L.B., PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE RUMSON-FAIR HAVEN REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning senior high school student appealed the Board's determination denying her eligibility for consideration for admission to the National Honor Society (NHS).

The ALJ found that the Board, since at least 1996-97, had articulated and enforced a policy for scholarship eligibility into the NHS which required that a student maintain at least a 3.5 Grade Point Average (GPA). The ALJ concluded that petitioner should have been aware of this policy. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that petitioner, who had a 3.49 GPA, failed to demonstrate by a preponderance of relevant credible evidence that the Board's determination not to round-off a GPA from anything below 3.5 for purposes of eligibility to membership in NHS was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. It is the Board's prerogative to establish a 3.5 GPA as the cut-off for invitation to apply to the local NHS chapter. Petition was dismissed.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The petitioner, L.B., is an 18-year-old senior attending high school within respondent Rumson-Fair Haven Regional School District (hereinafter "Rumson" or "District"). She has appealed the determination by respondent denying her threshold eligibility to be considered as a member of the District's chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS) based upon its view that her grade point average, 3.49, representing her average through the first 6 of her 8 semesters of high school, fails to quality her for the District promulgated 3.5 grade point average necessary for admission to the NHS.

The matter was brought before the Commissioner of Education, by way of a request for emergency relief, on or about November 16, 2000. On November 17th the Office of the Commissioner of Education transmitted the matter for oral argument on petitioner's request for emergent relief pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

On that date I met in chambers with counsel and it was agreed that the primary issue in the case-whether L.B. scholastically qualified for consideration for eligibility to the NHS was one which would require a plenary disposition and that the emergent relief request was directed more to an effort to postpone the induction ceremony to the NHS to be held on November 28, 2000. Since her major concern was a decision on eligibility, so that she could incorporate that determination, if she prevailed, in her application for early admission to college, the parties waived the emergent aspect of the case and agreed that the plenary proceedings would proceed on November 29, 2000 and a decision would issue from my office expeditiously. The matter was heard on that date and following closing oral argument the record closed.

ISSUE AND BURDEN OF PROOF

The fundamental issue to be determined in these proceedings is whether the District's decision to deny the petitioner's eligibility for consideration for admission to the National Honor Society, based upon her grade point average, was proper and, assuming arguendo that the decision was substantively proper, was the petitioner properly notified of the standard to be employed in assessing her grade point average?

The burden of proof rests solely and exclusively upon the petitioner: she must establish by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence that the actions of Rumson, in denying her scholastic qualifications for eligibility to the NHS, were unreasonable, arbitrary or capricious. As was noted on the record this is not a de novo review of the actions of Rumson. I, as an Administrative Law Judge, will confine my review to determine whether the Board had a reasonable basis for its decision and I will not substitute my judgment for Rumson's even if I disagree with it. This standard was explicitly explained to all the parties on the record, during the course of the hearing, and there was no disagreement by either side.

FACTS AND ANALYSIS

The petitioner, L.B., is an 18-year-old senior at the Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School. Based upon her current official transcript, which is inclusive of her grades through her junior year, her academic grade point average is 3.49. L.B. is an outstanding student. She is a member of the varsity and swimming teams; was selected as an All-State athlete in tennis; she has considerable extracurricular activity involvement and is clearly an articulate, intelligent young woman.

After her first semester in her senior year her grade point average exceeded 3.5. As a consequence she applied for admission to her District's chapter of the National Honor Society. The requirements for admission to the society in Rumson are essentially identical to those promulgated by the national chapter but for the minimum grade point average requirement. In Rumson the overall GPA required is "3.5 or better." (P-2) The national chapter requires a minimum grade point average of 3.0; however, it confers discretion on local districts to maintain higher standards. Thus, there is no issue in respect to the authority of Rumson to have a GPA requirement for eligibility of 3.5.

Although L.B. qualified for eligibility, in respect to her GPA in the Spring of 2000, she was rejected from the NHS based upon what was ascribed as a lack of "leadership qualifications." She was advised to improve these qualifications and reapply for membership in the NHS in the Fall 2000 semester. Petitioner made efforts to improve her leadership qualifications. For example, she achieved a position of Photography Editor of the school year book; has become an active member of the Peer Mediation and Peer Education Program and has become a participant in a variety of other extracurricular and leadership activities. Presumably, as a reward for her participation for her attendance at a presidential classroom in Washington, D.C., she has been invited and plans to attend the presidential inauguration in Washington in January 2001. Whether it was as a result of her commitment to leadership qualifications, and the time entailed in improving them, or whether it was entirely unrelated, in any event, the petitioner's grade point average fell below 3.5 following the grades that she received in her second junior semester. After counseling, and successfully changing a grade in one of her courses, her final GPA beginning in her senior year was, and is, 3.49. About this there is no factual dispute. [1]

L.B. testified that she first learned that her GPA was problematic, for purposes of NHS eligibility, in conversations, which she had with her guidance counselor in the early Fall semester of 2000. Following conversations with the counselor, and a representative of the National Honor Society in District, she was ultimately told that "rounding off" a GPA from anything less than a 3.5 was impermissible. Thus L.B. came as close as is reasonably possible to come to qualify for NHS eligibility scholastically but ostensibly failed by 1/100th of a percentile to meet the District's minimum eligibility standard.

L.B. and her mother testified, and both indicated that they believed, that during the course of the last four years there may have been one, or, at most, two students who were admitted to the NHS whose GPA was statistically slightly lower than the 3.5 requirement. No competent proof, however, was provided that this was the case. In addition, the Superintendent of Schools for the District, Mr. Robert Smith, indicates that he has no knowledge of anyone ever having been found eligible scholastically for NHS consideration in Rumson with less than a 3.5 GPA. This engenders not only the time during his tenure as Superintendent, which began in 1997, but any time prior to that as well.

In addition, Superintendent Smith notes that even if, hypothetically, 1 or 2 students, over the course of years and presumably hundreds of eligibility decisions, were admitted with less than a GPA of 3.5, those instances were clearly mistakes not to be repeated and should not be utilized as in any way to justify L.B.'s eligibility today.

[1] Apparently, based upon the petitioner's grades in her first semester of her senior year, her GPA will have reached or exceeded 3.5; however, pursuant to the Rumson policy 6145.5 and thereafter memorialized into an administrative rule, calculation of the GPA for a senior is based exclusively on the preceding 6 semesters of work and does not, and cannot, include the 7th semester. It is my view that the petitioner has not made the argument that such criterion is, in any way, related to her eligibility.

It should be noted that I advised counsel for L.B., on the record during the course of his closing argument, that, in my view, there was no competent legal evidence to support a finding of fact that Rumson had, at any time, allowed for student scholastic eligibility for NHS where the GPA was less than 3.5. That would include any student who hypothetically could have had a GPA of 3.4999 to infinity.

Superintendent Smith addressed the issue of "rounding." He indicated that such procedure, under his administration and previous administrations within Rumson, is entirely inappropriate and inapplicable to the National Honor Society and that to his knowledge no exception has ever been made to the 3.5 requirement. He noted that the National Honor Society's requirements are stringent and while he certainly is sympathetic to L.B.'s position, requirements always are difficult to apply to those who just minimally fall below them. Only 33 students were inducted into the National Honor Society this year at Rumson.

The National Honor Society is an organization dedicated to the promotion and encouragement of "the fundamental virtues of character, leadership, scholarship, and service, the attainment of those four virtues being requisite for individual membership." Tiffany v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Cinnaminson, 1974 S.L.D. 91, 92 (quoting, Handbook of the National Honor Society, 12-13).

> Consistent with the Society's constitution[], the election of members is made by a "chapter council, consisting of the principle and members of the faculty" (Constitution, Art. III, Section 1) based on the applicant's scholarship, service, leadership, and character. (Constitution, Art. II, Section 1). ... In its consideration of each applicant for membership, the Council utilizes its own guidelines for rating each applicant against the four criteria requisite for societal membership.
> [Moore v. Board of Educ. of the City of Vineland and Vineland High School Chapter of the National Honor Society, Cumberland County, 1975 S.L.D. 290, 294]

Petitioner's argument that Rumson's decision to deny her eligibility for consideration to the National Honor Society, based on scholarship, is based on two fundamental propositions (1)

She was never adequately notified at the appropriate time that the policy of the District required a minimum of 3.5 and would not round-off a 3.49 or any other presumably lower average through a 3.45; and (2) The policy of not rounding-off a 3.49 to a 3.5 is in, and of itself, an arbitrary and capricious way of approaching what is necessary to meet the scholarship requirement. I shall address each of the arguments separately and begin with the issue of alleged lack of notice.

It is my view that as a matter of fact, and of law, the petitioner was, or at least should have been, aware of the District's GPA policy in respect to eligibility for the NHS such that she cannot rely on an assertion of ignorance as a basis for overcoming the District's position. It is clear that as early as Spring 2000 L.B. knew of the scholastic requirement for eligibility when she was then rejected from NHS-not based on scholarship but rather on leadership qualities. She clearly was on notice at that time that the requirement imposed by the District for eligibility was a 3.5 GPA. She indeed acknowledged this in her testimony as well. In addition, she acknowledged that at no time did any representative of Rumson misinform her that the 3.5 qualification would be met by rounding-off a lower GPA.

In addition, the various student handbooks, which are distributed to students has, since at least 1996-1997, specifically spelled out the requirement that "students at Rumson-Fair Haven are eligible for membership on attaining GPA of 3.5 or better [in the National Honor Society]. See R-1 at 79; see R-2 at 59. It should also be noted that, as of the 2000-2001 school year, the calendar which is distributed to students as well also explicitly provides that "juniors and seniors at [District High School] are eligible for membership in the National Honor Society on attaining a GPA of 3.5 or better." R-3 Academic Information IV preceding January 2001 calendar.

There is no indication that the Board used "hidden" criteria in determining what the GPA standard was regarding the NHS. The information was readily available to all students at all times, and any inquiries could have been made without hindrance. Petitioner does suggest that the fact that where Policy 6145.5 AR was promulgated effective August 4, 2000, altering certain criteria regarding actual admission to the NHS, that she was not given proper notice of the change. However, Petitioner misses the actual effect of Policy 6145.5 AR in regard to her case. The criteria changes established by that Policy did not affect the threshold GPA required for invitation to admission, but rather the rating system applied upon admission. This Policy does not affect the GPA standards in issue.

Furthermore, it appears that Policy 6145.5 AR merely codified earlier procedures memorialized in the student handbooks since 1997. Therefore, the standards were written and available to the student body prior to the promulgation of the official policy, in accord with the NHS directives. A case may be colorable had the Petitioner acquired the requisite GPA and was held to the new rating system to her detriment, but that is not the issue here. Petitioner can claim no notice violation in this instance.

Thus it is my judgment that the District was neither arbitrary nor capricious in apprising its students of the scholarship requirements for eligibility to the NHS. The petitioner's mother, who also testified and is obviously and understandably upset about the fact that her daughter was denied eligibility because of 1/100 of a percent, was explicitly told after a conversation with the petitioner's guidance counselor that having spoken with the school principal there would not be any rounding-off of numbers. It is unclear when this conversation took place. In addition, she then spoke with the principal who also told her that he followed-up that conversation with the counselor with a conversation with the Superintendent of Schools and it was reiterated that the policy of Rumson has never been to round-off grades that are below 3.5 for purposes of National Honor Society scholarship eligibility.

Thus I explicitly CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to establish, by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence, that the notice provided by Rumson, in respect to the GPA scholarship eligibility requirement for NHS, was arbitrary, whimsical or capricious.

The second issue, presented by the petitioner, is her assertion that the policy of not "rounding-off" grades-in particular her grade of 3.49 to 3.5-is wholly arbitrary and should be invalidated allowing her grade point average to be rounded-off the additional 1/100 of a percent, thus meeting the 3.5 eligibility requirement.

It is well settled in New Jersey that decisions of local boards of education are entitled to a presumption of correctness and are to stand undisturbed unless shown to be "patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives." J. M., By His Guardian, D.M. v. Hunterdon Central Regional High School District, Hunterdon County, 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 415, 419; R. A. M. and C. A. M. v. Board of Educ. of the Township of tabernacle, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 573, 576 (citing, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J.Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)). See, Boult v. Board of Educ. of Passaic City, 136 N.J.L. 521 (E. & A. 1948); Fraser v. State Bd. of Educ., 133 N.J.L. 15 (Sup. Ct. 1945); Offhouse v. State Bd. of Educ., 131 N.J.L. 391 (Sup. Ct. 1944); Greenway v. Board of Educ. of the City of Camden, 129 N.J.L. 461 (E. & A. 1943). Petitioner bears the burden of proving, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the Respondent's action was "arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable." J.M., supra, 96 N..J.A.R.2d, at 419. Petitioner has failed to meet this burden in the present case.

All of the testimony that was presented in this matter, both documentary and testimonial, indicates that Rumson, since at least 1996-1997, has articulated and enforced a policy for scholarship eligibility into the NHS which required that a student maintain at least a 3.5 GPA. The hearsay assertions that perhaps 1 or 2 students over several years had been admitted to the NHS and found eligible with lower GPA's is not competent proof which would, in any way, justify setting aside Rumson's policy. Even if arguendo competent proof were offered to establish that 1 or 2 students had "slipped through the cracks" the District has acknowledged that, if that were the case, it would clearly have been in error. Courts are reluctant to require public entities to compound errors if errors are found by compelling them to do so prospectively. In addition, there was absolutely no evidence presented which would, in any way, suggest that the District singled the petitioner out for unfair treatment. On the contrary the impression that I was left with was that the Superintendent and the District were quite proud of L.B.'s accomplishments and, on a personal level, regretted that she would be ineligible for admission to NHS.

It appears that it is general practice that the GPA is always carried to the hundredth decimal, and nothing indicated that anything referring to the GPA does not refer to the GPA as a whole. "The grading system is the prerogative of the local school boards and need not be formally codified; although it must be reasonable and nondiscriminating." M. M. v. Daniel Demers, Et Al., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 525, 526 (citing, Dooner v. Board of Educ. of Toms River, 1976 S.L.D. 619; Tarlarsky v. Edison Township Board of Educ., 1977 S.L.D. 862). As such, it is reasonable for the Board to consider the GPA in toto as the criterion to establish invitation for admission to the NHS.

Furthermore, no testimony was presented to establish that rounding to the first decimal place is an actual practice used by the Board in any capacity. The fact that no proof established any such practice of the Board points to the conclusion that the absence of rounding to the tenth in this situation was an action clearly not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. As a result, the Petitioner failed to meet her burden.

It was further argued that the Boards published standard was ambiguous in presenting the cut-off for invitation as a 3.5 rather than a 3.50. The argument also leads to the same result.

In Gorsky v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Monroe, Glouster County, 94 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 551, the A.L.J. was faced with a petition by a student's father contesting the grading system for the high school. For 30 years, it was the established practice of that Board to report a student's grades by a letter which corresponded to a set of numbers. The grading scheme was as follows:

77-84 = C (Average)
Below 69 = F (Failure)

As a result, the student's report cards did not reflect where on the scale the student's actual grade was found. The actual numeric grade was available to any student or parent with an inquiry, however.

Mr. Gorsky challenged this system as arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable particularly where, as were the facts of that case, a student could receive four "A"s in the four marking periods of the year in two different classes, yet receive an "A" as a final grade in one class and a

"B" as a final grade in another class, where the final exam is used to calculate the final grade. The reason for the discrepancy, and the basis for the claim of arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable action reside in the fact that the letter grades do not accurately represent where on the numerical grade scale the previous grades lie. Therefore, the student "is deprived of valuable information upon which a decision can be made whether to study harder for one subject or another." Id. at 552.

This argument was dismissed by the A.L.J. with the conclusion that > [i]t can be argued that for the sake of clarity, the report card should have the actual grade point average in addition to a letter grade; however, there is no administrative regulation or statute requiring that this information be disclosed. Nor is it the prerogative of this tribunal to dictate policy to the school board where the grading practice does not constitute a violation of any law, rule or regulation.

The same conclusion should be reached in the instant case. It is the prerogative of the Rumson-Fair Haven School Board to establish a 3.5 GPA as the cut-off for invitation to apply to the local NHS chapter. It is further the prerogative of the Board to calculate student's GPAs to the second decimal place. Again, there is no basis for compelling the Board to "round" GPAs for the purposes of determining NHS invitees. No action of the Board in this matter can be considered arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable, nor can any of the Board's practices in this area be considered a violation of any law, rule or regulation. "While the guidelines may be considered stringent, there has been no showing that they are improper." Moore, supra, 1975 S.L.D. at 295 (upholding local guideline regarding "scholarship" component that provided "[a]ny student dropping a subject shall be ineligible in the National Honor Society.")

To fully support the reasonableness of the decision, one finds oneself almost inevitably seeking analogies outside of the academic world. There are minimum requirements for much of what one wishes to do in life. Obviously sports is a clear illustration. If Sammy Sousa were to hit a baseball 700 feet that was 1 centimeter foul, the umpire would not "round off" the centimeter to make it a home run because the ball was hit. It is foul whether its 1 centimeter foul or 1 mile foul. This proposition is true in all aspects of life. There is always someone who is going to be the first person not admitted to something because of a limitation. There is always someone who fails to get into a concert because he, or she, failed to purchase the ticket for the last seat or standing room area. There is always going to be someone who was the last person on a college admission waiting list who did not get in. Of course it is to that last person that the injustice of a minimum requirement, which cannot be rounded-off, is the most painful. That is life. It's been my experience, however, that in the end these kinds of rejections or defeats have a tendency, by themselves, of being "rounded-off." People often (not necessarily always) will just as often get in "under the wire" as they will just fail to get in. Certainly one would hope, and expect, that this would be true for the petitioner, particularly in respect to her accomplishments at college. As I indicated to L.B., at the conclusion of the hearing, bringing home a Nobel Prize and showing it to the Superintendent reminding him of the District's decision to deny her eligibility would be sweet justice. My sense is the Superintendent and the District would be thrilled. Michael Jordan did not make the initial cut on his high school basketball team.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate, by a preponderance of the relevant credible evidence, that the determination of respondent District, not to round-off a GPA from anything below 3.5 for purposes of eligibility to membership in NHS, was arbitrary or capricious. It is reasonable and fair. Whether that reasonableness and fairness would have obtained greater clarity, had the GPA requirement read 3.50 rather than 3.5, is left open to speculation.

Accordingly, and based upon the foregoing, it is ORDERED that the petitioner's appeal of her denial of eligibility for consideration for NHS admission based upon the scholastic GPA requirement be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

Petitioning child study team members, tenured and nontenured, alleged respondent Board and Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (ESC) violated their tenure and seniority rights when the Board eliminated their positions and entered into a contract with the ESC to obtain basic child study team services. Petitioners alleged if the Board's action was proper then they were entitled to employment with the ESC as tenured employees protected under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

Citing the court's language in Vicenzino, the ALJ determined that a local board which acts in good faith to eliminate its CST(s) for reasons of economy may join with one or more boards of education or State agencies to provide basic CST services, including an ESC. (N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1 (a)1; N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1) Citing the Commissioner's 1999 decision in Arlene Miller, which is on appeal to the State Board of Education, the ALJ determined that the ESC did not take over or in any way replace the operation of any program of special education operated by the Board. Therefore, since the protection afforded by the statutes are accorded to employees of a "school" previously operated, and since it can hardly be said that the Board or any of its educational programs were "abolished," the ALJ concluded that neither N.J.S.A. 18A:28-16 nor N.J.S.A. 18A:6-31.3 afforded any protection to petitioners. Petitioners' claims with respect to issues 1,2, and 3 of the matter were dismissed.

Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision, essentially for the reasons stated therein, and emphasized that the factual circumstances in the present matter were in sharp contrast with those in the Shelko and Stuermer because the Board did not discontinue the operation of child study team services (CST) and it remains legally responsible for such services to Lakewood students. The Board has merely chosen to provide the CST services through a joint agreement, rather than through its own employees, an arrangement it could alter at any time in the future by employing its own CST members, which would trigger petitioners' tenure and seniority rights, or by entering into a joint agreement with another public agency.

Thomas E. Monahan, Esq., for respondent Board of Education of Lakewood (Gilmore & Monahan, attorneys)

J. Peter Sokol, Esq., for respondent Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

Record Closed: May 17, 2000 Decided: November 16, 2000*

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

These matters commenced on July 6, 1999, when the above-named petitioners filed petitions of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board of Education of Lakewood (EDU 6329-99) and the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (EDU 6330-99) had violated their tenure and seniority rights. An answer on behalf of the Lakewood Board of Education was filed on July 27, 1999. An answer on behalf of the Monmouth-Ocean Education Services Commission was filed on July 29, 1999, and on August 5, 1999, both files were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on October 20, 1999, by telephone conference call and the prehearing order, which was entered as a result thereof on October 22, 1999, consolidated the matters for disposition. The prehearing order also listed the following issues for determination:

* Extensions of time for issuing the initial decision were requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A.52:14B-10c.

1. May a local board of education eliminate all of the positions on its own child study team and enter into a contract with an educational services commission to obtain basic child study team services without violating N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b)?

2. If the answer to the previous question is yes, does N.J.S.A. 18A:28-16 entitle petitioners to employment with the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission as tenured employees protected under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10?

3. What are the appropriate remedies, if any?

4. Have the actions of the Board of Education of Lakewood impermissibly affected the provision of thorough and efficient educational services?

5. Do the petitioners have standing to raise the previous issue?

A schedule for submissions for cross-motions for summary decision concerning issues 1, 2 and 3 was established. The prehearing order provided that issues 4 and 5 would be addressed, if necessary, after issues 1, 2 and 3 had been resolved.

Cross-motions for summary decision were received on January 21, 2000. Responding papers on behalf of the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission were received on March 1, 2000. Responding papers on behalf of petitioners were received on March 8, 2000. Oral argument was conducted by telephone conference call on May 17, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of the issues to be addressed herein are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Prior to June 30, 1999, each of the petitioners was employed by respondent Lakewood Board of Education (hereinafter Lakewood) as either a social worker, a learning disabilities teacher consultant or a psychologist, all child study team members. Petitioners Anders, Filkin, Lukacs, Stanley Mandel, McGrath, Musica, Pigut, Shupe, Smith and Trabal, are all tenured teaching staff members. Petitioners Gabriel, Elissa Mandel and Corinne Murphy, were non-tenured teaching staff members. On or about May 18, 1999, Lakewood advised the petitioners that their employment with the district would be terminated, effective June 30, 1999. The tenured teaching staff members were advised that their positions were being eliminated in accordance with a reduction in force pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 for economic reasons. Although no dollar figures have been specified, petitioners do not dispute that Lakewood's motivation was economy. Lakewood had made a determination to eliminate all four full-time child study teams within the district; by agreement dated June 14, 1999, Lakewood entered into a contract with the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (hereinafter sometimes MOESC) to provide the services of three full-time child study teams which would perform the duties and functions previously performed by the four in-district teams. Petitioners Anders, Filkin, McGrath and Shupe were reassigned to other teaching positions within their tenure and seniority rights. All tenured teaching staff members were placed upon a preferred eligibility list for any future vacancies in positions to which their tenure and seniority rights would entitle them. Non-tenured teaching staff members Elissa Mandel and Mary Louise Smith applied to respondent MOESC and were hired. In July 1999, the petitioners filed the within actions alleging that the respondents' actions had violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b), N.J.S.A. 18A:28-16 and their tenure and seniority rights.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, the parties have stipulated the facts relevant to the first three issues. Accordingly, there are no material facts in dispute and these matters are ripe for summary decision on these issues.

Most of the arguments advanced by petitioners herein have been considered by the courts and/or the Commissioner in the context of different fact patterns. In Impey v. Bd. of Educ., 273 N.J. Super. 429 (App. Div. 1994), aff'd 142 N.J. 388 (1995), the court rejected the argument that Viemeister v. Prospect Bd. of Educ., 5 N.J. Super. 215, 218 (App. Div. 1949), prevented a local board of education from abolishing the position of a tenured Speech Correctionist and simultaneously contracting with an Educational Services Commission to provide the speech correction services previously provided by the tenured teaching staff member. In the Appellate Division opinion Judge Skillman explained:

> The Board's decision to contract with an ESC to provide speech correction services is significantly different from the administrative action involved in Viemeister v. Board of Educ. of Prospect Park, 5 N.J. Super. 215, 68 *A.*2d 768 (App. Div. 1949), in which a local board abolished the position of school principal, terminated the incumbent, and established a position of "teaching principal" which it appointed one of the school's teachers to fill. In affirming the State Board's decision invalidating the abolition of the position of school principal, we stated:
> > The fact that the formal resolutions adopted by the Board speak in terms of abolition of the position of principal and creation of a new position of "teaching principal," which finds no recognition in the tenure statutes, does not appear to be significant. We look to the substance rather than the form and, in substance; the principalship was continued but transferred to [the newly appointed "teaching principal"]. Id. at 218, 68 *A*2d 768.
>
> Therefore, while Viemeister involved the re-titling of the position of principal in order to remove a tenured incumbent, this case involves a statutorily authorized administrative change in the method of providing an educational service for the sole purpose of saving money.
> In sum, a local board has the authority both to contract with an ESC to provide educational services for the handicapped and to abolish a teaching position "for reasons of economy." We are satisfied that the Board's decision to contract with the Monmouth County ESC to provide speech correction services and its consequent abolition of appellant's tenured position constituted a proper exercise of these statutory powers. 273 N.J. Super. at 434-435.

Judge Skillman's opinion does not mention the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) which existed at the time period in issue and which provided:

> A child study team shall consist of a school psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher-consultant and a school social worker. For pupils ages three to five, the study team shall include a speech correctionist or speech-language specialist. All members of the child study team shall be employees of a district board of education, have an identifiable, apportioned commitment to the > local school district and shall be available during the hours pupils are in attendance.

The Supreme Court in its opinion, however, rejected petitioner's claim that the replacement of her tenured position by the Educational Services Commission, consisting of non-district personnel, violated the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), agreeing with the ALJ, the Commissioner and the State Board of Education, who had determined that Ms. Impey, who served a K through 8 school, was not a member of "the basic child study team" referred to in the regulation. The Supreme Court also cited N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, which defines the basic child study team as consisting of a school psychologist, a learning disability teacher consultant and a school social worker.

Whether the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), now recodified and appearing substantially the same at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b), prohibit replacement of the entire basic child study team by Educational Services Commission personnel, was addressed recently in Vicenzino v. Bedminster Bd. of Educ., 312 N.J. Super. 243 (App. Div. 1998). In that case the Appellate Division affirmed the action of the Commissioner of Education in directing the Bedminster board to reinstate petitioner Marilyn Vicenzino to her school social worker position. The court rejected the arguments of the Bedminster Board of Education that it had rightfully eliminated petitioner's position pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9* and that it was authorized to provide the child study team services previously provided by her through the county educational services commission instead, essentially for the reasons expressed by the administrative law judge in his written opinion (97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 356).

* That statutory provision authorizes reductions in force for economic reasons or other good cause:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions of reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

After reviewing each of the cases cited by petitioner Vicenzino, the same cases cited by petitioners in the within matter, Administrative Law Judge Masin concluded:

> While the law would permit Bedminster to abolish its CST entirely if it entered into a proper multi-district arrangement for such services, on the undisputed facts of this case, which involves the complete abolition of only the social worker position in the district, with the retention of the board employed psychologist and LDTC, and ESC hired as outside contractor, and a significant amount of work assigned to that contractor, the case appears to be very much akin to Cochran and Elson. Unless the Supreme Court's decision in Impey represents an implied precedent for the termination of the position of one (or two) of the three mandated members of the basic CST and the contracting out of the work associated with only those positions, (which would make the requirement of, and the protections inherent in, N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3 tenuous at best and would authorize the splitting up of the basic team members amongst different employers, quite possible raising significant practical concerns in regard to management and supervision of the "split" team) there appears to be no case supporting the Bedminster Board's action. Impey did not involve a basic team member. The court did not address the validity of N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(a). While it is quite conceivable that Impey's support for legitimate, good faith economic based decisions involving the abolition of positions and the contracting of work with the expectation of savings could be extended to permit such actions in regard to the members of the basic CST, as the regulations now stand, in those instances where a district chooses to maintain its own CST the school social worker, the school psychologist and the LDTC must be employees of the district and cannot be outside contractors. 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 360.

The Appellate Division concurred with Judge Masin's conclusions, explaining:

> Interpreting these requirements in pari materia with a district board of education's authority to eliminate a position for economic reasons, under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, we conclude that where a board establishes a CST with employees of the district, the board may not eliminate one of those positions and contract out for those services. To be sure, if the Board were in good faith to eliminate the CST for reasons of economy and instead, "join with one or more boards of education or State agencies [to] provide for basic [CST] services," under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, that would be an appropriate decision to make. In that event, the board of education would have complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

> However, so long as the board elects to maintain its own CST, consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), each basic member, consisting of psychologists, learning disability specialists, and social workers, "shall be employees of a district board of education." Consequently, the board's decision to abolish petitioner's social worker position while maintaining the CST and contracting outside to replace petitioner's position, did not comply with N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1.
> We affirm substantially for the reasons set forth in the ALJ's initial decision of December 19, 1996. 312 N.J. Super. at 250-251.

Petitioners herein correctly point out that the comments in the ALJ's Vicenzino opinion and in the opinion of the Appellate Division concerning abolition of the positions of all child study team members employed by a local board are technically dicta because those were not the facts in the Vicenzino case; they are the facts in the within matter, however, and for the following reasons I CONCLUDE that those opinions should apply to determine the outcome in the within matter.

The only difference between the abolition of the tenured teaching staff position in Impey, supra, and the abolition of the tenured teaching staff members' positions in the within matter is the existence of the State Board of Education regulation N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b), quoted hereinabove. The Supreme Court determined that the State Board regulation did not apply in that matter because Gillian Impey taught in a school for pupils in grades K through 8 and accordingly, as a speech correctionist she was not a member of the basic child study team. Since that time N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) has been recodified as the result of a major reorganization and recodification of the Special Education Rules and now appears at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1 in a substantially similar, but slightly different form:

> Child study team members shall include a school psychologist, a learning disabilities teacher-consultant and a school social worker. All child study team members shall be employees of a district board of education, have an identifiable, apportioned time commitment to the local school district and shall be available during the hours students are in attendance.

Petitioners herein have argued that the language of N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, which requires each board of education "separately or jointly with one or more boards of education or State agencies" to provide for basic child study team services, does not authorize a board of education to provide basic child study team services solely through an education services commission because an educational services commission is neither a "board of education" nor a "State agency." Definitionally, however, an educational services commission is a public agency established pursuant to provisions of State statute whenever five or more boards of education in any county or in any two or more counties and the Commissioner seek and receive permission from the State Board of Education to establish such a commission. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-52. Educational services commissions are established specifically for the purpose of providing to public school districts "such educational and administrative services as may be authorized pursuant to rules of the State Board of Education." N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51. If there had been any question concerning the authorization of boards of education to provide basic child study team services through an educational services commission, that question was definitively resolved with the adoption in 1998 of the State Board Rule N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1, which provides in pertinent part:

> (a) Each district board of education, independently or through joint agreements, shall employ child study teams, speech correctionists or speech-language specialists and other school personnel in numbers sufficient to ensure provision of required programs and services pursuant to this chapter.
> 1. Joint agreements for child study team services may be entered into with local education agencies including other local school districts, educational services commissions, jointure commissions and county special services school districts.

Although, as noted by Lakewood in its cross-motion for summary decision, the provisions of 6A:14-5.1(a) might on their face seem inconsistent with those of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b), I am not persuaded by petitioners' argument that the joint agreements referred to in the last quoted regulation relate only to supplementing services provided by local district employees. Regulatory language which refers to supplementing existing local district services by subcontract relates only to private clinics and agencies approved by the Department of Education. See N.J.A.C. 6A:14-5.1 subsection (c)1ii. The State Board of Education recently confirmed this interpretation in their opinion rendered on May 3, 2000 in Arlene Miller v. Leo F. Klagholz, and Board of Ed. of the Township of New Hanover, State Board Number 93-96. In that case Arlene Miller had been employed as a school psychologist by the Board of Education of the Township of New Hanover and was a member of the board's basic child study team. She was advised that her tenured position was being abolished, effective June 30, 1996, pursuant to a reduction in force. The Board then applied for and received a "waiver" from the Commissioner of Education of the provisions requiring boards to employ basic child study team members so as to be permitted to provide all basic child study team services by contracting with a private vendor. The State Board concluded that basic child study team services required by N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 cannot be provided by a district solely through a contractual arrangement with a private vendor. The State Board explained:

> Quite simply, the clear and unambiguous language of the applicable statutes precludes a district from providing basic child study team services solely by contracting with a private vendor. In re Jamesburg High School Closing, supra. As set forth above, N.J.S.A. 16A:46-5.1 provides the authority under which district boards must provide basic child study team services, and the terms of that statute require that such services must be provided through its own employees, in combination with another board of education, or by another public entity. See Impey v. Board of Educ of Borough of Shrewsbury, 142 N.J. 388 (1995); Vincenzino v. Bedminster Twp. Bd. of Educ., 312 N.J. Super. 243 (App. Div. 1998). Since the Legislature did not authorize the provision of basic child study team services through a contract with a private vendor, we cannot contradict the terms of the statute by attempting to provide such authority by waiving the administrative regulations which purport to implement the statute.
> We therefore declare the waiver in question to be valid.

The statutory and regulatory provisions permitting a board of education to provide basic child study team services through joint agreements with local education agencies, including educational services commissions, would be rendered meaningless if districts which had originally opted to employ their own child study team members were required to continue that arrangement until such time as any tenured members of the basic team resigned or retired. Although the purpose of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-3.1(b) is not entirely clear, most probably it is to ensure that basic child study team services will be provided by public employees of one local education agency to avoid supervisory and administrative difficulties which would be presented by "split teams" as opined by Judge Masin in is Vicenzino opinion.* The purpose of N.J.A.C. 6A:14-

* It may, or may not, be of any legal significance, but the language of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1 (now 6A:14-3.1) at the times relevant in Cochran v. Watchung Hills Regional High School Board of Education, 1985 S.L.D. 1878, which language was then codified at N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3, said: "All members of the basic child study team shall be employees of the local board of education . . ." In a 1984 recodification, the State Board changed the language to "All members of the child study team shall be employess of a district board of education. . ." The 1984 revision and recodification also eliminated the following language which had appeared at N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.3(f):

> Prior approval by the Office of the County Superintendent of Schools and the Bureau of Special Education and Pupil Personnel Services shall be obtained for the purchase by any local school district of services of eligible, approved diagnostic clinics; agencies; or professionals in private practice representing a basic child study team discipline to supplement members of the basic child study team. When such approval is granted to a local school district for the purchase of external diagnostic or professional services, the local school district's basic child study team shall develop and coordinate the appropriate individualized education program.

It was this pre-1984 language to which the State Board decision in Cochran referred and presumably the same regulatory language which was mentioned in passing in the Supreme Court's Impey opinion at 399 where it describes the decision as "adopting Commissioner of Education's determination that reduction of child study team from full-time to part-time violated N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 because part-time services would be inadequate, especially in light of then-current statutory (sic) requirement that child study team services may only be supplemented."

The agency with whom the board of education contracted for basic child study team services in Elson v. Board of Education of the Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical Schools, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 229, was not a public agency, but an outside private child study team. Accordingly, although it is not possible to reconcile all of the reasoning applied in Cochran and Elson with the reasoning and conclusions reached in Vicenzino, supra, and herein, nevertheless the within reasoning and conclusions would support the results reached in Cochran and Elson.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MONMOUTH-OCEAN EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, MONMOUTH AND OCEAN COUNTIES,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions, and the Lakewood Board of Education's (Board) and the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission's (MOESC) replies thereto were filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Initially, petitioners argue that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) failed to properly consider the tenure rights of the affected child study team (CST) members pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, reiterating those legal arguments previously presented to and considered by the ALJ. Additionally, they argue that the ALJ erred in determining that the dicta in Vicenzino, supra, should apply in the instant matter. The portion of the court decision under contention reads in pertinent part: "To be sure, if the Board were [to act] in good faith to eliminate the CST for reasons of economy and instead, 'join with one or more boards of education or State agencies [to] provide for basic [CST] services,' under N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1, that would be an appropriate decision to make. In that event, the board would have complied with N.J.S.A. 18A:46-5.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9." (Vicenzino at 250)

Petitioners urge that all the decisions they cite emphasize the fundamental importance of recognizing tenure entitlements of educational services personnel, rights which would effectively be rendered a nullity if at any time a tenured CST member could be terminated from his or her position, because a local board of education sought to save money by providing the same CST services exclusively through a subcontracting arrangement with an educational services commission (ESC). They aver:

> It is respectfully submitted that the [ALJ] erred in concluding that the [Board] could ignore the tenure rights of the ten (10) Petitioners who had acquired tenure as Core Child Study Team members within the Lakewood School District. No statute or regulation exists that permits a local Board of Education to terminate the employment of a tenured teaching staff member, purportedly pursuant to a reduction in force, when the job duties and responsibilities of that position are to be filled by another (non-tenured) public employee who just happens to cost less!
> It is respectfully submitted that the adoption of the Initial Decision would render any tenure protections of Core Child Study Team members (i.e. School Psychologists, Social Workers, and Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultants) a nullity since these Child Study Team members would essentially have no job security knowing that they could be replaced at any time by a less expensive provider of Child Study Team services. How would the status of tenured Child Study Team members now differ from the status of "employees at will" in the private sector if they can be terminated > at any time, despite rendering exemplary service, solely due to a local Board of Education's desire to hire cheaper "out of district" public employees to perform their important Child Study Team duties and responsibilities? (emphasis in text) (Petitioners' Exceptions at 19-20)

Petitioners' second exception contends that the ALJ erred in concluding that the New Jersey Supreme Court's decision in Impey, supra, provided legal justification for the Board's decision herein to terminate the employment of the affected CST members. More specifically, they except to the ALJ's conclusion that "the Impey decision authorizes boards for reason of economy to eliminate tenured child study team members and replace them with educational service commission employees. In the within matter the tenured positions have, in fact, been eliminated. No employee of the Lakewood Board of Education is performing the duties previously performed by the tenured child study team members." (Initial Decision at 13) Of this, petitioners state:

> As recognized by [the ALJ] earlier in [the Initial Decision] the key factual finding of the Supreme Court in the Impey case related to the Supreme Court's decision that Gillian Impey, as a Speech Correctionist, was not a member of the basic or Core [CST] and therefore could not avail herself of the protections of N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1(b) (now codified at N.J.A.C. 6A:14-[1.1 et seq.]) which stated, in part, that "all [CST] members shall be employees of a district Board of Education...".
> It is submitted that, if the Shrewsbury Board of Education in the Impey case had attempted to replace a school Social Worker, a School Psychologist, or Learning Disabilities Teacher Consultant employed within the Shrewsbury School District, or, in fact, had determined to eliminate the District's entire in-district Child Study Team the Supreme Court would have determined that the Board of Education's actions were in violation of the prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and N.J.A.C. 6:28-3.1 (b)! Why else would the Supreme Court in Impey have cited Cochrane/Watchung Hills case with approval?
> In light of the above, it is respectfully submitted that [the ALJ]'s determination that the Supreme Court's decision in Impey legitimized the Board of Education's determination to eliminate all of the Core Child Study Teams within the Lakewood School District was unfounded and ignored the clear and unequivocal

Lastly, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ's legal analysis and conclusions rejecting petitioners' contention that they are entitled to the continued employment rights set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-16 because the CST services in the Lakewood School District were taken over by the MOESC. As was held in the Commissioner's 1999 decision in Miller,[1] the elimination of a district's CST(s) by a board of education and its contracting of CST services with an ESC does not constitute the takeover by, or the transfer of, an educational program to an ESC and is, thus, distinguishable from the factual circumstances in Shelko, supra, and Stuermer, supra.

In Shelko, supra, the Ewing Board of Education ceased to operate a countywide preschool handicapped program (Project Child), while the board in Stuermer, supra ceased to operate a class for the deaf. When the county special services district (CSSD) in each matter assumed responsibility for the program, the local board retained no legal responsibility for or governance over the program it formerly operated. The programs in their entirety were absorbed by the countywide school districts. This is in stark contrast with the factual circumstances in the instant matter and in the 1999 Miller Commissioner decision, because in these two matters, the local boards of education have not ceased or discontinued their responsibilities for and governance over the provision of CST services to their students. Rather, the New Hanover and Lakewood Boards remain legally responsible for the CST services provided to their student population and those services remain a part of the Boards' overall special education programs and services. The New Hanover and Lakewood Boards have merely chosen to secure CST services jointly through an ESC, instead of separately by employing the CST themselves. Moreover, as expressed in the Commissioner's 1999 Miller decision and by the ALJ herein, the board of education may at any time choose to provide the CST services through its own employees again, in which case petitioners' tenure and seniority rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-12 would be triggered, or through another type of joint agreement with one or more public educational agencies authorized by statute or State Board regulation.

[1] In this matter, the New Hanover Board of Education eliminated its CST and entered into a contract with the Burlington County Educational Services Commission, initially for CST evaluations, and then, as amended by contract in December 1997, for all CST services, not just evaluations. Miller, a part-time tenured school psychologist, was the only CST member to file an appeal of the New Hanover Board's action.

Consequently, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ's legal analysis of petitioners' claims under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-16, found on pages 13-15 of the Initial Decision, and with her conclusion that the Commissioner's holding in the 1999 Miller case is applicable to the instant matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons well-stated by the ALJ in the Initial Decision,[2] petitioners' claims with respect to issues 1, 2 and 3 in this matter are hereby dismissed.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 2, 2000

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Klausner & Hunter (Stephen B. Hunter, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood, Gilmore & Monahan (Thomas E. Monahan, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission, McOmber & McOmber (J. Peter Sokol, Esq., of Counsel)

The appellants, child study team members, alleged, inter alia, that the Board of Education of the Township of Lakewood (hereinafter "Board") and the Monmouth-Ocean Educational Services Commission (hereinafter "ESC") had violated their tenure and seniority rights when the Board eliminated their positions and entered into a contract with the ESC in June 1999 to provide basic child study team services to the district's students. On January 2, 2000, the Commissioner of Education adopted the Administrative Law Judge's "Partial Decision" and dismissed the appellants' claim that their tenure and seniority rights had been violated.

The appellants filed the instant appeal from that determination to the State Board.

On November 21, 2001, the counsel for the appellants submitted a "Memorandum of Agreement for Recall of Child Study Teams," which was signed by representatives of the Board and the Lakewood Education Association, as a proposed settlement of this matter. Counsel indicated that, consistent with that agreement, the appellants were "withdraw[ing] the pending appeal in the above-captioned consolidated matters." The agreement provides that the Board would attempt to recall members of the child study team whose positions had been abolished in 1999 when it contracted with the ESC.

We have reviewed the proposed settlement and find it to be in accord with the principles expressed in Cardonick v. Board of Education of the Borough of Brooklawn, decided by the State Board of Education, April 6, 1983. Accordingly, we approve the proposed settlement in this matter to the extent that it represents a settlement of the appellants' claims against the Board. Although the ESC is not a party to the proposed settlement, we note that the appellants have requested to withdraw their appeal in its entirety. The appellants' appeal against the ESC is therefore withdrawn, and the record in this matter is closed.

Kathleen A. Dietz abstained.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning uncle challenged the Board's residency determination that W.C., his nephew from Haiti, was not entitled to a free public education in the District.

The ALJ determined that petitioner did not demonstrate economic or family hardship and did not meet the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1). The ALJ ordered petitioner to pay the District $6,912.71 for the cost of providing a public education to W.C. during the 1999-2000 school year and $45.61 per day for the 2000-2001 school year.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own and directed petitioner to reimburse the Board the tuition due.

S.M., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, W.C.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE,

Respondent.

S.M., on behalf of minor child, W.C., petitioner, pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: October 12, 2000 Decided: November 20, 2000

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On September 17, 1999, S.M. (petitioner) filed a letter petition with the State Department of Education (DOE) contesting a decision by the Township of West Orange Board of Education (respondent) that W.C. was not entitled to a free public education in West Orange. Respondent filed an answer with the DOE on October 7, 1999, incorporating a claim for tuition reimbursement. The DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on October 15, 1999, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was conducted on October 12, 2000, on which date the record was closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Petitioner testified regarding the circumstances relevant to placement of W.C. in respondent's school district. Josefa Lopez (Lopez) testified to some extent in that respect on behalf of respondent and also testified regarding respondent's calculation of tuition reimbursement which she believes is due to respondent. The material facts are not in dispute.

Based upon a review of the entire record, I FIND the following to be facts.

N.C. is W.C.'s mother. Petitioner is W.C.'s uncle and is married to N.C.'s sister. Petitioner and his wife reside in West Orange, New Jersey. W.C. is eleven years old. N.C. has no other children.

Until approximately the summer of 1999, W.C. resided in Haiti with his mother. N.C. owned and operated a restaurant in Haiti and supported her son. For approximately four or five years, including during 1999, W.C. spent the summers with petitioner and his wife. In August 1999, N.C., as well as petitioner, and, apparently, his wife, decided that W.C. should remain with his aunt and uncle because the situation in Haiti was "very bad" and because they believed that he would receive a better education in the United States. (Petitioner's testimony on cross-examination.)

In approximately August 1999, N.C., while still in Haiti, executed an Affidavit of Parent, stating, in part, that she was not capable of supporting or providing care for W.C. because:

> [W.] is my only child and he is the priority in my life. I want him to have a good education, go to a better school where they can give him skills to be a real man and get a better future. My country is not actually secure and I am sure he won't get such education. So, I decide to let him stay in West Orange for his well-being.

On September 2, 1999, petitioner executed an Affidavit for Non-resident Pupil Enrollment in support of an application to enroll W.C. in the public schools of West Orange pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1. The affidavit stated, in part, that W.C. was residing with petitioner, that petitioner would assume all personal obligations for W.C. relative to school requirements, and that petitioner had never declared W.C., and would not do so in that year, as a dependent for federal income tax purposes. The affidavit also stated that W.C. was residing with petitioner because > [h]is mother is single parent and Haiti is not safe; this situation goes wpost [sic] from day to day. His mother wants better education for him.

On September 2, 1999, petitioner went to respondent's offices to register W.C. in respondent's school district. He met with Lopez and gave her the executed Affidavit for Non-resident Pupil Enrollment and Affidavit of Parent. He provided no other information regarding W.C.'s status.

Lopez subsequently recommended that respondent deny registration on the basis that there was no demonstration of an economic or family hardship. Respondent subsequently determined to deny registration, and petitioner appealed that decision to the DOE.

Petitioner again spoke with Lopez and asked what steps he could take to have registration approved by respondent. Lopez told him that he had to demonstrate an economic or family hardship and suggested that one way of doing so would be for him to obtain custody of W.C. Petitioner attempted to initiate proceedings to obtain custody of W.C. in approximately September or October 1999 but, to his understanding, was advised that he could not do so until W.C. had been in the United States for at least six months. Petitioner did not subsequently attempt to obtain custody of W.C.

W.C. enrolled in respondent's district, pending a resolution of petitioner's appeal to the DOE, in October 1999. He attended the St. Cloud Elementary School (St. Cloud) through the balance of the 1999-2000 school year, a total of 157 days. W.C. has been attending the Roosevelt Middle School (Roosevelt), in respondent's district, during the 2000-2001 school year. He commenced attending that school on the first day of the school year, September 6, 2000, and was a student in that school as of October 12, 2000.

In the interim, in approximately late 1999, N.C. immigrated to the United States and was married. Her husband, who was born in the United States, is an American citizen and is employed. N.C. and her husband reside in Hempstead, Long Island (Hempstead), in the state of New York. N.C. is not yet employed because of her immigration status. N.C. did not arrange for her son to live with her and her husband because of her belief, apparently shared by petitioner, that the schools in West Orange are "better" than those in Hempstead. (Petitioner's testimony on cross-examination.) Petitioner anticipates that W.C. will move to Hempstead to live with N.C. and her husband at some point.

The fees charged by respondent for out-of-district elementary students and middle school students are based upon respondent's per-pupil spending in each category. The applicable per diem elementary school rate for the 1999-2000 school year was $44.03. Based on that rate and the fact that W.C. attended St. Cloud for 157 days, Lopez calculated that petitioner is liable to respondent for a total of $6,912.71 for the 1999-2000 school year. The per diem rate for middle school students for the 2000-2001 school year is $45.61. Based on that rate and the fact that W.C. commenced attending Roosevelt on September 6, 2000, Lopez calculated that petitioner is liable to respondent for a total of $1,185.86 for W.C.'s attendance at Roosevelt through October 12, 2000. Lopez therefore calculated that petitioner is liable to respondent for a total of $8,098.57, as of October 12, 2000.

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to hear and determine controversies and disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 addresses residence requirements relative to attendance in local school districts.

Public schools are required to provide a free education to individuals between the ages of five and twenty years in certain circumstances, including to individuals who are domiciled within the school district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a).

Local school districts must also provide a free education to any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the district and supported by such other person gratis as if he/she were such other person's own child, upon the filing by that person with the board of education of a sworn statement. Such statement shall, if so required by the board, state that he/she is domiciled within the district and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school requirements. The sworn statement must also state that he/she intends to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term. A copy of certain documents regarding residency shall also be filed. The parent/guardian shall file with the board of education a sworn statement that he/she is incapable of supporting or providing care for the child because of a family or economic hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely to receive a free public education therein. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation supporting the validity of the sworn statements. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

If in the board's judgment the evidence does not support the validity of a resident's claim, the board may deny admission to the child. The resident may contest such a decision to the Commissioner and shall be entitled to a hearing on the validity of the claim. The resident shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the statutory criteria. No child shall be denied admission during the pendency of such proceedings. If the child is then currently enrolled in the district, he/she shall not be removed during the period in which the resident may contest the board's decision nor during the pendency of the proceedings before the Commissioner. If in the judgment of the Commissioner the evidence does not support the resident's claim, the Commissioner shall assess tuition for the student, prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the district. Ibid.

As respondent argued, petitioner did not present evidence of an economic or family hardship. He testified generally that the situation in Haiti was unsafe and that school curricula were insufficient, focusing only on "politics." However, he did not reference any facts specific to N.C. and W.C., and the evidence supports a determination that hardship was not established. N.C., as found, operated a restaurant in Haiti and supported her son. In addition, hardship clearly has not existed since N.C.'s immigration to the United States and her marriage. The record supports a conclusion that W.C. has remained with his aunt and uncle because of a determination by them, as well as his mother, that schools in West Orange are in some manner "better" that those in Hempstead, N.Y.

I am persuaded that petitioner did not demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that W.C. is entitled to a free public education in respondent's school district. In addition, respondent's calculation of the monies owed to it for reimbursement relative to W.C.'s education is reasonable and consistent with the applicable statutory provisions. In the absence of evidence regarding payment schedules, I am persuaded that sixty days is a reasonable deadline for the payment of the amount in question. Finally, respondent's calculation of tuition due for the 2000-2001 school year should be adjusted to reflect any continued attendance by W.C. in respondent's school district subsequent to October 12, 2000, through the date of the final administrative decision in this case.

CONCLUSIONS

I CONCLUDE that petitioner did not demonstrate, by a preponderance of the credible evidence, that W.C. is entitled to a free public education in respondent's school district; that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner in the amount of $6,912.71 for the cost of providing a public education to W.C. at St. Cloud during the 1999-2000 school year; that respondent is entitled to reimbursement from petitioner in the amount of $1,185.86 for the cost of providing a public education to W.C. at Roosevelt for the period from September 6, 2000, through October 12, 2000; that the latter figure should be increased to reflect any attendance by W.C. in respondent's school district subsequent to October 12, 2000, through the date of the final administrative decision in this case; and that the monies in question should be paid to respondent within sixty days of the effective date of this decision, unless an alternative payment schedule is agreed to by the parties.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that the petition filed by petitioner with the DOE on September 17, 1999, be and is hereby DISMISSED; that petitioner reimburse respondent $6,912.71 for W.C.'s attendance in respondent's school district during the 1999-2000 school year; that petitioner reimburse respondent $1,185.86 for W.C.'s attendance in respondent's school district for the period from September 6, 2000, through October 12, 2000; that the latter figure be increased to reflect any attendance by W.C. in respondent's school district subsequent to October 12, 2000, through the date of the final administrative decision in this case; and that petitioner reimburse respondent the amounts in question within sixty days of the effective date of this decision, unless an alternative payment schedule is agreed to by the parties.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) finding that petitioner has failed to prove that W.C. is entitled to a free public education in respondent's District.[1] Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein, and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the Commissioner directs that petitioner reimburse the Board for tuition in the amount of $6,912.71 for the 1999-

[1] Notwithstanding this determination, the Commissioner notes with concern the ALJ's finding that "[Josefa] Lopez told [petitioner] that he had to demonstrate an economic or family hardship and suggested that one way of doing so would be for him to obtain custody of W.C." (Initial Decision at 3) As to such representations made by local boards and district staff, the Commissioner cautions that: "although a local board should offer, where appropriate, accurate information about the enabling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 et seq., its related policies, and the consequences of noncompliance, *it is not the role of a local board to provide legal advice to parents, guardians and residents regarding how they may constitute their families and relationships in order to effectuate compliance with the residency law, particularly where the advice may carry legal consequences beyond those which the parties may presently anticipate." SYNOPSIS

Petitioning parents challenged the Board's decision to expel H.R. for allegedly possessing a weapon (miniature baseball bat). Petitioners asserted that the Commissioner and State Board violated H.R.'s rights by failing to set uniform standards of suspension and expulsion.

The ALJ dismissed the matter as moot in view of the fact that H.R. was restored as a student in the District, his record was expunged, and petitioners' argument that this case represented a chance to deal with an issue of general public concern was not persuasive.

The Commissioner concurred and adopted the decision as his own.

Record Closed: October 30, 2000 Decided: November 14, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

H.R. was expelled from the Rahway School District by resolution of the respondent Board of Education ("BOE") entered on January 20, 2000. His expulsion was accomplished following a process that began with an incident on October 5, 1999, when H.R. purportedly possessed a "weapon," (described as an 18-inch miniature baseball bat) on school property.[1] The BOE had in place at the time of the incident a so-called "zero tolerance" policy, Policy 5114, which provided that there was "zero tolerance for weapons" and that students found in possession thereof would be scheduled for a superintendent's suspension hearing, which, depending upon the Superintendent's determination of the facts and whether they warranted expulsion, would lead to a BOE expulsion hearing. Importantly, as will be discussed in detail below, while the policy is denominated as a "zero tolerance" policy, it does not mandate expulsion in every instance where a student is determined to have possessed a weapon on school property or at a school sponsored event, but instead states that such possession is "strictly forbidden and may warrant expulsion from school" (emphasis added).

Following his expulsion, H.R.'s parents filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking to appeal the BOE's decision.[2] In their petition they sought declaratory rulings that the BOE's actions had violated H.R.'s constitutional rights. More specifically, they contended that the BOE had violated his right to a through and efficient education under the New Jersey Constitution, Art. VIII, § 4; to procedural due process as guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment to the United State Constitution; to equal protection as guaranteed by the New Jersey Constitution; and that the Board had acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner. In that same petition, the petitioners asserted that the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") and the State Board of Education ("State Board") (these two parties hereinafter referred to as the " state respondents") had failed to set uniform standards to guide local districts in imposing long-term suspensions and expulsions and had thereby allowed the existence of "substantial inequality in educational opportunity both within and between school districts throughout the State," thereby violating H.R.'s right to a through and efficient education as guaranteed by the State Constitution. The Commissioner declared the petition a contested case and transferred it to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL"), pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. Upon receiving the case, and in view of the fact that H.R. is a classified special education student, this judge contacted counsel to discuss whether the case was properly filed as a regular education matter under the ultimate jurisdiction of the Commissioner, or alternatively, should have been filed as a request for a due process hearing, pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA"), 20 U.S.C. §1400-1491, in which case the final administrative decision would be made by the administrative law judge. Counsel for the petitioners specifically advised that, although cognizant of the child's status and the special provisions of statute and regulation governing the disciplinary process for classified students, they nevertheless wanted the matter treated as a regular education proceeding.

Subsequent to these discussions, counsel advised me that the parents had resolved their dispute with the BOE and that the student had been reinstated in the district. Terms of the settlement agreement filed with me include a provision that the suspension and expulsion be expunged from H.R.'s record. See Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal of Claims Against Rahway Board of Education, dated July 20, 2000. Counsel for the petitioners nevertheless advised that they wished to press forward on their petition as it relates to the State respondents. Both parties now seek summary decision as to aspects of the remaining issues.

Motions for Summary Decision

The respondents move to dismiss the petition as moot in view of the fact that H.R. has been restored as a student in the district and his record expunged and the petitioners have advised that they seek no further relief from the BOE. Alternatively, the respondents contend that even if the case is not entirely moot, the constitutional claims against the Commissioner and State Board should not be decided, as their resolution is not necessary since the student is no longer expelled and no remedy is sought against the BOE. The respondents rely upon well established case law in support of the proposition that constitutional claims are not to be decided unless absolutely necessary to the disposition of the case. Finally, the respondents contend that if the case is not moot and the constitutional claims are decided on the merits, the petitioners' constitutional claims are without merit.

The petitioners' cross-move for partial summary decision regarding their claims that the student's rights to equal educational opportunity in student discipline and equal protection of the laws have been denied. They have not moved for summary decision on their challenge that the state's allowance of zero tolerance policies has violated the student's constitutional right to a public education, believing that resolution of this claim will require expert evidence "establishing the lack of effectiveness and counterproductiveness of such policies".

Mootness

This case arose because H.R., a student in the Rahway school district, was expelled from school. When originally filed, the petition sought, in addition to several declaratory rulings, his reinstatement to the educational program from which he was removed and the expungement from his school records of the suspension and expulsion. As a result of the negotiated resolution between the petitioners and the BOE, the reinstatement and expungement have been achieved and no further relief is sought against the BOE. As a result of the resolution of H.R.'s expulsion, any relief granted herein against the State respondents will not effectuate H.R.'s return to school or award him any relief, save a declaration that his rights were violated by the failure of the State respondents to provide the local board with standards. The petitioners argue that while his current situation has been resolved, H.R. is nevertheless entitled to be protected by a ruling in this case from "future unlawful disciplinary action by the Board, or any other school district," to "vindication" of the wrong inflicted upon him by the fact that his right to a public education was severely infringed upon for almost an entire school year and to "a finding that the State violated his constitutional right." To the extent that the case might be deemed moot, they argue that it nevertheless falls within the narrow exception to the mootness doctrine for those cases in which the challenge relates to a matter of public interest, capable of repetition, yet evading review, citing Warnock Automotive v. Treasury Dept., 272 N.J. Super. 450, 453 (App. Div. 1994); New Jersey Division of Youth and Family Services v. J.B., 120 N.J. 112, 118-19 (1990) and J.A. v. Board of Education of South Orange/Maplewood, 318 N.J. Super. 512 (1999). [3]

The Attorney General responds that even as regards the constitutional contentions, the doctrine that these matters should not be decided as academic exercises, but only in real cases or controversies, means that with H.R.'s expulsion resolved and the record of the suspension and expulsion expunged, there are no viable claims to be decided. He disputes the contention that this case involves an issue that readily evades review, noting that there are several cases that have been decided concerning the expulsion of students under so-called "zero tolerance" policies, pointing to M.C. v. Bergenfield Board of Education, EDU 7318-00, Initial Decision, August 18, 2000, and V.A., on behalf of minor child, K.M.A. v. Board of Education of the Borough of [3] In Student Members of Playcrafters v. Bd. of Education, 177 N.J.Super. 66, 73-74 (App. Div. 1981), the court stated the exception differently, finding that the case was of public importance and bound to recur, but without any reference to the "evade review" component.

Collingswood, EDU 2799-99, Initial Decision (February 2, 2000) http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html, adopted, Comm'r (March 20, 2000), adopted, State Bd. (July 5, 2000), http://www.state.nj.us/njded/legal/index.html. Finally, the respondents note that the OAL has no authority to direct the State Board to adopt regulations, or to invalidate state regulations or statutes that establish the framework for discipline.

DISCUSSION

The original challenge to the conduct of the Rahway Board of Education sought to overturn the child's expulsion from school, return him to the district's student roster and expunge his record. The practical effect of the settlement reached between the petitioners and the BOE is that the student is no longer expelled and his record is clear. There is no longer a live controversy regarding the student's ability to attend the district schools, commensurate with the IEP in place. There is no longer any "black mark" in his records concerning this incident. To the extent that the removal of any reference to a disciplinary record arising from this incident serves to vindicate the student's position that he did nothing wrong, he has been so vindicated.

The policy under which H.R. was expelled is denominated a "zero tolerance" policy. However, while the implication of that title might appear to be that any student found in possession of a weapon must, as a matter of policy, be expelled, in fact the actual policy provides for no such definitive outcome. Instead, it first provides that the principal determine if the item in question is a weapon, and if so determined, then for the Superintendent to hold a suspension hearing and to decide, based "on the facts of the case presented to him or her . . . whether or not the charges warrant expulsion." Significantly, even where a weapon is involved, the policy does not necessarily require the extreme sanction of expulsion. Thus, if the Superintendent determines that expulsion is not warranted, he or she then "will determine the consequences of the pupil's actions and the conditions of the pupil's return to school." Only after such a fact based hearing and a decision that expulsion is warranted does the matter proceed to the Board level, where the Board is directed to "determine if the case warrants expulsion . . . based either on their hearing of the case or reading of the written transcript of the hearing." Thus, the policy, while clearly and unequivocally stating that the District has "no tolerance for the presence of weapons or other dangerous objects in school or on school property . . . ," nevertheless provides for a decision as to whether one in possession is to be suspended or expelled, or otherwise sanctioned, if at all. This decision is to be fact-based and, in the case of a possible expulsion, must involve, first, a preliminary determination by the principal as to the nature of the item possessed, second, a determination by the Superintendent as to a possible penalty and whether that might be expulsion, and, third, a final determination by the BOE. Since as written the policy requires a fact based analysis including the right to a hearing before determination of whether any sanction is appropriate, and if so, to what level that sanction should reach, any problem with the policy must be with its application in any given case, and, perhaps, in the broader implications raised herein, about discipline in "similar" cases, district by district, and the role of the State in overseeing the disciplinary process. Given that the petitioners have resolved their dispute with Rahway, the question of how the policy was applied in H.R.'s case is no longer in controversy. To the extent that the petitioners allege that the Commissioner and State Board could be said to have acquiesced in H.R.'s expulsion by their lack of direction and guidance, the return of the student to the district and expungement of the record of his discipline effectively ends any controversy about the State authorities' purported lack of action continuing to affect H.R. This means that the sole remaining contentions are those aimed at the State respondents. While the petition suggests that the focus of the petitioners' objections to the State's conduct, namely its perceived inaction, are directed to a lack of standards for long-term suspensions and expulsions imposed under any policies, the petitioners' brief more directly emphasizes the "zero tolerance" policies in effect in some districts, while also mentioning a lack of standards regarding such matters as the "right to alternative education" and "due process protections."

It is first very important to recognize that the concerns raised by the Education Law Center can be addressed, indeed, in the context of a case now moot are more properly addressed, by way of a petition for rulemaking pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-4 (f). Such a petition could lead to a rulemaking process in which all interested parties could have input in molding any Statewide regulations deemed appropriate to guide local districts in the delicate task of dealing with the range of serious disciplinary matters, often involving safety issues, that plague our schools. The wide-ranging issues and complex considerations that enter into the entire subject of disciplinary policies and the rights of students and parents to safe schools, to due process, to an appropriate learning environment, to alternative education where discipline is properly imposed, and the ultimate responsibility, if any, of the State and/or its districts to provide education for those appropriately found to require exclusion from the normal educational process due to significantly inappropriate conduct, are not simple matters. While I do not mean to imply that I necessarily believe that any such regulations are in fact needed, and it remains to be seen what the position of the appropriate State agencies would be to such a petition, if the petitioners and/or their counsel believe such standards are appropriate, the rulemaking petition is a vehicle to seek such regulation.

If the issues raised by petitioners regarding the State's responsibility in the disciplinary realm are to be initially decided in the context of administrative litigation, such determinations about the constitutional implications of a purported lack of State guidance to districts regarding "zero tolerance" policies and their application are best determined in the context of live controversies about the application of a given policy in a given case, or, alternatively, in a case involving a policy so strict on its face and so devoid of discretion as to raise questions of facial unconstitutionality. The argument that this case represents a chance to deal with an issue of general public concern that arises with regularity yet evades review, is not persuasive. Expulsions unfortunately occur with some regularity, and not all of these are resolved as in this case. Decisions already rendered have considered some of the issues raised here in cases that were clearly not moot, and it is highly likely that other such controversies will arise in the future. V.A. v. Board of Educ., supra.; M.C. v. Bergenfield Board of Educ., supra.; K.M.A. v. Board of Education of Piscataway, supra. While the petitioners have identified a line of cases in which the appellate courts have carved out an exception to the mootness doctrine, the likelihood of repetition of the circumstances addressed therein was substantially less than in this matter. The bidding situation in Warnock, supra., involving an issue of a franchiser owned franchisee/bidder, acceptance of whose bid would have undermined important policy matters not directly relevant to the bidding statutes themselves, but deemed to be important considerations nevertheless, were, quite probably, deemed unlikely to recur with any regularity at all. The press access issue in J.B., supra., involved First Amendment issues and the confidentiality imposed in Division of Youth and Family Services proceedings in a context of great public interest, but again, in a circumstance with little likelihood of any regular repetition. As for J.A., supra., the court pointed out that there were claims for damages and attorneys fees pending, the outcome of which required a determination as to whether due process rights had been violated. Even if the seemingly more liberal test expressed in Student Members, supra., is applied, that case involved an analysis of the facial constitutionality of a policy arguably in violation of the Establishment Clause, where there was no suggestion that other districts were regularly applying such a policy or that cases involving such policies were regularly appearing in the courts or in the administrative forum, whereas, as noted above, cases involving the use of disciplinary policies, and more specifically, policies labeled as "zero tolerance," are now regularly arising, at least in the administrative forum. Given that there appears to be no dearth of these cases, the resolution of the issues raised herein are best left to an actual, ongoing controversy about the application of such a policy in a given context.

For the reasons stated, I CONCLUDE that the matter before me is MOOT and is therefore DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 8, 2001

For the Petitioners-Appellants, Education Law Center (Ellen M. Boylan, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Schenck, Price, Smith & King (Joanne L. Butler, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondents Commissioner David C. Hespe and State Board of Education, Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

Petitioners in this matter are the parents of a classified special education student, H.R., who was expelled by the Rahway Board of Education (hereinafter "Board" or "Rahway Board") on the basis of an incident that occurred on October 5, 1999, at which time the student allegedly was in possession of a "weapon" on school property.[1]

[1] The "weapon" at issue was an 18 inch miniature baseball bat.

Following the expulsion of H.R., petitioners challenged the Board's action by filing a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education asserting that the Board had violated their son's rights under the New Jersey and United States Constitutions. In their petition, the petitioners also claimed that the Commissioner and the State Board of Education had violated their son's right to a thorough and efficient education under the New Jersey State Constitution by failing to set uniform standards to guide school districts in imposing long-term suspensions and expulsions.

Following transmittal of the case to the Office of Administrative Law, the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") raised the question of whether the matter should have been filed as a request for a due process hearing pursuant to the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA") rather than as one under the Commissioner's jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 (Commissioner has jurisdiction over all controversies and disputes arising under the education laws). Counsel for the petitioners specifically advised the ALJ that although the petitioners were cognizant of H.R.'s status as a classified special education student, they did not wish to invoke the special provisions of statute and regulation governing the process for disciplining classified students.[2]

On October 6, 2000, counsel for the petitioners submitted to the ALJ a Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal of Claims Against Rahway Board of Education executed by herself and the counsel for the Rahway Board. Pursuant to the terms of the settlement, which was dated July 20, 2000,[3] H.R. was to be reinstated to the educational program from which he had been removed, his record was to be expunged, the Board was to investigate the availability of compensatory vocational education services to make up for the vocational program H.R. had missed, and the Rahway Board would withdraw the criminal charges against him. In return, the petitioners agreed to dismiss with prejudice the claims they had raised against the Board and to release the Board from all other claims they might have arising from the incident and expulsion.

[2] We note that the protections afforded classified special education students subject to disciplinary action are, under our regulations, as well as the IDEA, greater than those applicable to non-classified students. See N.J.A.C. 6A:14-2.8.

On November 14, 2001, the ALJ issued his initial decision in the matter. On the basis of motions for summary decision, the ALJ dismissed the matter in its entirety, concluding that it was moot. The lynchpin of the ALJ's determination was that the "practical effect of the settlement reached between the petitioners and the [Rahway Board] is that the student is no longer expelled and his record is clear." Initial Decision, slip op. at 5.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination as his final decision in the matter.

Petitioners appealed to the State Board. Counsel for the petitioners contends that the matter is not moot as to the petitioners' claims against the Commissioner and the State Board. In this respect, counsel argues that the constitutionality of zero tolerance policies and the responsibility of the State respondents to issue uniform guidelines for the discipline of students are of great public importance so that settlement of the petitioners' claims against the Rahway Board should not render the claims against the State respondents moot. Counsel for the petitioners also seeks to supplement the record in the matter with comments submitted to the Department of Education by the Education Law Center, which is representing the appellants in this case, on discussion level regulations on Programs to Support Student Development and the response of Department staff thereto.

[3] In her October 6, 2000 cover letter submitting the Stipulation of Settlement to the ALJ, counsel for the petitioners indicated that the parties had settled their dispute in July 2000, at which time she had prepared the Stipulation and sent it to the counsel for the Board, but that she had not received an executed copy from the Board's counsel until October.

Our review has revealed that while the record includes the Stipulation of Settlement submitted to the ALJ on October 6, 2001, there is no indication that the settlement was ever approved by the ALJ pursuant to the regulatory requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. We cannot ignore this fact in view of the character and specificity of those requirements. Specifically, that regulation requires in pertinent part that:

> (a) Where the parties to a case wish to settle the matter, and the agency head has not consented to the settlement terms, the judge shall require the parties to disclose the full settlement terms:
> 1. In writing, by consent order or stipulation signed by all parties or their attorneys; or
> 2. Orally, by the parties or their representatives.
> (b) Under (a) above, if the judge determines from the written order/stipulation or from the parties' testimony under oath that the settlement is voluntary, consistent with the law and fully dispositive of all issues in controversy, the judge shall issue an initial decision incorporating the full terms and approving the settlement.

In that execution of some of the terms of the settlement provided the basis for the ALJ's initial decision and because the Commissioner adopted that decision, we are not able to decide the appeal before us without assurance that the regulatory requirements have been met and that the settlement has been properly approved. We therefore remand this matter to the Commissioner for this purpose. We retain jurisdiction over the appeal, including the petitioners' motion to supplement the record, but place the matter in abeyance pending the Commissioner's determination with respect to the settlement.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DENIAL OF THE	:
CHARTER SCHOOL APPLICATION OF	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
THE NEW WORLD CHARTER SCHOOL,	:	DECISION
ESSEX COUNTY.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 11, 2001

For the Appellant, Michael Strickland, pro se

On February 12, 2001, Michael Strickland (hereinafter "appellant"), acting on behalf of the Board of Trustees of the proposed New World Charter School, filed an appeal to the State Board of Education from a letter decision of the Commissioner of Education denying the proposed school's application to operate a charter school pursuant to the Charter School Program Act of 1995, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq. On March 15, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office ("Director") advised the appellant that the Commissioner had provided the State Board with the record in this matter and that the briefing schedule was therefore being established. She informed him that a brief in support of his appeal was due on or before April 2, 2001.

The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated April 4, 2001, the Director advised the appellant of his failure to file a brief and informed him that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of his failure to perfect the appeal.

The appellant has still failed to file a brief in support of his appeal, a month after the deadline. Nor has he offered any explanation for his failure to file or requested an extension of time for such filing. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a). See Paszamant v. Board of Education of the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the State Board, April 1, 1992, aff'd, Docket #A-4812-91-3 (App. Div. 1993).

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 11, 2001

For the Appellant Board of Education of the School District of Mahwah, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Nathanya G. Simon, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Appellant Board of Education of the School District of Saddle River, Fogarty & Hara (John R. Vreeland, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Appellant Board of Education of the School District of Ramsey, Winne, Banta, Rizzi, Hetherington & Basralian (Robert M. Jacobs, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Appellant Board of Education of the School District of Upper Saddle River, Wiley, Malehorn and Sirota (Fredric J. Sirota, Esq., of Counsel)

This is an appeal by four district boards of education from the grant of contingent approval by the Commissioner of Education on January 11, 2001 to the Green Willow Charter School (hereinafter "Charter School") to operate a charter school pursuant to the Charter School Program Act of 1995, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-1 et seq. (hereinafter "Act") commencing in September 2001. As set forth in their briefs, all four boards claim that the application of the Charter School is contrary to the Charter School Program Act, that the Commissioner failed to consider concerns expressed by Department of Education personnel who reviewed the application, that the Commissioner improperly failed to consider the financial impact of the approval, and that the Act imposes unfunded mandates on the district boards contrary to the requirements of the New Jersey Constitution.[1]

We reject the contention that conditional approval of the Charter School's application was contrary to the legislative intent of the Charter School Program Act. The thrust of the district boards' arguments is that the application does not fulfill the Act's intent to provide educational approaches that may not be available in the traditional public school classroom because the districts involved here offer a vast array of educational programs. These arguments are negated by the contents of the application. Specifically, the application indicates that the Charter School will provide an "art infused, thematic, interdisciplinary" approach, as well as small classrooms and multi-age grouping. While the substance of the districts' programs may be outstanding and the breadth of their overall educational programs vast, none of these districts suggests that it is taking the same approach as the Charter School in implementing any of those programs.

Similarly, we find no merit to the claim that the Commissioner improperly ignored the reviewers' concerns. Most strikingly, the districts concede that notwithstanding such concerns, even those portions of the application which they attack were rated "adequate" by the reviewers. Moreover, the fact that the Department required the Charter School to submit a supplemental application, as well as the supplemental application itself and the evaluation documents, reflect the extensive review given to the application before it was approved and that the reviewers' concerns were not ignored. In this respect, we stress that, contrary to the districts' view, the Commissioner need not set forth extensive analysis each time he reviews a concern expressed during the evaluation process. Furthermore, in this instance, we find that the substance of the application supports the conclusions reached by both the reviewers and the Commissioner that it was adequate in all categories. See, e.g., In re Grant of Charter School Application, 320 N.J. Super. 174 (App. Div. 1999), aff'd with modification, 164 N.J. 316 (2000).

[1] We note that briefs were filed on behalf of the boards of education of Mahwah, Upper Saddle River and Ramsey. In its letter of February 28, 2001, which was accompanied by the affidavit of its interim superintendent, the Saddle River board indicated that it would rely upon the briefs filed on behalf of the other three boards.

Nor is there any merit to the districts' claim that the Commissioner improperly failed to evaluate the financial impact of the Charter School before approving its application. We stress that it is now settled that the Commissioner is required to expressly evaluate the financial impact of the grant of a charter only when a district of residence demonstrates with some specificity that the constitutional requirements of a thorough and efficient education would be jeopardized by the loss of funds attending the grant of the charter. In re Grant of Charter School Application, 164 N.J. 334-335. As expressed by the New Jersey Supreme Court:

> ...the Commissioner must consider the economic impact that approval of a charter school will have on a district of residence when during the approval process a district makes a preliminary showing that satisfaction of the thorough-and-efficient education requirements would be jeopardized....[T]he district must be able to support its assertions. We do not impose on the Commissioner the burden of canvassing the financial condition of the district of residence in order to determine its ability to adjust to the per-pupil loss upon approval of the charter school based on unsubstantiated, generalized protests.

None of the districts involved in this appeal suggest that it will not be able to meet its obligation to provide a thorough and efficient education to its students, and no evidence has been presented that raises constitutional concerns about the ability of any of these districts to do so. Id. at 335. Rather, the focus of the districts' arguments is almost exclusively on the districts' taxpayers, not its students. We can identify nothing in either the Act or the New Jersey Constitution that imposes an obligation on the Commissioner to consider the fiscal effects on the local taxpayers when he determines whether to approve a charter application.

Likewise, we find no merit to the claim that either the Act or its implementing regulations impose an unfunded State mandate on the districts in violation of Article VIII, Section II, paragraph 5 of the New Jersey Constitution (hereinafter "Amendment"). That Amendment provides that any law enacted on or after January 17, 1996, and any rule originally adopted after July 1, 1996, which is determined to be an unfunded mandate shall cease to be mandatory in effect and shall expire. The mechanism to implement the Amendment was provided by N.J.S.A. 52:13H-1, which created the Council on Local Mandates and charged it with the responsibility of deciding claims that such statutes and regulations constituted unfunded mandates. Hence, the claim being made in this appeal is outside of our jurisdiction.

However, we note that the Charter School Program Act became effective on January 11, 1996, six days before the effective date which the Amendment established for purposes of its application. See In the Matter of a Complaint filed by the Board of Education for the City of Clifton, decided by the Council on Local Mandates, May 13, 1998.[2] Further, we recognize that the funding regulation which we adopted effective June 1, 1998 was determined by the Council on Local Mandates to be an unfunded mandate. In the Matter of the Complaints Filed by the Highland Park Board of Education and the Borough of Highland Park, decided by the Council on Local Mandates, May 11, 2000. See 30 N.J.R. 588(a) and 30 N.J.R. 2084(a) (amending N.J.A.C. 6A:11-1.2 to define "local levy budget per pupil for the specific grade level" as the "program budget per pupil"). However, we note that effective October 2, 2000, we amended the regulation so that it does not now constitute an unfunded mandate. See 32 N.J.R. 2523(a) and 32 N.J.R. 3560(a) (rewriting the definition of "local levy budget

[2] In a footnote in its brief, the Ramsey board contends that the determination made by the Council on Local Mandates is not dispositive of whether the Amendment applies to the Charter School Program Act because rulings of the Council are political and are not subject to judicial review. This, argues the Ramsey board, precludes the Council from making constitutional determinations such as it is seeking here because constitutional determinations must in all cases be subject to judicial review. Brief on behalf of the Ramsey Board of Education, at 8, note 3.

In addressing this argument, we note that it is now well established that when a controversy arising under the school laws presents constitutional issues, such as is the case here, "such issues should merely be noted....Factual presentations relevant to the constitutional issues may be made, however, to ensure an adequate record for determination on appeal. In this way both the integrity of the administrative system and the [party's] right to a judicial determination of constitutional issues will be preserved." Parents for Student Safety, Inc. v. Board of Education of the Morris School District, decided by the State Board of Education, February 5, 1986, slip op. at 5, aff'd, Docket #A-3257-85-T7 (App. Div. 1987), quoting Paterson Redevelopment Agency v. Schulman, 78 N.J. 378, 388 (1979). Moreover, "in litigation to resolve purely constitutional claims,...although an agency may base its decision on constitutional considerations, such legal determinations do not receive even a presumption of correctness on appellate review." Bd. of Ed. v. Neptune Educ. Ass'n., 293 N.J. Super. 1, 9 (App. Div. 1996), quoting Abbott v. Burke, 100 N.J. 269, 298-99 (1985). Nonetheless, the Court stressed that "[w]here the broader subject matter of a case is within the purview of an administrative agency's authority, it is valuable to have the insights and policy reflections of that agency, even if the only issue to be decided is one of constitutional dimensions, in respect of which the agency is seen to have no particular expertise or authoritative decisional role." Id.

Hence, while we recognize that we do not have the authority to decide the broader constitutional issue being raised by the Ramsey board, we reject its argument in the context of this case. By the terms of the Amendment itself, it applies only to laws enacted after January 17, 1996. Accordingly, it is not the character of the decisions made by the Council on Local Mandates that would limit judicial review of the substance of the Charter School Program Act under Article VIII, Section II, paragraph 5, but the fact that the Charter School Program Act was enacted by the Legislature before the date on which the Amendment became applicable to such laws.

per pupil for the specific grade level" and inserting additional language relating to the definition of "program budget").

Accordingly, for the reasons stated herein, the State Board of Education affirms the Commissioner's determination to grant conditional approval to the charter application of the Green Willow Charter School. In doing so, we direct the Commissioner to insure that the Charter School either secures the funding that its application indicates it is pursuing, i.e., a $300,000 loan from Prudential and a $125,000 grant from the federal government, or that it makes appropriate adjustments in its budget and operations before it opens. Finally, in view of our determination, we deny the motion to participate made on behalf of the Commissioner.

Record Closed: November 16, 2000 Decided: November 20, 2000

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ

Theresa D'Elia, Deborah Fowlkes, Mary Hart and Deborah Robinson filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education to contest a determination by the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City to withhold their increments for the 1998-1999 school year. Respondent filed an answer, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on November 18, 1999, for determination as a contested case.

The petitions of Theresa D'Elia and Deborah Fowlkes were withdrawn by letter dated October 6, 2000, and the petition of Deborah Robinson was withdrawn by letter dated October 11, 2000. Prior to hearing, the parties submitted a Stipulation of Settlement in regard to the petition of Mary Hart.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

v.	Agency Dkt. No. 291-99 OAL Dkt. No. EDUOR 11820-99
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT OF JERSEY CITY, HUDSON COUNTY, Respondent.	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AS TO MARY HART

This Agreement is entered into as a resolution of the within matter regarding the appeal of petitioner MARY HART from the withholding of her increment for the 1999-2000 school year. Petitioner MARY HART and respondent hereby agree to an amicable resolution of the within matter as follows:

1. The parties agree that this Stipulation of Settlement represents the compromise of disputed claims and is not an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

2. The petitioner Mary Hart withdraws her petition in the within matter.

3. The parties understand that the petitioner is entitled, under the terms of the collective bargaining agreement between the Jersey City Education Association and the Jersey City School District (§ 11-5), to request a review after three (3) years of performance for the prospective restoration of an increment that has been withheld.

4. The respondent Jersey City School District agrees that petitioner Mary Hart shall have the right to request a review for the restoration of her salary increment which is the subject of her petition after two (2) years (rather than three years) of performance pursuant to all other terms of § 11-5 of the collective bargaining agreement between the Jersey City Education Association and the respondent Jersey City School District.

5. The petitioner Mary Hart acknowledges that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Stipulation with her attorney prior to signing it, that she has read and fully understands all of the terms of this Stipulation, and that she had entered into this Stipulation knowingly and voluntarily, without coercion or duress.

6. It is understood that this Stipulation will take effect upon its approval by the Administrative Law Judge and by the Commissioner of Education.

PHILLIPSBURG EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, :

APPELLANT, :

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF PHILLIPSBURG, WARREN COUNTY, AND VITO A. GAGLIARDI, SR., ACTING COMMISSIONER OF THE NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, :

RESPONDENTS. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Equivalency granted by the Commissioner of Education, February 1, 2001

For the Appellant, Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak (Richard A. Friedman, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent Phillipsburg Board of Education, Schenck, Price, Smith & King, LLP (Richard H. Bauch, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent Vito A. Gagliardi, Sr., Commissioner of Education, Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

This is an appeal from the grant of an equivalency by the Commissioner of Education to the Phillipsburg Board of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1 et seq. The equivalency at issue permits "a certified school psychologist to assist in providing comprehensive support services to students in the district's alternative school program," notwithstanding the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1 requires in pertinent part that:

> [p]ursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, the requirement of certification applies to any person who is employed by a district board of education to perform duties that are regulated through certification rules pursuant to this chapter. Such duties shall be performed by the holder of the required certificate or under his or her direct and continuous personal supervision.

Absent the equivalency, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11 of the certification regulations would require that an individual possess an educational services certificate with a student personnel services endorsement in order to be authorized to perform the duties attending the position which the Board planned to establish.

The Commissioner granted the equivalency by letter of February 2, 2001, and on March 1, 2001 the Phillipsburg Education Association filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education. The Association contends that the grant of the equivalency in this case was improper because such grant was contrary to the State Board's decisions in Guttenberg Education Association v. Leo Klagholz and the Board of Education of the Borough of Guttenberg, decided by the State Board of Education, March 3, 1999, and In the Matter of the Waiver Granted to the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, decided by the State Board of Education, May 3, 2000. The Association further argues that the equivalency is in violation of N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.3(a)(1)(i), which was adopted by the State Board effective July 3, 2000, and which provides that "[c]ertification requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 shall not be violated."

On June 1, 2001, the Board filed a motion with the State Board seeking dismissal of the appeal on the grounds that the State Board lacks the jurisdiction to decide it. The Board argues that a challenge such as the one involved here must first be made to the Commissioner. In support of its position, the Board points to the equivalency and waiver regulations, which include the provision that "[a] school district may appeal a decision for an equivalency and waiver decision in accordance with the provisions in N.J.A.C. 6A:3." The Board also argues that requiring a party to appeal first to the Commissioner is consistent with the State Board's decision in Linda Peters v. Board of Education of the Pinelands Regional School District and Leo F. Klagholz, Commissioner, decided by the State Board of Education, April 1, 1998.

With respect to the substantive issues raised by this appeal, the Board argues that the equivalency should be sustained because the Board sought "to address program needs as opposed to individual needs." Board's brief, at 12. The Board further contends that the equivalency is valid because, although comprehensive support services are ordinarily provided by individuals possessing student personnel certification, a school psychologist is required to complete similar and more rigorous courses than a guidance counselor.

In her brief on behalf of the Commissioner, the Deputy Attorney General argues that the equivalency should be sustained because it was not sought as a waiver of certification requirements for a specific position, but rather to permit the Board to substitute "one type of certificated position to perform the duties of another to better carry out the objectives of the District's alternate school program." Brief on behalf of the Commissioner, at 11.

Initially, we deny the Board's motion to dismiss. As the final decision of the Commissioner of Education with respect to the equivalency or waiver, an appeal from a determination by the Commissioner to grant or deny such equivalency or waiver is properly made to the State Board of Education. This is consistent with both the statutory and regulatory schemes governing appeals to the State Board, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28; N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1(a), and with our decisions in Guttenberg, supra, and Middletown, supra. In this respect, we stress that Peters, supra, which was properly initiated as a controverted case before the Commissioner, involved a challenge by a tenured teaching staff member to the action of a district board to reduce her employment on the grounds that the district board's action was in violation of her tenure and seniority rights. In contrast, the instant appeal is a facial challenge to the grant of a waiver or equivalency by the Commissioner, as were the appeals in Guttenberg and Middletown. While we recognize that an inadvertent change in citation occurred when we readopted the equivalency and waiver regulations effective July 3, 2000, and that such change has caused some confusion, the change was made in error and it was not our intention to alter either the appeals process or our jurisdiction over appeals from determinations made by the Commissioner.[1]

We now turn to the substance of the appeal. As set forth above, the equivalency in this case permits the Board to employ an individual possessing certification as a school psychologist to provide comprehensive support services ordinarily provided by a guidance counselor. However, N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11 of the certification rules requires that an individual possess student personnel services certification in order to be authorized to provide such services. That being the case, the equivalency involved here permits the Board to employ an individual to serve in a position for which he is not appropriately certified. There is no other way to view this but as a waiver of the certification rules.

[1] The change in citation was from N.J.A.C. 6:2 (now recodified as N.J.A.C. 6A:4) (appeals to the State Board) to N.J.A.C. 6A:3 (Controversies and disputes). The change occurred subsequent to publication of the proposed rules for equivalencies and waivers and was made as a technical change upon adoption. See 32 N.J.R. 1328 and 32 N.J.R. 2470. We are currently proposing an amendment to the rules to correct the error.

In this respect, we reject the distinction that the Board and the Deputy Attorney General representing the Commissioner attempt to make between "individual needs" and "program needs." While the Board may have been motivated by a desire to implement a specific program design for its alternate school when it applied for the equivalency, rather than by a desire to employ a particular individual who does not possess appropriate certification to provide the services at issue, the effect is the same. Regardless of the Board's reason for seeking this equivalency, its grant by the Commissioner operates to waive the certification rules in contravention of N.J.A.C. 6A:5-1.3(a)(1)(i) and our decisions in Guttenberg and Middletown.

Nor can such waiver be justified by the fact that more graduate work is required in order to obtain certification as a school psychologist than is required to obtain certification as a guidance counselor. Further, it is of no moment in this context that the preparation for serving as a school psychologist is rigorous. The fact of the matter is that the services provided by a school psychologist are not the same as those provided by a guidance counselor. This is reflected both by the fact that separate and distinct endorsements are required for service in these capacities and, most significantly, that the preparation required in order to obtain these endorsements is quite different. Compare N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.11 with N.J.A.C. 6:11-11.12.

We again repeat that:

> Certification requirements establish the threshold qualifications for teaching staff members employed in the public school system throughout the state. N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1; N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2. As such, and under the current statutory > framework embodied in Title 18A, the certification process is critical to assuring the provision of a thorough and efficient education. [Hence], an equivalency or waiver cannot properly be granted under N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. when the provision of a thorough and efficient education might be compromised. Commissioner's Brief, at 4. Since certification requirements are at the core of the current structure governing the delivery of all education programs under our jurisdiction, setting aside the standards embodied in our certification rules necessarily risks such a compromise.

> It was not our intention to create such a risk when we adopted N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq.

Middletown, supra, slip op. at 4, quoting Guttenberg, supra, slip op. at 7.

This is no less true for positions involving the provision of educational support services than for instructional positions. Not only is the character of positions that involve the provision of educational services such that appropriate certification is required in order to be qualified to provide these services, N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, but such services are essential to the success of the education programs provided by our public schools. See Abbott v. Burke, 119 N.J. 287 (1990) (subsequent history omitted).

Therefore, for the reasons stated, we invalidate the equivalency that was granted by the Commissioner in this case.

IN THE MATTER OF THE NONRENEWAL OF :
THE CHARTER OF THE SAMUEL DE WITT :
PROCTOR ACADEMY CHARTER SCHOOL, :
MERCER COUNTY. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, May 1, 2001

For the Appellant, Lori M. McNeely, Esq.

For the Participant Commissioner of Education, Kathleen Asher, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

The Samuel DeWitt Proctor Academy Charter School (hereinafter "appellant") filed an appeal to the State Board of Education from a letter decision of the Commissioner of Education dated May 1, 2001, in which he determined that the charter for the school, which was due to expire on June 30, 2001, would not be renewed for an additional five-year period. See N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17; N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.3(b). Observing that the school had been placed on probationary status in February 2001 as the result of the "need to implement significant modifications to its academic program," the Commissioner found that "reasonable progress has not been made in meeting the school's academic goals and fulfilling the terms and provisions of the charter." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 2. He pointed out that:

> In the goals and objectives of the charter, the school indicated that it would provide a rigorous college preparatory > program resulting in high academic achievement. However, throughout its four-year tenure, the school has not made reasonable progress in meeting this provision of its charter. In addition, the school has had consistent difficulty in sustaining a suitable academic environment to promote high academic achievement.

Id. at 1.

The Commissioner identified the following deficiencies as impacting his decision to deny the school's renewal request:

> The school's enrollment has not been stable as evidenced by the fact that the school is under-subscribed and has experienced increasingly high numbers of student withdrawals. Thus far this academic year, 46 students have withdrawn. While approved to serve 136 students, the school is currently serving 101 students.
> Since the school's inception, there have been seven (7) interim or appointed heads of school contributing to instability in school governance and instructional leadership. This year alone the school has had three (3) interim heads of school.
> High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) results indicate that less than 50 percent of the students taking the HSPT administered in October 2000 passed the reading and mathematics sections.
> In the absence of the March 31 submission of a revised budget reflecting the decreased revenue due to decreased student enrollment, the department could not make a determination about the school's fiscal solvency.
> The Board of Trustees has failed to implement an accountability plan that provides adequate means to demonstrate academic progress.

Id. at 2.

Consequently, the Commissioner directed the school to cease operations on June 30, 2001.

On June 18, 2001, the appellant filed a brief in support of its appeal. On June 29, a Deputy Attorney General filed a motion to participate on behalf of the Commissioner and an answer brief on the merits of the appeal. The appellant did not oppose the motion.

Initially, we grant the Commissioner's motion to participate and have considered his answer brief in reviewing this matter.

After a thorough review of the entire record, we affirm the Commissioner's decision.

Initially, we stress that there is nothing in the statutory scheme that would preclude the Commissioner from denying a charter school's renewal application at the expiration of a probationary period.[1] Indeed, neither the statute nor the implementing regulations require the Commissioner to provide a charter school with a probationary period before he denies its renewal request. See N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17; N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.3 and 6A:11-2.4. Rather, N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.3(b) requires that the Commissioner base his determination as to whether to grant or deny a renewal application on a "comprehensive review of the school."

The record reveals that the Commissioner did perform such a review. Staff from the Department of Education conducted a site visit to the school and an interview session in January 2001 to review the evidence of academic progress presented in the school's renewal application. Thereafter, on February 1, citing serious concerns about the school's record of student achievement, the Commissioner placed the school on probationary status for 90 days to allow for the development and implementation of a remedial plan.

[1] We note in that regard that the Commissioner is authorized to summarily revoke a school's charter if a remedial plan developed during a probationary period is unsuccessful. N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17.

On February 20, the school submitted a remedial plan, and, after the Department requested greater specificity, the school submitted an amended plan on March 20. Department staff reviewed the plans, conducted telephone conferences and on-site reviews to discuss the specific actions the school had taken to improve its academic program and to increase student achievement results. In his decision of May 1, 2001, the Commissioner acknowledged that "concerted efforts" had been made by the school's Board of Trustees and administrative staff to address the substantive issues affecting the school's performance, but he concluded that "reasonable progress had not been made in meeting the school's academic goals and fulfilling the terms and provisions of the charter." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 2.

Our own review of the record confirms the deficiencies cited by the Commissioner and substantiates the seriousness of those deficiencies. The school's charter application, which was approved by the Commissioner in 1997 as a residential program for grades seven through twelve,[2] pledged that the school's "hallmark will be its high expectation of academic excellence." However, a report prepared on January 30, 2001 by Department staff following a site visit rated the school's academic program inadequate in virtually every category. Those problems persisted even after the school was placed on probation and implemented a remedial plan. A report prepared on April

[2] We note that the school applied for and was granted an amendment to its charter in 1999 reducing its residential program from seven days per week to five. The school subsequently applied for an amendment to end the residential program entirely for seventh and eighth grade students, indicating that it could not continue to provide this program due to facility limitations and insufficient residential staff to ensure the safety of all students. The Commissioner approved that amendment on December 13, 2000.

16, 2001 by the director of the Department's Office of Charter Schools following a site visit to assess the school's progress in implementing the remedial plan exemplifies its failings in this regard. The report related that students' Individual Learning Plans reflected no learning strategies and no guidance for remediation efforts, that assessment measures lacked clear alignment with curriculum, that remediation efforts had no clear alignment to the core curriculum content standards, that there was a lack of feedback to guide students' work and an absence of clear and objective writing rubrics to guide the evaluation of student progress, that curriculum development for math and language arts had been minimal, that there were only five hours of instructional time per day (below the statewide average for charter and traditional schools), that an observed teacher had only a county substitute certificate and was not offered the opportunity to participate in the provisional teacher training program although he held a certificate of eligibility, that summer school course offerings and criteria had yet to be articulated, and that 46 students had withdrawn from the school since September 2000.

Particularly striking is the appellant's response to the Commissioner's charge that there had been seven heads of the school during its four years of existence. The appellant, in its defense, insists that it has had six, not seven, heads of the school in four years and that the last three were part of a management team rather than a succession of different people. Even accepting the appellant's "head count," such instability in educational leadership during the school's formative years is particularly troubling given the academic deficiencies identified in the record.

Thus, we reject the appellant's contention that its charter should have been renewed in light of its remedial plan.

We also reject the appellant's argument that it received disparate treatment and that the Commissioner created an impermissible classification which discriminated against students and charter schools in Abbott districts. There is absolutely no basis in the record for such an allegation. Nor does the Commissioner's decision "send a message that under-performing communities may be denied the opportunity to have charter schools" and that "this denial deprives the students of these communities of their rights to a thorough and efficient education." Appeal Brief, at 27. To the contrary, we find that the Commissioner's action was based on well-documented deficiencies at this particular school, and, upon review of the record, we conclude that such deficiencies created an environment which belied any expectation of academic excellence.

Accordingly, given the nature and severity of the deficiencies demonstrated by the record, we conclude that the Commissioner's decision to deny the school's renewal application was the appropriate one, and we affirm that determination.[3]

Date of mailing AUG 03 2001

[3] We note that the Commissioner's decision was, under the circumstances, tantamount to a revocation of the school's charter. Revocation, however, was not necessary in this instance since the charter was due to expire on June 30, 2001 at the end of its initial four-year term.

IN THE MATTER OF THE DENIAL OF THE CHARTER SCHOOL APPLICATION OF THE IBRAHIM CHARTER SCHOOL, PASSAIC COUNTY.	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION DECISION

For the Appellant, Dr. Syed Mohd. Tariq Shuaib, pro se

By letter dated January 11, 2001, the Commissioner of Education notified the proposed Ibrahim Charter School that he had denied its application to operate a charter school in the 2001-2002 academic year.

On February 28, 2001, Dr. Syed Mohd. Tariq Shuaib (hereinafter "appellant"), a "representative" of the proposed school, filed a notice of appeal with the State Board of Education from the Commissioner's determination. By letter dated March 7, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office ("Director") acknowledged receipt of the notice of appeal and advised the appellant that his notice was deficient in that he had failed to attach a copy of the decision being appealed or a certification evidencing that he had served the notice of appeal on all interested parties. He was given until March 19 to correct these deficiencies.

On March 20, 2001, the appellant filed a brief in support of his appeal, along with a copy of the Commissioner's January 11 letter decision denying the proposed school's application and a certification of service of the notice of appeal and brief.

On April 19, the Commissioner filed a motion to participate in the appeal, along with a substantive brief in response to the appellant's appeal brief. In that brief, the Deputy Attorney General ("DAG") representing the Commissioner argued that the Commissioner had acted within his authority in denying the proposed school's application. She also contended that the appellant's notice of appeal had not been filed in a timely manner.

By letter dated May 7, 2001, the Director notified the appellant that review of the papers filed in this matter indicated that the notice of appeal had been filed beyond the thirty-day statutory time limitation set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28. She advised him that the matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of the effect of his failure to file a timely notice of appeal. He was further informed that he could submit an affidavit setting forth the circumstances of his late filing by May 18.

By letter dated May 7 and faxed on that date, the appellant submitted a letter in response to the substantive brief filed with the Commissioner's motion to participate. In an apparent reference to the Commissioner's contention that the appeal was untimely, the appellant expresses his "hope" that the DAG "is not looking at the previous application..." which the proposed school had submitted for the 2000-2001 academic year. He also states in that regard: "I believe the letter dated 1/11/01 appealing to the commissioner of education triggers the appeals process. Therefore, DAG, Kathleen Asher [sic] argument that it was not filed timely is vague." This represents the only reference made by the appellant to the issue of the timeliness of his appeal. He has not filed an affidavit or otherwise provided an explanation for his late filing.

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." The State Board may not grant extensions to enlarge the time specified for appeal. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.5(a). In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. Mount Pleasant-Blythedale Union Free School District v. New Jersey Department of Education, Docket #A-2180-89T1 (App. Div. 1990), slip op. at 5. The Appellate Division has "consistently concluded" that appeals must be timely filed and that "neither an agency nor our court on appeal may expand a mandatory statutory time limitation." In the Matter of the Special Election of the Northern Burlington County Regional School District, Docket #A-1743-95T5 (App. Div. 1996), slip op. at 3, citing Scrudato v. Mascot Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 50 N.J. Super. 264 (App. Div. 1958).

In Yorke v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, decided by the State Board of Education, July 6, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-5912-87T1 (App. Div. 1989), the Court upheld the dismissal of an appeal by the State Board where it found that the notice of appeal had been filed one day late by the appellant's counsel, who alleged that he had misread or misunderstood the applicable regulations. The Court added that even if the statute could be construed to permit enlargement of the time for filing an appeal, the appellant therein had failed to establish good cause. See also In the Matter of the Grant of the Charter School Application of the International Charter School of Trenton, etc., Docket #A-004932-97T1 (App. Div. 1998) (the Court, upon reconsideration, upheld the State Board's dismissal of an appeal filed one day late).

In the instant case, the Commissioner's decision to deny the proposed charter school's application was issued on January 11, 2001 and mailed to the appellant on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4, the decision appealed from was deemed filed on January 14, 2001, three days after it was mailed. Therefore, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, see N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(a); N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), as computed under N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(c), the appellant was required to file his notice of appeal with the State Board on or before February 13, 2001. As previously indicated, the appellant's notice of appeal was not filed until February 28, more than two weeks after the statutory deadline.

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 can be construed to provide us with the authority to enlarge the time limit for filing an appeal, we find no substantive basis to warrant doing so in this instance. The appellant has provided no explanation for his late filing, despite being given the opportunity to do so, and we find nothing in the record that would justify such enlargement. We stress in that regard that our determination with regard to the timeliness of the appellant's notice of appeal is based entirely on the proposed school's application for the 2001-2002 year and the Commissioner's letter decision of January 11, 2001 denying that application.

Accordingly, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to file notice thereof within the statutory time limit as computed under the applicable regulations. In so doing, we deny the Commissioner's motion to participate as unnecessary under the circumstances.

IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION : OF THE CHARTER OF THE GREENVILLE :
COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL, :
HUDSON COUNTY. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, April 11, 2001

Decision on motion by the Assistant Commissioner of Education, June 25, 2001

Decision on motion by the State Board of Education, June 27, 2001

For the Appellant, Carpenter, Bennett & Morrissey (Stephen F. Payerle, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Participant Commissioner of Education, Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

This is an appeal by the Greenville Community Charter School from a determination made by the Commissioner of Education on April 11, 2001 to revoke the School's charter effective June 30, 2001. As set forth in the Commissioner's letter decision, his determination resulted from the School's repeated problems in maintaining a suitable educational facility and its failure to resolve issues related to the School's governance structure and the certification of instructional staff despite repeated directives from the Department of Education. The Commissioner's determination was also based on the results of the program review conducted by Department of Education staff, which revealed that the School had violated provisions of its charter and was not operating in accordance with State statutes and regulations. In addition, the deficiencies cited by Department staff on the basis of site visits conducted a month after the program review led the Commissioner to conclude that there was no reasonable prospect that the School's Board of Trustees would be able to correct the School's deficiencies even if it were afforded a probationary period.

The Charter School appealed to the State Board of Education, seeking reversal of the Commissioner's determination and the establishment of a limited probationary period to allow the Board of Trustees to address and correct its deficiencies. It also moved to correct the record to reflect that a draft letter dated April 6, 2001 from Anne O'Dea, which was included in the record certified to the State Board as Item 16 under "Correspondence," had never been sent. In addition, the School sought to supplement the record on appeal with various certifications and documents relating to the deficiencies identified by the Commissioner in his April 11 decision and the efforts to correct its deficiencies that have been made by the School since the program review was conducted on March 7, 2001.

By motion filed on July 3, 2001, the Commissioner applied for leave to participate in the matter. The Charter School did not oppose such participation but, on July 16, 2001, filed a letter brief in response to that filed on behalf of the Commissioner.

Initially, we grant leave to the Commissioner to participate in this appeal and, in deciding the matter, have considered both the brief filed on his behalf and the Charter School's response. We also direct correction of the Statement of Items Comprising the Record to reflect that the draft letter listed as Item 16 under "Correspondence" was never sent. Additionally, we grant the Charter School's motion to supplement the record and have considered the documents and certifications included in the appendix to its appeal brief in making our determination.

Based on exhaustive review of the entire record, we affirm the Commissioner's decision of April 11, 2001. The record before us fully documents the deficiencies cited by the Commissioner and substantiates the seriousness of those deficiencies. Most striking are the ongoing failures of the School to provide an adequate and safe educational facility for the children attending the School, to correct its governance structure to conform to the requirements of law, to secure teaching staff members who possess standard certification appropriate to their assignments, to develop an adequate curriculum that, as their charter application promised, incorporates the core curriculum content standards, or to develop and implement an effective discipline policy. In point of fact, the School does not deny that such deficiencies exist, but rather focuses its appeal on its ability to correct any deficiencies in a reasonable period as demonstrated by its efforts since the March 7 program review.

We reject the School's contention that it can remedy the deficiencies documented by the record before us in a "reasonable" period of time. Nor, under the circumstances, should it be afforded such additional time to attempt to remedy them. In this respect, we cannot ignore that the deficiencies that have been identified are serious and that they are not limited to just one area. In fact, given the nature and gravity of the School's deficiencies over a prolonged period of time, assessment of its efforts at remediation leads inevitably to the conclusion that they have been woefully inadequate. Not only have the fundamental deficiencies of this School persisted, but the record, including the supplemental materials, shows that the School has failed to acknowledge or comprehend the scope and depth of its problems or their educational implications so as to be able to approach its problems proactively and comprehensively. To the contrary, the "improvements" to which the School has pointed in this appeal well illustrate that the School does not yet understand the import of its failures.

For example, the School argues that it has demonstrated a reasonable prospect of correcting its deficiencies in staff certification since the Commissioner's determination of April 11, 2001. However, although the School represents that four individuals who taught at the School this past year are at varying stages in pursuing standard certification, the fact remains that only one of its teachers possesses standard certification appropriate to her assignment. Moreover, the School does not appear to recognize even at this point that neither a county substitute certificate nor a Certificate of Eligibility, even with Advanced Standing, is appropriate certification to teach in New Jersey or that a submitting an "application for the emergency hiring" of a registered nurse does not render that individual a Certified School Nurse. See Certifications of Marissa Klein, Nasheca Roberts, Terri Fuchs, Sikirat Alli, Kathleen Ryan, and Bibiana Thomas, Appendix, Volume II, Pa 375-386.

Given the nature and severity of the deficiencies demonstrated by the record, the Commissioner followed the appropriate course in revoking the charter of the Greenville Community Charter School. To have done otherwise in these circumstances would have been to ignore his obligations to ensure the health and safety of New Jersey's school children and to ensure that those attending the Greenville Community Charter School are provided with a thorough and efficient education. In this regard we stress that in addition to the areas cited by the Commissioner, this School has failed to fulfill the commitments that it made in its charter application, including its promise to provide each student with an individualized learning plan, and has provided no evidence of increased student performance under any standardized method of measurement. To the contrary, the record reflects that the students were being taught below grade level.

In addition to the significant educational deficits demonstrated by this record, the School's ongoing facilities problems are particularly disturbing. Staff reports of site visits in April indicate ongoing problems regarding the structural soundness of the roof, that the facility was unsanitary, that a broken window in the Kindergarten classroom observed the previous October still had not been fixed, that cleaning products were stored in open boxes outside the students' bathrooms, that wet ceiling insulation was hanging from the ceiling, shelving units were not secured to the wall, the door leading to the electrical room was open, the wheels on the movable partition panels in the Kindergarten section of the main room did not lock. The site visits further revealed an undisciplined and chaotic environment, that there was a total lack of control over the students, and that no learning was taking place. Given this record, it would have been irresponsible for the Commissioner to permit this school to continue to operate.

We reject the School's contention that it should have been provided a probationary period to correct its deficiencies. As previously stated, this record demonstrates severe and ongoing deficits in almost every area. The import of some of the School's deficiencies, particularly those relating to the facility, are obvious and should have been immediately corrected by the School without the necessity of intervention by the Department. Nonetheless, the record documents that from the School's inception, the Department continuously notified the School of those areas in which there were issues that it needed to resolve, including its governance structure, staff certification, and facilities. To now argue that more time should be afforded to the School to allow it to address its failures in these same areas is disingenuous.

Nor does the law require that a probationary period be afforded to a charter school before revoking its charter. As the Deputy Attorney General representing the Commissioner points out, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17 and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.4 provide that the Commissioner may place a charter school on probation but do not require that he do so. As indicated, given the circumstances here, we fully concur with the Commissioner's determination not to provide a probationary period in this case.

We also reject the contention that N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17.1 requires that the Commissioner's determination be set aside. That statutory provision requires that the Commissioner notify the board of trustees or the applicant when he determines that a board of trustees is in jeopardy of losing its charter and requires the board of trustees or the applicant to provide to the Commissioner a complete written list of the names and addresses of all students and staff within forty-eight hours of such notification "so the commissioner may send the appropriate notice to the parents or guardians and staff." N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17.1. This provision was enacted by the Legislature in response to a conditional veto by the Governor of Assembly Bill 1344, which was an amendment to P.L. 1995, c. 426 relating to the funding and evaluation of charter schools. In his conditional veto, the Governor recommended that because of the vital role played by parents and staff, "the bill [should] specifically authorize the commissioner to direct ...charter schools...to provide him with a list of names and addresses of students and staff to ensure that these individuals may be promptly notified of a change in the status of an existing charter school...."

As reflected by the terms of the statute, the intent of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17.1 is to ensure that parents and staff are promptly notified of a change in status, and the statutory provision does not confer any rights on the charter school that is the subject of such change. Hence, although the Commissioner did not notify the Greenville Community Charter School of the change in its status before revoking its charter, his failure to strictly comply with the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17.1 does not provide any basis to set aside his determination in this case.[1]

In summary, the record before us clearly and unambiguously shows an educational failure in the extreme and demonstrates that the Board of Trustees of the Greenville Community Charter School has failed since its inception to comply with the requirements of New Jersey law and of its own charter. We find that the School's failure has been persistent and ongoing despite consistent notification by the Department during the two years of the School's operation. Given these circumstances and the nature and gravity of the School's deficiencies, we conclude that the Commissioner's determination to revoke its charter was the appropriate one, and we therefore affirm that determination.

[1] We note that in his letter decision of April 11, 2001, the Commissioner did direct the School to submit to him a list of all parents and staff so that he could comply with the statute's mandate that he promptly notify them of the change in the School's status. We further note that there is no indication that he failed to fulfill his obligation to do so.

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 11, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Selikoff & Cohen (Steven R. Cohen, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Capehart & Scatchard, P.A. (Kim C. Belin, Esq., of Counsel)

The decision of the Commissioner of Education remanding this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein. In so doing, we deny the Glassboro Board's motion to supplement the record on appeal. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.9(b). Consequently, in determining this matter, we have disregarded the documents appended to the Board's answer brief which are not included in the record, along with all references to such materials in its brief. We note that, to the extent that the information contained in those documents may be relevant to the issues encompassed within the remand of this matter, our decision does not preclude the Board from seeking to introduce such materials into the record during the proceedings on remand. N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.1 et seq.

We also deny the petitioner's request for oral argument as not necessary for a fair determination of this matter. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.2.

Re: IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION OF THE CHARTER OF THE GREENVILLE COMMUNITY CHARTER SCHOOL, STATE BOARD DOCKET #15-01

Dear Mr. Payerle:

On April 11, 2001, the Commissioner of Education notified the Board of Trustees of the Greenville Community Charter School that because the School was not operating in compliance with its charter, statutes and regulations, he was revoking the School's charter effective June 30, 2001.

On May 14, 2001, counsel for the Board of Trustees filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education. That appeal is currently pending before the State Board.

On May 23, 2001, counsel filed a motion nunc pro tunc with the Commissioner of Education seeking a stay of his April 11 determination. While that motion was pending, counsel filed an application for emergent relief with the State Board seeking to stay the Commissioner's determination.

By letter decision of June 25, 2001, an Assistant Commissioner acting on behalf of the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-22(d) declined to stay the Commissioner's decision, finding that the Board of Trustees had not shown that it was likely to prevail on the merits of its appeal to the State Board. The Assistant Commissioner noted that the Board of Trustees does not dispute the cumulative findings that led to the revocation of the charter and stressed that students, parents and staff had been on notice of the revocation since April 11, 2001. Given the circumstances, the Assistant Commissioner could not find that students, parents and staff would suffer greater harm from the necessity of making alternative arrangements for the next school year than they would from remaining in a school that has been seriously and persistently deficient and which would continue to face likely closure.

By facsimile transmission of June 25, counsel for the Board of Trustees indicated to us that the Board of Trustees is continuing to pursue its application to the State Board for emergent relief. As set forth in its moving papers, the Board of Trustees is arguing that a stay of the revocation should be granted because the School has made progress in correcting its deficiencies since the on-site visit by Department of Education staff on March 7, 2001. The Board of Trustees contends that this progress demonstrates a reasonable likelihood that, if given a chance, the School will be able to correct its deficiencies.

After careful review of the moving papers, we find that the Board of Trustees has failed to demonstrate that it is entitled to emergent relief under the standard set forth in Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).[1]

The Commissioner's determination of April 11, 2001 indicates that the March 7 on-site visit was not the first visit to the Greenville Community Charter School and that the School's problems persisted despite site visits on June 28 and October 20, 2000. As set forth in the Assistant Commissioner's decision, as well as in the Commissioner's April 11 determination, the School's deficiencies were in the areas of educational programming, staff certification, the provision of required health services, and the maintenance of student records. Significantly, the Commissioner's April 11 decision specifies that the school had not made reasonable progress in developing its curriculum and had failed to provide statutorily-required course work. As the Assistant Commissioner observed, the Board of Trustees does not dispute these findings. Nor does it argue that it has corrected the deficiencies at this point. Rather, by its application, it is seeking additional time to address them.

We concur with the Assistant Commissioner that the Board of Trustees has not demonstrated the likelihood that it will prevail in its appeal. Moreover, the brief submitted in support of the Trustees' application for emergent relief indicates that, even at this point, only one of the School's five teachers possesses standard certification and its curriculum is not yet developed. Permitting the School to continue to operate while its appeal is pending would delay the necessity for students, parents and staff to make other arrangements for the upcoming school year. Under the circumstances, this would create an unacceptable risk of harm, especially to the students. We find that the harm to the students, parents and staff if we were to grant a stay is of such character as to far outweigh any harm to the Board of Trustees that might result from our denial of a stay.

[1] Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-3.3, "[t]he President of the State Board or, in the President's absence, the chairperson of the Legal Committee is authorized to decide on behalf of the State Board applications for emergency relief...unless the determination would constitute the final decision with respect to the controversy."

Accordingly, for the reasons stated, we deny the application for emergent relief.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner claimed tenure entitlement to the position of Athletic Director (AD). The Board had reassigned his duties as AD to another teaching staff member holding the newly created position of "Vice Principal-Student Activities/Athletics" for the 1999-2000 school year.

The ALJ determined that the Board took no official action to abolish the AD position, to articulate reasons for its action or to establish a preferred eligibility list. Thus, the ALJ concluded that when the Board summarily reassigned all of petitioner's duties to another individual, petitioner clearly held tenure in the AD position and his tenure rights were violated. The ALJ ordered that the Board provide petitioner back pay and benefits associated with the AD position from July 1, 1999 until such time as it may abolish his position in accordance with the requirements of the statutes. (Petitioner did not seek appointment to the newly created Vice Principal position effective July 1, 1999 as he did not hold the New Jersey Administrative Certificate required.)

The Commissioner reversed the ALJ's determination that petitioner clearly held tenure in the AD position because he served under his instructional certificate and any tenure protections flowing from petitioner's AD assignment attached to his tenured position as teacher. (N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.2; Grosso; Elllicott) The Commissioner found that the Board could assign petitioner to any instructional/teacher position within the scope of his certificate and not violate his tenure rights, so long as he did not suffer a reduction in salary. (Carpenito) The Commissioner found that the Initial Decision did not address the Board's claim that the AD position was an extracurricular, stipended assignment and that the record was void of any specific information about petitioner's actual work day or the details of his salary/compensation. No tenure protections flow from extracurricular positions. Therefore, the Commissioner remanded this matter to the OAL in order that the record may be supplemented with respect to whether or not the AD position was an extracurricular assignment or a salaried position and a determination made as to the applicability of Connor and/or Reinhardt. Accordingly, the matter was remanded for further proceedings on the issue of whether or not the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights by its action assigning him to a position within the scope of his certification for the 1999-2000 school year.

This matter commenced on August 24, 1999, when Robert Barratt (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that the Board of Education of the Borough of Glassboro (hereinafter respondent) had violated his tenure rights by reassigning his duties as Athletic Director to another teaching staff member. An answer and affirmative defenses were filed on behalf of respondent on October 5, 1999, and on October

---

* Extensions of time for issuing the initial decision were requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

27, 1999, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on January 19, 2000, at which time the following were identified as the issues for determination:

1. Did petitioner have tenure rights to the position Athletic Director?

2. If the answer to the previous question is yes, did respondent's action assigning the duties of Athletic Director to Donna Covely violate such tenure rights?

3. If the answers to questions 1 and 2 are yes, what are the appropriate remedies?

The prehearing order which was entered on February 29, 2000, provided for the filing of cross-motions for summary decision. Petitioner filed a motion and supporting papers on April 17, 2000. Respondent's reply and cross-motion for summary decision were filed on May 9, 2000. Petitioner filed a letter brief in opposition to respondent's motion on May 22, 2000. Oral argument on the cross-motions was conducted on July 14, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner commenced employment with respondent in 1974 as a teacher, assigned to teach mathematics. He holds an instructional certificate with endorsements in social studies and mathematics. In accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, petitioner acquired tenure in the position teacher in 1979. From September 1980 through the end of the 1998-99 school year, petitioner also served as Athletic Director pursuant to a job description adopted by respondent August 1, 1979. That job description is attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. Prior to 1991 "Athletic Director" was an unrecognized position title; there is no indication in the within record that the attached job description was ever submitted to the county superintendent of schools as required by N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3. During the course of petitioner's employment as Athletic Director, however, the Legislature enacted N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.1 and 2.2, effective July 1, 1994. Those statutory provisions read:

Supervisory certificate required for appointment as director of athletics

> To be eligible for appointment as the director of athletics in any public secondary school an applicant shall possess a supervisory certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners.

Prospective application of L.1991, c. 17

> Notwithstanding the provisions of section I of this act, any individual who possesses a New Jersey teacher's certificate and who is employed as a director of athletics in a public high school prior to the effective date of this act may continue to be so employed.

Petitioner continued to be employed by respondent as Athletic Director through the conclusion of the 1998-99 school year. For the 1999-00 school year petitioner was not reappointed as Athletic Director. Rather, respondent appointed Donna L. Covely to the position "Vice Principal-Student Activities/Athletics" effective July 1, 1999. All of the duties of Athletic Director were transferred to Ms. Covely.* The position to which Ms. Covely is assigned requires a New Jersey Administrative Certificate. Petitioner does not hold the appropriate certificate.

* Ms. Covely was provided with notice of the within action and was advised of her right to intervene. She did not respond.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, the parties agree that there is no material fact in issue and accordingly, this matter is ripe for summary decision.

Notwithstanding the wording of the issues in the prehearing order quoted hereinabove, the only issue necessary for determination is whether petitioner had tenure in the position Athletic Director at the conclusion of the 1998-99 school year. It is undisputed that respondent took no official action to abolish the position Athletic Director for reasons of economy or for reasons of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18:28-9 and that it did not take the consequent necessary actions prescribed in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 and 28-12. It is respondent's position that it was not required to effectuate a reduction in force with respect to the position Athletic Director because, it contends, petitioner never acquired tenure in the position.

As previously explained on numerous occasions, see, e.g., Howley and Bookholdt v. Ewing Bd. of Ed., 6 N.J.A.R. 509 (1982); Connor v. Bd. of Ed. of Township of Cinnaminson, 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 861, tenure is a legislative status, not a contractual one, and in order to be protected by the status, a teaching staff member must have met the precise conditions articulated in the statute. In order to acquire tenure in any position in the public schools in any district, the teaching staff member must be a citizen of the United States (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-3), must hold an appropriate certificate for the position, issued by the State Board of Examiners, in full force and effect (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-4) and, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A: 28-5, must hold employment in the district for:

> (a) three consecutive calendar years, or any shorter period which may be fixed by the employing board for such purpose; or
> (b) three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) the equivalent of more than three academic years within a period of any four consecutive academic years.

Prior to amendment in 1962, the tenure statute set forth only four tenure eligible positions, teacher, principal, assistant superintendent, and superintendent, and no rights of tenure attached to any gradation within any one of those designations. See, Lascari v. Board of Education of Borough of Lodi, 36 N.J. Super. 426 (App. Div. 1955), wherein it was held that the position of vice-principal had no tenure, and, therefore, where the teacher, after serving as vice-principal, was transferred to regular teaching duties without loss of salary, he was not deprived of his tenure status which was merely that of a teacher. This was specifically changed by the 1962 amendment to the statute which provided in pertinent part:

> The services of all teaching staff members including all teachers, principals, assistant principals, vice principals, superintendents, assistant superintendents, and all school nurses. . . and such other employees as are in positions which require them to hold appropriate certificates issued by the board of examiners. . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and they shall not be dismissed or reduced in compensation. . . . (Emphasis added.)*

That tenure is acquired in a particular position is made clear by the effect of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6, which was also part of the 1962 amendment, and provides:

> Any such teaching staff member under tenure or eligible to obtain tenure under this chapter, who is transferred or promoted with his consent to another position covered by this chapter on or after July 1, 1962, shall not obtain tenure in the new position until after:
> (a) the expiration of a period of employment of two consecutive calendar years in the new position unless a shorter period if fixed by the employing board for such purposes; or
> (b) employment for two academic years in the new position together with employment in the new position at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year; or
> (c) employment in the new position within a period of any three consecutive academic years, for the equivalent of more than two academic years;

> provided that the period of employment in such new position shall be included in determining the tenure and seniority rights in the former position held by such teaching staff member, and in the event the employment in such new position is terminated before tenure is obtained therein, if he then has tenure in the district or under said board of education, such teaching staff member shall be returned to his former position at the salary which he would have received had the transfer or promotion not occurred together with any increase to which he would have been entitled during the period of such transfer or promotion.

Respondent's arguments herein focus on the time period prior to July 1994; respondent asserts that in the absence of a determination from the county superintendent of schools, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b), that the position Athletic Director required the possession of an instructional certificate, respondent's own job description (attached hereto) requiring such a certificate does not elevate the position to that of a teaching staff member eligible for tenure, citing Jennings v. Board of Ed. of Highland Park, 89 S.L.D. 1097. All that occurred with respect to petitioner's position Athletic Director prior to 1994 is irrelevant, however, in regard to a resolution of the within matter. After 1994 the only person not holding a supervisor's endorsement (or one or the other supervisory endorsements on the administrative certificate) who could function as Athletic Director was someone, such as petitioner, who had held the position Athletic Director prior to July 1994. After July 1994 such a person was statutorily required to possess a standard New Jersey Instructional Certificate. Therefore, commencing with July 1994, petitioner, who held a standard New Jersey Instructional Certificate with endorsements as teacher of mathematics and teacher of social studies, served in a recognized position title continuously for five academic years. It is not necessary to determine, therefore, whether petitioner was required to serve two years and one day pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-6 or three years and one day pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, because in July 1999, when respondent summarily reassigned all of his duties to another teaching staff member, petitioner clearly held tenure in the position Athletic Director in respondent's district, and he was entitled to all of the protections which such tenure status provides. Respondent took no official action to abolish the position, to articulate reasons for its action or to establish a preferred eligibility list. For all of these reasons, petitioner is entitled to prevail herein as a matter of law. I CONCLUDE that his tenure rights were violated.

Petitioner does not seek appointment to the newly created position title currently held by Ms. Covely, which position requires an administrative certificate that petitioner does not possess and which includes numerous other duties in addition to those he had performed as Athletic Director. Until such time as respondent acts as required by statute to abolish the position Athletic Director for reasons of economy or efficiency or whatever legitimate reason it may articulate, petitioner is entitled to the salary and emoluments associated therewith.

For all of the foregoing reasons, petitioner's motion for summary decision is hereby GRANTED. Respondent's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED and respondent is ORDERED to provide petitioner with back pay and benefits associated with the position Athletic Director from July 1, 1999 until such time as it may abolish his position in accordance with the requirements of the statutes.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

ROBERT BARRATT,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF GLASSBORO, GLOUCESTER COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions and petitioner's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

The Board's exceptions aver that the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) erred in interpreting the grandfather clause of N.J.S.A. 18A: 26-2.2 as conferring tenure rights by virtue of the statute's requirement that an athletic director (AD) possess an instructional certificate. The Board argues, inter alia, that prior to the enactment of this statute, many ADs were not certificated staff, thus, N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.2 terminated the employment of any person so employed and allowed those already employed as ADs with instructional certificates to retain their jobs. It further argues that:

> Historically, the position of AD was an extra-curricular position much like coaching in which a staff member was and is required to be a certificated teacher. [citations omitted] If the coach resigned from coaching or if another staff member was selected as coach, the former coach would return to his/her teaching position. This analogy is applicable to the case herein. No tenure rights were conferred by the grandfather clause. Mr. Barratt's tenure remains in the category of teacher. (Board's Exceptions at 3)

The Board also excepts to the ALJ's finding at page 7 of the Initial Decision that petitioner prevailed as a matter of law because the Board took no official action to abolish his AD position, to articulate the reasons for its actions or to establish a preferred eligibility list. With respect to this, it avers that the ALJ's finding ignored the fact that it took two separate votes to establish the newly combined Vice-principal/Student Activities/Athletic Director position at Glassboro High School. In support thereof, the Board submits the minutes of its meetings on March 31 and May 26, 1999[1] and argues that these actions constitute formal action abolishing the AD position as it was known before. Moreover, the Board maintains that it "was not in need of two ADs, and was fully aware that creating the newly combined position effectively eliminated the former AD position. To hold otherwise exalts form over substance which has been consistently rejected by the courts. [citations omitted]" (Board's Exceptions at 3)

The Board next reiterates its argument that it was not obligated to give reasons for not reassigning petitioner to the AD position, averring that unless there is evidence of arbitrary or capricious or unreasonable judgment, the exercise of its discretionary authority with respect to nontenured extracurricular athletic staff must be sustained. It cites in support of its position Norcross v. Bd. of Ed. of North Hunterdon Reg'l H.S. District, 1991 S.L.D. 1154, aff'd State Board 92 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 176 (1991), aff'd Appellate Division No. A-3533-91, March 30, 1993 (unpublished).

Finally, the Board avers that the ALJ's decision must be reversed because its decision in creating the newly combined position was neither arbitrary nor capricious and, as

[1] Petitioner's reply exceptions urge that the minutes of these two Board meetings not be considered by the Commissioner because they were never submitted to the ALJ or made part of the record in proceedings before the OAL, nor did the Board move or otherwise show cause why the evidentiary record should be supplemented. Petitioner further argues that the minutes do not provide reasons why the Board wanted to abolish his AD position, nor do they authorize the publication of a preferred eligibility list for that position; thus, the minutes do not satisfy the statutory requirements for abolishing a position in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 and 28-12. See Petitioner's Reply Exceptions at 7-8.

held in prior case law, it is not obligated to restructure its educational program to accommodate an individual's tenure/employment rights.

Petitioner's reply exceptions urge acceptance of the ALJ's recommended decision because he has established that he achieved tenure in the position of AD and that the elimination of his tenured position by an informal transfer of its duties to another position, rather than by a formal abolishment, denied him his due process rights to challenge the legal sufficiency of the Board's reasons, as well as his rights to be listed for reinstatement to the AD or similar position. Petitioner further argues that under the circumstances of the instant matter, the ALJ's findings and determinations are fully supported by the tenure law and cases decided thereunder. Consequently, petitioner urges that the Commissioner should affirm the ALJ's order requiring the Board to provide him back pay and benefits associated with the position of AD from July 1, 1999 until such time as the Board abolishes his position in accordance with statutory requirements.

Upon review of the record in this matter, including the parties' exceptions, the Commissioner is unable to accept the ALJ's determination that "petitioner clearly held tenure in the position Athletic Director in respondent's district." (emphasis supplied) (Initial Decision at 7) With the enactment of N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2.2, those individuals who were employed prior to July 1, 1994 as an AD and who possessed an instructional certificate were allowed to continue in their employment as an AD. For such individuals serving as an AD in 1994 by virtue of an instructional certificate, tenure would be obtained in the position of teacher. See the State Board of Education's decisions in Grosso v. New Providence Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 1750 and Ellicott v. Frankford Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 1714, aff'd 251 N.J. Super. 342 (App. Div. 1991), wherein it was held that under the statutory scheme, particularly, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, "teacher" is a separately tenurable position, and that teaching staff members serving under instructional certificates achieve tenure in the position of teacher. Furthermore, the position of athletic director is not enumerated as a separately tenurable position in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5.

Similarly, for those who serve as an AD by virtue of a supervisor endorsement on an administrative certificate, tenure accrues not in the position of AD but rather, in the position of supervisor, which is a separately tenurable position enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. See Connor, supra, and Nester v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, decided by the Commissioner September 8, 1997, which determined that the AD petitioners were tenured in the position of supervisor.

Consequently, under the facts of the instant matter, any tenure protections flowing from petitioner's AD assignment attached to his tenured position as teacher, a status the parties do not dispute he achieved in the Glassboro district.[2] Therefore, the Board could assign petitioner to any instructional/teacher position within the scope of his certificate and not violate his tenure rights, so long as he did not suffer a reduction in salary. Carpenito v. Board of Education of the Borough of Rumson, Monmouth County, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 958 (1996), rev'd State Board February 4, 1998, rev'd 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App. Div. 1999).

Petitioner, however, avers that he did suffer a reduction in salary and urges that the instant matter is most similar to Connor, supra, wherein it was determined that the board unlawfully reduced the salary of an AD by expanding the duties of his position without abolishing his position of AD before naming him director of athletics and activities. The Board, on the other hand, claims petitioner did not suffer a loss or reduction of salary because the AD position was an extracurricular, stipended assignment [3] and, therefore, the only loss petitioner suffered was the extracurricular stipend he received as an AD. Of this, the Board states:

> In the present controversy, the Board determined not to reassign Petitioner to the position of AD. Such action was a proper exercise of the board's authority. Despite this authority, Petitioner alleges that the Board improperly reduced his salary by not reassigning him to the AD position. However, this allegation is unsupported by the law.  Mr. Barratt is a tenured teacher for which he cannot be dismissed or reduced in salary. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10; 18A:28-5. However, a transfer is not a demotion. [Lascari, supra] Mr. Barratt's only loss is the stipend he received as an AD. There is no impact on his salary earned as a tenured teacher. If the duties of an AD were engrafted into his duties as a teacher, the protections afforded by the tenure statute would apply. However, there is no evidence that the AD duties were part of Mr. Barratt's duties as a teacher. (Board's Reply Brief In Opposition to Petitioner's Request for Summary Decision at 10-11).

The Commissioner notes that the boards of education in Connor, supra, and Reinhardt v. Freehold Regional High School District, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 186 (1996) argued in a similar vein that the tenured petitioners therein did not suffer a loss of salary because the AD positions they held were stipended; however, the boards did not prevail in those matters because records in both matters did not support such a claim. Moreover, the position in the Connor matter was a hybrid position, wherein part of the petitioner's workday was comprised of a teaching assignment and part of it was devoted to AD duties before it became a full-time AD position; while the AD position under dispute in Reinhardt initially consisted of a reduced teaching load before it became a full-time AD position.

Thus, any determination as to whether tenure rights were violated in this matter will rest substantially on whether or not the AD position at issue was, in fact, an extracurricular stipended assignment, as opposed to a salaried position.[4] In the instant matter, the Initial Decision does not address the Board's claim that petitioner's employment as AD was an extracurricular, stipended assignment, rather than a salaried position. Furthermore, the record is void of any specific information about petitioner's actual work day or the details of his salary/compensation, so as to permit the Commissioner to make such a determination himself. Consequently, the Commissioner finds and determines that the matter must be remanded to the OAL for supplementation of the record with respect to these issues and a determination as to whether the factual circumstances of petitioner's employment as an AD are akin to those in Connor, supra, and/or Reinhardt, supra, which, if so found, may warrant a conclusion that petitioner's tenure rights were violated by the Board in assigning him to a position within the scope of his certification and commensurate with his tenured position as teacher for the 1999-2000 school year, but at a salary less than that which he received for the prior school year.

Accordingly, the matter is remanded to the OAL, for the reasons expressed herein, for further proceedings on the issue of whether or not the Board violated petitioner's tenure rights by assigning him to a position within the scope of his certification for the 1999-2000 school year.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[5]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: JAN 11 2001

[4] It is well established that no tenure protections flow from extracurricular positions, Norcross, supra.

[5] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

WHEREAS, the School Ethics Commission was advised by the County Superintendent that this school official did not file a disclosure statement with her school and the County Superintendent's office as required by the Act; and

WHEREAS, the Commission issued an Order on August 8, 2000, directing this school official to Show Cause why the Commission should not find her in violation of the Act for failing to file the disclosure statements; and

WHEREAS, this school official failed to reply to the Order to Show Cause although the return receipt indicates that the designated person at the school received the Order on August 11, 2000 directing her to deliver it to this school official; and

WHEREAS, in its letter enclosing the Order, the Commission notified this school official that the Commission would discuss this matter at its September 2000 meeting, that she had the right to attend, and she could be found in violation of the School Ethics Act and receive a penalty up to removal; and

WHEREAS, on September 26, 2000, the designated person of the Marion Thomas Charter School faxed to the Commission Ms. Hill's disclosure statements, which provided no answers to the questions on the Financial Disclosure Statement; and

WHEREAS, on September 26, 2000, the Commission returned Ms. Hill's incomplete statements by fax indicating that they had not been properly and completely filled out; and

WHEREAS, at its meeting on September 27, 2000, the Commission found that Ms. Hill's failure to file complete disclosure statements constituted a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-25 and 26, but gave her until October 15, 2000 to file completed disclosure statements or face removal thereafter; and

WHEREAS, the Commission received no changes to Ms. Hill's statements by October 15, 2000; and

WHEREAS, on October 30, 2000, Ms. Hill faxed disclosure statements writing in "N/A" in the spaces for answers on the Personal/Relative Disclosure Statement, but not writing any answers to the questions on the Financial Disclosure Statement;

WHEREAS, the Commission considered Ms. Hill's October 30, 2000 filed statements at its meeting of November 28, 2000; and

WHEREAS, the Commission finds that Ms. Hill was given the opportunity to file complete disclosure statements, but has still declined to answer questions on the Financial Disclosure Statements in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26; and

WHEREAS, the appropriate penalty for the violation is removal from the Board, especially in light of the Commission's correspondence giving Ms. Hill ample time to correct the deficiencies in her disclosure statement;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the School Ethics Commission finds that Diane Hill violated N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26 of the School Ethics Act and recommends that the Commissioner of Education impose a sanction of removal from the board.

Paul C. Garbarini, Chairperson
School Ethics Commission

Dated: November 28, 2000

This matter shall be transmitted to the Commissioner of Education for action on the Commission's recommendation for sanction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

The record of this matter and the decision of the School Ethics Commission have been reviewed. No comments with respect to the recommended sanction were received by the Commissioner. N.J.A.C. 1:6C-18.1.

Initially, the Commissioner emphasizes that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-29(c), the Commission's determination as to violation of the Act is not reviewable by him. Only the School Ethics Commission may determine whether a violation of the School Ethics Act occurred. The Commissioner's jurisdiction is limited to reviewing the sanction to be imposed following a finding of a violation by the School Ethics Commission. Therefore, this decision is restricted solely to a review of the recommended penalty and its implementation.

Upon thorough review of the full record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to accept the Commission's recommendation that removal is the appropriate penalty, in that Ms. Hill, a "school official" pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:28-1.2, has been granted sufficient time and opportunity to file a complete financial disclosure statement required by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-26, but has failed to do so within prescribed time limits.

IT IS ORDERED that the above-named school official is removed from office as of the date of this decision.*

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Mailing: JAN 22 2001

* This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on April 11, 2000, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared an agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

The stipulation of settlement entered into by the parties is hereby adopted.

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement, and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

WALL TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, Petitioner, v. B.H. o/b/o C.H., Respondent.	Agency Ref. No. 01-4480 STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties to this action hereby stipulate that the following terms constitute a complete settlement of all issues and claims set forth in the above-encaptioned matters:

1. For the balance of the 2000-2001 school year, C.H.'s Individualized Educational Program shall be comprised of the following:

a. Classification/Placement Recommendation. The parties are in agreement with C.H.'s classification; C.H.'s I.E.P. will be implemented as follows:

i. C.H. shall attend the MCVSD Air Conditioning Program for a portion of his day and the Manasquan/Wall Alternative School program for the remainder of the school day.

ii. At the conclusion of mid-terms on or about January 29, 2001, C.H. will continue to attend the MCVSD Air Conditioning Program for a portion of his day, however, he shall be readmitted to the Wall Township High School for the remainder of the school day.

b. Related Services. Periodic and/or weekly scheduled counseling primarily for anger management within the school.

c. Supplemental Conditions. Except as modified herein, in addition to the implementation of the I.E.P. incorporated by reference as if fully set forth within, the parties further agree:

i. C.H.'s attendance and punctuality for all classes and other assigned locations are to conform with the Wall Township High School Attendance Policy.

ii. C.H. may not leave school property during the course of the school day unless express administrative approval is granted.

iii. C.H.'s behavior must conform to the Wall Township High School Code of Conduct.

iv. C.H. shall abide by the directions of his treating physicians concerning any medication(s) prescribed to assist C.H. to control his anger and impulse behaviors.

v. In the event any disciplinary incident(s) involving C.H. is sustained, sanctions up to and including removal from the Wall High School Program may be imposed.

d. Liability/Waiver. The parties further agree that the above Stipulation of Settlement was reached without any admission of or finding of liability. Accordingly, the parties waive their right to pursue reasonable attorney's fees and costs pursuant to the I.D.E.A. (20 USC §1415(e)(4); §615(i); The Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (29 USC §701 et seq.); 42 USC §1983; Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA)(42 USC §1210 et seq.); New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-27.1 (LAD); as well as other Federal and State statutes providing for reimbursement of reasonable attorneys fees and costs related to the above-encaptioned actions.

e. Voluntariness. Both parties acknowledge that they have entered into this Agreement of their own accord, without coercion or pressure of any kind; they have obtained independent legal counsel of their own selection and that they have been duly apprised of their legal rights; that all provisions of this Agreement, as well as all questions pertaining thereto, have been satisfactorily explained to them; and that the settlement embodied in this Agreement is in all respects acceptable to them.

f. Release In accordance with the provisions of paragraph d above, both parties hereby waive and generally release each other, its officers, employees (both former and present), from any and all claims, liabilities, demands or causes of action, including reasonable attorneys' fees, that they may have against them based upon the facts presented and relief requested in OAL Docket No. EDU 2551-00 and Agency Docket No. 90-3/00. However, under no circumstances shall this release constitute a waiver of any rights or remedies sought by B.H., on behalf of C.H., for causes of actions which arose out of events that took place at Wall Township High School in December 1999, or which arose out of actions taken by the Wall Township Board of Education in January 2000, which causes of action were set forth in the Title 59 Notice of Claim previously served on Wall Township High School, the Wall Township Board of Education, and other parties.

The record, Stipulation of Settlement, and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner adopts the Stipulation of Settlement as the final decision in this matter. In so holding, however, the Commissioner notes for the record that the settlement terms stipulate elements of an Individualized Educational Program (IEP) for C.H. for the 2000-2001 school year, an issue over which the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction. Consequently, it is emphasized that adoption of the Stipulation of Settlement as the final decision in this matter merely signifies approval of an amicable resolution of the controversy reached by the parties and is without comment as to the appropriateness of any of the IEP terms set forth in the settlement.

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to the parties' compliance with the terms of the settlement.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school district challenged the rejection by the Department of Education of its Early Childhood Education Plan and concomitant funding request. The Department filed an answer, generally denying the allegations of the petition.

After common issues involving this and numerous other appeals were resolved by the Chief ALJ, petitioner advised the ALJ of the two remaining issues in this matter. Subsequently, petitioner informed the ALJ that it was challenging only the alleged denial of supplemental funding to provide temporary facilities for the District's early Childhood Education Programs. The Department then moved to dismiss the petition. After petitioner responded to the motion, the ALJ determined that, because petitioner's submissions failed to establish that it had specifically requested funds for temporary facilities for the 1999-2000 school year, such a request could not have been denied by the Department. As such, the ALJ recommended dismissal of the petition.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein. Petition was dismissed.

George F. Hendricks, Esq., for petitioner (Hendricks & Hendricks, attorneys)

Michelle L. Miller, Deputy Attorney General and Michael Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on May 6, 1999, when the Board of Education of the City of New Brunswick (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education contesting the Department of Education's rejection of its early childhood education plan and concomitant funding request. An answer was filed on behalf of the Department of Education (hereinafter respondent) on May 21, 1999, and on June 7, 1999 the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

On June 11, 1999, petitioner filed an amended verified petition of appeal. A prehearing conference took place by telephone conference call on July 15, 1999, at which time it was determined that respondent would file an answer to the amended petition of appeal on or before August 6, 1999. Thereafter a number of telephone conference calls took place while various issues common to all of the "Abbott v. Burke" early childhood education appeals were being considered by Chief Judge Barbara Harned and while related matters were pending in the New Jersey Supreme Court. By letter dated August 1, 2000, counsel for petitioner advised the undersigned of the following remaining outstanding issues in the above-captioned matter:

> 1. Whether or not the State Department of Education violated the dictates of Abbott V, 153 N.J. 480, 1998 decision in denying New Brunswick Board of Education's request for supplementary funding, more particularly, failing to provide the District funding for temporary facilities for the Early Childhood Programs.
> 2. Whether or not the State Department of Education violated the dictates of Abbott V, 153 N.J. 480, 1998 for failure to provide supplemental funding for Whole School Reform, more particularly, language teachers, music teachers, art teachers.

Following a telephone conference call on August 9, 2000, the undersigned wrote to the parties by letter dated August 10, 2000, as follows:

> This will confirm, pursuant to our telephone conference call on August 9, 2000, that Mr. Hendricks will, on or before August 18, 2000, provide copies of petitioner's 1999-2000 supplemental funding requests 1) for temporary facilities for the Early Childhood Programs and 2) for Whole School Reform, more particularly, language teachers, music teachers, and art teachers. As I indicated to you on the phone, I was unable to locate any documentation concerning a request for language teachers, music teachers and art teachers, and the document I found entitled "Supplemental Funding Request Report for Facilities-Acquisition and Const.

> Services" talks about a five-year maintenance plan and substandard classroom upgrade and does not mention temporary facilities for Early Childhood Programs. Assuming that petitioner can establish that it applied for supplemental funding for these two articulated purposes, initial discovery requests will then be issued no later than August 25, 2000. We also determined that all discovery would be completed by September 25, 2000, and that the hearing would commence on October 2, 2000 and continue on October 6, 2000, rather than the November dates we had previously scheduled. I will wait until we receive whatever Mr. Hendricks provides on August 18, 2000, to prepare the final prehearing order articulating the issues for determination at the hearing. I am wondering whether perhaps remedies/mootness needs to be considered as an issue as well, i.e., if petitioner were to prevail on the issues as articulated in Mr. Hendricks' August 1, 2000 letter, to what relief would it be entitled? If the District had somehow managed to find funds for 1999-2000 and paid for the temporary facilities and the whole school reform teachers, then reimbursement would be an appropriate remedy, but given the fact that it probably did not happen (did it?) what could legally be done with the money now if the State were required to provide it?
> As I indicated, I will be on a scheduled vacation from August 14 to September 6, 2000. Please let my secretary know if you wish to have a conference call in September before I issue the prehearing order.

