State Board of Education, April 6, 1983. He therefore remanded this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for "revision of the settlement terms or other appropriate explication and clarification." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 8.

On February 6, 1998, appellant filed a notice of appeal from the Commissioner's decision with the State Board of Education. On April 27, 1998, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office advised appellant that the briefing schedule was being placed in abeyance pending the State Board's consideration of his request to file his notice out of time.

We find that the determination from which appellant is seeking to appeal is interlocutory in nature. Consequently, we have treated his notice as a request for leave to appeal an interlocutory decision. N.J.A.C. 6:2-2.3. After reviewing the papers submitted, we deny appellant's request pursuant to our discretion under N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10. "[I]nterlocutory review may be granted only in the interest of justice or for good cause shown." In re Certain Sections of the Uniform Admin. Procedure Rules, 90 N.J. 85 (1982). We find that appellant has not demonstrated good cause requiring our review of the Commissioner's determination at this time. We add, moreover, that appellant's request was filed nearly three months after the Commissioner rendered his decision. N.J.A.C. 6:2-2.3 requires a motion for leave to appeal an interlocutory decision to be filed within five days after that decision.[1] Hence, appellant's request was also untimely, and we find no basis in this instance for relaxing the filing requirement. We note, in addition, that interlocutory rulings may be subject to review by the State Board upon appeal from a final decision of the Commissioner on the merits of the case. N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents of J.B. alleged Board's denial of their son's entry into the National Honor Society (NHS) as a senior high school student was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable.

ALJ dismissed petition as moot by virtue of J.B.'s graduation from high school in 1993. Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the initial decision. State Board remanded matter to the Commissioner, finding that dismissing the petition as moot effectively denied administrative review to students rejected for NHS membership during their senior year.

On remand, Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that the decision to reject J.B.'s senior year application for admission to membership in the Jefferson High School chapter of the NHS was not arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory, an abuse of discretion or in violation of any legal rule, regulation or standard and, therefore, such decision had to be upheld. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter is before me on remand from the November 2, 1994 decision of the State Board of Education which reversed the Commissioner's adoption in March 1994 of my January 1994 determination to dismiss the petition on the basis that since J.B.

had graduated high school the petition was "moot". See, J.B. and N.B., etc. v Bd. of Educ. of Tp. of Jefferson, State Bd. of Ed., Docket No. 17-94, dec'd. Nov. 2, 1994. The underlying case involves a petition filed by petitioners in June 1993 challenging the respondent Board's refusal during his senior year at Jefferson High School (1992-93) to invite him to membership in the local chapter of the National Honor Society (hereinafter "NHS"). As noted, J.B. graduated from Jefferson High School in June 1993 and in January 1994 I decided his graduation made the issue "moot". The State Board, on appeal, reversed and held that since the petition had been filed while J.B. was still a senior in high school, the dismissal effectively denied administrative review to him and to other students rejected for NHS selection in their senior year..

Accordingly, the State Board remanded the case and several days of hearings were conducted during September, October and November 1995, and in June and November 1996. Although the record closed in February 1997 following my receipt of post-hearing submissions, this Initial Decision has been the subject of four orders extending the time of decision date to October 9, 1997.

Before I make my Findings of Fact it is appropriate, I believe, to first briefly review previous litigation between the same parties which involve the Board's denial of NHS membership to J.B. in his junior year in 1991-92. In particular, J.B. applied to be invited to NHS membership during the Fall of 1991 and was rejected. J.B. challenged the Board's action and after a hearing before Administrative Law Judge Marylouise Lucchi-McCloud in late 1992 she dismissed the petition. Her April 1993 decision subsequently was affirmed both by the Commissioner and by the State Board of Education, as well as by the Appellate Division. See, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 119, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (ED) 159. Thereafter, certification was denied by the New Jersey Supreme Court. J.B. v. Bd. of Educ. of Jefferson Tp., 142 N.J. 452 (1995). The instant petition challenging the senior year rejection had been filed in June 1993 while the rejection of the junior year application was pending appeal to the State Board from Judge Lucchi-McCloud's Initial Decision and the Commissioner's affirmance of it..

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following are my Findings of Fact based upon the testimony and documentary evidence:

1. The petitioners in this case, J.B. and N.B., are the parents and at the time the petition was filed in June 1993, were designated guardians ad litem for their then minor son, J.B., also a petitioner.

2. J.B. entered Jefferson Township High School in September 1989 as a freshman and graduated in June 1993.

3. Following his graduation, J.B. attended the University of Pennsylvania, beginning in September 1993. (Presumably, he received an undergraduate degree from that institution in June 1997).

4. Upon entering his junior year at Jefferson High School in September 1991 J.B. qualified academically for invitation to apply for membership to the local NHS chapter since he had a minimum grade point average (GPA) (3.5).

5. After submitting his application in his junior year J.B.'s name was included on a list of NHS academically eligible students distributed to all teaching faculty, who then were asked to rate those students whom they knew on a scale of 0 to 4 in the categories of character, leadership and service (Exhibit P-19).

6. The faculty advisor to the NHS during both J.B.'s junior and senior years at Jefferson High School was Ms. Myrna Speert whose responsibility included averaging the ratings received from faculty members, and then adding add each student's GPA to produce a total numerical score. In his junior year, based upon that rating process, J.B. ranked 35th out of 50 students found to be eligible.

7. The NHS Handbook provides that decision as to admission to membership is the responsibility of the individual chapter and the selection procedure should be published. To that end, the procedure used at Jefferson High School was, in fact, published in the student handbook (Exhibit P-3).

8. The student handbook also provides that candidates for admission to membership in the NHS must submit a resume or biographical statement setting forth their curricular and their extra-curricular activities. With respect to his junior year application in 1991, J.B. submitted a handwritten summary of those activities (Exhibit P-2) which was copied and disseminated to each of the five members of the faculty selection committee. That "resume" was accompanied by the ratings tabulated by Ms. Speert, as well as the student's name, grade, class rank and GPA.

9. In J.B.'s junior year the five faculty members on the selection committee were Ms. Weir, Mr. Crespo, Mr. Wynne, Ms. VanDunk and Mr. Evans.

10. That group discussed each student individually and voted as to whether or not to offer membership to him or her. In order to be accepted into the NHS a student must receive a positive vote from at least three of the five members of the committee. With respect to his junior year application J.B. received five negative votes and no positive votes. Thus, he was not offered membership. Out of 50 qualified students, 23 were accepted and 27, including J.B., were rejected.

11. J.B.'s rejection in his junior year was challenged by him and an appeal followed through the local appeals process.

12. After J.B.'s rejection at the local level was upheld, he filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner and the matter was transmitted to the Office Administrative Law. Plenary hearings were conducted by Administrative Law Judge Marylouise Lucchi-McCloud, beginning in September 1992 (Exhibits P-25a, 25b, 25c). In April 1993 she dismissed J.B.'s appeal.

13. The initial decision by Judge Lucchi-McCloud subsequently was affirmed through both the administrative and judicial process. Thus, it was determined that the Board's decision to reject J.B.'s application for junior year admission to the NHS was neither arbitrary, discriminatory nor capricious and was consonant with established law. In its affirmance of the administrative determinations below, the Appellate Division observed that: "An applicant for membership in the Society must have not only a sufficient grade point average (which J.B. indisputably possessed) but also demonstrate such intangible qualities as character, leadership and service. . . . In its handbook, the Society states that 'membership should never be considered on the basis of grades alone' and that leadership is 'highly important for membership selection.'" J.B. v. Jefferson Tp. Bd. of Ed., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 159.

14. In reaching its decision to affirm the determinations below, the Appellate Division also commented upon some of the credentials listed by J.B. in his junior year application, including his participation in varsity soccer and wrestling for three years, various honor courses he had taken, his membership in certain extra-curricular programs and his claim to three years of actual participation as a member of the Student Council. The Court noted that although J.B. had been elected (or selected) to the Student Council during his first two years at Jefferson High School only, and not his third year; nevertheless, he listed three years of participation because, " . . . he felt he was an active member since he knew the leaders of the Student Council and discussed projects with them." J.B. v. Jefferson Twp. Board of Ed., supra.

15. In his senior year, during the pendency of his appeal from the Commissioner's affirmance of Judge Lucchi-McCloud's decision, J.B. again applied for admission to NHS membership. The same procedure for faculty balloting described above was utilized including, in particular, the faculty ranking described by Ms. Speert. This time J.B.'s overall rank, based upon his GPA and faculty rating, dropped to 67th (out of 97 applicants) (Exhibit R-2).[1]

16. The resume submitted by J.B. in his senior year (Exhibit P-1) was almost identical to the resume he had submitted a year earlier (Exhibit P-2). He later explained to the high school principal, Mr. Ross, that he did so since, as far as he was concerned, his junior year application should have been sufficient for admission into the NHS.

17. Two of the five faculty members who were on the selection committee in 1991-92 also were on the committee in 1992-93 which reviewed J.B.'s senior year application - Messrs. Crespo and Evans. Three new members also participated in J.B.'s senior year, Ms. Black, Mr. Tummillo and Mr. Yahnko.

18. The new selection committee reviewed J.B.'s senior year resume, along with the faculty ranking and other information, and discussed J.B.'s application. All testified at the hearing before me. Crespo voted "no" on J.B.'s senior year application for the following major reasons: (a) he had a "real problem" with J.B.'s continued listing of three years participation on Student Council since J.B., in his view, should have known better than to claim such continued activity; (b) some of the other activities listed by J.B. were of little significance; and (c) there was nearly a total lack of reference to any fourth year activities even though J.B. was involved in them.

19. The other faculty member who reviewed J.B.'s application both in his junior and senior years was Evans, a guidance counselor. He abstained on J.B.'s senior year application because J.B.'s resume basically was the same one submitted for the junior year. According to Evans, J.B. did not take the opportunity to present himself in his best light and was particularly perturbed that J.B. used essentially the same resume. This resulted in a failure to show a continuation of activities into his senior year. As Evans put it, the resume did not reflect, "the [J.] I expected". Nevertheless, he abstained on the application rather than voting "no".

20. A new member on the selection committee during J.B.'s senior year was Yahnko, a physical education instructor and athletic coach. He recalled that with respect to the applicants generally, the committee discussed their service, leadership and character. In his view, simply being on the list essentially qualified the applicant academically.

21. As far as Yahnko was concerned, there was no fixed definition binding on each member as to what "character", "leadership" and "service" were intended to mean, and each individual committee member could apply his or her own standard within the parameters set forth in the NHS handbook. Yahnko, too, was struck by the fact that J.B.'s senior year application failed to reveal his participation at all in athletics in his senior year, and he wondered why there were no such references. In his view, it was common for senior year applicants to put down activities which they expected to be undertaking during their senior year, particularly in the area of athletics where the season may not have begun.[2] Indeed, Yankho was bothered by the fact that J.B. did not even note that he was the captain of the soccer team - an omission that made Yahnko uncomfortable.

22. Yahnko recalled commenting to other committee members about the absence of any reference by J.B. to his participation or expected participation as a senior in soccer and wrestling. In his view, J.B.'s application was "shoddily done". Indeed, Yahnko felt that J.B.'s submission did not appear to be "a serious application".

[2] In fact, when J.B. applied for NHS admission in the beginning of his junior year in 1991 he did include reference to three years' participation in soccer, wrestling, etc. (Exhibit P-1).

23. Despite his concerns, Yahnko, like Evans, also abstained from voting on J.B.'s senior year application because it was not really "serious". Thus, he could not bring himself to vote "yes".

24. A fourth member of the senior year selection committee was Peter Tummillo, Jr. He did not know J.B. and never had personal contact with him. Tummillo voted "no" because, in his view, the resume failed to show growth or development into the senior year. Also, the rank by the teachers (67 out of 97) was low.

25. Tummillo also recalled that there was some mention that the senior year resume submitted by J.B. was a "near duplication" of the junior year application and although the committee did not have the junior year application before it there was "disappointment" concerning that situation. Essentially, however, Tummillo's negative vote stemmed from the poor resume submitted; in particular, the absence of senior year activities.

26. The fifth member of the selection committee during J.B.'s senior year was Black, a school nurse. One reason she voted "no" was that the resume did not reveal J.B. was captain of the soccer team even though she knew that he had been selected for that position. She did not know that he also was captain of the wresting team.

27. As far as Black was concerned she looked primarily for service to the school and did not see much of that in J.B.'s submission. In this respect she does not consider participation in sports as "service" to the school since that is basically an activity that is strictly related to what the individual wants for him or herself. In voting in the negative she was prompted in part by J.B.'s failure even to put down what he did in his senior year since she expects to see what students do or intend to do. In this respect, of course, the senior year application by J.B. indicated to her that he was not that interested in NHS membership.

28. Black also testified to an incident involving the wrestling team of which J.B. was a member. On one occasion she essentially "barged in" to the boys' locker room in order to retrieve a scale. Since some of the team members were in a state of undress it was embarrassing for them. Black agreed that, "I made a mistake". She was chastised for the incident and later she apologized to the team, having been directed to do so by senior administration. However, Black insisted that the incident did not play any part in her determination to reject J.B.'s senior year application (Exhibits P-21, 22, 24). [3]

29. Ms. Speert, although not a selection committee member, was the NHS advisor and essentially superintended the process during J.B.'s senior year (Exhibit P-18). She spoke to the committee at the outset of its deliberations and recalled a general reaction of surprise concerning the resume's near duplication to the previous year.

30. Following its review of J.B.'s submission for his senior year, the committee voted. J.B. received three negative votes (Crespo, Tummillo and Black) and no affirmative votes (Evans and Yahnko abstained). Thus, J.B. was not invited to membership in the NHS. Following the rejection of his senior year application J.B. filed a written appeal. As a result of its review the appeals committee voted unanimously not to disturb the selection committee's decision and this appeal followed (Exhibits P-10 to P-15).

31. J.B. also testified at the hearing before me and maintained he believed it was not appropriate to include any activity on his senior application that he had not yet "completed" since, during the appeal of his junior year denial, certain comments were made by committee members which led him to conclude that unless an activity had fully been completed he would not be credited for it. Thus, he did not list the fact that he was, or would be, captain of both the varsity soccer and varsity wrestling teams in his senior year. Nor did he even list fourth year participation on those teams.

32. J.B. also testified that he left out certain other activities because he understood from comments made by Crespo during the junior year selection process that no credit would be given to him for such activities, such as participation in New Jersey Boy's State. On the other hand, J.B. repeated his participation in an oratorical contest because, in his view, it was a "strong" activity, time-consuming and deserving of special recognition because he specifically was asked by the speech teacher to participate both in and out of school.

33. With respect to his again claiming in his senior year application that he had three years of participation on Student Council, J.B. explained that although in his junior year he was neither elected by his peers nor selected by any teacher; nevertheless, he felt comfortable including the three year reference since he was "involved" with members of the Student Council through discussions and sharing of ideas with them. Now, with a more mature understanding, J.B. agreed it likely was "a mistake" to have done this.

34. Essentially, J.B. claimed he did not expect his senior year resume to be compared to his junior year resume, and he could see no reason why that should have been done. He only learned about this comparison when the principal asked him why he did not "update" his application. J.B. agreed he responded to Ross that he felt the junior year application should have been sufficient to qualify him for NHS membership and felt his senior year application was as complete as it needed to be.

35. On cross-examination, J.B. reiterated it was his understanding that he was not supposed to include activities which were not "completed" and that is why he omitted references, for example, to senior year participation in soccer and wrestling, not to mention his captaincy of the varsity teams in both those sports.

36. Testimony also was received from the father of J.B. (also initialed "J.B".) He said he counseled his son not to include any activity in his senior year application that was not "fully completed" in order to avoid any claim that J.B. somehow was involved in resume "inflation". Mr. B., too, recalled that during the junior year appeal process some committee members had criticized J.B.'s inclusion of certain activities which either were not completed or took place outside the school context. That is why his son's participation in New Jersey Boy's State, clearly a leadership activity, was omitted. Also, although his son already had been chosen captain of the varsity soccer team at the beginning of his senior year, he believed J.B. did not list this on the resume because the season was not yet completed.

37. J.B.'s father reiterated what his son had said about the erroneous reference to three years participation on Student Council activities - that it was based upon J.B.'s remaining active with persons who were on the Council.

DISCUSSION

Had I been a member of the faculty selection committee reviewing J.B.'s application during his senior year in 1992-93, possibly I might have voted in the affirmative. Although J.B.'s faculty ranking in 1992 was only 67 out of 97, his academic credentials certainly were exemplary as his Ivy League college acceptance makes plain. His athletic accomplishments were, of course, outstanding. Also, as J.B. candidly conceded, in retrospect it was "a mistake" to claim three years actual participation on Student Council when he knew this was not the case. Nonetheless, my personal view is not relevant at all. What is critical is whether the articulated reasons of the committee members, and the credibility of their testimony, show the absence of any improper taint.

First, it is clear to me that any one of the selection committee members could find that the submission, for all practical purposes, of very nearly the same resume by

J.B. for his senior year as the one he submitted in his junior year was an "in your face" act, incompatible with the type of conduct to be expected of an NHS applicant. Thus, I am convinced, having heard all the testimony, that the committee's decision in J.B.'s senior year not to invite him to membership in the NHS at Jefferson High School even if predicated on that basis alone, was not arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory, an abuse of discretion or in violation of any legal rule, regulation or standard.

Further, although J.B. ultimately did admit at the hearing before me that his three year Student Council reference was a "mistake", arguably it was more than that. This student knowingly represented he served for three years as a Student Council member when he knew this was not true. That conduct, too, standing alone, reasonably would justify a determination by any member of the selection committee (as it did) to reject the application. It was not a misunderstanding, a misinterpretation, a miscommunication or any other such benign act. Again, while I, personally, might have overlooked that immature act in light of the variety of other accomplishments displayed by this student academically, athletically and otherwise, I cannot fault any committee person for voting against J.B.'s membership, in whole or in part, because of that deliberate "puffery".

Although J.B.'s stated motive for submitting nearly the identical resume in his senior year was that his junior year resume should itself have been sufficient to qualify him for membership, I cannot find legal fault with any one of the members of the committee for reaching a contrary conclusion. It was the wrong message to send to the committee and the negative reaction of some members to it was understandable and appropriate. Put another way, I cannot say it was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable for members of the committee to be dismayed by it, whether or not they believed it represented a deliberate "insult". Indeed, although one might give J.B. the benefit of the doubt that he believed sincerely that unless an activity was "completed" it should not be included in the senior year resume, that claim certainly can be seen as a "stretch" insofar as credibility is concerned. It is inexplicable to me why J.B., who already had been selected captain of the soccer team, either did not include that on his initial resume, or later amend the resume, to make that important selection known to the committee members during his senior year evaluation process. The notion that a young man who is or will be the captain of two separate varsity major high school sports athletic teams would omit reference to those accomplishments in an NHS application process borders on the preposterous. At the very least, it was not arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory or an abuse of discretion for selection committee members to be so disappointed with these and other omissions that they would vote to deny J.B.'s application.

There are, of course, many State and Federal administrative and judicial decisions which stand for the proposition that decisions by faculty selection committees concerning membership in various entities such as the NHS may not be set aside unless they are demonstrated to be arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or an abuse of discretion. The mere fact that "subjectivity" may be part of the process does not establish any taint. The cases cited by the Board in its post-hearing submissions make that point. See, e.g., Dangler v. Yorktown Central Schools, 771 F. Supp. 625 (S.D.N.Y. 1991); 77 F. Supp. 1175 (S.D.N.Y. 1991); and Miller v. Goldberg, 43 N.Y.S. 2d 828 (1981). See also, J.B.A. and A.M.A. v. Bernardsville Bd. of Educ., 4 N.J.A.R. 136 (1981).

Petitioners' post-hearing submissions maintain that the Board's decision was improper since the "standards" followed were "unduly vague" and left to each individual member great latitude for determining what was or was not important. To some extent, of course, this latter assertion is true. However, the process followed in connection with J.B.'s senior year application was the same in every substantial respect as the junior year application process and, like that year, did not deviate in any respect from the evaluation process for all the other candidates. That junior year process was reviewed carefully by Judge Lucchi-McCloud, the Commissioner, the State Board and the Appellate Division and passed muster with all of them. Again, as noted by the Appellate Division in its decision in February 1995, in addition to academic qualifications, a successful applicant for NHS also must demonstrate such intangible qualities as character, leadership and service. In the view of the senior year selection committee, J.B. did not demonstrate that he had those qualities sufficient to deserve an invitation to NHS membership. Whether I agree or not with that assessment is not pertinent. It was their decision to make and they did so in proper fashion. True, some committee members gave greater weight than others to various aspects of the application. But nowhere, neither in case law nor in any other authority, not to mention common sense, is there a requirement that they must act in "lock step". "Inconsistent" application of standards may merely mean that some members view some aspects of an applicant's credentials to be more important than others. That is not arbitrary, capricious or discriminatory. Furthermore, all of that aside, J.B.'s erroneous claim to three years actual participation on Student Council, his rank of 67 out of 97 eligible students, and his aggressive submission of basically the same resume in his senior year as he submitted the year before, were reasons enough for some members properly to reject his application despite J.B.'s academic, athletic and other accomplishments. Again, a young man who in his senior year is captain of the soccer team and does not reveal this, a young man who knows he was not a member of the Student Council for three years, but represents that he was, a young man who somewhat incredibly takes the view that unless an activity is "fully completed" it should not be included, is not a young man who has an inalienable right to membership to the NHS. Again, the "judgment call" was for the committee members to make, not an ALJ, nor the Commissioner. The "call" made by the selection committee in this case was within the parameters established by law.

I also have scrutinized the other arguments made by J.B. with respect to his claim that some of the committee members harbored a personal animus against him and/or failed to give him proper credit for some of his extracurricular activities. None of those contentions are supported by the proofs and are all rejected. Having had the opportunity closely to observe the school system's witnesses during the course of their testimony I am convinced of their credibility. Simply put, for the reasons each member honestly expressed on the record during the course of his or her testimony, I FIND that the determination made by each was free of any taint requiring that the decision to reject J.B. for admission to the NHS be set aside.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Based upon my review and consideration of the testimony and the documentary evidence in this case, I therefore CONCLUDE that the decision to reject J.B.'s senior year application for admission to membership in the Jefferson High School chapter of the NHS was neither arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, discriminatory, an abuse of discretion nor otherwise in violation of any law or regulation and should be upheld. I therefore ORDER that the petition of appeal be DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered in the Commissioner's determination of this case.

Upon his independent review,[1] the Commissioner concurs with the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the decision to reject J.B.'s senior year application for admission to membership in the Jefferson High School chapter of the National Honor Society was not arbitrary, capricious, discriminatory, an abuse of discretion or in violation of any legal rule, regulation or standard and, therefore, such decision must be upheld.[2]

[1] It is noted that the within record includes transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL on June 21, 1995, October 16, 1995, October 17, 1995, October 18, 1995, November 2, 1995, and June 4, 1996.
[2] Petitioners' exceptions urging a contrary finding essentially reiterate arguments advanced before the ALJ and are found to be without merit.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons well stated therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND RELEASE

The parties to this Stipulation of Settlement and Release ("Stipulation"), Patricia Bauernhuber ("Bauernhuber") and the Orange Board of Education (the "Board"), desiring to avoid the time and expense of continued litigation and further desiring to amicably resolve the above-captioned matter, and having negotiated in good faith prior to reaching agreement as to the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement, hereby set forth their agreement as follows:

1. The Board shall reinstate into Bauernhuber's accumulated sick leave bank twenty-five (25) sick days.

2. Any subsequent use of or payment for accumulated sick leave shall comport with existing collective bargaining contractual limitations, Board policies and regulations.

3. In consideration for restoring to Bauernhuber twenty-five (25) sick days as set forth in Paragraph 1, Bauernhuber will withdraw, with prejudice, her petition in the above captioned matter, docketed as OAL Docket No. EDU 11229-95, Agency Docket No. 342-8/95, by executing and filing with the Commissioner of Education and the Office of Administrative Law a Notice of Withdrawal, thus forever releasing the Board from any and all claims arising under or relating in any way to the above docketed matter.

4. In consideration for the promises made hereunder, Bauernhuber forever releases the Board from any and all claims arising under or relating in any manner whatsoever to the above-captioned action. Bauernhuber specifically releases and gives up any and all future claims which she may have against the Board arising from or relating to the above-captioned action, including, but not limited to, claims arising under (1) the Constitution of the United States; (2) the Americans with Disabilities Act, 29 U.S.C. § 791 et seq.; (3) the Constitution of the State of New Jersey; (4) any express or implied contracts in effect; (5) any collective negotiations agreement(s); (6) federal or state common law; (7) the Education Laws of the State of New Jersey, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 et seq.; and (8) any federal, state or local statutes, ordinances and regulations.

5. The parties agree that this Stipulation shall not be used for any purpose whatsoever in any pending or future matter, suit, proceeding or action between the parties or between the Board and the Orange Education Association. FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION,

Petitioner,

Respondent.

Joseph Chiarello, Esq., for petitioner (Jacob & Ferrigno, attorneys)

No one appeared for respondent

Record Closed: October 6, 1997 Decided: October 21, 1997

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Fairfield Township Board of Education (Board) filed a petition for Declaratory Ruling against respondent, Kenneth L. Durham, Jr., seeking a monetary judgment against him in the amount of $3,325.17 because it alleged that he enrolled his children in the Fairfield Township School District when they were residents of Bridgeton City and not entitled to a free education in Fairfield. Although respondent never appeared or otherwise answered the petition the Commissioner of Education nevertheless transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.10 and 2.1.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Petitioner served respondent by regular mail and hand delivery with a letter dated December 23, 1996, advising respondent that his children were not domiciled in Fairfield Township, that he did not attend a hearing on the issue conducted by the Board on December 18, 1996 and that he had 21 days, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq. to appeal the Board's decision to charge him tuition and/or remove his children from the school.

The Board subsequently served respondent by regular mail and hand delivery with a letter dated February 5, 1997, demanding payment of its tuition bill calculated as follows:

Christina - $6,782.00 divided by 182 days = $37.26 per day

Days attended:	September - 16 x $37.26	= $596.16
	October - 16 x 37.26	= 596.16
	November - 16 x 7.26	= 484.38
	December - 5 x 37.26	= 186.30
	TOTAL DUE -	$1,863.00

Kenneth - $5,662.00 divided by 182 days = $31.11 per day

Days attended:	September - 15 x $31.11	= $466.65
	October - 19 x 31.11	= 591.09
	November - 11 x 31.11	= 342.21
	December - 2 x 31.11	= 62.22
	TOTAL DUE -	$1,462.17

TOTAL DUE FOR BOTH CHILDREN $3, 325.17

On March 31, 1997, the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes in the Department of Education wrote to respondent and advised him that he had 20 days to file a response to the petition.

On April 11, 1997, petitioner's attorney wrote to the Director and advised that it had a "green card" from someone receiving respondent's mail at 1518 Third Avenue, Seabrook, New Jersey. He also advised the Director that respondent had an address at 43A Reeves Road, Bridgeton, New Jersey. He had no phone number for respondent. The "green card" provided by the Post Office appears to be signed by David Shoup.

On April 15, 1997, petitioner's attorney provided the Director with copies of certified mail sent to respondent at both addresses. The letter addressed to 43A Reeves Road was returned marked "Unclaimed." The letter addressed to 1518 Third Avenue was returned undeliverable at that address and someone wrote the 43A Reeves address on the envelope.

On April 15, 1997, the Director again wrote to respondent, via both certified and regular mail, at both addresses, that he had 20 days to answer the petition.

On April 24, 1997, the Director wrote to petitioner's attorney and advised him to serve the petition by hand.

On April 30, 1997, at 4:17 p.m., Kenneth Durham signed a receipt acknowledging service of papers from petitioner's attorneys at 278 Reeves Road, Bridgeton, New Jersey.

On June 9, 1997, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the OAL to be heard as a contested case.

The OAL mailed a notice to Kenneth L. Durham requesting that he supply the OAL with a telephone number for a prehearing telephone conference scheduled on Thursday, September 25, 1997, at 1:00 p.m. He did not respond.

On Thursday, September 25, 1997, at 1:00 a telephone conference was conducted. Respondent did not contact either the OAL or respondent's attorney or participate in the conference.

I, therefore, FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent has abandoned any counterclaim or defense he may have had to this claim for tuition. See Board of Education of Livingston, Essex County 96 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 536.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that summary judgment shall be granted to the Board and that respondent shall pay tuition in the amount of $3,325.17 due to the Board for the period of September, October, November and December when respondent's son and daughter attended free public school in Fairfield Township as non-resident pupils. There being no provision for the grant of attorney's fees or costs within the Commissioner's authority, said fees and costs are not granted.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that respondent's failure to comply with repeated directives from the Department and subsequently from the ALJ, especially where respondent's agent apparently signed for and accepted one letter demanding a response to the petition, equates to the abandonment of any counterclaim or defense respondent may have.

Accordingly, the decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein; summary judgment is entered in favor of the Board; and respondent is hereby assessed tuition in the amount of $3,325.17, covering the period of his children's illegal attendance in the public schools of Fairfield.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, tenured school social worker, contended Board's refusal to reemploy her for the 1996-97 school year violated her tenure and seniority rights. Board abolished her position pursuant to a RIF and assigned her duties to a subcontractor. Board asserted it was in receipt of two waivers from the Commissioner concerning the provisions of certain Child Study Team (CST) functions, specifically social worker services.

ALJ found that the record clearly demonstrated that the Commissioner, with approval of the State Board, granted the Board a waiver from certain administrative regulations to allow the Board to cotract for the services of a school social worker and to determine which assessments are appropriate for initial evaluations. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the Board's action to contract with the Salem County Special Services School District to perform the functions of its required school social worker services was proper and in accordance with the Commissioner's authority. ALJ concluded that the Board's action to abolish petitioner's position of school social worker was taken pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 for reasons of economy and in no manner violated her tenure or seniority rights. Petitioner's motion for summary decision was dismissed.

Commissioner affirmed initial decision, but directed County Superintendent to inquire into Board's possible noncompliance with the conditions upon which the waiver was granted.

Record Closed: June 30, 1997 Decided: August 13, 1997

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Helen O'Neal, a tenured school social worker in the employ of the Board of Education of the City of Salem (Board) alleges, among other things, that the Board's action to abolish her position pursuant to a reduction in force (RIF) and assign her duties to a subcontractor is in contravention of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and in violation of her seniority and re-employment rights subsumed within N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

The Board denies that it violated any of petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights and asserts, among other things, that it is in receipt of two waivers from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) concerning the provisions of certain Child Study Team (CST) functions specifically, social worker services.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case, pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Pursuant to a Prehearing Conference and Prehearing Order, the parties cross-moved for Summary Decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, and Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954). The parties submitted their respective briefs of law, certification and exhibits and the hearing record closed on June 30, 1997.

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's Position

Petitioner, Helen O'Neal, is a tenured school social worker who was employed by the respondent, Salem Board of Education from November 1978 to November 14, 1996.[1]

Respondent, Salem City Board of Education is responsible for the administration of all schools within the Salem City School District and is the employer of the petitioner in this matter.

Petitioner was advised on April 30, 1996, that the Board at a meeting on April 24, 1996, had terminated Ms. O'Neal's employment for the 1996-97 school year. In earlier correspondence

[1] After being employed on a full-time basis through the 1995-95 school year petitioner was employed on a 2 days per week basis from September 16, 1996 through November 15, 1996. Although petitioner was assigned social assessments for this period, petitioner was not allowed to participate in Child Study Team meetings or staffings nor was her opinion solicited on any of the cases that she worked on during this period.

the Board had advised petitioner that it was the Board's intention to terminate petitioner, pursuant to a RIF, and to enter into some type of privatization or subcontracting venture to arrange for the provision of certain limited social worker services previously supplied to the Salem City School District for a period of 18 years by petitioner.

The respondent Board is statutorily obligated to provide school social worker services as part of the District's CST. (See, N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1 through N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.8). The Board by abolishing petitioner's position as a school social worker has ignored relevant Commissioner decisions, State Board of Education decisions and Appellate Division decisions that have required that "core" CST services, including services provided by school social workers, be provided by employees of the local Board and not provided through privatization or subcontracting arrangements. Annexed hereto as Exhibits "A and B" are the State Board of Education and Appellate Division decisions in a case involving the Watchung Hills School District and the Commissioner's decision Elson v. Hudson County Vocational and Technical School District. (Exhibit "D"). Also annexed hereto is the very recent Commissioner decision, Vicenzino v. Board of Education of the Township of Bedminister (Exhibit "E") (Decided February 5, 1997) in which the Commissioner determined that the Board's termination of Ms. Vicenzino, a tenured school social worker (like the petitioner in the instant matter) and a member of the District's "core" CST, and its re-allocation of at least some of her duties to an outside contractor was violative of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) and N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)1 and Ms. Vicenzino's tenure rights.

The actions of the respondent Board in purportedly abolishing petitioner's position, while announcing its intention to enter into some type of subcontracting relationship with either a private contractor or an Educational Services Commission (ESC), to provide certain of the social worker services previously provided by petitioner is in clear contravention of petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and is a violation of petitioner's seniority and re-employment rights subsumed within N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

By virtue of the Board's refusal to re-employ petitioner as a school social worker for the entire 1996-97 school year[2] within the Salem City School District respondent has violated petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and her seniority rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11, N.J.S.A. 28-12 and N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10 et seq.

The petitioner also contended that the Board's decision to eliminate the in district position of school social worker would result in the Board's failure to properly provide district school children, their parents and district teaching personnel with required educational services that can only legally be supplied by a properly certificated school social worker employed by the Board.

Annexed hereto is an Affidavit prepared by the petitioner Helen O'Neal which, in pertinent part, delineates the myriad of duties previously performed by Ms. O'Neal as a school social worker within the Salem City School District, consistent with administrative regulations mandating specific services to be performed by school social workers both as members of a school district's "core" CST and as educational services personnel who are required to perform other social school worker duties consistent with educational statutes and regulations. It is submitted that as a result of the Board's decision to terminate Ms. O'Neal the Board no longer is able to provide mandated social worker services to school children and their parents within the Salem City School District.

This brief has been prepared in support of petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision in this matter.

[2] As noted earlier respondent was employed on a 2/5's contractual basis for the period between September 16, 1996 and November 14, 1996, to provide very limited social worker services to the Board while the Board further pursued subcontracting options involving the providing of State mandated social worker services.

Point I

The Salem City Board of Education Violated the Tenure Rights, Seniority Rights and Re-Employment Entitlements of Petitioner, Helen O'Neal, When the Board Failed to Re- Employ Ms. O'Neal as a School Social Worker Within the District for the Entire 1996-7 Academic Year

It is undisputed that petitioner, Helen O'Neal, enjoyed tenure as a teaching staff member (i.e., as a school social worker and a member of the district's Child Study Team) within the Board's employ pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 states, in part, that "The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers . . . and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the Board of Examiners, serving in any school district or under any Board of Education . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, or conduct unbecoming such a teaching staff member or other just cause and then only in the manner prescribed by (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 et seq.) . . . ." It is uncontroverted that petitioner at all times performed all of her many assigned school social worker duties in a professional and competent manner. The Board did not terminate Ms. O'Neal "for cause."

The Board relied exclusively upon the prescriptions of N.J.S.A 18A:28-9 (Reductions of Force; Power to Reduce and Reasons for Reductions) to support its decision to terminate the employment of Ms. O'Neal. Petitioner also cites N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 (Dismissal of persons having tenure on reduction; re-employment).

The significance to be attached to the rights of teachers under tenure has been the subject of considerable analysis by the Courts, the Legislature and the administrative agencies.

In Downs v. Board of Education, Hoboken, 13 N.J. Misc. 853 (Sup. Ct. 1935), the Court stated:

> The Teacher Tenure Act is not a gesture but a provision of law to protect teachers in their position by reason of years of experience. While in the interest of economy, reductions in number may be made, those having tenure should have preference in appointment where vacancies occur.

The Commissioner has consistently upheld the seniority/re-employment rights of tenured employees in the context of a reduction in force. Dedrick v. Board of Education, Hammonton, 1977 S.L.D. 1043; Polaski vs. Board of Education, Burlington County Vocational Technical High School, 1977 S.L.D. 346; McKay vs. Board of Education, Red Bank, 1972 S.L.D. 606; Reinish vs. Board of Education, Cliffside Park, 1965 S.L.D. 50, aff'd State Board of Education, 1966 S.L.D. 252, aff'd Appellate Division, 1966 S.L.D. 253; David vs. Board of Education, Cliffside Park, 1965 S.L.D. 56, aff'd State Board of Education, 1966 S.L.D. 223, aff'd Appellate Division, 1966 S.L.D. 223. These cases clearly hold that tenure employees must be retained if positions for which they are qualified exist in the district and are held by individuals with lesser or no seniority.

In the instant matter it is first averred that there was no legitimate RIF effectuated by the Board pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The facts in this matter indicate that the Board's intention was not an actual abolishment of a position, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, but a mere re-organization and transfer of duties from a tenured school social worker to a less expensive provider through the mechanism of contracting out certain social worker services to a County Educational Services Commission or private contractor.[3] Under these circumstances it is averred that the Board's actions taken in the instant matter falls squarely within the prohibitions of cases such as Viemeister vs. Prospect Park Board of Education, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1947) which prohibit the mere transfer, through any mechanism, of the duties of a particular position to another individual in violation of the incumbent employee's tenure and seniority rights.

[3] The Board has never provided details to the petitioner regarding the "specifics" of its sub-contracting decision.

In Viemeister, after abolishing a principal's position ostensibly pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, the Board proceeded to re-assign the principal's duties to another employee. The Court found that the incumbent's tenure rights had been violated because "in substance the principalship was continued but transferred . . ." Id. at 218.

In the instant matter the respondent Board apparently asserts that the economic savings purportedly realized by it as a result of replacing Ms. O'Neal, as a tenured school social worker, with an out-of-district lower paid independent contractor, provided for apparently through a sub-contracting arrangement with a County Educational Services Commission, gave it the unfetted right to invoke the prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and state that it had properly abolished/reduced in force the school social worker position "for reasons of economy."

It is respectfully averred that the Viemeister Appellate Division decision conclusively established that N.J.S.A 18A:28-9 could never be properly invoked to justify the termination of a tenured certificated employee when there as no actual abolishment of a position. The Appellate Division in Jacquelyn Cochran, et al vs. Watchung Hills Regional High School Board of Education, (unpublished decision) App. Div. Docket No. A-2327-85T7 (decided December 22, 1985) (annexed as Exhibit "A" to this brief) in striking down a similar Board effort to "RIF" tenured educational services personnel on the district's CST in order to replaced them with less costly individuals provided through a contract with a third party cited the Viemeister decision and concluded that:

> Watchung argues that its decision to reduce the (CST) positions to half-time was made for reasons of economy and that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 allows reductions in force for this reason. It is apparent that the State Board of Education's decision rests upon the Commissioner's "sense and experience' that Watchung was not, in fact, abolishing petitioner's position but merely dividing up their duties and distributing part of those duties to an outside contractor in violation of petitioner's tenure rights.
> The State Board of Education correctly noted that a local Board's decision concerning RIF are properly reviewable "to determine whether the position ostensibly abolished has not, in fact, been abolished but merely transferred to another in violation of the incumbent's tenure and seniority rights . . ."; citing Viemeister vs.

> Board of Education of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949). The State Board found the local Board's action to fall squarely within the prohibition of Viemeister concluding "the Board's intention was not an actual abolishment of positions, but a mere re-organization and transfer of duties to a less expensive provider" Cochran, slip opinion at pages 3 and 4.

In the instant case it is averred that Helen O'Neal school social worker duties, as mandated by administrative regulations, were likewise not abolished; i.e., her duties were to be transferred to an out of district sub-contractor, thereby circumventing petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

One of the lead administrative decisions relating to local Boards efforts to "RIF" and replace tenured educational services personnel through sub-contracting arrangements with third parties is the State Board's decision in Jacquelyn Cochran, Angela P. Piegari and Barton Lilenfield vs. Watchung Hills Regional High School Board of Education, Somerset County, 1985 S.L.D. 1975, affirmed App. Div. Docket No. A-2327-85T7 (decided December 22, 1986) (annexed to this brief as Exhibit "B").

In the Watchung Hills litigation petitioners Cochran, Piegari and Lilenfield were all tenured teaching staff members employed by the Watchung Hills Regional High School Board of Education in full-time CST positions of Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant, Social Worker and School Psychologist, respectively. On April 12, 1982, the local Board voted to abolish these full-time positions for economy reasons, replacing them on May 10, 1982, with half-time positions.

In September 1982, the petitioners learned that the Watchung Hills Board of Education had contracted with the Somerset County Educational Services Commission for the provision of CST services, including some of the services previously provided by petitioners. Petitioners filed a Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner of Education, challenging the Board's actions as being in violation of their tenure and seniority rights. The Commissioner and State Board of Education sustained the ALJ's decision which held, among other things, that the holding in Viemeister, supra., controlled and Watchung Hills Board was required to re-instate petitioners for the school years 1982-83 with full back pay.

The Appellate Division in the Watchung Hills litigation affirmed the State Board's decision in its entirety (see Exhibit "A" annexed to this brief). The Appellate Division specifically held that:

> Watchung argues that its decision to reduce the positions to half-time was made for reasons of economy and that N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 allows reductions in force for this reason. It is apparent that the State Board's decision rests upon the Commissioner's "sense and experience" that Watchung was not, in fact, abolishing petitioners positions but merely dividing up their duties and distributing part of those duties to an outside contractor in violation of petitioners' tenure rights. The State Board correctly noted that a local Board's decisions concerning reduction in force are properly reviewable "to determine whether the position ostensibly abolished has not, in fact, been abolished but merely transferred to another in violation of the incumbent's tenure and seniority rights . . ."; citing Viemeister vs. Board of Education of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215 (App. Div. 1949). The State Board fond the local Board's action to fall squarely within the prohibition of Viemeister concluding "the Board's intention was not an actual abolishment of positions, but a mere re-organization and transfer of duties to a less expensive provider." (Slip opinion at pages 3 and 4.)

It is averred that the Watchung Hills decision is dispositive of the issues raised in the instant matter, especially in light of subsequent reported administrative and judicial decisions.

Significantly, the New Jersey Supreme Court in Impey vs. Board of Education of the Borough of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388 (1995), while acknowledging that a local Board could abolish an existing speech correctionist position and terminate a tenured speech correctionist for economic reasons without violating statutory tenure rights, cited the aforementioned Cochran case with approval and distinguished sub-contracting cases involving core CST members, i.e., school social workers, school psychologist and Learning Disabilities Teacher-Consultants, from cases involving Speech Correctionists as follows:

> Petitioner (Impey) contends that N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1 requires that the members of the CST that serve handicapped pupils be employed directly by the school district. That section provides:

> A child study team shall consist of a school psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher-consultant and a school social worker. For pupils ages three to five, the study team shall include a speech correctionist or speech-language specialist. All members of the child study team shall be employees of a district board of education, have an identifiable, apportioned commitment to the local school district and shall be available during the hours pupils are in attendance. [N.J.A.C 6:28-3.1(b)1].

> Petitioner claims that she was a member of the CST employed by the district, and her replacement by the ESC, consisting of non-district personnel, to provide the services of the CST violates N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b). However, the ALJ, Commissioner, and State Board determined that petitioner, who served a K through 8 school. was not a member of the basic CST referred to in N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1. Cf. N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 (omitting speech correctionist from definition of "basic child study team" . . . 142 N.J. at 395.

In the State Board's Petition for Certification Brief (Exhibit "C" annexed to this brief) that was submitted to the Supreme Court in Impey, the Attorney General's Office made the following argument, in distinguishing the Impey case (which did not involve a core CST member) from the Cochran/Watchung Hills case:

> The second line of cases is exemplified by Cochrane (sic) vs. Bd. of Education of Watchung Hills, 1983 S.L.D. 953, aff'd, Appellate Division (unpublished decision) (Docket No. A-2327-85T7) (decided December 22, 1986) (Aa69-Aa74). In Cochrane, the State Board refused to permit Watchung Hills to reduce three child study team positions to half-time and contract for the same services with an outside provider. What was dispositive in Cochrane, was a regulation then in effect, N.J.A.C. 6:28.3.1,[4] which require those filling the three positions (school psychologist, social worker and learning disabilities teacher/consultant) to be district employees. Here there is no such requirement with respect to speech correctionist. Cochrane properly stands only for the proposition that a district may not contract for services with an outside provider where statute or regulation requires that the service be provided by a district employee. (State Board on brief at pages 6-7).

[4] This regulation is still in effect requiring that "core" Child Study Team members remain employees of the local Board; i.e., these positions could not be contracted out.

The Commissioner in Elson vs. Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools, 1995 S.L.D. _____ (decided July 10, 1995) annexed hereto as Exhibit "D") sustained the allegations of a tenured school psychologist (and "core" CST member) that his tenure and seniority rights were violated when the school district entered into a sub-contracting arrangement to provide essentially the same school psychologist services performed by Mr. Elson. The Commissioner affirmed the Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law of the Administrative Law Judge who distinguished the Impey Supreme Court and who re-affirmed the continued viability of the Watchung Hills line of cases.

The Administrative Law Judge in Elson further concluded that:

> The facts of this case are more akin to those considered in Cochran, where a full-time in-house team was reduced to a part-time one by a RIF with a subsequent engagement of outside contractors to perform services in equal amount to those performed by the remaining part-time team, than to the facts of Mullin, which involved limited instances of contracting out of services. This case is distinguishable from Impey, supra. in which the court found broad statutory and regulatory authority for a local board to enter and to join agreements with other school districts for the provision of special education services. There is no such broad authority pertinent to child study teams in general. As discussed, a local board may only contract team evaluation and diagnostic services to supplement existing local district services, not to supplant them. (Slip opinion at pages 22-23).

Most recently, in a February 6, 1997, decision the Commissioner in Vicenzino v. Bedminster Board of Education (Exhibit "E"), appeal pending before the State Board concurred with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge in that matter that the Bedminster Board's termination of petitioner Vicenzino, a tenured member of the District's "core" CST, and its reallocation of at least some of Ms. Vicenzino's duties to an outside contractor was in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) and N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)1 and petitioner Vicenzino's tenure rights. The Bedminster Board was directed to reinstate petitioner Vicenzino to her former position as a school social worker with back pay and emoluments, as appropriate, for the 1996-97 school year and thereafter.

It is respectfully submitted that in light of the above it is "plain as a pike-staff" that petitioner, Helen O'Neal, is entitled to judgment as a matter of law in the instant matter. The Salem City Board has totally ignored the significance of the cases cited in this Point which conclusively establish that local Boards may not terminate the employment of tenured "core" CST members such as school social workers and enter into sub-contracting ventures to provide said "core" CST functions. While local Boards, in limited circumstances, may supplement "core" CST functions being presently performed by local Board school social workers, school psychologists and Learning Disability Teacher-Consultants a Board cannot supplant these "core" CST members in light of the cited regulations that require that school Psychologists, Learning Disability Teacher-Consultants and school social workers be employees of a local Board.

The petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment should be granted consistent with the cases cited in this legal point.

Point II

Assuming Arguendo that Limited Fact Finding is Necessary in this Proceeding it is Evident that the Need of the Salem City School District Will Not Be Satisfied Regarding the Provision of Mandated School Social Worker Services if Petitioner Is Not Reinstated to Her Full Time Social Worker Position with the District

The Salem City Board, in an attempt to distinguish the Cochran, Elson and Vicenzino cases extensively cited on behalf of petitioner, Helen O'Neal, appears to maintain that by entering into a contract with an unspecified ESC to only provide new social case histories for the affected classified school district children during the 1996-97 school year will satisfy "the needs of the district" concerning the provision of school social worker services and will provide a large financial savings to the Board.

For the reasons set forth in the first legal point in this brief in support of petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment it is averred that it is of no legal moment that a local Board is able to save money or provide "equivalent" CST services as a result of sub-contracting "core" CST functions. As summarized in the first legal point it is respectfully submitted that local Boards are absolutely prohibited from sub-contracting school psychologist, Learning Disability Teacher-Consultant or school social worker functions to ESC or any other agency since these actions would violated the cited regulations that require local Boards to insure that "core" CST members are employees of the local Board. Only in instances that are clearly not germane to the instant proceeding, wherein local Boards are merely supplementing "core" CST services that continue to be performed by local school district employed school psychologists, school social workers and Learning Disability Teacher-Consultants, can Boards be permitted to enter into supplemental contracts to provide for limited assistance from subcontracted psychologists, social workers or Learning Disability Teacher-Consultants.

Assuming arguendo, however, that any limited fact finding may be viewed as being necessary by the Court it is averred that the attached certification of petitioner, Helen O'Neal, conclusively establishes that the Salem City Board will, in fact, not satisfy the educational needs of the classified children in the Salem City School District in terms of rendering mandated social worker services within the district.

As evinced by the attached Affidavit of Helen O'Neal the Board simply ignores the fact that there are a myriad of school social worker duties that must be performed by school social workers in every school district in this State in order to satisfy the pertinent regulations referring to the required functions of school social workers in the elementary and secondary contexts. Petitioner cites the regulatory provisions found at N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1; N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.4(d), (e), (f); N.J.A.C. 6:38-3.5(a); N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.6 (a), (b), (f); and, N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.4.

Petitioner contends that virtually none of the school social worker functions regularly performed by Helen O'Neal for the past eighteen years will be performed by any sub-contracted for per diem school social worker employed by the Board in the Salem City School District during the 1996-97 school year.

As found by the Commissioner in Elson, in adopting the ALJ's Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law, the mandated duties of school social workers are many and varied. (Quotation omitted).

It may be seen by the Elson case that there are specific administrative regulations that mandate the many and diverse duties that must be performed by school social workers (as well as LDTC(s) and school psychologists) employed by local Boards within their respective school districts. A review of Ms. O'Neal's attached Affidavit illustrates the many duties previously performed by Ms. O'Neal, in compliance with the above cited administrative regulations, that are not being performed presently within the Salem City School District by a school social worker, or in fact, by anyone else.

For all of the reasons set forth in this additional point it is respectfully submitted that petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment should be granted in its entirety.

In her prayer for relief, petitioner seeks an Order from the ALJ and the Commissioner granting petitioner's Motion for Summary Judgment which would require that the respondent Board:

> (a) Assign petitioner to the school social worker position within the Salem City School District for the 1996-97 school year and thereafter so as to perform the required duties as set forth within the relevant State statutes and regulations;
>
> (b) Retroactively compensate petitioner for all salary, seniority and economic benefits lost as a result of the Board's failure to re-appoint petitioner to a full time school social worker position within the District, effective the start of the 1996-97 school year, with interest;
>
> (c) Providing such other and further relief as the Commissioner deems appropriate.

The Board's Position

Counterstatement of Facts

Helen O'Neal (petitioner), is a tenured school social worker, who was employed by the respondent, Salem City Board of Education, from November 1978 to November 14, 1996. Respondent, as the local Board, is responsible for the administration of all schools within the Salem City School District and is the employer of the petitioner in this matter.

Petitioner was advised on April 30, 1996 that, at a meeting on April 24, 1996, the respondent had taken action to reduce in force petitioner's employment for the 1996-97 school year. In earlier correspondence the respondent had advised petitioner that it was the respondent's intention to consider a RIF, on economic grounds, which could eliminate the position held by petitioner. Furthermore, that the respondent was considering entering into a contracting agreement for the provision of social worker services with a non-district employee entity. The respondent Board, is statutorily authorized to provide necessary school social worker services for the Salem City School District. In order to comply with contractual notice provisions, petitioner was employed on a two days per week basis from September 16, 1996 through November 14, 1996. During that time petitioner was assigned to perform social worker duties including social assessments.

Pursuant to the State Board adopted code for the equivalency and waiver process, respondent sought and received two waivers from the Commissioner concerning the provision of certain CST functions. The following documentation demonstrates the Board's compliance with the established procedures.

> Attachment "A" is the respondent's February 26, 1996, application for a waiver to contract with an outside provider for the provision (not supplement) of basic "core" CST services.

The Board's Waiver Application states as follows:

> "Waiver" means the granting of approval to avoid compliance either with the specific procedures or the substantive requirements of a specific rule for reasons that are judged educationally, organizationally and fiscally sound.
>
> 1. List the administrative code citation(s) which the proposed waiver process will replace if approved.
>
> N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f); N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)Ii.
>
> 2. Describe what the district intends to accomplish that is currently prevented or disallowed by an existing rule.
>
> Due to escalating costs of Special Education, by waiving the regulation listed in item number one, the Salem City Board would be able to reduce the cost of providing CST services by contracting with an approved clinic and agency in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1. The waiver would permit the approved clinic and agency to provide (not supplement) diagnostic services.
>
> 3. Briefly describe why a waiver is necessary to accomplish the desired objectives or measurable results.
>
> The regulations as currently written and interpreted require districts to "employ" CST members and only allows the contracting of CST services to supplement existing local district services." The waiver would allow our district to achieve our objective (as described in item #2) of providing more cost effective, cost efficient CST services.

> 5. List the date the local board of education adopted the resolution for the proposed waiver.

Attachment "B" is the Commissioner's approval of respondent's application for a waiver to contract with an outside provider for the provision (not supplement) of basic "core" CST services, as follows:

> At the June 7, 1995, State Board meeting, the State Board adopted the code for the equivalency and waiver process. I am pleased to inform you that your request has been approved. The approval is effective for three years and you may re-submit your request for continuation at that time.

By copy of this letter, I am notifying the county superintendent of the approval of your request through the equivalency and waiver process for N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f) & 6:28-5.1(c)1i. to:

> Your request to contract with an approved provider to provide basic CST services is approved with the condition that you implement the county superintendent's plan for the description of services required for your district.

The equivalency and waiver process is a means for school districts to seek immediate relief from troublesome rules and to develop innovative approaches and cost effective solutions that meet the individual needs of school districts. I am pleased that you chose to participate in this important initiative.

The document is dated August 21, 1996 and signed by Commissioner Klagholz.

Attachment "C" is the respondent's application for a waiver to allow CSTs to determine which assessments are appropriate for initial evaluations, which provides:

> "Waiver" means the granting of approval to avoid compliance either with the specific procedures or the substantive requirements of a specific rule for reasons that are judged educationally, organizationally and fiscally sound.

1. List the administrative code citation(s) which the proposed waiver process will replace if approved.

N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.4(d)

2. Describe what the district intends to accomplish that is currently prevented or disallowed by an existing rule.

The district will employ a more efficient process of evaluation by the use of only those assessments deemed necessary to determine eligibility. Assessments needed for an initial evaluation will be determined by the CST.

3. Briefly describe why a waiver is necessary to accomplish the desired objectives or measurable results.

Current federal code requires a multidisciplinary evaluation - a less restrictive standard than current state code. There are times when a full CST evaluation is not always necessary when conducting an initial evaluation. In addition, a medical exam is not always necessary.

As with re-evaluation, we are requesting a waiver on initial evaluations to allow the CST to determine the evaluation plan similar to the process with re-evaluations.

4. Describe the process for informing the community, parents, board of education members, administration, and staff in the development of the proposal through input and public comment.

The proposal will be discussed at a public meeting of the Salem City Board. The community will be informed through Board minutes.

5. List the date that the local board of education adopted the resolution for the proposed waiver.

June 12, 1996.

Attachment "D" is the Commissioner's approval of respondent's application for a waiver to allow CSTs to determine which assessments are appropriate for initial evaluations. The document is dated November 19, 1996 and signed by Commissioner Klagholz.

> At the June 7, 1995, State Board meeting, the State Board adopted the code for the equivalency and waiver process. I am pleased to inform you that your request has been approved. The approval is effective for three years and you may resubmit your request for continuation at that time.

Attachment "E" is the August 31, 1995, notice from the Commissioner concerning the adoption by the State Board of the code for the equivalency and waiver process which is set forth in toto hereinbelow:

> August 31, 1995
>
> TO: Members, State Board of Education
>
> FROM: Leo Klagholz, Commissioner
>
> RE: The Equivalency and Waiver Process
>
> At the June 7, 1995, State Board of Education meeting, the State Board adopted the code for equivalency and waiver process. The intent of the new rule is to provide local school districts and schools operated and regulated by the department with immediate > relief from troublesome rules. The purpose of this memo is to describe the approval process and report the results of the first round of applications. Attached is a summary list of the applications that were considered and the recommendations that were distributed to school districts August 18.

>
> As the code was being developed, the State Board expressed a strong desire to provide a simple, straightforward application with an expeditious review and approval process. A third objective was to make equivalencies and waivers available to school districts as soon as the code was adopted. In April, school districts received an advance copy of the draft applications, the proposed code and tentative timelines for applying and receiving approval. On June 15, 1995, school districts received the final applications and a copy of the adopted code. The school districts were assured of a response by August 18 if they submitted an application to the county superintendent by July 14.
>
> Applications were received from 39 school districts in 16 counties with several districts submitting multiple applications. The applications requested equivalencies and waivers for special education, facilities, certification, curriculum, transportation and monitoring. The requests were somewhat equally divided between equivalencies and waivers. However, the same request was submitted by one district as an equivalency and by another as a waiver.
>
> Of the 50 applications received, 30 were recommended for immediate approval. Eight did not need an equivalency or waiver because the current code does not prevent the district from taking the requested action. Five were denied because the request was for a waiver to a state or federal statute. One certification request, to satisfy an individual's need, was denied because it must be considered by the State Board of Examiners through the established process.

Subsequent to its reduction in force of the petitioner and obtaining the above waivers, respondent sought out the Salem County Special Services School District as the non-district entity to provide necessary social worker services.

Attachment "F" is documentation concerning the negotiations, under the supervision of the Salem County Superintendent of Schools, with the Salem County Special Services School District, for the provision of necessary social worker services. Attachment "F" is not repeated here.

Pursuant to the waiver allowing for the contracting for necessary social worker services, the respondent has been negotiating with the Salem County Special Services School District to be available for the provision of necessary social worker services. Since this waiver approval specifically required the County Superintendent's involvement in the implementation thereof, these negotiations have been under and subject to the supervision of the Salem County Superintendent of Schools. See, Attachments "A," "B" and "F."

Pursuant to the waiver allowing the respondent to utilize the applicable federal standard for determination of the necessary assessments and components for an individual evaluation, the need for social worker services has been substantially reduced. See, attachments "C" and "D." There has been no indication whatsoever from the Salem County Superintendent of Schools that the provision of social worker services by respondent is inadequate in any manner whatsoever, or fails to meet the requirements of the waivers granted under the waiver and equivalency process. See, the certification in lieu of affidavit of Richard Rhau, District Superintendent.

None of the decisions attached to petitioner's brief in support of petitioner's Summary Judgment Motion involve circumstances where approvals were sought and received under the State Board of Education's code for the equivalency and waiver process. The intent of that process is to allow local boards of education to effectuate cost savings and efficiency measures. The RIF of the petitioner and the receipt of the two above waivers provide for economy measures in conformance with the intent of the code for equivalency and waiver process.

Attachment "G" is the certification in lieu of Salem City Schools Superintendent Richard R. Rhau, which is not repeated here.

The actions of the respondent in abolishing petitioner's position, while seeking a contracting relationship with the Salem County Special Services School District to provide social worker services previously provided by petitioner is clearly not in contravention of petitioner's tenure rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and is not a violation of petitioner's seniority and re-employment rights subsumed within N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12. The abolishment of petitioner's position was solely for reasons of economy and efficiency. The respondent has realized a substantial savings from the complained of actions that will be at least $40,000 for the 1996-97 school year based upon experience to date. See, the certification in lieu of affidavit of District Superintendent Richard R. Rhau, Attachment "G."

The respondent's decision to eliminate the in-district position of school social worker does not result in the Board's failure to properly provide district school children, their parents, or the district teaching personnel with required educational services.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

The petition of appeal contains two bases upon which the petitioner asserts a claim for relief in the instant matter. First, the petitioner asserts that petitioner's tenure and/or seniority rights were violated. See, paragraph number seven of the petition of appeal. Second, the petitioner asserts that "core" CST services including social worker services are required to be provided through employees of the local district rather than through any other relationship such as a contracting arrangement.

Petitioner's Tenure/Seniority Claim is Not Valid

The instant matter is not a matter of first impression with respect to petitioner's asserted claim of tenure rights. The Supreme Court has considered and rejected this argument in Impey v. Board of Education of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388 (1995). At no point does petitioner assert or offer any proof that the complained of actions by the respondent were taken for other than reasons of economy and efficiency. At page 398, the Court in Impey, Id., specifically stated:

> Our Courts have recognized that a local board of education has the authority to reduce its teaching force as long as that reduction is genuinely 'for reasons of economy.' . . . [r]education's in force, whether of tenured or non-tenured teachers, if done for reasons of economy, is entirely within the authority of the board.

> The determination to reduce the teaching force by abolishing positions need not eliminate the services that may be related to those positions. (Citations omitted).

The Court's decision was based at least in part upon N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 which provides that:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the numbers of pupils or of change in the administration or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

In the instant matter, the reduction in force of petitioner is clearly based upon a genuine and good faith reason of economy. The savings to the local district are significantly greater than the savings that were realized in the Impey, Id. decision. Herein, the savings are at least $40,000 for the 1996-97 school year alone. See, Attachment "G."

The petitioner in her brief herein asserts that the Court in Impey, Id., by implication, restricts that decision from applying to social worker members of a CST, when the Court, at page 399, cites Cochran v. Watchung Hills Regional High School Board of Education, 1985, S.L.D. 1978. However, this reliance is totally misplaced due to the additional statement by the Court that followed the Court's citation of Cochran, wherein the Court specifically stated that the decision in Cochran was "in light of then-current statutory requirement that CST services may only be supplemented." There currently is no such statutory requirement, and hence the Court's caveat with respect to Cochran eliminates any significance or application of that decisions to the instant matter. Likewise, to the extent that petitioner places reliance upon decision that predated and are at variance with Impey, supra. such decisions are no longer valid law and must yield to the Supreme Court's decision herein.

Under the factual circumstances of the instant matter, the existence of the specific waivers granted to respondent herein, and the current status of the law, the Impey, supra. decision is controlling and directs the denial of petitioner's tenure/seniority based claim.

Petitioner's Claim that the Social Worker Must Be a Direct Employee is not Valid

Petitioner's asserts as a second basis for the petition of appeal that "core" or basic child study team services, including social worker services, are required to be provided through employees of the local district rather than through any other relationship such as a contracting arrangement. While the petitioner cites and relies upon Elson v. Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools, 1995 *S.L.D.*_____, and Vicenzino v. Bedminister Board of Education, 1997 S.L.D. _____, in support of this claim, those decisions differ from the instant matter in crucial factual and legal respects. In the instant matter, respondent sought and obtained a waiver from the very administrative rules that form the foundation of the decisions in those matters and the basis of the petitioner's claim in the instant matter. Respondent specifically sought and obtained a waiver from the requirement that social worker services, when provided as part of the "core" or basic child study team, are to be provided by an employee of the district. See, Attachments "A" and "B." Secondly, respondent sought and obtained a waiver from the requirement as to the level of social worker services that are required to be provided by the "core" or basic CST. See, Attachments "C" and "D." Therefore, none of the decisions that petitioner has relied upon herein are applicable or relevant to the resolution of the instant matter. Clearly, the granting of the waivers as demonstrated by Attachments "A," "B," "C" and "D" defeat the petitioners claim that social worker services of a "core" or basic CST may only be provided by employees of that specific local board of education.