Petitioner's counsel replied by letter dated August 16, 2000, as follows:

> After conferring with the appropriate officials of the New Brunswick Board of Education, our appeal would be limited to issue 1, as per my letter of August 1, 2000, more particularly for supplemental funds for temporary facilities for the Early Childhood Programs.
> If the Court should be so inclined to order the State to comply with Abbott V to provide funding for temporary facilities for the Early Childhood Programs, the Board would rent and remodel facilities. It should be noted that the Board could not do same without the appropriate requested funds. That would include 1999-2000 as well as the 2000-2001.

> In response to Your Honor's request, enclosed is a portion of our supplementary funding request for temporary facilities (which was attached to our Amended Verified Petition of Appeal).

Thereafter, respondent filed a motion to dismiss the appeal in the within matter (as well as a subsequent appeal for the 2000-2001 school year, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6289-00). Respondent's letter brief in support the motion to dismiss in regard to the within matter argued that the case is moot because any request for temporary facilities must be reviewed within the context of current facts, i.e., the number of students currently needing to be served, and petitioner has filed an amended application for 2000-2001 rescinding its request for temporary facilities in the form of modular units or trailers. Petitioner filed a letter brief in opposition to the motion, dated September 13, 2000, and oral argument on the motion to dismiss was conducted by telephone conference call on September 21, 2000. Thereafter, by letter dated September 22, 2000, the undersigned wrote to the parties, as follows:

> This will confirm, pursuant to our telephone conference call on September 21, 2000, that unless petitioner provides the paperwork to prove that the Commissioner denied a specific request ($2,000,000.00?) for supplemental funds to rent and renovate temporary facilities for the early childhood program for 1999-2000, that appeal will be dismissed. The Supplemental Funding Request Report, which was attached to the Amended Verified Petition of Appeal and which I have attached to this letter, shows a $2,348,500 request for Facilities Acquisition and Construction Services, all of which, we can conclude, was denied since the department approval stated:
> Supplemental Funding
> > Supplemental funds in the amount of $4,997,101 have been approved. These funds are for existing instructional programs and will fund elementary and secondary teacher salaries and associated fringe benefits. These positions will be reconsidered when the district enters whole school reform.
> However, the only specifics I see in the petition concerning the supplemental fundings request for facilities are those which are also attached to Mr. Hendricks' letter dated August 16, 2000 and which state, "Without the Supplemental Funding, the five-year maintenance plan and substandard classroom upgrade will not take place. The absence of both functions in the 1999-2000 budget will put a further strain on our already critical facilities needs." If documentation of the specific request which petitioner says the Department denied is forthcoming by > October 6, 2000, I will proceed to decide the pending motion on the merits; otherwise the 1999-2000 case will be dismissed. We will reserve the October 2 and October 6, 2000 dates which we currently have reserved for trial dates to use as a settlement conference in the 2000-2001 case if the Department has rendered a determination on the pending amended plan before then.

> This will also confirm that neither of you had any objection to the motion of NJEA and the New Brunswick Education Association to participate in this matter as long as participation is restricted to filing a brief and filing exceptions to an initial decision. Please forward confirming letters.
> Please let me know the status of these matters as soon as you do. Thank you for your cooperation.

The October 6, 2000 deadline for verifying that petitioner had, in fact, requested supplemental funds to rent and renovate temporary facilities was extended at petitioner's request. By letter dated October 30, 2000, petitioner's counsel advised as follows:

> Enclosed please find Memorandum of New Brunswick Board of Education Business Administrator, Edward Kent, memorializing the process of applying for Early Childhood facilities for the 1999-2000 budget, as well as Mr. Ronald Larkin's correspondence to Barbara Anderson, Assistant Commissioner of NJ Department of Education, dated December 23, 1998, and the Department of Education's response, dated January 13, 1999.
> It is the New Brunswick Board of Education's position that they applied for the Early Childhood Temporary Facility funds and were rejected. On this application for summary dismissal the Petitioner's factual assertions should be given most favorable consideration. Please review and advise.

The documents referenced in counsel's October 30, 2000 letter, i.e., the October 5, 2000 memorandum from Board Secretary Edward D. Kent, the December 23, 1998 letter of Superintendent Ronald F. Larkin to Dr. Barbara Anderson, Assistant Commissioner, and the January 13, 1999 letter from Mike Azzara, Assistant Commissioner, to Superintendent Larkin (2 pages), are all attached hereto and made a part hereof as if set forth herein at length. Counsel for the Department of Education filed a response to petitioner's October 30, 2000 letter on November 6, 2000, whereupon the record closed. Respondent's November 6, 2000 letter memorandum pointed out that the documentation supplied refers to $8,820,000.00 for the purchase of permanent facilities, not $2,000,000, plus or minus, for leasing/renovating temporary facilities as previously asserted.

Based upon all of the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that since petitioner's submissions fail to establish that any specific request for supplemental funding to rent and renovate temporary facilities was made to the Department of Education for the 1999-2000 budget year, the Commissioner could not have denied such a request, and accordingly, the Commissioner and the within forum are without jurisdiction to entertain petitioner's appeal of a denial. Given this conclusion, it is not necessary to consider respondent's arguments that such an appeal for the 1999-2000 school year is moot. Respondent's arguments concerning petitioner's appeal for the 2000-2001 school year will be addressed in the context of that case (EDU 6289-00).

For the foregoing reasons, it is hereby ORDERED that the within matter is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE and these proceedings are concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RE: Early Childhood Appeal

With reference to our December 23, 1998 letter to Assistant Commissioner Anderson requesting $8,820,000.00 for Early Childhood facilities, and Assistant Commissioner Azzara's January 13, 1999 denial of the funds by requesting additional data, I contacted our Budget Examiner, Mr. Scott Henry with whom Dr. Larkin and I met to discuss the issue. The meeting took place in our conference room in either late January or early February, 1999. At that meeting, Mr. Henry advised us not to include this in the 1999-2000 budget, but to add it into our five-year Facilities Plan, which we did.

The Facility Construction and Financing Act has now been approved, but we still do not have sufficient facilities to address the needs of the Early Childhood Program.

As with everything that comes from Mr. Henry, nothing is in writing.

I hope this helps clarify the issue.

RE: Supplemental Request - Early Childhood Program Aid

Dear Dr. Anderson:

The New Brunswick Public Schools, in an effort to be in compliance with the Supreme Court ruling, seeks emergent relief from a financial dilemma.

The mandate of providing an education for all 3, 4 and 5 year old children in New Brunswick cannot be met without the purchase of additional land and facilities. The Community Based Providers can only accommodate approximately 240 children, the current district capacity is approximately 780 children, and the planned expansion within the district (modulars) will accommodate another 450 children. With an estimated 2,300 children eligible within the district, we find ourselves deficient in space to service the remaining 830 children.

To address this need, we have identified two parcels of land, one of which contains a building that needs renovations, and the other is barren land requiring access and egress routes. The estimated cost of land, building, and renovations is estimated to be $8,820,000.00. Since the district has no surplus in its General Fund Accounts, and all of our Early Childhood Program Aid has been devoted to existing programs within the district, I am asking for your assistance. If we cannot obtain the above stated parcels of land, and begin to make the necessary renovations and improvements by the end of January 1999, we will be unable to open the doors of these facilities to meet the September 1999 mandate.

Your consideration and direction in this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Have a very happy and safe holiday!

Sincerely,

Ronald F. Larkin

Dear Dr. Larkin:

I am writing in response to your December 23, 1998 request to Assistant Commissioner Anderson for supplemental Early Childhood Program Aid in order to fund the purchase of land, building, and building renovations for early childhood facilities in the New Brunswick School District.

The Supreme Court was aware that its decision in Abbott created a dilemma for these districts, by requiring the operation of Early Childhood Programs in the fall of 1999, at least one year ahead of the anticipated completion of the first projects resulting from the Five-Year Facilities Management Plans. Thus, while the court accepted the FMP process as an appropriate measure to address Abbott facilities, it encouraged the use of temporary facilities, including trailers, to implement early childhood programs in the interim. The court also encouraged collaboration with community-based providers of pre-school services, as your letter reflects.

The pre-school enrollment numbers that you indicate for New Brunswick suggest a significant increase in the three, four, and five-year old cohorts over the district's current kindergarten enrollment of 595. Planning permanent pre-school facilities should consider the degree to which this increase in the cohort size will be sustained over at least a five-year period, per the enrollment projections required in NJAC 19A-5.1(c). Additional consideration must be given to the willingness of community-based providers to expand their capacities, and to the percentage of the eligible cohort that will actually enroll in any program. The court-appointed master in Abbott estimated that 75 percent of students who would attend kindergarten in public school would actually participate in pre-school. A more complete enrollment picture would be required to justify the expenditure requested in your letter.

Even if the need for these facilities prior to the Abbott Facilities Management Plan were approved by the department, no commitment of additional state funds could be made prior to the review and approval of the district-wide budget for reallocations. Further, alternatives to an outright appropriation of $8.8 million in additional state aid will have to be considered, including lease-purchase financing or local bonds, which would spread the cost out over several years. An amortization schedule for bonds in the requested amount would help evaluate alternative financing strategies. Additional state fund decisions will not occur until March 22, 1999 or thereabouts.

As you know, debt service payments on bonds or COP's would be eligible for state aid under existing formulas. Furthermore, a bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblymen Asselta and Gibson would reimburse Abbott districts for the full amount of construction costs falling within the facilities standards that is started before the adoption of funding legislation.

If you still want this request to be considered as part of your Early Childhood Plan, please submit the following:

a) a demographic study supporting your long-term projection of 3 and 4 year olds.

b) an amortization schedule for the issuance of bonds or lease purchase financing.

c) a detailed demonstration that the use of trailers or other temporary facilities is not possible.

I trust this information will help clarify the options available to the New Brunswick School District.

Please call the Division of Finance if you require additional information.

Sincerely,

Mike Azzara
Assistant Commissioner

IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION OF	:
THE CHARTER OF THE COLLEGE	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
PREPARATORY ACADEMY CHARTER	:	DECISION ON MOTIONS
SCHOOL, MORRIS COUNTY.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, June 14, 2001

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, August 14, 2001

For the Appellant, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler (Carol R. Smeltzer, Esq. of Counsel)

On June 14, 2001, the Commissioner of Education notified the Board of Trustees of the College Preparatory Academy Charter School ("School" or "Charter School") that he was revoking the School's charter, which had initially been granted for the 2000-01 school year. The Commissioner indicated that the Charter School was not operating in compliance with its charter, statutes and regulations and, in addition, had experienced a steady decline in student enrollment over the course of the academic year. The Commissioner observed that the Charter School had been placed on probation for the second time in March 2001[1] and that a visit to the School by Department of Education staff in May 2001 revealed that it was in a significant deficit position and fiscally insolvent. He found, in addition, that the School had submitted a weak financial plan on May 30, 2001 that relied on unsubstantiated sources of funds and that the School had failed to submit a viable plan to eliminate its deficit position. He therefore directed the School to cease operations on June 30, 2001.

On July 12, 2001, the Board of Trustees filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education. That appeal is currently pending before the State Board.

On August 1, 2001, the Board of Trustees filed a motion for a stay of the Commissioner's decision with the State Board. By letter of that date, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office advised the counsel for the Board of Trustees that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-2.2, a motion to stay a determination of the Commissioner pending determination of an appeal to the State Board must first be made to the Commissioner.

On August 2, 2001, the Board of Trustees filed a motion with the Commissioner seeking a stay of his decision. By letter decision of August 14, 2001, the Commissioner declined to stay his decision, finding that the Board of Trustees:

> offers no documentation or factual information whatsoever to support its assertions that the deficiencies leading to the revocation of its charter as set forth in the June 14, 2001 decision were erroneously determined by the Department, or, have in fact been remedied....
> In this regard, I note that Petitioner does not dispute the cumulative findings with respect to its financial operation that led to the decision on June 14, 2001 to revoke its charter, but merely seeks an opportunity to correct them

[1] We note that the Commissioner had first placed the School on probation in November 2000 after it had failed to comply with his directive to provide the names of the students who had transferred out of the School and the names, addresses and phone numbers of their parents.

> during the next academic year. Nor does Petitioner address at all the issue of repaying affected school districts for the overpayment of charter school aid due to the withdrawal of students during last academic year. Under these circumstances, I cannot find that Petitioner is likely to prevail on the merits of its appeal, or that students, parents/guardians and staff, who have been on notice of the impending revocation since June 2001, will suffer greater harm by having to make alternative educational and employment arrangements for the next school year than they would by remaining in a school which has been determined to be in a significant deficit position and fiscally insolvent.

Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 3-4.

The Commissioner also rejected the Charter School's due process arguments, stressing that the school laws and implementing regulations did not require him to place a charter school on probation before he could revoke its charter.

On August 15, 2001, the Board of Trustees renewed its application to the State Board for emergent relief in the form of a stay of the Commissioner's decision. As set forth in its moving papers, the Board of Trustees argues that the School and its students will suffer irreparable harm if a stay is not granted, stating that there were approximately 119 students enrolled at the School for the 2001-02 school year and that "[w]ithout a stay of the Commissioner's decision, students will be forced to make enrollment decisions well before September 5, 2001. Many of the families comprising the [Charter School's] population lack the financial means to enroll their children in private schools. To force them to reenroll their children in public schools, would cause irreparable harm to the students of [the Charter School]." Brief in Support of Motion, at 6-7.

However, in a certification filed with the motion, the counsel for the Board of Trustees avers that "the school will not open to students for the 2001-02 school year. Accordingly, the State Board may grant the requested stay, without concern that the school children will suffer any detrimental impact as a result thereof." Certification of Carol R. Smeltzer, Esq., at 3. She notes that "should the State Board decline to grant its requested emergent relief, the school will be required to immediately liquidate its assets [pursuant to a letter dated August 3, 2001 from Anne O'Dea, Director of the Office of Charter Schools]. Such liquidation would detrimentally impact the College Preparatory Academy Charter School." Id.

The Board of Trustees further contends in its motion that there is a reasonable probability that it will prevail on the merits of its appeal and that the equities weigh in favor of the Charter School.

On August 21, 2001, the Commissioner filed a motion to participate in this matter, along with a brief in opposition to the motion for a stay. The Board of Trustees filed a brief in opposition to the Commissioner's motion. In its brief, the Board of Trustees indicates that "it has no intention of opening for the 2001-02 school year but rather that a stay is required to prevent the liquidation of assets pending a final disposition by the State Board on the merits of its request for a planning year and an opportunity to reopen for the 2002-03 school year." Brief in Opposition to Motion to Participate, at 2.

Initially, we grant the Commissioner's motion to participate and have considered his brief in reviewing this motion.

After careful review of the papers, we find that the Board of Trustees has failed to demonstrate that it is entitled to emergent relief under the standard set forth in Crowe v. De Gioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982).

We fully agree with the Commissioner that the Board of Trustees has not demonstrated the likelihood that it will prevail in its appeal. There is nothing in the brief and materials submitted by the Board of Trustees in support of its motion that would counter the Commissioner's findings regarding the serious deficiencies at the School. Contrary to its contention, the Board of Trustees was provided with considerable notice of the School's financial deficiencies and given the opportunity to correct them. For example, by letter dated April 6, 2001, the County Superintendent directed the Charter School to make a payment in the amount of $21,572 to the Dover school district by April 16, 2001 for overpayment of tuition. Such overpayment resulted from students who had withdrawn from the Charter School and returned to the Dover district. When the Charter School sought to have such payment deferred, the County Superintendent, by letter dated April 17, denied such request but extended the deadline for making that repayment to April 20. The County Superintendent added that since the total overpayment was $76,180, the School should also make arrangements to encumber at least $54,608 to be returned to Dover at the conclusion of the current quarterly period in June. The record shows that as of June 14, 2001, the Charter School still had not made any of the required payments but was proposing to defer the repayment by making twelve equal payments during the next school year.

The deficiencies with regard to the certification of staff members, which had included certified teachers being assigned outside of their certification and individuals being employed as teachers before being admitted to the provisional teacher training program, continued even through the second probationary period. In a letter dated May 14, 2001 to the Board of Trustees, the Director of the Office of Charter Schools found "no evidence that the use of inappropriately certified and non-certified teachers of physics and Spanish, respectively, has been successfully corrected." In addition, the record indicates a continuing failure by the School to comply with the regulations governing the employment and training of provisional teachers, N.J.A.C. 6:11-5.1 et seq. See, e.g., memo dated June 13, 2001 from Judy Cifone to Anne O'Dea.

We also concur with the Commissioner's rejection of the Board of Trustees' due process argument. As we stressed in In the Matter of the Revocation of the Charter of the Greenville Community Charter School, decided by the State Board of Education, August 1, 2001, the law does not require that a charter school be afforded a probationary period to correct deficiencies before its charter can be revoked. Rather, N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17 and N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.4 provide that the Commissioner may place a charter school on probation, but do not require that he do so. In this instance, the Charter School was placed on probationary status twice during its first year of operation before its charter was revoked at the end of that school year. Moreover, as previously indicated, the School was given considerable notice of its deficiencies and provided with the opportunity to correct them.

It is also noteworthy that while the Board of Trustees contends in its brief in support of its motion that its students will suffer irreparable harm if the School is not permitted to operate in the 2001-02 school year, it also acknowledges that it has no intention of opening for the 2001-02 year and that it is seeking a stay to prevent the liquidation of assets.

Given these circumstances and the nature and gravity of the School's deficiencies, we can find no basis for concluding that denial of the relief sought would cause irreparable harm to the School's students. Nor do the equities favor the granting of a stay.

Accordingly, for the reasons stated, we deny the Board of Trustee's application for emergent relief.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE ESSEX COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION ET AL.,	:	DECISION

Petitioning social studies teacher alleged that the Essex County Educational Services Commission Board's (ECESC) termination of his services in January 1999 was violative of school law and regulation and contrary to the terms of the parties' employment contract. Petitioner sought reinstatement with compensation.

The ALJ determined that petitioner had no legal right to the position held by Mr. Harold Morrison, the teacher that petitioner was replacing due to Mr. Morrison's unexplained absence. The ALJ found that petitioner's employment was not approved by the ECESC Board of Directors; petitioner never received nor executed a written contract of employment; and, during the entire time of petitioner's employment, Mr. Morrison was not terminated nor had he resigned, retired or died. Thus, the ALJ concluded that petitioner had no legal right to the position held by Mr. Morrison, notwithstanding his unexplained absence or the verbal promises made to petitioner granting him greater than substitute status.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner noted that by the explicit wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1, no teaching staff member may be appointed except by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. This is true even as here where it was alleged that the Board's administrator provided assurances of employment to petitioner. (Brennan; Fanago; Bolger) Petition was dismissed.

LESTER VINCENTI,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE ESSEX COUNTY EDUCATION COMMISSION, et. al.,

Respondent.

Lester Vincenti, Petitioner, pro se

John H. Watson, Esq., and Avery Pilgram, Esq., for Respondent

Record Closed: September 20, 2000 Decided: September 21, 2000

BEFORE THOMAS R. VENA, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, Lester Vincenti, alleges that the Board of Education of the Essex County Educational Services Commission (ECESC) violated State Education law and Regulations and acted in violation of an alleged contract between the parties when it terminated his employment in January 1999. Petitioner seeks an order from the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) reinstating him to the position, together with lost back pay, among other things. This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The hearing was held on July 10, 2000, July 11, 2000 and August 1, 2000 at the offices of the OAL in Newark, New Jersey. The parties submitted post-hearing memoranda which were received from petitioner on September 7, 2000 and respondent on September 11, 2000 with replies thereto received on September 18, 2000 and September 20, 2000, at which time the record was closed.

ISSUES

The issues to be determined by this administrative tribunal, as set forth in the Pre-hearing Order dated June 7, 2000, are as follow:

1. Whether Petitioner's termination by Respondent violated the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1, et seq., and/or regulations promulgated pursuant thereto.

2. Whether a contract existed between the parties.

3. Whether, if so, that contract provided for terms and conditions prior to its termination.

4. Whether, if so, the terms of the employment contract were breached.

5. If a contract existed between the parties and it was breached, and/or Respondent otherwise violated the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1, et seq., and regulations promulgated pursuant thereto, is Petitioner entitled to damages and, if so, to what damages is the Petitioner entitled?

In sum: Did any statute, regulation or contract prohibit Petitioner's termination by Respondent on January 27, 1999, and, if so, to what damages is Petitioner entitled?

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon the testimony of the witnesses appearing before me and a thorough review of the documents submitted in evidence, and having considered the credibility of the witnesses, I FIND the following facts:

The full-time social studies teacher at the Essex Campus of ECESC for the 1998-1999 school year was Harold Morrison. Toward the end of October, Mr. Morrison stopped reporting for work without explanation. Efforts to contact Mr. Morrison were unsuccessful and the ECESC Superintendent, Dr. Jacqueline A. Young, wrote to him confirming that Dr. J. Kenneth Watts, the Essex Campus Principal, and others had been unsuccessful in contacting him and insisting that he contact her by December 15, 1998 to discuss what action should be taken (P-8).

When Mr. Morrison failed to contact Dr. Young or anyone else connected with the ECESC following the December 3, 1998 letter (P-8), Respondent took steps to ensure that a social studies teacher performed those services pending some resolution of the problem regarding Mr. Morrison's absence. To that end, and in fact prior to the written request, Respondent ran an advertisement for the position in the Education Section of The Star Ledger on November 22, 1998 (P-20).

Still without a certified social studies teacher, the Principal of the Essex Campus program, Dr. J. Kenneth Watts, contacted Petitioner Lester Vincenti in December 1998 following the suggestion of Lola Thomas, the District's Coordinator of Home Instruction.

The critical telephone conversation between Dr. Watts and Mr. Vincenti took place on December 24, 1998 at approximately 11:00 a.m. Dr. Watts and Mr. Vincenti discussed the opportunity available as a result of the absence of Mr. Morrison and Mr. Vincenti's qualification to teach social studies at the Essex Campus. Having been filled in by Ms. Thomas, Dr. Watts advised Mr. Vincenti that he "fit the bill completely." Arrangements were made for Mr. Vincenti to commence employment as a social studies teacher at the Essex Campus upon return from the Christmas break, January 4, 1999, at the rate of $23 per hour, six hours per day, five days per week. While affirmed as a "contract position," no written contract was ever provided by the ECESC and none was signed by Mr. Vincenti. Petitioner's employment was never approved by the ECESC Board of Directors.

Mr. Vincenti reported for work as instructed on January 4, 1999 at 8:30 a.m. The dates and hours he actually worked for Respondent are as follows:

January 4 through January 6 – three days – eighteen hours (R-1)
January 7 through January 20, 1999 – eight days – forty-eight hours (R-2)
January 21, 1999 – one day – six hours (R-3)

On Monday, January 25, 1999, suffering from a 102° fever, Vincenti called in sick. He did so by leaving a message on an answering machine at approximately 6:00 a.m. on that date. At 7:00 a.m. he was contacted by Dr. Watts who advised him "your services are no longer required."

During this period of time, the staff of ECESC continued to seek resolution of the status of Mr. Morrison. Following the failure to Mr. Morrison to respond to Dr. Young's letter of December 3, 1998 (P-8), she advised him via certified mail and regular mail that she was recommending to the Board of Directors of the Essex County Educational Services Commission on January 27, 1999 that he would be terminated immediately due to "excessive absenteeism and failure to report absences" (P-9). The certified mail was returned unsigned, but the letter mailed via regular mail was not returned and was therefore presumptively delivered. No response has ever been received from Mr. Morrison. On January 27, 1999, the Board of Directors terminated Mr. Morrison (R-10).

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the foregoing facts and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that Mr. Vincenti has no legal entitlement to relief.

Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18:16-1, the Board of Education of any School District is granted authority to employ principals, teachers and other personnel.[1]

Employees retained by a district board of education need not be permanent employees and are not so considered unless validly appointed for a school term. District boards have the authority to retain substitute personnel by virtue of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1 which states:

> In each district the board of education may designate some person to act in place of any officer or employee during the absence, disability or disqualification of any such officer or employee subject to the provisions of Section 18A:17-13.
> The act of any person designated shall in all cases be legal and binding as if done and performed by the officer or employee for whom such designated person is acting but no person so acting shall acquire tenure in the office or employment in which he acts pursuant to this section when so acting.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the foregoing statute, even the appointment of a substitute teacher is not legally valid unless via "a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education appointing him." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1. If appointed other than as a substitute during the term of an absent employee, appointments shall be for the period of the school year, i.e., "for the period from July 1 of the year in which such board shall organize to the succeeding June 30." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-3. This presumes, however, not only the regular permanent employment of the individual and approval by the district board of education, but also through the issuance of and complete execution of a written contract of employment pursuant to N.J.S.A.

[1] Technically, the Respondent here is not a board of education. It is in fact the Board of Directors of an Educational Services Commission. While its provision of educational services differs from that of a Board of Education, its rights and obligations, as well as the rights and obligations of its employee, are the same as in any school district pursuant to its enabling statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-51, et seq. The superintendent has the same powers as conferred by statute on any superintendent of schools, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-60. Its ability to employ personnel is the same, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-65. The rights and benefits of personnel are also the same as those holding a position or employment under a public school district board of education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-66.

18A:27-5 or via a specific set of rules governing employment of teachers by the district board in question. N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.

Thus, the critical distinction from a statutory perspective is that between the filling of a vacancy caused by termination, retirement, resignation or death versus the retention of an individual to provide services "during the absence, disability or disqualification" of an existing staff member. Here, certain key facts are undisputed:

- Mr. Vincenti's employment was not approved by Respondent's Board of Directors.

- Mr. Vincenti never received nor executed a written contract of employment.

- During the entire time of Mr. Vincenti's employment, Mr. Morrison had not been terminated nor had he resigned, retired or died.

The foregoing uncontested facts forebear but a single conclusion: During Mr. Vincenti's employment with Respondent he was serving as the temporary replacement for Mr. Morrison during the latter's unexplained absence pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:16-1.1. In fact, that absence could have continued for a virtually unlimited period of time without resulting in the conversion of Mr. Vincenti's appointment from a temporary one to a permanent one. Lammers v. Board of Education, 134 N.J. 264 (1993). While this is not to say that district boards are entitled to retain temporary employees indefinitely during the course of an existing vacancy, Sayreville Education Association v. Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville, 193 N.J. Super. 424 (App. Div. 1984), it is clear that subsequent termination of a permanent employee will not convert a substitute's temporary employment to a permanent one. Driscoll v. Board of Education of Clifton, 165 N.J. Super. 241 (App. Div. 1977) aff'd, 79 N.J. 126 (1979).

Thus, I CONCLUDE that Mr. Vincenti had no legal right to the position held by Mr. Morrison notwithstanding his unexplained absence and notwithstanding any other information he may have been given verbally to the contrary. While I CONCLUDE that there was insufficient evidence presented here to justify a conclusion that promises were made to Mr. Vincenti granting him greater than substitute status, I also CONCLUDE that any such promises if indeed made would be irrelevant in light of the uncontested facts adduced at hearing, and cannot form a basis to bestow rights upon Mr. Vincenti not authorized by statute.

To reiterate, the basis of Petitioner's claim for relief is truly fact sensitive, and those uncontroverted facts mandated but one result. There was no vacancy for Mr. Vincenti to fill and, therefore, there was no transmittal of rights to any position.

ORDER

For the foregoing reasons and authorities cited, it is hereby ORDERED that Petitioner's petition for relief be hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. On October 6, 2000, petitioner submitted a request for an extension of time within which to file exceptions due to his intent to secure transcripts of the hearing. Petitioner was granted an extension until October 16, 2000 to file exceptions. Subsequently, on October 19, 2000, petitioner requested that he be granted a "stay" for filing exceptions until he obtained the transcripts. Petitioner was granted a second extension for filing exceptions until December 2, 2000. As a result, an extension of the 45-day statutory period for the Commissioner's review and issuance of a final decision, from November 9, 2000 until December 26, 2000, was requested by the Commissioner and granted by the OAL on November 2, 2000. On November 28, 2000, petitioner was granted a third extension to file exceptions until December 18, 2000 because he had not yet obtained the transcripts. This necessitated that the Commissioner seek another extension from the OAL for issuance of the final decision until January 25, 2001, which was granted on December 6, 2000. Petitioner ultimately filed exceptions, dated January 17, 2001 and received by the Commissioner on January 19, 2001, on an untimely basis pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.[1,2]

Upon thorough review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts as his own the recommendation of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) dismissing the Petition of Appeal. Even granting arguendo that petitioner's representation of the underlying facts is true, as a matter of law, he cannot prevail on the merit of his claims. The record clearly establishes, and the petitioner does not dispute, that he was never approved for employment or otherwise appointed by the Board of Directors of the Essex County Educational Services Commission (ECESC) as a social studies teacher at the Essex Campus program to fill the teaching position held by Harold Morrison; nor did petitioner ever receive or execute a written employment contract with the ECESC.

It is well established that the statutory authority to employ teaching staff members rests solely and exclusively with a board of education (N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:27-4.1), or as herein, a board of directors of an educational services commission (N.J.S.A. 18A:6-65). By the explicit wording of N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1, no teaching staff member may be appointed

[1] In each of the letters to petitioner granting him an extension within which to file exceptions, he was informed of the date by which the exceptions had to be filed and that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, any request for further extension had to be filed prior to the date the exceptions were due. No request for further extension was received prior to December 18, 2000, the last due date established for exceptions. A letter dated December 20, 2000 was filed by petitioner in which he states:

> As usual, the OAL has failed to timely prepare and deliver the last requested materials for our use in this matter in preparing our exceptions to [the ALJ]'s absurd recommendations. It appears that that agency is incapable of administering their responsibilities herein with any degree of certainty or decency.
> With this latest example of improper conduct on the part of the NJ OAL, we have determined to prepare our [exceptions] memorandum to your agency without awaiting the audiotapes we requested months ago. Same will be forthcoming shortly and we intend to raise as additional issues beyond those already raised, the interminable institutional bias and prejudice of the NJ OAL along with the continued misconduct of [the ALJ] and his cronies, respondents' counsel, including but not limited to the latest deprivations connected to [the ALJ]'s appointment to the Superior Court bench in Essex County, New Jersey.

[2] The Commissioner notes that the exceptions filed by petitioner, to the extent that they do not reiterate prior arguments and rely on prior submissions, contain a myriad of allegations against the OAL, such as "dormant animosity", "degradation and inappropriate conduct" on the part of OAL staff, matters which are properly raised before the OAL pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-3.2.

except by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board. This is true even in circumstances, such as herein, where it is alleged that a board's administrator(s) provided assurances of employment to an individual which were relied upon by that individual.

Therefore, as found by the ALJ, even accepting arguendo that petitioner's allegations are true, that Principal Watts offered him employment to fill Mr. Morrison's position and assured him that an employment contract would immediately be provided under the terms set forth in the Initial Decision, this would not entitle petitioner to the relief he seeks in this matter. Rather, the holding of the Commissioner in Brennan v. Board of Education of the City of Pleasantville, 1977 S.L.D. 1059, applies herein. That holding states, inter alia, that:

> The Commissioner cannot agree that the Board is estopped from asserting that no contract of employment existed between it and petitioner. The law is clear that boards alone can appoint teaching staff members.
> "No teaching staff member shall be appointed except by a recorded roll call majority vote of the full membership of the board of education appointing him." N.J.S.A. 18A:27-1
> An examination of the record reveals that the Board committed itself not at all to petitioner, but that petitioner mistakenly relied on the opinions and assurances of the Board's administrators in concluding that a commitment had been made. Such reliance was misplaced, since opinions and assurances cannot stand in the stead of deliberate Board action. The Board alone has the ultimate authority to decide the employment of teaching staff members.  (emphasis supplied) (at 1061-1062)

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision as amplified above, Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[4]

LESTER VINCENTI,

PETITIONER-APPELLANT,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE ESSEX COUNTY EDUCATIONAL SERVICES COMMISSION, ET AL.,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, January 25, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Lester Vincenti, pro se

For the Respondent-Respondent, John H. Watson, Esq.

Lester Vincenti (hereinafter "appellant"), a teacher of social studies, filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the Board of Education of the Essex County Educational Services Commission (hereinafter "Board") had improperly terminated his employment. On January 5, 2001, the Commissioner dismissed the petition, concluding that the appellant had not demonstrated his entitlement to the relief sought.

On February 26, 2001, the appellant filed a notice of appeal to the State Board of Education. Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.11(a), the appellant's brief in support of his appeal was due on March 19, 2001, 20 days after he filed his notice of appeal. The appellant requested a 30-day extension for filing his appeal brief, which request was opposed by the counsel for the Board.[1]

On March 8, 2001, the appellant filed an application for an extension until April 9 in which to file his appeal brief. He subsequently amended his application so as to seek an extension until 30 days from the date of the determination of his request. The Board filed a letter brief in opposition thereto.

By letter dated March 23, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office ("Director") notified the appellant that, upon review of the papers submitted, the Legal Committee had denied his request for an extension. Under the circumstances, the appellant was given until April 9 to file a brief in support of his appeal. The Director also informed the appellant that his failure to file a brief by that date would result in referral of this matter to the Legal Committee for consideration of the effect of his failure to perfect the appeal and that the State Board could dismiss an appeal on its own motion as the result of an appellant's failure to file a brief.

Due to a typographical error, the letter of March 23 was mailed to an incorrect post office box. As a result, a corrected letter was sent to the appellant at his proper address on April 4, and the due date for his brief was extended until April 16.

The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by that date. The appellant has still failed to file a brief in support of his appeal, more than seven weeks after the extended deadline for such filing. Nor has he offered any explanation for his failure to file. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.12(a).

Petitioning school district sought, pursuant to statute and the district's written policy, tuition from respondents for a portion of the time their children attended petitioner's schools prior to respondent's being domiciled in the petitioning district. Respondents argued that, although they signed a form when enrolling their children agreeing to pay tuition for their children beginning November 1, 1999 if they were not domiciled in the district, because they were domiciled in the petitioning district for the majority of the 1999-2000 school year, they should not have to pay any tuition.

The ALJ determined that petitioner was entitled to tuition in the amount of $726.38 pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) and the district's written policy.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Board of Education of the Township of Plumsted (BOE), citing N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, demands that respondents E.J.M. and W.L.M. pay tuition for the period when they were not domiciled in the district but their children attended school in the BOE's system. Respondents contend that, because they were domiciled in the district for most of the 1999-2000 school year, they are not liable for the tuition.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2), during the BOE's November 15, 1999, meeting, respondents were afforded an opportunity to be heard on the matter of their domicile and liability for tuition and the BOE determined that respondents were not domiciled in the district and that they were liable. The BOE then notified respondents of its determination and the amount due, etc. The respondents refused to pay the tuition and, on March 27, 2000, the BOE's petition for relief and the respondents' answer were filed with the Commissioner of the Department of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2). The Commissioner deemed the matter a contested case and transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), where on April 4, 2000, it was filed. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9; N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b). The case was assigned to me, and, on November 22, 2000, after an unsuccessful settlement conference, it was heard in the OAL, Trenton. I refer to respondents by initials to avoid possible embarrassment to their children.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Respondents are the parents of two children: N.M., born August 15, 1989, and A.M., born October 1, 1990.

Prior to the 1999-2000 school year, respondents owned a single-family residence in Hamilton Township, Mercer County, where they and their children were domiciled, and their children attended the Hamilton Township public schools.

The respondents contracted to purchase a single-family home in the BOE's district (which has a New Egypt post office address). Settlement was scheduled for July 15, 1999, so respondents expected to acquire title and move to the BOE's district before the start of the 1999-2000 school year. However, in June 1999, Joseph and Sharon Keirns, the sellers, notified the respondents that their next home would not be ready by July 15, 1999. Respondents, represented by an attorney, and the Keirnses entered into a use and occupancy agreement whereby, on July 15, 1999, the Keirnses would convey title, but they would continue to reside in the home until September 30, 1999, and they would pay to the respondents $1,800 monthly rent (an amount approximately equal to the monthly payment for the respondents' mortgage and related costs for the home). During this period, the respondents expected to continue to reside in their Hamilton Township home.

Respondents wished to avoid disrupting their children's education for the 1999-2000 school year, so instead of starting their children in the Hamilton Township school system, they decided to register them and enter them in the BOE's school system. On or about August 5, 1999, W.L.M. appeared at the BOE offices for that purpose and, consistent with the BOE's usual practice, the BOE officials presented her with information and domicile verification forms. W.L.M. completed and signed the verifications, thereby acknowledging that district taxpayers should not pay for the education of children not domiciled in the district; representing that her family resided in the district, as shown by her July 15, 1999, deed attached to the verifications; and agreeing that, if by November 1 of that school year they did not reside in the district, she would pay tuition for the children according to a per diem rate shown on the forms. R-1.

Respondents' children entered the BOE's school system for the 1999-2000 school year. However, the Keirnses notified the respondents that their next home would not be ready by September 30, 1999, and respondents and the Keirnses agreed to extend the use and occupancy agreement to October 31, 1999. Thereafter, the Keirns notified the respondents that their next home would not be ready by October 31, 1999, and respondents and the Keirnses agreed to extend the use and occupancy agreement to November 1999. That is, in November 1999, the respondents continued to eat, sleep, etc., and be domiciled in Hamilton Township.

The BOE notified respondents that, on November 15, 1999, they could be heard on the matter of their domicile and liability for tuition and, on that date, E.J.M. appeared and explained his circumstances and requested that the BOE extend to November 20, 1999, the period for which he would not be liable for tuition. The BOE then notified respondents that it had denied the request and that it had determined that they were liable for tuition. By letter dated November 21, 1999, E.J.M. expressed disappointment with the determination, etc. R-3.

On November 20, 2000, the Keirnses moved into their new home and the respondents moved their domicile from Hamilton Township to the BOE's district.

By letter dated November 24, 1999, the BOE notified respondents that it had determined that they were liable for $726.38, which is 75 percent of the tuition for school days in November up to November 20, 1999, and that they could pay that amount in three payments of $242.13 each, due December 15, 1999, January 15, 2000, and February 15, 2000. P-1; see also P-3; P-4.

In a follow-up letter, the BOE notified the respondents that it had not received their payment and that, to avoid further collection action, they should submit payment. P-2. By letter dated March 6, 2000, E.J.M. responded to the BOE's attorney's letter, representing that he intended to appeal from the BOE's determination and requesting that the BOE withhold collection action until the appeal was completed. R-2.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

The State, by way of local school districts, provides "for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of free public schools for the instruction of all children in the State between the ages of five and eighteen years." N.J. Const. art. VIII, § 4, ¶ 1.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 states, in pertinent part:

> Public schools shall be free to the following persons over five and under 20 years of age:
>
> a. Any person who is domiciled within the school district; . . .
> (2) If the superintendent . . . of a school district finds that the parent or guardian of a child who is attending the schools of the district is not domiciled within the district and the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the superintendent or administrative principal may apply to the board of education for the removal of the child. The parent or guardian shall be entitled to a hearing before the board and if in the judgment of the board the parent or guardian is not domiciled within the district or the child is not kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and supported by him > gratis as if the child was the person's own child as provided for in paragraph (1) of this subsection, the board may order the transfer or removal of the child from school. The parent or guardian may contest the board's decision before the commissioner within 21 days of the date of the decision and shall be entitled to an expedited hearing before the commissioner and shall have the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence that the child is eligible for a free education under the criteria listed in this subsection. The board of education shall, at the time of its decision, notify the parent or guardian in writing of his right to contest the decision within 21 days. No child shall be removed from school during the 21-day period in which the parent may contest the board's decision or during the pendency of the proceedings before the commissioner. If in the judgment of the commissioner the evidence does not support the claim of the parent or guardian, the commissioner shall assess the parent or guardian tuition for the student prorated to the time of the student's ineligible attendance in the schools of the district. Tuition shall be computed on the basis of 1/180 of the total annual per pupil cost to the local district multiplied by the number of days of ineligible attendance and shall be collected in the manner in which orders of the commissioner are enforced. Nothing shall preclude a board from collecting tuition from the parent or guardian for a student's period of ineligible attendance in the schools of the district where the issue is not appealed to the commissioner.

"Domicile" is defined as "1. A residence; a home. 2. One's legal residence." American Heritage Dictionary 550 (3d ed. 1996). Domicile has been described as "the place of [a person's] abode where he has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he intends to return." Mercadante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J. Super. 35, 39 (Ch. Div. 1970) (citation omitted), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971). "A person may have several residences or places of abode. However, he can only have one domicile at one time." Collins v. Yancey, 55 N.J. Super. 514, 520 (Law Div. 1959). Between residences, factors used to identify the domicile include: (1) the physical characteristics of each residence, (2) the time spent and things done in each residence, (3) other persons found in each residence, (4) the person's mental attitude about each residence, and (5) whether, when absent, the person has an intention to return. Mercadante, supra, 111 N.J. Super. at 39-40. Acts, statements and documents may be relevant in determining domicile.

Consistent with the usual presumption that public entities act lawfully, reasonably and in good faith and consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1 specifically, in these circumstances, respondents bear the burden of proof by a preponderance (the greater weight) of the competent and credible evidence that the BOE's determination was incorrect and that they were domiciled in the district.

Prior to November 20, 1999, respondents held title to a single-family home in the BOE's district, but they agreed that the Keirnses could continue to occupy the home, accepting rent for that occupancy. Respondents kept their personalty, ate, slept, etc., and were domiciled in Hamilton Township, but transported their children for attendance in the BOE's school system. Only after the BOE notified respondents that they were liable for tuition, i.e., on November 20, 1999, did respondents move their domicile to the BOE's district. Respondents argue that, consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(d), since the home in the BOE's district became their "all-year-round dwelling place within the district for one year or longer," they are not liable for tuition. However, that subsection of the statute refers to school children whose parents or guardians are "residing temporarily" in the district, circumstances not present here. Respondents are governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:18-1(b)(2) and they have not met their burden of proof that, during relevant times, they were "domiciled" in the district. Therefore, they are liable for tuition. (Respondents should also note that the BOE's demand is substantially below the amount that could be demanded under applicable statutes.)

ORDER

The BOE's claim is GRANTED and the respondents are ORDERED to pay $726.38 to the BOE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's finding that respondents were not domiciled in petitioner's school district prior to November 20, 2000. He further concurs that petitioner acted within the scope of its authority and consistent with its policies and procedures in assessing tuition against respondents for their children's attendance in district schools prior to that date.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is adopted for the reasons expressed therein. Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, the Commissioner directs that respondents reimburse petitioner for tuition in the amount of $726.38.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

Record Closed: December 11, 2000 Decided: December 13, 2000

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on August 31, 1998. The multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Bernard Harris ("Harris"). On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. Subsequently, on October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing.

A hearing was scheduled in the Harris case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3815-99, on February 24 and 25, 2000. The hearing scheduled for that date was adjourned at the request of counsel for petitioner and rescheduled to October 16 and 17, 2000. On that date, settlement conferences were held, and the matter was rescheduled for a telephone status conference on October 30, 2000. A telephone conference was held on that date, during which the parties indicated that a settlement had been reached and the hearing was not rescheduled.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

The above settlement also withdraws petitioner's petition filed under the caption Baker, et al. v. Jersey City School District (12 count) OAL Dkt. No. EDU 11830-99, Agency Dkt. No. 285-9/99. Count 12 of the aforementioned case is hereby WITHDRAWN.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DIANE SWAIM AND MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:	SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association and its president asserted that the Board's action granting early tenure to two principals was arbitrary and capricious. In the 1997 Initial Decision, the ALJ dismissed the petition as moot. The Commissioner, however, determined to remand the matter to OAL to determine whether the Board acted within its authority in creating, and then rescinding, a policy to confer tenure upon all principals who had maintained continuous employment in the position of principal in the District for 24 months. Thus, the Commissioner reversed the finding that the matter was moot because the individuals in question achieved tenure, finding that issues existed of public importance which are capable of repetition while evading review. On remand, the ALJ determined that a board has the authority to shorten the period of time required for the acquisition of tenure if done for the general category of all such employees, regardless of how limited that category may be; that a board could rescind such a policy if the new requirement is uniform for all employees of the category; and that no notice of such a resolution is required if performed at a regularly scheduled meeting pursuant to the OPMA. The Commissioner determined that the ALJ did not render either factual findings or credibility assessments as to the seminal issue in this matter, i.e., the intent of the Board in undertaking its actions and whether, in light of the circumstances existing in this matter, its actions exceeded the scope of its authority. Thus, the Commissioner again remanded the matter to OAL for supplementation of the record and further findings sufficient to address these concerns.

On second remand, the ALJ concluded that the Board acted within its authority in creating and then rescinding a resolution to confer early tenure. Its actions were not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable. Citing the Supreme Court decision in Rall, the ALJ determined that a board has the power to pass such a resolution if it applies to the whole category of employees, regardless of the number of individuals within that job category. Moreover, just as in Rall, the resolution remains valid until the board adopts another rule of general application. As to notice of the resolution, no notice of such resolution is required.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner concluded that the Board's action to establish a shorter period for the grant of tenure for its principals, and its subsequent action to change the tenure qualifying period back to the presumptive three-year statutory period, grandfathering the principals lawfully tenured by its prior resolution, was within its discretionary authority. (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5; Rall) The Commissioner further concurred with the ALJ that petitioners failed to produce sufficient evidence to substantiate their allegation that the Board acted in bad faith.

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY AND STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Middletown Township Board of Education passed a resolution on July 25, 1995, shortening the period of time required for all school district principals to obtain tenure. Instead of the statutory period of three years (N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5), tenure would be granted to all principals who had "24 months of full-time service as Principal in the School District". Of the 17 principals in the school district, there were only two non-tenured principals in the district at the time of this resolution: Dr. Antonia Martinez and Dr. Alan Feuer. Both principals had at least 24 months of service, yet less than three years. By way of this resolution, both principals obtained tenure immediately.

One month later, the Board again changed its policy with regard to granting tenure to principals. On August 22, 1995, it passed a second resolution, stating that it "is now of the opinion that the reduced period of tenure is no longer in the best interests of the District." The resolution restored the time period for acquisition of tenure by principals to the statutory period of three years. The resolution noted that any principal who acquired tenure pursuant to the July 25, 1995 resolution would remain tenured. In essence, Dr. Martinez and Dr. Feuer were grand fathered as tenured principals.

Petitioners Diane Swaim and the Middletown Township Education Association (MTEA) appealed and, on November 17, 1995, this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

At a prehearing conference of February 13, 1996, hearing dates of June 10 and 11, 1996 were set. Before that, on June 4, 1996, respondent moved to dismiss the portion of the petition that concerned Dr. Martinez, since she had served three years and was entitled to statutory tenure, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5. The motion was granted.

The hearing was conducted on June 10 and 11, 1996. The matter of the standing of the petitioners was raised, and the President of the MTEA, Diane Swaim, who was also a taxpayer of the School District, was granted standing individually. The record closed following submission by the parties of written summations on December 9, 1996.

The initial decision (EDU 10691-95) concluded that the petition did not present a contested case, as defined in N.J.A.C. 1:1-2.1, because the two individuals at issue had achieved tenure by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 during the pendancy of the case. Petitioners filed exceptions, and the Commissioner of Education remanded the matter for a determination of whether the Board acted within its authority in creating, and then rescinding, such a policy conferring early tenure. The Commissioner of Education also wanted additional findings on the intent of the Board in "undertaking" its actions, and whether its actions were arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The parties agreed to rely on the transcripts of the June 10, 1997 hearing, together with the evidence submitted.

DECISION

The Board acted within its authority in creating and then rescinding a resolution to confer early tenure. Its actions were not arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

The board has the authority to shorten the period of time required for the acquisition of tenure if done for the general category of all such employees, regardless of how limited that category may be. Likewise, it could rescind such a policy if the new requirement is uniform for all employees of the job category. Additionally, no notice of such a resolution is required if performed at a regularly scheduled meeting, pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act. The Board surpassed the notice requirements in publishing its agenda for the meeting that stated that "formal action" would be taken on "personnel" items.

LEGAL DISCUSSION

The statutory provision governing the grant of tenure to teachers and principals provides that:

> The services of all teaching staff members employed in the positions of . . . principal . . . shall be under tenure during good behavior and efficiency . . . after employment in such district or by such board for:

[N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 (emphasis added).]

The petitioner argues that the school board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and in bad faith. Specifically, she argues that although the statute allows for a shorter period of time to be set for principals to obtain tenure, here it was wrongly done for the sole benefit of two individuals. Additionally, she argues that the resolution was passed without proper notice.

In Rall v. Board of Educ. of Bayonne, 54 N.J. 373 (1969), a city board shortened the length of time required for a superintendent to achieve tenure to 6 ½ months. This was done by resolution, just as in the present case. The purpose of the resolution was to confer tenure upon Dr. Rall, the then-acting superintendent. He had assumed his post under a contract which was two years and eleven months in length, short of the three years required for tenure under the statute. After 6 ½ months, the board stated that Dr. Rall had efficiently performed his duties since commencement of the contract and thus rescinded his contract and granted him tenure by unanimous vote. Two years later, prior to the date on which Dr. Rall's original contract was supposed to end, the board adopted a second resolution rescinding the former resolution and declaring the original contract to be the only valid and subsisting contract. The board declared that when Dr. Rall's contract expired the post would be vacant. It resolved that the prior resolution was void, "because it deprived the present board of such discretion, because it attempted to usurp the present board's legal duty and obligation, and because it violated the public policy of the State by denying the citizens of Bayonne the benefits of the probationary period required by statute to precede the acquisition of tenure by a school superintendent." Rall v. Board of Educ. of Bayonne, 104 N.J. Super. 236 (App. Div. 1965).

The Appellate Division held that the first resolution granting early tenure to Dr. Rall was void. It interpreted the statutory phrase that allows for boards to shorten the length of time required to achieve tenure as applying only to actions where the length of time is shortened for all present and future members of the job category, not a select individual. "The intent was plainly not to authorize exemptions from the three-year probationary term on an ad hoc basis in individual cases, as was so obviously done in the present instance." Id. at 243.

The NJ Supreme Court reversed. It stated that the board's actions were not undertaken arbitrarily or in bad faith, but in the true belief that the form of resolution was a proper legal method of accomplishing its purpose. "Under the circumstances we think the legislative act of the Board - the resolution - should be construed broadly to do what it was intended to do, i.e., meet and satisfy the requirement of the statute. Therefore, we hold that the resolution shortened the period for acquisition of tenure for superintendents of schools generally - not just for Dr. Rall . . . That rule now prevails and will continue to do so unless and until a board of education adopts another rule of general application fixing a different tenure qualifying period." Rall, supra, 54 N.J. at 377. It mattered not to the Court that Dr. Rall was the only person in the particular job category of superintendent.

In the present case, the board adopted a resolution for the general category of principals. There were only two principals within the job category that were not tenured, and both were mentioned by name in the resolution. It is apparent from Rall, that the board has the power to pass such a resolution if it applies to the whole category of employees, regardless of the number of individuals within that job category. Just as in Rall, the resolution remains valid until the board adopts another rule of general application. In the present action, the board adopted a second resolution changing the time period for acquiring tenure back to three years. This action is valid pursuant to the Rall decision.

The petitioner additionally urges that the first resolution be deemed void as arbitrary and in bad faith due to the board's alleged lack of notice of such resolution. She cites Thomas v. Board of Educ. of Morris Twp., 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965), aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966), for the proposition that tenure decisions constitute some of the most vital and responsible duties a board of education must perform, and a board cannot exercise its discretion to shorten the tenure period in an arbitrary or capricious fashion. Rather, boards must act in good faith when making such decisions.

Whether proper notice was given to the board members and the general public is a question of fact for Your Honor. At first blush, it appears that the facts in Thomas are distinguishable from the present. In Thomas, four minority board members in a politically charged community had no notice of the proposed contract alteration action. Here, there was at least some notice of "personnel" items that would be discussed, along with notice that "formal action" would be taken on such items.

In Thomas, supra, a school district superintendent was extended a two year contract by the board. After 8 ½ months, on October 18, 1962, the board adopted a resolution revoking the first contract and giving the superintendent (Dr. Thomas) a three year contract. Thus, Dr. Thomas would achieve tenure by the terms of the contract since its time period, coupled with the time already served in the position, would extend beyond the statutory three year tenure requirement. But before the conclusion of Dr. Thomas' second year, the board (composed of several different members, including three newly elected members holding the seats of three defeated members of the past majority bloc) revoked the October 18, 1962 resolution. It declared that the resolution was against public policy, invalid and of no force and effect. The only valid and subsisting agreement was the original two year contract, according to the board's second resolution.

The court affirmed the State Board of Education's decision upholding the board's declaration that the October 18, 1962 resolution was invalid. It stated that there was substantial credible evidence in the record from which the State Board could have reasonably found the board's action on October 18, 1962 to be an abuse of discretion, arbitrary and contrary to public policy. Id. at 335. Such evidence showed that the decision to revoke the remainder of the two year contract and instead extend Dr. Thomas a three year contract (which in effect would guarantee him tenure) lacked the essential elements of notice, deliberation and fair opportunity to be heard. Id. at 334. The matter was privately discussed and planned in advance by the majority bloc of the board, without notice to the four other (minority) board members. A statement extolling Dr. Thomas' accomplishments was prepared in advance, along with the new, three year contract. On October 18, 1962 at the regular meeting of the board, two of the four minority members were present. These two members protested strongly when the proposed contract action was revealed. But although they voiced concerns that they had some "unanswered questions" regarding Dr. Thomas' performance, they were not provided an opportunity to ask such questions. Without further discussion the contract matter was moved, voted and adopted by a 5-2 vote. Id. at 330. When considered along with the current political backdrop of the community, in that three of the five majority members were up for reelection a few months later

(and were all defeated), the court held that the State Board could have reasonably found the board's action to be an abuse of discretion, arbitrary and contrary to public policy.

In the present case, there was no clear notice of the proposed resolution. But the agenda did list that "personnel" items would be discussed, and that "formal action" would be taken with regard to such items. Additionally, members of the board were not caught off guard in a political move as the minority board members were in Thomas, since the superintendent and the assistant superintendent had discussed possible changes in the tenure requirements for principals in the recent past at informal meetings. All members had ample opportunity to respond at the meeting. Only one member voted against the change, for reasons clearly stated and fully addressed.

It should be noted that the Appellate Division acknowledged in Thomas, supra, that "no statute, administrative rule or regulation requires the giving of notice to board members, or to the public, of matters to be considered at such a meeting." Id. at 334. This decision was prior to the adoption of the Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA), N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq. Yet, the OPMA does not necessarily require detailed notice of agenda items. In La Fronz v. Weehawken Educ. Ass'n, 164 N.J. Super. 5 (App. Div. 1978), certif. den. 79 N.J. 491 (1979) the court held that the resolutions adopted concerning personnel were valid since the agenda published for the meeting included among its listed items of business the subject matter "personnel," which was "good and sufficient notice to cover these resolutions." Id. at 7. Additionally, it noted that pursuant to the OPMA, since the resolutions were adopted at a regular school board meeting, no further notice was required. Id.

N.J.S.A. 10:4-8(d), in defining "adequate notice" states: "Where annual notice or revisions thereof in compliance with section 13 of this act set forth the location of any meeting, no further notice shall be required for such meeting." Section 13 has been codified at N.J.S.A. 10:4-18, which describes regular meetings of a public body, and the requirement for publishing such a schedule for the year. It is undisputed that the resolution in question in the present case was proposed and adopted at a regularly scheduled school board meeting. Thus, it follows that no further notice was required of the items to be discussed. Additionally, the published agenda stating that "formal action" would be taken on "personnel" items apparently goes further than required in providing adequate notice.

From all evidence available, it appears that the Board's intent was to secure for the District the services of an able principal that it was afraid would be hired away by another district if not offered the security of tenure. Tenure has many advantages. It not only offers the employee security, it also can offer the employer the assurance of many more years of continued service of a desirable employee.

Here, the Board had nothing more it could offer Dr. Feuer – not a bonus, not additional money. So it moved up the date of his attaining tenure – and in doing so, the Board also benefited the other member of the "class," Dr. Martinez, who is also described as an excellent principal.

The board has the authority to shorten the period of time required for the acquisition of tenure if done for the general category of all such employees, regardless of how limited that category may be. Likewise, it could rescind such a policy if the new requirement is uniform for all employees of the job category. Additionally, no notice of such a resolution is required if performed at a regularly scheduled meeting, pursuant to the Open Public Meetings Act. The Board surpassed the notice requirements in publishing its agenda for the meeting that included "personnel" items.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DIANE SWAIM AND MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONERS,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION ON REMAND
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision on Remand of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioners' exceptions and the Board's reply thereto, filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, were duly considered by the Commissioner in making his determination herein.

Petitioners except to the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), stating that the facts as found by the ALJ do not support her conclusion. Rather, petitioners posit that the ALJ's findings are supportive of their claim that the Board's actions were arbitrary, capricious and in bad faith because the ALJ acknowledged that the Board's intent was to confer tenure on two individual principals whom it wanted to retain, but felt it had nothing more to offer to encourage them to stay with the District. This, petitioners assert, confirms that the Board misused its authority by granting tenure before the expiration of the statutory probationary period to two individuals as a personal benefit. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 6-7) Citing Pickering v. Bd. of Ed. of the Borough of North Plainfield, 1987 S.L.D. 1393, 1402, remanded on other grounds by the Commissioner, 1987 S.L.D. 1408, petitioners argue that the grant of early tenure to an individual as a personal benefit is unlawful and that:

> The fact that these two individuals comprised the entire class of eligible employees at that particular moment does not change the fact that the Board's "intent", evident on the record and as found by the ALJ, was to benefit these individuals, as further confirmed by the subsequent resolution, barely three weeks later, rescinding the first resolution yet permitting the two individuals to be "grandfathered" in. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 7)

Petitioners support the gravamen of their argument that the Board exercised its authority in an arbitrary and capricious manner in order to confer the benefits of early tenure on two specific individuals, "and not to an open-ended class of current and future principals," (ibid.) by citing to Board Member Scaduto's testimony:

> ...I do like the opportunity to evaluate someone as long as I possibly could before I put them in a position where I may not have that flexibility. However, taking administration's recommendations into consideration and my own personal experience in dealing with Mr. Feuer and Mrs. Martinez, I see no reason why, at this time, I could not, in all conscience, vote for an early tenure of these two individuals. P-11; see also P-6 (emphasis in text) (Id. at 7-8)

Moreover, petitioners aver that the inappropriateness of the tenure resolution is underscored by the fact that Board President Stokes expressly advised Board members that he had been informed that the tenure resolution would not create a precedent, which petitioners interpret as meaning that it would never be applied to anyone other than Dr. Feuer and Dr. Martinez. (Ibid.) Further, petitioners submit, the "immediate preparation" of the rescinding resolution, which grandfathered Dr. Feuer and Dr. Martinez, confirms that the Board's intent was never to change the statutory tenure period "for all principals present and future." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 9) Citing Roberts v. Bd. of Ed. of Hudson County Area Vocational-Technical School District, 1984 S.L.D. 999, 1003, aff'd State Board 1984 S.L.D. 1026, where "the board resolution was invalidated because 'the resolution made it perfectly clear that the grant of tenure was to individuals and the rescission resolution confirmed that such was the intent of the Board,'" (emphasis in text), petitioners assert that the Board in this instance similarly acted in bad faith. Petitioners charge that, by shortening the tenure period for two individual principals and then "immediately" rescinding the resolution so that it would not apply to any new principal selected as a result of interviews for an existing vacancy that were proceeding, the Board confirmed that its intent, like that in Roberts, was the grant of early tenure to two individuals. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 9)

Petitioners further object to the ALJ's failure to make specific findings of fact as required by the Administrative Procedures Act (APA), N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq., and in light of the Commissioner's remand, which expressly directed the ALJ to make such factual findings. Petitioners argue that the requirements of the APA, as interpreted by the Courts, dictate that an initial decision must include findings of fact, conclusions of law and a sufficient explanation of how those findings of fact and conclusions of law led to that decision, such as would permit meaningful appellate review of that decision. (Id. at 11) Petitioners posit that the Initial Decision contains no mention of any pertinent facts in response to the Commissioner's remand other than two newly added paragraphs on page eight, which are notable in their failure to refer to specific facts underlying the findings. Petitioners urge that, to rectify this error, the Commissioner should exercise his authority to "modify" the Initial Decision by making the factual findings overlooked by the ALJ. (Petitioners' Exceptions at 12) In this regard, petitioners set forth a detailed recitation of proposed findings of fact which they aver should be made by the Commissioner, and which lead to the inevitable conclusion that the Board's actions in the within matter should be invalidated as unlawful. (Id. at 13-20)

In reply, the Board submitted a two-page letter stating that it will rely on its trial memorandum of June 20, 1996, a letter submitted to the ALJ on October 3, 1997 and its June 10, 1998 letter to the Commissioner in lieu of a more formal response to petitioners' exceptions. In its two-page letter, the Board posits that it should come as no surprise that the ALJ's decision is so similar to her original decision in view of the limited record petitioners presented at trial, much of which, it argues, was "incompetent" evidence. The Board objects to petitioners' suggestion that the Commissioner make independent findings of fact, stating that the Board objected to the tapes and transcripts provided by petitioners at hearing as failing to satisfy the Residuum Rule. The Board also argues that any deficiencies in the findings of facts are the result of the inadequate record presented in petitioners' case at the hearing. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which includes a transcript of the hearing below[1] and the Initial Decision on Remand, the Commissioner determines that the findings of fact by the ALJ in her decision on remand are sufficient so as to fairly resolve this matter. In so finding, the Commissioner rejects petitioners' argument that the Initial Decision does not satisfy the Commissioner's remand.

[1] It is noted that the record contains a transcript of the June 10, 1996 hearing.

Initially, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's analysis and conclusions rejecting petitioners' claim of a violation of the Open Public Meetings Act. [2]

Further, the Commissioner notes that the governing statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, provides boards of education with the authority to shorten the time period for the acquisition of tenure if it applies to an entire category of its employees, regardless of the number of employees in that category, and permits boards to subsequently act to fix a different tenure qualifying period or restore the statutory qualification period. See Rall v. Board of Ed. of the City of Bayonne, 54 N.J. 373, 377 (1969).

In this instance, the Board adopted a resolution on July 25, 1995, establishing a two-year qualifying period for its principals, stating that:

> BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown that in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, the time period within which any Principal of Schools in the Middletown Township School District may attain tenure is hereby fixed at 24 months of full-time service as Principal in the School District; and WHEREAS, the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown, in accordance with the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, hereby fixes the time period of 24 months of full-time service within which any principal of schools in the district may attain tenure as principal; and WHEREAS, Alan M. Feuer is presently employed as Principal of Schools at Middletown High School North within the School District and has been so employed since July 1, 1993, which is in excess of these 24 months; and WHEREAS, Antonia Martinez is presently employed as Principal of Schools at Middletown Village School within the District and has been so employed since February 19, 1993, which is in excess of 24 months;

[2] The Commissioner notes that petitioners did not object to the ALJ's findings and conclusions in their exceptions to the Initial Decision, stating:

> This and the immediately preceding fact are not intended to question the Board's compliance with the requirements of the Open Public Meetings Act, despite the emphasis placed on analysis under that statute by the Initial Decision. Instead, these facts show that the resolutions at issue were handled in a manner contrary to usual practice as an indication that the Board's intent was in bad faith, arbitrary or capricious. (Petitioner's Exceptions, Footnote 6)

> THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Education of the Township of Middletown that Alan M. Feuer and Antonia Martinez by virtue of the aforementioned Resolution have acquired tenure in the School District of the Township of Middletown as principals of schools and they shall continue to serve as Principals of Schools within the District with all rights and benefits accorded to tenured employees. (emphasis added) (Exhibit P-3)

Accordingly, notwithstanding the fact that there were only two principals who qualified for the grant of tenure under the 24-month provision, as named in the resolution, the Commissioner concludes that the July 25 resolution complies with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and Rall, supra, since the resolution specifically provides for tenure to an entire category of teaching staff members, i.e., to any principals who may attain 24 months of full-time service in the District.

Although petitioners vigorously advance the argument that the Board's "immediate" reinstatement of the three-year statutory period for the acquisition of tenure for its future principals, with a grandfather clause for the two newly tenured principals, less than a month later, demonstrates that the Board acted in bad faith, the Commissioner notes that neither N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 nor Rall, supra, establishes, or even suggests, a minimum acceptable time frame wherein a board may subsequently act to fix a different qualifying period or restore the statutory period for general application to the category of employees affected by an earlier resolution. Thus, mere proximity of the effectuating resolutions in situations of this type cannot, in itself, serve to establish bad faith on the part of a board.

In the instant matter, in its rescinding resolution of August 22, 1995, the Board states that it "is now of the opinion that the reduced period of tenure is no longer in the best interests of the District." (Exhibit P-8) The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have failed to produce sufficient evidence to substantiate their allegation that the Board acted in bad faith in reaching this determination. In particular, the Commissioner notes that the Board was acting on the recommendation of the District's administration, who explained that the July 25 resolution granting early tenure was applied to a class whose then-current members had been employed in the District and had been observed for a period of time, as contrasted to the situation with newly hired principals whom the Board would not have had the same opportunity to observe. (Tr. at 80)

Accordingly, the Commissioner concludes that the Board's action to establish a shorter period for the grant of tenure for its principals, and its subsequent action to change the tenure qualifying period back to the three-year statutory period, grandfathering the principals lawfully tenured by its prior resolution, constituted a reasonable exercise of its discretionary authority consistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5 and Rall, supra. The Initial Decision is, therefore, affirmed.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

IN THE MATTER OF THE REVOCATION OF :
THE CHARTER OF THE RUSSELL ACADEMY :
CHARTER SCHOOL, ESSEX COUNTY. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decision on motion by the State Board of Education, November 7, 2001

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, August 30, 2001

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, August 10, 2001

For the Appellant, Algeier, Tosti & Woodruff (Robert M. Tosti, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Participant Commissioner of Education, Allison Eck, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

This is an appeal from a determination made by the Commissioner of Education on August 10, 2001 to revoke the charter of the Russell Academy Charter School ("Charter School" or "School") effective August 30, 2001. The appeal was filed by the newly constituted Board of Trustees of the School (hereinafter "appellant").[1]

[1] According to the appellant, the former Board of Trustees was replaced on the evening of August 10, 2001, following receipt by the School's CEO of the Commissioner's decision revoking the charter. As set forth in the appellant's appeal brief:

> The parents and staff of Russell Academy were prepared for an argument that night with the former Board, hoping to persuade them that it was in the best interests of everyone involved for them to resign. But that confrontation never materialized. Only three members of the Board showed up at Russell Academy that evening....Before the meeting even started, when the Board members heard rumors of what had happened and what was planned for the evening's meeting, each and every Board member present that night voluntarily left the building. Before the

In his decision, the Commissioner concluded that the Charter School was not operating in compliance with its charter, statutes and regulations, finding that the School "has failed to make reasonable progress to resolve substantive issues in fiscal and programmatic areas including its governance structure, the staffing of certified instructional personnel, and fiscal compliance. In addition, findings of the most recent site visit on July 31, 2001 to assess the preparedness of the school in its second year of operation to open its doors for students revealed that the school continues to violate provisions in its charter and is not operating in accordance with applicable state statutes and regulations." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 1.

The specific deficiencies cited by the Commissioner included: The Board of Trustees had failed to act on critical issues related to the operation of the School, including the selection process and hiring of a lead person, faculty and staff, the review of the curriculum, and the implementation of an accountability plan that provides adequate means to demonstrate academic progress; had failed to employ and retain a fully certified instructional staff; had failed to maintain a stable enrollment as evidenced by increasingly high numbers of student withdrawals; had failed to develop, review or adopt critical school policies and procedures; did not utilize the prescribed Generally Accepted Accounting Principles; and had not submitted a budget for the 2001-02 school year.

> evening's agenda could even be discussed, it was moot. The entire former Board of Trustees of Russell Academy walked out on the school in its darkest hour. There was no question they had abandoned their posts. Having no board members left to vote to accept the resignations, the parents voted unanimously to do so. They immediately elected a new Board....

Appeal Brief, at 3.

On August 14, 2001, the appellant filed the instant appeal to the State Board. The appellant contends that the former Board of Trustees "is the entity almost entirely responsible for [the Charter School's] current predicament." Appeal Brief, at 2. While acknowledging that "significant deficiencies existed" at the School, the appellant contends that "[n]ow that the former Board has left Russell Academy, it seems clear that there is a significant core of dedicated parents that will stop at nothing to keep their school." Id. at 4. The appellant requests that the charter be reinstated and that the School be placed on probationary status for 90 days so as to provide the newly constituted Board of Trustees with the opportunity to correct the deficiencies and to reopen the School in January or September 2002.

The appellant also filed motions with the Commissioner seeking reconsideration of his decision and a stay.

On August 30, 2001, the Commissioner denied the appellant's motions. Initially, the Commissioner expressed "serious concerns with respect to whether the 'newly elected' Board of Trustees has standing to bring this action." Commissioner's Decision of August 30, 2001, slip op. at 1. Observing that the appellant had indicated in its motion for reconsideration that "[o]n the evening of August 10, 2001, the Board of Trustees in existence at that time effectively resigned their positions and a new board was elected and seated as planned," the Commissioner found that:

> [t]here is nothing in the materials provided by petitioner to explain the meaning of the statement 'effectively resigned.' There is also nothing to substantiate that the new Board was duly elected pursuant to the provisions of the charter. However, given that the timeframe for the rendering of this decision does not permit the development of a sufficient factual record to resolve this issue, I am assuming, solely for purpose of argument, that petitioner has standing to file these motions so as to enable me to consider the merits of > the applications presented on behalf of the Russell Academy Charter School.

Upon review of the School's arguments and supporting documentation, the Commissioner concluded that a stay of revocation and reconsideration of his decision would not be appropriate in this instance. Specifically, the Commissioner found that:

> the deficiencies identified in my letter of August 10, 2001 are long-standing, not quickly or easily remediable, and sufficiently serious to preclude the school's continued operation pending appeal and further attempts at correction. Although it appears that the school has attempted to address the deficiencies identified in my revocation letter, I note that the ability to employ and retain a fully certified staff continues to elude the Russell Academy. As the President of the newly elected Board of Trustees noted in her verification on August 28, the staffing situation has once again changed since the motions were filed on August 23. Moreover, there is no indication that a budget has been prepared for the 2001-2002 school year. Additionally, the Board's assurances that everything will be different with the new Board of Trustees overseeing the school is, at best, speculative. In this regard, I note that petitioner does not dispute the cumulative findings that led to the decision to revoke its charter, but merely seeks a 90-day probationary period to correct its deficiencies while continuing in operation. Under these circumstances, I cannot find that petitioner will likely prevail on the merits of its appeal, or that students, parents and staff, who have been on notice of the impending revocation, will suffer greater harm by having to make alternative arrangements for the next school year than they would by remaining in a school that has proven seriously and persistently deficient, and which would still face likely closure, perhaps in the middle of an academic year.
> Given the precariousness of its staffing situation, the lack of a properly developed budget and the uncertainty that the school will be able to retain students in this unstable environment, I find that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that it will be able to provide the quality educational program to which students are entitled by law or that the Russell Academy Charter School will be able to correct its > deficiencies in a timely and responsible manner so as to comply with its charter and applicable statutes and rules. Accordingly, I cannot in good conscience allow the school to continue operating, pending disposition of the merits of petitioner's appeal.

Id. at 3-4 (emphasis in original).

With respect to the appellant's contention that the newly constituted Board of Trustees had authorized actions and funding to address the major concerns expressed by the Commissioner in his decision of August 10, the Commissioner found that "actions taken in one evening to correct persistent, long-standing substantial deficiencies do not persuade me that my decision to revoke the charter of the Russell Academy Charter School was incorrect." Id. at 4.

On September 20, 2001, the Commissioner filed a motion with the State Board for leave to participate in this matter, which was granted on November 7.

After a thorough review of the record, we affirm the Commissioner's decision to revoke the School's charter. Like the Commissioner, we are assuming arguendo that the appellant, the newly constituted Board of Trustees, has standing to file this appeal so as to permit us to consider the merits of this matter.

N.J.S.A. 18A:36A-17 provides that "[t]he commissioner may revoke a school's charter if the school has not fulfilled any condition imposed by the commissioner in connection with the granting of the charter or if the school has violated any provision of its charter." Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:11-2.4(b):

> The Commissioner may revoke a school's charter following review by the Department of Education for one or more of the following reasons:
> 1. Any condition imposed by the Commissioner in connection with the granting of the charter which has not been fulfilled by the school; or

2. Violation of any provision of its charter by the school.

3. Failure of the remedial plan to correct the conditions which caused the probationary status.

The record before us fully documents the deficiencies cited by the Commissioner and substantiates the seriousness of those deficiencies, and we find nothing in any of the materials submitted by the appellant that would counter those findings.

In affirming the Commissioner's decision, we reject the appellant's contention that the School should be placed on probationary status for 90 days so that the newly constituted Board of Trustees would have the opportunity to correct the School's problems and prepare to reopen. Under the circumstances, and given the nature and gravity of the ongoing deficiencies demonstrated on the record, we find that providing such a probationary period would not be appropriate. We stress, in addition, that if the Charter School were permitted to reopen following such probationary period, students who had attended the School until its charter was revoked and who are now attending school elsewhere would again be uprooted if they choose to return to the Charter School. See In the Matter of the Revocation of the College Preparatory Academy Charter School, decided by the State Board of Education, October 3, 2001.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the Commissioner in his decisions of August 10 and 30, 2001, as well as those expressed herein, we affirm the Commissioner's determination to revoke the charter of the Russell Academy Charter School.

Petitioner,	EDU OAL Dkt. No. 10444-00S
v.	HONORABLE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ
MONTGOMERY TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION and BML PRODUCTIONS, INC.,
Respondents.	ORDER OF STAY

THIS MATTER having been brought before the Department of Education on December 22, 2000 on emergent application by Hill Wallack, attorneys for Petitioner Advance Electric Company, Inc., and on Notice to Respondents Montgomery Township Board of Education and BML Productions, Inc.; and the Commissioner of the Department of Education having transferred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law for disposition pursuant to the "Administrative Procedure Act", N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq.; and upon the appearance of the parties on December 29, 2000 at the Office of Administrative Law, and after careful consideration of the papers submitted and the oral argument of the parties on Petitioner's application for stay of contract performance and implementation,

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED on this 8th day of January, 2001, that the performance and implementation of the contract awarded by the Montgomery Township Board of Education to BML Productions, Inc. pursuant to Rebid # B01-49, for the replacement and installation of stage lighting and a dimming control system for the Montgomery Township High School be stayed from December 29, 2000 forward until final disposition of this dispute, based upon the reasons set forth on the record by the Honorable Robert S. Miller, ALJ, on December 29, 2000; and

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that this matter shall be scheduled for hearing at the next available date before this forum.

This ORDER shall be served upon the parties within 10 days.

DATE: January 8, 2001

Honorable Robert S. Miller, ALJ

This order may be reviewed by COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION either upon interlocutory review pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10 or at the end of the contested case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.6.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this emergent matter, including the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Order and an audio cassette tape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on December 29, 2000 have been reviewed. Although respondents were provided ten days to submit exceptions to the ALJ's recommended Order to stay the performance and implementation of the within contract awarded by the Board to BML Productions, Inc., no exceptions were received.

This emergent matter concerns the award of a contract by the Board for the replacement and installation of stage lighting and a dimming control system for its high school auditorium. Neither party disputes that the bid specifications required that the "bidder be qualified as a 'Commercial Electrical Contractor (C-047)', with 'theatrical stage equipment installation experience (C-112)', 'pre-qualified to perform this type of work in the State of New Jersey' ." (Memorandum in Support of Petitioner's Application for Stay of Contract at 1) As to the likelihood that it will succeed on the merits of its claim, petitioner asserts that it was the lowest responsible and responsive bidder for the Board's project, in that its bid was in compliance with these specifications, while neither of the other two bidders, including the successful bidder, BML Productions, Inc., is a licensed commercial electrical contractor. Moreover, assuming arguendo that BML Productions, Inc., was not required to possess a C-047 licensing classification (i.e., licensing as a commercial electrical contractor), but could, instead, use a licensed electrical subcontractor to perform the work, its bid is still non-responsive because it did not name the subcontractor in its bid, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18.[1]

The Board counters that it was advised by the Division of Building and Construction, Department of Treasury, that these noted specifications were partially in error, in that the bidder need not possess a C-047 classification, as long as it was qualified to install stage equipment. Thus, the Board selected BML Productions, Inc., which was the lower of the two bidders who presented the qualifications recommended by the Division of Building and Construction, and whose bid was substantially lower than petitioner's. To this, petitioner replies that case law has clearly established that material terms of bid specifications, such as those herein, cannot be waived by the Board. (Petitioner's Memorandum at 17)

Upon careful and independent review of petitioner's application for emergent relief, which has been delegated to her for review pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, the Assistant Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that petitioners have met the standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGoia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982) for obtaining emergent relief. Here, the Assistant Commissioner takes note of the Board's admission that its specifications required the bidders to be qualified as a commercial electrical contractor, as well as the Board's failure to dispute petitioner's contention that BML's supplementation of its bid was in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:18A-18.

[1] Petitioner underscores that "[t]he specifications are also clear that the bidder must hold this [electrical contractor] status, not a subcontractor." Thus, it reasons that BML's subsequent attempt to supplement its bid by adding the use

Additionally, the Assistant Commissioner is mindful of petitioner's claim that it will be irreparably harmed without the grant of a stay since, as an unsuccessful bidder, the law precludes it from obtaining damages, even if the award to BML is determined to have been improper. Further, the Assistant Commissioner notes that although the Board asserts there are "some safety issues" with respect to the present auditorium lighting which compel immediate performance of the contract, no specific danger was identified. Neither does the Board present any facts to defeat petitioner's claim that a stay of this contract is unlikely to impact negatively on the delivery of the District's core curriculum. (Petitioner's Memorandum at 19)

Accordingly, petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief is granted and the matter is ordered returned to the OAL for further proceedings on the merits of petitioner's claims.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Cherie L. Maxwell, Esq., for petitioner
(Sills, Cummis, Zuckerman, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross, attorneys)

James M. Weinberg, Esq., for respondent
(Weinberg and Weinberg, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 13, 2000 Decided: December 18, 2000

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

The parties appeared before me on December 13, 2000 and placed a settlement agreement upon the record. The terms of the settlement are as follows:

1. Respondent, Hattie Black, will retire from her employment immediately.
2. The District will expedite the processing of her retirement benefits insofar as possible.

3. The District will restore her pay and benefits for the period from January 1, 2000 to July 1, 2000. She waives her claim to any other remuneration.
4. Payment will be made consistent with the Commissioner's approval of this settlement.
5. The District will return to her all of her personal items which it is able to locate.
6. Respondent understands that the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for possible action on her certificates. IMO the Tenure Hearing of Lenore M. Allen, SB# 38-00.
7. This settlement meets the standards set forth in In re Cardonick and should be approved.
8. This settlement fully disposes of all outstanding issues between the parties.

The following is a transcript of the administrative law judge's oral initial decision settlement rendered pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.2.

TRANSCRIPT

Jd. Klinger: All right. We are on the record and we will start with appearances.

Weinberg: James Weinberg on behalf of Hattie Black.

Maxwell: Cherie Maxwell on behalf of the State-Operated School District for the City of Newark.

Judge: Do I understand that you have resolved this matter?

Maxwell: Yes.
Weinberg: Yes.

Judge: And that you want to put the agreement on the record. Is that correct?

Weinberg: Correct.

Judge: Who is going to start on the record?

Maxwell: Okay, Your Honor, I will indicate what I understand to be the terms which will be that Ms. Black will retire from the district immediately. That the district will restore the pay that has been withheld which covers the period from January to June of this past year in terms of back pay. Ms. Black, to my understanding, has been made aware as required by In re Cardonick that this issue does not preclude the Commissioner referring the issue of license certification to the State Board of Examiners. The district agrees, in addition to rendering the back pay, to processing in an expedited fashion, Ms. Black's pension, documents and application for retirement.

Is there anything that I missed?

Weinberg: Judge, Your Honor, we could make mention that just should be put on the record that there are some items of personal property belonging to Ms. Black which we believe are outstanding. A list will be submitted to counsel for the district and they will endeavor to look for those items to the extent that they are in the school from which Ms. Black was principal.

Maxwell: That's correct, Your Honor, and to the extent that we locate any items that are Ms. Black's personal effects we will get them to her.

Judge: But, this is not a condition of settlement. I mean they will be returned as available.

Weinberg: That's correct.

Judge: If they are not still there - that does not affect the settlement.

Weinberg: Yes, that's correct.

Judge: Fine, as long as it is understood that this will be carried out insofar as possible.

Is there anything else that should be incorporated in the understanding?

Maxwell: I guess for purposes of the record, I should indicate that with respect to the nature of the charges that were before Your Honor that, before we began the hearing, the district was going to make a motion to amend the charges to dismiss basically the charges having to deal with purchasing items for the school, I believe that it's specifically Charge 2 of the tenure charges. So, I think that's important to note on the record because, based upon further investigation by the state investigators and the school district investigators, we were not able to proceed with respect to those charges. So that, I think its important for purposes of knowing what it is that we are resolving.

Judge: Anything else?

Weinberg: Actually, there is.

Judge, can we have one moment.

Judge: All right - we are off the record.

Judge: All right - we are back on the record.

Weinberg: There is one last provision which will be that the district will certify or shall certify that from February 11, 1998 through today's date, should be considered as administrative leave with pay for pension purposes.

Maxwell: We need to keep it as it is.

Weinberg: Why keep it as . . .

Maxwell: No, that 120 day period.

Weinberg: Okay, that's fine, and additionally . . .

Maxwell: That Ms. Black waives an entitlement to lost wages for the salary lost during the 120 days suspension of that period previously served, and that was the 1998 school year.

Now, I would just like to note for the record also that placing her on administrative leave with pay through today's date, that the payment would be consistent with the Commissioner's return of the settlement agreement pursuant to the tenure statutes.

Judge: This is a waiver for pay for that 1998 . . .

Maxwell: That's correct

Judge: . . . and then payment should be made after that consistent with the Commissioner's rejection of the settlement . . .

Maxwell: Yes.

Judge: Anything else?

Would you like to have your client testify?

Weinberg: Actually, Ms. Black was represented throughout the pendency of your tenure case, is that correct?

Black: Yes.

Weinberg: You have heard the settlement that has just been placed on the record?

Black: Yes, I have.

Weinberg: And, prior to just putting this on the record today, you were aware of some of the conditions that we did put on the record today, correct? Some of the issues you had previously resolved or entered into an agreement with the State-Operated School for the Newark District, correct?

Black: Yes.

Weinberg: And we are back in court because the Commissioner of Education had rejected that settlement, right?

Black: Right.

Weinberg: And now we have some clarification that we believe should enable the Commissioner to be able to accept the agreement between the parties, and further as far what's been placed on the record today, is that your understanding as to the essential terms of the settlement agreement between, for you and the Newark School District.

Black: What I don't understand is you said I retired effective to date, but I can only retire at the end of the month.

Weinberg: The agreement being entered into today.

Black: Yes, we agreed to enter into a agreement.

Weinberg: You feel that you can't for pension purposes submit a retirement . .

Black: December the 31st

Weinberg: Judge, that wouldn't necessarily be my opinion, however, I ask . . .

Maxwell: Can I ask a question? Is it possible that your retirement could be effective today, is that acceptable to you?

Black: No, it can't because I have already checked with Trenton and I can only retire at the end of the month, effective the first of each month.

Maxwell: If the first day that the Division of Pension would approve was today, would that be . . . I understand that you have been advised differently, but if they would approve it, the first day that they are able to approve it, is that acceptable to you?

Black: Okay, I've already been through this. I can go down and retire today, but it would not be effective until the end of the month, do you understand what I'm saying?

Maxwell: Okay, but you could retire today?

Black: I can retire any time; but when they accept it or when they process it will be effective - it will be as if I retired December 31 - it will be effective January 1. If I retire any time in January, it won't be effective until the first of the next month.

Weinberg: Your retirement is effective, as far as this case is concerned, as part of the agreement, today. Do you understand that?

Black: Right.

Maxwell: You will no longer be an employee with the district as of today.

Judge: And your pension will start whenever your pension starts but your employment will terminate as of today.

Weinberg: We'll try to get your pension as soon as we can get your pension...

Judge: And if it's the first of next month, than so be it. If it can be arranged - if possible, the district can do it.

The employment will cease . . .

Black: I understand that. So that means that I will be without benefits and everything else until January.

Maxwell: I don't believe that's true because your benefits are also paid monthly so your benefits would have been paid for this month already.

Black: And I won't be compensated until about 3 or 4 months later. And that's the problem.

Weinberg: Ms. Black are you aware that as part of this settlement there is a lump sum check that's going to be coming to you for approximately January 2000 to June 30, 2000.

Black: What about the 22nd of this month?

Maxwell: What is the magic of the 22nd?

Black: That would give me the opportunity to get in another check and then I would be ready for my pension . . .

Judge: I can't continue this. I just cannot continue this. I think that we should be ready to go forward with a hearing tomorrow. This is not right. Be prepared to go to hearing tomorrow morning.

Weinberg: Will you consider allowing me to answer my client's questions perhaps? I mean we are down to the last one item.

Judge: I don't think so. I mean if you can resolve it, but I just don't think it's going to resolve. I think there will be a series of questions, and I don't want to waste time doing this. This is a waste of everyone's time. If it's resolved, it's resolved. And, if it's going to be a lump sum check, I can't, I can't continue this.

Weinberg: Ms. Black doesn't understand one thing, which perhaps I can explain to her . . .

Judge: If you can explain, you can just go off the record with Ms. Black. If there is anything else, then we do not have a meeting of the minds to issue a settlement and I don't plan to continue. I don't want to force you into a settlement. I just don't want to continue something which is not leading to a settlement. You can have a few minutes and see if you can straighten that out. If you cannot straighten it out, then be prepared to come in tomorrow.

Weinberg: Thank you, Your Honor.

Judge: We are off the record.

* * * *

Judge: All right you have had this opportunity to conference with Ms. Black and you have explained things to her satisfactorily. I think there was some issue as to when compensation would cease. That is, not the back compensation but the present compensation.

Weinberg: Ms. Black had raised the point as to when is the effective date of her retirement, and as far as this agreement is concerned, today is the day of her retirement.

For purposes of pension, Ms. Black is correct, and the confusion is that they don't process it until the end of the month which is separate and apart from what we're doing here today, which is resolving the matter between the parties so I believe that should suffice in terms of resolving this.

Judge: That explains it to your satisfaction?

Black: I understand . . .

Judge: You may not love it but you understand what you're going to get and what you are not going to get. That's what concerns me. Okay. As long as you understand that.

Is there anything else. Mr. Weinberg explained everything to you and you understand what all these things mean?

Black: Yes.

Judge: And you agree to them?

Black: I guess.

Judge: Well, that's what a settlement is. Both sides are a little unhappy and that makes a good settlement.

Is there some other question?

Weinberg: Nothing else.

Maxwell: No, nothing else.

Judge: Is this going to be put in writing or should I, perhaps, have a transcript made of this?

Weinberg: You can put this in writing since we had a form which doesn't need to change all that much.

Maxwell: I would prefer not to wait. It takes a long time to transcribe.

Judge: We can have this transcribed and place the settlement on the record so that the terms are whatever is on the record. I prefer to do that.

All right then I guess that concludes the hearing. Thank you all very much.

Both Parties: Thank you, Your Honor.

MORRIS KIMBLE,

Respondent.

Thomas W. Sumners, Jr., Esq., for petitioner (Sumners, George & Dortch, attorneys)

Robert M. Schwartz, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: December 26, 2000 Decided: December 27, 2000

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education on June 30, 1999, by The Trenton Board of Education ("petitioner") against Morris Kimble ("respondent") alleging conduct unbecoming a tenured employee and other just cause. The allegations are contained in a Statement of Tenure Charges filed with the Commissioner of Education dated June 1, 1999. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") on July 29, 1999, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties agreed to settle this matter and prepared a Settlement Agreement, which was incorporated into an Initial Decision Settlement dated April 28, 2000, OAL DKT. NO. EDU 06227-99S. On June 15, 2000, the Commissioner of Education issued a decision remanding that initial decision to the OAL for supplementation of the record and modification of the settlement terms.

The parties prepared the attached fully executed Settlement Agreement, which appropriately addresses in detail the concerns expressed by the Commissioner of Education in his decision of June 15, 2000.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in this administrative forum and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. In the Matter of Tenure Charges Against Morris Kimble, School District of the City of Trenton, Mercer County	)BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF)EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY)) Agency Docket No.174-6/99)) SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT is made between the Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton, ((hereinafter referred to as the "Board"), and the Respondent, Morris Kimble, (hereinafter referred to as "Respondent").

WHEREAS, the Board filed tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education, having Agency Docket No. 174-6/99, and OAL Docket No. EDU 6227-99S; and

WHEREAS, the tenure charges allege conduct unbecoming by the Respondent during the 1997-1998, 1998-1999 school terms, whose allegations include but are limited to:

1. The early release of a student during the 1997-1998 school term without proper authorization;
2. Failure to take steps to discipline the Holland Middle School disciplinarian for allowing the early release;
3. Failure to insure that Holland Middle School staff were adequately made aware of the Board's early dismissal policy;
4. Failure to meet with and respond to parental concerns as cited on February 18, 1998;

5. Failure to submit in a timely fashion the program proposal on two occasions for the Board meeting agenda items during the 1997-1998 school term;
6. Arriving to work late, as set forth in a memo dated October 31, 1997;
7. Failing to submit the Holland Middle School budget plan in the designated format on February 11, 1999;
8. Arriving late to two principal meetings on February 19, 1999 and March 5, 1999;
9. Failing to provide access to the Holland Middle School by a Trenton Times reporter in accordance with Board policy and administrative directives;
10. Failing to insure adequate instruction on March 3, 1999 when many members of the Holland Middle School staff attended the funeral of another Holland Middle School staff member;
11. More generally, failing to follow Board policies and administrative directives; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent has denied all of the aforementioned allegations; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent has been employed by the Board for a period of 29 years; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent has not until now had any tenure charges and or increment denials brought against him during his service of employment with the Board; and

WHEREAS, the Respondent intended to present credible evidence to refute the charges against him; and

WHEREAS, the parties recognize that there are strengths and weaknesses with respect to each of their positions; and

WHEREAS, litigating this matter would have been over a prolonged period of time causing great expense and disruption to the Board; and

WHEREAS, the outcome of this matter was uncertain; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to an expeditious resolution of this matter intended to save both parties the cost and uncertainty of continued litigation and to avoid further disruption to the Trenton School District;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the forgoing, the parties agree to resolve the within matter based upon the following terms:

1. Petitioner agrees to dismiss the tenure charges against the Respondent.
2. The Respondent shall be returned to employment with all back pay and emoluments owed from June 28, 1999, when Respondent was suspended without pay as a result of the certification of these charges. Upon his return of employment, the Respondent shall be assigned to the title of "principal on assignment" to central administration.
3. Upon his return to employment, the Respondent shall be compensated and receive all benefits he is entitled to as a principal, per the TASA Collective Bargaining Agreement with Board. As of July 1, 2000, Respondent shall be entitled to any increase in compensation and benefits which may be negotiated by TASA and the Board.
4. The Respondent agrees to submit a letter of retirement effective at the conclusion of the school day, June 30, 2001;
5. The parties agree and covenant that neither they, nor any person, organization, or other entity on their behalf will file any charge, claim, and/or lawsuit against the other based upon any facts set forth in the tenure charges or any facts arising from the tenure charges;

6. The Petitioner agrees to pay Respondent upon his retirement, for all accumulated sick days, vacation days and personal leave days be accrued in accordance with the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the Trenton Administrators and Supervisors Association (TASA) and the Board, as amended in or about June, 1999. At the conclusion of the 1999-2000 school term, Respondent accumulated 319 sick days. In addition, pursuant to the Collective Bargaining Agreement, the Respondent is entitled to an additional 18 sick days for the 2000-2001 school term. In addition, at the conclusion of the 1999-2000 school term, the Respondent had accrued 21.5 personal business days and he is entitled to an additional 4 personal business days for the 2000-2001 school term, making for a total of 25.5 days. The Respondent also accrued 60.5 vacation days at the conclusion of the 1999-2000 school term and he is entitled to an additional 20 vacation days upon the conclusion of the 2000-20001 school term, making for a total of 80.5 vacation days as of June 30, 2001. It is understood that if t' Respondent utilizes any of the aforementioned accumulated sick, days, vacation days and/or personal leave days, they shall be subtracted from the total number of days owed at the time of Respondent's retirement.
7. The per diem rate at which Respondent's accumulated sick days, personal business days and vacation days shall be paid shall be $445.00. As an accommodation to the Board of Education, the Respondent agrees to accept payment of the aforementioned accumulated sick days, personal business days and vacation days in six equal installments consisting of $35,000 each. The first payment is to be made on July 1, 2001, and payments to continue each July 1st. thereafter, with the last payment to be made on July 1, 2006. In the event that the Respondent becomes deceased, then said payments shall be made payable to his estate;

8. The Petitioner and the Respondent agree that this Agreement resolves their entire dispute and that with this Agreement the Petitioner, including is agents, employees and officers, and the Respondent each shall refrain from making any comments about the other;
9. The Respondent and the Petitioner expressly acknowledge they they each have agreed to each and every term of this Agreement, that each of the terms and conditions of this Agreement have been fully explained and that the execution of this Agreement is being made voluntarily knowingly and with the advice of counsel.
10. As set forth above in paragraph 4, the Respondent and the Board have agreed to mutually release and forever discharge each other from any and all claims which was or could have been asserted which relate to the matter now pending before the Commissioner of Education, having OAL Docket No. EDU 6227-99S and Agency Docket No. 174-6/99.
11. All of the terms of this Agreement are deemed material.
12. The parties understand that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Administrative Law Judge, Jeff S. Masin and the Commissioner of Education, and if such approval is denied, the terms and contents of this Agreement shall not be admissible in any legal administrative proceeding of any nature, and will be without prejudice to their positions in such proceedings, and that in such event the parties may again attempt to settle the matter in a manner which is satisfactory to the Commissioner of Education.
13. The parties request that the tenure hearing be held in abeyance in order to obtain the approval of this Settlement Agreement by Administrative Law Judge, Jeff S. Masin and the Commissioner of Education.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have caused this Agreement to be duly executed as of the day and year first above written.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, a tenured secretary, challenged her layoff after her position was abolished, arguing that she is entitled to a position held by a nontenured secretary, specifically identifying four positions held by nontenured secretaries to which she claimed an entitlement. The respondent Board denied that petitioner possessed the requisite skills for any of the identified positions and argued that its determination to lay off petitioner, and refusal to offer her any of the four identified positions, should be affirmed.

The ALJ determined that petitioner should have been offered a secretarial position within the District that was held by a nontenured secretary when her position was abolished. The ALJ further concluded that the duties performed by petitioner and the intervenors were very similar, and that, absent a showing by respondent that the duties of the nontenured secretaries were so specialized or unique that petitioner could not perform the duties, which respondent failed to do, petitioner was entitled to one of the positions.

The Commissioner affirmed the determination of the ALJ with modification. While agreeing that petitioner is entitled to one of the secretarial positions held by three of the intervenors, the Commissioner determined that she is not entitled to the position of the fourth intervenor, because the position of Clerical Assistant for District Services/Special Programs and Projects is not secretarial. Finally, the Commissioner held that the Board may exercise its discretion in selecting the secretarial position to be offered petitioner.

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

This matter involves a secretary who was laid off from Tinton Falls School District as a tenured Transportation/Attendance Coordinator. Petitioner claims that the Board of Education improperly retained a non-tenured person to perform many of the same duties she performed, in violation of her tenure rights. She has identified 4 individuals as holders of positions to which she claims she may be entitled. These 4 individuals moved to intervene[1]. Their motion was granted.

The issue in this matter is this, were petitioner's tenure rights violated?

STATEMENT OF FACTS

Petitioner, Mable Mount, was hired by the respondent, Tinton Falls Schools Board of Education, as a full time employee in 1990. At that time, petitioner held the title of Transportation/Attendance Coordinator. In July, 1995, respondent reduced Ms. Mount's position to half time and renamed her position Transportation Secretary. Ms. Mount was paid according to the negotiated secretarial salary guide, taking into account her half time status, at least as far back as 1995. On December 31, 1999, respondent abolished the Transportation Secretary position. As a result, Ms. Mount's employment with the Tinton Falls Schools Board of Education was terminated. Respondent does not contest petitioner's tenure status as a secretary.

While employed with Tinton Falls, Ms. Mount's primary responsibility was organizing and scheduling the transportation program for the Tinton Falls district. This responsibility included preparing the actual bus routes for the district, including the accommodation of the needs of several special education students pursuant to the special education laws and regulations, as well as providing for the transportation needs for after school functions such as class trips. Mr. Rocco Orlando, the interim business administrator for the Tinton Falls School District from 1994 through 2000 and the only witness to have worked directly with petitioner, affirmed this.

[1] Under the New Jersey's Administrative Code, "[a]ny person or entity . . . who will be substantially, specifically and directly affected by the outcome of a contested case may seek to intervene." N.J.A.C. 1:1-16.1(a). The party aspiring to intervene may file a motion for permission to do so at any time after the case has been initiated. See N.J.A.C. 1:1-16(a), (b).

Furthermore, Ms. Mount performed a bookkeeping function regarding the account of monies budgeted for the transportation department amounting to maintaining a budget for the department. This function included assisting with the preparation of bids for various transportation needs. In performing her duties, Ms. Mount used Microsoft Word and Excel programs as well as specialized software known as "Trips". Ms. Mount was required to prepare a number of reports in accordance with State requirements concerning transportation in the school district. Testimony indicated that she did interact with parents and students in answering transportation related questions and the accommodation of special education needs. In doing so, Ms. Mount did have occasion to work with the Special Services department in meeting these needs.

Finally, Ms. Mount's minor duties included maintaining a filing system, drafting spreadsheets, occasionally typing memoranda and photocopying various documents.

When employed full time as the Transportation/Attendance Coordinator from 1990 to 1995, Ms. Mount was also responsible for maintaining the employee attendance records for the district. The information was entered into a computer system that was connected with the payroll department for the district. This responsibility was eliminated when the position was reduced to part time in 1995.

There remain four secretarial positions, which embody the contested issue in this case. Each position is compensated according to the negotiated secretarial guide and each position was held by a non-tenured employee[2] at the time of Ms. Mount's termination[3].

[2] Deborah Mruz obtained tenure in May of 2000, but it was stipulated that she had not yet acquired tenure at the time of petitioner's termination.

[3] Ms. De Grassi, Clerical Assistant for District Services/Special Programs and Projects, was hired shortly after petitioner's termination. The position Ms. De Grassi now holds was contemplated prior to petitioner's termination, and, therefore, petitioner should have been offered the position at that time.

Nilsa Montaner was hired by the Tinton falls School District in April of 1998. She currently holds the title of Secretary to the Director of Special Services. The job description for that position (Exhibit J-3) states that the position requires general secretarial skills such as dictation, typing and word processing. Experience with child study team procedures is noted as "desirable." Ibid.

At the hearing, Richard Westler, Director of Special Services in Tinton Falls, testified as to the duties actually performed by Ms. Montaner as Secretary to the Director of Special Services. The testimony established that Ms. Montaner collects data and prepares reports by entering information regarding individual education plans for special education students. Further, Ms. Montaner compiles information regarding residency of special education students, develops a board agenda for the Director of Special Services, and schedules affirmative action committee meetings.

It was acknowledged by Mr. Westler, however, that the Secretary to the Director of Special Services has no authority to either set Board policy regarding special education, or make decisions regarding individual special education classifications of students. Also, the Secretary to the Director of Special Services does not have the authority to make decisions concerning residency matters, or to determine which matters are to be included in the board's agenda. Furthermore, the Secretary does not have any discretion concerning whether or when the affirmative action meetings are to take place. Finally, Ms. Montaner delegates work to the Secretary to the Director of Special Services, but does not evaluate this person. In essence, Ms. Montaner merely compiles specific information in order to present the information to the proper parties in such a form so that they may efficiently make decisions regarding the information.

The testimony further established that Deborah Mruz was hired in May of 1997, and Michele Trio was hired on September 8, 1999. Both individuals currently hold the position of Secretary to Special Services, and both individuals are currently serving on a half-time basis. Testimony by Mr. Westler established that the two half-time Secretaries to Special Services perform similar functions as described above regarding the Secretary to the Director of Special Services, Ms. Montaner. The only additional duties are the preparation of documents concerning county waivers. However, as above, these employees do not have any decision-making powers on the determination about the propriety of applying for a county waiver. Again, the Secretaries to Special Services primarily compile specific information in order to facilitate the Director's assessment.

Most importantly, Mr. Westler testified that neither of the secretaries had any prior knowledge concerning either the special education laws or regulations, or the specialized reports and the specialized computer software used to prepare the reports. Ms. Mruz and Ms. Trio were essentially trained on the job.

Finally, Ms. Deborah De Grassi was hired soon after the petitioner's termination on December 31, 1999. Ms. De Grassi was hired as Clerical Assistant for District Services/Special Programs and Projects. Testimony from Mr. Rocco Orlando and Ms. Carol Moldan, the Superintendent for the Tinton Falls district, established that the basic functions performed by Ms. De Grassi consist of working with a computer program called "Time Plus" which organizes the district's after school program of the same name. The program currently involves 100 to 150 students, and Ms. De Grassi is responsible for collecting the tuition for the program and sending "dunning" notices when payments are late.

According to the testimony, Ms. De Grassi's position requires some bookkeeping skills which was characterized in testimony as requiring that the holder of the position posses at least a bachelor's degree in accounting, despite the lack of reference to that requirement in the job description (Exhibit J-5) developed by Ms. Molden herself. Ms. De Grassi does hold a bachelor's degree in accounting and the petitioner does not.

Both Mr. Westler and Ms. Molden stated at the hearing that, in their opinion, the petitioner was not capable of performing any of the four contested positions. However, it was also established that the petitioner never worked directly for either of the witnesses.

LEGAL ANALYSIS

School district secretaries are provided tenure protection pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2(b), which states

> [a]ny person holding any secretarial ... position or employment under a board of education of any school district or under any officer thereof, after
> 1. The expiration of a period of employment of three consecutive calendar years in the district or such shorter period as may be fixed by the board or officer employing him, or > shall hold his office, position or employment under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and shall not be dismissed or suspended or reduced in compensation, except for neglect, misbehavior or other offense and only in the manner prescribed by subarticle B of article 2 of chapter 6 of this title.
>
> 2. Employment for three consecutive academic years, together with employment at the beginning of the next succeeding academic year,...

However, tenure regarding secretaries has been treated much differently from the tenure afforded teaching staff members and school district janitors, as "no statute nor rule of the State Board of Education has ever been promulgated which provides tenured educational secretaries with a set of clearly delineated seniority rights or procedures governing dismissal when a reduction in force is effected by employing boards." Sheridan v. Board of Educ. of the Township of Ridgefield Park, Bergen County, 1976 S.L.D. 995, 997. As a result, > a person employed as a secretary or as a clerk may acquire tenure, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:17-2, but does not also acquire the same statutory right to seniority as do teachers, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-11 et seq., or school janitors, N.J.S.A. 18A:17-4. ... The Commissioner of Education has only gone to the extent of ruling that the school secretary who has tenure and whose position is abolished would have preference to an appointment to another secretarial position over that of a person who has not acquired tenure as secretary.

In addition to the lack of statutory or regulatory provision concerning seniority, there has been no attempt to provide "categories of employment ... for secretaries[.]" Sheridan, supra, 1976 S.L.D., at 997. Therefore, "a secretary in a school system does not acquire tenure to a specific office position in a particular school, but rather gains tenure as a secretary in the entire school system." Mackey v. Board of Educ. of the Borough of Ridgefield, Bergen County, 1983 S.L.D. 96, 103. As was recognized in the Sheridan case, the present tenure protections provided secretaries is quite like the tenure provisions for teachers in 1933 when they were "clothed with tenure but no categories of teachers and no seniority statutes nor rules had as yet been promulgated." Id., at 998. In applying pre-seniority teacher cases to the secretary position, it is clear that > the protection afforded by the [tenure] statute would be little more than a gesture if such board were held entitled to make that reduction by selecting for discharge teachers exempt by law there from, and retaining the non-exempt. If such a reduction be made at all, and a place remains which the exempt teacher is qualified to fill, such teacher is entitled to that place as against the retention of a teacher not protected by the statute.

Therefore, it is clear that petitioner should have been offered a secretarial position within the district that was held by a non-tenured secretary at the time of her dismissal if she meets the requirements to fill it.

"[T]he entitlement of a tenured secretary to a position held by a nontenured secretary will be adjudged by the Commissioner to be viable only if the tenured secretary possesses the skills and necessary qualifications to efficiently perform the duties of such secretarial position." Sheridan, supra, 1976 S.L.D., at 997. "[S]ecretarial employees are generalists who may be transferred more easily from one assignment to another." Hibo v. Board of Educ. of the West Essex Reg'l School Dist., EDU 1226-96, at 10, Initial Decision, (November 12, 1997), adopted, Comm'r. (June 3, 1998) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>. However, "title alone is not dispositive and actual duties should control over labels." Id. at 9.

Since it is clear that the duties previously performed by Ms. Mount were secretarial in nature, and it further appears that the duties performed by Ms. Mruz, Ms. Trio and Ms. De Grassi are very similar, it would appear that, absent a showing that "the duties assigned to other non tenured secretaries were so specialized or unique that petitioners would be incapable of satisfactorily performing them[,]" id. at 12, the Tinton Falls Board of Education violated petitioner's tenure rights by not offering her one of the contested positions.

CONCLUSION

As a secretary, petitioner is entitled to be offered another secretarial position within the district that was held by a non-tenured secretary at the time of her dismissal. The selection of the position to be offered is within the discretion of the Board of Education. Petitioner's appeal is GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

INTERVENORS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Board reiterates its contention that petitioner is not able to perform either the functions of the Clerical Assistant for District Services/Special Programs and Projects position, or those of the secretarial positions in its Special Services Office. Underscoring that tenured secretaries do not have seniority rights, the Board reasons that it may select any tenured secretary to be eliminated when a reduction in force occurs. (Board's Exceptions at 1) The Board continues,

> Of course, we recognize that the rights of a tenured secretary are greater than those of a non-tenured secretary IF, AND ONLY IF, the tenured secretary can perform in the new position. The rights > of a tenured secretary over non-tenured personnel are not absolute. The Board of Education may still retain a non-tenured secretary over a tenured secretary, if the latter does not have the qualifications or ability to perform the open position. If a Board of Education eliminates a tenured position (e.g. Transportation/Attendance Coordinator) and that person asserts tenure rights to a secretarial position for which he or she does not have the requisite skills, the Board need not retain that person. See Hansen v. Bd. of Ed. of Maywood, S.B. #51-89 (March 7, 1990). (emphasis in text) (Board's Exceptions at 2)

The Board next reviews the functions inherent in the positions, as noted supra, arguing that each job requires a knowledge base and set of skills which petitioner does not possess, and asserting that "it would be a disaster to put her in any of these positions." (Ibid.) Thus, it concludes that Hansen, supra, applies herein and the Initial Decision must be reversed.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the ALJ, with modification. At the outset, the Commissioner notes that the Board does not dispute that petitioner acquired tenure in the position of secretary. (Initial Decision at 2) Further, mindful that "a secretary in a school system does not acquire tenure to a specific office position in a particular school but rather gains tenure as a secretary in that entire school system" (Mackey, supra, at 1983 S.L.D. 105), the Commissioner finds that the record herein is sufficient to conclude that the duties assigned to the nontenured secretaries were not "so specialized or unique that [petitioner] would be incapable of satisfactorily performing them." Hibo and Arillo v. Board of Education of the West Essex Regional School District, Essex County, slip opinion at 12, decided by the Commissioner December 29, 1997, aff'd State Board June 3, 1998. Thus, the Commissioner concludes that petitioner has demonstrated an entitlement to one of the secretarial positions currently held by Intervenors Montaner, Mruz and Trio, since each was serving as a nontenured secretary in the District at the time petitioner was subjected to the reduction in force.[1] However, the Commissioner cannot agree with the ALJ's conclusion that petitioner's tenure in the position of Secretary entitles her to hold the position of Clerical Assistant for District Services/Special Programs and Projects currently held by Ms. DeGrassi, since the record before him supports the conclusion that this position is not, by either title or function, a secretarial one. See, Given v. Bd. of Ed. of East Windsor Regional School District, 1978 S.L.D. 43, aff'd State Board of Education 46, aff'd Appellate Division 1979 S.L.D. 832.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the ALJ is modified as set forth herein. The Board may exercise discretion in selecting which of the secretarial positions, as identified above, shall be offered to petitioner.[2]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

[1] The ALJ concluded that the duties of Interveners De Grassi, Mruz and Trio were secretarial in nature. (Initial Decision at 8) Although the Initial Decision is silent as to the ALJ's conclusions about the duties of Montaner, it is clear from reviewing the record and the Initial Decision that the duties of Montaner were secretarial in nature.

[2] In accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.10(j), the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's Interlocutory Order of October 5, 2000 granting a motion to intervene on behalf of Deborah DeGrassi, Michele Trio, Nilsa Montaner and Deborah Mruz.

Respondent.

Philip Feintuch, Esq., for petitioner
(Feintuch, Porwich & Feintuch, attorneys)

Charlotte Kitler, General Counsel, for respondent

Record Closed: December 19, 2000 Decided: January 3, 2001

BEFORE ELINOR R. REINER, ALJ:

Initially, this matter was one of thirty-one consolidated cases filed with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") on August 31, 1998. The multi-count petition alleged the wrongful withholding of the increment of petitioner, Barbara Spehner ("Spehner"). On September 21, 1998, the District filed its answer. Subsequently, on October 29, 1998, the Commissioner forwarded all thirty-one cases to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case under OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9812-98.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on all thirty-one cases on March 9, 1999. During that conference, the issues were isolated. Since each petitioner's situation involved different factual circumstances and different witnesses, the consolidated cases were divided into separate cases for convenience of hearing.

A hearing was scheduled in the Spehner case, designated OAL Dkt. No. EDU 3809-99, on January 20 and 21, 2000. After several adjournments of scheduled hearing dates due to scheduling conflicts and possible rsolution of this matter, it was rescheduled for hearing on October 18 and 19, 2000. Settlement conferences were held, and during a telephone conference on October 30, 2000, the parties indicated that a settlement had been reached.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

The above settlement also withdraws petitioner's petition filed under the caption Barbara Spehner v. State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 9340-00, Agency Dkt. No. 342-10/00.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This Agreement is entered into as a resolution of the within matter regarding the appeal of the petitioner from the withholding of her increment for the 1998-99 school year. The parties hereby agree to an amicable resolution of the within matter as follows:

1. The parties agree that this Stipulation of Settlement represents the compromise of disputed claims and is not an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party.

2. The respondent shall restore petitioner's increment for the 1998-99 school year on a retroactive basis.

3. The petitioner withdraws her petition in the within matter.

4. The petitioner shall also withdraw the petition which she filed from the withholding of her increment for the 2000-01 school year, which petition bears Agency Docket No. 342-10/00.

5. The petitioner acknowledges that she has had the right and opportunity to discuss all aspects of this Stipulation with her attorney prior to signing it, that she has read and fully understands all of the terms of this Stipulation, and that she had entered into this Stipulation knowingly and voluntarily, without coercion or duress.

6. It is understood that this Stipulation will take effect upon its approval by the Administrative Law Judge and by the Commissioner of Education.

BEFORE ROBERT S. MILLER, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 20, 2000, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a settlement agreement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF TENURE CHARGES AGAINST PATRICIA A. COLEMAN, TENURED TEACHING STAFF MEMBER IN THE SCHOOL DISTRICT OF SAYREVILLE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY, NEW JERSEY	:	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION OAL DOCKET NO.: 6773-00 AGENCY DOCKET NO.: 308-9/00 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

THIS SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT made the 4th day of December, 2000, by and between the Board of Education of the Borough of Sayreville ("Board of Education") and Patricia A. Coleman, as executed below by the respective counsel for said parties to confirm the settlement placed upon the record before Administrative Law Judge Robert Miller on this date.

WHEREAS, a Statement of Tenure Charges and Statement of Evidence Under Oath had been filed with the Board of Education relating to certain conduct of Patricia A. Coleman, a teaching staff member employed by the Board; and

WHEREAS, the parties desired to settle said dispute.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties by and through their attorneys confirm their agreement as follows:

1. Patricia A. Coleman has this date executed the letter annexed hereto as Exhibit "A" thereby resigning her tenured position with the Board of Education effective this date and announcing her intention to retire as of March 1, 2001. Patricia A. Coleman surrenders any tenure rights that she had with the Board of Education as of the date hereof.

2. The Board of Education shall pay to Patricia A. Coleman her gross salary less the standard payroll deductions as an employee of the Board (e.g., taxes, social security, pension, etc.) for the six month period between September 1, 2000 and February 28, 2001. Said payment of salary shall be made on the basis of the regular bi-monthly salary payments due Patricia A. Coleman through January 15, 2001 and further regular bi-monthly salary payments on January 30, 2001, February 15, 2001 and February 28, 2001.

3. The Board and its administrators shall take all necessary steps to assist Patricia A. Coleman with the processing of her application for retirement under the Teachers' Pension Annuity Fund.

4. Patricia A. Coleman shall continue to have the benefit of the health insurance coverage under the collective bargaining agreement in effect in the district through February 28, 2001 and shall also have the right to receive, if she qualifies, any benefits under that collective bargaining agreement due teaching staff members upon their retirement.

5. In consideration of the foregoing, Patricia A. Coleman has simultaneously executed the General Release attached hereto and made a part hereof as Exhibit "B".

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF PATRICIA A. COLEMAN,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	DECISION
OF SAYREVILLE, MIDDLESEX COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner cannot be satisfied that the proposed settlement meets the standards for review of settlements in tenure matters set forth in In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that it is well-established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the Board may not lay it down without spreading forth on the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, decided by the Commissioner March 22, 1982, decision on remand June 16, 1983, aff'd with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, aff'd N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division, January 30, 1986. The present record contains no such explanation and analysis. Moreover, the agreement does not indicate that respondent was advised of the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of her certificate.

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this State, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

As emphasized by the Commissioner in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Corey Younger, State-operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, decided September 7, 1999 and In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Elmena Jean, State-operated School District of the City of Newark, Essex County, decided October 4, 1999, the mere fact that the terms of a proposed settlement in a tenure hearing matter call for the teaching staff member's resignation does not in and of itself assure that the Cardonick standards have been met, because the Commissioner's concern for the public interest extends beyond the boundaries of the particular district certifying the tenure charges.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein. The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for expansion of the record and revision of the Settlement Agreement, consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to agree to a settlement consistent with the decision herein, the matter shall proceed to plenary hearing.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

IN RE THE ABBOTT V. BURKE :
IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS : ON SCHOOL FACILITIES, :
N.J.A.C. 6A:26. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON MOTION

For the Appellants, Education Law Center (David G. Sciarra, Esq. and Jennifer Weiser, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent, Michael Lombardi, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

On November 14, 2001, the appellants filed a notice of appeal to the Appellate Division challenging the final agency rules governing educational facilities, N.J.A.C. 6:26, which were adopted by the State Board of Education on September 5, 2001 and became effective on October 1, 2001. The appellants also filed a motion with the State Board seeking an order pursuant to R. 2:5-3(c)(2) to abbreviate the record by waiving production of a transcript of the proceedings and comments before the Department of Education in the adoption of N.J.A.C. 6A:26. The motion is opposed by the Deputy Attorney General representing the State Board in the appeal now before the Appellate Division.

Review of the pertinent court rule which specifies what must be included in the record in matters on appeal to the Appellate Division indicates that the appellants are not required to produce a transcript of the public comment sessions in order to proceed with their appeal. See Baer, et al. v. Leo Klagholz, Commissioner of Education and

Rather, R. 2:5-4(a) specifies that:

> The record on appeal shall consist of all papers on file in the court or courts or agencies below, with all entries as to matters made on the records of such courts and agencies, the stenographic transcript or statement of the proceedings therein, and all papers filed with or entries made on the records of the appellate court.

As we explained in Baer, supra:

> The State Board's public comment sessions are not required to be part of the administrative rulemaking process by the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 et seq. ("APA"), and the State Board does not routinely transcribe these sessions. While tape recordings of the sessions are available, only written comments submitted to the State Board, either in conjunction with public comment or submitted separately, are required by the Administrative Procedure Act and are considered by our agency during the adoption process. [Footnote omitted.] In short, the record in an appeal from the adoption of administrative rules would not ordinarily include a transcription of the State Board's public comment sessions. Hence, there is no need for the State Board to direct that the transcript be abbreviated pursuant to R. 2:5-3(c) in order to relieve the appellants of an obligation to produce transcripts of the public comment sessions.
> Similarly, R. 2:5-4 does not necessarily require the appellants to produce a transcript of the State Board meetings at which we considered the rules under challenge....

We therefore grant the appellants' motion to abbreviate the record.

Kathleen A. Dietz abstained.

RESOLUTION OF THE ESTELL MANOR BOARD OF EDUCATION AND THE WEYMOUTH TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION APPROVING THE SETTLEMENT OF #242-7/00 (CITY OF ESTELL MANOR BOARD OF EDUCATION, ATLANTIC COUNTY V. NJ DEPT. OF EDUCATION, WEYMOUTH TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, ET ALS)

WHEREAS, The Estell Manor Board of Education filed a Petition with the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education contesting a determination that it was the district of residence for the minor child, C.E., and thus responsible for the child's educational costs; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Education of Weymouth Township and the Board of Education of Estell Manor have reached a settlement as to all issues arising out of said Petition; and

WHEREAS, both Boards of Education are in agreement that an amicable settlement is in the best interest of both districts; and

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED on the 15th day of November, 2000, by the Estell Manor Board of Education and the Weymouth Township Board of Education, both in Atlantic County, State of New Jersey, as follows:

1. The costs for both districts, without State aid, for the minor child, C.E., are agreed to be the sum of $4,139.43.

2. Accordingly, there is due from each Board the sum of $2,069.71 each.

3. Any and all future tuition adjustments, whether positive or negative, shall also be divided equally between the districts.

4. Each Board shall release the other from any other claims not specified within the terms of this agreement.

Record Closed: December 11, 2000 Decided: December 18, 2000

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter was initiated following the filing of a Verified Petition by petitioners alleging that the respondent Board of Education of the Sussex-Wantage Regional School District, Sussex County, violated N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2 regarding sick leave. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law where, on March 16, 2000, it was filed for hearing as a contested case. Subsequent to prehearing, settlement and status conferences with counsel on May 9, July 20 and September 28, 2000, respectively, the matter was scheduled to be heard on November 29, 2000. On November 28, 2000, petitioners' attorney advised that the matter had settled and thereafter submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement setting forth the terms of agreement which the undersigned received on December 11, 2000.

Having reviewed the record and the terms of settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board challenged the determination of the Department that it was legally responsible for educating K.O., a child placed in an out-of-state facility by a State agency, for the 1997-98 school year.

The ALJ concluded that The Board had presented credible testimony to overcome the presumption that the address provided to the Department by DYFS for D.O., the mother of K.O., was correct, and concluded that the Board was not the responsible district for K.O.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ, holding that the presumption that information provided the Department by other State agencies for purposes of determining the district of residence of students is correct may be rebutted by credible evidence or testimony. The Commissioner agreed with the ALJ that the presumption of validity of the DYFS records in this case had been rebutted by the Board.

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a regional high-school district from the assessment of tuition costs for placement of a child in an out-of-state facility for the 1997-98 academic year. Under the State Facilities Planning Act of 1979, N.J.S.A. 18A:7B-1 to –13, the "district of residence" is responsible for the education of a child placed in an out-of-state facility by a state agency. COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

SYNOPSIS

In a proceeding bifurcated by prior order of the Commissioner, petitioners sought to demonstrate that they had fully effectuated the provisions of the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA), so as to be able to proceed to the next phase of hearing wherein they would attempt to prove that they are unable to provide a thorough and efficient system of public education within the level of funding provided by that Act.

ALJ found that petitioners demonstrated entitlement to proceed, and Commissioner affirmed with clarification as to the scope of the second phase of hearing.

BEFORE SOLOMON A. METZGER, ALJ:

Petitioners are seventeen (17) school districts that claim they cannot provide the "thorough and efficient" education mandated by the State Constitution with current funding levels. They liken their circumstances to those of the "Abbott districts" and hope to receive the special funding mandated by the New Jersey Supreme Court for those schools, see Abbott v. Burke, 149 N.J. 145 (1997) (Abbott IV); Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) (Abbott V). The Department of Education (DOE) transmitted the matters to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as contested cases pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15. The transmittal from the Commissioner took the unusual step of bifurcating the hearing. Petitioners would first have to show that they spent existing funds appropriately under the Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act (CEIFA), N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 to -36. To quote directly from the Commissioner's letter:

> . . . the ensuing hearing shall be limited solely to whether each petitioning district has fully effectuated the provisions of CEIFA, including, at a minimum, those provisions, such as early childhood program aid, demonstrably effective school aid, and supplemental school tax reduction aid, which address disadvantages of the type alleged by petitioners and provide additional funds for remediation of such disadvantages, and whether each petitioning district has made the budgetary reallocations and other adjustments necessary to implement the programs envisioned by the law.

On completion of step one in the OAL the matters would be returned to the Commissioner for final agency action regarding this threshold issue. Those districts deemed to have fully satisfied the CEIFA would then return to the OAL for fact-finding on the ultimate question, i.e., whether despite the effective use of current funding, they are nonetheless unable to deliver a thorough and efficient education.

The cases were heard over the course of some eighteen partial hearing days in October and November 2000 and the record closed on December 8, 2000, with receipt of the last post-hearing memorandum. The parties have produced a voluminous record and a limited dispute. Many of the relevant facts are generic to all the cases and are uncontested. I recount them here before moving on to individual districts.

Each district's budget was prepared through the combined efforts of its superintendent, business administrator, and associated staff, and was then reviewed and approved by the local board of education at a public meeting. The superintendents and business administrators of each district testified credibly and largely without contradiction that budgets were prepared in accordance with all school law requirements.

Each district submitted all of the financial documentation required under the CEIFA to the office of the County Superintendent of Schools and to the DOE for review and approval. The documentation covers school years 1997/98 and 1998/99 and deals specifically with the categorical aid funds received from the DOE, such as early childhood program aid (ECPA), demonstrably effective program aid (DEPA), and distance learning network aid (DLNA). In each case the County Superintendent and the DOE have approved the budget without substantive adjustment.

Districts are also audited annually by outside independent accounting firms, see N.J.S.A. 18A:23-1 to -11. Each of the independent auditors presented at hearing was a certified public accountant and most had long experience in the field of public school auditing. Each was accepted as an expert without objection and each testified credibly and without challenge that the district(s) he audited complied with generally accepted accounting practices, met any separate federal or state accounting guidelines, and to a reasonable degree of accounting probability spent all funds, including CEIFA funds, lawfully. In some of the districts a few "nonmaterial" errors were found for a given audit year, but in each case the auditors testified that these were insignificant and once pointed out to the district were subsequently corrected. A few districts had "material" errors, but again the auditor in each instance testified that these were small mistakes that were corrected and that his opinion concerning the district's appropriate use of funds was not altered.

The DOE did not call a witness and was poorly positioned to challenge any of these opinions. Nevertheless, the Attorney General argues that all of the districts failed to satisfy what he understands to be a heavy burden of proof. When the Commissioner asked districts to show that they "fully effectuated" the CEIFA, they were to demonstrate that they made the best programmatic choices available and then used the money in the most efficient way possible. The Attorney General concedes that funds were spent lawfully, but believes that this is not enough.

Moreover, to establish these points petitioners should have generated operational audits to present at hearing alongside the financial audits that were produced. The argument is greatly strained and appears to grasp for an issue.

It should always be the goal of government to prioritize well and to execute precisely. That said, it is plain that any inquiry into expenditures at that level of expectation would quickly develop legitimate differences of opinion and measurement would require well-developed guidelines. The Attorney General acknowledged at hearing that he is unaware of any rule or directive that might channel the inquiry he urges. Rather he agrees that districts have leeway to expend CEIFA monies within certain broad categories of activity, and, with limited exceptions that will be discussed below, he agrees that these districts complied with existing rules. It is hard to posit that more is required. Thus, I read the Commissioner's letter to impose no greater burden than is contained within the current regulatory scheme. To say otherwise would launch a standardless inquiry that would likely run afoul of the CEIFA, see N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-4(b), -6, as well as the rulemaking provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -12.

Parenthetically, despite the presence of each school superintendent and wide latitude in cross-examination, the Attorney General probed the question of programmatic decision-making lightly and uncovered nothing. A number of auditors were asked by the Attorney General to distinguish the term "operational audit" from the term "financial audit" and they endeavored to comply. Building upon these answers he suggests that this is what the Commissioner really wanted here. The difficulty, however, is that the term operational audit is nowhere defined or even referenced in the regulatory scheme. The auditors who testified for petitioners are in no position to announce policy for the Commissioner, or to speculate about what he might require in such an audit.

Beyond these overarching issues the DOE takes specific aim at a few districts for discrete problems. It asserts that the Buena Regional and Fairfield Township districts are not currently using ECPA money to serve all of the four- and five-year-olds for whom educational services are mandated by the 2001/02 school year. As such they are not using their money appropriately.

The argument is without substance. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-16 allows districts to use ECPA money to establish a capital reserve for construction purposes, or for other "educationally meritorious programs," prior to the 2001/02 school year. As the DOE does not argue any illegality, this is an after-the-fact complaint about how Buena Regional and Fairfield are preparing for next year. It bears repeating that the County Superintendent and the DOE approved the Buena Regional and Fairfield budgets and that no witness came forward to say that these were improvidently endorsed.

The Attorney General argues that Hammonton, Fairfield, Lakehurst and Buena Regional use most of their DEPA money to fund salaries for general education teachers, to develop general education curriculum and purchase supplies. This is not entirely consistent with statutory language that directs DEPA money for instructional, school governance, and health and social service programs, N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-18(a). It should be noted that N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-18(b) directs the State Board of Education to adopt rules governing the use of DEPA, requires it to establish an "accounting mechanism" to assure that the money is spent appropriately, requires DOE approval for expenditures and allows for rescission of aid and monetary penalties should a district fail to use funds according to plan. The record is silent regarding any criticism by the DOE of the plans these districts submitted for the use of DEPA funds. If the Attorney General seriously believed that the CEIFA had been violated, he might have presented a witness to explain exactly how that is so and why his client approved these plans in the first instance. In the meantime independent auditors and school business administrators testified that all DOE guidelines for DEPA were scrupulously followed.

The Attorney General argues finally that the Wallington and Ocean Township school districts should be dismissed entirely from this action. Wallington receives no ECPA or DEPA money and Ocean Township only received ECPA for 1998/99, has been getting decreasing DEPA amounts and is not getting it at all in the current school year. As no measurement can be made of how effectively they are using this aid, they cannot satisfy the Commissioner's criteria for phase one of the hearing. I do not agree. All of the petitioners are here arguing that they cannot provide a "thorough and efficient" education with current State aid funding levels.

Wallington and Ocean Township ought not to be cut off precipitously because the two-step hearing leaves them with less to show in step one.

Based on the foregoing I conclude that each petitioning district has established by a preponderance of the credible evidence that it is using CEIFA funding appropriately and is entitled to proceed to the next phase of hearing. So ordered.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Timely exceptions were filed by respondents, as were replies by petitioners, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. These have been duly considered by the Commissioner in rendering his determination herein. [1]

Upon careful consideration, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that all petitioners have made a sufficient showing of entitlement to proceed to the second stage of hearing in this matter; that is, to allow the opportunity for each petitioning district to attempt to prove that it is unable to provide a thorough and efficient system of public education ("T&E") within the level of funding established by CEIFA.

However, the Commissioner must clarify the ALJ's comments, endorsed by petitioners both at hearing and in reply exceptions, suggesting that the only appropriate standard for determining whether a district has made full use of the monies generated by CEIFA is whether its expenditure of such funds is lawful and consistent with sanctioned budgetary practices and efficiency standards.

While this may have been an appropriate level of inquiry for the first phase of hearing, it cannot be deemed controlling in the second. Where a petitioning district is, as here, seeking additional, extraordinary funding over and above that provided to other districts in the State, the effectiveness of its programmatic and fiscal allocation decisions cannot be presumed, or even inferred, from the fact that its expenditures have been lawful or its proposed budget has been approved for thoroughness and efficiency by the county superintendent of schools pursuant to Section 5 of CEIFA – any more than a district's status as fully certified precludes a demonstration, as several of the petitioners herein will now seek to make, that the district is, in fact, not providing T&E despite such certification. Assessment of a board's compliance with State goals and standards in its exercise of local discretionary authority is a process fundamentally different from the critical examination of programs and expenditures necessary to resolve a claim of Constitutional deficiency. For the latter, each petitioning district must first prove that deficiencies do, in fact, exist, and second, that these cannot be remedied by different programmatic and fiscal choices within the framework of current law and funding levels.[2]

[1] It is noted that, due to the commonality of issues addressed by the ALJ, a single Initial Decision was issued for the first phase of the hearing in these matters. However, there has been no order of consolidation in regard to them.

Accordingly, the recommendation of the ALJ that all petitioners proceed to the next phase of hearing in this matter is affirmed as clarified above.

[2] Given the difference in scope between the first and second phases of hearing in these matters, nothing herein precludes respondents from renewing, in the second phase of hearing, their motion to admit petitioners' responses to interrogatories into evidence.

[3]This decision, as a final determination of the Commissioner, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

M.G. AND M.G., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, A.G., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WASHINGTON,
Respondent.

Christopher M. Manganello, Esq., for petitioners

Joseph F. Betley, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

The petitioners seek an order reversing the decision of the Washington Township Board of Education to expel A.G. and further ordering that A.G. be enrolled in the respondent district and that interim relief in the form of immediate placement in the respondent district also be ordered.

Certain facts are not in dispute and reveal the context of the case. A.G. is a sixteen-year-old boy. He has an accommodation plan under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

A.G. was expelled from Washington Township High School effective August 15, 2000, following two positive drug tests. The petitioners had filed an appeal of the expulsion on July 7, 2000 before the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case including a request for emergent relief, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13.

Jeff S. Masin, Acting Chief ALJ, after an emergent hearing, denied the petitioners' application for emergent relief on August 10, 2000. Judge Masin ordered the matter to plenary hearing as soon as possible.

A plenary hearing was held on September 7, 8 and 13, 2000. As a result of the hearing and by two orders dated September 19, 2000, Judge Masin dismissed the special education portion of the case and dismissed the petitioners' challenges to A.G.'s expulsion.

The petitioners filed exceptions to Judge Masin's decision with the Commissioner on October 12, 2000. The Commissioner affirmed in part and reversed in part the initial decision. In his decision of November 6, 2000, the Commissioner directed the respondent Board to readmit A.G. and to determine, after considering pertinent factors including available alternative educational options, whether expulsion should be the appropriate result under all of the circumstances present.

On Wednesday, December 6, 2000, the Board conducted a hearing. The parties have markedly different views as to what occurred at the hearing. However, there is a transcript of the hearing available to me. Exhibit E.

On December 15, 2000, the petitioners received the Board's decision dated December 13, 2000. A.G. was again expelled. At the hearing of December 6, the Board presented two witnesses, Rosemarie Farrow and Jack McGee. The petitioner produced testimony from Sally Anne Bickford, Ph.D.

There was considerable disagreement as to what the scope of Bickford's testimony should be. The hearing ended abruptly, each side blaming the other for the breakdown.

At hearing on the motion for emergent relief, the petitioners argue that their expert was not allowed to testify because the Board decided that attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) testimony was not pertinent. While the petitioners agree that Bickford may have gone off on a tangent, she did testify on areas pertinent to the hearing. Yet the Board says that A.G.'s ADHD is not pertinent.

What the appropriate educational option for A.G. could have been is important. The Board's mere threat to end the meeting was inappropriate, arbitrary and capricious. A limiting instruction to the witness would have been appropriate.

The two Board witnesses in no way expanded on what had been presented at the first hearing. They recited the facts that A.G. had failed two drug tests. Neither Board witness seemed willing to look at anything that had occurred after the first expulsion hearing. The petitioners argued that they agreed to homebound instruction because A.G. needs some structure in his life. However, the Board is not meeting even the minimum requirement for home instruction.

The Board argues that the petitioners had knowledge as early as December 14 that the Board had decided to reaffirm its earlier decision to expel A.G. for violation of the Board's Substance Abuse Policy (policy). The Board also asserts that the decision to terminate the hearing on December 6 was made by the petitioners, not the Board. The decision to terminate the hearing seems to have been motivated by the failed attempt to reargue the issue of manifestation determination through the testimony of Bickford rather than addressing the issue of alternative educational placements. The Board insists that consideration of alternative educational placements was the only issue returned by the Commissioner of Education. The petitioners, however, looked upon the Commissioner's decision as an opportunity to challenge the underlying decision to discipline A.G. The transcript contains several instances of disagreement between counsel as to whether the questions directed to Bickford were appropriate.

DISCUSSION

In his initial decision and order, both dated September 19, 2000, Judge Masin found that the matter was not a special education matter and found that, based on the circumstances, the Board's decision to require that A.G. be tested was supported by a reasonable suspicion that A.G. was under the influence of drugs. In fact, the Board would have been remiss if it failed to follow the direction of N.J.S.A. 18A:40A-12. Judge Masin also determined that although the hearing process before the Board was flawed to some extent, it was clear that the flaws did not rise to the level of causing the Board to act arbitrarily.

Judge Masin observed that the Board moved to expel A.G. after he received fair warning by way of suspension following the first positive drug test. That warning included the clear direction that A.G. had to refrain from marijuana use and that A.G. would be subject to random testing. Nevertheless, when subjected to a random test, A.G. again tested positive for marijuana. Judge Masin determined that the Board did not act arbitrarily given the strong State policy against drugs in school and the Board's own policy.

Importantly, the Commissioner determined that A.G. was properly referred for a medical examination when a staff member observed symptoms suggesting drug use and advised the assistant principal of the same. The Commissioner also found that the decision to expel A.G. was not compelled by its policy. Because the Commissioner believed that the Board had not considered all pertinent factors, including other options such as alternative education programs, the Commissioner directed the Board to readmit A.G. and to determine whether expulsion was the appropriate remedy under all the circumstances.

Early in the course of the December 6, 2000 hearing, the Board made clear that the Board was assembled to consider whether expulsion was the appropriate penalty, not whether A.G. violated the Board's policy. The Board also did not waive any rights to appeal the Commissioner's decision.

Rosemarie Farrow, Executive Assistant Principal, stated that upon the original recommendation regarding A.G. and expulsion, the high school administration recommended and continues to recommend an expulsion on the grounds that A.G. tested positive for being under the influence on December 21, 1999. The subsequent recommendation and assessment dictated that A.G. was to undergo intensive drug therapy, at least three times a week. That was not done. On a subsequent random drug testing, February 22, A.G. tested positive. At that point, it was revealed that A.G. had not engaged in a single day of the required therapy and counseling. The administration thereupon recommended that A.G. be expelled from the high school as is provided in the Board's policy.

The high school administration did consider other options. One was whether or not A.G. would qualify for an extended day program. Looking at the types of students and the types of needs that program addresses, the administration did not believe A.G. met the criteria for the extended day program.

The administration also looked at other alternative school programs, particularly one in Glassboro. On rare occasion, the high school administration has recommended for that program students who at least show an indication of an ability to engage in a serious rehabilitation program. Based on the indications received from A.G., that is his failure to engage in the required therapy and counseling and to adhere to school policy of not engaging in drug activity, the administration did not believe he would qualify for that program either. The administration still stands by the recommendation to expel.

Further testimony indicated that on the day after A.G. tested positive the second time, his parents were able to enroll him in a therapeutic program including counseling and drug therapy. After the first positive drug test, when A.G. returned to school on January 6, the assistant principal and a counselor met with A.G. and his mother. At that time, the school personnel presented all of the results of assessments that had been done. Also at that time, Mrs. G. and A.G. were told about the intensive, three-day a week therapy and counseling that they were to engage in. They signed papers indicating their knowledge of the requirement. That day and for the next five days when A.G. was under internal suspension, he met with a counselor.

At the January 6 meeting, the G.s were treated as all other parents in a similar circumstance. They were provided a list of the various programs that are available to them.

There are several programs within the immediate region and most of the fees are offered on a sliding scale. A full page of available locations was given to the G.s.

After the second positive test, A.G. had at least gone to seek treatment. The administration still recommended expulsion, however. There was a sixty-three-day period between the first positive drug test and the second. In that period, A.G. should have been receiving an intensive counseling and therapy regimen, none of which was engaged in, and no apparent attempt was made to work on rehabilitation, to work on changing behavior patterns and to deal with other issues. It was not until the second positive drug test that an attempt was made to cooperate in that therapy. Even then, there was nothing of significant length or significant quality. The school administration believed that, on the basis of the time during which therapy could have occurred and counseling could have occurred that the administration should have seen some attempt to alter behavior. Seeing none, and then seeing a second positive drug test, the administration decided not to change its recommendation to expel.

The second drug test was an indication of a severe problem of behavior that would not have qualified A.G. for a recommendation for the extended day program.

The principal, Jack McGee, testified that he has a long-term relationship with the Gloucester County Alternative School. Students are placed there only where there is a very strong desire to work through drug issues and drug problems. The school will not accept students, even if a school district wants to place them there, if the students do not in fact have a high level of desire to do the work that would be appropriate, that is, intensive counseling and behavior therapy in addition to academic work.

McGee stated clearly that a student would have to show a high level of desire to participate in an alternative program before McGee could recommend the student for an alternative program.

The testimony of the petitioners' expert did attempt to go behind A.G.'s infractions. Among other things, she stated she hoped the hearing would be "somewhat broader" and would include an examination of what could have been considered in reaching a decision to expel. By that, the witness stated she meant a presenting medical condition, impulsivity and other factors. At this point, the Board's attorney appropriately interjected and stated that the focus of the hearing was whether or not expulsion is an appropriate remedy, but going into the issue of attention deficit disorder in an attempt to explain the underlying drug usage would be inappropriate. Counsel appeared to agree and questioning resumed. The petitioners' counsel then asked Bickford if she thought the fact that attention deficit disorder is present would be relevant to whether or not A.G. should have been expelled following a second positive drug test. The Board's counsel again attempted to focus Bickford's testimony. The petitioners' counsel, not the petitioners' witness, stated that the petitioners believe the Commissioner's directive to consider pertinent factors under the circumstances of the case includes consideration of the fact that A.G. is a student with an accommodation plan because of his attention deficit disorder. There was further disagreement between counsel as to appropriate areas of testimony and the hearing was adjourned at 8:30 p.m. with no further testimony from Bickford taken.

The petitioners argue that A.G. will suffer irreparable harm if relief is not granted, that the legal right under his claim is settled, that he is likely to prevail on the merits and that when the equities are balanced, he will suffer greater harm than the Board if the relief is granted. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The Board argues contra.

The petitioners assert that A.G. is being denied his right to a free and appropriate public education by the expulsion. The Board notes that the petitioners knew on December 14, 2000, that the Board had decided to reaffirm its prior decision to expel A.G. However, the petition claiming irreparable harm and seeking emergent relief was filed more than a month later. Nevertheless, homebound instruction will be delivered for those days between the Commissioner's decision and the Board's decision reaffirming the expulsion. A.G. is not a special education student and is over sixteen. Therefore, the Board has no obligation to educate him.

The petitioners assert that the legal right underlying their claim is settled and the Board's termination of the December 6, 2000 hearing is further support for this. The Board argues that the decision to terminate the hearing was, in fact, the petitioners'. They tried to reach behind the two positive drug tests rather than addressing the issue of alternative educational placement.

Importantly, the question of whether A.G.'s attention deficit disorder was a contributing factor in the underlying drug use was the subject of a previous manifestation determination meeting attended by the parents, teachers, administrators and members of the Board's child study team (CST) in March 2000.

On the same point, the petitioners urge that there was insufficient evidence presented at the hearing to allow the Board to follow the Commissioner's directive. Only two witnesses were presented. Both recommended expulsion. Their testimony was essentially the same as their testimony at the first Board expulsion hearing. The petitioners believe the principal failed to apprehend the considerations the Commissioner required him to evaluate when determining whether or not to recommend expulsion. The petitioners also argue that the principal focused too much on the requirement of a high level of desire on the part of the pupil to participate in a meaningful program.

The Board failed, in the petitioners' eyes, to look at pertinent factors surrounding the expulsion and whether, under all the circumstances, there was a conclusion other than expulsion.

Finally, when the equities are balanced, the petitioners believe that A.G. will suffer greater harm than the respondent would suffer if A.G. were reinstated. The Board does not agree and insists that the entire matter was given due consideration.

In deciding a motion of this type, especially in consideration of the scant factual record, I am required to make all inferences that fairly may be made in favor of the party not the maker of the motion. On the first element, I agree that harm befalls any student not participating in an appropriate educational program. Here, the harm is not irreparable. Homebound instruction continues and, if the petitioner is successful, he will be reinstated in attendance at the high school or in another appropriate placement. Time, of course, would be lost. Yet the harm cannot be described as irreparable.

It is by no means clear that the right underlying the petitioners' claim is settled. A.G. twice tested positive for marijuana in clear violation of the Board's policy. This is not a mindless zero tolerance policy. A.G. was given a second chance and more after the first infraction. He appears not to have taken advantage of what was offered.

This ties directly to the next element, likelihood of prevailing on the merits. Although there is strong disapproval of expulsion as a remedy, it is not wrong in all cases. On the record developed to this point, it is by no means clear that the petitioners are likely to prevail on the merits. Nor can I say that they will not prevail on the merits.

Balancing the equities fails to yield a sure conclusion. The school has a legitimate interest in keeping its schools and student body drug-free. A.G., despite clear violation of policy, may still deserve consideration for further education, even if not in the regular secondary program.