Petitioner's reliance upon decisions which were based upon the very code provisions which respondent sought and obtained a waiver with respect to, clearly defeats any precedential value whatsoever that those decisions might have had. For the equivalency and waiver process to have any meaning at all, it must provide protection from litigation claims such as are involved herein.

Based upon the factual circumstances of the instant matter, the receipt of the waivers by respondent, and the existing provisions of statute and codes, the actions which are complained of in the instant Petition of Appeal do not violate any right of the petitioner. Hence, the instant Petition of Appeal should be dismissed.

CONCLUSIONS

Having carefully considered the whole record and arguments of the parties, I CONCLUDE that the instant matter is ripe for Summary Decision, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5 and the criteria set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954).

Notwithstanding petitioner's legal arguments the herein record clearly demonstrates that the Commissioner, with approval of the State Board, granted the Board a waiver from the administrative regulations found at N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1 to -12.1.

The statute, at N.J.S.A. 18A:4-15 provides that:

> The State Board shall make and enforce, and may alter and repeal, rules for its own government and for implementing and carrying out the school laws of this state under which it has jurisdiction.

And, at N.J.S.A. 18A:4-16, the law provides that:

> The State Board shall have all powers, in addition to those specifically provided by law, requisite to the performance of its duties.

Pursuant thereto, the State Board provided for the waiver of "troublesome rules" in order for local boards of education to develop cost effective solutions to vexing problems. Specifically, the Commissioner approved the Board's request through the equivalency and waiver process for

N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f) and N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)1.i. (Attachment "B"). The Commissioner, in his approval said that:

> The equivalency and waiver process is a means for school districts to seek immediate relief from troublesome rules and to develop innovative approaches and cost effective solutions to meet the individual needs of the school district. I am pleased that you chose to participate in this important initiative. (Attachment "B").

The Commissioner, in a subsequent approval, waived the requirements at N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.4(d) to allow the Board's CST to determine which assessments are appropriate for initial evaluations. (Attachment "D"). Consequently, there is no need to address those decisions or case law relied upon by petitioner. The Commissioner's imprimatur for the Board's waivers puts to rest the arguments in those cited cases.

This, I CONCLUDE that the Board's action to contract with the Salem County Special Services School District to perform the functions of its required school social worker services was proper and in accordance with the Commissioner's authority.

I CONCLUDE that the Board's action to abolish petitioner's position of school social worker was taken pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 for reasons of economy and in no manner violated her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 nor was the action in contravention of her seniority rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 to -12.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that Summary Decision is hereby GRANTED to the BOARD and that petitioner's Motion for Summary Decision is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Reply exceptions were untimely filed by respondent and are, therefore, not considered herein.[1]

Petitioner renews her contention that pursuant to Impey, supra, and its progeny, a local board of education may not contract for Child Study Team (CST) services performed by core team members, i.e., by school psychologists, school social workers and learning disabilities teacher consultants, who must by law be employed by the district. (Exceptions at p. 3) Even granting, however, that services may be provided by such an outside entity, in the case of a waiver, petitioner next asserts that the condition set by the Commissioner in granting the waiver was not met and, therefore, the District's failure to comply with its own stated objectives and the waiver condition negates the waiver.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes initially that N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f), 6:28-3.4(d) and 6:28-5.1(c), as well as Impey, supra, and its progeny, do, in fact, require a social worker to be a member of the core CST and do, in fact, require such members to be employees of the district or of another district through joint agreement. However, in this instance,

[1] Respondent's exceptions, due on September 9, 1997, were received in the Office of the Commissioner on September 15, 1997. In that there was no indication by respondent that they were faxed or proof that they were otherwise filed prior to September 15, 1997, they may not be considered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(a).

N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f) and 6:28-5.1(c) were waived by the Commissioner and clearly the intent of that waiver was to also waive the requirement of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.4(d) with respect to District employment, notwithstanding that this particular regulation was omitted from the citation list effectuating the District's request. Therefore, petitioner cannot prevail in her argument that, notwithstanding the waiver, regulation and case law prevented the District from contracting out for core CST services on this basis.

As to petitioner's argument that the waiver was invalidated by the Board's failure to meet the condition under which it was granted, i.e., implementation of the county superintendent's plan for the description of services required for the district, the Commissioner holds that, even if it could be found in retrospect that, as events subsequently transpired, the Board failed to meet the condition imposed, its action to reduce petitioner's employment at the time the waiver was granted would still have been proper and petitioner would have no claim to reinstatement and back pay. Rather, the appropriate remedy for a demonstrated failure to meet waiver conditions would be an action on the part of the Commissioner to rescind the waiver in the event the noncompliance remains uncorrected.[2]

Accordingly, the initial decision dismissing the petition of appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, as amplified above. However, in light of the unresolved issues raised in this matter relating to possible noncompliance with the waiver's stated condition, the Commissioner hereby directs the Salem County Superintendent to inquire into the Board's provision of required social services, and to take such action as he deems appropriate should he find any deficiency in the Board's compliance.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF SALEM, SALEM COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 17, 1997

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Klausner & Hunter (Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, John T. Barbour, Esq.

This is an appeal from a summary decision in favor of the Board of Education of the City of Salem (hereinafter "Board"). The Board had applied to the Commissioner of Education for a waiver of two rules which we had adopted with respect to special education. The first regulation required that members of the basic child study team be employed, either independently or through joint agreement, by district boards of education in sufficient numbers to ensure the provision of required programs and services. N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f). The second established a level of diagnostic assessment that had to be provided by restricting contracted services to independent child study team evaluations and/or diagnostic services to supplement existing local district services. N.J.A.C. 6:28-5.1(c)1i. In combination, these two waivers removed the regulatory barriers to subcontracting for social worker services. As a result, the Board terminated its regular social worker and planned to contract out for social work services. The social worker, Helen O'Neal (hereinafter "petitioner"), who had achieved tenure in the district as a result of such service, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner, alleging that the Board had violated her tenure and seniority rights in abolishing her position.

The Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") concluded that the matter was ripe for summary decision. He found that the Board's action to contract with the Salem County Special Services School District for school social worker services was proper given the Commissioner's grant of a waiver from regulatory requirements which would otherwise have precluded such contracting. Accordingly, the ALJ concluded that the Board had acted properly for reasons of economy in abolishing petitioner's position and that it had not contravened petitioner's tenure or seniority rights.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination with modification. Initially noting that case law and regulation require a social worker to be a member of the core child study team employed by the district or of another district through joint agreement, the Commissioner stressed that the requirements of the regulations had been waived. The Commissioner corrected the waiver to include N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.4(d) (requiring that initial evaluation must include assessment by a school social worker employed by the school) and concluded that petitioner could not prevail on her argument that regulation and case law prevented contracting in this instance.

The Commissioner also rejected the petitioner's contention that the waiver was invalidated by a failure of the Board to meet the conditions of the waiver, emphasizing that such failure might invalidate the waiver but would not provide a claim to petitioner. However, the Commissioner directed the Salem County Superintendent to inquire into the Board's provision of required social work services and to take appropriate action in the event that he found any deficiency in the Board's compliance with the terms of the waiver.

Petitioner appealed to the State Board of Education, renewing her argument that the regulations and case law precluded contracting in this case. Petitioner maintains that the subcontracting was unlawful because the Board lacked the authority to provide basic child study team services by contract with a private vendor. She further argues that the Salem Board failed to comply with the conditions of the waiver and that it could not meet the needs of the school district for mandated social work services.

We have carefully reviewed the record in this matter and conclude that the ALJ and the Commissioner acted properly in granting summary decision to the Board.

Initially, we concur with petitioner that the statutory framework applicable herein precludes the contracting of the services at issue to a private vendor. However, that is not what occurred in this instance. Rather, the record establishes that the Board in this case contracted with the Salem County Special Services School District to provide the required services. In this respect, we stress that a special services school district is a public entity authorized by statute to provide such services. Nor has the petitioner offered proof or a concrete example of any failure by the Board to provide mandated services to the pupils of the school district. Under these circumstances, the Board was entitled to summary decision.

We therefore affirm the Commissioner's decision. However, in doing so, we emphasize that N.J.A.C. 6A:14-1 et seq. became effective on July 6, 1998, and that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:14-4.10(f), the waiver at issue here expired on that date.

PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF ABSECON, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board of Education appealed action of City Council reducing, by $179,068.58, the tax levy of $5,201,617 proposed for 1997-98 school budget. Because Board had proposed budget at minimum level necessary to meet statutory requirement for "local share" under the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA), City was prohibited from reducing line-item appropriations; consequently, it acted to increase allocations from surplus, from $75,000 to $254,069. City contended Board erred in not applying to an anticipated program for reduction of the required minimum local share in certain districts affected by transfer of lease purchase payments to the debt service fund.

Commissioner initially noted that the Board had not, in fact, taken advantage of the tax levy reduction program offered, and that, in the event, the program was not enacted by the Legislature. Thus, there is no current statutory authority for exception to the requirements of CEIFA. Commissioner found that City's action to reallocate surplus, while permissible under CEIFA, would leave the Board herein in the untenable position of having no undesignated, unreserved surplus at all, whereas the amount of surplus proposed by the Board ($179,069) represented an appropriate level of about 2.8% of the General Fund Budget Commissioner rejected City's attempt to identify line items where reductions could be made so as to avoid depleting surplus, finding such attempt to be impermissible under CEIFA. Reduction to tax levy was ordered restored, for a total levy of $5,201,617 as proposed by the Board.

RESPONDENT.	:

For the City Council, Tuohy and Tuohy (Michael J. Blee, Esq.)

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 12, 1997 through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Absecon Board of Education (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the City Council of the City of Absecon (City) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 15, 1997.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $5,201,617 for the 1997-98 school year. On May 15, 1997, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the City adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $5,022,548.42 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the District. This amount represented a reduction of $179,068.58 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through an increase in appropriation of surplus, consistent with the directive of the State Department of Education that appropriations could not be reduced since the amount proposed by the Board represented the minimum tax levy required to meet the statutory local share of the cost of providing T&E. (As set forth below, however, the City concurrently contended that this statutory minimum levy could be reduced by the Commissioner, or alternatively, that equivalent reductions could be effectuated through a total of fourteen line items for the reasons stated.) By resolution dated June 3, 1997, the Board determined to appeal the City's reduction and duly filed the within petition.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are thus as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by City
General Fund	$5,201,617.00	General Fund	$5,022,548.42
Amount of Reduction by City		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$ 179,068.58	General Fund	$ 179,068.58

An answer to the Board's petition was filed by the City on July 10, 1997, together with an addendum explaining what the City believed to be an unusual circumstance related to the appeal. On July 14, 1997, the City filed its position statement required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-7.8, followed by a response to the Board's position on August 8, 1997 and a final summation on August 18, 1997. The Board submitted a combined position statement and response on July 29, 1997, and elected not to file a final summation thereafter.

In addition, as the parties had been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 16, 1997, distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats and again in conjunction with proceedings herein, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner is taking official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report to be filed by August 1 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10, as well as applicable portions of the School Report Card and the Comparative Spending Guide. That same notice further provided that official notice would be taken of the annual audit for purposes of verifying surplus information given in the June 30 report and any prior year data relied upon by the Commissioner in making his determinations.

Consistent with the above, upon receipt of the City's summation on August 18, 1997, the record of the within appeal was closed and the matter duly proceeded to determination herein.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education. The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such thorough and efficient system to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner's standard has historically been whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). However, on December 20, 1996, the Legislature enacted the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA), wherein a prescribed level of expenditure range was established as sufficient for provision of T&E. Appeal of General Fund budget amounts in excess of that range, following voter defeat and municipal reduction, was expressly restricted to grounds of negative impact on the stability of the district given the need for long-term planning and budgeting, while budgets within the established range could be appealed on either stability or T&E grounds; budgets proposed or reduced below the established range required automatic review by the Commissioner and a showing by the governing body that reduction would not negatively impact the district's stability or its ability to provide T&E. (P.L. 1996, c. 138; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 et seq.)

In the present instance, the Board proposed a General Fund budget below the T&E amount established for the District pursuant to CEIFA. Accordingly, the within review is a mandatory one, and the burden of proof lies with the City.

Additionally, CEIFA provides for support of the public schools through a combination of State aid and a minimum level of local resources ("required local share").

The latter is individually calculated for each district and establishes the minimum tax levy that must be certified to support the district's base budget. In the present instance, the amount proposed by the Board, $5,201,617, represents that minimum amount.

POSITIONS OF THE PARTIES

The City argues that the Board was given the opportunity, by letter dated March 12, 1997, from the Department of Education's Director of Finance, to apply for an adjustment to the statutorily required minimum "local share" tax levy, based on the District's having been required by CEIFA to transfer lease purchase payments to the debt service fund so as to result in an overall increase in taxes when the unaided portion of the lease purchase payments was combined with the required local share. (City's Position Statement, Exhibit A) The Board failed to exercise this option, the City opines, then made spending increases over the prior year so as to reach the statutory minimum tax levy in an effort to circumvent the City's ability to make reductions. Later, when the City inquired about its ability to make reductions (City's Position Statement, Exhibit D), it was advised by letter from the Commissioner that no reductions could be made to appropriations, and that the amount of tax levy proposed by the Board represented the District's statutory minimum local share; however, that levy could be reduced by appropriation of additional general fund balance (surplus) or increase of miscellaneous revenue. (City's Position Statement, Exhibit E) Having determined that no increase to miscellaneous revenue was possible, the City contends that it took the only available option to respect the wishes of voters, who overwhelmingly rejected the proposed budget, and increased the appropriation from surplus. It also, however, identified specific line items in which it believed the District could make reductions so as to avoid having to appropriate the additional surplus. The City urges the Commissioner to preserve the sanctity of the voting process, and to not overlook the fact that the Board took advantage of a loophole in CEIFA by failing to exercise the option of lowering the minimum required tax levy when it was offered, regardless of the fact that the option was never incorporated as part of the FY 98 Appropriations Act.

The Board, in turn, argues that the City ignores both the clear dictates of the law and the programmatic, operational and stability needs of the District. It emphasizes that the tax levy reduction option offered to districts in March 1997 is, in fact, no longer available, and was not at the time the City made its reductions; and, further, that the District cannot reduce appropriations under CEIFA even if it could make the specific line-item adjustments proposed by the City, which it cannot without impairing T&E and stability. Ultimately, the City's action has left the District in an untenable position as to its reserve of undesignated surplus, and such action cannot be sustained herein.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the City's position in this matter essentially rests upon the Board's failure to apply for an adjustment to the statutorily required minimum tax levy under CEIFA, as it was advised it could do by the Department of Education; in effect, the City seeks to have that adjustment made by the Commissioner herein. In order to utilize this adjustment, the Board would have had to apply to the Commissioner prior to setting its budget, demonstrating to the Commissioner's satisfaction that a reduction could be made without detrimental impact on the district's educational offerings. The Board, however, voted not to exercise this option. In addition, the offer embodied in the Department's letter of invitation was expressly contingent on the inclusion of effectuating language by the Legislature, and its adoption by the Governor, in the FY 98 Appropriations Act; indeed, the letter specifically states that, should such language not be adopted, any reduction of tax levy made in anticipation of such adoption will be subject to adjustment (City's Position Statement, Exhibit A, page 2, paragraph 2). As events transpired, no district elected to apply to the program, so it was not necessary for the Legislature to include language authorizing adjustment of minimum tax levy, as set forth in the referenced letter, in the bill enacted as the FY 98 Appropriations Act (P.L. 1997, c. 131). Accordingly, the program anticipated by the Department became null and void from its outset, and there is no statutory basis on which the action sought by the City may be taken. The budget appeal process cannot serve as a forum for the City's redress, on its own behalf and that of the voters, of the Board's express discretionary determination not to apply for tax relief; that is a matter for which Board members will be held accountable at the annual school election.

In view of the above, within the context of the present proceedings, the provisions of CEIFA must control as a matter of law. As the City has previously been apprised by the Commissioner, CEIFA does not permit a governing body to make reductions to line-item appropriations in a defeated budget under the circumstances present herein; it may only increase allocations from surplus or amounts of miscellaneous revenue. Thus, the action taken by the City to increase allocations from surplus was permissible under CEIFA, but must now be subjected to scrutiny in terms of its impact on the District's budget.

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board had allocated $75,000 of unreserved surplus as revenue, leaving $179,069, or about 2.8% of its total general fund budget, as undesignated unreserved surplus. Both the Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board Secretary's report) and its annual audit reveal a surplus comparable to that projected by the Board in preparing its budget. Therefore, the Commissioner determines that appropriation of an additional $179,068.58 as proposed by the City, would leave the District in the entirely untenable position of having essentially no surplus at all. In this regard, the Commissioner notes the City's identification of fourteen line items where it believes the Board can make reductions so as to accommodate a reduced tax levy without depleting surplus. The Commissioner must reject this approach, however, as a "back door" means of effectuating reductions expressly prohibited by CEIFA, as well as prior Commissioner directive. Therefore, the City's action cannot be sustained and the tax levy proposed by the Board must be restored.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration of the City's increase to revenue as set forth below.

General Fund Tax Levy Certified by Governing Body:	$5,022,548.42
Restoration of Reduction to Tax Levy:	179,068.58
Amount of Restoration To Be Funded by Surplus:	N/A
Total General Fund Tax Levy for 1997-98:	$5,201.617.00

Accordingly, the Atlantic County Board of Taxation is directed to make the necessary adjustments as set forth above to reflect a total of $5,201,617 to be raised in tax levy for General Fund purposes of the Absecon Board of Education for the 1997-98 school year.

For Petitioner, Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey
(John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General, appearing)

For Respondents, Michael C. Epps, Esq., General Counsel for the Atlantic City Board of Education

WHEREAS, this matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on November 5, 1997, upon the filing by the Assistant Commissioner of a petition with form of order directing respondents to show cause as to why the Commissioner of Education should not issue an order requiring that the Atlantic City School District remove all fifth grade students from the New Albany Middle School (Albany Avenue School) by December 1, 1997, due to the inability of the district to provide a safe and appropriate environment for such students within that facility; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioner of Education issued said form of order on November 6, 1997, directing that it be served upon respondents within two (2) days thereafter, that respondents be afforded seven (7) calendar days from service to file an answer, and that petitioner be afforded four (4) calendar days from service of answer to file a reply; and

WHEREAS, the parties filed timely and substantial papers in response to the Commissioner's directive, including papers from the District detailing the actions it had taken and was continuing to take as part of its plan to ensure the suitability of the school building, as well as reply papers detailing the results of a site visit conducted by the Assistant Commissioner on November 17, 1997 in order to assess the progress made by the district in recent weeks; and

WHEREAS, such papers have now been reviewed, together with the petition and supporting materials submitted by the Assistant Commissioner, and, based upon such review, the Commissioner finds numerous causes for continued and even heightened concern, including the inadequacy of supervision and security in several regards, an assessment borne out by ongoing incidents of violence, including an incident during the site visit where one student was slashed by another and required hospital treatment as a result; the inadequate or non-operational state of equipment intended to enhance safety or necessary for health; the overcrowding of the cafeteria and gymnasium and the absence of certain programs such as library, computer lab and recess; the high rate of staff absenteeism, inability to obtain substitutes and mixed staff morale; and the inadequate or untimely provision of student educational materials; and

WHEREAS, under these circumstances, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding respondents' efforts to improve the safety and educational appropriateness of the New Albany Middle School, the school remains unsuitable for fifth grade students, who cannot be provided with the thorough and efficient education to which they are entitled by law in an environment where inadequate provisions have been made for their presence and where their health and safety are jeopardized on a daily basis; and

WHEREAS, the Commissioner has, further, carefully considered respondents' arguments as to the alleged negative impact of moving fifth grade students from the New Albany School at this time, including a need for additional transportation, the objection of certain parents, the costs and administrative difficulties associated with moving, disruption of programming for affected students at both the New Albany School and the schools to which students would be reassigned, loss of anticipated space for Pre-K programs, increased class size and the potential for staff reduction; and

WHEREAS, based upon review of the record, the Commissioner has found these concerns to be either without merit based on the alternative facilities available and their location, or of lesser importance when weighed against the ongoing threat to the students' health and safety that would result from their continued attendance at the New Albany School; and

WHEREAS, while cognizant of the district's efforts and the authority a board of education will ordinarily have over its own school system, as well as of the sentiments of certain segments of the community which have expressed support for the District herein, the Commissioner will not ignore his obligation to act on behalf of the children whose interests he is charged with protecting, when it has been clearly demonstrated to him that the local board of education cannot guarantee the basic safety and educational adequacy of the environment it is providing for those children; now therefore,

IT IS ORDERED this 19th day of November 1997, that respondents will immediately take such actions as are necessary to fully effectuate, by December 1, 1997, the removal of all fifth grade students from the New Albany Middle School.

PETITIONER-RESPONDENT,	:
V.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY AND DR. H. BENJAMIN WILLIAMS, SUPER-INTENDENT, ATLANTIC CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT-APPELLANT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, November 19, 1997

Decision on motion by the State Board of Education, November 26, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Michael C. Epps, Esq.

This matter involves an appeal filed by the Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City (hereinafter "Board") on November 25, 1997 from a decision of the Commissioner of Education directing that all fifth-grade students be removed from the Albany Avenue School by December 1, 1997. At the same time, the Board sought emergent relief from the State Board in the form of a stay of the Commissioner's order pending the State Board's decision on the merits of the underlying appeal. By letter dated November 26, 1997, we denied the Board's application because it did not meet the standards which would have entitled it to emergent relief.

The parties then filed their briefs on the merits. The Board filed its appeal brief on December 15, 1997, and a Deputy Attorney General filed an answer brief on behalf of Assistant Commissioner John Sherry, who is the respondent in this appeal.

By letter of February 27, 1998, we advised both parties that since the fifth-grade students had been removed from the Albany Avenue School by December 1, 1997, as had been directed by the Commissioner, the Legal Committee was recommending to the State Board that, in the absence of any objection, the appeal be dismissed. Neither party filed any objections to such dismissal. Therefore, because the appeal is moot, and in the absence of any objection, the State Board of Education dismisses the appeal in this matter.

		DECISION ON MOTION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY AND DR. H. BENJAMIN WILLIAMS, SUPERINTENDENT, ATLANTIC CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENTS.	:

For Movants-Respondents, Michael C. Epps, Esq., General Counsel for the Atlantic City Board of Education

For Respondent-Petitioner, Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey (John K. Worthington, Deputy Attorney General, appearing)

This matter comes before the Commissioner of Education by way of a motion, filed this date on behalf of respondents, seeking a stay pending appeal of the Order of November 19, 1997, directing that all fifth grade students be removed from the New Albany Middle School (Albany Avenue School) by December 1, 1997, due to the inability of respondents to provide a safe and appropriate environment for such students within that facility.

In their moving papers, respondents argue that they clearly meet the criteria for granting of a stay pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Respondents contend that they will suffer irreparable harm in the absence of a stay, as, should they prevail on the merits of their appeal, no recompense could be made for the cost and disruption attendant upon relocating the fifth grade students. They further contend that their legal right to the relief they request is well settled, as the discretionary authority of local boards of education to operate their districts without the Commissioner's substitution of his judgment for theirs is well established. Finally, they contend that the weighing of equities in this matter lies in their favor, as no harm will come to petitioner if a stay is issued, while respondents stand to suffer significant harm in the absence of a stay.

Respondents then renew the arguments made in conjunction with the prior order, including the history of the students' assignment to the former Atlantic City High School building as an attempt to comply with a corrective action plan imposed by the Department of Education while still meeting local needs, the fiscal constraints under which the district is currently operating, the disruption that will fall upon students uprooted mid-year from the physical and educational environment to which they are accustomed, the "ripple" effect of the move upon staff and students throughout the district, the efforts made by the district to improve safety within the building, the statements of support from parents and staff, and the limited interaction within the school building of the fifth graders and the older students who have been the source of the disciplinary problems that formed the primary basis for the Commissioner's directive.

Upon review, the Commissioner remains unpersuaded by respondents' arguments. While cognizant of respondents' efforts to improve the safety and educational appropriateness of the New Albany Middle School, and of the difficulties attendant upon moving a grade in mid-year under any circumstances, the Commissioner must still find that the safety and well-being of children takes precedence over these considerations. Nothing in respondents' papers would serve to refute the Commissioner's prior conclusion that the New Albany School remains unsuitable for fifth grade students, nor have any arguments been brought forth to counter the statements in the affidavit of the Assistant Commissioner noting the availability of alternative facilities that would minimize the disruption and cost anticipated by the district as a consequence of the move.[1]

This being so, the Commissioner cannot find that respondents have met the criteria for grant of a stay. To the contrary, it is the potential for harm to children in this matter that is truly irreparable, and far greater than any cost or inconvenience to the district that ensuring their safety might entail. Moreover, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the law is settled as claimed by respondents, as it is equally well established that a local board's authority to operate its own district is circumscribed by the Commissioner's broader authority to ensure provision of a safe and adequate environment for the delivery of a thorough and efficient system of education.

[1] In this regard, the Commissioner notes that the case relied upon by respondent for the proposition that the Commissioner has not previously supported mid-year moves, Bond v. Camden Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 577, 579, did not in any way involve issues of student health and safety, but rather involved an improper delegation of the board's decision-making authority.

Therefore, as in his prior order, the Commissioner here reiterates that where students are not receiving the thorough and efficient education to which they are entitled by law because they are placed by their local board of education in an environment where inadequate provisions have been made for their presence and where their health and safety are jeopardized on a daily basis, the Commissioner will not ignore his obligation to act.

Accordingly, respondents' motion for a stay of the Order of November 19, 1997, is DENIED, and respondents are once again directed to immediately take such actions as are necessary to fully effectuate, by December 1, 1997, the removal of all fifth grade students from the New Albany Middle School.

Respondents' request for oral argument is noted and denied as unnecessary to a determination in this matter.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JEAN HOFFER, DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

Mary F. Rubinstein, Deputy Attorney General for the Department of Corrections (Peter Verniero, Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Paul Muller, Esq., for Jean Hoffer (Weissman & Mintz, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 9, 1997 Decided: October 14, 1997

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the tenure charges filed by the Department of Corrections against the respondent, Jean Hoffer, for inappropriate behavior as a teacher. The petitioner requested a hearing. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 20, 1996, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to Administrative Law Judge Steven Reback, who had a number of conferences with the parties. The matter was scheduled for hearing on January 15 and 16, 1998.

On October 2, 1997, the respondent filed a motion for emergent relief. Judge Reback is on vacation and the motion was assigned to me. The oral argument on the motion was scheduled for October 9, 1997. On that date, the parties conferred and agreed to a settlement of the entire matter. The attached stipulation sets forth the terms of the settlement and is incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms, and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement, and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. I further note that the parties have agreed to waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

WHEREAS the parties agree to settle this matter, noting that the public policy of New Jersey strongly encourages settlement.

IT IS HEREBY AGREED AND STIPULATED by and between the parties to this action that this matter is settled for the following reasons:

1. The costs of continuing to prosecute the tenure claims against the Respondent Jean Hoffer are expected to be substantial.

2. The disruption of the routine at Edna Mahon Correctional Facility which would be occasioned by the continued litigation as well as any unwanted publicity which could result from this litigation outweigh any advantage to continuing the litigation in this matter.

3. The parties have reached a mutually acceptable agreement concerning the payment of salary and Respondent has agreed to waive attorneys fees.

4. Expeditious resolution of this matter will serve the needs of the students at Edna Mahon Correctional Facility by allowing the position formerly held by Ms. Hoffer to be filled, thus enhancing the educational environment in the correctional facility.

5. This agreement contains a provision for a resignation in good standing and a commitment not to seek further employment from the Department of Corrections, thus allaying any concerns raised by the tenure charges.

IT IS HEREBY AGREED AND STIPULATED by and between the parties to this action that this matter is settled in accordance with the following terms:

1. Jean Hoffer and the New Jersey Department of Corrections have reached an amicable and full settlement of any and all claims contained in the June 26, 1996 tenure charges.

2. The Department of Corrections agrees to restore Jean Hoffer to full pay status immediately, including the medical and dental coverage to which she would have been entitled as a full time employee, retroactively from the pay period ending May 9, 1997. The Department agrees to maintain that status until December 9, 1997. The Department agrees to forward a check for the amount of the retroactive salary on or before November 21, 1997.

3. Jean Hoffer shall submit a properly completed application for disability retirement on or before December 9, 1997.

4. The Department of Corrections agrees to support Ms. Hoffer's application for disability retirement by handling the application as expeditiously as possible.

5. Jean Hoffer agrees that on December 9, 1997 she will be resigned in good standing from her position as a tenured teacher with the Department of Corrections. Any outcome or decision on her application for disability retirement by the Division of Pensions and Benefits will have no effect on the resignation in good standing. Ms. Hoffer also agrees not to seek reemployment with the Department of Corrections.

6. Jean Hoffer shall withdraw her appeal of the charges contained in the June 26, 1996 letter and waives any right to a hearing.

7. Jean Hoffer agrees to waive any right to salary she would have received during the 120 days of unpaid leave following the certification of the charges against her.

8. The Department of Corrections agrees to withdraw the tenure charges against Jean Hoffer and have the respondent's personnel file and computer records reflect that the tenure charges filed against her were withdrawn by the Department of Corrections under a Settlement Agreement and that the 120 days of unpaid leave was not disciplinary in nature.

9. Nothing contained in this agreement shall be construed as an admission of liability by any party and shall not serve as a precedent in any subsequent matter.

10. The Respondent will not receive any counsel fees, costs or any monetary relief, other than the pay to which she is entitled, as a result of this settlement.

11. The parties agree to waive the filing of exceptions to the initial decision which would recommend the approval of the settlement agreement as a complete and final disposition of this matter.

12. The Respondent is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-33.6(a)1, the Commissioner of Education shall forward this settlement agreement to the State Board of Examiners for review and determination of possible revocation or suspension of Respondent's certificate. The State Board of Examiners may make new factual findings and issue an order to show cause and a statement of charges upon which revocation or suspension may be considered.

13. The parties acknowledge that this Agreement may not be consummated until approved by the Commissioner of Education. Any disapproval by the Commissioner of Education shall not interfere with the rights of either party to pursue this matter further.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DONALD YANDOLINO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF UNION, HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record and initial decision incorporating a joint stipulation of settlement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review of the full record of this matter and the terms of the proposed settlement agreement, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured. While the Commissioner allows parties broad latitude in crafting settlement agreements and may approve a settlement which limits the release of information concerning a party's performance and conduct while employed by the district, see Barbara Holder v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, Middlesex County, reversed State Board April 7, 1993, the Commissioner will not approve a settlement term that would expressly require a district to falsely represent that a resignation was in good standing.

Further, the Commissioner notes that the language of the settlement on its face does not appear to contemplate that the settlement document will become a matter of public record, as does a contested matter before the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, transmitted to the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 and N.J.A.C. 1:1-1. et seq.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the settlement terms or other appropriate action consistent with the discussion above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to hearing on the merits in accordance with applicable rules.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, Petitioner, v. STEPHEN GEORGE, Respondent.	On Referral from the Commissioner of Education STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

WHEREAS, petitioner, Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge (the "Board"), filed a Statement of Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence Under Oath (the "Tenure Charges") with the Commissioner of Education seeking, among other relief, the termination of the Board's employment of respondent, Stephen George; and

WHEREAS, respondent timely filed an answer to the Tenure Charges denying the allegations contained therein and disputing the Board's entitlement to the termination of respondent's employment or other relief; and

WHEREAS, the Board and respondent have conferred with respect to this matter and have mutually agreed upon certain terms by which this matter may be settled, such terms being set forth in this Stipulation of Settlement; and

WHEREAS, the settlement of this matter and the dismissal of the Tenure Charges is in the public interest and consistent with the policies of the Commissioner of Education because the Board will save the expense of prosecuting the Tenure Charges and since respondent is a non-certificated employee who is retiring from his employment, the Commissioner need not consider whether any additional remedies, such as the revocation of any certificate issued by the Commissioner, is appropriate in this case;

IT IS hereby stipulated and agreed by and between the Board and respondent as follows:

1. Respondent shall and hereby does resign from the employ of the Board effective as of July 1, 1997. In consideration of respondent's retirement, the Board shall pay respondent his salary through June 30, 1997, plus two additional month's of salary, plus the value of five (5) vacation days.

2. Respondent hereby waives all rights to continued employment or reemployment by the Board, including but not limited to any and all rights based on tenure and/or seniority and any and all rights to be recalled to employment by the Board or appear on any recall or other list of employees eligible for employment or reemployment by the Board. Respondent also hereby waives and releases any and all claims, whether known or unknown, against the Board which arise out of or relate to his employment by the Board, including but not limited to claims for unpaid salary or other employment benefits. Similarly, the Board hereby waives and releases any and all claims, whether known or unknown, against respondent which arise out of or relate to his employment by the Board.

3. This Stipulation of Settlement is subject to and contingent upon approval by the Board, such approval to be in the form of a resolution adopted by the Board. This Stipulation of Settlement is also subject to and conditioned upon approval by the Commissioner of Education.

* It is noted that Term 3 of the Settlement Agreement specifies that such agreement is subject to, and contingent upon, approval by the Board, in the form of a resolution. Because agency approval renders this settlement a final decision pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1(c)2, accord to its terms by all necessary parties must be accomplished prior to the Commissioner's approval. BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, an athletic trainer previously employed by respondent until her layoff, contests respondent's refusal to reappoint and restore her to her former position for school year 1996-97 and alleges that this violates her tenure and other rights. Petitioner filed a petition of appeal on November 15, 1996, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 11, 1996, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and was scheduled for a telephone prehearing conference on April 16,1997. At that conference, the attorneys indicated that they believed that the facts in this matter could be stipulated and that they would prepare a stipulation of facts for submission to the undersigned. When they could not agree to the stipulations, the matter was scheduled for status conferences on July 30, 1997 and September 11, 1997, and a hearing was scheduled for October 20 and 21, 1997.

The hearing date of October 20, 1997, was converted to a telephone settlement conference. When a settlement could not be effectuated on that date, the hearing scheduled for October 21, 1997, was commenced. Prior to the commencement of the hearing, the parties entered into additional settlement discussions and have agreed to settle this matter, and they have prepared the attached stipulation of settlement which is annexed hereto as Exhibit A indicating the terms of settlement. In addition, they set forth on the record the terms of the settlement, which are as follows:

1. The instant petition of appeal before the Commissioner of Education is hereby withdrawn.
2. The respondent Board of Education shall make a good faith effort to re-employ the petitioner in the first available position for which she is qualified and for which the respondent may choose to fill at its option. The parties agree that this stipulation of settlement is not a promise of employment, but that the petitioner will be assumed to be a qualified candidate in those areas of her certification and/or training. The respondent acknowledges that there will be an opening for a health and physical education teacher in January 1998. Respondent shall give due consideration to petitioner for this position upon application filed by petitioner and subject to proper certification.

Petitioner was placed under oath and indicated that she is entering into this stipulation of settlement voluntarily. Attorney for respondent represented that he had full authority to enter into this stipulation of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning education association and members alleged that Board of Education had acted outside the scope of its authority in creating the position of "registered nurse," which required a nursing license but no educational certification, that the Board and County Superintendent had erred in holding that County Superintendent approval was not necessary for such position, and that the position as implemented by the Board improperly usurped the role of the certified school nurse. Petitioners sought declaration from Commissioner that nursing services in the school setting must be provided by certified school nurse.

ALJ dismissed petition, finding no violation of law in the Board's action, holding instead that such action was within the scope of the Board's discretionary authority and was properly taken for reasons of economy and efficiency. ALJ further concluded that County Superintendent approval for the position was unnecessary, and that the position did not impermissibly require the holder to perform duties reserved to the school nurse.

Commissioner affirmed initial decision with amplification, drawing a distinction between those duties designated by statute or regulation as "school nursing services" and other nursing services provided in the school setting. The Commissioner held that the former must be provided by certified school nurses, while the latter may be provided by any qualified person, licensed and supervised, where the duties so require, in accordance with the nursing practice law (N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et seq.) The Commissioner found approval by the County Superintendent for establishment of noncertified professional nursing positions to be unnecessary, beyond reviewing proposed job descriptions to ensure that they do not include duties requiring educational certification. However, the Commissioner did find that, in the present instance, the distribution of duties between the school nurse and registered nurse resulted in vision and hearing tests independently being administered by the registered nurse, rather than by the school nurse with the assistance of the registered nurse, and directed the Board to reform its practice in this area.

Record Closed: August 8, 1997 Decided: August 19, 1997

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The Oldbridge Township Education Association and the individually named petitioners alleged that the Oldbridge Township Board of Education, respondent, has assigned an uncertified and unqualified person or persons to the duties of school nurse.

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for a determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

The petitioners assert the Board lacks the authority to create a position entitled Registered Nurse, that even if the Board has the authority to create the position, that it did so improperly because the position was not approved by the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools and, finally, even if the County Superintendent approved the position, she did so improvidently. The Board asserts it has the statutory authority to create the positions, that its discretion in creating the position is presumed valid and that it did seek the approval of the County Superintendent, but was advised that her approval was not necessary.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

On April 30, 1996, the Board approved creation of the position "Registered Nurse." The Board simultaneously adopted a job description for the position (Exhibit A).

By letter dated May 3, 1996, the Assistant Superintendent of Schools requested the approval of the Registered Nurse title by the Middlesex County Superintendent of Schools (Exhibit B). The County Superintendent of Schools replied on May 13, 1996 (Exhibit C), stating:

> . . . that it is not necessary to submit a request for approval for an unrecognized title for a registered nurse.
> A registered nurse may be hired by a district, as per your job description, to assist in the responsibilities of a certified school nurse.

The petitioners filed a verified petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education on March 22, 1996. They sought an order restraining the Board from using uncertified personnel to perform the duties of the position of school nurse, directing the Board to employ a sufficient number of certified school nurses in each of its schools to assure adequate provision of nursing services in each school and restraining the Board from maintaining the position of registered or any other type of nurse in any of its schools and requiring the Board to employ certified school nurses in each of its schools. This petition was directed at the Board's assignment of a registered nurse to the McDivitt School. On April 10, 1996, the Board filed an answer to the petition. The registered nurse subsequently left the position and the Board has not assigned a replacement registered nurse to the McDivitt School. For all intents and purposes, the first petition is moot.

On May 23, 1996, the petitioners filed a second verified petition of appeal with the same allegations and demands, this time with respect to the Board's assignment of a registered nurse to the Cooper School. On June 14, 1996, the Board filed its answer.

An order issued for good cause shown to permit the deposition of Sharon Lane, R.N., employed by the Board in the Cooper School. The deposition took place on January 30, 1997. Cooper has intervened and is a party hereto. The matter was scheduled for hearing on September 10 and 11, 1997. The Board moved and the petitioners cross-moved for summary decision. On August 8, 1997, the intervenor represented that she joined with the Board in its motion for summary decision.

ARGUMENTS

The Board

The Board argues that summary decision should be entered in its favor because there is no genuine issue as to any material fact. The Board possess the statutory authority to create the position of Registered Nurse and its exercise of that authority is presumed valid unless shown to be arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. The Board sought the approval of the County Superintendent of Schools for the Registered Nurse position and satisfied any obligation to obtain such approval.

Although not articulated in the petition, if the petitioners argue that the proper duties of the registered nurse position are an issue, the duties assigned to the position and actually performed by the registered nurse do not impinge on the duties reserved to certified school nurses. Because the creation and filling of the registered nurse position was within the Board's discretion and, at the same time, reduced the cost of its educational program, the decision is not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable and, therefore, should be upheld. As the registered nurse position is designed and as it is practiced, it is consistent with all applicable statutes and regulations. It does not impose on any protected rights or interests of the petitioners. Under these circumstances, summary decision should be granted to the Board and the petition should be dismissed.

The Petitioners

The petitioners assert that the position, either by its job description or by actual duties performed, constitutes the position of a certified school nurse. Although the Board argues that the registered nurse merely assists the school nurse in delivering nursing services to pupils, the petitioners insist that a registered nurse currently employed by the Board in fact performs certified school nurse duties.

The petitioners are entitled to summary judgment as a matter of law because there is no genuine issue with respect to any material fact. The facts being agreed upon or at least uncontested, the law requires a decision for the petitioners.

The registered nurses employed by the board are not merely assisting the certified school nurses in their duties, but are essentially performing the duties of the certified school nurses in violation of the law. In any event, the position of registered nurse was not properly approved by the County Superintendent of Schools as required by N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6. To the extent that the Board relies on statements by the County Superintendent that her approval of the position is not necessary, the law states otherwise and, even if the determination made by the County Superintendent is valid, it is not binding on the petitioners in this matter or on this tribunal. Furthermore, since the duties performed by the registered nurses are, in actuality, duties that require certification as a school nurse, the assertion concerning County Superintendent approval is wrong. Accordingly, the petitioners' motion for summary decision should be granted and the Board should be directed to cease employment of noncertified registered nurses and, instead, appoint certified school nurses to the contested positions.

DETERMINATION

One of the first considerations of nurse duties appears in Scrupski and Soden v. Bd. of Ed. of Warren Township., 1977 S.L.D. 1047. The Warren Township Board employed three school nurses. Two were employed full-time and the third was employed part-time. Each was certified. During the 1974-75 academic year, the Board decided to abolish one full-time position and the part-time position, both of which were held by nontenured petitioners. The Board then resolved to create five positions entitled "school health aide." The petitioners were notified of this. The Board submitted an application to the Office of the County Superintendent to secure approval for the five proposed positions. Eventually, the County Superintendent approved the application on a trial basis. He cautioned the board that the school health aide may not assume the duties and responsibilities of school nurse.

The Commissioner compared the job description of the school health aide with that of school nurse.

The Commissioner held that N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 requires every Board of Education to employ one or more school nurses. A school nurse is defined, at N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, as a teaching staff member. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 provides that no teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools unless the person is the holder of a valid certified to teach, administer, direct or supervising the teaching, instruction or educational guidance of, or to render or administer, direct or supervise the rendering of nursing service to, pupils in the public schools.

The requirements for possession of certificates to teach are established by State Board of Examiners. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38. The requirements for a school nurse certificate are set forth at N.J.A.C. 6:11-12.8. The certificate acquired pursuant to that rule authorizes the possessor to provide service as a school nurse and to teach areas related to health.

In the 1974-75 school year, the Warren Township Board employed two full-time school nurses and one part-time school nurse, each of whom was properly certified. These three persons were notified that their positions were to be eliminated. The Board then directed the superintendent to proceed with a plan for full nurse coverage, including one full-time certified school nurse and five school health aides, who were required to be registered nurses.

In Scrupski, the Commissioner held that the Board did not eliminate one and one-half school nurse positions, but relegated the one and one-half school nurse teaching positions to five teaching aide positions contrary to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.9(a). In sum, the Commissioner held that the Board replaced teaching staff members with aides. The Commissioner went on the observe that if the assigned duties of the school health aide were solely of a clerical nature, then there would be no sound reason to require the aide to also be a registered nurse. The Commissioner held that Board's actions improper and contrary to State Board rules and regulations. He made clear, however, that the holding did not preclude the Warren Township Board or any other board from eliminating teaching staff positions or from reductions in force providing those actions were consistent with the statutes and the positions properly eliminated. No board has authority to replace the duties of a teaching staff member by assigning those duties to an aide.

The schools of each school district are under the supervision and control of a local Board of Education. N.J.A.C. 18A:10-1. Boards of Education are statutory creatures and are designed to perform a State function at a local level. Therefore, their powers are derived from the Legislature and they can perform only those acts for which expressed or implied authority exists in law or in rules and regulations. N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 authorizes Boards to perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and State Board rules, necessary for the proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools. Dozens of statutes grant express powers. For example, N.J.S.A. 18A:49-1 authorizes Boards to establish and maintain public evening schools for the instruction of foreign born residents. Other powers are more generally derived from the plenary powers mentioned above. Among other things, the Board may reduce the number of its employees (a reduction in force or RIF) for reasons of economy or more efficient organization. A Board's action is presumed valid. K.L. v. Bd. of Ed. of Matawan-Aberdeen High School District, 91 N.J.A.R. 2nd (EDU) 74; Kopera v. West Orange Board of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The presumption, of course, is rebuttable. However, a party attacking the presumption must show by a preponderance of the evidence in the record that the complained of action was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or any of these.

In the present matter, the Board decided to establish registered nurse positions to assist school nurses. Not coincidentally, this would make possible a reduction in the number of school nurses and a concomitant reduction in salaries. N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(a) requires that school aides or classroom aides, assisting the in the supervision of pupil activities under the direction of a principal, teacher or other designated certified professional personnel, shall be approved by the county superintendent of schools. Inasmuch as school nurses are certified professional personnel and the registered nurses would work under their direction, the district sought the County Superintendent's approval. As noted in the factual background above, the County Superintendent advised that it was not necessary to submit a request for approval for unrecognized title for a registered nurse. The County Superintendent also advised that a registered nurse may be hired by a district, as per the Board's job description, to assist in the responsibilities of a certified school nurse. The latter statement relates directly to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(b) which states:

> Current rules require school districts employing aides to develop job descriptions and standards for appointment. These descriptions and standards should be based on study of local needs. The nature of the job descriptions will dictate the qualifications to be met, the proficiency standards needed, and the pay to be received.

The Board suggests that the County Superintendent's letter is an approval of the registered nurse position. Alternatively, if it is not an approval of the Registered Nurse position, then it is a determination by the County Superintendent that such approval is not necessary. I FIND that the County Superintendent determined in this regard that an approval under N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6 was not necessary.

The Board provided the Registered Nurse job description to the County Superintendent. The County Superintendent refers to the job description. She raised no question about the duties the job description contains as they relate to those duties reserved by statute or regulation to certified school nurses.

While it is clear that each school district must employ a certified school nurse, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2, there is no requirement that a certified school nurse be present in each school building. Bound Brook Ed. Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of Bound Brook, 1988 S.L.D. 352. Certain duties are reserved to certified school nurses even in schools where the nurse is not present. Plainfield Ed. Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of Plainfield, OAL Dkt. EDU 0278-81 (Nov, 9, 1982), adopted, Comm'r of Ed. (Dec. 27, 1992), aff'd, St. Bd. of Ed. (June 2, 1983).

Comparing the duties reserved to certified school nurses by statue and regulation with the duties identified in Exhibit D, I FIND no impermissible overlap.

The Commissioner has permitted the assignment of non-certified assistants to certified school nurses when the assistants were not performing duties reserved to certified school nurses. Bernards Ed. Ass'n v. Bd. of Ed. of Bernards Township, 1981 S.L.D. 1070, aff'd St. Bd. of Ed. 1982 S.L.D. 1443, aff'd N.J. App. Div. (May 18, 1983, A-4211-81T3) (unreported). In that case, the use of noncertified registered nurses as assistants to the certified school nurse was approved because they were under the direction of the certified school nurse and a "wholesale transfer," of certified school nursing duties was not involving as it had been in Scrupski, above. Indeed, a review of all cases on point clearly shows that assignment of a registered nurse as an assistant to the certified school nurse is permissible provided the assistant position is clearly that. This must be reflected in the job description. The certified school nurse must remain responsible for the duties reserved to her or him.

In consideration of the foregoing, I FIND:

1. The Old Bridge Township Board of Education created the noncertified title of Registered Nurse by resolution dated April 30, 1996;

2. The Board sought County Superintendent approval of the title before adoption but was advised that none was needed;

3. The job description simultaneously adopted sets forth with particularity the performance responsibilities of the position;

4. The job description states, and a fair reading of it makes clear, that a Registered Nurse assists one or more certified school nurses "in the efficient operation of the school health program";

5. The Board acted within the scope of authority delegated to it by the Legislature when it created the Registered Nurse position; and

6. There has been no showing that the Board's act was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that there has been no violation of statute or regulation as alleged in the petition of appeal. The Old Bridge Township Board of Education appropriately exercised authority granted to it by the Legislature. The act was not arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or done for a proscribed reason. The burden of proof not having been met, I CONCLUDE that the petition must be DISMISSED. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OLD BRIDGE TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION ET AL.,	:
PETITIONERS,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF OLD BRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by petitioners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, as were replies by the Board of Education.

In urging rejection of the initial decision, petitioners contend that the ALJ both erred in his ultimate findings and failed to offer a sufficient explanation for them, as required in the Administrative Procedure Act. Petitioners allege that, in making his judgments, the ALJ ignored a crucial factual document, i.e., the deposition of Sharon Lane demonstrating the breadth of duties she actually performed, as well as petitioners' arguments based upon it, and inexplicably closed the record prior to receipt of petitioners' timely brief filed in reply to the Board's cross motion for summary decision. Petitioners argue that an appropriate review of the full record of this matter will reveal that, even accepting arguendo that duties not reserved to a certified school nurse may in theory be performed by other appropriately licensed personnel, Ms. Lane's deposition demonstrates that such a distinction will not work in practice and that performance by other staff of any duties which are not in the nature of those assigned to an aide will inevitably result in the duties of a certified school nurse being performed by a noncertificated person, contrary to law.

The Board, in turn, urges acceptance of the initial decision as procedurally sufficient, legally correct and fully supported by the factual record, including the deposition cited by petitioners.

Upon review, the Commissioner initially finds that, while the ALJ may not have set forth at length the factual and legal analysis underlying his conclusions with respect to the contents of Ms. Lane's deposition, such does not rise to the level of invalidating the decision, nor does it impede the Commissioner's ability to make a determination in this matter. Further, upon consideration of applicable law, the record of the contested case, the arguments of parties and sound educational policy, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ and the Board that, apart from those specific statutory and regulatory duties that expressly require performance by a "school nurse," health and related services in the school setting not necessitating an educational certificate may be provided by any appropriately licensed health professional supervised in accordance with the terms of their licensure.

It is clear that under the education laws, each school district must employ at least one school nurse, who must be appropriately certified by the State Board of Examiners and is considered a teaching staff member for purposes of salary, tenure and evaluation. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, 18A:26-2, 18A:1-1, 18A:28-5, 18A:29-4.2; N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, 6:3-4.1/3, 6:29-1.2(b)[1] The duties expressly reserved to "school nurses" are recognized as "school nursing services" pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1, and include lecturing to teachers on recognition and prevention of communicable disease and other health concerns (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1vi), maintaining pupil health records and assisting the medical inspector with physical examinations, including vision and hearing exams (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-4; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1i, 6:29-1.2(b)1iv, 6:29-2.1), examining pupils for the presence of scoliosis (18A:40-4.3; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1ii), recommending exclusion from school due to illness or exposure to disease (18A:40-7/8; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)1v), reporting, receipt of reports and examinations in instances of suspected substance abuse (18A:40A-12, N.J.A.C. 6:29-6.5), vision screenings, health appraisals and various consultative functions with respect to evaluation for and provision of special education services (N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.2 et seq., 6:28-11.3 et seq.), audiometric screening (N.J.S.A. 18A:40-4; N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b)iii, 6:29-5.1), maintaining awareness of safe procedures for handling of body fluids (N.J.A.C. 6:29-2.5), accessing employee health records when permitted by the employee (N.J.A.C. 6:29-7.4), serving as liaison to the local board of health on issues relating to pregnancy and prenatal health (N.J.A.C. 8:52-5.3), administration of Snellen vision screenings for special learner's permits for obtaining a driver's license (N.J.A.C. 13:21-7.1 et seq.), testing for tuberculosis infection (N.J.A.C. 6:29-2.3), and completion or approval, as designated thereon, of health forms required to be submitted to the State. Additionally, where so assigned, the school nurse will provide instruction to students within the limitations of the school nurse endorsement (N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2; N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.7, 6:29-4.2).[2]

As these services are both required by law and, apart from pupil instruction, specifically reserved to certificated school nurses, each board of education must employ a sufficient number of such nurses to ensure their adequate provision. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, 18A:40-3.1 However, where education law is silent on the provision of specific nursing services and support functions related to them, and such services do not otherwise require educational certification, there is nothing to prevent a board of education from duly determining, for reasons of economy or efficiency, that these nursing services will be provided by health professionals who hold the requisite license from, and are supervised in accordance with the requirements of, the Board of Nursing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et seq., but are not additionally certified by the State Board of Examiners. Communications Workers of America, Local 1033 v. New Jersey Department of Education, Marie H. Katzenbach School for the Deaf, decided by the State Board of Education, April 1, 1992, 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 326 Additionally, there is nothing to prevent duly licensed professionals or other qualified persons (e.g., clerical aides) from assisting certificated school nurses in the performance of duties reserved by law to such nurses, so long as they do not actually perform the function at issue except as delegated by the school nurse, and so long as professionals practicing under authority of a license are supervised in accordance with any conditions specified by the terms of that license.

[2]It is noted that noncertificated nurses may serve as resource persons for family life programs pursuant to 6:29-4.2(h), but may not actually instruct pupils.

With regard to the question of County Superintendent approval for establishment of the position of "registered nurse," the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that no such approval is necessary. Noncertificated health care positions entailing duties requiring professional licensure are not "unrecognized titles" within the intendment of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3, which applies to certificated teaching staff positions and provides a mechanism for identifying the appropriate recognized educational (legal) title for such positions so as to determine the particular certificate and endorsement that will be necessary to hold it. Nor are they "paraprofessional aides" requiring approval pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6. In the case of positions to be held by licensed health care professionals, review by the County Superintendent would be limited to assessment of the job description at hand to advise as to whether, on its face, such description includes duties necessitating a school nurse endorsement or other educational certificate in addition to, or instead of, the license proposed by a board. However, the County Superintendent has neither the authority nor the expertise to determine the appropriateness of the nursing license proposed for the specified duties, such being the purview of the Board of Nursing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 13:37-1.1 et seq.

In the instant matter, then, as concluded by the ALJ, the Board acted within the scope of its lawful discretionary authority to design a nursing position where the job duties do not, on their face, usurp functions reserved to the certified school nurse. Neither did it need the County Superintendent's approval to establish this position, once it was determined that the job description did not facially require duties reserved to the holder of a school nurse endorsement or other educational certificate.

As correctly noted by petitioners, however, that does not end the inquiry herein. Once a noncertificated nursing position is designed and established, its actual implementation must still conform to applicable education law. Here, petitioners claim that the deposition of Sharon Lane demonstrates a lack of such conformance, and further contend that, as a distinction between certified and noncertified nursing services cannot be maintained in practice, the only appropriate remedy is a directive that all nursing services in the school setting be performed by certified school nurses.

The Commissioner has carefully considered petitioners' argument and reviewed the deposition of Ms. Lane in light of it. Upon such review, the Commissioner is ultimately unpersuaded by petitioners' claim, as he finds that virtually all of the instances where petitioners allege usurpation of the role of the certified school nurse are based upon the district's job description for that position, or upon prior case law rooted in analysis of tenure rights and allegations that boards had attempted to thwart them through hiring of aides, rather than upon the statutory and regulatory limitations on a board's authority where employment claims are not at issue. The fact that a registered nurse may be assigned to a particular school, work alone for most of the time, report to school administrators rather than the school nurse, have contact with pupils, parents and other medical professionals, and fulfill many of the functions performed by school nurses in the buildings to which they are assigned, does not, in itself, create a violation of education law; rather, it reflects the fact that school nurses can and do perform a variety of services in their positions that do not necessarily require educational certification or direct reporting to a senior medical professional. On the other hand, a board may not, as the Board herein clearly has done with vision and hearing tests for the school to which Ms. Lane is assigned, have its noncertificated nurse independently performing functions reserved to the school nurse and then simply have the school nurse review and approve the results; the role of the noncertificated nurse in such functions must be clearly limited to provision of assistance.[3]

The Commissioner believes, however, that duties can be divided and assignments maintained that will preserve this distinction. He declines, therefore, to hold that all nursing services provided in the school setting must be performed by a certified school nurse, but stresses that the job description and assignment of any noncertified

[3] It is noted that this role does not necessarily require an organizational structure where the noncertificated nurse reports to, or is evaluated by, the school nurse whom he or she is assigned to assist. However, in devising such structures, care must be taken that the separate supervision and delegation requirements of nursing law are considered and applied.

providers may not require or permit them to actually perform functions specifically reserved by law to the school nurse, except as delegated by him or her, or which otherwise require educational certification, and that all such providers must, where required, be appropriately licensed and supervised in accordance with N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et seq.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law dismissing the petition of appeal is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, as amplified above. Consistent with the decision herein, however, the Board is directed to revise its assignments with respect to vision and hearing tests so as to ensure that they are provided in conformance with the requirements of law.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter hereby agree to amicably resolve the disputes between them, in particular the matters now pending before the Commissioner of Education and Office of Administrative Law, Agency Docket No. 49-2/97 and OAL Docket No.: EDUOR 02849-97S, and before the United States District Court, District of New Jersey, under Civil No. 96-5432 (JBS), subject to the terms and conditions set forth below:

1. For purposes of this agreement, Defendants Board of Education of the Cape May County Technical School District and Wilbur Kistler shall hereinafter both be referred to as the Board, and plaintiff John DiMenna shall hereinafter be referred to as the employee.

2. The Board agrees to pay the employee the gross amount of $20,316.00, subject to standard and ordinary deductions.

3. The amount to be paid to the employee is based upon the gross amount of $24,700.00 in lost salary for the period of September 1, 1996 through his return to employment in March of 1997, less unemployment benefits received by the employee in the amount of $5,740.00, plus $1,156.00 which the employee and/or plaintiff Eileen DiMenna were compelled to pay or lost as the result of the loss of health insurance benefits which were not provided to the employee and his dependents between the period of September 1, 1996 until his return to employment, plus $200.00 additional damages due to out of pocket medical expenses and work search costs.

4. A. The total sum to be paid therefore amounts to $20,316.00, and the parties agree that this constitutes lost salary in the amount of $24,700.00, minus unemployment benefits in the amount of $5,750.00, plus the additional damages described above.

B. The parties recognize that employee received unemployment benefits in the total amount of $9,412.00 between July 6, 1996 and January 4, 1997, that the sum of $5,740.00 is attributable to benefits paid to employee during the school year, and that the sum of $3,672.00 is attributable to unemployment benefits paid to employee during the summer months.

5. The monies paid to the employee shall be deemed to constitute back-pay, with a credit to the Board for unemployment benefits that the employee received in the amount of $5,740.00.

6. If the Department of Labor, Bureau of Benefits payment control or any other State agency seeks repayment or reimbursement for any unemployment benefits paid to the employee, the Board agrees to reimburse the Department of Labor, Bureau of Benefits Payment Control, and any other State agency for such unemployment benefits which were paid to the employee to the extent of $5,740.00, and to hold harmless and indemnify the employee for any unemployment benefits that the employee is required to repay up to the maximum amount specified herein.

7. The Board agrees to recognize and credit the employee with seniority credit retroactive to September 1, 1996, as if the employee had been employed for the entire 1996-97 school year, and that such credit and recognition shall not reduce or limit seniority acquired by the employee prior to or after the 1996-97 school year.

8. The employee shall be entitled to all benefits, which includes sick leave, pension credit in the New Jersey Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund, and personal days, retroactive to September 1, 1996, as if employed for the entire 1996-97 school year, without reduction or limitation of benefits acquired prior to or after the 1996-97 school year.

9. The parties agree that the employee shall pay the employee's share of pension contributions to the Teachers' Pension & Annuity Fund for the period of September 1, 1996, through his return to employment in March of 1997, that the employer shall not be liable for the employee's share thereof, that the employee shall not be liable for the employer's share thereof, that the State will contribute the employer's share of pension contributions if it agrees to do so, and that if the State does not contribute the employer's share of pension contributions, the Board shall contribute the employer's share of such contributions.

10. No party to this action, nor any of any party's agents, officers, representatives, or employees shall take or permit any adverse action to be taken against any other party because of the filing or defense of this litigation, the settlement of this litigation, or because of any acts or omissions of any party which were alleged to have occurred or to be related to this litigation.

13. This Settlement Agreement resolves all claims between the parties arising from the termination of employee's employment which took effect June 30, 1996, and regarding the employee's allegation that defendants acted unlawfully in terminating the employee's position or abolishing his employment, and in failing to retain the employee instead of any other employee. Plaintiffs waive their right to seek attorney's fees and costs pursuant to the Civil Rights Act or any other Federal or State law. Appropriate dismissals will be filed with the respective courts.

Record Closed: October 6, 1997 Decided: October 22, 1997

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This matter arises from a filing by the Winslow Township Board of Education ("petitioner") of tenure charges against Anthony Puca ("respondent") with the Commissioner of Education on February 3, 1997. The matter was transmitted from the Department of Education to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on February 25, 1997, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was held on May 8, 1997, resulting in the issuance of an Order of Inactivity, dated July 1, 1997, placing the matter on the inactive list for six months or until the disposition of pending criminal charges against the respondent. By letter of August 15, 1997, Counsel for the petitioner requested that the tenure charges against respondent be reinstated because of a Judgment of Conviction entered against respondent on July 17, 1997. A telephone status conference was held on September 29, 1997.

Having reviewed the record and based upon Anthony Puca having been convicted of a crime of the second degree, Endangering the Welfare of a Child, N.J.S.A. 2C:24-2a, and thereby automatically forfeiting his position as a teacher with the Winslow Township Board of Education in accordance with N.J.S.A. 2C:51-1(a), and for good cause shown, it is hereby ORDERED that this matter be removed from the inactive list and be DISMISSED AS MOOT. It is further ORDERED that Anthony Puca's name be referred to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)2, for such further proceedings as the Board may deem appropriate.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.*

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the within tenure matter is properly dismissed as moot, in that respondent has forfeited his position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. This matter shall be referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6 for action against respondent's certificate, as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

* Respondent's submission does not take exception to the initial decision, but asks the Commissioner to acknowledge that respondent's conviction for Endangering the Welfare of a Child is on appeal before the Appellate Division of the New Jersey Superior Court, and that said conviction may be reversed by the Superior Court, thereby compelling the restoration of his employment. However, the Commissioner would appear to be without jurisdiction to determine respondent's rights under N.J.S.A. 2C:51-2 and, therefore, offers no comment on respondent's contention in the present context.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WILLINGBORO, BURLINGTON COUNTY,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, three tenured payroll clerks, alleged the Board voted to terminate them in a reduction in force while retaining nontenured, less senior and/or nonqualified personnel in job titles for which petitioners were fully qualified and for which they claimed entitlement by virtue of their tenure rights.