In consideration of the foregoing, the motion for emergent relief is DENIED. It is so ORDERED. The judge notes that the matter is appropriate for plenary hearing and recommends that plenary hearing be scheduled as soon as possible. Therefore, expeditious review by the Commissioner of Education is requested.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

The record of this emergent matter, which includes the audiotape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the Initial Decision and the Order of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner affirms the Order denying emergent relief, as he concurs with the ALJ's determination that petitioners have not satisfied the requirements necessary for the granting of such extraordinary relief as set for the in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). Most particularly, petitioners have failed to establish that the legal right underlying their claim is settled or that they have a reasonable likelihood of prevailing on the merits of this case. In that the ALJ's decision indicates that the Board is continuing to provide A.G. with homebound instruction and, therefore, A.G. has not been deprived of educational services at this point in time, the Commissioner similarly concludes irreparable harm has not been demonstrated here. To the extent that the parties' submissions or hearing testimony expressed any doubt as to the Board's continuing obligation in this regard, the Commissioner hereby directs that the Board provide such homebound instruction until the ultimate conclusion of this matter on its merits.

Accordingly, the within application for emergent relief is hereby denied. As contemplated by the ALJ, this matter is being returned to the OAL for plenary hearing to be scheduled as expeditiously as possible.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, February 15, 2001

Decision on motion by the Commissioner of Education, March 8, 2001

For the Respondent-Appellant, Capehart & Scatchard (Joseph F. Betley, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Petitioners-Respondents, Christopher M. Manganello, Esq.

The petitioners filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging the action by the Board of Education of the Township of Washington (hereinafter "Board") expelling their son, A.G., from school following two positive drug tests. The petitioners also requested emergent relief, seeking to have their son placed back into school in the district immediately. On February 15, 2001, the Commissioner denied the petitioners' application for emergent relief, but directed the Board to provide home instruction to A.G. until the ultimate determination of this matter on the merits.

On February 27, 2001, the Board filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education from that portion of the Commissioner's decision ordering it to provide home instruction to A.G. pending a final determination on the merits.

On March 8, 2001, the Commissioner denied the Board's Motion for Reconsideration/Clarification or Stay of his February 15, 2001 decision.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.11(a), the Board's brief in support of its appeal to the State Board was due on March 19, 2001, 20 days after it filed its notice of appeal. The Board, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated March 23, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office notified the Board of its failure to file a brief and informed it that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of its failure to perfect the appeal.

The Board has still failed to file a brief in support of its appeal, more than six weeks after the filing deadline. Nor has the Board offered any explanation for its failure to file or requested an extension of time for such filing. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought to sever its sending-receiving relationship with respondent Board with respect to its 7th and 8th grade students. Respondent contested severance and, alternatively, requested that regionalization of the two Districts or a regionalization study be ordered in its demand for relief.

Upon completion of the hearing, the ALJ initially determined that the doctrines of laches and waiver barred application of the Commissioner's 1981 Order in this regard. The ALJ determined to deny severance of the sending-receiving relationship, concluding that petitioner failed to meet its burden of proving that severance would not have a substantial negative impact on the education offered by, and finances of, the affected Districts, the quality of education or the racial composition of the pupil population of the Districts. Finally, the ALJ concluded that mandated regionalization, or a regionalization study, is not appropriate in this case, as regionalization of these two Districts could not accomplish desegregation of the Dover schools.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with modification. Initially, the Commissioner agreed that the 1981 Order of the former Commissioner was no longer valid and could not serve as a basis to permit severance. While agreeing that severance of the sending-receiving relationship for the 7th and 8th grade students should be denied because there would be a substantial negative impact on the racial balance and on the quality of education in both Districts, the Commissioner did not agree that it had been established that severance would result in a substantial negative financial impact or a substantial negative impact on the educational programming in either District. Finally, the Commissioner rejected Dover's request for mandated regionalization of the two Districts for grades pre-K through 12, noting that the request was not properly before him because it was not raised in a petition or cross-petition, and that he nonetheless agreed with the ALJ that Dover failed to produce any evidence or proofs demonstrating that regionalization of these two Districts would alleviate segregation and is otherwise legally warranted.

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner Mine Hill Board of Education is requesting the Commissioner of Education to permit the return, for education in their home district, of Mine Hill seventh and eighth grade students who are currently educated at the Dover Middle School in the Respondent Dover Public Middle School district pursuant to a sending-receiving agreement. Mine Hill also sends it ninth through twelfth grade students to Dover High School; Petitioner does not seek to alter the existing sending-receiving relationship with respect to those ninth through twelfth grade high school students.

Mine Hill and Dover are contiguous communities in Morris County. The Mine Hill school district operates a pre-kindergarten through sixth public school program. The Dover school district operates a pre-kindergarten through twelfth program and receives students from both Mine Hill and Victory Gardens.[1] For several decades, the seventh through twelfth grade students of Mine Hill have attended the Dover public schools.

Mine Hill filed this petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking the right to withdraw its seventh and eighth grade pupils from the Dover Middle School and return them to Mine Hill School expanded for such purpose by adding sufficient classroom space. Its voters have approved a referendum for such purposes.

Dover, which operates one middle school with a pupil population of approximately 400 students, seeks to retain the Mine Hill students within its seventh and eighth grade programs.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner originally sought approval for the return of its seventh and eighth students by way of a petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education filed in July, 1980. Although the matter first appeared to have been resolved through a stipulation of dismissal filed on August 8, 1980, the Dover Board of Education, by letter dated October 29, 1980, raised with the Commissioner the impact of withdrawal on Dover's minority population. Mine Hill responded and the Commissioner directed, by Order dated December 15, 1980, that the matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL).

In a February 9, 1981 decision, an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) determined that no contested case existed at that juncture; therefore, the matter was transmitted back to the Commissioner. In a decision dated May 29, 1981, the Commissioner considered the issues presented and approved Mine Hill's request subject to several requirements, including undertaking a building program to close the Hattie Rice School in Mine Hill and to provide a single facility at the district's Canfield Avenue School. Mine Hill then served Dover with a Notice of Intent dated June 10, 1981, advising that Mine Hill intended to sever the sending-receiving relationship for grades seventh and eighth on June 30, 1984, provided that the building programs and other stipulations of the Commissioner's order had been carried out.

Dover did not challenge Mine Hill's determination. Subsequently, in 1982, the referendum to raise the funds needed to construct the facilities to house the seventh and eighth grades at the Canfield Avenue School, was conducted pursuant to the Order of the Commissioner; it was defeated. Petitioner has continued to send its seventh and eighth grade pupils to the Dover Middle School.

This petition was filed on or about December 7, 1998. On December 8, 1998, the voters of Mine Hill approved a referendum authorizing the issuance of bonds to finance the expansion of the Canfield Avenue School to include construction of seventh and eighth grade classrooms if the Petitioner should succeed in this petition. Respondent filed an answer on or about December 23, 1998.

The contested case was then forwarded to the OAL and the undersigned was assigned to hear the dispute. A prehearing conference by telephone was held with counsel for the two parties and a prehearing order was issued on June 4, 1999. Hearings were held on December 7, 8, 15, 16, 21, 22, 29, 1999 and January 11, 31, and February 28, 2000.

At the close of the hearing, both counsel requested the opportunity to provide written briefs and summations and a briefing schedule was set; the record closed on July 7, 2000.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

(1) Mine Hill has an area of approximately three square miles and Dover has an area of approximately 2.7 square miles.

(2) In 1980 Mine Hill had a population of 3325. In 1992 Mine Hill had a population of 3330. This represents a change of .2 percent. During the same period, Dover had a population change from 14,681 to 14,849 which represents a population change of 1.1 percent.

(3) The 1996 census population estimated for Mine Hill was 3435. The Dover 1996 census population estimated was 15,312.

(4) The Mine Hill minority population breaks down as follows:

Black	.4 percent;
Hispanic	6 percent;
Asian	2.7 percent;
American Indian	.02 percent;
White (remaining population)	90.9 percent.

(5) The minority background of the Dover community is as follows:

Black	6 percent;

Hispanic	39.8 percent;
Asian	1.92 percent;
American Indian	1.18 percent;
White (remaining population)	52 percent.

(6) In 1999 the Mine Hill total assessed property valuation was $214,496,328. Dover's assessed property valuation was $692,207,336 in 1999. Both municipalities have stable tax bases with no significant growth anticipated.

(7) As of 1997, the average home in Mine Hill was assessed at $137,000 while the average home in Dover was assessed at $159,500.

(8) The Mine Hill public school district has one elementary school, the Canfield Avenue School, serving grades pre-kindergarten through six. Mine Hill is the only Morris County district which does not educate its own seventh and eighth graders.

(9) Dover operates a school district of kindergarten through twelfth grades within the boundaries identical to the municipality. It educates seventh through twelfth grade students on a receiving basis from Mine Hill and also receives students from Victory Gardens. Both the Dover community and Dover school district have a substantial minority population, the single largest group being Hispanic. The Dover district is categorized as a B district by the Department of Education based on the relative wealth of individual communities. The B district is the second lowest economic grouping.

(10) Dover is unusual in Morris County for its high minority population and low relative wealth. The average individual income for Morris County $45,000; in Dover it is $15,000.

(11) In October 1999, Mine Hill had a total of 359 pupils including special education students enrolled in grades kindergarten through sixth. Dover, on the other hand, had a kindergarten through twelfth grade enrollment of 2407.5 students, including special education students.

(12) The 1999 enrollment in Dover included 53 seventh and eighth grade pupils from Mine Hill and 79 ninth through twelfth students from Mine Hill. Mine Hill is categorized by the Department of Education as a FG district, based on the relative wealth of individual communities.

(13) This sending-receiving relationship began in 1923 when Mine Hill separated from Randolph Township and was incorporated as an independent municipality. At that time, the Mine Hill public school district was established and commenced operation as a kindergarten through eighth school district. Because it lacked high school facilities within the district, Mine Hill established a sending-receiving relationship for its high school students with the Town of Dover pursuant to predecessor statute of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11.[2] Ninety-six percent of Mine Hill high school aged students attend Dover High School.

(14) In 1963, Mine Hill and Dover agreed that Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students would also attend school in Dover.

(15) In 1981, the Mine Hill Board sought to withdraw its seventh and eighth students from Dover and return them to Mine Hill. Written communication occurred between the districts and also at the State Department of Education. Dover expressed no objection to the proposal; the Commissioner issued an Order directing that the Mine Hill students be permitted to withdraw under certain specified circumstances. The

[2] There are, however, a number of high school students from Mine Hill who attend Roxbury High School which is closer to certain portions of Mine Hill.

Commissioner's Order, dated June 1, 1981, required Mine Hill to meet three criteria requirements:

a) Develop, in conjunction with representatives of the Dover Board, a plan for shared extra-curricular activities for seventh and eighth grade students, to be submitted to the Morris County Superintendent of Schools for approval;

b) Develop a curricular and programmatic document to demonstrate the comparability with the program the seventh and eighth graders then provided in Dover to the County Superintendent of Schools for approval; and

c) Close the inadequate Hattie Rice Elementary School and expand the Canfield Avenue Elementary School to provide for the needs of both kindergarten through sixth students as well as the return of the seventh and eighth grade students.

(16) In 1982, the voters of Mine Hill defeated a referendum which sought approval of the capital cost necessary to meet the Commissioner's facility requirement. Because the community of Mine Hill did not support a referendum to expand the Canfield Avenue School seventh and eighth grade students neither of the other two requirements outlined by the Commissioner in his 1981 Order were implemented.

(17) In 1986, another referendum was held at which time the voters of Mine Hill approved construction only to expand the Canfield Avenue School. As a result the Hattie Rice School was closed and Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students continued to attend Dover Middle School.

(18) In 1989, Dr. Ernest Palestis became Superintendent of Schools in Mine Hill; in 1990, he recommended to his Board that the seventh and eighth grade students be returned to Mine Hill; he also recommended that high school aged students remain at Dover High School through the negotiation of an additional long-term contract. No action was taken by the Mine Hill Board of Education.

(19) The parties ultimately negotiated a sending-receiving contract dated July 7, 1993, expiring on June 30, 2000. The contract makes no distinction between seventh and eighth grade students attending Dover Middle School and ninth through twelfth grade students attending Dover High School. There is no distinction between grade levels at the time a renewal is to be negotiated.

(20) In the late 1980s and specifically in 1989, various efforts were made by Mine Hill to explore means by which the Mine Hill Middle School students could be returned to Mine Hill.

(21) A building advisory committee established in June 1996 issued a recommendation to the Mine Hill Board to establish a pre-kindergarten through eighth program at the Canfield School. Mine Hill proceeded to hire the experts necessary to establish the feasibility of withdrawing the Mine Hill seventh and eighth graders from Dover.

(22) In early 1998, Dover filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education seeking designation as a special needs district which would result in influx of state funding to the district.

(23) As a result of the filing of the petition for certification as a special needs district (or "Abbott District") Mine Hill Board of Education decided to withhold tuition payments to Dover. Subsequently, Mine Hill was advised that it could not withhold tuition payments. This advice came from the Morris County Superintendent of Schools as well as an Assistant Commissioner of Education.

(24) On October 6, 1998, Mine Hill Board of Education voted to file the instant petition with the Commissioner.

(25) A bond referendum for construction on the Canfield Avenue School was scheduled for December 8, 1998. The State approved the holding of the referendum with the condition that there would be two separate questions on the ballot. One question was to be directed toward construction for grades pre-kindergarten through sixth; the second question was to be directed toward construction for grades seventh and eighth. The amount contained in the proposed referendum for seventh and eighth grade expenditures were $800,000.

(26) The referendum was approved on December 8, 1998, the day after this petition was filed.

(27) There are a significant number of Mine Hill students who complete the sixth grade at Canfield Avenue School but who do not enroll in seventh grade at Dover Middle School. The survival ratio[3] of the sixth and seventh grades, from Mine Hill to Dover is approximately 70 percent. Because of the low survival ratio from sixth to seventh grades, enrollment predictions are uncertain. Moreover, it is impossible to calculate class sizes for the seventh and eighth grade programs at Mine Hill, since that program is still in the planning stage. The average class size in the Dover Middle School for the five major subject classes ranges between 22 and 24 students.

[3] See discussion below at p. 30.

(28) With regard to staffing, Mine Hill anticipates including a science teacher, who may be shared with elementary students, a language arts teacher, a social studies teacher, and a math teacher at the proposed Middle School. In addition, the district anticipates hiring a reading teacher, a new special education teacher, and special area teacher which, at the time of hearing, was undefined. The actual roll and pupil contact for the reading teacher, the special education teacher and the special teacher was not yet defined.

(29) Staffing at Dover includes 41 professionals including two administrators, two guidance counselors, one-half time each of psychologist, social worker, nurse, librarian, other, and 35 classroom teachers. The staff provides both the curricular and extra-curricular program for approximately 400 students who comprise the seventh and eighth grades at the Dover Middle School.

(30) Each of the districts offers the required core courses for the seventh and eighth grades. In addition, each offers in various combinations elective courses for their seventh and eighth grade students. These courses are enrichment or exploratory courses which complement the core curriculum.

(31) In Dover, core courses are given for the full school year.

(32) In Dover, core curriculum offerings at advanced levels are available for highly talented students. For example, algebra one is taught at the high school level for talented students, which may permit them to waive the normal algebra one course in high school if they pass an entrance exam at the beginning of ninth grade.

(33) All other core subjects are taught in homogeneous groupings at three different levels which gives the student the opportunity to learn with other students of comparable ability and provides the chance for particularly talented students to be in an advanced level class.

(34) Dover Middle School students participate in the Rogate Program which is affiliated with the John Hopkins University and provides academically talented students the chance to engage in additional special learning opportunities beyond those provided in the regular curriculum.

(35) Dover Middle School provides extensive programs of special education and support services. Its special education program has multiple components including mainstreaming, resource center, and self-contained classes.

(36) Dover Middle School also offers additional support to students who require it. For example, students who have just arrived into the United States or who have little or no knowledge of English, are placed in a full bilingual program for the first year, then are transitioned into mainstream classes for most core courses but continue to receive language arts in the bilingual program in the second year and by the third year such students are fully transitioned into the mainstream program.

(37) At the time of the hearing, the Mine Hill curriculum had not been approved. Although Mine Hill represents that it has distinct advantages such as offering language arts/literature in a combined block rather than as two separate courses, which would enable the teachers to work together providing for team teaching and better integrated course offering, the efficiency of the actual program cannot be assessed.

(38) The Mine Hill program has a particular emphasis on technology including the provision of access to lap top computers, a file server and smart board which can be transferred from room to room and each individual classroom in the current Canfield Avenue School has cable television and laser disks capability. In addition, computers are used in both art and music.

(39) There is no way to be certain as to the way in which the program, which is in the planning stage, will be implemented. Technology support and infusion for every course including distance learning, Website support, teacher command center with laser disc player, VCR, smart board, cable television and lap top computers for students are among the advantages proposed to be offered by Mine Hill.

(40) Current extra-curricular activities at the Canfield Avenue School in Mine Hill presently include intramural sports such as jogging, floor hockey, and gymnastics, the school newspaper, a literary magazine, the year book, a talent show, a school play and certain other clubs. Mine Hill anticipates extending these activities to the seventh and eighth grades. There is, at this time, no firm provision for athletic teams in Mine Hill.

(41) In Dover, in addition to nonathletic extracurricular activities such as the builders club, debate/forensics, geography, jazz band, the junior national honor society, peer leadership, Rogate, school dances, school newspaper, school play, a seventh grade trip to Stokes, student leadership, a Washington, D.C. trip for eighth graders and the year book, there are athletic activities including, soccer, cross country, basketball, wrestling, softball, track and field, and intramurals.

(42) Dover Middle School's ratio was 11.1 pupils per teacher. Assuming an enrollment of 75 students and six teaching staff members the Canfield Avenue School would have a ratio of 12.5 students per teacher for grades seventh and eighth. Both schools provide an instructional day which is five hours and twenty minutes in length.

(43) During the Springs of 1996, 1997 and 1998, test results show that 100 percent of Mine Hill students attending Dover Middle School performed at the advanced proficient or proficient level in the three subject areas tested by the Early Warning Test, reading, mathematics, and writing.

(44) In 1998-99, the new Grade Eight Proficienal Assessment (GEPA) was taken by eighth graders throughout the state. Mine Hill scored 100 percent at advanced proficient or proficient in language arts in comparison to a State average of 78 percent. Mine Hill students also scored 76.9 in advanced proficient or proficient in mathematics, compared to a 62 percent average for the State.

(45) In 1997-98, the students of Dover at Dover Middle School performed at either the advanced proficient or proficient levels in reading at 98.4 percent, mathematics at 91.8 percent, and in writing 91.7 percent. These results were comparable to the prior two years. With respect to the GEPA results for Dover, 87.1 percent of the student accomplished advanced proficient or proficient in language arts and 54 percent accomplished proficient or advanced proficient in mathematics.[4]

(46) On December 19, 1997, the Dover Board of Education filed a verified petition for declaratory and injunctive relief with the Commissioner of Education seeking to obtain status as a special needs district. If the Commissioner found Dover to be a special needs district, it would receive millions of extra dollars in state aids. The petition was filed because of the superintendent's extreme concern about the district's ability to meet new State mandates requiring full day kindergarten of pre-kindergarten programming.

[4] These figures are for the overall Dover Middle School population, not just the Dover students.

(47) The petition had little likelihood of success, since special needs districts are required to have a high minority population and limited financial resources, placing students in a precarious position; such schools have a record, over an extended period of time of producing educational results that proved students were not learning. It was established that Dover was at or above the top level of pupil results of standardized tests compared to Abbott Districts.

(48) Dover withdrew the petition when an alternative funding source became available.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The issues to be resolved in this matter are:

1. Is the 1981 order by the Commissioner of Education, granting Petitioner's request for return of its seventh and eighth grades still valid if the conditions outlined in the order are only now being met?

2. What standards should be applied in determining whether to grant the relief sought in the petition, since the statute speaks solely in terms of sending-receiving relationship in the high school?

3. Will there be a substantial negative impact on racial composition, education or finance in either of the two districts if severance were to occur?

4. Should these two districts be ordered to regionalize; or, in the alternative, should they be directed to engage in a regionalization study?

A. The 1981 Order of the Commissioner:

Petitioner seeks permission to terminate its currently existing sending-receiving relationship with the Board of Education of Dover. Mine Hill requests the withdrawal of its seventh and eighth grade pupils only, for it wants its high school students to continue attending school in Dover's district. Dover opposes severance and seeks, instead, an order to regionalize, or, in the alternative an order directing a feasibility study for regionalization.

Mine Hill originally sought approval for the withdrawal of its seventh and eighth grade students in July of 1980. Dover acceded to Mine Hill's request subject to the conditions that Mine Hill be required to provide Dover with two years' notice of the date of partial termination and that Mine Hill be forbidden from terminating the agreement once classes have commenced for any school year. (P-6 at 2; P-17 at 2.) The Mine Hill Board approved Dover's requests; both school boards executed a Stipulation of Dismissal and Mine Hill withdrew its petition. (P-17 at 2.) However, because considerable correspondence exchanged between the school boards and other offices regarding the racial distributions of the school districts, the Commissioner remanded the case to the OAL. The ALJ determined that a contested case did not exist and transmitted the matter back to the Commissioner. Id. at 3-4.

On May 29, 1981, the Commissioner entered an order granting Mine Hill's request to withdraw its seventh and eight grade students subject to the following requirements:

1. The Mine Hill Board of Education shall, in conjunction with representatives of the Dover Board of Education, develop a plan for such shared curricular and/or extracurricular activities and programs for grades 7 and 8 as shall ensure a more fluent integration of said pupils into the grades 9-12 high school program of the Dover Public Schools. Such plan shall be submitted to the Morris County Superintendent of Schools for his approval.

2. The Mine Hill Board of Education shall submit to the Morris County Superintendent of Schools for his approval such curricular and programmatic documentation as shall be necessary to demonstrate a comparability of program to that which Mine Hill seventh and eighth grade pupils presently receive within the Dover Public Schools.

3. The Mine Hill Board of Education shall undertake a building program which shall accomplish the result of closing the presently inadequate Hattie Rice Elementary School which shall meet the curricular and programmatic needs of those grades presently housed in the Hattie Rice School and those seventh and eighth grade pupils to be returned to the district by virtue of the granting of the instant Petition.

The Commissioner retained jurisdiction over the case and provided that once the Morris County Superintendent of Schools had been supplied assurances that all conditions were satisfied, a date for withdrawal would be specified.

Mine Hill held a referendum in 1982 seeking approval from its citizens to raise funds for the construction of the facilities needed for the seventh and eighth graders. The community did not approve the referendum. Without the necessary revenues to expand the Canfield Avenue School (which accommodated grades kindergarten through six), Mine Hill was unable to satisfy the requirements stipulated in the Commissioner's Order.

A referendum was held in 1986 to fund construction of the facilities at the Canfield Avenue School. This referendum was passed, but it only dealt with the expansion of the school's core facilities, such as a library, to support the kindergarten through six grades—not grades seven and eight. Accordingly, as of 1986, Mine Hill still had not met the terms enunciated in the Commissioner's order.

In the early 1990's, Mine Hill and Dover engaged in negotiations for a sending-receiving contract. The negotiations culminated in a seven-year contract. It was dated July 7, 1993 with an expiration date of June 30, 2000. (Exh. P-23.) Prior to this written agreement, the parties had not had a formal contract.[5] Mine Hill wanted the contract to expire in the year 2000 inasmuch as the debt it incurred from the 1986 referendum would be paid by that year.

In 1996, Mine Hill established an ad hoc citizens' committee, known as the Alternative Education Committee ("Committee"), to investigate its educational options. One of the options examined by the Committee was regionalization with other Morris County school districts. The Committee also studied charter schools and school vouchers. While its review concentrated on high school grades, i.e. nine through twelve, some review of the middle school was performed as well.[6] It should be noted that, while the committee was critical of the high school, it praised the middle school. (R-13, p. 44). This committee recommended that the district not seek severance.

Mine Hill subsequently formed a Building Expansion Advisory Committee. This committee recommended the implementation of a pre-kindergarten through eighth grade program at the Canfield Avenue School and the holding of a referendum to provide for the additional facilities. Mine Hill retained the professionals needed to prepare a study of the feasibility of withdrawing its seventh and eighth grade pupils from Dover. Mine Hill held a referendum on December 8, 1998, which was approved. The voters authorized the issuance of bonds to improve and expand the facilities at the Canfield Avenue School. On that same date, Mine Hill petitioned the Commissioner for permission to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Dover for its seventh and eighth graders.

[5] In Mine Hill's reply brief, it alleges that a prior written contract regarding Mine Hill and Dover's sending-receiving relationship had been executed during the 1970's. (See Petitioner's Reply-Brief dated July 5, 2000 at 1-2.) However, since this document was not entered into evidence and is not part of the record in this case, the statement that the parties had not had a formal contract prior to the one entered into in 1993 is appropriate. Nonetheless, resolution of the issues raised herein does not turn on the existence of a present or previous sending-receiving contract between the parties.

[6] A copy of the report submitted by the Committee is included in the record as Exhibit R-13. It is entitled "An Exploration Of Educational Options For Our Students In Grades 7 Through 12."

Mine Hill argues that the Commissioner's 1981 order is still valid and should be applied herein to permit Mine Hill to withdraw its seventh and eighth grade students from Dover. Dover disagrees and avers that based on the doctrines of laches, waiver and estoppel, Petitioner is barred from using the 1981 order.

Laches is an equitable defense asserted where neglect or omission to assert a right over a period of time causes prejudice to an adverse party. Enfield v. FLW, Inc., 256 N.J. Super. 502, 520 (Ch. Div. 1991), aff'd, 256 N.J. Super. 466 (App. Div.), cert. denied, 130 N.J. 9 (1992). The delay in enforcing a known right must be unexplained and inexcusable and it must prejudice the party claiming it. Gladden v. Public Employees' Retirement Sys., 171 N.J. Super. 363, 370-71 (App. Div. 1979); Allstate Ins. Co. v. Howard Sav. Institution, 127 N.J. Super. 479, 489 (Ch. Div. 1974).

The State Supreme Court addressed the doctrine of laches in an education context in Lavin v. Board of Educ. of the City of Hackensack, 90 N.J. 145 (1982). Lavin involved a petitioner's claim for employment credit as a teacher based on her prior military service. Because she asserted her claim nine years after her employment began, the Board of Education argued that laches barred her claim. The Supreme Court agreed and quoted the following from Atlantic City v. Civil Serv. Comm'n, 3 N.J. Super. 57, 60 (App. Div. 1949):

> Laches in a general sense is the neglect, for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time, under circumstances permitting diligence, to do what in law should have been done. More specifically, it is inexcusable delay in asserting a right.

> 'Long lapse of time, if unexplained, may create or justify a presumption against the existence or validity of plaintiff's right and in favor of the adverse right of defendant; or a presumption that if plaintiff was ever possessed of a right, it has been abandoned or waived, or has been in some manner satisfied; or that plaintiff has assented to, or acquiesced in, the adverse right of defendant; or a presumption that the evidence of the transaction in issue has been lost or become obscured, or that conditions have change since the right accrued; or a presumption that the adverse party would be prejudiced by the enforcement of plaintiff's claim.'
> [Lavin, 90 N.J. at 151-52 (citations omitted); see also Windsor Card Shops, Inc. v. Hallmark Cards, Inc., 957 F. Supp. 562, 568 (D.N.J. 1997) stating that laches, "similar to a statute of limitations, bars claims that were neglected for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time"). (Citations omitted)].

A court should consider and weigh the length of the delay, reasons for the delay, and change in conditions of either or both parties. Id. at 152. The length of the delay alone or combined with the other elements may result in laches. Id. "It is because the central issue is whether it is inequitable to permit the claim to be enforced that generally the change in conditions or relations of the parties coupled with the passage of time becomes the primary determinant." Id.

In the matter herein, the lengthy passage of time in conjunction with the changing conditions of both parties justify a finding barring Petitioner from using the Commissioner's 1981 order.

Knowledge and delay are prerequisites to the application of the doctrine of laches. C.R. v. J.G. 306 N.J. Super. 214, 239 (Ch. Div. 1997). Petitioner seeks to enforce an order issued almost eighteen years prior to the filing of the instant petition. Petitioner knew it had permission back in 1981 to terminate its sending-receiving relationship with Dover regarding its seventh and eighth grades. Yet, because of its inability to obtain approval from its community to raise the requisite funds, Petitioner was unable to satisfy the three conditions established by the Commissioner. The delay is extensive and inexcusable inasmuch as the actions of the school board and its citizens are intertwined. The voters defeated the 1982 referendum. The 1986 referendum, which was approved, dealt only with funding the expansion of facilities for the kindergarten through six grades. It was not until December of 1998 that the citizens of Mine Hill approved the funding necessary to accommodate the seventh and eighth grade pupils.[7] In the interim, Petitioner continued sending its students entering the seventh and eighth grades to Dover and executed a seven-year sending-receiving contract with Respondent.

Moreover, the conditions of the parties have changed. Both Mine Hill and Dover have, unsurprisingly, experienced changes within the past eighteen years in the areas of State requirements, test results, and facilities. More importantly, changes have occurred regarding the size and ethnic composition of the student body in each of the districts. For example, in 1980, Mine Hill's then Superintendent of Schools projected that a 7.2% increase would occur in minority enrollment in Dover by the 1987-88 school year as a result of the withdrawal of Mine Hill's seventh and eighth graders. The enrollment would increase from 53.3% to 60.5%. (Petitioner's Brief dated May 30, 2000 ("Petitioner's Brief") at 8.) According to the report of one of Mine Hill's experts, Dr. Savitt, as of October 1998, Dover's ethnic composition was comprised of 256 minority students out of a total enrollment of 382 (excluding special education students), resulting in a 67% minority percentage. (Petitioner's Brief at 33; P-3 at 10.) Thus, according to Petitioner's own findings, Dover had a minority rate of 53.3% in 1980 and a rate of 67% in 1998.[8] According to Respondent's expert, this demonstrates a significant change which has occurred in the Dover school district. Furthermore, Mine Hill concedes that its own minority school population has increased. "Indeed, if anything has changed dramatically, it is the amount of diversity in Mine Hill itself. As demonstrated by P-54, Mine Hill has gone from a district whose students were 95% white in 1981 to one which today has a 23% student minority population." (Petitioner's

[7] The citizens authorized the issuance of $4,000,000 in bonds for the facilities for the kindergarten though six grades and $800,000 for facilities for the seventh and eighth grades. (Petitioner's Brief dated May 30, 2000 at 14.)

Brief at 40.) These changes demonstrate that the circumstances present in 1981 no longer exist.

Laches should be applied in an individualized manner in particular cases and its availability depends on weighing the peculiar facts of the case. Lavin, 90 N.J. at 157-58 (Pashman, J. dissenting) is applicable in this case. Consequently, I FIND that the Commissioner's 1981 order is outdated and no longer valid. Based on the length of time that has transpired between the issuance of the Commissioner's order and the filing of the instant petition, i.e. almost eighteen years, and the change in conditions of both parties involved, I FIND that the doctrine of laches is applicable in this case.

Waiver refers to "the intentional relinquishment of a known right." West Jersey Title & Guar. Co. v. Industrial Trust Co., 27 N.J. 144, 152 (1958). Waiver must be voluntary and must imply "an election by the party to dispense with something of value, or to forego some advantage which he might, at his option, have demanded and insisted on." See Amir v. D'Agostino, 328 N.J. Super. 141, 160 (Ch. Div. 1998), aff'd, 328 N.J. Super. 103 (App. Div. 2000). The intention to waive does not have to be manifestly expressed; it may be inferred from the circumstances. Goodpasture v. Goodpasture, 115 N.J. Super. 189, 198 (Ch. Div. 1971). A waiver may be present when a party engages in conduct that reveals an intent to relinquish a right or acts inconsistently with its assertion. English Feedlot, Inc. v. Norden Lab., Inc., 833 F. Supp. 1498, 1504 (D. Colo. 1993).

As described above, in 1981 Mine Hill obtained an order from the Commissioner granting it permission to withdraw its seventh and eighth grade students from Dover, provided that certain specifications were met. Not until late in 1998, when the matter herein commenced, did Mine Hill raise its claim that the order should be applied. Prior to that time, Mine Hill consistently sent its seventh and eighth grade pupils to be educated in Dover's district. In fact, in 1993, it entered into a formal written contract with Dover regarding the sending-receiving relationship they shared. This agreement set forth in pertinent part:

> WHEREAS, Mine Hill desires to send its middle and senior high school pupils, grades 7 through 12, to Dover Middle and High Schools and to designate Dover Middle and High Schools as the schools for attendance of Mine Hill Township pupils pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 et. seq. and in accordance with the terms set forth herein; and
> [T]he parties desire to enter into this agreement to create a "sending-receiving" relationship pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 et. seq.

[P-23 at 1.]

Paragraph seven of the agreement provides that Mine Hill and Dover agreed to commence negotiations to consider renewal of the agreement for an additional term. Id. at 5.

During the 1990's, Mine Hill also explored other options for its seventh and eighth grade students. It established the ad hoc citizens' committee and reviewed options such as regionalization.

The express language of the contract demonstrates a waiver. Notwithstanding full knowledge of the Commissioner's order issued in 1981, Mine Hill voluntarily engaged in negotiations with Dover in the early 1990's and thereafter voluntarily executed a sending-receiving agreement with it. The agreement was set to expire in June 30, 2000 unless the parties renewed it for a further term. Furthermore, Mine Hill explored other options such as regionalization. These actions reasonably demonstrate that Petitioner acted inconsistently with and intended to relinquish its previously held right. Accordingly, I FIND that Petitioner waived the right granted by the 1981 Order of the Commissioner.

The State Supreme Court has defined equitable estoppel as:

> The effect of the voluntary conduct of a party whereby he is absolutely precluded, both at law and in equity, from asserting rights which might otherwise have existed ..., as against another person, who has in good faith relied upon such conduct, and has been led to change his position for the worse...

[County of Morris v. Fauver, 153 N.J. 80, 104 (1998) (Citations omitted).]

The doctrine is invoked when one party changes its position in reliance on the conduct of another party and the repudiation of that conduct would prejudice the relying party. Amir, 328 N.J. Super. at 160. The party asserting it may rely on conduct, inaction, or representations of the actor. Miller v. Miller, 97 N.J. 154, 163 (1984). A vital factor is that the relying party suffer a detrimental change. See also Pitak v. Bell Atl. Network Servs., Inc., 928 F. Supp. 1354, 1367 (D.N.J. 1996); Fairken Assoc. v. Hutchin, 223 N.J. Super. 274, 280 (Law Div. 1987).

Dover contends that Mine Hill's inactions and contrary actions regarding the Commissioner's 1981 order led it to assume in its financial and educational planning that the relationship between the two districts would continue. (Respondent's Brief dated May 26, 2000 at 36.) Dover makes this claim while discussing the estoppel doctrine in its Conclusions of Law, but does not support it with specific evidence. The State Board of Education has declared that sending-receiving relationships between school districts are not intended to provide additional revenue for receiving districts to expand facilities or programs.

> [T]he statutory scheme was designed to make unused facilities available to students from districts that lack facilities and ... tuition payments to the receiving district are intended to permit receiving districts to accommodate students from the sending districts without additional cost to them. The statutory scheme was not intended to create a revenue source for districts, to subsidize the expansion of facilities > and programs for the benefit of the receiving district, or to protect the receiving district's citizens from tax increases.

> [Board of Educ. of the Tp. of Cranbury v. Board of Educ. of the Tp. of Lawrence, 1987 S.L.D. 2580, 2587, appeal dismissed, A-4253-86T1 (App. Div. April 22, 1988)].

Moreover, Dover was aware that its sending-receiving contract would terminate in June 2000 and should have planned accordingly.

Inasmuch as it does not appear that Dover suffered a detrimental change or was prejudiced because of reliance on Mine Hill's conduct, I FIND that equitable estoppel is inapplicable in this case. Nonetheless, based on the finding that the doctrines of laches and waiver are applicable, I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner's 1981 order is no longer valid.[9]

B. Applicable Standards

There are few decisions addressing the withdrawal of elementary school pupils because the vast majority of sending-receiving relationships statewide are at the high school level. The cases that do exist, however, apply N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 to determine if withdrawal is appropriate.

This issue is addressed directly in the case of *Board of Educ. of the Twp. of Maurice River v. Board of Educ. of the Buena Regional Sch. D*ist., 1982 S.L.D. 1270, aff'd. by the Commissioner of Education, 1982 S.L.D. 1285. In Maurice River, petitioner sent some of its elementary and high school students to schools in Buena Township pursuant to an informal sending-receiving relationship. For the 1981-82 school year, Maurice River and Buena Regional entered into a formal sending-receiving contract. Maurice River agreed to send 18 elementary pupils and four high school pupils to the [9] It should also be noted that there is nothing in the record which indicates that all three of the conditions precedent were met by Mine Hill, since there is no evidence demonstrating that Mine Hill, in conjunction with Dover developed a plan for such shared curricular and/or extracurricular activities for middle school grades as shall insure a more fluent integration of these students into Dover High School.

Buena Regional School District. Maurice River subsequently decided to terminate the sending-receiving relationship with Buena Regional and applied to the Commissioner for permission to dissolve the relationship. The ALJ identified two distinct issues:

1. Whether there is good and sufficient reasons to approve Maurice River Township Board of Education's application to withdraw its kindergarten through eighth grade pupils from a sending-receiving arrangement with the Board of Education of the Buena Regional School District?

2. Whether there is good and sufficient reason to terminate the sending-receiving relationship between the Boards of Education of Maurice River Township and Buena Regional with regard to its high school pupils in grades ninth through twelfth?

Id. at 1271-72.

The ALJ had to determine what standard to apply to each issue. With respect to the termination of the kindergarten through eighth grade relationships, the ALJ noted that while N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 only mentioned withdrawal from sending-receiving relationships at the high school level, it was the applicable standard for both issues. Specifically, the ALJ held:

> The court observes that the statute addresses only a change or withdrawal of high school pupils in a sending-receiving relationship and that it is silent with respect to such relating to elementary pupils. In any event, the controlling statute, for the determination of this matter, is found at N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

Although a different statute as then written required a different standard to be met to permit severance, that change is not relevant to the issue under consideration.[10] Based upon the affirmance of the Commissioner, it is clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 contains the applicable standard regarding the termination of an elementary sending-receiving relationship.

In Board of Educ. of the Borough of Kinnelon v. Board of Educ. of the Borough of Riverdale, State Board of Education #21-83, (April 4, 1984), aff'd. Dkt. #A-3857-83T2 (App. Div. February 8, 1995), the Board of Education of Kinnelon entered into a sending-receiving contract with the Riverdale Board of Education on October 19, 1960. In the contract, Riverdale agreed to send its seventh through twelfth grade students to Kinnelon commencing in the 1962-63 school year.

After executing another contract in 1976, wherein Riverdale specifically agreed to send its seventh and eighth grade students to the Kinnelon Middle School, Riverdale resolved to withdraw its seventh and eighth grade students from the sending-receiving relationship prior to the expiration of the contract.

The State Board of Education had to decide the standard to be applied to withdrawals at the seventh and eighth grade level. It held that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 was the applicable statute for withdrawals at the elementary level. The Board concluded that the Commissioner had erred in holding that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 was inapplicable. See Id. at 6.

The State Board specifically held that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 applies to the withdrawal of seventh and eighth grade students and is not limited to high school students. See Id. at 9. The State Board held that Riverdale had demonstrated good and sufficient reason for the withdrawal and it was entitled to terminate the sending-receiving relationship with Kinnelon. Kinnelon, like Maurice River, also holds that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 contains the applicable standard governing the withdrawal of seventh and eighth grade students.

[10] At the time of Maurice River, the petitioner was required to demonstrate that there was "good and sufficient" reason for withdrawal from a sending-receiving relationship.

Although the standards provided by the legislature in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 have since changed, the statute still applies to elementary withdrawals. The concerns raised by the withdrawal of a district from a sending-receiving relationship are the same at all grade levels. In Maurice River and Kinnelon, primary concerns were the financial and educational impact on students in the two districts. See Maurice River, 1982 S.L.D. at 1281 (holding that withdrawal of elementary students would be permitted because it would be financially and educationally beneficial); Kinnelon, slip op. at 10 (permitting withdrawal based on the educational interests of all students involved and the cost effectiveness). Financial concerns and effects on the quality of education are two of the three standards expressed in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 today.

Moreover, the facts of this dispute and the behavior of these parties indicate they perceive that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is controlling.

For example, on November 12, 1997, James S. Rothschild, Jr., attorney for Mine Hill, wrote the Commissioner requesting a meeting to discuss withdrawing Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students from the sending-receiving relationship with Dover on a "fast track" basis. (See P-30). Assistant Commissioner of Education, John M. Sherry responded by letter dated December 3, 1997. (See P-31).

Sherry's letter stated that withdrawal on a "fast track" basis would not be possible. Additional information would be necessary before severance could even be considered. Specifically, the Assistant Commissioner stated that the districts would have to provide a study regarding the racial impact of withdrawal because the "[s]tatute requires that the withdrawal of students from a sending-receiving relationship shall not significantly disrupt the racial composition the receiving district." This language comes directly from N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. Assistant Commissioner Sherry understood that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 contained the applicable standard regarding the withdrawal of Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students. Sherry's letter also stated that the Districts must provide a study regarding the "impact of withdrawal on the demographics of the remaining seventh and eighth grade students in Dover." Again, this requirement comes directly from N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

Dr. Renee' Rovtar, the Morris County Superintendent of Schools, also expressed that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 contained the relevant standard for the withdrawal of seventh and eighth grade students. Ms. Fischer and Dr. Palestis met with Rovtar to discuss the potential withdrawal of Mine Hill's seventh and eighth grade students. At this meeting, Rovtar informed both Superintendents that withdrawal of seventh and eighth grade students would only be possible if the three criteria set forth in the statute were satisfied. Thus, two state education officials knew that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 was the statute governing the proposed withdrawal of seventh and eighth grade students by Mine Hill. Because the concerns raised by a district's withdrawal from a sending-receiving relationship are the same at all grade levels, as well as on the facts of this dispute, and the interpretation of the legislation by the Department of Education, I CONCLUDE that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 should and does continue to apply to the withdrawal of any sending-receiving relationship.

C. Substantial Negative Impact

The controlling statute provides that a sending-receiving relationship may only be severed by application to the Commissioner, who shall grant such application only after determining that certain criteria have been met. Specifically, the district seeking severance > shall prepare and submit a feasibility study, considering the educational and financial implications for the sending and receiving districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils in each of the districts, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of each of the districts. The Commissioner shall make equitable determinations based upon consideration of all the circumstances, including the educational and financial implications for the affected districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population of the districts. The Commissioner shall grant the requested change in > designation or allocation if no substantial negative impact will result there from.

[N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13].

It is worth noting from the outset that the Supreme Court has determined that this is not a traditional balancing statute wherein benefits and detriments are weighed against each other to determine the ultimate issue. "[T]he act lays out a series of factors to be considered by the Commissioner as part of a feasibility study including: the educational (offerings) and financial (budgetary) implications for both districts, the impact on the quality of education in both districts, and the effect on the racial composition of the pupil population in both districts." Moreover, the focus of inquiry must be on whether there is a substantial negative impact in any one of the three categories of education, finance, or racial composition. If there is, severance must be denied. Englewood Cliffs v. Englewood, 257 N.J. Super. 413, 462 (App. Div. 1992) (Citation omitted) (Emphasis in the original).

With this legal underpinning in mind, I turn to the issue of whether granting severance will have a substantial negative impact on either or both of the two districts. As required by the statute, Mine Hill, as the district seeking to sever the relationship, sought and obtained a feasibility study which took into consideration the educational and financial implications for both districts, the impact on the quality of education received by pupils in each district and the effect on racial composition of the pupil population of the districts. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. The Original Guidelines Report, dated September, 1998, (P-2) represents the initial study conducted by Dr. Savitt, who has had educational experience as a teacher, building administrator, college instructor, superintendent of schools and consultant. He also has extensive experience serving as an educational consultant to many school districts. There is also the Guidelines Updated Report, (P-3) dated November, 1999, which Dr. Savitt testified was merely a one year update of the information contained in the original report.

In order to project pupil enrollment in each of the two districts, Dr. Savitt employed the "cohort survival method." This method involves going back five years for each district and using actual enrollment numbers to determine the percentage of students proceeding from each grade to the next. Those five years are then averaged and a percentage, the survival ratio, is determined for anticipated student movement from grade to grade. These ratios are then applied from the current year forward for the next five years. This method of calculation allows for the development of a reasonable projection of total enrollment during the upcoming five-year period. Respondent's experts agreed that Dr. Savitt's testimony was an accurate description of the cohort survival method calculating future pupil enrollment.

Analysis of the data presented in the Guidelines Reports, specifically Charts 3 and 4 in both, however, discloses incorrectly performed calculations. See T 12/8/99, pp. 81-89.[11] For example, Respondent's expert demonstrated that the calculation from prekindergarten to kindergarten in Chart 3 was wrong. In each year the 48 students in prekindergarten should have been projected to 66, not 54, as the Guidelines Reports reflect. There are other errors in calculation which, while Dr. Savitt acknowledged them, were never explained. Instead, Dr. Savitt said he would need time to review the information. Since his testimony was part of Petitioner's early case in December 1999, and the last day of hearing, devoted to rebuttal by Petitioner was at the end of February 2000, and there has been no explanation or rehabilitation of the testimony, a reasonable inference to be drawn is that the numerous errors were, at minimum, calculation errors; I do so FIND.

Petitioner asserts that Respondent's experts, Dr. Galinsky and Dr. Iannacone greatly exaggerated the impact of the calculation errors they found and that the statement that these errors rendered all of the subsequent numbers useless is incorrect. Petitioner further asserts that the only errors found were at the prekindergarten and kindergarten level and, although the "errors would ripple across the subsequent years", during the five year period of the study this ripple would end at the fifth grade and . . . could have no impact on the numbers of pupils involved in the seventh and eighth grades in the anticipated severance years." (PRB, p. 19).

Petitioner's argument fails for several reasons. First of all, these calculations are the basis for projection of student enrollment and are also used in coming to a determination with respect to the financial implications of the severance. Even assuming, arguendo, that they have no impact on grades seven and eight in the event that severance were to be granted, they represent a sloppiness and lack of precision and attention to detail which undermines the validity of the conclusions. Moreover, Petitioner's statement that the errors are merely found in the prekindergarten and kindergarten figures is not supported by the evidence. Dr. Galinsky specifically testified that he did not have the time or inclination to redo all the projections. (T 12/8/99, p. 89). Accordingly, it is not clear whether the remaining calculations are accurate.

I FIND that the Original and Updated Reports by Guidelines on behalf of Mine Hill are tainted by the calculation errors contained therein. I further FIND the projections of enrollment as well as those employed to project financial implications to be unreliable; consequently, I ascribe no weight to them. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that with respect to the criteria of racial composition and financial implications, Petitioner has failed to sustain the burden of proof.

With respect to Petitioner's assertion that the evidence demonstrates numerous errors on the part of Respondent's experts as well, review of the record discloses that the errors Petitioner sought to establish were, in fact, matters of judgment. For example, Petitioner challenged Dr. Galinsky's failure to use background information in his feasibility study from the report of the Mine Hill Alternative Education Committee. The omitted information, consisting of less than complimentary statements about Dover Schools were made by the committee, composed of Mine Hill citizenry. Clearly, the decision to use or not, such information, which is primarily about the Dover High School, in this case about severance of the seventh and eighth grades, is a matter of judgment and relevance. Moreover, it is not the foundation on which the rest of Respondent's case is built as are the calculations of Dr. Savitt. Finally, the errors and omissions were acknowledged and addressed as Petitioner points out, on direct as well as cross examination.

More importantly, Respondent's expert, Dr. Iannacone, showed the logical progression of the enrollment changes in his testimony. He explained in detail how he arrived at his figures. Using the 1998-99 school year as a starting point, Dr. Iannacone averaged the prior six years of racial data for both Mine Hill and Dover. He demonstrated that substantial percentage decreases in white population would be caused by the withdrawal of Mine Hill seventh and eighth grade students and concluded that there would be an actual 7.3 percent increase in the minority population if Mine Hill was permitted to withdraw in school year 1998-99. In absolute terms, the number of white students would decrease from 133 to 90, a 32.3 percent reduction.

Dr. Iannacone also proved that the actual decrease in minority pupils, were it to occur in 1999-2000, is eight percent. In absolute terms, the number of white students would decrease from 107 to 67, a 37.3 percent reduction. The projected decrease in minority pupil population, should a withdrawal occur in 2002-2003, the last year of the Original Guidelines Report, is 7.2 percent. Finally, in order to compare with the Guidelines Update (P-3) his analysis extended to school year 2003-2004, (R-27). Based upon Dr. Iannacone's calculations, I FIND that the racial breakdown by 2003-2004 would result in an increased minority population of 7.22 percent. In absolute terms, the number of white students would decrease from 182 to 125, a 31.3 percent reduction. I further FIND that the actual change in racial composition is between seven and eight percent in any given year of the study.

Dr. Iannacone also presented projections of the racial composition of the proposed Mine Hill Middle School. Granting of severance would result in a projected population consisting of 84.3 percent White, with the remaining 15.7 percent as follows: 3.3 percent Black, 7.9 percent Hispanic and 4.5 percent Asian. (R-8, p. 43). In contrast, Dover Middle School projected student population would be predominantly minority, consisting of over 72 percent minority, with the breakdown as follows: 10.2 percent Black, 59.5 percent Hispanic, 2.8 percent Asian.

Respondent's experts testified that the Mine Hill students comprise a disproportionately high number of those in the most challenging sections of the courses given,[12] as well as in some of the extracurricular activities for academically gifted students. Dr. Galinsky offered the benefit of his experience as Superintendent of the Morris School District in Morristown, New Jersey and as a mediator and facilitator in the Englewood case, with respect to the feelings of inferiority engendered by severance on the part of those left behind in the receiving district. Another of Respondent's experts, Dr. Iannacone, also served as superintendent in two school districts in New Jersey. In addition, he did significant work in 1972 with James Coleman who, at the time, was completing the second phase of his study dealing with the impact of race in segregation, desegregation and the quality of education. Petitioner dismisses this testimony as irrelevant because, in this case, the Mine Hill students are not being withdrawn; they will merely be retained in district while those already attending Dover Middle School will complete their studies there. Moreover, according to Petitioner, most of the grades at the Canfield Avenue School in Mine Hill have diverse populations and testimony demonstrated that tolerance education exists in the school.

Petitioner fails to consider, however, that the children who will be affected by the changes in both districts do not live in a vacuum. This is a long standing sending-receiving relationship; the students are well aware of it. To believe that the "symbolic loss" a term defined in the Englewood decision as that sense of inferiority engendered in those left behind which effects the motivation of children to learn, would not occur, is simply unrealistic. Englewood v. Englewood Cliffs, 257 N.J. Super. 413, 444. (Citations omitted). Moreover, Petitioner's remarks that there is no demonstrated application of Dr. Coleman's research on the impact of segregated schools on high school age African-American students to the facts of this case is a self-serving conclusory assessment for which Petitioner, who bears the burden here, offered no support. Finally, the testimony of Dr. Galinsky with respect to "symbolic loss" was based, in fact, on his own experiences in Morristown and Englewood, which he cited as examples of places where the effort to withdraw students still adversely impacts those remaining in those districts today.

Petitioner also stresses that there will be opportunities for tolerance education and pupil interaction in the school. The fact that such opportunities must be artificially provided through a formal curriculum program, speaks volumes about the lack of meaningful, daily, personal interaction with ethnically diverse peers. Of significance, as well, is the concern that approximately 15 percent of minority students who would comprise a portion of the student population in Mine Hill, may, because of the small absolute numbers involved, become isolated. The projections show that the absolute number of Black, Hispanic or Asian remaining in the Mine Hill district for seventh and eighth grade ranges between zero to three in each of the six years of the projection. Indeed, there are years in which there may be one Black or one Asian. When considered in context with Dr. Galinsky's testimony of the extraordinary integrated cafeteria at Dover Middle School and the effort and leadership required to attain such a circumstance, it is reasonable to infer that isolation of minority students will be a very real problem if severance were to be granted.

Of ultimate concern especially to Dover, too, is the resultant loss of peer role models, should severance be granted. Dr. Galinsky also testified that the higher achieving members of the higher socio-economic group often provide the role models and motivations for others, to achieve academic success and to realize greater educational opportunity. Dr. Galinsky described educational research studies establishing that goal-oriented values are more frequently represented in higher socio-economic communities. This comported with his own professional experiences in Morristown and Englewood. Mine Hill students, along with high-achieving Dover students, provide role models for other, less academically successful students. Over time, lower achieving students can "pick up" on the value of academic goals and the opportunities they present for students in later life. These role models will be lost because, as noted elsewhere, Mine Hill students represent a disproportionate number of higher achieving students. Notably, Petitioner failed to address there very real concern in its submission.

Review of the educational offerings of both districts demonstrates that Dover has a well established program which, according to Dr. Galinsky, includes, of course, the core curriculum requirements as well as opportunities for enrichment for gifted children in such areas as band and music, chorus, modern science and world issues. There are 15 or 16 different opportunities for enrichment at Dover Middle School, as well as exploratory classes in grades seven and eight in the areas of physical education, health, math lab, technology, industrial arts, world languages and computers.

Dover Middle School also provides a wide variety of opportunities to meet the individual needs of the children requiring special education services and assistance for those who need academic support in terms of basic skills. Dover Middle School also has an excellent bilingual and English as a second language program, as well as a comprehensive after school program which includes sports programs, builder's club, debating, geography, honor society, peer leadership and the Rogate program. (T of 12/8, pp. 18-19)

Dr. Galinsky also testified about the instructional process at Dover Middle School, which he described as "the most recommended middle school strategies that [he knew] of." He further commented that in both his superintendencies in Morristown and Paramus, he had had excellent middle schools, but he felt that Dover is closer to the ideal model than those for several reasons. First, as a middle school, Dover has been able to attract and keep people who are fully certified in the specific subject areas. Second, Dover has been able to provide an opportunity for daily consultation about every student among teachers and ancillary personnel for the sole purpose of getting to know each individual student. Because these middle school years are so challenging due to the many changes young people are going through at the time, this kind of daily opportunity to evaluate each student is, according to Dr. Galinsky, "outstanding." (T of 12/8, pp. 21-22).

Petitioner seeks to distinguish this case from Englewood Cliffs, which concerned high school students, while in the instant case, the students are seventh and eighth graders. Petitioner notes that these children are going through major transitions and have to face the additional traumatic experience of leaving their nurturing neighborhood school for a much larger environment. There was, however, no testimony to support the conclusion, stated for the first time in Petitioner's brief, that the movement from elementary school to the Middle School was traumatic. On the other hand, Dr. Galinsky did testify that the middle school provides a transition link between the nurturing environment of the elementary school and the more demanding, impersonal environment of the high school. He characterized the middle school years as challenging because of the changes young people are going through.

Dr. Galinsky spent the major portion of four school days at Dover Middle School and one of the most notable things he observed was finding a cafeteria in which self-segregation, by ethnic group, which typically occurs was not occurring at Dover Middle School. He attributed this success to the philosophy, caring, and leadership of the principal. (T of 12/8, pp. 23).

Dr. Palestis testified at length to the proposed Mine Hill Middle School curriculum which he developed in consultation with District staff and parents. (P-5). The curriculum incorporates, but goes well beyond, the State core curriculum requirements.

Each course includes a brief section composed of the title, grade level, minutes of instruction per week, and number of weeks the course is taught per year. These are followed by detailed sections explaining the course description/philosophy; course outline; course objectives (including core curriculum standards and cross-content workplace readiness skills); methods of instruction to be employed; assessment/evaluation of pupil progress; instructional materials used; technology support and infusion; community support, partnerships and resources; parent support and involvement; and support for students with diverse needs. The core courses are followed by electives, which are enrichment or exploratory courses to augment the core curriculum.[13]

With respect to extracurricular activities, Mine Hill anticipates extending and expanding the activities of the elementary school, such as intramural sports, school newspaper and literary magazine, yearbook, talent show, school play and clubs into the middle school. As noted above, although Mine Hill has affirmed that it would explore with Dover additional options, which the 1981 order had required as a condition precedent to severance, that has not been done. The self-serving conclusion that joint dances or trips would be readily achievable and the area of co-curricular cooperation could be reviewed does little to persuade that no more than cursory thought has been given to the development of the extracurricular program. In 1981, the Commissioner deemed such a program to be so important to the development of smooth transition between eighth grade in Mine Hill and ninth grade in Dover, that he made the development of an extracurricular plan a condition to be met before severance could occur.

Mine Hill asserts that its proposed curriculum offers distinct advantages to those of Dover. Among these advantages are the block programming of language arts/literacy, providing the opportunity for team teaching and a better integrated course offering, a full semester of Spanish in both seventh and eighth grades, a core course in technology and computers, visual and performing arts, technology support and infusion for every course. Assuming arguendo that Mine Hill's curriculum does offer distinct advantages over that of Dover, this is not relevant to the resolution to be made here. Moreover, review of both programs demonstrates that the difference between them is one of judgment and preference, not one of quality.

[13] It should be noted that these are all proposals and that, at the time of hearing, this curriculum had been submitted to the County Superintendent for approval which had not been received at that time.

Dr. Galinsky found the Mine Hill curriculum to be ambitious, although he expressed reservations about the ability to deliver all that was proposed. Dr. Palestis testified at length as to the planned implementation of the curriculum as well as the fact that Mine Hill will have the resources to effectuate its plan; the problem, however, is that the proposal is still just that: a proposal, which has some rather large gaps in it. For example, there are several references in Petitioner's brief to exploring and expanding extracurricular activities. (Pb, p. 24, p. 50). However, this issue has only been addressed in rather vague, tenuous terms in Petitioner's case.

Another vagary of Mine Hill's proposal, according to Dr. Galinsky, is whether the district will be able to attract qualified teachers certified in the various subject areas to teach on middle school level, especially when the pool of teachers will be relatively small and there is no high school. In addition, as Respondent correctly points out, the specific details of those positions to be filled have not yet been established.

The record is replete with references to the efforts which will be made to implement the curriculum as proposed and I do find the testimony of Dr. Palestis, who testified at length about the implementation, to be sincere and forthright.

Dr. Galinsky also testified about how Mine Hill Middle schoolers have integrated into the Dover Middle School system and the course and co-curricular activities in which they are involved, in numbers disproportionate to their numbers in the general student population. They are "over-represented" in the most challenging classes. For example, the grade eight level one classes[14] are designed for the most academically talented students. At the time of the hearing 13 of 82, 16 percent, were from Mine Hill. If those 13 were not to participate, the result for Dover Middle School, would be either two sections of 35, a number which is approximately one third more than that which is considered an appropriate class size, or the cost of keeping three much smaller sections.

[14] There are three sections of core subject classes at Dover Middle School.

Dr. Galinsky testified about many special academic opportunities in Dover Middle School for high achieving students. First, he described the Rogate program which is affiliated with Johns Hopkins University. That program, recognized throughout the country, provides special learning opportunities for students who have unusual academic abilities. Second, algebra is available to eight grade students. If passed successfully, a student is exempted from high school algebra. Third, Dover Middle School runs three levels of core academic courses, grouping the students by their ability. As a result, there are many opportunities for specially talented students to flourish in the Dover Middle School. Such opportunities as these will not be available to Mine Hill students if severance is permitted.

Based on the evidence, I FIND that the established educational offerings of Dover Middle School are comprehensive, diverse and offer a broad spectrum of educational opportunity. I further FIND that the educational offerings proposed by Mine Hill are equally comprehensive, but not so diverse as to offer as broad a spectrum of educational opportunity.

Citing the high quality of Dover Middle School's academic and extracurricular program, Dr. Galinsky was concerned about the multiple impacts of the loss of Mine Hills students. He first cited the possible restriction of the academic and extracurricular programs currently being run in the Dover Middle School.

Dr. Galinsky and Mr. DeLorenzo, the principal of Dover Middle School, each described how the student body in Dover Middle School is completely integrated while sitting in the cafeteria eating lunch. Dr. Galinsky compared this to his personal experience at Morristown High School. He expressed great pleasure at the ability of all of the students at the Middle School to accept one another and benefit from the differences and attributed the extraordinary success to the leadership in Dover, specifically in the Middle School. For all these reasons, severance would result in a substantial negative educational impact on the Dover students if Mine Hill students were withdrawn, according to Dr. Galinsky.

Even if Mine Hill turns out to be a relatively good educational environment, it still can not provide nearly the range of academic and extracurricular opportunities provided in Dover. Although the number of Mine Hill students originally projected to attend the anticipated seventh and eighth grade was never large, (P-2), it became substantially smaller when the projection changed from 80 additional students to 16 (P-3). This averages approximately two additional pupils per grade. Instead of being exposed to a larger, more widely diverse, fully functioning departmental middle school, the students withdrawing to Mine Hill will be subject to a small team teaching environment with limited opportunity for personal interaction with ethnically diverse peers.

The impact on the racial/ethnic composition are so intertwined in this case as to be inseparable. I FIND, therefore, based on the foregoing, particularly the increase in the minority population to over 72 percent with the concomitant reduction in White population at Dover Middle School, the extraordinary imbalance of the resulting middle school population in Mine Hill, the risk of isolation to the small number of each of the different minorities in the projected Mine Hill Middle School, and the loss of peer role models that the granting of severance will have a substantial negative impact on the racial composition of and educational opportunities available in both districts.

The third factor to be considered is whether the proposed withdrawal results in a substantial negative financial impact in either or both districts. Respondent asserts that, because of a discrepancy of 25 percent in the projected cost of building the new accommodations for the Mine Hill Middle School,[15] in the absence of expert evidence as to the cost of building a seventh and eight grade addition, Mine Hill has failed in proving there would be no substantial negative financial impact. Mine Hill attempts to explain the discrepancy by characterizing the additional $200,000 as a contingency available to cover additional cost. The conclusory statement that the district is confident, based on projections of the architect and construction manager that will meet the target cost of $600,000, is not a sufficient basis on which to make the determination that there will not be a substantial negative financial impact on Mine Hill. Accordingly, I FIND that Petitioner has not demonstrated that there will be no substantial negative financial impact on the District.

Petitioner also asserts that the tax impact on the average Dover home will average about $74 per year during the phase out. Respondent asserts that the taxpayer/owner of an average home[16] will have to pay $152 more each year by the 2003-2004 school year, just for the loss of money due to the withdrawal. While neither of these two figures represents a substantial increase, it must be noted that these are averages; there will be some for whom the cost will be more. Dover's financial expert testified that in 1996, the per capita income in Dover was $15,185 and the average family income was $30,000, while in Morris County the per capita income was $41,018. Although Dover's financial expert concluded that the increased cost to the average homeowner would be a substantial negative impact, there are no figures in the record to support Dover's proposition that this is an incredibly difficult financial situation and some significant portion of the population does not even have [the average] amount of money available to meet its financial burden. Accordingly, I FIND that although there will be a negative financial impact on Dover, the district has not demonstrated that it will be substantial.

Based on the foregoing finding that severance will result in a substantial negative impact on racial composition and educational opportunity in both districts, I CONCLUDE that this petition should be denied.

D. Regionalization

Regionalization involves the formation of a new school district, comprised of two or more districts and governed by a nine member regional Board of Education on which the representation is apportioned according to statutory requirements. N.J.S.A. 18A:13-1 et seq.

In the case at bar, Dover requests that the Commissioner direct kindergarten to twelfth regionalization of the Dover and Mine Hill School districts. Such regionalization would result in the transfer of control of both districts to a regional, nine member Board of Education. Among the advantages cited are the elimination of fiscal and administrative expenses which are repetitive and unnecessary, an enhanced degree of representation for Mine Hill on the regional board and the opportunity to operate a "unified board." Moreover, complete articulation between all of the elementary schools and Dover Middle School would be accomplished, and the savings realized could be focused on the students rather than Board or administrative expenses.

It has been held that regionalization of school districts is available to accomplish desegregation of schools. Englewood Cliffs. In this case, however, it is clear from the record that no real purpose would be served by imposing regionalization on the parties since, without Mine Hill students the school population of Dover Middle School is approximately 65 percent minority and, although there may be a slight difference in the high school numbers, it is not substantial enough to balance the white/minority ratio. I FIND that directed regionalization is not appropriate in this case.

In the alternative, Dover seeks an order to conduct a study of the feasibility of regionalization. Again, the minority population in the Dover schools is so high as to be relatively unaffected, for purposes of desegregation, by the small number of Mine Hill students so that desegregation would be feasible by regionalizing only the two districts. Moreover, without any testimony or other evidence in the record about neighboring districts, it is impossible to determine which should be included in a study which goes beyond the boundaries of the two parties herein.

I FIND, therefore, that there is insufficient evidence in the record on which to base an order for a feasibility study of regionalization. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the petition for an order for feasibility study of regionalization should be denied.

ORDER

Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that this petition for severance be and hereby is DENIED; it is further ORDERED that Dover's application for a direction that regionalization occur be and hereby is DENIED; it is further ORDERED that the request for a regionalization feasibility study be and hereby is DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MINE HILL, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Mine Hill's exceptions were filed in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4. Extensions of time were granted for Dover's reply and cross-exceptions and Mine Hill's reply to cross-exceptions and both were filed in conformance with such extensions.

PARTIES' EXCEPTIONS

Mine Hill's five exceptions to the Initial Decision, which in large measure are reiterative of its post-hearing submission arguments advanced before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), are presented below:

EXCEPTION I

THE INITIAL DECISION INCORRECTLY DETERMINED THAT THE COMMISSIONER'S 1981 ORDER IN THIS CASE IS NO LONGER VALID.

Mine Hill first argues that the ALJ erred in determining that, based on the doctrines of laches and waiver, the Commissioner's 1981 Order is no longer valid. With respect to the doctrine of laches, it posits that, although the ALJ recognized that "laches is an equitable defense that may be asserted where neglect or omission to assert a right over a period of time causes prejudice to an essential party ([Initial Decision at] 18)," she erroneously concluded that the mere passage of time and change in the conditions of the parties were sufficient justification for interposing this particular defense. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 3) Mine Hill cites Allstate v. Howard Savings Inst., 127 N.J. Super. 479 (Ch. Div. 1974) for the proposition that an additional essential requisite to the application of this defense is a demonstration that the delay at issue resulted in prejudice to the other party. Definitive confirmation of the necessity of this additional element, Mine Hill claims, was provided in Lavin v. Hackensack Board of Education, 90 N.J. 145 (1982), wherein "the [Court made a] crucial statement [regarding] the lodestar determination to be made in this context: 'Inequity, more often than not, will turn on whether a party has been misled to his harm by the delay.'" (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 4, citing Lavin at 153) Noting that the ALJ, when determining that equitable estoppel was inapplicable in this matter, so found because Dover suffered no prejudice or detrimental change as a result of Mine Hill's conduct, Mine Hill contends that laches is inapplicable for the same reason. (Ibid.)

Mine Hill further argues that even assuming, arguendo, that a mere change in the parties' positions could serve to justify the invoking of laches, conditions here have not changed to such an extent so as to justify invalidation of the Commissioner's 1981 Order. Even accepting the validity of the conclusion that Dover's minority population would increase by 7.22% in 2003-04 with the withdrawal of Mine Hill's 7th and 8th graders, it asserts "this is precisely the impact which the Commissioner of Education considered and approved in his 1981 decision."

(Mine Hill's Exceptions at 4) Moreover, Mine Hill argues, it must have been clear at the time of the Commissioner's decision that the minority population of Dover was steadily increasing and, presumably, would continue to do so. Upon a careful review, Mine Hill asserts, the Commissioner then determined that an impact on the minority population should not preclude the withdrawal of Mine Hill's middle grades. It speculates that key to the Commissioner's 1981 decision was a recognition of the fact that this severance was atypical from those usually found in sending-receiving cases in that Mine Hill's high school students would continue to attend Dover High School, a consideration which it urges should continue to be recognized today. Consequently, Mine Hill advances, "the circumstances have not changed so dramatically from those considered in 1981 as to constitute a level of prejudice sufficient to justify imposing the equitable defense of laches." (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 5)

Mine Hill additionally takes exception to the ALJ's conclusion that its delay in satisfying the Commissioner's 1981 prerequisites was "inexcusable." (Id. at 6) In this regard it again contends, as noted below, that it made ongoing attempts and efforts to "follow up on the steps needed to implement the Commissioner's decision" but a critical precondition to definitive action was passage of a referendum to secure the necessary funds to construct additional facilities. (Ibid.) It advances that "[b]efore the District could expect to successfully accomplish this task it had to first pay down a good portion of the bonds issued after the 1986 referendum, and needed to await a favorable political climate for a new referendum." (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 8) Consequently, it asserts, since earlier action by the District was precluded by these constraints, good cause for the delay here has been demonstrated. (Ibid.)

Likewise, Mine Hill urges that the Commissioner reject the ALJ's conclusion that it intentionally waived its rights with regard to the exercise of the 1981 Order by continuing to send its middle school pupils to Dover, entering a sending-receiving agreement, or establishing a committee in 1996 to investigate other options. Citing to West Jersey Title & Guaranty Co. v. Industrial Trust Co., 27 N.J. 144, 152 (1958), Mine Hill maintains that it is well-established that "[w]aiver requires 'a clear, unequivocal, and decisive act of the party showing such a purpose or acts amounting to an estoppel on his part.'" (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 8) Mine Hill argues that its continuing to send its 7th and 8th graders to Dover in the absence of any viable option, its justifiable inability to fulfill the conditions set forth in the Commissioner's Order, or establishment of a committee to explore other potential options, mainly as they pertained to the high school student issues, cannot be construed as unequivocal acts manifesting an intent to relinquish its rights under the Order. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 8) Rather, Mine Hill proffers, "[o]nly by formally moving to enter into a regional arrangement could Mine Hill be deemed to have waived its rights under the Commissioner's order." (Ibid.)

In response, Dover advances that the ALJ properly determined that the facts of this case warranted the application of laches. Dover points out that, contrary to the urging of Mine Hill, pursuant to Lavin v. Hackensack Bd. of Educ., 90 N.J. 145 (1982), "laches is 'the neglect, for an unreasonable and unexplained length of time, under circumstances permitting diligence, to do what in law should have been done. More specifically, it is inexcusable delay in asserting a right.'" (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 1, citing Lavin, at 151) Dover urges that, in making a determination as to the applicability of laches, "courts should consider 'the length of the delay, reasons for the delay, and changing conditions of either or both parties.'" (Ibid., citing Lavin, at 152) In that the central issue in such a determination is consideration of "whether it is inequitable to enforce the claim, 'the change in conditions or relations of the parties coupled with the passage of time becomes the primary determinant.'" (Ibid., citing Lavin at 153) Prejudice or change in position, Dover asserts, are essentially issues in estoppel and neither of these should operate to prevent the application of laches. In support of its position, Dover cites Lavin. at 152, specifically "holding that the length of the delay alone or combined with other elements may result in laches." (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 2) Here, Dover argues, Mine Hill was given permission to withdraw its 7th and 8th graders from its sending-receiving relationship with Dover upon satisfaction of three conditions. Today, almost 19 years after the Commissioner's Order in 1981, not only do the three prerequisites to withdrawal remain unsatisfied, but Mine Hill has not made any significant attempt to fulfill them, other than a single failed referendum in 1982, which failure, the ALJ correctly notes, "is attributable to the Board insofar as the actions of a school board and its citizens are intertwined." (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 1, citing the Initial Decision at 16-18, 20) Additionally, Dover asserts, conditions of the parties have significantly changed since the Commissioner's Order was entered in 1981. Specifically, there have been dramatic changes in the size and racial compositions of both districts; state requirements and test results have been modified; Dover has made changes in staffing, budgets, facilities and programs in order to facilitate the accommodation of Mine Hill students; and, finally, severance of the sending relationship is opposed by Dover here, which was not the case in 1981. (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 1-2)

Neither are Mine Hill's exception "excuses" for its failure, over a 19-year period, to satisfy the prerequisites specified in the Commissioner's 1981 Order justification for its "inaction and inability to adhere to the mandates of the order." (Id. at 2) Again, failure of its citizens to pass the 1982 referendum cannot be viewed as a valid excuse. Moreover, failure to successfully pass this one referendum does not explain or excuse Mine Hill's limitation of its 1986 referendum to the kindergarten through 6th grades or its failure to even attempt another referendum until 1998. Interestingly, Dover argues, although Mine Hill blames high interest rates and the political climate for its failure to fulfill the prerequisites of the 1981 Order, two of these prerequisites totally unaffected by either interest rates or the political climate, also remain unsatisfied. (Ibid.)

In conclusion on this point, Dover advances:

> Mine Hill had the right to withdraw its students from Dover pursuant to the 1981 order provided that certain criterion were satisfied. Mine Hill waited seventeen years to assert its rights under this order when it filed this petition in 1998, and, almost 19 years later, the prerequisites set forth in the order still remain unfulfilled. This is exactly the type of inexcusable delay that mandates the application of the doctrine of laches. Mine Hill has been unable to assert one justifiable excuse as to why it failed to fulfill the criterion or to assert its rights. (Id. at 2-3)

Consequently, Dover urges the Commissioner to uphold the ALJ's conclusion that enforcement of the 1981 Order is barred by laches, as such order is "outdated and no longer valid." (Id. at 3, citing the Initial Decision at 21)

Dover next charges that Mine Hill has failed to advance any "credible arguments" to explain why the ALJ erred in concluding that the 1981 Order is barred by waiver. Clearly, it posits, Mine Hill's entering into a formal contractual sending-receiving relationship 12 years after the 1981 Order and its exploration of regionalization some 14 years subsequent to the entry of this Order amply evidence that it "voluntarily and intentionally relinquished the rights granted in the 1981 order." (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 4)

EXCEPTION II

THE INITIAL DECISION INCORRECTLY DETERMINED THAT N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 IS DIRECTLY APPLICABLE TO THIS MATTER.

Mine Hill's advancements here are essentially a verbatim recitation of its post-hearing submission arguments presented to the ALJ, again urging that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is by its very terms applicable only to severance of high school sending-receiving relationships. Consequently, it proffers, adjustment of elementary sending-receiving relationships can be accomplished by the Commissioner through the exercise of his inferred and incidental powers which provides him more flexibility in granting the severance, in that he may recognize those factors favoring granting the request "unhindered by any limitations in the statute." (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 17)

Mine Hill additionally seeks to discredit the ALJ's reliance on the perceptions of various Department of Education officials that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 was, indeed, applicable in this instance. Such a determination, it states, can only be based on a reasoned analysis of the law, not on the actions or "perceptions" of these individuals. Mere assumptions as to the applicability of a particular statute do not render it applicable as a matter of law. (Id. at 19)

Dover, in response, states that, notwithstanding petitioner's contention that a less stringent standard should be applied to withdrawals at the elementary level, the ALJ correctly recognized that the Commissioner, State Board and the Appellate Division have made it clear that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is, in fact, the applicable standard. See Board of Education of the Township of Maurice River v. Board of Education of the Buena Regional School District, 1982 S.L.D. 1270; Board of Education of the Borough of Kinnelon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Riverdale, decided by the State Board April 4, 1984, aff'd Docket #A-3857-83T2 (App. Div. February 8, 1985) (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 6) The rationale for such a conclusion, also recognized by the ALJ, is equally as clear, since the concerns raised by a withdrawal, i.e., impact on educational quality, financial issues, and racial composition in the respective districts, are identical irrespective of the grade level at issue. (Id. at 7)

EXCEPTION III

THE INITIAL DECISION INCORRECTLY DETERMINED THAT RETURNING MIDDLE SCHOOL STUDENTS TO MINE HILL WILL HAVE A SUBSTANTIAL NEGATIVE IMPACT ON THE RACIAL COMPOSITION OF THE DISTRICTS.

Mine Hill begins by reiterating its advancement that because this matter is not a "high school" severance as contemplated by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, the Appellate Division's decision in Englewood Cliffs, supra, strictly applied here by the ALJ to find substantial negative racial impact, is inapplicable. Moreover, it theorizes, the instant case is atypical from any withdrawal case previously presented in that the issue involved here is one concerning impact on minority composition, primarily a national origin, Hispanic students, rather than race. Mine Hill argues that, although such minority impact may be relevant under some circumstances, there is no specific statute which requires its consideration here. Because Dover and Mine Hill had essentially identical percentages of black students in 1998-99, 6% and 5.2%, respectively, Mine Hill suggests "there is technically little or no racial impact whatsoever from a withdrawal of Mine Hill students." (Mine Hill's Exceptions, footnote at 20)

Further, even assuming, arguendo, that a finding of no substantial negative racial impact is requisite to granting this particular severance and that national origin minority impact is included in this categorization, Mine Hill proposes that the ALJ's conclusions in this regard be rejected by the Commissioner. Mine Hill challenges the ALJ's factual and credibility findings with respect to this issue, charging that these were a result of her discounting the testimony and evidence offered by its experts, while accepting as valid that submitted by Dover's experts without due consideration to the record as a whole and the unique aspects of this matter.[1] As

[1] Mine Hill's exceptions repeatedly attempt to categorize this matter as one unlike any other considered by the Commissioner in that: 1) this is the first elementary severance where racial impact has been raised as an issue; 2) because this is an elementary severance, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 and cases such as Englewood Cliffs, supra, are inapplicable; and 3) it is not an actual severance, per se, since Mine Hill will simply retain its elementary students examples, it advances that the ALJ's determination that calculation errors in Dr. Savitt's feasibility study student enrollment projections were so egregious as to render all of his projections unreliable, leading her to dismiss them out of hand, was "an overreaction and is not justified." (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 21) Mine Hill proffers that its financial expert specifically testified that the error occurred at the lower grade levels and had no impact on enrollment figures for grades 6, 7, or 8. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 20-21) Moreover, Mine Hill argues, the bottom-line differences between Dr. Savitt's calculations of the minority enrollment percentages for 2003-04 compared to 1998-99 and Dover's expert's, when utilizing Dr. Savitt's methodology, are so minimal as to be insignificant. Dr. Savitt found a 1% increase in the minority enrollment in grades 7 and 8 during this period, with the overall resultant minority percentage moving from 67% to 68%. Dover's expert > shows the non-minority population dropping from 33% to 29%, while the minority population increases from 67% to 71%.

> However, whether the impact is 1%, 4% or 7.22%, petitioner submits that, as the Commissioner acknowledged in 1981, under the circumstances of this case the minority impact should not trump Mine Hill's right to educate its own seventh and eight graders. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 22)

Mine Hill also questions the ALJ's acceptance of the figures provided by Dover's experts, charging that these individuals used a six-year averaging period, rather than the generally accepted five-year period, specifically "to inflate the appearance of the potential minority impact of a severance." (Id. at 21) Moreover, it claims that the ALJ's conclusion that errors in Dover's report were merely errors in judgment neglects to recognize that "the record is replete with references to what were characterized as 'typographical errors,' especially in

for two additional years, with its high school students continuing to attend Dover High School. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 23)

Dr. Iannacone's testimony." (Ibid.) Mine Hill further objects to the ALJ's acceptance of Dover's experts' theories that Dover students would feel "left behind" or "rejected" and would suffer from symbolic loss by Mine Hill's removal of its students. The experience of these experts in developing such theories, it proposes, was achieved in relation to high school severance cases and it does not automatically follow that such experience is relative or applicable at the middle school level. Moreover, because Mine Hill's students are not permanently leaving Dover but are, in fact, just going there two years later than they do now, such conclusions are obviated. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 23-24)

Mine Hill "most strenuously" objects to the ALJ's conclusion that its minority students would experience isolation if severance were to be granted. (Id. at 27) It points to Exhibits P- 54, P-55 and P-63 as proof that the District is becoming more diverse, with its minority population currently at 23% and trending upward. (Ibid.) Mine Hill argues that the ALJ's conclusion that 7th and 8th grade minority students in its school would range between zero to three is belied by the District's demographic breakdown which indicates that the numbers of minority pupils will exceed this range. (Id. at 27-28) Also, when compared to all of Morris County, there would not be extraordinary imbalance in Mine Hill's middle school. It may well be that Mine Hill is less diverse than Dover, but "its student population is by no means homogeneous." (Id. at 28) Mine Hill cites Board of Education of the City of Winfield v. Board of Education of the City of Rahway, Commissioner's Decision of March 2, 2000, for the proposition that although severance from a diverse district in order to pursue a sending-receiving relationship with a non-diverse one would result in substantial negative impact, such would not be the case with a severance to attend a less diverse district. (Ibid.) Finally, Mine Hill charges that the ALJ discounted the testimony of its witness, Dr. Palestis, regarding the psychological advantages of providing students an additional two years in their home district before transitioning them to Dover. (Id. at 24)

To the extent that the Initial Decision finds educational impact due to the withdrawal of Mine Hill students from Dover's most challenging classes or activities, Mine Hill proffers that there was no evidence introduced that any courses would have to be eliminated due to the loss of a modest number of Mine Hill students, arguing:

> Similarly, Dover does not explain why it could not have three sections of 22 or 23 students for its Grade 8 Level 1 classes, or three sections of 20 or 21 for Grade 7, nor is there any reason why the Honors Algebra class could not be maintained as two sections. No specifics are provided as to the alleged impact on special services, nor are we told whether the District, as would be likely given the near-capacity enrollment levels at the Middle School, is currently unable to place all of its existing special education population due to space limitations. There is also no explanation of how the loss of Mine Hill pupils would impact a Band program with 73 pupils, an Honor Society with 61 pupils, or the loss of six out of 26 Rogate participants. Clearly, these programs could continue to function. As to impact on sports teams, the only evidence presented pertained to girls' cross-country, and no other programs were cited. (Id. at 25)

As to negative impact in Mine Hill, it argues, "[e]ven assuming arguendo that Mine Hill may not be able to provide the range of academic and extracurricular opportunities that Dover does ([Initial Decision at] 40), this is not in itself dispositive." (Ibid.) It again cites Winfield, supra, this time for the proposition that "bigger is better" is not the measure of whether a district can offer a meaningful education. Mine Hill concludes its argument in this regard with a presentation of what it terms are numerous advantages of its proposed curriculum testified to by Dr. Palestis, some of which, it posits, were even acknowledged by the ALJ in her decision. (Id. at 25-27)

In response, Dover advances that it is well-established that the factual findings and credibility determinations of the ALJ, as the individual who had the opportunity to hear testimony firsthand and observe the demeanor of the witnesses, must be given great weight by the Commissioner. (Dover's Reply Exceptions, citations omitted, at 8) Even aside from this precept, Dover argues that it is obvious that the ALJ's findings and credibility assessments are more than well grounded in the record. In considering racial impact on Mine Hill, the ALJ's decision accorded no weight to the projection figures of Dr. Savitt not only because of significant calculation errors, but additionally because the underlying methodology he used to determine that severance would have no substantial negative impact was improper. Specifically, it avers:

> Dr. Savitt used the Cohort Survival Method to determine the overall impact of withdrawal on each individual racial category. ([Initial Decision at] 30) The Cohort Survival Method is an appropriate method to determine the projected overall student enrollment. ([Initial Decision at] 30) However, it is not a proper means of determining the potential of withdrawal on each individual racial classification. (emphasis in text) (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 8)

Also, Dover asserts, Mine Hill's contention that Dr. Savitt's calculation errors were limited to only the earliest years is not supported in the record. Even assuming, arguendo, that such was the case, the calculations of the early years are the foundation from which projections of future years are made and, as such, errors in the early-year calculations taint all subsequent projection figures. (Id. at 10) By comparison, Dover's experts painstakingly explained the process by which they arrived at their projection figures which found that the change in racial composition would fall between 7 and 8% in any of the measured years. (Id. at 9) Finally, Dover contests Mine Hill's advancement that Dover's experts, when using Dr. Savitt's methodology, calculated only a 4% impact as a consequence of withdrawal. Rather, it submits, Exhibit R-28 evidences that its expert found a 6% impact when using this particular methodology as opposed to the 1% found by Dr. Savitt. (Id. at 10)

With respect to substantial negative educational impact, Dover proposes that the ALJ correctly found that "the established educational offerings at Dover Middle School are 'comprehensive, diverse and offer a broad spectrum of educational opportunity,' [while] Mine Hill's proposed program, on the other hand, is simply a proposal. ([Initial Decision at] 38)" (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 10) Dover charges that Mine Hill has failed to advance any compelling argument to refute the ALJ's finding of substantial negative educational impact but, instead, merely attacks her factual determinations in this regard.

EXCEPTION IV

THE ALJ ERRED IN DETERMINING THAT PETITIONER DID NOT PROVE IT WOULD INCUR NO SUBSTANTIAL NEGATIVE FINANCIAL IMPACT.

Although the ALJ correctly decided that severance would have no substantial negative financial impact on Dover, Mine Hill charges that she erroneously concluded that Mine Hill had failed to prove no substantial financial impact on that District because of the difference between the $600,000 cost of constructing the addition to its school for the 7th and 8th grades and the $800,000 requested for this purpose in the referendum. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 30) It contends that hearing testimony establishes that the cost of construction remains $600,000. While the additional $200,000 requested in the referendum was intended for "contingent costs," this money could also be used to finance furniture or educational equipment. (Ibid.) Even if this additional $200,000 ended up being fully utilized, when amortized over a bond term of 20 years, it asserts that this cost would have an inconsequential effect on the financial calculations presented in the feasibility study. Moreover, Mine Hill claims that even if the eventual cost of the construction project did, under a worst case scenario, end up being $800,000, pursuant to the recently enacted Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, P.L. 2000, *c.*72, Mine Hill anticipates that it would be eligible for State aid equaling 40 percent of this amount, thereby reducing actual cost to the District to $480,000, well below the $600,000 contained in the financial projections here. (Ibid.) Consequently, Mine Hill urges the Commissioner to find that no substantial negative financial impact would inure to Mine Hill as a result of severance.

In rejoinder, Dover proposes that the ALJ appropriately concluded that Mine Hill, which had the burden of persuasion to establish that there would be no substantial negative impact on Mine Hill from severance, had failed to meet its burden. In so determining, it argues, the ALJ properly weighed testimony of witnesses and decided that Mine Hill had "failed to adequately explain the disparity between the figure in the referendum and the lower figure in the feasibility study presented at the hearing. ([Initial Decision at] 40-41)." (Dover's Cross-Exeptions at 15) Dover posits that it is well-established that such credibility determinations are entitled to due deference by the Commissioner. (Ibid.) Dover also challenges Mine Hill's assertion that an increase of $200,000 to the cost of the renovation project, even when amortized over 20 years, would have a "negligible effect" on the financial impact to the District from severance. Not only is the record devoid of any evidence to support such a contention, it argues, common sense dictates that an increase of 33% to the cost of the project would inevitably produce a dramatic financial impact. (Ibid.) Finally, Dover objects to Mine Hill's advancement that, pursuant to the Educational Facilities Construction and Financing Act, it would receive state aid which would ameliorate any potential negative financial impact. Dover posits that this argument was raised for the first time in Mine Hill's exceptions and, therefore, because it was not addressed at hearing, is unsupported by evidence in the record, and the ALJ was not afforded an opportunity to make factual findings as to its validity, it is unpersuasive and must be discounted here. (Ibid.)

EXCEPTION V

PETITIONER'S RIGHTS UNDER ARTICLE FOURTEEN OF THE FEDERAL CONSTITUTION HAVE BEEN DENIED BY THE DECISION OF THE ALJ WHICH RELIES UPON ETHNIC PROFILING TO DENY SEVERANCE OF THE MIDDLE SCHOOL SENDING-RECEIVING RELATIONSHIP; THE FACTS OF THIS CASE DO NOT SHOW THE EXISTENCE OF A COMPELLING STATE INTEREST OR A NARROWLY TAILORED REMEDY.

Mine Hill avers that in determining that the granting of severance in this matter would result in substantial negative impact on both Mine Hill and Dover, the ALJ so concluded based on factual findings relating to racial/ethnic factors; specifically, the minority population in Dover Middle School would increase while the white population would be reduced, the middle school population in Mine Hill would be imbalanced, there was risk of isolation of the projected small number of minorities in the proposed Mine Hill 7th and 8th grades, and there would be loss of peer role models. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 32) In essence, it argues, the ALJ found that if severance were denied, racial/ethnic diversity would be furthered. (Ibid.) Mine Hill charges that the ALJ's decision in this regard "denies severance through application of a racial classification which denies the Petitioner and its Middle School students equal treatment under the United States Constitution," in violation of the equal protection clause of Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 32, citing Adarand Constructors, Inc. v. Pena, 515 U.S. 200, 224 (1995))

Mine Hill asserts that any racial classification which subjects a person to unequal treatment must be justified under the strictest judicial scrutiny. (Id. at 33) This standard, it avers, requires that "a legislative enactment or administrative action must be both justified by a compelling government interest and narrowly tailored to serve that interest in order to stand."

(citations omitted) (Ibid.) Although cognizant of the Court's decision in Englewood Cliffs Bd. of Educ. v. Englewood Bd. of Ed., 257 N.J. Super. 413 (App. Div. 1992), aff'd. substantially on o.b., 132 N.J. 327 (1993), cert. denied, 510 U.S. 991 (1993), where the Court questioned whether strict scrutiny was the applicable standard, Mine Hill urges that the facts in this matter and the law as it has developed since Englewood dictate that the strict scrutiny standard of review is dictated here. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 33) In support of this argument, Mine Hill cites to a number of recent federal affirmative action cases which involved the use of weighted lotteries for admission to schools or the setting aside of a certain number of seats for admission based on race or ethnicity in order to promote racial balance or diversity. Mine Hill argues that the Courts in these cases determined that such actions must be reviewed under the strict scrutiny standard of review and in application of this test found the policies unconstitutional because they represented mechanisms for racial balance which were not narrowly tailored to serve a compelling state interest. (Mine Hill's Exceptions at 33-38) Here, Mine Hill avers, its 7th and 8th grade students are being prevented from attending school in Mine Hill "because of the ethnic composition of its student body and that of Dover's, in order to promote ethnic balancing." (Id. at 38) It contends that there is no compelling state interest which justifies Dover continuing to retain the attendance of Mine Hill's middle school pupils in Dover's schools. As such, Mine Hill posits, failure to grant severance of this sending-receiving relationship deprives Mine Hill's students of their equal protection rights under the Fourteenth Amendment. (Id. at 39)

In response, Dover strongly urges that, procedurally, the Commissioner should not consider this argument, as it was neither raised at hearing or in post-hearing submissions nor is there any evidence whatsoever in the record with regard to this issue. (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 11) Assuming, arguendo, that Mine Hill's contention here is considered, Dover contends that, substantively, it is preposterous. It points out that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, a valid state statute governing the severance of sending-receiving relationships, mandates that race be considered in determining whether withdrawal will be allowed. (Ibid.) Case law, Dover asserts, further solidifies that racial composition is an essential factor in determining whether withdrawal should be permitted. (See Jenkins v. Morris Township School District, 58 N.J. 483 (1971); Englewood Cliffs, supra.) Dover advances that Mine Hill's assertion that race should not be a consideration in assessing whether withdrawal should be allowed is essentially suggesting that a state statute is unconstitutional and requests that the Commissioner of Education strike it down, an action which is clearly outside the jurisdictional authority of the Commissioner. (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 12)

Dover further contends that Mine Hill's reliance on federal affirmative action cases to support its advancement here is misplaced as these cases are inapposite to this matter. Here, it contends, the ALJ does not classify anyone by race but, rather, follows the dictate of the statute and considers racial composition as one of the factors in determining whether withdrawal is permissible. (Ibid.) Moreover, Dover notes that the Appellate Division in Englewood Cliffs, supra, which was affirmed by the New Jersey Supreme Court, specifically held that "[i]t is only the per se use of race as a determinant which creates a classification subject to strict scrutiny under the Fourteenth Amendment...The United States Constitution does not prohibit states from taking race into account in educational decisions." (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 12, citing Englewood Cliffs at 468) Rather, Dover argues, the Court in Englewood Cliffs found that "if any classification is being created attendant to withdrawal, it is a geographical classification which does not rise to the level of strict scrutiny. See id at 469." (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 12) Consequently, Dover advances that Mine Hill's argument "that strict scrutiny should apply and that considering race attendant to withdrawal violates the Equal Protection Clause is unsupported and contrary to the authorities on point." (Ibid.)

Dover further points out that Mine Hill incorrectly asserted that racial considerations were the only factor preventing withdrawal in this matter. In fact, Dover argues the Initial Decision additionally found that such withdrawal was precluded by substantial negative educational impact in both Districts and Mine Hill's failure to establish no substantial negative financial impact in that District. (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 12)

Finally, in this regard, even if strict scrutiny were applicable here, Dover maintains that standard would be satisfied in this matter. It cites to Englewood Cliffs, supra, wherein it claims that the Court noted that a desire to maintain a racial and ethnic balance in schools is a compelling state interest, and, considering the impact of withdrawal on the racial composition of the Districts, refusing to permit withdrawal is a narrowly tailored means of achieving this goal. (Dover's Reply Exceptions at 12-13, citing Englewood Cliffs, 257 N.J. Super. at 470-71)

Dover submits two cross-exceptions:

CROSS EXCEPTION I

THE ALJ OMITTED FINANCIAL IMPACT AS A REASON TO DENY SEVERANCE AND INCORRECTLY DETERMINED THAT THERE WOULD BE NO SUBSTANTIAL NEGATIVE FINANCIAL IMPACT ON DOVER CAUSED BY WITHDRAWAL

Dover charges that, although recognizing that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 requires that severance be denied if a substantial negative financial impact would inure to either or both Districts, and despite her valid finding that Mine Hill had failed to meet its burden of establishing that withdrawal would not have such a consequence in that District, the ALJ improperly neglected to conclude that severance was precluded for financial impact reasons as well. (Dover's Cross-Exceptions at 14) Moreover, Dover strongly objects to the ALJ's conclusion that negative financial impact on Dover would not be substantial, arguing:

> As stated by Dover's financial expert and as recognized in the Initial Decision, the per capita income in Dover in 1996 was $15,185, as compared to the average income of $45,000 in Morris County, and the average gross family income was $30,000. ([Initial Decision at] 41). When state and federal income taxes, social security, medicare, and unemployment are deducted from these figures, the disposable income available to the average family in Dover is significantly less. Out of this net income, the average family needs to pay property taxes, averaging $4,451.00; food; mortgage; insurance; transportation; and the other obligations that come with running a family. In essence, simply by looking at the above-referenced figures in the record, the average family in Dover has very little expendable cash. (Dover's Cross-Exceptions at 14)

Notwithstanding that the ALJ's decision failed to resolve whether the annual cost to Dover citizens would be $74 as argued by Mine Hill or $152 as advanced by Dover's experts, even accepting, arguendo, the lower figure as accurate, this increase represents a significant financial impact for families earning an average gross income of $30,000 per year. (Ibid.) As such, Dover urges that the Commissioner add substantial financial impact to his reasons for denial of severance.

In response, Mine Hill proffers that a specific finding as to whether the impact of severance to the average Dover taxpayer would be $74 or $152 annually is inconsequential, as its expert found that the resulting difference equates to only $6.17 per month. (Mine Hill's Response to Dover's Cross-Exceptions at 2) Given that Dover offered "general conclusions," based on per capita and average family income data which was four years old, with respect to the taxpayers' ability to afford the projected increase, the ALJ rightly concluded that the evidence did not support a determination that the projected increase would pose an "incredibly difficult" financial burden for a significant number of the citizens. (Ibid.) More importantly, it argues:

> [T]he projections assumed that the full impact of the tuition loss would be passed on to the taxpayers. This need not be the case. Both parties' financial experts testified that it is not uncommon for a district, when faced with a loss of tax revenue such as occurs when a municipality reduces the levy amount following a budget defeat, to trim its expenditures accordingly. An alternative is to apply unappropriated free balance. Dover has been receiving increasing amounts of State financial assistance over the past several years and has consistently been running surpluses in excess of $1 million, even after expending $700,000 for various capital projects. While this surplus is within State guidelines, Dover could apply some of it to reduce the tax impact and apparently still have sufficient surplus for future years. (Id. at 2-3)

Citing the State Board's decision in Board of Education of the Township of Cranbury v. Board of Education of the Township of Lawrence, 1987 S.L.D. 2580 and Washington Township Board of Education v. Upper Freehold Regional Board of Education et al., 1989 S.L.D. 2010, Mine Hill contends that mere negative financial impact is insufficient to preclude severance, and that such impact "on the receiving district must border on the catastrophic" to provide justification for denial on this basis. (Id. at 4) It contends that Dover has not established any "definite and tangible impact" other than the loss of tuition, or in any way shown that such loss would have a significant impact on its ability to maintain its educational programs. (Ibid.) Mere speculation about the effect of a moderate increase on its citizens cannot supplant this required showing.

CROSS-EXCEPTION II

THE ALJ IMPROPERLY REFUSED TO ORDER REGIONALIZATION, OR, AT THE VERY LEAST, A REGIONALIZATION STUDY

Dover claims the ALJ's decision not to order regionalization or a regionalization study is inconsistent with applicable law and public policy. Specifically, Dover proposes that the ALJ rejected regionalization, as she concluded, "it would not accomplish desegregation of schools. ([Initial Decision at] 42)" (Dover's Cross-Exceptions at 16) It argues that, pursuant to Englewood Cliffs, supra, desegregation is not the sole justification for regionalization. Rather "regionalization may be permitted to implement the state's educational policies." (Ibid.) Dover notes that over the years, the Department of Education has encouraged districts to regionalize, even providing economic incentives to certain districts so inclined. Here, it advances, the obvious advantage to regionalization would be the elimination of unnecessary duplicative fiscal and administrative costs attendant to operating separate districts, allowing the savings to go where they are most beneficial – the districts' students. Dover proffers that it would be "difficult to imagine a better educational policy [within the intendment of the Englewood Cliffs Court] than creating additional funds to be used for students." (Ibid.) Consequently, Dover suggests, notwithstanding the ALJ's conclusion that regionalization would not end segregation, it should, nonetheless, be ordered, as it advances a legitimate educational policy. In the alternative, Dover opines that, at a minimum, a regionalization study, which the ALJ similarly rejected as insufficient to eliminate segregation in the schools, should be ordered to ascertain whether it is a viable option for the Districts and the extent to which it would further educational policy. (Ibid.)

In reply, Mine Hill counters that an order to regionalize by the Commissioner is not appropriate here. Prior to the State Board's decision in Englewood Cliffs, 1990 S.L.D. 1720, it posits that the Commissioner interpreted the Supreme Court's decision in Jenkins, supra, holding that he had the power to order cross-district regionalization, as confining such authority to instances where regionalization was of districts which were, in effect, a single community. In Englewood Cliffs, Mine Hill submits, the State Board ruled "that the 'one community' limitation would not prevent it from crossing district lines where it has been demonstrated that such a remedy was necessary to vindicate state constitutional rights and policies – in that case the policy against segregation – where to do so was reasonable, feasible and workable. Id. at 1747." (emphasis in text) (Mine Hill's Reply to Cross-Exceptions at 5) Mine Hill asserts that, upon the State Board's review in Englewood Cliffs, it did not order regionalization, but ultimately upheld the Commissioner's recommendation that a regionalization study be accomplished. In upholding the Appellate Division's affirmance of the State Board's decision in Englewood Cliffs, including the directive for the conduct of a regionalization study, Mine Hill notes that the Supreme Court very clearly stressed:

> We neither express nor imply any position or opinion on the regionalization issue itself, and specifically emphasize that our affirmance of the authority of the State Board of Education to undertake such a regionalization study must not be taken to express or imply any view of the Court on the administrative or judicial power to require inter-district regionalization. 132 N.J. 327, 329 (1993). (Mine Hill's Reply to Cross-Exceptions at 5-6)

Consequently, Mine Hill argues that if, indeed, power exists to order inter-district regionalization, it is abundantly apparent that such authority could only be acted upon "in order to vindicate constitutional rights and policies." (Id. at 6) Here, it proposes, Dover has not brought any evidence to the record indicating a violation of any policy or right. Neither has it established that regionalization is "feasible or workable," nor does the record support its assertion that students would serve to benefit from any additional funds. (Ibid.) In requesting that the Commissioner order regionalization, Mine Hill submits, Dover had the burden of specifically identifying a constitutional violation and to demonstrate how such violation would be remedied by regionalization, a burden which it has unmistakably failed to satisfy. (Ibid.)

As to Dover's request that a regionalization study be directed, Mine Hill advances that Dover has presented no demonstration of what such a study, involving only these two Districts, could accomplish. Mine Hill claims that it has previously investigated regionalization and concluded that such an undertaking would have to be on a much broader scale than only with Dover to effectively address outstanding issues. (Id. at 7) In that Dover has not made any credible showing sufficient to justify the expense of a regionalization study for the parties and the State, Mine Hill urges the Commissioner to adopt the ALJ's conclusion in this regard.

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon independent review and consideration of the full record in this matter, which includes transcripts of the ten days of hearing conducted at the OAL,[2] the Commissioner determines to affirm the ALJ's recommended decision with modification as detailed below.

1981 ORDER

Initially, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that enforcement of the May 29, 1981 Order of the then-Commissioner granting Mine Hill's request to withdraw its 7th and 8th grade students from Dover is no longer valid. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's cogently presented analysis (Initial Decision at 15-24) leading her to the conclusion that, pursuant to the doctrine of laches (Lavin, supra), the lengthy passage of time, in combination with the changing conditions of the parties that occurred in this matter, justifies barring the enforcement of the Commissioner's 1981 Order.[3] [4] The Commissioner similarly agrees that [2] Hearing dates were December 7, 8, 15, 16, 21, 22, and 29, 1999, January 11, and 31, 2000 and February 28, 2000.

[3] Notwithstanding Mine Hill's exceptions to the contrary, "[i]t is because the central issue [in determining the applicability of laches] is whether it is inequitable to permit the claim to be enforced, that generally the change in conditions or relations of the parties coupled with the passage of time becomes the primary determinant." Lavin at 152, 153.

[4] The Commissioner is compelled to comment on Mine Hill's exception argument here which attempts to place untoward significance on a claim that the projected increase in minority enrollment of 7.2% here is essentially the same as that projected in the matter approved by the Commissioner in 1981, thus, evidencing that conditions have not appreciably changed during this interim period. Such argument not only fails to recognize the circumstantial differences in this matter as opposed to those existing at the time of the 1981 Order, as detailed in the ALJ's decision, but additionally neglects to reflect the impact of the modification of the governing statute and the evolution, clarification and refinement of educational law and policy which has developed through decisions of the Commissioner, State Board and the Courts in this area during this interim period. Consequently, merely equating percentage changes in minority composition present in 1981 to those claimed to exist at this time, absent full review

Mine Hill took affirmative action during this period which expressly, or at the very least inferentially, reasonably demonstrated an intent to relinquish its rights under the 1981 Order.

APPLICABLE STANDARD

The Commissioner next determines that the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 are applicable in this matter, but for the reasons detailed below rather than those contained in the Initial Decision. He first recognizes that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, on its face, indicates that provision's application to those instances involving "changes of designation or allocation and apportionment of pupils to high schools," leaving applicability at any other grade level unaddressed. (emphasis supplied) The Commissioner believes that such language, or absence thereof, does not reflect a purposeful intent of the Legislature to omit or exempt elementary level relationships from the statutes's dictates but, rather, is reflective of the fact that sending/receiving relationships at the elementary level are relatively rare in this State and, as such, their existence was most likely never contemplated when the statute was being drafted.

Notwithstanding, it can be argued that, due to the absence of specific applicability language, this particular provision, in and of itself, may not be read to encompass situations involving severance requests of elementary level relationships. Nonetheless, as Mine Hill's exceptions correctly recognize, the Commissioner most assuredly possesses the responsibility and authority, pursuant to his broad inferred and implied powers (See Jenkins, supra, 58 N.J.

and consideration of all attendant circumstances at both points in time, is a meaningless exercise. As just one example of circumstantial differences, Dover's Post-hearing Brief claims that the district is extraordinarily different from what it was in 1981:

> Exhibit R-23 shows the racial breakdown of Dover students in that year. The document reflects that the combined seventh and eighth grade population was fifty-five percent (55%) white and forty-five percent (45%) minority. In comparison, by 1998-99, the student population had shifted to thirty-two and one half percent (32.5%) white and sixty-seven and one half percent (67.5%) minority. This is a change of twenty-two and one half percent (22.5%). Dover went from a slight majority of white students to a significant majority of non-white students. (Dover's Post-hearing Brief at 46) at 483) to determine whether and under what conditions elementary level sending-receiving severance can be granted. Board of Education of the Borough of Kinnelon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Riverdale, Morris Co., decided by the State Board April 4, 1984, aff'd Appellate Division #A-3857-83T2.

In his consideration of a standard under which these particular matters should be examined, the Commissioner specifically rejects Mine Hill's suggestion that elementary level severance requests should be reviewed on some less restrictive standard than that required for all other severance request matters. Sound educational policy militates against such an approach, as the Commissioner firmly believes that, as was aptly recognized by the ALJ, "[t]he concerns raised by the withdrawal of a district from a sending-receiving relationship are the same at all grade levels." (Initial Decision at 27) Consequently, the only rational approach to deciding identical, important educational issues is to impose uniform standards, irrespective of the grade level involved and, therefore, the Commissioner directs that the requirements contained in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 are applicable here. Even absent the Commissioner's adoption of this standard, the record establishes that Mine Hill's own actions confirm that it voluntarily subjected itself to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 in this matter. The formal written contract which Mine Hill executed with Dover in 1993 in pertinent part specifies:

> WHEREAS, Mine Hill desires to send its middle and senior high school pupils, grades 7 through 12, to Dover Middle and High Schools and to designate Dover Middle and High Schools as the schools for attendance of Mine Hill Township pupils pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 et seq. and in accordance with the terms set forth herein; and
> (Initial Decision at 22, quoting from Exhibit P-23 at 1)

Mine Hill's contention with respect to the inapplicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 in the instant case, because this matter deals with elementary rather than high school grades, and its claims that this is not a "true" severance since Mine Hill will just retain its elementary students for two additional years, with its high school students continuing to attend Dover High School, are wholly without merit. Mine Hill entered a sending-receiving agreement which included 7th and 8th grade middle school students pursuant to a statute which, by its terms, also confines its authorization to the "high school" level. By entering the contract pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 and adopting it as the operative law for the agreement, Mine Hill implicitly recognized and accepted that any alteration of such agreement was subject to the terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.

EQUAL PROTECTION ARGUMENT

As to Mine Hill's exception argument that, in considering race attendant to determining whether to grant withdrawal, the ALJ violated the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution, the Commissioner finds that even if this argument were validly before him, i.e., having been briefed and argued below, rather than having been raised for the first time in Mine Hill's exceptions in violation of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, he concurs with Dover's reply exceptions here that such an assertion is without merit. As advanced by Dover in this regard, an examination of racial impact is mandated by a valid legislative statutory enactment governing the alteration of sending-receiving relationships, negation or modification of which is outside the jurisdictional purview of the Commissioner of Education. Moreover, as Mine Hill's exceptions here obviously recognize, the Fourteenth Amendment Equal Protection claim, as it pertains to sending-receiving severance matters, was previously addressed and resolved by the Court in Englewood Cliffs, supra, wherein it concluded, after an exhaustive review, that such a charge was not viable. Mine Hill has not introduced any relevant case law, credible facts or evidence which would serve to alter or obviate application of the Englewood Cliffs Court's reasoned resolution of this particular issue to the instant matter. Indeed, the Commissioner finds the Court's observation in that matter equally fitting here:

> invocation of the Fourteenth Amendment here turns that constitutional provision "on its head." The Fourteenth Amendment and its New Jersey counterpart are meant to shield our citizens against state sanctioned racial discrimination. To suggest that they prohibit a state from applying a statute, specifically addressed to remedying the educationally pernicious evils of white flight, racial imbalance and de facto segregation in the schools is, at best, cynical. (Englewood Cliffs, supra, 257 N.J. Super. at 473)

SUBSTANTIAL NEGATIVE IMPACT

The Commissioner next turns to the statutorily mandated considerations attendant to determining whether the requested severance can be granted.

In considering Dover's exception request for a finding of significant financial impact in connection with the requested severance, the Commissioner concludes that such a finding is not possible based on the record before him. Dover first justifies its request by virtue of the ALJ's finding, on Page 41 of her Initial Decision, that Mine Hill had not demonstrated that there will be no negative financial impact on that District. The Commissioner observes that the ALJ apparently had two reasons for arriving at such a finding. First, she had previously concluded that Mine Hill's projections of enrollment contained in its Feasibility Study, Exhibit P-2 and Updated Feasibility Study, Exhibit P-3, which it employed to project financial implications attendant to severance, were flawed and unreliable and she, thus, ascribed no weight to them. (Initial Decision at 30-31) A second reason advanced for her finding was that Mine Hill had not adequately explained the discrepancy between its feasibility study assertion that the cost of making the necessary construction modifications to the Canfield Avenue School to allow accommodation of its 7th and 8th graders was $600,000, while the monetary amount sought in its referendum for this purpose was $800,000. (Initial Decision at 40-41) Dover urges that, based on the ALJ's finding, Mine Hill, which had the burden of persuasion in this regard, failed to sustain its burden and, therefore, severance must be denied for financial impact reasons. The Commissioner observes that both the Initial Decision and Dover's arguments reflect confusion as to the proper allocation of the burden of proof in sending-receiving severance request cases. Particularly instructive in this regard is the State Board's clarification of this issue in Board of Education of the Borough of Merchantville, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Township of Pennsauken, Camden County v. Board of Education of the Borough of Haddonfield, Camden County, State Board of Education Decision on Motion, decided on September 5, 1990, wherein, in pertinent part, it found:

> [A]lthough the ultimate burden of persuasion is on the party seeking termination, that party is not required to prove that no substantial negative impact will result from termination as part of its case in chief.
> [W]e find that the initial burden of production on the petitioning party may be met by production of a feasibility study as required by the statute and the submission of appropriate proofs as to where its children are to be educated upon severance of the sending-receiving relationship. See Absecon Bd. of Ed. v. Pleasantville Bd. of Ed., decided by the State Board of Education, October 7, 1988. Obviously, the feasibility study must address, at a minimum, all of the areas specifically set forth in the statute, and petitioner must establish in the proceedings the factual basis underlying the study so as to withstand challenge by the party contesting termination. Once the petitioning board has met its initial burden of production, the burden shifts to the party contesting termination to go forward with evidence that termination will result in a negative impact.
> The allocation of the burden of production delineated above does not shift the ultimate burden of persuading the Commissioner that termination is mandated or warranted. That burden remains on the > petitioning party. However, where a petitioner has met its initial burden of production in proceedings under N.J.S.A. 18A:[38]-13, the claim by the respondent that termination will have a substantial negative impact is in the nature of an affirmative defense. Thus, it is appropriate that the party asserting that claim bear the burden of showing that a negative impact outweighing any positive benefits of termination will result. (Slip Opinion at 2, 5-6)

Here, the Commissioner's review persuades him that Mine Hill has fulfilled its burden of production, within the intendment of the State Board's directive in this regard, notwithstanding certain technical mathematical miscalculations in its projections of student enrollment contained in its feasibility studies. On the other hand, the record is devoid of competent, credible evidence to substantiate the allegations and apparent speculations of Dover that substantial negative financial impact will ensue in Mine Hill from the granting of severance. Thus, the Commissioner concludes that Dover has failed to meet its burden in this regard.

Dover's second reason for requesting a finding of significant negative financial impact here, i.e., that the ALJ incorrectly determined that such a resultant condition was not established for Dover, must, likewise, be rejected for Dover's failure to satisfy its evidentiary burden. Dover's arguments and advanced proofs in this regard are solely confined to the tax increase consequences severance would visit on what it takes great pains to portray as an already economically distressed citizenry. The State Board, however, has made it clear that mere loss of tuition revenue and the impact of such loss on taxes for a district's citizens is simply insufficient, in and of itself, to support a claim of significant financial impact. See Board of Education of the Township of Cranbury v. Board of Education of the Township of Lawrence, 1987 S.L.D. 2580. Here, Dover has made no demonstration that loss of Mine Hill tuition revenue would impair the district's ability to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education, frustrate the fulfillment of its educational goals and objectives, or result in any other definite, tangible negative consequence for the District. (Cranbury, supra) As such, Dover has failed to satisfy its requisite burden of proof necessary to compel a finding of significant financial impact.

Turning to examination of racial impact, the Commissioner's thorough review of the record, together with his consideration of all the circumstances of this case, compels him to agree with the ALJ that Mine Hill's request for severance must be denied because of the substantial negative racial and concomitant educational quality impacts that would result if termination were approved.

Preliminarily, the Commissioner is compelled to comment on Mine Hill's exception argument which attempts to "technically" move this matter outside the prescriptions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 because the issue involved here is "minority" composition, specifically, Hispanic students, rather than "race" as expressly addressed in the statute. Such a distinction is fallacious and finds no support in either the logical intendment of the statute or subsequent decisions of the Commissioner, State Board and the Courts interpreting this statutory provision. It is axiomatic that New Jersey's strong policy advancing equal educational opportunity and decrying discrimination and segregation in its public schools is constitutionally derived. As noted by the Supreme Court in Booker v. Board of Education of the City of Plainfield, 45 N.J. 161, 174 (1965), "Article 1, paragraph 5 of the 1947 Constitution provides that '[n]o person shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil or military right, nor be discriminated against in the exercise of any civil or military right, nor be segregated in the militia or in the public schools, because of religious principles, race, color, ancestry or national origin.'" It is fully evident that in developing laws and policies effectuating this constitutional directive, use of the particular nomenclature "racial" by the Legislature, the Courts, the State Board or the Commissioner is a rubric term which must be interpreted consistent with the dictates of the Constitution, as encompassing all protected "minority groups." To accept Mine Hill's restrictive interpretation would be tantamount to suggesting that there is a State interest in safeguarding the rights of only one of the constitutionally enumerated groups at the expense of the others.

The Commissioner next finds and determines that he ascertains no cause to question or disturb the ALJ's factual findings and conclusions in this regard as it is fully evident that these are well grounded in the record. It is likewise evident that the record provides no cause to challenge the weight ascribed to the evidence or credibility assessments made by the ALJ. Moreover, contrary to the protestations of Mine Hill, the Commissioner finds the ALJ's application of the precepts of the Appellate Division in Englewood Cliffs with respect to racial impact and educational quality fully appropriate, since guidance gleaned from that decision is directly relevant to understanding why severance must be denied here.

The Commissioner accepts the legitimacy of the ALJ's finding on page 32 of the Initial Decision that permitting severance in this matter would result in an actual change in racial composition in Dover's Middle School of between 7 and 8% in any given year of the study here.[5] [6] (See Exhibits R-8 (page 50), R-25, R-26 and R-27.) Also particularly disconcerting are the projections of the effect severance would have on the student racial composition of both districts. Specifically, the student population of the proposed Mine Hill Middle School is projected to be 84.3 % White, with the remaining 15.7 % distributed as follows: 7.9 %Hispanic, 4.5 % Asian and 3.3 % Black. (Initial Decision at 32) In sharp contrast, the projected student population of Dover Middle School would be predominantly minority (more than 72%), broken down as follows: 59.5 % Hispanic, 10.2 % Black, and 2.8 % Asian. (See R-8, page 46; Initial Decision at 32-33.) Although, as recognized by the State Board, "there [is] no fixed balance between racial and national origin groupings that, from an educational perspective, can be considered ideal for all communities," s*ee Englewood Cliffs, supra,* at 448, the Commissioner concludes that the changes in minority composition which would inure from severance here cannot be termed insignificant from either a statistical or an educational viewpoint. Rather, it is quite evident that permitting severance here would, at a minimum, serve to exacerbate disparity in the national origin/minority groupings in Dover's student population. Similarly, the Commissioner adopts as valid the ALJ's observations at pages 33-34 of her decision with regard to the substantial negative "symbolic loss" impact that removal would have on the quality of education at both Dover and Mine Hill. The Appellate Division in Englewood Cliffs recognized that the concepts of racial composition and quality of education are inherently "intertwined," stating "[t]hese are not isolated factors. They are different sides of the same coin." (at 464) Further explication of the interrelationship of these factors was provided by the State Board when it clarified that:

[5] It is noted that in two places in the second full paragraph on page 32 of the Initial Decision, at line 1 and line 3, there are typographical errors which refer to a "decrease" in minority pupils which should be corrected to read "increase."

[6] As an example, the Commissioner notes that the 1999-2000 enrollment of Mine Hill 7th and 8th grade students in Dover indicates that the total number of Mine Hill students in these grades was 51, of which 40 were white and 11 were minority. (Exhibit R-24) If withdrawal had occurred in that year, the percentage of minority enrollment remaining in Dover would have increased from 73% to 81%. (Exhibit R-25)

> [E]ducational considerations are primary in eliminating school segregation. The elimination of racial imbalance is not to be sought as an end in itself but because such imbalance stands as a deterrent and handicap to the improvement of education for all. Englewood at 449, quoting from New Jersey State Board of Education, A statement of Educational Policy, November 5, 1969.

Consequently, the Commissioner, as did the ALJ, finds that, "based on the foregoing, particularly the increase in the minority population to over 72 percent with the concomitant reduction in White population at Dover Middle School, the extraordinary imbalance of the resulting middle school population in Mine Hill, the risk of isolation to the small number of each of the different minorities in the projected Mine Hill Middle School, and the loss of peer role models that the granting of severance will have a substantial negative impact on the racial composition of and educational [quality] available in both districts." (Initial Decision at 40)

Finally, turning to Mine Hill's advancement that, notwithstanding that racial balance and diversity are important considerations, nonetheless, these must be balanced against the District's basic right to educate its own students and, under the circumstances of this case, permit severance for this purpose. This particular argument was specifically rejected by the Appellate Division in Englewood Cliffs, supra, wherein it found:

> [L]ike parental choice, home rule and local control must yield to the fulfillment of the educational and racial policies in the constitution and statutes of this State. at 477.

Notwithstanding the Commissioner's concurrence with the ALJ regarding the existence of substantial negative racial and educational quality impacts in this matter, he does not similarly support the ALJ's conclusion that the record sustains a finding of significant negative impact with respect to educational programming. The Commissioner observes that neither N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 nor applicable case law contemplates an examination of the type of education Mine Hill students would receive at the Canfield Avenue School vis-à-vis what they are presently receiving in Dover, with Mine Hill having to establish that it will provide a superior program. In other words, the question here is not a program comparison to decide which one is better for Mine Hill students. Rather, the focus must be on potential negative impact if Mine Hill is allowed to withdraw from its long-term relationship. Bearing in mind the proper allocation of the burden of proof in these matters (see previous discussion under financial impact), the Commissioner finds that Dover has not sustained its burden. As recognized by the ALJ, Mine

Hill's proposed curriculum (see Exhibit P-5) "incorporates, but goes well beyond, the State core curriculum requirements." (Initial Decision at 36)

Specifically:

> Each course includes a brief section composed of the title, grade level, minutes of instruction per week, and number of weeks the course is taught per year. These are followed by detailed sections explaining the course description/philosophy; course outline; course objectives (including core curriculum standards and cross-content workplace readiness skills); methods of instruction to be employed; assessment/evaluation of pupil progress; instructional materials used; technology support and infusion; community support, partnerships and resources; parent support and involvement; and support for students with diverse needs. The core courses are followed by electives, which are enrichment or exploratory courses to augment the core curriculum.
> With respect to extracurricular activities, Mine Hill anticipates extending and expanding the activities of the elementary school, such as intramural sports, school newspaper and literary magazine, yearbook, talent show, school play and clubs into the middle school. (Id. at 36-37)

The Commissioner notes that it is not surprising that a proposal for the creation of a new middle school would have some problems or "gaps," but it is expected that these would be eliminated through refinement and improvement as the proposal was implemented. Consequently, his review persuades him that Mine Hill's advancement here satisfies its burden of production on this issue and, therefore, it became incumbent on Dover to affirmatively demonstrate substantial negative educational impact in Mine Hill, a burden which is not satisfied by the mere introduction of speculative observations, i.e., the proposal has gaps and may be overly ambitious or the questioning of Mine Hill's ability to fully deliver what it proposes, its ability to attract and hire experienced teachers, or its ability to achieve co-curricular cooperation with Dover or another district. In considering potential impact in Dover, Mine Hill's proffered advancements indicate that the removal of the relatively small number of its students involved here could have no consequential effect on Dover's ability to provide its students with a thorough and efficient education. Dover, in this regard, has failed to bring forward any evidentiary demonstration that its educational offerings would be negatively impacted by severance but, rather, offers only conjecture as to the general possibility of loss of program opportunity or restrictions of some programs. As such, the Commissioner finds and determines that Mine Hill's requested severance could not be denied on the basis of substantial negative program impacts in either district as none have been established by Dover.

REGIONALIZATION ORDER/STUDY

Finally, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that the within record fails to advance a sufficient presentation of facts or evidence to support a conclusion that there is a need for either directed regionalization, or the ordering of a regionalization feasibility study and, Therefore, Dover's requests in this regard must be denied.[7] [8]

CONCLUSION

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed, as modified above. Mine Hill's request for severance of its sending-receiving relationship with respect to its [7] In addition, the Commissioner notes that Dover's request for regionalization was made in the demand for relief in its answer to the petition. Because this request was not made in a petition or cross-petition, it is not properly before the Commissioner for adjudication even if Dover had presented necessary facts and evidence to support such a request.

[8] The Commissioner declines to reach Mine Hill's exception advancement with respect to whether or under what conditions the Commissioner, State Board or the courts may order inter-district regionalization as such a discussion, in light of his within determination here, is unnecessary to the resolution of the instant matter.

7th and 8th grade middle school students is hereby denied in that such severance would result in substantial negative racial and educational quality impact.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MINE HILL, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER-APPELLANT,	:	STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION
V.	:	DECISION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWN OF DOVER, MORRIS COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.	:

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, February 15, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, L.L.P. (Paul H. Green, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Sills, Cummis, Radin, Tischman, Epstein & Gross (Lester Aron, Esq., of Counsel)

This is an appeal from a determination of the Commissioner of Education which adopted the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge ("ALJ") with modification and denied the request of the Board of Education of the Township of Mine Hill (hereinafter "Mine Hill") to withdraw its 7th and 8th grade middle school students from the Dover School District, where they had been attending school since 1963. The ALJ had determined that the doctrine of laches and waiver barred the application of an order issued by the Commissioner in 1981 that would have permitted withdrawal had the Mine Hill Board met certain conditions. The ALJ further found that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 provided the applicable standard for deciding the matter, but concluded that, under that standard, Mine Hill had failed to meet its burden of proving that withdrawal would not have a substantial negative educational, financial or racial impact on the affected districts. The ALJ also rejected Dover's request for K-12 regionalization or a regionalization study on the grounds that the Dover School District would not be desegregated by such regionalization.

The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's determination that the Commissioner's 1981 order was not enforceable. While recognizing that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 by its terms applied only to sending-receiving relationships at the high school level, he found that the language of the statute "[did] not reflect a purposeful intent by the Legislature to omit elementary level relationships from the statute's dictates." Commissioner's Decision, slip op. at 73. Invoking his implied powers and relying on the State Board's decision in Board of Education of the Borough of Kinnelon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Riverdale, decided by the State Board of Education, April 4, 1984, aff'd, Docket #A-3857-83T2 (App. Div. 1985), the Commissioner directed that the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 were applicable. Under that standard, the Commissioner found that, although Dover had not established that there would be a substantial negative financial impact or a substantial negative impact on the educational programming of either district if withdrawal were permitted, there would be a substantial negative impact on the racial balance and the quality of education in both districts. Hence, the Commissioner adopted the ALJ's conclusion that Mine Hill should not be granted permission to withdraw its 7th and 8th grade students from Dover. Similarly, he agreed that Dover's request for regionalization should be denied.

Mine Hill appealed, contending that the Commissioner's 1981 order is valid and enforceable. It further contends that the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 should not be strictly applied to sending-receiving relationships at the elementary level and that withdrawal of its 7th and 8th grade students would not result in a negative racial impact sufficient to override its right to educate its own students. Mine Hill also argues that the Commissioner's determination denies its rights under the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution because it is based on a racial classification.

We agree with the ALJ and the Commissioner that the Commissioner's 1981 order is not enforceable and, for the reasons expressed in their decisions, we affirm the Commissioner's determination of that issue. However, for the reasons that follow, we reverse the Commissioner's determination that the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 are applicable to sending-receiving relationships at the elementary level, and we remand the matter to him in order that he may review the matter under the appropriate standard.

As the Commissioner recognized, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13, by its express terms, applies only to sending-receiving relationships at the high school level. Under the statutory scheme, a district board that does not have high school facilities must designate a high school outside the district for its students. Specifically, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 provides that:

> The board of education of every high school district which lacks high school facilities within the district and has not designated a high school or high schools outside of the district for its high school pupils to attend shall designate a > high school or high schools of this state for the attendance of such pupils.

N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 provides in pertinent part that:

> No such designation of a high school or high schools and no such allocation or apportionment of pupils thereto, heretofore or hereafter made pursuant to law shall be changed or withdrawn, nor shall a district having such a designated high school refuse to continue to receive high school pupils from such sending district except upon application made to and approved by the commissioner....

Similarly, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13.1 (students permitted to complete secondary education in receiving district subsequent to severance after five year period), N.J.S.A. 18A:38-15 (attendance at special high school courses in another district), N.J.S.A. 18A:38-16 (attendance at evening high school in another district) specify by their terms that they apply to the high school level. In contrast, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8, which authorizes district boards having necessary accommodations to receive students from other districts that do not have sufficient accommodations and provides that they may be required to do so by order of the State Board, does not include any such limitation. See also N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.2 (representation of sending district on board of receiving district). Likewise, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-19 concerns tuition for students of "any school district" and N.J.S.A. 18A:38-20 relates to the term of agreements where district boards "furnishing elementary and high school education" to students of another district provide additional facilities. See also N.J.S.A. 18A:38-21 (termination of such agreements). Finally, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-21.1, which provides for termination of sending-receiving relationships under specified conditions, applies to "any board of education which sends students to another school district."

Given that the express terms of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 are clear and unambiguous, we must follow them. Further, any doubt as to the intent of the Legislature in enacting this statute is eliminated by consideration of the Statement of the Senate Education Committee which accompanied the bill that amended the statute at issue in 1986. In its Statement, the Senate Education Committee stressed that:

> ...this bill only applies to sending-receiving relationships at the high school level.

Senate Education Committee Statement to Assembly Bill 2072, October 2, 1986. (Emphasis added.)

The Committee then added that:

> Currently there are 83 districts in the State which receive pupils from 147 sending districts. Of these, 15 send pupils for all grades and a handful send pupils for grades 7-9. Most of the relationships are for high school pupils in grades 9-12. A sizeable majority of these sending districts are located in the shore area.

Id.

Hence, both the express terms of the statute and the legislative history clearly indicate the Legislature's intent that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 apply only to sending-receiving relationships at the high school level. Further, the Committee Statement clearly indicates that the Legislature was well aware of the fact that not all sending-receiving relationships were at the high school level when it determined that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 would continue to apply only to those relationships at the high school level.

Nor does our decision in Board of Education of the Borough of Kinnelon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Riverdale, supra, provide a basis for applying the standards of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 to sending-receiving relationships at the elementary level. In Kinnelon, Riverdale had been sending its students in grades 7 through 12 to Kinnelon High School. However, when Kinnelon constructed a new middle school, Riverdale's 7th and 8th grade students were housed in the new middle school along with Kinnelon's 7th and 8th grade students. Riverdale then determined to withdraw its 7th and 8th grade students from Kinnelon's middle school and to educate them in its own school. Kinnelon sought a declaratory judgment from the Commissioner as to the applicability of several statutes, including N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13. The Commissioner found that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 did not control the sending-receiving relationship as to grades 7 and 8 and held that termination of the relationship as to those grades depended on whether any unreasonable financial hardship would result to either district and whether termination would be contrary to the educational interests of all the students involved.

The State Board reversed the Commissioner's decision. In doing so, it found that when the 7th and 8th grade students began attending the middle school rather than Kinnelon High School, a change in the allocation of Riverdale's students to Kinnelon High School occurred and that, with this change in allocation, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 became controlling. It was in this context that the State Board rejected Riverdale's contention that it had not been required to obtain the Commissioner's approval pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 before withdrawing its 7th and 8th grade students from Kinnelon and in which the State Board invoked its implied powers.

Hence, the critical factor in the State Board's determination that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 was controlling in that case was that all of the students who were attending school in Kinnelon had originally been attending Kinnelon High School. In stark contrast to that case, the 7th and 8th grade students in the case now before us were never part of the high school. Given the Legislature's clear expression of its intent when it amended the statute subsequent to our decision in Kinnelon, as well as the express terms of the statute, we cannot hold that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is controlling of sending-receiving relationships other than those at the high school level.

However, our conclusion that N.J.S.A. 18A:38-13 is not controlling in this case does not mean that Mine Hill is free to withdraw its 7th and 8th grade students without approval. Although the agreement between the districts that Dover would receive Mine Hill's 7th and 8th grade students is not supported by the authority conferred by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11, it was authorized by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8.[1] Again, that statute provides:

> The board of education of any school district having necessary accommodations may receive, or may be required to receive by order of the state board, pupils from another district not having sufficient accommodations, at rates of tuition fixed as in this article provided.

In contrast to those relationships formed under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11, the Legislature has not established any statutory criteria for withdrawal from relationships formed pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-8. Nor have we been able to identify any decisional law that provides such criteria. However, given our responsibility for the general supervision and control of public education in this state, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-10, and that of the Commissioner, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23, we could not allow such withdrawals to occur at the discretion of the sending district. In this respect, we stress that although the Commissioner has held that a district has the discretion to withdraw its elementary level students from a sending-receiving relationship, he has approved such withdrawal only after finding that no unreasonable financial hardship would result and that such withdrawal would not be contrary to the educational interests of the students involved.

[1] We note that the 1993 contractual agreement between the parties specifies that the sending-receiving relationship between the districts was being established pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-11 et seq. However such specification cannot expand the scope of the statutes that was established by the Legislature.

Board of Education of the Township of Haddon v. Board of Education of the Borough of Collingswood, decided by the Commissioner of Education, 1966 S.L.D. 207. That being the case, we remand this matter to the Commissioner in order that he may in the first instance identify those circumstances under which withdrawal from a sending-receiving relationship at the elementary school level should be permitted and to ascertain whether such circumstances are present in this case.

We retain jurisdiction.

PAUL VARANO,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board sought order requiring respondent industrial arts teacher to submit to a psychiatric examination pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2. Respondent did not comply with the Board's directive for said examination and was suspended with pay.

The ALJ found that the evidence presented in the certification and evaluations of the Board demonstrated the deterioration of respondent's classroom performance and his defiant or nonresponsive attitude and behavior represented a serious deviation from the norm. The ALJ concluded that the Board had sufficient reason to require the psychiatric examination. Thus, the ALJ concluded that the Board had the right under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-2 to request that respondent have a psychiatric examination and that he must comply. The ALJ noted that the Board should consider bringing tenure charges if respondent does not comply with the order.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own and directed respondent to undergo a psychiatric evaluation within 30 days of this decision.

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner Board of Education (Board) seeks an order requiring respondent teacher to submit to a psychiatric examination. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 26, 2000. By letter dated May 26, 1999, the Board sought to have Mr. Varano undergo a psychiatric evaluation pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2. Respondent has refused to undergo such evaluation and remains suspended with pay during this period. On April 18, 2000, the Board moved before the Commissioner for an order compelling the psychiatric examination. On April 24, 2000, Mr. Varano asked the Department of Education for an extension of time to find another attorney. Further efforts of the OAL to schedule a date for a hearing were not successful. Ultimately, the matter was scheduled for a hearing on the motion on December 4, 2000. At that hearing, the attorney for the Board appeared but neither petitioner nor any representative appeared. The Board's attorney requested that the motion be decided on the papers.

FACTS

The following facts were certified by the Board and were not contested on the record. Respondent Paul Varano is an industrial arts teacher who has been employed at the Irvington School District for over 18 years, teaching primarily grades 5 through 8. Beginning in 1995, Mr. Varano's performance as a teacher was subject to bad evaluations particularly criticism for chronic lateness and absenteeism. During the 1998-99 school year, the Board denied Mr. Varano's employment and salary adjudgment increments. The record contained poor evaluations of Mr. Varano's teaching and interactions with students and colleagues. For example, a clinical observation was made on November 3, 1998 by William C. Calloway, Jr. of the industrial arts class consisting of 11 students. The students were eating potato chips, the blackboard had no objective, all machines were covered with plastic, Mr. Varano sat at his desk the entire period and did not have his plan book. Mr. Varano stated to the evaluator that the wood was not in a safe place and to stop playing games. Mr. Varano talked to the students but no teaching lesson occurred. At the end of the class, Mr. Varano indicated that if the room remained in the same way, the same situation would happen the next day.

On May 26, 1999, Peter E. Carter, District Superintendent, sent Mr. Varano a certified letter requesting that he undergo a psychiatric evaluation for the following reasons:

1. Exhibiting an inability to teach and relate subject matters to students, as well as an inability to maintain control of the students in the classroom which have been assigned responsibility on a consistent basis.

2. Blatant and continuous disregard of contractual obligation to attend weekly faculty meetings.

3. Exhibiting passive or non-responsive attitude and behavior when addressed by supervisors on a regular basis.

4. Failed to utilize supplies and materials for instructions.

On May 31, 1999, by way of an answer to the superintendent's letter, petitioner responded by saying

1. It was Mr. Gamba-adminisration who created those dastardly situations in order to "set me up." Motive? Slander, for one, also jealousy, etc., etc., etc.

2. I have requested an attorney from the NJEA to contact you ASAP. I see nothing in your letter that I am responsible for.

3. Trump up reasons are over six months old!

Closing thought on your letter " I have never seen a document so crowded with infamous falsehoods and distortions . . . . I never imagine . . . . was capable to utter." Comment made after the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Mr. Varano has not complied with the Board's directive for a psychiatric evaluation and has been suspended with pay since the Board's letter.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

A Board of Education may require psychiatric or physical examination of any employee "whenever in the judgment of the Board, an employee shows evidence of deviation from normal, physical or mental health." N.J.S.A. 18A:16-2. A Board of Education may suspend a tenured teaching staff member with pay pending a physical or psychiatric examination. N.J.S.A. 18A:25-6. However, unless it certifies tenure dismissal charges to the Commissioner, a Board of Education lacks the authority to suspend a tenured teaching staff member without pay or otherwise reduce such person's compensation. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. See Pleasantville City Bd. of Education v. Chambers, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 291, 293.

The obligation of the Board to determine the fitness of its teachers stems from the Board's duty to protect the students under its charge from the reasonable possibility of the occurrence of harm. Gish v. Board of Education of Borough of Paramus, 145 N.J. Super. 96, certif. den. 74 N.J. 251 (1976). A teacher's fitness may not be measured "solely by his or her ability to perform the teaching function and ignore the fact that the teacher's presence in the classroom might, nevertheless, cause a danger of harm to the students for a reason not related to academic proficiency." In re Tenure Hearing of Grossman, 127 N.J. Super. 13, 32 (App. Div. 1974), certif. den. 65 N.J. 292. In this matter I FIND that the evidence presented in the certification and evaluations of the Board demonstrated the deterioration of Mr. Varano's classroom performance and his defiant or non-responsive attitude and behavior represented a serious deviation from the norm. Hence, I CONCLUDE that the Board had sufficient reason to require Mr. Varano to have a psychiatric examination. Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the Board has the right under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-2 to request Mr. Varano to have a psychiatric examination and the respondent must comply. For the respondent to have refused to comply for over a year, thus costing the taxpayers a great deal of money and undermining the authority of the Board, is disturbing. The Board should consider bringing tenure charges if Mr. Varano does not comply with this order.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER the respondent Paul Varano to undergo a psychiatric evaluation within 30 days.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter,[1] the Commissioner agrees with the Administrative Law Judge's assessment that the evidence presented in the certification and evaluations of the Board demonstrate deterioration of respondent's classroom performance and that his defiant and nonresponsive attitude and behavior represent a serious deviation from the norm.

[1] The Commissioner notes that respondent's sole response to the petition consists of copies of correspondence between respondent and attorneys from two separate law firms and a cover letter which states in its entirety:

1. I do wish to request an extension pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5, due to the bad faith effort of the NJEA lawyer's. See copies enclosed. I will be appealing to the president of the N.J.E.A. for honest representation.
2. For the record, I do dispute every complaint made by the Order to Show Cause for Emergent Relief. Dated 4/18/00.

Please return copy of same in the envelope provided. Thank you.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision, respondent is directed to undergo a psychiatric evaluation within 30 days of this decision.

ADMINISTRATIVE

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Pleasantville School District ("Petitioner"), through its Attorney, Nicholas Celso, III, Esq., (Nicholas Celso, appearing) and Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE"), through its attorney, the Honorable John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of the State of New Jersey (Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, appearing), hereby stipulate to the following terms of settlement:

1. On or about June 29, 2000, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the DOE's determinations with respect to Petitioner's requests for supplemental funding for the 2000-2001 school year under the Abbott v. Burke decisions and DOE regulations.

2. The Petition was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

3. The parties thereupon entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest.

4. Based on those discussions, the DOE agreed that the Petitioner has demonstrated a need for 9.5 supervisor positions for the 2000-2001 school year in the following areas: Supervisor of Early Childhood (PK-3)(½ position); Supervisor of Language Arts/Literacy (PK-8); Supervisor of Language Arts/Literacy (9-12); Supervisor of Science (PK-12); Supervisor of Mathematics (PK-12); Supervisor of Visual and Performing Arts/World Language (PK-12); Supervisor of Social Studies (PK-12); Supervisor of Students with Special Needs/Special Education/Bilingual/ESL/Gifted and Talented (PK-12); Supervisor of Business Education/Consumer Education/School-to-Careers/Technology Education/Technology Coordination/Library Media Services (PK-12); and Supervisor of Guidance and Health Services (PK-12).

5. DOE agrees to provide Petitioner with supplemental funding in the amount of $760,000 ($80,000 per position) for salary and benefits for the above-listed positions. Petitioner may anticipate revenue in the amount of $760,000 and record an accounts receivable in the 2000-2001 budget year of that same amount. The receipt of this additional amount of funds will occur in the 2001-2002 budget year subject to appropriation in the FY 2002 Appropriations Act.

6. The Petitioner agrees to dismissal with prejudice of the Petition pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

7. This Consent Order does not preclude Petitioner from applying for additional Abbott v. Burke State aid pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(A), if petitioner is unable to implement the Department-approved programs, services and other expenditures due to fiscal constraints arising from budgeted Charter School payments.

8. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

Vita A. Gagliardi, Jr., Esq., for respondents Berlin Township, Clementon, Lindenwold, Pine Hill and Winslow Township Boards of Education (Porzio, Bromberg & Newman, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 5, 2001 Decided: January 9, 2001

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

Michael E. Schreiner, petitioner, alleged he is tenured in several positions in the Camden County Regional High School District Number One and that by operation of N.J.S.A. 18A:13-49 he enjoys rights to those same positions in each respondent district.

The matter was opened upon a petition for summary judgment to the Commissioner of Education, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

Counsel worked diligently over a period of 13 months and produced an amicable resolution that has been accepted by the petitioner and each board. The parties have prepared the attached agreement and copies of the resolutions of the boards adopting the agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their authorized signatures and board resolutions;

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded. I further note the parties have agreed to waive the right to file exceptions and cross-exceptions.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

November 14, 2000

Motion made by Mrs. Harvey, seconded by Mr. Pino with a unanimous roll call vote in favor to approve the following items (1 through 9) with regard to business and operations:

9. Schreiner v. Board of Education of the Township of Berlin, et al.

Resolved that the Board approves the settlement agreement in Schreiner v. Berlin Township Board of Education, et al. and agrees to be bound by same.

This is to certify that the above is a True copy of the motion adopted by The Board of Education of Winslow Township in regular session held on Monday, November 6, 2000.

John C. Oberg, Business Administrator/Board Secretary

3a

Seven voting yes and zero voting no. The motion carries.

5. Consideration to approve the QAAR. QAAR

A motion was made by Mr. Dougherty, seconded by Mrs. Glover, to approve item #5 as revised, and as listed in the Agenda.

Roll call vote: Mrs. DeTolla - yes, Mr. Dougherty - yes, Mrs. Glover - no, Miss Heins - yes, Ms. Hershman - yes, Mr. Smith - yes, and Mrs. Moncrief - yes.

Six voting yes and one voting no. The motion carries.

6. Discussion/consideration to approve settlement agreement in Schreiner v. Berlin Township Board of Education. Settlement Agreement

A motion was made by Mr. Dougherty, seconded by Miss Heins, to approve said agreement as discussed in Executive Session.

Roll call vote: Mrs. DeTolla - yes, Mr. Dougherty - yes, Mrs. Glover - yes, Miss Heins - yes, Ms. Hershman - yes, Mr. Smith - yes, and Mrs. Moncrief - yes.

Seven voting yes and zero voting no. The motion carries.

7. Discussion on salary parameters for new administrative personnel. Salary Parameters

Mrs. Moncrief said included in the Board folders was a chart of other schools. This gives the Board some kind of idea as to where we are, and where we think we may fall. She also wanted the Board to give some consideration to when they are bringing new staff on and setting up a whole different type of administrative structure. How do they want to do that? Regardless of the fact that they will be beginning negotiations soon, there are a whole bunch of employees coming in without benefit of those negotiations. So the Board needs to get some sense of where they stand on these issues.

Miss Heins said on the pages in the packets on salaries, to some extent it was helpful to see where we're not. But also, look at the districts. There doesn't seem to be any rhyme or reason to how they're paying people. She hoped our Board would be able to come up with a better plan.

Mrs. Moncrief said you have to have some level of comfort.

I hereby certify that this is a true copy of the Lindenwold Board of Education minutes.

Robert F. Wachter, Jr., School Business Administrator

I hereby certify that this is an exact copy of the October 30, 2000 Minutes of the Regular Business Meeting of the Pine Hill Board of Education.

OLD BUSINESS

Mr. O'Donnell stated that if we do not purchase a fire suppression system for the oven at the Bean School, we will remove the oven so we are not in violation. He stated that this also affects the oven which is to be installed in the Middle School.

Approval of Tree Removal

Motioned by Mrs. Oehrl, seconded by Mrs. Parker, to approve the removal of tree and stump located in front of the Child Study Team Office. Cost to be split with the Borough. Roll call vote. All in favor: Ms. Madeza, Ms. Narducci, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Oehrl, Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Taylor (6-0-0)

Approval of Contracts

Motioned by Mr. Taylor, seconded by Ms. Narducci, to approval the contracts for Lower Camden County Personnel as discussed in the October 17, 2000 Executive Session. Roll call vote. All in favor: Ms. Madeza, Ms. Narducci, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Oehrl. Abstain: Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Taylor (4-0-2)

Mr. O'Donnell stated that purchasing new emergency lights would be more cost effective than replacing all the batteries.