In light of the testimony of witnesses and the evidence in the record, the ALJ found that the Board violated the tenure rights of petitioners under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2 and that the Board owed a duty to petitioners not only to offer other positions to petitioners, but also to notify them in a clear and unequivocal manner that they were required to take steps to demonstrate their qualifications for those positions. ALJ ordered that petitioners be placed in clerk typist or class 4 secretarial positions previously held by nontenured personnel. ALJ further ordered that petitioners be made whole for any loss of salary and/or emoluments resulting from the failure to appoint petitioners to the positions to which they were entitled by virtue of their tenure rights and be appointed to the disputed positions with compensation. ALJ found that this dispute was not controlled by the collective bargaining agreement and that neither any arbitrator's decision nor the decision of PERC on the issue of whether the payroll systems administrator was a confidential position had any legal effect in this matter.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record Closed: September 29, 1997 Decided: October 23, 1997

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioners who were tenured payroll clerks employed by respondent allege that respondent voted to terminate them in a reduction in force (RIF) while retaining non-tenured, less senior and/or nonqualified personnel in job titles for which petitioners are fully qualified and for which they claim they are entitled by virtue of their tenure rights. Petitioners filed a petition of appeal on July 26, 1996, and respondent filed an answer thereto on July 31, 1996. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on August 8, 1996, for hearing as a contested case. The matter was assigned to the undersigned Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) on September 17, 1996, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for October 24, 1996. On that date a telephone prehearing conference was held and concluded and a prehearing order was entered. The matter was scheduled for hearing on March 24, 25 and 26, 1997.

Prior to the scheduled hearing, at the request of attorney for respondent, an order amending the prehearing order was entered.

On February 5, 1997, attorney for respondent filed a motion for summary decision which pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(c) was submitted to the ALJ on February 19, 1997. A decision denying the motion was orally entered on March 24, 1997, the first scheduled hearing date. Hearings were held on March 24 and 25, 1997. The hearing scheduled for March 26, 1997, was adjourned due to the unavailability of a witness for petitioner. The matter was rescheduled to May 8, 1997. On May 8, 1997, the matter was heard and concluded. The record remained open to permit the parties to submit written closing arguments. Upon the submission of these closing arguments, the record was originally closed on August 12, 1997. The record was reopened on September 26, 1997, to permit the submission of missing documents in evidence. Upon the receipt of these documents, was again closed on September 29, 1997.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

The essential allegations of petitioners are that the respondent voted to "RIF"[1] them while retaining nontenured, less senior and less qualified personnel in job titles for which petitioners are fully qualified and to which they are entitled by virtue of their tenure rights in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2. In response, respondent alleges that it offered other positions to petitioner and they refused to take steps to demonstrate that they are qualified to hold these other positions, and as a result petitioners have waive any claims to these and any other positions.

It should be noted that the determination to deny respondent's motion for summary decision at the commencement of this proceeding was based upon the conclusion that this matter involves factual determinations which must be made as result of hearing testimony and evidence in this matter.

Petitioner, Stephen M. Kling testified that he was first employed in 1975 through June 1976 as a substitute clerk typist. He then was reemployed in 1977 as a payroll clerk until the RIF on June 30, 1996. His job title at the time of the RIF was payroll clerk. He indicated that he took two straight typing tests, one in 1975 and another in 1987. The first was for a substitute clerk typist position, but he cannot remember what the requirement was or how many words per minute he typed. He presumed he passed the test because he was given the position. He also took a typing test in 1987 and, to his knowledge, he passed it.

Mr. Kling testified that he did a great deal of work with pensions which required typing correspondence, filling out forms and preparing letters. He would also typ payroll work sheets, cash receipts and case payments journals, checks and memos. He typed 25 to 30 letters per month to the Division of Pensions. At first the payroll office was not computerized and much of the payroll work had to be done on a typewriter. At the time of the RIF the office was computerized and typing at a computer was a requirement of the payroll clark position. William Green, a member of management, was aware of what Mr. Kling's duties were on a day-to-day basis. Mr. Green started in 1991 or 1992 and before him William Stewart was the member of management who supervised payroll. Mr. Kling testified that he knows he successfully passed the typing test because he was hired as a substitute clerk typist, and this fact should be indicated on his employment records.

Mr. Kling testified that the first time he was officially notified he was being RIFFED was by a letter of April 30, 1996 (P-2). He recalled that it was April 30, 1996 that they received this notice. He was tenured because he had been employed eight and one-half years. He testified that there were a number of individuals who were not tenured but retained. He indicated that Dawnya

Ruff was moved to a secretarial position at the Willingboro High School from an accounts payable clerk position. He testified that there were quite a few other positions but he cannot recall their names.

Mr. Kling testified that a meeting occurred on May 10, 1996 (P-3) with Mr. McLaughlin, Personnel Administrator for the School District. The gist of the meeting was to tell Mr. Kling that he was going to be placed in the kitchen bookkeeper job. Mr. McLaughlin explained that this was the position that was available to Mr. Kling. Mr. Kling questioned why he would not be offered a job as a clerk typist as opposed to a ten-month position and Mr. McLaughlin said that this was the only position available to him and that it was either this or nothing.

Mr. Kling testified that the memo he received from Mr. McLaughlin dated May 14, 1996 (P-3) was puzzling to him because he told Mr. McLaughlin that he had already taken the typing test. As a result he was confused and he called Mr. McAndrew who was his union representative and Mr. McAndrew then spoke to Mr. McLaughlin. He indicated that when he received the memo (P-3) it was not his understanding that he was being required to take a typing test.

Mr. Kling next received a memo from Mr. McLaughlin dated May 22, 1996 (P-4). His reaction to this was that Mr. McLaughlin was saying that he was encouraging Mr. Kling and the others to take the test, but his understanding was that it was not required. When he received this second memo he again called Mr. McAndrew who indicated that he was going to talk to Mr. McLaughlin. The next correspondence he received was a memo from Mr. McLaughlin dated May 30, 1996 (P-5). He understood that taking a typing test was still a recommendation and not a requirement and that it only applied to secretary class four positions, which involved stenography, but not to class three or clerk typist positions. Mr. Kling again called Mr. McAndrew, gave him a copy of the memo and explained that they were still being asked to take a test. He indicated that no one else was ever required to take a second typing test.

Mr. Kling testified that his work relationship with his supervisor, Mr. Green, was not very friendly. Mr. Green would arrive in the morning would say good morning and that was the last time he would talk to anyone. There was never any other conversation. It was not a very friendly atmosphere in which to work.

Mr. Kling testified that he was aware that Dawnya Ruff was a nontenured employee retained in a job title and who was not administered a test. He knew of this because he asked Ms. Ruff and she told him she did not take a test. He was aware of this because the payroll clerks received the Board of Education agenda and they saw her name on the agenda as being hired. They were also aware that Pat Wright was retained as a non-tenured clerk typist at Memorial, although he is not sure if she took the test.

Since the RIF, Mr. Kling has been collecting unemployment and looking for a job. He has taken typing tests and he types 47 words per minute.

On cross-examination Mr. Kling indicated that when he took the typing test for substitute clerk typist he was not aware of the required score for passing the test at the time. He was also required to take the typing test for the position of payroll clerk in 1987. He did not ask what the requirement was but just took the test. He admitted that the job description for payroll clerk, the position from which he was RIFFED, does not require an individual to have competent typing skills. He denied that Mr. McLaughlin discussed that the position of secretary/bookkeeper and the position of accounts payable required a shorthand test to become a secretary. He admitted that Mr. McLaughlin mentioned that he was required to take a shorthand test to become a secretary. He also indicated that in order to be a clerk typist a typing test is required. Mr. Kling indicated that all three petitioners told Mr. McLaughlin that they had already taken a typing test and he indicated that he was going to check their files. Mr. McLaughlin did not tell them at some later time that he checked their files. Mr. McAndrew is an officer of the local education association and the matter was placed in his hands. The concerns expressed to Mr. McAndrew was that the petitioners kept receiving memos about taking the test when they had already taken the test and it had been explained to Mr. McLaughlin that they had taken the test. Mr. McAndrew said that he would speak to Mr. McLaughlin and find out what was going on. On one occasion, Mr. McAndrew said that Mr. McLaughlin told him that he was going to look into it and get back to him.

Mr. Kling admitted that Dawnya Ruff did not last very long in the position as secretary. At the time his RIF became effective on June 30, 1996, he was not aware that there were positions in the district that were being offered to him in order for him to keep his employment with the Board. He denied that he was offered a clerk typist position. The only position he was offered was the kitchen bookkeeper job and he indicated that he was willing to accept that position.

Dawnya Ruff testified that she is not currently an employee of the respondent. She was first hired in August 1993 as an accounts payable clerk. She held that position until June 1996 when she was RIFFED. On the Monday following the RIF, she was to report for a secretarial position at the Willingboro High School. She was never told that she would be hired to a secretarial position, and she was never asked to take a typing test. She recalls receiving a memo addressed to her dated June 25, 1996, advising of her assignment as secretary at the Willingboro High School (P-7).

On cross-examination, Ms. Ruff indicated that she never worked as a secretary at the High School. Dr. Foster, the Superintendent of Schools, called Ms. Ruff into a meeting and indicated that it had been brought to her attention that Ms. Ruff was not qualified for the position. Dr. Foster apologized and said that it was an error and told her not to report on the Monday following the RIF and that the appointment was rescinded. Ms. Ruff indicated that previously she had taken the typing test but could not recall the details. She recalls that she did not pass the typing test.

Lisel D. White testified that she previously worked for the Willingboro Board of Education. She was employed between March 1993 and November 1996. She also worked as a substitute teacher in 1991. From March 1993 to November 1996 she was secretary to the chief accountant, William Green. She was required to take a typing and shorthand test in 1993 prior to getting this job as secretary to the chief accountant. At this point there was read into the record Request for Production of Documents number 16 in which it was indicated that there was no written test found in Lisel D. White's personnel folder.

Myra Yurchak testified that she holds the position of administrative clerk typist for the Willingboro Board of Education and is assigned to the personnel office. She has been employed by the Board since 1975, first from 1975 to 1977 as a guidance aide, then as a substitute clerk typist until January 1980. She has been an administrative clerk typist from January 1980 until the present time. Until March 1997 she reported to Michael McLaughlin, personnel administrator. In her position within the personnel office, she is familiar with the Board's testing polices for clerical and secretarial staff. In 1987 the requirement for a clerk typist was a typing speed 55 words per minute. Subsequently when the Board felt that they were not getting enough people to pass that requirement, they lowered it to 45 words per minute. The current requirement is now 45 words per minute. In some cases employees' files have typing tests in them and in other cases they may not have been filed or may have been misplaced. As a result it is inconsistent. Ms. Yurchak indicated that if an individual held the position of substitute clerk typist, based on her knowledge of procedures it would be fair to say that the employee would have taken a typing test. However, she indicated that for substitute clerk typist the requirement was less than 45 words per minute and that if applicants got anywhere over 30 or 35 words per minute they would be hired as substitutes.

Ms. Yurchak testified that some time in June 1996, Mr. McLaughlin asked her to look into the personnel records to determine whether Mr. Kling, Ms. Bernard and Ms. Foster had passed typing tests. She also was asked to check the files of other employees. She indicated that they were unable to find tests in the petitioners' files.

Ms. Yurchak indicated that she confirmed to Mr. McLaughlin that substitute clerk typists are given a typing test (P-1). She testified that in her years of employment she is not familiar with any circumstance in which an employee who was formerly a secretary who has been RIFFED into another secretarial job has been asked to retake the secretarial test. She is not familiar with any situation in which a clerical employee has been RIFFED into a secretarial position and was required to take a test. She knows of only one instance where an individual has not taken a shorthand test. It was a person who worked in the Transportation Department who filed a grievance which she won, and as a result she was appointed as a secretary. On cross-examination Ms. Yurchak indicated that this individual had claimed that she was doing work beyond that of a clerk typist and was performing work in the category of payroll which is the same as a secretary. She also indicated that there were secretaries who were never really tested but this goes back about fifteen years. Now the Board tries to test everyone and tries to keep its records straight.

Michael McLauglin testified that he was employed with the Board as personnel administrator from April 29, 1996, to March 1, 1997. Ms. Yurchak and two temporaries reported to him and he reported to the superintendent. His responsibilities were to manage the personnel function of the School District which included the hiring and termination of employees, contract negotiations and grievance handling. He previously worked for the Washington Township Board of Education from January 1990 to April 1996. He is currently unemployed. He believes he is being remunerated for testifying in this matter. He indicated that his employment was terminated by the Board of Education on March 1, 1997, when he was fired.

Mr. McLaughlin testified that when he was hired on April 29, 1996, the Board was in the middle of a RIF situation. There were over 75 people on the RIF list, and 29 of them were clerical employees. He was asked to talk to Mr. Kling, Ms. Foster and Ms. Bernard, relative to their rights under the contract. When he met with them on May 10, 1996, it was his understanding that people in one category had a right to bump a non-tenured employee in another category if there were no available positions in their particular category, if they took the qualifying test. The whole issue then revolved around the qualifying tests, and whether or not they had a right to bump into any other position if they had not taken the qualifying test. His understanding was that payroll clerk positions were placed under the secretarial salary guide as a matter of form because they needed somewhere to "place" them, for want of a better term. However, if individuals were going to bump into a secretarial position they would have to qualify according to the Board's policy on qualifying tests for those position. As a result, secretarial positions required passing typing and shorthand tests. For the clerk typist positions a typing test was required. So when he met with petitioners on May 10, 1996, the purpose of the meeting was to explain to petitioners that they had a bumping right to go to a secretary position but their bumping rights required that they take the typing and shorthand tests.

Mr. McLaughlin identified three memos he prepared in connection with grievances filed by petitioners herein (P-8A, P-8B and P-8C). In these documents Mr. McLaughlin indicated that the necessary tests are the typing and shorthand tests and the tests have always formed a basis for determining if an individual has the requisite qualifications and ability to perform the job he or she is seeking. The rationale for petitioners not being offered positions is that they did not take the tests, and the tests were necessary and had always been necessary to perform these job functions. He indicated that the position he took in the grievance denials of July 9, 1996, is consistent with the position he took in his prior memos to the petitioners (P-3, P-4 and P-5). His memo of May 14, 1996, requires petitioners to take a typing test. He indicated that this memo does not say that he requires them to take the test, or that he demanded that they take the test. He did not say in this memo that if they don't take the test they won't get the job, but he stated verbally to either Mr. McAndrew, Ms. Aldrich or Mr. Suleta that these people had to take the test in order to get the positions. He also indicated that he did not use that verbiage in the subsequent memos of May 26, 1996 (P-4) or May 30, 1996 (P-5).

Mr. McLauglin testified that his memo of June 21, 1996 (P-1), was written in the context that if there is some substantiation of the fact that the petitioners took some kind of test that he recommended that they be appointed to secretary 3 positions. He wrote this memo late in the afternoon on June 21, 1996, when he was about to report for two weeks of reserve training. He had been advised by Mr. McAndrew and Ms. Ryan of the educational association that the three petitioners had taken typing tests and he felt that if this was the case, that there may be a claim and that the Board ought to do something. As a result, he was advising the superintendent by his memo to look into this matter further. However, he later found out that the test given to substitute clerk typists was not the same as the tests given to regular contractual employees, and the requirements were significantly less. At the time, however, he thought that there may be a claim here and the Board should reconsider how to deal with these three employees. He indicated that he recommended the they be appointed as clerk typists if there was a claim.

Mr. McLaughlin was questioned whether Barbara Crammer had taken a test for the position of accounts payable clerk and he indicated that she had been administered a test and it was on her record. However, he indicated that his answers to interrogatories indicated that she had not been given a test. Mr. McLaughlin was also questioned whether Carmen Harris was given a test and the discovery response indicated that she was tested for typing when she was hired as a substitute clerk typist on October 27, 1997. His understanding was that the requirement for substitute clerk typist was around 30 words per minute and Ms. Harris tested at 26 words per minute.

On cross-examination Mr. McLaughlin indicated that in his experience he had never dealt with a layoff greater than five employees, so 75 RIFFED employees was significant. Approximately 30 of those were clerical staff members. The reasons for the RIF were economics and the budget situation as well as reorganizations that were going on district-wide. There were consolidations on the administrative side, and areas were being reduced because of budgetary concerns. The Continuing Education Department was being eliminated and in payroll the Board was bringing in an ADP payroll system which was creating a new position, payroll/systems administrator, and was reducing the three payroll clerks that were there at the time. The Board's intent was to eliminate the three payroll clerks and replace them with a payroll/systems administrator. The Board's decision was to implement the ADP payroll system and to manage that operation with part of the funds that were left over from the reduction of the three payroll clerk positions.

Mr. McLaughlin's meetings with the petitioners took place on the same day, one after the other. Mr. Kling was interested in the payroll/systems administrator position and he wanted to know if he could bump into it. However, Mr. McLaughlin explained that this was going to be a non-affiliated position and Mr. Kling indicated that he was probably going to apply for the position. Mr. Kling did apply for the position and was interviewed and he scored number two for the position, but was not hired. The position of secretary/bookkeeper in the food service department was discussed with Mr. Kling. There were discussions of several possible scenarios. Testing was discussed and Mr. McLaughlin was pretty firm on the requirement that the petitioners were going to have to take the typing and the typing and shorthand tests for any position that they were going to bump into. This was both for secretary 4 and secretary 3 level positions, secretary 3 being clerk typists.

Mr. McLaughlin was questioned about Carmen Harris' substitute clerk typing test taken in 1987. She had a raw score of 32 and after subtracting for errors, came up with a 26. She was hired as a substitute clerk typist. He indicated that 30 was what they were shooting for but if applicants came close they would be hired anyway because the district was hurting for competent help. At the time the requirement for permanent clerk typist was 55 words per minute. He also indicated that Barbara Crammer was hired back in 1972, over 25 years ago, and that actual testing of clerical applicants did not being until the early 1980s.

Mr. McLauglin testified that his only face-to-face meetings with Mr. Kling or the other petitioners was on May 10, 1996, and that after that date he began meeting with members of the Willingboro Education Association. Usually he met with Mr. McAndrew or Karen Aldrich who was the grievance chairperson. He indicated that when the particular issue of petitioners was raised, he was questioned what he was going to do about petitioners taking the test and he responded that they would have to take the test. There came a time when he was advised that the petitioners claimed that they had taken the test, and he agreed that he would check it out. However, when he checked it out in their personnel files, there was nothing to indicate that the petitioners took the typing test. He advised Mr. McAndrew or Ms. Aldrich of this and he reiterated that they must take the test.

Mr. McLaughlin testified that William Green had no input as to the requirement that petitioners take the typing test. Mr. McLaughlin did not engage in any discussions with Mr. Green relative to the issue, but only spoke to the superintendent and business administrator about the requirement for testing.

Mr. McLaughlin testified that with respect to Dawnya Ruff, he was away on training and when he came back Ms. Ruff had already been terminated. He explained that there were 25 clerical positions that were RIFFED and 19 of them were to be called back. It was his understanding that everyone was qualified for the recall so he went by employment dates in terms of calling them back. He placed Ms. Ruff on the list believing that she was qualified, but it turned out that she was never tested for the position. With respect to Lisel White, they found no record that she took the test but everyone remembered her taking it and remembered what the outcome of the test was. Lisel White's supervisor recalls her taking and passing the test. Myra Yurchak also remembered Ms. White taking and passing the test. Mr. Green also remembered that Ms. White passed the test and was subsequently hired. Lisel White was not RIFFED and was not an affiliated person. Since she was not being RIFFED her employment history at the time was not subject to review.

Mr. McLaughlin testified as to the position of secretary/kitchen bookkeeper. In April 1996 that position was occupied by Pat Wright-Moore. It is predominantly a secretarial position with some elements of record keeping, and an individual would have to take a typing test and a dictation test in order to fill the position.

Mr. McLaughlin indicated that he was never made aware or requested any information about Mr. Kling passing a test of the Department of Civil Service.

Mr. McLaughlin testified that he made no offer of employment to any of the three petitioners in this matter on May 10, 1996. At no time did Mr. Kling ever claim that he was entitled to a position as secretary/bookkeeper. Mr. McLaughlin reiterated that the position of the district was that if someone wished to take a secretarial position they would be required to take the typing test and a shorthand test. If an individual wanted a clerk typist position in the district he or she would be required to take a typing test.

Mr. McLaughlin was questioned about the payroll/systems administrator position and indicated that it is a non-affiliated position. It is not part of the education association and not part of the clerical group and is considered part of the first level management and does not have a test requirement to it. It requires an associates degree, a higher level of understanding of the payroll system, knowledge of the ADP system and a little more expertise in terms of both the payroll function as well as the system integration function. It is a high level job. Applicants were required to be interviewed for the position.

On redirect, Mr. McLaughlin indicated that in his meeting with the petitioners it was clear that they were required to take the test in order to effect their rights under the contract. His military service was from June 22, to July 7, 1996. He admitted that of the 19 that were called back for positions after the RIF, only the three petitioners were told that their test was not in their personnel record. He admitted that he made the assumption that everyone holding a job is qualified for that job, but if they are bumping to a new position, the employee must show they are qualified by either taking the test or by providing proof that they previously passed the test. He indicated that Barbara Crammer was moved from secretary to accounts payable. He explained that accounts payable is a secretary 4 position that would normally require a test. However, she was hired back in 1972 as a secretary before tests were instituted. When the Board instituted the test requirement it did not go back to everyone and give tests, but they grandfathered anyone holding a position. He indicated that Ms. Whelihand was the secretary of the Transportation Department who lost her job with privatization. She was on medical leave at the time and when she came back she was placed in a secretary position because she was a tenured secretary. However she was not given a test. Alice Springer was performing as secretarial bookkeeper with food services. He indicated that the position was predominantly secretarial. At the time of the RIF Gail Johnson was transferred from community information officer to clerk typist. She was previously a clerk typist who would have been tested previously for that position. Kathleen R. Foster testified that she started her employment in November 1986 as a substitute clerk typist/PBX operator. She then went under contract as a payroll clerk and was employed in this position from August 11, 1987, until June 30, 1996. Her responsibilities as payroll clerk included handling absentees, writing up all new employees and overtime reports. In the beginning they had little typing to do and all their work was from data processing. However, beginning in 1989 they had to type all of the payroll information into the computer and all transfers, new hires and other information had to be entered by them into the computer. She indicated that there was very heavy phone contact and that all of the work had to be done on a tight schedule because of the two-week payroll cycle, and everything had to be updated constantly. She indicated that approximately 70% of her time was spent typing, and Mr. Green as a member of management would see her typing. Mr. Green supervises accounting and payroll. His desk was located in the back office so he would have to walk through the outside area past the petitioners. Mr. Green was not a hands-on type manager. She indicated that she applied for other positions in 1986 and 1987 and she believes that she passed the typing test for those positions. She believed that because she went on job interviews for the positions.

Ms. Foster first received notice of the RIF at the end of April 1996 (P-2). Subsequently they had one meeting with Mr. McLaughlin on May 10, 1996, to discuss where they would be placed. When they met with Mr. McLaughlin on May 10, he recommended that she go into the accounting department into accounts payable, Mr. Kling would go into the kitchen bookkeeper position and Nancy Bernard would go to transportation. Mr. McLaughlin said that he strongly urged that the three of them take the typing and shorthand tests, to which she responded that she had already passed the typing test when she started and that as far as shorthand she has not done that since high school. Mr. McLaughlin then said that he would check her personnel file to see about the typing test. She indicated that the accounts payable job was offered to her at that meeting and that Mr. McLaughlin said that he would recommend it to the Board.

Ms. Foster admitted to receiving Mr. McLaughlin's memorandum of May 14, 1996, but indicated that it does not require that she take the test as a condition for being considered for a job. She also received his memorandum of May 2, 1996 (P-4). He again strongly urged that they take the test but he did not say that they had to. He did not communicate that their taking a test was a condition of their continued employment with the district. The same is true of his memo of May 30, 1996 (P-5).

Ms. Foster then spoke to Mr. McLaughlin in mid-June, 1996, and asked where the three of them would be placed and he responded that since they did not take the test that there was nothing open and they would not have a position on July 1, 1996. They then contacted Roberta Ryan, the union representative and Jim McAndrew the president of the association. She indicated that the requirement for testing was a sham requirement because of Carmen Harris who became a substitute clerk typist in 1987 or 1988. She indicated that Carmen Harris told her that she did not pass the typing test. She also indicated that Veronica Whelihand from transportation also told her that she never took the shorthand test. Ms. Whelihand was appointed as a secretary as a result of a grievance or an arbitration that she won, and she was given back pay and was placed on the secretarial list.

Ms. Foster testified that she did not take the typing test because she had already taken it and it was not required of anyone else.

Ms. Foster testified that Mr. Green did not like the petitioners and did not like her. He would pass her desk ten times a day and the only thing he would say to her was good morning and that was all he ever said. She indicated that on a number of occasions Mr. Green was made aware that it was her birthday or the birthday of Nancy Bernard and he said nothing about it. He would not wish them Merry Christmas and he never said thank you if they came in on snow days. He would come in with Christmas gifts for different people, but with nothing for the three petitioners. However, he would be friendly with other people.

Ms. Foster indicated that since her termination she has been collecting unemployment for six months and has been applying for different positions. She is still unemployed.

Ms. Foster clarified her conversation with Carmen Harris. She indicated that Ms. Harris told her that she did not pass the typing test and that is why she was terminated after she had a contract. This was sometime in the early 1990. She went back to a position as a substitute clerk typist for a while. She indicated that she held a permanent position as clerk typist for one year and then she was terminated because she did not pass the typing test.

On cross-examination, Ms. Foster indicated that she took the typing test at the time she was first hired. She had to do 55 words per minute but she did not get the results. She then took another typing test for a permanent position as clerk typist and it was the same test but she does not know what she scored on that either. She indicated that it was mandatory to take a typing test in order to get the substitute clerk typist position. She also confirmed that she did not do much typing prior to 1989 or 1990, and that data processing did all of the typing up to that time. She did not type correspondence for Mr. Green or anyone else. She typed information reports and printed them out. She admitted that there was nothing in the job description for payroll clerk which required her to be a competent typist. She admitted that the job description for clerk typist requires an individual to have the ability to type a variety of materials. During her conversations with Mr. McLaughlin on May 10, 1996, he did not say that she needed typing skills for an accounts payable position. He said he would strongly urge her to take the typing and shorthand tests for secretary level 4 positions. She was aware that there were clerk typist positions occupied by non-tenured people and she knew from her past experience that these positions required a typing test. She admitted that when she went into the payroll clerk position in 1987, it did not require typing skills. The memo from Mr. McLaughlin says the qualifications for secretary class 4 requires shorthand and typing and that for a class 3 only a typing test is needed. She indicated that Mr. McLaughlin was recommending that she take the test. It did not alert her that if she did not take the test she would not have a job. She admitted that the memos did not promise that she would be transferred to the accounts payable position. She thought that the matter had been taken care of by Mr. McAndrew after speaking with Mr. McLaughlin and she was under the impression that her typing test was on record and could be found.

Ms. Foster indicated that she spoke to Mr. McLaughlin in mid-June 1996, and he advised her that since she did not take the test she would not have a job. She was not given the opportunity between the middle of June and the end of June to take the test. She indicated that Ronnie Whelihand was performing additional payroll duties and she felt that she should not be considered a clerk typist. Ms. Whelihand filed a grievance and she won her case that she should be a secretary 4. She was RIFFED when she was on sick leave and when she came back she was recognized as a secretary 4 at Willingboro High School.

Ms. Foster testified that Mr. Green never did any performance evaluation of her. He also never wrote a memo that criticized her work performance. She has no knowledge of input on the part of Mr. Green requiring that she take a typing and dictation test.

On redirect examination, Ms. Foster indicated that she had to type budget numbers into the computer and that this required a high degree of accuracy.

Nancy J. Bernard testified that she started with the Willingboro Board of Education on December 5, 1988, as a payroll clerk. Her job was then basically payroll, doing time sheets, working out time cards and absence forms. When she was not on the payroll cycle she would help in the accounting department typing in accounting vouchers, processing vouchers, filing and varied other duties. However, six to nine months after she started, payroll was given a number of additional duties, including two to three hundred absence forms every payroll cycle, substitute employee information and payroll, overtime reports, and gate receipts from various games including reconciliation of the account and typing reports. She also helped the accounting department when a new computer system was instituted. They would also compare new employee cards for new employees. She and Kathy Foster's jobs were intertwined and each took over the other's duties when the other was absent.

Ms. Bernard indicated that during the last two years of her employment she spent approximately 75% of her time typing on a typewriter or on a computer. Mr. Green was the member of management that supervised her and worked in close proximity to her.

Ms. Bernard indicated that she was given a typing test when she was first hired. She saw the payroll job in the newspaper and she applied for it. She recalls taking a typing test to go on to the substitute clerk typist list. However, she never did substitute clerk typist work. She interviewed for the payroll job and received it. Previously she worked for the prosecutor's office and had to be tested for typing for that position where she spent 95% of her time typing.

Ms. Bernard indicated that she was first notified of the RIF on April 30, 1996 (P-2). She then met with Mr. McLaughlin on May 10, 1996. Ms. Bernard expressed her opinion about the various positions that should be offered to Mr. Kling, Ms. Foster and herself. She felt that she should receive the kitchen bookkeeping position. She indicated that Mr. McLaughlin contacted the Board attorney inquiring as to whether she was required to take the test. He did not promise any job to her but she felt that Mr. McLaughlin was working for the three petitioners.

Ms. Bernard testified that when Mr. McLaughlin got off the phone with Mr. Granello, the Board's attorney, he said to her that he thought that maybe she should take a test. She responded that she had already taken the typing test and he said that maybe she should take a shorthand test. She said that she had not taken shorthand since high school and he responded that he did not want to see her as uncooperative. Ms. Bernard then stated that she felt they would not get the positions because Mr. Green hates them, to which Mr. McLaughlin responded, "Oh really." She indicated that she just did not get a feeling that Mr. Green liked her. She indicated that when they were being RIFFED in 1990, her old boss, Mr. Stewart, fought for them. Mr. Green never once said that he was sorry that this was happening, that they did a good job or that he would miss them.

Ms. Bernard indicated that she was a little surprised when she received the memo from Mr. McLaughlin on May 14, 1996 (P-3), and this memo threw her. They also received another memo on May 22, 1996 (P-4). She indicated that these memos did not require that they take a test but it was recommended.

Ms. Bernard testified that the kitchen bookkeeper position was filled by Alice Springer. The PBX Operator was Marie Gregg and she was also being RIFFED. Upon receipt of the memo of May 22, 1996, Mr. Kling called Jim McAndrew again. The next communication from respondent was the memo of May 30, 1996 (P-5). Ms. Bernard testified that she thought that this was stating that if the petitioners wanted to get into a secretarial position, they were required to take typing and shorthand tests, and Mr. McLaughlin recommended their taking those tests. They again called Mr. McAndrew because they felt as if they were being harassed.

Ms. Bernard was present when Ms. Foster contacted Mr. McLaughlin in mid-June and was told that the petitioners were not being placed anywhere. They then called Roberta Ryan who was their union representative.

Ms. Bernard testified that between April 30, 1996, and the RIF, she did not receive any communication that said that she had to take the test in order to be considered for another position. Since her last employment with respondent, Ms. Bernard has been on unemployment. She has been looking for a position and wants to continue working. She has applied for thirty or forty positions.

On cross-examination, Ms. Bernard testified that when she first applied for a position with the Board in 1988 it was as payroll clerk and she was asked to take a test that day, but was not told that the typing test was to be a payroll clerk. She was told that if she took the typing test she would be placed on the substitute clark typist list in case she did not receive the payroll clerk position. She was not given a copy of the test results and she never took a dictation or shorthand test. She indicated that other than typing reports, she has never typed correspondence or substituted for Mr. Green's secretary. She admitted that after she received the RIF notice of April 29, 1996, there is nothing in writing from respondent indicating that she had a position waiting for her. Ms. Bernard admitted that in her answers to interrogatories she indicated that Mr. McLaughlinsaid he would recommend the three petitioners to various positions. However, her testimony at the hearing was that he never offered her a position. When Dawnya Ruff was terminated, Barbara Crammer, a tenured secretary 4, was hired for that position. Barbara Crammer has more years of service than the petitioners and she was hired as an accounts payable clerk in the payroll office. Alice Springer held the kitchen bookkeeper position and she had more than three years in the position so she had tenure. Ms. Bernard knew there were a number of clerk typist positions available which were held by non-tenured employees and that a PBX operator position was held by Marie Gregg who was non-tenured. She was laid off and Gail Johnson was placed in that position.

Ms. Bernard testified that when they received the series of memos they contacted their union representative and the union took charge of the matter. From May 14, 1996 on, they did not hear anything. Ms. Bernard testified that when saw the recall list, petitioner's names were not on it. She indicated that from May 14 through the end of June 1996, they did not hear directly from any representative of the union as to what was being done on their behalf. She believed that Mr. Kling said that the union representatives were meeting with Mr. McLaughlin and that is all they knew. She admitted that notwithstanding the encouraging and urging by Mr. McLaughlin, she did not take a typing test or a dictation test. They did not hear from the union representative until after the Board meeting of June 24, 1996.

On re-direct examination, Ms. Bernard indicated that after she took the typing test in 1988, she was put on the substitute clerk typist list. She also testified that during an overlap when Oscar Jamerson and Mr. McLaughlin were both acting as personnel directors, Mr. Jamerson came to the petitioners' office and told them to sit tight and that everything was going to work out. She also indicated that while Mr. McLaughlin did not come out and say that she was going to be appointed, she believed that she would. On re-cross examination, Ms. Bernard indicated that at no time after the telephone conference between Mr. McLaughlin and Ms. Foster in mid-June 1996, did she receive anything from any representative of respondent that said that she could not take a typing test or a dictation test.

Jade T. Frederick was called as a witness. However, because her name was not provided in answers to interrogatories as a potential witness, Ms. Frederick was excluded as a witness. The parties stipulated into the record respondent's answer to petitioner's Request for Production of Documents No. 15 which states:

> Personnel records reflect Jade Thompson Frederick was tested when she was hired as a substitute clerk/typist and teacher aide in 1994.

As part of that stipulation, the parties admitted into evidence the test of Jade Thompson Frederick (P-10). The parties also stipulated into evidence the test results of Carmen Harris (P-11).

James P. McAndrew testified that he is a basic skills math teacher at Hawthorne School in the Willingboro School District and he is President of the Willingboro Education Association (WEA). He was President in 1974, 1977, in the 1980's and for the past three years. He indicated that as President of the WEA, he would become involved in RIFs and would double check to determine if they were occurring properly.

Mr. McAndrews testified that he spoke to Mr. McLaughlin and told him that he felt the petitioners should be given secretary class 4 positions based on their current positions. This was right after he received the call from Mr. Kling and he believes it was around May 14, 1996. He recommended to Mr. McLaughlin that the most efficient way of handling the recall of RIFFED tenured people would be through seniority, and Mr. McLaughlin's reaction was favorable. Mr. McLaughlin did not say anything at that point regarding testing or with respect to the petitioners herein.

Mr. McAndrew testified that he had many conversations with Mr. McLaughlin. He was also in contact with Mr. Kling quite a bit and he spoke to Mr. McLaughlin after every memo that was received by petitioners. He felt that the only test that the petitioners had to take would have been a shorthand test because that is the one they did not take previously. He felt that they would have been able to be placed into the accounts payable, the central kitchen/bookkeeper and the transportation positions. Mr. McAndrew indicated that at no time did Mr. McLaughlin ever make it known to him that petitioners' taking the tests was a requirement for their being considered for a position at the time of the RIF. This was not made known until he and Bobby Ryan met with Mr. McLaughlin concerning the petitioners on June 21, 1996. At that point Mr. McAndrew told Mr. McLaughlin that at the very least the three petitioners should have secretary class 3 positions as clerk typists since they had already taken the typing test and they had met the qualifications.

Mr. McLaughlin indicated to him that there were no records of their taking the typing tests in their personnel files to which McAndrew responded by inquiring whether there are records in everyone's files as to whether or not they have taken typing tests. As a result, it was found that a great many of the personnel files that they spot checked did not have any indication that the employee took a typing test or whether the employee passed such a test. Mr. McLaughlin then accused Mr. McAndrew of coming in at the last minute as he was ready to go on military leave. Mr. McLaughlin then agreed that he would write a memo to the superintendent recommending that the three petitioners be placed on the agenda, and that he would recommend that they be given secretary class 3 positions.

Mr. McAndrew learned for the first time that Mr. McLaughlin's recommendation was not being accepted when he saw the Board's agenda, and he was shocked when he saw that this was not occurring. He felt that petitioners were being treated differently from other people. He indicated that if respondent was going to move Barbara Crammer into an accounts payable position for which she had no knowledge whatsoever at the time and was not being required to take the test, then neither should petitioners. He indicated that years ago when people applied to go into a payroll position, the District made up a test that people had to take. The association objected to it and it was determined in arbitration that the test questions themselves were invalid. The association does not object to the right of management to test in general. He indicated that Barbara Crammer did not take a test for the secretarial position when she started in the 1970's and that she was grandfathered in and never had to take any tests. As a result of the RIF, she was placed in an accounts payable position.

Mr. McAndrew testified that after each meeting with Mr. McLaughlin he reported back to Mr. Kling and told him that Mr. McLaughlin was looking into some of his recommendations to see if they were feasible or not.

On cross-examination, Mr. McAndrew indicated that the petitioners were listed as secretary class 4 employees for salary purposes. He is not aware if a person hired for the position of payroll clerk is required to take a typing test. To his knowledge, someone hired to be a permanent clerk typist does need to take a typing test. Someone hired as a secretary needs to take a typing test and a shorthand test. He admitted that the purpose of his initial meetings with

Mr. McLaughlin was to urge that the petitioners be kept at a category 4 level. Before he met with Mr. McLaughlin for the first time, he saw the contents of the memo of May 14, 1996 (P-3). He went to Mr. McLaughlin and said that the petitioners are a category 4 under the contract and that he wanted them to have category 4 positions so that they would suffer no loss in pay. He indicated that the kitchen/bookkeeper position was occupied by Alice Springer who was a tenured employee of the District. He recommended to Mr. McLaughlin that the prudent way to handle the RIFs was to do so by seniority and that since petitioners had more seniority than Alice Springer, Alice should be bumped. He also indicated that the kitchen/bookkeeper is a class 4 position. Veronica Whelihand held the transportation position and she had tenure in the District. He admitted that, as a result, when he was discussing these positions with Mr. McLaughlin, two of the positions were currently occupied by tenured staff members. He also knew there was a vacancy in the high school for a secretary 4 position and he recommended that Barbara Crammer be put in that position. He also knew that the petitioners held clerical positions. Mr. McAndrew indicated that his first concern was to try to get petitioners into category 4 positions because of the pay differential. He knew they were qualified for class 3 positions.

William A. Green, Jr. testified that he is Chief Accountant for the Board of Education, a position he has held since March 1991. As Chief Accountant, he is responsible for the financial reporting of the District and he is in charge of the Accounting Department and payroll is a function of the Accounting Department. He supervised an accountant, Rita Walters, Lisel White, secretary to the chief accountant, the payroll function which included the three petitioners, and the accounts payable function with two employees.

Mr. Green testified that there was a reorganization of the Department that arose during budget deliberations. The central administration of the District determined that the budget had to be reduced and the superintendent through the business administrator directed that the Accounting Department would be reduced by two people. At the time they began to look at the privatization of payroll with the payroll function coming under a private organization with one person in the District responsible for operating the payroll. That person would be the payroll/systems administrator and since the position would be required to provide negotiations duties, it was determined that it would be non-affiliated. As a result, it was determined that the District would create a new position, payroll/systems administrator, and the three existing payroll clerk positions would be eliminated. The Board approved this and approved the privatization of payroll. As a result the payroll/systems administrator position was posted and individuals were interviewed. A committee was involved in the interview process consisting of the District's EEO representative, Mr. Green, Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Jamerson. Interviews took place between April and June, 1996, and Stephen Kling was among those interviewed. During the interview process, gross rankings alone was considered to score the candidates for the payroll/systems administrator position. Ms. Zena Stewart came out as number one and Mr. Kling was number two. He indicated that the three payroll positions were targeted for RIF because the Board wanted to upgrade technology and they had an in-house payroll system which was antiquated. They were operating on a out-dated computer system and felt that it would be better to privatize by placing the system with one of the major payroll providers whose sole business is payroll. Eventually, Automatic Data Processing (ADP) was selected. The function of the payroll/systems administrator combined the responsibilities of the three positions held by petitioners and also included added responsibilities in the area of computer knowledge and skills. He indicated that the payroll clerks performed responsibilities that required typing; however, none of the payroll clerks ever performed as his secretary.

Mr. Green indicated that his personal relationship with Ms. Foster was congenial. He would come in and they would speak in the morning and they would speak on other occasions. He snapped at her only on one occasion about three years ago and he apologized. He had asked Ms. Foster to do something and she flared up. There was a meeting with the union president about this incident. He never found anything wrong with her performance. He also had a congenial relationship with Nancy Bernard. He had no ill feelings toward any of them. There were never any harsh words between them. Ms. Bernard would sometimes ask to leave to get her children and he permitted her to do so. There was never any personality conflict. He also had a congenial relationship with Stephen Kling. There were no ill feelings, no adverse reactions and they would talk about work. They never had any personality conflicts.

On cross-examination, Mr. Green indicated the current staffing of the office is that he has an accountant, a secretary to the accountant, the new position filled by Zena Stewart and two substitute individuals serving as accounts payable clerks. They started about mid-June 1996 until early March 1997. Jackie Cohen was brought in a month after the RIF. She was a substitute person to do filing and accounts payable and she was asked to do some payroll work. Loretta Person, his personal secretary, started in January 1997. Prior to that time she was a part-time secretary to the chief accountant. The secretary to the chief accountant resigned and she was brought in.

Mr. Green testified that he never wrote up any of the three petitioners. He also indicated that the administration "cabinet" was involved in the RIF process and he was not involved, did not discuss the RIFs, never lobbied one way or the other and never spoke to cabinet members about the RIF. He indicated he does not remember Mr. Kling and Ms. Bernard decorating Ms. Foster's desk for her birthday. He knows that Ms. Bernard would occasionally receive flowers and he would ask her what they were for. He admitted that he brought Christmas presents into the office for others, but he has wished them a Merry Christmas. He indicated that after the RIF on their last day of work, payroll needed to be re-run but all three petitioners got up and left because they had a half-day off. They left at 12 noon while in the process of getting out the payroll. He admitted that he approved their absences that day at 12 noon.

Geraldyn O. Foster was called as a rebuttal witness by petitioners and she testified that she is Superintendent of Willingboro Public Schools and is the Chief School Administrator. She has worked with the Board from August 19, 1993 to the present. Dr. Foster testified that the school district employees are covered by a disability insurance policy with Washington National. Dr. Foster was out on disability from late 1995 to early 1996. She was not aware of any problem with Washington National processing her claim for disability. She indicated that all of her requests for absences would be handled through the business administrator or the chief accountant. She reported her absences as compensatory days which means that she was paid her full salary. She also had adequate sick days to cover the time. Once her medical reports were submitted to Washington National and it was obvious that the reason for her illness was related to her employment, she signed over the workers compensation checks to the Board of Education. She did not immediately apply for disability.

Dr. Foster indicated that on one occasion during her monthly meeting with Ms. Reynolds who was the Board President, she was asked how her sick time was being charged. She denied any confrontation with the Board President.

Dr. Foster indicated she received the recommendation from Mr. McLaughlin dated June 21, 1996 (P-1). She admitted that she did not forward Mr. McLaughlin's recommendation to the Board. She also denied that the payroll staff's handling of her personal absences and inquires played any part in her not passing on this recommendation to the Board. She had no involvement in the choice of a payroll/systems administrator.

Nancy Bernard was recalled as a witness. Ms. Bernard indicated she received a telephone call from Washington National to verify Dr. Foster's absences in connection with her application for disability. She indicated that she was unsure of the procedure with respect to the reporting of absences of the superintendent and she contacted the Board President. When she typed it in the computer, she could not verify it. Kathleen Foster then contacted Dr. Foster's office and spoke to her secretary and asked if they could have the absence forms for Dr. Foster. She then received the absence forms that Dr. Foster signed. Mr. Green then came in and Ms. Bernard told him about these inquires and that she could not verify the days of absences of Dr. Foster. Mr. Green became upset because he had previously told her not to talk to Washington National or handle the situation. He was not happy and he then left the office by pushing the door pretty hard and went to Dr. Foster's office. Because she was unsure of the procedure with respect to the reporting of absences of the superintendent she contacted Margaret Reynolds, President of the Board and indicated she received an absence form from Dr. Foster with no approval on it and that she did not know who should sign it. Ms. Reynolds indicated that she should be the one to sign the absence form. Mr. Green then returned and directed her to change Dr. Foster's absences from illness to workers' compensation days. After her going to President Reynolds, Mr. Green's relationship with the petitioners changed. He only came in and said good morning and that was it.

Roberta Ryan testified that she is a basic skills secretary and that she was first employed in September 1979. She has also been elected Secretary of the Willingboro Education Association. She testified that after the RIF, the payroll function has operated with more than one employee. There are several substitute employees and temporary employees that have been used. There have been three individuals working in the payroll department since September 1996. These individuals' employment is temporary in nature. One of them has been there at least a year, another was there for close to a year but has been gone for a couple of months and the third was there from September 1996 through the date of the hearing. They have been working continuously on a daily basis.

Ms. Ryan identified a seniority list that is required to be given by the Board to the Association as a matter of contract (P-14). Included on the seniority list are secretaries and clerks represented by the WEA. The list does not include confidential or non-affiliated employees. This list includes both tenured and non-tenured employees. Ms. Ryan testified with respect to Ethel Hines who is employed in the print shop. She is included in the "Other" categories which means that she was not clerical and she was not secretarial prior to September 1, 1985. Ms. Hines was transferred from graphic arts clerk to clerk typist effective July 1, 1997. The payroll designation "C/T" is a clerk typist for payroll or salary purposes. The designation "Sec" could be a shorthand secretary or an accounts payable clerk who are classified in the secretary category. The last column is the date of hiring to some position within the District. For example, as to Ethel Hines, she held some non-secretarial or non-clerical position from September 1, 1985 until January 16, 1987. At the time Ms. Hines was moved in April 1997, she told Ms. Ryan that she did not take a shorthand test or a typing test. The Board of Education meeting agenda of April 28, 1997, shows this transfer (P-15).

On cross-examination, Ms. Ryan admitted that Dawnya Ruff is no longer an employee of the District because when it was found she had not been tested she was removed. On re-direct, Ms. Ryan indicated that Barbara Crammer was a shorthand secretary placed in an accounting position without testing. However, petitioners were payroll people and were not given the opportunity to go into a like position unless they were tested.

Oscar Jamerson testified that he is currently Acting Personnel Administrator at the Willingboro Board of Education and that he returned to this position on May 29, 1997. He was previously employed from August 1988 to June 1996, as Personnel Administrator.

Mr. Jamerson testified as to his knowledge of procedures related to worker's compensation and use of sick leave. He indicated that what occurs is that it can take anywhere from several days to many months to make a determination whether an employee has a valid worker's compensation claim. As a result, if an employee is being paid sick leave, after the investigation there is an adjustment in payroll records from sick leave to worker's compensation leave.

Mr. Jamerson testified as to the School District's policy on testing. He indicated that while he is not sure of the exact numbers that an individual must attain in order to pass, the school district has held fast on and insisted that it follow the procedure that an individual must successfully pass a test in order to be moved into a position. He believes that there are some employees, and he does not know when this happened, who are in some lower classification positions that were granted clerk typist positions. However, there have been no exceptions made to the requirement for testing during his tenure. He indicated there has never been any kind of test given for an accounts receivable or payroll clerk position to his knowledge.

Mr. Jamerson identified the seniority list (P-14). This is given to the union once each ear to make sure that the Board's records and that of the union agree. He indicated that the "CT" means that the employee was either tested and approved as being a clerk typist, which also means that they had to have passed the simple course level test as a clerk typist, or they were grandfathered in that position. With respect to Ms. Hines, she either took a test in 1987 and was approved by the Board to go on to a clerk typist position. He then indicated that as to the appointment effective April 28, 1997, she will be a clerk typist at Memorial School and no test was required. If she was going to become a secretary at the high school and she was a clerk typist, a test would have been required.

On cross-examination, Mr. Jamerson was asked if the records with respect to sick leave and worker's compensation injury leave are corrected on the computer. Mr. Jamerson responded that he had no knowledge of the computer and is not involved with the computer. Mr. Jamerson indicated that he could not answer the question whether, to his knowledge, the Board took a position with petitioners that, in order to go from a clerical tenure position to a clerical tenure position, they would have to take a typing test. He indicated that he could tell what he was doing at the time Barbara Crammer was not tested because they did not test for payroll type position. Mr. Jamerson indicated that he believes that at the time of petitioners hiring the substitute clerk typist position required that individual to be tested. Mr. Jamerson denied that Jade Thompson Frederick was permitted to work for one year in the District without testing. He recalls that she worked as a substitute at first and a teacher's aide and no typing test was required.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

This matter involves claims by three petitioners who have certain tenure rights under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2b. and c. which provides that any person holding any secretarial or clerical position or employment under a board of education of any school district, after the expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years or three consecutive academic years together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year shall hold his [or her] office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense.

In order to decide this matter, it is necessary to focus on the precise issues identified by the parties and the undersigned prior to the hearing. At the telephone prehearing conference held on October 24, 1996, the attorneys for the respective parties agreed that this proceeding involves petitioners, who are tenured payroll clerks, alleging that respondent Board voted to terminate them in a reduction in force while retaining non-tenured, less senior and/or non-qualified personnel in job titles for which petitioners are fully qualified and to which they claim they are entitled by virtue of their tenure rights. Prehearing Order, Section 1.A.

The Prehearing Order of November 18, 1996, as amended by a letter order of January 29, 1997, indicates that the following issues are to be resolved in this matter:

1. Whether petitioners are entitled to the positions in question currently held by non-tenured personnel?

2. Whether respondent has acted in violation of the tenure rights of petitioners under N.J.S.A. 18A:7-2?

3. Whether petitioners are entitled to the remedies of appointments to the disputed positions and reimbursement for any loss of salary and/or emoluments?

4. Whether respondent owes no further duty to petitioners because it has offered other positions to petitioners and they have refused to take steps to demonstrate that they are qualified to hold these other positions offered by respondent?

5(a). Whether this dispute is controlled by the collective bargaining unit agreement?

(c). What is the legal effect of any arbitrator's decision?

At no point in this proceeding did petitioners contend that the respondent school district does not have the authority to reduce in force the number of employees of the school district for valid budgetary or other reasons. Rather, the contentions of petitioners are that the respondent retained non-tenured, less senior and/or non-qualified personnel in job titles for which petitioners were fully qualified in violation of petitioners' tenure rights.

The seminal and controlling case involving the question of employment rights of tenured secretarial and clerical employees is Sheridan v. Commissioner of Education, 1976 S.L.D. 995. In that case, the petitioner acquired tenure status in September 1973, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2b(2), to a ten-month secretarial position at the high school. In the spring of 1974, petitioner was notified that the Board was eliminating one ten-month secretarial position and that she would not be re-employed for the 1974-1975 school year. At that time, there was in the Board's employ one non-tenured secretary who worked on a twelve-month basis assigned to the Board office. Eventually, the twelve-month secretary retired and petitioner was re-employed commencing September 1, 1974. She then commenced this action claiming that her dismissal on June 30, 1974 and loss of wages from that date until September 1, 1974, were ultra vires acts in violation of her tenure rights.

The Commissioner of Education indicated that the Supreme Court's opinion in Board of Education of the Town of Kearny v. Horan, et al., 11 N.J. Misc. 751 (Sup. Ct. 1933) is controlling. In that case, the Kearny Board had terminated tenured teachers but retained in its employ numerous non-tenured teachers. The Court relied on Seidel v. Board of Education of Ventnor City, 110 N.J.L. 31. The Seidel case was found to be pertinent because of the parallel between the provisions of tenure for teachers in 1933 and the provisions of tenure for secretaries in 1974. In 1933, teachers were clothed with tenure but no categories of teachers and no seniority statutes or rules had as yet been promulgated. It was stated in Seidel that movement for economy is not to be accomplished by dismissing teachers who are under the protection of the statute providing for indefinite tenure while other teachers not so protected are retained. The Commissioner also observed that petitioner possessed the secretarial skills to serve efficiently in the twelve-month position since she was, in fact, assigned to the Board office in September. Accordingly, the Commissioner determined that the failure to offer the twelve-month position to petitioner was improper and ordered that she be paid the wages and attendant emoluments she would have received. Significantly, the Commissioner went on to state:

> The Commissioner advises this Board and all other local boards of education that in similar disputes, given the continued posture of the law and State Board rules, the entitlement of a tenured secretary to a position held by a non-tenured secretary will be adjudged by the Commissioner to be viable only if the tenured secretary possesses the skills and necessary qualifications to efficiently perform the duties of such secretarial position.

Based upon the foregoing discussion of the law and, in particular, based upon the decision in Sheridan, it is clear that the petitioners herein are entitled to be appointed to clerical positions currently held by non-tenured clerical personnel provided they possess the skills and necessary qualifications to efficiently perform the duties of such positions.

The essence of respondent's position is that respondent offered to petitioners other positions within the school district held by non-tenured employees and gave to petitioners the opportunity to take steps to demonstrate that they are qualified to hold these other positions, but that petitioners failed and refused to take these steps to demonstrate their qualifications. An examination of the testimony and evidence in this matter is necessary in order to determine if this position is correct.

It was the testimony of all three petitioners that they were previously tested for their typing skills at the time of their original hiring. Each of them concedes that typing is not a specified requirement for the payroll clerk positions they held, but commencing in 1989, typing became an integral part of their duties and responsibilities. Each of them testified that they were required to enter into the computer by typing onto a keyboard various information including reports and other payroll records. Mr. Kling also testified that he prepared correspondence concerning pensions and other matters, Ms. Foster testified that 70% of her time was spent typing and Ms. Bernard indicated that approximately 75% of her time was spent typing on a typewriter or a computer in performing her duties. Each of the petitioners indicated that Mr. Green, their immediate supervisor and a member of management, worked in close proximity to them and observed them typing. None of the petitioners could provide documentary evidence that they successfully passed the typing test at the time of their hire. There was also testimony which established that the typing tests they took were for substitute clerk typist positions and that the requirement for these positions was less stringent than that required for a permanent clerk typist or a secretarial position.

The testimony of Mr. McLaughlin and the documentary evidence relied upon by respondent was to the effect that the petitioners were notified both verbally and in writing that if they wished to bump to another position, they were required to be tested for the position. Specifically, it is alleged that they were told that if they wished to bump to a secretary 3 position, which is a clerk typist position which requires typing skills, they would be required to take a typing test; if they wished to bump to a secretary 4 position, which is a secretarial position which requires typing and stenography skills, they would be required to take a typing and a stenography test. The confusion concerning whether or not petitioners were ever notified of the requirement that they take a typing test if they wished to bump to a secretary 3 position is the heart of this case.

The testimony of all three petitioners as to this issue was consistent when they each indicated that they advised Mr. McLaughlin that they had previously taken and passed the typing test at the time of their hiring and they did not feel that it was necessary to retake the test. Mr. McLaughlin acknowledged and admitted that each of the petitioners took this position at his meeting with them, and he also acknowledged that he indicated to them that he would look into their personnel records to determine whether any record existed of their taking the typing test. The three petitioners likewise were consistent with their testimony that they were never advised by Mr. McLaughlin or by their union representative, until mid-June 1996, that no record of their having successfully taken the typing test existed in their personnel records.

It is significant as to this issue that none of the three memoranda from Mr. McLaughlin to petitioners, dated May 14, 1996 (P-3), May 22, 1996 (P-4) and May 30, 1996 (P-5), indicate that no record of their prior testing for typing skills was ever found. Indeed, the memoranda are confusing with respect to the testing requirement. The first memorandum of May 14, 1996, does appear to indicate that a typing test is required for a secretary class 3 position. However, Mr. McLaughlin recommended in this memorandum that petitioners take the test as soon as possible without specifying what test should be taken. The subsequent memoranda only speak in terms of taking the shorthand and typing tests to qualify for secretary 4 positions, with no mention being made of the requirement to take a typing test for the secretary 3 positions.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that there was a great deal of confusion whether petitioners were required to take a typing test in order to qualify for existing secretary class 3 or clerk typist positions. Based on the record of testimony and evidence before me, I FIND that respondent did not clearly place petitioners on notice that they were obligated and responsible to take a typing test in order to qualify for existing class 3 secretary positions which might be available. On the other hand, it is clear that based upon the three memos sent to petitioners by Mr. McLaughlin, that petitioners were placed on notice that if they desired to bump into secretary class 4 positions, they would be required to take a typing and shorthand test in order to demonstrate their qualifications for such positions. Therefore, I agree with the petitioners that respondent did not give to petitioners adequate notice that their failure to take typing tests would result in the waiver of their tenure rights as to secretary class 3 or clerk typist positions held by non-tenured employees, and I so FIND.

It is significant that the testimony of petitioners to the effect that they each did substantial typing as part of their job duties and responsibilities as payroll clerk was not disputed by respondent. Each of them testified to the extensive amount of typing required in their respective positions. They also testified to the high degree of accuracy required because of the nature of information that they were typing. It is also significant that in 1989, when typing became a integral part of the job functions and responsibilities of payroll clerk, no typing test was required of the petitioners in order to determine whether they were qualified to perform these additional typing duties. In addition, a review of the payroll clerk job description (R-3) appears to require by implication the ability to type and use a computer keyboard. It specifically requires that a payroll clerk input and record information and issue periodic reports as an integral part of the duties of the position. The undisputed testimony of the petitioners was that this required typing skills and computer input. Under these circumstances, I FIND that each of the petitioners was qualified for a clerk typist position based on their actual performance of the typing function as an integral part of their job duties and responsibilities as payroll clerks from and after the year 1989. See, Sheridan, id at 999.

Much of the testimony and evidence submitted by petitioners in this matter appears to be intended to support a claim that the actions of respondent in subjecting the petitioners to a RIF were made in bad faith and for improper reasons and motives, and that petitioners were subjected to discriminatory and disparate treatment. These claims involved testimony to the effect that petitioners' immediate supervisor, Mr. William A. Green, Jr., dealt with the petitioners in an aloof manner, avoided personal contact with any of the petitioners, and gave to petitioners the feeling that he either disliked or hated them. They assert that their supervisor was likely involved in the decision to RIF their positions, to require that they be tested in order to bump into other available positions, and to otherwise deal with them in a discriminatory and differential manner. The testimony of Mr. Green was to the effect that he had no personal animosity towards the petitioners and that they each did their work well. He indicated that their RIF was based on a decision by the Central Administration and the Board to reorganize the payroll department and to update and modernize the payroll function by privatizing it and by hiring a payroll/systems administrator to administer the payroll function which was to be performed by an outside agency. It was part of this reorganization plan that the funds saved by eliminating the three positions held by petitioners would be utilized to pay for this modernization. In addition, the testimony of Mr. McLaughlin was of the effect that Mr. Green was never consulted with respect to the RIF of petitioners, with respect to the requirement for testing and with respect to the providing of any other positions to petitioners.

Petitioners also attempted to produce testimony to the effect that their treatment by respondent was based upon a conflict between them and Dr. Foster, the Superintendent of Schools. With respect to all of these contentions, I found no basis in the testimony or evidence to support a finding that petitioners were subjected to bad faith or improper motivation in respondent's dealings with them, were subjected to discrimination or disparate treatment or were otherwise treated improperly based on bad faith, improper motives or ill will.

Petitioners further argue that because respondent has hired nontenured employees to perform the payroll function after the termination of petitioners, that the RIF was a sham. Petitioners rely upon the testimony of Roberta Ryan to the effect that since the RIF, payroll functions have not been handled by the payroll/system administrator and the outside contractor, but that the Board has continuously employed a series of substitute and temporary employees to perform payroll functions. However, as was previously indicated, no assertions of bad faith or improper motivation with respect to the RIF were pled in the petition nor were they asserted at the time of the prehearing conference. In any event, subsequent events and occurrences which take place after a RIF are clearly irrelevant in determining the validity of a RIF. I FIND no basis in the record to support petitioners' claim that the RIF was a sham or that it should somehow be set aside.

Petitioners also relied upon the testimony of Mr. Green who indicateded that in establishing the payroll/systems administrator position, respondent took the various functions of each individual payroll clerk, combined them into one job and additionally required an individual who had computer knowledge and skills. Petitioners assert that this shows that the purpose of creating this new position was to eliminate the positions and functions of petitioners. I FIND that there is no valid basis for this argument I and place no reliance upon it on reaching the decision in this matter. It is clearly within the authority of a Board of Education to determine the duties and responsibilities to be assigned to individual positions. In this matter, the Board decided to assign the payroll function to a specific position and additionally assigned the responsibility to oversee the payroll function, which is a higher responsibility than that previously assigned to petitioners herein. This is clearly an inherent managerial prerogative and I have no difficulty with respondent taking these steps in this matter.

Petitioners further contend that the decision of the Public Employees Relation Commission (P-13) finding that the payroll/systems administrator is not a confidential position under N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3 casts doubt on the credibility of the Board's contention as to the true character of the position. However, the determination whether or not this new position is a confidential position is irrelevant in determining the issues before me. The fact that this newly created position should be included in the bargaining unit has no bearing on the issue whether petitioners' tenure rights have been violated by respondent.

Petitioners further assert that respondent did not uniformly test other employees. However, they pointed to individuals who were holding tenured positions requiring typing and/or stenographic skills who were not retested in order to assume other positions requiring typing and/or stenographic skills. In no case did petitioners establish that there was any employee, tenured or nontenured, who was removed from a position which they did not have typing and/or stenographic skills to a position where these skills were required. The only case in which is this almost involved Dawnya Ruff. Respondent's testimony that this was a mistake that was pointed out by the Education Association and was immediately rectified was uncontroverted.

Based upon the foregoing, I hereby make the following findings and reach the following conclusions with respect to the issues set forth in the prehearing order:

1. I FIND that respondent owed a duty to petitioners not only to offer other positions to petitioners but also to notify petitioners in a clear and unequivocal manner that they are required to take steps to demonstrate that they are qualified to hold these other positions offered by respondent.

2. I FIND that respondent has acted in violation of the tenure rights of petitioners under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, and

3. I FIND that petitioners should be made whole for any loss of salary and/or emoluments resulting from the failure to appoint petitioners to the position to which they were entitled by virtue of their tenure and are entitled to the remedies of appointments to the disputed positions and reimbursement for any loss of salary and emoluments.

4. I FIND that this dispute is not controlled by the collective bargaining agreement.

5. I FIND that neither any arbitrator's decision nor the decision of the Public Employment Relations Commission on the issue whether the payroll systems administrator is a confidential position has any legal effect in this matter.

DECISION AND ORDER

Based upon the foregoing, it is hereby ORDERED that that petitioners shall be placed in clerk typist or class 4 secretarial positions previously held by non-tenured personnel. It is further ORDERED that petitioners shall be made whole for any loss of salary and/or emoluments resulting from the failure to appoint petitioners to the position to which they were entitled by virtue of their tenure and they are entitled to the remedies of appointments to the disputed positions and reimbursement for any loss of salary and emoluments. It is further ORDERED that any other claims for relief are hereby DENIED and DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teachers sought retroactive additional compensation from the Board for the achievement of their Master's Degrees in May 1989.

ALJ concluded that the petition was untimely filed pursuant to the 90-day rule in that petitioners' cause of action in this matter arose in September 1989 when, with the receipt of their first paychecks for the 1989-90 school year, they knew, or should have known, that the Board had failed to adjust their salaries to reflect their receipt of Master's Degrees.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This matter arises on respondent Perth Amboy's motion to dismiss, which is hereby GRANTED.

Petitioners have been employed by respondent Perth Amboy Board of Education as elementary school teachers since at least September 1, 1985. In May of 1989 petitioners received Master's Degrees. Due to an alleged error, petitioners' salaries were never increased to reflect this achievement until September, 1996, when the salaries were increased. Petitioners aver that they first became aware of the error in October of 1996. In February of 1997 petitioners filed the instant petition seeking retroactive salary adjustments for the 1989-91, 1991-92, 1992-93, 1993-94, 1994-95, and 1995-96 school years.

This limitations period is designed to provide:

> a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. It stabilizes the relationship between teachers and the administration . . . . The limitation period gives school districts the security of knowing that administrative decisions regarding the operation of the school cannot be challenged after ninety days. Moreover, because local school boards operate on a cash basis, claims must be filed promptly so that the local board can anticipate any back-pay requirements.

This 90 day period has been interpreted to begin running as of the date of the school board's wrongful act, and not on the date in which the consequences of the wrongful act are felt by the employee. Nissman v. Board of Educ., 272 N.J. Super. 373, 381 (App. Div. 1994). The wrongful act in the instant matter was the respondent's failure to credit petitioners with having achieved their master's degrees. The only remaining inquiry then is whether the petitioners received adequate notice of the respondent's failure.

> "Adequate notice must be sufficient to inform an individual of some fact that he or she has a right to know and that the communicating party has a duty to communicate. ... Adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 should accommodate ... concerns for individual justice by not triggering the limitations period until the tenured teachers have been alerted to the existence of facts that may equate in law [with a violation of their rights]. At the same time, it should further considerations of repose by establishing an objective event to trigger the limitations period in order 'to enable the proper and efficient administration of the affairs of government.'"
> Kaprow, supra, at 587 (citations omitted).

This balance has been struck in cases where school boards fail to place teachers on a proper initial salary level by finding that the 90-day period begins to run when the teacher first became aware of the amount of her salary. O'Donnell v. Hanover Township, et al., 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 364; Boguszewski v. Scotch Plains-Fanwood Sch. Dist., 1986 S.L.D. 1717; Conner v. River Vale Bd. of Ed., 1986 S.L.D. 335 (Comm'r Feb. 18, 1986), aff'd 1986 S.L.D. 339 (St. Bd. Oct. 1, 1986); Spooner v. Palisades Park Bd. of Educ., 1986 S.L.D. 2175 (Comm'r Aug. 22, 1986), aff'd 1987 S.L.D. 2730 (St. Bd. Feb. 4, 1987). The 90 day period has also been found to run upon receipt of a first paycheck when the school board failed to credit teachers with an annual increment. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984). "From that paycheck, the teachers knew that they had not received their annual increment and that they had not advanced on the salary scale." Id., at 594.

It is uncertain in North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n, supra, whether the teachers there had actual knowledge that they were not awarded their annual increment, or whether they were charged with constructive knowledge. However, it has been found in the education context that a teacher receives adequate notice in the presence of facts about which they knew or should have known. Kaprow, supra, at 587. Thus, it appears that receipt of a paycheck provides constructive notice that an increment to which a teacher is entitled has been withheld.

In the instant matter, petitioners received notice of respondent's failure to credit them with master's degree salary increment when they received their first paychecks after attaining the advanced degree, sometime in September, 1989. Their petition filed in February, 1996 is therefore grossly out of time. This failure also affects their claims for each subsequent year, as the "time bar of the original action also precludes the dependent action for relief in future years." North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n, supra, 96 N.J. at 595. Petitioners' petition must therefore be DISMISSED.

Respondent's motion to dismiss this matter as time barred by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent alleged that suspension of minor daughter, V.H., was racially motivated in that V.H. received disparate punishment from that of minor's counterpart in an altercation.

ALJ concluded that petitioner's allegations of racial discrimination were out of time as she sought review of the disciplinary actions six months after the fact, and the Commissioner was without jurisdiction to address the necessity/appropriateness of the child study team referral. ALJ dismissed alleged violations of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and noted that petitioner abandoned her request for a hearing.

Commissioner adopted the initial decision as his own. Petition was dismissed.

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE MATAWAN-ABERDEEN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

J. H., petitioner, pro se

Robert J. Pruchnik, Esq., for respondent (Kenney & Gross, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 22, 1997 Decided: October 23, 1997

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on April 14, 1997, when J.H., parent and natural guardian of V.H., filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging, inter alia, that the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School District (hereinafter respondent) had unlawfully discriminated against V.H. on the basis of race. An answer was filed on behalf of respondent on May 22, 1997 and on May 29, 1997, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F- 1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on August 26, 1997, at which time a schedule was established for the filing and determination of respondent's motion to dismiss the petition of appeal. Respondent's motion was filed on September 15, 1997. Petitioner's responding papers were due to be filed on or before October 6, 1997. To date, no response has been filed by petitioner. Accordingly, I have closed the record as of October 22, 1997.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The following undisputed facts appear from the petition and respondent's motion papers.

During the 1996-97 school year V.H., whose date of birth is December 17, 1979, was enrolled as a ninth grade student at Matawan Regional High School. On September 25, 26 & 27, 1996, V.H. was disciplined by suspension from school for biting another student, K.K., on the left breast. On October 2, 1996, V.H. was disciplined for failing to arrive at her physical education class on time. She was thereafter disciplined with a five-day suspension from school for open defiance of an administrative directive that she refrain from having any contact with K.K. On October 17, 1996, V.H. received another suspension for again violating the same administrative directive. On October 31, 1996, respondent advised petitioner that V.H. had been referred to the child study team for an initial evaluation. The notice advised, inter alia, "V. has demonstrated a danger to others."

V.H. did not return to school after the conclusion of her last suspension on October 23, 1996, but instead enrolled in an alternative program, Project Open House, described in its own literature as a "short-term crisis intervention program for troubled adolescents and their families." Petitioner did not return a signed consent form to the district for commencement of the child study team evaluation. On January 9, 1997, respondent sent petitioner a second child study team referral packet with a request that petitioner execute and return the consent form. On January 14, 1997, respondent wrote to petitioner as follows:

> Given the fact that you have yet to provide the School District with written consent to conduct the Child Student Team evaluation of V.H., the School District must insist that V. not be permitted to appear on school grounds until the District has had an opportunity to evaluate her to determine if she should be a classified student and, if so, what the appropriate placement should be. This action must be taken given the violent behavior displayed by V. back in September which has resulted in the victim obtaining a restraining order for a period of 120 days from December 27, 1996, prohibiting any contact between V. and the student she attacked. In order to protect the students of the District as well as V., she will not be permitted on school grounds until the evaluation is completed.
>
> The District has not received the "permission for testing" form sent to you back in October. V's absence from school since that time was voluntary on her part (following the expiration of her suspensions due to the incidents in September and October) and it was assumed she was not going to return to the District given your conversations with Pat Vena of the Guidance Department over the last few weeks.
>
> However, V's return to school this week for the first time since early October, presents the District with a significant safety concern. Therefore, in the event you wish to have V. evaluated, please return the "permission for testing" form immediately. For your convenience, another form is enclosed. Once you have submitted the form, the District will have the legal right to conduct the necessary tests to determine V's current educational needs. During the time period of the testing, V. shall be provided with home instruction.
>
> Therefore, please submit the forms immediately so that an evaluation can be conducted and V. can receive home instruction while the evaluations take place. I regret that these steps need to be taken; however, I must insure that all students and staff in my building are safe. V's previous conduct, without a full evaluation, provided no such assurance.
> Thank you for your cooperation and attention to this matter.

The within petition of appeal was filed on April 14, 1997. The petition alleges that respondent's actions disciplining V.H. in October 1996 constituted unlawful discrimination in that V.H., who is Black, was disciplined while K.K., who is Caucasian, was not. The petition further alleges that the referral of V.H. to the child study team was also improperly, racially motivated and that the evaluation was being required without any legitimate, non-discriminatory purpose. Various procedural violations of the IDEA were also alleged.

Following the prehearing conference in the within matter, on August 27, 1997 the undersigned wrote to the parties as follows:

> This will confirm, pursuant to our telephone conference call on August 26, 1997, that respondent's motion to dismiss and supporting papers will be filed on or before September 15, 1997. Petitioner's responding papers will be filed on or before October 6, 1997.
>
> As I indicated to you during our conference call, whether respondent may require the completion of a child study team evaluation as a precondition for readmitting V.H. to class is an issue which must be addressed in a due process hearing pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7. The Commissioner of Education has no jurisdiction to decide this issue under his general authority, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, to determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. If respondent still feels that a child study team evaluation is necessary before V.H. may be readmitted to class, and if Ms. Holmes is still unwilling to consent to the evaluation, one or both of you should immediately request a due process hearing by writing to the Director of the Division of Special Education, Department of Education, P. O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500. Because the opening of school is imminent, you may wish to file an application for emergency relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1.
>
> Please notify me promptly if petitioners will be represented by counsel. In the meantime, Ms. Holmes should be sure to serve upon Mr. Pruchnik a copy of anything she files with me or with the Division of Special Education, and Mr.

> Pruchnik will continue to serve Ms. Holmes until and unless counsel enters an appearance.

Respondent's motion to dismiss the petition as untimely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 was received on September 15, 1997. No response has been filed by petitioner.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), the regulation relevant to a determination of respondent's motion, provides:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

Respondent argues that each of the actions of which petitioner complains took place in October 1996 and accordingly, the petition of appeal filed nearly six months later, is out of time and should be dismissed.

For the following reasons I CONCLUDE that respondent's position is correct and respondent's motion should be GRANTED.

The ninety-day statute of limitations established in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2 has been upheld as a valid exercise of the ruling-making authority of the State Board of Education. Kaprow v. Board of Educ. of Berkeley Tp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). As noted by the Court therein, the limitations period provides a measure of repose, an essential element in the proper and efficient administration of the school laws. A limitations period has two purposes, the Court explained:

> The first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims. Ochs v. Federal Ins. Co., 90 N.J. 108, 112, 447 A.2d 163 (1982). The second purpose is "'to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose'" by giving security and stability to human affairs. Ibid. (quoting Farrell v. Votator Div., 62 N.J. 111, 115, 299 A.2d 394 (1973)).
> > When a plaintiff knows or has reason to know that he has a cause of action against an identifiable defendant and voluntarily sleeps on his rights so long as to permit the customary period of limitations to expire, the pertinent considerations of individual justice as well as the broader considerations of repose, coincide to bar his action. [Farrell, supra, 62 N.J. at 115, 299 A.2d 394.]

With respect to each of the actions which petitioner alleges to be racially discriminatory, petitioner had notice, i.e., was fully aware of the Board's determination and articulated reasons therefor, in October 1996. Assuming, arguendo, that the child study team referral were an issue over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction in this matter, even the first child study team referral was issued in October and notice of same requesting her cooperation and authorization was sent to petitioner by letter dated October 31, 1996. Allowing three days for receipt after mailing, the latest date on which petitioner could have filed a timely petition of appeal was Monday, February 3, 1997. Although the petition of appeal does not make any mention of the October 31, 1996 child study team referral, it does contain an acknowledgment that petitioner was aware of respondent's demand that petitioner permit the evaluation on January 10, 1997; even if that were the first notice to petitioner, which it clearly was not, the April 14, 1997 petition of appeal would still have been filed out of time. As noted in my August 27, 1997 letter to both parties, however, whether legitimate reasons exist for requiring V.H. to undergo a child study team evaluation is not an issue over which the Commissioner has jurisdiction under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. If petitioner did not wish to have V.H. submit to a child study team evaluation, all she had to do was file a request for a due process hearing under N.J.A.C. 6:28-2.7, and the matter of V.H's admission to school pending completion of the child study team evaluation could have been determined on a motion for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:6A-12.1. Petitioner has at all times held the key to the school house door if she wished for V.H. to attend; she could have consented to the child study team evaluation, or she could have requested a due process hearing to contest respondent's insistence that the child study team evaluation take place. Because V.H. was sixteen years old as of December 17, 1995, respondent cannot compel her attendance at school. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-25. It would be unreasonable, therefore, to require respondent to incur the expense of a special education hearing to compel a child study team evaluation. V.H. does not have to attend school unless she wishes to do so. Although petitioner's daughter, V.H., has a right to attend the public schools free of charge until she reaches age twenty, she also has a responsibility to comply with reasonable rules and requirements. To challenge the reasonableness of those requirements petitioner is required to file a timely application for dispute resolution in a forum which has jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute. Although the ninety-day statute of limitations on rare occasions may be relaxed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15, the facts herein do not present the exceptional circumstances required to permit waiver of timely filing. The three separate disciplinary actions taken by respondent of which petitioner complains all took place in October 1996. The Commissioner would have had jurisdiction to consider whether respondent's actions were unlawful, arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable if petitioner had filed a timely request for review in January or perhaps even February 1997. There is no compelling reason for subjecting the disciplinary actions to review six months after the fact in April 1997, however, and the Commissioner is without jurisdiction to address the necessity/appropriateness of the child study team referral herein.

For all of the foregoing reasons, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's allegations of racial discrimination relating to incidents occurring in October 1996 are out of time, and it is therefore ORDERED that the petition of appeal in that regard is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE. The remaining paragraphs of the petition which allege violations of The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C.A. §1400-1485 are DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE. It is further ORDERED that the petition of appeal is DISMISSED for the additional reason that petitioner failed to file any response to the motion, and she is therefore deemed to have abandoned her request for a hearing.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the present Petition of Appeal was filed out of time and that no relaxation or waiver of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) is warranted in this instance for the reasons expressed in the initial decision. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON REMAND

SYNOPSIS

This matter, which began in 1994, concerned petitioning parents' challenge of Board's residency determination that their children were not entitled to a free public education in Holmdel. Two issues were on remand from the Court and from the State Board: 1) Should the doctrine of "unclean hands" bar the application of "equitable estoppel" from January 1990 to January 1994? (What did Mrs. Lee understand in December 1989 about purchase, ownership and rental of real estate ?) and 2) Should the principles of "equitable estoppel" apply after January 1994?

Having found Mrs. Lee's testimony incredible, the ALJ found that Mrs. Lee knew her boys were not entitled to free education in Holmdel when she sold the first Holmdel house sometime in 1989 since after that sale and for some time thereafter she owned no property in Holmdel and was not a taxpayer in Holmdel. Thus, the ALJ found that Mrs. Lee went into a December 12, 1989 meeting with Dr. Brennan, former superintendent, with "unclean hands" and following the meeting she understood that buying a condo and renting it out was not permitted. Therefore, the ALJ concluded that Mrs. Lee could not claim to Dr. LeGlise, the superintendent since 1993, that she was reasonably relying upon what Dr. Brennan told her. Equitable principles do not preclude the District from collecting tuition for the period from 1990 through 1994 nor bar recovery for tuition from 1994 through 1995. Petitioners were ordered to pay tuition for the time period of December 1989 through January 1994 and for the period from January 1994 through June 1995.

Having reviewed the record of the matter, including transcripts of the hearings, the Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part the initial decision. Noting the apparently ongoing misrepresentations offered by Dr. Brennan, the Commissioner was unwilling to ascribe bad faith to Mrs. Lee and, thus, the Commissioner declined to apply the doctrine of unclean hands in order to bar the application of equitable estoppel for the time period January 1990 through January 1994. As to the second issue, however, the Commissioner found that petitioners failed to meet their burden of showing that equitable principles should bar the District from recovering tuition after January 1994 when the Lees were not domiciled in Holmdel. Petitioners were ordered to pay tuition for the time period January 1994 through June 1995.

* An extension of time for issuing the initial decision was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

This matter commenced on April 11, 1994, when Whasun Lee as parent and guardian of V.L. and Albert Lee, individually (hereinafter petitioners) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education contesting the March 23, 1994 determination of the Holmdel Township Board of Education (hereinafter respondent) pursuant to P.L. 1993, Chapter 380, that Albert Lee and V.L., his brother, were not entitled to attend the public schools of the district free of charge. An answer and counterclaim were filed on behalf of respondent on April 18, 1994. On April 27, 1994, petitioners filed an answer to the counterclaim, and on May 2, 1994 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. Following a hearing which took place on November 2, 3, and 4, 1994, the undersigned issued an initial decision on March 24, 1995, which was adopted in part and modified in part by the Commissioner of Education on May 11, 1995. The State Board of Education affirmed the decision of the Commissioner on September 6, 1995. Petitioners filed an appeal with the Superior Court, Appellate Division, and on October 9, 1996, the court issued an opinion affirming the State Board's determination that equitable estoppel applied to bar tuition claims for the period between October 1987 and December 1989, as well as the State Board's legal conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d) did not provide the Lees' children with an entitlement to a free public education in Holmdel from January 1994 to June 1995. The Appellate Division remanded the case to the State Board of Education for consideration of whether equitable estoppel should apply to the period of time from January 1994 to June 1995. They also remanded for further consideration whether "unclean hands" should bar the application of equitable estoppel from January 1990 to January 1994. The court did not retain jurisdiction.

On December 4, 1996, the State Board of Education remanded the matter to the Commissioner of Education for such proceedings as might be required to fulfill the terms of the Appellate Division decision. The State Board also did not retain jurisdiction. On January 10, 1997, the Commissioner of Education re-transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for the issuance of an initial decision on the issues remanded by the Appellate Division. A supplemental prehearing conference was conducted on February 27, 1997. The prehearing order which was issued as a result thereof set forth the following as the issues for determination on remand:

1. Should the doctrine of "unclean hands" bar the application of "equitable estoppel" from January 1990 to January 1994?

   a. What did Mrs. Lee understand in December 1989 about purchase, ownership and rental of real estate?

2. Should the principles of "equitable estoppel" apply after January 1994?

The hearing on remand was conducted on April 28, 1997. Following that date the record remained open for the receipt of written submissions. A letter memorandum on behalf of respondent was received on July 15, 1997. A written summation on behalf of petitioners was received on July 17, 1997. Respondent replied by letter memorandum received on July 24, 1997. Petitioners' reply summation was received on July 25, 1997, whereupon the record closed.

ADDITIONAL FINDINGS OF FACT

As the Commissioner of Education noted in his May 11, 1995 opinion, the original findings of fact in this matter were made without the benefit of a transcript for the November 2 or the November 4, 1994 testimony. A transcript of the second day of hearing only, November 3, 1994, was provided. During the Appellate Division proceedings the transcripts of the November 2 and November 4 proceedings were produced and the transcripts of all three dates were marked into evidence in the within proceedings on remand. That portion of the Appellate Division opinion which required the within proceedings to address issue number one set forth hereinabove provided as follows:

> Were the ALJ's conclusion that the Lees "were fully aware [as of December 1989] . . . they were no longer entitled to attend the schools in Holmdel free of charge" supported by her findings of facts and the record, we could not quarrel therewith or, more importantly, with the Commissioner's and State Board's acceptance of that conclusion. Eg., Board of Educ. of Englewood Cliffs v. Board of Educ. of Englewood, 257 N.J. Super. 413, 456 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd, 132 N.J. 327, cert. denied, 510 U.S. 991, 114 S. Ct. 547, 126 L. Ed. 2d 449 (1993). We must accept such a determination if it is supported by substantial credible evidence. Breitweiser v. State Operated-School Dist. of Jersey City, 286 N.J. Super. 633, 637 (App. Div.

1996); Capodilupo v. Board of Educ. of West Orange, 218 N.J. Super. 510, 515 (App. Div.), certif. denied, 109 N.J. 514 (1987).

That conclusion, however, is supported by no more than the ALJ's factual finding that on December 12, 1989, after the Lees had sold their first Holmdel property, Dr. Brennan met with Mrs. Lee. According to him, he at that point "clearly articulated . . . his position that [the Lees] had to use the condominium [their new Holmdel property] as a residence in some meaningful fashion" and that "it would be 'proof positive' that they were not living there if he were to find out that the property was rented to someone else."

The difficulty with saddling the Lees with an unclean hands label premised upon this testimony of Dr. Brennan is not our disagreement with the ALJ's acceptance therewith, even though we might question that. Rather, it arises from the ALJ's simultaneous recognition of Mrs. Lee's very different version of that December 12, 1989 meeting.

Simply put, the concept of unclean hands used by the agencies below to preclude equitable estoppel beyond December 1989 was premised upon their conclusion that the Lees were, as of December 1989, disabused by Dr. Brennan of the notion, previously reinforced by him, that merely being taxpayers was sufficient to warrant a free education in the school district. But the doctrine of "unclean hands":

> expresses the principle that a court should not grant equitable relief to one who is a wrongdoer with respect to the subject matter of the suit. It calls for the exercise of just discretion in denying remedies where the suitor is guilty of bad faith, fraud or unconscionable acts in the underlying transaction. However, the doctrine "does not repel all sinners from courts of equity, nor does it apply to every unconscionable act or inequitable conduct" of a complainant. . . the doctrine may be relaxed in the interest of fairness.
> [Murray v. Lawson, 264 N.J. Super. 17, 37 (App. Div. 1993), aff'd as modified, 138 N.J. 206 (1994), cert. denied, ____ U.S. ____, 115 S. Ct. 2264, 132 L. Ed. 2d 269 (1995) (emphasis added and citations omitted).]

Mrs. Lee could not have been a "wrongdoer" if she did not comprehend what Brennan says he told her in December 1989. And there is some support, beyond her own testimony to that effect, to suggest that lack of understanding, as well as her continued reasonable reliance upon what she thought Brennan was telling her. For one thing, it is undisputed that on the day of this conversation, she immediately and without the usual cautionary measures a buyer would take, purchased a condominium in Holmdel and presented the contract to Mr. Brennan a few days later. He accepted it as sufficient to continue the children in the school district, despite the fact that the closing was some months in the future. Moreover, > subsequently in January 1994 when the new Superintendent, Susan Le Glise, finally made clear to Mrs. Lee that simply owning property and paying property taxes was not enough, she and her sons immediately commenced their residency of the Holmdel property. There is no reason to think that had Mrs. Lee been so clearly told in December 1989, she would not have done the same then.

>
> The difficulty we, thus, have in resolving the issue is that neither the ALJ, the Commissioner of the State Board focused upon Mrs. Lee's understanding of what Mr. Brennan said he expressed on December 12, 1989. Compounding that difficulty is the ALJ's recognition of Brennan's admission that Mrs. Lee may well have "walked away from the conversation thinking that purchase and ownership was enough." If she did, we are hardpressed to agree that the concept of "unclean hands" could fairly be applied to prevent the application of equitable estoppel beyond December 1989.
> We are not confident, however, that our exercise of original jurisdiction should be used to resolve this factual issue. We think the matter must be remanded to the State Board for reconsideration of the "unclean hands" concept with respect to the time period of January 1990 to January 1994. More specifically, additional factual findings must be made concerning Mrs. Lee's understanding of the December 12, 1989 meeting. If she did not comprehend that what she had previously been led to believe was sufficient, i.e., property ownership and payment of taxes, in fact was not sufficient, she cannot have "unclean hands." If she did, then the application of that concept would not be inappropriate. (Footnotes omitted)

My finding (and presumably the finding of both the Commissioner and the State Board) that the Lees were fully aware in December 1989 that they were not entitled to attend the public schools of respondent's district free of charge, related specifically to the period of time, however long it was, from the sale of their first house in Holmdel to the purchase of the condominium. After the first home was sold Mrs. Lee had no basis for continuing to send her children to the Holmdel schools. She knew that Dr. Brennan's reason for allowing the boys to return to Holmdel after they had transferred to Colts Neck was her continuing ownership of the house in Holmdel. Mrs. Lee had testified on November 2, 1994, that Dr. Brennan had said to her when she inquired about the possibility of her children returning to the Holmdel schools in 1997:

> A. . . . Of course, first I call. Yeah. Then Dr. Brennan said -- he say still you have -- you have a home then no problem. Yeah. That's -- . . .
>
> Q. He said, you have a home

> A. Yes, sir
>
> Q. . . . In Colt -- in Holmdel?
>
> A. Holmdel. Yeah. He said, you didn't sell? Yes, I didn't sell. Still -- just a home there is no problem. . . . (J-1 in evidence, page 36)
>
> . . .
>
> A. Yeah. He said is still -- still you have to own your house. I said, yes. You didn't sell. Yes, I didn't sell. Then oh, then no problem. You could come regi -- register then. . . .
>
> . . .
>
> THE WITNESS: Yes. Also I in front, too -- as long as you the taxpayer, you has a home, own something in this town, this is no problem. Especially later on he make him to buy to the condo also. Then he said --
>
> THE COURT: Don't get into that yet. (J-1 in evidence, pp. 39-40)

However, at the April 28, 1997 hearing on remand when asked by the undersigned whether she thought it was still okay to send her boys to school in Holmdel after she sold the first house in Holmdel, there was the following testimony and colloquy:*

> MR. NEWMAN: Now we're having a mix of --

---

* At the April 28, 1997 hearing Mrs. Lee testified in Korean, her native language, through a translator, Mr. Taeyon Lee (no relation). Although at the time I swore-in Mr. Lee as the translator I cautioned him that he was required to translate word-for-word everything which was said by each participant in these proceedings, unfortunately, as most translators do, he frequently lapsed into telling us what Mrs. Lee had said in his own words, e.g., "She was looking for a property to purchase," when he should have translated Mrs. Lee's statement, "I was looking for a property to purchase." This use of "she" is sometimes confusing. In addition, there were places during the testimony where it was apparent that Mr. Lee did not translate everything which was said, including, on one occasion, something he said to Mrs. Lee in Korean. (April 28, 1997 Transcript, p. 70, lines 19 to p. 71, line 10). Accordingly, permitting the use of a translator regrettably did not have the desired effect of producing a clearer record.

THE COURT: I hear some English. Yes, Let's hear what she said in Korean.

THE WITNESS: School for the children in Holmdel, it never entered my mind when I sold the house in Holmdel.

THE COURT: You have to tell me everything she said, Mr. Lee. Now, I heard a lot of conversation there and some of it was from you. So you have to tell me everything she said and everything you said.

THE WITNESS: At the time I thought that whenever I move and I could send my children to any place. And the fact that it's -- I sold the house. It not enter into my mind in relation to the children going to school since I though that I could send my children to any place I lived or wherever. Wherever my children wanted to. My children -- children they liked the new house at Colt Neck. And they cried and they wanted to continue living in Holmdel. There was their friends and the school there. And Dr. Brennan is the one who actually helped me in deciding that -- to purchase the property so children could go to school.

BY THE COURT:

Q. Now I'm confused as to time. When you say purchase the property so that the children could go to school are you talking about January of 1990, when you say purchase the property so that the children could go to school? That was January of 1990.

A. I don't exactly -- I can't -- what exactly does it mean.

Q. Say that again.

A. What exactly is the catch on here. I do not quite understand --

Q. Well, I'm having trouble understanding you even through the interpreter. When you say Dr. Brennan helped you purchase something so that the children could continue to go to school what are you talking about, what purchase?

A. (In English) Own something, property, and a taxpayer.

Q. All right. I understood that. Why don't you just talk to me. We'll let you have a little break. I heard her say own something. When -- when did Dr. Brennan first tell you that?

> A. I cannot remember exactly, but it was in the fall. It's in the beginning of school time.
>
> Q. What year?
>
> A. (In English) Same year, '89.
>
> Q. He never told you before that that you had to be a taxpayer and own something?
>
> MR. NEWMAN: Judge, I'm going to continue. I'd like to make an inquiry as to -- if I might -- respectfully to the Court how much longer the Court will seek this line of questioning?
>
> THE COURT: Until I get an answer, Mr. Newman. (April 28, 1997 T70-14 to 72-16)

She finally testified that the first time Dr. Brennan told her she had to own property and be a taxpayer was the fall of 1989 when she sold the first house. I FIND Mrs. Lee's testimony in this regard incredible. Nothing Dr. Brennan ever said to Mrs. Lee could reasonably have caused her to believe that she could send her children to school wherever her children wanted to go. Mrs. Lee's testimony on November 2, 1994 reflected her understanding of Dr. Brennan's reasoning for permitting the boys to return to the district, i.e., the Lee's still owned their house in Holmdel. The fact that she withdrew the boys from respondent's district and enrolled the boys in the Colts Neck school system when she first moved there in 1987, and when the boys clearly did not wish to leave the Holmdel schools, also reflects that she did not believe she could send them wherever she wanted to regardless of where she lived. I FIND that when she sold the first Holmdel house sometime during 1989, at that point she knew that the boys were not entitled to continue to attend the Holmdel schools free of charge. After she sold the first house and for some period of time thereafter, she owned no property in Holmdel and was not a taxpayer in Holmdel. Nevertheless, as I have previously articulated, she did not remove her students from the district and she did not call Dr. Brennan for advice. She waited to see what, if anything, would happen and only when she received a call and a letter from the district in December 1989 advising that the children could no longer attend, did she seek Dr. Brennan's advice and purchase another piece of property in Holmdel. My statement that Mrs. Lee was "fully aware" that her sons were no longer entitled to attend school in Holmdel free of charge had nothing to do with Dr. Brennan's advice at the December 12, 1989 meeting. Mrs. Lee went into that meeting with "unclean hands." Dr. Brennan did tell her at that meeting or perhaps in a telephone conversation before the meeting that she had to purchase something else immediately. I also found as a fact based upon the testimony heard at the November 1994 hearing, however, that Dr. Brennan told her not to rent the condominium because that would be proof positive that she was not living there. Mrs. Lee denies that Dr. Brennan ever said that to her. Mrs. Chu denies having heard Dr. Brennan say that. Mrs. Chu was not a credible witness in this regard either, however. Mrs. Chu repeatedly testified that she could not remember a good portion of the conversation which took place on that day. She acknowledged that conversation took place between Dr. Brennan and Mrs. Lee in her presence, but she claims that she did not hear most of the conversation, and she also testified that, at the time in question, she had a hearing problem for which she has since had an operation. Although the Appellate Division has questioned my findings that Dr. Brennan advised Mrs. Chu and Mrs. Lee that the property could not be rented out, citing, inter alia, "the ALJ's recognition of Brennan's admission that Mrs. Lee may well have 'walked away from the conversation thinking that purchase and ownership was enough.'" The words, "may well have," were not Dr. Brennan's words, nor were they mine. Those are the Appellate Division's words, and in my opinion, they are not supported by the record. What Dr. Brennan actually said in this regard appears in exhibit J-3 in evidence in a number of different places:

> . . . I do recall at that meeting telling Mrs. L -- and this is the one thing I am absolutely sure -- as sure as I can be that Mrs. L understood. That proof positive that they were not living in Holmdel would be if they rented that place out to somebody else. And I remember saying the same thing to Mrs. Chu, and saying, Mrs. Chu -- or whatever her name was -- you have -- seem to have a real understanding of this. And you need to convey this to Mrs. L about things work in this Country. And that if that -- if -- if I ever find out that that property is rented to somebody else, that will be proof positive that you are not in any way living there. (Page 22).
> . . .
>
> . . . But I believe Mrs. L understood and I know Mrs. Chu understood when I said proof positive that they were not living in Holmdel would be if that condominium were to be rented to a tenant. (Page 48).

. . . Q. So it's your testimony that Mrs. L could have understood from your conversation that owning a home and being a taxpayer would be sufficient for her sons to attend Holmdel School System?

A. That Mrs. L could have understood that?

Q. Yes.

A. That's possible.

Q. Okay. Is it probable?

A. I thou -- no. I thought Mrs. Chu did a good job -- and I'm not sure all of the -- all of the communication between Mrs. Chu and Mrs. L was in English.

Q. . . . Okay. Now, it's your testimony though that it's conceivable Mrs. L walked away with the understanding that owning a home, owning real estate in Holmdel and being a taxpayer sufficed?

A. That's conceivable. (P. 71 to 72)

A. . . . I think I said, the one thing that would establish beyond a shadow of a doubt that you're not living there is if you rent this. I think I did say condo. And if you rent this then that's proof positive that you're not living there.

Q. And Mrs. Chu was there when you said that?

A. Yes. And I -- and I said that to Mrs. Chu. Mrs. Chu, you obviously have great facility with real estate. And I expect you to advise Mrs. L on how things work in this Country and to tell her that if I find out this place is being rented, then that is proof positive that you are no way living in Holmdel.

Q. And there's no doubt in your mind that Mrs. Chu understood what you said. Is that right?

A. There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that Mrs. Chu understood that. She seemed to have a -- a great knowledge of real estate.

Q. But you told Mr. Kalac that there was some question that Mrs. L understood it. You think she did, but you can't be positive.

A. Of all the things -- of all the things I think Mrs. L understood or didn't understand, I think she understood that very well. Just something about the exchange in the office that day I thought Mrs. L understood that totally. But I -- but they were speaking I think at -- at times in the language other than English.

Q. Did you make any effort after this conversation to see whether the condo was rented?

A. None.

Q. And you know that there had been testimony in these proceedings that it was, in fact, rented almost for the entire time up until January of 1993. Is that right?. . . I'm sorry. Up -- up until January of 1994.

A. Mr. Barger told me that the place was rented almost from the beginning.

Q. . . . And was that the first time you knew it had been rented?

A. That's the first time I knew. Up 'till that time I thought -- well, okay, my procedures didn't pick this up. But after all, how many times is somebody going to buy a house and leave it vacant just to attend the Holmdel schools? It wasn't until Mr. Barger let me know yesterday that he knew it had been rented. I was very disappointed. I was very upset. . . . (pp. 95-96)

Stating that it was "possible" or "conceivable" that Mrs. Lee walked away from the meeting thinking that ownership and payment of taxes was sufficient is very different from concluding that she "probably" or "may well have" misunderstood. Anything is possible; it is not probable, however, that Mrs. Lee failed to understand Dr. Brennan's warning not to rent the property.

If Mrs. Lee had simply purchased the condo and refrained from renting it out, I would have concluded that she was, as the Appellate Division has said, reasonably relying on what she thought Dr. Brennan was telling her. Dr. Brennan did not provide any specifics of his advice to her that she had to use the condo in "some meaningful way." I have found that he made that statement, but without any further explanation from him, what reasonable persons might conclude from such a statement could differ. However, there can be no misunderstanding "don't rent it out."

Moreover, whether Mrs. Lee understood the concept of "domicile" when Dr. Le Glise explained it to her is not determinative of her right to a free public education for her children in Holmdel from January 1994 to June 1995. Everyone is presumed to know the law, whether she has actual knowledge or not. Matter of Kovalsky, 195 N.J. Super. 91 (App. Div. 1984). The Lees had no legal right to send their children to the Holmdel schools free of charge after some time in 1987 when they moved their domicile to Colts Neck. After that time and continuing to the present, the Lees have been domiciled in Colts Neck. This includes the period of time Mrs. Lee and the boys occupied the Holmdel condominium.* The only reason the Lees do not owe tuition for the period 1987 through 1989 is an equitable one, i.e., because Dr. Brennan misled them to believe that they were entitled, because they had not sold their first home, to continue to attend free of charge. They reasonably relied upon this misrepresentation. Because Dr. Brennan advised Mrs. Lee not to rent out the condominium, and I am convinced she understood that instruction, and because notwithstanding the Lees rented out the condominium almost immediately and continuing until January 1994 when Dr. Le Glise advised them of the requirements of domicile, the equities do not weigh in favor of the Lees. Mrs. Lee cannot claim that she was reasonably relying upon what Dr. Brennan told her. She was trying to have it both ways -- free tuition and rental monies to defray the cost of purchasing and owning the condo. I CONCLUDE that equitable principles do not preclude the district from collecting tuition for the period 1990 through 1994. Nor do I see how equitable principles could possibly apply to bar recovery for tuition from 1994 through 1995. Dr. Le Glise made no misrepresentations to petitioners. If the * Petitioners' post hearing brief inaccurately states that I found Mrs. Lee and the boys were domiciled in Holmdel from January 1994 to June 1995. My finding with respect to that time period was that Mrs. Lee and the boys were temporarily residing in the Holmdel condominium.

Lees did not understand the law at that point, it was not because of anything the district's superintendent said or did. The Lees were not domiciled in Holmdel after January 1994, but rather they resided temporarily therein. The fact that the Lees "gave up the rental of their Holmdel condominium in December 1993" and were terribly inconvenienced by "the task of establishing and maintaining a temporary residence" as the result of their good faith misunderstanding of what Dr. Le Glise said concerning "domicile" was not in any way the fault of Dr. Le Glise. How can the respondent be equitably estopped when the Lees ignorance of the law after January 1994 was not in any way induced by respondent? I CONCLUDE that equitable principles do not apply one way or the other after January 1994. Dr. Le Glise dispensed no misinformation upon which petitioners could reasonably rely.

One additional, incidental issue raised repeatedly throughout these proceedings by counsel for petitioners needs to be addressed. Petitioners made an application at the commencement of the April 28, 1997, supplemental hearing to preclude the testimony of any witness other than Mrs.. Lee. The basis for this motion was the following discussion in the Appellate Division opinion:

> The difficulty with saddling the Lees with an unclean hands label premised upon this testimony of Dr. Brennan is not our disagreement with the ALJ's acceptance therewith, even though we might question that. Rather, it arises from the ALJ's simultaneous recognition of Mrs. Lee's very different version of that December 12, 1989 meeting. 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 77, 79
> More specifically, additional factual findings must be made concerning Mrs. Lee's understanding of the December 12, 1989 meeting. If she did not comprehend that what she had previously been led to believe was sufficient, i.e., property ownership and payment of taxes, in fact was not sufficient, she cannot have "unclean hands." If she did, then the application of that concept would not be inappropriate. 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 77, 80

Counsel for petitioners argued that the only way for the undersigned to ascertain what Mrs. Lee understood is by and through the testimony and cross-examination of Mrs. Lee and no one else.

He argued that the introduction of testimony of any other witness would be irrelevant and prejudicial; particularly because of Mrs. Lee's difficulty with the English language, it would be impossible to know what influence the comments and actions of other people may have had on her understandings.

If counsel's argument in this regard held any merit whatsoever, there would have been no need for any additional testimony from anyone. Mrs. Lee could simply have submitted a certification stating that she did not understand that she was not permitted to rent out the condominium and that would have resolved the issue. When knowledge or state of mind is an issue, rarely can the issue be resolved solely on the direct testimony of the individual concerned. The self-serving nature of that individual's testimony is apparent, and personal interest is always a factor to be weighed in judging credibility. Accordingly, although the testimony of Mrs. Lee is certainly relevant on the issue of what she understood about ownership, paying taxes and rental of her real estate at the time she purchased the condo and almost immediately rented it out, a person's knowledge may be inferred from other circumstantial evidence which is usually more probative on the issue. Conduct may be illustrative of state of mind or knowledge. External circumstances, calculated by their occurrence to bring about the state of mind in question, are available to show the probability that knowledge subsequently ensued, and prior knowledge or subsequent knowledge may indicate its existence at the time in question. Wigmore on Evidence, Vol. III, Chapter 11, p. 47-48, sec. 244. I have found as a fact Dr. Brennan said to Mrs. Lee, in Mrs. Chu's presence, that she had to use the condominium in some meaningful way and that it would be proof positive that she was not so using it if she rented it out. Mrs. Lee's English language difficulty manifested itself throughout the hearing with a heavy accent which makes it difficult for others to understand her. I saw little evidence that she had difficulty understanding others when they spoke to her in English. If Mrs. Chu had testified that she explained to Mrs. Lee at or after the meeting that she should not rent out the condo, that would also have been relevant evidence of Mrs. Lee's knowledge. Of course, Mrs. Chu did not so testify, but the following testimony she did give on that issue when I asked her the question directly was so evasive and unresponsive as to permit the conclusion that she did have such a conversation with Mrs. Lee wherein she advised Mrs. Lee that she should not rent the condo.

Q. . . . Did you think there was anything wrong with helping Mrs. L. rent the property?

A. I cannot help anyone if they don't let me to help them.

Yeah. I can't do --

Q. Well, I understand that. Did you say anything to Mrs. L. like, hey, you shouldn't be renting this property?

A. I don't -- she's not my student and she's not my family member.

Q. Did you say that to her?

A. You know, it's not really my -- my -- my -- my -- my job.

Q. I know it isn't your job. Did you do it?

A. She came by and we have people need a place. And she say fine. That happened.

Q. I want to know if you, Mrs. Chu, ever said to Mrs. L., you really shouldn't rent this out.

A. I -- I don't know. Some time along the line, you know -- it's her decision.

Q. Right. Did you give her any advice about that?

A. It's her decision. I gave her advice before not to move to Colts Neck, to stay in Holmdel if her kids like to live in Holmdel.

Q. Um-hum.

A. So and she tell me Colts Neck it's a better place to live. You know, they are higher caliber. So I -- I don't know. I --

Q. . . . And you still haven't answered my question whether you said to her that you better not rent this out.

A. I -- I don't remember. I -- we have a meeting five, ten times or seven, eight times. And most of time I'm busy in and out. She kind of to catch me. Oh, I catch you here and then I catch you there. And then -- and my job is a Realtor. They need to buy a house they > buy from me. They -- they need -- you know, that's -- that's how I made my office.

>
> Q. I know. But you say you were her friend, too. Right?
>
> A. She has lots of friend.
>
> Q. Right.
>
> A. Yes.

> A. I don't know. Because a lot of times she -- I got my license. I would like to go to list her property. She say she have other realtor friend to list her Rambling Brook property. So she have lots of friends. Okay. (April 28, 1997 Transcript, 37-23 to 40-2)

If Mrs. Chu had not told Mrs. Lee that she should not rent out the condo, Mrs. Chu's answer to my question could have been a simple "no." As counsel for respondent has pointed out in his post-hearing written submission, Mrs. Chu's own guilty knowledge is revealed in her response to Mr. Newman's question, "You wouldn't have participated in renting this condominium for Mrs. L if you thought Dr. Brennan didn't want you to do that, would you?"*

> He never got a straight answer to his question, although he probably assumed that Mrs. Chu would say "no" or "of course not". She didn't. She danced around the question and talked about having coffee in the office with Mrs. Lee. Mr. Newman asked the question again and Mrs. Chu's answer the second time was "it's just happen". Mrs. Chu and Mrs. Lee obviously participated in this rental arrangement for their mutual benefit, Mrs. Chu receiving a commission and Mrs. Lee receiving a free education for her sons as well as rental income, and they couldn't care less what Dr. Brennan

* In her testimony at the first hearing, Mrs. Lee placed the responsibility for initiating the rentals on Mrs. Chu. (J-1, p. 51 "She knows what to do. Then I -- she said this kind of situation she what to do. . ." and J-1, p. 86 "She had to -- her own self that she said this is empty anyhow. We going to put it to the -- the people. Then I say whatever she -- she -- she knows everything. She said okay. Fine.") Attempting to shift the responsibility for renting out the property to Mrs. Chu also implies guilty knowledge on Mrs. Lee's part that she ought not to be ignoring Dr. Brennan's warning.

> had told them. (Post-hearing letter memorandum on behalf of respondent, dated July 14, 1997, page 2.)

Petitioners' argument that the only way to ascertain what Mrs. Lee understood was to ask her is without merit. Extrinsic evidence is always admissible to establish knowledge and state of mind - Wigmore on Evidence, Volume IA, p. 1854, Chapter 9, sec. 190 - and to attack credibility. Rules of Evidence, R. 607. The Appellate Division opinion points to circumstantial evidence from which to draw inferences concerning Mrs. Lee's understanding. Although one inference which could be drawn from the fact that she immediately rented out the property was that Mrs. Lee did not understand what Dr. Brennan had said, another inference, and the one I draw from all of the circumstances, is that Mrs. Lee saw Dr. Brennan as an ally (See, e.g., testimony at J-1, p. 41, lines 11-13: "Just that Dr. Brennan is a great educator. He understand what I -- my situation. I never any problem with him"). And Mrs. Lee did not expect that Dr. Brennan would check up further to see if she was using the condo herself or renting it out. The fact that she and the boys promptly moved into the condo after her conversation with Dr. Le Glise does not necessarily prove that she would have done so after her conversation with Dr. Brennan. I CONCLUDE that her actions following Dr. Le Glise's advice reflected her very different relationship with Dr. Le Glise and her consequent expectations concerning what further actions Dr. Le Glise would take. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that receiving additional testimony concerning the circumstances before the December 12, 1989 meeting, during the December 12, 1989 meeting, and after the meeting, was entirely appropriate for the purposes of ascertaining what Mrs. Lee understood following the meeting about her rights and responsibilities in connection with ownership of property and attendance at the Holmdel schools free of charge. I remain convinced that Dr. Brennan told both Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Chu that the property could not be rented out, that Mrs. Lee (and also Mrs. Chu) understood what Dr. Brennan had said to them in this regard and nevertheless proceeded to rent the condominium for their own purposes, Mrs. Lee for the rental income and Mrs. Chu for the commissions which she received for locating tenants. My recommendation to the Commissioner of Education concerning payment of tuition for the time period December 1989 through January 1994 therefore remains unchanged. Petitioners are hereby ORDERED to pay tuition for that period. Since there are no equitable principles which would apply to prevent respondent from collecting tuition for the period January 1994 through June 1995, based upon the State Board of Education's decision, dated September 6, 1995, petitioner's are also ORDERED pay tuition for that period.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, P. O. Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

WHASUN LEE, as parent and guardian of V.L. AND ALBERT LEE, individually,
PETITIONERS,
V.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF HOLMDEL, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record of this matter, including the transcripts of the hearings conducted on November 2, 3 and 4, 1994,[1] as well as the transcripts from the hearing conducted on remand at the OAL on April 28, 1997, the Commissioner determines to affirm in part, and to reverse in part, the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). In so determining, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding petitioners' arguments to the contrary, the ALJ did not use "this opportunity to circumvent the Appellate [Division's] findings " (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 2) and did not abuse her discretion by permitting the testimony of witnesses other than Mrs. Lee in order to determine the issues on remand.

The Commissioner initially notes that the issues on remand are (1) whether the doctrine of unclean hands should bar the application of equitable estoppel from January 1990 to January 1994;[2] and (2) whether the principles of equitable estoppel should apply after January 1994. (Initial Decision on Remand at p. 3) The Board bears the burden of proof with respect to the first issue, and petitioners carry the burden of proof with respect to the second issue. (Transcript for April 28, 1997 at p. 4) Thus, where petitioners argue that the Board "offered no proof on this [second] issue whatsoever," (Petitioners' Exceptions at p. 11) the Commissioner observes that it was without an obligation to do so.

The Commissioner finds that the record does not support the conclusion that the Board has proven, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the doctrine of unclean hands must bar the application of the principles of equitable estoppel in this matter from January 1990 until January 1994. As the Appellate Division noted, the doctrine of unclean hands > expresses the principle that a court should not grant equitable relief to one who is a wrongdoer with respect to the subject matter of the suit. It calls for the exercise of just discretion in denying remedies where the suitor is guilty of bad faith, fraud or unconscionable acts in the underlying transaction. However, the doctrine "does not repel all sinners from courts of equity, nor does it apply to every unconscientious act or inequitable conduct" of a complaint . . . the doctrine may be relaxed in the interest of fairness. (emphasis in text) (Lee v. Holmdel Township Board of Education, Appellate Division, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 77, 79, citing Murray v. Lawson, 264 N.J. Super. 17, 37 (App. Div. 1993), aff'd as modified, 138 N.J. 206 (1994), cert. denied, __ U.S. __, 115 S.Ct. 2264)

It is further recognized that

[2] In so examining, the sub-issue is what Mrs. Lee understood in December 1989 about purchase, ownership and rental of real estate.

> the "doctrines of unclean hands and estoppel . . . are somewhat akin. . . . They are flexible in their application, turning largely on circumstances involved in the . . . 'total situation.' . . . They may turn, too, upon the relative innocence or culpability of the plaintiff and defendant, for the law may aid the one who is comparatively the more innocent."  (O'Keefe v. Snyder, 83 N.J. 478, 517, citing Untermann v. Untermann, 43 N.J. Super. 106 at 109 (App. Div. 1956)

The Appellate Division quite succinctly instructed that "Mrs. Lee could not have been a 'wrongdoer' if she did not comprehend what Brennan says he told her." (Lee v. Holmdel Township Board of Education, Appellate Division, 97 N.J.A.R. 77, 79) The remaining question, however is whether Mrs. Lee could be "disabused by Dr. Brennan of the notion, previously reinforced by him, that merely being taxpayers was sufficient to warrant a free education in the school district," (id.) when there is no conclusive evidence on the record that Dr. Brennan gave her the accurate information to correct the misunderstanding. As to the meeting on December 12, 1989, Dr. Brennan testified as follows:

> Q: What happened at that meeting?
>
> A: We had a discussion of what it meant to send your kids to the Holmdel schools and what you would have to do. And I said that -- I told Mrs. L. and Mrs. Chu -- if that was her name -- what our procedures were; that I'd be checking the tax records. And that we'd be checking the transportation. And that it wasn't enough just to be landlord or even just to have a place, you had to be living there.
>
> And there were a number of people in Holmdel who had more than one house and they were living here or because of business or -- or family problem arrangements. I do recall at that meeting telling Mrs. L. -- and this is the one thing I am absolutely sure -- as sure as I can be that Mrs. L. understood. That proof positive that they were not living in Holmdel would be if they rented that place out to somebody else.

And I remember saying the same thing to Mrs. Chu, and saying, Mrs. Chu -- or whatever her name was -- you have -- seem to have a real understanding of this. And you need to convey this to Mrs. L. about [how] things work in this country. And that if that -- if -- if I ever find out that that property is rented to somebody else, that will be proof positive that you are not in any way living there.

Q: As a result of that meeting did Mrs. L. do something?

A: Did she do something?

Q: Did she come back the same day or next day?

A: I don't recall. But I remember her coming back with a contract of sale or a closing document. ***

Q: Do you recall what [the] contract was for? What type of a dwelling?

A: I don't.

Q: Could it have been a condominium?

A: It could have.

Q: You don't know?

A: I don't --I don't think it said condo on it. I think it just had an address. But it looked like a valid contract of sale. And I asked the secretary, put this in the jog file and --

Q: What is a jog file?

A: A jog file was just something that the secretary kept that a month later she would take out to make sure we would check the tax records.

Q: And when you checked the tax records, what did you find?

A: The Ls. were living in Holmdel. At least they had that place in Holmdel. (Transcript, November 4, 1994 at pp. 22, 23)

It is evident from Dr. Brennan's testimony that he did not, during the relevant time periods, possess an accurate understanding of the relevant law. On cross-examination, Dr. Brennan concedes the same:

Q: I would like to direct your attention to your concept of domicile back in 1987, 1988.

A: Um-hum.

Q: I believe you testified in your deposition that you knew a lot more about domicile after this litigation began than you did back then.

Y: Yes.

Q: Was it your testimony in the deposition that you were under the impression people could have two domiciles?

A: Two homes is what I thought.

Q: And if they had two homes they could have their choice of what District they would want to attend?

A: I really thought they had to be living in the -- in the Holmdel house to --- in some real way -- to attend the schools.

Q: Doctor, I'm referring you to page 66 of your deposition, August 9th, 1994.

A: Okay.

Q: Question, line two: In order for them to attend on a legal basis you had to establish which one was their domicile as the officer in charge of the residence attendance requirements. Is that correct?

You answered: I was of the opinion that there could be two homes, two houses, in which people spend some time and really live in both those places.

The next question was: And if that was your understanding then you were of the opinion there could really be two domiciliaries. Isn't that correct? Which is what you testified to earlier.

And your answer: That people could be living in one house and another. But I do recall telling Mrs. L. it's important that she vote at [the] Holmdel house and get your mail sent to the Holmdel house. But yes, I thought there was a possibility that you could spend time in more than one home and be legally domiciled in Holmdel.

A: That's correct.

Q: So you were of the opinion that the Ls owning the home in Holmdel -- which they've testified to as 23 Rambling Brook -- would satisfy as a domicile even though they owned a place in Colts Necks and spent time in both places. Is that correct?

A: Not just owning the place, but spending time there and living there in some sense.

Q: In some sense.

A: Yes. (Transcript, November 4, 1994 at pp. 43, 44)

Although the latter excerpt may have concerned the period of time in which the Lees still owned their house at 23 Rambling Brook Drive, Holmdel, after having purchased their home in Colts Neck, it nonetheless clearly demonstrates that Dr. Brennan did not appreciate the distinction between a residence and a domicile, and the legal entitlement to a free public education which flows only from the latter status.[3] N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. Accordingly, the Commissioner is unwilling to ascribe, bad faith, wrongdoing or fraudulent conduct to Mrs. Lee, in that such a label

[3] The Commissioner notes that this finding is not inconsistent with the ALJ's finding, and his affirmance of same, in the earlier decision that Dr. Brennan's testimony was internally consistent and that "he never wavered from his version of the conversation." (Lee v. Holmdel Township Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 215, 217) would presuppose that Mrs. Lee knew what the correct course of action would be.[4] Although the Commissioner wholly affirms the ALJ's observation that "[e]veryone is presumed to know the law, whether she has actual knowledge or not" (Initial Decision on Remand at p. 12, citation omitted), under these peculiar circumstances, considering the affirmative and apparently ongoing misrepresentations offered by Dr. Brennan, and further observing that > [i]t is undisputed that the responsible Holmdel school officials were aware of the Lees' move to Colts Neck;  that the Lees at no point made any effort to hide their Colts Neck residence, and that school bills and other notices were sent to the Colts Neck address, (Lee v. Holmdel Township Board of Education, Appellate Division, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 77, 78), the Commissioner declines to apply the doctrine of unclean hands in order to bar the application of equitable estoppel for the time period January 1990 through January 1994.

In so determining, the Commissioner has not rejected the ALJ's finding, following both the initial hearing and the hearing on remand, that upon selling their house at 23 Rambling Brook Drive in the fall of 1989, petitioners "were fully aware that even under Dr. Brennan's flexible concepts, they were no longer entitled to attend the schools in Holmdel free of charge." (Lee v. Holmdel Township Board of Education, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 215, 219; see also, Initial Decision on Remand at pp. 5, 8) As the ALJ observes, Mrs. Lee did not contact the district upon sale of the Holmdel house and remove the children from the Board's school system, but, rather, waited until the Board sent a letter advising the Lees that the boys could no longer attend the Holmdel schools. (Id.) Although there is no copy of this letter on the record, Lee, supra, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 215, 216, and there is no indication in the record of the exact date of the sale of the home at 23 Rambling Brook Drive, (id. at 221, footnote 1), the Initial Decision on remand indicates that the house was sold sometime in the fall and petitioner "received a call and a letter from the district in December 1989 advising that the children could no longer attend" school in the District. (Initial Decision on Remand at p. 8) Thus, there was a period of two or three months at most where Mrs. Lee might have removed her sons from the district or otherwise contacted the school to inquire about their continued attendance. Additionally, there was virtually no delay between the time petitioner was notified by the District that the children were ineligible to attend, and the time she came in to see Dr. Brennan and proceeded to act upon what she believed to be his instructions. Given this narrow time frame, as well as the dearth of documentation evidencing the degree to which the district clearly and correctly communicated its policies and expectations on residency, domicile and school attendance, and further cognizant of the Board's burden on this issue, the Commissioner, mindful of the "total situation" and flexible nature of equitable principles, (see O'Keefe, supra), cannot find that petitioner's inaction pursuant to the sale of the Holmdel house must preclude the application of equitable estoppel for the time period January 1990 through January 1994.

[4] Indeed, had Mrs. Lee immediately followed Dr. Brennan's direction after the December 1989 meeting and occupied the Holmdel house "in some meaningful way," but, still maintained the home in Colts Neck, as, in fact, she did after January 1994, she still would not have been entitled to send her children to the Holmdel schools since the Lees still would not have been domiciled in Holmdel.

As to the second issue, however, the Commissioner finds that petitioners have failed to meet their burden of showing that equitable principles should bar the District from recovering tuition after January 1994, a period in time where it has been determined that the Lees were not domiciled in Holmdel, but in Colts Neck, notwithstanding their temporary occupation of the condominium in Holmdel, and were not entitled to a free education under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1d. As the ALJ aptly noted,

> How can the respondent be equitably estopped when the Lees' ignorance of the law after January 1994 was not in any way > induced by respondent?  Dr. LeGlise dispensed no misinformation upon which petitioners could reasonably rely.

> (Initial Decision on Remand at p. 13)

Indeed, Dr. LeGlise provided uncontradicted testimony that she met with petitioners and specifically explained to them the meaning of the term "domicile," and the significance of same with respect to the entitlement to a free education. (Transcript, November 2, 1994 at pp. 25, 26) Thus, there is simply no evidence on the record to support a finding that the doctrine of equitable estoppel should be applied after January 1994.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is reversed with respect to the first issue, as set forth herein, and affirmed with respect to the second issue, as set forth in the initial decision and amplified herein. The Commissioner, therefore, directs that petitioners are responsible for tuition to respondent for the time period January 1994 through June 1995.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Association contended that the Board's decision to provide nursing services through a contract with a private vendor was unlawful and improper. Board alleged that once one or more school nurses were employed directly by it, it was free to contract out for the provision of additional nursing services.

ALJ found that applicable statutory language greatly restricts a board's freedom to contract out and seems clearly to require that all school nurses be employed directly by the Board except in very narrow areas -- where there exists an original contract or agreement entered into prior to February 27, 1957, or any renewal or modification thereof. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the determination by the Board to contract out school nursing services for the 1996-97 and the 1997-98 school years to Northwest Covenant was ultra vires. ALJ ordered the contracts declared null and void.

In light of recent Old Bridge Twp. Ed. Assoc. decision, Commissioner modified the findings and conclusion of the ALJ. Commissioner noted that a district must employ a sufficient number of school nurses to ensure the adequate provision of the duties specifically reserved for certified school nurses. However, there is nothing to prevent a board from duly determining for reasons of economy or efficiency that other nursing services would be provided by health professionals who hold the requisite license from, and are supervised in accordance with requirements of, the Board of Nursing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et seq. Commissioner found it is clear that school nurses must be employees of the district; however, nothing in the controlling statute would act to preclude a board from contracting for the services of noncertificated nurses, performing duties consistent with the dictates of Old Bridge. The Board was directed to review its assignments to determine whether the duties performed by the noncertificated nurses employed by contract conflict with duties specifically reserved for certificated nurses and to adjust its staffing as necessary.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law by the Department of Education as a contested case on October 23, 1996 following the filing of a petition by the Dover Education Association with the Commissioner wherein it alleged that the Dover Board's determination in June 1996 to contract with a private entity (Northwest Covenant Medical Center) to provide the services of two full-time registered nurses for the 1996-97 school year violated N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 and 40-3.1. Petitioner claimed those statutes required the Board directly to employ school nurses and left it no discretion to contract privately for them. The Board filed an Answer denying the allegations of the petition and took the position that it had the statutory right to take the action it did. Northwest Covenant also filed an Answer denying it had participated in any improper action with respect to its contract with the Dover Board. As the result of a telephone prehearing conference conducted by the undersigned administrative law judge in May 1997 it was agreed the matter could be disposed of by way of cross-motions for summary decision based upon a Joint Stipulation of Facts. Thereafter, the Stipulation, briefs and reply briefs in connection with cross-motions for summary decision were filed.

JOINT STIPULATION OF FACTS

As noted, the facts upon which parties have filed cross-motions for summary decision are set forth in a Joint Stipulation of Facts which, together with pertinent accompanying exhibits, states as follows:

1. Petitioner is the majority representative of all certified non-administrative staff employed by Respondent, Board of Education of the Town of Dover (the "Board")

2. The Board is obligated to provide school nursing services in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1 and N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2.

3. By resolution passed on June 24, 1996, effective September, 1996, the Board resolved to provide school nursing services through a contract with a private nursing service, respondent Northwest Covenant Medical Center/Dover General Hospital ("Northwest"). (Exhibit J-1).

4. On July 19, 1996, the Board and Northwest entered into a contract for nursing services (the "Agreement") effective for the 1996-97 school year. (Exhibit J-2).

5. In accordance with the terms of the Agreement, the Board agreed to engage Northwest for the provision of two (2) full-time registered nurses to perform nursing services at the Academy Street School, North Dover Elementary School and the Kindergarten Annex. (Exhibit J-2,¶1, Schedule A).

6. A job description for these positions was also made a part of the Agreement and is attached hereto as Exhibit J-2, Schedule B.

7. A job description issued by the Board for the position of School Nurse also exists and is attached hereto as Exhibit J-3.

8. Pursuant to said nursing services Agreement, and by and through Northwest, the Board engaged Virginia Rumbelow and Suzanne E. Herbst to serve as full-time nurses for the Board during the 1996-97 school year.

9. Ms. Rumbelow holds an Education Services Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners with an endorsement as a school nurse. (Exhibit J-4).

10. Ms. Herbst holds an Emergency Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners with an endorsement as a school nurse. (Exhibit J-5).

11. The 1996-97 nursing services Agreement expired at the conclusion of the 1996-97 school year.

12. On June 20, 1997, Northwest and the Board entered into a subsequent nursing services Agreement ("Agreement") for the 1997-98 school year. (Exhibit J-6).

13. In addition to the above-described nursing services agreements, the Board also directly employed two (2) tenured, full-time school nurses during the entire 1996-97 school year. As of the date of this Stipulation [July 8, 1997], the Board continues to directly employ two (2) tenured full-time school nurses.

14. On September 6, 1996, a Petition of Appeal was filed by Petitioner with the Commissioner of Education.

15. On or about September 18, 1996, Respondent Northwest filed an answer to the Petition.

16. On or about September 24, 1996, Respondent Board filed an Answer to the Petition.

17. On or about November 1, 1996, the matter was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested matter.

DISCUSSION

Prior to 1968, the employment of school nurses by boards of education was permissive. However, Laws 1967, Chapter 271, amending N.J.S.A. 18:14-56, and presently codified as N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, provided that, "every Board of Education . . . not furnishing nursing services under a contract pursuant to §18A:40-3.1 shall employ one or more school nurses, . . . and the Board shall fix their salaries and terms of office".