Mr. O'Donnell stated that he has not heard back from the Fire Marshall's Office, therefore, we are probably responsible to install emergency lights in the Child Study Team Office, at an approximate cost of $1000.00.

Approval to Purchase Emergency Lights

Motioned by Mrs. Oehrl, seconded by Mrs. Thompson, to purchase emergency lights for the Child Study Team Office at a cost not to exceed $1000.00. Roll call vote. All in favor: Ms. Madeza, Ms. Narducci, Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Oehrl, Mrs. Thompson, Mr. Taylor (6-0-0)

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Camden County School Boards Association

Mrs. Thompson stated that the next dinner meeting is scheduled for November 30, 2000, at the Camden County Technical School. The program's topic is "Student's Rights".

Home and School

Mrs. Thompson stated that their fund raiser went well. They will be having a bake sale during parent/teacher conferences. Ms. Mascioli distributed a letter sent to Home and School, requesting the purchase of items from the Five Year Facility Plan. She also stated that she has developed a form for teachers to use when requesting items to be purchased.

Municipal Alliance

Mr. Taylor stated that Fright Night was very successful. It was the largest crowd they ever had.

NJ School Boards Association

Mr. Taylor stated that the Delegates' Assembly is November 18th. Thirteen resolution are on the ballot, originally there were 30. He will advise on which resolutions will be passed.

Pine Hill Borough Liaison

Mrs. Parker stated that the Veteran's Day Ceremony will be at the park, beginning at 11:00 AM on November 11, 2000.

PINE HILL BOROUGH BOARD OF EDUCATION, located at 1003 Turnerville Road, Pine Hill, New Jersey 08021-6526;

WATERFORD TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, located at 1106 Old White Horse Pike, Waterford, New Jersey 08089-1899;

WINSLOW TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, located at 113 Central Avenue, Blue Anchor, New Jersey 08037-1667;

HEREINAFTER referred to collectively as the BOARDS and

DR. MICHAEL E. SCHREINER, residing at 72 Greenleigh Drive, Sewell, New Jersey 08080, (hereinafter referred to as the "Superintendent").

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, Dr. Schreiner is the tenured superintendent of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District (LCCR);

WHEREAS, on or about May 12, 1998, the voters of the seven constituent districts voted to dissolve the Lower Camden County Regional High School District; and a dissolution date of July 1, 2001, has been set by the Commissioner of Education.

WHEREAS, Dr. Schreiner has filed a petition asserting tenure rights to the positions of superintendent, principal, assistant principal, and teacher pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:13-64;

WHEREAS, the Boards and Dr. Schreiner have engaged in negotiations concerning Dr. Schreiner's terms and conditions of employment after dissolution,

NOW THEREFORE, the foregoing Boards, as set forth above, and Dr. Schreiner, for the consideration herein specified, agree as follows:

1. TERM and DUTIES.

Dr. Schreiner shall cease his employment with the LCCR Board of Education upon dissolution. He shall be entitled to any and all benefits due and owing pursuant to his current employment contract with the LCCR Board of Education. The Winslow Township Board of Education, in its capacity as LEA for the dissolved LCCR, shall employ Dr. Schreiner in a pensionable position, namely, Director, Transition Activities, from July 1, 2001 through June 30, 2002. A mutually agreed upon job description shall be attached to this Agreement. Dr. Schreiner resigns from that position effective June 30, 2002, and relinquishes any and all tenure rights to any position in the constituent districts to which he may be entitled. Dr. Schreiner shall be available, upon mutual agreement, on an occasional consulting basis, if necessary , from July 1, 2002, through December 31, 2002, but shall not be formally employed or receive salary during this period. Dr. Schreiner shall be considered a tenured employee during this one-year period, and his employment shall otherwise be governed by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10.

2. COMPENSATION.

Dr. Schreiner shall receive his salary of $138,000 for the 2001-2002 school year. Dr. Schreiner shall receive as part of his compensation health insurance including dental, prescription and vision, AASA and NJASA membership, attendance at the NJSBA/NJASA Fall and Spring conferences, (and any conferences that Winslow as LEA may approve), use of cell phone, and expense reimbursement. Specifically excluded are leave time benefits.

Dr. Schreiner shall receive three lump sum payments of $50,000 on each of the following dates: January 1, 2002, January 1, 2003; and January 1, 2004, for a total of $150,000. If Dr. Schreiner dies before January 2, 2004, payment of any of the $150,000 yet unpaid shall be made to his estate.

It is anticipated that all monies will be paid out of the LEA funds from the dissolved regional; however, if there is any shortfall, the seven constituent districts shall be responsible proportionally in accordance with statute.

3. PAYMENT FOR SICK AND VACATION TIME.

The Boards agree that they will not challenge further any previously approved payments made to Dr. Schreiner by LCCR, specifically payments for accumulated sick and vacation leave. The parties acknowledge that funds are currently being held in escrow for Dr. Schreiner, and shall be released upon the approval of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. If Dr. Schreiner shall die before the settlement is approved, payment shall be made to his estate.

4. MUTUAL RELEASE and INDEMNIFICATION.

A. Dr. Schreiner hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Boards, its individual members, successors, assigns, and agents from any and all past, present, and future claims, suits, actions at law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that he may have against it, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision thereof. He will dismiss with prejudice presently pending before the Commissioner of Education.

B. The Board and its members hereby agree to release and forever discharge Dr. Schreiner from any and all past, present, and future claims, suits, tenure charges, actions at law or inequity of any kind, in any forum that it may have against him, and agrees that execution of the Employment Contract shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of the Employment Contract or any provision thereof.

C. The mutual releases set forth herein are entered into voluntarily and willingly and without any duress or coercion. Both parties agree to be bound by their respective releases and agree that their respective successors shall be bound by the releases and all other provisions of the Employment Contract.

D. Specifically excluded from Dr. Schreiner's release is his right, upon cessation of employment with the Boards, to obtain continued medical coverage at his own expense as authorized by the Consolidated Omnibus Reconciliation Act of 1986 (COBRA), any rights he may have arising under the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund (TPAF) and related statutes and regulations, any rights he may have under the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Law, N.J.S.A. 34:16-1, et seq., and any rights he may have in his individual capacity to assert any claim for personal injuries that may result and/or be discovered subsequent to the execution of the Employment Contract, caused by the negligent or intentional acts or omissions of the parties.

5. CONSULTATION WITH COUNSEL.

The parties represent that they have consulted with their respective attorneys before signing the Employment Contract and are fully satisfied with the advice received.

6. EXECUTION IN COUNTERPARTS and FACSIMILE SIGNATURES.

The Employment Contract may be executed in two (or more) counterparts, each of which counterparts, when executed and delivered, shall be deemed to be an original, and all of which counterparts, taken together, shall constitute but one and the same agreement. An original signature transmitted by facsimile shall be deemed to be an original for purposes of the Employment Contract.

7. APPROVAL BY THE COMMISSIONER.

The parties acknowledge that this Agreement is contingent upon the approval of the Commissioner of Education.

WHEREAS, duly authorized officers of the Boards have approved the terms and conditions of the Employment Contract; and,

WHEREAS, Dr. Schreiner has approved of the terms and conditions of the Employment Contract; and,

WHEREAS, this contract has been approved by the Boards of Education named above;

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

JOEL McGUCKIN, Petitioner, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF LOWER CAMDEN COUNTY REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL DISTRICT NUMBER ONE, Respondent.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT CONSENT ORDER DOCKET NO. AGENCY DOCKET NO. 288-9/99

THIS MATTER having come before the Commissioner of Education on a Petition of Appeal filed by Petitioner, Joel McGuckin, by his attorneys, ~~Sahli, Sahli~~ Zazzali, Fagella & Nowak, Richard A. Friedman, Esquire appearing, and a response having been filed by Respondent, Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One, by its attorneys, Weinberg, McCormick, Chatzinoff & Zoll, P.A., Barry Chatzinoff, Esquire, appearing, and the parties having reached an agreement with regard to all matters in dispute, and for good cause shown;

IT IS ON THIS 23rd day of January, 2000 ORDERED as follows:

1. Petitioner shall be entitled to be compensated as an Instructional Supervisor retroactive to September 1, 1999. Petitioner shall be entitled to back pay in the amount of $1,195 for the 1999-2000 school year.

2. For the 2000-2001 school year, Petitioner will be compensated as an Instructional Supervisor, with a Master's +30. For the 2000-2001 school year, this will entitle the Petitioner to the sum of $964 in addition to his present salary as a teacher.

3. It is anticipated that the Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One will be dissolved as of June 30, 2001. In the event that the Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One is not dissolved on June 30, 2001 and that there should be a 2001-2002 school year, Petitioner will continue to be compensated as an Instructional Supervisor +30 at the next step of the aforesaid salary guide.

4. Petitioner will receive the benefits associated with the Instructional Supervisor position. These benefits shall include the following:

A. Seniority credit;

B. Sick leave for ten month administrative employees as set forth in the negotiated agreement with the Lower Camden County Regional Principals and Supervisors Association;

C. Pension credit based on the additional income as agreed above. In the event that the Division of Pensions refuses to grant pension credit, Petitioner reserves the right to appeal the Division of Pensions' decision to the Board of Trustees of the Teacher's Pension and Annuity Fund;

D. Health insurance - no change in coverage options;

E. Three personal days;

F. Five days of bereavement leave for immediate family members and one day for non-immediate family members;

G. Vacation - there are no vacation days for ten month administrative employees. Petitioner will work until June 30th; and

H. Association Membership - Petitioner will be a member of the Lower Camden County Regional Principal's and Supervisor's Association.

5. Although Petitioner will be compensated as if in a Supervisory position, it is understood that Petitioner will not and has not performed the duties associated with the Supervisory position and the teaching duties assigned to him will be the same as those from the 1999-2000 school year. Petitioner will be obliged to follow all of the terms and conditions of employment for ten month employees as set forth in the Lower Camden County Regional Principal's and Supervisor's Association Management Team Agreement and shall receive no other benefit or compensation other than those set forth in this Settlement Agreement/Consent Order.

6. With regard to any claims that may be asserted by Petitioner in the matter of Lower Camden County Regional Education Association v. Berlin Township Board of Education et al, OAL Docket Number EDU962-00, Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One takes no position with regard to the impact or relationship of this settlement with any claims that Petitioner has in that litigation. Petitioner is free to assert whatever claims that he feels are appropriate in that matter.

7. This Consent Order shall serve to settle any and all claims asserted by Petitioner in his Petition of Appeal and Petitioner hereby releases Respondent from any and all claims that he may have against Respondent.

M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning administrative secretary challenged the Board's refusal to restore sick and vacation time for the period she was absent from work because of a temporary disability. The Board argued that the petition was not timely filed and challenged the restoration of sick and vacation time.

The ALJ determined that, because a judge of Workers' Compensation awarded petitioner temporary disability benefits, she is entitled, pursuant to statute, to receive full salary for a period not to exceed one year while temporarily disabled. The ALJ thus ordered that petitioner be restored all sick and vacation days for the period from November 19, 1998 to November 18, 1999.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons stated therein.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF FARMINGDALE, MONMOUTH COUNTY,

Respondent.

M. Scott Tashjy, Esq., for petitioner (Hobbie, Corrigan, Bertucio & Tashjy, attorneys)

J. Peter Sokol, Esq., for respondent (McOmber & McOmber, attorneys)

Record Closed: November 27, 2000 Decided: January 9, 2001

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter commenced on September 27, 1999, when Florence Frabizio (hereinafter petitioner) filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education seeking a determination that the Board of Education of Farmingdale (hereinafter respondent) had violated her rights pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1(a) and (b) by declining to restore sick time and vacation time. An answer on behalf of respondent was filed on October 8, 1999 and on November 16, 1999, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on February 10, 2000, at which time the following were identified as the issues for determination at hearing:

1. Was the petition timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c)?

2. What leave time, if any, should be restored/credited to petitioner's accumulated totals?

The hearing was scheduled for May 26, 2000, at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. That date was adjourned, however, at the request of both counsel who indicated that they would be submitting cross-motions for summary decision. Respondent's motion and supporting papers, including a certification of Stephanie K. Kuhns, School Business Administrator, were received on August 1, 2000. Petitioner's cross-motion and opposition to respondent's motion were received on August 29, 2000, and a letter memorandum in reply was received from respondent on October 6, 2000. Oral argument was conducted by telephone conference call on November 27, 2000, whereupon the record closed.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The facts relevant to a determination of this matter are not in dispute and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Petitioner is employed by respondent as a tenured, twelve-month administrative secretary. Pursuant to her contract of employment, she is entitled to 15 sick days per year and all unused sick days are accumulative. In addition, she receives annually 36 vacation days including 13 holidays. Pursuant to Board policy with respect to all employees, only five unused vacation days may be carried from one year to the next.

After July 1, 1998 and before November 19, 1998, petitioner utilized 8 sick days. Petitioner filed a notice of accidental injury or occupational illness with respondent's workers' compensation carrier on November 19, 1998. On July 1, 1999, Stephanie K. Kuhns, School Business Administrator, sent the following memorandum to petitioner concerning her vacation and sick days:

> For the 1998-99 school year you were allotted 152.5 sick days (137.5 – carry over + 15-98-99 days = 152.5 total) and 40 vacation days (4 – carry over + 36 – 98-99 = 40 total). As of June 30th, all of your sick days have been depleted and 21.5 of your vacation days have been used. At the discretion of the superintendent, you will not be permitted to carry over any accumulated vacation days from the 1998-99 school year to the 1999-2000 school year. Therefore, as of July 1st, your sick days and vacation days will be limited to the 15 sick days and 36 vacation days granted in your 1999-2000 contract.

On August 27, 1999, the Honorable Andrew M. Smith, Jr., Judge of Workers' Compensation, entered an order for medical and temporary disability benefits to be paid to petitioner as follows:

> Disability benefits from 11/19/98 through present and continuing until petitioner shall be able to return to full employment. (Medical bills, authorized, shall be paid by respondent).

By memorandum dated September 8, 1999, Stephanie K. Kuhns advised petitioner as follows:

> As referenced in the memo sent on July 1, 1999 you were granted 15 sick days and 36 vacation days as of July 1, 1999. On Thursday, September 8, 1999 all 51 days will have expired. Therefore, you will be paid up to and including September 8, 1999 and not beyond. We are in the process of researching whether or not your health insurance and pension contribution should also be terminated.

On September 27, 1999, petitioner filed the petition of appeal commencing the within matter seeking an order from the Commissioner restoring all sick and vacation time deducted by respondent as indicated in the July 1, 1999 and September 8, 1999 memoranda.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

The once classic statement of the standard for granting or denying summary judgment set forth in Judson v. Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Westfield, 17 N.J. 67 (1954), was modified in Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of America, 142 N.J. 520 (1995). Therein the Court held that the standard to be applied is now the same as the standard for determining motions for involuntary dismissal under R. 4:37-2(b) and for determining motions for judgment under R. 4:40-1 and R. 4:40-2. Trial courts considering motions for summary judgment are now required to engage in the same type of evaluation, analysis or sifting of evidential materials in light of the burden of persuasion that applies if the matter goes to trial. The Court explained:

> Under this new standard, a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational factfinder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party. The "judge's function is not himself [or herself] to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter but to determine whether there is a genuine issue for trial." . . . Credibility determinations will continue to be made by a jury and not a judge. If there exists a single, unavoidable resolution of the alleged disputed issue of fact, that issue should be considered insufficient to constitute a "genuine" issue of material fact for purposes of Rule 4:46-2. . . . The import of our holding is that when the evidence "is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law, . . ., the trial court should not hesitate to grant summary judgment. (citations omitted) Id. at 540.

The Court noted that to send a case to trial knowing that a rational decision-maker could reach but one conclusion was indeed "worthless" and would "serve no useful purpose." The purpose of this new standard, the decision explained, was to encourage trial courts not to refrain from granting summary judgment when the proper circumstances present themselves.

In the present matter, the parties agree that there is no material fact in issue and accordingly, this matter is ripe for summary decision.

With respect to the first issue articulated in the prehearing order and quoted hereinabove, N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c) requires a petitioner claiming benefits under N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 to file a petition with the Commissioner of Education within 90 days of the district board's action which has the effect of denying such benefits to petitioner. There is no dispute that respondent first notified petitioner by memorandum dated July 1, 1999, that her accumulated sick and vacation leave were being depleted. The petition herein was filed on September 27, 1999, and therefore was timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.2(c).

N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, the statutory provision relevant to a substantive determination of this matter provides:

> a. Whenever any employee, entitled to sick leave under this chapter, is absent from his post of duty as a result of a personal injury caused by an accident arising out of and in the course of his employment, his employer shall pay to such employee the full salary or wages for the period of such absence for up to one calendar year without having such absence charged to the annual sick leave or the accumulated sick leave provided in *N.J.S.A.*18A:30-2 and 18A:30-3. Salary or wage payments provided in this section shall be made for absence during the waiting period and during the period the employee received or was eligible to receive a temporary disability benefit under chapter 15 of Title 34, Labor and Workmen's Compensation, of the Revised Statutes. Any amount of salary or wages paid or payable to the employee pursuant to this section shall be reduced by the amount of any workmen's compensation award made for temporary disability.
> b. Leave taken by an employee pursuant to subsection a. of this section shall constitute satisfactory service as provided pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 and any other provision, statutory or contractual, relating to employment, adjustment or other increments and shall not constitute inefficiency or other good cause for the withholding of an employment or adjustment increment.

Respondent argues that petitioner's motion for summary decision is premature, citing the following language from Verneret v. Board of Ed. of the City of Elizabeth, 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 134, 135, where the State Board noted:

> We reiterate that it is the Commissioner who must determine whether or not the particular facts underlying a claim filed with him for benefits pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1 are such that he should refrain from considering the matter until a determination has been made by the Division of Workers' Compensation. [Citation omitted.] [Emphasis Added.]
> . . . the State Board sustained the Commissioner's decision to dismiss the Petitions in both cases [see Amos & Tompkins] without prejudice, concluding that, under the particular circumstances therein, a determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation was needed before this Agency could properly consider them. We now conclude that the proper course for the Commissioner to follow when he confronts a case such as Amos and Tompkins is to hold the matter in abeyance, rather than to dismiss the Petition, while waiting the determination of the Division of Workers' Compensation. [Emphasis Added.]

It is respondent's position that since there has been no final judgment by the Division of Workers' Compensation, but rather only an order for temporary disability benefits and payment of medical costs, the Commissioner should wait for a final determination by the Division of Workers' Compensation before addressing the issues in the within matter. It is clear, however, from a careful reading of the statutory provisions quoted hereinabove, that the payments provided for in 18A:30-2.1 are intended to supplement an award of temporary disability benefits for a period up to one year. Since Judge Smith signed an order awarding petitioner temporary disability benefits, implicit in that act is his determination that the injury or occupational illness sustained by petitioner on November 19, 1998 was compensable under the New Jersey Workers' Compensation Act. Judge Smith could not have signed an order awarding temporary disability benefits to petitioner without having reached such a conclusion. Whether petitioner ultimately obtains any permanent disability award from the Compensation Court is irrelevant to the Commissioner of Education's determination concerning benefits due and payable under N.J.S.A.

18A:30-2.1. That statute is designed to ensure that a school board employee receives full salary for a period of one year while temporarily disabled by a service connected disability.

With respect to the number of sick days and vacation days which need to be restored to petitioner's accumulated totals, respondent may not treat petitioner differently from any other employee who was in a full-pay status during the year. Therefore, for the time period November 19, 1998 to November 18, 1999, respondent may not charge petitioner with the use of sick days or vacation time because of her absence from work. Pursuant to the July 1, 1999 memorandum (and the affidavit of Stephanie K. Kuhns, submitted with respondent's motion papers) at the beginning of the 1998-99 fiscal year petitioner was credited with 152.5 sick days. After July 1 and prior to November 19, 1998, petitioner had utilized 8 sick days; accordingly, at the commencement of the 1999-00 fiscal year, her records should reflect a carry-over of 144.5 sick days. In accordance with Board practice for all employees, the maximum number of vacation days which may be carried from one year to the next is 5 days. Accordingly, at the commencement of 1999-00 fiscal year, petitioner's total vacation days should reflect a five-day carry-over in addition to vacation days and holidays credited for the 1999-2000 fiscal year. Pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, respondent is required to continue to pay petitioner's full salary (subject to reduction by the amount of the workers' compensation award for temporary disability) without deducting sick or vacation leave time until November 18, 1999. Thereafter, petitioner is entitled only to those benefits awarded by the Workers' Compensation Court or some other court of competent jurisdiction or those provided in her contractual agreement with respondent.

For all of the foregoing reasons, petitioner's motion for summary decision is hereby GRANTED. Respondent's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED and the within proceedings are concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board certified 14 charges of unbecoming conduct against Wannemacher and sought his removal from his tenured teaching position, alleging inter alia, that Wannemacher sexually harassed female students, made sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students, engaged in inappropriate physical touching and contact with female students, displayed a lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students, threatened or intimidated students and discriminated against students. Wannemacher denied the charges and filed a separate petition seeking restoration of his employment and adjustment increments withheld from him for the 1999-2000 school year. The cases were consolidated at the OAL and, in 1999, the parties reached a proposed settlement that was rejected by the Commissioner.

Although the 14 charges included extensive factual allegations, the ALJ determined that only 15 of the factual allegations were proven by a preponderance of the credible evidence. The ALJ recommended that Wannemacher be reinstated to his teaching position and that the 120 days of salary withheld from him be tendered to him. The ALJ also upheld the Board's decision to withhold Wannemacher's increments for the 1999-2000 school year.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with modification. Specifically, the Commissioner determined that two of the findings did not constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member. The Commissioner concluded that the improper comments made by Wannemacher, considering his unblemished record and recent decisions addressing inappropriate comments by teaching staff members, did not warrant his dismissal and affirmed the ALJ's penalty recommendation. Finally, the Commissioner affirmed the dismissal of Wannemacher's petition seeking reinstatement of his increments for the 1999-2000 school year.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On May 27, 1999, the Manchester Regional High School District Board of Education (Board) certified 14 charges of unbecoming conduct against Christopher Wannemacher (respondent), a teacher with a tenure status in its employ, to the Commissioner of Education for determination under N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10, et seq. The Board seeks respondent's removal from its employ. Respondent was simultaneously suspended from his employment without pay pending disposition of the charge. Respondent denies the factual allegations against him and demands reinstatement with full restoration of all benefits withheld from him during his suspension. Respondent also seeks, by way of a separate Verified Petition of Appeal, the restoration of employment and adjustment increments it withheld from him for the 1999-2000 school year for the reasons set forth in the charges.

After the matters were transferred June 18, 1999 to the Office of Administrative Law as contested cases under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to-13, a prehearing conference was conducted before Administrative Law Judge Richard McGill during which plenary hearing dates were agreed upon. On August 18, 1999, ALJ McGill entered an Order of Consolidation of both cases for purposes of hearing. Thereafter, the parties reached a proposed settlement that was recommended for approval to the Commissioner of Education. The Commissioner rejected the proposed settlement because of an absence of evidence the agreement was consistent with the standards in In re Cardonick, 1982 S.L.D. 842, aff'd. State Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 846 for the settlement of tenure matters.

On or about April 25, 2000, and pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-14.13 (b), the undersigned was appointed as administrative law judge, temporarily assigned, to conduct a plenary hearing and render an initial decision. The hearing was conducted at the Office of Administrative Law, Newark, on May 1. 2. 3. 4, 8, 9, 23, 24, and June 9, 2000 [1] after which the parties filed written briefs on August 1, 2000. The record closed August 2, 2000. Extensions of time within which to issue this initial decision have been granted.

EVENTS ANTECEDENT TO THE CHARGES

Hank Sinatra is the principal of the Manchester Regional High School and has been for the past three years. He had served as the assistant principal for one year to the then principal who is now the superintendent of schools, John J. Petrelli. The high school serves the constituent districts of Prospect Park, Haledon, and North Haledon. The school population is economically and socially diversified, and students are heterogeneously grouped.

The principal explained that during the 1998 fall Back-to-School night which was held early in the school year, several parents whose children were in respondent's Chemistry I class, voiced concern that he had said students whose mathematics skills were not strong might not pass the course, but could retake it the following year. The following day, a teacher of algebra whom the principal believes was a Ms. Pacio though he is not certain, complained to him that her students were upset because their parents were unhappy with them because they were reported to have poor mathematics skills. The algebra teacher also complained she felt the high school mathematics department was maligned by respondent's comments the previous night. Later, the principal reported the parent's and algebra teachers' complaints to the superintendent. The superintendent advised the principal to discuss the matter with respondent.

The principal met with respondent the following day. Respondent admitted the comments regarding poor mathematics skills and the probability that such students might not pass Chemistry I. The principal reminded respondent the high school classes are heterogeneously grouped and that he is responsible to address the needs of all his assigned students. The principal also told respondent those who enroll in Chemistry I probably have college in mind. The principal encouraged respondent to observe other teachers who have the same students to see how they handle varying levels of ability, and also recommended he attend workshops. The principal suggested respondent consider having other students who understand the subject matter in his class to assist those who have a difficult time grasping the concepts. It is not disputed that respondent did as directed; that is, he observed those teachers recommended by the principal, he attended workshops, and he encouraged students to assist other students in a cooperative learning atmosphere.

Respondent has been employed by the Board as a teacher since 1989 and has taught physics, electronics, chemistry, and mathematics. Prior to his present employment he had spent two years in the Peace Corps as a teacher and administrator stationed in Kenya. From the date of his first hire in 1989 until the present, respondent has been observed and evaluated in his teaching performance at least 25 times (R-46-49, R-51-52, R-54-58, R-60-62, R-64-66R-67-71, and R-72-75) The observation - evaluation instrument used by school administrators was unchanged from 1989 until the 1998-1999 school year.

Until the observation-evaluation done after the parental complaints in the fall of 1998, respondent's performance was rated, generally, as more than satisfactory, with no areas in need of improvement noted. Nevertheless, respondent was encouraged in 1990 (R-76), 1991 (R-72), 1992 (R-67), 1994 (R-59), 1995 (R-53), and 1996 (R-53A) to be more flexible in handling students, to work with teachers of mathematics to remediate math skills necessary for science, to experiment with ways to include all members in class activities and seek alternatives to motivate disaffected students, to use frequent illustrations to help make science understandable to students, and to develop higher levels of thinking in students. Still, more comments of superior performance were noted in the year-end evaluations than were recommendations for improvement.

The voluminous record as a whole shows respondent's teaching performance was held in high regard by school authorities until the present charges emerged. As an example of the regard in which respondent's performance was viewed, the 1997-98 summary evaluation (R-47) signed by the principal and by respondent during May 1998, four months before the events leading to these charges began, is reproduced here in full:

General Comments:

Commendations:

[Respondent] is to be commended for his efforts with the physics team and the Pilot Electronics program. [Respondent's] efforts have brought the pilot program to full time status for next year. [Respondent] is a positive influence on the students of the school.

1997-98 Professional Improvement Plan:

[Respondent] has completed the Professional Improvement Plan for the 1997-98 school year.

1998-99 Professional Improvement Plan:

Explore theory of construction of and application of capacitors and inductors.

In addition and prior to this summary evaluation, respondent's talent as a teacher was recognized when he was selected as the Governor's Teacher Recognition Program recipient from Manchester Regional School District for 1995-1996. (R-26).

There was no further communication from the principal to respondent regarding the complained of Back-to-School night comments until the principal observed and evaluated his teaching performance on October 29, 1998. For the first time since respondent was employed in the district, he was rated as needing improvement in two areas; one, he was rated as needing improvement in motivational techniques and, two, he was rated as needing improvement in final summary of lesson. While the principal testified on rebuttal that he had had a very brief conference with respondent following the evaluation, which respondent denies having occurred, it is more likely that an evaluation conference did not occur. This is so because the principal also testified that in the meeting held after the parental complaints were made following the Back-to-School night he had told respondent everything that had to be said. There is no evidence in this record that any meaningful communication between the principal and respondent occurred following their meeting when the Back-to-School night parent complaints were discussed to the present time.

The principal testified that sometime before February 25, 1999 he had a meeting with student D.C. and her mother for readmission to the cheerleading squad following D.C.'s disciplinary suspension for misconduct. D.C. was then enrolled in respondent's chemistry I class and, by her own admission, was not doing very well. At the end of the meeting, mother told the principal that in response to D.C.'s request to respondent for paper which was located in a cabinet next to respondent's desk, respondent was to have said "Down there, bend at your knees! You're good at that!" The principal testified he advised the mother he would get to the bottom of the matter. D.C. also said that other students have complaints they would make against respondent if someone would listen to them. The principal told D.C. to tell students who had complaints against respondent to come to his office and he would listen to them. D.C. telephoned at least three of her "good" friends that evening and told them what Sinatra had said if they were having problems with respondent. All three classmates D.C. telephoned, R.S., D.S. and D.E., testified against respondent in this proceeding. Indeed, R. S. testified she was with D.S. when D.C. asked her to file a complaint with the principal against respondent. D. S. testified that D.C. had complained to her earlier of respondent and the manner in which he teaches.

On February 25, 1999 seven students, D.C., R.S., D.S., D.E. K.M., J.C., and E.C., in two separate groups, five and two each, voiced complaints to the principal against respondent in the presence of the other students in their group. The principal took handwritten notes (R-80) of their complaints and subsequently reduced the notes to typed, legible form. (P-1) The principal testified he became angry and upset to learn "this", a teacher's conduct as was being alleged, was going on in the high school. He prepared a memorandum (P-2) to respondent on the same day, February 25, 1999, summarizing the complaints of the students, and in which he asserts the complaints were "corroborated." The memorandum concludes:

> You [respondent] have utilized intimidation tactics on your students. They all express a sense of hopelessness, fear and disgust. You have fallen very short of what a teacher is supposed to be.

While the evidence does not show the number of students respondent has assigned him each day, it is clear that not all his students complained of his conduct.

The principal did not send the memorandum to respondent. Instead, he elected to send the memorandum to the superintendent who instructed him on or about the same day, February 25, not to supply respondent with the memorandum because he wanted to contact the Board attorney.

The evidence shows respondent, still not aware of the principal's meeting with the students, requested the guidance office to transfer four pupils, J.W., J.C., F.M., and R.J., from his period three chemistry class because of their refusal to do any work (P-3) J.C. is one of the original complaining students who met with the principal on February 25. Respondent advised the guidance counselor their continuing presence in chemistry, in light of their refusal to do the work, creates an unnecessary hazard. When the principal learned of this request, he met with two of the remaining three students and solicited comments from them regarding respondent. The principal sent the superintendent a memorandum (P-4) summarizing the comments of the three students, in light of respondent's request to guidance to transfer them from his class.

Sometime between February 25 when he met with and listened to the complaints of the two groups of students against respondent and March 8, 1999, the principal determined to have the students reduce their complaints to writing in his office. The principal also advised the parents of the students that they may be present if they so desired. The written statements of the students form specifications to the tenure charges against respondent. However, when the principal requested the students to prepare statements of complaint against respondent, he did not advise them to confine their statements to events of which they may have personal knowledge. Consequently, the record contains hearsay testimony of the students who complained of incidents of which they have no personal knowledge, but were included in their statements because they "heard" about the incident happening, or they were told by another person who learned of the incident from another person. From time-to-time and where appropriate, such hearsay testimony shall be presented.

On March 8, 1999 the following students prepared written statements, each of which shall be discussed in some detail later: D.C. (P-5); K.M., and supplemented by her on March 29, 1999 (P-6); D.S. (P-7); R.S, (P-8); E.C. (P-9); D.E., and supplemented by her on March 29, 1999 (P-10); R.J. (P-11); J.C. (P-12); and, F.M. (P-13). D.S. recalls that all students who testified in this proceeding received copies of all student written complaints against respondent. F.M. described the group of students, R.S., D.C, K.M., and R.S., as a "clique." (3T: 101, 115).

Another statement of complaint (P-14) was taken March 23, 1999 from M.F., not one of the students who complained on February 25 nor one of the students respondent had requested to be transferred from his third period chemistry class. M.F. testified that while in class on March 23, 1999 he was requested by someone in the main office to report to the principal's office where he was given a piece of paper and told to write what he believed respondent was doing wrong in the classroom. (3T:159) He had known that a group of students had earlier complained of respondent because some of the students had discussed in his presence the complaints they made. (3T:168, 169).

When the principal received the foregoing statements from each student, he subsequently submitted them to the superintendent. The superintendent advised respondent in writing (P-18) on March 12, 1999 that because of "a substantial [10] number of students alleging sexual harassment, inappropriate teaching performance and unprofessional conduct" against him, he was being suspended with pay effective March 15, 1999 pending an investigation. The superintendent filed the tenure charges against respondent with the board secretary on April 1, 1999 (P-19) and on April 16, 1999 respondent entered what constitutes a general denial of the charges. (P-20). The Board certified the charges to the Commissioner for determination on May 27, 1999. By notice dated June 29, 1999 respondent was advised that his employment and adjustment increments were being withheld by the Board for substantially the same reasons as are stated in the charges. (P-21) Respondent filed a Verified Petition of Appeal with the Commissioner challenging his increment withholdings.

CHARGES

The charges certified by the Board against respondent are these:

(1) That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by sexually harassing female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(2) That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by sexually harassing female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(3) That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by sexually harassing female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(4) That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(6) That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(7) That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by engaging in inappropriate physical touching and contact with female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(8) That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by displaying a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(10) That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by displaying a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

(11) That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by threatening and/or intimidating students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Sixty typewritten pages of specifications, which allege certain, and specific conduct accompany the 14 charges of unbecoming conduct. The specifications [2] provide notice to respondent of the specifics of the charges certified against him. All the complained of conduct was to have occurred in two separate academic years; 1996-97 and 1998-99. The charges as set out above are, in some measure, repetitive in that substantially the same complained of conduct forms the basis, with noted exception, for charges one through seven, while substantially the same conduct forms the basis for charges eight through twelve.

[2] Testimony of certain witnesses address matters which may, by themselves, constitute specific charges against respondent but are not contained within the specifications. If witnesses assert respondent was to have engaged in certain conduct which are not contained within the specifications, that testimony must be ignored for failure of the Board to have provided notice to respondent of the complained of conduct.

PROOFS OF THE PARTIES

To insure only those charges of which respondent had notice will be considered, the specifications which contain the factual allegations shall be presented for each charge. The proofs offered by the parties with respect to each specification shall be considered and findings, which must be based on a residuum of legally competent evidence, will be entered. After findings are reached on all fact allegations, the arguments of the parties shall be addressed with respect to whether respondent's proven conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher and, if so, the discipline to be imposed.

The students who filed statements of complaint against respondent testified on behalf of the Board. During the course of the proceeding, all witnesses were sequestered upon respondent's motion with the exception of the superintendent and respondent. At the conclusion of the testimony of witnesses, each was cautioned not to discuss their testimony with anyone pending a resolution of the entire matter. That directive was violated by at least one student in the case. K.M. was cautioned at the conclusion of her testimony on May 4, 2000 not to discuss with anyone the testimony she had provided until the case is finished. K.M. responded with the declaration "I promise [I will not];" that is, discuss her testimony with anyone. (4T:93) Four days later, on May 8, 2000, D.C. testified K.M. did discuss with her the testimony she provided which is contrary to the directive issued her and the 'promise' she made. (5T: 49)

Another matter of concern is that the students who filed statements of complaint against respondent and who testified in the matter originally were together when the principal asked them to state the complaints they had. Not only did the students hear the complaints of classmates before they wrote out their individual statements, they had the opportunity between February 22 and March 6, when they wrote out their complaints, to discuss among themselves their individual complaints. Furthermore, all student witnesses against respondent received copies of each other's complaints prior to giving their testimony at hearing. Great caution must, therefore, be used in assessing the credibility of the student witnesses to insure their testimony is based on personal knowledge, and not what they heard other students complaining about.

CHARGE ONE

That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by sexually harassing female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The specifications to this charge allege six separate incidents in which respondent was to have engaged in during the 1996-97 school year. Respondent is alleged to have:

1. made the following remarks to D.C.: a. 'What do you and your boyfriend do when you are alone', and
    b. 'If your mother is pretty you will not have a problem;
2. told K.M. that she would move her seat to the front of the room as she requested if she kissed the boy next to her;
3. asked K.M. in what direction she "pees" because he was curious to know;
4. "repeatedly" stated to females in his physical science classes that they are attractive;
5. "repeatedly" made comments to female students about their "physiques" and he made comments to others on the physiques of certain female students.

The Board also alleges the foregoing remarks made K.M. and D.C. and unnamed others, feel embarrassed, humiliated, and uncomfortable being in respondent's classes, and that D.C., along with other unnamed students, were uneasy about going to him for extra help because they did not want to be alone with him. The Board relies upon the testimony and written complaints of D.C. (P-5) and K.M .(P-6).

The Board's proofs for specification 1 includes the statement (P-5) and testimony of D.C. D.C. is presently 17 years of age. Her statement (P-5) begins with the assertion she is "uneasy about going for extra help because of the following comments made [by respondent]:" D. C. then proceeds to list comments respondent was to have made when he was her teacher in the 1996-97 year for physical science. D.C. testified she made the introductory statement about feeling uneasy going for extra help because she and other students had been discussing the fact the principal wanted to know what was going on in the classroom and how they felt.

The first assertion made by D. C. is that in the 1996-97 year respondent stated 'What do you and you're (sic) boyfriend do when you're alone?'' D.C. testified the statement was made to her by respondent. She testified she considers the subject matter personal of what she and her boyfriend do when alone and she felt uncomfortable when respondent made the statement to her. Respondent testified he recalls a general discussion had occurred in the classroom among students that some do study when they are with their boyfriends/girlfriends. Respondent further recalls that D.C. exclaimed, "You study with your boyfriend?" thereby causing a commotion among the students in class. Respondent acknowledges on direct examination having stated "what do you and your boyfriend do when you're alone." while on cross-examination he claims he responded with "What do you and your boyfriend study when you're alone?" In either case, respondent testified the comment was intended to be rhetorical in an effort to get D.C. back on task.

Based on the testimony of D.C. and respondent, I FIND that respondent made the comment to D.C. as is alleged. However, there is no evidence to show the context in which the comment was made other than respondent's explanation of a general discussion having occurred among students that some do study with their boyfriends or girlfriends.

Next, D. C. writes in her statement (P-5) that in 1996-97 respondent made the general statement to the entire class "If your mother's pretty you won't have a problem." D.C. testified she is of the view such a comment is inappropriate and should not have been said in a classroom. Respondent denies having made this statement to any student. (7T:168) In determining whether respondent made the statement as alleged, testimony of the mother of K.M., which is relevant to, this issue is to be considered. Mrs. M. had a meeting during the 1996-97 year with respondent to discuss some concerns her daughter had with him and which shall be soon discussed. During the meeting, Mrs. M. testified respondent said to her that her daughter was very bright and outgoing, that she was very pretty, and that he can see where her daughter gets her good looks from. Respondent denies making the statement to Mrs. M.

Based on the believable testimony of D.C., respondent, and the testimony of Mrs. M, I FIND that more likely than not respondent did make the general statement that 'if your mother's pretty you won't have a problem.'

The next factual allegation to Charge One addresses allegations made by K.M., who was a student in respondent's physical science class during 1996-97 and in his chemistry class during 1998-99. She is presently 18 years of age. With respect to 1996-97, K.M., who did well in respondent's class that year, writes in her statement (P-6):

> . . . [Respondent] was teaching a lesson, and during the lesson he asked me what direction I 'pee' in. I didn't understand why he needed this information so I questioned it, and he replied that he was just curious. I then replied that I didn't think he needed to know. On a later date, I was placed in the back of the room & when I asked to be moved to the front he told me he would only move my seat if I kissed the boy next to me. When I asked why, he said that he wanted me to. I kept my seat the same.

K.M. testified that the question regarding "pee" occurred during a physical science lesson on friction. Respondent, I infer, was demonstrating the principle that for every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. K.M. explained the class was discussing standing on a patch of ice and how to get off the ice. She said respondent had stated one could make a movement in one direction in order to go in the opposite direction, such as breathing, coughing, sneezing, "and then he said peeing." (4T:12) K.M. testified no one understood the principle and presumably students had questions, although she understood the concept. At that point, respondent was to have turned to her and asked in which direction she 'pees' in. Despite insisting she would not have put the word 'pee' in quotes in her statement unless she heard respondent use that term, K.M. subsequently testified on cross-examination respondent may well have used the term "urinate" as opposed to 'pee.' (4T:40-41) In either case, K.M. testified she did not understand why respondent would put the question to her because she fully understood the concept he was trying to explain to the class.

In support of this charge, the Board also relies upon the testimony of E.C., who is presently 17 years of age and had respondent as a teacher in 1996-97 for physical science and again in 1998-99 for chemistry, prepared a statement (P-9) of complaint against respondent at the request of the principal. While E.C.'s written complaints are limited to the 1998-99 year, he did testify he recalls the incident of the friction lesson. However, his recollection is unclear whether the term 'urinate' or

'pee' was used and he does not recall any question being put to K.M. regarding the direction of either term. (3T:92)

Respondent acknowledges the lesson being taught in the manner described by K.M. including his use of the term 'urination', but not 'pee.' He denies, however, directing any question to K.M. regarding urination or the direction thereof. Respondent says his use of the term "urination" was part and parcel of his explanation to the entire class, along with breathing, coughing, sneezing, of how one can use friction to cause motion.

K.M. testified with respect to respondent's alleged statement he would change her seat to the front of the room if she kissed the boy next to her that she has a reputation among her classmates as a: jokester, as one who is talkative, not bashful, and that her seat had been changed by respondent in the first place because she would talk to those around her despite being told by respondent to stop talking during class. (4T:43-44) She had been originally sitting next to her friends. After respondent had changed her seat, she continually asked him to change it back. because she was then sitting next to R. B., with whom she did not get along. K.M. testified she remained in the seat from which she repeatedly asked to have changed because she would not kiss the boy, R.B., who sat next to her. K.M. also testified she has vision problems and her vision correcting contacts "get bad" in inclement weather. K.M. testified that occasionally she could not see the chalkboard. When respondent would not change her seat unless she kissed the boy next to her she testified she was embarrassed and offended because everyone laughed at her thinking it was funny. K.M. did not think the matter was funny.

Curiously, K.M. testified respondent was one of her favorite teachers because he conducted a "laid back" class, except in her view he went too far with his comments. (4T:89) Indeed, K.M. testified she did go to respondent for extra help before school started in the morning and though she would be alone with him during that time he never made her feel uncomfortable. (4T:86)

K.M.'s mother, Mrs. M., testified K.M. told her of the 'pee' incident and that respondent would change her seat only if she kissed the boy next to her, in addition to other statements respondent was to have uttered that made her feel uncomfortable in class with him. The other matters are not part of this specification and shall not be considered here.

Upon learning of the 'pee' incident as was described to her by K.M., Mrs. M. demanded a meeting with respondent which was conducted in the presence of K.M.'s guidance counselor. This meeting occurred four years ago. (4T:111) Mrs. M., in the presence of the guidance counselor, told respondent his comments regarding the 'pee' issue, and the changing of the seat, made her daughter feel uncomfortable in his class and she, Mrs. M., felt his comments were inappropriate for a teacher to make in a classroom. Furthermore, Mrs. M. told respondent K.M. uses contact lenses and has a difficult time seeing distances. According to the testimony of Mrs. M., the guidance counselor told her he would take the concerns she expressed during the meeting to the principal. It is noted that the guidance counselor who attended this meeting four years ago left the Board's employ at the end of that year, 1996-97. Mrs. M. testified that after the meeting, her daughter would tell her that in class when respondent would make some comment he would add "Oh, I can't say that or K's mother will come in and yell at me again, or K's mother will come back and we'll have to have another conference." (4T:102)

Respondent testified that at the beginning of each year, he allows his students to select where in the classroom they choose to sit. So long as the student behaves and does his/her work, their choice of seats remain for the semester. Respondent testified he did change K.M.'s seat because of continued talking after repeated warnings from him to stop. Consequently, respondent did change K.M.'s seat to the middle of the room. K.M. did not complain to him she could not see from her changed seat, although she persisted in asking for her seat to be changed. He does acknowledge that there came a time when he told her he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her. Respondent seems to say that one of the reasons he changed her seat was because she had been bickering with another student. He testified that when "she wanted to move back . . . I suspected it was to start the thing up again. And that's why I said only if she kissed that particular boy." (7T:170) Respondent says he did not expect K.M. to kiss the boy, which she did not, but he made the statement to get her attention back to the task at hand.

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding this portion of Charge One, I FIND that respondent did state as a general proposition in the context of a physical science lesson on friction that the direction in which one urinates may have an effect on the direction of movement. There is no persuasive evidence the comment was specifically addressed to K.M. I also FIND as fact respondent told K.M. he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her, but in the context of her having been bickering with that student. I further FIND that K.M.'s guidance counselor had knowledge in 1996-97 of both incidents, and I FIND Mrs. M. had no further contact with respondent over the manner in which he spoke to her daughter after having the conference with him in 1996-97.

Specifications four and five shall be considered together. They allege respondent repeatedly stated to certain female students enrolled in his physical science classes during 1996-97 and in the presence of others that they were "attractive" or made comments regarding their "physiques." The Board offered limited direct evidence of respondent having engaged in such alleged conduct during the precise year of 1996-97. K.M. wrote in her statement (P-6) that during 1996-97 "I have seen [respondent] tell my fellow classmates that they were attractive and comment on their bodies." At hearing, K.M. testified respondent talked of students being cute in class or that certain students got a particular grade because they were cute. K.M. also testified respondent never made comments regarding a female's breasts, nor any other part of the female anatomy. (4T:89) On cross-examination, she testified that respondent also told boys and girls they looked nice or attractive when they came to school "dressed up."

Respondent denies telling any student in 1996-97 they were attractive in any inappropriate manner, and he denies making any comments on their physiques or their bodies. (7T:175) Respondent testified he does comment on how well a student, male or female, looks if they appear in school dressed up for college or job interviews, a basketball game, or for some other reason requiring them to be dressed up. Respondent says no student ever complained to him that they were offended by any such comment. (7T:135)

I FIND the Board established the truth of the specification that respondent did tell students they looked nice or attractive when they appeared in school dressed up.

CHARGE TWO

presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The Board's specifications to Charge Two state that during 1998-99 respondent:

1. inappropriately touched female students, held their hands, and stood too close in proximity to them;

2. grabbed and held the hands of J.G.;

3. made the following comments to D.C. :
   (a) 'take off your sweater if you are hot, you can wear whatever you want in my room;'
   (b) replied to D.C.'s request for paper. 'Down there, bend at your knees, you are good at that;'
   (c) 'there are a lot of pretty girls in this room, and we all know about the pretty girls;'

4. made the following comments to R.S., one of his students in chemistry:
   (a) that she could sit in the class with her tank top' in response to her complaint that the classroom was hot;
   (b) that he overheard male students in another class comment that 'his class had very good looking girls and that she[R.S.] was one of them;'

5. told K.M. that she was wearing a colored bra under her white t-shirt and remarked 'Nice Bra;'

6. asked E.A., another one of his chemistry students, after having returned from a school-related trip whether she had 'hickeys.'

7. Stated to certain female students in his chemistry class that their 'shirts are too tight,' that they 'should not wear colored bras under white shirts,' and that he 'likes girls in tight black pants;'

8 told certain females students in his chemistry classes, in the presence of others, that they were 'attractive;'

9. repeatedly made comments directly to female students in his chemistry classes about their physiques and made comments to others about the physiques of certain female students;

10. told K.M. she was 'cute' and that her classmate was not and therefore K.M. was allowed to use the bathroom while the other student was not; and

11. told K.M. and he laboratory partner that they received higher marks than another set of students since they 'look nicer.'

The Board asserts the foregoing remarks made K.M., D.C., R.S., J.G., and E.A. and unnamed others, feel embarrassed and humiliated and uncomfortable being in respondent's classes, and that D.C., along with other unnamed students, were uneasy about going to him for extra help because they did not want to be alone with him. In support of this charge, the Board relies upon the testimony and written complaints of D.C. (P-5), K.M.(P-6), D.S. (P-7), R.S. (P-8), E.C. (P-9), and D.E. (P-11).

Specification 1 alleges inappropriate touching of females, holding hands with females, and standing too close in proximity to them. The Board's proofs with respect to the inappropriate touching of females consists of the statement (P-6) and testimony of K.M. In her statement, K.M. writes, "[Respondent] often put his arms around students & would lean over and touch your arm. He made me feel uncomfortable when he touched me because of the comments he had made." K.M. testified that when she would ask him for help during class, he would come to her desk and put his arm around her. K.M. says that when he put his arm around her or "stand really close to me", she wondered if that "was like the next step." In response to the question of the next step for what, K.M. testified she did not know. (4T:20-21) On cross-examination K.M. testified that only on one occasion did respondent touch her arm and the touching occurred between her elbow and her shoulder. K.M. also testified on cross-examination respondent "never put his arm around me" K.M. also testified she only saw one female, E.A., with their arms around respondent and that was because E.A. and respondent were good friends. (4T:73-76)

This same specification alleges respondent improperly held females hands. This part of the allegation is repetitive to specification 2 which shall be addressed shortly.

R.S., who filed a statement of complaint (P-8) with the principal against respondent, is presently 17 years of age. She had respondent for chemistry in 1998-99. R.S. testified she had no concerns about respondent "invading [her] personal space." (2T: 96) D.C. also testified respondent never "invaded her personal space." (5T:20) The only evidence this trier of fact can locate regarding the Board's proofs that respondent stood too close in proximity to females is that portion of K.M.'s testimony when she declared respondent would stand really close to her in the context of touching her arm. But, if K.M.'s testimony is accurate that respondent only touched her arm one time then he stood too close to her only one time.

Respondent denies ever placing his arm around K.M. Respondent says the only time he may touch a student is on a shoulder when he is walking behind them during lab to let them know he is there, or when he is teaching a particular technique with laboratory equipment and hands must be wrapped around an instrument, or when students are working on problems at their seats and he would touch them in an incidental manner on the arm if their work is correct. (7T:125) However, no student ever complained to him that he/she felt he touched them in an inappropriate manner.

Findings of fact on specification 1 will be entered after having considered the related allegation in the next specification which addresses the grabbing and holding of J.G.'s hands.

Specification 2 is specific to the student identified as J.G., who did not file a written statement against respondent nor did she testify on behalf of the Board against him. Rather, this charge emerges as the result of a supplemental statement (P-10) prepared by one student, D.E. D.E. wrote in her statement that one day she observed another student, J.G., walking past respondent in the corridor. She observed the student poke respondent in the stomach. Respondent held out his hand, D.E. writes, and they held each other's hand while they talked. D.C. concludes the writing by asserting respondent had said if "we" complain to the principal, the principal will make it hard for them. At hearing and in response to the question of why she, D.E., would include such an incident in a statement of complaint against respondent, she replied "I don't think teachers should be doing that with students, like holding hands with them." (5T-72) D.E. was not asked about the circumstances in which respondent was to have stated that complaining to the principal would only make it hard on them.

Though not established in this record by independent evidence, it is reasonable to infer D.E. told R.S. and K.M. of what she describes above because both R.S. and K.M. include this incident in their respective statements of complaint against respondent.

It is noted that R.S. testified she, did not feel comfortable going to respondent for extra help because of ". . . things that I would hear of like what he had said to me." Asked to explain, R.S. testified, "I don't know who said it, but one girls (sic) said that he was holding a girl's hand." (2T:91) K.M. also testified she too was uncomfortable because she "heard" respondent had held J.G.'s hand, and she complained of the incident only because ". . . a lot of people had been talking about it and they had said that there was a time when he had gone up to a student and they were holding hands and they had their arms around each other." (4T:21-22) K. M. acknowledges she did not witness such an event; rather, she 'heard' about it from 'other people.' (4T:77) But, K.M. did include this allegation in her statement of complaint to the principal, who with the superintendent used the statement as the basis for tenure charges against respondent.

Respondent's testimony regarding the factual account of what occurred is essentially the same as that of D.E. Respondent explained he recalls walking down the hallway and coming upon J.G. He testified he held up his hand for a "high-five" and she poked him in the stomach and grabbed his hand and held it for perhaps 10 or 20 seconds while they talked. J.G. never complained about the handholding or that it made her feel uncomfortable. Respondent testified he had no knowledge anyone had observed the incident, nor did anyone complain to him about having observed the incident.

To the extent the Board alleges in specification 2 that respondent 'grabbed and held the hands of J.G.', I FIND the Board's competent credible proofs show only that respondent and J.G. did hold hands in a mutually voluntary manner while passing each other in the corridor. To the extent the Board relies upon hearsay to prove the truth of the charges, the effort is in vain. To the extent the Board's allegation that respondent 'grabbed' J.G.'s hand is intended to show J.G. was not a voluntary party to the entire transaction and that the incident was somehow an assault on her by respondent, that allegation is not supported by the evidence. Finally, I FIND the Board failed to establish that respondent warned anyone against complaining to the principal regarding this incident.

In regard to specification 1 which relies on the findings in specification 2, I specifically FIND the Board failed in its proofs to show respondent inappropriately touched female students; I FIND the Board failed to establish respondent inappropriately held hands with females; and, I FIND the Board failed to establish respondent inappropriately stood too close in proximity to females.

The Board's proofs regarding Charge Two, specification 3 (a) will be considered in conjunction with specification 4 (a) because they allege, in fact, the same conduct but seen from the perspective of two different students - D.C. and R.S. D.C. writes in her statement (P-5) that respondent stated 'Take off your sweater if you're hot [and] you can wear whatever you want in my room.' D.C. testified the statement was not made to her; it was made to R.S. (5T:9, 30) D.C. testified she does not recall the circumstances in which the statement was made, nor the time of the 1998-99 year in which it was made, although she does recall R.S. was wearing a button down sweater with a "spaghetti strap tank top" under it. D.C. explained she included the statement in her complaint against respondent because, in her view, the comment is inappropriate and a teacher should not have made such a comment. (5T:12, 31) I FIND the Board failed to prove the truth of specification 3 (a) on the testimony of its own witness, D.C., who made it very clear respondent did not make such a statement to her.

With respect to specification 4 (a), R.S. and D.C. are friends. (5T:22, 23) R.S. admits not liking science because she does not do well in the subject. (2T:91) R.S. filed her own statement (P-8) of complaint against respondent with the principal in which she writes respondent "told me I could sit in class with my tank top, when I mentioned the room was hot." R.S.'s testimony regarding the circumstances in which the comment was to have been made is as follows:

Q Okay. In reading the first sentence in P-8, can you tell me the circumstances in which the facts in that statement took place?

A We were in class. I wanted to ta -- I said the class was -- it was hot in there. So I -- had like a sweater with a tank top underneath.

Q Uh-huh. And what happened with regard to you wearing the sweater and the tank top. What did [respondent] say to you in conjunction with what you were wearing?

A Well, I just mentioned that the classroom was hot and he said that I could take off my sweater if I wanted to.

THE COURT: He said what, I'm sorry?

THE WITNESS: That I could take off my sweater.

THE COURT: Okay

BY MR. HARA:

Q Now, what were you wearing under your sweater?

A A tank top

Q Now –

A It's a sleeveless –

Q Okay. What was your understanding as to your ability to wear a tank top in class?

A Well, we're not supposed to really wear tank tops in school.

Q What was your interpretation of the statement [respondent] made to you at the time?

A It felt a little uncomfortable, because we're not supposed to wear them in school. He was allowing me to wear one.

Q Now, why did you feel uncomfortable with [respondent] telling you that you could wear the tank top?

THE COURT: I'm sorry.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: I can't hear you.

THE WITNESS: Oh. You don't really expect it from a teacher.

BY MR. HARA:

Q I don't understand what you mean by that. Can you explain it, please?

A Because you're not allowed to wear it in school, so you would expect him to tell you that you can't wear it.

R.S. testified the classrooms are either "cold or hot" ((2T:119) and that this incident occurred in October. She knew that the wearing of tank tops by students was prohibited by the student dress code, which is contained within the student handbook. The incident occurred at the beginning of class while respondent was in the front of the classroom. This is the only time such an incident occurred.

K.M., though not mentioned by the Board in the specific charges addressing 'tank tops', testified on cross-examination regarding the warmth of the classroom that respondent would from time-to-time directly tell a female student who was warm that she could remain in the classroom with just a tank top on. K.M. testified that was not ever said to her, and the Board produced no students who testified that that was ever said directly to them. (4T:49)

D.S., a student in third period chemistry when she was a junior in 1998-99, filed a statement of complaint (P-7) against respondent with the principal in which she alleges, among other things, that respondent tells students that they may remove their shirts if they are hot. While D.S. says respondent never directed such a comment to her, she did hear him make that comment to R.S. (2T:154) In the whole of R.S.'s testimony (2T:81-142) not once is the word "shirt" mentioned in the context of respondent telling her she may remove her 'shirt' if she is hot.

Nevertheless, the Board relies on the testimony of D.S. to form the basis for a separate charge of misconduct against respondent in specification 14 of Charge Three which will be addressed soon.

Respondent testified that classrooms in the building have varying temperatures; some are very warm, while others are very cold. Teachers do not have access to individual room temperature control. Respondent testified some students report to school either overdressed for the temperature of a given room or underdressed, depending upon the room temperature on a given day. On this particular occasion, his class was just about ready to begin when R.S. made the comment she was hot. In response, respondent explains he told her she may take off her sweater. Respondent testified he had not noticed whether she took her sweater off, and he does not know whether she had a tank top on underneath the sweater. Respondent, nevertheless, testified he would not tell R.S. to take off her sweater without regard to whether she had another garment on underneath; he made the assumption she did have another garment underneath. (8T: 115-116)

I FIND the evidence shows that respondent did tell R.S. she may remove her sweater but in the context that she voiced the complaint she was hot. The evidence does not support a finding that respondent's statement to R.S. that she may remove her sweater, included that she could sit in class with a tank top notwithstanding the testimony of K.M.. But, the Board alleged in this specification that respondent told R.S. she could sit in the class with her tank top, not that he told her she may remove her sweater. I specifically FIND the proofs do not support the allegation that respondent told R.S. she could sit in his class with her 'tank top.'

If the Board intended to show that respondent was encouraging R.S. to specifically violate its student dress code, the evidence does not support such a finding. Respondent did not know what garment R.S. had on underneath the sweater, but because she knew the contents of the dress code with which she was obligated to comply, it was reasonable for him to infer she had an appropriate garment on underneath her sweater.

Having reached this finding independently based on the evidence presented by the parties, it is noted that the Board quotes R.S. as having testified that respondent directed her to 'take off her sweater if you are hot. You can wear whatever you want in my classroom.' and cites 2T:88, lines 1-3. (Board's brief, p.14) I can find no testimony of R.S. either on direct or cross-examination that supports the Board's assertion respondent ever said to R.S. she can wear whatever she wants in his classroom.

The Board's proofs with respect to specification 3 (b) rests on the testimony of D.C. In her written statement (P-5) D.C. writes "I asked him for paper and his response was 'Down there, bend at your knees, you're good at that. Make sure you don't hurt yourself.'" D.C. testified on direct examination that when the comment was made to her she felt uncomfortable because it was inappropriate, she was awkward and was shocked that a teacher would say that to her. (5T:12-13) On cross-examination, D.C. testified respondent kept paper for classroom use in a drawer at the bottom of, or adjacent to, a lab-lecture table which, it seems, respondent uses as a desk as well. (See, R-11(iv)) To retrieve paper from the drawer, one had to bend down to pull the drawer out to access the paper. While D.C. recalls the comment respondent was to have made, she has no recall of when the incident occurred or the reason why she had asked for the paper in the first place. (5T:35-36)

Respondent testified he had been sitting behind the lecture table and the students were beginning their work. D.C. approached and asked if she could get some paper. Respondent testified his response was:

> I said sure. And I said it's down in the bottom drawer. Bend at the knees, use your back 'cause it's a heavy drawer and that's what I say to everybody so they don't hurt themselves and that's what I say to everybody so they don't hurt themselves and > that's what she did. I assume I didn't watch her the whole way down. I guess she got the paper and went back to her seat.

Respondent testified that D.C. did not object at the time to anything he had said nor did she through her demeanor register discomfort by the exchange as he describes.

This is the sum and substance of the proofs offered by the parties in support of this specification. D.C. says respondent included the phrase 'you're good at that' meaning bending at her knees, while respondent acknowledges having said essentially everything alleged but that phrase. With the exception of D.C.'s testimony that she felt uncomfortable, was shocked and felt awkward because in her view a teacher should not make such an inappropriate comment, there is no persuasive evidence to show even if the phrase were said what was intended by it.

It is recognized that the principal and superintendent had already determined based on the written statements of the complaining students that respondent did engage in all of the complained of conduct. With respect to this specification, the principal testified the alleged comment, which he obviously believes is true without even having discussed the matter with respondent, constitutes a "smack" to D.C.'s reputation because of the "connotation" of the words. (1T:79) The principal says the phrase has sexual overtones. The superintendent, who is also of the view respondent engaged in the conduct alleged by the students in their written statements, testified the use of the phrase was uncalled for in the situation because D.C. was asking for paper, she knew where the paper was, and she knew she had to bend to get it. (5T:106) But neither the principal's nor superintendent's testimony is competent evidence on the issue of whether respondent used the phrase as is alleged.

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding specification 3(b), I FIND the evidence offered does not support the allegation that respondent stated 'You are good at that' as part of his response to D.C.'s request for paper.

The Board's proofs with respect to specification 3 (c) consists of the testimony of D.C. In her statement (P-5), D.C. writes that respondent commented during the 1998-99 year 'There are a lot of pretty girls in this room, and we all know about the pretty girls.' D.C. testified that the comment was made to the class as a whole and while she did not understand what he meant, it made her feel uncomfortable. D.C. cannot recall when the statement was made other than sometime in 1998-99. (5T:13, 37)

Respondent denies making the comment as is alleged by D.C. (7T:129)

I FIND the Board failed to prove by a preponderance of credible evidence the truth of the allegations contained within specification 3 (c).

Specification 4(a) has already been addressed. The proofs offered in support of specification 4(b) consists of the written statement and testimony of R.S. R.S. wrote in her statement (P-8):

While I was asking for work I had to make up, he [respondent] asked me if I was the type of person who like to know things even if I couldn't know who said them. I answered yes, so then he told me that he overheard kids [commenting] that his class had very good-looking girls and that I was one of them.

R.S. testified that she was a little shocked at what respondent said and she felt uncomfortable because she does not expect a teacher to say something like that. R.S. also testified that as a result of this comment, and other comments she heard about such as respondent holding a girl's hand, as already recited above in specification 2 of this Charge; she was reluctant to go to respondent for extra help.

Respondent testified that on this particular occasion, he did tell R.S. that someone thinks she is very attractive. R.S. wanted to know who said that, but respondent would not tell her because of a prior agreement between the two that if he told her what was said, she would not persist in knowing the identity of the speaker. At hearing, respondent identified the speaker as a colleague, Ms. Eva Yazidian, who teaches biology at the high school. (7T:131) Respondent testified that at the time he told R.S. what was said, R.S. did not complain to him of feeling uncomfortable, nor did her demeanor change in any way to show discomfort. (7T:132)

I FIND based on a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent made the comment as alleged by R.S.

Specification 5 alleges respondent remarked 'Nice Bra' to K.M. regarding the bra she was wearing under a white t-shirt. The Board in its filed Brief describes the outer garment K.M. was wearing as a "translucent white shirt." (Board's Brief, p.16) In the statement K.M. filed March 8, 1999 she made no mention of this specific allegation against respondent. She did include this complaint in her supplement on March 29, 1999 to the original statement and after it became known among students of the complaints being filed with the principal against respondent. K.M. testified she had just returned from gym where her shirt became soiled. She changed to a white shirt and acknowledged wearing a colored bra. K.M. testified the colored bra was visible through the white shirt she had on. Respondent said to her "nice bra' and asked if that was a fashionable thing to wear a colored bra under a white shirt. K.M. testified she felt uncomfortable with respondent's comments because she was embarrassed and felt "really weird about it." (4T:19-20)

Respondent denies having made any statement to K.M. regarding 'nice bra' or words to that effect, or making any comments about wearing a colored bra under a white shirt. (7T:133) However, on cross -examination respondent testified in the following manner:

Q [Respondent], did you ever comment to any student about their bras?

A No.

Q And why would you not comment about a student's bra?

A Because I -- I wouldn't.

Q Why?

A I don't' think there would be a need to.

Q It's not appropriate to talk about a student's bra, isn't that correct?

A Probably not.

Q You say probably not. Is it or is it not appropriate to talk about a student's bra?

A Well, I have seen in the course of my teaching girls adjusting their bras in class. I wouldn't -- I wouldn't bring it up, but they might say excuse me, or do something like that. And I don't bring it up, but it's -- and I don't talk about it. But --

Q So, my question to you is, do you feel it would be inappropriate for you –

> [Here follows a direction to go back over the line of questioning, which is followed by the witness testifying thusly:]
>
> A -- people might giggle or she might say I just have to make an -- she did say I have to make an adjustment. And I -- the topic was brought up by a student, but I didn't view that incident as inappropriate, yet it was talked about a bra. I said nothing about it.
> (8T:124-125)

The preceding exchange was to the clear question whether it is appropriate for a teacher to talk about a student's bra. Having reviewed respondent's reply on cross-examination, I am struck by respondent's apparent reluctance to answer the question in as clear a manner as it was posed. Respondent's answer on cross-examination belies his denial on direct examination that he did not comment to K.M. 'nice bra' and / or it that fashionable to wear a colored bra under a white shirt.

I FIND the Board established the truth of the allegation contained within specification 5 in that respondent made the remark to K.M 'Nice Bra' and made the comment regarding whether it was fashionable to wear a colored bra under a white shirt.

The Board with respect to specification 6 alleges respondent asked E.A. whether she had 'hickeys.' The Board relies on the testimony of K.M. who wrote in her supplemental statement (P-6) on March 29, 1998, and I infer after having discussed with other students the complaints they made against respondent, that he had asked a student, E.A., if she returned from a school related trip with 'hickeys.' K.M. also wrote that E.A. immediately told respondent she was 'insulted' by the question.

At hearing K.M. testified E.A. had just returned from a trip to Washington, D.C. where K.M. says she attended a conference. K.M. testified she heard respondent ask her if she had met any "guys." K.M. continues her testimony in this manner:

> . . . And she was like -- she replied that yes, there had been a lot of males there, and he had asked her if she had hickeys that we couldn't see under her clothing. And she said to him that she was offended. She said I'm offended by that. And he said, well -- well, come on. We all know what happens when a group of teenagers get together, you must have some hickeys, and nobody really said anything because nobody knew what to say.

At this point, it is recalled K.M. had earlier testified regarding Charge One, specification 3, that she would not use quotes around a word unless she actually heard the word spoken. The credibility of that testimony, however, was diminished when she subsequently testified that the word she then had in quotes, 'pee', may not have been the actual word used by respondent. So, too, here. K.M. placed the word 'insulted' in quotation marks in her written statement intending to convey she heard that word used. But, K.M. testified E.A. told respondent she was 'offended' by reference to 'hickeys.' (4T:78) K.M. is also the student whom D.C. testified discussed the testimony she had provided after having been directed, and after having stating 'I promise', not to discuss testimony provided until the conclusion of the case which also tends to lessen the credibility of K.M.

Moreover, E.A., who is the subject student of this specification but not one of the complaining students against respondent, testified that while some comment, which she cannot precisely recall, about 'hickeys' was made to her by respondent upon her return from a trip to Syracuse, she did not feel offended in any manner and that as far as she was concerned it was a joke that was laughed off and class continued. E.A. specifically testified she did not say nor did she tell K.M. she was 'insulted' by the comment. (7T:24)

Respondent testified that E.A. had been on several trips and upon her return they would discuss what occurred. Respondent explained that E.A. had on one or more occasions made mention of the fact that some students who were on the trip were not serious about the purpose of the trip. On this particular occasion, respondent testified E.A. made reference to the trip during a general class conversation and he asked her whether she was serious about the trip's purpose. When E.A. responded in the affirmative that she was serious, he then said to her "[S]o, you didn't give your boyfriend any hickeys." According to respondent, E.A. laughed, said "No', and the class went on. (7T:133-134)

I FIND the Board failed to establish by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent asked E.A. whether she had 'hickeys'; the proofs do establish that respondent asked E.A. whether she had given her boyfriend 'hickeys' in the context as described by E.A. and by respondent.

The Board offered no evidence in support of the allegations contained within specification 7 regarding the comments attributed to respondent directed at female students including 'shirts are too tight', 'should not wear colored bras under white shirts,' and ' likes girls in tight black pants.'

Accordingly, I FIND the Board failed to prove the truth of the allegations contained within specification 7 of Charge Two.

Specifications 8, 9, 10, and 11 shall be considered together because the factual allegations contained in each are similar. The allegations include that during 1998-99, respondent was to have told certain females in his chemistry classes in the presence of others that they were 'attractive,' that he repeatedly made comments directly to female students in his chemistry classes about their physiques and comments to others about the physiques of certain female students, that he was to have told K.M. she was 'cute,' and that he was to have told K.M. she and her lab partner received higher grades than others because they 'look nice.'

The Board relies upon the written statement (P-8) of R.S., and her testimony, to establish respondent told certain females in his chemistry classes during 1998-99 they were attractive. The statement and the testimony of R.S. has already been recited for Charge Two, specification 4 (b) above.

The Board also relies upon the supplemented written statement (P-6), and testimony of K.M to support the allegations in this specification. K.M. writes in her statement that:

> I have seen [respondent] tell my fellow classmates that they were attractive and comment on their bodies. He also chooses people because of their looks & discriminates on those whom he doesn't consider 'cute.' He once told me that because I was 'cute' and a classmate was not that I could use the bathroom, and my classmate couldn't. Another time my lab partner & I received (sic) better grades on the exact same lab as another set of students. [Respondent] told us that even though the labs were the same we received (sic) a higher mark because we 'looked' nicer. (P-6)

Recall that it was earlier reported in discussing specifications 4 and 5 to Charge One that K.M. testified respondent never made comments regarding a female's breasts, nor any other part of their anatomy. For whatever reason, the Board relies on the same evidence for proof of this alleged conduct. K.M. testified regarding respondent's alleged comments on students being 'attractive' and making comments on their bodies as follows:

> . . . I had continually seen him talk about people being cute in class. We -- we would have discussions where he would say, well, I gave this person this grade because they're cute, or look at him, he's cute, or look at her, she's cute. (4T:14)

K.M. testified that respondent would tend to use the word 'cute' when male and female students came to school dressed up for visits to other schools and on other occasions. (4T:50-51)

Regarding the use of the bathroom, K.M. testified that on one occasion respondent denied the request of a male student, identified as M.T. but not a complaining student nor was he called to testify, to use the bathroom even though, K.M. says, it was an emergency. Minutes later, K.M.'s request to use the bathroom was granted by respondent because, K.M. testified, respondent said she was cute. K.M. testified she was a little bit offended by the incident because she felt badly for the other male student and no other teacher ever said anything to her like that. (4T:15-16) K.M. acknowledges the school policy to be students are not allowed the use of bathroom facilities during the first or last 10 minutes of class. K.M. also acknowledges the male student requested to use the bathroom within the first 10 minutes of class. She also adds that she made her request in the first 10 minutes of class as well. (4T:52) K.M. also testified the male student repeatedly asked respondent how come she, K.M., could go to the bathroom but he could not before respondent uttered the 'cute' comment. (4T:55)

K.M. testified that respondent gave her and her lab partner a higher grade than that received by another lab pairing of students who did the same lab and were in K.M.'s group because they "were so cute." (4T:17) K.M.'s statement recited above reads that respondent said she and her partner got a better grade because they 'looked nicer.' In either case, K.M. testified she was embarrassed by respondent's comment. K.M. testified on cross-examination that there were four students in her group, divided into two teams. But, when the group began preparing their individual reports for submission the four sat together and hand wrote their individual reports. In K.M.'s view, neatness did not count towards their grade. (See, generally, 4T:59-64)

The Board also relies upon the statement (P-7) and testimony of D.S., who was in respondent's third period chemistry class during 1998-99 when she was 17 years of age. D.S. wrote to the principal in her statement of complaint bout respondent that, "He says that other students are prettier than others." (P-7) D.S. also writes of respondent, though not included as a separate specification by the Board, that, "Sometimes he will just throw in perverted comment[s] but it's like you have to catch them as he says them." (Id.)

R.S. testified that she felt it important to include respondent's alleged comment that some students are prettier than others because it is not fair whether one is prettier than the others, and if the comment were directed at her in the sense someone else was prettier than she, it would hurt her feelings. Although she testified she knows respondent engaged in the conduct of which she complains, she cannot recall precisely what it is he said, or when it was said, nor to whom it was o have been said. (2T:156-157; 182) R.S. did not identify the 'perverted' comments respondent was to have said, nor did she include an explanation of the comments in her statement because she did not think she had to. (2T:166)

It is noted that to the extent the Board relies upon the testimony and statement (P-5) of D.C. to show respondent made comments on female students being 'cute' as is alleged here, or being 'pretty' as is alleged in part in Charge Two, specification 3(c) above, the finding was already entered that neither her statement nor testimony, individually or combined, was persuasive to establish the truth of specification 3(c) of Charge Two. The same statement and testimony of D.C. upon which a finding has already been entered will not be reconsidered here.

It is also noted the Board produced no evidence in support of its allegation that respondent made comments regarding the physiques of female pupils. This finding has already been entered on Charge One, specification 5, for 1996-97 and the same holds true for the allegations against respondent which were to have occurred in 1998-99.

Respondent testified he does comment on how well a student, male or female, looks if they appear in school dressed up for college or job interviews, a basketball game, or for some other reason requiring them to be dressed up. Respondent says no student ever complained to him that they were offended by any such comment. (7T:135) He acknowledges having said that K.M. she was cute in the context of allowing her to go to the bathroom when he did not allow the male, M.T., to go to the bathroom. (7T:136) Respondent testified that M.T. had been pestering from the time the bell rang for class to start to go to the bathroom, despite knowing the school rules prohibiting bathroom use during the first 10 minutes of class. The more M.T. pestered, the more he would say no. Eventually, K.M. asked to use the bathroom and he granted her permission. When M.T. inquired why she was allowed to go to the bathroom and he was not, respondent testified he said, "she's cute and you aren't." (Id.)

Respondent denies ever having assigned K.M. and her partner a higher grade on a lab report than two other members of her group for identical work and he denies K.M. ever asking him about her grade in this context. Respondent states that if the reports were identical, more likely than not he would have assigned zeros because identical reports would indicate copying to him. The reports are to be the individual efforts of the students. If K.M. and her partner received a higher grade than the other two lab partners, it could be because their report was done neatly or that they, the reports, looked 'nicer'; not that K.M. and her lab partner looked 'nicer.'

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding specifications 8, 9, 10, and 11, I FIND the Board carried that part of its burden on specifications 8 and 10 to show respondent did tell female and male students in his chemistry classes they were 'attractive' when they appeared in school dressed up. The proofs are sufficient, I FIND, to show respondent did tell M.T. that he allowed K.M. to use the bathroom because she is 'cute' and that he was not. The Board's proofs regarding the remaining allegations are insufficient to show that respondent engaged in the complained of conduct. The Board presented no proofs regarding comments allegedly made by respondent concerning the physiques of females and it did not produce the testimony of the students who were to have received a lesser grade than K.M. and her partner on a lab report because they 'look nicer.' Consequently, I FIND as fact that respondent did tell students of both genders they look nice or attractive when they appeared in school dressed up and that he told M.T. he allowed K.M. to use the bathroom because she is 'cute' and he was not. I further FIND the Board's proofs are otherwise insufficient to establish the truth of the allegations in specifications 9 and 11.

CHARGE THREE

That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited a pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by sexually harassing female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

In certifying Charge Three as a separate charge, the Board merely combined Charges One and Two, along with the respective specifications, in order to arrive at the separate Charge Three that the alleged conduct occurred in the 1996-97 AND 1998-99 years. The proofs offered by the Board are identical as were offered in Charges One and Two, and the findings and discussion on the proofs would be identical. There is no need to repeat the same proofs in order to arrive at the same findings of fact already entered.

It is noted that the first three Charges allege the complained of conduct constitutes harassment and sexual harassment. At hearing, respondent's motion to dismiss that portion of the first three Charges alleging harassment and sexual harassment was granted. However, it was pointed out to the parties that whatever conduct was proven to be true could still constitute conduct unbecoming. Whether the conduct proven true is conduct unbecoming a teacher shall be addressed later.

CHARGE FOUR

That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The specifications to this Charge repeat all the specifications to Charge One. The proofs offered by the Board to Charge Four duplicate the proofs already entered and considered on Charge One. There is no need to duplicate that which has already been considered and for which findings of fact have already been entered. The difference between this Charge Four and Charge One is that Charge Four alleges the 1996-97 complained of conduct is sexually suggestive and, therefore, unbecoming conduct. In Charge One the Board alleged the complained of conduct constitutes sexual harassment.

CHARGE FIVE

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The specifications to this Charge repeat all the specifications to Charge Two. The proofs offered by the Board to Charge Five duplicate the proofs already entered and considered on Charge Two. There is no need to duplicate that which has already been considered and for which findings of fact have already been entered. The difference between this Charge Five and Charge Two is that Charge Five alleges the 1998-99 complained of conduct is sexually suggestive and, therefore, unbecoming conduct. In Charge Two the Board alleged the same 1998-99 complained of conduct constitutes sexual harassment.

There is one new specification to this charge which is not specifically stated in Charge Two. That new specification is that during 1998-99 respondent allegedly informed female students in his chemistry classes, besides R.S., that 'if it is too hot in the classroom they may remove their shirts.'

The Board's proof with respect to this new specification is limited to the statement (P-7) and testimony of D.S., which has already been reported in specification 4 (a) of Charge Two. However, no findings were entered on the testimony at that time. Only because this specification is new to Charge Five will the evidence produced through D.S. be repeated here.

D.S. was a student in third period chemistry when she was a junior in 1998-99. D.S. filed a statement of complaint (P-7) against respondent with the principal in which she alleges, among other things, that respondent tells students that they may remove their shirts if they are hot. While D.S. says respondent never directed such a comment to her, she did hear him make that comment to R.S. (2T:154) In the whole of R.S.'s testimony (2T:81-142) not once is the word "shirt" mentioned in the context of respondent telling her she may remove her 'shirt' if she is hot.

Respondent's defense to this charge is identical to the charge regarding tank tops; he never said students may remove their shirts.

I FIND that the Board failed to prove the truth of the allegation that respondent informed females during 1998-99 they may remove their shirts if they are hot in the classroom.

CHARGE SIX

That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks to female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

In certifying Charge Six as a separate charge, the Board merely combined Charges Four and Five, along with the respective specifications, in order to arrive at the separate Charge Six that the alleged conduct occurred in the 1996-97 AND 1998-99 years. The proofs offered by the Board are identical as were offered in Charges Four and Five, and the findings and discussion on the proofs would be identical. There is no need to repeat the same proofs in order to arrive at the same findings of fact already entered.

CHARGE SEVEN

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by engaging in inappropriate physical touching and contact with female students enrolled in his classes, in the presence of other pupils, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Here again, the Board repeats specifications and the respective proofs that have already been considered. Specifically, the Board alleges respondent engaged in conduct such as the inappropriate touching and the holding the hands of females as was already discussed in specification 1 of Charge Two, and holding J.G.'s hand as was already discussed in specification 2 of the same Charge Two. No new allegations of specific misconduct are alleged in the specifications filed by the Board with respect to Charge Seven. The same findings of fact on the evidence already discussed would be entered here, so there is no need to repeat that which has already been said. The only substantive difference between this Charge and prior Charges is that here the Board merely alleges the inappropriate conduct respondent was to have engaged in constitutes unbecoming conduct without reference to alleging sexual harassment or sexually suggestive comments.

CHARGE EIGHT

That during the 1996-1997 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by displaying a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The fact specifications accompanying this charge are that respondent

1. administered tests to students in the 1996-97 year consisting of only one or two questions and that students either received a 100 or 0 since only two questions were asked;

2. read the grades of students aloud, which caused those who did not do well humiliation and embarrassment.

With respect to specification 1, there is no evidence in the record that either the Board or school administrators ever adopted a policy with respect to the nature of tests which teachers are to administer to their pupils. There is no evidence that respondent's supervisors, including the principal or superintendent, ever told him not to administer tests to his students with only one or two questions. It is basic that before a teacher may be disciplined for a teaching method used in the classroom, either the method must be so controversial that a reasonable teacher would know not to use it or the teacher must first be given fair notice that that method is prohibited.

But beyond the absence of prior notice of a prohibition of administering one or two question tests, it is noted that D.C. complained in her statement (P-5) of being administered tests with only one or two questions. D.C. testified respondent frequently, not all the time, gave one or two question tests. (5T:15) Indeed, D.C. acknowledges respondent administered tests with more than one or two questions. (5T:37) She also acknowledges that the one or two question tests required students to demonstrate on the test paper their methodology of arriving at the answer and they did get partial credit for demonstrating their methodology even if the answer was wrong. (5T:38).

In its filed Brief, the Board also points to the testimony of A.C., a student witness called by respondent, to support its allegation of respondent administering one or two question tests. A.C., who was in respondent's eighth period chemistry class during 1998-99, testified D.C. is one of her best friends. (6T:55) A.C. testified she tried to help D.C. with chemistry before the tests and quizzes which were given. However, A.C. testified that D.C. hated chemistry because she did not understand it, and that she never did chemistry homework, and that she did not like respondent. In this regard, A.C. testified D.C. " . . . was failing his class. She was always saying she didn't like him. She hated him. She hated being there. She hated the class." (6T:53, 54, 56) A.C. does confirm respondent would administer one or two question pop quizzes for which students who show their work could receive partial credit.

While not relied upon by the Board regarding its allegation of improper conduct with respect to the one or two question examinations, it is noted that K.M. testified partial credit was granted on these examinations to those who showed their work. (4T:84)

Respondent acknowledges having administered one or two question examinations but only when the questions cover a lot of work he and the students did in class. Partial credit was granted students for showing how they reached their conclusion. Respondent testified that D.C. and others did get O on the one or two question examinations because they would hand in a blank paper. (7T:152-153)

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding specification 1 to Charge Eight, I FIND the Board failed to prove that the administration of one or two question examinations, while being established they were given by respondent, is improper or conduct that in any manner constitutes unbecoming conduct.

With respect to specification 2 of Charge Eight, the Board relies upon the statement (P-5) and testimony of D.C., the testimony of J.C., R.B., A.C., and respondent to show that respondent did read student grades aloud. D.C. wrote in her statement that respondent "reads students' grades out loud which embarrasses them." (P-5) D.C. testified she was not doing well in chemistry and when respondent read her grade out loud she was embarrassed. D.C. clarified that test grades were not read aloud; only marking period grades were read aloud, and that it only occurred in the 1998-99 year - not in 1996-97 as is alleged in this charge. (5T: 16, 39-40) D.C. also testified that at the beginning of the 1998-99 year, respondent inviting students to his desk to learn their marking period grades privately if they so chose, but over time that practice changed to respondent reading all marking period grades out loud. (5T:40)

J.C., who filed a statement (P-12) with the principal against respondent, testified that occasionally respondent would read grades out loud, or he would call individual students to his desk and tell them their grade privately. (3T:29) R.B. was a student in respondent's chemistry class during 1998-99. He did not file a statement of complaint against respondent. In fact, R.B. testified on behalf of respondent in this proceeding. R.B. testified respondent asked individual students if they wanted to know their grade and, if so, he would then read the grade out loud. If the student declined but still wanted to know their grade, they would go privately to respondent to learn their grade. (6T:19) A.C., another student in respondent's chemistry class during the 1998-99 year who did not file a statement of complaint against him, testified that respondent did not read grades aloud without first receiving the student's permission to do so. A.C. explained that if the student did not want their grade read aloud, respondent would allow them to come to his desk and he would then show them the grade they earned. (6T:63)

Respondent testified he read mid-term grades aloud only if the individual student gave permission to do so. He explained that because the same mid-term examinations were used from class to class, he could not release the actual examination paper with the grade because other sections of chemistry had not yet taken the examination. When the examinations were scored, those who wanted to know their grade would ask him to read it aloud; those who did not want to know their grade would not ask to have it read aloud. Respondent saw no reason for students who did not want their grade read aloud to be embarrassed or humiliated. (7T:155) (8T:6-9)

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding Charge Eight, I FIND that respondent did administer tests with one or two questions, but I also FIND there is no prior prohibition against teachers using tests with only one or two questions. I also FIND that respondent did from time-to-time read grades aloud to those students who gave permission for their grades to be read aloud.

CHARGE NINE

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by displaying a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

There are 25 specifications accompanying this charge. 19 of the 25 specifications allege conduct for which, if true, respondent may be held accountable. The remaining six specifications are conclusions drawn by the Board which are based on its assumption that the 19 fact specifications are true. Of the 19 fact allegations, the Board repeats specifications 1 and 2 of Charge Eight regarding one or two question tests, and reading grades aloud. These two specifications need not be reconsidered here for they have already been decided based on the proofs submitted by the Board. Consequently, there are 16 fact allegations that will be considered for Charge Nine. They are that respondent:

1. Routinely encouraged students to withdraw from chemistry and made comments to individual students including 'why don't you just drop my class, you are going to fail anyway', 'why don't you drop my class, there is no need for you to be here' and 'why don't you drop my class if you do not want to be here;'

2. Provided instruction in a segregated section of the classroom only to a select group of students including those who understand or are doing well and those whom he favors, while ignoring the remaining students;

3. Favors two females, C.L. and D.H., and directs his teaching attention on them while ignoring the remainder of the class;

4. Placed in the back of the room and completely ignored J.C. and E.C. instead of providing them extra attention and assistance;

5. Refused to repeat classroom instruction to those who did not understand; instructed those who did not understand to see him for extra help either before school starts or after school ends; would be unavailable for such assistance or fail to keep scheduled appointments;

6. Routinely fails to acknowledge students who have their hands raised;

7. Not always returned tests and papers, thereby depriving students of the opportunity to review constructive criticism and to learn from their mistakes;

8. Has not always taught the entire chemistry curriculum when he makes the judgment either that the subject matter is too easy or the material should have been learned in an earlier grade;

9. Students who miss a laboratory are not given the same laboratory as the one taught on the day they were absent, but are still responsible for the material they missed; told K.M. to go to the Elizabeth library to obtain articles instead of making up a missed laboratory;

10. Tells students who are absent that they chose to be absent and he will not teach again that which they missed;

11. Refused to allow J.C., a chemistry student assigned him, to participate in laboratory since January 1999;

12. Does not collect or check assigned homework, nor does assigned homework or class participation count towards grades he assigns students;

13. Gives students different grades for identical work;

14. Fails to focus or re-focus the attention of students who do not pay attention by either doing homework during chemistry, or falling asleep, or talking, or otherwise not paying attention;

15. Told parents at back to school night that 'these students have poor algebra skills so they will not be able to pass', and that 'they can take chemistry again next year;'

16. On March 2, 1999 requested the guidance office to transfer four students from his period three chemistry class, instead of asking guidance to speak with the students to determine whether a problem exists which could be corrected.

Regarding specification 1, D.C quotes respondent in her statement (P-5) as having said 'Why don't you just drop my class, you're going to fail anyway.' D.C. testified the comment was made directly to her at the beginning of the 1998-99 year when she was not doing well in his class. (5T:17) While she recalls respondent telling J.C. something along the lines of 'if you don't want to be here, maybe you should consider dropping the class', she denies he made the same remark to her. D.C. insists he told her to drop the class because she was going to fail anyway. (5T:44)

R.S. wrote in her statement (P-7) that respondent "tells students to drop his class if they didn't want to be there." R.S. testified that respondent made that statement to her but that she "wasn't going to give up, [she] was going to try." (2T:151)

In its filed Brief, the Board cites the testimony of R.S. at 6T:22 for support of this allegation. In fact, 6T:22 memorializes the testimony of R.B., a student witness called by respondent, who testified at that cite respondent said something to the effect to why don't you drop the class if you don't want to learn, if you want to disrupt the class, if you have no intention of learning in here, or if you have no intention of getting anything out of this class. (6T:22)

R.S. did not specify in her statement (P-8) that respondent ever told her to drop the class because she was going to fail anyway and she testified she has no knowledge whether respondent ever told any student to drop the class because they are going to fail anyway.

J.C. wrote in his statement (P-12) that respondent told him 'why don't you drop my class, there is no need for you to be here.' J.C. testified that it bothered him to be told by a teacher to drop a class because he was trying to succeed in chemistry. (3T:13) J.C. also testified that in keeping with respondent's policy at the beginning of each year of allowing students to select where they will sit, he chose to sit towards the rear of the room. J.C. remained in his chosen seat until at least the Thanksgiving holiday break and perhaps until the Christmas break. J.C. testified he engaged in talking with a group of students nearby, and respondent would tell them to stop talking while he was trying to teach. He says he never tried to be disruptive in class, though he did bring a game-boy to class one day. He acknowledges having turned in quizzes and tests without anything written on them and, occasionally, he would turn in a test paper without his name on it. J.C. specifically testified that respondent said to him "It seems like you're struggling [in chemistry]. You should drop the class." (3T:23-41)

R.J., who filed a statement of complaint (P-11) with the principal, does not mention having heard respondent make the asserted remark in this specification. He is one of the four students whom respondent recommended guidance transfer out of his class on March 2, 1999. (See, P-3)

However, R.J. was not told by either guidance or by the principal of that recommendation R.J. wrote that respondent pays much attention to the students who are passing his class, rather than the one's that are failing. In his written view, R.J. feels respondent does not teach, as he should. At hearing, R.J. testified that while he wanted to drop chemistry he did not because he did not want another study hall, which he considers a waste of time. (3T:131-132) He also testified never said to him to drop the course because you are going to fail anyway. He did hear respondent tell J.C., in effect, 'if you are not going to do anything, why don't you consider dropping the course and turning your attention to other courses.' (3T:146)

M.F., who did extremely well in respondent's chemistry class during 1998-99, filed a statement (P-14) with the principal in which he alleges respondent usually told J.C. to go to the back of the room, and that he heard respondent ask J.C. numerous times why he does not drop the class. (3T:157)

Respondent denies directly telling any student to drop the class. Rather, he explained that if a student insisted upon not working or putting forth an effort, he "thought" their time might be better spent on mathematics or subjects they were having difficulty with and offered them that option. (8T:55) However, he denies ever telling a student they should drop the course because they were going to fail it anyway.

Having considered the proofs of the parties regarding the statement, in effect, why don't you drop the course, you're going to fail it anyway, I FIND the proofs establish that more likely than not, respondent did make such statements to D.C. and J.C. and in the context of not putting forth an effort to succeed in chemistry. There is no evidence as to the intention of the Board alleging that the comment was made 'routinely.' Thus, no finding is entered on that term.

Specifications 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, and 14, shall be considered together because the alleged conduct relates to the essence of the teaching function. A review of the testimony and statements of students who testified in support of these specifications all show that respondent, from their point of view, engaged in the conduct complained of in these specifications. D.C. testified respondent ignored those who did not understand and concentrated on D.H. and C.L. (5T:15); D.E. testified respondent only taught two persons in class (5T:65); D.S. testified respondent only taught C.L. and D.H. (2T:151), as did E.C., R.J., and F.M. J.C. and E.C. testified they were placed in the back of the room and despite the attempt of J.C. to get closer to the front, he was directed by respondent to return to the back. D.C., R.S., and R.J. testified they believed respondent moved quickly through his lectures and would not repeat any portion of instruction, while D.C., D.S., K.M., E.C., F.M., R.J., and M.F. all testified that it was very difficult to attend respondent's before class extra-help sessions because it was too early in the morning, or because they could not get to school that early, or because they take the bus to school. Indeed, E.C. testified that he did not go for extra-help in the morning even though he knew respondent was available because seeking help that early was a "[L]arge inconvenience to my time." (3T:55) E.C. also testified on cross-examination that extra help was available to students if they had the ambition to seek it. E.C. also recalls being challenged by other students in respondent's classes that he had no basis to refer to respondent as a bad teacher because he, E.C., never went to him for extra help even though it was available. (3T:76, 89)

D.E. testified that on one occasion she had her hand raised and respondent was to have said he would be right over to her. Specifically, she testified, "Well, one time I raised my hand and he said hold on, I'll be right there and he never came." (5T:66) Because D.E. says she failed to address her concerns on this one occasion, the Board includes this as a specification. D.C., J.C., and A.C. testified that respondent failed to return some tests and quizzes to those who did not do well. K.M. testified that upon her return from an absence, respondent would not allow her to make up a lab she missed; Rather, K.M says she had to go to the Elizabeth library to look up articles. I can find no separate evidence for the allegation respondent tells students who are absent that he will not teach that which they missed.

F.M., S.V., and E.A. testified respondent did not check, collect, of grade homework. D.C., J.C., E.C. and R.B. testified respondent did tell students to stop talking while he was teaching a lesson. They all acknowledged that sometimes students would listen and stop talking; other times they would not listen and continue talking. The principal did testify that there is an administrative policy that is to provide teachers are to assign homework "three times a week, on average." (9T:70) However, the principal cannot recall if the policy is in writing.

As noted earlier, respondent's conduct from the point of view of the students occurred. But, that does not mean whatever conduct he did engage in that that conduct is unbecoming a teacher. Respondent testified he uses various teaching techniques in an effort to motivate all his pupils and that he spends much time in class and after class with lower ability pupils. R.B., who was in the same chemistry class with D.S., D.E., J.C., E.C., and K.M., testified respondent did answer students' questions and would review things not understood. R.B. explained that respondent expected all students to make an effort to understand the difficult subject of chemistry (6T:80), while E.A. testified respondent did not favor any students over others. He treated everyone equally. (7T:30) S.V. testified respondent explained things over if necessary, and he afforded extra help to non-motivated students in class through a one-to-one explanation. (6T:65)

Respondent testified he did assign J.C. a seat in the back of the room but only after J.C. became a disruptive influence on the class as a whole by talking, sleeping, reading magazines and otherwise doing nothing with respect to putting in an effort towards chemistry. (7T:116-120) Respondent also placed E.C. in the back of the room, but only after he had sent a letter home regarding E.C.'s lack of attention in class and his failure to do work. Respondent explained that he had a telephone conversation with E.C.'s mother after the letter had been sent home during which he received assurances from her that E.C. would begin paying attention and doing his work. E.C. neither began paying attention in class nor did he begin to hand in work.

Respondent testified he did make himself available for extra help to all students from about 6 a.m. until the beginning of school. He explained that while he did occasionally help students after school, it was difficult to arrange for extra help then because of faculty meetings The testimony of K.M., N.P., E.A., and S.V., shows respondent did make himself available for extra help generally before school started and sometimes after school.

Respondent denies deliberately failing to acknowledge any student with their hand raised. (7T:150) There is no credible evidence that respondent consistently refused to acknowledge students who wanted his attention and raised their hands.

Respondent testified that if a student handed in a blank test paper or a paper without a name as was the case with J.C. occasionally, there would be no need to hand back a blank test paper. There is no evidence that respondent consistently administered tests and refused to hand them back to all students, or even to some students.

Respondent testified he would not use class time on subject material that was basic, such as the addition of fractions. However, he invited those who wanted him to spend more time on such basic material to come to him before or after school for extra help. (7T:157) And, despite the testimony from some students that respondent was not available the evidence establishes respondent did make himself available for extra help in the morning before class began and, occasionally, in the afternoon after class ended. There is no evidence that respondent violated some rule or regulation of the Board or of the administration regarding making himself available for extra help to students.

Respondent testified that it was recommended to him by a prior "administration" to have alternate assignments available for those who missed labs, or those whose vision was such they could not do labs. One of the alternate assignments was to research articles relating to chemistry or to physical science, copy the article, and submit it to him with a brief synopsis. In addition to K.M. being assigned to look up an article as an alternate assignment to the lab she missed, two other students who missed the same day were also given similar alternate assignments. He knows the other two were working on their alternate research assignment, but he is not certain whether K.M. ever completed her assignment because he was suspended from his teaching duties. (7T:159-160) The knowledge necessary to have done the labs had already been covered in class during an earlier class so K.M. did not miss any instruction. The evidence fails to show that this teaching technique is improper.

Respondent testified that his grading policy includes credit for test and quiz scores, lab work, and homework and participation in class. He acknowledges he does not collect nor grade homework because his experience as a teacher tells him that if homework is graded, students tend to copy from each other instead of trying to complete the assignment themselves. While respondent acknowledges he did not collect homework, he insists he reviewed assigned homework the following day in class because that is a more helpful process for the students than for him to collect and grade it. (7T:107) It is noted there is no evidence in the record to show Board or administrative policy on teacher treatment of student homework, or if such a policy exists. The principal did testify that there is an administrative policy that is to provide teachers are to assign homework "three times a week, on average." (9T:70) However, the principal cannot recall if the policy is in writing. Nor is there any evidence in this record to show respondent's philosophy on the purpose of homework and how he used homework in class, is professionally improper.

Respondent's testimony regarding the allegation he gave different grades for identical reports is the same here as it was for Charge Two, specification 11, that he would assign a zero to identical papers submitted as individual work because it would show one copied from the other. The inference is drawn that with respect to D.C.'s complaint, respondent is of the view the papers complained of were not identical. Grading of papers is a task left to the sound discretion of a teacher. The record lacks persuasive evidence that respondent abused his discretion in the grading of papers.

Respondent already testified he told those who were talking to stop, those who were disrupting the class to stop, and he even changed the seat locations of two disruptive students. A teacher must have the discretion to manage his or her classroom which produces an environment to encourage learning. While the evidence shows respondent did place two students in the back of the room as a disciplinary measure, absent evidence to the contrary it is inferred that an environment conducive to learning for those who wanted to work resulted from that action.

In light of respondent's testimony on each and every allegation in these specifications, I cannot find as fact that the testimony of the students is persuasive that such conduct rises to the level of conduct unbecoming a teacher. Because students perceive conduct of their teacher as negative, that does not make the conduct, even if true, inherently conduct unbecoming a teacher. The conduct as established as having occurred may be inefficient which deserves an entirely different process than that which occurred in this case. But, it cannot be said on this record that conduct complained of in Charge Nine is conduct unbecoming a teacher. I FIND the Board failed to prove the conduct complained of in specifications two through ten and 12 and 13 constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher.

In the Statement of Fact part of its filed brief, the Board asserts J.C. was not permitted in labs. This allegation is similar though different from specification 11, which alleges respondent refused to allow J.C. to participate in labs since January 1999. The Board cites as support a specific transcript page and line number of J.C.'s testimony. The cited transcript, page and line numbers, 3T:14, 9-14, shows the following testimony:

> Q Did there [come] a certain point [in] time where that your ability to succeed in the [respondent's] class was affected by what was going on?

A Yeah because once you're not able to participate in labs, it's almost near impossible to pass because labs are a huge part of your grade.

The evidence shows J.C. was either removed from respondent's lab class for disciplinary reasons in late January or early February 1999 (7T:117), or alternatively, he withdrew from respondent's class (3T:8). But, respondent's testimony regarding J.C. is illuminating:

Q Tell me as best you can recall -- that would be better. Let's deal with first, with J.C. Tell me what your experience was in so far as him coming to class prepared to learn.

A. I recall J.C. never coming to class to work. . . He sat in the back right. Fine with me. But he talked generally the entire time he was in my class. When he was near enough --

Q To whom?

A Well, E.C., M.F., -- M.F., anyone who was around him or even near him. R.J.

Q When he did that, what did you do?

A Well, initially, like anyone, I would tell them to pay attention, maybe say that that could be distracting other people as well. I would do that repeatedly and eventually I would move his seat.

Q And did you move his seat?

A. I did.

Q Where did you move it?

A One seat away from where he was sitting so there would be a row between J.C. and the people he usually spoke with.

Q Have any success?

Q What did you do?

A. I moved him to the lab table, the first lab table behind the chairs.

Q Any success?

A No, I recall letting him go back to his seat, promising he would behave or not talk and do all the work and things like this.

Q If I'm clear, his original seat, was it further to the front further to the back, laterally or

A He started in the back and I moved him over from the back basically one seat because it was the first lab table and he wanted to go back. I let him go back.

Q He initially worked with -- I guess the whole time he was there, he worked with E.C. as a lab partner at the near-most lab stall. He would sit with his safety glasses on. I can't recall ever seeing him doing anything in the lab. He did hand in a few labs first marking period but after that, I don't believe he ever handed in any labs.

Q What did you do to try and get him to change his behavior?

A Every time we were doing labs I walk around. There's -- in that class there were probably twelve labs going on because you started with 24 students working I pairs basically. And so I get around and I -- I try to make sure everyone's being safe. I try to make sure they're sort of staying focused because I like them to make their own mistakes but I also like time to finish the labs so U try not to let them get too bogged down. I like them to interact with each other so I try to stay hands off as much as I can but I also walk around. There are always one or two groups that aren't getting anywhere. J.C. and E.C. were often that way and I would prod them along. I can't do the work for them. I can't get the data for them. That's part of the lab. They have to get that themselves. And I rarely say them do anything that I would consider part of the Chemistry lab. They did hand in -- J.C. handed in, again I think, one or two labs first marking period.

Q Did their behavior in any manner cause you to have concerns regarding safety in the lab?

A One of the first rules of lab safety and this is -- this is anywhere from college and industry -- If you aren't doing a lab, then you don't belong in the lab. Safety glasses, don't eat and drink, and if you aren't doing a lab, you shouldn't be in the lab. That was my primary concern.

Q And did there come a time as a result of -- of -- of what he was or was not doing that you removed him from the lab area, you know, for --

A Yes.

Q --for some or all of the labs?

A Yes.

Q When did that occur and tell me what your basis of doing that was.

A. It was -- it was probably late January, maybe early February, the very end. It was probably the beginning of third marking period. He had ceased doing any work in class long ago. He had ceased doing lab work and handing in labs for at least the full marking period and I just decided that if he wasn't going to do any work and insisted on it then I had to take him out of the lab because he wasn't taking part in the labs.

Q Now had you -- talked -- had you sent letters to him (sic) parents?

A And I spoke to counselors many times.

Q And --

A I spoke to J.C. many times as well.

Q That's J.C.?

A J.C., yes.

Q Okay, and tell me what the -- you know, the results of these efforts you know, where is so far as getting him to -- to work or perform.

A Completely unsuccessful. We all were. J.C. never lifted a finger and confined (sic) [continued?] to be disruptive.
(7T:116-120)

To the extent the Board alleges respondent removed J.C. from chemistry lab class without justification, such allegation is not proven by the evidence in this record. If the Board alleges J.C. withdrew from chemistry labs as the result of improper conduct perpetrated upon him by respondent, such allegation is not proven true in this record. The allegation contained within specification 11 of Charge Nine is DISMISSED.

Specification 15 shall be considered next because it alleges respondent asked the guidance office to transfer four students, one of whom was J.C. who was just discussed, rather than encourage guidance to see if a problem existed which could be corrected. The fact that respondent did request (P-3) the guidance office on March 2, 1999 to reassign J.W., J.C., F.M., and R.J., was addressed at the beginning of this initial decision in the antecedent event section. However, the Board does not make clear respondent's obligation to specifically ask the guidance office personnel to determine the nature of the problem a student may be having for whom reassignment is requested. It appears that appropriate personnel in the guidance office as part of their professional responsibilities may make inquiries of students of the nature of problems for whom reassignment has been requested. In any case, there is no basis to conclude that the conduct I FIND proven true constitutes unbecoming conduct.

Specification 14, the last specification to Charge Nine, is that respondent told parents at back to school night 'these students have poor algebra skills so they will not be able to pass' and 'they can take chemistry again next year.' In its case in chief, the Board relies upon the hearsay testimony of the principal to support this charge which would not, standing by itself, rise to the level of a residuum of legally competent evidence to prove its truth. And, as pointed out by respondent in his filed brief, the principal testified parents complained to him that respondent was to have said that students with poor math skills would have a difficult time with chemistry and 'they may not pass it, and they can take it again next year.' (1T:26) Nevertheless, respondent did testify as to his communication to the parents at the back to school night.

Respondent testified algebra is a prerequisite for chemistry and because those who are weak in math would probably do better in chemistry if they waited until their senior year to take it and take another math course in their junior year. Respondent testified he discussed this point with the guidance office. (7T:86) Respondent acknowledges telling parents that if their child's math skills are weak, they would have a difficult time with chemistry. He explained that in response to a parent's question of what happens if her child does not pass chemistry, he responded she could take chemistry the following year. (7T:86)

I FIND the Board failed to establish that respondent stated in a definite cause-effect relationship that because 'these' students have poor algebra skills and, consequently, they will not be able to pass chemistry. I do FIND that respondent told parents at back to school night that chemistry requires math skills, that if a student does not have good math skills, he/she will have a difficult time with chemistry and may not be able to pass; and, that if a child does not pass chemistry this year, they may take it over again next year. That which the evidence shows respondent said is different from that with which he is charged; therefore, this specification must be and is DISMISSED.

CHARGE TEN

That during the 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 school years, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by displaying a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said pattern of unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The Board essentially repeats specifications and substantially the same proofs that have already been considered in Charge Nine. The Board, as examples, alleges respondent engaged in conduct such as administering one or two question tests, reading grades out loud, telling students to withdraw, and directs his teaching to two students. No new allegations of specific misconduct are alleged in the specifications with respect to Charge Ten filed by the Board with these two exceptions. The Board alleges respondent used one or two question tests in physical science in 1996-97 as well as in chemistry during 1998-99. It also alleges that he read grades out loud in physical science during 1996-97, as well as in chemistry during 1998-99. The same findings of fact on the evidence already discussed is entered here. There is no need to repeat that which has already been said.

CHARGE ELEVEN

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by threatening and/or intimidating students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

Specifications to this charge, not otherwise discussed in other charges, are that during 1998-99 respondent told D.E. and "other students" that 'if they complain, he will make it very hard for them in class', and, that respondent gave D.E. "dirty looks" in response to a question posed to him during class. D.E., it will be recalled, is the student who complained respondent did not respond on one occasion to her raised hand and she is also the student who saw J.G. "poke" respondent in the stomach as they passed each other in the hallway.

D.E. did write in the statement (P-10) she filed with the principal that responded said if "we" complain to the principal that "[the principal] will make it hard for us." (Id.) I reviewed the entire direct and cross-examination of D.E. (5T:63-82). D.E. did not testify in support of this allegation and, consequently, there is no explanation as to the substantive difference between the details of the charge for which the Board gives respondent notice, and what is contained in the only evidence it offers in support of the charge - that is, the written statement. The written statement does not support the charge as stated in the specification. Accordingly, this specification is DISMISSED.

D.E. did testify regarding the 'dirty look' specification that "A few other times, like I asked him a question and he just, gave -- gave me this, like dirty look and looked a way. He didn't answer anything, didn't say anything." (5T:70-71) D.E. testified that the 'dirty look' meant respondent would roll "his eyes or something." (Id., p.71)

The evidence does not support Charge Eleven certified by the Board against respondent. Therefore, Charge Eleven is DISMISSED in its entirety.

CHARGE TWELVE

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by making inappropriate, disrespectful and disparaging remarks to students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The Board offers five specifications, not already discussed in other charges, in support of this charge regarding respondent's 1998-99 conduct. The specifications are:

1. that during 1998-99 respondent told students in his chemistry classes to 'shut up;'

2. that before an observation of his teaching performance is to be conducted respondent instructs his students to pretend his class is their favorite class and to behave as if they are enjoying themselves;

3. that that he said about one student 'he wishes he could put this student farther back in the room than he already is;'

4. That respondent told a friend of J.C.'s who was walking through the hallway with J.C. that he 'should pick better kids to hang out with;' and

5. that respondent sent form letters to the homes of D.E., E.C., and "other student's parents,' which contain false and disparaging information about the student's performance and conduct during class and/or laboratory.

The evidence offered by the Board regarding respondent uttering 'shut up' is the written statement and testimony of D.S., which the superintendent and principal accept as fact. In her statement (P-7) filed at the request of the principal, D.S. writes respondent "[T]ells students to shut up." D.S. acknowledges respondent did not direct the command 'shut up' to her. She explains she intended to convey that 'more or less he wouldn't say so nicely as to can you please be quiet and just pay attention. It would be more discrete (sic) as to shut up." (2T:149) Others students who were in respondent's chemistry classes and who tested on his behalf say respondent has told students 'please be quiet,' or to 'be quiet.' ((6T:17)(7T:10)

Despite the fact of which official notice may be taken that many individuals at one time or another during their lifetime may utter "shut up" to someone, the evidence offered by the Board in support of this precise allegation is not persuasive that respondent made a habit of using that expression to his students, or indeed or even used the expression on one occasion. D.S. was not asked when or under what circumstances the expression was to have been used. Indeed, if respondent was to have made the expression part of his regular vocabulary in or out of the classroom, surely the Board would have produced more evidence than just the testimony of one student who, it will be recalled, may be considered one of the major complainers against respondent.

I FIND the Board failed to prove the truth of this specification.

The Board alleges respondent forewarns students of pending observations of his teaching performance with admonitions that they should pretend to enjoy his class, and to behave as if they were enjoying his class. In support of this specification, the Board relies upon the testimony and written statement (P-6). filed by K.M. As part of her supplemental statement filed on March 29, 1999 after having the opportunity of learning of the complaints of other students from the initial meeting with the principal on February 22, 1999, K.M. wrote:

> Oh, [respondent] told us that when [the principal] comes in to observe the class, we should pretend that it's our favorite class & behave as if we were enjoying ourselves. I was under the impression that the students shouldn't be warned about observation procedures.

K.M.'s testimony parallels the written supplemental statement she provided. (4T:18-19) On cross-examination, K.M. testified she does not have a specific recollection of respondent being observed by the principal, though she does recall being warned that the principal was due to make an observation. K.M. also testified she is not certain whether the principal observed respondent in her chemistry class or another class in which she was not a member. (4T:67) She believes, though she is not certain, whether teachers knew the day and hour the principal was scheduled to make an observation.

I FIND the evidence in support of this specification insufficient to establish that respondent in any manner improperly forewarned students in his chemistry classes of pending observations by the principal.

The Board points to no specific evidence in its filed brief in support in support of its specification respondent was to have said about a student he wished he could put him farther back in the room than he already had. Respondent claims in his brief the Board offered no evidence to support this allegation. While I can independently find no evidence to support the specification, it is inferred the allegation is with respect to J.C. because he is the student who was placed in the back of the room for disciplinary reasons. Nevertheless, having found no evidence to support this specific allegation, this specification is DISMISSED.

In regard to the next specification that respondent stated to M.F., who was walking in the hallway with J.C., that M.F. should 'pick better kids to hang out with', J.C. wrote in his statement (P-12) that respondent did tell his friend, M.F., that he should pick better kids to hang out with. J.C. testified respondent does not have the right and has no basis in fact to make such a statement. (3T:17) M.F., in his filed statement (P-14) wrote that respondent did say to him that to "pick better friends meaning [J.C.]". M.F., who identifies himself as a good friend of J.C.'s testified while his father may have had a conference with respondent regarding his performance in chemistry class, he is not certain when the conference may have occurred. (3T:160-161)

While respondent admits having changed M.F.'s seat in the classroom away from J.C. which he says was done at the request of M.F.'s father, he denies making the statement about J.C. to J.C.

(7T:112-114) Nevertheless, he acknowledges having said to M.F. at or about the time he changed his seat that it is important to wisely choose where he sits to avoid distraction and talking with neighbors and to stay on task.

Having considered the proofs of the parties, I FIND respondent more likely than not did make the comment to M.F. as alleged. Respondent's explanation of what he was to have said at or about the time he changed his seat, in the context of whether he made the remark as is alleged, does not have the ring of truth. Respondent and J.C. were at odds over J.C.'s conduct in class, and J.C.'s perception that respondent did not care for him. If an explanation was given M.F. at the time of the seat change which was requested by the father, more likely than not respondent also made the comment to M.F. that he should pick better friends than J.C.

Regarding the referenced false and disparaging information in the form letters respondent was to have sent to the homes of D.E. and E.C. is that the named student was not paying attention and/or was failing to wear safety goggles in lab work. D.E. and E.C. claim they were paying attention and they were wearing safety goggles. Respondent says he was justified in sending the form letters home because they were not paying attention and they were not wearing safety goggles as required.

The proofs offered by the parties in this isolated specification do show that form letters were sent home to the students named. There is no proof whatsoever that the contents of the form letters contain false or disparaging comments. I SO FIND. Parenthetically, this is the kind of complaint that is best handled between and among the student, the parent, the teacher, and the principal if need be. It is not the kind of issue which should play a significant role in a tenure charge case.

CHARGE THIRTEEN

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by discriminating against, and/or disparately treating, students enrolled in his classes, and as a result of said unprofessional and unbecoming conduct, he should be dismissed from his position.

The specifications to this charge repeat specifications in Charge Nine regarding respondent teaches to a select few, that he favors C.L. and D.H., that he placed J.C. and E.C. in the back of the room, that he fails to acknowledge students with raised hands, that he places those students he favors in the first three rows of the classroom, that he told K.M. she was cute, and that he gave different grades for identical work. The only difference between Charge Nine and Charge Thirteen is that Thirteen alleges the complained of conduct constitutes disparate treatment while Nine alleges the complained of conduct constitutes a total lack of concern by respondent for the welfare of his students.

There is no need to repeat hear the same proofs offered by the Board in support of specifications underlying Charge Nine because the proofs are identical. Thus, there is no need to repeat here findings made on the proofs in Charge Nine because the findings are identical.

CHARGE FOURTEEN

That during the 1998-1999 school year, Christopher Wannemacher, a tenured teaching staff member in the employ of the Manchester Regional High School District, exhibited unprofessional and unbecoming conduct by undermining students' respect for, and integrity of, authority and the educational process.

The fact specifications that accompany this charge repeat specifications already considered in Charge Nine regarding dropping the class in the face of certain failure, and Charge Twelve regarding the forewarning of students of pending observations. The proofs here are the same as in Charges Nine and Twelve and need not be repeated. The findings of fact are the same on these two specifications and need not be repeated.

The Board does include two somewhat new, though familiar, specifications. They are:

1. Respondent repeatedly stated to students in his chemistry classes 'if you have a problem with my class, see [the principal or the superintendent] to complain, they will not have time anyway' or you will 'not be able to get an appointment today.'

2. On one occasion when the school was not opened until 7 a.m., respondent told students who came for extra help that morning 'if the school does not > want to pay people to open it up early than (sic)[you] have lost out on education.'

The Board's proofs in regard to respondent referring students to the principal or superintendent if they have a problem with his class is referenced in its filed brief as the statement (P-5) of D.C. There, D.C. asserts respondent states 'If you have a problem with my class, go to see [the principal] he won't have time anyway.' D.C. testified respondent made the statement to the class in 1996-97. (5T:19) and that it was said in the context of encouraging students to speak with an administrator if they were having problems. (5T:59) The Board once again argues in its Statement of Fact portion of its brief that the superintendent and principal testified they believe the statements were clearly directed at making students afraid of reprisal. (Board's brief, p.31) Not only is the Board's proof limited to one statement being made by respondent and that in 1996-97, but there is not a scintilla of evidence that the statement, if made, had anything to do with reprisal.

Respondent denies ever making the statement to his students they should go see the superintendent or the principal if they have a problem with his class because they would not have time for them anyway. (7T:166)

I FIND the Board failed to prove the truth of the statement by respondent that students should go see the superintendent or principal if they have a problem with his class because they would not have time for them.

I have searched the Statement of Fact portion of the Board's brief and find no reference to the comment respondent was to have made when the school began opening at 7 a.m. and as contained in specification 2 of Charge Fourteen. Respondent did explain on cross-examination that a change in the opening of the school by janitors was changed from 6:15 a.m. to 7 a.m. and he was bothered by the change. He also acknowledges he shared that upset with his students who were coming in for extra help during the morning. Respondent says he did state that if there was no time available in the morning for extra help then they would not be able to get the help from him. (8T:86)

I FIND the Board failed to prove the truth of the charge contained within specification 2 of Charge Fourteen.

A summary of affirmative findings of fact as contained within this initial decision shows that the Board carried its burden of persuasion and established by a preponderance of credible evidence that respondent engaged in the following conduct:

1. During 1996-97, respondent asked D.C. what she and her boyfriend do when they are alone in the context of a general discussion that some do study with their boy/girl friends;

2. During 1996-97, respondent more likely than not and based on the testimony of Mrs. M stated to students that if your mother is pretty you won't have a problem;

3. During 1996-97, respondent did state as a general proposition the direction in which one urinates may have an effect on the direction of movement and that the guidance counselor had knowledge of the statement;

4. During 1996-97, respondent told K.M. he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her with whom she had been bickering and that the guidance counselor had knowledge of the statement;

5. During 1998-99, respondent told students who appeared dressed up that they looked nice, or looked attractive;

6. During 1998-99, respondent and J.G. voluntarily held hands for a brief time after having met each other in the hallway;

7. During 1998-99, respondent told R.S. she may remove her sweater if she were hot in the classroom;

8. During 1998-99, respondent made the comment 'nice bra' to K.M. who was wearing a 'translucent white shirt' in class;

9. During 1998-99, respondent told M.T. that K.M. was allowed to use the bathroom and he was not because she is cute and he is not;

10. While the Board established respondent administered one or two question examinations, there is no companion finding that such examinations were prohibited;

11. During 1998-99, respondent did read certain grades aloud to those students who gave permission;

12. During 1998-99, respondent posed the question to two students of why not drop the class because you are failing anyway;

13. During 1998-99, respondent did request guidance to effect the reassignment of four students from his chemistry class without first asking guidance to talk with them to ascertain the nature of the problem;

14. During 1998-99, respondent did tell parents at a back-to-school night chemistry requires good math skills and if students do not have such skills, the study of chemistry would be difficult and may fail; and

15. During 1998-99, respondent more likely than not stated to M.F. in the presence of J.C. that he should 'pick better kids to hang out with', meaning J.C.

In addition to the findings of fact on the disputed issues, there are also other relevant facts that must be considered in the ultimate determination of the matter. Such facts emerged after the February 25, 1999 meeting between the students and the principal and include:

A. Neither the principal nor the superintendent talked with respondent regarding any of the concerns expressed by the students;

B. No one in a supervisory capacity visited respondent's classroom to determine whether J.C. was sitting in the back of the room and, if so, why;

C. No one in a supervisory capacity visited respondent's classroom to get a sense of the flow of instruction, particularly in third period chemistry where many of the complaining students were assigned;

D. No one in a supervisory capacity visited respondent's classroom to determine the effectiveness of respondent's methodology of instruction;

E. No one challenged respondent why he requested the reassignment of four students; and

F. No one offered any assistance to respondent on how to more effectively work with the complaining students other than the principal telling him four months earlier to observe other teachers and to go to workshops.

Taking the entire record as a whole, it appears that the superintendent and principal were content to ignore respondent's position on the complaints of the students and do nothing to investigate or to assist him other than anticipate the arrival of the tenure hearing. No investigation of the complaints was undertaken by the superintendent which involved speaking with respondent, and no significant teaching assistance was offered him. Charge Nine is particularly telling of the absence of teacher visitation, observation, or evaluation by a qualified supervisor of instruction. Of the 25 specifications in Charge Nine, 12 specifications are of the character of inefficiency which obligates the Board to provide him assistance to overcome the inefficiencies. Other examples of administration and teacher consultation could be noted in which respondent should have been consulted before charges of misconduct were ever certified for determination. The point is made that out of respect for fundamental fairness, respondent should have been advised of what was occurring and his response to the allegation should have been solicited as eagerly as student complaints against him were solicited.

The Board seeks the termination of respondent's employment in its district as a teacher on the strength of the charges it brought against him. As noted throughout this initial decision, because students perceive a teacher's conduct in a certain way does not result in that conduct rising to the level of unbecoming conduct of a teacher. Because the superintendent and the principal appear to believe every student allegation made against respondent, that belief does not translate the allegations into fact. Indeed, only 15 instances of alleged conduct were proven to be true in fact by a preponderance of credible evidence. Of the 15 instances of alleged conduct proven to be true, only 8 instances of conduct would arguably rise to the level of conduct unbecoming a teacher. They are:

1. In 1996-97 telling students that if their mother is pretty they won't have a problem;

2. In 1996-97 using urination as the basis for an explanation of motion;

3. In 1996-97 telling K.M. he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her;

5. In 1998-99 telling K.M. 'nice bra';

6. In 1998-99 telling M.T. he was not cute but K.M. was as the basis for permission to use the bathroom;

7. In 1998-99 reading certain grades out loud; and

8. In 1998-99 telling M.F. he could choose better friends than J.C.

These eight instances of proven conduct could rise to the level of conduct unbecoming a teacher. The other conduct found to have been engaged in by respondent either does not rise to the level of unbecoming conduct or is so trivial that it cannot form the basis for any discipline to be imposed upon respondent.

The issue is thus reduced to whether the eight instances of conduct referenced above, individually or collectively, rise to the level of conduct unbecoming a teacher for which some discipline is warranted. The Board notes in its filed brief that tenure protects the teacher against arbitrary dismissal for unfounded, flimsy political reasons. In determining whether expressive conduct constitutes conduct unbecoming a teacher, the words used and the context in which the words were used must be considered.

In this case, the words used by respondent in facts one through six above are inappropriate for use in a public high school setting and the context in which the words were used is equally inappropriate in each instance. There is no educational need for a teacher to tell a parent who requests a conference with their child's teacher that he can see from where the child gets her good looks; there is no educational need for a science teacher to use the basic bodily function of urination as an example of how to create motion; there is no educational need for a teacher to suggest much less direct a student to kiss a boy as the key to getting their seat changed; there is no educational need for a teacher to comment 'nice bra' to a junior high school female despite the fact the student is wearing a translucent white shirt which itself is more likely than not a violation of the student dress code if the student's midriff is exposed (See, R-22, p.21); and, there is surely no educational need for a teacher to tell a male student the reason he did not receive permission to attend the bathroom was because he was not cute.

A teacher with respondent's experience and ability as a professional must know not to read student grades aloud for the embarrassment such a practice may cause students who do well as well as those who do not do so well. For those who do well, the student may not want his/her peers to know they did well for any number of social reasons; for those who do not do well, those students may not want to suffer the embarrassment which follows having their poor grades read aloud. That some students request their grades to be read aloud does not justify the practice because those who do not so request their grades aloud still suffer the embarrassment of not having made the request.

Finally, there is no educational need, absent compelling reasons, for a teacher to tell one student in the presence of another student to choose better friends. J.C. and M.F. are friends.

Respondent's statement to J.C. to choose better friends than J.C., in J.C.'s presence, is unnecessarily cruel particularly when one considers the animosity apparently existing between respondent and J.C.

It must be kept in mind that respondent is a teacher of 11 years experience. He has been recognized as a leader in the field of science and, until these charges were brought, seemed to have the respect of his colleagues. As the result of the charges being brought against him, respondent has suffered the ignominy of being publicly charged with misconduct; he has suffered a loss of salary for at least 120 days of his suspension without pay, and he is presently facing an uncertain future. In short, respondent has already suffered as the result of the charges being brought against him and without first having been found to have engaged in any misconduct.

A finding of misconduct must be entered here against respondent as the result of the eight specific findings above. The issue then becomes what discipline must be imposed for the conduct in which he engaged. Termination of employment is the ultimate sanction the Commissioner of Education may impose, together with the possibility of the State Board of Examiners revoking respondent's teaching certificate. Such a discipline would effectively end respondent's teaching career. This ultimate discipline is rejected as being much too harsh under the totality of the circumstances. Despite the conduct in which he engaged through the use of his expression, there is no evidence that any student has suffered long-term damage emotionally, socially, psychologically, or educationally. It is clear that some of the students who testified will not soon forget the experience, nor will they think kindly of respondent. But, that is not proof of long-term damage. Still, damage was done by respondent, regardless of how fleeting, because teachers who engage in this kind of conduct place the profession of teaching at risk of losing the confidence of the students for whom they are responsible.

A discipline short of dismissal is in order. A fair discipline in light of the circumstances would be for respondent to lose the salary and adjustment increments the Board has already withheld from him and which he challenges by way of a separate Verified Petition of Appeal. [3] Based on the findings reached in this initial decision, the Board's action to withhold respondent's salary and adjustment increments for 1999-2000 are not arbitrary, capricious, or unreasonable. The withholding action has a rational basis in fact and it is not induced by improper motives. See, Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed/. 60 N.J. Super. 2888 (App. Div. 1960).

CONCLUSION

Having found respondent did engage in eight instances of conduct unbecoming a teacher, it is hereby ORDERED that the salary and adjustment increment for 1999-2000 be withheld from him. It is further ORDERED that the determination of whether the salary and adjustment increment withheld from him should be restored at some future time is within the sound discretion of the then existing board of education. It is also ORDERED that respondent be reinstated to his position of employment with the Board and that the salary withheld from him for the first 120 days of his suspension without pay be immediately tendered him. Finally, it is ORDERED that the Verified Petition of Appeal filed by respondent regarding a challenge to the withholding action already taken by the Board be and is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CHRISTOPHER WANNEMACHER, PASSAIC COUNTY MANCHESTER REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT.

CHRISTOPHER WANNEMACHER,

PETITIONER,

V.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE PASSAIC COUNTY MANCHESTER REGIONAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION ON REMAND

The record of this consolidated matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exception and reply arguments were submitted on behalf of the parties (hereinafter, "the Board" and "Wannemacher") in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

WANNEMACHER'S EXCEPTIONS AND THE BOARD'S REPLIES

Wannemacher takes exception to the findings of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Specifically, Wannemacher contends that the ALJ improperly determined that: 1) he made the statement, "If your mother's pretty you won't have a problem" (Wannemacher's Exceptions at 2); he said to K.M., "Nice bra." (id. at 4); 3) he made the statement, "Why don't you just drop my class, you're going to fail anyway," to D.C. and J.C. (id. at 5); 4) he made the statement "You should pick better kids to hang out with," to M.F. (id. at 6); 5) his use of the process of urination as an example in his class to explain motion constitutes unbecoming conduct (id. at 7); and 6) his practice of reading certain grades aloud was conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member (id. at 8).

With respect to the ALJ's recommended penalty, Wannemacher argues that, in the Board's eagerness to file the within charges without any investigation and without soliciting his response to the students' allegations, his reputation has been damaged and he has suffered a reduced income for the past two years, since he has been paid at the salary rate he was receiving for the 1998-99 school year. (Id. at 10) Wannemacher underscores the positive evaluations he has received in the course of his employment with the Board, and urges the Commissioner, in carefully considering this matter, to conclude that his "actions do not constitute an adequate basis to sustain the charges of unbecoming conduct." (Id. at 12) In this connection, he asserts that the ALJ's recommended forfeiture of his salary and adjustment increment for the 1999-2000 school year is too harsh a penalty. Wannemacher contends he is entitled to return to his position, with back pay and benefits withheld during his suspension, and that his increments for the 1999-2000 school year be restored.

In reply to Wannemacher's exceptions, the Board argues that each of the ALJ's factual findings and concomitant credibility determinations to which Wannemacher objects is grounded in the record and, therefore, entirely proper. The Board further contends that Wannemacher's use of the process of urination in his class, which offends the "sound judgment and sensibility" that a teacher must demonstrate (Board's Reply at 12), as well as his practice of reading aloud students' grades, thereby failing to take into consideration their "potential sensitivities," constitutes unbecoming conduct of a teaching staff member. (Ibid.)

As to its decision to withhold Wannemacher's increment for the 1999-2000 school year, the Board contends that Wannemacher's exceptions do not argue that its action was arbitrary or capricious, but only "that he has already suffered because of the tenure charges brought against him." (Id. at 16) However, in light of the ALJ's findings of unbecoming conduct, the Board maintains that its decision to withhold his 1999-2000 increment should be upheld. (Id. at 7) The Board further reasons:

> Since there can be no doubt that the decision to withhold Wannemacher's increments was not arbitrary, unreasonable, or capricious, the ALJ effectively did not impose a penalty for his findings of misconduct. The Board respectfully requests that the Commissioner, at the absolute minimum, increase the sanctions against Wannemacher to include the 120 day suspension (which was effectively 60 days since Wannemacher's suspension coincided with the summer months when he would not receive any pay).  (Id. at 18, 19)
> It is respectfully submitted that it is incumbent upon the Commissioner to reject Wannemacher's arguments for a lesser penalty and order the forfeiture of 120 days salary, increase the length of the suspension, and require dismissal of Wannemacher ." (Id. at 20, 21)

BOARD'S EXCEPTIONS AND WANNEMACHER'S REPLY

The Board excepts to the ALJ's dismissal of Charges One, Two and Three, basically contending that it met its burden to prove the essential specifications of these charges.[1]

[1] In this connection, and with respect to Charge One, the Board argues that Wannemacher's comments constituted sexual harassment. It contends, "Courts have further held that sexual harassment of students by teachers is unacceptable and cannot be tolerated in the school setting. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Gregory J. Brewer, Agency Dkt. No. 205-6/98 (September 13, 2000), a tenured teacher was dismissed from his position when he engaged in the sexual harassment of a female student by complimenting the student on her attire . The court reasoned that sexual harassment cannot be tolerated in the school setting where students deserve a great deal of protection." (citations omitted) (Board's Exceptions at 6) To this, Wannemacher responds that the case is completely inapposite, since the conduct attributed to Brewer far exceeds the actions herein alleged. (Wannemacher's Reply at 3) In any event, the Commissioner finds that the Board's use of Brewer to advance its position is both misleading and misplaced, since, notwithstanding that the ALJ recommended Brewer's dismissal, the case was remanded to the OAL for further proceedings subsequent to Brewer's Motion to Reopen the record, and upon the Commissioner's specific finding that the ALJ's credibility determinations issued therein were based largely on facts not supported by evidence in the record. Brewer, Commissioner Decision December 11, 2000, slip op. at 34.

(Board's Exceptions at 4-9) Additionally, the Board asserts: 1) that the ALJ erroneously found that Wannemacher did not state, in response to a request from D.C. for paper, "Down there, bend at your knees, you're good at that." (id. at 11); 2) that the ALJ wrongly discounted the testimony of Cynthia Miller, A.D. and B.B., who testified as part of the Board's case on rebuttal in order to dispute Wannemacher's assertions that he did not make inappropriate comments to students; 3) that the ALJ incorrectly prevented the Board from offering the testimony of Barbara Ann Kopicki, the teacher who was hired to replace Wannemacher after his suspension, in order to prove its charges; 4) that the ALJ improperly found that the Board failed to prove the conduct alleged in specifications 2 through 10, 12 and 13 of Charge Nine, since the "overwhelming evidence offered to the court proved that Wannemacher willfully neglected, consciously abandoned and blatantly refused to teach many of the students enrolled in his Chemistry I class," (id. at 28); 5) that the ALJ erroneously dismissed specification 14 of Charge Nine, stating that Wannemacher refused to allow J.C. to participate in a laboratory since January 1999[2]; 6) that the ALJ wrongly found that only eight of the findings of proven conduct actually constitute unbecoming conduct a teaching staff member; and 7) that the ALJ improperly concluded, particularly in light of prior case law, that the eight instances of unbecoming conduct did not warrant Wannemacher's 120-day suspension and dismissal.

In reply to each of the Board's exceptions, Wannemacher argues that the ALJ carefully examined each and every charge, as well as his responses to the charges, and properly determined which charges should be dismissed. Wannemacher also distinguishes the case law relied upon by the Board in furtherance of its position, and urges the Commissioner, where certain statements are admitted or found to be factual by the ALJ, to consider the circumstances

[2] Wannemacher notes in his replies that although the Board refers to specification 14 of Charge Nine, he believes that the exception in fact refers to specification 11 of Charge Nine. (Wannemacher's Reply at 17)

"and not merely rule for the petitioner because they have attempted to frame their charges in a way that allows for no explanation of respondent's motivations for his actions." (Wannemacher's Reply at 17) Notwithstanding the Board's repeated references to sexually explicit comments, Wannemacher underscores that "none of the comments that the ALJ found that respondent made are [sic] sexually explicit," although some may be inappropriate and one or two may be suggestive. (Id. at 22-23)

COMMISSIONER'S DETERMINATION

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which included the transcripts from nine days of hearings at the OAL, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision of the ALJ, with modification.[3] Initially, the Commissioner notes that the ALJ accurately summarized the testimony from numerous witnesses in this matter, meticulously linked such testimony, along with the documentary evidence, to the specifications alleged in each of the Board's charges, and prepared a careful set of findings which the Commissioner can find no cause to disturb. Not insignificant in this examination of evidence is the ALJ's admonition with respect to the students' statements which, to a large degree, not only formed the genesis of these charges, but also the crux of the Board's case herein:

> [T]he students who filed statements of complaint against respondent and who testified in the matter originally were together when the principal asked them to state the complaints they had. Not only did the students hear the complaints of classmates before they wrote out their individual statements, they had the opportunity between February 22 and March 6, when they wrote out their complaints, to discuss among themselves their individual complaints. Furthermore, all student witnesses against respondent received copies of each other's complaints prior to giving their testimony at hearing. Great caution must, therefore, be used in assessing the credibility of the student witnesses to insure their > testimony is based on personal knowledge, and not what they heard other students complaining about. (Initial Decision at 13)

[3] To the extent Wannemacher submitted documents in his exception arguments which were not presented at the hearing, these documents were not considered by the Commissioner in reaching his decision. N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4(c).

As such, notwithstanding the parties' objections to findings which were predominantly based upon credibility determinations, the ALJ's credibility determinations herein are entitled to the Commissioner's deference, since the Commissioner finds the ALJ did use great caution as he measured conflicts, inconsistencies and potential biases in deciding which testimony to credit in reaching his findings of fact and which facts are supported by evidence in the record. The ALJ, as the finder of fact, had the greatest opportunity to observe the demeanor of the witnesses -- most of them students -- and consequently, is better qualified to judge their credibility. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Frank Roberts, 96 N.J.A.R 2d (EDU) 549, 550, citing In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Tyler, 236 N.J. Super. 478, 485 (App. Div. 1989), certif. denied 121 N.J. 615 (1989). See also Whasun Lee v. Board of Education of the Township of Holmdel, Docket No. A-5978-98T2 (App. Div. 2000), slip. op. at 14.

Furthermore, with respect to the Board's contention that the ALJ improperly failed to consider the testimony of its witnesses on rebuttal which the Board offered, "not as a basis for unspecified tenure charges, but rather to dispute Wannemacher's assertions that he did not make inappropriate comments and, more importantly, did not make comments regarding students' boyfriends or girlfriends as asserted in charges 1 through 6" (Board's Exceptions at 17), the Commissioner finds that, even considering, as he did, the testimony of these rebuttal witnesses for the purposes advanced by the Board, the factual findings listed, infra, would not be altered by the Commissioner. Similarly, although the Board objected to the ALJ's exclusion of the testimony of Barbara Ann Kopicki, the Commissioner herein affirms the ALJ's ruling in this regard. (Tr. 4 (5/4/00) at 119-122) Finally, based upon his review of this record and, in particular, the ALJ's specific factual findings, the Commissioner declines to set aside the ALJ's dismissal, issued at the close of the Board's case, of that portion of the charges alleging "sexual harassment." (Initial Decision at 37; Tr. 5 (5/8/00) at 150-152)

Thus, the Commissioner affirms the following findings of fact and, in so doing, recognizes that the ALJ was deliberate in his choice of words, no doubt in order to exclude phrases and allegations which were unsupported by the record herein:[4]

1. During 1996-97, respondent asked D.C. what she and her boyfriend do when they are alone in the context of a general discussion that some do study with their boy/girl friends;

2. During 1996-97, respondent more likely than not, and based on the testimony of Mrs. M., stated to students that if your mother is pretty you won't have a problem;

3. During 1996-97, respondent did state, as a general proposition, the direction which one urinates may have an effect on the direction of movement and that the guidance counselor had knowledge of the statement;

4. During 1996-97, respondent told K.M. he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her with whom she had been bickering and that the guidance counselor had knowledge of the statement;

5. During 1998-99, respondent told students who appeared dressed up that they looked nice, or looked attractive;

6. During 1998-99, respondent and J.G. voluntarily held hands for a brief time after having met each other in the hallway;

7. During 1998-99, respondent told R.S. she may remove her sweater if she were hot in the classroom;

8. During 1998-99, respondent made the comment, "nice bra," to K.M., who was wearing a "translucent white shirt" in class;

9. During 1998-99, respondent told M.T. that K.M. was allowed to use the bathroom and he was not because she is cute and he is not;

10. While the Board established respondent administered one or two question quizzes and examinations, there is no companion finding that such examinations were prohibited;

11. During 1998-99, respondent did read certain grades aloud to those students who gave permission;

[4] It is noted that the recitation of factual findings may contain some grammatical or semantic changes which do not alter the substance of the findings. Additionally, as in the Initial Decision, "R" refers to Wannemacher.

12. During 1998-99, respondent posed the question to two students of why not drop the class because you are failing anyway;[5]

13. During 1998-99, respondent did request guidance to effect the reassignment of four students from his chemistry class without first asking guidance to talk with them to ascertain the nature of the problem;

14. During 1998-99, respondent did tell parents at a back-to-school night chemistry requires good math skills and if students do not have such skills, the study of chemistry would be difficult and [they] may fail; and

15. During 1998-99, respondent more likely than not stated to M.F. in the presence of J.C. that he should "pick better kids to hang out with", meaning J.C. (emphasis supplied) (Initial Decision at 62-63)

From these 15 findings of fact, the ALJ concluded that seven findings, i.e., those italicized above, could actually constitute conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member.[6] However, the Commissioner disagrees, in part, with the ALJ's conclusion. Specifically, the Commissioner cannot find, based on the record herein, that Wannemacher's practice of reading students' grades aloud, with their permission, was conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, particularly where Superintendent Petrelli testified that it would not be inappropriate to do so, provided students were given the option. (Tr. 5 (5/8/00) at 112) Moreover, the Commissioner cannot conclude on the record before him that Wannemacher's use of urination in his physical science class constituted conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member, where the reference occurred within the context of identifying bodily functions which may be impacted by the laws of motion (e.g., breathing, coughing), (see Initial Decision at 17 and Tr. 7 (5/23/00) at 171, 172), and where the ALJ makes no specific finding that any statement related thereto was directed to a particular student, notwithstanding that Wannemacher may not have carefully considered the use of this term vis-a-vis his young audience.

[5] The ALJ also found these comments were made "in the context of not putting forth an effort to succeed in chemistry. There is no evidence as to the intention of the Board alleging that comment was made 'routinely.'" (Initial Decision at 46)

[6] Although the Initial Decision states that there are eight findings which constitute unbecoming conduct, only seven are listed on page 64, as a result of misnumbering.

Therefore, the Commissioner finds that the following conduct, as proven by the Board, may fairly be considered unbecoming a teaching staff member:

1. During 1996-97, Wannemacher more likely than not, and based on the testimony of Mrs. M., stated to students that if your mother is pretty you won't have a problem;
2. During 1996-97, Wannemacher told K.M. he would change her seat if she kissed the boy next to her with whom she had been bickering and that the guidance counselor had knowledge of the statement;
3. During 1998-99, Wannemacher made the comment, "nice bra," to K.M., who was wearing a "translucent white shirt" in class;
4. During 1998-99, Wannemacher told M.T. that K.M. was allowed to use the bathroom and he was not because she is cute and he is not; and
5. During 1998-99, Wannemacher more likely than not stated to M.F. in the presence of J.C. that he should "pick better kids to hang out with," meaning J.C.

Further, in spite of the Board's urging to the contrary, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the improper comments made by Wannemacher, although certainly imprudent and unprofessional, do not warrant his dismissal in the context of his prior unblemished record and when measured against the conduct of respondent teaching staff members in recent cases who were dismissed largely due to their inappropriate comments to students. See In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Henry Komorowski, State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City, Hudson County, Commissioner Decision July 27, 2000, aff'd State Board December 6, 2000, where respondent was found to have engaged in graphic discussions with fifth grade students regarding torturing and killing one of the students in his class; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Roberts, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 284, aff'd State Board 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 349, aff'd App. Div. 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 549, where respondent was found to have spoken openly about sex, at times crudely, to have discussed his personal experiences and probed the conduct of his students, to have initiated monologues about sex, and to have commented on the sex lives and physical features of his students; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Sheridan, 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 257, aff'd State Board 92 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 393, where respondent was found to have used profanity in the presence of students, to have made derogatory remarks about women, to have made improper sexual references to students' bodies, and to have inferred that he was in a relationship with a student; In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Campbell, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 196, aff'd State Board 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 604, aff'd App. Div. 95 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 211, where respondent was found, inter alia, to have made racist remarks to students in class, to have commented that "girls can be stupid" to a student (id. at 207), to have told students that he's been known "to hit kids," (id. at 208) and to have engaged in a pattern of unprofessional conduct with parents, students and administrators generating numerous complaints, in spite of many prior warnings from administration; and In the Matter of Van Gilson, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 378, aff'd State Board 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 630, where respondent was found to have verbally abused and ridiculed a classified pupil in class, to have made derogatory and belittling comments to students, to have commented about a seventh grader's "hooters" and said "If I were 30 years younger, I'd go after her," (id. at 382, 385) to have used profanity when talking to a student, and to have discussed personal matters regarding his wife and their divorce with his students. Thus, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the extreme penalty of loss of tenured employment is not warranted under the circumstances of the within matter.