N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1, cited in the previous section, governed how boards are to secure the services of a school nurse and specifically recognized that the performance of school nursing services in any public school could be continued under an original contract or agreement entered into prior to February 27, 1957, or under any renewal or modification thereof. The statutes essentially have remained unchanged since their enactment. See also, N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b).

According to the Dover Board, once one or more school nurses have been employed directly by it; thereafter, it is free to contract out for the provision of additional nursing services if it deems this to be appropriate. Thus, since the Board has maintained the direct employment of two tenured, full-time school nurses during the time periods here in issue, it insists its determination to contract with Northwest is not assailable. For the reasons which follow I disagree.

The interpretation of any statute, " . . . necessarily begins with consideration of its plain language". Lammers v. Bd. of Ed., 134 N.J. 264, 267 (1993). Thus, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 provides that any board not furnishing nursing services under contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1 shall employ one or more school nurses and fix their salaries and terms of office. The only exception to such direct employment by a board is an original contract or agreement entered into prior to February 27, 1957, or any renewal or modification thereof. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1 encompasses every person employed as a school nurse in the public schools of this State and establishes only two options under which a board shall provide school nursing services. The first is directly to employ school nurses. The only other option allows a board to continue to provide nursing services under a valid contract or agreement originally entered into on or before February 27, 1957. The Dover Board's interpretation would create an additional exception; namely, that once a single school nurse has been hired, the statute no longer applies and a board then is free to secure school nursing services in any manner it chooses, just as it may do with other classes of employees such as "crisis intervention therapists", see, Edison Tp. Ed. Ass'n v. Edison Bd. of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 301, aff'd 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 592 (State Board), aff'd. 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 463 (App. Div.); guidance services, see Colantoni v. Longhill Bd. of Ed., 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU)396; and speech correctionists, see, Impey v. Shrewsburgy Bd. of Ed., 142 N.J. 388 (1995).

In my view, exceptions to statutes generally are to be strictly construed and there is a presumption that a statute applies to all cases not specifically excepted. See, e.g., State v. Reid, 34 N.J. 554 (1961); Young v. Schering Corp., 141 N.J. 16 (1995). Where, as here, a statute expressly enumerates a narrow exception, the exception should not be enlarged, nor additional exceptions carved out without a clear expression of legislative intent. Application of these principles to the particular statutes involved in this case support the position taken by petitioner that except in very limited circumstances all school nurses providing services in the public schools must be employed directly by the local board.

In further support of this conclusion I also would point to the provisions of Laws 1991, Chapter 226, N.J.S.A. 18A:40-25, which expanded the scope of a local board's responsibility for providing access to health care services for all school age children, even those attending non-public school. There, the Legislature expressly permitted a Board to contract for the provision of school nurse services by persons who were not directly employed by the Board. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-28; see also, N.J.A.C. 6:29-8.2(a)1. No similar such express exception exists in the statutes involved in the case before me.

Although, as noted, the Dover Board relies upon a number of cases which upheld decisions by boards to "contract out" for certain services, all are distinguishable. Although in those cases the contracts were upheld, generally as a matter of "managerial prerogative", they were limited to situations where the action did not conflict with specific school laws. See, Impey v. Bd. of Ed. of Shrewsbury, supra; Edison Twp., supra, and cases cited therein. The decision in Hunterdon Central High School Association v. Hunterdon Central High School Board of Ed., 1988 S.L.D. 2468, aff'd Sup. Ct., (App. Div.) Dkt. No. A-5036-87T2, June 28, 1989; nor in Englewood Teachers' Association v. Englewood Board of Ed., 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 172, aff'd State Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 423, do not support a contrary conclusion since both involved custodial services and an entirely different statute. Indeed, a recent decision not cited by the parties lends additional support to the petitioner's position. Thus, in Vincenzo v. Board. of Educ. of the Twp. of Bedminister, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 356, the Commissioner affirmed an ALJ's decision that the termination of a tenured member of the core Child Study Team (school social worker) and the reallocation of some of her duties to an outside contractor violated regulations which required that such team members must be employed directly by the school district and the board had no discretion to engage an outside contractor to perform their duties.

In short, none of the cases relied upon by the Dover Board involve statutory language comparable to the language of the statutes involved in this case which, as noted, greatly restrict a board's freedom to contract out and seem clearly to require that all school nurses be employed directly by the board, except in the very narrow areas mentioned. Any further exceptions are for the Legislature to enact.

CONCLUSION AND ORDER

Accordingly, for the reasons set forth above, I CONCLUDE that the determination by the Dover Board of Education to contract out school nursing services for the 1996-97 and the 1997-98 school years to Northwest Covenant was ultra vires its statutory and regulatory authority. Thus, I ORDER those contracts be declared null and void. [1]

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box

[1] In light of my decision it is not necessary to address the subsidiary issue involving Ms. Herbst's "emergency" certification. See Joint Stipulation, para. 10.

DOVER EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY AND NORTHWEST COVENANT MEDICAL CENTER/DOVER GENERAL HOSPITAL COMPANY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions were timely submitted by the respondent, Town of Dover Board of Education, which recast and reiterate many of the arguments presented in papers previously considered by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Petitioner's exceptions were also filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Each of the aforesaid submissions were duly considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, and in view of recent developments in related case law, the Commissioner is constrained to modify the findings and conclusion of the ALJ that the determination of the Board to contract out nursing services, for the 1996-97 and 1997-88 school years, to an outside contractor is violative of N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.1 and the interpreting regulation promulgated thereto, N.J.A.C. 6:29-1.2(b). Initially, the Commissioner observes that the education laws clearly require each school district to employ at least one school nurse, who must be appropriately certified by the State Board of Examiners and who is considered a teaching staff member for purposes of salary, tenure and evaluation and to perform duties expressly reserved to school nurses. N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1, 18A:40-3.1. Further, in light of the Commissioner's recent decision in Old Bridge Township

Education Association et al. v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, Middlesex County, Decision No. 621-97, decided November 26, 1997, it is now settled that the District must employ a sufficient number of school nurses to ensure the adequate provision of the duties specifically reserved for certified school nurses. (Id. at p. 14). However, the Commissioner also ruled therein that, > where education law is silent on the provision of specific nursing services and support functions related to them, and such services do not otherwise require educational certification, there is nothing to prevent a board of education from duly determining, for reasons of economy or efficiency, that these nursing services will be provided by health professionals who hold the requisite license from, and are supervised in accordance with the requirements of, the Board of Nursing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 45:11-23 et. seq. (Id.)

Additionally, so long as noncertificated nurses do not perform nursing functions requiring a certificate except as delegated by the school nurse, and so long as professionals practicing under authority of a license are supervised in accordance with any conditions specified by the terms of that license, there is nothing to prevent duly qualified persons from assisting certificated school nurses in the performance of duties reserved by law to such nurses.

The present matter raises the issue as to whether a school board may subcontract for nursing services with a private agency such as respondent Northwest Covenant Medical Center. For the reasons stated by the ALJ, it is clear that school nurses must be employees of the district. However, nothing in the controlling statute would act to preclude a board from contracting for the services of noncertificated nurses, performing duties consistent with the dictates of Old Bridge, supra. It has been held in numerous cases that boards of education may subcontract positions and services which would otherwise be assumed by board employees. See Impey v. Board of Education of the Borough of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388 (1995); Vincenzino v. Bedminster Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 356; Colantoni v. Long Hill Township Board of Education, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 326. Such cases are based on a recognition that "[t]he decision to contract for services is generally a matter of managerial prerogative and is only limited where such action conflicts with specific rights established under the school law." Edison Township Education Association v. Edison Township Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d

(EDU) 301, 303. Because subcontracting for nursing services, other than school nursing services as set forth in Old Bridge, does not violate the applicable statutes or regulations, the Board acted in conformance with its authority at N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 (authorizes boards of education to perform all acts and do all things, consistent with law and State Board rules, necessary for proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools). See, also, Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960) (a board's actions are presumed valid).

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed herein, the recommended decision of the OAL is modified to the extent set forth above. Consistent with the decision herein, the Board is directed to review its assignments to determine whether the duties performed by the non-certificated nurses employed by contract conflict with duties specifically reserved for certificated nurses and to adjust its staffing as necessary.

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 12, 1997

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Zazzali, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Richard A. Friedman, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Board of Education of the Town of Dover, Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Lester Aron, Esq. and Peter Schultz, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Northwest Covenant Medical Center/Dover General Hospital, Mary Joan Sugrue, Esq.

This case centered on a single question: whether, or to what extent, the applicable statutes conferred the authority on a district board of education to contract with a private entity for nursing services.

July 5, 2000

As stipulated by the parties, the Board of Education of the Town of Dover (hereinafter "Board") sought to meet its obligations under N.J.S.A. 18A:40-1 and 40-3.1 during the 1996-97 school year through a combination of the direct employment of two certified school nurses and by contracting with Northwest Covenant Medical Center/Dover General Hospital ("NCMC"). Pursuant to that agreement, NCMC provided two full-time registered nurses to perform nursing services mirroring those provided by the school nurses employed by the district.

The ALJ concluded that the contracts at issue were ultra vires because the Board did not have the authority to contract for these services. The ALJ's conclusion was grounded in the language of those two statutes, which he construed strictly, presuming that they applied to all cases that were not specifically excepted from such application.

The Commissioner modified the ALJ's conclusions. Stressing that it was now settled that the district must employ a sufficient number of school nurses to "ensure the adequate provision of the duties specifically reserved for certified school nurses," the Commissioner reasoned that contracting was permitted "so long as noncertificated nurses do not perform nursing functions requiring a certificate except as delegated by the school nurse and so long as professionals practicing under authority of a license are supervised in accordance with any conditions specified by the terms of that license...." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 10. On this basis, the Commissioner concluded that the Board had acted consistently with the general authority conferred on it by N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, but he directed the Board to "review its assignments to determine whether the duties performed by the noncertificated nurses employed by contract conflict with duties specifically reserved for certificated nurses and to adjust its staffing as necessary." Id. at 11.

Petitioner, the Dover Education Association, filed the instant appeal to the State Board.

On April 19, 2000, our Legal Committee issued a report in which it recommended reversing the decision of the Commissioner. The Legal Committee concluded that, under the statutory scheme, a district board retained the managerial prerogative to contract with a private entity for nursing services to supplement school nursing services provided under the statutory mandate, but could not supplant the provision of nursing services that would otherwise be provided by certified school nurses employed by the district. The Committee found that, in this instance, the contract nurses were supplanting the services that would ordinarily be provided by school nurses employed by the district by providing exactly the same services that those nurses would provide, in violation of the pertinent statutes.

In exceptions filed in response to that Report, the Board maintained that any violations of the school laws had been rendered moot by virtue of the fact that its contracts for registered nurses had terminated on July 1, 1999 and that it had entered into no further contracts for such services. The Board pointed out, in addition, that N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3, which was enacted in 1999, precluded it from placing any uncertified nurse in a school building without the immediate physical supervision of a certified school nurse.[1]

[1] N.J.S.A. 18A:40-3.3 provides in pertinent part that:

> ....A school district may supplement the services provided by the certified school nurse with non-certified nurses, provided that the

After a careful review of the record in light of the exceptions filed, we agree with the Board that this matter has been rendered moot. In so concluding, we stress that the only relief sought by the petition in this case was a declaration that the contracts with NCMC were invalid under the statutes in effect during the relevant time period. We therefore dismiss the appeal in this matter.

Attorney exceptions are noted.

OF WOODBRIDGE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent custodian for allegedly engaging in physical labor while out of work on sick leave.

ALJ dismissed tenure charges finding that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the conclusions that respondent was committing fraud against the system or that removal of tenure was necessary. ALJ ordered respondent returned to his position with compensation.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

v.

JERRY GRANATO,
Respondent.

Carl J. Palmisano, Esq., for petitioner (Palmisano and Goodman, attorneys)

Randi Doner April, Esq., for respondent (Balk, Oxfeld, Mandell and Cohen, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 8, 1997 Decided: October 29, 1997

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

The Board of Education of Woodbridge Township filed a Certification with the Commissioner of the Department of Education seeking the removal of tenure status from Jerry Granato, a tenured janitor. The Commissioner referred the contested case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing on January 6, 1997. A prehearing conference was held on February 24. Hearings were scheduled for May, but were adjourned due to the illness of Mr. Granato's counsel. Additional hearing dates scheduled for June and August were adjourned due to efforts to resolve the case and/or the unavailability of Mr. Granato's attorney. A hearing was held on October 8, 1997, and the record closed following the completion of testimony and closing comments by counsel.

The Board alleges that Mr. Granato, who was out of work on sick leave in the latter part of September and the month of October, 1996, was observed engaging in physical labor which was inconsistent with his claim that he could not perform his responsibilities. More specifically, the Board at hearing presented a surveillance videotape showing Mr. Granato climb into the open body of a pickup truck, shovel dirt and exit the truck, "jumping" out of it while holding the body with his hands. This event occurred on October 16, and on that date Mr. Granato was admittedly out of work on an approved sick leave based upon a series of notes from a physician which had excused him from work since September 25. The most recent note was dated October 14, and it was to cover until October 17, on which date Mr. Granato was to see the physician again. The Board charges that Mr. Granato engaged in conduct unbecoming a public employee.

The evidence presented at the hearing consisted of a surveillance videotape, the Board only relying upon that portion of the videotape which shows Mr. Granato during a period of time from 10:02 to 10:20 A.M. (not including all of the 18 minutes of actual time encompassed therein) on October 16, and Mr. Granato presenting his own testimony and that of several witnesses. The videotape does show that Mr. Granato was present at the premises of Bartel Landscaping t/a Woodbridge Power Equipment and Landscape Supply on October 16. He is observed entering the truck's cargo area, and within a period of about one and on-half minutes he shovels dirt 26 times from the rear towards the front of the truck in rather rapid succession. During this time he appears to turn his head towards someone standing at the rear of the truck and that gentlemen at one point makes a motion with his hand in which he holds his hand up and moves his fingers towards himself in a gesture seemingly saying to the man in the truck, "come here," or something similar. After this approximately one and one-half minutes of shoveling, Mr. Granato grabs the edge of the truck and "vaults" out to the ground. The other man has now taken the shovel, entered the truck and he shovels more of the contents. Mr. Granato is also observed helping to stretch a tarp, stretching his body as he does so. This is the extent of the surveillance videotape which the Board believes portrays conduct unbecoming a public employee.

Richard K. Nalasco testified that he is the man observed at the truck with Mr. Granato. He identified himself as the manager of the Landscaping Supply company and explained that Mr. Granato's father was a customer. The respondent sometimes came in to the store with his father.

On October 16, Nalasco loaded a yard of topsoil into the Granato vehicle and was to also load some mulch. He explained that the general policy of the storeowner was that customers were responsible for "cleaning up" or "trimming" a customer's vehicle. Therefore, Nalasco "hardly ever" does so, and as the intention in this situation was to load the mulch in the back end of the Granato truck, it would normally be Granato's job to move the soil to the front. However, Granato said that he had hurt his back, that it hurt him a lot and that he could not continue. He did not directly ask Nalasco to take over. Since the company is fairly new, Nalasco felt that it was a good idea to try to help out customers. Thus, he gestured to Granato to give him the shovel and he did enter the truck bed and shovel dirt.

Questioned about his knowledge of whether Granato was actually hurt, Mr. Nalasco pointed out the way that Granato shoveled, standing fairly straight up and without bending over or bending his legs, and contended that this was an "improper" way to shovel, which to him was indicative of a person with a bad back or other such injury. (He did not mention that it appears that Granato may have been using the inside wall of the truck to brace himself as he shoveled.)

As of October 16, Nalasco did not know where Granato worked, or that he was out on sick leave.

Phillip A. Sarno, now with Unieco Service Co., was formerly a supervisor of janitors for the Woodbridge Board. Mr. Granato was one of the janitors whom he supervised. He related that Granato was injured on a Friday when he was cutting the grass at the Woodbridge Middle School and the mower struck an exposed tree root, jamming his back. Granato was sent to a doctor at the Hadley Medical Center where Board employees were normally treated. He at first was told by the doctor that he could do his job, but a few days later, Granato complained that he was having trouble when he had to stretch, such as when he had to clean the chalk boards. He recalled that Granato received a note from the doctor which said that he could perform light duty, but the witness explained that there really was no such thing as far as a janitor's duties were concerned.

Jerry Granato testified that he started at Woodbridge in 1989 or 1990. He explained that on October 16, he was picking up the dirt and mulch load for his father, who was landscaping the front of the father's home. The dirt in the back had to be moved up to the front, but after six or seven passes with the shovel, Granato was advising Nalasco that he could not continue. Nalasco said that the mulch could go on to the top of a tarp in the back. Granato jumped out of the truck, holding on to the side. The landing hurt him.

According to the witness, on "many" occasions he told the doctor who was advising that he stay out of work that he could work, but the doctor told him that he had to wait for an MRI test. Granato was told by the therapist to do stretching exercises, not to stay still, to try to do things, but not to overdo. He insisted that the videotape represented the only occasion during his sick leave on which he shoveled dirt. He was finally diagnosed with two herniated disks and arthritis. He was released to return to work in early November and was suspended from work the same day as a result of the pending charges.

DISCUSSION

The evidence in this case is very limited. We have a videotape, actually, while that videotape shows surveillance of the respondent on three days in October, the Board only asserts that it demonstrates any relevant and purportedly revealing conduct during the eighteen minutes from 10:02 to 10:20 on October 16. We have the testimony of Messrs. Granato, Nalasco and Sarno. We have a series of doctors' notes. These reveal that Mr. Granato first received a note from a doctor on September 20, which placed him on light duty with "no lifting or bending," restrictions which Mr. Sarno explained were not feasible for janitors. The next note, from September 25, excuses Mr. Granato from work till September 30, thereafter the notes continue to excuse him for an ongoing and continuous period of three or four days. He is referred on the 3rd of October for an MRI of the spine. As noted, the note for the October 14 visit excuses him until a follow-up visit on the 17th, and on the 17th he is again excused till the 23rd. On November 6, he is told that he can return to work, again with a restriction against lifting.

The doctor's notes tell us nothing as to the conversations between doctor and patient, tell us nothing about whether he did or did not say he could work and whether the doctor held him back until the MRI was performed and evaluated. Thus the notes provide only the barest information as to the outcome, but not the contents and context of the visits themselves.

At first glance the video of Mr. Granato is startling, when the fact is considered that at that same time he was out of work on sick leave for a bad back. However, the testimony of Messrs. Granato and Nalasco puts the event in context, and Nalasco's obviously spur of the moment gesture and Granato's turn toward him while shoveling, plus Nalasco's observations as to the manner in which Granato was shoveling, all lend substantial credence to Granato's story. He may have foolishly attempted to do a physical activity for which he was not yet ready, but in the absence of any other incidents of even questionable conduct during the surveillance, I cannot find that the small vignette on the videotape is sufficient to warrant any conclusion that he was cheating, that he was lying to anyone about his condition, that he was shirking work, that he was committing any fraud against the system. If he was, then the proofs are simply lacking to allow punishment, especially the removal of tenure.

For the reasons set forth, the tenure charge is DISMISSED. Mr. Granato shall be made whole for his losses in wages and benefits, and if he is otherwise fit for duty, he shall be returned to work in his former position with any appropriate salary and benefits adjustments. An affidavit of lost wages and benefits shall be served on counsel for the Board as soon as possible and not later than 30 days from the date of this initial decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter, including a videotape, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that respondent's actions, as proven, do not constitute unbecoming conduct for the reasons expressed therein. In so ruling, the Commissioner is satisfied that the ALJ considered all testimony and weighed its content according to the credibility of the witnesses and the consistency of testimony with evidence presented. Thus, he finds no basis to challenge the ALJ's determinations and resultant conclusions dismissing the charges against respondent. In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App. Div. 1987).

Accordingly, the initial decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and this matter is dismissed.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner is challenging the determination of Respondent State Board of Examiners to deny his application for two teaching certificates based on the information they had before them which demonstrated that he had provided false information to the Board of Education of the City of New York in connection with a comparable application.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Department of Education on January 17, 1997. A hearing was scheduled for August 27, 1997; however, Respondent filed a motion for summary decision. A telephone conference was held with the parties by the undersigned during which Petitioner was given an opportunity to respond to the Respondent's application. Petitioner failed to file a response.

A review of the file discloses that the application was considered at the June 20, 1997, meeting of the State Board of Examiners, at which time the Board decided to block the issuance of a certificate to the Petitioner. By letter dated August 9, 1997, Petitioner was notified of the Board's determination and of his right of appeal pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 and N.J.A.C. 6:24-1 et seq. His appeal was filed on December 17, 1996.

The statute provides that the Commissioner has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies which arise under the school laws, with certain exceptions, not relevant here. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The regulation provides that, in order to initiate a contested case for the Commissioner's determination, a petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of an action which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2.

In this case, the notice of the action which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing is dated August 9, 1996. The petition requesting a hearing on the issue was received in the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes on December 17, 1996, well beyond the 90 day limitation period stated in the regulation. It is, therefore, barred as being out of time.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." CONFIDENTIAL SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Confidential Settlement Agreement and Release ("Release") is made this 30th day of September, 1997, by and between Wilma Riley ("Petitioner") and the Glassboro Board of Education ("Respondent" or "GBOE").

WHEREAS, Petitioner filed a Petition against GBOE in the Office of the Commissioner of Education of the State of New Jersey (Docket No. 601-12/96) which case was transferred to the Office of Administrative Law (Docket No. EDUCT 00986-97S), alleging entitlement to salary from October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 (hereinafter "the Wage Litigation");

WHEREAS, Petitioner also filed a Complaint against GBOE in the Workers' Compensation Court (Docket No. C.P. 96-043308) seeking temporary total disability benefits and permanent partial disability benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:15-1, et seq. (hereinafter "the Workers' Compensation Action"); and

WHEREAS, the parties wish to avoid the burden and expense of continued litigation and wish to settle all of their respective obligations in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement, as more fully provided hereinafter;

NOW, THEREFORE, intending to be legally bound and in consideration of the mutual promises contained herein, it is hereby AGREED as follows:

1. Settlement. In consideration for Petitioner dismissing the Wage Litigation with prejudice and dismissing, with prejudice, that portion of her Workers' Compensation Action which seeks temporary total disability benefits for the period of time from October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997, GBOE agrees to pay the sum of $2,575.46 to the Petitioner in two separate payments as follows: $820.13 to be paid by GBOE and $1,755.33 to be paid by the workers' compensation provider.

2. Petitioner acknowledges that she has been fully compensated for all lost wages.

3. Petitioner acknowledges that, prior to making payment to plaintiff, GBOE will deduct from the $820.13, which is its responsibility to pay to Petitioner, any taxes or other withholdings owed by her. The payment of $1,755.33 being made by the Workers' Compensation Carrier is not subject to taxes.

4. The sufficiency of the aforementioned consideration is hereby acknowledged by Petitioner.

5. Scope Of Agreement. Petitioner agrees to release all of the claims against GBOE set forth in the Wage Litigation, and that portion of the Workers' Compensation Action seeking temporary total disability benefits for the period of time from October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997, which Petitioner had, now has, or which her representatives, heirs, administrators, executors, or any of them hereafter can, shall, or may have for or by reason of any cause, matter, or thing whatsoever from the beginning of the world to the date of these presents.

6. It is understood and agreed that this Release does not affect the claims of Petitioner presently pending in the Worker's Compensation Court concerning an award to Petitioner of permanent partial disability benefits only.

7. Petitioner and her counsel further agree to waive any claim they have or may have against GBOE for all fees arising out of the bringing, handling or settlement of this Wage Litigation and the Workers' Compensation Action.

8. General Release. In consideration of the aforementioned payment of $2,575.46, Petitioner, her agents, representatives, heirs, administrators, executors, successors, and assigns release and discharge GBOE, its successors, affiliates, related entities, benefit plans, officers, insurers, agents, employees and former employees, from all claims, liabilities, demands and causes of action, known or unknown, fixed or contingent, which Petitioner may have or claim to have against them arising out of the same series of events, occurrences, transactions or documents including, but not limited to, all claims setting forth, or which could have been set forth, in the Wage Litigation or Petitioner's claim for temporary total disability benefits in the Workers' Compensation Action.

9. Nonadmission of Liability. It is understood and agreed that this Release represents a compromise and settlement of a disputed claim and that the consideration paid is not to be construed as an admission of liability on the part of the parties hereby released and that GBOE does continue to deny liability and intends merely to avoid litigation and does buy its peace.

10. Nonadmissibility of Agreement. This Release is entered into based solely upon the unique facts and circumstances of this matter and the terms and conditions of this Release may not be construed as an admission of liability, or the establishment of a policy or practice of the GBOE, nor may this Settlement Agreement and Release or the terms herein be used by Petitioner or any other person or entity for any purpose whatsoever to establish a precedent, policy, or practice of GBOE.

11. Dismissal of Actions. After execution of this Release and payment by GBOE of $2,575.46, Petitioner agrees to promptly arrange to dismiss, with prejudice: (1) the Wage Litigation filed before the Commissioner of Education/Office of Administrative Law and (2) that portion of her Workers' Compensation Action which seeks temporary total disability benefits for the period of time from October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997. The effective date of this Release shall be the date on which the Stipulation of Dismissal with prejudice has been filed in the Wage Litigation or the date on which the Order Approving Settlement has been entered dismissing that portion of the Workers' Compensation Action seeking payment of temporary total disability benefits for the period of time from October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997, whichever is later.

The payment of $2,575.46 shall be held in escrow by Petitioner's attorney, Barbara E. Riefberg, Esquire, until such time that the Stipulation of Dismissal with prejudice has been filed with the Commissioner of Education and the Order Approving Settlement has been entered dismissing that portion of the Workers' Compensation Action seeking temporary total disability benefits for the period October 10, 1996 through March 17, 1997.

12. Confidentiality. Plaintiff and GBOE each further agree, represent and warrant that neither they nor any of their respective agents, servants, affiliates, officers, employees or former employees, representatives, attorneys, assigns, insurers, representatives, heirs, administrators, executors, and/or successors shall publicize or disclose, directly or indirectly, to any third party or entity the terms and conditions (or negotiations relating to same) of the resolution of the Litigation that are part of the subject matter of this Release (a) except to the extent required by law, and/or (b) except as may be necessary to effect compliance with the terms hereof.

13. Acknowledgment and Approval. This Release shall be executed and delivered in the State of New Jersey and shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New Jersey.

14. Petitioner agrees that she has had a reasonable time to deliberate concerning the terms of this Release and that she has consulted with her counsel concerning this Release.

15. The undersigned hereby declare that the terms of this Release have been completely read and fully understood and voluntarily accepted for the purpose of making a full and final compromise, adjustment and settlement of any and all claims, disputed or otherwise, and for the purpose of precluding forever any further or additional claims arising out of the same series of events, occurrences, transactions and/or documents, with the exception of the Petitioner's claim presently pending before the Worker's Compensation Court regarding Petitioner's Permanent Disability award. The undersigned warrant that no promise, inducement or agreement not herein expressed has been made to them, that this Release contains the entire Agreement between the paries hereto, and that the terms of this Release are contractual and not a mere recital.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, and intending to be legally bound, Wilma Riley, Petitioner and Nicholas A. Mitcho, Superintendent of Glassboro Public Schools, the authorized agent for GBOE, have executed this Release as of the day and year written below.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Teacher of the Handicapped, alleged the Board violated her tenure rights when it did not renew her contract and it did not accord her the salary and benefits to which she was entitled under her contract from September 1992 to the present. In September 1997, by order granting partial summary decision, those portions of the petition seeking back pay and adjustment to leave time for September 1992 to November 1992 were dismissed as time barred by the 90-day limit in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2.

ALJ found that since petitioner did not become a naturalized citizen of the United States until January 8, 1997, she was not in compliance with the requirement in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3 that no teaching staff member shall acquire tenure unless he or she is a citizen. Thus, petitioner did not have tenure in the position of teacher during the time frame referenced in the petition and the Board did not violate her tenure rights. The Board's motion for summary decision was granted; petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own.

Record closed: October 28,1997 Decided: November 7, 1997

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The Board of Education of the City of Orange (respondent) seeks by way of motion for summary decision a determination that Elmide Meleance (petitioner) did not have tenure in the position of teacher during the time frames referenced in her petition, which was filed in October 1996. As relief, respondent requests dismissal of the petition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education on October 8, 1996, pursuant to the Commissioner's authority to hear and determine controversies concerning the school laws under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Respondent filed an answer on November 12, 1996, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 20, 1996, for determination as a contested case.

The issues were set forth in the prehearing order dated February 6, 1997, as follows: (1) whether petitioner has achieved tenure in the position of teacher, (2) whether respondent violated petitioner's tenure rights, (3) whether petitioner received the salary and benefits to which she was entitled under her contract for the period from September 1992 to the present, (4) whether the petition should be dismissed based upon any of the affirmative defenses set forth in respondent's answer, and (5) if petitioner's allegations have merit, whether the relief requested in the petition should be granted. The parties stipulated that the non-renewal of petitioner's contract is no longer an issue since a new contract was given to petitioner for the 1996-97 school year.

Respondent filed a motion for summary decision on June 2, 1997, contending that petitioner's salary and benefit claims are time barred by the ninety-day limit in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2, that the Commissioner of Education lacks subject matter jurisdiction over petitioner's claims, and that petitioner's claim is without merit because she was not hired as a regular teacher until December 1, 1992. Petitioner opposed the motion.

By Order Granting Partial Summary Decision dated September 12, 1997, respondent's motion to dismiss was granted with respect to those portions of the petition seeking back pay and adjustment to leave time for, or stemming from, the period from September through November 1992. The reason for the dismissal was that the petition was time barred by the ninety-day limit set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The issues related to tenure were not resolved by that determination.

On September 29, 1997, respondent filed a second motion for summary decision. This motion seeks a determination that petitioner did not have tenure as a teacher and requests dismissal of the balance of the petition. Petitioner did not file a response to this motion.

MOTION FOR SUMMARY DECISION

A motion for summary decision should be granted where there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). The same standard is applied in the courts of this State pursuant to *R.*4:46-2. Summary judgment "is designed to provide a prompt, businesslike and inexpensive method" to dispose of actions which do not present any genuine issue of material fact. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67, 74 (1954). The movant must show that there is no genuine issue of material fact, and all inferences of doubt are drawn against the movant. Id. at 74-75. However, excessive caution which would undercut the purposes of a motion for summary judgment should be avoided. Pierce v. Ortho Pharmaceutical Corp., 84 N.J. 58, 65 (1980). Thus, if the opposing party offers only facts which are immaterial or insubstantial in nature, this circumstance should not defeat a motion for summary judgment. Judson v. Peoples Bank & Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. at 75. Although the pleadings may raise a factual issue, summary judgment procedure pierces the allegations in the pleadings, where the other papers show the absence of any genuine issue of material fact. Ibid.

In determining whether there exists a genuine issue as to a material fact, the judge must "consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995).

Compliance with precise conditions set forth by statute is necessary to achieve tenure. Picogna v. Board of Educ. of Tp. of Cherry Hill, 143 N.J. 391, 400 (1996). Respondent maintains that during the time frame referenced in the petition, petitioner was not in compliance with a requirement in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3, which states as follows: "No teaching staff member shall acquire tenure unless he is, or until he shall become, a citizen of the United States."

Respondent submitted a certificate of naturalization, which indicates that petitioner became a naturalized citizen of the United States on January 8, 1997. Petitioner presented no evidence to the contrary, and in fact, petitioner states in the petition that she holds a non-citizen certificate as a teacher of the handicapped. Thus, the materials presented by the parties establish that petitioner was not a citizen of the United States during the time frame referenced in the petition. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that petitioner did not have tenure in the position of teacher during the time frame referenced in the petition and that under the circumstances, there could be no violation of tenure rights. It follows that the petition in this matter should be dismissed.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. Respondent's motion for summary decision is granted.

2. The petition in this matter is dismissed.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner initially concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that the portion of the within petition, filed in October 1996, which seeks back pay and leave time adjustment based on the period from September 1992 to November 1992 is time barred by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), and was, therefore, appropriately dismissed by the ALJ's granting of Partial Summary Decision on September 12, 1997. Furthermore, in that it is undisputed that petitioner was not a United States citizen until January 8, 1997 and, consequently, had not satisfied the statutory requirements necessary to acquire tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3, prior to that date, the Commissioner also agrees with the ALJ that there could have been no violation of her tenure rights during the time period covered by this petition.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted for the reasons expressed therein and the within Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

Tenured guidance counselor alleged the Board violated his tenure and seniority rights by assigning him to a teaching position while appointing another to a position which included counseling services.

ALJ concluded petitioner was not entitled to placement in the position of Coordinator during the 1996-97 school year, that he did not prove by a preponderance of credible evidence that he was entitled to placement in such position during the subsequent year, or to the subsequent per diem summer employment. BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 23, 1996, Mark D. Boyle (Boyle or petitioner) filed a petition with the State Department of Education (DOE), seeking relief from the Board of Education of the City of Bayonne (Board or respondent) in Hudson County (County). Respondent filed an answer on November 12, 1996. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on November 20, 1996 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was conducted on February 25, 1997. A hearing was scheduled for September 8, 1997. The Board subsequently filed a motion for summary decision. Petitioner filed a reply thereto; and respondent, a response thereto. The record was closed on September 10, 1997, the date of the last communications regarding the matter. The September 8, 1997 hearing was adjourned.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner is a tenured individual who has been employed by the Board for a number of years. He has held positions as both a teacher and guidance counselor. He was employed in the latter position during the 1995/96 school year. As a result of a reduction in force (RIF), petitioner was assigned to a position as an English teacher for the 1996/97 school year. During the latter school year, the position of Special Education Transition Coordinator (Coordinator) became vacant. Larry Steinman (Steinman), a tenured employee of respondent, was appointed to that position. Petitioner was reinstated to the position of guidance counselor for the 1997/98 school year.

In his petition, Boyle claims that he had tenure and seniority rights to the Coordinator position, over Steinman. The Board disputed petitioner's substantive arguments in its answer. In its motion for summary decision, respondent argued that petitioner's claim is moot because even if he prevails, relief cannot be granted to him. Boyle argues that the matter still constitutes a justiciable controversy because a remedy is available to him if he prevails. He argues, more specifically, that guidance counselors, in general, and he, specifically, have routinely been offered summer employment by the Board and that he would have been entitled to such, during the summer of 1997, if he had held the position of guidance counselor during the prior school year.

FINDINGS OF FACT

A motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and any discovery demonstrate that no genuine issue exists regarding any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). Based upon a review of the pleadings and the motion papers, I FIND that the following facts are not in dispute.

Petitioner was initially employed by the Board as a teacher and gained tenure in that capacity. Petitioner was employed by respondent as a guidance counselor for the school years from 1985/86 through 1995/96 and gained tenure in that capacity.

As a result of a RIF, the guidance counselor position held by Boyle was eliminated for the 1996/97 school year, and petitioner was assigned to a position as an English teacher. He was employed as an English teacher for the entire 1996/97 school year. He received the same salary and benefits as he would have received if he were employed in the position of guidance counselor.

The position of Coordinator became vacant for the 1996/97 school year because of a promotion of the individual who had previously held the position. At a meeting held on July 30, 1996, the Board appointed Steinman to the position of Coordinator. The responsibilities of that position included providing counseling services for certain classified students. Steinman, a tenured employee of the Board, had less seniority as a guidance counselor than did Boyle. Pursuant to the applicable job description, the individual employed in the position of Coordinator was required to hold both guidance counselor and special education endorsements. Boyle did not have a special education endorsement.

By memorandum dated November 18, 1996 to respondent's superintendent, the Acting County Superintendent approved a Board request to utilize the Coordinator title for the 1996/97 school year, with the required endorsement, as an unrecognized title. The memorandum advised that the individual employed in such title would accrue seniority upon the attainment of tenure under the "legal title" (Certification of Richard J. Malinowski, dated July 8, 1997, Ex. R-1). The pertinent endorsement set forth in the memorandum was that of teacher/special education. The referenced "Legal Title" was that of "Teacher." (Ibid.) Respondent's Director of Special Services/Director of Student Personnel Supervisors is the immediate supervisor of the individual holding the position of Coordinator.

Boyle was reinstated to the position of guidance counselor, effective September 1, 1997, pursuant to a resolution approved by the Board on May 28, 1997.

The Board has given a number of its employees opportunities to perform per diem work during summer periods. By memorandum dated January 24, 1997 to the Board Superintendent, as well as other individuals, respondent's Director of Student Personnel Services requested that counselors be asked to work "at the applicable per diem rate during the summer of 1997." The specified tasks pertained to adjustments of students' schedules for the 1997/98 school year and computation of class rankings, in order to avoid "unnecessary difficulty and confusion," and to ensure a "smooth, efficient, and productive start to the school year for all students" by not having the "clerical counseling work" performed in September 1997 (Petitioner's certification, dated July 16, 1997, Ex. A).

Steinman was employed on a per diem basis at Bayonne High School during the summer of 1997, in the area of special education. More specifically, he worked on the preparation of a Special Education Master Schedule. Steinman was chosen to perform such work based upon his qualifications as evidenced by the fact that he held both a supervisor certificate and certification as a special education teacher. The duties performed by Steinman during the summer of 1997 were previously performed by the Board's former supervisor of special education.

For the 1985/86 through 1995/96 school years, when offered, per diem summer work was offered to all guidance counselors. Petitioner was employed performing per diem guidance duties during the pertinent summers during those years, except for one or two years when no guidance counselors were offered summer employment.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 (Supp. 1997).

A "[T]eaching staff member" is a staff member who holds an office, position, or employment requiring that he/she hold a valid certificate. Id. at §1-1. The services of teaching staff members serving in any school district of any board of education shall be under tenure, and such individual shall not be dismissed nor reduced in compensation, except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. Id. at § 28-5. However, a local board of education can reduce the number of teaching staff members whenever, in the board's judgment, it is advisable to abolish such positions for reasons of economy; any such RIF shall be made on the basis of seniority. Id. at § 10.

Boyle does not argue that the RIF which resulted in the abolishment of the guidance position which he then held was implemented in a manner contrary to his seniority rights. As discussed hereinabove, petitioner asserts that he was entitled to be appointed to the Coordinator position which subsequently became vacant and, that if he were appointed to such position, he would have been entitled to subsequent per diem summer employment.

The threshold issue raised in the motion papers is whether Boyle's claims are moot. A controversy is justiciable in cases where "the litigants' concern with the subject matter evidence(s) a sufficient stake and real adverseness. " In re Boardwalk Regency Corp. Casino License, 90 N.J. 361, 368 (1982) (Boardwalk Regency).

A tenured individual has the ultimate burden, when contesting an action by a board of education, of demonstrating that his/her seniority rights were violated and he/she suffered harm so as to entitle him/her to redress. James Parker and Joseph Pelligrino v. Bd. of Ed. of the Matawan-Aberdeen Regional School Dist., 1990 S.L.D. 1778. A prevailing individual contesting local board action is entitled to appointment to an available position, back pay and other economic emoluments of employment, including appropriate pension fund adjustments. Mueller v. Hunterdon Central Regional H.S. Dist. Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d. (Vol. 4A) 419 (Dep't of Ed.).

Petitioner had, as respondent argues, no tenure, seniority rights or entitlement pertinent to summer employment. A local board has discretion in hiring summer school teachers. "[S]ummer school employment in New Jersey is considered temporary, part-time employment and as such is not within the intendment of the protections afforded by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, 18A:28-6, 18A:28-13 or N.J.A.C. 6:3-1.10, Doran v. E. Brunswick Bd. of Ed., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 389, 390, (citations omitted).

Boyle therefore did not have entitlement to summer employment even if he had remained in the position of guidance counselor. In light of that fact, and the fact that his salary and, inferentially, other emoluments of employment, did not change when he was assigned to the position of English teacher, he has not demonstrated that he is entitled to monetary and related relief if he were to prevail on the substantive issues. In addition, in light of the fact that seniority pertinent to the Coordinator title was in the title of teacher, petitioner has also not demonstrated that he lost any seniority.

The relief which petitioner initially requested included an order that respondent "... assign to the petitioner any counseling responsibilities assigned less senior employees ..." (Petition, p. 2). It is not clear from the motion papers whether there are any positions in the title of Coordinator for the current school year, nor whether petitioner seeks placement in such a position. To the extent that petitioner may seek such relief, the current matter is not moot. See, Boardwalk Regency, supra. For reasons of administrative efficiency, I am persuaded that this issue should be addressed in the current matter. See, N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a).

A teaching staff member cannot acquire tenure in any position if he/she does not hold the appropriate certificate for such position. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4. Applicable regulations provide for three types of regular certificates: instructional, administrative, and educational services. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. Ellicott v. Bd. of Educ., 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991) (Ellicott). Teaching staff members holding educational services and/or instructional certificates are authorized and qualified to serve in assignments and positions for which they hold the requisite endorsements. A teaching staff member asserting a tenure right under a certification must still qualify for a particular position by obtaining the pertinent endorsement. Ellicott, supra.

Boyle did not have a right to the Coordinator position at the time in question, in relation to Steinman, and petitioner has not demonstrated that he has a right to any Coordinator position with the Board currently in existence, because he does not have the required endorsement. I am therefore persuaded that Boyle's petition should be dismissed, with prejudice.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner was not entitled to placement in the position of Coordinator during the 1996/97 school year, that he has not proven, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that he was entitled to placement in such position during the subsequent school year, and that he is not entitled to relief.

MARK D. BOYLE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BAYONNE, HUDSON COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, as well as the Board's cross-exceptions, were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner excepts to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) dismissal of the instant matter where there remains, as he contends, a justiciable issue which the ALJ decided without the benefit of argument. Petitioner clarifies that he did not seek the position of Special Education Transition Coordinator, as stated in the initial decision, but rather sought appointment to any guidance counseling responsibilities that had been assigned to Steinman, the holder of the Coordinator's position, whom petitioner argues has less seniority. Petitioner further contends that > there was still a justiciable issue because if he was entitled to the counseling responsibilities performed by the Coordinator, he was also entitled to the counseling assignment performed by Steinman during the 1997 summer. Therefore, the matter was not moot because there was a monetary remedy available to him. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 3)

In that the only issue raised and briefed by the parties before the OAL was the issue of mootness, petitioner objects to the ALJ's concluding that he was not entitled to the per diem summer counseling assignment, without benefit of any argument on that point.

In reply, the Board maintains that petitioner was not entitled to perform the summer work in question, since it is undisputed that Steinman worked in the area of special education and, further, that petitioner had no tenure right, seniority right or other entitlement to said summer employment. (Board's Reply at p. 2) Moreover, the Board asserts that, since petitioner holds no special education endorsement, he did not have any right to the position of Special Education Transition Coordinator. Finally, the Board warrants, as argued before the ALJ, that the current matter is moot, in that petitioner "has failed to establish or even allege any harm that he suffered as a result of a claimed violation of his tenure or seniority rights." (Id. at p. 4)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner initially observes that the specific relief requested by petitioner was not, as noted by Board and the ALJ, appointment to the position of Special Education Transition Coordinator, but rather, inter alia, assignment to petitioner of "any counseling responsibilities assigned to less senior employees," (Petition of Appeal at p. 2) and further recognizes that petitioner specifically disputes the ALJ's finding that "Steinman was employed on a per diem basis at Bayonne High School during the summer of 1997, in the area of special education," (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 2, citing to initial decision at p. 4, emphasis added). However, even granting petitioner's contentions, the Commissioner must still find that the ALJ properly decided this matter notwithstanding that briefing had occurred only on the issue of mootness.

As correctly noted by the ALJ, petitioner suffered no loss of salary or emolument, and it is well established that there is no legal entitlement to summer employment as a matter of tenure and seniority right, notwithstanding that a district's past practice may generally have been to offer such employment to persons in certain types of positions. Under these circumstances, the Commissioner cannot find that there would be any useful purpose served in continuing proceedings in this matter, particularly where petitioner, in arguments on exception, brings forward no authority to counter the ALJ's discussion, so as to suggest to the Commissioner that petitioner's right to hearing was compromised by the ALJ's having brought this matter to closure without benefit of additional proceedings.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law, dismissing the petition of appeal, is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JAYSON H. BURG,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

District certified tenure charges against respondent education media specialist for corporal punishment, insubordination and other acts constituting unbecoming conduct.

In light of the record and testimony of witnesses, the ALJ found that there was no adequate basis to conclude that respondent should be terminated. ALJ, however, did find that due to respondent's inappropriate and insensitive comments his behavior warranted a penalty of two months' suspension without pay.

Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part the ALJ's decision. While the Commissioner generally concurred with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, he determined that Charge one "a," asserting that respondent twice used a racially derogatory epithet, should be sustained with modification, rather than rejected as determined by the ALJ. Commissioner found more than sufficient corroboration among witnesses to sustain finding that respondent used a racial slur on the day in question. Thus, the Commissioner modified the penalty to include in addition to the two months' suspension without pay, the loss of the 120 days' salary withheld following certification of the within tenure charges.

INITIAL DECISION

JAYSON H. BURG,

Appellant,

v.

STATE OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF NEWARK,

Respondent.

Eugene G. Liss, Esq., appeared for petitioner

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., appeared for respondent

Record Closed: September 22, 1997 Decided: October 30, 1997

BEFORE: JEFFREY A. GERSON, ALJ

On or about February 11, 1997, the Newark Public Schools certified tenure charges against Jayson H. Burg. a tenured educational media specialist who is mainly responsible for the school library. The tenure charges were received by the Division of Controversies and Disputes on February 14, 1997 and forwarded to the Office of Administrative Law on March 11, 1997.

After the initial scheduling of the matter was adjourned the hearings were finally conducted on May 13, 15, and July 31, 1997. The record closed on September 22, 1997 after submission of briefs from both sides.

STATEMENT OF CHARGES

Four charges were filed against Jayson Burg:

Charge One - conduct unbecoming

On or about November 18, 1996, the respondent was assigned to the Hawkins Street School as an educational media specialist.

On or about November 19, 1996, while assigned to teach students in Room 308, the respondent engaged in the following inappropriate disrespectful and unprofessional conduct constituting conduct unbecoming a teacher:

a. twice respondent used a racial derogatory slur, "nigger", referring to pupil C.F., and/or other pupil;

b. the respondent called pupils "fools" and "jerks" in a disrespectful and demeaning manner;

c. respondent made insensitive remarks to pupils regarding homelessness and the prospects of living on the street;

d. respondent maintained his dress in an inappropriate manner, exposing his underwear (boxer shorts). The respondent stated he wore his pants like "Boys In The Hood";

e. on November 18, 1996, respondent failed to report the above incidents to the building principal or vice-principal, in an attempt to conceal his actions. The respondent's conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming.

Charge Two - Corporal Punishment

On or about November 19, 1996, respondent committed acts of corporal punishment with the intent to discipline, harm, injure, punish, intimidate or otherwise embarrass the pupils under his charge:

a. Respondent grabbed pupil A.R. and ordered her to stand in class facing a bulletin board, as punishment for talking in class. The respondent had A.R. stand in class for more than 10 minutes.

b. The respondent slammed his bag on pupil T.H.'s desk, hitting her arm with the intent of hurting her, in retaliation and as a disciplinary measure. The respondent's conduct constitutes corporal punishment.

c. The respondent, in a fit of rage, recklessly threw a chair and/or desk at pupil A.R. narrowly missing her person.

Charge Three - Conduct Unbecoming A Staff Member

On or about September 30, 1996, the respondent, while assigned to the Eighteenth Avenue School, committed the following inappropriate acts:

a. Requested the home telephone number of Valerie Conaway, parent, without cause and then offered his home telephone number;

b. Respondent, while reprimanding a pupil for touching his tape recorder stated do not touch the tape recorder because the pupil's "mother could not pay for it."

Charge Four - Conduct Unbecoming A Staff Member

On or about September 15, 1995, the respondent, while assigned to the Harriet Tubman School, deliberately removed a mail package addressed to the principal, from the main office and opened it, without authorization or approval. The respondent's conduct violated school policy and the law.

Charge Four was dismissed at the end of the School District's case based on the fact that on September 15, 1995, a memo to Mr. Burg from Delores Ollie, Principal of Harriet Tubman School, clearly and unquestionably characterized his conduct with respect to an incident which took place on September 14, 1995 as unacceptable and that the memo itself was a reprimand which contained a warning that any future incident would result in disciplinary hearing.

Since the memo is titled "Reprimand for Unethical Conduct" there is no doubt that though this incident could be taken into account for purposes of determining penalty, it could not rise once again to a current tenure charge since a teacher cannot twice be penalized for the same conduct.

The remaining charges will be discussed individually. The inappropriate conduct alleged in Charge One, paragraph a, b, c and d all arose at the time of Mr. Burg's first contact with a fourth grade class at Hawkins Street School. At 9:45 a.m., he was scheduled to teach a class to Ms. Ponsoda's students. Ms. Ponsoda was absent that day and Ms. Pugh was her substitute.

Mr. Burg's conduct in the fourth grade class between 9:45 and 10:35 a.m. gave rise to Charges One and Two certified to the Commissioner of Education.

The charge that Mr. Burg used the racially derogatory slur "nigger" twice is the charge of paramount concern. Several of the students in the fourth grade class alleged that Mr. Burg used the derogatory slur. None of the children alleged that he used it twice as indicated in the certified charges but, surely that is not of major consequence since once would be enough.

The testimony of 9, 10, and 11 year olds must be closely scrutinized. Children of tender years can have their judgment influenced by many more factors than might influence the testimony of an adult witness. Peer pressure, fear, desire for acceptance, and the desire to satisfy an adult's wishes could all adversely affect a youngster's testimony.

Eleven of the approximately eighteen students in the fourth grade class that day testified at the hearing.

J.B., a ten year old, testified that Mr. Burg used the word "nigger". J.B. was then questioned as follows:

Question: When Mr. Burg used the "N" word, what was happening?
Answer: Everybody said we are not "N" word.

Question: Why did he used that? What had been said to him before he said that?
Answer: I don't remember.

Question: And he said it to C.H.?
Answer: I guess so.

Question: You don't remember?
Answer: I don't remember.

Question: Did he use it once? Twice? Three times?
Answer: I think it was once.

Interestingly enough, J.B. in her written statement, said that Mr. Burg used the "F" word. It is obvious from her statement that careted in front of the "F" word is the word "almost" which according to J.B. was put in there by Ms. Pugh. Ms. Pugh denied careting in the word "almost."

E.R. also testified that Mr. Burg used the word "nigger." In response to the question of when Mr. Burg used the "N" word during the class, E.R. said: "in the middle." E. R. then answered the following questions:

Question: Did he use it in a sentence?
Answer: No.

Question: He just said the word?
Answer: Yes.

Question: And did he say it to somebody specific?
Answer: No. He stand right in front of the class.

Question: And just said that word?
Answer: Yes.

A.A. also testified that Mr. Burg used the "N" word. The following is A.A.'s testimony with respect to that issue:

Question: Now did he say the "N" word in class?
Answer Yes.

Question: All right. And would you tell us what you mean by "N" word?
Answer: I forgot.

Question: Okay, you don't remember? Okay, now do you remember where you were sitting at in class?
Answer: I think in the middle row.

Question: Okay. All right. And do you know where Mr. Burg was standing when he said the "N" word?
Answer: I think, in the front of the class.

Question: And after he said the "N" word do you know what your reaction was?
Answer: No.

Question: Okay, after he said the "N" word do you know what happened?
Answer: No.

Question: Okay. Do you know why Mr. Burg said the "N" word in class?
Answer: "Inaudible."

In another series of questions, A.A. responded as follows:

Question: Did Mr. Burg use the "N" word in a sentence?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Do you remember what the sentence was?
Answer: No.

Question: Do you know what it was about?
Answer: No.

Question: When he said the "N" word, did he say it to somebody specifically?
Answer: No.

Question: He just stood in front of the class and said the "N" word?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Did he say something before it?
Answer: I don't know.

Question: Did he say something after it?
Answer: Yes.

Question: What did he say after it?
Answer: That we were going to be living in the street when we grow up.

D.R.'s testimony on this issue was as follows:

Question: Would you tell me again what happened when Mr. Burg used the word "nigger."

Answer: When he was talking, he was like whoever didn't raise their hand is going to be on the street, and that's when C.H. is like, how you going to say that? and then he's like quiet you be quiet, you "black nigger" and then we got - - we're going to tell the principal on you. He's like go ahead, I ain't scared of the principal.

M.R. wrote in his statement that Mr. Burg called the class the "N" word. The following is his court testimony:

Question: And then there is another word, the "N" word. What's that word, can you just say it for the court?
Answer: Nigger.

Question: Now did he say that in class?
Answer: Yes.

Question: And when he used that word where were you?
Answer: I was in the - - he called me - - called me and C.H. "niggers."

Question: M.R. went on to testify that:
Now, the questions - - you responded that Mr. - - you said here that Mr. Burg referred to your mother as a "whore"?

Answer: Yes.

Question: And did he refer to any of the other children's parents in the school by that name?
Answer: Well, maybe two.

Question: And., did someone tell you what to write in your letter?
Answer: No.

Question: This is what you wanted to write? Was there some reason you didn't write anything about him calling your mother a "whore."?
Answer: No.

E.P. also testified that Mr. Burg used the "N" word and responded to questions as follows:

Question: Did he say anything else when he said the "N" word?
Answer: No.

Question: You don't remember?
Answer: No.

Question: Do you know why he used the "N" word in class?
Answer: No.

Question: Did you hear him say the "N" word?
Answer: Yes.

Question: Who did he say it to?
Answer: I don't know, he was just saying it in the back, someone in the back.

Question: So, he was talking to one person when he said that?
Answer: Maybe two, I don't know - - someone from the back.

Two of the children who testified, C.H. and T.H., said nothing about Mr. Burg having called the class or anyone in the class the "N" word. Of note, however, is that it was C.H. who several of the children identified as the target of Mr. Burg's alleged slur. But, C.H. said nothing about it.

A thorough reading of the testimony of all the students who appeared at the hearing disclosed discrepancies in their testimony that cannot be dismissed as normal for children of this age. There were inconsistencies with respect to whether or not Ms. Pugh was in the class at the time Mr. Burg used the derogatory slur, there were discrepancies with respect to how many of the students actually prepared written statements and there were discrepancies as to when those statements were actually prepared.

What did come across from the testimony of the children was that the class was in a serious state of disruption during the time Mr. Burg was present. I have little doubt that several members of the class were more than moderately disruptive and others were simply uncooperative. Though the class size that day was approximately 18 students only seven written statements were submitted. The absence of the other statements is cause for concern in that it may very well have been that the remaining students made no reference to Mr. Burg's alleged use of the derogatory slur.

It is the petitioner's obligation to prove the charges against Mr. Burg by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence. School District of Paterson v. Eddie Lee Harrell, 186 S.L.D. 356, 358. In re Phillips, 117 N.J. 567, 575 (1990). I cannot conclude by a preponderance of the credible evidence that Mr. Burg uttered the derogatory slur of which he is accused. A further review of the testimony offered cast great doubt on the accuracy not only on the remaining four charges, but also this one.

Paragraph (b) of Charge One which alleges that Mr. Burg called the students "fools" and "jerks" in a disrespectful and demeaning manner appears to be an inability on the part of the students to understand Mr. Burg's intended lesson. Both paragraphs (b) and (c) make reference to a lesson plan and poem that Mr. Burg intended to use as a lesson in anticipation of the coming Thanksgiving holiday. The "fools" and "jerks" comments was part and parcel of a short poem that Mr. Burg apparently thought would be a good object lesson for the students. The poem went as follows:

"You think you're smart,
You think you're cool.
But, when you fail in school,
who is truly the fool."

During the excitement of an undisciplined, uncooperative, rowdy class, it is easy to understand how this particular poem, whether it be deemed appropriate or inappropriate, could be misinterpreted by the students to be aimed at them in a derogatory manner. The same is true of Mr. Burg's proposed lesson plan on Thanksgiving which in part referred to homelessness. Once again, I cannot comment on the appropriateness of the lesson plan though apparently Mr. Burg had used it on several occasions, quite successfully, I can only say that the general rowdiness of the class could very well have resulted in certain highly sensitive words being unduly highlighted by the inability of Mr. Burg to place them in an appropriate context due to what sounds like overwhelming disciplinary difficulty. Taking highly sensitive individual words out of the context in which they were delivered could very well end up with an allegation that the use of those words were disrespectful and insensitive. Having Mr. Burg's lesson plan at hand, in addition to the testimony of several of the students, one who specifically recalled the poem though not verbatim, but quite close in concept, leads to the conclusion that it was not disrespectful or insensitive remarks that Mr. Burg made that caused the problem but rather the absence by the pupils of any recognizable contexts in which to analyze the lesson.

Paragraph D of Charge One alleges that Mr. Burg maintained his dress in an inappropriate manner exposing his underwear and that he stated that he wore his pants low down on his waist because that was the way "The Boys In The Hood" wore them. From the testimony of the students and that of Ms. Pugh, I am convinced that when Mr. Burg entered the fourth grade class where Ms. Pugh was the substitute, his clothes were disheveled with his shirttail hanging out of his pants and his pants were hanging loosely below his waist. When one of the children inquired of Mr. Burg why he had his pants in such a manner, he jokingly responded that, "that's the way The Boys In The Hood are wearing them." Though these may not be the exact words, they are close enough for me to determine that the statement was either an attempt at humor by Mr. Burg or possibly an attempt to ingratiate himself to the class.

Ms. Pugh's testimony on this count is critical because she was present when the incident occurred. The following is her testimony:

Question: Do you recall any students - - students making comments or remarks to Mr. Burg at that time?
Answer: Yes I do.

Question: And will you tell the Judge what happened?
Answer One of the students asked why his pants were hanging down.

Question: Okay, and what was the name of the student?
Answer: A.R.

Question: Okay. And, do you recall what Mr. Burg's response was?
Answer: He said that he was dressing like "The Boys In The Hood", that's the way they dress.

Question: Did you see him walk in?
Answer: Yes I did.

Question: What did he look like?
Answer: He had a sweater thrown over his shoulders, shirt and he had on khaki pants.

Question: Stand up sir. What's the difference between the way he was dressed on November 19 and the way he is dressed today?
Answer: His pants were hanging down.

Question: On November 19?
Answer: Yes.

Question: How far down?
Answer: They were down to the point where - - I did not notice it until the student asked him why his pants hanging down - - and I look and I saw his pants were hanging down. They were hanging down below - - they weren't where they're now. They weren't - - it wasn't neatly - - his belt wasn't up on his waist. They were hanging low. And when she said that, I looked and I noticed that his pants - - he was like out of sort when he walked in.

Question: His shirt out of his pants? Shirt tail?
Answer: I believe that it was. I'm not very sure because of the fact that it's been so long. But I do know that when I did look at him I felt - - looked at him, I felt that he was inappropriately dressed. I - - he wasn't neatly dressed, as a - - I felt a professional should be dressed.

Later on in the testimony, Ms. Pugh is asked:

Question: Now when Mr. Burg made the statement that he was dressing like "Boys In The Hood", do you recall the reaction of the class?
Answer: "The Boys In The Hood". I think that they felt like it was funny. I didn't feel like it was funny.

This testimony is illuminating. There is no testimony from Ms. Pugh that Mr. Burg's underwear was showing. She does confirm that when he entered the class his dress was a bit disheveled, but it seemed that she was more offended by his "Hood" comment than she was by his dress. If, in fact, the class thought his comment was funny at the time he made it - - it strikes me as a bit strange that when it came time to write their statements this comment became one of several focus complaints. From the testimony of the children there is little doubt that Mr. Burg's pants were hanging lower than they should have been and that his shirt was out of his pants, but it is highly unlikely and, in fact, specifically refuted by several of the students and Ms. Pugh that his underwear were showing. It can quite convincingly be argued that the comment of Mr. Burg about "The Boys In The Hood" was inappropriate but did not become so until Ms. Pugh inferred that it was.

Complicating this matter even more and consequently touching on the general credibility of all those involved is the fact that the point at which the statements were written remains a mystery. Despite the insistence by several of the adult witnesses that the statements were written prior to the lunch period, one of the statements clearly makes reference to what occurred at lunch, throwing the theory that the statements were written prior to lunch into jeopardy. Further difficulty is confronted when an observation of one of the statements clearly shows a correction, undoubtedly made by an adult, that being the insertion of the word "almost" prior to the reference to the "F" word. But all adult witnesses who testified at the hearing denied making any corrections to the students' statements. In fact, though one of the students indicated that it was Ms. Pugh who made the correction, she specifically denies even reading the statements before turning them over to the principal's office.

Mr. Burg confirmed that the disciplinary difficulties that he had in the classroom that day were rather pronounced. He did, in fact, request that several students appear for detention, a request he made of Ms. Pugh after the class which she confirmed. It was the very existence of these pending detentions that Mr. Burg inferred led to the students complaining to the principal's office and to Ms. Pugh. This version of events is to some extent corroborated by Ms. Worthington's incident report dated November 20, 1996, and marked P-1 for identification, which indicates "that at approximately 12:30 p.m. on Tuesday, November 19, 1996, C.F., fourth grade student, was sent to the main office by Ms. Pugh, substitute teacher." In reviewing the student's testimony and the testimony of Ms. Pugh, a factfinder could conclude that somewhere between 10:30 and 12:30 C.F. went to the principal's office. This would not be significant under normal circumstances except for the fact that it is Mr. Burg's contention that the allegations pending against him with respect to what occurred in the classroom during that second period were concocted by the students to avoid further punishment. If, in fact, Ms. Worthington's incident report is accurate, that means C.F. was with Ms. Pugh and his classmates for approximately two hours prior to appearing at the principal's office. If the students' statements were written shortly after the conclusion of the class at 10:30, how is it possible that one of the statements clearly made reference to the lunch period when several students attempted to avoid the detention which had been levied by Mr. Burg?

What can be concluded from a review of all the testimony is that Mr. Burg's first day with Ms. Ponsoda's class was extraordinarily unsuccessful. I know not what mystical imaginations overcome students when they are confronted with substitutes but the circumstances here were clearly intensified by the students having to deal with what they thought was two substitutes. Since this was not the first class that Mr. Burg had taught on November 19, 1996, it was surprising that there was no witnesses produced from his first class, which ended only five minutes before he entered Ms. Ponsoda's classroom. Surely if his dress was as dishelved in that class as it apparently was in Ms. Ponsoda's class, a witness could have been produced to confirm so. According to Mr. Burg, his lesson plan, the same one he intended to use in Ms. Ponsoda's class, was quite successful in period one. Since this was not brought into dispute, it is hard to see how it can be argued that the content of the lesson was inappropriate.

CORPORAL PUNISHMENT

There are three allegations in the second charge of corporal punishment alleged in the complaint. The first is that Mr. Burg grabbed A.R. and ordered her to stand in class facing a bulletin board as punishment. A.R. supposedly stood in class for more than ten minutes. There is little, if anything, in the record to substantiate this charge. Though there was some testimony that A.R. was asked to stand because of what amounted to incessant talking there was no corroboration of A.R.'s testimony that she stood in class for approximately ten minutes. According to several of the other students, A.R.'s conduct was unacceptable and though she may have been standing in class, surely for a period shorter than ten minutes as alleged, she was standing with Mr. Burg who at the time he was disciplining her.

The second charge that Mr. Burg slammed his bag on pupil T.H.'s desk hitting her arm with the intent of hurting her in retaliation and as a disciplinary measure is completely unsupported and a gross exaggeration of the factual circumstances presented by the witnesses. There was absolutely no testimony that Mr. Burg intended to hurt T.H., nor was there any testimony that he slammed his bag on her desk. What apparently happened was that he placed a bag on her desk as he was leaving but had forgotten some other item which he went to retrieve. The bag either tipped over or the top folded over touching T.H.'s arm. The allegations with respect to this charge are so grossly exaggerated that one has to question the school district's motivation for including it as one of the tenure charges. The same is true for paragraph c. which alleges that Mr. Burg in a fit of rage recklessly threw a chair and/or desk at pupil A.R. narrowly missing her person. There was absolutely no testimony to substantiate this most serious allegation. Once again, its inclusion as one of the tenure charges makes one wonder how much puffery was incorporated into the other charges.

All of the allegations under Charge 2, Corporal Punishment, are dismissed as baseless.

CONDUCT UNBECOMING A STAFF MEMBER

Paragraph A under this charge alleging Mr. Burg requested the home telephone number of Valerie Conaway and then offered his own telephone number is a conundrum.

On or about September 30, 1996, Ms. Conaway presented herself to Mr. Burg while he was working in the library. She introduced herself and indicated that she was a member of the library improvement committee as well as the past president of the PTA. After some short discussion concerning library matters, Mr. Burg apparently asked for Ms. Conaway's phone number. According to Ms. Conaway, this was inappropriate. There was, however, no testimony to indicate why it was inappropriate. The following is the exact testimony offered by Ms. Conaway with respect to this issue:

> Question: Now, can you just tell us what transpired during your, I guess, when you first met Mr. Burg?
>
> Answer: When I first met him? I went to the library. I forget what day of the week it was and I introduced my self to Mr. Burg, informing him that I was the chairperson of the library assistance committee, and I told him that we would be working together, myself and along with some other parents. And, I also told him that I was a former PTA president of 18th Avenue.

Question: Approximately what time of the day did this occur?

Answer: It's in the morning, I guess, anywhere between 9 - 10 o'clock, I think.

Question: And did he make any statements to you?

Answer: Yes he did. I remember shaking hands and he asked me how to spell my last name and he also asked me for my - - oh, when I told him we would be working together, he said fine and then he asked for my home phone number. I wanted to know why he felt it necessary to have my home phone number. We would be working in the same building and I mean I was - - I just didn't feel it was necessary, and I thought that was kind of strange. He offered me his home phone number, but of course, I didn't want it. I had no need - - you know, there is no need for me to have it.

That was the sum total of Ms. Conaway's testimony with respect to a tenure charge that has been filed against Mr. Burg. There was absolutely nothing offered beside this testimony with respect to this issue. He asked for Ms. Conaway's phone number, she did not give it to him. She, for some unknown reason, characterized the asking for her phone number as strange and somehow, in some way, this gets characterized as conduct unbecoming and becomes a certified tenure charge. I am at a loss to understand how this brief conversation Mr. Burg had with Ms. Conaway could end up in a tenure charge.

Count B of Charge Three alleges that Mr. Burg reprimanded a three year old pupil for touching his tape recorder telling the pupil "your mother could not pay for it." The basis for this incident was the testimony of Ms. Conaway. At some unknown time, days after her meeting with Mr. Burg at the library, she happened to have made a casual observation of a prekindergarten class. Mr. Burg confirms to some extent this incident. According to Mr. Burg, after the youngster touched the tape recorder he said: "Please don't touch the tape recorder. If you break it, it may not be - - your mother may not be able to replace it. I know that its hard for all of us to replace something that is damaged."

This testimony, like much of Mr. Burg's testimony, was sanitized for court presentation. I was unimpressed with Mr. Burg as a witness though I will not go as far as to say that his testimony was incredible. I do believe the testimony of Ms. Conaway with respect to the tape recorder and the prekindergarten class and I do agree that Mr. Burg's comment was insensitive and inappropriate.

I do, as a matter of fact, find that to be the most prominent problem displayed by Mr. Burg. Though for the most part his testimony was credible, there was a pervasive element of insincerity to all of it. Some of his explanations for his own verbiage was so trite and hackneyed, they actually approached what I would characterize as distasteful.

The only explanation for of some of the charges lodged against Mr. Burg is that there was some degree of hysteria that struck the school simply as a result of the allegations made against Mr. Burg. I have absolutely no doubt that whatever did actually occur in Ms. Ponsoda's class on November 19, 1996 was severely exaggerated in the retelling by these 8, 9, and 10 year olds. When, as some of the testimony indicated, the news and TV media expressed some interest, the Board must have felt some compunction to act swiftly and harshly.

Since I have already concluded that the Board has failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that Mr. Burg used the "N" word in Ms. Ponsoda's class there remains no adequate basis to conclude that Mr. Burg should be terminated.

There is, however, an adequate basis to find that the inappropriate and insensitive comment he made, specifically his reference to dressing like "The Boys In The Hood" and the statement to a three year old that his mother could not afford to replace the tape recorder, exhibits a serious lack of sensitivity and concern for the feelings of his students.

Sensitivity training is clearly warranted as well as some penalty to ensure that Mr. Burg improves his future performance.

Having sustained a portion of Charge One (Insensitive Remarks) and paragraph B of Charge Three (Inappropriate Reprimand of a three year old), I FIND that the appropriate penalty in this matter should be a two month suspension without pay.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Jason Burg be suspended for two months without pay.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF JAYSON H. BURG,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF NEWARK, ESSEX	:
COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The District's and respondent's exception arguments, along with respondent's reply, were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Having conducted his own careful and independent review of the entire record in this matter, which included transcripts from the three days of hearings at the OAL, as well as each of the arguments advanced by the parties regarding the initial decision, the Commissioner determines to affirm in part, and reverse in part, the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). While in all other respects the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's findings and conclusions, he determines that Charge One "a," asserting that respondent twice used a racially derogatory epithet referring to pupil C.F. and/or other pupils in the class, should be sustained, with modification.

The Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding the variances in testimony among the students regarding respondent's use of the racial slur, that "there is more than sufficient corroboration among the witnesses to sustain a finding" that the respondent, in fact, used the word in some manner on the day in question. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Millicent Smith, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 729, 739. The Commissioner finds it noteworthy that, of the eleven children who testified, nine reported that respondent used the word, albeit in varying contexts. Moreover, as the District noted in its exceptions, "[w]hen the substitute teacher, Ms. Pugh, returned to class to resume her duties, the class told her what had transpired." (District's Exceptions at p. 2) In response to direct questioning from the ALJ, Ms. Pugh averred:

> THE WITNESS: They were saying that they were -- that Mr. Burg said that they were going to be homeless and that they weren't going to be anything. And he called them nigger. And one of the young -- one of the students, M.R., was saying yes, Ms. Pugh. He called me a nigger and I'm a Puerto Rican. I'm not a nigger.
>
> And I knew -- I felt that the child was telling the truth, because he was very insulted because he didn't feel like he was a nigger, because I know that he associated that with the color of skin. And he was Puerto Rican, so he didn't consider himself that word.
>
> THE COURT: Who was the first student who told you that Mr. Burg called him a nigger?
>
> THE WITNESS: Well, I really can't say because they all were saying it at one time. But I know that A. and T. were saying how he was calling them that nigger and everything.
>
> And then M. -- and I was saying, well, because I couldn't -- I didn't believe that he would call them that. M.R., he made the statement that he called me that word. And I told him I'm not. I'm a Puerto Rican, like that.
>
> So then I knew that something was not right here.
>
> THE COURT: So up --
>
> THE WITNESS: I felt.

THE COURT: -- until that time that M. said that to you, you didn't believe it either?

THE WITNESS: I believe that they were saying -- yes. I believed them. I believe that they were upset about being -- saying that they would never be anything, because that's what C. was crying about. He was saying that he would be --

THE COURT: But did you --

THE WITNESS: -- something.

THE COURT: -- believe that he had called them a nigger, prior to M.R. saying that yeah. He was upset because he wasn't.

WITNESS: Well, I believe what they said. It's just that it was so far fetched, that I -- I guess, maybe I didn't want to believe that someone would say that to a bunch of -- a class full of children. That would be so insensitive.

But then when he said that, that kind of sealed it for me.

 (Transcript July 31, 1997 at 138-140)

While the ALJ fairly reasons that respondent's use of the words "fools" and "jerks," as well his "homeless" remark, were given the "rowdiness of the class," apparently unduly highlighted by his inability to place them in any appropriate context, (Initial Decision at p. 9), the Commissioner finds that a preponderance of the evidence supports the conclusion that respondent did, as well, use the word "nigger" in the classroom so as to immediately offend the children. In that the number of times respondent used the word, and to whom the slur was directed, is neither ascertainable nor necessarily relevant, under these circumstances, the Commissioner correspondingly sustains the essence of Charge One "a."

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the initial decision of the ALJ in part, and reverses in part, to the extent noted above.[1] In order to impress upon respondent the seriousness

[1] The Commissioner notes that the initial decision contains the following errors with respect to students' names: page six refers to the testimony of student D.R., rather than to A.R., and page seven refers to the testimony of student C.H. rather than C.F. Additionally, the testimony recounted on pages 10 and 11 of the initial decision apparently of his conduct and his substantial need for greater control and sensitivity in dealing with students, the Commissioner hereby directs that respondent forfeit, in addition to the two month's salary recommended by the ALJ, the 120 days' salary withheld following certification of the within tenure charges.[2] In so determining, the Commissioner also notes that, although he is without the authority to compel respondent to attend training classes designed to address and prevent insensitive conduct in the classroom, the District may elect to do so, within the confines of respondent's tenure and contractual rights.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

SYNOPSIS

District certified tenure charges against respondent supervisor of mathematics for alleged unbecoming conduct due to his distribution of a portion of the 1995 Early Warning Test (EWT) knowing that it was a secure test, copies of which were not to be possessed or distributed by or to any school personnel.

ALJ found that the District proved by more than a preponderance of evidence that respondent knowingly participated in and furthered a breach of security of the EWT of 1995 by possessing and distributing it, thus, constituting unbecoming conduct. Moreover, in light of the cost to the State in reconstituting the exam and respondent's complete lack of candor and remorse, ALJ found respondent's conduct warranted a serious penalty. ALJ ordered respondent terminated from his position.

Citing Redcay, In re Tordo, and others, the Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the initial decision. Commissioner ordered respondent dismissed from his tenured position and the matter transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for further appropriate action.

STATEMENT OF CASE

Vincent Martone was a supervisor of mathematics in the Jersey City School District. Certified tenure charges of unbecoming and unprofessional conduct were filed against Mr. Martone on or about September 16, 1996. The essence of the charge against Mr. Martone was that he distributed a portion of the 1995 Early Warning Test (EWT) knowing that it was a secure test, copies of which were not to be possessed or distributed by or to any school personnel.

Mr. Martone was suspended without pay on September 17, 1996. A petition of appeal was filed on his behalf on September 18, 1996 and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law.

The hearing was conducted on July 21 and 22, 1997. Upon completion of the hearing, a briefing schedule was established. The record closed on October 5, 1997, upon receipt of initial briefs and replies thereto.

BACKGROUND

Veronica Orsi, the project manager of the high school proficiency test of the New Jersey State Department of Education, Bureau of Assessment, has been in charge of test security since 1989. Ms. Orsi testified that the EWT is a statewide test administered in March of each year to all New Jersey public school eighth graders. According to Ms. Orsi, the EWT is used to monitor school districts in order to ensure that curriculum and instructional programs meet the educational needs of students. It is also used as a means of identifying which students are in need of more instruction. It serves as a major instrument in placing students in high school programs.

The EWT was first administered in 1991 and until 1994 was only secure prior to the administration of the test. In 1991, 1992, and 1993, after the test was administered it could be used as a tool to determine what instructional materials would benefit the students and also could be used as practice exams.

Beginning in March 1994, the exam became secure permanently. That meant that after the exam was administered, all of the test booklets would have to be returned to the contractor and that school districts would not be allowed to retain any of the exams. Ms. Orsi went on to emphasize that no staff member of any school district, up to and including the district superintendent, could retain a copy of the EWT.

A breach of security, for example the illicit retention of an exam, could very well jeopardize the following years exam. It might also lead to unreliable, distorted results for pupils who had access to it. Also, unnecessary expenses for costs incurred by the State to prepare a new exam would also accrue.

Katherine Coyle, who is presently the executive assistant to the Superintendent of the Jersey City public schools was, prior to her most recent appointment, the principal of Public School #27 for seven years. As principal, she was responsible for the security procedures surrounding the EWT.

According to Ms. Coyle, prior to the 1994 EWT exam, she attended several meetings with principals and supervisors at which the new security procedures for the EWT were discussed. Several memos were sent by the State Department to the district superintendent which, according to Ms. Coyle, the superintendent would disseminate to all district administrators and supervisors. In addition, Ms. Coyle testified that she received several copies of District Operating Procedure No. 2.002 (hereinafter SOP) which she testified was distributed to all assistant superintendents, principals, associate superintendents, directors and all supervisors, including Mr. Martone.

According to Ms. Coyle, there was no doubt in her mind that prior to the 1995 EWT, Mr. Martone was aware that he was not allowed to be in possession of or disseminate the exam.

Dr. Lopez-Diaz, the associate superintendent of curriculum and instruction for the Jersey City Public Schools, corroborated that SOP #2.022 would have been distributed to Mr. Martone. There was no doubt in her mind that she discussed the SOP with her staff at a supervisor's meeting which she held two times a month. In addition, Dr. Lopez-Diaz testified that she received a letter dated April 19, 1995 from Ellen Schechter, a letter that specifically stated that commencing with the 1994 EWT, the test could not be reproduced nor used in any manner. The letter went on to warn that any violation could result in revocation of ones professional license. Dr. Lopez-Diaz testified that upon receiving the letter she immediately circulated it to her entire staff, including Mr. Martone. The second letter, dated January 11, 1994 from Thomas Rubino, indicated that with the start of the 1994 EWT the test booklets would have to be returned after the test was administrated and could not be used for any other purposes. Dr. Lopez-Diaz testified that she disseminated Mr. Rubino's letter to all concerned, including Mr. Martone.

There was no doubt in Dr. Lopez-Diaz's mind that Mr. Martone knew that the 1995 EWT was permanently secured.

Joan McNutt, an Assistant Supervisor of Staff Development, testified that she received the mathematics portion of the 1995 Early Warning Test from Mr. Martone in April 1995, one month after the test was administered.

Mr. Martone contended that he was not aware that the 1995 EWT was a secure exam which could not be withheld or distributed after the administration of the exam. He was under the impression that the 1995 EWT was no different with respect to security policy than the policy that was in existence for the 1991, 1992 and 1993 exams. He contended that with respect to the notices, memorandum, and meetings that were conducted with respect to the new security requirements for the 1994 and 1995 EWT exams that he either did not receive them, did not read them, or did not recall anything being said about them.

ISSUE

The only issue to be resolved in this matter is whether or not Mr. Martone knew at the time that he received the mathematics portion of the 1995 Early Warning Test that it was a secure test, possession and distribution of which was strictly prohibited.

DISCUSSION

The facts leading to Mr. Martone's coming into possession of the mathematics portion of the EWT of 1995 are not in dispute.

On the day the exam was given, Mr. Martone contends he received a telephone call from either a teacher or a teacher's aide indicating that the students in her class were crying because the mathematics portion of the exam was too difficult. According to Martone, he requested that the person with whom he was having this conversation obtain for him a copy of the exam and sent it to him. He alleged that he received it in the inter-office mail two or three days later. After reviewing the exam, he filed it with the other exams he had in his possession.

In April 1995, Mr. Martone disclosed to Ms. McNutt that he had a copy of the 1995 math exam which he subsequently allowed her to make additional copies of supposedly to assist her in preparing curriculum.

Ms. McNutt distributed the exam to several teachers, one of whom, who knew the exam was a secure exam, notified her principal. Her principal, Ms. Coyle, confronted Mr. Martone, who, according to Ms. Coyle, was quite surprised to find out that Ms. McNutt had distributed the exam. Nonetheless, this triggered an investigation which eventually led to Mr. Martone being questioned. The first time he was questioned, he unequivocally denied giving the exam to Ms. McNutt. Subsequent attempts to question him resulted in Mr. Martone cloaking himself in the Fifth Amendment. Though there was no criminal charges pending at the time, Mr. Martone, upon advice of counsel, avoided answering any further questions by invoking his privilege against self incrimination.

It is clear however, that Mr. Martone had possession of the 1995 EWT and did, in fact, give it to Ms. McNutt.

The essence of Mr. Martone's defense to this matter is that he either did not receive any of the memos sent concerning the new security for the 1994 EWT, or if he did receive them, he failed to read them. He does not recall them ever being discussed at any meetings and apparently never had any discussion with any of the other supervisors or teachers concerning security. According to Mr. Martone, he simply did not know that the exam was a secure one and that by possessing a copy of the math portion of the 1995 EWT he was in violation of that security. Surprisingly, that was not his stance at the time of his first interview with the State when he simply denied that he had ever seen or been in possession of the 1995 EWT.

His explanation of how he actually received the math portion of the 1995 EWT dispels any possible doubt that could have momentarily existed with respect to Mr. Martone's credibility. How could he possibly not recall the name of a teacher or teacher's aide who called him on the day of the 1995 EWT to advise him that the class was crying because of the difficulty of the test? The last shred of Mr. Martones credibility was absolutely destroyed when he himself destroyed the 1995 EWT exam that he had in his possession. Mr. Martone's incredible explanation of his obvious misdeeds accompanied by his convenient inability to recall some absolutely crucial aspects of the factual surroundings of this entire episode leads inexorably to the conclusion that Mr. Martone simply cannot be believed.

The State Operated School District of Jersey City has proven by more than a preponderance of the evidence that Mr. Martone knowingly participated in and furthered a breach of security of the EWT test of 1995. His actions in possessing and distributing the secured test was clearly an act of unprofessional conduct as well as conduct unbecoming a professional teaching staff member.

PENALTY

On one prior occasion, Mr. Martone had been disciplined for teaching at Essex County College in derogation of his contract with the Jersey City School District. His penalty at that time was a letter of reprimand. His conduct on this occasion, which I find to be significantly more serious than that for which he had previously been reprimanded, is somewhat similar in that it reflects directly on Mr. Martone's character. A review of his past performance indicates that Mr. Martone was a good teacher. Good teachers, especially Math and Science teachers are not easy to come by. Mr. Martone's distribution of the 1995 EWT exam in combination with his "stonewalling" of the investigatory body examining his conduct pinpoint a rather significant weakness of character in Mr. Martone's makeup. Though Mr. Martone's action does not appear to be malicious, the costs to the State in reconstituting the exam were significant though there was no apparent financial benefit that accrued to Mr. Martone. Though I do not believe that he had any specific intent to inflict harm on his students, though that very well may have been the end result, his complete lack of candor in combination with his complete lack of remorse is a rather blatant example of unprofessional, unbecoming conduct. Mr. Martone's conduct warrants a serious penalty.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that Vincent Martone be and is hereby terminated.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF VINCENT MARTONE,	:
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:	DECISION
HUDSON COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter, including transcripts of the hearing, and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Initially, respondent sets forth several arguments to rebut the factual findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) with regard to respondent's knowledge of test security procedures and his intent in handing over the test by referring the Commissioner to specific testimony presented at hearing. (Exceptions at pp. 1-5) Respondent then excepts to the recommended penalty of removal. Respondent cites to several cases wherein the Commissioner has determined that such penalty is not warranted, arguing that there is no basis for an automatic termination if the circumstances do not warrant it, but, rather, any penalty imposed must be carefully crafted to the specific claims proven. (Id. at p. 5) Respondent offers an alternate penalty, which would preserve his teaching career but end his supervisory career "for his admitted failure to maintain his knowledge of the requirements surrounding EWT test security." (Id. at p. 8) These sanctions include respondent's payment of $7,603 in restitution to the District, forfeiture of his administrative certificate and all endorsements thereon, as well as the tenure and seniority rights accrued under his administrative certificate and endorsements. (Id.) He contends that, "these punishments are sufficiently drastic to match the damage unwittingly done by him." (Exceptions at p. 9)

In reply, petitioner reviews the testimony and evidence in rebuttal to respondent's arguments and urges adoption of the ALJ's initial decision as correct. (Reply Exceptions at

pp. 4-14) Petitioner then avers that it proved, by more than a preponderance of evidence, that respondent received, retained and distributed the mathematics portion of the 1995 EWT. (Id. at p. 14) Lastly, petitioner submits, with regard to penalty, "that there is nothing which could mitigate the egregious actions [of respondent]" and that "[h]is attempt at fashioning his own punishment  is much too little, much too late." (Id. at p. 17)

Upon a careful and independent review, the Commissioner concurs with the findings and conclusions of the ALJ that respondent's actions constitute unbecoming conduct. Further, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the tenure charges, as proven, are sufficient to warrant respondent's termination from employment, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 and 11.

Although the ALJ's findings herein turn, to a great extent, on the credibility of witnesses and the weighing of evidence, the Commissioner is satisfied, based on the record as a whole, that the ALJ appropriately measured conflicts, inconsistencies, and the plausibility of content in deciding which testimony to credit, and the proper weight to assign thereto, in reaching the factual findings and conclusions herein. It is noted that credibility determinations of the finder of fact, who observed the witnesses first-hand, are to be accorded great weight in the absence of any meaningful basis on which to challenge them. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143 (App Div 1987).

As to the appropriateness of the recommended penalty, the Commissioner holds that breaches in statewide test security were a matter of utmost concern and will be dealt with severely. As stated by Assistant Commissioner, Division of Academic Programs and Standards, in a two-page letter dated April 19, 1995:

> the reproduction of secure test items  is strictly prohibited. Individuals who violate this prohibition risk personal sanction which could include suspension or revocation of their professional license. (Boldface sic) (emphasis supplied) (Exhibit P-7 in Evidence)

The position of this agency is both clear and unequivocally communicated to school districts and staff throughout the state. Breaches of test security will not be tolerated. Therefore, the Commissioner finds that a single incident of this nature is "sufficiently flagrant" to warrant an employee's dismissal, notwithstanding where, as here, respondent has had a long career with an apparently unblemished record. Redcay v. State Board of Education, 130 N.J.L. 369, 371 (Sup. Ct. 1943); aff'd 131 N.J.L. 326 (E.&A. 1944). Further, while the Commissioner finds that respondent's behavior, as related by the ALJ in the initial decision, is particularly unbecoming for a supervisor, it cannot be countenanced for any teaching professional. The Commissioner has stated that "[b]eing a teacher requires  a consistently intense dedication to civility and respect." In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Robert H. Beam, 1973 S.L.D. 157, 163. Further, teachers "must exhibit a high degree of exemplary behavior." In re Tyler, 13 N.J.A.R. 297, 308 (1991). This is so in that > [t]eachers are public employees who hold positions demanding public trust, and in such positions they teach, inform, and mold habits and attitudes, and influence the opinions of their pupils. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Ernest Tordo, School District of the Township of Jackson, Ocean County, 1974 S.L.D. 97, 98.

Therefore, the Commissioner finds that, in view of all the facts, respondent's proposed penalty wherein he would abandon his supervisor's position in favor of a teaching position, would not be appropriate. Rather, in order to adequately impress upon respondent, and others, the extreme seriousness of his infraction and the Commissioner's concern about the poor judgment displayed during the incidents leading to the instant tenure charges, the Commissioner finds that loss of tenure is fully warranted in this instance. Therefore, the Commissioner adopts the recommended penalty of the ALJ and further finds this matter should be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners for such action it may deem appropriate with regard to respondent's certificates.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the OAL and hereby orders that respondent be dismissed from his position as tenured teacher with the State-operated School District of Jersey City as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 18, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Ken Iwama, Esq.

For the Respondent-Appellant, Bucceri & Pincus (Louis P. Bucceri, Esq., of Counsel)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education dismissing respondent from his tenured employment as a result of unbecoming conduct is affirmed substantially for the reasons expressed therein. On the basis of our own review, we agree with the credibility determinations of the Administrative Law Judge. We stress in that regard that respondent misled State investigators when he was first questioned about whether he had kept a copy of the 1995 Early Warning Test and had given a copy to another staff member. School personnel had previously been notified that they were not permitted to possess or distribute copies of that test. The record also indicates that during the course of that investigation, respondent destroyed a copy of the test he had in his possession.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE CITY OF WILDWOOD, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board appealed General Fund tax levy reductions in the amount of $537,038 made by governing body following voter rejection of proposed budget on April 15, 1997.

Upon review of the appeal herein to determine whether Board demonstrated that restoration of specific line item reductions was necessary in order to provide a thorough and efficient system of education in the district, Commissioner determined to restore $210,637. However, in view of the fact that additional surplus sufficient to cover this amount is available to the District, the Commissioner let stand the General Fund tax levy of $5,693,033, as certified by the City for 1997-98 school purposes.

Commissioner permitted Board to exclude its additional State appropriation from consideration herein because of the demonstrated need for the repairs for which the appropriation was expressly made. However, Commissioner further stipulated that any amount of this money not used for the stated purpose is to be appropriated in the 1998-99 budget for tax relief.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE CITY OF WILDWOOD, CAPE MAY COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

For the Board of Education, Bruce M. Gorman, Esq.

For the Board of Commissioners of the City of Wildwood, Marcus H. Karavan, Esq.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education on June 13, 1997, through the filing of a Petition of Appeal by the Board of Education of the City of Wildwood (Board), seeking restoration of reductions to the school budget made by the Board of Commissioners of the City of Wildwood (City) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:22-37 following defeat of the budget at the annual school election on April 15, 1997.

At that election, the voters rejected a public question proposing a General Fund tax levy of $6,230,071 for the 1997-98 school year. On May 16, 1997, following consultation with the Board as required by law, the Borough adopted a resolution determining to certify a General Fund tax levy of $5,693,033 as sufficient to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E) in the district. This amount represented a reduction of $537,038 from the tax levy proposed by the Board, and was effectuated through cuts in 29 line items, for the reasons given in the schedule attached to the implementing resolution.

The amounts in dispute in this appeal are thus as follows:

Tax Levy Proposed by Board		Tax Levy Certified by City
General Fund	$ 6,230,071	General Fund	$ 5,693,033
Amount of Reduction by City		Amount of Reduction in Dispute
General Fund	$537,038	General Fund	$537,038

An answer to the Board's petition was filed by the City on July 1, 1997. The Board's Position Statement was filed on July 21, 1997 and the City's position statement was submitted on July 22, 1997. On August 4, 1997, the Board filed a response to the City's position statement, and on August 12, 1997, it filed a summation. On August 26, 1997, the City filed its summation statement.[1]

In addition, as the parties had been advised by letter from the Assistant Commissioner dated April 16, 1997, distributed through the County Superintendent to boards and municipalities experiencing budget defeats and again in conjunction with proceedings herein, as part of the record of the within appeal, the Commissioner took official notice of the Board's revised budget and its June 30 financial report to be filed by August 1 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10, as well as applicable portions of the School Report Card and the Comparative Spending Guide. That same notice further provided that official notice would be taken of the annual audit for purposes of verifying surplus information given in the June 30 report and any prior year data relied upon by the Commissioner in making his determinations.

Finally, the record of this matter shows that the Board was notified by letter dated July 11, 1997 from the Assistant Commissioner of the Division of Finance that it had received a supplemental appropriation in the amount of $500,000 in the State Appropriations Act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1998. The Board was informed how to record said aid in accordance with GAAP principles, and that it was required to take action to revise its 1997-98 budget. The [1] It is noted that, although the date on the face of the document is August 11, 1997, it was not received by the Department of Education until August 26, 1997.

Board was further informed that the additional school aid would be considered when the instant appeal was decided.[2]

Consistent with the above, upon receipt of the City's summation on August 26, 1997, the record of the within appeal was closed and the matter proceeded to determination.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

In rendering judgment relative to budgetary appeals, the Commissioner notes that the Constitution of the State of New Jersey requires the Legislature to provide for a thorough and efficient system of education (T&E). The Legislature by way of statutory scheme has delegated the responsibility for providing such T&E to local boards of education. Additionally, the Legislature pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, 22-14, 22-17 and 22-37 has authorized the Commissioner of Education to review and decide appeals by boards of education seeking restoration of budgetary reductions imposed by local governing bodies. In reviewing such appeals, the Commissioner's standard has historically been whether a district board of education has demonstrated that the amount by which a specific line-item reduction imposed by the governing body is necessary for the provision of T&E. Board of Education of East Brunswick Township v. Township Council of East Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94 (1966) and Board of Education of Deptford Township v. Mayor and Council of Deptford Township, 116 N.J. 305 (1989). However, on December 20, 1996, the Legislature enacted the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA), wherein a prescribed level of expenditure range was established as sufficient for provision of T&E. Therein, appeal of General Fund budget amounts in excess of that range, following voter defeat and municipal reduction, was expressly restricted to grounds of negative impact on the stability of the district given the need for long-term planning and budgeting, while appeal of General Fund budget amounts within that range could also be based on necessity for T&E. Additionally, the Act provided for standards of efficiency to be established by the Commissioner, setting forth the appropriate cost of the various programs, services, activities and materials necessary to achieve T&E. (P.L. 1996, c. 138; N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 et seq.)

[2] In its reply position statement filed on August 4, 1997, the Board contends that monies it "may receive from the State are desperately needed to repair the roof of the high school. The problems with the roof have been outlined in {Disputed line item Number 29, supra].  The fact that respondent has consistently fought efforts to effectuate these needed repairs by campaigning against Bond Referendum after Bond Referendum only highlights the necessity of using the $500,000.000 grant to fix the roof." (Board's Reply Statement at p. 26)

In the present instance, the Board proposed a General Fund budget within the T&E range established for the district pursuant to CEIFA. Accordingly, appeal of reductions may be made either on grounds that restoration of such reductions is necessary for T&E, in accordance with established standards of efficiency, or on grounds that the reductions negatively impact upon the stability of the district.

Mindful, then, of the standard to be applied, the Commissioner makes specific determinations as set forth below.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Disputed Line-Item Number 1

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2540	11-140-100-101	Gr. 9-12 Sal. of Teachers (Athletic Trainer)	$1,570,672	$51,555

The Board contends that physical education and athletics are considered an integral part of a thorough and efficient system of education. Elimination of the athletic trainer will, according to the Board, significantly threaten the health and safety of the students participating in the athletic program. The Board refers to N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.4, which requires student athletes to be medically cleared for participation in athletics. The Board reasons that the athletic trainer is a necessary part of the process of protecting the health of student athletes, in that the trainer treats injuries for all school athletes, provides whirlpool treatment and supervises training machines. Further, the trainer spends in excess of 1,100 hours per year attending athletic events. The Board argues that, for many students, treatment by the trainer is the only rehabilitation they will receive. In this regard, the Board finds that, to deny the poverty-level students in the district of the basic medical protection that students in wealthier districts enjoy is discriminatory. Thus, the Board concludes that elimination of this position will place student athletes at risk. The Board also argues that athletes may avoid the risk by ceasing to participate in athletic programs, thereby receiving less than T&E.

The City contends that the trainer position is not essential, and does not affect T&E. The City asserts that the trainer does not affect classroom education, nor the physical education program of the district. Moreover, the City argues that removal of this position does not affect any of the interscholastic activities. This position, the City concludes, is a luxury and not a necessity. Thus, elimination of the athletic trainer position will not, the City avers, harm any of the district's children, nor will it preclude T&E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, while athletic programs may indeed be an integral part of T&E, the district is spending well above the amount established as efficient pursuant to CEIFA for extracurricular/co-curricular activities, and, further, has not demonstrated the necessity for restoration of this specific position in order to provide a T&E level of extra- and co-curricular activity. Accordingly, the reduction of $51,555 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 2

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2680	11-190-100-610	General Supplies	$133,500	$3,500

This line item, the Board points out, is not only for copying supplies, as targeted for reduction by the City, but for pencils, workbooks, manila folders, general stationary supplies, chalk, magic markers and other supplies used in the actual teaching process. The Board asserts that the City's assumption that the use of computers will correspond in a reduction in copying charges is faulty. Rather, the Board contends, the use of computers results in an increase in copying costs. The Board asserts that computers generate a great deal of paper, in that computer printouts are generally copied. Teachers copy hand-outs for students, the Board notes, and students copy projects they have created on the computer. The clerical staff copies correspondence and reports. The business office copies financial records. The Board reasons that these activities relate to providing T&E.

The City notes that the expenditures in 1995-96 from this account were $125,608. The 1996-97 revised appropriation was $160,630, and the 1997-98 proposed appropriation is $133,500. The City argues that its reduction of $3,500 is minor, and will not affect T&E, and that the reduction may be easily accomplished.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending within the level of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for supplies, and has budgeted less for this year than in the prior year. Moreover, the City has not provided a specific demonstration of the manner in which costs could be reduced to the degree required by its action. Accordingly, the reduction of $3,500 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 3

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2670	11-190-100-500	Other Purchased Services (Travel Expenses)	$6,700	$3,000

The Board argues that, pursuant to its collective bargaining agreement with the Wildwood Education Association, it is obligated to pay for travel expenses when it authorizes teaching staff members to attend workshops and seminars. The Board asserts that much of the training in this regard is mandated, and the Commissioner has stated that teacher education is a State priority. With the cuts proposed by the City, the Board contends that the ability of teachers to improve their skills and thereby provide a better education to students will be eliminated. In such event, the Board finds that T&E will suffer.

The City asserts that this reduction will not affect T&E. It notes that the 1995-96 expenditures for this account totaled $6,636; the 1996-97 revised appropriation was $9,150 and the 1997-98 proposed appropriation is $6,700. The City finds that this is an "out of classroom reduction" (City's Position Statement at p. 6) and it will not, therefore, affect the education provided in the district.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's budgeted amount is less than its prior year allocation, and equal to its FY 96 expenditures in this area. In light of the importance of professional development for T&E, as recognized in the efficiency standards established pursuant to CEIFA, and in view of the lack of specificity in the reasoning for the City's reduction, the Commissioner determines to restore the $3,000 reduced from this account.

Disputed Line-Item Number 4

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2640	11-190-100-106	Other Sal. for Instruct. (Aides)	$55,830	$10,000

The district employs ten aides which it deems absolutely necessary, and which the City proposes to cut and replace with volunteers. The Board notes the aides are used for a variety of purposes, such as helping teachers with overcrowded classrooms, assisting in the instruction of the developmentally disabled and performing functions which do not require a fully certified teacher.

The Board points out that one of the aides works at the high school, providing one-on-one training with a student afflicted with Down's Syndrome, and handling a group of marginally retarded students. A volunteer, the Board reasons, would not be qualified to fill this position. The alternative, according to the Board, is to send these students out of the district at much greater cost. The remaining nine aides work at the elementary school: three as full-time special education aides, two as part-time kindergarten aides, three part-time first-grade aides and one as a full-time library aide. The Board notes that, with the exceptions of the library aide, all aides have direct pupil contact and are intimately involved with providing T&E. Moreover, the Board notes that aides must have qualifications beyond those of a volunteer. It argues that the City's observation that aides are not certified is inaccurate; an aide in Wildwood must have at least a substitute's certificate and must be approved by the County Superintendent of Schools. The Board further notes that, of the $55,830 in this line item, $46,217 is paid for by Demonstrably Effective Program Aid. It reasons that aides are utilized to assist in functions which would otherwise have to be performed by teachers, so that a reduction in aides will necessarily mean the addition of more teachers. It is more economical, the Board concludes, to maintain the aides.

The City argues that a $10,000 reduction for salaries for non-certified education officials does not affect T&E. It notes that aides can be replaced by volunteers, and further asserts that, at present, the aides are not certified.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board's spending for aides is well within the scope of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA, and that the City's suggestion that paraprofessionals, who must meet established qualification standards and be approved by the county superintendent, be replaced by volunteers is simply not feasible. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores the reduction of $10,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 5

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2700	11-190-100-800	Other Objects	$97,529	$5,000

The Board notes that the City's reduction in this line item pertains to copying charges; said charges are the usage fee paid to the copier company. For the reasons set forth in Disputed Line Item Number 2, supra, the Board expects that its copier will be used more often, and usage will increase. The Board asserts that the items copied by the district either impact directly upon T&E, or upon the administrative stability of the district. The copying charge is a usage fee imposed by the manufacturer. The Board reasons that it can only reduce its expenditures by reducing the services offered to students.

The City contends that this reduction will not affect T&E, and will not impede the educational program in the district. It notes the 1997-98 proposed appropriation, and finds that, even with the reduction, a significant sum remains for the Board's use.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending within the level of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for supplies, and has budgeted substantially less for this year than in the prior two years. Moreover, the City has not provided a specific demonstration of the manner in which costs could be reduced to the degree required by its action. Accordingly, the reduction of $5,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 6

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6110	11-402-100-600	Supplies and Materials (Athletics)	$47,500	$20,000

The Board urges that the athletic program is an essential part of T&E, as outlined infra, in Disputed Line-Item Number 16. The Board notes that its original budget request for this line item was over $70,000, and that $47,500 represents the absolute minimum required for it to operate the athletic program. The Board further observes that the City's suggestion, infra, that trainer's supplies may be eliminated, is premised upon its elimination of the trainer, as addressed above. Yet, the Board reasons, that even if the trainer is eliminated the supplies will remain necessary, as there will continue to be injured students. As for the reduction in coaches' salaries, the Board argues that their salaries are already so low that now its staff members go to other districts to take coaching positions. Additionally, coaching salaries are a negotiable item; the Board will have to re-open the collective agreement and negotiate with the teacher's association to accommodate this reduction. The Board further points out that it will be limited in its ability to achieve such a reduction, in that the City has also eliminated the Board's labor negotiator, as set forth in Disputed Line-Item Number 13, infra.

The Board questions the City's suggestion to reduce miscellaneous expenses, in that it does not provide an indication of what specific expenses are disposable. The Board herein provides a list of the expenses included in this line item and notes that none of the expenditures for a particular sport is large. Rather, the Board observes that its district provides 23 teams in 11 sports for students in grades 5-12. Participation in these activities helps produce a well-rounded student. Reducing this line item by $20,000 will cripple the athletic programs and lead to the demise of most of the sports identified on the Board's list. Further, the reduction will infringe upon the guaranteed right of each student to T&E.

The City avers that the reduction may be absorbed by reducing trainer supplies, miscellaneous expenses and coaches' salaries, none of which affects classroom activities. The reduction, the City argues, coincides with the reduction in Line Item 2540, the athletic trainer's salary. The reduction does not affect T&E, according to the City.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, as noted above, the Board is spending well above efficiency levels established by CEIFA for extra- and co-curricular activities, and that it can, given the size of this account and the elimination of the trainer position above, absorb a reduction of $3,500 without negative impact on the district's ability to provide T&E. Accordingly, the Commissioner restores $16,500 of the City's reduction, and sustains $3,500.

Disputed Line-Item Number 7

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6490	11-000-218-104	Salaries of Other Prof. Staff	$199,245	$52,000

The Board notes that it has the composition of an inner city urban district, in that approximately 25% of the student population is African American and approximately 24% of the students are Hispanic. Moreover, the population is abnormally transient. The Board argues that it cannot absorb the loss of a guidance counselor's position without seriously affecting T&E. It notes the duties of a guidance counselor are varied,[3] and the loss of one of its four guidance staff[4] will adversely affect the ability of the students to receive proper counseling regarding course selection, career goals and college admissions, matters which are integral to T&E. The Board additionally attaches a Guidance report for the 1996-97 school year which shows that the elementary counselor currently serves over 500 students, a counselor-student ratio which is not acceptable. Further reductions in the guidance staff would diminish guidance services to a level which would render it impossible, asserts the Board, to offer T&E.

The City contends that the reduction of one counselor's position will not affect T&E. It notes that sufficient funds remain in this line item to maintain its program with the remaining guidance professionals in the district. The City further contends that elimination of one guidance position does not affect classroom activities, and the needs of the students will be met by the remaining staff.

[3] The Board lists the following functions of guidance counselors: handling college applications and all other aspects of college admission; scheduling the course load for each student in conjunction with his/her career goals; creating an overall schedule for the school system; meeting with and counseling students with failing grades; counseling students for misbehavior; interfacing with DYFS; assisting and integrating new students in the system; coordinating problems students with the Child Study Team; and structuring the State-mandated Approved Counseling Services Plan.

[4] The director of guidance, two high school counselors and one elementary counselor.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending significantly above the range of efficiency established for guidance services pursuant to CEIFA, and that it should be able to provide a sufficient level of services with one less staff member as proposed by the City. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $52,000.

Disputed Line-Item Number 8

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6550	11-000-218-600	Supplies and Materials (Misc. Supp./Student Support Services)	$13,500	$5,500

The Board notes that this line-item comprises office supplies used by the administrative staff, including, but not limited to, teaching and computer supplies which are not used by the students. Of the $5,500 reduction, $3,500 is from this category. The Board contends that without these supplies, the clerical staff will be unable to function, which will, in turn, eliminate such items as report cards, attendance records, personnel records, student records, teacher lesson plans and the like. These items, asserts the Board, are essential to the functioning of the district. The remaining $2,000 reduction will eliminate expenditures for the State-mandated standardized testing, including, but not limited to, Metropolitan Achievement Tests. The Board avers that, by virtue of the State mandate, these tests are clearly necessary to prove T&E.

The City argues that this reduction will not affect T&E. It observes that the proposed 1997-98 appropriation was $13,500, nearly double the amount in last year's budget ($7,816). Even with the reduction, the City asserts, the Board will be left with $8,000 in this line item, an increase from the 1996-97 revised appropriation. The City finds that the Board's prior year's expenses indicate that it has over-budgeted for this line item, and the adjusted number comports with the prior year's expenditures. The City further argues that the Board must contain costs in this area.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending within the level of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for supplies, notwithstanding that this account has increased over last year's appropriation. Moreover, the City has not provided a specific demonstration of the manner in which costs could be reduced to the degree required by its action. Accordingly, the reduction of $5,500 is restored.

The Board warrants that the monies in this line item have been budgeted to provide computer equipment and servicing for same. The Board explains that it entered into a lease agreement for 60 computers to be used to teach computer science to all students in both the high school and the elementary school; the line-item increase from the prior year is a direct result of the acquisition of the computers. The computers require equipment and servicing, including, but not limited to, software, wiring, connectors, boards, network maintenance, and general upkeep. All the computers are used for classroom instruction. The Board affirms that, if this line item is reduced, it will be unable to operate this program. Given the great importance of computers in the modern world, the Board contends that they are essential to T&E, and they cannot be cut from the budget, and argues that the Commissioner has previously determined that computers are essential to the provision of T&E.

The City, again, notes that this reduction will not affect T&E. It has reviewed the 1995-96 expenses ($7,149) in comparison to 1996-97, and finds that the 1997-98 expenses may be reduced, as the reduction will still permit the district an increase over the 1996-97 amount of $3,427.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending within the level of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for supplies, notwithstanding that this account has increased over last year's appropriation. Moreover, the City has not provided a specific demonstration of the manner in which costs could be reduced to the degree required by its action. Accordingly, the reduction of $4,000 is restored.

6580	11-000-219-104	Salaries of Other Prof. Staff ((Sal./Child Study Team)	$232,255	$48,544

The Board argues that the City's proposal to eliminate one member of the Child Study Team (CST) is impossible, as a matter of law. The Board cites N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.1(f), which requires that each local board maintain a CST, and references N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) with respect to the required composition of that team.[5] The Board notes that it presently maintains a CST comprised of 4.5 staff members: a CST administrator, one psychologist, one social worker, one full-time learning disabilities teacher and one part-time disabilities teacher. The Board further appends a copy of the New Jersey State Department of Education Office of Special Education Programs District Staff Management Ratio for the period 1980 through 1995. The Board argues

[5] The regulation requires that the CST consist of a school psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher/consultant and a school social worker. N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) that Wildwood compares to the State averages for total student enrollment in the following manner:

- Ratio Between School Psychologist and Students
  State Average - 1:1,187
  Wildwood -1:1,025

- Ratio Between School Social Worker and Students
  State Average - 1:1,063
  Wildwood - 1:1,025

- Ratio Between Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant and Students
  State Average - 1:1,051
  Wildwood - 1:1,025

The Board asserts that these numbers suggest that it meets the State median for the ratios for school psychologist and for school social workers, when total enrollment is considered. And, the Board notes, it would appear that Wildwood is overstaffed by one-half Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant. However, the Board reasons that the numbers change when the ratios consider only classified students, which is the student population with which the CST works. Compared to the State average, the ratio of classified students to members of the CST is as follows:

- Ratio Between School Psychologist and Students
  State Average - 1:147
  Wildwood - 1:213

- Ratio Between School Social Worker and Students
  State Average - 1:132
  Wildwood - 1:213

- Ratio Between Learning Disabilities Teacher/Consultant and Students
  State Average - 1:130
  Wildwood - 1.5:213 (or 1:142)

Thus, the Board concludes that it is appropriately staffed with regard to the learning disabilities teacher/consultant and is understaffed by some 50% with regard to the psychologist and social worker. The Board argues that it will be unable to provide proper services, as required by law, if one employee is eliminated.

The City argues that this reduction will not affect T&E, in that it will not affect classroom activities. The City contends that there are sufficient CST professionals remaining in the district to assure the needs of the students are met and to advance the intended program. The City finds that the quality of the program will not be affected by the reduction.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the district can provide adequate CST services to its student population through the core child study team required pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), without the additional need for a CST administrator. Accordingly, the reduction of $48,544 is sustained.

The Board argues that access to newspapers and periodicals which offer more than a local perspective are essential to providing T&E.

The City, after review, finds that this reduction, which affects the purchase of periodicals and newspapers, will not affect the qualify of the educational program, and is a nonessential item. The City argues that the remaining funds are sufficient, noting that in the prior year, $5,513 was budgeted and only $2,872 was spent.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board is spending within the level of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for supplies, notwithstanding that this account has increased over last year's appropriation. Moreover, the City has not provided a specific demonstration of the manner in which costs could be reduced to the degree required by its action. Accordingly, the reduction of $3,100 is restored.

6910	11-000-230-100	Salaries/Undistr. Exp./ General Admin.)	$282,107	$5,531

The Board notes that $5,031 of the reduction is attributed to substitutes for the superintendent's office. It observes that the superintendent's office staff consists of one person: the superintendent's secretary. The Board office, prior to 1996, consisted of three people: the assistant board secretary and two computer operator/bookkeepers. The assistant Board secretary, however, was "riffed" as a result of last year's budget defeat. Thus, the substitute pay is essential. In that two people now perform the work of three, the Board administrator must have the ability to bring in additional help, the Board argues, at peak times of the year, e.g., during the budget process, the auditing process and the year-end close down. Additionally, the Board avers that the clerical employees are entitled to vacation and sick time; there are no additional personnel to substitute for someone who takes vacation or uses sick leave. The persons in these offices ensure that teachers are paid, there will be money for textbooks and other items which are essential to T&E.

The Board further notes that $500 of this reduction is for the treasurer's salary. The treasurer is the chief financial officer of the Board. The Board asserts that since this person is controlled by the City, if the City can convince him to take less money, so much the better.

The City finds that this reduction, substitute pay for the superintendent's office, will not affect T&E in the district. The City contends that the Board can reallocate existing personnel services and eliminate this expense entirely. The City argues that this reduction will produce a more efficient and thorough educational program in the district.

Upon review, the Commissioner notes that the Board spends well above the level of efficiency established by CEIFA for clerical salaries, and that the Board should be able to make adequate provisions for sick and vacation coverage without the need for additional staff. Accordingly, the reduction of $5,531 is sustained.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6920	11-000-230-331	Legal Services	$57,786	$13,186

With respect to the City's suggestion, infra, that bond counsel and labor counsel be eliminated, the Board argues that labor relations have become a specialty and it is in everyone's best interest that the cheapest possible contract be negotiated with employees. As to the bond counsel, the Board notes that it is the position of many major lending institutions not to accept a legal opinion from an ordinary attorney but, rather, to require a letter written by bond counsel. The City's position, the Board asserts, is short-sighted. If a bad contract is negotiated, more money will be spent, and the budget will increase. The Board further directs attention to its arguments with respect to Disputed Line-Item Number 29, infra.

The City finds that the Board can reduce its legal fees by the above-stated amount without affecting T&E. The City notes that the Board solicitor's salary is $19,600, with $25,000 allocated for additional legal services, $2,500 for legal services related to bonding, and $10,686 for legal services involved with negotiations. The City argues that the school solicitor can do the negotiations and bond work within the salary parameters, not unlike the City's own solicitor.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, in light of his determination on the use of additional state funds as noted below, there is no longer a need for an appropriation for separate bond counsel in this year's budget. In other respects, however, the Board's allocation for legal expenses is appropriate for its circumstances. Accordingly, $2,500 of the reduction is sustained, and $10,686 is restored.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6950	11-000-230-530	Communications/Telephone	$25,150	$3,150

The Board argues that the telephone is a necessity of modern society. It must use the phone to communicate with the Department of Education in Trenton, the county superintendent in Cape May Court House, the police department, the fire department and other persons and entities necessary to maintain the health and safety of the children, as well as for providing T&E. Additionally, the Board indicates that it is in the process of installing ISDN lines for distance learning and use of the Internet. There is a growing need for more of these lines, and as the system grows, so will the cost of telephone use. Use of these modern methods, affirms the Board, is essential to T&E. The Board further notes that for the 1996-97 school year, for the period July 1 through April 30 (10 months), the Board spent $22,000. The Board questions how it can attain a lower phone bill than it expended in 1996-97, in an age of escalating prices. The Board further indicates that the Commissioner has held that "'technical education is essential to a thorough and efficient educational system to prepare students to function effectively in this age of advancing technology.'" (Board's Reply at p. 15, citing Board of Education of the Township of Mansfield v. Township Committee of the Township of Mansfield, Commissioner's Decision February 10, 1995.)

The City determined that this reduction could be effectuated without affecting T&E. In 1995-96, while the budget for this line item was $22,000, the actual expenditure was $20,773. The City notes that, after review, it is its position that the budget should be reduced to the amounts of the 1996-97 budget allocation.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that notwithstanding that the Board's level of overall expenditure for telephone/communication expenses may have increased from 1995-96 levels, the June 30 Board secretary's report for 1996-97 reveals that $27,000 was appropriated to this account and only $14,976 was expended, with no encumbrances remaining, leaving a balance of $12,023. Accordingly, the City's reduction of $3,150, which brings the Board's 1997-98 allocation to $22,000, a level sufficiently above prior-year expenditures to allow for growth in service needs and price increases, is sustained.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6960	11-000-230-590	Other Purchased Services	$53,950	$6,600

The Board initially points out that the City seeks reductions in two areas: expenses of the Board of Education ($4,000) and in the appropriation for Special Election for Bond ($2,600). In the former area, the Board asserts that monies are used to purchase supplies for the business administrator's office, including, but not limited to, office supplies, diskettes, postage, computer supplies and copier supplies. Additionally, the business administrator's convention, which he is required to attend under the terms of his contract, costs approximately $300. The Board warrants that, without these supplies, the Board office cannot function; there will be no monies to pay teachers, to pay for text books, computers and all other items utilized to provide T&E. In this regard, the Board underscores its arguments set forth in Disputed Line Item Number 12, supra.

The Board further points out that the budget for the 1997-98 school year was $14,000, which is not only reasonable, but in line with past expenditures. It further points out that the City concedes that the reduction should only equal the total amount expended during the prior year and, on that basis, there should be no reduction. The Board has budgeted only $14,700, or more than $1,200 less than what was expended during 1996-97. The Board finds that it will be impossible to provide T&E without these essential financial underpinnings, particularly in light of sharply diminished surplus.

As for the $2,600 reduction to Special Election for Bond, the Board refers to its arguments for Disputed Line Item number 29, infra, and Disputed Line Item Number 13, supra. It adds that the City "is bound and determined that no referendum is approved authorizing the necessary repairs to the Wildwood High School." (Board's Position Statement at p. 13) Yet, the Board asserts, the leaky roof, inadequate fire system and aged and defective electrical system threaten the safety of the students and, therefore, the ability of the school to provide T&E. The Board also notes that, in the 81-year-old high school building, water is leaking throughout the roof tiles and into the third floor classrooms.

The City argues that the $6,600 reduction may be effectuated without impacting T&E. The City further asserts that the $2,600 reduction could automatically be made, as the Board has publicly declared that the bond issue for the roof will not proceed. In addition, the City has determined that the Board secretary's office can reduce expenses by $4,000. Such a reduction, the City claims, would only reduce the total amount appropriated to make it equal to the previous year's budget allotment. Moreover, the City notes that both of these allocations are for non-classroom activities.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, in light of his determination on the use of additional state funds as noted below, there is no longer a need for an appropriation for a special bond election in this year's budget. In other respects, however, the Board's allocation for supplies and related Board expenses is within established efficiency expectations. Accordingly, $2,600 of the reduction is sustained, and $4,000 is restored.

With respect to the proposed elimination of the position of athletic director (AD), the Board refers to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.1, which requires that directors of athletics possess a supervisory certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners. The Board continues, arguing that, for it to maintain its athletic program, it must have a properly certified AD. In support of its contention that the athletic program is an essential element of T&E, the Board refers to N.J.S.A. 8A:35-5, which requires each district to maintain a mandatory course of study in physical education, and to N.J.A.C. 6:29-3.2(c) which requires local boards to provide, by regular appropriations, suitable and adequate equipment for carrying out the program for physical education activities. Moreover, the Board notes that the AD performs a variety of functions which cannot be adequately handled by anyone else. Those functions are identified as: overseeing all physical education and interscholastic programs; scheduling and arranging transportation; supervising and recommending the hiring and firing of coaches; arranging for State-required medical examinations; structuring the program for each sport; ordering inventories; maintaining and storing sporting equipment; and managing the athletic budget. The Board further notes that, notwithstanding the unusual hours which the AD must keep, as well as the fact that he works 12 months per year, he is compensated at a lower salary than some teachers in the district.

The Board further argues that the AD in its district must contend with three unique problems. First, as an inner city urban district, it does not own facilities for outdoor sports. Thus, the AD has the added burden of locating sites for many athletic events, and arranging the necessary transportation. Second, few faculty members in the Board's small district volunteer for coaching positions. Thus, the AD must recruit coaches from outside the staff. Such coaches frequently require close supervision. Third, the financial stability of the district is substantially dependent upon tuition from its sending districts, and parents are increasingly opting to send their children to districts other than the Board's. The Board posits that one of the significant attractions which it has to offer is a solid athletic program. Thus, the AD bears the burden of presenting a strong program, a burden which is essential to the survival of the district.

The City argues that the position of athletic director may be eliminated without affecting the district's ability to provide T&E. The reduction, the City notes, coincides with and supplements the reductions as noted in other areas of the athletic department, supra.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the administrative and supervisory level staffing of the district is such that a separate athletic director position is not necessary for provision of T&E. Such duties as are found necessary to maintain an efficient level of extra- and co-curricular activity can be assigned to other appropriately certificated staff. Accordingly, the reduction of $51,300 is sustained.

The Board notes that the City intends to eliminate a secretary in the high school office and a secretary in the elementary school office, yet offers no rationale for these cuts. The Board further argues that the City eliminated one secretarial position from the budget in 1995-96, and one secretarial position from the budget in 1996-97. As a result, the Board consolidated the high school office and the guidance office staff. The office now contains six secretaries to serve the principal, the vice principal and the guidance department, which the Board contends, is "bare bone staffing." (Board's Position Statement at p. 18) There is no latitude for vacations, sick leave and pregnancy; there is virtually no money for substitute salaries. The Board further provides a list, which is not recounted herein, of the duties of the high school principal's secretary, the vice principal's secretary, the secretaries for the guidance office and the elementary school. The Board reasons that if such secretarial functions are not performed, the school does not operate, as a competent clerical staff is the backbone of the organization

The City has determined that a reduction in the amount of $50,343 will not affect the district's ability to offer T&E. Specifically, upon its review, the City finds that the Board may eliminate two secretarial positions, in that sufficient personnel is available to cover these positions. The City further contends that this reduction constitutes a non-classroom cut which would not affect the quality of the district's educational program.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board spends well above levels of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for clerical salaries, and that the present staff configuration can be reduced by two persons and still meet the T&E needs of the district.

However, the amount of reduction necessary to effectuate this change must be lowered to $35,579, in that the two salaries eliminated must be presumed to be the least senior and, hence, the two lowest listed in the employee salary schedule submitted with the Petition of Appeal. Accordingly, $35,579 of the City's reduction is sustained and $14,764 is restored.

The elimination of two custodial positions, as suggested by the City, infra, is not feasible, according to the Board. The Board notes that in 1995-96, respondent cut one custodian from its budget, and it has been short staffed ever since. The Board further provides that the high school is a three-story building constructed in 1916, containing 84,481 square feet; it is currently "manned" by five custodians. These custodians are each already expected to clean 16,900 square feet, some 50% more than the standards set by Service Master, Inc., the company which has serviced the Board for a number of years. Similarly, the custodians are currently asked to clean in the elementary schools nearly 3,000 square feet more than recommended. Moreover, the Board asserts it is necessary to hire substitutes and have the existing staff work overtime to make up for its understaffing. The Board concludes that it cannot afford to lose another custodian, nor to eliminate the substitute and overtime pay.

As for the supervising custodian which the City seeks to eliminate, infra, the Board insists that the custodians must be supervised. The supervising custodian must make decisions and be responsible for the buildings; deal with tradespeople, contractors and architects; be the contact person for the school's administrative staff; take control during emergencies; allocate work and check to see if the work is completed. Working in a dirty school, the Board reasons, is not conducive to efficient education; it may impair the health of students which impacts on absenteeism.

The City has determined two custodial positions may be eliminated without affecting the Board's ability to provide T&E. Specifically, the City proposes to eliminate one supervisory position at the high school ($46,000) and one district position ($20,263). Additionally, the City finds that the appropriation for overtime pay in this line is excessive. Thus, the City insists that the Board should reduce such overtime costs and improve the efficiency of the department.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding that the Board spends above levels of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for operations and maintenance, the Commissioner cannot ignore that the maintenance needs of older buildings are, in fact, greater, and that the Board's current staffing pattern is appropriate to its needs. The Commissioner also finds, however, that such staff should be sufficient for these needs without extensive payment of overtime. Accordingly, $12,266 of the City's reduction is sustained and $66,263 is restored.

Responding to the City's proposal to eliminate these funds, the Board clarifies that the funds are not for regular trash pick-up, but rather for disposal of bulk trash which the Board effectuates twice or three times annually. The Board explains that, on these occasions, it is necessary to rent a dumpster. The trash is taken to the Cape May Municipal Utilities Authority landfill, where the Board pays the tipping fee to dump the materials in the landfill. The $1,500 is for the rental of the dumpster and the tipping fee. The trash and debris cannot be left to accumulate at school, lest they become a health hazard.

The City argues that this reduction in the amount allocated for trash pick up will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E. It notes that the City is responsible for the trash pick up, and these monies are not necessary.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the City's provision of trash pick-up services should eliminate the need for additional services. Accordingly, the City's reduction of $1,500 is sustained, contingent upon the City's agreement to provide pick up of bulk trash on a basis sufficient to prevent health and safety hazards on school property.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7170	11-000-260-610	Custodial Supplies	$31,000	$8,500

The Board argues that the Wildwood High School, an 81-year-old building, contains 47 classrooms, 12 bathrooms and assorted offices, locker rooms and a cafeteria. The Glenwood Avenue School contains 26 classrooms, 6 bathrooms, a number of offices and a kitchen. These rooms generate trash and must be swept daily; each must be disinfected. The Board, by way of illustration, notes that in the 1995-96 school year, it expended $29,075 on custodial supplies; in 1996-97, it expended $32,280 on custodial supplies.[6] Thus, the proposed appropriation, according to the Board, is not unrealistic. The Board avers that the health and safety of the children are at stake.

[6] The Board notes that it is "mystified at Respondent's claim that the prior year's budget was $10, 000." (Board's Reply Statement at p. 19) In fact, the Board clarifies, the prior year's budget was $32,950, and the final expenditure was $35,279.

The City, upon review, argues that the Board has more than doubled its allocation in this line item from the prior year. The prior year's budget was $10,000; the proposed budget was $28,500. Thus, the City argues that the custodial department can reduce its utilization of supplies without adversely affecting the Board's ability to offer T&E.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding that the Board spends above levels of efficiency established pursuant to CEIFA for operations and maintenance, the Commissioner cannot ignore that the maintenance needs of older buildings are, in fact, greater. Additionally, the Commissioner has confirmed that the Board's prior year expenditures in this area are consistent with proposed expenditures, and are not, as claimed by the City, significantly lower. Accordingly, the reduction of $8,500 is restored.

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7180	11-000-260-620	Energy (Heat and Electricity)	$264,218	$15,000

The Board notes that it has budgeted $190,575 for electricity for 1997-98. In 1995-96, it spent $176,546 on electricity and in 1996-97, it spent $178,397. The increase, the Board posits, is attributed to adding air-conditioning in significant parts of the buildings. Further, the Board states that, having acquired 60 computers, the air-conditioning will be necessary to provide the proper acclimatization. The Board further contends that the City's reduction is based solely on the Board's prior usage, and does not consider the anticipated increase in electricity which results from the acquisition of computers.

As for the City's reduction for gas usage, the Board notes that gas is primarily used to heat the school, to heat hot water at both schools and to heat the stoves at the high school cafeteria. The Board affirms that it spent $61,505 on gas in 1996-97, despite the fact that the winter was unusually warm. Thus, its current budget of $71,643 is not unreasonable.

The City finds that these reductions will not impair the Board's ability to offer T&E. With respect to electricity, the City argues that the prior year's actual expenditure was $173,476. The proposed budget for 1997-98 was $190,575. Thus, the City finds that this nearly 10% increase is unnecessary. Additionally, the City notes that the Board's prior year appropriation for gas was $67,489. The actual expenditure was $62,320.31. The City reasons that it appears that the costs for the current year are commensurate with those of the prior year. Thus, the proposed figure of $71,643, is according to the City, excessive.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that, notwithstanding that the Board is spending at an efficiency level above that established pursuant to CEIFA, the Board has budgeted for amounts consistent with its actual past experience, with a reasonable increase to accommodate the new energy needs associated with its acquisition of computers. Accordingly, the reduction of $15,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 22

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7270	11-000-270-512	Contracted Services Transportation	$42,000	$10,000

With respect to the two reductions in this line item, athletic transportation costs ($5,000) and computer transportation costs ($5,000) the Board argues that the net effect of removing athletic transportation from the budget is to eliminate athletics. Athletic transportation, according to the Board, is a fixed cost set by contract bid pursuant to the Public School Contracts Law. As a result of the bid, the Board pays $22.50 per hour for this transportation; it does not use its own buses, since it does not own buses. The Board further notes that it is a member of the Cape-Atlantic League, which includes schools not only in the named counties, but in Cumberland County, as well. It is not uncommon for students to travel to Atlantic and Cumberland Counties to compete. The average transportation cost of an away game is $90, avers the Board. Thus, the $5,000 reduction in athletic transportation will eliminate approximately 56 away games. If away games are eliminated, the Board reasons, then 56 home games will be similarly eliminated, since, under NJSIAA Rules, it is necessary to play a home and away series. The Board concludes that this reduction will effectively eliminate a substantial portion of the athletic program, which is an integral part of T&E.