In concert with his penalty determination regarding the Board's tenure charges, the Commissioner considers Wannemacher's allegations that his 1999-2000 employment and adjustment increments were withheld arbitrarily and capriciously. (Petition of Appeal at 2) Here, the Board provided as reasoning for its withholding the following:

(a) sexual harassment of female students enrolled in your classes;
(b) use of sexually explicit and sexually suggestive remarks toward female students enrolled in your classes;
(c) inappropriate physical touching and contact with female students enrolled in your classes;
(d) a total lack of regard and concern for the educational progress and welfare of students enrolled in your classes;
(e) use of threatening and/or intimidating remarks and/or tactics toward students enrolled in your classes;
(f) use of inappropriate, disrespectful and disparaging remarks to students enrolled in your classes;
(g) discrimination against, and/or disparate treatment of, students enrolled in your classes; and
(h) use of language and/or tactics that undermine students' respect for, and integrity of, authority and the educational process. (Petition of Appeal at 2) (Exhibit R-44)

Recognizing that it is Wannemacher's burden to prove, by a preponderance of credible evidence, that the Board's decision to withhold his increment for the 1999-2000 school year was unreasonable, based on the facts, Kopera v. West Orange, 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960), and relying upon the above 15 factual findings made by the ALJ and affirmed herein as part of this consolidated matter, the Commissioner finds that Wannemacher has not demonstrated that the Board's action was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that since one of the eight reasons provided by the Board for withholding Wannemacher's increment is supported, at least in part, by these factual findings, i.e., that Wannemacher used inappropriate, disrespectful and disparaging remarks to students enrolled in his classes, the Board's action cannot be said to be without any rational basis. Thus, the Commissioner finds that Wannemacher's Petition of Appeal was properly dismissed.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is affirmed for the reasons set forth by the ALJ, as modified herein. Like the ALJ, the Commissioner concludes that much of the conduct alleged by the Board did not occur as described and that the nature of the conduct proven to have been exhibited by Wannemacher, supra, does not warrant dismissal or forfeiture of his 120-day salary, already withheld pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. As such, Wannemacher's salary withheld from him for the first 120 days of his suspension must be immediately restored. Rather, like the ALJ, the Commissioner finds that the loss of salary increments for the 1999-2000 school year is the appropriate sanction to impress upon Wannemacher that his conduct fell short of the "self-restraint and controlled behavior" required of a teaching staff member, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Jacque L. Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302, 321, and that, therefore, he must act with greater prudence in his comments to, and interactions with, students in his charge.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, former Superintendent of Schools, sought payment of his salary for the period between the effective date of his resignation pursuant to a settlement agreement with the Board and the date of the Commissioner's approval of the settlement approximately three weeks later. The Board opposed payment of salary for the period after the effective date of petitioner's resignation.

The ALJ determined that the settlement agreement between the parties is a binding contract and that, although petitioner would have been entitled to collect his salary until the Commissioner issued a determination in his tenure case, the settlement agreement set a different date through which petitioner would be paid a salary by the Board. Because the Commissioner approved the terms of the settlement agreement, the ALJ concluded that petitioner is bound by the terms of the agreement, including the date through which he is entitled to a salary.

The Commissioner initially agreed with petitioner that the terms of the settlement agreement should not have been effectuated by the Board before the Commissioner approved the terms of the settlement. However, the Commissioner also agreed with the ALJ that while petitioner may be technically correct that he was entitled to receive the payment of his full salary until the Commissioner made a determination on the tenure charges, it is clear that after the Commissioner's approval of the settlement, the Board would have been entitled to a credit for an overpayment of salary to petitioner under the terms of the settlement agreement. Consequently, the Commissioner adopted the determination of the ALJ that petitioner was only entitled to payment of his salary through December 31, 1999, per the terms of the settlement agreement between the parties.

George G. Frino, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: November 27, 2000 Decided: January 10, 2001

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner seeks a salary payment of approximately $7,437.30 from January 3, 2000 to January 21, 2000, the period between the effective date of his resignation, pursuant to a settlement agreement, and the date of the Commissioner's approval of the settlement agreement. Petitioner filed a petition seeking this payment and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on May 15, 2000, for hearing as a contested case. A prehearing conference was held and at that time the parties agreed that the matter could be decided by motion. As a result, attorney for respondent submitted a motion for summary decision and attorney for petitioner responded thereto. The record was closed by the administrative law judge (ALJ) on November 27, 2000.

FACTUAL DISCUSSION

Undisputed Facts:

The facts in this matter are not disputed and are set forth as follows:

1. The respondents filed and certified tenure charges against the petitioner on September 19, 1998.

2. The petitioner's salary was suspended on September 19, 1998 until January 1999, when he was restored to the payroll.

3. The parties executed a settlement agreement, which they submitted to the OAL on December 21, 1999; Judge Martone issued an initial decision dated December 30, 1999, recommending the approval of the settlement to the Commissioner of Education.

4. The respondent removed petitioner from the payroll and discontinued his salary while the initial decision was under review by the Commissioner. On January 12, 2000, petitioner's counsel requested that salary payments continue during the Commissioner's review of the ALJ's decision.

5. The Commissioner approved the settlement agreement by decision dated January 24, 2000. The settlement agreement was not implemented until the Commissioner's decision was issued and received by all parties.

6. The settlement agreement provides in relevant part:

WHEREAS, Dr. Williams is willing to resign from his position of Superintendent of Schools and in lieu of current salary, back pay, front pay, potential damages and attorneys fees is willing to settle all outstanding and pending litigated matters for the lump sum of Two Hundred Sixty Thousand Dollars ($260,000), provided however, that Dr. Williams will continue to receive his salary until December 31, 1999 at which time his salary and benefits shall cease (except for medical) and Dr. Williams shall receive the lump sum on or before January 15, 2000.

* * *

2. Dr. Williams, simultaneously with the withdrawal of the contractual-tenure charges and conditioned upon the payment described herein, submit a binding letter of resignation to the Board effective December 31, 1999 which the Board acknowledges and accepts;

* * *

6. Dr. Williams shall continue on the Board's medical plan until February 1, 2000, and thereafter have the right to extend group medical, hospitalization, prescription and/or dental insurance coverage, at his expense, under the COBRA law.

As a result of this Agreement, except as specifically set forth herein the Parties shall have no further obligations to each other.

The Superintendent hereby agrees to release and forever discharge the Board, its present and former individual members, successors, assigns, and agents from any and all past, present and future claims, suits, actions and law or in equity of any kind, in any forum that he may have against it or them, and agrees that execution of this Agreement shall serve as full and final satisfaction of same, except for any claims arising from a breach of this Agreement or any provision thereof.

Paragraph 5 of the petition in this matter alleges that when the settlement agreement was submitted to the OAL and to the Commissioner for approval, the respondent illegally stopped paying petitioner's salary from January 3, 2000 to January 21, 2000. Petitioner asserts that he was entitled to receive approximately $7,437.30 in salary payments from January 3, 2000 to January 21, 2000.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The petitioner argues that it is well settled that the Commissioner of Education has the authority to resolve and determine tenure matters, not boards of education, citing N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The petitioner asserts that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, which governs salary payments during tenure proceedings, is binding herein. This states in relevant part:

> Upon certification of any charge to the commissioner, the board may suspend the person against whom such charge is made, with or without pay, but, if the determination of the charge by the Commissioner of Education is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges, excluding all delays which are granted at the request of such person, then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made... (Emphasis supplied by petitioner).

The petitioner relies on the language of the statute that , ". . . the full salary. . . of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made . . ." and argues that the statute clearly provides that after an employee is suspended, and after serving a 120-day suspension, the board is obligated to restore the employee to the payroll until the Commissioner renders a determination on the charges.

The petitioner contends that the argument of the respondent board is erroneous when it takes the position that it had a right to implement the settlement terms by removing petitioner from the payroll and implementing his resignation made pursuant to the settlement on December 31, 1999, before the Commissioner's approval on January 24, 2000. Petitioner notes that the respondent did not pay petitioner the $260,000 lump sum payment as called for in paragraph three of the settlement agreement until February 2000. Other key terms of the settlement agreement which required action by January 15, 2000 were not performed until after the agreement was approved by the Commissioner.

Petitioner asserts that by arguing that it had the right to stop petitioner's salary payments, the respondent directly contravenes the authority of the Commissioner. Petitioner relies on the language in Union County Regional High School District No. 1 v. Minitelli, 1986 S.L.D. _____, CD 12-86 (Jan. 27, 1986), that, "[A] decision or settlement agreement rendered by the Office of Administrative Law is merely an initial decision recommended to [the Commissioner] by that body and that decision is not final until [the Commissioner] renders his own determination or he chooses not to act on the initial decision."

The petitioner argues that respondent has provided no legal support for unilaterally removing petitioner from the payroll. The petitioner seeks only the compensation which he asserts he was rightly due.

Respondents take the position that if the relief being requested by petitioner is granted, the respondents will have to consider an action either to re-open the settlement and/or to file an action in Superior Court on account of the breach of the settlement agreement. In any event, the respondents argue that no relief can be granted to petitioner herein, that the petition is frivolous, and that the settlement agreement and order should be enforced as written. They assert that any delay in processing the administration of this matter is not the fault of the respondents and is irrelevant to its form and effect.

Respondents argue that the law is that a settlement agreement between parties to a law suit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into between the parties and should be enforced as other contracts in the absence of fraud or other compelling circumstances. Respondents argue that in the absence of a rejection of the settlement agreement in this matter by the Commissioner, the settlement agreement is valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms. The respondents point out that the settlement agreement provides for a payment of salary to petitioner up until December 31, 1999, following which he resigns effective that date and is no longer entitled to any salary. Accordingly, they take the position that under the terms of the settlement agreement petitioner is not entitled to the payment of salary after the effective date of his resignation, and that his petition should be denied.

Court-enunciated principles encouraging settlements also apply to settlement agreements made before administrative agencies. In Zuccarelli v. State, 326 N.J. Super. 372, 380-381 (App. Div. 1999), the Court noted the strong public policy favoring the settlement of litigation, citing Nolan v. Lee Ho, 120 N.J. 465, 472 (1990) (quoting Jannarone v. W.T. Co., 65 N.J. Super. 472, 476 (App. Div. 1961), certif. denied, 35 N.J. 61 (1961)). Thus, when an agreement to settle a lawsuit is voluntarily entered into it is binding on the parties. Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118 (App. Div. 1983), certif. denied, 94 N.J. 600 (1983). A settlement agreement between parties to a lawsuit is a contract. Nolan, supra, 120 N.J. at 472 (citing Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 124). In Pascarella it was noted that "an agreement to settle a lawsuit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into and which a court, absent a demonstration of fraud or other compelling circumstances, should honor and enforce as it does other contracts." Pascarella, supra, 190 N.J. Super. at 124-25; Hannigan v. Township of Old Bridge, 288 N.J. Super. 313, 319 (App. Div. 1996), certif.. denied, 144 N.J. 588 (1996); Montville Bd. of Ed. v. Pinto, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 507, 511. Settlement agreements are contracts governed by "general principles of contract law," and even a subsequent change in the law is not sufficient reason to rescind a settlement agreement. New Jersey Mfrs. v. O'Connell, 300 N.J. Super. 1, 7 (App. Div. 1997), certif.. denied, 151 N.J. 75 (1997); Montville Bd. of Ed. v. Pinto, supra at 511-512 .

As pointed out by respondents, in Montville Bd. of Ed. v. Pinto, supra, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 507, the Commissioner enforced a settlement agreement as written with a resignation date effective prior to the requisite Commissioner's approval. In that matter, the ALJ stated (at 511-512):

> A settlement agreement between parties to a lawsuit is a contract which, like all contracts, may be freely entered into. Pascarella v. Bruck, 190 N.J. Super. 118 (App. Div. 1983), certif. den. 94 N.J. 600 (1983). Basic contract law controls, whether the Commissioner or a court is reviewing this question.

> When a lawyer has authority from a client, the lawyer may bind that client to a settlement. New Jersey Highway Authority v. Renner, 32 N.J. Super. 197 (App. Div. 1954). I have already found that Oxfeld had authority from Pinto to settle this case on November 19, 1990. There is no dispute over Rand's settlement authority especially since the entire Board ratified his actions on November 20, 1990.
>
> Oxfeld on November 19, 1990, stated that Pinto would resign in return to paid leave and other benefits. When Rand accepted on behalf of the BOE, a binding contract occurred. Eg., First Presbyterian Church, Newark v. Howard Co. Jewelers, 12 N.J. 410, 413-414 (1953). An agreement to settle a lawsuit, voluntarily entered into, is binding upon the parties, whether or not made in the presence of a court and even in the absence of a writing. Accord, Good v. Pennsylvania R.R., 384 F.2d 989, 999 (3rd Cir. 1967).
>
> Finally, the Office of Administrative Law in this matter has a policy interest which is distinct from the transmitting agency. The OAL believes in encouraging fair settlements that are consistent with the applicable law in order to divert unnecessary litigation from its dockets. See E.g., N.J.A.C. 1:1-4.2, 1:1-8.1, 1:1-10.1(a), 1:1-19.1 and 1:1-20.1. This OAL policy is akin to the courts "strong public policy in this state in favor of settlements." Department of Public Advocate v. N.J. Board of Public Utilities, 206 N.J. Super. 523, 528 (App. Div. 1985).

The settlement agreement in this matter is a contract between the parties and should be enforced as other contracts in the absence of fraud or other compelling circumstances. Hagrish v. Olson, 254 N.J. Super. 133, 137 (App. Div. 1992). If there were no settlement agreement, petitioner would have been entitled to receive the payment of his full salary until the Commissioner made a determination on the tenure charges pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14. However, after the parties entered into the settlement agreement, their respective rights, duties and relationship are controlled by the terms of the settlement agreement, absent a determination by the Commissioner to set aside the settlement as violative of the public interest pursuant to In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, aff'd, State Board, 1990 S.L.D. 846. In the absence of a rejection of the settlement by the Commissioner, the settlement agreement is valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

The settlement agreement in this matter provides for the payment of salary to petitioner until December 31, 1999, which is the effective date of his resignation. As of that date petitioner is no longer entitled to any salary. I note that the settlement agreement herein does not provide in any way that its efficacy is contingent on its approval by the Commissioner.

Petitioner may be technically correct that he was entitled to receive the payment of his full salary until the Commissioner made a determination on the tenure charges. However, it is also clear that after the Commissioner's approval of the settlement, the respondent would have been entitled to a credit for an overpayment of salary to petitioner under the terms of the settlement agreement since his resignation was to be effective as of December 31, 2000. Any delay which occurred in processing the settlement was not the fault of either party and is irrelevant to the form and effect of the settlement agreement.

Based upon the foregoing, I FIND that in the absence of a showing of fraud, bad faith or violation of the law, and in the absence of a disapproval of the settlement agreement by the Commissioner of Education pursuant to In re Cardonick, the settlement agreement between the parties is valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that respondents herein are under no obligation to provide any additional salary payments to petitioner and that petitioner is not entitled to receive approximately $7,437.30 in salary payments for the period from January 3, 2000, to January 21, 2000.

DECISION AND ORDER

For the reasons stated above, it is hereby ORDERED that petitioner's petition seeking additional salary payments to petitioner of approximately $7,437.30 from January 3, 2000, to January 21, 2000, is hereby DENIED and DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

n thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed ny party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE NT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, 8625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, AND THERESA BEBEE THOMAS, PRESIDENT OF THE ATLANTIC CITY BOARD OF EDUCATION, ATLANTIC COUNTY, INDIVIDUALLY AND JOINTLY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner initially notes his agreement with petitioner's position that the settlement terms in the tenure matter against him should not have been effectuated before the Commissioner issued a final decision. In that decision, the parties were cautioned against the effectuation of settlement terms prior to the approval of a settlement by the Commissioner. At page 8 of the final decision, the Commissioner specifically stated that > the terms of the settlement appear to have been effectuated prior to the Commissioner's approval. He, therefore, reminds the parties that they acted at their peril in so doing and cautions them and other litigants whose controverted matters have been duly transmitted to the OAL against effectuation of any settlement prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. (In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, decided by the Commissioner of Education January 24, 2000, slip opinion at 8)

Furthermore, the Commissioner finds meritless any suggestion by the Board that it was justified in carrying out terms of the settlement prior to final disposition of the tenure matter because "any delay in processing the administration of [the tenure] matter is not the fault of the respondents and is irrelevant to its form and effect." (Initial Decision at 5) The papers which are incorporated as part of the controverted settlement agreement indicate that the signature process documenting the parties' acceptance of the settlement agreement was not completed until the signatures for the Board were submitted to the OAL on December 21, 1999. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) issued the Initial Decision on December 30, 1999. The case file was transferred to the Commissioner by the OAL on January 6, 2000 and the final decision was issued on January 24, 2000. By law, the ALJ and the Commissioner each had 45 days within which to issue a decision. Even with the Board's anticipation that review of the tenure matter would be expedited, the Board should not have effectuated any of the settlement terms until the Commissioner's decision was issued, and in so doing, it acted at its own peril, as indicated by the litigation of the instant matter.

Nonetheless, upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's recommendation that the instant matter be dismissed because he fully concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that:

> Petitioner may be technically correct that he was entitled to receive the payment of his full salary until the Commissioner made a determination on the tenure charges. However, it is also clear that after the Commissioner's approval of the settlement, the [Board] would have been entitled to a credit for an overpayment of salary to petitioner under the terms of the settlement agreement since his resignation was to be effective as of December 31, [1999]. (emphasis supplied) (Initial Decision at 8)

Accordingly, for the reasons stated in the Initial Decision, as amplified herein, the petition of appeal is hereby dismissed.

Record Closed: November 27, 2000 Decided: January 5, 2001

BEFORE ARNOLD SAMUELS, ALJ

On September 19, 1997, the petitioner, Pamela M. Pfister, filed a Verified Petitioner with the Commissioner of Education alleging that the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of Roxbury, violated her seniority rights in reducing her hours and hiring another individual in a part-time computer teacher position. The petitioner is tenured and holds an Elementary School Teacher Certification.

The respondent filed a Motion for Summary Decision, which was initially opposed by the petitioner. However, both parties subsequently agreed that the matter was appropriate for Summary Decision on both procedural and substantive issues. After several conferences, oral argument was held on April 17, 2000, accompanied by briefs filed by both parties. Settlement discussions were subsequently entered into by the parties, which ultimately resulted in an agreement, signed by the petitioner and by the Secretary of the respondent Board of Education. A copy of the settlement agreement, together with an extract of the Board Resolution adopting the settlement was filed in the Office of Administrative Law on November 27, 2000.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter in accordance with the attached agreement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1 The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement, as evidenced by their signatures on the attached agreement.

It is CONCLUDED that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

For the Board, Mitzy Galis-Menendez, Esq. (Chasan, Leyner, Bariso & Lamparello)

For Respondent, Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq. (Oxfeld Cohen, LLC)[1]

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 1, 2001 through certification of tenure charges of incapacity due to chronic and excessive absenteeism, and conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member against a tenured teacher of Special Education by the Board of Education of Union City; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on February 1, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against him[2]; and

Such communication clearly having provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no

Notwithstanding such notice, an Answer was filed on behalf of respondent on February 22, 2001, six days after the Answer was due,[3] although no extension had been requested by or on behalf of respondent, and no explanation for such late filing was provided; and

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicating that, during the 2000-2001 school year, respondent has been absent a total of 20 full days and 7 half days, as of November 17, 2000 (Board's Statement of Charges at 2); during the 1999-2000 school year, respondent was absent a total of 67 days and was late 3 ½ days, thereby causing the Board to take disciplinary action and deduct 57 days from respondent's salary (ibid.); during the 1998-99 school year, respondent was absent 28 full days, 12 half days and was late on 8 occasions, thereby causing the Board to take disciplinary action on several occasions, to vote to withhold respondent's salary and adjustment increment for 1999-2000 school year, and to charge respondent with chronic absenteeism (ibid.);[4] during the 1997-98 school year, respondent was absent 42 days (including half days and days late), thereby prompting the Board to take disciplinary action in the form of salary deductions (id. at 2-3); during the 1996-97 school year, respondent was absent 13 full days, and 5 half days, thereby causing the Board to make a deduction in his salary and to conduct a disciplinary hearing to address respondent's absences

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges further indicating that, due to his chronic and excessive absences, as set forth above, respondent is not available to the students who place their trust in him as a Special Education Teacher (ibid.); that respondent has failed to submit a plan book and resource schedule for the current school year, which materials are critical because respondent's students require a consistent and organized environment in their educational program (id. at 4); that respondent took a pair of glasses belonging to a student, allegedly to have them fixed, but failed to report to work the next day, thereby leaving the child unable to effectively perform his school work (ibid.); and

These charges being deemed admitted by respondent by virtue of his failure to submit a timely response; and

The Commissioner finding that respondent's actions constitute incapacity to perform his job function due to his chronic and excessive absenteeism and lateness over a period of five years and conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member sufficient to warrant his dismissal from his tenured position; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 2nd day of March 2001 that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and Dale Brooks shall be dismissed from his tenured position as a teacher in the Board's employ as of the date of this order. This matter shall be referred to the Petitioner challenged the Board's determination that her child was not domiciled in the District and its demand for tuition from petitioner.

The ALJ determined that petitioner's child had been entitled to a free public education until December 31, 1999 because of a family hardship but was not entitled to a free education in the District after that time. The ALJ ordered payment of tuition to the Board.

The Assistant Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ and ordered petitioner to pay the District tuition in the amount of $4,740.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6739-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 253-7/00

A.D., ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, N.A.D.,

Petitioner,

v.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NORTH PLAINFIELD, SOMERSET COUNTY,

Respondent.

A.D., petitioner, pro se

Theodore Gast, Esq., for respondent (Vogel and Gast, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 1, 2000 Decided: January 17, 2001

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner challenged the Board of Education's determination of residency. The petitioner appealed to the Department of Education and on September 15, 2000, the Department of Education transmitted this matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing and determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52: 14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. The case was heard on November 20, 2000 and on December 1, 2000.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

In June, 1999, petitioner who lives in Belleville, gave temporary custody of her daughter, N.A.D., to her sister, C.D., who lives in North Plainfield. Petitioner took this action because of the disruption caused by a foster child in the home. N.A.D. entered a North Plainfield school. Petitioner gave up her foster child in December 31, 1999, but as N.A.D. was doing well, N.A.D. did not return home. The Board of Education of North Plainfield decided to that N.A.D. was entitled to a free, public education in North Plainfield until December 31, 1999 based on family hardship, but that after that date, there was no longer a reason for N.A.D. to be out of the home, and that, therefore, she was no longer entitled to a free, public education at North Plainfield.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Having had the opportunity to observe and to judge the demeanor and credibility of all witnesses in their testimony, and upon review of all the evidence and exhibits submitted, and drawing reasonable inferences there from, I FIND the following as FACT by a preponderance of the credible evidence:

1. Because of a family hardship, N.A.D. attended a North Plainfield School in school year 1999-2000.

2. The foster child, who was the cause of the family hardship, was removed from A.D.'s home in December, 1999.

3. N.A.D. did not demonstrate any behavioral or academic problems while in North Plainfield schools.

4. The Board appropriately decided that, for reasons of family hardship, N.A.D. was entitled to a free, public education in North Plainfield School District until December 31, 1999.

5. The Board also appropriately decided that the reason for the family hardship (the foster child) was removed from the home and that the family hardship reason no longer existed after December 31, 1999.

6. N.A.D. returned to school in Belleville for School Year 2000-2001.

7. Throughout this time; A.D. listed N.A.D. as a dependent on from her income tax.

8. N.A.D. was not being supported by C.D. during school year 1999-2000, as if she were C.D.'s own child.

9. The tuition cost for January, 2000 through the end of the school year 2000 is $4,740.

DISCUSSION

The relevant statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, states that public schools shall be free to all domiciliaries of the school district, and also to any child who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and who is supported by such other person gratis as if she were such other person's own child. Further, a showing is required that the domiciliary intends to keep and support the child without cost to the parent for a longer time than merely throughout the school term.

The Board made an allowance for the hardship created by the foster child in A.D.'s home, but the foster child left A.D.'s home in December, 1999. The hardship ended at that time. N.A.D. continued for the rest of the school year at North Plainfield for her own and her mother's personal preference and convenience, and not because of any hardship. No showing was made that C.D. intended to keep and support the child without cost to the parent for a longer time than merely throughout the school term. Rather, A.D. said that N.A.D. wanted to stay in the North Plainfield school for a dance recital, and A.D. wanted her to stay at her sister's until the damage to the walls and furniture caused by the foster child was repaired, and the stress caused by the presence of the foster child was lessened.

ORDER

It is therefore ORDERED that petitioner owes North Plainfield School District the tuition cost for January, 2000 through the end of the school year 2000, or $4,740.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed by the Assistant Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Assistant Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge's finding that N.A.D. was entitled to a free public education in respondent's district until December 31, 1999, based on family hardship. The Assistant Commissioner further concurs that, after December 31, 1999, family hardship no longer existed and, therefore, petitioner is responsible for N.A.D.'s tuition in the amount of $4,740 for the period of N.A.D.'s ineligible attendance from January 2000 through the end of the school year.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted for the reasons expressed therein.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Assistant Commissioner of Education, March 2, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, DeMeo & LaVista (Alfonse A. DeMeo, Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Vogel & Gast (Theodore E. Gast, Esq., of Counsel)

A.D. (hereinafter "appellant") filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education challenging a determination by the North Plainfield Board of Education that her daughter was not entitled to a free public education in the district after December 31, 1999. On March 2, 2001, an Assistant Commissioner of Education, acting on behalf of the Commissioner pursuant to authority granted by N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, upheld the North Plainfield Board's determination.

On April 6, 2001, the appellant filed the instant appeal to the State Board of Education.

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.11(a), the appellant's brief in support of her appeal was due on April 26, 2001, 20 days after she filed her notice of appeal. Counsel for the appellant requested and was granted an extension for filing an appeal brief until May 11. He subsequently requested and was granted a second extension until May 18. The appellant, however, failed to file a brief by that date. By letter dated May 25, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office notified counsel for the appellant of his failure to file a brief in support of the appeal and informed him that this matter was being referred to the Legal Committee of the State Board for consideration of the appellant's failure to perfect the appeal.

The appellant has still failed to file a brief in support of her appeal, more than seven weeks after the extended deadline for such filing and more than six weeks after her counsel was advised of such failure. Nor has the appellant offered any explanation for her failure to file or requested an additional extension of time. As a result, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to perfect. IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF RYAN ING, SCHOOL	:
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Board filed tenure charges of conduct unbecoming a teaching staff member against respondent based on his attempt to forge an inappropriate relationship with a 13-year-old female student, and his sending of notes to students in contemplation of his suicide. Respondent admitted the charges dealing with his relationship with a 13-year-old student but denied the fourth charge pertaining to the suicide note, and raised as an affirmative defense that he was diagnosed with bi-polar disorder and, after having received psychotherapy and medication, asserts he is able to continue his teaching career.

The ALJ granted summary decision to the Board on the first three charges and, after conducting a hearing, concluded that the fourth charge was substantiated by the Board. The ALJ considered and discounted respondent's affirmative defense, and recommended respondent's removal from his position.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ for the reasons set forth therein and determined that the appropriate penalty was dismissal of respondent from his teaching position. The Commissioner also referred the case to the State Board of Examiners for action, as the Board deems appropriate, against respondent's certificate.

INITIAL DECISION
OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3122-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 75-2/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF RYAN ING, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.

David F. Corrigan, Esq., and Mary E. Hennessy, Esq., for the School District of the City of Elizabeth
(Murray, Murray & Corrigan, attorneys)

Sanford R. Oxfeld, Esq., for Ryan Ing
(Oxfeld Cohen, LLC)

Record Closed: December 15, 2000 Decided: January 12, 2001

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

The School District of the City of Elizabeth ("District" or "petitioner") filed charges against Ryan Ing ("respondent"), whom it employees as a tenured teacher. The charges include four allegations of conduct unbecoming a teacher.

Three of the charges are based on an attempt by respondent to forge a romantic relationship with a thirteen-year-old female student. The first charge is that respondent engaged in sexually explicit conversations and correspondence with the student in an attempt to create the relationship. The second charge is that respondent kissed the student. The third charge is that respondent transported the student in his vehicle without the knowledge or permission of her parents. The fourth charge against respondent is that he drafted suicide notes to his students.

In his answer, respondent admitted the factual allegations related to the first, second and third charges and denied the fourth charge. As an affirmative defense, respondent asserted that he suffered from an undiagnosed psychiatric condition known as bi-polar disorder and that having received psychotherapy, counseling and medication, he is now able to continue his career as a teacher.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The District filed the charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher with the Commissioner of Education on February 28, 2000. Respondent filed an answer on March 7, 2000, and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 22, 2000, for determination as a contested case.

On April 25, 2000, petitioner filed a motion for summary decision, which was opposed by respondent. By Order dated June 6, 2000, petitioner's motion was granted in part and denied in part. Partial summary decision was granted sustaining charges one, two and three and denying summary decision with respect to the fourth charge and the question of removal.

The hearing commenced on June 7, 2000, and continued for a total of three days. Hearing dates were adjourned several times for reasons related to illnesses of respondent's expert witness. The record closed on December 15, 2000, upon receipt of briefs.

ISSUES

The issues to be addressed at the hearing were whether the fourth charge should be sustained and whether removal is warranted under the circumstances of this case. In his post-hearing brief, respondent stated that he is not challenging removal from the District but that he should not lose his certification due to his medical condition and the opinion of his expert that he can continue to teach.

FACTS

The facts related to the first three charges were set forth in the Order granting partial summary decision as follows:

a. Respondent is a tenured teacher employed by petitioner since October 21, 1996.

b. During the 1999-2000 school year, respondent was assigned to teach social studies at the Westminster Academy, which is also known as School No. 26, where he taught seventh and eighth grades.

c. B.C.[1] is a thirteen-year-old girl, who was a student in respondent's social studies and leadership classes during the 1999-2000 school year.

d. During the period from approximately December 22, 1999, to January 8, 2000, respondent attempted to forge a romantic relationship with B.C.

e. In furtherance of this effort, respondent wrote several letters to B.C. expressing his admiration and love for her. The letters contain an outpouring of emotion.

f. On several occasions, respondent contacted B.C. at home by telephone to engage in social conversations.

g. Respondent met with B.C. socially on two occasions and took her for a ride in his motor vehicle without the knowledge or permission of her parents.

h. On one occasion, respondent kissed B.C.

[1] Fictitious initials are used herein.

SUMMARY OF EVIDENCE

Respondent's first witness was Lydia E. Furnari, who is the principal of School No. 26. Through this witness, petitioner presented thirteen notes which respondent sent to students at about the same time that he sent a letter to Ms. Furnari acknowledging his conduct and stating that he would not be returning to school. The letter to the principal was dated January 7, 2000, which was a Friday, and was received on Monday, January 10, 2000. The students also received the notes on January 10, 2000. In the letter to the principal, respondent stated that he intended to end his life. Two notes contain oblique references to suicide. In one note, respondent writes: "Having lost your respect kills me." (Emphasis in original.) In another, respondent states: "I'll be wishing you luck in basketball from above." In all of the notes, respondent in substance apologizes for his conduct and for being a poor role model.

In Ms. Furnari's view, respondent violated the trust between teacher and student and between teacher and parents and other staff. In Ms. Furnari's opinion, respondent should not be returned to school as a teaching staff member in the District or anywhere else in New Jersey.

Martha Weber is employed by respondent as its Director of Human Resources. After respondent acknowledged his conduct, he was suspended from his employment, and he has not returned to school. Ms. Weber described how upset the student's parents and siblings were when they were apprised of the situation. In addition, one of the other students was very upset by the notes from respondent. In Ms. Weber's view, respondent failed to teach trust and responsibility. Respondent should not be returned to the District or any other school.

Respondent acknowledged his relationship with the thirteen-year-old female student, and he admitted that he sent the notes in question to the other students. By Friday, January 7, 2000, respondent was aware that the other students knew about his relationship with B.C. Respondent removed his personal belongings from the school and contemplated suicide. Respondent then wrote the notes to the students and the letter to the principal. On both Saturday and Sunday, respondent met B.C. and took her for a ride in his car.

Respondent then proceeded with his plan to commit suicide. Before doing so, respondent called his girlfriend, who contacted the police. Respondent ultimately changed his mind, and when he arrived at his apartment, the police were waiting for him.

As a result of this situation, respondent was involuntarily committed, and he remained at the Carrier Clinic for eighteen days. The diagnosis was bi-polar disorder. Prior to this time, he was not aware that he had a mental disorder. The treatment included group therapy in a very structured environment and medication. After his discharge, respondent continued to see a psychiatrist and to take medication. Respondent recognizes that his relationship with the thirteen-year-old girl was inappropriate. At the time, respondent did not realize that the relationship could be harmful to the student. Respondent has not made an attempt to commit suicide since leaving the Carrier Clinic.

Seymour F. Kuvin, M.D., is a psychiatrist who was accepted as an expert and testified on behalf of respondent. Dr. Kuvin examined respondent on July 6, 2000. Dr. Kuvin's diagnoses are major depression of a recurrent nature and bi-polar disorder. During the examination, respondent demonstrated an appreciation of the nature and gravity of his actions, although that was not the case at the time of his misconduct. Dr. Kuvin expressed the opinion that with appropriate treatment including counseling and medication, respondent would be able to continue teaching.

Alvin Krass was accepted as an expert in psychology and testified for petitioner. Dr. Krass conducted a psychological evaluation of respondent on May 26, 2000. During an interview, respondent was concerned about his own psychological well-being, and he did not demonstrate an appreciation of the inappropriateness of a relationship with a thirteen-year-old female or the potential harm to the student. Respondent did not take responsibility for the situation. Dr. Krass expressed the opinion that respondent is not an appropriate candidate for return to the classroom and that he should find another career.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

A tenured teacher holds his position under tenure during good behavior and efficiency and may not be dismissed or reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct or other just cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The first, second and third charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher were sustained in the Order granting partial summary decision.

The fourth charge is that respondent engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher by sending suicide notes to his students. The facts in regard to this charge are essentially undisputed, and I FIND as follows. After becoming aware that the other students knew about his relationship with B.C., respondent contemplated suicide and developed a plan to end his own life on a Sunday evening. Before carrying out his plan, respondent wrote thirteen notes to his students. Two of the notes contained oblique references to respondent's contemplated suicide. However, respondent intended that all of the notes would be received after he committed suicide.

It seems evident that the notes could have a detrimental impact on the students, particularly if respondent had actually committed suicide. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the fourth charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher must be sustained.

The next question is whether the circumstances of this case warrant dismissal. Factors to consider in making this determination include the nature and gravity of the offenses under all the circumstances involved, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation, and any harm or injurious effect which the teacher's conduct may have had on the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 422 (App. Div. 1967).

In regard to the nature and gravity of the offenses, respondent took advantage of his position as a teacher to forge a romantic relationship with a thirteen-year-old female student in his class. In doing so, he did not display any appreciation of or regard for the emotional impact on the student. Respondent's conduct betrayed the trust which was placed in him as a teacher of children. In addition, respondent disregarded the potential emotional impact on his students by sending them notes which were to be received after his contemplated suicide. Two of the notes contained oblique references to his contemplated suicide. Thus, respondent's misconduct is very serious in that it created a risk of emotional harm to the thirteen-year-old girl and his other students.

Respondent's primary contention is that his conduct was the result of an undiagnosed mental condition and that this is a mitigating circumstance. Respondent maintains that with proper treatment including counseling and medication he can return to the classroom. In support of his contention, respondent cites several cases in which charges were sustained but the penalty was less than removal due to mitigating circumstances. In In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Dorothy Howard, 93 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 788, charges of incapacity and excessive absenteeism were sustained against a teacher who was an alcoholic. However, the State Board of Education reversed the removal of the teacher because alcoholism is a handicap under the Law Against Discrimination, N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -49, requiring accommodation. In addition, since returning to school after an absence, the teacher improved her attendance. Similarly, in In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of H. Evelyn Cohn, 1983 S.L.D. 633, Cohn threatened to kill a secretary with a knife, which she showed to another teacher. Cohn was disarmed before she did any actual harm to the secretary. The school district filed charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher and sought Cohn's removal. Cohn asserted mitigating circumstances in that she was suffering from various physical and mental medical conditions and presented testimony of a psychiatrist to the effect that she could return to work. The charge of conduct unbecoming a teacher was sustained, but the penalty was loss of one month's pay, as opposed to removal, because Cohn's actions were the result of personal difficulties which had been resolved.

Respondent relies on Parsippany-Troy Hills School District v. Hess, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 34. In this case, Hess engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher by making inappropriate comments to female students. Despite presenting testimony of a psychiatric expert, Hess was removed from his position as a teacher.

It must be recognized that teachers are entrusted with the care and custody of school children. This public trust places a heavy duty on a teacher to exercise self-restraint and controlled behavior. Teachers who violate the public trust by disregarding the well-being of the student and indulging their own self-interest must expect dismissal or other serious consequences. Here, respondent's misconduct is similar in nature but worse than in Hess and surely warrants dismissal absent mitigating circumstances. While the testimony of respondent's expert was convincing that respondent's contemplation of suicide was the result of depression, I am not persuaded that respondent's involvement with the thirteen-year-old female student was caused by his undiagnosed condition. Additionally, the testimony of petitioner's expert to the effect that respondent should not be returned to the District was more persuasive. Continued employment of respondent would pose an unacceptable risk to students. Therefore, I CONCLUDE that removal is warranted under the circumstances of this case.

It has become evident that respondent is more concerned with the possible impact of this situation on his teaching certificate than with the loss of his position with the District. This concern is not properly the subject of this proceeding, but it is evident that this matter should be referred to the Board of Examiners for consideration.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that:

1. The four charges of conduct unbecoming a teacher are sustained.

2. The penalty is removal from respondent's position.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 3122-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 75-2/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF RYAN ING, SCHOOL	:
DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon an independent and careful review of the record,[1] the Commissioner agrees with the findings and conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that each of the Board's four charges of unbecoming conduct against respondent have been sustained, and the appropriate penalty is respondent's dismissal from his tenured teaching position.

Initially, the Commissioner affirms the ALJ's June 6, 2000 Order granting partial summary decision to the Board on Charge Nos. 1, 2 and 3 of its four tenure charges against respondent based on the uncontested facts enumerated by the ALJ on page 3 of his Initial Decision and the evidentiary record in this matter.[2] The Commissioner further adopts the ALJ's

[1] It is noted that the record did not contain transcripts of the hearing conducted below.

[2] Specifically, such charges read: "Charge No. 1 – Mr. Ryan Ing is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher by engaging in sexually explicit conversations and correspondence with a female student at various times during the years 1999 to 2000. Mr. Ing did contact by telephone, on several occasions, a thirteen year old student in his class in an attempt to forge a romantic and/or sexual relationship with the student. (Exhibits A-F). Charge No. 2 – Mr. Ryan Ing is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher by kissing and/or inappropriately touching a thirteen year old student during the years 1999 to 2000. (Exhibit C). Charge No. 3 – Mr. Ryan Ing is guilty of conduct unbecoming a teacher by contacting a thirteen year old female student and transporting the student in his vehicle to engage in a physical relationship without the knowledge or permission of the student's parents. (Exhibit C)." See Statement of Charges, January 27, 2000.

conclusion here that the Board's Charge No. 4 of unbecoming conduct has similarly been sustained, since he concurs that the notes respondent sent to his students in contemplation of his suicide (see Exhibits P-2A, P-2B, P-2C, P-2D, P-2E, P-2F, P-2G, P-2H, P-2I, P-2J, P-2K, P-2L, and P-2M), could have had a significant detrimental impact on these students, particularly if respondent had ultimately committed suicide. In reaching his determination, the Commissioner notes that it is well-established that teachers are in a unique position of public trust and, as such, are required to adhere to an enhanced standard of behavior and to serve as positive role models to students and to the community. See In re Sammons, 1972 S.L.D. 302; In re Tordo, 1974 S.L.D. 97. Moreover, as the Commissioner has previously observed:

> The peculiar relationship between the teacher and his pupils is such that it is highly important that the character of the teacher be above reproach. [][P]arents and pupils regard the teacher as an exemplar whose conduct might be followed by his pupils, and the law by necessary intendment demands that he should not engage in conduct which would invite criticism and suspicions of immorality. In re Quinn, 1975 S.L.D. 397, 411, quoting Tracy v. School District No. 22, 70 Wyo. 1, 243 P.2d 932, 937 (1952).

Here, there is no question that respondent violated the teacher-pupil relationship by engaging in improper interaction with a 13-year-old eighth grade student, whose interest he was obligated to safeguard. A review of the letters written by respondent to this young girl, wherein he expresses his thoughts, fantasies and romantic feelings toward her, leave no doubt as to their inappropriateness. The Commissioner also finds disquieting that the record evidences that respondent was cognizant of the unbefitting nature of his conduct and instructed the young student not to let her parents find his letters and to keep their relationship quiet. (See P-3, P-4, P-5, P-7, P-8, P-12.)

With regard to the determination of the appropriate penalty to be imposed in this matter, the Commissioner is mindful that he is required to consider: the nature and gravity of respondent's offenses under all the circumstances involved; his prior record in the District, any evidence as to provocation, extenuation or aggravation; and any harm or injurious effect which his conduct may have had in the maintenance of discipline and the proper administration of the school system. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super. 404, 421-22 (App. Div. 1967). In so considering, the Commissioner is in full agreement with the ALJ that:

> [R]espondent took advantage of his position as a teacher to forge a romantic relationship with a thirteen-year-old female student in his class. In doing so, he did not display any appreciation of or regard for the emotional impact on the student. Respondent's conduct betrayed the trust which was placed in him as a teacher of children. In addition, respondent disregarded the potential emotional impact on his students by sending them notes which were to be received after his contemplated suicide. Two of the notes contained oblique references to his contemplated suicide. Thus, respondent's misconduct is very serious in that it created a risk of emotional harm to the thirteen-year-old girl and his other students. (Initial Decision at 6-7)

As such, the Commissioner finds and concludes that the behavior established here transcends the boundaries of conduct which can be tolerated from a teaching staff member in a position of authority who has a responsibility for the custody and care of children, necessitating respondent's dismissal from his position. Furthermore, the Commissioner determines that, based on the record before him, this result is in no way altered by respondent's subsequent diagnosis of, and treatment for, a bi-polar disorder, as he, like the ALJ, is "not persuaded that respondent's involvement with the thirteen-year-old female student was caused by his undiagnosed condition." (Initial Decision at 8)

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed therein, the Commissioner affirms the Initial Decision of the OAL and hereby orders that Ryan Ing be dismissed from his tenured teaching position with the School District of the City of Elizabeth as of the date of this decision. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action, as that body deems appropriate, against respondent's certificate.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

Record Closed: February 20, 2001 Decided: February 21, 2001

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter was opened before the undersigned on an application for temporary emergent relief filed by E.G., parent of minor child, E.G., Jr., pro se. The petition of appeal filed on January 4, 2001, alleged that student E.G., Jr. had been wrongfully suspended from school on two occasions on charges of engaging in physical altercations or rude and discourteous conduct. The petition further alleged failure of teaching staff members to take appropriate prophylactic measures to defuse problems between students or to take proper corrective measures to rectify problems and sought:

> an emergent order to have the staff members of Thomas Hopkins Middle School stop denying my son help when he raises a complaint against another student, and to take corrective measures to rectify or defuse minor problems before they get out of hand. Corrective measures defined as changing the students seating arrangement and having a guidance councilor intervene with mediation between the parents and children, before any serious confrontation or violation of rules are allowed to occur between the children. Without this emergent order of relief the petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if not granted.

On January 17, 2001, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. The transmittal letter advised the parties that the matter was being transmitted to the OAL without an answer for disposition of the emergent relief request. A return date for oral argument on the motion for temporary emergent relief was scheduled for Friday, January 26, 2001, before the undersigned administrative law judge. By letter dated January 25, 2001, petitioner requested an adjournment of the oral argument in order to retain counsel to represent him. By separate letter dated January 27, 2001, petitioner requested a subpoena to obtain his son's school records. The undersigned replied by letter dated January 30, 2001, as follows:

> Pursuant to your January 27, 2001 letter to me, I am enclosing a blank form of subpoena. I believe, however, that you are entitled to see and copy the records you seek without the necessity of a subpoena pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.1 to 6.8. You are also entitled to discovery materials in the course of this litigation pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1 to 10.6. Just so we are all clear as to what is scheduled for February 9, 2001 at 1:30 p.m. – there is no hearing that day, only oral argument on a motion for temporary emergent relief. The standards for determining such a motion require me to find:
> 1) The applicant has a reasonable probability of ultimately prevailing on the merits; i.e., the relevant facts are not in dispute and legal rights are relatively well defined;

2) temporary relief pending the outcome on the merits is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, i.e., harm which cannot be retroactively addressed with monetary damages or correcting paperwork, etc., and

3) the relief is narrowly drawn to prevent the specific harm from occurring and to impose as little hardship as possible.

The hearing on the merits herein is scheduled for April 3, 2001. We will discuss any question you may have about the procedures for the plenary hearing when we meet on the record on February 9, 2001.

By letter dated January 31, 2001, Ms. Franchio entered her appearance as counsel for petitioner and requested an adjournment of the oral argument scheduled for February 9, 2001, to permit sufficient time to prepare. Accordingly, the matter was rescheduled for February 20, 2001.

On February 13, 2001, counsel for respondent filed a letter memorandum and a certification of Lawrence Penny in opposition to the application for emergent relief. He also filed an answer to the petition of appeal with the Commissioner's office. Nothing further was received from counsel for petitioner until February 20, 2001, when she hand-delivered the certification of student E.G., Jr. and a proposed form of order requesting the following relief:

a. Petitioner's request that teachers at the Thomas Hopkins Middle School, Burlington Township adhere to the school's policy and respond to the requests for help of E.G., Jr., to listen to his complaints, and take the necessary steps to address the situation at hand;

b. Take affirmative steps to accelerate a Peer Mediation Session that was and is still today being requested by Petitioner's Son, E.G., Jr., to address the situation in order to prevent escalation to a potentially dangerous situation; with list of students to be determined and agreed upon by Petitioners and Administration;

c. Teachers and Administrative Officials follow the School's own policy regarding suspension in the future which requires that a teacher should give the child a detention slip one day in advance of a suspension, sent home to be read by the parent (See Student Handbook 2000-2001;

d. Notify Parent immediately either at home or work that a child has been involved in a situation that may involve discipline and/or suspension; and to give the Petitioner and his son an opportunity to respond;

e. Enjoining Thomas Hopkins Middle School Officials from discouraging and/or banning the Petitioner from communicating or meeting with school personnel with regard to E.G., Jr.;

f. If E.G., Jr., is involved in an alleged incident in the future, school personnel should take the time to talk to E.G., Jr., and afford him the opportunity to write a statement as to his side of the events which occurred.

Extended efforts to resolve the matter amicably between the parties were unsuccessful, and accordingly, oral argument on petitioner's motion took place on February 20, 2001.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Some of the facts relevant to a determination of the motion for temporary emergent relief are not in dispute, and I therefore FIND the following as uncontested facts.

Student E.G., Jr., is a seventh grader at Thomas Hopkins Middle School in respondent's district. On October 30, 2000, following an incident between student E.G. and another student, Vice-Principal Lawrence Penny imposed a 2-day out-of-school suspension upon E.G., Jr. A disciplinary referral form completed by Mr. Penny indicates that the reason for the discipline was rude/discourteous behavior, attempted fighting and threatening another student in the cafeteria. E.G., Jr., served the suspension on October 31, and November 1, 2000. Following the October 30 incident, Mr. Penny met with petitioner. Petitioner conducted his own investigation of the incident and as a result of information discovered and brought to Mr. Penny's attention, the other student involved in the October 30, 2000 incident was also suspended. Mr. Penny agreed to honor future requests by E.G., Jr., for seating changes. Following another incident which occurred on December 21, 2000, during E.G., Jr.'s seventh period class which was being taught by a substitute teacher, William G. Freund, an investigation was conducted by the administration and as a result thereof, E.G., Jr., received an out-of-school suspension for four days (12/22/00 through 1/4/01). The disciplinary referral form in connection with that incident indicates that the reason for the discipline was assaulting a student in class. E.G., Jr., served the suspension and returned to class on January 5, 2001. This concludes the recitation of uncontested facts.

Petitioner and his son assert that Vice-Principal Penny was not present and did not observe the incident of October 30, 2000. It is their position that the problem arose initially because the music teacher would not listen to E.G., Jr., when he asked to be moved away from a student who was bothering him during music class. Mr. Penny certifies that he did in fact observe the incident which led to the October 30, 2000 discipline. Exactly what transpired between the two students who were arguing in the cafeteria and after school is in dispute. Petitioner and E.G., Jr., assert that the various incidents which occurred on October 30, 2000, were instigated by other students. E.G., Jr., writes in his certification, "I think that most people automatically assume that it is my fault because I am taller than most kids my age. They think that I am the aggressor. These things that have happened at school are not my fault. When things happen, I do get upset and can't help but show it sometimes."

With respect to the incident of December 21, 2000, the petition of appeal states, inter alia, that when E.G., Jr., warned Mr. Freund that another student, R.G., was disrupting him in class, Mr. Freund had replied that if E.G., Jr., did not stop talking he would be sent to detention. The boys had then engaged in a physical confrontation where R.G. had pushed E.G., Jr., in the face and E.G., Jr., "then punched back just once in self-defense." The certification of E.G., Jr., however, states that, "I was not choking him at any time. I was pushing him off of me." Mr. Penny's certification attaches the various statements taken from students and the substitute teacher about the December 21, 2000, incident, all of which indicate that the only pushing or punching involved in the incident was done by E.G., Jr. The certification of E.G., Jr., indicates that Mr. Penny did not give him an opportunity to explain his side of what had occurred on December 21, 2000, and complains that R.G. was not disciplined in connection with the incident. "I thought the rules were that anyone who got involved in a fight got suspended. It seems that I was the only (one) held to the 'rules'," he wrote in his certification. E.G., Jr., believes that Mr. Penny simply does not like him and feels that Mr. Penny treats him differently from the way he treats other students.

APPLICABLE LAW AND DISCUSSION

N.J.S.A. 18A:37-2 (d) identifies "physical assault upon another pupil" as conduct which shall constitute good cause for suspension or expulsion of a pupil from the public schools in New Jersey. A school principal may suspend any pupil from school for good cause. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-4. The power to reinstate pupils suspended administratively, to continue a suspension, or to expel a pupil is vested in the Board of Education. N.J.S.A. 18A:37-5. For a non-classified student, the length of time which an administratively imposed suspension may continue, as construed in case law and by the Commissioner, is not to exceed 21 days. R.R. v. Board of Education of Shore Regional High School, 109 N.J. Super. 337 (Ch. Div. 1970); Graham v. Board of Ed. of the Township of Ocean, 1978 S.L.D. 810. A suspension beyond the 21-day period may be imposed only after a full-blown due process hearing before the Board of Education. Tibbs v. Board of Ed. of Franklin Tp., 59 N.J. 506 (1971). Here no such hearing was required before the Board; both administrative suspensions were brief. Actions of local boards of education which lie within the area of their discretionary powers may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis or induced by improper motives. Quinlin v. Board of Ed. of North Bergen, 73 N.J. Super. 40 (App. Div. 1962); Thomas v. Morris Township Board of Education, 89 N.J. Super. 327 (App. Div. 1965); aff'd 46 N.J. 581 (1966); K.L. v. Matawan/Aberdeen High School Dist., 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 74; M.G. v. Monmouth Regional High School, 91 N.J.A.R. 2d. (EDU) 38.

In the within matter, the 2-day suspension and the 4-day suspension which gave rise to the filing of the petition of the appeal have been served. Petitioner nevertheless argues that he is entitled to an order from the Commissioner instructing the Board of Education and school administrators concerning how to deal with disputes involving E.G., Jr., during the pendency of this matter. The standards for granting such relief prior to a full hearing are set forth at N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), as follows:

> Where a motion for a stay or emergent relief is filed, it shall be accompanied by a letter memorandum or brief which shall address the following standards to be met for granting such relief pursuant to Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982):

1. The petitioner will suffer irreparable harm if the requested relief is not granted;

2. The legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled;

3. The petitioner has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the underlying claim; and

4. When the equities and interests of the parties are balanced, the petitioner will suffer greater than the respondent will suffer if the requested relief is not granted.

Although petitioner asserts that irreparable harm will occur if the order he seeks is not issued, in fact, that is purely speculative. There is currently no prospective disciplinary action contemplated. The facts concerning what transpired in regard to the two prior disciplinary actions are in dispute. At this posture in the proceedings, there is absolutely no reason whatsoever to believe, or any basis from which to make a finding, that respondent has violated petitioner's rights in the past or will be likely to violate them in the future in the absence of a directive from the Commissioner. Whether petitioner will prevail on the merits of his underlying claim, i.e., that the suspensions were wrongfully imposed and should be expunged, will have to await a determination following a full hearing on the merits. There is currently no basis for determining that petitioner has any greater likelihood of prevailing than respondent. Petitioner bears the burden of proving by a preponderance of the competent and credible evidence that respondent's actions were arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable. This is a heavy burden and until and unless petitioner satisfies it, the Commissioner may not interfere with respondent's administration of its statutory duties. Absent a finding that the Board has abused its discretion, it is not the Commissioner's function to substitute his judgment for respondent's. Currently no factual or legal basis appears for the entry of any order granting relief to petitioner, and accordingly, petitioner's motion for temporary emergent relief is hereby DENIED.

The plenary hearing will take place on April 3, 2001, commencing at 9 a.m. at the Trenton office of the Office of Administrative Law. A separate prehearing order will be issued concerning discovery, etc.

This order on application for emergency relief may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION who/which by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The final decision shall be issued without undue delay, but no later than forty-five (45) days following the entry of this order. If COMMISSIONER does not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days, this recommended order shall become a final decision on the issue of emergent relief in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: December 20, 2000 Decided: December 26, 2000

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter was initiated upon the filing of a Verified Petition and Motion for Emergent Relief by R.L. and U.L. on behalf of their minor son, R.L., arising out of his suspension by respondent East Orange Board of Education. The Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on February 29, 2000, it was filed under Docket No. EDU 1732-00. Following the entry of a Consent Order for Emergency Relief on March 10, 2000 and pursuant to the decision of the Commissioner of Education dated March 23, 2000, the matter was remanded to the OAL where it was filed on March 31, 2000 for further proceedings, as deemed appropriate, to determine the merits of petitioners' claims.

Subsequent to settlement, prehearing and status conferences with counsel on May 23, July 13, and September 15, 2000, the matter was scheduled to be heard on December 7, 2000. On December 6, 2000, the undersigned was advised that the matter had settled and the parties, thereafter, submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of agreement which was received on December 20, 2000.

Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

This matter having been open to the Commissioner of Education upon the petition of R.L. and U.L., on their own behalf and on behalf of their minor son, R.L., Ellen M. Boylan, Esq. (Education Law Center), for petitioners, and Marvin L. Comick, Esq. (Love & Randall, attorneys), for respondent, and the Commissioner having previously entered a Decision on March 23, 2000 on petitioners' Motion for Emergency Relief on the basis of a Consent Order entered between the parties on or about March 10, 2000, and the parties having reached an agreement, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that the remaining claims in the petition are settled upon the following terms:

1. The East Orange Board of Education shall adopt a written policy requiring that all long-term suspension (suspension for more than 10 consecutive school days) and expulsion hearings be scheduled and decided by the Board within 21 days of the student's removal from school, except hearings to authorize the suspension, expulsion or one-year removal of a student under N.J.S.A 18A:37-2.1 (assault upon a teacher, administrator, school board member or employee), N.J.S.A 18A:37-2.2 (assault with a weapon upon a teacher, administrator, school board member or employee, or another student) or N.J.S.A. 18A:37-7 (possession of a firearm at school, on a school bus or at a school function), which, according to statute, shall be scheduled within 30 days of the student's removal from school. The written policy shall be incorporated into the Board's discipline policies and the Student Handbook, which shall be disseminated at least annually to all board members, school administrators and parents and students.

2. The East Orange Board of Education shall adopt a written policy requiring that as soon as possible, but not less than five days before a Board hearing on a proposed long-term suspension/expulsion, the Board provide the student and his/her parents with a statement of the charges against the student, a list of the Board's witnesses, a summary of each witness' testimony and a copy of all documentary evidence to be considered by the Board. The written policy shall be incorporated into the Board's discipline policies and the Student Handbook, which shall be disseminated at least annually to all board members, school administrators and parents and students.

3. The East Orange Board of Education shall adopt a written policy requiring the immediate provision of alternative education services to any student who has been suspended long-term (for more than 10 consecutive school days), pending a Board hearing and decision on the suspension/expulsion. The purpose of the alternative education services is to provide the student with the instruction and course work missed during the period of suspension. The written policy shall be incorporated into the Board's discipline policies and the Student Handbook, which shall be disseminated at least annually to all board members, school administrators and parents and students.

4. All other claims in the petition are dismissed with prejudice. Petitioners preserve their claim for attorney's fees against the Board pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §§ 1983 and 1988.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, Organizational Development Specialist, challenged the elimination of her position by respondents and her termination, arguing that the elimination of the position and termination were arbitrary and capricious, contrary to the Law Against Discrimination and retaliatory. The Board argued that it properly eliminated petitioner's position because of a budget deficit, and that its action was a legal reduction in force.

The ALJ determined that the Board acted legally when it eliminated petitioner's position and dismissed the petition. The ALJ concluded that the Board's actions were motivated by a fiscal crisis, and were not arbitrary and capricious. However, the ALJ did conclude that petitioner was entitled to an additional days pay because an incorrect termination date was utilized by the Board.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with modification, holding that petitioner may be entitled to compensation for unused sick or personal days if so provided for in the policy or agreement applied to her to reimburse her for unused vacation days.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY, BERT LOPEZ, PRESIDENT, DANIEL GALLAGHER AND THERESA KELLY, INDIVIDUALLY AND JOINTLY,

Respondents.

Gregory G. Johnson, Esq., for petitioner

Michael Epps, Esq., General Counsel for respondent

Record Closed: October 4, 2000 Decided: January 17, 2000

BEFORE LILLARD E. LAW, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner, a non-tenured staff member in the employ of the Board of Education of the City of Atlantic City (Board) appeals from a decision by the Board to eliminate her State funded position as Organizational Development Specialist. The Board admits it eliminated petitioner's employment position. However, it contends it did so for purposes of economy, as permitted by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, and caused a Reduction In Force (RIF).

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and under the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) found at N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 to –25. The hearing was held on April 7, 9, 12 and May 3, 1999. The parties requested and were granted leave to submit post-hearing memoranda. The hearing record closed on October 4, 2000.

ISSUES

Pursuant to the Prehearing Order issued in this matter, the parties agree that the following are the issues to be determined by this tribunal.

1. Whether the Board's action to eliminate petitioner's employment position was arbitrary and capricious?

2. Whether, subsequent to her termination, the Board properly compensated petitioner for her sick time, vacation time and other time accrued by her?

3. Whether the Board's decision to eliminate petitioner's employment position was discriminatory and in violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD)?

4. Whether the Board retaliated against petitioner for her association with the Board's former Superintendent of Schools, in violation of petitioner's constitutional right of freedom of association?

STIPULATION OF FACTS

Prior to the opening of the hearing record, the parties entered into a Stipulation of Uncontested Facts which are set forth below and are hereby adopted, by reference, as FINDINGS OF FACT:

1. The petitioner, Charlotte L. Wellins, was hired by the respondent, Atlantic City Public Schools, on September 2, 1997, in the position of Organizational Development Specialist.

2. Petitioner Wellins holds valid teaching and administrative certificates. Petitioner Wellins was in charge of Staff Development for the District, including training other staff members.

3. Petitioner Wellins' annual salary was $80,000 for the 1997-98 school year. (See attached contract as Exhibit A).

4. Petitioner Wellins performed her job duties and responsibilities satisfactorily. In April 1998, Superintendent of Schools, Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, recommended the petitioner's reappointment by including her position in the budget.

5. On or about May 21, 1998, the Board approved a final budget that funded the petitioner's salary and benefits. The petitioner's position was fully funded by the State as part of its Demonstrable Effective Program Aid (DEPA). (See attached page 4 of the DEPA Budget, as Exhibit B).

6. DEPA funding is restricted funding and cannot be used for programs or costs that are not approved as eligible for DEPA funding, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-18b(1),(2) and (3). DEPA funds, if not used for DEPA expenses, cannot be used to satisfy other expenses within the budget.

7. The respondent's total budget, including the DEPA budget, was approved by the County Superintendent.

8. Petitioner Wellins received an employment contract for the 1998-99 school year. The petitioner signed the attached contract and returned it to the District's Human Resources Office. (See attached contract as Exhibit C).

9. On or about June 3, 1998, the respondent Board placed Superintendent Williams on administrative leave.

10. Also on June 3, 1998, the respondent Board voted to appoint Delois Campbell as Acting Superintendent.

11. On or about June 20, 1998, petitioner Wellins received a letter from the Department of Human Resources, notifying her that the Board intended to discuss her employment in closed session. This is known as a RICE notice. [1]

[1] Rice v. Union City Reg. High School Bd. of Ed., 155 N.J. Super. 64 (App. Div. 1977)

12. At a June 23, 1998 Board meeting, respondent Board member Daniel Gallagher, Chairman of the Goods and Services Committee, recommended that the petitioner's position be cut, including several other positions. Mr. Gallagher stated that the District would end the year in a deficit. As chairman he recommended the reduction of positions, including petitioners, to create a free balance to adequately fund other accounts.

13. At the Board Meeting on June 23, 1998, Acting Superintendent Campbell spoke in public. Ms. Campbell did not recommended that the Board abolish the petitioner's position because her position was (1) funded by the State; (2) it was necessary to carry out the District's plans; and (3) those plans have not been changed. Ms. Campbell stated to the Board that there were two positions she was not recommending be cut, Chief of Security and the Organizational Specialist.

Delois Campbell stated:

> The Chief of Security, that is the position that I'm recommending we keep. This particular person plans, coordinates, monitors and supervise the security operation, she provides training for the security guards. She schedules regular meetings with safety and personnel. She works with community based agencies to deal with safety related issues. She works and coordinates the entire safety security staff that we have here in Atlantic City.

Ms. Campbell stated:

> The Organizational Specialist, her position is being funded through the DEPA. This is the staff development effort for Atlantic City. The staff development initiatives are also funded through the DEPA. She plans and organizes staff development efforts, she maintains staff development committees, she works with schools to develop business partnerships and she has developed a learning academy. That is the position as you know we need staff development with respect to the core curriculum content standard, also to get our teachers prepared for teaching our students with problem solving and other initiatives that she has planned. And those are positions that we do have that I can discuss.

14. The petitioner also spoke at the Board meeting in support of keeping her position. The petitioner stated that her position, salary and benefits, was funded by the DEPA program budget.

15. Respondent Gallagher made a motion, and seconded by Board member Kelly, to adopt a Resolution No. 98 6B 57, to abolish several positions, including petitioner Wellins. The resolution was approved by a 7 to 3 margin. (See attached as Exhibit D).

16. Petitioner Wellins received a letter notifying her of the layoff, as a "reduction in force" (RIF), on or about June 24, 1998, terminating her employment with 30 days notice. (See attached as Exhibit E).

Petitioner's Statement of Facts And Summary of Testimony[2].

General Background

Generally the underlying facts are not in dispute in this case. The petitioner was hired by the respondent Board on September 2, 1997 in the position of Organizational Development Specialist. She was hired upon recommendation of the new Superintendent Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, and she received a one year contract at a salary of $80,000 for 1997-98 school year. (Stipulation of Facts, hereinafter referred to as "Stipulation," Exhibit A). The petitioner had nearly 30 years work experience as a teacher and administrator in public education. Previously, the petitioner was a supervisor of staff development and training for the Paterson Public School, a State takeover district. The petitioner worked for Dr. Williams when he was the State District Deputy Superintendent in Paterson.

Atlantic City has the reputation of a politically charged district struggling to overcome Level Two Monitoring deficiencies identified by the Department of Education. During the 1997-98 school year, the petitioner immediately addressed deficiencies outlined by an educational audit prepared by Thomas Edison State College. (P-1) The petitioner was given charge to implement corrective measures in the area of professional development. She started immediately training teachers and supervisors in the 4Mat-training model. She also held monthly training sessions for new teachers, established a district-wide staff development committee to discuss staff development and curriculum, and developed a comprehensive staff development plan. On May 11, 1998, the petitioner's performance was rated as satisfactory for the 1997-98 school year, and the superintendent recommended that she continue in her position for the 1998-99 school year. (P-21) The petitioner later received a contract for employment for the 1998-99 school year, signed it, and forwarded it to the Human Resources Office. (Stipulation ¶8, Exhibit C).

Dr. Williams made staff development a major priority in order to improve teaching effectiveness in the classroom. Dr. Williams obtained approval from the Board and the State to fully fund petitioner's position as a part of a State grant called the Demonstrable Effective Program Aid (DEPA). By funding staff development through DEPA, Dr. Williams sought to achieve budgetary clarity and spending accountability in staff development. (T2:110:1-25; 111:1-9).

The Board was confronted with fiscal crisis during the year. The budget required the Board to privatize custodial services on July 1, 1997. When the Board did not privatize, this created a two million budget deficit. Also, the Board spent unbudgeted funds on renovating the old high school for use as an elementary school. At the time of April 1998 school elections, the school budget was defeated and a new faction of the Board gained majority status. City Council voted to restore the regular budget and the majority of the cap waiver question. Board members were not satisfied with funding amounts in certain budget accounts. On May 13, 1998, the Board voted to direct the Superintendent to come up with $500,000 to transfer in the Buildings and Grounds account. The Superintendent did this without cutting staff.

On June 3, 1998, the new majority Board voted to suspend Superintendent Williams and to file tenure charges. Delois Campbell was named as Acting Superintendent. Board President Bert Lopez informed Ms. Campbell that the Board intended to abolish a number of positions, including petitioner's. Ms. Campbell informed Mr. Lopez that the petitioner's position was funded in the budget by grant monies from DEPA, and not local funds.

At the June 23, 1998, Board meeting, Ms. Campbell informed the full Board that she did not recommend the elimination of the petitioner's position, that the position was needed, and it was funded by DEPA. The Board did not have approval from the County Superintendent to change the planned activities in the DEPA plan. The Board voted to adopt a resolution to eliminate the petitioner's position. (Stipulation ¶16, Exhibit E). The petitioner's termination letter, dated June 24, 1998, lists the effective date of her removal as July 22, 1998. The letter states that it serves as 30-day notice of termination. The petitioner, however, received her letter via hand delivery on June 29, 1998.

The petitioner continued to work for the District after July 22, 1998 due to preplanned 4Mat training sessions for District teachers. Before June 1998, interested teachers such as Bodhan Christian registered to attend intermediate and advanced 4Mat training sessions scheduled for July and August 1998. If the petitioner cancelled the July training, Mr. Christian could not have attended the advance session. Mr. Christian later became a certified 4Mat trainer.

As a result of the decision to eliminate the petitioner's position, and to take 4Mat training out of the DEPA budget, this created an abundance of grant money to spend. Supervisor Ellen Woolley testified without contradiction that in a September 16, 1998, meeting, she was told she could hire outside consultants or spend money for training. (P-9). This type of scenario fosters fragmented and uncoordinated staff development initiatives.

The petitioner believes her position was eliminated for improper reasons because of her relationship to Superintendent Williams. Board members Banks and Hill testified that the petitioner was a target on a "hit list." Supervisor Woolley testified about the hit list. Assistant Superintendent Campbell corroborated the existence of a "hit list" by testifying she saw Board member Herzog with such a list.

Charlotte Wellins (Petitioner)

Charlotte Wellins is currently employed as a vice-principal at Highland Park High School. (T1:10-20). She assumed that position on July 20, 1998. (T1:10:22) Prior to assuming her current position, the petitioner was employed by the respondent as the Organizational Development Specialist. (T1:11:13-18) The petitioner has a Bachelors of Science Degree and a Masters Degree in educational administration and supervision. Additionally, she holds a teaching certificate in business and career education, as well as a principal/supervisor's certificate. (T1:12:3-25; 13:10-21).

Mrs. Wellins is a national and international consultant in the area of 4Mat training (T1:22:13-17). 4Mat is a learning model that trains classroom teachers to honor all types of learning styles of students. The District was aware of her expertise in 4Mat training. (T1:22:18-24; 23-7-24).

Mrs. Wellins identified the educational audit report of the Atlantic City Schools prepared by the John S. Watson Institute of Thomas Edison State College. (P-1) (T1:27:9-14) The audit serves as a warning to the District from the monitoring activities of the State Department of Education that if the District fails to address deficiencies highlighted in the report adequately, the State would not hesitate to take further actions. (T1:28:3-6) Paterson school district underwent a Level Two monitoring similar to that as detailed in document P-1 and Mrs. Wellins was specifically hired there to tackle the professional development component of their corrective measures. (T1:28:7-23)

The petitioner focused her attention on the educational audit (P-1) (the curriculum areas, student achievement, organizational culture and climate) and was instrumental to her development of a five-year plan. (T1:29:9-23) The mission that Mrs. Wellins was charged with was ensuring that teacher-training workshops had direct impact on the children's learning in the classroom. (T1:30:24-25) Mrs. Wellins addressed the fragmentation problems that the audit report highlighted. (T1:31:2-6) Mrs. Wellins streamlined district-wide staff development to enhance efficiency and increased productivity. (T1:32:2-8) She provided bi-monthly training activities that addressed problems teachers encounter in classroom control and management. (T1:62:1-21) Mrs. Wellins did not receive any indication from either the Superintendent or Board that her performance was inadequate or unacceptable. (T1:66:14-25).

Mrs. Wellins participated in the development process of the DEPA portion of the 1998-99 school year budget. (T1:47:12-16) That budget was presented to the Superintendent and later approved by the Board. (T1:47:17-25) Mrs. Wellins was familiar with the budgetary problems that confronted the District and in that light sought alternative funding sources for the 4Mat program. (T1:51:2-10) She succeeded in getting the national office to commit to conducting the advanced 4Mat training in Atlantic City at no cost to the District, such training can ordinarily cost other districts $18,000. (T1:51-11-25; 52:1-16) The petitioner's salary, benefits and travel allowances were funded with DEPA funds. (T1:55:11-25; 56:1-2) The petitioner's role and staff development activities spanned the entire K-12 grades. (T1:60:1-16)

Rumors about a "hit list" began circulating in the District after the April 1998 school board elections, and several people informed Mrs. Wellins that her name was on that list. (T1:69:16-25) The Superintendent was placed on administrative leave. Mrs. Wellins received a RICE letter indicating that her position would be discussed at the June 23rd Board meeting; she attended that meeting and informed the Board that her salary and benefits were part of the DEPA portion of the budget provided by the State. (T1:71:4-8; 73:2-6) The Board did not modify or adjust the DEPA portion of the budget prior to June 23, 1998. (T1:73:16-24)

On June 29, 1998, the petitioner received a letter indicating that her last day of employment was effective July 22, 1998. (T1:77:12-25) On June 29, 1998, Mrs. Wellins wrote Bert Lopez, Delois Campbell and Melvin Clarke (P-2) apprising them of a preplanned summer 1998 advanced 4Mat training and requested an extension to enable her to fulfill that obligation gratis. (T1:78:9-25) Excel, Inc., which owns 4Mat, agreed to use Atlantic City as a host site. (T1:80:19-25) Another training session dealing with student discipline was scheduled for August 1998. (T1:95:18-25) That training was conducted by Dr. Medler. (T1:96:10-14)

Mrs. Wellins' services were vital to the District at the time of her termination because the implementation stage of staff development was the next step. (T1:103:1-25) The 4Mat program was abandoned when the petitioner left the District. (T1:104:14-25).

Dr. H. Benjamin Williams, Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Williams was hired in January 1997 and began his duties as the Superintendent on March 3, 1997. (T2:97:18-24) He served as the State District Assistant Superintendent for the Paterson Public Schools from August 1991 until March 1, 1997. (T2:98:1-13). While employed with the Paterson Schools, Dr. Williams supervised the petitioner when she was the Supervisor of Staff Development. (T2:99:8-15).

After arriving in Atlantic City and assessing the needs of the District, Dr. Williams recruited petitioner in Atlantic City to assist staff members gaining the knowledge required to move the District forward. (T2:100:7-25).

According to Dr. Williams, the rationale behind including petitioner's salary and benefits in the DEPA funds were twofold; first because staff developments is one of the areas that the State Department of Education emphasize for school improvement, and secondly, for budgetary clarity and spending accountability in staff developments. (T2:110:1-25; 111:1-9) He testified that he had every intention of retaining the services of petitioner. (T2:111:17-22) Prior to June 3, 1998, the date Dr.Williams was placed on administrative leave, no Board member expressed concerns about staff development or the petitioner's performance. (T2:112:14-21; 113:1-4\5) Dr. Williams stated a contract for school year 1998-99 was extended to the petitioner. (P-6) (T2:114:20-23).

Dr. Williams emphatically stated that the Board could not unilaterally alter DEPA without obtaining prior approval from the County Superintendent's office or State Department. (T2:115:1-15) Dr. Williams maintained that any readjustment to the DEPA budget requires prior approval of the County Superintendent. (T2:133:3-18)

The Board Minutes of May 13, 1998, confirm that petitioner's name was on the list Mr. Gallagher had submitted for budget cuts. (T2:117:1-20) But the Board rejected Mr. Gallagher's recommendations. (T2:117:22-25; 118:1-7).

Delois Campbell, Assistant Superintendent

Ms. Campbell testified that the DEPA budget contained a number of goals and objectives (T3:72:5-18), including 4Mat training. Ms. Campbell testified that funding the petitioner's position through DEPA was a good thing. The DEPA budget was approved by the Board and County Superintendent.

On June 3, 1998, the Board voted to suspend Dr. Williams and name Ms. Campbell as Acting Superintendent. Ms. Campbell testified that President Lopez called her by phone after June 3, 1998 and informed her of the Board's intention to eliminate certain positions. Ms. Campbell, who has jurisdictions over DPEA operations, informed Mr. Lopez that the petitioner's position was funded by DEPA. (T3:83:25; 84:1-17)

At the June 23, 1998 Board meeting, Ms. Campbell informed the Board that she wanted to maintain the positions of Organizational Development Specialist and Chief of Security. Ms. Campbell also told the Board that she was doing two or three jobs and she needed administrative help. Further, Ms. Campbell informed the Board that the petitioner's position was funded by DEPA.

Ms. Campbell stated she had problems with the Board's proposal to eliminate positions. (T3:865:20-22) She did not have approval from the State to change the DEPA budget or objectives. Board member Hill asked Ms. Campbell if prior approval was necessary. Mr. Hill asks:

> Hill: I got a question of Ms.Campbell. This is regarding the DEPA. The State Dept. of Education with the action of the board of education tonight, does a resubmission have to take place?
>
> Campbell: The chair was squeaking. I could not hear you. I am sorry.
>
> Hill: I said every time we have changed the DEPA activities we had to submit a different proposal.
>
> Campbell: Yes, we have to submit a different proposal.
>
> Hill: Will that hold up all the funding for DEPA or just a portion.
>
> Campbell: I don't think so. I have to speak to someone at the state. I don't think it will but it might. I don't think so. At least I hope not.
> (T3:49:2-25; 50:1-13)

Ms. Campbell was uncertain about the impact of cutting the petitioner's job on the DEPA budget, or if it would be approved by the State.

Ms. Campbell testified about the resolution offered by Mr. Herzog to create the Academic Achievement Academy on June 23, 1998. Ms. Campbell stated that the mandate to create the program interfered with the running of the District. (T3:90:9-23) Ms. Campbell stated that the program was not reviewed by the Curriculum Committee before June 23, 1998. The creation of this program was improper. Eventually, the Board voted to implement the program at a cost of approximately $30,000.

Ms. Campbell testified that she had knowledge of a "hit list" created by Board members. Several employees were on the list such as Melvin Clarke, Assistant Superintendent, and Kemry McFarland, Personnel Director, and others. Ms. Campbell stated that she saw Board member Herzog with a list at a Board meeting at the Richmond Avenue School. Ms. Campbell testified that Ms. McFarland came to her upset one day because her name was on the list and she feared the loss of her job. (T3:103:1-3)

Ellen Woolley, Supervisor of Student Personnel Services

Ms. Ellen Woolley is Supervisor of Student Personnel Services for the District. (T2:7:2-9) Part of her responsibilities is the supervision of the elementary and high school guidance counselors as well as the child study team. (T2:7:13-25; 8:1-3)

As a district-wide supervisor, Ms. Woolley attends different monthly meetings. (T2:14:2-19) She recalls attending a meeting in September 1998 convened for all supervisors for the purpose of discussing professional development as per DEPA budget allocations. (T2:14:18-25; 15:1-20) According to Ms. Woolley, petitioner's name was mentioned at the outset of the meeting. (P-9) (T2:16:6-9) Ms. Woolley testified that Bruce Greenfield, supervisor, opened the meeting by saying we had to spend this DEPA money; that everyone in the room has a responsibility of hiring outside consultants or arranging for some kind of training because there was plenty of money to pay for it and that the DEPA budget has been altered to eliminate 4Mat.

(T2:17:4-18) Ms. Woolley testified that after Mr. Greenfield mentioned that 4Mat is being discontinued in the DEPA budget as advised by Assistant Superintendent Ms. Campbell, Bob Linbald, another supervisor inquired why such a decision was made after the District had committed significant resources to the program. At that point in the discussion, Avon Chapman stated "that petitioner sued the Board!" Arlene Margagiano, Math supervisor added, "oh, and the Board supposedly fired her for financial reasons." (P-9) (T2:18:2-15)

According to Ms. Woolley, the petitioner and two other District employees were pejoratively considered "Ben's people" and were included in what was generally known as a "hit list". (T2:20:6-17; 21:1-12) The "hit list" had little to do with budgetary constraints and everything to do with revenge and retaliation for being politically incorrect. (T2:22:1-10) Her knowledge of a "hit list" came from newspaper articles and a public meeting at a local church. (T2:22:15-23)

Under cross-examination, Ms. Woolley indicated that she felt it was important to transcribe her record of events at the September 16, 1998 meeting because the open discussion of plans to alter the DEPA allocations and eliminate the 4Mat program bothered her. (T2:26:6-16) She did not take any further steps to determine the veracity of the discussion because the DEPA budget was right there before her and 4Mat program was not in it. (T2:26:17-24).

Ms. Woolley explained that in relation to the "hit list," there probably were many political forces at play, different Board members with different agendas, some genuine and honest and some devious. (T2:35:7-25) Ms. Woolley testified that a supervisor once handed her a list purportedly found on the floor of the Boardroom with staff names and salaries. (T2:52:1-21).

Marven Hill, former Board Member

Marven Hill, was a Board member and served as Board president from 1995 to April 1998. Mr. Hill testified that during the 1997-98 school year, the district experienced significant financial difficulties. It was a priority for the District to seek outside funds to pay for administrative costs. Mr. Hill stated that staff development was a priority for the Superintendent. (T3:39:15-18)

Mr. Hill firmly believes that the action to eliminate the petitioner's position was motivated by a "hit list." (T3:542:4-7) Accordingly, Mr. Hill voted against the resolution to layoff the petitioner on June 23, 1998. Mr. Hill did not believe it was necessary to cut administrative positions. (T3:40:17-23) Mr. Hill testified that the petitioner's position was funded in DEPA and before the Board could change the DEPA budge the administration had to get prior approval. Mr. Hill asked Acting Superintendent Campbell about this and she said she did not know.

Mr. Hill also testified about the resolutions by Board member James Herzog to create an Academic Achievement Academy program on June 23, 1998. (T3:45:3-20) There was no money in 1998-99 budget to fund the new program. Mr. Hill believed that it was not proper for a Board member to propose a program. The wording of the resolution mandated the creation of the program. The Board voted to table the proposal and send it to the Curriculum and Instruction Committee. Eventually, the Board voted to implement the program at a cost of $36,000.

Theresa Perry, Board Member

Theresa Perry is a member of the respondent Board. (T1:135:20-24) She had first hand knowledge of the goals and objectives approved by the Board prior to the hiring of Superintendent Williams. (T1:136:22-25) According to Ms. Perry, Mrs. Wellins was hired to provide in-house staff training so as to meet the requirements of the Level Two Monitoring. (T1:138:7-25; 139:1-3) She stated that the staff development is an important part of the District's activities. (T1:139:15-24)

Ms. Perry knew that petitioner's salary and benefits were provided for in the DEPA portion of the 1998-99 budget. (T1:156:5-21) Ms. Perry stated that there were no funding concerns for the petitioner's position in the 1998-99 budget. (T1:183:17-19)

Ms. Perry also testified that at the June 23, 1998 Board meeting, Ms. Campbell recommended the retention of petitioner's position. (T1:168:2-7) Resolution 98 6B 57 eliminated the petitioner's position and Ms. Perry voted against it because according to her, she was more inclined to support the professional recommendation of the Acting Superintendent Campbell. (T1:169:5-25)

Ms. Perry testified that as part of Board member James Herzog's statement in support of eliminating positions, Mr. Herzog proposed the creation of an academic academy. (T1:175:10-25) This occurred less than 20 days after Dr. Williams was suspended and the Board subsequently approved the proposed academic academy even though it was not provided for in the 1998-99 budget. (T1:176:8-25)

Ms. Perry serves on the Personnel and Goods and Services Committees of the Board. (T1:142:1-3) She testified that as a result of the April 1998 school board elections, there was a change in the presidency of the Board and committee assignments changed as well. (T1:145:8-17) Mrs. Perry was present at the May 13, 1998 Board meeting during the discussions on the defeated budget. (T1:146:4-12) She testified that Mr. Gallagher (fellow Board member) made statements regarding recommended cuts to the budget. (T1:146:13-19) According to Ms. Perry, Mr. Gallagher handed out a list that included petitioner's position for elimination. (T1:146:23-25; 147:1-10) Ms. Perry and the Superintendent were not in support of Mr. Gallagher's recommended list of budget cuts. (T1:149:1-9) Ms. Perry confirmed that her statements on the minutes of that meeting to the effect that "the recommended cuts were identified by the City Council, not Mr. Gallagher, and that this was a head hunt" were absolutely correct. (P-3) (T1:149:15-21) She learned that the Atlantic City Council was interested in reinstating a portion of the money in question but wanted cuts in community functions. (T1:150:15-20) Ms. Perry stated that petitioner's position should not have been in question because her position was in the academic portion of the budget. (T1:151:19-25; 152:1-7) She believes that the City Council was exerting some political influence on the Board's decision with regards to the defeated budget. (T1:152:8-11)

She was also present at the June 3rd Board meeting when the Superintendent stated that the District would not end the year in a deficit. (T1:165:1-13)

Alberto (Bert) Lopez, Board President

Bert Lopez is the President of the Atlantic City Board of Education. (T2:57:12-14) He acknowledged receipt of document marked as P-2 and did nothing about it because he had no recommendation for action from the administration. (T2:58:15-25; 59:24-25; 60:1-6) Mr. Lopez testified that the Board eliminated the petitioner's position because the over abundance of supervisory positions and that petitioner's position was not required insofar as the duties could be shared among other supervisors – that even though her position was funded through DEPA, the Board can use those funds any way it sees fit for other purposes or for the same purpose in a different way. (T2:63:1-7)

Mr. Lopez admitted that on June 23, 1998, Ms. Campbell informed the Board that petitioner's position was necessary due to the nature of the various responsibilities and duties for that position. (T2:64:1-12) He also admitted that the Board chose to disregard the Acting Superintendent's recommendation. (T2:64:13-15) The Board did not seek nor receive prior approval from the County office before their decision to eliminate petitioner's position on June 23, 1998, and alter the DEPA allocations. (T2:64:16-23)

Under cross-examination, Mr. Lopez stated it was the understanding of the Board that staff development would somehow continue in the District. (T2:91:6-23) According to Mr. Lopez, the Board was not informed that it needed prior approval from the County Superintendent in order to alter the DEPA budget. (T2:92:11-17)

Mr. Lopez testified that as a result of the elimination of the petitioner's position at the June 23, 1998 meeting, the school district had no staff member certified to conduct 4Mat training. (T2:95:7-11) Also, the District had no one qualified to continue the Star Urban Teacher training program. (T2:95:12-16)

THE BOARD'S STATEMENT OF FACTS AND SUMMARY OF TESTIMONY

During the plenary hearing a Stipulation of Facts was agreed upon by counsel and made part of the record. Those facts shall be incorporated herein as if set forth at length. In addition to the Stipulated Fact there was testimony which adds to those facts.

During the 1997-98 school year the Atlantic City Board of Education experienced financial crisis. (T1:164:20-21) By February of 1998 there was an announced deficit and the Atlantic City Board of Education went to the voters for a Supplemental Tax Levy. (T3:53:6-8) The voters of Atlantic City rejected the Supplemental Tax Levy. (T3:53:9-16)

Ultimately, the Board petitioned the Commissioner for permission to use unexpended funds from a Capital Account raised as a result of a bond referendum, to fund the deficit. The Commissioner granted his approval. Thereafter the Board began the process of preparing the budget for the 1998-99 school year. During the budget preparation process the petitioner's salary and benefits were included in the DEPA budget. DEPA is a program for which school districts write a plan and a budget and the monies are funded through a State grant. In or about March of 1998 the Atlantic City Board of Education's budget was to be submitted to the County Superintendent. The budget submitted to the County Superintendent was submitted on the last day allowable by law. The budget was approved and was submitted to the voters of Atlantic City. The budget was defeated, as was a supplemental spending question. The matters were submitted to City Council, by operation of law. City Council restored the budget in total and restored a majority of the supplemental spending question. After having the budget and most of the supplemental spending question restored, the Board remained concerned about the soundness of the budget. There were several line items in the approved budget, which were under-funded. The Board engaged in a lengthy budget review process and determined that some cuts were necessary to fund other line items and to establish a fund balance in case of emergencies.

Thereafter on June 23, 1998 the Board took several actions in an effort to address budget concerns. Several positions were eliminated either because they were not filled or because they were deemed not essential to the educational program. The focus of the Board was not to take anything out of the classrooms. They tried to focus on positions, which would not effect the bottom line classroom operations. (T4:37:25-38:10) Specifically, the Board voted to eliminate the position of head custodian and return all head custodians to the positions of custodian. The Board voted to eliminate the position of Director of Facility/Custodial Services. The Board voted to consolidate the functions of the Director of Transportation and the Planning and Compliance Officer. The Board voted to establish the positions of Educational Facility Specialist, Squad Leader, Technical Support Specialist, Chief of Security and one psychologist.

Ultimately, the Board also voted to eliminate the petitioner's position. The petitioner's position was funded in the DEPA budget. However, the District writes the DEPA program and had the authority to revise and resubmit the program with any changes. Members of the Board felt that items in the general budget could be moved into the DEPA budget, thereby freeing up money in the general fund to address other deficiencies.

Thereafter on June 24, 1998, the petitioner was forwarded correspondence indicating that the Board had voted to eliminate her position by way of a reduction in force for reasons of economy and that her last day of employment would be July 22, 1998.

Daniel Gallagher

Daniel Gallagher is currently a member of the Atlantic City Board of Education and has been since being elected in April of 1998. (T4:17:15) During the 1998-99 school year Mr. Gallagher served as the chair of the Goods and Services Committee. (T4:17:18-20) After the budget and cap waiver question were returned to the District by City Council the Board, and particularly Mr. Gallagher, felt that there were concerns regarding this budget. There was a concern that several line items were woefully under-funded. (T4:20:23-21:10) In particular, Mr. Gallagher noted that the Board had gone out for bid for health benefits, and when the bids came in the budget was approximately $500,000 short. (T4:21:11-15) He also noted that there had been an effort to privatize the custodial staff and the budget was deficient by approximately $700,000 in order to effectuate that privatization. (T4:21:15-18) Mr. Gallagher also expressed that the budget was short in the line item reserved for judgments against the District. (T4:22:8-

14) He also expressed that the line item for Buildings and Grounds was inadequate. (T4:22:15-23:5) Mr. Gallagher acknowledged that there came a time when there was some discussion among Board members about recommending some staff cuts. He testified that at the time there were several budget line items, which were short, and some Board members came to the realization that there would have to be some reduction somewhere in the budget to come up with money to take care of the custodial situation, to take care of deficient line items. (T4:30:21-31:10) Mr. Gallagher testified that on June 23, 1998 there was a resolution put forth to reduce the custodial staff, for economy purposes and to eliminate the position of head custodian. (T4:35:16-22) He noted that the effect of the reduction was done because the Board could not afford to hire the entire custodial staff as a result of the effort to privatize. He testified that the reduction was to get to a staffing level, which would comport with the budget. (T4:36:3-10) He testified that there was a resolution to abolish the position of Director of Facility Custodial Services. He testified that that position was eliminated to create more money to fund other, necessary line items. (T4:36:11-17). He also noted that the position of Educational Facility Specialist was abolished to free up funds to address other deficient line items. (T4:36:18-25). Mr. Gallagher testified that in determining which positions could be eliminated, the Board focused on not taking anything out of the classroom while making an effort to address the funding concerns in other areas. He stated that the focus was to avoid any adverse impact on the bottom line classroom operation. (T4:37-25.38:10). Mr. Gallagher testified that he supported the resolution to abolish the petitioner's position knowing that her position was funded in the DEPA program. He testified that he felt that the reduction would not affect the service to children and that some things which were funded in the general fund could be moved into the DEPA program and funded with the money realized as a result of abolishing the petitioner's position from the program. (T4:39:10-17). Mr. Gallagher testified that at the time of this hearing he was confident that the Board would finish the 1998-1999 year successfully as a result of the adjustments made by the Board, including the elimination of certain positions. (T4:42:13-16). However, he noted that there was no surplus in the budget for contingencies or emergencies. He testified that those funds were exhausted as a result of problems, which occurred in the 1998-1999 school year. He also noted that the Board was forced to invade a capitol project fund to infuse money into the general fund in order to complete the 1998-1999 school year without going into a deficit. (T4:42:16-25). Mr. Gallagher testified that it was his belief that the money saved by eliminating the petitioner's position within the DEPA budget, something else in the general fund could be moved into the DEPA plan, thus freeing up funds in the general fund. (T4:69:15-18).

When questioned about his support of the Academic Achievement Academy and the potential source of the funding, he testified that he believed that current teachers could be reallocated and not affect the general fund or any other funds. (T4:81-11-14).

Mr. Gallagher also testified that it did not matter when, in the budget year, the funds were made available as a result of the elimination of the petitioner's position, as long as they were made available. (T4:102:16).

Theresa Kelly

Theresa Kelly is a Ventnor resident and is the Ventnor Board of Education's representative on the Atlantic City Board. (T4:106:12-13). Mrs. Kelly testified that the Atlantic City Board experienced difficulty in preparing the budget for the 1998-1999 school year. She stated that the Board was operating in a budget for 1997-1998, which was in bad shape, and the budget being prepared had line items that were not as secure as the Board members would have hoped. (T4:108:20-109:3). She stated that when the budget for the 1998-1999 school year was submitted to the voters, when the Board approved the budget to be submitted to the voters, she was not satisfied that the budget was sufficient to address areas of concern for Board members. (T4:109:4-8). She stated that she supported submitting the budget because the Board was at the eleventh hour and the budget had to be submitted to the County Superintendent as required by law. (T4:109:11-14). Mrs. Kelly testified that when the budget and the Cap Waiver question were returned to the district she, as a Board member, was not satisfied that the budget was secure to successfully maneuver through the 1998-1999 school year. (T4:110:12-16). She stated that her dissatisfaction stemmed from the fact that there were insufficient funds in the custodial line item, she did not feel that there was sufficient security budgeted, and she felt that the Buildings and Grounds account was insufficient to address emergencies. (T4:110:19-111:8). Mrs. Kelly testified that there came a time when the Goods and Services Committee made recommendations to address budget concerns. She stated that the only way the Board could get real money into the budget, specifically the deficient line items, was to address some personnel reductions.

(T4:111:22-112:4). She testified that in the deliberative process to determine which positions to address she wanted to make sure that any positions would not adversely impact youngsters. (T4:112:8-15). She testified that she considered the petitioner's position a duplication of the services currently performed by district supervisors. (T4:112:21-25). Mrs. Kelly testified that the action on June 23, 1998, to eliminate the position of Head Custodian was taken to save the Board a great deal of money. (T4:114:13). She testified that the abolition of the position of Director of Facilities, Custodial Services was also an effort to save the District money. (T4:114:14-19).

Mrs. Kelly testified that she did not know that the petitioner's position was budgeted in the DEPA plan, however, if she had known she would have still supported abolishing the position. She said she would have done so because she believed that the money realized by eliminating the position, could be used to fund other programs currently funded in the general fund by moving them into the DEPA plan. (T4:115:11-23). Mrs. Kelly testified that after the several actions of June 23, 1998 meeting she felt that the Board had done what they had to do, and then crossed their fingers and hoped that the Board was able to get through to June 30, 1999.

Mrs. Kelly testified that the decision made with respect to the petitioner did not concern the petitioner's performance, but instead was made because the Board needed money because there were several line items which were under-funded. (T4:116:15-24).

Adalberto Lopez

Mr. Lopez is a member of the Atlantic City Board of Education and was President of the Board for the 1998-1999 school year. (T2:57:12-13). Mr. Lopez testified that the petitioner's position was eliminated while it was known that the position was funded in the DEPA plan because there was a consensus on the Board that there was an over abundance of supervisory positions. They felt that this was one position that was not needed because the work could be performed by other supervisors and staff, and therefore, the DEPA funds could be used to fund other projects. (T2:63:1-7). He further testified that he did not feel it was the intention of the Board to eliminate staff development. (T2:91:11-13).

Theresa Perry

Mrs. Perry testified that as a member of the Goods and Service Committee there came a time when the committee discussed eliminating the petitioner's position. She said the recommendation was made to reduce the position because the budget was in crisis. (T1:164:10-21). Mrs. Perry testified that the reduction in force would enable the Board to hire teachers more critical to the classroom and to the direct contact with the students, and to reduce class size. (T1:166:2-14).

Mrs. Perry testified that subsequent to the June 23, 1998 meeting, the Board revisited the budget to make certain that the funded line items were sufficient and found that it was not. (T1:182:1-10).

LEGAL ARGUMENT OF THE PARTIES

Petitioner's Positions

Point I

The Board's Action to Eliminate the Petitioner's Position Was Arbitrary and Motivated by Bad Faith

N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 grants boards of education the authority to abolish positions of employment for reasons of economy. In exercising its discretion to abolish positions for economic good cause, a board is not legally bound to follow a superintendent's recommendation, provided the Board is acting reasonably in good faith. Stahnten v. Board of Education of Township of Hillside, 1987 S.L.D. 1096, 1099 (Comm'r. Decision of 1987) aff'd 1987 S.L.D. 1104 (State Board of 1987). It is well established that actions of a Board are entitled to a presumption of correctness, as well as a presumption that such actions will be upheld by the Commissioner, absent a showing of bad faith, illegal motive or a lack of rational basis. Kopera v. West Orange Board of Education, 60 N.J. 288 (1960). The petitioner acknowledges that she has the burden of proof, based upon a preponderance of the evidence standard, on all her claims.

The respondents contend that the Board action on June 23, 1998 to abolish the petitioner's position, as well as others, was done to create a free balance to fund other budget accounts. The petitioner asserts that the respondent's actions, under the circumstances of this case, were arbitrary and should be set aside.

A. The Unilateral Change in the DEPA Grant Budget and Targeting the Petitioner for Removal Shows Bad Faith

Was there a rational basis for the Board to abolish petitioner's position? Absolutely not. The petitioner produced substantial evidence that the Board's action was improper. There are several compelling reasons for this conclusion. First, the petitioner was evaluated satisfactory by Superintendent Williams and recommended to continue in her position for 1998-1999. (P-6) She signed her contract and returned it to the personnel office. By statute, N.J.S.A. 18A:27-10, school districts may non-renew non-tenured employees by written notice before May 15th of the year. In this case, the respondent Board renewed petitioner's contract.

Further, "[a]t the Board Meeting on June 23, 1998, Acting Superintendent Campbell did not recommend that the Board abolish the petitioner's position because her position was (1) funded by the State; (2) it was necessary to carry out the District's plans; and (3) those plans have not been changed." (Stipulation ¶13) The parties have stipulated that the petitioner's position was fully funded by DEPA, in dedicated budget line items for the 1998-1999 school year. Accordingly, abolishing the petitioner's position would not add monies to the free balance or affect any economic benefits to the general budget.

Second, there is no dispute that the Board did not have approval from the County Superintendent to change the goals, objectives or activities in the previously approved DEPA budget (P-5). The first goal listed in the DEPA budget, page 4 of 10 (Exhibit B, Stipulation) is "To provide on-going high quality training programs . . .." On the same page, the objective is "To provide a program director to facilitate and oversee aforementioned programs." There is no doubt about the petitioner's qualifications as an expert in 4Mat training. The petitioner helped develop the DEPA budget and was to play a key role as the program director. The petitioner trained 60 teachers and supervisors in the 4Mat model during the 1997-98 year, more training sessions were scheduled for the summer of 1998 and during the 1998-99 school year. Specifically, the district planned to train 200 teachers in the coming year. In fact, as of August 1998, three District teachers, including Bodhan Christian, became certified trainers. In other words, the planning was completed and full implementation of 4Mat was going forward. The resources of staff time and money were already invested in 4Mat training.

Dr. Williams testified without contradiction that the Board could not unilaterally alter the DEPA without obtaining prior approval from the County Superintendent's office or State Department. (T2:116:1-15) Any readjustments to the DEPA budget required prior approval of the County Superintendent. (T2:133:3-18) Also, Board member Hill similarly testified that the petitioner's position was funded in DEPA and before the Board could change the DEPA budget, prior approval was necessary. Even Acting Superintendent Campbell was uncertain about the consequences of the Board's action. Asked if this change would hold up funding for DEPA, Ms. Campbell stated, "I hope not." (T3:49:1-13).

The resultant consequence of the changes was that the line item for petitioner's salary and benefits, approximately $92,000 remained dormant in the accounts for several months. In fact, the Board voted to revise its DEPA budget on December 15, 1998, six months after its ill-feted decision. When the Board unilaterally changed its DEPA priorities by removing the petitioner on June 23, 1998, it gutted the heart of its staff development plan. There was no one in the District capable of replacing the petitioner. For a Level Two monitoring district to act in such a manner is truly irrational. See the educational audit (P-1) which found that "[m]any programs and changes are initiated to address problems, but they typically are not fully thought out prior to implementation, and often are not provided the necessary staff and support required to make them work and achieve the intended solutions . . ." (P-1) (T1:30-10-25)

A unilateral change to state approved program may be sufficient to render the Board's decision arbitrary and capricious. In a recent case, the Commissioner found that a board improperly abolished a learning disability teacher-consultant (LDTC) position of a tenured teacher for reasons of economy, and violated her tenure rights. Sally Primka v. Jamesburg Borough of Board of Education, 93 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 91, (Comm'r Decision December 2, 1992), aff'd State Board, aff'd by Appellate Division (January 18, 1994) No. A-2427-92. In that case, ALJ Daniel McKeown ruled that the Board's abolishment of the full-time LDTC position was a unilateral change of it's approved special education plan, which the Board did not get prior approval. The unilateral change made the Board out of compliance with special education regulation N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.2 because it altered the level of services provided by District's Child Study Teams. The Commissioner gave the Board the option of restoring the position or apply to the County Superintendent to amend its plan. Similarly, as in the Primka case, the respondent Board here did not obtain the necessary approval to change "the District's plans" before abolishing petitioner's position.

Third, the Board failed to engage in any cost analysis as to the absence of the petitioner and impact in the DEPA plan of activities. See, Glab v. Borough of Belmar, 92 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (CSV) (Civil Service ruling that one of the ways in which an employee may establish bad faith on part of the public employer is to show its failure to perform any cost analysis before having undertaken the layoff in question). The respondent realized no savings by terminating the petitioner in order to fund a free balance. It is plainly false for the respondent Gallagher to say that "general funds would be freed up" by cutting the petitioner's position. (T4:69:12-18) The reason the administration had 4Mat training placed in the DEPA budget was to utilize dedicated state funding aid so that the taxpayers would not have to pay for these costs. (T1:51:3-10) The parties have stipulated that "DEPA funding is restricted funding and cannot be used for programs or costs that are not approved as eligible for DEPA funding, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-18b(1)(2) and (3). DEPA funds, if not used for DEPA expenses, can not be used to satisfy other expenses within the budget." (Stipulation ¶6) Without prior approval, DEPA funds must be used only for intended purposes, and if not used, must be returned to the State.

In addition, the actions of the Board on June 23, 1998, to direct Ms. Campbell to create the Academic Achievement Academy further supports our position that there was no need to "create a free balance." The Academy was not budgeted for the 1998-99, nor planned. The program was not reviewed by the Curriculum Committee of the Board before June 23, 1998. The Board voted to implement the program for the 1998-99 school year at a cost of approximately $36,000. Speaking for the Board, Mr. Gallagher testified that the Academy was necessary and that "Whether there were funds to fund that particular Academy, we believe there were." (T4:81:2-6).

Fourth, Resolution No. 98 6B 57 which purported to abolish the petitioner's position was seriously flawed by its sponsor Board member Theresa Kelly. Ms. Kelly testified that her mind was made up before the June 23, 1998 Board meeting to eliminate the petitioner's position because she deemed it a duplication. (T4:130:1-5) Ms. Kelly testified that she had no knowledge of the petitioner's duties, or that the DEPA budget continued 4Mat training of staff. (T4:133) Ms. Kelly testified that she had no knowledge that the petitioner's position was funded in the DEPA budget at the time she made the motion. (T4:115:5-8) Interestingly, Ms. Kelly stated that she never saw a copy of the DEPA budget previously approved by the Board and State. (P-5) (T4:124).

Ms. Kelly also testified that she never spoke to Superintendent Williams about eliminating the petitioner's position. After June 3, 1998, Ms. Kelly did not talk to or consult with Acting Superintendent Ms. Campbell about the petitioner's position. Ms. Kelly's admissions here clearly show she has stepped outside the role of a Board member as a policy maker. The petitioner believes Ms. Kelly actions, voting on important personnel matters without basic facts, shows an intent to just "go after" the petitioner. Without question, the actions of Kelly were not based upon facts or the recommendation of Acting Superintendent Campbell. They show bad faith.

The petitioner believes that the Board had a duty to ensure that its decision to abolish petitioner's position was based upon facts. To the contrary, Ms. Kelly's motion was not based upon facts, but her opinion. Compare, McElroy v. Hardyston Twp. Bd. of Ed., 1985 S.L.D. 175 (Comm'r Decision February 14, 1985) (Increment denial reversed because it was not based upon teachers' performance in current year, but rather, upon Board President's recollection of prior performance.)

Finally, the Board action to remove the petitioner was motivated by a political agenda or bad faith. It cannot be overlooked that Superintendent Williams was suspended on June 3, 1998 and is embroiled in a nasty tenure case and litigation with the Board. The tension was ever present and there was an unsettling environment in the central office. Moreover, substantial testimony by several witnesses clearly show that the petitioner was on a "hit list" and targeted for removal. Board members Hill and Banks testified about the hit list and the petitioner's ties to Superintendent Williams. Board Member Banks testified that he believed that the new Board majority were using position cuts to "go after" individuals. (T3:15:7-23). Mr. Hill testified that the petitioner's removal was motivated by a "hit list." (T3:52:4-7).

Further, Assistant Superintendent Campbell, Supervisor Woolley, and Board Member Perry all testified about a hit list or political agenda. Ms. Perry confirmed her May 13, 1998 statements in the minutes of that meeting to the effect that "the recommended cuts were identified by the City Council, not Mr. Gallagher, and that this was a head hunt" were absolutely correct. (T1:149:15-21) Ms. Perry stated that petitioner's position should not have been in question because her position was in the academic portion of the budget. (T1:151:19-25; 152:1-7) She believes that the City Council was exerting some political influence on the Board decisions with regards to the defeated budget. (T1:152:8-11).

Ms. Campbell testified that she had knowledge of a "hit list" created by Board members. Several employees were on the list such as Melvin Clarke, Assistant Superintendent, and Kemry McFarland, Personnel Director, and others. Ms. Campbell stated that she saw Board Member Herzog with a list at a Board meeting at the Richmond Avenue School. Ms. Campbell testified that Ms. McFarland came to her upset one day because her name was on the list and she feared the loss of her job. (T3:103:1-3). And Ms. Woolley stated that the petitioner and two other District employees were pejoratively considered 'Ben's people' and were included in what was generally known as a "hit list.' (T2:20:6-17; 21:1-12). According to Ms. Woolley, the 'hit list' had little to do with budgetary constraints and everything to do with revenge and retaliation for being politically incorrect. (T2:22:1-10) Her knowledge of a 'hit list' came from newspaper articles and a public meeting at a local church. (T2:22:15-23) Ms. Woolley testified that a supervisor once handed her a list purportedly found on the floor of the Boardroom with staff names and salaries. (T2:52:1-21).

The facts of our case are case are similar to the case of Harry Dearden v. Board of Education of the City of Trenton, 1990 S.L.D. _____, (Comm'r Decision October 1, 1990). In that case, Dearden challenged the Board's action to abolish his position of Assistant Purchasing Agent as arbitrary and capricious. Dearden further claimed that he was a victim of an arbitrary and politically inspired hatchet job initiated by the late Mayor of Trenton, Arthur Holland.

The Commissioner held that the abolition of Dearden's position was in bad faith based upon political considerations. The Commissioner found that the Mayor's remark that Dearden was a "political hack" during a School Board of Estimate meeting influenced the Superintendent to cut Dearden's position from the budget. Before the Mayor's remark, Dearden's position was not at issue or in jeopardy. Although the Superintendent believed Dearden's position was necessary and there was funding in the budget for it, the Superintendent felt pressured to cut the position to gain Board approval for the budget. Id. at 6-7. Several teaching positions were cut from the budget.

The Trenton School District was a political hot bed which required constant oversight by the Department of Education by imposing a monitor general and a corrective action plan. Id. at 19. The respondent's Level Two monitoring is a mirror image of the Trenton District.

As in Atlantic City, Board members were "interfering with the administration" of the District. Id. at 19. Similar to Dearden, Board members, Gallagher, Kelly and Herzog have been interfering with the administration of the District by the Superintendent. For instance, the Resolution by Herzog to mandate the creation of the unbudgeted program, Academic Achievement Academy was a blatant power grab. Ms. Campbell testified that the mandate to create the program interfered with the running of the District. (T3:90:9-23).

B. The Testimony of Board Members Gallagher, Lopez and Kelly was Inconsistent, Implausible and Should Be Deemed Not Credible

The Board denies that the decision to eliminate the petitioner's decision was arbitrary or improper. The trier-of-fact is free to reject testimony as inherently incredible or inconsistent with other testimony and/or common experience. See, Congoleton v. Pura-Tex Stone Corp. 53 N.J. Super. 282, 287 (App. Div. 1958). In order to be credible testimony must proceed not only from the mouth of a credible witness, but also must be credible in itself and be such as the common experience and observation of man can approve as likely or probable in the circumstances. See, Spagnulolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. Super. 546, 554, 555 (1954).

The petitioner asks that this tribunal credit the testimony of her witnesses. The petitioner gave sincere and reliable testimony regarding her experiences in the Atlantic City schools. She felt like an outsider and was continually reminded that she was unwelcomed. Despite doing a tremendous job to address the significant Level Two monitoring deficiencies of the District in staff development, the respondents gutted an otherwise sound and worthy development plan. In comparison, the testimony offered by respondents Lopez, Gallagher and Kelly at times lacked common sense and was suspect. For instance, on direct testimony Mr. Gallagher was asked why he seconded the motion to terminate the petitioner. Mr. Gallagher responded "I don't recall . . ." (T4:34:1-7) Ms. Kelly testified that her mind was made up before the June 23, 1998 Board meeting to eliminate the petitioner's position because she deemed it a duplication. (T4:130:1-5) This admission is surprising since Ms. Kelly did not know critical information: that the petitioner's position was fully funded by DEPA, petitioner's duties or had seen petitioner's job description (P-19), or reviewed petitioner's May 15, 1998 evaluation (P-21). Ms. Kelly did not even consult with Superintendent Williams or Acting Superintendent. Mr. Lopez testified that there was a "consensus of the Board" to eliminate supervisory positions (T2:63:1-7) but apparently the alleged "consensus" was arrived at coincidentally after the June 3, 1998 suspension of Superintendent Williams, and without the support of fellow Board members Hill, Banks and Perry.

Based upon the testimony of the witnesses and documentary evidence, the petitioner believes she has proven by credible evidence that the Board acted arbitrarily, capriciously, and in bad faith by terminating her.

C. The District Failed to Give the Petitioner 30 Days Notice of Termination Pursuant to Her Contract

Count Two of the Petition alleges that the petitioner received less than 30 days notice of termination contrary to her contract. Assuming for the sake of argument that the petitioner failed to prove any other claim in the Petition, she maintains that the respondent owes her pay for the full 30-day period. Basic contract law applies to this matter.

The petitioner's contract requires 30 days notice in writing of a party's election to terminate the contract. (Exhibit A, Stipulation) The petitioner's termination letter, dated June 24, 1998, states that it "serves as the required thirty-day notice . . ." (Exhibit E, Stipulation) The petitioner testified without contradiction that she received her letter via hand delivery on June 29, 1998. This would entitle the petitioner to be compensated up to July 29, 1998 for a complete 30 days. Therefore, the petitioner contends she is owed compensation for at least five more workdays July 23, 24, 25, 28 and 29.)

The petitioner will stipulate that the respondent paid her salary up to July 22, 1998. The period from July 23 to 29 contains five workdays. The petitioner believes she is owed for five days @ $333.33 per day or $1,666.65 in gross salary. Please note that the respondent Board has finalized a collective bargaining agreement with the administrators' union. Therefore, the petitioner is entitled to a salary adjustment from $80,000 to $82,400.00 from July 1 to July 29, 1998.

D. Petitioner's Removal was a Violation of Her Constitutional Right of Association and Discriminatory

Count Three of the Petition alleges two claims, that is a violation of petitioner's Free Speech rights for her association with Superintendent Williams, and her termination violated the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination under N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 et seq. Assuming that the court finds that the petitioner's removal was in bad faith, then the next step would be an analysis of the applicable claims here.

On June 23, 1998, the petitioner was confronted with a fait accompli. Mr. Gallagher and Ms. Kelly had already decided, at least Ms. Kelly's mind was made up, to vote to terminate. The petitioner's termination was predicated upon her exercise of constitutional protected freedom of association. A school district cannot terminate an employee for exercising his/her First Amendment free speech rights. Parente v. Metchen Board of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 352 (Comm'r March 17, 1994) In order to maintain a claim for termination based upon constitutional rights, the petitioner must prove that her discharge was predicated at least in part on her exercise of First Amendment rights. Endress v. Brookdale Community College, 144 N.J. Super. 126 (App. Div. 1976).

Pickering v. Board of Education, 391 U.S. 563 (1968) held that statements by public officials on matters of public concern must be accorded First Amendment protection despite the fact that the statements are directed at their nominal superiors, citing Garrison v. Louisiana, 379 U.S. 64 (1964). In Wood v. Georgia, supra., the Supreme Court further said:

> The burden is upon the governing body to show that there is compelling public interest which warrants the restriction of First Amendment rights. In the absence of such a showing, these rights are not subject to impairment or destruction. Thomas v. Collins, 323 U.S. 516, 65 S. Ct. 315 80 L. Ed. 430 (1945); Bates v. City of Little Rock, 361, U.S. 516 (1960); NAACP v. Button, 371 U.S. 415 83 S. Ct. 328, 9 *L. Ed. 2d.*405 (1963); Gibson v. Florida Legislative Investigation Committee, 372 U.S. 539 83 S. Ct. 880, 9 L. Ed. 2*d.* 929 1963); DeStafano v. Wilson, supra. at p. 599. . . . .

In addition to the protection of rights contained in the United States Constitution, the New Jersey Constitution provides the protection of civil and personal rights.

Article 1, paragraph 18, of the New Jersey Constitution provides:

> The people have the right freely to assemble together, to consult for the common good, to make known their opinions to their representatives to petition for redress of grievances.

The plaintiffs' employment positions were a protectable property right under the New Jersey Constitution. Article 1, paragraph 5, of the New Jersey Constitution provides:

> No persons shall be denied the enjoyment of any civil or military right, nor be discriminated against in the exercise of any civil or military right . . .

Article 1, paragraph 6, of the New Jersey Constitution provides in part:

> Every person may freely speak, write and publish his sentiments on all subject, being responsible for the abuse of that right.

In Slohoda v. United Parcel, 193 N.J. Super. 586 (App. Div. 1985), the Court held that if the employee's discharge is based in significant part from the discriminatory reasons, the discharge must be invalidated. See also, Arverd v. Bushburg Brothers, 137 N.J. Super. 537 (App. Div. 1975). In the second Slohoda case, 207 N.J. Super. 145 (App. Div. 1986), the Appellate Division said:

> It is sufficient, if taken with other possible meritorious reasons, the discriminatory purpose was a determinative factor.

The petitioner's employment status as a non-tenured employee does not defeat her claim of a constitutional violation. Mt. Healthy City Board of Ed. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274 (1977). As previously stated, the petitioner was targeted on a "hit list." There is a strong causal connection between the suspension of Superintendent Williams, June 3rd, and the petitioner's removal on June 23rd, or less than 21 days apart. There is no issue about the need for the petitioner's position. She performed her job well and was exceptionally qualified. Further, the petitioner was removed in the middle of the ongoing 4Mat training sessions which were planned and funded in the 1998-99 budget.

For the foregoing reasons, the petitioner Charlotte Wellins asks that this tribunal find that the termination action of the respondent Board was precipitous, arbitrary and in bad faith. Also, we ask that the Court to find the actions of respondent a violation of her constitutional rights and discriminatory. We request the award of back pay and benefits.

The Board's Position

Point I

The Board Did Not Act Arbitrarily When It Moved to Eliminate the Petitioner's Position By Way of a Reduction in Force

It is well established that in certain situations a board of education has broad authority to effectuate a reduction in force. N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 provides:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of services shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article.

In the instant action the petitioner's position was abolished by the Board for reasons of economy given the financial crisis of the District. The foregoing statute gives the Board broad latitude because it does not require that the Board's action come at the recommendation of the superintendent of schools. Reduction in force decisions made pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 are entirely within the authority of the local Board. In re Maywood Bd. of Ed. 168 N.J. Super. 45, 55 (App. Div.), cert. denied 81 N.J. 292 (1979). Moreover, where the RIF is done for reasons of economy, such a determination is entirely within the authority of the Board. Klinger v. Cranbury Tp. Bd. of Ed., 190 N.J. Super. 354, 357 (App. Div. 1982); cert. den. 93 N.J. 277 (1983).

The majority of the Board deemed it necessary to abolish certain positions in order to restore the budget to a secure level given the events of the preceding school year and the fact that although the budget had been restored there were several line items which were inadequately funded. These line items included the Buildings and Grounds account. This account funds repairs of buildings. It is well known that the Atlantic City School District has some of the oldest facilities in the State.

A. The Change in the DEPA Grant was Done in Good Faith in Effort to Address Deficiencies in the General Fund

There was a rational basis for the elimination of the petitioner's position. The Board deemed the petitioner's position to be one of several positions within the table of organization, which could be eliminated, to free up funds, without critically impacting the classroom. The action against the petitioner had nothing to do with her job performance or the programs, which she was running within the District. Therefore, all of the testimony with respect to the merits and value of the program and the expertise of the petitioner are irrelevant because that was not a consideration for the action taken against her. It has been the position of the Board from the initiation of this action that the action taken against the petitioner was strictly for budgetary reasons.

The petitioner makes reference to the statutes governing non-renewal of non-tenured teaching staff members. That statute is of no moment in this matter because this was not an action of non-renewal but a reduction in force. Reduction in force may occur at any time.

The respondent asserts that it had the authority to revise its DEPA plan. There was no testimony from anyone from the Department of Education, which established that prior approval was required before changes were made to a DEPA plan in June of 1998. Moreover, Dr. Williams testified that it was his understanding that if the Board were to readjust the DEPA plan that readjustment would have to go to the County Superintendent for his review and he would approve or disapprove, and if he approved the revised budget, the money could be spent accordingly. (T2:133:13-19). So, therefore, even Dr. Williams was under the assumption that the DEPA plan could be revised and the money spent according to the revisions. This was the intention of the Board. Then Board President Mr. Lopez testified that it was the will of the Board to revise the DEPA plan to take some programs funded in the general budget and move them into the DEPA plan to free up funds in the general fund.

By eliminating the petitioner's position and her staff development plan the District did not abandon staff development. There was a staff development component of the DEPA plan, which remained after the changes.

Moreover, this matter turns on the action of the Board in effectuating the reduction in force. Actions of the Board thereafter are not relevant to this matter. The petitioner argues that the DEPA budget was not revised until December. This is not relevant to the Board's June action.

The petitioner cites Primka v. Jamesburg Borough Board of Education, N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (EDU) 91, (Comm'r Decision December 2, 1992), aff'd State Board, aff'd by Appellate Division (January 18, 1994) No. A-2427-92, for the proposition that "a unilateral change to a state approved program may be sufficient to render a board's decision arbitrary and capricious." In Primka, the state-approved program was a special education program, which is specifically controlled by N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.2. N.J.A.C. 6:28, repealed and recodified, specifically addressed special education. N.J.A.C. 6:28-1.2 (c) specifically states "If there are any changes to parts one or three of the plan they shall be prepared in accordance with the requirements of this section." The rule requires each district board of education to develop a written plan for special education, which shall conform, to the State plan for the educationally handicapped. There was a specific regulation, which required the Board in that matter to get prior approval before changing their special education plan. The petitioner in the instant action has not established any statutory provision or administrative regulation, which requires prior approval of the Commissioner of Education or the County Superintendent before a DEPA plan could be amended.

Petitioner's cost analysis argument also must fail. The petitioner asserts a bad faith on the part of the respondent. There is a presumption in favor of the respondent's action. See, Schnipper v. North Bergen Twp., 13 N.J. Super. 11, 14-15 (App. Div. 1951). The petitioner cites Glab v. Borough of Belmar, 92 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (CSV) page omitted for the proposition that the respondents were required to perform a cost analysis in order to show good faith for the reduction in force. Glab is a Civil Service case and is governed by the Civil Service Act. It has been held, in Civil Service cases that where the presumption of good faith "is not overcome by sufficient proofs showing bad faith, it is inconsequential that there is proof showing that considerations other than economy underlay or played some part in the layoff." In the instant action the petitioner has not submitted sufficient evidence to overcome the presumption of good faith. The petitioner has presented only speculative testimony that the action taken against the petitioner was motivated by anything other than reasons of economy. On June 23, 1998 the Board passed several resolutions effectuating a reduction in force for reasons of economy. Moreover, Courts have held that even if the motive for removal is tainted by improper considerations, the actions will be upheld if the position is unnecessary and can be abolished without impairing departmental efficiency, Santucci Paterson, 113 N.J.L. 192 (Sup. Ct. 1934). The question is not whether a plan conceived and adopted for the purpose of saving money actually in operation attained its purpose, but whether the design in adopting the plan was to accomplish economy or on the contrary was to effect the removal of a public employee without following the . . . Civil Service Act. See, Dowling v. State Operated School Dist. of City of New Jersey City, 1995 WL 605245, 95 N.J.A.R. 2*d.* (CSV) 603 (N.J. Adm. Jun 27, 1995) (No. CSV 8520-93).

B. The District Gave the Petitioner 30 Days Notice Pursuant to Her Employment Contract

The Board took an action to abolish the petitioner's position on June 23, 1998. On June 24, 1998 correspondence was addressed to the petitioner notifying her of the Board's action and giving her notice that her termination would take effect on July 22, 1999. The petitioner presents no basis for the position that the date of termination is to be determined from the date of receipt of the notice of termination. The respondent asserts that the employee is informed of the Board's action and the notice gives the employee 30 days from the date of the Board action.

C. The District's Action Against the Petitioner Was Not Discriminatory

The action against the petitioner was done solely for reasons of economy. The record is replete with testimony as to the financial difficulty of the District during the 1997-98 school year. It is not disputed that the state of the budget for the 1998-99 school year was uncertain, as several budget line items were under-funded. Moreover, it is clear that the action against the petitioner was not based on her performance. The petitioner was in a newly created position within the school district. Prior to the 1997-98 school year supervisors and other district administrators had carried out the function. Given the financial constraints, it was the feeling of a majority of the board members that the petitioner's position was not essential and that the functions could be performed by other staff.

There is no factual basis in the record for the conclusion that the Board took an action to abolish the petitioner because she was associated with the former Superintendent.

For the foregoing reasons the respondent Atlantic City Board of Education, et als, respectfully requests that the Court find that the Board action abolishing the petitioner's position was a reduction in force for reasons of economy and was not arbitrary or in bad faith. Moreover, the respondents ask that the Court dismiss all counts of the petitioner's appeal.

CONCLUSIONS

Issue No. 1. Whether the Board's action to eliminate petitioner's employment position was arbitrary and capricious?

I

The record clearly demonstrates, and petitioner admits, that the Board was in a severe financial crisis when petitioner was employed as its Organizational Development Specialist. In her Statement of Facts, petitioner observes that the Board faced a two million-dollar budget deficit. In addition, petitioner observes that the former Board spent unbudgeted funds on renovating the old high school for use as an elementary and/or middle school, referred to as the Albany Avenue School. Thereafter, petitioner observes, the Board's proposed budget for the 1998-99 school year was defeated at the polls by the electorate.

Notwithstanding that the Atlantic City Council restored the funds the electorate rejected at the Board's annual school election, the incoming Board was confronted with the specter of Level II monitoring by the Department of Education, together with an unstable financial future. The Board determined to eliminate employment positions which would not directly affect the classrooms or classroom teaching. It chose to effectuate a reduction in force to petitioner's position, among others, pursuant to the provisions at N.J.S.A. 18A:29-9. The facts further show that petitioner had not achieved a tenure status in the Board's employ.

As the Commissioner observed in the matter of Sally Klig v. Board of Education of the Borough of Palisades Park, Bergen County, 1975 S.L.D. 168;

> The employment of teachers who have not achieved a tenure status in the district is a matter of lying wholly within the discretionary authority of the board. Id. at 172.

The Commissioner continued in Klig, supra., to cite the Board's authority under the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 which states, in part, that the Board shall:

>
> c. Make, amend and repeal rules, not inconsistent with this title or with the rules of the state board, for its own government and the transaction of its business and for the government and management of the public schools and public school property of the district and for the employment, regulation of conduct and discharge of its employees, subject, where applicable, to the provisions of Title II, Civil Service, of the Revised Statutes; and
> d. Perform all acts and do all things, consistent with the law and the rules of the state board, necessary for the lawful and proper conduct, equipment and maintenance of the public schools of the district.

The Commissioner continued to observe in Klig that a board of education's discretionary authority is not unlimited and may not act in an arbitrary, unreasonable, capricious or improper way. The Commissioner then cites his comments in George A. Ruch v. Board of Education of the Greater Egg Harbor Regional High School District, Atlantic County, 1968 S.L.D. 7, 10: dismissed State Board of Education, May 1, 1968, affirmed Superior Court (App. Div.), 1969 S.L.D. 202, as follows:

> The Commissioner agrees that boards of education may not act in an unlawful, unreasonable, frivolous, or arbitrary manner in the exercise of their powers with respect to the employment of personnel. Thus a board of education may not resort to statutorily proscribed discriminatory practices, i.e., race, religion, color, etc., in hiring or dismissing staff. Nor may its employment practices be based on frivolous, capricious, or arbitrary considerations which have no relationship to the purpose to be served. Such a modus operandi is clearly unacceptable and when it exists it should be brought to light and subjected to scrutiny. Id. at 172.

The Commissioner found that the Board in Klig advised petitioner that its reasons for her termination were economic, as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. The Commissioner found as do I, that the Board's action bore not taint and was not arbitrary, capricious, unreasonable or improper. I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the Board's action to abolish petitioner's employment position and, thus, terminate her employment was proper and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9.

II

Petitioner claims that the Board failed to properly compensate her for her sick time, vacation time and other time she accrued. The herein record shows that the Board and petitioner entered into an employment contract which provided, in part, as follows:

> It is hereby agreed that either of the said parties to this contract may, at any time, terminate said contract and the employment aforesaid, by giving the other party thirty days notice in writing of its election to so terminate the same (Stipulation of Facts, Exhibit C) (P-6).

The facts demonstrate that the Board took action on June 23, 1998 to abolish petitioner's employment position, effective 30 days following its resolution. Thirty days from June 23, 1998 fell on July 23, 1998. The Board asserts that the termination of petitioner's position fell on July 22, 1998, rather than July 23, 1998.

Petitioner presented no evidence that she was entitled to vacation time or that the Board had enacted a policy which compensates employees for unused sick time. Assuming, arguendo, that petitioner had accrued any vacation time, it would have been prudent for petitioner to use such time she had coming to her immediately upon receipt of the termination notice. Having not done so, the Board is in no fashion obligated to reimburse petitioner for her failure to use the time to which she may have been entitled while petitioner was still under contract with the Board.

Having carefully considered all of the evidence before me, I CONCLUDE that the Board owes petitioner one day of pay for July 23, 1998, prorated, pursuant to the contract between the parties at the time of the termination of petitioner's employment.

III AND IV

Petitioner argues that the Board's decision to abolish her employment position was discriminatory and in violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD). Petitioner also argues that the Board retaliated against her for her association with the Board's former Superintendent of Schools, in violation of her constitutional right of freedom of association. Petitioner asserts that Board members had a "hit list" of Board employees who were to be terminated and were either employed by the former Superintendent or loyal to him. There was considerable testimony about the so-called "hit list" by petitioner and former Board members. None of these witnesses who testified about the 'hit list" could produce a copy of the document nor could they testify with certainty that they had even seen the so-called "hit list."

The LAD, found at N.J.S.A. 10:5-12 state, in part at subsection a. that:

> It shall be unlawful employment practice, or, as the case may be, an unlawful discrimination:

> a. For an employer, because of race, creed, color, national origin, ancestry, age, marital status, affectional or sexual orientation, sex or atypical hereditary cellular blood trait of any individual, . . . to refuse to hire or employ or to bar or to discharge or require to retire . . . from employment such individual or in terms, conditions or privileges of employment . . .

Petitioner fails to state which of the enumerated factors set forth in N.J.S.A. 10:5-12a. the Board violated and discriminated against her. If it may be assumed petitioner is grounding her LAD claim against the Board on the basis of her sex, our Appellate Branch of Superior Court has held that in order to establish a successful claim for gender discrimination in violation of LAD, the employees must show that he/she suffered intentional discrimination because of her sex, that the discrimination was pervasive and regular and that such discrimination detrimentally affected the employees. The LAD claim must also show that the discrimination would detrimentally affect a reasonable person of the same sex in that position in addition to the existence of respondent superior liability. Muench v. Township of Haddon 255 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div.).

Petitioner has failed to demonstrate that any of the Muench elements were present and caused the Board to abolish her employment position. Similarly, petitioner has failed to establish, by any credible evidence, that the abolition of her employment position was due to her constitutional right of freedom of association with the former Superintendent of Schools.

The herein record is quite clear that the Board's decision to abolish and eliminate employment positions was for the purpose of economy. There was uncertainty as to the budgetary future of the school district and, therefore, the Board eliminated those employment positions which did not directly affect the classroom teaching programs.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that the action by the Board to abolish and, thus, terminate petitioner's non-tenured employment position was proper and in accordance with the law. I CONCLUDE that the Board's action should be sustained and the herein Petition of Appeal dismissed.

ORDER

For the reasons set forth hereinbefore, it is ORDERED that the Petition of Appeal of Charlotte Wellins be DISMISSED, with the exception that the Atlantic City Board of Education is ORDERED to be reimburse petitioner for one day of pay.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CHARLOTTE WELLINS,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC COUNTY, BERT LOPEZ, PRESIDENT, DANIEL GALLAGHER AND THERESA KELLEY, INDIVIDUALLY AND JOINTLY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In her exceptions, petitioner objects to the conclusions of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), stating that: 1) the ALJ failed to credit the testimony of the former superintendent regarding the Board's authority to alter the Demonstrable Effective Program Aid (DEPA) budget without the County Superintendent's prior approval; 2) it is unacceptable for a board to determine professional development programs without direction from the superintendent; and 3) the ALJ erroneously concluded that the Board's decision to eliminate petitioner's position was proper and in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Noting that the District was in Level II Monitoring, with staff development identified as an area needing drastic improvement, petitioner avers that the Board was unaware when it voted to eliminate both her position and the 4Mat training model for staff development from the budget that the District had already invested thousands of dollars in the 4Mat staff training model and had committed resources to future planned activities. (Id. at 2-3) Petitioner further asserts that the Board's action terminating her employment for reasons of economy was unreasonable and arbitrary because the District's budget crisis was resolved with the closing of the Albany Avenue School, saving the District a projected one million dollars. (Id. at 4) Therefore, the Board's assertion of fiscal instability is inaccurate, petitioner posits, because the crisis had ended, as demonstrated by the subsequent funding of an unbudgeted program, the Academic Achievement Academy, at a cost of $36,000. (Ibid.)

In its reply, the Board asserts that the ALJ weighed all the evidence and gave weight to that which he found most credible. Agreeing that staff development was one of the issues under review as a result of the Level II Monitoring by the State, the Board contends that the 4Mat training model cannot be presumed to be any more appropriate for the District than any other training model. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 1) Moreover, the Board maintains that the District was in a financial crisis at the time it acted to terminate petitioner and the Board was, therefore, forced to eliminate the staff development program with which petitioner was involved, and find ways to address staff development internally in order to preserve funds for classroom instruction. (Id. at 2) The Board points out that the changes to the DEPA budget were ultimately approved by the County Superintendent, and that there was never an issue with the County or the State concerning the changes. (Ibid.)

Upon a thorough review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the decision of the ALJ, as modified below. Initially, the Commissioner concurs that the record supports the Board's contention that the District was in a financial crisis and that its actions to pursue a reduction in force and a change in the method of delivery of staff development were for reasons of economy. The Commissioner, therefore, determines, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ, that petitioner has failed to show by a preponderance of credible evidence that the Board's action to abolish her position was arbitrary or capricious. The Commissioner also agrees that there is no evidence that the Board engaged in discriminatory activity when it voted to abolish petitioner's position, and that petitioner has failed to establish a prima facie case to support her claim of a violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination. Moreover, since the Board took action to abolish petitioner's position on June 23, 1998, notifying her by letter of June 24, 1998 of such action, the Commissioner agrees that the Board was obligated to reimburse petitioner for services rendered through July 23, 1998, pursuant to the employment contract, which specifies that petitioner will be afforded "thirty days notice, in writing," upon the Board's election to terminate the employment contract. (P-6 in Evidence, ¶3)

With respect to petitioner's compensation claim for unused vacation and sick time, the Commissioner observes that petitioner's contract is silent as to employment benefits she is to receive in addition to her annual salary. Although the ALJ states that "[p]etitioner presented no evidence that she was entitled to vacation time or that the Board had enacted a policy which compensates employees for unused sick time" (Initial Decision at 40), the Commissioner observes that petitioner testified that she received a check, dated August 5, 1998, for $1,666.65 (Exhibit P-25) compensating her for five unused vacation days. (Tr. 4/7/99 at 86)

Accordingly, it appears that the Board provided benefits to petitioner which were not specified in her contractual agreement. Although the record does not contain a copy of the policy or collective agreement, if any, which the Board may have applied in awarding petitioner vacation days, the Board is obligated to adhere to the terms and conditions of the same policy or collective agreement applied in awarding the vacation days and other employee benefits with respect to compensation to petitioner for any unused vacation days. In the event that petitioner was also awarded sick or personal days, petitioner is also entitled to compensation for any unused sick or personal days, if so provided for in the policy or agreement applied to her.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons expressed therein, as modified above.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 13, 1999, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A prehearing conference occurred on November 23, 1999, and the matter was scheduled for hearing on April 24, 2000. The hearing was adjourned at petitioner's request and was rescheduled for October 11, 2000.

On the rescheduled hearing date the parties agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Consent Order indicating the terms thereof, which is incorporated herein by reference.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IT IS on this 12th day of January, 2001, ORDERED as follows:

1. Effective retroactively to September 1, 1999, the BOARD shall place LAINO at Step 7 of the Level 6- ten-month salary guide for the 1998-1999 school year, at a salary of $21,958. LAINO's guide placement shall be "red-circled" at the level of $21,958 until such a time as she would be entitled to receive an equal or greater amount based upon the Level 2- ten-month salary placement;

2. LAINO waives any objection that she may have to her assignment to the Clerk-Level 2 position;

3. In consideration for the above, the MTEA and LAINO agree to the dismissal of their Petition of Appeal with prejudice;

4. This Agreement does not constitute an admission of liability by either party, nor does it constitute an admission of violation of any statute, regulation, rule, policy or legal duty. This Agreement shall not be cited as precedent, not shall it be used in any future legal proceeding (except for the enforcement of its own terms), by either party or their representatives;

5. LAINO, the MTEA, and the BOARD each hereby acknowledge that they have had ample opportunity to review this Agreement and the terms embodied herein, and to consult with competent legal counsel, prior to executing this Agreement;

6. This Agreement shall constitute the parties' entire understanding and agreement on the subjects encompassed herein;

7. This Agreement shall be governed by, and shall be subject to, the laws of the State of New Jersey.

The parties consent to the form of this Order:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board charged a tenure teacher of conduct unbecoming for her participation in conduct intended to defraud the State Health Benefits Program (SHBP). The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on February 10, 1997 for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

FINDINGS OF FACT

The District filed tenure charges against Respondent tenure teacher, alleging conduct unbecoming a teacher. The District sought termination of the teacher's employment. The charges were based on Respondent teacher's participation in a scheme to defraud the SHBP. Prior to a hearing at the OAL, Respondent entered a plea of guilty on July 10, 2000, to charges of conspiracy in the third degree one count and theft in the third degree two counts.

In addition to monetary penalties and restitution, Respondent teacher agreed that she would not apply for pretrial intervention and that she would no longer be employed by the City of Newark Board of Education. Accordingly, I FIND that the charges raised by this petition have been rendered moot.

I CONCLUDE, therefore, that this petition should be dismissed as moot.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that this petition be and hereby is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his independent review, the Commissioner affirms the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge. As a consequence of respondent's guilty plea to one charge of conspiracy in the third degree and two counts of theft in the third degree, respondent agreed that she would not apply for pretrial intervention and that she would no longer be employed by the Newark School District. Therefore, the tenure charges instituted against her by the State-operated School District of the City of Newark have been rendered moot.

Accordingly, the within tenure charges are hereby dismissed. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)2, for action against respondent's certificate as that body deems appropriate.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,

RESPONDENT.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teacher challenged the withholding of her increment for the 1999-2000 school year.

The ALJ determined that petitioner had not established that the Board's withholding of her increment was the result of disparate treatment or improper motives but, rather, the ALJ found that such withholding was a result of validly perceived deficiencies in her performance. As such, the Board's action in this regard could not be overturned.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ.

Statement of the Case

This is an appeal by a teacher from the decision of the Board of Education of the City of East Orange ("District") to withhold her salary increment for the 1999-2000 school academic year pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14.

Procedural History

Initially, this matter was filed with the Commissioner of Education on August 3, 1999, by three petitioners, Helen Mininson, Jackie Orr and Amy Hanks Scott. The petitioners alleged the wrongful withholding of their increments for the 1999-2000 school year. On September 22, 1999, the District filed its answer. On October 15, 1999, the Commissioner forwarded this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The matter was assigned to the undersigned judge on November 24, 1999, and a telephone prehearing conference was scheduled for January 25, 2000. The prehearing conference was adjourned and held on April 3, 2000. During that conference, the issues were isolated and the undersigned was advised that petitioner Jackie Orr had withdrawn her petition. The hearing was held on October 30 and 31, 2000. At the onset of the hearing, the undersigned was advised that petitioner Amy Hanks Scott had withdrawn her petition. Thus, the hearing commenced in regard to petitioner Helen Mininson. Witnesses and exhibits are listed in the attached appendix.

Findings of Fact

Following the conclusion of the hearing, I directed counsel to provide me with proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Counsel for the Board of Education of the City of East Orange submitted proposed findings of fact, which I have adopted with certain modifications:

1. On September 8, 1998, Debra Harvest, principal of Johnnie L. Cocoran, Jr., Academy in the District, met with petitioner Helen Mininson regarding her professional expectations for the 1998-1999 school year. Ms. Mininson was given a statement of the evaluation process and a list of specific concerns regarding her teaching performance that she needed to address during the school year (R-1).

2. On November 9, 1998, Ms. Harvest conducted a formal observation of Ms. Mininson. Ms. Harvest determined that Ms. Mininson's teaching performance was in need of improvement. She discussed her observations in regard to each section of the evaluation with Ms. Mininson and provided Ms. Mininson with a formal observation report that outlined the specific deficiencies in her teaching performance. She offered improvement suggestions. Included in the report were detailed suggestions to address the observed deficiencies and a sixteen-point professional improvement plan. R-2.

3. Of import, the observation conducted on November 9, 1998, indicated that Ms. Mininson must continue to (a) employ various techniques to focus pupil attention on tasks; (b) devote more time to organizing materials and subject matter; (c) incorporate the use of the overhead in her lessons and learn how to pace herself so all areas are covered; (d) improve her organizational skills; (e) lower her voice; (f) reach out to the parents of her students in regard to the disciplinary process.

4. On November 30, 1998, petitioner was given a teacher evaluation that relied on observations, conferences and meetings on various dates, as well as a number of written communications given to Ms. Mininson. This evaluation outlined various deficiencies in Ms. Mininson's teaching performance. It incorporated detailed strategies to improve performance with a seventeen-point professional improvement plan (R-3). The overall rating indicated that Ms. Mininson's performance was deficient in a number of areas. In addition, the evaluation indicated that a failure to improve her performance in the stated areas would result in a recommendation that her salary increment should be withheld.

5. On December 10, 1998, Debra Harvest conducted an informal evaluation of petitioner. It was Ms. Harvest's policy to advise the teachers by memo of any incorrect performance she observed during an informal observation. Harvest's note to petitioner in regard to her observation of December 10, 1998, indicated that petitioner was not teaching the subject matter on her schedule and that five students were engaged in inappropriate activities (R-4).

6. Ms. Harvest conducted a formal observation of petitioner on February 3, 1999. Ms. Harvest found Mininson's performance unsatisfactory in the areas of teaching strategies or techniques, knowledge of content, planning and preparation and classroom management. She provided petitioner with detailed strategies for improvement, as well as a specific professional improvement plan. R-5.

7. On March 26, 1999, petitioner was given a teacher evaluation that reflected petitioner's performance for the entire school year, incorporating the results of numerous observations and written communications. Her performance was rated as unsatisfactory, and it was stated that as a result of the numerous areas in which petitioner was deficient, Ms. Harvest would be recommending the withholding of her increment/increase for the 1999-2000 school year. The particular reasons were set forth in the evaluation. Moreover, detailed strategies for improvement and a twenty-five-point professional improvement plan were provided. R-6.

8. More particularly, the March 26, 1999, evaluation indicated that petitioner's teaching strategies needed improvement. She was not following the Success For All (SFA) program and there was no logical sequence to what she presented to the students. She was advised to use the acting listening signal to help the students focus. In regard to knowledge of content, she was informed that she did not have the requisite knowledge of the content and the curriculum for social studies and SFA. In regard to planning and performance, she was advised that her lessons required organization and planning. As to classroom management, she was told to involve students in classroom routines by sharing with them what was expected and to follow given time frames. She was also advised to take a more active role in devising a plan to assist with the development and improvement of student attitude. Her students were not focused on her or the teaching and too much instructional time was lost while she tried to redirect behavior. Petitioner yelled at the students, which was inappropriate, and her classroom management indicated that she had no control of her students. In reference to her professional and personal qualities, she was told that the suggested strategies and techniques to enhance performance were met with excuses. In regard to school and community relations, she was advised that her communication with parents was minimal and that effective communication with parents was needed to assist with the development of student attitude. She was told to work on presenting herself in a more positive manner; Ms. Harvest considered her to be hostile and angry towards her. In regard to attendance and punctuality, she was advised to improve her attendance in order to provide continuity of instruction. R-6.

9. By memo dated April 7, 1999, Debra Harvest advised petitioner that she was recommending the withholding of her salary increment for the 1999-2000 school year based on documented poor teaching performance (R-7).

10. Harvest informed petitioner by memo dated May 24, 1999, that she was extremely concerned with Ms. Mininson's established pattern of lateness, which hindered her ability to plan for her students prior to the instructional day. Mininson was late to work on eight occasions in the five-month period beginning January 6, 1999, and ending May 24, 1999. R-8.

11. Doreathea Welsh Jones, a parent, filed a complaint with the administration in regard to petitioner's teaching performance. A meeting was held on June 9, 1999, with Ms. Mininson, Ms. Jones and Debra Harvest. Certain suggestions were made to resolve the parent's complaint. The parent did not return her child to the school the following year (R-9).

12. The East Orange Board of Education considered the documentation supplied by Debra Harvest, as well as that of Helen Mininson, prior to voting to withhold petitioner's salary increment for the 1999-2000 school year (R-10).

13. Petitioner has shown improvement in her teaching performance during the 2000-2001 school year. Her lesson plans are completed and on time.

14. Debra Montague Harvest is presently serving in her fifth year as principal of Johnnie L. Cocoran, Jr., Academy. Prior to this, she served as a teacher and an assistant principal. She is a member of the Delta Sigma Theta sorority, whose members are African-Americans. Other teachers in the school are members of that sorority or members of Alpha Kappa Alpha, another African-American sorority.

15. Petitioner's increment was withheld for the 1995-1996 school year. At that time, Brenda Veal was the administrator.

Arguments

Respondent asserts that the withholding of petitioner's increment was justified because it was purely performance based. Petitioner contends that the withholding of the increment was arbitrary and capricious in that it was predicated on her non-sorority member status. According to petitioner, the issue is whether the District's purported basis for the withholding is genuine or a pretext for discriminating against employees, including petitioner, who are not members of sororities.

Petitioner argues that many of the observations contained in the evaluation reports could not reasonably be made during the course of one brief visit to petitioner's classroom and that her performance could not fluctuate to the extent depicted in the evaluations over such a short period of time. Petitioner asserts that the noted inconsistencies and fluctuations were due to an improper motive on the part of Ms. Harvest.

Petitioner buttresses that conclusion by pointing to Ms. Harvest's testimony in regard to sorority membership in her school. Petitioner asserts that Ms. Harvest initially testified that "a couple" of teachers in the school were members of sororities, and then later designated at least seven teachers who were sorority members, and to which sorority each belonged. Petitioner alleges that Ms. Harvest's testimony in regard to the basis for assigning so-called "preferred" duties was incredible. Petitioner alleges that all of the preferred duties in the school were assigned to sorority members and that none of the teachers who were denied increments or disciplined during the 1998-1999 school year were sorority members.

Petitioner alleges that the testimony of Jackie Greadington, Victoria Causey, Jannine Howard, Chero Hall and Amy Scott supports her position. Petitioner points out that Ms. Greadington, the union representative, testified to a personal hostility by Ms. Harvest toward Ms. Mininson. The remaining four witnesses, all employees of the school, testified that Ms. Harvest discriminated against non-sorority employees in instituting discipline and assigning preferred duties. Petitioner contends that the argument that these were disgruntled employees who were previously disciplined for poor teaching performance has no basis, except possibly in regard to Ms. Scott.

Testimony

I have considered petitioner's argument and cannot agree with her position. In so concluding, I have considered the testimony of the teachers in the school in regard to the impact of sorority membership.