As for the City's proposal to reduce costs for computer transportation, the Board notes that the Glenwood Elementary School is "hopelessly overcrowded." (Board's Position Statement at p. 28) As such, grades 5 and 6 occupy space at the high school. However, in order to use the 30 computers (of the total of 60 which have been acquired) the 5th and 6th grade students must be transported to the Greenwood School. In this regard, the Board pays a busing service of $50 per day to bus the 5th and 6th graders to and from the Greenwood School; the total cost is $9,000 per year.[7] To reduce this amount by $5,000, argues the Board, will effectively cut off the 5th and 6th graders from use of the computers. Since the Board urges that the ability to use and understand computers is a necessity of the modern world, the failure to provide such training will deprive the 5th and 6th graders of T&E.

The City has determined that a $10,000 reduction in this line item will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E. The City notes that, "[f]rom the current year to the budget year the athletic transportation budget increased from $15,500 to $23,000." (City's Position Statement at p. 16) The City finds that such a significant increase is not warranted, particularly

[7] The Board notes in its reply statement that the City's observation, infra, that the $9,000 will be used to purchase a computer system is erroneous. (Board's Reply Statement at p. 21) in light of other budget reductions to the athletic program. Moreover, the City argues that this is also a non-classroom reduction. The City further states, "In addition, the petitioner has included within the proposed overall budget for this department the purchase of a computer costing $9,000.00. At this time, in light of the budget cuts a computer system, which is not necessary, can not occur." (Id.)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has budgeted appropriately for transportation needs which serve as an integral part of its T&E program, and that reductions to a transportation account cannot be made on the basis of alleged inappropriate expenditures in other areas. Accordingly, the reduction of $10,000 is restored.

Disputed Line-Item Number 23

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7430	11-000-290-330	Purchased Prof. Services	$27,500	$2,500

The Board's explanation for the increase in this item is that it contracts out its computer programming for the District's central computer network to a service company, and the annual contract has been increased from $22,500 to $25,000 for 1997-98. The Board requires these services if the computers are to operate.

The City finds that a reduction in this line item will not affect the district's ability to provide T&E. It notes that the budget appropriated for the prior year was $25,000; the actual expenditures were $23,323.37. The City further observes that the budget appropriated for the current year was also $25,000. Thus, after reviewing the pertinent information, the City concludes that $2,500 of the proposed increase was unnecessary. The City again notes that this is a non-classroom reduction which will not affect the quality of the Board's educational program.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that this line has historically included no costs over and above the computer service contract, which the Board acknowledges to be $25,000; neither does the Board offer any rationale for additional funds. Accordingly, the reduction of $2,500 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 24

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
7550	11-000-310-930	Transfers to Cover Deficit	$53,500	$12,000

The Board observes that that this line item contains the cafeteria deficit account; while the cafeteria is supposed to break even, it does not. The Board argues that it is mandated to provide a food service program for its students. Several years ago, the Board continues, it privatized its cafeteria services. Although the change was economical for the district, the cafeteria continues to lose money. This loss, the Board posits, is a direct result of the clash between State regulation and general teenage resistance to nutritious food. By regulation, the Board affirms that it must serve a Class A meal, a hot lunch complete with meat, potatoes and vegetables. Students, however, do not buy the Class A meal but, rather, choose to buy a la carte at a cheaper price. Moreover, the brief 20-25 minute lunch periods encourage students to an a la carte sandwich rather than an expensive Class A meal.

The Board further notes that, effective March 1997, the State has reduced the amount of reimbursement to be received by the cafeteria, and there has been a steady decline in the availability of government commodities. The Board notes that the deficit generally runs between $45,000 and $55,000; the projected amount of $53,500 is realistic.

The City notes that, in the prior year, the budget for this line item was $50,000; the actual expenditures were $42,581.58. In 1995-96, the amount budgeted also exceeded the actual expenditures significantly, Thus, the City reasons that the Board's operating history demonstrates that it has overbudgeted for this account.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board appears to regularly anticipate that its cafeteria service will run a substantial deficit, and that it has generously overbudgeted this account in prior years. For example, the June 30 Board secretary's report for 1996-97 reveals that of $50,355 appropriated, only $29,434 was actually expended and $1,875 was encumbered. Clearly, the Board can absorb the reduction made by the City; further, the Commissioner cannot condone the running of a cafeteria program that is in continual deficit. Accordingly, the reduction of $12,000 is sustained and the Board is directed to take such steps as are necessary to operate its cafeteria service on a break-even basis.

Disputed Line-Item Number 25

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2621	11-150-100-101	Salaries of Teachers (Home Instruction)	$72,500	$7,500

The Board argues that homebound instruction is required for any pupil with disabilities and any pupil determined by the school physician to need confinement at his/her residence for at least a two-week period of time, as per N.J.A.C. 6:28-4.1 and 4.5. To deprive such students of homebound instruction may be depriving them completely of an education. Moreover, the Board argues that, as an inner city school, it contains an inordinate number of poverty level and/or minority children. As a result, the Board avers, the probability of increased homebound instruction is substantial. Wildwood High School, according to the Board, has an extremely high pregnancy rate and the presence of nationally known gangs creates significant discipline problems. While there is no way to accurately predict what the level of need will be, the Board argues that costs for homebound instructions generally range between $60,000 and $70,000. Thus, it reasons that its proposed budget of $72,000 is realistic.

The City finds that this reduction will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E. The City maintains that the Board's operating history of this program indicates that prior budgets are sufficient.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that actual experience supports the Board's contention that costs have ranged between $60,000 and $70,000; however, it is not necessary to assume the highest end of this spectrum based on one year's experience, and the amount remaining after the City's reduction, $65,000 should be sufficient for anticipated needs, with any additional costs covered by surplus. Accordingly, the reduction of $7,500 is sustained.

Disputed Line-Item Number 26

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2680	11-000-291-270	Health Benefits	$851,369	$53,350

The Board asserts that the figures used by the City are arbitrary, and, instead, appends a worksheet depicting the actual cost of health benefits, as well as FICA/Medicare and Unemployment payments, as reduced by the City, infra. The Board reasons that its actual costs for the eight targeted employees amounts to $50,915, rather than $64,000, or $8,000 per employee, as indicated by the City. Thus, the Board asserts that $13,085 should be restored immediately.

The City, addressing only the reduction to the health benefits line item, contends that the reduction corresponds with the reductions in staff, as noted, supra. It further argues that this reduction will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines, based on the information provided in the Board's worksheet and the reductions to staff made above, to sustain $29,854 and restore $23,496.

Disputed Line-Item Number 27

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2620	11-000-291-220	Social Security Contributions	$99,499	$9,800

The Board's arguments for this line item are contained in Disputed Line-Item Number 26.

The City determines that a reduction in the amount of $9,800 in this line item will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E, nor affect its stability. The reduction, asserts the City, is solely the result of the reductions in staff which are addressed above in detail.

Upon review, the Commissioner determines, based on the information provided in the Board's worksheet and the reductions to staff made above, to sustain $2,734 and restore $7,066.

Disputed Line-Item Number 28

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
2660	11-000-290-250	Unemployment Comp.	$25,000	$850

The Board's arguments for this line item are contained in Disputed Line-Item Number 26.

The City determines that a reduction in the amount of $850 in this line item will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E, nor affect its stability. The reduction, asserts the City, is solely the result of the reductions in staff which are addressed above in detail.

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board's worksheets establish a total unemployment contribution cost of $781 for the eight positions proposed for elimination by the City. In that the Commissioner has sustained reductions for only six of these positions, the Commissioner finds that the unemployment account must be adjusted concomitantly. Accordingly, the Commissioner sustains $588 of the City's reduction, representing the average cost of one person's benefits times six, and restores the balance of $262.

Disputed Line-Item Number 29

Line No.	Account No.	Description	Amount Budgeted	Amount Cut
6910	11-000-230-100	Salaries/Support Services (General Admin.)	$282,107	$1,200

The Board, in reference to the City's proposal to eliminate $1,200 from this line item for the special bond election, contends that twice in the last six months the voters have rejected a bond to fix the leaking roof at the high school building. Both times, the Board notes, the defeat was substantially a result of the Mayor's opposition. However, the Board maintains that the roof still leaks,[8] the electrical system needs upgrading, asbestos must be removed, the fire alarm system at Greenwood must be upgraded and the auditorium lighting in the high school must also be upgraded. The Board reasons that each of these needs affects the health and safety of the student population. Unless alternate funding is found, the Board contends, "it may well be necessary to once again go to a referendum on these issues. In such event, the monies cut by Respondent will be necessary." (Board's position statement at p. 10)

[8] In its reply position statement filed on August 4, 1997, the Board asserts, "The fact remains that the roof to Wildwood High School is in desperate shape. Leaks in the roof cause rain to come into the building in the Gymnasium, the Auditorium, and the Third floor generally. Classroom ceiling tiles are waterlogged and the asbestos above them is becoming friable. During bad rainstorms, water literally cascades down the Gymnasium walls. If remedial action is not taken shortly, the deterioration will exacerbate to the point where the building cannot be occupied." (Board's reply statement at pp. 24, 25)

The City determines that a reduction in the amount of $1,200 in this line item will not affect the Board's ability to offer T&E, nor affect its stability. The City notes that this amount was allocated by the Board for a special election school bond. However, the City argues that, since the Board has publicly declared that it was not proceeding with the bond issue for the roof, the amount is unnecessary.

In view of the Commissioner's determination on the use of additional State funds as noted below so as to obviate the need for a special election, the Commissioner sustains the reduction of $1,200.

APPLICATION OF ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATION

In its reply position statement filed on August 4, 1997, the Board contends that monies it "may receive from the State are desperately needed to repair the roof of the high school. The problems with the roof have been outlined in [Disputed Line-Item Number 29, supra].  The fact that respondent has consistently fought efforts to effectuate these needed repairs by campaigning against Bond Referendum after Bond Referendum only highlights the necessity of using the $500,000.00 grant to fix the roof." (Board's Reply Statement at p. 26)

In its summation, the City counters that the Board chose not to proceed with the bond issue to repair the roof. As a result, the City contends that the Board should be required to apply part of the grant money to the proposed budget. (City's Summation, at p. 2)

Upon review, the Commissioner finds that the Board has amply established the need for repairs to the high school roof, as well as its history of inability to obtain the necessary funds through bond referenda. Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that the special appropriation made by the Legislature to the district for this purpose should not be used to offset any reductions made herein.

APPLICATION OF SURPLUS

In its advertised annual school district budget statement, the Board projected an unreserved surplus of $268,015.

The Board's annual financial report filed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-10 (June 30 Board secretary's report) reveals an actual undesignated unreserved surplus of $482,632, while the final audited surplus not designated for 1997-98 expenditures is revealed as $509,306. The Board's auditor identified $221,197 of this amount as excess surplus and $288,109 as undesignated unreserved surplus. However, based upon a calculation of 3 percent of the Board's General Fund budget, the appropriate amount of undesignated unreserved surplus to be maintained by the Board is $268,916. Therefore, a total of $240,390 ($509,306 - $268,916), not $221,197, is available to fund restorations.

SUMMARY

In summary, the Commissioner directs restoration or sustaining of the City's line-item reductions to appropriations as set forth below.

Richard Chambers, petitioner, pro se

James L. Jackson, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: November 20, 1997 Decided: November 21 , 1997

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

This is the latest chapter in an ongoing dispute between Mr. Chambers, a tenured music teacher in the Pleasantville School District, and the Pleasantville Board of Education ("Board"). Previous decisions of the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") and the Commissioner and the State Board of Education ("State Board") have been reported at 95 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 292 and 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 447. The issues all concern the Board's actions vis a vis Mr. Chambers arising out of the Board's concern as to his mental health and his capacity to serve as a teacher in the District. This latest episode arises as a result of a transfer to OAL of a petition deemed by the Commissioner to request emergent relief. In addition, Mr. Chambers had filed a request for a declaratory judgment which the Commissioner declined to act upon. See Letter from Leo Klagholz, Commissioner, to Mr. Chambers, dated September 22, 1997.

The Petition for Appeal was first filed on August 14, 1997. In it, among other matters, Mr. Chambers refers to a letter dated August 28, 1996, from James L. Jackson, Esq., attorney for the Board, in which Mr. Chambers was advised that the Board had determined that during "the period of ineligibility for further service, declared by the Board on August 6, 1996, you shall not receive any salary, compensation or sick leave." The Board had acted under authority of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and 16-4, and after lengthy proceedings reported in the two cited decisions, the Board had obtained a report from a psychiatrist which indicated that Mr. Chambers was suffering from a mental abnormality and was therefore "ineligible." In his August 14 Petition, Mr. Chambers, who has long contended that the Board had acted improperly in regard to the entire matter, specifically requested all back pay including increments, extracurricular pay and monetary damages, including a number of claims such as intentional infliction of emotional harm, punitive damages for willful disregard of the rights of a tenured teacher, harassment, etc. In a Reply to Respondent's Response to Petition, dated September 22, 1997, Mr. Chambers requested back pay, extracurricular activities, pension reimbursement, interest and reinstatement of his teaching position, "immediately by way of summary judgement." On October 6, 1997, Deborah Antanaitis, Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, wrote to Mr. Chambers advising that the matter was being considered as a request for emergent relief and would be transmitted to the OAL. Oral argument on the motion was held on November 7, 1997, and the parties were then permitted to file briefs regarding any additional authorities which they might discover. Mr. Jackson's brief was received on November 14 and Mr. Chamber's was received on November 19. The record regarding the emergent relief petition was closed on November 20.

While Mr. Chambers raises many, many objections to the procedures used in prior years in regard to the Board's attempt to determine his eligibility pursuant to its authority under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 and -4, the sole issue appropriately considered in this emergent relief application is whether the petitioner has established that some action or inaction of the Board is likely to cause him immediate and irreparable harm and whether if such is the case, it is reasonably likely that he will succeed on the merits of his claim that the Board's conduct has violated his rights. Additionally, the emergent relief which he seeks to prevent that harm must be limited in scope to only such measures as are reasonably necessary to avoid the immediate and irreparable harm and the material facts relevant to the issue must not be in dispute. Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The immediate and irreparable harm which Mr. Chambers appears to allege is that the Board is not paying him and is preventing him from working as a tenured teacher in the school system. The immediate relief he seeks for that would be an order to immediately reinstate his pay and possibly also an order to immediately reinstate him to active teaching status. Any final determination as to the present state of his mental health and whether he is now eligible to teach is not appropriately determined upon a motion for emergent relief, which is a proceeding occurring on a sudden and immediate basis without the proper time allowed for full development of the relevant discovery materials, including interrogatories, document exchange, expert reports, etc. Such final determinations must await the scheduling of a plenary hearing at a later date, preceded by a reasonable schedule for necessary discovery.

As for Mr. Chambers' request for emergent relief, some background should be stated. This is drawn for the prior decisions. The Board determined on February 22, 1994, that Mr. Chambers was exhibiting evidence of a significant possibility of harmful deviation from normal mental and/or emotional health and resolved that he be required to undergo a psychiatric and a physical examination. He was suspended from his teaching duties with pay pending the outcome of the examinations, by separate resolution also adopted on February 22. After a lengthy litigation regarding the selection of the examining psychiatrist, Mr. Chambers was examined by Geetha Kumar, M.D., a psychiatrist. Dr. Kumar issued a report based upon two examinations held on April 30, and June 4, 1996. She diagnosed an Adjustment Disorder with Mixed Emotional Features, and a Paranoid Personality Trait, and she recommended an in-depth psychological testing, including Projective Testing and Personality Inventory. in order to assess underlying emotional issues and coping styles which she found interfered with his functioning. Additionally, she recommended individual therapy and reevaluation in six to nine months after treatment "to assess his capacity to return to his employment." According to Mr. Jackson's August 9, 1996, letter it was this report that prompted the Board to declare Mr. Chambers ineligible for further service as a teaching staff member until "proof of recovery satisfactory to the Board is furnished." The letter advising of the suspension of pay followed on August 28, 1996.

There is evidence that Mr. Chambers was involved in therapy in late 1996 and up to at least May 22, 1997. The documents filed in this matter indicate that when attempts were made to have Dr. Kumar perform the recommended re-evaluation in the Spring of 1997, she advised that she had other commitments and could not do so. Mr. Rogovoy, formerly counsel for Mr.

Chambers, wrote to Mr. Jackson on May 7, 1997, advising of this and seeking for the Board to choose a new psychiatrist to perform the re-evaluation. He wrote Jackson again on June 6. An August 12, 1997, letter to Mr. Rogovoy advised that the Board had chosen a Philadelphia physician to perform the evaluation. As of the date of the emergent hearing, I do not believe that this examination has taken place.

Mr. Chambers has many ongoing objections to the entire course of events which led to the present situation, but as best as I can determine, his particular claim as to the emergent relief application is that the Board is not authorized to suspend his pay unless it either brings charges before the Commissioner seeking to remove or otherwise affect his tenure, or where an indictment has been returned against him, neither of which events has occurred here. The Board has not filed any tenure charge, and he complains that the Board never notified the Commissioner that it had suspended his pay, which he claims violates his rights. The Board replies that it acted properly in accordance with its discretionary rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4, and notes that this application comes too late, as it is well beyond 90 days since it notified Mr. Chambers that his salary was suspended.

Without considering the timeliness issue, an examination of the law governing the right of a school board to suspend pay when any employee, whether or not tenured, is ineligible to serve as a member of the teaching staff due to a determination of a mental abnormality resulting from an examination conducted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2., reveals that the the Commissioner of Education has strongly suggested that a Board is acting well within its rights. In Middletown Township Board of Education v. Robert Leo, 1990 S.L.D. 436, the Board brought tenure charges against Mr. Leo due to evidence of psychiatric disorders. When the evidence established that the psychiatric problem was not likely to be cured in a reasonable time, if at all, the Commissioner upheld the Board determination to terminate the tenured teacher. The Commissioner had originally remanded the matter for a determination as to whether the originally diagnosed psychiatric condition was a long-term problem, or one which appeared susceptible to probable cure sufficient to allow a return to teaching duties. In his Remand Decision, the Commissioner noted that the School Board objected "strenuously" to the remand and the attendent costs to the taxpayers.he He noted that the Board could have brought the matter to a more speedy conclusion if it had followed the procedures for the psychiatric examination, which he found was "clearly warranted by respondent's deviant behavior." The Commissioner then states:

> (P)resuming that the outcome of the exam would have been as it was in these proceedings, respondent's removal from the classroom could have been achieved by invoking a prohibition against continued service pending recovery under N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1 (where the cost of any absence could, at the Board's discretion, have accrued to respondent rather than the district) or ordering a disability retirement under N.J.S.A. 18A:66-39. (Emphasis supplied.)

Based upon the Commissioner's comments in Middletown Township Board v. Leo, while dicta unnecessary to decide that case, it seems quite likely that the Commissioner would hold in the present matter that it was entirely within the discretion of the Board to suspend Mr. Chambers' pay when it learned the results of Dr. Kumar's examinations, thus allowing the "cost of any absence" from work during the period of Mr. Chambers' treatment to "accrue" to Mr. Chambers rather than to the Board. Since in order for Mr. Chambers to obtain an emergency order for the Board to pay him back pay accruing since the suspension of his pay or to obtain an emergency order for the Board to immediately resume his pay it would be necessary for me to determine that it was likely that Mr. Chambers would prevail after a plenary hearing on his claim that the Board's suspension of his pay in August, 1996 was in violation of applicable law, the Commissioner's comments in Leo are highly significant. It seems quite doubtful that the Commissioner, or the State Board, would find that the Board, faced as it was with the Kumar report, was not authorized to suspend pay for this ineligible tenured teacher. Therefore, Mr. Chambers has failed to meet the test for emergent relief regarding the suspension of his pay.

In regards to Mr. Chambers' request for emergent relief ordering the Board to reinstate him to his teaching duties, which of course would also necessitate that he be returned to the payroll, in the absence of any psychiatric report which even arguably suggests that Mr. Chambers has recovered from the mental abnormalities diagnosed by Dr. Kumar, such relief is unwarranted. While the record seems to indicate that Mr. Chambers did receive treatment, an evaluation must be done to see if he has recovered. If he has, the Board may well have to return him to active status. That determination must await the results of medical evaluation. Emergent relief cannot be granted on this record.

Finally, in his petition Mr. Chambers sought relief "immediately by summary judgment." As I explained to him at the hearing, immediate relief connotes emergency relief, and the rules provide a procedure for consideration of emergency relief as has been done here. Summary judgment, which in the context of administrative litigation is known as "summary decision," is a different procedure, outlined at N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5. It is never considered in the hurried fashion of emergency relief. Generally, a motion for summary decision is determined only after the parties have had a chance to engage in complete discovery. Technical rules for determining such a motion, which are discussed in Judson v. People's Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954) and Brill v. Guardian Life Insurance Company, 142 N.J. 520 (1995), are not applicable to an application for emergent relief, which as noted, is governed by standards generally discussed in Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 132-133.

The application for emergency relief is DENIED. The matter will be continued on the docket pending plenary hearing. The parties are urged to cooperate in order that Mr. Chambers can be examined by the designated psychiatrist, if this has not already been accomplished. As I advised Mr. Chambers, I will have this matter assigned to another judge for plenary hearing.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

RICHARD CHAMBERS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON MOTION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter and initial order of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.* Petitioner's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner raises numerous objections, but essentially renews his contention that the Board's action to suspend him, without pay, subsequent to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2 et seq., constituted a violation of his tenure rights. Petitioner cites to Slater v. Board of Education of Ramapo-Indian Hills, 237 N.J. Super. 424, 426 (App. Div. 1989) which provides that > a tenured employee may be suspended without pay only if indicted or if tenure charges have been preferred and certified to the Commissioner of Education. IN ALL OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES, A SUSPENSION MUST BE WITH PAY. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 5, citing to Slater at 426)

Inasmuch as the Board did not bring tenure charges against petitioner, and petitioner was not indicted, he contends that the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) "sole responsibility" was to determine whether his tenure rights were, in fact, violated. (Petitioner's Exceptions at p. 3)

* It is noted that the record included the audio cassette tapes of the emergent hearing conducted at the OAL.

Further, petitioner identifies the harm which he has suffered as a result of the Board's failure to continue his salary, asserting that the Board "ruined [his] career maliciously creating irreparable harm to his credit and reputation." (Id. at p. 4)

Finally, once again, petitioner argues that his motion for summary judgment has not been addressed. He avers, "Petitioner did not motion for oral argument. Petitioner motioned for a hearing regarding the issues in Agency Dkt. No. 299-8/97[A] and SUMMARY JUDGEMENT [sic], which, to this date, has been ignored." (Id. at p. 2)

The Board contends that, as to the likelihood of petitioner succeeding on his claim, that

> N.J.S.A. 18A:16-8 contemplates that an employee found ineligible for service [subsequent to a psychiatric exam which shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health] is not actually employed by the board during the period of ineligibility, using language such as "reemployment" of tenured employees upon satisfactory recovery. The statute also tolls the acquisition of additional years of tenure during the period of ineligibility. To interpret the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4 to require that a board must file tenure charges before it can withhold salary from a tenured employee found ineligible for service would render most of the language of that statute superfluous and meaningless. There would be no need to include language in N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4 which says a board may grant sick leave with compensation to a tenured employee, if there is an obligation to file tenure charges before withholding salary. The requirement of filing tenure charges is not mentioned in, or contemplated by, the statute. It should also be noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 were passed at the same time in L. 1967, c. 271. (Board's Post-hearing Brief at p. 6; emphasis in text)

Upon careful review of this matter, the Commissioner initially underscores the ALJ's instruction to petitioner, both in the initial decision and in the course of the emergent hearing at OAL, that > the sole issue appropriately considered in this emergent relief application is whether petitioner has established that some action or inaction of the Board is likely to cause him immediate and irreparable harm and whether if such is the case, it is reasonably likely that he will succeed on the merits of his claim that the Board's conduct has violated his rights. (Initial Decision at p. 2)

Thus, the purpose of the emergent hearing, contrary to petitioner's contention, was not to determine whether his tenure rights were violated, as that is the question to be decided when the merits of petitioner's claim are considered in subsequent proceedings. The Commissioner is, therefore, satisfied that the ALJ carefully weighed this matter in light of the pertinent standard of review, Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) and concurs that, even assuming arguendo that petitioner's claims are timely, he has failed to demonstrate that he is entitled to emergent relief. The Commissioner adds that the remedies petitioner seeks, reinstatement of position and reinstatement of salary and attendant emoluments, do not, in the absence of such relief, constitute irreparable harm. "Harm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, supra, at 132, 133.

Moreover, in view of the parties' divergent interpretations of the pertinent statutes, the Commissioner cannot find that petitioner has established that the legal right underlying his claim is settled, or that he is likely to succeed on the merits of his claim. Crowe at 133.

Accordingly, petitioner's application for emergent relief is denied for the reasons expressed in the recommended order. The matter shall proceed to hearing on the merits, with due regard to petitioner's request for summary judgment. Additionally, the Commissioner notes that he will not object to accelerated proceedings, if all parties consent and the ALJ finds good cause, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-9.4.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF PLEASANTVILLE, ATLANTIC COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 19, 1997

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Richard Chambers, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, James L. Jackson, Esq.

Inasmuch as we agree with the Commissioner of Education that petitioner's application for emergent relief fails to meet the standards that would entitle him to such relief under Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982), we deny his request. In so doing, we reiterate that N.J.S.A. 18A:16-4 provides that if the result of a psychiatric examination "indicates mental abnormality...the employee shall be ineligible for further service until proof of recovery, satisfactory to the [district] board, is furnished...." There is no indication in the papers before us that petitioner has provided the Pleasantville Board with such proof.

Petitioner's request for oral argument is denied as not necessary for a fair determination of this matter. N.J.A.C. 6:2-3.2.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF JOHN WILSON, SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK,	:	DECISION
MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct against custodian for excessive absenteeism.

ALJ found that since the Board acted within 15 days of the date upon which respondent received the tenure charges, the Board violated N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1. Thus, the ALJ found that the tenure charges were improperly approved and had to be dismissed without prejudice to the Board's right to reconsider them following proper compliance with the applicable statute and regulations. ALJ dismissed the charges and ordered respondent restored to his employment with compensation.

Commissioner adopted in part and reversed in part the conclusions of the ALJ and remanded the matter to OAL for a hearing on the tenure charges. Commissioner will not automatically dismiss tenure charges on procedural grounds and has declined to do so where the defect at issue did not prejudice a respondent's rights or represent an egregious and unwarranted disregard of tenure proceeding law. Under the particular circumstances herein, the Commissioner could not conclude that the procedural defect which occurred was of this type as respondent made no claim that he intended or attempted to answer the tenure charges on January 13, 1997 but was prevented from doing so by action of the Board or other circumstances.

Petitioner,
v.
JOHN WILSON,
Respondent.

John E. Collins, Esq., for petitioner (Carroll and Weiss, attorneys)

Stephen E. Klausner, Esq., for respondent (Klausner and Hunter, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 10, 1997 Decided: November 5, 1997

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ALJ:

The Board of Education of South Brunswick, acting pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, certified tenure charges against its employee, John Wilson. The Board originally advised Mr. Wilson of the charges by means of a Statement of Tenure Charges and Certified Statement of Evidence which was served upon Mr. Wilson on December 27, 1996, together with a memorandum advising Mr. Wilson that the Board would receive the documents at its meeting scheduled for 7 P.M. on January 13, 1997. The memo also informed Mr. Wilson that ". . . you have fifteen days from receipt of this letter to submit a written response to the charges to be presented to the Board of Education on January 13, 1997." Any such response would then be presented to the Board along with the charges so that the Board could consider whether or not to certify the charges to the Commissioner.

The certified statement served upon Mr. Wilson did not include with it the documentary evidence referred to therein as Exhibits A through P. Counsel for the Board therefore had these mailed to Mr. Wilson on December 27. The earliest that these would have been received by Mr. Wilson would have been on December 28, 1996.

As indicated in the memo accompanying the Statement of Charges, the Board did consider them at its January 13 meeting. As of that time, Mr. Wilson had filed no response with the Board. The Board voted to certify charges of unbecoming conduct or other just cause to the Commissioner, who, after receiving an answer from counsel for Mr. Wilson, transferred the matter as a contested case to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Mr. Wilson has moved to dismiss the tenure charges, arguing that the Board failed to accord him the required 15 days within which to respond to the Board prior to its consideration of the charges. The Board denies that it violated any procedural or substantive requirements and urges that the matter be considered upon the merits of the charge of unbecoming conduct or other just cause for removal of Mr. Wilson's tenured status.

N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11 provides that charges against a tenured employee > shall be filed with the secretary of the board in writing, and a written statement of evidence under oath to support such charge shall be presented to the board. The board of education shall forthwith provide such employee with a copy of the charge, a copy of the statement of the evidence and an opportunity to submit a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence under oath with respect thereto. After consideration of the charge, statement of position and statements of evidence presented to it, the Board shall . . . vote . . . .

and if it determines that the charges are such as to warrant dismissal or reduction in salary, certify them to the Commissioner of Education for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16.

N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 (b) provides that

> In all instances of the filing and certification of tenure charges, other than for reasons of inefficiency, the following procedures and timelines shall be observed:
>
> . . .
>
> 3. The affected tenured employee shall have an opportunity to submit to the district board of education a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence both of which shall be executed under oath with respect thereto within 15 days of receipt of the tenure charges.
> 4. Upon receipt of respondent's written statement of evidence under oath, or upon expiration of the allotted 15 day time period, the district board of education shall determine by a majority vote of its full membership within 45 days whether there is probable cause to credit the evidence in support of the charges and whether such charges, if credited, are sufficient to warrant a dismissal or reduction of salary. (See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11.)

Mr. Wilson contends that the Board failed to allow him the required 15 days before it considered the charges. Assuming for the purposes of this motion that he was served on December 28, a Saturday, with the documents referenced in the Statement of Charges and inadvertently not included with the statement when it was served on December 27, he notes that the 15th day thereafter would be Sunday, January 12, 1997. Since this was a Sunday, he contends that the operative 15th day is Monday, January 13, relying upon N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4, which provides that in > computing any period of time fixed by rule or judicial order, the day of the act or event from which the designated period begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday. . . .

Since the Board considered the charges and voted during the evening of Monday, January 13, the 15th day according to the calculation made based upon Sunday, December 29 as the first day and Sunday, January 12 as the last, therefore Monday, January 13, as the last of the 15 days, the Board failed to wait until the "expiration of the allotted 15-day time period" required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 and its actions of that Monday are therefore invalid.

The Board responds that the rules of the OAL are to be liberally construed to achieve just results and avoid unjustifiable expense and delay and that therefore, despite the fact that "(A)t first glance, a literal reading of N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 would appear to support Respondent's position," application of N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.3(a), which states the "liberal construction" concept, should defeat the respondent's position, avoiding a ruling that would "frustrate the goals of fairness and the elimination of unjustifiable expense. As Mr. Wilson does not contend that he attempted to file or to submit any statement of position either prior to, at the time of or at any time after the Board met on the evening of the 13th even up until midnight of the 14th, or even the next day, he cannot complain, as he suffered no prejudice even if the Board acted several hours before the end of the 13th. Further, the 15th day could be read to mean the 15th business day, which ended at 6:00 P.M. when the district business office closed. The Board also argues that the requirement under the regulation is to provide time within which the respondent may "file," which means to have the statement actually received at the district offices on the 15th day, which must therefore mean that it must arrive at the office when it is open for business, here up until the 6 P.M. closing.

Finally, counsel for the Board contends that N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 is not applicable to this matter, and that it does not control the calculation of the 15-day period required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b), because the action challenged was taken by a local board in a matter not then under the auspices of the OAL.

DISCUSSION

The respondent offers several theories for avoiding the fact that it considered the charges against Mr. Wilson on the 15th day in clear violation of the regulation which incorporates the prior ruling of the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Marilyn Feitel, School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 1977 S.L.D. 451. These theories are without merit. The liberal interpretation which is generally given to the Uniform Rules of Administrative Procedure, which govern proceedings in the OAL and lay out general rules for various procedural aspects of administrative practice and litigation, has no relevance to the interpretation of regulations adopted by agencies addressing matters within their special competence and jurisdiction. Here the agency regulation provides that 15 days must elapse before the Board may consider the charges. The regulation governs the process by which substantive charges are moved forward toward the Commissioner for hearings at OAL or are determined by local boards to be sufficiently without merit or without sufficient weight to merit such serious action. The regulation is meant to assure that a respondent to charges placed before the board has a sufficient opportunity to respond before the board considers what to do. The Uniform Procedural Rule which addresses how one is to understand the calculation of time periods by which certain actions are to be taken is clearly relevant to the determination of what the applicable 15 day period is, but the concept of liberal application of the rules is a general concept which is to be applied on a case-by-case basis as necessary to further the ends of justice. In connection with a mandate such as the regulation here involved, where the effect of interpreting N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 as the Board advocates would be to require that the 15th and last day for filing fall upon a Sunday, a "liberal" application which would in effect deny the charged party the ability to file on a weekday would be completely inappropriate. The clear intent of a rule of interpretation which provides for extending the deadline by which some action required by any rule or order to the next business day after a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday which would otherwise be the final day for the required action is to accommodate the required time frame to the generally applicable work week for most government offices and to recognize that the conduct of business on these weekend and holidays is not generally the practice. It may also have its historical roots in recognition of the more subdued state of secular "business" in times when the historic strictures of the Sabbath were more generally observed. Whatever the reasons for the rule, it is well recognized. Here, the school board acted prematurely. It considered the Wilson charges on the de jure 15th day, in violation of the settled rule. It does no good to suggest that the rule be read to mean that the 15th day ends when the Board's business office closes, for the rule requires the expiration of 15 days, not some more limited part of the 15th day. As for the respondent's argument that the 15-day rule is a "local procedural requirement," it is in fact nothing of the sort, but is instead a state mandated requirement imposed upon every school board.

The appropriate way in which to determine how to understand the calculation of mandated time periods within which action must be taken is to look at the statutory and court or regulatory standards which address this question. There is no merit to counsel's suggestion that as the matter of taking action on the charges was before the local board on January 13, 1997, and not before the OAL, that N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 should not be used as an interpretive guide. In fact, its use is wholly proper.

The Board acted within 15 days of the date upon which Mr. Wilson received the tenure charges. This was a violation of N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1. As such the tenure charges were improperly approved and they must therefore be dismissed without prejudice to the Board's right to reconsider them following proper compliance with the applicable statute and regulations.

The tenure charges are DISMISSED. Mr. Wilson shall be restored to his employment and shall be made whole for all lost wages and benefits. He shall file an affidavit as to theses losses with counsel for the Board within 30 days of the date of this initial decision.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF JOHN WILSON, SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF THE TOWNSHIP OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by the Board and by respondent in conformance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board and petitioner essentially recast and reiterate arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and summarized in the initial decision, concerning the interpretation of the procedural requirement set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:6-11, as interpreted through N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner is constrained to adopt in part and reverse in part the conclusions of the ALJ and remand this matter to the OAL for a hearing on the tenure charges. In reaching this determination, the Commissioner initially concurs with the ALJ that respondent's answer was due on January 13, 1997 in that rule N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 states:

> In computing any period of time fixed by rule or judicial order, the day of the act or event from which the designated period begins to run is not to be included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday. (emphasis added)

As the ALJ correctly notes, this Uniform Administrative Procedural Rule, which "addresses how one is to understand the calculation of time periods by which certain actions are to be taken is clearly relevant to the determination of what the applicable 15 day period is" and is routinely applied and well recognized by this agency in computing time frames for contested cases. (Initial Decision at p. 5) Thus, the Commissioner concurs that the use of N.J.A.C. 1:1-1.4 for computation of time in the present matter is wholly proper.[1]

Moreover, the Commissioner concurs that N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1 supports a finding that a board of education should wait the expiration of 15 days before taking action to certify tenure charges and that failure to do so, in most circumstances, is a fatal defect. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Carol Beam, School District of the Township of Mantua, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 320. Regulation provides a respondent with:

> an opportunity to submit to the district board of education a written statement of position and a written statement of evidence both of which shall be executed under oath with respect thereto within 15 days of receipt of the tenure charges. N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b)3.

However, it is also well-established that the Commissioner will not automatically dismiss tenure charges on procedural grounds and has declined to do so where the defect at issue did not, under the particular circumstances, prejudice a respondent's rights or represent an egregious and unwarranted disregard of tenure proceeding law. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of James Andrews, School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 1991 S.L.D. 1297; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Thomas L. Puryear, School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, 1977 S.L.D. 934; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Eddie Lee Harrell, School District of the City of Paterson, Passaic County, decided August 30, 1985.

Under the totality of the circumstances presented herein, the Commissioner cannot conclude that the procedural defect which occurred was of this type. Respondent has made no claim, either heretofore or in these proceedings, that he intended or attempted to answer the tenure charges on January 13, 1997, but was prevented from doing so by action of the Board or other circumstances. Further, the record shows that petitioner was notified of the date that the Board was to consider the charges against him when he was served with the charges via hand-delivery and that no objection to that was raised. Without any such claim or indication, respondent cannot credibly assert that his rights were prejudiced by the Board's having acted at a meeting held on the evening of the day his response was due. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that no good purpose would be served by forcing the Board to initiate de novo proceedings, solely to remedy the Board's failure to have waited for an answer until midnight on the 15th day following certification of charges. Rather, this would result in unjustifiable expense and delay to the Board, and could further accord respondent a second opportunity to exercise a right he made no attempt to invoke within the time provided by law.

[1] Such rule, however, does not support respondent's argument that he had a right to place his statement of position in the U.S. mail on Monday, January 13, 1997, nor does the wording of N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b)3 which envisions a respondent's submission to be filed within 15 days of receipt of the tenure charges.

Accordingly, in view of the specific circumstances herein, the initial decision of the OAL dismissing the tenure charges against respondent is affirmed in part and reversed in part, and the instant matter is remanded for a hearing on the charges as certified.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE :
HEARING OF JOHN WILSON, SCHOOL : STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF SOUTH BRUNSWICK, : DECISION ON MOTION
MIDDLESEX COUNTY. :

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, December 22, 1997

For the Petitioner-Respondent, Carroll & Weiss (John E. Collins, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Appellant, Klausner & Hunter (David L Rosenberg, Esq., of Counsel)

Respondent alleged that the South Brunswick Board had failed to wait until expiration of the allotted 15-day period following his receipt of tenure charges filed by the Board to certify those charges to the Commissioner of Education, as required by N.J.A.C. 6:24-5.1(b). The Commissioner concluded that, under the particular circumstances herein–in which the Board had acted to certify the charges on the evening of the fifteenth day and there was no claim by respondent that he had intended or attempted to answer the charges–the procedural defect did not represent such an egregious and unwarranted disregard of the tenure proceeding laws as to require dismissal of the tenure charges. Accordingly, the Commissioner remanded those charges to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing.

Respondent filed the instant motion to the State Board for leave to appeal an interlocutory decision of the Commissioner.

April 1, 1998

We grant respondent's request for interlocutory review, and, after consideration of the record and the parties' submissions, including the supplemental briefs, we affirm the Commissioner's determination that the procedural defect in this case did not warrant dismissal of the tenure charges. In so doing, we reject respondent's contention that the Commissioner's decision in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of William Wenisch, decided by the Commissioner, January 15, 1998, appeal pending, State Board Docket #15-98, alters that result.

In Wenisch, the district board acted to certify tenure charges to the Commissioner on the twelfth day following receipt of those charges by the respondent therein. Since an appeal from the Commissioner's decision in that case is currently pending before us, we do not address the merits of that decision. However, it is evident that the particular facts in the matter now before us differ significantly from the facts in Wenisch. Here, the Board acted on the evening of the fifteenth day following respondent's receipt of the charges. Moreover, as pointed out by the Commissioner, respondent does not allege that he had attempted or intended to answer the charges but had been prevented from doing so by the Board's action or by any other circumstances. Under these particular facts, we agree with the Commissioner that the procedural defect in this instance was not fatal.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon a careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner affirms the initial decision of the OAL in that he concurs with the Administrative Law Judge that petitioner failed to meet her burden of establishing, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that the Board's withholding of her increment was arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable, or based on improper motives. *Kopera v. Record Closed: October 2, 1997 Decided: November 14, 1997

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

Petitioner, Carol Rosberger, contends that the respondent, the Board of Education of the City of Summit improperly withheld her employment and adjustment increments for the 1994-95 school year. Petitioner alleges that the respondent's actions were based on reasons which are false in fact and otherwise arbitrary, capricious and without good cause. An Answer denying the allegations was filed by the respondent with the Commissioner of Education who transmitted the matter on August 19, 1994 to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A prehearing conference was conducted and a prehearing order was issued on January 20, 1995. Hearings were held on May 3, 4; and 23 and July 19, 1995. At the hearing the petitioner testified on her own behalf. The respondent presented two witnesses in support of its case. The parties were directed to submit written summations. Upon the request of the petitioner, the time for the submission of briefs did not commence until receipt of the transcripts of the recorded hearings. The parties failed to file briefs and thus numerous calls were made by the undersigned to the petitioner's counsel with respect to the status of the briefs. Counsel indicated that they had not received the transcripts. On August 5, 1997 a status conference was held and the parties were directed to file briefs on September 30, 1997. On October 2, 1997 the respondent filed its brief. The petitioner did not file a brief on otherwise contact this tribunal.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the testimony and documentary evidence, I FIND the following FACTS:

1. Petitioner is a tenured elementary teacher in the Summit public schools. At the time of the hearing, she had been employed in this capacity for 25 years. For 17 years, petitioner was assigned to Jefferson School, which serves kindergarten through fifth grade Her immediate supervisor and primary evaluator was Principal Janice P. Shay.

2. During the school year 1993-94, Petitioner was part of a three-teacher team teaching fourth and fifth grade pupils. She had no homeroom of her own, but taught mathematics, science, social studies and writing as part of the team.

3. During 1992-93 school year, petitioner was part of a team teaching third and fourth graders, also with no homeroom.

4. During 1991-92 school year petitioner taught basic skills, providing remedial help to small groups of pupils who were pulled out of their regular classes for 30 minutes at a time.

5. During 1990-91 petitioner taught third grade, with a homeroom of 14 students.

6. During 1989-90 she taught fifth grade.

7. Evaluations of Petitioner's performance were conducted during the year in question and seven previous years. P-1; P-10; P-13; P-14; P-15; P-16; P-17; P-21. Each of the evaluations provides information that addresses: performance areas of strength, performance areas needing improvement, a professional improvement plan and a summary of available indicators of pupil progress. The evaluation also includes a check-off "rating scale" summarizing the assessment of performance in the categories of instructional competencies, schoolwide and systemwide effectiveness, and professional growth. These categories are taken from the Summit school district's job description for the position of teacher. (Exhibit R-3). Further, the evaluation is consistent with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f).

8. The petitioner's evaluations noted concerns about her interactions with children and her need to work on "positive feeling tone" in the classroom. In 1990-91, petitioner was transferred to small-group basic skills in order to address this deficiency.

9. In 1991-92, petitioner's performance was mixed and inconsistent and thus she was transferred back to a regular classroom in 1992-93. Petitioner was also found to need improvement in the areas of planning and organization for each lesson. Moreover, instructional skills and classroom management skills needed improvement. (P-17).

10. Petitioner's performance during 1993-94 was rated unsatisfactory in the category of instructional competencies. (P-1)

11. On April 22, 1994, Michael G. Knowlton Superintendent of Schools informed the petitioner that he would recommend to the Board that her salary increment be withheld. (P-3).

12. On May 18, 1994, the Board Secretary informed the petitioner that the Board had voted on May 16, 1994 to approve the Superintendent's recommendation. Further, the Board's action were based on petitioner 1993-94 evaluation, specifically the section marked "Performance Areas Needing Improving." (R-6.)

SUMMARY OF THE TESTIMONY

Petitioner testified that she is a certified elementary education teacher. During her tenure with the respondent, she has taught the second, third, fourth and 5th grades. In 1978, she was assigned to Jefferson School where Dr. Janice Shay (Shay) is the Principal. From 1978 to the present, Shay has performed annual evaluations of her teaching performance. In 1985, petitioner attended a one week workshop sponsored by the school district on "Leadership in Learning" (L & L) an instructional guide. (P-20). The guide contains teaching techniques and is also used as an evaluation tool to assess a teacher's classroom performance. The concept of "feeling tone" was introduced in L & L as a method to motivate students. Prior to 1985, petitioner states that she used other methods to motivate her students. Indeed, petitioner asserts that there are many ways to motivate students. Petitioner concedes that from 1983 to 1994 her evaluations all spoke to need for her to address her "feeling tone".

Further, petitioner does not dispute that Shay conducted observation of in her classroom performance on numerous occasions. These observations resulted in written reports. (P-4 - P-8). The reports reflect her difficulties in areas of classroom management, planning and class control.

Petitioner asserts that in the 1993-94 school year, Shay failed to monitor her performance. This was contrary to her 1992-93 professional improvement plan which called for Shay to conduct weekly observations and conferences with her.

Petitioner testified at length that she had always received consistently good ratings in instructional competencies and in professional growth. Petitioner believes that there is a personality conflict between her and Dr. Shay.

Dr. Janice P. Shay (Shay) testified that she has been employed by the Board for 20 years, 17 years as Principal of Jefferson School. She holds a doctorate degree in educational administration, a masters degree in guidance and counseling, and a bachelors degree in psychology/biology/education. (R-2). She is certified as a teacher, principal/supervisor, director of pupil personnel services and school administrator.

Shay recounted in detail, petitioner's inability to manage control and display certain instructional competencies in her classroom. Petitioner displayed deficiencies in planning skills, instructional skills, classroom management skills and human relations. Shay also testified about her classroom observations of the petitioner's classroom performance. At the December 15 observation, the petitioner's lesson was too long and the students became restless. Further, no lesson plan was presented. Petitioner also failed to present the objective of the lesson.

During the March 21 observation, Petitioner's performance in the areas of classroom management, instructional skills and human relations with students was so poor that Dr. Shay decided to return the very next day for another unannounced observation. Petitioner used many positive interventions to maintain students' attention, but there were 35 interruptions in the course of the one-hour lesson. (R-5). Petitioner was in control of the classroom during part of the lesson, but not all. When the petitioner would lose control of the class, her voice became strident and impatient, her facial expression turned to a frown. (P-6). Dr. Shay concluded that such an expression, is "debilitating to the learning process," as it causes the children to be uncomfortable and distracted.

During the March 29th observation, the classroom atmosphere was tense. Petitioner made certain positive statements but overall the tone was not positive. Children were talking, distracted and some two were off-task. By the end of the lesson, petitioner was using an unpleasant tone of voice, repeating attention-getters three or four times in a row. Petitioner's demeanor indicated impatience and was unprofessional.

During the post-observation conference on April 7, Shay recommended to the petitioner that she should plan her lesson, and meet with her and the district science supervisor to get help. (P-5).

In the April evaluation, Dr. Shay's identified schoolwide and systemwide effectiveness as a performance area of strength. However, on the basis of all seven of her observations and many shorter visits to the classroom, Shay concluded that the petitioner's performance in the area of instructional competencies not only needed improvement, but was simply unsatisfactory. Petitioner's human relations with students, was still an issue and he performance remained mixed and inconsistent. In the areas of planning and organization, instructional skills and classroom management skills, petitioner still needed improvement in skills which usually are acquired early in a teacher's career. In sum, petitioner was twenty-four years into her career, and was having fundamental problems with her classroom. Dr. Shay acknowledged that Petitioner's lesson presentation and behavior management had improved, but these improvements were offset by inconsistency in planning, organization and presentation and by negative "feeling tone".

Dr. Michael G. Knowlton, Superintendent of Schools, testified that he had discussed petitioner's performance with Dr. Shay at length and had reviewed petitioner's prior years' evaluations. He also had visited petitioner's classroom. On the basis of all this information, Knowlton concluded that a increment withholding was warranted. He agreed that in the vital areas of classroom organization and management and relationships with students, petitioner's performance was not up to the standard expected of a teacher with 24 years' experience.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The sole issue in this matter is whether the Board's action in withholding the petitioner's 1994-95 increment was violative of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14. The statute provides in its pertinent part that:

> Any Board of Education may hold, for inefficiency or other good cause, the employment increment or the adjustment increment, or both, of any member in any year by recording roll call majority vote.

It is well established that the legislature has vested the decision to withhold salary increments in local Boards of Education. This is so because the decision to deny an increment is a managerial one. Thus, the Board's determination will not be set aside unless there is a finding that its action was arbitrary, without rationale basis or induced by improper motives. Bernards Tp., Bd. of Ed. v. Bernards Tp. Educ. Ass'n., 79 N.J. 311 (1979); Board of Educ. v. Educ. Ass'n., 270 N.J. Super 444 (App. Div. 1994); Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super 288, 294-96 (App. Div. 1960). Furthermore, it is the petitioner who bears the burden of proof to demonstrate by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the Board's action was arbitrary and capricious.

As noted by the respondent, a teacher's salary increment is not an entitlement; it is a "reward for meritorious service". Probst v Haddonfield Bd. of Ed., 127 N.J. 518 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 authorizes boards of education to withhold a teacher's increment for "inefficiency or other good cause." Pursuant to this provision, a board may withhold the increment of any teacher who, in its view, has not performed well during the previous year. Probst, 127 N.J. at 526. The board's action to withhold a salary increment may not be upset unless it is arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, the scope of review is limited to a determination of whether the underlying facts herein were as those who made the evaluation claimed, and whether it was reasonable for those evaluators to conclude as they did, upon those facts, that the increment withholding was warranted, "bearing in mind that they are the experts." Id. At 297. The party challenging the board's action has the burden of proof on each of these questions.

I FIND that the petitioner has failed to prove that the Board's action was based on reasons which were false in fact.

I further FIND that the instructional competencies in which petitioner was found to be deficient are well supported by the record.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that petitioner failed to establish by a preponderance of the credible evidence that the action of the Summit Board of Education that withheld her employment adjustment for the 1994-95 school year was arbitrary, capricious, or based on improper motive. Therefore, the petition of appeal is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

(Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 27, 1997 Decided: November 6, 1997

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The Bogota Board of Education filed charges with the Commissioner of Education against Dr. J. Kent Hollingsworth (respondent), whom it employs as a school psychologist. The action taken against respondent was a suspension without pay for a period of three days. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 20, 1996, for determination as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to a settlement which in essence provides that the matter will be treated as a minor disciplinary action subject to binding arbitration as opposed to a tenure proceeding. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement disposes of the matter pending before the Commissioner of Education.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is further ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING	:
OF DR. J. KENT HOLLINGSWORTH, SCHOOL	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH OF BOGOTA,	:	DECISION
BERGEN COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed.

Upon a careful and independent review of the terms of the settlement agreement reached by the parties and approved by the Administrative Law Judge, the Commissioner is compelled to reject such agreement as it is currently structured since it effectively requires his consent to transfer adjudication of a tenure matter to a third party. This result is permitted by neither statute nor regulation. Indeed, as stated in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842,

> What constitutes grounds for a tenure dismissal is a question of fact and within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education, who has the duty to conduct the hearing and render a decision. ***
> The Commissioner's exclusive authority to decide these cases necessarily entails the determination of any and all matters pertinent thereto in order to make a complete disposition of the case. (emphasis added) (Id. at 849)

Further, Cardonick speaks to the Commissioner's responsibility in reviewing tenure settlements to assure that they are not contrary to public policy, noting that

> "settlement agreements totally preempting the Commissioner from review and evaluation are against the public policy of this State as exemplified in the Tenure Employees Hearing Law." (emphasis added) (Id.) See N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 et seq.

Therefore, the Commissioner must reject the proposed settlement as presented in the initial decision.

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation under the laws of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Accordingly, this matter is remanded to the OAL for revision of the settlement terms or other appropriate action consistent with the discussion above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a hearing on the merits in accordance with applicable rules.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF J. KENT HOLLINGSWORTH, BOGOTA BOARD OF EDUCATION, BERGEN COUNTY.

Richard Brovarone, Esq., for Bogota Board of Education

Harold N. Springstead, Esq., for Dr. J. Kent Hollingsworth (Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Record Closed: October 13, 1998 Decided: October 20, 1998

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, AL

This matter was remanded to the Office of Administrative Law after the Commissioner of Education rejected a settlement agreement in regard to tenure charges filed by the Bogota Board of Education against Dr. J. Kent Hollingsworth, whom it employs as a school psychologist. In rejecting the prior settlement, the Commissioner specifically did not preclude the possibility of a revision of the settlement terms.

The Office of Administrative Law received the transmittal on remand on January 13, 1998. After several conferences and further negotiations, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Settlement Following Remand. The settlement agreement provides for withdrawal of the tenure charges and the counterclaim and additionally sets for an explanation for this action.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. J. KENT HOLLINGSWORTH, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BOGOTA, BERGEN COUNTY

BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

OAL Docket No. EDU 11548-96
Agency Docket No. 511-10/96

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT FOLLOWING REMAND

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Borough of Bogota ("Board"), Bergen County, and Respondent, Dr. J. Kent Hollingsworth ("Dr. Hollingsworth"), hereby stipulates as follows:

1. On October 22, 1996, the Board certified tenure charges against Dr. Hollingsworth who is a tenured psychologist and a member of the Child Study Team. There were six separate charges:

(1) Settlement of a litigation matter without the knowledge or authorization of the Board or its authorized agent;

(2) Failure and/or refusal to work with the Board's authorized agent in addressing a litigation matter;

(3) Conduct unbecoming a Public Employee;

(4) Neglect of duties;
(5) Insubordination;

(6) Incompetency.

2. Simultaneously, with the filing of the tenure charges against Dr. Hollingsworth, the Board suspended him for three days, effective October 23, 1996 without pay.

3. Prior to certifying the tenure charges, the Board served Dr. Hollingsworth notice of tenure charges on September 16, 1996 containing 25 paragraphs of allegations signed by Roy J. Corso, Acting Superintendent/Board Secretary, recommending Dr. Hollingsworth be suspended for three working days.

4. Dr. Hollingsworth filed a timely detailed Statement of Evidence and Position responding to each of the allegations that applied to him.

5. Simultaneous with the filing of the charges against Dr. Hollingsworth, the Board also certified charges against Elaine Frost, another member of the Child Study Team who was given a 15 day suspension. In that matter, the Commissioner approved the Board's withdrawal of the tenure charges over the objections of the petitioner, Elaine Frost, who counterclaimed. See Board of Education of the Borough of Bogota v. Elaine Frost, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11545-96, Agency Dkt. No. 512-10/96. The Commissioner noted in that decision that "the Board determined that it did not possess sufficient evidence to substantiate respondent's removal from her position or a reduction in her salary, and the Commissioner will not force a Board to prosecute charges under such circumstances." (Dec. pg. 4).

6. On September 15, 1997, the Board and Dr. Hollingsworth entered into a Stipulation of Settlement whereby the matter would be treated as a minor disciplinary dispute pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:13A-22 and to transfer the matter from the Department of Education to binding arbitration.

7. On October 27, 1997 the Honorable Richard McGill, A.L.J., approved the settlement finding that the agreement met the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and ordered that the proceedings be concluded.

8. On December 23, 1997 the Comissioner of Education rejected the settlement agreement as not being in accordance with In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, affirmed State Board of Education April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842.

9. The dispute between the Board, Dr. Hollingsworth and Elaine Frost, centers around the placement of a child by the Child Study Team. With respect to the specific charges against the respondent, the evidence would show:

(1) Charge 1 deals with the settlement of a litigation matter without the knowledge or authorization of the Board or an authorized agent. Dr. Hollingsworth was not aware of the parents' request for "emergent relief" which was a matter which was considered a "litigation matter". In addition, Dr. Hollingsworth did not participate in a settlement of any litigation but fulfilled his duties as required by the development of the child's IEP which included the determination of placement.

(2) Dr. Hollingsworth was charged with failure and/or refusal to work with the Board's authorized agent in addressing a litigation matter. In that regard, the Dr. Hollingsworth neither refused nor failed to work with the Board's agent (presumably the Board attorney), having received one telephone call from the Board attorney who asked about placement decisions.

(3) Dr. Hollingsworth was charged with conduct unbecoming a public employee but there is no proof that he did anything but fulfill his legal obligations to the best of his ability. Nothing in the 25 paragraph Affidavit supporting the charges refers to any unbecoming conduct.

(4) Dr. Hollingsworth is charged with neglect of duty which is disputed and there is no proof of any such neglect. Nothing in the Affidavit supports any neglect of duty.

(5) Dr. Hollingsworth was charged with insubordination which is specifically denied by him and cannot be substantiated by the Board.

(6) Dr. Hollingsworth is charged with incompetency for which there is no evidence whatsoever. To the contrary, he has received exemplary evaluations for 16 years prior to the charges and has recently been promoted to the Director of Special Services.

10. The parties acknowledge that the terms and conditions of any settlement agreement are subject to review and approval by the Commissioner of Education consistent with the Cardonick standard.

11. The Board wishes to withdraw the tenure charges against the respondent, to restore the three days pay withheld from him and to expunge any reference of the discipline or tenure charges from his personnel file since the Board does not believe it can sustain its burden of proof and the settlement of this litigation under the proposed terms save the District and the public substantial legal fees which would be necessary to proceed with the matter.

12. The settlement of the litigation achieves the goals sought by the Board of Education without cost associated with it and without inpuning the dignity and reputation of the respondent.

13. Upon approval of this agreement by the Commissioner of Education the Board withdraws the above-captioned tenure charges, and the respondent withdraws the counterclaim.

PETITIONER,	:

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE AND MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Y.L., alleged that her cousin, M.A., was wrongfully denied admission to school in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Noting absence of a specific showing of hardship, the ALJ denied petitioner's motion for summary decision and concluded that the Board was entitled to tuition even though custody was attained by Y.L.

Commissioner affirmed in part, reversed in part the initial decision. Commissioner found that prior to November 13, 1995, the date on which custody of M.A. was granted to petitioner, M.A. was not entitled to a free public education in the District, as petitioner did not meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). However, once Y.L. became the legal guardian, in the absence of any indication of fraud, M.A.'s domicile follows that of Y.L, making it unnecessary for Commissioner to reach to the question of the sufficiency of evidence offered to demonstrate hardship under the affidavit law. Thus, following date of custody order, M.A. was entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner was directed to pay tuition for the period of ineligible attendance at school prior to November 13, 1995.

Record Closed: August 11, 1997 Decided: November 7, 1997*

BEFORE MARYLOUISE LUCCHI-McCLOUD, ALJ:

This matter arises out of a petition filed on behalf of M.A. by Y.L. on November 27, 1995 requesting a determination that M.A. may attend school in the South Orange-Maplewood School District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. An answer was filed by respondent on December 27, 1995 and on January 18, 1996, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Cross motions for summary decision were filed by the parties and oral argument took place on August 11, 1997. At that time the record closed. Although the time to issue a decision was 45 days from the date of the record closing, an order of extension for good cause shown was entered extending the period of time for the initial decision until November 10, 1997.

FACTS

The facts in this case are not in dispute and in this posture, in order to grant summary decision for respondent, the facts must be taken in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party, the petitioner.

This case involves a school residency dispute under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. Petitioner, Y.L., moved from Newark, New Jersey, to Maplewood, New Jersey, on October 1, 1995. On October 3, 1995, Y.L. attempted to enroll M.A. who is the daughter of her cousin in the Maplewood public schools. M.A. has resided with Y.L. since August 1992 and prior to the move had attended the Newark public schools where Y.L. had lived. M.A. is the daughter of J.A. who resides in Irvington, New Jersey. On October 5, 1995, Y.L. submitted a completed affidavit of resident as well as an affidavit of parent/guardian which she herself filled out in support of the application for admission to the South Orange-Maplewood district schools for M.A. At this time the board was not in receipt of any affidavit from the child's father, J.A. At no time was an affidavit of the parent filed with the district directly and it was not until December 11, 1996, after the filing of the petition in this matter, that an affidavit from the father was made available.

Affidavits submitted by Y.L. show that M.A. had lived with her for three years because of problems with M.A.'s stepmother. In response to a question asking to set forth in full in complete detail why neither parent is capable of caring for or providing support of the pupil, and why the pupil will be residing with you, Y.L. responded "she is more comfortable with me."

J.A. remains financially responsible for M.A. and provides funds weekly for M.A.'s food. He also provides medical insurance for the child as well. Y.L. has not previously claimed M.A. as a dependent for income tax purposes and will not be claiming the child as a dependent for the time that she resides with Y.L. J.A. is the one who has and will continue to take M.A. as a dependent for income tax purposes.

Y.L. also supplied to the school board a copy of J.A.'s 1994 U.S. individual income tax return (1040A). On that return in the section in which the filing individual figures the exemptions, he listed M.A. and under the question of how many months the child had lived in his home in 1994. He responded that she had lived in the home for 12 months. This was during the period of time when M.A. is claimed to have been and was in the home of Y.L. It must be noted that the tax return does make provisions for claiming dependents who do not live with the individual filing.

On October 11, 1995 the assistant superintendent of the South Orange - Maplewood School District wrote to Y.L. denying the request for admission of M.A. in the South Orange - Maplewood schools. On October 16, 1995, Y.L. wrote a letter to the Commissioner of Education asking that this decision be overturned. On November 3, 1995 the Director of the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes wrote to Y.L. stating that the letter was insufficient to constitute an appeal and advising on the manner in which a petition of appeal must be filed in accordance with N.J.S.A. 6:24-1.2 to 1.4. The petition itself was filed on November 27, 1995.

During the interim, on November 13, 1995, a consent order for custody was entered by the superior court in Essex County granting custody of the child to Y.L. After the filing of the petition, an affidavit was also submitted by J.A. stating that M.A.

does not reside with him because of his wife's mental illness. It states that her unstable condition could cause harm to M.A. He recounts that in 1991, M.A. came from Haiti to live with him in Irvington and that his wife, M.A.'s stepmother, was intensely jealous of M.A. He further states that his wife's behavior deteriorated and that although he has tried to have his wife see a psychiatrist, she refuses. The only medical attention that his wife has received has been from a family doctor who is not a psychiatrist and has diagnosed his wife from suffering from obsessive-compulsive disorder; panic disorder, and schizophrenia. He has prescribed medication but according to J.A., his wife will not take it. A handwritten note from the Lion's Medical Center dated December 14, 1995 indicates that his wife has been under treatment with the physician since December 7, 1992. No further medical documentation has ever been supplied.