Jannine M. Howard, a third-grade teacher at Cocoran Academy, indicated that assignments were not given on a fair basis. Some teachers who were sorority members received preferential treatment in workload and evaluations. She noted that it was "just the way they were interacted with" and that they were treated "nicer." She pointed to one teacher who was in a sorority who had a favorable assignment. She opined that Ms. Mininson was treated like the rest of the non-sorority members.

On cross-examination, she admitted that she never had a conversation with Ms. Harvest regarding sorority membership. She agreed that Renee Richardson, who had a preferential assignment, was considered an exemplary teacher and that Richardson, who is still a sorority member, no longer holds the preferential job. She also agreed that Tamara Troast, who held the same job as Richardson, was Caucasian; she did not know if she was a sorority member.

Victoria Causey, a security guard at the school, could not respond as to whether Ms. Harvest made employment decisions or disciplined fairly. She believed that the sorority members were treated better than non-sorority members. Although she could not recall details, she opined that certain teachers, including Mininson, were treated differently. She observed the manner in which Ms. Harvest spoke to Ms. Mininson and, although she could not recall details, alleged that Ms. Harvest said things to Mininson that would make a person feel bad. Ms. Harvest did not share the teachers' evaluations with her.

Chero Hall, a teacher at Cocoran Academy for three and one-half years, believed that sorority members received different treatment. She indicated that the general feeling in the building was that they had it easier. Harvest spoke to them in a different manner; things were forgiven and they were not dealt with as harshly. Mininson, who was not a sorority member, was spoken to differently.

On cross-examination, she indicated that Ms. Boiseman, a sorority member, received preferential treatment in regard to her duties and her evaluations. She recalled showing Boiseman her own evaluation and Boiseman opining that Hall had been treated more harshly than Boiseman. She believed that certain people received preferential treatment. Although she admitted that Phyllis Spinck and Grace Bayerlein, non-sorority members, were tutors, she testified that they both felt that they had been treated unfairly. Spinck felt that Harvest harassed her and became sick as a result. Hall explained that there are different levels of tutors and that certain tutors have to tutor many more students. Hall admitted she never had her increment denied.

Further testimony was offered by Amy Hanks Scott, who had been a teacher at Cocoran Academy. She also indicated that the sorority members were treated less harshly. Their involvement in an incident was ignored, while others were reprimanded. She was told to handle a disruptive student in her class, but when the student acted up in Boiseman's class, the student was reprimanded. She admitted she received a negative letter regarding her classroom skills. She was not aware of preferential treatment in assignments.

On cross-examination, she admitted that her increment was withheld in 1999-2000 by a supervisor at the Althea Gibbons School. Her increment was also withheld in 1996-1997 and 1998-1999 when she taught at Cocoran Academy. She admitted that it was not improper to be told to contact a parent and that this did not occur because she was not in a sorority. She could not say she was reprimanded because she was not in a sorority.

In response, Ms. Harvest agreed that one of the full-time tutors is a member of her sorority and that being a tutor could be considered a special assignment. She disagreed, however, that receiving a preferential assignment was related to sorority membership. She indicated that Andrea Boiseman and Renee Richardson are both members of her sorority and attend monthly meetings. Other teachers are members of Alpha Kappa Alpha, another sorority. The two sororities have traditionally been adversaries. Yolanda Lockley, Bridget Venable, Dawn Chase, Carol Douglas and Franchette Epps were not members of her sorority and she had no way of knowing which teacher was a member of which sorority.

On rebuttal, Harvest contended that the tutoring assignment is not a preferential assignment and is equivalent to a teaching position. She indicated that she selects teachers for this assignment based on performance record and experience and the vacancy that exists. She explained why she assigned Richardson to a tutor position and claimed that her sorority membership was not a factor in the decision. She was aware that SFA was a new program and she considered that fact in her teacher evaluations. She gave Mininson time to familiarize herself in this area, but observed her in other areas. She contended that her evaluation of Mininson was not based on sorority membership. She disagreed with Ms. Greadington's testimony regarding the November 17 meeting and contended that Mininson yelled at her and that Mininson's behavior bordered on insubordination. She stated that as Mininson raised her voice, she lowered her own tone. Other than Boiseman and Richardson, she had no knowledge of who was in a sorority. A teacher's sorority status did not affect her treatment of the teacher. Since Mininson's teaching performance improved in 2000-2001, she so informed her. She opined that the teachers who had problems with their teaching performance wanted to find a common ground to justify their bad performance.

Helen Mininson stated that she had previously received satisfactory evaluations and did not "go crazy and become unsatisfactory in one year." She reviewed Harvest's evaluations of her and noted her disagreements with the various points referred to by Ms. Harvest. She alleged that the SFA program takes a substantial period of time to master and should not have affected her final evaluation. She presented the material accurately but not always in Harvest's time frame. She alleged that Harvest did not observe her between February 4 and March 26 and did not reevaluate her after she learned the program. She alleged that she works as hard as she can and is positive.

Of import, Mininson contended that Harvest was verbally abusive to her. If there was no witness, she threatened her and was hostile to her. According to petitioner, Harvest told her she wanted her out of the school and would deny her increment every year until she left. Harvest came into her room constantly and showed hostility towards her. She alleged that Harvest's action was because she wanted her out of the school. Harvest exhibited the same behavior to Ms. Orr and Ms. Scott.

Mininson contended that Harvest wanted the school to reflect the community. More particularly, Harvest wanted the staff to consist of college-educated blacks in sororities and wanted the school to be affiliated with her sorority. Mininson contended that the sorority paraphernalia around the school caused feelings of exclusion for those who were not members. Additionally, certain teachers were bombarded with negative feedback, while there was forgiveness for teachers who were sorority members. The witness was questioned as to thirty teachers and indicated that eight were members of a sorority. All sorority members wore insignia and a couple of them received preferential job assignments.

Testifying as to the meeting with Ms. Harvest in 1998 (attended by Greadington), Mininson recalled that Harvest told her she would not tolerate her voice. She responded that she had been hired with the same voice. Mininson told Harvest that teachers in the sorority were treated in a kinder manner. She recalled that Harvest told her that she had the wrong color skin. She recalled a situation where she was improperly accused for something minor.

On cross-examination, Mininson indicated that one cannot learn the SFA program in a few months. Although she is now proficient in the program, she was resentful that in 1998 it was used as a tool to evaluate her. She admitted that some teachers adapted better to it than she did. She admitted that during the four years that she was a teacher and Harvest was the principal she received only one unfavorable evaluation; she was not a sorority member during the years she received favorable evaluations.

In further testimony, she admitted that at the November 17, 1998, meeting she may have raised her voice after Harvest pointed a finger at her. She resented that Harvest told her that she was not a good teacher; it was demeaning and threatening. She alleged that she did not "fit the image" and that Harvest wanted people connected with the black business community in the school. She contended that other white teachers also had a hard time. She agreed that they did not all have their increments denied even though they were not members of sororities or fraternities, but she alleged that if she had been in a sorority, she would not have lost her increment.

On redirect examination, Mininson indicated that Harvest systematically tried to get rid of a certain number of teachers a year. Five teachers, not members of sororities, would have a hard time and three would lose an increment. She believed that her "number was up." Harvest was out to clean house, not out to get her.

Having reviewed the testimony and evidence, I feel compelled to make several observations. Although there was some evidence presented by petitioner in support of her contention that certain teachers who were sorority members received preferential treatment, the testimony does not indicate that the sorority members referred to were members of the same sorority as Ms. Harvest, or that all sorority members received preferential treatment. In fact, there is no proof that certain teachers who were sorority members and received tutorial assignments, would not have received the assignments had they not been sorority members.

The testimony at best demonstrates that there was a failure to confer benefits on non-sorority members and that non-sorority members were more inclined to receive discipline. While I do not believe that petitioner has demonstrated this by a preponderance of the believable evidence, even if it were true, this would not help petitioner. If in fact a teacher who was a member of a sorority had a benefit conferred, it does not support petitioner's allegation that her own increment was withheld for improper motives. For petitioner to prevail, she would have had to demonstrate that the reason her increment was withheld was because of her non-sorority member status. The testimony of the witnesses other than petitioner does not prove that petitioner's increment was withheld because of her non-sorority member status. None of the other witnesses testified to this or commented on petitioner's teaching performance. In fact, the non-sorority members who testified did not have their increments withheld, nor did any of them testify as to discipline imposed, because of their non-sorority member status.

The only individual who testified that her increment was withheld because of her non-sorority member status was petitioner. Petitioner's testimony in this regard was not believable. She essentially bases this conclusion on her belief that she is a good teacher, tries hard, only had her increment withheld once before, and was improperly treated by Ms. Harvest. She fails to link her non-sorority member status to the evaluations conducted by Ms. Harvest. In fact, her increment was not withheld in the three other years she was evaluated by Ms. Harvest. She testified that a number of teachers whose increments were not withheld were not members of Ms. Harvest's sorority. In fact, the majority of the teachers who were members of a sorority were not even members of Ms. Harvest's sorority. In sum, her testimony simply did not support her contention that her increment was withheld based upon her non-sorority member status.

In contrast, Ms. Harvest's testimony demonstrated her experience, her intelligence and her organization. I found her testimony to be credible and worthy of belief. She conducted numerous evaluations of petitioner, provided her with detailed observation reports and strategies for improvement and professional improvement plans. She worked diligently to give Mininson the opportunity and tools to improve. If she wanted her to fail, she certainly worked hard to achieve a different result.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing findings of fact and the applicable law, I CONCLUDE that the Board's discretionary exercise of its statutory authority to withhold Mininson's salary increment should not be overturned.

N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 provides that a board of education may withhold a teacher's salary increment "for inefficiency or other good cause." Courts recognize that salary increments are "a reward for meritorious service." Probst v. Haddonfield Bd. of Educ., 127 N.J. 518, 527 (1992). N.J.S.A. 18A:29-14 is clearly meant to vest local school districts with the ability to withhold increments from teachers who have not performed well during the previous year. Id. at 526. Appeals from such action may be taken to the Commissioner, who may either affirm or direct that an increment be paid. A decision to withhold an increment is a matter of essential managerial prerogative, which has been delegated by the Legislature to the local school board. North Plainfield Educ. Ass'n v. North Plainfield Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J. 587 (1984); Bernards Township Bd. of Educ. v. Bernards Township Educ. Ass'n, 79 N.J. 311 (1979). When reviewing such determinations, the Commissioner is prohibited from substituting his own judgment for that of the local board. His scope of review is limited to assuring that there exists a reasonable basis for the decision.

Exercise of the discretionary powers of the local board may not be upset unless patently arbitrary, without rational basis, or induced by improper motives. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Educ., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960). The burden of proving unreasonableness rests upon the party challenging the board's action. Id. at 297. Accordingly, the Commissioner's scope of review is limited to determining: (1) whether the underlying facts were as those who made the evaluation claimed; and (2) whether it was reasonable for them to conclude as they did upon those facts, bearing in mind that they are experts. Id. at 296-97.

It was petitioner's burden to show that the criticism of her teaching performance was unreasonable and that her increment was withheld arbitrarily or for improper motives. Petitioner failed to meet this burden of proof. Here, the underlying facts were substantiated by the testimony of Debra Harvest, a qualified education expert. Petitioner, an experienced teacher, received unsatisfactory ratings in teaching strategies or techniques, knowledge of content, planning and preparation, classroom management, development of student attitude, professional/personal qualities, school community relations and attendance and punctuality. In sum, petitioner's performance was less than satisfactory when evaluated in regard to those factors utilized by the District to evaluate performance. Under the circumstances, petitioner has not succeeded in showing that the Board's decision to withhold her salary increment was arbitrary, capricious or unreasonable.

Moreover, I have considered petitioner's arguments and CONCLUDE that the evidence simply does not substantiate her contentions. I cannot agree that the motives and credibility of Ms. Harvest were insincere or that she personally disliked Ms. Mininson, casting a serious shadow over her credibility. As discussed above, I found Ms. Harvest's testimony to be credible and worthy of belief. Additionally, in regard to petitioner's argument that the observations were not long enough, I FIND that there were a number of evaluations that supported the findings of fact here, based on observations of sufficient duration to make an informed and reasonable decision. In addition, the observations and evaluations extended over a substantial period of the school year. Moreover, I FIND that the teaching requirements for Ms. Mininson were made clear to her on a number of occasions. The alleged deficiencies in her teaching skills were not the result of the District's failure to properly train her or inform her of what was required of her. In fact, it is observed that the testimony and evidence supports the fact that Ms. Harvest attempted to advise petitioner of what was expected of her and make suggestions for improvement of her performance. Given petitioner's years of teaching, she should have possessed the requisite expertise to rectify the situation or sought help if she needed additional training in the deficient areas noted in the evaluations.

In addition, petitioner has not proven that the observations and evaluations were the result of disparate treatment based on her non-sorority member status. As discussed above, the evidence simply does not support petitioner's contention that the evaluations were incorrect and due to her non-sorority member status. If petitioner or any other teacher in the District believes that he or she was treated with disrespect, the remedy clearly lies elsewhere. In sum, petitioner's arguments amounted to excuses which were unsupported by the evidence and did not seem reasonable or credible. As such, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's arguments are unsubstantiated by the evidence and testimony in the record. Petitioner has not proven that it was unreasonable for the principal who observed and evaluated her teaching performance during the 1998-1999 school year to conclude that her performance was less than satisfactory.

Order

It is hereby ORDERED that the relief requested by petitioner is denied and petitioner's appeal is DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF EAST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner sought and was granted an extension of time within which to file exceptions to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) decision. Such exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner, finding petitioner's exceptions essentially reiterative of her arguments advanced below, which were fully addressed and considered by the ALJ in her decision,[1] affirms the recommended decision, as the Commissioner agrees that, under the circumstances presented here, the Board's action in withholding petitioner's increment for the 1999-2000 school year was a valid exercise of its discretionary authority. In so determining, the Commissioner is mindful, as recognized by the

[1] To the extent petitioner challenges the facts determined by the ALJ based on the testimony of the witnesses and the credence ascribed to such testimony, the Commissioner notes that the record before him does not include transcripts of the hearing conducted at the OAL. Challenges to factual findings predicated upon credibility determinations made by an administrative law judge require the party to supply the agency head with the relevant and necessary portion of the transcript. See In re Morrison, 216 N.J. Super. 143, 158-59 (App. Div. 1987). Additionally, it is well-established that due regard should be given to the person who heard the live testimony and assessed the witnesses' behavior at the hearing. See Close v. Kordulak Bros., 44 N.J. 589, 599 (1965).

ALJ, that it is well-established that a Board's imposition of an increment withholding may not be upset unless such action is demonstrated to be patently arbitrary, capricious, unlawful or induced by improper motive. See Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Ed., 60 N.J. Super. 288 (App. Div. 1960)). Moreover, the burden of proving unreasonableness lies with the petitioner. (Id. at 297)

The Commissioner's review compels him to concur with the ALJ that the Board's action withholding petitioner's increment, after she received several less than satisfactory evaluations during the 1998-99 school year, did not exceed the reasonable use of its broad discretionary authority. Moreover, the Commissioner further agrees that petitioner has not met her burden of establishing otherwise. Consequently, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the Board.

Accordingly, the recommended decision of the OAL is affirmed for the reasons therein and the instant Petition of Appeal is hereby dismissed.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Education Association alleged that the Board improperly employed an uncertified volunteer to instruct students in Spanish during the extended absence of the district's regular Spanish teacher. The Board argued that the teacher was not an employee, that she was supervised by a certified teacher, that petitioner has no standing to raise its claims, and that the matter is moot.

The ALJ determined that petitioner had standing, and that the case was not moot because it presented a situation capable of repetition and involving the public interest. However, the ALJ dismissed the petition based on a determination that it is not contrary to law to permit a volunteer to teach if supervised by a certified teacher.

The Commissioner affirmed dismissal of the petition, but not for the reasons set forth by the ALJ. The Commissioner found the matter to be moot because the arrangement at issue had ceased to exist in the district, and because a newly adopted amendment to the Professional Licensure Standards Code, providing for conditional certification of world language teachers, now sets forth a mechanism to address the situation confronted by the Board.

Record Closed: December 4, 2000 Decided: January 18, 2001

BEFORE STEVEN C. REBACK, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On January 18, 2000, Petitioner, Middletown Township Education Association (hereinafter "MTEA"), filed its Petition of Appeal claiming that Respondent, Middletown Township Board of Education (hereinafter "Board"), had violated New Jersey school laws by employing an uncertified volunteer Spanish teacher. (Petition of Appeal at 2). The MTEA requests the following relief: an order declaring illegal the employment of an uncertified volunteer as a teacher, an order requiring the Board of Education to immediately terminate the employment of the uncertified volunteer, and any other just and equitable relief. (Petition of Appeal at 2).

On March 8, 2000, the Board filed its Answer to Petition of Appeal, whereby it claimed that the MTEA did not have standing to bring this Petition, that the certification requirements for individuals employed as teaching staff members are not relevant to this matter since the Board did not "employ" a teaching staff member who lacked proper certification at any time, that this volunteer teacher was at all times supervised by the regular classroom teacher possessing full certification; that it did this because no appropriately certified person was available to be hired, and that the use of an unpaid volunteer working under the supervision of a certified candidate for employment is fully consistent with the law. (Answer to Petition of Appeal at 1-3).

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case on or about April 4, 2000. Thereafter, and following various telephone conferences, it was agreed that the matter would be heard "on the papers." The final brief entered on behalf of the respondent was submitted to my office on November 28, 2000. Thereafter my secretary contacted counsel for the petitioner by telephone on or about December 4, 2000 inquiring whether she was going to reply to respondent's brief. On or about December 4, 2000 we were advised that petitioner rested. Accordingly the record closed on the latter date.

I

Respondent seeks summary decision on the following grounds: 1. that the Board of Education complied with the guidelines promulgated by the New Jersey Department of Education[1] in using Ms. Abreu's services and 2. that the matter upon which the Petition is based is moot. (Resp. Br. at 4-13).

The parties have stipulated to the following set of facts:

1. Ms. Dorothy Waters was, at all times relevant to the controversy herein, a certified and tenured teacher of Elementary Spanish at Fairview Elementary School, River Plaza Elementary School and Ocean Avenue School, all of which are elementary schools in the Middletown School District.

2. Due to illness, Ms. Waters was unable to perform her duties as described above effective September 22, 1999. Although the period of her absence was initially unknown, her illness ultimately required her absence from work through January 3, 2000.

3. The Administration revised the teaching schedules of the remaining Spanish teachers to cover those classes, which Ms. Waters would ordinarily have taught.

4. Ms. Stephanie LaMarca, a certified Spanish teacher at Navesink Elementary School and Middletown Village School, volunteered to teach Ms. Waters' classes at Ocean Avenue School, in addition to her own regular assignments.

5. Despite the assignments outlined above, some of Ms. Waters' classes remained uncovered.

6. The Administration became aware in October 1999 that the Principal at River Plaza, Mr. Frank Vaccerelli, knew of one Veronica Abreu, who spoke Spanish and had volunteered to assist in teaching Ms. Waters' classes at both River Plaza and Fairview Schools.

7. The Administration accepted Ms. Abreu's Offer to teach on a volunteer basis, with the caveat that regular, duly certified teachers would be required to remain in the classroom while Ms. Abreu was instructing Spanish classes. The regular, certified classroom teacher is required to remain in the classroom when any Spanish teacher is instructing pupils. The employees involved in this arrangement were as follows:

[1] Respondent incorrectly states that the New Jersey Department of Education promulgates guidelines, when it is the New Jersey State Board of Education that does so.

a. Second grade at River Plaza School: Ms. Denise Generelli, Ms. Charlene Steib, and Ms. Rosemary Milevoi;
b. Third Grade at River Plaza School: Ms. Norma Kelly or Ms. Elizabeth Murray;
c. Second grade at Fairview Elementary School: Ms. Karen Armstrong, Mr. James Gent, and Ms. Julie Schloesser;
d. Third grade at Fairview Elementary School: Ms. Elaine Barton, Ms. Barbara Palumbo, and Ms. Patricia Lovato.

8. Ms. Abreu subsequently commenced teaching three-second grade and two third grade Spanish classes at River Plaza, and three-second grade and three third grade classes at Fairview, per week.

9. At no time was Ms. Abreu ever compensated or provided with benefits for her services, nor was any Board resolution adopted regarding her services.

10. On or about October 25, 1999, the MTEA learned that the Board had accepted Ms. Abreu's offer to serve as a volunteer teacher. The MTEA thereafter filed the within Petition of Appeal and simultaneously filed a grievance.

11. Ms. Waters, the certified teacher of Spanish whom Ms. Abreu had in part replaced, returned to work on January 3, 2000. However, the MTEA was unaware of her return on that date.

12. Although the MTEA was unaware that her services had been concluded at the time they filed the within Petition, Ms. Abreu has not been used on a volunteer basis by the Board since December 17, 1999, and as noted above, she was at no time compensated or provided with benefits for her volunteer services to the Board.

[Stipulation of 8/21/00.]

Analysis and Discussion:

I. STANDARD FOR SUMMARY DISPOSITION

Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5, a motion for summary decision may be awarded "if the papers and discovery which have been filed, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law." N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(b). (emphasis added) After the moving party has made and supported such a motion, "an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding." Ibid.

Similarly, the New Jersey Court Rules provide a provision applicable to summary judgment. R. 4:46-2(c). That rule provides that summary judgment will be rendered if "the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment or order as a matter of law." Ibid. Furthermore, the rule states "an issue of fact is genuine only if, considering the burden of persuasion at trial, the evidence submitted by the parties on the motion, together with all legitimate inferences there from favoring the non-moving party, would require submission of the issue to the trier of fact." Ibid.

The case of Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., has clarified the legal standard for summary judgment and, hence, summary decision. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co. of Am., 142 N.J. 520 (1995). In Brill, the New Jersey Supreme Court adopted the federal standard for summary judgment and stated that > a determination whether there exists a "genuine issue" of material fact that precludes summary judgment requires the motion judge to consider whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party.

Therefore, the essential question in this analysis is "'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require [a hearing] or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law'." Id. at 533. According to this analysis, summary judgment is appropriate where the opposing party "points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature'." Id. at 529. In addition, the motion judge is not to weigh the evidence and determine the truth of the matter, but is to determine only whether there is a genuine issue for trial. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 249 (1986).

In the instant matter, where both parties have moved for summary decision, the adverse party to the particular motion to be granted must raise factual issues, which are sufficient to lead a rational fact finder to rule in its favor. Otherwise, summary decision in favor of the respective party is inappropriate.

II. LEGAL ARGUMENTS

A. Standing

The MTEA claims that as the duly certified Collective Bargaining Representative for all certified teaching staff members employed by the Board, it has standing to bring this Petition. (Petition of Appeal at 1). However, although the Board acknowledges that the MTEA is the recognized representative for purposes of collective negotiations for all non-supervisory teaching staff members employed by the Board, it argues that this representation is insufficient to confer standing on the MTEA to bring this Petition. (Answer to Petition of Appeal at 1-2).

The New Jersey Constitution provides that "[p]ersons in public employment shall have the right to organize, present to and make known to the State, or any of its political subdivisions or agencies, their grievances and proposals through representatives of their own choosing." N.J. Const. art. I, ¶ 19. The scope of collective negotiations regarding such proposals were established by the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, codified at N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 through 34:13A-21, and subsequent case law.

Particularly relevant to this analysis is Red Bank Reg'l Educ. Ass'n. v. Red Bank Reg'l High School Bd. of Educ., where the issue before the court was whether N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3 "mandates the right of the representative organization to initiate and process a grievance on behalf of the individual employee even in the event the employee chooses not to process a grievance on his or her own behalf." Red Bank Reg'l Educ. Ass'n. v. Red Bank Reg'l High School Bd. of Educ., 151 N.J. Super. 435, 437 (App. Div. 1977), aff'd., 78 N.J. 122 (1978). In Red Bank, the Appellate Division reversed the lower court's finding that a grievance is a personal right belonging to an individual. Id. at 438. The Appellate Division framed the issue as a question of "whether the Legislature intended to limit grievance rights to situations where individuals wanted to, were in a position to, were unafraid to and were disposed to file a grievance." Id. at 439. Since the "purpose of this constitutional right has been said to secure to employees collectively the right to get together to select representatives to present their grievances", the Appellate Division stated that > [w]e cannot conceive that the Legislature would on the one hand forcefully implement the constitutional guarantee of the benefits of collectivity in negotiation and then totally short-circuit the system by requiring individual activity at the moment of truth when the results of the collective bargaining came into question. Such a construction would challenge the integrity of the collectively bargained contract and insult legislative purpose.

Thus, it is possible for an organization to file a grievance on behalf of its members.

In Winston v. Board of Educ., S. Plainfield, an education association and a non- tenured teacher appealed the decision of the school board to not renew the teacher's contract. Winston v. Board of Educ., S. Plainfield, 125 N.J. Super. 131 (App.Div. 1973). The appellants argued it was error to dismiss the education association as a party to the proceedings before the Commissioner of Education. Id. at 140. Respondents argued that since the association was the bargaining agent of the employees under N.J.S.A. 34:13A-1 et seq., the Commissioner did not have jurisdiction to hear the complaint "under the guise of a controversy and dispute under School law." Ibid. It was also argued that the association did not have standing to represent an individual on a 'personal grievance' based on its role as representing the person for collective purposes. Ibid. However, the court reasoned that while disputes involving teachers are generally cognizable as controversies under the school laws, such disputes might also be the proper subject of grievance procedures adopted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3. Ibid. The Appellate Division found that the association had the authority to initiate a grievance and process a claim on behalf of an aggrieved teacher through the applicable administrative levels. Id. at 142. As stated by the court

> [i]n this posture it would be anomalous to deny the Association the standing to pursue the matter to conclusion. The final disposition of such claims might have an impact which transcends the personal interest of the individual claimant and have repercussions affecting other employees.
> The concern of an exclusive representative of public employees with respect to matters touching their employment is tangible and genuine; it is an interest sufficient to enable an entity to participate as a party in proceedings before the Commissioner and State Board of Education.
>

Therefore, the court held it was error to have dismissed the South Plainfield Education Association as a party to the proceedings. Ibid.

The present matter involves a controversy and dispute arising under the school laws of New Jersey. Therefore, this matter is properly before the Commissioner who has determined that it is a contested case and transmitted it to the Office of Administrative Law (hereinafter "OAL") for a hearing. As conceded by Respondent, the MTEA is the recognized representative for purposes of collective negotiations for all non-supervisory teaching staff members employed by them. The absence of a specifically aggrieved teacher does not prohibit the MTEA from bringing this action, as this is an issue that could affect other teachers. Thus, the MTEA has standing and the Respondent's motion for summary decision on this issue is DENIED.

B. Employment

The MTEA claims that using Ms. Abreu as an unpaid volunteer was in direct contravention of New Jersey school laws. (Petition of Appeal at 2). In response, the Board argues that the certification requirements for individuals employed as teaching staff members are not relevant to this matter since they did not 'employ' a teaching staff member who lacked proper certification at any time. (Answer to Petition of Appeal at 2). In addition, the Board states that the uncertified teacher provided instruction under the supervision of and in the presence of the regular certified classroom teacher, therefore its actions were not in violation of any New Jersey statute or regulation. (Answer to Petition of Appeal at 2; Resp. Br. at 7). It adds that the volunteer was used only because no appropriately certified person was available to be hired and when a qualified person did become available shortly thereafter, that person was hired and the volunteer's services ceased.[2] (Answer to Petition of Appeal at 2). Aside from the fact that the regular certified classroom teacher was required to remain in the classroom while Ms. Abreu taught, the parties have not stipulated to these facts. (Stipulation of 8/21/00 at 2.)

Furthermore, Respondent argues that its actions were not contrary to New Jersey regulations and statutes because due to a shortage of certified professionals in the area of world languages, it looked to a memo by Assistant Commissioner Ellen Schechter of the New Jersey Department of Education for guidance on how to properly proceed in finding a replacement for its teacher. (Resp. Br. at 4-5). In her memo, the Assistant Commissioner alluded to some previous concern regarding the lack of certified personnel, but stated "it has been determined that there is not an immediate need to use the emergency certification option". (Letter from Assistant Commissioner Ellen Schechter to Chief School Administrators of 1/26/99 at 1.) However, she did provide certain staffing options regarding world language instruction, including:

> Option 6: Employment of paraprofessionals who possess the necessary skills to assist with the delivery of language instruction may be considered provided that they are under the supervision of a certified staff member in the classroom.
> Option 7: Districts may use resource persons in conjunction with a certified staff member in the classroom to assist in implementing a program similar to the program process outlined in N.J.A.C. 6:29-4.2(g) for family life education. College students, pre-service teachers, parents, or other interested and qualified members of the community with the necessary language skills may be considered. This person shall be under the supervision of the certificate staff member in the classroom.
> [Ibid. (emphasis added).]

Thus, Options 6 and 7 authorizes the Board to use the services of non-certified persons in language instruction as long as a certified teacher supervises that person.

[2] Because this statement may lead one to assume someone new was hired to fill this teaching position, it must be noted that Respondent did not hire anyone after the volunteer's services ceased. On the contrary, the regular certified Spanish teacher came back and resumed her normal job responsibilities.

The MTEA argues that these Options are only suggestions and that no formal regulations have been promulgated in this regard. (Petit. Br. at 2). Also, as to Respondent's argument that there was a shortage of certified professionals, Petitioner argues that any shortage of certified teachers, if such a shortage exists, is not as serious a situation as Respondent claims, as indicated by the Assistant Commissioner's failure to implement an emergency certificate program. Id. at 3. Lastly, although the Board argues it attempted to fill the position with a certified teacher, the stipulation only indicates that Respondent revised the teaching schedules of the remaining Spanish teachers in an effort to cover Ms. Waters' classes, but certain classes still remained uncovered. Ibid. Neither the stipulation nor the Board's submissions indicate that the Board ever formally advertised the availability of the position.

A teaching certificate is required to teach in a public school. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3 provides that "[c]onsistent with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-38, the State Board of Examiners shall issue three educational certificates: the Instructional Certificate, the Administrative Certificate and the Educational Services Certificate. In addition, the State Board of Examiners may issue for each teaching, administrative or service position a special endorsement under the appropriate certificates."[3] The relevant certification for a Spanish teacher is an instructional certificate with an endorsement in the foreign language of Spanish.

Employment as a teaching staff member without proper certification is prohibited. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2 provides that "[n]o teaching staff member shall be employed in the public schools by any board of education unless he is the holder of a valid certificate to teach, administer, direct or supervise the teaching, instruction, or educational guidance of . . . pupils in such public schools and of such other certificate, if any, as may be required by law." Furthermore, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a) requires that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, "the requirement of certification applies to any person who is employed by a district board of education to perform duties that are regulated through certification rules pursuant to this chapter. Such duties shall be performed by the holder of the required certificate or under his or her direct and continuous personal supervision." In certain circumstances, however, it is possible for a person to teach in a public school even if they do not hold a standard certificate or, it appears, any certificate at all.

[3] Endorsements on the instructional certificate are provided in N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2.

First, N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(a) provides that "[p]ersons who do not hold a standard instructional certificate . . . may be granted a county substitute certificate for day-to-day substitute teaching in the county which grants the certificate." However, "[t]he certificate will be issued for a three-year period, but the holder may serve for no more than 20 consecutive days in the same position in one school district during the school year." N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.5(c).

The second provision, applicable to paraprofessionals, N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(a), provides that "[s]chool aides and/or classroom aides, assisting in the supervision of pupil activities under the direction of a principal, teacher or other designated certified professional personnel, shall be approved by the county superintendent of schools." This provision also requires that those school districts employing aides develop job descriptions and standards for appointment that are to be submitted by the chief school administrator to the county superintendent for approval. N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.6(b) & (c).

Finally, N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a), supra, which requires certification of persons employed by a district board who "perform duties regulated through certification rules", also provides that those duties "shall be performed by the holder of the required certificate or under his or her direct and continuous personal supervision." A reasonable interpretation of this regulatory section would allow a non-certified person to teach while under the supervision of a certified teacher. However, the language does not include a requirement that the certified supervising teacher must also possess the relevant endorsement in the subject being taught by the non-certified person. Indeed, a plain reading of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a) would allow a certified teacher to supervise a non-certified teacher in an area where the certified teacher does not hold an endorsement. The Assistant Commissioner's Options 6 and 7, supra, obviously based on this regulatory section, suffer from the same lack of clarity on the endorsement issue.

Resolution of this matter requires determining whether any of these requirements or exceptions applied to Ms. Abreu when she volunteered her services as a Spanish teacher. N.J.S.A. 18A:26-2, supra, indicates that in order to apply these provisions to Ms. Abreu, she would have to be an employee of the Board because the certification requirements apply to teachers who are 'employed'. Whether Ms. Abreu's status was that of an employee as contemplated by the education statutes and regulations will first be considered.

Respondent's assertion that at no time was Ms. Abreu "employed" by the Board is based simply on the fact that Ms. Abreu served as a volunteer who was never compensated with money or benefits in exchange for her services at any time. The definition of an employee in Title 18A fails to clarify this term adequately to determine whether Ms. Abreu was an employee which is defined only as "includes the holder of any position or employment". N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1.

The term employee is commonly defined as "a person hired by another, or by a business firm, etc., to work for wages or salary," Webster's New World College Dictionary, 466 (4th ed. 2000). Black's Law Dictionary defines an employee as "[a] person who works in the service of another person (an employer) under an express or implied contract of hire, under which the employer has the right to control the details of work performance." Black's Law Dictionary, 543 (7th ed. 1999). An employee is generally hired to perform a service especially for wages or salary. Merriam-Webster's Dictionary of Law (1996), www.findlaw.com/dictionary.

Webster's Dictionary defines volunteer as a "person who chooses freely to do or offer to do something." Webster's Dictionary, supra, at 1603. More specific, a volunteer is "[a] voluntary actor or agent in a transaction; esp., a person who, without an employer's assent and without any justification from legitimate personal interest, helps an employee in the performance of the employer's business." Black's Law Dict., supra, at 1570.

According to these definitions, the difference between an employee and a volunteer is the nature of the work and the context in which it is performed, as well as the receipt of compensation. A volunteer's services are usually limited, while an employee's services are more permanent, as the parameters of an employee's duties are dictated by contract. These definitions would support a finding that Ms. Abreu served as a volunteer, since she temporarily filled in for Ms. Waters while she was ill and was in no way providing her services under a contract or for any compensation. While the sparse definition of employee provided in N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1, supra, makes no mention of compensation, it is reasonable to conclude that a person is not an employee of a school district, as contemplated by the education laws, unless the person receives monetary compensation. That conclusion is strongly supported by § (e) of N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1, supra, which provides for a penalty where a school district employs an uncertified or improperly certified teaching staff member. Specifically, the Commissioner:

> may direct any district board of education that, properly notified, fails to terminate the contract of an uncertified or improperly certified teaching staff member to show cause why the amount of the teaching staff member's per diem salary should not be withheld from the district board of education's State financial aid for each day the teaching staff member remains employed. If such district board of education fails within 20 days to respond or to show adequate cause, either by exhibiting an appropriate certificate or by terminating the contract of the uncertified teaching staff member, the Commissioner ..., in order to fulfill his or her responsibility for ensuring the certification of teaching staff members and the thorough and efficient education of students, may reduce State financial aid to such district board of education by the amount of the uncertified teaching staff member's per diem contract salary...
> [Ibid.]

This regulatory section plainly ties the status of employee to the receipt of compensation, in accord with the generally accepted definition of the term employee. Thus, a person who provides temporary services as a volunteer, like the short term Spanish instruction provided by Ms. Abreu, is not an employee and, therefore, is not subject to the certification requirements that apply to employees under the education laws and regulations.[4]

[4] Petitioner's reliance on Guttenberg Educ. Assoc. v. Guttenberg Bd. of Educ, SB#11-98, is misplaced as that matter is completely distinguishable from the matter herein. In Guttenberg, the Guttenberg Board of Education sought an equivalency "of the requirement that currently exists which permits substitutes (certified) to replace academic classroom teachers." Id. at 2-3. The equivalency granted by the Commissioner of Education allowed for the utilization of staff members from the Berlitz Language Program holding only a county substitute certificate to teach world languages at the elementary level. Id. at 1-2. Appellants' challenged the legality of the Guttenberg Board of Education's proposal to assign individuals possessing only county substitute certificates to provide language instruction and to subcontract with Berlitz for these services. Id. at 3. After the parties submitted a proposed settlement to the State Board, the State Board refused to approve it. Ibid. Instead, the Board stated "we have concluded that the responsibility of the State Board of Education for the general supervision of public education, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-10, and for the enforcement of the education laws of this state, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-15, preclude us from permitting the Commissioner to exercise the authority we have delegated him by the adoption of N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq. to set aside certification requirements that would otherwise apply. In that the equivalency granted by the Commissioner in this case would have such an effect, we conclude that it is invalid. Id. at 4.
The State Board of Education rejected the Commissioner of Education's grant of an equivalency to the Guttenberg Board of Education because it believed the equivalency operated to set aside the certification requirements for service as a foreign language teacher specified by N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.3(a)(9). Id. at 5. The State Board also rejected appellants' argument that Guttenberg's need to develop a world language program justified using the equivalency and waiver process to set aside certification requirements. Id. at 6. Rather, it stated "as reflected by N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.3, the regulatory process provides the proper course to be followed in the event that teacher shortages develop in a particular subject area. In this respect, we emphasize that in contrast to the discretion afforded by N.J.A.C. 6:3A-1.1 et seq., alternative methods provided in the certification rules were carefully designed to assure the integrity of the standards embodied in those rules". Id. at 6-7.
Guttenberg is distinguishable from the situation herein. Aside from the fact that it involved the approval of an equivalency and no equivalency was sought in the present matter, the equivalency sought in Guttenberg would have resulted in an uncertified individual providing unsupervised instruction to students. In addition, the uncertified individual would have been paid in accordance with the district's salary guide. Guttenberg is also distinguishable

The conclusion that a volunteer is not an employee is expressly recognized in N.J.S.A. 18A:6-7.1, which mandates a criminal history check of all school employees. This provision prohibits a person from serving in a position, which involves regular contact with pupils unless the employer has first determined that no criminal history record information exists that could disqualify that person from being employed. Ibid. Volunteer personnel are specifically excluded from this requirement. Ibid.

Obviously, the purpose of a criminal history check is to ensure the safety and well being of all students by protecting them from individuals that could prey on their innocence and youth. Considering the importance of such a concern, it would seem that both volunteers and employees should be subject to a criminal history check. The Legislature, however, determined not to subject volunteers to this requirement. The rationale behind this exception is likely based on the temporary nature of a volunteer's services. In addition, the imposition of such a requirement would probably have the effect of discouraging volunteers from offering their services.

While none of the certification requirements discussed, supra, apply to Ms. Abreu, compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a), supra, was required of the Respondent school district. In summary, that section requires school district employees to be certified who "perform duties regulated through certification rules", and those duties "shall be performed by the holder of the required certificate or under his or her direct and continuous personal supervision." Ibid. (emphasis added). As discussed, this section would allow a non-certified person, such as a volunteer, to teach while under the supervision of a certified teacher. The parties have stipulated that when Ms. Abreu was instructing Spanish classes one of the regular certified teachers remained in the classroom with her during that instruction. Consequently, it appears that Respondent was in compliance with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a).[5] because there the nature of the proposal to have non-certified personnel teaching the language courses was more permanent, as the equivalency was granted for a three year period and was renewable.

[5] It should also be noted that any concerns regarding the exclusion of volunteers from a criminal history check is greatly alleviated by this requirement in which a volunteer would be under the constant supervision of a certified teacher who has undergone a criminal history check.

No endorsement requirements are included in N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.1(a). Thus, a plain reading of the regulation requires only that a teacher supervising a non-certified person possess the appropriate certification, which in most instances will be an instructional certificate. This interpretation, particularly in the area of languages, is fully supported by the Assistant Commissioner's guidelines, supra, for staffing options in the area of world language instruction where there is a recognized shortage of qualified instructors. Option 7 suggested that the use of "interested and qualified members of the community with the necessary language skills" could be considered to implement language instruction in the classroom, but that such persons "shall be under the supervision of the certificate staff member in the classroom." Letter from Asst. Comm. Schechter, supra.

Ms. Abreu was under the constant supervision of a certified teacher when she provided Spanish instruction. She provided that instruction for approximately 30 school days. Upon the return of Ms. Waters, Ms. Abreu's volunteer services ceased. In light of the circumstances and considering the intent of the relevant education statutes and regulations, it does not appear that the Respondent has violated or attempted to circumvent those statutes or regulations. Therefore, the motion for summary decision on this issue is GRANTED.

C. Mootness Doctrine

The Board argues that the allegations and the relief sought in the Petition are currently moot, and were moot at the time the Petition was filed. Therefore, it argues, the Petition must be dismissed. (Resp. Br. at 8-13). In addition, Respondent argues that Petitioner fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted since Ms. Abreu was neither paid nor compensated with any benefits during the time in which she volunteered her services. Therefore, the Board argues, its actions were not contrary to New Jersey statutes and regulations because she was not 'employed'. (Resp. Br. at 10).[6] [6] As discussed previously, Ms. Abreu was an employee of the Board. Additionally, having the certified classroom teacher remain in the classroom while Ms. Abreu taught Spanish was not in accordance with New Jersey statutory and regulatory law.

According to the stipulated facts, the MTEA was unaware at the time of filing that Ms. Abreu's services ended on December 17, 1999. (Stipulation of 8/21/00 at 3.) The MTEA filed its Petition on January 18, 2000. A review of these dates indicate that Ms. Abreu ceased volunteering her time approximately 30 days before Petitioner's claim was filed, and therefore Respondent was not in receipt of her services for that time. Respondent argues that since it was not using the services of an unpaid volunteer at the time of filing, the issue is moot and no live controversy subject to adjudication exists. (Resp. Br. at 9). Moreover, it argues, courts and administrative agencies are without the power to render advisory opinions, and decide questions that cannot affect the rights of the litigants in the case before them. (Resp. Br. at 10-11).

An issue is not moot where the potential for a recurrence of the action exists. Galloway Twp. Bd. of Educ. v. Galloway Twp. Educ. Ass'n., 78 N.J. 25, 46-47 (1978). In support of its argument that this issue is not moot, the MTEA again cites Guttenberg. Guttenberg, supra. (Petit. Br. at 5). In Guttenberg, the Commissioner granted an equivalency for a three-year period, at the end of which time the Guttenberg Board of Education could request a continuation of the period. Guttenberg, supra, at 3. There, the issue was not moot because the Commissioner found the equivalency could be continued at a later time.

In Board of Educ. of Twp. of Neptune v. Neptune Twp. Educ. Ass'n., the Neptune Township Board of Education (hereinafter "Board") sought a declaratory judgment concerning the applicability of N.J.S.A. 18A:29-4.1 and N.J.S.A. 18A:1-1 and whether prior adopted salary schedules were binding upon it after the expiration of a collective bargaining agreement. Board of Educ. of Twp. of Neptune v. Neptune Twp. Educ. Ass'n., 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 178, 178-179; aff'd State Board, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 791; aff'd, No. A-5612-94T3 (App. Div. May 15, 1995), aff'd in part, rev'd in part, 144 N.J. Super. 16 (App. Div. 1996). The matter in Neptune arose when the Board filed a Petition for Declaratory Judgment before the Commissioner of Education to determine whether "in the absence of a successor contract, the salary schedules contained in the expired Agreement obligated the Board to pay salary increments to its employees" beyond the term of the expired contract. Id. at 179. After the Commissioner dismissed the Petition with prejudice, the Board filed an appeal of the dismissal with the State Board of Education. Ibid. The State Board of Education remanded the matter to the Commissioner. Ibid. The Commissioner then decided not to consider the matter as a declaratory judgment, but instead transferred the Board's claims to the OAL in the form of a Petition of Appeal. Id. at 179. The Commissioner also advised the OAL that first to be considered in this matter were the jurisdictional and mootness questions. Ibid. Respondents argued that the matter no longer constituted a controversy or dispute between the parties and the matter was therefore moot. Id. at 180. In response, petitioner argued that the matter was one that would likely present itself again in the future. Ibid. Also, petitioners argued that clarification and guidance on the issue was imperative. Ibid. As to the mootness issue, the Administrative Law Judge (hereinafter "ALJ") found that the matter presented an "adversary proceeding by virtue of its broad public interest" and was therefore not moot. Ibid. The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's finding that petitioner raised a novel issue of law "implicating matters of substantial public interest." Id. at 182.

While Ms. Abreu is no longer serving as a volunteer for the Board, it is possible that the Board could use a volunteer's services in the future, which would again raise the issue at the core of the matter herein. Therefore, as indicated by Neptune and Guttenberg, supra, this is a case that falls within the exceptions to the mootness doctrine.

Accordingly, Respondent's motion on this issue is DENIED.

Conclusion:

As the Collective Bargaining Representative for all non-supervisory teaching staff employed by the Board, the MTEA has standing to bring this petition. Additionally, since this matter falls under an exception to the mootness doctrine, Respondent's motion must be denied.

It is undisputed that the Board utilized the services of Ms. Abreu, who lacked proper certification to teach Spanish, as a non-paid volunteer while Ms. Waters was ill. However, in doing so the Board has not violated the relevant education laws and regulations. Thus, the Respondent's motion for summary decision on the issue of Ms. Abreu's volunteer services, be and is hereby GRANTED.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that respondent's motion for summary decision be and is hereby GRANTED insofar as Mrs. Abreu's volunteer services are concerned.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, PETITIONER, V. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF MIDDLETOWN, MONMOUTH COUNTY, RESPONDENT.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record in this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination.

Upon careful and independent review, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ's) dismissal of the petition in this matter. However, he does so not for reasons expressed by the ALJ, but because the matter is moot, as set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner notes that Ms. Abreu, the volunteer whose services are at issue, ceased her volunteer services approximately 30 days before petitioner's claim was filed. "[A]n action is considered 'moot' when it no longer presents a justiciable controversy because the issues involved have become academic. A case is moot when a determination is sought on a matter which, when rendered, cannot have any practical effect on the existing controversy." Ronald Victoria v. Board of Education of the Township of Woodbridge, Middlesex County, 1982 S.L.D. 1, 5.

Moreover, the potential for recurrence of the Board's use of an uncertified volunteer to teach world language classes appears minimal, and resolution of the instant matter is no longer an issue of substantial public interest. On January 3, 2001, subsequent to the closing of the record in this matter, the State Board of Education adopted N.J.A.C. 6:11-4.8, an amendment to the Professional Licensure and Standards code, establishing a mechanism for conditional certification of world language teachers to address circumstances such as occurred in this matter.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed above, the petition is hereby dismissed as moot.

Record Closed: January 8, 2001 Decided: January 22, 2001

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the allegation of the petitioner, Carol Bottiglieri, that the respondent, Board of Education of East Brunswick, Middlesex County, improperly used her sick days for a work-related injury/illness, in violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1. The petitioner requested a hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 14, 2000, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –13.

A telephone prehearing conference was held on April 28, 2000. After the conference, the parties conferred and agreed to a settlement. The attached stipulation sets forth the terms of the settlement, and is incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement, and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This Stipulation of Settlement is entered into by the Petitioner herein, Carol Bottiglieri ("Ms. Bottiglieri"), and the Respondent herein, the Board of Education of the East Brunswick School District ("Board of Education").

WHEREAS, the Board of Education is legally charged with the effective management and operation of the East Brunswick School District; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Bottiglieri is an employee of the Board of Education; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Bottiglieri suffered an alleged work-related injury on May 17, 1999, and was out of work for numerous days (in whole or in part) during the 1998/99 and 1999/00 school years allegedly due to said injury; and

WHEREAS, on December 27, 1999, Ms. Bottiglieri filed the within action alleging a violation of N.J.S.A. 18A:30-2.1, in that the Board of Education charged twenty-three (23) half-day absences during the 1999/00 school year to her accrued sick leave; and

WHEREAS, on January 19, 2000, the Board of Education filed an Answer in the within action denying any wrongdoing on its part; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Bottiglieri and the Board of Education wish to amicably resolve the instant dispute;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants set forth herein, the parties agree to the following:

1. With the execution of this Stipulation of Settlement, the Petition of Appeal in the within action shall be deemed to have been voluntarily withdrawn with prejudice

2. The Board of Education shall promptly act to restore five and one-half (5½) days to Ms. Bottiglieri's accrued sick leave account.

3. Ms. Bottiglieri hereby releases and gives up any and all claims against the Board of Education, its representatives, agents and employees, and their successors in interest, relating to the subject matter of the within action, including, but not limited to, claims for attorney fees and court costs.

a. This release is binding upon Ms. Bottiglieri and anyone (or entity) who (or which) succeeds to her rights and responsibilities, including, but not limited to, her heirs and the executor (or administrator) of her estate.

b. With the exception of temporary disability benefits accrued to date, this release does not preclude claims asserted in any action filed heretofore in Workers' Compensation Court relating to the aforementioned injury.

4. To the extent permitted by law, the terms of this Stipulation of Settlement shall be kept confidential by the parties and their respective representatives, agents and employees.

5. This Stipulation of Settlement does not constitute an admission of liability or wrongdoing by either party, nor does it constitute an acknowledged violation of any statute, regulation or other source of authority by either party.

6. This Stipulation of Settlement shall not be cited or be relied upon as precedent, nor shall it be used for any purpose in any currently pending or future contractual or legal proceeding (except one brought for the enforcement of its terms) by either party or their respective representatives, agents and employees.

7. Each party enters into this Stipulation of Settlement voluntarily after having been afforded ample time to confer with legal counsel prior to its execution.

8. This Stipulation of Settlement embodies the parties' entire understanding and agreement upon the subject matter addressed herein.

9. Upon execution by both parties, this Stipulation of Settlement shall be submitted for approval to the Honorable Beatrice S. Tylutki, the Administrative Law Judge presiding over the within action, with ultimate approval to be rendered by the Commissioner of Education.

RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this emergent matter, including the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) Order and an audio cassette tape of the hearing conducted at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) on February 28, 2001, have been reviewed.[1]

The parties do not appear to dispute the following facts. Petitioner is a tenured Commercial Foods Instructor for the Board, where he has been employed for seven years. On March 15, 2000, petitioner, apparently upset and overwrought by the conduct of his students, reportedly stated, "I have to get out of here before I kill somebody." (Board's Written Statement of Evidence of Charges Against Lawrence Kemmett at 1). The Board also alleges that on the same date petitioner began to throw pots and pans around the shop, entered the students' locker room and proceeded to destroy some of the property therein. (Id. at 1, 2) The next day, March 16, 2000, petitioner was suspended with pay. (Id. at 5) Thereafter, petitioner underwent two examinations by physicians selected by the Board, one on June 9, 2000 and one on November 10, 2000. (Id. at 5, 6) In both reports, the physicians stated, inter alia, that petitioner could return to work. (Petition of Appeal at 2) On January 31, 2001, the Board took action to suspend petitioner, effective February 1, 2001, without pay. (Ibid.)

In this emergent matter, petitioner challenges the Board's action to suspend him without pay, effective February 1, 2001, contending that the Board was without legal authority to do so. Although petitioner initially contended in his application that a consequential lapse in his medical coverage would cause him irreparable harm since he suffers from medical conditions requiring continued treatment, he conceded at the hearing that this is not an issue, since the Board has certified that his medical coverage is ongoing, notwithstanding that they have suspended his pay. (Certification of Robert Aloia at 3) However, petitioner nevertheless maintains that "the loss of pay from the Board will create a severe financial hardship as [he has] substantial debts in addition to child support payments." (Affidavit of Lawrence Kemmet at ¶4) Petitioner further contends that, since the Board has not brought tenure charges against him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-1 et seq., its decision to suspend him without pay is clearly contrary to existing law and he, therefore, has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits of his claim. Finally, petitioner asserts that the harm he has suffered from "being summarily removed from the payroll in violation of his due process rights is significant." (Petitioner's Brief in Support of Motion for Emergent Relief at 3). Whereas, no harm could be suffered by the Board by returning petitioner to his proper status. (Ibid.)

The Board argues that petitioner was suspended without pay as of February 1, 2001 "in anticipation of" its certification of tenure charges to the Commissioner. (Board's Brief at 3) That is, tenure charges were filed with the Board's Business Administrator on February 19, 2001 and the Board is scheduled to determine whether such charges should be certified to the Commissioner at its meeting on March 21, 2001. (Ibid.) The Board asserts that its action to suspend petitioner without pay was "reasonable under the circumstances," (Board's Brief at 2) essentially contending that petitioner's conduct on March 15, 2000 was so egregious that it does not wish to have him return as a teacher. The Board further argues that petitioner has not indicated that he has been receiving treatment,[2] that petitioner did not contest the Board's actions, and that petitioner is working in another job which may be significant for mitigation purposes.

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6, a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy which may only be issued where petitioner has demonstrated that the relief is necessary to prevent irreparable harm, where the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled, where there is a likelihood of success on the merits and where the relative hardship to the moving party favors granting such relief. Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126, 132-134 (1982).

The Commissioner recognizes that "[h]arm is generally considered irreparable in equity if it cannot be redressed adequately by monetary damages." Crowe, supra at 132-133. Here, the Board argues that, indeed, petitioner's alleged losses are pecuniary in nature and, therefore, do not warrant interim remedy. However, "severe personal inconvenience" may also constitute irreparable harm, under certain circumstances. Id. at 133. Thus, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that, under the particular circumstances in this matter, petitioner has made a satisfactory showing that he will suffer irreparable harm, absent a grant of emergent relief. As the ALJ properly noted, there is nothing at this moment to compel the Board to certify tenure charges against petitioner, notwithstanding that it apparently takes the position that petitioner's conduct on March 15, 2000 was sufficiently egregious to warrant his removal. Moreover, to the extent the Board delays in certifying tenure charges with respect to an incident which took place one year ago, yet continues to withhold petitioner's pay, petitioner is faced with a situation where the Board may deprive him of his livelihood without providing him a forum to defend himself.[3] Additionally, the Commissioner recognizes petitioner's duty to pay child support and, like the ALJ, he seeks to avoid any potential harm to innocent parties by compromising this obligation under circumstances such as exist herein.

[2] The Commissioner notes that the ALJ challenged the Board on this statement, in that both physicians' reports refer to petitioner receiving ongoing treatment for existing medical conditions.

Petitioner's demonstrated legal right to emergent relief and his likelihood of success on the merits of his claim are considered together. Here, petitioner correctly argues that a local board may not suspend a tenured teacher without pay unless tenure charges have been certified to the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, or unless, in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-8.3, he has been indicted. Therefore, where no such tenure charges have been certified and no indictment against petitioner exists, petitioner's legal right to pay during the period of his suspension is clear. The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the Board's action to suspend petitioner without pay effective February 1, 2001 was ultra vires, and petitioner is entitled to prevail on this issue. Indeed, the Board could offer no legal authority for its position.

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the potential harm to petitioner in suspending his pay, under the circumstances, is greater than the harm to the Board to continue to pay his salary, particularly where it has done so for almost one year. As the ALJ noted, to the extent the Board seeks to suspend petitioner's pay, it has the power to do so, within the confines of the law, by certifying tenure charges to the Commissioner.[4]

[3] The Board admits that its allegations as to petitioner's income from another job are not proven at this stage of the proceedings.

[4] As per N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, a suspension without pay after certification of tenure charges to the Commissioner may continue for a period of 120 days "but, if the determination of the charge by the commissioner of education is not made within 120 calendar days after certification of the charges,  then the full salary (except for said 120 days) of such person shall be paid beginning on the one hundred twenty-first day until such determination is made.

Accordingly, the Board is ordered to return petitioner to the payroll effective February 1, 2001 and to continue him on the payroll unless it files tenure charges in accordance with N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.[5] This matter is ordered returned to the Office of Administrative Law for further proceedings as may be deemed necessary by the ALJ.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

Date of Decision: MAR 14 2001

Date of Mailing: MAR 16 2001

[5] The Commissioner concurs with the ALJ that the record before him does not support an interim order of prejudgment interest or an order to return petitioner to his position as a tenured teacher.

[6] This decision may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on January 22, 1999 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A hearing was scheduled for January 22, 2001, but was adjourned because the parties reached a settlement. A signed stipulation of settlement was forwarded to this office on January 24, 2001 and is attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidence by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Record Closed: January 24, 2001 Decided: January 25, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioners, R.J. and C.J. on behalf of K.J., from a residency determination by respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Orange, Essex County. The Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on August 9, 2000, it was filed for an expedited hearing. The matter was assigned to the undersigned on September 15, 2000, and a hearing was scheduled for November 20, 2000. The parties appeared on November 20, 2000 and requested that the hearing be adjourned to provide additional time toward an amicable resolution of the matter. Following telephone status conferences with the parties in December 2000, the parties reached a settlement and, thereafter, submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of agreement which the undersigned received on January 24, 2001. Having reviewed the record and the terms of settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

For the Board, Frank Dingler, Board Secretary

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 21, 2001, through certification of tenure charges of unbecoming conduct on the part of a school secretary by the Board of Education of the Atlantic County Vocational Technical School District; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail, on February 22, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her; and

Such communication clearly having provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, or where there has been no submission by the charged employee of a responsive filing indicating that s/he does not contest the charges, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee; and

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed admitted; and

The Commissioner's review of the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicating that respondent was charged, on or about January 12, 2001, with theft by unlawful taking, a third degree crime, in violation of N.J.S.A. 2C:20-3(a), when investigation revealed that, while registering students for classes, respondent, having occasion to accept money from registrants, failed to turn over and/or account for all funds received, and was subsequently found to have pilfered the sum of approximately $3,600, and the Hamilton Township Police Department reporting to the Board that respondent acknowledged in a tape recorded confession, taken shortly after her arrest, that she stole approximately $3,600 in registration funds which were the lawful property of the Atlantic County Vocational Technical School; and

The Commissioner finding that respondent's actions constitute conduct unbecoming a tenured secretary sufficient to warrant her dismissal from her tenured position; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 16th day of March, 2001 that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and Camille Nurse shall be dismissed from her tenured position as a secretary in the Board's employ as of the date of this order.[1]

THIS MATTER having come before the Commissioner of Education upon the Verified Petition of Petitioners, Berlin Township Board of Education (hereinafter Berlin Board), by its attorneys, Porzio, Bromberg and Newman, P.C., Vito A. Gagliardi, Jr., Esquire appearing and upon the response of Respondent, Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One Board of Education (hereinafter Regional Board), by its attorneys, Weinberg, McCormick, Chatzinoff & Zoll, P.A., Barry Chatzinoff, Esquire appearing, and upon the appearance of Robert M. Schwartz, Esquire, attorney for the Lower Camden County Principal's and Supervisor's Association (hereinafter Association) and the parties having reached an agreement resolving all issues presented in this matter, and based upon the parties' agreement, and for good cause shown;

WHEREAS, the Berlin Board filed a Verified Petition and Notice of Motion for Emergent Relief seeking Temporary Restraints against the Regional Board seeking to enjoin the Regional Board from implementing paragraph A of the Dissolution Incentive Program adopted by the Regional Board on March 14, 2000;

WHEREAS, on June 29, 2000, the Commissioner of Education issued an Order temporarily enjoining the Regional District from implementing the Dissolution Incentive Program and returning the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for a Plenary Hearing on the merits;

WHEREAS, the Berlin Board, the Regional Board and the Association are desirous of resolving this matter without the necessity of a plenary hearing on the merits;

IT IS ON THIS 29th day of JANUARY , 2001 ORDERED as follows:

1. The Regional Board is permanently enjoined from implementing paragraph A of the Dissolution Incentive Program adopted by the Regional Board on March 27, 2000. The Regional Board shall be enjoined from adopting any further future resolution providing for benefits similar to those set forth in paragraph A of the aforesaid Dissolution Incentive Program for any employees.

2. The Petitioners withdraw any and all claims brought against the Regional Board, Board Member Ralph Condo or any other Regional Board member with prejudice.

3. The Management Team Agreement between the Association and the Lower Camden County Regional Board of Education (July 1, 1998 - June 30, 2000), Article entitled "Leaves of Absence" allowing for Administrators to receive accrued sick leave if the Administrator has completed five (5) years of service upon leaving the District in good standing shall be construed to provide that an eligible employee may retire or resign from the Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One in good standing and be entitled to the accrued sick leave benefits if the eligible employee has completed five (5) years of service. The aforesaid interpretation of the accrued sick leave benefit shall be applicable to all current administrative staff and central office personnel covered by the previously adopted Dissolution Incentive Program. The rights afforded by this Consent Order are subject to the limitations of the Management Team Agreement or Central Office Personnel - Terms of Employment or as otherwise provided by law.

4. Upon resignation or retirement of an eligible employee, the eligible employee shall be entitled to his or her accrued sick leave benefit provided he or she has otherwise complied with the terms of the aforesaid article of the Management Team Agreement or Central Office Personnel - Terms of Employment, as applicable. Upon resignation or retirement, an eligible employee shall forfeit his or her right to a position with a constituent district of the Regional Board upon the dissolution of the Lower Camden County Regional High School District Number One and he or she shall not be entitled to any further accrued sick leave benefits.

5. This Consent Order is based upon the Association's agreement that the Consent Order resolves the Administrative Grievance filed by the Association on behalf of Nancy

Thomas. The resolution of that Grievance is set forth in a separate agreement. The Association is barred from filing any grievance or other claim on behalf of any employee who previously resigned from employment from the Regional Board.

6. This Consent Order shall serve to resolve all issues presented by the Petition in this matter.

HEARING OF WENDY L. CLOTHIER,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE TOWNSHIP OF	:	DECISION
STILLWATER, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:

SYNOPSIS

The Board filed tenure charges against respondent alleging that she engaged in conduct unbecoming a teacher; specifically, it alleged that, on several occasions, respondent attempted to, and did, engage in inappropriate sexual contact with a student. Respondent was subsequently admitted into pre-trial intervention probation with regard to criminal charges filed as a result of the alleged inappropriate sexual contact with a minor and, as a condition thereof, agreed to resign her tenured position, which she did.

The ALJ determined that the case is moot and recommended dismissal of the tenure charges.

The Commissioner dismissed the tenure charges as moot and transmitted the matter to the New Jersey Board of Examiners for action it deems appropriate against respondent's teaching certificate.

Kevin P. Benbrook, Esq., for respondent (Benbrook & Benbrook, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 29, 2001 Decided: January 31, 2001

BEFORE DIANA C. SUKOVICH, ALJ:

NATURE OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On October 2, 2000, the Township of Stillwater, Sussex County, Board of Education (petitioner) certified tenure charges against Wendy L. Clothier (respondent), a tenured teacher, to the Commissioner of the State Department of Education (DOE). The charges alleged that respondent engaged in unbecoming conduct and actions constituting other just and good cause for discipline vis-a-vis a classified male student who was twelve years old and in the sixth grade at the time in question, which conduct justified dismissal of respondent and a reduction of her salary or other compensation. The tenure charges also alleged, more specifically, that on several occasions, respondent attempted to engage in, and did engage in, inappropriate sexual contact with the student in question.

Respondent filed an answer to the tenure charges on October 18, 2000, and the DOE transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law on October 25, 2000 for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13.

A prehearing conference was conducted on November 15, 2000. During the conference, respondent's counsel moved for a stay of the hearings because the Sussex County Prosecutor's Office was then investigating the matter. The parties filed initial and reply briefs regarding the question of whether a stay should be granted, and this judge issued an Order denying the request to stay the proceedings on December 12, 2000.

A second prehearing conference was conducted on December 18, 2000. At that time, another telephone conference was scheduled for January 22, 2001, and hearings were scheduled to commence on January 26, 2001.

On January 19, 2001, respondent's counsel filed a copy of a letter, dated January 18, 2001, to petitioner's counsel, wherein respondent tendered her resignation "to be effective immediately." The letter also noted that the resignation was in furtherance of an Order of Postponement entered by the Honorable Lorraine C. Parker, J.S.C., and advanced counsel's understanding that the resignation effectively disposed of the tenure proceedings. In response to telephone communications from this judge, respondent's counsel filed a letter memorandum, on January 22, 2001, setting forth respondent's position that her resignation rendered the tenure charges moot, citing N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(d). Counsel also provided a copy of Judge Parker's Order.

During the telephone conference on January 22, 2001, petitioner's counsel concurred with respondent's analysis that the tenure charges were rendered moot by respondent's resignation. At this judge's request, petitioner's counsel memorialized that position, in a letter filed on January 23, 2001, and also confirmed that petitioner, by formal resolution at a meeting conducted on January 22, 2001, acknowledged and accepted respondent's "unilateral resignation." The record was closed on January 29, 2001, the date of final communications with the parties, i.e., a letter from this judge confirming telephone communications that the Order of Postponement and the January 18, 2001 letter would be moved into evidence.

The issue, broadly, is whether the pending tenure charges should be dismissed in light of respondent's resignation. I am persuaded that they should be.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based upon a review of the record, I FIND the following to be facts.

On January 18, 2001, the Honorable Lorraine C. Parker, J.S.C., Justice of the Superior Court, Law Division, Criminal, Sussex County, issued an Order of Postponement, ordering that the custody of respondent, who was a defendant in The State of New Jersey v. Wendy L. Clothier, case number 00-I-00998, be continued in the Sussex County Pretrial Intervention Program (PTI), on probation, subject to "the usual terms and conditions" of PTI probation and certain special conditions. (Exh. R-1.) The special conditions were that respondent immediately resign her tenured teaching position with petitioner; that respondent have no contact with the student in question, nor his family; and that she promptly submit to a psychological/sexual offender examination and fully comply with all treatment/counseling recommendations. Respondent was also ordered to be under 36 months' supervision and to pay certain specified fees.

By letter dated January 18, 2001 to petitioner's counsel, from respondent's counsel, respondent tendered her resignation as an employee of petitioner "to be effective immediately", in "furtherance" of the Order of Postponement entered by Judge Parker on the same date. (Exh. R-2.)

DISCUSSION

The Commissioner of the DOE (Commissioner) generally has jurisdiction to determine and hear controversies and disputes arising under the local school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. A tenured local school teacher shall not be dismissed nor reduced in compensation except for inefficiency, incapacity, unbecoming conduct, "or other just cause," and then only subsequent to a hearing, after written charges of the cause or causes of complaint shall have been preferred against him/her, signed by the person or persons making the same, and filed and proceeded upon in accordance with pertinent statutory provisions. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10. The pertinent statutory provisions also address the filing of tenure charges with the local school board, certification of charges to the Commissioner, filing of responses by the individual in question, a determination on the sufficiency of charges by the Commissioner, and deadlines applicable to hearings in tenure cases. Id. at §§ 6-11, 6-13, 6-14, & 6-16 & N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.1.

Regulations promulgated by the DOE, effective April 3, 2000, address the "WITHDRAWAL", settlement or mooting of tenure charges." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6. Those regulations address the factors to be considered when there is a proposed withdrawal or settlement of pending tenure charges. Id. at §§ (a)-(c). Once tenure charges are certified to the Commissioner, they may be withdrawn or settled only with the Commissioner's approval. Any proposed withdrawal or settlement, whether submitted to the Commissioner or to an Administrative Law Judge, shall address certain specified standards. Id. at § (a).

The pertinent regulations also address the effect of a resignation or retirement by the individual in question during the pendency of tenure charges:

> Where tenure proceedings are concluded prior to adjudication because the charged party has unilaterally resigned or retired, the Commissioner may refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against the charged party's certificate as it deems appropriate, when such referral is warranted under the provisions governing resignation or retirement prior to conclusion of tenure charges as set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5. Id. at § (d.)

The referenced provision requires that in cases in which teaching staff members accused of misdemeanors, crimes, or unbecoming conduct which might warrant revocation or suspension, resign or retire from their positions, either before tenure proceedings have been brought or prior to the conclusion of such proceedings, it is the responsibility of the chief school administrator of the district in question to notify the State Board of Examiners (State Board) of the alleged conduct. If the State Board issues an Order to Show Cause, it is the responsibility of the local school district to cooperate with the State Board in ascertaining and presenting the facts underlying such allegations pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(2). Id at § 3.5. N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, in turn, addresses the procedures for revocation or suspension of certificates.

In construing regulatory provisions, the plain language must first be considered. Merin v. Maglaki, 126 N.J. 430 (1992). Pertinent provisions must also be construed in pari materia. Alling Street Urban Renewal Co. v. City of Newark, 204 N.J. Super. 185 (App. Div. 1985), cert. den. 103 N.J. 472 (1986). The fact that N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a) specifically requires that tenure charges may be withdrawn or settled only with the Commissioner's approval, and then only upon consideration of certain factors, but N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(d) does not require Commissioner review of the status of tenure proceedings not yet adjudicated when the individual in question resigns or retires, supports a conclusion that pending tenure charges should be dismissed when there is a unilateral resignation or retirement. Such a construction is also supported by the requirement that the local school district, in certain cases, notify the State Board of the alleged conduct. That requirement, on its face, addresses the broader public interest pertinent to tenure proceedings. I also note that such an interpretation is consistent with decisional law prior to enactment of the regulation in question. See, e.g., In The Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Bernard Thomassen, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 7. I am therefore persuaded that the tenure charges in the current matter should be dismissed and that petitioner should be ordered to report the conduct alleged in the tenure charges to the State Board.

CONCLUSION

I CONCLUDE that the tenure charges certified by petitioner against respondent on October 2, 2000 should be dismissed because respondent resigned her position with petitioner, effective January 18, 2001, and the tenure charges are therefore moot.

ORDERS

It is hereby ORDERED that the tenure charges certified by petitioner against respondent on October 2, 2000 be and are hereby DISMISSED and that petitioner report the conduct alleged in the tenure charges to the State Board, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

STILLWATER, SUSSEX COUNTY.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties filed no exceptions to the Initial Decision.

Upon his independent review, the Commissioner affirms the conclusion of the Administrative Law Judge that the within tenure charges against respondent have been rendered moot as a consequence of an Order of Postponement issued by the Honorable Lorraine C. Parker, J.S.C., placing respondent in the custody of the Sussex County Pre-Trial Intervention Project, on probation, subject to the usual terms and conditions of Pre-Trial Intervention Probation, with certain special conditions, including a stipulation that respondent immediately resign her tenured teaching position with petitioner.

Accordingly, the tenure charges against respondent are hereby dismissed. This matter shall be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:5.6(d), for action against respondent's certificate as that body deems appropriate.[1]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE	:	DECISION
CITY OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY	:

For the Board, Mary E. Hennessy, Esq. (Murray, Murray and Corrigan)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 27, 2001 through the certification of tenure charges by the Board of Education of the City of Elizabeth (Board) against respondent, a purchasing specialist in the Board's employ, for incapacity, excessive absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, abandonment of position and abuse of sick leave; and

Whereas, the respondent, having been served, via regular and certified mail, with a copy of the charges, the Board's resolution, the Statement of Evidence and the Certificate of Determination on February 26, 2001; and

Whereas, the Commissioner, having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail, on February 27, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges certified against her; and

Whereas, such communications having clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will, absent granting of an extension for good cause shown, result in the charges being deemed admitted; and

Whereas, on March 7, 2001, the respondent having signed for receipt of the communication sent to her via certified mail by the Commissioner; and

Whereas, no reply having been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the tenure charges and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicates that respondent has been absent from her position as a purchasing specialist in the Elizabeth School District for more than 275 days in the past two years, having been absent 154 days during the 1999-2000 school year and the entire 2000-2001 school year, of which many days have been for approved leaves of absence due to hypothyroidism, insomnia and depression; and

Whereas, respondent's leave of absence last approved by the Board ended on November 1, 2000 and no request for an extension of same was submitted to the Board by respondent until January 9, 2001, whereupon she requested an extension until March 31, 2001; and

Whereas, on January 9, 2001, the assistant superintendent of schools informed respondent in writing that she would not be granted any more leaves of absence; and

Whereas, on January 23, 2001, the Director of Human Services again informed respondent that no further leaves of absences would be granted to her because she had been out of work on leaves of absence granted by the Board since January 2000, and whereas, he directed her to contact his office to arrange for her immediate return to work; and

Whereas, respondent did not return to work as directed; and

Deeming such tenure charges to be admitted by respondent, because she has not replied to the specific allegations contained therein, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute incapacity due to excessive absenteeism, which warrants dismissal from her tenured position as a purchasing specialist in the City of Elizabeth School District; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 03/22/01 day of March, 2001 that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and Maritza Davis shall be dismissed from the Board's employ as of the date of this order.*

SYNOPSIS

The Board certified tenure charges of unbecoming conduct, neglect and other just cause against respondent, a middle school teacher of classified students in a self-contained classroom of emotionally disturbed children, for an incident in which she allegedly directed an inappropriate comment at two classified students.

The ALJ found that the incident demonstrated respondent's insensitivity to her emotionally handicapped students and resulted in one student being so embarrassed that he remains on home instruction. Having found the incident "sufficiently flagrant" to remove respondent from her tenured position, the ALJ ordered said removal.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own and ordered respondent dismissed as of the date of this decision. The Commissioner directed that a copy of the decision be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF CATHERINE COOPER, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF BRIDGETON, CUMBERLAND COUNTY

A. Paul Kienzle, Jr., Esq., for petitioner Bridgeton Board of Education (Waltman, Reilly & Rogovoy, attorneys)

Ned P. Rogovoy, Esq., for respondent Catherine Cooper (Casarow, Kienzle & Raczenbek, attorneys)

Record Closed: December 19, 2000 Decided: February 2, 2001

BEFORE JOSEPH LAVERY, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner, the Board of Education, City of Bridgeton, charges respondent Catherine Cooper, with (a) conduct unbecoming a teacher, (b) neglect, and (c) other just cause. The Board seeks removal of Ms. Cooper as a tenured employee in the Bridgeton Public School System.

Respondent Cooper contests the charge and the penalty.

Today's initial decision affirms the removal of the respondent from her tenured position as a teacher in the Bridgeton Public School System.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

This matter was filed in the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the agency head on August 31, 2000. On September 25, 2000, a prehearing convened and an order followed on that date. Hearing was scheduled for November 20, 28 and 30, 2000 and concluded on November 28, 2000 in the Atlantic City hearing rooms of the OAL. Briefs followed, the last of which was filed on December 19, 2000. On that date, the record closed.

ANALYSIS OF THE RECORD

Background:

On June 8, 2000, respondent was a teacher of classified students in a self-contained classroom of emotionally disturbed children in the Bridgeton Middle School which included eighth-grade students. The population varied from five to seven. In that room, she was aided by an instructional assistant (IA), Jennifer Pettit.

On June 8, 2000, a Thursday, respondent and Ms. Pettit, with two adolescent male students of the class, J.T. and J.H., went to the high school for a brief tour. Both boys were to transfer there in the following year. The group then returned to the class where other children were tie-dying T-shirts. Respondent directed that these activities stop, and that the usual snack time begin. She took doughnuts from a nearby closet, remainders from a prior school event, and distributed them to the students. The group sat at two adjacent tables while this occurred.

At some point, student J.T., aged 14, took one or more of the doughnuts and went to the door of the classroom, passing over a duct-tape line placed there as a boundary. After crossing over into the prohibited area, J.T. passed a doughnut or doughnuts to another student standing in the hallway, who then ran upstairs.

Reacting, respondent told J.T. when he returned to his seat that he would not be going on the eighth-grade school trip to Clementon Park the following day, Friday, June 9. He was the second student to be barred, since J.H., approximately the same age as J.T., had also been denied the bus trip for refusing to listen to instructions and for other unacceptable behavior.

In any event, while the testimony described below differs on precisely what happened after J.T. returned to the table, there is no doubt that respondent had used language indicating that both boys would have to "kiss her butt" if they intended to be reconsidered for the class trip to Clementon Park. The Board contends that J.H. (but not J.T.) did exactly that, twice, at respondent's invitation. In reply, respondent maintains that this turn of phrase was colloquial, not literal, and was recognized as such by the boys. However, she concedes at least that J.H. had made "kissing sounds" behind her back, without making contact with her body. The boys themselves insisted that there was definite touching by J.H., invited by respondent when she patted her buttocks. Whatever the result, once done, there was general laughter in the class, and respondent sent IA Pettit to the office with J.H. so that he could obtain a permission slip allowing him to go on the trip. Later that day, respondent relented with J.T., as well, allowing him to join the students going to Clementon Park. J.H. went home, and told his guardian.

The following day, the boys went on the trip. But on that day and thereafter, J.H. was the subject of ridicule by other children over his action, once it became known to the rest of the school. On the following Tuesday, June 13, 2000, the mother and the guardian of the two boys arrived at the school irate over what had been told to them. After agitated discussion with the Acting Principal, Rita Sherman, among others, the relatives were persuaded to enter the Office of the Assistant Principal to explore their complaint. In the meantime, James Dunkins, the Affirmative Action Officer for Bridgeton Board of Education, was called by the Assistant Principal, Christine Miles, and eventually a meeting of the parents, school officials and respondent took place. The parent and guardian were not mollified, although respondent apologized, and J.H. never returned to school, remaining to this day on home instruction.

The upshot of the confrontation after the incident was that on August 8, 2000, the Bridgeton Board of Education found probable cause to accept the certified charges of July 21 from Dr. Geraldine O'Foster, Superintendent of Bridgeton Public Schools. After consideration, on August 15, 2000, the Board of Education issued a Resolution certifying the charges to the New Jersey Commissioner of Education, indicating that the charges warranted respondent's dismissal or reduction in salary.

After declaring the matter a contested case, the agency head forwarded the dispute to the OAL, and these proceedings followed.

Arguments of the Parties

Petitioner Board of Education's Argument:

The Board presented its case through testimony and post-hearing letter briefs:

Both boys, J.T. and J.H., agreed that they had always gotten along with respondent as a teacher. Giving details of the incident, however, J.T. recalled at hearing that after he refused respondent's order to recover the doughnut from the other student, she told him he could not go on the class trip to Clementon Park. However, he said, respondent next declared that if he wanted to go, he would have to "kiss her butt." He related that respondent had arisen from her chair, bent over, and patted her buttocks with her hands. Recalling her response, J.T. testified that "I told her to get out of my face." He continued that respondent had then asked who else wanted to go to Clementon Park. J.H. replied that he did, and, according to J.T., respondent made the same offer, still bent over. J.H. accepted, did press his lips to her buttocks, making contact twice, and everyone in the classroom laughed. Later, J.T. stated, J.H. encountered considerable teasing over his actions, as did he, J.T., for a time, when it was at first thought by the other students that he had done the same.

In support of this description, J.H. described the scene exactly as did J.T., confirming that, in fact, he had kissed respondent's buttocks twice, after she had patted them, and had invited him to do so each time. He declared that there was definite contact over her right side back pocket. He also agreed that everyone in the classroom had laughed, and that when taking him to the school office, Ms. Pettit had told him, "I can't believe Ms. Cooper did that!" The following week when he returned to school, his classmates made fun of him, calling him "booty lips" and "butt kisser." Because of the impact of this teasing, J.H. noted, he now was on home study, and he did not wish to return to the school. It upset him to be ridiculed by his classmates. He felt embarrassment and shame.

The IA, Jennifer Pettit, testified similarly. She had not personally observed the first incident of contact, but did see the second. She had seen the second contact only after she had been alerted by the other children who had said, "Ms. Pettit, watch this!" attempting to get her attention. Nevertheless, she did recall that respondent had warned J.T. beforehand, that he was walking a "fine line," and that if he did not improve, there would be no school trip. Ms. Pettit stated that respondent next made the remark, "You guys should be kissing my butt if you want to go on the trip." Ms. Pettit observed that J.H., sensing an opportunity, asked if respondent meant it seriously. In reply, respondent leaned over, but did not pat herself, in Ms. Pettit's recollection. Ms. Pettit was certain that J.H. had literally put his lips on her buttocks and that considerable laughing and joking followed, with the students saying, "Oh my God, I can't believe he did it." Moreover, Ms. Pettit recalled, it was respondent who asked her to watch, jutted her buttocks outward, and the kiss followed. Respondent then directed that J.H. be taken to the office for a permission slip.

Ms. Pettit remembered also that, on the trip to Clementon Park the following day, respondent, seated behind her, related the story to other teachers, making light of its significance, saying that she even had kids "kissing her butt." Notwithstanding, Ms. Pettit thought that respondent was an excellent teacher. She added that the remarks attributed to her, Ms. Pettit, by J.H., on the way to the office for a permission slip were inaccurately recounted. Her comment was that "I couldn't believe that he [J.H.] did that!" Ms. Pettit stated that she had not critiqued respondent.

Ms. Pettit agreed that respondent's initial statement was figurative, not literal, and that at no time did she observe respondent patting her body.

Recalling the June 8th teacher-lounge incident, Charles Peraset another teacher, recalled three occasions on which respondent had spoken of the event. On the first, respondent had burst into the lounge and said, "I made a student kiss my butt to go on a trip." On a second occasion, Mr. Peraset heard respondent repeat the same description. However, on the third, Mr. Peraset stated that she had come to him for advice because he had been an NJEA labor consultant for 22 years. At that time, he testified, respondent had said, "Yeah, I tend to shoot my mouth off, but I really didn't do it." Mr. Peraset stressed that she had not described her actions in any great detail in these three instances.

Sandra A. Delessio, a fellow teacher, testified that, at an immediately subsequent team teacher meeting, respondent had disclosed that she had told J.H. that the only way he could go on the Clementon trip was to "kiss her butt," and that he actually did. In the telling, respondent had laughed at her own story, Ms. Delessio said, and at first she had thought respondent was joking.

Nina Hendricks heard respondent's description of the incident in the teachers' dining room, seated at a nearby table at lunch. Respondent announced that she had told two students to "kiss her butt, " and that they had. Ms. Hendricks remembered that respondent was laughing, saw it as a joke, carried out without malice. In talking to the IA, Jennifer Pettit afterward, Ms. Hendricks added, the IA confirmed the remarks with a kind of grimace, and both she and Ms. Pettit shared a shocked reaction, although they thought it not unusual for respondent, even without being certain whether the tale was a fact.

Rita Sherman, Acting Principal, recalled that at the tumultuous meeting in the school on the following Tuesday, respondent admitted that she was wrong, and apologized. The apology was not accepted by the parent and the guardian, who expressed their outrage at such behavior and language in a teacher. However, Ms. Sherman believed that respondent, in her explanation at the meeting, conveyed her view that the "kiss my butt" statement was not meant to be literal, but instead was a demand that the offending students thereafter should "toe the line."

Ms. Sherman believed also that respondent was not agreeing with the parent's and guardian's description of what occurred, but meant to say only that, when J.H. declared that he would undertake the act, respondent had bent over slightly, and the student, J.H., had made "kissing noises" at her back, without contact. Respondent described her reaction as one of surprise.

In Ms. Sherman's recollection, the parent's and guardian's anger was focused on the end result that other children had ridiculed J.H. Ms. Sherman believed that the complainants had not thought at the meeting that there had been physical contact, but were dismayed and offended by the choice of language coming from a teacher.

James Dunkins, the then affirmative action officer for the district, confirmed his efforts at mediation during this meeting. He corroborated that respondent had said then that J.H. had gone behind her, without contact, and that she had heard only "kissing sounds."

Some months later, on October 27, James L. Hewitt, M.D., psychiatric consultant, saw J.H., and on November 2, 2000, issued his report (P-5). In both hearing testimony and in his medical report, Dr. Hewitt thought that the story spread among J.H.'s peers, which caused him to be the object of considerable teasing, precipitated an anxiety reaction triggering embarrassment beyond that of a less handicapped student. He proposed medications: Adderil, Paxil, and Zoloft (Exh. P-5). The doctor found that J.H. was impaired by attention deficit disorder and adjustment disorder with disturbance of emotions.

While the doctor discerned that J.H. had no bad feelings toward the teacher, he concluded that the acute embarrassment to a 15-year-old boy, derived from the taunts of his friends and other students, was inherently harmful to J.H's already very fragile self-confidence. He observed that J.H. tends to overreact to his peers. In addition, Dr. Hewitt believed that J.H. suffered from persisting emotional disturbance and anxiety reaction as a result of the incident, and that this condition should be mitigated through the aforementioned drugs addressing social anxiety. Dr. Hewett thought that J.H. should attempt to return to school, but only in an out-of-district placement, accompanied by regular counseling.

In post-hearing letter brief, the Board reiterated its view of the testimony, stressing the serious consequences in the mind of a cognitively disabled student and the emotional fallout preventing J.H.'s return to school. Such callous conduct, in the Board's view, was unbecoming and manifested gross disregard for her special teaching obligation. The Board offered case law which it urged as supporting its view that even a single incident resulting in ridicule under these circumstances can be cause for discharge, particularly when there is a lack of civility and respect for children.

Respondent's argument:

Respondent Catherine Cooper, testifying on her own behalf, emphasized that she had never been disciplined previously and was the head union representative in her building. She agreed with the general testimonial outline of the occurrence. On the other hand, she pointed out crucial differences. Respondent stated that when she called J.T. back into the room, she cautioned that when he refused to listen to her instructions, she could not foresee how he could be on the bus to Clementon Park the following day. J.H. had intervened then, and said, "If I kiss your butt, can I go on the trip?" Respondent stated that she replied, "Sure," and turned away, a gesture which was followed by "kissing sounds." There was no physical contact. This scene had caused general laughter throughout the classroom, with J.H. rolling on the ground with delight.

Respondent testified that she was certain J.H. understood that, in using the objectionable phrase, she was responding to his language, and the figure of speech "kiss butt" would be understood by him to mean merely that his behavior would have to improve to her satisfaction. No one had been upset by what happened, and the class had not been disrupted, she said. In fact, respondent recalled, after being granted permission, J.H. was happy to be going on the trip. J.T. also was allowed to go, after he became emotional and cried over having been barred.

respondent recalled, after being granted permission, J.H. was happy to be going on the trip. J.T. also was allowed to go, after he became emotional and cried over having been barred.

Respondent acknowledged that in the teacher's lounge she had said, " I made those kids kiss my butt today," but had never made such a statement on the bus, and had not talked to Ms. Delessio or Ms. Hendricks about the incident. Ms. Hendricks had overheard her comments in the lounge. Respondent was also certain that, at the meeting with the parent and guardian, she had insisted that the actual kissing did not take place, and had apologized only for the words that were used. Respondent was certain that J.H. was aware that her intent was not literal.

In post-hearing brief, respondent argues that all who testified agreed that her intent was simply to get her charges to toe the mark for the short remainder of the year, if they expected to go on the Clementon Park trip. At no point did anyone suspect that she had solicited sexual advances, nor had she consciously meant to humiliate a student.

Respondent emphasized that her record as a teacher is without blemish, and that Ms. Pettit, who works with her in the class, testified that she was an excellent teacher. Against that background, the law to be considered is that the need to remove a teacher for a single incident must be "sufficiently flagrant," and the nature and length of a teacher's prior service must be considered as well as whether there are indications that the act was "premeditated, cruel or vicious, or done with intent to punish or inflict corporal punishment". Applying these standards, respondent maintains she should not be removed.

FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Findings of Fact:

To resolve disputes of material fact, I make the following FINDINGS:

1. On June 8, 2000, after disruptive behavior by J.T., respondent advised him that if he intended to go on the class trip, he would have to "kiss my butt" for the remainder of the year. Respondent did not at the time of utterance mean this in the literal sense.

2. Hearing this, student J.H. asked if she was serious, to which she responded that she was.

3. Respondent then presented her buttocks, clad in jeans, to J.H. twice and J.H. made kissing contact over the right rear pocket twice, before the entire special education class.

4. The incident was intended by respondent as a joke, not as a humiliation of J.H., nor as a sexual gesture.

5. Afterward, respondent, in the teacher's lounge at lunch, and on the bus going to the Clementon Park class trip, made light of the incident, relating that she invited students to kiss her butt and that one student actually had done so.

Conclusions of Law

Burden of proof:

The burden of proof falls on the agency in enforcement proceedings to prove violation of administrative regulations, Cumberland Farms, Inc. v. Moffett, 218 N.J. Super. 331, 341 (App. Div. 1987). The agency must prove its case by a preponderance of the credible evidence, which is the standard in administrative proceedings, Atkinson v. Parsekian, 37 N.J. 143 (1962). Precisely what is needed to satisfy the standard must be decided on a case-by-case basis. The evidence must be such as to lead a reasonably cautious mind to a given conclusion, Bornstein v. Metropolitan Bottling Co., 26 N.J. 263 (1958). Preponderance may also be described as the greater weight of credible evidence in the case, not necessarily dependent on the number of witnesses, but having the greater convincing power, State v. Lewis, 67 N.J. 47 (1975).

Credibility, or more specifically, credible testimony, in turn, must not only proceed from the mouth of a credible witness, but it must be credible in itself, as well, Spagnuolo v. Bonnet, 16 N.J. 546, 554-55 (1954).

Applying the law to the facts:

Respondent is fully credible in her assertion that her initial admonishment to the students in her special education class, comprised of emotionally disturbed students, at first was meant only in the figurative sense: that they would have to "kiss her butt," i.e. be especially nice and remain on good behavior for the remainder of the year, if they were to attend the class trip. There was no intent to invite physical contact, or to humiliate, or to obtain sexual gratification for herself or her charges.

Nevertheless, following that announcement, the situation changed, and her conduct went beyond professional boundaries, apparently as an impulsive attempt at humor. When J.H. asked if kissing her buttocks would earn him a berth on the bus, it is believable from the testimony of a disinterested IA, Ms. Pettit, and the unvarying corroboration of the two youths, that she then permitted the act itself, as found above at FINDING number 3. That testimony is supplemented by the fully credible testimony of Mr. Peraset, Ms. Delessio and Ms. Hendricks, who had heard her shortly after portray the event as a comic aberration.

It is true that removal of any teacher from a tenured position may not be undertaken casually. Full evaluation of the charges, including the nature of the act, a total impression of the context, and the impact on a teacher's career is necessary. In re Fulcomer, 93 N.J. Super 404, 421 (App. Div. 1967). In contrast, it is equally true that "if sufficiently flagrant," the need to remove a teacher may be demonstrated by a single incident. Ibid. What occurred here is such a single incident.

Respondent traveled far beyond the pale of lighthearted spontaneity in allowing and encouraging an adolescent male student, classified as learning disabled with emotional problems (Exh. P-5), to engage in such behavior, especially when the youth's response is prompted by an itself, the event engaged the excited response of the other classified children, who clamored to have the IA watch what they themselves knew to be an extraordinary happening.

The crux of this matter is the eventual effect on J.H. The fallout has been devastating. He remains to this day isolated in a home-study setting, as a consequence of respondent's poor judgment. Respondent exposed an emotionally disturbed student to the ridicule, embarrassment and shame which followed this bizarre encounter. Her blithe retelling of the tale to colleagues immediately afterward betokens an insensitivity which cannot be countenanced in a teacher of emotionally-handicapped and learning-disabled students. The record here discloses an inability to maintain personal controls, a deficiency highlighted by behavior which compels the termination of respondent's tenured position.

ORDER

I ORDER, therefore, relying on the reasons outlined above, that the removal of respondent, Catherine Cooper from her tenured position as a teacher in the Bridgeton School District be, and hereby is, AFFIRMED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." IN THE MATTER OF THE EARLY CHILDHOOD PLAN OF THE VINELAND SCHOOL DISTRICT, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,

---

Robert A. DeSanto, Esq., for petitioner Board of Education (Gruccio, Pepper, Giovinazzi, DeSanto and Farnoly, attorneys)

Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: January 25, 2001 Decided: February 8, 2001

BEFORE JOSEPH F. MARTONE, ALJ:

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 24, 2000, for determination as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Consent Order of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is incorporated herein by reference and attachment.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF VINELAND, CUMBERLAND COUNTY,	)	OAL DOCKET NO. EDUOT 06453-00S
Petitioner,	)	Agency Ref. No. 281-8/00
v.	)
NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	)	CONSENT ORDER OF SETTLEMENT
Respondent.	)

Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Vineland ("Petitioner"), through its Attorney, Robert A. DeSanto, Esq., (Robert A. DeSanto, appearing) and Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("Department"), through its attorney, the Honorable John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of the State of New Jersey (Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, appearing), hereby stipulate to the following terms of settlement:

1. On or about August 3, 2000, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the Department's determinations with respect to Petitioner's One-Year Early Childhood Operational Plan for the 2000/2001 school year.

2. The Petition was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

3. The parties thereupon entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest.

4. Based on those discussions, the Department agrees that the Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for transportation in the amount of $241,800; Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for rental of facilities for in-district operated early childhood programs in the amount of $254,100; Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for 1.85 child study teams in the amount of $708,504; Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for refreshments for training seminars in the amount of $4,560; Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for playground equipment in the amount of $81,000; and Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional funding for kitchen equipment in the amount of $21,000.

5. The Department agrees to provide Petitioner with supplemental funding in the amount of $1,310,864. Petitioner may anticipate revenue in the amount of $1,310,864 and record an accounts receivable in the 2000/2001 budget year of that same amount. The Vineland Board of Education is hereby authorized to borrow from any of its designated banks or lending institutions, such amounts up to the amount of the account receivable in order to provide cash for the fiscal year 2000/2001 needed to pay for programs, personnel and expenses that the district would have paid for if the settlement proceeds were furnished by the Department during this fiscal year. The receipt of this additional amount of funds will occur in the 2001-2002 budget year subject to appropriation in the FY 2002 Appropriations Act.

6. The Petitioner agrees to dismiss with prejudice Petitioner's 2000/2001 Early Childhood appeal (OAL Docket No. EDUOT 06453-00S; Agency Ref. No. 281-8/00) pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

7. Petitioner agrees to reduce the amount of supplemental funding on appeal in Petitioner's 2000/2001 Supplemental Aid Appeal (OAL Docket No. EDUOT 06095-00S; Agency Ref. No. 235-6/00) by $708,504. Accordingly, the amount of Supplemental Funding on appeal in Petitioner's 2000/2001 Supplemental Aid appeal (OAL Dkt. No. EDUOT 06095-00S; Agency Ref. No. 235-6/00) is $25,791,766.

8. In the event that Petitioner can demonstrate that actual enrollment in Petitioner's early childhood program exceeds the Department's projected enrollment during the 2000/2001 school year, this Consent Order does not preclude Petitioner from applying for additional Abbott v. Burke State aid pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(f).

9. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

(Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Record Closed: January 17, 2001 Decided: January 25, 2001

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On July 5, 2000, the Board of Education of the Borough of Totowa, Passaic County (District), certified charges of unbecoming conduct, insubordination, and/or other just cause against the respondent, Patricia M. Witkowski (Witkowski). Witkowski is a tenured teacher employed by the District. On July 10, 2000 the District filed the written charges with the Commissioner of Education. Witkowski filed an Answer to the charges on July 25, 2000.

On July 25, 2000, Witkowski (now petitioner) also filed a petition of appeal with the Commissioner of Education. She alleged that as a School Nurse, she was assigned to teach health after returning from her medical leave of absence. This assignment, she alleges, was in violation of her 2000-2001 employment contract. She is not certified as a health teacher. Further, the contract reduced her salary in that it paid her on a step 6 of the salary guide. Prior to September 1997, she was paid on step 7 level pursuant to Collective Bargaining Agreement. Thus, the reduction in her salary violated her tenure rights. On July 31, 2000, petitioner withdrew Count two, the salary reduction, from the petition. An Answer was filed by the District on August 7, 2000.

On August 2, 2000 and August 10, 2000, the matters were transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The tenure charges was assigned OAL Docket Number EDU 7215-00 (Agency reference number 240-7/00). Witkowski's petition of appeal was assigned OAL docket number EDU 7398-00 (Agency reference number 262-7/00).

A prehearing conference was held on October 2, 2000 and a prehearing Order issued on October 5, 2000. An Order of Consolidation was filed on November 13, 2000 and signed on November 15, 2000.

Prior to the hearing, the parties advised that they had settled the matter. A stipulation of settlement was filed on January 17, 2001 and is attached hereto.

DISCUSSION

In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842, the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> [T]he nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's findings that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights and that the agreement is consistent with the public interest. See Cardonick at 850-51.

In this matter, the District filed charges alleging that Witkowski, a School Nurse, engaged in unbecoming conduct and insubordination. Specifically, the tenure charges allege that on July 29, 1999, Witkowski was granted District approval for a medical leave of absence commencing September 7, 1999 through March, 2000. On September 27, 1999, the District requested that Witkowski provide it with a more definitive medical leave return date so that it could use and provide this date to any replacement hire. Further, the District requested that Witkowski provide more specific information concerning her pregnancy leave, such as, existing medical complications; a letter from her physician detailing a diagnosis; current treatment; and long term prognosis. The District requested that the information be provided no later than October 13, 1999.

On October 6, Witkowski replied that her medical condition had not changed from her original request for medical leave. She did not foresee any possibility of her returning to work prior to March, 2000. Finally, Witkowski provided that she and her physician concluded that further information was not necessary in that same was personal and confidential. She did advise that if there were any changes in her circumstances, she would so advise.

The District deemed Witkowski's reply to be unresponsive and had its attorney send a second letter to Witkowski imploring her to provide a letter from her physician. After a further exchange of letter and phone calls, the parties agreed on a November 1st date for the submission of the information. This deadline passed without response. On November 19, the District set a final extension date of November 29 and advised that a failure to provide the medical documentation would be deemed insubordinate. Finally, the District requested that Witkowski submit to a medical examination by an independent medical examiner at its expense. The District set forth the name of two physicians. Due to a change in Witkowski's counsel this deadline was extended to December 5. Again, the District advised that a failure to comply with this deadline would be deemed insubordination. On December 3, Witkowski's physician sent a letter advising of the pregnancy complications. Further, a "due date" of March 30, 2000 was set.

On April 25, Witkowski advised that she had given birth on April 1, 2000. Further, that she would be extending her leave for the remainder of the school term. The District rejected the extended leave and demanded that Witkowski return to work immediately or face tenure charges. Witkowski's physician submitted a letter stating that she was suffering from postpartum depression and would not return to work until May 22, 2000. The District objected to this return date and filed tenure charges on May 15, 2000.

Subsequent to the prehearing conference, the parties engaged in settlement negotiations and were able to settle the matter. As a part of the agreement, Witkowski acknowledges that these are tenure charges and thus they are subject to the standards in Cardonick v. Brookline Board of Education, 1990 S.L.D. 842. Specifically, it is acknowledged that the Commissioner of Education may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for further action concerning her school nurse certificate. In mutual consideration of the settlement, Witkowski agrees to resign from her position as a school nurse, effective July 1, 2000. Further, she agrees to withdraw her petition of appeal. The District agrees to pay Witkowski a lump sum payment equivalent to her full year's salary for the 2000-2001 school term, subject to all appropriate deductions and credits.

After a review of the entire record and in consideration of the Cardonick standards, I FIND that the proposed settlement is in the public's interest because it will save significant legal expenses and costs as well as time expended by administrative witnesses. I further FIND that the charges herein are primarily concerned with allegations of absenteeism and a continuing act of alleged insubordination related to that absenteeism. These charges, while serious, do not have an overriding public interest. I FIND the public interest would be best served by resolving the present controversy.

I further FIND that Witkowski had full opportunity to consult with her legal counsel prior to entering into this agreement. She is aware that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, the Commissioner may refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for any action which he may deem appropriate. Further, the parties are all aware that notwithstanding their agreement to settle this matter, the Commissioner may not approve the settlement agreement. Thus, any execution of the settlement agreement prior to the Commissioner's approval is done at their peril.

I CONCLUDE that the proposed settlement fully disposes of all issues and controversies and that the terms of the settlement are in the public interest.

It is therefore ORDERED that upon approval by the Commissioner that the parties shall comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

This Agreement is made on this 16th day of January, 2001, by and between the parties, Petitioner Board of Education of the Borough of Totowa and Respondent Patricia Witkowski, a tenured school nurse, residing at 58 Brunswick Road, Cedar Grove, New Jersey 07009;

WHEREAS, Ms. Witkowski is a tenured school nurse employed by the Respondent school district;

WHEREAS, on or about May 15, 2000, tenure charges were filed against Ms. Witkowski alleging unbecoming conduct and insubordination;

WHEREAS, on or about May 30, 2000, Ms. Witkowski denied the charges.

WHEREAS, the Petitioner certified the charges to the Commissioner of Education. Ms. Witkowski is currently serving a 120 day suspension without pay pending a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14.

WHEREAS, Ms. Witkowski has filed a Petition of Appeal concerning issues related to her work assignment;

WHEREAS, in light of the nature of the charges and the possibility of protracted litigation, it is in the best interest of the parties to resolve the certified charges before the Commissioner of Education and to resolve the Petition of Appeal;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, the parties hereby stipulate and agree as follows:

1. Ms. Witkowski agrees to resign from her school nurse position effective July 1, 2000. Upon the final approval of the signed agreement, the Respondent shall and hereby does withdraw the tenure charges.

2. Ms. Witkowski will receive a lump sum payment from the respondent Board of Education equivalent to her full year's salary for the 2000-2001 school year. All appropriate deductions shall be made from the payment and all appropriate pension contributions and credits shall be made on behalf of Ms. Witkowski by the district.

3. Ms. Witkowski specifically acknowledges that she has been advised of the duty of the Commissioner of Education pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)(1) and In re Cardonick concerning referral to the State Board of Examiners for possible action regarding Ms. Witkowski's school nurse certificate.

4. The Respondent will not pursue tenure charges against Ms. Witkowski as long as the settlement remains in effect and is not voided by any court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter. However, if the settlement is voided, the Respondent retains the right to reinstate the tenure charges against Ms. Witkowski.

5. Ms. Witkowski agrees not to pursue the Petition of Appeal that she has filed against the Board of Education which has been consolidated with this matter and which bears the docket number EDU-7398-00 as long as this settlement remains in effect and is not voided by any court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter. However, if the settlement is voided, Ms. Witkowski retains the right to reinstate the Petition of Appeal.

6. The parties respectively acknowledge that each has had ample opportunity to seek independent legal counsel, financial or other advice regarding this Agreement, and that each is signing this Agreement freely and voluntarily, without coercion, duress or pressure from the other party.

7. This Agreement constitutes the full Agreement between the parties.

8. By entering into this Agreement, each party releases and discharges the other with respect to all claims or rights that either party may have against the other. This includes all claims, including those of which either party is not aware and those not mentioned herein. The releases by each party apply to all claims resulting from anything which has happened up to now. It specifically includes without limitation all claims which Ms. Witkowski may have respecting tenure, discrimination on any basis, rights under any collective bargaining agreement, disability payments, sick leave, salary or any other matter pertaining to her employment except as stated herein. However, the releases will be null and void if this Agreement is declared null and void by a court of competent jurisdiction or agency with jurisdiction over this matter.

9. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Totowa Board of Education and the Commissioner of Education.

Record Closed: February 2, 2001 Decided: February 8, 2001

BEFORE RICHARD McGILL, ALJ:

J.W.A. filed a petition with the Commissioner of Education challenging a residency determination by the Board of Education of the South Orange and Maplewood School District in regard to his daughter, S.A. District resident Vincentia Lewis is also a petitioner in this matter. Respondent counterclaimed for tuition reimbursement for the alleged period of ineligible attendance.

Prior to hearing, the parties agreed to the amicable resolution of the matter and submitted a written Stipulation of Settlement and Mutual Dismissal of Petition and Counterclaim. Having reviewed the record and the settlement terms, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I CONCLUDE that the agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, it is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms, and it is FURTHER ORDERED that the proceedings in this matter be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, on behalf of his child, niece and nephew (S.C., S.D'O. and J.D'O.), challenged the Board's determination that the children were not entitled to a free public education in the District. The Board claimed that petitioner did not have standing to file an appeal on behalf of his niece and nephew and filed a counterclaim for tuition against petitioner, as well as a third-party petition for tuition against the parents of the niece and nephew.

The ALJ found that there were no material facts at issue and that the District was entitled to summary decision as a matter of law. The ALJ found that the survey and deed showed that petitioner's residence was almost completely located in Englewood and his taxes were predominantly paid to Englewood. Since Englewood gains the benefit of petitioner's property taxes, the ALJ stated it would be unfair for Fort Lee to shoulder the financial burden of educating petitioner's children. Thus, the ALJ concluded that petitioner's children were not entitled to a free public education in Fort Lee since they do not reside in the District. The District's request for reimbursement of past tuition, however, was denied. The ALJ found that it would be inequitable under the facts of this case to direct petitioner to reimburse Fort Lee for tuition incurred before the date of the final order in this matter.

The Commissioner adopted the Initial Decision in part and modified it in part. The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that, based on the undisputed facts, the minor children in this matter were not entitled to attend school in the District free of charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). However, with respect to the Board's counterclaim against R.D. and its third-party petition against the parents of S.D'O. and J.D'O. for tuition dating back to the 1998-99 school year, although the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, under the circumstances, it would be inequitable to assess tuition against them for the period prior to the date on which the Board issued its final decision to exclude the children from the District, the Commissioner found it appropriate to assess tuition after that date.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner appealed the determination of Respondent Board of Education of Fort Lee (District) that minor children S.C., S.D'O. and J.D'O. were not entitled to a free public education in the District. Petitioner claimed that the minor children were entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a) since they were domiciled within the District. Respondent answered that the minor children did not meet the requirements of domicile in the District and filed a counterclaim for payment of tuition.

FACTS

The following facts are undisputed and I FIND them to be FACTS in this case.

When petitioner purchased his residence by deed dated July 1, 1993, the deed specified the house address as 460 Westview Place, Englewood, New Jersey. The deed describes petitioner's property as being located in the municipalities of Englewood and Fort Lee. Petitioner had purchased this house with the understanding that the previous owner's children had attended the Fort Lee public schools. Subsequent to the purchase petitioner enrolled his daughter in the Fort Lee District. Petitioner's niece and nephew moved from their residence in Fort Lee to petitioner's residence in early 2000. In April 2000, it came to the District's attention of that petitioner's residence might be outside the boundary line of Fort Lee.

According to the records of the Tax Assessor's Office of Fort Lee, the property known as 460 Westview Place is assessed in Fort Lee as land only with no assessment for any building or improvement. The total assessed value on the vacant land within Fort Lee for the 1999/2000 tax bill was $13,700 with annual property tax of $335.65. The City of Englewood assessed the value of the land at 460 Westview Place at $66,500 and the improvement at $76,300 for a total value of $142,800 on which Englewood collects taxes of $4,412. A survey done on May 25, 2000, at the request of the District showed that the front corner of the structure of the building overhangs the boundary line of Fort Lee by approximately 2.38 feet with the remainder of the structure in Englewood. Most of the garage and driveway is in Fort Lee.

Based on the foregoing information, the Superintendent of Schools recommended that the District terminate the enrollment of petitioner's child, niece and nephew. The District granted petitioner an opportunity to appear before the Board of Education on June 12, 2000. Subsequently, on June 26, 2000, the District adopted Resolution 644 upholding the recommendation and terminating the enrollment of the minor pupils at the end of the June 2000 school year.

Since 1993 petitioner has consistently considered that he lived in Fort Lee and has used a Fort Lee address. Petitioner listed his address as Fort Lee on his driver's license as well as his tax returns. In 1998 petitioner received a certificate of continued occupancy from the Fort Lee Fire Prevention Bureau, which was revoked after the District questioned his residency. On his marriage license petitioner gave his address as Fort Lee as well as on his checks, utility bill, certain lease payments and also to Social Security.

S.C., the step-daughter of petitioner, was enrolled in Kindergarten in the Fort Lee School District for the 1998-1999 school year for 180 school days, which based on the per diem tuition rate then in effect of $41.10, totals $7,398 tuition. For the 1999-2000 school year she was enrolled in the First Grade for 180 school days at a per diem rate of $42.69 for a total of $7,684.20. For the present 2000-2001 school year she has been enrolled at the per diem rate of $42.69.

J.D. and S.D., petitioner's relatives and tenants, moved from the Borough of Fort Lee to petitioner's residence on March 24, 2000 and have continued to attend the Fort Lee public schools since that time. They remained enrolled for 60 days during the 1999-2000 school year, which at a per diem rate of $42.69 totals $4,122.80 tuition for both. They are enrolled during the current 2000-2001 school year at a per diem rate of $42.69

Summary Decision must be granted if the pleadings and affidavits show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. N.J.A.C. 1:1-1-12.5; Contini v. Bd. of Educ. of Newark, 286 N.J. Super. 106, 121 (1995). While viewing the evidentiary material presented in the light most favorable to the non-moving party, the court must determine whether there is sufficient evidence to permit a rational fact-finder to resolve the alleged disputed issues in favor of the moving party. Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142. N.J. 520, 523, (1995). When a motion for Summary Decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail "must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue which can only be determine in an evidentiary hearing." If the adverse party does not so respond, a Summary Decision, if appropriate, shall be entered. N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5.

Public schools must be provided free to persons over five and under 20 years of age who are domiciled within the school District. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Here it is undisputed that petitioner's property is within both Fort Lee and Englewood. In addition, it is also undisputed that except for a small area less than three feet wide which narrows to nothing at the rear of the structure, the entire house occupied by petitioner and the children is located in Englewood. Further, petitioner pays Fort Lee property tax of $335.65 while petitioner pays Englewood property tax of $4,412. Thus, the amount of property tax paid to Englewood is 13 times greater than the amount of property tax paid to Fort Lee.

"The domicile of a person is a place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, into which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving . . . ." In the matter of Unanue, 255 N.J. Super. 362, 374 (Law Div. 1991). Minors lack the capacity to choose their own domicile and thus their domicile is that of their parent or guardian. Based on the survey of the petitioner's property, it is clear that when the family returns to its residence, they are returning to Englewood. Indeed, so little of the house is in Fort Lee that Fort Lee does not assess any value to the building and merely taxes the vacant land.

In a similar case, Zadran v. Board of Educ. of the Tp. of Belleville, EDU 11369-95, State Board of Education Decision, May 7, 1997, the petitioner lived in the condominium complex located on the border between Belleville and Newark, had a Belleville address, and thought that he lived in Belleville. However, a survey showed that his unit was on the boundary line but mainly located in Newark, and the condominium association paid real property taxes for his unit to Newark alone. In holding that it would be inequitable to impose the financial burden of educating petitioner's children on the citizens of one town while the citizens of another town were enjoying the benefit of the tax revenues, the State Board affirmed the ALJ's and Commissioner's finding that petitioner's domicile was in Newark. As in Zadran, here the petitioner's subjective belief that he lived in Fort Lee must give way to the legal reality that he lives in Englewood. Moreover, here the petitioner does not have a Fort Lee address but rather has an Englewood address as shown by his deed. The fact that he held himself out to others as living in Fort Lee does not change geography.

Based on the foregoing, I FIND that there are no material facts as issue and that the District is entitled to summary decision as a matter of law. I FIND that the survey and the deed show that petitioner's residence is almost completely located in Englewood. As Englewood gains the benefit of petitioner's property taxes, it would be unfair for Fort Lee to shoulder the financial burden of educating petitioner's children. Thus, I CONCLUDE that petitioner's children are not entitled to a free public education in Fort Lee as they do not reside in the District.

The District has filed a counterclaim for back tuition and provided the per diem rates to calculate back tuition for each child. However, here the equities shift to the petitioner's side because he had an arguable, although mistaken, belief that because his property straddled the boundary line his children were entitled to attend Fort Lee schools. Indeed, it is undisputed that the former owner of petitioner's residence sent his children to Fort Lee schools. As the School Board stated in Zadran, "while a claimant's perception of domicile cannot override legal and geographical realities, we conclude that it would be inequitable under the particular facts in the record before us to assess tuition against petitioner for the period of his children's attendance in the Belleville public schools." Id at 4. Thus, I CONCLUDE that under the facts of this case, petitioner will not be directed to reimburse Fort Lee for tuition incurred before the date of the final order in this case.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, it is ORDERED that as petitioner is domiciled in Englewood the District's determination that petitioner's children are not entitled to attend Fort Lee school is hereby AFFIRMED. The District's request for reimbursement of past tuition is hereby DENIED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

RESPONDENT-PETITIONER,	:
V.	:
J.C.D'O. AND T.D'O.,	:
THIRD-PARTY RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The parties did not file exceptions.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs with the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) that, based on the undisputed facts, the minor children in this matter are not entitled to attend school in the District free of charge pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Thus, the Petition of Appeal is properly dismissed.

However, with respect to the Board's counterclaim against R.D. and its third-party petition against J.C.D'O. and T.D'O., the parents of J.D'O. and S.D'O., for tuition dating back to the 1998-99 school year, although the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ that, under these circumstances, it would be inequitable to assess tuition against them for that period prior to June 26, 2000, the date on which the Board issued its final decision to exclude the children from its District, the Commissioner nevertheless finds it appropriate that R.D. and T.D'O. be assessed tuition for the children's ineligible attendance in the District after that date.[1] Notwithstanding R.D.'s prior misunderstanding, once the undisputed facts of this matter were established and the results of the property survey completed on May 25, 2000 were known, R.D. had no reasonable basis on which to claim domicile in the Fort Lee School District.[2] Thus, while R.D. may not have acted in bad faith in exercising his legal right to contest the Board's decision, neither he nor T.D'O. can be shielded from the fiscal consequences of the children's ineligible attendance subsequent to that decision. See M.F. and P.J.F., on behalf of minor children v. Board of Education of the Township of Hope, Warren County, Commissioner Decision July 31, 2000; aff'd State Board February 7, 2001.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is adopted in part and modified in part. R.D. is hereby ordered to reimburse the Board at a per-diem rate of $42.69 for the ineligible attendance of S.C. in the District for the 2000-2001 school year, up to and including the date of this decision. T.D'O. is hereby ordered to reimburse the Board at a per-diem rate of $42.69 each for

[1] In its Answer, Counterclaim and Third-Party Petition, the Board asserts that Petitioner R.D. does not have standing to bring a Petition of Appeal on behalf of his niece and nephew, S.D'O. and J.D'O., in that he is not their guardian. Thus, the Board brings a "third party petition" against J.C.D'O. and T.D'O., the parents of the minor children S.D'O. and J.D'O., alleging that their domicile is outside the Borough of Fort Lee, that the children have no legal entitlement to attend school there free of charge, and demanding judgment against J.C.D'O. and T.D'O. as "third party respondents" for tuition associated with ineligible attendance. However, the Commissioner notes there is no indication in the record that J.C.D'O. resides with T.D'O. in R.D.'s home and, in fact, the only address in the record for J.C.D'O. is in Queens, New York. (Board's Third-Party Petition, Exhibit 4) Moreover, the Board does not indicate at which address J.C.D'O. was served. Under these circumstances, and noting that T.D'O.'s Answer to the Board's Third-Party Petition does not incorporate J.C.D'O. as a third-party respondent, the Commissioner does not consider J.C.D'O. a party for purposes of tuition assessment.

[2] The Commissioner notes that R.D. expressly bases his appeal on the best interests of the children and his payment of a nominal property tax to the District. The former is not a factor in determining domicile, and the latter, in and of itself, could not reasonably be construed under the circumstances to establish domicile in the District. (Petition of Appeal at 2; Petitioner's Brief, December 5, 2000 at 1, 2)

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on August 8, 2000 for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

The parties have agreed to settle this matter and have prepared the attached Stipulation indicating the terms of settlement.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SETTLEMENT

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6454-00

AGENCY REF. NO. 269-8/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF LUIS CARMONA, ATLANTIC CITY SCHOOL DISTRICT, ATLANTIC COUNTY,

---

George Frino, Esq., for petitioner

Kimberly Kersey, for respondent

Record Closed: February 15, 2001 Decided: February 16, 2001

BEFORE EDGAR R. HOLMES, ALJ

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The Atlantic City School District Board of Education (Board) certified tenure charges against the respondent Luis Carmona terminating him from his position as a school custodian effective July 11, 2000. The charges included excessive absenteeism, abandonment of position, insubordination and other just cause (criminal conduct). The respondent requested a de novo hearing and the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) to be heard as a contested case pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15; the act creating the OAL N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13 and N.J.S.A. 18A:6-16 the Act providing the Commissioner with the opportunity to transmit the case to the OAL.

At a hearing convened on December 20, 2000, at the OAL in the Atlantic County Civil Courthouse, Atlantic City, the parties negotiated a settlement in which the parties agreed as follows:

1. The respondent's criminal charges have resulted in his admission to a Pre-Trial Intervention Program (PTI).

2. The Board withdraws and will not pursue the filing of tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) against Carmona.

3. Respondent Carmona's health insurance shall continue through January 31, 2001, at which time respondent Carmona will have the opportunity to continue such coverage pursuant to COBRA.

4. Respondent Carmona will not reapply for employment at any time with the Atlantic City BOE.

5. Respondent Carmona has tendered his resignation from the BOE effective January 31, 2001 and his execution of this agreement shall be deemed to predate his letter of resignation.

6. Respondent Carmona's resignation will be accepted in good standing and placed in his personnel file.

7. Respondent Carmona releases and gives up any and all claims and rights which he may have against the Board. This releases all claims, including those of which he is not aware and those not mentioned in this Agreement, except that respondent Carmona shall have the right to continue his pending Workers' Compensation Petition and shall have the right to pursue a claim solely against his disability insurance company. Carmona shall also have the right to continue as a Petitioner in the matter of ACEA, et al v. ACBE, et al, OAL Docket. Number EDU 10335-98S as to back pay and other compensatory awards. The Board is not obligated to cooperate with Carmona and reserves its rights to such claims.

8. The Board releases and gives up any and all claim and rights which it may have against Carmona. This releases all claims, except as stated in Paragraph 7 including those of which it is not aware and those not mentioned in this Agreement.

9. It is expressly understood that the execution of delivery and acceptance of this Agreement and the consideration exchanged pursuant to the terms listed herein is in no way admission of liability on the part of the parties and is solely for the purpose of resolving a dispute between the parties.

10. Both Carmona and the Board have caused legal counsel to review this Agreement and are satisfied with the advise(sic) and counsel, thus entering into this Agreement knowingly and voluntarily and free from any compulsion, duress or another promised benefit or threat.

11. This Agreement contains the entire Agreement between Carmona and the Board. There are no other promises or benefits other than those reflected in this document.

12. The parties listed herein are bound by this Agreement. Anyone who succeeds to their rights and responsibility, such as their heirs or executor of their estate, is also bound. This Agreement is made for their benefit and all who succeed to their rights and responsibilities such as their successor, employee, heirs or the executor of their estate.

The Agreement was explained to the respondent who acknowledged that he understood the Agreement and he freely and voluntarily signed a copy of the Agreement in the presence of this tribunal. There was discussion of In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 846 in the presence of the respondent. The consensus was that since he held no license issued by the Commissioner the matter would not be referred for action against a non-existent certificate.

After the hearing but prior to the filing of this Initial Decision the respondent wrote to this tribunal requesting leave to withdraw his consent to the Agreement on the grounds of feeling "pressured." He denied such pressure at the signing of the Agreement. In addition, in the letter the respondent says he seeks to "prove his innocence as far as insubordination, job abandonment and excessive absences." The respondent's attorney in her letter affixed hereto points out that as part of the settlement the BOE has withdrawn these charges. The BOE's attorney agrees. The respondent has had the benefit of the Agreement insofar as his medical coverage was extended.

I FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent has voluntarily resigned his position at the Atlantic City Board of Education effective January 31, 2001.

I ALSO FIND and CONCLUDE that the Settlement disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I FURTHER FIND and CONCLUDE that respondent has been suspended without pay since July 11, 2000 and by Agreement incorporated above he seeks no further remuneration except as stated herein.

I ALSO CONCLUDE that this Agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the Settlement should be approved. I approve the Settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the Settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision settlement with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF LUIS CARMONA,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC	:
COUNTY.	:

The record, Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. In so holding, however, the Commissioner observes that the settlement included with the Initial Decision sets forth terms that were to be effectuated prior to approval of the settlement terms by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1. The Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) and the parties are cautioned against effectuating terms of a settlement agreement in controverted matters that have been duly transmitted to the OAL prior to its submission to, and approval by, the Commissioner.

With respect to respondent's request to the ALJ to withdraw his consent to the Settlement Agreement on the grounds of feeling "pressured," the Commissioner concurs that the agreement was fully explained to respondent and that he freely and voluntarily signed a copy of the agreement in the presence of the ALJ following separate conversations with each of the two attorneys from the firm representing him and consultation with his wife. Moreover, although respondent's expressed reason for seeking to withdraw his consent is to "prove [his] innocence as far as insubordination, job abandonment and excessive absences,"[1] the Commissioner observes that the settlement specifically provides for the Board's withdrawal of the tenure charges and the acceptance of respondent's resignation in good standing. Thus, in the absence of tenure charges against him, respondent has nothing to prove.

Accordingly, the Commissioner approves the settlement terms and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to compliance with the terms of the settlement.

RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Carrier Foundation (Foundation), a private, statewide, behavioral healthcare system providing inpatient, outpatient and residential services, challenged the results of the respondent Department's audit of Carrier's East Mountain School program (East Mountain) for fiscal year 1998. The Foundation filed a motion for summary decision and the Department filed a cross-motion for summary decision.

The ALJ concluded that summary decision be granted on the cross-petition and denied on the petition. Moreover, the ALJ concluded that 1) the Foundation's investment expenses were per se non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil; 2) severance expenses paid by the Foundation were non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 because they were fringe benefits paid to staff members for time not expended and/or services not performed (severance expenses are also non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 because they are costs not listed in the Chart of Accounts for Private Schools for the Handicapped issued by the Department); 3) the Department properly disallowed $132,375 in General and Administrative (G & A) expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c). Medicare reporting principles are not applicable to the tuition reimbursement procedures promulgated by the State Board of Education. The Foundation attempted to "double charge" the Department when it allocated the same expenses as "direct expenses" under its "Medicare step-down methodology" and as "indirect expenses" under the State Board's methodology; 4) $84,518 should be excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(l), N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 and N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)10 as excess salary paid to the Foundation's CEO.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own.

Respondent.

David Steiner, Esq., for petitioner (Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti, attorneys)

Michael C. Walter, Deputy Attorney General, for respondent (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey, attorney)

Record Closed: February 20, 2001 Decided: February 21, 2001

BEFORE KATHRYN A. CLARK, ALJ:

In this matter, petitioner Carrier Foundation, East Mountain School (Carrier) moved for Summary Decision on August 21, 2000, stating that there were no issues of fact in this matter. Respondent New Jersey Department of Education (DOE), through the Attorney General's Office, filed its answer on September 26, 2000, and on that day, also filed a cross-motion for Summary Decision. On October 2, 2000, petitioner filed a Reply Brief in opposition to the DOE's cross-motion for Summary Decision, and further supporting petitioner's own motion for Summary Decision. Additionally, on October 13, 2000, the DOE filed a reply brief in opposition to petitioner's reply brief.

The issue as stated by the parties is this - should Summary Decision be granted where petitioner claims its investment expenses and severance costs should be counted as allowable expenses, that it is entitled to other additional allowable expenses, and petitioner challenges an excess salary audit determination.

I CONCLUDE that Summary Decision should be GRANTED on the Cross-Petition, and DENIED on the petition.

1. Carrier's investment expenses are per se non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil.

2. Severance expenses paid by Carrier are non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 because they were fringe benefits paid to staff members for time not expended and/or services not performed. Severance expenses are also non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a) 51 because they are costs not listed in the Chart of Accounts for Private Schools for the Handicapped issued by the DOE.

3. The DOE properly disallowed $132,375.00 in General and Administrative (G & A) expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c). First, Medicare reporting principles are not applicable to the tuition reimbursement procedures promulgated by the State Board of Education. Second, Carrier attempted to "double charge" the DOE when it allocated the same expenses as "direct expenses" under its "Medicare step-down methodology" and as "indirect expenses " under the State Board's methodology.

4. $84,518 should be excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)10 as excess salary paid to Carrier's CEO.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

This question arises out of an audit of the Carrier Foundation (Carrier) by the New Jersey Department of Education, Office of Compliance (DOE). Carrier is a private statewide behavioral healthcare system providing inpatient, outpatient, and residential services. At issue are the results of the DOE's audit of Carrier's East Mountain School program (East Mountain) for fiscal year 1998.

The following stipulated facts are provided in Carrier's motion for summary decision. The DOE audited Carrier's East Mountain program for the fiscal year of July 1, 1997 to June 30, 1998, and issued a Report of Examination Fiscal Monitoring Review on March 31, 1999. The DOE found that Carrier allocated to East Mountain non-allowable[1] direct costs of $95,048.00 and non-allowable general and administrative (G & A) expenses totaling $1,253,936.00. On May 14, 1999, James M. Maher (Maher), Carrier's Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, appealed findings five, six, seven, and ten.

In finding five, the DOE states:

> . . . non-allowable investment fees totaling $103,427 were charged to (G & A) expenses and then allocated to the (East Mountain) program. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 states that investment expense associated with the purchase/sale of stocks, securities, other investment instruments or other investments not associated with the education of handicapped students is a non-allowable expense. (It is recommended that) (t)he (above) non-allowable costs . . . must be excluded from G & A expenses when calculating the amount of G & A overhead expenses allocated to (East Mountain).
>
> (Petitioner's Brief, Report of Examination Fiscal Monitoring Review July 1, 1997 to June 30, 1998, (Exhibit "A") at 5-6.)

In finding six, the DOE states:

[1] The DOE reimburses private institutions for educating handicapped students who normally would be educated in public schools. In turn, the DOE has determined that some costs incurred by private institutions are not essential to the education of handicapped students and are thus not to be charged to the DOE. These costs are "non-allowable." See N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4 (listing non-allowable costs).

> . . . non-allowable severance expenses totaling $399,541 were charged to the (G & A) expense and then allocated to the (East Mountain) program. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)51 states that costs charged to account categories other than those reflected in the chart of accounts issued by the Commissioner (of Education) are non-allowable costs. The chart of accounts does not include (a) provision for severance payments. (It is recommended that) (t)he (above) non-allowable costs . . . must be excluded from (G & A) expenses when calculating the amount of G & A overhead expenses allocated to (East Mountain).
> (Id. at 7.)

In finding seven, the DOE made the following determinations:[2]

> General and Administrative overhead expense incurred by (Carrier) and allocated to (East Mountain) is determined by multiplying the direct expenses of (the East Mountain program) for the fiscal year ended June (thirtieth) by an overhead percentage calculated by using (Carrier's) financial information for the prior fiscal year ended December (thirty-first). The different fiscal years are used because (Carrier's) fiscal year ends on December (thirty-first) and (East Mountain) must report using a June (thirtieth) fiscal year end.
>
> The allocation method used by the organization reduces total Carrier . . . expenses of $31,242,648 by $5,699,698. These costs, which represent "Medicare" adjustments, should be included in the calculation of the amount of overhead allocated to (East Mountain).
>
> Therefore, the total costs of $31,242,648 were used to recalculate G & A overhead expenses (See Schedule A) using (Carrier's) allocation methodology. As a result, total G & A expenses should be $4,397,226.
> Using (Carrier's) methodology, communications and data processing cost center expenses are added to G & A expenses to arrive at total overhead expenses as follows:

[2] In finding seven, the DOE explains how Carrier incorrectly allocated "indirect costs" to "direct costs." "Direct costs" are those costs incurred exclusively by a private school during its day-to-day operation. "Indirect costs" are costs incurred by the parent corporation of a private school that are related to the operation of the private school. See N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(b); N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c).

G & A Costs (Schedule A)	$4,397,226
Add: Communications and Data Processing Cost Center expenses not already included in G & A
Data Processing (Schedule A)	469,223
Communications (Schedule A)	457,346
Total Overhead Expenses	$5,323,795

In addition to the items mentioned above, overhead expenses include the following non-allowable costs described elsewhere in this report.

Marketing and relations expenses (finding #4)	$ 540,843
Severance (finding #6)	399,541
Investment services fee (Finding #5)	103,427
Chief Executive's salary exceeds Max. (Finding #10)	84,518
(Total)	$1,128,329

N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) states that indirect costs should be allocated based on direct costs of each program to total direct costs of all programs. Presented below is the calculation of G & A overhead expenses allocable to (East Mountain) based on the findings in the fiscal monitoring and the requirements of (the) administrative code.

Total cost of (Carrier) (excluding (East Mountain))	$31,242,648
Total Carrier . . . overhead (above)	5,323,795
Total direct costs (excludes (East Mountain) Direct costs)	25,918,795
Direct costs of (East Mountain) ($1,427,212 per 6/30/98 financial statements) less non-allowable salary and fringe benefit costs ($95,048 – finding #9)	1,332,164
Total direct costs	27,251,017
Percentage of (East Mountain) direct costs to Total direct costs	4.885%
(East Mountain) allowable overhead ($5,323,795 minus $1,128,329 times 4.885%)	205,095
Amount of overhead charged to (East Mountain)	337,470
Non-allowable overhead	$132,375

(It is recommended that) (Carrier) . . . revise its procedures and allocate overhead to (East Mountain) based on direct costs as required by code. In addition, (Carrier) must not exclude "Medicare" adjustments in the calculation of overhead applicable to (it). Further, G & A overhead costs totaling $132,375 must be excluded in the calculation of the fiscal year 1998 certified cost per pupil.

(Id. at 6-9.)

Finally, in finding ten, the DOE determined:

> (t)he salary of the Chief Executive Officer of the Carrier Foundation exceeded the maximum salary limit of $128,544. (Maher's) total salary of $213,062 was charged to (G & A) expenses, which was then allocated to the (East Mountain) program. In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8, the salary of the director in excess of the maximum salary determined in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(1) is a non-allowable cost. (It is recommended that) (t)he salary in excess of the maximum salary totaling $84,518 must be excluded from (G & A) expenses when calculating the percentage of (G & A) expenses allocated to (East Mountain).

(Id. at 11.)

Carrier appealed these findings to the DOE's Director of Investigations and Special Audits, who upheld audit findings five, six, and ten, but reversed finding seven in part by allowing for $11,937.00 of G & A expenses. As a result, $707,924.00 of the original non-allowable expenses of $719,861.00 was disallowed. Carrier then appealed these findings to the Director of the Office of Compliance, who issued a Notice of Final Determination in which $48,306.00 of the $707,924.00 in expenses were allowed and the remaining costs of $659,618.00 were disallowed.

LITIGANTS' ARGUMENTS

1. Carrier's motion for summary decision.

A. Investment Expenses.

Carrier argues that investment expenses incurred by it are allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16. First, Carrier explains that it partially financed East Mountain by providing working capital on an interest free basis, made available though "financial arrangements," that caused Carrier to incur investment fees totaling $103,427.00. Carrier used that working capital to maintain the economic stability of East Mountain. Carrier argues that these fees are allowable costs because they are "associated with the education of handicapped children" as required by N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16.

Second, Carrier disputes the DOE's contention that it reads N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 too broadly. Carrier explains that this allocation is necessary because a working capital fund of 15%, as allowed by the regulation, is insufficient to cover costs where Carrier may not be reimbursed by sending districts for up to two years.

B. Severance Costs.

Carrier argues that severance costs, totaling $399,541.00, represent salaries and benefits paid to former administrators and, as such, do not constitute the non-allowable costs established under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 and 4.4(a)51. Carrier argues that the DOE misunderstood the nature of severance pay when it disallowed these costs. Citing Botany Mills, Inc. v. Textile Workers Union, 50 N.J.Super. 18, 30 (App. Div. 1958), Carrier alleges that severance pay is earned by employees each week, but is payable at some later time, and entitlement to that pay accrues during the work year, not merely on the date it becomes payable. Payments made to former employees represent compensation for services rendered during the course of their employment, and these payments cannot be segregated from other employee compensation. As such, severance costs should be included as part of the pro-rata allocation of East Mountain's administrative overhead because the compensated administrators clearly conferred a benefit to the handicapped children attending East Mountain when they administered that facility while still in Carrier's employ.[3]

C. General and Administrative Expenses.

Carrier argues that it is entitled to $72,132.00 in allowable G & A overhead expenses. Carrier makes two arguments to support this allegation. First, Carrier argues that the G & A allocation methodology it applied in fiscal year 1998, which includes the use of Medicare allocation calculations, complies with N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c). Second, Carrier argues that if the DOE does not accept its current allocation system, then Carrier must be allowed to use the allocation system codified at N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d).

[3] In its brief, Carrier mistakenly argues that severance costs are allowable because the compensated employees clearly conferred a benefit on Carrier itself while still employed by Carrier.

In support of its first argument, Carrier explains that the DOE failed to recognize in excess of $7,000,000 in expenses associated with various cost centers, such as building/fixed ($1,320,954); movable ($433,238); employee benefits ($3,854,756); maintenance and repairs ($660,858); plant ($750,298); housekeeping ($459,904); and cafeteria ($125,800).[4] Carrier argues that each cost center was associated with its operation of East Mountain and these costs should be charged back to East Mountain under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) because they were incurred for a common or joint purpose not readily assignable to an approved private school facility. Carrier urges inclusion of these costs in the actual cost per student calculation. Forcing Carrier to absorb the entire overhead incurred by the various G & A expenditures that benefited East Mountain is inconsistent with the rationale behind N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c); the cost of educating handicapped children is to be passed along to the public. Because East Mountain is a subsidiary of Carrier however, a fair allocation of expenses between East Mountain, a private school, and Carrier, its parent company, is required as well.

Carrier also cites to a statement by Paul Merrill (Merrill), a Partner at KPMG, L.L.P.,[5] who testified that Carrier is "required to provide fair and equitable allocations of indirect costs to the divisions" that it supports, in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. Merrill explained that Carrier is required to follow certain Medicare standards[6] to receive Medicare reimbursements under Medicare for educating handicapped students who are social security eligible. These standards allow Carrier to include the above cost centers in its G & A cost analysis. Because Carrier used the Medicare reporting method to calculate the amount it should charge the DOE, Merrill concluded that the above cost centers should again be included within the DOE basis to determine indirect G & A costs.

[4] Carrier recognizes that the DOE allowed for $566,985 in allowable costs for communications, which is $15,232 more than what Carrier recognized for that cost center.

[5] KMPG offers its clients a comprehensive range of business and financial services, including "thought leadership, audit and information risk management, exempt organization tax counseling, process redesign, systems consulting, costing, and competition and outsourcing." KMPG, L.L.C. Homepage, visited Nov. 21, 2000 <http://www.us.kmpg.com>.

[6] While the DOE accepts the use of these "Medicare standards," neither party clarifies exactly what these standards are or who promulgated them. Moreover, neither party identifies to whom Carrier is applying for Medicare reimbursements.

Carrier further argues that it has not been previously credited for indirect costs related to the above cost centers, and it is not "double charging" for those expenses now. In order to be credited, indirect costs should be allocated to East Mountain because that program benefited from Carrier's acquisition of those costs. If the DOE used Carrier's calculation of indirect costs totaling $12,073,087 to establish the private school direct expense to total expense ratio, Carrier argues that it cannot turn around and argue that some of those expenses within that total ratio are non-allowable as well.

Moreover, Carrier explains that because it participates in Medicare, it is required to submit an annual cost to its fiscal intermediary utilizing a complex step-down methodology that applies Medicare's rules concerning allowable and non-allowable costs. Carrier used this methodology because it saves time, follows applicable DOE regulations, and has been utilized for the past twenty years without objection.

Second, Carrier asserts that the DOE's "hybrid" methodology in computing the appropriate allocation of G & A costs is flawed while its accounting methodology is correct. Carrier explains that the hybrid methodology is incorrect because the DOE's calculation of overhead attempts to superimpose Medicare reimbursement principles within DOE audit guidelines. Carrier asserts that if the DOE is attempting to implement a different methodology, it must be pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d)(2), and the DOE should have allocated G & A expenses under a revenue accounting method because Carrier is not in the business of educating students. Carrier notes that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is applicable here because that section clearly and unambiguously refers to "indirect costs." Alternatively, Carrier argues that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) can only be applied to it if all appropriate G & A expenses are utilized and apportioned equitably. Furthermore, Carrier argues that the word "facility," which is found in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d), describes an entity such as itself.[7] Moreover, subsections (c) and (d) do not distinguish between facility and indirect costs, and subsection (d) aptly applies to indirect costs when joint activities exist that do not have the common purpose of educating pupils, thus not rendering subsection (c) superfluous.

[7] Carrier argues that the term "facility" is used in the context of an organization that facilitates the education of handicapped students, rather than an actual physical facility, such as a building or school grounds.

D. Excess Salary.

Carrier argues that the DOE's determination regarding non-allowable excess salary is improper. Citing N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8, Carrier argues that the salary limitation applies only to the director of a private school and not to the executive of a private school's parent company. Thus, the maximum salary limitation should apply to the Executive Director of East Mountain, Dr. Carl Salierno, and not to Carrier's chief executive officer. In addition, Carrier argues that the DOE's contention would frustrate its ability to attract and employ qualified executives to handle its extensive budget.

1. The DOE's cross-motion for summary decision.

A. Investment Expenses.

The DOE argues that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16, investment expenses are not allowable costs in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil. If Carrier were allowed to charge investment expenses in this manner, then any investment expense related to investment income that ultimately supplied operating capital to a private school would be an allowable cost. The intent of the State Board was to limit, not expand, what are allowable costs, and that intent is demonstrated in a list of fifty-four non-allowable costs contained in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a).

Moreover, the DOE alleges that a fifteen percent capital fund cap imposed by regulation is sufficient to operate East Mountain. In fact, a draft of East Mountain's 1998 audit report shows Carrier actually owing money to East Mountain, which is evidence that East Mountain provided working capital to Carrier, not the other way around. Also, Carrier could have legally charged interest expenses to East Mountain, but it elected not to do so. Furthermore, if Carrier did need to fund East Mountain through investment expenses, then a percentage of the investment income generated should have been charged to East Mountain as well.

B. Severance Costs.

The DOE argues that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(51) and (5), severance expenses are not allowable costs in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil. The DOE explains that pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(51), costs charged to account categories other than those reflected in the chart of accounts issued by the Commissioner of Education are non-allowable costs, and that chart does not include a provision for severance pay. See Respondent's Brief, Chart of Accounts for Private Schools for the Handicapped, issued June, 1988 (Exhibit "A").

The DOE also explains that the clear intent of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(5) is to disallow benefits, such as severance payments, when ex-employees perform no duties during the time they receive those benefits. The DOE distinguishes Botany Mills as a case concerned with the interpretation of contract provisions under a collective bargaining agreement, including an employee's entitlement to severance pay after he/she had been laid off.[8] While Botany Mills held that an employee is entitled, under contract, to enjoy vested severance benefits accrued before a contract expires, Botany Mills did not specifically determine whether employees in general are entitled to severance earned while they were employed.

C. General and Administrative Expenses.

The DOE argues that it properly disallowed $132,375.00 in non-allowable G & A expenses within Carrier's calculation of overhead charged to East Mountain. The DOE cites Carrier's inclusion of non-allowable costs within its calculation of total allocable G & A expenses, as well as Carrier's mistaken elimination of $5,699,698 in costs for Medicare adjustments, as the reason for its decision.

[8] Botany Mills concerned the interpretation of several collective bargaining issues, including an employee's right to use accrued vacation time after the expiration of the agreement. The Botany Mills court treats severance and vacation pay identically with respect to an employee's entitlement to it. See 50 N.J.Super. at 30-36. In an effort to avoid confusion, any reference made to vacation pay has been substituted with a reference to severance pay in this memo.

First, the DOE accepts the "Medicare step-down method" used by Carrier. It takes exception, however, to Carrier's determination of its overhead percentage and the resulting amount of G & A expenses it charged to East Mountain. The DOE alleges that Carrier is attempting to use both the "Medicare step-down method" and the State Board's indirect expense reimbursement regulation to charge the DOE twice, or "double charge."

The DOE uses N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) as its starting point. That provision requires that G & A expenses, or indirect costs, be allocated based on direct costs. Carrier may only use direct costs as the proper basis for allocating G & A expenses because the other alternative, using average daily enrollment, is inapplicable to Carrier. While Carrier can allocate indirect costs, such as depreciation, when that cost is based on a different direct cost, Carrier cannot allocate depreciation as an indirect cost of itself.

The DOE disagrees with Carrier that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is applicable here. That provision applies to facility costs, and the expenses Carrier seeks to allocate are G & A costs. Carrier's analysis of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) would render N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) superfluous because subsections (c) and (d) would address an identical issue – allocation of G & A costs. Moreover, the term "facility" does not mean "indirect costs" as proposed by Carrier. "Facility" refers only to the actual physical building or grounds where indirect costs are being accrued, not to parent organizations of a private school such as Carrier.

Next, the DOE asserts that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) blocks any attempt to "double charge" by mandating that any indirect cost is not, in essence, a direct cost already charged to the DOE. Thus, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) prohibits Carrier from charging the DOE twice by using one accounting methodology, such as the "Medicare step down method," to charge for direct costs, while using a separate methodology, such as the State Board's indirect expense reimbursement regulation, to charge for those same costs labeled as indirect costs.

For example, the DOE accepted Carrier's depreciation costs totaling $39,202 as an "expenditure" incurred during the fiscal year that ended on June 30, 1998. But then, Carrier charged that same $39,202 by re-labeling this cost as an "indirect expense," hence the double charge. Carrier attempts to charge the DOE $39,202 twice; once as an "expenditure" under the "Medicare step-down methodology" that the DOE already recognized, and again as an "expense" under the indirect expense regulations promulgated by the State Board of Education.

The DOE alleges that it properly identified seven non-allowable "double charged" costs that Carrier included in its total allocable G & A expenses. These expenses included maintenance and repairs, plant, housekeeping, cafeteria expenses, employee benefits, and depreciation. The DOE made this determination based on East Mountain's June 30, 1998 financial statements, which included $337,470 of expenses titled "charges from parent organization." After conducting its own investigation, the DOE determined that the correct amount of G & A expenses chargeable to East Mountain was $265,338, and concluded that Carrier overcharged East Mountain by $72,132.

Second, the DOE asserts that it properly included $5,699,698 in costs, labeled as Medicare adjustments, in the calculation of Carrier's overhead charged to East Mountain. The DOE explains that Carrier included $25,542,950 in total expenses in its calculation, thereby excluding $5,699,698 in actual hospital costs incurred. The DOE agrees that the money Carrier excluded from its total overhead represents Medicare adjustments, which are allowable deductions for Medicare cost reimbursement purposes. Even so, no State Board of Education regulation allows for the exclusion of those costs in determining Carrier's overhead percentage as it applies to being reimbursed by the DOE for educating handicapped children. The DOE asserts that if Carrier does not use its true overhead cost of $31,242,648.00 to determine the "direct costs for each program determined to total costs" ratio in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c), then the total G & A cost charged to the DOE will be inaccurate and Carrier will be overcompensated.

D. Excess Salary.

The DOE argues that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8, $84,518 must be excluded from G & A expenses because the salary of Carrier's CEO was charged to East Mountain and exceeds the maximum salary limit of $125,544. The intent of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 is to eliminate excessive salaries, whether they are direct charges to East Mountain or indirect charges through G & A allocation, from the certified cost per pupil determination. That intent would be undermined if Carrier could allocate salaries, without any cap, to East Mountain. Also, this regulation does not restrict Carrier's ability to hire top-notch executives; it only limits the amount of money Carrier may charge to East Mountain for hiring those executives. Finally, the DOE argues that the above regulation applies to all of Carrier's officers, not just the director of East Mountain.