J.A. states that he was concerned about the effect of his wife's outbursts on M.A.'s emotional well-being and after an incident between his wife and M.A., he asked Y.L., his cousin if M.A. could live with her. Since August 1992, M.A. has lived with Y.L. in Newark, New Jersey, and subsequently in Irvington, New Jersey.

At all times relevant to this proceeding, the petitioner has been given the opportunity to produce further medical evidence or evidence of any other nature pertinent to the question presented in this case.

For the purpose of this motion for summary decision, these facts are excepted as true.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, a motion for summary decision may be granted if the papers and supporting affidavits demonstrate that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. A motion for summary decision shall only be entered if the adverse party fails to deliver in establishing facts which constitute a genuine issue of material fact that can only be determined in the process of an evidentiary hearing. In this case summary decision is appropriate because there are no genuine issues of material fact and the only question turns on the legal application of the statute to the facts in this case.

Respondent argues that the petition in this matter is time barred since the statute, N.J.S.A.18A:38-1 provides that an appeal must take place within 21 days of the action of the Board denying admission to any student applying pursuant to the statute. It also requires the board of education to notify the parent or guardian in writing of their right to contest the decision which was done here by respondent. In response to that, petitioner sent a letter to the Commissioner of Education. That letter was deemed insufficient to act as a petition and a letter was sent to the petitioner explaining how the petition must be filed. As a result, the petition in this case was filed outside of the 21-day limitation period. Respondent argues that as a result, the matter should be dismissed. However, the petition was filed subsequent to the letter being rejected as insufficient for a petition. While timeliness are generally strictly construed, it is clear that within the 21 days Y.L. attempted to appeal. However, the appeal was not perfected. The extension of the time to allow that the petition be filed and be considered by the Commissioner of Education does not prejudice the district and as a result, the petition will not be dismissed as untimely.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, public school shall be free to any person who is domiciled within the school district. Although petitioner asserts that the child, M.A., is domiciled in the district and is thus entitled to a free education in the South Orange - Maplewood schools, this is incorrect. M.A. is not domiciled within the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1A. Instead she is living in the home of another who is domiciled within the district. As a result of that, the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) apply. This provision states under subsection 1 that "any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the district, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, . . . and upon filing by the child's parent or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship or that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education with the district" will be entitled to a free education within the district. The statute provides that the statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support its validity. It further states that if in the judgment of the board of education, the evidence does not support the validity of the claim, the board may deny admission to the child. After such a denial, the mechanism for appealing it is described.

In this case there are two time periods which must be looked at. One must first look at the time of the initial application to the board to determine if the board's actions were reasonable and, as both sides agreed in oral argument, given the nature of this case, subsequent information provided must also be assessed to determine whether or not it is sufficient. At the time of the application, Y.L. filed the affidavit of resident which was required. That affidavit also contained language at the top which stated that if any information was false, the board of education may seek to recover the cost of the education at a cost of $8,079 annually. The affidavit of Y.L. stated that the reason for M.A. living with her was that "she is more comfortable with me." It further stated that M.A.'s father was financially responsible and was providing medical insurance as well as claiming her as a dependent for tax purposes. Y.L. also filed an affidavit of parent/guardian although she was neither the parent nor the guardian. This was dated October 3, 1995. Accepting that this affidavit was filed in good faith and through a mistaken belief that because M.A. was living with her, Y.L. was acting as the "guardian," the information received was essentially that in her own affidavit as a resident. It was not until November 13, 1995 that a consent order for custody was entered in this case. Custody was then granted to Y.L. The mere physical existence of a subsequent custody order is not the determining factor in this case. It is clear that at the time the board made the decision to deny enrollment, the information they had was insufficient to make a determination that M.A. was living with Y.L. and Y.L. was supporting her gratis and would assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements and that the arrangement was the result of family hardship. At the time of the filing, no properly filled out affidavit from M.A.'s parent was given to the school district. As a result, it was impossible for them to determine whether or not J.A. was capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economic hardship. Consequently, the original determination of the respondent board of education was appropriate.

Given the fact that this case deals with an on-going situation and the education of the pupil, it is necessary to look beyond the initial application which was correctly denied by the district. In the intervening time an order for custody granting custody to Y.L. has been entered by consent of the parties to that action as well as an affidavit from M.A.'s father, J.A. outlining the reasons for her presence in Y.L.'s home. Counsel for petitioner argues that the reasons given in J.A.'s affidavit of November 25, 1996 show that there is a family hardship, not necessarily an economic one, that causes the child to reside with the resident, Y.L. Although throughout this process, the opportunity existed for petitioner to provide further information on this subject, none was provided either by way of affidavit for the purposes of the cross-motions or to the district for review. No information regarding M.A.'s stepmother's current condition and medical treatment has been proffered nor has a diagnosis by a psychiatrist who is the appropriate individual in the field to make conclusions about the mental stability of M.A.'s stepmother. While one might certainly recognize that stepchildren may have difficulty living with a stepparent, that difficulty, absent specific circumstances showing that the arrangement will cause harm to the child is insufficient to conclude that the situation rises to the level of a family hardship. Conflict is not sufficient absent a specific showing of hardship. Petitioner urges the undersigned to not look behind the consent order for custody. It is clear, however, that this consent order was entered into for the purpose of facilitating M.A.'s attendance in the South Orange - Maplewood school district. This was conceded by the parties at oral argument. The custody arrangement does not arise from any other distinct circumstances. It was not a contested custody arrangement and was entered into only while the question of M.A.'s schooling was taking place. In fact, to allow the custody order to dictate this matter would be to encourage those who wish to have their children educated in specific districts to consign their children to other individuals and enter into a consent order for custody while maintaining their financial support for the child. That certainly is not what is contemplated by the law.

Petitioner cites J.B. et al v. Bd. of Educ., Ocean Twp., 96 N.J.A.R. 2nd. (EDU) 628 for the proposition that family hardship may exist even when a parent is apparently financially capable of caring for the pupil. While that is true, this case is distinguishable from J.B. supra. In the cited case the child had threatened to run away from home and had threatened suicide as well as becoming emotional and withdrawn during parental squabbles. In this case there is a diagnosis by a general practitioner of a psychiatric illness on the part of M.A.'s stepmother. Beyond that there is no specific allegation as to the effect of the stepmother's condition on the ability of the child to remain in the household. Although J.A. states that there was a confrontation and that there was disharmony, there was never any indication of an attempt to pursue civil commitment on the basis that the stepmother is dangerous to herself or others, nor is there any evidence that was presented to the board or in the course of the motions to suggest any thing other than speculative harm to the child.

Petitioner takes the position that the board should prove that these things do not exist. The burden in this case as placed by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 is on the individual rather than the responding school district. As a result, taking the facts in the light most favorable to the petitioner who is the nonmoving party with respect to respondent's summary decision motion, I CONCLUDE that as a matter of law, respondent must prevail. In light of this, respondent is entitled to assess tuition pursuant to N.J.S.A.

18A:38-1(b) on the basis of 1/180th of the total annual per pupil cost to the district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance. Additionally, the petitioner's motion for summary decision is DENIED.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's motion for summary decision be and hereby is DENIED.

It is further ORDERED that respondent's cross-motion for summary decision be and hereby is GRANTED.

It is further ORDERED that respondent's counterclaim for tuition is granted pursuant to the calculation located in the statute and based upon the number of days of ineligible attendance of M.A.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box

500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 450-11/95

Y.L., on behalf of minor cousin, M.A.,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE SOUTH ORANGE AND MAPLEWOOD SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm in part, and reverse in part, the initial decision of the ALJ, as set forth herein. Initially, the Commissioner finds that the record supports the conclusion that, prior to November 13, 1995, the date on which custody of M.A. was granted to petitioner, M.A. was not entitled to a free public education in respondent's District, as petitioner did not meet the requirements set forth at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). In so finding, the Commissioner notes that it is unnecessary for him to reach to the question of the sufficiency of evidence offered to demonstrate other factors such as family or economic hardship, where petitioner undisputedly does not meet the threshold requirement that she "is supporting the child gratis ." N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1).

However, once Y.L. became the child's legal guardian, the appropriate inquiry for the Board was whether she and M.A. were domiciliaries of the District, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, an analysis which does not necessarily ascribe significance to financial circumstance. Since the Board does not dispute that Y.L is a domiciliary of Maplewood, and the domicile of a child follows that of the parent or guardian having legal control over her, Mansfield Twp. Board of Education v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 479, 480 (Sup. Ct. 1925), the Commissioner finds that M.A. was entitled to a free public education in the district once Y.L. acquired legal custody of her.[1] In so finding, the Commissioner notes there is no evidence of fraud on the part of petitioner. V.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Quinton, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 124, 125, aff'd at 554. Moreover, notwithstanding the Board's contentions to the contrary, the Commissioner is not persuaded that petitioner's motives for obtaining custody of M.A. are determinative. Absent any indications of fraud, the order, which does not appear to be a temporary one, should be accepted on its face. L.A. v. Town of West Orange, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 266, 269, aff'd at 554.[2]

Accordingly, petitioner is hereby directed to pay tuition for M.A., prorated from the date of her first attendance in the District, on or about October 3, 1995, until

SYNOPSIS

Petitioners, two part-time employees, alleged the Board violated their tenure rights by abolishing their positions while retaining nontenured individuals in secretarial or clerical positions to which they were entitled.

ALJ found that petitioners accrued tenure in secretarial positions and were qualified to perform the duties assigned to nontenured individuals. Thus, the Board was ordered to reinstate petitioners to secretarial positions with mitigated compensation.

Commissioner concurred with findings and conclusion of the ALJ and ordered petitioners reinstated with their compensation to be offset by their actual earnings and unemployment compensation received during the period, directing the Board to reimburse the New Jersey Department of Labor for the unemployment compensation offset.

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by two part-time school employees who contend that they have acquired tenure to a "secretarial or clerical position" under N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b). Petitioners Rita Hibo ("Hibo") and Susan Arillo ("Arillo") performed a variety of duties for respondent school district under the job title of "secretary." They maintain that the Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School District ("Board") violated their tenure rights by abolishing their positions while retaining nontenured individuals in secretarial or clerical positions to which they are entitled.

Respondent, and the intervenors who join with it, raise several defenses: First, they allege that each petitioner served as a temporary "general office worker," which is not a tenure-eligible position protected by statute. Second, they urge that part-time service does not confer tenure status on nonprofessional staff and, in any event, that Arillo did not serve the requisite time period in any one position because her job responsibilities increased during her employment. Third, they claim that neither Hibo nor Arillo possess the qualifications needed for the secretarial positions they seek. Fourth, they argue that secretary and clerk are separately tenurable positions, so that a secretary has no tenure rights as a clerk (and vice versa.) Finally, the Board asserts that petitioners failed in their obligation to mitigate damages.

For the reasons which follow, both Hibo and Arillo accrued tenure in a secretarial position and are qualified to perform the duties assigned to nontenured employees in the district. Since the Board has not met its affirmative burden of proving mitigation, petitioners are entitled to full back pay, offset by any actual earnings.

Procedural History

On November 30, 1995, petitioners filed a verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") seeking restoration to a secretarial position together with back pay. Respondent filed an answer on January 11, 1996. Subsequently, on January 18, 1996, the Commissioner forwarded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL").

At the direction of the OAL, petitioners served notice of the pendency of this matter on nontenured district employees occupying positions subject to their tenure claim. Thereafter, the OAL granted intervenor status to Cheryl Philower, June Dietz, Mary Wilson, Debra Restaino and Mary Ann Dailey. The OAL held hearings on January 29 and February 7, 1997. Upon receipt of post-hearing submissions, the record closed on April 10, 1997.

Findings of Fact

Many of the background facts are undisputed. I FIND:

West Essex Regional School District is a secondary-school district comprised of the communities of Essex Fells, Fairfield, North Caldwell and Roseland. In November 1991, the District placed an advertisement in a local newspaper seeking applicants for part-time secretarial positions. Rita Hibo applied for the position after learning of it by word of mouth. Her written application stated that she held a high-school diploma, graduated from the Sherwood School of Business, and had previous experience as a secretary in private industry. She was offered a ten-month position working nineteen hours per week or roughly half-time. By resolution adopted on January 13, 1992, the Board approved Hibo's employment as a "part-time secretary" assigned to the senior-high school library for the remainder of the 1991-92 academic year. When she started her employment, she became a member of the bargaining unit for secretarial employees and was paid at an hourly rate in accordance with the secretaries' salary guide.

West Essex's job description for "ten-month secretary" enumerates a number of typical secretarial duties, including: opening, sorting and prioritizing all mail; maintaining files; transcribing and typing correspondence; screening telephone calls and taking messages; maintaining such appointment calendars and schedules as may be required; and working directly with students, parents, faculty and administration.[1] Currently, the District uses a more comprehensive job description for "secretary," which specifies various qualifications, including: a high school diploma and secretarial training; knowledge of automated office equipment and computers; strong analytical, secretarial and interpersonal skills; and a minimum of three years' experience. Basically, the current job description contains the same responsibilities as before, but also includes: typing requisitions or purchase orders, as applicable; exercising initiative and independence in the performance of day-to-day duties; and demonstrating concern for good public relations.[2]

As secretary to the school librarian, Hibo took care of incoming mail, typed correspondence on a daily basis, entered information into a computerized database of books and videotapes, collected fines for overdue books and assisted the librarian at the circulation desk. She performed virtually all of the duties on both job descriptions for secretary, except that she did not keep an appointments calendar for the librarian. Although the librarian did much of her own typing, Hibo typed many routine letters, including requests for free materials and correspondence dealing with purchase orders. Hibo was familiar with the MAC operating system and adapted to the Microsoft Works® software used in the library.

[1]While the record does not show its adoption date, this particular job description appears to have been the one in effect when Hibo and Arillo were hired.

[2]The District also has a specialized job description for "secretary to the librarian." In addition to typing and such other tasks as may be assigned by the school librarian, the duties include: assisting in the inventory of audio-visual equipment and supplies; assisting at the library circulation desk; and filing materials and magazines. Hibo performed all of these duties

During her employment, Hibo was evaluated on the district's own form designated "secretarial evaluation report." Personnel records of the district also identified Hibo as a part-time "secretary." She received glowing reports from her immediate supervisor.. In an initial evaluation dated March 3,1992, school librarian Susan Heiniss rated Hibo as "excellent" in "cooperation with supervisors" and "wonderful" in "attitude toward pupils. Every report over a three-year period gave her the highest possible rating in each performance category. Illustratively, an evaluation on January 11, 1993 described Hibo as "a wonderful secretary, a dedicated employee and an asset to West Essex." A final report on February 10, 1995 commended her for "improving her knowledge and understanding of the library computer and technology" and recommended that she be reappointed for the following year. Several of the secretarial evaluation reports, including the last one, were signed not only by librarian Heiniss, but also by Daniel Borgo in his capacity as board secretary. Later, Borgo claimed that he considered Hibo to be an "aide" or "assistant" rather than a secretary. Nevertheless, on September 1, 1995,. Borgo sent written notice to Hibo that her services as a "secretary with the West Essex School District" would be terminated in sixty days.

Similarly, Susan Arillo answered a newspaper advertisement by the district for a "part-time secretary." She had graduated from an intensive program at the Berkeley Secretarial School and had worked as a secretary for various private employers since 1975. On May 11, 1992, the Board adopted a resolution hiring her as a "part-time secretary" for nineteen hours per week. Like Hibo, Arillo joined the bargaining unit for secretaries and was paid at an hourly rate on the secretary's salary guide. Again, the Board's own personnel records referred to her as a "secretary." Initially, she was assigned to the guidance office, where she typed letters of recommendation for students, compiled grade point averages, sent out student transcripts, did filing and answered telephones. Whenever the full-time secretary for the guidance office was absent, Arillo filled in for her.

Arillo remained in the guidance office until January 1993, when she transferred to the office of attendance and discipline.[3] Her duties in that assignment included checking student attendance, helping prepare attendance and tardiness bulletins, inputting data into the district's AS400 computer system, keeping discipline records, answering telephones and interacting with students and their parents. Beginning in September 1994, Arillo was reassigned to a secretarial position in the vice principal's office. She continued doing comparable work, including entering data into the computer system, typing letters and schedules, preparing the weekly-activities calendar, and answering telephones. Occasionally she took dictation using her stenographic skills. She learned to use Word Perfect® and successfully completed a fourteen-hour introductory course to Windows 3.1®. In one or another of her assignments, Arillo did most of the duties on the district's job descriptions for secretary, other than opening and sorting mail.

Throughout her employment in the district, Arillo received the highest performance ratings on the district's secretarial-evaluation form. Byron Harmony, the district's director of guidance, wrote in his evaluation report that, "By dress, manner, knowledge, skills and attitude, Mrs. Arillo is a top flight professional secretary." Attendance officer Peter Falco agreed that Arillo "is a definite asset" to the school community and mentioned approvingly that she "continues to learn about the AS 400 System." Vice principal Joan Oakley noted that Arillo "assumed her responsibilities here with a positive, professional attitude" and that she "consistently approaches all her tasks with a high level of energy, and concern for accuracy[.]" Recommending her for reappointment, the vice principal commented that Susan Arillo "is an excellent addition to our staff." However, on September 1, 1995 board secretary Borgo gave her sixty days notice of her termination "as a part-time secretary."

[3]Before her transfer, the district first offered Arillo a full-time position as a secretary in the guidance department. Arillo had to turn down this offer because she did not have adequate child care for her young daughter. Instead, the job went to Donna Procopio, one of the nontenured secretaries whom Arillo now seeks to replace.

School superintendent Gary Vitta informed petitioners that the Board voted to eliminate their part-time secretarial positions, effective November 1, 1995, "due to consolidation and efficiency." Although Arillo applied for a full-time secretarial position advertised by the district, the Board never offered her any other job. Mr. Borgo referred her to a posting by the building and grounds department, but the only opening was for a maintenance worker. Meanwhile, Arillo has been actively searching for employment as a secretary in other school districts and with private companies. Since October 31, 1996, Arillo has been working on an "as needed" hourly basis for a law firm. As of February 2, 1997, her wages totaled $2,070. While unemployed, Arillo and Hibo collected unemployment insurance benefits of $4,290 and $4,602 respectively. Hibo applied for a secretarial position at a nearby college, but has still not found another job.

Petitioners assert that they have priority over all nontenured individuals holding secretarial positions in the district. In particular, they name Donna Procopio, who replaced Arillo as secretary in the guidance department on January 4, 1993; June Dietz, who began as secretary to the junior-high school principal and vice principal on August 30, 1993; Cheryl Philower, who started as secretary to the building and maintenance supervisor on September 8, 1993; Mary Ann Dailey, a former library aide who became a full-time secretary to an assistant principal on January 24, 1994; Ellen Smith, hired as secretary to the high-school principal on November 1, 1995; Kathleen Bergen, who started as a regular secretary in June 1996 and later became confidential secretary to the board secretary/school business administrator;[4] and Patricia Mosley, who joined the staff in December 1996 to replace Kathleen Bergen as confidential secretary to the board secretary/school business administrator. Additionally, petitioners allege that they have preference over untenured clerical staff, including Mary Wilson and Deborah Restaino who were hired as photocopy clerks in August and September 1994.[5]

[4]After petititioners had already instituted this litigation, the Board promulgated a new job description for "secretary to the board secretary/school business administrator" that requires "strong computer skills" including familiarity with "word processing, database, spreadsheet, etc."

[5]West Essex has a separate job description for "copy machine operator," which largely involves "perform[ing] all copying duties for the district on a daily basis."

Despite respondent's insistence that Hibo and Arillo lack the qualifications for a full-time secretarial position, Board's witnesses presented little support for that proposition. Board secretary Borgo emphasized that secretaries responsible for ordering supplies must be acquainted with spreadsheet applications. He also suggested that Cheryl Philower's duties include certain activities that petitioners have never done, such as preparing bid specifications and keeping ledgers of account. However, he acknowledged that Philower herself had no prior secretarial experience and that much of her work involves simply collating information supplied by others. Dr. Gary Vita, superintendent of schools, indicated that he had intended to hire "temporary" help for the library and guidance department, but admitted having no personal knowledge of Hibo's and Arillo's actual duties. While he expressed his opinion that petitioners do not possess the necessary level of expertise, he failed to explain how their duties differed from those of most other secretaries.

I FIND that Hibo and Arillo served as secretaries in the district. Both of them had secretarial training and applied for jobs advertised to be secretarial positions. The Board hired them as secretaries, characterized them as secretaries in personnel records, and evaluated their performance using standards applicable to secretaries. Significantly, the proofs demonstrate that petitioners performed duties commonly associated with secretarial functions, including typing or word processing documents under the supervision of a boss, entering data into a computer, organizing files, greeting visitors, and answering telephones. These are the same types of duties listed on the district's own job description for secretary.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Hibo and Arillo have acquired tenure in a secretarial position and are entitled to preference over nontenured secretaries in the district.

Tenure is a statutory right designed to prevent school boards from abusing their superior bargaining power. Spiewak v. Rutherford Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 63, 73 (1982). It protects tenured employees from dismissal for "unfounded, flimsy or political reasons." Zimmerman v. Newark Bd. of Educ., 38 N.J. 65. 70-72 (1962), certif. den. 371 U.S. 956, 83 S.Ct. 508, 9 *L.Ed.*2d 502 (1963). N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b) grants tenure to "[a]ny person holding any secretarial or clerical position" in a school district after "expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in the district" or "employment for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year." Thus, the first inquiry is whether petitioners qualify as district employees holding a "secretarial or clerical position" within the meaning of the statute. As noted, the Board urges that petitioners are "general office workers" not covered by the tenure laws.

Generally, tenure laws should be generously construed to achieve their remedial purpose. Spiewak, at 74-75. Since tenure statutes are intended to secure efficient public service by protecting public employees in their employment, "the widest range should be given to the applicability of the law." Barnes v. Jersey City Bd. of Educ., 85 N.J. Super. 42, 45 (App. Div. 1964), certif. den. 43 N.J. 450 (1964). Accord, Viemeister v. Prospect Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949). Words in a statute should be given their ordinary and popular meaning unless it is evident that they are employed in a technical sense. State v. Joas, 34 N.J. 179, 187 (1961). WEBSTER'S INTERNATIONAL UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY (3rd ed. 1976) defines "secretary" to mean "one employed to handle correspondence and manage routine and detail work for a superior." Likewise, the DICTIONARY OF OCCUPATIONAL TITLES (4th ed. 1991) published by the United States Department of Labor describes the duties of a secretary in a school setting as encompassing composing correspondence, greeting visitors and directing them to their desired destination, disbursing funds and recording financial transactions. As the Board correctly observes, title alone is not dispositive and actual duties should control over labels. See Quinlan v. North Bergen Twp. Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949); Beaute v. North Arlington Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 0295-80 (July 28, 1981), adopted (Comm'r Sept. 14, 1981), aff'd (St.

Bd. Feb. 3, 1982). Here the evidence clearly establishes that petitioners performed duties traditionally regarded as secretarial responsibilities, including transcribing correspondence, dealing with the public, answering telephones and handling routine paperwork. Their duties require a degree of skill and knowledge in the use of office equipment and specialized techniques. Unlike paraprofessional assistants such as classroom or lunchroom aides, the scope of their responsibility was not limited to assisting professionals "by relieving them of easy or repetitive tasks which do not require extensive training and experience." Roach v. South Orange-Maplewood Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 370, 374 (Comm'r Nov. 6, 1995).

Alternatively, the Board argues that petitioners have not served the requisite time period for tenure because they were part-time employees.[6] In Spiewak, supra, the New Jersey Supreme Court declared that part-time remedial teachers who work the requisite number of years are eligible for tenure protection by operation of law, regardless of the school board's contrary intent. Recognizing the desirability of affording broad managerial discretion to school boards, the Court nonetheless deferred to the legislative policy decision "that the utility of tenure to improving education outweighs any costs in decreased 'flexibility.' " Spiewak, 90 N.J. at 79. Although the Board attempts to distinguish Spiewak on the ground that teachers are required to hold particular endorsements "for which there are very detailed and specific educational and training requirements," that argument cuts more in favor of petitioners than of the respondent. Compared to teachers who must demonstrate expertise in particular fields or subject areas, see Dennery v. Passaic Cty. Reg. High Sch. Dist. #1, 131 N.J. 626 (1993), secretarial employees are generalists who may be transferred more easily from one assignment to another. Thus, a school board has a better opportunity to evaluate the overall abilities of a part-time secretary during the probationary period than those of [6]Further, the Board contends that petitioners did not gain tenure because they were "temporary" employees. Nothing on the record substantiates this claim. The newspaper advertisement did not say that the positions were temporary, the Board resolutions did not mention that the hiring was temporary and petitioners were never told that their jobs would be temporary. Neither petitioner was substituting for an absent employee expected to return to work. See Sayreville Educ. Ass'n v. Sayreville Bd. of Educ., 193 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1984).

a part-time teacher, who may have taught only one narrow subject or at a single grade level. Furthermore, the Board's contention that Spiewak is distinguishable because the teachers were hired with grant money as opposed to local funding is without merit. Spiewak expressly holds that the source of funding is irrelevant to tenure acquisition. 90 N.J. at 81. See also, Lichtman v. Ridgewood Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J. 362 (1983), where a tenured teacher employed as a part-time librarian was entitled to preference over a non-tenured teacher for appointment as a full-time librarian.

Indeed, the Commissioner has already applied the Spiewak rationale to secretarial tenure. In Sherrill v. Cinnaminson Bd. of Educ., OAL Dkt. No. EDU 10107-93 (Nov. 10, 1994), adopted (Comm'r Dec. 29, 1994), aff'd (St. Bd. June 7, 1995), a part-time tenured secretary claimed entitlement to a full-time secretarial position given to a nontenured secretary. Relying on the Spiewak ruling that teaching staff members who work only part-time achieve tenure as full-time teachers, the Commissioner adopted the administrative law judge's conclusion that "there is no logical reason" for treating part-time secretaries any differently. (slip op. at 8). While Sherrill includes a detailed analysis of contractual-seniority rights, the outcome turns on the Commissioner's determination that a secretary's statutory entitlement to positions held by nontenured employees "cannot be circumvented by contractual seniority provisions." (slip op at 12).

Even if respondent were willing to concede that part-time service counts toward tenure, the Board still insists that Arillo never achieved tenure because she allegedly served "in a variety of positions over the course of her employment." Its reasoning is flawed, however, by a misunderstanding of the meaning of "position." Secretarial employees, like teaching staff members, achieve tenure in a "position", not in any particular job assignment. N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b). Dennery, 131 N.J. at 632-635; Williams v. Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 176 N.J. Super. 154 (App. Div. 1980) (transfer of principal's assignment from high school to elementary school does not violate her tenure rights.) See also, Howley v. Ewing Bd. of Educ., 6 N.J.A.R. 509, 515-516 (Comm'r Oct. 31, 1982). Although it may be true, as the Board suggests, that Arillo received assignments "of increasing scope and responsibility," her distinguished performance on the job should not be the basis for denial of tenure. In each of her several job assignments, she served in the role of a secretary and performed a secretarial function. She was never promoted to a higher position for which different or greater qualifications are required. Accordingly, the situation is dissimilar to Given v. East Windsor Reg. School Dist., 1978 S.L.D. 43 (Comm'r Jan. 30, 1978) aff'd 1978 S.L.D. 46 (St. Bd. June 7, 1978), aff'd 1979 S.L.D. 832 (App. Div. May 18, 1979), where a district employee attained tenure in a clerical position, but had not served sufficient time to acquire tenure in a secretarial position. Upholding the Commissioner's decision, the Appellate Division rejected appellant's argument that the duties of clerk and secretary are "essentially the same." 1979 S.L.D. at 833. Moreover, the fact that Arillo did not accept the Board's earlier offer of full-time employment does not constitute a break-in-service which might defeat her tenure claim. She continued uninterrupted employment as a part-time secretary and earned tenure after passage of three consecutive academic years and one day.

Tenured school employees asserting priority over nontenured employees must be fully qualified for the positions being sought. See, e.g., Kearny Bd. of Educ. v. Horan, 11 N.J. Misc. 751, 753, 168 A. 132 (Sup. Ct. 1933), clarifying that tenure protection extends only to those positions which the tenured teacher "is qualified to fill." Hibo and Arillo graduated from secretarial school, performed secretarial services for the district and received the highest scores on the Board's own secretarial-evaluation forms. Both of them are familiar with modern office technology and both appear willing to learn any particular software programs that the district chooses to utilize. Proofs fail to show that the duties assigned to other nontenured secretaries were so specialized or unique that petitioners would be incapable of satisfactorily performing them. Therefore, the Board may not terminate tenured secretaries while retaining nontenured individuals as secretaries. See Bednar v. Westwood Bd. of Educ., 221 N.J. Super. 239 (App. Div. 1987) (tenured art teacher has priority over nontenured art teacher); Capodilupo v. W. Orange. Bd. of Educ., 218 N.J. Super. 510 (App. Div. 1987), certif. den. 109 N.J. 514 (1987) (tenured physical-education teacher has priority over nontenured physical-education teachers). Of course, the Board may exercise its reasonable discretion in choosing which of the secretarial positions presently occupied by nontenured staff to offer to petitioners.

Since petitioners have priority over all nontenured secretaries, it is unnecessary to reach the additional issue of whether petitioners might also displace clerical staff on the theory that the greater job duties include the lesser. Suffice it to note that positions specifically enumerated in tenure statutes are usually regarded as "separately tenurable" Nelson v. Old Bridge Bd. of Educ., 148 N.J. 358 366 (1997) and that the phrase "clerical" position was intended to have a different meaning than "secretarial" position. Barnes, 85 N.J. Super. at 45. Accord Hansen v. Maywood Bd. of Educ., 1989 S.L.D. 2106 (Comm'r 1989), aff'd on other grounds 1990 S.L.D. 1755 (St. Bd. 1990), aff'd Dkt. No. A-4355-89T5 (App. Div. Jan 19, 1991) (unpublished) (treating secretarial position as separately tenuarable from clerical position).

Finally, the Board avers that petitioners are not entitled to back pay due to their alleged failure to make diligent efforts to find comparable employment. Mitigation is an affirmative defense, and the burden of proving the appropriateness of its application rests with the wrongdoer. Goodman v. London Metals Exchange, Inc., 86 N.J. 19, 40 (1981). In order to invoke mitigation, there must be available jobs. Goodman, at 36. The record shows that Arillo made numerous unsuccessful efforts to find alternate employment as a secretary.[7] Contrary to the respondent's unsupported assertion, the Board never offered her an opportunity for other employment in the district. Cf. Siegel v. Garfield Bd. of Educ., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 766 (Comm'r Sept. 10, 1993), remanded 94 N.J.A.R. (EDU) 2d 319 (St. Bd. April 13, 1994), decision on remand OAL Dkt. No. EDU 4130-94 (Feb. 15, 1995) (teacher not required to accept district offer of drastic reduction in pay). Although Hibo did not try as hard to find other work, there is no indication on the record that she would have been any more successful than Arillo in finding comparable work. Compare West Orange Supplemental Instructors Ass'n v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 287 (Comm'r Jan. 9, 1991), aff'd in part and rev'd and remanded in part, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 301 (St. Bd. April 1, 1992), decision on remand 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 337 (Comm'r July 21, 1993), aff'd in part and rev'd in part 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 341 (St. Bd. 1994), where mitigation was allowed upon a showing by the school board of suitable job opportunities in neighboring school districts. In the instant case, there is no basis for finding that petitioners could have alleviated their losses by obtaining comparable employment elsewhere.

As a result, mitigation is limited to Arillo's actual earnings of $2,070 and any other actual earnings made by either petitioner since the date of the hearing. See Goodman, at 36. While petitioners are not entitled to be compensated twice for unemployment compensation benefits already received, it would constitute unjust enrichment for the Board to retain that sum as an offset against back pay. Instead, the Board must reimburse the New Jersey Department of Labor for the amount of unemployment benefits paid directly to petitioners. N.J.S.A. 43:21-5(b). Dep't of Labor & Industry v. Smalls, 153 N.J. Super. 411 (App. Div. 1977).

Order

It is ORDERED that respondent Board reinstate petitioners Arillo and Hibo to a secretarial position.

Exceptions of the Board[1] [2]and petitioners' reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4 and were duly considered by the Commissioner in making his determination in this matter.

Upon his careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner affirms the findings and conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge, that the within petitioners accrued tenure in secretarial positions and are qualified to perform the duties assigned by the Board to nontenured employees and the Board, therefore, is required to reinstate these petitioners to secretarial positions in the District and restore full back pay and emoluments which they would

The Commissioner further finds that the Board is entitled to offset petitioners' awards by their actual earnings and the unemployment compensation which they received during this period and it is responsible for reimbursing the New Jersey Department of Labor for the total amount of such unemployment compensation.

Accordingly, the initial decision of the OAL is adopted as the final decision in this matter for the reasons clearly articulated therein. DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parent contested the refusal of her district of residence Board (Rancocas Valley) to provide transportation for her child, H.B., to attend an Academy of Performing Arts in another district. Rancocas Valley alleged it provided a comparable program.

ALJ found that the Rancocas Valley's program consisted of a first year performing arts course followed by subsequent years of independent study. ALJ found that there is no approved vocational program of performing arts or dance at Rancocas Valley and that Rancocas Valley does not have a dance program. Thus, the ALJ found that Rancocas Valley does not offer a program in dance and the performing arts comparable to that offered by the Gloucester County Institute of Technology (GCIT), Academy of the Performing Arts. ALJ concluded petitioner and intervenor were entitled to relief requested, respondent Rancocas Valley was to provide transportation to H.B. for attendance at GCIT.

Commissioner adopted findings and determination in initial decision as his own and directed respondent Rancocas Valley to provide transportation to H.B. for attendance at GCIT. Commissioner reminded respondent that notwithstanding that petitioner only sought transportation costs, respondent was likewise responsible for payment of H.B.'s tuition and, to the extent permitted by law, any imposed nonresident fee.

RE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

am Molinari (Molinari) filed a petition with the State Department of Education anuary 24, 1997, contesting action taken by the Board of Education of the Hopatcong (Board or respondent). Respondent filed an answer on February 14, 1997. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on March 3, 1997 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A telephone conference was conducted on June 12, 1997. The Board filed a motion to dismiss on July 2, 1997. After further communications, petitioner filed a reply; and the Board, a response. The record was closed on September 29, 1997, the date of receipt of the last document pertinent to the motion.

NATURE OF THE CASE

Petitioner, a custodian employed by respondent, alleges that he was injured while at work on May 31, 1996. Petitioner subsequently returned to work but has been absent since August 23, 1996. Petitioner contests treatment by the Board of those absences. Molinaro argues, more specifically, that the days on which he has been absent from work subsequent to August 23, 1996 should be treated as absences because of a work-related disability and that he is therefore entitled to full pay pertinent to those days. Respondent disputes Molinaro's substantive allegations and has charged the days in question to respondent's sick leave or accumulated sick leave.

Respondent's motion to dismiss, however, is based on procedural requirements. The Board argues that Molinaro's petition was not timely filed and should therefore be dismissed. Petitioner disputes that claim.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the papers, I FIND the following to be facts.

Molinaro has been employed by the Board as a custodian since 1991. Petitioner asserts that he incurred injuries on May 31, 1996, as a result of an accident which arose out of and in the course of his employment. Petitioner returned to work at some point, not entirely clear, subsequent to May 31, 1996. Commencing August 23, 1996, petitioner has been absent from work.

By letter dated August 14, 1996 to petitioner, Dr. James F. Clark (Clark), respondent's Assistant Superintendent and Secretary, addressed petitioner's then current employment status with the Board. Clark referenced receipt of a second report from a Dr. Crutchlow, indicating that Molinaro had been cleared for return to work, on light duty, as of July 22, 1996. Clark noted in that respect that the latest examination and work clearance were issued on August 13, 1996, based on an August 12, 1996 evaluation. Clark also addressed an apparent position by Molinari that petitioner was then too ill to return to work:

> The district is aware, however, that you maintain that you are too ill to work based on a note also dated August 12, 1996 from Dr. Leggiero. While the discrepancy in the doctors' opinions is interesting, there is no question that you are no longer qualified for workers compensation. Accordingly, if you maintain that you are too ill to work, your sick leave bank will continue to be charged for any further absences. (Certif. Wayne L. Threlkeld, Exh. A).

By letter dated September 3, 1996, counsel for petitioner advised the Board that:

> Pending an evaluation of Mr. Molinari's physical condition by the workers' compensation doctor who this office uses in workers' compensation matters, Mr. Molinari will not be reporting to work. (Id., Exh. B, p.2).

Dr. Wayne L. Threlkeld, respondent's superintendent, responded by letter dated September 4, 1996, stating, in part:

> Please be advised that we cannot accept this position. Mr. Molinari was released to full duty yesterday, September 3, 1996, following his visit to the Northern New Jersey Orthopedic Specialists . . . Similar releases have also been received from other orthopedists and general practitioners only for Molinari to seek other unauthorized medical care. We expect Mr. Molinari to return to full duty at his regularly scheduled 3:00 p.m., starting time on Thursday, September 5, 1996. Mr. Molinari's failure to return to work will result in loss of pay for any days taken without proper medical authorization. (Id. at p.1).

Petitioner filed a workers' compensation claim petition on or about September 10, 1996 pertinent to the alleged accident which had occurred on May 31, 1996.

At some point during this general time period, the Board changed workers' compensation carriers. In addition, because of an error in the Division of Unemployment (Division), State Department of Labor, it was reported to respondent, in approximately December 1996, that petitioner had applied for unemployment. Apparently, as a result, the Board, in approximately December 1996, sent Molinaro a notification that it considered him to have abandoned his position. During this time period, petitioner first contacted his union regarding the situation. The Board later ascertained that the Division report was sent to the district in error and that petitioner had not filed for unemployment compensation and had not abandoned his position. Petitioner obtained confirmation from the Division that he had not filed for unemployment compensation. He thereafter contacted counsel, and the instant appeal was prepared.

By letter dated January 23, 1997, counsel for petitioner filed a petition with the DOE alleging that the Board had improperly failed to classify the days Molinaro was absent from work subsequent to August 23, 1996 as workers compensation days. The petition requested orders that respondent restore Molinari's accumulated sick days for the days in question and provide full pay for each day for which he received no pay. The petition was received by the DOE on January 24, 1997.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 (Supp. 1997).

Whenever an employee of a local board of education is absent from employment because of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his/her employment, the board shall pay such individual his/her full remuneration for the period of such absence, for up to one calendar year. Such absences shall not be charged to annual sick leave, nor accumulated sick leave. Such remuneration shall be provided for absences during the applicable waiting period and during the period that the employee received, or was eligible to receive, temporary disability benefits. N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1.

An individual shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of a notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by a local board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of a requested case hearing. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). The Commissioner has discretion to relax this requirement. N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

Even if an alleged work-related injury is the subject of a workers' compensation petition, a claim pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 must be filed within 90 days, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c). This requirement applies even if the Commissioner exercises his/her discretion to defer the school law claim, pending the outcome of the workers' compensation case. Medeiros v. School Dist. of Jersey City, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 276 (Medeiros).

Letters from school board personnel to employees can be sufficient to trigger the 90-day time period incorporated in the pertinent regulation. See, e.g., Medeiros, supra; Morris Union Jointure Commission v. Bd. of Ed., Borough of South River, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 453; Markulin v. Bd. of Ed., Twp. of Neptune, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 406. The August 14, 1996 and September 4, 1996 letters from Board personnel to petitioner clearly notified petitioner of the Board's position that Molinari would no longer be qualified for workers' compensation and that if he were absent, the days in question would be deducted from his sick leave time. Molinaro should have filed any claims pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 within 90 days of the earlier letter. However, the petition in question was not filed with the DOE within 90 days of either the first nor the later letter.

As the Board argues, petitioner's reliance on December 1996 communications from the Board, related to its mistaken belief, based on information from the Division, that petitioner had filed for unemployment compensation and was no longer working for respondent is not material to the issue at hand. Administrative error by a local board of education does not necessarily toll the applicable 90-day period. See, Medeiros, supra at 277. In addition, Molinari asserts in his petition that all days in which he was absent subsequent to August 23, 1996 should have been treated as the result of a work-related injury. Molinari was obligated to file his claims with the DOE within 90 days of the date on which he first became aware that the Board was treating the days in question as sick leave, even if respondent did not send written notification of such to petitioner. See, North Plainfield Educ. Assn. v. Bd. of Educ., North Plainfield Bor., 96 N.J. 587 (1984).

The Commissioner has strictly construed the 90-day requirement. Application of the pertinent relaxation rule is infrequent and granted only where there are compelling circumstances. Medeiros, supra at 280. Petitioner has not demonstrated that relaxation of the rule, within the circumstances of this case, is appropriate or necessary to prevent an injustice, or for any other reason. For the foregoing reasons, I am therefore persuaded that the Board's motion to dismiss should be granted.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that the petition in question was not filed by Molinari with the DOE within 90 days of the date of notification to him by the Board of its position regarding the treatment of the absences in question, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), and that the 90-day filing requirement reflected in that regulation should not be relaxed, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15. I therefore CONCLUDE that respondent's motion to dismiss should be granted and that the petition should be dismissed, with prejudice.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that respondent's motion to dismiss the petition in question be and is hereby GRANTED and that the petition filed by Molinari with the DOE on or about January 24, 1997 be and is hereby DISMISSED, with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box

500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.[1]

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that petitioner's claims pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 are properly dismissed as untimely, and that petitioner provides no cause to relax the 90-day rule pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.15.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Association challenged Board's selection of department chairpersons to serve on School Based Planning Teams (SBPTs).

ALJ concluded that the petition was time barred as petitioner filed more than 180 days after the date on which it received a detailed list of approved 1995-96 SBPT members by school and, further, that there was no merit to petitioner's claims that the Board violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2 and 3 as the Board was no longer classified as a "Special Needs District." Petition was dismissed.

Commissioner adopted finding that petition was untimely filed. Petition was dismissed. However, Commissioner concurred with petitioner's position that, as a matter of policy, the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b) would require full-time classroom teachers to comprise a majority of the SBPTs.

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, Neptune Education Association (Association) sought a Declaratory Judgment from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) to construe the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. and 3. and declare that the Board of Education of the Township of Neptune (Board) strictly comply with the regulations concerning the establishment of School Based Planning Teams (SBPT); cease and desist from unilaterally designating department chairpersons to satisfy the regulatory requirement of majority classroom teacher representation on the SBPT and, require the Board to pay for lost compensation to personnel adversely affected by its actions.

The Board denies that it violated any of the regulatory provisions alleged and sets forth seven affirmative defenses and requests that the petition be dismissed.

On April 4, 1996, the petitioner filed a Petition for Declaratory Judgment before the Commissioner. The petition alleged that the respondent, a "Special Needs District," as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3, was in violation of various provisions of Title 6, Chapter 8, Subchapter 9 of the New Jersey Administrative Code which provide for the establishment and composition of mandated SBPT. On May 31, 1996, the Board filed an Answer to the Petition for Declaratory Judgment wherein it denied that it was in violation of the provision of the Title 6 of the New Jersey Administrative Code relating to the establishment or composition of its SBPT.

On June 21, 1996, the Commissioner, by letter advised the parties that he would not consider the matter as one for declaratory ruling, pursuant to his discretionary authority under N.J.A.C. 6:24-2.1. The Commissioner further advised the parties that:

> . . . .notwithstanding that Neptune will no longer be classified as a special needs district and, therefore, will no longer be required to meet the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2, this matter will be considered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2., and treated as a Petition of Appeal in that the question of compensation owed petitioner's members, if any, remains a live issue.

> Accordingly, the matter will now be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.10. (Commissioner's letter, June 21, 1996)

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case, pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15, and the act creating the OAL, N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference was held on September 19, 1996, at which, among other things, the following issues were agreed upon by the parties:

1. Whether the Board violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2 regarding the composition of School Board Planning Terms and the compensation related thereto?

2. Whether petitioner's claims are time barred under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3(c)?

The hearing was held on March 12, 1997, at the Trenton OAL, Mercerville, New Jersey. The parties requested and were granted leave to submit posthearing Briefs of Law. The last submission was received on September 29, 1997, which constitutes the close of the hearing record.

BACKGROUND FACTS

The following background facts are taken from the Board's Statement of Facts, the Association's brief, and the testimony and documents addressed at the hearing. Accordingly, I hereby adopt the following, by reference, as my FINDINGS OF FACT.

During the 1995-96 school year, respondent was a "Special Needs District" as defined by N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3. As a special needs district, respondent was required by the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.1 to annually submit an education improvement for the district. In addition, respondent, in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(a), was required to develop an education improvement plan for each school in the district.

N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b) required that each school in the district establish and maintain a planning team to coordinate the development, implementation and evaluation of the school's education improvement plan. Membership as the school based planning teams, (SBPT), included the principal, teachers and parents. A majority of each SBPT was required to be composed of "classroom teachers." N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. The respondent was required to establish fair and reasonable policies and procedures by which teachers shall select their representatives on the SBPT. N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2.

During the 1995-96 school year, the parties agreed that association members who served as members of SBPT would be compensated for attending SBPT meetings scheduled outside of the regular school hours. Association members would be compensated at rates previously established in the negotiated agreement between the parties. For the 1995-96 school year the hourly rate of compensation was $21.00.

It was agreed between the Association President and the Superintendent of Schools that SBPT positions would be posted in accordance with the terms of the Negotiated Agreement between the Board and the Association. The parties also agreed that representatives of the Association would serve as members of the SBPT at each of the district's seven school sites. There was considerable correspondence between the Association's President and Superintendent concerning the posting for the SBPT positions from October 4, 1995 through January 16, 1996.

Respondent posted open positions on the SBPT for the 1995-96 school year. (P-2) On May 24, 1995, the Board made appointments to its seven SBPT for the 1995-96 school year. A majority of the members appointed to the SBPT at the district's five elementary schools and the middle school were classroom teachers.

On May 24, 1996, the Board appointed sixteen individuals to the High School SBPT for the 1995-96 school year. (P-2) Eight of these individuals, James Whitson, Patricia Mixon, Valerie Butler, Rebecca Ciannello, Donald Smith, Vicki Travis, James Meola and Lorna Bonner were members of the Teachers' Association. Five other individuals appointed to the High School SBPT, Lynn Carhart, Piola Smith, Leonard Cafone, Ed Dever and Michael Mixon, were department chairpersons and members of a separate bargaining unit.

The job description for department chairpersons, which was in effect since 1988, included teaching classes. During the 1955-1996 school year, four of the five department chairpersons assigned to the High School SBPT taught classes for the two periods each day. The fifth department chairperson, Piola Smith-Smith, did not teach class, but performed duties as a guidance counselor.

On June 26, 1996, the respondent appointed eighteen individuals to the High School SBPT for the 1996-1997 school year. (R-5) Eight of these individuals, Mr. Whitson, Ms. Bonner, Miss Ciannello, Mr. Dahrouge, Mr. Meola, Mrs. Mixon, Mr. Pigut and Mr. Smith, were members of the Teachers' Association. Four other individuals, Steve Donley, Vicki Travis, Leonard Cafone and Piola Smith-Smith were department chairpersons. During the 1996-1997 school year, department chairpersons Steve Donley, Vicki Travis and Leonard Cafone taught two classes each day. Piola-Smith-Smith had guidance counselor duties during the 1996-1997 school year. Petitioner asserts that department chairpersons, by definition, are not classroom teachers within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2.

After the 1995-1996 school year, the Board was no longer classified as a "Special Needs District" and was no longer required to comply with the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. See, Commissioner Klagholz June 21, 1996, letter in this matter.

SUMMARY OF THE LEGAL ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

POINT I

WHETHER OR NOT PETITIONER'S CLAIM IS TIME BARRED, PURSUANT TO N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)?

The Board's Position

In its Third, Fifth and Sixth Alternative Defenses, the Board contends that petitioner's request for relief is time barred under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), which provides that:

> The petitioner shall file a petition no later than the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling or other action by the district board of education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing.

The Board argues that its action, which is the subject of this matter, took place on May 24, 1995. On that date, it appointed 16 individuals to the High School SBPT. Eight of the 16 appointees, or one half of the total appointed, were members of the Association. The remaining five appointees were department chairpersons. It asserts that the appointments to the SBPT on May 24, 1995, were made at a public meeting of the Board.

The Board argues that on October 10, 1995, its Superintendent of Schools provided petitioner with "a detailed list of approved 1995-1996 SBPT members by School." (P-2) It observes that the Petition for Declaratory Judgment was filed before the Commissioner on April 4, 1996, 316 days after the Board's May 24, 1995, public meeting where it appointed SBPT members for the 1995-1996 school year. The April 4, 1996, filing was more that 180 days after October 10, 1995, where the Superintendent provided petitioner with the "detailed list of approved 1995-1996 SBPT members by school." (P-2)

The Board argues that the herein petition was filed beyond the 90 days petitioner received notice of the May 24, 1995, Board action and cites Kaprow v. Board of Ed. of Berkeley Twp., 131 N.J. 572 (1993). It contends that petitioner's claim is time barred pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

Petitioner's Position

Petitioner contends that the Board's timeliness arguments are misplaced. It asserts that the Board's May 24, 1995, initial appointments to the SBPT did not represent any form of final administrative action regarding the actual composition of the SBPT as of March 19, 1996, the first meeting of the SBPT. It asserts that there was a difference in the composition of the High School SBPT between the May 24, 1995, Board meeting and March 9, 1996. This change in composition was due to the ongoing correspondence between the Superintendent and the Association President, to insure that the composition comported with N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2.

Petitioner argues that the Superintendent's letter of October 10, 1995, referring, in part, to his argument with the Association President to an additional posting of SBPT positions to correct any problems regarding its composition established that there was no final action or decision regarding its composition. Petitioner contends that composition was established when the High School SBPT actually met on March 19, 1996.

Petitioner also cites Kaprow, supra. where the Supreme Court concluded regarding the interpretation and application of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) as follows:

> A limitations period (referring to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)) has two purposes. The first is to stimulate litigants to pursue a right of action within a reasonable time so that the opposing party may have a fair opportunity to defend, thus preventing the litigation of stale claims . . . The second purpose is "to penalize dilatoriness and serve as a measure of repose" by giving security and stability to human affairs . . . 131 N.J. 587. (Citations omitted).

Petitioner argues that it filed its Petition for Declaratory Judgment within two weeks of the establishment of the final composition of the High School SBPT. It contends that it did not act in a dilatory manner and pursued its right of action within a reasonable time. It argues that its claims are not time barred.

CONCLUSIONS

POINT I

Kaprow, supra., is the seminal decision dealing with the State Board's administrative regulation, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c), concerned with the 90 day limitation to file a dispute before the Commissioner, pursuant to School Law. Maurice Kaprow was an assistant superintendent in the employ of the Berkeley Township Board of Education (Berkeley Board). Kaprow acquired a tenure status in the position with the Berkeley Board on October 5, 1979. Kaprow was subject to a reduction in force (RIF) effective June 31, 1991, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. However, the Berkeley Board failed to maintain a preferred eligible list to advise Kaprow of his rights to re-employment in the event the Berkeley Board determined to fill the position of assistant superintendent. The Berkeley Board was required, by law, to maintain such preferred eligible list pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12.

On February 23, 1988, Kaprow made an informal inquiry of the Berkeley Board's Secretary where he asked whether any positions for which he held tenure rights had been established subsequent to his RIF. On February 23, 1988, the Berkeley Board Secretary wrote to Kaprow on note paper headed, "From the desk of Elaine M. Clay, Board Secretary," advising Kaprow that on September 9, 1986, Robert Ciliento had been appointed Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services, and that on July 1, 1987, Sheila McGuckin had been appointed Supervisor of Elementary Schools.

On February 28, 1988, Kaprow wrote to the Berkeley Board asserting his right to both of the positions and requested the Board to reinstate him retroactively with full back pay and other benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28.12. The Berkeley Board did not reply. On April 25, 1988, Kaprow sent a second letter to the Board stating that he wished to amicably resolve the matter and requested a reply by May 16, 1988.

On June 14, 1988, the Berkeley Board's attorney responded to Kaprow where he acknowledged that two positions had been created and filled. The Board's attorney asserted that the two positions called for substantially different duties from those Kaprow had performed for the Board. Also, that Robert Ciliento had subsequently been appointed Superintendent of Schools and that no one had been appointed to the position of Assistant Superintendent for Administrative Services. The Board's attorney concluded that Kaprow's RIF rights did not attach and that no basis existed for his reinstatement.

On August 1, 1988, Kaprow filed his verified Petition of Appeal before the Commissioner asserting his claim to the position of Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services and/or District Supervisor. The matter proceeded through administrative proceedings by the OAL, the Commissioner, the State Board, the Appellate Division of Superior Court to our Supreme Court. The Court held, among other things, that "Kaprow received adequate notice under N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) on February 23, 1988, to trigger the ninety-day limitations period." Id. at 588. Thus, it was the Board Secretary's note to Kaprow which commenced the running of the ninety-day rule.

Here, the Board took action on May 24, 1996, at a public meeting to appoint SBPT members for the 1995-1996 school year. Under the Kaprow holding, May 24, 1995 "triggered the ninety-day limitations period." Kaprow at 588. Notwithstanding any subsequent correspondence between Neptune Superintendent and the Association President, the fact remains that the Board took action on May 24, 1995 and the herein petition was not filed with the Commissioner until April 4, 1996, well beyond the ninety-day limitation period.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the herein Petition of Appeal was filed out-of-time and beyond the ninety-day period as provided by N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

I CONCLUDE that the instant matter should be dismissed on these grounds.

POINT II

WHETHER OR NOT THE BOARD VIOLATED THE PROVISIONS OF N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2 and N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)3?

During the period the Board's schools were classified as a "Special Needs District," pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7D-3, it was required to comply with regulatory provisions found at N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.1 to 9.8, among other regulations. Subchapter 9 of Title 6, Chapter 8 of the regulations is entitled "Educational Improvement Plans in Special Needs Districts," required the Board to ". . . establish and maintain a planning team evaluation of the plan." N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b). Sections 2. and 3. thereunder provides as follows:

> 2. Membership on the planning team shall include, but not be limited to, the principal, teachers and parents. A majority of the planning team shall be composed of classroom teachers and 25 percent of the team shall be composed of parents.
>
> 3. The board of education shall establish fair and reasonable policies and procedures by which teachers shall select their representatives and parents shall select their representatives.

Petitioner's Position

Petitioner argues that the majority of the High School SBPT membership was not composed of classroom teachers but rather, only seven of the nineteen appointees were teachers. It asserts that the Board appointed department chairpersons to the SBPT and that these chairpersons are not teachers within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. It cites N.J.A.C. 6:11-9.3(c), Supervisor, which states, in part that:

> . . . . The supervisor shall be defined as any school officer who is charge with authority and responsibility for the continuing direction and guidance of the work of instructional personnel . . . .

Petitioner contends that the Board's Job Description of Department Chairperson establishes that the goal of these individuals is "To provide assistance to the building principal and vice principal in planning, assessing and evaluating school programs and services." (R-3) Petitioner asserts that the chairperson also observes and evaluates teachers and support staff as assigned by the building principal. In addition, the chairperson prepare written observations and summary evaluations of the job performance of classroom teachers. Petitioner's allege that department chairpersons are not classroom teachers and, therefore, should not have been represented on the SBPT as they were. Petitioner does not object to departmental chairpersons serving as members of the SBPT. It objects that of the nineteen appointees to the High School SBPT, only seven were classroom teachers where there should have been ten teachers appointed.

The Board's Position

The Board observes that neither Title 6 of the Administrative Code or Title 18A of the New Jersey statutes defines the term "classroom teachers." N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 defines "Teaching Staff Members" as a member of the professional staff of any district board of education whose position or employment requires a standard, provisional or emergency certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners. Department chairpersons employed by the Board are included in the definition of "Teaching Staff Member."

It argues that a reasonable interpretation of the term "Classroom Teachers" as used in N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2 would be teaching staff members who are assigned actual classroom teaching duties. It observes that four of the five department chairpersons who served as High School SBPT in 1995-96 school year and three of the four department chairpersons who served in 1996-1997 would qualify as "classroom teachers" within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. By including department chairpersons as "classroom teachers," "classroom teachers" constituted a majority of the High School SBPT in both the 1995-1996 and 1996-1997 school years. The Board also relies upon the letter from Dr. David Pearsall of the New Jersey Department of Education, dated December 12, 1995, approving the inclusion of department heads who teach for the purposes of determining a majority of teachers as members on the SBPT (P-7).

The Board asserts that petitioner has failed to carry its burden to prove that the Board was in violation of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b) 2. and 3. It seeks a dismissal of the instant matter.

CONCLUSIONS

POINT II

The herein record clearly demonstrates that all but one of the departmental chairpersons taught a daily classroom schedule while serving as a member of the SBPT. The one exception was Piola Smith-Smith, a guidance counselor who would not, under ordinary circumstances, be assigned to regular classroom duty.

The term "classroom teacher" is neither defined in statute or administrative code. As the Board observes, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 defines "Teaching Staff Member," but not "classroom teachers." Petitioner contends that the department chairpersons should not be included in category of "classroom teacher" because the department chairpersons assist the administration of the school. It concedes, however, that Dr. Pearsall viewed department heads who teach as non-administrative professionals and could be included as SBPT members.

By analogy, petitioner's would hold that Lou Boudreau, a member of the National Baseball Hall of Fame, was not a baseball player when he was a player-manager for the Cleveland Indians baseball team. Petitioner's would classify Mr. Boudreau as "management" rather than "player." Or, in the instant matter, "administration" rather than "classroom teacher." The fact of the matter is that Mr. Boudreau excelled in both positions but was considered a "baseball player" for purpose of membership to the Hall of Fame.

I CONCLUDE that department chairpersons who teach are to be considered classroom teachers, as interpreted by Dr. David Pearsall of the Department of Education, for the purpose of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. I, therefore, CONCLUDE that the Board's action to include teaching department chairpersons as members of its High School SBPT was proper and in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. I CONCLUDE that this charge should be dismissed.

POINT III

WHETHER OR NOT THE BOARD SHOULD PROVIDE COMPENSATION TO THE ASSOCIATION FOR ALLEGED VIOLATIONS OF N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2?

Petitioner's Position

Petitioner observes, and it is uncontroverted, that the Board compensated all classroom teachers who served on the Board's SBPT, pursuant to the negotiated contractual hourly rate between the Board and the Association for their attendance at meetings beyond the regular school day. Petitioner avers that it is of no moment that it cannot identify particular Association members who should receive compensation if they had applied for and would have been selected to serve on the High School SBPT. It argues that the Board cannot financially benefit by violating N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b) 2. when it failed to appoint a sufficient number of classroom teachers to its High School SBPT.

Petitioner argues that in the event this tribunal determines that any measure of damages against the Board to be too speculative to mandate any affirmative relief by way of the remittance of any money to the Association, it contends that the appropriate remedy would be to direct the Board to strictly comply with the terms prescribed in N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. and 3. in the future concerning the establishment of the Board's SBPT. It requests, further, that the Board should be directed by this tribunal to cease and desist from unilaterally designating department chairpersons on the Board's SBPT, assuming that the school district will again become a "special needs" district in the future.

The Board's Position

The Board observes that petitioner acknowledge that N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b) does not require the Board to pay members of the SBPT who serve. The compensation to Association members arises from the negotiated agreement between the Board and the Association for Association members who attended the SBPT meetings scheduled beyond the regular school hours.

The Board contends that petitioner cannot identify any Association member who applied for the posted High School SBPT position and was not appointed for the 1995-1996 school year. Similarly, petitioner could not identify any Association member for the positions for the 1996-1997 school year who had applied. No individual Association members were made parties to the herein action nor was any evidence presented setting forth an amount of compensation alleged to be owed to Association members or how, if owed, the amounts were to be calculated.

The Board argues that petitioner failed to carry its burden to prove the Board owed compensation to any Association members. It requests that the herein matter be dismissed.

CONCLUSIONS

POINT III

Petitioner cannot cite any authority which would allow or permit the Commissioner to order a board of education to remit payment to an education association for alleged violations of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. and 3. This tribunal is not aware of any statute, rule, regulation or other authority which would permit the Commissioner to order a local board of education to make payments of public monies to a bargaining unit for unnamed individuals and for work not performed. Petitioner's claim for compensation is without merit and, I CONCLUDE, should be dismissed.

ORDER

Having carefully considered all of the evidence before me, including the testimony of the parties, the documents in evidence and the briefs of law, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the herein matter is time barred, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.3(C).

I FURTHER FIND and CONCLUDE that there is no merit to petitioner's claims that the Board was in violation of the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2. and 3. or, that the Board should compensate the Association in any manner.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the herein matter be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." NEPTUNE TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF NEPTUNE, MONMOUTH COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter and the initial decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's replies, both of which recast and reiterate many of the arguments previously presented to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), are duly noted as submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were considered by the Commissioner in rendering the within decision.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner agrees with the conclusion of the ALJ that the within Petition of Appeal must be dismissed as untimely filed. Specifically, he determines that petitioner's cause of action in this matter arose on May 24, 1995, when the Board appointed, at a public meeting, the School Based Planning Team (SBPT) members for the 1995-96 school year. However, even assuming arguendo, that petitioner's cause of action was triggered on October 10, 1995, when the superintendent provided petitioner with the detailed list of the approved 1995-96 SBPT members, petitioner's filing on April 4, 1996 would still be beyond the limitations of rule. (Kaprow, supra; North Plainfield, supra) No cause for relaxation having been demonstrated, the petition must therefore be held as untimely pursuant to the 90-day time limit requirement of N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

However, given the importance of the question raised on the merits as a matter of State policy, and given that the ALJ made findings and conclusions on such question, the Commissioner here states his concurrence with petitioner's position that N.J.A.C. 6:8-9.2(b)2 is to be read as imposing a requirement that full-time classroom teachers comprise a majority of the SBPTs. While department supervisors and other similar positions are not precluded from membership on SBPTs, they may not be considered as classroom teachers for purposes of fulfilling the distribution requirement of rule, notwithstanding that their duties may include some classroom teaching.

Accordingly, the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed as untimely filed. [1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[1] The Commissioner notes that even if this matter were not dismissed as untimely filed but, instead, considered on its merits, he would not have granted the requested relief of compensation to the association. This is so because of the absence of any showing of need for compensatory damages and, therefore, the payment to the association would be punitive in nature. Such compensation is inappropriate since no evidence exists that the Board acted in bad faith; but, instead, for most of the period at issue, it relied upon advice it received from the Office of the County Superintendent.