When deciding a motion for summary decision, the following regulation applies:

> At any time after a case is determined to be contested, a party may move for summary decision upon all or any of the substantive issues therein. . . . The decision sought may be rendered if the papers and discovery, . . . together with (any) affidavits, . . . show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact challenged and that the moving party is entitled to prevail as a matter of law. When a motion for summary decision is made and supported, an adverse party in order to prevail must by responding affidavit set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue, which can only be determined in an evidentiary proceeding. . . .
> (N.J.A.C. 1:1-12.5(a), (b).)

Under this regulation, which is akin to the judiciary's motion for summary judgment, see R. 4:46-1, "the determination (of) whether there exists a genuine issue with respect to a material fact challenged requires . . . a consideration of whether the competent evidential materials presented, when viewed in the light most favorable to the non-moving party in consideration of the applicable evidentiary standard, are sufficient to permit a rational fact finder to resolve the alleged disputed issue in favor of the non-moving party." Brill v. Guardian Life Ins. Co., 142 N.J. 520, 523 (1995). In making this determination, the analysis is "'whether the evidence presents a sufficient disagreement to require submission to a (fact finder) or whether it is so one-sided that one party must prevail as a matter of law." Id. at 533-34. Summary decision is also proper when the opposing party "points only to disputed issues of fact that are 'of an insubstantial nature.'" Id. at 529.

In the present case, both parties stipulate that there are no issues of material fact left to be determined. The only question remaining is whether the DOE properly disallowed Carrier from charging investment expenses, severance payments, general and administrative (G & A) expenses, and overpaid executive's salary to East Mountain.

N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21 empowers the DOE to regulate the tuition rate a private school can charge a sending district for educating handicapped students.[9] In turn, the State Board requires private schools to file a certified audit. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.8. This audit serves two purposes; calculating the school's actual cost per pupil and verifying that the school spent tuition monies it received on allowable costs. Coastal Learning Center, Inc. v. State Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 406, 407, 415, aff'd, State Bd. of Educ., 96 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 740.

The State Board promulgated two regulations regarding how private schools shall determine tuition rates charged; N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1, mandating tuition rate procedures, and N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4, listing non-allowable costs. While N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1 and -4.4 have remained significantly unchanged for ten years, there is neither judicial nor administrative case law interpreting them. Principles of statutory construction will, therefore, be applied to aid in the interpretation of these regulations. See State Dep't. of Health v. Tegnazian, 205 N.J.Super. 160 (App. Div. 1985). In general, an agency "has the power to clarify ambiguous statutes by promulgating regulations." Prestia Realty, Inc. v. Hartz Mountain Indus., Inc., 303 N.J.Super. 140, 144 (App. Div.), cert. denied, 152 N.J. 13 (1997). Once an agency promulgates a regulation, that regulation should be construed according to its plain meaning. N.C. Housing Assoc., # 100 v. Hightower-Cooper, 281 N.J.Super. 317, 324 (L. Div. 1995). The agency's intent behind promulgating a regulation will further aid in that determination. See Chasin v. Montclair State Univ., 159 N.J. 418, 426-27 (1999) (explaining that statutes should be construed according to their plain meaning so long as that meaning comports with the Legislature's intent, which may be gathered from the "full light of (a statute's) history, purpose, and context"); Cosmair, Inc. v.

[9] N.J.S.A. 18A:46-21 states that:

> Any board of education, jointure commission, or private school for the handicapped which receives pupils from a sending district under this chapter shall determine a tuition rate to be paid by the sending board of education, but in no case shall the tuition rate exceed the actual cost per pupil as determined under rules prescribed by the commissioner and approved by the State Board of Education.

New Jersey Div. of Taxation, 109 N.J. 562, 568 (1998) (explaining that each provision of a statute must be given effect when construing the entire statute).

The disposition of this matter rests on the answer to the following four questions: (1) whether Carrier's investment expenses are non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil; (2) whether the severance expenses paid by Carrier are non-allowable costs under either N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 or 51 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil; (3) whether the DOE properly disallowed $132,375.00 as non-allowable G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c); and (4) whether $84,518 should be excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)10 as excess salary for Carrier's CEO?

A. Whether Carrier's investment expenses are non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil?

Investment expenses as allowable costs are governed by the following regulation:

> A cost which is not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil includes . . . (a)n investment expense associated with the purchase/sale of stock, securities, other investment instruments or other investments not associated with the education of handicapped children.

While the State Board did not specifically explain why it promulgated N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16, it did state that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4 "will prohibit business practices which are inconsistent with the administration of public funds dedicated for special education" and "will ensure that all funds are directly related to and enhance the educational programs of pupils, thereby affording educationally handicapped pupils increased social opportunity." Social Impact statement, 22 N.J.R. 2634 (Sept. 4, 1990); see Regulatory Flexibility Statement, 22 N.J.R. 2635 (Sept. 4 1990) (explaining that the Legislature considered private schools for the handicapped as "quasi-public schools"). The State Board recognized that the "additional non-allowable cost items at N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4 . . . may reduce the tuition charged (to) public schools" by private schools, but it promulgated the rule to "ensure that private school operators utilize public funds for bona fide special education expenses to improve or supplement special education programs." Economic Impact Statement, 22 N.J.R. 2634 (Sept. 4, 1990).

In the present case, it is proper for the DOE to disallow Carrier's investment expenses as non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16. The phrase "not associated with the education of handicapped children" does not modify the entire regulation as asserted by Carrier. Instead, a plain language analysis of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 reveals two independent clauses. In clause one, the State Board mandated that investment expenses associated with the purchase/sale of stocks or securities are per se non-allowable costs. In clause two, the State Board mandated that other investment instruments or other investments not associated with the education of handicapped children are, likewise, non-allowable costs. This interpretation is supported by the State Board's expressed reasons for promulgating N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16.

For example, it would be proper for Carrier to charge East Mountain for investment expenses associated with the purchase of new computers that are to be incorporated into East Mountain's curriculum, as long as they were not associated with the purchase/sale of stocks or securities. That expense would be part of a transaction that the DOE need not question because the expense either directly supplements or bolsters East Mountain's handicap program. It is not proper, however, for Carrier to charge investment expenses incurred via the purchase/sale of stocks, securities, or other investment instruments or investments not associated with the education of handicapped children because the DOE is in no way assured that those investments are connected to or directly related to supplementing or bolstering East Mountain's handicap program.

While neither Carrier nor the DOE fully explain what type of "financial arrangements" Carrier entered into, Carrier admits that the charged investment expenses were incurred as a by-product of supplying working capital to East Mountain, and Carrier used that capital to maintain the economic stability of East Mountain while waiting to be reimbursed by the DOE. Clearly, the "financial arrangements" in question are not directly related to supplementing or bolstering East Mountain's handicap program because they were instead used to maintain East Mountain's economic viability. Thus, $103,427 in investment expenses was properly disallowed.

B. Whether the severance expenses paid by Carrier are non-allowable costs under either N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 or 51 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil?

1. Analysis of Carrier's severance payments as non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5.

N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 provides that:

> A cost which is not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil includes . . . (t)he salary or fringe benefits of a staff member for time not expended and/or services not performed.

In order to determine whether Carrier's charge for severance compensation totaling $399,541 was allowable, the nature of severance pay must be examined. Severance pay "has often been said to be in the nature of deferred compensation in lieu of wages, earned in part each week the employee works, and payable at some later time." Botany Mills, supra, 50 N.J.Super. at 30 (quoting Owens v. Press Publ'g Co., 20 N.J. 537, 547 (1956)). However, it is more accurately defined as "'terminal compensation measured by the service given during the period covered by (a) collective bargaining agreement.'" Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Education Ass'n of Morris, 310 N.J.Super. 332, 344 (App. Div. 1998) (quoting Owens, supra, 20 N.J. at 545). Severance pay is payment for an employee's years of service to his/her employer, not payment for the work an employee actually did on a particular day. Consequently, severance payments are not deferred compensation, but are instead "fringe benefits." See Noorily v. Thomas & Betts Corp., 188 F.3d 153, 158 (3d. Cir. 1999) (interpreting the Employee Retirement Insurance Security Act, 29 U.S.C.A. §1104, and implicitly acknowledging that severance pay is a fringe benefit for ERISA purposes), cert. denied, __ U.S. __, 120 S.Ct. 1555, 146 L.Ed.2d 460 (2000); E.E.O.C. v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp., 869 F.2d 696, 710 (3d. Cir. 1989) (holding that severance pay was a fringe benefit and not part of "an integrated benefits scheme designed to provide post-employment benefits to the greatest number of employees").

In the present case, Carrier cannot charge the DOE for severance payments made to East Mountain administrators. As discussed, severance pay is not compensation deducted from an administrator's paycheck to be returned at a later date, but is a fringe benefit paid at the end of an administrator's career based on the total time he/she worked for Carrier. These payments are prohibited by N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5.[10]

> Moreover, the fact that a worker's right to severance pay vests under a collective bargaining agreement on the day he/she works is inapposite to the question of whether severance pay is a non-allowable fringe benefit. In both Botany Mills, Inc. and Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ., the dispute was whether severance package rights under a contract or collective bargaining agreement had vested.[11] Neither case, however, held that severance pay is payment for services rendered by a worker, and the mere fact that severance pay is guaranteed to a worker within a collective bargaining agreement does not change its nature. Thus, the DOE properly disallowed severance expenses totaling $399,541 charged by Carrier to East Mountain as severance pay.

2. Analysis of Carrier's severance payments as non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-44.(a)51.

N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)51 provides that:

> A cost which is not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil includes . . . (c)osts charged to account categories other than those reflected in the chart of accounts issued by the Commissioner in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.3(a)6.

[10] There is also a factual question as to whether Carrier's severance scheme violates N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)21 (disallowing fringe benefits determined in an "arbitrary or capricious manner rather than on an existing written uniform policy based on an equitable standard of distribution, such as years of service or education or when the benefits are not an initial inducement for employment"), as well as a legal question about whether severance payments violate N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)35 (disallowing a payment or benefit to an employee in lieu of a salary, i.e., a bonus). See Yale Sch. v. Department of Educ., 92 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 571, 576-77, 584.

[11] For example, the court in Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. determined that teachers could not be divested of severance pay during contract negotiations without their approval because that benefit "vested upon the date that plaintiff fulfilled the service condition. Once that service condition was fulfilled, the benefit derived from plaintiff's term of service was vested and could only be divested by failure to satisfy the eligibility requirements [of the collective bargaining agreement]." 310 N.J.Super. at 347-48 (quoting Lawrence v. Board of Educ. of Sch. Dist. 189, 503 N.E.2d 1201, 1209 (Ill. App. Ct. 1987).

While the Chart of Accounts for Private Schools for the Handicapped issued by the DOE does not list severance payments, it does list "School Contributions to Employee Retirement" under "Fixed Charges, 800 Series." In fact, the chart only includes two types of contributions that a parent corporation can charge a private school, Social Security contributions and pension contributions. See Ibid. Both of these plans are deferred compensation plans.

The DOE's decision to disallow severance payments but allow Social Security and pension contributions falls squarely within the regulatory intent of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4. East Mountain is a "quasi-public school," and East Mountain administrators should receive the same type of compensation that their public school counterparts receive. Severance pay is simply not a business practice consistent with the administration of public funds dedicated to special education. Thus, the DOE properly disallowed severance expenses totaling $399,541 charged by Carrier.

C. Whether the DOE properly disallowed $132,375.00 in non-allowable G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)?

1. Determining which tuition reimbursement procedure Carrier must use to determine G & A expenses.

The State Board has promulgated two different procedures, codified at N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) and -4.1(d), that a private school must use in determining the tuition it can charge the DOE for educating handicapped students. In order to determine whether the DOE properly disallowed $132,375.00 in G & A expenses, a determination as to which tuition rate procedure applies in this case is required. The DOE argues for the application of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) to calculate G & A expenses, which provides:

> Indirect costs are costs which are incurred for a common or joint purpose and not readily assignable to an approved private school facility, 10 month school year program or extended school year program. Indirect cost pools may be established as appropriate for allocation between common or joint purposes at the end of the fiscal year. Indirect costs shall be included on a consistent basis in the respective actual cost per pupil in accordance with an equitable allocation plan approved by the Commissioner or in accordance with either of the following ratios:

> 1. Direct costs for each program determined pursuant to (b) above to total costs ...
> (Ibid.)

Carrier argues for the application of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d), which provides:

> Whenever a facility used by an approved private school for the handicapped is also used for unrelated activities and/or enterprises by related or unrelated parties, all costs, direct or indirect, associated with such facilities and operations shall be charged accordingly to the associated activities and/or enterprises which they benefit. Indirect cost pools may be established as appropriate for allocation between common or joint purposes at the end of the fiscal year. Indirect costs shall be distributed in accordance with an equitable allocation plan approved by the Commissioner or as follows. . . .
>
> > 2. For joint activities and enterprises which do not have a common purpose of educating pupils, indirect costs for the approved private school for the handicapped shall be based on the ratio of the revenues for the approved private school to the total of all revenues for all purposes.

The tuition rate procedure outlined in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) will only apply if Carrier qualifies as a "facility." The relevant common usage definition of the word "facility" provides that it is "(s)omething created to serve a particular function (a new mental health facility)." Webster's II, New Riverside University Dictionary 460 (1984) (citation omitted).

The Legislature also offers guidance on the applicable definition of "facility." In N.J.S.A. 18A:46-13, the Legislature mandates that a local board of education must "provide suitable facilities and programs of education" to their disabled students, and "(t)he absence or unavailability of a special class facility in any district shall not be construed as relieving a board . . . of (that) responsibility." In N.J.S.A. 18A:46-14, the Legislature provided a comprehensive list of facilities where special education classes could be held, including public schools, hospitals, convalescent homes, jointure commission programs, State operated programs, private schools, and a student's home via home schooling. Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:46-15 provides that the Commissioner, with the State Board's consent, "shall . . . approve all special education facilities and education programs."

The regulation itself discusses "a facility used by an approved private school for the handicapped." N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d). Thus, "facility" refers to the buildings and/or property that a school for the handicapped is in fact using or the place where a special education program is implemented. This definition is bolstered by the intent of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1 to allocate facility and operational costs when a private school facility is also used for unrelated activities and/or enterprises by related or unrelated parties." Summary Statement, 22 N.J.R. at 2634.

Carrier is the parent company of East Mountain and does not qualify as a facility under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d). It is not the physical location where East Mountain classes are held. The thrust of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is concerned with the proper allocation of costs where the approved private school uses a facility for activities both related and unrelated to the education of handicapped children. Under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d), a private school cannot charge all of its facility costs to the State when some of those costs were generated by other "activities and enterprises which do not have a common purpose of educating pupils." Ibid. Thus, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is inapplicable, and Carrier must conform its audit methodology to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c).

2. Determining whether the DOE acted properly when it disallowed $132,375.00 in non-allowable G & A expenses.

If N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) governs, Carrier asserts two reasons for charging East Mountain $132,375.00 in G & A expenses. First, Carrier asserts that the DOE must accept both Carrier's deduction of $5,699,698 in Medicare adjustments and Carrier's allocation of certain costs that are allowed by Medicare but are not allowed by the State Board. Second, Carrier asserts that certain expenses associated with various cost centers, such as building/fixed, movable, employee benefits, maintenance and repairs, plant, housekeeping, and cafeteria are allowable, indirect, G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c).

As for Carrier's first Medicare claim, Carrier will be able to charge the DOE a higher cost for total G & A expenses incurred if it can exclude $5,699,698 in overhead, covered by Medicare reimbursements, from its total overhead. The State Board's regulations prohibit Carrier from excluding reimbursed Medicare costs from total overhead in its calculation of total G & A.

There is no allowance for this deduction under either N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4 or -4.1(c). While Carrier participates in Medicare and may be reimbursed by that program, there is nothing within the State Board's regulations that allows Carrier to exclude the amount of overhead covered by Medicare. Carrier is required to apply its total overhead cost as one variable in its total G & A calculation. Thus, Carrier's total overhead must include the $5,699,698 in Medicare reimbursements for purposes of determining the total G & A expense that Carrier can charge the DOE.

Carrier's second assertion that the DOE allow for Medicare allowances is flawed as well. Medicare allowance principles are irrelevant to the methodology set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c). The mere fact that Carrier is attempting to receive reimbursements from Medicare does not alter the fact that it still must abide by the methods of accounting promulgated by the State Board in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) and –4.4.

The DOE is not trying to superimpose the State Board's standards over Medicare standards. The DOE is simply requiring Carrier to use the standards promulgated by the State Board when it seeks reimbursement from the DOE for educating handicapped students.[12] Carrier may use the Medicare methodology, as long as it complies with the cost allocation method provided in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) and the State Board's definitions of allowable costs.

As for direct and indirect expenses, in an effort to simplify cost allocation procedures, the State Board promulgated N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1 to help "define direct and indirect costs in private schools for the handicapped . . . ." Summary Statement. 22 N.J.R. 2634. The following definitions were promulgated: Direct costs are "costs which can be identified specifically with an approved private school facility," N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(b); indirect costs are costs "incurred for a common or joint purpose and not readily assignable to an approved private school facility." N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c).

[12] The DOE has no quarrel with Carrier's use of a "step-down methodology" as an accounting method. But, the use of that accounting methodology is the only component of Medicare's reimbursement principles that the DOE will accept in determining the amount owed to Carrier for handicapped education. In order to determine what is and is not a direct expense, and what is and is not an allowable expense, Carrier must follow the rules promulgated by the State Board.

Because Carrier is a parent corporation and not a school, it must use the ratio established under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 to allocate indirect costs. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)2 is not applicable as it only applies to schools and is based upon average daily student enrollment..[13] Thus, payments for indirect charges are reimbursable only if related to a separate direct charge.

Carrier is attempting to "double charge" the DOE by labeling certain costs as direct expenses incurred by East Mountain for Medicare purposes, and then re-labeling these same costs as "indirect expenses" incurred by Carrier, the parent corporation, for the benefit of East Mountain. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 expressly prohibits Carrier from charging an indirect cost based on a direct cost already accounted for under any methodology, including the Medicare methodology. In other words, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 requires that Carrier allocate indirect costs to separate direct costs either when it uses the State Board's methodology exclusively or when it uses a separate methodology combined with the State Board's methodology. Carrier cannot call an expense a "direct expense" and then call that expense an "indirect expense" for purposes of DOE reimbursement.

The DOE correctly excluded seven non-allowable costs "double charged" by Carrier, including maintenance and repairs, plant, housekeeping, cafeteria expenses, employee benefits, and depreciation, because those costs had already been accounted for under Carrier's step-down Medicare methodology as direct expenses incurred by East Mountain. The DOE correctly determined that the amount of G & A expenses chargeable to East Mountain was $265,338, and Carrier misallocated to East Mountain $72,132.

D. Whether $84,518 should be excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 as excess salary for Carrier's CEO?

Salary caps imposed on an institution's executives are governed by the following two regulations:

[13] Carrier admits that it not a school in its motion for summary decision.

> A cost (that) is non-allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil includes . . . (t)he salary of the director of an approved private school in excess of the maximum salary determined (by the Commissioner).
>
>
> The Commissioner shall calculate and publish a list of maximum salaries by job title and county. Maximum salaries shall be based on the highest contracted salaries of certified staff in local public school districts for any prior year indexed by the Statewide average increase in salary between the two proceeding school years for each job title. Under no circumstances shall the maximum salary calculated be less than the corresponding salary in the prior year for the same job title and county. For the purpose of this list, the maximum salary of the private school director shall be based on the title, chief school administrator/superintendent. Other unrecognized job titles shall be correlated to similar job titles in public schools based on their functional activities.
> (N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(l).)

While the title of CEO is not specifically listed under either of these regulations, the breadth and scope of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 and –4.1(l) would encompass that title. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 indicates that the salary of a "director" in excess of the cap established by the Commissioner is a non-allowable cost. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(l) expands upon the term "director" by explaining that "the maximum salary of the private school director shall be based on the title, chief school administrator/district superintendent" and "other unrecognized job titles shall be correlated to similar job titles in public schools based on their functional activities." It is clear from these two regulations that the State Board's intent was to impose a salary limit on every job title. In fact, the regulatory language is void of any exceptions to the cap. This intent is bolstered by the State Board's pronouncement that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4 "will prohibit business practices which are inconsistent with the administration of public funds dedicated for special education." Social Impact Statement, 22 N.J.R. 2634.

Consequently, it is proper for the DOE to disallow $84,518 of the CEO's $213,062 salary for two reasons. First, while public schools do not use the job title of CEO, its functional equivalent would be a that of a district superintendent. Both Carrier's CEO and a district superintendent are charged with accomplishing the task of administering several schools within their respective districts. A district superintendent is the chief administrator for all of the schools located within a local school district. Carrier's CEO is the chief administrator for its ten private schools. This analogy is further supported by the fact that East Mountain's Executive Director, Dr. Carl Salierno, functions like a public school principal in that he is responsible for East Mountain's day-to-day operations, while Carrier's CEO functions like a district superintendent because he is responsible for the overall administration of all of Carrier's schools.[14]

Second, Carrier's argument that it will not be able to hire experienced executives ignores the regulatory intent of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8. Carrier receives public monies from the State to educate children with special needs who cannot be educated in public schools. In turn, the State Board mandates that if Carrier chooses to be a partner in educating those children, it must function in a manner that emulates a public school district. Specifically, private schools involved in the education of these children are paid on par with their public school counterparts.

CONCLUSION

First, Carrier's investment expenses are per se non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16 in the calculation of the certified annual cost per pupil because they are investment expenses associated with either the purchase/sale of stocks or securities and are per se non-allowable costs or they are other investment instruments or other investments not associated with the education of handicapped children and are, likewise, non-allowable costs.

Second, severance expenses paid by Carrier are non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 because they are fringe benefits. Severance pay is not pay for work actually done, but is instead based on the amount of time an employee has served his/her employer. Severance expenses are also non-allowable costs under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a) 51 because they are not listed in the Chart of Accounts for Private Schools for the Handicapped issued by the DOE.

Third, the DOE properly disallowed $132,375.00 in G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c). Medicare reporting principles are not applicable to the tuition reimbursement procedures promulgated by the State Board. It is therefore improper for Carrier to deduct the amount of overhead that will be covered by Medicare reimbursements and charge to the DOE costs that are allowable under Medicare but are non-allowable under the State Board's tuition regulations. Moreover, Carrier attempted to "double charge" the DOE by charging the DOE for direct expenses it received reimbursement for under the Medicare methodology and then charging the DOE for those same expenses, only this time labeling them as indirect expenses under the State Board's methodology.

Fourth, $84,518 should be excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)10 as excess salary for Carrier's CEO.

Accordingly, petitioner Carrier's motion for summary decision is hereby DENIED and respondent DOE's cross-motion for summary decision is hereby GRANTED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

CARRIER FOUNDATION-EAST MOUNTAIN SCHOOL, SOMERSET COUNTY,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
NEW JERSEY STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondent's reply thereto were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, and were duly considered by the Commissioner in reaching his determination herein.

In its exceptions, petitioner essentially relies on and restates the arguments expressed before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). With respect to the disallowance of petitioner's claim of $103,427 in investment expense, petitioner reasserts that, since the East Mountain School was established solely to provide educational services to handicapped students, everything done for the school is directly related to the education of students and should be deemed allowable in terms of costs. Thus, a portion of the investment expenses incurred by the Carrier Foundation (Foundation), which partially finances the East Mountain School by providing working capital,[1] should be considered an allowable cost. Moreover, petitioner

[1] Petitioner maintains that working capital provided through investments is necessary to supply operating cash flow to the school because the working capital fund limitation of 15% permitted by Department of Education regulations is insufficient to provide the necessary funds to support the school's operations while awaiting receipt of under-charges from sending districts, which are due two years following an audit. (Petitioner's Reply Brief at 3)

contends that the ALJ erred in holding that the Foundation's investment expenses are per se non-allowable expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20 4.4(a)16, maintaining that its investment expenses are allowable because the statute provides that expenses incurred for the education of handicapped children, which its investment expenses are, "are per se allowable." (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2)

Petitioner also disagrees with the ALJ's finding regarding severance expenses. The ALJ found that since the Chart of Accounts does not list severance expenses as an allowable expense and since severance expenses are fringe benefits and not part of an employee's salary as petitioner claims, the $399,541 in severance costs claimed by petitioner is not an allowable expense. Petitioner acknowledges that the Chart of Accounts does not list severance expenses as an allowable expense, but citing Botany Mills, Inc. v. Textile Workers Union, 50 N.J. Super. 18, 20 (App. Div. 1958), petitioner continues to maintain that "severance expenses are a part of an employee's salary earned during the course of his employment, but disbursed at a later date." (emphasis in text) (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2*)* Thus, petitioner reasons, by virtue of the fact that salaries are included in the Chart of Accounts, severance expenses are an allowable expense. (Id. at 2-3)

With respect to the ALJ's disallowance of $132,375 in General and Administrative (G & A) expenses, petitioner reiterates its argument that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is a proper method to allocate G & A cost. Petitioner also expresses its disagreement with the ALJ's conclusion that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) does not apply because the Foundation does not qualify as a facility as defined in the education statutes. Petitioner asserts that the ALJ improperly focused on the word "facility" and that her interpretation of the word facility does nothing to properly determine whether subsection (d) applies. (Id. at 3) Petitioner maintains that

N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) and N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) do not distinguish between indirect costs and facility costs and that subsection (d) could apply because the Foundation is not in the business of educating students. Therefore, petitioner submits, the seven Cost Centers at issue must be allocated to the East Mountain School since the school receives a benefit from the G & A expenditures. (Ibid.) Noting that respondent failed to recognize costs in excess of $7 million from various Cost Centers, petitioner posits that if subsection (c) is accepted as the method to allocate G & A costs, as found by the ALJ, then "all appropriate G & A expenses must be apportioned equitably." (emphasis in text) (Id. at 4)

Petitioner vigorously objects to any implication that it is attempting to double charge respondent by labeling certain G & A costs as direct expenses for Medicare purposes and then relabeling the same costs as indirect expenses. Petitioner explains that it originally asserted that the Medicare method was the proper reporting method, but when it became apparent that respondent was applying N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1, it asserted that, if this code section were to be applied, then all Cost Centers must be accounted for. (Ibid.) Petitioner asserts that there is no valid reason for respondent to accept costs from Cost Centers, such as data processing and communications, and not allow costs from the other seven Cost Centers at issue because each department provides services or benefits to the East Mountain School. Therefore, petitioner proffers, there must be some allocation of these indirect G & A services. (Ibid.)

Finally, petitioner excepts to the ALJ's holding that $84,518 should be excluded form G & A expenses, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(8), as excess salary paid to the Foundation's Chief Executive Officer (CEO). (Ibid.) In so doing, petitioner reasserts its argument that the salary limits in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)(8) refer to the salary of an Executive Director, not to the CEO of a Foundation, nor is it proper to compare the CEO to a superintendent of schools as the ALJ concluded. (Id. at 5) Since the Foundation's CEO is charged with the running of a vast hospital, which includes a school for the handicapped, petitioner contends that the salary of the CEO of the Foundation should be fully included in G & A expenses as it is not subject to the "cap" provisions. (Ibid.)

In its reply, respondent disputes petitioner's characterization of the ALJ's decision as disallowing investment expenses incurred for the education of handicapped children. In point of fact, petitioner submits, the ALJ determined that investment expenses associated with the education of handicapped children, such as the type set forth in the Initial Decision, are allowable under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16. (Respondent's Reply at 2) Respondent asserts, however, that petitioner did not demonstrate the necessity of, nor the direct utilization of its investments for the education of handicapped children, but merely stated that "everything done for the school is directly related to the education of the students." (Id. at 3, quoting Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Moreover, in contrast to petitioner's contention that the Foundation provides the necessary working capital for the East Mountain School, respondent avers that the June 30, 1998 audit report indicates that the Foundation owed money to the school, thus demonstrating that the school provided working capital to the Foundation, not the reverse. (Id. at 3) Additionally, respondent suggests that if the Foundation actually needed to fund East Mountain School through investments as petitioner claims, then a portion of the $1,423,671 in investment income should also have been allocated to the school. (Ibid.)

With respect to the disputed severance expenses, respondent asserts that petitioner erroneously relies on Botany Mills, supra, in support of its contention that severance expenses are part of an employee's salary earned during the course of employment. Pointing out that Botany Mills concerned an interpretation of contract provisions under a collective bargaining agreement related to an employee's entitlement to vacation pay upon lay off, respondent underscores that the ALJ considered petitioner's reliance on Botany Mills and distinguished the holding in that case by noting that severance pay is more accurately defined as "terminal compensation measured by the service given during the period covered by (a) collective bargaining agreement." Morris Sch. Dist. Bd. of Ed. v. Education Ass'n of Morris, 310 N.J. Super. 332, 344 (App. Div. 1998). (Id. at 4-5) Averring that the ALJ established that severance pay is a fringe benefit, not salary, respondent concludes that the ALJ properly determined that severance payments are disallowed expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)5 and (51). (Ibid.)

In determining whether indirect costs should be calculated in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) or (d), respondent points to the regulation in question, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d), which it submits, clearly denotes the meaning of "facility" as referring to the building and/or property of a school for the handicapped. Since the Foundation is the parent company, not the physical building or facility where classes are held, respondent asserts that petitioner's argument that subsection (d) can apply to indirect costs, other than for facilities, would render N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) superfluous. Respondent further maintains that there is no evidence to support that the State Board of Education contemplated that indirect costs, other than facility costs, would be calculated under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d). (Id. at 6) Respondent proffers that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) is, therefore, the appropriate procedure for determining indirect costs attributed to the Foundation. Respondent maintains that it correctly disallowed certain costs from the indirect cost calculation because they were costs already accounted for as direct expenses. Moreover, respondent posits, in determining the ratio of private school direct expenses to total Foundation expenses, there is nothing in the regulations that permits the Foundation to exclude the amount of overhead covered by Medicare. Thus, respondent argues, the Foundation's total overhead must include the Medicare reimbursement for purposes of determining the total G & A expense that can be charged to respondent. (Id. at 6) Respondent notes that the ALJ found that the Foundation must use the calculation set forth in N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 because it is a parent corporation, not a school, and is prohibited under the provisions of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 from charging an indirect cost based on a direct cost already accounted for under any methodology, including the "step-down" method used for Medicare cost reimbursement purposes. (Id. at 7) Moreover, respondent submits, the allocation of the costs in the overhead categories of Depreciation-Buildings/Fixed, Depreciation-Moveable, Employee Benefits, Maintenance and Repairs, Plant, Housekeeping, and Cafeteria are shown separately on East Mountain School's financial statements. Therefore, respondent contends, to also include these Cost Center expenses in indirect expenses as petitioner suggests would be double counting for these expenses. (Ibid.)

Finally, respondent maintains that $84,518 was properly disallowed as excess salary paid to a director of a private school pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 and N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(l). Respondent points to petitioner's own admission that the Foundation's CEO does not devote his entire time to running East Mountain School. Therefore, respondent argues, the East Mountain School should only be charged a portion of the CEO's salary "commensurate with a director or superintendent running a school, not with an executive running a 'vast hospital.'" (Id. at 8)

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Initial Decision, the exceptions and the reply thereto filed in this matter, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision.

Initially, the Commissioner notes the parties' stipulations that there are no issues of material fact in this mater, and, therefore, agrees that summary decision is appropriate in this instance for reasons expressed by the ALJ in the Initial Decision.

Moreover, the Commissioner agrees that petitioner's investment expenses in the amount of $103,427 are non-allowable costs. Under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16, investment expenses associated with the purchase/sale of stock, securities, other investment instruments or other investments not associated with the education of handicapped children are not allowable in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil. As the ALJ properly observed, the State Board acknowledged in the Economic Impact Statement published upon promulgation of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4, that although addition of non-allowable cost items at N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4 might reduce the allowable tuition charges to public schools by the private schools for the handicapped, it was promulgating the rule to "ensure that private school operators utilize public funds for bona fide special education expenses to improve or supplement special education programs." 22 N.J.R. 2634 (Sept. 4, 1990). (Initial Decision at 16-17) The Commissioner, therefore, finds that petitioner's statement that "everything done for the school is directly related to the education of the students, and thus, should be considered an allowable cost" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) is insufficient to demonstrate that the investment expenses at issue were associated with or directly utilized in the education of handicapped children at the East Mountain School as required by N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)16. Additionally, petitioner's argument that investment expenses were incurred as a result of the need to provide working capital to the East Mountain School above the 15% capital fund cap imposed by regulation is rejected. Such financial arrangements for the maintenance of the economic viability of the East Mountain School are not directly related to improving or supplementing special education programs.[2] Accordingly, the Commissioner concurs that the $103,427 claimed by petitioner as investment expense was properly disallowed.

The Commissioner also concurs that severance expenses totaling $399,541 claimed by petitioner are not an allowable expense. It is undisputed that severance expenses are not listed in the Chart of Accounts and that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)51 specifically excludes costs charged to account categories other than those reflected in the Chart of Accounts in the calculation of the certified actual cost per pupil. Moreover, the Commissioner finds that petitioner's reliance on Botany, supra, in support of its argument that severance pay is an employee's deferred "salary earned during the course of his employment, but disbursed at a later date," and thus, an allowable expense under the salary category in the Chart of Accounts, is misplaced. As noted by the ALJ, the Botany Mills case did not hold that severance pay is payment for services rendered by a worker, and "the mere fact that severance pay is guaranteed to a worker within a collective bargaining agreement does not change its nature." (Initial Decision at 19) Unlike pension contributions and Social Security payments, severance pay is not compensation deducted by petitioner from an administrator's paycheck to be returned at a later date, but is a fringe benefit paid to an administrator at the end of his career based on the total time worked for petitioner. See Morris, supra, at 344 (quoting Owens v. Press Publ'g Co., 20 N.J. 537, 547 (1956)); Noorily v. Thomas & Betts Corp., 188 *F.*3d 153, 158 (3d. Cir. 1999) (interpreting the Employee Retirement Insurance Security Act, 29 U.S.C.A. §1104, and implicitly acknowledging that severance pay is a fringe benefit for ERISA purposes), cert. denied, ___ U.S. ___, 120 S.Ct. 1555, 146 *L.Ed.*2d 460 (2000); and E.E.O.C. v. Westinghouse Elec. Corp.,

[2] The Commissioner notes that the parties disagree with respect to whether funds in excess of the 15% capital cap were necessary to maintain the economic viability of the East Mountain School. Although petitioner submits that additional funds were required to provide adequate cash flow for the East Mountain School (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2), respondent asserts that the East Mountain School provided working capital to the Foundation, not the reverse. (Respondent's Reply Exceptions at 3)

869 *F.*2d 696, 710 (3d. Cir. 1989) (holding that severance pay was a fringe benefit and not part of "an integrated benefits scheme designed to provide post-employment benefit to the greatest number of employees"). (Initial Decision at 18) Accordingly, for the reasons expressed by the ALJ, the Commissioner finds petitioner's claim for $399,541 in severance expenses was properly disallowed.[3]

With respect to whether respondent properly disallowed $132,375 in G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c), the Commissioner concurs that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c), not N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d), is the appropriate regulation to be applied in determining the tuition petitioner may charge for the educating of handicapped students. The Commissioner emphasizes that the expenses being challenged herein are general indirect costs, not facility costs. As found by the ALJ, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) applies to the allocation of costs within the facility that a private school uses for both activities related and unrelated to the education of handicapped children. Under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) all the facility costs cannot be allocated to the private school if some of the costs were generated by activities and enterprises which do not have a common purpose of educating pupils. (Initial Decision at 22) N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c), however, provides for the calculation of indirect costs "which are incurred for a common or joint purpose and not readily assignable to an approved private school facility." (emphasis supplied) The Foundation is the parent company of the East Mountain School, and not the physical location or facility where classes for the handicapped students are held, and thus,

[3] On April 4, 2001, the State Board of Education adopted amended regulations pertaining to Finance and Business Services proposed at N.J.A.C. 6:20 et seq., for recodification at N.J.A.C. 6A:23 et seq. with an effective date of July 1, 2001. Although previously excluded, these amended and recodified regulations permit the cost of severance pay, not to exceed four weeks salary, to be included in the calculation of the certified actual cost per student. See N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)58 and N.J.A.C. 6A:23-4.5(a)7.

N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) is inapplicable. Accordingly, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) is the appropriate regulation to be applied in calculating petitioner's G & A expenses.

The Commissioner similarly concludes that respondent correctly applied N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c) in excluding non-allowable indirect costs in seven Cost Centers because costs for these overhead categories are allocated separately on the East Mountain School's financial statements. Moreover, petitioner seeks the exclusion of Medicare reimbursement from its overhead expenses which would permit a higher allocation of total G & A expenses. N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1, however, prohibits the exclusion of $5,699,698 in overhead expenses, covered in Medicare reimbursements, from its total overhead. As noted by the ALJ, "N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c)1 expressly prohibits [the Foundation] from charging an indirect cost based on a direct cost already accounted for under any methodology, including the Medicare methodology." (Initial Decision at 24) Accordingly, respondent correctly disallowed $132,375 in G & A expenses.

Finally, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's conclusion that $84,581 was properly excluded from G & A expenses under N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8 as excess salary for petitioner's CEO. Notwithstanding petitioner's assertions that the CEO is not subject to the salary "cap" provisions because he is not the director, but rather an administrator charged with the running of a vast hospital, which includes "ten private schools" (Petitioner's Exceptions at 5), salaries of chief administrators for private schools which receive public monies for the education of children with special needs are limited in the public interest by N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)8, N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.4(a)10 and N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(l) so that these administrators are paid commiserate with their public school counterparts. Moreover, $128,544 is the highest allowable salary for the highest paid executive for the fiscal year monitored. (First Level Appeal Decision at 3)

Accordingly, the Commissioner determines that $84, 518 of the CEO's salary of $213,062 was properly excluded from G & A expenses as excess salary.

The Initial Decision of the OAL is, therefore, affirmed for the reasons expressed therein.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF MARCIA MOSKOWITZ,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
PLAINFIELD, UNION COUNTY.	:	DECISION

For the District, Lance J. Kalik, Esq. (Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti)

For Respondent, Marc S. Klein, Esq.

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 16, 2001, through certification of tenure charges of inefficiency, unbecoming conduct, excessive absenteeism and insubordination against Marcia Moskowitz, a tenured special education teacher, by the Board of Education of the City of Plainfield; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on February 16, 2001, the certified copy having been signed for on March 6, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her; and

Such communication clearly having provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, or where there has been no submission by the charged employee of a responsive filing indicating that s/he does not contest the charges, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee; and

In that no communication has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

In that the tenure charges certified against respondent by the Board and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicate that respondent, as a special education teacher, has failed to: display proficiency in the subject matter of her teaching; plan for closure of lessons and activities; provide students with clear direction; encourage cooperative learning; effectively organize lessons; maintain a classroom environment conducive to learning; control or administer her students effectively; or complete timely, good quality required reports, and that despite numerous intervention efforts and recommendations for improvement, respondent's performance has continued to deteriorate;[1] and

In that the Board's charges and statement of evidence in support of such charges next indicate that respondent's failure to maintain a safe and orderly classroom has served to jeopardize the safety and well-being of her students in that on one occasion, her failure to maintain classroom control resulted in violence concluding in injury to four students; and

In that the charges and statement of evidence in their support further indicate that respondent has repeatedly failed to report to her position on time, notwithstanding continual warnings to do so, has taken prolonged absences and failed to return to work when expected, and finally, respondent has refused to report to her teaching position at all since the onset of the 2000-2001 school year, all of which have seriously compromised the Board's ability to assure the continuity of instruction for the District's students; and

[1] It is noted that although the Board provided respondent the requisite 90-day period to correct such inefficiencies prior to certifying these charges to the Commissioner, respondent apparently chose not to avail herself of this opportunity by virtue of her refusal to report to her position at the beginning of the 2000-2001 school year. (See letter from respondent's attorney to the District's superintendent dated August 18, 2000, Exhibit 2.)

Having deemed such charges to be admitted by operation of rule, the Commissioner finds respondent's actions constitute inefficiency, unbecoming conduct, excessive absenteeism and insubordination and are sufficient to warrant her dismissal from her tenured position; now therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 12th day of April 2001, that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and Marcia Moskowitz shall be dismissed from her tenured position as a teacher in the Board's employ as of the date of this order. This matter will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action, as that body deems appropriate.[2]

April 12, 2001

OAL DKT. NO. EDU 6745-97
AGENCY DKT. NO. 271-7/97

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF ANDRIA WASHINGTON,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ATLANTIC CITY, ATLANTIC	:
COUNTY.	:

Upon notification by the Board that its tenure charges against Andria Washington were moot because respondent had resigned effective July 1, 1998, the Office of Administrative Law returned the record in this matter for consideration by the Commissioner.

Upon careful and independent review of the record, the Commissioner determines to consider the Board's notification of respondent's resignation as a withdrawal of the tenure charges. In that there is no indication that respondent's resignation is the result of a settlement agreement requiring review by the Commissioner pursuant to In re Cardonick, decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846, and where respondent unilaterally resigned her position as a third grade teacher on July 1, 1998, thus having abandoned her tenure acquired with the District, the Commissioner concludes that withdrawal of the charges is appropriate in this instance. The Commissioner will, therefore, not compel the District to prosecute tenure charges against respondent.

In so holding, the Commissioner is mindful of the within tenure charges of failure to comply with work assignments/dereliction of duty, excessive absenteeism/job abandonment, a pattern of insubordination/noncompliance and unethical practices/official misconduct. Respondent denied all charges.

In light of the allegations of unethical practices/official misconduct (conduct unbecoming), wherein the Board asserts that respondent represented other teachers' work as her own, altered students' grades and misrepresented students' achievements in the whole language portfolios, this matter is being referred to the State Board of Examiners pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(d), which authorizes the Commissioner to refer a tenure matter to the State Board of Examiners for action against a teacher's certificate in instances where tenure proceedings are concluded prior to adjudication because the charged party has resigned or retired.

Moreover, the regulations governing the State Board of Examiners specifically provide for proceedings when tenure charges are mooted by virtue of resignation, as stated in N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5, as follows:

> In cases in which teaching staff members accused of misdemeanors, crimes or conduct unbecoming which might warrant revocation or suspension, resign or retire from their positions, either before tenure proceedings have been brought or prior to the conclusion of such proceedings, it shall be the responsibility of the chief school administrator of that district to notify the State Board of Examiners of the alleged conduct pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6(a)2. Should the Board of Examiners issue an Order to Show Cause, it shall be the responsibility of the district which reported the conduct to cooperate with the Board of Examiners in ascertaining and presenting the facts underlying such allegations. (emphasis added)

Accordingly, by copy of this decision, the State Board of Examiners is notified of the within tenure charges and the circumstances underlying their withdrawal.

CARRIER FOUNDATION – EAST MOUNTAIN SCHOOL, SOMERSET COUNTY,

PETITIONER- APPELLANT,

V.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, OFFICE OF COMPLIANCE,

RESPONDENT-RESPONDENT.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, April 12, 2001

For the Petitioner-Appellant, Riker, Danzig, Scherer, Hyland & Perretti, LLP (James S. Rothschild, Jr., Esq., of Counsel)

For the Respondent-Respondent, Allison Colsey Eck, Deputy Attorney General (John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of New Jersey)

After careful review of the record in this matter, we reject appellant's argument that N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d) should control the allocation of the general and administrative costs (hereinafter "indirect costs") at issue in this appeal. The existence of the Foundation does not in and of itself constitute use of the facility used by the East Mountain School for unrelated activities or enterprises within the meaning of N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(d). Rather, as the Commissioner held, the question of whether to include these costs in the "actual cost per pupil" for tuition purposes is controlled by N.J.A.C. 6:20-4.1(c).

However, in reviewing this matter, we find that the record does not clearly indicate the rationale relied upon by the Office of Compliance in disallowing $72,132 in expenses not previously included as direct costs to the School and which the School had allocated as indirect costs. Without such rationale, we are unable to review the merits of the School's appeal of the disallowance of this amount. However, on the basis of our review of the record, we reject the contention of the Deputy Attorney General representing the Office of Compliance that by allocating the same expenses as indirect costs for purposes of establishing the actual cost per pupil pursuant to the State Board's regulations as the Foundation had included as direct costs for purposes of Medicare reimbursement, the School had double-charged for these expenses. Quite simply, the record does not support such a conclusion.

Therefore, we remand this matter to the Commissioner for the limited purpose of establishing the basis upon which the Office of Compliance made its determination that $72,132 allocated by the School as indirect General and Administrative costs was non-allowable. In all other respects, we affirm the decision of the Commissioner.

We retain jurisdiction.

Record Closed: February 28, 2001 Decided: February 28, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioner M.R., on behalf of J.V., from a residency determination by respondent Board of Education of the Township of West Orange. The Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on October 18, 2000, it was filed for hearing and determination as a contested case. Subsequent to the assignment of the matter to the undersigned on November 13, 2000, a hearing was scheduled for February 6, 2001. The parties appeared on February 6, 2001 and made a joint request for an adjournment of the hearing for purposes of finalizing an amicable resolution of the matter. The parties reached a settlement and, thereafter, submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms of agreement which the undersigned received on February 28, 2001. Having reviewed the record and the terms of settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

M.R. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, J.V., Petitioner, vs. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, Respondent.	STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT

The parties having amicably adjusted the differences between them, it is hereby stipulated as follows:

(1) Petitioner withdraws her petition of appeal.

(2) Respondent withdraws its counterclaim for tuition charges.

(3) Respondent acknowledges J.V.'s right to attend its schools, provided that the school eligibility criteria set forth in NJSA 18A:38-1 continue to be met by petitioner and her niece.

(4) Petitioner shall pay respondent a sum of $6,700 for back tuition charges. Payment shall be made in two installments of $3,350. The first payment is due on March 1, 2001; the second payment is due on April 1, 2001. In the event of default, respondent reserves the right to proceed with its original tuition claim (less any payments made).

(5) Petitioner shall apply for an order of custody for J.V. from the Superior Court, Chancery Division, Family Part. Application shall be made no later than March 15, 2001, and petitioner shall furnish respondent with proof of said application. Petitioner shall also provide respondent with a copy of the custody order upon receipt of same.

(6) This settlement is subject to approval by the Commissioner of Education. In the event of disapproval of the settlement by the Commissioner, any tuition payments made by petitioner shall be refunded by respondent.

Record Closed: February 28, 2001 Decided: February 28, 2001

BEFORE MARGARET M. MONACO, ALJ:

This matter involves an appeal by petitioner E.M.I., on behalf of E.C.-U. and C.C.-U., from a residency determination by respondent Board of Education of the South Orange and Maplewood School District. Respondent filed an Answer and Counterclaim and the Department of Education, Bureau of Controversies and Disputes, transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) where, on December 1, 2000, it was filed for an expedited hearing. Subsequent to the assignment of the matter to the undersigned on December 18, 2000, a hearing was scheduled for January 18, 2001. During a telephone conference on January 16, 2001, counsel advised the undersigned that the matter had been resolved and, thereafter, submitted the attached Stipulation of Settlement and Mutual Dismissal of Petition and Counterclaim indicating the terms of agreement which was received on February 28, 2001. Having reviewed the record and the terms of settlement, I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or the signatures of their representatives.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. Accordingly, I approve the settlement and ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Re: I/M/O the Tenure Hearing of James Cappiello, Board of Education of the City of Union City, Hudson County
Our File No. 25,0071R
O.A.L. Docket No. EDU 3206-00N

Dear Judge LaFiandra:

Pursuant to your request made during today's telephone conference, the following is a brief synopsis of the relevant facts and procedural history which occurred during the course of this action before the Commissioner and Office of Administrative Law.

James Cappiello, a tenured teacher of physical education with the Union City School District, was served with tenure charges on or about February 3, 2000. On February 22, 2000, the Board of Education of the City of Union City heard these charges, found probable cause, and voted to certify these charges to the Commissioner of Education as well as to suspend Mr. Cappiello, without pay, effective February 23, 2000. Receipt of these charges were made on February 28, 2000 and on March 14, 2000, these charges were referred by the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes to the Office of Administrative Law for a hearing.

The tenure charges contained two specific charges or counts; First, Mr. Cappiello was charged with chronic and excessive absenteeism for a period of nine years in which his absentee rate fluctuated between twenty-one to fifty six days of absences in each school year. The second charge alleged that Mr. Cappiello suffers from an incapacity because of a underlying mood disorder which results in the lack of mental and/or physical ability to perform his duties as a teacher.

Mr. Cappiello had already been scheduled, at the request of the Administration, to submit to a psychiatric examination scheduled in April, 2000. The result of that examination indicated that Mr. Cappiello suffers from a disability which makes him unable to assume the functional responsibilities of a school teacher. On May 15, 2000, the parties participated in a telephone conference and among other things, agreed to put the matter on inactive status in order to pursue a disability retirement application with the State. The Order of Inactivity was signed by Your Honor on July 11, 2000.

The Disability Retirement Application was formally made to the Division of Pensions and Benefits on August 23, 2000 directly by the school district. The Division of Pensions sent Mr. Cappiello for another examination, and on January 4, 2001, the Division approved this application effective on January 1, 2001.

During this time period, Mr. Cappiello has remained on suspended status, although pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-14, he was placed back on salary on the 120th day. On January 1, 2001, the date of his retirement, Cappiello was removed from the payroll.

The Board does not object to the dismissal of the tenure charges, without prejudice. In the unlikely event that Mr. Cappiello is deemed fully recovered from his disability, the Board at that time would make a determination whether to pursue the tenure charges, if necessary.

If you require any other information or documentation, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Very truly yours,

MURRAY, MURRAY & CORRIGAN

SUBJECT: APPROVAL OF DISABILITY RETIREMENT APPLICATION

The Board of Trustees of the Teachers' Pension and Annuity Fund at its meeting on January 4, 2001, approved your application for Ordinary Disability Retirement effective January 1, 2001, under Maximum. You have the right to change the retirement option selected provided you file a written notice with the Division of Pensions and Benefits' Retirement Bureau within 30 days from the date of this letter or your retirement date, whichever is later. Otherwise, the retirement option will remain and cannot be changed for any reason thereafter.

If you continue to receive a salary beyond the effective date of retirement, no retirement benefits shall be paid for the period where you received salary and no salary or service credit shall be provided for the service rendered after the approved effective date of retirement. In addition, your employer shall be required to complete an updated Certification of Service and Final Salary.

Your retirement allowance as a disability retirant is subject to adjustment if your earnings from employment after retirement exceed the difference between the pension portion of your retirement allowance and the salary attributable to your former position.

The statute permits the Board of Trustees to require a disability retirant to undergo annual medical examinations to determine if she/he continues to be totally and permanently disabled and therefore eligible for continued receipt of his/her disability retirement allowance.

If you were required to purchase service credit in order to qualify for your retirement, you must complete the purchase transaction before your retirement benefit can be paid.

The Board has waived the 30-day waiting period for all Retirements with an effective date of January 1, 2001, and earlier. However, the processing of your retirement allowance will take approximately 6 to 8 weeks.

Your file is being transferred to the Retirement Bureau to implement the Board's decision.

BEFORE JOHN R. TASSINI, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The Board of Education of the City of Trenton (BOE), operator of an urban special needs "Abbott district" school system, applied to the Department of Education for supplemental aid for school year 2000-2001, to ensure that its public school children receive a thorough and efficient education. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-3 "Abbott district." Department of Education officials determined that supplemental aid in an amount less than that applied for was necessary. The BOE appealed to the Commissioner and the case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL). The Comprehensive Educational Improvement and Financing Act of 1996 (CEIFA) and the Urban Education Reform Regulations in the Abbott Districts govern the case. N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-1 to -34; N.J.A.C. 6:24-1.1 to -9.6.

As shown by the attached Consent Order of Settlement, the parties have settled the case.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

The BOE submitted to the Department a proposed budget, application and supporting exhibits. By letter dated May 19, 2000, Department Assistant Commissioners notified the BOE that they had determined that an amount of supplemental aid less than the amount applied for should was necessary. On May 26, 2000, the BOE filed its petition of appeal to the Commissioner and, on June 12, 2000, the Department filed its answer. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, N.J.A.C.6A:24-9.1, -9.2, -9.3. The Department deemed the matter a contested case and transmitted it to the OAL, where it was filed on June 19, 2000. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-2(b), N.J.A.C.6A:24-9.6.

On June 23, 2000, the case was assigned to me and I forwarded a scheduling letter to the attorneys. On June 28, 2000, the New Jersey Education Association and Trenton of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning uncle challenged the Board's residency determination that his brother's children, H.M. and D.M., were not entitled to a free education in the District.

The ALJ found that there was clearly a family hardship whereby the parents, who immigrated to the United States from India, were unable to provide a home and supervision for their children. Petitioner, who was domiciled in the District, kept the children in his home gratis. The ALJ concluded that the Board should provide H.M. and D.M. a free public education.

The Commissioner adopted the findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner affirmed that H.M. and D.M., under the totality of the factual circumstances presented, were entitled, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), to attend school free of charge in the District.

Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

K.M., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., appearing for Respondent

Record Closed: January 30, 2001 Decided: March 2, 2001

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Petitioner is challenging Respondent Board of Education's determination of lack of residency for H.M. and D.M., his brother's children.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1. Petitioner is domiciled in Respondent's school district and has been since July, 1987.

2. Petitioner's brother, the brother's wife and two children entered the United States on July 5, 2000. They had to borrow money for the airline tickets.

3. No one in the immigrant family spoke or read any English when they entered the country.

4. A.M. and J.M. are the parents of the children in question. Because they cannot read or fill out employment applications, they work at a motel in Philadelphia, the owner of which is Indian.

5. The parents earn approximately $900 per month each at the motel. They are required to live at the motel, since they are standby employees. They do not pay rent or utility charges. Their money is spent on food and other necessities of daily living.

6. Petitioner receives no money from his brother in support of the children. Petitioner and his wife work. His wife's salary pays college tuition for their daughter. Petitioner and his wife have a combined income of approximately $55,000. They live in a three family house which is owned by Petitioner and his brother-in-law. They share expenses on the house.

7. The children have begun to speak English and have begun to become acclimated to their new surroundings.

8. The children, two girls, are approximately 13 and 15 years old.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The law in New Jersey provides that a free education shall be provided to those who are between the ages of 5 and 20, and who are domiciled within the school district. In addition, any person who is kept in the home of a person domiciled within the district and is supported gratis as if he were the person's own child shall also receive a free public education upon > the filing of a sworn statement by the person to the effect that he is domiciled within the district, is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligations for the child relative to school, and intends to support the child gratis for longer than the school term; and > the filing of a sworn statement by the parent of the child that he/she is incapable of supporting the child due to a family or economic hardship and the child is not residing with the resident of the district solely for the purpose of receiving a free public education. The statement shall be accompanied by supporting documentation in accordance with the provisions of the statute. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

Emphasis supplied.

In this case, there is clearly a family hardship. The parents of the children involved cannot speak, read or write English. The closest employment they could find is in Philadelphia, and they could only take the employment because the owner can communicate with them.

The parent's employer provided a letter which states that the motel only allows full-time employees to remain on the premises. Respondent asserts that the language of the letter does not mandate that the parents live at the motel; however, the Petitioner's testimony that his brother and wife are standby employees who may be employees and may be called anytime of the day or night, I FIND that there is a requirement that they reside in the motel and, therefore, are unable to provide a home and supervision for their children.

Moreover, K.M. testified that it is his intention eventually to bring his brother and his sister-in-law to live in the district; he intends to keep the children with him until that time.

I FIND, therefore, that the statutory requirements have been met and Petitioner has sustained the burden of proof. I CONCLUDE that the determination of Respondent should be REVERSED; Respondent should provide H.M. and D.M. a free public education.

I do so ORDER.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. Respondent's exceptions, which were timely filed pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4, urge reversal of the recommended decision, essentially for the reasons presented to and rejected by the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) during the hearing of this matter; namely, that the parents of H.M. and D.M. are fully capable of supporting and providing care for their children since they are in good health and are gainfully employed as motel workers; that the parents' inability to speak English does not constitute a hardship; and that the fact of their choosing to live at their place of employment, where children cannot stay, and where they can save on living expenses, cannot suffice as an economic hardship. Additionally, respondent urges that:

> A "hardship" as set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b) is one that renders the parent(s) incapable of supporting or providing care for the child. Whether it would be better for the children to live with their uncle in West Orange is not a consideration. Whether the uncle and his family speak English is not a consideration. Whether it is cheaper for the parents to live in the motel is not a consideration. The only issue that matters is whether the parents can support their children. Despite the ALJ's Findings of Fact, there is clearly nothing in the record to suggest that the parents cannot support them. (Respondent's Exceptions at 2)

[1] It is noted for the record that, notwithstanding the case title on the Initial Decision, this matter actually involves two children, H.M. and D.M.

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the ALJ's recommended decision determining that H.M. and D.M. are entitled to attend school free of charge in the West Orange School District. While the Commissioner would agree that the inability to speak English is not per se demonstration of family or economic hardship, it is a consideration in understanding why the children's parents, upon immigrating to the United States from India, found it necessary to take a job in a motel whose owner is Indian and is able to communicate with them. Moreover, the Commissioner finds and concludes that respondent brings nothing to the record to support reversal of the ALJ's credibility determination with respect to petitioner's testimony that the parents of H.M. and D.M. must live at the motel because they are standby employees who may be called upon to work at any time of day and night and, because they are not permitted to have their children live with them in the motel room, they, therefore, are unable to provide a home and supervision for their children. Contrary to respondent's position otherwise, the parents' residing in the motel is not merely to save money on utilities and rent.

Accordingly, it is determined that H.M. and D.M., under the totality of the factual circumstances presented herein, are entitled, pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), to attend school free of charge in the West Orange School District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

Decided: March 8, 2001[1]

[1] An extension of time for issuing the decision was requested and granted pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c).

BEFORE BRUCE R. CAMPBELL, ALJ:

These petitioners, an Education Association and a member of the Association alleged the Middlesex County Vocational-Technical Schools Board of Education has improperly assigned her to teach classes that are beyond the scopes of her instructional certificates and endorsements. The Board denies the allegation and requests that the petition be dismissed.

The matter was opened before the Commissioner of Education and transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 through -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 through -13. It at first appeared that the matter might proceed on the papers. However, although most essential facts could be stipulated, limited testimony was taken on December 18, 2000. Counsel then timely filed submissions.

Jean Dvorak, a petitioner, testified. She has been an English teacher at the Vocational-Technical School since 1971. She holds a secondary teaching certificate with an English endorsement. She has taught English exclusively in her time at the school.

Graduates of the school receive a regular high school diploma; therefore, they must meet all State academic requirements. In comparison to a generation ago, there is a little less emphasis on technical subjects and a bit more emphasis on academics.

Dvorak has taught workshops, but states she has not taught remedial classes. She teaches some computer skills, but these are not remedial in nature.

Toward the end of September 1999 she received what she described as a strange assignment. Pupils reported to her for instruction denominated Reading Workshop. Dvorak stated this was news to her.

Dvorak checked with the school office and was informed that she was indeed to conduct a reading workshop.

She had a technical writing class and the remedial group. She was given no class list for the remedial group until she requested one. She then learned it was in fact two groups, meeting on alternating weeks. Each group had seven or eight pupils assigned to it. In October, "some books" were dropped off in her room by the basic skills supervisor. Dvorak protested to the supervisor that Dvorak was not qualified.

The witness then received a course of study outline and work books (J-5). A description and purpose are provided at page 14. Dvorak's says this is all she had at first.

In or about November, the basic skills supervisor came to her class and they spoke. The supervisor, Gail Verona, liked what she saw. Dvorak had students using computers. The two instructors decided to look for more programs that Dvorak's pupils could use applying the computers.

Dvorak testified that no student assessments were given to her. She was provided a sample notification letter to parents and was told to send these to the parents of the pupils she was teaching. Dvorak did so. The letter mentions an Individual Student Improvement Plan (ISIP). Dvorak stated she never found an ISIP or ever received an ISIP for any pupil from the basic skills supervisor or anyone else.

Dvorak is assigned to remedial instruction again this year. She did receive ISIPs for each pupil and found them to be quite good and complete. They are not, however, the same as those shown in Appendix B of Exhibit J-5.

Dvorak considered what she was teaching specific to certain weaknesses. It was not working well and she was not sure where deficiencies were. Even when and if deficiencies were identified, Dvorak did not always know how to attack the problem. Some pupils have minimal reading skills.

Dvorak identified Exhibit J-4, the course of study outline, Volume 46, English. Dvorak stated she never before had been assigned to teach reading. In 1999-00, she eventually received a course outline and some workbooks, but did not get ISIPs or testing materials. In her undergraduate training she had no reading courses.

Eleventh grade pupils receive a book to help them take the High School Proficiency Test. Dvorak uses the book extensively. In a remedial class, there is more emphasis on why a certain answer is correct and how to use question clues to lead a pupil to what the answer should be.

In or about November 1999, in a conversation with Verona, Verona said she would look for additional computer programs. There were meetings of all English teachers and one issue was remedial courses. A later meeting dealt with concerns about workshops. Nothing ever came of these meetings. Dvorak was not offered workshops or courses to help her perform the duties she is now assigned.

The witness feels unprepared, but has not reduced her problems to writing. Her superiors instructed her to simply do the best she could. When she did receive a course of study, she read it all, as she would for any class. She does not do any testing for placement purposes.

The program in the district seems generally successful. Last year, she and two other English teachers taught remedial classes. Dvorak differentiates between "regular" classes and remedial classes. Some reading instruction is inherent in all classes. Dvorak found some reading materials via computer. She has no problem teaching writing skills, but believes she is unqualified and unprepared to teach reading. Dvorak testified about the overlap between basic skills instruction and regular instructional. Dvorak maintains she cannot teach skills in isolation.

Teachers can refer students from regular classes for special assistance. This year, although she has ISIPs, she cannot diagnosis reading problems and she cannot remedy reading problems. Before the 1998-99 school year, Dvorak believes there was a reading teacher in the building. Last year and this year she has asked the administration for assistance. She has not been told that she is doing anything wrong.

At the close of the petitioners' case, the Board moved to dismiss. The motion was denied, this judge finding that there were material facts in dispute.

The Board called its Superintendent, Joseph C. Colombo. He has been in the district since 1971. He was Director of Special Education until 1984 or 1985. Among other things, Colombo testified that the County Superintendent sits on the Board, that faculty, certificates and assignments are submitted to the County Office annually for approval and that there has been no criticism of the remedial program from the State.

The school has had a remedial course for many years. Originally, teachers with elementary and instructional certificates were employed. The bar is being raised by the State, however, and about five or six years ago English and mathematics teachers were advised that they should get additional certifications because they would be assigned remedial work. Elementary education or English-certified personnel must be assigned when the district receives Title I funds for compensatory education. A district administrator submits this information to the County Superintendent's office. The County Superintendent has never stated that the Vocational Technical School has any one teaching outside the area of his or her certification. Superintendent Colombo produced a document prepared the New Jersey Department of Education in 1994. The document, bearing page number 66, contains a paragraph indicating that remedial reading and remedial writing courses that do not award credit or which award credit that is not counted toward the graduation requirements may be taught by persons with an elementary, English or English-Reading certificate. Respondent does argue that this paragraph provides it with the legal authority to appoint the petitioner Dvorak, a certified English teacher, to teach remedial reading and writing workshop class.

The Board asserts that the assignment of instructors certified in English to the supplemental reading and writing workshops has provided a successful way for the Board to meet its State-mandated standards for High School Proficiency Test (HSPT) passing rates. The petition argues that only Elementary or Reading instructors are qualified under N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2. This reliance is misplaced. A certificate or endorsement for reading is required only where reading is taught as a separate, graded course of study. Here the ungraded supplemental instruction is provided to assist students to pass the HSPT examinations. It is not a separate and distinct course of study.

In Old Bridge Education Association v. Board of Education of the Township of Old Bridge, 1986 S.L.D. 1928 (July 16, 1986), the Commissioner of Education distinguished between courses that teach reading and as a result would require an instructor with a reading endorsement, and those courses in which reading is an element of the course for which no specific reading certification would be required. The Commissioner stated:

> With respect to this determination the Commissioner wishes to emphasis that it is not meant to preclude the Old Bridge Board or any other Board of Education from including reading and the content areas as an integral part of the district's curriculum. Reading in the content areas is a valuable, desirable instructional strategy to be encouraged. 1986 S.L.D. at 1930.

Further, the Commissioner specifically noted that the courses in that case were undisputably reading courses in that they were taught and graded in a Kindergarten through grade eight setting, separately from the instructional time devoted the subject areas of science, social studies, mathematics and language arts. This is the reverse of the case are bar. Here, the remedial course is not graded and the student receives no credit for the course toward graduation and the courses provided at a high school level. Petitioner Dvorak is the most qualified and logical person to teach these remedial reading and writing courses because of her English endorsement. The reading skills identified in the remedial class are incidental to other skills or more aptly associated with another discipline, English. It is identical to the objectives set forth in the course of study for the standard English class that Dvorak helped to develop. Her only argument against teaching the remedial course is her assertion that she does not feel comfortable teaching it.

The Federal Chapter 1 Funds which assist in the funding of the remedial program are provided as part of legislation that permits instruction by teachers who possess either an English endorsement or an elementary education endorsement. The course in the Board's schools has evolved to met these requirements. Further, the Board is audited annually to ensure that it complies with State regulations and statutes. The Board has never been notified that it was deficient or that it had improperly assigned teachers. Furthermore, the County Superintendent of Schools is a member of the respondent Board. Each curriculum for every course is reviewed and approved by the Board before implementation. The County Superintendent's participation provides further tacit approval for the district's action. The Board has therefore also complied with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.5 in receiving the approval of the County Superintendent of its assignments. Dvorak cannot demonstrate how the Middlesex County Vocational Technical Board of Education is not in full compliance with any state or federal regulation or statute governing her ability to be assigned to teach remedial classes.

The petitioners argue that, for the first time during the pendency of this matter, the Board asserted that the remedial reading and writing program is partly funded by Federal funds. The superintendent produced a document which he says is one page from a manual entitled "Chapter I Program Guidelines," which appears to have been prepared by the New Jersey Department of Education in 1994. Page 66 does contain a paragraph that indicates remedial reading and writing courses that do not award credit or that award credit that is not counted toward the graduation requirements may be taught by persons with an Elementary, English or English-Reading endorsement. The respondent thus argues that this gives it the authority it needs to appoint Dvorak, a certified English teacher, to teach its remedial reading and writing workshop class. The document is unauthenticated. Even if it were authenticated, it does not nullify the statutory and regulatory requirement that reading classes, such as the reading and writing workshop to which Dvorak is assigned, be taught by teachers holding elementary or reading endorsements on their teaching certificates.

Dvorak's testimony shows that during the 1999-00 school year and again this year, she has been assigned to teach a remedial reading and writing class in addition to her regular English classes. The pupils assigned to the remedial class are those who have been identified as requiring additional assistance with basic reading and writing skills so that they may improve their chances of passing the HSPT. Testimony revealed that, although the English classes Dvorak has taught for 29 years contain an infusion of reading in the English content area, the remedial reading and writing classes focus completely on the teaching of the skill of reading and the skill of writing. Dvorak does not hold either an elementary certificate or a reading endorsement. She does not hold an educational services certificate with an endorsement as a reading specialist. In the 29 years she has served as a teacher, she has never taught a separate reading course in which the focus is on teaching the skill of reading to students who have individualized and varied reading disabilities.

The regulations governing the proper certifications and endorsements for various teaching assignments preclude the teaching of reading by an individual holding only an English endorsement to an instructional certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)7 provides that an English endorsement to an instructional certificate only "authorizes the holder to teach English in all public schools" and N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.2(a)19 requires a reading endorsement for an individual to teach reading in all public schools. Although N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1(b) authorizes teachers with elementary endorsements to instructional certificates to teach "the common branch subjects, such as reading, writing, arithmetic, and spelling in the secondary school" and N.J.A.C. 6:11-6.1(c) provides the teachers with English endorsements who taught reading prior to February 1976 may continue to teach in such assignment, the facts demonstrate that Dvorak does not hold an elementary endorsement and never taught reading prior to February 1976. Therefore, in order for her to teach a separate reading course, the regulations require that she must hold a reading endorsement to her instructional certificate. She does not.

In Old Bridge Education Association, above, the Commissioner interpreted these regulations to hold that a course in which "the instruction provided is firstly reading instruction and the skills being taught are reading skills and the subject matter of the particular discipline is merely the vehicle by which the reading skills are taught, it is concluded that an endorsement authorizing the teaching of reading is required." 1986 S.L.D. at 1930.

Dvorak testified and the Board could not refute that the remedial reading and writing course which is the subject of this dispute does in fact emphasize reading instruction and does require the teaching of specific and distinct reading skills. As in Old Bridge, this remedial reading course also requires the teacher to hold an endorsement authorizing the teaching of reading.

In an effort to defend its improper assignment, the Board presented brief testimony from Joseph Colombo, Superintendent of the Middlesex County Vocational Technical Schools, to the effect that the County Superintendent of Schools sits as a member of the Board and approves the general curriculum of the district, including the remedial reading and writing classes. Mr. Colombo further stated that he therefore assumed that the County Superintendent of Schools must have approved the assignment of teachers holding only English endorsements to the remedial reading and writing classes. However, he also testified that the respondent Board never made a written application at any time to the County Superintendent, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.3(b) for a determination as to the appropriate certification for the remedial reading-writing workshop class and that the County Superintendent never actually observed the remedial reading class taught by Dvorak. Colombo also claimed that the remedial reading and writing workshop is funded in part by federal monies. If that has any effect on the outcome here, no documentation has been put forth.

There was no inquiry here into the true nature of the course. No request was ever made of the County Superintendent to ascertain the proper certification or endorsements. Even if one could conclude that County Superintendent had implicitly determined that an English certificate was acceptable, such a determination was not binding and can be overruled by the State Board of Education. Zachau v. Burlington County Vocational and Technical Schools, 97 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 4. Counsel for the Board has put before this judge a one-page document which he asserts authorizes the use of teachers with an English endorsement only to teach certain remedial and writing courses. The document is not a statute or a regulation and has no precedential value. Further, the document was never provided to counsel for petitioners during the discovery phase of this case, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-10.1 through -10.6. It was never authenticated pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-15.6. Further, one-page from a multi-page document may literally and intellectually be out of context. Therefore, the Board's motion to dismiss must be denied.

DETERMINATION

Preliminarily, it is noted that there are three certificates that the State Board of Examiners is authorized to issue: the instructional certificate, the administrative certificate and the educational services certificate. N.J.A.C. 6:11-2.3. The same rule provides for issuance of endorsements for each recognized teaching, administrative and service postion.

The Commissioner has long held that the certification required for a position is determined by the duties performed, not the job title. Teaneck Education Association v. Teaneck Board of Education, 1983 S.L.D. 1039 (Sept. 30, 1983). The chief school administrator must require a reassigned teaching staff member to exhibit an appropriate certificate and endorsement(s) before the teaching staff member assumes responsibility for the performance of regulated duties.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court has held that a teacher holding English and reading specialist endorsements is eligible to teach reading in a compensatory education program. Schmidt v. Board of Education of Weehawken, (N.J. App. Div. Feb. 1, 1984, A-4842-82T5) (unreported). But there is no discoverable case holding that says a person not holding an elementary or reading teacher endorsement may teach a compensatory program such as that offered by the respondent here. In Old Bridge, above, cited by both parties, the Board approved a scheme in which eighth grade pupils received instruction in courses entitled "social studies readings," "science readings" and the like taught by teachers with subject area, but not reading endorsements. The Board had argued that the pupil:

> are taught by teams consiting of four or five teachers. Some of whom are certified in the elementary category and others who are certified in particular subject areas. Each student receives instruction each day in math, science, language arts, social studies and reading. On a five person team, each teacher is assigned exclusively to one subject area and teaches five periods of that subject each particular day. On a four person team, each teacher is assigned to teach four periods of math, science, language arts or social studies and one period of reading each day.

Under these circumstances, the ALJ found and the Commissioner concurred that the courses were reading courses and that an endorsement authorizing a person to teach reading was required. Virtually the same circumstances obtain in today's case.

The mere allegation of the superintendent that a federal regulation authorizes Dvorak to teach remedial reading, without move, is unpersuasive. If such a regulation exists, the Commissioner of Education and the State Board of Examiners would be aware of its existence and the New Jersey Administrative Code would reflect it.

In consideration of the foregoing, I FIND and CONCLUDE that the assignment of Jane E. Dvorak to duties including remedial reading (J-1) is improper because many of the duties this assignment requires her to perform lie outside the scope of her certificate and endorsement. Beyond putting a teaching staff member in an uncomfortable situation, this arrangement ill-serves the pupils who need and are intended to benefit from remedial instruction.

I CONCLUDE that the Middlesex County Vocational and Technical Schools Board of Education must immediately relieve Jane E. Dvorak and those similarly situated of the remedial workshop assignments and must replace those teaching staff members with persons holding reading or elementary endorsements on their instructional certificates. It is so ORDERED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. On March 21, 2001, respondent filed a Notice of Motion (Motion) seeking remand of this matter to the OAL for completion of the presentation of its case. In a Certification by respondent's attorney in support of the Motion, Mr. Vignuolo avers that at the time of the hearing, petitioner gave her testimony and completed presentation of her case; whereupon respondent made application to the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) to dismiss the petitioner's claim for failure to state a claim upon which relief should be granted. Respondent further avers that the Superintendent of Schools was present at the hearing along with several other witnesses to be presented in the respondent's case. The ALJ requested the opportunity to ask several questions of the Superintendent who was placed under oath and provided a response to the ALJ's inquiry, with some clarification by additional questioning from counsel. Upon the conclusion of the limited testimony of the Superintendent of Schools, the ALJ reserved on the motion to dismiss the petition and respondent never presented its case in this matter. According to Mr. Vignuolo, the Initial Decision, when issued on March 13, 2001, not only denied respondent's application for dismissal "but also entered an Order granting the relief requested by the Petitioner without consideration of the Respondent's case which was never presented." (Certification at 2)

On April 6, 2001, petitioner's attorney responded to respondent's Motion, indicating that she concurred with Mr. Vignuolo's Certification pertaining to the hearing in this matter. Additionally, she states:

> At the conclusion of the limited testimony following respondent's motion for dismissal, the Court reserved on that motion pending receipt of legal memoranda from both parties on that motion. Following submission of the legal memoranda, the parties anticipated a decision on the dismissal motion, and were surprised when that decision not only denied respondent's motion but resolved the case. Under these circumstances, petitioner has no objection to respondent's request that the matter be remanded to the Office of Administrative Law to permit respondent to complete the presentation of its case.

Upon consideration of the parties' submissions, the Commissioner agrees that respondent must be permitted an opportunity to complete the presentation of its case. Accordingly, the Initial Decision is rejected for the reasons stated herein and the matter remanded to the OAL for further proceedings.

This Stipulation of Settlement is made this 21ST day of November, 2001, by and between Regina Rossi (hereinafter "Rossi"), who resides at 69 Courtland Lane, Bedminster, New Jersey 07921, and the Englewood Board of Education, with its principal offices located at 12 Tenafly Road, Englewood, New Jersey 07631 (hereinafter the "Board").

WHEREAS, the Board and Rossi are parties to an administrative proceeding before the New Jersey Commissioner of Education/Office of Administrative Law entitled Regina Rossi v Board of Education of the City of Englewood, Agency Ref. No. 120-4/00, OAL Docket No. EDU 05310-00; and,

WHEREAS, in lieu of trial of the issues raised in that proceeding, the parties are desirous of entering into an agreement stipulating the terms of a settlement of any and all claims raised in the Verified Petition;

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties and in exchange for the consideration more particularly noted below, it is hereby agreed:

1. Within thirty (30) calendar days of the approval of this Stipulation of Settlement by the Commissioner of Education, the Board will pay to Rossi the sum of Four Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($4,500.00). In the event payment is not made within thirty (30) calendar days, the sum due and outstanding shall accrue interest pursuant to R.4:42-11(a)(ii).

2. The payment due to Rossi set forth in paragraph 1 shall be made in lump sum and without deductions. The Board shall issue Rossi an IRS Form 1099 for the payment. Rossi shall be responsible for all taxes, penalties and related monies thereto. Rossi shall indemnify the Board for any failure to carry out such responsibility.

3. The parties' entry into this settlement agreement shall not be construed as an admission of guilt or wrongdoing by either party.

4. The Board and Rossi agree to execute mutual general releases that shall accompany this Stipulation of Settlement and which will be on the terms specified within this Stipulation of Settlement. The forms of the releases are attached hereto as Exhibits A and B. Nothing in this Stipulation of Settlement shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any term of this Stipulation of Settlement should there be a default in performance.

5. Rossi agrees to withdraw, with prejudice, the Verified Petition before the Commissioner of Education/Office of Administrative Law bearing Agency Ref. No. 120-4/00, O.A.L. Docket No. EDU 05310-00.

6. The parties acknowledge that each has consulted with an attorney or a representative of their own choosing prior to signing this Stipulation of Settlement and that each signs this Stipulation of Settlement as their own voluntary act and deed, and that they fully understand the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

7. This Stipulation of Settlement shall be subject to the laws of the State of New Jersey.

8. The undersigned representatives of the Board hereby acknowledge that they have been duly authorized by the Board to sign this Stipulation of Settlement and bind the Board to its terms.

9. All terms of this Stipulation of Settlement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board member challenged the authority of the Board to conduct a "grievance" proceeding against her. She also alleged Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) violations.

The ALJ concluded that the Commissioner had the jurisdiction to determine under education law whether the Board could consider the grievance filed by the Pennsville Education Association (PEA), which asked the Board to remove or discipline petitioner for her involvement in a dispute of a student's grade; that to pursue allegations of ethical violations, the PEA would have to file a complaint pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.; that the Board had the right to file a revised grievance which requests only a reprimand or censure of petitioner based on violations of the Board's policies or procedures; and that the Board had the right to have the consideration of the grievance conducted in a closed session. The ALJ also concluded that the Commissioner had the right to consider allegations of OPMA violations and that the Board did not violate any OPMA provisions.

The Commissioner set aside the Initial Decision. In so doing, he was persuaded by a more fully developed record that petitioner's main prayers for relief were either not properly addressed in this forum or were not ripe for adjudication. The Commissioner concurred with the Pennsville Education Association that this dispute was not properly before him, since he has no jurisdiction to enforce or interpret collective negotiations agreements. Moreover, the Commissioner was prevented from reviewing petitioner's attendant OPMA claims. Petition was dismissed. The temporary Order of April 3, 2000 enjoining the Board from considering PEA's grievance was dissolved.

Record Closed: December 12, 2000 Decided: March 12, 2001

BEFORE BEATRICE S. TYLUTKI, ALJ:

This matter concerns the petition filed by Susan Settle, the petitioner, requesting that the respondents, the Board of Education of the Township of Pennsville, Salem County (Board), and Robert Peddle, Superintendent, be barred from further consideration of a grievance filed by the Pennsville Educational Association (PEA), which involves the petitioner. The petitioner also asked for emergent relief seeking to enjoin the Board from continuing its consideration or rendering a decision as to the grievance prior to a determination in this matter.

The legal issues in the petition include whether the Board has jurisdiction to consider a grievance filed against an elected board member which raises primarily ethical violations; if the Board has such jurisdiction, whether its consideration of the grievance is to be conducted at an open or closed session of the Board; what type of disciplinary action, if any, the Board can take against an elected school board member pursuant to the grievance procedure; whether the Board violated any of the provisions of the Open Public Meetings Act, N.J.S.A. 10:4-6 et seq. (OPMA) and whether this issue can be decided in this forum; and whether the Board acted correctly in prohibiting the petitioner's court reporter from recording its initial consideration of the grievance on March 27, 2000.

The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on March 30, 2000, for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13. After hearing the oral arguments of the parties and considering the written submission by the petitioner as well as the exhibits admitted into evidence (P-1, P-2, P-4 and J-1), I granted the request for emergency relief on March 31, 2000. By decision on motion dated April 3, 2000, Assistant Commissioner of Education John M. Sherry concurred with my decision granting emergent relief.

Keith Waldman, Esq., filed a motion to intervene on behalf of the PEA. After considering the arguments of the parties, I granted PEA's motion to intervene by order dated May 2, 2000.

Thereafter, I had several telephone conferences with the parties who agreed to submit a stipulation of facts and motions for summary decision. The parties were unable to agree to a stipulation of facts; however, the PEA submitted a motion to dismiss the matter for lack of jurisdiction and ripeness, and the respondents joined in the motion to dismiss. The petitioner filed a motion for a summary decision. Specifically, the petitioner asked that a permanent injunction be issued against the Board's consideration of the grievance filed against her by the PEA, and in the alternative, argued that Judith A. Karr, Esq., attorney for the respondents, should no further represent them in this matter.

After receipt of briefs, the record closed on December 12, 2000. At my request, the time period for the submission of my initial decision was extended until March 12, 2001.

FACTUAL FINDINGS

Although there are some factual disputes, I FIND that the relevant facts are not in dispute. The petitioner is a school board member and was a school board member when she attended on or about February 25, 2000, a school meeting regarding a student's grade. Also present at the meeting were the student, the student's mother, the student's teacher and a school administrator. For the purpose of this initial decision, it is not relevant whether the petitioner was asked to attend by the student's parent or whether the teacher objected to her presence.

On or about February 28, 2000, the PEA filed a grievance with the Board which alleges that the petitioner had violated the negotiated agreement between the PEA and the Board (J-1), violated the Board's established procedures and violated the code of ethics. In its grievance, the PEA seeks the removal of the petitioner and in the alternative, that she should be admonished or censored or some other disciplinary sanctions be imposed on her (P-1).

It should be noted that in their brief dated August 30, 2000, the respondents stated that the Board does not have the right to remove the petitioner through the grievance procedure, and that such action would violate the education laws. The respondents argued that the Board could deny the grievance or if it granted the grievance, the Board could either reprimand or censure the petitioner.

On or about March 22, 2000, the petitioner received a letter advising her that the Board would discuss the grievance at its closed session during its meeting on March 27, 2000 (P-2). The petitioner's requests that the matter be considered during the public session were denied. On March 27, 2000, there was an initial consideration of the grievance in closed session and the petitioner's request to have her court reporter record the meeting was denied. The petitioner was given until March 29, 2000 to indicate whether she would make a formal presentation as to the grievance.

By letters dated March 29 and 30, 2000, the petitioner filed the petition in this matter with the Commissioner of Education (Commissioner) and also asked for emergent relief since the Board had scheduled the further consideration of the grievance for April 3, 2000 (P-4).

ARGUMENTS OF THE PARTIES

The first issue in this matter is whether the Board can consider a grievance filed against a board member, and whether the Commissioner has jurisdiction to make a determination as to the grievance.

The PEA and the respondents argued that the grievance was not filed against the petitioner but was directed to the Board and alleged that the petitioner, as the Board's agent, acted inappropriately. Although they are technically correct, the grievance was obviously directed against the petitioner and the relief sought was the discipline of the petitioner.

The PEA and respondents argued that the Board can hear the grievance, and cited the initial decision in Frenchtown Ed. Ass'n. v. Bd. of Ed. of Frenchtown, 1980 S.L.D. 198. In that case, the local board considered a union's complaint regarding a visit by a board member to a classroom and took no action. The union filed an appeal with the Commissioner, and the administrative law judge concluded that "any visit with interrogation of a teacher, examination and photocopying of a planbook should in the future only be made with approval of the Board and in keeping with established Board policy and with the right of the teacher to have a representative present during such visit pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7." supra at p. 201. The Commissioner adopted the ALJ's decision and directed that visitations by an individual board member to a teacher's classroom comport with board policy and N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7. supra at p. 203.

The petitioner argued that the decision in the Frenchtown Ed. Ass'n. case is not applicable since the facts in that case are substantially different than those in this case.

The PEA and the respondents argued that the Board did not authorize Ms. Settle to participate or attend the school meeting regarding the student and that the Board has a longstanding practice that the student and his or her parent(s) or legal guardian(s) are the only members of the public who are allowed to be present at a meeting concerning a student's grade. This practice is consistent with the regulation as to the confidentiality of student's records. N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5. It is the position of the PEA and the respondents that the petitioner, as a friend of the student, was not allowed to attend the meeting, and as a Board member, she could only attend if she had been authorized to do so. They argued that it would be disruptive to the operation of the schools if individual board members were to inject themselves into the instructional setting without a mandate from the board.

Also, the PEA and the respondents argued that the petitioner's presence at the meeting created a serious conflict of interest; as a board member the petitioner should not attend a meeting regarding a student's grade since as a member of the Board she might have to render a decision if a grade appeal is filed with the Board pursuant to the student grievance procedure.

The PEA and the respondents argued that the Board has the authority to hear and decide grievances under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3 and the New Jersey State Constitution, Art. I, ¶ 19, and that this authority includes grievances which concern a subject outside of the scope of negotiations. Tp. of West Windsor v. Public Employment Relations Commission, 78 N.J. 98, 108 (1978). Also, they argued that any appeal as to the scope of the grievance procedure should have been filed with the Public Employment Relations Commission (PERC) which has the primary jurisdiction to determine the scope of negotiability between the union and the local board. See, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3; Ridgefield Park Ed. Ass'n. v. Ridgefield Park Bd. of Ed., 78 N.J. 144, 155 (1978).

In support of their argument, the PEA and the respondents stated that several decisions of the Commissioner and the State Board of Education have recognized that the Commissioner's jurisdiction does not extend to matters involving contractual disputes. Poole v. Bd. of Ed. of Passaic Cty. Reg'l. School Dist. No. 1, 1978 S.L.D. 1039; Vitacco v. Lincoln Park Bd. of Ed., EDU 7594-94, Initial Decision (June 1, 1998), adopted, Comm'r. (July 17, 1998) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>

The PEA and respondents recognize that the Commissioner may ultimately have an interest in the outcome of the grievance, but argued that any such interest would arise only if the Board took action in violation of the education laws. The PEA and the respondents request that I determine that the Board has the right to consider the grievance and that the Commissioner dissolve the restraint and permit the grievance process to go forward.

The petitioner argued that the negotiated agreement between the Board and the PEA has no provision allowing for the filing of a grievance against a board member. Also, the petitioner argued that there is no statutory authority to allow the Board to consider a grievance against one of its members. The petitioner argued that the courts have recognized that a board is a creature of the State and may exercise only those powers granted to it by the Legislature, N.J.S.A. 18A:10-1 and 18A:11-1, and that where there is a reasonable doubt as to whether the Legislature has granted the board a power, that power should not be implied, and cited a number of cases, including, Atlantic City Ed. Ass'n. v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Atlantic City, 299 N.J. Super. 649 (App. Div. 1997), certif. den., 152 N.J. 192 (1997); Fairlawn Ed. Ass'n. v. Fairlawn Bd. of Ed., 161 N.J. Super. 67 (1978), aff'd., 79 N.J. 574 (1979). Also, the petitioner argued that it has been recognized that a board is a quasi-corporate entity and that board members, like the officers of a corporation, are immune from suit except for specific and enumerated circumstances. It is petitioner's position that N.J.S.A. 18A:11-2 fully sets forth the permissible scope of actions against the Board thereby excluding an action against a school board member for any action other then that which may be in contravention of N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24. The petitioner argued that she did not engage in any conduct prohibited by N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24.

The petitioner argued that any agreement between the Board and PEA which provided for greater jurisdiction and powers than those enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 et seq. would be ultra vires.

In reply, the PEA argued that even though the discipline of a board member is not expressly included in N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1, it is a power conferred by "necessary or fair implication," Fair Lawn Ed. Ass'n. case, and that case law has established that a local board has the right to censure or reprimand a board member for violating board policy. Crystal v. Bd. of Ed. of Barnegat, EDU 2398-99, Initial Decision (Nov. 30, 1999), adopted, Comm'r. (Jan. 18, 2000) <http://lawlibrary.rutgers.edu/oal/search.html>.

I agree with the arguments of the PEA and the respondents that the Board has the right to hear the grievance involving the petitioner. Also, I disagree with the argument of PEA and the respondents that the issue of the scope of the grievance lies solely with PERC and I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner can review the grievance to determine whether it is consistent with education law, Frenchtown Ed. Ass'n. case and Crystal case.

The petitioner argued that any allegation as to ethical violations should be subject to the School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-23 specifically includes school board members as "school officials," and board members are subject to the code of ethics set forth in N.J.S.A. 18A:12. It is the petitioner's position that there are no violations pursuant to this act. I agree with petitioner's argument that if the PEA wants to pursue the alleged ethical violations and the removal of the petitioner it has to file a complaint under the School Ethics Act. Feldman v. Bd. of Ed. of the Bergen Cty Sp. Services School Dist., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 807, adopted by Comm'r., 96 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 811.

The second issue in this matter is whether the Board's consideration of the grievance against the petitioner during a closed session is in violation of the OPMA.

The PEA and the respondents argued that the Commissioner's jurisdiction as to OPMA claims is limited, and that the Commissioner has recognized that he will not exercise jurisdiction over claims arising under the OPMA when such a claim stands alone. Rovello v. Boyle and Hopewell Valley Reg'l. Bd. of Ed., 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 313. The PEA and the respondents argued that the petitioner is not entitled to a public hearing of the grievance since she does not have the right to have the student's grade discussed at the public session since grades are confidential pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:3-6.5(c)(6); since the consideration of the grievance is a matter of contract administration that falls within an exception to the OPMA, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)4; and since the grievance involves a personnel matter that falls within an exception to the OPMA, N.J.S.A. 10:4-12(b)8. The PEA and the respondents argued that any discussion of the grievance would require a discussion of the underlying student grade, the meeting concerning the student's grade and the administration of the union contract. Also, the PEA and the respondents argued that the teacher has not waived his right of privacy. In Toplansky v. Bd. of Ed. of Bor. of Kenilworth, 1989 S.L.D. 2708, the Commissioner ruled that it was inappropriate for a board to discuss a personnel matter in public session and that personnel matters fall within the personnel exception to the OPMA. They argued that the Board has the inherent right to maintain order at its meetings and to insure that confidential matters including pupil records, contract administration and personnel matters are not spread out on the public record, N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1(c) and (d).

The PEA and the respondents argued that this matter should be dismissed. In the alternative, they argued that the restraint which prohibits the Board from proceeding with the grievance should be dissolved, that this matter be stayed until after the Board's consideration of the PEA's grievance, and that the Board be prohibited from implementing any sanction until the petitioner has pursued this matter.

The petitioner argued that she has the right to a public hearing on the grievance and that the hearing can be held in such a way as not to divulge the name of the teacher or the name and grade of the student. She argued that she has a right to a public hearing even if the other parties involved do not agree. The petitioner argued that the personnel exception to the OPMA does not apply to elected officials, Gannett Satellite Information Network Inc. d/b/a The Courier News v. Bd. of Ed. of Manville and Green, 201 N.J. Super. 65 (Law. Div. 1984).

As to the OPMA issues, I agree with the arguments of the PEA and the respondents that the Board should discuss the grievance at a closed session after appropriate notice to the petitioner. In order to assure the confidentiality of the discussion, the Board had the right to refuse petitioner's request to have a court reporter present. Also, I FIND that the petitioner has presented no proof to support her argument that the Board had given insufficient notice in violation of OPMA.

Lastly, the petitioner argued that if this matter is not dismissed, then Ms. Karr should be barred from continuing to represent the respondents. The petitioner stated that after she received the letter advising her of the hearing on the grievance she contacted Ms. Karr, the school board solicitor, and spent some time discussing the matter. The petitioner represents that it was only after the petitioner presented every intimate detail of the incident that Ms. Karr informed her that she would not be able to represent her. Ms. Karr told her that the law does not allow for removal of board members by the grievance procedure, and that the Board would probably censure her.

It is the petitioner's position that the conduct of Ms. Karr raises ethical questions, a conflict of interest, and may also violate the Rules of Professional Responsibility. The petitioner requests that the respondents be required to retain the services of another attorney to represent them in this matter.

In reply, Gary M. Salber, Esq., on behalf of the respondents, argued that the petitioner did not disclose any intimate details to Ms. Karr since there were no intimate matters involved and everything Ms. Karr was told by the petitioner is included in the petitioner's statement of facts. He argued that Ms. Karr has no conflict of interest nor were there any ethical violations or violations of the Rules of Professional Responsibility. Since I am issuing an initial decision, it is not necessary for me to make a ruling as to whether Ms. Karr should represent the respondents at a hearing in this matter.

There was also a discussion as to whether the petitioner is entitled to attorney's fees. Both the PEA and the respondents argued that the petitioner is not entitled to any attorney's fees. Gibson v. Bd. of Ed. of the City of Newark, 1986 SLD 3044. I concur.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Having reviewed the arguments of the parties, I CONCLUDE that:

(1) The Commissioner has the jurisdiction to determine under education law whether the Board can consider the grievance filed by the PEA which asks the Board to remove or discipline the petitioner.

(2) If the PEA wishes to pursue its allegation of ethical violations and the request for the removal of the petitioner, it has to file a complaint pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq.

(3) The Board has the right to file a revised grievance limited to alleged violations of the Board's procedures by the petitioner.

(4) If filed, the Board has the right to consider the revised grievance regarding the petitioner provided that the requested relief is limited to a reprimand or censure.

(5) The Board has the right to have the consideration of the grievance conducted in a closed session.

(6) The Commissioner has the right to consider allegations of violations of the OPMA as part of this case.

(7) The Board did not violate any of the provisions of the OPMA.

(8) Since the Board has the right to conduct the consideration in closed session, it had the right to deny the petitioner's request to have a court reporter present to record the consideration of the grievance.

(9) The request to remove Ms. Karr as attorney for the respondents is moot, and if the petitioner has any questions regarding Ms. Karr's conduct, she has the right to file a complaint with the District Ethics Committee.

(10) The petitioner is not entitled to attorney's fees.

Therefore, I ORDER that the motion filed by the PEA and the respondents to dismiss the matter for lack of jurisdiction and ripeness be denied. Also, I grant, the part, the petitioner's motion for summary decision. Specifically, I ORDER that there be a permanent restraint on the Board from considering the grievance regarding the petitioner in its present form. Also, I ORDER that the PEA has the right to submit a revised grievance which requests only a reprimand or a censure of the petitioner based on violations of the Board's policies or procedures. If a revised grievance is filed, I ORDER that the Board has the right, after appropriate notice, to consider such a revised grievance at a closed session of the Board and to deny the petitioner's request to have a court reporter present.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF PENNSVILLE, SALEM COUNTY AND ROBERT PEDDLE, SUPERINTENDENT,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS,	:
AND	:
PENNSVILLE EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
INTERVENOR.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. The exceptions filed by Intervenor Pennsville Education Association (hereafter, "PEA") were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, PEA maintains its position, as previously argued before the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), that the Commissioner should dismiss the within petition since he is without jurisdiction to determine the fundamental issue herein, and the case is not, as to other issues, ripe for adjudication. Specifically, PEA contends that the issue of whether the Board may properly hear and adjudicate the grievance PEA brought before it is, "in its very essence, an argument concerning the statutory scope of negotiations and the Legislature has vested [the Public Employment Relations Commission] -- not the Commissioner -- with primary jurisdiction to determine scope of negotiability. See N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3." (PEA's Exceptions at 4) PEA continues:

> Such a determination would be consistent with the body of caselaw of the Commissioner and the State Board of Education which has consistently recognized that the Commissioner's jurisdiction does not extend to contractual disputes. For example, the Commissioner and the State Board have recognized that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over every contractual action involving a school board. E.g., Poole v. Bd. of Ed. of Passaic Cty. Reg'l. School District No. 1, 1978 S.L.D. 1039 (St. Bd.) (Commissioner's jurisdiction does not extend to controversies arising under other laws, even though a school district may be a party to the controversy); Vitacco v. Lincoln Park Board of Education, CD 312-98 (7/17/98) (Commissioner dismissed case for lack of subject matter jurisdiction over purely contractual disputes). (Id. at 4)
>
> The Commissioner should dismiss the present case, allowing the grievance to proceed to Board determination in furtherance of the employees' right under [sic] to have the Board hear and adjust grievances under the New Jersey Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A. 34:13A-5.3 and the New Jersey State Constitution, Art I, ¶ 19. (Id. at 5)

Moreover, PEA asserts that to the extent petitioner challenges action which the Board might later take against her as a consequence of this grievance, and such action may implicate education law, petitioner's current appeal is premature. (Id.) Finally, PEA notes that, as of December 19, 2000, it has submitted an amended grievance to the Board which, significantly, seeks public reprimand and censure of petitioner as the sole form of relief, and the Commissioner should, therefore, "dissolve the permanent restraints in this matter as moot." (Id. at 5)

Upon careful review of the record, now supplemented pursuant to the plenary proceedings which followed the Order issued on April 3, 2000 temporarily enjoining the Board from taking further action in consideration of the within grievance, the Commissioner determines to set aside the Initial Decision of the ALJ. In so doing, he is persuaded by a more fully developed record that petitioner's main prayers for relief are either not properly addressed in this forum or are not ripe for adjudication. Consequently, he cannot reach petitioner's attendant Open Public Meetings Act (OPMA) claims.

The PEA brought before the Board a Grievance Report, initially filed on February 28, 2000, seeking petitioner's removal and stating, in pertinent part:

> The Association contends that Mrs. Settle's actions were in violation of Articles III, IV, IX, and other Articles and policies relevant to the instant matter. We further contend that her attendance at this conference was in direct violation of the established, Board approved, "Student Grievance Procedure" found in the student handbook. In addition we maintain that Mrs. Settle has once again overstepped her bounds as a Board Member and is in violation of the Code of Ethics ; and Applicability of the Code of Ethics  established for School Board members." (Petition of Appeal, Exhibit A at 1)

Although PEA recognized that, in most cases, it is an administrator, rather than a board member, who is the target of a grievance, PEA nonetheless reasoned that if an action can be brought against an administrator who is not a party to the collectively negotiated agreement for an alleged violation of the contract or Board's policies, then such an action should be viable against a Board member. (PEA Reply Brief, September 25, 2000 at 4) PEA viewed the filing of the grievance as its right under its collectively negotiated agreement (id.), which provides, in pertinent part, that:

> A grievance shall mean a complaint by a member of the negotiating unit that there has been to him a personal loss, injury, or inconvenience resulting from a violation, misinterpretation, or inequitable application of any of the provisions of this Agreement, Board policies, or administrative decisions affecting him. (Exhibit J-1, Agreement Between the Pennsville Education Association and the Pennsville Township Board of Education, July 1, 1997 – June 30, 2000 at 3)

Thus, with respect to petitioner's claims that the grievance is improperly directed at her, and that the Board is without the power to hear the grievance or discipline her pursuant thereto,[1] the Commissioner must concur with the PEA that this dispute is not properly before him, since he has no jurisdiction to enforce or interpret collective negotiations agreements. Vitacco, supra; Solomons v. Fair Lawn Bd. of Education, 1984 S.L.D. 384.[2]

Further, as to petitioner's demand that the Board be permanently enjoined from taking any disciplinary action against her because it is not authorized under N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1 to do so,[3] the Commissioner concurs with the PEA that petitioner's prayer for such relief is premature. Although petitioner's alleged violations were considered at the Board meeting held on March 27, 2000 as "a result of" the grievance filed against her by the PEA (Petition of Appeal at Exhibit B), the Board had not, on its own initiative, made any findings or taken any disciplinary action against petitioner which might be considered an exercise of its authority pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:11-1.[4] Neither, as the ALJ observes, had a complaint been filed against petitioner "pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 et seq." (Initial Decision at 10)

[1] The Petition of Appeal and accompanying Motion for Emergent Relief, requested, in pertinent part, "A. That the Pennsville Education Association's alleged grievance filed on February 28, 2000 be dismissed due to lack of jurisdiction, as well as lack of standing. B. That the Pennsville Board of Education be restrained from conducting any disciplinary hearing as a result of an improperly filed grievance against an improper party in interest. (Petition of Appeal at 8)

[2] Contrast, Frenchtown Education Association, supra, where there is no indication that the local education association's complaint about a board member's classroom visit was in the form of a grievance filed pursuant to its collective agreement, notwithstanding that it "protested these actions" before the board. Rather, when the board discussed the member's conduct and, perceiving no wrong, took no action, the association filed a Petition of Appeal alleging that the board member's action in visiting and observing a constituent member's classroom "was violative of the Board's own policy and N.J.S.A. 18A:25-7." (Frenchtown at 198, 199)

[3] Here, the Petition of Appeal and Motion for Emergent relief specifically request "D. That the Pennsville Board of Education be hereby enjoined from taking any disciplinary action against  Susan Settle, as they are not authorized under N.J.S.A. 18A:[11-1] to do so, and as petitioner has not violated any of the subsections of the N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24. E. That a declaratory judgment [be issued] that the Pennsville Board of Education is not statutorily empowered to exercise jurisdiction or to take such action." (Petition of Appeal at 8-9)

[4] Contrast, Crystal,supra, where the board, acting sua sponte upon a perceived violation, voted to censure Crystal for violating its policy prohibiting any board member from making a presentation regarding any board-related matter, or releasing information concerning the board's business, until that member has notified all other board members at least five days prior to the presentation or dissemination. Crystal,slip. op. at 4. Although petitioner alleged that the Board's decision to censure him was arbitrary and capricious, the ALJ therein concluded, and the

Therefore, there being no claim before him pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, the Commissioner finds that he cannot reach petitioner's allegations which arise under the OPMA, since the Commissioner's jurisdiction to address such violations "has been found to be ancillary – pendant to an equally or more significant related 'school law' issue."[5] Rovello, supra, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 313 (1993) at 316; Cheung v. Freehold Twp. Bd. of Education, 94 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 576 (1994)

Accordingly, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed, and the temporary Order of April 3, 2000 enjoining the Board from considering PEA's grievance is dissolved.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[6]

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning student filed an emergent petition seeking review of the NJSIAA's determination denying his application for waiver of the NJSIAA's eligibility standards. Petitioner sought a waiver of the NJSIAA's Academic Credit Rule, as he did not have the 13.75 passing grade credits required to participate in the spring baseball season on the Verona High School team because he failed his English course. Petitioner argued that his mother's illness, a circumstance beyond his control, caused his failure in English, and thus, that the Academic Credit Rule should have been waived by NJSIAA.

NJSIAA argued that its decision, absent a determination that it is arbitrary or capricious, must be affirmed, that it lacks the ability to change a student's grade and that petitioner failed to demonstrate that his failing grade was caused by circumstances beyond his control, which is a prerequisite to a determination by NJSIAA to waive its Academic Credit Rule.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the NJSIAA and dismissed the emergent petition, holding that the inability to participate in interscholastic sports does not constitute irreparable harm, and that petitioner did not demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits because he could not demonstrate that his failing grade was a circumstance beyond his control.

RESPONDENT.	:

For Petitioner: Christopher Wohlrabe, pro se

For Respondent: Steven P. Goodell, Esq. (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell)

This matter has come before the Commissioner of Education by way of an Emergent Petition filed on April 16, 2001, seeking a reversal of the decision of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association (NJSIAA) precluding him from participating as a member of the Verona High School baseball team during the 2000-2001 school year, and further seeking a waiver of the NJSIAA's eligibility standards. Respondent's Answer was filed on April 18, 2001, together with a complete record of the proceedings before the NJSIAA Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC). On April 19, 2001, petitioner filed a brief in support of his emergent petition. The NJSIAA filed its brief in opposition on April 25, 2001.

In accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.6(b), a grant of emergent relief is considered an extraordinary remedy that can only be issued upon a finding that petitioner has met the four-pronged standard set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982). The Crowe standard requires petitioner to demonstrate the following: that he will be irreparably harmed if not permitted to participate in interscholastic baseball games; that the legal right underlying petitioner's claim is settled; that petitioner has a substantial likelihood of prevailing on the merits of the claim; and that, in balancing the interests of the parties, the greater harm will be to petitioner should the requested relief not be granted.

The relevant facts in this matter are not disputed. Petitioner, a senior at Verona High School in the Verona Township School District, has been a member of the high school baseball team for the previous three years. In the fall semester of 2000, petitioner failed his English course. Therefore, petitioner did not have the 13.75 passing grade credits for the fall semester required by the NJSIAA's academic credit rule set forth in Article V, Section 4.E(2) of the Bylaws and Regulations in order to be eligible for high school athletics in the spring semester. On March 28, 2001, the principal of Verona High School contacted the Associate Director of the NJSIAA to request that the NJSIAA review petitioner's eligibility status. Although applications for waivers of the eligibility rules are usually heard initially by the NJSIAA Eligibility Committee, petitioner did not file his appeal in time for the Eligibility Committee to hear his case. Consequently, petitioner's appeal was heard by the Eligibility Appeals Committee (EAC), which has jurisdiction to hear appeals directly, on April 4, 2001. (NJSIAA's Brief at 2-3) At the hearing, petitioner presented evidence and testimony in support of his contention that he had failed his English course due to extenuating circumstances arising from his mother's illness. (Petitioner's Brief at 1)

By a unanimous vote, the EAC denied petitioner's request for a waiver of the Academic Credit Rule. A letter memorializing the decision was issued April 9, 2001.

PETITIONER'S POSITION

Petitioner argues that he will be irreparably harmed if preliminary injunctive relief is not granted because the spring sports season is already underway. Petitioner further argues that a waiver of the Academic Credit Rule would cause EAC no hardship, but that he would suffer the loss of the opportunity to play in his senior year and his mother would lose her last opportunity to watch him play. (Petitioner's Brief at 2)

Petitioner contends that the EAC's ruling denying the requested waiver is unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious because the determination contradicts itself. Petitioner notes that the EAC stated, through its attorney, that the purpose of the hearing was to determine whether petitioner's failure to reach a passing grade in English was due to circumstances beyond his control. In an apparent effort to illustrate that he had demonstrated that his failure to reach a passing grade in English was due to circumstances beyond his control, petitioner cites his testimony, and that of his cousin to the effect that:

> At the time I was at home, I obviously have to be concerned about schoolwork too, but when I'm at home an I'm with her, I'm a little more worried about her...
> He more would just have the emotional I think strain of just, you know, seeing his mother sick and just kind of wanting to be there, you know, making sure that she's not -- she doesn't need anything, and just letting her know he was there and kind of like watching her. You want to get every moment you can in with her because you never know when the last moment's going to be. (Id. at 3)

Petitioner also asserts that "the EAC's own split (5-4) decision[1] [proves] that there were extenuating circumstances out of Petitioner's control, and therefore, the waiver should have been granted." (Id. at 4) Instead of granting the waiver, however, petitioner asserts that the EAC

[1] Petitioner's reference is to a motion to grant eligibility based on extenuating circumstances that was defeated, four votes in favor, five opposed. (Tr. at 16) Following additional discussion, a subsequent motion denying petitioner's request for a waiver was passed unanimously. (Tr. at 18) acknowledged the extenuating circumstances of his mother's illness, but recommended that Verona High School consider addressing the grade with make-up work. (Id. at 5) Petitioner avers that this approach was unreasonable, arbitrary and capricious because: 1) the evidence establishes that extenuating circumstances have been present throughout petitioner's education, including his recent failure (id. at 4); and 2) the EAC's recommended remedy suggests an action that is out of petitioner's control. (Id. at 5) Moreover, submissions by petitioner's mother and her doctor, and the testimony offered at hearing, petitioner maintains, show that his mother's recurring bouts of metastatic breast cancer over the past 13 years have put emotional strain on him and his entire family. (Id. at 4) Petitioner, therefore, requests that the Commissioner stay the determination of the NJSIAA and grant petitioner a waiver of the eligibility requirements so that he can participate in the baseball season already in progress. (Id. at 6)

THE NJSIAA'S POSITION

In support of its decision denying petitioner's request for a waiver, the NJSIAA points to the academic credit rule set forth at Article V, Section 4.E of its Bylaws and Regulations, which states, in part:

> (2) To be eligible for athletic competition during the second semester (February 1 to June 30) of the 9th grade or higher, a pupil must have passed the equivalent of 12-½% of the credits (13.75) required by the State of New Jersey for graduation (110) at the close of the preceding semester (January 31). Full-year courses shall be equated as one-half of the total credits to be gained for the full year to determine credits passed during the immediately preceding semester. (NJSIAA's Brief at 2)

The NJSIAA submits that its policy is that it will not change a grade or credit where a school has refused to do so. As specified in its handbook:

> The NJSIAA does not establish grading policies or standards for granting credits. The local school's Board of Education has the exclusive authority to address such matters within the parameters > of the State Board of Education guidelines. Therefore, the NJSIAA will not waive, either the standards set by a member school or the minimum standards set forth in Article V. Section 4.E except as provided in Section 4.F(1). [NJSIAA Handbook (2000-2001, p. 44; Bylaws, Article V, Section 4E.2.) Emphasis in original.] (Ibid.)

Moreover, the NJSIAA maintains that petitioner was afforded all elements of due process wherein he was permitted to appear with counsel, present evidence and cross examine witnesses at an EAC hearing composed of educators with experience in the application of the NJSIAA eligibility rules. (Id. at 3)

NJSIAA*, 91 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 130 (1991), NJSIAA submits that failure to grant injunctive relief to petitioner will not result in irreparable harm because consistent court rulings have determined that participation in extracurricular sports is a privilege, not a right. (Id. at 4-6)

The NJSIAA further points out that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4, the Commissioner's review of NJSIAA decisions is appellate in nature. Thus, where due process has been granted and the decision of the NJSIAA is supported by sufficient credible evidence in the record, the Commissioner shall not substitute his or her judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if the Commissioner might judge differently in a de novo review. (Id. at 6-7) The NJSIAA contends that it provided petitioner due process when the EAC held a hearing wherein petitioner was permitted to present his arguments and witnesses, and notes that the proceedings and the vote were stenograpically recorded. (Id. at 7) The NJSIAA points out that, although Verona High School officials did not appeal to the Eligibility Committee, which meets at the beginning of each sports season, nor did they file their appeal to the EAC in a timely manner, the NJSIAA waived the 10-day filing requirement and scheduled a hearing for April 4, 2001. (Ibid.)

The NJSIAA posits that although the EAC sympathized with petitioner, it ultimately determined, after serious deliberation, that petitioner did not fail his English course as a result of circumstances beyond his control. (Id. at 8) Moreover, the NJSIAA argues, to the extent that the English teacher and the school believed that there were "extenuating circumstances" which affected petitioner's grade, the school should have taken remedial action after the grade had been awarded if it felt that the grade was awarded unfairly because "[i]t has never been within the Association's authority to remedy an inequitable grade." (Ibid.) See R.D., supra, and J.M.G., on behalf of minor son, J.G. v. NJSIAA, 0-3/98, Commissioner of Education Decision on Motion, April 24, 1998. (Id. at 8-9) The NJSIAA avers that its decision was made by educators who listened to all the evidence, discussed the matter and decided that the school could have reviewed the student's grade and, thus, the EAC's conclusion is entitled to due deference. (Id. at 10)

With respect to the relative hardship to the parties, the NJSIAA argues that granting relief to petitioner would be unfair to opposing teams whose athletes have met the eligibility standards, and that it would establish an unwise precedent of shifting responsibility for academic assessment from the school to the NJSIAA. In R.D., supra, the NJSIAA argues, the Commissioner addressed this issue and held that "the balance of equities and likelihood of success enured on behalf of NJSIAA, which has a greater interest in preserving academic standards for all participating students than the interests suggested by R.D. in seeking a waiver of the six-day academic credit rule because it is uncontested that R.D. failed sociology in his junior year." (Ibid.) The NJSIAA, therefore, maintains, that the relative hardships in this case similarly weigh against the granting of relief to the petitioner and requests that the Commissioner deny petitioner's Motion for Emergent Relief and dismiss the Petition. (Id. at 11)

DETERMINATION

Having carefully reviewed the record of proceedings before the NJSIAA,[2] as well as the legal arguments presented by the parties, the Commissioner determines to deny petitioner emergent relief and dismiss the petition.

In accordance with prior case law, the inability to participate in interscholastic sports, alone, does not constitute irreparable injury. Thus, petitioner cannot demonstrate irreparable harm merely because he is precluded from playing baseball, nor can he establish that a settled legal right is underlying his claim, Crowe, supra, at 133, where petitioner possesses no legal right to participate in such extracurricular activities. See Martin A. Domacasse v. Board of Education of the North Warren Regional School District, Warren County, decided by the Commissioner April 4, 1996, affirmed State Board April 17, 1996; Camden City Bd. of Ed. v. NJSIAA, unpublished decision of the Appellate Division, February 18, 1992 (Dkt. No. A-2802-91T2); and Burnside, supra.

Petitioner has also failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits of his claim. In this regard, the Commissioner recognizes that the NJSIAA is a voluntary association. In cases involving the Association, the Commissioner's scope of review is appellate.

[2] The record includes a transcript of the hearing before the EAC.

See N.J.S.A. 18A:11-3, N.J.A.C. 6A:3-7.4 and Board of Education of the City of Camden v. NJSIAA, supra. As such, he may not overturn an action by NJSIAA in applying eligibility rules absent a finding that the Association applied the rules in a patently arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable manner. B.C. v. Cumberland Reg. Sch. Dist., 220 N.J. Super. 214, 231-232 (App. Div. 1987). Further, the burden of proof that an action was so deficient rests with the person challenging the decision. Kopera v. West Orange Bd. of Education, 60 N.J. Super. 288, 297 (App. Div. 1960). Thus, the Commissioner may not substitute his judgment for that of the NJSIAA, even if he might judge otherwise in a de novo review. Dam Jin Koh and Hong Jun Kim v. NJSIAA, 1987 S.L.D. 259.

In the instant matter, the Commissioner finds that petitioner was provided the due process to which he was entitled and that the NJSIAA made every effort to assure a full, fair and timely hearing. A committee of educators convened to consider petitioner's request for a waiver of the NJSIAA's Academic Credit Rule. The EAC held a hearing at which Principal Thomas Valente, petitioner, and petitioner's cousin, Ms. Linda Lutz, appeared to testify on petitioner's behalf, and supportive letters from petitioner's mother, his mother's physician and petitioner's English teacher were admitted into the record. Upon review, the EAC fairly determined:

> Mr. Wohlrabe is in his senior year at Verona High School. His academic transcripts indicate that he failed Spanish II in his sophomore year and U.S. History I in his junior year. During the first semester of his senior year, he failed English IV and therefore did not achieve the requisite 13.75 credits to participate in sports during the spring semester. This student's mother has been diagnosed recently as having a reoccurrence of metastatic breast cancer. Chris struggled academically and emotionally. He testified that it was difficult to concentrate because of his mother's illness. His English teacher, Maria Meyer wrote a memo stating that he received a failing grade because of "missed work because of extenuating circumstances."

> The Committee could not grant a waiver of the Academic Credit Rule because it was not established that this student's academic failures were related to the illness of his mother. However, the Committee urges the school to re-evaluate the mark given to this student in English during the first semester. Since the teacher herself stated that she believed that the school should allow for additional course work to be taken so as to allow for the modification of the mid-year mark for the English course. If this were to occur, then this student will be eligible. However, the NJSIAA does not have the authority to modify a student's grade. That is within the sole prerogative of the school. (NJSIAA's April 9, 2001 Letter memorializing the EAC's decision of April 4, 2001)

The Commissioner further notes that petitioner has failed to demonstrate that the NJSIAA's determination that his failing grade in English was a circumstance which was within his control was arbitrary and capricious. A review of petitioner's transcript reveals that he has struggled academically all four years that he has been in high school, failing one class in each of the past three years, and that, with the exception of the grade in his English class, his grades in his senior year overall have surpassed those in his previous high school years. (Petitioner's High School Transcript, Exhibit 12) Moreover, petitioner does not serve in the role of primary caregiver for his mother. Ms. Lutz testified that there are nine children in the house and everybody has played a role in the care of petitioner's mother. (Tr. at 9) Thus, the Commissioner is unable to conclude, based on the testimony and evidence provided, that petitioner's failure to achieve a passing grade in English was the result of the resurgence of his mother's illness during his senior year.

Given the lack of evidence to support petitioner's claim that his failure was not within his control, and having been accorded due process in this matter, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has not established that the determination by the NJSIAA was arbitrary, capricious and unreasonable, so as to prevail on the merits of his claim.

The Commissioner further notes his concurrence with the NJSIAA's view that it is not within the NJSIAA's authority to remedy an allegedly inequitable grade. The authority for setting grading policies and the standards for the awarding of grades rests squarely within the school's jurisdiction. See R.D., supra, and J.M.G., supra. The English teacher, Ms. Marie Meyer, provided a letter in support of petitioner, which states:

> I would like you to reconsider your decision regarding Christopher Wohlrabe. As his English teacher, I am, of course, concerned about Christopher's academic achievement. While he did have a failing grade for the semester, it was the result of missed work because of extenuating circumstances. He did pass the first marking period and midterm exam, and since then has continued to do passing work, making significant progress on an independent research paper. I believe that Christopher will continue to do well for the remainder of the year, and the opportunity to participate in baseball will further encourage him. (Exhibit 11)

The NJSIAA has no authority to change the grade Ms. Meyer gave petitioner. It is the District's prerogative to take remedial action if it believes that petitioner missed work for reasons that should permit him to complete additional course work so as to allow for adjustment of the semester grade.

Finally, the Commissioner determines that the equities in this matter lie with the NJSIAA, since the issuance of a stay of its decision, under less than "truly extraordinary circumstances" may result not only in a weakening of the NJSIAA's Academic Credit Rule, but may also jeopardize, through participation of an ultimately ineligible player, the high school baseball team's position in interscholastic competition.

Accordingly, the Commissioner finds that petitioner has failed to meet the legal standard necessary to warrant the extraordinary remedy of emergent relief and, therefore, dismisses the Emergent Petition.

IT IS SO ORDERED. [3]

Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Vineland ("Petitioner"), through its Attorney, Robert A. DeSanto, Esq., (Robert A. DeSanto, appearing) and Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("Department"), through its attorney, the Honorable John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of the State of New Jersey (Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, appearing), hereby stipulate to the following terms of settlement:

1. On or about June 29, 2000, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the Department's determinations with respect to Petitioner's request for supplemental funding for the 2000-2001 school year under the Abbott v. Burke decisions and DOE regulations.

2. The Petition was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

3. The parties thereupon entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest.

4. Based on those discussions, the Department agrees that the Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional supplemental funding in the amount of $2,835,000.00 for the programs, services and/or positions set forth in the Appendix. This additional supplemental funding is restricted to fund only the programs, services and/or positions set forth in the Appendix. In the event that any portion of the additional supplemental funding is not expended during the current fiscal year ending June 30, 2001, that portion of the additional supplemental funding must be used to fund the programs, services and/or positions set forth in the Appendix during the 2001-2002 school year.

5. The Department agrees to provide Petitioner with additional supplemental funding in the amount of $2,835,000. Petitioner may anticipate revenue in the amount of $2,835,000 and record an accounts receivable in the 2000/2001 budget year of that same amount. The Vineland Board of Education is hereby authorized to borrow from any of its designated banks or lending institutions, such amounts up to the amount of the account receivable in order to provide cash for the fiscal year 2000/2001 needed to pay for the programs, services and/or positions set forth in the Appendix. The receipt of this additional amount of funds will occur in one-lump sum during the 2001-2002 budget year subject to appropriation in the FY 2002 Appropriations Act.

6. The Petitioner agrees to dismissal with prejudice of Petitioner's 2000-2001 Supplemental Funding appeal (OAL Docket No. EDUOT 06095-00S; Agency Ref. No. 235-6/00) pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

7. This Consent Order does not preclude Petitioner from applying for additional Abbott v. Burke state aid pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(f)

8. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT, WAIVER AND RELEASE

The State-Operated School District of the City of Newark ("Newark" or "District") and Catherine Austin ("Petitioner" or "Austin") agree to the following terms in full resolution of this matter:

WHEREAS, Austin disputes the basis for the increment withholding for the 1997-1998 school year, and

WHEREAS, Austin retired was approved for disability retirement effective November 1, 1999; and

WHEREAS, the parties further agree that it is in the public interest to enter into this agreement in resolution of said charges in order to avoid the uncertainty and expense of litigation.

NOW, THEREFORE, the parties agree as follows:

1. The District agrees to restore Austin's 1997-1998 increment and to reflect Ms. Austin as having retired in good standing effective November 1, 1999.

2. Upon approval of this Agreement, Austin will withdraw her petition of the 1997-1998 increment withholding and the above-captioned matter, with prejudice.

3. This agreement is subject to the approval of the State District Superintendent.

The parties enter this agreement voluntarily and without coercion, after consultation with their respective counsel.

HEARING OF HARRY INDAR,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
STATE-OPERATED SCHOOL DISTRICT	:	DECISION
OF THE CITY OF JERSEY CITY,	:
HUDSON COUNTY	:

For Petitioner: Ken Iwama, Esq. (Assistant General Counsel, Jersey City School District)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on April 5, 2001 through the certification of tenure charges by the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City against respondent, a tenured teacher, for chronic and/or excessive absenteeism, unbecoming conduct, insubordination and other just cause; and

The respondent, having been served, via regular and certified mail, with a copy of the charges, the Board's resolution, the Statement of Evidence and the Certificate of Determination on February 14, 2001; and

The Commissioner, having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on April 5, 2001, to file an Answer to the tenure charges certified against him; and

Whereas, such communications clearly provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified "shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges with the Commissioner," and that failure to answer within the prescribed period will, absent granting of an extension for good cause shown, result in the charges being deemed admitted; and

Whereas, the April 5, 2001 communication sent to respondent via certified mail was returned to the Commissioner on April 23, 2001, marked "Unclaimed"; and

Whereas, no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the tenure charges and the statement of evidence in support of those charges indicates that respondent in the past two and one-half years has been absent for more than one and one-half school years, not having reported for duty this current school year, thus making him absent during this school year for approximately 100 days as of February 13, 2001; and

Whereas, respondent was absent during the 1999-2000 school year an approximate total of 164 days and during the 1998-1999 school year approximately 28 days; and

Whereas, respondent's salary and adjustment increments were withheld for the 2000-2001 school year for excessive absenteeism and unsatisfactory performance during the preceding school year; and

Deeming such tenure charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has not replied to the specific allegations contained therein, either to the Commissioner or the state district superintendent, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute chronic and excessive absenteeism, warranting dismissal from his tenured position as teacher; now, therefore

IT IS SO ORDERED this 7th day of May that summary decision shall be granted to petitioner, and Harry Indar shall be dismissed as of the date of this order from his tenured position as teacher in the employ of the State-Operated School District of the City of Jersey City.*

Accordingly, this matter shall be forwarded to the State Board of Examiners, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, for action as it deems appropriate.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning teaching staff member alleged that respondent Board Member Witty invaded her privacy and abused his authority by accessing her personnel records, and that the respondent Board arbitrarily and capriciously refused to sanction Witty. Respondents denied the allegations and raised as affirmative defenses that the petition was untimely and that the relief requested was outside the scope of the Commissioner's jurisdiction.

The ALJ concluded that the petition was timely filed, but dismissed it because the Commissioner lacks jurisdiction over the subject matter of the petition, holding that the Commissioner has jurisdiction over boards of education and board members only when applying specific school laws.

The Assistant Commissioner, to whom this case was delegated for decision, generally affirmed the ALJ's determination that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction over the issues raised, and the relief sought, in the petition. However, the Assistant Commissioner clarified that he did have jurisdiction over this matter to the extent that petitioner raised issues of a board member's authority and sought a declaration that the Board must ensure that access to personnel records by board members is restricted to conform with past decisions of the Commissioner. The Assistant Commissioner reminded respondent Board and all boards of education of their obligation to restrict access to personnel files by board members in conformance with applicable decisions of the Commissioner.

BEFORE MARGARET M. HAYDEN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner teaching staff member charged member of respondent Board of Education abused his authority by accessing staff member's personnel records and charged Board's failure to sanction Board member as arbitrary and capricious. The respondent denied the allegations but affirmatively defended that the petition was untimely and failed to state a claim upon which relief could be granted and the relief was beyond the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education. The Department of Education asked for briefs on the jurisdictional issues. On October 6, 2000, the Bureau of Controversies and Disputes of the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for further proceeding without prejudice to the jurisdictional arguments of petitioner or the Board.

On January 3, 2001, the respondents moved to dismiss the petition for failure to state a claim, untimeliness, and lack of jurisdiction. On January 9, 2001, petitioner filed a brief and opposition to the motion. On January 18, 2001, respondents filed a reply brief.

FACTS

For purposes of this motion to dismiss, the facts pled by petitioner in the verified petition will be taken as the operative FACTS.

1) Petitioner has been employed by respondent Bloomingdale Board of Education (Board) as a teaching staff member since 1970.

2) Respondent Gerald Witty (Witty) is an individual member of the Board.

3) The Board maintains a personnel file regarding the employment service and performance of the petitioner.

4) On or about May 8, 2000, the petitioner learned that Witty had reviewed her personnel file to determine if certain information had been placed in it at the request of a parent.

5) Upon information and belief, the petitioner alleges that Witty conveyed information regarding his review of her personnel file to the parent.

6) At the time Witty reviewed petitioner's personnel file, there were not employment actions pending that would permit Witty's access to a confidential personnel file.

7) By letter dated June 30, 2000, a representative of the petitioner wrote to the Board requesting an investigation of Witty's access to the petitioner's personnel file.

8) By letter dated July 10, 2000, Board counsel responded by stating "The administration has looked into this matter and is unable to ascertain the veracity of [the] allegations" but that "Board members and administrative staff have been re-instructed as to the confidentiality due to personnel records."

ISSUES

The issues to be decided in this motion is whether the petition is untimely, whether the Commissioner have jurisdiction over claims against individual Board members and whether the petition comes within the jurisdiction of the Commissioner of Education.

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

Timeliness of the Petition

To initiate a contested action before the Department of Education concerning a controversy or dispute arising under the school laws, a petitioner must file a petition of appeal and serve it in accordance with N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.1 to 1.5. The petitioner must file the petition no later than "the 90th day from the date of receipt of the notice of a final order, ruling, or other action by the District Board of Education, individual party, or agency, which is the subject of the requested contested case hearing." N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d).

In this case it is undisputed that the petitioner filed her petition on July 25, 2000. Moreover, petitioner learned of Witty's unauthorized access to her personnel file on or about May 8, 2000. The Board responded to petitioner's request to investigate the matter by letter dated July 10, 2000. All of these dates are within 90 days of the July 25, 2000 filing date. Respondent's argument that Witty's access to personnel file could have taken place years prior is merely speculation and contrary to the requirement of the motion to dismiss to take the pleadings as truth. The Board's July 10, 2000 letter concerning its response to the request for an investigation is sufficient alone for a timely filing under N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d). As the facts pled show that the petition concerns matters that took place within 90 days of filing of the petition, I CONCLUDE that the petition is timely.

The Commissioner of Education has jurisdiction to hear and determine all disputes arising under the school laws. N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. Petitioner seeks a finding by the Commissioner that Witty, an individual school Board member, violated her reasonable expectation of privacy by looking in her personnel file. Petitioner conceded that no specific school law governs teachers' personnel files but argued that she has a reasonable expectation of privacy of that file, which might be a constitutional right or a common law right. The search of a teacher's desk by a school Board member has been held to constitute a Fourth Amendment violation giving rise to a federal civil rights law suit under §1983. Gillard v. Schmidt, 579 F. 2d 825, 827 (3d Cir. 1978). Thus, petitioner argues that under the Commissioner's general supervisory powers, N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23, the Commissioner has the jurisdiction to hear this dispute.

Board members are either elected or appointed to their local or regional board and serve without compensation. N.J.S.A. 18A:12-4. Board of Educations are separate body politics established by the legislature. See N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 to –20. Neither the Commissioner nor the State Board of Education has an all-encompassing power to discipline or remove Board members. In general removal for statutory causes under N.J.S.A. 18A:12-3 are done in Superior Court. Waldor v. Untermann, 10 N.J. Super. 188 (App. Div. 1950). The School Ethics Act, N.J.S.A. 18A:12-21 to –34, provides both standards to guide School Board members' conduct as well as a disciplinary mechanism pertaining to the acts enumerated in N.J.S.A. 18A:12-24. Nowhere in that Act is there a provision for making a complaint for an alleged violation of a constitutional or a common law right. I CONCLUDE that the school laws do not make the Commissioner a general supervisor of the individual members of a School Board unless applying a specific school law. Thus, I CONCLUDE that respondent Witty must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction as the complaint of violation of privacy does not arise under the school laws. Any relief for any civil tort or constitutional right violation must be sought in the appropriate forum.

The petitioner also seeks a finding that the Board acted arbitrary and capriciously in its response to the teacher's request for an investigation of the alleged invasion of privacy. Once again petitioner asks the Commissioner to act under the general supervision powers rather than invoking a specific law giving the Commissioner the power to discipline a Board member or oversee how the Boards discipline their members. The petitioner does not cite and I am unable to locate any authority for the proposition that the Commissioner or the State Board of Education can order a School Board to investigate a civil tort or constitutional violation by a School Board member. While the power of the Commissioner is broad, it is not unlimited. Such oversight of every action of the local board, as oppose to just oversight of the school laws, is not contemplated by the power given to the Commissioner. Based on the foregoing, I CONCLUDE that the petition against the School Board must be dismissed for lack of jurisdiction.

ORDER

Based on the foregoing, I ORDER that the petition action against Witty and the Board is hereby DISMISSED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

DEBORAH E. CIAMBRONE,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
GERALD WITTY AND THE BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF BLOOMINGDALE, PASSAIC COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENTS.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and respondents' reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner advances three exceptions to the Administrative Law Judge's (ALJ) dismissal of this matter for lack of Commissioner of Education jurisdiction over the issues raised. Petitioner first charges that, in reaching such a conclusion with respect to board member access to personnel files, the ALJ employed "a flawed, rigid and mechanistic application of N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9," and compounded this error by failing to consider, apply, or even acknowledge the specific decisions of the Commissioner that form the basis of petitioner's claims. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1, 2) Citing Horner v. Kingsway Regional High School District Bd. of Ed., 1990 S.L.D. 752 and Witchel v. Cannici et al., 1966 S.L.D. 159, petitioner advances that the Commissioner has made it abundantly clear that board member access to personnel files is strictly circumscribed to those instances where "the employee is being recommended for or subjected to an employment action requiring a Board vote or when access is necessary for the performance of essential duties." (Id. at 2) These standards, petitioner urges, are viewed "as 'flowing from basic rights and responsibilities of board members.' Horner, supra at 767" (Id. at 2) Consequently, she observes that acceptance of the ALJ's determination in this regard leaves us with the anomaly that the Commissioner of Education is without the authority to enforce the very personnel file access standards which he created. That there may be no education statute or regulation which specifically sets forth these standards is of no import, petitioner submits, as they were established through case law, which is equally enforceable and applicable to all school districts. Furthermore, petitioner avers, the jurisdiction of the Commissioner has never been restricted solely to violations of education law and regulation but, rather, "attaches when issues involve the expertise of the agency or other matters involving the operation and supervision of local school district[s]." (Ibid.)

Petitioner cites Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Bd. of Ed., 77 N.J. 514, (1978); Desilets v. Clearview Regional Bd. of Ed., 137 N.J. 585 (1994); and Red Bank Bd. of Ed. v. Warrington et al., 138 N.J. Super. 564 (App. Div. 1976) for the proposition that the authority of the Commissioner, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, has been given "great breadth" by the New Jersey courts and has been found to encompass issues of educational policy and pedagogical goals, issues not necessarily linked to a particular statute or regulation but which involved the review of local school district actions. (Id. at 2-3) Petitioner, therefore, maintains that, in light of the courts' broad interpretation of the Commissioner's jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9, along with the fact that the Commissioner has delineated those specific instances where board members may access personnel records -- rulings which arose by virtue of his particular expertise in the oversight of local boards of education -- these restrictions have become part of the "broadly-defined school laws," and controversies associated with them are properly adjudicated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (Ibid.)

In response to this exception, respondents submit that petitioner's arguments are no more than a defective attempt to camouflage her common law privacy issue here as a school law controversy. Respondents advance that N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 delineates the jurisdictional authority of the Commissioner: "[t]he Commissioner shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine . . . all controversies and disputes arising under the school laws." (Respondents' Reply Exceptions at 2) While conceding that the New Jersey courts have broadly interpreted the authority of the Commissioner, respondents argue that it is also evident that these courts have, at the same time, made it clear that such authority is not unlimited, stating:

> The Commissioner of Education only has jurisdiction over disputes "primarily" and "directly" arising under the school laws. Board of Educ. of Hamilton v. Fraleigh, 93 N.J.A.R. 2d (EDU) 538. In general, "school law" disputes are limited to those arising under Title 18A. Fair Lawn Bd. of Educ. v. Mayor of Fair Lawn, 143 N.J. Super. 259, 266 (Law Div. 1976), aff'd, 153 N.J. Super. 480 (App. Div. 1977). As explicitly stated by the Supreme Court of New Jersey, "[w]here the controversy does not arise under the school laws, it is outside the Commissioner's jurisdiction even though it may pertain to school personnel." Board of Educ. of E. Brunswick v. Township Council of E. Brunswick, 48 N.J. 94, 102 (1966). Further, where the subject matter of the dispute does not call for any particular administrative expertise, the Commissioner of Education also cannot invoke jurisdiction. Board of Educ. of Hamilton v. Fraleigh, 93 N.J.A.R.2d (EDU) 538. (emphasis in text) (Respondents' Reply Exceptions at 2-3)

Here, respondents argue, the controversy "does not 'primarily' and 'directly' arise under the school laws," rather it is a constitutional issue, i.e., petitioner's reasonable expectation of privacy in her personnel file. (emphasis in text) (Id. at 3) At best, respondents advance, petitioner's claim is only tangentially related to school law in that the underlying conduct at issue is alleged to have involved a Board member. Although she may have a cause of action under the Fourth Amendment or in common law tort, petitioner cannot credibly claim that her underlying dispute arises under Title 18A or requires the particular expertise of the Commissioner of Education to adjudicate. (Ibid). Respondents further profess that petitioner's citation to decisions of the Commissioner and her attempt to position this matter under the Commissioner's general supervisory power over boards of education in New Jersey is misguided. "[T]he operative question is not whether the Commissioner has supervisory powers over the board, but rather, whether Petitioner's allegations of invasion of privacy 'primarily' and 'directly' arise under the school laws." (Id. at 4) They charge that petitioner has failed to cite any precedent which would compel that the Commissioner examine such a claim and, therefore, urge that the ALJ's recommended disposition be affirmed.

Petitioner's second exception objects to the dismissal of her claim against Witty as a result of the ALJ's determination that the Commissioner lacked jurisdiction over individual board members absent the involvement of a particular school law. Such a conclusion is defective, petitioner submits, as it again evidences an unduly narrow view of the school laws and is contrary to a number of decisions of the Commissioner rendered over time. Initially in this regard, petitioner posits that, as a Board member, Witty's position and authority derive from N.J.S.A. 18A:12-1 et seq. and, therefore, his actions, particularly if contrary to or independent of the Board, could constitute a dispute arising under the school laws. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 4) Petitioner further cites a number of Commissioner decisions dealing with issues such as allegations of a conflict of interest in appointing an individual as an employee, conflict of interest based upon financial interest, appointment of a board member in violation of law, violations of the Open Public Meetings Act, and failure to renew a contract of employment, which she claims have involved board members in their individual capacity. (Ibid.) Finally, petitioner argues that, in his capacity as a Board member, "Witty took an oath 'to faithfully discharge the duties of [his] office[.]' N.J.S.A. 18A:12-2.1(1)." Willfully violating the established standards for accessing personnel records, she charges, is a violation of that oath and should, therefore, be heard by the Commissioner pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (Id. at 5)

In rejoinder, respondents again argue that petitioner cites no authority in support of her contention that this matter arises under education law, thereby compelling adjudication by the Commissioner of Education. "[T]he Commissioner cannot assert jurisdiction over Witty in his individual capacity to resolve a privacy claim." (Respondents' Reply Exceptions at 5) At issue here, respondents maintain, is not a controversy encompassed within N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9 but, rather, merely a teacher's personal disagreement with an individual member of the Board, an issue which is not amenable to resolution before the Commissioner. (Ibid.) Respondents assert that the ALJ rightly concluded "that 'the school laws do not make the Commissioner a general supervisor of the individual members of a School Board unless applying a specific school law.'" (Id. at 7)

Petitioner's third exception disputes the ALJ's finding that the Commissioner does not have jurisdiction over her claims against the Board. She submits that, for the reasons previously argued herein, her primary claim concerning Board Member Witty's improper behavior with respect to personnel records is justiciable before the Commissioner. Similarly, her claim against the Board that it failed to adequately investigate Witty's behavior and take any action in response to his misconduct is equally cognizable before the Commissioner. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 5) Petitioner advances that, as this matter was decided pursuant to respondents' Motion to Dismiss, all factual allegations in her Petition of Appeal were deemed admitted for purposes of this motion. Therefore, it must be assumed that Witty did review petitioner's personnel file, with the only outstanding issue being whether he had a right to do so. (Ibid.) Additionally, again for purposes of the Motion to Dismiss, it must be accepted that the Board was apprised of the behavior of its member and failed to take action against him. (Ibid.) Petitioner tenders that pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23 and N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-5, the Commissioner has the responsibility to oversee the activities of school boards and their members. She claims that the actions of both Witty and the Board constitute an abuse of their power which requires that the Commissioner of Education exercise his supervisory authority to insure that such abuse does not reoccur. As such, petitioner contends, this is a controversy and dispute arising under the school laws which establishes jurisdiction pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (Id. at 6) Petitioner further observes that "[c]ases such as Gillard v. Schmidt, 579 F.2d 825, 829 [3rd Cir. 1978], have established that New Jersey school employees have a legitimate expectation of privacy as to searches of the workplace by board members. It is the violation of this confidentiality that is to be examined by the Commissioner." (Id. at 7)

In reply, respondents aver that, although petitioner is charging that the Commissioner's general supervisory power pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-23 converts this matter to a school law issue and grants him jurisdiction over both respondents, the legal authority cited by petitioner in support of her contention wholly belies her argument that this case arises under school laws. Rather, respondents argue, the contention confirms respondents' contention that this dispute is, in reality, "a constitutional claim or common law tort for the invasion of a privacy right." (Respondents' Reply Exceptions at 8) Specifically, respondents emphasize petitioner's citation to Gillard, supra, "for the proposition that 'New Jersey school employees have a legitimate expectation of privacy as to searches of the workplace by board members.'" (Ibid.)

Of import here, respondents posit, is that Gillard was a civil case brought in Federal court pursuant to 42 U.S.C. §1983 and the Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution "premised upon an unreasonable search that violated Gillard's reasonable expectations of privacy," not a controversy or dispute pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-9. (Id. at 9) For this and all of the previously discussed reasons, respondents urge that the Commissioner affirm the Initial Decision of the ALJ.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter and thorough consideration of the parties' exception arguments, the Assistant Commissioner, to whom this matter has been delegated pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:4-34, determines to affirm the conclusion of the ALJ, as clarified below.

Initially, with respect to what petitioner categorizes as her "primary" claim and prayer for relief, i.e., a finding or declaration that Board Member Witty violated petitioner's reasonable expectation of privacy with regard to her personnel record, the Assistant Commissioner concurs with the ALJ, and with the arguments advanced by respondents, that such issue is not properly before the Commissioner and must be dismissed. Similarly, to the extent that petitioner is seeking a directive from the Commissioner that the Board must sanction or take action against one of its members, the Assistant Commissioner likewise agrees with the ALJ that, even assuming that the alleged conduct occurred as charged, a directive of the type sought by petitioner is outside the jurisdictional purview of the Commissioner and, therefore, this request must be dismissed.

However, to the extent that petitioner's claim arises under standards embodied in prior rulings of the Commissioner concerning the scope of an individual board member's authority, in his or her official capacity, to access personnel files, and to the extent that petitioner seeks as relief a directive that the Board herein ensure that access by individual Board members is restricted in accordance with those standards, the Assistant Commissioner agrees with petitioner that this matter is appropriately before the Commissioner. The Commissioner has previously determined that board member access to personnel files "should be strictly limited to those instances where the employee is being recommended for or subjected to an employment action requiring a vote of the Board or where access to personnel information is necessary for the performance of essential Board members duties." Horner, supra, at 766-67. Thus, it is clearly a board's responsibility to ensure that access by board members, in their individual capacity, is confined within established parameters, and the Assistant Commissioner so reminds the Board herein.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision of the OAL is affirmed as clarified above and the within Petition of Appeal is dismissed. This Board, and all boards, are reminded of their responsibility to take such actions as may be necessary to ensure compliance with the Commissioner's established parameters regarding the extent of board member access to district personnel files.

IT IS SO ORDERED.*

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF NORTH ARLINGTON, BERGEN COUNTY, PETITIONER,
V.	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
M.E., parent of minor children, C.E. AND J.E., RESPONDENT.	DECISION

For Petitioner: Ellen Marie Walsh, Esq. (Fogarty & Hara)

This matter, having been brought before the Commissioner of Education by the Board of Education of the Borough of North Arlington (Board) by way of a Petition of Appeal filed on February 7, 2001, requesting that respondent be ordered to pay the Board tuition in the amount of $5,148.00; and

Whereas, respondent parent, M.E., having been served with the petition by the Board by regular mail on February 5, 2001; and

Whereas, the Commissioner having sent respondent notice on February 7, 2001, directing that an Answer to the petition be submitted pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5; and

Whereas, the Commissioner having notified respondent by regular and certified mail on March 1, 2001, that if an Answer was not submitted, each count of the petition would be deemed admitted and the matter would then be decided on a summary judgment basis pursuant to the Commissioner's authority granted by N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.5(e); and

Whereas, the March 1, 2001 communication sent to respondent via certified mail was returned to the Commissioner marked "Unclaimed," notices having been sent to respondent by the Post Office on March 3, March 8 and March 18, 2001; and

Whereas, the March 1, 2001 communication sent to respondent via regular mail was not returned and, therefore, there is no indication that respondent did not receive such communication; and

Whereas, neither the respondent, nor any attorney on her behalf, has filed an Answer to the charges against her; thus, each count of the charges against respondent having been deemed to be admitted; and

Whereas, the Commissioner's review of the petition indicates that; (1) respondent's sons, C.E. and J.E., attended the Board's Washington Elementary School commencing with the beginning of the school year in September 2000; (2) following the start of school in September, the principal of the Washington School began to suspect that C.E. and J.E. were not residing at 190 Prospect Avenue, North Arlington, as respondent claimed, but with respondent's mother in Morris Plains; (3) the Board's investigation confirmed that respondent and her children were not domiciled in North Arlington during the months of September, October and November 2000 and that respondent had submitted a false document, allegedly from her landlord James Fletcher, verifying that she and her children lived at 190 Prospect Avenue, but found that Mr. Fletcher was not the registered owner of that property; and (4) the Board determined that respondent and her children established domicile in North Arlington on or about December 1, 2000, by virtue of their move into a property located at 124 Biltmore Avenue, North Arlington, but that they were not domiciled in the District prior to that date; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted in the absence of an Answer being submitted by respondent, the Commissioner finds that respondent's sons were ineligible, pursuant to the provisions of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1, to attend school free of charge in the North Arlington School District for the period of time of September through November 2000 as set forth by the Board herein; now, therefore,

IT IS ORDERED on this 7th day of May 2001, that summary decision shall be granted to the Board of Education of the Borough of North Arlington and that respondent shall pay tuition in the amount of $5,148.00, as requested by the Board, for the period of time in which her sons, C.E. and J.E., were ineligible for a free education in the North Arlington School District.

With respect to the Board's request for an award of counsel's fees, I find that, in the absence of express statutory authority to award counsel fees, I may not direct that the Board be compensated for legal fees in this matter. *See B.B., on behalf of her son, L.C. v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY,

Petitioner,

v.

CHARLES KASKA,

Respondent.

Thomas W. Sumners, Esq., for petitioner (Sumners, George & Dortch, attorneys)

Michael J. Herbert, Esq., for respondent (Herbert, Van Ness, Cayci & Goodell, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 4, 2001 Decided: April 6, 2001

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

This matter arises from the filing of tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education on August 31, 1999, by The Trenton Board of Education ("petitioner") against Charles Kaska ("respondent") alleging unbecoming conduct, excessive absenteeism, insurobdination and other just cause. The allegations are contained in a Statement of Tenure Charges filed with the Commissioner of Education dated August 10, 1999. The matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law on September 20, 1999, for a hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

The parties agreed to settle the matter and prepared a Stipulation of Settlement, which was incorporated into an Initial Decision dated August 9, 2000. On September 25, 2000, the Commissioner issued a decision rejecting the settlement and remanded the matter to the OAL in order to allow the parties to amend the settlement to incorporate reference to the Commissioner's duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer the matter to the State Board of Examiners for consideration of possible action against respondent's certificate. This statement has been incorporated into an amended settlement agreement attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and the settlement terms and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy in this administrative forum and is consistent with the law.

This matter is referred to the Commissioner with approval of the terms of the settlement and with the understanding that although the parties have expressed their recommendation to the administrative law judge and the Commissioner that the matter not be referred to the Board of Examiners, the undersigned administrative law judge takes no position with respect to that recommendation and the settlement is not contingent upon the determination of the Commissioner regarding referral of the matter to the Board of Examiners.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF DR. CHARLES KASKA, BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE CITY OF TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION, STATE OF NEW JERSEY AGENCY DOCKET NO. 264-8/99 OAL DOCKET NO.EDUTH 8172-99S Remanded to OAL DOCKET NO. EDUTH 8823-00S AMENDED SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement is made between the Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Trenton, Mercer County ("Board"), and the Respondent, Charles Kaska ("Respondent").

WHEREAS, the Board filed tenure charges with the Commissioner of Education, Agency Docket No. 264-8/99, OAL Docket No. EDUTH 8172-99S; and

WHEREAS, the tenure charges allege conduct unbecoming by the Respondent during the 1998-99 school year as follows:

1. Excessive absenteeism, totaling 53 days;

2. Failure to attend scheduled Child Study Team Roundtable Meetings covering the time period December 1998 to June 1999;

3. Failure to prepare psychological evaluations; and

4. Psychological examination reports were prepared by another member of his Child Study Team who is a certified School Psychologist.

WHEREAS, the Respondent has denied all of the allegations against him and has physician letters excusing him from work and attending Child Study Team Roundtab[1] Meetings;

WHEREAS, the parties recognize that there are strengths and weaknesses with respect to their respective positions; and

WHEREAS, the parties have agreed to an expeditious resolution of this matter intended to save both parties the cost and uncertainty of continued litigation;

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, the parties agree to resolve the within matter based upon the following terms:

1. Petitioner agrees to dismiss the tenure charges against the Respondent.

2. Respondent shall not be reimbursed any salary withheld from him during his 120 days suspension without pay following certification of these tenure charges.

3. Respondent agrees not to be returned to the payroll following the expiration of the 120 days suspension without pay following the certification of these tenure charges.

4. Respondent agrees to submit a letter of retirement effective September 1, 2000.

5. Respondent will be entitled to any benefits afforded to retirees under the collective bargaining agreement between the Board and the Trenton Education Association including, but not limited to, health insurance benefits and payment of 55 sick days (one-third of his accumulated personal business and sick days), unless expressly waived by Respondent in this agreement.

6. The parties agree and covenant that neither they, nor any person, organization, or other entity on their behalf will file any charge, claim, and/or lawsuit against the other based upon any facts set forth in the tenure charges or any facts arising from the tenure charges.

7. Petitioner and Respondent expressly acknowledge that they have agreed to each and every term of this agreement, that each of the terms and conditions of this agreement have been fully explained and that the execution of this agreement is being made voluntarily, knowingly, and with the advice of counsel.

8. All the terms of this agreement are deemed material.

9. The parties understand that this agreement is contingent upon the approval of Administrative Law Judge Jeff S. Masin and the Commissioner of Education, and if such approval is denied, the terms and contents of this agreement shall not be admissible in any legal administrative proceeding of any nature, and will be without prejudice to their positions in such proceedings, and that in such event, the parties may again attempt to settle this matter in a manner which is satisfactory to the Commissioner of Education.

10. Respondent understands that the Commissioner of Education has the duty, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6, to refer tenure decisions to the State Board of Examiners for its consideration of possible revocation of his certificate.

11. The parties request that the tenure hearing be held in abeyance in order to obtain the approval of this settlement agreement by Administrative Law Judge Masin and the Commissioner of Education.

12. The petitioner represents that the tenure charges that are being dismissed by the within settlement do not involve any charges of child abuse, sexual harassment, any crimin[illegible] acts, including theft; or any conduct that would constitute moral turpitude. Accordingly, the petitioner recommends to Administrative Law Judge Masin and the Commissioner of Education that this matter not be referred to the Board of Examiners for any further proceedings, consistent with N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.6.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have caused this agreement to be duly executed on this 29th day of March, 2001.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF CHARLES KASKA,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
TRENTON, MERCER COUNTY.	:	DECISION ON REMAND

The record, Amended Settlement Agreement, and Initial Decision on Remand issued by the Office of Administrative Law, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon review, the Commissioner approves the settlement, which was amended consistent with the decision of September 25, 2000, since they comport with the Cardonick standards for review of settlements in tenure matters and adopts the settlement as the final decision in this matter. See In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846 decided by the Commissioner April 7, 1982, aff'd State Board April 6, 1983; N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a).

The matter is hereby dismissed, subject to the parties' compliance with the terms of the settlement. A copy of this decision will be transmitted to the State Board of Examiners for action as it deems appropriate.*

IT IS SO ORDERED.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

Date of Decision: MAY 09 2001

Date of Mailing: MAY 09 2001

* The Commissioner duly notes on page 4 of the Amended Settlement Agreement petitioner's "recommendation" that the matter not be referred to the State Board of Examiners, a recommendation which he rejects. As held by the State Board of Education in its recent decisions in In re Lenore M. Allen, decided November 1, 2000, and In re Zena Mitchell, decided March 7, 2001, the Commissioner has a duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners. This is true even in the absence of any allegation of moral turpitude or criminal wrong doing, or other wrongful behavior such as set forth in term 12 of the settlement herein. See In re Jerry Barshatky, decided by the State Board of Education, May 1, 1996.

Michael C. Damm, Esq., for petitioner/Complainant (Selikoff & Cohen, attorneys)

Kim C. Belin, Esq., for respondent (Capehart & Scatchard, attorneys)

BEFORE M. KATHLEEN DUNCAN, ALJ:

This matter involves the motion of petitioner/complainant to consolidate the above-captioned cases and to determine predominant interest pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.5.

Respondent's motion and supporting papers were filed on February 8, 2001. A letter memorandum in opposition to the motion was filed on behalf of respondent on February 27, 2001. A reply brief in further support of the motion was filed on March 8, 2001.

In the case before the Commissioner of Education, petitioner asserts that the Board of Education of Haddon Township violated her tenure and seniority rights by refusing to reinstate her to a full-time position upon her request. Petitioner, a tenured teacher, had been granted a leave of absence without pay for medical reasons. When petitioner returned to teaching, respondent had accommodated her request to return to work on a reduced schedule of three days per week. On March 28, 2000, petitioner advised respondent in writing as follows:

> I would like to submit in writing my request to work five days a week as art teacher for Jennings, Stoy and Strawbridge Schools for the year 2000 and 2001. My health has been renewed and I am now ready to resume the position I held before my illness.

Respondent superintendent replied by letter dated March 29, 2000, as follows:

> This correspondence is in response to your letter, hand delivered to me yesterday by Mrs. Surplus, requesting the opportunity to return to work five days per week as an art teacher for the district.
>
> There is no opening for another full-time elementary art teacher in the district. The elementary art schedule calls for 2.1 art teachers. This allows for full art instruction while meeting HTEA contractual obligations with respect to prep time. The current personnel configuration of Beth Nice (1.0), Ellen Hargrove (.5) and yourself (.6) meets the district's obligation.
>
> In reviewing your years of teaching experience in Haddon Township, I am aware that in August 1998, Mr. McGovern recommended that the Board of Education approve your request to return to work three days a week (.6).
>
> Trish, I am very pleased that your health has been renewed. In the event that another full-time art position becomes available, you will be given every consideration.

Petitioner claims that her tenure and seniority rights entitle her to reclaim her full-time position, commencing with school year 2000-2001.

In the matter pending before the Division on Civil Rights, complainant alleges that respondent's proffered reason for failing to return her to full-time status is pretextual and that respondent discriminated against her because of her age (54 years old) and perceived handicapped (intestinal disorder/depression) by assigning her previous duties to a non-handicapped, younger co-worker, Ellen Hargrove.

Although it is not entirely clear from respondent's papers in opposition to the motion or from the comments of counsel during a telephone conference call on March 15, 2001, to discuss consolidation and predominant interest, it appears that respondent is asserting that some sort of restructuring of the art department was necessitated for educational reasons. At page 14 of its letter memorandum, respondent states, "In fact, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9 states that not even tenure rights can limit the right of a board of education to reduce its staff for reasons of economy, reduction in the number of pupils, change in administrative or supervisory organization of the district, or other good cause. There is no exception for employees who may be out on a leave of absence." If it is respondent's position that petitioner is no longer entitled to a full-time position because of a reduction in force (RIF) pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9, then the facts necessary for determining whether respondent acted in good faith in reducing petitioner's full-time position to a part-time position, i.e., were the actions for sound educational reasons as opposed to arbitrary or unlawful reasons, will be the same core set of facts for both the Department of Education case and the Division on Civil Rights case.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.3, sets forth the standards for consolidation:

(a) In ruling upon a motion to consolidate, the judge shall consider:

1. The identity of parties in each of the matters;

2. The nature of all the questions of fact and law respectively involved;

3. To the extent that common questions of fact and law are involved, the saving in time, expense, duplication and inconsistency which will be realized from hearing the matters together and whether such issues can be thoroughly, competently, and fully tried and adjudicated together with and as a constituent part of all other issues in the two cases;

4. To the extent that dissimilar questions of fact or law are present, the danger of confusion, delay or undue prejudice to any party;

5. The advisability generally of disposing of all aspects of the controversy in a single proceeding; and

6. Other matters appropriate to a prompt and fair resolution of the issues, including whether a case still pending in an agency is contested or is ripe to be declared contested.

Applying that regulation in the present matters, I note that both cases involve the same two parties and arise under the same core set of facts. No purpose would be served in having two separate hearings. This would be an obvious waste of judicial economy. It would be duplicative, expensive and cause the potential for inconsistent results. The basis for respondent's opposition to consolidation is unclear. Accordingly, it is hereby ORDERED that these matters are CONSOLIDATED for disposition.

N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.5(a) requires that when contested cases originally filed with two or more State agencies are consolidated, a determination concerning which agency, if any, has the predominant interest in the conduct and outcome of the matter must be made. The rule provides for consideration of the following five factors:

1. Whether more than one agency asserting jurisdiction over a common issue has jurisdiction over the issue, and if more than one agency has jurisdiction, whether the jurisdiction is mandatory for one of the agencies;

2. Whether the common issue before the two agencies is, for either agency, the sole, major or dominant issue in dispute and whether its determination would either serve to moot the remaining questions or to affect substantially their resolution;

3. Whether the allegations involve issues and interests which extend beyond the immediate parties and are of particular concern to one or the other agency;

4. Whether claims, if ultimately vindicated, would require specialized or particularized remedial relief available in one agency but not the other;

5. Whether the common issue is clearly severable from the balance of the controversy and thus will permit non-duplicative factual and legal determinations by each agency.

Although the provisions of N.J.A.C. 1:1-17.5 quoted hereinabove set forth rather clearly the five factors to be weighed in arriving at a determination of which agency has the predominant interest, the regulation offers no guidance for understanding exactly what the designation of "predominant interest" means in terms of practical application. Assistance in defining "predominant interest," therefore, must be sought elsewhere.

The origin of the concept, if not the precise terminology, is the well-known case of Hackensack v. Winner, 82 N.J. 1 (1980). In that case the Supreme Court was presented with an appeal from conflicting decisions by two State administrative agencies arising from their separate handling of a single controversy over which each had apparent jurisdiction. The case originated with a dispute between the City of Hackensack and several of its Civil Service employees, firefighters, who claimed that they had been improperly denied promotions to the rank of lieutenant in the fire department. The employees' complaints related to their merit and fitness for promotion and thus were governed largely by the civil service laws and the Civil Service Commission under N.J.S.A. 11:1-1 et seq. The firefighters also asserted, however, that their promotions had been withheld because of their union activity, and in this respect, the claims were governed by the Public Employer-Employee Relations Act, N.J.S.A 34:13A-1 et seq. and subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Employment Relations Commission. Separate actions were brought before each agency by the firefighters with respect to their employment claims. The two agencies, independently, proceeded to adjudicate the matters in dispute and ultimately reached different findings of fact, arrived at dissimilar legal conclusions and imposed inconsistent remedies.

In describing what would have been the proper approach for resolving the jurisdictional and procedural problems which had been created by the circumstances, Justice Handler discussed the Court's then recent decision in Hinfey v. Matawan Reg. Bd. of Ed., 77 N.J. 514 (1978):

> The Court in Hinfey faced a jurisdictional dispute between the Division on Civil Rights and the Commissioner of Education regarding claims of sex discrimination in educational curricula in various public schools. 77 N.J. at 421. The Court concluded that, under the circumstances presented, it was proper for the Commissioner of Education to decide the controversy and that the Division on Civil Rights should transfer that aspect of the case to the Commissioner for adjudication. The path followed by the Court in resolving the jurisdictional dilemma engendered first an examination of the statutory authority of both agencies with respect to the disputed matters and a determination of whether both agencies had jurisdiction over the claims. Second, upon a determination that each of the two agencies had jurisdiction, the Court sought to ascertain whether that jurisdiction was paramount or primary in one of the two agencies in the sense that one of the agencies would be statutorily required to entertain the case prior to a hearing by the other agency. This inquiry called for a determination of whether either agency would be required or compelled by virtue of its statutory jurisdiction to proceed in the matter before it regardless of the jurisdictional claim of its sibling agency or the status of the same case before that other agency. If it were found that one or both agencies had discretionary jurisdiction, i.e., that there was no statutory mandate for one agency to proceed first to adjudicate the controversy, at least in view of the pendency of the same dispute before the other agency, the final task for the Court was to explore the standards for the exercise of that administrative discretion. The Court, in addressing how agencies were to be guided in the situations where each were found to have parallel but discretionary jurisdiction over the same controversy, emphasized that the exercise of agency discretion should be governed by "[p]rinciples of administrative comity." 77 N.J. at 532. A similar approach is called for in this case. The inquiry here therefore should start with an examination of the nature of the jurisdiction of the two administrative agencies. Id. at 14-15.

Justice Handler then analyzed the jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission to resolve the claims of the firefighters, including the unfair labor practice claim, and the jurisdiction of the Public Employment Relations Commission to resolve the claims of the firefighters that they had been denied promotion because of union activities and determined that each administrative body had parallel or concurrent jurisdiction over the controversy. Id. at 21.

Justice Handler next addressed the question of whether the concurrent or parallel jurisdiction residing in each agency to handle the mixed controversy was mandatory or discretionary. He rejected PERC's claim that its jurisdiction was mandatory and preemptive and determined that the claims directly projected primarily civil service grievances and were not limited to allegations of employer misconduct solely, primarily or predominantly involving unfair practices under the Public Employer-Employee Relations Act. He also determined that the unfair practice allegations were not severable from the issues before the Civil Service Commission and that the complaints had not called for a form or relief fundamentally different from that generally contemplated by the Civil Service Commission. Furthermore, he decided that the complaints did not project issues of fundamental importance which transcended the interest of the immediate participants. He concluded, therefore, that PERC had the statutory power to abstain initially from proceeding in the matter and to defer provisionally to the exercise of the jurisdiction over the controversy by the Civil Service Commission.

In answering the final question, whether PERC should have exercised its power to abstain, or, in other words, as the case stood, whether the deference which PERC should have given to the final decision of the Civil Service Commission should have applied to the complete determination of the Civil Service Commission, i.e., not only to factual findings and legal conclusions but also to the administrative relief afforded, Justice Handler discussed such doctrines as res judicata, collateral/estoppel, the single-controversy rule, and administrative comity:

> [T]he policy considerations which support these judicial doctrines-namely, finality and repose; prevention of needless litigation; avoidance of duplication; reduction of unnecessary burdens of time and expenses; elimination of conflicts, confusion and uncertainty; > and basic fairness – have an important place in the administrative field. Id. at 32-33.

He determined that PERC in exercising its discretion whether to proceed or not should have been governed by these considerations in determining first whether the common issue before both agencies, the unfair practice, was either the sole or major issue in dispute or a dominating issue in the sense that its determination would have served either to moot the remaining questions in dispute or to have affected substantially the resolution. Further, he decided that PERC should have considered whether the allegations involved important issues and interests which extended beyond the immediate parties and whether the common issue was clearly severable from the balance of the controversy and would thus have permitted non-duplicative factual and legal determinations. A related inquiry, he determined, was whether the claims if ultimately vindicated would obviously have required specialized or particularized remedial relief not generally available in the other agency. In deciding that if PERC had made the requisite determinations the correct conclusion would have been to have stayed its hand, Justice Handler concluded:

> The controversy here presented multiple and mixed issues involving the statutory concerns of both agencies. Nevertheless, the basic dispute involved primarily civil service law. The firefighters here claimed to be entitled to promotion under civil service by virtue of merit and fitness, demonstrated in part by their performance on the promotional examinations conducted under civil service. Cf. Pringle v. N.J. Civil Service Dep't., 45 N.J. 329 (1965). The anti-union bias charge was not the sole, major, or dominating issue. The factual circumstances relating to this issue, moreover, were the same as those raised in the civil service proceedings and the facts pertaining to these charges were inseparable. Additionally, it was not shown or suggested at the outset of the case that any important interests other than those of the immediate parties were implicated. Nor, in terms of the broad remedial powers of the Civil Service Commission, did it appear that redress as sought by the claimants would have been inadequate. Finally, there was a substantial likelihood that the entire controversy could have been heard fairly and fully by the Civil Service Commission in a single proceeding with sufficient expertise and competence to account for all genuine concerns including those occasioned by the unfair labor practice charge. In short, we conclude that it would have been the proper and politic course at the outset of these proceedings for PERC to have stayed > its own hearings until after the Civil Service Commission had reached a determination in the matter. Id. at 34-35.

It is clear that the majority determination in Hackensack v. Winner assumes and presumes that only one agency should rule upon the charges in a situation similar to the one presented. See the concurring opinion of Justice Pashman, pp. 40-41, wherein he disagrees with the majority's reliance upon Hinfey to determine which of the two agencies should have abstained from exercising any jurisdiction. Justice Pashman would have each agency involved exercise concurrent jurisdiction and adjudicate the particular aspects of employer conduct which fall within its field of expertise. See also Justice Schreiber's opinion concurring in part and dissenting in part wherein he specifically states, ". . the majority would have one agency hear the case to the exclusion of the other depending on the major or dominant issue in dispute."

From a review of Justice Handler's analysis, it is apparent that the five factors for consideration listed in the administrative rules come directly from the Hackensack v. Winner decision and that the determination to be made following a consideration of those factors is whether one of the agencies should exercise its jurisdiction to the exclusion of the other because the case is predominantly one type of case as opposed to the other. Because the firefighters' controversy was primarily a Civil Service dispute and the PERC issue could not be extracted and independently determined without the possibility of a conflicting decision, the Court determined that the Civil Service Commission should have had the predominant interest and that it would have been proper "for PERC to have stayed its own hearings until the Civil Service Commission had reached a determination in the matter."

From an application of each of the individual factors for consideration to the facts in the present matter, it appears that the Division on Civil Rights has discretion to refrain from exercising its jurisdiction and that the Commissioner of Education has the predominant interest in the conduct and outcome of the matter. The common issue before both agencies is whether petitioner Fleming should have been reassigned to a full-time position within respondent's district upon her request or following the alleged reorganization. Whether respondent is specifically alleging that petitioner's position was reduced to a part-time position as the result of a legitimate reduction in force, under Carpenito v. Board of Educ., 322 N.J. Super. 522 (App.

Div. 1999), seniority rights are triggered whenever a tenured teacher suffers a loss of tangible employment benefits, such as a loss of salary or reduction in work hours. This issue is predominantly an education issue to be determined under the school laws. The power to effectuate a reduction in force and the reasons for reduction are established at N.J.S.A. 18A:28-9:

> Nothing in this title or any other law relating to tenure of service shall be held to limit the right of any board of education to reduce the number of teaching staff members, employed in the district whenever, in the judgment of the board, it is advisable to abolish any such positions for reasons of economy or because of reduction in the number of pupils or of change in the administrative or supervisory organization of the district or for other good cause upon compliance with the provisions of this article. (emphasis added)

Furthermore, N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 provides:

> Dismissal resulting from any such reduction shall not be made by reason of residence, age, sex, marriage, race, religion or political affiliation but shall be made on the basis of seniority according to standards to be established by the commissioner with the approval of the state board. (emphasis added)

Although N.J.S.A. 18A:28-10 does not specifically identify handicap or perceived handicap as a proscribed reason for preferring one tenured staff member over another in a RIF, the omission is likely the result of the fact that the provisions of this statute have not been amended since 1968; the prohibition against discriminating on the basis of a handicap was not added to the Civil Rights Law until 1972 (L.1972 C.114§2). Respondent misreads the holding of Hinfey, supra, claiming that the Court therein determined "that the Commissioner and the Division on Civil Rights only have concurrent jurisdiction to entertain complaints charging acts of sex discrimination in public school course of study and curricula." On the contrary, the Hinfey Court noted:

> It is also unquestioned that the Commissioner of Education has not only the power to decide controversies under the school law which entail invidious discrimination practices, but indeed he may be regarded as having an affirmative duty to do so. In Booker v. Plainfield Bd. of Ed., supra, finding that the Commissioner had too > narrow a view of his own powers in the area of school racial desegregation, the Court held that the Commissioner had independent supervening authority to fashion an optimum plan for desegregation consistent with constitutional and statutory strictures. In Jenkins v. Morris Twp. School Dist. and Bd. of Ed., supra, this Court again found the Commissioner's view of his powers too cramped and repeated the principle that his authority to rectify discrimination was independent. . . ." Id. at 525-526.

See also N.J.A.C. 6:4-1.6 and 1.7, requiring all public school districts to comply with all laws related to equal employment, including the LAD and mandating that each district forward to the Commissioner for his approval a program or plan for compliance. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that the Commissioner has concurrent jurisdiction with the Division on Civil Rights over the issues of alleged discriminatory treatment. DCR, on the other hand, has no jurisdiction over the tenure, seniority and RIF issues.

I further CONCLUDE that petitioner Fleming's claims project primarily tenure and seniority issues and are not limited to allegations of employer misconduct solely, primarily or predominantly involving unlawful age discrimination or handicapped/perceived handicap discrimination under the Civil Rights Act.

Nor, is the age/handicapped discrimination issue so dominant as to color the entire case such that a determination of it would moot any of the education law issues. The discrimination charge does not appear to raise any issue of wide public significance affecting interests beyond those of the immediate parties, nor is the discrimination charge severable from the other issues so as to permit separate non-duplicative, factual and legal determination by each agency.

Any issue of possible age/handicapped discrimination in effectuating the reorganization of the district and the resultant reduction in force and determination of seniority rights which resulted therefrom is so inextricably intertwined with educational issues that the Commissioner must determine the discrimination issue in the context of and concurrently with his determination of the following issues:

1. Do petitioner's tenure rights entitle her to a full-time teaching position? If so, when?

2. Did petitioner relinquish her tenure rights to a full-time teaching position? (See prehearing order entered in EDU 6841-00 on December 4, 2000)

Based upon the assertions in respondent's motion papers, the following issue is hereby added:

3. Did respondent act in good faith in reorganizing the art department?

The facts with respect to petitioner's part-time/full-time employment status are the same facts which must be considered either under the school law or under the civil rights law. If petitioner had any right to reassignment to a full-time position after the RIF, that right arises under the education statutes and the Commissioner's seniority regulations. No separate determination concerning wrongful consideration of petitioner's age or handicapped status could be made in a vacuum. The common issue can be fairly, competently and fully tried and adjudicated together with and as a constituent part of all other issues in the case before one agency – the Commissioner of Education.

Finally, the issue of age/handicapped discrimination does not call for a form of relief fundamentally different from the relief available through the Commissioner of Education. If the Commissioner decides that age/handicapped discrimination was not a factor in the decisions of the Board concerning the alleged reorganization and petitioner's entitlement to full-time employment as a teaching staff member, and that the Board's determinations were otherwise educationally correct, the Division on Civil Rights must accord binding effect to that determination. If the Commissioner decides that age/handicapped discrimination was a substantial motivating factor in respondent's treatment of petitioner in the reduction in force and its aftermath, the Commissioner can afford all relief necessary, with the exceptions of monetary interest on any back pay award, monetary damages for emotional distress and counsel fees (N.J.S.A. 10:5-17.1). The Court in Balsley v. North Hunterdon Bd. of Educ, 117 N.J. 434, 444-447 (1990), explained the proper procedure in cases such as this:

> Both Hinfey and Winner expressly recognized that in a context invoking administrative comity, the agency that deferred action under the predominant-interest standard necessarily retained jurisdiction over any issues not fully adjudicated in a manner consistent with its own non-delegable responsibilities. Hence, in an appropriate case, a complainant should not be deprived of any determination or relief that would be available before such an agency simply because the predominant-interest agency heard and determined her substantive claim. It does not follow, however, that the predominant-interest agency can provide that remedy. A complainant armed with a successful determination and supported by an adequate record following a proceeding before the predominant-interest agency can proceed to the agency that deferred action for a determination of whether an unresolved claim or additional relief should be addressed under the laws defining its own jurisdictional responsibilities.
> In sum, the Division on Civil Rights and the Commissioner of Education have concurrent jurisdiction in discrimination cases concerning education. Because the discrimination occurs in a public education context, the Commissioner has the predominant interest in the subject matter. However, even though complainant properly filed her petition with the Commissioner of Education, the amendment of her petition to assert a claim for relief in the form of counsel fees under the LAD presented issues cognizable only before the Division on Civil Rights. The specialized remedy of counsel fees is not one within the statutory authority of the Commissioner but is available only in the Division on Civil Rights. Hence, under our decisional law and the general standards of the current rules of the Office of Administrative Law, the Commissioner of Education should not determine that claim for relief. Rather, the complainant should have filed that claim in the Division on Civil Rights or, the Commissioner having granted the application, applied to sever and transfer that claim to the Division for disposition as the Director deems appropriate in accordance with the statutory policies and regulatory standards of the LAD.

Therefore, under the principles of Hackensack v. Winner, the Division on Civil Rights should defer the exercise of its jurisdiction until after the Commissioner of Education has reached a final decision in the matter. If the Commissioner of Education's final decision warrants such additional relief as is incidental to the fundamental remedies and such as is available only from the Division on Civil Rights, then the matter will be forwarded to the Director of the Division on Civil Rights for issuance of an Order directing respondent to compensate petitioner accordingly.

For all the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that the Commissioner of Education has the predominant interest in the conduct and outcome of this matter and that he shall render the final decision on all issues within the scope of his predominant interest as indicated in the opinion hereinabove. If necessary, the Director of the Division on Civil Rights will thereafter have a 45-day period within which to issue an Order concerning any additional remedial relief.

This order may be adopted, modified or rejected by the DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION and THE DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS who by law are authorized to make a final decision in this matter. The DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION and the DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS are encouraged to consult and coordinate with each other before issuing a final order. If the DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION and the DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS do not adopt, modify or reject this order within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended order shall be deemed adopted by the DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION and the DIVISION ON CIVIL RIGHTS.

PATRICIA C. FLEMING, Petitioner, v. BOARD OF EDUCATION OF HADDON TOWNSHIP, CAMDEN COUNTY, Respondent.	ADMINISTRATIVE ACTION JOINT ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION AND DETERMINATION OF PREDOMINANT INTEREST
PATRICIA C. FLEMING, Complainant, v. HADDON TOWNSHIP BOARD OF EDUCATION, Respondent.

This matter arose on June 16, 2000, when the petitioner, Patricia Fleming (Fleming), filed a verified petition with the New Jersey Department of Education alleging that the Board of Education of Haddon Township, New Jersey (Respondent), had denied her a full-time teaching position for the 2000-01 school year in violation of her tenure rights under N.J.S.A. 18A:28-5, and in violation of related statutes governing school law.

On July 28, 2000, Fleming filed a verified complaint with the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights (Division), alleging that Respondent unlawfully denied her a full-time teaching position for the 2000-01 school year because of her age (54) and disability (intestinal disorder/depression) in violation of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination (LAD), N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to -49.

On February 8, 2001, Fleming filed moving papers with the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for consolidation and determination of predominant interest. Respondent opposed the motion. On February 28, 2001, the Director of the Division on Civil Rights transmitted this matter to the OAL at Fleming's request pursuant to N.J.S.A. 10:5-13. On March 26, 2001, the Honorable M. Kathleen Duncan, Administrative Law Judge (ALJ), issued an order consolidating the cases and determining that the Department of Education had predominant interest in the matter (the ALJ's Order).

Having considered the record and having made an independent evaluation thereof, the Commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Education (Commissioner) and the Director of the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights (Director) find good cause to adopt, with the following modifications, the portion of the ALJ's Order consolidating the above captioned matters and determining that the Department of Education has predominant interest in the initial adjudication of this matter.

However, the consideration of whether Fleming was subjected to unlawful employment discrimination in violation of the LAD is a matter that, in this instance, should be determined by the Director following the Commissioner's determination of educational, tenure and seniority issues governed by school law. For these reasons, the Commissioner and the Director are constrained to reject the portion of the ALJ's determination that would require the Commissioner to decide whether Respondent violated the LAD, including whether Respondent failed to consider or provide reasonable accommodation as required by the LAD.

Accordingly, the Commissioner and the Director reject the portion of the ALJ's Order that directs the Commissioner of Education to decide whether the LAD was violated, requires the Director of the Division on Civil Rights to give binding effect to the Commissioner's legal determinations with respect to Fleming's LAD claims (ALJ's Order pp. 11-12), and limits the Director's review to a determination of whether additional relief is warranted following the Commissioner's determination (ALJ's Order pp. 13-14).

ORDER

The New Jersey Department of Education and the New Jersey Division on Civil Rights ORDER that the above captioned matters be consolidated for hearing; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that the New Jersey Department of Education shall exercise predominant interest in this matter and shall adjudicate the substantive claims governed by school law, including the following issues set forth in the ALJ's order: whether Fleming's tenure rights entitle her to a full-time teaching position and, if so, when such entitlement becomes effective; whether Fleming relinquished her tenure rights to a full-time teaching position; and whether Respondent acted in good faith in reorganizing its art department; and it is

FURTHER ORDERED that the ALJ's Order is modified to include the following additional issues that the ALJ conducting the hearing shall address: whether Fleming's age or disability was a motivating factor in Respondent's decision to deny her a full-time teaching position or to reorganize the art department at a time or in a manner that hindered Fleming's employment in a full-time position; whether Respondent failed to fully consider or provide reasonable accommodation with respect to Fleming's disabilities before making its decisions regarding her employment, including whether Respondent failed to accommodate her by not preserving a full-time teaching position for her during her disability period or by refusing to return her to a full-time teaching position when she no longer needed the accommodation of part-time work. See N.J.A.C. 13:13-2.7 (unlawful employment practice against person with a disability is not made lawful because it is authorized or mandated by collective bargaining agreement or other contracts of labor organization); and it is FURTHER ORDERED that, after the Commissioner of Education renders a decision in this matter, the case will be transmitted to the Director of the Division on Civil Rights to determine whether Respondent violated the LAD and, if so, whether Fleming has received full, appropriate relief under the LAD, and to enable the Director to assess a statutory penalty, if appropriate, as provided by the LAD.

Record Closed: March 21, 2001 Decided: March 23, 2001

BEFORE IRENE JONES, ALJ:

On Mary 26, 2000 this matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for hearing pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to 15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to 13. The petitioner alleged that the District has failed to provide him with a thorough and efficient education; failed to provide alternative education guidelines; and violated his due process rights. On August 29, 2000, the petitioner advised that the matter had settled. Prior to receipt of the settlement, the matter was inadvertently returned to the agency as a withdrawal. Subsequently, the Department of Education returned the file to the OAL because the Initial Decision Settlement did not have the appropriate stipulation of settlement. On March 21, 2001, the petitioner filed a signed copy of the stipulation of settlement which is attached hereto.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidence by their signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and therefore ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner sought to compel the respondent Board to provide a free public education to her brother T.D., who, she argued, resides with her because of a family hardship. The Board contested the petition because petitioner had not demonstrated that her brother was legally entitled to a free public education in West Orange.

The ALJ concluded that petitioner failed to demonstrate that her parents could not support her brother because of a family or economic hardship, and that petitioner's brother was not entitled to a free public education in West Orange prior to the date petitioner obtained an order of custody of T.D. The ALJ ordered payment of tuition by petitioner in the amount of $10,159.47 for the period of T.D.'s attendance at school in West Orange prior to the date of the custody order.

The Commissioner reversed the decision of the ALJ, holding that, pursuant to the terms of the Custody Order obtained by petitioner, she obtained custody of her brother retroactive to January 27, 2000. As such, the Commissioner determined that T.D. was entitled to a free public education in the West Orange School District as of that date and that petitioner owed no tuition to respondent.

L.D.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, T.D.,
Petitioner,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

L.D.M., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: March 15, 2001 Decided: March 22, 2001

BEFORE EDITH KLINGER, ALJ:

On February 17, 2000, petitioner, L.D.M., filed a petition before the Commissioner of Education to compel the respondent, Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (District), to provide her brother, T.D., with a free public education in the Township schools pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b.

On March 14, 2000, the District filed its answer to the petition and on April 14, 2000, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled on January 16, 2001 at 9:00 a.m. at the Office of Administrative Law, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. At the scheduled time, the parties appeared and discussed the resolution of this matter.

At the time, it became evident that the material facts in this matter are undisputed. According to the Affidavit of Parent (Affidavit), prepared by A.M.D., the mother of both T.D. and L.D.M., on February 7, 2000, T.D. lived with his parents in Florida and attended school there. His parents were supporting him. A.M.D. stated that she and her husband were in the process of moving from Florida to West Orange to establish residence and they were concerned that the upheaval in the family would affect her son's performance in school during this period. For this reason, T.D. went to live with his sister in West Orange for the purpose of attending high school there.

A.M.D. makes no specific mention of the condition of her father-in-law, A.D., in the Affidavit, however medical reports relating to the condition of A.D. may have been attached to the Affidavit. (See the response to question 5.) These reports date from June 1999, nine months prior to the Affidavit, and show A.D. to be suffering from some degree of dementia but otherwise healthy. He was hospitalized with a urinary tract infection and dehydration on June 17, 1999. It was recommended that he be released from the hospital to a nursing care facility for a period of two weeks, but T.D.'s parents elected to care for him in their home. He went to live with them in July 1999 and neither A.M.D. nor L.D.M. provided the District with further documentation as to his subsequent condition.

In her Petition in this matter, L.D.M. gives her grandfather's condition, not her parents' prospective move, as the cause of the family hardship requiring her brother to live with her and attend school in West Orange. Nothing in the records submitted to the District show A.M. to be terminally ill as she stated in her Petition.

On January 16, 2001, the scheduled date of hearing, the District agreed that, if L.D.M. and her husband went to court and obtained an order giving them the legal custody of T.D., no tuition would be charged for his school attendance from the date of the order. In exchange for this agreement, the District allowed T.D. to continue to attend school in West Orange until the order of custody was obtained.

The District, however, did not relinquish its claim for the tuition owed for T.D.'s school attendance from February 23, 2000 through February 7, 2001 when the custody order was signed by the Nancy Sivilli, J.S.C., in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Chancery Division, Family Part, Essex Vicinage.

According to an affidavit from respondent, T.D. had 78 days of ineligible attendance during the 1999-2000 school year, at the rate of $55.53 per day, and 99 days of ineligible attendance during the 2000-2001 school year at the rate of $58.87 per day. These rates are based upon the annual per pupil cost to the West Orange School District for a high school student for the respective years. (See Respondent's Affidavit.) The total tuition sought by the District is $10,159.47.

On January 16, 2001, by agreement with the parties, the hearing was continued until January 26, 2001. A telephone conference was scheduled at 2:00 p.m. on that date with the parties to determine the status of the proposed settlement. The petitioner was not available at the agreed time and did not respond to a subsequent letter from the undersigned. All attempts by the forum to contact her were unsuccessful. Respondent was also unable to contact her.

As a result, the undersigned, by letter dated January 29, 2001, directed the District to submit an affidavit setting forth the tuition owed by L.D.M. for T.D.'s attendance. Petitioner also received a copy of this affidavit. Neither she, nor anyone on her behalf, has made contact with the Office of Administrative Law up to and including the date of this initial decision.

N.J.S.A. 18A38-1(b)(1) provides that a child, living in the home of another person who is domiciled in the school district, must, among other things, be kept and supported gratis by that person for a period longer than the school term. The sworn statement of the resident to these conditions must be accompanied by the sworn statement of the child's parent or guardian that he or she is not capable of supporting the child due to a family or economic hardship. If the district denies the claim of entitlement to a free public education, the burden is on the resident to prove entitlement by a preponderance of the credible evidence.

In the present case, I CONCLUDE that L.D.M. has failed to carry her burden of proving that T.D. came to live with her and attend school in West Orange because his parents were unable to support him due to family or economic hardship so that he could no longer continue to live with them and attend school in Florida.

If the resident fails to carry the burden of proof, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(2) provides that the district can remove the child from school and assess the resident tuition for the student prorated to the period of ineligible attendance in district schools. In this case the District has agreed to allow T.D. to continue attending West Orange high school but seeks to be paid the tuition for the period during which he was ineligible to attend without cost.

Based upon the above, I CONCLUDE that L.D.M. has failed to prove that T.D. was entitled to a free public education in the Township of West Orange from February 23, 2000 through February 7, 2001. Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that L.D.M. and her husband, as residents of West Orange, are liable to the District for tuition in the amount of $10,159.47 for T.D.'s school attendance during this period of ineligibility.

ORDER

It is, therefore, ORDERED that L.D.M. and her husband pay respondent tuition in the amount of $10,159.47, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), for T.D.'s ineligible attendance in the District high school.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties

PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law have been reviewed. No exceptions were filed by the parties.

Upon independent review of the record of this matter, the Commissioner determines to reverse the Initial Decision of the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) for the reasons set forth herein. The record clearly demonstrates that on February 7, 2001, L.D.M was granted legal custody of T.D., retroactive to January 27, 2000.[1] Consequently, the ALJ's analysis of this matter under the affidavit student provision, N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), is inapplicable. Based on these facts, the Commissioner finds and determines that T.D was entitled, during the entire period in dispute herein, to attend school in the West Orange School District free of charge pursuant to the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). As was determined by the Commissioner and affirmed by the State Board of Education in L.A. v. Board of Education of the Town of West

[1] The Commissioner observes that the Custody Order of February 7, 2001 was obtained as a result of a tentative agreement reached between the parties wherein the District agreed that if petitioner obtained legal custody of T.D., respondent would accept a payment of $2,000 for back tuition charges. (Respondent's Affidavit at 2) While it is clear that respondent did not expect a retroactive custody order as a result of the settlement discussion, once such an order is entered, there is no longer any basis on which the Board may argue, or the Commissioner may find, that tuition monies are due.

Orange, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 266 (1996), aff'd by the State Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 554 (1997); and V.H. v. Board of Education of the Township of Quinton, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 124 (1996), aff'd by the State Board of Education, 97 *N.J.A.R.*2d 554 (1997), as of the date that a resident of a district takes legal control of a child, entitlement to attend school free of charge is no longer to be examined pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b), the "affidavit student" provision.

Consequently, in the instant matter, once L.D.M. assumed legal custody of T.D., the only appropriate inquiry for respondent was whether L.D.M. and T.D. were domiciled in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a). Inasmuch as respondent does not dispute that L.D.M. is domiciled in West Orange, and the domicile of the child follows that of the parent or guardian having legal custody over him or her, Mansfield Twp. Board of Education v. State Board of Education, 101 N.J.L. 474, 479-480 (Sup. Ct. 1925), it is hereby found and determined that T.D. was entitled to a free public education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), as of the effective date that L.D.M. acquired legal custody of T.D. See also Y.L., on behalf of M.A. v. Board of Education of South Orange-Maplewood, Number 658-97, decided by the Commissioner of Education December 24, 1997. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that there is no claim of fraud on the part of petitioner. See Y.L.; V.H., supra; and L.A., supra. Further, as was held in L.A., and affirmed by the State Board, the motives of the party obtaining a custody order are not determinative. A custody order must be accepted on its face. See L.A. at 269. See also Y.L., supra.

Accordingly, having determined that T.D. was eligible, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(a), to attend school in the West Orange School District during the 1999-2000 and 2000-2001 school years, the recommendation of the ALJ ordering tuition payment by petitioner is herein reversed. Further, it is determined that T.D.'s eligibility for a free education in the West Orange School District will continue until such time as L.D.M. no longer retains custody of T.D. or there is a change of domicile affecting entitlement to a free education in the West Orange School District.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF DULCE LUCIANO,	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY	:	DECISION
OF ELIZABETH, UNION COUNTY.	:

For the Board, Mary E. Hennessy, Esq. (Murray, Murray and Corrigan)

This matter having been opened before the Commissioner of Education on February 27, 2001 through certification of tenure charges of excessive absenteeism and conduct unbecoming against a tenured secretary by the Board of Education of Elizabeth; and

The Board having attempted to serve the certification of tenure charges before the Commissioner on respondent at 561 Grier Avenue, Elizabeth, New Jersey, via certified mail on February 26, 2001, and such certified mail having being returned to the Board on March 16, 2001 as "Unclaimed" following three attempted deliveries by the post office; and

The Board having confirmed respondent's address in its personnel records, again attempted to serve the certification of tenure charges before the Commissioner on respondent at the same address via First Class mail and Airborne Express on March 19, 2001; and,

The Board having obtained a different address for respondent from the New Jersey Education Association representative, and having attempted to serve the certification of tenure charges before the Commissioner on respondent at 300 Spencer Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey via regular and certified mail on March 21, 2001, with such mail being returned by the post office on March 29, 2001; and,

The Board having personally served respondent with a complete copy of the Tenure Charges, Resolution and Certificate of Determination via a process server on April 2, 2001 at 300 Spencer Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey; and

The Commissioner having directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on February 27, 2001 to the address at 561 Grier Avenue, Elizabeth, New Jersey to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her, and such certified mail having being returned to the Commissioner on March 1, 2001 as "Unclaimed" following three attempted deliveries by the post office; and

The Commissioner having again directed respondent, via both certified and regular mail on April 23, 2001 to the address at 300 Spencer Street, Elizabeth, New Jersey to file an Answer to the tenure charges against her, and there being no indication that respondent did not receive the Commissioner's April 23, 2001 communication; and

Such communication having provided respondent notice that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.3 and 6A:3-5.4, an individual against whom tenure charges are certified shall have 15 days from the date such charges are filed with the Commissioner to file a written response to the charges, and that failure to answer within the prescribed period, where no extension has been applied for and granted, or where there has been no submission by the charged employee of a responsive filing indicating that s/he does not contest the charges, will result in the charges being deemed admitted by the charged employee; and

In that no reply has been received from respondent in response to the Board's charges, each count of the charges against respondent is deemed admitted; and had been absent more than 206 days in the past five years, having been absent 71 days during the 2000-2001 school year, and that respondent was chronically fifteen to twenty minutes tardy, accumulating 110 instances of tardiness from July 1998 to July 2000; and

Deeming such charges to be admitted, and noting that respondent has chosen not to deny the specific allegations contained therein, the Commissioner finds that respondent's actions constitute chronic and excessive absenteeism, warranting dismissal from her tenured position as a secretary; now, therefore

IT IS ORDERED this 14th day of May 2001 that summary decision shall be granted to the Board, and that respondent Dulce Luciano shall be dismissed from her tenured position as a secretary in the Board's employ as of the date of this order.[1]

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

[1] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. Commissioner decisions are deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties.

NEW JERSEY DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION,	CONSENT ORDER OF SETTLEMENT
Respondent.

Petitioner, Board of Education of the Town of Phillipsburg School District ("Petitioner"), through its Attorney, Donald W. Morrow, Esq., (Donald W. Morrow, appearing) and Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE"), through its attorney, the Honorable John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of the State of New Jersey (Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, appearing), hereby stipulate to the following terms of settlement:

1. On or about July 14, 2000, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the Department's determinations with respect to Petitioner's requests for supplemental funding for the 2000-2001 school year and Petitioner's One-Year Early Childhood Operational Plan for the 2000-2001 school year under the Abbott v. Burke decisions and DOE regulations.

2. On or about August 6, 1999, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the Department's determinations with respect to Petitioner's requests for supplemental funding for the 1999-2000 school year under the Abbott v. Burke decisions and DOE regulations.

3. On or about April 20, 1999, Petitioner filed a Petition of Appeal ("Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the Department's determinations with respect to Petitioner's One-Year Early Childhood Operational Plan for the 1999-2000 school year.

4. These Petitions were subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as contested cases.

5. The parties thereupon entered into discussions to amicably resolve these matters in the public interest.

6. Based on those discussions, the DOE agreed that the Petitioner has demonstrated a need for additional supplemental funding in the amount of $1,327,553 for DOE-approved programs and/or services. Petitioner may anticipate revenue in the amount of $1,327,553 and record an accounts receivable in the 2000-2001 budget year of that same amount. The receipt of this additional amount of funds will occur in the 2001-2002 budget year subject to appropriation in the FY 2002 Appropriations Act.

7. The Petitioner agrees to dismiss with prejudice the Petitions (OAL Docket Nos. EDU 05799-99N; EDU 09618-99N; EDU 07914-00N) pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

8. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

KINNELON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION, :

PETITIONER, :

V. : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF KINNELON, MORRIS COUNTY, : DECISION

RESPONDENT. :

SYNOPSIS

Petitioner, the representative of the teaching staff members employed by the respondent Board, challenged the Board's policies with regard to development of Professional Improvement Plans (PIP) as being contrary to applicable regulations. Specifically, petitioner argued that the Board predetermined topics and goals for PIPs, thus circumscribing staff members' participation and precluding development of individual PIPs. The Board denied that its policies were contrary to regulation, noting that staff members are permitted to add objectives to their PIP.

The ALJ determined that teachers had not been restricted to predetermined professional growth objectives and that inclusion of district-wide goals in addition to choices made by teachers in collaboration with their supervisor did not circumscribe the role of the teacher. The ALJ also determined that the format utilized by the Board for development of PIPs is contrary to regulation insofar as it does not delineate district responsibilities.

The Commissioner affirmed the decision of the ALJ with clarification. While agreeing that infusion of district-wide or school-wide goals into action and activity plans choices developed by teachers in collaboration with their supervisors does not circumscribe the role of the teacher, the Commissioner nevertheless underscored that such goals may not substitute for, nor act to foreclose, the individual aspect of such plans. Additionally, the Commissioner clarified that the Board's failure to specifically include district responsibilities in PIPs does not necessarily invalidate the current PIP format. Rather, the Commissioner determined that such responsibilities must be explicitly stated within the PIP document, rather than being considered implicit in the nature of particular goals or objectives.

Record Closed: February 13, 2001 Decided: March 30, 2001

BEFORE MARIA MANCINI LA FIANDRA, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

This is a request by Petitioner, Kinnelon Education Association (KEA), on behalf of the teaching staff members employed by Respondent, Kinnelon Board of Education (BOE), to hear and resolve a controversy arising between the two. Petitioner contends that the policy of Respondent regarding teacher's professional improvement plans is violative of the regulations found at N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3.

On August 31, 1999, the Department of Education transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) for determination as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to –15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to –13.

FINDINGS OF FACT

Based on the evidence presented at the hearing as well as on the opportunity to observe the witnesses and assess their credibility, I make the following findings of fact, which are essentially undisputed, in this matter.

1) Petitioner is the certified collective negotiations representative of all certified teaching staff members employed by Respondent.

2) Each teaching staff member is required to have an annual written performance report which must include an individual professional improvement plan (PIP).

3) Pearl R. Miller School (Miller) is a middle school within the Kinnelon District.

4) During the 1999-2000 school year, each teacher at Miller was instructed to include a specific growth objective, "to implement activities which enhance student achievement" in his/her PIP. The activities through which this growth objective was to be achieved was to develop and implement tiered assignments appropriate for subject and grade. The inclusion of this professional growth objective through this specific activity was required for any teacher for whom it was appropriate to the curriculum.

5) At Miller teachers are expected to bring ideas on what they would like to include in the PIP for the following year to the annual evaluation. These ideas provide the starting point for the PIPs which are developed through dialogue between the teacher and the supervisor, who may make suggestions as to what might be included.

6) The inclusion of the tiered assignment requirement is an outgrowth of a strategic plan prepared by a task force which determined to move Miller from a junior high school model to a middle school model.

7) The teachers at Miller were also permitted to develop growth objectives and activities on an individual, independent basis.

8) The teachers at Miller were required to document the completed activities through a professional portfolio.

9) The Special Education teachers were required to have a departmental goal of reviewing, revising and writing IEP goals and objectives to comply with the new guidelines.

10) The school psychologist, nursing staff and social worker were excluded from that requirement.

11) The Special Education staff was required to formulate at least three personal goals for the 1999-2000 school year and list the timeframes and indicators of success for each objective.

12) Suggested areas on which to focus goals were provided by the Director.

13) The Kiel School is an elementary school within the Kinnelon Public School District.

14) Teachers at Kiel were instructed to include two personal goals and one goal which would impact the school family in their PIPs. In addition, they were instructed that the one common goal would be to document the PIP through the development of a portfolio for each grade which would be an indicator of success. In addition, staff at Kiel were provided with 28 different ideas for professional growth objectives from which they might choose or they were encourage to consult with the principal about any new ideas they might have. None of the 28 suggestions which were provided to the staff were mandated. There was no restriction placed on which or how many indicators of success might be employed.

15) The lists of goals provided to the Kiel staff are not limiting on the choices which may be made by individual teachers. These are suggestion of choices which could be made. Moreover, there is no limit on the number of goals each teacher may set forth him/herself.

16) The Stonybrook School is also an elementary school within the Kinnelon Public School District.

17) Staff at Stonybrook was provided with ideas for the format of an action research project and ideas for school-wide goals to be employed in their 1999-2000 PIPs. In addition to providing staff with the grid on which to develop the PIP, Stonybrook staff was provided with three choices from which to choose to develop the PIP for the 1999-2000 school year. None of the choices were mandated nor were any of the ideas for school oriented or grade level oriented goals mandated. Moreover, the school oriented or grade level goals are developed by faculty and changed each year.

18) At Stonybrook there was no need for a school-wide goal in the 1999-2000 school year nor was there one in the 2000-2001 school year. However, if there was a need for one as seen by the staff, such a school-wide goal would have been included.

19) A district-wide format is employed by the Kinnelon Public School District for the recordation of the PIP. The format is clear on Ex. J-1 through J-4 and includes a column in which a professional growth objective is listed. The second column lists the activities to be employed in achieving that objective; the third, narrow, column specifies the timeframe; the fourth column shows the indicators of success. The form is signed by the staff member and by the evaluator after a meeting between the two.

DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSION

The issue to be resolved in this matter is whether Respondent's policies with regard to the development of the PIP are violative of the requirements of the regulation. An individual PIP is defined as a written statement of actions developed by the supervisor and the teaching staff member to correct deficiencies or to continue professional growth, time limits for their implementation, and the responsibility of the individual teaching staff member and the District for implementing the plan. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(h)3. Specifically, in this case, the question to be resolved is whether the inclusion of mandated professional growth objectives in the 1999-2000 PIPs, without limitation on the number or nature of additional growth objectives, is violative of the regulations. The regulation requires that there be an annual written performance review which shall include a review of performance areas of strength and areas needing improvement as well as a PIP developed by the supervisor and teaching staff member. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(f)1,2,3.

Petitioner asserts that the predetermination of topics and goals for PIPs at the schools and in the special education department violates the law because they unduly circumscribe the role of the teaching staff member and the development of an individual PIP and relies on the decision in Education Association of Passaic v. Bd. of Educ. of the City of Passaic, OAL Dkt. No. EDU 1081-98 and EDU 1517-98. This reliance is misplaced. In the cited case, teachers were required to choose a professional plan topic from a list of seven items. Teachers were asked to answer three questions in regard to PIPs, but there is no statement of the school district's responsibilities in regard to the implementation of the PIP. Other exhibits contain the language that teachers must choose growth objectives from a list of eight items. The conclusion drawn by the administrative law judge in this matter is that the Respondent's practices limited the teacher to a choice from a list of items selected by the principal. The practice did not provide an opportunity to address deficiencies on an individual basis. Passaic, p. 6.

In the case before me, although school-wide and grade-wide objectives were provided at Kiel and Miller Schools and to the Special Education staff, the unrebutted testimony was clear that the teachers were not prohibited from developing additional professional growth objectives. Review of the documentation admitted as joint exhibits demonstrates a wide range of growth objectives and individuality, not only in the growth objectives, but also the activities to be employed and the indicators of success in Kiel, Stonybrook and the Special Education department. The indicator of success at Miller was uniform, i.e., the completion of a portfolio; it is clear, however, that the objectives and the activities were specific to the individual teacher. Moreover, although the indicator of success was uniform, the completion of a portfolio by an individual documenting his/her own achievements is, by definition, an individual activity. Furthermore, it was clear, again from the unrebutted testimony of the supervisors, that there was collaboration on an individual basis in the development of these plans.

Accordingly, I FIND, based on the determination that teachers were not restricted to choices from a predetermined list and were not restricted to a specific number of choices, that the situation in this case at bar is vastly different from the one addressed in the Passaic case. I also FIND that in the case of the Kinnelon Public School District the practices of Respondent with respect to the inclusion of school-wide or grade-wide goals in addition to other choices which are made in collaboration between the teacher and the supervisor does not unduly circumscribe the role of the teacher.

Petitioner also contends that Respondent's practices are not in compliance with the requirement that the PIP include a statement of the responsibilities of the school district for implementing the plan, since the format for recording the PIP employed by Respondent does not provide for a statement of the responsibilities of the school district. Respondent maintains that the responsibilities of the school district are readily discernible by one reviewing each of the PIPs because there are certain approvals and accommodations which must be made by the supervisors in question in order for the activities contemplated to proceed. There is testimony that "it has always been assumed that a supervisor's signature is an indication of her role of responsibility in implementing the PIP."

The recognition by the supervisor of her responsibilities is simply not enough. The failure to specify in writing what those responsibilities are leads to misinterpretation and misunderstanding. Moreover, the regulation provides that the PIP is "a written statement of actions which sets forth the responsibilities of the individual staff member and the District for implementing the plan. N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(h)3. Clearly, the responsibilities should be set forth in writing. I FIND, therefore, that the format used by the Kinnelon Public School District with respect to the development of PIPs is in violation of the requirements of the regulation insofar as it does not specifically provide for a delineation of the District's responsibilities.

Petitioner also request that the principals of Stonybrook, Miller, Kiel and Director of Special Education work individually with each staff member to determine a PIP designed to correct individual deficiencies and continue professional growth. The unrebutted testimony for each of the supervisors was that each does meet with each individual staff member under her supervision to collaborate on the development of a PIP, notwithstanding the fact that there are included school-wide goals.

I also FIND, based on unrebutted testimony that such meetings do take place, as well as the unrebutted testimony that there have been no specific complaints made to the supervisors about the way in which the PIPs are developed, that the PIPs at Kiel, Stonybrook and Miller schools and the special education department are based upon individual teaching staff member's performance areas of strength and areas needing improvement.

Accordingly, I CONCLUDE that this petition should be dismissed in part, specifically as it requests a determination that the use of predetermined goals and topics were PIPs at Stonybrook, Miller and Kiel are violative of the law, that it requests that the principals be directed to work individually with each staff member to determine a PIP, that the supervisors be directed to cease using the PIP as a means of achieving school or department-wide goals and that PIPs be based on the individual member's of performance areas of strength and areas needing improvement be dismissed. I further CONCLUDE, however, that the District should be directed to include within the PIP a specific delineation of the responsibilities of the District for implementing an individual's professional improvement plan.

ORDER

I hereby ORDER that Respondent amend the existing format to include a specific delineation of the District's responsibilities in implementing each PIP; I further ORDER that all other claims be and hereby are DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

KINNELON EDUCATION ASSOCIATION,	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE BOROUGH OF KINNELON, MORRIS COUNTY,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Exceptions and reply arguments were filed by petitioner and the Board in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner contends that the ALJ erred in finding that the Professional Improvement Plans (PIPs) of the staff members in this matter were developed by supervisors and teaching staff members based on the individual staff member's areas of strengths and areas needing improvement, simply because staff members could add objectives to those that were pre-chosen on a school and/or department-wide basis and those submitted on lists from their administrators. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 13) In this connection, petitioner asserts, "[n]othing in the regulations provides for a PIP, defined as arising from the individual staff member's need 'to correct deficiencies or to continue professional growth', as the appropriate place to include school-wide or grade-wide objectives." (Ibid.) Petitioner continues, "Passaic [supra] does not stand for the proposition that PIPs that are not based on the individual staff members [sic] strengths and areas needing improvement are acceptable if the staff member can add individualized PIPs. (Id. at 14)

In support of its position, petitioner underscores that a review of the PIPs from the Pearl R. Miller School (Exhibit J-1), the Stoneybrook School (Exhibit J-4) and the Special Education Department (J-2) shows that the teaching staff members uniformly followed the form dictated by the principal. (Id. at 15) Additionally, in the Kiel School (Exhibit J-3), notwithstanding the principal's claim that everyone had the right to choose his/her own objectives, the teachers' PIPs followed the same format and contained the same items identified by the principal. (Ibid.) Petitioner thus concludes:

> A PIP is not a documents [sic] in which an administrator includes anything the administrator would like the staff member to do, whether district-wide, school-wide or department or grade-wise [sic], or individually based; it is a document solely for individual goals based on areas of strength and areas in which improvement is needed. (Id. at 17)

In reply, the Board notes that no one from the Kinnelon Education Association testified in this matter; not a single member alleged that his/her ability to participate in the preparation of PIPs was inhibited. By contrast, the three principals of the elementary schools in question provided unrebutted testimony that each of the supervisors met individually with staff members and collaborated on the development of the PIPs. (Board's Reply at 1) The Board further observes that petitioner's entire argument rests on the assumption that, because a specific goal was included in a PIP, the teacher was forced to include that goal in his/her plan. However, the evidence in this matter, the Board avers, is to the contrary. (Id. at 2) No teacher testified that a goal was placed in his/her PIP without consent; indeed, each of the supervisors involved in the preparation of the PIPs testified that no teacher was forced to include any particular objective. (Ibid.) Additionally, the Board argues that, although many of the indicators of success were uniform, the objectives and activities contained in the PIPs were specific to the individual teacher's subject level and grade assignment. (Ibid.) Thus, the Board concludes:

> In the absence of any testimony that that an individual teaching staff member was forced to take on additional activities or responsibilities the Administrative Law Judge properly concluded that the inclusion of such school-wide activities and responsibilities in a Professional Improvement Plan was the result of a collaborative effort between the teaching staff member and his/her supervisor. (Id. at 3)

As to the Board's exceptions to the Initial Decision, the Board objects to the ALJ's finding that the format of its PIPs is inconsistent with applicable regulations because it does not "specifically delineate the responsibilities of the School District for the implementation of the PIPs." (Board's Exceptions at 1) This finding, the Board contends, not only conflicts with the unrefuted evidence in this matter, but with the Commissioner's own directive (issued in April 2000 to all Chief School Administrators) with respect to developing PIPs to comply with continuing professional development requirements. (Ibid.) The Board asserts that the ALJ's decision in this regard would compel a revision to its PIP form, which was developed as a collaborative effort by a committee of parents, teaching staff members and school administrators, and has been implemented, without objection, for six years. (Id. at 2) The Board continues:

> Each of these witnesses testified that the current forms used in Kinnelon do provide the responsibilities of the School District for implementing the Professional Improvement Plans. Witnesses testified that all teaching staff members are required to obtain approval for all workshops, courses and training. Where noted in the PIP, the Principal or Supervisor would be responsible for reviewing and approving the courses or training program recommended or selected by the teaching staff member. Many of the professional improvement plans require that the PIP be documented through a portfolio. The principals testified that they are actively involved in the development and review of the portfolios prepared by the teachers.

> Further, the principals testified that they are involved in reviewing new curriculums and/or units of study initiated by teachers and included as part of their PIP goals or activities. It is also noteworthy that there was no testimony that even one teaching staff member ever questioned who was responsible for implementing the goals and objectives set forth in a PIP. In fact, each of the school district officials who testified stated that it was clearly understood between the teacher and the Principal or Supervisor what the responsibilities are of the teaching staff member and the principal or supervisor. (Id. at 2-3)

In response to the Board's exceptions, petitioner counters that "[n]othing argued by the Respondent contradicts the fact that the regulations require that each PIP must specifically include the responsibility of the District for implementing the PIP, and the fact that such an area is nowhere included in the District's form." (Petitioner's Reply at 1) According to petitioner, the Commissioner has confirmed this requirement in Passaic Education Association, decided by the Commissioner April 26, 1999, Decision No. 126-99, which decision constitutes an administrative ruling, unlike the memorandum from the Commissioner of Education cited by the Board. (Id. at 2) Thus, since the PIP forms used in the Pearl R. Miller School, the Special Education Department, the Kiel School and the Stoneybrook School do not contain an area in which the District's responsibility is set forth, petitioner maintains that the District has failed to conform to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.1 through N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3 and to the requirements of Passaic.

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, which did not include a transcript of the hearing conducted at the OAL, the Commissioner determines to affirm the Initial Decision, with clarification, as set forth below.

Initially, the Commissioner concurs with the ALJ's finding that "the inclusion of school-wide or grade-wide goals in addition to other choices which are made in collaboration between the teacher and the supervisor does not unduly circumscribe the role of the teacher" in developing his/her PIP. (Initial Decision at 6) Based on the Board's unrefuted testimony, petitioner has not proven that teachers in the Pearl R. Miller School, the Special Education Department, the Kiel School and the Stoneybrook School are improperly restricted in the development of their individual PIP by predetermined topics and goals for their professional improvement. In this connection, the Commissioner stresses that recognition of school or district-wide goals in the development of a PIP is certainly not prohibited; indeed, such recognition may well shape perceptions of deficiency, or desirable professional development, with regard to individual staff members. However, while school or district-wide goals and objectives may be infused into a PIP through their relationship to individually developed action and activity plans, they may not be substituted for these, nor serve to foreclose other aspects of need and development. See N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(h)3.

With respect to the ALJ's finding that the format used by the Board is in violation of the pertinent regulations for developing professional improvement plans because "it does not specifically provide for a delineation of the District's responsibilities" (Initial Decision at 7), the Commissioner clarifies that this finding need not necessarily be read to invalidate the PIP format currently used by the Board, but, rather, to direct that such district responsibilities for implementing the PIP be explicitly stated within the document (see N.J.A.C. 6:3-4.3(h)3), rather than implicit in the nature of the particular goal or objective, or "assumed" by virtue of the supervisor's signature on the PIP. (Ibid.) As directed by Passaic, "[a]ll professional improvement plans shall contain the responsibilities of the school district for the implementation thereof." Passaic, supra, Slip Opinion at 8.[1]

[1] For example, utilizing the Board's current form, the "activities" section might include both individual and district responsibilities relative to each goal.

Accordingly, the Initial Decision is affirmed, as clarified above, for the reasons expressed therein.

Petitioner, Board of Education of the City of Passaic ("Petitioner"), through its Attorney, Richard E. Shapiro, Esq., LLC, (Richard Shapiro, appearing), and Respondent, New Jersey Department of Education ("DOE"), through its attorney, the Honorable John J. Farmer, Jr., Attorney General of the State of New Jersey (Michael C. Walters, Deputy Attorney General, appearing), hereby stipulate to the following terms of settlement:

1. On or about August 4, 2000, Petitioner filed a Verified Petition of Appeal ("Verified Petition") with the Commissioner of Education seeking review of the DOE's determination which denied funding and approval for the following positions at the Passaic High School during the 2000-2001 school year; (1) full time clerical position - Office of Prevention and Intervention and (2) Computer Lab Aide for the Science/Math Lab.

2. The Verified Petition was subsequently transferred to the Office of Administrative Law as a contested case.

3. The parties thereupon entered into discussions to amicably resolve this matter in the public interest.

4. Based on those discussions, the DOE agreed that Petitioner has demonstrated a need for a full-time clerical position in the Office of Prevention and Intervention and a Computer Lab Aide for the Science/Math Lab for the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years.

5. Petitioner agrees that supplemental funding, at this time, is unnecessary for implementation of the above-listed positions during the 2000-2001 school year.

6. Petitioner agrees to demonstrate to the DOE that there is a continued need for the above-listed support positions at the Passaic High School and that the above-listed support positions have facilitated the ability of professional staff in the Office of Prevention and Intervention and the Science/Math Lab, respectively, to enable students to achieve the Core Curriculum Content Standards. Petitioner shall make said demonstration using student information obtained during the 2000-2001 and 2001-2002 school years at the Passaic High School. Said demonstration is due to the DOE on December 1, 2001 as part of the Passaic High School's 2002-2003 school year Whole School Reform plan and school based budget.

7. The Petitioner agrees to dismissal with prejudice of the Verified Petition For Appeal (OAL Docket No. EDUOT 07611-00N; Agency Ref. No. 280-8/00) pending before the Office of Administrative Law and the Commissioner of Education.

8. This Consent Order does not preclude Petitioner from applying for additional Abbott v. Burke State aid pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:24-7.1(A), if Petitioner is unable to implement the above-listed positions due to fiscal constraints.

9. Resolution of this matter on the terms set forth herein shall not be construed as precedent in other pending or future litigation.

COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning school district filed tenure charges of inefficiency against respondent, an assistant principal in its employ, alleging, inter alia, that respondent failed to perform certain administrative duties, follow proper procedures and perform other duties. Respondent denied all charges.

After three days of hearing at the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), the parties reached a settlement, which was memorialized in an agreement attached to the ALJ's decision approving the settlement.

Upon review, the Commissioner rejected the settlement and remanded the case to the OAL, concluding that the settlement failed to include an explanation of the circumstances justifying the settlement, or demonstrate why the agreement is in the public interest as required by rule.

OAL DKT. No. EDU 7214-00
AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN H. YOUNG, CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY,

---

Joseph R. Morano, Esq., for petitioner (Schwartz, Simon, Edelstein, Celso & Kessler, attorneys)

Charles I. Auffant Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: April 12, 2001 Decided: April 17, 2001

BEFORE STEPHEN G. WEISS, ALJ:

This tenure case was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) by the Department of Education on August 3, 2000 following the filing of certified tenure charges by the Board of Education of the School District of Orange versus John H. Young, a tenured assistant principal. The charges against Young included, inter alia, allegations of failure promptly to perform certain administrative duties, to follow proper procedures and to perform other delegated duties. Following the filing of an Answer denying the charges the matter, as noted above, was transmitted to the OAL. The hearing commenced in November 2000 and following three days of hearing the case was adjourned in order to permit the parties seriously to pursue ongoing settlement discussions. New hearing dates in January 2001 were then adjourned as a result of those discussions.

Counsel and their respective clients have advised that the parties have reached agreement with respect to an amicable resolution of the matter. To that end a Settlement Agreement Release has been submitted to me and which contains the signatures of the Superintendent of Schools, Board Secretary, the respondent and his attorney. The agreement essentially provides that Young will resume his duties as an Assistant Principal at the Orange Middle School rather than at Orange High School at a salary equal to that which he would have received as a high school Assistant Principal. In addition, Young is to receive compensation for the one hundred and twenty (120) days between June and October 2000 wherein his salary had been withheld. The parties have also agreed to drop any and all claims each has or may have against the other, including the within certified tenure charges.

Based upon my review and consideration of the matters at issue in this case, and having heard partial testimony with respect to the charges, I believe that the settlement is a fair and appropriate one and should be approved.

I have reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement and Dismissal which is attached hereto and FIND as follows:

1. The parties voluntarily have agreed to the settlement as evidenced by the signatures contained thereon.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy between the parties and is consistent with the law.

Therefore, I ORDER that the parties comply with the terms of the settlement and that these proceedings be and are hereby CONCLUDED.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN H. YOUNG, CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP SCHOOL DISTRICT, ESSEX COUNTY.	BEFORE THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION/OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/00 OAL DKT. NO. EDU 7214-00 SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT AND RELEASE

This Settlement Agreement is made by and between John H. Young who resides at 1608 Montgomery Street, Rahway, New Jersey and the City of Orange Township Board of Education (hereinafter "the Board"), with offices located at 451 Lincoln Avenue, Orange, New Jersey. In consideration of the mutual promises and undertakings contained in this Agreement, and for good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned state:

WHEREAS, John H. Young is a tenured employee of the Board, having been employed as an assistant principal by the Board since on or about September 1, 1994; and

WHEREAS, the Board certified tenure charges against John H. Young to the Commissioner of Education captioned: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Young, City of Orange Township School District, Agency Dkt. No. 198-6/00; and

WHEREAS, the parties have worked cooperatively in an effort to reach an amicable resolution of their differences; and

WHEREAS, this amicable resolution of the pending tenure matter shall not be construed as an admission of wrongdoing by either party;

IT IS on this 10th day of April 2001, agreed that:

1. John H. Young will resume his duties as assistant principal in the Orange Public Schools, but at the Orange Middle School, rather than the High School, with such placement to be effective upon execution of this settlement agreement. For tenure purposes, Mr. Young's employment at the Middle School shall be treated as a voluntary transfer.

2. John H. Young's salary will not be reduced as a result of his reassignment by the District to an assistant principal position at the Orange Middle School. Mr. Young shall continue to be paid and receive the same benefits and emoluments as an Assistant Principal - High School.

3. John H. Young shall receive the amount of $29,518.22, which represents compensation for 120 calendar days of employment commencing on or about June 14, 2000 and ending on or about October 14, 2000, subject to the usual payroll deductions unless otherwise directed by the Court. Payment of this amount shall be released to Charles Auffant, Esq., attorney for John H. Young, within seven business days of approval of the settlement by the Commissioner of Education. By signing this agreement, Mr. Young authorizes the board to make payment to Mr. Auffant.

4. Mr. Young shall receive his full salary increment for the 2001-2002 school year.

5. John H. Young and the Board hereby release, abandon, surrender, and waive any and all other claims to damages, salary, benefits, back pay, recoupment of monies or any other civil/administrative claim or cause of action, whether known or unknown, against one another, as well as against the Board's agents, employees, servants and Board members individually and collectively.

6. The Board agrees to withdraw the certified tenure charges against John H. Young captioned: In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of John H. Young, City of Orange Township School District, Agency Dkt. No. 198-6/00 with prejudice upon execution of the Settlement Agreement and Release by the parties.

7. Should the Commissioner refuse to approve the within settlement, then this Agreement shall be null and void and the subject charges shall continue in full force and effect.

8. John H. Young acknowledges that he has consulted with an attorney of his own choosing prior to signing this Agreement, and that he signs this Agreement and Release as his own voluntary act and deed, and that he fully understands the duties and obligations enumerated herein.

9. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties.

10. This Agreement is subject to approval by the Board, by an appropriate resolution. In the event that this Agreement is not ratified by the Board, it shall be null and void.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties have hereunto set their hands and seals the date and year aforesaid.

AGENCY DKT. NO. 198-6/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE HEARING OF JOHN H. YOUNG, SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE CITY OF ORANGE TOWNSHIP, ESSEX COUNTY.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION DECISION

The record of this matter, Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law(OAL) and the Settlement Agreement and Release have been reviewed. Initially, the Commissioner notes that, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6(a), once tenure charges are certified to him, such charges may be settled only with his approval; any proposed settlement, whether submitted to the Commissioner or to the Administrative Law Judge, must address the standards established by the State Board of Education in the matter entitled, In re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. 842, 846. Specifically, the proposed settlement must: 1) Be accompanied by documentation as to the nature of the charges; 2) Include an explanation of the circumstances justifying the settlement or withdrawal; 3) Evidence the consent of both the charged and the charging parties; 4) Indicate that the charged party entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his or her rights; 5) Demonstrate that the agreement is in the public interest; and 6) Where the charged party is a teaching staff member, indicate that he or she has been advised of the Commissioner's duty to refer tenure determinations resulting in loss of position to the State Board of Examiners for possible loss of certificate. N.J.A.C. 6A:3-5.6.

Here, the proposed settlement fails to include an explanation of the circumstances justifying the settlement or to demonstrate why the agreement is in the public's interest. It is well-established that, having once taken up the burden of tenure charges, the District may not lay it down without setting forth in the record a reasonably specific explanation of why such charges can no longer be pursued or why it is now in the public interest not to pursue them. See, In the Matter of the Tenure Hearing of Kenneth Smith, School District of the City of Orange, Essex County, Commissioner Decision No. 90-82, decision on remand, 1983 S.L.D. 420, aff'd with modification by the State Board of Education November 2, 1983, 1983 S.L.D. 489, aff'd N.J. Superior Court, Appellate Division, January 30, 1986.

While the Commissioner does not preclude the possibility of settlement in this matter, he stresses that in order for him to meet his own obligation to the schools and children of this state, he must be assured that any settlement is consistent with appropriate standards for setting aside tenure matters as expressed in Cardonick, supra.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected for the reasons expressed herein. The Commissioner hereby remands this matter to the OAL for further revision of the documents and expansion of the record, consistent with the concerns set forth above. If the parties are unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified agreement for submission to the Commissioner, the matter shall proceed to a hearing on the merits.[1]

IT IS SO ORDERED.[2]

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning mother, J.M., challenged the Board's residency determination that her son, S.C., was not domiciled in West Orange Township because he spent equal time with his grandmother, J.P., in Boonton.

The ALJ concluded that S.C. may have had two residences, but by operation of law, his domicile was in West Orange, which was the domicile of his mother who had legal custody. The matter did not implicate N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the "affidavit student" provision. Thus, the ALJ concluded that S.C. was domiciled in the Township of West Orange during the time he attended the West Orange School District and he was entitled to a free education as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

The Commissioner concurred with the ALJ that S.C. was entitled to attend school in the District pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a; neither S.C.'s overnight visits to his grandmother's home in Boonton, nor, under the instant circumstances, his physical relocation to Parsippany, which was not addressed by the ALJ, impaired that right, as long as his mother was a domiciliary of West Orange. The Commissioner, however, remanded the matter to the OAL solely for additional fact-finding as is necessary to determine the date on which J.M. was no longer domiciled in West Orange but had moved to Parsippany and the amount of tuition, if any, which might be due West Orange as a result.

J.M ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD S.C., Petitioners,
v.
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,
Respondent.

J.M., pro se

Stephen J. Christiano, Esq., for respondent

Record Closed: January 15, 2001 Decided: April 6, 2001

BEFORE MUMTAZ BARI-BROWN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Petitioner appealed the determination of respondent West Orange School District (District) to remove her son S.C. from the public schools because he was not domiciled in the Township of West Orange.

On January 5, 2000, the matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) as a contested case pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13. A hearing was held on January 8, 2001. The parties submitted post hearing briefs and the record closed on January 20, 2001. An order of extension was granted for filing the Initial Decision to April 20, 2001. N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10(c); N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.8.

FACTS

Based on the evidence I FIND:

1. In 1993, J.M., age 15, gave birth to S.C. They resided in West Orange with J.P., the mother of J.M.
2. In 1995, J.M., her son and J.P. moved to Bloomfield, New Jersey.
3. In 1997, J.M. returned to West Orange and resided with relatives. S.C. lived with his mother three to four days per week and stayed with his grandmother, who had moved to Boonton, New Jersey, during the remainder of the week.
4. In September 1998, S.C. was enrolled in the Boonton public schools.
5. On September 15, 1998, Boonton Township Board of Education contacted J.M. about her residency. The letter states in part:

> It has come to our attention that you may not live in this district and you should enroll [S] in the school district where you reside...[The] Board of Education policy requires the parents or guardians to reside in the township...
>
> If you would like for us to consider [S] as a tuition student, the Board policy concerning tuition students in enclosed....
> [P-2]

6. After discussions with the Boonton school district, S.C. was transferred to the West Orange school district where he completed kindergarten.
7. In September 1999, S.C. repeated kindergarten.

8. On November 22, 1999, West Orange Board of Education contacted J.M. about her son's residency. The letter states in part:

> Based on our findings that your [S] does not domicile in West Orange, you must remove him from the West Orange Public Schools by November 24, 1999.
>
> If you wish to appeal this decision and can present proof that you and your children are domicile in the township, please contact my office...
>
> [P-3].

ISSUE

The issue is whether S.C. domiciled in the Township of West Orange with his mother or in Boonton with his grandmother?

Position of the Parties

J.M. asserts that S.C. lived in West Orange, New Jersey, with her mother who was actively involved in his upbringing. Although S.C. spent time with J.P., he spent equal time with her in West Orange. In a letter to the school district dated November 24, 1999 and at the hearing J.M. testified about the family circumstances as follows:

> Due to the fact that I was 15 when my son [S] was born we have to live with my mother and she had a great deal of responsibility for my son as well as most of the financial responsibility, but I retain legal custody.
> Up until 1½ years ago we all lived together but when my mother moved to Boonton Township she kept my son while I went out on my own to attempt to set up an apartment for my son and myself. This turned out to be finically impossible, but I could no longer go back with my mother who now only had two bedrooms, so I moved in with my father in West Orange. Since my son predominately resided with my mother in Boonton Township, we enrolled him there for school. After finding out our situation Boonton township stated either my mother needed to take legal custody or [S] needed to go to school in the town which I, his legal guardian, lived; so at that time we moved him to West Orange because we found the circumstances of my mother taking custody to be extremely distasteful in that she would have to go to court and attempt to prove me an unfit mother, which was not the case....

> Now, West Orange has put him out of school effective today...His schedule is as follows: West Orange- Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday nights. Boonton Township- Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights.

J.M. and J.P. each testified that since J.M. worked varied hours in Woodbridge, New Jersey, and J.P. worked in West Orange she could easily transport S. to school from Boonton and West Orange. J.M. maintained that she is S.C.'s legal guardian and is actively involved in his upbringing.

The District argues that S.C. domiciled in Boonton with his grandmother J.P. Thus, he was not entitled to a free education in the West Orange public schools. The District relies on the conduct of the J.P. and J.M. For example, S.C. lived with J.P. three out of five school nights. Moreover, respondent noted a letter dated January 9, 2001, in which J.P. conceded, "she takes care of all the arrangements concerning [S.C.'s] welfare." See Respondent's Post Hearing Letter dated January 17, 200.

In her letter J.P. further states:

> Dear Mr. Christiano:
>
> [You alluded to several times...that I take care of all the arrangements concerning S's welfare, not [J.M.], since she is now a 23 year old adult. The reason for this is that [J] suffers all the same learning disabilities as her son; the ADHA (more specifically ADD). Retention deficit, also a strong propensity to not be able to follow through with what she has begun. She has proven herself incapable of getting for [S], all the attention and help he needs. This is why I do it all, but with her input and approval.
>
> [Letter to Stephen Christiano, Esq.]

LEGAL DISCUSSION AND CONCLUSIONS

The district implicitly asserts that under N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) S.C. is domiciled with J.P. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1) states reads, in pertinent part:

> Any person who is kept in the home of another person domiciled within the school district and is supported by such other person gratis as if he were such other person's own child, upon filing by such other person with the secretary of the board of education of the District, if so required by the board, a sworn statement that he is domiciled in the District and is supporting the child gratis and will assume all personal obligation for the child relative to school requirements and that he intends so to keep and support the child gratuitously for a longer time than merely through the school term, and a copy of his lease if a tenant, or a sworn statement by his landlord acknowledging his tenancy if residing as a tenant without a written lease, and upon filing by the child's parents or guardian with the secretary of the board of education a sworn statement that he is not capable of supporting or providing care for the child due to a family or economical hardship and that the child is not residing with the resident of the District solely for the purposes of receiving a free public education in the District. The statement shall be accompanied by documentation to support the validity of the sworn statement, information from or about which shall be supplied only to the board and only to the extent that it directly pertains to the support or nonsupport of the child. If in the judgment of the board of education the evidence does not support the validity of the claim by the resident, the board may deny admission to the child.

Thus, the purpose of the domicile requirement is to prevent pupils from living with a person who is not the parent or guardian in order to obtain the benefit of a free education in a district other than that of their parent's domicile. Here, J.M is not seeking to satisfy the requirements of N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1(b)(1).

Generally, domicile is the place of a person's abode where he or she has the present intention of remaining and to which, if absent, he or she intends to return. Mercandante v. City of Paterson, 111 N.J.Super. 35, 39 (Ch. 1970), aff'd, 58 N.J. 112 (1971); see also Matter of Unanue, 255 N.J.Super. 362, 374 (1991) (citing Kurilla v. Roth, 132 N.J.L. 213, 215 (Sup. Ct. 1944)) (explaining that "[i]n a strict legal sense, the domicile of a person is the place where he has his true, fixed, permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent, he has the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving"). An individual may acquire a domicile by birth or place of origin, through the choice of a person legally capable of choosing his or her domicile, by operation of law in the case of a person who lacks capacity to acquire a new domicile by choice. In re estate of Gillmore, 101 N.J.Super. at 87.

The domicile of a minor child follows that of his parents. See V.R. on behalf of A.R. v. Bd. of Ed. of Hamburg, 2 N.J.A.R. 283, 286. Because S.C. is a minor child who lacked the capacity to choose his own domicile, his domicile is by operation of law. Thus, while the S. resides for part of the week with his grandmother, who is also actively helping to raise the child, he is domiciled with his mother.

The domicile of a child for school purposes is generally that of the natural father. Board. of Educ. Little Egg Harbor v. Bds. of Educ., etc., 145 N.J.Super. 1, 12 (App. Div. 1975) (Morgan, J.A.D., dissenting), rev'd per curium, based on dissent below, 71 N.J. 537 (1976) (citing Mansfield Township. Bd. of Educ. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474 (Sup. Ct. 1925)). The evidence reveals that J.M., single parent, was domiciled in West Orange and that S.C. resided with his mother in West Orange for at least half of each week. Moreover, J.M. has legal custody of her son and exercises control over his life. Although S.C. receives support and maintenance from his grandmother, the arrangement does not alter J.M.'s legal custody of her child, nor does it demonstrate that J.M. has relinquished actual control over raising her son. S.C. may have had two residences, but by operation of law, his domicile was in West Orange, which was the domicile of his mother.

Based on the whole of the evidence, I CONCLUDE that S.C. was domiciled in the Township of West Orange during the time he attended the West Orange School District. Thus, I CONCLUDE that S.C. was entitled to a free education as provided by N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1.

ORDER

I ORDER that the petition filed by J.M. to permit S.C. to attend school in the West Orange School District is GRANTED. Further, I ORDER that the District's claim for payment of tuition is hereby DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 225 East State Street, CN 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

J.M., on behalf of minor child, S.C.	:
PETITIONER,	:
V.	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY,	:	DECISION

The record of this matter and the Initial Decision of the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. The Board's exceptions were submitted in accordance with N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

In its exceptions, the Board notes that the Initial Decision fails to indicate that, beginning in December of 1999, S.C. became a full-time resident of Parsippany, but he nevertheless continued to attend school in its District until June 2000. Yet, the Board points out that the record contains a writing from J.P., S.C.'s grandmother, which suggests that J.M., S.C.'s mother, did not move to Parsippany with him in December of 1999. J.P. wrote:

> [J.M.] DIDN'T move into Parsippany in December [1999] with myself, my husband, and her son, because her room was still under construction. She didn't move in until the end of May (I've attached a copy of the receipt for the rental truck we used to move her, which I realize is not proof of anything, just a point of reference).  (emphasis in text) (Letter from J.P., January 9, 2001, cited in part in the Board's Exceptions at 2)

Additionally, the Board maintains that, prior to S.C.'s move to Parsippany, he slept in Boonton, at J.P.'s home, three out of five school nights. The Board argues:

> Where the child spends the majority of the school week is where the child should attend school. The fact that the Boonton Board of Education ("BBOE") misstates the law on school residency to petitioner (P-2) is not a reason for the West Orange taxpayers to shoulder the school costs of S.C. It appears that the BBOE never made an inquiry as to the potential existence of a hardship on the part of petitioner.  (Board's Exceptions at 2-3)

Thus, the Board reasons that petitioner should be assessed tuition for the 1998-99 school year (id. at 3), or, at the very least, for the period of S.C.'s ineligible attendance from December 1999 to June 2000. (Id. at 2)

Upon careful and independent review of the record in this matter, the Commissioner concurs that petitioner has demonstrated that S.C. was entitled to attend school in the Board's District, free of charge, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a, for the period of time that she, J.M., was domiciled in West Orange. In so finding, the Commissioner notes that although the Initial Decision fails to account for S.C.'s move to Parsippany in December of 1999, his move, under these circumstances, has no effect on the outcome of this matter.

Initially, as the ALJ observed, this matter does not implicate N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1b(1), the "affidavit student" provision; if S.C. was attending school in the district where his parent was domiciled, he was entitled to a free education in that district. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. Thus, the only inquiry to be made by the respondent Board, both before and after S.C.'s move to Parsippany, was whether S.C.'s mother was a domiciliary of West Orange. Interestingly, the Board does not dispute that J.M. was, in fact, domiciled in West Orange for the predominant period of S.C.'s attendance in the District. Furthermore, the Commissioner recognizes that:

> Persons legally incapable of choosing domicile acquire domicile by operation of law. [In re Estate of] Gillmore, 101 N.J. Super. [77 App. Div. 1968] at 87. Under the common law, the domicile of a child was said to follow that of the father "until the child is emancipated and chooses a residence of its own." Mansfield Twp. v. State Bd. of Educ., 101 N.J.L. 474, 478 (Sup. Ct. 1925).  In > more modern language, a child's domicile is equated with the domicile of the parent or guardian "having legal control of the child." Mansfield Twp., at 479. Clifton Board of Education v.Sauro, 96 *N.J.A.R.*2d (EDU) 497 (1996) at 500.

Consequently, what the Boonton Board of Education apparently recognized, but the respondent Board still does not, is that, based on the aforementioned principle, S.C., as a minor child, could not choose his own domicile, and his domicile, therefore, followed that of his mother, who has legal custody of him.[1] As long as J.M. was domiciled in West Orange, her child was entitled to attend school in the District free of charge. N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. This is so, notwithstanding that S.C. may have, at one time, slept "60% of the school week in Boonton" with his grandmother, as the Board alleges, or even perhaps 100% of the school week in Parsippany, since there is nothing in the record before the Commissioner to indicate that petitioner and her mother were attempting to defraud the West Orange Board. Indeed, one can only conclude from this record that both were merely attempting to secure an education for S.C., in whichever district he was entitled to it, under challenging financial and familial circumstances. Notably, the Board cites to no legal authority for its convenient and simplistic declaration that "[w]here the child spends the majority of the school week is where the child should attend school." (Board's Exceptions at 2)[2]

[1] Exhibit P-2, a letter to petitioner from Superintendent/Principal of the Boonton Township School District David Gidich states, inter alia, "It has come to our attention that you may not live in this district and you should enroll [S.] in the school district where you reside." (Letter from David Gidich, September 15, 1998) Petitioner confirms that her mother was told by Mr. Gidich that "New Jersey statute stated that a child must attend school in the town of domicile of his parent or legal guardian." (Exhibit P-1)

[2] In this connection, the Commissioner finds particularly disturbing the following attestation from petitioner:

> My mother spent many hours on the phone and some in person, with Josefa Lopez of the West Orange Bd. of Education Central Office in an attempt to rectify the situation and make clear to her that we were not in West Orange illegally as she had decided was the case, but that we had come there ONLY because Boonton Township had told us that this was where we belonged.
> Mrs. Lopez disagreed with what Boonton Township said about a child attending the district that his parent or legal guardian resides in and said it should be the town that the child resides in. My mother attempted to explain to her that [S.] actually lived equal amounts of time in both towns, AND that his mother resided full-time in West Orange. At that point the truant [officer] was brought in, in an attempt to disprove that [S.] spent equal time in West Orange. When that wasn't Therefore, on these facts, the Commissioner finds that S.C.'s physical relocation to Parsippany for the portions of time he resided with his grandmother was of no legal consequence where his mother remained a domiciliary of West Orange. However, at the point petitioner moved from West Orange to Parsippany, S.C. was, most likely, no longer entitled to attend school in the District free of charge. While the parties appear to acknowledge that J.M., in fact, moved to Parsippany at some point, the record before the Commissioner does not permit a determination as to the precise date when J.M. was no longer domiciled in West Orange.

Accordingly, the Commissioner adopts the Initial Decision of the ALJ for the reasons expressed therein and amplified above, and remands this matter to the OAL solely for additional fact-finding as is necessary to determine the date on which J.M. was no longer domiciled in West Orange and the amount of tuition, if any, which may be due the Board as a result.

IT IS SO ORDERED.[3]

[3] This decision, as the Commissioner's final determination, may be appealed to the State Board of Education pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-27 et seq. and N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.1 et seq., within 30 days of its filing. J.M. ON BEHALF OF MINOR CHILD, S.C., :

PETITIONER-RESPONDENT, :

V. :

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE TOWNSHIP OF WEST ORANGE, ESSEX COUNTY, :

RESPONDENT-APPELLANT. :

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

DECISION

Decided by the Commissioner of Education, May 24, 2001

For the Respondent-Appellant, Stephen J. Christiano, Esq.

For the Petitioner-Respondent, J.M., pro se

J.M. (hereinafter "petitioner") challenged a determination by the Board of Education of the Township of West Orange (hereinafter "Board") that her son was not entitled to a free public education in the district. In a decision issued on May 24, 2001, the Commissioner of Education concluded that J.M.'s son was entitled to attend school in West Orange pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:38-1a. The Commissioner, however, remanded the matter to the Office of Administrative Law for additional proceedings to determine when the petitioner ceased to be domiciled in West Orange and the amount of tuition, if any, that might be due to the Board as a result.

On June 27, 2001, the Board filed a notice of appeal to the State Board.[1] By letter dated July 2, 2001, the Director of the State Board Appeals Office acknowledged receipt of that notice and advised the counsel for the Board that:

> ...N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 requires that an appeal to the State Board of Education must be taken within 30 days after the Commissioner has filed his decision. See N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(a). Pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), "[a] decision of the Commissioner...shall be deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties." In this instance, the date of mailing of the Commissioner's decision was May 24, 2001, so that your notice of appeal was required to be filed by June 26, 2001. See N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.6.
> Since your notice was not filed by that date, N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.5(a), this matter is being referred to the Legal Committee for consideration of the effect of your failure to file a timely appeal. If you wish to file an affidavit setting forth the circumstances of your late filing, you must do so by July 13, 2001.

On July 9, 2001, the counsel for the Board submitted an affidavit in support of the filing date of the appeal. In his certification, counsel acknowledged his responsibility for the late filing and indicated that he had "thought (incorrectly) that the date of filing (May 27), as it fell on a Sunday, would become effective on May 29, the day after Memorial Day. I was thus computing the 30-day appeals period from May 29."

Pursuant to N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, appeals to the State Board must be taken "within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed." The State Board may not grant extensions to enlarge the time specified for appeal. N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.5(a). In contrast to the period for filing petitions to the Commissioner of Education, see N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.3(d); N.J.A.C. 6A:3-1.16, the time limit within which an appeal must be taken to

[1] The notice of appeal was dated June 27, 2001 and included a certification from the counsel for the Board indicating that it was also mailed on that date. Hence, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.6(b), it was considered filed on June 27.

the State Board is statutory, and, given the jurisdictional nature of the statutory time limit, the State Board lacks the authority to extend it. Mount Pleasant-Blythedale Union Free School District v. New Jersey Department of Education, Docket #A-2180-89T1 (App. Div. 1990), slip op. at 5. The Appellate Division has "consistently concluded" that appeals must be timely filed and that "neither an agency nor our court on appeal may expand a mandatory statutory time limitation." In the Matter of the Special Election of the Northern Burlington County Regional School District, Docket #A-1743-95T5 (App. Div. 1996), slip op. at 3, citing Scrudato v. Mascot Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 50 N.J. Super. 264 (App. Div. 1958).

As the Court explained in Scrudato, supra, at 269: "Where a statute sets up precise time limits within which an aggrieved party may seek recourse to administrative adjudication, those limits have been held mandatory and not subject to relaxation. The agency is without power to waive them and proceed to hearing and determination notwithstanding noncompliance." The Court in Scrudato found that the fact that an application to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance was filed only two days after the statutory deadline for such filing did not mitigate the invalidity of such action. The Court stressed that "[e]ven a minor deviation from the statutory limit in a particular case is fatal....This is not a mere technicality, but fundamental to the proper and necessary restraint of the exercise of judicial and administrative discretion. The remedy for results that either tribunal may deem unjust or unwise lies not in disregard of the statutory limitation, but in corrective legislation." Id. at 271.

In Schaible Oil Co. v. New Jersey Dept. of Envtl. Protection, 246 N.J. Super. 29 (App. Div. 1991), certif. denied, 126 N.J. 387 (1991), the Court stressed that "[f]irmly embedded in our law is the principle that '[e]nlargement of statutory time for appeal to a state administrative agency lies solely within the power of the Legislature...and not with the agency or the courts.' Hess Oil & Chem. Corp. v. Doremus Sport Club, 80 N.J.Super. 393, 396, 193 A.2d 868 (App. Div. 1963), certif. denied, 41 N.J. 308, 196 A.2d 530 (1964) (citations omitted)...."

In Yorke v. Board of Education of the Township of Piscataway, decided by the State Board of Education, July 6, 1988, aff'd, Docket #A-5912-87T1 (App. Div. 1989), the Court upheld the dismissal of an appeal by the State Board where it found that the notice of appeal had been filed one day late by the appellant's counsel, who alleged that he had misread or misunderstood the applicable regulations. The Court added that even if the statute could be construed to permit enlargement of the time for filing an appeal, the appellant therein had failed to establish good cause. See also In the Matter of the Grant of the Charter School Application of the International Charter School of Trenton, etc., Docket #A-004932-97T1 (App. Div. 1998) (the Court, upon reconsideration, upheld the State Board's dismissal of an appeal filed one day late).

In the instant case, the Commissioner's decision was rendered on May 24, 2001 and mailed on that date. Accordingly, pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), the decision appealed from was deemed filed on May 27, 2001, three days after it was mailed. Therefore, as mandated by N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28, see N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(a), the Board was required to file its notice of appeal with the State Board on or before June 26, 2001. As previously indicated, the Board's notice of appeal was not filed until June 27.

Even if N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 can be construed to provide us with the authority to enlarge the time limit for filing an appeal, we find no substantive basis to warrant doing so in this particular instance. Our regulations are clear that a decision of the Commissioner "shall be deemed filed three days after the date of mailing to the parties," N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.4(a), and that an appeal must be filed "within 30 days of the filing date of the decision from which appeal is taken," N.J.A.C. 6A:4-1.3(a). See also N.J.S.A. 18A:6-28 ("An appeal to the state board shall be taken in the manner prescribed by rules of the board, within 30 days after the decision appealed from is filed....") Since the Commissioner's decision was mailed on May 24, 2001, it was deemed filed on May 27, and the notice of appeal was required to be filed 30 days thereafter, by June 26.

Accordingly, we dismiss the appeal in this matter for failure to file notice thereof within the statutory time limit as computed under the applicable regulations.

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning nontenured teacher challenged the Board's nonrenewal of her contract for the 1999-2000 academic year. Petitioner contended that the Board discriminated against her on the basis of race or national origin. An administrative hearing commenced, the proceeding was interrupted due to an aborted settlement, and petitioner sought to start over again in a different forum. The Board moved to dismiss the petition for lack of prosecution when petitioner failed to continue with the presentation of evidence at the administrative hearing scheduled for April 9, 2001 and asked to withdraw her petition.

The ALJ concurred with the Board that the case must continue in the administrative forum since the Board had invested time and money in the administrative hearing, and the Superior Court already dismissed her parallel complaint "with prejudice," leaving petitioner no place else to go. Moreover, given the time that has already passed, the Board should not be subjected to further delay of its opportunity to demonstrate that the allegations against it were groundless. Citing Aldrich, the ALJ noted that withdrawal of the pending OAL action should not automatically be permitted in cases where the parties are in the middle of a hearing. The ALJ ordered the petition dismissed with prejudice.

The Commissioner adopted findings and determination in the Initial Decision as his own. The Commissioner additionally noted that petitioner failed to meet the standards for the grant of a stay of proceedings at OAL pending appeal to the Appellate Division. Petition was dismissed.

BEFORE KEN R. SPRINGER, ALJ:

Statement of the Case

This is a suit by a non-tenured teacher who challenges the non-renewal of her teaching contract for the 1999-2000 academic year. Basically, the issue is whether respondent Board of Education of the Essex County Vocational-Technical School District ("Board") discriminated against petitioner on the basis of race or national origin when it declined to renew her teaching contract after her third year of teaching. When petitioner Beril Stewart-Rance failed to continue with the presentation of evidence at the hearing scheduled for April 9, 2001, the Board moved to dismiss the petition for lack of prosecution. For the reasons set forth herein, the Board's motion should be granted.

Procedural History

The procedural history of this matter is unusually convoluted. On August 9, 1999, petitioner filed her verified petition with the Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") alleging, among other things, that the Board breached her "statutory and constitutional rights by obviously discriminating against her because of her Jamaican national origin." Respondent Board filed its answer on August 27, 1999. Subsequently, on September 29, 1999, the Commissioner transmitted the matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

Prior to hearing, the parties engaged in extensive discovery, including the taking of depositions. At the first day of hearing on October 2, 2000, the OAL denied the Board's motion for summary decision, ruling that there exist disputed factual issues, which require development of a full evidentiary record. Thereafter, the case proceeded to hearing on October 2 and 3, 2000. During those two days of hearing, Ms. Rance completed most of her direct testimony. Further, petitioner's counsel stated on the record that it would take "a half hour or less" to complete the direct examination of Ms. Rance and that his remaining four witnesses would be "very, very quick if they're called."

On October 4, 2000, the next day scheduled for hearing, counsel for both parties advised the OAL that they had reached an amicable settlement. In open court, the terms and conditions of the proposed settlement were placed on the record. Ms. Rance testified that she fully understood the agreement, that she knowingly and voluntarily accepted it, and that she had adequate opportunity to consult with her attorney before entering into the agreement. One condition for finalization of the settlement was that it had to be approved by the Board. Consequently, the item was placed on the agenda of the Board meeting scheduled for October 10, 2000. Instead of approving the settlement on that date, the Board requested further detail regarding the matter and deferred any formal action until its meeting on October 23, 2000. Before the Board could act, however, Ms. Rance repudiated the agreement and withdrew her offer. On or about October 18, 2000, she notified her attorney, opposing counsel and the administrative law judge of her decision to reject the settlement offer and proceed to hearing. As a result, the OAL restored the case to its active calendar and set the matter down for six more days of hearing to commence on April 9, 2001.

Meanwhile, Ms. Rance dismissed her attorney and retained the services of her current attorney. By substitution of attorney filed on December 1, 2000, the new attorney entered his appearance as the attorney of record.

Shortly thereafter, on December 26, 2000, petitioner's new attorney filed an action, entitled Stewart-Rance v. Essex County Vocational Schools, et al., Dkt. No. L-63-01, in the Superior Court of New Jersey, Law Division, Essex County. Although the Superior Court action was brought under the authority of the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, ("LAD") N.J.S.A. 10:5-1 to –42, most of the allegations were identical or similar to the allegations raised in the pending administrative proceedings. In addition to seeking compensatory and punitive damages under LAD, Ms. Rance demanded her constitutional right to trial by jury. The Board responded by filing a motion to dismiss the Superior Court complaint due to the doctrines of exclusivity and election of remedies. Ms. Rance countered by filing a cross-motion seeking to transfer the administrative cause of action and consolidate it with the newly-filed court action.

Superior Court Judge Irwin Kimmelman heard oral argument on March 15, 2001 and issued an oral opinion on the record. He dismissed the complaint brought in the Superior Court "with prejudice" and likewise denied petitioner's motion to transfer the administrative proceeding to the Superior Court.

On March 21, 2001, Ms. Rance applied to the OAL for a stay of the administrative proceeding pending appeal of Judge Kimmelman's order to the Appellate Division. Ten days later, the Board filed its opposing papers. After conducting oral argument by telephone on April 5, 2001, the OAL denied Ms. Rance's application for a stay.

Thereafter, the administrative matter proceeded to hearing before the Office of Administrative Law on April 9, 2001. Initially, petitioner's counsel filed a handwritten motion to bifurcate her LAD claim from her claim arising under the school laws or, in the alternative, to allow her to withdraw the pending administrative action. Holding that the factual issues were inextricably intertwined and that the two state agencies had concurrent jurisdiction, the OAL declined to bifurcate the two issues. In addition, the OAL disallowed petitioner's request to withdraw her petition in the midst of the ongoing administrative proceeding. Since petitioner failed to resume the stand or to offer any other proof on behalf of her allegations, the OAL granted the Board's motion to dismiss the administrative appeal for lack of prosecution.

Conclusions of Law

Based on the foregoing history and the applicable law, petitioner's request to withdraw her petition should be denied.

Recently, in Aldrich v. Manpower Temporary Servs., 277 N.J. Super. 491 (App. Div. 1994), the Appellate Division reviewed the circumstances under which a litigant may withdraw a pending administrative complaint in order to bring a similar complaint before the Superior Court. In Aldrich, the plaintiff had filed a LAD complaint with a state agency, which she later sought to withdraw "before the commencement of any administrative hearings before an Administrative Law Judge." 227 N.J. at 502. Focusing on the "pendency" of the proceeding, the Appellate Division explained that "it is not until a final determination is rendered by one forum that the choice becomes preclusive." Aldrich, at 505. Where, as in Aldrich, the litigant withdrew her administrative complaint "before OAL hearings were even scheduled, much less commenced," the Court saw no good reason for preventing the plaintiff from changing forums. Aldrich, at 506. Likewise, when an administrative matter has proceeded to final disposition, the Court recognized that the losing party should be prevented from seeking to relitigate the matter anew in a different forum. Aldrich, at 505.

The court left open, however, the question of what should occur where "the administrative action is withdrawn in the middle of an OAL hearing which is proceeding unfavorably for a complainant." Aldrich, at 505-506. Commenting on such situation, the Court noted:

> Indeed, N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.2 provides that if the ALJ "deems it advisable to state the circumstances of the withdrawal on the record, the judge may enter an initial decision memorializing the withdrawal and returning the matter to the transmitting agency for appropriate disposition." We assume that this could encompass a recommendation by an ALJ that the withdrawal not be permitted where "estoppel principles" might arise. Compare, R. 4:37-1.

Our own case presents such middle ground, where the administrative hearing has already commenced, the proceeding was interrupted due to an aborted settlement, and petitioner now seeks to start all over again in a different forum. In such posture, the Board rightly complains that it has been put to the time and expense of gathering discovery, preparing for hearing and participating in two days of actual hearing. Petitioner has presented no persuasive reason why this investment of time and money should be lost. More importantly, the Superior Court has already determined to dismiss her parallel complaint "with prejudice," so that petitioner literally has no place else to go. An administrative agency should accord respect and due deference to such judicial determination that the case must continue in the administrative branch rather than be transferred to the judicial branch.

Given the time that has already passed, the Board should not be subjected to further delay of its opportunity to demonstrate that the allegations against it are groundless. As the Board aptly points out, memories will fade and witnesses may become unavailable if this hearing should be further put off until disposition of an appeal to the Appellate Division.

Petitioner had ample time to prepare for the hearing which commenced last October and has had an additional six months since then to get ready for hearing. Either she should go forward with whatever evidence she has of the Board's alleged wrongdoing or her charges must be dismissed for failure to prosecute.

Order

It is ORDERED that the petition is hereby dismissed with prejudice.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

Within thirteen (13) days from the date on which this recommended decision was mailed to the parties, any party may file written exceptions with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, 100 Riverview Plaza, 4th Floor, PO Box 500, Trenton, New Jersey 08625-0500, marked "Attention: Exceptions." A copy of any exceptions must be sent to the judge and to the other parties.

BOARD OF EDUCATION OF THE ESSEX COUNTY VOCATIONAL-TECHNICAL SCHOOL DISTRICT,	:	DECISION
RESPONDENT.	:

The record and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) have been reviewed. Petitioner's exceptions and the Board's reply thereto were timely filed pursuant to the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-18.4.

Petitioner's exceptions rely upon the original papers submitted to the OAL in favor of her Motion to Stay the OAL matter pending the appeal of the New Jersey Superior Court Judge's decision denying her transfer of the matter to that jurisdiction, or, in the alternative, to voluntarily dismiss the OAL matter. The exceptions reiterate her arguments that N.J.S.A. 10:5-13, 27 allow Law Against Discrimination (LAD) claims to be heard only before the Division of Civil Rights (DCR) or New Jersey Superior Court, in whichever jurisdiction the matter is pending.[1] (Petitioner's Exceptions at 2) Petitioner also avers that the Aldrich case[2] upon which the Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) relied was a DCR case which, in her judgment,

[1] The Commissioner notes for the record that the court held in Hinfey v. Matawan Regional Board of Education., 77 N.J. 514 (1978) that the Commissioner of Education may determine claims alleging discriminatory conduct in violation of LAD.

[2] Aldrich v. Manpower Temporary Servs., 277 N.J. Super. 500 (App. Div. 1994).

supports her request for a stay or voluntary dismissal. She further argues that the ALJ and the Superior Court Judge erred in their determinations. (Petitioner's Exceptions at 1) Moreover, it is petitioner's position that there is no prejudice to defendents if her request is granted because the facts are the same in both proceedings, while she, on the other hand, would be prejudiced if her request is denied. Furthermore, she does not want res judicata to preclude her Superior Court action. Petitioner argues that:

> With regard to [the ALJ's] suggestion that Petitioners' [sic] election of remedies preclude her Superior Court action, same flies in the force [sic] of NJSA 10:5-13, 27. Scouler v. Camden, 332 NJ Super 69 (App.Div 2000) and Fuchilla v. Layman, 109 NJ 319 (1988). (Id. at 2)

The Board's reply exceptions urge that the ALJ's recommended decision be adopted, averring that petitioner's exceptions merely reiterate arguments which have been previously considered by the ALJ and properly dismissed, and that she is essentially seeking a second bite of the apple through forum shopping. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 2, 5)

More specifically, the Board argues that both the ALJ and the Superior Court Judge correctly relied on Aldrich, supra, for the proposition that withdrawal of the pending OAL action should not automatically be permitted in cases where the parties are in the middle of a hearing. The Board contends, inter alia, that the court in Aldrich recognized that in such cases "estoppel principles" might arise. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 5) Further, the Board avows that the ALJ correctly recognized that the instant matter presents such a circumstance when he states at page five of the Initial Decision that "[o]ur own case presents such middle ground, where the administrative hearing has already commenced, the proceeding was interrupted due to an aborted settlement, and petitioner now seeks to start all over again in a different forum."

Additionally, the Board urges that the ALJ properly determined that staying this matter, which has been litigated since 1999, pending an appeal of her Superior Court matter would be highly prejudicial to the Board. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 5) As to this, the Board argues that not only has it expended a significant amount of time and resources defending the action but, as correctly recognized by the ALJ at pages five and six of the Initial Decision, a delay in this matter would impose a hardship on the Board.

Finally, the Board contends that the doctrine of election of remedies barred the Superior Court action in the instant matter and petitioner's blanket and unsupported contention that the Commissioner of Education cannot hear LAD claims is simply wrong. (Board's Reply Exceptions at 6)

Upon review of the record, the Commissioner agrees with and adopts the recommended decision of the ALJ because, contrary to the arguments advanced by petitioner, he finds that the ALJ was correct in his legal conclusions relative to Aldrich, supra. A review of the record, which includes the transcript of the proceeding held on March 15, 2001 in Essex County Superior Court regarding petitioner's motion to transfer the matter to said court, established that the judge, in dismissing transfer motion, rejected petitioner's legal arguments with respect to the Aldrich, Scouler and Fuchilla cases. In rejecting petitioner's arguments, Superior Court Judge Kimmelman states, "The Court sees the matter otherwise. The plaintiff is barred from proceeding in the Superior Court because the plaintiff has chosen an administrative remedy which has not been but is about to be concluded." (emphasis supplied) (Tr. 3/15/01 at 19) Unlike the factual circumstances in the Aldrich matter, where the court held that the plaintiff was allowed to withdrew her matter from the DCR before any OAL hearings had even been scheduled, the facts in the instant matter indicate that the OAL hearing was not only nearly completed, but a settlement agreement was reached, to which petitioner agreed on the record during the third day of hearing and later repudiated; whereupon, she then sought to start litigation over again in another forum. Consequently, under the circumstances presented herein, the Commissioner agrees with the ALJ's conclusion that principles of estoppel support denial of petitioner's request for a stay of the OAL hearing or voluntary dismissal of the petition. In so holding, the Commissioner fully concurs with the ALJ that:

> Given the time that has already passed, the Board should not be subjected to further delay of its opportunity to demonstrate that the allegations against it are groundless. As the Board aptly points out, memories will fade and witnesses may become unavailable if this hearing should be further put off until disposition of an appeal to the Appellate Division.
> Petitioner had ample time to prepare for the hearing which commenced last October and has had an additional six months since then to get ready for hearing. (Initial Decision at 5-6)

Moreover, upon review of the record, the Commissioner is in complete agreement with the arguments set forth by respondent in its brief in opposition to a stay that the grant of a stay is an extraordinary remedy. In order for a stay to be granted in this matter, petitioner must meet the standards for the grant of such relief as set forth in Crowe v. DeGioia, 90 N.J. 126 (1982); namely, a demonstration that petitioner will experience irreparable harm if the remedy is not granted; the legal right underlying her claim is settled; she has a likelihood of prevailing on the merits; and, in balancing the interests and weighing the equities, she would experience greater harm or hardship than the Board. Under the facts of this matter, petitioner fails to meet her burden.

Accordingly, for the reasons expressed in the Initial Decision and expanded upon herein, the Petition of Appeal is dismissed with prejudice.

This matter was transmitted to the Office of Administrative Law (OAL) from the Department of Education on October 23, 1996, for hearing as a contested case, pursuant to N.J.S.A. 52:14B-1 to -15 and N.J.S.A. 52:14F-1 to -13.

A hearing was scheduled for October 7, 1997 at the OAL, 185 Washington Street, Newark, New Jersey. By letter dated September 29, 1997, counsel for Petitioner, with consent of Respondent, requested that this case be placed inactive pending resolution of the worker's compensation case. On April 3, 2001, a telephone conference was held and a settlement was reached.

The parties have agreed to a settlement and have prepared a Stipulation of Settlement indicating the terms thereof, which is attached and fully incorporated herein.

I have reviewed the record and the terms of settlement and I FIND:

1. The parties have voluntarily agreed to the settlement as evidenced by their signatures or their representatives' signatures.

2. The settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy and is consistent with the law.

I CONCLUDE that this agreement meets the requirements of N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1 and that the settlement should be approved. I approve the settlement and, therefore, ORDER that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings be concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

HEARING OF GERALD M. MABLI,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION
OF DEMAREST, BERGEN COUNTY.	:	DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning Board filed tenure charges against respondent teacher for conduct unbecoming, alleging destruction of software, violation of policies and procedures, insubordination and disregard of the educational needs of students. Respondent denied the charges.

At the OAL, the parties reached a settlement wherein respondent would be permitted to continue as an employee of the district, on paid leave status, until he reached 25 years of service in the TPAF, at which time he will retire. The parties also agreed that the matter would be referred to the New Jersey State Board of Examiners for action against respondent's certificate as it deems appropriate.

The Commissioner rejected the settlement and remanded the case to the OAL. The Commissioner noted that the proposed agreement does not indicate that the parties considered the potential impact referral of this matter to the State Board of Examiners might have on their agreement should the State Board of Examiners act on respondent's certification during the term of employment contemplated by the agreement. Absent an expression by the parties of their understanding and acceptance of this eventuality, the Commissioner could not approve the settlement.

Harold N. Springstead, Esq., for respondent
(Springstead & Maurice, attorneys)

Record Closed: April 27, 2001 Decided: April 27, 2001

BEFORE MICHAEL L. RAVIN, ALJ:

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

This matter involves tenure charges of conduct unbecoming certified by the Demarest Board of Education ("Board') against Gerard Mabli ("Mr. Mabli") under the Tenure Employees Hearing Law, N.J.S.A. 18A:6-10 to-18.1.

Gerard Mabli is a tenured teacher designated as a Technology Coordinator employed by the Board. On or about September 8, 2000, tenure charges were filed with the New Jersey Commissioner of Education ("Commissioner") in connection with actions Mr. Mabli took on or about June 21 or June 22, 1999. The four separate charges alleged that Mr. Mabli, while employed by the Board as a Technology Coordinator, committed acts of conduct unbecoming, namely: (1) the destruction, misuse, and unauthorized removal of computer software operating systems; (2) violation of policies and procedures; (3) insubordination; and (4) disregard of the educational needs of students. On September 15, 2000, respondent filed an answer. On September 21, 2000, the Commissioner referred this matter to the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") for hearing as a contested case.

The matter was heard by me on January 9, 10, 11 and 12, 2001. The parties were then offered the opportunity to submit posthearing submissions and replies.

Prior to the due date for the parties posthearing submissions, I was advised that the parties had agreed to the attached Stipulation of Settlement, subject to approval by the Commissioner.

In accordance with the decision of the State Board of Education in In Re Cardonick, 1990 S.L.D. (1983), the record of any proposed settlement must include:

> . . . the nature of the charges, circumstances justifying the settlement, consent or authorization by the Board of Education and the teacher to the proposed agreement, the Administrative Law Judge's finding that the teacher entered into the agreement with a full understanding of his rights, and [a finding] that the agreement is consistent with the public interest.

Having reviewed the Stipulation of Settlement, I FIND that it explicitly includes the nature of the charges and the consent or authorization of the Board and Mr. Mabli. I FIND that Mr. Mabli entered into the settlement with full understanding of his rights. I further FIND that Mr. Mabli understands the Commissioner's duty pursuant to N.J.A.C. 6:11-3.7(b)(1)(i) to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificate. I FIND that Mr. Mabli is satisfied with his attorney's representation and had adequate time to discuss the contents of the Stipulation of Settlement.

Finally, I FIND the settlement is consistent with public policy. The parties acknowledge the public interest in saving considerable costs in attorney's fees through amicably settling this matter. The Board is expressly aware of the public's interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges, but recognizes that even if the charges were proven true, Mr. Mabli might not be dismissed, given mitigating factors which arguably exist in the record. For his part, Mr. Mabli, while never conceding the validity of the tenure charges, does not want to risk that the charges may be sustained and that he may be dismissed.

I FIND the settlement fully disposes of all issues in controversy.

ORDER

It is ORDERED that the parties comply with the settlement terms and that these proceedings are hereby concluded.

I hereby FILE this initial decision with the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION for consideration.

This recommended decision may be adopted, modified or rejected by the COMMISSIONER OF THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION, who by law is authorized to make a final decision in this matter. If the Commissioner of the Department of Education does not adopt, modify or reject this decision within forty-five (45) days and unless such time limit is otherwise extended, this recommended decision shall become a final decision in accordance with N.J.S.A. 52:14B-10.

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE CHARGES AGAINST GERARD M. MABLI, TEACHING STAFF, MEMBER OF THE DEMAREST BOARD OF EDUCATION DISTRICT, BERGEN COUNTY

STATE OF NEW JERSEY
OFFICE OF ADMINISTRATIVE LAW

OAL Docket No. EDU 7998-00
Agency Ref. No. 311-9/08

STIPULATION OF SETTLEMENT AND SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

The parties to this matter, the Petitioner, Demarest Board of Education ("Board") and Respondent, Gerard M. Mabli ("Mabli"), having reached an agreement to resolve the matter amicably, hereby request that the Administrative Law Judge and the Commissioner of Education approve the following terms as the settlement agreement:

1. The parties state and agree that this agreement and all terms of this agreement are contingent upon approval by the Administrative Law Judge and Commissioner of Education, and that if any of the terms of this agreement are rejected by the Administrative Law Judge or the Commissioner of Education, this agreement shall be deemed null and void, and the matter shall be returned to the Office of Administrative Law for completion of the record including the rendering of a decision by the Administrative Law Judge in relation to tenure charges filed in this matter, but that nothing in this paragraph or agreement shall, in any event, preclude the parties from agreeing to a new, revised or modified settlement agreement, provided that such agreement shall be subject to the approval of the Administrative Law Judge and of the Commissioner of Education.

2. Rationale for Settlement: On or about September 6, 2000 some four separate tenure charges were filed by the Board against the respondent for his actions occurring on June 22, 1999. The four separate charges alleged that Mabli, while employed as a Technology Coordinator with the Board, committed acts of conduct unbecoming, namely, (1) the destruction, misuse, and unauthorized removal of computer software operating systems; (2) violation of policies and procedures; (3) insubordination; and (4) disregard of the educational needs of students. Mabli denied the charges and the matter proceeded to a hearing on January 9, 10, 11 and 12, 2001. Transcripts have been received and a briefing schedule was ordered by Administrative Law Judge Ravin. Both the Board and Mabli believe that it is in the best interest of all parties and the public to amicably resolve this matter pursuant to the specific terms set forth below.

The Board is aware of the public's interest in the proper pursuit and handling of tenure charges which in the present case are considered serious and warranted. However, the Board understands that the charges, even if proven true may not result in a dismissal of Mabli in light of his having taught in the District for over 21 years without incident and with positive evaluations.

Mabli does not concede nor has he conceded the validity of the tenure charges. Nevertheless, he understands that the tenure charges may be sustained and he does not want to take the risk.

Furthermore, the parties both acknowledge the public interest in saving considerable costs in attorneys fees through amicably settling this matter.

3. The parties agree that based upon and subject to the terms and conditions of this agreement, the Board shall withdraw the tenure charges and will not appeal the Commissioner's decision dismissing the tenure charges.

4. Mabli agrees to withdraw his challenge to the increment withholding, which is pending in arbitration and to rescind his Notice of Tort Claim filed against the Board and the Superintendent of Schools. The parties recognize that Mabli has claims and certain rights, including status as a tenured teacher arising from his employment by the Board. In exchange for the foregoing promises made by the Board, Mabli hereby releases the Board, its members, officers, agents, servants, employees, attorneys, representatives, and insurers (collectively referred to as "the Board") from all claims and liabilities which it or they may be subject to arising from Mabli's employment with the Board, except for any claims Mabli may assert for benefits under the State Workers Compensation laws, or any other rights Mabli may have pursuant to this agreement. Further, Mabli and anyone who succeeds to his rights, such as heirs or executors of his estate, or his assigns, waive any and all claims against the Board including, but not limited to claims for attorneys' fees, compensatory damages, emotional distress, punitive damages and costs allegedly incurred, as well as all claims arising under contract, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Civil Rights Act of 1991, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, the Age Discrimination and Employment Act of 1967, the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, the Americans with Disabilities Act, Executive Orders 11246 and 11141, the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination, the New Jersey Conscientious Employee Protection Act, and all other claims arising under federal law, state law or the common law. Mabli will not make any claim to or receive additional monies or benefits which may be provided to the teachers in the Demarest School District pursuant to any Collective Bargaining Agreement or Board policy, including but not limited to any claim for payment for unused sick days or personal days. Mabli further represents that he has been given twenty-one days from the date of the receipt of this document to accept or reject this Agreement, and further that he has up to seven (7) days after signing this document to withdraw his agreement to this settlement. Nothing in this Agreement or the General Release given by Mabli shall preclude either party from bringing an action to enforce performance of any of the terms of this agreement, should there be a default of performance.

5. The parties agree that the Board shall pay Mabli his full salary, medical benefits and pension contributions, if any, for the 2000-2001 school year which salary is currently $73,605.00 per year, less the 120 days Mabli was suspended without pay during the 2000-2001 school year. The Board shall place Mabli on a terminal leave of absence for the 2001-2002 and 2002-2003 school years at half-pay ($36,802.50 per school year) with medical benefits and pension contributions, if any. The Board agrees to consider the 120-day suspension without pay as an unpaid leave of absence so as to permit Mabli to attempt to purchase back the time from the Teachers Pension & Annuity Fund ("TPAF"). If the TPAF does not permit the purchase back of his time, then commencing July 1, 2003, Mabli will be granted an unpaid leave of absence until on or about December 31, 2003, so as to permit Mabli to achieve 25 years of credited service with the TPAF. It is Mabli's sole responsibility to arrange for and purchase his pension credit for this unpaid leave of absence. During this unpaid leave of absence, the Board will continue Mabli's medical benefits with the expense thereof to be paid solely by Mabli. Mabli further agrees that he will pay the Board a lump sum payment by no later than June 15, 2003 to cover all such expenses for medical benefits for the entire period of this unpaid leave of absence. The Board will notify Mabli on or before June 1, 2003 of the exact amount of that lump sum payment. Should Mabli fail to make that lump sum payment to the Board on or before June 15, 2003, the Board will cease making all payments for Mabli's medical benefits as of June 30, 2003.

6. Along with this agreement, Mabli shall submit an irrevocable letter of resignation effective June 30, 2003 and shall not seek further employment with the Demarest Board of Education, which is annexed hereto as Exhibit A. If, however, the TPAF does not permit Mabli to purchase his pension credits for the 120-day suspension, then Mabli's resignation shall be deemed effective on or about December 31, 2003 so as to permit Mabli to achieve 25 years of credited service with the TPAF. Mabli further agrees that he will not enter Board property except for a legally required purpose.

7. The Board agrees that any reference for employment requested by and provided on behalf of Mabli will be a neutral recommendation stating the number of years worked with no mention of increment withholding or tenure charges. Mabli will not seek references from any administrator currently employed by the Board, with the exception of any administrator employed by the Board prior to the filing of the tenure charges. Any references received from current administrators employed by the Board will not be on Board or other Demarest Schools letterhead.

8. If Mabli obtains employment during the term of this agreement with another public entity that makes contributions to the TPAF on Mabli's behalf, any payments by the Board due to Mabli pursuant to this agreement shall immediately terminate as of the effective date of Mabli's employment with the other public entity.

9. This Stipulation of Settlement incorporates the complete financial obligation of the Board with respect to Mabli's employment relationship and separation of employment from the Board.

10. All terms of this Agreement are deemed material. This document constitutes the entire understanding of the parties and may not be altered, amended, modified or revoked except by an instrument executed in writing by the parties. Duly executed copies of this Agreement shall be deemed originals.

11. By settling this matter, respondent acknowledges that he is waiving his right to a decision from the Office of Administrative Law and Commissioner of Education, in which he could obtain an adjudication of the merits of the tenure charges and of the penalty, if any, if the charges were sustained. Mabli further acknowledges that he understands and agrees to the terms of this agreement and is fully satisfied with the legal representation he has received in this matter.

12. Mabli is aware, and it has been explained to him, that the Commissioner of Education has a duty to refer tenure determinations to the State Board of Examiners for possible revocation of his certificate.

THE UNDERSIGNED STATE THAT THEY HAVE CAREFULLY READ THE FOREGOING SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT, KNOW THE CONTENTS THEREOF, HAVE HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO DISCUSS THOSE CONTENTS WITH COUNSEL OR OTHER PERSONAL ADVISOR OF THEIR CHOOSING, FREELY AND VOLUNTARILY CONSENT TO ALL TERMS AND CONDITIONS THEREOF AND SIGN SAME AS THEIR OWN FREE ACT.

Re: Irrevocable Resignation of Employment

Dear Mr. Chilson:

Please be advised that I hereby tender my resignation from the teaching staff and any other employment with the Demarest Board of Education, effective June 30, 2003, in accordance with the Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement. If TPAF does not permit me to purchase back the 120 unpaid leave days from September 6, 2000 to January 15, 2001, my irrevocable resignation shall be effective December 31, 2003 to allow me to earn twenty-five (25) years of service. Furthermore, If I obtain employment with another public entity which contributes to the TPAF on my behalf, this resignation will become effective on the date my employment with the other public entity commences. I understand that this letter of resignation is irrevocable under any circumstances. I have discussed the contents of this letter with my attorney and sign this letter of resignation upon my own free will and accord.

Very truly yours,

Gerard Mabli

AGENCY DKT. NO. 311-9/00

IN THE MATTER OF THE TENURE	:
HEARING OF GERALD M. MABLI,	:
SCHOOL DISTRICT OF THE BOROUGH	:	COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The record, Stipulation of Settlement and Settlement Agreement and Initial Decision issued by the Office of Administrative Law (OAL), pursuant to N.J.A.C. 1:1-19.1, have been reviewed.

Upon such review, the Commissioner cannot approve the settlement as currently configured. Specifically, the terms of this agreement clearly contemplate that it is the parties' intent that respondent be continued as an employee of the District, albeit on leave status, until, at the outside, December 31, 2003, at which time respondent would achieve 25 years of credited service with the TPAF. Although the agreement further recognizes and accepts that, should the Commissioner determine to approve the proposed settlement, he, nonetheless, has a duty to refer this matter to the State Board of Examiners for action, as that body deems appropriate, with respect to revocation of respondent's certificate, it is unclear that the parties have considered what the status of their agreement here would be in the event the State Board of Examiners determined to move forward with revocation during the period covered by the agreement. Absent an indication that this eventuality has been contemplated, understood and accepted by the parties, the Commissioner cannot approve this otherwise satisfactory settlement agreement due to its facial potential for frustration of its terms.

Accordingly, the proposed settlement is rejected, and the Commissioner remands this matter to the OAL for revision of the document consistent with the concerns herein expressed. Should the parties be unwilling or unable to reach accord on a modified settlement agreement, this matter shall proceed to conclusion on the merits.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

IN THE MATTER OF THE : COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

ABBOTT GLOBAL ISSUES. : DECISION

SYNOPSIS

Petitioning boards of education and parents alleged that the New Jersey Department of Education (DOE) had failed to comply with the mandate of the New Jersey Supreme Court in implementing the Court's decisions regarding programs and funding to be provided in "Abbott" school districts. In particular, they alleged violation of the Court's 1998 (Abbott V) and 2000 (Abbott VI) rulings on preschool programs.

The ALJ distilled petitioners' numerous specific allegations into a handful of fundamental issues and addressed them by summarizing the parties' positions, reviewing the record without fact-finding, and offering comments, suggestions and recommended orders based on that review. These included adoption of a uniform regulatory standard for calculating the projected population of eligible preschool students; review of time frames for applications, DOE decisions, and appeals; DOE adoption of a planned curriculum Framework document, or an interim version, by June 15, 2001; negotiation with Head Start in order to bring deficient programs up to Abbott standards; assurance that discussions with Head Start and other community providers, and consideration of additional program and funding requests, are based on assessments of needs and not pre-determined levels of funding; and timely addressing of facilities needs through the program established by the Legislature for this purpose (EFCFA).

The Commissioner affirmed, modified and reversed various aspects of the Initial Decision. The Commissioner affirmed the ALJ's conclusions that preschool is a significant legal right in the present context but has not been declared a Constitutional entitlement, that the Department had not violated the Court's mandates by excluding students based on parental status, and that facilities issues must be addressed through the mechanism established by the Legislature for this purpose (EFCFA and its implementing rules). He affirmed that, to the extent DOE assessment of district preschool curriculum plans and district enrollment/recruitment plans may not be occurring in sufficient depth, DOE must revise its practices and procedures. The Commissioner concurred that DOE should develop rules for a uniform regulatory method of determining the projected number of eligible preschool students. The Commissioner also affirmed that, to the extent that DOE determinations on preschool program and funding applications may ever have been based on predetermined fiscal considerations rather than on assessment of student needs, that practice is not to occur and DOE must provide guidance to districts on information needed for adequate review. Finally, the Commissioner agreed that the various time frames operative in Abbott applications, determinations and appeals appeared problematic and directed that the Department examine these time frames and report its conclusions and recommendations so that he may effectuate changes in preparation for the 2002-2003 school year. Where the Department was directed to revise practices and procedures or develop guidelines, rules or recommendations, the Commissioner ordered that this be done by August 31, 2001.

The Commissioner modified the ALJ's directive with respect to needs assessments, concurring that these are essential and that the manner in which such assessments are to be undertaken must be determined by DOE, but clarifying that the State may allocate responsibility as appropriate and that the Court did not place responsibility for Abbott mandates exclusively on the DOE. The Commissioner rejected the ALJ's conclusion on the necessity of the preschool Framework document and reversed the order directing its promulgation by June 15, 2001, finding instead that quality, Court-compliant preschool programs can be implemented based upon standards set forth in the definitive Expectations document already promulgated; however, because the Framework will be a valuable supplemental tool for districts, the Commissioner directed that it be promulgated as scheduled by August 2002, with no delays or extensions. Finally, the Commissioner reversed the order of the ALJ with regard to Head Start, stressing that identifying and contracting with community providers is a district responsibility; that while districts must use community providers where practical, there is no requirement to use any particular provider; and that the State is not required to provide funds to bring Head Start, or any other willing community provider, up to Abbott standards regardless of cost or the availability of alternative means of serving students.

[1] Although the consolidation of the issues addressed in this decision was not originally accompanied by a severance of the consolidated cases and issues therein from the underlying individual district-related contested cases, including those brought by the Education Law Center (ELC), as this decision is issued, it appears that given the passage of time and the fact that a number of the underlying contested cases have been resolved in one or another fashion, it makes the most sense to issue this as an initial decision, limited to the issues addressed herein. This will assure that the Commissioner will review these overarching issues promptly and allow the eventual determination of the remaining contested cases in whatever may be the appropriate manner for each, without the continued pendency of those matters delaying review. It is not clear at this time that there will be any ultimate initial decisions in those cases, since they relate to a past, or an almost completed, school year. While in at least two cases reimbursement is sought for funds already expended, I deem it best to sever this decision from its underlying base. Therefore, the contested case has been renamed and a new docket number assigned. Counsel should use this new name and docket number in any future communications regarding the global issues, on review and on appeal. They should use the docket numbers of the underlying contested cases in regards to any district-specific matters. The listing of individual case names and dockets in the title of this decision reflects those matters still shown as open.

BEFORE JEFF S. MASIN, ACTING CHIEF ALJ:

Petitioners, who are students and parents in the Abbott school districts of Paterson, Jersey City, Newark (each a State-operated district) and West New York ("the four districts"), represented by the Education Law Center ("ELC"), counsel to the class of Abbott students and parents, and who are also Boards of Education from several Abbott districts, seek a determination that the respondent State Department of Education ("DOE" or "Department" or "agency") has failed to meet its obligation to provide high-quality, well-planned preschool education for three- and four-year-old children in those districts. The sources for this obligation are the Supreme Court decisions issued in Abbott v. Burke, 153 N.J. 480 (1998) ("Abbott V"), and Abbott v. Burke, 163 N.J. 95 (2000) ("Abbott VI"). ELC counsel has identified several issues that have, for purposes of this case, been labeled as "global issues." These issues address matters that the ELC contends involve general systemic deficiencies in the manner and process by which the DOE has responded to its obligations.

ELC counsel first identified a series of such "global" issues when this matter first came before the Office of Administrative Law ("OAL") in the fall of 1999. At that time counsel filed briefs addressing these matters with then Chief Administrative Law Judge Barbara Harned, who consolidated the then pending Abbott appeals for the purpose of resolving the global issues.[2] However, the parties and Judge Harned, aware that the Supreme Court was soon to issue a decision in a pending proceeding known now as Abbott VI, agreed to withhold determination of the issues pending the Court's decision, which was issued on March 7, 2000. In that decision, the Court urged the districts and the Department to attempt to resolve their differences in light of the opinion, and, at the same time, directed that, to the extent necessary, remaining issues be determined by hearings at the OAL. These hearings were to be expedited. Abbott VI, supra, 163 N.J. at 118. Subsequent to the Court's decision, districts that had cases pending challenging the Department's response to their 1999-2000 plans and funding requests, as well as districts that were dissatisfied with the Department's response to their submission of early childhood plans for the 2000-2001 school year and filed new challenges in supplement of their previous 1999-2000 appeals, have been involved in extensive negotiations seeking to resolve their individual programmatic and budget concerns. Some of the districts with 1999-2000 appeals pending did not file new appeals, and in some cases the 1999-2000 appeals have been withdrawn. While the individual districts attempted to resolve their appeals, requests were made to counsel for the several districts and the ELC concerning their intentions regarding the previously identified global issues. ELC counsel responded on August 23, 2000, filing a letter supplementing the previous 1999-2000 submissions, contending that the DOE was neither fulfilling its constitutionally mandated obligations to the students of the four districts nor acting to assure that the districts did so. The letter identified fifteen "global" concerns.[3] After receipt of this letter, the Abbott districts that were parties to the 1999-2000 cases and/or had filed 2000-2001 appeals were invited to join in determining these issues.[4] Some, including districts that had already settled or withdrawn their individual appeals, have chosen to act as participants.[5] The ELC and the Elizabeth, Trenton, Perth Amboy, Passaic, Vineland, Camden and New Brunswick boards of education have filed briefs, certifications, supporting documentation and letters adopting the arguments of the ELC, and the Department of Education has responded with its own brief, exhibits and certifications. After these briefs were received and following review of the record, this judge determined that oral arguments might sharpen the positions of the parties and oral argument was held on March 15, 2001. At argument, all counsel agreed that the matter could be decided on the documentary record, without the need for any live testimony. The record closed following the presentation of these arguments on March 15, 2001.

[3] Chief Judge Harned left the OAL in May 2000. I assumed the role of acting director on March 20, 2000, and assumed responsibility for the resolution of the pending "global" issues.

[4] Several motions regarding the standard of review, discovery and a motion to dismiss based upon the alleged untimely filing of the global issues were filed and determined after the filing of the August 23 letter.

The "Global" Issues

As noted, the ELC had originally identified a set of global issues in 1999. Following the Abbott VI decision it revised and refined that list in an August 23, 2000, letter. The issues address the ELC's conclusions as to what it contends are failures on the part of the DOE to meet the Court's mandates:

(1) The failure to provide timely and concrete guidance to enable and assure that districts plan and implement preschool for all children under the Abbott VI quality standards;

(2) The failure to require the development and implementation of plans to provide high-quality preschool for all eligible three- and four-year-old children in the Abbott districts, based on need;

(3) The failure to require the development and implementation of concerted and aggressive outreach and recruitment efforts to improve and maximize enrollments;

(4) The failure to include Head Start children and programs in the districts' preschool plans and budgets;

(5) The failure to require assessment of children's needs and the development and implementation of program plans and budgets based on those needs;

(6) The failure to require assessment of all school- and community-based programs and the development and implementation of improvement plans to enable each program to meet Abbott VI quality standards, including class size limits and teacher certification;

(7) The failure to require the development and implementation of uniform, age-appropriate content and curriculum for all programs;

(8) The failure to require the development and implementation of plans for transportation, social, health and other services, based on need;

(9) The failure to require the development and implementation of plans for safe and educationally adequate preschool facilities, including temporary and permanent facilities to address increased enrollments and the needs of unhoused children as a result of class size reduction;

(10) The failure to require the development and implementation of plans to provide preschool to children with disabilities, with limited English proficiency and other special needs;

(11) The failure to require the development and implementation of plans for district-wide assessments, supervision, technical assistance, coordination, training, evaluation and accountability measures to assure uniform, high-quality preschool education in all programs, whether community- or school-based, based upon an assessment of district-wide need;

(12) The failure to require the development and implementation of needs-driven district budgets and supplemental funding requests;

(13) The imposition of pre-determined, per-pupil funding amounts for preschool in community-based providers, based upon available state funding;

(14) The approval of district-revised plans for 2000-2001 that fail to comply with the Abbott VI preschool directives; and

(15) The arbitrary rejection of various components of district plans that required supplemental funding for implementation.

The ELC seeks an initial decision that finds that the DOE's 2000-2001 implementation of preschool programs in the Abbott districts violates Abbott V and VI, federal and state special education laws and state bilingual education law, and, as relief, directs the Commissioner to require and assist the Jersey City, Newark, Paterson and West New York districts, and other Abbott districts, to Conduct a comprehensive assessment of the particular academic, social and health needs of preschool-age children;

Conduct an assessment of all school and community providers of preschool to determine their needs and develop site-specific improvement plans and budgets therefore to assure maximum enrollment of three- and four-year-old children without regard to parental status;

Assure inclusion of all children enrolled in federally funded Head Start and services for children with disabilities;

Assure timely transition to classes of fifteen students where necessary;

Assure sufficient and ongoing professional development;

Assure teacher certification for non-certified teachers with needed supports and accessible higher education and phase-in of comparability between district and provider salaries, benefits and schedules for similarly credentialed and experienced teachers;

Assure high-quality curriculum at each site;

Assure all necessary transportation, health and social services;

Assure needed facility improvements and, as necessary, expansion and/or new construction;

Assure adequate programs and staff for oversight, training assistance, etc., and adequate provider-specific and district plans, budgets, facilities and state funding.

The ELC agrees that any relief must be prospective.

The Perth Amboy Board of Education has joined in the ELC's request for a determination of the global issues, while at the same time offering that its experience is an example of the deficiencies in the DOE's response to its Abbott obligations. Perth Amboy seeks to obtain some $2.6 million in funds it claims to have expended to begin implementation of its early childhood program, asserting that it had made a strong case regarding the need for such expenditures after a detailed study of its particular needs.[6] As the issues in regards to its specific expenditures in years prior are not readily determinable in the context of this determination of more sweeping global concerns, Perth Amboy's particularized claims will be determined in a separate decision.[7]

The Elizabeth and Passaic boards of education have also filed briefs. Passaic had filed an appeal regarding its 1999-2000 early childhood plan. That appeal has since been withdrawn. It also filed an appeal regarding its 2000-2001 supplemental funding requests. The parties thereto have represented that that case is close to settlement. The Elizabeth Board of Education appealed regarding its 2000-2001 plan and again the parties thereto have advised the assigned judge that the case is settled. Expressing strong objections to the DOE's conduct despite their having "resolved" their appeals, both districts have presented their views regarding the global issues as participants.[8]

The Court's Holdings in Abbott V and VI

In Abbott V, supra, 153 N.J. at 508, the Court ordered that the Commissioner of Education "exercise his power under N.J.S.A. 18A:7F-6(b) and -16 to require all Abbott districts to provide half-day pre-school for three- and four-year olds." Further, the Court stated, "The Court authorizes the Commissioner to require the Abbott schools to implement these programs as expeditiously as possible." The Court added:

> [T]he Commissioner must ensure that such programs are adequately funded and assist the schools in meeting the need for transportation and other services, support, and resources related to such programs. The Commissioner may authorize cooperation with or the use of existing early childhood and day-care programs in the community. If any Abbott schools are able to obtain the space, supplies, teaching faculty, staff, and means of transportation > that are necessary to implement these programs for the 1998-1999 school year, they should be supplied with the necessary funding to enable them to do so. The Commissioner shall ensure that all other Abbott schools shall have the resources and additional funds that are necessary to implement pre-school education by the commencement of the 1999-2000 school year.

[7] The Vineland Board of Education also seeks reimbursement. It did not file a brief or appear at the argument of these issues, but its position is preserved for separate determination.

In Abbott VI, in response to the ELC's petition in support of litigants' rights, the Supreme Court reviewed the actions of the DOE in regards to the Court's Abbott V mandate pertaining to early childhood education. The Court considered the petitioners' allegation that the "State has gravely defaulted on its commitment" to implement "well-planned, high quality preschool education for all Abbott children." 163 N.J. at 104. The Court, while concluding that the Commissioner had not "backed away from his efforts to reform education in the Abbott districts," and rejecting allegations that the Commissioner had acted in bad faith, 163 N.J. at 100, nevertheless

1. Held that "[s]ubstantive educational guidance for all Abbott district preschool programs is an essential component of DOE's commitment to the Abbott districts and must be adopted by April 17, 2000, so that the districts will be able to prepare for the 2000-2001 school year," 163 N.J. at 107;

2. Ordered clarification of the Department's regulations regarding teacher certification ("unquestionably an important component of any preschool education program," 163 N.J. at 108), and a shortening of the time frame allowed for the attaining by teachers of required certification so as to eliminate "as quickly as possible" any disparity between district-run and DHS-licensed preschool programs, 163 N.J. at 111;

3. Reaffirmed its previous requirement that one certified teacher be provided for every fifteen preschool children, 163 N.J. at 114;

4. Considered the DOE's exclusion from district enrollment projections of children attending Head Start, an existing federally-funded program, and stated that "based on the assumption that Head Start will continue to serve district children in the next school year," and based on its conclusion that "State preschool standards are, however, more demanding than Head Start program standards," 163 N.J. at 116, held that only where the district could demonstrate that children attended Head Start programs that met DOE standards could the children be excluded from such district's projection of the preschool population it had to serve and required that preschool programs commensurate with the Abbott V standards be provided for "all Abbott district children—no child may be excluded from a preschool program that is part of a district plan because of parental status," 163 N.J. at 117;
